

City Favors Goldwater But Many GOP Will Bolt, Herald Voter Poll Shows

Summit, a traditional bastion of the Republican Party in Union County, apparently will remain "true blue" this November and elect Sen. Barry Goldwater but his margin of victory will be considerably reduced by many defections among the GOP.

This is indicated by the incomplete results of a small sampling of Herald subscribers who were polled last week on their present presidential preferences.

The Herald mailed cards to 250 subscribers selected at random from its circulation lists. The cards were returnable without signature so the identities of those replying is not known. They were mailed to all neighborhoods of the city. As of this week, cards were returned by 92 of the 250 receiving them, making a 38 per cent response, an unusually high return for a mail survey.

Forty-nine stated they intend at this time to cast their ballots for Goldwater and 28 stated they will vote for Johnson. However, 22 of the 28 Johnson voters, 22 signified that although their votes for president will go to Johnson, they will back the remainder of the Republican ticket.

Four said they intend to vote for neither Johnson or Goldwater but will vote for other GOP candidates. No replies were received to the question "I intend to vote for other Democratic candidates but not for Johnson."

One person said "it is too early to tell" and one indicated by a question mark that he was not yet ready to make a choice. A few made other comments, such as "No! No!" after Goldwater's name and still another was more explicit in his dislike of Goldwater.

As more returns are received by the Herald they will be reported.

The questions asked and the replies are as follows: The Summit Herald is seeking to ascertain the presidential preference of the community at the present time. Would you please check the appropriate question and return this card promptly? No signature is necessary. Thank you.

1. I intend to vote for Goldwater (49); 2. I intend to vote for Johnson (28); 3. I intend to vote for neither (4); 4. I intend to vote for other GOP candidates but not Goldwater (22); 5. I intend to vote for other Democratic candidates but not Johnson (none).

Nine Hurt in Four Holiday Auto Crashes

Nine persons were injured in four road mishaps over the Labor Day weekend.

In one of the accidents, four were hurt in a two-car crash at the intersection of Summit and Morris avenues on Sunday.

Three of the injured, all of Paterson, were in one car and included Leonard Verhasen, driver of the car, leg cuts and bruises; Nickie Ciancasi, 17, arm lacerations, and Roseanne DeLade, also 17, bruises about the face, head and arms. A passenger in the second car, Anne Kirkpatrick, 68, of Rahway, suffered deep lacerations about the head. All were taken to Overlook Hospital for treatment. Driver of the second car, Gertrude Kirkpatrick, also of Rahway, was unhurt.

Police said the mishap occurred when both cars collided in the middle of the intersection. Both vehicles were described as total wrecks and were towed from the scene.

Investigating were Patrolmen Julius Dillingham and Robert O'Brien.

In a three-car chain collision on Friday afternoon on Ashland road, two persons were injured. Treated for injuries were a Mrs. Bradt of 105 New England avenue, a passenger in one of the cars, and Barbara L. Campbell of 891 Mountain avenue, Murray Hill, driver of the car.

Police identified the drivers of the other two cars as Frank Costello of Plainfield, and John E. Kelsey of 9 Rotary lane. Both were uninjured.

The accident occurred when Mr. Costello's car was halted to permit an unidentified car to make a left turn from Ashland road, when he was allegedly hit from behind by the Campbell car, which in turn was struck in the rear by Mr. Kelsey's vehicle. All cars were going west on Ashland at the time of the accident. Investigating was Patrolman Alexander Horak.

Rights Rally For Mississippi Raises $2,500

Nearly 600 people packed the auditorium of Central Presbyterian Church last week for talks by Nathan H. Schwerner and five students who participated in the Mississippi Summer Project and songs by Kay Billig.

Nearly $2,500 was raised at the benefit for the Mississippi Summer Project, and, according to John Kessler, chairman of the benefit committee, contributions are still coming in.

The program was opened with an invocation by Rev. John E. Spruill. Kenneth Kipnis of Teaneck, a senior at Reed College, talked about Mississippi as a closed society. Lisa Anderson of 97 Blackburn road, a graduate of Cornell University who begins graduate study at Stanford this fall, spoke about voter registration in Greenville. The third speaker was Barbara Mutnick of Plainfield, a junior at Boston University, who told about the proposed Herbert Lee Memorial Center at Greenville.

The featured speaker was Nathan H. Schwerner, father of Michael Schwerner, one of a group of three freedom workers killed this summer in Mississippi. Mr. Schwerner talked about what motivated his son to go to Mississippi and what others can do to help in the cause (Continued on Page 9)

School Bells Toll Today for Record 4,800 Students

School bells will toll today for an estimated record 4,800 boys and girls when the city's nine public schools open for the 1964-65 school year. This year's enrollment is up approximately 400 over the 4,400 who enrolled on the first day of school last September.

Home Shifts Up Sharply Last Month

Moving permits increased sharply last month but still remain under the 1963 rate for the first eight months of the year, the city tax department informed the Union County Board of Elections at Elizabeth this week.

With 71 permits issued during the month, the number granted so far this year now stands at 338, a decrease of 71 from the 409 reported during the first eight months of 1963.

Last month's permits represented an increase of 12 over the 59 during July, 1964, and six above the 65 reported during August of last year.

Those moving within the Summit Area last month numbered 27, six over the 21 during July, 1964, and two more than the 19 in August, 1963.

Out of area permits last month went to 21, five more than were issued in July, 1964, and four above the 17 during August, 1963.

Permits issued to those moving out of the state last month numbered 19, one under the 20 of July of this year, and 10 below the 29 during August, 1963. Last month's permits also included two permits for those moving out of the country, Switzerland and Venezuela, and two others moving their belongings into storage.

Within Area Permits were issued to Roy A. and Mrs. Mary Beard, 139 Mountain avenue, to 51 Oakland place; Peter D. and Mrs. Olivia L. Bricker, 33 Tulip street, to 52 Oakland place; Mrs. Margaret C. Britt, 11 Overlook road, to 556 Springfield avenue; Mrs. Mary Clark, 454 Springfield avenue, to 6 Hobart avenue; Mrs. Kathleen K. Hearing Set For Attendant Parking Plan

A public hearing to determine whether to convert the Maple street parking lot on DeForest avenue into an attendant parking lot on an experimental basis will be held by Common Council Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. in City Hall.

No matter what the decision, however, the city's two-year experimental courtesy warning ticket will cease to exist after September 30. If Council approves the proposed attendant parking system, the plan would go into effect on Monday, October 5 and continue until December 31, 1965. All other lots in the city would continue on the meter plan with no warning tickets to be issued.

In the Maple street lot however, which would henceforth be designated as "Park and Shop Lot No. 1," all 92 meters would cease to operate and shoppers who wish to park there will be required to pay a paid attendant 5 cents for the first hour, 10 cents for the next two hours and 10 cents for each succeeding half hour. Motorists who violate the proposed procedure would be subject to a maximum fine of $50 or 15 days in jail or both at the discretion of the city magistrate.

At the same time the Maple street lot will be manned by an attendant, the city's 1,678 other meters would continue to operate on a six-day basis without benefit of warning tickets for violators.

According to ward 1 Councilman Richard L. Corby, the 14-month experiment would enable both Council and the Summit Area Chamber of Commerce to determine whether the shopping public prefers metered lots or attendant parking with no time restriction but at an increasing rate per hour based on the time parked.

Home Shifts Up Sharply Last Month

Manning the city's seven elementary and two secondary schools will be 250 classroom teachers who began work on Tuesday for a series of department meetings and in-service training. The 48 new teachers named to the public school staffs started work last Thursday for meetings with principals, department chairmen and supervisors.

The school year will be 182 days with the last day of school scheduled for Wednesday, June 23.

Again, Brayton School will receive the largest elementary enrollment with an estimated 500 registered as of today. Lincoln School will have an approximate student population of 75 and Washington, 450.

Additions Planned Additions are planned for both Brayton and Washington Schools to relieve overcrowding. Last year, because of overcrowding, Brayton School's third grades were shifted to the Junior High.

Again, the city's schools will open with every position filled, although up until two weeks ago, there were five classroom vacancies.

When schools closed last June, enrollment in the nine schools stood at 4,768, an increase of about 250 over the opening day enrollment last September.

This year, the kindergartens, the junior and senior girls will receive the bulk of student enrollment. A spokesman for the Board of Education said on Tuesday that a "steady increase" in the number of students has been noted for the last several years.

Enrollment at the nine schools at the term's end last June showed Senior High, 1,060; Junior High, 1,030; Brayton, 500; (Continued on Page 9)

Two Firemen Injured at Two Blazes

Firemen were called out last week for two residential blazes which damaged the second floors in both homes and caused injuries to two firemen.

Last Wednesday at 12:58 p.m. the department was summoned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Noble at 84 West End avenue for a stubborn blaze confined to a second floor bedroom and attic. The home was vacant at the time and when firemen arrived the upper floors were engulfed in flames. Four hose lines were used to extinguish the fire.

Fireman Brian Ruck received a chin injury from a ladder. Household goods stored in the attic were destroyed as well as the contents of the bedroom. Other rooms suffered heat, smoke and water damage. On Friday another bedroom blaze was extinguished at 1:29 a.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dillard, 26 Russell Place. The blaze was confined to a bedroom and Lieut. Robert Ryan was badly injured by cuts about the hand when a window was broken to release smoke from the room. There was no damage to other parts of the house.

She had failed to qualify for the finals in the event in late July at the National Championships, missing by .01 second.

Swimming in the first heat, she qualified in 4:46.3, her best time for the event, giving her the third best time of the eight finalists, but with the outstanding California swimmers, Donna de Varona and Sharon Finnyan only .02 and .03 seconds slower in qualifying times. ### Former Resident Quits CORE Post In Policy Tiff

Norman S. Hill, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Hill of 43 Passaic avenue, last week resigned his post as national program director for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) because of difference of opinion over the organization's election-year tactics.

Mr. Hill, who was born and educated here, said he resigned because he favored a curtailment of civil-rights demonstrations and a new emphasis on political action during the campaign. He has accepted a post with the American Federation of Labor — Congress of Industrial Organizations at Washington. He now lives in New York City.

Mr. Hill, who is 30, majored in sociology at Haverford College and studied for an MA degree at the University of Chicago before joining CORE. He planned the "sit-in" for the Triborough Bridge but was opposed to the plans for a "stall-in" for the opening of the World's Fair in April. He also was in charge of organizing the March on Washington.

Mr. Hill was recently seen on television during the GOP national convention when CORE groups picketed the outside of the Cow Palace at San Francisco.

In a letter of resignation to James Farmer, the national director of CORE Mr. Hill criticized the organization for what he called overdependence on demonstrations.

"The civil rights movement and the nation find themselves faced with a 'white backlash' encouraged by reactionary political currents which are rallied behind the candidacy of Barry Goldwater," he said in his letter of resignation. "The strategy is to win hitherto uncommitted whites to the twin causes of racism and economic conservatism."

"The growth of this right-wing menace is the most significant development on the American political scene in decades. It is fraught with enormous dangers to the cause of Negro freedom," he continued.

Local Girl, 8, Wins Ballet Scholarship

A ballet scholarship, made available under a Ford Foundation grant, has been awarded to Sandra Lemcke of 417 Morris avenue. The announcement was made by Fred Danielli, director of the Newark Ballet Academy and associated South Orange branch school, the American Ballet Academy.

The 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Theodore F. Lemcke, Sandra was one of a group of 13 girls and 10 boys who were selected for scholarship awards for the 1964-65 season at the Newark academy.

Many Weather Records Topped During August

August was a record-breaking month weatherwise, according to Harold Duflocq, meteorologist at Union Junior College Meteorological Station.

In his monthly report to the U. S. Weather Bureau, Mr. Duflocq reported that new record maximum and minimum temperatures were recorded last month, as well as the lowest rainfall on record for an August since the UJC station was opened on January 1, 1960.

The maximum temperature of 92 degrees was recorded on August 22, while the minimum mercury reading of 47 degrees was set on August 15. The average temperature for the month was 71.2 degrees, as compared with an estimated normal average temperature of 71.9 degrees. The average maximum temperature was 82.9 degrees and the average minimum was 59.3 degrees.

The maximum temperature reached 90 degrees or higher on three days, and 85 degrees or higher on 11 days, while the minimum temperature fell below 60 degrees on 17 days and below 50 degrees on three days.

August 23 and 31 were the warmest days with an average temperature of 80 degrees, while August 10, 14, and 15 were the coolest days with an average temperature of 62 degrees.

Precipitation in August totaled only .48 inches as compared with an estimated normal rainfall in August of 3.06 inches. Rainfall of .01 inches or more was recorded on only four days during the month, while the greatest rainfall in a 24-hour period was .19 on August 18 and 19.

Only rainfall of .37 inches in October, 1963, was less than the 48 inches recorded in August at the UJC station. The 48 inches of rainfall compares with 1.94 inches last year, 6.16 inches in 1962, 4.27 inches in 1961, and 2.45 inches in 1960.

Precipitation in 1964 through August 31 totals 27.79 inches, which compares with 18.76 inches last year, 30.11 inches in 1962, 35.66 inches in 1961, and 29.90 inches in 1960.

A severe thunderstorm was recorded on August 18 which brought high winds and damage to property as well as considerable damage by lightning.

Jewish Community Set To Observe Yom Kippur

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which is the most sacred and solemn day of the year for Jews all over the world, will be observed by the Summit Area Jewish Community, beginning at sundown, September 15.

Yom Kippur is characterized by fasting and profound self-examination. Jews are expected to spend the entire day at the synagogue in prayer and in solemn reappraisal of their personal behavior and their service to the community. Observances continue from sundown to sundown. The opening liturgy, the Kol Nidre, which is a prayer for forgiveness, is one of the most meaningful and earnest rituals in the Jewish religion.

The seriousness of Yom Kippur is emphasized by the abstinence from eating and drinking; it is a day upon which physical and material concerns are put aside and the individual evaluates his life and his conduct towards his fellow man.

The end of Yom Kippur is marked traditionally by the blowing of the ram's horn, the shofar. The blowing of the shofar symbolizes the end of the ten "Days of Awe," which begin with the New Year, Rosh Hashonah.

Golden Age Club to Open New Season

There is no charge for joining the club, nor are there any dues. Coffee, tea, and dessert are served each Friday, but members are reminded to bring a sandwich. Transportation is provided by the Red Cross whenever necessary.

Volunteer hostesses and drivers working with the group this year include Mrs. Paul Boyer, Mrs. Paul Barber, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. George Paulsen, Mrs. John Roberts, Mrs. Elizabeth Sharts, and Mrs. N. F. Linn.

Now is the Time to Give Car Thorough Checkup

The best time to give your car a pre-winter check-up is after the Labor Day holiday. Since Dad is still busy with lawn and garden chores, the car's responsibility will no doubt fall on mother's shoulders, particularly since she is probably part of a car-pool carting school-age youngsters to and from various activities—to say nothing of marketing chores, etc.

Let's start with the trunk. Remove all remnants of summer fun gear — pack away until next summer. Next replace them with these precautionary winter weather aids: a small bucket of gravel or sand for traction on icy winter roads. Add a pair of gardener's gloves, a small shovel, heavy boots and now you're ready to face the worst of cold weather emergencies, when alone. Those garden gloves fit easily over your driving gloves for spreading gravel or removing ice and snow from your tires when you're driving without your husband.

Midas, renowned manufacturers of mufflers, suggest you remove summer paraphernalia such as sun-glasses from under the front seat, replace them with ice scraper, snow brush, winter driving gloves, graphite gun (for thawing frozen locks, etc.) extra head-scarf, and a plastic squeeze bottle of water — the liquid detergent size. The bottle of water is insurance against the time your windshield washers go dry or get stuck by ice. A little glycerin added will keep it soluble. This is only an emergency measure as properly working wipers have no substitute. Check the seat-belts. If they are the loose hanging type, they may be frayed at the door-line, weakened by closing doors, and weather exposure. Since your life may depend on them, check them often, or replace them with the new retractable type belts. Separate retraction units may also be purchased. For trouble-free winter driving heed these safety tips.

Have mechanic add antifreeze where region demands. This is also a good time to have radiator hoses inspected. If fan belt shows wear, replace it. Have muffler checked for leaks, tailpipe for rust and wear. Winter driving with closed windows and a faulty exhaust system can be deadly. Don't risk poisonous carbon

Kitchen Helpers Can Soon Become Culinary Experts

a leading home economist for industry, whose primary concern is the lot of the American homemaker, has offered a welcome word on behalf of her counterpart in education.

Mrs. Sylvia White, director of consumer relations for Waste King Universal, suggests that airily asking the home economics instructor "What's cooking?" generally might elicit a sneer of sorts, for producing a pun well past its prime. She recommends, instead that you ask her "What's new?"

The cooking classroom is the scene of constant change, Mrs. White explains, as teachers adapt new methods and adopt new equipment to keep up with the continuing series of technological advances in the field of kitchen appliances.

And, differing from other "solid" subjects, where a textbook will serve several years, keeping current in home economics is a must, she says.

It's impossible to tutor in the techniques of firing a wood-burning stove when all they're firing nowadays are rockets and missiles, to draw a broad example.

Whether they're gas or electric, change in the appliance field is the keynote, according to Mrs. White. And it's this very change that campus coeds will again discover when they shortly start the new semester.

Few girls get through high school or college without at least one term in the classroom cookery, no matter how career-minded they are, she points out.

They learn that you can't burn water without boiling it first; that cooking methods differ between gas and electric appliances, although the end-result hopefully is the same; that there are new kitchen comforts to anticipate, such as gas-burning indoor barbecues that produce a true charcoal flavor.

This is the type of thing teacher will talk about when you ask "What's new?"

Think Twice Before Calling That Tow Truck

If you're stuck on the highway with a disabled car, a tow truck can be the most welcome sight in the world. Later on, however, you might wish that tow truck had never come near you.

An article by James Joseph, in the current issue of Home & Highway, a magazine for policyholders published by All-state Insurance Companies, warns motorists to make sure a disabled car needs towing — and that it is towed right. Veteran mechanics have seen dozens of cars arrive at the garage with smashed bumpers, gas tanks split from improperly placed chains, punctured trunks, smoking tires and ruined automatic transmissions, he reports. Here are other points Joseph makes:

What makes towing a tricky business? Some garagemen don't know how to do the job properly and they damage cars that way. Others use faulty equipment. A few purposely damage cars to pad bills. Fortunately they are in the minority.

Is Tow Necessary?

Before you tell the garagemen to tow your car, make sure it really needs it! Experts say that 70 per cent of towed cars didn't need it. Despite body damage, many cars can be driven to a garage or service station.

Don't let yourself be talked into a needless tow job. Some cars that stop on the road are simply out of gas. Others develop "vapor lock" which can be corrected by letting the engine cool and pouring water from the radiator over the fuel pump.

You may be able to spot a dishonest towman by the equipment (or lack of it) in his truck. Does he have a spare battery or can of gasoline? Reputable towmen do. The towman who tries to fast-talk you is robbing you just as surely as if he lifted your wallet.

Get List of Damages

Before you agree to tow, get an itemized list of the damages in writing. Note what is damaged and what is not damaged. Have the towman sign the list. If he won't, don't let him tow the car.

Check these items before starting out: First, the tow chains must grip the car securely without touching bare metal. Second, if your car is being towed with the rear-end hoisted, the steering wheel should be fixed to keep the front wheels in straight alignment and must be firmed against road vibration.

Tow trucks should carry lengths of wood to protect bare metal from contact with towing chains and heavy rope to secure the wheel. (Rope will prevent it from being scratched.)

Be careful to avoid these three blunders when you agree to towing:

1. Never let the car be bumper-towed. The bumper won't stand the strain and there are tow-holes built into the under-frame, anyway.

2. Don't permit a front-end tow unless the rear wheels ride on special dollies. A ruined transmission may result.

3. Don't let the car be raised more than a foot off the ground. The car may sway or the fender bottoms or exhaust system may be damaged.

Get It in Writing

Make sure you know where you're going to be towed and how much it will cost. If you are close to home, have the towman take you to a garage you know. If you are on an unfamiliar route, study a road map and pick out a nearby town. Even the smallest town usually has a competent mechanic.

Come to terms with the towman before you start out. It might save you a lot of money. Don't be alarmed by his warning that if he doesn't tow you, the police will. Most highway police not only aid motorists but will not tow a car away unless it's left on the road more than 24 hours.

Make the towman put all his charges in writing before you start out. That way he cannot pad the bill and charge you for expensive and unnecessary repairs. And be sure you know how to tow your particular make and model of car. For instance you should know the special way to hook the tow chains on your car, how fast it can be towed, how far it can be towed safely, and if the driveshaft should be disconnected.

A Brief Guide for Voters

With the general election less than two months away and the various candidates for local, county and state offices becoming more and more verbose, it might be well to publish a glossary of common words and phrases that will permit the average voter to understand his political friends without the need of attending rallies, candidates' meetings or morning coffee and roll sessions.

"Team" ... this is the candidate's own party. It is generally preceded by the adjectives "hard-working," "clean-cut," "dedicated," "crusading," etc.

"Machine" ... this is the opponent's team. Adjectives also are used with "machine" and generally are "dirty," "corrupt," "vicious," "well-oiled," etc.

"House-to-house" ... This is a phrase used to describe how a candidate will solicit votes. It is a technique all candidates swear they will do after they win the April primary but somehow forget to do in the fall. Sometimes the candidate presses his kids into service or hires a gang of neighborhood kids for the job of cluttering up mailboxes with literature on a house-to-house basis.

"Confident" ... used by all candidates in publicly weighing their chances for election. This word is very popular with veteran campaigners who never mention their opponent's name, or even acknowledge that they have opposition.

"Boys" ... used in a derogatory manner to describe those who are working for the election of an opponent, i.e., "he has the boys with him" or "his boys are saying" ... A candidate using this word always refers to his supporters as "people," i.e., "he has the boys working for him but I have the people on my side." What the candidate really means is that he has no organized support and his only hope is that his opponent drops dead before election.

"The Court House" ... a massive, ugly edifice at Elizabeth from whence flows all sorts of chicanery or good, depending upon the party affiliation of the candidate. At various levels the term "City Hall" or "Trenton" can also be used.

"Code of Ethics" ... this is a phrase popular with those who are "out" but want very much to be "in." It is something they claim is vital to good government and generally calls for the purchase of all materials and supplies by God rather than a city employee.

"The Hill" ... A phrase used by candidates of both parties but in different ways. It simply refers to a geographical section of the city and is an area every candidate always has "sewed up." The candidate who has lost out on the sewing up uses the phrase to imply that his opponent is hand-picked by the residents of that particular section.

"Pay-as-You-Go" ... This is a method of financing—that is all theory but which all candidates swear to ... until elected. This should be enough basic political language to get readers through the next few weeks and help him understand not only what the candidate has to say but also what he means.

School Bells Are Ringing

This week and for about the next two weeks the United States will witness what annually has become the biggest mass movement of people. In other words, the trek back to school not only will have started, it will have been accomplished.

Back to school has become one of the most important seasonal events to a nation which has become education-minded. Time was when back to school involved a relatively small portion of the population. Today it involves about half of the total population.

Grammar school and high school will be the destination for 37 million youngsters. Another 4½ million will be attending colleges and universities. Then there will be an estimated 50 million adults who attend classes of one form or another. For some it will be education aimed at job betterment. For others it will be instruction in adult education schools in arranging flowers, brushing up on a language or learning how to take off weight. Regardless of what it is, it involves a classroom, a teacher, and a pupil.

The emphasis on education is its own barometer of progress. We have come a long way from the time when a doctor spent a few months with a practitioner and then struck out for himself. We have passed the day when learning to write one's name was considered adequate preparation for life. Today we study ways to split the atom or determine the best route to the moon.

All of this costs money, as the burdened taxpayer knows. But it must be remembered that if half the people spend some time in a classroom, there's bound to be a fancy bill that requires a day of reckoning.

Back in 1880, according to statistics, it cost an average of $7.91 to educate a child. Education was deemed complete if the lad could write his name and read a page or two from McGuffey's Reader.

Times have changed. By the turn of the century the education tab had risen to $13.87 per pupil per year and the student went on as far as the fifth grade. In 1940 the cost rose to $91.64 and a high school diploma was the goal. Today, the cost, on a national average, is $400 per year and the sky is the limit so far as the objective is concerned.

Finally, comes the last chapter, one which is very familiar to all taxpayers. Who pays the bill? Well, the local school district provides more than half the cost and the states and federal government pick up the balance. There's no fairy godmother to bear the expense of school, whether some of the cash comes from the state capitol or Washington. Both of these places get their dollars from the taxpayer. It's merely a case of some of the money coming back by indirect routes.

Robbing the Boss

It may be a small can of paint, a few nuts or bolts, or some other minor item that some employee takes home from the plant because "it never will be missed." But that small act of pilferage, multiplied a few million times, becomes part of a gigantic theft which puts the British train robbers to shame.

Businessmen, pooling their information on the subject, are casting about for ways and means to halting employee thefts. Some concerns hire "spotters" to keep an eye on the store or shop. Others have check-out inspections and package passes and still others use closed TV to peer into the stock room or sales counter.

That the problem is a major one may be gleaned from the fact that thefts by bonded employees totaled $73 million last year. Thefts by unbonded workers are admittedly much greater.

One large department store chain estimates that employee pilferage equals 1 per cent of total sales. A small paint factory was on the verge of bankruptcy until it halted petty thefts. Then it showed a profit. The list of similar examples is lengthy.

No one can explain why it seems to be excusable to rob the boss. Usually, because the boss represents a business in which many articles are involved, the feeling grows that one small item never will be missed and its value is picayune.

The majority of people would never dream of using a gun to rob, nor would they even consider forging a check or other act of dishonesty. Yet there appears to be no hesitancy in taking something home which belongs to the boss.

Some of this pilfering tendency may be the result of thoughtlessness. This is borne out by the fact that in many cases when workers are made aware of the harm of petty theft, the stealing practically halts.

The employer can hardly be blamed for taking a dim view. This is a day of rising production costs and a highly competitive market. The firm which hopes to remain in business must plug all the cost leaks. Robbing the boss may appear to be a trivial matter to the individual but lumped together it creates an alarming problem.

Wants Fair Hearing
 Editor, Summit Herald:
 I would like to briefly express some observations relative to the recent editorial expressing your paper's support for Richard Traynor's opponent for Congress.

My concern is that your decision is apparently based, not on any effective beneficial action taken by Mr. Traynor's opponent in her year as an incumbent, but rather on Mr. Traynor's failure to express himself on national issues and his humble origins as small town boy from Summit.

Your paper knows better than anyone, that Mr. Traynor has since the inception of his campaign, continuously furnished to you and other news media detailed effective statements on important domestic and foreign national issues. I say, and I am sure so say many of our citizens "Give Mr. Traynor a chance to be heard". Fulfill your true function as a media of information. Print what Mr. Traynor says. Do not support the inaction of his opponent by concealing Mr. Traynor's constructive affirmative plans. Give our candidate, Mr. Traynor, a fair hearing and let the people decide.

However, if after hearing Mr. Traynor you are possessed with the necessity of promoting his opponent, determine from her where she stands in her support of Senator Goldwater, Mr. Miller and their policies. This is the question the people of Summit and Union County want and are

IS IT SOUND PLANNING TO BORROW MONEY?

Prudent borrowing, based on a sound repayment plan, can save money for the borrower. For some people, it means opportunities to improve income. Others reduce costs by consolidating bills. We regularly make loans for modern appliances that save time and expense ... for new cars that help the breadwinner fill a better job ... to modernize and improve property ... for bill-consolidation ... and for many other worthwhile, productive purposes. If a loan can help you in one of these ways, it's very likely we can be of service. At National State, you borrow at low bank rates and on convenient terms. Come in and talk to us at our most convenient office.

Misuse of Trademark
Editor, Summit Herald:

Ten new teachers each will join the faculties at the senior high and junior high, while Brayton, Washington and Jefferson schools will welcome three new teachers each. Six new teachers will join Lincoln school and four have been assigned to Roosevelt. Two new music teachers have been added to the general staff while the elementary schools will be served by two new librarians.

Dr. Chester D. Corong has replaced Dr. Warren Nestler as school physician. Dr. Corong is the son of the late Elwood Cor-ong who was a member of the Summit education staff of the Summit schools for many years.
Dr. Harold C. Hardenburg will become physician for the football squads during the coming season.

These are not the only interesting and amusing items in the subject editorial, but I must turn my attention to an item that troubles me in my capacity as a trademark representative of Humble Oil & Refining Company.
Unfortunately we do not find the occasions to write as often concerning the things that please us as we do in respect of problems. In this letter I must call attention to the caption and concluding legend of your editorial which made use of Humble's slogan "HAPPY MOTORING."

As trademark counsel for Humble I wish to call your attention to the fact that Humble and its predecessor-affiliated companies own registrations for the trademark and service mark HAPPY MOTORING in the United States Patent Office since 1938. This slogan has been used for more than a quarter of a century to promote and symbolize the quality products and friendly service emphasized at great expense in advertising and sales promotional efforts over the years to the extent that it has become closely identified in the public mind with the Humble organization. Doubtless you are familiar with these words, as they appear on the facades of Humble stations near you, and perhaps also your paper has carried Humble's advertising which has featured HAPPY MOTOR-ING.

I believe that you will particularly appreciate, as a newspaperman, the burden which rests on a trademark owner to exercise due diligence and to police the mark against misuse, whether in the press or other means of public communication, or by competitors. Improper use of a trademark by anyone can lead to the loss of valuable property rights.

I bring this to your attention in the belief that you will recognize the interests involved and will hereafter refrain from making any generic use of Humble's slogan HAPPY MOTORING. We are confident of your cooperation.

Editor, Summit Herald:
I have read with great pleas-

President Johnson. Conversely I have read your scurrilous editorial against Mr. Traynor, who supports President Johnson and is his running mate on the Union County ballot.

Would you please give us an editorial on where his opponent stands. Does she support Sen.
Goldwater and his irresponsible, chaotic and conflicting policies?
Then sir, where do you stand?

At last! A shoe shaped the way your child's foot grows

Simon J. Wikler, recognized authority on children's feet, believes that the shape of a shoe's toe is just as important as the length of the shoe.

So he created a shoe with a flaring, fan-shaped front that gives little feet plenty of room to grow... gives toes freedom to spread and exercise so foot muscles and ligaments can develop fully. A shoe designed to avoid a lifetime of foot trouble.

He formed the heel to hold the foot firmly in place, without cramping it. For the uppers, soft, pliant leathers so as not to irritate sensitive feet. And flexible, durable outsoles, without stiff steel shanks.

Come in soon and ask us about the Wikler Shoe by Buster Brown.

County to Vote $3 3/4 Million Trade School

A referendum to determine whether to spend $3,750,000 for additional facilities for the present Technical Institute and build a vocational-technical high school was authorized last week by the Union County Board of Freeholders.

A resolution instructing Union County Clerk Henry G. Nulton to place the question on the ballot in the November 3 general election was adopted by a seven to one vote.

The resolution points out that the Board of Education of the Union County Vocational School had requested $3,750,000 for a school to be erected on a 43-acre site purchased two years ago by the freeholders on Raritan Road, Scotch Plains, for $242,000.

Freeholder Thomas G. Dunn, who opposed the resolution, predicted that Elizabeth voters would overwhelmingly oppose the referendum because they have their own vocational high school and feel they should not be called upon to carry part of the tax burden for a county sponsored institution and high school.

Dunn unsuccessfully attempted to amend the referendum to specify that the cost be apportioned on a per capita basis against school districts sending pupils to the proposed school.

LUXURY RANCH APARTMENTS

Brandywyne at Brielle

It is virtually impossible to describe adequately the new luxury ranch apartments, Brandywyne at Brielle.

You must see for yourself its privately-owned curving streets; quaintly gas-lit and lined with native laurel and great trees, to appreciate the beauty that is here.

FOR THOSE WHO CAN AFFORD THE VERY BEST, here has been created a circle of seventeen individually designed homes, each containing four luxurious and beautifully distinctive ranch apartments.

From your very first glimpse of the real wood burning fireplace in the lovely living room, you will know that no refinement of detail has been overlooked, that will add to the comfort and gracious living of those who make Brandywyne their home... the spacious bedroom with its private dressing room and full-length mirror walls, the handsome "Brandywyne Room" with its rich wood panelling, the tremendous storage room downstairs, and large attached garage.

Here indeed are all the privacy and spaciousness of a privately owned home, without any of the problems and responsibilities and expenses of home ownership and maintenance!

The $225 monthly rental represents the TOTAL cost. It includes year-round heating and air conditioning (individually controlled), all gas for cooking and clothes drying (your own private laundry has water heater, automatic washing machine and dryer) and all electricity.

Local Man Heads Business Group For Johnson

John T. Connor of 49 Prospect Hill avenue, president of Merck & Co., last week was named co-chairman of 45-member group of national business leaders who will support the election campaigns of President Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Serving with Mr. Connor as co-chairman is John L. Loeb, senior partner of Carl M. Loeb-Rhoades & Co. The partnership of the group is three-quarters Republican and includes two former members of the Eisenhower cabinet. Mr. Connor described himself as an independent Democrat who "has voted for Republicans" in the past.

Announcement of the formation of the group was made at the White House. The group is called the National Independent Committee for President Johnson and Senator Humphrey.

Mr. Connor said that the committee would not engage in criticism of the Republican ticket of Senator Barry Goldwater and Representative William E. Miller. Instead, he said, the "emphasis will be on the program of Johnson and Humphrey."

He said the programs followed by the Johnson Administration were beneficial "not only to the business community but to the nation as a whole," and that the prosperity of the country was due "in large measure" to these policies.

Mr. Connor declared that the committee found Mr. Johnson's foreign policies to be "firm and temperate." He said the members felt that continuity in management was wise and "conservative in the true sense" if that management was sound.

Headquarters for the committee have been established at 99 Park Avenue in New York.

Mr. Connor said an executive committee would be named and

Child Care is No Baby-Sitting Service

(The following is the first in a series on United Campaign Agencies.)

Trying very hard to look blue about it all Miss Mary Jane climbed the steps of the large grey house on Woodland avenue. Observing the bustle of activity taking place in the side yard she commented on the large number of children in this family. Her companion told her these children did not live here.

"Oh, is this a school?" Miss Mary Jane asked.

"No, it's not a school," she was told.

Entering the large front room, Miss Mary Jane was certain her information was wrong.

"This must be a school, look at all the little tables and chairs." Then triumphantly, "There, see all those books and puzzles. I'll bet this is a kindergarten."

"No Mary Jane, this is the Child Care center."

"Child Care Center?" slowly Mary Jane tasted the words, gave them some thought, and found them foreign. "What is a Child Care Center?"

"It's a place where children stay while their parents are at work."

"Why don't they just stay home?"

"There is no one at home to take care of them."

She looked pensive for a moment. It was a hard thought for a six year old with a mother and a house full of brothers to grasp. Suddenly she found the answer. She asked: "Are they orphans?"

"No not orphans, most of them have parents, but for one reason or another their mothers have to work. Their daddies may be sick, or even gone and their mothers have to earn money. The children spend the day here."

Mrs. Howard Smith, the director of Child Care Center, explained how it worked. "It is not a baby sitting service," she said, "The center only takes care of children where there is a special need in the family. Before there was a Child Care Center, some children such as these were left at home alone. Right now the place is at capacity and the need is growing, but we'll squeeze them in somehow," she added.

Mrs. Frederick Cook, president of Child Care, pointed out that one of their needs was more volunteers. She praised the people who were already doing such a wonderful job, driving the children to school and tending the playground.

Miss Mary Jane wanted to know if the children stayed all day.

"Yes, all day," she was told. "Don't they get hungry?"

"Certainly they do. They eat lunch here. Look here's the kitchen and there's Mrs. Fischer preparing their lunch."

Never content till she has seen it all, Miss Mary Jane descended the steps that led to the large, airy backyard. "Mrs. Smith must have a lot of money," she observed.

"Look at all the things they have, a jungle gym, swings, bicycles and all those toys in the house."

"Mrs. Smith doesn't buy all these things." "Who does then? The mothers."

"No — the mothers pay something, according to what they can afford, and sometimes clubs and organizations donate big items like the jungle gym or something in the house. Most of the money however, comes from things like the United Campaign."

"Who are they?"

"They are really us" — her companion replied. Then hastening to clarify, "You see the United Campaign is the way all the people in Summit band together and collect money for things like the Child Care Center."

"All the people? Then the United Campaign must be rich."

"No, unfortunately, it's very

"They couldn't be left alone, they're too little!"

"Yes they are, but if there was no Child Care Center they'd have to be alone or live all the time with someone else."

Opening the cyclone gate to leave, Miss Mary Jane took one last look at this fascinating place. "The Child Care Center is nice," she said. Then looking as solemn as her six years would allow she observed, "But, you know Mommy, I'm glad you don't have to go to work."

"Well isn't it nice to know if I did, you'd have the Child Care Center?"

Miss Mary Jane nodded in agreement and tripped out into the bright sunlight.

The best to you from Grand Union

The finest meat producing Lambs in the world are bred and grown on American farms. GRAND UNION is especially proud of its reputation for buying only the best domestic Lambs. Acknowledging the tremendous contribution that has been made by the farmers of America in making our nation the best fed nation in the world... recognizing our responsibility to the farmers of America, especially the young farmers, we encourage and support their efforts to produce and improve on the best. This was evidenced at the 4-H Lamb Sale at the Flemington Fair 1964, where we purchased the GRAND CHAMPION as well as other lambs.

Heights Woman Mothers 4,000 Cedar Crest Grads

Vivacious Mary Lou Hartig administers Cedar Crest College's Alumnae Association—4,000 members and 18 clubs strong. Cedar Crest is nearing the end of its first century of service to higher education and attracts more students from New Jersey than any other state. Miss Hartig is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartig, 287 McMane Avenue, Berkeley Heights.

Mary Lou Hartig

"Bringing our college to over 4,000 alumnae takes a special kind of team work," maintains Mary Lou. "This year alone," she points out, "Cedar Crest alumnae have topped a goal of $80,000 for a new science center by $8,000 and contributed an additional $36,000 for other purposes." Mrs. John A. Deltich of Summit has taken an active interest in the college since her graduation. She is not only first vice president of the entire alumnae body, but is chairman of the budget committee and is working with a committee on a long-term study to determine new ways in which alumnae may contribute to the college in the years ahead.

The typical Mary Lou Hartig day at the office begins at 8:15 and may well last long into the night as she visits nearby clubs in New Jersey, New York or Pennsylvania. Sometimes her journeys take her on overnight trips to more far flung club areas. On these trips she adds to news sent to her from alumnae around the world for publication in the Alumnae Bulletin, a magazine edited by Mary Lou three times a year.

A girl with Nordic beauty and clean-cut charm. Miss Hartig was appointed executive secretary of Cedar Crest's Alumnae Association in January, 1960, after four years in business. Under her leadership three clubs have been reactivated and alumnae groups in Florida and Baltimore and New Jersey have been initiated.

Mary Lou lists as the four most important contributions of the Association's members to Cedar Crest: (a) fund raising, (b) attracting promising freshmen as possible candidates for application, (c) aiding the college in special events, such as Cedar Crest's Centennial Celebration in 1967, and (d) perhaps most of all, being ambassadors for the college in their own communities.

An expert on keeping up with her alumnae, Miss Hartig addressed the American Alumni Council last spring on "The Problems and Processes of Record Keeping." "We not only want to know where our graduates live, but what they're doing, how their careers and families are progressing, whether or not they can return to campus for our next annual reunion."

"Since 21 per cent of the American population moves annual-

Mr. Devenney, who has been active in YMCA national and area council committees, will be chairman of the program committee.

Car Check Quickest At Westfield Station

Burgess Duo Wins Club Doubles Crown
 The husband and wife team of Al and Marty Burgess won the mixed doubles championship on Labor Day at the Tennis Club. They defeated Mrs. Davey Nycum and Bob Jeffrey in a two set final with scores of 6-4, 6-2. In the semi-finals, Nycum and Jeffrey defeated Mrs. Terry Powell and Bill Speyers 6-2, 6-2. Marty and Al Burgess defeated Miss Paulette Powell and Arnold Williams 6-3, 6-3.

In the game of curling, skip is the name of the player, one on each side, under whose direction the ice is swept, this being done in a special manner. A curling tournament is called a bonspiel.

Union Youth, 19, Injures Three In Police Chase

An 18-year-old Union youth, reportedly driving a stolen sports car and having a revoked license, injured three persons in Berkeley Heights last Friday night when he crashed while attempting to flee from Heights police.

The youth, Michael Daddario, was held in lieu of $1,000 bail on charges of taking and operating a vehicle without owner's consent, driving while on the revoked list and reckless driving.

Police said they spotted Daddario driving north on Plainfield avenue about 9 p.m. Friday and signaled him to stop as they spotted his car which earlier had been reported stolen by Millburn police. Patrolman Theodore Rica of Berkeley Heights said Daddario sped away and led him on a 1-mile chase that ended when Daddario failed to negotiate a curve and crashed into a car driven by Louis L. Levinsky of 62 Camptown Drive, Berkeley Heights. Levinsky was unhurt but three other occupants of the car, his wife, and two daughters, Theresa, 17, and Virginia, 16, were injured slightly and treated at Overlook Hospital for minor injuries.
