OUR TENTH ANNIVERSARY

QUOVADIS

Published by the Senior Class
Sayreville High School
Sayreville, New Jersey

Foreword

High School has been the real beginning of our education, socially and intellectually. In our Freshman year, we entered the school with anxiety and enthusiasm.

In the years that followed, a new social world opened up before us. We selected our close friends and companions, and learned to live up to the standards and duties that were given to us. Through our education we have learned how to cope with many different situations and have tried to make our teachers feel proud of a job well done.

At times we get discouraged, and feel that we will never reach the goals we have set for ourselves, but with faith and self confidence we soon surmount those barriers. Now we must face reality. Our obligations are our own; we can no longer look to our teachers and advisers for assistance.

We have learned how to be responsible citizens of our community and our country. We, the Class of '52, must now satisfy that responsibility and we shall be able to meet it with confidence, thanks to Sayreville High School.

JESSE SELOVER

Dedication

To dream a dream and live to see that dream a reality is a rare honor. Forty-three years of public service were spent in making the dream come true. Today, the name of Jesse Selover is synonymous with the history and growth of the Sayreville Public Schools. To all he gave a little bit of himself. The Class of '52 is happy to dedicate its Yearbook to a really great American educator, Jesse Selover, Supervising Principal, Emeritus.

Two Competent Educators Who Have

R. S. POLLACK
Supervising Principal

In these days of uncertainty, when life's demands tempt us to revise our ethics, it is wise to remember that human weakness urges revision downward. The ability to resist this sinister invitation is the measure of a man's character; the power to reverse its direction—his worth. The one way to a better life is up, and the goal is achieved only by the individual. Millions of these individuals accepting the responsibility of living "To-day", a little more generously, more truthfully, with a bit more of kindness and love and a bit less of selfishness and avarice than "yesterday" is the unfailing recipe.

May you walk closely with God along the path ahead.

Miss Samsel and Dr. Pollack at work.

Directed Us Year After Year...

MISS MARGARET M. WALSH
Principal

This moment is yours. Through the years the cooperative efforts of the community, boards of education, principals and teachers have been the compelling influence in your lives. Now their work is finished and your work has begun. Education in Sayreville High School has so enriched your lives that you are adequately prepared to accept the challenge "Whither Goest Thou?"

In you "Sayreville High School Marches On" to fulfillment of its purpose. As reality and responsibility merge in on you and give greater depth to your life, it is my sincere hope that each will be strong enough to fashion a pattern of living for maximum happiness.

Mrs. Niewinski and Miss Walsh begin a day.

Their Efforts Made Our Education Possible

MARION E. SAMMEL
Secretary

BETTY KROEGER
Secretary

Our community has changed. It has grown gradually from a rural area to an urban one. Our entire educational system has been steadily developing right along with the community, the high school was completed in 1939. Ten years later a wing was added to the Roosevelt Grammar school to accommodate the increase in student enrollment. Behind this progress is a guiding force, the Board of Education. The members of the board have appreciated present problems and acted; foreseen future developments and acted again. We are grateful to these men and women who have so contributed towards our education.

COMMERCIAL

The commercial curriculum prepares pupils for office jobs. In the senior year provided the student passes stenography I and II and the full office practice course, they participate in a program in which they spend fifteen weeks in practice work in industrial plants in the area. Here they work without pay under close supervision and co-operation between school and plant authorities. The required business courses last through four years beginning with Junior Business Training in the Ninth Grade, Commercial Geography, Typing, and Steno or Book-keeping in the Tenth and Eleventh, and the specialized subjects of Office Practice, Business Problems, Commercial Law and Salesmanship in the Twelfth.

COLLEGE-PREP

The college preparatory curriculum provides the subjects that will be helpful to the student who plans to enter college. Latin and French are the languages offered; math courses include first and second year Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry; laboratory sciences are Biology, Physics, and Chemistry, and a basic knowledge of Music and Art are given. It is wise for the college preparatory pupil to select early in his high school career the colleges which interest him so that, in order to meet the requirements, he will select correct academic subjects.

GENERAL

The General curriculum is basically exploratory in the first and second year. Pupils can discover what they wish to do during the first year of the General curriculum and transfer thereafter to one of the others if they wish. The General curriculum is heavily weighted with electives. Students must elect at least seven credits during the last three years. They may prepare for specially chosen colleges individually in the General curriculum, provided they have minimum ability. They are able to get sufficient commercial subjects to qualify for typists and other beginning commercial positions.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts curriculum is designed for students primarily interested in mechanical skills. It has been organized in three levels; Juniors and Seniors form one level, Sophomores a second, and Freshmen a third. Boys should be able to develop sufficient skill to go to work in skill trades on apprenticeship basis. The required Industrial Arts subjects include four years of Drafting and a combination for four years of Woodwork and Metalwork in shops equipped for practical training.

"Most valuable player."

The Bombers opened their 1951 season in spectacular fashion as they trampled on their first four opponents. The loss of Bob Rhatican, quarterback, and Charles Kolakowski, all state back in 1950, was felt in November when three successive losses were suffered. The losing streak was broken Thanksgiving Day, when the squad registered a well earned victory over Woodbridge to finish with a record of five wins and three losses for this season.

The Bomber Quintet retained both the County and State Championships under the guidance of Coach Gutkowski. They picked up where last year's team left off, running the Sayreville winning streak to 28. They avenged their only defeat of the season with a smashing victory over Dunellen in the State Finals with a score of 70-54. Losing Joe Bonczek, Charles Kolakowski, Rudy Baleskievich, and Gene Malkiewicz through graduation leaves Joe Rudy to form the nucleus of next year's squad.

This musical organization, under the advisorship of Mr. Cornell, has received numerous trophies and awards. All band members have an opportunity to audition for the All-State Band.

TWIRLERS

The Twirlers, under the able direction of Mr. Cornell, always draw admiring comments from the crowds at football games, parades, and the Spring Concert. The captain of the squad has the job of originating twirls and leading the girls through precise and accurate routines. The high-stepping majorette is always leading the line of march.

Through Our Varied Talents

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is an organization which gives high school students actual experience in administrative work. The purposes of the council are: to promote school spirit; to direct general activities of the school; to improve school conditions; and to work for the best general welfare of the entire student body. The representatives from each home-room, serve one year as an active member and then become honorary members. The council, which is governed by a Constitution, headed by four officers and advised by Miss Walsh, meets once each week.

HONOR SOCIETY

The highest honor a student can receive in high school is induction to the National Honor Society. This year, there are twelve members, taken from the upper fifth of the class. Only 15% of the class can be chosen. The requirements are scholarship, leadership, character and service to the school. The induction takes place during a solemn ceremony which includes reading of the traditional selections of "Abou Ben Adhem," "Opportunity" and "If" by underclassmen of outstanding character and intelligence.

We Have Enriched Our School's Development

RED CROSS

The Red Cross Club is observing its second year in operation and has achieved a great many important endeavors in its own field. This club, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur, has sent magazines and Xmas gifts not only to orphans, but also to wounded soldiers in our Armed Forces hospitals. This organization deserves the recognition of being one of the most needed and helpful organizations in our school.

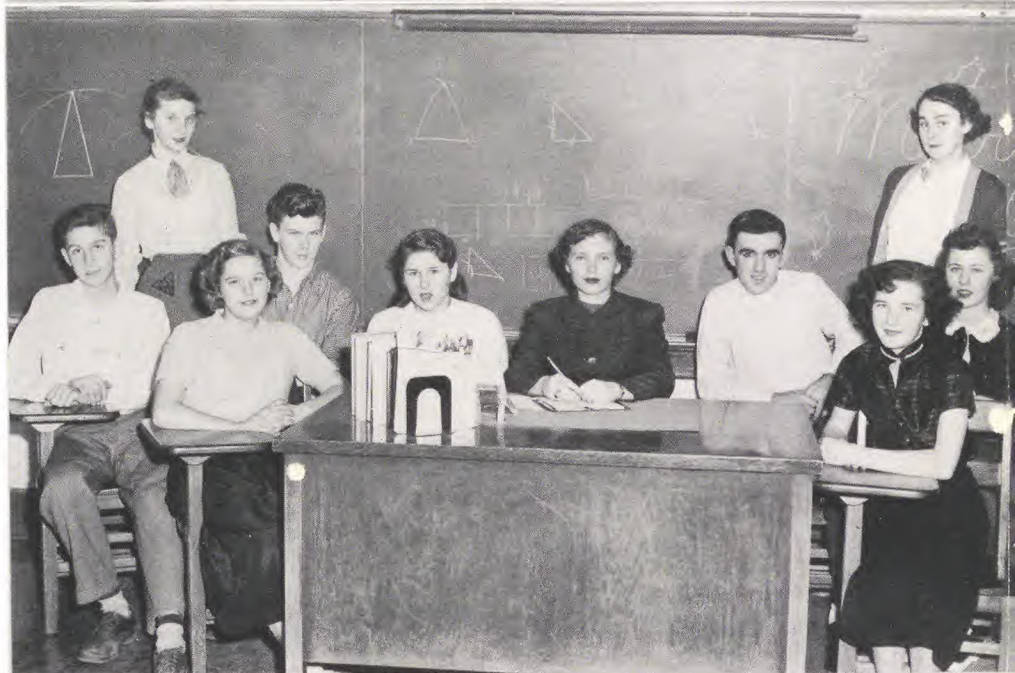

LIBRARY COUNCIL

Miss Witczak is the advisor of the Library Club which was organized the same year as the school. The job of the members is to learn the duties of a librarian. They learn how to arrange books in their proper order, repairing them, checking them in and out, filing magazines and arranging interesting decorations for the bulletin board. Each member devotes a study period a week working at the library desk as an assistant to the librarian.

SUB-DEB

A very practical organization, whose initial purpose is the development of personal appearance and personality, is the Sub-Deb Club. This club, under the direction of Miss Ethel M. Downing, is solely dependent upon the enthusiasm of the girls affiliated with it. The topics which make up the body of their program are: make-up, posture, hair-styling and social etiquette. Most young girls can readily see the utmost importance of having an organization of this sort operating in our High School.

DEBATING

The Debating Club is a new addition to Sayreville High School. Miss Wneck is the advisor. Since the group is not a large one there have been no officers elected as yet. The development of good habits of speech, thought, intelligent discussion, and the ability to draw conclusions, are its aims. This club has just been started but improvement in the members is already evident.

RADIO

The Radio Club consists of students who are interested in the fundamentals of radio and our newest addition to the entertainment world, television. This club, under the direction of Mr. Lucian J. Wnukowski, offers a knowledge that can easily be transferred to other fields related to radio. The students of this club obtain enjoyment, as well as additional knowledge, while they participate in the demonstrations and listen to the lectures given by their advisor.

AVIATION

In the Aviation Club is a group of boys interested in flying and model construction. It is under the direction of Mr. Starego. A book on aeronautics is being read by the group. Those interested in airplane mechanics or commercial aviation find this club a great asset to the careers they have planned. All types of models are being constructed by the students. The members are absorbed in aviation and are anxious to gain additional knowledge on the subject.

ECHOLITES

Each monthly edition of Echo-Lites is met with open hands by the student body. In addition to its news of all school activities, and its on the spot sports news, it carries special columns of interest. The Inquiring Reporter column gets the students' views on the question of the day; the Fads and Fashions column keeps one looking smart and neat, and "Sew It Seams" is sure to hand out a laugh or two. The paper is under the direction of Mr. Wetzel.

JOURNALISM

The Journalism Club, newly reorganized, has contributed to the excellence of our school newspaper, Echo-Lites, in many ways. The club, under the direction of Miss C. Lucitt, is undertaking the task of publishing a newspaper to be circulated through the school. The training received by the students will be put to use when they become members of our Echo-Lites staff. This experience will help in making the publishing of Echo-Lites a pleasure.

Enrollment is limited to students who do not have the opportunity to select Wood Shop as a regular subject in their schedules. Each club member purchases the materials for his project and uses the club facilities to make a useful or ornamental article during the school year.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

The Arts and Crafts Club is one of the oldest clubs in the school. The students, under the direction of Mr. Vincent Modzelewski, are working on projects such as block-printing, stenciling, knitting, weaving and crocheting. During the second half of the year, the students worked with oil and water colors.

PHOTOGRAPHY

OFFICE PRACTICE

The Office Practice group consists of the girls who have successfully passed Steno I and II and Typing I and II with grades no lower than B. The first half of the year is devoted to the mastery of all office machines and valuable tips on office routine. During the second half of the year, the girls work every afternoon in nearby offices of industry. They work without pay and are under the close supervision of plant and school authorities.

CURRENT EVENTS

This year, the Current Events Club has been really up to date. Its object is to discuss topics of interest to the world today. This is accomplished through separate committees that gather information, sift it down and prepare talks on current issues. These talks are followed by lively discussions under Mr. Simko's deft guidance. The result is a very enjoyable blend of education, fun and a quickened interest in world events.

LEADERS

The Leaders Club is composed of outstanding gym students from each of the girls' gym classes. They acquire a workable knowledge of most gym activities from tumbling and rope climbing to rules and refereeing of games. The Leaders also act as assistant teachers in the regular gym classes. As a group, the girls put on exhibitions on occasion. One of their most outstanding performances is presented at "Open House."

Under the direction of Miss Kalbach the members are advised on new procedures, developments and styles dealing with home economics. This year the club program has been separated into two divisions. During the first half the girls concentrate on sewing, and in the second half they deal with the culinary arts.

STORY CLUB

This is one of our newer clubs at S.H.S. At the first meeting the following members were elected: Jack McMahon (Pres.), Shirley Zuback (Sec.), learning the art of reading has proved interesting to its members. They read stories as the title suggests as well as interesting and exciting plays: Telling stories is the next item on the agenda of this club. The members have learned that reading and telling stories can be fun.

Ten Years Running... "LIFE OF THE PARTY"

On the evenings of March 14 and 15, the Seniors presented the mysterious, and comical episode "Ramschackle Inn," by George Batson. When Miss Belinda Pryde, and her partner Commodore Lucius Towser, bought Ye Olde Colonial Inn, she became entangled in the reunion of Mary Temple and Bill Philips, son of Mame Philips, the murderer of Mary's Uncle Thad, the town banker, gangsters and gun molls and two hick policemen. The logical suspects are Patton and his accomplice, Dr. Steven Russell and his wife Gail. Joyce Rogers, F.B.I. woman in disguise identifies the second victim as her assistant. Belinda solves the mystery when she recognizes Fred Porter, a supposed member of the Coast Guard, as Hagen, the mob leader.

At the top of the senior list of high school memories ranks our trip to Washington, D. C. Some of the places we visited were: the Capitol, Mount Vernon, the Washington Monument, the Jefferson Memorial and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. We shall always remember our tour of the Pan-American Building when Donald "Christopher Columbus" Peterson, Fred "Vasco de Gama" Friedman, Alfred "Henry Hudson" Bailey and Kenneth "Ponce de Leon" Jordan set out to make history by exploring an air raid shelter which led them under the streets of Washington. It's all over, but the memories will remain.

Sayreville High School girls are getting an opportunity to size up nursing through a new cooperative trainee program under the auspices of the school and St. Peter's Hospital.

Three girls, Nancy Kroeger, Janet Dill and Joan Janicker, began the program Monday dressed in pale green uniforms with white collars, cuffs and large white aprons.

Their uniforms were purchased by Dr. Edward Jasionowski, school physician, who was instrumental in setting up the program.

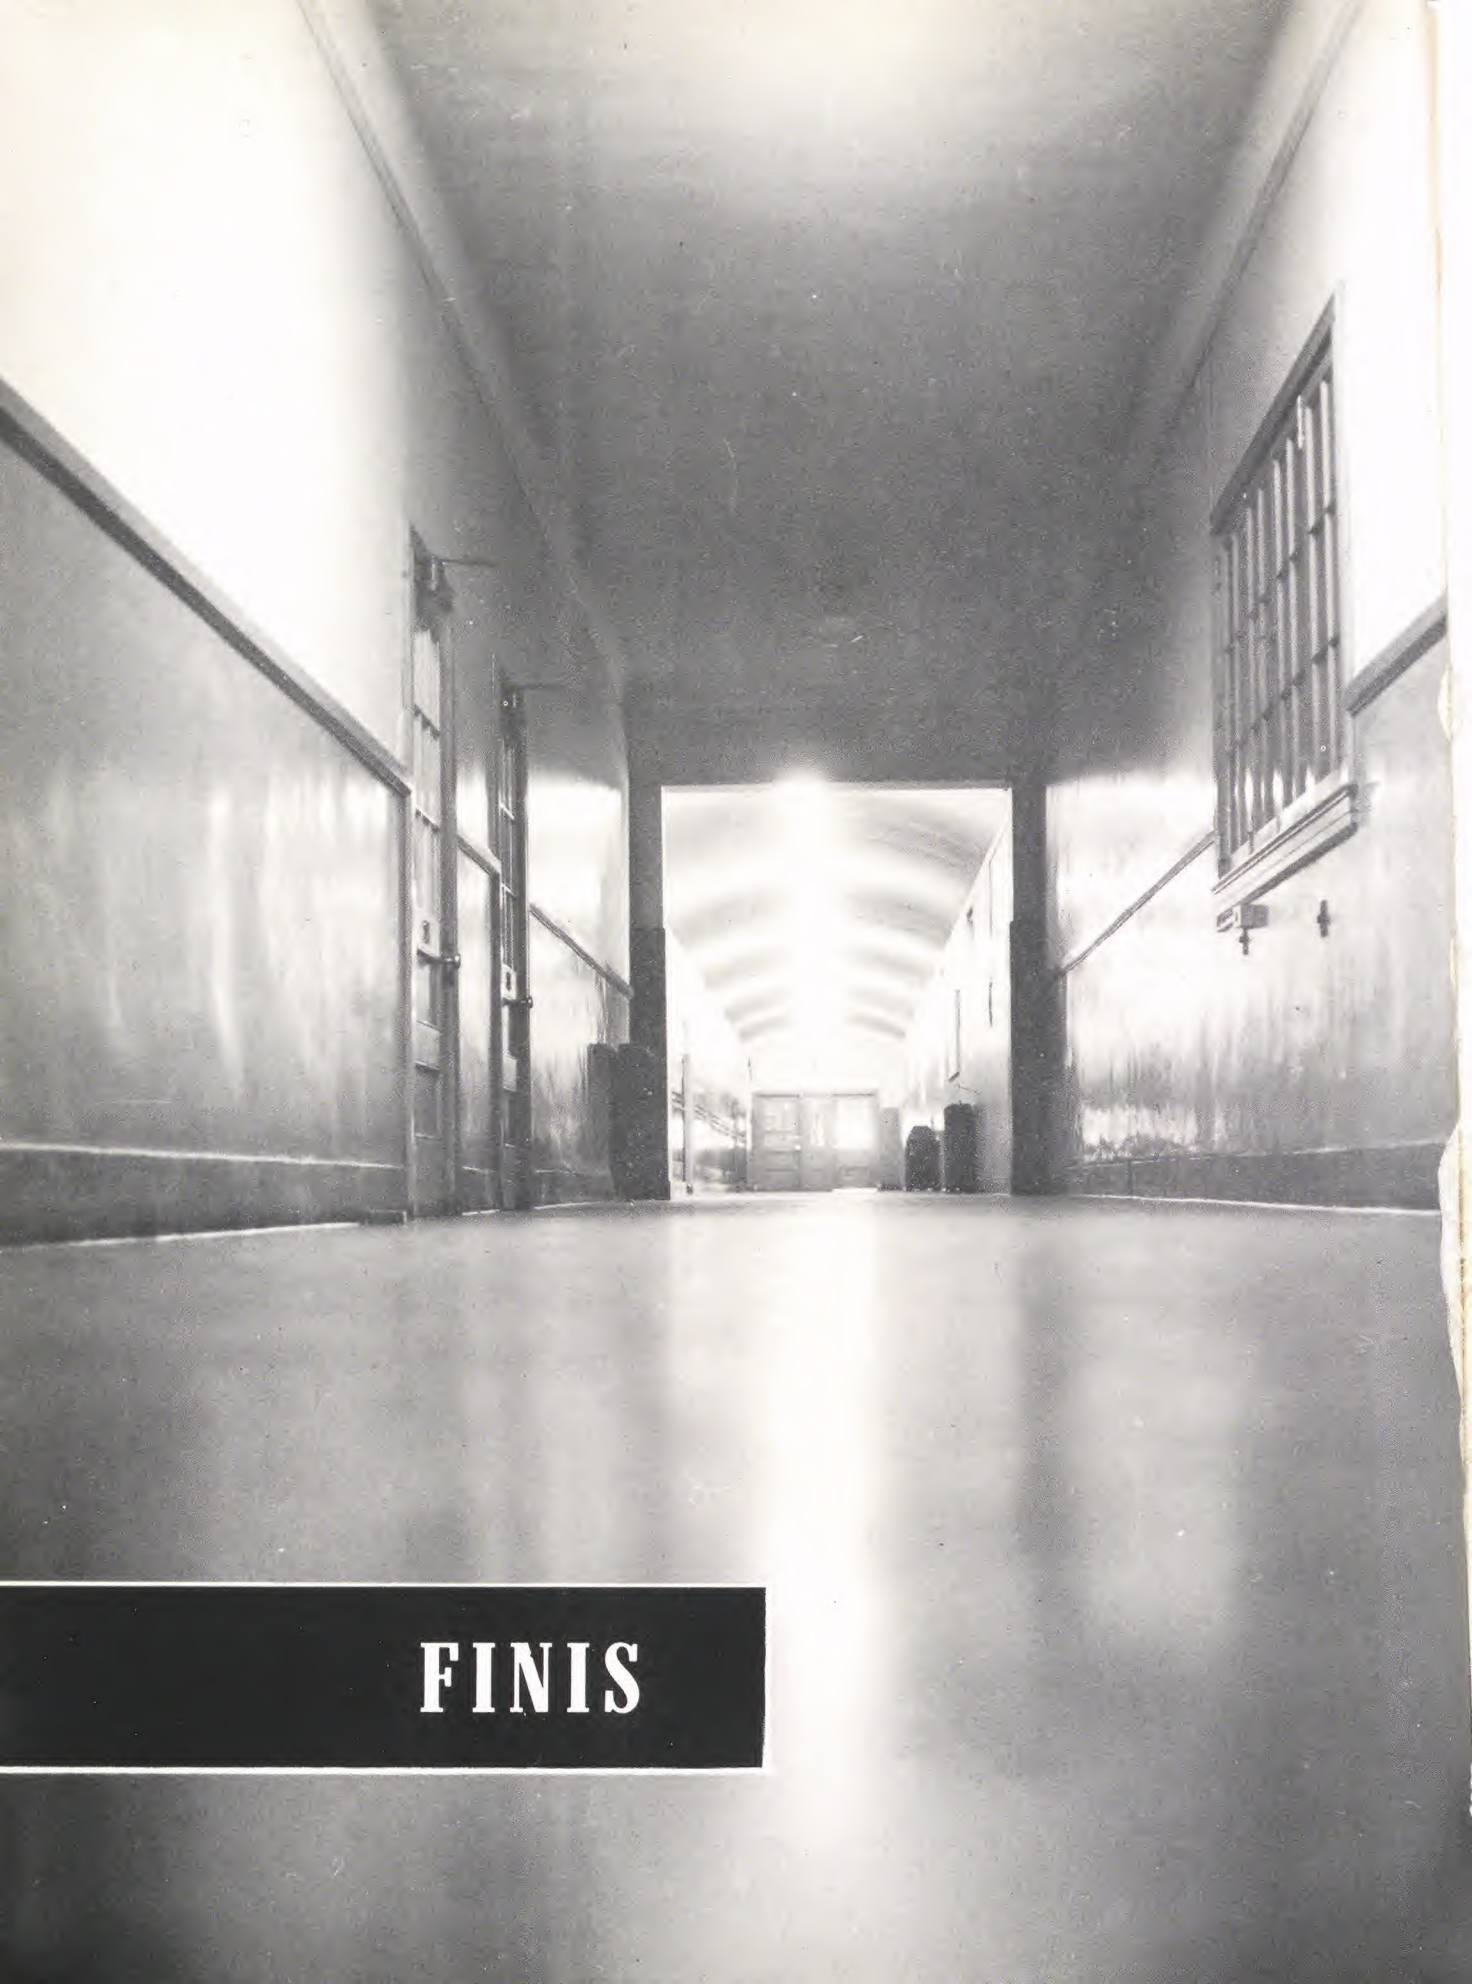

He realized that there is an acute shortage of nurses and that this program would help stimulate interest. It would also give the girls a chance to see how they like nursing before actually entering training school and the hospital a chance to judge their suitability for the career, he said. This is expected to reduce the drop-out rate from training school.

The three new nurses, who are enthusiastic about their experiences leave school at 1:50 P. M. and work at St. Peter's till 6:30 each weekday, continuing until their graduation in June. They intend to enter St. Peter's Nursing School in September, but this is not a prerequisite.

Miss Margaret Lehman, school nurse, and Miss Margaret Mary Walsh, school principal, instructed the girls in the orientation program.

Dr. R. S. Pollack, supervising principal, several years ago enlarged a trainee program for commercial students who work in local industries. This nursing program expands the opportunities for students to get vocational experience as well as advice.

BEST WISHES . . .

to the Class of 1952 of Sayreville High School. May you face the life ahead with courage and confidence, secure in the knowledge that American methods of education have made you ready for the duties and responsibilities of adults and citizens.

Just as you have grown and prospered throughout your school years, the Parlin plant of the Hercules Powder Company has come from small beginnings to this present status.

Just as you have learned to be ready for ever new conditions and problems, we of Hercules have learned to prepare for any eventuality.

When a nation, through its citizens and its industries, learns the worth of allowing for growth and preparing for the future, it is armed with weapons which no armed might can understand. Thus our beloved United States stands unique in all the world as a nation equipped by means of "The Four Freedoms" to forge ahead and make an ever better life for us all.

Hercules is proud to be a part of the industrial might that is America. We believe that we are contributing, to some degree, to the growth and preservation of our nation.

"Don't put all your eggs in one basket" is good advice whether you are managing a business or choosing a career. Owens-Illinois puts its eggs in many baskets. Its steady growth has come through the development of new products to reach new markets. Today its line includes thousands of shapes and sizes of glass, plastic, metal, wood and chemical products, used in industry and the home. To nearly thirty-thousand employees and to the thousands more who undoubtedly will join them this means opportunity.
