One Dead In Wreck Of Lackawanna Railroad Milk Train That Leaped Off Tracks Near Millburn Passenger Station

Obstruction Tossed Train From Tracks; Railroad Authorities Now Suggest

All was well for Leonard Pratt of Morristown, the fireman, on an east bound Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad five-car milk train as it went through Summit last night about 6.50. A few minutes later he was dead and his engineer, Henry Sullivan of Jersey City, was critically injured as the train hurtled from the tracks about 1,100 feet west of the Millburn station. At the scene of the wreck early this morning an executive official of the railroad said preliminary evidence tended to show an obstruction had purposely been placed on the tracks.

After gouging the trackbed for several hundred yards the huge steam locomotive came to rest astride the center of the three tracks at that point and the west bound one midway between the east bound and west bound platforms of the Millburn passenger station.

No one was in the station at the time. A milk car containing 16,000 bottles of milk, of which there was only five per cent breakage, and a milk tank broke away from the rear end of the train and turned partly over, ripping up trackage and smashing into telegraph poles along the roadbed. Another milk car, an empty passenger car and a baggage car also followed the locomotive in its wild dash further adding to the havoc.

The derailment blocked traffic on the railroad's main line from Hoboken to Buffalo, N. Y. Emergency crews were rushed from Hoboken, Denville, Lake Hopatcong and Port Morris to speed repair work which enabled east bound passenger trains to go their way this morning beginning about 5 o'clock thus causing commuters the minimum amount of inconvenience.

Last night the electrified line, which begins in Dover brought passengers as far as Summit from which point they were shuttled by bus to South Orange. Several hundred passengers on their way home towards New York from points west of here jammed the station awaiting transfer to South Orange. By midnight the station here was cleared of passengers.

The milk on the train was consigned to the Becker Dairy at Orange. Dairy officials hurried to the scene with a fleet of trucks and by shortly after midnight had taken off the derailed car what was estimated to be more than 15,000 bottles of milk undamaged in any way, still in cases packed in ice all ready for delivery this morning. Even the tank car was placed back on an emergency track and later delivered without loss of milk.

Members of the American Legion, Millburn Post No. 140 aided police at the scene of the wreck, helping to clear away debris and keeping back the curious who numbered several thousand from the Greater Newark Area. Thousands of the curious shivered through the night watching the wrecker clear the locomotive from the tracks at the station as giant searchlights played on the scene of destruction.

The high way and underpass just west of the station were roped off immediately after the wreck because the train in its careening had snapped part of the bridge and sent the pieces thereof hurtling onto the roadway below.

The fireman, who lost his left leg in the accident and who was still alive when rescuers reached the scene, was dead by the time they managed to extricate him from the scene. The engineer, who was taken to the Irvington General Hospital, was said to be suffering possible internal injuries.

Preliminary reports had it that the locomotive exploded, but a representative of the Millburn Fire Department after careful examination said this was not so. Incidentally the Millburn firemen came in for considerable credit for the expeditious manner in which they reached the scene and helped to take charge of the situation.

OUR TOWN

SUMMIT DAYS

It's too soon after Summit Days to catch our breath and make any editorial comment. We'll take up the question at our next meeting, therefore.

POLITICS

The political pot bubbled up last week due to the return of Mayor Forster for a brief leave. Personally we were glad to see it bubble. There hasn't been enough discussion of political issues and personalities in our opinion. All has been too quiet for the public good, we think. Nominating a Mayor is a rather important civic incident and the lack of visible excitement has seemed to us unfortunate.

PERSONALITIES

Way back when the Independent Club was choosing sides in the Mayoralty contest, Mrs. Richard Moser, we remember, rose during a debate and said she objected to so many people saying they wanted to avoid personalities in the discussion. She said she thought that was wrong. Personalities, she said, were important. We have a feeling she was very right. There can be too much primness in a political contest. It was of interest to us that the issue of The Summit Herald which reported Mayor Forster's personal opinion of the Republican Club in its front-page headlines was sold out quickly on the newsstands and re-ordered by newsdealers. In other words people were interested in that political statement and the Mayor certainly can say he got attention.

ACTING MAYOR LESTER

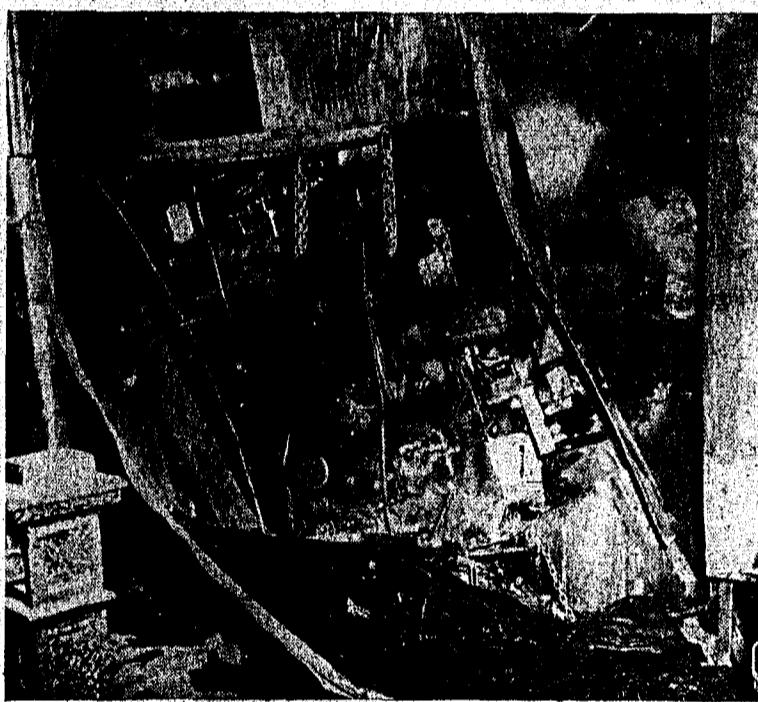

Acting Mayor Lester came out for Ernest F. Leatham in no uncertain terms last Thursday. It seems that there has been considerable feeling that a man should serve on the Council as preparation before seeking the Mayority job. Since Mr. Leatham has never been on the Council Mr. Lester's statement that he considers Mr. Leatham better qualified than Mayor Forster is doubly interesting.

POLITICIAN WANTED

Often enough—perhaps too often—we hear people speak of some one—well, Mayor Forster, for example—as a "better politician" as if that were a damning description. We can't quite see it that way and we think people should reconsider their attitudes toward the word politician. A skillful politician has at least learned the art or science of leading large groups of people. If he is both a skillful politician and a man with fine, noble, honest and constructive purposes, he is a great community asset. If he is a skillful politician but also an unprincipled crook, he is a tremendous community liability. But he is in an asset or a liability depending upon whether his purposes are high or low, not upon whether he is a politician or not. We are just thinking out loud on this subject and we may easily be very wrong, but we feel that as our lives become more and more controlled by government we should all of us become better and more active citizens and better and more active politicians. Certainly we should not too much look down our noses at the politicians of politics. It is a great field. We need more and more politicians in this country perhaps. High purposes without skill to make them effective—and in government this means the political skill in handling people, skill in getting and handling followers—are not very valuable.

Abraham Lincoln Cape Cod Returns To Library

Miss Emily Hill, head of the Summit Public Library, has secured the return of the Cape Cod edition of the Lincoln Memorial. The book, which was loaned to the library for a period of six months, has been returned to the library and will be available to the public again.

OVERTURNED ENGINE CARRIES FIREMAN TO HIS DEATH

The two upper pictures show locomotive of D., L. & W. milk train lying grotesquely on its side after it hurtled last night from tracks and crashed into station at Millburn. The fireman was dead before he could be extricated from the wreckage. The train was proceeding east on the center of three tracks. The lower picture shows the cab of the engine. It was here at his post beside a heap of coal and boiler that Fireman Leonard Pratt, of Morristown, met almost instant death.

Police, Firemen and Legionnaires Help At Scene of Wreck

Were you among the thousands that thronged last night to the scene of the milk train wreck at Millburn, report of which is elsewhere in this paper? If you were, you would have been impressed with the coordinated efforts of the Millburn police, firemen and American Legion, all of whom cooperated to the nth degree in the policing of the crowds.

That there were no injuries apart from the wreck itself was directly attributable to the coordination of the three groups, it was rather generally agreed for there were hundreds of curious that had to be persuaded to keep away from danger points as workmen went about their business of clearing away the wreckage.

Also any semblance of a traffic jam was avoided—traffic was kept moving at all times. Of course a large majority of the onlookers used good judgment, yet always in such situations there are those who need policing.

Annual Outing of Chamber of Commerce At Lake Hopatcong

The Chamber of Commerce annual outing planned for Wednesday, August 20, at Woodport Beach, Wright Bros. Park at Lake Hopatcong is "all set to go" according to the outing committee headed by Thomas Miller.

At a meeting several weeks ago the chamber acted favorably upon a resolution suggested by the Board of Directors that Summit merchants close all day for the outing. In the meantime the action contemplated by this resolution has been rescinded and it has now been agreed upon that stores will close as usual during the summer months, at 12 noon.

Tickets which are priced at $2.50 are now on sale through any members of the committee. Besides Mr. Miller, other members of the committee are Frank Allen, James Rillo, Spencer Mahen, James Gorman, Harlan S. Kennedy and William Rae Crane. Tickets may also be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, 49 Union place.

Purchasers of tickets are entitled to a buffet luncheon and a dinner as well as the privilege of the park. Canoeing, swimming, quilts, soft ball and a number of other entertainment features are carded for the day.

In case you don't know how to reach the place of the outing, please note the following suggestion: Drive to Dover, then take the road towards Sparta and Lake Mohawk. The first body of water you come to after leaving Dover is that section of Lake Hopatcong where the outing is to be held.

College Students Of Draft Age Urged To See Service Board

In common with other American communities it is expected fewer Summit boys of the 21-year-old group and older will be returning to college campuses this fall, or will be beginning their college courses because this coming year they will be subject to call for military training regardless of whether or not the college year is over.

Cognizant of this situation and fully appreciative of the fact that many parents may be under misapprehension about the exact status of their sons, in the event of their planning for college this fall, Chairman A. C. Bernard of Selective Service Board No. 1 with offices in Old City Hall in Summit avenue and serving not only Summit, but New Providence Borough and Township, has issued the following statement:

"There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the status of men either entering college this fall or those contemplating going back as sophomores, juniors or seniors. The local board suggests, all men, registrants here, call at the Board's office before September 1st, so that each one's situation may be clarified."

Kiwanis Club Plans "Bill Howes Day"

Summit Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Beechwood Hotel will have its thirteenth member day observance. The program will be to honor one of the club's newer members, William Howes. It will also be a farewell party for Mr. Howes, because he leaves Thursday morning for service in the Army as a draftsman.

In speaking about Mr. Howes, Secretary Harlan Kennedy of the Kiwanis, said: "Bill has been a good member and we are sure that all will wish him well in his service to our country. Bill is the first Summit Kiwanian to be called into the service."

Mr. Howes, who is program secretary at the Y. M. C. A., has been granted a leave of absence.

Winner at Flower Show

Mrs. John S. Tennant 2d, was the winner of a blue ribbon in the Chazy Garden Club Flower Show which was held recently in Chazy, N. Y. for the most original arrangement of wild flowers. The arrangement was called "Design for Living." Mrs. Tennant and her two sons were the guests of Mrs. Edgerton North at her summer home in Chazy, but now have a cottage of their own and will not return to their home on Edgerton avenue until after Labor Day.

Union Services Hear Fifth Sermon on "Better Way"

"A Faith for the Way" was the subject of the sermon yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Otto C. Nelson, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the seventh of this summer's union services of the Baptist and Methodist Churches and held in the latter. The sermon was the concluding one of five meditations by Dr. Nelson on the general subject, "The Better Way."

Reading for the Scripture lesson, the fourth chapter of Galatians, the pastor pointed out that it was the story of a people who couldn't stand the pressure of the times and gave up their religion, that is to say, they were converted to the minister rather than to Christ.

In his sermon, Dr. Nelson spoke in part, as follows: "In every age, people have said 'Religion is going into the discard.' Yet, too often we allow our religion to be accommodated to the age rather than accommodate the age to our religion. The original followers of Christ did not know how matters were coming out. However, the reverse caused faith to shrink today, that is in thinking we know how matters will come out. Yet the faith of the early followers of Christ must become our faith if it means anything."

"No generation should be satisfied with what it gets from its predecessors without a re-examination of that faith. The real expression of religious faith must be as fresh as the beer."

The question arises as to whether or not the faith is to use it.

many tests and has survived. We may well then ask ourselves whether we have a faith that will withstand any crisis. Witness, if you will, the sixty million Hindus who are in revolt against their faith. Religious faith was brought to trial in Russia and did not stand the test because the priests were debating trifles and were not serving the people. All in all, when religion does not furnish a driving power, it fails.

Change Coming to America "Here in America we are in a change. No doubt there are some things in our religious and social system that will have to be changed. Everything is being weighed. Yet, the criticism is not of Christ but of the system that has been built up. The dom of Christ is all right if Christian faith is not a mere belief, it is life.

"Withal there are spys an' others working to break do faith and morale. If we lo and-moral, there is no instruments to destroy us. Only can carry us thru Christianity is given an o ity for expression, it can through. The way to pre faith is to use it."

The Top, 1941 Makes Related Appearance

The Top, 1941, the 21st year book of the students of Summit High School, was distributed recently at the High School. This marks the first time in the history of the school that the book was not distributed before the end of the school year. However because of labor troubles among compositors in the Philadelphia area, the publication was delayed.
Bound in a red and white cover, the school's colors, the book is addressed to the memory of a fellow student, John Peter Hensler, who was killed in a Cranford railroad accident as he was returning with a group of High School students from Rahway. The dedicatory comment about John reads as follows:
"All of us knew 'Pete' as a 'regular guy'. All can remember his friendly laugh. There was nothing fancy about 'Pete.' He was just a plain, clean-cut fellow. If he liked you, you had a real friend. What others thought meant nothing to him. In his passing, we have lost a true friend. The memory of 'Pete' will always be with us."
The year book is profusely illustrated with individual pictures of the school's administration, faculty and senior class together with group pictures of the multitudinous activities carried on in the school.
The Top, a project of the senior class, publishes the answers to a questionnaire conducted among the class of '41 about its own members. The answers follow: Carol Chair, the class president "did most for Summit High, most likely to succeed, most dependable, most versatile, most popular;" Thomas Underhill, editor of The Top, "did most for Summit High School, most likely to succeed and most ambitious;" Charles Triolo and Katherine Luria were termed the best athletes; William Vanderhoof, class flirt; Arthur Vanderhoof, best bluffer; Derrel Nevins and Charlotte Stiles, best dancers; Fred Libertino and Dorothy Neville, most school spirit; Patricia Batson and Walter Reiter, class artists; Robert Donauer and Charlotte Toarmina, class book worms; Emma Monaco, best mixer; Frances Ingram, best actress and class flirt; William Scary, class actor; Marion Walsh and John Bourke, fashion plates; Avis Hall and Bourke Corcoran, class comedians; Theodora Lawton and Charles Sweeney, best looking; Adele Distelhurst, best personality and peppy; John Williams, most dependable, most versatile, most popular, best mixer and best personality; Dorothy Compton, most ambitious and best musician; Thomas Reinauer, best musician.

Secretarial School Starts Fall Term September 8th

On September 8th, the Summit Secretarial School will begin its eleventh year of secretarial training. Throughout these years, the school has offered educational service in this field to the people of Summit and the surrounding community. During 1940-41, students enrolled in the school from 26 cities and towns, with representative material from 16 high schools and 24 colleges.
All the courses of the school are modernized and its policies and standards conform with present-day commercial education. The staff of the school, specialists in the field, have a total of forty-five years' previous business and education experience.
The school has no paid collector in the field; and its enrollment comes entirely from direct mail advertising, newspaper advertising, telephone directory, and the recommendation of friends. The school enjoys the esteem of several thousand alumni; it has the confidence of hundreds of employers in this community, as well as in New York, Newark, etc. 98 per cent. of its graduates are placed each year in attractive positions.

Death Crossing In Cranford to Be Eliminated

County approval of engineering plans for the depression of Walnut avenue, Cranford, at the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the closing of the Lexington avenue crossing, and the diversion of traffic in Lexington avenue over the new Walnut avenue alignment, was announced Friday by Freeholder Charles E. Smith for the board.
The project, long advocated because of several fatalities at the Walnut avenue crossing, will be encompassed without cost to the township and only a negligible outlay by the county.
Eradication of the crossing had been sought by the township, county officials and others, and demanded by a grand jury. The program for elimination was devised jointly by the railroad, the State Highway Department and the Public Utilities Commission.
Tragedy Brings Ultimatum
Deaths of two high school students, Miss Virginia Thevenet, 15 years old, of 45 Walnut avenue, Millburn, and John Peter Hensler, 17, of 2 Surrey road, Summit, on February 20, climaxed the disaster at the crossing. Two others were injured badly in the same accident.
Following that tragedy, public sentiment stirred several official bodies, including the May term Grand Inquest. That body inspected the crossing, May 22, and subsequently handed up a presentation that was regarded as tantamount to an order for a real remedy. The prosecutor of the plea was directed to lay the matter before the October term inquest if no adequate action had been taken when that body convened.

"Loyal Americans" Broadcast and Organize

American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations fully endorse the program of Loyal Americans of German Descent. It was stated at the New Jersey State office at 17 William street, Newark, of the newly-formed pro-democracy, anti-Nazi organization of Americans of German descent devoted to freedom everywhere. A Summit resident, Dr. S. R. Brounser, is executive vice-president of the organization, which will soon establish a local branch in Summit.
All local units of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. will shortly receive notice about the procedure to be followed as organized labor in the State of New Jersey enthusiastically subscribes to the support given to the L. A. of G. D. by William Green, A. F. of L. president, and James B. Carsey, secretary of the C. I. O., according to Carl Holderman, who serves as a director.
"We shall help all loyal employees to stay at their jobs and shall assist labor and management in finding a scheme whereby the loyal unemployed will not be denied employment because of their extraction when they otherwise qualify for the job. For this important task, so essential for national defense, we need the cooperation of everyone," Dr. Holderman added.
Robert F. Wagner, Jr., president of the Loyal Americans of German Descent, discussed the program of the organization over a nationwide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting System at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday. Also Mady Christians, starring at present in "Watch on the Rhine" participated in the program, copies of which are obtainable by writing to L. A. of G. D., 285 Madison avenue, New York.

The Mental Hygiene Needs And Facilities of Summit

The Council of Social Agencies asked the Junior Service League if the Provisionals would make a study on the needs and facilities for a mental hygiene program in Summit. This study was made by Mrs. W. H. Cox, Jr., Mrs. Jacob P. Howard, Miss Christine Kitching, Howard, Miss Richard Kitching, and the Misses. James H. Maroney, chairman; Elam Miller, Jr., William Truslow; and Mrs. James L. Hamer, provisional chairman, and Mrs. H. Dudley Swin, member ex-officio, president of the league.

Because the length of the survey precludes publication in any one issue of the Summit Herald, it is being published in a series of reports.

This is the third of such reports. It deals with the importance of the problems of mental hygiene.

School Aids

There are several outstanding aids or methods being used in our schools which facilitate a real understanding of each pupil by his teacher, and which help the whole school system to work together toward this understanding:

Materials

1. Cumulative records which analyze personality, record activities, abilities and achievements.

2. Tests—Group intelligence and achievement tests are given at regular intervals by the psychologist.

3. Report Cards. In the Elementary Schools suggestions are given to parents as to how they may help at home to overcome any weak point in the mental development of the child. The reports are written in a friendly, uncritical manner, and parent-teacher conferences are invited. In the Junior High School habits, attitudes, and academic ratings are checked. In the Senior High School, academic standing is indicated by letters A, C, etc.

4. A sheet is kept by the teacher for certain children, which contains a detailed report on his interests, companions and habits.

As can be imagined, these records, filed together by each teacher as the child passes from grade to grade, present a well-rounded picture of that child to help his next teacher to understand his special personality and problems.

Services

1. Health Department

Miss Bertha Wildman, Nurse-Attendance Officer. Besides her routine health service of classroom inspections and control of contagious diseases, her attention is also called by the teachers to any child who seems to be below average physically. She also sees to the supplying of cod liver oil and milk to children who need it badly. She refers to Mrs. Gross, Organizer of the Poor, cases that need medical care and can't pay for it. She works with Dr. Evelyn Holt and Miss Bigelow to supply glasses to children who need them, and with Dr. Holt and Dr. H. P. Dangler, health officer of Summit, in making physical examinations in the Junior and Senior High Schools.

Mrs. Edna Falkenburg, nurse. She works with Dr. Holt to make routine health examinations in the elementary schools. She also goes into the homes and talks to the parents. She arranges for dental clinic service and acts as the dentist's assistant.

2. Child Guidance Department

This department is composed of the following: Miss Nora Way, psychologist; Miss Elizabeth Bigelow, a nurse-attendance officer; Miss Bertha Wildman, who has trained not only in their own field but has had additional training in mental hygiene. The department works closely with the school administrators and teachers, holding case conferences in the school and giving invaluable advice in the adjustment problems of the children. The three members have separate duties.

3. Mental hygiene program of the connecting links between the home, the school, and the community social workers. It is the problem of a mental hygiene program, which goes from teaching the parents, analyzing the cause of the child's problem, helping the school to handle the maladjustment. She gives help from existing social agencies and in turn cooperates with the children of individual community problems. She is the visiting teacher in Union.

4. Miss Bigelow, the value of Miss Bigelow, the ability to give test results to the parents and the ability to give the teacher the results are being used to help the child to get a better understanding of his own mind.

child in the right grade, and to give the teacher or parent a general idea of the extent of his abilities. Miss Bigelow's advice tends to guard against too many failures or the consequent strain on a child of pushing him beyond his ability. Special tests are given individual children who seem to need special treatment. She also uses the results as a check to compare Summit's progress in each basic subject with other school systems.

Miss Bertha Wildman, acquaints herself with home conditions and tries to adjust problems which are traceable to them. As Attendance Officer all absent children are reported to her. She then goes to the home to find out the reason the child is out of school and, to straighten out the cause.

In the Junior and Senior High School each class has a teacher-adviser who is available to any student to discuss his academic work, his future, or any problem he may have. Problems may be passed by these advisers to members of the Child Guidance Department.

3. Special teachers in Art, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Music, and Physical Education, recognize the values for the enrichment of life through their subjects or activities, and the relationship of such participation to the mental hygiene program of the schools.

All schools have active P.T.A.'s. Certain certain schools have special organizations such as student councils, traffic patrols, fathers' clubs, etc.

"Your Army and Mine"

by "The Recruiter"

Honorary Citation—to Readers' Digest for their recently inaugurated policy of making their most interesting, educational, vest-pocket edition of "What's going on", available to all service men at half price. Actions like these remind the boys at camp that the boys at home haven't forgotten.

Old Timers Fly—All Air Corps Reserve Officers are being ordered to active duty and will serve to increase the rapidly growing Air Corps of our Army. The call is still going out for aviation cadets among the young bloods, yet untested, and every consideration is being given all applicants. If you want wings, Uncle Sam will match your efforts to see that you get them.

Typed—Through recent orders from the War Department; all soldiers are being blood typed. This information is entered on identification tags and service records and will save time and lives, if men in the service are ever wounded or injured, and every consideration is being given all applicants. If you want wings, Uncle Sam will match your efforts to see that you get them.

Literary Lelures—After drill the new soldier of today grabs a book. Recent survey indicates that soldiers prefer the "heavier" type of book. The growing thirst for knowledge is being assuaged by the expanding library facilities offered the soldiers. Favorite tomes of the soldiers are "Beverly Hills," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "Out of the Night" and "Oliver Twist."

Winged Home Defenders—Recently organized, the C.A.R.—Civilian Air Reserve of Albany is a group of men who are pledged to serve as a backlog of pilots, maintenance men, et al to be used by Uncle Sam for civilian defense should an emergency arise. These organizations spring up all over the country should provide another source for Aviation Cadets.

Yours Got To Get Up—The shivering bugler who quaveringly tooted into the rising sun has been replaced in some encampments by the Iron Bugler, which blares out 31 different calls over six, heavy duty loud speakers. Science has robbed the soldier of one of his choice victims of vitriolic comment—the bugler at reveille.

Excursion Ticket—In the last year at Randolph Field, Texas, pilots flew 29,160,000 miles in 265,613 hours. Geographically speaking, it means an army plane flew four times around the world daily last year. Omon your groundlings between 20-27 tie yourself to the Recruiting Office—your first step towards "Wings."

Reverse English—Privates Ulysses S. Grant and Robert E. Lee recently began their army career. Curiously enough, these namesakes of illustrious military men have shifted allegiance, territorially. Grant is from Dixie and Lee is from the North.

Recreation, 8th of Kiwanis American Way Programs

"Recreation—The Pursuit of Happiness in the American Way" was the subject of the eighth American Way program held Tuesday by Summit Kiwanis Club in conjunction with a program carried on this year by the State Kiwanis. The Kiwanis programs this week were in co-operation with the New Jersey State Recreation Association who sent speakers to each club to give a picture of the services rendered through the Public Recreation Department. This work in Summit is being carried on under the direction of the Board of Recreation.

Harlan S. Kennedy, who is secretary of Summit Kiwanis and at the same time director for the Summit Board of Recreation spoke Tuesday noon to the Rutherford Kiwanis Club and Tuesday evening to the Bonton Kiwanis Club.

Speaker at the Summit club on Tuesday was Mrs. Ray V. Wright, a member of the East Orange Board of Recreation Commission, president of the Handicapped of East Orange, Chairman of the East Orange Red Cross Roll Call, a trustee of the East Orange General Hospital, a member of the Engineering Woman's Club of New York and a member of the Board of the Auxiliary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

She said that the program of public recreation fit into the American Way of Life because it enabled everyone to make his own choice of what he wanted to do. The speaker gave it as her view that enough hasn't been done for the individual in this country in the recreation field. Mrs. Wright asserted that the program of public recreation was usually way ahead of the appropriations made for it. Tracing the evolution of the recreation program in New Jersey since it was recognized in 1907 by the Legislature, the speaker told of the great strides that have been made in every community in the State since that time.

Lincoln Y. M. C. A. Notes

On Friday, August 8th, a make-shift Lincoln "Y" team met the Washington Street Branch "Y" Team of Montclair and went down in defeat 14-1. Playing under unfavorable circumstances Summit made seven costly errors which turned singles into doubles and triples. In spite of these errors, however, Montclair's booming bats thoroughly riddled Summit's defenses and their air-tight defense muffled the crackle of Summit's batting. Summit will play Montclair here on August 22nd. Those playing on the 8th were: Parsknight, Morse, Moses, Barrow, Blackmon, Binford, Alan Crute, William Gordon and Sims.

Also on the 8th, James Fisher, Marcellus West and James Sims betook themselves on a hike to Berkeley Heights in order to be sport themselves in the swimming hole there. Lunches were carried and conversation made the miles seem much shorter. Eating the lunches along the road made it possible for the boys to enter the water much sooner and they besported themselves to their heart's content. Later they were joined by George Miles who bicycled there after completing his paper route in order to indulge in that sport—swimming.

Plans are now on foot whereby the members of the Lincoln "Y" who are interested may take advantage of the swimming period in Orange to take advanced courses in swimming leading to Junior and Senior Life Saving Classes and Tests.

Monday night the Lincoln "Y" team met defeat at the hands of the Shamrocke 4-1. Again lax playing and costly errors cost the Lincoln "Y" another game in its fight to remain among the ranking contenders in the Twilight League. The game is being protested, and it is hoped that it will be replayed. Those participating were: Basknight, Morse, W. Howe, R. Cummings, Binford, Slaughter, W. Gordon, W. Crute and Sims. N. Thatch was substituted in the third inning for W. Crute.

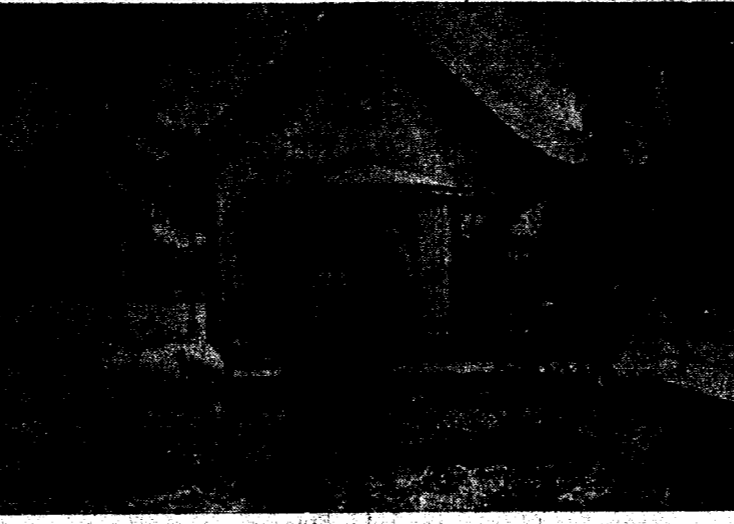

Reviving the Peanut

To many of us, peanuts are simply an inexpensive little delicacy we eat when we go to the ball game. But the status of the humble peanut means prosperity or depression to thousands of hard-worked farmers in this country.

Not long ago peanuts were a distressed crop—a crop in which the supply-demand situation was definitely unfavorable. And so the chain store industry undertook a special peanut promotional campaign. Result: According to spokesmen for the peanut growers, results far exceeded even the most optimistic expectations, and farmers were saved from losses.

The chain store also carried on a similar campaign for apples—a crop in which the supply-demand situation was also unfavorable. Result: Prices improved as sales increased. During March, which is the best month for the apple crop, the average price for apples in New Jersey was 10 cents per bushel.

Do You Know Summit's Railway Station's History?

How many of Summit's present residents can have the faintest conception of what the town had in the form of railroad facilities and accommodations for would-be passengers when the community was simply a struggling hamlet? The accompanying picture may give some slight impression of just how limited the provisions were. Originally a small structure at the corner of Maple street and the Railroad (the site of the present American Stores) was all that was required for the few passengers, the small amount of freight and likewise the Post-Office and the small stock of general merchandise with which William H. Littell opened the store there. Later the depot was moved to a point about where the present main section of the railroad station is and it is that structure as it was in 1870 that is reproduced here.

This was a plain frame building and when a Western Union Telegraph office was located here it was installed in the same quarters with the passenger ticket office. "Until 1864 or '65 the railroad receipts for passenger fares ran along such trifling figures as $4.50 to $20, or $22, per day the latter figures very seldom.

But about 1867-'68 the business of the railroad began to show signs of a pick-up hence probably the new building that appears here for the original one at Maple street was very much smaller. Some time after the erection of this very modest station the railroad arranged an attractive circular plot of grass and flowers on the vacant plot at the east end of the building and around this carriages were required to drive when taking passengers to or from the station. Still further east was a "round house" for the accommodation of two or three locomotives stored here over night and a "turn-table" on which the engines could be shifted around when required to reverse their course. Later the bay window shown on the picture near the house was torn away to permit the installation of a baggage room and still later a small addition to the baggage room was provided for the newspaper and magazine stand of the Union News Company. The long platform in front of the station was afterwards continued about 100 feet west to connect with a new freight building with an elevated platform and part of which was utilized for the quarters of the United States Express Company.

The platform in front of the station and for its full length east to the round house was built with the planks slightly separated so that coins that might be dropped in handling change from newspaper or tickets would drop right through and the owner might as well "kiss it good-bye". The little fellows of those days often gathered in quite a little change by crawling underneath from the east end of the platform all the way to the ticket station window and gathering up such change as they encountered. This depot building was added to and patched up in various ways as the railroad business grew until in the 1900's when electrification took place and both this depot and the freight-house were done away with. One of those buildings was moved to the lot at DeForest avenue and Maple street to do business as a carpenter shop for James C. Owens.

The house which is seen in dim outline a short distance from the station is without doubt one of three cottages along Union place that were owned by the railroad company. This particular house was directly on the corner and was occupied by William Swick and his family. Mr. Swick was a veteran engineer on the Lackawanna. One day he climbed into the cab to take his train out from the terminal at Hoboken. Without any sort of warning the locomotive exploded and Swick was instantly killed. Whatever investigation was made was never made public but Mr. Swick was such a careful and competent man that few would believe he was at fault and that the company felt the same was pretty generally recognized when a handsome settlement was made with the widow and children without dispute. They continued to occupy the house for many years until the children all married and settled elsewhere and Mrs. Swick went to her former home in Hackettstown where she resided until she died.

Commander V. F. W. Endorses Leatham For Mayoralty

In a letter made public Friday, John Jaycox, Commander of Summit Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, gave his personal endorsement to Ernest Leatham, mayoralty candidate in the September Republican primaries.

Urging Mr. Leatham's nomination and election as Mayor of Summit, Mr. Jaycox, directing his remarks principally to those who live as he does in the eastern part of the City, said that he was convinced that Ernest Leatham, when elected, would increase the representation of that section upon the important appointive committees of the city. The complete letter follows:

August 15, 1941.
Editor, The Summit Herald
Dear Sir: The 4,000 people of Summit who live in the eastern section of our city have waited patiently for a more adequate representation upon the important appointive committees of the city government, whose decisions are so vital to us.

Fortunately we who live in East Summit will soon have the chance to put into the office of Mayor a man who has a complete understanding of the needs of all sections of the city—Ernest Leatham.

I am convinced that Mr. Leatham is the best man for the office of Mayor. Therefore I call on all Republican voters, especially those in East Summit, to vote for him in the Republican primaries on September 16th.

Very truly yours,
JOHN T. JAYCOX.

This County First to Act Under New Law To Get Soldier Vote

Union County Thursday became the first county in the state to take advantage of the new law signed by Governor Edison Tuesday to insure the voting of men in military service.

County Clerk Henry G. Nulton announced he has written to State Adjutant General Higgins on the names and addresses of those in military service residing in Union County. Although he can't tell how many ballots will be sent out, Nulton announced "there will be a large number."

"The list of men to get ballots will be drafted, national guardsmen, reserve officers and all enlisted men in the army and marine corps. The law signed Tuesday by Governor Edison replaces the former cumbersome legislation. The ballots are to be mailed out to the soldiers two weeks before the election and must be returned the Tuesday before election.

Advertising in the HERALD will pay you dividends.

War Relief Committee Reports Thanks From British

A little lady somewhere in England, left destitute of her belongings when bombed out of her home, got a new start in life with "a black wool dress with gold buttons." The dress came from somewhere in America. She got it, along with a checked dress and warm complete outfits even to a couple of warm nightgowns, at a dispensing station of the Christian Science War Relief Committee.

Her letter of thanks is typical of many being received at the Boston headquarters of the Christian Science War Relief Committee. One woman writes: "My husband and I and our three girls were rendered homeless in an air raid and escaped wearing only night clothing and top coats. We are most grateful for the various articles of clothing received and we understand it is from your committee that the clothing has been sent. May your good work continue as there are thousands in need of help over here."

Another recipient writes: "To meet such generosity from perfect strangers helps one to pick up the threads of life again with renewed hope." A worker in England writes: "A baby was brought in last week crying with cold. Its mother said it could not sleep it was so cold. It was popped into a lovely little teddy-bear sleeping bag and in a few minutes it was asleep. The baby was less than six months old, and its home had been bombed twice."

"Despite the Battle of the Atlantic, all but one per cent. of the goods shipped from Boston headquarters since start of the work has arrived safely in Britain. The committee's shipments are not being lost at sea and they are not piling up on the docks, either in America or in Britain. They are getting through and they are doing a great deal of good." (quoted from The Christian Science Monitor).

Now is the time to send warm garments for next winter. Even in normal times, the British live in colder houses than do Americans, and dress accordingly. Under present conditions, with fuel shortages and the necessity of spending long hours in unheated air raid shelters, the need for warm clothing is even more urgent.

Few things are more important than soap, razor blades, hairpins, needles and thread, wash clothes, tooth paste, and similar small items—if you don't have them. These articles and many others are being packed into the bombed-out kits which the local Christian Science War Relief Committee are sending weekly along with new and used clothing. Lists of useful items for men's and women's kits are available upon request at the workroom of the Summit Committee, at 243 Springfield avenue, which is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 1 to 4 p. m. and on Saturday mornings from 9 to 12.

English Evacuee Children Write to Summit Friends

Somewhere in England there is a little four-year-old named Alice who has not heard from her mother for over a year.

Since being evacuated from her home in the spring of 1940, Alice has been living in the country and during that time she has not received any word from her family. Nor have they sent her any clothes. Last May Alice received a pair of shoes from her adopted mother here in Summit, and Mrs. Clifford Norton, director of the Esther Ann Nursery School, Kent Place boulevard, received a letter of thanks for them.

With Alice's letter came others from boys and girls—all written to thank Mrs. Norton for her kindness. The letters are a result of the proceeds of a fashion show.

held at the school last spring, which were sent abroad to clothe English evacuees.

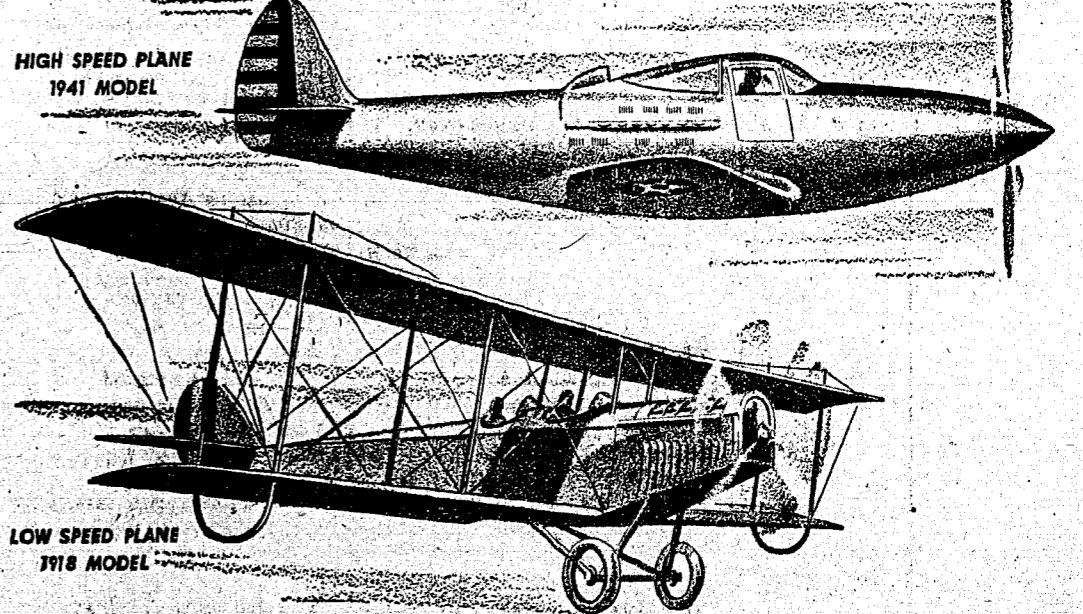

Accompanying the letters were bills for cotton print, woolen goods, lundings, shoes and vests—all receipted "paid with thanks," to show Mrs. Norton how the money had been spent. With these purchases dresses had been made, woolen vests had been bought, and shoes had been selected to fit the little children who recently gathered at the Bridgewater Rectory to write their Summit benefactors.

The letters are all equally touching—some written in the clear hand of an older child; others "X"ed with the kisses of tots just learning to write. All are little expressions heartfelt thanks and gratefulness such as is the one:

Dear Madam
It is very kind of you to send money to Mrs. Thomas to buy things for us. She has just given me a warm woolly vest. I am very pleased with it as I am short of vests. It is kind of the people in America to think of us.
Thank you very much

No Primary Contests As Republicans File Democrats Don't File

New Providence Borough. No contests are foreseen in the approaching primary election for local offices in New Providence Borough judging by petitions filed with Borough Clerk Thomas C. Musson. Republicans filed only one petition for each vacant office while the Democrats failed to file a petition for any office, even for the Democratic County Committee positions. Neither side filed a petition for the two Justice of the Peace positions which are open. All Republican petitions were filed by the present holder of that position with the exception of that for the two-year unexpired term on the Borough Council, left vacant by the resignation of Edwin M. Dotten. This was filed by Richard E. Badgley, a former Councilman.

G. Russell Vanderhoof and Lyman B. Coddington, Jr., present Councilmen, filed for the two Council positions. He is chairman of the Transportation and Building Committees and a member of the road and sewer committees.

Bancroft Gherardi Of Short Hills Dies in Ontario

Bancroft Gherardi, of Short Hills, retired vice-president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and former president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, died Thursday night of a heart attack while on vacation near Sudbury, Ontario. He was sixty-eight years old.

Mr. Gherardi, who played a prominent part in the establishment of radio telephonic communications between the United States and Europe in 1928, was born on April 6, 1873, at San Francisco, son of Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi and Anna Talbot Gherardi. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1894 from Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and advanced engineering degrees in 1898 and 1899 from Cornell University.

In 1895 he went to work for the New York Telephone Company as an engineering assistant, in which capacity he climbed telegraph poles and scrambled through manholes tracing lines to learn the business in its fundamentals. Five years later he was promoted to traffic engineer of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

In 1906 and 1907 he served as assistant chief engineer of the New York Telephone Company and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. In 1907, he joined the headquarters staff of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as equipment engineer and from that post went steadily in the company's ranks until he was appointed chief engineer in 1918 and vice-president in 1920. He retired in 1938 on reaching sixty-five.

On February 16, 1928, Mr. Gherardi, as president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, spoke the "Hello" into a microphone which formally opened a trans-oceanic radio telephone circuit to London, instituting a new era in the history of communications. The new device was used to carry on a joint meeting of the institute with the British Institution of Electrical Engineers in London.

Four years later the institute bestowed on Mr. Gherardi the 1932 Edison Medal awarded annually for meritorious achievement in electrical science, engineering or electrical arts. The citation praised his contributions to the art of telephone engineering and the development of electrical communication.

Mr. Gherardi was a trustee of Cornell University and a member of the Franklin Institute, National Academy of Sciences, Phi Psi and Sigma Xi. In 1933 the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Science. Among his clubs were the University, Engineers and Railroad-Machinery Clubs of New York, Baltusrol Golf Club and Manasquan River Golf Club. He lived in Birch Lane, Short Hills.

Mr. Gherardi married Miss Mary Hornblower Butler, of Paterson, June 15, 1893. She survives.

Editors' Mail

August 15, 1941. Editor Summit Herald. Dear Sir—In his statement supporting the candidacy of Mr. Leatham for Mayor, Mr. Lester said:

"A letter from Edwin R. Thomson was recently published in which he recommended that the electorate vote for Mayor Forster as the Republican candidate for Mayor, because his election would, in his absence from the city, result in my serving as Acting Mayor."

Mr. Lester apparently misread my letter which recommended the re-election of Mayor Forster, thus retaining an experienced, capable chief executive of the city in these critical times and relying on the Common Council, chosen by the electorate, well qualified to carry on in his absence from the city, result in my serving as Acting Mayor."

Mr. Lester's statement that, if he should seek the office of Mayor, he would do so as an openly announced candidate and his support of Mr. Leatham is quite understandable. The present national crisis, becoming each day more acute, calls for proved judgment and experience.

Summit's city government under Mayor Forster's administration has a good record. While Mayor Forster is on active service with the Navy, the members of the Common Council and the Independent Boards whose records, speak for themselves will conduct the city's affairs and meet whatever situations may arise. I am sure the Common Council when it elects its president for the new term the first of the year, will select one of its number that will be fully qualified for the duties of Acting Mayor.

Very truly yours, EDWIN R. THOMSON, 33 Elm Street, July 20, 1941.

To the Editor: In view of the occupation of Iceland by the United States, recently announced by President Roosevelt, it appears probable that Mr. Forster, who has been called to active duty in the Navy, will not be able to campaign actively for re-election and quite possible that, if elected, he will not be able to serve actively for part or even all of his two year term.

Had Mayor Forster been called to active service after his re-election, the President of the Common Council would become Acting Mayor, discharging the Mayor's duties, as provided in the city's charter. At present, Mr. Lester, now President of the Common Council, is serving as Acting Mayor in Mayor Forster's absence.

These are grave times, with every energy increasingly bent to the stupendous task of national defense. We can not know at what moment serious emergencies will arise that require cool experienced heads.

It seems to me this is the time to retain an experienced capable chief executive of the city and, so long as he is absent, give our support and confidence to the experienced and tried members of the Common Council who are well qualified to carry on. EDWIN R. THOMSON, 33 Elm Street.

Mail Sent Men In Camps Heavy; Many Gifts Included

The large volume of mail which flows through the Summit Post Office daily for Fort Dix and other army centers is evidence that city residents have not forgotten their friends and relatives now stationed in Uncle Sam's military forces. Many letters, cards and packages are sent to service men every day. Post Office officials state, Monday seems to be the heaviest mail day, probably because of the week-end which allows more time for letter writing.

Hobby Grows Into Small Business

Sometimes a hobby grows up and rides its owner. Several years ago, two Short Hills neighbors, Mrs. Robert Vert and Mrs. Donald Arrowsmith, started weaving on a small loom, as a pastime and hobby. Before long the pastime had grown into a business.

From their first small loom, they developed a pine paneled Loom Room in Mrs. Vert's house, complete with huge looms, carders, shuttles, spinning wheels and boms. They gave exhibitions, took orders and even taught weaving.

And every year they hold an Annual Exhibition of the fine handwork including that of other amateurs beside themselves.

Mrs. Vert is now carrying on alone as Mrs. Arrowsmith has developed other interests, but the Loom is still an active and fascinating factor in Short Hills.

'Way Down East' Lures Many From Short Hills

Mrs. Clarence Berry of Summit Avenue, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Willard P. Whitlock, Jr. of Elizabeth, at the Whitlock's summer cottage in Spring Lake.

Short Hills Notes

The Frederick P. Craik family of the Crescent, are island dwellers, as they summer on McMahon Island which is off the entrance to Booth Bay Harbor.

At Harpswell, which is near Portland, the Arthur Vanderbilts have a house and will be there most of the summer.

Mrs. Frank Sholes of West road has for many years been a Maine devotee. The family summer home being on Chebeague Island, an hour's sail out of Portland in Casco Bay.

Further "down east", as they say, on Blue Hill Bay, are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Boots of Jefferson road.

On Deer Isle are the Sherman Green Jr.'s and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur French.

Mrs. Parker Webster Page of Nakomis, Florida, the mother of Mrs. Ruthven Wodell of Highland Avenue, is also in Maine, accompanied by Miss Katherine Overton of N. Y.

Sixty-six per cent. of the mail for selectees and regular army men goes to Fort Dix, it was stated. The remainder bears addresses of trainees scattered in many parts of the country, particularly in the South where numbers of Summit men are serving in armed forces. Many special delivery letters also go out to service men from the Post Office here.

Books from home swell the volume of parcel post business here. Candy and other sweets, home-made cakes, pies and cookies, cigars and cigarettes are among the popular gifts for the selectees sent out through the Summit Post Office.

In addition to the many letters and packages, thoughtful families send newspapers, magazines and books to the home-town soldiers.

Although no exact estimate is available on the amount of mail coming into the city from military camps throughout the country, this also is said to be heavy. Despite rigorous schedules, the trainees usually find time to write to relatives and friends.

Looking ahead to the Christmas season, Post Office officials anticipate a flood of holiday mail and gifts for the men in camps. Many Summit youths will be spending their first holiday season away from home, and families and friends will do all they can to make Christmas with the Government a happy one by sending letters, greeting cards and presents.

It is said that 150 millions of safety pins are used in the United States each year. The American people have always been great people for change.

OUTSTANDING BASEBALL CENTER

Even though Union County does not have the largest population in New Jersey, it is without any doubt the greatest baseball county in the entire state.

Want any proof? The fact that four out of the six teams which will participate this month in the state eliminations of the American Baseball Congress national tournament are from Union County certainly substantiates this statement.

One might think that the reason baseball has prospered in this county is due to unusual financial support from the fans. Such, however, is not in any sense the case.

It is estimated in one Union County community that the average collection from spectators is 30 cents for every 100 attending. At one game an audience of close to 200 contributed a grand total of 60 cents.

In Summit the average is approximately $6.40 per hundred adult spectators. The trouble in this city, of course, is that the crowd usually is lacking in numbers.

It's too bad that there isn't enough voluntary support in this county to make its excellent teams financial as well as playing successes.

Jr. Drum And Bugle Corps Meets Chatham Friday

The return match, originally scheduled last Friday night, was postponed because of inclement weather. The public is cordially invited to witness the program which will include marching, maneuvering and drum and bugle music.

Rotary Told of Telephone Industry in U. S. National Defense

Despite a record breaking demand for telephone service and equipment to help speed defense, the industry is still meeting all requirements. W. C. Bettinson, special representative of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, told the Summit Rotary Club Monday at the Y. M. C. A.

For many months the organization has been working at top speed in laboratory, factory and field, he said, to secure more telephone facilities as margins of spare equipment provided in the telephone system have been brought into use. Nothing approaching the present situation has ever before confronted the telephone system, he indicated.

"When our industrial machinery went into high during World War Number One," he said, "it caused an average yearly addition to the Bell System of about 400,000 telephones. This year, if we meet all demands for service, the additions to the nationwide network will exceed 1,250,000 telephones and might even go to 1,500,000. The telephone instrument is only a small part of what it takes to provide telephone service."

Mounting job traffic in New Jersey and the addition to the system in the first six months of this year of more telephones than were added in all of 1940, indicated that "New Jersey really has gone to work on the defense job," according to the speaker. The gain in telephones in the first half of the year was nearly 40,000, and the increase in traffic was 350,000 more calls a day than a year ago. The daily use of the telephone in New Jersey now is 3,500,000 calls.

The engineers build and install equipment needed to handle the calls resulting from a recording increase in telephone calls. One New Jersey engineer says that the amount of equipment needed for the year is about 100,000 more than last year. The manufacturing plants are working for raw materials, he said.

New Jersey telephone exchange in New Jersey has been on a better basis than in other parts of the country. The exchange in New Jersey is approximately a quarter-million of wires, he said. The exchange in the State is about 1,000,000 wires. The exchange in the State is about 1,000,000 wires. The exchange in the State is about 1,000,000 wires.

Lang will be in the following towns on the dates and times specified every week during the week of August 4, 1941. Wednesday, 8:00 p. m. at the State Fairgrounds, Newark. Thursday, 8:00 p. m. at the State Fairgrounds, Newark. Friday, 8:00 p. m. at the State Fairgrounds, Newark.

Lang has promised that he will try to give the children and the young people a good time. He will be at the State Fairgrounds, Newark, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, at 8:00 p. m.

Westerners Clinch East-West All-Star Title With Triumph At Summit Field Saturday

Gail Wild Victor in One-Day Tourney At Canoe Brook; Baltusrol Ace Leads Maureen Orcutt to Wire With 37-44-81

Baltusrol's outstanding woman golfer, Miss Gail Wild, turned in a card of 37-44-81 over a rain-dampened Canoe Brook Country Club course on Friday to capture first spot in a one-day event of the Womens New Jersey Golf Association. Miss Maureen Orcutt, who normally holds a monopoly on one-day events in this state, had to be content with second place on a 41-43-84 round.

Only eleven of the fifty-five starters failed to return cards, despite heavy rain throughout most of the afternoon. Winter rules were in effect and the course, not in the best of condition because of the weather, forced most of the outstanding golfers into the 90s. Only one player other than the two leaders cracked 90, and that was a home course competitor, Mrs. T. W. Hawes, who registered an 85 and won the net prize with a nine handicap for a 76 score.

Miss Wild, a Springfield miss, has been playing exceptional golf of late. Friday's triumph followed her success with Mrs. Dewitt Untermeyer in the Metropolitan Golf Association's Scotch foursomes tournament. Almost weekly, Miss Wild has been capturing one-day tourneys and other special women's golfing events.

Mrs. G. W. Randall of Echo Lake won the second net prize behind Mrs. Hawes with a 90-13-77. Miss Marion Thompson of Maplewood took the third award with a 90-12-78, and Mrs. John C. Prizer of Essex County won fourth on a match of cards with Mrs. J. R. Rogers of Baltusrol.

Leading scores follow: Mrs. T. W. Hawes, Canoe Brook, 85-9-76; Miss Gail Wild, Baltusrol, 81-4-77; Mrs. G. W. Randall, Echo Lake, 90-13-77; Mrs. Marion Thompson, Maplewood, 90-12-78; Mrs. John C. Prizer, Essex County, 95-10-80; Mrs. J. R. Rogers, Baltusrol, 93-13-80; Mrs. James Patton, Summit, 92-13-81; Mrs. L. W. Brown, Upper Montclair, 93-17-82; Mrs. F. Dreher, Upper Montclair, 95-12-82; Mrs. H. M. Snavely, Echo Lake, 105-32-82; Mrs. Fred Rummler, Baltusrol, 106-34-83; Mrs. G. W. Tisdale, Baltusrol, 99-16-83; Mrs. A. H. Jube, Baltusrol, 102-19-83; Mrs. J. F. Alexander, Crestmont, 99-13-83; Mrs. E. Kimball, Jr., Shaxamaxon, 91-8-83; Mrs. M. E. Risley, Echo Lake, 92-8-84; Mrs. C. F. Ubiacker, Arcola, 103-25-84; Mrs. W. W. Povey, Crestmont, 97-12-84; Mrs. T. J. Stump, Crestmont, 95-11-84; Miss Maureen Orcutt, White Beeches, 84-0-84; Mrs. J. J. Zimmerman, Crestmont, 99-15-84; Mrs. Thomas McDarby, Crestmont, 99-9-84; Mrs. W. P. Conaway, Baltusrol, 98-14-84; Mrs. H. V. Y. M. C. A. Bowling Committee Arranges Leagues for Season

Representatives of the Summit Y. M. C. A. bowling committee have announced that hours, dates and leagues are being arranged for the coming league season. They are requesting that local bowlers signify their intentions to join a league, organize a team or at least participate in the program this year.

If enough interest is shown, it has been stated, the committee will be able to form at least two leagues. The number of leagues, of course, will depend upon the number interested in joining at the outset of the season.

Local Players Collect Four Of Seven Safeties Credited To Winners

A pair of long range clouts gave the West a 6 to 5 verdict over the East on Saturday afternoon in the deciding contest of a three-game Lackawanna Baseball League All-Star series at Summit's Soldiers' Memorial Field. More than 1,000 spectators, largest paid turn out in more than three seasons, witnessed the actual battle, a pre-game demonstration by the American Legion Junior Drum and Bugle Corps of Summit Post 138, and the tossing out of the first ball by Robert J. Murphy, Sr., who was president of the old semi-professional Lackawanna

Cannundus Boys Have Overnight Camp at Kiwanis Cabin

Who's that snoring like a buzz-saw? "Aw, pipe down, will you?" "Better keep still if you want to earn a camping feather" were a few of the many and varied remarks that came out of the darkness after "Lights out" at Kiwanis Cabin last Thursday night. The occasion was an overnight camping trip for the boys of Camp Cannundus, who always enjoy these periodical outings and the fun that goes with them.

The campers left the Y. M. C. A. about 7:45 in two cars and were accompanied by Directors J. B. Hoff and N. H. McGiffin. Upon their arrival at the cabin, all pitched in to help put up cots and chop wood for the campfire. Songs and stories were part of the ceremony which later concluded with the singing of "Lights Out" or "Taps" by the group.

Early risers were these young and restless "Indians" who broke the silence of Friday's dawn about 5:30 and terminated sleep for those who dozed.

K. P. duty was organized for wood chopping, water carrying, and getting milk at a farm nearby after cots were folded up and bedding set aside.

Breakfast of cereal, bacon and eggs, bread and butter and lots of good milk to drink was a noisy and happy event until one camper let out a yell of pain as a yellow-jacket sat, uninvited, above the lad's left eyebrow. After first aid treatment, everybody resumed the business of satisfying appetites.

About 9:30, Mr. Hoff, who had returned to Summit late Thursday night, arrived with the Juniors to inspect the camp and take a short hike to the spring. All returned to the "Y" for morning swim at 11 o'clock. Those who camped overnight were Cole Bebout, Buddy Guenther, Billy Klein, George Dunster, Bob Lindsey, Billy Murphy, Martin Ryan, Paul McGiffin and Mr. McGiffin. The following Juniors came out Friday morning with Mr. Hoff: Dick Sweeney, David Wright, Duane Bruce, Hugh Durvey and Billy Marvin.

Two Changes Made In State Financial Responsibility Law

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee today called attention to two important changes in the New Jersey Financial Responsibility Law, effective since July 28 last.

The purpose of the law change is to remove from the highways financially irresponsible owners and drivers who have failed to satisfy judgments resulting from their own negligence. The law formerly provided for the revocation of licenses of those failing to satisfy judgments in excess of $100. The amendment calls for the revocation of licenses where a defendant has failed to satisfy a judgment in excess of $25 within thirty days after the date the judgment becomes final. The law provides, however, for installment payments of judgments.

D. O. WORDE LOOKS OVER HIS TOBACCO CROP.

For five consecutive years, D. O. Worde of 52 Park avenue has raised tobacco in Summit, the past two years at Canoe Brook Farms (shown above). Between the corn and the tobacco, if you look carefully, you will see a row of cotton more than knee high.

D. O. Worde Tobacco Crop Again Attracts Attention

Summit is not referred to in any geography book as a tobacco growing region. Notwithstanding this, according to Daniel O. Worde, 80 years old, of 52 Park avenue, the climate and soil in this section are well suited to the raising of tobacco. Mr. Worde, who as a young man specialized in cultivating tobacco in Virginia, this year has seventy-five thrifty plants at the Canoe Brook Farms, the second consecutive year he has successfully raised the crop on this farm. This year marks the fifth year Mr. Worde has raised tobacco in Summit.

Commenting upon his raising of tobacco, Mr. Worde told The Herald:

"The raising of tobacco here has been a hobby. As yet I have developed no commercial use of the crops. I have simply been satisfied with keeping enough of each crop for my own needs and at the same time sharing some with my friends. "Of course, not all of my spare time is given to tobacco growing. I derive considerable pleasure from the raising of flowers, particularly dahlias. Now and then some of my friends show a particular interest in flowers. I do all that I can to encourage them. Also this year in a few previous years I am cultivating some cotton and peanuts."

Praised By Employer
Councilman-at-Large G. Harry Cullis, chairman of Common Council's street committee, said of Worde: "He is one of the most faithful and efficient workers one will ever find. Regardless of the weather or other external circumstances, Mr. Worde is always on the job. This has been so for the more than a quarter of a century that he has been working for the street department."

Mr. Worde, who is a member and leader of Wallace Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church, cordially invites anyone who is interested to have him show him his tobacco, cotton or peanut crop—or for that matter, his collection of dahlias at Canoe Brook Farms or at his Park avenue home.

Curbs On Credit Disturbing Many In Summit Area

Accustomed to filling their requirements at rates as low as the familiar "dollar down and a dollar a week," consumers in Summit and neighboring communities as well as the rest of the United States awoke in recent days to find their buying habits scheduled for abrupt change.

Installation buying, says the Federal Government, is to be banned, or at least shunned, especially when it comes to purchasing items manufactured of materials needed in National defense production. Encouragement of savings, arrest of trends toward inflation and diversion of money into defense bonds are other reasons ascribed by the drastic move which observers feel will affect nine out of every ten American families.

Merchants, bankers, personal loan companies and automobile dealers are among the hardest hit, and consumers admittedly don't know just what it will mean in the Summit trading area.

There will be a definite effect, all agree, on the $7,000,000 worth of annual retail business done in Summit, since a majority of sales of large items are on credit. The immediate effect, incidentally, is compounded from the total retail sales in the city in 1939, plus the estimated 12 per cent increase in business unofficially evidenced during the first half of 1941.

Curbs on Auto Sales
Directly affected is the city's automobile business of approximately $1,275,000 a year.

Curbing of automotive sales apparently is a specific desire of the government, because of the metal employed in their manufacture and the custom of some dealers of permitting financing over periods as long as two years.

There is no definite figure available but it is felt in the Summit area that at least 75 per cent of all car sales are on installment plans.

Sale of wearing apparel was a $5,000 business in Summit in 1939. It is proportionately higher. Early in the 1939 figures for the city also should be increased at least 10 per cent, migrants here to get a present-day picture.

For these reasons, many merchants are now looking for ways to get around the government curbs. Some are purchasing goods in bulk and selling them in smaller quantities.

Control Through Banks
This thought may be a key to what will happen. The merchant without capital will have to continue discounting his customers' notes through a bank and thereby will come under direct control of the Federal Reserve, through which the installment-buying curb is to operate.

It is acknowledged that most household appliance dealers, selling stoves, washing machines, refrigerators, ironers and similar devices, redoubt customers' notes. In the wearing apparel and furniture fields, few resort to banks, carrying their own accounts.

Several merchants believe there probably will be a temporary lull in business, all down the line, followed by a gradual return to former volume when consumers realize that they can save for a few weeks or months and then buy for cash.

There is a prospect, too, according to these merchants, that credit sales will spurt within the next few days before the order becomes operative. The mandate will not be retroactive.

Evidence of this was the jam in silk hosiery store the past two weeks.

Offsetting this possibility, however, is the fact that orders can not be filled in many instances. Even for cash, auto dealers are having trouble making deliveries. Curtailment has struck in the appliance, too.

If incomes continue high, as they are among customers employed in defense industries of this area, people will find little hardship in "leaving up before-hand" to purchase for cash, even though it changes the Nation's buying habit of "paying while using."

Fire Chief Warns Not To Keep Extra Supply of Gasoline

Gasoline improperly stored or transported is "liquid dynamite," Fire Chief Thomas Murray warned yesterday. His comment was occasioned by reports that some persons are storing gasoline for use during hours when filling stations are closed under the new night sales ban.

"Anybody storing or carrying gasoline without regard to regulations is apt to get into trouble both with the law and the gasoline," the chief declared.

"We have heard that some motorists are carrying a supplementary five-gallon can of gas in the trunk of their cars. This is most dangerous. Only a small amount of it need spill out and come in contact with the hot exhaust pipe to result in the most terrible fire in the neighborhood."

collect from insurance companies under these circumstances, too. "We have noticed some interstate trucks with fifty gallon drums strapped to the sides. The danger of this practice is tragically seen in each accident where truckmen are burned to death following a crash.

"Not only is it against the law to store gasoline in the house," Chief Murray continued, "but it is also a very foolish practice. One is apt to forget he has gasoline in the cellar until he is reminded of the fact by seeing the house enveloped in flames.

"One can stay within the law and store just five gallons of gasoline—but not in the house. Not more than five gallons, in an approved container, may be kept in the garage," the chief stated.

Housing Group Expresses Concern At Rising Rentals

Gardner Eastman, Economic Protection Committee, Summit Defense Service Council.

Dear Mr. Eastman: The Co-Ed Housing Committee has heard reports of over a dozen cases of rising rentals. The advances range from two dollars to seven dollars and are apparently unjustifiable. Most of the cases reported to us are in Negro neighborhoods. Are we correct in our understanding that one of the duties of the Economic Protection Committee is to deal with this problem of advancing rentals?

The office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply has urged that Fair Rent Committees be organized in each community to prevent further unjustifiable advances in rents. It is proposed that a "Fair Rent Day" be set; that it be widely publicized in the community; and that tenants, roomers and lodgers be invited to file complaints against increases. If the committee finds an unjustifiable rise, the landlord will be asked to adjust the rent. If the landlord does not comply with the committee's request, full publicity would be given to all the facts in the case. Has the Economic Protection Committee planned such a program?

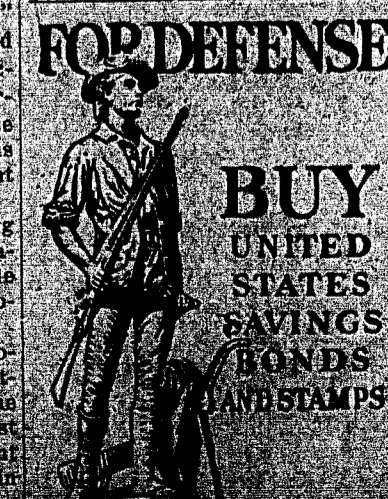

There are a number of cases where notice has been given of an advance in rent beginning September 1st. It is necessary, therefore, that proper channels be established immediately in order to check on these cases.

The Co-Ed Housing Committee will be glad to co-operate with the Economic Protection Committee in whatever they propose to do to cope with this problem. We hope to hear from you soon so that we will know what action we can take on the cases that come to our attention.

HELEN BREWER,
Acting Secretary, Co-Ed Housing Committee.

Washington, D. C., is now so full of government workers that there is a move on to transfer many of them to other cities. That's fair enough; pass New Deal prosperity around.

Dr. Francis C. Stifler Broadcasts Second in Series of Lectures on Bible's Ministry Over N. B. C. Coast-to-Coast Network

HEARD HERE EACH WEEK OVER STATION WJZ

The radios of many Summit residents were turned on Thursday for the second consecutive week from 1.30 to 1.45 p. m. to hear the second in a series of lectures over the coast to coast blue network of the National Broadcasting Co. by the Rev. Dr. Francis C. Stifler, of 16 Parkview terrace, editorial secretary of The American Bible Society. Dr. Stifler's address on Thursday was entitled "The Light of the World." His theme for August 21st is "Trimming the Wick."

In Thursday's address, Dr. Stifler spoke in part, as follows: "The Bible is the incomparable book, just as the Saviour whom it presents is the incomparable Christ. We often hear the Bible spoken of as the best seller. It is the best seller—probably 26,000,000 copies of the Bible or some part of it were sold last year. But one cannot justly compare the sales of the Bible with those of any other book. Most books are sold only in the country of their origin. A few are sold internationally. But the Bible is sold in almost every country on earth. What chances have other books to compete in their sales with a book that has been translated into every principal language of mankind and into hundreds of other tongues besides? The whole Bible, with its twelve hundred pages of ancient literature—poetry, prophecy, history, sermons, biography, building specifications, legal formulae, songs and proverbs—the whole of it has been translated into 134 languages. The New Testament, which is the part of the Bible that has given the whole book its world thrust, has been translated into 227 more languages. Some other substantial portion of the Bible, usually a part of the New Testament, now appears in 640 more languages. Again, what chances has any other book to compete with the Bible, which has become the book of all peoples?"

"Ordinarily, when we talk about a best seller, we are thinking in national terms. I never heard of a book that was a best seller in two nations simultaneously, although I think that might be true as between England and America. But the Bible is the best seller in many lands. It has outsold every other book in this country every year since the year 1800. It is, of course, the best seller in England. It is the best seller in several Latin-American countries. Last year it was the best seller in China. Indeed, China is today, if you count single Gospel portions as books, the top-ranking country in its purchase of the Christian Scriptures, 5,277,537 volumes having been sold there last year—a six per cent increase, by the way, over the year before—in spite of appalling economic conditions, the disorganized paper market, and the almost insuperable transportation difficulties prevailing in China.

"There are many sections of the world where the Bible is virtually the only book the people have. In the forty years since Protestant missionaries have been working in the Philippine Islands, for instance, they have translated the entire Bible into eight of the languages spoken there that had never before been reduced to writing. For such people the Bible becomes the foundation for a national or tribal literature, and for that reason it is, of course, the principal volume among them.

"And now for a story so new that its latest chapter has not yet made the news. While bombs were raining over England last summer, the presses of a printing plant in a suburb of London were rushing to completion one thousand copies of the Bible for the Bulu people, who live in southern Cameroons, West Africa. They were the first complete Bibles ever to be printed in this language.

"In order to save freight to Africa plans were made to have the Bulu

House. About January 7 they were transhipped to Africa. Weeks passed, and we heard nothing. Then just the other day came letter from Dr. Good. I wish I had time to read to you. It is dated March 15. Just a few of the pathless sentences must suffice:

"Day before yesterday I long-awaited Bulu Bibles arrived. I was at the church office when the truck pulled up. . . . The wretches around at once—"The Bibles have come!" . . . Of the 1,000 Bibles our station's share was 300. I what was three hundred copies such a place as this, with 400 evangelists and teachers, the industrial school, the hospital, 500 schoolboys and 150 schoolgirls."

We hear continued talk at a price ceiling. But if something isn't done about the forces that push prices up to the ceiling somebody will go through it.—Kansas City Times.

Mention the Herald when buying.

American Legion Receives Manuals On Air Raid Advice

Grim but authoritative manuals on air raid precaution services have been distributed to the American Legion, Summit Post No. 138 and the other posts throughout Union County by the National defense division of the veterans' group. Much of the pamphlet material, bringing home what war means to the civilian population of an invaded country, came as the result of study by the legion's four-man commission to England.

Telling of report and control centers, rescue parties, first aid, fire and police aid, demolition and repairs, the pamphlet is designed to acquaint legionnaires and civilians in general with basic preparations, which must be made in event of air raid attacks.

Prior pamphlets dealt with a general outline of civilian defense, aircraft warning service and the establishing of air raid warden systems. The legion points out that all organization for defense should be in collaboration with regularly constituted authority of local, State and National units.

No other agency, it is said, has undertaken such a vast campaign of instruction in civilian defense requirements. Subsequent pamphlets in the series will cover home and industrial protection, as well as "what to do" in event of gas or aircraft attack.

There are 11,971 legion posts in the United States and each has received several of the pamphlets for use of all members. Thus, it is said, the legion hopes to prepare for any emergency here a vast civilian "army" of its 1,080,379 members.

On Varied Holiday

Of interest to their Summit friends is the trip which the Misses Alexandra Babcock and Margaret Gillespie of Morristown are beginning today. It will include visits with friends in Maine, attendance at the Berkshire Music Festival, and a bicycle tour through the Cape Breton country.

"They Met In Bombay"

Clark Gable continues his adventurous career on the screen in "They Met in Bombay," which opens Thursday at the Lyric Theatre. With Rosalind Russell as his co-star and the exotic Orient as his modern locale, Gable essays a new role, that of an international confidence man. Lusty with action and amply endowed with romantic color, "They Met in Bombay" offers Gable the kind of red-blooded material which is his particular prize. He is given ample elbow-room, for the role dictates that he characterize a man cashed out of his army officer's berth because of his yen for devilry and shunted into a life of exciting crime because it offers some balm for what otherwise might have been a comparatively complacent existence.
