

Passaic Ave. Residents on Yo-Yo String

Amid some confusion as to who wants Passaic avenue, the street and its residents are on a yo-yo string as city, county and state officials continue trying to meet state requirements as well as community requests.

To add to the confusion, Hugh Caldwell, chairman of the road and bridge committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders, this week reported that C. B. Elitch of 140 Passaic avenue, representing area residents, informed him that city officials have indicated a desire to have the county turn back the street to the city.

In a telegram to Council President Elmer J. Bennett, Mr. Caldwell requested confirmation or denial of the city's supposed plans, so that appropriate action could be taken by the County.

Responding to the county telegram, Mr. Bennett telegraphed back that Mr. Elitch had "no authority" to state that city officials have indicated a desire to have the county turn back the road.

Mr. Bennett indicated that the city of Summit has no desire to have the road handed back to the city.

The confusion results from a long-standing dispute among residents, the city, county and the state regarding the width of the street. While state regulations require a minimum width of 42 feet to qualify for state aid funds, the city has requested that the pavement be limited to 36 feet, particularly because of the residential character of the street.

In committing itself to a 36-foot width, Common Council backed the wishes of residents, who have been fighting the Passaic avenue battle for some time, including speed limits, as well as road width.

Because the city will not consent to the 42-foot width, the county has not been able to approve road improvement, since it would lose 90 per cent of the construction costs which ordinarily would be available under state aid formulae.

Earlier this month, in a letter to A. A. Faxon, director of the division of local government, the city requested that the city be allowed to build the road to 42 feet.

Young GOP To Hear Talks On Poverty War

The Young Republicans of the Summit Area will hold a meeting at the Suburban Hotel on Wednesday, June 7, at 8:15 p.m.

Guest speakers will be James S. Wilson Jr. and Rev. Joseph H. Garlick. Mr. Wilson, of Roselle, is executive director of Union County Anti-Poverty Council. He is a graduate of Rutgers University and holds many civic positions in the county. Mr. Wilson will speak about the accomplishments and problems of the anti-poverty program throughout Union County and other parts of the state.

Rev. Garlick, of Elizabeth, will give his impressions of the war on poverty in Elizabethport based on his contacts with CAPEO (Community Action for Economic Opportunity Inc.).

City's Golf Course Due to Open Today

The city's new Par-9 Municipal Golf Course will open today at 9 a.m., come rain or shine.

The first foursome will be comprised of Councilmen Richard L. Corby, Jr. and Robert S. Stafford, and William Corbitt and George Ballish, of the Board of Recreation.

The course was scheduled for opening on May 20, but recent rains delayed completion.

GIRL SCOUT OFFICERS—Elected as officers and members-at-large to the board of directors of the Girl Scout Council of Greater Essex County at the annual meeting, May 18, are Summit residents Mrs. Howard Craig, vice president; Mrs. William Tieste; Mrs. Malcolm S. Edgar; Mrs. Karl Thomason, president; and Mrs. James F. M. Audley, secretary. Mrs. Thomason presented a Girl Scout statuette to Mrs. Tieste in recognition of her outstanding service to the Council.

Camp Fund Drive Reaches $2,200 Mark

With new contributions for the week totalling $200.50, overall donations to the 19th annual Summit Herald-Family Service Association Summer Camp Fund drive stood exactly at the $2,200 mark as of Tuesday.

At this time last year when the fund was in its fifth week, donations were at $1,970.

Contributors this week included an anonymous donation of $75.50. Other gifts came from Mr. and Mrs. K. K., $50, and $25 checks from Frances Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Byrne and K. and E. Bennett.

The Fund operates on a non-profit basis and makes no solicitations nor conducts any mail appeal. There are no administrative expenses and all money received goes directly to paying camping expenses. All contributions received are acknowledged weekly in the Herald, unless otherwise specified and immediately turned over to the Family Service Association. The association has sole use of the donations, makes the camp selections and operates the camp program.

The Summit Herald and Family Service Association gratefully acknowledge the following contributions to the 1967 Summer Camp Fund. Donations may be mailed to the Summit Herald office, 22 Bank

Morris Ave. Mishap Injures Local Child

Philip Lee, 7, of 153 Broad street, suffered face and body abrasions last Friday when he was struck down by a car driven by Mary I. York, 26, of Mendham, at Morris avenue and Sayre street. Police said the accident occurred when Lee and another youth, allegedly ran into the street from between two parked cars. Miss York, who was driving east on Morris, said she jammed on her brakes, but could not halt in time to avoid striking the Lee child. The other boy was not hit.

The injured youth was taken to Overlook Hospital in Miss York's car. Investigating was Patrolman Larry Kelly.

Over 100 Vie in JC Olympic Meet

Tatlock Field baked under a jump for 10 and 11 year old jump for 12 and 13 year old welcomed hot sun and the girls. The outstanding male performers were James Gwathney, 9, for winning the honor. Dennis pl., who won the 100-yard dash, high jump and board.

Replete with false starts and flying cinders and sawdust, the afternoon witnessed some of Summit's finest young athletes produce herculean efforts in attempting to win a medal or ribbon and be named the outstanding male or female performer of the afternoon.

This year's outstanding female performer was Sandy Lemcke, 417 Morris ave., who won the 50-yard dash and the board.

Annual Summer School Session Begins June 26

Both remedial and enrichment courses will be offered at the annual summer session at Summit High School, which this year will run from June 26 to July 26. Daniel Kautzman, director, announced this week.

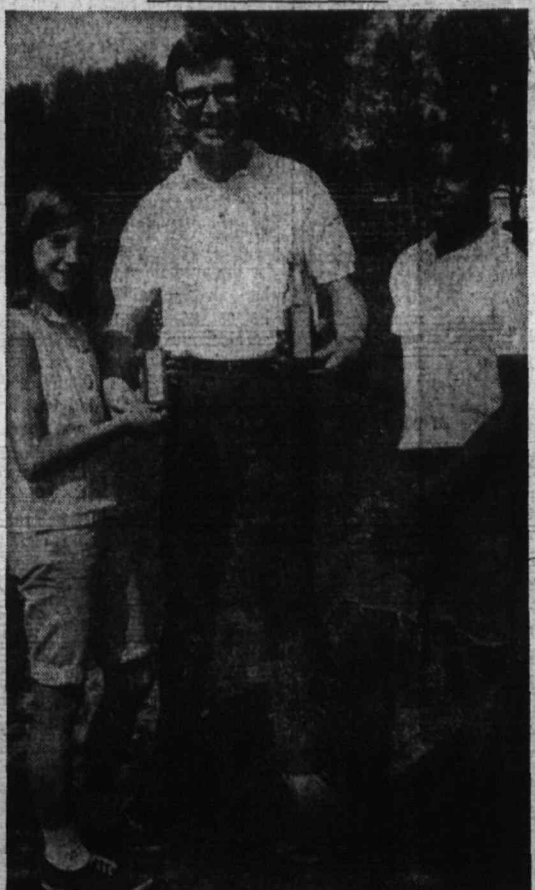

The school, which is open to junior and senior high school students in both public and private schools, will begin registration on June 5, from 2 to 4 p.m., and will continue to register until June 23. A brochure announcing courses offerings, credit, tuition and regulations is available in the main office of the High School, where registration will take place.

Faculty members of the summer school are fully certified teachers, with most of them regular members of the Summit staff.

Course offerings will include, contingent upon enrollment, review courses in English, mathematics, social studies, general science, French, Spanish, Latin, biology and Chemistry.

Enrichment courses will include reading skills, typing, driver training and field biology, which aims to acquaint students with different ecological systems.

Since trips can be scheduled without interfering with regular school classes, William Woodside, instructor for the field biology course plans field trips to the CIBA woods, the Great Swamp, Stokes State Forest, the shore, and pine barrens as opportunity to study five different ecological systems.

BEST ATHLETES—Sandy Lemcke and James Gwathney, receive trophies honoring them as outstanding athletes of the day following the annual Jaycee Olympics at Tatlock Field last Sunday. Handing out the trophies is Richard Connell, Jaycee Olympic chairman.

Booster Dinner Tuesday

All was in readiness today for the sixth annual All-Sports Dinner, to be held next Tuesday night at the Hotel Suburban. At that time the Summit Schools Boosters Association will honor members of Summit High School's eight varsity athletic teams, including three athletes who will be winners of the Boosters' scholarship awards, and their coaches.

Bob Feller, member of the Baseball Hall of Fame and one of the outstanding pitchers in history of the sport, will be the featured speaker at the popular event. He is coming to Summit from Cleveland, Ohio, especially for the affair.

The public is urged to attend. Tickets are $5 and may be obtained from any member of the Boosters, at Summit High School, or at Ken Johnston's Sports Shop or either of the two Balish stores in Summit. In addition, Boosters will sell dinner tickets at the public booth in downtown Summit on Saturday, from 9 to 4.

Previous speakers at the All-Sports Dinner have included Tom Matte, Oscar Robertson, Jesse Owens, Allie Sherman and Mel Allen.

National Honor Society Elects Local Students

Seventeen junior students at Summit High School were recently elected to the National Honor Society, Alton J. Gast, principal, announced this week. Of the total, 11 were girls and five were boys.

Those elected include Miss Cynthia Bearer, 96 Canoe Brook parkway; Miss Sally Chambers, 41 Oakley avenue; Miss Doris Cochran, 172 Broad street; Hugh Dilson, 107 Passaic avenue; Miss Diane Duszak, 153 Ashland road; Mark Edwards, 68 Oakland place; Fred Genualdi, 83 Blackburn road; Douglas Herr, 54 Portland road; Miss Pamela Hillenbrand, 20 Hickory road; Miss Meredith Hoppin, 605 Springfield avenue; Robert Horner, 20 Warwick road; Miss Ann Page, 60 Lenox road; Miss Annmarie Rehm, 145 Mountain avenue; Miss Helen Skeist, 32 Laurel avenue; Miss Barbara Solt, 448 Springfield avenue; Miss Karen Sorensen, 9 Nassau drive, and Arthur Vanderbilt, 65 Oak Ridge avenue.

Red Cross Bids Women To Give Blood

An appeal has been made by the Summit Area American Red Cross for local women especially to respond to the next visit of the Bloodmobile to be held Monday at St. John's Lutheran Church, 587 Springfield avenue, from 1 to 6:30 p.m.

Interested women should contact the Chapter house at 273-2076, for an appointment.

According to a spokesman for the Red Cross, women are outnumbered four to one by men in blood donations. While this difference in donation rate has been attributed to several causes, the local Chapter assures women that there is "no physiological reason why the average healthy woman can't give blood several times each year."

Rev. Francis Quits Calvary Church Post

Rev. Elmer F. Francis, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church since 1947, will resign the post effective July 22 of this year, it was announced this week. The Vestry at its regular meeting held May 22 unanimously accepted the resignation and a severance contract was agreed upon. No successor has as yet been named.

Rev. Donald J. Schroeder, assistant rector at the church, will be in charge of parish programs until a new rector has been named.

A committee has been appointed to locate a new rector for the church and includes Earl Lamb, chairman; Mrs. Edward W. Higgins, Mrs. Robert S. MacArthur, 2nd.; William Agnew, Enos Beckwith, Charles Marcy, John Mell, Cecil Rutledge and Donald Thomas. Samuel M. Coombs, Jr., has been named counsel ex-officio to the committee.

The Vestry has asked members of the congregation for their aid in locating a new rector, and have been urged to contact any committee member if they have a "qualified name to submit."

Mr. Francis has been rector of Calvary Episcopal Church since December, 1942, replacing Rev. Walter O. Kinsolving, who resigned the post in January of that year. Mr. Francis came to Calvary in 1942 as curate. At the time of his appointment, he was chaplain of Passaic Valley

Frelinghuysen Named Speaker For Graduation

MacDonald Halsey, headmaster of Kent Place School, has announced that Peter H. P. Frelinghuysen, Congressman representing New Jersey's Fifth Congressional District will be the principal speaker at the 73rd commencement at Kent Place School on Monday, at 5 p.m.

Mr. Frelinghuysen is a graduate of Princeton University, Yale Law School and did further graduate work at Columbia University. He is currently serving his eighth consecutive year in the House of Representatives.

A member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee for seven years, he has become a Republican spokesman on foreign policy issues. In 1965, Congressman Frelinghuysen was one of two members of Congress appointed by President Johnson as a delegate to the U.N. General Assembly and, in 1967, was named a Congressional adviser to the United States delegation to the 18-Nation Disarmament Conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

In addition to his experience in politics and government, Congressman Frelinghuysen has taken on numerous civic responsibilities. He is a trustee of Princeton University, the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts and Morris-town Memorial Hospital. He is a former Vestryman of St. Peter's Church, Morristown and is Vice-President of the American Bible Society.

Proposed comprehensive amendments to the city's zoning ordinance will be unveiled at a public hearing to be held by the Planning Board next Thursday, June 8, at City Hall, at 8 p.m.

The hearing and the amendment proposals are the outgrowth of a year of study, planning and meetings with interested citizens following initial presentation of the proposal on May 31, 1966.

During the year, in spite of advice of some citizens, the Planning Board has decided to retain three of the provisions in the originally-proposed amendment. According to Joseph C. Hazen, Jr., chairman, these provisions include the prohibition of additional professional offices in the higher residential districts, the curtailment of additional commercial development in the vicinity of Springfield avenue and Morris avenue and prohibiting of home occupations in all residential districts.

However, Mr. Hazen also pointed out that three major changes, which have come about as a result of the year of meetings, include the authorization of apartments in the upper floors of business buildings. In addition, several parcels of land in the northeast corner of the city in the vicinity of the new Route 24 interchange were changed to research and office zone.

Also proposed for change, according to Mr. Hazen, are regulations concerning appointment of members to the Zoning Board of Adjustment. A number of small changes were also made to sharpen the wording of the amendment.

Mr. Hazen pointed out that as was proposed a year ago, the amendments would preserve most of the features of the present ordinance and its numerous amendments. However, it would also provide for a number of important changes, which the Planning Board considers to be in the "best interests" of the city. The changes were detailed at the public meeting last year and include changes in designation to the use of initials which would directly apply to the exact title of the district, such as "R" for residential and "B" for business.

Also included in the proposal would be tighter restrictions on the number of boards, church construction, landscape buffers, use of signs, and various changes concerned with plot sizes which conform to actual use. Persons interested in obtaining copies of the proposed amendment may do so from today on at the City Clerk's office at City Hall, 512 Springfield avenue.

In addition, she maintained that there are too many youth just "hacking around", who are on the fringe of the law. She advocated the establishment of a "Volunteer Bureau", where people in the city could advise those in charge of activities in which they wanted to participate.

A more positive attitude toward the community was expressed by Mark Modell, proprietor of Brooks, who cited the

Summit's Class of 1917 Having Fiftieth Reunion

Nostalgia will be a popular item on the menu for a luncheon for 25 to be held at the Hotel Suburban on June 6.

The occasion will be the fiftieth reunion of the Class of 1917 of Summit High School which will be attended by 19 members of the class and six of their spouses. The event is believed to be the first fiftieth reunion for any Summit High School class.

One of the class members, its former president, Herbert Speth, is making the trip here from his home at California. Another is coming down from Ontario, Canada. Most of the remaining members of the class still reside in New Jersey.

The class originally numbered 31 students and there are still 25 living members.

War Just Declared
When the class graduated in June, 1917, the United States was at war with Germany. It was only a short time before

A request for the establishment of a Housing Authority was made by Harold Coombs of the Neighborhood Council, who pointed out that there is no spokesman for the Negro community in Summit. He particularly emphasized the need for housing for the city's Negroes, since no replacement housing is available because of what he termed the "prejudice" of members of the community.

While several members of the audience urged the establishment of a housing program for senior citizens, Richard Avant, of Weaver street, maintained that since Summit is a "staid, white area" with Negroes receiving the "crumbs", that Negro housing should receive priority over any housing for the elderly.

Others in the audience requested action on road improvement, a survey of community needs and upgrading of jobs for Negroes.

Some in the audience, including Robert Wilmer, former chairman of the budget review committee, came to the defense of the United Campaign.

The Community Council is composed of members from more than 130 Summit organizations. Elected last week for second term of two years each were Miss Capitola Dickerson, Mrs. William R. Gilson, Theron L. Marsh, Dr. Brockway McMillan and Donald J. Storch.

Elected as new members for two-year terms were William Corbitt, John Kirkpatrick and Rev. Richard L. Peterman. The nominating committee for 1968 will consist of Mrs. Joseph Arace, Mrs. Thomas A. Ward, Jr., Edward T. Kenyon and Bartholomew Zanelli.

The nominating committee for the current year included Mrs. George E. Low, chairman, Mrs. Arace, Mrs. Thomas E. Ward, Mrs. W. A. MacMaster and John N. May, Jr.

ment aid of the State Department of Transportation, Mr. Bennett urged reconsideration of the matter based on what he termed "extraordinary" conditions.

Mr. Bennett pointed that the railroad abutments crossing Passaic ave. near Constantine place are only 40 feet apart, and that with an allowance of four feet for sidewalk and curb, only 36 feet would be available for roadway. He noted that no provision had been made for widening of the railroad bridge in the county plans.

Secondly, Mr. Bennett said that it is understood that Constantine place, from Passaic avenue to Springfield avenue, will be reconstructed on the basis of the present 40-foot width between curbs.

Mr. Bennett also acknowledged that River road, between Chatham road to Passaic avenue, should be reconstructed on the basis of 46 feet, but that the section of Passaic avenue from River road to Constantine place should be rebuilt along the indicated 36-foot lines.

With "the idea that because of the extra-ordinary circumstances," the city has petitioned the state for state funds for reconstruction work along the entire length of Passaic avenue.

The most famous magnolia tree in the United States was planted by President Andrew Jackson on the White House grounds in honor of his wife Rachel.

On Pentagon Duty
Francis Behan of Springfield, Va., and formerly of Summit, is in Europe for two months on an assignment for the Pentagon. Mr. Behan joined the Department of Defense after World War 2 and prior to that was with the Navy Department. His family lives at 14 Summit avenue.

Chapter, Sons of American Revolution.

He also served for four years as advisor to the Newark Diocesan Board of Religious Education. Mr. Francis has also served as treasurer of the Newark Clericus.

A graduate of Columbia University, Mr. Francis also holds a master's degree from Teachers' College and attended General Theological Seminary from 1939 to 1942. During his stay there, he served as president of the Student Chaplain's Guild at St. Luke's Hospital and on the staff of St. James Church School. Mr. Francis has also been a member of the board of trustees of Family Service Association.

An alumnus of Rutgers University, Mr. Schroeder has been assistant rector since May, 1966. He received his holy orders from All Saints Church, Bergenfield and holds an M.B.A. from N.Y.U.

He is also a graduate of Philadelphia Divinity School. Before his graduation, Mr. Schroeder served as student assistant at the Church of the Redeemer at Bryn Mawr, Pa. Mrs. Schroeder is the former Barbara Ann Larson of Rahway.

Mr. Kinsolving, whom Mr. Francis replaced, had served as rector of Calvary Episcopal for more than 30 years.

Only two other Summit clergymen have served longer in local pulpits than Mr. Francis. They are Rev. David K. Barnwell, D.D., of Christ Church, who came to Summit in 1929, and Rev. Jacob Trapp, S.T.D., of the Unitarian Church, who came in 1938.

Mayor H. Ruford Franklin was the commencement speaker. The invocation was given by Rev. Walter O. Kinsolving of Calvary Episcopal Church. The class made a gift of a $100 War Bond to James W. Cromwell, president of the Board of Education, with the instruction that it was to be held "in trust" to be sold at a date determined by the Board of Education to purchase a piece of equipment for the new high school which was being planned.

Herald Was Year Book
Fifty years ago there were no year books issued at graduation and The Summit Herald served as the only record of the occasion. The Herald account listed not only the graduates but also the class prophecy, class day activities, complete speeches of all on the program and the future plans of the graduates as well as the class picture.

The Summit Herald reported that the announcement of the War Bond gift "was received with deserved enthusiasm and commendation."

Herbert Speth, president of the class, who now resides in California, made the War Bond presentation.

The late J. Jerome Kaplan of Summit was salutatorian and Leo Berman was valedictorian.

Roses for Graduates
The Herald report on the graduation also noted that each young man wore a single rose and the young ladies carried bouquets of roses.

Members of the class who will be attending the June 6 reunion will be Mrs. Edna Clarkson Rusk of Brielle, John Graydon of Ontario, Canada, Margaret Holland of New York City, Mabel Henshaw of East Orange, Herbert Jagels of Greenwood Lake, Harry Karnowsky of Brooklyn, Frieda Krauter of Plainfield, Mrs. Alice Murphy Callahan of New York City, Mrs. Louise Rauter Bergfels of Butler, Culver Schleicher of Long Island, Mrs. Marion Smith Paynter of Westfield, Herbert Speth of California, Edward Tallo of Maplewood, Mrs. Harriett Totten Lambert of Miami, Fla., Nathaniel Waterbury of New York City, Mrs. Dorothy Young Long of California, Genevieve White of Summit, Dr. Wilton Hallock of Summit and Alice M. Murphy of Summit.

Other members of the class who are unable to attend are Mrs. Eunice McClay Devoe of California, Nathaniel Callahan of California, Leo Berman of Virginia, Mrs. Ruth Johnson of old of Massachusetts, Mrs. Marjorie Strong Smith of Kingston, N.Y., Dr. Walter B. Whiting of Texas and Mrs. Barbara Merighi Kristofe of Massachusetts.

Six Are Deceased
Deceased members of the class are J. Jerome Kaplan, Walter C. Darby, Donald Gallagher, Ruth Day Muldowney, Arthur Rendall and Olive Shipman.

Mr. Darby was not present for the graduation in 1917 for he had already enlisted the week before graduation for Naval service. Another member of the class, Nathaniel Austin, had also enlisted for service in Summit's Ambulance Corps 33 and departed with that unit for France shortly after graduation.

Other members of the class planned to continue their education at colleges for as long as the war permitted. The class members and the colleges they were to enter were:

Mr. Berman, N.Y.U.; Mr. Graydon, Dartmouth; Dr. Hallock, N.Y. Medical College; Mr. Jagels, Princeton; Mr. Kaplan, N.Y.U.; Mr. Speth, University of Pennsylvania; Mr. Whiting, Washington and Lee.

World War 1 Ace Honored By MIT Club

At the annual meeting of the M.I.T. Club of Northern New Jersey, held last week in the Hotel Robert Treat in Newark, A. Raymond Brooks of 10 Blair Place, Class of 1917, was awarded the fifth annual distinguished service award by that club. Brooks was a charter member of the club and served as its president in 1945 to 46.

Brooks graduated from M.I.T. in 1917 after having been editor-in-chief of the yearbook, "THE TECH." Immediately after graduation Brooks entered the Army Air Service where he spent six years as squadron commander.

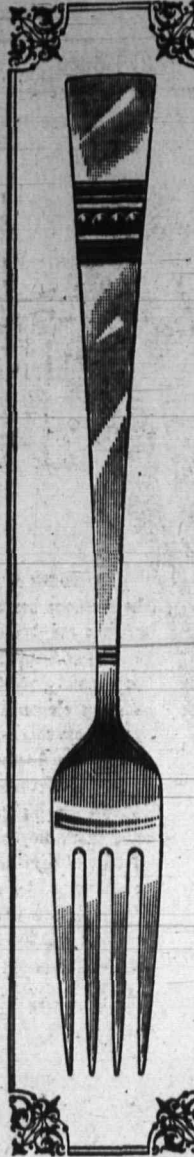

In combat he had 10 downings to his credit and was the only M.I.T. ace in World War I. He received a Distinguished Flying Cross and a special citation for a particular engagement where he took on 12 German Fokkers, shooting down two and driving off the rest. His Spad is now on exhibit in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

Following his years of service, Brooks joined the Frank P. Bennett Publishing Co.; this was followed by service with the Florida Airways Corp. and the C.A.A. In 1926 he joined Bell Laboratories where he organized and became head of the aviation division, a division at that time which was directed toward the development of aircraft radio. He served as head of the department and chief pilot. Later in his career with the Laboratories, he moved to the publications department and, on the occasion of his retirement in 1960, was supervisor of that department.

Mr. Brooks has been an honorary secretary of the M.I.T. Club for 30 years. He is also

Women Voters To Be Briefed On Conference
A report on the State Department's foreign policy planning conference held recently in Philadelphia will be presented by Mrs. Louis M. Small, chairman of the foreign policy committee of the League of Women Voters, who was invited by the State Department to the conference, during a patio party at 12:30 p.m. today at the home of Mrs. William R. Gilson at 47 Ox Bow Lane.

The conference was co-sponsored by the Department of State and the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia to expose the Administration's foreign policy planning to the public.

After Mrs. Small presents her report, other members of the foreign policy committee will comment on the administration's policies. They include Mrs. T. Sumner Oliver, Mrs. Walter Isenberg, Mrs. Howard Friedman, Mrs. Hall Shannon, Mrs. William J. Dickson, and Mrs. S. M. Elliott.

The urgency of being informed on impending aid legislation will be underscored by Mrs. Arthur Brown, co-chairman of the foreign policy committee, and Mrs. Robert Ny-cum, a member of the committee. Mrs. Brown has followed development on Capitol Hill, especially the impending aid bill, H. R. 7099, involving more than $3 billion tax dollars.

Refreshments, arranged by Mrs. Joseph Matthews, hospitality chairman of the League, will be served before the meeting.

Summer Music School Sets Opening Date
With 33 students already enrolled, Summit's first summer instrumental music program will open on June 26 at Brayton School.

Some students have signed up for three weeks, some for the full six weeks. Classes will be grouped according to instrument and playing experience. Beginners will have a group lesson and a theory (fundamentals of music) class each day. The partial program involves two hours each morning; the regular program, three or four hours. There will be no Saturday classes in the summer music program.

Although the enrollment to date includes a variety of instruments, the faculty would welcome students who play or want to play lower string and brass instruments. To provide better balanced groups, players of the following instruments are needed: viola, cello, bass viol, French horn, trombone, and tuba.

Registration forms are available from the instrumental music teachers in the Summit schools. For additional information call Daniel Kautzman at Summit High School 273-1494, ext. 44.

Postal Workers Get Safe Driving Awards
Twelve carriers of the Summit Post Office have recently received Post Office Department safe driver awards.

Those winning awards were Richard Bell; Chester Korkuc; Richard Sulzer; Michael Finneran; Nathaniel Johnson; Anthony D'Andrea; Samuel Schumpff; Wilmer Toy; Joseph Angelo; Richard Carney; Joseph Raczkowski and Joseph Cucciniello.

In order to win an award, each employee is required to have driven on each of his duty days throughout the year. In addition his record must be accident free for the entire year.

A total of forty-nine years of safe driving have been accrued by Angelo, Carney, Cucciniello and Raczkowski.

Junior High Seventh Graders See Science Lesson on Oceans

An informative science program was given for all seventh grade students on Friday, May 19, in the Junior High School auditorium. A film was shown on the subject of seaweed in connection with a study unit on biology and ecology.

The film dealt with the growth of kelp in the ocean and the process of collecting and purifying it. Emphasis was placed on conservation practices, proper use of natural resources and control of bothersome seaweed off the coast of California.

Edward Breza, sales manager for the East Coast area of the Kelco Company of Clark, and Victor Shepard, technical service representative, presented the film and demonstration.

St. John's to Send Member to Tanzania

On Sunday, members of Saint John's Lutheran Church will commission one of its members as a missionary to Tanzania.

Miss Julie Overland, a member of the congregation, who has been a chemistry teacher in Summit High School for the last three years, will be commissioned as a missionary of the Lutheran Church in America at 11:15 a.m.

"Miss Overland," said Rev. Richard Lee Peterman, pastor of Saint John's, "will be the first person to ever be sent by the parish to an overseas post."

She will introduce a chemistry course as a part of the curriculum in a high school operated by the Lutheran Church in Tanzania. Her task will be to develop a course suitable for the situation, then set in motion the necessary steps, leading to chemistry as a part of the normal curriculum of the high school system of the Lutheran Church in Tanzania.

"In a very real sense," commented Rev. Peterman who serves as a member of the board of World Missions of the Lutheran Church in America, "Miss Overland will be a pioneer — not in the physical sense, for our missionaries overseas live quite comfortably — but in the sense of an educator."

Saint John's will underwrite Miss Overland's full salary while she serves in her overseas assignment, which will be a minimum of three years.

Miss Overland was born and raised in Denver, Colorado, and is a graduate of the University of Colorado. She has been active in the Lutheran Church from her high school days when she served as an officer of the Luther League of America. Last year she served as a delegate to the convention of the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Immediately after her commissioning on Sunday, a luncheon will be held in her honor with her parents and sisters attending the luncheon and commissioning as the guests of the congregation.

Officials from the board of World Missions, in addition to Pastor Peterman, will take part in the official commissioning ceremonies.

Prior to her leaving for Tanzania, in early September, she will attend the Lutheran School of Missions in Saint Louis, Missouri, for an intensive eight week course on the culture of Tanzania.

TODAY'S INVESTOR

BY THOMAS E. O'HARA
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Association of Investment Clubs

Q. One member of our investment club reported on a corporation at a recent meeting. In recommending that we not buy the firm's stock, he gave as one of the reasons the fact that the firm (fairly new) had never paid a dividend. Do you think that is a valid reason?

A. It all depends. All things being equal, if I were presented with a chance to buy stock in a firm that has never paid a dividend and one that has been paying them, I would opt for the one that paid them.

But dividends are only one of the factors to be considered. The more important reason is why the company is not paying dividends. If it is growing very rapidly and earning good money but putting a large share of its earnings into new plant equipment and inventory, then I might buy it even though it is not paying a dividend. If it is not growing or not showing good earnings, or if it is earning well but just piling up cash, then I'd hesitate to buy it.

Q. I have just bought my first stock. There has been trading daily, but the price stays almost exactly where it was two weeks ago when I bought. Why?

A. Because over the short term stock prices are determined by supply and demand—and in the case of your company, there are apparently just as many people wanting to buy as there are wanting to sell at the same price. If you are buying stock for a price rise in two weeks you are on the wrong track. Buy stock when you are satisfied you've found a good company you still want to own 20 years from now.

Q. I am near retirement age and my wife is already retired. We have $28,000 in a savings and loan association and own some stocks besides. A friend suggests that we should sell some of the stocks and put the money in the bank where it will earn more. What do you think?

A. That's bad advice, as far as I am concerned. You have considerable money in savings right now. The stocks you own are good. While the dividend is not as great as you would get with the same money on deposit in the bank, they are likely to give you a better hedge against inflation, through growth in earnings and eventual price increase. This would be helpful to you in retirement.

Q. I've been reading your articles and would like to see your magazine, Better Investing. As a new investor my only question has to do with taxes. Is the money you invest taxable as well as the dividends?

A. The lump sum you invest is not taxable. The dividend income you receive from it is. If at some future date you sell the shares at a profit, you will be taxed on the difference between the amount you originally invested and amount they bring when sold. Your free copy of Better Investing has been sent to you.

Former Herald Reporter Named Head of American Press Group

A former part-time reporter while attending Summit High for the Summit Herald has been named executive director of the American Press Institute of Columbia University.

Walter Everett of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., began his newspaper career as a part-time reporter for the Summit Herald and the former Summit Press

School. He studied at the University of Missouri and at George Washington University, Washington, D.C. before entering the Columbia University School of Journalism, where he received a BS degree in 1933.

Mr. Everett, 57, has been managing director of the Institute for the last two years. He joined the organization in 1949 as an associate director, after 15 years as an editor and reporter on daily newspapers.

The institute, now entering its 22nd year as a professional center for the improvement of newspapers, with a permanent staff of four experienced newspapermen, it conducts seminars throughout the year for newspaper executives and staff members. It is financed by newspapers in the United States and Canada.

Sharks, according to an authority, are near-sighted, stupid and cowardly, but any one of them may turn and attack. It depends more on the individual shark than the species.

FLYING OR FINANCING ...we talk your language

At Montclair National, you deal with men who fly — men who are experienced specialists in aircraft and aircraft financing — not warmed-over bankers. The Aviation Division of Montclair National has been in the business longer... bigger... than any other area bank. Proud? You bet! We have to be good to serve the men (and women) who fly.

Here's our service in a nutshell. We finance all types of approved aircraft — large or small — new and used. Borrow at low bank rates and take up to five years to repay. An aircraft specialist who talks your language will custom-tailor a financing plan to your individual requirements.

Ask your dealer for Montclair National financing... or write or call for free brochure — without obligation.

Know Your Golf Rules?

Golf etiquette is the same the world over and is practiced by every good golfer. Generally, it's the application of the golden rule in good sportsmanship.

But every golf course, by its very nature, topography and specific conditions, also has its own local rules. The Summit Municipal Golf Course is no exception.

Here are the eight local rules adopted by the Board of Golf Commissioners:

1. All players must hit from mat.
2. Parties limited to no more than four players.
3. Do not tee off until preceding party is off green.
4. Ball beyond fence is out of bounds.
5. Penalty for ball out of bounds or in pond shall be loss of stroke and distance. If played from tee, ball must be re-teeed; otherwise, it must be dropped at spot where ball went out of bounds.
6. Players are allowed maximum of three strokes in sand and four putts on green.
7. Players are not permitted to enter water to retrieve ball.
8. Ball in flowers or newly planted shrubs, or on pathway, roadway or sprinkler head must be moved — no penalty.

Spring in Summit

The harshness of last winter has apparently revealed itself as a benefactor in the splendor of a magnificent, colorful spring, cold and rainy as it has been. Through the city and area, tulip stand tall in a myriad-colored array, dogwood gleams through the green and lacy curtain of woodland foliage, and here and there pinpoints of violets peep through to add to the general panorama. Along Ashland road azaleas, indeed truly hardy, has survived to burst forth in pink, magenta, orange and pure red. The once ice-covered Beekman road, sheltered from the winter's sunning rays by an overhang of branches, is now the scene of an arch of leaves, many varieties, all blending together to form a bower of green. Along Whittridge road, Hobart avenue and Mountain avenue dogwood peeps through elm and oak to form a white counterpart to the surrounding green world. Up in the Reservation, there too, dogwood blends with the green surroundings, best viewed by the sun's first and last rays. In the early hours, just before sunrise and birds are heralding the start of another day, the world takes on an almost eerie appearance as the green emerges from the dark to give a comforting freshness to the approach of the day and the awakening of life. Where once there was waist-high snow, the verdure of well-tended lawns and natural fields has emerged everywhere bringing with it the eternal promise of hope and life renewal. It is spring again and the marvel and mystery of nature has once again opened our hearts to the beauty which surrounds us.

It's Not Too Early

While the autumn season may seem a long way off right now, planning for the annual fall United Campaign is already well underway. Since it requires about 1,000 active volunteers to conduct a successful campaign, it becomes quite apparent that recruitment of such members must be made now to insure adequate help. In years past, the United Campaign, with its ever-expanding needs, has unfortunately managed to fall just below the prescribed goal. Part of this trend may be due to a lack of understanding of the purposes of single donations for a multiple purpose. In order to combat this problem, it is necessary that as many local residents as possible volunteer their services now as canvassers, office workers and contacts in order to carry the drives aims to the community and to collect the donations the community wishes to make. Manpower is the secret in a United drive: manpower to collect and manpower to contribute. While planning ahead to next autumn may seem difficult, manpower for the United Campaign must be obtained now in order to insure a smooth-running, efficient and successful campaign. Since the United Campaign is a community-wide project, for community-wide benefit, it is important that the work be done on a community-wide basis. A phone call to United Campaign headquarters at CR. 7-1399 to volunteer your services, will be a step in the right direction toward making this year's drive a successful one.

Plastics Are Safer Than Plumbums

A popular theory among some history buffs is that the United States' civilization is suffering from the sins that were fatal to the Roman Empire, a political-military organization that has never had an equal. Therefore when a Chicago professor comes up with an opinion that clashes with the accepted conclusions about the causes for the fall of the Roman Empire, it becomes interesting. Those who contend that Rome's downfall came about because of its excessive wealth, immorality, internal decadence and obsession with personal comfort, will find no room for agreement with a new theory advanced by Dr. S. C. Gilfillan of the University of Chicago. He insists that the biggest reason for Rome's fate was from what the ancients called "plumbum." He notes that the Romans used lead - and that is what plumbum was - extensively in their society. They wrote on it, wrote with it, coined money from it, cooked in it and ate off it, to cite only a few of its uses by the Romans. This, it is argued, resulted often in lead poisoning with the end result being body weakness, cramps, anemia, and eventually, death. Apparently it was the upper class in Rome most affected by lead. The metal was considered very valuable and only those who could afford it were able to buy lead pots and pans, carry lead money and dash off a memo inscribed on a leaden tablet. Thus the poor, for the most part, escaped the dangers of lead poisoning for they had to make do with old, every-day pottery which was harmless. According to the National Geographic Society, history does show that for many generations, the wealthy of ancient Rome had a high death rate compared with the less fortunate - or perhaps the more fortunate - poorer residents. And it is quite likely that lead made the difference. The high mortality rate among the rich, among the leaders, among the rulers, gradually eroded the core of able leaders and was responsible, so the Gilfillan theory goes, in the break-up of the Empire. Those able to preserve and protect it were dying at a more rapid rate than those who needed direction and leadership. It is an interesting theory - but only that. If it held true today somehow it would have to be established that the Fall of the United States came from plastic, not plumbum. And as far as we now know, plastic is harmless. So, we expect that America and its plastic civilization can endure longer than the Romans.

Current Comment

Postman: Champ Hooper (Morristown Daily Record) It comes as no surprise to learn that the postman walks more miles in the "swift completion of his appointed rounds than anybody else. Pedometers strapped to the legs of 15 mailmen showed they averaged 20 miles daily in delivering the mail. Second to them were policemen on the beat, who averaged 18 miles. What may be surprising however, is that the No. 3 spot went to hospital nurses, who trudged an average of 15 miles per shift (surprising to everyone but nurses, that is). Another big surprise was the bartender at the local pub. His daily walking to keep all those glasses filled came to 10 miles. Waiters and door-to-door salesmen registered 13 miles. Chorus girls, hoofing it for three shows a day, averaged seven miles. Other averages included waitresses, 11 miles; housewives, 6.3 miles; stenographers, 4 miles. These statistics were unearthed by Dr. Harold Schwartz, director of research and development for the Mennen Company, during studies on the company's foot products. According to the doctor, Americans walk an average of 65,000 miles in a lifetime, more than 2-1/2 times the distance around the world. If you play golf, the figure may be a bit higher. The statistics show it takes an average of nine miles of walking to fill 18 holes with little white balls.

DEATHS

Mrs. Helmer Larson
Mrs. Edith Kolod Larson, wife of Helmer Larson of 530 Plainfield avenue, Berkeley Heights died Saturday at Overlook Hospital. She was 67. Mrs. Larson was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, and came to the United States in 1923. She had lived in Plainfield and Millington before moving to Berkeley Heights nearly 12 years ago. Services were held Monday at the Brough Funeral Home, 535 Springfield avenue, Summit.

Mrs. Louis Carlson
Mrs. Anna J. Carlson of 98 Orchard street, died on May 17 in Overlook Hospital following a short illness. She was 81. Born in Sweden, Mrs. Carlson came to this country in 1900 and lived for many years in Staten Island before moving to Summit 15 years ago. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Oscar Mober of Somerville, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Russell E. Swanson of Faith Lutheran Church, Murray Hill, on May 20 at Burroughs and Kohl Funeral Home, 309 Springfield avenue. Burial was in Fairmount Cemetery, Chatham.

Can Meet Challenges
Editor, Summit Herald,
Attending as an ordinary citizen the annual meeting of the Summit Community Council in the new Overlook auditorium last Wednesday, I was deeply stirred by what I heard and saw. If our World War I mayor, Ruford Franklin, could have been there, he would have raised his old cheer: "Bully for Summit!" The conditions we face today are certainly depressing; the new problems right here in Summit seem insuperable. But if the history of the past fifty years is any guide, we will face up to those problems and gradually overcome them. Indeed, the meeting showed that we are on the way. Except for some of the churches, the M.C.A. and the Scouts, the only welfare groups that I can remember as being concerned with city-wide problems in Mayor Franklin's day were the "Town Improvement Society" and the "Family Service Association". But I was a newcomer then. Old stalwarts reading this will indignantly mention others. But civic work was just beginning. Between the wars, the welfare groups proliferated and grew as the need for each added activity was realized. They were highly competitive in their search for public support. The United Campaign was devised to relieve the competition. And there, almost for the first time, the representatives of the several agencies became aware, through service on the Central Committee or the Budget Committee, of the character of the work and the relative needs of the other agencies. Today, in the meeting of the Community Council, held in our hospital, we are looking at problems ahead that seem greater than any we have tackled before. Perhaps the best cheer an old-timer can offer to this hard working group and to the city is to point to the things already done, that we now take for granted.

This Community Council is no meeting place of competitive agencies. It is a place for cooperation, for heated expression of the new problems to be studied by dedicated citizens, for balancing of present needs, for courageous, imaginative planning to meet these needs. Summit has never been complacent about the future. It is not and cannot afford to be so now. The expressions at the meeting demonstrated the vital importance of the unsolved difficulties that face us - in the relations of our citizens, in the physical fitness of our city, in the need for still greater foresight, understanding mutual aid and co-operation in finding means for solving them. In the past Summit has had the wisdom and the courage to meet each problem as it appeared. So it will now and in the future. No wonder the meeting stirred my memory of Mayor Franklin and his, "Bully for Summit!" Theodore S. Kenyon 80 Bellevue avenue

Urges Israeli Stand
Editor, Summit Herald:
The situation in the Middle East is very grave and could have very grim repercussions. All Jewish organizations, from the national level to the local synagogues, are being urged to communicate with President Johnson and their elected representatives to reaffirm America's policy that Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy have stated many times of America's support of the independence of all Middle East nations. President Johnson has made such an affirmation, but unfortunately the Senate and the House have not, at this writing, made such a statement as a bipartisan body. It is in the interests of all Jew and Non-Jew, Israeli and Arab, that peace be maintained. The world must know of America's steadfastness, and believe it. Many urge the end of the war in Vietnam; we all have an opportunity to avert a war in the Middle East. Is it not better to stop it before it starts? It is so much easier. There would then be no winners or losers; no one would have to save face. There would just be peace and no conflagration. I urge Jew and Non-Jew to act together as peace-loving Americans to write to their Senators and Representatives in Washington to take positive action, now, publicly and with forcefulness. The countries of the world must know our firm resolve. In the name of God, peace and all that America stands for, do not be an apathetic. Action gets results, apathy gets disaster. Harry I. Hammer, President Jewish Community Center of Summit

Coin Roundup

By Maurice M. Gould

During our early Colonial days wampum was used as currency because of the large amount of trading that was done with the Indians, and it was legal tender from Massachusetts to Virginia.

Hard coin was scarce in the Colonies. But ships from the colonizing countries of Europe brought a number of coins, building up a small quantity of silver coinage.

There were silver pieces from Sweden, Germany, France, Spain, Holland, England, Peru and Mexico, and gold coins from Portugal, France, England and Arabia were the most commonly seen.

The predominant coin, and one of the most popular, was the Spanish piece of eight, known by all from pirate lore and buried treasure. It is still found in the interior of China, where it was used for many years. These coins are frequently found in the United States among lots of old U.S. coins, as they were legal tender until 1857.

These famous eight reals so highly prized that they were accepted everywhere without a check as to weight or condition, and laws were passed before 1650 in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Virginia making Spanish coins legal tender.

Because of the shortage of silver coinage, as early as 1691, the famous William Penn urged immigrants to the new land to convert one-third of their possessions into coin, and in 1701, in many of the Southern Colonies, people were forced to carry with them sugar and tobacco so they could trade for the necessities of life.

Shortages have existed in coinage in all areas of the world at one time or another, and it was just recently that we again had the same problem in this country. With the passage of time and economic changes, all of these factors have been overcome. It is because of these problems that many interesting and unusual coins were left on these shores and are now available to collectors of real Americana.

Crocheting Holds Sway Once Again

Back in grandma's day, many young women spent long hours knitting or crocheting. It was considered a womanly art to work with knitting needles or a crochet hook. But who'd ever think today's so-called "mad mods" would be enthusiastic about such an old-fashioned pastime?

Well, they are. Seems the mod influence of quaint old-fashioned lace trimming makes crochet touches important among the "in" fashions.

There even are entire dresses of crochet done in wonderful old granny afghan patterns. Socks and hats, too—also crocheted—are popular for the total look. However, the 1967 crocheted fashions are all very chic. They don't have that made-by-loving-hands-at-home look.

Of course, granddaughter's crocheting is confined to making wearable items like checkerboard-banded pull-overs, figure-hugging dresses, socks, hats, and son-on—not antimacassars spreading their lace over chair arms—the vogue when grandma was a girl.

Crocheting has become a hobby with school and college girls, career girls, actresses, models and lots of other young women who enjoy the work—and realize they can have extensive wardrobes without having to spend much money. One young actress said recently she's made dozens of pretty shells to go with evening skirts, and sweaters and stoles too, just crocheting backstage in her spare time. And everyone admires her lovely wardrobe.

Stain, Don't Paint Fire Brick

(Q) — "Through a misunderstanding our living room fireplace was lined with a yellow fire-brick while the rest of the masonry is built of old used brick. The result is anything but pleasing to us. Could the yellow brick be painted some other color? If so, what do we use?" Mr. F. B.

(A) — Almost all fire-brick is yellowish in color. It is quite absorbent, but the paint will burn right off. I think your best bet is to use masonry stain, which will penetrate and at least hold some color under fire. Be very careful about this. Be sure stain is completely dry before making a fire, and make the first fires low and not too hot. You could get a bad flash fire since both paint and stain carry highly volatile oils.

(Q) — "Can you tell me how to paint the inside of a bottle when the neck is so small to get a brush into it? I have several crackle glass bottles of unusual shape which I want to color and put in places where they will reflect light." Mrs. R. E.

(A) — Paint can be spread in many ways without the use of a brush. For your bottles, if you have something about quart size, pour in one-third cupful of paint. Cork the bottle and roll it around and turn it upside down until the interior is completely covered with the paint. When coating is complete turn bottle up and stand it upside down to drain. This insures an even coating. Use heavy paint. Second coating may be required.

(Q) — "We have a penthouse apartment with a private roof. We have an awning, terrace furniture and plants. The floor is our problem. It is uneven, and cotton rugs, linoleum socks and rush squares get soaked and deteriorate. Can we cement down the linoleum or tile?" Mr. V. A.

(A) — Linoleum or tile will not stay on a roof which is exposed to the weather. If anyone tells you it will, insist on a guarantee backed by a bond.

Under the conditions you described, it appears to me that there is only one answer to your problem, and that is a concrete surface. This should be a minimum of three inches in thickness and should have road-mesh re-enforcing. We suggest that it be stained any appropriate color, either by an admixture in the concrete or by applied stain to the finished surface. In making this recommendation, I presume that the area involved is not extensive.

Your Garden This Week

by your
Rutgers Garden Reporter
Stubborn Trees

Flowering trees that refuse to flower may be close to the top of a gardener's list of disappointments.

Take the case of the lady in Metuchen who feels her dogwoods, flowering crabapple and cherry tree have let her down. Her complaints against her non-flowering trees go something like this:

She planted four dogwoods, 6 to 8 feet tall, in a shady wooded area a year ago this spring. When purchased they were in bloom. Two had no blooms, and one had only three or four so small they were hard to see.

The flowering crab had little apples on it in the nursery last fall, but in its new location it just stands there in full leaf but never a flower.

The cherry tree is doing even worse. In its third year on the home grounds, it gets the benefit of full sun all day, but refuses to bloom.

"Not Unusual"

If these problems sound familiar to you, you may be interested in what Don Lacey, extension home horticulture specialist, has to say.

Such problems, he says, are "not unusual," and then goes on to explain that after transplanting many trees and shrubs produce leaf and shoot growth for a few years until they re-establish themselves. Then growth slows down, and flowers and fruit, in the case of the crabapple and cherry, should come regularly each year.

Overfertilizing or excessive pruning can also cause flowering trees to revert to leaf and shoot growth at the expense of flowers.

Preserve, is his advice. All three trees should flower in another year or two if they continue to grow well.

Red Maples Turn Green
Another fairly typical problem plagues a gardener in River Edge. She says they've tried to grow Japanese red maple trees that would stay red all season instead of turning green. What to do?

No mystery here, either, according to Mr. Lacey. Many of the Japanese maples offered for sale are grown from seedlings of uncertain heredity.

Among these seedlings there is a great variation, including the plant's ability to hold its red color during the hot weather that breaks down the red coloring in these seedlings.

The only sure way is to buy a grafted tree selected for its reliable red color throughout the summer. Among varieties that stay red is one appropriately named "Bloodgood."

Your Questions Don't hesitate to ask for advice if you have a garden puzzle. Your county agricultural agent can help you, and I can get answers to questions you send to Garden Reporter, College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Rutgers, New Brunswick 08903.

Permanent Edges for Lawns

The homeowner who takes particular pride in the sharp, well defined edges of his road, paths and lawns is well aware that keeping them in such shape involves a considerable amount of work with turf edger and snips for eight months a year. Let a visitor be careless with his car, and the edge is broken down, only to be repaired with several hours of real work. Lawns encroach on a roadway during every season, and the edge has to be cut back regularly to maintain a standard road width.

A permanent edge for a lawn can be readily secured with 2 x 4's laid along any existing lawn and spiked down into the road with three inch nails. When this method is used, the 2 x 4's are painted green, holes bored through them at intervals of ten feet and the nails driven down into the road or path. If a car should be run over the edge and into the lawn, it rides easily over this solid curb and doesn't injure it.

The grass, which will naturally grow to or over the wood curbing, is easily snipped as rapidly as one can walk along the edge. There is no erosion of the lawn edge from heavy rains or frost action. Weed killer can be applied to the road surface without any danger of eating through into the lawn, which is one of the chief difficulties encountered in the use of this chemical.

Two by fours are a standard item in all house construction, and they are available at house wreckers or second-hand building material yards. The number of running feet required for the average grounds is not much in dollars and cents.

Good Pearls Should Have Good Care

If you received a lovely set of pearls, or some pearl earrings, for a gift, give them the good care they deserve. In fact, any woman who has pearl jewelry should remember that pearls must not be mistreated. Try to avoid dropping them or tossing them around on the dressing table. When pearls are not being worn it is advisable to keep the carelessly in a closed box. And—a word of caution—beware of the perfume atomizer. Use it before you put your pearls on, as the alcoholic content in the perfume is harmful to the delicate surface of pearls.

Washing soda may do a good job in cleaning glazed ceramic wall tile. If the tiles are badly discolored, wipe them with a damp rag on which a little of the powdered washing soda has been

Oil Breather Cap

Ask a young man in a service station what his fancy turns to when spring is in the air. Unless he manages to catch himself first, he is likely to say, "Thoughts of oil filters."

Oil filters? It used to be love. Now it's tune-ups, oil changes, air filters, tire rotation and so on, ad infinitum.

But hark! Under the hood of your car cries a poor, neglected filter that rarely is checked, even by a young man in love with automobiles, come spring or any other time. It is the little screen in the oil filler cap.

This little screen is called the breather cap and, as its name implies, it is supposed to permit the engine to breathe. Maybe you have noticed (or now that you're thinking about it you might) that when you need oil, the attendant just takes off the cap, adds the oil, and puts the cap back on. He rarely checks the condition of the cap. This probably is because it is one of those little things about a car that is easy to overlook.

When the filter screen in the breather cap gets gummed up, no air can pass through it and your engine can't breathe. Your engine is in for trouble and so are you. Without fresh air coming into the crankcase, oil temperature builds up. Just like butter if the pan gets too hot, the oil breaks down and begins to form black sludge. The vapors form a varnish-like substance that coats engine parts.

As a result, parts wear faster than they should. Suddenly you are faced with a big repair bill, all because that little oil filler cap was neglected. It is one of the easiest things on your car to clean or replace and certainly one of the least expensive.

When you are treating your car to its spring tonic and cleaning, ask the young man to clean or replace the breather cap while he is doing the rest of the job. Then, make it a point to have it serviced every time you change oil. Otherwise, you may be in for problems, financial and otherwise. And you may hear a small voice from under the hood crying: "I told you so!"

Longer Hours

Higher Salary

By Mabel G. Stolte
County Home Economist

The expression "I'm off to the salt mines" is becoming more common each year. Don't laugh when your husband says this. It's probably true! Quite likely he spends more hours on the job than many salt miners did in the past, according to recent surveys of the Institute of Life Insurance. In a country where leisure activities are stressed this may come as a surprise.

Each year affluent Americans, whose total yearly family income is $10,000 or more, are averaging 48 hours work a week. One in four higher income workers may be working 60 hours a week. Research indicates this is more hours than salt miners worked in the 19th century.

Higher income doesn't mean shorter hours. Having a five- or six figure income often means the breadwinner has been working extra hard, the Labor Department has found out.

Long working hours, however, doesn't always mean high income. Many lower paid job holders are moonlighting to bring their family's income up to average.

Family financial planning and re-evaluation of one's goals—what one wants from life is becoming more important! What does achievement mean to you? Is time or money most important?

In spite of all the additional income reported, the average vacation time is still only two weeks a year. And, many who could have more time say they couldn't afford it. It costs more to take a vacation than work. Perhaps, this is the time to take stock of our own and families' goals. What do you as parents want from your daily life? From your vacation? Are there community resources—county and state facilities for vacationing that you haven't investigated?

A Film of Merit

"Blow Up"

Michaelangelo Antonioni's "Blow Up" is finally locally with us and if we are at all with it, the film's travels about our area ought to be quite an event. Since this is a film to return to again and again, I would like to add some more comments to what I have written before about "Blow Up".

This is the latest motion picture product (in English) of that great Italian director who previously has given us such introspective film studies as "L'Adventura", "L'Notte", "Ecclipsa" and "The Red Desert". This film, like the others is concerned with man's (woman's) essential aloneness, his search for a personal truth and his ultimate alienation from society as a result of his experiences and sense of self.

Unlike the previous films, "Blow Up" is made in an extroverted fashion which examines the current times as carefully as it does the main character. In many ways it is influenced by the products of his great countryman, Federico Fellini, since "Blow Up" is a free swinger with sensuous eye appeal.

As noted in the list of his previous efforts, Michaelangelo Antonioni's fame preceded this picture. To the technician, the artist and the craftsman, as well as to the critic and film buff, Antonioni was already a recognized master. He is a director whose camera never takes a single frame by accident. The form and composition, as well as the subject matter, of the Antonioni film is carefully planned by this singular Italian director. He has always assumed full command and responsibility for his films. "Blow Up" finally has given him the popular recognition he has always deserved, if not coveted.

For those who just dropped in from out of space, "Blow Up" is that motion picture about a young, amoral photographer (David Hemmings) who apparently witnesses a murder. The involvement of the victim's lover (Vanessa Redgrave) is indicated by enlargements developed by the photographer from stills taken earlier and at random. Prior to his discovery of the apparent murder, Antonioni's camera has busily been following the photographer through his routine of work and play. The viewer has not only learned that he is a part of the mod scene in that he takes his exercise by way of it and gives form to it on film, but that he is a person who sees deeply into the perplexities of others, most notably his almost ravenously beautiful neighbor (Sarah Mills).

Upon realizing, or at least thinking he realizes, the truth about what he has recorded and then enlarged on film, the photographer solicits the aid of friends, in acting on the knowledge he has gained. The disinterest of others in his own bit of truth forms at least one of the philosophic bases for this magnificently photographed color film.

By use of the story told, Antonioni pictures a gifted but impotent modern man, stymied by a philosophy developed before he was born. Antonioni does this brilliantly, because he takes his photographer, who we have learned to know and understand, and has him wander through the greatest extremes of the mod society, armed with his truth and his desire to have others share his feeling of responsibility for it. In this excursion through the mod world, he comes in contact with teenyboppers, hippies and their drug escape, and finally those committed to large truths, but not personal ones.

The philosophy which has captured the society around the photographer, and to which he ultimately belongs, is existential. It says that the truth is relative and that man can have no more than his own personal version of it. Mr. Hemmings as the protagonist knows that the crime was committed (in certain terms Antonioni allows the photographer and the viewer to comprehend the exact truth by taking him back to view the body), but that knowledge remains strictly personal since it cannot be established for others. Furthermore, the haziness of Miss Redgrave's connection with the crime supports the conclusion (that of Pirandello earlier in the century) that all facts cannot be added up to the June-Moon-Spoon certainty we so like to rely on in our adolescence.

In a brilliant denouement, the photographer is forced to join those who "cop out". No alternative is reasonably available to him. That he should have proclivities to do so anyway is meaningful and realistic.

There is a small interchange of dialogue in which the photographer tells a friend that he wishes to leave London (the mod scene) and live in a simple more basic style in the country. Of course, he doesn't do it, as modern man philosophically cannot do it.

Michaelangelo Antonioni has made a remarkable, free, swinging picture about the most complex topics. There is no way to categorize all that is in this film. Like all great art, it defies a summary of its intentions. From an examination of the individual in a society, to an in-depth look at that society and the responsibility of the individual to it, to an extension of the philosophical base of twentieth century theater to the concrete problem of the sixties (and maybe all time to come in view of our urbanization and the breakdown of the family unit), to an amazing achievement in terms of cinematic art, "Blow Up" is not only thoroughly enjoyable, but brilliant in its spirit of examining a culture with unflinching honesty.

Antonioni has with care developed the issue of the cop out in the world of the hippie (and the non-hippie, too) in accurate, realistic terms. He provides no easy morality. His modern man passes from observer to a non-committed part of the group. This is all in line with the development of twentieth century philosophy and what is actually happening. Those who have made other choices, surely more commendable ones, have yet to show much results. Antonioni does not condemn the activist alternatives, just accurately reflects the hippie disdain for them.

I only hope that Michaelangelo Antonioni pursues this examination of society and individual man which "Blow Up" begins. Great cinema art should continue to result, especially since the techniques of the job is in the hands of the greatest of all motion picture craftsmen.

Student Wins
High Place in French Test

Miss Andrea Ashtine, a Summit Junior High School ninth grader, recently yearned second place on a French language proficiency contest examination sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French.
The examination was administered at New York University
April 21, 1967.

Competing with public and private junior and senior high school students from the metropolitan area, Andrea placed second in the highest division of Level 2 on the 1967 National French Contest examination.
Level 2 was for senior high second-year French students and junior high ninth grade French students who have completed French language instruction in grades seven and eight. The hour-long examination tested aural comprehension, reading comprehension, dictation, and grammar.

Andrea, at 13 years of age, was one of the youngest competitors in the contest. She has been a member of the Junior High School French Honor Club
for two years. Her French teacher this year, Miss Mary Debly, is an active member of the American Association of Teachers of French.

In recognition of her achievement, Andrea will receive an award at the Presentation of Awards Ceremony, Saturday at the French Institute, New York City.

Stasiuk Sets Victory, Strikeouts Records

New Providence—A year ago Stasiuk was an obscure performer on New Providence High School's track team. This is hardly a distinction as most schoolboy track and field performers are obscure.

This spring Stasiuk decided to play baseball for New Providence. He has been making headlines for the potent pitcher's nine all spring and is a prime reason why New Providence is heading for the best season record in the school's history.

Stasiuk has a 6-2 record for the pitchers this season and he set two school records last week when he won his sixth game by defeating Cedar Grove, 4-2, in a Suburban Conference game. His number of victories in a season is the most ever for a Pioneer hurler and he struck out 15 Cedar Grove batters to surpass the old record of 13, which was set by Dave Renne in 1962.

Second Two-Hitter

In turning back the panthers Stasiuk pitched his second consecutive two-hitter. In his previous outing he had blanked Morris Knolls High, 7-0, in a State Tournament game. Morris Knolls had brought a 10-1 record into the tournament contest.

Stasiuk walked only four batters and had little trouble in posting his record-breaking victory after New Providence pushed across four runs in the first two innings to stake him to a 4-0 lead.

In a non-conference game last week the Pioneers edged Chatham Township, 5-4, staving off a Gladiators' rally in the seventh inning that fell one run short of a tie.

New Providence went in front of Cedar Grove with a run in the first inning. Rusty Bauer was safe on an error and stole second base. After Larry Fabrizio walked, John Yuzzolin singled Bauer home.

The Pioneers added three more runs in the second. Gene Ortiz was safe on an error and Gene Schaefer walked. Bauer singled to fill the bases. Fabrizio then singled home two runs.

New Providence collected 11 hits, with Schaefer leading the way with a double and two singles. Bob Stern had a triple and single and Yuzzolin two singles. Ortiz and Lindenmayer also had doubles for the Pioneers.

Kent Place School's Teams Successful

Summit — The Kent Place School athletic program closed out its year with the annual athletic association picnic held at the school last Friday.

Meg Kaupp of Short Hills won the highest award, a white blazer, which given to the Upper School student who has shown the greatest ability and spirit during the school year. Laura Noon of Short Hills won the cup given to the senior with the most athletic ability.

Charlotte Hazlehurst of Short Hills was awarded the Dance Cup for her proficiency in that field. Many other Upper School students won emblems for their athletic achievements.

Successful Season

The Kent Place tennis team enjoyed a successful spring with a 3-1 record. The team lost only to Kimberley, while defeating Princeton Day School, 4-3, Gill School, 5-0, and Dwight School, 4-1.

Peggy Albaugh of Short Hills won the 16 and under singles at the Kimberley Invitational Tournament held in Montclair.

Other leading members of the team were Sue Klem and Wendy Field of Short Hills; Sharon Hesketh and Martha Davis of Summit; Abby Delfosse of Madison, Martha Horsfield of Chatham, Gail Cruickshank of Maplewood, and Marion Bevans and Marni Rath of Morristown.

Good Record

The lacrosse team, in its second season of interscholastic competition, also had a good record. The J.V. team posted a 3-1 mark, while the varsity had a 1-1-3 record. The varsity defeated Stuart, tied Gill 5-5, and Princeton Day School 5-5, and lost to Kimberley 7-4, in a thriller.

Ann Butterworth of Madison and Carolyn Paterson of Wilmington, Delaware, were the leading varsity scorers while Comfort Halsey of Summit, Jackie Baird of Short Hills, and

Hilltopper Freshmen Win Twice

Summit — After losing a 5-1 decision to Chatham Boro, the Summit High freshmen baseball team came back with its two strongest batting attacks of the year, blasting Chatham, 11-5, and Caldwell, 9-3.

Summit's defense fell apart in the first inning in the first Chatham game, as Chatham picked up five runs, four unearned.

Summit pulled itself together, and behind the pitching of Steve Schroeder, limited Chatham to only two hits for the rest of the game.

Summit's offense, however, could only pick up one run. Rich Graef scored after walking in the third inning.

Belt 16 Hits

Two days later, however, it was Summit's turn, as it shelocked Chatham pitching for 16 hits. A five-run first inning put the game on ice for Summit. Summit scored on four singles and a triple deep to left by Bob Stiner.

Two other tremendous drives were Dick Peterson's double in the fifth and Chris Hart's triple in the sixth. Summit picked up its sixth run in the second inning, another the next inning and three in the sixth.

The final run was scored in the seventh when Ken Kadel was squeezed in from third.

Hart scored three times for Summit, Graef and Bob Triolo twice. Triolo, Schroeder, and Stiner each drove in two runs. Stiner, on the mound for Summit, got into trouble in the seventh inning when Chatham filled the bases and scored two runs, but he got out of it with a strikeout.

One of Summit's finest games lasted only four innings. The game started off with Caldwell scoring three runs in the first two innings, despite near sleet and freezing wind.

The Summit team knew that the game would be called when the necessary four innings had been played, and if they were to win they would have to score fast they did!

Caldwell's pitcher, having control problems, walked two in the top of the third. A fielder's choice, a single by Hart, and another fielder's choice loaded the bases with one run in. Bob Stiner lined a single to score two, and Jim Fraser's single scored two more.

The next inning was more of the same. With a man on first and two out, Hart blasted a triple to left-center, and scored on Triolo's single. Schroeder's single and Stiner's double down the third base line wrapped up the game. Bill Jemison and Schroeder combined for the win.

Suchena Trophy Goes To Bruce Corcoran

Berkeley Heights — Bruce Corcoran, who quarterbacked Governor Livingston Regional High's football team to a 16-2 record during the past two seasons and a State regional championship in 1965, has been awarded the Michael Suchena Memorial Award by the Highlander Booster Club.

Corcoran was honored last week at the club's seventh annual all-sports banquet, which honors all Governor Livingston Regional athletes. Some 315 persons attended the affair in the Mountaineer Inn.

All-State Back

Corcoran, an all-county and all-state selection at quarterback during the past two seasons, quite possibly is the finest running back ever to play at Governor Livingston. He also was a top-notch passer and field general.

An honor student, Bruce lettered in football, basketball and baseball for three seasons at Governor Livingston. He is a guard on the basketball team and third baseman on the baseball team.

Guest speakers at the all-sports banquet were Alex Webster and Roosevelt Brown, both former stars of the New York Football Giants and now members of the Giants' coaching staff. Webster was an all-league running back, while Brown was an all-league offensive lineman.

Sportsmanship Award

Rams, Bombers Win in Rec. Loop

Summit — The Rams bombed the Knights 4-1 in the Recreation Department's eighth and ninth Grade Baseball League. The Rams had five hits, while the Knights were limited to one.

The Bombers defeated the Red Sox, 5-3. The Bombers won the game on walks, the Red Sox pitchers giving up six walks. In the fifth inning the Bombers came up with three runs.

Pioneers' Cross Sets 2-Mile Run Record

Ed Cross of New Providence High set a school record of 10:01.7 minutes for the two-mile run, surpassing his own record set earlier this spring by eight seconds, to feature regular season dual meet activity last week.

Cross's record performance went for naught, however, as Cedar Grove edged past the Pioneers, 65-61.

Jim Wackwitz of New Providence broke the school record for the pole vault in the same meet, clearing 12 feet, 6 inches. This surpassed his former mark of 12 feet, 1 1/2 inches, set earlier this season.

Shatters Own Mark

Wackwitz then shattered his own record for the second time in a week when he sailed over the bar at 12 feet, 9 inches, in winning the Suburban Conference championship.

In other meets, Governor Livingston Regional High of Berkeley Heights defeated Middlesex, 73-53, but lost a Watchung Conference meet to Fanwood.

Cross Sets Suburban Conference '880' Mark

Ed Cross of New Providence High established a new record for the 880-yard run in the Suburban Conference's track and field championships last Saturday at Memorial Field in Cedar Grove.

Cross was clocked in 1:58.3 minutes, clipping four-tenths of a second off the previous record set two years ago by Millburn's Don Wujack.

Cross's victory was one of five individual triumphs for athletes in the Summit-Chatham area, with New Providence representatives taking three and Summit High athletes two.

Brown, Wackwitz Win

New Providence's other victories were scored by Don Brown, who took the shot put with a toss of 52 feet, 1 1/2 inches, and Jim Wackwitz, who cleared 12 feet, 9 inches, in the pole vault.

Tom Agnew of Summit High won the one-mile run in 4:37 minutes while Summit's Tom Cleary took the javelin throw with a toss of 195 feet, 5 and one-fifth inches.

The three individual championships helped New Providence tie Cedar Grove for third place with 33 points, the Pioneers' finest showing ever in the conference championships. Chatham Boro High finished seventh with 17 and two-thirds points, while Summit was last in the eight-team field with 16 1/3 points.

Millburn successfully defended its title with 51 points, while Caldwell scored 37 to finish second. Verona was fifth with 21 points, followed by Madison with 18 and five-sixths.

Cherekos Stars

Wackwitz led New Providence, accounting for seven points. He also finished fourth in the high

Corcoran Letterman

Bourke Corcoran of Summit was among 40 athletes who received letters and jackets at the annual sports award banquet of Curry College, Milton, Mass. Corcoran was awarded a letter for football. Ken Coleman radio-television announcer for the Boston Red Sox, was the principal speaker.

Herb Schmidt Named Coach by Lafayette

Summit — Herbert Schmidt, an all-State soccer player at Summit High School and a two-time all-American soccer and lacrosse player for Rutgers University, has been named head soccer and lacrosse coach at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

A native of Summit, Schmidt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Herbert Schmidt of 115 Tulip Street. He lives in Pennsylvania Furnace, Pa., with his wife and 13-month-old son.

Schmidt, who won All-American honors at Rutgers in 1960, 1961 and 1962, takes over the soccer assignment from George Davidson, the coach for 12 years, who will devote more time to his other duties in the athletic department.

In lacrosse, Schmidt replaces Bill Riffle, an instructor in physics, who has been coaching the team for the last three seasons.

Summit High Netmen Win Tourney Opener

Summit High's tennis team, seeded seventh in the State Group 3 championships, advanced to the tournament's quarter-final round last Saturday with a 3-0 victory over West Essex Regional in a second-round match.

West Essex had downed Hadonfield in the opening round, 2-1, while Summit had drawn a first-round bye. Summit and Hillside, which defeated Southern Freehold Regional, 3-0, were the only teams to score shutout victories in the second round in Group 3.

Highlanders Bow

Governor Livingston Regional High of Berkeley Heights, a first-year team, was eliminated in the second round by Woodbury High, 2-1. The Highlanders had defeated New Milford, 2-1, in the opening round.

Millburn, River Dell Regional and Hillside are the top three seeded teams in the Group 3 tournament. Millburn had defeated Summit twice this season in Suburban Conference matches. Summit finished fourth in last season's all-groups tournament.

Eskies Win

Chatham Boro is competing in the combined Group 1-2 tournament at Princeton University. Play in this event was scheduled for last Monday and Tuesday. The Eskies downed Ridge High of Basking Ridge, 5-0, last week.

In a regular-season match last week, Governor Livingston edged Bound Brook High, 3-2. The Highlanders won both doubles matches easily and got their decisive edge when Dick Kenny won a hard-fought No. 1 singles match, 11-9, 7-5.

New Providence Nine Ousted from Tourney

New Providence — New Providence High's baseball team found out last Saturday why Clifford Scott High of East Orange was favored to win the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 2 championship this season.

The Pioneers were bounced 11-1 by the Scotties in a semi-final round contest played at Martens Stadium in East Orange the victory qualified the Scotties (18-6) to play for the regional title against Washington High (16-3). Washington downed New Providence' Suburban Conference nemesis, Madison, 3-0, in the semifinals on Wayne Fleming's third no-hit game of the season.

Lead-Off Homer

New Providence (13-7) fell behind 3-0 in the first inning and never was in contention against the Scotties. Ronnie Klein hit a lead-off home run for Clifford Scott and they added two more runs off New Providence's ace—Walt Stasiuk.

Clifford Scott added three more runs in the fourth inning to lead 6-0 and then routed Stasiuk in a five-run fifth inning. Klein sparked the big inning with a bases-loaded home run. The Scotties' shortstop batted in six of his team's runs.

Bob Hackett pitched a three-hitter for Clifford Scott blanking New Providence on one-hit through the first five innings. The Pioneers broke through in the sixth on Gene Schaefer's double and Larry Fabrizio's run-scoring single. Chris Lindenmayer had the Pioneers' only other hit—a second-inning single.

Two Summer Baseball Leagues To be Sponsored by Rec. Board

Summit — The Summit Board of Recreation will sponsor two summer baseball leagues for boys in fourth and fifth grades and sixth, seventh and eighth grades. The program will run from Monday, June 26, through Friday, August 10.

In order for a boy to participate in this seven-week baseball program he must be in Summit for at least five weeks of the league. Boys who will not be in town for five of the seven weeks should not register, since they will only penalize their teammates.

All league games will be played on weekdays, in the mornings and afternoons.

The teams will be made up independently of the present Spring Baseball League, so it is necessary for any boy wanting to participate to register at the Field House at Memorial Field or at Edison Recreation Center before the June 14 deadline.

Boys who have not turned their applications in by the June 14 deadline will not be able to play in the summer leagues.

Rec. Board To Sponsor 'Teen' Nine

Summit — The Summit Board of Recreation will again sponsor a baseball team this summer for boys aged 13-15 to represent Summit in the Suburban Recreation League, an inter-community league.

Towns entered in the league this year are Summit, Verona, Caldwell, Livingston and Springfield.

The league will begin play Monday, July 10, and conclude on Monday, August 10. Games will be played evenings at 6 p.m., with practices being held afternoons at 3 p.m.

Tryouts for this team will be on an open basis. Any boy wishing to try out may obtain an application form at the Edison Recreation Center or the Memorial Field Office. All applications must be returned to the Board of Recreation before June 21st.

Boys who will be 16 after August 1 will be eligible to participate. Boys who will be 16 before August 1 should not submit an application.

The tryout sessions will be held on June 19, 20 and 21 at 6 p.m. at Memorial Field.

Highlanders' Golfers Down Hillside, 14 1/2-3 1/2

Berkeley Heights — The golfers of Governor Livingston Regional High racked up a 14 1/2-3 1/2 victory over Hillside High last week in a Watchung Conference match.

Greg Tully, Paul Goldstein, Steve Friend and Hoffman scored shut out victories for the Highlanders, who won four individual matches and halved another.

Dowling Averages Loss To Springfield Nine

Berkeley Heights — Joe Dowling of Governor Livingston High, who had lost a 1-0 decision to Springfield Regional a week earlier, avenged the loss by hurling the Highlanders to a 4-3 win over the Bulldogs last week.

Dowling, who had hurled a four-hitter in losing to Springfield, wasn't quite as effective this time, needing relief from John Adriance in the sixth inning.

Governor Livingston took a 4-0 lead with two runs in the first inning and two more in the fourth frame. Springfield battled back with a run in the fifth inning and two more in the sixth to come within a run of a tie before Adriance cut off the rally.

Jim Magnatta's singled home two runs in the first inning for Governor Livingston. Singles by Gary Brannin and Don Robertson, an error, two walks and a passed ball produced the Highlanders' final two runs.

Robertson and Harold Harmon had two hits apiece to lead the Governor Livingston attack.

The Highlanders outlast Springfield, 9-7. Bruce Corcoran scored twice for the Highlanders.

Chatham Boro Divides 2 Games with Summit

Boro High's baseball team split a pair of Suburban Conference games with Summit High last week, winning the first contest, 4-3, at Summit, and losing the second, 4-2, at the Eskies' field.

Mike Miller scattered nine hits in defeating Summit, 4-3. He was helped by a big fourth inning when the Eskies exploded for all of their runs.

Fill Bases

Trailing 1-0 after three innings, the Eskies filled the bases on singles by Ben Tousey, Jack Shaw and Carl Lust. A walk to Bill West forced in the tying run. With two outs, Russ Wenzel cleared the bases with a double and the Eskies tied 4-1.

A single, two-base error, and a wild pitch gave Summit the lead run in the sixth inning. The Hilltoppers added another tally on a walk, two stolen bases, and a throwing error on a pickoff attempt.

Connecticut To Graduate Local Girls

Three students from Summit will be candidates for BA degrees at the 49th commencement ceremonies to be conducted Sunday at Connecticut College for Women.

Among this year's 296 degree candidates are: Elizabeth A. Veitch, Suzanne C. Rossell and Patricia W. McClure.

Miss Veitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Veitch, 34 Sweetbriar Road, is a botany major. This year she prepared an independent study project on the ecology of the Avery Cove Marsh in the Conn. Arboretum. A graduate of the Beard School in Orange, she was a member of the Connecticut College Chorus and Madrigal Group. She was also president of her dormitory, a judge on Honor Court, the judicial branch of student government, and head house junior aiding in freshman orientation.

Miss Rossell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rossell of 28 Club Drive, is a philosophy major. This year she was president of the Philosophy Club. but they are DIFFERENT!

Here's how you know if you have hard water.

- Do you have a ring around your bathtub?
- Use harsh detergents? Fabric softeners?
- Use packaged water conditioners? Bleaches?
- Do you wear rubber gloves to do dishes?
- Is your hair "dull" after you shampoo it?
- Is your skin dry and scaly after you bathe?

Discover the difference soft water can make throughout your home.

Three Bus Drivers Cited for Safety

Three Public Service bus drivers operating from the Summit garage were among 34 drivers honored by the company at a dinner last Wednesday at the Robin Hood Inn at Clifton. The men have operated busses for twenty years without an accidents. They were Nicholas DePalma of 183 Mountain avenue, Summit; Courtney Peer of Springfield and Albert Pike of 19 Bridge street, Chatham.

Registration Opens for Six-Week Tennis Instruction Program

Summit — Registrations are now being accepted by the Summit Board of Recreation for a six-week program of tennis instruction for Summit boys and girls in grades four through twelve.

The program will begin on Monday, June 26, at Memorial Field and Tatlock Field tennis courts. All persons living north of Springfield avenue will attend the clinic sessions at Tatlock Field. Those living south of Springfield avenue will attend the clinics at Memorial Field.

Classes will be arranged according to school, grade, and ability, after the registration forms have been received. A child's grade is determined as the grade he is presently completing or has just completed.

Each boy and girl will receive three hours of instruction a week, during the six-week period.

At the program's conclusion, a series of tournaments will be conducted for all children who have participated in the clinic sessions.

The deadline for registration is Wednesday, June 14. Registration forms are available at the Memorial Field Office, Tatlock Field, or at the Edison Recreation Center.

Local Resident Named to Board Of Hudson Bank

Kingsbury S. Nickerson, president of The First National Bank of Jersey City, has announced that the board of directors at its meeting last week elected Arch Blickenstaff, of 86 New England avenue, executive vice president of Continental Insurance Companies, to the board of directors of the bank.

Mr. Blickenstaff, a native of Quinter, Kan., received a B.S. degree from McPherson College, McPherson, Kan. He began his insurance career in 1935 with a local agency in Hutchinson, Kan.

He joined Continental in 1941 as a special agent in Kansas, later serving as a state agent in Oklahoma and New Mexico. In 1950 he was appointed a secretary at Chicago, and in 1958 a Vice President. Three years later he transferred to Newark, and in 1962 was named vice-president and manager. Mr. Blickenstaff was appointed executive vice president in 1966.

Mr. Blickenstaff's affiliations include: member of board of trustees and executive committee, New Jersey State Safety Council; member of board of trustees, Newark Safety Council.

Arch Blickenstaff

Trustees, United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson; honorary vice chairman and member of board of trustees, Newark Three Hundredth Anniversary Corporation.

A member of the boards of trustees of the Greater Newark Hospital Development Fund and the United Hospitals of Newark, he also serves as chairman of the regional executive committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.
