LINCOLN SCHOOL

The oldest school building still in use in 1964. One of the four that were in use when Dr. Pollack became Superintendent of Sayreville.

WILSON SCHOOL

The first high school whose curricular and extra curricular activities were expanded under Dr. Pollack.

SAYREVILLE WAR MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL

The last of four new buildings that Dr. Pollack worked actively in the planning and erection. He lived to participate in the ground breaking ceremonies of the most recent addition to the system, a new Junior High School whose completion is planned for September, 1967.

Each year Dr. Pollack estimated the cost of education for the following year. He then would work with the Board of Education to prepare the budget which would be submitted to the voters.

One of Dr. Pollack's main interests was the implementation of the improvement and expansion of curricular offerings. The growth of the commercial program exemplifies this interest. He supported the shift from courses simply in stenography and typing to the present offerings which include provision for on-the-job training and locating employment for students after graduation.

Dr. Pollack was genuinely interested in sports and constantly approved plans for the improvement of the health and well-being of the students. He was an enthusiastic speaker at each annual banquet given in honor of Sayreville's athletes.

Dr. Pollack and Miss Samsel formed an efficient team. Together they served the Sayreville school system for many years.

Time is an elusive thing—it is past, present and future. How we utilize time is the most important function known to mankind—for his destruction or for his salvation.

We hope that those who are leaving Sayreville High School have learned that each single moment, as it ticks by, is not to be ignored—for the moments make the years and the years race by swiftly.

Comprised of nine elected officials and aided by a superintendent, an attorney, and a secretary, the Board of Education strives to continue the growth and maintain the prosperity of Sayreville's educational system.

Board members are concerned with all aspects of school life ranging from administration, faculty, and maintenance to extra-curricular activities.

On behalf of the Class of '66, the Quo Vadis staff extends to the board its sincere appreciation for its efforts in bringing progress to the public schools of Sayreville.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

MR. ROBERT FLEMING
Board Secretary

DR. MARIE PARNELL

Principal

When the first hourglass was employed to measure the passage of time, the ancient inventor of that new marvel was undoubtedly more concerned with its practical relation to time than to the future analogy which it would suggest to successive generations. Time, we are told, is an elusive, transitory commodity, which offers no guarantees. It is, then, like an hourglass: we no longer have that time which like the sand has settled in the bottom of the glass; nor do we know that we will have that time, symbolized by the sand in the top of the glass. Our only certain time is the grain now—at this moment —passing through the center of the glass, and this is what we must make meaningful. The NOW is what we know, and though it bears a relation to the past and the future, it must be lived with purpose and with certitude if we are to make our time a positive contribution to the generations which follow us.

ENGLISH

All English courses are designed to meet the needs and interests of all students. The practical aspects of English are stressed for students who plan to take jobs immediately after graduation. For those who plan to extend their education, emphasis is placed on the special skills and literary background needed for this subsequent work. Provision is also made for the study of advanced techniques and materials by students who have special ability and interest in English. Elective courses in speech and journalism round out the English curriculum.

HISTORY

The History Department offers courses in Modern European history, contemporary history, and geography, as well as the required courses in world and United States History.

All freshmen are required to take world history as an introductory course which provides the basic principles of history. The history of our country and its democratic ideal are taught starting in the junior year.

The importance of history in relation to both the past and the future is impressed upon students in all phases of the history program.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Four foreign languages—Latin, French, German, and Spanish—are taught to students through the audio-lingual approach to language learning. This method is based on the principle that foreign language assimilation follows the basic patterns by which we learn our own language: hearing, repeating, reading, and writing.

The first course familiarizes the student with elementary rules of grammar through the use of dialogues. The second year increases vocabulary by means of reading, discussion, and written work. Third and fourth courses allow the student to read literary works and discuss them as well as write creatively about them.

SCIENCE

All students in the science departments are made aware of the growing importance of the scientific and technological advances being made in today's world.

Courses in basic science, biology, chemistry, and physics give students a basic and practical knowledge of science. During regular laboratory periods, students learn the lab techniques needed for a variety of experiments.

Students who wish to continue the study of science are offered advanced courses in biology and chemistry.

MATHEMATICS

Six courses of study are offered in the Mathematics Department for students preparing to pursue careers in mathematics or relating fields of study.

Besides two years of algebra, one year of plane geometry, one-half year of analytic geometry, and one-half year of trigonometry, courses in modern algebra and advanced mathematics are offered as electives. Interested students compete among themselves and with math students from other area schools in mathematical contests.

For those students interested in industrial or business careers, courses in shop math, business arithmetic, and math review are available.

Two basic courses of study—secretarial and general clerical—are available to the business student.

After two years each of shorthand and typing, and possible elective courses in bookkeeping and distributive education, the senior secretarial student may take the office practice course in which office-machine operation, telephone techniques, filing, and duplicating are taught. Fifteen weeks of on-the-job training serve to complete the course.

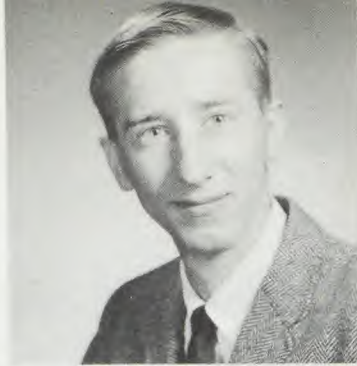

General clerical students receive the same training as secretarial students with the exception of shorthand and on-the-job training.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Learning through practice.

Extensive training in various areas of shop work is offered in the industrial arts department.

In wood shop, metal shop, and auto shop, students learn basic industrial skills. Additional skills, for interested students, are taught in electronics, graphic arts, and drafting.

Upon completing four years of industrial arts education, the student is fully equipped to pursue a technical or industrial career.

HOME ECONOMICS

Homemakers of tomorrow.

Included in the curriculum are classes in foods preparation, the study of clothing, textiles, housing, and home furnishings. These courses prepare the students to better meet the challenges which face the modern homemaker in a complex society.

ART AND MUSIC

Making ceramics in art class.

ALLAN MOUNT
M.A.

The chief aim of the art department is to provide students with an understanding and appreciation of art. Courses include basic and advanced art, art appreciation, and art workshop. These courses cover the principles of design, composition, lettering, advertising art, figure drawing, color, perspective and light, and shade proportion. Creative self-expression on the part of the student is encouraged. Projects in advanced art courses are chosen by the students according to their personal interests.

The music curriculum includes a wide variety of courses which serve to develop interest as well as talent. The offered courses are glee club, harmony, and music appreciation. Instruction on musical instruments is also available to interested students.

Students may put their talent to use in the annual spring concert and the marching and dance bands.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The primary aim of the physical education department is to teach students the importance of physical fitness. Aiding students to acquire skills and develop coordination are additional aims of the department. Courses in personal health, drivers' education, and first aid contribute to students' growth in ability to accept the responsibilities they will assume as adult members of society.

FESTIVAL OF HEARTS

March 21, 1963,

It was just for laughs, last Friday night's faculty frolic in the high school gym, and 1300 smiling Sayrevilleites enjoyed it to the hilt. Miss Margaret Walsh, clad in a Shakespeare sweatshirt, Bermuda shorts, and a plumed cap, was a principal attraction. The women teachers bowled over the girls in the first basketball game, 43-11, but the boys gained revenge in the nightcap by downing the men teachers, 59-55.

FRESHMEN

With swift precision, the Class of 1969 has adjusted to the pattern established by its predecessors. Long gone and forgotten are the troublesome locker combinations and confusing corridors. Though only grains at the very top of our four year hourglass, their downward journey has already proven to be enjoyable, profitable, and memorable.

With the election of four able class officers, and under the guidance of their advisors, these underclassmen readily got into the swing of things at Sayreville High. Their voice in school affairs was channeled through their Student Council representatives. The freshmen candidates for "Teens Against Polio," although not victorious, netted approximately two hundred dollars. Beginning to look toward the future and the senior class trip, much planning went into the first social affair held by this ambitious group. Both the great time had by all and the profit cleared showed that the Freshman Dance, held early in the spring was only one of the many successes to be had by the Class of '69.

But perhaps the most favored event was "Opposite Day" which was held in conjunction with "Blue and Gray Week." Without disregarding the dress code, the frosh were easily distinguished by their merry mixture of polka dots and plaids, two different socks or shoes, or backward, upside down, and inside-out apparel.

With such a terrific start, this class surely has the makings for three more even better ones. May it be so.

SOPHOMORES

Approaching the half way mark of their hourglass, the sophomores have nothing but pleasant memories to look back upon. Returning with more confidence in themselves as a class, all worked together from September to achieve much.

The usual elections took place, placing the most popular and capable students at the helm of this class. Sophomores contributed heavily toward their candidates in the "Teens Against Polio" campaign. "Roaring Twenties" was the theme of the Class of '68 during "Blue and Gray Week." An Honorable Mention was awarded for the originality of the sophomores in overall competition. February 12 brought the traditional Sophomore Sweetheart Dance, the first semi-formal affair sponsored by these underclassmen. The crowning of Sweetheart King and Queen highlighted the evening. The coming of spring also brought the coming of a new-found status — class rings were ordered which will arrive early next fall when the Class of '68 will gain new prestige as upperclassmen.

ADVISORS

Mr. Richard Reichenbach, Mrs. Carol Kadi, Miss Barbara Hirshberg, Missing, Mr. Soren Thomsen.

With these added responsibilities, we hope they also find much luck and success with which to carry on. As shown during "Blue and Gray Week," the Al Capones, flappers, and gun molls from this class may turn their remaining years at S.W.M.H.S. into "roaring" ones.

JUNIORS

Time surely flies — especially when it is spent in a worthwhile way. This has been proven by the juniors, the Class of 1967. Now that they have filtered through the narrow half-way mark in our hourglass, they have willingly accepted the added responsibilities thrust upon them as upperclassmen.

With the arrival of the traditional class rings early this past fall, this group has become readily aware of the many privileges brought by this new-found status. As juniors, they were able to become part of the political turmoil associated with Youth Week. Leads in the junior-senior musical were opened to them. Perhaps the highlight on their schedule was the planning of the long-awaited, unforgettable Junior Prom.

By adding that "extra something" when called upon as a whole in school activities, the juniors were twice victorious in school affairs. Wholeheartedly emptying their pockets for a good cause, their class contributed the most in the T.A.P. campaign. Once again answering the call for class spirit, but this time in "homespun" granny dresses, holsters, and headdresses instead of money, the Class of '67 walked away with the top prize in "Blue and Gray Week" competition.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Aiming to promote school spirit, encourage leadership and citizenship, and strengthen student-faculty relations, the Student Council of Sayreville War Memorial High School is a representation of the entire student body.

Composed of four officers, elected representatives from each of the four classes, and honorary members who have shown great leadership ability, the Council meets bi-monthly for regular meetings. Delegates also attend the Middlesex County meetings and the Convention at Rutgers. This year, the Student Council has the distinction of being a four year honor school.

Under the direction of its advisors, Mrs. Angelica Marra and Mrs. Irene Arthur, the Council has sponsored assemblies, held two dances, conducted a "Teens Against Polio" drive, and a "Save the Children Federation" Clothing Drive. Among many of its new projects are Player of the Week and Blue and Gray Week, established to help promote school spirit and enthusiasm among the students.

QUO VADIS

ADVISOR
Mr. James Todd.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Stan Bittner.

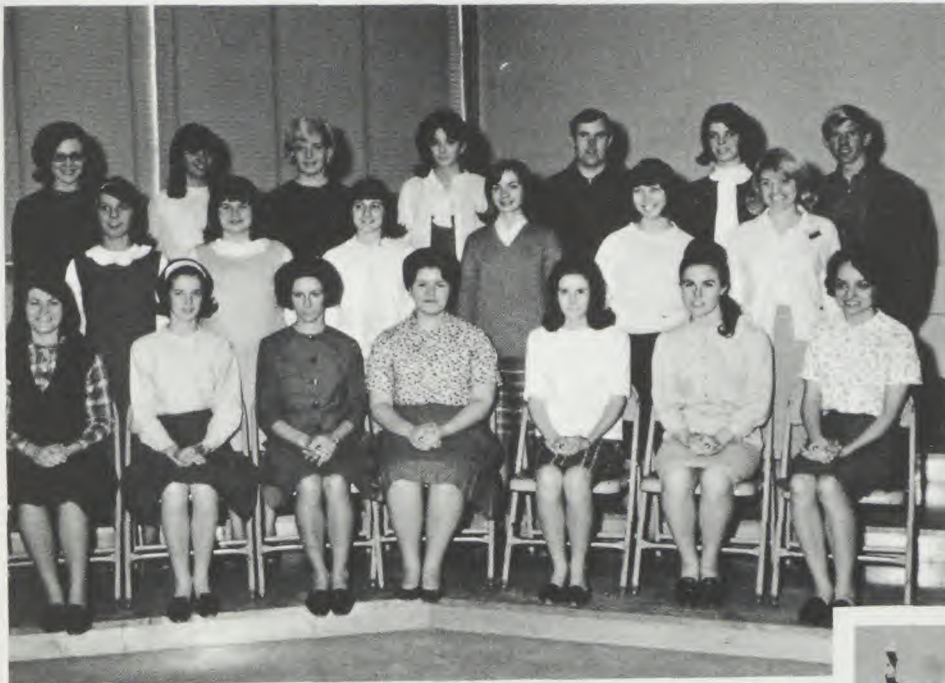

Four wonderful years of memories, experiences, joys, and sorrows, bound tightly in this small volume are a treasure to every senior whom it represents.

To the Editorial Staff, the beginning of September till the end of March was a period of last minute deadlines, hunts for pictures, feverish typing and caption creativity, as the twenty-fourth edition of Quo Vadis was compiled.

"Time," the link to the past, present, and future, was chosen as the yearbook theme, and the staff busily went to work adapting it to all facets of life at Sayreville High. Art work, write-ups, and pictures were all co-ordinated with the theme, since the element of "time" revolves about every school day.

Never to be forgotten in the hearts of the Quo Vadis staff and the senior class is Mr. James Todd, yearbook advisor. For without his consoling smiles, infinite patience, and knowledgeable guidance, the creation of this book would not have been possible.

Treat Quo Vadis not only as a book, but as a companion and friend, a link to the past, and pages of heartfelt experiences of your years at Sayreville High.

Once every month, a burst of enthusiasm on the part of anxious students floods the normally tranquil school building, as the circulation staff of Sayreville High's news medium distributes the current contributions of its creative counterpart.

Echo-Lites reporters, notebooks nearby, are always on hand to cover newsworthy events and submit for publication detailed accounts of their observations. Other staff writers deal with human interest aspects of news items and the personalities surrounding the news, as regular feature columnists provide humorous and entertaining sidelights. Scores and summaries of athletic events, as well as editorial comment, comprise the contributions of the sports staff. Opportunities for photographers, cartoonists, and typists are also available for students with skill in these areas.

Outstanding staff members may compete for editorial positions and look forward to election to Quill and Scroll, the National Honor Society for High School Journalists. As a member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, Echo-Lites is entitled to delegate several staff members to represent the publication at the three-day convention, held annually in New York City.

Accomplishment, a feeling of success, a candlelit ceremony, a tiny golden pin, and a bright, warm smile all revolve about the twenty-four juniors and seniors elected this year into the Sayreville chapter of the National Honor Society.

Selected for membership by the faculty, each eligible student must display qualities of scholarship, leadership, service, and character, as well as maintain a B average in their studies.

Under Miss Annette Sowa's supervision, the group held a reception in honor of its new members and is planning to organize a tutoring service during final exams.

CLASS DRAMA

"The Mousetrap"

Cries of terror, a mysterious detective, a lurking murderer, and a booming radio, mingled with the snowy, stormy night to create a suspense-charged atmosphere in the auditorium of S.W.M.H.S. on the evening of December fourth.

Agatha Christie's play, "The Mousetrap," held the audience spellbound as a young man, portrayed by Joe Kolsby, was compelled to murder two women at a snowbound boarding house out of revenge for the mistreatment of his brothers and sisters. Ironically, the murderer pretends to be a detective named Trotter and "investigates" the deaths.

Hailed for their realistic portrayal of the occupants of the inn were Marge Lehnert as Mollie Ralston, Vince McCarthy as Giles Ralston, Joan Mazurowski as Mrs. Boyle, and Dave Ballog as Mr. Paravincini. Other members of the cast were Mike McCarthy portraying Christopher Wren, Joanne Wasilewski as Miss Casewill, John Januszewski as Major Metcalf, and Dennis Sommesse as the voice on the radio.

Deserving praise for their contributions to the success of the play were the director, Miss Suzanne Duschock and many other students and faculty members who aided with makeup and scenery.

Mother Abbess sadly informs fun-loving Maria that she must leave Nonnberg Abbey.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

"I think that was your line."

"You mean you don't know any songs at all?"

From the first enchanting strains of the Nuns' Chorus singing the "Preludium" to the finale with Mother Abbess and the Nuns singing "Climb Ev'ry Mountain," there was no doubt that the auditorium of S.W.M.H.S. was truly transformed by "the sound of music," on the evenings of March 24, 25, and 26.

The audience was held spellbound as the story of Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music, presented by the junior and senior classes, was unfolded before them. The setting was Austria early in 1938, and the action revolved about Maria Rainer, a fun-loving postulant of Nonnberg Abbey with a knack for indecorous behavior and a passion for singing. Maria is sent out into the world by the Mother Abbess on a probation period to test Maria's desire for a religious vocation. She becomes the governess for Captain Georg Von Trapp's seven children and brings joy, happiness, music, and love into their regimented household.

The Sound of Music will be long remembered for the charm, delight, songs, dances, and heartwarming emotions that were tightly interwoven about the cast and felt by the audience.

DIRECTORS

Miss Zdanewicz and Mr. White

"If you press that button and I press this one, maybe she'll disappear."

Make-up artists get creative.

"Someone's bugged the begonias!"

"Do you think there was something in Max's coffee?"

Harmonious voices ring out Maria's and George's Marriage.

The roles of Maria Rainer, the Mother Abbess, and Captain Georg Von Trapp were portrayed by Stacey Thalmann, Alice Kolb, and Gary Boyler, respectively. Susan Cox portrayed Elsa Schraeder, the wealthy socialite engaged to Captain Von Trapp, and Alfred Pawlowski played Max Detweiler, the clown of the family. Liesl, eldest of the Von Trapp children, was portrayed by Sandra Campbell. Robert Maher had the role of Rolf Gruber, Liesl's first sweetheart. The young children were portrayed by students from the elementary and junior high schools. The students cast as nuns, folk dancers, and grand waltz members also contributed to the excellence of the production.

Once again this year, Mr. Charles White directed the entire production with the aid of Miss Ruth Zdanewicz, assistant director. Music, choreography, makeup, and scenery were provided by various teachers and students. Junior and senior classes extend their gratitude to all these people who contributed to the great success of "The Sound of Music."

ASSEMBLIES

Resounding cheers, dancing reindeer, magical words, agile athletes, and college-bowl quiz shows are all a part of the variety of assemblies which are presented to the student body at various times of the year.

In cooperation with Miss Ruth Zdanewicz, the Student Council is generally responsible for most of the assemblies presented. Aiming to instruct as well as entertain, the assemblies add a note of joviality and interest to a regular school day.

ADVISOR
Mr. Christopher Cornell

Marching out onto the field for every football game and pep rally, the band in their blue and grey provide the essential factor of lively music to bolster school spirit and entertain the student body.

Adding to the gaiety of half-time at Sayreville High's football games, the band performs entertaining skits as our twirlers strut and swing to the stimulating sounds.

Under the capable direction of Christopher Cornell, the band has improved steadily and has presented many resounding tunes as it performed its detailed marching routines.

LIBRARY COUNCIL

Always ready to lend a helping hand, the girls of the Library Council assist students in the use of the library facilities. Under the supervision of Mrs. Lorraine Simko, the Council is organized to enable the girls to work together while learning the functions of a library. These students give up their study halls and free time before and after school in order to serve the entire student body.

Seated: D. Cerankowski, P. Simmons, Mrs. Lorraine Simko, K. Defurio, K. Bienkowski. Standing: G. Cowa, E. Gilkie, L. Wagner, J. Barba, J. Kennedy, R. Burns, P. Novak, D. Allen.

PAINT & POWDER CLUB

Mrs. Irene Todd, armed with paint and powder puff, leads her brigade of make-up girls into a battle royal during every high school production. The members of the club acquire talents ranging from applying eye-liner to calming nerves and bolstering egos. Their more bizarre and exciting jobs have included sprinkling glitter on gold make-up and sending an actor home to sleep in a ready-made beard, carefully wrapped in a plastic bag. The Paint and Powder Club provides the school with an important service and provides its members with fun, experience and happy memories.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Echoing with a chorus of melodic notes, the Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Allen Mount, is composed of girls with an interest and skill in music and singing. The club also offers students who are not enrolled in music an opportunity to participate in musical activities. Adding a lively atmosphere of gay songs and carols, the girls entertain at the Christmas program and the annual Spring Concert.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Making a detailed study of the qualities and aptitudes which are characteristic of successful teachers, the members of the Sayreville Chapter of the Future Teachers of America are given many opportunities to explore the benefits of a teaching career. Under the guidance of Mr. M. G. Stefanski, the F.T.A. helps the students increase their understanding of education as a career and multiplies their contacts with others aspiring toward the same profession. It also helps the members to develop leadership skills essential in future school and community relations.

BLUE & GRAY SHOPPE

Walk into Room A-54 and you will find no ordinary classroom. For within, a variety of objects such as sweatshirts, paperback books, pencils, pens, paper and innumerable other school supplies are sold. Under Mr. Joseph J. Nita's direction, the Blue and Gray Shoppe is maintained by the distributive education students and has proved itself to be a most welcome service to the school.

BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

Promoting co-operation and participation in business activities among its members, the Sayreville Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America develops competent, aggressive business leadership and strengthens the confidence of students in themselves and in their work. Under the direction of Mr. Steven Cyrus, the club also stimulates interest and understanding in the intelligent choice of business occupations.

MATH CLUB

Trekking through theories, problems, logarithms, and diabolical diagrams, the Math Club, under the direction of Mr. George Evanovich and Mr. James Todd is well equipped to handle any mind-bending problem that comes its way. Organized to develop problem-solving abilities, the members are given a chance to display competitive spirit as they periodically compete in math contests with students from other area schools.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Calculating chemical equations and deciphering symbols and problems, the members of the Chemistry Club gain new insights into the world of chemistry. Under the supervision of Mrs. Irene Arthur, the group travels into the competitive atmosphere of chemistry meets held with other participating schools in the area.

FOOTBALL

Although the Bomber football squad compiled a disappointing 3-6 season record, several members of the team managed to reap some honors.

Team captain, George Armstrong, was named to the second-string All County team. End Duane Battista received a third-string placement, while guard, Bob McLaughlin, center, Ted Zeh, fullback, Ron Reese, and tackle, Don O'Such, received honorable mention.

Coach Edward Weber made his debut at the helm with the assistance of Mr. Richard Reichenbach, Mr. Norbert Smith, Mr. Daniel Newcomer, Mr. Joseph Nita, and Mr. Thomas Michaels.

WRESTLING

Three medals, a trophy, and a third-place over-all team standing was not too bad a season's fare, especially when regular competition saw Sayreville's matmen with a 1-10 win-lose tally.

Led onward by coaches Robert Decker and Lynn Paul and the varsity co-captains Doug Dvorsky and Ted Zeh, numerous individual achievements were attained during the 1965-66 season: Ted Zeh, at 178 lbs., garnered both the county and district championships; Len Zaleski was the 168 lb. runner-up for the district title; co-captain Doug Dvorsky and freshman Mike Stanjeski took third-place honors at the same tournament, while late-comer John Wisniewski came in fourth in his weight class.

Standing third among seven teams in the district and eighth out of the nineteen competing schools in the county tournaments, the Bombers showed that they should not be judged solely by the win-lose column, but by effort. With the varsity berth controlled by underclassmen who will undoubtedly improve with experience, the future years for this sport look promising.

TRACK

Coaches Newcomer and Smith are hoping for a good season this year, and with 10 letter-winners returning, their hopes look pretty good.

This year the track team innovated the pre-season running campaign on February 14. This was done so the team would be in better shape than usual by the time the season opened.
