Slightly convertible.

Some people can't ride in a regular convertible without trying to convert it. ("Put the top down, Daddy." "Leave it up, Harry.")

You can't make a compromise. (Try driving a regular convertible with the top halfway up.) But you can buy one: The Volkswagen Sunroof Sedan.

The Sunroof is a cross between a VW Sedan and a VW Convertible. It has a hole in the roof, with a steel cover that cranks open to give you 360 square inches of sky.

Or 359 1/2 square inches of sky. Or 1/4 square inch. Or whatever's comfortable. And if no opening's comfortable, you can have that, too. Just crank the cover closed until it pops against its sealing gasket. This makes our Sunroof as airtight and watertight as our Sedan.

The cover is padded and lined like the rest of the roof, so you can hardly see it. Some people can hardly see paying an extra $90* for it, either. (Until they take our Sunroof out on the road. And open her up.)

with interested parents, although one felt that the parents have "too much to say in administering school policy."

In response to the question regarding the reasons for leaving the system, the committee found the reasons to be logical and "in the main do not involve any friction with Summit or the administration of the school system."

The report also says that while for many years Summit citizens were led to believe that salary levels were more than adequate and that merit system was one of the keys to keeping the best teachers, this attitude cannot be "completely substantiated." A comparative study shows that while 16.5 per cent of Summit teachers receive over $10,000 during the current school year, other towns have much higher percentages in the same salary bracket. Cited by the committee is Millburn, 22.5 per cent; Ridgewood, 30.3 per cent, and South Orange-Maplewood, 30.5 per cent.

In other comments, the committee points out that the merit system is vulnerable to administrative difficulties, and tends to obscure actual salary levels as compared to most communities which do not have such a system. It is at the upper levels of the salary scale that there is a greater difference, although some attention was given to this situation in the 1966-67 budget.

The committee concluded that while a great deal of the reward for teaching comes from personal satisfaction achieved, the fact that a city should maintain a salary leadership position should not be obviated.

Another conclusion reached by the committee was that while Summit, because of its size, cannot offer as many courses as a larger school system, some cooperative effort with neighboring towns should be explored. It was also suggested that work with the Department of Education at Rutgers University might help develop new areas for educational exploration.

Other recommendations made by the committee includes investigation of ways for Summit to participate in teacher training programs and pilot projects and renewed effort to participate more actively on state-wide and national levels in educational circles by providing sufficient funds for key personnel to attend meetings.

The committee also suggests that the superintendent's office conduct a survey to determine the reasons why teachers select Summit and why they leave so that any resulting trends can be recognized.

Also recommended is that consideration be given to adjusting the salary scale so that established teachers can more readily be attracted to enter the system. The committee comments, "Summit may, in fact, start to lose experienced teachers since they are able to reach higher salary levels in some other town without the concern of being rated a merit teachers."

E. L. Outwin, Former Head Of Bard, Dies

Edson L. Outwin, chairman of the board and former president of C.R. Bard, Inc. of Berkeley Heights, surgical instrument firm, died last Wednesday at Overlook Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Outwin, 77, for the last several years made his home at the Hotel Suburban. He previously lived in Cromwell Park and before that at Maplewood. He moved here 16 years ago when he relocated his firm in Summit on Morris avenue. Later, because of expansion, it was moved to Berkeley Heights. He was born at Port Jervis, N.Y.

In 1926, Mr. Outwin, with a partner, purchased the Bard firm. He had been president of the company and when he retired last March, was chairman of the board. The firm, founded in 1907, is a supplier of surgical and hospital specialties.

Because of his work in developing urological instruments, he was named an honorary member of the New York and Southeastern sections of the American Urological Association.

He was graduated from Trenton Normal School in 1907. He took his first job at an ungraded school in Wayne. After attending Drake Business School in Passaic, he taught business for two years at the school.

He then went to Nutley High School to teach commercial subjects and coach a variety of sports, including football. In 1911, he transferred to Jersey City High School, now Dickinson High. He later taught at Bergen Street Evening School in Newark and attended New York University to study accounting. He earned his bachelor of science degree here.

When the Bergen Street School closed in 1918, he took some part-time accounting jobs. One of his clients was Bard. For six years, he was a visiting auditor and, during part of that time, taught accounting at the Columbia School of Business. He became a certified public accountant in 1921.

Mr. Outwin was a member of Canoe Brook Country Club, the Downtown Association, local businessmen's luncheon club; the Summit Lions Club, and Maple Lodge, 190, F.A.M. He is survived by two sons, Edson S. Outwin of Hillcrest avenue and Dr. Richard N. Outwin of Millburn; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Boocbever, of Washington, D.C., and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held last Friday at Central Presbyterian Church.

House Hunting Theme of Open Housing Meeting

"Liberty Street — One Way?" a film depicting a Negro home-seeker in Plainfield will be shown to the Open Housing Committee of Summit, New Providence, and Berkeley Heights at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, June 7, at Calvary Episcopal Church, DeForest Avenue.

The Committee on Social Responsibility of the First Unitarian Society of Plainfield produced this sound-slide film in an effort to "convey to white, middle-class Americans what it is like to be a Negro home-seeker in this area."

The film tells the story of two men and their families, one white, one Negro. The men are about the same age and have been firemen in the Plainfield Fire Department for about five years. Each is married and has two small children. The white family lives in a modest home which has been purchased recently. The Negro family lives in a $150-a-month apartment in a run-down section of town. An examination of the histories of the two families ends on the day when the Negro family comes to look at the house for sale next door to the white family. The film asks, "What will he (the white man) think, and what will he do?"

Before the film is shown, a brief explanation of its purpose and by a review of the racial history of the Plainfield area will be given.

Election of officers will be conducted at a business meeting before showing of the film. The public is invited to the program.

It has never been proved that the Spaniards blew up the battleship Maine, the incident which provoked the Spanish-American War.

Mayo Clinic Cites Former Resident

Dr. Paul H. Andreini, formerly of Summit, has been honored for outstanding performance in the postgraduate program of the Mayo Graduate School of Medicine.

Dr. Andreini received the A. Ashley Rousuck Fellowship award for excellence as a fellow in internal medicine. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andreini of 211 Oak Ridge avenue. He is an assistant to the staff in rheumatology at the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Andreini received his MD. degree from the McGill University Medical School in 1958. Earlier he had attended Dartmouth Medical School.

Unitas' 'Sub' Enroute To Booster's Dinner

When all - pro quarterback, John Unitas, was injured last fall, the Baltimore Colts went to their No. two signal-caller, Gary Cuozzo, of Glen Ridge.

But when Cuozzo, too, was injured, Colt Coach Don Shula didn't worry. He had an ace-in-the-hole, Tom Matte.

True, Matte hadn't played a minute at quarterback in his five years in the pros. But Shula knew that he had called signals as a rollout quarterback for Ohio State's Woody Hayes back in 1959 and 1960.

That Matte did a fine job is history now. The Colts almost went all the way to the NFL's Western Conference title, but not quite. Then, in the runner-up bowl, Matte single-handedly whopped the Dallas Cowboys and won the game's most-valuable - player trophy in the process.

Next Tuesday at the Hotel Suburban, Matte will be the featured speaker at the Summit Schools Boosters Association's fifth annual all-sports dinner. The occasion will honor the letter winners in Summit High's seven varsity sports for 1965-66.

The public is invited and tickets are $5. They may be obtained from any member of the Boosters, from their ticket chair man, Howard Bayne, 142 Mountain avenue, at Summit High School, or from any one of four Summit stores: Shop-Rite, 40 Park Avenue; Ken Johnston's; and the two Balish stores.

One hundred years of healing through prayer

This book presents an impressive record of authenticated cases of outstanding physical healings and spiritual regeneration through Christian prayer. It is a timely response to today's renewed interest in spiritual healing.

The reader will find many instances where the individuals who experienced the healings explain the spiritual awakening which brought about those healings. This book commemorates the Centennial of the discovery of Christian Science in 1866 by Mary Baker Eddy. It is offered in a spirit of sharing the hope and joy of ordinary lives deeply touched by the Christ.

Internal Revenue Will Survey Business Firms

New Providence — The Internal Revenue Service will soon begin a "compliance survey" of many New Providence business firms to determine if they are aware of and complying with Federal tax laws requiring the filing of tax returns. Approximately 60 other towns and cities in the state are included in the survey.

District Director Joseph M. Shotz reported that the survey, which is expected to take about two months to complete, will be conducted by Revenue Officers who will check a cross section of non-farm businesses to see if all required tax returns are being filed on time.

Shotz explained that the survey is not designed to audit returns, but to ascertain the awareness and extent of compliance with the tax return-filing requirements of Internal Revenue laws. The survey will also be used to check the completeness of the IRS Master File of business taxpayers.

Most business managements comply conscientiously with the tax laws, Shotz said. However, he added, these laws are complex, and some taxpayers may not be fully aware of all the specific tax returns which apply to their particular business operations. These may include returns covering income, withholding, social security, and a variety of miscellaneous excise taxes.

"Compliance surveys" are made under the Internal Revenue laws, Director Shotz explained, and are a continuous part of the regular program to maintain high levels of taxpayer compliance. Compliance surveys will be conducted under the usual high standards of fairness the Internal Revenue Service requires in its dealings with taxpayers.

The Internal Revenue Service recognizes that most of the delinquencies brought to light will be the result of honest misunderstandings and oversight, he said. The "rare instances of flagrant abuse" which may be discovered will, of course, be dealt with according to law, he added.

'Virginia Woolf' Reading Set By Players

Berkeley Heights — A reading of a condensed version of Edward Albee's controversial "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" will be offered by the Stony Hill Players at their final meeting of the year on Wednesday, June 8, at 8:30 p.m. at the Berkeley School, Snyder Avenue.

May Gould, a Stony Hill Player favorite, has condensed the play, is directing the reading and will take the part of Martha. Dick Gould will portray George, Mary Lehne will be Honey and Doug Brush is Nick.

This much talked about play has been made into a soon to be released film starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. All patrons of the Stony Hill Players and other theatre goers are invited to attend.

This play is recommended for adults only.

Bishop Taylor Will Dedicate Church Sept. 11

Berkeley Heights — The new church and church school, now under construction at Diamond Hill Community Methodist Church, will be consecrated September 11, it was announced this week by the Consecration Committee.

The Rev. Dr. Prince A. Taylor Jr., resident bishop of the Methodist Church in New Jersey, will officiate at the ceremonies. According to the committee, Bishop Taylor's visit will be the first made to Berkeley Heights by a Methodist prelate.

Bishop Taylor will celebrate the first communion service in the new church as part of the consecration ceremony. A reception for the bishop will be held after the service.

The committee also announced that the Church School will open for the new year on September 18 and a reception will be held for residents of the community.

Taxpayers Who Move Should Leave Address

Taxpayers who have moved since they filed their Federal income tax returns should be sure that the postmaster who served their former residence has their new address.

Joseph M. Shotz, District Internal Revenue for New Jersey, explained that this is especially important for those who expect tax refunds.

These taxpayers should also notify the Newark District Office in writing of their new address. The notification should include the name, social security number and address exactly as it was shown on the tax return as well as the new address. It should be mailed to: Internal Revenue Service, 1000 Broad Street, Newark, N. J. 07102.

People who have recently moved into new housing developments in suburban areas should use only official post office addresses and not subdivision names. Refund checks and other taxpayer's correspondence are processed through service centers. Mail from these centers can be delivered only to post office addresses.

Different Abilities

Often parents give the impression that the only kind of ability they understand is mental ability, and that school marks prove whether a child has this ability or not.

There are many other kinds of abilities besides the mental one. People tend to think that the brightest boy will get the best job, the best girl, and have the best opportunity to become famous.

This discounts the other abilities that are just as important as intelligence.

For a successful career, the ability to get along with people is of great importance. Studies have found that personality factors were the cause of failure in the work situation rather than lack of ability to do the job.

People live and work in groups. The person who fights with everybody, is spiteful and malicious, and constantly keeps the home or the office in a turmoil is not going to be a success no matter how high his intelligence may be.

Machines are becoming more and more important. Mechanics are needed to keep our automated industry going. Mechanical ability isn't measured by intelligence tests, yet good mechanics use their brains as well as their hands.

Intelligence is important, and there are some jobs and careers where it is needed more than any other ability. But intelligence is not everything. To enrich our living, the individual ability of each person needs to be taken into account and encouraged.

Not So Fast!

Let there be no bell ringing for the death of the drought! Those tempted to toss their hats in the air because of last month's plentiful rains might heed the Weather Bureau's admonition of "Not So Fast" in discarding water conservation measures on the presumption that the drought is over.

Although Summit fortunately has missed the imposition of water use curbs, other communities adjacent to us are not so fortunate. On the Summit side of Morris Turnpike you can get a glass of water with meals, on the Millburn-Short Hills side of the street you don't.

Certainly lawns and shrubbery on both sides of the street are lusher than they have been in some time and there are happy reports of fuller reservoirs serving the big cities. But the Weather Bureau puts a damper on any thoughts of plentiful water — for now.

Rainfall so far this year is just about what it has been for the last five years, all of which were drought years. The rains of May were beneficial for surface vegetation but the Weather Bureau states that May rainfall was of neither sufficient intensity nor duration to replenish underground water sources.

Another sobering thought is offered concerning the periods during which droughts of recent years became most severe. Records show that rain tended to decrease after the critical growing season starting late in May and since we are just entering this season because of a prolonged winter, it is still too soon to even guess about the future precipitation for the summer months.

For the present, weather experts say, it is impossible to predict whether the drought will end this year. We need at least six months of excessive rainfall to achieve the drought's end and what we have thus far, contrary to popular belief, is still below normal and about the same as that which we have had for the last five years of the drought.

So rejoice in your green lawns now for they may either parch by August or be washed away completely.

The Ol' Swimming Hole

Last week was the traditional date for the resumption of the swimming season. Open for business again were the numerous swim clubs, public pools and backyard pools that have become so plentiful during the last few years. Kids splashed and fond mothers basked and a routine that will last for the next three months at least was resumed.

But gone from the scene, at least around these parts, is the old swimming hole. The deep creek, shaded by trees, that used to attract bare-skinned boys like a magnet on warm days, is practically a myth. Warm days now offer only swimming in a pool and usually under the supervision of a life guard armed with a whistle and alert eyes. Perhaps this change is all for the best and arguments can be made to prove that pools are safer than streams.

One of the more recent arguments as to pool safety comes from Iowa, a state we thought would be more partial to swimming holes than the effete Eastern Seaboard. However, Iowa reports that lurking in the waters of the pond and stream are billions of Leptospira, an unpleasant germ carried by both wild and domestic animals, which in turn is responsible for an ugly disease called leptospirosis. For this reason Iowa health officials warn that swimming in its 26,740 ponds and brooks should be avoided.

That medical warning sounds a sad farewell for Iowans to the ol' swimming hole, with its rope swing as a thrilling access to its cold waters. There never was any upkeep for a swimming hole. No one ever gave a thought to chlorinating and filtering the water. It never required painting and scrubbing and algae just floated downstream. The swimming hole had other features not incorporated in the present day fiber-glass pool. There was mud on the bottom that oozed delightfully through toes and there were minnows that brushed pleasantly against legs. There were convenient bushes for clothes racks and always a grassy spot bathed in the sun that dried more sophorically than any towel.

Today most kids get a locker instead of a tree branch, a towel instead of a sun-kissed plot of grass and a very sanitary water-filled enclosure instead of a swiftly-running stream with a cove deep enough for swimming. And instead of birds they get the whistle of the custodian.

But, by George, the kids of today will be sanitary and that's more than can be said of their Leptospira-ridden fathers and grandfathers, if that matters.

Students in the Spring

We'd like to congratulate the undergraduates at Columbia University for turning the clock back and staging a good, old-fashioned pantie raid on the Barnard dormitories. Columbia has once again proved that it is a school mindful of tradition.

Pantie raids, in our opinion, are far more wholesome than student sit-ins or other protests against draft exams or college administration policies.

The notion that is so prevalent these days that students should be permitted to dictate university policy is simply too much. The boys and girls are on the campus to learn, not to serve as administrators. They have a right to make known their views on what policy should be, but once the policies are established by responsible authority the student alternatives are more limited. They can either abide by the rules or leave school.

We should tolerate a great deal from our youthful students especially in the spring and around final examination time. But the limits of tolerance do not stretch so far as to include allowing them to operate the universities as they see fit. That's a job for which they obviously aren't qualified — emotionally or mentally.

Instant Knowledge

After parents, newspaper offices will be the happiest to hear that computers have been put on call to help students unravel homework assignments. Both parents and editorial rooms exposed to the bombardment of questions from children pondering homework problems will be the first to applaud the availability of the mechanical marvels.

From some strange reason students and drunks automatically turn to a newspaper to solve their problems. With the kids it's usually an academic question which can be answered easily by the World Almanac or the other basic reference works any newspaper worth its salt keeps on hand. Presumably the student lacks the reference books at home, so he turns to his friendly hometown newspaper. And in most cases he gets the correct answer.

The questions posed by drunks present an entirely different problem. They usually stem from a beery discussion of the 1912 batting average of some long-forgotten player. We have been asked by the martini set to come up with the length of the Leviathan, the height of the Aswan Dam, and the round in which Tunney floored Dempsey. Quite often the World Almanac can not solve the issue and we presume the discussion remains to be handled amicably by the firm hand of the pub owner.

Now with an electronic whiz kid stepping into the picture both student and imbibitor can have their questions answered swiftly and accurately. The computer was recently given a test at a Long Island high school where six students were selected in an experiment making use of the machine for homework assignments. If the students want to solve a problem in algebra, physics, or what have you, they simply punch out their problems on a push-button dial connected with the telephone and before you can say "Area Code" they have the answer.

The computer can be designed so that it can handle other questions, such as those that originate from gin mills at 3 a.m., and we expect to see the day when every well equipped bar will have such a gadget right next to the juke box. A quarter in the slot and you get your answer to five questions. Or, if the patron is not the intellectual type, the same quarter will get five popular songs.

Blood for All
Editor, Summit Herald:

It was a shock to me when I was doing a medical history at the community bloodmobile visit on May 26 to have the donor ask me if he or his family could get blood should they need it. I don't think it can be emphasized enough that the blood collected at these units is for anyone in the Summit

Area who needs it, and the way to receive it is simply to call the Red Cross at 273-3076. The Summit Area includes Passaic Township, Berkeley Heights, New Providence, and Summit.

On behalf of the Red Cross blood program, I would like to thank all who made the bloodmobile a success (we collected 140 pints) — the women who called the prospective donors, those who worked on the unit, and those who gave their blood that others in our community might live. When people like George Rozett, who gave his 32nd pint, show the way, it should help allay the fears of any new donors who may come to subsequent visits.

Our next community bloodmobile will be on July 13 at the Lincoln School, New Providence.

Wants Rental Curb

Editor, Summit Herald:

For the past six years I have been a citizen and home owner in Summit, where I am proud to live and enjoy the area's civic and cultural environment and the excellent city schools. When I first began seeking a home here, I was particularly impressed with the beauty of the residential areas and the obvious pride each home owner showed in the physical upkeep of his house and lawn.

I decided to buy a home located at 59 Tanglewood Drive.

This area had been developed by Alexander Caplan whom I considered to be a good builder. My point in writing to you has to do with a basic principle, and I do not know whether or not I have grounds for legal complaint. I am joining a group of my neighbors on Tanglewood Drive and Joanna Way in registering a complaint to the Planning and Zoning Commission of this City.

The complaint regards the deliberate commercial planning by Alexander Caplan & Son to build houses for rental purposes in this area. He is presently renting ten homes in Short Hills and in the last seven months has built three new houses on Tanglewood Drive in the $45,000 to $55,000 class. He refuses to sell and has already rented two of these. He also rents a house or more on Joanna Way. The city has recently granted Mr. Caplan a permit to build 15 homes which would be an extension of Tanglewood Drive.

Mr. Caplan has left the three new homes mentioned above unlandscaped for several months with the result that mud and dirt continually downgrades the neighborhood and leaves the streets constantly in a mess. We in the neighborhood firmly believe the city should have laws or by-laws which would prevent the building of deliberate rental property in an area zoned for home ownerships. Our rights are being invaded upon and our property values lowered by such action on the part of Mr. Caplan. I certainly would not have bought my

V.F. Zahodiakin, Russian-born Inventor, Dies

Victor Felipovich Zahodiakin, who resided in the Vanderpoel "Castle" at River road and Morris Turnpike, died Friday at his home. He was 59.

Mr. Zahodiakin, a Russian-born engineer and inventor, came to Summit 21 years ago. He also maintained a home at Northampton, Mass. He was president of the Zahodiakin Aircraft Corp., manufacturers of aircraft instruments, which during World War 2 years operated in a plant built upon the grounds of the "castle." After the end of the war the company ceased its Summit operations because of a zoning dispute but Mr. Zahodiakin and his family continued to live at the large house on the grounds. For many years Mr. Zahodiakin had a running dispute with Council and the Zoning Board over disposition of the Vanderpoel estate.

Mr. Zahodiakin invented and manufactured machine gun synchronizing controls for aircraft during World War 2 and was awarded an Army and Navy E. for excellence for production of the gun controls he made.

Since the war, his concern has produced racing engines, pistons and aircraft fasteners of many types, several of them invented by Mr. Zahodiakin, for civilian and military planes. Mr. Zahodiakin also invented a process for fusing metals and an automatic cigarette — lighting machine — for automobiles and homes for which he had received a patent this week.

Born in Nij-Novgorod in Siberian Russia, Mr. Zahodiakin studied engineering at the University of Moscow. Determining to go to America, he managed to leave the Soviet Union by way of China. He made his way to the coast and from there crossed the Pacific to San Francisco.

He leaves his wife, the former use if I had known it would come part of a group of rental homes.

While we may have no legal grounds to pursue this in the courts, I strongly recommend that laws governing this type of commercialism be adopted at once. I have made no complaint about three increases in taxes the past five years, however.

I feel very sincerely that the mayor and the City Council have a duty in protecting taxpayers. The city certainly has existing laws relating to apartments—why not on builders who develop rental neighborhoods?

It is well known that some rental tenants allow the interiors and the exteriors of their houses to become run down and is certainly depreciates the surrounding properties.

Unless something is done to correct this situation, this type of thing could become a creeping. Unhindered precedent among other builders. I urge you to spearhead the necessary action in this regard.

C. Clothing Care

An occasional sprinkling of about 1/4 teaspoon of salt in your shoes will absorb moisture and keep feet drier.

A circle of masking tape, with sticky side out, will make the trouser bar of a hanger skidproof. Tape provides enough friction to keep pants from sliding, and does not leave a mark on fabric.

CIBA to Open 55-Acre Farm For Research

Ciba Pharmaceutical Co., will dedicate its new Ciba Research Farm at Three Bridges on Monday, June 6 at 3 p.m. Phillip Alampi, New Jersey secretary of agriculture representing Governor Hughes, will be the principal speaker. Another guest speaker will be Robert A. Roe, commissioner for the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, state Commissioner of Health, will also attend.

Established on 55 acres in 1961, the farm has been expanded to 260 acres. It will function as an extension of the chemical and biological studies conducted at the pharmaceutical division in Summit, but emphasizing veterinary and animal health applications. It is the center for the company's animal health research program in the U. S. The farm will provide research facilities for the development of disease-controlling and growth-inducing veterinary products.

The research facilities include laboratories for the study of nutrition, parasitology, microbiology and pathology plus separate housing and research units for sheep, swine, dairy cattle and poultry. Experiments with feed additives and antibiotics are conducted in order to develop feed additives to produce better and more meat, milk and eggs with less feed at lower cost. Antimicrobials will be developed to fight endemic animal disease and pesticides created to destroy insects and vermin which carry disease.

The research program will also indirectly serve human health by controlling animal diseases. Animal health is the key to human health because animal products are important nutrients in human diets. Man's food must be free of contaminants to keep himself healthy. Therefore, veterinary research is more than just healing livestock. It is preventive medicine for humans as well.

There are already feed additives and vaccines available for controlling animal diseases but with today's great amount of imports and exports of animal products, diseases are being carried to new areas. The need is for new combatants to avoid epidemics as well as new feed additives to allow farmers to raise more or less acreage. The rapidly increasing world population increase its production and Ciba's expanding program of veterinary research will help fill that need.

The introduction of helmets with chin straps caused beards to go out of fashion in 15th century Europe.

YMCA Plans Series of Summer Camping Trips

The YMCA will conduct camping trips this summer for junior high school boys for the second year. Called "tent tramping," the program will consist of 5 three-day trips to various New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York sites. Trip director is Jan Struthers, a junior high school teacher in the Berkeley Heights school system who has been associated with the YMCA for a number of years as volunteer leader, administrative aide, and camp counselor.

Each trip will accommodate seven boys. The Y provides transportation and camping equipment. Boys provide their own sleeping bags, canteens, and mess kits. In addition to swimming, fishing, boating, hiking and camping activities, visits will be made to nearby places of interest.

The four destinations include: North Lake campsite in the northeast corner of the Catskill Mountain State Park, with side trips to the Catskill Game Farm and the Fire-fighting Museum; Taconic State Park near Hudson, N.Y., with side trips to the Roosevelt Home and Vanderbilt Mansion; Promised Land State Park in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania with trips to the Delaware Water Gap and Wax Works; South Jersey with trips to Lakehurst Naval Air Station, Fort Dix, and McGuire Air Force Base.

Camping dates will be June 28 and 30, July 12 and 14 and 26 and 28, August 9 and 11 and 23 and 25. Campers may register for one or more of the trips. For further information, contact Howard B. Merrick, 273-3330.

Summit Area Eyed for New Science School

Richard W. KixMiller of 114 Prospect street, chairman of the executive committee of the industry-sponsored Institute for Science and Technology, told the Summit Association of Scientists last week that the proposed graduate school is expected to be located in the Summit - Morristown - Somerville triangle.

KixMiller said this area offers the best living conditions to attract top-quality personnel because of its metropolitan advantages yet relative isolation from major city congestion problems. He also cited the presence of other academic institutions in the area whose "disciplines are supplementary rather than overlapping with those planned for IST." This, he said, will add to the stature of all institutions rather than causing competition between them.

Pointing to the Boston area, the San Francisco peninsula and North Carolina's "research triangle" as typifying the growing trend toward communities of technical scholars, KixMiller said such industry-university communities represent a new socio-economic pattern in the U.S. that seems to have powerful economic implications.

Yet Northern New Jersey, although unique in the concentration, quality and number of industrial laboratories devoted to research, lacks such an industry-university community, KixMiller said. This, he contended, is a vulnerable situation that could lead, in time, to a deterioration of the competitive position of Northern New Jersey as a place to carry on research and development. He indicated a belief that the new Institute of Science and Research would rectify this situation.

KixMiller said that surveys of IST's financial requirements have been completed, indicating an initial capital requirement of $15 million. This would cover acquisition of land for a campus, construction of the new institution's first permanent building and a modest sum to be set aside for the school's permanent endowment. He said IST's annual operating budget, after two years of operation, will approximate $4.5 million.

In addition to KixMiller, who is taking a leave of absence as

Present Parcel Post Laws Hit by Dunsmore

"Discriminatory effects of present parcel post law affecting military personnel", were pointed out today by Postmaster Robert M. Dunsmore on behalf of the National Association of Postmasters.

"Parents in Summit cannot mail larger or bulkier parcels to sons and daughters at hundreds of military installations served by first class post offices in the United States," the postmaster declared.

Mr. Dunsmore said this "discriminatory treatment" which does not apply to parents in small communities was pointed out in an analysis of present restrictive legislation before Congress by President James O'Toole of the National Association of Postmasters in Washington, D.C.

In speaking as a representative of the Association, Mr. Dunsmore listed some typical situations in which the restrictive parcel limitations can apply for mail going to or from military personnel at many points.

1. A civic group collects gifts for the local people in military service—such as records, canned food specialties, some types of clothing for civilian wear, etc., but cannot send it as a single parcel because it weighs more than 20 pounds. If sent, it must be broken up into two or more parcels at greater cost and with resulting inconvenience.

2. A group of local men away in military service ask to be sent records, a record player, and similar items for their camp club - but it cannot be sent by parcel post.

3. Parents want to send new luggage for a son to use on furlough, putting some books and by the express agency that the legislation would deprive REA employees of jobs were not correct.

"President O'Toole of the National Association has advised me," Mr. Dunsmore said, "that the Department has expressed complete willingness to rehire any REA employees who might lose their jobs under this legislation - although the Association emphasizes there is no basis in the first place for any such fears of job losses as a result of this bill."

In addition to ending provisions against mailings between first class post offices - applying to regular military personnel in this country and to mailings of civilians - the bill provides about $197 million in additional revenue through moderate rate increases to prevent a parcel post deficit.

The child was crossing Morris avenue when he was struck by a vehicle operated by the defendant, Anthony Sallari of Madison. The boy later died of injuries at Overlook Hospital.

Modern Music Beat to Be Heard at St. John's

Both services of Holy Communion at Saint John's Lutheran Church on Sunday will be sung in a folk song style accompanied by guitars and banjos.

It was first sung at a night service a month ago. Many parishioners urged the pastor, Rev. Richard Lee Peterman, to schedule it at the usual morning hours.

All the music has been composed by students who have sought to give the ancient liturgical words all their power and meaning by setting them in contemporary musical styles. In so doing, they were simply following the age-old traditions of church music. In each era, men have used the musical forms familiar to them to praise God. Thus Plain song and Chant were originally "contemporary music," a kind of folk music

Junior High Students Find French Pen Pals

A group of eighth grade French students at the Junior High School are enjoying an exchange of correspondence with students of their own age in France.

Through the Bureau De Correspondence Scolaire of the College of Wooster, Ohio, a list of potential correspondents was obtained. The Summit program was started in January. Some of the students have received several letters from their pen pals in which they have learned about the daily life, families, and school program of their French friends. Of interest in particular is the fact that French students attend school a half-day on Saturday but not at all on Thursday. Almost all have expressed an interest in some musical instrument and most of them follow the popular name bands in England and America as well as their own French bands.

The letters are written in either English or French and must follow some prescribed standards defined by the Bureau De Correspondence Scolaire. The French correspondents live either in or near the three urban centers of Paris, Marseille, and St. Etienne. If a correspondent does not reply within ten weeks he is replaced.

Check Features Before Buying Lawn Furniture

By Carolyn F. Yukaus County Home Economist

With long summer days ahead, many home owners are shopping for outdoor furniture. There is more to the consideration of what type of outdoor furniture to buy than the price.

The first decision is to determine what extent you want your outdoor furniture to serve. Your choice should be influenced by several factors. Will the furniture be used mainly on an enclosed porch and occasionally be put into the yard? Or will it, perhaps, be used on an open but protected patio? Will it be stored in the garage even during the summertime? Or do you intend to leave the furniture out all year round?

In looking at outdoor furniture, it will be most important to consider safety and upkeep factors in addition to comfort.

If you are considering aluminum because it is light weight, be aware that aluminum will gradually develop a chalky gray white oxide that does not weaken the metal but does require

She will relate her experiences in that land. Miss Hylke Tjebbes, Summit High School student from India will perform a typical Indian dance, while American Field Service student Kuldip Singh from The Netherlands will tell about teenage life in the United States as it contrasts with what teenagers do in the Netherlands.

Tri-Eps on the committee planning the program include Jana Ermanis of Kent Place Boulevard, chairman; Leila Rupp, Mountaineer; Amy Nolan, of Mountaineer; Dee Ann Outzen, Chestnut Hill Drive, Murray Hill; Jo Ann Kukis of Harrison Drive, Berkeley Heights; Sue Cramer of Cleveland Road, and Mary Phillips of Constantine Place, who is in charge of the evening's refreshments. Assisting the planning committee is Mrs. C. H. Costello of Springfield Avenue, chairman of the teenage program committee.

Tri-Ep Clubs are open to all girls in the three high schools. Girls meet weekly during the school year. Programs are planned by each group under the guidance of adult volunteer advisors and include special panel discussions on topics of interest to teenagers, speakers, service projects, parties, overnights, as well as local and area conferences. The three E's stand for Education, social Ease and community Effort.

Occasional Polishing and Waxing to Remain Bright

Ends or edges of aluminum tubing should be free of sharpness or burrs which can be quite dangerous.

On any tubular furniture, the open ends should be covered with tight-fitting plastic or metal caps, and the rivets should be firmly and smoothly set.

Check light weight folding furniture for a tendency to tip. As you check the comfort, lean sideways to make certain the chair will hold you firmly in an unbalanced position. Chairs that tip, fold, or slide away from you easily can be the cause of some nasty falls.

Outdoor furniture that has adjustable back positions can provide crushed fingers as well as real comfort. Make certain the adjustable feature on this type of furniture is designed to be out of harm's way.

Check the design of the chairs. If the legs are straight and positioned directly under the sitter, they will topple more easily than those chairs with the legs at a slight angle for better stability.

Union County Government

Freeholder - ARTHUR C. FRIED

The County Register of the Laws of 1904 approved an act on March 7, 1904, to establish the Office of Register of Deeds and Mortgages in certain counties of the state. In every county of this state having a population of over 99, 000 there shall be a Register of Deeds and Mortgages in and for such county, who shall be elected by the people of the county, and shall hold his office for five years; he shall be commissioned by the governor of this state, and his commission shall be issued and bear date on the Tuesday next after the annual election at which he may be elected.

It is the duty of the register of deeds and mortgages to record all deeds, mortgages, assignments of mortgages, letters of attorney to convey lands and all instruments of writing relating to the title to real estate, which now or hereafter are or may be required or permitted by law to be recorded.

The Board of Freeholders is required by law to provide a suitable location in which the register may keep the records and papers of his office, and also provide the required filing cases and furnishings.

All of the books and stationery for the use of the register's office must be furnished by the county, and as public records must be made available to all persons at all reasonable hours.

While the register's office is an administrative one, it differs from the majority in that the Register has no rule-making powers. The office function is ministerial in nature.

The office is tantamount to that of custodian of records and its establishment is for the recordation and preservation of legal documents, deeds, mortgages, subdivision maps, etc., are all recorded in the office of Register and comprise a permanent record in the Union County Courthouse.

The filing fees applied in the office of register are fixed by statute and a charge is made for each instrument offered for recordation. These instruments must be made for each instrument offered for recordation. These instruments must be properly acknowledged and comply with statutory requirements.

The Register may select and appoint a deputy register who holds office during the pleasure of the county register. In the absence of the Register, the Deputy, under directive of the Register, has full power to perform all the duties of the office including the signing of the register's name upon any and all documents left for record in the office, and upon any and all transcripts of any records in the office.

It is interesting to note that all recordings were handwritten from 1857 when Union County was incorporated to the close of 1904, then typewritten until February 2, 1947, when a photostatic method was employed.

In 1965 the Register's office began permanent recording by micro-film-electrostatic process. In addition to permanency this method assures a record on microfilm for archival purposes in the event of a disaster. The office is currently in the process of microfilming every deed and mortgage in the public records.

Three Textbook Widows Given Honorary Degrees

Newark College of Engineering bestowed honorary "Ph.T." degrees upon three area women who are wives of students as a reward for their work in "putting hubby through."

Given special mention at the 18th annual program honoring wives of students at NCE, was Mrs. Mary Ellen Hynes of 391 Central avenue, Murray Hill, who was cited for raising five children, four boys and a girl, while her husband, Roger, attended classes.

Also honored were Mrs. Irene F. Farkas of 56 Hillside avenue, Berkeley Heights, and Mrs. Gail I. Pomeranz of 51 Gales drive, New Providence.

The ceremony was held Sunday and attending were the children of 124 wives being honored and their husbands, who served as baby sitters while their mates received their honorary degrees. Regular commencement exercises for the daddies will be next Thursday, June 9.

Each of the wives received a bouquet and a parchment diploma acknowledging her contribution as a textbook widow. Most of NCE's married students attend the evening division and support their families with full-time jobs.

The Ph.T. degree reads: "Newark College of Engineering confers upon (the recipient) the honorary degree of Ph.T. certifying that she is a graduate from the trial and tribulation of putting her husband through Newark College of Engineering."

and is entitled to all the rights and privileges thereunto appertaining."

Like other enthusiasts, amateur astronomers will gladly discuss their hobby with anyone who is willing to listen. If you wish to look through a telescope, any of the members will find any object you may wish to see, providing it is accessible, or he may suggest objects to observe. If you are curious about telescope construction or operation, any member will be happy to answer any question you may have. Most of the telescopes to be seen at Surprise Lake are homemade.

Amateur Astronomers, Inc. has agreed to provide the instrumentation for the new William Miller Sperry Observatory now under construction on the campus of Union Junior College in Cranford. Perhaps, in future years, observing sessions will be held at the observatory, but because of its altitude and low horizon, Surprise Lake is a highly desirable observing site.

Special Care Needed for Summer Foods

By Anne L. Sheelen,
County Home Economist
Special precautions for handling food during hot weather are essential to your family's and to your health.

Food spoilage is most prevalent in a warm moist situation which is one of the characteristics of summer weather. The danger is the spoilage that takes place from mishandling food is that many times it cannot be detected by smelling or tasting the item. Taking special care to prevent spoilage, therefore, is your best guide.

Be meticulously clean with your work habits and with the utensils you use. Always wash your hands before beginning any food preparation. If someone has a cold or another infection, discourage them from handling the food.

Keep hot foods and cold foods cold. Perishable foods should not be held at temperatures between 50 degree and 120 degree Fahrenheit. Take special precautions when carrying these foods to picnics, or placing them on a buffet table either outside or indoors. If you do not have porting perishable foods, choose other items for the menu.

Use egg, poultry, and fish salad combinations within twenty-four hours. Do not make these too far in advance and do keep them in the refrigerator until just before you are ready to serve them.

Cream mixtures, such as pies, puddings and puffs, are also very susceptible to spoilage. Avoid these during the hot months unless you are certain they have been handled with special care.

Refrigerate leftovers as soon as possible; they do not need to be cooled before they are stored. If a food is piping hot, immerse the pan in ice water to drop the temperature some.

Always reheat leftovers thoroughly, especially broths, gravies and stuffings.

If, during the months ahead, you have doubts or suspicions concerning the safety of a particular food, keep in mind that the decision you make has a direct relation to your family's

Travel Light Best Tip For Plane Trip

Don't be led "down the garden path" because the airlines have removed much of the baggage weight — limitation, even for tourist travel.

You'll still want to travel light especially if you're a woman, because you will probably have to carry your own bags at times during your trip (abroad where language barriers exist, this is particularly true); and, anyway, the less you cart with you, the more you can bring back in souvenirs!

Leading makers of travel lingerie have worked out a guide for spring and summer wardrobes that weighs each category and leaves you pounds to spare.

The first consideration, of course, is the suitcase itself. If it weighs an average of 9 pounds here's how to plot the rest of your cargo.

You'll wear or carry your coat onto the plane, but better allow about a pound or two for a raincoat and boots if your destination is apt to be drizzly. That heavy sweater is worn its weight in wearability — roughly two pounds — for chilly evenings.

Color-coordinate clothing so you can go light on accessories. If a certain dress demands extra shoes to match, don't take the dress. A spacious travel handbag in a neutral shade will go over your arm, but pack a small clutch bag for evenings.

Be Sensible In Acquiring Tanned Look

Don't sacrifice yourself to the sun for the sake of the almighty tan. You'll find yourself "in the red," an uncomfortably hot spot to be in on a hot summer day. So be sensible about your sunning this summer.

Remember, first, to stick to the tanning time rules. . . fifteen minutes per side your first day out, twenty minutes the second, thirty the third and forty the fourth. If your skin is fair, cut these times in half.

Secondly, don't place too much confidence in "sun-screens," the creams and lotions which help protect the skin from burning by either absorbing or scattering the ultra-violet rays.

If you do subscribe to such protection the U.S. Health Department recommends two preparations which you can have your druggist prepare for you. If a cream is preferred: 15 per cent p-aminobenzoic acid in vanishing cream. If a lotion is preferred: 15 per cent p-aminobenzoic acid in mineral oil or alcohol. Apply either when your skin is dry. Two coats are better than one. After swimming you have to start all over again and reapply the protection.

If you've thrown caution to the wind or you simply forgot to take the standard ounce of prevention do remember the prescribed pound of relief. . . baking soda. A cupful of it dumped into a cool tubful of water brings soothing relief from the start of a bad burn. It also acts as a tonic to tanned skin that's reached the dry, flaky stage and tends to itch. For this pleasant treatment to be fully effective for either dryness or burn, however, you have to resist the impulse to rub or scrub. Just lie there, relax and soak and let baking soda's mild alkaline action both cleanse and soothe your skin.

Even if you don't have to skin problem you'll find that the soda bath, which contains many of the same properties as the spa, is a refreshing pick-me-up for that wilted feeling that comes with a sultry day.

Powdery Mildew Plant Disease Can Be Licked

There's always an ample supply of garden diseases. But one is especially plentiful.

It's powdery mildew, and a Rutgers specialist who makes a career of helping to keep plants healthy, thinks you should know more about it.

Dr. Spencer H. Davis, often quoted in this column, says powdery mildew is a fungus that produces a white powdery coating or spotting on leaves and stems of many flowers, shrubs, fruits and vegetables.

Often attacked are roses, zinnias, lilacs, apples, sycamores, cucumbers and melons. Indoors begonias and African violets may get it. Not often fatal, powdery mildew usually just spots and deforms leaves. Naturally, most of us put off spraying until the disease becomes real unsightly.

That's about like waiting for your home to start to rot before you paint it. So Dr. Davis entreats you to spray early.

By all means spray to prevent powdery mildew before your plants' leaves are white and curly. An old-time remedy that still works is sulfur, used as a spray or dust. But sulfur can burn a plant when the temperature goes over 85.

And so Dr. Davis recommends either Karathane or folpet, used according to directions on the label.

These are not trade or brand names, so you'll have to read the fine print on the label, under "active ingredients," he says. And if you don't find sulfur, Karathane or folpet, the product won't control powdery mildew.

Summit Nine Wins Two Tilts

Summit — Summit High's baseball team made a strong bid to finish with a .500 record in the Suburban Conference last week, winning two games before losing the season finale to Madison, 1-0, in nine innings.

The Hilltoppers clipped Caldwell, 2-1, and made up a two-run deficit to edge Chatham, 3-2, to pull within one game of a .500 record.

Madison's Bud DeBrosse wrecked Summit's hopes for a split of its conference schedule, winning a sparkling duel with the Hilltoppers' Nick Passomato. DeBrosse held Summit hitless until Briant Doyle singled with one out in the ninth inning.

DeBrosse struck out 14 and walked one. Passomato allowed only six hits, walked three and struck out four. One of the walks led to the winning run. It came in the ninth inning and was followed by a stolen base and a two-out single.

Chatham went ahead 2-0 in the first inning against Larry Specht. Summit battled back with a run in the second inning and two in the sixth inning to win. Rick Lang doubled and scored the tying run on a wild pitch attempt. Jim Catterall singled, went to second on an error, and scored on Jim Moore's single.

Specht limited Chatham to five hits.

Holmes, Sperco Nines Win Two, Shared Lead

Summit — The Holmes Agency and Sperco Motors, after splitting their records with a win and loss the first week, picked up two victories last week to move from a three-way tie for second into a two-way tie for first place in the Summit Recreation Softball League.

Holmes Agency took its first win on a squeaker over Balish, 2-1, in extra innings. Steve Wiatrowski moved the Holmes Agency in front 1-0 in the first frame on a double that scored Ralph Gisolli. Balish tied the score in the second round on a hit by Ray Symanski. Neither team scored in the next five innings until Mike Conroy scored eighth to clinch the game.

Holmes Agency took its first split against J and J Construction, 3-2. Deadlocked in five innings of play, Holmes Agency capitalized on a hit, two errors and a walk.

Sperco Motors gave no indication of losing its grip as defending league champion as they edged by Harquail Brothers, 3-2, and dumped Balish Liquors, 8-6.

Against Harquail Bros., Sperco's Bob Davenport allowed just five hits. Ed Nauer had two hits for the losers.

Sperco's winning run came on a single by Art Lepore in the final frame. It scored Larry Alocco.

Balish Liquors appeared to have the game against Sperco all wrapped up as they headed into the 7th inning with a 6-1 lead. Six hits in that inning gave the Motormen five runs and threw the game into extra periods. Balish failed to break the stalemate, but hits by Sperco's Lepore, Mandato and Rillo gave them two more runs and the win.

In the only other game, J and J Construction handily bumped Harquail Bros., 11-5. Highlight of the game for Harquail was a two-run homer by Bill Law in the seventh inning. For J and J Construction, the going was easy after scoring seven runs in the first two frames.

Tryouts Slated By Summit Nine

Summit — The Board of Recreation will sponsor a baseball team for boys aged 13-15 to represent Summit in an inter-community league this summer. Towns entered in the league this year are Summit, Verona, Caldwell and Livingston.

The league will begin play Monday, July 11 and conclude with a game at Memorial Field when scheduled in Summit, and will be played in the evenings at 6 p.m.

Tryouts for this team will be on an open basis. Any boy between the ages of 13 and 15 who wishes to try out must fill in an application and return it to the Board of Recreation office before June 22.

Tryouts will be held on Monday, June 27 at 3 p.m. at Memorial Field. Forms may be picked up at the Board of Recreation office or the Junior High or Senior High from Mr. Johnson or Mr. Cotterell.

Pioneer Netmen Lose To Caldwell High, 3-2

New Providence — Closing out its first tennis season, New Providence High lost a 3-2 decision to Caldwell High last week.

Gordon Hutchinson and Bill Frank scored singles victories in three-set matches to account for New Providence' points. Hutchinson won 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, while Frank triumphed 6-4, 0-6, 6-1.

Surprise By Summit Netmen

Summit — Summit High's tennis team, which tied for second place in the Suburban Conference this season, achieved a major surprise last weekend at Princeton University by advancing to the quarterfinals of the State Tournament.

The Hilltoppers defeated East Paterson, 2½-1½, in the opening round and then ousted fourth-seeded Northern Valley Regional High of Demarest. Quarterfinal-round play is scheduled this weekend in Princeton.

Pete Nestler won in singles against East Paterson, 6-3, 6-2, and John Mell and Dick Rothchild took the doubles match, 6-2, 6-1. Scott Nycum was leading in singles, 6-2, 2-0, when the match was halted.

Boy Wonders Leading Loop

Summit — The Boy Wonders came to life this week in the High School Recreation Softball League and moved from second place into the top spot with a 4-1 record.

The Boy Wonders began their drive to the top against the unfortunate Fleas who took a 19-2 beating. Joe Johnson got going winning attack started with a home run in the first frame and had four hits. The Boy Wonders also squashed the former league leaders, the Cube Roots, 10-6. Things began to break loose in the fourth frame when the entire Wonder batting order came to the plate and collected eight runs on seven hits, to overcome the Cube Roots' three-run lead.

The Men, Phantoms, Animals and Cube Roots kept the pressure on the league leader as they battled into a four-way tie for second place with 3-2 records.

The Men won both their games to pull themselves higher up in the standings. Against the Valley Boys, the Men squeaked by 10-9, scoring three runs on a homer by Joe Triolo in the final inning, against the Fleas, the Men hit the ball all over the park and went through their entire batting order in the third and fourth frames to clobber the Fleas, 10-2. Highlight of the game was a four-bagger by the winners, Joe Grasso.

In the only other games of the week, the Animals won one and lost one. Blanked by a 10-0 score by the Cube Roots, they came back strong to stop the winless Unknowns, 9-1.

Bacon Takes Javelin In Suburban Meet

Summit High's Jack Bacon scored a major upset in the Suburban Conference track and field championships last Saturday at Millburn when he won the javelin throw with a toss of 202 feet, 1 inch. Bacon averaged two earlier losses this season to Madison's Mike Prudenti, the defending champion and the State Group 2 titlist.

Summit also won three other individual crowns, but Millburn won its 12th team title in 13 years. The Millers captured only two individual titles, but scored in 12 of the 14 events to finish with 51 points.

Summit finished second with 46 points, while Caldwell was a strong third with 37 points. Madison, with 26 points, edged Cedar Grove (25) for fourth place. Verona finished with 19 points, while New Providence was seventh with 12 points. Chatham High scored eight points.

Bob Marsh of New Providence finished third in the two-mile run. The Pioneers' Rick Flanagan was fifth in the 180-yard high hurdles, while Jim Wackwitz placed third in the pole vault and fourth in the high jump. New Providence' Dave Rollman took third place in the high jump.

Flanagan Wins Dash, Hurdles; Pioneers Bow

New Providence — Rick Flanagan helped offset New Providence' season-long weakness in the shorter races by winning the 100-yard dash and the 180-yard high hurdles but it wasn't enough to prevent Cedar Grove High from scoring a 65-58 victory. The Pioneers also lost another meet to powerful Millburn, 30-36.

New Providence showed unusual strength in the running events, with Rigter winning the 440-yard dash, Jim Cain taking the 880-yard run, and Bill Marsh finishing first in the two-mile run.

Cedar Grove, however, swept first place in five of the six field events to pile up its winning margin. New Providence has a 2-10 record for the season.

Two Tourney Games Slated For Regional

Berkeley Heights — Sporting an 11-33 record, the best in the school's baseball history, Governor Livingston Regional High School was set to play in two tournaments this week.

The Highlanders were slated to play Morris Hills Regional High last Tuesday afternoon in Madison in the semifinals of the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 tournament.

In opening round games, Governor Livingston edged Millburn, the Suburban Conference champion, 2-1 in eight innings. Morris Hills nipped Roselle, 3-2 in eight innings.

Tomorrow afternoon Governor Livingston will meet Rahway at Rahway in a quarterfinal round game of the Union County Conference tournament. Governor Livingston edged the Scarlet, 8-7, in a regular-season game.

The Highlanders downed Linden, 5-3, in the opening round. Governor Livingston is seeded sixth in the tournament. Rahway upset Springfield Regional, the third-seeded entry.

Fred Keimel, with a 5-3 record and winner of the two tournament games played by Governor Livingston, figured to start against Morris Hills. In his last contest Keimel pitched a no-hit game in beating Roselle Park, 1-0, in nine innings. Fred has two no-hit games this season. Hal Harmon, 4-0, or Keimel is the likely starter against Rahway tomorrow. Sophomore Tom Bubrick, 2-0, will be available for relief duty.

Bauer, Mea Both Hurl Shutouts at Chatham

New Providence — New Providence High's baseball team might have had a far better record than the 6-11 mark it finished with if it could have played exclusively against Chatham teams.

The Pioneers finished the season with a flourish last week, blanking Chatham Township, 2-0, and Chatham High, 6-0, behind standout hurling by Rusty Bauer, who made his mound debut, and George Mea, a season-long standout.

Earlier last week, the Pioneers bowed to Millburn, 3-0. The victory helped the Millers clinch the Suburban Conference championship.

Bauer limited Chatham to just three hits. He didn't walk a batter and he didn't record a strikeout in a very unusual performance.

New Providence broke a scoreless tie in the fourth inning. John Castaldo singled, reached second on a sacrifice, and scored on Bob Terr's single. The Pioneers added another run in the sixth. Sterr tripled and scored on Bob Woodruff's single. The Pioneers had a total of seven hits.

Mea blanked Chatham High on five hits to help New Providence to its fourth win in 14 Suburban Conference games. The Pioneers collected eight hits and were helped along by six Chatham miscues.

Woodruff gave Mea a lead in the second inning when he tripled and scored on an error. New Providence clinched the game with a five-run sixth inning. The big blow of the inning was Lee Brush's two-run double.

Millburn's Bob Javger limited the Pioneers to two hits—singles by Gene Schaefer and Gene Ortiz. The Millers got to Mea for 10 hits and scored single runs in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings.

Bubrick, Harmon Hurl Highlanders' Victories

Berkeley Heights — Governor Livingston Regional High School's baseball team wasn't a factor in this year's Watching Conference race as the school won't officially become a conference member until next September.

The Highlanders, however, gave two future conference foes a foretaste of what to expect next season when two pitchers who figure prominently in next year's plans — sophomore Tom Bubrick and junior Harold Harmon — turned in top-notch performances last week in beating Hillsdale, 3-0, and Scotch Plains, 4-2.

Bubrick blanked Hillsdale's Comets on four hits to win his second game of the season. Harmon pitched his fourth straight complete-game victory in stopping Scotch Plains on four hits.

Harmon, who has a 4-0 record, allowed more than one run in a game he started for the first time this season. Hal had limited three previous foes to a single run each. He has permitted a total of five runs in his four complete-game triumphs.

Harmon and the Highlanders also extracted an extra measure of satisfaction in beating Scotch Plains' Alan Clark. It was Clark who hooked up with Governor Livingston's Fred Keimel in a strikeout duel last season with Clark winning the game, 2-0, in 13 innings and fanning 19 Highlanders. Keimel struck out 22 Scotch Plains batters and still lost.

The Highlanders belted Clark and Mickey Voget for eight hits, scoring two runs in both the third and fifth innings. Nick Serritella and Gary Brannin singled in both scoring innings, with Serritella scoring twice and Brannin once.

The Highlanders managed only four hits against Hillsdale, but took advantage of Comet errors to score all three runs. Brannin, Jack Custumano and Bubrick scored for the Highlanders, who pushed over a run in the second inning and two more in the sixth frame.

Blake Johnstone had two of Governor Livingston's four hits. Brannin and Bruce Corcoran had the other safeties.

St. John's Meeting Changing Needs of Suburban Community to meet the changing needs of suburbanites during the summer months, St. John's Lutheran Church has set Thursday night as a time for worship during June, July, August and September.

"This is," said Rev. Richard Peterman, "an attempt to give people an opportunity to worship before leaving on long weekends during the summer months."

Many residents of the Summit Area have summer homes at the shore or in the mountains. They leave Summit on Friday afternoon and return late Sunday night, thereby missing the opportunity to worship on Sunday.

The services will be held every Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the chapel; and will last 35 minutes.

Samuel Jones, Former Boro Mayor, Dies

New Providence - Samuel E. Jones, ex. of Booth Bay Harbor, Me., a former mayor of New Providence, died suddenly on Sunday, May 22, in Boston, where he had taken his wife to the New England Baptist Hospital for possible surgery.

The cause of death was given as heart failure. He was 69.

Mr. Jones was born in Augusta, Me., and completed his elementary and secondary education there. A graduate of the University of Maine in 1920, Mr. Jones' college career was interrupted by World War I when he served as a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

During World War 2 Mr. Jones again went on active duty and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Mr. Jones was employed with the Western Electric Co. in New York City from 1920 until his retirement in 1963.

An active participant in local affairs in the borough, Mr. Jones served on the Board of Education for two, three-year terms and on the Borough Council for six years. He served as mayor from 1956 until 1960. He was a Republican.

Mr. Jones was a scout leader for almost 20 years and was awarded the Silver Beaver award in recognition of his outstanding service to youth.

He was a vestryman in Calvary Episcopal Church before moving to Booth Bay Harbor in 1963 after his retirement. He continued his active participation in civic affairs while in the Maine community by serving as a member of the Planning converge would be in a residential zone to prevent further business development in the district and to encourage business operations in the center of the city. Businesses already in the district would be permitted to continue.

Other facets of the proposal would include the reduction of the number of rooms from three to two in three residential districts, while none would be permitted in three others. In addition, home occupations "would be tabooed" in all residential districts and churches would no longer be permitted in the R-15 district and only in other residential zones with special exception.

Dwelling units in business buildings as well as one-over-one two-family homes would also be outlawed, while side-by-side two-family housing would be encouraged as would town, or attached, houses, which would be subject to special permission.

In addition to regulations regarding lot size, house size, and building height, the proposed would govern the use of signs so that billboards of all kinds, as well as flashing, moving, bare bulb, roof top and fluttering signs would be prohibited.

Residents were urged by Mr. Hazen to contact the Planning Board to make suggestions or ask questions. Contact can be made with the Planning Board through City Hall or through Joseph Covello, board secretary.

Other members of the Planning Board present at the meeting included Robert Brough, John Faron, James Kane, Donald MacLeod, Theron Marsh, J. Henry Negus and Robert Stafford. Also present were Mayor David C. Truckee and Charles Agle, of Princeton, consultant to the board and originator of the Master Plan, which formed the basis of much of the proposal.

Board, as a vestryman in St. Phillip's Church in Wiscasset, Me., and as a columnist for the Booth Bay Harbor weekly newspaper.

Mr. Jones is survived by his wife, Mrs. Shirley H. Jones; a son, Samuel E. Jones, Jr. of New Providence, and four grandchildren.

Services will be held today at St. Phillip's Church, Wiscasset.

Cunningham Writes New State History

On June 30 Doubleday will publish "New Jersey: America's Main Road" by John T. Cunningham - the first one-volume history of the Garden State since Samuel Smith's was published in 1756.

A Film of Merit Reviewed by Jon Plant

This week I must confess, quite happily, that I am sunning and eating it up in Nassau. I have made a genuine effort to report on a film showing back in our New Jersey neighborhood theaters (it seems so far away), but each Bahamian theater that I have entered has rendered up a dud.

First I tried "The Heroes of Telemark", which was less exciting than watching one of these majestic palms (Kirk Douglas and Richard Harris are more wooden than those swaying trees appear to be). Next I tried "Life at the Top" (the sequel to "Room at the Top") and it was merely absurd. Rather than a slice of life, "Life at the Top" proved to be a rather indigestible piece of nonsense.

Since seeing the latter, I have given up trying to find something worthwhile to report to you, mainly because only the hotel's offering of "The Lion" (very ordinary) and a matinee monster movie have also been available.

Sitting here on these unbelievably golden-white sands watching a multi-shaded green ocean, I have slowly been lulled into thinking about the tremendous effect the motion picture medium has on the visual sense. Three films I have reviewed lately in their variety demonstrate this point. All, interestingly enough, are filmed in black and white. What that proves is that visual stimulation is not dependent on color (although the use of color can be very effective, e.g., "Juliet of the Spirits"). Rather, excitement of the eye in a film depends on contrasts, shading, variety, and most important, content of image.

The three films I am thinking of are "King and Country", "A Thousand Clowns" and "Shakespeare's Wallah". Each of these films (and each is a remarkable achievement) utilizes cinematography to convey mood, character development, humor, and story content.

In "King and Country" the black and white study of the evil and dehumanizing effect of war is augmented by the depressing effect of the muted photography. Repeatedly, the inevitability of the tragedy (it is man's tragedy!) is framed by the stark and realistic camera work. The overall tone of the result of that camera work is gray — and it complements, but never supersedes, the content of this low-keyed morality story.

Two visual techniques employed in the British made "King and Country" are especially noteworthy, because they frame what the film is all about. The first is the camera work in the rain. It rains incessantly and the depressing effect of that rain is graphically impressed upon us. The second is the comparative use of the camera (probably under the express direction of the script) — first showing the accused and the trial, then switching to the other men in their environment of battlefield, rat infested, mire. One can truly say that the camera work in "King and Country" implants the film which much of its power.

"A Thousand Clowns" (American made) uses the visual impression to create humor and to make the film's point. Thus, not only does what we see amuse us and augment what was a good Broadway play to start with; but the cinematography is a creative instrument, at least as important as the script or acting ability of the principals. The sojourns of Jason Robards and nephew are delightful because they are shown in the fractured camera work so effectively used in this film. Even more important, however, the chastisement of conformity so brilliantly presented in "A Thousand Clowns" (until a compromising denouement) is presented largely by the visual impression. For example, the legions of commuters and gray-flanneled businessmen marching around Manhattan like little soldiers are shown to us (humorously and mockingly) — very little script (dialogue) is employed in these sections of the film. It is only when Mr. Robards' enunciates his own rationale for abandoning the non-conformist life that he must speak the point, and it is here that "A Thousand Clowns" is most uneasy.

"Shakespeare's Wallah" is, to my way of thinking, a film classic. It is the use of black and white photography to create mood and tempo in the Chekhovian manner that makes this Indian produced film what it is. Think back to the great Russian masterpieces — of Anton Chekhov ("The Cherry Orchard", "Uncle Vanya", "The Seagull", and "The Three Sisters"). In each, dialogue is employed to convey not only action and thought, but also the mood and tempo of the times. This is what sets these plays apart and make them last (besides making them so hard to perform — for without intelligent acting and production that allows for setting of mood, the plays seem like overlong essays).

"Shakespeare's Wallah" has much about its visual impression that could be discussed, but I refer you back to my review for that. What stands out over all else, however, and, as I said above, makes this film the brilliant creation it is, is the evocation of mood in the Chekhov sense as a result of visual impression. Although the film is always absorbing, reaching both to the mind and heart, it takes its time in setting the mood — and that mood is created almost entirely by picture.

Eisenstadt said that the repetition of similar frames interspersed throughout a film is what gives that film its lasting visual impression. That repetition of visual experience in "Shakespeare's Wallah" is like the repeating of a motif in a great symphony, and, given the patience of the viewer that great art demands, raises this extraordinary film to master-work level.

A shipment of 11 chinchillas was the first brought into the United States. Brought in 1923 from South America to California, practically all chinchillas we have now are descended from them.

Portable Pools Gain in Popularity

Low in cost and high in convenience, portable swimming pools are becoming more popular than ever.

Yet, because portable pools are still a relatively new idea, many people can make their pools more fun—and safer, too—by heeding a few tips.

1. Be sure that your pool is on level ground, with the sod removed from beneath it. This prevents dry rot, mildew and insect damage to the pool liner. Of course, all rocks should be removed before setting up the pool.

2. Also important when installing the pool is remembering not to locate it under trees. Leaves and insects falling into the water will tend to dirty it up and make it unpleasant for those leisurely cool afternoons.

3. As with all swimming ventures, safety precautions are vital. Arrange for an adult to be present whenever the children are in for a dip. In the case of neighborhood children, a good rule to make is: No small children allowed in without their parents or other adult.

Life Preserver
And you'll want to keep a life preserver handy; an inflated inner tube is fine. Remember not to allow swimmers into the pool until at least an hour has passed after the last meal.

4. Make certain water is clean and clear. Use available chlorine pool disinfectants to kill bacteria brought into the pool, and test residual chlorine levels with simple test kits available at pool supply stores.

5. Keep water filtered properly. Diatomite filters seem to be most popular for above-ground pools because of their efficiency and portability. Filters assure sparkling water at minimum cost.

Electric Lights
6. Electric lights in the pool area make night swimming safer, help prevent falls into the pool. Remember: You're responsible for the welfare of everyone who swims in your pool.

7. A fence or enclosure around the pool will protect wandering tots—and possibly save you from negligence charges. For small portable pools, a temporary type of snow fencing can be used. Keep the gate closed whenever the pool is not in use and cover it with a plastic or net top strong enough to support a child who might climb or fall onto it. These precautions can assure you maximum fun and freedom.

8. Children are beating the heat in your own backyard. So come on in—the water's really fine!
