Foreword

We, the Class of 1964, present our Emerald, a pictorial record of our final fruitful year at Red Bank Catholic. The pages of this twentieth volume open to some of our fondest memories.

Living in these eventful days of the twenty-first Ecumenical Council, we drew ourselves closer to the Holy Spirit, Whose silent inspiration worked all our endeavors unto good. Through His many instruments at RBC, we have learned and enjoyed the immeasurable value of a Catholic education. As our last moments draw to a close with joy and sorrow, our classroom and extracurricular activities are blended, through the grace of the Sanctifying Spirit, into a panorama of our wonderful high school years.

Now we wish to carry this Spirit with us as a reminder, inspiring our every action in the School of Life. May our Emerald be an ever shining memory of this inspiration—our Alma Mater.

"And I will ask the Father and He will give you another Advocate to dwell with you forever, the Spirit of truth whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him. But you shall know Him, because He will dwell with you, and be in you."

We, the Class of 1964, dedicate our Emerald to the Holy Spirit, Who has taught us to live in the Spirit of Christ. The guiding light of the Holy Spirit has permeated our school life as well as Christian life throughout the modern world. Using such compelling leaders as Pope John XXIII and John F. Kennedy, the Advocate has inspired us to follow the example that to live in Christ is to be active and generous in benefitting mankind. Through our self-sacrificing pastor, Monsignor Emmett A. Monahan, and our beloved principal, Sister Mary, the ecumenical spirit of love and faith has been transmitted and vitalized in our daily school lives. We have learned from a dedicated religious and lay faculty the true meaning of the modern apostolate.

As we embark on our future life, we feel secure in the knowledge that we have a Comforter, the Spirit of life and love, to guide and protect us.

PREPARING FOR CIVIL DEFENSE "Walk Home" drill which was held on November 20 in cooperation with neighboring public schools, faculty representatives Mr. Thomas Hintlemann, Sister Mary Kenneth, and Sister Mary Ronald leave to attend a meeting at Red Bank High School.

To live is to learn, and life for us is a continuous lesson in God's love. Our high school lessons were long and difficult. The understanding and patience of our teachers inspired us to conquer barriers which often stood in our way. The Red Bank Catholic way of education prepared us to face the world as intelligent Catholics willing to serve God and country.

The administration added new courses to the 1963-64 curricula. Modern mathematics, science, and language programs challenged intellectual Caseys to greater heights. The Mechanical Drawing, Science, Language, and Historical Clubs enriched our learning experiences. Students displayed their knowledge, skill, and creativity by participating in the Science Fair, Auxilium Latinum tests, the One-Act Plays, International Bookkeeping Contest, and the Mathematics contest. Each day RBC taught us a special lesson—to learn is to live. Tomorrow's accomplishments will prove to her we learned her lesson well.

To Live is to Learn

The cast of "The Murders of Miriam," winning senior one-act play, given on January 15, 1964, enjoys the first anniversary of Michael and Miriam Stone (center), played by Robert Watson and Maureen Mullin. Lester Smith (left), playing a fellow detective, John Hickey and Ann O'Connor (Mr. and Mrs. Beecher), Veronica Castro as Miriam's mother, and Penelope Lattimer as the maid, are all totally unaware of Miriam's plot to commit a "perfect" murder.

The reference room of the library provides facts for Arthur Doré and Maureen Kempton, preparing their senior English term papers for their English teachers.

The witches of Macbeth, Penelope Lattimer, Marlene Golde, and Ann O'Connor, come to life once again in Sister Mary Anina's English IV class.

Speakers on the English IV Chaucer panel, Barbara Tomaino, Jerome Kineavy, and Thérèse Savage, take notes as James Kraybill, chairman, explains the setting of the Canterbury Tales.

Creative Writing students, Donna Moody, Diane Fasano, and Patricia Longo, listen as Mr. Joseph Hintelmann points out a proverb as an example of concise writing.

Pursuing literary interests

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The English Department, with Sister Mary Anina as its head, trains students to think clearly and express themselves correctly and effectively. Combining pleasure with business, the English instructors develop in pupils an appreciation of the beauty and values in good literature. Language Arts and Advanced Composition, two courses introduced this year, gave freshmen and upperclassmen further opportunities to perfect the skills used in the English classroom.

A special course for senior business students given by Sister Mary Paul concentrated on mastering grammar needed particularly in the business office.

A series of department tests helped to make every resource of the library familiar to each Casey. Essay and poetry contests were open to all levels.

The spoken word received special attention on a weekly speech day. With the guidance of classmates' evaluations, pupils spotted their weaknesses and remedied them. As a legacy to future English classes, seniors prepared projects which included choral speaking, taped by Sister Mary Anina's classes, and a series of slides with tape concerning the use of the library.

In the annual one-act play contest, the four classes, guided by a faculty advisor and a student director, readied their dramatic productions for competition. The sophomore entry, "The Courting of Marie Jenvrin," directed by Patricia Thorpe and Karen Ciancaglini, entered the finals against the senior play, "The Murders of Miriam." Senior directors Maria Grilli and Mary Cunningham rejoiced over winning the title for their class.

Talented members of the Dramatics Club, Valerie Felsmann, Kathleen Reed, Concetta Maimone, Jean Watson, Robert Leary, Rutland Baar, Samuel Addeo, Lester Smith, Robert Watson, Edmund Labuda, and Gary Carmody, sing "Mama Said" at the Variety Show, which was directed by Mrs. June Plager on February 11, 1964.

"Flow gently, sweet Afton," echo senior English students, Maria Both, Kathleen Hemingway, Mary Louise Raftery, Kathleen Foley, Maureen McGuire, and Mary Quinn, as they tape a series of selected ballads by Robert Burns for their English class.

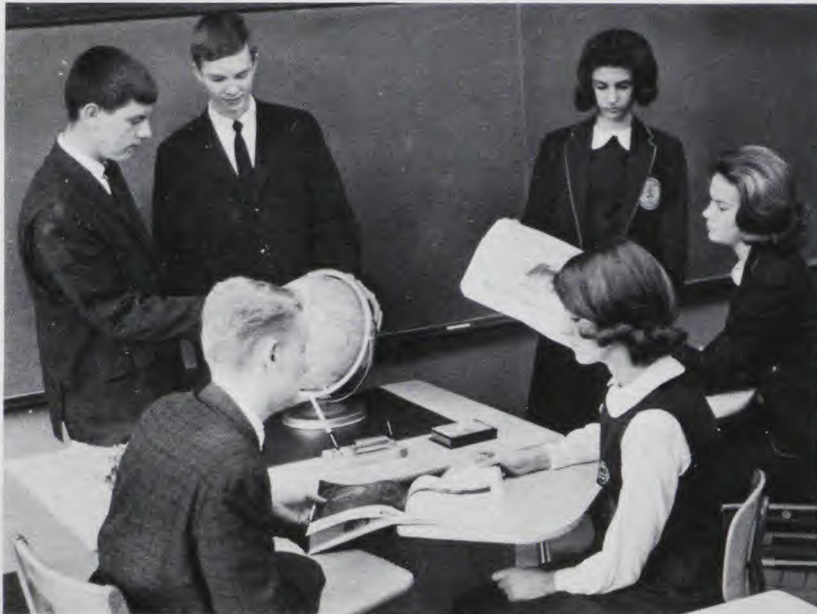

Discussing

Miss Joan C. Hull, director of the Junior Historical Society, the Jerseymen, describes the varied displays commemorating New Jersey's Tercentenary celebration. On March 16 members of the RBC Historical Club visited Essex Catholic in Newark. Examining a display of Washington's campaign and headquarters are Historical Society members Sarah Hilton, George Glynn, Michael Fraley, Jeffrey Haupt, Alexander Shanley, and Kathleen Kolar.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

The Social Studies Department at RBC strives to give the students on each level a thorough understanding of the world in which they live through a diversified study program.

Since 1964 marks New Jersey's Tercentenary, the classes adopted a variety of projects to celebrate this historical occasion. Sister Mary Vincent, department head, in co-operation with Sister Mary Annunciata, Mr. John Rafter, and Mr. Thomas Hintelmann, sponsored a history fair. Interested students submitted projects carrying out the theme of Progress in New Jersey since its settlement in 1664. Sister Mary Annunciata also selected the Tercentenary Celebration as the special project of the newly formed Historical Club, which is a charter member of the Association of the Junior Historical Societies.

The New York Times and Newsweek magazine highlight the world events of the day for Sterling Foster, Kathleen Ham, Elayne Smith, and Helen Woolley. Richard Kirsh and Thomas Sheehan locate the trouble spots on the globe in preparation for Current Civilization class.

In memory of our late President John F. Kennedy, Ernest Mason and Margaret Kennedy observe a moment of silent tribute, recalling the tragic news received during an assembly on November 22, 1963.

problems of mankind

Two freshman classes studied United States History I this year, departing from the traditional World History. These students exhibited their interest and initiative by presenting a presidential election and inauguration of the victorious candidate. Mr. John Rafter's senior history classes completed this study of the government by holding Republican and Democratic Conventions, similar to the nationals. The students controlled the project, selecting candidates, campaign managers, and delegates. Students were free to attend either convention and vote for the candidate of their choice.

The monthly New York Times Current Events Test provided an excellent means of gauging each senior's comprehension of world affairs. The Current Civilization classes and senior history classes participated in the Quill and Scroll Current Events Test in March. Senior Robert Davis won the competition for Red Bank Catholic, totaling 83 correct answers out of a possible 85. Mrs. Joan Kennedy gave sophomore students an opportunity to enrich their knowledge of foreign countries by means of numerous visual aids. Sophomore Mariano Rodriguez spoke to World Geography classes on personal experiences in Cuba.

Speaker of the House Seton Malone allows a question from the floor to be addressed to clerk Daniel Abel. Representative Constance Cawood awaits discussion of the proposed bills during the Class Congress, held on Student Leadership Day, November 21, 1963.

News happenings of the week as found in the New York Times supplement provide discussion material for history students Ronald Hogan, Stephen Walters, Toni Ann Ercolino, Joan Dunne, and Kenneth Gerardi.

Mr. John Rafter explains the Indian artifacts exhibit for the New Jersey Tercentenary celebration displayed in the audio-visual room of the RBC library. Senior history students Frank Romeo, Lydia Mendoza, and Claire Mikush listen attentively.

Preparing for life

College-bound senior boys, Dennis Howlett, Robert Davis, Charles Foley, David Fitzgerald, Edmund Labuda, and Thomas Robb, confer with Brother Malachy from Marist College in the guidance office on November 12, 1963. Brother Malachy was one of many college representatives who visited RBC under the sponsorship of the Guidance Department.

David Fitzgerald and Maureen McGuire ask guidance director Sister Mary Gertrude a question about the Handbook. This year the school issued a seventy-eight page student handbook, which includes student regulations, the religious and guidance programs, and other information for students.

Homeroom preparation for the coming of Christ includes a Jesse tree and the lighting of the third candle on the Advent wreath by Douglas Hillman. Jo Anne Ward and Mary Tilelli recite the prescribed prayers for Advent.

Seniors Linda Greene, Elena Cappadona, and Margaret Kennedy prepare a scrapbook of articles and pictures concerning the Ecumenical Council for their senior religion class.

Joseph Hochreiter, Student Council Scholastic Chairman, points out the correct method of filling out College Entrance Examination registration blanks as a feature of the senior guidance program to Margaret Jennings, Patricia Frickel, and Catherine Gartland.

RELIGION AND GUIDANCE DEPARTMENTS

RBC's program of Catholic education has as its essential and immediate concern the formation of the perfect Christian, and endeavors in all possible ways to enrich the individual physically, socially, intellectually, and spiritually. The daily religion program, basically under the guidance of the homeroom teacher, follows the textbook series Our Quest for Happiness through the four levels. Five priests supplement the teaching with specialized instruction in the liturgy, the Mass, the moral law, and a special marriage course for seniors.

Religion, however, is not limited to academic study. Daily Mass and prayers before classes remind each student of the special atmosphere at RBC. Advent is observed as a season of preparing for Christ with classroom wreaths blessed by Monsignor Monahan. A tone of penance and sacrifice characterizes Lent, particularly in helping mission countries. May brings the traditional daily crowning of Our Lady. Father Carl Wagner, diocesan director of vocations, and Father John McShane, a Marist priest, encouraged vocations and an understanding of the laity's personal obligations to the Apostolate.

Instituted this year in the guidance program was the Arc-Sector Program of Group Guidance. Home-room teachers covered fields of vocational instruction in each of the sectors, which are divided according to individual interests for juniors and seniors. The instruction of freshmen and sophomores was based on their academic achievements. Sister Mary Gertrude, guidance director, is available to students seeking personal aid.

Frequent guest speakers invited by the Guidance Department discussed various occupations. Among these speakers have been Brother Malachy, Marist College; Mrs. Marsh, Essex Business College; and representatives from the Navy and Marines.

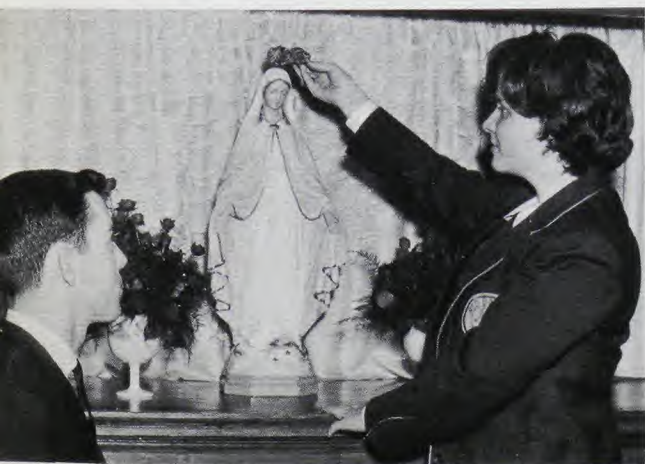

The Guidance Department is a vital and active part of our school life and helps us greatly in preparing for the future.

Mrs. Marjorie Akers, RBC librarian, offers assistance to Camille Novellino and Phyllis Sheridan, who are seeking appropriate information for the senior marriage course.

Rotary Club Day, October 26, 1963, presented Jay Matera with the opportunity to spend a typical but fascinating day with Dr. Morgan P. Colio, D.D.S., of 16 Broad Street, Red Bank. Among other community leaders also visited were Mr. William Pazicky, principal of the River Street School, Red Bank, and Mr. Francis Nary, counselor-at-law, of 18 Wallace Street, Red Bank.

Kathleen Naughton, assisted by Kevin McKeon, crowns Our Lady at a homeroom shrine during the month of May.

Spanish Club members, Adrienne Anselmi, Edward Nolan, Patricia Burke, Donna Gaglioti, Kevin Kelly, Josette Mangiarcina, Virginia Hyer, Mary Ann Dowell, and Eileen Kelly discuss their maps depicting the chief products of various Latin American countries.

Two possible translations for the word "aura" in this much-disputed line from Virgil's Aeneid are discussed by Latin IV students, Hilda Van Stappen, Robert Watson, and Mary Quinn.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

Sister Mary Loretto, department head, along with the department members, has incorporated the Audio-Lingual Method into the teaching process. This modern system provides for the use of tape recordings and reading materials aside from the text.

The French classes were fortunate to have as a speaker at several of their sessions Miss Marie-Claude Rey, whose home is at Grenoble, on the French coast. She addressed the French III class on French customs and also presented a timely lecture on President Charles De Gaulle.

The embodiment of classical study, Latin, really lives at Red Bank Catholic. In class the students examined the lives and writings of Virgil, Cicero, and Julius Caesar. Re-introduced this year was the Latin banquet, presented in May with freshman and Latin club members participating. Aquila Romana, a new bi-annual Latin newspaper, moderated by Sister Mary Immaculate, offered diverse reading matter to the language students.

In accordance with the great stress placed on Spanish in the twentieth century, Red Bank Catholic has a newly organized Spanish Club under the moderation of Sister Mary Regina. The French Club and the Latin Club, under the moderation of Sister Mary Loretto and Mr. John Gallagher respectively, provided the students with extra activities in the cultural background of the language of their choice.

For qualified students the sections of the Language Department extend various tests. These include the National French Examination, the Auxilium Latinum Test, and the newly added Mythology Contest.

Bücher, Pupper and ein Plakat help German students, Edward Schiller, John Hickey, and Virginia Shiman, study Germany in their language class.

Renoir and other nineteenth century painters engross French Club members, Frank Craig, Maureen O'Brian, Elizabeth Reeves, and Charles Foley, president, during a weekly club meeting.

Bridging the barrier between men

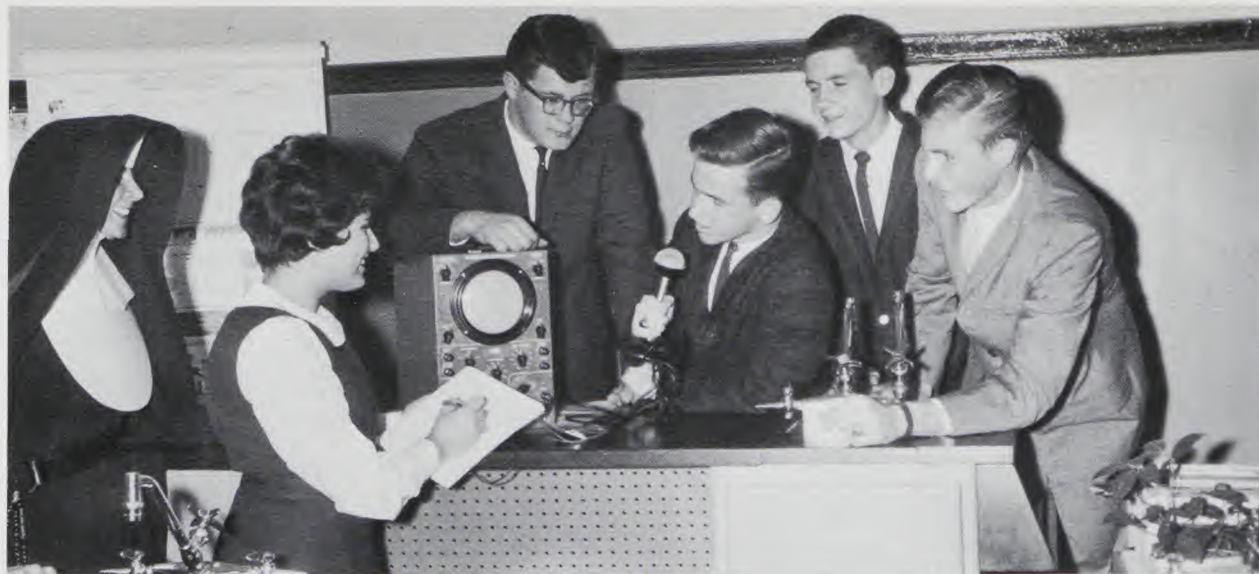

"I propose a toast!" exclaims Thomas Imerito to members of the Latin Club, Carl Steidel, William Breslin, Barbara Nielsen, Regina Curtis, Frances Ambrosino, and John McGlynn during their banquet held May 27, 1964.

"Je viens de lire Match; l'avez-vous lu?" asks Sister Loretto of Marlene Golde, John McGinty, James Harper, and Eugenia Parron, members of her French III class.

The click of Maureen McGuire's castanets brings the festival spirit of Spain to Mark Rogers as they rehearse for senior Spanish class.

Maria Both, senior physics student, attempts to sketch Douglas O'Connor's singing voice as recorded on the oscilloscope. Sister Mary Ronald, physics teacher, George Blyskum, Joachim Weickmann, and Rutland Baar seem to enjoy the demonstration.

Exploring a marvelous design

Science Fair winners, sophomore Christine Minch, biology; junior Maura Regan, chemistry; senior William Rich, physics; and freshman Jane Webber, general science, pause for the photographer after the announcement of their first place prizes.

Science Club members, Carol Wasko, Michael Beyer, and Robert Cook, president, review the parts of the water distillation apparatus in the preparation room.

The technique of inoculating a culture medium with bacteria is demonstrated by advanced biology student Judith Keenan to Susan Engelbrecht and Charles Lockwood. Michele Regan removes petri dishes from the incubator for study during laboratory period.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

In keeping with the rapid progress of science in the modern world, RBC has added three new courses to the already established continuous science program. These include PSSC Physics for seniors, BSCS Yellow Version Biology for sophomores and freshmen, and Advanced Biology for deserving seniors with a background in chemistry. The Science Department, under the direction of Sister Mary Kenneth, also expanded its membership by welcoming Mrs. Patricia Fons to teach general science to freshmen.

To aid the students in the discovery, understanding, and application of important principles of science, RBC supplies three modern, well-equipped laboratories and new materials for the modern courses. Interested students have also aided in equipping the laboratories. Anthony Delsardo obtained an oscilloscope from the Texas Instrument Corporation for use in the physics laboratory, and Thomas Robb constructed a kymograph for biology experimentation in physiology classes.

The science program gave inquisitive Caseys the chance to learn recent developments in the scientific world from those who have made science their way of life. Mr. John Navarra, the head of the Science Department of Jersey City State College, spoke to the physics classes on January 7 about advantages of scientific thinking and science as a teaching profession. Biology classes traveled to Rutgers Agricultural Science Day on May 1, 1964, for tours and discussions of careers in science.

Science Fair judges, Mr. Robert F. Moss, Mr. Robert E. Watson, Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, R.N., Mr. Edward Kolar, and Mr. John S. Cook, Sr., take time to pose for our photographer after judging the exhibits on Friday, February 14, 1964.

Senior chemistry students experiment with various lab techniques to answer the question, "Which will produce the more efficient yield of oxygen?"—Eileen DiLierto and Frederick Meisler by decomposition, or Veronica Galbavy and Lester Smith by electrolysis.

Student Leadership Day, November 21, 1963, finds teacher James Predham explaining the epsilon-delta definition of a limit to his calculus students, Kathleen Foley, Michael O'Shea, Frank Cassidy, and Edward Reiss.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

The increasing complexities of our way of life, accompanied as they are by an extended reliance upon science and mathematics, indicate that the well-educated person should have a knowledge of the mathematics that provides some foundations for much of our progress. RBC's Mathematics Department, under the guidance of Sister Mary Theresina, aims to provide such an education to its students. Modern Algebra I and II, Modern Geometry and Trigonometry offer college bound students a rich background at RBC. Deeper concentration in math may be elected by senior students in studying selected topics in Advanced Mathematics or Introduction to Calculus.

The department increased its faculty membership this year by the addition of Sister Mary Bridgetta and Mr. John Breickner, both teaching algebra and geometry.

The Engineering Drawing Club, established by Sister Mary Bridgetta, gave interested students opportunities to learn the art of mechanical drawing.

Sister Mary Devota, geometry teacher, received a National Science Foundation Grant to study Modern Mathematics at Saint Peter's College, Jersey City, New Jersey.

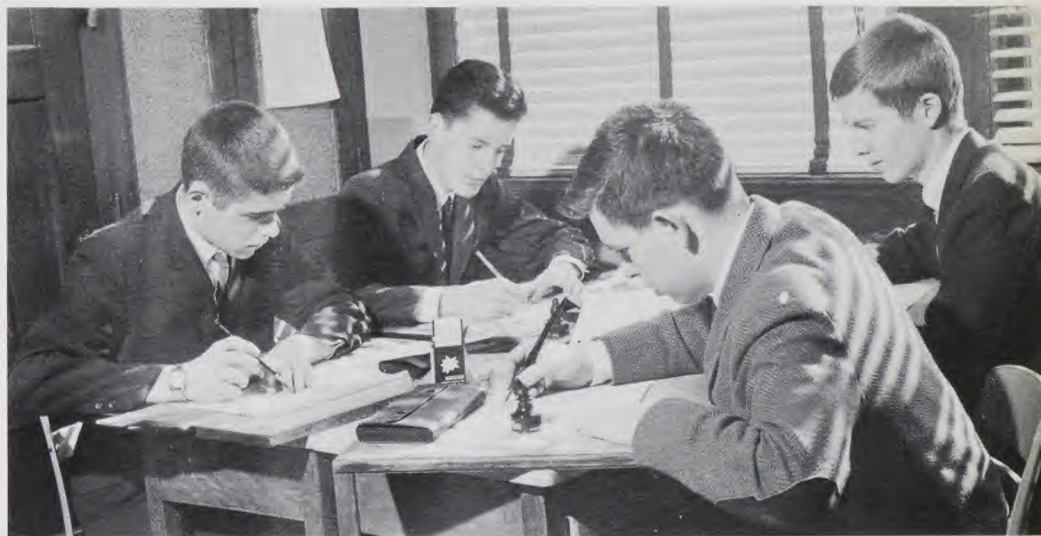

Gifted math students participated in the National High School Mathematics Contest sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America.

Experimenting with conic sections proves fascinating for John Phillips during geometry class. Kenneth Gerardi explains the complexity of the plane to Lydia Mendoza and Aniela Brogowski.

Red Bank Catholic graduate, Mr. John Breickner, returned to RBC as a mathematics teacher on the freshman and sophomore levels.

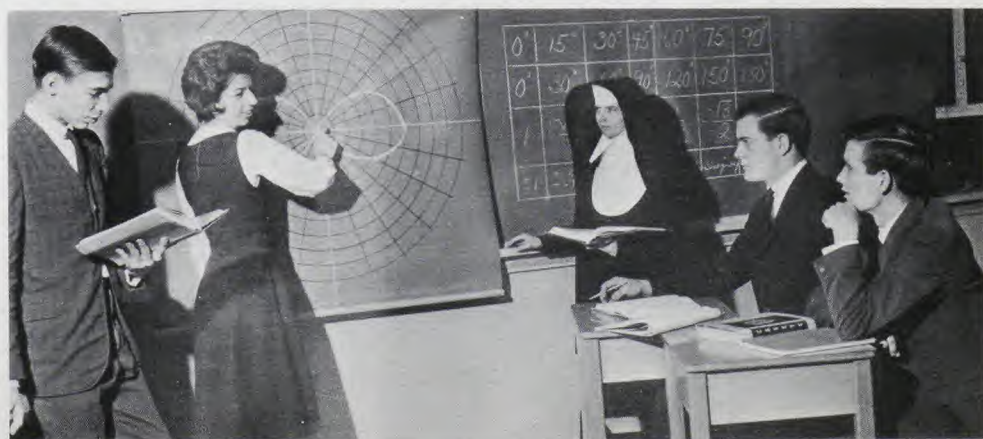

Engineering Drawing Club members, Jeffrey Costura, Frederick Ploetz, Thomas Sheehan, and James Gormally, add the final touches to their monthly projects.

to reality

Mr. Edward M. Kelly, president of J. H. Kelly Co., located on Broad Street and Harding Road, Red Bank, explains the mechanics of a computer to Math IV students Kathleen Foley, John Hickey, Susan Shelly, and Charles Foley.

Trigonometry student Leigh Malone demonstrates the symmetry of the polar equation to John Malecki, Robert Laggan, and Robert Davis in Sister Mary Theresina's math class.

Practicing skills

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Business education is an extremely important segment of our educational system. At the present time approximately 40 per cent of the labor force is engaged in some form of business activity in our economy.

Red Bank Catholic High School's program of business studies, under the direction of Sister Mary Alma, provides for the dual purpose of business education—serving as an integral part of the general education for all high school youth and giving vocational preparation to high school students for business jobs and careers.

The business department assumes its obligation to prepare students to meet the changing demands and requirements in business occupations. Its teachers are cognizant of the changing educational patterns, the changing economic environment, and the changing demands for increased competencies and for personal information. These data, obtained through periodic surveys and job analyses, helped to define the areas of major concern toward which education for business in the future should be directed.

The department sponsors the Business Club, one of the most active of the extracurricular activities at RBC. Frequent guest speakers such as Miss Ann T. Feury of Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School, New York City, and Laetitia Atchison, Directress of Stuart School of Business Administration, Asbury Park, New Jersey, enable the students to learn facts about the fields of their choice.

A co-operative working relationship exists between the business department staff and representatives of both individual business firms and the business community. The department also provides a student secretary for each faculty member and aids in circulation of the school newspaper.

Occupational and career guidance in business is considered to be a primary responsibility of the business department and is participated in actively by all business teachers. Annual awards for business subjects are given at the close of the school year.

Secretaries in the making, Patricia Decker, Lena Froio, Gail Hemingway, and Nancy Conroy, perfect their skills in the business office as part of their secretarial training class.

Typing II students, Nancy McKenna, Eileen Bills, and Lynn Davis, are busy stenciling an assignment. Patricia Kellenyi, Denise Humphreys, and Karen Kronenberger check the finished product.

Business Law students enact a day in traffic court. The presiding judge is James DellaVolpe; witness preparing to testify, Elaine Guariglia; prosecutor, Eileen Bills; and defendant, Carol Luby. Other witnesses include Captain Leroy McKnight of the Red Bank Police Department, Janice Guarino, and Sheila O'Brien.

Typing is one thing, but learning to keep the typewriter clean is another. This operation is practiced by typing students Richard Sweeney, Constance Cawood, Barbara Hollywood, and William McGrath.

Acquiring cultural appreciation

ART AND MUSIC DEPARTMENTS

Originality in the fine arts keyed the theme for this year's art and music departments. Two art classes were re-established under the direction of Mrs. Joan Kennedy as an elective for juniors and seniors. Students, while learning the basic principles of art, were encouraged to develop freedom of expression using pastels, charcoal, water colors, pencil, or pen and ink. Part of the year's program consisted of visiting art displays and museums and also displaying student work on RBC's bulletin boards. This year senior art student Richard Cook won honorable mention in the Mary G. Roebling Scholarship for Painting exhibit for his watercolor, "Street Scene."

The band, under the directorship of Mr. John Giampietro, introduced many new arrangements. Their half-time shows at football games sparked the Casey spirit on to victory. The concert band presented renditions of "Finale" from the New World Symphony, "Holiday for Strings," and "American Folk Rhapsody," for the Music Festival on February 27, 1964. The band played regularly at pep rallies and school assemblies. They especially impressed the student body at the Christmas program with carols and Mr. Giampietro's own arrangement of "White Christmas."

Monday mornings in the auditorium, the ninety-member Glee Club met Dr. Jeno Donath and Mr. Robert Hebble, accompanist, for practice. The Glee Club, under the moderation of Sister Mary Virgine, made its first public appearance of the year at the Mission Rally in Trenton. December 10, the girls brought the spirit of Christmas to the shoppers at Steinbach's Department Store, Red Bank, by entertaining them with carols. The Glee Club also spread Christmas cheer at RBC by caroling through the halls and at the annual Christmas assembly. On February 27, the club, in conjunction with the band, presented their annual music festival. Seniors Judith Miles, Mary Cunningham, Rose Duhon, and Mary Quinn acted as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

Red Bank Catholic's Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Jeno Donath, provided entertainment for the Mission Rally held in the War Memorial Building in Trenton on October 25, 1963.

Putting the finishing touches on a bulletin board illustrating the value of good reading are Anne O'Connor, a homeroom bulletin board chairman, and Maureen Mullin, Student Council bulletin board chairman.

Caring

Miss Bradley of Saint Francis Hospital, Trenton, points out nursing school entrance requirements to Catherine Mayer and Nancy Glading, president of the Future Nurses' Club. Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, R.N., moderator; Miss Marlene Degnan, an alumna of Red Bank Catholic, now a student nurse, and Catherine Kenney look on. Miss Bradley and Miss Degnan visited RBC on October 28, 1963.

Sister Mary Fides and Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, R.N., pause briefly while instructing seniors John Hennessy, Thomas Imerito, Maureen Kempton, and Carmella Perno in the civil defense Medical Self-Help course, given in January, 1964.

for our physical well-being

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENTS

With greater emphasis being placed on physical fitness in the modern world, Red Bank Catholic continues to develop its health and gymnastics departments.

Mr. Albert Forte, department head, and Mr. Peter Brennan instructed the boys' gym classes. The students began the year with touch football, then went to basketball, and finished in the spring with baseball. Mrs. Evelyn Russo, the girls' gym instructor, began her classes with warm-up and stretching exercises. Basketball, tumbling and volleyball were the girls' winter sports. Spring brought the girls outside for softball.

This year President Kennedy's physical fitness program provided a test of speed and accuracy in body building exercises for all students. On April 24, the girls' gym classes presented an exhibition of precision marching, tumbling, and square dancing.

Weekly health classes under the guidance of Mr. Forte and Mrs. Russo covered topics relative to physical well-being.

Each student received a physical and dental examination through the courtesy of Dr. Donald C. Seuffert, Dr. William B. Hyland, and Dr. Edward Mulligan. Assisting the doctors and in daily charge of the infirmary is Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, R.N., our school nurse.

Medical Self-Help, a civil defense health program given in January, provided seniors with knowledge for an emergency situation. Tapes, slides, and live demonstrations highlighted this useful course.

Mrs. Moss, new moderator of the Future Nurses' Club, allowed the girls first hand experience in assisting the doctors during physical examinations and in providing opportunities for volunteer work in nearby hospitals.

Dr. Edward Mulligan, M.D., volunteer school physician, checks the physical fitness of junior Mary Barrett in the infirmary.

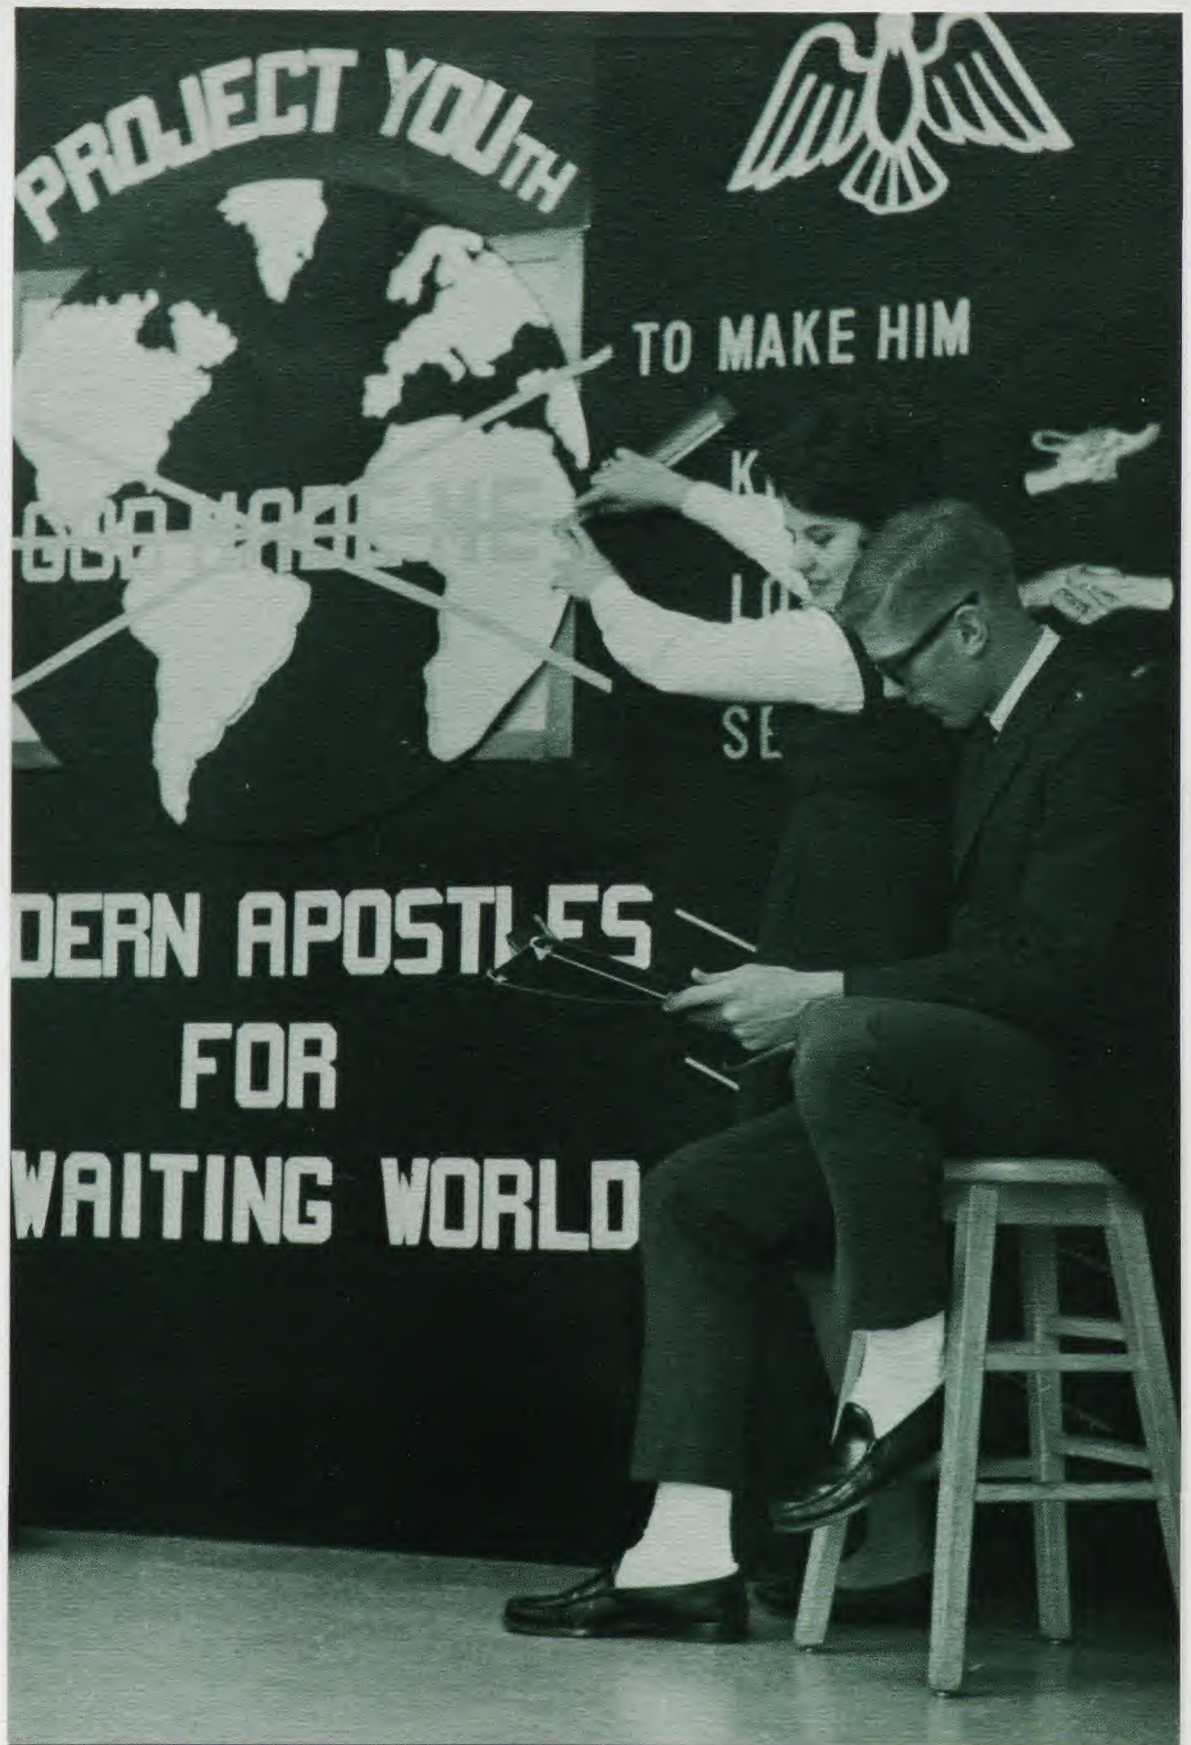

Mr. Albert Forte, boys' physical education instructor, observes Edward Beyer leading John Malecki, Frank Grimaldi, Richard Belicose, and Richard McMillan in a set of pushups in the gymnasium.

To live is to be generous, for life is a perpetual sacrifice of ourselves for the good of others. We showed external expression of sacrifice at RBC through the year in a variety of extracurricular activities. Whether we wrote for a publication, tinkered with a radio, or gathered materials for a debate, the Spirit of Christ was with us. Our after-school hours were filled with a choice of more than thirty clubs and organizations. Through these we learned to work together in a united effort for our fellow students.

Social events such as the formal Snowball and not-so-formal Sounds of the Times Hootenanny will stay with us as some of our joyous, fun-filled memories.

The climax of extracurricular activities, My Fair Lady, was created by the diligent work of the cast and directors, the skill of stagehands and artists, and the solicitude of homeroom and booster salesmen. Engrossed in the enthusiasm of Broadway at RBC, Caseys united in a lasting tribute to Alma Mater, highlighting a year of generous giving.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council of Red Bank Catholic is the major extracurricular activity in the school. Under the leadership of David Fitzgerald, president, assisted by officers Patricia Makely, Theresa Ribustelli, Dennis Howlett, ten chairmen and presidents of the four divisions, the 1963-64 Council has brought to a successful completion a wide variety of projects touching on all phases of school life.

A member of the National and State Association of High School Councils, Red Bank Catholic has actively participated in the student exchange program sponsored by member schools of the Monmouth County organization. The Council helped to plan the social calendar for the year, personally assuming responsibility for the Cas 'n' Casey Dance, Victory Dance and Valentine Dance. Pep rallies, planned and carried out by the athletic committee, kept school spirit high during the football season.

Project Youth, now a tradition at RBC, represents the most important and diversified single work of the organization. In keeping with the spirit of the Ecumenical Council, this year's theme was "Lay Apostolate-RBC-Modern Apostles for a Waiting World."

The month-long project was initiated with the signing of a proclamation by Mayor Benedict Nicosia of Red Bank. In October a Holy Hour conducted by Father Richard A. Leadem marked the beginning of Catholic Youth Week.

By sponsoring an Open House in November, the Council enabled parents to visit classes. Also in November, they planned the traditional Student Leadership Day, Teacher Appreciation Day, and arranged for a Mass of Thanksgiving.

Every Monday of the school year finds the Council meeting in Room 5 under the moderation of Sister Mary Theresina. In February David Fitzgerald presided over an Open Meeting held in the auditorium gym, at which officers and chairmen gave semi-annual reports and the student body had the opportunity to ask questions from the floor.

At the conclusion of the school year the Council presented the Activities Day Program in order to give recognition to deserving students for scholastic and extracurricular accomplishments and for good citizenship.

MAYOR BENEDICT NICOSIA of Red Bank signs the official proclamation signifying the opening of Project Youth on October 24, 1963. David Fitzgerald, president of the Student Council; James Thompson, president of the Saint James C.Y.O.; and Patricia Makely, vice-president of the Student Council, witness the event in the mayor's office.

PLAY TIME COMES TO RBC, on February 8, at the Student Council dance, Broadway Rhythm. Maureen McGuire and Patricia Muzzi put final touches on the huge mask of comedy used as part of the center decoration.

THE GAVEL OF LEADERSHIP is entrusted to David Fitzgerald, newly invested Student Council president, by Monsignor Monahan, pastor of Saint James Parish, during the formal installation of Student Council members on September 16, 1963.

APPLES FOR TEACHER APPRECIATION DAY, November 26, shine due to the efforts of Judith Van Bergen, Maria Both, and Maria Grilli. The student body expressed gratitude to teachers during Project Youth by offering Mass for their intentions.

Rendering a lasting tribute

Emerald

A long-anticipated remembrance of our senior year at Red Bank Catholic is our yearbook, the 1964 Emerald. The student body cherishes the yearbook because it contains a treasured recording of the various events of our happy year at RBC. We, the staff, will cherish it more because of the long hours of hard work and sacrifice we gladly gave as a last tribute to our Alma Mater.

Work began in early September under the guidance of Sister Mary Vivian, the new moderator. Room 303 with its many wide shelves provided a workshop for the staff. On October 12 we traveled to Villanova University's campus for an enlightening day at the Catholic Publications Conference. We exchanged ideas with other high school yearbook staffs and learned much from the professionals in the field. This fired us with zeal for our own book.

The members of the staff, directed by Editor-in-Chief Eugenia Parron and Assistant-Editor Diane Petrillo, were not to remain inexperienced for long. As the year progressed, we learned to plan layouts, crop pictures, and write copy and captions. Emerald became more than a once a week session; it became an everyday responsibility.

After the anxious labor was completed and the yearbook went finally to press, the efforts of everyone involved became his own reward. Other rewards received for working diligently on the yearbook in the past include All-Catholic Award from the Catholic Scholastic Press Association and the Medalist Award from the Columbia Press Association for the 1963 Emerald.

When every other aspect of high school days is forgotten, the Emerald will remain a vivid reminder of a cherished time in our lives.

EMERALD STAFF EDITORS traveled to Georgian Court College, Lakewood, New Jersey, on November 17 for divider spread ideas. Sister Mary Christina, head of the Art Department, provided the needed "spirit" with her beautiful water color of the Holy Spirit. Meeting deadlines promptly

CIRCULATION STAFF OF THE SIGNPOST, Mary Lou Christman and Eileen Bills, busily type envelopes while Donna Hope, Shirley Ruck, and Elaine Guariglia prepare to mail the school paper to waiting subscribers.

THE SIGNPOST

Six times a year the Signpost appears within the walls of RBC and throughout the community. The great student interest in the publication is a real tribute to the work of the staff, guided by Sister Mary Anina and Mr. Joseph Hintelmann. Editor Thomas Imerito and his associate, Edward Griswold, direct the staff in the many steps between collecting news and the trip to Jordan Press with the final copy. The excellence of the publication is proved by the many honors it receives each year: First Place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press, Quill and Scroll International First Place award, and All-Catholic evaluation from the Catholic Press Association. A circulation of 3000 also shows that the Signpost does an outstanding job of expressing the student news and views of Red Bank Catholic.

SIGNPOST EDITORS, Judith Blice, Elizabeth Carton and James Harper, news editors; Thomas Imerito, editor-in-chief; Edward Griswold, associate editor, and Mary Quinn, feature editor, pause for a smile, showing success on meeting their deadline for the February issue.

HAPPY EDITORS, Edward Griswold, James Harper, and Thomas Imerito, don't seem to mind the weight of their product, for anxious Caseys await Signpost delivery to their homeroom.

WITH THE PROFESSIONAL HELP AND ENCOURAGEMENT of Mr. Heppelstein of the Jordan Printing Press, the Signpost becomes a reality to Mary Quinn, Edward Griswold, and Thomas Imerito after many hours of hard work.

LAST MINUTE TOUCHES TO THE SIGNPOST before going to the printers keep George Severini, Editor Thomas Imerito, Moderator Sister Mary Anina, and Kathleen Jantzen working industriously long after school hours.

EXPERIMENTING with a musical gleeman for the cover of the current issue of the literary magazine is the Art Editor, Patricia Monahan.

THE GLEEMAN

The Gleeman, RBC's literary magazine, gives creative students an opportunity for expression of their literary talents. Progress in the field of learning, foundation of a new and better world in the Space Age, is the theme that Susan Shelly and the literary staff chose for the 1964 issue, hoping to equal their 1963 achievement, a first place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Contests during October provided a wide selection of short stories, poems, and essays, from which the staff selected and edited the best. Illustrating the articles with a variety of techniques was the job of the staff artists, headed by Patricia Monahan. With the help of Sister Mary Fides and Sister Mary Paul the copy and art work moved toward its deadline. To hold in their hands the fifth Gleeman was the reward of the hard-working staff and moderators—a perfect example of progress.

COMPLETING THE FINAL DRAFTS of the Gleeman, Susan Shelly directs Janice Guarino and Mary Ann Conlin in typing stories written by students for a contest sponsored by the magazine.

Training leaders for the future

FORENSIC CLUB

Realizing the significance of oral communication as a tool for expression, the Red Bank Catholic Forensic Club teaches students the art of expressing words of freedom and truth. To aid them in reaching this goal, the members of the club engage in debate, extemporaneous speaking, and oratorical speaking. These fields develop the characteristics of critical evaluation, persuasiveness, conviction, and logical thought, all of which are necessary qualities for the prospective leaders of America.

Throughout the year the members of the RBC Forensic Club brought honor to their school, to Sister Mary Vincent, moderator, and gratification to themselves. Thomas Maloney, Anne O'Connor, and Patricia Odom received recognition at the Speech Festival in Long Branch. Thomas Maloney again won fame for RBC by placing third in the New Jersey State Extemporaneous Speaking on March 13 in Dover, New Jersey. Veronica Castro placed first in Girls' Extemporaneous Speaking on March 15. At the same contest Charles McAllister and Thomas Maloney won both sides of the National Debate Topic. Charles McAllister received first place in New Jersey's Voice of Democracy Contest and a $500 scholarship for his speaking ability. He went on to represent Red Bank Catholic at the National Contest in Washington, D.C.

OFFICERS OF THE FORENSIC CLUB, Thomas Maloney, vice-president; Mary Ann Munning, secretary; Charles McAllister, president; and Patricia Odom, treasurer, spend many hours checking the schedules for such varied activities as debate, extemporaneous speaking, and dramatic interpretation.

RBC's FAIR LADY is simply LOVERLY

RED BANK--Henry Higgins, "You did it!"

Eliza Doolittle is a smashing success--the whole show is a smashing success!

"My Fair Lady," which opened last night to a capacity audience in Red Bank Catholic High School auditorium, is a joyful treat of youthful student talent.

The audiences that will fill the house again tonight, tomorrow and Saturday have a fine evening of entertainment in store for them.

Kathleen Reed, in the role of Eliza Doolittle, swept up accolades for her performance as the squashed cabbage leaf of a flower seller with curbstone English that Professor Higgins successfully changes into a great lady. Her clear voice is a joy to all, including those sitting in the last rows of the balcony.

Professor Higgins, played by Joseph Russo, interprets the role of Rex Harrison in the original Broadway production adapted from Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," with a callous finesse all his own. He has a clear voice and a flair for the dramatic role which is supported ably by Thomas Imerito in the role of Colonel Pickering.

The rollicking Cockney tunes and crackling comedy never fell flat. John Grewen's rowdy interpretation of Eliza Doolittle's father won an "Oscar" of applause for the numbers "With a Little Bit of Luck" and "Get Me to the Church on Time."

These seniors represent the fine cast of some 137 students from the high school providing joyful entertainment for all ages.

Miss Ruth White and her brother Charles White are to be commended for their fine professional handling of this brimful of talent. Choreographers were Mary Woods Kelly and Robert Wilson.

The one sour note in the whole production is that it is a complete sell-out for the next three performances. "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" if there were more.

CASUAL DANCES

Looking back on this year, we recall memorable dances which attracted many Caseys. The first Cas 'n' Casey Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, was held on September 14. We celebrated at the Victory Dance on September 28 after an exciting football game in which we defeated Red Bank High. The Velve-teens provided the music. Costumes and the Grand March highlighted the Halloween Howl with Red Bank Catholic's Dance Band performing for the first time. Lollipops and Roses was presented by the Sodality on November 16. January found us enjoying our favorite records and songs at the Sounds of the Times—Hootenanny sponsored by the Forensic Club. SNOWBALL

With the gay reminders of Christmas and the New Year still in the air, the Senior Class presented the annual Snowball on January 4. For four fleeting hours the gaily decorated cafeteria became a wonderland of winter to the seniors and their escorts. The music of Pete Galatro's Band entertained the attending Caseys. Presiding over the affair as the royal couple, Joseph Largey and Janice Guarino agreed that this was a perfect way to spend their Christmas holidays.

SENIOR PROM

As the school year passed the half-way mark, preparations for the Senior Prom began. Under the direction of Mrs. Charles Donath, Mr. Joseph Hintelmann, Maria Grilli, and two representatives from each senior homeroom, many plans evolved for the gala event. The Deal Country Club, decorated at its best, received the happy seniors on June 3, 1964. While dancing to the music of Bill Holcombe's orchestra, the graduates of 1964 placed the final memory of their senior year in their hearts.

APPLYING THE FINAL TOUCH, William Quinn presents Margaret McCarthy with her corsage before leaving for the Senior Prom on June 3.

Ending a happy year

"DINNER IS READY," announce Aniela Brogowski and Stephen Walters to Dolores Hastie and Lester Smith. A delicious buffet dinner was served in the dining room during the Prom.

WHO WILL BE THE FAIREST at the Senior Ball? Kevin Cox knows the answer to this question as he helps Sandra Grodeska with her evening jacket before leaving for the Senior Prom.

ENDING A HAPPY EVENING, James Thompson and Jo Ann Nelson leave the Deal Country Club, the site of this year's Senior Prom.

WAITING PATIENTLY for the return of William Dalton's date, Mary Lou Christman and Kenneth Gerardi suggest that William try Information as the last resort to find her.

To live is to believe, for faith gives us answers reason cannot explain. Our spiritual growth at RBC has provided us with the fortitude to face a world opposed to high Christian ideals. September began with the Mass to the Holy Spirit, setting a tone for the entire year. Invoking His blessings and guidance for our studies and activities, we realized it is only with God's help that we could be successful. Monthly holy hours in Saint James Church provided periodical remembrances of our vocations as students; and the annual retreat, preached for the first time by diocesan priests, Father William Bausch and Father William Anderson, joined the student body in a common bond of prayer. Active Boys' and Girls' Sodalities and the Mission Crusade Committee gave us opportunities to share in the apostolate of the lay Christian. Most of all we will remember the inspiring religion classes of our dedicated teachers and the lessons instilled in us by our self-sacrificing priests. They will live on in our memories as beacons of faith to light the dark roads of reason.

To Live is to Believe

At the Reception of the Boys' Sodality in March, Thomas Petraitis receives his pin from Father Gall. Edward Nolan and James Drayton await their symbol of reception.

Keeping the spirit of the liturgy in the minds of the students is the special objective of the Girls' Sodality bulletin board committee. Carolyn Hogan, instructor of the probationary members, and Kathleen Foley admire the display on the Mass.

Imitating the virtues

SODALITY

Striving for perfection through Mary is the main objective of Red Bank Catholic's Sodality. To foster this objective, the Girls' Sodality, under the moderation of Sister Mary Immaculate and the guidance of Father William Anderson, along with sponsoring various activities throughout the year, bind themselves to certain spiritual exercises.

On November 17, the Sodality played host to the student body at its annual dance, titled this year Lollipops and Roses. Working together at Christmastime, the regular sodality and probationary members collected toys and presents for needy families in the Red Bank area.

In February, Catholic Press Month, the Sodality sponsored a Catholic library contest in each homeroom. Mr. Cieri's showcase of Catholic books and pamphlets received first prize, and Sister Mary Annunciata's picturesque display received second place.

The Boys' Sodality, under the guidance of Father Florian Gall, proved that the imitation of Mary's virtue is also a manly quality. Its elected officers were Robert Watson, prefect; Thomas Petraitis, vice-prefect; William Rich, secretary; and Gerard Sasson, treasurer. Each Sodalist strives to live in the spirit of Christ through Mary.

RETREAT

In the interim between mid-term examinations and second semester, a spiritual retreat of five days provided RBC's student body with many opportunities for grace.

Two days previous to the formal retreat were devoted to confessions and the selection of good Catholic reading matter.

Diocesan priests conducted the retreat with Father William C. Anderson of St. James Parish, Red Bank, as the girls' retreat master, and Father William Bausch of St. Joseph's Parish, Keyport, as the boys' retreat master. Mass, confessions, spiritual reading, and three conferences were included in the daily schedule. Each day ended with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Father Anderson and Father Bausch were available for private talks and instructions. Renewal of Baptismal vows concluded the fruitful retreat.

Challenging Catholic Youth with life

Anderson, assistant director of the Propagation of the Faith; Father Linus Lombard, C.P., speaker at the Rally; Monsignor Michael P. McCorristin, vicar general of the Diocese of Trenton; and Monsignor Emmett A. Monahan, director of the Propagation of the Faith Society.

Father John McShane, a Marist missionary, spoke to the student body during vocation month on the zeal needed in the Apostolate to combat the activity of Communism throughout the world.

Ripping, measuring, sewing, and rolling are steps in the Mission Crusade's bandage-making project. Helen Woolley, Maureen McGuire, Diane Petrillo, and Margaret Buckley prepare materials to be sent to Father Patrick Patterson, Maryknoll priest and graduate of RBC now stationed in Korea.

During the Youth Holy Hour on October 27, Father Leadem incenses the Book of Lessons as Edward Reiss and John McGinty look on.

Patrick Farrell sings about his old football days at RBC as former classmates George Severini, Michael Fisher, and Suzanne Klaver listen during an alumni reunion. The assembly presented by the Junior Class was a part of Project Youth entitled "Fore-Tell-a-Vision," showing the success of Red Bank Catholic graduates.

To live is to be active, for it is only by cooperation with others that we fully develop our personalities. Those who were athletically inclined participated in the diversified sports program of football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track and field, tennis, and golf.

With the student body's helpful prayers, weekly Mass and Holy Communion, and the dedicated coaching staff, plus the team effort and tireless Casey spirit, we added victories of which we're proud. Our football and cross country squads garnered South Jersey Parochial State Championships.

The determination and self-sacrifice of the teams provided a constant inspiration for our loyalty and enthusiasm for "the green and gold."

Leadership coupled with united action is the key to the success of tomorrow. This, we can say, our active participation in sports developed in each of us.

The 1963 football season started for our team on September 1st at the Farmers' and Gardeners' Co-operative Association Camp, in Everett, under the watchful eyes of head coach Al Forte and his assistants Pete Brennan, Thomas Murdock, and John Dondero. Conditioning for the grid field meant seven days of vigorous calisthenics, scrimmages, and practices on the football field. Through the hot and humid September days the 32 day-hops and 34 regulars faithfully kept at their training.

Well-deserved success opened the season with a 37-0 shut out against our archrival, Red Bank High. Superb Casey blocking enabled Joseph Largey to make a 50 yard run to score in the first quarter while Kevin McKeon raced 60 yards for another touchdown in the third quarter. This opener gave a preview of the great strength of our defensive team, which held the Buccaneers to 12 yards rushing.

After suffering a setback at the Sayreville game, 0-13, our team sprang back to down South Plainfield 13-0. A strong offensive performance by halfback Jim Thompson gave us the extra yards, securing the first down and keeping the drives going. This game, played at Asbury Park, saw RBC's first homecoming celebration with Patricia Makely honored as queen. Both the queen and her attendants, Patricia Muzzi and Gail Hemingway, were presented with flowers during the half-time show.

The powerful defensive team, composed of seniors Paul Peduto, Mark Rogers, Bob Laggan, and Nick Barbato, battled for two ties, Seton Hall 7-7 and Rumson-Fair Haven 0-0. In both of these games they delighted the fans with powerful goal line stands. In the St. Peter, New Brunswick, game a 50 yard quarterback sneak by Ed Schissler, a fumble recovery by Mark Sohl, and extra points run by Joe Hochreiter and Jim Thompson led us to a 14-13 squeaker.

Among the honors claimed this season is the Parochial "A" State Championship and the Catherine Elkus White Trophy from the Red Bank win. Undefeated teams in 1959 and 1960 also brought the Parochial "A" State Championship home with the Caseys. Fine teams, all-county stars, and a proud record are all products of Mr. Forte's expert guidance and coaching skill during the past five years at RBC.

Cooperation of four competent coaches on the sidelines propels Casey griders to victory. Mr. Murdock relays a message from Mr. Dondero in the overhead press box to line coach Pete Brennan while head coach Al Forte calls instructions to the line backers.

Surging across the finish line

Red Bank Catholic, making its debut in cross country running under the direction of Mr. John Rafter, set an extremely fine record for future teams to follow. Striving to overcome inexperience, the new Casey harriers started the season with great determination and diligent practice including a daily five mile warm-up run.

They ran for their first triumph against St. Mary of Perth Amboy on September 14. The team's great potential, particularly in depth, showed during this contest and continued through the season to be its greatest asset.

Undaunted by an early loss to Raritan, the Caseys outpaced Henry Hudson 19-36. On a grass tract at Shore Regional High School, Bob Byron crossed the finish line in first place with Brian Dempsey and Bill Ptak behind him in third and fourth places.

The long and hilly terrain at Tower Hill proved to be a struggle but a success for Byron (first), Brian Dempsey (fourth), and Gerard Sasson (fifth), winners over Red Bank and Keyport.

Surging across the finish line and shutting out the Rumson runners, the first nine sprinters belonged to RBC. Completing another sweep against Shore Regional, Casey runners took the first eleven places.

Special laurels all season belong to Robert Byron who ran first and second place consistently along with an outstanding performance of 11 minutes, 11 seconds against St. Bonaventure. A most edifying record of 14 wins and 3 losses is a proud achievement for the first Casey cross country team.

Casey harriers led by Captain Gerard Sasson completely shut out the Rumson team 15 to 40.

The team rolled on to defeat St. Mary, South Amboy, in an 85-84 squeaker and Toms River, 70-56. Both games showed the remarkable rebounding ability of Tom Petraitis and the high scoring of teammate Mike O'Shea. RBC's squad pushed on for two victories over Shore Regional, 77-62 and 65-59.

Mater Dei provided the cagers with a showcase for their superior rebounding talents and backboard domination. Dave Fitzgerald sparked this rousing 75-51 win.

Playing a man-to-man defense, the Caseys swamped Red Bank High 96-65, breaking the school scoring of 89 set in 1961 by Eric Donath. With one minute and five seconds to go Charlie Dowd pumped in a jump shot from mid-court to the jubilant cheers of Casey supporters.

The team participated in the N.J.S.I.A.A. Tournament playing its first game against St. Peter, New Brunswick. Despite a determined effort, the Caseys lost to Notre Dame, Trenton, in the second game.

To live is to live on, for life is a journey home to God. The guideposts along our journey will be the Christian principles we have gleaned from our four years at Red Bank Catholic. Our education has enriched us physically, socially, intellectually, and spiritually.

In a world where war and poverty are rampant, we need strong Christians to be motivating forces of social justice and Christlike charity. Red Bank Catholic has endeavored to engrain these marks of a follower of Christ in us. It is for us to meet these challenges to our faith and overcome them with forceful action. By being active lay apostles, we can accomplish this work.

As the wide horizons of the world stretch out before us, may we, the Class of '64, use the lessons Alma Mater taught as blocks to build our home with Him, the Eternal Spirit of Love.

BELLS ARE RINGING, but not for frustrated Suzanne Husson, Mariano Rodriguez, Robert Grant, Linda Bull, and Peter Kenney who await the use of the cafeteria phone during lunch, as Patricia Grant casually searches for change.

CLASS OF 1965 Our Junior Year

Energy and determination characterized our junior year. Under the leadership of our class president, Peter Armstrong, we channeled our energies into many scholastic and extra-curricular activities. "Once Upon a Time" was the theme of the Thanksgiving Prom. The students elected our president as Prince Charming and Margaret McCue of 11D as his Princess. Our one-act play production, The Valiant, unfortunately lost to the senior, Murders of Miriam. We look upon it, though, as a dramatic experience. For a Project Youth Assembly in October, Sister Mary Annunciata helped us direct Fore-Tell-a-Vision. It was fun seeing ourselves as ten-year alumni members returning for a reunion banquet. Play season found spirited juniors who helped not only dramatically, but also financially with their full page ads.

One of the most exciting moments for us was the day the Dieges and Clust representative measured us for our senior class rings. Then finally the day came when we proudly put on our fingers the symbol of loyalty to Red Bank Catholic and the Class of 1965.

Interspersed throughout the year were visits to college campuses, applications, College Boards, and plans for summer jobs.

CLASS OF 1966 Our Sophomore Year

The big move from McAuley and Cabrini houses to the main building of our school gave us the feeling of belonging as we started our second year in high school. Our teachers challenged us with B.S.C.S. Biology, Modern Geometry, and Audio-Lingual Foreign Language Study. In religion we learned the life of Christ, and through the instruction of Father James McConnell we received a greater appreciation of the Mass.

Our one-act play, "The Courting of Marie Jenvrin," advised by Sister Mary Paul, entered the semi-finals against the seniors. Leading our class through this year of hard study and busy "extras" was president Warren McManus.

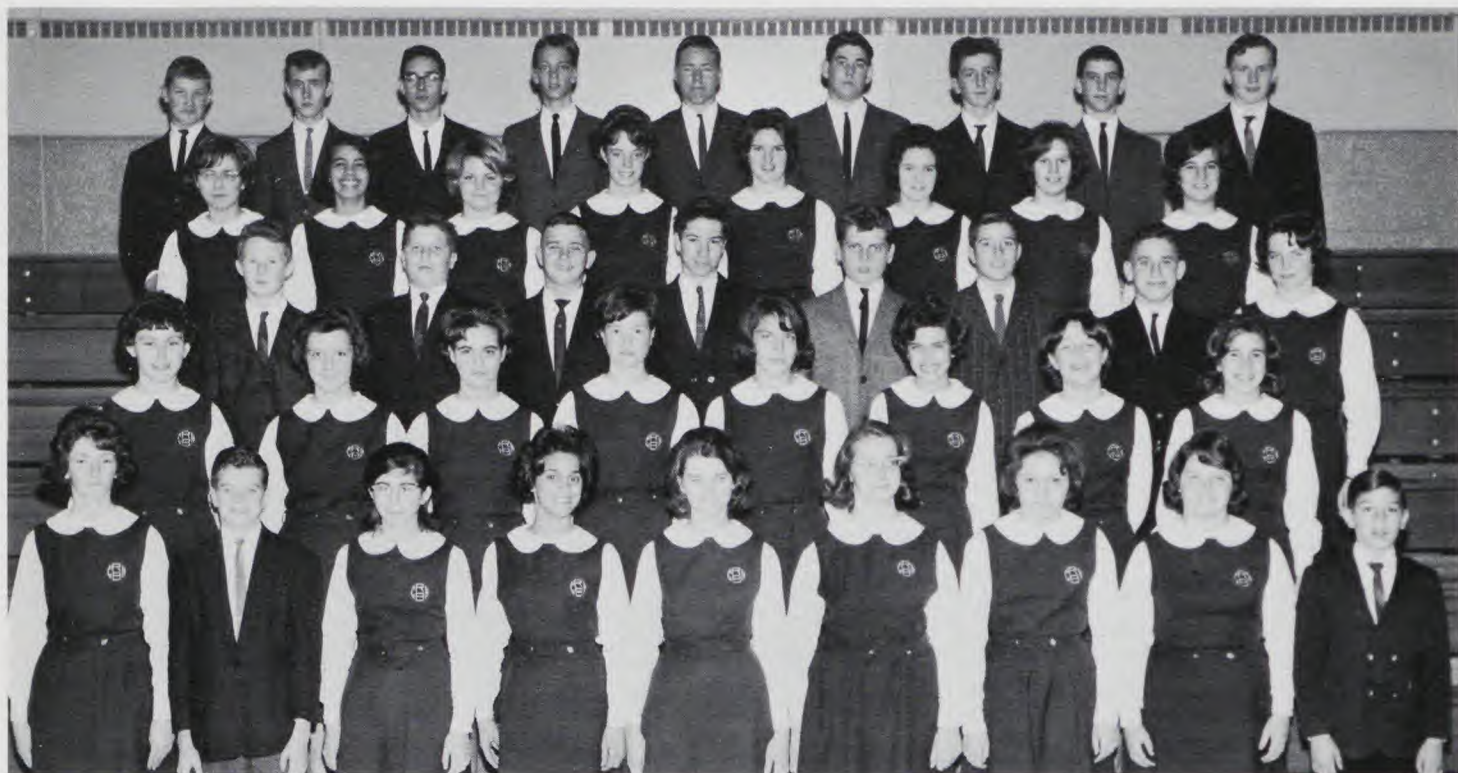

CLASS OF 1967 Our Freshman Year

Two hundred ninety-three strong we entered RBC's doors for the first time on September 3 to become acquainted with the new life we would lead as high school students. We met with the entire student body to offer the votive Mass of the Holy Spirit in petition for a holy and successful year. We found a host of extracurricular activities opened to us including our own football and basketball teams, dances, and a freshman sodality. We elected our representative to the student council, John O'Neill. In December we pooled our dramatic talents to present the one-act play "I Won't Dance."

"HAVE YOU NO MERCY," moan freshmen Gregory Falconetti and John Kiernan to sophomores Anthony Delsardo and Raymond Lefurge, who playfully refuse to help them in their efforts to open the side door of school.

IN MEMORIAM TO JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

May 29, 1917—November 22, 1963

I have heard in the hills the sound of a great oak falling, but I will not think of it as dead, for who will ever know how many seeds it sowed and how many other trees will someday rise to take its place and stand in the sun where it once stood?

THANK YOU . . .

During our four years at RBC we have obtained a foundation that will help and guide us throughout our lives. This publication is a remembrance of those wonderful years. We are indebted to the efforts and dedication of those who have helped make our Emerald possible:

- . . . the administration and faculty for their patience and cooperation
- . . . Sister Mary Christina, head of the Art Department at Georgian Court College, Lakewood, New Jersey, for her water color painting of the Holy Spirit
- . . . in memoriam to Mr. Frank Ball, Vice-President of New City Printing Company who died this past year. In gratitude for his years of service to RBC we will remember him in prayer
- . . . Mr. Gil Floyd, Mr. John Prignoli, Mrs. Shirley Vetter, and Mrs. Estelle Trout of Lorstan-Thomas Studios for their help and technical advice on photography
- . . . Mr. Fred Ball, Mr. Frank Ball, Jr., Mr. Edward Adomilli, Mr. Al Ballabio, and all at the New City Printing Company for professional assistance
