Y.W.C.A. Building Fund Campaign Starts May 14

The Summit Young Women's Christian Association plans a new $150,000 building to replace the nearly 100-year-old house in which activities of the organization have been conducted since 1924. A campaign to obtain building funds will be launched May 14 and continue until May 28.

Announcement of the proposed building program was made today by Mrs. Douglas B. Baker, 126 Mountain avenue, president of the Association. Mrs. Baker also revealed that Mrs. Thomas G. Walsh, 13 Locust drive, had accepted appointment as general chairman of the campaign with Carleton W. Pierson, 77 Beekman road, serving as co-chairman.

In her announcement Mrs. Baker added that Mrs. Robert R. Diefendorf, 100 Whittredge road, will be chairman of the Advance Gifts committee and Mrs. Allen F. Maybee, 15 Norwood avenue, has been appointed General Solicitation Chairman.

"The urgent need for a new building has long been apparent to all who have been familiar with the accomplishments realized under existing facilities," stated Mrs. Baker. "The building now used by the Y.W.C.A. is more than three-quarters of a century old. When it was occupied 27 years ago by the Association, it was intended to serve only as a temporary headquarters.

"In carrying our appeal to Summit and its neighboring communities which are served by the Y.W.C.A., we place great emphasis on the fact that this is the first time that a public appeal has been made on behalf of the womanhood of this area as represented by the Y.W.C.A."

Mrs. Baker also pointed out that the impending campaign has been approved by the Summit United Campaign of which the Y.W.C.A. is a member agency.

The proposed building will be erected on the site of the present Y.W.C.A. headquarters, Maple street and Morris avenue. Plans call for razing existing facilities and replacing them with a two-story structure of Georgian colonial design.

Prominent among the architectural features of the contemplated building will be a swimming pool with dimensions of 30 feet by 60 feet and with shower and dressing-room facilities for both men

Concert Assures New Uniforms For H. S. Band

The annual spring concert at the High School Friday night brought to a successful end the campaign for new High School band uniforms. Over 500 people attended the performance by the band, orchestra and chorus, all under the direction of Daniel Kautzman, head of the Music Department.

During the concert, Mr. Kautzman expressed thanks to the Board of Education, the P.-T.A., and the General Organization of the High School for their support of the uniform campaign. The Board gave the project a footing by appropriating $1,200. A P.-T.A. benefit, "The Better Half," raised $400; $200 came from the G. O. Show and $130 from the proceeds of the concert will be added.

Mr. Kautzman also thanked Superintendent of Schools Wm. A. Kincaid for his constant support of the Music Department, Principals Albert J. Bartholomew and Rudd A. Crawford for their help, the Service Committee which supplied the ushers, and the boys of the stage crew.

Among the numbers which brought applause from the audience were a violin solo, "Cubana," played by Walter De Maio, "The Joker" a trombone solo rendered by Bob Vantubergen, and a baritone horn solo, "Bride of the Waves," played by John Bunnell. All of these were accompanied by the band, which also played the "Student Prince Overture" and a Sousa, march, "The Northern Pines." Among the choral numbers, "Sylvia" received considerable applause. A favorable reception was also recorded several of the orchestra selections, particularly "The Dance of the Hours."

"Read Today, Star Tomorrow," High School Library Exhibit

Several hundred students were attracted to the High School library last week for the exhibit by Pocket Books, Inc., of New York City. The exhibit stressed the importance of reading for pleasure because when one acquires pleasure in reading he almost always absorbs knowledge. Standing at the left of the exhibit are Miss Delia Hadsell, High School librarian and Miss Joan Dowling, a member of the Book Mart. To the right of the exhibit, standing: Lincoln Griswold conferring with his English teacher, Mrs. Helen Davis. Suson Herbig, one of Mrs. Davis' students, is seated. (Tri-County Photo—Scheckler).

City Disposal To Fore; Seeks OK for Factory

A letter from the West End Civic Association to the State Department of Health complaining about the city's incinerator and disposal grounds brought forth explanatory comments Tuesday night at Common Council by Councilman Roland P. Beattie.

The letter of complaint, a copy of which was sent to Dr. Henry P. Dengler, city health officer, was read in full, alleging that the disposal grounds and incinerator have been a nuisance for four years.

A subsequent letter to Dr. Dengler from Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, of the State Board of Health, reporting on the investigation by a State inspector, declared that the incinerator and disposal grounds were not found to be a nuisance. Dr. Mahaffey suggested the desirability of added supervision in disposal.

Councilman Beattie declared that conditions in the area complained of are in the "best possible condition." He said a bulldozer had levelled off the ground and placed everything in "creditable condition," and that it is the desire of the city to keep the grounds and plant in this condition. The councilman said the disposal grounds and incinerator plant "must be kept in Summit for we cannot predict the future." He said he didn't know whether the State would always allow disposal somewhere outside the city. It was explained that a survey of the disposal grounds will be made so that "maximum use" may be made of the facilities.

President Percy M. Bland of council explained that the procedures described by Councilman Beattie had been started prior to the letter to the State Board of Health.

A letter from George A. Sagan asked that council be sympathetic to his efforts to have his property off Chatham road adjudged in the industrial zone rather than in a business zone to permit him to erect a factory. The letter was referred to the Planning Board. Mr. Sagan stated he wished to erect a garment factory to cost $250,000 employing mostly Summit

Committee Speaks Against Program For Released-Time

"Even though the ministers have spoken, the last word has not been said. For when ministers speak as representatives of their particular vested interest, the Church, their observations at least are subject to scrutiny. Their statement in last week's issue of the Summit Herald we find at once unconvincing and unimpressive. In fact, we believe more strongly than ever that the local church council's for release-time religious education in Summit is inadvisable."

This was the further contribution to discussion of the release-time problem offered Sunday afternoon by A. J. G. Priest, chairman of the Summit Committee for the Separation of Church and State, after a meeting of 20 members of that committee held to consider steps in the committee's program.

"First of all," said Mr. Priest, on

Norman Cousins Drops Atom Bomb In Summit's Lap

"The United States stands before the greatest peril of its existence, not 10 years from now, not five years from now, but Tomorrow," Norman Cousins told the Athenaeum April 11 in the high school, in his talk, "The Making of Tomorrow."

"We are fast becoming the most hated nation in the world, and the most vulnerable. Within two years we could be the target of an overnight raid by atom bombs from any country in the world, and we would not know which nation had launched them," he continued.

We do not know where we stand, what our obligate; and then is defes against the atom bomb. This is our dilemma. The only possible answer is to remove the wish for aggression from the nations of the world, Mr. Cousins believes. Lessons may be learned from the past, notably from Greek and American history, with their opposite outcomes. The American states federated, principally to remove the possibility of war among them, a fact which is ignored in our histories. So the United Nations' first problem is to insure peace among its individual parts. This cannot be done by force, but only by the willingness of all to join in a common program to this end.

The proximity of all countries to each other, and the destructive power of the atomic bomb have changed the world picture. The United States Government did not tell the people the truth about the bomb when it was used, to our disgrace, upon Japan. The bomb is a gas, and does have lasting effects. Ten thousand people will die of cancer induced by its use at that time. These facts are now the danger we may fear from its use against us.

"The world is too small to have a war." There will be no security for any nation, and the difficulty of finding a solution is only equalled by the necessity for doing so.

Russia and the United States are the two nations setting up the greatest barrier to the effective prevention of atomic war by the UN, by their insistence on the veto power, Mr. Cousins said.

Democracy depends on the day-to-day wisdom of the American people, and if the American people do not lend their voice to the development of the United Nations into a world government having the power to prevent the manufacture of the bombs or other weapons of destruction, it will not be done at all. The only real sovereignty in the world today is individual sovereignty, and on individuals the future depends.

Homage Paid Ex-Mayor Forster at Last Rites

State, county and city officials, together with a number of naval officers and enlisted men joined with Summit residents and a host of friends to pay homage to Commander Guido F. Forster at his funeral services yesterday afternoon at Central Presbyterian Church conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Leonard V. Buschman. Commander Forster, 51, mayor of Summit for two terms beginning in 1940, died Sunday night at the home of his mother, Mrs. Clarence J. Weymer in Euclid avenue. Burial was in Fairmount Cemetery, Chatham.

His mother and sister, Mrs. Chester V. Grant, the only survivors, were with him at the time of death. Comdr. Forster had been suffering from a heart affliction since his separation early this year from active duty.

A veteran of World Wars I and II, Commander Forster was graduated from the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, March 19, 1917. He was born in New York City and moved to East Orange with his parents four years later. He had lived in Summit since 1906.

While a midshipman, Commander Forster was assigned to the U.S.S. Idaho for the summer practice cruise of 1914 and was one of a party of midshipmen received in audience by the late Pope Pius X, June 28, 1914, at the Vatican.

In his tour of duty in the Pacific in the recent war, Summit's former Mayor was commander of the U.S. Naval base at Noumea, New Caledonia. He was called to active Naval service in 1941, served on convoy and patrol duty in the Atlantic until 1943 when he was assigned to the Naval War College at Newport for advance tactics study.

Commander Forster saw France mobilize for World War I. He was one of the crew of the Idaho at the time the battleship was turned over to the Greeks, becoming the Lemnos. After he was commissioned an ensign, Mr. Forster was assigned to the U.S.S. Rhode Island.

During World War I he served at Queenstown, Ireland, and in Brest, France, later being assigned to the destroyer Wainwright for engineering duty. After the Armistice he was engineer officer at U. S. Naval Port Office, St. Nazaire, France. He also served in the Paris Embassy.

April 20 Deadline For WAC Overseas Re-enlistment

Honorably discharged enlisted personnel of the Women's Army Corps, who desire to re-enter the service for overseas duty in the European Theater, must file their applications with the U. S. Army Recruiting Stations by midnight Saturday, April 20, the War Department announced through the Recruiting Service, Second Service Command. The previous deadline on applications was midnight, April 25.

Applications are restricted to former enlisted WAC personnel holding Military Occupational Specialty ratings in five categories, urgently needed for duty in Europe. The ratings and MOS numbers are stenographers, No. 213; clerk typists, No. 405; general clerks, No. 055; telephone switchboard operators, No. 650, and teletype-writer operators, No. 237. Applicants must have reached their 20th birthday, but not their 50th, and must re-enter the service for the duration, plus six months, unless sooner relieved.

Six hundred enlisted women are to go to Europe, 300 of them members of the Corps now in service who have volunteered for duty beyond the date they would be eligible for separation, and 300 discharged members who reenter the service. Since the response has been gratifying, and owing to the fact that WAC contingents will go overseas shortly after May 1, former members are urged to file applications as quickly as possible.

U. S. Army Recruiting Stations in New York, New Jersey and Delaware are prepared to give further information to applicants and to assist them in the preparation of their applications.

While there are more deaths from cancer among people 40 to 60 years old, it attacks those of all ages, and kills 2,000 children annually.

Marine Corps Starts Campaign To Gain Recruits

Young men enlisting in the Marine Corps before October 6, 1946, will receive all educational and rehabilitation benefits of the G.I. Bill of Rights upon completion of their period of enlistment, according to Sgt. James C. Ryland of the Newark District Recruiting Station of the Marine Corps who will visit the Summit Post Office on Wednesdays until June 1 to give additional information concerning enlistment.

The Marine Corps is launching an intensive campaign to interest high school students graduating in June who may still enlist in the service of the choice immediately upon graduation.

Physical requirements for two, three or four year enlistment in the Marine Corps have been lowered to promote the recruiting of 100,000 men for the peacetime force of the Corps.

An estimated total of 1,565,541 major crimes were committed in 1945 or an increase of 171,886 over 1944. In addition several million lesser offenses were committed.

Scout Troop 262 Goes on Expedition To Lake Carnegie

Living up to their slogan, "A Troop That Goes Places," Boy Scout Troop 262 visited the estate of James S. Cawley, canoe expert, formerly of Plymouth road, Summit, last week-end. The troop pitched their tents on a spot overlooking scenic Lake Carnegie and spent Saturday afternoon engaged in intensive canoe practice in the course of which the Princeton racing crews frequently passed on training runs.

Early on Sunday, Mr. Cawley gave a demonstration of canoeing technique, after which each Scout attended the church of his choice for services. Following noon dinner, an extended canoe cruise took the Scout Troop across the Lake and into the old Delaware and Raritan Canal by way of a short portage. The canal was followed to Fort Mercer where a longer carry led to the uppermost navigable section of Stony Brook. This winding stream was followed all the way down to the Lake again, and the cruise ended at the Biallas Canoe Club where the canoes had originally been procured.

The expedition was under the leadership of Stanley O. Morgan, chairman of the Troop Committee, Clyde F. Benner, chairman of Leadership and Training and Malcolm Eagles Runyon of the Camping Committee. The Troop is sponsored by the First Baptist Church.

Plans for further exploration into the heart of the Pineys of New Jersey are now underway as the boys have become strong and skillful paddlers.

V.F.W. Legislative Program Contains 88 New Bills

The V.F.W. legislative program is contained in 88 new bills or amendments to existing acts. Designed to further the well-being of veterans and their families, the program is either ready for congressional action or being drafted for introduction.

Some of the bills relating to the Armed Forces advocate authorization of accumulated leave for enlisted men at the rate of 2½ days per month for active service with lump sum payment at time of discharge; provision for naval personnel to wear gold stripes denoting foreign service; protection of servicemen's rights under Social Security by allowing insurance credits to veterans for military service under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Act, at a wage of $160 a month retroactive to September 16, 1940; amendment of Veterans Regulation 9(a) to increase allowance for burial of war veterans from $100 to $200.

On questions concerning pensions, hospitalization and insurance, one bill provides for adjusted service pay for World War II veterans, based on length and type of service with an additional $500 for wounds. Other bills advocated the amendment of the National Life Insurance Act of 1940 to provide a lump sum payment of benefits, 240 certain monthly installments to beneficiary throughout the lifetime of the beneficiary, or 120 monthly installments.

The V.F.W. proposes granting pensions to veterans of World War I on the same basis as Spanish-American War veterans, i.e. $20 for one tenth disability; $25 for one-fourth disability; $35 for one-half disability; $50 for three-fourth disability; $75 for total disability or upon reaching 64 years of age; and $100 if so helpless or blind as to require an attendant.

Legion Auxiliary To Care for Vet's Needy Children

During the month of April the Legion Auxiliary is giving special attention to the problems which are arising in connection with needy children of World War II veterans. Years of experience in caring for those of World War I, has enabled the Auxiliary to work out a highly successful program. The Auxiliary, which is now engaged in expanding this program to include children left dependent by the death or disability of World War II veterans, is determined that no child shall be left in need because of a father's sacrifice for his country.

Several past-presidents of the Summit Unit 138 are planning to attend the Past-Presidents dinner which will be held at Gorman's Restaurant in Union, on April 29.

The Legion Auxiliary will hold a card party on April 25 at the Legion Home in Elm street. Tickets can be obtained for 45 cents.

Mayor Explains

ment and only second thereto is conscientious administration of the zoning laws by our governing body.

"Strange as it may seem, zoning laws in New Jersey from the state level were first enacted only as recently as 1924 and it was not until 1928 that a law that has withstood the test of constitutionality was passed.

"Many communities in our state, even today, do not have local ordinances to regulate the areas in which various types of homes, businesses, and industries may locate and be afforded the protection possible in Summit.

"Our present ordinance was passed in 1928 to replace an earlier one which was based on the earlier state law that was declared unreasonable and, therefore, unconstitutional.

"Today our courts are reluctant to override the judgment of local governing bodies with respect to zoning, provided the rules and the administration of them can be defended as reasonable and not discriminatory.

"No zoning law, no matter how carefully prepared, can be drawn to cover all cases that might arise five, ten, or twenty years after its enactment; therefore, provision was made in the state law to have a reviewing body known as the Zoning Ordinance Board of Adjustment.

"The function of this body is to hold hearings on requests of property owners to an exception to the zoning restrictions with respect to their own property.

"Within certain proscribed limits, exceptions may be granted by this board on its own authority but, in the main, it may only recommend to the Common Council that, in their opinion, a hardship exists and an exception should be granted.

"Should the Board of Adjustment vote to deny an application, the Common Council cannot overrule the decision, but the property owner has the right of appeal to the courts for relief.

"The change of use of a piece of property may start a trend in an area which would be, in time, most detrimental to real estate values.

"A minor change in the interior as well as exterior of a structure may lead to, in time, a change of use for a property so the Common Council, Board of Adjustment, and Building Inspector have a mutual understanding that no permits will be granted without a three way conference wherever an exception to the Zoning Ordinance, Building Code or structural alteration within these laws would allow a change of use for the property in question. This is necessary as it is possible in certain areas for one to grant permission without reference to the other which would allow a change of use for the property.

"Some two years ago, certain questions were put to the Planning Board for study and recommendation.

"This body felt it lacked the necessary data and technical advice to properly answer these questions and to arrive at the solution of other problems so a professional consultant was employed to study some nine matters, including a new Zoning Ordinance which would be the base on which solutions to many problems would rest.

"The proposed new Zoning Ordinance and map was put in the hands of the Planning Board about a year ago and, from that time to this, these documents have been the number one item on the agenda of this body. The first draft was presented to the Common Council last fall for comments and recommendations. More recently the Board of Realtors and the League of Women Voters have had an opportunity to express their views.

"The Planning Board has taken each suggestion for changes of wording, addition or elimination of paragraphs, item by item, and are now rapidly completing their work on the final draft to be presented to the Common Council.

"Before advertising the ordinance and map, as required by law prior to the formal public hearing, further opportunity will be given to interested groups and individuals to obtain copies for study and comment.

"You can readily see from your own knowledge and what has been said today, it is a long tedious process to prepare a Zoning Ordinance which, in the main, should prevail for the next twenty years as it is not good practice to amend or basically change such a document frequently.

"Advertising and printing such a lengthly ordinance cost a considerable sum of money and it is the sincere request of the several boards of the city government, whose duty it is to prepare, pass, and administer the zoning laws, that civic groups and individuals will give serious study and thought and will feel it their duty to communicate in writing to the Common Council any constructive criticisms in a reasonable time after mimeograph copies are made available for distribution."

"Skinny Angel" Reviewed At Book Club Last Night

Mrs. Charles Hartman reviewed "Skinny Angel," by Thelma Jones, Tuesday night, when the Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Girard Kohman, in Ashland road.

"Skinny Angel" is the story of the author's family, especially her mother, who was so heavy though ill-health, that she hoped at least to be a "skinny angel."

Homage Paid

1940 through 1943, Commander Forster represented the First Ward in Common Council from 1935. Upon his return to the Navy in 1941 he was navigator of the U.S.S. Munargo, a personnel transport, on the Greenland, Iceland, Hudson Bay straits run as well as to ports in the British Isles.

From Newport he went to the Pacific in January, 1944, and took up the Caledonia assignment. He directed the construction work at this giant base. After that tour of duty he took command of the U.S.S. Napa, a transport. The ship was damaged in the Iwo Jima battle, but was taken to Guam for repairs with 234 wounded Marines aboard.

Since Commander Forster's return from his Pacific tour of duty he had undergone extended treatment at the Navy Hospital at St. Albans for "battle fatigue."

A member of the Reserve Officers Association of the Third Naval District, Commander Forster was a former president of that association. One of his many hobbies was that of photography. He not only contributed pictures, but articles, for publication in Reserve Officers Association periodical. For many years he was active in the Naval Reserve being assigned to the U.S.S. Newton docked at Jersey City. A book that he wrote on Naval tactics is a Navy Department authority on the subject.

Commander Forster was active in the American Legion, being a past-commander of Summit Post No. 138 and of the Union County Legion. He also served on a number of State Legion committees.

Summit Legion Post held services Tuesday night at the Brough Funeral Home in Springfield avenue. Noticeable at this service was the Iwo Jima pennant awarded to Commander Forster as commander of his ship.

Honorary pall bearers at yesterday's funeral services were Judge John L. Hughes, Thomas L. Smith, Lt. Richard A. Franatis, U.S.N., Lt. Rhodes Copithorn, U.S.N.R., W. H. Woodside, W. Francklyn Paris, Carleton W. Pierson and Robert H. Steele.

After yesterday's services at the church, a squad from the Legion Post fired a salute at the grave.

Commander Forster, who was an honorary member of Summit Kiwanis, was the subject of the following resolution passed unanimously at the Tuesday luncheon of the club on motion of Kiwanian William E. Bedell:

"Summit Kiwanis Club records with a feeling of deepest sorrow the passing of a former honorary member, former mayor Guido F. Forster, U.S. Naval Commander, who served with distinction in World Wars I and II.

"Resolved that we extend to the family our condolences, assuring them that Summit has lost a good uted much to our community, buted much to our community, and whose impression will be indelibly inscribed on the city's history.

"He served in two wars with credit to himself and the nation. His unfailing devotion to his country is marked by citations from the Navy Department."

Common Council on Tuesday night unanimously passed the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, in the death of Commander Guido F. Forster, on the 14th day of April, Nineteen Hundred and forty-six, the City of Summit has lost an esteemed and beloved citizen; and

"WHEREAS, the said Commander Guido F. Forster was a former member of the Common Council of the City of Summit and served the City as Mayor for two terms, and by his integrity, wise counsel and loyalty to duty, has won the devotion, honor and respect of the City which he has served; and

"WHEREAS, the said Commander Guido F. Forster served his Country in World War I and World War II with honor, distinction and with credit to his Country and the City of Summit; and

"WHEREAS, by his death, the residents of the City of Summit have lost an able citizen and honored friend, therefore,

"BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SUMMIT:

"That there be spread upon the minutes of the Common Council of the City of Summit this tribute to the memory of Commander Guido F. Forster and this testimony of the sense of loss felt by this Council and the community; and

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution be by the City Clerk, transmitted to the family of the deceased to whom this Council tenders its deep and sincere sympathy in their sorrow."

Graduate Nurses

was unanimously agreed that one of the outstanding problems in all their hospitals was the current shortage of graduate help.

In an interview with Overlook Hospital authorities it was ascertained that to bring the nursing force to ideal top standing, the following are needed: one supervisor (medical and surgery), one clinical instructor, two head nurses, one operating room, one obstetrics, and fourteen general duty nurses. The present number in the graduate nurse force is adequate and comparatively better than that in many surrounding hospitals, but the patient load is heavy and when the vacation period arrives, it will be burdensome. There may be graduate nurses in the Summit area who could work at Overlook temporarily for this vacation period (June-September). The Hospital will organize a nursery for the care of nurses' children if enough mothers are interested in taking a job there. Transportation can be arranged where that presents a problem. Overlook pays one of the highest rates of local hospitals for general duty nursing: $140.00 monthly with three meals a day and laundry, for an eight-hour day. Anyone interested should contact Miss Lambertson.

The Council is engaged in reviewing its files in order to locate any and all nurses who may be able to give service and it urges both returned veterans and other nurses who may be able to give only a few hours of work to return to what is an essential and rewarding nursing task.

chapter is adequately prepared to handle any disaster which might occur. She explained that National Red Cross headquarters, through the money received from each locality after the annual fund campaign, is able to assist the local chapter in financing the emergency and rehabilitation needs of disaster-stricken families.

Members of the Disaster Preparedness and Relief Committee in the Summit Chapter of the American Red Cross are Nicholas J. Hussey, chairman; Herbert G. Fuchs, vice-chairman and alternate to the chairman; Mrs. George Chace, vice-chairman and chairman of registration and information; Fred Mort, chairman of disaster hazard survey committee; W. Alesbury and George M. Delaney, co-chairmen of transportation and communications committee; Spencer M. Maben, chairman of shelter; Edmund G. von Duhn, chairman of fund raising and public relations.

Committee Speaks

behalf of his committee, "we challenge the ministers' inference that they represent a majority of Summit residents. If Summit is an average American community, fewer than half of its families have any church affiliation and, in this controversy, not only most of the members of the Jewish, Christian Science and Unitarian churches, but also many of the ministers' own parishioners, are opposed to their release-time program. We are inclined to think, judging on the basis of reaction at the only P.-T. A. meetings where our point of view was presented, that majority opinion on this issue is represented by our committee rather than by the ministers.

"However," Mr. Priest continued, "even assuming for the sake of argument that the ministers do represent a majority, their assertion, 'Any time those concerned cannot use it (school time) as a majority of them want it used, something will have happened to our freedom' is doctrine so interesting as fully, to have justified the organization of our committee. What the ministers are saying is that school time can, and apparently should, be used for any purpose, including sectarian religious instruction, if only 51 percent of the people approve.

"It seems to us, on the contrary, that in these times the rights of minorities must be guarded with particularly tender solicitude. All of us are in such painfully small minorities of one kind or another that we may well be gravely concerned over arbitrary action by any majority.

"Perhaps the ministers would not have suggested that the phase Church and State 'indicates that the State recognizes the Church' if they had recently examined those basic American documents, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Neither of those great documents so much as mentions Church or churches. And the Constitution expressly bans religious test oaths, so that there is no constitutional reason why a Buddist or Hindu or Moslem should not succeed the present occupant of the White House.

"America very emphatically recognized as having in any sense official standing in performance to others. That is what disestablishment, and complete religious liberty, have meant and should continue to mean in America.

"The charge that our opposition to the release-time program is tantamount to a denial of religious liberty is literally amazing. On the contrary, parents are guaranteed absolute liberty in Summit at this very hour to include religion as a part of the total educational development of their children under any church auspices they choose or in any religious tradition they themselves follow. No one is denied this privilege. To make their point the ministers must prove that parents are unable to make provision for the religious education of their children because the only time available for it is spent in the public school. And of course that just isn't so.

"What the ministers really complain about is their present inability to use the disciplines of our compulsory public school system for church purposes. The privilege certainly should be denied them, just as it should be denied to business interests or patriotic societies or would-be reformers of personal habits or any other group whatsoever.

"In Summit, as elsewhere in our favored land, the one institution which is most effective in molding character, in developing a sense of fair play, in teaching respect for personality, is the American free and secular public school, this nation's greatest cultural achievement. We would keep it free—among other things, free from such a potentially divisive program as release-time—and we very definitely also would keep it secular."

Makes Report On Counseling For Veterans

Director of Guidance Services, Joseph G. Shuttlesworth, of the Summit Public Schools, on Friday reported on one of the services that the school is providing for returning veterans. The report, in part, follows:

"Since the beginning of the present school year we have seen this work develop into a job of major proportions. Few of us fully appreciate the magnitude of the government's program and its possible impact during the next few years. With a knowledge that more than $7,000,000 or as much as $8,000,000 is available for education and training of veterans in Summit alone, we can appreciate the importance of these people making the wisest possible decisions.

"On the basis of our experience with men who are reporting daily to the guidance office in the high school, it is evident that more than four hundred veterans will avail themselves of the guidance services of the school during the present school year. Many veterans are referred to the high school by the Veterans Service Center, though a large majority contact the school either because of local publicity or because it is the natural place to go for help. The large majority of these men are former students or former graduates which has demonstrated clearly the importance of maintaining an adequate system of personnel records in the school.

"It is not surprising to note the tremendous interest on the part of veterans who wish to take advantage of the educational benefits under the 'G1 Bill of Rights.' In recent months, however, we have seen an increasing interest in apprentice and on-the-job training. But as one works with these men he is impressed with the fact that you can't separate guidance into educational and vocational guidance—or in any other way for that matter. All kinds of individual problems and personal considerations are involved. However, the veteran's concern is basically vocational whether he is going to school or not. These men are much more inclined to consider just what they are going to do with a college education. They are more willing to recognize their strengths and weaknesses in making their choices than we might normally expect of the average high school senior. They are realistic and sincere—and there isn't the slightest evidence of veterans looking upon their educational opportunities as a free handout.

"A great deal has been written and much has been said in regard to the problems of the returning veteran. People have been unduly concerned with the thought that the veteran would be a greatly changed individual from the one who left to go into the service. Of course, he has changed as any other young person might be expected to change over a period of years as a result of new experiences and changes of environment. However, the vast majority of these men can be helped more easily if we take the point of view that they are one of us—not at all unlike young people who have had to make adjustments at any other time. In our anxiety to help there is also the ever-present danger of doing too much, which the counselor knows may be worse than doing too little. The veteran wants information and advice but like any other self-respecting individual, he is quite willing and anxious to help himself.

"Meeting the guidance of veterans brings into sharp focus the responsibility of the school for assisting out-of-school youth in making a satisfactory vocational adjustment. The need for vocational counseling, placement and follow-up after students leave school has been recognized as an important responsibility in our educational program for a long time. That is the responsibility we are attempting to meet at the present time. The cooperation of citizens and agencies in the community, personnel officials of industries nearby, various members of school and college staffs to whom these men are referred should result in better understanding and provide much valuable ground work upon which to build an effective program of guidance for the future."

"The Audubon Society, although identified in the public mind chiefly with birds, is stressing more its interest in the relation of all the natural resources of the country, and is committed to an overall program of conservation," stated Elmore F. Furth, president of the Summit Nature Club.

Permission was granted the joint service men's organization including the two local legion posts and the V.F.W. to conduct a Memorial Day parade starting at 10.30 a. m.

Taxi Ordinance Introduced; Adopt Daylight Saving

A resolution was also adopted in conformity with state action setting Summit on Daylight Saving Time starting Sunday, April 28, thus moving the clocks ahead one hour.

and women. Plans also provide for a gymnasium, an assembly room with a completely equipped stage; a game room; a lounge, a snack bar and cafeteria; an adequate kitchen and club dining room.

Consulting architect of the proposed building is Louis Jallade of New York City, adviser to the National Board of the Y.W.C.A.

Building operations are planned to start as soon as current restrictions and materials become available. Y.W.C.A. officers stated that no effort would be made to start construction while the existing shortage of material for housing continues.

During construction the Y.W.C.A. will continue to occupy its present headquarters which will not be razed until the new building is completed.

The Y.W.C.A. was organized in Summit in 1919 with Mrs. C. E. Mosher, the first general secretary. From a nucleus of less than 10 members, the organization has grown until its present membership numbers 1,114.

The property on which the new building will be constructed was purchased by the Y.W.C.A. in 1924 from Miss Jeannette Bonnell who had been active in organizing the Association in Summit.

For the past 15 months a building committee headed by Mrs. Walsh, the general chairman of the campaign, has conducted a survey throughout the area to determine the type of facilities required in the proposed building. In addition to Mrs. Walsh, the new building committee included Mrs. Karl Keller, Mrs. Robert R. Diefendorf, Mrs. Robert Volkening, Mrs. H. Walford Martin, Mrs. Ernest P. Patten, Mrs. Allen F. Maybee, Mrs. V. J. Vierling and Mrs. Douglas B. Baker, President.

In addition to her activities with the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Walsh is a member of the Summit Junior Service League.

Mr. Pierson, co-chairman, now associated with a petroleum company in New York City, served during the war as director of the USO at Houston, Texas. Prior to entering war work, Mr. Pierson had conducted a nursery business in Summit. He is a former member of the Summit Board of Education and a past-president of the Summit Rotary Club.

Harold T. Graves, Jr., is co-chairman of the Advance Gifts Committee, and Mrs. Samuel W. Eason is Commercial Chairman.

Officers of the Y.W.C.A. are President, Mrs. D. B. Baker; Vice-President, Mrs. Allen F. Maybee; Secretary, Mrs. Franklin L. Hunt; and Treasurer, Mrs. R. R. Diefendorf. Miss Cecelia Jeffry is the Executive Director.

Other members on the Board of Directors are Mrs. J. W. Albro, Mrs. A. J. Bartholomew, Miss Eleanor Bennett, Mrs. Merrel D. Booker, Miss Evelyn Boye, Mrs. E. C. Cornog, Mrs. James Cowan, Mrs. Robert Cowen, Mrs. Rudd A. Crawford, Miss Thelma Frumkin, Mrs. F. G. Eberhardt, Mrs. Henry W. Harding, Mrs. Norman W. Kershaw, Mrs. Warren S. Kimber, Miss Alzada Mitchell, Mrs. Norman Murray, Mrs. G. A. Nicollian, Mrs. W. F. Satterthwaite, Mrs. A. D. Schwarz, Mrs. W. W. Staplin, Mrs. Arthur Thomason, Miss Frances Waterman, Mrs. Gordon Weed, Mrs. E. R. Tomb, Mrs. A. C. Daum and Mrs. V. J. Vierling.

Registration Hours At City Clerk's Office

City Clerk Frederick C. Kentz' office, Municipal Building, is receiving registration of voters from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., weekdays and on Saturdays from 8:30 to 12 o'clock noon. On the evenings of April 22, 23, 24 and 25 the office will be open until 9 p. m., at which time books are closed. Naturalized citizens must take their naturalization certificates with them.

Veterans in particular are urged to see that they are properly registered. Many who voted military ballots are under the impression that they are still qualified to vote. This is not so. They must re-register. They should play safe and visit the city hall to see that they get on the polling list.

Information Window At Post Office

An information window has been opened at the Post Office in charge of William Matthews, postal employee. It is expected the window will relieve the pressure on some of the other departments, such as the stamp and general delivery windows.

Veterans' Queries

Q. A veteran in Cape May County asks if a disabled veteran can obtain a federal civil service job without examination.

A. The President recently signed an executive order permitting disabled veterans who have completed a vocational rehabilitation course in the particular field to be appointed to civil service jobs without regard to requirements of the civil service rules and other war service regulations.

Q. An Essex County reader writes, "I served six months in the Navy. Does this make me eligible to apply for a government endorsed loan to make the down payment on a home or to buy one?"

A. Yes. Any one who served 90 days or more and was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable between Sept. 16, 1940 and the official end of World War II as declared by Congress, is eligible.

Q. A woman in Passaic County asks, "If a veteran dies, after discharge, from disability due to service, are his dependents entitled to pension?"

A. Where death occurs after discharge, from a disability due to service, the widow, children, and dependent parents may make a claim for a pension. The Veterans' Administration naturally requires proper proof of relationship with such claims. An office of the New Jersey Division of Veterans' Services is located near your home, and there are similar offices in strategic towns and cities throughout the State. Such an office will assist you in making your application.

Q. A man who formerly served with the Coastguard asks, "I served in the United States for two years and was never on duty outside the country. Am I entitled to a pension?"

A. Pensions for veterans of both World War I and World War II are based on service connected, on total physical disability. If you have such a disability, you should file a claim with the Veterans' Administration. The service officer in any area office of the Division of Veterans' Services, or the headquarters office at Trenton will assist you in filing such a claim.

Q. The mother of a veteran in Burlington County asks if her son's discharge can be reviewed.

A. If he feels that his military service justified a more favorable discharge or dismissal than was received, he may at any time within 15 years request and receive a review of it, unless he was discharged or dismissed by general court-martial sentence. Subject to approval by the Secretary of War or of the Navy, the reviewing board may change or modify a discharge, or issue a new one, if evidence warrants. He should apply to the Division of Veterans' Services for assistance in requesting such review.

Answers to veterans' problems are supplied by the Division of Veterans' Services, Department of Economic Development, Trenton. Readers should send their questions to that address.

New Jersey Needs More Parkways; Recreation Spots

TRENTON—The need for additional parkways and public recreational facilities in New Jersey is indicated by the fact that the Garden State ranks second in America in the number of cars per square mile. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Economic Development declared today in announcing the completion of a survey of automobile registrations in the 48 states made by the Division of Planning and Engineering in the same department.

The analysis was carried out under the supervision of William T. Vanderlipp, Director of the Division of Planning and Engineering and showed that New Jersey has more automobile transportation available to its citizens than any similar highly developed state in the Union. It stands second only to Rhode Island in the number of cars per square mile of state area, New Jersey having 126.2 as against 157.6 in the latter state. Massachusetts is third with 100.6 cars per square mile, and Connecticutt ranks fourth with 85.3 cars per square mile.

Of the highly developed states of the Union, where there is an average of over 200 persons per square mile, New Jersey has a car for every 4.4 persons. This places New Jersey ahead of Pennsylvania and New York which have a car for every 5.3 and 5.6 persons, respectively.

According to Dr. Erdman, these figures show clearly that parkways or parkway treatment of major highways as a service to the general public is even more necessary for New Jersey than for its neighboring states. The survey also indicates that the citizens of New Jersey need public recreational facilities because of the high concentrations of population in this State and that if these facilities are provided in places accessible to adequate highways, citizens of the State have the transportation with which to patronize them. The studies demonstrate the need for a great expanded highway and parkway program, and are also being used to estimate potential private airplane ownership in the State.

MODERNIZE YOURSELF

Ever since the beginning of civilization, our ancestors for hundreds of generations have been using their heads to think up new ideas and improvements; new ways of doing things that may enable mankind to get more nearly the ideal results. From one generation to another, there has been a constant change in the style of clothes, hats, shoes, housing, foods, transportation, implements of warfare, etc.

The outstanding characteristic that has enabled the American people to make more rapid progress than other nationalities has been their ability and desire for progress and a willingness to adopt new and better ways. It has been said that the per capita consumption of soap and sulphuric acid are yardsticks that can be used in measuring the progress of civilization.

People everywhere have been quick to grasp the benefits of electricity in the production of light, heat and power, of the automobile, airplane, telephone, telegraph, radio, motion pictures, vacuum cleaners, refrigeration, washing machines, typewriters, adding machines and countless gadgets and contrivances. Think how proud George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln would be to to see the great strides that have been made individually and collectively in business, industry, education, etc., since their days.

When it comes to making an appraisal of individuals and their behavior and reactions with their fellow men, wouldn't they be horrified to see the crime and gambling going on, to see people in all walks of life committing suicide on the installment plan by following the wrong pattern of life that causes premature death, to see the warfare going on, right here in our midst between the forces of construction and the forces of destruction in which more people are being killed and injured by avoidable accidents than by all the wars in the history of our country?

Surely these great leaders of the past would be quick to see that what our country needs in order to accomplish its destiny in world leadership towards a lasting peace is to modernize and adopt a new pattern for a better way of life.

They would recognize at once how the old fashioned habits of their days of drinking coffee and liquor and smoking tobaco had gotten a grip on this present generation making them less fit to stand the stress and strain of the new high speed world.

Wouldn't they rejoice to see the transformation that is taking place in the lives of millions of our citizens as they adopt a new standard of conduct and get control of themselves?

Since you have modernized your external surroundings, isn't it wise to modernize internally by having your mouth reject all caffeine, nicotine and alcohol? By so doing, you will have better health, a clearer mind and be recognized as a modern up-to-date person willing to cooperate and help your fellow man. Try it for two weeks and note the money that you save and how much more alive you feel. Thanks for trying.

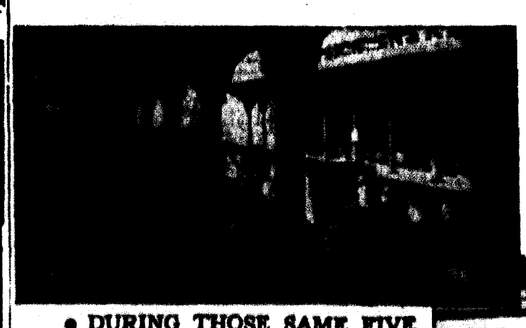
To People who are Asking the Question:

"ARE NEW JERSEY RAILROAD TAXES HIGH?"

A Statement of Facts by the Lackawanna Railroad...



• DURING THE FIVE YEARS of 1941 through 1945 total revenue derived by the Lackawanna Railroad from all passengers handled on its suburban trains in the entire State of New Jersey amounted to $27,599,531

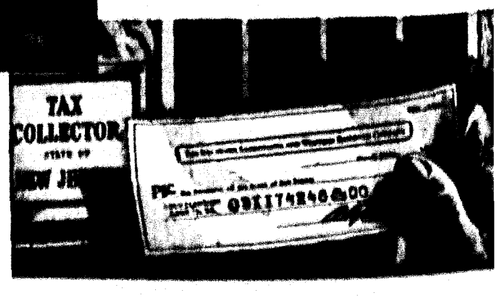
• DURING THOSE SAME FIVE YEARS, the Lackawanna Railroad paid to the State of New Jersey:

Current taxes amounting to	$15,568,033
Back taxes and interest amounting to	$15,606,215
TOTAL TAXES, 1941-1945	$31,174,248



And bear in mind this further fact...

OUT OF THE $27,599,531 of passenger revenues received during the five-year period, it was necessary for the Lackawanna
...to maintain its passenger equipment
...to pay its crews and ticket office personnel
...to maintain its passenger stations and its electric catenary,
...to pay for the electric power and coal it used to haul its passenger trains
...to operate and maintain its ferries and ferry stations
...to maintain its tracks, clear the snow from its platforms and pay personal injury claims

Lackawanna Railroad

Our Neighbors

EAST ORANGE — Things that go up must come down. The old Erie railroad station at Prospect street has been demolished, and the one at Brighton avenue must come down. This, according to Councilman Macwhitey of the First Ward. He said it is not only an eyesore but a fire hazard, firemen having recently been called there to put out a fire started by boys. Shelter will be erected to replace the stations. The first trains over this branch of the Erie began running in 1876. The line never has had much patronage, competition of the Lackawanna being too strong.

CHESTER—There is going to be a carnival here. Chester Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 is making plans for the affair, which will start on Independence day and carry on for the 5th and 6th. The closing event mentioned on the program will be the awarding of a 1947 sedan, make not so far mentioned. Mayor Charles Williamson is general chairman, assisted by Fire Chief Arnold Martenis, Paul Sutton, Henry Leck, George Shaefer and Ralph Barkman. In charge of publicity and advertising is Thomas P. Dean.

HIGH BRIDGE — According to "The High Bridge Gazette" this town's oldest resident has died. Mrs. Emma F. Apgar, who had passed her 93rd birthday, died Wednesday, April 10, in Somerset Hospital, Somerville. Mrs. Apgar was born in Califon, but had lived here 44 years. She was a member of the Reformed Church and it was through her influence that a missionary society was formed. She was its president for several years, and its honorary president when she died.

RIDGEWOOD—The Valley Hospital is richer by $5,000 because of a donation from the Kiwanis Club. Its president, John Brenner, forwarded to the campaign's chairman, Fred L. Kieser on Monday, April 8, a check for $3,150 and pledges sufficient to make up the balance. The money will be used to establish a private room in the hospital. Pledges gathered by the members and an entertainment recently held in the High School raised the gift.

ORANGE — Community Month ended here Saturday, April 6 with 4,500 attending the two-day exhibit which included a display of "secret" Army and Navy war material by the Thomas A. Edison and Monroe Calculating Machine companies. Vocational School students erected 40 booths for the display. Boy Scouts were in evidence during the two days, it being said that their rally was witnessed by a record audience. Many USO certificates were handed out, including one to Common Pleas Judge Richard Hartshorne by M. Raymond Riley. The Judge in turn presented one to Mr. Riley.

NEW VERNON—The ladies of the town have become interested in the firemen. Through them the Volunteer Fire Company headquarters has been decorated with new drapes and shades. In turn, the firemen have thanked the ladies for the improvement to the rooms. With such nice quarters the ladies might want to become "fire-eaters." They should make quite a splurge in fire-red jackets and trousers, with silver helmets. Watch out, ye vols. The company has received an invitation to participate in the ladder-raising and hose-laying contest to be held in Morris Plains in June at the Plains and VFW carnival.

MADISON—Reports have it that the AAUW during the week of April 1 conducted the most successful book sale in its history. A net profit of $650 was made on the disposal of 10,000 books. A portion of the money will go to the Fellowship Fund, part to the local library and the balance to some local educational project.

Traffic Conference

Governor Edge will speak at the opening of the First New Jersey Traffic Conference, an all-day Forum to be held April 25 at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton. William A. Wachenfeld, State Supreme Court Justice, will preside. The forum will be attended by judges, prosecutors, police officials and civic organizations from throughout the State.

The purpose of the session is to plan the development of more uniform procedure in handling traffic violations. The objective of the sponsors of the program is to improve cooperation between the public and law enforcement agencies and to eliminate the differences in different communities in handling traffic cases.

Last August the Labor Department has 6,346 employees; today it has about 35,000.

SEE PLEASURE-CRAFT VERSIONS OF THE SLEEK AND RUGGED BOATS WHICH MADE HISTORY IN THE WAR!

Higgins is to boats what sterling is to silver, what Macy's and Bamberger's are to retailing! Only natural then that Higgins, Macy's and Bamberger's should sponsor the first motor boat show New York has seen since 'way before the war'. Higgins landing boats poured millions of Allied Troops onto the beaches of Casablanca, Algiers, Sicily, Italy, Normandy, and the islands in the Pacific. Come see that same rugged construction, that same tough, stand-up-in-a-pinch quality in a new, streamlined post-war Higgins cruiser that's as luxurious as your latest post-war dreams! Higgins 17-foot de luxe utility run-about completely outclassed a fine field in the Pan American regatta held a few weeks ago at New Orleans. Come see this same slick champion with the special under-water hydromatic principle for more speed, more maneuverability—a patented feature greatly appreciated by officers and crews who served on Higgins PT boats during the war. Higgins boats are not for the champagne-and-caviar crowd alone. You may not be able to afford $50,000 for a 55-foot Higgins yacht to cruise Long Island Sound, but you can probably spend $165 for a sea-worthy 12-foot auto carry for weekends at Lake Mohawk or $410 for a 16-foot outboard runabout hull. But even if right now limited funds confine you to a rowboat on the Passaic River, come to this thrilling show and dream about the future with us!

- See streamlined pleasure craft version of famous Higgins landing boats!
- See amazing movies of these celebrated boats in actions!
- See peace-time version of famous Higgins droppable lifeboat which was parachuted from airplanes to rescue thousands of American pilots who crashed into the sea!
- See "PT Junior" hulls — developed from the famous Higgins motor torpedo boat that covered itself with glory in every theatre of the war!
- See sleek, trim Higgins PT Jr. cruisers, utility runabouts, auxiliary sloops, auto-carriers and sailboats!
- See outboards, yachts and other Higgins products in one colossal show you and the family mustn't miss!

Makes Report On Counseling For Veterans

Director of Guidance Services, Joseph G. Shuttlesworth, of the Summit Public Schools, on Friday reported on one of the services that the school is providing for returning veterans. The report, in part, follows:

"Since the beginning of the present school year we have seen this work develop into a job of major proportions. Few of us fully appreciate the magnitude of the government's program and its possible impact during the next few years. With a knowledge that more than $7,000,000 or as much as $8,000,000 is available for education and training of veterans in Summit alone, we can appreciate the importance of these people making the wisest possible decisions.

"On the basis of our experience with men who are reporting daily to the guidance office in the high school, it is evident that more than four hundred veterans will avail themselves of the guidance services of the school during the present school year. Many veterans are referred to the high school by the Veterans Service Center, though a large majority contact the school either because of local publicity or because it is the natural place to go for help. The large majority of these men are former students or former graduates which has demonstrated clearly the importance of maintaining an adequate system of personnel records in the school.

"It is not surprising to note the tremendous interest on the part of veterans who wish to take advantage of the educational benefits under the 'G1 Bill of Rights.' In recent months, however, we have seen an increasing interest in apprentice and on-the-job training. But as one works with these men he is impressed with the fact that you can't separate guidance into educational and vocational guidance—or in any other way for that matter. All kinds of individual problems and personal considerations are involved. However, the veteran's concern is basically vocational whether he is going to school or not. These men are much more inclined to consider just what they are going to do with a college education. They are more willing to recognize their strengths and weaknesses in making their choices than we might normally expect of the average high school senior. They are realistic and sincere—and there isn't the slightest evidence of veterans looking upon their educational opportunities as a free handout.

"A great deal has been written and much has been said in regard to the problems of the returning veteran. People have been unduly concerned with the thought that the veteran would be a greatly changed individual from the one who left to go into the service. Of course, he has changed as any other young person might be expected to change over a period of years as a result of new experiences and changes of environment. However, the vast majority of these men can be helped more easily if we take the point of view that they are one of us—not at all unlike young people who have had to make adjustments at any other time. In our anxiety to help there is also the ever-present danger of doing too much, which the counselor knows may be worse than doing too little. The veteran wants information and advice but like any other self-respecting individual, he is quite willing and anxious to help himself.

"Meeting the guidance of veterans brings into sharp focus the responsibility of the school for assisting out-of-school youth in making a satisfactory vocational adjustment. The need for vocational counseling, placement and follow-up after students leave school has been recognized as an important responsibility in our educational program for a long time. That is the responsibility we are attempting to meet at the present time. The cooperation of citizens and agencies in the community, personnel officials of industries nearby, various members of school and college staffs to whom these men are referred should result in better understanding and provide much valuable ground work upon which to build an effective program of guidance for the future."

He was specially invited to observe, for the Audubon Society, the DDT experiments conducted by the U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service, in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Entomology, at Moscow, Pa.

"The Audubon Society, although identified in the public mind chiefly with birds, is stressing more its interest in the relation of all the natural resources of the country, and is committed to an overall program of conservation," stated Elmore F. Furth, president of the Summit Nature Club.

Moving pictures will be shown of projects of interest to the Society.

Permission was granted the joint service men's organization including the two local legion posts and the V.F.W. to conduct a Memorial Day parade starting at 10.30 a. m.

Taxi Ordinance Introduced; Adopt Daylight Saving

and women. Plans also provide for a gymnasium, an assembly room with a completely equipped stage; a game room; a lounge, a snack bar and cafeteria; an adequate kitchen and club dining room.

Consulting architect of the proposed building is Louis Jallade of New York City, adviser to the National Board of the Y.W.C.A.

Building operations are planned to start as soon as current restrictions and materials become available. Y.W.C.A. officers stated that no effort would be made to start construction while the existing shortage of material for housing continues.

During construction the Y.W.C.A. will continue to occupy its present headquarters which will not be razed until the new building is completed.

The Y.W.C.A. was organized in Summit in 1919 with Mrs. C. E. Mosher, the first general secretary. From a nucleus of less than 10 members, the organization has grown until its present membership numbers 1,114.

The property on which the new building will be constructed was purchased by the Y.W.C.A. in 1924 from Miss Jeannette Bonnell who had been active in organizing the Association in Summit.

For the past 15 months a building committee headed by Mrs. Walsh, the general chairman of the campaign, has conducted a survey throughout the area to determine the type of facilities required in the proposed building. In addition to Mrs. Walsh, the new building committee included Mrs. Karl Keller, Mrs. Robert R. Diefendorf, Mrs. Robert Volkening, Mrs. H. Walford Martin, Mrs. Ernest P. Patten, Mrs. Allen F. Maybee, Mrs. V. J. Vierling and Mrs. Douglas B. Baker, President.

In addition to her activities with the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Walsh is a member of the Summit Junior Service League.

Mr. Pierson, co-chairman, now associated with a petroleum company in New York City, served during the war as director of the USO at Houston, Texas. Prior to entering war work, Mr. Pierson had conducted a nursery business in Summit. He is a former member of the Summit Board of Education and a past-president of the Summit Rotary Club.

Harold T. Graves, Jr., is co-chairman of the Advance Gifts Committee, and Mrs. Samuel W. Eason is Commercial Chairman.

Officers of the Y.W.C.A. are President, Mrs. D. B. Baker; Vice-President, Mrs. Allen F. Maybee; Secretary, Mrs. Franklin L. Hunt; and Treasurer, Mrs. R. R. Diefendorf. Miss Cecelia Jeffry is the Executive Director.

Other members on the Board of Directors are Mrs. J. W. Albro, Mrs. A. J. Bartholomew, Miss Eleanor Bennett, Mrs. Merrel D. Booker, Miss Evelyn Boye, Mrs. E. C. Cornog, Mrs. James Cowan, Mrs. Robert Cowen, Mrs. Rudd A. Crawford, Miss Thelma Frumkin, Mrs. F. G. Eberhardt, Mrs. Henry W. Harding, Mrs. Norman W. Kershaw, Mrs. Warren S. Kimber, Miss Alzada Mitchell, Mrs. Norman Murray, Mrs. G. A. Nicollian, Mrs. W. F. Satterthwaite, Mrs. A. D. Schwarz, Mrs. W. W. Staplin, Mrs. Arthur Thomason, Miss Frances Waterman, Mrs. Gordon Weed, Mrs. E. R. Tomb, Mrs. A. C. Daum and Mrs. V. J. Vierling.

Registration Hours At City Clerk's Office

City Clerk Frederick C. Kentz' office, Municipal Building, is receiving registration of voters from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., weekdays and on Saturdays from 8:30 to 12 o'clock noon. On the evenings of April 22, 23, 24 and 25 the office will be open until 9 p. m., at which time books are closed. Naturalized citizens must take their naturalization certificates with them.

Veterans in particular are urged to see that they are properly registered. Many who voted military ballots are under the impression that they are still qualified to vote. This is not so. They must re-register. They should play safe and visit the city hall to see that they get on the polling list.

Information Window At Post Office

An information window has been opened at the Post Office in charge of William Matthews, postal employee. It is expected the window will relieve the pressure on some of the other departments, such as the stamp and general delivery windows.

Veterans' Queries

Q. A veteran in Cape Map County asks if a disabled veteran can obtain a federal civil service job without examination.

A. The President recently signed an executive order permitting disabled veterans who have completed a vocational rehabilitation course in the particular field to be appointed to civil service jobs without regard to requirements of the civil service rules and other war service regulations.

Q. An Essex County reader writes, "I served six months in the Navy. Does this make me eligible to apply for a government endorsed loan to make the down payment on a home or to buy one?"

A. Yes. Any one who served 90 days or more and was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable between Sept. 16, 1940 and the official end of World War II as declared by Congress, is eligible.

Q. A woman in Passaic County asks, "If a veteran dies, after discharge, from disability due to service, are his dependents entitled to pension?"

A. Where death occurs after discharge, from a disability due to service, the widow, children, and dependent parents may make a claim for a pension. The Veterans' Administration naturally requires proper proof of relationship with such claims. An office of the New Jersey Division of Veterans' Services is located near your home, and there are similar offices in strategic towns and cities throughout the State. Such an office will assist you in making your application.

Q. A man who formerly served with the Coastguard asks, "I served in the United States for two years and was never on duty outside the country. Am I entitled to a pension?"

A. Pensions for veterans of both World War I and World War II are based on service connected, on total physical disability. If you have such a disability, you should file a claim with the Veterans' Administration. The service officer in any area office of the Division of Veterans' Services, or the headquarters office at Trenton will assist you in filing such a claim.

Q. The mother of a veteran in Burlington County asks if her son's discharge can be reviewed.

A. If he feels that his military service justified a more favorable discharge or dismissal than was received, he may at any time within 15 years request and receive a review of it, unless he was discharged or dismissed by general court-martial sentence. Subject to approval by the Secretary of War or of the Navy, the reviewing board may change or modify a discharge, or issue a new one, if evidence warrants. He should apply to the Division of Veterans' Services for assistance in requesting such review.

Answers to veterans' problems are supplied by the Division of Veterans' Services, Department of Economic Development, Trenton. Readers should send their questions to that address.

New Jersey Needs More Parkways; Recreation Spots

TRENTON—The need for additional parkways and public recreational facilities in New Jersey is indicated by the fact that the Garden State ranks second in America in the number of cars per square mile. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Economic Development declared today in announcing the completion of a survey of automobile registrations in the 48 states made by the Division of Planning and Engineering in the same department.

The analysis was carried out under the supervision of William T. Vanderlipp, Director of the Division of Planning and Engineering and showed that New Jersey has more automobile transportation available to its citizens than any similar highly developed state in the Union. It stands second only to Rhode Island in the number of cars per square mile of state area, New Jersey having 126.2 as against 157.6 in the latter state. Massachusetts is third with 100.6 cars per square mile, and Connecticutt ranks fourth with 85.3 cars per square mile.

Of the highly developed states of the Union, where there is an average of over 200 persons per square mile, New Jersey has a car for every 4.4 persons. This places New Jersey ahead of Pennsylvania and New York which have a car for every 5.3 and 5.6 persons, respectively.

According to Dr. Erdman, these figures show clearly that parkways or parkway treatment of major highways as a service to the general public is even more necessary for New Jersey than for its neighboring states. The survey also indicates that the citizens of New Jersey need public recreational facilities because of the high concentrations of population in this State and that if these facilities are provided in places accessible to adequate highways, citizens of the State have the transportation with which to patronize them. The studies demonstrate the need for a greatly expanded highway and parkway program, and are also being used to estimate potential private airplane ownership in the State.

MODERNIZE YOURSELF

Ever since the beginning of civilization, our ancestors for hundreds of generations have been using their heads to think up new ideas and improvements; new ways of doing things that may enable mankind to get more nearly the ideal results. From one generation to another, there has been a constant change in the style of clothes, hats, shoes, housing, foods, transportation, implements of warfare, etc.

The outstanding characteristic that has enabled the American people to make more rapid progress than other nationalities has been their ability and desire for progress and a willingness to adopt new and better ways. It has been said that the per capita consumption of soap and sulphuric acid are yardsticks that can be used in measuring the progress of civilization.

People everywhere have been quick to grasp the benefits of electricity in the production of light, heat and power, of the automobile, airplane, telephone, telegraph, radio, motion pictures, vacuum cleaners, refrigeration, washing machines, typewriters, adding machines and countless gadgets and contrivances. Think how proud George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln would be to to see the great strides that have been made individually and collectively in business, industry, education, etc., since their days.

When it comes to making an appraisal of individuals and their behavior and reactions with their fellow men, wouldn't they be horrified to see the crime and gambling going on, to see people in all walks of life committing suicide on the installment plan by following the wrong pattern of life that causes premature death, to see the warfare going on, right here in our midst between the forces of construction and the forces of destruction in which more people are being killed and injured by avoidable accidents than by all the wars in the history of our country?

Surely these great leaders of the past would be quick to see that what our country needs in order to accomplish its destiny in world leadership towards a lasting peace is to modernize and adopt a new pattern for a better way of life.

They would recognize at once how the old fashioned habits of their days of drinking coffee and liquor and smoking tobaco had gotten a grip on this present generation making them less fit to stand the stress and strain of the new high speed world.

Wouldn't they rejoice to see the transformation that is taking place in the lives of millions of our citizens as they adopt a new standard of conduct and get control of themselves?

Since you have modernized your external surroundings, isn't it wise to modernize internally by having your mouth reject all caffeine, nicotine and alcohol? By so doing, you will have better health, a clearer mind and be recognized as a modern up-to-date person willing to cooperate and help your fellow man. Try it for two weeks and note the money that you save and how much more alive you feel. Thanks for trying.

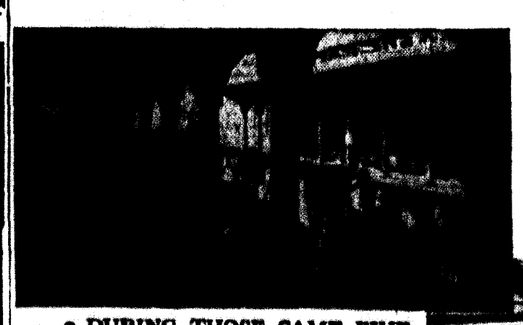
To People who are Asking the Question:

"ARE NEW JERSEY RAILROAD TAXES HIGH?"

A Statement of Facts by the Lackawanna Railroad...



• DURING THE FIVE YEARS of 1941 through 1945 total revenue derived by the Lackawanna Railroad from all passengers handled on its suburban trains in the entire State of New Jersey amounted to $27,599,531

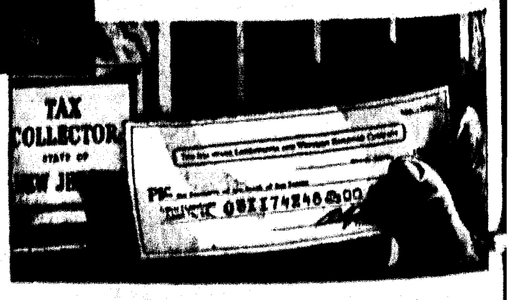
• DURING THOSE SAME FIVE YEARS, the Lackawanna Railroad paid to the State of New Jersey:

Current taxes amounting to	$15,568,033
Back taxes and interest amounting to	$15,606,215
TOTAL TAXES, 1941-1945	$31,174,248



And bear in mind this further fact...

OUT OF THE $27,599,531 of passenger revenues received during the five-year period, it was necessary for the Lackawanna
...to maintain its passenger equipment
...to pay its crews and ticket office personnel
...to maintain its passenger stations and its electric catenary,
...to pay for the electric power and coal it used to haul its passenger trains
...to operate and maintain its ferries and ferry stations
...to maintain its tracks, clear the snow from its platforms and pay personal injury claims.

Our Neighbors

EAST ORANGE — Things that go up must come down. The old Erie railroad station at Prospect street has been demolished, and the one at Brighton avenue must come down. This, according to Councilman Macwhitey of the First Ward. He said it is not only an eyesore but a fire hazard, firemen having recently been called there to put out a fire started by boys. Shelter will be erected to replace the station. The first trains over this branch of the Erie began running in 1876. The line never has had much patronage, competition of the Lackawanna being too strong.

CHESTER—There is going to be a carnival here. Chester Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 is making plans for the affair, which will start on Independence day and carry on for the 5th and 6th. The closing event mentioned on the program will be the awarding of a 1947 sedan, make not so far mentioned. Mayor Charles Williamson is general chairman, assisted by Fire Chief Arnold Martenis, Paul Sutton, Henry Leck, George Shaefer and Ralph Barkman. In charge of publicity and advertising is Thomas P. Dean.

HIGH BRIDGE — According to "The High Bridge Gazette" this town's oldest resident has died. Mrs. Emma F. Apgar, who had passed her 93rd birthday, died Wednesday, April 10, in Somerset Hospital, Somerville. Mrs. Apgar was born in Califon, but had lived here 44 years. She was a member of the Reformed Church and it was through her influence that a missionary society was formed. She was its president for several years, and its honorary president when she died.

RIDGEWOOD—The Valley Hospital is richer by $5,000 because of a donation from the Kiwanis Club. Its president, John Brenner, forwarded to the campaign's chairman, Fred L. Kieser on Monday, April 8, a check for $3,150 and pledges sufficient to make up the balance. The money will be used to establish a private room in the hospital. Pledges gathered by the members and an entertainment recently held in the High School raised the gift.

ORANGE — Community Month ended here Saturday, April 6 with 4,500 attending the two-day exhibit which included a display of "secret" Army and Navy war material by the Thomas A. Edison and Monroe Calculating Machine companies. Vocational School students erected 40 booths for the display. Boy Scouts were in evidence during the two days, it being said that their rally was witnessed by a record audience. Many USO certificates were handed out, including one to Common Pleas Judge Richard Hartshorne by M. Raymond Riley. The Judge in turn presented one to Mr. Riley.

NEW VERNON—The ladies of the town have become interested in the firemen. Through them the Volunteer Fire Company headquarters has been decorated with new drapes and shades. In turn, the firemen have thanked the ladies for the improvement to the rooms. With such nice quarters the ladies might want to become "fire-eaters." They should make quite a splurge in fire-red jackets and trousers, with silver helmets. Watch out, ye vols. The company has received an invitation to participate in the ladder-raising and hose-laying contest to be held in Morris Plains in June at the Plains and VFW carnival.

MADISON—Reports have it that the AAUW during the week of April 1 conducted the most successful book sale in its history. A net profit of $650 was made on the disposal of 10,000 books. A portion of the money will go to the Fellowship Fund, part to the local library and the balance to some local educational project.

Traffic Conference

Governor Edge will speak at the opening of the First New Jersey Traffic Conference, an all-day Forum to be held April 25 at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton. William A. Wachenfeld, State Supreme Court Justice, will preside. The forum will be attended by judges, prosecutors, police officials and civic organizations from throughout the State.

The purpose of the session is to plan the development of more uniform procedure in handling traffic violations. The objective of the sponsors of the program is to improve cooperation between the public and law enforcement agencies and to eliminate the differences in different communities in handling traffic cases.

Last August the Labor Department has 6,346 employees; today it has about 35,000.

SEE PLEASURE-CRAFT VERSIONS OF THE SLEEK AND RUGGED BOATS WHICH MADE HISTORY IN THE WAR!

Higgins is to boats what sterling is to silver, what Macy's and Bamberger's are to retailing! Only natural then that Higgins, Macy's and Bamberger's should sponsor the first motor boat show New York has seen since 'way before the war'. Higgins landing boats poured millions of Allied Troops onto the beaches of Casablanca, Algiers, Sicily, Italy, Normandy, and the islands in the Pacific. Come see that same rugged construction, that same tough, stand-up-in-a-pinch quality in a new, streamlined post-war Higgins cruiser that's as luxurious as your latest post-war dreams! Higgins 17-foot de luxe utility run-about completely outclassed a fine field in the Pan American regatta held a few weeks ago at New Orleans. Come see this same slick champion with the special under-water hydromatic principle for more speed, more maneuverability—a patented feature greatly appreciated by officers and crews who served on Higgins PT boats during the war. Higgins boats are not for the champagne-and-caviar crowd alone. You may not be able to afford $50,000 for a 55-foot Higgins yacht to cruise Long Island Sound, but you can probably spend $165 for a sea-worthy 12-foot auto carry for weekends at Lake Mohawk or $410 for a 16-foot outboard runabout hull. But even if right now limited funds confine you to a rowboat on the Passaic River, come to this thrilling show and dream about the future with us!

- See streamlined pleasure craft version of famous Higgins landing boats!
- See amazing movies of these celebrated boats in actions!
- See peace-time version of famous Higgins droppable lifeboat which was parachuted from airplanes to rescue thousands of American pilots who crashed into the sea!
- See "PT Junior" hulls — developed from the famous Higgins motor torpedo boat that covered itself with glory in every theatre of the war!
- See sleek, trim Higgins PT Jr. cruisers, utility runabouts, auxiliary sloops, auto-carriers and sailboats!
- See outboards, yachts and other Higgins products in one colossal show you and the family mustn't miss!

THE "GANGSTER" MUST BE SLAIN

That "gangster," cancer, that has been killing peoples of the world since first man roamed the earth, must be slain.

Cancer has now reached a stage where it is the second greatest killer of the human race—exceeded only by diseases* of the heart—it is the most dreaded disease; and it is an insidious disease, one that we do not like to talk very much about.

Cancer is worse than war, for wars do end even though the respite in the past has not been for long. Cancer killed more people from Pearl Harbor to V-J Day (607,000 Americans alone), more than twice as many as were killed by the Germans and Japs. It is right now causing the deaths of 175,000 Americans a year, one every three minutes. It is the greatest killer of women between the ages of 35 and 54, the second greatest killer of American men.

While cancer can in many instances be cured if discovered in time there must be more cured if any appreciable advance against the disease is made. This can be accomplished in two ways—more people arranging for stated periodic examinations and the discovery of a more effective cure.

The latter can only be accomplished through the furnishing of more funds for scientific research. This is recognized, for this month is set aside for the raising of $12,000,000 throughout the United States by the American Cancer Society. The amount to be raised by our state is $500,000, of which Union county's share is $50,000.

During this week every family in the city has, or will have, received cancer literature which they are asked to read carefully in order to become more familiar with the cancer problem. Then, knowing the ravages of the disease, plus the fact that some member of their own family may be laid low by cancer, they are asked to make a contribution to the fund if they have not already made one. Checks should be made payable to J. S. Byland, Treasurer, American Cancer Society, Summit Chapter, c/o The Summit Trust Company.

Every contribution not only makes the donor a member of the American Cancer Society but it has given, in addition, the opportunity to make an investment in the future of his own children and their children's children and all American men and women; also those of the whole world—the giving of the cup of cold water.

* Cancer is not a disease, though usually referred to as such.

EASTER

The churches of Summit are prepared to celebrate with songs of joy on Sunday the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Child of the Bethlehem manger, the Nazarene who was not ashamed to wash the feet of His disciples. This observance completes the cycle from the manger to the cross on Calvary, the waiting tomb and the triumph over death by the resurrection.

Before fulfilling the Scripture, Christ said: "let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I come again, and will receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

While man from the beginning has hailed the coming of Spring, with buds of bush and tree and flower springing forth after the Winter death, it was not until centuries later that he faintly grasped the idea of a Supreme Being, a God over all, and then that God took various forms, and different interpretations. Centuries later the Christian religion, with its monotheistic worship was developed by the Hebrew prophets and it was from this race that the Saviour of the world was to come. And it was not until after His death that the full meaning of this death was realized as we know it today.

From three centuries after the crucifixion Christians have not failed to observe a day set aside in memory of our Saviour. It was He who instilled into the hearts of His followers the principle of immortality, that the life here is a preparation for a richer life beyond, after death.

Immortality is a pleasant thought to carry with one, but it must not be forgotten that to obtain this immortality one must not forget the fact that it is necessary to lead a good life here and also that the sins we have committed must be forgiven through Christ. Henry Van Dyke expresses it this way:

"And is not now the best of all our hopes—the hope of immortality dull and heavy while we have that new experience to look forward to? It will be the most joyful of all our travels and adventures. It will bring us our best acquaintances and friendships. But there is only one way to get ready for immortality and that is to love this life, live it as bravely and cheerfully and faithfully as we can."

Most glorious Lord of life, that on this day
Didst make Thy triumph over death and sin,
And, having harrowed hell, didst bring away
Captivity thence captive, us to win;
This joyous day, dear Lord, with joy begin,
And grant that we, for whom thou didst die,
Being with Thy dear blood clean washed from sin,
May live forever in felicity;
And that Thy love we weighing worthily,
May likewise love for the same again
And for Thy sake, that all like dear didst buy,
With love may one another entertain.
So let us love, dear love, like as we ought;
Love is the lesson which the Lord us taught.—Spenser.

Shocking Message to Us

To The Summit Herald:

It was a shockingly grim but convincing message that the large audience in the High School Auditorium last Thursday evening received from the lips of a remarkable young man, Norman Cousins. A young man so rich in achievements as to command respect before he spoke, and, when he spoke, so obviously sure of his facts and so aware of the gravity of what he said, that no word could be discounted.

Yet Mr. Cousins was not telling us anything we had not read or heard before. He used well known historical works, and General Marshall's Report, and "One World or None" as authority for his most alarming statements. He simply set the terrific facts in orderly columns, added them up, and gave us the sum total.

It is this: that, according to the physical scientists and the military authorities, there is no defence, and can be none, against atomic weapons of warfare; whole cities and their environs, and a number simultaneously, can be obliterated by missiles launched from places so distant and at such speed that it will be practically impossible to know where the destruction comes from or who is the enemy.

According to the scientists who evolved the atomic bomb there is no real secret about the formula. Scientists everywhere know it, or will know it soon; the obstacle is only one of production, and this deterrent can be overcome, the scientists say, by any country now working upon the problem, in a matter of two years.

Mr. Cousins declared that the one hope of salvation, security, is a real world government, one having jurisdiction over the individual. It must be just such jurisdiction and authority as our Federal Government has over the individual citizen of any state in our Union. To secure this there must be the same abrogation of sovereignty by nations as was ceded by the individual states—the erstwhile American colonies—in order to create the United States of America.

Mr. Cousins startled some of us by stating that the efforts of China, Great Britain, and smaller nations at San Francisco to make the United Nations such a real world government was blocked by Russia and the United States, and that the United States as well as Russia had insisted upon the one-power veto that makes the United Nations discouragingly futile in the opinion of many of us.

If the civilization that is known as democracy is to survive, the United States must take the lead, exert the leadership already acknowledged by the world. But the people of the United States must themselves take the responsibility of leadership. The President cannot assume such a leadership without the co-operation of Congress unless we, the people, urge it so insistently that our desire cannot be disregarded.

And Congress? Some members are awake to the danger, and are on the job,—but too few seem to be taking their responsibility seriously. Can we look for a coherent, persistent, effective demand for a transformation of the United Nations into a real federal world government from men who are so unaware of their duty as legislators that they absent themselves from roll-call vote on important measures over and over again. But let us get after them—write to them—not once, but regularly—often.

We, the comfort-craving, pleasure-pursuing, peace-loving, busy people of the U.S.A., had better wake up and bestir ourselves individually and in mass, and get a real world government, a federal world government that cannot be hoodwinked, equipped to outlaw all instruments of mass destruction, before those two years are up—OR ELSE!

And may I remind the Herald readers that in 1938—before Germany had invaded Poland—an American named Clarence Streit stood up before the people of the world and "cried with a loud voice", through his book "Union Now", that the democracies must unite in a Federal Union—for mutual protection and as a nucleus for a future world government in which all nations would be represented. He called upon the people of the democracies to work—and to work fast. He warned that war was imminent, but he believed that it might be staved off by such a Union. He warned that, if they didn't unite, the democracies might be conquered one by one. And one by one the smaller countries fell.

Clarence Streit was a prophet crying in the wilderness. And those who listened to him and organized to work for a federal union of democracies as a start toward a world federal government, were looked upon as impractical idealists, utopians, visionaries, even fanatics. That was only eight years ago. Now we have a United Nations world organization — full of faults and weakness, but capable of being transformed into a strong federal world government—if enough of us insist upon it.

There are those who believe in regional unions within the United Nations. There are those who believe that Russia is already such a union—with definite plans for bringing in more territory. Why not a Federal Union of Democracies with all the security for our way of life, all the privileges and benefits such Union could mean, within the United Nations. It is not visionary. We can have it if we cast fear aside and really believe that democracy, freedom of opportunity, freedom of speech, government of the people by the people for the people, is the true ideal of government. Believe it as deeply and as fervently as the Russian people and their rulers believe that communism, with all its implications, is the hope of the world.

LOUISE REVERE MORRIS.

Clarification Needed

The subject of released-time for religious education presents various sides which are controversial and unfortunately considerable misunderstanding on aspects which are assumed to be controversial but on which those who favor the plan whole-heartedly and those who oppose it are in complete agreement.

Both groups earnestly desire more and better religious education. Some of us doubt whether the plan proposed would or could provide this. Religious training is a primary responsibility of the home and of the church. Anything which tends to remove this responsibility and to allow the home and the church to pass the buck to the schools will ultimately result in less sound training. The fifth grade children are free by the middle of the afternoon and have little home work, they have time for dancing classes, movies and radio programs so that one cannot help questioning the validity or sincerity of the statement that there is no time for religious training. Granted that one hour on Sunday morning is inadequate, I am curious to know how many of the school children are enrolled in Sunday school and, more important, how many are taught that regular attendance is as important on Sundays as on week days, how many would have encouragement in doing home work for Sunday school. Until Sunday school is taken more seriously I can see little hope of real benefit from released-time classes. I am also curious to know whether in communities which have tried the released-time plan Sunday school attendance has increased or decreased.

Several points in the recent statement by ten Summit ministers invite comment and require clarification:

1. "Our public schools do not belong to the 'State' except as the 'State' represents the people of Summit. 'School' time is parent's and pupil's time."

The schools receive financial support from the state. School policy should be determined on a broad basis and not governed entirely by the wishes of parents of children in the fifth grade or by parents in a single community. Democracy represents the will of the majority but must never fail to safeguard the rights of minorities nor must a local majority be allowed to negate the underlying principles of democracy. In colonial days in Massachusetts the religious majority persecuted and banished Baptists and Quakers. In Virginia political rights were limited to members of the Episcopal Church, the school where sectarian parochial schools which members of all faiths were required to support financially. More recently church groups in Tennessee have attempted to use coercion in dictating the teaching of science in the public schools. In each case democracy was frustrated by the fallacy of the idea that a local majority could impose its will.

2. "Any parent can take the full time of his child and send him to a Catholic, Baptist, Unitarian or any other kind of school if he desires."

This may be true in theory but in most communities it is obviously untrue in fact. Moreover most parents are conscienciously opposed to segregation whether it be on racial or on religious grounds. The unifying influence of public school education is precious to many people who dread any attempt to emphasize diversity of belief or of background.

3. "In Newton, Mass . . . there is no school held on Tuesday or Friday afternoons."

The foolishness of this is irrelevant. To dismiss all children from school is quite different from allowing certain children to leave school for sectarian religious training while their classmates are kept in school for an hour of non-essential work.

4. "After seeing what has happened to minorities in contries where the State attempted to subordinate or eliminate the Church they feel compelled to doubt the wisdom of their judgment." (What judgment? That "freedom lies in the fact that throughout American history Church and State have gone side by side"?)

"To refuse to allow parents the privilege of including religion as part of the total educational development of the child (but under Church auspices) is to deny the religious liberty fundamental to this conception."

These statements seem confused and illogical and frankly, I see no connection between them and the issues involved. No one knows better than teachers that total education is not confined to school hours any more than religion is bounded by the period between the opening and closing hymns.

The solution to the problem of better religious training is not easy and is one which will require clear thinking, generous co-operative effort and much good will. The good work which the schools are doing in ethical and social training and in serving as forces of unification and tolerance should be respected and upheld. The Sunday schools should be supported and strengthened and the parents should take active steps toward assuming and meeting their responsibilities, providing a religious atmosphere in the home and knowing what their children are learning in Sunday school. We should not jump at released-time as an easy solution, nor should we be blind to the weakness and danger of this proposed solution.

Very truly yours,
EVELYN HOLT.

Facts You Should Know About Cancer

Who can develop Cancer? Cancer strikes young and old alike.
This year nearly 2,000 boys and girls will die of it before they reach 21 years of age.
Cancer is the greatest and cruelest killer of women between the ages of 35 and 55.
Cancer is the second greatest killer of men.
It will kill one out of every eight Americans now living.
17 million in all, unless it is controlled. 175,000 a year, 478 every day, 20 every hour, one every 3 minutes.

Can Cancer be controlled? Yes! On the basis of present knowledge above, from 30% to 50 % of all cancer can be cured through early recognition and effective treatment.

How can Cancer be controlled? (1) Through wide public education so that symptoms will be recognized and treatment begun earlier.
(2) Through providing more clinical facilities and training for treatment.
(3) Through the proposed great coordinated program of research under the nation's foremost scientific advisory group. Funds for these three programs are being sought this month throughout the nation and in your town.

What can you do about these facts? (1) Guard your own health and that of your family. (2) Support your local Field Army of the American Cancer Society. (3) Give to the Cancer Control Campaign this month. Send your contribution to J. S. Byland, treasurer of the local campaign, at the Summit Trust Company.

Honking Horns

To The Summit Herald:

Is there no way of penalizing the selfish laziness of persons who park in front of the apartment houses at all hours of the night, and "honk" their horns to call out members of their family? It is a simple matter to mount the steps, and push the button which connects only with the rooms where the party wanted is merrymaking. Last Thursday night at 2:30 a. m. a car drove up, radio blaring, and "honked" twice, in several sets. A few minutes later the lady emerged, and the car drove away. Ten minutes later another car repeated the program, not quite so vigorously.

Must small children and sick people be thus disturbed? An apartment house is a community of homes, and not a road house.

An Indignant Sufferer.

A Critical Point

To The Summit Herald:

The Minister's statement which appeared in last week's Herald brought out a critical point with the words: "Throughout American history, the Church and State have gone side by side."

The problem of keeping these two forces "side by side" is one of the issues involved in Release Time, and I believe that when Church and State interlock, a retrogression occurs.

I would like to see a clarification of the statement that "the public school does not belong to the State, except as the State represents the people of Summit."

Since the public schools of New Jersey are subsidized by state funds, I cannot see how it can be denied that in some measure the schools belong to the State as well as to the local community.

Tax Griping

The average American does enjoy "griping" about the tax rate in his own district and Summit residents, under the skin, are average Americans. One of our midwestern Congressmen recently speaking in the House of Representatives, said: "Some folks are parasites. They want to live in comfort without making their fair contribution to the welfare of all. They are insistent and loud-mouthed, though comparatively few in number. They, their theories and their demands are the cause of much of our trouble."

Before we say too much about our City tax rate let me call attention to some pertinent facts.

For the calendar year 1944, the amount of alcoholic beverage taxes and quantity thereof sold in New Jersey are as follows:

Beer		[illegible]
Liquor		6,740,[illegible]

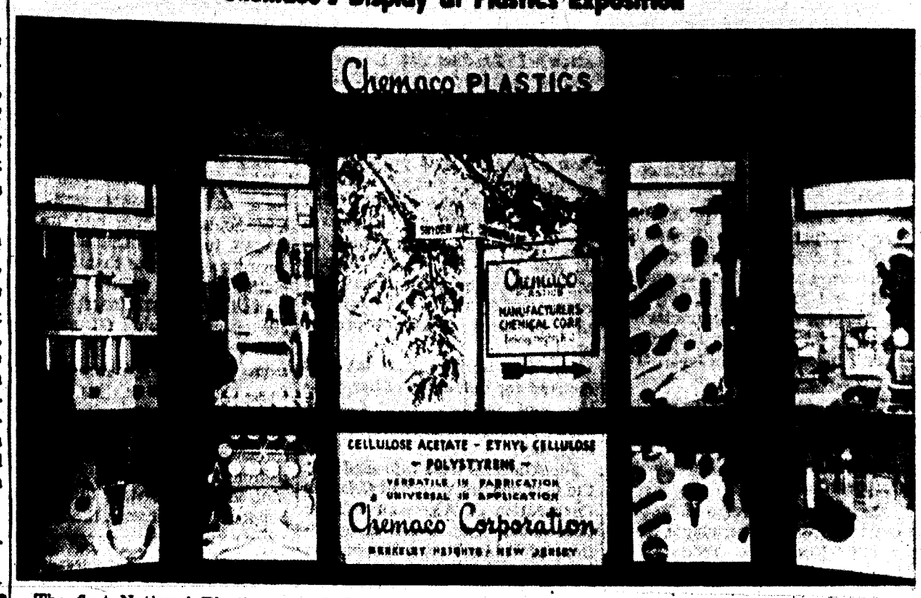
Chemaco's Display at Plastics Exposition



The first National Plastics Exposition sponsored by the Society of the Plastics Industry, Inc., will be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, April 22 through the 27. This exposition will symbolize an industry that has come of age.

To a public that has heard many tales about plastics, the exposition will bring information that is factual. Hundreds of new plastic products and plastic adaptations, many of them heralded in print during the war years of scarcity, will be available for inspection. For the first time, the public will find it possible to acquire first-hand information about the actualities and potentialities of plastics for contributing to greater comfort, convenience, well-being, and beauty, in the home, in public places, in transportation, at play and in industry.

The exposition will tell the whole story of all the plastics, what they can do, how they can do it. The Chemaco Corporation of nearby Berkeley Heights will be represented on the main floor by a display showing the versatility of Chemaco plastics as well as a small injection molding machine showing the actual formation of Chemaco Plastics into a finished product. In fact, everything in plastics will be paraded at the show by the industry's foremost materials manufacturers, molders, laminators, service organizations, and machinery builders.

The first three days' attendance will be limited to the members and their guests of the Society of the Plastics Industry. The last three days will be open to the general public. Thursday and Friday the exposition will be open from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m., and the last day, Saturday, from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Army Commendation Ribbon to Lt. Col. Luper

Lt. Col. Oral L. Luper of Beech Spring drive was among the 19 officers and enlisted men of the Jersey City Quartermaster Depot awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon by Col. Frank A. Heywood QMC, commanding officer, at a recent ceremony.

The award was accompanied by the following citation: "During World War II the Quartermaster Corps successfully accomplished its mission of supplying the United States Army and many of our Allies. This task was made possible only through the combined efforts of all Quartermaster personnel. Your service with the Quartermaster Corps has been exceptional when compared with others of the same grade in similar positions and I wish to commend you for your outstanding contribution."

During the war, the Jersey City Quartermaster Depot was one of the largest Quartermaster installations in this country and was assigned the complex mission of purchasing, inspecting, transporting, receiving and shipping of vital Army stores of food, clothing and equipment. Some of the products for which the depot purchased the entire Army's needs were coffee, sugar, salt and post exchange items.

American Legion Engages Barnet Band for Dance

North Jersey music lovers and dancers will soon have the opportunity of seeing and hearing Charlie Barnet and his famous orchestra. This top band has been engaged by Chatham Post, 92, American Legion for a spring dance, open to the public, to be held Wednesday, May 15 at Farley's Morris & Essex Rollerdrome, Route 24, Morris Turnpike, at Springfield, N. J. Admission is $3.30 per couple, including tax, and proceeds of the dance will be used for the Post's building fund.

Charlie Barnet is one of the leading recording bands in the country. When the orchestra first began putting musical impressions on wax they recorded for Decca their theme song, "Make Believe Ballroom" with the Modernaires Quartette doing the vocalizing. The song became famous throughout the country and has since been used as the theme of numerous musical record programs.

His recording of "Cherokee" took the country by storm. Within a few days after release every record store was completely sold out of this number. His list of discs reads like a chart of best sellers; they represent a series of selected tunes done in the perfect tempo of the typical Barnet rhythm, with excellent vocals deftly woven in.

Now as an exclusive Decca artist, his latest releases include, "Come Out, Come Out," "What a Difference a Day Makes," "Saltin' Away My Sweet Dreams," "My Heart Isn't In It," "Sittin' Home Waitin'," "I Like to Riff,' "Oh Miss Jackson," and his ever popular "Black Magic."

The orchestra, with its featured vocalists, will appear direct from an engagement at the 400 Club in New York City and will play from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Chatham Legion, or by writing to Chatham Post, 92, American Legion, Chatham, N. J., or at the door on the night of the dance.

NEW DUPONT HOUSE PAINT
keeps white houses WHITER

Starts dazzling white... contains the whitest paint pigment known!

STAYS whiter—it literally cleans itself during every hard rain!

Excellent hiding and fast, easy application!

Looks better longer... needs fewer repaintings!

New "Self-Cleaning" formula now available in light colors, too.

IT'S brilliantly white... tough... durable! Du Pont House Paint keeps houses beautiful because it stays cleaner! Here's why:—

Du Pont Prepared Paint forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it, and exposing a fresh white surface. This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Its economy lies in the fact that it stretches the time between paintings. Remember: Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints. Ask your painting contractor to use it!

Roofing, Siding, Insulating Guild Hear Col. Hoffman; Protest CPA

"Everyone can't get to the top," Col. Harold G. Hoffman, guest speaker, declared as he addressed the Roofing, Siding and Insulating Guild of New Jersey at a dinner meeting Friday night at the Military Park Hotel, Newark. Colonel Hoffman made a plea for a return to fundamentals of the American way of life.

Guest of honor at the dinner was Don Lingenfelder of Roselle Park, a former president of the N. J. Guild, who was recently elected president of the North Eastern Roofing, Siding and Insulating Contractors of America. Representatives of the parent association were present from Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The meeting adopted a resolution protesting a recent order of the Civilian Production Administration, as follows:

"WHEREAS, on March 26, 1946, without warning to the roofing siding and insulating contractors of this state and the country at large, the Civilian Production Administration caused to be issued Order SPR45, which limit the maintenance and repair of structures to $400 without first securing a permit to proceed with such maintenance and repair

'AND WHEREAS, such limitation is not in the interest of the owner of a structure whose maintenance and repair is always and immediate emergency

"AND WHEREAS, because of the fact so much red tape is necessary to get a permit, the emergency maintenance and repair delay may cause great damage to the premises while awaiting the permit

"AND WHEREAS, more than 75 per cent of contracts for roofing, siding and insulating maintenance and repair amount to more than $400 thus leaving the established roofing, siding and insulating contractor with but 25 per cent of normal business on which he can depend to keep his selling and applying personnel employed.

"AND WHEREAS, all roofing, siding and insulating contractors have made every effort to employ veterans as salesmen and mechanics and employ veterans formerly working for them who will be unnecessary to carry on such a small percentage of definite jobs without the uncertainty of delay and refusal of permits

"AND WHEREAS, the material used in the full and normal application of roofing, siding and insulating is so minor in comparison with the Veterans Emergency Housing program as to have no impact on the ability to carry it to a successful conclusion

"THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that first of all we are in complete agreement with the necessity for immediate erection of sufficient housing facilities to give every returning veteran satisfactory living accommodations

"AND FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED, that it is the belief of the roofing, siding and insulating contractors, manufacturers, distributors, representatives of lending agencies and of credit reporting companies assembled in session at the Newark Athletic Club in Newark, N. J., on Friday, April 12, 1946, for the regular quarterly meeting of the Roofing, Siding and Insulating Guild of New Jersey, that the Order SPR45 will retard rather than hasten the proper housing facilities under the Veterans Emergency Housing Program and that veterans who have been looking forward to home and fireside will be deterred from gaining their desire

"AND FINALLY BE IT RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, the Senators and Congressmen representing the great state of New Jersey and to all administrators of the agencies under which Order SPR45 operates."

Celanese Stockholders Informed of Progress

Stockholders of Celanese Corporation of America at its recent meeting were informed by W. McC. Cameron, first vice-chairman, of progress being made in the company's current $40,000,000 expansion program. This program will increase production at existing plants and will also extend to new plants and facilities at Bridgewater, Va., Summit and Belvidere, N. J., and Rock Hill, S. C. Among other things the program calls for expansion of staple fibre production to three times its present level.

Mr. Cameron pointed out that demand for Celanese textiles, plastics and chemicals still far exceeds production facilities of the company.

Stockholders were informed that the first quarter report of Celanese Corporation of American will reflect about eight weeks of operations of Tubize Rayon Corporation which earlier this year was merged into Celanese.

All directors were re-elected.

Hill City Savings And Loan Association Has Successful Year

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Hill City Savings and Loan Association held last night, April 17, John G. Voegtlen, secretary, reported that the assets of the association had increased 26% for the year to a total of $1,789,560.54 and that sharehólders savings had increased 14% to $1,449,594.25. Mr. Voegtlen further reports that the association granted 67 new mortgage loans totaling $379,051.00, a number of these being GI mortgage loans.

The net earnings for the year were $34,663.37. Of this amount, $27,091.54 was paid in dividends to shareholders and the balance transferred to reserves for the protection of shareholders.

Although there was little or no building the past year, the association had a most successful year. With the Veterans Administration guaranty of $4,000 on GI mortgage loans and the release of materials for construction, the prospects for the future are encouraging.

Light on Vet's Financial Needs

Q.—Does New Jersey pay a bonus to World War II veterans?

A.—Not at the present time, but it is being discussed in the legislature. Veterans who own real property are entitled to a $500 tax exemption if they apply for it at the office of their local tax collector.

Q.—Can a veteran receiving disability pension, compensation, retirement pay or subsistence allowance apply to his VA office and have his National Service Life Insurance premiums deducted from his monthly benefits?

A.—Yes. Veterans can apply to their VA office and have their premiums deducted from these monthly benefits, provided that the monthly payments are large enough to cover the amount deducted for insurance premiums.

Q.—I understand that I can now receive medical treatment through a private physician on a service connected disability. How can this be arranged?

A.—A veteran who needs treatment goes to his physician who asks authorization from the VA through the Medical Service Administration. When this is received the treatment is begun. In emergency cases, where there is a presumption that the illness is service connected, the VA will assume responsibility for the doctor's fee pending determination of the claim.

Q.—I want to take on-the-job training. But, in the trade I want to learn, workers always supply their own tool kits. Can the Veterans Administration help me with this?

A.—The Veterans Administration is authorized to furnish tools of the trade valued up to $100, under certain conditions, to a veteran who is training on-the-job, if such equipment is not customarily furnished by the employer.

Q.—The house I want to buy is priced at $7,000. I have saved $1,000 that I can pay outright. Can I get a VA loan guarantee of $3,500 (half of the purchase price) or of only $3,000 (half of what I need to borrow)?

A.—The VA loan guarantee in your case will be 50 per cent of $6,000. The amount of guarantee is 50 per cent and may not exceed a maximum of $4,000.

Q.—I know I can advance myself considerably on my job if I take a night course. I am eligible for an education course, but can I take it while I hold a full-time job?

A.—Yes, but you are not eligible for subsistence allowance.

Appointments At Lyons Hospital

Three new appointments, two in the nursing division and one in the administrative branch, were recently announced at the Veterans Hospital at Lyons.

Miss Cynthia Hennessy, affiliated with the Veterans Administration since 1935, has been appointed chief nurse and Miss Elsie Kohn has been made chief instructor of cadet nursing. In addition to these two appointments, Harold H. Kisler, former utility officer at veterans' hospitals in Dwight, Ill., Cheyenne, Wyo., Fayette, Ark., and Tuscaloosa, Ala., succeeds Edgar F. Shaner as hospital utility officer. The latter is now director of construction in the VA Branch 3 office, Philadelphia, which supervises VA activities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware.

A graduate of St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, Miss Hennessy has been at Lyons hospital since June, 1942, when she was assigned as head nurse. In 1944 she was appointed assistant chief nurse.

Miss Kohn is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin School of Nursing and took a one-year postgraduate course in psychiatric training Institute of Living, Hartford, Conn. As instructor of cadet nursing, Miss Kohn is setting up an educational program for senior cadet-student nurses in their last six months of training as hospital attendants.

Photography For Veterans

As an outgrowth of the training carried on in military hospitals the War Service Photography Department of the American Women's Voluntary Services, will open a new course in Orange, in avocational photography for disabled veterans or veterans showing medical discharges from Army, Navy or Marine hospitals, it was announced today by Miss Anne Lucke, chairman, Orange, AWVS War Service Photography.

Enrolments for the new course are now being taken at AWVS headquarters, 385 Main street, Orange, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 1:30 to 9:30, and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:30. Applicants must show their medical discharge certificates. There will be a laboratory cost of five dollars ($5) payable upon registration.

Training will cover use of view cameras, principles of lighting for still life, portraiture and copying, instruction in the use of hand cameras for outdoor and indoor work, light meters, film developing, contact printing including making postcards and match covers, enlarging, practice in photo oil coloring and retouching.

Guest speakers will be invited to lecture on photographic subjects and occasional field trips will be planned so that the students may have an opportunity to photograph picturesque spots in New Jersey.

EASTER CHURCH SERVICES IN YOUR

THE DOCTRINE OF HUMAN DIGNITY

Christ brought to a dispirited world the doctrine of human dignity. His lesson is still to be learned.

He spoke to men whose worth to themselves had dropped to the cost of keeping alive, and He spoke of self-esteem. Only a few listened, only a remnant understood. To this offal of the social order Christ brought the doctrine of the dignity of the individual.

Nor did He leave that thought in a doctrinal vacuum, but He implemented it with a promise: the immediacy of the Kingdom of God—on earth as it is in Heaven. "It is your Father's wish to give you the kingdom."

And of that kingdom, is it not that justice shall have its turn, that the reign of legalized injustice by which man is robbed of his products and his self-esteem shall be no more?

"On earth as it is in Heaven." Whatever Heaven connotes to the theologian, to the layman it sublimates the highest aspiration of the human spirit—which is Freedom. Can a Heaven which embraces slavery, economic or political, have any meaning? It is fantastic, blasphemous, if you will, to speak of Heaven-on-earth as a place where one man must pay another for the privilege of living. Surely, the Milky Way has not been reduced to private ownership, nor are the Elysian Fields pre-empted and for sale.

He who brought this message of Justice and Freedom to a world from which Freedom and Justice had been banished by Avarice and Power was crucified. It is to man's everlasting sorrow and disgrace that the message itself all but died with him. For not once during these nineteen centuries has man been free from poverty, from oppression, from war. Always the dignity of the person is whittled away by the ruthlessness of a self-seeking few, aided and abetted by the prevailing pharisaism. Currently, it is the subtle soporific of the planned economy.

Via Dolorosa

Could we but comprehend the Master Mind
In meditation on that ponderous Way,
Unuttered truth and wisdom we would find
For this our darkened and bewildered day.
His arm was burdened with the weight of wood—
Wood He had loved to handle as a lad;
And nails were waiting where the soldiers stood—
Nails He had hammered when His heart was glad.
Now His surrendered life would sorely end
Impaled upon the implements of youth.
"No greater love hath any man for friend."
Himself must work His words to try His truth.
God, help us dedicate our deadly tools
To Him, before they prove that we are fools!

—EDNA VOORHEES DAWSON

Prayers for "United Nations"

May God's wise will prevail among these nations
Which now are called united but are free.
May every one seek closest harmony,
With patience governing their close relations,
With watchfulness for foolish implications
And generous respect—Aye; this must be Apparent when they do not all agree—

While friendliness should rule on all occasions.
Our brothers, kinsmen, gather in these halls,
Who never should be parted by high walls.
God, in a world which mingles more and more,
Must surely seek for peace on every shore.
So Christly invocations range the air,
With unity their pledge and earnest prayer.

The annual "spring cleaning sale" held by the Fortnightly Club each April to raise money for its welfare work, will occur next week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 25, 26, and 27, in the showrooms of Stefart-Reese Chevrolet, 215 Springfield avenue, whose proprietors have contributed the space.

Some of the articles already donated are several sun lamps; a piano bench; salt and pepper shakers; curtains; dishes; and an English fire-screen.

Pictures and picture frames are always among the things on sale. One of the committee was asked last week by her dentist when the sale was to be held, as he needed to change the pictures in the waiting room, and had found that he could do this very satisfactorily by attending the Fortnightly spring cleaning sale. He said, "Last year's item is tired."

At present there are 14 rates in effect on foreign airmail ranging from 3 to 70 cents a half ounce. A recent report to the Post Office suggested that such rates could be reduced from 30 to 70 per cent.

Bible Translated Into 185 Tongues The "Best Seller"

By FRANCIS CARR STIFLER
Radio, Friday, April 12

One of the conclusive reasons why no other book will ever exceed the Bible as the World's Best Seller is that the Bible has been translated into all the principal languages of the world and is in constant demand in most of these languages. The whole Bible has been translated into 185 languages, and the New Testament into 235 more, and some substantial, but lesser part of the Bible into 648 more. In many of these languages, additional books of the Bible are now being translated, and in many more, including the English, scholars are working on revisions to help the people understand God's word for them more readily.

There are, according to the French Academy, almost 2,800 languages and dialects spoken by mankind. Most of these never had a written form. Hundreds of them have been reduced to writing by missionaries. Through this channel, then, Christian missions has become one of the major civilizing forces of history, for no people can progress without a literature of its own.

Bible translating has been going on since before the time of Christ, when the Old Testament was translated from the Hebrew to the Greek. By the time of the introduction of printing, which so greatly stimulated the desire to read, the Scriptures had found their way into 33 tongues, mostly spoken in Europe. By the year 1800, when the whole world was opening up to missionary penetration, this number had increased to 71. In the next 30 years, 86 more languages were added, exactly half of them, or 43, spoken in Asia. And now since the beginning of this new century, with practically all the great languages, spoken by tens of millions of people, cared for, missionaries have been making simply phenomonal progress with the lesser tongues, almost all of which had first to be reduced to writing before the work of translation could begin.

In the spirit of the modern age of science, Bible translation, which in earlier years depended mostly upon the native genius of consecrated missionaries, is now becoming a form of literary science. Professor Eugene A. Nida is bringing from the press this spring a book on this subject. It reflects 10 years of experience as an instructor in the Summer Institute of Linguistics held every summer in Oklahoma where translating missionaries study phonetics, phonemics, anthropology, and other sciences bearing upon the production of human language, spoken and written.

The nations are literally racing toward literacy. More millions every year are learning to read and eager to do it, and above all the books that are being made available is the Book of books.

Life in Assam Topic Discussed At Fireside Forum

"No one statement can possibly be true of all parts of India," according to Alfred F. Merrill, who addressed the Fireside Forum last Sunday evening. "This also holds for Assam, one of the provinces of British India in the northeast corner, above the Bay of Bengal. It is a land of great contrasts, both in its natural resources and in its people. India has the highest mountains in the world and also deserts with burning heat. The heavy rains in the hills of Assam provide better agricultural conditions than elsewhere in India, but the methods of farming need improving.

"The natives of Assam do not belong to the two largest religious groups of India, the Hindus and the Mohammedans, but for the most part are animists and very primitive. They have learned to be self-reliant, however, partly because of their isolation. The men of the hill tribes are sturdy and able to carry great loads upon their heads. Their labor was needed and used in the building of the Ledo Road through Assam."

Mr. Merrill has been working among the Garos for 17 years, under the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society of the Northern Baptist Convention. During the war he was assigned to a group of natives for nine months working on the Ledo Road. He reported that the GIs liked the people of Assam and that they in turn took an active part in the winning of the war. The officers and men in the Army received a different concept of the work of missions through their direct contact with the centers.

Fireside Forum, under the auspices of the First Baptist Church, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Foster, 2 Whittredge place. Larned A. Meacham, chairman, introduced Mr. Merrill.

Prayer for Easter

I cannot write of Calvary
I have not walked its stony way
Nor do I know full meaning yet
Of sacrifice that dreary day.

Divinity my little mind
Has not been quick to understand
I falter as I grope to find
What folds me close on either hand.

But though I do not comprehend
I know new life is pulsing here
Within my heart — I know a Friend
Has suddenly grown very dear.

I pray this Eastertide may fill
My life with ever-quickening sense
Of sacrifice upon a hill
Where love once proved God's imminence.

JEAN GARIS FLOOD.

Craftsman's Club Dinner Precedes Lecture to Overlook Lodge, F.&A.M.

Master Masons sojourning in this area are offered two attractions next Wednesday evening. As announced by Worshipful Master Robert P. Laird, of Overlook Lodge No. 163, F. & A. M., "the first event will nourish the physical self while the second will augment him spiritually."

Preceding the convocation of the lodge, Craftsman's Club of Overlook Lodge will serve dinner beginning at 6:30 p. m. in the banquet room of the Masonic Hall, Springfield avenue and Kent place boulevard. The dinner committee consists of Chairman Dr. L. H. Goomrigian, Robert Badgley, Joel Walker, Calvin Kipp, Charles Cottrell and Arthur Soderberg.

Guest of honor at the dinner will be Dr. Lester N. Neulen, a past master of Teaneck Lodge No. 274 F. & A. M. and supervising principal of schools in Teaneck. Following the dinner and at the convocation of Overlook Lodge, Dr. Neulen will present the Middle Chamber Lecture to candidates in waiting for the Fellowcraft degree, the second degree in masonry. An invitation is extended master masons sojourning in this area to attend Wednesday's dinner and the convocation of Overlook Lodge.

Dr. Neulen has delivered this lecture before many of the masonic lodges of the state during the past years. In the lecture Dr. Neulen uses audio-visual aids which promote attention and interest and tend to stimulate learning, and at the same time give to the work a deeper significance for the members and to the candidates appreciation and understanding of the middle chamber.

A collection of 100 hand-colored, modernized slides has been developed to illustrate the real meaning of the lecture.

New Insecticides Are Often Fatal To Human Beings

Chemists and physicians point out the need for care in handling science's deadly pest exterminating chemicals. DuPont chemists warn that DDT mixtures prepared with oils and fats for killing flies and mosquitos should not be allowed to come in contact with the human skin. They say also that the chemical should not be sprayed on leafy vegetable crops within three weeks of the crops' use.

Scientists are now engaged in the problem of discovering pesticides that won't kill the bees in the garden, the fish in the pond, visiting birds or your dog. They hope to be able to offer a variety of poisons, each deadly to one form of life but leaving unharmed every other living creature—especially human beings.

The Monsanto Chemical Laboratories' new rat poison, "1080," whose chemical name is sodium fluoroacetate, is extremely poisonous for rodents, but it is lethal to humans, too, and must be handled with caution. At present, indeed, this is a prime safety rule for any insect or rodent or any other pest poison even though it is supposedly harmless to man. It cannot be forgotten that a substance which is harmless to most people may be violently injurious to some allergic or otherwise susceptible individuals.

The honey bees and other useful insects, if they could talk, would agree with people who say, "hurry up with the tailored poisons." Meanwhile you should exercise the greatest care possible in handling and scattering around any pest-killing substances, even the most specific ones now known.

Victory Gardens Needed

Addressing the National Garden Conference at Washington during the closing days of March, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson informed his hearers that we are now earmarking 16 per cent of our available food supply for export, including relief needs.

Urging that there be no let-down in the growing of victory gardens this year, Mr. Anderson declared that during the war as much as 40 per cent of our supply of fresh vegetables came from the 18,500,000 victory gardens the people planted, cultivated and harvested as a patriotic duty.

Freneau Farm House Burned to Ground By Brush Fire

The farm house of Miss Irma Freneau, on Cobbossee Stream, near Gardiner, Me., burned to the ground last Sunday morning, April 14. Miss Freneau had left New York Friday, stopped at the farm briefly on Saturday and was visiting friends in Portland when the fire occurred on Sunday.

A brush fire started by a neighbor one-quarter mile distant got out of control and burned down the intervening growth and the Freneau house and barns.

Scout Troop 62 Gives to World Friendship Fund

During the past few weeks special effort has been made in Boy Scout Troop 62 to raise money for the World Friendship Fund, a fund set up by the National Scout Council as a financial aid in re-establishing Scouting in the war-torn countries.

Through only two post-card appeals the Scouts of Troop 62 have donated $7.30 for this fund. This amount represents substantial gifts from each Scout who gave, according to Scoutmaster P. J. Kreider who is receiving all contributions. Gifts should be clearly marked for the "World Friendship Fund."

A two-year project, no goal has been set for the campaign, it was stated. It is possible that the Green Bar Society may set a goal and conduct a second campaign in the future.

John J. Flynn, Jr., has accepted the position of scoutmaster of Troop 66, sponsored by the Washington School Parent Teacher Association, it was recently announced. Among others who have accepted Scouting positions, is Skip Parker who recently became scoutmaster of Troop 67, sponsored by St. Teresa's School.

Six new members have been added to Boy Scout Troop 62. They are Cal Howard of Locust drive, eagle patrol; Morris Butler of Oak Ridge avenue, eagle patrol; Stan and Steve Klinck of Linden place, both eagle patrols; David Styles of Rowan road, eagle patrol and George Ragatz of Beechwood road, hawk patrol.

County Commander Dowdell Addresses V.F.W. No. 190

After the session was closed, a committee meeting consisting of Post and Auxiliary members discussed plans for the coming installation to be held in the Masonic Hall on April 29. All service men and ex-service men are invited to attend this meeting.

At the closing Commander Dowdell complimented the Auxiliary members on their splendid work in conjunction with the Post. Refreshments were served after the meeting adjourned.

Probation for Deserting Wife and Children

ELIZABETH — Appearing Thursday before Judge Edward A. McGrath in Common Pleas Court, Stuart Guy Sanderson, golf pro, of Brooklyn, found guilty of deserting his wife and minor children of Euclid avenue, Summit, was given two years' probation and ordered to pay $7.50 a week for support.

In the same session of court, Leo Sykes Bey, 22, of Millburn avenue, Millburn, was sentenced to four months in the county jail for robbery in Summit.

Mrs. John C. Hover Tells Rotarians Springfield Battle

Mrs. John Curry Hover of Short Hills, as narrator, and Mrs. Alexander W. Keller of Summit as illustrator, told Rotarians at their luncheon on Monday some of the Revolutionary War history of Springfield and the territory between Elizabeth and Summit.

The Battles of Connecticut Farms and at Springfield were thoroughly covered, Mrs. Hover reciting the troops of both the Continentals and the British involved in the actions, where the actions took place and the results. Mrs. Hover started with the British and Hessians crossing the Hudson on the ice, something that has not been done since and continued on through the occupation of Elizabethtown and the advance to Connecticut Farms and Springfield; the burning of Springfield; the murder of Parson Caldwell's wife; referred to the beacon and signal cannon on Hobart Hill, and pointed out how near the British came to defeating the American troops and on the other hand showed how near the Continentals came to defeating the British and Hessians, a defeat which if accomplished would probably have resulted in the shortening of the war.

Mrs. Hover estimated the losses as 300 for the British and 100 for the Continentals, which is said to be about the average for attackers and defenders in battle.

Mrs. Keller showed authentic illustrations, in detail, of the uniforms worn by the British, Hessian and American troops, all of which with an exception, were done in oil by Mrs. Keller.

Mrs. Hover and Mrs. Keller were introduced by Harry Jennings.

Guests introduced by William A. Kincaid were Howard F. Barrett, Madison; J. R. Golightly, John Patterson and Fred Craig of Millburn; Commander B. H. Behrendt, guest of Dr. C. E. Burroughs; Lawrence Freeman, guest of Henry W. Harding.

(Thinking Mrs. Hover's talk is worthy of publication in detail, the Herald is endeavoring to obtain its release for such purpose. We hope to be able to present it to our readers in the near future.—Ed.)

Fire Chief Urges Clean-up to Wipe Out Home Hazards

The alarming increase in the number of fires in recent months was cited today by Fire Chief Thomas J. Murray in urging all residents of Summit to join in a Spring Clean-Up campaign to eliminate the hazards that breed fires. It is the cheapest and most effective protection of homes and buildings possible, he declared, because a fire that never starts is harmless.

In winter months, when heating plants are in constant use, the fire curve reaches its peak, Chief Murray pointed out. The next most dangerous period is in the spring when high winds, limited humidity, and dry, flammable wooden roofs may combine to whip a small fire originating in a pile of rubbish, into a disastrous conflagration.

Citing recent figures compiled by the National Fire Protection Association, a technical, non-profit organization which sponsors Spring Clean-up, Chief Murray said, fire losses in the United States last year reached the staggering total of $454,000,000. But even more alarming, he said, is the fact that since November the number of fires has increased from eight to 10 per cent over the same period of the previous year.

"This sharp rise in the fire curve should serve as the reason why every resident of Summit should join in a Clean-up Drive to put his house in order. I can't urge a sense of individual responsibility too strongly. We, at the Fire Department, stand ready to rush to your aid when a fire breaks out, but we can't poke around in every home preventing fires by eliminating the hazards that breed them."

Asked about the fire-breeders that can be eliminated, Chief Murray made these recommendations:

"They are the usual ones found in most homes, especially after a winter of indoor living. Accumulated rubbish — old magazines, broken pieces of furniture, cleaning rags and other household remnants, that clutter up the attic, closets, basement and garage. Any discarded, but still useful, clothing should be turned over to relief agencies, and rags and waste-paper turned over for salvage.

"Check the wiring circuit for loose connections; repair electrical appliances and replace frayed cords. And don't neglect the outside of the house. Clear the premises of leaves and debris which might become easy prey of a stray spark. Check the roof for leaks, and if it needs repairing, re-roof with fire-retardant materials."

In this connection, Chief Murray pointed out that many new homes will be constructed and hundreds others modernized in Summit this spring, and urged the use of fire-resistant building materials as the first essential of fire prevention and safe construction. The use of fire-resistant roofing, such as asphalt shingles, he said, will eliminate one of the prime sources of residential fires. Sparks falling on flammable wooden shingles, according to the NFPA, stand third among major fire hazards.

Other construction safe-guards recommended by Chief Murray are:

1—Fire-stops in walls to prevent a small blaze mushrooming up through the house.

2—An adequate wiring system, properly installed.

3—A properly installed heating plant, protected by fire-retardant walls and ceilings.

4—A solid chimney of sound construction, built from the ground up.

Hi-Y Clubs Hear Report on Model N. J. Legislature

In a joint meeting of Summit and Millburn Hi-Y Clubs at Millburn High School last Thursday, delegates who participated in the New Jersey Model Legislature reported on the proceedings of the conference and the types of legislation submitted by local Hi-Y Clubs.

The boy-citizens of Summit were represented by Harry Pawell, John Barton, Robert Bunnell, Robert Canfield, Robert Stahr, Fred Speaker, and Marshall Andrews who introduced legislation as follows:

A bill to establish junior colleges in New Jersey High Schools.

A bill to provide for compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.

The New Jersey Youth and Government project is sponsored by the various local YMCA's of New Jersey under the direction of the Central Atlantic Area YMCA Committee.

Mr. Barton reported that the bill establishing junior colleges passed the Model Legislature without opposition, and was signed by the Boy-Governor. The compulsory arbitration bill proposed by Fred Speaker met heavy opposition in the Youth-Assembly. It was reported out of the labor committee, but was defeated on the floor.

Summit delegates are now participating in the planning of the local Youth Week. This event will provide for the election and appointment of Summit high school students to positions corresponding to all city officials in Summit.

Mrs. Hugh Awtry of Macon, Ga., is expected as a guest by her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. F. Cleveland Davis of Hill Crest avenue.

Story of a Tea Cup With Lovely Exhibit Of Old Treasures

"When the East India Trading Co. brought back the first shipment of tea to England, it was noticed that the homely, heavy mugs previously used for ale, beer and cider, were not suitable for the exotic new drink, so the importation of Chinese porcelain cups and bowls began," Mrs. Gerald Young said in her "Story of a Tea Cup," before Beacon Fire Chapter of the DAR on Thursday, April 11, in the Methodist parish house.

The next step was the importation of teapots and other utensils for serving tea and cakes in a beautiful fashion, and china collecting spread, with much of the foreign trade devoted to exchange for china. This accounts for the survival of so many old pieces today. The great variety of design is because many were made to special order.

The most famous tea party in history occurred in 1773, when 342 chests of the leaves were dumped into Boston Harbor.

The earliest porcelains were from the Orient but soon the English potters began to make fine china, some of the most famous being Spode, Wedgewood, Staffordshire (a group of potters), Copeland, and others. American potters made pieces much sought after today, as Bennington and Pennsylvania Dutch ware. Decorated tin or papier mache trays came into vogue, and delicate spoons, silver baskets and pressed glass articles.

An exhibit of old tea sets owned by Summit families was shown. These included a three-piece silver service which was buried in a Charleston garden during the Civil War; another pink luster tea set buried in Monmouth County for part of the Revolutionary War; a silver service from which Lincoln was served in Springfield, Ill.; several pieces of a "wedding ring" set.

Other tables held a cranberry overlay compote; a silver luster tea pot from the home of Henry Morgan, pirate; one of the earliest Wedgewood handleless cups with saucer; an Old King silver set over 100 years old, with all-over rose pattern; a Chinese platter; an English tea set of 1851; a "doughnut" tea pot; a copper luster set, 150 years old; an acorn miniature cup and saucer; a table of Staffordshire of varying ages, some with American scenes; and a Nottingham set, about 1820.

The tea sets and candlelabra on the tea table were all of Civil War times.

Kresge-Newark Announces Replanned Fashion Floor

Kresge-Newark announces that its fashion floor, third floor, replanned by Martin Gaffney, working with Pasqual Guerrieri, merchandise manager of the fashion section, will soon present an aspect improved both in efficiency and eye appeal.

Use of pastel shades of blue, peach, green and gray will prevail contrasted with papered walls in some of the specialty shops. Large mirrored areas will reflect the spaciousness that is being emphasized in the plans. Lighting will be indirect mainly, though in the Specialty Shop and the Bride's Shop crystal chandeliers and wall brackets will be part of the decorative scheme.

The Fur Salon, with cabinet work of English hardwood, the Specialty Shop, furnished almost as a living room with no stock in view, the Better Dress Shop, with new and more adequate fitting rooms, are noted particularly in the new planning.

The new Bride's Shop will be ready for June brides, and will have, in addition to the usual small fitting rooms, two large fitting rooms, each sized to accommodate an entire bridal party. Here the prospective bride and her attendants can be fitted all at the same time. Studio photographs of the bride and her attendants can be taken here at the time of the final fittings, and wall decorations have been planned to form a suitable background for these pictures.

All departments previously on the third floor will remain there.

Washington School Third Grade Lives Life of Chinese

A play written by the third grade of Washington School under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Wheeler, the climax of a project on China, was given in the essembly of Washington School on Friday morning, April 12, before the entire school and many parents. It was characterized by the principal, J. Bindley Hoff as an outstanding event of the year.

In the first scene, which demonstrated the Chinese at school, the boys and girls brought out the fact that writing is done with brushes, that to study harder is to study louder and that only boys attend.

The second scene, the restaurant, was done in pantomime with simulated Chinese talk. Rice prepared by the class eaten with chopsticks made by the class was important on the bill of fare. The community napkin was also in evidence.

Next came the Chinese theatre where the audience paid for food, not acting, and listened only to the favorite speeches. This was also shown i npantomime.

Great excitement was created by the entrance of a sedan chair carried by two bearers dressed as coolies. At that point, the audience was allowed to participate informally and the question was asked, "Is anyone in the Chair?" The secret was given away by a young brother, who slipped up the aisle and called, "Johnny's in there."

Between scenes, the showing of Chinese objects made or collected by members of the class, and the telling of Chinese legends held the interest of the audience.

The characters were: announcer, Billy Dawson; teacher, Frank Frenda; Ling Ping, Howard Faul; Kwang Yee, Tommy Reed; Yang Su, Leon Reibel.

Other boys, Bobby Connelly, Sammy Fusco; proprietor, Howard Faul; waiters, Bobby Connelly, David Karpenski; customers, Sammy Fusco, Pat Conroy, Frank Frenda, Vining Miller, Tommy Reed, Arthur Lepore; audience, Tommy Reed, Alice Hagopian, Arthur Lepore, Catherine Cutrone, John Gisoldi, Leon Riebel; waiters, Pat Conroy, David Karpenski; actors, Earl Lessenthien, Frank Frenda, Sammy Fusco, Howard Faul; property man, Bobby Connelly; coolies, Pat Conroy, David Karpenski; rider, John Gisoldi; children who showed Chinese objects, Alice Hagopian, Lenora Vispoli, Howard Faul, Virginia Spagnola, Catherine Cutrone and Nancy Fusco.

Last Week for Spivak At the Meadowbrook

It's the last few days for Charlie Spivak and his band at the Meadowbrook. With his trumpet and his musical aggregation which has for vocalists Jimmy Saunders and the McCall Sisters, known as "The Star Dreamers," Charlie has been "packin' em in" at Frank Dailey's popular Cedar Grove night spot. Spivak—who promises to break Meadowbrook attendance records this Easter week-end—will be succeeded Tuesday, April 23, on the Meadowbrook bandstand by Vaughn Monroe and his band.

Monroe, young band leader whose rich baritone voice has established him as America's new Number One band maestro, has not played in this vicinity, except for a single theater booking, since before the war. His Meadowbrook engagement, therefore, is looked forward to with interest.

The coming of Monroe and his band for a limited engagement is regarded as a big event of the Meadowbrook season. Dinner is served nightly at the popular name band dine and dance spot from 5:30 to 10 p. m. Dancing is from 7 to 2 a. m.

The increase of crime in 1945 was the greatest in the 15 year period since the FBI began tabulating nation--wide crime statistics.

Mrs. Robert Larson is chairman of the dance committee. Allen Roberts, chairman of the basketball committee, said that they had had a successful season, and no games were forfeited.

Alfred Zangara has been appointed chairman of the summer program, which will get under way when school closes in June. Frank Spatussi, President of the Softball League, reported that a full season has been arranged, and will open April 30, continuing until July 4. Robert Webster was named chairman of the winter activities committee.

Mr. Mancuso is also chairman of the special events committee, which will sponsor an Easter egg hunt April 18, and a Memorial Day program.

President Spatuzzi, a Coast Guard veteran and former Seton Hall baseball star, reports six teams listed for the Softball League and their captain-managers: Pirates, Arthur Schlichting; Eagles, William Annelli; Firemen, Will Spurgeon; Murray Hill Floral Shop, John Cirelli; the Post Office, Anthony Ciocci and West End, Harold Pilley. The latter is also treasurer of the league. At a meeting Tuesday night, the captain-managers submitted team rosters.

Councilman Taylor stresses that the recreation program will not conflict or interfere in any way with the Church summer Bible School program or any other activity of any of the local churches.

"Southbound" On April 26, 27, For Cancer Fund

BOROUGH — Residents of New Providence Borough were amazed to see the emergency fire truck, with Chief Sawyer at the wheel, traversing the streets on Sunday afternoon. When they spied the huge "Southbound" sign on the side, and noticed the huge truck, similarly labelled, and brimming over with young people, they realized that it was an advertising, and ticket selling stunt for the big show, which is to be given for the Cancer Fund, on April 26 and 27, under the direction of Miss Ann Compano at Lincoln School.

The show, using the "Show Boat" idea, has a cast of 45, and such well known singers as Mrs. Willis Hurd, and Mrs. Luke Marchie are numbered among them. The cast is "swarming" with returned veterans, according to the Green Dragon, who still "sees all, and knows all". Bill Lee, Bob Blatt, Don Whittaker, Mike Pigna, Jim Fraiola, along with John Von Tish, who is the show boat captain, our spies report.

Those who have attended previous shows which Miss Compano has directed, will remember the beautiful ladies of the chorus, many of whom are again in the cast—the famous Keller sisters, Miss Bee Panos, and many others. And, yes, everybody's favorite, Johnny Cirelli is definitely "on the beam."

Please remember that besides seeing a full evening's show, you are helping a worth while cause, when you purchase a ticket.

Everyone's Southbound on April 26 and 27. Join the crowd!

Hansell to the Library Board to complete the unfinished term of Mrs. William Kauffman, and Hugh Hamilton to the Board of Adjustment to fill the unexpired term of James Badger.

Further discussion was given the proposed extension of the sanitary sewer to the Bell Telephone Labporatories, Inc. in Murray Hill. Deliberations are still continuing with the State Department of Health on the subject.

A request from holders of $75,000 of Borough Registered Sewer Bonds to have the same converted to coupon bonds was held over for further consideration.

"Sun-Gro Seedling Bed" Complete Planting Unit Ready for Gardeners

A complete planting unit that comes ready for simple set up in time for summer developing of perennials, this 2 ft. x 3 ft. cold frame utilizes the latest Celanese glazing material, Plastic Mesh Vimlite, of which both mesh and coating is plastic. The plastic mesh, of about the proportions of ordinary household screening, provides reinforcement for the plastic coating giving it the necessary rigidity and a bursting strength of 150 pounds per square inch. Shatterproof and virtually weatherproof, Plastic Mesh Vimlite is not subject to rusting or other destructive effects of climate and, in addition, allows penetration of the growing rays of the sun, both infra-red and ultra-violet. The seed bed, called the "Sun-Gro Seedling Bed", has a frame work of wood lacquered white to reflect the greatest amount of light and heat. Its construction incorporates conveniences such as a metal brace on the inner front of the box which allows the glass to be raised six inches and holds it in place for necessary ventilation, and a two inch tilt for complete rainwater drainage.

NEW PROVIDENCE Township

Diamond Hill S. S. Transferred By Presbyterians to Methodists

TOWNSHIP—The Diamond Hill Sunday School in Blue Mountain Farms was organized last July by the Presbyterian Church and has been sponsored and maintained by that denomination all winter. For some time the Methodist Church has been planning to have a church in this area. Authorities for the two denominations have discussed this matter, both feeling the community too small to support both churches, and the decision was reached that the Methodist Church could best develop this location. The Presbyterian Church agreed to leave.

At a meeting of the Sunday School staff and interested parents held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Yeager on a recent Sunday afternoon, representatives of both denominations met for a formal transfer of the Sunday School. David W. Baker, moderator, from the Presbyterian Church in Fanwood presided. He stated that this meeting would go down in church history as an innovation because it marked the withdrawal of one denomination in favor of another. With many expressions of good will he thanked the community for starting the church and assured the organization that under Methodist leadership it would be in good hands.

Accepting the Sunday School on behalf of the Methodist Church, Dr. H. F. Dabinett of the New Providence Methodist Church commented on the "gracious" words of Mr. Baker and expressed the intention that the church being established here would welcome all denominations.

Under Presbyterian supervision, the minister in this field was W. J. H. MacKnight from Princeton Seminary. Methodist leadership is to come from Frank H. Haley and Roland Cook, both from Drew University. Mr. Cook is to be director of Religious Education, Mr. Haley to direct other activities leading to the establishment of a church.

The Sunday School continues to function under the same internal organization:—Superintendent, A. H. Yeager, treasurer, William Seely; Secretary, Mrs. Royer R. Blair. Sessions are held each Sunday morning at ten o'clock in the Yeager home pending the completion of the Community House.

Regional Board Sets Salary Guide For Teaching Staff

TOWNSHIP—Board of Education of the Regional High School Thursday night in answer to teachers' requests for a salary schedule, adopted a salary guide which lists starting and maximum pay in three classifications: Teachers with less than four years of training after high school, those with four years of college work, and those holding a master's degree.

Starting salaries in each classification were listed as follows: Class 1, $1,400; Class 2, $1,500 and Class 3, $1,600. The guide provides for $100 increases yearly to maximums, respectively, of $2,900, $3,200 and $3,400. Heads of departments would be paid $100 more than the maximum, according to the plan.

The Board pointed out that the salary guide is not retroactive and that it is not a contract. According to merit, teachers may be paid more or less than the schedule calls for, it was said.

The Board also passed a resolution incorporating all existing bonuses into permanent pay. This means that some Regional teachers now will receive $50 to $300 more annually.

Resignations of Max R. Pearlman and Milton J. Haut, because of ill health, were accepted by the Board. The resignation of Miss F. Elizabeth Hand, English teacher, also was accepted effective at the close of the school year.

It was reported that 18 former servicemen are enrolled now in the Regional High School.

A proposal by the Regional Council of Clergymen and Laymen that a baccalaureate service for all demoninations be held in the high school auditorium in conjunction with graduation was rejected.

Mr. Halsey was authorized to engage two teachers for 1946-47 because of increased enrolment which is anticipated in September.

Incorporation of varsity baseball in the school program was approved on recommendation suggested that Coach William Brown, athletic director, organize intramural baseball after the close of the track season, and that varsity baseball start in the spring of 1947.

PTA Meeting Gets Reports on Boy And Girl Scouting

TOWNSHIP—The Columbia School P.T.A. which sponsors both Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations in this community devoted much of its Tuesday night meeting at the school to receive reports presented in a varied way about the work of the groups.

Mrs. L. E. Proesch, leader of the Brownie troop, stated the group had been operating since January and had an enrollment of 13, five of whom had been accepted into membership the past week. Mrs. L. G. Fuchs is the assistant leader of the Brownies. Mrs. Proesch explained that as soon as more leaders are obtainable, enough material was available for enlarging the troop.

Troop 74 presented a play as is reported elsewhere in this paper. The report of Senior Girl Scout Troop 22 was read by Marilyn Wojeck in the absence of the leader, Mrs. Sandy Southworth.

G. Clinton Fogwell, general chairman of Boy Scouting here, explained the three divisions in that field. He introduced W. Floyd Taylor, adviser to the Explorer Post and Glenn Walling, adviser to Boy Scout Troop 68.

Supervising Principal of Schools Leo G. Fuchs thanked the parents for their interest in scouting and commended the leaders and the scouts for their work.

The parents also took occasion to view the display in the media of instruction the teachers have prepared as an outcome of their in-service-training this school year under the direction of Dr. Fred L. Bedford.

The nominating committee with Mrs. H. K. Dunn as chairman together with Mrs. Joseph Mulholland and Mrs. Arthur Buser will meet this week to prepare a slate of officers for next school year.

The fifth graders invited a group of fourth and sixth graders to hear Mrs. Urich, including Richard Wilson, Adele Irving, Nancy Wolfe and William Gimmell. The visitors took notes on which to report to their classmates.

Fix-up, Repair Home In Spring Cleaning Fire Chief Urges

The acute housing shortage has given new impetus and importance to this year's Spring Clean-Up Campaign, says Fire Chief Anthony Amodeo, in announcing that a "fix-up and repair" appeal is being made to eliminate fire hazards which may cause a destructive fire in a dwelling that cannot be replaced today.

Fully 50 per cent of all home fires can be prevented, he asserts, if structural defects are eliminated when modernization and remodeling of homes gets under way this Spring. He listed these principal safeguards which should be included in every home:

(1) adequate wiring circuit, properly installed; (2) an efficient heating plant protected with fire-retardant material; (3) a soundly constructed masonry chimney; (4) fire-retardant roofing to resist sparks; and (5) fire-stops in walls.

MACHINE AGE FOR BOWLING

The machine age has invaded the bowling ranks. With the automatic pinsetter now a reality, the latest invention to be announced is the automatic scoreboard. Even as the pinspotter with utter accuracy accomplishes all phases of bowling alley pit work the automatic scoreboard maintains an aggregate score as the game progresses. Eliminating all possibility of human error, it keeps a running record of the individual or team score. The position of the scoreboard installation in a bowling establishment will be overhead across a pair of alleys just beyond the foul line with the indicating panel facing players and spectators.

In team or league play each panel records the score of both the individual player and team taking into account the fact that players play on alternate alleys. Dials faced with symbols record strikes and spares for each individual scoring section of the panel. These are illuminated as the strikes or spares occur. Also on the face of individual scoring squares is a section indicating by illuminated arrows on which alley the bowler should play. Directly above the arrow slot is an illuminated letter identifying the bowler. Adjacent to the identifying letter in each square is a numeral indicator showing the frame last completed by the individual.

Since in some instances marking down of the score in numbers is withheld, as in the case of a strike series when the record is kept on a conventional scoresheet, the automatic scoreboard is equipped with a number of "memory" circuits for the retention of intelligence vital to perfect scoring. Thus if two strikes in succession are made, the score is not brought up-to-date until the next frame thereafter has been completed. Also remembered by this ingenious machine is whether the ball is the first or second of the frame, whether "bonus balls" are forthcoming after the 10th frame (two for a strike, one for a spare). Should a foot-foul occur the scoreboard immediately "informs" the automatic pinspotter of the infraction, and all pins knocked down are automatically discounted.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Garden State Park Race Track, near Camden, will have its own train service this year for the first time since the track opened in 1942, as the Pennsylvania Railroad will have trains to it from Philadelphia and Atlantic City?

The word "truth" occurs 117 times in the Old Testament and 117 times in the New?

The basketball rule prohibiting the re-entry of any player in the last four minutes of a game has been modified for the 1946-47 season, for under the new rules one re-entry per player will be allowed during the last four minutes and the clock will be stopped automatically throughout that period whenever the ball is dead?

A baseball contract is strictly a onesided affair, for the ball club can fire a player in mid-season, even though he has a contract, but a player cannot quit a team if he desires to make a change?

Air transport planes, at the rate their speed is increasing, may before long be able to arrive at the West Coast actually before they leave the East Coast, owing to the three-hour time difference which would make possible this "clock-stopping" schedule?

SPORTING SEASONS OPENED THIS WEEK

Two sporting seasons which are rooted deep in American tradition had opening days this week. Thousands of New Jersey anglers tried the streams of this area Monday when the trout fishing season officially opened. The other big event was the mid-week opening of the 1946 major baseball league campaigns.

With the end of World War II now a matter of history, high numbers of servicemen who have sweltered through years in the Pacific, fighting the sneaky Jap or stalking the Nazis through North Africa and across Europe, will be able to realize a dream which they have cherished during their periods of service to their nation. America is truly a nation of sportsmen (and sportswomen)—and the opening of the two seasons is a reminder to all of us that our future fighting should be on the athletic field and not on the battlefield.

There were many Americans missing from the stands who might have attended the opening baseball games had they not fallen on the battlefield. And there were many other sons of Uncle Sam who might have lined the banks of New Jersey's rivers and streams Monday had they not gone off to distant shores to fight a ruthless, non-sporting enemy.

It is the job of every citizen of the United States to see that our young men, and the young men of future generations, will live to enjoy the sporting events which are so emblematic of our democratic way of life. We must teach the world to play for fun, not for death, famine and ultimate destruction.

Rackets Club Enters N. J. Tennis League

At a meeting held Friday evening, April 5, at the Montclair Athletic Club, the New Jersey Tennis League was revived after a lapse of four years.

The Rackets Club of Short Hills is entering the League for the first time this year. It is scheduled to play its first match on Saturday, May 4, with the Arlington Players Club of Arlington, a date on which all clubs in the League will play their opening matches. The season lasts from May 4 until June 8 with matches scheduled to be played over week-ends. The Rackets Club will participate in eight matches of which two will be played in Short Hills. The first home match will be on May 26 with the East Orange Tennis Club.

Other clubs belonging to the League are East Orange Tennis Club, the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, the Maplewood Country Club, the Elisabeth Town and Country Club, the Ilderan Outing Club of Rahway, the Westfield Tennis Club, the Berkeley Tennis Club of Orange, the Montclair Athletic Club, the Arlington Players Club of Arlington, and the Elmora Country Club of Elisabeth.

Improved Brand Of Softball For Summit Fans

The softball fans of Summit will definitely have something to cheer about when the well organized and rejuvenated Summit Softball League gets off to a flying start on Sunday, April 28.

At the meeting of the league Thursday night eight teams have been accepted and the season will probably start with that number.

All teams have been strengthened with returned veterans which will certainly make a higher brand of softball for the spectators to watch.

Charlines, one of the best teams in the State, for quite a few years will be striving to stay at the top of the league, but they will get plenty of stiff competition from the American Legion, Doley's, Summit Diner, Roots, Balish's, the North Summit Veterans and the Easterners.

This year's league has also made a step forward in electing a "Judge Landis" of Summit softball in the person of Tom Crowe, a past president of the loop. Mr. Crowe will have full authority to settle protests, and his decisions will be final.

In accepting the "National AAU" softball rules, the league will have but nine men on the team instead of the 10 used before. The bases have all been shortened five feet which means an infielder must really fire the ball in hopes of putting out the speedsters that will dominate the league.

The two softball diamonds at Memorial Field are now undergoing renovation by an expert ground crew.

Jr. H. S. Softball Program Underway

The seventh graders inaugurated the Summit Junior High School's 1946 Softball League program, April 10 with a trio of games in which Room 101 defeated 104 to the tune of 10-7. Room 113 took the measure of Room 102 by 11-4. Room 110 in the best played game of the day defeated Room 109 by the score of 3-2. The six teams will continue to play every Wednesday until June 12.

H. S. Vanquishes Alumni, 9-2, Explode 8 in 8th

Local baseball fans, starved these past six months, caught the year's first glimpse of the 1946 edition of Summit High School's nine Saturday afternoon at Memorial Field. The school boys rose up in all their wrath in an explosive eighth inning and rushed across eight runs on two hits, a wild pitch, three errors, a sacrifice hit and a fielder's choice. The final result, 9-2, in favor of Coach Elwood C. Cornog's first post-war school team, against the Alumni.

The weather—probably the coldest in which any ball game will be played here this season—was responsible for only a few fans being on hand. It was only an exhibition game, but oh, what it seemed to be for seven frames.

The school boys tallied first, putting one over in the third. With two down Hickok tripled and scored on an error by Bruno. John Clark, reputedly the High School's leading twirler, got into trouble in the fourth and issued three passes. Westenberger went in for Clark in the fifth and held the opposition to no hits for three innings as did Clark in the four innings he toiled. Westenberger, who has a reputation for wildness, issued one pass in his three frames. Frank Donio who took over the mound duties in the eighth, and ninth innings for the High School gave up a single in each of the frames, allowing a run in the eighth. However, he showed an assortment of curves that may prove baffling to high school opposition.

Manager Gordon (Gug) Murray of the Summit Red Sox, who umpired the game, was favorably impressed with the way Hickok comported himself.

ELWOOD C. CORNOG

now in his 20th year as baseball coach at Summit High School will lead his 1946 post-war nine to Union next Tuesday to open a 16-game schedule. Judged by Union's opening performance last week against Plainfield in losing a 7-1 decision, Summit should have better than an even chance at victory.

Deadlock for First Place Continues In City Doubles

The teams of Wieboldt-Dorwart and Moroney-Brenn remained deadlocked April 10 for first place in the City Doubles League as each team took three points the last time out, largely due to a 595 series by Harry Dorwart and a 618 by Herb Brenn. Kivlen-Korn and Baum-Schoenweisner each held on to a faint hope of finishing in third place by sweeping four points. Sedgie Phillippi, filling in for Ray Korn, hit 258 his first game, while Peter Kivlen had a 215, which gave them a total of 473—a new high team single game. Their three-game total was 1,214.

With two weeks of the schedule remaining, the fight for first place will be decided on the final night.

Clean games were rolled by Kivlen, Phillippi, Baum, Bontempo and Brenn.

Third Frame Spurt By Cranford Vets Tops Legion, 53-49

It wasn't Whit Moroney's fault that a basketball team representing the American Legion, Summit Post No. 138, lost sizzling 53-49 basketball game Friday night to the Cranford Legion on the Cranford High court. Whit won individual scoring honors with 20 points, nine via the field goal route and two from the free shot line.

The legion team has played together throughout the year mostly as the Y.M.C.A. Comets with the players also representing St. Teresa's CYO.

In Friday night's tilt, both teams were tied at 24 all at the half. However, Cranford spurted in the third stanza racking up 16 points against eight for the Summit players. In the final frame the Summit Legion outscored their hosts, 17-13.

Gast Stars As Roots Sweep Trio In City League

Roots piled it on Thursday night at the 27th session of the City Bowling League on Woodruff's Alleys in Springfield, sweeping three against the Chamber of Commerce. Al Gast of Roots was the standout performer of the evening winning high individual game honors with a 224 and gaining gross honors with a 623 for an evening's average of 207.6.

The race for second place continues nip and tuck between Gargiulos and Carter Publishing Co. Gargiulos tied matters up by taking two out of three against the publishers by relatively few pins. The Commuters posted two out of three against Charlines.

Although the season's schedule has three more nights to go, Roots have the title sewed up for the second consecutive year.

Summit A. A. Fund Drive Continues Until April 30

Typical of the response accorded W. Kenneth Geddes, chairman of the membership committee of the Summit Athletic Association, Inc., in his drive to raise $2,000 on or before April 30, is a letter recently sent a large number of citizens in the outlying residential sections of Summit by Nicholas J. Hussey of Colt road. The following is a copy of the letter addressed several hundred Summit residents by Mr. Hussey:

"The enclosed copy of a letter I received from Kenneth Geddes is self explanatory.

"I really didn't know what I was in for when I said I'd help, but I guess this is it.

"The one thing Ken did not state in his letter was the fact that the members of the Summit A. A. have plans to coach and supervise several teen age ball teams—a project I go for.

"If you care to help out financially will you make out your check to Dr. G. Russell May, Treasurer, Euclid avenue. A post paid addressed envelope is enclosed so really all you have to do is to write out your check, put same in the envelope addressed to Doc May, mail it, and a lot of people are going to have a good time this summer."

Sincerely,

Nicholas J. Hussey.

The letter that prompted Mr. Hussey's letter was the following he received from Mr. Geddis:

"Dear Nick:

"Some time ago, I talked about the recent reorganization of the Summit A. A. and requested your help when the time was right to get behind this movement to give Summit a real sound ball club. The time is now, and I have counted on you to take care of the solicitation of all the outlying residential sections of Summit. This is a big job but I know you can handle it. May I suggest that you appoint your own workers, probably one or two from each section and zone the territory according to your own plans.

"There are two kinds of membership: First the regular membership for those who contribute less than $10. The second is the sustaining membership for $10 or more and this type entitles the member to a season pass to all home games. Printed cards are available."

Inter-City Softball League Takes Shape

The first meeting of the proposed Inter-City Softball League was held on Friday, at the local YMCA. Chatham was represented by Bill Whitehead, Madison by Bab McGovern, and Summit by Frank Pryce and Pete Kivlen. George Bauer of Millburn was unable to attend, due to a previous engagement. However, he telephoned to say that Millburn will definitely enter a team in the league and he would be on hand for the next meeting scheduled for Tuesday, April 23. Madison and Chatham stated they would be able to field top-notch teams, but their pitching was uncertain. Millburn is in the same predicament unless they can prevail upon Lefty Saladino to twirl for them. Lefty would be able to give any team in the league plenty of trouble.

Presents Small Arms Training School Awards

Mayor Maxwell Lester at Tuesday night's meeting of Common Council presented a number of awards to the Small Arms Training School. He stated "The National Rifle Association has seen fit to make certain awards to the members of the Police Reserve Gun Club in recognition of their services to the community in general, as well as to special instruction given to those entering the armed forces."

The mayor then presented these awards for Outstanding Merit to H. K. Weed, Fred H. Sayre, B. T. Ellis, J. S. Edwards, George M. Delaney and John Frezell. He next tendered Regular Awards to A. Lenci, F. Osmulski, S. E. Parker, G. M. Pearson, A. B. Poland, E. B. Thomas, Jr., and Frank J. Van Tronk, Jr.

Also certain of the group who have completed the course of the school and who qualified as assistant instructors with a sufficient number of hours, were given the Regular Award as follows: P. R. Boniface, R. Martin, R. L. Schwartz, J. Witzler and Jack Mallay.

Mayor Lester concluded by saying:

"The war is over and we have won, but those who were privileged to instruct in the Small Arms School have now been duly recognized by the N. R. A. Something over one hundred junior students participated in the course, and additional instruction was always given to those entering the armed forces. Results have proved the worth of the course. This is the final pay-off, and I think that everyone that has assisted with the course will feel fully repaid for their many hours of conscientious effort. The success of this was due entirely to the wholehearted cooperation of those enumerated above."

Walt Disney's "Fantasia" At Little Theater, Newark Starting Friday, April 26

Walt Disney's musical production, "Fantasia," produced in multiple technicolor will be brought to the screen of the Little Theater, 562 Broad street, Newark, for an exclusive New Jersey showing starting Friday, April 26.

In this, Walt Disney's screen classic "Fantasia" presents a concert for the eye and ear, both. Under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra plays seven treasures of music, while on the screen Walt Disney and his staff provide an interpretation of this music in many strange, hilarious, beautiful and exciting forms.

The characters in the full length entertainment range from the familiar and well-loved Mickey Mouse to flying horses, Centaurs and Centaurettes, ostrich dancers and bellowing volcanoes.

As an associate attraction the Little Theater will also show "Ballet Russe De Monte Carlo" in "Spanish Fiesta" also produced in technicolor.

Charlines and Comets In Practice Session

Charlines, County Class B softball champions and the Comets, both teams of which are listed in the City Softball League, had a practice session Sunday morning on Memorial Field. Although no score was kept, Charlines, the 45 City League champions also, had things very much their own way.

Red Ahern, who is home from doing a stretch with the Navy, is back with Charlines infield, playing second in Sunday's skirmish. A newcomer appearing with Charlines was Galbovy who succeeded the veteran Pete Kivlen on the mound. However, it is believed the newcomer will see most of his action at an infield post, probably third. Louis DiParisi did the catching for Charlines with Gene Parsil back at his post at short. Joe Kubach of Charlines, who is generally rated among the best at first in these parts, will be at his station only for City League games as has been his practice. Larry Brydon, an old Charline standby, was cavorting in left field, his favorite pasture.

For the Comets, a new team this year in softball circles, Joe Yannotta did the mound work on Sunday with Red Hanlon as his catcher. Among the other favorites Sunday with the Comets were Que Spencer at short, Willie Brenn at first, Webb Van Winkle in left and Jesse Biggs in center.

The City League starts its season with two games on Sunday, April 28.

Sandlin, Magelssen "Bittersweet" Leads

Dorothy Sandlin and Ralph Magelssen, alumni of two of Broadway's and the nation's foremost musical hits, "The Desert Song" and "This Is the Army," respectively, will be the featured players in Frank Carrington's production of "Bitter Sweet" which opens the Paper Mill Playhouse at Millburn, Monday.

Like many others who have made their mark on the musical stage of Broadway after first appearing at the Millburn theatre, Miss Sandlin and Magelssen are old favorites at the Paper Mill. The former made her last appearance in "Maytime" at the opening of the 1945 season while the latter has not been seen since he appeared in "The Chocolate Soldier" prior to his induction into the armed forces.

More than 80,000 Army and 24,000 Navy combat aircraft will shortly have been declared surplus. They are unusable for civilian purposes.

Added Features Enhance Drive-In Theater

Ultra-modern innovations have been installed at the Union Drive-In Theater on Route 29, each of the new features tending toward the greater enjoyment of programs by patrons. The features include the latest type car speakers, baby bottle warmers, and asphalted entrances and exits among others. The parking space has been covered with rolled stone, thus eliminating the dust nuisance which has existed to a degree heretofore.

The theater is the only open-air theater in the country to have the new car speakers. With these, car windows can be closed during inclement weather, while the patrons still have a clear reception of the dialogue. Pictures will be shown every night, despite weather conditions, with accommodations available for 400 automobiles.

The theater will open tonight and remain open until about Thanksgiving Day, this being a longer season than usual.

By Memorial Day, playgrounds will be installed for the children. It will contain swings, seesaws, slides, climbing towers and a merry-go-round. This, as well as the bottle warming service, will be free to patrons of the theater.

The playgrounds will be open previous to the start of each evening's picture program and will close just before the program starts. This is the ninth season for the Union Drive-In Theater, which opened in 1937.

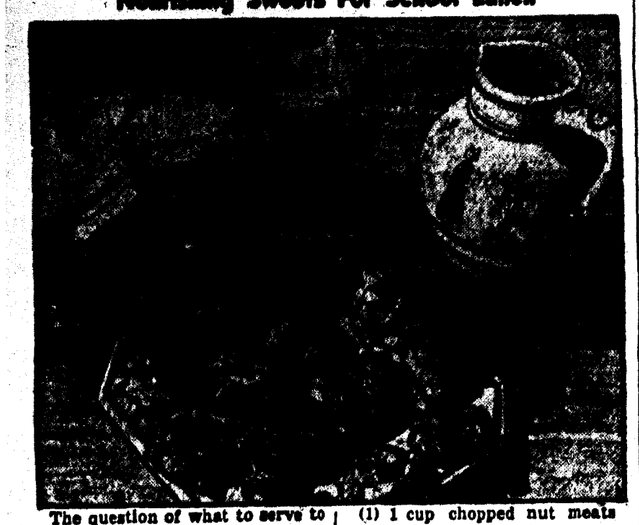
Nourishing Sweets For School Lunch



The question of what to serve to appeal to young sweet tooths after school needn't be a poser if you master a few magic tricks. Wholesome cookies give the meal both appetite appeal and energy value. And you make a tempting assortment in just a few minutes without touching your sugar supply. The magic trick is to use sweetened condensed milk. This creamy blend of whole milk and sugar insures crisp, crunchy triumphs every time; and, in addition to being failure-proof, these short cut cookie treats require neither sugar, shortening, flour nor eggs.

Nourishing cocoa can be made in a jiffy, if you use this magic recipe calling for sweetened condensed milk.

Magic Five Way Cookies

1 1/3 cups (15 oz.) sweetened milk
1/2 cup peanut butter

Any ONE of these five ingredients:

(1) 1 cup chopped nut meats
(2) 2 cups bran flakes
(3) 2 cups raisins
(4) 2 cups corn flakes
(5) 2 cups chopped dates

Mix sweetened condensed milk, peanut butter, and any one of the five ingredients listed. Drop by spoonsful on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 30 cookies.

Magic Hot Chocolate

2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1 1/3 cups (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
8 cups boiling water
Few grains of salt

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and boiling water gradually. Add a few grains of salt. Serves nine. May be served cold.

"Sweet Toast"—New Use for Stale Bread

Have you ever played the game where someone mentions a word and you say the word it suggests to you? Probably if they said "stale bread," you'd answer, "bread crumbs." It's only natural because that's the only use most people know for stale bread. At least it's foremost in our minds when we do think of stale bread. However, if you've ever tried Sweet Toast, your reply would probably be such.

Sweet Toast

3 eggs slightly beaten
⅛ cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1/3 teaspoon salt
Stale bread

Cut stale bread in half-inch slices; remove the crust. Dilute slightly beaten eggs with milk; add salt and sugar. Drop the slices of bread into egg mixture, allowing them to soak a few moments, then lift carefully with a spatula to a hot, well greased griddle, using equal parts of lard and butter. Brown on one side, turn and brown on the other. Add more lard and butter if necessary. Serve with maple syrup for breakfast or luncheon, or with apricot sauce for dessert. Stale sponge cake may be used in the same manner.

A Different Pastry To Serve at Lunch

Scotch Cheese Pastries

1 package cream cheese
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons top-cream
½ cup jam or marmalade
1 egg
Powdered sugar

Cream butter and cheese. Sift flour and work in the butter mixture; add the cream and mix well. Roll to one-fourth inch thickness. Shape with a round cooky cutter about four inches in diameter; wet the edges with cold water; put a teaspoon of marmalade in the center of each; fold over; press together; place on an oiled pan; and brush over with slightly beaten egg. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, and bake in a hot oven (375 F) for 15 minutes.

Fry Potatoes, Cool, Refry; Presto, Air Balls

The fried potatoes that so astonish the tourists in Paris are supposed to be a great secret, but it is a simple enough mystery which was discovered by accident.

Take a potato, cut it in rather thick slices and fry them as usual in butter or dripping. Now place them on a plate and let them get perfectly cold. Heat in the frying pan plenty of dripping (oil is used in France) and put in the slices of cold fried potatoes. They will quickly puff up into air balls. Brown and serve in the usual way.

Baked Bean Salad

1 can baked beans
1 cup celery—diced
6 radishes
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika

Put beans in strainer and pour boiling water over them. Cool. Mix beans, celery, salt and paprika and marinate in French dressing. Chill in refrigerator. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with rose radishes. Serve with Russian Dressing.

To help conserve flour, dust rolling pin and bread board with flour, using a large powder puff. This works well and saves time as well as precious flour.

Menu for Spring

It's good timing to make your spring menus colorful and zestful in flavor. On one of those first balmy evenings—serve cold sliced ham, creamed new potatoes with pimento, and fresh green asparagus. Tie in with a salad of crunchy celery and cut-up oranges. Have a lemon pie to finish off the meal, with a swirling top of creamy meringue.

Test Material

Test your material before you proceed to press it. Cut a small piece from a seam and apply a lighted match to it; Pure silk will burn into thin ashes. Celanese will not burn clean through. It will smother and harden.

An oven is not a good place in which to keep food hot, as dry heat takes too much moisture out of the food. Cover closely the dish containing the food and set over boiling water.

Don't Overlook Fats on Meat

All meats contain some fat, some more, some less. Since fat is the most concentrated source of heat and energy, the energy value of a piece of meat depends largely upon the amount of fat on the meat, and how much of it is eaten.

The fat of all meats is easily and almost completely digested by the body. However, it takes a longer time to digest than do sugars and starches. That is why foods containing fat have a greater staying quality.

Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, points out that the character and amount of fat also has much to do with the quality of the meat. Fat increases the palatability of the meat.

Meat which has little fat of its own—such as veal or very lean beef—is improved in eating quality when it is cooked with added fat. Extra fat may be added to a roast by larding the meat or by larding strips of fat over the top. Lean beef which is ground should have extra fat ground with it.

Dusty Roads Harmful to Farm Fruit, Says Tests

Washington, D. C.—Fruit grown near untreated farm-to-market roads is affected by dust according to recent technical research on the contamination of crops, John A. Long, manager, County Highway Officials' Division of the American Road Builders' Association, pointed out at a meeting of county highway officials here. Tests just completed by an agricultural college indicate that in spite of careful spraying, dust-covered fruit is highly susceptible to diseases and parasites affecting vegetation, he declared.

"Here is one more reason for the immediate improvement of our secondary roads," Mr. Long went on. "These roads serve 6,000,000 American farms with an annual production of 12 billion dollars. Over them go the farm products which feed our cities. A farm ten miles from town may have only one mile of road unpaved, but this impassable section maroons the farmer as surely as if the entire distance was unimproved.

"Cattle, swine and other farm animals are no longer driven to market on the hoof," the speaker continued. "They go by truck in numbers totalling many millions of dollars annually. Getting grains, vegetables, fruit and meat to the consumer promptly and in the best condition is a prime concern of the producer, and it is directly dependent on the condition of the highway. This phase of production may mean the difference between profit and loss," he added.

"County highway officials working on plans in cooperation with state highway departments should use care in selecting the type of surface," Mr. Long held. "Naturally the cost is in direct ratio to the volume of traffic. Large mileages carry only light traffic and probably will never be brought to the treated stage. On the other hand, several hundred thousand miles of county and local roads carry sufficient traffic and are of such general importance as to warrant treatment, light surfacing or paving. Obsolescence and depreciation, as in the state system are also important factors to be considered, the engineer declared.

Mr. Long asserted that local materials such as gravel, slag and crushed stone might be advantageously employed in much county road building. Here the road engineer could make an excellent contribution to the operators of vehicles, the taxpayers and residents along the roads by using care in choosing materials which with a minimum of machine manipulation will blend into a dense, hard, smooth surface. This would also be the initial step in construction for any type of pavement that might follow.

Rise in Living Standards Shifts State Work Force

New Jersey, if it keeps pace with the estimated national upswing in living standards, will by 1947 have approximately 1,212,836 of its working population of 1,947,517 employed in service industries, as distinguished from manufacturing and agriculture, according to an analysis of re-employment trends recently made public.

Approximately 780,823 will be engaged in manufacturing and 82,859 in farming in the state, said John E. Haines, who has just completed the survey for Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company.

Haines pointed out that economists recognize a definite correlation between a steady increase in employment in the service industries and a nation's rising standard of living.

"For example, in 1880 the United States had only 25 per cent of its working force in service industries," Haines said. "Through the years the proportion has shifted steadily. In 1920, the national figure was 39.4 per cent, in 1930, 47.2 per cent and in 1940, 51.3 per cent. Manufacturing in 1940 employed 30 per cent of the work force and agriculture 18.7 per cent."

Mr. Haines cited three factors which he said will bring about further increases in the service industries field during the next few years:

1. Necessity of restoring and enlarging the number of outlets in sales and service occupations, greatly depleted during the war.

2. Introduction to the mass market of large number of products and devices which involve customer education as well as product installation and maintenance. Wider use of automatic controls and application of electronics and new materials have given added impetus to this need for service personnel.

3. The normal increase in the growth of service occupations to keep pace with population growth and also with the upcurve in living standards.

In order to build up the ranks of the service industries, which include such currently hard-to-find folks as automobile, appliance and radio repairmen, laundry and domestic workers, sales help and heating plant maintenance men, such organizations as General Motors, Minneapolis-Honeywell, General Electric and Servel, Inc., have accelerated activities of their free training courses since V-J day, it was stated. Associations like the American Institute of Laundering and the Oil Heat Institute of New England also are sponsoring broad educational programs.

New Electric Items Dim Aladdin Lamp

Aladdin's lamp was a fine idea in its time, but in one of the new post-war kitchens it would just be in the way for most of the things it could conjure up in the line of kitchen equipment are already there.

We're not talking about the gadgets — what might be called the Aladdin lamp visions drawn by Rube Goldberg—but some of the new appliances for the home—the tried and tested conveniences. The only likeness between them and the famous lamp is the extent to which they make a housewife happy.

Take the home freezing units. There will be almost as many varieties as there are special needs.

Exit the Defrosting Chore

Of course the majority of the new regular refrigerators contain freezing lockers. These are usually at the top of the refrigerator with a separate door so that the temperature inside the freezing compartment will not be affected when the main door is opened. Then there's the chilling compartment—also a separate section—where vegetables and meat will keep their moisture and flavor.

And one of the appealing aspects of these new sectioned-off refrigerators: they don't require defrosting.

The mechanical dishwashers are getting better, too. There is a small size now, designed for a limited space and pocketbook—that sprays, washes, rinses twice, cleans and drains itself automatically, and then shuts off. Or, if you've room only for one extra cabinet, you'll be able to get a combination clothes and dishwasher.

Small-size heating units are on the market, too. They aren't exclusively for the kitchen—but their services are so universal we wouldn't be surprised to see them there.

One of them is a portable electric heater, easy to manage, easy to store. Small, compact, and safe. It does everything from warming up the brooder chicken house to drying odd paint jobs. It can also heat the bathroom, take the 7 a. m. chill off the breakfast nook, dry socks and gloves quickly, or toast marshmallows.

The other item is a small heat-ray lamp, particularly good as a source of radiation for therapy. But in addition to taking the ache out of tired muscles, it has many domestic applications such as drying hair and fingernail polish quickly.

Aside from perfecting such ideas, electrical manufacturers are figuring out ways of making home look nice longer. Like giving you longer wearing enamel on stoves, refrigerators, and so on, that eliminates pitting, black specking, and blistering, and is bright and easy to clean.

Most of these items are already on the market and there are many others—some of them promised by the first of the year or for early spring.

Three Simple Rules for Profitable

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

1. Make your advertising copy easy to read, friendly and informative. People read newspapers for the news. Give them facts and news about your merchandise and services.

2. Advertise regularly. Do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.

*3. Protect your advertising investment by insisting on audited circulation reports that tell you just what circulation you get for your money. Guesswork is wasteful.

*In order that you may know just what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper, we are members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This is a national, cooperative association of more than 2000 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, the purpose of the Bureau is to establish and maintain definite standards of circulation, audit the circulation records of the publisher members and report this verified information to advertisers.

Annually, one of the Bureau's large staff of trained auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation. The verified facts and figures thus obtained are issued in an official A.B.C. report.

Our A.B.C. report tells how much circulation we have, where the circulation goes, how it was obtained, how much people pay for it and many other facts that you should know when you buy newspaper advertising. Thus when you advertise in this newspaper your investment is in known and verified values.

E. A. Robinson One of Major Poets Of American Scene

Edwin Arlington Robinson, one of America's few major poets, whose most productive period began about 1910, was awarded the Pulitzer prize three times. On his 50th birthday, in 1919, he was America's first living poet, Dr. Jacob Trapp said in introduction to his readings, Thursday evening, March 28.

Mr. Robinson's first wide recognition followed the publication of "The Man Against the Sky," in 1914.

"Between me and the sunset, like a dome
Against the glory of a world on fire, . . .
With nothing on it for the flame to kill
Save one who moved and was alone up there
To loom against the chaos and the glare
As if he were the last god going home
Unto his last desire."

His "Tristram," appearing in 1927, was a best seller. This courageous re-telling of the old theme of the love of Tristram, a Knight of the Round Table, for Iseult, is by far the best version of the story, and he read many passages, advising his listeners to read it for themselves.

Robinson's character sketches of the derelicts he met, were written with no deploring of failure. Of these, Dr. Trapp read several.

From the oddly whimsical "Peace on Earth":

"He took a frayed hat from his head,
And 'Peace on Earth' was what he said."

"Bewick Finzer":

"Time was when his half million drew
The breath of six per cent."

"Luke Havergal," one of the great lyrics which begins,

"Go to the western gate, Luke
Havergal,"—"

The "Octaves" are Robinson's search for a philosophy, "We thrill too strangely at the master's touch," from the second. The fifth deplores man's unwillingness to enter the spiritual battlefield where he cannot fail.

"The Clerks"—"there was a shop-worn brotherhood about them," and "Poets and kings are but the clerks of Time."

Robinson's poem on Lincoln is one of the finest Lincoln poems.

Dr. Trapp read again, "Mr. Flood's Party," with its last lines,

"Where strangers would have closed the doors
Friends opened long ago."

2900 Patients In Lyons Hospital Have 857 Acres

"The hospital belongs to you," so said Colonel Harold E. Foster, M.D., manager of Veterans' Hospital at Lyons, to the Old Guard Tuesday morning. It is not perfect, he said further, but he intimated that the spirit and practice of its personnel gave its patients generally the treatment they would wish, if needed, for members of their own families. Other Veterans' Hospitals are general and surgical or for tuberculosis patients, but this one is for mental cases—yet not for "Cases," rather for men whose minds have been disarranged, often only temporarily, because of war. Thus, out of some 2,500 patients from our second World War, only about 20 per cent have needed to remain more than a few weeks. The other 80 per cent have been replaced by others and the Lyons hospital now has about 2,900 patients altogether. For these patients the government has provided 857 acres, 425 under cultivation, upon which are the hospital buildings of various kinds and a farm with a large number of pigs and a growing herd of cattle. The halls and dining rooms are tinted in warm, homelike colors, the patients are entertained by experts and somewhat by one another and are given, occupational therapy on the farm.

With no such provision after World War I, the Veterans' Administration has, since 1930, developed this and other hospitals. With a fine group of resident physicians and the highest type of consultants, with far too few doctors and nurses, but with men and women devoted to the medical needs and general wellbeing, and chaplains of three faiths to the spiritual care of the patients, the Lyons hospital is doing a very good job, he said. With a larger personnel and fuller equipment he hopes it will render still greater service. Dr. Foster was the Old Guard's guest at the usual Blue Lantern lunch.

Before this talk, Charles Hall reported on a recent visit to the Westwood Old Guard in Bergen County with about 30 charter members.

The speaker for next Tuesday, April 23, in the "Y" auditorium at 10:30 a. m., is Major L. C. Jordy of Drew University; subject, "U. S. Military Government in Germany." Retired men are specially invited.

LETTERS

Did you ever hear anyone complain about the tax they paid on alcoholic beverages, or the amount they paid as bets on horse racing.

In addition we pay six cents tax on each package of cigarettes purchased; six cents on a thirteen-cent article is pretty high, but who complains. On each gallon of gasoline we purchase, a tax of four and one-half cents is included in the amount, per gallon, we pay. Again no one complains.

Perhaps we complain so much about the amount we contribute to make Summit a desirable place in which to live and the services we receive to make us comfortable, we have no complaints left for the luxuries we desire.

When we need an additional policeman or a replacement we take an inexperienced man on probation and start him at a salary basis of $1,800 per year. If he qualifies and is advanced to patrolman we pay him $2,200 to $2,500 per year. In the fire department we start at $1,900 and advance to $2,500 per year. When we employ a teacher in the lower grades it is at a salary of $1,500 per year.

While we believe our policemen are up to or above the average in efficiency, we believe that a teacher who is competent to teach and train a child of school age is worth as much to the City of Summit as any patrolman on the force. I believe it is worth more to train properly a child and teach it good citizenship, the rights of others, character and human values, than it is to arrest a delinquent; bring him to court for trial; send him to a reformatory or penal institute where he will be kept for an indefinite period at the expense of taxpayers. I believe teachers should be paid on the basis of their knowledge, experience and ability to instruct understandingly and to guide properly the children under their care. A hundred or two hundred dollars paid to a teacher with experienced ability will, like bread cast upon the water, be found after many days. A laborer is worthy of his hire, and when a proper salary is paid a teacher for proper work in the school, it will yield a high rate of interest in the saving of cost of prisons and keep of delinquents or handicapped children who by proper care and teaching could have been trained for useful citizenship.

County Directory Is Distributed By Freeholders

Charles M. Affleck, Westfield, clerk of the Board of Freeholders, announced last week the annual county directory, which lists all county officials and executives, including the courts, and also the principal municipal officers has been supplied to public office, to libraries, schools, to the press and to other agencies.

The current edition bears a scarlet paper cover and the county seal in addition to the imprint of the Board of Freeholders. The first few pages are devoted to pictures and biographies of the nine members of the board, led by William I. McMane, Summit, director.

The committee of the board and the county officials directly associated with them are also listed followed by elective county officers, courts and the sundry agencies.

Municipal officials biographies, a sketch of the history of the county and data on population and area of component municipalities conclude the work.

Red Cross Special Events Committee at a Luncheon

A luncheon for the Red Cross Special Events Committee of the Summit Chapter was given by Mrs. Oscar A. Krieger, chairman, at Canoe Brook Country Club on Thursday, April 11. Besides the members of the committee, the party included, as guests of honor, Mrs. John N. May, Jr., and Mrs. Edmund G. von Duhn, who represented their husbands.

After a resume of the work of the various members of the committee and the successful termination of their projects by Mrs. Thomas L. Smith, Mrs. Krieger thanked all for their cooperation and read quotations characterizing the attributes of the various individuals which contributed to the success of the group.

"We're adding circuits to ease the load on long distance!"

Two million miles of new circuits are being added to the Long Distance system throughout the nation this year—and New Jersey is getting its share. These additional circuits are helping to get more and more calls through without delay, despite the increasing load on Long Distance.

And you can be sure we're all working to restore our regular standards of service, and make them even better. In the meantime, if your calls are delayed, we'll appreciate your continued understanding and cooperation.

Journalistic Trend Changes at Rutgers

Enrollment in the Rutgers University School of Journalism has reached an all-time high with 193 men and women students registered in four classes, and the wartime trend which saw women outnumber men for the first time has now been reversed, Dr. Frederic E. Marwin, director of the school, announced today.

Women students continue to outnumber men, 15 to 6, in the present senior class but the trend has changed. The Junior class contains 12 men and 11 women, the sophomore class 34 men and 21 women, and the freshman class 69 men and 25 women.

Board of Education Receives a Letter About Release Time

Board of Education,
Summit, N. J.

Gentlemen:

I have been informed that you are considering the establishment of "released time" for religious instruction in our public schools. As a property owner and taxpayer in Summit I wish to file a most emphatic protest against any such action. Here are some of my reasons.

1. The demand for school time by a church is a pitiful admission of weakness and of instability to hold the interest and co-operation of its flock.

2. The present time spent by our children in actual school session is barely sufficient to do justice to the curriculum. Shortening these hours will work hardship.

3. Our public schools are supposed to be strictly non-sectarian. The establishment of "released time," involving a certain amount of clerical and supervisory work by teachers amounts to using school funds for sectarian purposes. This is clearly unconstitutional.

4. As all pupils will not be released for this instruction, and if those not so released continue with the regular curriculum, they will have an advantage over the released pupils. If, however, these pupils do not continue with their curriculum, the entire class is penalized for the sake of some.

5. This plan will create religious bias among the pupils, those taking advantage of "released time" feeling superior to those that do not.

6. If this religious teaching is given in the school building, as has been done in some instances, it is obviously using our public schools for sectarian purposes—again, unconstitutional.

More reasons might be given, but it seems to me the above should be sufficient. I hope, therefore, that you will most emphatically refuse this request.

HARRY MOORE GUEST.

Y.M.C.A. Closed On Good Friday

Allan R. Devenney, general secretary, announces that in observance of Good Friday, the YMCA building will be closed all day tomorrow, April 19. It has been the annual custom of the "Y" to forego all recreational activities on this day in order that everyone may attend the church of his choice. The groups regularly scheduled to meet on Fridays have expressed approval of cancelling dates for this purpose.

Public Service Employees Training in Fundamentals
