Teenage Use of Liquor And Dope Seen Growing, City Authorities Admit

Use of Dope Here Still No Real Problem

Although some local teenagers are known users of narcotics, no "real problem" exists here, Police Chief John B. Sayre, told The Herald this week.

He admitted, however, that there has been a recent rise in the number of dope users, but would not venture to guess how many teenagers were now addicts, or what percentage of the city's youth had the narcotic habit.

When asked whether addicts came from any one level of local society, Sayre said "they come from both wealthy homes and poverty-stricken homes." Some, he said, get on the habit just for kicks, while others become addicted because of what they feel is too much pressure in life.

Discovering users of dope among the city's teenagers is a "difficult" job, Chief Sayre said, and indicated that users are generally found out after they have been picked up for an entirely different offense. Occasionally when a theft suspect is taken to Police Headquarters it is there where questioning frequently leads to an admission of dope addiction.

Difficult to Catch
"Anyone on the habit," Sayre added, "does not advertise it and it is almost impossible to catch addicts taking heroin." He said that some local teenagers arrested for theft have admitted after questioning that they stole in order to get money with which to purchase narcotics. "Discovering dope users is actually a by-product of some other offense with which the suspect has been charged."

At times, a routine search for underage possession of liquor in a teenager's car, will lead to the discovery of some marijuana cigarettes or barbiturates. "Even though a thief suspect is arrested and authorities find the familiar arm punctures from a..."

College Tips Given in New Herald Column

Beginning this week, The Summit Herald will publish a weekly column on college counseling by Dr. Lottie B. Larabee, Ph.D., author of "A Parent's Guide to Colleges and Universities."

In her columns Dr. Larabee will discuss which colleges are good and which are not, how to finance an education, the where, what, and how of scholarships, how much college costs, the size, location and religious denomination of various colleges, college training for the Peace Corps, and study abroad.

Dr. Larabee has a BA degree, two Masters and a doctorate. Her second masters and the Ph.D. were awarded by N.Y.U. in College and University Administration. Her biographical sketch appears in "Leaders in American Science," published by Who's Who in American Education, Inc.

The Cornell University Glee Club will appear in a concert here on Friday, April 2 at 8:30 p.m. at Summit High School under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club and the Lackawanna Cornell Club of New Jersey. Proceeds will be used to provide scholarship funds for both groups.

C. Seton Henry of 123 Summit avenue, is ticket chairman for the Lackawanna Cornell Club and Charles F. Frith, jr. of 105 Mountain avenue is chairman of ticket sales for the Kiwanis Club.

Drinking by Local Youth On Increase

Of growing concern to local authorities is the alarming increase in drinking by local teenagers, it was learned this week.

Both the Police Department and the Municipal Youth Guidance Council have voiced concern over the marked increase in the number of teenagers that have been charged with illegal possession of alcohol, and those discovered actually "under the weather" from too much indulgence.

It was also reported that some teenagers have given up beer for straight whiskey which they "purchase either in New York and smuggle back into town, or pay some older person to buy in a local store."

Local Dealers Blameless
No blame for the increase in teenage drinking is aimed at local dealers, it was pointed out, since shopkeepers keep to the letter of the law in not selling alcohol to minors under 21. "If a person who definitely looks well past 21 wishes to buy a bottle of whiskey or beer, there is no law to stop him, and it is not the dealer's fault if the liquor finds its way into the hands of a minor," a local authority said.

Another source of supply for teenagers is the well-stocked family liquor cabinet where it is difficult to detect the disappearance of a single bottle. Parents are urged to keep track of their liquor supply and if possible, keep it under lock and key if they suspect their children do outside drinking.

Some teenagers are also known to carry false identification. (Continued on Page 9)

Chamber Group To Hear Talk By Stamler

State Sen. Nelson F. Stamler will be featured speaker at the annual dinner meeting sponsored by the industrial division of the Summit Area Chamber of Commerce, Thursday, March 25, at the Suburban Hotel. Senator Stamler, who lives in Union Township and who represents Union County in the New Jersey State Senate, will discuss current problems facing New Jersey, with emphasis on the current reapportionment situation.

A forceful, informed and effective speaker, Stamler was sought for this meeting in line with the industrial division's policy of presenting the best-qualified authorities, discussing issues of importance to the industrial, business and professional leaders in the area. The meeting is open to all divisions of the Chamber of Commerce and, in addition, invitations have been directed to members of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Optimists organizations.

The meeting comes at a crucial time. The question of reapportionment of state legislative representation is creating administrative havoc throughout New Jersey. The Legislature is considering several methods of reapportionment, in line with Supreme Court rulings. As one consequence of this situation, the entire State Senate and Assembly will be up for re-election in 1965. Other steps now being considered are a larger number of state senate seats, and changes in boundary lines.

One such proposal would remove the communities of Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights from Union County representation and place them under Essex County leadership. Stamler, who has been deeply involved in the reapportionment crisis, will discuss the importance of this important point in (Continued on Page 4)

Fire Heavily Damages Home Of Dr. Minella

A fire believed caused by a defective chimney heavily damaged the three-story home of Dr. T. J. Minella at 268 Springfield avenue, early Monday night.

Although no one was injured, Mrs. Minella was given oxygen on the scene for treatment of smoke poisoning. Dr. Minella was at Overlook Hospital at the time of the fire and Mrs. Minella was alone in the house.

Fire Chief Charles Eakley said the blaze burned out the second and third floors, and completely destroyed a second floor bathroom. Firemen had to don masks in order to reach the attic and ventilate it.

None of the doctor's office equipment, which is located in the front of the house on the ground floor, was damaged. The second floor of the house is used as living quarters while the third floor is utilized for storage. Both floors, according to Chief Eakley, suffered heavy fire damage. Both the inside and outside walls were charred as were portions of the roof.

When firemen arrived on the scene shortly after the alarm was received at 6:21 p.m., flames were coming out of the second and third story windows. Although the major portion of the blaze was brought under control within 10 minutes, firemen stayed at the scene until 10 p.m. to be sure all embers had been extinguished.

The house is estimated to be between 80 and 100 years old and is located in one of the older sections of the city.

2 Get Swift Justice for Shoplifting

Two Elizabeth residents, arrested here for shoplifting at 6:30 p.m. Monday, were sentenced to six months each in Union County Jail at 2 p.m. on Tuesday by Magistrate Frank A. Pizzi in Municipal Court.

The two defendants, Lawrence Cousin, 20, and Floyd R. Simmons, 23, were charged with stealing several items from Sears, Liss' Pharmacy and Charline Drugs, all on Springfield avenue. Some of the loot included a medium size table radio, a transistor radio and several pairs of stockings.

The arrests were made by a member of the Police Department's detective squad. The complaints were signed by managers of the three stores involved. Judge Pizzi decided the case in the absence of Magistrate Albert H. Bierman, who was out of town.

EVERY LITTER BIT HELPS—One of the city's new trash receptacles now under test wins the approval of a group of Junior High School girls.

Roberts, Borough School Head, Given Reed Award

Allan W. Roberts, New Providence superintendent of schools since 1937, was awarded the 15th annual Stuart Reed Memorial award for outstanding civic contributions Tuesday evening at the annual dinner of the YMCA held at the Hotel Suburban. The award is the local YMCA's highest recognition and is given each year for "distinguished service to youth."

Roberts has been superintendent of schools in New Providence since 1937 during which with the Boy Scouts as a scout, scoutmaster, and now a committee member at large. He is a Summit Rotarian and past president, has served for 20 years on the New Providence Defense Council and 28 years as a member of the New Providence Library Board.

Roberts is also a trustee of the practical nurses board at Overlook Hospital, secretary of the N. J. Schoolmasters Club, and a member of the executive committee of the N. J. School Superintendents Association. He was selected as "man of the year" in 1961 by the Summit Area Chamber of Commerce.

Roberts was born in New Providence and attended Lincoln School and Summit High School before moving to Hillside where he graduated. (Continued on Page 9)

PAL to Open Youth Center For Students

Plans for the operation of a supervised after-school "drop-in" center for junior and senior high school students were announced this week by the PAL, sponsors of the project.

The youth center will offer dancing, ping-pong, a juke-box, a reading and sitting area and vending machines. A 10c charge will be made for a PAL membership to cover the costs of insurance.

The "drop-in" will be located at the former Board of Education study center at 331 Morris avenue, once the Allen-Tobin Ford showroom. Off-duty police officers will be supervisors. Starting Monday, March 15, the center will be open from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays for seventh and eighth grade students and for the same hours on Monday, Wednesday and Friday for ninth through 12th grade students.

The building where the drop-in will be housed was purchased by the city last April and from November to last month was used by the Board of Education as a study center for young people whose home environments were not conducive for study. It was closed because of a lack of attendance. Other community youth projects sponsored by the PAL include operation of a rifle range and rifle clubs, organized sports teams, a "fishing derby" at Vanderpoel Pond, an Easter egg hunt, and trips to big league baseball games.

Noted Educator To Address PTA At Wilson School

H. Russell Beatty, president of Wentworth Institute in Boston, will speak on "Lifting the Lamp of Knowledge" at the Wilson School PTA meeting to be held at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, March 23, in the school cafeteria.

His talk will be preceded by classroom visitations at 7:30 p.m. In addition to being a prominent educator, the speaker is also an industrial engineer, management consultant and author. He wrote the revised edition of the well-known engineering handbook, Principles of Industrial Management, originally written by Alford.

Before assuming the presidency of Wentworth Institute, Mr. Beatty was dean of the School of Engineering at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. He holds an honorary degree of doctor of engineering from Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken; Northeastern University, Boston and the University of Maine.

He is a consultant to Keuffel & Esser Co. and to New Jersey Machine Corp. The Boston educator is a member of the American Society for Engineering Education and is a liaison officer with the Atomic Energy Commission. A member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, he also serves on the Engineering Manpower Commission.

Mr. Beatty was a member of the Engineers Joint Council Mission to the Soviet Union in July, 1960, studying Russia's utilization of engineers and technicians. He was recently appointed a member of the Massachusetts Education Commission, as well as a consultant in technical education to the Ford Foundation.

A native of Eastport, Me., his forthright and practical perspective may well be traced to his boyhood in this rugged fishing village. It is serving him well today as he develops the contribution of the technical institute to the overall pattern of higher education in the changing United States.

City Opposes School Budget Ratable Bill

Opposition to pending state legislation which would raise the percentage of apportionment valuation or ratables in Chapter 6 school districts, such as Summit, was expressed in a resolution passed by Common Council last week.

Also on record as opposing the proposed measure was Mayor David E. Truckess, who expressed dissatisfaction with any increase, in a letter to State Senator Nelson F. Stamler.

Under the present laws, when the Board of School Estimate passes a school budget which is in excess of $1,609,190, or one and one-half percent of the apportionment valuation of ratables, approval is also needed by Common Council.

Assembly bill 72, which has passed that legislative body and is currently in the education committee of the Senate, would raise the percentage to two and one-half per cent; while Assembly bill 74, which is currently in the education committee of the Assembly, would increase the percentage to four and one-half per cent.

Mixed Feelings Expressed Over Anti-Smut Law

Cycle Crash Injures Two Critically

Two local teenagers, severely injured in a motorcycle accident Saturday afternoon, were still listed as in critical condition at Overlook Hospital yesterday.

The accident occurred when the motorcycle they were riding sped down a Colt road hill sideswiped a car driven by Mrs. Jennifer N. Sternberg of 29 Mead drive, Berkeley Heights, struck a curb, flew through the air and smashed into the side of a house at 4 Tanglewood drive.

Miss Christine Gerber, 16, of 38 Fairview avenue, was thrown from the cycle when it hit the curb at the Tanglewood and Colt road intersection. She was taken to Overlook with multiple fractures and head injuries. The driver, Daniel Oszvath, 19, of 58 Ox Bow Lane, stayed on the seat when the motorcycle struck the curb, but was catapulted into a window when the machine hit the house. He suffered multiple lacerations of the face, arms and hands, and was knocked unconscious as he fell to the lawn.

The owner of the house, John Gonski, said the impact of the crash penetrated the wall and knocked some of the inside panelling loose. Mrs. Gonski said he had been sitting near the wall just a moment before watching television, and had gotten up to go into the kitchen for a cup of coffee when he heard the crash. He said he looked back and all he saw was glass.

Sounded Like "Bomb"
Police said the impact was so great, that both victims were knocked out of their shoes. Neighbors said it sounded "like a bomb going off."

Oszvath required immediate surgery when he arrived at the hospital. Police said there is a stop sign at the intersection but no (Continued on Page 9)

In his letter to Senator Stamler, Mayor Truckess objected to "the loss of control by the governing body."

Also pending in the state legislature is Senate bill 111, which would raise the percentage to three per cent. The Senate bill is in the education committee of that body.

Reaction was mixed this week over Common Council's proposed ordinance to make it illegal for minors to purchase "literature of an obscene nature."

A poll taken of some of the city's leaders showed that while most agreed with the measure's intentions, many were uncertain about the legal ramifications and whether the bill was an attempt at censorship. A public hearing on the ordinance will be held on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Under terms of the proposed ordinance, violators, those who sold magazines or books of an objectionable nature to persons under 18 years of age, would be subject to a maximum fine of $200, a 90-day jail sentence, or both. The measure is primarily aimed at certain types of comic books and magazines where the subject matter tends to "deprave the morals" of those into whose hands such publications might fall by "suggesting lewd thoughts and exciting sensual desires."

Such objectionable matter, by the use of drawings, would include any magazine that showed the administering of poisonous and injurious drugs, aggravated assault, arson, assault during an attempted burglary or rape, any attempt to maim or disfigure, false imprisonment, kidnapping, malicious mischief, murder, rape, robbery or any conspiracy to commit any of the offenses mentioned.

Cites Other Laws
Mayor David E. Truckess said the ordinance was "aimed at minors only" and fell into the same category as other laws which make it illegal for the underage to purchase cigarettes or liquor. He said the measure was not an attempt to "improve the morals of adults," since they were excluded from the ordinance, and had the right to purchase any books or magazine they wished.

"It's a step forward," Mrs. W. A. MacMaster, chairman of the Municipal Youth Guidance Council, and a member of the Board of Recreation Commissioners said of the proposed bill. Literature of the type which the ordinance would keep from minors, "should not be on display where children can meet it face to face," she said. Although Mrs. MacMaster lauded the majority of local newsdealers for cooperating voluntarily to keep smut literature off their stands, she did admit that there "were always some" who refused to go along. Mrs. MacMaster pointed out that the or- (Continued on Page 21)

Assaults on Rise
Assaults were also reported on the rise, with five tallied in February, as against two, or three less, in the previous February. The 1965 total is now eight, which is twice as much as the four reported during the comparable period in 1964.

Six cases of disorderly persons were revealed, bringing the two-month total to 11, which is three more than the three reported during February of last year. The two-month total in 1964 was eight.

Burglaries for the month also showed an increase, with eight on the docket, as opposed to four for the previous February; but the yearly total stands the same, at nine.

Complaints of both a juvenile and ordinary nature also reflected an increase. During February, there were 28 juvenile complaints, as against 24, or four less, for the previous February. The yearly total in the city now stands at 52, which is six more than the 46 reported at the same time in 1964. Other complaints investigated (Continued on Page 21)

PTA Hears Educator Call Pupils 'Status Hostages'

Protesting the use of children as "status hostages" and pleading that children "should not be educated to live in present society," Dr. Melvin Tuvim, of Princeton University, addressed a crowded auditorium at Franklin School Monday night on "The Changing Nature of Elementary Schools."

Among other ideas expressed by Dr. Tuvim were: American education is the best in the world and comparisons with other educational systems are false. But American education is "terrible," he said, compared to "what it could be" if "we weren't so stingy."

There is a difference between an educational career and quality education. A student can go to all the prestige schools and still be a "fool," who knows "little and cares less."

Equality Stressed
Quality education will exist when every child in a school system is of equal regard, every child is an equal worthy member of society and the schools express equal concern for each child. Individuation is the key to quality education, Dr. Tuvim said, but although more money is not the total solution, there is a need for smaller classes, a professional regard of teaching and teachers, a banishment of "smugness" or excessive pride in local education and the abolition of artificial standards, such as standardized tests, to determine educational growth. The community, he urged should ask the educational leaders, principals and superintendent to lead, and each child should be measured against himself. Since research shows that "C" and "D" students are demoralized, experimentation (Continued on Page 4)

Chat with LBJ Climaxes Local Family's Vacation

It had been a relaxing and wonderful two weeks in Miami Beach for the Robert Grillos of 224 Blackburn road but it was made even more memorable by a sudden decision to "take a break" at Washington which resulted in an informal chat with President Johnson.

The Grillos and their two children, Gail and Susan, decided to take a look at the White House and were fortunate enough to be taking that look at the same time the President was strolling the grounds exercising his dogs.

The President stopped and said hello to the Summit family. asked the name of 9-year-old Susan and said he thought New Jersey was "a fine state" and added that Gov. Richard J. Hughes was "a good friend."

The President permitted the Grillos to take several photographs of him.

Congressman Robert J. Dole (R.—Kan.) will be the featured speaker at the seventh annual convention of the Union County Young Republicans this Saturday at the Hotel Suburban.

Congressman Dole is considered one of the most promising of the young leaders on the Republican side of the House. He has been referred to by former GOP House leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, as a "comer."

Serving his third term in Congress, Dole represents the first congressional district in Kansas, one of the nation's largest congressional districts, which comprises over 60 per cent of the total area of Kansas—larger geographically than either the states of New York or Pennsylvania.

The 41-year-old legislator is presently a member of the House agriculture committee and serves as chairman of the 87th Club, composed of members of Congress elected in 1960 to the 87th Congress.

Other convention guests will include national Young Republican chairman, Donald "Burr" Lukens, and state chairman, Richard Flechner.

Frank H. Betz of Scotch Plains, county YR chairman, will call the convention to order at 2 p.m. in the Apollo room of the Hotel Suburban. Mayor David E. Trucksess will give a welcoming address. Other highlights of the day's agenda will be election of county YR officers, reports of standing committees, adoption of a platform and a reception for honored guests followed by a banquet and dancing.

The unexpected eruption of the Mount Pelee volcano on Martinique, which wiped out the 26,000 residents in 1902, had an ironic touch. The only survivor was a condemned prisoner who was in a dungeon at the time.

Heights Women Named To Dinner Committee

The parable of the prodigal son is featured in this week's Bible Lesson on "Substance" to be read in Christian Science churches Sunday... Rejoicing to see his son's return, the father said: "For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found" (Luke 15).
How everyone must eventually find the "substance" of his own life is brought out in the Christian Science textbook: "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 491).

Judge and Jury Visit Property In Green Acres Park Dispute

New Providence — Superior Court Judge Walter L. Hetfield 3rd and a Union County jury March 2 made a personal tour of several acres of land in this borough and Berkeley Heights which has been condemned as part of the Passaic River Park Project.

The trip to the 18.5 acres in the two towns was the primary step in a condemnation proceeding which began that day in Judge Hetfield's court.

Ralph Pocar of 777 Springfield Avenue, Summit, and James Boyle of Westfield, owners of the land, are contesting the price the Union County Park Commission has offered them for the acreage.

The property is undeveloped and is zoned by both municipalities for residential use.

This condemnation suit is the first of what could be several as residents, particularly in Berkeley Heights, have indicated they are not satisfied with the park commission's offers for their land and buildings.

Six homeowners reportedly are specifically dissatisfied with the commission's offer of a flat sum of money and life tenancy. The former owners, as tenants, would have to foot the bill for property taxes.

Library Sets Story Time Registrations

New Providence — Registration dates for story times at the Free Public Library have been set March 12 and 19 between the hours of 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

To be eligible for the story hour program, a child must have been four years old before December 31, 1964. No telephone registrations will be accepted.

The program, which will be held in the library children's room, is divided into three groups: 9:30 to 10 a.m., 10:15 to 10:45 a.m. and 11 to 11:30 a.m. Parents may register children for any one of these three story groups.

Society Nominees

Margaret Willeford, Barbara Bien, Elizabeth McVey and Barbara Kus, all of New Providence, and Christine Kostek of Berkeley Heights, were nominated as candidates to Our Lady of Wisdom Chapter of the National Honor Society recently at Union-Catholic High School, Scotch Plains.

Two-thirds of the world's population have inadequate diets, the U. S. Department of Agriculture finds.

For the Birds

FOR THE BIRDS
By Farris S. Swackhamer
Union Junior College, Cranford
March, 1965

One day last spring I played a round of golf at Suburban Golf Club in Union. As the four-some ahead of us walked along the fairway, they were followed by a group of barn swallows. The golfers stirred up insects in the grass as they sought their ball and the swallows quickly scooped them out of the air. Later we saw another flock following the power mower.

Most golf courses make a fine place for swallows to settle. There is often a barn where the mowers, tractors and other equipment are kept. This makes a perfect spot for nests. Some authors claim that as many as 200 nests have been found in the same barn, although others put the limit at about 40.

The golf course is sprayed with water regularly so that there is an ample supply of mud with which the birds can fashion their nests. Farmers are generally fond of barn swallows and go so far as to mix mud for them. During the mixing, the birds often hover about waiting for the batch to be ready.

Barn swallows are small birds, averaging about six and three-quarter inches in length. They are our only swallows with a deeply forked tail, are pinkish or cinnamon-buff below and blue-black on top.

When the first settlers came to this country, barn swallows nested in caves, crevices and under rocky shelves. Except in the northern wilderness and in spots on the Pacific Coast, this is no longer true. They have forsaken areas provided by nature and taken man-made structures for their own. Favorite nesting spots in addition to barns are bridges, sheds, boat-houses, wharves and abandoned houses.

Last summer down at Stone Harbor I watched parent swallows feed their young underneath a dock that was in daily use. One would think that children running across the boards would shake the nest into the water but it evidently adhered too firmly.

If you live in the country you can use the little fellows to help predict the weather. When the sun is out and warm air rises from the ground, insects are swept up with it. Then swallows have to skim the grass tops to keep their stomachs full. They drink on the wing also, scooping up water from the surface of a puddle, pond or stream.

Tree, bank, rough-winged and cliff swallows and purple martins are the other members of the family to be found in New Jersey. Tree swallows are blue or green-black above and clear white below.

Bank swallows nest where there are undisturbed sand and mud banks. They are small brown-backed birds with a distinct dark band across white breasts.

Rough-winged swallows nest in the sandstone ledges along the upper reaches of the Delaware River. They are brown-backed like the bank swallows but have no breast band.

Cliff swallows prefer to fasten their mud nests outside the barn under the eaves. This member of the family has a pale rusty or buff rump and when overhead appears square-tailed with a dark throat patch.

Nomadic people from the Arabian desert today, according to dental historians, brush their teeth in the same manner as their ancestors back in the 4th century. These ancestors used switches made of misswak, a soda.

Family Spending Shifts Noted in 20-Year Period

Housing costs have replaced food costs in first place by size in the average family budget. The change in expenditures was noted for the first time in 1961

In consideration of family spending patterns over a 20-year period. Food is now taking a small proportion of the average family budget than it ever has.

A new U. S. Department of Agriculture report shows that food and beverages together accounted for 31 per cent of family living expenses in 1941 but only 26 per cent in 1961. Housing costs accounted for 29 per cent of all living expenses in 1961. This housing item was up 1 per cent from 1941.

Other shifts in the family budget during the 20-year period include a decrease in clothing (12 down to 10 per cent), an increase in transportation (12 up to 15 per cent), and an increase in medical care (5 up to 7 per cent).

These figures, including the 26 per cent for food and beverages, are the percentages which families actually spend for living expenses. The 19 per cent for food, so widely quoted, is a percentage of take-home pay. This accounts for some difference. It should also be noted that percentages vary greatly with incomes — perhaps quite as much as with the size of the family. With both a low income and a large family, the percentage spent for food might likely be 50 per cent or more of income. With a high income and a small family, the food expenditures might not need to be more than 12 per cent. If many meals were eaten away from home, the percentage would be higher.

Eating Habits Changed
But those whose incomes have gone up in recent years — and this means the majority — the eating habits have changed greatly. As a result, the percentages of the total food budget spent for various food groups and items have changed. Today's average American spends more for some foods such as beef, chicken and frozen fruits and vegetables, and less for bread and grain products, potatoes and other items. The trend reflects the increased funds available for food (not percentage which show a decrease). It reflects a greater purchase of foods enjoyed more, though not necessarily more valuable nutritively.

Both Are "The City's Finest"

Too often we take for granted and dismiss as "part of the job," the various day-to-day activities of our city departments. Granted that much of the work is routine, as in most any job, there sometimes arises a situation where someone is called upon to take risks and chances that could result in injury or death.

We refer for example, to a recent fire on Railroad Avenue, where two firemen rescued from certain death a 74-year old invalid woman who was trapped in her blazing second floor apartment bedroom. Firemen Richard Bormann and Guy Ruggiero hoisted a ladder, smashed the windows of the burning bedroom, went inside as flames licked about, picked up the woman, and carried her safely to the ground. In our book, this is an act of extreme courage and heroism.

Of course many will say this is "part of the job" of being a fireman. But willing to risk one's life to save another, is something more than part of the job. It is a concrete demonstration of putting the welfare of others first.

For this, we humbly thank our Fire Department for having such men on its staff. At the same time, we are also grateful to our Police Department whose members daily carry out many unsung acts of heroism as part of their devotion to duty. Stopping a speeding car can be just as hazardous as climbing into a burning bedroom.

It is no wonder that Summit is the fine community it is when such men as Ruggiero and Bormann and all the other members of the Fire and Police Department are part and parcel of our town. We salute them as "The City's Finest."

Making Smut Sale Illegal

Although we agree with Common Council's motives in attempting to make it illegal for persons under 18-years of age to purchase books or magazines of an objectionable or obscene nature, we question whether or not such legislation is a realistic approach to the overall problem.

We agree that many of the so-called comic books and magazines currently on display at some newsstands are definitely offensive and should be removed. Such printed matter serves no other purpose than to provide vicarious thrills for the impressionable. It is this sort of "literature" that Council wants to keep out of the hands of those under 18 years of age by making it a felony to display it on newsstands.

Without going into the technical or moral aspects of what is or what is not obscene, we question the workability of such a law.

Enforcement of the ordinance would be left to the Police Department and any magazine that contains pictures or prose of an objectionable or obscene nature, would subject the newsdealer to a stiff penalty. In effect, the policeman will be called on to become a judge since it will be up to the officer to determine whether the magazine fits into any of the illegal categories spelled out in the ordinance. We do not envy the Police Department in this particular role.

Also, we doubt if a person who is 17 one day and 18 the next, changes dramatically from an impressionable youngster to a worldly-wise adult capable of digesting the contents of such objectionable books with a stifled yawn of boredom.

Poverty and Our Affluent Teenagers

There are many who say that poverty can never be licked and it will always be with us no matter what steps are taken to remove it.

Apparently there are some who do not subscribe to this theory and are willing to work toward making poverty a thing of the past. On Sunday, approximately 300 high school students from nearby communities will gather in the auditorium of Oak Knoll School of the Holy Child to discuss and hear talks on "The Corrosive Quality of Poverty in Every Community."

The intriguing and interesting part of this meeting is the fact that many of the students who will be in attendance reside in such affluent communities as Summit, Millburn, Short Hills and other nearby towns where the standard of living is above average. Many of these students know only the dictionary meaning of poverty, and have never met it face to face.

Who Made It Great?

Sen. Sam E. Ervin, jr. of North Carolina recently established some sort of a law for twisting history to suit his own taste when he made the claim in Congress that WASPS (white Anglo-Saxon Protestants) "are the people who made America great."

No one people, no single creed, no particular race made America great. This country was created through the combined efforts of many. If truth must be told, much of the element to which the Senator gives credit was content to build a feudal system in which personal interest transcended national progress.

The Senator is wrong from the start. Based upon his reasoning Christopher Columbus never should have started his voyages of discovery. The Senator ignores the Spaniards, the Portuguese, who historians claim antedated the Anglo-Saxon. He dismisses the Dutch who came first to our area, the Germans and Swedes who settled large parts of this state and Pennsylvania. He overlooks the Poles of Pennsylvania and the Scandinavians of the mid-west, the French of the middle south and the Irish who spread the length and breadth of the land.

Mr. Ervin adopted the narrow view because he was trying to build a case against liberalization of the immigration laws. The administration wants to scrap the old quota system. Those with narrow views want to keep the tide down to a trickle, forgetful that immigrants contributed to this country's greatness.

And with today's teenagers becoming more and more sophisticated in their dress and appearance, it is sometimes difficult to determine who is 15 years of age and who is 19. Possibly ID cards would have to be issued to see who may or may not be permitted to purchase forbidden books. Newsdealers might be required to hire additional help just to check out the ID cards.

We do not think that this well-intentioned ordinance is the answer. Rather, the answer might lie in the simple act of newsdealers jointly refusing to accept such books and magazines from distributors and publishers. In this way, such printed matter would be kept out of the hands of our youth simply because it would be unobtainable in Summit.

If enough newsdealers in enough towns did the same, perhaps the publishers of such trash would wise up and discontinue grinding out such garbage.

Of course there will be those who will ask what magazines should be refused and what ones accepted. That's simple. We don't think a "comic book" that has on its cover a hideous monster who is about to rip the clothes off of an already half-naked girl while the "hero" is able to have his face burned off with a blowtorch, is exactly the healthiest type of literature about. Nor do we consider any paperback book that depicts on its cover a half-clad girl in the arms of a handsome lover with a provocative title of "High Priced Call Girl" will contribute anything to art.

Sometimes you can tell a book by its cover.

Misguided Humanism

Editor, Summit Herald:
This is a plea to all those who are going to "Help Wipe Away the Tears" by giving to the Red Cross, in reference to the advertisement of the Public Service Company to this effect in last week's Herald.

I am a college student and therefore radical and irrational (must this always be confused with idealism?) but I can do little but squirm at the blatantly misguided humanism which we employ to justify our comparative wealth and power in this society.

Charitable contribution is wonderful, but how many do it without jotting down the amount for the purpose of tax deduction at the end of the year. And, more important, how many of us care and think enough to stop supplying kleenexes for the tears and start doing what we can in our influential position as suburban New Yorkers to prevent the tears from coming. Let's stop just pledging our money and start pledging our lives.

Commends Policeman

Editor, Summit Herald:
May I commend the policeman who was alone and was the first officer to arrive at the scene of the tragic motorcycle accident of two of our teenagers on Saturday. I was there and recognized the proficiency with which he took control of a startling situation. His calm anxiety displayed a genuine concern that we should be glad exists in his job of the protection of our families.

If you know his name, you might print it. Gentle expediency, such as his, too often goes without our thank-you.

The Right College

College Leads

by

Lottie Larabee, Ph.D.

Students who are given work below their abilities waste talents, time, and money. On the other side, students who cannot keep up with their classmates are frustrated, and are often asked to leave college. These and other adjustment problems may arise as students take that big step into college.

Advanced Placement Tests can save as much as a full year at college. In fact, this is the operating level of some colleges today. By 1970, the standards of these colleges will probably have risen to today's requirements for admission of sophomores.

Some parents still feel that they have a "problem" of deciding whether or not to allow the child to advance more rapidly than his classmates. Prof. Lewis M. Terman, famed for the Stanford revision of the Binet-Simon intelligence scale, conducted a 25-year follow-up investigation of children with high IQ's who had advanced more rapidly than their classmates through all educational levels, and found them better adjusted than their former classmates who taken a year for a grade. He found them better adjusted physically, socially, emotionally, and occupationally. Nevertheless, anti-intellectuals are still busy at one of their favorite pastimes to the disadvantage, and often to the displacement, of many intellectually superior students.

Students who are accelerated upon entering college often have a background of acceleration. The intellectually superior may be identified between the sixth and ninth birthdays. At that time, educational plans should be laid down. Parents should watch the homework and encourage intellectual interests in the home. The cliché that "cream will come to the top if left alone" is a devastating myth.

The critical period in junior high school occurs when assignments are made for college preparatory or vocational courses. If the student has an IQ of 130 or above, and is aggressively interested in producing on that level, he should plan to enter one of the higher institutions that admits only students with SAT-V (scholastic aptitude test-verbal) scores of 600 or higher. These institutions may be fulfilling a large and needed role from the late 1960's onward. Students in these institutions may not much longer need to lose their years in classes where certain classmates consume time in endless explanations from the teacher.

Student Mortality

On the other side, student mortality is a big problem. Fewer freshmen fail to return to selective institutions than to others, about one out of twenty in the best of them. Semiselective colleges experience mortality rates as high as one out of five, whereas these rates run as high as two out of five in open - admissions institutions. Furthermore, student losses are not limited to freshman classes. Such students may never have learned how to study, may not have been prepared for how to make constructive use of the new freedom, may have attempted too much outside work to help with expenses, or they may have aimed too high in the selection of the institution.

However, whether the student is accelerated or not, and whatever his adjustment problems may or may not be, he probably can find a regionally acsyringe, the suspect cannot be actually accused of being an addict if narcotics are not found on his person. "We can ask him about it," Sayre said, "but legally, we can't do a thing if he's not in possession of the stuff."

Doubts Local Pusher.
He doubted that there were any local pushers, but that teenagers went into New York instead to purchase dope. Although he would not say for sure, Sayre indicated that some of the local dope users were high school students. The majority of addicts, he indicated, however, were high school dropouts.

Sometimes the Police Department will hear rumors of someone on dope, but legally it cannot do anything until heroin is found in the possession of the person or an actual pickup is observed.

One point emphasized by Chief Sayre was the fact that some habituates are stronger than others. Some, he said, are so potent, they can only be obtained through a prescription, while others, of less strength, can be purchased without a doctor's order. "If you take enough of the less potent stuff," Sayre added, "you can get the same desired effect that one powerful dose can give." He said it was almost impossible to halt the sale of drugs to minors since there were different laws governing the sale of different drugs.

Teenage addicts are generally partial to "goofballs," glue sniffing and cough syrup that is heavily laced with a narcotic, the Chief said. He did not think there were many local teenagers who were actually on heroin, although he did admit there were six registered narcotics addicts in town.

As far as the cost of the habit is concerned, in New York a deck, or package sells for $3 while in Summit, the same package would run to about $6.

Also emphasized by Chief Sayre was that Summit's problem, if it had one at all, was not unlike neighboring communities. He said while the city has its share of narcotics users, the situation was "definitely not out of hand," and that he doubted if it ever would. "In this kind of situation," he added, "we've got to play it by ear. We know what's going on and we're doing everything in our power to make certain it doesn't get worse."

field, when the Tixton car allegedly crashed in the rear. Two persons were injured when the car they were riding crashed into a station at Broad and Walnut streets early Friday morning. Taken to Overlook Hospital for treatment of injuries were Jacoba Kohler, 49, and John Hoskam, 23, both of Orange. Both suffered hand and knee injuries.

At the time of the mishap, the car was traveling east on Broad street. The car was heavily damaged and was towed from the scene.

Early Friday night, Cecile E. Swan, 46, of 64 Prospect street, was injured when her car was in collision with one driven by Harold Mannor, 38, of 17 Edgarcreech, at Broad and Elm streets.

Police said the Swan car was traveling east on Elm and Mannor, west on Broad, when the mishap occurred. Mannor allegedly failed to obey a policeman's hand signal, and collided with the Swan car which had the right of way. Mannor was given summonses for allegedly displaying fictitious license plates and disregarding an officer's signal.

The Mannor car was heavily damaged and was towed from the scene.

Teenage drinkers range in age from 14 to 16, and on occasion, some have been found to have been drinking excessively for several months. Drinking is not just confined to boys, it was pointed out, but to girls also.

Overindulgence is generally confined to the weekends when teenagers gather in various parts of the city for parties. The drinking usually does not take place at the parties, but afterwards when the guests leave and are enroute home. Vacations are another time when teenage drinking is noticeably on the increase.

It was also learned that the majority of teenage drinkers come from what one authority termed "the good homes." Parents were called upon to keep track of their teenage children's whereabouts to be certain they are not associating with other teenagers known to the police to be heavy drinkers.

Magazine Prints Story "The School for Scandal" is Lavishly Offered at Playhouse

For its 161st production, the Playhouse has called upon one of the classics of the English-speaking stage: Richard Sheridan's "The School for Scandal," which opened Sunday night for a week's run.

By all accounts, this 18th century drawing room comedy was lavishly produced and well acted, despite some difficulties with dialogue that has become slightly archaic.

The main fault we find with the Playhouse's current production, however, is its 2½-hour length. But outside of that, the evening was a delightful one, and certainly most entertaining.

Again, many congratulations

Andrew Tringham as the deceitful Joseph Surface and Harold Richardson as the put-upon Sir Peter Teazle were most excellent in trying roles. Mr. Tringham seems to have been born for 18th-century drawing room farce, and Mr. Richardson seems to be at home in almost any type of production.

Eric Davies in the role of Sir Oliver Surface was delightful as the pixie-like uncle who must have his little joke at the expense of his two nephews: Joseph Surface, and the ere-dowell Charles Surface, played by Russell Gilsdorf.

Except for an occasional too-rapid delivery, Eugenia Howard as Lady Teazle, Isabel Mercer as Lady Candour and Pat Edwards as Lady Sneerwell, Charles Surface's picture room where almost everybody in sight becomes intoxicated, and the other, in Act 5, where Joseph Surface is caught in a compromising situation with Lady Teazle as her husband arrives on the scene. Both were well done and highly amusing.

The professional hand of Marjorie Jefferson as director was highly in evidence. Her knack in getting the most out of her cast is phenomenal, as is her ability to keep a play moving every step of the way.

Others in the 18-member cast included Rufus Searies as Rowley, Henry Croix as Mosen, Bill Hennessey as Trip, A. Edward Zorian as Sanke; Dick Schultz as Cafeless, Low Weiger as Maria and Gloria Johnson, Bob Zandi and Jeff FitzWilliam as servants.

Congratulations should also go to Bill Kingsford and Lollie Searies for their roles as production managers. Tearing around five sets and keeping 18 actors on the go, is no simple job.

Although "The School for Scandal" is definitely a dated piece, it is good once in awhile to take it out of its dusty old trunk for another airing. It's still good for some laughs.

Total rubber consumption is up about 55 per cent since 1955. Use of synthetic has gained 157 per cent, compared to only 15 per cent for natural rubber.

SUMMIT HERALD

Junior League History Reflects Changing Era

A history of 36 years of community service describes the background of the Junior League of Summit, Inc., since its founding in 1929 as the Summit Junior Service League.

League history reflects the changing times, a Summit community needs have changed, the League has endeavored to be flexible and ingenious in its response. The 25 original members of the Service League created a volunteer organization which pioneered in health, welfare, recreation and cultural fields. Mrs. Ruford Franklin served as the first president, and members of the first Executive Board were: Mrs. T. Willard Towler, vice-president; Mrs. C. Doster, secretary; Mrs. Nathan C. Lefestry, treasurer; Mrs. C. Douglas Hardy, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Neville Goddard, editor. Chairmen of standing committees were: Mrs. Campbell Howard, welfare; Mrs. Hector Griswold, Red Cross; Mrs. Edward Twombly, hospital and Mrs. Lemuel Skidmore, motor corps. Many of the founding group are still residing in the Summit Area, including six of the 10 original Board of Directors members.

Depression "Baby"
The League came into being on the eve of the Depression and has served the ever-growing community through the war years, the post-war years, the Korean War and the many subsequent world crises. The list of special League activities during these periods is a diary of the times. Proceeds from one of the early benefits, a performance in 1931 by Marie, Grand Duchess of Russia, were earmarked for the unemployed of Summit. At that time, League members also helped the unemployed by staffing the unemployment office, distributing flour, working in the sewing rooms and using the motor corps to deliver pay checks.

The times were accompanied by the growing threat of war. In 1935 the League took part in a regional conference on "The Cause and Cure of War". When the country was forced to rearm, money was donated by the League to send the Summit Herald to local servicemen. By 1941 the League was supporting the "Save the Children Federation", and a war activities committee was formed. This committee was active in the USO at Camp Kilmer. Many other wartime organizations were served by League volunteers, including Refugee Relief Workrooms, British War Relief, ration board and War Bond Drives.

Sparked Civil Defense
The name of the committee was changed in 1945 to the Post-War Activities Committee, and gift boxes were sent to Camp Kilmer on a regular basis. A Civil Defense meeting for Summit was arranged and sponsored by the League in 1951. Quantities of clothing were sent to Korea from the Thrift Shop about that time, and later to Hungarian relief. Today clothing is distributed to the local area through Family Service, to Rumlins Hospital and donated to individuals for distribution abroad.

The Service League was instrumental in organizing Family Service Association from the former Cooperative Service Organization. The operation of the Thrift Shop was formally taken over by the Service League from Family Service in 1934. From its earliest days, the former Summit Home for Children was a major concern of the League. Extending its efforts beyond financial assistance, volunteers helped supervise children, planned parties for them and sent them to summer camp. The League also participated in the leadership and management of the Home itself. It was the main support of a WPA nursery

Started Rescue Squad
One of the most important services undertaken by the new group was the Summit Rescue Squad, incorporated in January, 1962. Three Unit members and ten other community volunteers created a squad able to provide free emergency first-aid service and ambulance transportation. $15,000 was given by the Unit to buy an ambulance. Demand for the squad's services mushroomed and in 1963 volunteers answered 700 emergency calls and served chronic invalids. The Unit contributed $5,000 to help construct a Rescue Squad Headquarters building in 1964.

A reading help program was organized in the city's elementary schools, a new volunteer program was begun at Rumlins Hospital for Chronic Diseases, record players were provided for the Public Library, Garden State Ballet programs were provided for Junior and Senior High students and a summer enrichment program was launched for High School girls at the Y.W.C.A. Last year also saw the beginning of Summit's first Youth Employment Service, a no-fee service designed to place students in appropriate summer jobs. Plans for the Y.E.S. 1965 season are well underway.

The new Junior League of Summit has now been voted full membership in the Association of the Junior League of America.

Looking Backward

Fifty Years Ago
The first serious fire in the center of the city completely destroyed the store of Thomas J. Powell on Maple street, at the same time as the rest of the building was severely damaged.

In an editorial, the Summit Herald urged repeal of the railroad full-crew law, which the paper claimed only benefited those drawing the salaries.

Congressman Tuttle announced his intention to recommend George W. Baldwin as local postmaster.

Twenty-five Years Ago
After a one-year experiment in curtailing music instruction in the city's school, the arrangement was termed unsatisfactory by the Board of Education, which proposed hiring an additional music teacher.

Oakley LaVance was toastmaster at the installation and ladies' night dinner of Kiwanis at The Brook, with William Kay installed as the new president.

Summit resident James Francis Bonnell had his book "Death over Sunday" published by Scribner's. Previously the author had written "That's My Pop."

Ten Years Ago
Judy Garland and James Mason starred in "A Star is Born" at the Strand Theatre.

The Zoning Board of Adjustment recommended to Common Council that the ten-acre Bassett estate be approved for use as the Beacon Hill Club.

Dr. Mildred Bohne was elected temporary chairman of the newly organized Summit chapter of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club.

Five Years Ago
The Board of Education and Common Council reached a pact on construction of a new High School, which had been delayed because of differences of opinion on size and costs.

Dr. Frank Barr was elected campaign chairman-elect of a Fund for Summit.

The census estimates predicted that the New Providence population would have almost doubled within the previous decade. The actual census was to start April 1.

New Jersey Education Laws School Boards Sell Bonds To Borrow Sizeable Sums

(New Jersey's Education Code contains four chapters of laws about school elections, school budgets and school boards. This is the fourth in a six-part series prepared by the New Jersey Education Assn. to help acquaint the public with them.)

Should I vote for the school bond issue?

That's a question many a New Jersey voter, except Summit, has had to ask himself in recent years — and many more will be asking it in the future.

School boards use bond issues to raise funds to buy land, to build schools, buy equipment, and to enlarge or repair existing buildings.

Selling bonds is a way to borrow sizeable amounts of money. Industry often borrows in much the same way for construction, modernization or repair. So do municipal, state and federal governments.

School bond issues are not rare, but for a bond election to be successful, the district must prove its case to a large number of cautious people.

When it first starts borrowing, a school board must convince only the regular watchdogs of public funds. In most districts, this is the electorate, which must approve the bond issue at a referendum. In the districts which do not have elective school boards, such as Summit, this approval must come from the almost unanimous agreement of the board of school estimate — the body jointly appointed by the municipal governing body and the school board to approve funds for school spending.

But State law limits the amount of money a school district may borrow. After this limit is reached, a school board may issue bonds only with the added permission of two State agencies.

The board of school estimate operates in communities organized under Chapter 6 of the Education Code, intended for use in the cities. Summit is such a district. But even in these districts, a referendum can be averted only if two-thirds of the board of school estimate ap-

Board of the State Treasury Department must approve the bond issue. This board gives its consent, according to State law, only "if it shall be satisfied that amounts to be expended for the new facilities are not unreasonable and that issuance of the bonds will not materially impair the credit of any municipality in the district." (The next article in this series describes the annual school election.)

bounded 24-16 in the first half) in the second quarter.

Roberts and Prather scored 13 of Summit's initial 15 tallies in the second frame, as the Hilltoppers moved out to a 29-23 lead with one minute remaining in the half. Roselle Park cut it down to 31-27, but Jeff Hartlaub's tap, at the buzzer gave Summit a 33-27 edge.

The Maroon and White, trying to avenge an earlier loss to Park, upped its margin to 10 points early in the third quarter, 37-27, on jump shots by Bloomstein and Hartlaub.

Roselle Park reeled off eight quick tallies to get back into the game at 37-35, midway through the quarter. On a beautiful pass from Hartlaub, Roberts scored on a fast-break layup. After Hugh Moore hit on two driving jumpers, the Hilltoppers led, 43-38.

Roselle Park wrapped five points around Hartlaub's free throw to trail by only one point, 44-43, at the end of the quarter. Summit never led again, as Roselle Park put on a 9 of 1 shooting exhibition in the final session to win the game. Only some clutch free throws by Roberts kept the game from becoming a runaway.

Coach Joe Coleman stricken with a fever, braved the weather to come out for the game. Coleman did not substitute during the game, and received fine performance from all his starters.

Roberts was the high scorer for Summit with 17 points bringing his season total to 237 tallies, an average of 14.3 per game. High scorers in the game were the Park's Steve Batch with 20, and his teammate Neil Pastushok with 18 points.

Hartlaub scored 13 points to bring his season total to 305 points, and his two-year total to 582 points, for an average of over 13 points a game for two years.

Hartlaub and Roberts, Summit's only six-footers, as opposed to Roselle Park's three, tried, to keep Summit in the rebounding fight. Roselle Park decisively outbounded Summit, only the fourth time this year that the Hilltoppers were out fought by the opposition under the boards.

Prather, making six of his long jump shots, scored 13 points to give him a season total of 252 points, an average of 12.6 per game. Moore finished with eight tallies and Bloomstein six.

Summit shot 48% from the field (23 of 48) and 52% from the free line (11 of 21). Roselle Park made 54% and 53% respectively, recording an unusually higher percentage from the field than from the foul lines.

The Summit High junior varsity quintet, coached by Harold Ahern, brought its final season record to 17-3, with an overwhelming 85-36 walloping of the Roselle Park JVs. The 85 points represented a season-high for the junior varsity.

Don Willey scored a team-high 25 tallies, 16 coming in the third quarter, and also pulled down 10 rebounds. Ed Pryor scored 15 points and picked off seven rebounds. Lamont Johnson, the JVs high scorer for the season, tallied 10 points. Co-captain Gary Shearon, closing a fine season as playmaker, scored nine points.

Willey, 6'4" Bruce Fry, and Randall Moore (Hugh's younger brother have been added) to the varsity roster for the state tourney contests. After tonight's game, which starts at 8:30 o'clock, the Hilltoppers, should they win, will play one of two Newark rivals, South Side (20-1) or West Side, at a time and place to be determined.

Last year Summit won the state regional tournament after South Side, then as now, the Essex County Tournament champions, had been upset in the first round by Governor Livingston Regional of Berkeley Heights.

Pioneers Await Debut In State Tournament

New Providence — Having concluded its regular season with a 17-2 record, the best in the school's history, New Providence High School's basketball team is awaiting its debut in the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's North Jersey, Section 2, Group I tournament.

The Pioneers, who shared the Suburban Conference title with Summit High this season, are the pre-tournament favorite to win the regional tourney and qualify for the State semifinals. New Providence will meet the winner of an opening-round game between Mountain Lakes and Belvidere.

Mountain Lakes and Glen Ridge, a pair of North Jersey Conference powers, figure to be the major stumbling blocks to the Pioneers' bid for their first State regional title.

Larry Rovelstad and Bob Mac Donald will be New Providence's key operatives in the State Tourney. Rovelstad was the team's top scorer during the regular season with 334 points, an average of 17 per game, MacDonald tossed in 287 points, averaging 15 per contest.

Rovelstad was tops in field goals (125), free throws (84) and assists (76). MacDonald was the team's top rebounder with 187. Rovelstad pulled down 99, second best on the team. MacDonald was second best in field goals (115) and free throws (57).

Only two other Pioneers broke the "100" mark in scoring. Bill Royland accounted for 155 points, while Bill Caruso tallied 106. John Etlinger just fell short with 91.

who figure to see more action next season. Keimel topped the Highlanders in field goals with 78 and shared foul-shooting honors with Benedict with 42. Bublick was second in field goals (70), barely edging Benedict (60). Corcoran was third in fouls with 31. Keimel was the only Highlander to average in double figures in scoring, hitting at a 10.4 point per game clip.

Despite their dismal record, the Highlanders came within an eyelash of upsetting two of the State's top teams. Governor Livingston gave neighboring New Providence a terrific scare before losing a 47-46 decision and was tied with South Plainfield High in the final minutes of play before succumbing 55-52. New Providence is co-champion of the Suburban Conference, while South Plainfield is the defending State Group 3 champion.

Highlander Cagers to Lose Two Of Top Three Scorers on Team

Berkeley Heights — Governor Livingston Regional High School's basketball team has just completed the most disastrous season in the school's five-year history with a 2-18 record.

And if the Highlanders are to regain their former glory next season, Coach Howard Tozier is going to have to count on this year's junior varsity and freshmen teams to beef up the varsity.

Fred Keimel, a 6-3 junior, who was the Highlanders' leading scorer this season with 198 points, will be back for another year, but the next two highest — will graduate in June.

The only other returnee who scored as many as 100 points is sophomore Bruce Corcoran, who tallied 121. So considerable scoring punch will have to be developed from newcomers to the varsity or from reserves.

Keimel topped the Highlanders in field goals with 78 and shared foul-shooting honors with Benedict with 42. Bublick was second in field goals (70), barely edging Benedict (60). Corcoran was third in fouls with 31. Keimel was the only Highlander to average in double figures in scoring, hitting at a 10.4 point per game clip.

Two Heights Drivers Given Suspensions

Two Berkeley Heights residents lost their driver licenses last week, the Motor Vehicle Commission reported.

Suspended for 90 days under the point system was Carlton D. Jacobson, 26, of 320 Timber drive, Berkeley Heights and suspended for 30 days for speeding was Shirley A. Keeler.

Waiting Time Jumps For Car Inspections

Average waiting time at all nearby state inspection stations increased last week, according to the report of Motor Vehicle Commissioner.

Westfield still remained the quickest station for local drivers despite the doubling of the average wait per car from 6 minutes to 13.8 minutes.

Morristown had an average wait of 20.4 minutes, the Livingston drive-in theater, 21.4 minutes; Plainfield, 43.6 minutes, and the Union drive-in theater, 28 minutes.

Garden State Arts Center

Explained By Governor

our promotional efforts and mean much to the economy of the entire seashore area.

I was happy to announce a short while ago that Edward Durell Stone has been commissioned by the Highway Authority to design the Arts Center. The selection of this world-renowned architect gives new emphasis to our belief that this Center will rival any similar facility in this country. Mr. Stone, whose talents have added new dimensions to the architecture of our time, has designed the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, a national cultural center for which President Johnson broke ground December 2, 1964. He also was the architect for the United States Embassy in New Delhi and of the American Pavilion at the 1958 Brussels World's Fair.

His position in the field of structural design spans the years as well as the world. He was the architect of New York's Museum of Modern Art. He was a contributor to the original design of Rockefeller Center. His work also includes the National Geographic Society Headquarters in Washington and the Huntington Hartford Gallery of Modern Art in New York and ranges from a mosque in Pakistan to private residences of all sizes in the United States.

On or about June 1, Mr. Stone expects to have completed his master plan for the Center and will be able to present a model of the construction which will include an amphitheatre which will seat 1,500 to 2,000 under cover. Since musical and other performances will be given during the summer months, some six to eight thousand persons will be able to be accommodated on the sloping lawn in which the amphitheatre will be set. Mr. Stone's design will make provision for further development of the Center to include a playhouse, an historical mall, botanical gardens, nature trails, art galleries and food facilities. In addition, the Authority will blend in the existing picnic areas and scenic overlook. Details of this construction will be announced later this year.

The first phase will be financed with $700,000 from Authority reserves.

Recreation is New Jersey's leading industry. The State, in cooperation with shore communities, is undertaking great efforts to attract visitors to the shore. This opportunity for cultural enrichment will reinforce
