Public comment period opens on Blind Pass dredging

From the Captiva Property Owners and Bayous Preservation Associations

Lee County submitted a permit application to dredge Blind Pass and place the beach compatible material on Sanibel and Captiva shorelines. The Florida DEP responded to the application with their questions, which will be answered in early August so the permitting process can move forward.

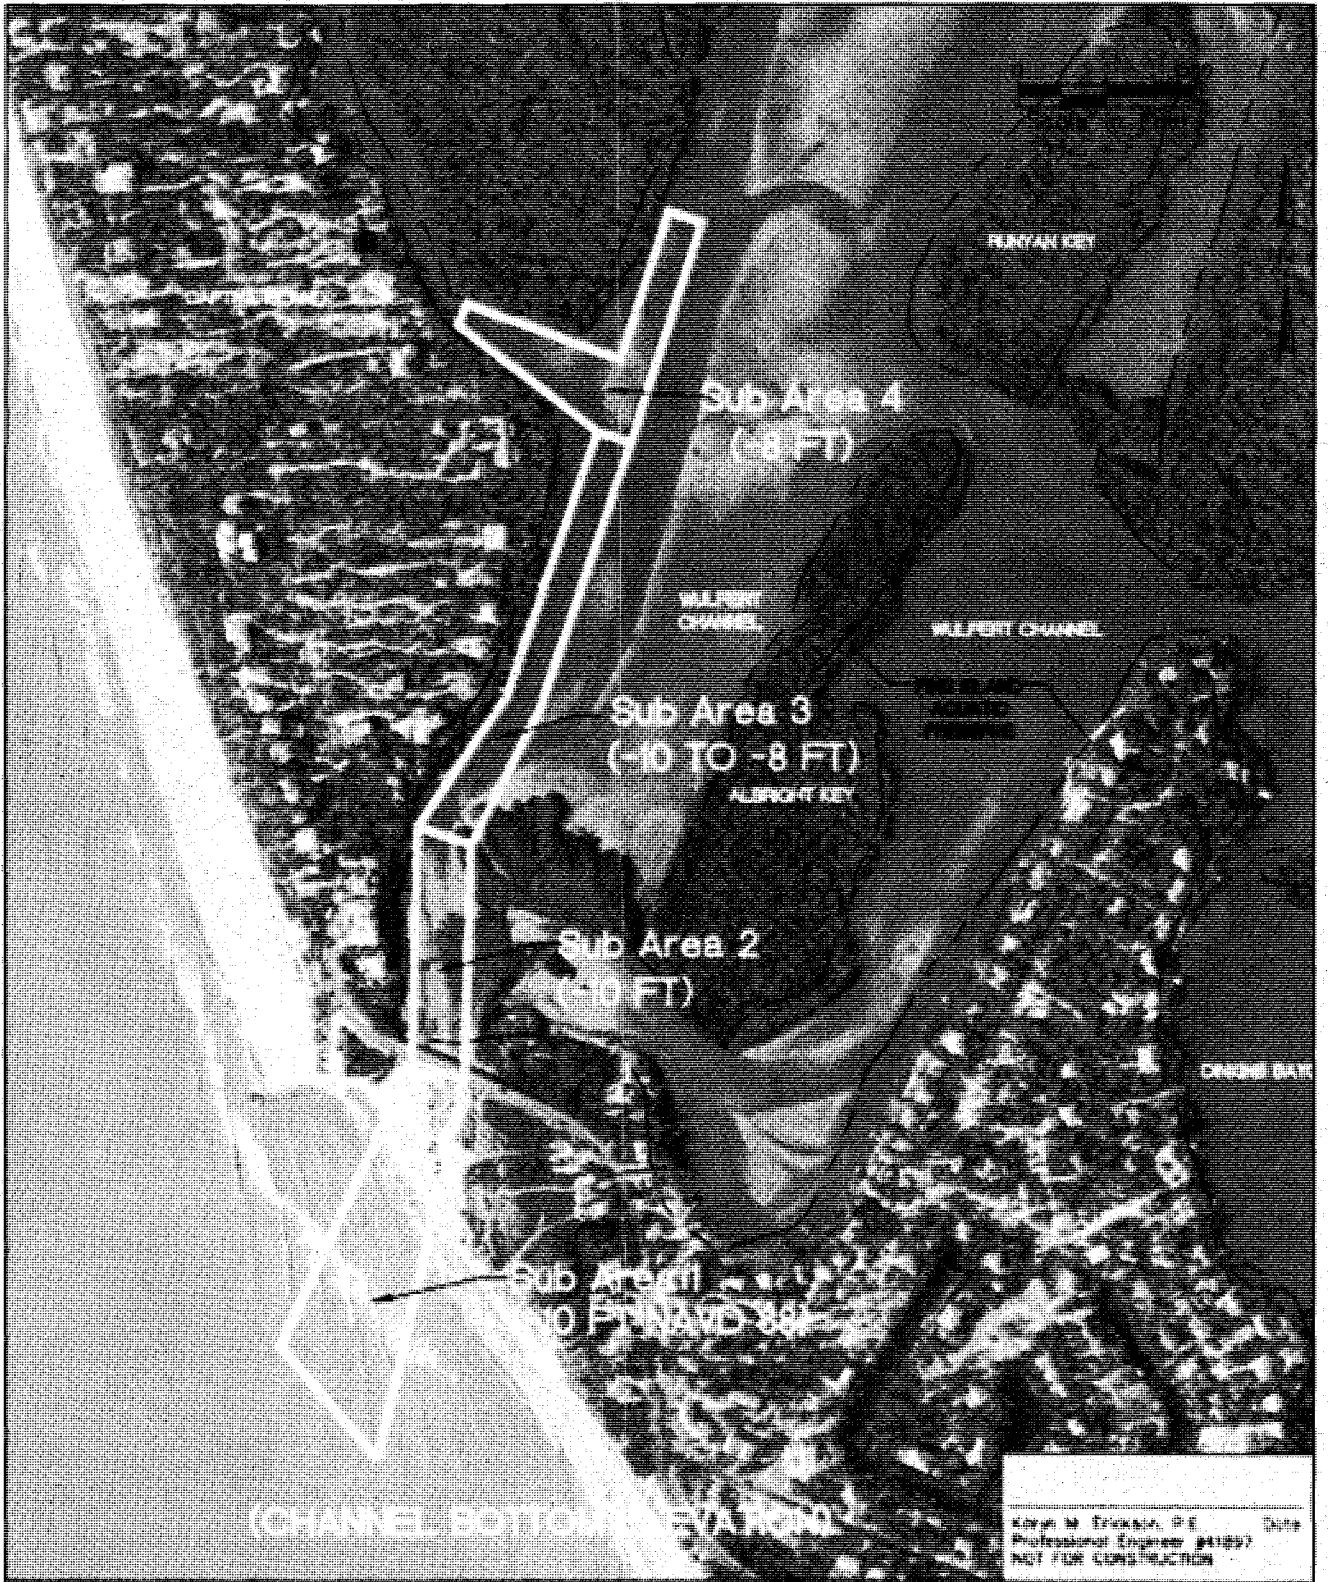

A Notice of Application for an Environmental Resource Permit for the maintenance dredging of Blind Pass will be published the week of July 17, possibly as early as Monday, July 17. The public has 14 days from the date of publication of this notice to comment.

Please send a letter supporting the project to the DEP: they will be counting letters. Encourage your Sanibel and Captiva neighbors and friends — anyone living in the project area — to write a letter.

1. Your letter can be short.
2. It should be addressed to:
Department of Environmental Protection,
Bureau of Beaches and Coastal Systems
3900 Commonwealth Boulevard
Mail Station 300
Tallahassee, Florida 32399-3000
3. It should include:
 - a. SUBJECT: File No. 0265943-001-JC (Opening Blind Pass, Lee County)
 - b. That you live in the project area
 - c. That you support the project (the re-opening of Blind Pass) and urge them to move forward with it.
 - d. Voice the urgency of their approving this project without unnecessary delays so the sand bypassing project at Blind Pass can begin, as scheduled, in January of 2007.
 - e. After your signature, include your name, Sanibel or Captiva address, and phone number.

For more details about the dredging project, go to <http://bcs.dep.state.fl.us/env-prmt/lee/pending/>.

Sanibel mayor leads opposition voiced at Lake O workshop

By EMILIE ALFINO
ealfino@breeze newspapers.com

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers last week presented its "Tentatively Selected Plan" for public comment at a series of three meetings, the second of which took place in downtown Fort Myers on July 12 with about 175 people in attendance.

If the Corps wanted public comment on its proposed new plan, that's what it got — and all of it was negative.

After a slide presentation consisting of complicated flow charts and graphs, Dennis Duke, deputy district engineer for the Corps' South Florida Restoration Project, stood for more than three hours, listening to area elected officials, representatives of various agencies, and citizens tell him why the new plan was unacceptable.

He said the new plan, which caps the level the lake can reach at 17.25 feet, would have kept the lake 1.5 feet to 2 feet lower during last year's rainy season, with far fewer releases of polluted Lake Okeechobee water into estuaries.

The Army's plan is based on studies using the years 1965 through 2000 — a fact for which the Army was much criticized during the public comment period.

Duke got an earful.

Sanibel Mayor Carla Johnston told him the Army's tentative new plan fails to meet even its own goals and objectives. She said it would "send more dirty, nutrient-laden water down the Caloosahatchee River than the biologists say is acceptable, and more than is happening now."

"How can you say that's an improvement?" Johnston asked.

"This is not the plan that does the best for the estuaries," Johnston continued. "You say your objective is to reduce the releases. It's not doing it."

Johnston asked Duke how he could present the proposed new plan "with a straight face."

She outlined what the city of Sanibel wants from the Army Corps with regard to the water releases and said any new schedule must:

- send less water to the estuary, not more;

- allow discretion in the Corps' decision-making to prohibit releases in excess of biologists' acceptable levels;
- be based on current data;
- recognize estuary damage;
- incorporate added water outlets for emergency storage, such as land the South Florida Water Management District owns or leases; and
- incorporate a year-round management technique with multi-directional water releases, to the south, east and west.

"Maybe engineers don't care about sea grasses as much as environmentalists," Johnston said, but she told Duke the loss of the sea grasses "means the fish don't spawn. And if the fish don't spawn, the birds don't have anything to eat. And if the birds don't have anything to eat, the tourists don't have anything to see. And if the tourists don't have anything to see, the real estate brokers don't have any customers."

"So it all comes down to the economy of the whole area," Johnston explained.

Johnston said she believes it's possible to solve this problem but accused the Corps of having "either tunnel vision or just plain acceptance of mediocrity rather than interest in helping both the inland community and the coastal stakeholders solve this problem."

"I'm not sure whether you're listening to these comments," Johnston said. "I rather think that you're enduring the evening, and I can tell by the smile on your face that's true," Johnston told Duke. "You're just waiting for this [meeting] to get over. It's another charade, you'll have the records, you'll have the tapes, and you'll pay no attention. Well, I hope you'll pay attention."

"Is the Corps at the local level just a welfare program for engineers?" Johnston asked.

"Do something. Surprise us."

But she did not sound hopeful.

"There's no point in destroying Southwest Florida, and that's what I see you doing."

Opposition to Army plan universal

Representatives from all interests expressed their disagreement with the Army Corps' proposal. In addition to local elected officials, there were people from the boating, tourism, and hotel industries; as well as representatives of environmental groups and government agencies. All speakers said the same thing: send the excess water south, the way nature intended.

Currently, about 20 percent of Lake Okeechobee's polluted fresh water is sent to the south, according to Duke. About 50 percent is sent west down the Caloosahatchee, and 30 percent goes east down the St. Lucie River.

Mother Nature, on the other hand, sent almost 100 percent of the lake's excess water to the south toward the Everglades.

The plan for dredging seen in relation to the natural resources of Blind Pass.

State of Florida Department of Environmental Protection
Notice of Application

The Department announces receipt of an application for an Environmental Resource Permit (File No. 0265943-001-JC), pursuant to Chapter 373, Florida Statutes, and for authorization to use sovereign submerged lands, pursuant to Chapter 253, Florida Statutes. The applicant is the Lee County Board of County Commissioners, and the proposed activity is located at Blind Pass, Lee County Florida. The proposed activity includes the maintenance dredging of Blind Pass, located between Captiva and Sanibel Islands. Beach compatible material will be placed on adjacent beaches and non-suitable material will be disposed of in an approved manner.

Copies of the application and drawings which describe the work in more detail may be examined during normal working hours at the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Beaches and Wetland Resources, 5050 West Tennessee Street, Building B, Tallahassee, Florida 32304. If you have any questions regarding this application, you may contact Laurie Edwards of the Department, at (850) 414-7796. This information can also be viewed at the Department's Internet Web site at: <http://www.dep.state.fl.us/beaches/permitting/permits.htm>

Comments should be sent to the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Beaches and Coastal Systems, 3900 Commonwealth Boulevard, Mail Station 300, Tallahassee, Florida 32399-3000 within fourteen (14) calendar days of the date of this notice. Please refer to the file number in your response.

Restoring water flow through Blind Pass is one of the most critical environmental challenges facing Captiva. It is the only way to save Buck Key from dying due to stagnant waters. It is crucial to keeping "Ding" Darling healthy. Indeed, almost everything that makes Captiva such a special place — the birds, the fish, the manatees, the dolphins, the otters, and the clean waters — depends upon getting Blind Pass restored.

Red tide

Red Tide conditions as of July 14, 2006

This summary report of current red tide conditions around Florida includes a map of sampling results and regional status reports. Reports are generally updated on Friday afternoon. Additional information, if available, is provided on Tuesday afternoon.

Regional Red Tide summaries

East Region: No Event.

Northwest Region: Water samples collected this week in upper Perdido Bay of Escambia County contained no Karenia brevis. Additional samples, collected last week in St. Joseph Bay (Gulf County) also contained no K. brevis. Check with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Division of Aquaculture for the most up-to-date information regarding shellfish area closures.

Southwest Region:

A bloom of the Florida red tide organism, Karenia brevis, continues to impact the southwest coast from Boca Grande Pass (Lee County) to Seagate (Collier County) with highest concentrations detected in southern Pine Island Sound and San Carlos Bay. Alongshore samples collected in Collier County contained K. brevis concentrations ranging from low to medium between Lely Barefoot Beach and Seagate as well as medium concentrations offshore of Wiggins Pass. Additional offshore samples detected background concentrations as far south as Marco Island. Multiple fish kill reports have been received from Lee and Collier counties.

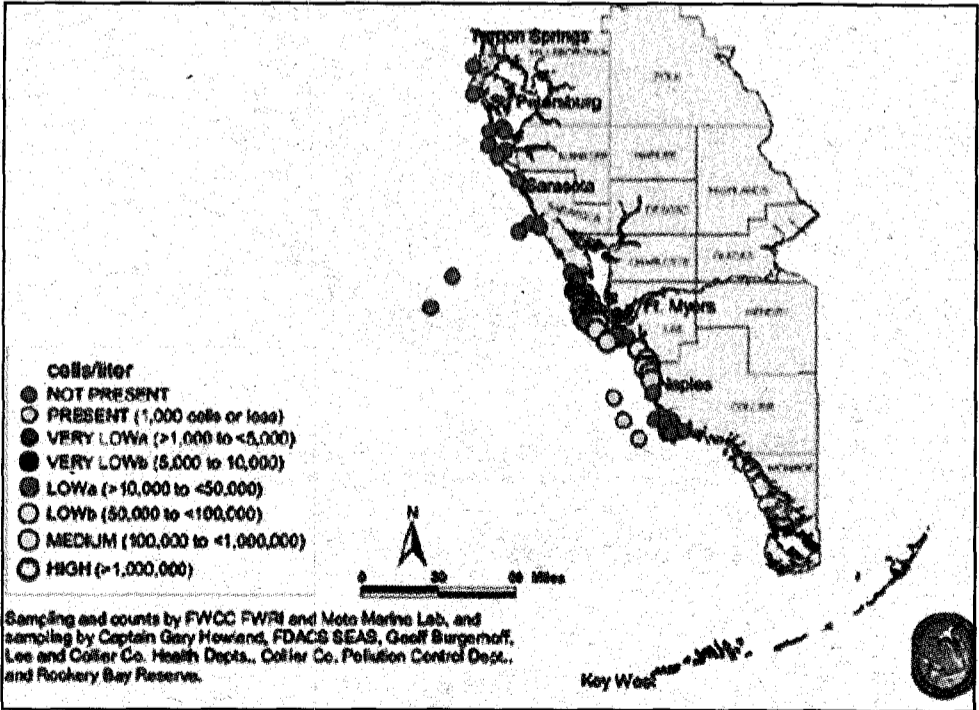

The FWRI Red Tide Status Line is now available: FWRI updates the recording each Friday by 5 p.m. after sampling efforts for the week have been completed and analyzed. Red Tide Status Line: (866) 300-9399 (toll-free inside Florida only); (727) 552-2448 (outside Florida).

Dead goliath grouper on Causeway island

Mororists coming over the Causeway this past weekend couldn't miss the dead goliath grouper in the cove on the bay side, just beyond the drawbridge span.

COMMENTARY

This Goliath Grouper is presented to you as a gift from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the South Florida Water Management District.

This fish was found Saturday morning July 15, at the west side of the Sanibel Causeway beaches. Goliath grouper are totally protected from harvest in Florida waters and have a normal lifespan of 30-50 years.

Apparently that protection does not apply to our water management officials.

This grouper is one of the tragic legacies of these managers, paid by our tax dollars, yet whose decisions are killing our estuaries. One can see and smell the death all over our beaches.

Manage the water low! It would be far better to risk a sugar cane drought than the death and destruction of our estuaries and wildlife from excess fresh water releases.

Sea turtles hatch at night when the temperature cools. Frantic swimming motions by all their flippers pushes aside the sand and they rise to the top of the round hole the female dug down to lay her eggs. By instinct, they head down the slope of the beach to the lighter horizon over the water.

The Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation oversees the monitoring of San-Cap sea turtle nests.

Diamonds and CROW

When thinking of CROW, people don't generally think of diamonds and jewels at the same time. But during the last few months, customers entering Friday's, the Sanibel Diamond store, became immediately aware of CROW. Phyllis Starks — who has been with the store for ten years — and her colleagues wanted to do something special during their recently ended big sale.

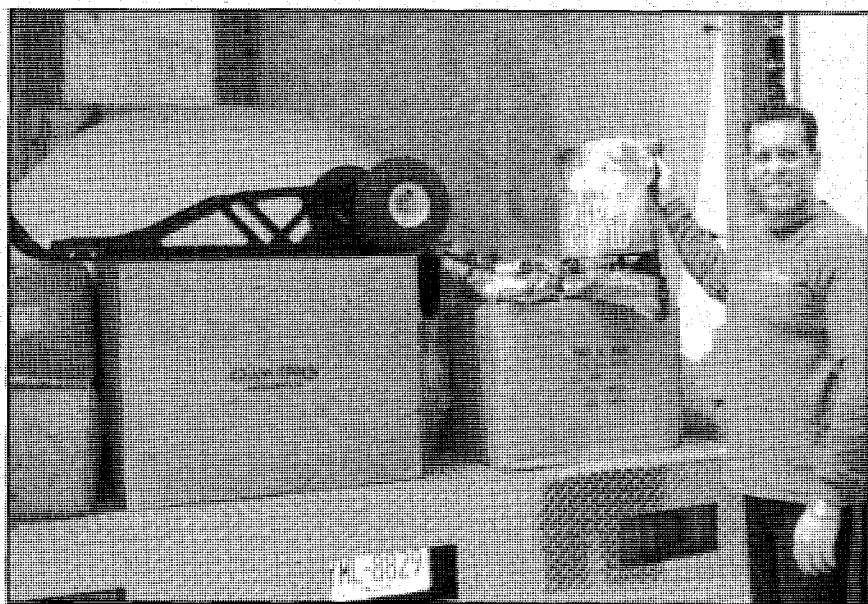

"We're planning on bringing in some new, exciting items in the fall, so to make room, we had a liquidation sale and asked customers to help CROW, which we feel is a crown jewel here on the island," said Phyllis.

They wanted to make it fun, so they had a raffle for a large HD flat screen television and for those customers bringing items from CROW's wishlist and placing them in the box, they received additional raffle tickets. On July 7, Friday's delivered nearly 500 pounds of items from the CROW wishlist, which included bleach, cases of paper towels, laundry detergent, dish and hand soaps and purina puppy and kitten chow.

"It was great!" said CROW's community outreach coordinator, Anita Pinder. "They kept unloading, and luckily we had several strong students on site to help in the process."

The winner of the raffle was Dee Kauffman, who lived on Sanibel for 20 years before recently moving into Fort Myers.

"We also hope it educated other customers who might not have been aware of CROW" said Starks. "Everyone working at Friday's loves wildlife and the work CROW is doing to save each individual patient. We wanted to give back somehow and make a difference."

"We at CROW believe in our work of helping wildlife, and it takes everyone working together to make a difference. We are so appreciative of the initiative Friday's took in raising awareness and support of our organization," said board president, Ann Moran.

CROW receives no state or federal support and private philanthropic support is more important than ever. A nonprofit veterinary hospital, CROW provides medical care for nearly 4,000 injured, sick and orphaned wildlife patients each year from all of Lee County, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

CROW is now in their first-ever Capital Campaign, "Commitment to Compassion" with a goal of $2.8 million to renovate and add on to the hospital, renovate the student housing, which is now complete, and build a new wildlife education center. They still need $73,000 to reach their goal, and anyone interested in learning more about the campaign, please contact Anita Pinder or Birgie Vertesch at 239.472.3644 ext. 5.

Public to Army Corps: "Send the water south"

We are at the point where we may not be able to recover... The seagrasses are critical for us. We are a marine refuge. We are in serious trouble, and it's difficult to sit here and take one slap in the face and then take another slap as these things go on.

- Refuge Manager Rob Jess

By EMILIE ALFINO
ealfino@breezenewspapers.com

Below are the some of the public comments from the Army Corps' July 12 workshop. They all have one thing in common: they don't like the Army's "Tentatively Selected Plan."

Rob Jess, Manager, J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge

"I work for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Department of the Interior. My responsibility is to protect the refuge, and it's very, very difficult for me to be a federal employee right now," Jess said.

"I went through your milestone schedule and the various graphs, and my gosh, it's complicated."

He said he thinks the Army Corps of Engineers and the South Florida Water Management District have "painted themselves into a corner."

"I'm not sure who we could blame as to who put you all there, but the fact is that you're there, and you have to make difficult decisions," Jess said.

"I think there's something all of us as federal employees have lost, and there should be a mandatory course for this: Common Sense 101. We're losing it. We're losing common sense. The policies are restricting us. I've spent four-and-a-half years dealing with this issue and I just see us getting further and further away from the common-sense approach."

"We're sacrificing another estuary, our estuary here on the West Coast, and it just doesn't make sense to me," Jess said.

"On the surface, it seems there's very little I can do to get you guys to stop what you're doing."

Jess said many biologists, including some at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, are assessing the waters around Sanibel and all are coming up with very clear evidence that the negative impacts Sanibel is experiencing are coming down the Caloosahatchee from Lake Okeechobee.

"They are detrimental, they are long-term. We are at the point where we may not be able to recover," Jess emphasized.

"The seagrasses are critical for us. We are a marine refuge. We are in serious trouble, and it's difficult to sit here and take one slap in the face and then take another slap as these things go on. We're going to lose what we have, and it may be crying Chicken Little, but I highly doubt it because the science is there."

Jess raised some laughter from those attending when he said he'd tried to read the Army Corps' recent Environmental Impact Statement and even tried to print it — he said he blew out a printer because it was so long.

"The thing is thick, and it's hard to understand. Even for a scientist, it's difficult to understand."

The 2,825 acres of wilderness area within 6,400-acre "Ding" Darling once was 90 percent coverage with sea grasses, but no longer.

"We worked very hard to get it to that [90 percent] point. And it doesn't hardly exist anymore," Jess said. "We are getting excellent at growing algae on the refuge, and it's unfortunate."

Jess called for Stormwater Treatment Areas on the West Coast like those on the East Coast.

"Why can't that happen?" he asked.

He also charged the Army Corps with using an "ace in the hole" by claiming public safety was at stake because of the weakened state of the Herbert Hoover Dam surrounding Lake Okeechobee. The Army, which once denied the reports of problems with the dam, now is claiming there is a 10 percent to 15 percent chance of failure if the lake reaches 18 feet.

"I'll have you know as a public citizen, when you raise that [public safety] card, that's the ultimate card, that's your ace. When you raise that, you're really up against the wall, and I suspect that's what's going on. But if [the dam] is that bad and I were in your shoes, I'd be moving people. Taking a 10 to 15 percent chance that there are people [living south of the lake] who potentially could be killed, that's 10 to 15 percent too high.

All the modeling [you've] done is flawed. Even tonight you indicated you're using the period from 1965 to 2000, and there has already been substantial documentation to show that that model is flawed... We're now in a wetter cycle over the last several years, and you didn't even take into account those years.

- County Commissioner Ray Judah

"If we're in that much danger up in the central area below Big O, I think action ought to be taken to protect those individuals," Jess said to more applause. "We ought to be buying that area out."

In fact, he said, "remove the dam, remove the people, and let the Everglades go back to the way it used to be."

When the applause died down, Jess invited the Army Corps' members present to visit the refuge and see the devastation.

Lee County Commissioner Ray Judah Judah called Dennis Duke a "man of integrity" and complimented him for the public workshop. As far as the plan Duke presented, though, Judah said it's not balanced, and he's not surprised.

"People have been asking who should be held accountable and, unfortunately, one would hope it could be the Corps of Engineers," Judah said. "I hope these com-appeared to be the general feeling in the room when she said, "Stop messing with Mother Nature. She really knows best. Mimic her systems. Do whatever you have to do to send the water south."

"You and the Army Corps are the only ones who believe your plan is going to work," Dennis Boback, mayor of Fort Myers Beach, said to a huge round of applause.

After one speaker said she was speaking on her own behalf and not that of the agency she represented, Duke muttered he wished he could do the same.

Sanibel Island icon Sam Bailey spoke emotionally about the island he and his family have called home for more than 100 years.

"It's vital to us citizens, not just the tourist trade but the people who live there. There's too much contaminated water coming down the Caloosahatchee River and hitting Sanibel Island head on," Bailey said.

"Water is our most important thing. We're surrounded by water. Basically it's our livelihood — but it's also our home. We're getting more than our share pouring right into our bays, our island, our Gulf, and it's destroying us.

"We've got something worthwhile, but if you take the water away from us, you're destroying us.

"The government has got to get behind us and save the water around Sanibel Island."

Army to come back to public in fall

Duke said the Corps of Engineers will be back before the public for comments on its Tentatively Selected Plan in September with regional public meetings to take place during a 45-day comment period.

Meanwhile, people can send their comments to U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Project Manager Pete Milam at u.p.milam@saj02.usace.army.mil or by regular mail to him at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Jacksonville District, 701 San Marco Blvd., Jacksonville, FL 32207. The Web site is www.saj.usace.army.mil.

ments are taken seriously to provide balance for flood control, water supply, and environmental restoration.

"But Congress controls the Corps of Engineers, and you would hope that Congress would represent the public interest and not special interest but unfortunately what we've seen — not over the past months or years — but over the past decades is that the 600-pound gorilla has been the sugar industry, there's no question," he said.

According to Judah, the sugar industry

He said using 17.25 feet as a cap for the level of Lake Okeechobee will end up causing greater harm, "because while you may be reducing the peak flows, you're going to ultimately have greater frequency of flows that will continue to cause harm to our estuaries."

He accused the Army Corps, the state legislature and people at the Congressional level of bending to the "powerful influence of the sugar industry" and not seriously looking south of Lake Okeechobee as a flow spends about $24 million in an election cycle, donating to campaigns at the state and federal levels. Given that fact, he said, "it's not a surprise you have a plan that's not balanced."

Judah said he had hoped that with the Comprehensive Everglades Restoration Project, there finally would be an understanding that the Corps' work back in the late 1940s had caused tremendous devastation economically and environmentally to the state of Florida. He said there was hope throughout the state that the Army Corps' new study perhaps could reverse the destruction to the Everglades, Florida Bay, the Florida Keys, and to its estuaries.

"Unfortunately, now we seem to be in a quagmire here because we're not taking into account environmental restoration," Judah told Duke.

He accused Congress of having a stranglehold of the Army Corps.

"We do need to look at storage flow rates to the south. The Everglades Restoration Act called for some storage in the Everglades Agricultural Area. All the modeling [you've] done is flawed. Even tonight you indicated you're using the period from 1965 to 2000, and there has already been substantial documentation to show that that model is flawed for the simple reason that you did not take into account the weather season of 1960 with Hurricane Donna, [as well as the weather] during the 1940s, or even 1926 and 1928 when two hurricanes hit. We're now in a wetter cycle over the last several years, and you didn't even take into account those years."

Law elected president of BOAF

R. Harold Law, Jr., Sanibel's Chief Building Official, has been elected President by the members of the Building Officials Association of Florida (BOAF), which had its beginning in 1953.

The BOAF is recognized as a professional, non-profit, statewide volunteer organization comprised of Code Officials and industry representatives from almost every jurisdiction in Florida. The threefold mission of the BOAF is to provide for the safety, health and welfare of Florida citizens through education, development, maintenance and enforcement of building codes. Since 1979 Law has been a chief building official in various states including Tennessee and Texas and a strong proponent of adherence to the mandatory state laws and building codes. While Law was serving as chief building official for St. Johns County, Florida, prior to his acceptance of that same position in Sanibel in 2003, he had to convince his wife of the advantages of this change in location. The best strategy was to select a very cold February day to pop the "moving" question. She asked if it was warm in Sanibel and Law unhesitatingly replied, "Absolutely." That was it. Law accepted the Sanibel position and his wife is convinced that he was right.

"I didn't have to come to Sanibel and fix things. This was a functioning building department," points out Law. The size of the department, with its seven staff members, is the proper legal size for this municipality and the people in the community understand that building codes protect people and their homes.

"We are here to meet the building codes and explain how people can build or rebuild their home without scheduling problems," Law elaborates, "The greatest challenge is making sure that everyone understands the code and that the requirements are clear before the job ever gets started. I like to be sure that the builders know as much as I do about their projects and code related issues."

Right now Law's new thrust as BOAF president is to provide an increasing number of educational seminars for its seventeen local chapters. He explains that the BOAF has been licensed and approved by the State of Florida to offer these C.E.U. (Continuing Education Units). BOAF has been contracted by the state to set up these programs for the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) for contractors, building inspectors and officials throughout Florida. One of the real advantages is that BOAF will be able to go to some of the more outlying areas and regions in Florida where these seminars will be offered for the first time this year. All of this came into being when BOAF was named the sole producer for technical assistance to the Department of Community Affairs.

With its growing reputation in the fostering of service-based education, Law as president of the BOAC has been working to set up a state-approved program to take an existing inspector and to cross train that person to become qualified in more than one discipline. In other words with this program an inspector can become qualified and tested in dual or multiple fields.

"In Sanibel we have the good fortune of having multi-disciplined inspectors who can inspect the complete job, versus only parts of the job, thereby reducing our personnel requirements. With our eye toward the future we are now taking advantage of the program to enhance our ability to become more cost effective and time efficient in this area," explains Law.

Education is his main concern and that's where he wants BOAF to excel. Some time in the future, Law envisions a permanent academy possibly based on the model of the fire academy. This is the kind of futuristic and forward moving thinking that puts Law out front and makes him a leader in his field.

During Law's three years as director of the City of Sanibel Building Department he has created the Contractors Review Board and the Structural Safety Inspector's Volunteer Group. He has also worked closely with FEMA to maintain the City's Community Rating System of "5," resulting in flood insurance discounts for the entire city.

Law holds the distinction of the BOAF's Building Official of the Year Award for 1994, 1998 and 1999 and is a Certified Member of the International Code Council (ICC).

Judah said the major problem has to do with storage. He told Duke that if the Corps' primary mission is public safety, it's a great expense not only to the environment but to the economic health and well-being of all of South Florida.

"I don't believe you have to necessarily choose one over the other," Judah said. He said nobody wants to see the Glades communities with its 40,000 people flooded.

Judah said using a flow way from Lake Okeechobee to the south is not unprecedented.

"The Everglades Forever Act called for 100,00 acres to be set aside for storage. The sugar industry was able to get that whittled down to 50,000 acres today," Judah said.

"You say [your proposed new plan] will improve flows to the estuary. It will not. It will cause more catastrophic harm to the estuaries. You're going to exceed greatly the 2,800 cubic-feet-per-second maximum flows.

"While you're well intentioned, Lee County, Sanibel, and any other community that ultimately stands to be impacted by the disastrous proposal you presented to us tonight has no other recourse but to proceed legally," Judah concluded.

"This has been going on for decades. It's a phenomenal waste of taxpayer dollars."

LET'S TALK REAL ESTATE

Presented by Margie Davison

GETTING TO KNOW YOU

When an agent begins to work with you as buyer, he or she will sit down with you and ask a lot of questions. The agent will also do a lot of listening. In the initial buyer interview, an agent will try to get a clear idea of what you are looking for, as well as the approximate price range, considering your overall financial picture. The agent will explain how she will work to represent you, what the local market is like, and what she can do to help you locate that perfect home.

At this initial interview, it is important for you to be as clear as possible about your needs. After you have talked and decided how much you can comfortably spend, your agent will only show you homes that are within your price range, and that meet your criteria. For example, if the agent knows that you have bad knees and want to avoid stairs, you will not be taken through three-story colonials with top floor master suites. Promoting clear communication with our clients is good business for us, and it can save you hours of house hunting.

Why... is that report being used to pit the lake people against the coast people? Because the scare tactic that it's creating is what's going to pit people against people when we should all be working together.

- PURRE Chairman Mike Valiquette

He didn't expect the Army Corps or the South Florida Water Management District to do much, though.

"It's not going to happen until we the people vote for public servants at the state and federal levels who will represent the public interest and not the special interest."

Jennifer Hecker, Natural Resources Policy Manager, The Conservancy of Southwest Florida

Hecker said the plan the Army is presenting to the public is "unacceptable to the Southwest Florida community, and we stand ready to oppose any attempts to continue" with the plan as presented.

"It is false to pit the safety of inland communities against Southwest Florida's well-being. It is false to pit the lake's health against the river's and the estuary's health," Hecker said.

She said there is an "obvious solution" that would provide for greater safety, improve the lake's condition, and reduce harmful discharges: "acquiring more land within the Everglades Agricultural Area to create a series of reservoirs and filter marshes south of the lake to restore water back to where it historically flowed and provide the necessary water storage for water supply needs outside of the lake to permanently lower lake levels.

"This viable solution has been discounted at every turn," she said.

Currently, according to Hecker, the level of Lake Okeechobee can go up faster than the Army Corps can lower it — and the lake, river and estuary all are "collapsing under the pollution."

Mike Valiquette, Chairman, People United to Restore our Rivers and Estuaries (PURRE); Vice-chairman, Sanibel Planning Commission

Valiquette said that, although he reads the types of charts the Army used in its presentation every day, he only understood some of what it presented to the public July 12.

"I don't think most of these people can understand half of what was on those graphs, and all those letters and acronyms," he said. "If you're going to go to the public for comment, you have to speak clearly to people so they can understand. There are 50 acronyms, and nobody knows what they mean but you guys."

Valiquette asked Duke to commit right then that no more than 2,800 cfs would be released down the Caloosahatchee if the lake stays below 17.25 feet -- a commitment Valiquette said the Army Corps' Colonel Robert Carpenter made to him at a meeting in May.

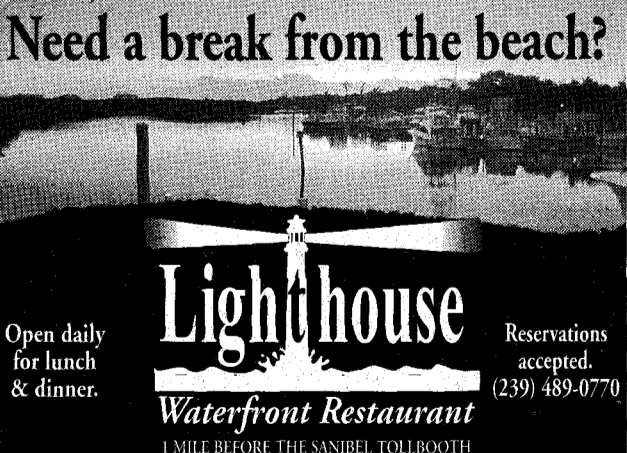

"Are you willing to make that commitment here tonight and follow up on what the colonel promised us?" Valiquette asked Duke's response: "I think that's what the plan has in it." Valiquette also said the Army previously said the report on the worsening condition of the dike was false.

"So why all of a sudden is that report being used to pit

Lily & Co. Jewelers opens today

Sanibel-Captiva Realtor, Karen Bell and Dan Schuyler, a jeweler with 26 years' experience, have announced plans to open Lily & Co. Jewelers, at 520 Tarpon Bay Road, in Sanibel.

Lily & Co. will open their doors on July 21. The store is located at the site of a building constructed in 1919, which over the years has served as an elementary school for African Americans, a church, an art gallery, a bank and a podiatrist's office. In a change from its origins, the store will be Sanibel's first jewelry gallery combining a fine jewelry store and art gallery in one location.

Lily's couture jewelry collection will include pieces from famed designers such as Michael Beaudry, James Breski, Marya Dabrowski, Louis Erard, Steven Douglas, Akiva Gil, Gurhan, Hidalgo, Magick. The store will include pearls from the Coronation line and broker new and pre-owned Swiss watches. Keith Rifenburg, a jewelry craftsman with more than 38 years of experience will serve as on-site goldsmith and jewelry designer and offer pieces from his Whimsmith jewelry line at Lily & Co.

Additionally, Lily & Co. will offer on-site appraisals, restringings, authorized Rolex watch repair services, glass and metal engravings and estate and consignment jewelry. Finally, Lily & Co. will offer the only collection of loose

G.I.A. and A.G.S. certified diamonds, along with a selection of A.G.T.A. certified gem-quality colored stones.

Lily & Co. plans to dedicate space in its gallery to art from up-and-coming and classical artists.

This venture will be Bell's first foray into the jewelry industry, having worked on Sanibel and Captiva for more than 27 years.

"This is an opportunity to bring an entirely new concept of shopping for fine jewelry to Sanibel," said Bell. "We understand island residents and guests and providing service to them will be of the utmost importance."

Bell partnered in 2005 with Schuyler, a G.I.A. diamondologist, having specialized in jewelry sales, advertising, purchasing and design, to open Lily & Co. The store is named after Bell's two-year old Labradoodle, Lily.

"We will carry collections from some of the most exquisite jewelry lines in the world in one of the most exquisite places in the world," said Schuyler. "Whether you are looking for a one-of-a-kind piece, or a widely acclaimed one, you will find it at Lily & Co."

Store hours are Monday thru Thursday 10 a.m. - 6 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. - 8 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. For more information about Lily & Co., call 472-2888.

New Mound House underground museum to showcase Calusa history

By Charlie Loucks
cloucks@breeze newspapers.com

Construction is currently underway at the Mound House on Fort Myers Beach on a new project which, when complete, will give visitors a unique view into the past and an up-close look at a 2000-year-old Calusa shell mound.

Mound House Director Theresa Schober said the project should be completed this year, "which entails the creation of the room and the completion of the archaeology."

Schober said workers excavated the swimming pool adjacent to the main house on the Connecticut Street property earlier this year; they are now waiting for an archaeology study to be completed before creating an underground museum.

"We received a grant from the state to remove the swimming pool, excavate down underneath and create enough vertical space for a room inside the mound," Schober said. "The pool is gone - it's been removed and we're in the process right now of doing the archaeological excavation."

Schober said the new museum will eventually become a part of three areas of interest on the property.

Primary space

"The goal is to create the primary archaeological space in this underground room," Schober said. The Mound House itself then "becomes the primary historical exhibit and the grounds become the primary environmental exhibit space, so there are at least three components of different types of interest that people might have."

Schober said the town was awarded a grant for $270,000, which will cover preliminary work scheduled to be completed this year. But more money will be needed before the exhibit will be ready for the public to actually view it, she said.

"I just submitted to the state in June another $350,000 grant to fund the actual exhibit," Schober said. "The earliest we'll have funds will be in July of next year."

Schober added she hopes to have the project completely finished by 2008.

Once the exhibit is complete, visitors will be able to see how the mound was constructed by literally walking into the mound. Once inside, they will be able to view, through glass, the actual interior "walls" of the mound.

Entry will be through a doorway at the back of the mound.

"You'll come inside a room," Schober said. "When you enter as a group the lights will go out and an audio tape will lead you through, with spotlighting effects, what it is you are seeing in the mound walls."

"We'll use lighting to spotlight fire pits [and] different layers to show how the mound was constructed..."

"We've found some shell tool manufacturing areas where they're using shells to make shell tools," Schober said. "Where we find those kinds of things in the wall we're going to create little platforms so that there will be actual artifacts in place that people will be able to see, with the audio tape describing what it is that those things mean, and how they help us interpret behavior."

Exact details of what visitors will see in the exhibit won't be certain until the project is finished, Schober said.

"We're not going to know what people will see until we've completed the excavation," Schober said.

Catalog

The archaeological aspect of the project will catalog what archaeologists find during the excavation to preserve those details for history, Schober said.

As archaeologists excavate, they inevitably destroy the area of excavation. "The mound where we're digging is going away," Schober said, "so we use our methodology to record exactly what it is that we're taking out."

"That's what's called a 'mitigation project,' mitigating the impact of what you're doing and [also] doing an extensive degree of recording of what was there as you remove it."

Though there are considerable variations of opinions among archaeologists as to why the Calusa built mounds, Schober said, she believes it was more symbolic than out of a need to be high and dry on a barrier island.

"Actually, mound building, as a phenomenon, [takes place] in Florida and it also happens in Mississippi and Ohio and all the way to the Mississippi River... [It] hits all of eastern North America at roughly the same time," Schober said. "Height and authority are connected."

Schober said there are significant similarities in our current culture with height preference and the Calusa mounds that date back to 50 B.C. to A.D.100.

"Even in our own modern world, the most expensive room in a high-rise hotel is the room at the top or if you go into any courthouse or a council chamber the people who are making the decisions are elevated," Schober said. "When you go into a church, the people who are leading the ceremony are up on platforms. There is a strong connection in that regard."

Local archaeologist Corbett Torrence will be working on the excavation project Tuesdays through Saturdays from approximately 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. weather permitting, Schober said, adding the public is invited to visit the site next to the Mound House and ask questions.

Holistic Health Notebook: Cleaning out the cellular debris

Are you interested in enhancing your body's ability to detoxify? You should be, because if you can't clear the debris out of your cells, your body is slowing dying. Many of us, for reasons beyond our control, are inefficient in this department. Another gift from mom and dad (the genetic connection).

Last week, we discussed two genes that are associated with your body's detoxification abilities, the PON-1 and the mEPHX genes. I am sure there are others, but these two genes have been studied for their individual roles in clearing specific environmental pollutants, and how to overcome a potential deficit in these areas.

If you are heterozygous positive (from one parent) or homozygous positive (from both parents) for one or more of these genes, you simply cannot effectively clear toxic materials from your body. Fortunately, we now know that you can help your body overcome the influence of these genetic variations by using specific nutrients like reduced L-glutathione. L-glutathione is a small protein that is used in various redox reactions. It helps destroy free radicals and peroxides (one of the most common cause of the aging and disease processes), as a cofactor for enzymes, and in the detoxification of harmful compounds. Your body may not produce enough L-glutathione to perform these important functions.

This protein is well studied. We know that it suppresses the incidence of oral cancer by 90%. It improves the quality of life, nutrition and weight in patients with metastatic colon cancer. It helps protect skin from radiation burn (topically). In chronic fatigue patients, it helps reduce oxidative stress in the muscle. It helps restore many normal immune functions and reduces the frequency of acute recurrent respiration infection, improves spleen function, and enhances T-cell mediated immune responses in aging mice, increases sperm motility and viability, slow diseased progression in several neurodegenerative diseases, including Alzheimer's disease, and improves glucose metabolism and insulin sensitivity in diabetics.

How Does This Work Practically?

I suggest that you take the genetics test, to find out where you stand in your body's ability to detoxify. If you find that you have deficits in one or more of these areas, you can take a proactive stance by reducing your exposure to toxins, as much as possible in our polluted world.

Second, you can optimize your diet. Why rid your home of toxic chemicals if you continue to eat them? Eliminate pseudo-foods like synthetic sweeteners, flavor enhancers, preservatives, and so on.

Third, support your body nutritionally by providing what your body cannot efficiently synthesize for itself. Like L-glutathione. I kill the economy of Southwest Florida. It controls the flow of polluted water into our once-pristine estuary," Burns concluded.

• Councilwoman Martha Simons of the city of Bonita Springs said, "We have a very fragile ecosystem here that I'm afraid in the next three years will be irreparably harmed."

• Kurt Harclerode, recently with the South Florida Water Management District but now an employee of and representing Lee County, rejected the Army's Tentatively Selected Plan.

He said it is projected to perform "worse than the current schedule," and that it "will cause greater environmental damage to the river and estuary than the current operation schedule."

Harclerode asked on behalf of Lee County that the Army remove the new maximum lake level of 17.25 feet, develop an operational plan to eliminate high discharges to the Caloosahatchee estuary, and further modify the plan to reduce excessive discharges from the existing regulation schedule.

How I discovered archaeology or walks with my old man

Just about everyone interested in archaeology has stumbled into it in his or her own way. Sometimes it starts with the finding of an intriguing artifact or the visit to a museum. Maybe a TV special or even seeing "Indiana Jones" is responsible.

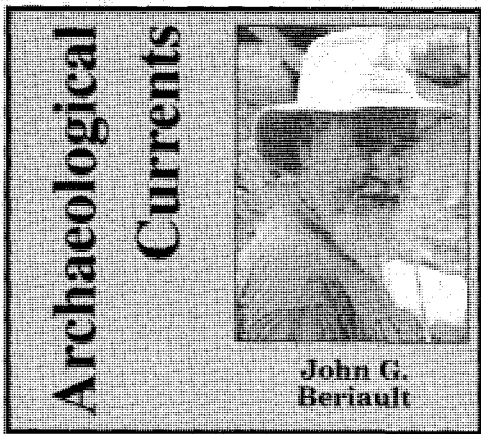

My interest began when I was three years old and my father gave me a milk-bottle shaped stone plummet he found in Goodland in the late 1940s. My father recalled going to Goodland Point in 1948 in a small army-surplus dump truck and shoveling by hand in midden shell, which was then used as the material of choice for road underlayment. He recalled the mosquitoes being so numerous and fierce that he could only work at 10-15 minute intervals and then had to sit in the cab of the truck for five minutes to allow them to disperse somewhat so he could go back to shoveling shell. During that time he found the plummet, and it was so different he kept it.

My father would frequently take me on walks around our twenty acres, starting from the time I was a baby and needed to be carried most of the way on his shoulders. We would sing songs like "Hello, Joe, What do you know? Just got back from a Rodeo, Saw a dance, took a Chance. Well, I don't know, Hello Joe." These were old vaudeville songs my father learned by sneaking into shows where kids generally weren't invited.

The more I could walk, the longer the trips became. We picked huckleberries, noted unusual wildlife, felt the sun, wind, and sometimes the rain. When I was five, my mother gently suggested my father take me even further afield, "so I could learn something." My father had heard about an old shell mound on a backbay near Doctor's Pass, so one day we went walking in that direction to see if we could find it. My father carried a shovel, but he always did on these walks, as you could investigate something from a safe distance with it... kill a rattlesnake, or — once or twice — help dig out some car whose driver had got it stuck in the sugar sand trails.

We walked west maybe a half-mile, a long way for me. Through sand pine and oak scrub, then into climax slash pine flatwoods with a dense understory of saw palmettos. We were traveling an old rutted woods road heading toward the distant dark green wall of mangroves fronting Inner Doctor's Pass. I remember a large indigo snake crawled across the trail in front of us, and for a very brief moment it spanned the road continuously!

Finally we came out in a bare clearing at the interface of the uplands with the mangroves. Dead snags from salt-blasted buttonwood and black mangrove stuck up in strange shapes like a Zen garden. I would learn this was a saltern or salina area, where periodic high tides had deposited so much salt glittering on the gray muck that only cord grasses and black rush would grow.

The old trail became a corduroy road through the mangroves. Large potholes and ruts filled with brown tannin-stained water smelling of rotten eggs straddled gaps in the cut logs. There were signs people had gotten stuck in here not too long ago — not a good place to bring even a four-wheel drive vehicle. The tide was out, otherwise we would have waded in up to our ankles or deeper.

Up ahead, through the mangroves we could see higher ground, and I felt for the very first time the feeling of awe and mystery coming on to a place where humans had lived one thousand years or more ago. There were shell mounds, partially dug away, rising on all sides, covered in a dense coppiced growth of stoppers or Eugenias (as I would later learn). Large gumbo-limbos, silver-barked mastics and jamaica dogwoods towered above the other luxuriant hammock plants. A skunky smell — acrid, but not unpleasant — filled the air, and I would later find out this smell came from a plant, the white stoppers.

We crossed the site and stood looking out on a narrow channel, a winding stream cutting through the tall, surrounding mangroves. We would later find this channel connected Inner and Outer Doctor's Bay, and had quite a volume of water moving through when the tide was running. I would later find there and hear about the skeleton of a fellow, missing five years, that had been found not too far away.

It was evident even from this first visit that much of the site had been dug away years ago for road fill. My father took his shovel and scratched around a bit, showing me several sherds of pottery, one or two of which had ticking or incised decorations. The intensely rich black dirt they came from had a rich, sweet, decadent smell like no other I ever smelled. Nothing smells like a South Florida "black dirt" midden, a smell I will forever remember from that first time.

We didn't stay long, and I took a half-dozen of the most interesting sherds back with me. I showed my mother and told her how excited I was by what I had seen on that trip. For quite a while the sherds still smelled of the mysterious midden in which they had lain centuries before Columbus. I will always remember that time, with my father, and how I stumbled across archaeology.

Fractured Fairy Tales at the library

The Summer Reading Program at Sanibel Library featured Fractured Fairy Tales, presented by the older participants for the pleasure of the younger ones. The thespians were directed by Kelly Legarreta of Schoolhouse Theater and have worked for the past several weeks on the production.

Above, Amy Burns, left, and Ben Donovan help tell the story of "Cutie and the Beast." Other fairy tales given a comical twist included "Tale of a King," "Little Red Running Shorts," "Prince Hyacinth & The Dear Little Princess," "The Elves and the Showmaker," "Son of Rumpelstiltskin," "The Other Frog Prince," "Thom Tum," "The Golden Goose," "Cinderpumpstiltskin," and "Sir Galahad."

Other participants were Dana Congress, Kristen Donovan, Kyle Zurbriggen, Chloe Daubenspeck, Kay Donovan, Laura Lipman, Whitney Congress, Brodie Burns, Michael Turner, Taylor Williams, Jacqueline Cloutier, Andrew Turner, Laura Turner, Tina Aulino and Anna Aulino.

Jaimie Roberts rehearsed with the group, but travel problems returning from England forced her to miss the program. Dominique Eidem served as the stage manager.

The Summer Reading Program concludes next Tuesday, July 25, at 3 p.m. with a presentation by John Storms' World of Reptiles.

Johnson is Leaving performed at the library

By Gary Phillips
gphillips@breezenewspapers.com

Sanibel was treated to a bit of English theater this week as Bruce Purchase presented his one-man show, Johnson is Leaving at the Sanibel Library on Tuesday evening, July 18.

The show focuses on the declining health and last days of 75-year-old Dr. Samuel Johnson, an 18th-century wordsmith who composed a dictionary long before the word Webster became a known name. More specifically, Johnson is reflecting upon his life, its triumphs and tragedies and his relationships with various family members and friends throughout his years on Earth.

Written for Purchase by playwright John Wain, the 80-minute monologue weaves humor, insight, spirituality, lament and more into a spellbinding offering.

Purchase's performance is hypnotic and makes one believe he is in the room with Johnson as he remembers his childhood, career, time spent in debtors prison and accolades bestowed upon him by the King of England.

The relationships between fathers and sons, men and women, Johnson and his younger brother Nathaniel, Johnson and his mother and more are flawlessly performed as Purchase deftly slips from one character to another, holding full conversations with himself but never leaving it unclear as to who is saying what.

In a post-performance interview, Purchase, 67, said he has been doing the dramatic piece for three years, giving more than 150 performance in that time. He said most of those have been in England for audiences ranging from 100 to several hundred. He said giving the presentation to the small group in the intimate setting of the library's meeting room was a rare treat.

Purchase said he is visiting Sanibel for only a few days and Tuesday's performance was a one-time event.

British actor, Bruce Purchase takes a well-deserved bow at the conclusion of his performance of the one-man show Johnson is Leaving. Purchase was visiting Sanibel for only a few days and graciously agreed to do the dramatic piece for a small audience at Sanibel Library.

Kenneth and Charlotta Carper celebrate 50 years of island living

Charlotta and Kenneth Carper

On July 4th, 2006, after watching Sanibel's Fun In the Sun parade, Kenneth and Charlotta Carper retired to their island home to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. They were joined in the fun by their son and daughter-in-law, Stephen and Debra Carper from Turlock, Calif.; their daughter, Gail Day, and her children Tiffany and Ryan, of Fort Myers; and their six-month-old great-grandson, Luke Montgomery, and his parents, Adam and Susie Montgomery, from Cincinnati.

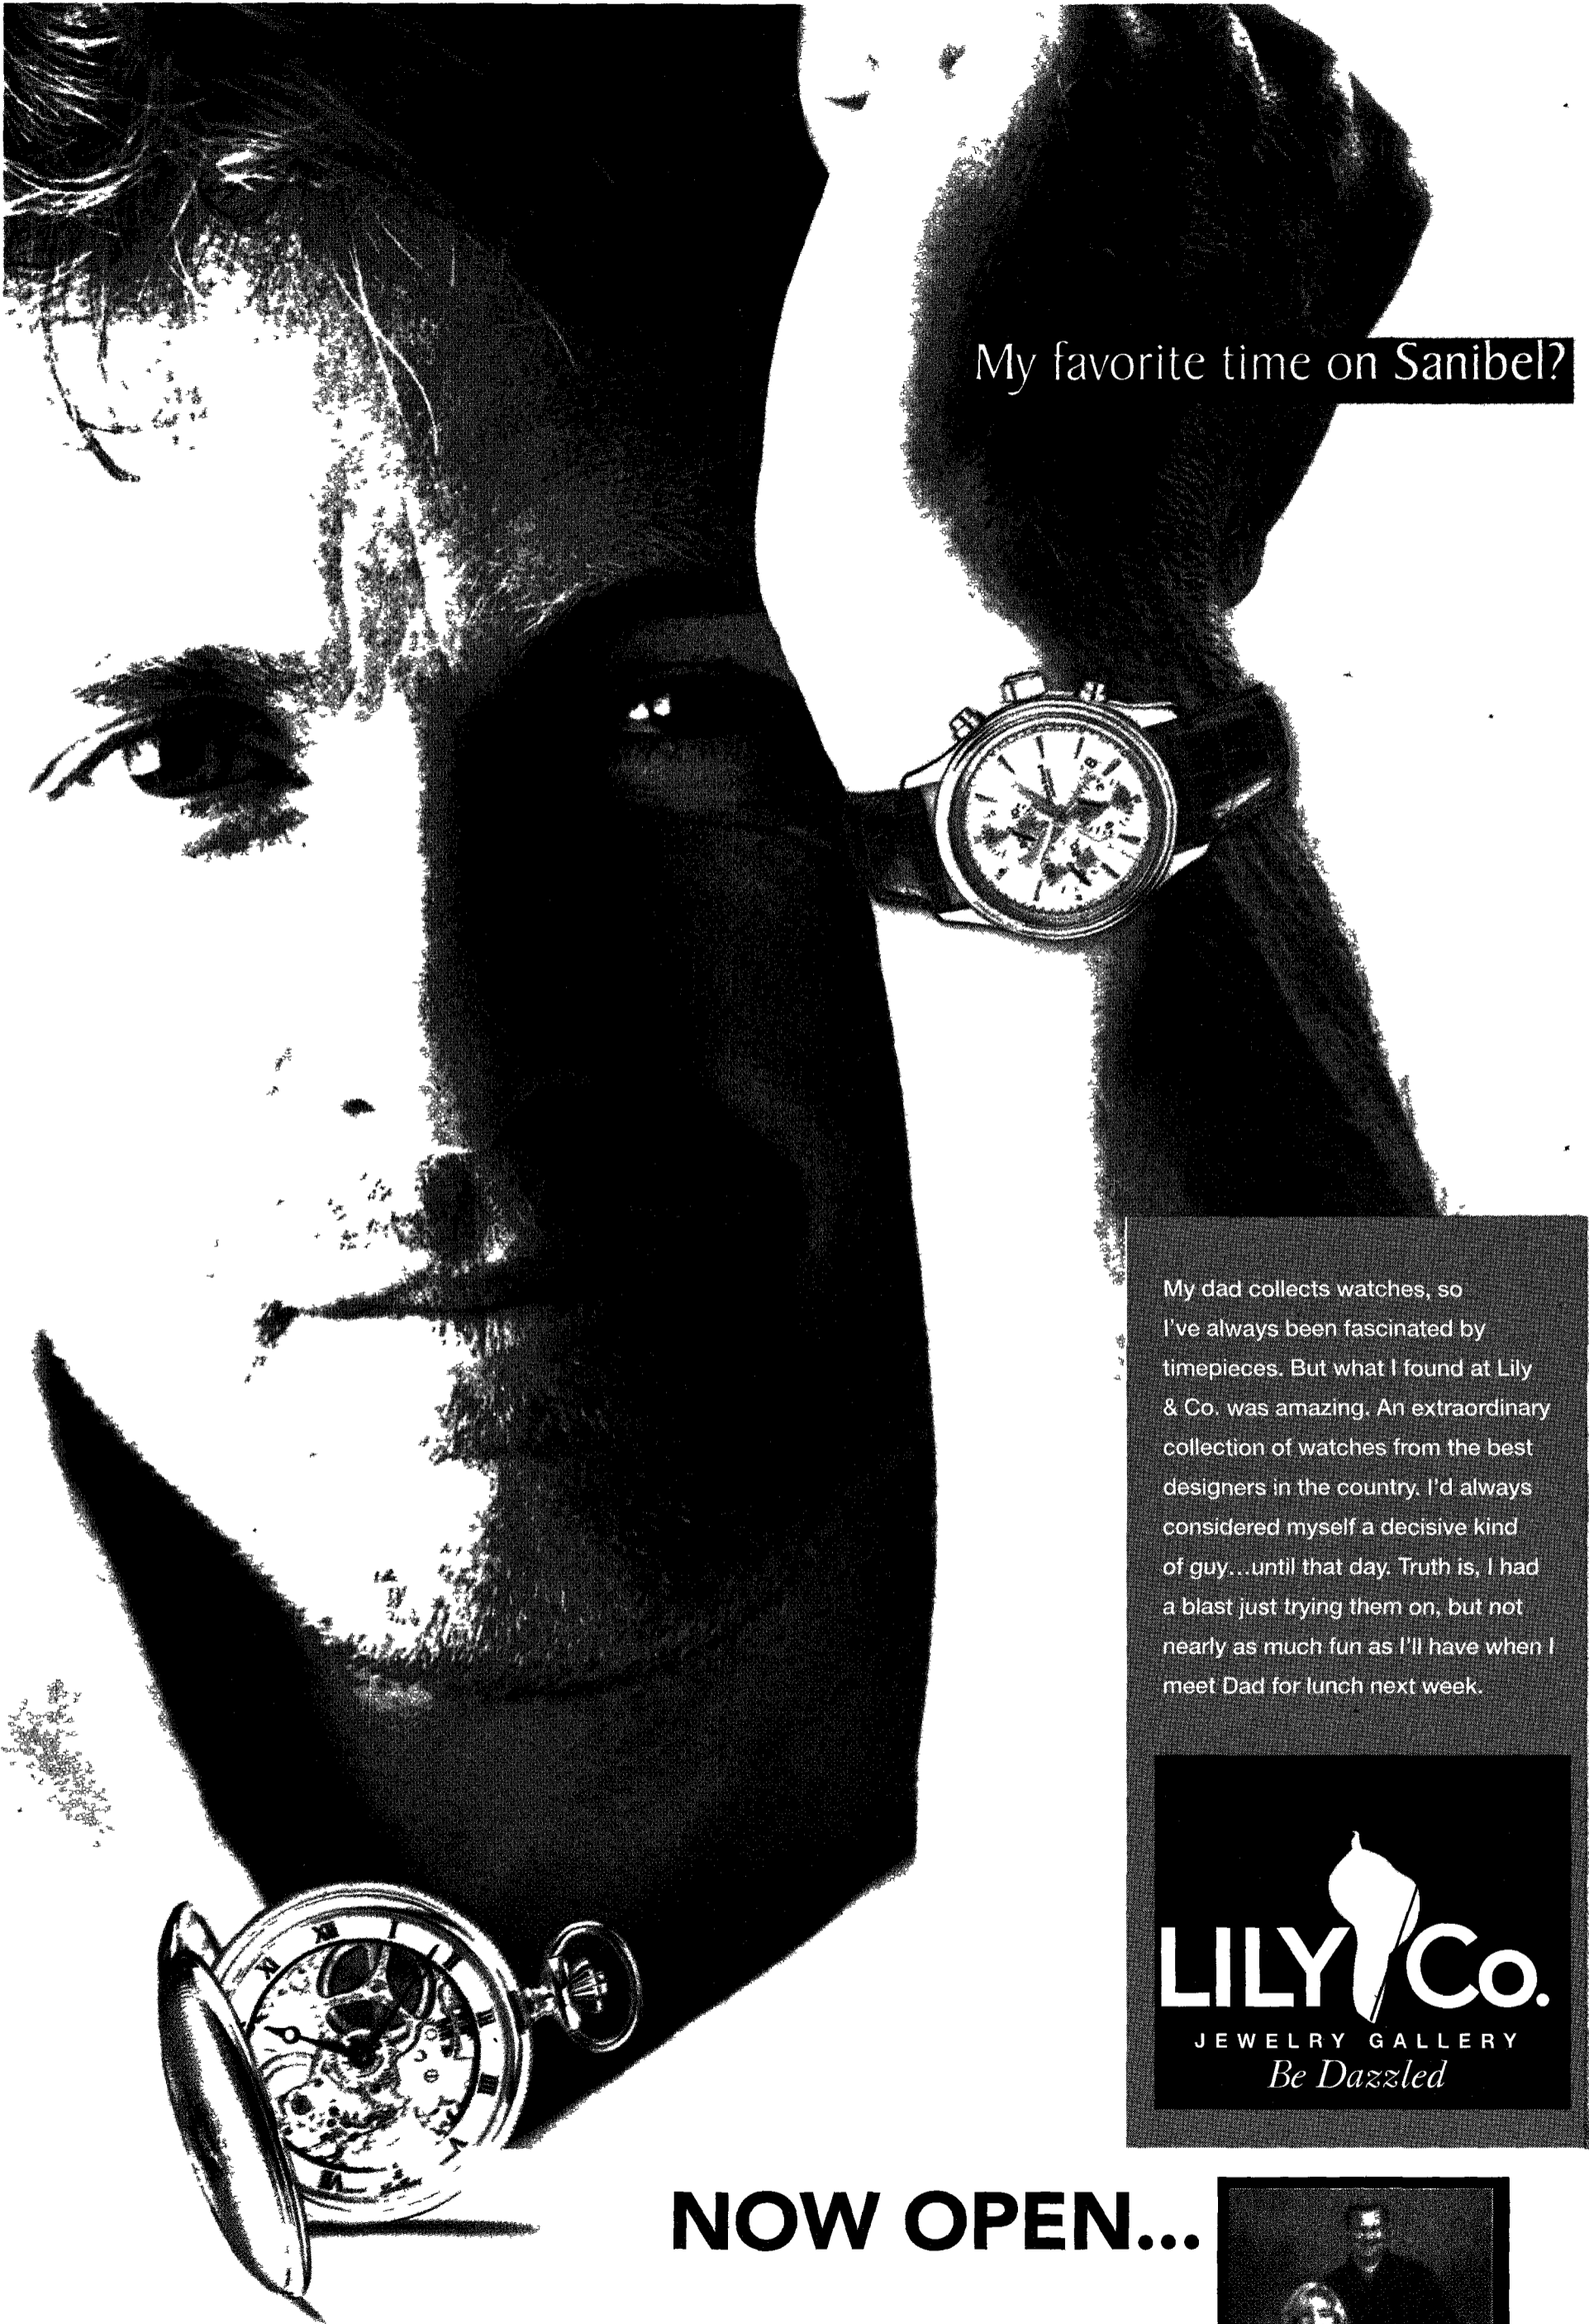

Charlotta is the daughter of Beulah and Timmy Wiles who started Timmy's Nook (she's one of the famed seven sisters) and is named for Charlotta Matthews, one of her mother's good friends. She drove the schoolbus on the island for years and also worked for Bailey's.

Kenneth came here from Michigan when he was 16 and worked for J.P. Carter Trucking Company back in the days when his was the only truck that came to the islands... via the ferry. He and Charlotta managed Timmy's Nook for 13 years and Ken himself managed Bailey's for about 12 years, starting when the store was still at the end of Bailey Road on San Carlos Bay.

As Charlotta put it, "Everybody knew everybody back then... I knew who he was, but we didn't start seeing each other until he invited me to one of the regular dances they had back then at the Community House."

Congratulations to both of you!

My favorite time on Sanibel?

My dad collects watches, so I've always been fascinated by timepieces. But what I found at Lily & Co. was amazing. An extraordinary collection of watches from the best designers in the country. I'd always considered myself a decisive kind of guy...until that day. Truth is, I had a blast just trying them on, but not nearly as much fun as I'll have when I meet Dad for lunch next week.

Welcome to Betsy's Necessities

By Nancy Santeusano
Special to the Islander

A captivating sign on the side of the building invites you into betsy's necessities, a unique boutique in The Village on Periwinkle Way. The shop (in Seaweed Gallery's former location) — with its freshly painted white walls, spiraling staircase and high beamed ceiling — creates a soothing background that accents the one-of-a-kind pieces that Tibetan artisans of India have spent a lifetime perfecting. A feeling of warmth, shopping comfort and being able to browse without pressure is what owner Betsy Rottman wants to create. "The focus is on the exquisite items in the boutique," Rottman notes, "all of which feature blue lapis, coral, turquoise and/or cockleshells and intricate hand stitching and beading."

A collection of decorative boxes may catches your fancy first. You can almost visualize the artists spending endless hours creating the design then hand stitching the beads onto the boxes with inserts of lapis, coral or cockleshells. The boxes come in all different shapes and sizes — let your own sensibilities tell you whether you want to use them solely as decorative pieces or in some more practical way. Equally dramatic are the Tibetan tapestries/wall hangings in lapis, coral and turquoise sewn with the same intricate hand beading but including an eye-catching center medallion or equally intriguing arrangement of tiny shells.

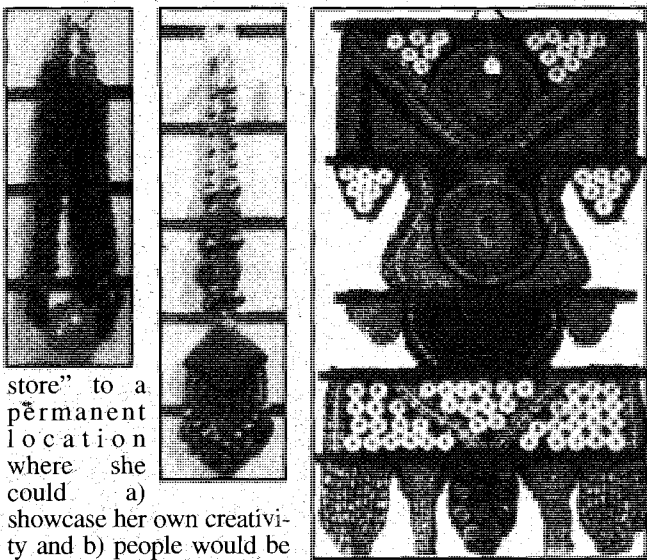

Another display is a bevy of unique purses that range from hand/wrist bags to shoulder strap bags, makeup cases, evening bags, passport travel bags/wallets. Some have beaded or wooden handles and feature the blue lapis/coral/turquoise subtly combined with seed pearls and beads and sea glass in exquisite and subtle touches. Belts with unusual designs, some adjustable and others in varying sizes and widths, are again one of a kind, handmade by the Tibetans and reflecting the same quality of craftsmanship and attention to detail. Counterparts to the bags and belts are Betsy's amazing choices in bracelets and earrings. Bracelets using glass beads, turquoise, amber and blue lapis come in stretch and cuff styles; there is even an assortment of keyring fobs with both clasp and ring closures. Equally unusual is Betsy's array of earrings — multicolored and in many different sizes and shapes to suit your fancy. They are crafted with turquoise, sterling silver, colored beads, amber and other semi-precious stones, even some in wood. To complete this eye-catching jewelry display you'll find necklaces incorporating many of the same elements as the earrings and bracelets and ranging from short choker to full opera length.

In one section of her boutique Betsy displays a line of mildly scented candles called Root candles — "The Best Candle in America" is how the logo reads — with fragrances that complement island living including Paradise, Tropical Fusion, Walk on the Beach and Ginger Patchouli. Sizes range from tea lights and votives to travel tins and larger glass-jarred candles. Tucked in this same section are fine soaps in assorted fragrances distributed by Indian River Soap Company. Another rarity is handmade stationery from India. Created from rose petals, grass and leaves, this stationery is considered one of the finest writing papers in the world. These are all perfect gift items or a wonderful indulgence for your own ego and taste for quality.

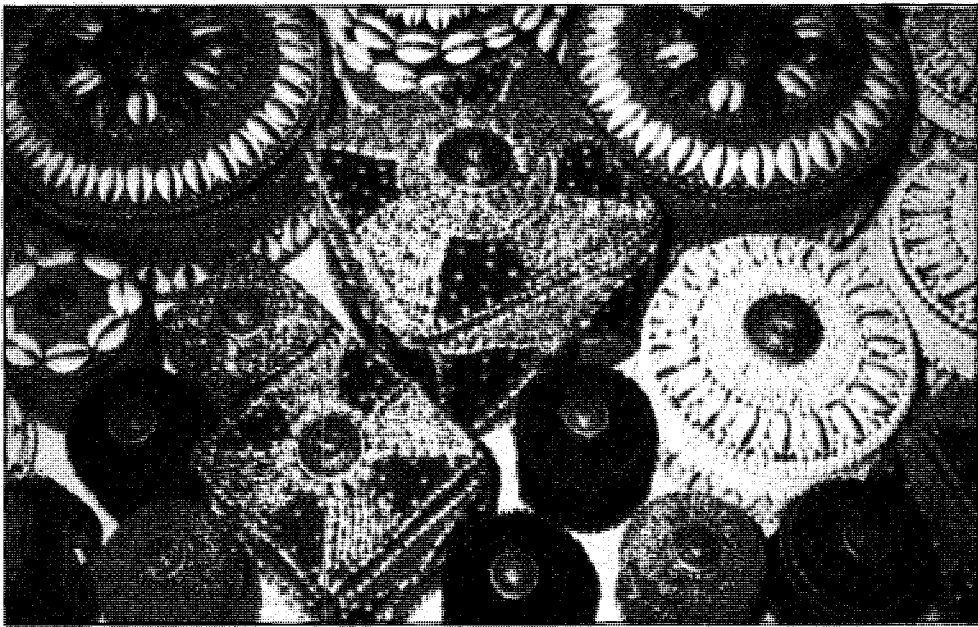

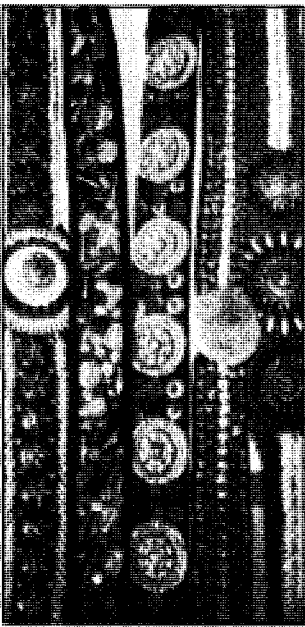

For Betsy the opening of her first boutique is the fulfillment of the all-American dream to own her own business. Betsy has a degree in merchandising and fashion promotion and has worked for over 30 years in retail. Her energy and drive went into overdrive when she started doing art shows five years ago. "I got a very favorable reaction from people and I decided to take my business to the next level and open a retail boutique." For the past five years she has been focusing on what she was selling, searching out the best quality sources, and this seemed like the right time to make the leap from a "portable store" to a permanent location where she could a) showcase her own creativity and b) people would be better able to browse, think about and appreciate what she has to offer.

Betsy herself is a very fastidious shopper who delights in selecting merchandise that she personally enjoys. She avoids the overly trendy, the too wild or the too far-out, instead choosing highly appealing one-of-a-kind pieces that make a statement in themselves and are timeless and distinctive.

Betsy has been coming to Sanibel for the past 15 years for business and pleasure and, through her experience, has pretty much got her finger on the shopping pulse of both islanders and visitors. That's what betsy's necessities features in this small, highly attractive shop tucked neatly in The Village and yet in the foreground with its 'out front' location and inviting sign. Summer hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the phone number is 472-5560.

BIG Arts Members' Exhibit

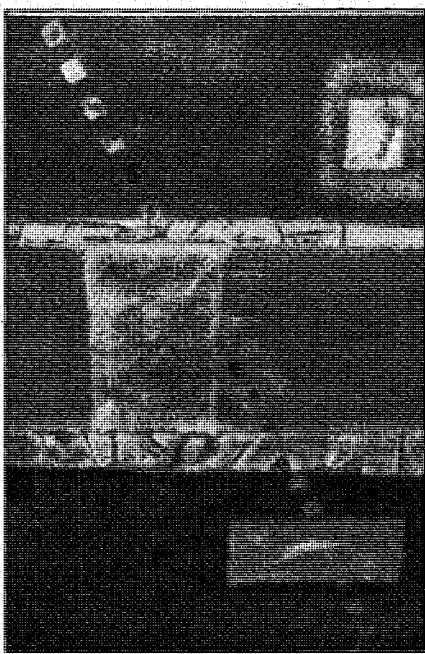

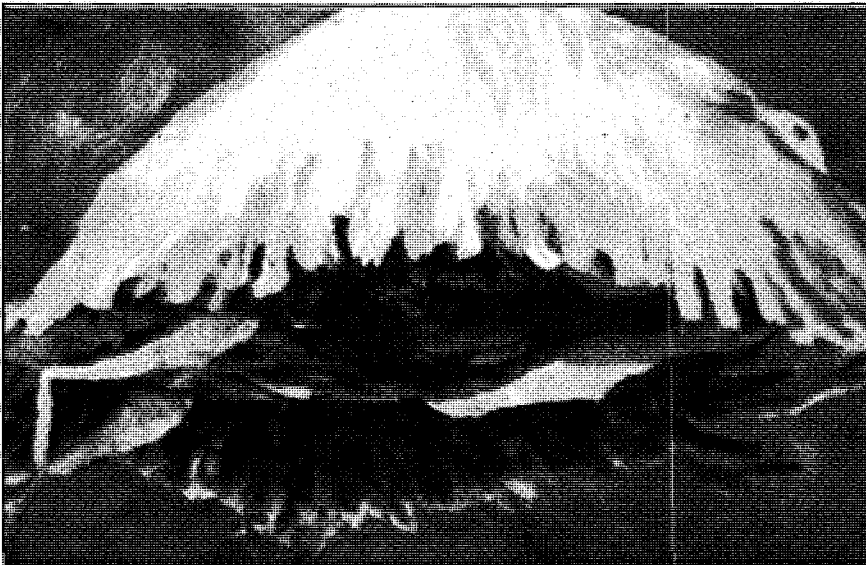

BIG Arts Members' Annual Summer Exhibit has been a popular show this summer in the cool respite of Founders Gallery at BIG Arts. This show features a captivating collection of wonderful raku, acrylic, batik, clay, watercolor, mixed media, collage, oil, and pottery pieces - from refined to whimsical. Many of the works in this exhibit are by talented BIG Arts volunteers.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Monday - Friday. Exhibit runs through August 30. Because all artwork from this exhibit may be purchased directly off the wall or pedestal and priced at $250 and under, new artwork is continually being received.

This exhibit is joined by the Sanibel Christian Homeschoolers. Students aging from 10 through 17 are represented through artwork in a variety of mediums.

For more information on this and other events happening at BIG Arts, call 395-0900.

Local Zonta members in Melbourne

The Sanibel-Captiva Zonta Club sent two delegates to the 58th Zonta International Convention in Melbourne, Australia this June. Over 1,200 clubs worldwide, from 68 countries, were represented at the conference with almost 2000 members and guests attending. Zonta was first organized in 1919 in Buffalo, New York and it is now a "global organization of executives and professionals working together to advance the status of women worldwide through service and advocacy."

Karen Pati, Immediate Past President, and Nola Theiss, 2006-2007 President, attended the conference, representing the Sanibel-Captiva Club, as well as the Bonita Springs and Punta Gorda Clubs. The Fort Myers and Sarasota Clubs also sent delegates, Bev Duff and Caridad Santos.

Pati and Theiss served as presenters at the "Violence Against Women: Human Trafficking Workshop" attended by over 400 Zontians. Their presentation was called "Creating a Human Trafficking Club Project." It outlined the action steps needed to initiate a community task force, modeled on the successful Coalition Against Human Trafficking in SW Florida, which the Sanibel Club spearheaded locally. Other speakers at this workshop included Jennifer Burn, a senior lecturer of law at the University of Technology, Sydney and heads the Australian Anti-Slavery Project. Dr. Gerda Senkyr of Austria spoke about the Zonta International supported Anti-Trafficking Project in Bosnia-Herzegovina. As Dr. Caridad Santos of the Sarasota Club said, "I learned a lot from the four presenters, especially the two presenters from the Sanibel-Captiva Club...who gave six guidelines to create a human trafficking project."

After the presentation, a number of clubs from different countries, including the Philippines and Australia, met with Pati and Theiss. Nola Theiss was asked to speak at a gathering of club members in the Brisbane area. Her presentation was covered in a local newspaper article, titled "Zonta Reaches Out to Rescue Victims of Trafficking," which quoted her as saying, "Groups such as Zonta have shown it's possible to make a difference." A number of other clubs have asked to use their PowerPoint presentation with their own clubs. It is available on the club website: www.zonta-sancap.com.

Rotary on the move

As of Friday, July 21, the Sanibel-Captiva Rotary Club will now be holding their regular breakfast meetings at the Beachview Golf and Tennis Club Restaurant at 1110 Par View Drive, Sanibel at 7 a.m.

Planning for next season is underway and as published in last week's Rotary article the club is still formulating their speaker line-up for this upcoming year. The club had an impressive speaker program this past year and we are hoping to continue this trend. The club is also seeking your help, if you would like to be a speaker or have an idea for an interesting topic, just call Shirley Jewell 395-1099 and those ideas will be considered.

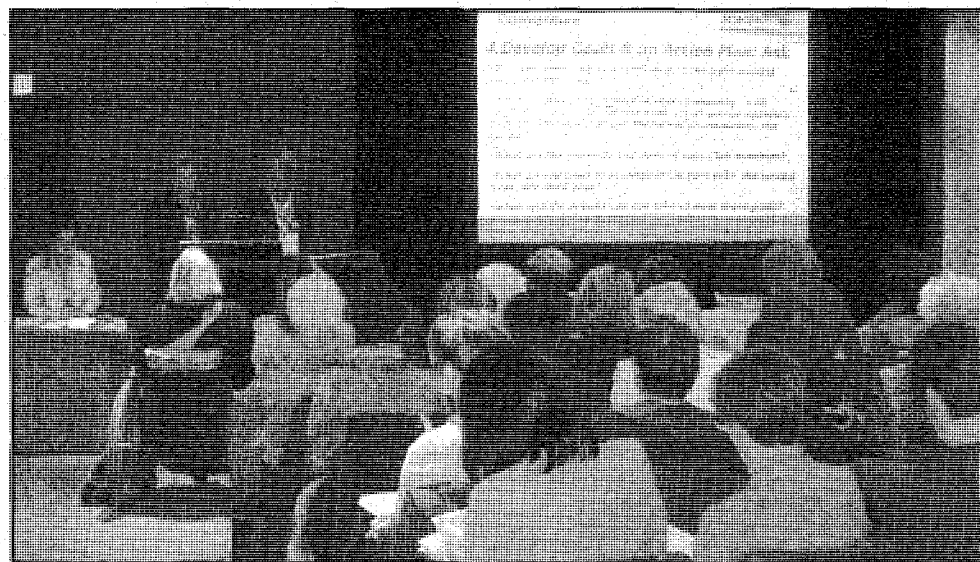

Rotary Club Board Member and Membership Chair, Jack Luiszer continues to stress the importance of new memberships to the club. New members bring new ideas and new energy to our organization and are the future of Rotary. Club President, John Bellino welcomes new club member Jeanne Hill and presented her with framed copies of the Rotary Four-Way Test and the Object of Rotary. Continuing in that vein, Jack Luiszer, Club Board of Director Member and Membership Chair, recognized the following club members: John Bellino, Bill Currise, and Don James for sponsoring the most new members this year. If you think you might be interested in becoming a member of Rotary or would like some further information about this great organization, call Jack Luiszer, 472-4756.

Don't forget this coming Friday, July 21, Rotary will be meeting at the Beachview Golf and Tennis Club Restaurant at 7 a.m. This week's speaker will be the new Rotary District #6960 Governor, Tony Gallo.

Catching up on sleep for better health

Counting calories? Try counting Z's instead. Studies show that lack of sleep can cause metabolic changes that may lead to overeating and obesity, according to some health experts. A good night's sleep may seem like a luxury in this always-rushed, time-starved world. But scientists have found that your life may depend on it. Research shows that chronic insomnia can lead to health problems far more serious than the drowsiness and poor concentration most of us feel after a sleepless night, and weight gain is just one of them. For instance, studies suggest that sleep deprivation can compromise the immune system. And researchers at the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke say that without enough sleep, the neurons we use when we're awake don't have a chance to shut down and repair themselves. They may become so depleted in energy they begin to malfunction. And it's not just neurons that repair themselves while we sleep. Sleep also helps the lining of the stomach repair itself, perhaps preventing ulcers. And a good night's sleep gives the heart some much-needed time to rest. Those who have trouble falling asleep may find relief from over-the-counter products designed to aid in relaxation. For instance, Insomnia, from the "Spray" line of sublingual sprays (www.thespray.com), can help alleviate the anxiety and stress that make it difficult to sleep. A combination of natural remedies, Insomnia curbs immediate symptoms and works at a deeper level, helping you to sleep more soundly and comfortably, according to the manufacturer. The National Sleep Foundation suggests establishing a regular, relaxing bedtime routine. A relaxing activity away from bright lights helps separate your sleep time from activities that can cause anxiety. Try dimming the lights, soaking in a hot bath and reading a book or listening to music. Or, before you fall into bed, put on a relaxation CD. Nature sounds are soothing and encourage sleep. However you choose to get a good night's sleep, your body will thank you for it.

Tips on saving energy in your home

A typical U.S. family spends more than $1,600 a year on home utility bills, yet making some simple changes around the home can save money and make heating and cooling systems more efficient, according to World Energy Solutions, a publicly traded energy services company based in St. Petersburg, Fla. By evaluating facilities and equipment, World Energy Solutions (symbol: WEGY) helps businesses lower their utility consumption and maintenance costs and extend the life of their equipment. "Many of the energy-saving strategies we use for our commercial customers can also be applied to the home," says Benjamin Croton, chief executive officer of World Energy Solutions. "There are many common-sense, low-cost and no-cost ways to lower your home energy use as well as many new technologies that can be applied to your home's energy-consuming systems." Here are some tips from the American Council for an Energy Efficient Economy on things homeowners can do to make their homes more energy efficient:

- * Turn down the temperature of your water heater to the warm setting.
- * Use energy-saving settings on refrigerators, dishwashers, washing machines and clothes dryers.
- * Use compact fluorescent bulbs, which can save three-quarters of the electricity used by incandescents. First to be replaced should be any 60-watt to 100-watt bulbs that are used several hours a day.
- * Have your heating and

- * cooling systems serviced in the fall and spring. Duct sealing can also improve the energy efficiency and overall performance of your furnace or central air conditioner.
- * Clean or replace furnace, air conditioner and heat-pump filters.
- * Assess your heating and cooling systems to determine if you should replace or retrofit them to make them work more efficiently to provide the same comfort, or better, with less energy.
- * "If your home's central air-conditioning system is over 10 years old, a new state-of-the-art system can save you 30 percent or more of your home's air-conditioning expense," says George Walker, air-conditioning expert with World Energy Solutions. For more information on ways to increase energy efficiency, visit www.wesinc.net.

B'way Palm soars with the Sound of Music

By Anne Bellew
awbellew@breezenewspapers.com

I was thrilled to be in the fortunate position of reviewing Broadway Palm Dinner Theatre's production of my very favorite-ever musical, The Sound of Music, which runs through August 12. Executive Producer Will Prather and Director Marie Jagger-Taylor have assembled what has to be the finest ensemble of vocal talent available in regional (or wider) theater today. Some faces (and voices) are familiar to Broadway Palm audiences; most are not.

The irrepressible Beth Brandel (Sister Margaretta) has been waiting and hoping she'd one day play this part... ever since she first played Gretl 25 years ago! Beth, the "Day by Day" gal in the recent production of Godspell, is one of those performers who "bubbles" with the joy of being alive and being on stage and, in the role of Sister Margaretta, obviously loves and admires the free spirit that the postulant Maria brings to Noonburg Abbey. Sister Berthe (Amber Carson), on the other hand, shows just the right amount of disapproval... albeit perceived as humorous by the audience. Carson has been singing "all her life" and made her Broadway Palm debut Godspell.

Elisabeth Kisselstein is a Syracuse, N.Y. native, a long-time professional singer and, in Sound of Music, makes her Broadway Palm debut in one of her favorite roles, The Mother Abbess — "Reverend Mother" to Maria.

This show, a reprisal of the original Broadway production, expands the Rev. Mother's character a bit beyond that of the beloved movie. For example, she's overheard Maria singing bits and pieces of "My Favorite Things" as she (Maria) goes about her daily chores. It is a song the Mother Abbess herself used to sing as a girl and she asks Maria to sing it so she can get the words down. Of course, the two of them then finish it out together in a well-blended duet. I found Kisselstein's rendition of the amazing "Climb Ev'ry Mountain" breathtaking.

Prathers' Golden Apple Theater as Belle in Beauty and the Beast. She has a big, glorious voice with fabulous enunciation that could fill Carnegie Hall in a heartbeat — almost too big for this venue.

Tara Marlana Laberge makes the Countess, Elsa, the almost-stepmother, as believable as the character ever is. The role is written in such a way that, regardless of the performer, it is hard to like her. She's a snob, she's an already-rich gold-digger, she's just not someone one would want to hang out with (much less bring into a household of seven children as their new mother!).

Paul Gregory Nelson (Captain Von Trapp) is a familiar performer as well as director at the Broadway Palm; he has been a part of many shows over the theater's 13-year history. Tall and elegant, with a fine voice, he is quite believable as the loyal Austrian naval officer whose whole concept of family was annihilated when the children's mother died. His "warming up" to Maria was very perceptively rendered.

Liesl, lovely Liesl, was perfectly cast in Holly Williams, a Jacksonville native who makes her debut on the Broadway Palm stage in this production. She has the "perfect" face an ingenue is "supposed" to have and a delightful singing voice.

The kids were marvelous. The performance I saw featured Jeremy Miller as Friedrich (superb as the voice-starting-to-change 14-year-old Friedrich), Lindsay Lam as the trickster Louisa, Kevin Hein as Mr. Mischief Kurt, Megan Carrasquillo as the practical and down-to-earth Brigitta, Danielle Taylor as Marta and Jessica Kieffer as cute little Gretl. All local, these young performers were thoughtfully cast and did a wonderful job.

There were a few timing issues the night I went early in the run that may well have been ironed out by this time. Lovely though it was, we had the impression that "Sixteen Going on Seventeen" seemed rushed.

Or, when Maria returned to the Von Trapp home and added her voice to those of the children who, with Liesl's guidance are trying to feel better by singing "My Favorite Things," it's too early in the song. And Maria's volume needed to be brought up slowly, as if from a distance.

Another, near the end, was when the family has sung in the contest and left the stage to make their run for the border. Max (Paul Bernier, in a superb depiction of this character part) returned to the stage to get the vote tally from the judges way too soon and then — instead of delaying by some means the announcement of the winners long enough for the family to have even gotten off the premises — immediately read off their names.

Another small item in a similar category (improves as a run continues) was the rhythm of the "business" in "So long, Farewell." The singing was, as expected, delightful; the choreography was not as polished the night I saw the production as it might have been...but practice, I'm sure, has made perfect.

The Sound of Music is wonderful family entertainment with performances Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m. following a fabulous buffet dinner that starts at 6. On Friday, August 4, at 10:30 p.m., you'll have the chance to sing along with the cast at a special Sound of Music Sing-Along. Lyrics will be projected on a big screen (just in case you can't remember all those words you've been singing for over 40 years) and patrons are urged to boo the Nazis, hiss at Fraulein Schraeder and yell Hurray! for Maria. For this "performance" Sound of Music attire is certainly suggested, but not required. There will be no buffet, but the bar will be open.

Tickets for the regular shows range from $25 to $48; children 15 and under are only $15 for dinner and the show. For the Sing-Along, tickets are $25 in advance and $30 on the day of the show. Tickets can be reserved by calling 278-4422, visiting www.BroadwayPalm.com or by stopping by the box office at 1380 Colonial Boulevard in Fort Myers.

Tower Gallery auction and barbecue

The funky flora and fauna inhabiting the Bank of the Islands lobby will go to the highest bidders on August 6 at the Simple Food, Sensational Art Barbecue at Tower Gallery. The artists at Tower created the painted wooden cutouts for their float in Sanibel's Fourth of July parade. They now present the four pieces at the bank for silent auction to benefit the Periwinkle replanting project.

The roseate spoonbill, palm tree, alligator and gecko cutouts, as large as six feet tall, made their first public appearance riding down Periwinkle Way on the gallery's jeep-drawn float. The critters accompanied a floating alligator, spouting whale and free prizes passed out by strolling artists.

"Our float was well received. People loved the flying alligator. I hope the community will support the silent auction which in the end will benefit the island," said Charlie Frese, Tower president. Frese, accompanied by Tower artist Ralph Bigletti, drove the jeep.

Tower artists Marianne Ravenna and Connie Sebring, with friend Susan Pataky, rode the float with the critters. Ravenna manned a pressure washer that served as the whale's spout.

"The parade was very well attended; people were in great moods clapping and cheering for all the floats. I think the crowd pleaser was the spouting whale," Ravenna said.

On the ground, Janie Frese, wife of Charlie Frese, pulled a flying inflated alligator that floated beneath five large helium balloons. Charles Lister and Ron Sebring were the Tower artists on the ground, distributing paint boxes, Tower Gallery magnets and candy.

"The crowd had lots of enthusiasm. The children were very well behaved and polite. All the kids said thank you after receiving their paint box," said Lister.

The painted wooden cutouts will stay at the bank through July where bidding is open. Then Tower artists will move the pieces to the gallery where bidding will close on August 6 at 5 p.m. at the Simple Food, Sensational Art Barbecue. Winners will be announced soon after, and, if not present, will be notified by phone and email. The Tower artists will donate the auction proceeds to the Periwinkle replanting project.

The pieces are collaborative works. Wood sculptor Frese and painter Ravenna designed the four plywood carvings that served as "canvases" for other Tower artists to finish. Minimum bids are $50 for the roseate spoonbill and $100 for the palm tree, alligator and gecko.

Bank of the Islands is located at 1699 Periwinkle Way (at Casa Ybel Road) on Sanibel. Lobby hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Simple Food, Sensational Art takes place Sunday, August 6, from noon to 8 p.m. at Tower Gallery, 751 Tarpon Bay Road, Sanibel. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday noon to 5 p.m. and Monday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Summer art exhibits

Sanibel-Captiva Art League members have over 100 paintings on view at the Sanibel Public Library and BIG Arts. Both buildings are on Dunlop Road near Sanibel City Hall.

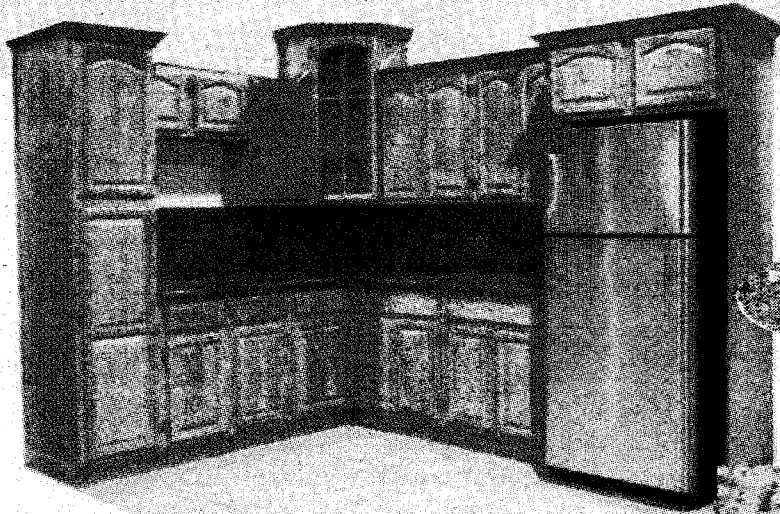

These colorful oils, acrylics and pastels, collages and watercolors include scenes of island locations painted during the weekly Thursday paint-outs. In the library, the artwork extends around both walls and also hangs on the back wall of the newly added media center. Residents and visitors are welcome to use the library facilities including computers, periodicals, DVD's, CD's, tapes, reference material, etc.

Call 472-2483 for hours. BIG Arts Phillips Gallery is open weekday afternoon; call 395-0900 for information about other events and classes. For Art League information call 472-4258 or 472-2726.

When you feed an alligator you are training it to approach humans and are creating a life threatening situation... especially for our children. Feeding alligators is a criminal act punishable by fines and/or imprisonment.

The Salvation Army needs canned food

The Salvation Army Crisis Management Unit that provides emergency food to individuals and families in Lee County is in crisis itself. The shelves are bare, but families continue to need assistance. Major Austruberto Flores of The Salvation Army said, "We are seeing a drastic increase in families with children needing our services this summer. The children are not in school and cannot receive the two meals a day that our public school system provides."

Last year this unit served over 11,944 individuals in Lee County. In addition to food, monetary donations can also assist those in need. With the assistance of federal food supplies, partnerships with local agencies and donated items, a contribution of $21 will feed three families of four for three days in Lee County.

The Salvation Army needs your help.

Please bring canned or dry goods to

The Salvation Army's Red Shield Lodge, 2400 Edison Avenue

- Items needed: Canned meats, canned spaghetti, rice, canned vegetables, canned beans, pastas and spaghetti sauce, peanut butter, canned fruit

Food drop-off location:

The Salvation Army Red Shield Lodge
2400 Edison Avenue
Fort Myers, FL 33901

Checks can be mailed to:

The Salvation Army
10291 McGregor Boulevard
Fort Myers, FL 33919

Library book discussion

Lost in the Forest
by Sue Miller

Readers are invited to discuss Lost in the Forest, by Sue Miller, the focus of the Wednesday July 26 book discussion meeting at the Sanibel Public Library. The 2 p.m. meeting is free and open to the public. Marlene Nicholas will serve as leader for the discussion.

Lost in the Forest follows a family, particularly a teen girl, who in the wake of a tragic accident seeks solace in a damaging love affair with a much older man.

Discussion begins promptly at 2 p.m. in the Library ground floor meeting room across from the elevator. Reference materials relating to the book, its plot, the author, and potential questions for discussion, are available at the library circulation desk. It is preferable to come having read the book to be able to join in the lively discussion. If you have questions, please call the library at 472-2483.

BIG Arts summer camp

BIG Arts Summer Camp continues to delight students with well organized instructors and great weekly themes. The BIG Arts fun continues with themes of "Curious Zoo" and "Creative Science Fair." "Treasure Island" proved to be a popular theme with treasure hunts, face painting, and pirate costume creation.

The talented and creative core instructors for the summer are - Art & Crafts: Randon Eddy, Lauren Herrmann, Crissy Penuel, Karen Tharp, and Leslie Tharp; Music: Jill Janda; and Movement & Drama: Ana Sidoran. July 31 is the last week of camp.

BIG Arts Summer Camp and Fine Arts Apprentice Program are for children from Pre-K to 5th Grade, Middle School and High School students. Several students of BIG Arts Summer Camp and After School Programs have gone on to continue their art education at Cypress Lake High School.

Barney Baller

Bernard Baller

Beloved Sanibel watercolorist Barney Baller passed away on Saturday, July 1, 2006. He was 88.

Born on Jan. 10, 1918 in New York City to Anna and Max Baller, Barney lived in all of the several boroughs of New York City, graduating from George Washington High School, then New York University with a degree in business administration. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II, attaining the rank of Lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps. The Ballers lived in East Brunswick, N.J., on Farrington Lake and, for 36 years, Barney owned and operated the Fireside Restaurant/Crown Diner and Barnabee's Liquors.

In 1986 Barney and his wife, Helen, moved to Sanibel and became 20-year summer residents of East Orleans on Cape Cod where Barney was very active in the local art associations. He enjoyed sailing and canoeing in both New Jersey and Cape Cod.

Barney's passion from an early age was art and painting and he pursued them vigorously until shortly before his death. He was active in Kiwanis, BIG ARTS, the Sanibel-Captiva Chamber of Commerce and Florida Repertory Theatre. A member of the Sanibel-Captiva Art League and Naples Art Association, he participated annually in the outdoor arts and crafts shows held on Sanibel, in Naples and Cape Cod — a tremendously prolific watercolor artist. His favorite subjects were children on the beach, seascapes and urban scenes, all of which have brought joy to many people.

"I've known Barney ever since he and Helen moved to the island," Sanybel's Finest owner and good friend Jack Elias said. "Soon after they arrived, he came in with several watercolors and sketches. I really liked them and told him I would be delighted to show his work in our gallery. We sold dozens of them — literally, just as fast as he could produce them, they were out of here. He'd be in two or three times a week with them — he got such a thrill out of meeting some of his collectors when they were in here at the same time! We'd go for coffee and discuss 'the affairs of the world' — all those things that neither of us could do anything about, we played golf... we were good friends. And Barney had a great sense of humor — we used to call each other up every once in awhile just to share the latest 'best joke' we'd heard!

"The day after 9/11 he came in with a truly luminous painting of the New York skyline with the World Trade Center intact and asked if I thought we could do something with it. I told him. I thought we should sell it and send the proceeds to the City of New York. With the help of Bank of the Islands, we did and, because of a connection one of my employees had made flying back from vacation, we were able to route the proceeds directly to Mayor Guiliani's office. Barney was thrilled."

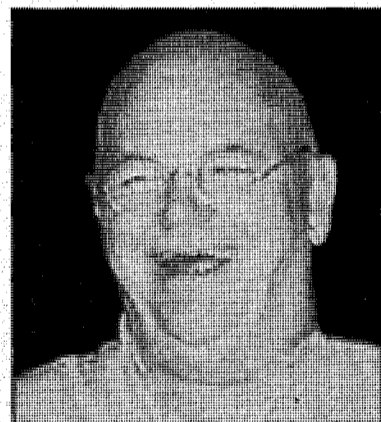

Barney continued to paint and produce pictures for Jack long after he became ill — during his last few years primarily animals and birds, some with inscriptions on them — and donated some of his recent works for auction to benefit Alvin A. Dubin Alzheimer's Association.

"He continued to be able to get the feeling, the character into his art, almost until his death" Elias commented sadly. "The colors and the spirit were still there..."

"He was one of a kind, and I will really, really miss him — a great, great friend."

Barney's survivors include his loving wife, Helen; his two sons — Wayne, and his wife, Molly, of Dayton, Ohio and Clinton of Birmingham, Mich.; and four grandsons — Michael, Steven, David and Cameron. His son Roger preceded him in death.

A memorial service will be held at a later date. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to BIG ARTS, 900 Dunlop Road, Sanibel 33957 or to the Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation, 3333 Sanibel-Captiva Road, Sanibel 33957.

Frank Walsh

Frank Walsh

Long-time Sanibel resident Frank Walsh — eternally youthful and beautifully brilliant — died suddenly on July 14th 2006. Paddled home from hospital in a canoe across Boston's Charles River, he started life in a tent. Learning from the quiet strength of his brave mother who raised seven children on her own, he escaped poverty, earned a Ph.D. in English literature from Boston University and became a Professor at the University of Massachusetts.

True to his Irish heritage, Frank took pleasure in a simple life rooted in a deep love of family and friends, and adorned with chardonnay, food, and art. A gifted conversationalist — equally at home with quoting Blake and relating gritty stories of street life in Boston — boredom was not possible when Frank was in the room. He had a playful disregard for the conventional. Not one to let a mistake interfere with the joy of living, only he could create a beautiful love story by dialing a wrong number.

Frank was preceded in death by his mother, Helen, his sister, Helen, and his gentle, infant sister Cheryl Ann. He is deeply missed by his wife, Kathleen; his daughters — Tess, who grew up on the island, and Kiley; his sisters — Alberta Gentile and Jean Drew of New Hampshire; his brothers — Arthur Walsh of Massachusetts and Chuck Walsh of New Hampshire; many nieces and nephews, and many, many friends.

Question of the week: What made you come to Sanibel?

By Laura Blaskowitz

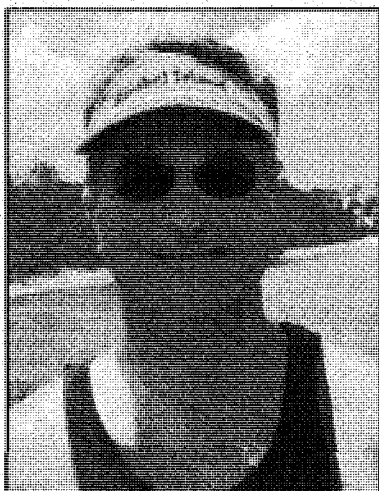

We've been coming here for years and years.

Spike Lawrence Tampa, Fla.

We had friends that came and we really liked the area. We love shelling, the water and relaxing.

Sue Taylor Newton, Ill.

We've been coming here for 15 years. It's a relaxing vacation. I like the atmosphere. It hasn't been built up like Marco Island.

Because it's a tradition.

Gabby Cabrera Warrenton, Va.

Because I get to spend time with my cousin and my aunt. I get to spend a lot of time with my grandma.

*Daniella Medina
Miami, Fla.*

Don't Miss This Week!

THIS WEEK!

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers officials recently got an earful from angry Sanibelians about the Corps' proposed management schedule for Lake Okeechobee. Many believe polluted lake water is responsible for red tide outbreaks and other environmental concerns. Be sure to visit the Island Reporter's Website at island-reporter.com.

THIS WEEK!

Captiva musician Chris Workman has completed three albums of original music. Following the legacy of his pianist father, Workman said he is fortunate to be able to make a living doing what he loves. To find out more about the Captiva Current, visit our Website at captivacurrent.com.

THIS WEEK!

Peruse everything from Theatre for Food at Twilight Café to Theatre for the Soul at The Schoolhouse Theater; from seashells bare at She Sells Seashells to seashells well-dressed as part of something completely different at Betsy's Necessities.
