FOREWORD

On one occasion Aristotle was asked how much educated men were superior to those uneducated: "As much," said he, "as the living are to the dead." This statement typifies the ancient Greek's high regard for intellect and education. It is to those people that we look for the roots of education. It is from those people that we gain our democratic educational system. The Greeks strove to learn for the pure joy of learning.

The 1959 Quo Vadis strives to convey the ideals of the Greeks by the use of a Greek theme. Through the employment of pictures, words, and thoughts, this yearbook has been enhanced with the beauty and culture of the Greeks.

It is the particular aim of Sayreville High School each year to send an educated, well-adjusted group of students into the world of daily living. It would be well for the Class of 1959, upon entering that world, to look again to the Greeks for guidance, philosophy, and wisdom.

... whereas you are not only good yourself, but also the cause of goodness in others.—Socrates

FACULTY

GOVERNING BODY

From top to bottom: R. Presnal, A. Schussler, J. Ziembra, E. Fielek, M. Guilfoyle, A. Popowski, Mayor; H. Boehm, J. Kolb.

The Senior class is deeply indebted to the governing body of Sayreville for the assistance and cooperation which it has given it. There are many occasions on which it has displayed its interest in our school. Youth Week is probably the greatest single event to which it contributes yearly. Its efforts are largely responsible for making this a successful endeavor.

The mayor and his council have developed the community into one filled with opportunities. They have made many improvements in the past few years for more efficient handling of governmental operations. The low tax rate which they have sought to maintain encourages further expansion of our present industries and the development of new ones.

Perhaps the greatest contribution made by the governing body is the reliable government which they have created. Every member of the community can be proud of the men who manage its affairs. We can give nothing but words of praise for the splendid work which they have done in the past and are certain to continue doing in the future.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

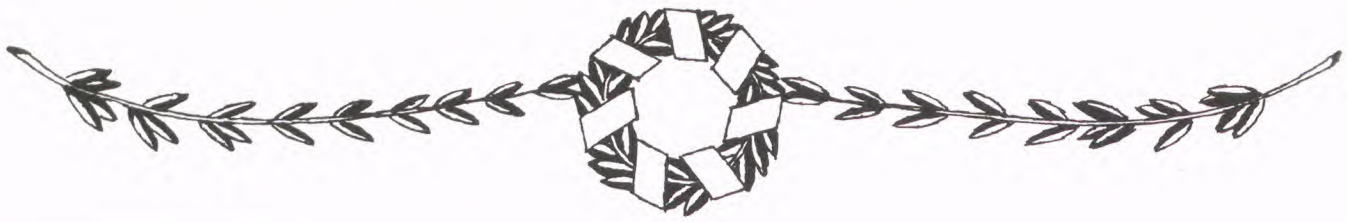

From top to bottom: J. Callahan, E. Puchalski, J. Cavin, J. Keenan, F. Samuels,
S. Novak, P. Karbowski, W. Chevalier, W. Lemerich.

Ten outstanding citizens of Sayreville compose our Board of Education. These men provide us with one of the finest school systems in the state of New Jersey, and, through their sincere efforts, decide school problems most advantageous to the students.

In addition to executing the needs of our school, this concerned group furnishes activities for the athletes, band, twirlers, color guard, cheerleaders, and the remaining students to participate in.

The class of 1959 gratefully extends its thanks to all ten members of the Board of Education for looking to our needs for education and also for ameliorating the school system throughout the community.

TO THE CLASS OF '59

Our earth has once again been made smaller by the genius of man. The "Jet Age" has dawned. In October of 1958, Pan American World Airways started the first regularly scheduled commercial jet flights between this country and Western Europe. Flying time has been approximately halved between New York City and London. Taking into account the time difference, it is now possible to leave New York in the morning at 10:00 a.m., fly to London, stay one hour, fly back to New York and be home by midnight of the same day. The hour you have in London is long enough to create a great work, or to be completely useless; to kill a man, or save a thousand lives; to wreck a career, or fall in love; to cause deep anguish or make someone happy; to pass on a fatal infection or deliver a vial of immunizing serum.

God grant you the wisdom to know what to do with your "hour in London".

A few seeds of education have been planted and watered, deep roots of character training have taken hold, now await with confidence the growth of worthwhile adults.

Whatever your civilization has is gleaned from the sowing, reaping and utilization of the good of each generation.

You, the Class of '59, add yourselves to this continuous movement of life and progress. May you have the ability to know what you want and the wherewithal to achieve it.

Beware lest you lose the substance by grasping at the shadows.

We, the Class of 1959, have been very fortunate in having such wonderful advisors throughout our four years. With Mr. Todd at the helm, aided by Mrs. Parnell and Mrs. Fehrle, they have guided us in our progress through school. They have faithfully offered of their time and talents to help make our dances, the football games, and all our other activities great successes.

We realize that our mere thanks can never actually repay them, but we do want them to know how much we appreciate all that they have done for us. Our very special thanks go to Mr. Todd, whose untiring effort and guidance these past four years have steadied our course through high school.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PLAY

This year, the Junior and Senior classes put their efforts together in producing a two-act operetta, "The Red Mill." Under the direction of Mrs. Helen Pfeiffer and with the aid of Mr. Christopher Cornell and Mr. Alan Mount, this operetta was termed a "great success." The story takes place in a small village in Holland where strange incidents take place concerning the Mill and some of the citizens. We are sure that the music and beautiful lyrics were quite enjoyable to everyone.

The exquisite costumes were rented out and the excellent work of scenery added to the splendor of the entire production.

We would again like to thank everyone connected with the operetta for working as hard as they did to make it an experience we all will long remember.

The class of 1959, coming back this year as seniors, had a great deal of work ahead of it. One of the most important and most interesting jobs was that of creating our class yearbook. With the selection of editors, the staff began work in September. Through the months, the many people connected with the staff have worked diligently in preparing the components of this book. Through co-operation and team work, the group has realized, finally, the finished product. And the greatest satisfaction that the staff could receive, is that of seeing this book now, completed, and know that they have helped to make it. The staff, along with the people who have aided in every way, appreciate the time and effort taken by our advisor, Mrs. Helen Pfeiffer, in helping us to complete the 1959 Quo Vadis.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class, after two years of hard work and memorable events, have finally become upperclassmen. They have worked hard this year at their various dances and in the Senior-Junior Operetta. The big event of this year was the receiving of class rings. Now, there remains the aspiration of becoming seniors and graduating as the Class of 1960.

College Preparatory Course

The college preparatory course is one in which the student can ably prepare himself for college. It is the prime aim of this course to teach the student to think intelligently, and to have the foresight to use his talents to his advantage. Here at Sayreville, a very comprehensive study in the math, science, and language fields is offered. Through this course one not only receives an academic education, but also social and moral training as well. These, integrated with the other subjects, make for a complete and well-rounded education.

Commercial Course

It is the aim of the commercial course to prepare young men and women for the world of business. An excellent background is offered through the typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and business law courses. Experience is acquired through a program in the Senior Year, in which the commercial students are sent out for actual on-the-job training. With the combination of these two, ability and experience, along with the poise and dignity so necessary to business, a student from this course has vast opportunities open to him in the world of business.

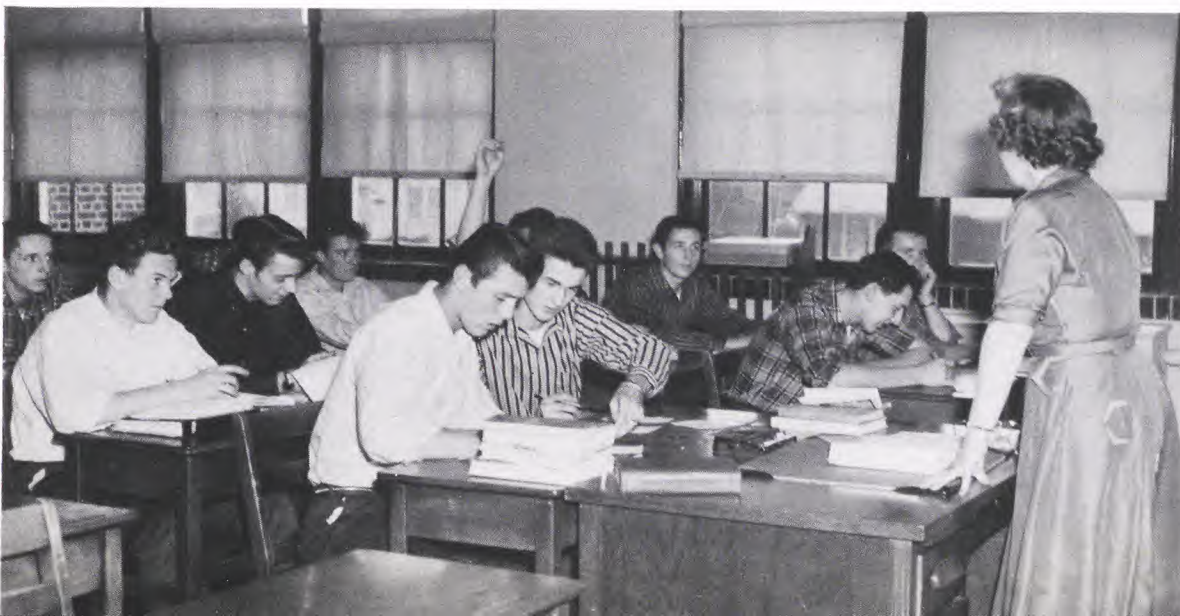

Industrial Course

For those of us who are mechanically inclined and have the ability to create with our hands, there is available the industrial course. Here, training in wood and metal working, along with mechanical drawing, prepare the student for livelihoods in industry. Manual skills and basic maths can be acquired in this course which help to qualify one for the many openings available in the industrial field today.

General Course

Oft times, students are not quite sure just what course they would like to follow. In this case, the general curriculum is open to them. Here, they may experiment with the varied subjects offered, and try to seek out their field of endeavor. This course is concerned with an education in a broader and more general way. Through this course, students are able to touch on all facets of education, in this way, gaining a basic knowledge, applicable to any field they may finally choose.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, as its name implies, is an organization designed primarily to aid the students. It consists of a representative group of students elected by their fellow classmates. Under the able supervision of Mrs. Angelica Marra, this group performs invaluable services to the students, school, and community.

Any problems which the students may encounter are brought before the council and the probable solutions to them are discussed. Constructive criticism and suggestions for improvements are welcomed by the council at all times. Collections for charitable purposes such as polio, heart fund, and tuberculosis are made at various times throughout the year by this group. These are just a few of the many activities conducted by the council.

Probably the greatest achievement made by the council is its assistance to the community. It teaches the leaders of the school to become future leaders of the community to learn the value of making decisions. The Student Council is indeed a necessary part of student activities in each and every high school throughout our country!

ECHO-LITES

Each spring the editor and staff of Echo-Lites, the school newspaper, are chosen for the following year. From September to June, the reporters work assiduously in an effort to supply the student body with news of importance and special interest. The Echo-Lites is issued five times a year to enthusiastic readers whose reaction is complimentary. Despite the fact that the staff is composed of highly qualified students who contribute their talents and efforts to the production of the newspaper, its publication would be impossible without the excellent guidance of Mrs. Helen Pfeiffer.

The Sayreville High School Band is the backbone of our school spirit. They play for the football games and assemblies, march in parades, and build a fine reputation for our school by their excellent showmanship. Their annual concert is one of the highlights of the school year. Under the able and untiring leadership of Mr. Christopher Cornell, the Band is a great asset to our school program.

COLOR GUARD

At the head of Sayreville High School's marching units can be seen a group of talented and well-drilled young girls. These high-steppers have the honor of bearing our school and national colors.

ACCELERATED COURSE

The accelerated course is a rather new and interesting institution in the college curriculum of Sayreville High. Through advanced contemporary English courses, and a more intense mathematics study, exceptional students are given a chance to use their abilities and to develop their knowledge to a greater degree. The present class of 1960 has the honor of being the first class in our school to have representatives enrolled in the course. This fine new offering has been recognized as being a great advance in the field of education here at Sayreville High.

FOOTBALL

Sayreville High's grid aspirants were out early this year to practice up for a fast-moving football season. They practiced hard and played harder and never failed to give a good show of sportsmanship. The team spirit and courage shown by the Bombers, as they ran down the field for those touchdowns, will never be forgotten by the students. A note of congratulation must go to Mr. Homer Dill whose first year as head coach has proven to be outstanding. To all the boys on the team we say congratulations for a job well done.

The basketball team, under the guidance of Mr. John Gutowski, had a good season, and reached the tournament games again. Spirit, alacrity, and coordination are the traits necessary for good basketball, and the S.H.S. team showed its best for the blue and gray. The students will remember many thrilling moments when, in the final seconds of the game, the Bombers sped down the court to sink a basket and win. The blue and gray this year had the teamwork that counts.

BASEBALL

America's favorite sport has, of course, always held a position of great interest at Sayreville High. We students take great pride in seeing our boys, guided by Mr. John Wortley, out there on the diamond playing to win. The "crack" of a powerful hit sparks a surge of excitement in all sportsmen, and every fan enjoys helping the runner round third base and on his way home. The students salute their team on its good work and hope that the baseball tradition will always be alive at S.H.S.

TRACK

In its second year at Sayreville, track is gaining greatly in student popularity. Somewhere around the middle of March, you can see the boys practice-running and shaping-up for the season. High-jumping, broad-jumping, pole vaulting, javelin, shot put, discus, and the mile all require much skill and coordination, and Mr. Edward McGarigle makes such that his boys are well prepared to Get Ready! Get Set! Go!

WRESTLING

Wrestling is a new sport on the Sayreville High School scene. Through the efforts of Mr. George Evanovich, the team has practiced hard and managed to hold its own in matches against experienced teams. Although proper facilities and equipment are now lacking, we know it will soon succeed in becoming a major sport here at Sayreville. True wrestling is very interesting to watch, and the students are urged to give all their support to this new sport.

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders of Sayreville High have always been a credit to our school and this year is no exception. We have seen these girls at all our games in all kinds of weather cheering our boys on to another victory.

Our appreciation is extended to the cheerleaders for the fine work they did this year in organizing a Pep Club for the school. We know they will continue to do such fine work because of the aid of their advisor, Mrs. M. Fehrle.
