A dramatic photograph of the Statue of Liberty in silhouette against a sunset sky. The sun is low on the horizon, creating a bright orange glow that filters through the clouds. The statue's torch is raised high, and the overall mood is contemplative and historical.

"Senioritis" has not yet set in for Ed Wills, who industriously works on his assignment.

Before the year began, finishing touches were put on the school.

Topsy-Turvy

New Year Brought Changes

Every school is a boisterous, busy place, changing yearly. Think back to the summer. As September approached everyone experienced mixed emotions. We looked forward to seeing friends, but were nervous about “What will my classes be like?”, “Will my friends be in my classes?”, “I hope I know someone in lunch,” “What teachers will I have?”

As this September approached, the trepidation was worse than usual since everyone knew that high school would experience more change than ever before . . . the freshmen were coming! The high school was going to be a four year school for the first time in many years.

“Would the halls be too crowded?” “Will I be able to get to class on time?” “How many people can fit in a class?” No one was sure how the year would go but everyone knew for sure — things were going to be different and just somewhat topsy turvy.

A rare glimpse of the B-wing — empty.

Mass confusion reigns in the crowded halls of SWMHS.

An impromptu "Ask Mr. Grzy" session begins early in the day when Darlene Christensen questions Mr. Grzywacz on his Don Johnson impersonation.

A good study area is hard to find, but the library proves to be the perfect place for Charles Halloman.

After escaping from the bleak walls of the cafeteria, students enjoy the serene outdoors.

A new kind of social ladder? Students reach new heights in gym class.

"This can't be the D routine!". Sean Fischer shows off his unique style on the rings.

Lunch provides the perfect outlet for energetic students.

Chorus students sing in tune to Miss Osolinski at the piano.

Some things in high school, such as taking time out to share with a friend, will never change as Dora Sanchez and Lori Smith well know.

Not Fiddlin' Around

Play Wins Award

Last year's spring musical "Fiddler on the Roof," recounted tales from the small Russian town of Anatevka, and was centered around the plight of the Jewish population. The beautiful music and sound script were supported by outstanding performances from this year's seniors: Lisa Campion, Joe DiBella, Lisa Dietsch, Mark Ilardi, Mark Jacobs, Patsy Kozlakowski, and Lori Rose Marullo.

Adding to the intensity of the production were the professional costumes, fine choreography, huge circular set, and a close-knit, enthusiastic cast and crew, as well as the dedication of the director, Michael Piccuiro. The musical could not have been completed without the assistance of the band director Thomas Maliszewski, choral director Brian Farias, stage designer John Resh, and the pianist Mrs. Carol McCormack.

All the time and effort devoted by those who were involved made "Fiddler," not only one of the most well-received musicals in the history of the Sayreville state, but also earned the award for best choral arrangement from Middlesex Community College.

Fellow thespians Mark Ilardi, Paul Laikowski, Joe DiBella, and Pete Berger salute life in a rousing rendition of "L'chaim" . . . to life.

A jubilant Lazar Wolf (Mark Ilardi) sings to show his joy over his upcoming marriage.

Awaiting the arrival of her true love, Hodel (Lisa Dietsch) tends to the household duties.

Awakened by the spirit of Frumasara, Golde (Patsy Kozlakowski) looks fearfully about her bedroom.

The possibility of the perfect husband leads Alicia Dietsch, Lisa Campion, and Lori Marullo to seek the help of the matchmaker.

Nights in Heaven

Today's Dreams Become Tomorrow's Memories

After May third of last year, no one from the graduating class of '87 could ever look at the SWMHS cafeteria the same way again. "A Night in Heaven" was realized thanks to the superior decorating and organizational job of the Junior class officers, advisors, and many others who donated their time.

Juniors withstood abnormally cold weather while waiting to enter the building. Once admitted, they graced the halls of the school, looking and feeling their best. Pictures were taken, food was served, and the band, Flossie, played on and on. During the evening, attendants were entertained by vocal solos performed by Alicia Dietsch and Patsy Kozlakowski.

Finally, the evening came to a close, and the students in the Class of '87 went their separate ways to complete the "Night in Heaven" on their own.

The highlight of the year for the senior class was the prom held on May 16 at the Aspen Manor in Parsippany. Beginning at eight o'clock, the students danced the night away to their theme song, "These Dreams," by Heart, performed by Protege.

Smiles abound as John Gluchowski and Sue Palovchak simply enjoy the company at the 1986 Junior Prom.

Kicking off her heels and getting down to business, Joanne Holthausen enjoys the festivities of the '86 Senior Prom.

Souvenirs of the Junior Prom serve as lasting reminders of a night spent in "Heaven."

The SWMHS cafeteria looks extremely different in its "heavenly" state.

Sharing a quiet moment, Lori Markulik and Mike Vail make today's dreams tomorrow's memories.

Despite all of their hard work, the treasure hunter's team still found they had plenty of time to enjoy each other's company.

Last-minute preparations before their performance are handled by Anne Marie Ferraro, Ko-chien Chang, Steve Maldony, and Mike Mitrosky.

Ko-chien Chang anxiously awaits the judge's decision at the University of Arizona's spacious gymnasium.

NHS & OM

Symbols of "Higher" Education

After winning first place in the state Olympics of the Mind Competition, the Sayreville Treasure Hunters Team went on to participate in the national tournament held in Flagstaff, Arizona. The team members included Ko-chien Chang, Bill Borbely, Anne Marie Ferraro, Mike Mitrosky, Peter Berger, Steve Maldony, and Shannon Scully. They were accompanied by advisor Ms. Carla Sutherland and Ms. Gina Herdegen to Northern Arizona University which was their home for one week.

While the high point of the trip was considered by all to have been the trip through the Grand Canyon on the Blue Angel Trail, the students also enjoyed learning about their American heritage by visiting Indian villages. During the day, everyone had full use of all the facilities at NAU including an olympic sized pool, bowling alley, tennis courts, and movie house on campus.

Despite technical problems incurred with their printer, the team still managed to place eighth in a field of forty-one state teams and three Canadian teams. Everyone involved in the competition believed that the lasting friendships forged were the most important.

Another scene: a darkened auditorium glittering with diamonds of candlelight. The players: the school's highest achievers. The audience: proud family members and friends.

This magical atmosphere was the setting for the National Honor Society Induction.

The joyous occasion began with Jennifer Higgins playing the piano as the old and newly elected members walked onto the stage. President Edward Chin and the other officers lit the four candles that represent the major qualities of the National Honor Society: leadership, service, character, and scholarship. The newly elected members received a National Honor Society pin as they were inducted into the Society and the members who were elected the previous year received a carnation. Everyone was then entertained by the Jazz Ensemble.

By lighting the candle of knowledge, Joe DiBella is inducted into the National Honor Society.

Graduation

The Final Frontier . . . or is it?

Under a setting sun on June 25, members of the class of 1986 gathered for the last time. They were about to partake in the Commencement ceremony at Memorial Stadium.

Spirits ran high as brightly decorated cars filled the parking lot. Despite an occasional beach ball and spurt of confetti, the mood was a serious one.

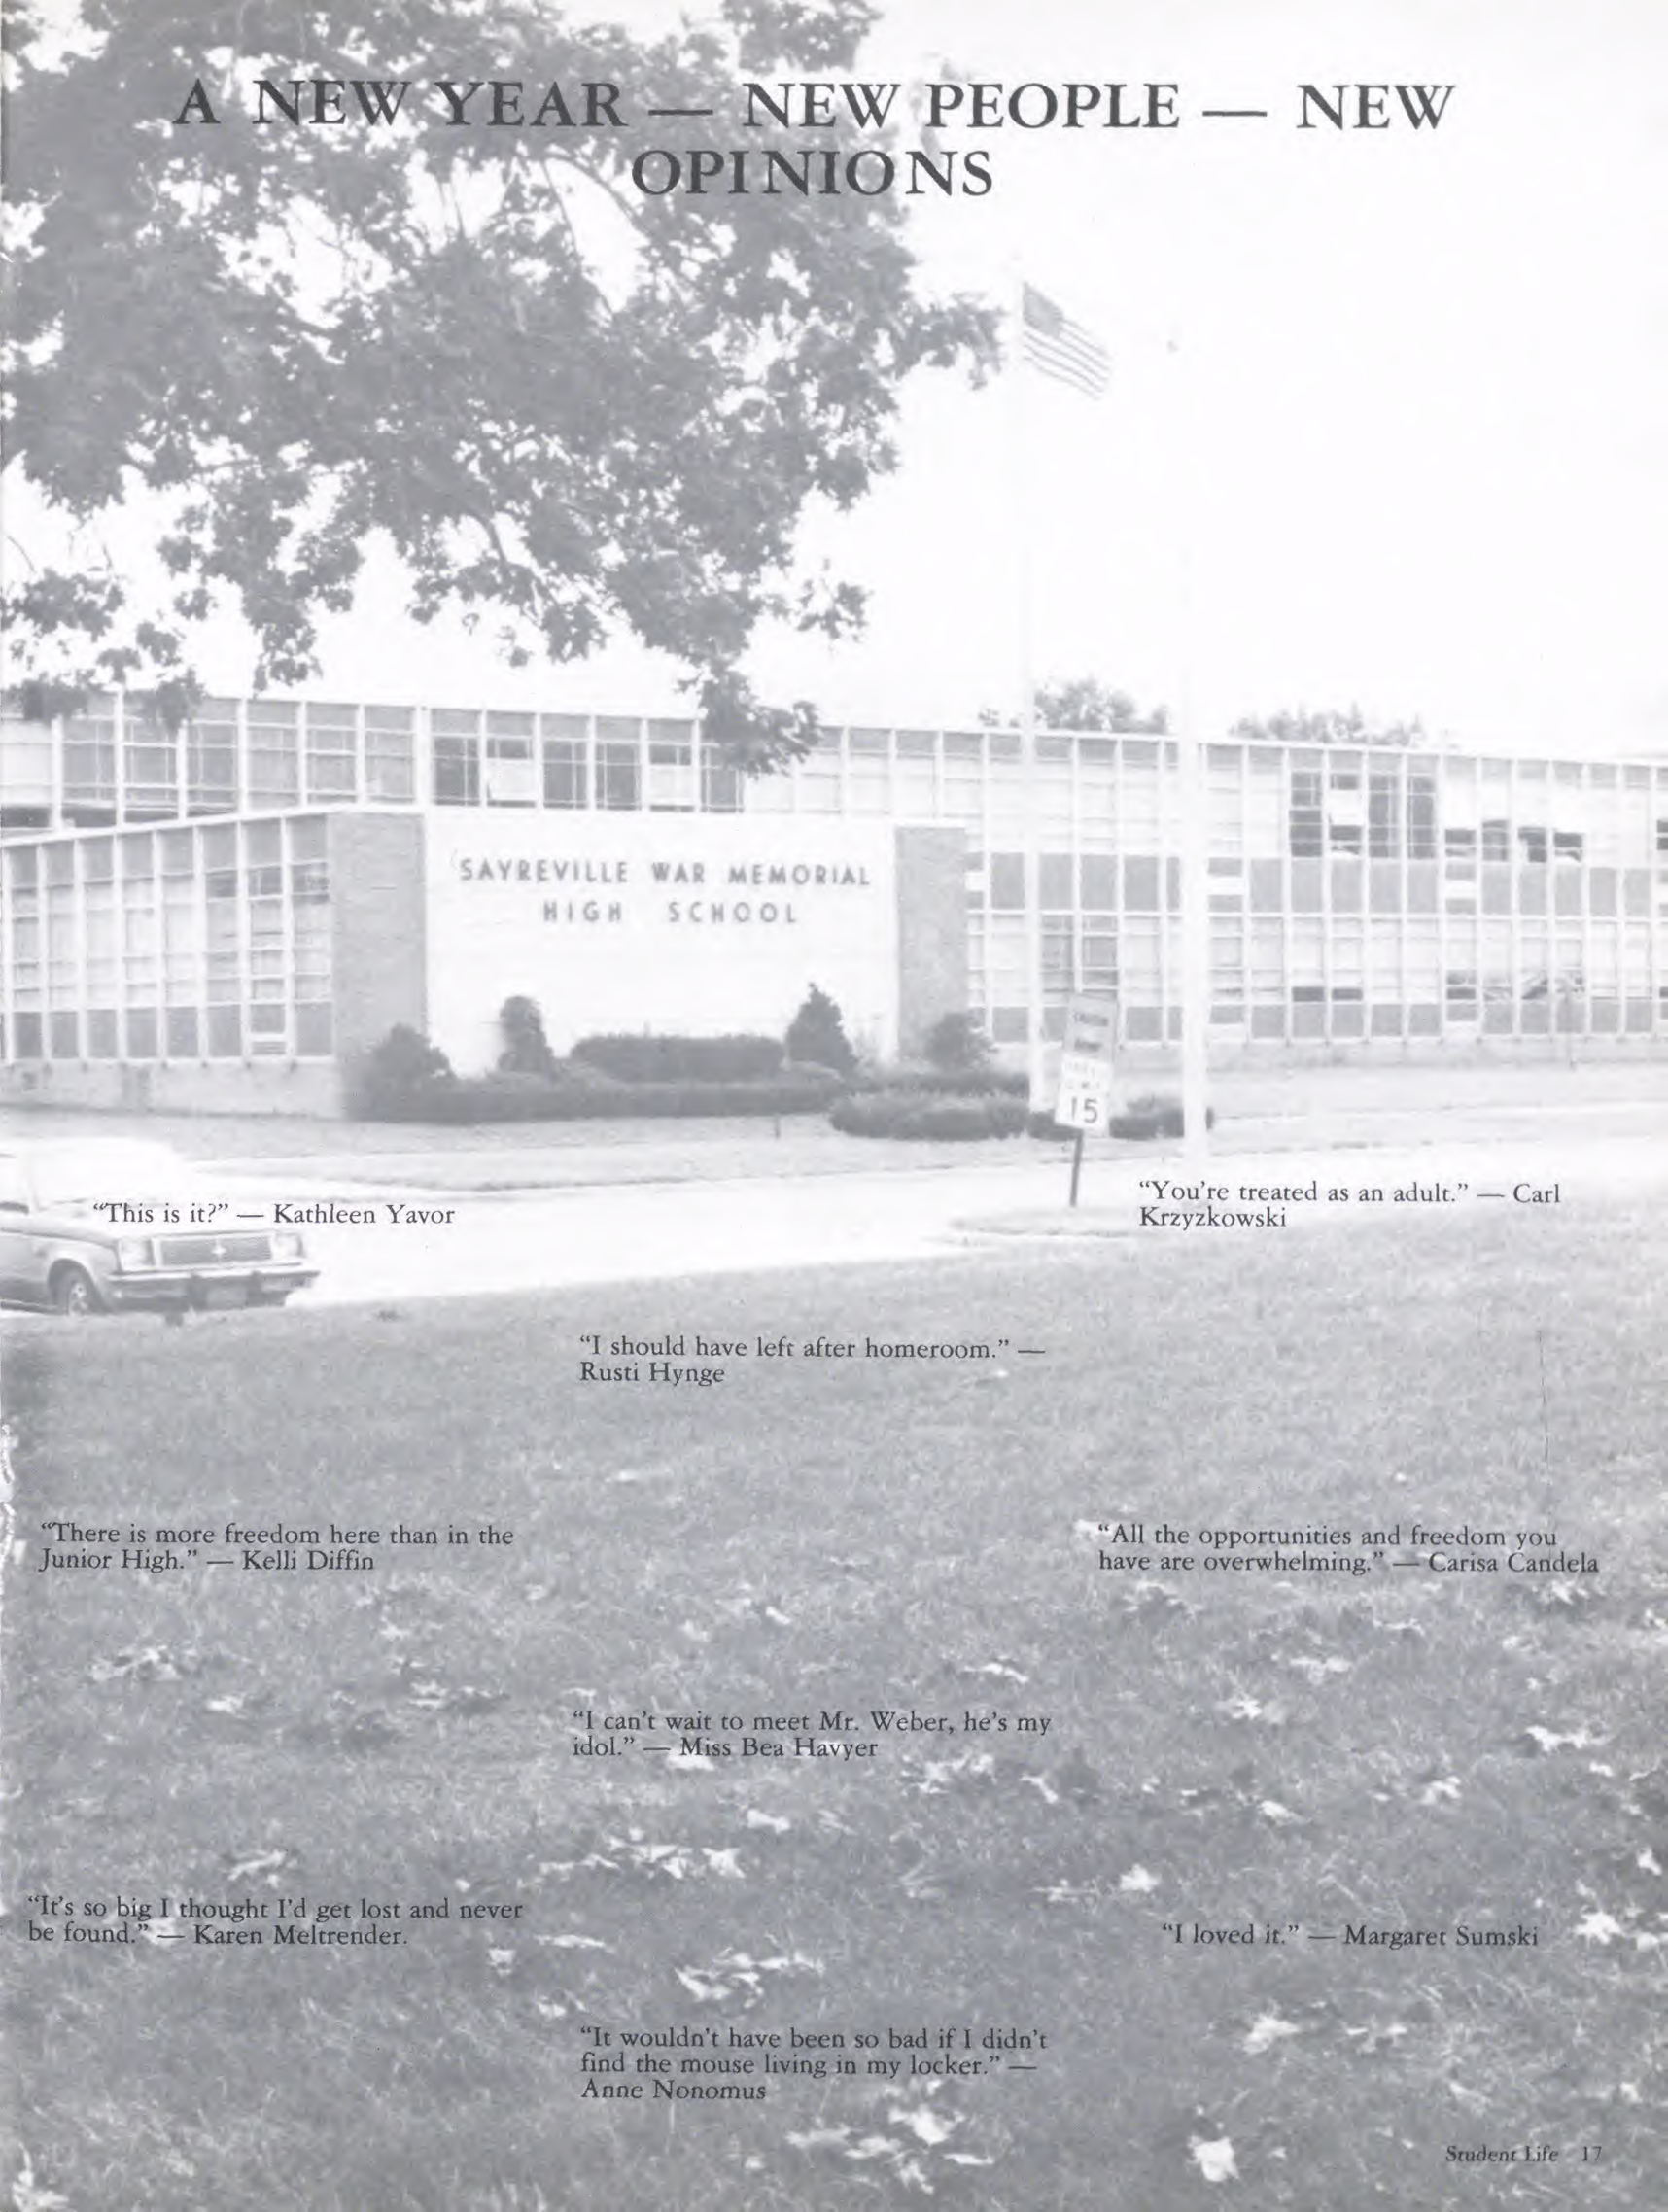

Miss Whitney presided as Master of Ceremonies with Dr. Marie Parnell in attendance. The keynote speaker, Edwin Kolodziec, compared the challenge of war that overshadowed his high school years to the challenge of peace that faces us during our years as students. Anne Marie Ferraro, Salutatorian, gave fond farewells to her classmates and their alma mater. Valedictorian Zorica Jelisejevic expressed her hopes for the future in a moving and inspirational speech.

Entertainment was provided by Chris Parillo who sang "The Greatest Love of All" and Theresa Burns with her rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner." The concert band, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Maliszewski, played the Alma Mater.

A NEW YEAR — NEW PEOPLE — NEW OPINIONS

"This is it?" — Kathleen Yavor

"You're treated as an adult." — Carl Krzyzkowski

"I should have left after homeroom." — Rusti Hynge

"There is more freedom here than in the Junior High." — Kelli Diffin

"All the opportunities and freedom you have are overwhelming." — Carisa Candela

"I can't wait to meet Mr. Weber, he's my idol." — Miss Bea Hayver

"It's so big I thought I'd get lost and never be found." — Karen Meltrender.

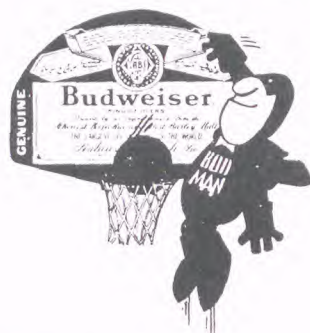

"I loved it." — Margaret Sumski

"It wouldn't have been so bad if I didn't find the mouse living in my locker." — Anne Nonomus

Awaiting the whistle that begins the tug-of-war competition, Marc Warzecha and Patty Tighe smile confidently.

Spirited SWMHS students show their support with screams and smiles.

Filled with determination, the eventually victorious junior team struggles their way to the top.

Members of the number one junior team Margaret Seaman and Jeff Wadulack reap the benefits of the thrill of victory.

Homecoming

A lasting tradition

Instead of bringing its typical scares, Halloween was a day filled with excitement and anticipation. On October 31, Homecoming 1986 was held.

The day began with a school spirit assembly held on the football field. Student Council officers introduced the fall sports teams and the Homecoming queen candidates. The Homecoming Court consisted of Danielle Conselyea, Christine Larsen, Susan Palovchak, Jennifer Simon, and Katy Wen.

The Pep Rally continued as the class competition began. The junior class reigned supreme in the tug of war. The stunned senior class was embarrassed after being defeated by the fledgling freshman. However, the disappointed seniors regained some of their pride after coming out on top in the cheering competition.

The excitement continued into the evening. The junior class was elated at their victory in the annual float competition. At halftime, Katy Wen, Student Council Vice President, was crowned Homecoming Queen. To put the finishing touch on a glorious evening, the Sayreville Bombers back from behind to win the game against Perth Amboy.

As tears of joy collect in her eyes, Katy Wen reflects on her new royalty.

Proud juniors display their first place float that commemorated Columbus Day.

Fall Drama

The Man Who Came To Dinner

The humble home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley (Mark Jacobs and Patsy Kozlakowski) was the sight of the 1986 fall drama, "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Sheridan Whiteside, (Mark Illardi) the illustrious radio star, becomes the unexpected guest at the Stanley's humble home after sustaining a hip injury on their icy doorstep. The strange series of events that occur afterwards set the stage for one of the most entertaining SWMHS productions to date.

Maggie Cotler, (Alicia Dietsch), Whiteside's secretary and secret heartthrob, falls in love with Burt Jefferson, portrayed by Joe DiBella, much to Whiteside's dismay. In order to extinguish the flame in their relationship, the cunning Whiteside sends for femme fatale Lorraine Sheldon (Lisa Campion) to steal Jefferson away from Maggie. However, the seals of true love cannot be broken in the case of these two young companions, much to Whiteside's dismay. After realizing that his game has come to no avail, Sheridan attempts to leave the Stanley residence, but unfortunately he is unable as again he slips and becomes disabled. The saga continues . . .

Faced with a perplexing situation, members of the cast of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" take on baffled looks.

With a loving stare, Lorraine (Lisa Campion) sits enthralled by Burt's prospective screenplay.

Catering to the injured Mark Illardi, Donna Jakubik, Patsy Kozlakowski, and Lori Markulic try to cure his ills.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" had more than its share of household guests and pests, as Glen Venezio knows.

The cast members seem to be enjoying the company of the new addition to the family — roaches.

While assigning his secretary (Alicia Dietsch) her duties, Sheridan Whiteside (Mark Ilardi) goes over his plans for the day.

Band Spends New Year's in Georgia

What on earth could possess teenagers to leave home two days after Christmas, not return unwanted holiday gifts, withstand an eighteen hour bus ride, and spend New Year's Eve on a bus? Ask the Bomber Band Members, and they'll tell you.

The Sayreville Bomber Band took part in various activities while in Georgia, such as the field show competition, mass band performance, and even a parade. With little spare time, the band managed to have some fun. The band's leisure time activities consisted of going to an underground mall, riding a clean, above-ground subway, taking a tour of Atlanta, and visiting Stony Mountain, where the band was treated to a weenie roast, a hay ride, and a laser show.

The hard work involved in putting on the pre-game and half-time show was rewarded with a night on the town. At the CNN building, a semi-formal dinner was held. After the enjoyable meal, the crowd, which consisted of over 5,000 students, band directors, and chaperons, eagerly awaited the presentation of the awards. Then the students were let loose! In a very dimly lit ballroom, everyone kicked up their heels and danced to the music played by the professional disc jockey.

Finally the trip was all over. Everyone said their goodbyes and boarded the buses for the long ride home. High spirited, the Bomber Band prepared for a New Year's Eve that would be the most memorable part of the trip. The band members decorated the buses with streamers and balloons. Since everyone was enthused about the coming of the new year, craziness filled the air. The students started to spike each other's hair. What a sight!!! By 12:20 a.m. on January 1, 1987, everyone had fallen asleep. At noon, the Bomber Band was elated to see the little town of Sayreville. What a sight it was for 125 pairs of sore eyes!

Come on, Yun, New Year's Eve spent on a bus can't be all that bad.

Last-minute practices led by Lori Kocsis gives the flag members extra confidence and a winning edge on their upcoming performance.

Celebrating their commendable performance, Kathy Kachurick and John Pashley enjoy the game from the stands.

In the true spirit of New Year's, Dan Peters dons a decorative headpiece.

The Sayreville Bomber Band enjoys the chance to take part in the Georgia Peach Bowl.

The usual hamburger, fries and a Coke: this combination makes up the well balanced diet of the majority of the senior class. But, what was sophomore Lisa Valente doing at McDonald's during sixth period?

Ever since the infamous 12:09 dismissal, seniors have been going to McDonald's for lunch. Despite busy schedules, they find the time to relax for a quick meal. The upperclassmen can discuss the latest gossip, boyfriend/girlfriend problems, or even homework (though not very likely). Basically it's a time to savor the last moments of their senior year.

THE TEN MOST WANTED

Quo Vadis went in search of the top ten students and was cheerfully aided by the Sayreville Police Department. After they were "rounded up", we got them to "mug" for the camera.

Despite her good grades, Nicole Bufano often finds it hard to "walk a straight line." Could that be the key to her success!

The Lineup: Stacy Margolies, Yun Chin Lee, Bill Witke, Joanne Fiorilli, Julie Ciccarone . . . Pam Schlafani, Sue Shann, Nicole Bufano, Caryn Fullman and Matt Koye

VALEDICTORIAN
Stacy "The Claw" Margolies: wanted for continually breaking the curve for everyone else; sentenced to four years of hard labor at the college of her choice

SALUTATORIAN
Yun "The Boss" Lee: wanted for always saying "I failed that test" and then getting the highest grade in the class; also sought for abuse of a controlled substance; "White out"; punishable by a limited social life and little sleep

Will Joanne Fiorilli and Julie Ciccarone survive the pressure until graduation?

Risky Business . . . Pam Sclafani, Caryn Fullman, Matt Koye and Bill Wittke attempt to steal the hubcaps off the new Sayreville Police car.

Did Matt really think he could get away with it in front of the police station?

"Oh no, not another Sean Penn!" Bill Wittke tries to escape the camera while being handcuffed.

From Your Families

Happiness always to the class of '87 and especially to our Doug!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Glenn, Cindy,
& Dave

Scott Conover

Dear Scott

You are the son every mother dreams about. I can never remember a time when you were not there to help me. Instead of being out with the boys, you were home helping me while I worked. I have been blessed to receive your love, kindness, and sensitivity. May you receive all the blessings you have bestowed on me. You will have all the success in life if you just remain as good as you are.

God bless you,
Mom

Matthew D'Ambrosio

All our love and best wishes for you always.

Mom, Dad, & Tom

Ecology in the Class Biosphere

Several years ago, Sayreville War Memorial High School offered an Ecology course as an elective. It, like many other courses, was cancelled. However, through Miss Lamprecht's efforts, Ecology class has soared back with new life and vigor.

Miss Loretta Lamprecht, an avid naturalist and conservationist, wanted to see the course return. By spreading the word about the course, students became interested, thus reviving the Ecology class. Now, "Miss L." had to plan the class' activities.

In this class the emphasis is on active participation by the students. Miss Lamprecht believes that Ecology should be taught through first-hand experience, not only textbook reading. A prime example of this "first-hand experience" is the Adopt-a-Tree program, in which students selected individual trees and recorded facts about them, such as their height and leaf structure. Other projects included transpiration experiments, population samplings, and food web research.

Miss Lamprecht feels that study and reading are important as well. Ecology is a science, and all sciences require some form of pen-and-paper work. That helps students understand complex important ecological workings.

Miss Lamprecht understands the most basic law of Ecology: if one is affected, then all are affected. She hopes that her students will appreciate this law as well and carry it out in their lives.

New Kids on the Block

Is it deja vu? Are we back in the Junior High? As one walks down the hall, they might notice a few familiar faces such as Mr. Gryzwacz, a career development teacher who doubles as the coach of the basketball and baseball teams. Mr. Gryzwacz is not disturbed by the switch because he enjoys dealing with the higher maturity level of the High School students.

Mrs. Kulas, a mathematics teacher, also prefers the High School. She likes the additional activities, clubs, and programs not available at the Junior High.

Mrs. Pellecchia, an English teacher said she looked forward to the switch, praising the older students for being more sophisticated. She adds that it is a challenge to teach things that she hasn't taught before.

Despite the many fears voiced, everything turned out for the best. The four year high school is now a reality.

Fond Farewell

Mrs. Miriam Fehrle, after a 37-year teaching career, retired on Oct. 31, 1986. She was honored at the school's Homecoming game. During the ceremonies she received a plaque commemorating her years of teaching Physical Education, Driver Education, and Health courses.

A graduate of Trenton State, Mrs. Fehrle began teaching in 1949. She was the first Sayreville alumna to come back and teach here. Besides teaching her Physical Education-related classes, she was coach of the Cheerleading Squad. Mrs. Fehrle was also coach of the Girls' Basketball team.

Over the years, one of the major changes that Mrs. Fehrle had noticed was that the overall attitude of students towards school had become more blasé. There was not as much enthusiasm, because of a lack of school spirit.

"Naturally, I will miss the association with the cheerleaders and sports teams," said Mrs. Fehrle. Though she will no longer be teaching, she does not intend to stop working with young people. Some of her time will be spent by helping out the Girl Scouts. As for any other spare time she may have, Mrs. Fehrle intends to spend it travelling.

Although farewells are always hard, Mrs. Fehrle's was easier for she left with the knowledge that she has helped many students and touched many lives. She will be missed.

Once Upon a Time . . .

After a full day of teaching History, and coaching the cross country team, Mr. William Doll heads home. Not to rest, but to collect garbage in an elegant orange truck. Then . . . relax? Not a chance. No sooner does he finish this favorite pastime, when he is out on his yacht cruising the Riviera.

With such interesting hobbies to keep him busy during the school year, what's left for vacations? It would have to be flying his private jet to his home in the Swiss Alps, of course.

During quiet evenings at home, Mr. Doll enjoys watching Gone With the Wind while filling out meaningless forms. According to Mr. Doll, "They're so important. As a Good Samaritan, I feel it's my job to fill out these forms. Someone must have to read and file them and I don't want to destroy their career." There is no doubt why Mr. Doll was elected to the New Jersey Coaches Hall of Fame last year for his work with the Cross-Country team. He is so dedicated to his runners that his fondest wish is to be buried under the long jump pit and have it named "The Coach Doll Memorial Long Jump Pit."

Mr. Doll says that he wholeheartedly enjoys teaching the most, calling it "the hardest job in the world." He stays with it because he finds it rewarding to see students learn.

P.S. The Staff of Quo Vadis feels they have found another of Mr. Doll's pasttimes: Putting us on!

Doctor's Orders: Retire and Enjoy Life

People have always had an innate fear of doctors and nurses. This is not true in the high school where Mrs. Ziemba, the school nurse, is always being sought out by students. Unfortunately, however, this will all change after June of 1987. After many years of dedicated service, Mrs. Ziemba is retiring.

Before her entrance into school nursing, Mrs. Ziemba worked in other medical areas. These included industrial, private duty, and civil service nursing. She says of her previous experiences that "each field of nursing is challenging, rewarding, and needs varied types of nursing expertise."

Although she will miss her job and the people with whom she deals, Mrs. Ziemba will have more time to spend with her family — something she values greatly. She also has plans to travel when the time is available.

Mrs. Ziemba, who has been such a tremendous asset to the High School, will be missed greatly. She is wished the best of luck.

Miss Kwiatkowski "The Flip Side"

Sometimes it's hard for students to view their teachers as "real people." In reality, they are people who enjoy different forms of entertainment. They are not the work, work, work machines as we sometimes think of them. A prime example is Miss Christine Kwiatkowski.

"If I had a 26-hour day, that's two more hours I'd be working," says Miss Kwiatkowski, showing her dedication to her career. However, when she's not teaching a new lesson, running off dittos, or performing her Spanish Club and Honor Society advisory duties, she can be found shopping for food, paying the bills, and purchasing clothing, just like any "mere mortal." She also enjoys spending her free time cross-country skiing, sailing, and running.

Sailing has given her some pleasant days. During Liberty Weekend, Miss Kwiatkowski took full advantage of the fact that everyone was out at the Statue of Liberty, to sail in her favorite area explaining, "It was great, there wasn't a single boat for miles." Among her extra-curricular activities, running is one of her favorite.

Running is said to have health advantages, but these are not as important as the fun. Miss K. enjoys running 10 miles every day. "My running is the best part of my day," stated Miss Kwiatkowski.

Sometimes, an occasional happening overrides these activities. This was the case this summer, when the "High Priestess of Rock," Stevie Nicks, came to New Jersey. Miss Kwiatkowski made it a priority to get the best seats in the house. Miss Kwiatkowski expressed her feeling about the concert by saying, "It was great, the whole garden rocked." She has been a fan of the group Fleetwood Mac and group member/solo artist Stevie Nicks for many years and has created a "favorite artists" scrap book devoting pages exclusively to Fleetwood Mac.

Once again Miss Kwiatkowski has taught another lesson, one that breaks the mold of the teacher stereotype. NOW, DO YOUR HOMEWORK!

TYPICAL TEACHER

Backbone of the School

The academic achievements of Sayreville War Memorial High School's teachers are well known. However, many people fail to recognize the achievements of another, smaller group. Without them, the high school would not be the same place. They are the school's support staff — the janitors, cafeteria workers, office secretaries, and maintenance people.

The janitorial staff by working in two shifts runs on a first in/last out basis — they're the first in the building every morning and the last out every evening. Although this sounds difficult, all the janitors take their schedule in stride.

Healthy lunches are prepared every day by the school's cafeteria staff. They plan each lunch so as to balance the nutritional needs and the tastes of the students. The staff also helps club members put the finishing touches on their creations for the food festivals. The high school's secretaries could be called "The Great Communicators." Throughout the day, they handle loudspeaker messages, make and receive phone calls, keep attendance records in order, and, of course, type.

If ever a ceiling is leaking or the lawns need cutting, then the maintenance and grounds crews are ready to do the job. The snow days provide extra work instead of being so-called "unexpected rest days." Always like a minuteman is the maintenance worker.

Although these groups may seem separate, they actually work together for the best results. They act like vertebrae in the straightest of backs. The spine of anything, whether person or school, is most important, though rarely seen.

Workers such as Ralph Hilger spent many hours during the summer and first marking period carefully repainting the school.

Improvements to the school were made possible by Mick Buffalino and Sam Pulucia.

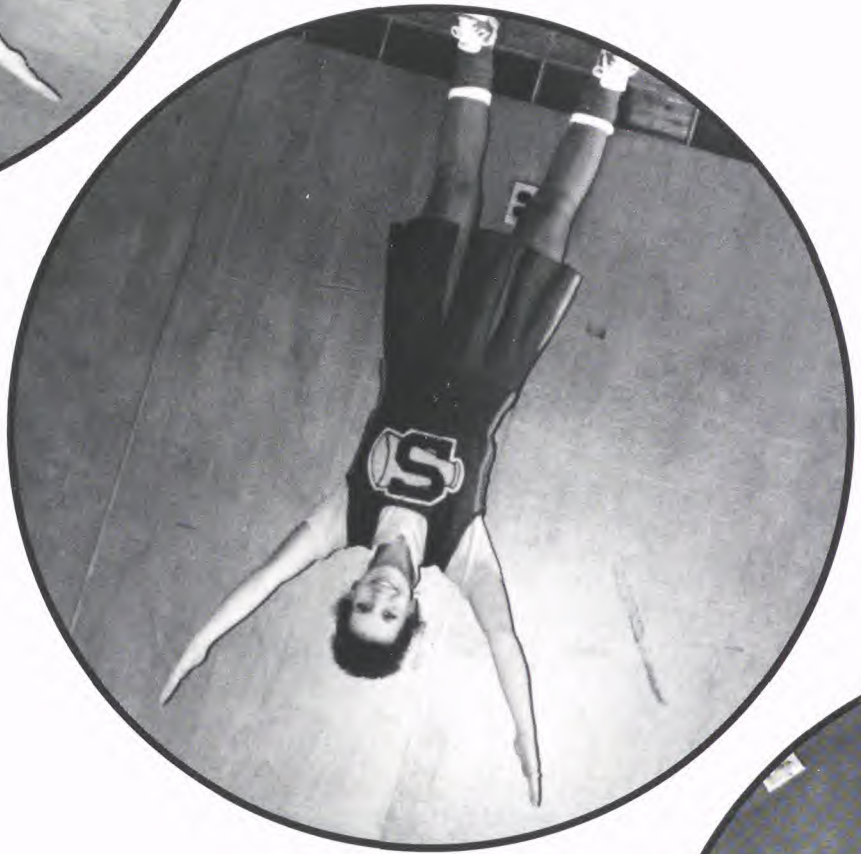

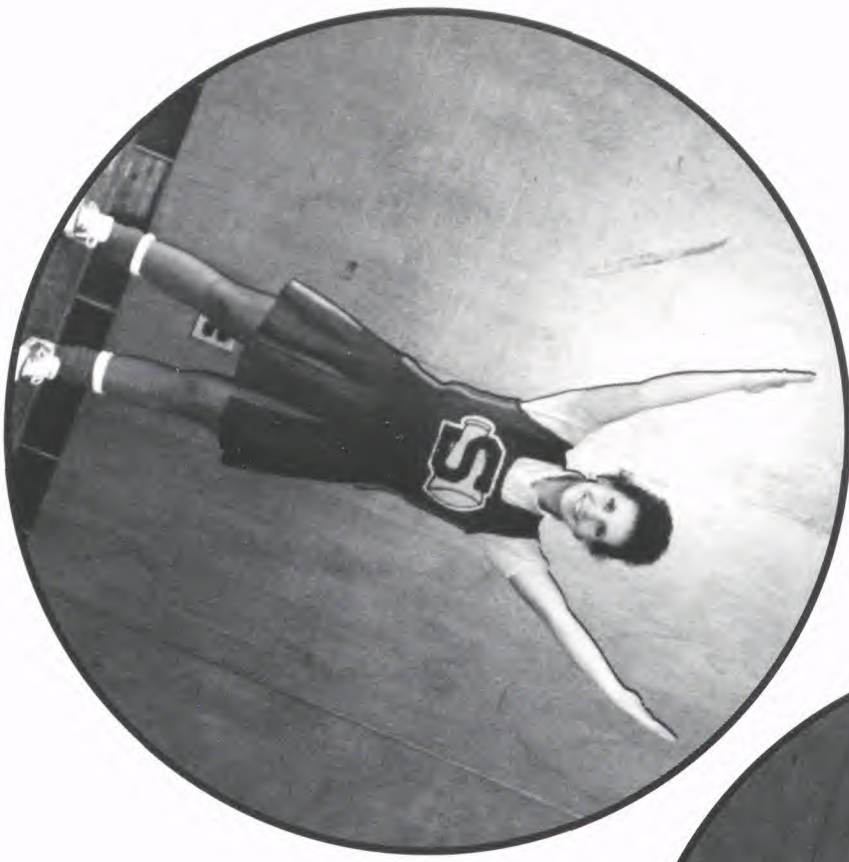

A friendly smile and a pleasant attitude help make the day pass quicker.

Stella Truchan works the cash register on another busy day.

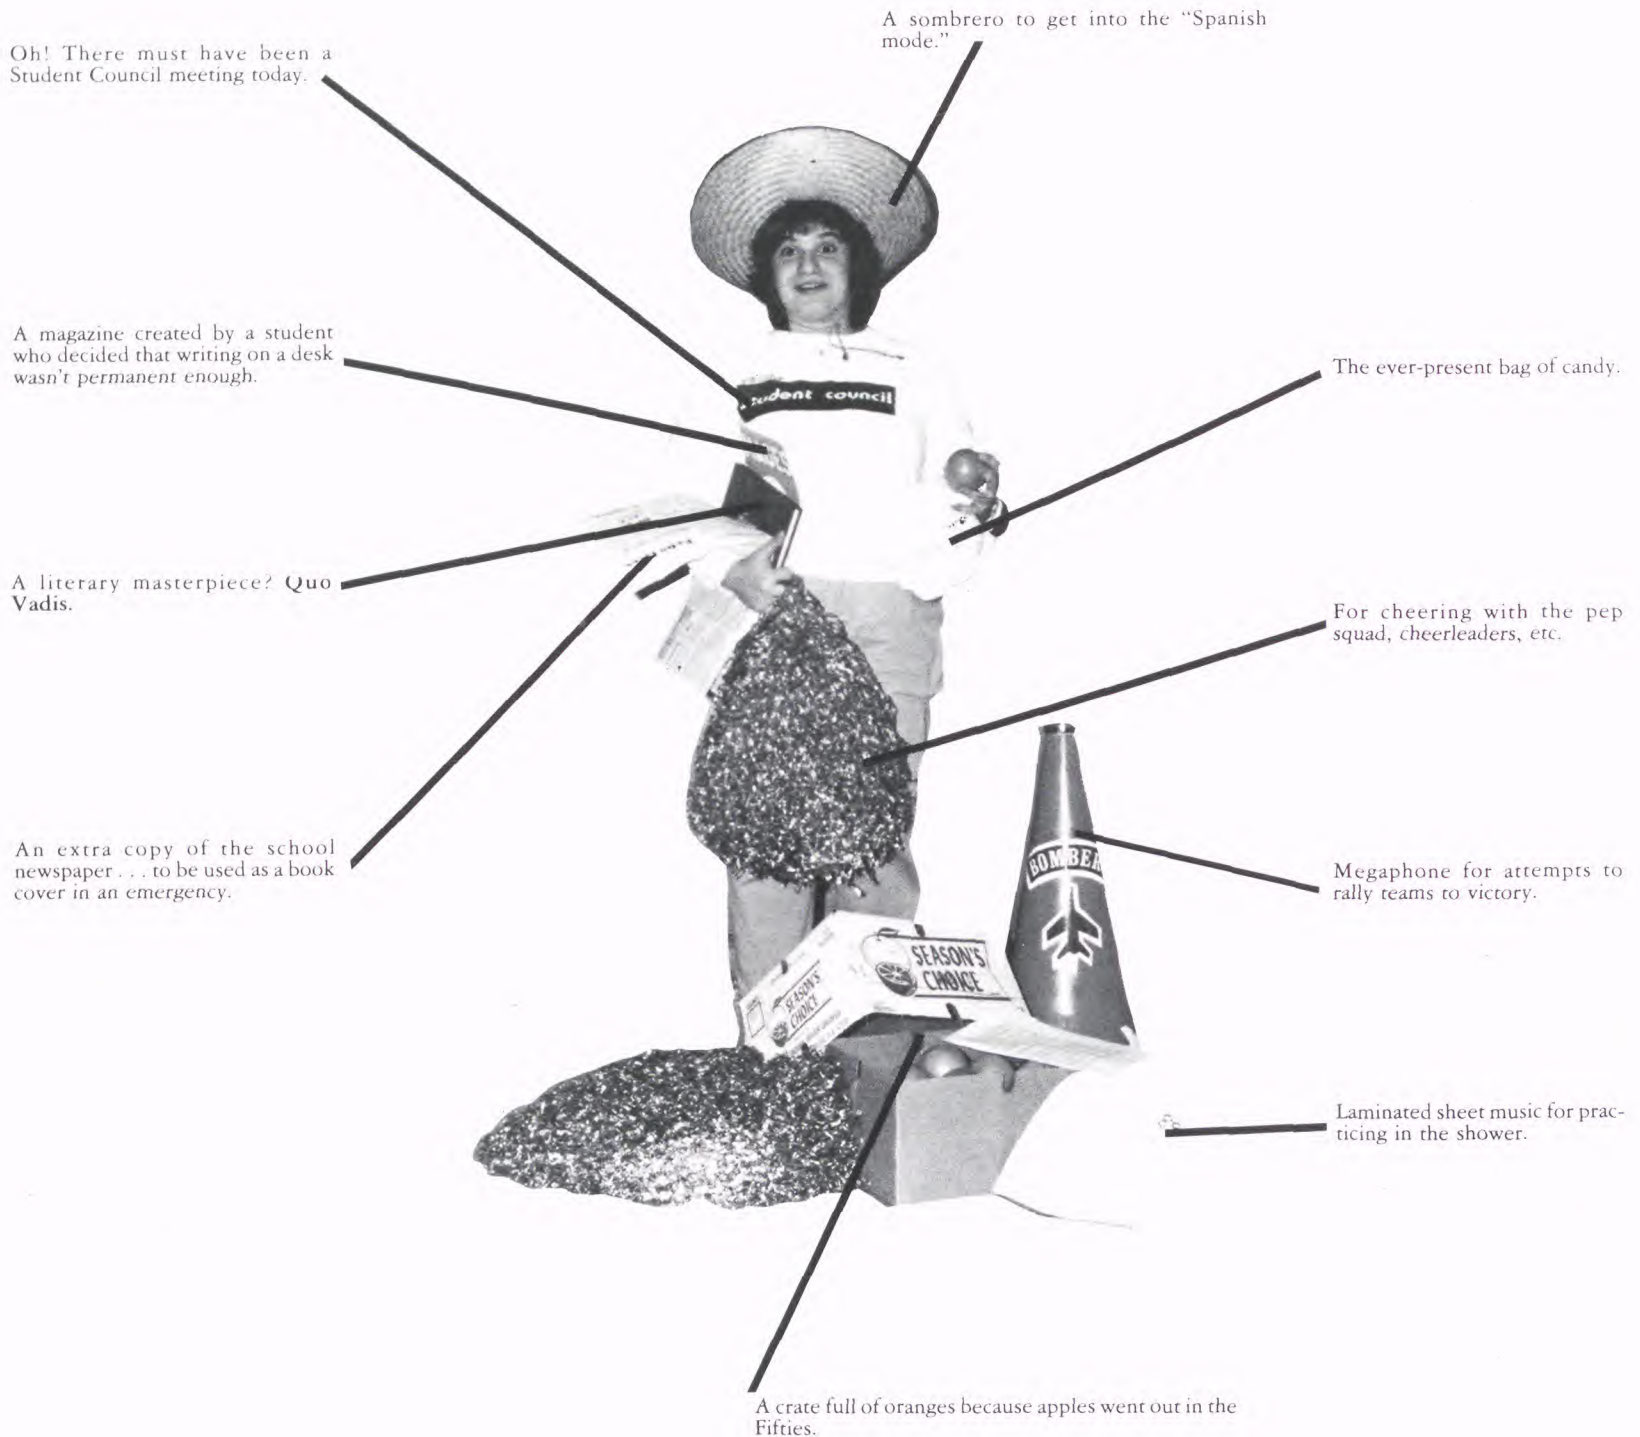

A time out from work is enjoyed by Phil Anghelone, Mr. Kravet, Sam Dulucia, and Stanley Nycz.

The scene: a darkened auditorium glittering with diamonds of candlelight. The players: the school's highest achievers. The audience: proud family members and friends. This magical scenario was the setting for the National Honor Society Induction.

Election to this group is the highest honor the faculty can bestow on a student. Nomination to the society means that the student has been recognized as having outstanding scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Members remain in the group for life.

Under the direction of Miss Annette Sowa, members of the society provided a tutorial service for their fellow students. The organization also conducted candy sales and other fund raisers, and held its annual reception. The highlights of the year included the yearly spring picnic and a trip into New York to the Hard Rock Cafe during winter.

With a warm congratulation from Principal Miss Whitney, Joanne Krause smiles as she is inducted.

The three language honor societies Spanish, French and German, recognize those students who excel in each of their respective languages. Invitations to join the societies are extended to those students who have maintained an "A" average for at least three years. Each group conducts a formal induction ceremony as prescribed by its National Organization.

All of the honor societies make available tutoring services, promote its culture throughout the school, raise money to purchase resource materials and present awards at graduation. During the school term, the organizations visit elementary schools with language programs to show young students the usefulness of a second language.

The advisers of the Spanish Honor Society are Mrs. Ludlow and Miss Kwiatkowski. Mrs. Parks is adviser to the French Honor Society, and Mrs. Hazners guides the German Honor Society.

Holding candles that represent the flame of knowledge, students await with anticipation their induction into the French Honor Society.

Language Clubs

Spicing Up Life With Foreign Languages

Hola. Bonjour. Guten tag. Foreign language anyone? If you're looking for one, S.W.M.H.S. is certainly the place to go. For example, if you have a flair for sombreros, you might check with Miss Kwiatkowski, faculty adviser of the Spanish Club, whose numbers at last count exceeded 250. Under the direction of President Lori Kocsis, the club raises money through numerous fund-raisers, hosts various parties and contests and plans several club field trips.

Planning on visiting Paris sometime in the near future? Then it's Mrs. Parks you should look for. According to President William Wittke, the goals for the club include furthering the members' knowledge of French culture, dining in a French restaurant, and having some good clean fun.

Do you drive a Volkswagen? Then maybe you'd appreciate a little German culture under the leadership of President Tami Skibek. Don't let their size fool you — the smallest of the three clubs, averaging 28 members, holds fund-raisers, plans trips to New York City and awards scholarship money to an outstanding graduating German student each year.

So, if it's culture, history, or just some good clean fun you're looking for — learn the language.

Student Council

Students become keepers of democracy

One of the school's oldest and most distinguished organizations is the Student Council. Serving as a link between faculty and students, the council members continue their hard work improving the environment of the school.

Setting a good example for the school, the officers conduct meetings and encourage new ideas, support democratic principles and plan special projects. These officers include President Jennifer Simon, Vice President Katy Wen, Secretary Lynn Buckler and Treasurer Bill Lake.

Ms. Marianne Kwiatkowski has taken on the responsibility of being their adviser, with assistant adviser Ms. Lee Kratinski. Together, they help council members carry out activities to boost school morale.

Fundraisers are also a very important and successful part of the Student Council. UNICEF, the March of Dimes and this year's state charity, Huntington's Disease, are only a few charities to which they devote their time.

However, the Student Council has other special achievements. For the third consecutive year, the council was the winner of the New Jersey Association of Student Councils award for their Christmas visit to Middlesex Hospital. They also received recognition for being an honor school for 25 years.

Without the Student Council, many of the school's inspiring programs would not be a reality or success. With the cooperation of principal Rita Whitney, the Student Council broadens the minds of the students and helps instill pride and respect for the school.

Band

Marching to a Different Beat

FIVE! SIX! SEVEN! EIGHT! To this cheer, the band marched its way through a victorious season.

New records were set as the band received a record setting score for a season opening competition and went on to earn a 77.3 at the Eastern Marching Band Association. However, the greatest achievement of the season was being selected from hundreds of high schools throughout the state to represent New Jersey in the Peach Bowl.

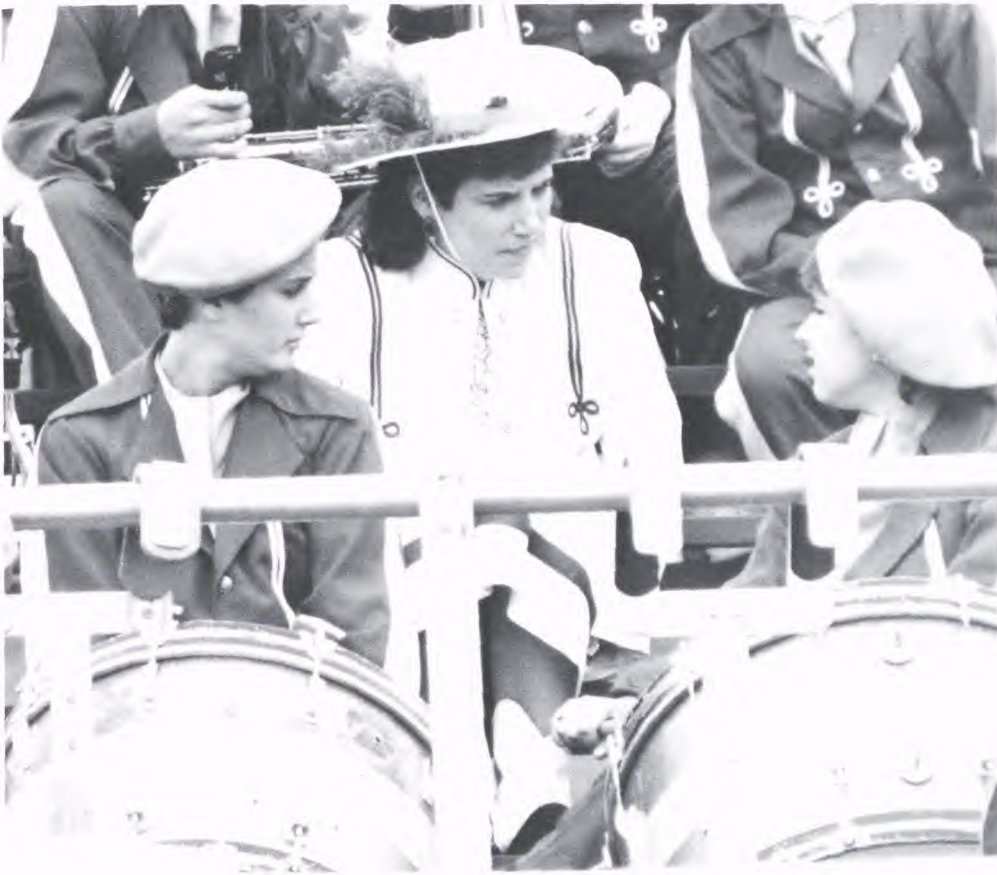

To be able to make the trip to Atlanta, the band had to meet another challenge — a financial one. Numerous fundraisers, such as the annual bumper sticker sale and the Night of a Thousand Stars, were conducted to collect over $26,000 for travel and expenses.

These accomplishments would not have been possible without the band members hard work and dedication. The many hours of practice in the blazing summer sun and the icy winds of winter paid off in their greatest season yet.

Flag squad members Lori Kocsis, Theresa Yavor, and Yun Chin Lee get a chance to relax and enjoy the game after their half-time performance.

RECIPE FOR SUCCESSFUL MUSICAL GROUPS

talented directors
dedicated students
weekly rehearsals fund raisers
unlimited amounts of time, effort, talent and cooperation
a dash of humor

RESULT: Superb performances and a feeling of satisfaction

By following this recipe, once again the Sayreville Chorus, Bell Choir, Jazz and Concert Bands stirred up some school pride. Led by newcomer Ms. Marie Osolinski, the chorus increased both its size and morale. This was largely due to Ms. Osolinski accomplishing one of her main goals, which was "encouraging all students to participate." Striving for this goal, the students diligently attended hour long rehearsals held for all mixed chorus members. Afterwards, alternate rehearsals were held for both Concert and Show Choirs.

All choruses performed in the traditional Winter and Spring Concerts, and also participated in the Teen Arts Festival on County and State levels. Besides performing for fair goers at Sayreville's Arts and Crafts Fair, the chorus spread some holiday cheer at the East Brunswick Square Mall.

The Concert and Jazz Bands, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Malizewski (Mr. Mal), enjoyed one of their finest seasons, also. The bands continued their tradition of excellence by delivering great performances at the annual Band Spaghetti Dinner and Art Fair Pancake Breakfast. The Jazz Band was honored by being chosen to perform at the Peach Bowl. Both groups entertained at school pep rallies and capped of the year with an emotional "final concert" at graduation.

Echo Lites . . .

Not Just Another
Bright Idea

Room A230 — a haven for prospective journalists. Under the direction of Mrs. Judith Mischne and seven editors, Echo Lites is published every second month with the help of a large staff. Although the newspaper serves mainly as a medium for student expression, teachers and administrators are welcome to contribute articles and letters as well.

The time spent on each issue of Echo Lites has helped the paper become an award-winning publication. For several years, Echo Lites has won second place in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association competition, and in 1984, the newspaper won first prize.

On November 20, Mrs. Mischne and the editors attended the Asbury Park Press Writing Conference. In "The High School Leader," a newspaper given to all who attended the seminar, the editorial page of Echo Lites was lauded as being "one of the best of its kind."

Eventually, the hard work and long hours will pay off for the editors and staff of the newspaper in that many will continue in the communications field, having begun careers working on Echo Lites.

Taste-testing for the editorial page, Scott Kielian tries to discover "where the beef" is.

Quo Vadis

Success Through Dedication

12:09. Amid the scurry of underclassmen struggling to get to their sixth period class on time and the seniors racing to be the first on line at McDonald's, another group began to form. These were the valiant Quo Vadis editors who have decided that they would prefer to spend an exciting Friday night not at a dull movie or boring party, but at school.

Kept alive on cold pizza and warm soda, these intrepid (stupid?) souls bravely faced oncoming deadlines, often remaining in the building for ten hour stretches, working until they finally collapsed or died at 11:00 pm. Sometimes, they even got the unexpected bonus of finishing on time.

A few things separated this activity (ordeal?) from other clubs. The first, and probably most important, was insanity. Running a close second had to be sado-masochism. Last, but not least, had to be the desire to stay fit. The editors ran back and forth between C-23 and A-207 until they began to outrun the track people who ran laps in the building. Editors will never forget their despair when, after reaching C-23, they remembered something they needed that was still in A-207. As they trekked back and forth, the stairs and halls seemed to double, then triple in length.

One editor, who chose to remain nameless, summed the year up the best . . . "it was the best of times, it was the worst of times — but mostly it was the worst of times."

Editor-in-Chief (chief-in-editor) Maria Protonentis smiles when attacked by the Quo Vadis camera.

The strange, the bizarre, the unexpected. That is what you can expect from the Quo Vadis editors after a late night.

Images — the word alone incites certain memories and feelings deep within us. The school literary magazine was a showcase of the ideas and emotions of young people and it also served as a way to vent artistic skills. Keeping with tradition, the magazine featured its usual poetry, short stories, and artwork. “Many subjects are similar,” said Mr. Marotta, “because it seems that, as humans, we all share common feelings.” The job of adviser Mr. Marotta and a few artistically-minded editors was to collect the feelings of the many talented individuals in this school, and display them in an attractive and orderly manner.

All in all, it turned out to be a typical year for the Images staff. There was the editors’ typical begging and pleading for last minute artwork, the distribution of the finished product, and finally the flurry of autographs and sentimental messages by the students. Mr. Marotta summed up the staff’s feelings by saying, “We are very lucky in Sayreville to have this publication completely paid for by the Board of Education.”

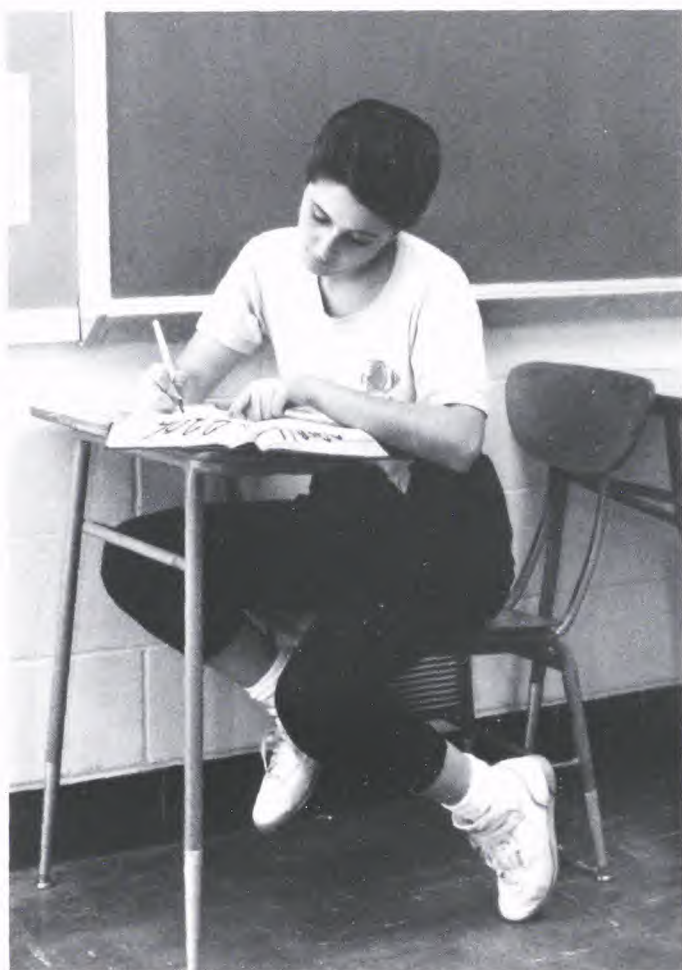

With the intense concentration of an artist, Glenn Wolski sketches his interpretation of a poem from Images.

Created to develop future leaders of marketing, merchandising and management, DECA has proven itself to be a championship organization. Guided by Ms. Bowman, club members present original projects in regional competition. If they place at the regional level, they can proceed to state and national contests. In the past, the group has made their school proud of their accomplishments.

A half day school schedule/a part time job is required of senior DECA members. Participants in this work program have been placed in jobs at Macy's, Foodtown, Chess King, MerryGoRound, and many more. DECA members are also active in civic projects and increasing school spirit with such events as dress up days.

The symbol of DECA is a diamond with each point representing a specific characteristic, such as social interest, civil consciousness, understanding and leadership development. The officers of the organization are President Lori Smith, First Vice President Melissa Junks, Second Vice President Lenore Visneski, Third Vice President Michelle Schoemmer, Treasurer Tina Broderick, Recording Secretary Debra Baumenn, Corresponding Secretary Marybeth Lukie, Reporter Rupal Shah, Historian Doug McArthur and Parliamentarian Margaret Zemen.

One organization whose goal was to develop the professional social skills of its members is the Future Secretaries of America Club. Business oriented students are welcome to join the club.

Sophomore, juniors and seniors are able to become members, each having different branch. The sophomores and juniors belong to F.S.A., which is advised by Mrs. Groncki. Seniors, however, belong to C.O.E. (Cooperative Office Experience). Mrs. Dulemba advises these seniors on secretarial skills. Throughout the year, they met once a month to organize and plan related activities. Among the topics discussed were the installation of new members, luncheons, and Halloween and Christmas parties. On National Secretaries Day, the students of the club worked in the school offices in order to appreciate the work of today's secretaries. Having had the chance to experience the business world, the students ended their year with a head start on the competition.

Godly Performers

Past Legends And Future Stories

Have you ever had to come up with a clever line without even a minute's time to think about it?

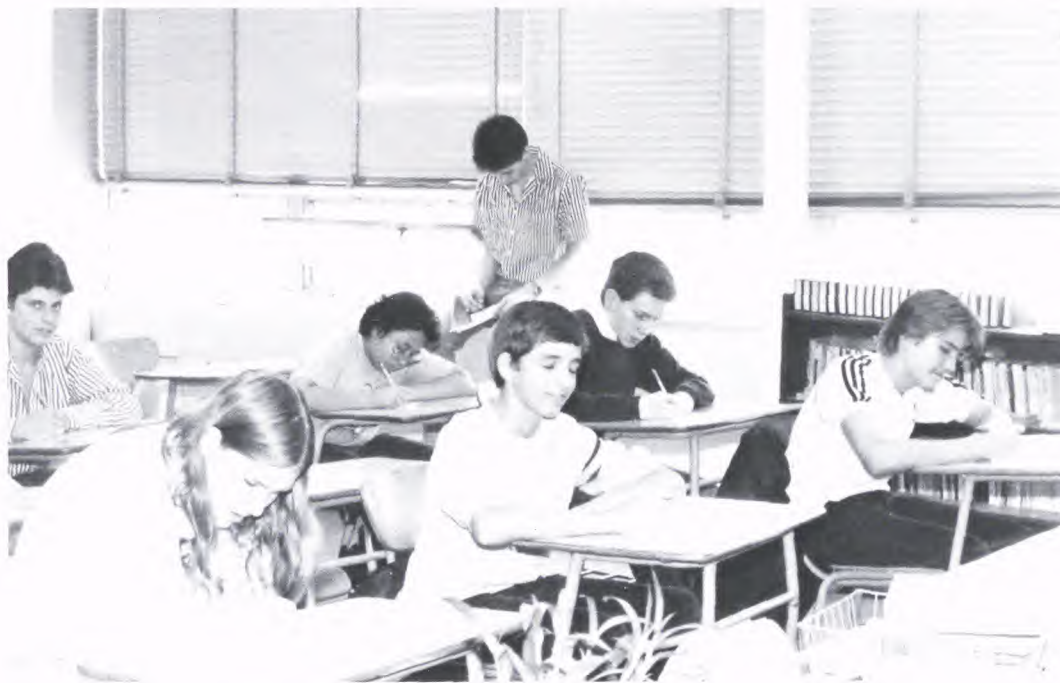

That was what members of the Second City Improvisational Troupe had to do. Thespians involved in S.C.I.T. (usually referred to as the Improv Troupe) met on a monthly basis to practice their ad-libbing skills. There were no scripts or rehearsals involved, only the actor's imagination and ability to think on his feet. Under the direction of Mr. Michael Piccuiro, members were given a hypothetical situation and were required to perform a brief scene revolving around the given subject. Whether it was serious or funny, logical or bizarre, no discussion was allowed between the actors. Whatever was spoken came right off the top of the performer's head. As one member stated, "the hardest part was bringing some of the scenes to a logical conclusion. In some cases, it's downright impossible!" Nevertheless, the Improv Troupe meetings always produced a big turn-out, with new faces appearing through out the year. This was most likely because the meetings provided the students with a pleasant, light atmosphere in which they had the chance to be themselves and act spontaneously.

Under the leadership of President Lori Marullo, Vice President Paresh Patel, Secretary Kelly Quick and Treasurer Karen Pajak, S.C.I.T. also incorporated new methods into their performances. At some meetings, members were asked to write down their own ideas for a scene, and these were then randomly selected and used in skits. As the year drew to a close, the thespians performed their grand finale at a special assembly. It was a great success, due to the hard work and dedication of its members.

Interested in finding out about mythological fables? Maybe help in Mythology class is the order of the day? If you fall into either (or both) of these categories, then the Mythology Club is just for you.

Led by adviser Mrs. Bodnar, the club entered its second year with great expectations. At the first meeting of the 1986-87 school year, the members elected Stacy Maltzman as President, Ross Peterson as Vice President, Martin Rooney as Secretary, and Steve Goldie as Treasurer. The Mythology club calendar called for a Winter Holiday party, a fundraiser, a presentation on Greek culture by Michelle Caras, a new Valentine computer dating service and a trip to see a Greek dance troupe perform.

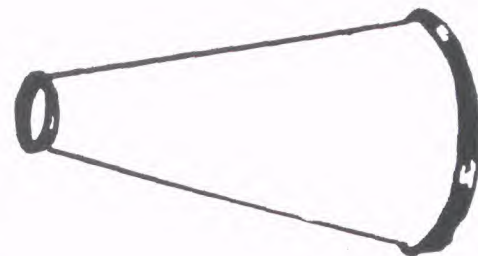

This year also saw the birth of the Dungeons and Dragons Club. A branch of the Mythology Club, members can participate in a round of the role-playing game.

What will the future hold? If you are a Mythology Club member then you might think, "Consult the crystal ball . . ."

Spirit

Cheers Onto Victory

The recipe for a winning team is one part experience, two parts training, and three parts attitude. One of the motivations behind a team may be the spirit of the cheerleaders and pep squad. Without these valuable 'players', team spirit, that winning drive would not be there to carry them to victory. The groups boost morale in many different ways, ranging from posters and locker room decorations to cheering at all games. When the outlook is bleak, the cheerleaders bring back team spirit, helping them win the game. This year, the groups had two new advisers, Mrs. Bandola for the cheerleaders, and Mrs. Bowman for the pep squad.

The cheerleaders perform a new routine at the Homecoming Pep Rally.

"Come on Bombers, you can do it!" A silent cheer crosses Colleen Jesielowski's mind as the Bombers close in on a victory.

Trying to hide her disappointment as the other team scores, Renee LeFurge boosts the Bomber's spirit with an enthusiastic cheer.

Cheerleaders: Christina Castronova, Colleen Jeslowski, Renee LeFurge, Kelly Nakielny, Debbie Hefelfinger, Maureen Conlon, Kelly Schakel, Chris Clausen, Lisa Romano, Jennifer Simon, Lisa Brumbaugh, Shelly Borris, Dawn Hefelfinger, Jennifer Wiecek, Marietta Walsh, Lori Markulic, Karen Szewczyk.

Picture this if you will — you are casually strolling down the upper A corridor. All that pierces the dimly-lit, deserted hall is an occasional scream. Then you sight it, a beam of light emanating from a room ahead. You look in . . . you ask yourself, has a Mack truck crashed through the wall here? Then you remember the old adage — A creative mind is seldom tidy.

You're right, because what you have come across is the OM team preparing for an upcoming competition. Buildings of balsa wood, enough mousetraps to put the Pied Piper out of business, piles of poems of all types, and a strange wood box, with wheels, paper, glue, tools . . . the list goes on. But each holds a story of its own and so do the people working in room A-224.

Each year the members of OM are challenged with a variety of mindbending problems to solve. Nothing like an impossible calculus problem, but a practical problem the solution to which must be accompanied by a skit to go along with a theme.

This year's problems were Omer to the Rescue!, Decision Structure, Poetic License, and Chain Reaction. Omer to the Rescue! involved making a self-propelled vehicle in which a creative super hero and his sidekick would ride in around a course, solving crimes and rescuing people. One other stipulation — the vehicle had to fit inside of two suitcases. Decision Structure requested the team to build a balsa wood structure that was between 9 and 11 inches high and 2.5 inches wide, and would support as much weight as possible. This year's structure team held over five hundred pounds.

Interpreting Shakespeare's "All the World's a Stage," as well as writing original poetry was the object of the Poetic License problem. Ever use mousetraps to create a domino effect? Well, that is what the Chain Reaction team was instructed to do. Fifty mousetraps were to be used in a "chain reaction," one trap setting the next one off. In addition, certain mousetraps had to perform tasks such as raising a flag or playing music.

Through determination, hard work, and the leadership of coach Carla Sutherland, the teams solved their problems and perfected their skits, putting Sayreville on the winner's list, as in previous years.

As OM captains Ko Chien Chang and Bill Borbely diligently work on their vehicle, Steve Sun strikes a pensive pose.

Creating costumes out of plain white bed sheets can be frustratingly difficult. Gordana Jelisejevic attempts to style one that will fit the somber mood of the Poetic License style.

One of the most important elements of a good style is music. Paresh Patel and Tracy Eppinger discuss which moments should be punctuated by classical melodies.

Improving on the style of William Shakespeare is not easy, however, Gordana Jelisejevic is well-suited for the task.

A rarity! The OM team gathered together and at rest.

ACT

Competition of the Minds

The dumb question, the stupid answer. To most people, this is ACT. However, to the devoted members of Sayreville's Academic Competition Team who spend hours of their time sharpening their skills at Trivia, this is no joking matter.

The first of ACT's two yearly competitions is B.R.I.T.E. The competition consists of three rounds, played over three weeks, with each team trying to amass as many points as possible, in order to secure a playoff birth. The second of the team's intellectual battles is a grueling all-day affair known as the Perth Amboy Decathlon of Knowledge. P.A.D.O.K. consists of several rounds, with the teams jockeying for position. The top two teams finally meet at the end of the day, center stage, to vie for the title of number one.

At the end of the year, when the scores were finally tallied, and the winners declared, there were actually no losers, because all involved were blessed with the ultimate prize of all — knowledge.

ACT: FRONT: Mike Wittke, Steve Sun, Ashish Moholkar. MIDDLE: Maria Protonentis, Dennis Jacko, Stacy Maltzman, Pam Kowzan. BACK: Scott Muller, Derek Czernikowski, Bill Wittke, Neil Golup, Adam Maze, Joe Lui.

Prospective ACT team members struggle during the first round of testing.

"ACTing" on impulse, Neil Golup speedily answers another question.

Handling their plight with grace, ACT members invent creative answers to fill the voids on their test.

SADD And Varsity Club

Concerned Students
Lend A Helping Hand

To fight drunk driving, 120 students have united this year to create a Sayreville chapter of the Students Against Drunk Driving. This is the first year in which the group has been under the country-wide charter.

Some of the goals the group strived for this year included holding fundraisers, discussing previous accidents due to drunk driving, and promoting the idea of driving safely. Discussions of the effects and prevention of DWI were held at monthly meetings.

A few of the activities members participated in were campaigning at Homecoming, delivering personalized Christmas cards to the entire student body, and creating posters concerning drunk driving and the S.A.D.D. organization. These posters were then distributed to stores around Sayreville.

Mrs. Sforza lead the group with its matters. The officers were President Amy Gallagher, Vice President Bob Fecht, Secretary Nicole Bufano, and Treasurer Ivy Wexler.

SADD members Sean Bolton, Joanne Hope and Bob Fecht publicize their "sobering" message.

SADD: FIRST ROW: Secretary Nicole Bufano, Kim Revolinski, Vice President Bob Fecht, President Amy Gallagher, "Hobo" the SADD mascot, Cheryl Kebabjian, Gayle Haney, Pam Springard, Treasurer Ivy Wexler. SECOND ROW: Sandra Mittendorf, Kim Oleskin, Joe Castellano, Kim Morales, Michelle Fulton, Deana Aurilia, Kim Stites, Theresa Wykoff, Kris Dunworth, Rich Dobrzynski, Mrs. Sforza. THIRD ROW: Denise Diaz, Caroline Puchala, Eloy Fernandez, Tara Gomes, Barbara Petanoski, John Chen, Suzanne Tucci. FOURTH ROW: Wendy Ebensperger, Chris Smith, Carol Smith, Sara Platzer, Diane Gallagher, Pam Newton, Charlene Macaluso, Cheryl Grossmann, Sean Bolton.

Sorting through the receipts from the pumpkin sale, Dawn Hefelfinger and Joanne Krause found that they had done better than they thought.

The SWMHS Varsity Club is an organization open to any member of the student body who is interested in joining. Its purpose is to promote women's sports.

Each member must participate in a candy and pumpkin sale. Proceeds are used to purchase sweatpants and a matching sweatshirt for each member. Both sales enjoyed great success. Due to enthusiastic response from members, the Varsity Club announced plans to attend the Virginia Slims Tournament.

The officers for the 1986-87 school year were President Dawn Hefelfinger, Vice Presidents Tony Cimasko and Scott Kielian, Secretary Michelle Huguenin, and Treasurer Sue Shann.

Cooks & Books

Students Have Recipe For Entertainment

Despite its limited size, the library and its upkeep require a great deal of time from 22 devoted students. Advised by Mrs. Weisberg, the Library Council assists in making research and recreational reading a lot easier. These students spend home-room, lunch periods, and study halls performing the numerous tasks necessary to keep the media center running smoothly. Stamping cards, reshelving books, filing magazines, delivering A-V equipment and processing new books are just a few of the responsibilities of the Library Council.

All work and no play is definitely not part of the philosophy of the Library

Council members. Throughout the year the officers conduct meetings and have many parties. Their yearly fundraisers include selling Blow-pops and Reese's Peanut Butter Cups. The money raised from these sales enabled the members to take a trip into New York City during the spring.

Library Council members:

During the holiday party, Library Council members enjoy refreshments.

Due to popular demand, the Catering Club has been brought back for yet another year. The students interest in this club has enabled it to reach new heights.

When the club is called to order, the members discuss a wide variety of topics. The members discuss recipes and practice techniques for food preparation and serving. But the best part comes when the members get to sample each other's culinary creations. With adviser Miss Annette Sowa leading the way, the Catering Club has helped other clubs prepare many elegant feasts. One such occasion was the teacher luncheon. The members had a chance to demonstrate their newly-acquired knowledge in proper table settings as taught by one of their guest speakers, Mrs. Monica Newton.

In the future, the enthusiastic group hopes to achieve one more goal. With more students interested in proper etiquette, they hope to enlighten the students of tomorrow by giving them the knowledge of today.

Adding To Nature

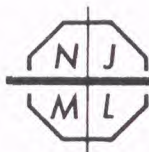

Proving Science and Math Do Mix

Students who have completed or are presently taking Algebra II are welcome to join the Math Club. Mrs. Nancy Pfeil, the club's adviser, feels that the tests are great for those who want to have more practice with math. According to Mrs. Pfeil, "One purpose of the Math Club is to have fun with the concepts of mathematics."

The club had a successful fund raiser in the beginning of the year by selling the ever popular 100 Grand Bars. In addition, the officers decided to sell pins that read "MATHEMATICALLY AWE-SUM." The club served math students by having calculator rentals. Those who didn't have a calculator or may have forgotten their's at home on the day of a test could rent one for a very low price.

If you are discouraged to learn that a requirement of membership is taking tests containing six questions every six weeks, never fear. These tests are not graded, but rather the six highest scores are sent to the national headquarters to see how they compare with neighboring schools. An individual who does well may continue on and enter state competitions. The club awards a scholarship at graduation to the senior who has shown the most proficiency on the Math League tests.

A student of science may think of their course as a boring and tedious ten month labor. At the same time, another pupil in the same class may think of science as an interesting and enjoyable romp. The Ecology/Biology Club was out to prove the latter correct.

Entering yet another school year, the Ecology/Biology Club has continued its endeavors in both the high school and in the community. On the school grounds, it has helped to keep the grounds free of litter by sponsoring clean-up outings. A poster contest was held to promote care of the environment. Winning posters were displayed in the front foyer. The group brought flowers to the senior citizens at the Oakview Nursing Home.

The biological activities of the club have always been favorites of its members. At the Art Fair, a Plant Boutique was held, with members selling plants they had nurtured from small cuttings. The club also prepared an Ecological Luncheon. Natural foods were the focus of the meal.

Ms. Mackin, as in previous years, has served as the Ecology/Biology Club advisor. This year, elected officials were President Lori Kocsis, Vice-President Hani Sawiris and Secretary Pam Kowzan. All of them, along with the club members, have made the organization full of life.

At a recent Ecology-Biology meeting, Pam Kowzan pondered the plight of the whales.

Playing to Win

The 1986 Girls' Varsity Soccer team completed its first season in the G.M.C. Soccer League. Under the guidance of Coaches Joseph Abruscato and Kris Correll, the girls cruised to a 6-9-2 record. Despite only being in existence for two seasons, the team was a force to be reckoned with.

Seniors Michelle Figueroa, defender, and Sherri Valinoti, midfielder, helped pave the way to a successful season as Juniors Joanna Hill and Michelle Huguenin led the team as captains. Michelle was a dominant force for Sayreville's offense with eight goals and seven assists, while Susan Baxter finished the season with seven goals and four assists.

Kicking Into Action

Trying to equal last year's performance would have seemed impossible to any normal team. But this year's JV soccer team practiced hard and tied to old record of 10-5. Jeff Huguenin, Wilson Contraras, Bert Hill, and Ashish Moholkar were the leading scorers of the team. Their offensive talents, combined with Larry Schmitt's near-perfect goal tending, allowed the team to record many upsets. Soon, however, Sayreville emerged as one of the top four teams in the conference.

The Gymnastics Team, which completed its first season as a coed team, finished with a strong record due to outstanding individual achievements. Despite the loss of the injured co-captain Bob Thompson, the team finished with a 7-4 record and finished ninth in the State Tournament. Co-captain Pete Michel had thirty-one first places and set a new school record with twenty-one second place finishes. In addition, he had two second place finishes in the G.M.C. meet and two third place finishes. Seniors Bob O'Such, Mike Ullman, and Shane Green helped round the team out on the rings and pommel horse, while Juniors Chrissy Smith and Sara Platzer showed outstanding promise for next season.

Knocking 'em Over

The sidelines display the intensity of a 0-0 deadlock.

Despite a disappointing 1-5 record, the J.V. Football Team proved their promising skill for next season. A victory over a strong Cedar Ridge team proved the team is ready to play Varsity football next season.

On the Road to Success

The Sophomore Football Team finished its 1986 season with a 5-2 record. The winning record displayed the abilities of the team members and showed excellent promise for future seasons.

Although the Freshman Football Team completed its season with a 1-7-1 record, it did not reflect the teams' abilities. The team defeated Cedar Ridge in a strong outing and also defeated a long-time rival South River.

Slippery When Wet

The SWMHS Bomber Swim Team relied on the efforts of many of its individuals. Stephanie Piatek was the leading diver while Mary Ellen Dunn specialized in the 100m breaststroke. Junior Denise Anderson led the team in both the 200m and 500m freestyle and Larry Schmitt recorded excellent times in the 100m butterfly.

Pinning Their Way to the Top

This season, the Boys' Varsity Wrestling Team found themselves in a rebuilding year. Having lost senior grapplers Mike Bouchard, Dan Armetta, and John Metz, the team relied heavily on its underclassmen. Seniors Bob Thompson, Matt Armetta, Bill Lake, and Bob O'Such gave the team the necessary experience to have a successful season.

The Boys Varsity Basketball Team under the direction of Coach Gryzwacz finished another successful year leading scorer Chris Giordano and seniors Mark Piatek, Ed Fischer, John Gluhowski, and Joe Coyle led the team to another winning season. Chris Giordano was among the leading scorers in Middlesex County, and juniors Matt Fullham and Brian Demild contributed to the winning effort.

Looking for an open man, John Gluhowski prepares to pass.

Rebounding To Success

The Girl's Varsity Basketball finished another outstanding season under Coach Ryan. The team's teamwork and skill made them a powerful threat in the county. Leigh Garbowski led the team in scoring, while Mary K. Nordling's rebounding efforts allowed the team to control possession the greater part of each game.

Running for the Stars

Under Coach Doll, the Winter Track Team again emerged with a respectable record and another successful season. For the boys, Bob Beers, Frank Sparendera, Russ Browning, and Matt Berardicelli led the distance runners, while Lorne Rieter and Gregg Davis specialized in the sprints and middle distance events. Jim Wasko and Will Oberuch ran hurdles and were both excellent in the high jump. Cathy Hunter and Lisa Ferry ran the distance events for the girls, and Chris Esposito threw the shot put.

Concentration and balance enables Cathy Hunter to successfully clear the hurdle.

Determination and drive force Matt Berardicelli to keep with the competition.

BATTING A THOUSAND

Unaccustomed to being underdogs, the Varsity Baseball team proved that they were of championship caliber by winning their Division and the Group IV State Championships. According to Coach Gozora, the teams' hard work and dedication combined with their strong offense and solid defense, led to their third straight Championship season.

CATCHING THE COMPETITION

The JV Softball team had an outstanding season as shown by their 17-2 record. The team's only losses came to J.P. Stevens and Edison.

The team was lead by pitcher Michaelleen Moskowitz who had a 9-0 record and notched 2 saves. From behind the plate, catcher Kim Schoemer had 21 put outs. Erin O'Leary and Liz Gorka led the hitting, combining for 88 hits. The team's overall talent was proven as five members of the team accompanied the Varsity team in the County Tournament. The JV Softball team can attribute its great record to good sportsmanship and a total team effort.

A GRAND PERFORMANCE

Despite a disappointing record of 10-12, the Varsity Softball team had a very strong season. Sophomore Kerry Garbowski led the team in batting with 32 hits. Her 11 stolen bases proved how difficult it was to hold her on base. Lori Shouldis also contributed 30 hits and the fielding was led by Patti Cumber who secured both first and third base.

In the first round of the Middlesex County Tournament, the team upset seventh seeded Carteret in extra innings before being eliminated by second seeded J.F.K.

OVERCOMING ALL HURDLES

The Boys' Spring Track team, under the guidance of Coach Bill Scarola, completed another successful season. Led by distance runner Bob Beers, the team earned a respectable finishes in both the Holmdell and Conference Relays. Gregg Davis and Lorne Reiter were both outstanding in the middle distance events while Bill Lake, Gary Pierson and Chuck Heise contributed greatly in the field and weight events. Overall, the team had what it took to win.

The 1986 Girls' Spring Track Team finished yet another successful season, but under the direction of a new head coach. Richard Murray came to coach the team from Sayreville's rival, East Brunswick. Assistant coach Mrs. Linda Carney also helped the girls a great deal.

Several underclassmen were among the top contributors to the team. Chris Esposito, Mary Kay Nordling, and Mary Fedor garnered points in the field events while Joanna Hill and Ann Marie Krainski ran excellent times in the 400m run. Cathy Hunter also placed sixth in the two mile at the County meet. Nevertheless, the girls combined their talents to finish another successful season.

BEWARE!!!

The Mad Photographer Strikes

Somewhere, somehow, sometime, when you least expect it — SMILE! You're on Quo Vadis Camera! Sure, photos can materialize memories of the best times of your life. However, as we all know, life itself is neither posed or planned, but spontaneous, and therefore, pictures taken when the subject is caught off guard provide the most realistic portrayal of the saga of the human experience.

"I didn't do it — she did!" argue Miss Sowa and Miss Vail.

Even Lisa Campion knows that it's a face that only a mother could love. Sorry, Mark!

Anxiously awaiting dessert, Darlene Christansen, Laura McBride, and Lisa Campion flash their pearly whites for our "candid camera."
