Why do we admire him? He teaches; he laughs; he cares.

Any time of day . . . he will listen.

Mr. James Todd stands tall with the students of Sayreville War Memorial High School. For twelve of the twenty-five years of Quo Vadis' history, he has been the yearbook advisor. He has worked and worried with the members of the staffs, but has always left the final decisions to their judgment.

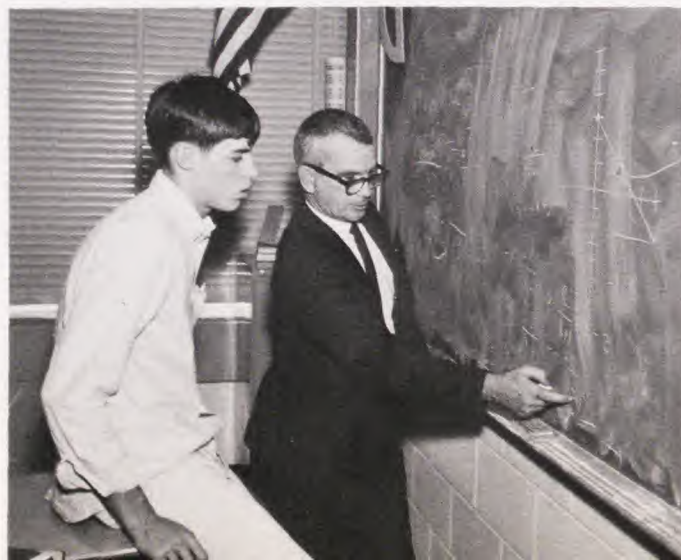

Mr. Todd, Chairman of the Math Department, has been chaperone for school activities, umpire for baseball games, class advisor, counselor, and confidante. His wonderful sense of humor is revealed by his ready smile and the genial twinkle in his eye. It is a real tribute to a teacher when his students feel that he is not only a master in his profession, but a friend they can count on.

To this remarkable man, the yearbook staff gratefully dedicates Quo Vadis 1967.

He is always there when you need him . . . even after 2:38.

The yearbook deadline was met—now he can smile.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Each year, the nine elected members of the Board of Education face the task of providing quality education, plus adequate facilities, for a reasonable cost. The current status of education is a tribute to their ability to accomplish this goal. The population explosion posed many construction problems over the years. 1967 will see a new Junior High School being constructed with 1968 as the target date for completion.

The students of the high school were saddened by the untimely death of board member, Mr. John Skwira, during the summer. Everyone was aware of the time he spent, and the contributions he made to the school. We take this opportunity to convey our condolences to his wife and family.

The Quo Vadis staff wishes to express their appreciation to the board for providing this issue to the student body below cost, and on behalf of the students, to thank each board member for his efforts in making our high school years enjoyable and educational.

History has always been one of man's tools for knowing the present and understanding the challenge of the future. Certain dates in life, such as anniversaries and jubilees, however, make man more conscious of his role in history. It is such a time in the progress of this school — from which you are now the twenty-fifth graduating class.

Tremendous changes have been witnessed in this community and school since 1942. Just as you have studied things that those graduates never even heard of, so will successive classes need to be taught new ideas for that unknown world of tomorrow.

This, then, is your special challenge as a silver jubilee class: to direct the advantages and skills given you through the growth and progress of this school to the attainment of a worthy tomorrow. The Class of 1992 will sit in judgment of your work. May they say that you learned well because you provided well for them.

Guidance

The Guidance Department, related to every aspect of school from kindergarten to college curriculum, performs a vital service for the school. Its goal is to assist the individual in understanding himself, his intellectual capacities, and his social, moral, and economic relationships in society. It is necessary that high school students recognize and understand the correlation between education and work and take advantage of every opportunity offered. Our counselors strive to show students that success is dependent upon worthy character and to help them reach an attitude of complete and mature self-guidance.

English

"Individual" is the object, receiving the action of a continually expanding program; the subject is English. The goal of the English Department is two-fold. The first to be considered is the greater personal satisfaction that comes through the acquisition of knowledge. The words and thoughts of yesterday give one a basis, not only for words and thoughts of today, but also of tomorrow. Equally important to the student is the best possible preparation in the communication skills. Every vocation demands some exchange of ideas, and a well-prepared student meets this demand most adequately.

Foreign Language

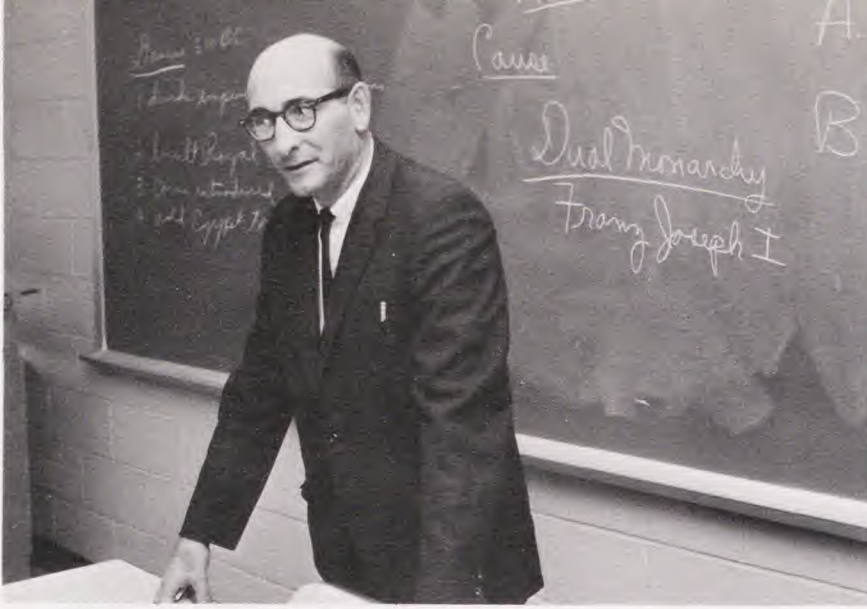

Foreign language study is not confined to verb forms and pronunciation practices. It includes the culture and customs of the native countries and produces a more complete knowledge of the world and peoples around us. These in turn contribute in a small but important way to world unity for understanding and common interests know no barriers. Courses are offered on a two to four year basis in Latin, French, German, and Spanish.

Social Studies

Where man is going depends on where he has been; what he intends to do is based upon what he has accomplished. The bond between these is called history. Yet, the story of mankind is more than mere dates and data. It is a presentation of the world and the people who perform in this presentation. The story unfolds itself to the student. The disclosures are as diverse as the building of the Siberian railroad and as renowned as the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Each, in its own way, contributes to the standards of future performances.

Mathematics

Mathematics is of a precise and accurate nature. Yet, the areas it encompasses are immeasurable. Its realm has been divided and subdivided over and over again, while new discoveries and uses multiply its enormity. The logic used to produce its solutions is the groundwork of all serious thought. The study of mathematics provides mental stimulation and this added to interest equals a keen and alert mind. One who masters a good proportion of its uses has found the ratio of a well-rounded mind.

Science

Observation, experimentation, and the use of self-evident truths are keys opening a door to the world of science. The student, unlocking the door, is able to explore diverse concepts of matter, as well as many interesting aspects of life. From meteors to magnesium hydroxide, from buoyancy to bacteria, he sees and learns the secrets of natural phenomena. Putting his knowledge to practical use, he may someday solve unanswerable questions. Yet, even a taste of science gives one a better understanding of himself and his world. One taste can lead to more—the hall behind that door is endless!

Business

The economy and the commerce of tomorrow will have their standards based on the skills future business people learn today. Practical and systematic preparation for rewarding business careers is the aim of all business instruction. Work-study programs, in addition to classroom training, give the student not only an opportunity to taste the demands made of an efficient worker, but also the chance to test his abilities and aptitude in actual occupations.

Industrial Arts

A credit to himself and to his community is the competent and productive industrial worker. Specialized workers of tomorrow may today take advantage of a program primarily designed to train them for future employment. Inherent mechanical abilities are further developed while the acquisition of new skills is also encouraged. Actual shop work is the basis of all instruction in this department. The courses include drafting, graphic arts, electronics, ceramics, auto mechanics, and wood and metal classes.

Physical Education

A healthy body to house a healthy mind provides the atmosphere for a more enjoyable and beneficial life. Physical education is no longer a synonym for toe-touching exercises. It refers to participation in a large field of varying interests, ranging from square dancing to field hockey. It encourages good sportsmanship and a sense of fair play. Recreation is supplemented with classroom study, promoting sound mental attitudes and furnishing a basis for future health habits.

Home Economics

Family ties and domestic comforts are the qualities which make a house a home, and the presence of these characteristics can be attributed to a good homemaker. Home economics is a science as well as an art. The ingenious homemaker employs her hands and her mind in the management of her home. She is proficient in matters ranging from foods to furniture and from clothes to child care. Yet, good homemakers are made and not born. A well-rounded curriculum helps to develop the future homemakers and prepares her in the skills she will need to make her house a home.

Music

Musical proficiency contributes substantially to the student's social development, while providing a channel for relaxation and fostering appreciation for good music. The development of musical interest stems from many hours of practice and preparation in either chorus or instrumental groups.

Art

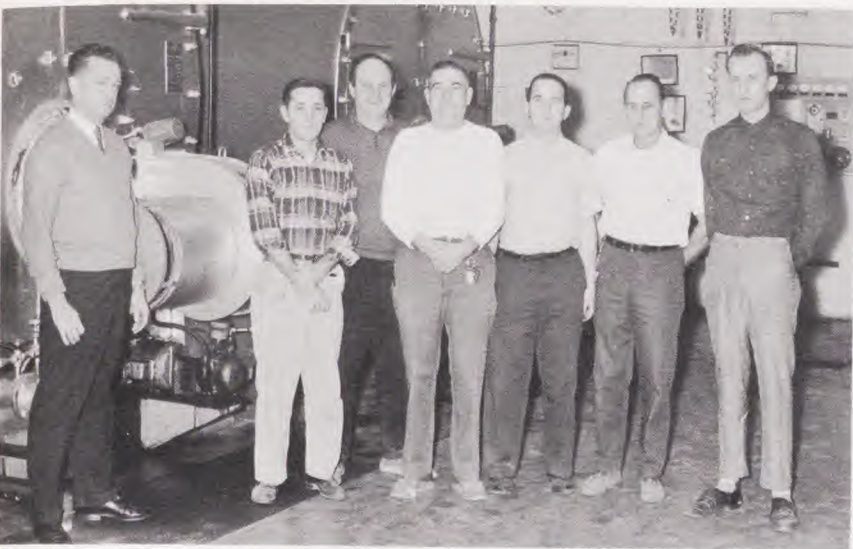

Specific courses in this subject help the student further develop his appreciation of art. When a holiday or school play appears on the schedule, many art students give tremendous aid to the rest of the student body in the areas of decoration, publicity, and designing of props. All persons concerned with this department, whether they have the ability to draw or merely enjoy studying the subject, contribute much to the inward appearance of our school and to the department itself.

UNDERCLASSES

JUNIOR OFFICERS: Kathy Holda, President; Bill McDonnell, Vice-President; Reggie Carney, Treasurer; Arlene Klein, Secretary.

Headed by Mr. Soren Thomsen, the junior class advisors ably guided their students through an exciting year. Good leadership depends to a large degree on communication. The link between the busy junior officers and their classmates was maintained by eleven homeroom presidents. During the year, the homerooms were always well decorated, as they competed for the coveted mascot, who "guards" the winner of the Homeroom of the Month Contest. The twelve Student Council representatives, who worked together on many projects, brought the needs of the juniors to the attention of the Council. The members of the junior class have gained valuable experience in leadership and promise to lead their class well through their final year at Sayreville.

*Get that hockey stick

Junior year marks the student's entrance to the world of the upperclassmen. Yet his shouts of "At last; At last!" sometimes go unheard in the din of increased work, new responsibilities and tests, tests, tests. Although his prestige adds to the fun, his grade signals approaching decisions. Those contemplating college begin the laborious task of investigating and selecting potential schools. Others, interested in working after high school, begin thinking seriously of various job opportunities. "Hectic" is how the junior describes his position.

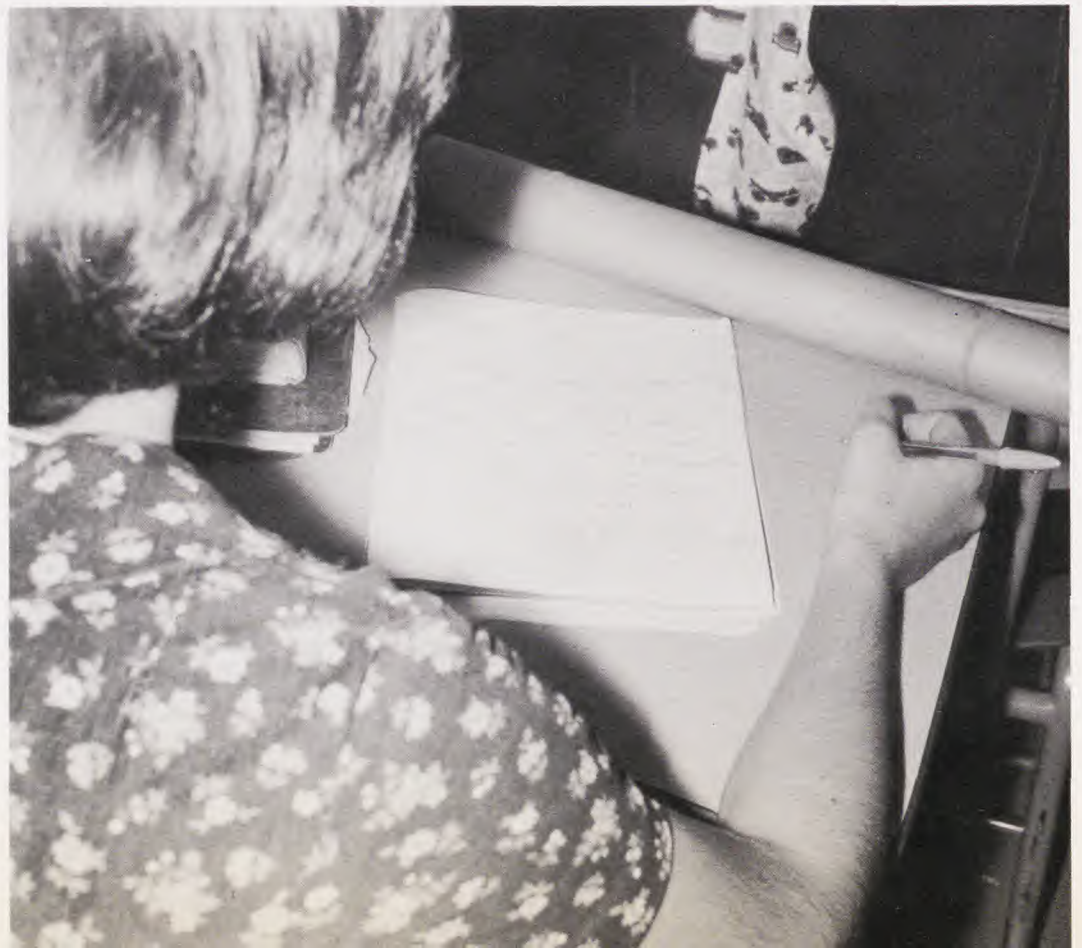

The juniors have an incredibly contagious spirit and have put unlimited effort into their many activities. They have actively participated in athletics, the school publications, the dramatic productions, and in the bands and choruses. They worked hard to make their "Evening in Paris" Prom the unforgettable highlight of the junior year. Such coöperation and determination foreshadow a highly successful and enjoyable senior year.

An unforgettable moment in Advanced Bio.

*English III classes keep you

The sophomore class advisors, headed by Miss Suzanne Duschock, led the sophomores through the difficult second year. The officers and homeroom presidents planned a very successful Sweetheart Dance, Sayreville's traditional Valentine's Day celebration. Sophomore Student Council members added zest to the meetings and readily volunteered to help with the Council's activities. The school has benefited from the teamwork and enthusiasm that the sophomores have shown.

Kitchy-kitchy-koo!

Representing their class on the Council are: Ted Unkel, Kathy Wolfe, Debbie Nasti, Bob Gaspartich. Standing: Greg Marzullo, Kathi Mangan, Nancy Veit, John McDonald.

Betwixt and between characterize the situation of the sophomore. No longer classified with the "frosh," he is not quite a true upperclassman. He knows the difference between a hall pass and a guest pass, but his knowledge is a quiet one, lacking the polish of older students. Yet, sophomore year combines hard work and good times. There is a second-year tendency to expand interests and activities, and efforts now reap rewards in later years.

"It says here that the game is played with the feet."

Freshman student leaders sneak down the up staircase. John Or-lasky, Debbie Maldie-wicz, Richie Piperato, and Pat O'Connor.

"Frosh" means different things to different people. It may be the introduction to new faces and friends, new rules and routines. It carries the connotations of forgotten combinations and displaced classrooms. It can be an invitation to an innocent stroll down the up stairway. It is the target of upperclassmen's jokes and the oft desired status of weary seniors. It includes an excellent eye for fashion and an equally excellent sense of humor. Sometimes trying and sometimes rewarding, it is the continual starting point of a long, four year adventure.

BLUE AND GREY WEEK

Bob Bittner and Nancy Keller accept the check for the winning seniors.

Did you notice Rip Van Winkle snoring in class? The hombre taking a siesta in the hall? The Wicked Witch of the West putting a hex on her English teacher? Or all those little kids with the big lollipops? That is what Blue and Gray Week was all about. The main purpose of the week was to increase school spirit. Instituted last year and now an annual event, the week began with each class choosing a theme. On Tuesday, the freshmen class was transformed into a band of gypsies, while the sophomores turned back the hands of the clock and became little boys and girls once again. Wednesday was International Day and the juniors sported a variety of costumes from different countries. The victorious seniors became fairy tale characters and they appeared as everyone from Aladdin to Little Bo Peep. The week ended with a pep rally on Blue and Gray Day. Once again Blue and Gray Week proved to be successful and was greatly enjoyed by students and faculty alike.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the governing body of Sayreville War Memorial High School and includes representatives from all four classes. For twenty-five years, it has developed qualities of leadership and citizenship among its members and initiated and supported school projects. The Student Council has steadily grown since its beginning a quarter of a century ago. It has grown not only in numbers, but in its willingness to accept responsibility and serve the students and faculty of the high school.

This year the Council was extremely active. It sponsored Blue and Gray Week, two dances, several assemblies, a tag day for the local Mental Health Association, the annual T.A.P. campaign, and the "Save the Children Federation" Clothing Drive. Over two hundred dollars worth of baby clothes, diapers, sheets, and medical supplies were sent to an alumnus of S.W.M.H.S. who is now serving in Viet Nam, Dr. George M. Chastain, class of '55. With the assistance of the local Jaycees, cartons of Kool-Aid and candy were also sent to Sayreville boys all over Viet Nam.

The Council is deeply grateful for the guidance and help it has received from its two advisors, Mrs. Angelica Marra and Mrs. Irene Arthur, both of whom put immeasurable effort into the Council's activities.

Echo-Lites

Voice of student communication, Echo-Lites this year celebrates its founding twenty-five years ago.

Echo-Lites, published five times a year, covers all school events, news, features, and sports. Its editorials are also of significance — offering suggestions, calling for school spirit and unity, and commenting on current events.

As a school activity, the newspaper provides an excellent opportunity for students to gain journalistic experience. Apprentice journalists are instructed in the many facets of newspaper work at editor-led workshops. Here comments are made and criticisms are given on past issues, as well as suggestions received for future ones.

Echo-Lites is an outstanding and award-winning member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Staff members participate in the three-day New York City national convention, sending delegates to attend seminars and a banquet with other young journalists. Qualifying members may also be elected to the national newspaper honor society, Quill and Scroll.

Growth with time is natural, and Echo-Lites has gradually grown and has risen to the position of effective communication medium of S.W.M.H.S.

Seniors Christine Kwiatkowski, Patricia Hickey, Gary Boyler, and Andy Prasnal were also honored with juniors Judy Lis and Karen Bienkowski. Besides official Quill and Scroll membership cards and pins, the members also received a year's subscription to the "Quill and Scroll" magazine.

QUO VADIS

Twenty-five years ago, the staff of the 1942 Quo Vadis wrote: "With this book we dedicate a faith in the future of our high school as strong as our faith in the present." It is this idea that Quo Vadis '67 echoes. Sayreville High has proved that it was worthy of the faith of '42, through the efforts of an interested and energetic administration, faculty, and student body. The yearbook staff has tried to capture in pictures the history of the results of these efforts, from its traditional philosophy to its promising new aspects in curriculum and extracurricular activities.

The '67 staff worked diligently under the guidance of Mr. James Todd, our patient advisor, whose encouragement and reassuring smile eased many a crisis.

BIOLOGY CLUB

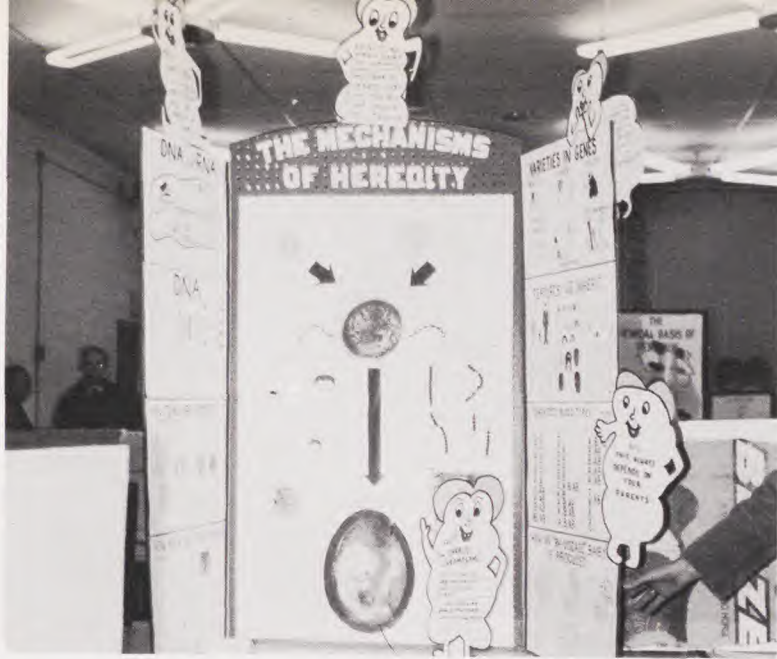

The Biology Club is under the direction of Mrs. Angelina Romano, and its seventy members are very active in the club's many projects. This enthusiastic group is a good example of real spirit, industry, and apparently limitless energy. In order to create and maintain an attractive school landscape, Bio Club members have organized a grounds committee. The club sponsors and donates prizes to the annual Science Fair and provides a scholarship for students excelling in science. Every member looks forward to the trip to New York, which is considered the climax to a highly successful year.

SCIENCE FAIR

Sayreville High School's annual Science Fair was very successful. Over one thousand interested guests viewed the many projects which ranged from comparative embryology to weights and measures. The fair, which was sponsored by the Biology Club and the Science Department, presented prizes donated by the sponsors and the local industries. Invitations were extended to Board of Education members, local science teachers, and the student body. The general grand prize was presented to Richard Cook for his "Index of Refraction." Neil Rubin placed first in biology, Pat Kilian in chemistry, and Carol McLaughlin in physics. Thirty honorable mention ribbons were given to deserving participants. The fair was most impressive and exhibited the science students' originality, imagination, ingenuity, and industry.

The Radio Club is supervised by Mr. Alfred Riker. It devotes its time to the study of the International Morse Code and is concerned with improved equipment, new techniques, and the general working of a radio. Club members anticipate the formation and operation of a radio station. The club hopes to obtain amateur radio licenses for its members, construct all equipment for the station, and interest outside "ham" radio operators to participate.

MATHLETES

Developing and maintaining an avid interest in the study of mathematics is the goal of students who have joined the Mathletes. Organized by Mr. George Evanovich, the Mathletes represent S.W.M.H.S. at county math meets. Teams of five compete periodically, with only the three best papers scored. Through competition students enhance individual chances for scholarships and college acceptances. The Mathletes hope to form a Math Club in the near future.

These activities proved to be educational to members, and acquainted them with an ancient time when Latin was the dominant language of the then known world. Cupcake sales and a dance were sponsored by the club during the year. Officers were: President, Richard Strugala; Vice-President, Nancy Talbot; Secretary, Ken Karbowski; and Treasurer, John McDonnell.

LIBRARY COUNCIL

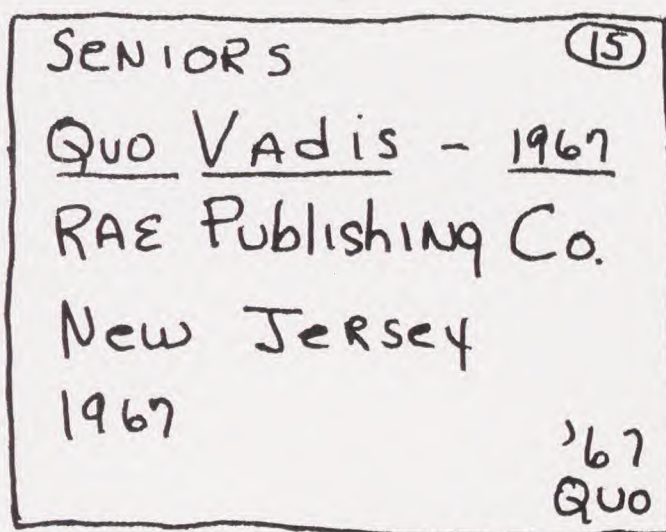

Books are an essential factor in securing a well-rounded education, and the library is the traditional place where books can be found. Students under the supervision of Mrs. Lorraine Simko arrange books according to proper call number, serve students who wish to borrow books, and perform other important duties. This year proved to be a very successful one for the Council. There were numerous cupcake sales, and a book fair was held from March first to the third. At this fair a large variety of paperback books was made available to the student body. The Council provides a much appreciated service to the school.

NATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY

Although a relatively new area of development at S.W.M.H.S., dramatic activities have proved to be of great value to the school. As lights dim and the curtain rises, members of the National Thespian Society go into action. This honorary society is the backbone of the annual dramatic production and the Junior-Senior musical. Unlimited time, effort and enthusiasm contributed by every member are the factors which have made this club one of the most active in the school. Members are chosen on the basis of participation in all aspects of the theater, from performing on stage to working the lights. This year twenty-seven new members were inducted into the society, enlarging the original membership of ten charter members. Serving as president is Sue Cox; assisting her are Vice-President Marge Lehnert, Secretary Joan Mazuroski, and Treasurer Charlie Marangio.

CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY

Exotic dances, a choral reading, vocal soloists, and participation of the orchestra and the Girls' Glee Club created the splendor of the Christmas program.

The choral reading, "The Christmas Pig," was performed by the dramatics class under the direction of Miss Ruth Zdanewicz. The dances were choreographed by Miss Janet Scott and performed by the members of the Girls' Gymnastic Club. Sue Cox sang a medley of "I'll Be Home for Christmas" and "White Christmas," and Robert Maher sang "A Japanese Christmas Carol." The program was enhanced by the performances of the Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Allan Mount and the school orchestra, conducted by Mr. John Kulpa. Mrs. Irene Todd and her Paint 'n' Powder girls were responsible for the make-up, and Mr. Alfred Riker supervised the lighting.

boyfriend Donald, Tony Barrone as Mr. Henderson, and Lana Klimovich as Penny's drunken actress friend Miss Wellington. The three G-men were portrayed by Ken Strawhand, Bob Voight, and Doug Fallon. A touch of the continent was added when Essie's dancing teacher appeared. Played by John Janusewski, Mr. Kolenkov was a Russian refugee who brought along his waitress friend Olga, onetime Grand Duchess and cousin of the Czar, played by Joan Mazuroski. Miss Ruth Zdanewicz directed the performance, Mr. John Resh was in charge of the scenery, Mr. Alfred Riker supervised the lighting, and Mrs. Irene Todd supervised the make-up. Stage managers were Pat Giannos and Sue Cox. Pete Krenzel was in charge of the sound effects.

"ANNIE GET YOUR GUN"

"What comes naturally?"

"That you're much too much for me!"

"Yeah — you got eyes!"

Overture strains filled the air as house lights dimmed for the junior and senior classes' production of Annie Get Your Gun, April 20, 21, and 22. Wild West to sophisticated 1900 New York society was the setting for Irving Berlin's musical of sharpshooting and romance. Centered around Annie Oakley, the musical related her rise to gunnery fame in Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show and her use of female wiles to win her rival, Frank Butler. "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun," "There's No Business Like Show Business," and many more songs told the story.

Annie Oakley was portrayed by Susan Cox and Frank Butler by Gary Boyler. Rival show owners were Buffalo Bill, played by Bill Kennedy, and Pawnee Bill, by Charles Marangio. Wendy Wilbur, Donna Hanneman, Sandy Campbell, and Joan Mazurosky recreated the roles of Dolly Tate, Winnie Tate, Minnie, and Sylvia Potter-Porter, respectively. The role of Tommy Keeler was played by Richard Miller and Alan Fross became Foster Wilson. Henry Zupko re-enacted the role of Charlie Davenport while Louis Kilian portrayed Chief Sitting Bull. Annie's younger sisters and brother were played by Kathy and Evelyn Last and John Mandy. Cast members also included Indians, society belles, and westerners.

Director was Miss Ruth Zdanewicz assisted by Mr. Leonard Margolis. Mr. Anthony Marzullo was the choreographer. Music and chorus directors were Mr. John Kulpa and Mr. Allan Mount, respectively. Backstage duties, selling tickets, and supporting the play were divided among the students, all working to make Annie Get Your Gun a success.

Sandy Campbell became Sayreville's first member of the New Jersey State Chorus, which performed at the Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City. Another first was Sue Cox's tours with the U.S.A. High School Band and Chorus during the summers of 1965 and 1966.

Mr. John Kulpa, Sayreville's new band director, has done an exceptionally fine job. The band and orchestra under his direction have grown in number as well as in playing ability. They performed at the Christmas Program and the Spring Concert.

These groups of students are a tribute to the twenty-five year musical history of the high school.

BASKETBALL

Success did not come to the Bomber cagers this season who missed the .500 mark with a 9-12 record. A lack of height hindered the SWMHS squad in several clashes. Co-captains Dale Kurowsky and Warren Walerzak, as well as Reggie Carney, stood out as exceptional players. Besides setting a new single game mark of 50 points, Dale achieved honors as a guard on the 1967 Sentinel All-Star Basketball Team. Walerzak headed the rebounding department and contributed 204 points for the season. Reggie ranked as second highest scorer and frequently demonstrated fine ball handling.

WRESTLING

Individual accomplishments, rather than general team success, characterized the 1967 SWMHS wrestling team. Finishing the season with a 1-11 mark, the Bomber matmen put an aggressive effort into their many matches. Notable wrestlers include co-captains Charlie Valverde and Sal DeMauro who displayed fine skill in their performances. The Marcello brothers, Ernie and Vinnie, achieved third place honors in the district wrestling tournament. Junior John Mitsock also placed fourth in his weight class at this annual meet.

GYM TEAM

Endeavoring to develop advanced skill in gymnastics, tumbling, and on the apparatus, through practice and competition with area schools, the former gym club joined the ranks of varsity sports by becoming a full-fledged team. Coached by Mr. John Hefelfinger, team members were allowed to perform on the rings, parallel bars, or horse if they showed an avid interest and a basic skill in that field of gymnastics. Throughout the entire season, the team promoted an all important sense of good sportsmanship and fair play by taking part in friendly competition with other schools.

TRACK

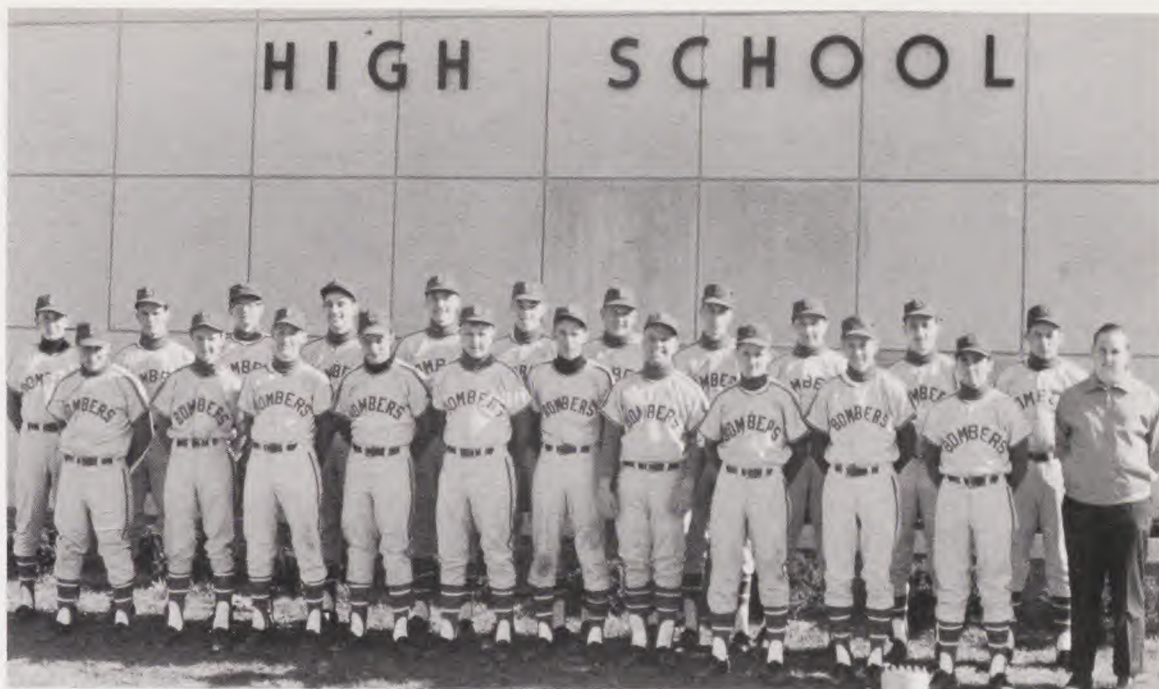

Despite a lack of depth, the SWMHS track team anticipated a .500 mark for its 1967 spring season. Deprived of the valuable experience gained through cross-country and indoor track competition, the Bombers worked under a handicap with many county schools. Squad stand-outs included co-captains Bill Rathbun and Jerry Carney, who doubled as fine hurdlers and high jumpers. Captain Art Elwood performed well in the half-mile and broad jump. Dominating their respective field events were juniors Ron Gutkowski and John Salge. Participating in the discus, high jump and 440, Matt Anderson set several new freshman track records.

BASEBALL

Hope was high among the 1967 Bomber baseball players who set out to repeat last year's 17-7 record. Pitching proved to be a strong point in the Bomber drive, with seniors Rich More and Tom Hockenjos heading the Sayreville mound staff. Despite a lack of varsity experience, Sayreville's defensive squad formed a well-knit unit. Led by hard-hitting Captain Mickey Roberts, first baseman Dale Kurowsky, and Stan Zebrowski on third base, SWMHS surprised many a county team this spring.

Poise, combined with talent, describe the exciting tumbling and apparatus routines executed by the girl gymnasts. Under the supervision of Miss Janet Scott, the Gym Club is comprised of students actively and sincerely interested in furthering their skills in various gymnastic fields. For the first time in its history, the club initiated interschool competition. By playing fair and being good sportswomen, the girls hope to obtain a high degree of respect from their competitors. Practicing and planning for their annual spring assembly, at which they exhibit their skills, is one of their main goals.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Powder and bobby pins in the locker room? That's right. This year marked the debut of a girls' varsity basketball team at SWMHS.

Under the direction of Miss Judith Sunski, the female cagers were able to learn and demonstrate various court skills in ten pre-scheduled games.

Flexibility, coordination, and height paid off for the Bomberettes, who completed a successful and winning season. Both the fans and the boys' team will attest to the fact that this team proved itself a valuable part of Sayreville's ever-widening sports scope.

CHEERLEADERS

From the solemn flag salute to the eye-catching cartwheel-splits, the cheerleaders brightened both field and gymnasium with their school spirit display. Under the advisorship of Mrs. Miriam Fehrle, the varsity squad, captained by Debbie Switzer, performed several new cheers in addition to traditional favorites.

Junior varsity and reserve squads displayed a true flair for originality in composing peppy lyric-motion combinations. Miss Janet Scott supervised the J.V. and reserve squads.

TWIRLERS

Fancy strutting and flashing batons displayed the twirlers' talents at pep rallies and football games as the squad performed combination twirling-dance routines and participated in band formations. Captain Joan Gutkowski composed and taught the routines while Miss Suzanne Duschock, advisor, choreographed a change-of-pace "cha-cha."

March and maneuvering routines, under the direction of Captain Kathy Kimball, highlighted the color guard's military display as they led the band, bearing school and national colors.

MARCHING BAND

Directed by Mr. John Kulpa, the SWMHS Marching Band presented entertaining programs at all school pep rallies and during football half-times. Variety was the key word for the performances of the blue and gray-garbed marchers. Spectators will always remember the "Broadway," "German," and "Through the Ages with Music" shows in which they executed unique formations, accompanied by spirited musical arrangements. The band, led by Drum Majorette Donna Marine, is a significant part of an untiring effort to promote spirit among the students of Sayreville.

PEP RALLIES

Sparked with school spirit and striving for team support, SWMHS students joined the cheerleaders, marching band, twirlers, color guard, and athletic teams in making every pep rally a spirited success this year. Chanting cheers, singing school songs, and watching skits were the highlights of these events. From the exciting sound of the band music to the cheers of the blue and gray pep promoters, each student sports fan was given the incentive to demonstrate his support of school and team.
