

Area Homeowners Unite in Battle Against Route 22

Despite a possible taxpayer suit against the Board of Freeholders because of its pre-election publication of purported routes for new highways in Union County, a group of more than 200 residents from 13 communities, including Summit and Berkeley Heights, met last Thursday to unite in a battle to keep the proposed highway paths away from their homes.

At a mass meeting held at Jonathan Dayton High School at Springfield, preliminary plans were made to oppose the proposed realignment of Route 22 and the spur that links it with the Goethals Bridge. The group calls itself the "Save Our Homes Committee of Union County" and a few days before last Tuesday's election it inserted advertisements in several area newspapers under the committee's name calling attention to the perils to existing roadways if the highway is built according to its proposed path.

Democrats May Sue

However the three newly-elected Democrats to the Board of Freeholders are threatening to bring a taxpayer's suit against the present all-GOP Board for spending an alleged $8,000 of public funds to insert maps of the proposed routes in 15 weekly and two daily newspapers in the county a few weeks before the election.

County Democratic chairman James J. Kinneally last Wednesday said he is urging such a suit to prevent the Freeholders from paying the bills for the cost of the advertising. He said that the ads were "not a proper matter for spending county funds." Kinneally contends that the cost of the ads was never authorized at a public meeting of the Board and therefore is illegal. He stated that he is going to ask the three new Democratic Freeholders to bring court action against the present Board.

Benninger Defends Ads

At the Regional High School meeting Freeholder director Albert J. Benninger defended the advertising expenditure by maintaining that the Freeholders inserted the maps in the newspapers for the best interests of taxpayers and not as a political move and pointed out that all are worried by the proposed highway alignment. He pledged the continued cooperation of the Freeholders in supporting citizens against the road program.

Although the meeting was made up primarily of homeowners many municipal officials appeared to voice concern for their communities. All urged unified action.

Mayor Raps State

Mayor Arthur A. Manner of Berkeley Heights rapped the state highway department for being "very lax by not making communities aware of the routes" sooner. He said that planning in his community has virtually stopped since the tentative Route 22 alignment was published several months ago.

He urged a study to see if other alignments were possible, but added "we don't intend to push the road into our neighbor's back yard. We're willing to accept our share of the road, but not through the center of town."

The gathering was in agreement that an unrelenting battle (Continued on page 8)

Newark Brothers Facing 4 Theft Charges Here

Police this week placed detainees on two Newark brothers following their arrest in East Orange last Friday on charges of robbing three Summit businesses, as well as six others in Irvington, Millburn, Maplewood and Newark.

The pair have admitted to nine robberies in a little over a month.

Police said the brothers, Arthur Bugely, 25, and his brother, Thomas, 20, are wanted here in connection with four robberies which allegedly netted them at least two guns, $100 in cash and a wristwatch. They are specifically wanted for robbing the Liberty Loan Co. on September 21 of $100 in cash and $800 in checks, which they later destroyed. Police said the pair broke into the loan company a second time on October 24 but were unable to jimmy a safe which they had dragged into the hallway.

They are also accused of breaking into Fred C. Carver, Inc., at 4 Chestnut road on November 21 and stealing two guns from a safe which they allegedly ripped open.

They are also charged with taking assorted office supplies.

Police further charged the two with entering Eastern Fuel Co. on Broad street, October 14 and stealing an electric toaster.

Police Find Gun

The brothers were linked to the Summit thefts when East Orange police arrested them while they were attempting another robbery there and discovered on one, a gun taken from the Carver company.

Both were previously employed in Summit.

Police said their entire loot from the nine robberies to date totaled approximately $325 in cash, $450 in gold coins and stock certificates, about $200 in miscellaneous items and two guns. They are presently being held by East Orange police.

Local Church and Children's Home Willed $120,000

Bequests of $10,000 each will be received by three local organizations from the residue estate of Miss Estelle A. Davis, 79, of 1 Euclid avenue who died here on May 14, 1954, according to an accounting held last week at the Surrogate's office for court approval on December 13.

The beneficiaries are Central Presbyterian Church, the Woman's Association of the church and the Summit Home for Children.

The children's home is no longer in operation but its affairs and assets are being handled by a board of trustees.

In addition to the $40,000 each of the above will receive, each will also receive a specific bequest of $10,000, according to the will. There also was a total of $150,000 in other bequests to relatives and friends.

The accounting lists a residuary estate of $146,099. This amount, less estimated attorney fees of $25,000, will be divided among the church, its woman's group and the children's home.

The accounting covered the period from Miss Davis' death to September 23 of this year.

Local Vote Cast By 75.4% of 11,403 Eligible

Approximately three-quarters of Summit's 11,403 registered voters cast ballots last Tuesday in a voting turnout that was much heavier than expected for an "off-year" election. About 5 per cent more voted this year than in the last gubernatorial election in 1953.

The total vote for Summit was 8,630, or 75.4 per cent of the 11,403 registered.

In Berkeley Heights a heated contest for Township Committee pulled out 79.4 per cent of that town's 2,917 registered voters for a total vote of 2,342.

New Providence also had a slightly higher vote than Summit. Of the 3,870 registered New Providence voters, 2,943 cast ballots for a 76.3 per cent turnout.

According to official voting figures for the entire county, compiled by the Board of Elections, 174,723, or 74.4 per cent of the total registration of 234,115 cast ballots.

Many towns had an 80 per cent or better balloting. Kenilworth had the highest turnout with 83.3 per cent while Mountainside, Springfield, Roselle and Winfield all had an 80 per cent or greater vote.

The lowest vote was cast in Clark Township where only 70.2 per cent of the 5,009 registered exercised their franchise.

The countywide vote this year was above average percentage-wise in recent non-presidential elections. The year-by-year figures since 1952 is as follows: 91 per cent, 69.3, 76, 61.1 and 91.7.

Numerically, the 174,723 votes cast was the greatest number in recent non-presidential years. The totals: 205,600, 149,335, 129,617 and 221,620.

This year's turnout by town, compared with registration totals, is as follows:

Yule Saving Checks for $945,500 Going to 6,600

A record-breaking $945,500 in Christmas Club payments will shortly be received by approximately 6,600 local residents from Summit's five savings institutions. It was learned this week.

The figures represent an increase of 400 depositors and about $100,000 over last year's record of $845,000. The number of customers surpasses the 1955 record of 6,500.

In Union County 96,311 persons will share the Christmas melon which this year reached a whopping $12,753,952. The amount of depositors is up over 4,000 from last year and the amount of club dividends has been increased by $237,478.

A breakdown of the five local banks shows Citizens Trust Company leading with "several thousand" yule club members for record deposits of $280,000, as compared to $269,000 last year. Second on the list is Hill City Savings with an announced total of $210,000 paid to 1,450 members, or $10,000 more to an additional 80 members.

Summit Trust reports an undischarged number of club members but said that yule savings amounted to approximately $190,000. The amount is up $10,000 from last year's record total. Summit Federal will pay $134,000 to approximately 1,000 savers as compared to last year's figure of $115,000 to about the same number of depositors.

The local branch of the National State Bank of Elizabeth reports that $131,437 in Christmas Club funds will go to 1,087 members. Last year, when the bank was the First National Bank of Summit, approximately 880 depositors shared in about $110,000.

This year's record county-total averages about $132 per account, or about $2.80 more than last year.

Throughout the nation this year an estimated 13,070,000 Americans have saved about $1,225,000,000 in the Christmas Club, a corporation, according to Edward P. Dorset, president. He said that this is the sixth consecutive year that the annual disbursement has exceeded a billion dollars.

Council Seeks Additional Funds for Parking Lot

An ordinance calling for an additional expenditure of $5,000 to construct a parking lot on the southerly and northerly sides of DeForest avenue between Beechwood road and Summit avenue, was introduced last Wednesday night by Common Council.

Two weeks ago the first of five houses was razed to make room for the new parking facilities. The lot will hold approximately 48 cars for shopper parking.

The city also awarded bids to Crown Oil Company of Chatham for fuel oil and to Esso Standard for gasoline.

Brothers Stabbed, Eight Arrested, In Fight Over Girl

Two persons were stabbed and eight others arrested on Monday when a fight between a pair of boys nearly erupted into a full-scale battle. Six of the persons arrested were under 18 years of age.

According to the police, the fight, resulting from an argument over a girl, began about 3:30 p.m. at 19 Union place between a 16-year old Summit High School boy and Robert Lee Askew, 21, of Chestnut avenue. Police said Askew suffered a stomach wound from a penknife. He was taken to Overlook Hospital where his condition is reported satisfactory.

Later in the afternoon, at 3 Glenwood place, at the home of an aunt of the 16-year old, he and his sister, Mrs. Lucille Williams, 19, of 10 John street, found Askew's brother, Emanuel, and there another fight took place with the brother suffering knife wounds about the right ear and arm. He was taken to Overlook Hospital for treatment and later released.

400 at Kick-Off Meeting Monday For New Hospital

The general canvass in Summit and Short Hills of the Overlook Hospital Building Fund campaign got under way at a kick-off meeting attended by approximately 400 citizens in the Summit High School Auditorium on Monday evening, November 4.

Mrs. George D. Smith of this city presided. She urged support of the expansion program of the hospital, stressing the fact that its completion was required for adequate protection of the health of the community. She thanked the 751 volunteer workers who would carry out the general solicitation of contributions to the Building Fund. She also expressed the appreciation by the campaign committee of the very helpful cooperation of the local dairy companies and milk dealers in delivering folders presenting the background and goal of the campaign.

Following Mrs. Smith's introduction, a film, "The House of Mercy," was shown. The film depicted the functioning of the many departments of a community hospital like Overlook as they were called into action by an emergency. It showed the awakening in a typical citizen of a realization of his dependence upon the hospital for the safety of his family, and the dependence of the hospital for its existence and maintenance on the contributions of socially minded citizens.

Cities Need for Expansion

Walter Beinecke, Jr. of Summit, president of the board of trustees of Overlook, outlined the need of the hospital for expanded facilities, which prompted the decision of the trustees to undertake new construction estimated to cost $3,370,000. This is necessary if the hospital is to meet the demands of the growing population which it serves.

Ridley W. Watts, Jr. of Short Hills traced the development of the hospital over the last ten years during which he has been a trustee. He emphasized what a great institution Overlook has become in a relatively short time. An important factor in this progress

City Plans to Borrow $16,500 For Housing Project Streets

The Summit Civic Foundation's plans for replacement housing on Weaver street are slated for a showdown on December 3 when Common Council will hear public reaction to an ordinance calling for use of city funds for street and sewer installations for the project.

Introduction of the ordinance by Common Council last Wednesday night followed receipt of letters from 27 individuals, three church organizations and the YWCA all approving the use of municipal funds for helping the project.

The West Summit Civic Foundation, however, told Council it had adopted a resolution opposing use of public monies to underwrite street and sewer costs.

Under the proposed ordinance $16,500 would be appropriated by the city for the work. The measure states that "it is deemed in the public interest that Summit provide essential assistance" to a housing project as suggested by a special Mayor's Committee appointed in March, 1956.

Zone Board Delay May Cancel Plan For Art Center

With a December 2 purchase option deadline fast approaching, the Summit Art Association was informed Tuesday night by the Zoning Board that no action could be taken by that body until December 9 on the Association's request for a variance that would permit use of a portion of the R. G. Tinnerholm property at 695 Springfield avenue for a headquarters and art studio.

The Zoning Board said that it had not yet received notice from the Planning Board regarding a proposed sub-division of the Tinnerholm land for joint use by the Art Association and the Red Cross. The Red Cross plans to purchase the residence for use as a chapter headquarters and the Art Association would acquire a large barn for its art center. The property is in an A-10 residential zone.

The Association's option to purchase some of the land expires on December 2. The Zoning Board stated that the Association's application for a zone variance would have to be held over until the December 9 meeting of the Board.

Major Subdivision By Law, any major subdivision of land must first get Planning Board approval. Since no action has as yet been taken on the proposed subdivision, members of the art group were told that the Zoning Board had no jurisdiction to consider a variance until the Planning Board had acted.

James A. Burke, chairman of the Zoning Board, also pointed out to the Association's counsel, John Sailer of Elizabeth, that there was a question of whether or not the organization would be considered "a school or club." If the group was considered a school, only residents within 200 feet of the property would have to be notified regarding the new use to which the site would be put. However, if the Association was considered to be a club, persons living within 800 feet would have to be notified. The present applications puts the Association into the classification of a school rather than a club.

Although the hearing was adjourned before any vocal objections could be raised by residents protesting the Art Association's entry into the area, many homeowners present said they would oppose the move at the next meeting, when the application would again be heard.

Cite Cramped Quarters According to a spokesman for the Summit Art Association, cramped quarters as well as possible sale of the building which it partially occupies at 497 Springfield avenue necessitates a "move at the earliest possible time."

Mr. Sailer told the board that (Continued on page 8)

Crash Costs Youth $25, License for Six Months

Found guilty of careless driving, Michael Colangelo, 18, of 10 Orchard street, the driver of a car in which two other Summit High School football players were injured November 5, was fined $25 and had his license revoked for six months last Thursday night by Magistrate Albert H. Bierman in Municipal Court. Colangelo had pleaded innocent to the charge.

According to police, the car crashed into a pole on Maple street and then struck a tree. The passengers injured were Darnell Mallory, a halfback on the team, and Henry Bennett, the place kicker. Colangelo is a lineman on the squad.

Although Colangelo claimed mechanical failure for the crash, testimony by witnesses said he was driving at an excessive speed. Police also measured the skid marks at the scene.

Church Teacher Tells Rotary Of Headhunters

William Henry Scott, a teacher at an Episcopal high school at Sagada, the Philippines, told the members of the Summit Rotary Club of some of his experiences in the hinterlands. During the 60-day summer season Mr. Scott leaves the classroom behind and sets out for a remote section of northern Luzon, — an area inhabited by Igorots. These people only fifty years ago engaged in the local pastime of head-hunting.

Mr. Scott explained that the Igorots are brown-skinned farmers whose culture is somewhat paradoxical. Living deep in the mountainous regions, miles from civilization, they have devised a system of irrigation that displays remarkable engineering ability; yet, all other aspects of their culture are primitive. They have no written language, still wear only loin clothes and rarely spend any time on leisurely activities.

The speaker stated that in fifty years the Igorots have gone from a wild, head-hunting tribe to a peace-loving people with a reputation as good hosts to occasional travelers. Wrapping up a stone and offering it as candy is their idea of a good joke.

Mr. Scott is a Navy veteran and Yale graduate with a bachelor's degree in Chinese language and literature. He will return to Sagada next June.

Nature Club To Hear About Bird Banding

"Bird banding" is the title of the illustrated lecture to be given at the meeting of the Summit Nature Club on Thursday, November 21 at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Lincoln School. Guests and visitors are welcome. This program will be of interest to Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts as well as students interested in nature study. Admission is free to all.

Dr. Paul Fluck of Lambertville, president of the Eastern Bird Banding Association, will be the speaker. He is a practicing medical physician and ornithology is his hobby.

Dr. Fluck lectures every Saturday and Sunday at the bird banding station at Washington Crossing Park in Pennsylvania. He has lectured extensively in all our neighboring states and has given over 700 lectures to over 50,000 people since 1952. All the proceeds of his lectures go for maintaining the bird banding station.

Bird banding is one of the activities of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service. Bird banders throughout the country send in annual reports of the list of birds they have banded to their headquarters at Patuxent, Md. All banders have been recommended to the Fish and Wildlife Service by recognized ornithologists as having sufficient knowledge to identify the bird accurately. In New Jersey, banders are also required to hold a state permit. They are unpaid workers who recognize the importance of the information they gather in determining the migration routes, extension of range, etc.

Dr. Fluck is the author of Solving Your Bird Problems, a pamphlet published by the Conservation Council of eastern Pennsylvania. His nature articles have appeared in Colliers, Coronet, Outdoor Life, Field and Stream, Nature Magazine, etc. He has travelled in Asia, Africa, South America, Central America, Alaska and the Pacific.

Jersey City Couple Held As Robbery Suspects Here

A Jersey City couple, arrested there this week, have been identified as the persons who allegedly stole a $1,400 diamond ring on July 6 of this year from Busch and Son, Jewelers, at 419 Springfield avenue.

The couple, Mrs. Margaret Morreale and Carmine Morreale, were arrested in connection with a $20,000 jewel robbery recently at Greenwich, Conn.

According to the Busch employee who identified the couple, the Mrs. Morreale entered the store first, and asked for service. While she was being waited on, her husband went to a showcase and allegedly took the ring.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Swept-Wing look. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fast, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the away-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). So on your way home from someone else's new car showing, stop in and compare it with Swept-Wing 58 by Dodge. You'll see what we mean.

Two-Car Crash Injures Child, Three Others

Four persons including a 3½-year-old boy suffered minor injuries on Monday in a two-car crash at the intersection of New England and Springfield avenues. Police said that John L. Marsh, 42, of 66 Ridgeway avenue, New Providence, driving west on Springfield avenue failed to stop for a special officer's hand signal and plowed into a car driven by Mrs. Grace Garguilo, 49, of 10

Beekman terrace who was driving south on New England avenue.

The injured were all treated at Overlook Hospital for abrasions and bruises. Mrs. Garguilo suffered left leg abrasions while Mrs. Marie Chudoba, 49, of 154 Morris avenue, a passenger in Mrs. Garguilo's car, complained of right ankle bruises.

Mr. Marsh's wife, Margaret, 42, suffered injuries to her right hand while their son, Charles, 3½, was bruised about the face.

Mr. Marsh was given a summons charging failure to obey an officer's signal.

Both cars suffered extensive damage.

Heads Roosevelt PTA

In last week's edition of The Herald, it was inadvertently stated that Mrs. Albert E. Seidel of 3 Orchard street, wife of Master Sgt. Albert E. Seidel, recently cited by the Newark Air Reserve Center as airman of the month, was president of the Roosevelt School PTA. The current head of the school's PTA is John Gentile of 21 Edison drive.

$10,000 Bill and Half-Cent Coin In Bank Exhibit

A lifetime rarity for most persons—the $10,000 bill—may be seen at a special exhibit of coins and currency issued or minted from colonial days to present at a display at the Summit Trust Co. that will continue through tomorrow evening.

Specimens of currency issued by the Continental Congress to help finance the Revolution recall the nation's financial and economic struggles. Over production of this currency and counterfeiting, however, caused it to become practically worthless and so resulted in the phrase "not worth a continental."

Struggles of the Civil War period are reflected in fractional currency, called "shin-plasters," issued by the North to replace coin which had become scarce. Confederate currency issued by the South to finance the war is also in the display.

Of unusual interest is the collection of Federal Reserve notes of which $95 billion are outstanding, including the seldom-seen $10,000 denomination. The set of notes were printed especially for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, through whose cooperation the collection is placed on display in the Summit Trust Company. Each note in the series, although a genuine reproduction, is engraved on one side only.

Included among the early coin is Wood's penny, made in England and shipped to the colonies in an attempt to ease the coin shortage. Also of interest are the one-half cent piece, the first coin to be minted by the United States; the two-cent piece of 1864, the first U.S. coin to bear the inscription "In God We Trust"; and the trade dollar, issued from 1873 to 1933, the only coin ever demonetized by the United States. Gold coins, withdrawn from circulation in 1933, are in the exhibit, too.

The making of a quarter, illustrating each step in the process from a silver bar to a finished coin, is also shown in one of the eleven frames of the exhibit. Another frame has specimens of counterfeit notes, paired with genuine and samples of raised notes.

The Winnipeg River, a major source of hydroelectric power, has a total drop of 271 feet within Manitoba to Lake Winnipeg.

Tompkins Estate Valuation Set At $713,232

The estate of Vreeland Tompkins of 74 Oak Ridge avenue, former board chairman of Smooth On Cement Manufacturing Co. of Jersey City, has been valued at $713,232, according to an accounting submitted for approval by Union County Surrogate's Court.

Mr. Tompkins died last January 30 at age 84. He was the inventor of an iron cement process and founded the Smooth On Company in 1897 at Jersey City. He headed the firm from 1926 and 1953, when he became chairman of the board of directors.

The Summit Trust Co., executor and trustee, listed partial distributions of the estate to Mr. Tompkins' widow, Mrs. Laura Towar Tompkins of 74 Oak Ridge avenue, and to two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Tompkins Wade of Olean, N. Y., and Mrs. Elizabeth Tompkins Whittall of Washington, Conn.

Mr. Tompkins provided in his will that each was to receive one-third of the residuary estate.

In the partial distribution, the daughters received $147,029.12 each with the provision that money be set aside for their children's education. Mrs. Tompkins received the same amount in trust.

In addition, the widow received $2,700 from the sale of personal property and a bequest of $10,000 was paid to Henry Mann Silver of New-York City.

The accounting, which lists $175,061 for administration expenses, taxes, debts and funeral costs, will be submitted to the County Court for approval on December 13.

All but about $18,000 of Mr. Tompkins' estate was in securities, including 300 shares of Smooth-On stock valued at a total of $58,400. The total estate increased in value by more than $40,000 since the will was probated.

Mr. Tompkins also was a life trustee of Rutgers University and chairman of its trustee advisory committee for the College of Pharmacy. He was one of the founders of the College of Pharmacy.

Library Display Cites National Education Week

As its contribution to National Education Week, the Free Public Library is featuring an exhibit entitled, "Which Way, Schools of Tomorrow?"

Through the cooperation of the Board of Education, examples of teaching materials and current text books have been placed on display, while a selection of old textbooks has been loaned by David C. Davidson, assistant to the superintendent of schools. For contrast, the Chatham Public Library has loaned items from its rare book collection.

Also featured in the display is Irving Adler's book, "What Do We Want of Our Schools?" "The Restoration of Learning," by Arthur Bester and "A Teacher Is a Person," by Charles Wilson.

England's national emblem has always been the rose although the origins of the modern English rose garden were laid in France.

You Can't Compromise with Comfort

Complete comfort is something we never think of until we are made uncomfortable. A sore foot, a small frustration, a slight headache, or a luke warm radiator are just a few of the things that can cause us humans more distress and annoyance than the really big troubles that we take in our stride.

We certainly can't help you with minor physical ailments or do much about frustrations—but we surely can eliminate the discomfort caused by an inadequate heating system. Modern efficiency in heating means complete home comfort always—and always without effort on your part. Let us tell you how little it will cost you to enjoy that comfort.

Local Girl Tells Maryland Rotary Of Trip to Japan

Frederick, Md., Rotarians heard the results of an "Experiment in International Living," when a Hood College sophomore from Summit lectured about her summer tour of Japan.

Miss Lucinda Young of 12 Pine Ridge drive, spoke before the Rotary Club. Miss Young was selected by the "Experiments in International Living" committee to make the trip.

Miss Young spent the first month of her trip in the home of a Japanese family, the Nishikawas, who live on the west coast of Japan. When asked how she felt about these people she said, "I'll always keep in touch with 'my adopted family,' and I hope to have them come over here someday."

Miss Young's second month was spent touring Southern Japan, and seeing such cities as Kyoto, Nara and Tokyo. She learned much about flower arrangement and tea ceremony, and was greatly impressed by the Buddhist temples and religion, which was explained to her by an American convert.

Miss Young said she feels that her trip "achieved the purpose of the experiment," and that on returning to the states this fall she brought with her a "warm understanding and love for her Japanese neighbors."

A graduate of the Northfield School for Girls in East Northfield, Mass., Miss Young is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Young of Summit.

Resident Heads Research at CIBA's New $1 Million Lab

If the ancient art of alchemy were to be revived, Jack Cooper would most likely be the first man to turn baser metals into gold and discover the secrets of prolonged life. As director of CIBA's newly completed $1,000,000 research and development laboratories he has the best facilities in the world in which to do it.

Down through the ages though, scientists have shifted emphasis from gold seeking and a search for the elixir of life to more practical goals. Today the industrial research pharmacist's "philosopher's stone" is professional training, modern equipment and the best possible facilities. His goals, as Mr. Cooper puts it, "are developing and testing drugs to maintain and promote good health."

To realize this objective, researchers must have the specialized and expensive equipment which allows them to fully utilize their skills to the best potential. When Jack Cooper of 11 Iris road, came to Summit and to CIBA in 1946 after serving as chief pharmacist at Brooklyn's Kings County Hospital he would have been staggered to know that he would this week be director of the most modern industrial pharmacy research and development laboratories in the world.

But, it was by no means chance that all this came to be. Born in Hartford, Connecticut and a graduate of Columbia University College of Pharmacy, Mr. Cooper is a man of unlimited stamina, aptitude and know-how. He was made director of pharmacy research and development at CIBA in 1948. Knowing that given the fullest opportunity, industrial pharmacy was a field of tremendous economic and social contribution to medicine, he was encouraged to go ahead and map out the requirements that would offer him and his staff the best advantages.

Two Years in Planning. What followed was two years of strenuous planning, prognosticating, meetings, discussions and travel. "It must have been hardest on my wife Ruth and son Fred," he comments now in retrospect. "Between all of the planning, travel, night work and keeping up with current business, I guess they thought I secretly had found some compound that could be substituted for food, sleep and rest."

As he leaped back in the comfortable chair in the newly decorated office of his "dream house," he was asked if now that he was surrounded by the fruition of two years work and planning and hundreds of years of accumulated scientific knowledge, didn't he feel just a little bit proud?

"If the people who contributed to this building had the time, I suppose they would be proud," he said. "Now we find ourselves occupied with the challenge that has been created and offered here, so we just haven't thought about it. The real work has just begun."

The Weaver Street Action

After years of reports, counter-reports, investigations and reinvestigations, the city last week took a major step forward in helping to provide replacement housing in slum areas.

Through a pending ordinance, the city has in effect officially backed a program to rid Summit of slum housing and in its place construct new, modern and low-cost dwellings.

The Herald heartily applauds this action which seems to be long-awaited and necessary to the further development and progress of Summit. The action also indicates that Summit is willing to take the small-city lead in the solution of replacement housing.

Since Summit is not eligible for federal funds for slum clearance programs, nor would residents be too keen in accepting such funds if they were available, the Summit Civic Foundation, a non-profit corporation, has come to the fore with a concrete solution—a privately-financed housing development. Sponsored by many of the city's leading citizens, the group's aim is to wipe the blot of Weaver street off the city map by constructing 28 units of modern housing.

However, from the very beginning of this project, opposing groups have raised the hue and cry that properties will be devaluated, that streets will be overcrowded and the neighborhood will otherwise go to the dogs if 14 modern duplex dwellings are constructed. Surely, if the decrepit Weaver Arms did not make the neighborhood go to the dogs, it is inconceivable how such a proposed project can make it do so now.

On December 3, Common Council will hear public reaction to an ordinance which would use public funds for street and sewer installations for the project. In all probability, many North Summit residents will again protest this use of city money. Undoubtedly, again the real reasons for protests will be disguised in the garb of vague, acceptable generalities.

We are sure Council and other Summit residents will not be hoodwinked by these tactics and will recognize that whoever lives in Weaver street is a neighbor, and entitled to a decent place in which to live. We are also sure Council will recognize that modern housing cannot devalue what has seemingly remained untouched by existing slums.

We strongly urge swift passage of this ordinance. We also urge Summit residents in favor of the development to voice their affirmative opinions so that Council will know it has the backing of the city in this bold demonstration of democratic leadership.

The world is growing smaller. Events are of increasing magnitude. Technology has taken great strides in recent weeks. Human relations must keep pace.

Although Summit is but a speck on the map of the universe, its democratic actions can be of tremendous importance.

Time for an Overhaul

Governor Meyner's sweeping victory last Tuesday still has local and county Republicans reeling. Political pundits will spend months, even years, attempting to find out what happened. Already everyone with a more than academic interest in politics has a theory of his own.

Senator Forbes' resounding defeat can not be blamed upon any particular thing. It was not due solely to "sputnik" or to the intervention of Administration brass or to bungling by his advisors. It boils down to the fact that the average voter, be he Republican or Democrat, was not dissatisfied with Mr. Meyner. Mr. Forbes really had nothing to offer other than the fact that if elected, he would do a better job than Mr. Meyner but along the same lines.

Governor Meyner ran on his record: He had put his four years of office before the voter and there was little valid cause for faultfinding. Candidates seeking a second term and possessing a good record have a telling advantage. This was true in the case of Mr. Meyner. He was wise enough not to drag in national figures and confuse the picture by seeking to bolster himself with borrowed glamour.

Mr. Forbes, unfortunately, grabbed at the coattails of the Administration and as a result damaged his chances as well as badly denting the prestige of the Administration at Washington. It is an old and well-known political fact that in state and local elections "outside" interests are often resented.

But the real puzzler in last week's elections is the Democratic sweep in Union County. Mr. Meyner's deluge of votes swept out of office the Republican Assembly delegation and three Freeholders. Why? There was no doubt that many good Republicans were deserting Mr. Forbes for Mr. Meyner but no one thought they would also bolt the county GOP candidates who were known, popular and competent. The winning Democrats may be just as competent but on November 5 they certainly were not well known outside of the faithful of their own party. Why, then, were they swept into office with the help of a hefty Republican vote? There was no voter resentment to the way the incumbent Assembly and Freeholder candidates were handling the affairs of the office.

One person we talked with believes it is simply a matter of the pendulum swinging the other way and that it spells the return of Democrats to power nationally and locally. We in Summit are apt to be blinded politically simply because we shrug off Democrats and resoundingly whip them at all elections. It is a fact that a Democrat stands no chance in Summit—at least up until now. It can be that next year, or the year after, will see the Democratic tide invading Summit.

What ever the causes for the GOP trouncing of last week, it should be clearly evident that complacency and smugness in Summit as well as in all of Union County should be quickly cast aside. There is a need for prompt action in completely overhauling our county Republican organization from the top down.

Holiday Time All Year

This week the observance on Monday of Veterans' Day, once known as Armistice Day, opens the holiday season. Soon following are Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's holidays.

As we become holiday-conscious, it is interesting to note that there are no national holidays. Our holidays are proclaimed by the states and some states enjoy them while others do not.

Veterans' Day is a legal holiday in all states except Virginia and Oklahoma where the closing of banks is optional. In our country not even the Fourth of July is a national holiday. Each year it must be proclaimed a holiday by the governors. The President of the United States does, however, proclaim Thanksgiving but this makes it a holiday only in the District of Columbia. It must be set aside each year by each of the governors of the 48 states and our territories. The only instance where Congress proclaimed a national holiday was in 1889 when it set April 30 as the date for the centennial anniversary of Washington's inauguration. The 53rd Congress made Labor Day a legal holiday but only in the District of Columbia.

While Americans are united on most fronts having to do with our habits and customs, we differ on holidays. Boston and Suffolk County in Massachusetts slow down the wheels of commerce on March 17 to observe Evacuation Day. Both Maine and Massachusetts note Patriot's Day on April 19 and Louisiana closes up shop on January 8 to commemorate the Battle of New Orleans. Florida makes Arbor Day a public holiday on January 18 and ten Southern states reverently suspend activity on January 19 in honor of Robert E. Lee's birthday.

Texas has its own Independence Day on March 2, Louisiana really lets off steam with its March 3 Mardi Gras and Tennessee goes all out for Andrew Jackson's birth date on March 15.

The United States is not only a land of opportunity; it is a land of many holidays. There are more than sixty so-called state holidays each year that are ceremoniously observed. Our holidays are a part of our national habit even if they are not national. They are all typically American.

Current Comment

Schools and Taxes

(Trenton Times)

Of major interest to taxpayers throughout the state is the announcement by the New Jersey Education Association that it will press for an increase in state aid for schools to the extent of $75 million annually.

Coming at a time when tax rates at all levels of government—Federal, state and local—already stand at a prohibitive level, the NJEA proposal at least justifies arched eyebrows and an attitude of critical skepticism.

Though the concept of increased state aid is held forth as a means of relieving hard-pressed localities which are finding it difficult to meet their educational responsibilities, the fact is that all public funds stem from one source—the pocketbook of John Q. Taxpayer.

Moreover, what will be the slant of the average citizen in the larger centers of population which, under the state aid formula, get back less than they pay in?

Then, too, there is the threat of either a sales or an income tax—from both of which fiscal blights New Jersey, up to now, has been able to remain free—if there is to be a multi-million-dollar boost in the costs of education.

Steady growth of the school population and a general pyramiding of prices all along the line have forced educational expenditures up and up. What the professional educators must realize, however, is that the same thing is true of every other branch of public administration—police protection, sewage disposal, highway construction, social welfare and the many other essentials of community life.

It is true that, in these several directions, the people want the best that money can buy; but the people also want, and expect, all public spending to be kept within the limits of ability to pay.

With respect to the process of Federal budgeting for the next fiscal year, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association has proposed the theme: "I'll take less from government, if government takes less from me."

The idea is just as applicable to state and local finance. As applied to public education in New Jersey, such a philosophy would call for a most convincing demonstration of absolute necessity before adoption of a spending program that, so far as the average taxpayer is concerned, might only tend to force the inflationary spiral to suicidal heights.

Upset by Bunche

Editor, Summit Herald:

You have the doubtful honor of being the first newspaper I have ever written a letter to. This one happens to be one of violent protest. I am a newcomer to your town and from the outside it is a very attractive one. My few personal contacts have been very pleasant.

So it grieves me no end to be forced to write to you in this vein.

I accidentally picked up your newspaper this week and saw—right on the first page, too—where anyone who runs may read—an article that a so-called "Character Ralph Bunche" was in some way responsible (?) for the true that exists in the environs of the Holy Land.

I, as a Zionist and one who stood amongst my fellows ready to go into battle, know that the true was actually engineered by members of the Greek Orthodox Church and the Moslem religion upon the request of some of the more responsible Zionists, and in spite of this "critter Ralph Bunche's" repeated and frenzied efforts to get everyone in that region massacred and turn the whole eastern Mediterranean into a blood-bath. The above is probably the most blood-thirsty character on the world scene today.

Perhaps in view of your complete lack of understanding and obvious either indifference or hostility in these matters, you had better stay away from them altogether before arousing problems that at present are being kept, at least partially, under control.

In protest I am, a not-so-often-reader of your paper,

City Plans

Summit an undesirable element. The project was first conceived following a three-month study by a committee appointed by Mayor C. Philip Dean. The group concerned itself with studying the problem of providing low-cost replacement housing especially for 28 Negro families living in substandard, condemned units at 48 Weaver street. The committee recommended the formation of a non-profit group to construct the housing across the street from the condemned Weaver Arms. The report also recommended that in order to keep costs at a minimum, the city should pay for streets and sewer installation.

The Summit Civic Foundation was then organized to undertake the project. A tract was purchased and $90,000 for a down payment was pledged by area residents.

At two Planning Board sessions last spring and summer, opposition to the project was loud and heated. After minor revisions in the plat plans, the Planning Board gave its approval August 30.

Zone Board Delay

negotiations for purchase of a portion of the Tinnerholm property have been going on for more than a year and that December 2, had been set as the date for final sale. He further told the board that he would immediately contact attorneys for Mr. Tinnerholm regarding a later date for final purchase based on when the Planning Board could act in the matter of subdivision.

Oratory School Makes Application
In other applications, the Oratory school sought a variance which would permit construction of a two-story 10-room class and laboratory building, as well as an attached building to house a gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria on the northeast corner of Morris avenue and Beverly road although the property lies in both A-19 residential and business zones.

Frank Pizzi, attorney for the school, told the Board that by granting such a variance, "Summit's fine school system would get an extra pat on the back for providing even finer facilities."

Although there were no objections, questions were raised by area residents in attendance regarding possible traffic hazards, flooding conditions and parking facilities.

The application was referred for further study by the Board.

Action was also deferred on a plea for a variance by Dr. Edmund L. Bohne and Dr. James J. Mahon. Both seek permission to construct a professional office building at 151 Summit avenue with less frontage than required by law.

Dr. Bohne and Dr. Mahon earlier this year sold their property at 58 Elm street to make way for a new High School addition.

Speaking on behalf of the district, Bryan Griffin, local attorney, said that that stands in the way for construction of the building are five feet. The application states that the frontage at the proposed site is 95 feet instead of the 100 feet required by law in a Hotel and Apartment district.

There were no objections to the applications and two letters were read from persons endorsing the proposed construction. One question was raised by the board, however, regarding parking facilities. According to the architect's drawing, a parking area had been indicated at the front of the proposed building which is not permitted in a Hotel and Apartment zone.

The fourth application heard by the board was a plea for a variance by Hunt Davis and Anna B. Davis which would permit construction of a second story level to an existing one-story level dwelling at 221 Kent Place boulevard although the premises have less side area at the second story level than required by law.

Mr. Davis, who spoke on behalf of his application, said that his present side yard measure 15 1/2 feet, three and a half feet less than the footage required by law. There were no objections and the matter was referred for further study.

Area Homeowners

Should be waged against plans of federal and state highway authorities to drive the two highways through a number of Union County municipalities, bisecting and, in some instances, trisecting them.

Leaders Debated
But that was where the area of agreement terminated. Some proposed that a committee of mayors spearhead the drive. Others argued that the Board of Freeholders, being a county agency and having the services of the county engineer, would be in the best position to shoulder the burden.

Still others insisted that committee of home owners should see that the campaign was waged. One person urged that only persons whose homes currently are in the path of the highway should serve as committee members. One home-owner objected unsuccessfully to having municipal officials on the committee because of the "tendency of politicians to back down when challenged." She felt private citizens would be less apt to be influenced by political pressures.

Mayor Albert G. Binder warned that Springfield has much to lose but said the municipality cannot stand alone. The entire county should be aroused to fight the program, he said.

Municipalities represented were Springfield, Berkeley Heights, Elizabeth, Fanwood, Hillside, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Union, Roselle, Rahway, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains and Summit.

The first paved street in New York was Stone street. It got its name because the large cobblestones they used to pave it made it "the stony street."

ress, he said, has been the development of an enlightened sense of responsibility on the part of many citizens for the support of their hospital.

Confident of Success
Robert W. Parsons of 44 Lenox road long associated with Mr. Walts on the hospital's board, voiced confidence in the successful outcome of the campaign. Confidence is warranted, he said, because the cause enlisting the efforts of the workers brings together these four factors: the need which can not be questioned; the ability of the community to support the finest in hospital facilities; the courage and the will to do which have so often been demonstrated in the history of our towns.

Following the meeting, solicitors' kits were distributed to all workers except those from the employers of Kemper Insurance, and from the personnel of the hospital, who at the last moment responded to a call for additional solicitors to complete the organization.

The general solicitation in Summit and Short Hills began last Saturday, November 9, and the first report meeting will be held in the main lobby of the hospital tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Plastic or Wax Sprays Protect Shrubs From Cold

Plastic and wax sprays are the newest ways to winter protect evergreens. They are equally beneficial in preventing winter injury to newly transplanted trees.

Since growth of tops of trees and shrubs has finished for the season, the sprays can be applied now, according to Dr. Philip L. Rusden of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories.

Filmy coatings of plastic or wax prevent winter winds from robbing needles and stems of moisture. It is this loss of moisture that cannot be replenished when the soil is frozen, which results in winter injury.

Both broad and narrow-leaf evergreens should be winter protected. Plantings at corners of buildings, particularly arborvitae and boxwood, need safeguards. Sprays of plastic or wax can be applied by any home owner with out fuss or muss and much faster than setting up the old fashioned burlap windbreak. Follow directions. Do not spray when it is too cold or too wet.

The coatings do not inhibit the growth next spring. They simply hungry pests.

though off when leaves exposed and new shoots appear.

Dr. Rusden said such sprays are very helpful during summer drought as moisture conservers.

He suggests also that evergreens be mulched to reduce the range of thermal "fluctuation." Mulches prevent deep freezing of soil in winter and overheating during summer.

But do not place a winter mulch too close to the stem or trunk. This will provide housekeeping mites for mice and other rodents. And next spring the base of the plant may be seriously girdled by the growth next spring. They simply hungry pests.

Theodor Uppman

Summit Concert Group to Hear Theodor Uppman

Theodor Uppman, well-known young baritone with the Metropolitan Opera, will be guest soloist on Tuesday, when the Summit Community Concerts Association presents its second concert of the 1957-58 series at the High School auditorium starting at 8:30 p.m.

Highlighting Mr. Uppman's 1956-57 season were his performances opposite Patrice Munsel in the Metropolitan's premiere production of Offenbach's whimsical operetta "La Perichole." Later this same season he scored again at the Cincinnati May Festival and during the summer sang the male lead in the St. Louis Municipal Opera's production of "The Great Waltz."

One of his most important successes was his appearance in the title role of the world premiere of Benjamin Britten's opera, "Billy Budd." That, in Covent Garden, was the highlight of the London 1952 season, with the London Times observing: "The Billy Budd of the American baritone, Mr. Theodor Uppman, was a most convincing materialization of Melville's half-drawn character and his great monologue in the form of a broadside ballad was sung with a noble strength and tenderness."

Native of California
Born in California, Mr. Uppman won a scholarship to study at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute. He also studied music and drama at Stanford University and at the University of Southern California. Following a tour of army duty during World War Two, he returned to California, where he was selected for the role of Pelleas in a concert version of Debussy's opera, opposite the celebrated Juggie Teyte, with the San Francisco Symphony directed by Pierre Monteux.

Heard on TV, Radio
Subsequently, Mr. Uppman appeared throughout the country in recitals, as soloist with symphony orchestras, and in operetta and musical comedy. Extremely popular on radio and television, he is known to people all over the country for his frequent performances on "The Telephone Hour." In September 1955 he made his first appearance on "The Voice of Firestone," and sang Prince Danilo in Eugene Ormandy's production of "The Merry Widow," which was televised coast-to-coast over "Omni."

Admission to the Community Concerts is by membership only. No individual tickets are sold.

New Boro School Steel Assembly Finished in 9 Days

New Providence — Superintendent of Schools Allen W. Roberts Tuesday told the Board of Education that the new high school "literally grew out of the ground" during October.

"In nine working days," Mr. Roberts said, "all structural steel was assembled and secured. While the mechanical crane was still on the job, the superintendent of construction ordered all beams and plywood placed on the roof in order to save many hours of manual labor."

He predicted that the school structure will be enclosed by Christmas if the good November weather continues.

"I have been very encouraged by progress thus far," Mr. Roberts said, "and am particularly pleased at the construction workers' constant references to the simplicity of design of the school which has enabled them to move ahead so quickly."

Mr. Roberts had special praise for George Gross, job superintendent for the Zwigard Construction Company, who has "skillfully deployed all trades so that no time is lost and a daily schedule of work is accomplished."

With construction of the school progressing so smoothly, the board Tuesday approved a $17,065 contract with the A. R. Nelson Company, Inc. of New York for the installation of corridor and gymnasium lockers and a $9,793 contract with the Walter A. Braun Co. of Newark for the installation of gymnasium bleachers.

Women's Club Making Favors for Greystone

Berkeley Heights — Thinking ahead toward Christmas, the American home department of the Woman's Club of Berkeley Heights will be making tray favors for Greystone Hospital at its next meeting to be held November 20 in the Berkeley Heights library.

This will be a combined meeting with the public affairs department and will start at 12:30 p.m. Dessert will be served.

Heights Told to Expect New Boost in School Enrollment

Berkeley Heights—Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Bothwell Monday predicted enrollment would reach 1,200 within the next two months, well in advance of previous predictions.

Mr. Bothwell told the regular Board of Education meeting that enrollment at the end of October was 1,179 students, compared with 1,161 at the end of September, an increase far greater than anticipated because of the high rate of new home construction in the township.

The Board of Education announced the resignation of Mrs. Vida D. Hoffacher as 7th grade English teacher for "personal reasons." Mrs. Hoffacher was hired prior to the opening of the new school term to bolster the English department. Miss Joan M. Tate of Seranton, Pa., a graduate of Marywood College, has been appointed to replace Mrs. Hoffacher. Miss Tate, who holds a B.A. in English and Social Studies, has two years' teaching experience and was hired at an annual salary of $4,300.

Board president John Brown announced the appointment of two new members to the Board of Education Lay Committee. They are: Charles Appleby of 76 Delmore avenue and Mrs. John Galt of 516 Plainfield avenue.

Architect Harry Maslow reported that preliminary work on construction of the new Mountain Park school began last week despite the fact that the general contractor did not have a contract from the board. Praising this "expression of good faith," Mr. Maslow said the contractor had set up an office and began work on site improvements in efforts to make up time lost in the beginning of construction of the school.

Similarly, Mr. Maslow reported the steel contractor has drawn up steel requirements and the order is expected to be placed next month.

Construction of the school is a month behind schedule already but it is anticipated that it will be opened by the Sept. 1, 1958 deadline barring "an extremely hard winter."

Date for the sale of the school bonds was left to the discretion of the Finance Committee under the direction of board member Raymond Weatherly. Mr. Weatherly said it was anticipated that the bonds would be sold within the month.

McCarthy Named Principal of New Boro High School

New Providence—The Board of Education Tuesday appointed Walter McCarthy principal of the new junior-senior high school, effective July 1, 1958.

Mr. McCarthy's appointment was made on the recommendation of School Superintendent Allen W. Roberts who told the board that Mr. McCarthy "enjoys the respect of students and parents alike for his high academic standards and a fair and impartial judgment."

Mr. Roberts told the board it will be necessary to establish three kindergarten classrooms for the September, 1958 term based on an anticipated enrollment of 180 new pupils.

To make space for the additional classroom, Mr. Roberts said the re-establishment of a kindergarten room in Lincoln School will be necessary and recommended that the board attempt to retain the facilities of the New Providence Methodist Church for the next school year.

Other changes required for pupil expansion will include the transfer of 60 pupils from Hillview to Lincoln to establish new sections of grades one, two and three; reduce class size in both schools and eliminate the need for teacher aides.

The present junior high would become a part of Lincoln school and house the 4th, 5th and 6th grades while the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th grades will be located in the new high school.

While present facilities will be adequate for the 1958-59 term, Mr. Roberts predicted a shortage of elementary classrooms by 1959-60.

Heights Women's Club to Fete State Officers

Berkeley Heights — Federation of Women's Clubs will hold a fete at the Berkeley Heights and the evening department will hold a joint meeting to honor guests from the 36 clubs of the sixth district of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs. Guests will include the sixth district vice president, district presidents and department chairmen of both day and evening departments.

"Women are Here to Stay," an original skit written by Mrs. David Koehn and Mrs. Roger Elbert, will be presented by the drama, music, and art departments.

Mrs. A. L. Seaver, Jr., chairman, and her reception committee will greet the guests, and corsages made by the garden department under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Haldenwang, will be presented.

Mrs. Russell Romond, president of the Woman's Club, will introduce the guests.

The hospitality committee is headed by Mrs. Joseph Baranski, Mrs. H. J. Heller, and Mrs. David Craig. Mrs. William Hicks, Mrs. Seaver, former presidents, Mrs. Edward Hughes, former evening department chairman, and Mrs. Frantz A. Bohne, program chairman, will pour at the tea table.

"Silver Whistle" Goes Into Final Rehearsals

Berkeley Heights — Rehearsals for the Stony Hill Players' presentation of "The Silver Whistle" will move into the final stages next week as the theatrical company prepares for its comedy presentation on November 22 and 23 in Columbia School.

The first dress rehearsal will be held Sunday at the school and will include the new modular "on stage" scenery designed and executed by Kenneth Poole.

The cast for the Robert E. McEnroe comedy includes: Dick Marsh; Hazel Fox; Mae Gould; Billie McNulty; Dick Lawall; Sue Wadas; Madelyn Weaver; Glenn Morris and Dick Gould.

Also: Fred Scheff; Tom Allan; Vincent Behnke; Walter Bischoff; John Ewertson and Bob Powers.

Eliza, Mo., is really the backward spelling of the German "Habe." Early settlers found it a good "halting" place for water and rest.

The original site of Charleston, capital of West Virginia, was purchased in 1687 by George Cledenn, a member of the Virginia Assembly, for five shillings.

Boro Women Voters to Get Report on Sidewalk Study

New Providence—A report on the sidewalk situation in New Providence will be made next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at a meeting of the League of Women Voters to be held at the Library.

Borough Councilman Clark Breisch has announced that a member of the Lay Committee on Sidewalks, appointed by Mayor Samuel Jones, will tell League members what has been learned in its study of the local sidewalk situation. The League is currently making a study of where the present sidewalk in the Borough are and how they got there.

The Mayor's sidewalk committee has prepared a public opinion poll on the need for sidewalks and residents are being queried by League members. It is hoped that results of this poll will be made public at Wednesday's meeting.

Members of the League committee on sidewalks assisting in conducting the survey are Mrs. R. J. Collier, chairman; Mrs. Anthony Cosgrove and Mrs. John Ewartson.

The League also announced that it will conduct an all-day trip to the United Nations on December 9 by chartered bus. The bus will leave at 9 a.m. at the corner of South street and Springfield avenue, New Providence, and will return at 5 p.m.

The six winners of a recent 15-week essay contest will be special guests of the League. Reservations for the trip may be made by calling Mrs. Hartley Finkel at Berkeley Heights at CR 3-6379.

"Personal Gain" Hit by Gensemer In Vet Day Talk

In his address at Veterans' Day services last Monday on the Village Green, Mayor-elect Ogden D. Gensemer noted that "our century has had to bear the curse of men who cared nothing for the fate of individuals or for the fate of nations and have sought only to gain personal power."

He pointed out that "many empires of the past and ancient times, flourished and then withered for lack of remembrance, but that the nation today was still able to keep the 'ledger' open for empires."

He urged that from the remembrance of sacrifices made by soldiers in all the wars, serve as the basis of strength for people today, in order to continue the devotion to freedom, the strive for peace and the determination to bring understanding to all men."

The services were conducted under the auspices of American Legion Post 138. Wreaths were placed at the memorial by Post Commander Larry Kelly and first Vice President Anne Forrest. Commander Kelly and Fred Melillo were co-chairmen of the event.

Inspects Nuclear Plant

L. F. C. Reichle of 67 New England avenue, nuclear engineering director of Ebasco Services, Inc., recently inspected the world's first privately financed nuclear power plant built to generate commercial power at the General Electric Vallecitos Atomic Laboratory on the west coast.

Real Corp. of New York City this week announced the switching of responsibilities of two of its managers "to give each a broader background of experience." In the move Donald S. Herr of 54 Portland road, formerly director of the company's technical service lab at Union becomes manager of the chemical sales development department. Mr. Herr, who has a Ph.D. in photochemistry from the University of Rochester, joined Shell in 1946 as an assistant chemist at Martinez, Cal. plant. ### Brayton Panel Group to Discuss "Organization"

"Over Organization" will be the topic of a panel discussion by the Brayton School Study Group today at 9:30 a.m. in the school's Pine Room.

The participants of the panel include Miss Hilda Falk, home and school counselor of the city's elementary schools; Frank Hydorn, youth director of the YMCA and Wilbur Nelson, principal of Brayton School.

Among the topics to be taken up will be how much time should children give to organizational activities outside the home, how much should parents stress "well-roundedness" and what is happening to children's free time?

Today's panel discussion is the second in a series of study group meetings sponsored by the Brayton School PTA under the chairmanship of Mrs. Walter R. Good.

Clarence E. Pickett

Former Head of Quaker Relief To Speak Here

Clarence E. Pickett, eminent Quaker and leader of the American Friends Service Committee, will be the guest speaker before the Fireside Forum at the First Baptist Church this coming Sunday evening. His topic will be "Religion and the State in Asia." Mr. Pickett, now leading an unusually active life of retirement, is the executive secretary emeritus of the Service Committee.

As leader of the worldwide Friends relief and rehabilitation activities and of their efforts to promote international understanding and peace, Mr. Pickett has traveled extensively in Europe and in the Far East. He has just returned from a six months world trip which included discussions with leaders in Asian and African countries. In 1955 he participated in a goodwill mission to the USSR. Earlier he had visited the Middle East to survey the distribution of relief among the Arab refugees.

Mr. Pickett's leadership of the American Friends Service Committee covers a span of nearly 20 years. He became its executive secretary in 1929 shortly before the committee undertook relief work in the American coal fields. The Quaker organization was only twelve years old when he became its head and under his leadership the committee expanded its foreign relief and rehabilitation and its work in the United States.

The members of the Summit Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends are joining with the members of the First Baptist Church in welcoming Pickett to the Fireside Forum. The program will begin with a social hour for dessert and coffee at 7 p.m., followed by Mr. Pickett's address at 7:45 p.m.

Kiwanis Club Elects Kerby New President

At its weekly luncheon-meeting on Tuesday at the Hotel Suburban, the Summit Kiwanis club elected Russell Kerby, Jr., president, for the year ending December 31, 1958.

Others elected to office were John May, first vice-president; James Beattie, second vice-president; Harlan Kennedy, secretary; and Charles F. Frith, Jr., treasurer.

Directors named for one year were Warren Griffin, Dr. Edward Mione and Robert Woodward. Two-year directors elected were Robert Nelson, Henry Creigler and William A. Martin.

The program also included talks by three Summit High School students and Neal Koppenol, president of the Summit Teachers Association, presented in conjunction with National Education week.

Student speakers were Doug Woodring, president of the G. O. C. Carol Israel, a member of the school's International Relations Club and Rodney Edwards, Science Club member.

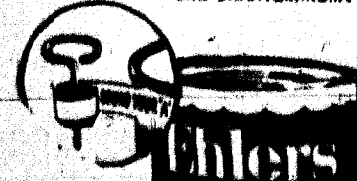

Three Navy planes from Air Development Squadron-6 completed the earliest flight in history to Antarctica when they landed at the Air Facility at McMurdo Sound on Oct. 1 marking the beginning of Deepfreeze III.

Girl Scout Troop Has Nut Sale in Preparation for 1961 Mexico Trip

In an all-out effort to earn funds for 1961, Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 15, under the leadership of Mrs. Gordon L. Hubert, has launched a nut sale. In addition to individual selling by the girls in their own neighborhoods, the sidewalk booth in front of the Summit Trust Company was staffed by Troop 15 Scouts last Saturday in a further effort to raise money. The booth will again be open this Saturday. Mrs. Richard L. Corby and Mrs. William W. Hibbard are the troop mothers in charge of the activity, and announce that further supplies of nuts may be obtained by calling either CR 3-1984 (Mrs. Corby), or CR 3-3188 (Mrs. Hibbard). All of the money raised by this campaign will be set aside for the Mexican trip. Further funds will be earned by the girls through baby-sitting and odd jobs in the community.

Following their organization Nov. 10, 1975, U.S. Marines first served as a unit aboard the USS Cabot in December 1975. They were paid approximately $7.00 per month and equipped with musket and cutlasses.

Horace Haring, Noted Bell Lab Engineer, Dies

Horace E. Haring, of 37 Glen Oaks avenue, electrochemical specialist at Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, died Tuesday morning at Overlook Hospital, after a short illness. His age was 62.

Since 1929 Mr. Haring had been associated with Bell Laboratories where he was in charge of research and development in the field of electrochemistry.

He made many significant contributions in the electrochemical field and was granted a number of patents for his inventions. Among his outstanding achievements were the lead-acid alloy storage battery now widely used in the Bell Telephone System; the "sea-water" battery which he developed during World War 2 for the U. S. Navy; and the bright chromium plating process developed in 1924 is used by the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing for hardening the surface of the printing plates for money and stamps.

He also invented the Haring cell, a device used for more than 30 years to demonstrate theoretical principles underlying electrochemical action.

Mr. Haring was born in Delanco, on August 30, 1895. He was the son of the late Rev. Harry Walter Haring, D.D., who for 35 years was a Presbyterian minister in Lancaster, Pa. Mr. Haring received the B.S. degree in 1916 from Franklin and Marshall College Lancaster, and the A.M. degree in 1917 from Princeton. After serving as a chemist with the Army Ordnance department during World War I, he joined the National Bureau of Standards in 1919. He joined the technical staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories in April 1929.

Mr. Haring was a member and a past vice-president of the Electrochemical Society and a member of the American Chemical Society. He was the author of many scientific articles on electrochemical subjects published in professional journals.

Summit Stands Out as Lone GOP Stronghold in County

With Republican strongholds throughout Union County either stormed and captured by Democrats or left badly tottering as a result of the Meyner blitz last Tuesday, Summit's GOP organization stands almost alone in having turned aside the Democratic onslaught by maintaining its power and prestige.

Summit defied the county and state trend and elected all Republican candidates by comfortable margins, even going so far as to give Senator Malcolm S. Forbes a slightly better vote than he received in 1953. Summit was the bright star of Forbes' county diadem. In fact, it was the only star.

Bryant W. Griffin, GOP city chairman, stated that he was "disappointed" in the county results but felt that Summit did its share in supporting Forbes and the Republican ticket. He pointed out that the Forbes vote last week was more than 500 better than he received here in 1953.

Other Bastions Fall—Those kind words, however, could not be said for the voters of other county GOP bastions such as Union, Westfield, Cranford and Plainfield where Republican power was either clipped or eclipsed by the Democratic blitz of last Tuesday.

Fourteen county municipalities gave Governor Meyner greater support last week than they did when he ran in 1953. Unexpected Democratic gains were made in such strong Republican areas as New Providence, which went into the Forbes' column by only 400 votes and Berkeley Heights, also captured by Forbes by only a few hundred ballots.

Now that it is all over, Republicans are asking one another, What happened?

Place the Blame on Ike

Some place the blame on "sputnik" and Washington, others insist that it was just a popularity contest with the Governor holding all the cards, which included a new queen. The favorite whipping boy at this time appears to be what is called "national unrest" which embraces a mounting criticism of the Eisenhower administration.

Whatever the reason, the county Republican organization lies in small pieces awaiting someone to come along and rebuild it. Union, once considered the keystone for any GOP candidate and the banner town of the GOP network, gave Forbes only a trailing 1,190 majority despite the fact that its Mayor F. Edward Bieri, strong man in Union politics, was a leader in the Forbes' county campaign. After the vote was cast last Tuesday, Bieri was reported to have commented that "a local political machine is no longer able to guarantee the vote."

Democrats Widen Gains

In the Meyner sweep Democrats not only piled up big gains in their conceded communities of Elizabeth, Linden, Winfield and Hillside but went on to add to their camp the towns of Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Rahway and Roselle.

With those municipalities in the Democratic column and with the traditional GOP majorities slashed in the suburbs, there was not much difficulty in the Meyner landslide carrying with it the Democratic candidates for Assembly and Freeholders. For instance, Republicans in Union who piled up a 5,000-vote majority for Republican Freeholders last year, could deliver only about 1,100 this year. Roselle Park, a GOP fortress in the past, last year went Republican by a 2 to 1 vote but this year had only a little more than a 200-vote margin for the GOP.

Even Summit where in the past most GOP candidates walked off with a 5,000-vote margin this year could serve up only a little more than 2,000.

Route 22 'Boomerang'

GOP strategy in making Route 22 a last-minute campaign issue is being seriously debated by many. Several feel that the decision to bring the proposed Route 22 into the campaign acted as a boomerang and did more harm than good.

Meyner's strong run in the western and central sections of the county was in the face of Republican campaign ammunition in the last days of the battle—the publication of maps showing State Highway Department proposals for relocation of Route 22 and construction of its spur to the Goethals Bridge.

The all-Republican Board of Freeholders splashed the headlines across the pages of every newspaper in the county, emphasizing that Meyner's highway department was responsible for the loss of ratables and the destruction of communities that would result.

Democrats hardly had time to rebut the testimony of the maps, but did manage through official statements and campaign releases to get across the contention that the maps were not final.

Meyner, in his Election eve telethon, repeated the assurance in response to continued questioning that no routes would be laid out until the public was consulted. He promised full and open hearings in the communities involved.

Early Deadline for Thanksgiving Copy

HERE and THERE in REAL ESTATE

By EDWARD C. HOLMES

Past President N. J. Assn. of Real Estate Boards

Local Real Estate Values are holding up in spite of a slower market, and there are signs that the market tempo may speed up in the near future. To analyze this condition, some background is helpful. The years 1955-56 were probably the biggest realtors of this area ever experienced, 1957 not felt the tight money squeeze nearly as much as many other areas in New Jersey.

In keeping with the motif of the International Geophysical Year, the theme of the 39th annual celebration of National Children's Book Week, next week, November 17-23, at the Public Library, will be "Explore with Books."

New, brightly colored books from many publishers of children's literature, for all interests and ages, will be introduced to the many school classes who will visit the library during the two weeks.

Among the various new additions to the children's shelves will be books that offer a stimulating supplement to school curricula, newspapers, magazine reading and TV. It is the aim of the library staff that through books as diverse as the interests of children, today's boys and girls may explore their interests fully.

During the class visits to the library, a half-hour in length, books talks and a browsing period will be provided.

Ilasco, Mo., is named for the first letters of iron, lead, aluminum, silica, calcium and oxygen, all of which are used in manufacture of cement there.

Five From Senior High Attend Rutgers Meeting

Summit High School today sent five students and one faculty member to the New Jersey Association of Student Councils at Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

The delegates were Herb Schmidt, Doug Woodring, seniors; Jay Hazen, Lyn Jan-Tausch, and Anne Staplin, juniors.

John Tyndall, adviser for the school's student council, spoke to the meeting concerning the preparing of high school student council people for office. Schmidt was the chairman of the group and Miss Jan-Tausch acted as reporter for the group.

Social Security Re-Opens Doors For Clergymen

Clergymen who have failed to elect social security coverage as self-employed persons now have another chance to secure old-age, survivors, and disability insurance protection for themselves and their families, Ralph W. Jones, district manager of the Elizabeth Social Security Office, declared this week.

An amendment to the Internal Revenue Code gives them, in general, from August 31, 1957, through April 15, 1959, to elect social security coverage, he said. Ministers who file waiver certificates during this extended period will be mandatorily covered for 1956 and for all subsequent years in which they have net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more, including earnings from the practice of their ministry.

In addition, Jones pointed out, a minister who filed a waiver after April 15, 1957, and before August 31, which was valid for 1957 but too late to get coverage for 1956, may still get coverage for 1956 by filing a supplemental waiver.

The law now provides that ministers will include as net earnings for social security purposes, (1) the rental value of a parsonage or rental allowance furnished them as part of their compensation and (2) the value of meals and lodging furnished them for the convenience of their employer. This change in the law applies only to the amount of a minister's earnings which are covered by social security; it does not affect his liability for income tax. This provision is effective for taxable years ending on or after December 31.

Through misunderstanding, Jones said, some non-profit church-related organizations erroneously reported the remuneration of certain ordained ministers performing teaching or administrative duties, and paid the employer and employee social security taxes. The amended law provides that the remuneration reported as paid to these ministers in 1955 and 1956 shall be treated as if correctly reported and not as net earnings from self-employment, to the extent that the employer tax or employee tax was not credited or refunded before August 31, 1957.

Christmas bazaar preparations are filling the free time and week-ends of Oak Knollers these days. Slated for Saturday, November 23, the annual activity will take the form of a gift colony of many shops. This is the students' project for the benefit of the Oak Knoll building fund.

The various shops are being sponsored by the individual classes.

The senior class has the debutante shop, with Misses Mary Anne Penno and Nancy De Sanis in charge; household gifts will be sold by the seniors headed by Misses Mary Courtney, Mary Belle Mayer, Paul King and Gail Reinheimer; Misses Peggy Ann Clark and Jacqueline Gow will be prominent in the mother and dad mart; the toy corner will be the venture of the seniors who will work under the chairmanship of Misses Nell Holloway and Susan McCarthy.

In the junior school, the four juniors are organizing the Christmas wrapping and greetings table and the three juniors are in charge of the religious articles counter. The remaining junior classes will collaborate in making a success of the gourmet corner, under the direction of Mrs. John E. Murphy.

Four Clubs Vie For Lead in Berkeley Loop

Four clubs are tied for first place in the close Berkeley Recreation Bowling League race after last week's hectic action at Berkeley Recreation Lanes.

Truesdell Esso, Fricke Engineering, Paragon Glass Works and White Diamond are deadlocked for first place, with Coddington's and McGregors in a position to gain first place should either of the leaders falter.

Ken Heater provided the spark for the Independents, with Les Cole and Joe Mandato the best bats for the Berkeley Recreation. Dick Gamo and Bob Engleman rolled 585 and 529 series to lead Spatz to a pair of wins over the Pine Tree Inn, with Bob Alberti sparking the lone victory for the Pine Tree pinner in the finale.

Brennan's Dairy surprised Flynn Bros., winning 3-0, with Jack Gross sparking the triple victory, with John Fricke helping with a 307 pinfall. Paul Fortenbacher and Sam Ruggerio were the best bowlers for the Flynn Bros. club.

Nigro's Construction won 2-1 over Maybell's Lunch, with Jim LoSapio (539) and Al Nigro (498) the standouts in this series. ## State Seeking Six Youths as Guides for '58 Belgium Fair Eligibility requirements for New Jersey young people seeking appointment to represent the state as guides for the United States section of the 1958 Brussels World Fair have been announced by Joseph E. McLean, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Commissioner McLean was named by Governor Meyner in October to make the necessary arrangements for the selection of delegates.

"While appointment to serve as one of the United States guides in Brussels may be a splendid experience for a qualified young person, it also will be real work and not a gay and glamorous European holiday," Commissioner McLean declared. "The job will be difficult, tiring, of a nature to make heavy demands on physical stamina, disposition, sense of humor and service spirit. Besides the formal requirements each applicant must meet, it will be important for the young person to be flexible enough to adjust readily to new surroundings, co-workers and the public."

New Jersey plans to send six delegates between the ages of 19 and 26 to serve as guides at the Brussels World Fair from April 10 through October 20, 1958. Traveling expenses will be paid and a subsistence allowance will be provided as well as a salary of $150 per month.

Must Speak French

In addition to being a citizen of the United States and a resident of New Jersey, the applicant must have at least two years of college training or the equivalent and speak French with sufficient fluency to carry on a conversation concerning subjects of moderate difficulty and complexity.

Preference will be given to candidates who also have a working knowledge of Flemish, Spanish, German or Italian.

The individual must be single and without dependents. Employment is for the full 194 days of the Fair, and no exceptions can be granted.

A doctor's certificate of good health and the ability to meet security and suitability standards are also necessary.

The employee must agree to occupy host-type living accommodations in government-leased quarters, accept assignments to a variety of duties such as guide and demonstrator in the American pavilion and auditorium-theatre and work on rotating schedules during the 46-hour week so that the United States section will be staffed 16 hours a day, seven days a week.

The six New Jersey young people will represent our State and our American way of life," Governor Meyner remarked. "In a sense, they will be regarded with critical interest by the thousands of visitors to the fair, and scrutinized as typical of the United States. Because of this, in addition to meeting the general requirements, the New Jersey committee will consider the candidates' appearance, appropriate dress and grooming, habits and good manners. They also will desire attitudes of tolerance, freedom from prejudice, and a genuine consciousness of the objectives of the World's Fair in our relationship with people of other countries."

Uniforms, Accessories Supplied
Uniforms and accessories will be supplied, with dry cleaning or laundry provided. Free transportation will be available from the place of residence to the World's Fair site, and employees will have medical and hospital benefits under the Blue Cross plan.

Advanced language training will be given during the 26 weeks of employment and there will be American guide supervisors, provided by the United States government, residing in each building where guides are housed.

Application forms may be obtained by addressing a request to Commissioner Joseph E. McLean, New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Trenton 25.

Nauru Island in the South Pacific is a trust territory of Great Britain. It has intensive mining and phosphates deposits.

The New York City Police Department has five helicopters on official duty.

Recent measurements show the ice to be 8,150 feet deep in one area in the Antarctic.

Summit Booters Beat Livingston To End Season

The highly rated and successful Summit High School soccer team ended their 1957 season on a winning note by defeating Livingston last week, 4-1.

It was a "must" victory for Coach Haldenwang's Maroon booters, for if there is any chance of repeating as Group 3 state champions, a victory over the Essex booters was needed. A loss in this game would have ruined any possibility of such an award, but it was obvious from the start that Summit was going to win as Johnny Johnson opened the scoring early in the initial period, and from that point on Summit controlled the game.

It wasn't until late in the game that Livingston was able to score and with Summit leading 3-0 thanks to a pair of goals by Ed Bett's, the Livingston score lacked significance.

The season ended with the locals finishing with nine victories, two losses, and one tie.

Rahway High Trips Strong Summit 20-7 in Late Rally

Although Summit held the defending Group 3 state championship, Rahway High School at bay for more than half of a well-played and action-packed football game at Memorial Field last Saturday afternoon, the homeowners nevertheless showed 20-7.

Keyed-up Summit High led high in the first half, but a 7-0 score for a great part of the first half, and held the visitors even at 7-7 after two periods. It was late in the third quarter that Rahway's power began to show as they pushed across a touchdown and then scored the clincher later in final period.

The Hilltoppers' touchdown came early in the second period when Pete Faherty intercepted a Rahway pass and bulled his way into Rahway territory. A pass play from Fred White to Tony Cardone was good for 20 yards and set up the scoring play on the visitor's 23 yard line. Here, Tony Cardone shot around left end on a reverse for a touchdown, with White adding the extra point on an off-tackle plunge.

Rahway received the ensuing kickoff and marched to pay dirt in nine plays, with Joe Williams, the Rahway and Union County top scorer, bulging his way over from the one foot line. The score at halftime was 7-7, with the fans enjoying one of the better games of the campaign.

Neither team was able to muster a good offense in the early stages of the third quarter, but late in the period Joe Williams and the Rahway Indians started to move. The touchdown play came on a brilliant 26 yard run by Williams and Rahway moved ahead for the first time in the game, 14-7. Again, in the fourth period Williams scored, this time from the five, after returning a Summit punt 42 yards to the 11 yard line. Here, Summit launched a desperation drive, culminating in a spectacular 55 yard advance on a pass play from White to Johnny Schieppie. The game ended before the Hilltoppers could capitalize on this tremendous play.

Although outclassed by the bigger Rahway team, Summit High School once again played well in defeat. Spearheaded by Norm Lavary and Pete Faherty, the team took advantage of their opportunities and did well in holding the high scoring and powerful Rahway team to a 7-7 halftime score and a thirteen point loss.

Joe Williams, the Rahway fullback, carried the ball on 31 of Rahway's 56 plays, gaining over 200 yards, or almost seven yards per carry. Rahway's attack lay in the ability of Williams to run, and run he did.

Coach Howard Anderson pulled a switch in his backfield, placing Johnny Meineke, normally a tackle, into the backfield as a fullback, and moving Freddy White from fullback over to tailback, in an effort to put more scoring punch into the lineup.

State School Aid: How It Operates and What It Does

by S. Herbert Starkey, Jr.
Research Director, New Jersey
Education Association

State school aid is an important budget item in every school district. Without it, local school taxes would be 10-50 per cent higher. With many groups in New Jersey asking that state aid be more than doubled, it can easily become even more important—especially to the home owners and other property owners.

While the State makes other contributions to public education (e.g., teacher training, the State Department of Education, the costs of teacher retirement), most people think of state aid as the money their schools actually get from the State toward their own local school costs, money they can subtract from the local school budget before the tax rate is fixed.

That fact emphasizes one important feature of state school aid. It is raised by State taxes, taxes which are NOT property taxes. Thus it lightens the burden of local property taxes. These average higher in New Jersey than in any other state, largely because state taxes and state expenditures are far below average.

Equalizes School Costs

The second important use of state school aid is to equalize somewhat the cost of schools, to compensate for the fact that some communities have large resources and few children, while others, like some families, have children out of all proportion to their ability to pay for their education. A large part of the state aid is distributed so that those who need the most get the most.

There are four main kinds of school aid in New Jersey today. These are (1) the large amount going toward the regular operating costs of the schools; (2) help toward school building; (3) transportation aid; and (4) aid for special classes for handicapped children.

Under laws passed a few years ago, New Jersey has some of the most advanced requirements in the nation for the education of physically and mentally handicapped children. Districts must provide small special classes for them, either in their own schools or jointly with other districts. The State repays districts most of the additional cost which these laws involve, giving each district either $2,000 for each special class, or half of the extra costs involved if a handicapped child is sent outside the district. The State also contributes one-half of the cost of any individual instruction or training provided at home or in school.

Helps with Transportation
Traditionally, too, New Jersey has recognized that you cannot educate a child until he reaches school. For many years it has paid three-quarters of the transportation costs for children who live "remote from the school-house." This is usually defined as two miles for elementary pupils and two and one-half miles for high school pupils. If a district wishes to transport pupils who live closer than that, it must pay the transportation costs itself. Transportation aid is costing the State over $6,000,000 this year.

The big bulk of State school aid, however, goes toward the regular operating expenses of school districts. This year, this amounts to a little over $62,000,000. This is the item which most people think of when they say "state aid," and the one which the 1958 Legislature will be asked to raise.

It is sometimes known as the "formula" aid, since it is distributed on a formula designed to give the largest amounts to the schools needing the most financial help. The so-called "formula" is very simple. For most districts "State Aid" is the cost of a "Foundation Program" minus a "Local Fair Share."

The Foundation Program—originally regarded as the very least amount any school district should be spending on the education of its pupils—is $200 for each pupil. The Local Fair Share is the money which the district itself could raise by a 5-mill property tax on equalized valuations, together with some small miscellaneous revenues from State taxes already returned to municipalities. Under this formula, with very reasonable local effort, any school district has at least $200 to spend on the education of each pupil, regardless of its own wealth.

In some districts, of course—the wealthier ones—the Local Fair Share will be as great as the Foundation Program. To make sure that every district gets some state aid, the law specifies that every district get at least $50 for each pupil. Districts coming under this provision are known as "minimum aid" districts. As local property values have risen in recent years, there have been more and more such districts; 205 now get the minimum rather than the "formula" aid.

How It Works

Here are examples of how this type of aid works in two New Jersey school districts.

Somerville is a good example of a school district in which the children are increasing faster than its tax resources. Somerville schools last year had an average enrollment of 2099.1 pupils. Its Foundation Program, therefore, was 2099.1 x $200 or $419,820. Its Local Fair Share (a 5-mill tax on equalized valuations, plus small miscellaneous revenues) would be $267,612.94. The State this year gives Somerville the difference between these two figures or $152,207.06 toward its school costs. Princeton, on the other hand, is a wealthier community, with far greater resources in proportion to the number of children in school. The Foundation Program for its 1133.7 pupils is $227,140. Its Local Fair Share, however, is computed at $127,164.14. Under the "formula" it would get no State help at all. But since Princeton residents pay State taxes, the State gives Princeton minimum aid of $50 per pupil, or $56,785 toward its current school costs.

Helps with Building

The State is now in the second year of a program to help school districts finance their school construction. In principle this aid resembles the formula aid already described. Each district is presumed to need at least $30 a pupil each year to provide school buildings. From this amount the State deducts a local fair share of a half-mill tax on equalized valuations to find the building aid. If a district is not actually spending this amount, its building aid can be accumulated in a State fund against future needs, provided it is also raising for buildings an amount equal to the local fair share.

The sum of these four types of aid is the total aid a school district receives this year from the State. This year, for example, Somerville will get the following aid:

"Formula" aid toward current expense $152,207.06, School Building Aid $17,820.43, Transportation aid none, Aid for Handicapped children $32.13 Total $190,559.62. Princeton's state aid looks like this: "Minimum" aid toward current expense $56,785.00, School Building aid $162,37, Transportation aid $121.13. Aid for handicapped children 2,000.00, Total $63,068.50.

Now Spending $85 Million

On such aid to education New Jersey is spending about $85,000,000 this year, roughly one-fourth of the total State government income. With some 920,000 pupils in its public schools, this amounts to about $92 per pupil. This does not compare too favorably with aid of $192 per pupil in New York or $145 per pupil in Pennsylvania. Percentage-wise it looks even smaller. New Jersey school districts have always sought good rather than cheap schools. The $85,000,000 state school aid is only 21 per cent of a total school bill of about $400,000,000. Even when State payments for teacher retirement are included, New Jersey state aid is only 26 per cent of the school bill. This compares with state aid of 36 per cent in New York and 42 per cent in Pennsylvania. On this basis New Jersey ranks 34th among the states, far below the national average.

This means that the New Jersey property owner and local taxpayer bears a far higher share of the cost of education than his opposite number in almost any other state. In a period of rising school costs, there is every prospect that his position will become less, rather than more, favorable, unless state school aid in New Jersey is substantially increased.

The longest ride, without changing trains, on New York subways is 26 miles.

Heights Seeks to Close Old Loggers' Roads

Berkeley Heights — A public hearing on the "driftway" ordinance will be held at the November 25 Township Committee meeting, it was announced last week. The ordinance encompasses the abandonment of several old loggers' roads, particularly on the property on the slope above the south side of Mountain Avenue across from the Mountain Park School site. The township committee explained that the "driftways" are no more than paths through the woods now and have not been in use for many years.

Heights Sets New Study of Route 22

Berkeley Heights—Members of the Township Committee will meet tonight with Harold M. Lewis, New York planning and engineering consultant, on a suggested alternative for the new Route 22 through this township. Mayor Arthur A. Manner said he had received a map showing Lewis' proposal for a route that would least harm the community. No details on the proposal will be released until after the meeting, Mayor Manner said. He added that the committee would "plan its attack" after seeing Mr. Lewis' map.

Bids Let for New Watchung Stable Building

The Union County Park Commission last week awarded four contracts totaling $32,136 for construction of an office, assembly room and caretaker's apartment at its Watchung Stable, Summit.

The commission, meeting in the administration building at Warrinanco Park, awarded bids to Vincent C. Sica, Jersey City, $22,396, general construction; Acme Plumbing and Heating Co., Linden, $3,155, plumbing; George L. Dennis Co., Newark, $4,225, heating and Henry Mock, Elizabeth, $2,360, electrical work.

IN SALES POST—Standard Packaging Corporation, New York City, has appointed David W. Guthrie, of 140 Ashland road, product sales manager for ice cream packaging. Mr. Guthrie previously was a national account supervisor for Marathon Corporation. He attended the University of Pennsylvania and holds a degree in Economics.

The first Continental Marines were authorized, on Nov. 10, 1775, and consisted of the "First and Second Battalion of American Marines."

The new building to be constructed between the recently completed stable and the main outdoor riding ring, will have cement block walls to make it fire resistant.

Dressing rooms and sanitary facilities will be included in the building which will have a second-floor apartment for a caretaker who also is a groom at the stable.

The assembly room will be 20 x 24 feet in size and will be used by the troops in the commission's riding program.

Society is built upon trust, and trust upon confidence in one another's integrity.—Robert South
