Luminary Festival

The Sanibel & Captiva Islands Chamber of Commerce is proud to host its 21st annual Luminary Festival on Sanibel and Captiva Islands. Friday, Dec. 2 the event will be on Sanibel and Saturday, Dec. 3 on Captiva.

Luminary Festival is a community-wide holiday event that brings together residents, visitors, businesses and organizations, promoting goodwill and community spirit. Some of our visitors make early hotel reservations especially for the event.

As you "travel the trail," look for the many fun places to stop and enjoy. There will be an opening ceremony, complimentary trolley service, Santa visits, photos with Santa, a live nativity scene, music and activities for the entire family. The trail will be illuminated with candles and lights.

A trivia contest, a first for the Luminary, will challenge all who participate (and everyone should) as there will be many prizes and gifts, including the grand prizes: an island shopping spree and vacation get-away stays.

The goal is to offer recognition to island businesses and encourage local shopping while providing a fun-filled evening for family and friends. All Chamber merchants are invited to participate and show off their creatively decorated storefronts and host holiday celebrations at their center.

Bank Of The Islands Collecting Christmas Gifts Dec. 1-13 — Santa's Coming on the 21st

As Christmas approaches, Bank Of The Islands is asking their customers and island neighbors to contribute unwrapped gifts for needy children in our community. Starting December 1, islanders can choose an ornament from the tree in the Bank lobby. Each ornament will indicate the age of a boy or girl you can buy a gift for.

"We're so happy to be partnering with Friends Who Care on this special holiday gift drive," said Bank Of The Islands President Robbie Roepstorff. "It's a great way to show how honored we are to be a part of this wonderful island tradition."

The deadline to choose an ornament and deliver an unwrapped gift to the Bank Of The Islands lobby is December 13.

"Any gifts received after the 13th will be delivered to the Brightest Horizons Mission and Child Development Center," said Roepstorff. "Santa is coming to Bank Of The Islands on December 21 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. to visit with island children. After hearing the wishes of our island children, Santa will deliver any additional gifts to Brightest Horizons."

As always the Bank's freshly baked cookies will be available for visitors everyday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. All islanders are invited to stop by the bank lobby at the corner of Periwinkle Way and Casa Ybel Road.

'My Three Angels brings holiday comedy to the stage

Sam and Bella Spewack's "My Three Angels," currently playing at the Arcade Theatre, opened on Broadway in 1953 and is still the same wonderfully wacky, eccentric, Christmas comedy it was back then. Set on Christmas Eve 1910 in Cayenne, the French penal colony in Guinea, better known as Devil's Island, the play takes place in the middle-class, good, intentioned home of Felix Ducotel, an unsuccessful, manager of a general store (winningly played by stage and TV actor Eric Purcell).

As the play begins, everything seems a bit out of sorts for the family Ducotel. First of all, it's 105 degrees on this Christmas Eve, and there is a trio of convicts from the penal colony repairing the Ducotel's roof. It is a time of great stress for the family since a Scrooge-like Uncle Henri, the absentee owner of the general store, is soon to arrive to review the state of the failing shop and inspect the books (which are a mess). 'Twould seem that Papa Felix runs a less than profitable business.

Uncle Henri is played to the bad-guy hilt by Bruce Somerville. Not only is Uncle Henri likely to pull the plug on the business, but doing his doing so will leave Felix, wife Emilie (delightfully portrayed with Gallic flair by Carrie Lund) and their sweet, innocent daughter Marie Louise (spunky actress Audra Yokley) out in the cold... or is that out in the 105 degree heat? And if that weren't enough pauvre, petite Marie Louise is soon to learn that the love of her life, Paul (Greg Logenhagen), has tossed her aside for some

Neils Miller as Angel 1

French pastry living in France. Not exactly the makings of a merry Christmas.

Enter from the sky, like some Greek deus ex machina, my three angels (aka the three convicts of the roof repair job) ready to save the day and the Ducotels from a situation of great stress and financial disaster. Have these three discovered the true spirit of Christmas like real angels? or like the Three Wise Men?

Whatever! The fact is the family's problems are deftly and gracefully swept aside by Joseph (gifted, character actor Niels Miller) and his two "friends." Miller wins the audience with his consummate skills either as an expert super-salesman who could sell ice to Eskimos, a forger extraordinaire, or as the most creative and imaginative book-keeper ever.

Talented Jim Van Valen as Angel Number 2, convicted murderer Jules, captures every bit of the sweet philosophy and loving heart so clearly written into his character. Alfred is Angel Number 3, a spirited and charming younger thief played by Zolen Henderson.

All three actors give an effective mix of criminal attitude combined with worldly wisdom. Each is either wise in economics, psychology, or l'affaires du coeur, including acting as cupids for Mary Louise's dilemma when necessary.

Greg Logenhagen gives a really bright performance as the befuddled, manipulated, ex-fiance Paul. Longenhagen's French-fried accent and mannerisms are a hilarious mish-mash of Peter Sellers' Inspector Clouseau-meets-Charles Boyer on speed. And hats off to Kelly Parker Legarreta in the small feature role of Mme. Parole! She created an entire comedy routine out of a giant ostrich-plumed chapeau. The little-more-than-walk-on role of the Lieutenant was beautifully handled by tall, dark and handsome Mick Taylor.

Much of the play's charm and enjoyment are due to the skillful direction of Artistic Producing Director Robert Cacioppo. Add to that the inventive, close-attention-to-detail,

Center Stage

Marsha Wagner

Away in a Manger -like scenic design by Bruce Bailey and fine costume designs by Roberta Malcolm, and you've got a really first-rate production.

"My Three Angels" is the perfect "eccentric" holiday fare for this season of sugar plums and candy canes. Thank goodness there is a play with some tart/sweet/sour situations! It is a grand respite from the sugary overload we are often served at this time of year. (P.S. I won't tell you how the bad guys get their come-uppance or what role Adolph the reptile plays in all this hilarity.)

Since "My Three Angels" is only playing until Dec. 18th, you'd better hitch up the sleigh lickety-split and slide on down to the Arcade. Better yet, phone the box office at 332-4488 for your reservation to a Christmas present the whole family can enjoy. When you phone, don't forget to tell 'em Marsha sent you.

LET'S TALK REAL ESTATE

MANAGING YOUR PET WHILE YOUR HOUSE IS BEING SHOWN

A family pet often presents a major challenge when a house is being marketed. This is a sensitive issue for a Realtor to communicate to sellers.

Even though he is just "doing his job," a dog's bark will sound ferocious to anyone who is knocking at the door. This is usually a good thing, but when your home is on the market, Realtors will be bringing a lot of strangers to the door. Most Realtors are concerned about the unpredictability of dogs they don't know. When a barking dog greets them, they may not be willing to enter the house unless the owner is at home. If your dog is confined to part of the house, such as a basement, be sure to put up a sign informing people of that fact. Talk with your Realtor about the best way to manage your pet while your house is being shown, and make sure that this information is included in the MLS listing.

Margie specializes in Sanibel, Captiva and Fort Myers real estate. She was named Realtor of the Year by Sanibel and Captiva Assn. of Realtors in 2000 and 2002. # Shedding light on the Calusa

By KAREN NELSON
Special to the Islander

Last Saturday, on a magical sunset cruise, archaeologist Corbett Torrence, M.A., brought to life the lost world of the Calusa Indians. As the sold-out Captiva Cruises' Playtime departed from McCarthy's Marina, Torrence began by talking about man's first arrival in Florida about 12,000 years ago. These early settlements were probably along a shoreline that was 60 to 80 miles further west into the Gulf of Mexico — at that time sea levels were much lower — while much of the Florida interior was dry savannah.

By about 4000 B.C. the sea had risen to its current level, the estuaries had formed and there were settlements on high sand ridges along the shoreline at Horr's Island (by Naples) and Useppa Island. Shell mounds also first began to accumulate and Torrence talked about how the shape of the mounds evolved over time.

As the Playtime headed north along the bay side of the barrier island chain, Torrence pointed out the mounds ridging the islands. The first was the Chadwick Mound at South Seas Resort, where Torrence and Theresa Schober are currently conducting an excavation.

The Playtime reached the cluster of fish houses in the bay beyond Cayo Costa just before sunset, and the engine was switched off. As the boat settled into the water, silence filled the air and a muted sunset spilled soft colors across the sky. Smithsonian Institution anthropologist Frank Hamilton Cushing published an account of his exploration of these waters in the 1890s.

Torrence explained that Cushing had spent two days touring Pine Island Sound and exploring the silent mounds. At sunset on the second day, Cushing was heading back to his base after visiting Galt Island. As he was passing through the area where the fish houses now stand, he witnessed an extraordinary scene.

Torrence read from Cushing's published description of dolphins herding a school of fish onto the oyster bar shoals. The thrashing fish, trapped in the shallow water, were easy prey for the dolphins as well as for the birds, wheeling and diving into the water. Cushing went on to explain how easy it was to picture the Calusa using similar technology to harvest the bounty of the estuary. Fishing nets found at Useppa, made from cabbage palm fibers, date to 4000 B.C., as do the oldest fish weirs in North America, which have been found in Maine.

Torrence pointed to the mounds on the barrier islands to the west, on Pine Island and the smaller mangrove islands. Spanish accounts from the 1500s note that the mounds gleamed: the Calusa kept the mounds clear of vegetation. In the evening, one would have seen the smoke coming from the villages at the top of the mounds.

As the sun quietly went down, a lone dolphin surfaced in the path of light. "Cushing lived in a world where diet was still seasonal," explained Torrence. "It would have been easier to step back to the Calusa world... These subtropical seagrass meadows are one of the most productive environments in the world, and these estuaries played a large part in the success of the Calusa."

Shell mounds

Archaeologists disagree on the degree of intention involved in building the shell mounds. Some believe that they are simply kitchen middens: accumulated shells, fish bones and garbage tossed out at the end of each meal. Torrence said that he challenges anyone to name a culture that lives in their garbage. He believes that the mounds were deliberately shaped by the Calusa. "Are they mound builders? Of course, they are. They built burial mounds of sand. Cushing clearly describes a sand burial mound with a circular ramp."

PLEASE WATCH FOR MANATEES

You can help:

- Wear polarized sunglasses.
- Stay in deep water channels. Avoid running your motor over seagrass beds.
- Look for the manatee's snout, back, tail, or flipper in the water. A swirl or flat spot signals a manatee may be swimming below.
- Watch for posted speed zone and sanctuary sign.
- Don't discard fishing line, hooks, or trash into the water.
- Look but don't touch. Resist the urge to feed manatees or give them water.
- Call 1-800-DIAL-FMP or use VHF Channel 16 if you spot an injured manatee.

Trust Company inspires trust

By LAURA NICKERSON
lnickerson@breeze newspapers.com

The Sanibel Captiva Trust Company is thriving under Al Hanser's direction. Recently, the island-based firm was named Lee County's most outstanding small business at Gulf Shore Life's Philanthropists of the Year Awards.

Held at the Hyatt Regency Coconut Grove in Bonita Springs on Tuesday, Nov. 15, the awards acknowledged philanthropic luminaries in both Lee and Collier Counties.

In an interview early this week Hanser said, as he has before, "After retiring to Sanibel from the same type of money management business in Minneapolis, and driving my wife Sally crazy by cleaning the garage for the hundredth time, I looked around and realized Sanibel was lacking two things," he joked. "A car wash, and a trust company. Well, I know nothing about car washes."

Hanser had spent a year looking around the island, meeting people and assessing business and personal needs. He made friends, and heard often the complaints of people with more than ample monetary worth who regretted having to have their money managed by machines in far-away cities, where no human voice ever answered the phone.

"I gathered together a group of high-powered retired executives with similar sensibilities and together we built a company to service the needs of those with high net worth. Now we are like a surrogate family for many islanders. We do use highly automated electronic systems, and we are committed to preserving the capital of our clients, maintaining their lifestyles in the manner to which they have become accustomed, and if we can make their money grow... great."

"But by the same token," he continued, "we have phenomenally wealthy clients who might come in to say 'Al, I have about $20 in my checking account, can you get me some money?' We take care of everything for them, and keep their money invested wisely with no risk. Besides just conversation when meeting around the office and the island, we talk to our clients officially at least 10 times yearly, and provide quarterly reviews. We also take the responsibility of confidentiality very seriously."

The business, which began three years ago has grown annually. "We've been blessed, we really have," Hanser said, "but on a business level, we need to have even more of a presence that makes a difference, need to continue to be part of the community. When our directors make donations to various causes, we all do so in the name of the Trust Company. We want to be a part of the fabric of the community, and we especially enjoy sponsoring major island events. We will continue to find ways to make a difference."

It was Sanibel Trust Company, and Hanser in particular, who got the ball rolling last year when a Boh Brothers employee Kent Crappell lost his life. When his crane accidentally broke, Crappell attempted to prevent vehicles crossing the Causeway from driving into harm's way, causing the crane to topple on himself. Hanser initiated a memorial fund for his widow.

On a personal level, Hanser also says he simply wants to make a difference. "My father was a doctor, he was very service oriented. I was one of four children. Once a year, he would match whatever funds we had raised or saved and we would name the cause or charity that we wished to aid. It taught all us kids the joy of giving philanthropically. My wife Sally is the same way. She is a volunteer for Hospice, and also does event planning for fundraisers on the island."

Al Hanser combines good business practice with community service.

Hanser recently volunteered to do the City of Sanibel's Five Year Budget Plan. "I did it to better understand what makes Sanibel tick and I found all of it, the road construction, the bike paths, the Rec Center and more, totally fascinating," he said.

Regarding the future, he thinks the island is and will continue to be facing some real challenges. "We need a vibrant business community here," he said, and right now it is somewhat unhealthy. I think the level of accommodations must come up to meet the price asked, and in order to do that, codes must be somewhat relaxed for existing businesses which will provide incentives for them to upgrade. We need to create an environment where business can thrive, give a little more leeway and flexibility."

Hanser had high praise for the Sanibel City Manager. "Judie Zimomra is a giant," he said, "We should be bowing to her, she's that good."

Sanibel Captiva Trust Company has its share of top-notch financial wizards; Terry Igo, who last year raised over a million dollars for the Sanibel School Fund; Richard Pyle, whose special area of concern is the Bailey Matthews Shell Museum, and Donald Lesch, whose efforts benefit the J. N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Refuge, and several others.

It's not difficult to see why this high-powered money management firm, operating with traditional small town values continues to win both public praise, and the personal trust of islanders.

Beachview Men's Golf Association

By Ed O'Neill

Now that we know how you will have your turkey — large and frequently — that leaves just one question: How will you have your Stableford?

At Beachview that was the question even for people who can't tell their Stableford from their garage door opener. Wrapped around turkey day, the Beachview Men's Golf Association played two forms of the Stableford point game... modified and very modified. You've seen the PGA Tour run this even once a year... the International at Castle Rock.

Under the very modified system you get points for everything from a net bogie to remembering where you parked. On Nov. 22 Barry Humphries, Rene Lohser and Mark Ryan (with the help of an anonymous blind draw partner) rolled up an impressive 72 point total in nine holes.

That's the equivalent of a net par for everybody on every hole. Not bad for the wind tunnel conditions the day presented.

Al Krause, Bob Myers and Bud Ristow finished second with 67 points... a winning score on many days.

The "other" Stableford — just plain modified — was the event on Nov. 26. Whether it was the tougher standards or too much turkey was not revealed, but the scores went up.

This format gives you a point only for a net par and then up a sliding scale.

It didn't matter too much to Mark Ryan, again on the winning team. This time his cohorts were Jerry Khmescher, Dave Bugby and Bill Blankenship. They racked up 94 points in the 18-hole event.

Ken Gillett, Ken Steele, Rob Cutler and Dick Grant finished second with 85 points.

Beachview Women's Golf Association

By Bea Maggio

Despite the pressure of getting the turkey stuffed, the yams baked and the pies put together for tomorrow's Thanksgiving feast, the intrepid members of the Beachview Women's Golf Association took to the links on Wednesday, November 23rd to hit that little ball down the fairway. The event for the day was a low gross, low net and fewest putts competition.

In the 18 hole division low gross competition there was a tie. In a match of cards, first place went to Cecilia Olsson and second place to Diana Metz both of whom shot a 101. Terry Lohser took the low net prize with a 68 while newcomer Sally Parsons placed second with a 73. Nancy Carlile had a steady grip on her putter to claim first place in low putts with a 29.

Among the 9 hole group, low gross went to newcomer Debbie Smith with a 51 while second place was taken by veteran Betty Puff with just 3 more swings of the club for a 54. Kathy Krause took the honors in low net with a 35 just 4 strokes better than Linnea Sadd who carded a 39.

Fewest putts honors went to Marilyn Klepacki who had a hot putter for only 14 strokes.

Giattinis join Parks Trust board

Marc and Cheryl Giattini of Sanibel have been named to the board of the South Florida National Parks Trust for four-year terms, Trust Chairman Robert E. Chisholm announced this week.

The Giattinis have been active in a number of philanthropic causes on both Sanibel and Captiva, including the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Society and the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation.

Cheryl is an attorney and consultant with more than 20 years of experience working with business clients and non-profit organizations. A graduate of Georgetown University Law Center, she has worked as an independent consultant since 1991 providing public relations, marketing and event-management services. She has worked with the Conservation Foundation as a volunteer and consultant on three land acquisition campaigns, has participated in the growth of the Marine Lab and founded the Foundation's Legacy Program.

Marc is an attorney and businessman who, over more than two decades, founded, owned and operated a number of business ventures including a partnership based in Lisbon, Portugal that represented American companies in Western Europe. He is one of the founding partners in the Bethesda, Maryland biotechnology firm, Correlologic Systems, Inc., the owner of EuroWindows, Inc. of Cascais, Portugal, and EuroAmerican Technologies, Inc., a distributor of advanced technologies in the waste, energy, construction materials and security industries. He was instrumental in the hard-surfacing of the refuge's Wildlife Drive a number of years ago.

The Giattinis are founding supporters of Gulfshore Ballet, Southwest Florida's only non-profit classical ballet school. Marc is vice-president of the board of directors of the Wildlife Society and has served on the Public Broadcasting Advisory Board of WFCU, Southwest Florida's public broadcasting facility. Cheryl serves on the board of directors of the Community Foundation of Sanibel-Captiva.

The Trust was established in 2002 to improve the quality of life in South Florida by supporting the region's three national parks — Everglades, Biscayne and Dry Tortugas in the Florida Keys. The Trust has provided more than $1 million in support of visitor services, education, community outreach and volunteer activities at the three parks since its inception.

It operates as a local branch of the National Park Foundation, the official partner of America's National Parks. For more information, visit the Trust's website at www.nationalparks.org/southflorida.

Adopt-A-Class at Shell Museum

The Bailey-Matthews Shell Museum on Sanibel Island is starting its eighth academic year of offering fully-funded environmental education trips to the Shell Museum for Lee County public school students. The program benefits more than 2,000 schoolchildren from October through May, most of whom are fourth graders.

"The Shell Museum provides the best and most professional field trip experience available for Lee County," says teacher Toma Trombetti of Hancock Creek Elementary School in North Fort Myers.

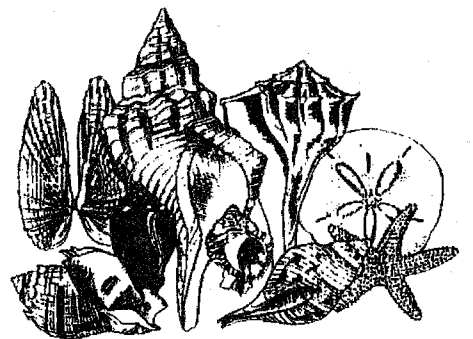

"Unfortunately, transportation costs have soared," reports Shell Museum group tour and education coordinator Anna Marie Nyquist. "So we are happy to announce that people are now 'sponsoring' individual class field trips. The 2005-2006 academic year marks the start of the third season of the Adopt-A-Class campaign. The Shell Museum can no longer underwrite the large number of classes that would like to visit, and an Adopt-A-Class donation of $195 helps defray costs."

Shell Museum volunteer education docent Ginny Avery and her husband, Bruce, live on Sanibel and sponsor several classes every year. Their grown children, who live up north, also sponsor classes. In addition, Mrs. Avery takes photographs of all "adopted" classes and their sponsors (if the sponsors are able to visit with their class), to give as a memento. She mails class photographs to out-of-town sponsors.

"I loved receiving an adorable photo of 'my' class," says Sanibel resident and Adopt-A-Class sponsor Virginia Fleming, a former Shell Museum board member. "I was unable to attend with the class and I thought it was so gracious of the Shell Museum to send me a photograph of their visit. It's a terrific program."

For further information about the Adopt-A-Class program or to donate using a credit card, please call the museum at 239-395-2233 or 888-679-6450. Adopt-A-Class donations may be sent to The Bailey-Matthews Shell Museum, P.O. Box 1580, Sanibel FL 33957.

Red Tide — another perspective

By ELIZABETH ANDREWS
Special to the Islander

The overwhelming smell of the red tide is gone, and the dead fish no longer lie on the beaches, but the effect on tourism could linger for quite a while.

This year, during the summer months and especially the last week of September, Sanibel and Captiva Islands experienced what many experts call the worst red tide ever, causing a number of guests to check out of their hotels and go home.

"This is definitely the most severe it's ever been," Steve Greenstein, executive director of the Sanibel and Captiva Islands Chamber of Commerce, said. "In the past it's been concentrated on smaller fish, but this year the dead fish were up to 30 pounds."

Gulf Breeze Cottages, was booked solid during the height of the red tide, according to owner Sandi Hutchings. She said she called all 11 of her reserved guests to inform them about how bad it was, but only two cancelled.

"One woman started to cry on the phone," Hutchings said. "She was so grateful that I called to make her aware of the situation."

Of the nine guests who decided to keep their reservations, six left soon after they arrived.

"They were horrified by the smell and the sight of all the dead fish," Hutchings said.

Greenstein received a number of questions from people staying on the island that wanted to get away from the awful smell of the beaches.

"Their initial reaction was to check out and go elsewhere," Greenstein said. "But we tried to encourage them to explore other things on the island."

Guests who decided to stay had the option of going to the islands' shops and restaurants, to the J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge or to the outlet mall in Fort Myers.

"Not everybody gets hurt," Greenstein said of the effects of red tide on the indoor activities on the island. "One man's red tide is another man's opportunity."

Restaurants on the islands are most affected by the day-trippers, such as people who might come from Orlando or Tampa for a weekend visit.

"People coming just for the weekend say, 'well let's not go to the beaches [because of the red tide], let's go to Disney World,'" said Matt Asen, owner of the Timbers Restaurant and Fish Market.

Asen, who assures his customers that none of the seafood his restaurant buys is from affected areas, said people's perception of what red tide does is much more important than the reality.

Red tide is a naturally occurring phenomenon caused by the single-cell organisms Karenia brevis, or K. brevis, which produces a toxin. When it blooms, it can kill large numbers of fish, contaminate shellfish and release toxins in the air that can cause respiratory problems in humans.

Right now, the beaches on Sanibel are clean, and the air is clear, but tourists are still concerned.

"People are more knowledgeable about the red tide," said Jay Halcrow, director of sales and marketing for the West Wind Inn. "They will call and ask if we have it. If we do, they won't come... it's not something we can hide."

Greenstein is less concerned about the short-term effects of the cancellations than he is about how word of mouth will affect repeat visits in the future.

"It's easy to count the number of dead fish, but it's really hard to count the number of tourists who won't be coming back," he said.

Hutchings said that she was still feeling the effects of the red tide from weeks ago, and she was shocked to have people call and inquire about keeping their reservations for next year.

"One woman that called me read an article in The New York Times about the red tide, and she was actually suggesting to me that she should cancel her two-week reservation in March," Hutchings said.

For now, the West Wind Inn offers their guests a memo full of information about red tide, and Gulf Breeze Cottages will continue to keep their guests informed and up to date. But as far as the future of red tide, it's unpredictable.

Greenstein said he is unsure of how this year's red tide will continue to affect tourism, but he believes although some of the first-time visitors may not come back, most of the core tourist season traffic will be here.

Hutchings, who is confident that her guests will return, is tired of hearing about the red tide. It is over for now, she said, and there is no way in the world anyone can predict when it will come back.

"Let's focus on beautiful Sanibel," she said. "The beaches, the weather and the culture."

Her parents, Chuck and Kimberley Andrews work at Remax of the Islands on Sanibel.

"I have always had a close connection to Sanibel and Captiva," said Andrews. "I stayed on Sanibel for a weekend in September when the red tide was at its worst. When I received an assignment in my writing for mass communication class to write an environmental or health story, I decided to write about the red tide because it hits close to home."

Riding Out Wilma

By Joseph Pacheco

I

Eleven o'clock.
Category two.

The reds, yellows and greens
Of Wilma's eyes glare
From the motel room TV screen:
Wilma spirals and spins —
Landfall in five hours.

Under the mock moons
Of the parking lot lamps
The pool glimmers eerie green.
A mad-dog couple frolics in the Jacuzzi.

II

One o'clock.
Category three.

Cone of uncertainty
Grows more certain
Of the Mad TV rerun.

Outside the eye
Wilma's advance gusts
Rattle the pool and motel signs.
Sleep is difficult;
Waiting — slow madness.

III

Four o'clock.
Category four.

The wake and wait is on,
Wilma howls horribly,
Hurling horizontal rain,
Shingles and debris
Through the helpless air,
The mad sea of pool rages
Then disappears into darkness
As the power failure begins.

In the unconditioned darkness
The battery radio and flashlight
Connect us to the world and each other
But not to the evacuated home
Where the backups beep to no one.

IV

Five o'clock.
Final burst of Category Three.
Wilma locomotors and thunders,
Body parts of buildings and trees
Collide and explode
With deafening nearness.

Five thirty.
Category two.

Wilma weakens to tropical,
Then gale force
And finally random gusts.

Flashlights lighting our way,
We emerge from the musty cocoon
Of motel room, descend to the lobby
Where the untouched and grateful
Riders of the storm will help us wait
For the return of light and power.

The Austin Lounge Lizards In Concert

On Saturday, Nov. 26, The Austin Lounge Lizards slithered into Schein Hall and presented a satirical folk, country, western and bluegrass concert that lampooned and poked fun at religion, love, politics and health care, including, "Teenage immigrants and welfare mothers on drugs."

Sponsored by the law firm of Henderson, Franklin, Starnes and Holt, the Lizards, who are celebrating 25 years of presenting their brand of musical satire, featured: Conrad Deisler on guitar, Korey Simeone on fiddle and mandolin, Tom Pittman on banjo, dobro and pedal steel guitar, Hank Card on rhythm guitar and Boo Resnick on electric bass.

Impressive is not only their 25 years of existence, but also their output of nine CDs and their commission by Consumers Union to compose the music for, "The Tower," a TV animation designed to educate consumers about the consolidation and monopolization of big media. There are not many musical groups who can boast their longevity and accomplishments.

Presently based in Austin Texas, it all started when Hank Card and Conrad Deisler met while history majors at Princeton University and teamed-up to collaborate on song writing. They both moved on to the University of Texas Law School and later hooked up with Tom Pittman, (philosophy degree from the University of Georgia), Boo Resnick, (history degree from the University of Michigan) and later, Korey Simeone, from Idaho who was a member of the "Asylum Street Spankers."

Chameleons, instead of ordinary Lizards, would be more descriptive of their presentation, as they easily slide and change musical colors between various idioms, including yodeling and German Hip Hop.

The group opened the program with, "Hey, Little Minivan," an uptempo ditty extolling the pleasures and virtues of one of America's favorite automobiles: "she's got her headlights on both night and day, she's the most practical value in the USA... on icy mornings when I'm feeling my age, I'm protected and warm in my steel cage."

During the almost two hour concert, The Lizards presented 25 songs including, "Rasputin's HMO," a minor tonality composition satirizing managed care; a country/western, "We Always Fight When We Drink Gin;" and "Buenos Dias, Budweiser," a "trilingual ode to heart-break and beer."

A spoof of the pharmaceutical industry was heard in the clever, "The Drugs I Need," and critiques of religious tolerance were highlighted in, "The One True God," and "Jesus Loves Me" (But He Can't Stand You.)

"Hillbillies In A Haunted House" contained the humorous lyric, "... "I don't care if you're half-dead, come with me, back to bed. If we're gonna increase our population, we better get started with our copulation."

Music Notes

Harold Lieberman

The Austin Lounge Lizards have a unique, informal, Texas "y'all" musical style and visual (very baggy pants and gaudy shirts) presentation. The full house showed their appreciation with a standing ovation. Unfortunately, the amplification was not as clear as I've heard in past similar type vocal and instrumental concerts (Four Freshmen, Manhattan Rhythm Kings) and at times, difficult to clearly hear some of the words. Obviously however, after 25 years of producing social and politically humorous songs, many fans have been cultivated and they were in abundance at this concert.

The Lizards responded by presenting two encores, the names of the songs I could not grasp. The first, a mournful western song reminiscent of an "Angel Band" — musicians who, in the 1800s, would serenade a dying cowboy at bedside to make easier his trip to heaven. Their last encore was a departure from the previous instrumental timbre but instead, an acapella rendition of a poignant folk-type song.

Bradley's Fine Jewelers introduces 'The Sea Reel Life'

By NANCY SANTEUSANIO
Special to The Islander

Bradley's Fine Jewelers located at 20351 Summerlin Road just off the Sanibel Causeway in Fort Myers, is owned and managed by Brad and Colbi Congress. From the time of their opening in June 2003, they have concentrated on selecting high quality jewelry by individual designers, presented in a broad price range. Brad is a certified gemologist, a graduate gemologist, appraiser and designer and Colbi lends her sharp "designer eye."

In making their selections, quality is always paramount. Their typical client is one with an open mind, looking for something distinctive, but yet not untouchable in price.

The shop resembles a European boutique where people can feel comfortable whether they are shopping, browsing or just coming in to ask a question. "We are not just any one thing. We are a custom designer, a gift shop and also we do expert jewelry and watch repair," explain Brad and Colbi.

The shop itself is bright and glowing and the high ceiling with its lighting and multi-colored, magnificent chandelier adds to its appeal. On some of the walls hang paintings by world class artists including the work of German artist and rockstar, Alfred Gockl.

On an adjacent wall hangs the work of Charles Lee combining classic and modern art to create "a European romance" or vignette of a happy part of life.

"The way things used to be" is the shop's logo presented subtly in a delectable chocolate coin wrapped in cobalt blue paper with the logo on one side of the coin and Bradley's on the other. Matching gift wraps and satin jewelry pouches add to the "pampering" touch and often unhurried shoppers are served a complimentary scoop of their famous "Chocolate Pasha" ice cream featured in the October 2005 issue of "Grandeur" magazine. "We encourage people to take their time and to enjoy their shopping experience."

About three years ago Brad and Colbi started thinking seriously about the urgency of preserving the Earth and helping others take on a greater responsibility for environmental needs. At the same time, they wanted to develop a strong message and mission statement.

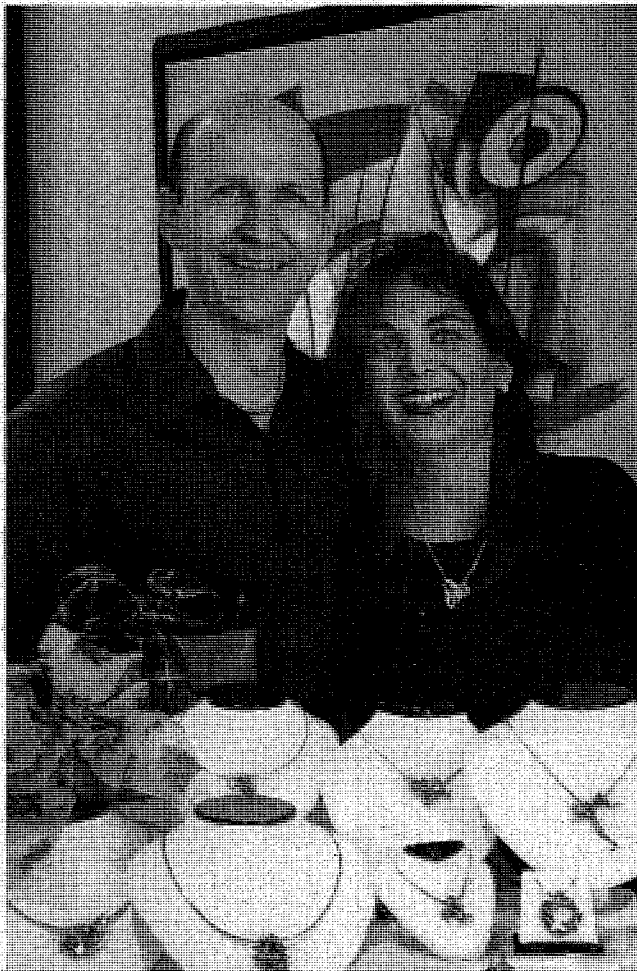

After they had spent time and received some help from other environmentally concerned local groups, they selected, "We believe just one little voice can make waves."

Brad used his imaginative talents to become the architect of "The Sea Reel Life" and to have it ready for its formal, nationwide launching in 2006. Colbi, its advertising guru, states clearly and simply, "We pride ourselves on our advertising. It's our vision and a reflection of our personalities." Bold, strong and dynamic advertising with a flair for inventiveness describe the style with which they showcase their shop and now introduce "The Next Wave of Fine Island Jewelry" called "The Sea Reel Life" by Bradley's.

"The Sea Reel Life" is an island-themed cast of 31 different characters with names and personalities who have connections with one another. Brad and Colbi have put together a team to interpret Brad's original drawings and written personality descriptions. "We are not cartoonists and we wrote down the personality descriptions and crafted the way we wanted the characters to look. We have made them unique to ourselves." Famed cartoonists Dave and Lee Horton are an integral part of the team. They have been ters concerning the earth, sea and sky and conversing with Luna and Twinkle. "The Sea Reel Life" jewelry is unlike any other in the industry as it highlights each character's distinctive personality, uniqueness and magnetic appeal.

The best way to get to know the characters is to visit Bradley's and meet the gang. Another way is by reading their stories on line at SeaReelLife.com. Brad and Colbi have created each story and character with one common environmental theme: "We believe just one little voice can make waves."

This Eco pledge, already taken by so many people, is a commitment to the preservation of the environment in today's world and a portion of the proceeds from "Sea Reel Life" are being donated to CROW as one of its first recipients. Each character is presented in its own individual box with its story and, of course, the Eco pledge. Gift wrapped by Bradley's in their inimitable style, this is not only a pendant to be worn, possibly on a gold chain or bracelet, but more importantly, a visible reminder of one's pledge to the Earth. Whether six, 16 or 66, its appeal is universal especially with the stark realization that more and more species are now on the endangered species list. In 2006, the

Among the 31 characters are "Phil Frog," "Marv the Manatee," and "Karen the Chameleon." Phil Frog is very busy in the morning as a camp counselor at Squid Camp. In the evening he works at the Seaweed Shack serving up his famous rock lobster shooters, and late at night he darts out into the black of the night as "Eco Agent Phil Frog, First Class."

CALUSA

The shape of the shell mounds evolved over time. The earliest were crescent-shaped, with a sand burial mound in the middle. By the first century A.D., they had become long, linear mounds. After 800, important sites were dominated by two large mound complexes fronting the shoreline. These two large mounds were separated by a canal and there were smaller mounds and water courts spreading out behind them. Torrence believes that mound-building reached its peak between 800 and 1200 A.D., with Calusa culture reaching its pinnacle by 1200. That high level was sustained for several hundred years.

When the Spanish arrived in Southwest Florida in the 1500s, the Calusa dominated south Florida and steadfastly resisted Spanish intrusion. By 1760, decimated by European-introduced diseases and driven from their homeland by gun-bearing slave-traders, the Calusa had disappeared from Florida.

Corbett Torrence and Theresa Schober are co-directors of The Mound House on Fort Myers Beach. Torrence has been studying the Calusa of southwest Florida since the 1980s and he has worked at most of the important Calusa sites in the area.

Rileys to sign books at MacIntosh Books and Paper

Conservationists William and Laura Riley, authors of the award-winning "Nature's Strongholds: The World's Great Wildlife Reserves" will be at MacIntosh Books and Paper for a book signing on Friday, Dec. 2 beginning at 1 p.m.

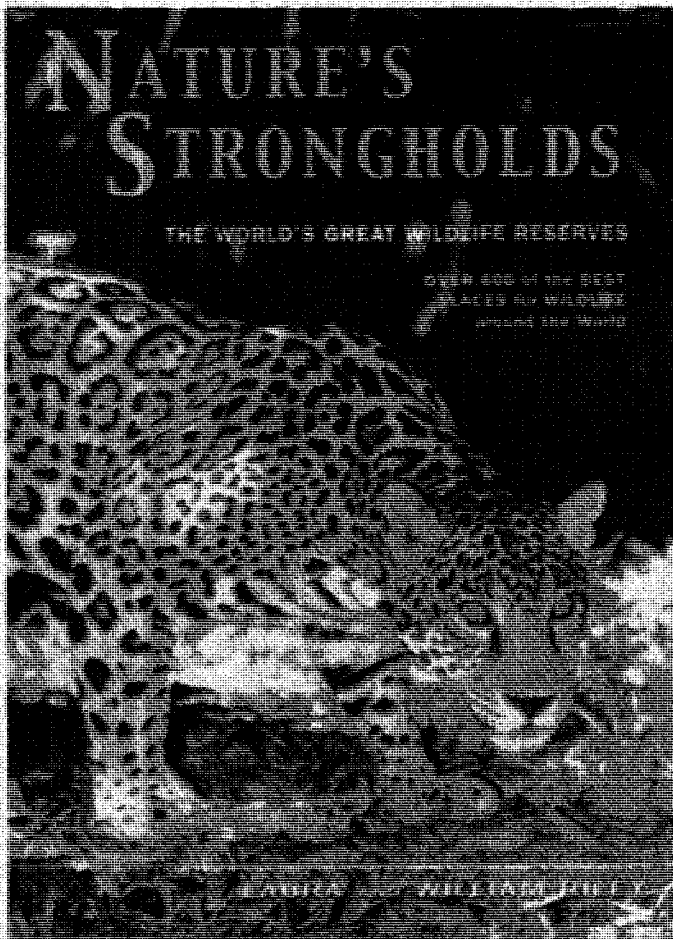

Nature's Strongholds is a recipient of two prestigious awards: The Society of American Travel Writers' Lowell Thomas Award for one of the three best travel books published in 2004-2005, and a citation by the National Outdoor Book Awards for 2005.

"This 672-page tome is a guide to some of the wildest, most wildlife-filled places on earth, according to the National Outdoor Book Awards jury. 'It was a massive undertaking, but writers and conservationists Laura and William Riley were up to the task and brought it off with aplomb.'"

The book covers more than 600 reserves around the world, including the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Reserve on Sanibel. The Rileys worked on the book for ten years, traveling the world and photographing wildlife. More than 150 color photos are included in the book.

Part-time Captiva residents, the Rileys are well-known nature writers and photographers. Their previously published Guide to the [U.S.] National Wildlife Refuges was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize.

Calusa Nature Center offers unique gifts for the holidays

from press release

Looking for an unusual gift for that special someone? The Calusa Nature Center is again offering a living cocoon of a native moth suspended in a bell ornament.

The cocoon is expected to hatch during the holiday season. This year, there are two varieties available: the luna moth and the polyphemus moth.

The luna moth is a beautiful large light-green moth with a three- to five-inch wingspan and a large sweeping scissortail. The polyphemus moth, named after the one-eyed giant of Greek mythology, is similar in size to the luna and has a large, oval, transparent eyespot edged with yellow, blue and black on each wing. Both moths lack mouthparts in the adult stage, so they do not eat or drink once they hatch from their cocoon. Since they subsist only on energy stored during the caterpillar stage, both of these moths live for only about a week.

Each moth ornament comes with instructions for care and information about the particular moth species. These living ornaments are on sale for $7.95 each in the Nature Center's gift store. Only limited quantities are available. Call 275-3435 to prepay for your order.

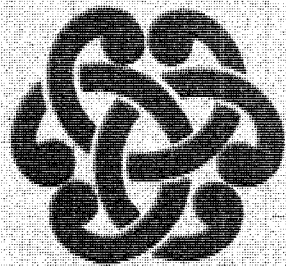

Voted Best Nature Center in Florida for 2004 by the readers of Florida Monthly magazine, the museum, aviaries and trails are open Monday-Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Join Volunteer Docent Norm DeWolfe every Tuesday and Friday at 9:30 a.m. for a guided walk of the Cypress Swamp Boardwalk. He has been leading the walk for years and is one of the best interpreters of the swamp.

The Living Natural History Museum has more than 100 live animals including a skunk, bobcat, raccoon, butterfly aviary and native plant nursery, an Audubon aviary and a planetarium which features astronomy programs and laser light shows.

The center, 3450 Ortiz Avenue at the intersection of Colonial Blvd. and Six Mile Cypress is one minute from I-75 at Exit 136. Additional information is available at www.CalusaNature.com or by calling 275-3435.

Admission to the Calusa Nature Center and Planetarium is $8 for adults and $5 for children ages 3-12. This one-price admission includes the museum, butterfly aviary, trails and all planetarium shows scheduled that day.

BIG ARTS annual Arts & Crafts Fair

The arts and crafts fair at BIG ARTS last Friday and Saturday was quite a success from all early indications. It was well attended and many of the exhibitors said they thought there were slightly more visitors than last year. This estimate was echoed by staff at BIG ARTS, although accurate numbers were not available at this writing.

The booth layout, patterned after last year's was popular with artists and visitors alike, offering quieter and more intimate venues, instead of long corridors of displays.

The event continues to grow in popularity and this year, there were seven more exhibitors than last year.

UUs explore poverty in an affluent world

The Unitarian Universalists of the Islands invite all interested members of the community and visitors to explore this provocative topic throughout the winter months. The group meets at 7:30 pm on the first Sunday of each month at the Sanibel Congregational United Church of Christ on Periwinkle. Each meeting will focus on a different issue of poverty and will feature a speaker who is involved in a grass roots organization operating here in Lee County. One of the goals of the program is to seek personal action steps to resolve the problem of poverty in our affluent community. The topic of local homelessness will be the issue explored on December 4.

Mr. Robert Stryker, the Coordinator of the Lee County Homeless Coalition, will be the speaker. Mr. Stryker began working as Coordinator in September 2005.

Prior to coming to work for the Department of Human Services, Mr. Stryker worked as the Supervisor of Outpatient Substance Abuse Services for the David Lawrence Center in Naples. Mr. Stryker's professional career has been focused on mental health, substance abuse, homelessness, and housing issues for over ten years. The Lee County Homeless Coalition has been under the umbrella of the Department of Human Services since January, 2005. The Coalition currently has 40 members, consisting of local social service providers, businesses, and private citizens. We will learn about its plans to deal with the issue of homelessness in Lee County.

Questions about this gathering of the Unitarian Universalists of the Islands can be directed to Virginia Jones 395-3112 or uuislands@comcast.net. All members of the community are invited to attend.

December Native Plant of the Month — Dahoon Holly

By LAURA NICKERSON
lnickerson@breezenewspapers.com

Dahoon holly, like all hollies, is one of the species of plants called ilex from the family known as Aquifoliaceae. One of hundreds of ilex varieties, Florida's native dahoon holly is known botanically as ilex cassine. It is an attractive tall shrub or small tree (to 30 feet) with a somewhat narrow growth habit. The branches tilt upwards, and though it will grow in almost any type of clay or sand soil, the tree will attain its best size and shape in swampy conditions.

The dahoon holly tree will tolerate partial shade to full sun, producing shiny, slightly spiny green leaves only slightly reminiscent of its cousin the American Holly which has been used for centuries as Christmas greenery.

What is more similar to that beloved bush are the tiny white flowers maturing into great showy displays of red berries. While the American Holly is not native here, dahoon holly can liven up the fall and winter Florida landscape and the southern holiday home.

It was the Celts who first brought English holly inside their homes and temples for use during religious ceremonies in winter, though the use of the tree for decorating during winter holidays dates to the ancient Roman festival of Saturnalia. Christians only accepted the use of the decorative plant as the red and green of Christmas during the Middle Ages, when legends told of its association with the Crucifixion of Christ. It was then that the name holly-tree or holy-tree came into common usage. Before then, it was known as aquifolia or needle-leaf.

American Indians also cherish holly. It was planted around their settlements for protection and was considered a symbol of eternal life. Holly was one of the earliest plants noted by the Pilgrims in the New World. Dahoon holly was and is used by Florida's Indians as a soap substitute; Seminoles still use the plant medicinally, but the secrets of its usage are not known outside the tribe.

Though it is pleasant to have the dahoon holly's red berries and bright green leaves to look at this season, it is important to remember that the tree in its natural habitat provides food for many species of migrating songbirds and other wildlife. Planting a live dahoon holly on your property may be enough of a nod to ancient holiday customs without being greedy. A single door wreath or mantle spray could enliven your holiday home and be all the pruning your holly needs.

Most ilex varieties, including dahoon holly are dioecious, or separate sex plants. Only the female plants will berry, but there must be a male plant somewhere in the vicinity in order for this to occur.

Bees and giant luna moths carry pollen from the male plant's flowers to the female plant's flowers each spring. Later in the year, the ovaries of the female flowers enlarge, forming the beautiful berries. It only takes one male plant to fertilize 25-35 females. Perhaps this is why hollies have always been a symbol of masculinity and favorable fates.

Freedom Requires an Independent Judiciary

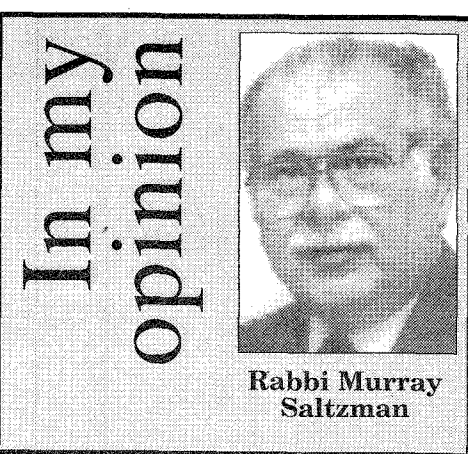

Who shall be the final arbiter of the law - an independent judiciary or the government?

Judge Li Huljuan unwittingly made legal history when she tossed out a law that failed to reflect judicial common sense. The government, in China's closed political system, plans retribution against Judge Li. Her decision placed the court over against the government. In China accepted political practice makes the government, and not the court, the final arbiter of law.

An independent judiciary is the hallmark of a free and democratic society. During the Nazi period in Germany the courts bowed to the political will of Hitler. Germany's freedom was irretrievably lost. Tyranny and demagoguery overwhelmed freedom and democracy.

Every time a United States President nominates a Supreme Court Justice, freedom is similarly, either compromised or reinforced. When the choice for a Justice to sit on our highest court hinges on an individual's allegiance to the political agenda of the current administration then democracy and freedom in America are diminished.

Both political parties are prone to impose on the nation a judge loyal to the political base of the President rather than a resolute devotion to the Constitution. Our founding fathers recognized this dan-

In my opinion

Rabbi Murray Saltzman

ger when they required Senate confirmation of the candidate. But what checks governmental power when both Houses of Congress, in addition to the White House, are in political control by the same party?

China now faces a political crisis. The Communist government's conventional supremacy over an independent judiciary is challenged by Judge Lu's decision setting aside a minor law that makes no judicial sense. Freedom is busting our all over. But the reverse may be happening in the United States.

Let us be wary of the jeopardy to which our nation is exposed by potential political conformity of the judiciary. Recent scandals, reaching to high places in the Administration, equally mischievous as any occurring in the Democratic Administration, emphasize government's penchant for corruption and abuse of power.

The Senate must carefully deliberate: Is the candidate for the Supreme Court seat a statesman or a politician, a judge or a bureaucrat? Will the candidate enhance the reality of an independent judiciary or will political pandering compromise the Court's independence. We must be vigilant of the Senate's confirmation process and its conclusion.

Our liberty is at stake.

Resident shares old island memories

By Laura Nickerson

Sanibel Islander John Powell, a retired cardiologist, was the guest speaker at the Historical Village and Museum's first docent meeting of the season. It was open to the public, and held at the Sanibel Library conference room earlier this month.

The staff at the Village became acquainted with Powell last January, immediately after the old schoolhouse was moved to its new site on the Village grounds from its last incarnation on Periwinkle as the Schoolhouse Theatre.

Powell spoke with Jodi Brown about his collection of historical island photographs dating from the 1930s, when his family first came to the island as winter residents. Brown, recognizing a possible opportunity for residents and visitors to view the never-before seen photos encouraged Powell to give a presentation. Powell promised to come up with something over the summer, and the results are both entertaining and informative.

His phenomenal photo collection and anecdotal style while describing each image added up to an enjoyable morning for docents and others in the audience. His knowledge and deep personal understanding of Sanibel's early days further opened a window on a simple and sometimes difficult life little known by today's residents.

The photographs have been made into slides for the purpose of sharing island history easily while preserving the originals. Powell began his slide show with images of the area around the Island Inn, on West Gulf Drive, and his parents' home, a typical early island beach cottage, which was located five doors east of there. The home was originally built for Samuel Dungan and his wife, but they were only island residents for three years. It seems the ferry ride made her too nervous to be able to travel to and from the island.

Next he showed a series of the early ferries, including "The Best" which was also the oldest and took only six cars at a time; then the later "Islander" which could carry 10 cars. Powell also mentioned the "Rebel" and the "Yankee," two even more recent boats.

Photos of early island mailboats were shown, and Powell remembered that they left Fort Myers between 7:00 and 7:30 each morning, arriving on Sanibel at about 9:30 a.m.

A seat up on top of the cabin of the oldest could take a few passengers; a day ride from Sanibel, at the old Bailey's dock near the Causeway to Captiva (where the Green Flash is now) and back again cost $1.50. Later mail boats had many more seats, still up top and these also were shown. Today there is a plaque where the mailboat used to dock on Sanibel in front of Bailey's first store.

Powell exhibited early pictures of the wooden bridge that used to link Sanibel and Captiva. He shared memories of fishermen with simple bamboo cane poles, dressed to-the-nines to go fishing in jackets and ties; long trousers, socks, shoes, and hats.

He reminisced over "Derby Days" circa 1940. The winner, who caught the most fish, arrived back at the Island Inn for his award and to watch the fiddler crab races. He showed the long veranda, which all rooms opened onto at "the Barracks," an early Island Inn building, and talked about the first Sanibel Shell Fairs being held there. Powell's mother, Geraldine Powell was the Shell Fair chairperson in 1941.

The audience was treated to Powell's version of the Island Inn's Granny Matthews story about her willingness to trade beachfront land for constant dinner customers at the Inn's restaurant.

He showed through photography, where the original Gulf Drive ran between the early homes and the beach, and explained how West Gulf Drive as it is today was first cleared as a fire line.

He brought with him rare pictures of two of the only three buildings that used to stand on the corners of Periwinkle and Tarpon Bay: The island's Black School, still standing on Tarpon Bay across from Bailey's, (it became the home of Ruth and Charlie Carter when the school closed, then a bank and even a shoe store) and the John Bruaw home that is now the two-story structure in the corner of the Olde Sanibel Shoppes. The home of Mrs. Robinson, an early Sanibel schoolteacher, which used to be located where the movie theatre is today was mentioned, but not shown.

Powell talked about a simple, almost primitive style of life, where even though water was everywhere around, water for drinking and bathing was not so easy to come by. Homes had cisterns to gather rain water, which had to be boiled and was most often used for dishes and cooking. These were pictured. The Island Inn had a shallow well that pumped pure sulphur-water smelling like rotten eggs. At Bailey's, fresh water was available to purchase.

He took questions from the animated crowd, and there were many, including one about the old riverboat, the Algiers, which briefly became a residence on the island.

Powell closed by saying, "Though so much has changed, things that are ever-present are Sanibel's beautiful sunsets and its native vegetation."

The Library will present a similar presentation by Powell on Wednesday February 16, at 7:00 p.m. again in the downstairs conference room. The Historical Village is also looking forward to having him speak again while showing additional slides, sometime in the spring. Both events will be open to the public.

Mother, grandmother, sister, friend and mentor, Ede passed away peacefully Nov. 18, 2005 in Fort Myers in the loving arms of her family.

She is survived by her children — Marty, Tom and Rick Stokes, Chrys Webb and Barbara Strickland; by her daughters-in-law — Joni, Dianne and Pat Stokes, and son-in-law — Butch Webb; 11 grandchildren — Rachel, Luke, Jonathan, Alexis and Kelsey Stokes, David and Melissa Webb, Nicholas Strickland, Eric Potts and Mindy Dickman, and four great-grandchildren — all of whom adored her — with another due on her birthday; her sister and brother-in-law — Milbrey and Jack Rushworth; several nieces and nephews and many, many loved and loving friends. She will be greatly missed by all.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Ede's name to the "Ding" Darling Wildlife Society, One Wildlife Drive, Sanibel 33957.

Gladys M. Lamoreaux

Gladys Lamoreaux, a life-long resident of Oxford, Michigan, passed away on August 26, 2005.

Gladys first came to Sanibel in 1963, the year the causeway was built and returned every year for the winter until she died. "She loved to shell, she loved Sanibel, she loved coming to the island and seeing all the friends she made here," her daughter Debbie said. In fact, her enormous 40-year collection of island shells is coming back home to an island collector.

Gladys is survived by her loving daughters, Mary Jo Warnke and her husband, Tim, of Oxford and Debbie Lamoreaux of Fort Myers.

In 1957, Gladys and her sister, Phyllis Van Vleet, bought the Doris K shop in downtown Oxford and, four years later, christened it the Clothes Closet. She owned and operated the store for more than 30 years, making her living dressing others and keeping up with the latest in fashion trends.

Gladys was committed to serving her customers' needs, even if it meant losing a sale. "If it doesn't look right, I tell them in as nice a way as I can," she once said. "I'd rather lose a sale than have someone walk out of my store with something that doesn't look good on her."

Obviously, a more-than-honest businesswoman, in 1986, Gladys was honored by the Oxford Area Chamber of Commerce as Business Person of the Year.

Funeral services were held on August 28 with interment following at the Oxford Township Cemetery.

Sanibel photographe McCullough debuts black & white museum showing

A stunning exhibit of black and-white photography by renowned Sanibel photographer J. Charles McCullough debuts at the Southwest Florida Museum of Science on Friday, Dec. 2.

The exhibit, "Sanibel in Black and White" is a selection of 20 images that highlights the beauty of the world-famous barrier island and its people, places and nature in stark black-and-white contrast.

McCullough has captured dramatic images for seven decades from high school and college through duty in World War II and a career in agriculture and sales sailboats. He resides and works in Sanibel at the 1908 home his grandfather built.

As a photographer, Charl McCullough wants his photos convey a special sense of time and place for his viewers.

"May our photos remind you of fond moments in your life. If you can say, 'I've been there,' I know what he is saying, I too have experienced such special moments."

The exhibit will be at the museum Dec. 2 through Dec. 3. Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sundays, noon to 4 p.m. Tickets are $9.50 adults, $8.00 seniors (65+) and $4 for children ages 3-12. Group rates of $7.50 are available for groups of 10 or more.

Don't miss the opportunity see this compelling exhibit of of our area's most beautiful places.
