Crane collapse on bridge kills one, injures one

By JENNY BURNHAM
jburnham@breezenewspapers.com

One construction worker was killed and another critically injured when a crane lifting a 70-ton piling for the new Sanibel Causeway Span A collapsed and crashed onto a barge in the early afternoon of Monday, April 25.

The existing Span A was not affected by the accident.

Kent A. Crappel, 54, of Morgan City, La., died at the scene. John T. Collins, 57, of Carabelle, Fla., was airlifted to Lee Memorial Hospital Trauma Center in serious condition for emergency surgery, according to a preliminary incident report filed by Lee County Sheriff's Deputy Steve Wright.

At press time, a representative of HealthPark told the Island Reporter that Collins' condition had been upgraded to "Good," and that he was in the Orthopedics ward at the hospital.

Both men were employees of Boh Brothers Construction, a Louisiana-based sub-contractor working with Jacobs Construction on the Causeway project.

The accident happened between 1 and 1:30 p.m. Paul Wingard, Director of the Lee County Department of Transportation, said that Crappel, the crane operator, was in the process of setting the crane's hammer and leads to drive a piling when "everything went down, the crane, the piling, the leads, the hammer, and the boom."

The leads are the cage that surrounds the piling while the hammer drives the piling into the floor of the bay.

Witness reports compiled by the Lee County Sheriff's Office state that the construction crew had just attached a 100-foot section of concrete piling to a 60-foot section that had already been driven into the ground. The sections are normally spliced together and driven into the ground. The piling broke at the splice just before Crappel could drive the 100-foot section, and the crane lurched against the counterweight. Crappel, operating a Manitowoc 4100W crane, was able to hold the load, witnesses said, until the piling cracked and broke again. The crane once again jerked against the

Planning commission continues EAR discussion

By GARY PHILLIPS
gphillips@breezenewspapers.com

With the May 1 deadline less than a week away for Sanibel to submit the Evaluation and Appraisal Report to the state Department of Community Affairs, the planning commission held a final discussion regarding the document at their Tuesday meeting.

The EAR is required by law to be submitted to the DCA every seven years. The planning commission, city staff and city council have been preparing the current EAR for several months, studying and revising its content along the way. The final version of the plan was approved by city council at their April 19 meeting.

During public input, resident Hazel Schuller had comments and questions regarding the EAR addressing resorts using the beaches for accessory items like beach chairs, umbrellas and cabanas. Schuller provided photographs to the commission.

"What I'm passing around there is pictures of resorts that have numerous beach chairs and cabanas and so forth in front of their large resorts," she said.

Schuller told the commission a change in the EAR regarding accessory beach use had been put into the EAR without the commission's or public's review or input.

"The planning commission and public seemingly never saw nor approved that change at public hearings we had from May 5, 2004 to January 6, 2005," she said.

Planning Commission Vice-Chairman Mike Valiquette, who serves as liaison between the commission and city council, said the version of the EAR he had at last week's council meeting was slightly different than the version being presented to the council. The difference, Valiquette said, is a new paragraph appearing on page 44 of the EAR about the city preparing land development regulations to ensure that neighborhood and community compatibility is retained by allowing only appropriate-sized homes to be built. In other words, that small homes be allowed in small home neighborhoods and larger homes be allowed in areas with other large homes.

"The question is, where did the paragraph come from,

Community turns out for 25th Taste of the Islands

By Renny Severance

More than 3,300 people turned up at the Sanibel Community Park next to the Community Center for the 25th annual Taste of the Islands. It was a near-record turnout according to Anita Pinder of the Clinic for Rehabilitation of Wildlife and an important part of CROW's annual fundraising efforts.

The event offered ideal circumstances to sample tasty goodies from 17 island restaurants ranging from pizza to seafood to delectable desserts.

In past years the event has been held at Gulfside City Park off Casa Ybel Road. While an attractive shaded park next to the Gulf of Mexico was an appealing venue, parking was something of a complication requiring trollies and a number of coordinators.

This year's Taste was held outside at the Sanibel Community Center with ample parking across the street coordinated by volunteers from three Sanibel-Captiva service clubs: Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary. Traffic flowed smoothly and additional shuttle service was provided by Sanibel Taxi and Good Wheels between Sanibel City Hall and the Taste.

Entertainment was provided by Blind Pass Band, R&B Connection, and Charlie Brown and the Coasters who came all the way from New York.

The traditional categories were on the ballots and this saw a new one added — Chef of the Taste. The dancing, eating and voting was intense and enthusiastic all afternoon. At 4:30 p.m. drawings for impressive prize packages of tours, restaurant certificates and much more, were conducted by M.C. Todd Jurkowski. He then announced the winners in the different categories and awarded the trophies.

and photos of the event.

Students go to school at City Hall

By GARY PHILLIPS
gphillips@breezenewspapers.com

More than 30 Sanibel School students learned about city government during Student Government Day on Thursday, April 21. The day started with the students gathering in MacKenzie Hall with City Councilmen Tom Rothman and Jim Jennings and Mayor Carla Johnston. The city officials explained how local government leaders are elected, how city business is conducted and how laws are passed and enforced.

Johnston explained how the city administration fits in with the county, state and federal governments.

"This is an example of how we govern ourselves at the local, community level," Johnston said.

Johnston then explained how laws are introduced and passed, using the fictional example of the council passing a law on building a skateboard park.

"What happens is a group of people will come to a council meeting and talk about why there should, or maybe shouldn't, be a skateboard park," she said. "That's democracy in action. That's government by the people."

The councilmen conducted a brief mock debate on skateboard parks, followed by a simulated vote to demonstrate the process.

Jennings then told the group how local laws are enforced.

"Anything the city council passes as an ordinance actually is a local law," Jennings said. "The police are out there patrolling not only the streets, but also the waterways and the beaches, enforcing not only the local ordinances but the state and federal laws also."

Jennings also explained code enforcement and how complaints are investigated.

"We have zoning laws. Someone can't just come in and put a pig farm in your neighborhood," he said. "We would have code enforcement go down there and say 'no, you can't do this.'"

Rothman explained the election process and how some city officials are appointed or hired rather than elected.

More than 30 Sanibel School students learned about various city departments during Student Government Day.

"The most important part of this process is you, the voter," Rothman said.

He then told the group about the desirable qualities of a city council candidate.

"The most important thing is, do you really want the job?"

If you get elected, people in the city are going to count on you to do what you think is right for the community," Rothman said. "You're going to have to make a lot of decisions."

Johnston concluded the first segment of Student Government Day by encouraging the young people to continue their interest in government.

"We hope you go away from today with the idea that local government is exciting and interesting and you can do some things that really make a difference," she said.

The students then divided into four groups which toured various city offices to learn more about the city's many departments.

Sandy Larsen from the Utilities Department and Scott Krawczuk and Tony Balog from Public Works spelled out the duties of their departments.

Krawczuk detailed the road maintenance and other tasks his department undertakes.

"If you guys live on a dirt road, after it rains you might get potholes in the road. Then they will come and grade the road for you," he said. "We have a garage section with two

Fatally injured worker was to receive team safety award

By Jenny Burnham
jburnham@breezenewspapers.com

Kent Crappel, the construction crane operator killed in an accident Monday, April 25, at the Causeway, was to receive recognition as the winner of his Boh Brothers safety team's contest to provide a group slogan for the Sanibel construction project.

Crappel was scheduled to receive the award for the winning slogan on Tuesday, April 26, said Kris Cella, CEO of Cella & Associates.

The contest challenged team members to come up with a slogan for the theme "Bridging to bring us together."

Crappel's submission, judged the best by his peers and team leaders, was "Paving the path to Paradise: Sanibel Island."

"That's the way he felt about Sanibel," said Cella, "that it was so beautiful."

Cella said of workers on the construction project, "They are much closer and tighter and together much more than what you or I can imagine. They live and breathe together 24/7 and they truly lost a brother in their eyes."

counterweight.

Once Crappel saw the load could not be contained, said witnesses, he swung the machine away from the ground crew and the bridge, toward the water. The boom landed atop several barges and crashed through the pilot house roof of an unoccupied tug boat moored among the barges clustered near the current Span A.

Crappel made "a tremendous effort to keep control of the load," said Wingard.

Responding to investigate were officers of the Lee County Sheriff's Office, the United States Coast Guard, and OSHA. Because a death was involved, a detective from the Lee County Sheriff's Office Major Crimes Unit also responded to the scene.

As soon as the two men were extracted from the wreckage, the construction area shut down due to the instability of the crane and boom sections, according to Deputy Wright.

In the late afternoon, however, a few workers at the site finished driving a piling that had been suspended from a second crane when the accident occurred. Wingard said that leaving the piling suspended was dangerous, so "they at least wanted to get it into the ground."

Boh Brothers has received several awards and commendations for safety on construction projects, including reaching the OSHA STEP Platinum Level of achievement.

The Boh Brothers web site describes the company's safety policy, which was instituted "several years before OSHA was enacted," as well as the company's expectation that employees at all levels, without exception, will comply with the policy.

According to the web site, the Boh Brothers safety policy "is designed to prevent the terrible human and economic losses which result from injury and property damage."

The Lee County Sheriff's Office has advised water traffic to stay clear of the construction area. A no-wake zone has been established around the scene until the condition of the barge can be evaluated.

At the request of the Coast Guard and the Sheriff's Office, a Sanibel Police Department marine unit is assisting in enforcing the slow speed/no wake zones at Span A, said Lt. Scott Ashby of the SPD.

Kent A. Crappel, who died in the collapse of a construction crane on the Sanibel Causeway Monday, participated in a cooperative rescue training exercise off the bridge construction barge at Span B in October of 2004.

Paralegal Julia Guernsey works in the office of City Attorney Ken Cuyler and explained his job.

"No city business is done without the city attorney looking at it," she said. "All resolutions, ordinances, contracts or anything else is reviewed."

Guernsey also said the city attorney works closely with all the city department heads to insure the city is legally protected in all its dealings.

Police Lt. James Phillips spoke on what it's like to be a police officer on Sanibel and why a good education is vital.

"We know that everything we do has repercussions. We know people see it, all the way from people seeing it in the papers all the way up to the judges," Phillips said. "That's why you have to be able to write, you have to be able to read, you have to be able to construct correct documents."

Phillips said it's satisfying to see young people grow up on Sanibel.

"That's the most gratifying part of this job, is to see you guys get all the way through it," he said. "And to know that someday one of you is going to end up wearing one of these uniforms."

Acting Planning Director Ken Pfalzer welcomed the students to the Planning and Building Departments and explained what they do.

"When somebody wants to build something they come to us and talk about how they can do it," Pfalzer said, using plans for Sanibel's new recreation center as an example. "What the planning department gets interested in is this, if you're going to build a building where is it going to go?"

Pfalzer then pointed out the features of the rec center plans and the aspects that have to be considered and approved by Planning and Building, such as plumbing, sewerage, landscaping and parking.

Plans Examiner Laura Wessering showed the students a thick set of construction drawings which showed all facets of a building's plans.

After the four groups of students had completed their tours of each office they enjoyed a picnic lunch in the city building's courtyard.

Boh Brothers Construction Co. issued the following statement on April 26.

We are deeply saddened and concerned over the tragic incident that occurred yesterday on the Sanibel Causeway Bridge which claimed the life of one heroic Boh Bros. employee and injured another. Our deepest sympathy and prayers go out to the families of the most valued individuals.

At this time the cause of the incident is unknown; but we are actively investigating the cause and will do everything possible to find out exactly what happened.

There is no higher priority to us than the safety of our employees and to all others in the proximity to our jobsites. Boh Bros. has won numerous industry awards for its achievements in safety, and there had been no employee injuries on this project before yesterday's tragedy.

As more information becomes known, we will make it available.

Bridge construction crew and CROW

Anita Pinder, of the Clinic for Rehabilitation of Wildlife, has formed a friendship with workers on the Sanibel Causeway construction project, a friendship made of mutual concern for wildlife.

"They are just awesome," said Pinder. "They bring injured birds to CROW. If they find an injured bird or a bird hooked with line, they pick them up and drive them in to us."

Allied Engineering, a local firm working on the project, requested CROW stickers for all the workers' hard hats, said Pinder. "I gave them a stack of stickers, and when I went down to the construction trailer to give them a bunch of passes for Taste of the Islands, there was a CROW sticker right on the front door of the trailer."

Pinder was one of the cars on top of the Causeway when she saw helicopters flying overhead and heard that a crane had dropped a piling.

"I said a prayer for the families and the workers," she said. "They're great guys."

Planning welcomes new member

By GARY PHILLIPS
gphillips@breezenewspapers.com

New Planning Commissioner Dr. Phillip Marks took his seat on the commission for the first time at their regular meeting Tuesday. Marks was selected by the city council at their April 19 meeting.

Marks said he has been a Sanibel resident nearly two years and, like many others, made a permanent move here after several vacation visits.

"We visited and started coming here more often and finally decided to just move," he said.

That cross-country trek brought Marks and his wife, Susie, all the way from Orange County, Calif., where the retired anesthesiologist was interested in community affairs.

"My wife and I were very active in our little community. We were involved with issues that affected our neighborhood and our county with regards to expansion and commercial things," Marks said. "We did a lot of volunteer work."

Marks said he may not have the experience of some of his fellow commissioners, but he is keenly aware of why residents and tourists come to Sanibel.

"I don't have the background of Mr. Valiquette as a builder who is intimately involved with the ground around this island. This is a beautiful island created by nature, and you know that's the reason most people live here or come to visit," he said. "It's the whole feeling of this island. My desire was to be a part of this if I could, to help preserve it and even improve accessibility to some parts of the island."

Marks said he knows there will be challenges ahead.

"We have a lot of challenges coming up. We have this new bridge being built which will increase traffic to the island. We have to look at carrying capacity. What do we do with all these people when they get here?" Marks said. "How do we allow them to circulate comfortably and yet not impact the people who live here full time or the animal life. You can just get so many people on these beaches then the birds will simply go to another beach. They need time to rest and breed."

Marks said the island's limited size presents special challenges.

"The island is of a fixed size. We're so close to being completely built out. We have to decide how to preserve what we have here," he said. "If you look out your window here you see trees, you see sky. In other places you will not see the sky, you'll see a large building next to your building and another one after that."

Marks said he feels his priorities are in line with those of the other commissioners.

"All of us are trying to reach the same goal, to keep this island in harmony and in balance," he said.

Following Tuesday's meeting, Planning Commission Vice-Chairman Mike Valiquette said he welcomes Marks to the commission.

"Today is the first day I've ever met him. He seems like a very nice man," Valiquette said. "I'm looking forward to working with him. Everyone has different opinions but we're all working for the good of Sanibel."

Chairman Jack Samler said he thinks city council made a good choice with Marks.

"I didn't know him prior to today, either," Samler said. "He's council's choice and it looks like a good choice."

City sponsors Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day on April 30

On Saturday, April 30th, the City of Sanibel will be hosting a Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day. The event will be held from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Public Works Complex, 750 Dunlop Road. The materials that will be collected include automotive fluids, cleansers, fertilizers, fungicides, herbicides and pesticides, paint (latex or oil), paint remover, paint thinner, pool chemicals, solvents, and wood preservatives. The items that WILL NOT BE collected on April 30 include automotive batteries, biological and infectious waste, empty paint cans, explosives, fire extinguishers, propane tanks, radioactive waste, and smoke detectors.

Improper disposal of oil-based paints, mineral spirits, pool chemicals, pesticides, herbicides and other home chemicals can pollute our sensitive Sanibel environment. Our wetlands would be especially vulnerable if a hurricane related storm surge hit Sanibel Island.

The City's contractor will dispose of or recycle home chemicals safely and free of charge for Sanibel residents. All products should be brought in their original containers and labeled. Lids should be transported with lids on tight, and leaky containers should be packed in a larger container along with an absorbent material such as newspaper. All containers should be kept in sturdy boxes and kept away from passengers. Explosives, radioactive or infectious wastes will not be accepted.

Latex paints can be disposed of with your regular garbage as long as the paint is completely dried out. To speed up the drying process, add an absorbent such as sand, kitty litter, or crumbled newspaper that completely absorbs all liquid.

To package and transport chemicals safely, please DO NOT mix chemicals together. Keep products in original labeled containers, if possible. Place containers into cardboard boxes and use crumpled newspaper in boxes to prevent breakage. Place leaky containers in clear plastic bags and transport in boxes with newspaper. Put boxes in the trunk or in back of vehicles away from passengers.

Every Sanibel resident is urged to properly dispose of your household and hazardous waste before hurricane season begins. For questions or more information, please call the City of Sanibel's Public Works Department at 472-6397.

City council holds special meeting to review budget

By GARY PHILLIPS
gphillips@breezenewspapers.com

With the city's fiscal year just past the halfway point, city council gathered Monday to review the budget. Mayor Carla Johnston began by stating the purpose for the workshop meeting.

"The objective today is for the city council to take a look at the 2005 budget, from October 1, 2004 to September 30, 2005," she said. "Then we will take a look at 2006."

The meeting was then turned over to City Manager Judie Zimomra, who said the first half of the fiscal year ended March 31 and a mid-year review is prudent.

"The numbers we will be giving you are for the first two quarters of the current fiscal year," she said. "This is a time to identify deviations. The budget is not a static document. It's not something you adopt one day then put on the shelf and never look at."

Zimomra said this year is unusual for at least two reasons, Hurricane Charley and the causeway. She reported that as of March 31, 72 percent of the general fund had been collected while only 47 percent of budgeted expenditures had actually been spent. It was similar news for the sewer fund, for which 54 percent has been collected with only 30 percent of expenditures being distributed. Another revenue source is parking fees, down this year largely because of the hurricane and causeway, with 39 percent of the projected income being collected but only 28 percent of budgeted funds being spent. Zimomra said the collections of parking fees is obviously down, but the time and money spent to collect them and to maintain parking areas is also less.

City Finance Director Renee Lynch gave a report and a Powerpoint presentation outlining the city's various sources of funds and how those monies are dispersed.

"Welcome to Accounting 101. We're going to do a little education this afternoon on government accounting," Lynch said.

She explained to the council the workings of Sanibel's $45.2 million budget, what funds are and where and how the money is collected and budgeted. With the visual aid of her Powerpoint display, Lynch explained in detail government fund types like the general fund, special revenue funds, debt service funds and capital project funds. Other types of funds include enterprise funds like those collected for sewer services and beach parking.

Sanibel City Manager Judie Zimomra and Finance Director Renee Lynch address city council at Monday's budget workshop session.

Vice-mayor Mick Denham posed a policy question to Lynch.

"We're obviously policy makers here, is there a policy that if we have a new capital project that we have to financially justify it or decide where the revenue is coming from?" Denham asked. "Is there a policy written for that?"

Lynch said the policy is to have a balanced budget.

"You just have to adopt a balanced budget," she said. "If you're going to expend money you have to find a source to balance that out. That's a legal requirement."

Hurricane Charley cleanup has been an expensive undertaking for the city. As of April 6 nearly $8 million had been paid out with a projected total of $13.8 million expected. Some funds have come back into the city coffers, including $4 million from FEMA, $1.3 million from the USDA, and $111,000 in insurance payments.

Zimomra said that halfway through the fiscal year the budget is where it should be.

"We're on target for revenue, we're on target for expenditures. We feel very good about that," she said. "For right now the budget we have adopted is extremely solvent, it still gives this city council some flexibility."

Johnston welcomed public comments near the end of the workshop.

"I'd like to finish up today seeing if there's questions or comments or concerns from the public," she said. "It would be good for us to hear them before we get into the 2005-2006 budget."

Johnston said the only time and place council members can discuss the budget with each other is in an open meeting because of the Sunshine Law.

"We don't get a chance to talk to one another other than when we're in a meeting," she said. "This is a good time to talk generally about what we might want."

Steve Maxwell had a suggestion.

"I'm asking that we look at some comparative cost interprogram activity," he said. "That's on the cutting edge of city and local government budgets."

Maxwell said studies should be conducted on budgeting for the past few years to compare where we have been to where we are going.

"Then the public would be fully illuminated and informed," Maxwell said. "I think it would be good for the city as a whole. You can do a comparative study that will allow you to be responsible in your decision making."

Barbara Cooley said the public needs to be better informed.

"We need to do a better job of public information on the budget," she said. "Other cities routinely have their budget information on their web site, and we don't at the moment. There is some information on the web site but it's not really accessible. The budget itself, 136 pages, is too large to download."

Cooley also suggested that copies of the budget be made available at the library.

The council reviewed a budget calendar for the preparation of the 2006 budget. An ad hoc 5-year budget committee has been formed to study the city's finances and their report to council is due May 1. That report will be studied by the council and discussed at their meeting May 17.

City department heads are to have their specific budget requests submitted to the city manager by May 20 and will meet individually with the city manager and finance director to discuss their requests May 23 through 27. The council will discuss issues relating to the 2006 budget and millage rate during both of their June meetings on the 7th and on the 21st.

On July 1 the property appraiser will certify the tax roll and the finance department will calculate the proposed millage rate. The council will receive the staff's proposal July 15 and will act on it at their regular July 19 meeting, setting the millage rate. A special meeting will also be held in the afternoon of July 26. The calendar calls for public hearings to be advertised in August and held on September 10 and 20.

who wrote it and who requested that it be inserted at the eleventh hour?" Valiquette said.

Acting City Planner Ken Pfalzer explained the paragraph in question had already been part of the EAR on another page and was simply copied and pasted from page 27 onto page 44 for the benefit of the DCA.

"That paragraph was cut and pasted in the discussion of the major issue of character of the community," Pfalzer said. "It became apparent to me that the DCA was not going to cross-reference in looking for material, in spite of the fact they set up a format that required cross-referencing. So to ease them, it didn't leave page 27, it just reappeared on page 44. It was always there, it's just there twice now."

Copies of the pages in question were provided to the commissioners so they could see the identical paragraph was on both pages.

Valiquette said he was not making accusations.

"There was no ill intent toward staff or anyone else," he said. "This was brought up because I was on the EAR board and we approved a certain version of the document and it was changed without me knowing about it. I had some questions and they have been answered and I appreciate it."

Sanibel

It is time to vigorously complete the necessary steps regarding noise and odor. And it is time to consider on the Island that is located towards the West end to handle some of the waste generated by that portion of the Island. Further expanding the existing plant, with additional smells and noise, is not acceptable to the neighbors. Many of us are researching our legal avenues, for the past 4 years of intolerable existence, and future problems of the plant.

FROM THE EDITOR

We want to clear up some confusion about this point. Mr. Valiquette did not tell our reporter that he was on the committee that created the Sanibel Vision Statement. He did say, however, that he was a participant in the Sanibel 'Shared Vision' Initiative, an effort organized by the Sanibel City Council in 2001 to gen-

Mr. Liljequist's letter goes on to assume that, since no further clarification or correction appeared in the following week's newspaper, Mr. Valiquette "agrees with the accuracy of that characterization." In fact, Mr. Valiquette has pointed out the error to us and we are eager to correct and clarify the point here. We also wish to apologize for any confusion that has arisen from this.

KEEPING SANIBEL SANIBEL

Memo from Mayor Carla B. Johnston

What's 'build-back'? What's redevelopment? Puzzled? You're not alone.

May 3rd, at 9 a.m. the City Council will meet to hear what relief is needed in a 'build-back' ordinance and where a line is drawn separating building back and redevelopment.

The Sanibel Land Development Code (LDC) already deals with build-back. The book is in the library. Chapter 126, Article V addresses nonconforming structures--the focus for build-back. A structure, a lot, or the use of either land or structure are nonconforming if, while legal when built, they are currently not permitted or restricted.

The principal focus for build-back is the resort housing district although some resorts are not in this district. Article V clearly states that the intent of the code is to eventually remove nonconformities—but not to penalize property owners impacted by a disaster. The LDC (Sec. 126-131) permits reconstruction of building after disaster, but not expansion. This intent is clarified in Sec.126-172A by stating that major improvement requires elimination or reduction of the nonconformance. (Major improvement is a restoration cost in excess of 50% of market value of structure immediately before damage.) Sec.126-212 states that a nonconforming structure can be reconstructed within its pre-disaster footprint, up to pre-disaster square footage, but conforming in all other ways with LDC.

The LDC further states in Sec. 126-211 that when a structure devoted to a nonconforming use is destroyed, the use may not be re-established in the gulf beach zone or the bay beach zone. Note the distinction between build-back of structure and the use to which the structure is put.

If build-back is required, the existing code allows the owner to keep the beneficial use of their property. It does, however, require conformance to current codes.

One question. Can non-conforming buildings build-back to current density? To answer this and develop a basis for a build-back ordinance, it may be necessary to establish a specific list and evaluation of impacted properties. For example, might one property have the room to rebuild to code with current density (number of units) while another property does not? Perhaps one property can build back with the same intensity (definition?) or number of square footage and same views while another property might require a different building configuration. To develop specific code changes that bring build-back relief, doesn't one need to understand the specific needs first? For example, relaxing set-backs in certain situations might accomplish relief—and preclude a height increase. But is that desirable from a public safety or aesthetic viewpoint? Should flat roof structures be able to build back with a hip-roof? This might not count against the number of 'stories' allowed in height restriction.

Carla B. Johnston

of Sanibel's community is the individual entrepreneur. These shop owners are mostly tenants. What happens when they are caught in both the disaster and the build-back phase? Do they just all lose their businesses? Should build-back also deal with economic obsolescence? Perhaps a property has not been destroyed, yet it is necessary to rebuild. Should such owners in a zone that restricts such use be allowed to build back? Should that be a blanket relaxing of code or some relaxation with specific restrictions? Should there be any relaxation at all? Should build-back focus on more than residential property? A much valued sector back phase? Do they just all lose their businesses?

What precautions must we take when making code modifications to prevent losing our grandfathered protection from the Bert Harris state law? After losing such protection, court cases could arise wherein property owners claim that Sanibel's restrictions are a hardship. Then, the court, not the Sanibel citizenry, would then decide our fate.

If a redevelopment study identifies the desired mix of Sanibel structures in thirty years, what must be included? How about evaluating the mix of businesses that are desired to service islanders? How about an examination of how best to retain space for the small entrepreneur? What other considerations are important for all sectors of Sanibel's economy—business (including resorts, hotel/motel/ commercial and retail), residential (including condos, single homes, multiple units)? What's happened in other communities—especially the environmentally sensitive ones? Can we learn what's failed and what's been successful redevelopment and why?

Your participation is crucial to guide Council, the Commission and the staff. Policies that succeed result from the best ideas from all of the island's stakeholders. If you can't come on May 3rd, please email us at san-council@mysanibel.com

SERVING LEE COUNTY COMMUNITIES FOR OVER 16 YEARS

Best of the Islands gather at the Dunes

By Renny Severance
Executive Editor

After four weeks of voting, the ballots are in and counted. On Thursday, April 21, island businesses met at the Dunes Golf and Tennis Club to learn the results and congratulate the winners.

Sipping their drinks and munching on tasty hors d'oeuvres, the participants enjoyed the perfect evening weather and toasted each others' successes.

Steve Greenstein, executive director of the Sanibel & Captiva Islands Chamber of Commerce offered some opening remarks. He reflected on the history of the Best of... noting that it has become a tradition looked forward to by much of the community. He also said that the competition is a healthy one for our economy and cautioned the first place winners that the other competitors will be trying harder next year.

The paper's sales manager, Terri Blackmore, then started into the results of the voting. She interrupted the listing to introduce Susan Blueh who has owned a home healthcare business on the islands for many years now. She recalled getting started and the people who helped and the people who needed her help as she spoke of the growth of her business from just herself at the outset to 15 employees today. She also spoke of the importance of advertising and the benefit as well as the fun of the annual Best of competition.

Following her remarks and the announcements of more winners, John Falsdat was introduced. He took just a few minutes to offer his thoughts on the fun of the competition and to recall some of the casual and entertaining early days of the real estate business when Priscilla Murphy was active and before the causeway was built.

The remaining winners were then announced whereupon Tonya Squibb, group publisher of the Reporter, thanked everyone for coming and for their participation.

Improper disposal of oil-based paints, mineral sprits, pool chemicals, pesticides, herbicides and other home chemicals can pollute our sensitive Sanibel environment. Our wetlands are especially vulnerable should a hurricane related storm surge hit Sanibel Island. Bring your hazardous waste to our special Household Hazardous Waste Collection event. The City's contractor will dispose of or recycle home chemicals safely and free of charge for Sanibel residents.

- Keep the products in their original containers. Label them
- Make sure the lids are on tight, if the containers are leaking, pack them in a larger container along with an absorbent material such as newspaper.
- Place all containers in sturdy boxes and keep them away from passengers.
- We do not accept explosives, radioactive or infectious wastes.
- Latex paints can be disposed of with your regular garbage as long as the paint is completely dried out. To speed up the drying process, add an absorbent such as sand, kitty litter or crumbled newspaper that completely absorbs all liquids.

 It's against the law.

When you feed an alligator you are training it to approach humans and are creating a life threatening situation... especially for our children. Feeding alligators is a criminal act punishable by fines and/or imprisonment.

GARDENING

Don't cut back your plants by more than one-third

Dear Ron:

We have a rubber tree that has grown quite high ~ 12 to 15 feet or so. We would like to prune it and give it a nice shape. Where do we have to cut the stems off, before where it branches out or along the smaller branches?

Is it true that the tree should keep at least one-third of its leaves in order to grow? I have seen rubber trees cut down to the bare stem and branches without leaves and they seem to grow fine and are beautifully shaped.

Another question: The tree lost a lot of leaves in the last month. What could be the reason?

you trim off parts of the leaves, make sure you sterilize the clippers after use so you won't spread the fungus to other orchids.

Here are some plants that produce thick hedges

Dear Ron: Can you recommend some plants that will produce a nice thick hedge? I am trying to hide an ugly chain-link fence on the south side of our property.

— James Robinson,
Fort Myers Beach

Dear James:

Here are few plants for you to consider:

● Cocoplum (Chrysobalanus icaco, zones 9-11, Florida native) ~ Good for hedges, the cocoplum is also an ideal addition to home wildlife habitats because of its large white to purple fruits. Found naturally in South Florida's hammocks and woodlands, the coastal green-tipped variety is salt-tolerant, while the inland red-tipped variety is not. The cocoplum's leaves are shiny and roundish and its tiny white flowers are fragrant magnets for honeybees.

● Florida privet (Forestiera segregata, zones 9-11, Florida native, salt-tolerant) ~ Closely resembling its northern cousin, the common privet, the Florida privet is good hedge material for full sun to partial shade and will reach a mature height of 10 to 15 feet. It has small dark-green leaves and produces tiny white flowers in the spring.

● Barbados cherry (Malpighia glabra, zones 9-11, native to the Caribbean, not salt-tolerant) ~ The dense branching of this shrub makes it a good hedge candidate, though it is a bit cold sensitive and should be heavily mulched to protect against nematode damage. It produces pink flowers in the spring and early summer, and its bright-red fruits are relished by wildlife and humankind and contain more vitamin C than citrus.

● Japanese yew (Podocarpus macrophylla, zones 9-11, native to Japan, moderately salt-tolerant) ~ Though a slow grower, few plants are better candidates for hedges because of its thick, feathery plumes of dark-green foliage. You can speed up the growth rate considerably by feeding it spring, summer and fall with a 6-6-6 fertilizer, and by providing it with regular watering and a thick layer of mulch.

● Sweet viburnum (Viburnum odoratissimum, zones 9-11, native to Asia, not salt-tolerant) ~ Used for decades as the traditional Florida clipped-hedge plant, the sweet viburnum has a dense growth habit, with large, leathery, bright-green leaves.

During the spring, it produces clusters of very fragrant white flowers. Frequent pruning keeps it looking at its best. A related species, Viburnum obovatum, is even better for hedges, but is hard to find.

Blacks spots on orchids caused by a fungus

Dear Ron:

I have several orchids that had been doing fine, but now some of them have leaves that are covered with black spots. What's causing this?

— Robin Schmidt,
Fort Myers

Dear Robin:

Black spots on orchids are often the result of Cercospora fungus, which is caused by overwatering and/or excess humidity. Spray the plant with an orchid fungicide according to directions on the label.

25th anniversary Taste a huge success

By Terri Blackmore
tblackmore@breezenewspapers.com

Tastebuds were teeming with excitement at the 25th Anniversary of Taste of the Islands on Sunday, April 24th. The event, one of the largest fundraisers for the Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife, is also one of Sanibel's biggest parties. More than 3,300 taste-goers showed up to support CROW and the 17 restaurants which cooked and competed to help this worthy cause.

The mission of CROW is the rescue, rehabilitation, and release back into the wild of sick, orphaned and injured native and migratory wildlife. The event was a huge success in raising the necessary financial support to keep the wildlife hospital going.

Thank you to all the great restaurants — some who come every year and some newcomers this year — all of whom cooked the fabulous foods that were savored by the enormous crowd and by the judges with the difficult job of choosing the winners in 11 categories.

A legacy lives on as Gramma Dot's Seaside Saloon secured the People's Choice traveling trophy for the fifth year in a row! Under the direction of chef Jay Fuller, the restaurant also won the awards for Best Booth Presentation and Best Appetizer — Fresh Fried Oysters.

Ellington's Jazz Bar & Restaurant took the "Taste of The Taste" award along with Best Vegetarian Dish. Moreover, this year's new award, Chef of The Taste, went to Chef Amy Visco of Ellington's.

Other winners of the day were Great White Grill for Best Salad; Rassa at the Dunes for Best Meat; Doc Ford's Sanibel Rum Bar & Grill for Best Seafood; Rosie's Deli for Best Pasta; Johnny's Pizza for Best Pizza; and East End Deli for Best Dessert.

In addition to the cast of thousands who attended, funding for the event was also the result of the generosity of many great sponsors. Thanks to Janet and David McBee of Barrier Island Title, the event's Platinum Sponsor, Thanks also to Gold Sponsors — Bank of the Islands, Tween Waters Inn, Budweiser, Lifeline Designs and The Islander.

Many repeat and new Silver Sponsors stepped up to the plate this year — Brian Murty of South Seas Realty, Coral Vet Clinic, Island Design Signs, John and Donna Schubert, Molnar Electric, NBC-2-Waterman Broadcasting, On the Marc Entertainment, Pepsi, Quest Resources USA, Inc., Renovations Plus, Sanibel Harbour Resort & Spa, Sanibel Susan Realty Associates, Sanibel Taxi and Sunbelt Rentals, Inc.

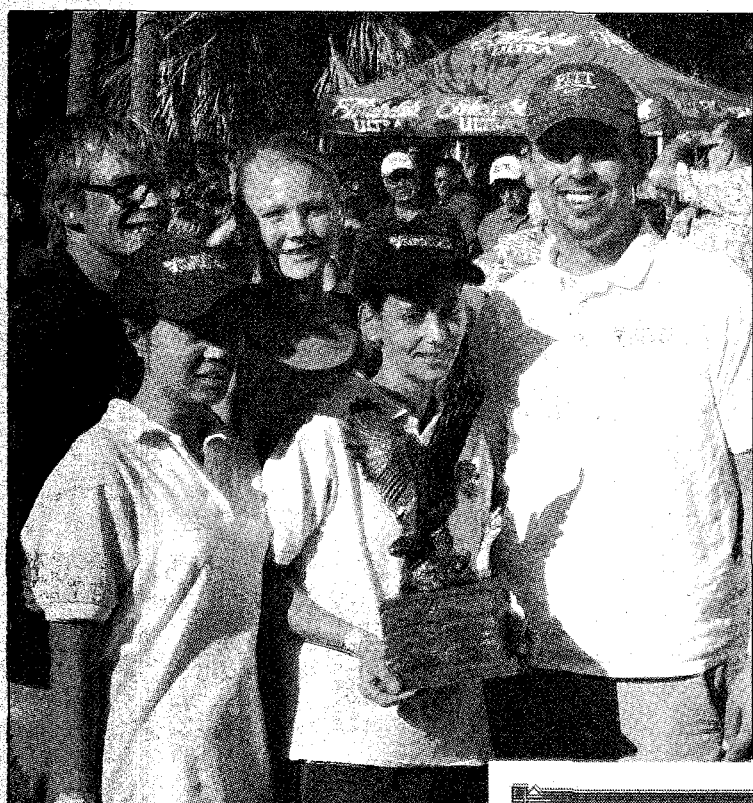

Thank you to the many Wildlife Sponsors — The Burns Family Team from Coldwell Banker, Dan Hahn Custom Builders, Friends of CROW, Greenwood Consulting Group, Inc., Linda Gornick of VIP Realty Group, Lorraine Cowl & Stan Kwiecien, Duffy and Melissa Riner, The Sanibel Island Fishing Club, Sanibel-Captiva Islands Association of Realtors, Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club, Sanibel-Captiva Trust Company, Soon Come Landscaping, The Sanibel Captiva Community Bank, and The Jacaranda (who saved the day by donating the tablecloths that usually come from Sundial Beach Resort — still not operating due to Hurricane Charley).

The fabulous raffle booth headed by the hard-working Linda Gornick raised over $2,300 to benefit CROW. Winners of the Grand Prize, a whole catalog of wonderful items valued at over $2,700, were Mary Beth and Bob Jones of Sanibel.

Thank you to the panel of six judges — Mark Pinto, Michael Giovanni, Tom Smith, Kerrie Sweeny, Steve Hyde, Denise Rondeau — and to Todd Jurkowski of Waterman Broadcasting, MC of the event.

Many thanks are also owed to Anne Arnoff — event chair — and especially to Anita Pinder — event coordinator — who has taken this project from start to finish for the last several years. Anita's efforts are appreciated by CROW, the community and, most of all, by the wildlife in need.

Beachview Men's Golf Association

By Ed O'Neil

The strangest season in memory is winding down on Sanibel. And the golfers are trickling for the border in increasing numbers. With them they'll carry memories of the shocking first look at the barrier islands, the changed "skyline," canvas covered roofs and uncovered pools. Then came heating weather when it was supposed to be cool; cooling when it should have been warm, and rains in spring when it should have been dry.

Despite all of that it was fun, really great fun, when it was supposed to be fun. Good golf, great parties and a season when more than 85 per cent of the Beachview Men's Golf Association members shared in the prizes.

The next-to-last week of the season April 23 featured a variable better ball tournament — popular because you had little room to hide with three shots used on par threes.

Don Hummel, the club champion, as he has much of the year, took both first prizes for the week. He teamed with Jim Purviance, Ed House and Dick Grant for a 94 score.

Bill Stell, recovered from a collision with an ice cream cone in Italy last summer, is hitting his real form and should be trouble in Arkansas this year. Bill combined with Jack Shea, Rod Verblauw and John Moores with a 106.

Third, in a playoff, saw Barry Humphries, Tom Ware, Guy Tober and Bill Sadd nose out Stu Merz, Ed Young and John Royce at 108.

Hummel and Bill Pritchard won the two-man best ball on April 19 with a 24 for nine holes. Jack Tukey and Rene Lohser finished second at 26.

And from Sam Bailey:

"I feel very sorry. These guys come here to try to help us build a bridge and something like this happens. It's very tragic."

"I don't know what you can express. It's terrible for those poor people. It's a tragic loss. I'm sure you don't go to work one day and think that something like that will fall on you the next. My condolences"

— Bob Radigan

Question: What would you like to express to those who were involved in the construction accident at the Sanibel Causeway?

"Obviously you feel bad for them. You read about this happening but it's on another bridge, somewhere else. This is right in our own back yard. It's a shame. I hope nothing else happens."

Rockport, Mass. helps support CROW

Residents and friends of Bearskin Neck in Rockport, Massachusetts are learning about Sanibel's Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife (CROW) and supporting its efforts through a unique and heartfelt raffle by artist and CROW friend, Lauri Kaihlanen.

Many people on Sanibel and Captiva recognize Lauri's work of the whimsical raccoons and other wildlife riding bicycles. He and his wife, Anne, have been long-time winter residents of Captiva Island, with Lauri having visited the island with his parents since the mid-1970's. Lauri is the artist and owner of Kaihlanen Galleries on historic Bearskin Neck in Rockport, Massachusetts, where he and his wife spend the summer months.

In Rockport, they are enjoying Black Back Gulls and Herring Gulls, but to residents and friends of Rockport, any kind of gull is worth helping, and that's exactly what they are doing when they visit Kaihlanen's gallery and purchase a raffle ticket to win one of his limited edition, signed prints of "Escape up a Tree".

As a wildlife painter, Lauri was anxious about the fate of the animals and birds on Sanibel and Captiva during and after Hurricane Charley. His paintings during the fall and winter of 2004/2005 reflect that concern. The painting, which he named "Escape up a tree" features most of the known critters which reside on these islands. Lauri had a limited edition print made of the painting, with many of them selling during his time on Captiva this year. When he returned home to Rockport, he still had the critters on his mind, so he decided to offer the prints in a raffle, donating part of the proceeds to CROW, which is an organization near and dear to his heart.

"Hurricane Charley left a lasting legacy of destruction on the islands, so I wanted to use that legacy in a positive way and depict the rebirth and regrowth of the islands in my new paintings", said Kaihlanen. "Wildlife has always been an inspiration to me for as long as I can remember. I wanted to share some of the proceeds of my work with the critters whom I use as my models. What better vehicle for that sharing than the Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife" said Lauri.

CROW's president, Ann Moran, was pleased to hear about Lauri's raffle. "Saving our wildlife is what CROW is about, and it is wonderful that Mr. Kaihlanen recognizes the importance of our work in saving hurt, injured and orphaned wildlife. Wildlife inspires many, from novelists, to poets, actors, dancers and musicians, and it is clear that wildlife is important to Lauri and his work." Said Ann.

Established in 1968, CROW is one of the nation's leading wildlife rehabilitation hospitals for tropical native and migratory wildlife. A nonprofit veterinary hospital, CROW provides medical care for 3,500 injured and orphaned wildlife patients each year from all of Lee County. More than 200 different species and 47,000 patients have been treated at CROW, a significant percentage of whom have been released back into the wild.

CROW relies exclusively on private donations to operate. Birgit Vertesch, Director of Development for CROW explains that the number of patients received by CROW continues to increase, and financial contributions are very important. Gifts can be mailed to CROW at PO Box 150; Sanibel, FL 33957. For more information about CROW, contact Birgit at 239.472.3644.

COTI's intensity ordinance resurfaces

There are more people per bedroom in resort area housing than in residential, therefore there should be fewer dwelling units per acre in resort housing areas.

So goes the logic behind the latest attempt to get the development intensity ordinance — discussed and rejected last year — passed by city council.

But why it's even being discussed again after having been rejected by the council last year was questioned by Ray Pavelka, vice-president of development for the Mariner Corporation.

"More council time and more staff time are being spent on an ordinance which has little impact on the island as a whole and a large impact on a few individuals," Pavelka said questioning what new evidence has been found to cause the ordinance to resurface.

"We don't know if new facts will resurface or not," said Mayor Fred Valtin. "The reasons it has been brought up again is simply that a member of the prevailing side, Councilman Bill Hagerup, asked for it to be discussed again."

Final building code decision is due May 1

Proposed building codes were relaxed by Sanibel's city council Tuesday pending final approval May 1.

Council members tentatively agreed not to increase front, side and rear yard setbacks, and they almost agreed to lessen proposed limits on impermeable coverage.

The new codes would have allowed a home and garage to cover only 67 percent of the total parcel coverage. That might be increased to 75 percent or more depending on a final decision next month.

Council members appeared, however, to favor the proposed 35-foot above grade height restriction. They tentatively endorsed a 45-degree angle of light calculation that requires a home to slope in one foot for every foot it extends beyond 20 feet above grade.

Architect Joe St. Cyr convinced council members that, on small lots, sloping would make it almost impossible to have both a second story and a peaked roof.

The city's Land Development Code Review Committee hoped to control the size, mass, height and bulk of new homes with its proposal, and encourage peaked roofs to break up the vertical rise of large homes.

"It is very clear that if you want a second floor with the angle of light and 35-foot height requirement, we are forcing you to have a flat roof," said Mayor Jerry Muench.

City attorney reorts on outstanding lawsuits

City Attorney Bob Pitt outlined Sanibel's outstanding lawsuits for Sanibel City Council members Tuesday.

Pitt said he believed the issue between the city of Sanibel and the Captiva Erosion Prevention District is nearing an end. Pitt told council members Sanibel is cooperating with the CEPD to obtain funding for a joint Captiva/northern Sanibel renourishment project.

Lee County is currently appealing a Circuit Court decision invalidating the county's vessel control regulation. Sanibel adopted a similar ordinance in 1994. The issue is whether local governments may adopt such regulations or whether power is preempted to the state.

"Neither we nor the county know where we stand on the issue," Pitt said.

Mayor Wally Kain said there is a need for safety laws regarding water crafts.

"These Jet Skis come right into the wake of passing boats, they come dangerously close to the fishing pier and someone's going to get killed."
