Season's First "Pop Concert" Set for May 27

Plans for the pop concert to be presented by the Summit Symphony Orchestra on May 27 are virtually complete. Harry S. Hannaford, director, has announced a varied program has been planned and arrangements are being made for sandwiches, potato chips, ice cream, etc., to be served before the performance and during intermission, following the pattern of the pop concerts which were originated by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Rehearsals for this concert are well under way; however, Mr. Hannaford has issued a call for extra members in the string section, especially first and second violins and violas.

Any new musicians or former members of the orchestra from Summit or neighboring communities who are interested are invited to attend and are urged to contact Mr. Hannaford at the High School or at Plainfield 6-2649; also the chairman at Summit 6-4382-W or to bring along instruments at the next rehearsal. Tryouts are not necessary and rehearsals are held every Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in the band room of the high school (entrance from Maple street).

The Summit Symphony Orchestra is sponsored by the Board of Recreation and its concerts are open to the public without charge.

Army Man Sails for Japan To Wed Nipponese Miss

Miss Sachiko Tsuchiya

Berkeley Heights — SFC. Vincent Venezia, who spent almost three years in Yokohama, Japan, shipped out yesterday for the land of cherry blossoms and the hand of a petite Japanese interpreter.

The 24-year-old sergeant, on arrival, will marry Miss Sachiko Tsuchiya, 22, an interpreter for the American government. Miss Tsuchiya, a graduate of Tokyo University, will wear an American-style wedding gown and veil at the Catholic rites.

Venezia, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Venezia of Berkeley Heights, is making a career of the Army. He enlisted seven years ago spending two years in Alaska and a year on Guam. After the outbreak of the Korean conflict, Venezia spent nine months in Korea then was sent to Yokohama.

When he left for Japan yesterday, he had completed eight months of duty with the Transportation Center at Fort Eustis, Va. The sergeant is a graduate of Regional High School.

Although Miss Tsuchiya has not been to the United States, her parents lived in Seattle, Wash., for several years before returning to Japan. Her father was a building constructor in the American city.

The couple became engaged a year ago last Easter. They expect to be stationed in Japan for the next three years.

Mayor Proclaims May as Mental Health Month

Mayor Percival M. Bland has issued a proclamation urging the residents of Summit to observe May as Cerebral Palsy Month, and asking co-operation with the 1953 fund raising appeal of the Cerebral Palsy League of Union County.

The annual campaign opens on May 1, and continues throughout the month. It is being observed over the nation by an intensive fund-raising and educational drive geared to reach every one.

The text of the Proclamation follows:

Whereas, there are approximately 1,400 children and adults in Union County today who were born with Cerebral Palsy, and there are an untold number who acquired this condition later in life, some of whom are members of this community, and

Whereas, it has been demonstrated that the majority of the Cerebral Palsied can be helped by proper diagnosis, treatment, care and education but that existing facilities provide for the needs of only a limited number of these individuals, and

Whereas, United Cerebral Palsy of Union County is currently conducting a vigorous county wide attack on this problem, and the success of this campaign will benefit this community by improving and increasing the diagnostic, treatment, and educational facilities offered to the children of Union County at the new Cerebral Palsy Center,

Now, therefore, I, Percival M. Bland, Mayor of the City of Summit, do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1953 as Cerebral Palsy Month, and I call upon the citizens of this community to co-operate in this worthy crusade and respond generously to a great humanitarian appeal.

It took 6,200 toothpicks and 105 sparetime hours for Reinhardt Bruggeman of Michigan to build a 6-foot, 2-inch scale model of the Eiffel Tower. The replica constructed entirely from the toothpicks, weighs nearly five pounds.

Mr. Jones phoned our office and asked us to meet him to discuss selling his house.

"After we arrived, he said, 'You might as well know all the facts. This is the first house we ever bought. So we will need your help all the way through. We don't know how to proceed. But we've read your column in the paper and know you've helped others equally inexperienced.'"

"That's true, Mr. Jones. Frankly all a home owner has to know about selling, is to call our firm. We'll work out all the rest of the details."

"Now, let's inspect your home. We do this for several reasons. To get an idea of its size, arrangement and selling features. Also, to be sure it is in the best shape for selling. And, to estimate its loan value, and finally to establish a fair sales price."

"That sounds reasonable," said Mr. Jones, "look it over."

"We are always glad to assist home owners through the complicated process of home-selling. No matter how 'green' you are at this process, you'll find that by working with us, we are an EXPERIENCED TEAM."

By seeking God, or good, man is able to defeat and overcome sin and its effects, and enjoy a life of righteousness. This theme will be explained in Christian Science churches next Sunday in the lesson-sermon on "Everlasting Punishment."
The golden text is from Hebrews: "No chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby." (12:11)
A further citation from the King James version of the Bible reads: "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people" (Prov. 14:34)
Correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include the following: "The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way . . . To the physical senses, the strict demands of Christian Science seem peremptory; but mortals are hastening to learn that Life is God, good, and that evil has in reality neither place nor power in the human or the divine economy." Local Businessman Becomes Article in British Magazine

"John Bull," the British equivalent of the Saturday Evening Post, in its April 4 issue, devotes several pages and illustrations to the recent visit of a Summit businessman, George Louis Gottfried, owner of George's Auction Rooms and Antique Shop at 83 Summit Avenue.

The article, headed "Mr. Gottfried comes hunting for bric-a-brac," describes how the Summit man represents part of the American drive that has made a big business out of the once sedate trade in British antiques.

Calling Mr. Gottfried "a hustler from New Jersey," the magazine tells of some of the difficulties he encounters by a feeling among English antique dealers that Americans are stripping the country of its treasures.

Mr. Gottfried, the article states, flies to England six times a year in search of Georgian silver, Henlewhite chairs, Wedgwood china and Victorian knick-knacks. Recently he offered to buy the entire contents of a London shop for 8,000 pounds but "the guy wasn't selling," Gottfried told the author.

Street lamps from London and other towns are now the rage in America, the Summit man states. For most of his goods, Gottfried pays between five shillings and 100 pounds. For "something really good," he goes higher. With each trip he spends 10,000 pounds in dollars. Gottfried rarely attends British auctions but relies upon contacts with dealers. He prefers to deal with people he knows because, he is quoted, "many dealers regard Americans as mugs with money to burn."

Mechanical Strike Upsets Old Guard Meeting Tuesday

Mechanical difficulties which could not be solved even by the many Bell Laboratories men and others present prevented the showing of a scheduled film at the Old Guard meeting on Tuesday.

However, latent talent in the group, composed of George McCampbell, William B. Bachelor, Charles R. Riney, Ernest Fleming (passing through from his winter home at Ausable, N. Y.), Francis Dori, William Gehrig, Louis Nuss, Walter Brewer and Arthur Manner, all of whom told stories to pass a pleasant hour.

It was also birthday time and nine of the fifteen members born during the month were given the usual birthday greeting, followed by the birthday song.

Harry Wilson, George Brewer (son of Walter B. Brewer) from California, and George Frost of Barnardville, a prospective member, were introduced as guests.

A. E. Petrie, program chairman for the month, sixty-two of the 108 present had luncheon at the William Pitt in Chatham.

Mayor Proclaims May as Cerebral Palsy Month

Mayor Percival M. Bland has issued a proclamation urging the residents of Summit to observe May as Cerebral Palsy month, and asking co-operation with the 1953 fund raising appeal of the Cerebral Palsy League of Union County.

The annual campaign opens on May 1, and continues throughout the month. It is being observed all over the nation by an intensive fund-raising and educational drive geared to reach everyone.

The text of the proclamation follows:

Whereas there are approximately 150 children and adults in Union County today who were born with Cerebral Palsy, and there are an untold number who acquired this condition later in life, some of whom are members of this community, and

Whereas it has been demonstrated that the majority of the Cerebral Palsied can be helped by proper diagnosis, treatment, cure and education but that existing facilities provide for the needs of only a limited number of these individuals, and

Whereas United Cerebral Palsy of Union County is currently conducting a year-long county wide attack on this problem, and the success of this campaign will benefit this community by improving and increasing the diagnostic, treatment, and educational facilities offered to the children of Union County at the new Cerebral Palsy Center.

Now, therefore, I, Percival M. Bland, Mayor of the City of Summit, do hereby proclaim the Month of May 1953, as Cerebral Palsy

Month, and I call upon the citizens of this community to cooperate in this worthy crusade and respond generously to a great humanitarian appeal.

J. M. Gross of 56 Sheffield Avenue, president of the Multi-Amp Corp. of Harrison, has announced the invention and manufacture of a new test instrument that reduces electrical equipment failures. The new instrument cuts down on equipment and power failures and reduces the threat of electrical fires, it was stated.

Called the "Industrial Multi-Amp," the instrument was invented and developed by Mr. Gross. It was demonstrated last week before a group of plant engineers.

A City Arbor Day Program

Several weeks ago in these columns we suggested that the city and possibly other organizations such as garden and service clubs join in a program to "re-forest" our streets. The proposal produced a few comments of general approval.

Now that the streets throughout the city are turning into leafy bowers, we again deplore the fact that Summit has no plan whereby trees can be planted by individuals or groups at a minimum cost. Other cities and communities have such arrangements.

Both Newark and Elizabeth, to mention only a few, will plant a tree on private property for just the cost of the tree. The municipality absorbs the labor charge. This is "done" because the administrations firmly believe that trees represent an inexpensive way of beautifying the cities. Shade Tree crews in the cities mentioned above will dig the hole, install a tree two inches in diameter, fill the hole with top soil and fertilizer and then guarantee the job to the extent that the tree will be replaced if it fails to live. All of this is permissible under state laws.

Perhaps such a program is too ambitious for Summit. We do not know. But Summit could inaugurate an annual Arbor Day whereby seedlings would be made available to all private property owners who want them at an extremely nominal cost. At the same time city-owned or maintained lands could be planted by youth organizations.

Seedlings are provided for such projects by the State Department of Conservation which furnishes trees at a nominal cost to any community having at least ten acres of land suitable for planting.

It would seem likely that civic-minded associations and organizations would participate in an Arbor Day program by both making small financial contributions to defray the costs of the trees and by assisting in the actual planting of them to improve parks, streets and other areas. Homeowners could also make individual purchases from the city.

We do not think that such a program would run contrary to private enterprise inasmuch as the choice of trees and the size would be limited. The project would be a long-range one, aimed primarily at beautifying the city in the years to come.

A Problem Shared by All

One of the most difficult problems being faced by municipalities is the estimation of school needs for the next decade or longer. The Board of Education of New Providence Borough is now at grips with this problem. A meeting is being held in that community this evening to discuss the situation and a solution.

Because this problem has a direct tie to every resident of the Borough, either as a taxpayer or parent or both, it should be of the utmost importance to all residents. It is not fair to ask that school officials, Borough Councilmen and a handful of others share the responsibility of solving the problem.

Briefly, the Borough will need a high school. Use of the Summit system may be denied, leaving the community with no high school facilities.

There are four possible ways of providing these facilities. The Borough could build its own high school plant; it could seek admission to the Union County Regional District; it could join with Morris County communities faced with the same problem in establishing a new regional school district, or it could adapt the present Lincoln School building by expansion into a high school.

Participation in a regional district is attractive—but costly. It is also irrevocable. Once a member, always a member. Very often a community in a regional system finds itself paying more than it believes it should and the aggregate costs exceed the community's needs, or ability to pay. There have been many instances of communities discovering too late that a high school could be built for less than the perpetual expenses of being a part of a regional district.

It has been said that the Borough's preschool population exceeds the total number of those now enrolled in Lincoln School. If this is true, it might be most practical to look ahead ten or twenty years and plan for a Borough-owned and operated high school. State laws provide for a number of students before a municipality can establish its own high school but the rate of growth experienced by the Borough indicates that the community is eligible.

In any event the cost of providing a high school education for the children of New Providence is going to be an extremely expensive one and one that must be faced squarely right now. The tax rate is high at present and it will become higher.

At this point practical planning combined with foresight of the type demonstrated by the Borough Board of Education is of great aid. Some localities are more fortunate than others in having education authorities more alert to trends and willing to undertake the preliminary chores that go with a detailed and comprehensive program that will eventually be adopted.

But again we stress that it is a community problem and the school and municipal officials should be aided in every way by the community. One way to do this is to become fully and accurately acquainted with the problem on hand—and this can be done by attending tonight's meeting.

Cleanliness Should Be Permanent

Summit's annual spring "clean-up" week starts this coming Monday. The city has announced schedules for removal of trash and householders are urged to clear their premises of the winter's accumulation of debris. Business places are being asked to do likewise.

In all this there is little that can not be made a year around habit instead of a once-a-year departure from the norm. While the city is sending out its trucks and crews on a stepped-up basis to pick up the seasonal heavy volume of trash, it is true that collections are made throughout the year on regular schedules.

Any arguments heard now to induce neatness about the home and place of business should hold good all through the calendar year. Instead of a periodic spell of feverish activity followed by 51 weeks of lethargy, citizens should aim to make civic cleanliness a continuing policy.

Nothing so handicaps a town as dirty streets, untidy yards and shabby neighborhoods. Every citizen in Summit has a responsibility to do something about this—if it is only to restrain that impulse to toss a cigarette-pack, a gum wrapper, onto the sidewalk or street rather than drop it in trash receptacles or carry it in a pocket for later disposal. This is what clean-up planners envision—an enduring habit of civic cleanliness rather than a seasonal spurt.

Proclamations

Keen observers of local news trends may note that this week we print two statements by the Mayor proclaiming special weeks and/or months. This is the season of proclamations. Last week there were two. Future weeks will bring more.

Whoever invented the custom of proclamations must carry a great burden on his soul. They are pompously phrased in semi-legal style with a liberal sprinkling of "whereas," "let-it-be-known" and "henceforth" which all add up to nothing but a bit of extra newspaper space for the organization involved.

We do not blame the Mayor for these proclamations. They are thrust upon him by well-meaning persons interested in the advancement of their own favorite appeal, charity or organization. The Mayor must affix his signature and the dignity of his office to them or he runs the risk of being censured. It is all a part of a conspiracy hatched up by publicity agents.

There used to be a time, long, long ago, when a proclamation by a government official meant something. Usually such proclamations were tacked upon the tavern door, the stately elm of the village green or the bulletin board of the meeting house. Persons stopped to read them for they usually affected the tempo of the community.

Nowadays we venture that no one bothers to read that the Mayor has proclaimed this week a special one or next month a period during which all residents should observe something else. The proclamation of today carries no weight or authority. It simply wastes time and newspaper space.

Fortunately, we are not bothered with proclamations for Potato Week, National Doughnut Week or American Foam Rubber Week. There are such weeks, you know.

The Herald is not complaining. It is merely questioning. We'll go along with the Mayor and his proclamations but we are frankly puzzled as to merit of this form of publicity. In our opinion a news item simply stating that such-and-such a week or campaign is beginning on a certain date is more effective than a ponderous, pedantic statement given quasi-authority because of the Mayor's signature.

The Teacher

(Baltimore Sun)

In Washington, a National Education Association survey notes that the country school-teacher is a changed woman. Fifteen years ago she was a young girl embracing teaching until she could embrace a husband, earned $867 a year, boarded with a family and helped with the chores around the house. Today she is married, drives her own car, makes about $2,484, lives in her own home and doesn't do the janitor work when she gets home. All in all she's apparently a better schoolmarm than her mother was.

Declines Nomination

April 27, 1953

Editor, Summit Herald:
While I am a Democrat in state and national politics, I have never felt that party labels have much meaning in municipal government. There is no particularly Republican or Democratic way of collecting garbage or of policing traffic. The important thing is that the members of our City Council think and act as representatives of all Summit citizens.

This year the Republicans in their primary vote have nominated for Councilman at Large a man who, I am sure, will use his very real abilities in the interests of all our people. He will bring to the Common Council a fresh and independent point of view as well as considerable experience in our local government.

I feel that with Bill Gilson's nomination on the Republican ticket for Councilman at Large the interests of our community will be well served.

Therefore, with thanks to those

Moonless Evenings Favor Week-end Stargazing

(Time given is Standard; add one hour for Daylight Saving Time.)

The moon, approaching new, rises in the early morning hours. Before dawn you can see the horned moon near the brilliant planet Venus... a beautiful sight. Sunday they pass each other in longitude, our satellite four degrees north of our sister planet.

At ten in the evening trace the imaginary line of the meridian, south to overhead to north. Just east of this line close to overhead, is an orange star, bright Arcturus, of the constellation Boötes. The main body of the constellation is a loop of stars north of Arcturus. The small loop northwest of Arcturus is the Northern Crown.

In the south, the planet Saturn and the star Spica, both quite bright. The planet is north of, and brighter than the star. Slow-moving Saturn makes the circuit of the heavens only in 29½ years. Spica is a blue-white star, 1065-000,000,000,000 miles distant from our solar system.

Southwest of Saturn and Spica, that irregular quadrangle you see is Corvus, the Crow. He was placed among the stars, legend tells us, because he served as well as Apollo's "private eye."

Between east and northeast, brilliant Vega, the "Arc-light of the Sky." It is the brightest star in the constellation we call "The Lyre."

In the north, very high, the Big Dipper. The two end stars of the Bowl, the Pointers, show the way to the North Star, always north and as many degrees above the horizon as you are degrees north of the equator (your North Latitude).

Between west and northwest, well up, see Gemini, the Twins, two stars nearly matched in brilliance.

Donations Above Average

On the question of Summit's ability to finance its welfare activities, the survey committee pointed out that the average value of one-family homes in Summit in the 1950 census was $18,900, third highest of communities in the state with populations over 10,000. The Summit Real Estate Board reported average sale prices of one-family homes at $20,500 in 1952. The committee pointed out that the average of one-family owner-occupied homes for the State is $10,408. Summit topped twelve other well-known communities in per capita giving to Community Chests in 1952. The nearest was Greenwich, Conn., with $7.25 per person against $7.50 per person in Summit.

The Committee commented:

"Perhaps the citizens of Summit have not given enough and perhaps they have not given until it hurts, but certainly they have done rather well in comparison with their neighbors."

"The obvious conclusion is that the citizens have the financial ability to meet community needs, that they are interested in community affairs and that they will support requests if they are satisfied as to their usefulness and as to their essentiality."

The Summit Herald will publish the full text of the report in two sections. The first installment appears on page 10 of this issue.

member of the Westminster College faculty and minister of music at Ogden Memorial Church in Chatham.

The program will include the Mozart Requiem Mass in D Minor which the composer wrote in full presentiment of his own death. The night in which he died he gave the score to his friend and pupil Susmeyer who completed the work. Mozart's characteristic grace and vibrancy and his employment of melodic and powerful fugues are well exemplified in this composition.

The Domine Deus, a soprano-duet from the Grand Mass in C, and the familiar Ave Verum will complete the program. The public is cordially invited to attend this concert, for which there is no admission charge. An offering will be received.

YW Delegates To Attend Seminar

Miss Dorothy Sabiston, executive director of the Summit YWCA, and Mrs. George Hanley of 10 Park avenue, will represent the local organization at the YW seminar in Washington, May 6-10. They will join with YW representatives from 14 states. Three representatives from Egypt, Formosa and Japan, who are studying in this country, also will attend.

In addition to attending House and Senate sessions and visiting the various government departments, the group will be addressed by Dr. George Galloway of the Library of Congress on "Government and How It Works," Abe Fortas, attorney, on "Reconciling Security and Freedom," Alfred Friendly of the Washington Post on "American Trade Policy," and John Edelman of the CIO on "Labor's Positive Role in American Life."

GIVE to fight Mental Illness!

Ring the Bell For Mental Health!

THE UNION COUNTY (New Jersey) ASSOCIATION FOR MENTAL HEALTH is part of a nation-wide network of such associations headed by the National Association for Mental Health, 1790 Broadway, New York.

The Mental Health Fund will enable these associations to:

1. Arouse citizen interest in, and awareness of the problem of mental illness.
2. Organize citizen action to provide more research to discover the cause and cure of mental illness . . . more treatment facilities and community services to help people with mental and emotional problems as they arise and before they become serious enough to require hospitalization.
3. Increase public awareness of basic mental health principles in order to promote positive mental health in our communities.

Here in Union County our Mental Health Association has been carrying on the following program:

1. It has been conducting a field study survey to determine:
 - (a) What are the basic mental health needs of Union County?
 - (b) How are these needs being met?
 - (c) How can we expand existing services (clinics, consulting services, special services in schools, etc.) to bridge the gap?

2. It has interpreted the need for more clinic services in Union County to legislators, citizen groups, professional groups in order to help secure funds to provide for this unmet need.

3. It has worked with P.T.A. groups, teachers, nurses, ministers, etc., setting up educational programs to help people gain greater insight into problems of everyday living.

The association presented an all day Film Festival in Elizabeth on October 2nd which provided an opportunity for professional workers, educators and program chairmen throughout Union County to preview mental health films, and learn how to secure them and how to use them as the core of educational discussion meetings. As a result, over fifty programs were set up by groups all over the county. For many of these professional leaders were supplied by the association at a very nominal fee. This Film Festival will be presented annually.

4. It has distributed hundreds of authentic educational pamphlets at cost.

5. It has furnished speakers to organizations free of charge to interpret to them the problem of mental illness and the need for citizen action.

6. It has presented two well-known lecturers, and an outstanding Mental Health play as a community service for citizens of Union County at open meetings of the Association.

Your contribution to the Mental Health Fund will enable your Mental Health Association to continue and enlarge this program.

Theology Student Pays $200 Fine In Police Court

New Providence — Edwin H. Blackburn, 26, a senior at Drew Theological Seminary, was fined $200 and placed on probation for one year after being found guilty of disorderly conduct by Magistrate Frank A. Pizzi in police court Tuesday evening. A condition of the probation was that Blackburn submit to a psychiatric examination by the Union County Probation Board.

Specifically, the charge was indecent exposure in the presence of two 13-year-old girls whom Blackburn was driving home from a youth conference in Dover on March 21. Testimony of the two girls was taken in the judge's chambers after Judge Pizzi had refused a request by defense counsel that the court be cleared and the case heard privately. According to testimony one of the girls jumped out of the car as Blackburn slowed down for an intersection and ran to the home of George Bischoff, a special officer in Berkeley Heights, who called Berkeley Heights police.

Blackburn was judged in the Berkeley Heights jail over night but when it was found that the alleged offense had occurred in Union Avenue in the Borough he was returned over to Borough police who released him in $500 bail.

Sergeant Vito LaSasso and Officer Carl Carpenter, of the Berkeley Heights police, and Patrolman James Venezia and Chief Harry High of the Borough police, appeared as prosecution witnesses.

Appearing for Blackburn were Dr. Mace, professor of human relations at Drew, and Dr. Clarence E. Craig, dean of Drew. A letter from Dr. Albert Ellis, a State psychologist, was also presented for the defendant.

Dr. Craig said that Blackburn had had as "high recommendations as any student ever had" when he was accepted by the seminary for the training for the ministry. Dr. Mace stated that he had given Blackburn a "very thorough" psychological examination

High School Problem Topic For Public Meeting Tonight

New Providence — A public meeting to re-activate the Lay Committee on Education will be held tonight in Lincoln School at 8 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to begin consideration of the high school problem, which is expected to become acute by September, 1955. Summit High School has notified Borough authorities that it does not expect to be able to accommodate Borough students after that date.

The local Board, already hard-pressed for facilities to handle the increasing enrollment, has suggested four possible plans, which will be discussed at tonight's meeting. They are: 1, should the Borough build its own high school; 2, should the Borough try to enter the Union County Regional plan; 3, should the Borough try to form its own Regional plan with Morris County; 4, should the Borough try to use the present school as a junior-senior high school.

Formation of a separate senior high school, Allen W. Roberts, superintendent, said this week, would mean eliminating the present junior high school and reverting to the eighth grade grammar school with four years of high school. He had no comment on other suggestions.

The present Lincoln School has nine rooms above ground and two sub-standard rooms in the basement, and a wood shop. The recent addition to the school has eight rooms, a cafeteria used as a study hall during non-meal hours, and a home economics room. The new school now under construction will have 12 classrooms and one kindergarten, but, according to the Board of Education will be outgrown by the school year 1955-56.

Both Borough Hall and the Presbyterian Chapel have been utilized in the last few years to care for the overflow but by 1955 even these will not be enough to provide for the enrollment. The anticipated enrollment in the next five years is already greater than the present enrollment in the classes which has caused many of the classes to be split up into five and six sections—a situation that will not be relieved even with the new school facilities.

Fred Brewster, chairman of the Lay Committee, has invited all residents of the Borough to attend tonight's meeting to plan for the critical period ahead.

Mr. Roberts said this week that exactly the same schedule of buses and classes will prevail for the next school year, starting in September. Classes now on part time will continue, and there will be no change in the operation of school buses.

Judge Withholds Ruling on Taxi, Prowl Car Crash

New Providence — Magistrate Frank A. Pizzi reserved decision on a charge of making an improper turn preferred by Patrolman Richard Schmidt against William Delaney of 167 Maple street, Summit, as an aftermath of an accident on February 23 in Springfield avenue. Schmidt said he had just started in pursuit of a speeder when Delaney, a cab driver for more than 40 years, turned ahead of him and the police car hit the cab Delaney was driving. Damage was minor and no one was injured.

Delaney said that he had started to make the turn when he "heard this car coming so fast, and his brakes did not hold." There was also a dispute about the speed of the police car, Schmidt stating he was doing "about 30 or 35 miles per hour" and Delaney claiming that the car was traveling faster than that. Schmidt also showed a wide variance, Schmidt stating that they measured 57 feet and Delaney claiming they were 180 feet.

Caroline Delmonico of Third street was fined $15 on a charge of assault and battery preferred by a seven-year-old boy through his father, Nicholas Fusco.

Truck Capsizes In Diamond Hill Speed Check-up

Berkeley Heights — Use of the electric timing device on Diamond Hill road last Thursday and Friday resulted in the fending out of three summons to speeding motorists and also the capsizing of a heavy truck which attempted too quick a slowdown in speed.

The truck accident occurred at 3:45 p.m. Thursday when a seven-ton enclosed truck owned by the Cook & Dunn Paint Co. of Newark and driven by Raymond S. Groinski, 25, of Newark, was signaled by Patrolman Harold I. Cardia, who with Vito Amadeo was checking speeders with the electric timer.

The loaded truck applied brakes quickly but went out of control and plowed 80 feet onto the lawn of A. C. Turnbull, 258 Diamond Hill road, where it finally came to a stop on its side. Three dogwood trees were ripped up. The owner valued them at more than $100.

The truck driver escaped injury but was taken to Overlook Hospital for observation and later released. He was charged with reckless driving.

On Wednesday night a passenger car owned by Fred A. Smith of Plainfield avenue rolled down the Smith driveway with no one at the wheel and collided with a passenger car owned and operated by John G. Phillips of Emerson lane. The Phillips car was overturned by the crash and damaged beyond repair, police said. Mr. Phillips received slight injuries, according to Serg. Vito LaSasso who investigated.

Although many drivers were of the opinion that police were staging a "drive" on Diamond Hill road speeding, Mayor Anton C. Swenson, chairman of the police committee, denied this. He said, "the boys had a little more time than usual on their hands and wanted to see how the timer worked."

However he added, the check is bound to have a psychological effect upon potential speeders and help reduce road dangers. The Township has not had a traffic fatality in nearly nine years.

held, because two distinct groups were to be presented. One group was for Pizzi and one for Beardsley. Murray was not included on either.

Murray addressed the group representatives from the town in a concluding speech for Pizzi's nomination, and in her remarks charged that pressure had been exerted upon her to determine whether or not she would support Pizzi. She stated that she felt the Pizzi vote in her district was a clear and distinct vote in favor of Pizzi ticket, and describing the pressure put upon her to align herself with Beardsley she mentioned the names of several prominent Summit residents who, she said, called her on Tuesday in an effort to persuade her to support Beardsley.

Doerr Claims Troast Gift

Doerr also addressed the meeting and repeated his argument that "a change is needed" because of the large Forbes vote and publicly accused Freshholder Benninger of admitting to him (Doerr) that Troast interests had contributed more than $5,000 to the Hickok Valentine campaign in the 1952 primary. This same allegation had been frequently heard during the recent primary campaign but Doerr's accusation is believed to be the first one publicly stated. The charge was later denied by Benninger after the meeting.

McLean Report on Summit United Campaign and Welfare Needs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the full text of the second section of the "McLean Report" on the United Campaign and its member agencies. This second section pertains to a review of the United Campaign organization and an analysis of present difficulties. Next week the Herald will publish the first section which concerns the "required human needs in the community. Red Feather and other agencies concerned with these needs, and the scope, method and cost of a survey."

On December 8, 1952 the central committee of the United Campaign authorized the appointment of a committee to be known as the "Social Welfare Review Committee of the City of Summit." The purpose of the committee is to consider and make recommendations to the central committee on the scope, method and cost of a survey of:

(a) the extent to which existing functions of the Red Feather agencies, and other social welfare agencies in Summit, are meeting the presently reported as well as the required real human needs of the community, and the extent to which duplication in function exists, if any;

(b) the estimated future needs of the community as compared with the estimated availability of services;

(c) whether adequate policies of public and human relations are presently followed by the agencies to assure that the giving public is aware of the functions and responsibilities of the agencies;

(d) the financial ability of the citizens of Summit to meet community needs;

(e) whether the present form of the Central Committee and of the United Campaign organization is adequate or outmoded, and whether a reconstitution is required;

(f) how funds to defray the costs of the survey shall be raised.

At its meeting on January 20, the following persons were unanimously elected to serve as members of the committee:

Donald H. McLean, Jr., chairman; Alfred W. Alesbury, John M. Blackmar, Dr. Evelyn Holt, John G. MacKechie, Mrs. Richard L. Miller and John M. Reeves.

The unanimous views of the Committee are set forth below.

The Committee concluded at the outset that in approaching its task and in presenting its conclusions to the Central Committee there were two broad areas which required analysis, namely, community needs and the problems incident to raising funds to meet these needs. Section I of this report is concerned with the former, and discusses the issues raised by paragraphs (a) and (b) of the resolution of the Central Committee. Section II is concerned with the latter, and with the issues raised in paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of the resolution. Section III of this report discusses the means of financing such survey or surveys as may be authorized by the Central Committee.

Scope and Cost of Survey

Should there be a survey of the Red Feather and other agencies conducting programs of social welfare, recreation, character-building and health to determine (1) whether they are meeting the presently reported as well as the required real human needs of the community; (2) the extent to which duplication in functions may exist if any; and (3) the estimated future needs of the community as compared with the estimated availability of services?

Obviously, it would be useful to have an independent survey of the scope indicated in the preceding paragraph and helpful suggestions could result. The Committee has reached the conclusion that an outside survey in this area to be of any real significance should include a broad analysis of the needs of the community and a consideration of the activities of the private agencies and of the City of Summit. It is difficult to see how a survey of a more limited character would be of any significance since the problems with which the agencies are concerned are interrelated and since there is a close relationship between the programs which are sponsored by the various agencies. For this reason in obtaining an estimate of the cost of a survey as suggested in the resolution of the Central Committee we have assumed an overall type of survey which we understand would cost between $7,500 and $10,000 depending entirely upon the hypothesis established by the Central Committee for the study.

The Committee is of the opinion that in view of the apparently adequate coverage by existing agencies and the limited duplication which seems to exist, the facts do not seem to indicate the need for an expenditure of the amount indicated for an outside survey at the present time of the items raised in paragraphs (a) and (b) of the Central Committee resolution. This should not be construed to mean, however, that we feel there is no need for a study of standards and for constant self-study by the community of its ever-changing needs which might even involve the retaining of outside consultants from time to time with respect to specific problems. In this connection we re-emphasized that the Central Committee give serious consideration to allocating responsibility within its organization for this function to be performed on a continuing basis.

Campaign Structure and Experience

Review of United Campaign Organization and Analysis of Present Difficulties:

The United Campaign was organized in Summit in 1952 as a result of the desire of seven private organizations (Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Central YMCA, YWCA, Lincoln YMCA, Summit Home and Cooperative Association, now Family Service Association) to reduce the costs of annual appeals to relieve professional workers of the time-consuming task of fund raising and to relieve the community from the number of direct appeals made during the course of each year. At the present time all private agencies conducting active social welfare, health and recreation character-building programs in the United Campaign with the exception of the Visiting Nurse Association, the Summit Chapter of the American Red Cross and religious groups. The agencies noted as exceptions raise funds independently through direct solicitation. The national health organizations, including the American Cancer Society, the Heart Fund, the Union County Tuberculosis Association, the March of Dimes, etc., raise funds mostly through mail solicitation.

Basic Structure Same

Although there have been minor modifications over the years in the form of the United Campaign organizations, the basic structure has remained the same. The emphasis has been on a "united" campaign. As presently constituted there are nine members of the Central Committee representing each of the participating agencies and six "members-at-large." In addition, the chairman of the United Campaign is a member of the Central Committee. The chairman is elected annually. His principal responsibility is to organize and conduct the United Campaign on behalf of the nine member agencies. The principal campaign volunteer leader may and do attend and participate in the monthly meetings of the Central Committee but have no vote.

The practice has been for the participating agencies to submit their requirements for community support to the Central Committee. The campaign goal is based upon these estimates plus the modest campaign cost of approximately six percent per annum. The requirements submitted in general consist of the contemplated deficiencies in the budgets of the agencies for the ensuing year. Although there have been some adjustments made by the Central Committee in agency budget requests, the Central Committee in recent years has generally accepted substantially the budgets as submitted. Prior to establishing the final goal for each campaign the budget estimates of each agency have been considered by a Budget Review Committee whose individual members have examined the figures of the agencies. They have not been authorized to make these figures to the activities of the individual agencies or to question whether the items in a particular budget are justified from the point of view of philanthropic need.

Goals Not Met

In the campaign conducted in 1951 the stated requirements of the agencies, including United Campaign expenses, were approximately $147,000. This was accepted by the Central Committee as the campaign goal. Of this amount $137,000 was raised. In the 1952 campaign original agency requests, including campaign expenses, aggregated approximately $164,000 but the Central Committee refused to accept this figure on the ground that the amount could not be raised. The goal was reduced to $147,000 the same as had been established for 1951. In the campaign which followed, approximately $131,000 was raised. Thus, the overall budget requirements of the agencies, including campaign expenses, were reduced first by the Central Committee from $164,000 to $147,000 and then by the "short-fall" in the campaign from $147,000 to $131,000. This double reduction in requested amounts caused the agencies and the Central Committee to consider the possibility of a general survey. The "short-fall" in the appointment of the Social Welfare Review Committee.

Analysis of Campaign Difficulties

In Section I of this report we considered the economic and the necessity for a survey with respect to paragraphs (a) and (b) of the resolution of the Central Committee. Paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of the resolution raise the central problem with which the Central Committee was primarily concerned when it appointed the Social Welfare Review Committee, namely, the causes for the difference between the requests of the Red Feather agencies and the amount which the community has been willing to contribute in support of their programs.

The resolution suggested the possible areas of inquiry (a) the financial ability of the citizens of Summit to meet community needs; (b) whether adequate policies of public and human relations are presently followed by the agencies to assure that the giving public is aware of the functions and responsibilities of the agencies; and (c) whether the present form of the Central Committee and of the United Campaign organization is adequate or outmoded. These and related issues are analyzed below not with a view toward providing conclusive answers but rather to assist the Central Committee in formulating an opinion as to the need and the scope of a survey with reference to paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) of its resolution.

Financial Ability of City

As to the question of whether the goal is beyond the capabilities of the community, it is interesting to note that, based upon the 1950

Census, the average value of one-family owner-occupied houses in Summit is $18,660 which is the third highest among the communities in the State with populations in excess of 10,000. According to the Summit Real Estate Board the average sale price of one-family residences in Summit in 1952 was $20,500. It is also interesting to note that the average value of one-family owner-occupied houses in the State is $10,408. The median income for families and unrelated individuals according to the 1950 Census figures was one of the highest in the State and family income is one of the highest in the nation.

In addition, the Visiting Nurse Association has exceeded its goal for each of the four years since it has been independent of the Red Cross and conducting its own campaign. The Red Cross has consistently been successful in reaching its goal of roughly $45,000. It is conservatively estimated that church contributions in the community in support of annual budgets exceed $600,000 per annum, excluding drives for capital funds.

Donations High

Even with respect to the United Campaign, the contributions of the citizens of Summit in 1952 compared favorably on a per capita basis with Community Chest contributions elsewhere, as will be observed from the following table:

Community	Amount Received for United Campaign	Population	Per Capita Contribution
Summit	$22,500	18,000	$1.25
Paterson	$17,450	18,000	$0.97
Scarsdale, N.Y.	$67,750	19,000	$3.57
Yonkers	$67,750	21,000	$3.23
Englewood	$29,000	23,145	$1.25
Ridgewood	$19,500	25,000	$0.78
Carle Place, L.I.	$62,640	40,000	$1.57
White Plains, N.Y.	$62,640	43,000	$1.46
Montclair	$62,640	43,775	$1.43
Greenwich, Conn.	$23,430	44,600	$0.53
Bloomfield	$23,430	50,000	$0.47
Caldwell	$23,430	50,000	$0.47
Plainfield	$23,430	53,000	$0.44

Perhaps the citizens of Summit have not given enough and perhaps they have not "given until it hurts" but certainly they have gone rather well in comparison with their neighbors.

The obvious conclusion is that the citizens have the financial ability to meet community needs, that they are interested in community affairs and that they will support requests if they are satisfied as to their usefulness and as to their essentiality. No outside survey would seem to be required to verify this. It would thus seem that we must look to some other causes for our present difficulties.

Other Possible Causes

If we are satisfied as to financial ability of the citizens of Summit to respond to valid community needs, we still have unresolved the central problem with which this section of the report is concerned, namely, the causes of the difference between the requests of the Red Feather agencies and the amount which the community has been willing to contribute. The "failure" of the United Campaign caused by the unwillingness of the community to respond to the full extent desired by the agencies could be caused by a lack of confidence in the agencies (which generally does not seem to exist) or to a lack of confidence in their asserted requirements or, assuming the validity of the requirements, to a failure on the part of the agencies to make the public aware of their needs either directly or through the United Campaign organization. In a broad sense the answer would seem to lie in the area of requirements and fund-raising machinery which includes good "public relations." If the requirements are valid, the collection machinery must be effective. If the collection machinery is effective then the requirements must be defective. Unfortunately, it is not possible to test these hypotheses on an independent basis. It is, however, possible to analyze them independently and this we have attempted to do below having in mind the extent to which a survey might be useful.

Requirements

Responsibility for the validity of the requirements of the individual agencies lies, in the first instance, with the staff and with the Board of Directors of each of the agencies. The problems involved in the financing of agency operations vary as widely as the activities of the Hospital vary from the activities of the Girl Scouts. The methods used by the agencies in financing their programs are not the least of which is that most of them are affiliated with national organizations and must conform to national policies as to membership fees and related charges. There are certain matters in this connection over which the local agencies have no local control. For this reason it is extremely difficult to establish uniformity in the financial arrangements of the various agencies and in the past no attempt has been made to do so.

The result is that decisions as to program content, budgets, the allocation of budget requirements as between the participants and the community and the disposition of funds collected as between the local operation, the regional organization and the national organization have been made in the sole discretion of the agencies. The requirements which are submitted annually to the community consist of those funds which the agencies feel they require and which they feel they are not justified in charging to participants. The decision as to what is and what is not a valid amount to call on the community for has been primarily an agency decision.

No Personal Choice

In the days when agencies made their individual appeals for funds, people could contribute or not depending entirely upon their conception of the validity of the program of a particular agency. If an agency failed to respond to community needs the agency would die. Other agencies would not be affected. The problem is much more complex, however, when several agencies are banded together and in substance delegate their fund-raising responsibilities to others. In the process they have become to borrow a legal phrase "affected with the public interest." In the same process the donors have lost their right to select between agencies. They have no effective way of asserting a preference. They are asked to "give once for all" as a community responsibility.

Solicitor Must 'Sell' Group

The statement is frequently heard in the course of such campaign that a person will not give to the United Campaign because he feels that all or a part of the activities of a particular participating agency are not necessary or that one agency is getting a larger percentage of the total than the contribution of that agency to the community would seem to warrant. Unfortunately, under present procedures these allegations cannot be effectively rebutted. It must be possible for a solicitor to assert with confidence that all the activities of all the agencies are essential, that every dollar given in support of such activities is necessary and will be spent efficiently. Every United Campaign giver is entitled to such assurances and without such assurances his wholehearted support cannot reasonably be expected.

Under the present United Campaign structure if a donor is not satisfied as to the philanthropic need of one agency, then all of the agencies suffer either in whole or in part. This situation suggests, not only for the protection of the public, the need for a more active community participation in the validation of agency programs and of their financial requirements. An increasing agency campaign request is not necessarily an indication of increasing community need.

Should Question Policies

Constant pressure is required for efficiency in operations and for increased efforts toward self-support where appropriate and consistent with the best interests of the community. To the extent that they do not seem appropriate to Summit, policies of national organizations as to fees and charges should be questioned. A more careful scrutiny of agency requests could make the difference between a "successful" campaign and a "failure."

We are satisfied that if the agencies are to receive effective and continuing community support, methods must be found to enable the residents of the community (1) to be aware of and to be satisfied as to the philanthropic need of the agencies for the requirements they assert, and (2) to take effective action if they do not agree with the need without doing injury to the agencies in whose effectiveness and efficiency they have confidence. The people must be convinced that the annual campaign goal is based upon the needs of the community and not on "what the traffic will bear."

To meet this difficulty some communities have established an independent budget review committee with authority to consider programs and budgets on the basis of agreed standards of community need and to enforce common policies where appropriate in areas where agencies have common activities. In addition, some communities permit and respect agency designations. It is not our role to recommend what should be done. We are satisfied, however, that in the future there should be greater recognition of the importance of validating agency requirements. We are also satisfied that any independent survey would recognize this deficiency and recommend the development of new procedures to accomplish the objectives we have discussed.

Problems of Campaign Machinery

Assuming that the agencies are effectively managed and that the requirements which are put to the community represent valid philanthropic needs, the problem is to bridge the gap between these needs and the pocketbooks of the community. This is not an easy task. It requires not only competent executive personnel at the top, which we have had over the years, but also carefully selected and adequately briefed solicitors. It requires an organization through which the campaign can be carried out effectively with a minimum of time on the part of those concerned.

The job, in the aggregate, is to transmit to the people the facts about the agencies not only at the time of the campaign but also throughout the year so that there is an intelligent awareness on the part of the average contributor as to why and to what extent it is necessary for him to contribute. He must be satisfied that the agencies are necessary to make Summit a decent, well-rounded community.

He must also understand how the agencies directly benefit him and his family. He must be made aware of the fact, for example, that if he has a boy in the Cub Scouts the program costs the community $12 per boy which is raised through the United Campaign. All of these factors are important since the United Campaign is competing not only with family pressure for a new television but also with the alumni fund appeals of schools and colleges where legislation run deep.

Some Basic Principles

We would not venture to suggest how it is possible to bridge the gap. We are not experts on community organization. There are, however, a few principles which seem clear and which we feel should be considered by the Central Committee.

The suggestion has been made and we feel strongly (a) that the present structure of the Central Committee should be modified to strengthen its authority, particularly on matters of requirements, budgets, program coordination and future planning, (b) that the fund-raising effort should be carried on through the same organization but separated from the other functions in such a way as to enable those concerned with fund-raising to concentrate exclusively on that problem, and (c) that persons concerned with the fund-raising effort and also persons serving in over-all policy positions should hold office for periods longer than one year, preferably on a rotating-term basis.

The result of these changes should spread the work load, give much needed continuity to community problems which inevitably carry over from year to year and also make it less difficult to enlist the cooperation of responsible people in the community.

Broaden Public Interest

Another aspect of the organization problem is the role of the individual giver. The suggestion has been made that psychologically there would be some advantage in giving the citizens of the community a greater sense of participation in the affairs of the organization, such as permitting them to attend meetings or giving them a vote in the selection of members-at-large. In short, would it not be desirable to broaden present community participation in this vital community activity through some legislative process?

It has also been suggested that perhaps it might be helpful to have a permanent full-time executive who would be responsible for (Continued on Page 21)

HERE and THERE in REAL ESTATE

By EDWARD C. HOLMES, V. P.

N. J. Assn. of Real Estate Boards

The Telephone Strike has definitely had its effect on the real estate market in the area due to the curtailed telephone service so important to our business. This is no criticism of either the company or the unions, or the officers and employees of the company who are doing their best to give us as much service as possible under these conditions.

However, the fact remains that it has definitely slowed up the real estate market. Only 12 homes were reported sold during the last two weeks in the Summit area, while listings are continuing to come in at a much greater rate.

A few people have made the mistake of attributing this lull in the real estate market to the beginning of a general economic decline. Actually the slight drop in the stock market due to peace maneuvers has had its effect on more expensive real estate properties, but there is no sound basis for thinking this means a general decline. National figures show that there is a large backlog of non-deferred business and construction projects on the books that can more than support our economy at its present level even if our defense effort is reduced.

There is going to be a rapid change in the Coney Brook Parkway section of Summit as the Buba Company opens up their new development called "Santitas." Already a number of homes have been sold here and it looks as if in a very short period of time this company will develop the entire tract they have available with nice homes that are priced attractively. Complete information on this development has been given to the members of the Summit Real Estate Board; therefore, you may contact your own broker if you would like further details, or you may go directly to the tract if you desire. Congratulations to the Buba Company for the good planning and the way they are going to work on this project. It should most certainly be an asset to the City of Summit.

It finally looks as if the Veterans' Administration is going to allow an increase in the percentage rate of GI loans, thus again opening the way for many veterans to enter into the home purchasing field. The recent move of the government in borrowing a billion dollars at 5 1/2 per cent interest, the highest paid for such money in twenty years, really put a stop to any 4 per cent landing on mortgages. At the same time the Federal National Mortgage Association (called in mortgage circles "Fanny May") that has been buying blocks of GI mortgages from institutions who may need to unload, was ordered to stop purchasing these loans. This move was obviously made because the administration is anticipating increasing the yield on new VA loans. My guess is that it will be to 4 1/2 per cent and that we will see this move made within the next two weeks.

Remember when the whole family used to congregate in the kitchen in grandma's house? Remember how it was a cozy, comfortable room with a stove, a chair or two around the nook and plenty of room to sit and talk while she prepared the family meal? The trend today is back to this type of kitchen. Smart homes are increasing the size and space available here, and the small so-called "super-efficient" kitchen where you stand in the middle, space allowed and reach the refrigerator, stove, sink and everything without moving is going to be a thing of the past. If you are planning a new home it is wise to keep this in mind. I am, my opinion that the tiny kitchen was merely a fad and something that was forced on the home owners because of the ever increasing cost of each additional foot of space. After all, a modern kitchen of her home and at the same time must with the children. Oftentimes the hour of the kitchen is just before dinner, the best time she has to devote to the day's events with her husband who has just returned from work. Certainly this is more pleasant for her while preparing the meal. Nothing can contribute to a more comfortable kitchen than a roomy space for the children, a comfortable chair or two, and an uncluttered atmosphere. This trend is a welcome one to me and I am sure to many others also.

Missionary Held By Reds Will Address Baptists

Dr. William E. Braisted, American Baptist medical missionary released from Communist China last summer, will speak at the First Baptist Church in the parish room, Wednesday, May 6, concerning his experiences "Behind the Iron Curtain."

One of the most recent Americans to come out, Dr. Braisted brings a first-hand view of operations in Red China and an outside slant on the strengths and weaknesses of Red rule in China. Dr. Braisted went to China in 1938 as a missionary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society in response to an urgent call for doctors to assist in the war-stricken areas of China, at that time suffering under Japanese aggression.

When the Communists invaded China Dr. and Mrs. Braisted were well on the way toward the reorganization of the hospital staff and the rebuilding of their hospital which had been destroyed in World War II. Invasion of the Communist armies cut short this work.

Dr. and Mrs. Braisted, with their son, Stanley, along with other missionaries, were restricted in their work when the Communists invaded China. Mrs. Braisted and Stanley were allowed to leave in 1951, but Dr. Braisted was held under house arrest in Kityang until July, 1952. During this period Dr. Braisted was cut off from his Chinese colleagues and not allowed to work, even in the hospital.

Dr. Braisted is a graduate of Brown University and of the medical school of McGill University, Montreal. He is the son of a Baptist minister.

"We have a goal of $40,000 for all of the communities in Union County during the month of May," said Hickok. He explained that 75 per cent of the money raised locally in the campaign will be retained by United Cerebral Palsy of Union County, for local use, with the remainder going to the National United Cerebral Palsy organization, to provide scholarships and traineeships, research, treatment, education, clinics, and training. The local organization also shares in the money raised by the national United Cerebral Palsy through promotion of national events. The local funds will be used for the operation and maintenance of the Cerebral Palsy Center at 638 Salem avenue, Elizabeth, which is operated by United Cerebral Palsy of Union County.

There are two big reasons why Automatic Electric Water Heating costs less. One is the fact that only with flameless electricity is the entire tank insulated. Water stays hot... you only pay to heat it once. The other big reason is JCP&L's special one cent water heating rate. How thrifty is it? A single penny gives you enough hot water for the dinner dishes and Dad's morning shave, too.

Recital Marks End of Hobby Hall Season

For some of the younger citizens, Saturday was a red-letter day. It marked for many their first public appearance on a "real stage." The occasion was a dance recital given by pupils of Polly Nevins and Gerald Cummings, presented under the auspices of Hobby Hall, at the high school auditorium, Saturday afternoon.

For the audience it was a star-studded performance, with parents, friends and relatives warmly applauding their own particular star of the day. It would be impossible to pick out any outstanding group or child as each one seemed to be giving to the performance all that was possible for him to give within the limitation of his own age group and personal capacities.

Danced with feeling and in many cases excellent technique, a short ballet, "The Swan Legend," brought the program to an enthusiastically applauded end. Beverly Watts danced the White Swan Queen with Barbara Fay, Shirley Klemmer, Fifi Moroney, Dhuanne Schmitz, Lesley Sultz, Wendy Watts as the Cygnets. Joan Pincus was a graceful black swan with Sally Thomas as a handsome prince.

The White Swans, Joannette Anderson, Ann Carbone, Amy Duryee, Phyllis Guest, Martha MacHale, Sally Roberts, Larry Schloff, moved on their toes with delicacy while the Black Swan Queen, danced by Nancy Panchia, showed an unusual beauty of face and movement. The Black Swans completed the ballet and were danced by Maria Anderson, Nancy Howard, Linda Jura, Valerie McCourt, Joan Pincus, Doris Thomas, Lee Mills and Susan Rockefeller.

'Music for Fun' Concerts Scheduled For Repeat Season by Popular Request

Mrs. Mark N. Donohue, 98 Valley View avenue, chairman of the Summit Children's Concerts of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra announced this week that "plans are working" to repeat last season's highly successful events with a new concert series this fall and winter in answer to popular demand.

Mrs. Donohue said that because so many people everywhere are delighted with the concerts, the number of school bulletins is now increased to 7,000 instead of last year's 2,000, thereby more thoroughly reaching other communities such as Short Hills, Millburn, and Chatham. The first batch of these bulletins is being distributed this week through the cooperation of public, private and parochial schools.

Illustrated by the already familiar symbol of the concerts, Oak Knoll ninth-grader Nancy Donohue's amusing sketch of an animated cello, the bulletins ask parents and all friends of music to be "angels" or subscribers by contributing $5 now, in advance, to insure the sale of tickets to the children later at minimum cost.

Checks are to be mailed to Louise S. Hankin, treasurer, 18 Dogwood drive. The subscriber committee, headed by Mrs. Hugo B. Meyer, is also already at work and has sent out hundreds of cards to last season's subscribers asking for renewed support.

The programs being planned for the new concerts promise even more entertainment and novelty than before. They will be conducted by the N. J. Symphony's famous young leader, Samuel Antok, the man who really knows how to make fine music, not only "Music for Fun" but enormously appealing to everyone from first-graders to grandparents.

His orchestra, too, is top-notch and is a real live full symphony whose members include talented non-professionals who donate their services, as well as professional musicians whose Musicians' Union (Local 16 of Newark) cooperates financially. This, plus the support of private subscribers and the

May pole. These groups have painted their stage sets and have made their costumes. The third grade will present their own version of "Hansel and Gretel" with the following in the cast: Linda Cowen, Candy Gordon, Lynn McGrath, Barbara Metzger, Ellen Rinhart, Cheryl Schroeder, and Meredith Wisner, all of Summit; Sally Chaplin of Springfield; Priscilla Stevens of Gillette; Meredith Erwin of Chatham; and Joan Schweyer of Maplewood.

Last week while local public schools were on vacation, Kent Place primary students entertained their friends at school. Kindergarten, which enrolls both boys and girls, had two boys and three girls as guests. Other primary grades entertained nine friends.

Friends of the New Jersey Symphony, makes possible the unusual musical value offered by these concerts: only 90c for two concerts if the subscriber's support comes up to expectations.

Mrs. Donohue added one more thought to her enthusiastic report of the concert plans: "Of course, the Summit High School Auditorium can hold just so many people. So in view of our expanded publicity program, all we can say is, first come, first served!"

The committee chairmen are as follows: treasurer, Mrs. Montague Hankin; tickets, Mrs. Robert H. Beams; publicity, Mrs. W. C. Harney; Mrs. C. W. Halligan; Mrs. William Seizer; Mrs. Charles M. Mixon; Mrs. William W. Staplin; Mrs. William J. Bethune; and Mrs. Erich Lob, programs; Mrs. John J. Weigand; Mrs. Ogden D. Gense.

mer. Mrs. R. Le Marc, Mrs. William V. Cross, subscribers, Mrs. Hugo B. Meyer; arrangements, Mrs. Roberts vs. Reed and Mrs. A. J. Bartholomew.

Quest for "Most Perfect Woman" Leads Searchers to Canoe Brook

"Gaiety" is the word at Canoe Brook Country Club but it was never more appropriate than this last week-end which was sparked by the membership revue, "Goin' Places!" Written and directed by Edward Kaus it was presented Friday and Saturday in the club's newly decorated dining room on an improvised stage.

Things got off to a fine start with Johnny Almqvist's theme song, "Goin' Places" sung by Otto Schmidt, Arthur Hale, Arthur Rindler and Theodore McMahon, the four men who are "goin' places" in search of the perfect woman. With camera, cellos and tape measure, the searchers went south of the border. There, they encountered a samba danced by Mr. and Mrs. Dean H. Travis and Mrs. Henry O. Clatsam, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. MacMahon and George Cook and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Combs. The group was paced by the professional dance team of Lynn and Conway, members of the club and in private life, Marilyn Becker and William Conway.

The next point visited by the foursome was cow country. There James Chamberlain as a dance hall gal dressed in black and a blond wig kept the audience laughing in his scene with prospector Edward Kane. In fact the scene was the big production number and proved to be the high spot of the evening.

Dressed in white buckskin and wearing feathered headresses Mrs. Edward Kaus, Mrs. Frank Beck, Mrs. Harry Tower, Mrs. Arthur Rindler and Mrs. Arthur P. Rindler did a delightful dance routine. The appearance of George Brodsky, club president, as the "Big Chief" with cowboys, John Pomeroy, Arthur Currier, Fred Fox, Arthur Hassell and George White singing, was also well received.

The frozen north was the next point of exploration. Here a group of teenagers did a jingle bells number complete with cotton snow balls. The audience was treated with the appearance of golf pro Harold Sanderson turned ski instructor.

The next move took the four to Manhattan. This was a good move. It for no other reason than the opportunity it afforded to put Mrs. John Tennant into the hilarious "box at the opera" skit. In pantomime, Mrs. Tennant kept her audience in gales of laughter with her endless comic invention. Dean Travis played a fellow opera lover while James Chamberlain was the fellow who brought sandwiches and a radio into the opera box to pass the time.

Five Hobby Hailers, Beverly Keene, Liz Onderdonk, Betsy Sells, Majorie Leigh and Joan Shilling lent their beauty and talent to top hat number with

Canoe Brook Members 'Go Places' in Annual Show at Club

Girl Scout Camp Now Open to Non-Scouts

Registration for Camp Wanola, the Summit Area Girl Scout Camp at Lake Kanawake, N. Y., will be open to non-scouts starting tomorrow. Registration for Girl Scouts opened in March.

Although Camp Wanola was organized for the Girl Scouts and maintained through the efforts of the camp committee, there usually is some room in the 10 to 17 age group for girls who are not scouts. The camp committee is anxious for as many Summit girls as possible to avail themselves of the opportunity of vacationing at Camp Wanola.

Girl Scout camping has three main objectives: To stimulate enjoyment and appreciation of the outdoors; to provide training in citizenship through community living and democratic planning; to contribute to good health and to develop resourcefulness, initiative and self-reliance.

Competent counselors are being lined up and activities planned in every category including hiking, cook-outs, swimming, boating, crafts and various sports. Tournaments will be held during each encampment period.

The camp will be opened during the week-end of June 6 and 7 by the camp committee with the aid of the fathers committee, the Scouts and their parents. Counselors will arrive a few days before the camp opens on June 26.

Local Sculptor Has One-Man Show at Newark

Lillian Johnson of Springfield avenue, is having a one-man exhibition of her sculptures at the Newark Art Club, 38 Franklin street, Newark from May 4 to May 15th.

Twenty-five new examples of her work will be on exhibition to the public and a reception will be held in her honor opening night May 4 at the Club's galleries.

Mrs. Johnson is well known in Summit. She teaches art to the children on Saturday mornings at the Summit Art Association and has exhibited numerous times at the club and also at the YMCA. She was awarded first prize for her sculpture at the recent exhibition held at the Suburban Hotel, East Orange.

Cradle-to-Grave Policy Scored by Rotary Speaker

"America's need today is the kind of government, at all levels, that aids and stimulates but does not impede individual exertion and development," the Rotary Club was told at its stated luncheon meeting in the YMCA on Monday.

"The mischief begins," said A. Charles Corotis, Newark public relations counsel, "when, instead of calling forth the activity and power of its citizens, government substitutes its own efforts for theirs; when, instead of advising and helping, it bids them stand aside and does their work for them."

Mr. Corotis warned that the time is over-ripe for all beneficiaries of the American system of individual opportunity — "which means all of us who are in business or industry or are employed by business or industry to work cooperatively to solve governmentally imposed problems on independent initiative."

The speaker said that "government aid to private enterprise can achieve the goals our social-minded visionaries proclaim but find so illusory in carrying forth without threatening the foundations of our freedom." He cited the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards, for whom he is public relations director, as an example of an organization "aware of the dangers inherent in statism and courageous enough to fight." He paid tribute to Resident President Robert E. Seel of Elizabeth and Edward C. Helmes vice-president, Summit, who is the association's legislative chairman.

"In addition to these two men from your own country this organization has leaders throughout the state who are carrying the torch of the individual, and they deserve your help," Mr. Corotis said. "Just as the medical profession called for allies in its fight against 'socialized medicine,' the housing industry needs support in its effort to stave off attempts to socialize shelter, and all should rally around the standards of freedom."

The speaker was introduced by Edward C. Helmes, program chairman for the day.

Previous to the speaker, Frank H. Pratt, for the international service committee, announced that a drive for clothing of all descriptions for men, women, and children — for German refugees would be carried on for the first three weeks in May, and clothing to be brought to the YMCA, which would act as depository headquarters. Imperishable food will be acceptable, as well as cash donations. International Rotary is sponsoring the drive.

Visitors were introduced by Robert M. Dunsmore, member of the fellowship committee; John M. Harney, Cranford; F. Garvin Smith, Montclair; C. Percy Safford, Hillside; Robert Harden, Westfield; Carlton Hepper, Madison; William Martin, guest of Edward C. Helmes; Arthur Becker and Frank Brock, guests of Frank J. Korrigan; Ernest Fleming, guest of Robert O. Peterson; Andrew Cattano, president of the G. O. Summit High School, guest of Richard L. Corby, Jr.

Ciba Chemists Describe New Anti-TB Drugs

A new family of tuberculosis drugs that proved effective and safe in laboratory tests on animals and to which TB germs did not develop resistance, is described by a team of seven chemists of Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., of Summit, in the current issue of the Journal of the American Chemical Society.

Six related drugs, called substituted thiocarbohydrazides, had "high anti-tuberculous activity" in mice infected with one type of the disease, according to a report by Dr. Charles F. Huebner, Dr. J. L. Marsh, Dr. Renat H. Mizzoni, Dr. Robert P. Mill, Dr. Dorothy C. Schroeder, H. A. Trokel, and Dr. Casper R. Scholz.

Chemically, the new class of drugs closely resembles thiocarbohydrazide, a synthetic compound which has been used for many years in the manufacture of dyestuffs and in rubber vulcanization processes.

Administration of the drugs greatly prolonged the lives of animals suffering from tuberculosis, the report states. Animals receiving the drugs lived more than 15 days longer than others that were not treated. An extension of life greater than five days is considered by scientists to indicate "significant antituberculous activity," it is explained.

Resistant strains of tuberculosis germs were not formed when the new drugs were used in the laboratory tests, the report continues. The development of resistant strains is one of the greatest drawbacks to the treatment of the disease with other drugs, such as streptomycin, isoniazid, and para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS).

The tests also indicated that the new drugs can be employed with a high degree of safety, the report says. Dosages of only one half of one per cent of the drugs in the animal's diet were effective against the disease. On the other hand, it required five per cent of more of the drug to produce a toxic dose.

Clinical trials to test the effectiveness of the drugs on human beings are now being considered.

Summit Bows to Verona for Second Conference Loss

With a one-out rally in the bottom of the seventh providing the final blow, Verona squeaked out a very slim 3-2 win over Summit nine at Verona on Monday. It was the Hilltoppers' second straight loss in Conference play, both being one-run decisions. Bob Collard, who relieved in the seventh, was the winner while starter John Brockbank dropped his second game for Summit.

Play was tight for the first five and a half innings, with only one man getting past second and Summit getting only one hit. Then Verona opened the scoring in the bottom of the sixth.

Bob Charman opened with a single to left and went to second when Jack Ridley muffed the hit. Joe Gagliano drove in Charman with a single to right and Rod Smith moved Gagliano up with a single to center. Jim Wade sacrificed the runners up and a squeeze play brought Gagliano in from third with the second run. Summit closed the inning with a double play when Smith tried to score on the squeeze also.

The Hilltoppers got the two markers back in the top of the seventh. With one out Jack Ridley and Phil Ryan singled back to back, putting runners on first and second. John Bullock walked to load the bases and Brockbank forced in a run with another pass. Collard then replaced starter Dan Jerbas, but another walk to Bill Ryan scored a second run before the fire could be put out.

Verona came right back to end the game in the bottom of the inning. With one out Collard walked and moved to second on George Hoover's single to center. Ridley, who came in to pitch, but a walk and Bob Charman's single scored Collard with the winning run.

This game made Summit's record 1 win and 4 losses, with no wins and 2 losses in Suburban Conference play. The Hilltoppers appear to be doing exactly the reverse of last year's team—losing close games and going through the conference without a win. They have a lot of material, though, and indications are that a few more good breaks might enable them to have a good season after all.

Today Summit will meet Caldwell in another Suburban Conference game at Memorial Field. Next Monday they will play at Glen Ridge, and Wednesday, they return home to meet Chatham.

Track and Tennis Teams Start Play This Week

Summit High School's track and tennis teams both will open their 1953 seasons with matches this week. The harriers met Millburn yesterday, and will travel to Springfield Regional tomorrow. Next Wednesday they will open their home season against Verona at Memorial Field. The SHS Trackmen are defending Conference champions, having nosed out Verona by 1/8 point at Hurrell Field last year. The Conference meet is more than three weeks away, but the Hilltoppers are pointing toward it as the summit of a successful season.

The Tennis squad will open their Conference schedule on Friday at Verona. Monday they play Glen Ridge on the Summit Tennis Club courts, and Wednesday they will travel to Madison. The netsters are also defending Conference champions, having nosed out Millburn a year ago. The Hilltoppers have lost most of last year's great squad, but with much returning material they aren't conceding a thing until they have played all their matches.

Men's Bowling League Results Pose Question

Only one night remains in the City Men's Bowling League, depending on the results of last night's matches. It could go right down to the final game between Charlie's and Squire's, as going into last night six games remained to be bowled, with Charlie's holding a two game margin.

Charlie's, after winning the first two games from Root's and gaining a game in the standings on Squire's, as the haberdashers dropped their first game to Larry's, lost the final game by 113 pins as Bob Reynolds and Butch Paul hit 221 and 209. Root's hit 943 in this game despite a 134 game by Jack Yarns. Johnny Deitrich had 411 for his first two games and appeared to be on his way to a good night, but he ran into a string of splits and finished with 122 for a 533 total. Paul was high man for Root's with a 560 series, with Pete Kivlen high for Charlie's with 554.

Squire's, after dropping the first game, came back strong to annex the last two and keep pace with Charlie's. Gus Kallensee with a 234 single game and a 534 series was high in both departments in the league for the night. Jim Stranahan and George Galvay were the only other men to hit 200 in the match, hitting 203 and 201, respectively. Galvay was high for Larry's with 515, followed by Pat Petrazza with 543. Johnny Phillip experienced a very rough night and finished up with a 415 three game total, included in which were 113 and 124 scores.

Savage Esso had an easy time with a 221 single game was high games by good margins. A. Swick with a 211 single game was high man in the match, followed by Sedgie Philippi with 217. Nick Mosso with 554 was high for the three games. Hugh Williams and Bobby York hit the pins well for Truedell's, having 636 536 and 534, respectively, while the other three bowlers were all under 500.

In the closer match of the night, Pulverizing Machinery won two games from Ciba to keep alive their hopes for a possible third or fourth place finish. Ruby Burger and Don Coombs with 570 and 563 were second and third high men in the League for the night followed by Bill MacQuinn with 560. Burger and Ralph Tuthill with 213 had the only 200 games in the match.

The low scores of the past three weeks is attributed to the fact that heavier wood is now being used and the bowlers are having a little difficulty and high scores are much harder to attain. The wood doesn't mix as fast and holes have been numerous, thus even the top bowlers have been experiencing difficulty in rolling their averages.

SPORT RAMBLINGS

by
ED HOFFERT, Sports Editor

The opening games of both the Summit City Softball League and the Summit Industrial Softball League are on tap for the coming week and from all reports submitted to this writer both Leagues should enjoy one of their most interesting seasons. Softball has remained popular throughout many of pre-war and post-war years due to the interest manifested by sports enthusiasts in all age groups. The game is rather inexpensive and usually takes but an hour to play, with dress or uniforms and various equipment at a minimum of expense.

There are ten teams entered in the City Softball League with six teams competing in the Industrial League. The Industrial Leagues will probably have the best hurlers as several of the shop teams have several stickout chuckers, but the interest of the City Leagues should be tops as the local rivalry of several teams cannot be matched.

Many T.V. sports fans were shocked to see the brutality of last Friday night's Boston Massacre, with Lightweight Champ Jimmy Carter annihilating willing Tommy Collins. Many thought Referee Tom Rawson used poor judgment in allowing the mismatch to continue, but as usual the Massachusetts Boxing Commission thought everything was in order, claiming that it was a Championship match, with the fans entitled to a Roman Holiday. I personally don't agree that the fans' lust for brutality be satisfied, but a more careful screening of opponents be selected for World Championship bouts. A good example of what could be another total mismatch is the forthcoming Heavyweight Championship bout, Marciano vs. Walcott, this of any match should be cancelled as the fans themselves have shown little interest, evidenced by the postponement of the original date.

Hill City Loses Conference Opener To Millburn, 2-1

Summit High unsuccessfully opened defense of its Suburban Conference baseball crown as it succumbed to Millburn, 2-1, Thursday at Memorial Field. Hits were scarce but a couple of errors helped the Millers to a two-run rally and victory. Jack Ridley went the route for the Hilltoppers, striking out eleven, and absorbed his second defeat as against no wins. Joe Balbo pitched good ball to win for Millburn.

After first inning singles for both sides went to waste, Summit opened the scoring again in the bottom of the third. John Bullock reached first when John Marzak failed to find the handle on his grounder. Dick Irwin sacrificed him to second and Dick Dennis brought him home with a single to center. Moments later Dennis was out at the plate when a squeeze play misfired.

Millburn rallied in the sixth. Bill Buckman and Carter Mackie reached the basepaths when their successive grounders were bobbled by the Summit infield. Marzak attempted to move them up on a sacrifice, but Buckman came all the way to score when he knocked the ball from Bill Ryan's hands at home plate. Mackie scored a moment later on Richie Verduti's single.

Summit then tried to come back from the grave, but the Millers allowed no rallies to start.

Pingry Downs Local Nine 4-1 At Elizabeth

Pingry school coupled a three-run outburst to outright defensive work and the baffling slowballing of Herb Busch to down Summit's nine, 4-1, last Wednesday on the Elizabeth club's home grounds. John Brocklebank held Pingry to five hits but errors forced him to take the loss. Willie Mallory led the Summit attack with two hits. Summit drew first blood, scoring on the top of the third. After two were out, Bill Ryan doubled to center and Mallory scored him with a single to right.

Pingry came back with three in the bottom of the fifth. Dick Steinbrenner led off with a single and moved to third on Chuck Whyte's single to center. Steinbrenner scored and Whyte went to second when the ball got past Mallory in center. Whyte stole third and scored when Dinny Walker made a low throw to the plate on Dick Corbett's grounder. Corbett went to second on the error.

DO YOU KNOW

* means to you?*

It means that now you can own what the "insiders" call the buy of the year—the new Packard CLIPPER! The car that has turned the medium-price field upside down by offering greater values than you've found in this field in years. If you haven't seen the new CLIPPER, driven it and checked it—you've got a treat coming. Remember—a big new Packard CLIPPER is right in the same price league with dolled-up versions of low-priced cars. Wouldn't you rather own a car made by Packard?

Summit Pair Mainstays of Rider Nine

Former Summit High School ace, Joe Dasti and Fred Swick are helping spark Rider College's baseball forces to another stand-out season. Dasti, one of the smallest collegiate varsity performers at only 5-1, is the Roughriders' second baseman and is hitting .286 in eight games. In addition he has drawn a hatful of walks to start Rider rallies. Swick, converted into an outfielder this season, is hitting .292, and has delivered timely blows as the Trenton collegians have racked up six wins in eight games. With Dasti leading off in the Rider batting order and Swick following in the number two slot, the pair have developed into a potent hit-and-run duo. Both players were regulars in their freshman year as the Broncos captured 12 of 15 decisions, and both seem destined to rank among the finest Rider baseball performers before they conclude their careers.

A third Summit resident, George Bovit, is another key member of the team, presently sharing catching duties with co-captain Joe Yatsko, and boomed as the varsity receiver for 1951.

Golf, Tennis Stars to Give Benefit Exhibit

Exhibition matches by noted tennis and golf stars will feature the first annual spring sports festival of The Hospital Center at Orange on May 9, at the Rock Spring Club, West Orange.

Headed by Jinx Falkenberg, Mc Crary, former movie star and model, and featuring Bill Talbot, world-ranking amateur tennis player, the tennis matches will include Sidney Wood, Edward Moylan and Francis N. Shields.

In the golf matches New Jersey's two top amateurs, Billy Dean, Morris County Golf Club, and Chet Senek, Upper Montclair Country Club, will compete with Emory Thomas, professional at the Forest Hill Field Club, Bloomfield, and Jimmy Nichols, noted one-armed golfer and trick shot specialist.

An exhibition of trick shots, and other events, will round out the benefit performance. Russell B. Kingman, Orange, former president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, is scheduling the tennis participants. F. Stark Newberry, West Orange, has charge of the golf card.

TOP PERFORMERS on Capitol City Nine are Freddy Swick and Joe Dasti, former Summit High school luminaries, who are now outstanding players on Rider College baseball team.

United Campaign

the many details incident to the conduct of the campaign, including public relations, and who could spend the balance of the year on many of the policy issues which in the past have not been handled due primarily to the demands of the campaign on the campaign chairman.

There is no magic about the form of the organization which is required. There is no ideal solution which has been developed throughout the country. Various communities have tried various arrangements. What is best for Summit can be decided only by the citizens of Summit. Obviously new by-laws will not solve everything but we do feel that a revision of the present structure to achieve the objectives which we have recommended would more effectively bridge the gap between the agencies and the community.

Fructified Giving
No consideration of the United Campaign would be complete without some consideration of the fund-raising arrangements which have grown up in the community. Should the agencies "go it alone"? Should they be permitted to have independent campaigns in addition to participating in the United Campaign? Would it not be better if all of the agencies made their demands at one time in one campaign? We have set forth below some of the suggestions which are most frequently heard to indicate the current attitudes on the subject.

The suggestion has been made that every group conducting an active campaign in the community should unite in a single campaign so that a person could make one contribution a year and be satisfied in so doing that he was discharging his responsibility as a citizen toward making Summit a decent, well-rounded community and that thereafter he would be under no obligation to make any further financial contribution as a citizen of the community beyond the amount which he normally pays for taxes and contributes to the church.

From the point of view of the average resident this represents the ideal for which the Red Feather and other agencies should be constantly striving—especially those which conduct programs directly related to the day to day lives of the population.

At the other extreme the suggestion has been made that the whole idea of the United Campaign is invalid and should be abandoned in view of the giving habits of a large segment of the population. Although this suggestion has not been seriously advanced, the theory is that the average giver will respond in substantially the same way to any philanthropic solicitation regardless of the cause involved, the total budget of the agency or the number of solicitations made during the year. This has been referred to as "Five-dollar-itis."

A variation, based upon the same reasoning, is that the United Campaign be abandoned but that agencies in related fields conduct joint campaigns. Thus, there would be a campaign for the social welfare agencies, one for the recreation-character building agencies and one for the health group.

As in the case of the organization problem, there is no uniformly successful approach to this problem which has been developed outside of Summit. The answer can only be worked out by local people on the basis of the desires of the agencies on the one hand and on the basis of the desires of the community on the other. Since the contributors are the most consequential players it would seem that over a period of time some way should be found to obtain their collective judgment.

Conclusions
We have concluded that Summit has the ability to meet reasonable community requirements, that although the formulation of requirements is primarily a responsibility of the individual agencies, the present structure of the Central Committee should be modified to strengthen its authority, particularly on matters of requirements, budgets, program coordination and future planning and that the fund-raising effort should be carried on in such a way as to enable those concerned to concentrate exclusively on that problem.

We are satisfied and we recommend that there be a study of the existing procedures with respect to these questions to the end that over a period of time the requests of the Red Feather and other agencies conducting active programs in the community may be reconciled with the funds which the community is willing to contribute. We are satisfied that the development of such a structure and the development of sound policies within that structure will increase public confidence. In this process we feel that a carefully selected outside consultant could be most helpful.

We are satisfied that no survey in and of itself will produce effective results unless the agencies and the Central Committee are prepared to give to this problem the time and thought which it will require. Surveys by outside consultants can provide an analysis and suggestions based upon the experience of others in comparable situations. The ultimate solution depends upon performance by the people of the community. There is no substitute for local leadership which to be effective must have sufficient continuity over the years to enable the community to benefit from past experience and to inject new ideas from time to time as conditions change.

We have considered the possibility of recommending a survey by outside consultants of the operations of the Red Feather agencies to ascertain (a) whether management methods might be improved and (b) whether changes might be made in the "economics" of the agencies, including the basis of service charges, to determine whether some modifications should be made either to broaden public benefits or to reduce the amounts which the community is called upon to give.

Our conclusion is that such a survey would certainly be useful but probably not of lasting significance. The activities of agencies and their budget requirements are constantly changing and with the exception of Overlook Hospital the operations of most of them are not of sufficient magnitude to justify the cost of an outside survey. In the final analysis, the agencies themselves should be constantly reviewing their efficiency and the effectiveness in the light of constantly changing conditions.

In addition, there should be within the structure of the Central Committee, through the power to control budgets, an effective means of requiring that this be done periodically.

Method and Estimated Cost
There are several approaches to a survey as follows:

(a) The Central Committee might retain a firm of experts on community organizations (I) to analyze the problems recommended for consideration in Section II C of this report, (II) to consult with them on possible approaches to a solution, (III) to make recommendations, and (IV) to assist in the implementation of such recommendations as may be agreed. In this connection the agencies and the Central Committee might invite other local agencies to participate with them in steps (I) and (II) above since we are concerned here with a problem which affects the entire community.

There are firms which provide services of this nature. The costs vary widely depending upon the services which the community desires to have performed and on the reputation of the consultant or consultants who are retained. We have had estimates which range from $2,000 to $12,500.

Might Have Consultants
(b) The Central Committee might retain a firm of the type described in the preceding paragraph to conduct a survey and to make recommendations with respect to the problems outlined in Section II C without, however, retaining the consultants to assist in the implementation of such recommendations as might be proposed. This would be strictly a survey and no more. Indications are that the cost would be substantially the same as the approach outlined in the preceding paragraph, depending again, however, on the detailed nature of the survey requested.

(c) The Central Committee might appoint a committee comparable in composition to the Social Welfare Review Committee to survey the problem and to make recommendations in consultation with one or more firms of outside consultants. Indications are that the consulting fees in such an event would be substantially the same as those indicated in the preceding paragraph.

(d) The Central Committee might appoint a committee to make a purely local survey and to make recommendations on their own without the benefit of outside professional consultants. This would involve no cost to the community except incidental expenses.

Alternative Approaches
(a) In attempting to evaluate the foregoing alternatives the Committee is of the view that the first suggestion has the greatest possibility of producing results promptly. The members of the Central Committee (with perhaps representatives of non-Red Feather agencies) and the consultants would be working together in each of the stages suggested. The actions recommended could be accomplished with the active assistance of the consultants, such as the drafting of organization plans and the revision of by-laws. The consultants would be working directly with those persons in the community who have direct responsibility for program development and fund raising. Analysis and implementation would go hand in hand. Obviously this approach should not be initiated unless there is agreement in principle before anyone is retained as to (I) the causes of the present difficulties and (II) the steps which will be taken to overcome these difficulties.

(b) The second suggestion implies that an outside consultant would come into the community, analyze its problems, make recommendations and leave town. Such a survey, however, would leave the agencies and the Central Committee not only with a black book with the traditional gold letters but also with the problem of considering the findings and the recommendations, of deciding whether and to what extent they should be followed and of implementing them to the extent desired. This is a time-con-suring process and in all probability would result in the postponement of any affirmative action for a considerable period. In short, if this alternative were adopted, we would not get what we really need which is the time of an experienced person to do for us what we have not the time to do promptly ourselves.

As we have already indicated, a survey by outside consultants will not provide the answer to anything in and of itself. The findings will be neither surprising nor unique. The principal advantages of outside "experts" are (i) that their views might be taken more seriously than those of a group of local citizens, (ii) that they have had experience in similar situations and, therefore, can save the time required by any local group in investigating the experience of others, and (iii) that they have the time to accomplish agreed changes which the average person in the community does not have.

(c) The third suggestion has the advantage of obtaining the advice of outside experts and combining their knowledge with the experience of persons who have observed the problem locally and who are not involved with current campaign problems. Although this might give the study a certain objectivity which is desirable in certain situations, it has the disadvantage of being carried out by persons who do not in fact have the ultimate authority for taking action. Thus, regardless of what such a group might conclude, the study would have to be reviewed by the agencies and by the Central Committee. This would result in duplication of effort and the postponement of affirmative action for an unpredictable period.

(d) The suggestion that a group of concerned citizens consider the problems without the benefit of outside consultants would be the least expensive but it has the disadvantage of being criticized on the ground that there is no group of local people who have the knowledge or the objectivity to approach a problem of this nature. Furthermore, if the Central Committee regards prompt action as important, this is probably not a satisfactory solution. We are confident that there are people in the community who could do an effective job in revising the requirement procedures and the existing over-all machinery. However, it is bound to consume a substantial amount of time and it is doubtful whether any group which is otherwise employed would be able to make available for the purpose the time which would be required to undertake this task intelligently and within a reasonable time. If the Central Committee is not able to raise the necessary funds for the purpose then it would seem that rather than appoint an independent committee, they should undertake a self-survey and make changes gradually, many of which are readily apparent.

Which of the foregoing alternatives is accepted is a matter which must in the final analysis be decided by the Central Committee in the light of their judgment as to the adequacy of existing procedures and the organizational structure, the urgency of the problem and the availability of funds.

Funds for Survey
In paragraph (f) of the Central Committee resolution dated December 8, 1952, this Committee was requested to consider and make recommendations as to how funds to defray the costs of a survey might be raised. There seem to be three possibilities.

(a) A survey could be financed by the agencies with their own funds, by private donations to the agencies as a group or by grants from one or more foundations. The possibilities with respect to the first two suggestions are within the knowledge of the members of the Central Committee and, therefore, we have expressed no view in this connection. Whether it might be possible to obtain funds from one of the large foundations would depend on the one hand, on the decision of the Central Committee as to the scope and nature of the survey, and, on the other hand, on whether a particular foundation considered that financing a project of this nature would fit into its own program.

Generally have not concerned themselves with community problems of this nature. As far as we have been able to ascertain, there is only one of the large foundations which has made grants for surveys in this field. It is doubtful whether that particular foundation would be interested in assisting in this situation since its principal concern has been with analyzing community welfare needs in large communities.

On the other hand, there are foundations which have financed surveys of this nature to assist in local situations in their home communities. Recent studies in New Haven and Detroit were financed. We do feel that from the point of view of a foundation interested in community problems a survey of the type indicated in this study, whether carried on by local citizens or by an independent consultant, or through a combination of the two, would be useful and constructive not only in assisting in this situation but also in assisting comparable communities in developing answers to their most difficult but by no means unique problem.

THE QUEEN OF BROADWAY musical comedy comes to the screen in a Technicolor duplication of her latest success, Irving Berlin's "Call Me Madam." It's Ethel Merman, of course, seen here being introduced to the charms of her leading man, George Sanders. The combination of Miss Merman, Sanders, and Irving Berlin's greatest song successes insures popularity for "Call Me Madam," which is now playing at RKO Proctor's Theatre, Newark. "White Lightning" is co-feature.
