Contributions to the 21st annual Summit Herald Fresh Air Fund passed the $500 mark this week when new gifts as of Tuesday reached $140.

Donations now total $510.08. At this time last year when the campaign was in its third week, contributions were at the $572 mark.

Gifts received this week included $50 donations each from the Fortnightly Club and Rotary Club, and a $20 contribution from Mrs. Hans Sitarz. There was also an anonymous gift of $10, and a $5 donation from Katherine L. Mallaby as well as another $5 gift from an anonymous donor which was signed "In Loving Memory."

Since its beginning in 1949, the Summit Herald Fresh Air Fund has provided over 2,200 local boys and girls with two-week vacations at nearby Scout and Y camps. Contributions during the last 20 years have reached over $51,000.

The Fund operates on a non-profit basis and makes no solicitations nor conducts any mail appeal. There are no administrative expenses and all money received goes directly to paying camping expenses.

Neighborhood Council Pre-School to Expand

The Junior League has made it possible for the Summit Neighborhood Council Pre-School Program to expand its sessions for 3 and 4-year-olds beginning in the Fall of 1969. A $33,600 grant for a three-year period will allow the school to provide four classes for 4-year-olds and two for 3-year-olds each week. The plan calls for three paid professional teachers and three paid assistants, with a corps of volunteers as aides.

The Pre-School, which is held at St. John's Lutheran Church is currently operating under the leadership of Mrs. James Hughes of Chatham and Mrs. D. C. Foreman of Summit, with additional volunteers assisting. Mrs. Peter Haviland of Summit is coordinator of volunteers and transportation. There are at present two classes for 4-year-olds and one for 3-year-olds each week.

Purpose of the Pre-School Program is to provide an educational opportunity for Neighborhood Council youngsters, preparing them for entrance into the Summit Public School system. A nursery program is followed, with arts and crafts activities, educational trips, music, and free play periods.

In the expanded program, a board of directors will administer the school. The Board will be composed of Maura and Ferruccio Giannini of Countryside will be featured soloists in the Mozart "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Viola and Orchestra" to be performed at the "Pops" Concert of the Summit Symphony Orchestra to be presented Wednesday evening, May 21, in the senior high school auditorium at 8:15 p.m. under the baton of Harry S. Hannaford.

A. Maura Giannini is a sophomore at Hartt School of Music in Hartford studying violin under Raphael Bronstien of the staffs of Manhattan School of Music and the Hartt School. F. Ferruccio Giannini, jr., is a sophomore student at Juilliard School of Music studying viola under Walter Trampler of the Juilliard staff.

Both Maura and Ferruccio have formerly studied at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem and both have participated in that school's Siena, Italy, Summer Session. Both have been members of the Winston-Salem Symphony as well as numerous other orchestras in that area. Mr. Ferruccio has had extensive experience playing in orchestras in this area, while Maura has had two summers at the Brevard Music Center in North Carolina as well as a summer at Guilford Music Center also in North Carolina. Both have made solo appearances with various youth concerts in Somerset Hills and surrounding towns. With their father, who was a cellist before becoming a physician, they have appeared in the Somerset Hills area, Mountain Lakes and Parsippany in string trio works.

The complete program for the concert is as follows:

Schedule Is Revised For Local Court

The municipal court schedule has been revised by Judge J. Alan Drummond and will go into effect starting the first week in June.

Under the present Schedule set by former Judge Albert H. Bierman, sessions are held every Wednesday morning and two Thursday evenings a month, with night court restricted to uncontested cases. This, in effect, means that all contested cases - criminal, disorderly persons violations or motor vehicle - are tried on Wednesdays.

According to Judge Drummond, he has received complaints from citizens and members of the legal profession that it is inconvenient and sometimes costly to defend a case during the day. The judge's recommendation is a combination of day and night court, with day sessions utilized primarily for the criminal calendar and for lengthy motor vehicle trials and night court for contested motor vehicle cases other than driving while under the influence and emergency criminal matters.

The new schedule, which has been approved by the City Prosecutor, Police Chief and Common Council, is: first and third Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and second and fourth Thursdays at 7 p.m.

Council Announces Summer Schedule

Common Council announced this week that its summer schedule would include one public meeting in July and one in August.

The summer schedule includes a meeting on Tuesday, July 8 and on Tuesday, August 5. The September meetings will be held on Tuesday September 9 and September 23. All meetings will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Panelists Rap Small Turnout

Two speakers criticized what they termed "an apathetically small turnout" when the New Jersey Council of Churches sponsored the first of two "urban crisis panels" last Wednesday night to awaken suburban whites to the plight of the urban black. Only 59 persons were on hand at the meeting held in the YWCA.

One of the panel members, Joseph Price, a vice-president of the United Community Corp., a Newark antipoverty group, said that "The people who should be here are probably home watching television." He asserted that he was not angry, but "damn mad."

In order to discuss specific projects in which local residents could help out in Newark, an action meeting has been tentatively scheduled for May 21 at Christ Church. Wednesday's meeting was sponsored by nine churches and synagogues in the Summit Area.

Five Hurt In Pair of Car Mishaps

The city's road injury toll continued to increase this week when five persons were injured in two accidents.

On Friday four persons were injured in a two-car crash at Broad and Maple streets. Police identified the injured as Lynda A. Bartsch, 27, of 851 Springfield avenue, driver of one car, who suffered head abrasions; and three passengers in the car, Debra Bartsch, 19 months, contusions of the skull; Margaret Mette, 24, also of 851 Springfield avenue, hip and neck injuries, whom police said was four months pregnant; and Douglas Mette, 2, an emotional reaction to the crash. Driver of the second car was Helen Supple, 65, of 50 Linden place.

Mrs. Bartsch told police

Council Is Against Proposed Legislation

A resolution opposing proposed Federal legislation that would terminate the income tax free status of interest on municipal bonds has been adopted by Common Council. The governing body said the cost of borrowing capital funds would be increased and costs of local government would accelerate, thereby adversely affecting Summit taxpayers.

Copies of the resolution have been sent to all senators and congressmen from the state. The council is encouraging citizens to write to their congressman concerning the proposal.

GOP Aspirants Air Taxes, Recreation Areas Of Concern

Matthies

GOP aspirant for nomination to a Ward 1 seat on the governing body Arnold C. Matthies, in a discussion this week concerning recreation, stated he favors a municipal swimming pool under a self-financing plan.

The candidate commented:

"Among the features of Summit which make it an ideal place to live, work, and play are the variety and excellence of its recreational opportunities: They include programs for mental recreation and relaxation - such as our free public library and the lectures of Athenaeum which provide opinions on timely subjects, opportunities for viewing and

McGiffin

An extensive study and analysis of municipal expenditures was pledged this week by N. Hamilton McGiffin jr., one of the candidates in the three-way contest for the Common Council, Ward 1, nomination.

McGiffin stated:

"Most of us agree that Summit is a desirable residential community. Our fine community services are possible because concerned citizens have recognized and responded to the need for active participation in the function of each organization.

"Council, too, must recognize and respond to suggested improvements which aim to benefit the residents it represents. These

Perlet

Harry Perlet, a Republican candidate for nomination for a Ward 1 Common Council post, this week listed what he believes are the five major "areas of concern facing Summit today." He also took issue with statements made last week by his two opponents in the Primary race.

Said Perlet:

"I wish I could agree with the views expressed by one of the candidates that all is well in Summit and will continue to be so. If any one really believes this he either doesn't know or doesn't recognize the problems Summit faces. In a letter which I have just this week sent out to several of my supporters I have outlined what I believe to be

HUD Funds May be On Way For Glenwood Place Construction

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has tentatively approved the Glenwood place site for the construction of a 40-unit low-rent apartment complex. The federal approval paved the way for a series of pre-construction planning resolutions where were adopted by the Housing Authority Tuesday night.

The Authority approved the signing of contracts with Kuhn and Drake Associates, Summit architects, for the completion of plans and specifications for the complex; with the Porter Company, Ltd., of Summit for property appraisals in the area, and with Edwin Dotten, the board's attorney, for purchase negotiations with the owners of business properties in the Glenwood place area.

Chairman Edward S. Olcott pointed out that the Authority had the power to condemn properties if purchase negotiations failed. He added that the titles to such properties would be transferred to the Authority at the time of condemnation, to avoid delay.

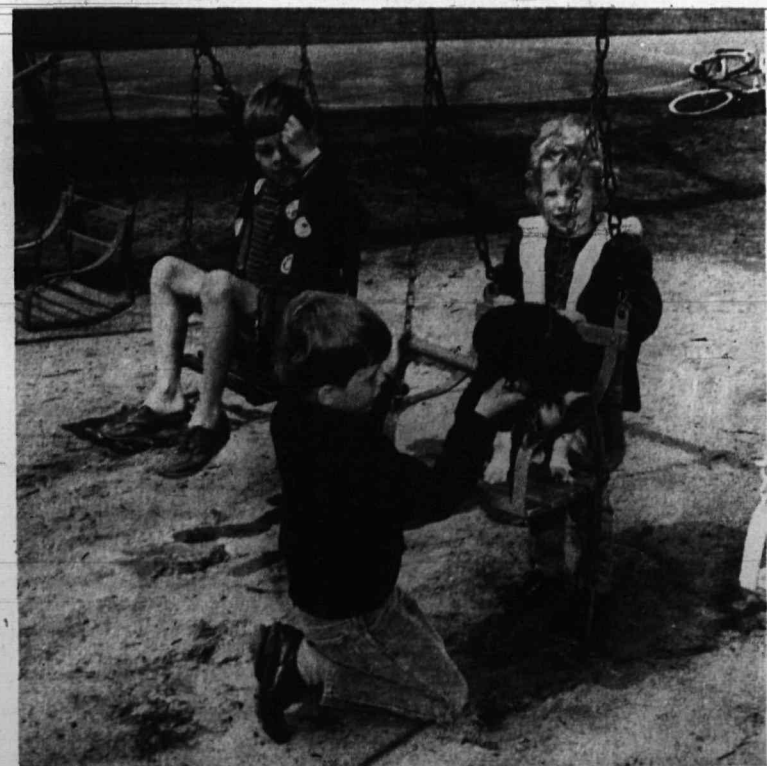

More than 50 persons attended the meeting, and the discussion revolved around figures. The discourse took off on a lengthy mathematical tangent when residents questioned a Newark Evening News story which implied that federal funds for the project could run as high as $18,000 per unit.

In order to describe last Tuesday night's meeting, one must consider this conveniently invented axiom: As the number of variables increase, it becomes increasingly difficult to arrive at an answer that is invariably correct.

The first variable is the $18,000 from the Newark News story which, in part, quoted Mr. Pine as saying: "A portion of the subscribed funds for the Glenwood place practicing the arts — such as our community playhouse and the art center, and a variety of physical recreation and social activities. The sponsors include civic organizations, charity institutions, schools, churches, and the municipality as represented by the Library Board of Trustees and the Board of Recreation.

"I shall discuss the programs sponsored by the Board of Recreation because we face a major decision. Should Summit have a municipal swimming pool? If the answer is yes the next important question is how it should be financed.

"Before giving my views on these questions it appears worthwhile to summarize where we stand relative to physical recreation programs. The great variety of, and intensive participation in, the intensive participation in these activities can be readily annual reports of the Board of Recreation. The total operating cost of the program in 1968 was $127,000 which is only $5 for each resident. One of our priceless heritages is the large area of open public parks which the early planners of our City set aside for recreation and which make these programs possible. Most of our sports are free to all citizens. Exceptions are tennis, for which a small fee is charged, and golf, where the income from annual and daily greens fees resulted in a profit in 1968.

"There are many obvious reasons why the City should provide opportunities for physical and social recreation. The objectives are to make Summit a pleasant place in which to live and to build community spirit.

"It has been proposed that Summit consider the construction of a municipal swimming pool. A logical question is Why should the City provide such a service? Some of the reasons are:
"1. In answer to a questionnaire, about 1,200 families indicated they would join even if an annual fee were charged. This response indicates more potential participation than any other activity which Summit now has or plans.
"2. Private enterprise would not be able to secure the land or the necessary zoning variances to provide a pool facility for this large number of residents.

"3. A swimming pool does meet the objectives of a community recreation program, and the experience of other communities supports this opinion.
"While I believe strongly that a municipal swimming pool would be an asset to our community, I believe just as strongly that it must be self-supporting. Fees must be established which will cover operating costs plus interest and amortization of the capital which will be required. This approach has been successful in other communities.
"Why should we charge fees to cover costs of swimming when other recreational programs have no or only nominal fees? The main reason is that the cost is relatively high and, therefore, the burden upon taxpayers who do not use the facilities would be significant if it were to be financed entirely by taxation. I believe we all prefer to pay for services which we actually use unless there are some overriding reasons such as the public interest. The fees for use of a swimming pool would be reasonable to those who use it but the cost of building and operating a free swimming pool would be an unreasonable burden upon those who do not use it.

concur, that a plan can be and should be developed so that deserving citizens who cannot afford the fee for a full season will be able to use the pool.
"Finally, while I favor a municipal swimming pool for Summit under a self-financing plan which will not be a burden upon the taxpayers, this proposal must be considered along with other community needs such as the alleviation of the parking problem and revised plans for garbage disposal. The final decision should not be made until all of our needs have been carefully analyzed and costs, methods of financing, and the effects upon the community and cost to the taxpayers assessed. In other words, we must carefully evaluate and compare benefits and costs. Hopefully, we shall be able to do everything which is necessary. I am sure that our Common Council and the committees working on these problems have this objective in mind."

Boy, Under Dog Attack, Is Aided By Passing Driver

A Chatham man who was driving through town last Wednesday turned out to be a hero by coming to the aid of a young boy who was being attacked by a dog.

Police reported that Stanley Anderson of 707 Fairmount avenue noticed a large retriever attacking a youngster in the vicinity of Memorial Field. He jumped out of the auto without regard for his own safety pulled the animal off the boy, identified by the police as Tom Watson, 14, of 135 Pine Grove avenue.

The dog then turned on Anderson who attempted to keep it at bay until the owner arrived. Tom suffered bites of the back and arms and police said he would have sustained more serious injury had it not been for Anderson's courageous action.

Anderson was treated at Overlook Hospital for 14 puncture wounds inflicted by the animal. He told police, "I've never been scared by any dog in my life. When I saw this one attacking the boy, my only thought was to get him away."

Chorale to Offer Difficult 16th Century Motet

The Summit Chorale will present a spring concert Sunday May 25, at 8 pm at the Church Of St. Rose Of Lima, Millburn.

Featured will be a performance of the 40-part motet of Thomas Tallis, "Spem In Alium Nupquam Habui," written for eight individual choirs.

The motet was written in the 16th century, and has had only occasional performances since that time. In the 1920's the Morely College Choir, England transcribed the vocal parts, and produced a complete and unified manuscript and gave the first performance of which there is actual record. Until this time the motet was available only in the individual part scores, as it was originally written by Tallis. The Oxford University Press published the score, which is about two feet high and contains all 40 lines of singing on each page.

WILL SING TOMORROW-The Madrigal Singers will present a spring concert for the benefit of the city's social service agencies tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in Lile Hall at Christ Church. The program, directed by Louise Goucher of Short Hills, will include madrigals and motets sung by the 12-voice ensemble and baroque instrumental music for flute, French horn, recorder and harpsichord. Summit residents who are members are Mrs. John Galt, Robert Ehrbar and Patrick Clynes. Tickets, at $1, will be available at the door.

YMCA Names Summer Day Camp Staff

Two staff persons and eleven counselors from the Summit Area have been selected for the YMCA's boys' and girls' day camps for the coming summer season. Dwight H. Munson of Summit, a U.S. Marine Corps Vietnam veteran, will be aquatic director, and Miss Patricia Fay of Livingston, a teacher at Brayton School, will be in charge of arts and crafts.

Counselors for Camp Cannundus for boys grades 2-7 are, from Summit: William Austin and David Austin, University of the South; Raymond T. Dillon, Boston College; and Wesley W. Blatchford. Also Steve Parkinson of Chatham, Tennessee Wesleyan; and Mark Hennebeck of Short Hills, Millburn High School graduate. All are veteran Cannundus counselors.

Counselors for Camp Triangle for girls, grades 2-7, are Miss Janet Swenson of Summit, Waynesburg College; Mrs. Linda Lee Rodenberg of Madison, a graduate of Montclair State College; and Miss Leslie Keyser, New Providence High School graduate.

David R. Cotten of the YMCA professional staff is day camp director, assisted by William Liebiez of Union, a graduate of Midwestern University and a teacher at Lincoln School in Summit returning to Cannundus for his sixth year, and Miss Linda Biederman of New Providence formerly of the YMCA physical education staff and a senior counselor of camp and a graduate of Montclair State College.

Camps operate in two-week periods beginning June 30 from 9:00 AM-4:30 PM, Monday thru Friday. Interested campers are urged to register now while there are still some openings in all periods.

Tepper's

As far as it is known, no more than ten performances of the Tallis motet have ever been given in America. Six of these were under the direction of Ralph Hunter. The motet is difficult to learn and so rarely heard that, for the benefit of choir and audience alike, Mr. Hunter has, on several occasions, conducted it twice on the same program.

The performance of the work requires that the Chorale be divided into eight individual choirs, spread the length and breadth of the hall, forming a circle of sound. The Church Of St. Rose Of Lima adds particular interest to the concert for the singers will also be situated in various balconies. The progression of sound up and down as well as around the church lends to the music a many-dimensional stereophonic effect, with the audience sitting in the center of the sound.

Also programmed are motets of Dufay, Gabrieli, Bassano, and Benevoli for multiple choirs and brass instruments. Tickets for the concert can be obtained by writing Box 265, Summit, and will also be available at the door. Admission is $2.50 for adults and .51 for students.

That's all, folks.

One thing you don't get when you buy a new Volkswagen.

Confused. Because all you get to choose from are six different Volkswagens. Instead of 30 or 40 look-alike models some other car makers make.

So it's a lot easier to pick out a VW. And a lot more comforting. You don't have to worry about your VW going out of style next year. Or turning out to be last year's dud cleverly disguised as this year's stud.

Those six VWs are the very same ones we've been making (and improving) for years. Starting with our little car, The VW Beetle. And our sports car, The VW Karmann Ghia. And our luxury car, The VW Fastback. And our big car, The VW Squareback.

And our great big car, The VW Station Wagon. And our chuck wagon, The VW Camptable. And that's all, folks.

Library to Exhibit Art Work Of Runnells Hospital Patients

Patients at John E. Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights, are currently exhibiting their work in art and crafts at the Summit and Berkeley Heights Public Libraries. The exhibit is in conjunction with the recognition of May as National Senior-Citizens Month, and the week of May 12 which is American Hospital Week. Patients of the hospital will be at the Summit Public Library on May 23 and 26 at 10 a.m. to see their work on display. The pictures have been created at weekly art sessions which are operated by volunteers from the surrounding area. The art program was started three years ago as a project of the Junior League and has since proven itself to be a valuable part of the hospital's recreational activities. The crafts displayed have been made in the ceramic and occupational therapy shops which are part of the para-medical services provided within the institution. The patients who participate in these activities are afflicted with long chronic illnesses such as strokes, rheumatoid arthritis, diabetes, blindness and arterial sclerosis.

On Sunday, June 15, from 1 to 5 p.m. an outdoor art show and sale will be held at the hospital. The show is sponsored by the hospital and everyone is invited to attend. Anyone interested in assisting with the art program should contact Doris Grow, head of volunteers at the hospital.

Kent Place Student Among Art Winners

On the program "Around The Corner"

A regular feature of CBS Channel 2 on Sunday, May 18, between 8 and 9:30 a.m., her painting will be displayed and discussed along with several other winners. Her art instructor is Mrs. Ilse Chambers of the Kent Place Academy.

Good clean living starts in the basement.

Switch to flameless electric heat. Your entire house will stay cleaner with no products of combustion being released into the air.

No other type of heating offers you so many choices, either.

You can bring your existing hot water system smack up to date with an electric boiler. If you have a hot air system, modernize with an electric furnace. Or for year round comfort, with an electric heat pump which provides heating and cooling from a single unit. If you prefer the personal comfort of room-by-room temperature control, one of the electric resistance heating methods will give it to you.

The cost? A lot less than you think.

Our free electric heating booklet will give you all the facts. Write to "Heating," P.O. Box 55, Morristown, N.J. 07960. Or ask the dealer displaying the Reddy Kilowatt emblem. He's an expert.

Area Girls Have Opportunity This Summer to Learn by Doing

An opportunity to learn by doing exists for girls of the Summit-New Providence area this summer. Mrs. James Audley, district chairman for girl scouts has announced that applications are now being accepted for the two camps operated by the Girl Scout Council of Greater Essex - Camp Kalmia at Blairstown, and Camp Madeleine Mulford at Dingman's Ferry, Pa., as well as Camp Eagle Island at Saranac Lake, N.Y. For those parents and children who are interested in the camps, an open house will be held next Sunday, at Camps Kalmia and Madeleine Mulford from 10 AM to 4 PM. If it isn't possible for parents to see the camps, they are urged to attend a brief camping meeting on Tuesday, May 20 at 8 PM at the Presbyterian Church, New Providence. At that time, Mrs. Audley will introduce the camp directors to the parents and children - both Scouts and non-Scouts are welcome at the camps.

Slide Showing
Mrs. A. O. Ashman of Summit and Mrs. A. C. Mathews of New Providence, neighborhood chairmen from their respective towns will show slides of the three camps to give prospective campers a better idea of the facilities that are available. At the meeting, applications will be ready and questions about "what to bring" to camp will be answered. Girl Scout Camps are staffed by experienced counselors and an American Red Cross Water Safety Instructor is in charge of all waterfront activities at each camp. Camps are accredited by the American Camping Association and a staff nurse is in attendance at every Girl Scout camp.

Skills Developed
By spending a session at one of the camps, a girl will have a unique chance to develop outdoor skills, take part in aquatics, campcraft, outdoor theater and wilderness. Scouting values are stressed in an effort to develop responsible citizens and leaders for tomorrow. Facilities at the camps, set in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains Camp Kalmia features a spring-fed lake. It can accept 115 campers and has a staff of 33. The Brownie unit is housed in cabins and their program includes short nature hikes, simple cookouts, crafts and dramatics. Supervised swimming and boating are offered. Juniors and Cadettes plan programs emphasizing out door skills to help work toward proficiency badges, advanced cookouts, hikes, overnights and swimming and boating.

Camp Madeleine Mulford accommodates juniors, Cadettes and seniors on a 500 acre campsite with a 60-acre lake. A total of 150 campers are well cared for by a staff of 40. Tents are on platforms. Outdoor skills are planned by the campers themselves, leading to Junior and Cadette proficiency badges and Senior Trailblazer projects. Conservation is stressed, and qualified campers take advantage of back-packing hikes, canoe trips on the Delaware and overnights at sites farther afield.

Eagle Island on Saranac Lake is a 30-acre island with a sand beach for 166 campers with a staff of 45. The camp features a peeled log lodge, dining hall, boathouse and Adirondacks tent units overlooking the water. Water tests are given along with a progression of swimming tests. Canoeing and sailing are offered for those qualified. Girls with previous sailing experience may work toward the Eagle Island "Skipper" rating. Junior and Senior lifesaving badges may be earned. Highly qualified swimmers may have an opportunity for a basic introduction to water skiing, snorkeling and scuba diving. A two-week session at each of the above camps is only $85, plus transportation for Greater Essex girl scouts and $95, plus transportation for non-Scouts and out-of-council girls.

Mrs. Audley urges that all Summit-New Providence parents who are interested in giving their daughters a chance to live and work with others should attend the meeting on May 20 at the New Providence Presbyterian Church.

SUMMIT HERALD

Book of Poems and Vignettes By Local Woman is Published

"I Want to be real," the first collection of poems and prose vignettes, by Anna Louise Arnott of 15 Stony Hill court, has recently been published by Vantage Press of New York. At the outset, it should be stated clearly that Mr. Arnott, wife, mother, and community worker, has made an auspicious start and one hopes that another collection will follow shortly.

The tone of the collection is set fairly early in the introduction, when Mrs. Arnott tells us that if one is an acquaintance of hers, she is "not satisfied to balance a tea-cup in your livingroom and discuss the latest psychological investigation of delinquency." Rather, she wants "to find a part of you that is myself." In these days of "people speaking without hearing," as the song "sounds of Silence" notes, this aim for a relationship is a lofty one, and for me, at least, a comforting one.

Reminiscent in mood and feeling of many works by Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Mrs. Arnott's poems and prose pieces are noteworthy in their appeal to all five senses. She even admonishes us in one poem that "Small things are here. Feel, taste, smell, see; hear them. Praise them. For, standing near, so near, Within the frame of your shadow, is one who can/Not see or feel or hear."

Her subject matter, drawn from every-day experience, is simple and is put into perspective by Mrs. Arnott's sparse, vivid style. It ranges from a philosophical comparison of "A Stone and I" or "Why I Live" - "Then there/Are cries/From other lives. I Live To give." - to several nature poems written about all the seasons (a solitary walk on the beach in summer, images of a street scene in the rain, etc.) or a "Thank-You Note to a New-born Baby" who makes her feel again.

Some of the poems, which have been written over a 21-year span, have appeared in several magazines, including the Newark News Sunday Magazine Section and numerous other publications.

As I said before, Mrs. Arnott's collection is lovely and touching in its simplicity. This simplicity does not deter her, however, from creating the perfect image of what she is trying to convey in each work.

In 1806, William Wordsworth bemoaned the fact that "The world is too much with us," ... "Little we see in Nature that is our." How even more true that is today, with our alienated, automated, and uncommitted mass society. Although this collection is a small one, Mrs. Arnott can help us all learn to "Be Real" if we allow ourselves the freedom to let go and feel, taste, smell, hear, touch again.

Mrs. Arnott, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, has been a teacher of English. She lives in Summit with her husband, David, and her daughter. Her son, who is married, teaches school in Wisconsin. Mrs. Arnott is now tutoring adults in East Harlem and works with children in Summit, particularly at the Neighborhood Center. "I Want to be Real" is available at local bookshops, as well as from the Vantage Press, 120 West 31st Street, New York, New York 10001.

An Urgent Need

With the approach of summer and the possible decline in the number of cars entering town because of vacations, long weekends and lawn mowing, it is hoped that more than serious consideration be given now toward alleviating the business section's parking problems before the start of the brand new shopping season in late August.

Although we hope that shoppers continue to pour into Summit throughout summer, it is more than likely that the mere presence of hot weather will discourage the kind of shopping so evident now. It is during this hiatus that we hope a parking alleviation program can get off the ground to prepare for the autumn and winter shopper coming into town.

For several months now the idea of a multi-level parking garage has been bounced around between backers of the project, the Chamber of Commerce, and Common Council, possible holder of the purse strings. We know that much dialogue has taken place between the two bodies, but as yet we have seen no visible evidence that anything much is being done.

When Reason Prevails

The opening of dialogues between students, faculty and administration has apparently opened the door toward a better understanding among all at Summit High School. For this, Summit should be justly proud and shows that when reason prevails, much can be accomplished.

There is probably no school in this nation today where unrest to some degree has not resulted in strained relations between administration-faculty and students. At times such unrest can provide students with the excuse to erupt into disorder. This we read about daily. At Summit High School however, where unrest was quite apparent, a small group of students took it upon themselves to stage an orderly walkout in April to bring to public attention their concern. There was no confrontation, no wild disorder, no hooliganism and no attempt to close down the school. The students apparently had legitimate concerns and the only way they could bring them to the attention of those concerned was to stage the April 15 incident, which, to us, may have been a blessing

Since the city's business district plays an important economic role in the affairs of Summit, adequate parking should be high on the list of priorities in future city programs. Without such parking, shoppers will be discouraged to enter town, and the local merchant will suffer, which in turn could affect the town's economic future.

It is therefore important that definite plans be made now to solve our parking problems and that they be implemented as soon as possible. We know that a multi-level garage in the center of town could never be constructed in time to meet the needs come next autumn and winter, but we would hope that a bulldozer could at least start some work toward completion of this very important project.

With our mobile society the way it is today, shoppers can pick and choose where to make their purchases, and if Summit cannot provide means for parking cars, our own shopping areas will be adversely affected. This we cannot permit to happen. The time to take immediate action on this growing problem is now.

in disguise, for the walkout resulted in a day-long series of discussions that has opened the way for a better understanding among all.

We have always been of the opinion that Summit High is a top notch school where a combination of teacher-administrator and student has pooled resources to maintain excellence. However, there is always room for improvement and Summit High is apparently in the throes of such reassessment now. To us this is a healthy sign and should be encouraged. We would hope that as a result of Discussion Day last April 29, the lines of communications will be kept open at all times and that there be a genuine attempt by all concerned to solve the differences that came to a head on April 15.

Only through an approach that utilizes reason can differences be resolved. There is no place for heated emotionalism when our educational processes are at stake. Apparently, those at Summit High School have recognized this. And this is to our benefit.

Alma Mater in Peril

Private colleges and schools have other troubles than unruly students. They also have a money problem.

A Conference on the Future of the Private University, recently concluded at Washington with educators from 125 institutions meeting at Georgetown University to discuss their problems with government officials and Congress.

The great private universities and many of the smaller liberal arts colleges are durable, no doubt about that. Harvard has existed for 330 years. But many of the 1,400 independent colleges and universities are skating on thin financial ice and their outlook is bleak.

The chancellor of New York University said that by 1980 there will be only "several score" left with any vitality at all. The rest, he believes, will be absorbed into state systems.

Thus there is gloom in the halls of academe. Private institutions have been forced to pass on more and more of the burden of rising costs to students. It costs today twice as much to attend a private college or university as it does to attend a state school.

It is estimated that the rock-bottom cost of educating a son or daughter in a good private college is $3,500 a year. Most parents will laugh heartily at that figure and set it higher.

Now comes the question. Will public funds for the general expenses of private colleges destroy the private character of the school? Some educators are willing to take a chance. Some prefer to close their doors - as they may have to.

In 1900 about 60 per cent of the young who went to college attended a private institution. Today this figure had dropped to 29 per cent.

Friends of the private colleges say that it will be cheaper for the taxpayer to rescue them with public money rather than have them close their doors. A legislative committee in Oregon says that the state saves $1,000 for every student educated in a private rather than a public institution.

Backs Matthies

Editor, Summit Herald:

Mr. Arnold Matthies would represent Ward I very capably as a member of the Common Council of the City of Summit. He is a highly successful businessman, a good old-fashioned father, and a concerned and compassionate contributor to his neighborhood and community.

Supplementing these qualities is a pragmatic but imaginative approach to the problems of the day.

The Matthies have been our friends for more than 15 years. Their son and daughter have been friends and classmates of our son and daughter during this time. Our paths, thus, have crossed repeatedly in the diverse and complex activities of the Summit community.

After eight years experience in Summit Municipal and Civic activities, I can say, without reservation, that Mr. Arnold Matthies has the mature qualities of judgement and efficiency that will lead our fine City to even better days ahead. I urge his nomination as Republican candidate for Ward I Councilman.

Council Comment

COUNCIL COMMITTEES

The Work of the Common Council is carried out by its standing committees. The first committees to be appointed by the Council at its meeting on April 18, 1899 were Committees on Finance, Law and Ordinance, Streets and Grading and Water and Light, Drainage and Sewers, and Fire and Police. At this same meeting the following rule governing the committees was adopted:

"All Communications to the Council shall be presented in writing and either acted upon or referred to a committee. In case any person desires to be heard upon any matter before the Council, the said matter shall be referred to a committee before whom such person may appear and be heard and on which hearing the clerk shall give due notice."

On January 1, 1969, 70 years later, the Common Council adopted the following rule:

"All communications to the Common Council shall be presented in writing and referred to the proper Committee and department head for report and recommendation."

The committee system which was initiated by the founding fathers in 1899 has been found to be the most effective means of dividing the work of governmental agencies not only on the local but also on the county, state and federal levels. It enables a small group of individuals to devote adequate time to a particular problem and arrive at a recommendation which is then acted upon after discussion by the entire governing body.

Over the years, additional committees were formed from time to time to meet particular needs. Immediately after World War 2, a Veterans Housing Committee was appointed to erect, maintain and eventually demolish temporary residences for returning veterans and their families. After much Committee discussion, investigation and effort, the Council decided to locate the veterans houses in different spots throughout the City with the major unit located on the city park lands at the intersection of Broad street and Summit avenue.

During World War 2 a Committee on Defense was appointed which functioned during the war and was concerned with paper drives, blackouts and civil defense drills. This Committee ceased to exist after the War but in 1951 by State directive a Civil Defense Council was organized in view of the unsettled world conditions.

In 1932, the problem of collection of ashes, garbage and refuse warranted the appointment of a Council Committee to handle the problems brought about by the use of the city disposal area and city incinerator. The functions of this Committee were eventually absorbed by the Public Works Committee which was given responsibility for all matters under the supervision of the City Engineer.

In 1934, as a result of the increasing welfare expenditures after and during the depression years, a standing Council committee, which still exists called the Public Welfare Committee was appointed to supervise and coordinate the functions and responsibilities of the Council and the Overseer of the Poor and the Welfare Board. Today the title of the Overseer has been changed to Director of Welfare and the Welfare Board to the Local Assistance Board but their respective functions have not changed. The Chairman or a member of the Public Welfare Committee of the Council is appointed as a member of the Local Assistance Board.

As was stated in a previous Comment the functions of the Council Standing Committee are to investigate problems referred to them by the Council, to meet with the persons affected and to recommend to the Council what action should be taken. The Committees have no authority to act or to commit the Council. The ultimate responsibility rests with the entire Council who must vote on the action to be taken. If the majority is in agreement, the Committee's recommendation is approved.

Next week's comment will discuss the detailed operations of the present Council Committees and some of the matters which are now under study and consideration.

Looking Backward

Fifty Years Ago

The Board of Education maintained that unless steps were taken soon for construction of a new high school, education in the city would suffer "materially."

The Board of Health passed up the possibility of initiating municipal collection of garbage, trash and ashes, claiming it was the responsibility of Common Council to make the decision.

The new YMCA camp was set up at Wawayanda, near Andover in Sussex County.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Former Governor Charles Edison was principal speaker at the Centennial dinner of the YMCA.

Charles Scheck was named president of the Lions Club. Victory gardeners were advised as to how to keep rabbits out of their gardens.

Ten Years Ago

Howard J. Wallis, Blackburn road, was named chairman of a committee formed to begin consolidation work on a united health fund plan.

The new wing at Overlook Hospital, under construction, was topped by a tree to become the highest point in Union County.

Burglars hit Jefferson school over the weekend making off with a portable radio from the main office.

Five Years Ago

Jesse Owens was named principal speaker for the annual Boosters' Club dinner.

The hearing about nurses' residences on Glenside avenue was bogged down in a traffic debate.

Reduced tickets to the World's Fair went on sale.

Ending on a Wailing Note!

The Athenaeum wound up its current season last Thursday night with one of the most remarkable programs ever offered in Summit.

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans, whose average player's age is about 70, gave a foot-stomping, hand-clapping performance that was truly fantastic.

There was no program, no written music, no repetition of slick pop-tunes. It was a free-wheeling, "blood-pounding", on the spot creation from what the program notes said was "grass root New Orleans music."

It was almost impossible to positively identify any one number, except perhaps for a tremendous arrangement of "Hello Dolly". Of course there were the classics, "St. Louis Blues," "Lonesome Mama Blues," "Over There," "The Saints Coming Marching In" and a low-down wailing, soulful rendition of "A Closer Walk With Thee". Other than these, the numbers played were a mixture of many classics, the arrangements probably never performed before since it was improvised on the spot.

The group playing in concert featured two of its top musicians, Billie and Debe Pierce on piano and trumpet. Billie, was once accompanist for the great Bessie Smith. In fact, her voice is quite similar to that one-time artist. Her husband, Joseph LaCroix "Dede" Pierce, was born in New Orleans and is now approximately 65 years old. Despite failing eyesight, he is considered one of the Delta's leading exponents of original New Orleans jazz.

Other members of the company include Jim

Robinson on the trombone, born in Louisiana in 1890, who looks as though he is going on 50; William Humphrey, Jr., at the clarinet, once a side man for King Oliver in Chicago and Josias Cie Frazier, drummer, born in 1904 in New Orleans.

Each member in his own (and her way) delivered what many people would consider unadulterated jazz... that wailing sound that is truly American born.

Thursday's concert, and it must be considered a concert, was as American as apple pie, performed by a group of musicians who are musicians in the true sense of the word. Athenaeum should be congratulated for bringing to Summit this unique and off-beat program. We hope they return in the near future. It was a performance not many will ever forget.

Roosevelt Students See Observatory

Third grade students from Roosevelt School, visited the Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford, last Thursday, as part of project "Operational Astronomy: the Earth and Beyond."

They heard a short lecture on astronomy and space sciences, including several demonstrations, and were shown how the 12½-inch reflector and six-inch refractor telescopes are used at the Sperry Observatory.

The 60 students were accompanied by Miss Mae Christensen and Mrs. Cecile

Kaplan, both teachers at Roosevelt School.

Off the Parkway

By Harry Tick

Rodney Hectacre was a second cousin on my father's side of the family. As a youngster, Rod had a strong penchant for digging. He knew his fossils and all about extinct creatures. While other grade school kids were frequenting pool rooms, Rod hung around such places as the Museum of Natural History.

Combining his natural drive with a zeal for higher education, he worked his way through college... digging graves. He was, of course, an archeology major, the first, in fact, to be graduated from Slippery Stone State Teachers College. He went there because it was good fossil country and as the tuition was relatively modest he didn't have to dig as hard as he would have had to at a place like Harvard, Princeton, or Pemona.

Upon graduation Rod found himself standing, degree in hand, in the middle of the depression. There weren't many job opportunities for inexperienced archeologists so he took the first — and only — job that came along.

Rod went to work as the most junior of editors for a trade magazine. This particular publication was especially edited for the operating management and thought leaders of municipal street maintenance departments. In Bodoni Bold, the masthead screamed its title; "Municipal Street Engineering and Maintenance Age." You may not recognize this as recently the title was changed to "Municipal Street Engineering and Maintenance."

Rod stayed with the book, progressed gradually to the editors chair, and constantly spent his vacation time and much money visiting archeological excavations throughout the world. He noticed that the fine digging skill and techniques for the unearthing of ruins and the maintenance of city streets were most similar.

Based on this observation in 1954, his magazine established an award for the outstanding maintenance job along a municipal street. It was named after Prof. Godfried L. Thomas who unearthed vast sections of the Appian Way in 1909.

Now I shouldn't share a confidence, but I know the winner of the Godfried L. Thomas award for 1969. It goes to the skilled men in Summit who so skillfully put in the new water line along Passaic avenue. With great care they took up the pot-holed pavements, put in the new line, and re-covered without losing a single pot-hole. With a set of contorted templates or plaster casts they couldn't have made a better restoration.

I think it's grand to see skill rewarded. Makes me kind of fill all up with pride.

Need for Child Care Centers Increasing, Local Group Told

The need for day care centers for children is growing in America. Not only poverty, desertion, broken homes, illness and minority problems have created an expanding need for society to provide care for very young children, but also the rapid rise of women's working outside the home as a national trend has increased the need for proper day care centers for very young children.

Myron Chevin, national expert on child welfare problems, spoke at a 15th anniversary luncheon of the local United Campaign agency, the Child Care Center Inc. last Monday. The audience, composed of 70 guests and friends of the center, heard of the importance of the role of day care centers in helping children.

They were reminded that a child care center can strengthen and support the role of the parents by helping them fulfill their vital role in the child's well being. They were reminded that institutional care, even foster homes, are considered less desirable than the natural family in the development of the child. They were reminded that mental health agencies, social workers, and physicians generally support the thesis that it is best to keep child and parent together in the early, most formative years.

But of course, in an increasing number of instances this could not be accomplished unless the parent could turn to a care center for help to assure adequate care and protection for her child when other demands divert her attention. Mr. Chevin, who is assistant executive director of the Child Welfare League of America, challenged the audience to consider an expanded concept of the role of the day care centers in community life.

On the one hand, he asserted the fact with supportive statistics of the rising trend of educated women to seek employment and use of their skills in the labor market, not only to increase the family standard of living and to contribute their skills to society, but also as a result of their increasing aspirations for self fulfillment. These are women, who a decade or two ago, might not have even considered stepping outside the home while their children were very young.

On the other hand, there are increasing numbers of situations where poor, illegitimate children have not been brought to these day care centers for care and protection. Mr. Chevin's implication was that these must be sought out and afforded the protection that they need. Reaching them not only with proper day care but also with the accompanying social services - in parent education, counseling and guidance to help resolve family problems, the opportunity for strengthening wholesome growth would increase immeasurably.

In order to meet the changing picture, Mr. Chevin suggested not only expansion of existing programs but the development of related programs such as "family day care centers" in which under the supervision of child care agencies, selected women would be hired to care for several children in their homes.

Forty Enrolled
Forty children of nursery school age presently receive year round all day care at the local Summit Child Care Center. Their parents pay on a sliding scale basis according to ability. The children represent a variety of social, ethnic and economic backgrounds. Twenty of these children come from single parent home situations.

Mr. Chevin suggested that there are probably many more who could benefit from this kind of care and that centers like this will be faced with the dilemma of choosing who needs it the most. He urged the audience to consider the community's expanded role in meeting the changing family structure in today's America, a fact which is getting increased, priority consideration from the Nixon administration, and which must be recognized by all who seek to help the most "vulnerable" in any society - the little children. He strongly advised dealing with the most grievous problems first in order to reverse the trends, and he suggested that there are many more problems that need attention than those already known.

Pre-School

Continued from Page 1 representatives of the Neighborhood Council; the Junior League of Summit, Inc.; FANS, an auxiliary of the Council; St. John's Lutheran Church; and the parents of children in the group. Mothers of the children will meet once a month during the school terms.

Requests for an admissions interview may be sent to the Neighborhood Council Community Center, 139 Broad street. Volunteers for the fall term are urgently needed. A large corps is desired, so that a one-to-one relationship may be maintained with the children.

A coffee for volunteers will be held on Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at St. John's Church. Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Haviland will explain the program and discuss the role of the volunteer. All women interested in serving as a volunteer or in learning more about the Pre-School are urged to attend.

HUD Funds

project may be used elsewhere by the authority... because the federal government is expected to pay most of the cost of the project - perhaps as much as $18,000 per unit. Now this caused some residents to wonder where their donations to the Glenwood Project Campaign would be spent, if there was to be enough money on hand from the government.

And, it caused several Glenwood place residents to ask the Authority "to finish off Glenwood Place first" and "why is everything taking so long?"

Ball Park Figure

When multiplied by 40 units, the $18,000 becomes $720,000. "But this is a ball park figure," commented Mr. Pine.

"I believe that this inference that Federal funds will be sufficient to fund this entire project is misleading," was a statement by Harry F. Perlet, an Authority member. In other words, it's another variable.

The next variable is the $600,000 pledged by Summit residents over a 3-year period. "Now we have to consider shrinkage: it might turn out to be $500,000," said Mr. Pine.

The estimated project cost of $900,000 ($960,000 to be precise) is the next variable. Although this estimate had a built-in inflation factor, Chairman Olcott announced that it could be considerably higher because of the recent trend of spiraling inflation.

So, with all these variables, no firm costs or breakdown showing the federal government's share or the share of private donations.

In his statement, Mr. Perlet said, "I personally feel that there will be a considerable gap between what the federal government will guarantee and the final cost of the project. My own estimate is somewhere in the neighborhood of $350,000 to $400,000."

But, if the "future remains bright" to quote Mr. Olcott, and the government's share totals $720,000, what happens to the surplus of private funds that will result?

The Authority says the extra private funds would be used to help finance the other 50 units in the original 90-unit plan that was approved by HUD. The first 40 units comprise the Glenwood Place project.

Where would these 50 units be located? asked residents. One woman suggested that the land which is now a municipal dump was the only tract of land large enough for a complex of this size.

The Authority said it was reviewing all available sites in Summit.

Other residents asked the Authority to reaffirm its position that it would only build "replacement housing, not low income housing for outsiders."

The Authority reaffirmed this position repeatedly. But it stipulated that "replacement housing did not necessarily mean that new housing units would be built on the same ground as existing dilapidated buildings."

A tentative timetable slates the start of construction at Glenwood place for September 1.

McGiffin

Continued from Page 1 suggestions may be to improve the standard of living or services, or to maintain a low-level tax rate without unreasonable sacrifices.

"Most taxpayers, including apartment-dwelling citizens whose rents are ultimately affected, would welcome relief from the inflationary tax trend of approximately 30% over the past three years. However, maintaining high standards without causing substantial tax increases is a goal we all would like to achieve.

"As your Council representative, I would enthusiastically apply myself to an extensive study and analysis, of expenditures and realistic review of our sources of income, with the hope that it would enable us to curb the increasing taxes in Summit. My experience with accounting and financial budgets, procedures and analysis should be valuable toward Council's responsibility for city budgets and the appropriation of city funds. More specifically, I feel that my election will help to replace the talents which will be lost when the Chairman of the Finance Committee retires from Council in December of this year."

Comment on Film

by Jon Plaut

This week I intend to analyze just two scenes, each from a film which has been circulating in our area. In different ways, I believe they demonstrate the art practiced by the director of a motion picture.

John Cassavettes' "Faces" is a sometimes brilliant, but uneven film. It has been reviewed in depth at an earlier time in this column.

There is one scene, however, involving a confrontation between an aging youth and four suburban women, which is as great and as telling as almost anything else placed on screen in recent years. We know little about the women when the sequence starts. They adopt the young man at a discotheque, and take him back to the living room of the lead female's home. Mostly, they just talk. He acts as a catalyst on each of the four.

An ordinary dramatic situation, you might say; but Cassavettes makes it something extra special by up close use of his camera, which penetrates into the depths of each of these women. By the time the scene is concluded, we know almost everything about each of these women's fears, frustrations, prides, and self conception. We know this because the camera searches out reactions, brief moments of thought recognition, and the valleys and peaks of emotion. Visually, the relationship of each of the women to the other three, to the fading youth, and to herself is bared.

What Cassavettes had accomplished in this sequence, can not be accomplished in any medium except film, I believe. What he establishes must be established through the instant operation of visual recognition, and only in motion pictures can the camera be personal and close enough to the subject to make us unimpeding eavesdroppers.

The second sequence demonstrating the same point is from Ingmar Bergman's "Shame", which again already has been discussed in depth in this column.

There is a scene in the earlier stages of "Shame", when the dramatic situation is still being established, that is quite pastoral. It involves a simple picnic between the husband and wife and is a scene in which their true feelings for the other, are demonstrated through a quiet and selfless conversation between them.

Again, this is quite an ordinary situation, and it is the art of Ingmar Bergman that makes this sequence so extra special. Bergman plays the whole scene with the camera trained on the wife's face, in close up. We see and understand instantly (visual digested) that this woman, beyond all the petty arguments and frustrations, loves and needs the peace and understanding her relationship with her husband

At the conclusion of this highly lyrical sequence, Bergman visually plunges the dagger of comparison home to the viewer by drawing his camera back and starkly and horrifyingly terminating that scene with the brutality of a napalm attack.

In a way, these two sequences, from very different types of films and very different types of directors, summarize the art of film. For there you have verite style, close up and long shots comparing in the classical montage technique, beautiful use of camera to play the words of one character against the feelings of another; and a sense of exposure of ourselves and our world which is at the heart of the narrative film making process.

Miklos Jancso's "The Red and The White" is an expertly made, well acted, depressing film about the Hungarian civil war. I must say that for all its aesthetic and technical craftsmanship, the film is peculiarly static and repetitive. Part of the difficulty for me is that it is impossible to tell who is who in the unending killing. I certainly didn't want to root for one side or the other, and it is clear that Jancso wishes to confuse the two (since one of his points is that the situation engenders compassion and brutality on both sides, but it would have been easier to follow and more compelling if I understand more of what was going on and who was doing it.

This Hungarian film seems in many ways comparable to what was found in the Polish cinema when that industry began to express its disenchantment with propaganda, a little over a decade ago.

The other night I saw for the first time Mervyn LeRoy's "I Am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang", which starred Paul Muni. I was struck, as others have been, with the similarity of "Cool Hand Luke" to it. There is an interesting fact of plot difference, however, between the two films that says something about the periods in which they were made.

In "Chain Gang", the convict is either innocent or only guilty in the sense that the desperate times forced a technical crime (stealing five dollars in a hamburger joint). This was palpable in 1932, when the film was made. In "Cool Hand Luke", the convict is guilty of an absurd crime against the corporate state (decapitating parking meters).

A good example of how plot motivation is effected by the times.

the five major areas of concern facing Summit today. These are briefly summarized as follows:

"1. Taxes: Since 1966 our tax rate has increased 30%. My philosophy is judicious spending of public funds by public officials. Increased expenditures in certain areas are no doubt in order as time goes by, but all waste and unnecessary functions must be eliminated.

"2. Law and Order: While Summit has just begun to feel some of the effects of this aspect of our present day society, I believe it must be met head-on and all resources of the community used to establish and maintain Summit as a town where the ordinary citizen is not afraid to walk at night. This is not directed against any minority group because experience shows that where law and order break down, minority groups are the ones who suffer most.

"3. Residential Community: We moved to Summit in 1951 because it was an outstanding residential community. Residential properties pay 70% of the taxes and residents are entitled to expect that Summit will retain its fine residential status.

"4. Community Affairs: We currently have pressures for a municipal parking lot, a municipal pool, a new city hall, and a tremendous problem in waste disposal. I can assure you that I will weigh each of these, giving very careful consideration to all pertinent factors.

"5. Representation: To more adequately represent the entire ward, I will appoint an advisory group consisting of a representative from each district to advise me at frequent intervals with respect to district problems.

"I had intended to deal with these separately over the coming weeks, but as the other candidates touched on two of these items last week, I will comment on these two items this week.

"With reference to taxes, one of the candidates finds solace in the cliché that our city has been well run in the past and our tax rate allegedly compares favorably with some other communities. I do have a problem understanding how he identifies with this past experience, but in any event as the saying goes What is past is prologue. The facts are that our tax rate has sky-rocketed from $5.54 to $7.25, or over 30%, since 1966. While this candidate may not know it, we are faced with unprecedented expenditures in the near future, some of which cannot be avoided but, many of which can be minimized through application of knowledge and experience.

"My participation in community affairs, including the presidency of the Summit Taxpayers Association, and my legal and engineering background, have equipped me with the first hand knowledge and experience needed to make the necessary critical analysis of these matters.

"While it may be true, as the other candidate has intimated, that the present council is composed principally of persons with certain common interests, it does not follow that arbitrary geographical representation will automatically insure better qualified or more understanding representation. I would hope that anyone

TO SPEAK IN SUMMIT—Republican gubernatorial candidate, State Senate President Frank X. McDermott of Westfield, will be the guest speaker at the May meeting of the Union County Teen-Age Republicans to be held in the Council Chambers at Summit City Hall on Sunday at 2 p.m. Senator McDermott will address himself to the issues facing New Jersey today and the role youth can play in help solving them. He will also discuss his sponsorship of the proposed referendum on 18-year old voting.

ected to the Council would endeavor to do what he thought best for the entire city and not just a particular area.

"However, I do believe that a councilman's actions should be based upon a full knowledge of the situation. With that in mind I propose that if elected I will appoint an advisory group consisting of representatives from each district in the ward to meet with me at frequent intervals to discuss problems peculiar to their district. Again I would stress that pure geographical representation without experience and background will not serve the best interest of anyone in the city, including those with special problems."

Steering Column

By Winston Fletcher

If your car ventilation isn't up to snuff, check the screens on your fresh air inlets. They could be plugged up.

Among the futuristic cars recently exhibited was one that can be maneuvered without a steering wheel. It takes verbal orders—"left," "right," "straight ahead." Not recommended for numbers.

Nearly 30,000 cars were abandoned on the streets of New York City during the past year.

Don't blame your mechanic if you have repeated wheel alignment problems. One wheel may be more than .035 of an inch off center, causing "radial runout."

One man uses his car's stereo-tape to play a modern classical piece that sounds like a police siren. Plays it full blast with windows open. Says it really helps him in traffic!

Traffic will seem lighter when you breeze through in a car with power power steering, power brakes, and—just plain p-o-w-e-r! See one at Fletcher Lincoln Mercury 86 Franklin Pl., Summit, 277-0940.

Sperco Pitches No-Hitter But Team Bows To Caldwell 3 to 2

Paul Sperco last week did everything one could ask, but could not stop the Summit High baseball team's tailspin. Summit's senior righthander pitched a complete-game no-hitter, the first for Summit since 1962, but even this was not enough, as porous fielders and the slumping Hilltopper batters lost their fifth straight, 3-2 to Caldwell. The loss lowered Summit's record to 5-7-1, 4-3 in the Suburban Conference, and with games against three first division clubs yet to come, made any chance for a Summit comeback in the conference next to impossible.

Unearned runs. Summit's hitters pooled their talents for one clean base hit, Steve Baker's two-run single in the fifth to tie the game up. But in the bottom of the seventh third baseman Chris Hart threw the leadoff Caldwell batter's grounder into right field, sending the runner to third, and two batters later Caldwell pitcher Joe Schiller banged a grounder off Baker's leg to win the game.

Sperco struck out four and walked only three en route to his no-hit performance, but got himself in big trouble in the bottom of the fourth when he walked the first batter and threw a bunted ball into center field trying to get him out at second. With runners on second and third, Springhouse Tree Service's right field, scoring one run, and when the ball bounded away from catcher Mike

Mahoney the second run scored.

Two-Out Rally

Summit came back with a two-out rally in the top of the fifth started by Sperco himself. Sperco walked, went to third as Chris Hart reached second on an error, and both scored on Baker's lined single to right center.

Summit had one last chance in the top of the seventh with men on first and third and one out, when they tried a suicide squeeze bunt which, like the rest of the day's offense, was vastly unsuccessful. Chris Hart missed the pitch, and Mahoney was a dead mallerd at the plate.

Then came Caldwell's winning run in the bottom of the seventh, incurring upon Summit its fifth straight loss since it all began that Saturday when Summit's hitting and pitching collapsed and the Hilltoppers lost a double header to Colonia. Not even the return of Summit's strong pitching could stop the tailspin, as the Hilltoppers are not hitting the ball to the right places anymore and are still losing everywhere they play.

For those of you still reading, this is what happened earlier in the week, when Summit lost to a relatively strong non-conference (this year) Springfield club, 3-1.

Sophomore Jim Cairns pitched well for Summit, giving up only five hits and four walks in six and two-thirds innings, but Springfield took a 2-1 lead on unearned runs in the third and fifth innings. Summit scored in the bottom of the third when Tom Olcott reached on an error, stole second, and scored on Steve Baker's single. In the seventh Steve Schroeder came on in relief and gave up a single to drive in the only earned run charged to Cairns.

HILLTOPPER HIGHLIGHTS:

Sperco's no-hitter was the first complete game no-hitter since Jeff Cain turned the trick in 1962. Steve Schroeder pitched a seven-inning no-hitter last year, but gave up a hit in extra innings. Bob Triolo is leading the Summit hitters with a .358 average. Steve Baker is hitting .283, and John Marcelliano .269. Baker is tied with Chris Hart for the team lead with seven runs scored, while Marcelliano is all alone with seven RBI. Sperco's no-hitter was his first loss of the season, dropping his record to 3-1, to go along with his 1.41 ERA. But if you think his luck is bad, consider Steve Schroeder, who is 1-3 despite an ERA of 0.64.

Sweep Gives Oakwood Tie For Pin Lead

The Plaza Classic Bowling League had plenty of excitement last week as the league bowled in its second position round. Oakwood Construction swept Winters' Insurance for all three points and the two teams are now tied for first place.

John Delbene paced Oakwood with games of 213, 200, 246 for a 659 series, while Lou Granata pounded out a 236, 637 for Winters. The teams will meet again next week, which is the final week, to decide the league championship.

In other league action, Microlab/Fxr. recorded a sweep over Joseph Nesto & Co. as Neil Mottola slammed 230, 640 and Joe Mottola 602 for Microlab. Alfred's Sport Shop trounced Crestview Lawyers Service in winning all three points with the night's high team totals. Ernie Moore totaled 640, Ed Bickerman 228, 632, and Dave O'Dell 612 for Alfred's, which had games of 1,022 and 1,007 en route to a 2,998 series.

Other sweeps were turned in by the Plaza Barber Shop, Heilmann's Servicenter, Cuerrero's Center, and Dowton Landscapers over Spring House Tree Service, A. G. Mazzocchi, Frontier Electric Co., and George's Suburban Body Shop, respectively.

Gene Fennimore bowled a 609, Terry McCormick 609, Tom Hiler 608, and Pat Martinelli 603. Big singles were hit by Rocky Speranza, 236; Tony Sodano, 232; Frank Markovich, 231; Mike Avalone, 230; Jim Mastrobuono, 230, and Chas. DiLantro, 228.

TO BE HONORED - Summit High School's 1968-69 soccer team, along with all Summit High School athletes and teams, will be honored at the Booster's Club Dinner on June 3 at the Hotel Suburban. Summit High Frosh Nine Wins Battle of Unbeatens SUMMIT - The two unbeaten freshmen baseball teams of the Suburban Conference - Summit and Verona - clashed last week for first place. When the base hits had stopped bouncing around Verona's field, the Summit nine had pushed its unbeaten string to seven games with an 11-3 win. Verona had won its first six games.

The highlight of the game came on the last play as Summit turned a line drive into a game-ending triple play. Pitcher Roger Hudgins had walked the first two batters. Verona's clean-up hitter, Tony Ciccone, then lined to second baseman Dennis Frantom, who flipped to shortstop Mike Reid for the second out. Reid fired to first baseman Greg Pecca to complete the triple killing.

The Hilltoppers had their hitting shoes on, lashing out 13 hits. Each player in the lineup had at least one hit. A five-run third inning gave Summit a lead that was never relinquished.

His by Reid, Richard Comstock, Jeff Keating, Dave Jarfas and Pecca batted the Verona starter out of the box. Summit added another run in the fourth inning on Gary Connolly's single, and then clinched the game with four more runs in the fifth. Singles by Jarfas, Hudgins, and Jack Formichella set the stage for Reid's bases-clearing double to right-center.

Hudgins picked up his fifth win of the season, limiting the fine Verona team to five hits. Roger struck out nine to bring his season total to 53 strike outs in 32 innings.

Hartlaub Cited At F & M

R. Jeffrey Hartlaub of Summit, a senior and co-captain of the basketball team, is among 11 Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., athletes who have been selected to appear in the 1969 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

"Outstanding Athletes of America" is sponsored by the non-profit Outstanding Americans Foundation. The athletes chosen were nominated earlier in the year by Franklin and Marshall and were chosen for the awards publication on the basis of their achievements.

Hartlaub was the playmaker for the F&M basketball squad in his junior and senior years. A 6' 3" guard, he topped the Diplomats in assists with 114 in 1967-68 and with 68 in 1968-69. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Hartlaub of 20 Canterbury Lane, he is majoring in Economics. He is a 1965 graduate of Summit High School.

This year's edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America" will be published in July.

Balish, Charlins Score Opening Softball Wins

SUMMIT - Balish and Charlins jumped to an early lead in the Men's Softball League sponsored by the Board of Recreation by each winning both of their games in the opening week of the extended schedule. The league has been expanded this year with the addition of Chubb & Son and Pulverizing.

Balish led by pitcher John Patrick, won its first game by walking over Beacon Hill, 15-3. Binder took the loss for Beacon Hill. He was the first of four pitcher.

Balish then met Chubb & Son, which managed only five hits off Patrick and four runs. Chubb's pitcher, Bob Romeo, gave up eight hits and nine runs to take the loss 9-4. Aids had two R.B.I.'s for Chubb when he slammed a home run into deep left center.

FAMILY HURLERS
The "Father and Son" team of Pete Kivlin and Pete Kivlin, Jr., won their openers for Charlins with Pete Sr. winning over Pulverizing, 11-2, and Pete Jr. winning over Sperco, 4-3.

Charlines' catcher Urbanski slammed a home run against Pulverizing in the sixth inning. Dunn won the game for Charlins against Sperco when he drove Burke across the plate for the winning run with two outs in the sixth inning.

Sperco suffered its second defeat when Beacon Hill literally walked over them, 14-5, scoring seven runs in the first inning and six runs in the second.

Chubb & Son bounced back from the loss to Balish

Tennis Victory

Summit Tennis Club moved into fourth place in the North Jersey Tennis Association last Saturday by defeating Nutley, 3-2. Summit has a 6-4 record and is only one game back of Arlington and Nutley, both 7-3, which are tied for second place. East Orange (9-1) leads the league.

Chatham lost to Bradford, 3-2, and saw its season record dip to 5-5. Bradford, Chatham and Park Lakes are tied for fifth place.

Steve Nycum won in singles for Summit, defeating Bill Edelman, 6-1, 6-4. Bob Jeffrey and Al Burgess won in doubles for Summit, 6-1, 9-7, while Summit's Jack DeHuff and Bill Reed won the decisive doubles match, 8-6, 7-5.

Chatham's victories came in singles matches as John Lerch triumphed 6-2, 6-0, and Ken Stocker won a three-set match, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4. Chatham's duo of Fred Hurwitz and Tom Sayles dropped a three-set match, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Track Team Keeps Flag Hopes Alive

The Summit High track team kept its Suburban Conference hopes alive last week with conference victories over Verona, 83%-42%, and Chatham, 80%-45%. Summit's dual meet record is now 6-2, 3-1 in the conference, and the Hilltoppers must hope for some team to upset Millburn, or for a stunning win in the Suburban Conference meet a week from Saturday.

Summit took eight firsts from Verona out of fourteen events, twelve seconds, and eight thirds. Rick Terry won the low and high hurdles with times of 21.0 and 15.6. Tom Mobley took the 100 and 220, while Phil Gaddard won the 440, Tom O'Brien the 880, and Jon Hunt the mile. John Wiebe, Tom Odell, and Tom Mobley all finished in the long jump as Summit swept that event. Summit could not get a first in its weak section, the weights, but managed all the seconds and thirds to keep the wide margin built up on the track.

Summit got nine firsts against Chatham. The same three again swept the long jump, Odell getting first this time, and Duke Cragg, Ross Nelson, and Bob Conger swept the two-mile. Terry won the highs and lows, Dave Heitkamp the 880, and Tom O'Brien the mile. Two surprises were Tom Williams winning the pole vault with a 10 foot mark, and John Fox taking the shot put.

Summit High Jayvee Nine Splits Pair

The Summit High junior varsity baseball team remained in a slump similar to the varsity's, recovering for a second to beat Springfield 7-2, then falling back into the doldrums and losing an eight-inning affair to Caldwell 2-1.

Pat Luciano had a no-hitter going against Springfield, and ended up with a two-hitter after Summit had built him a comfortable lead. Bob Froelich led the Summit attack with two hits, including a home run, and Jim Fraser, Artie Clerici, and Joe O'cone each added two more hits.

Summit took a 1-0 lead over Caldwell when Steve Sperco singled in Bob Froelich, but Caldwell came back to tie it up, and won in the bottom of the eighth with a walk and two singles.

Bacon Breaks Javelin Mark

Jack Bacon of Summit set a new javelin record in the annual American University Relays in Washington, D.C., tossing the spear 230 feet, 7 inches. The previous record was 217 feet.

Bacon is a junior at the University of Maryland where he is majoring in Business Administration. He is a former Summit High athlete.

Summit, Chatham Nines Lose Conference Games

Chatham Boro, Chatham Township and Summit High all went down to defeat last week in conference baseball games. Summit also dropped a non-conference contest with Springfield Regional, 3-1.

Chatham Boro was limited to just two hits by Caldwell's Roy Malinak, who struck out four in pitching the Chiefs to a 6-1 victory. Caldwell is 3-4 in the conference, while Chatham Boro dropped to 2-5.

Chatham Township spotted Dunellen an early 3-0 lead and just missed tying the score with a late rally as it bowed 4-3 in a Mountain Valley Conference game.

Summit was limited to two hits by Verona's Don Overhauser, who pitched the Suburban Conference leaders to a 5-0 victory over the Hilltoppers.

Malinak had little trouble in whipping Chatham Boro. His teammates staked him to a 3-0 lead before he ever threw a pitch and boosted the margin to 5-0 in the third inning. Caldwell banged out eight hits and benefitted from three Eskie misplays.

Dunellen scored a run in the first inning and two in the second for a quick 3-0 edge. The Gladiators pulled up to 3-2 in the fifth inning, but Dunellen retaliated with a run in the same frame for a 4-2 bulge. The Gladiators made it 4-3 with a run in the seventh inning, but couldn't push over the tying marker.

Cliff Eddy had three hits and scored two runs to pace the Gladiators' nine-hit attack. Dave Powell had two hits for Chatham Township. Charlie Eckhardt struck out batters in hurling Dunellen to victory.

Verona broke a scoreless tie with Summit with three runs in the third inning off Steve Schroeder. Overhauser started the rally with a single. A walk and run-scoring singles by Bud Hart and Pat Sullivan, along with a wild throw, accounted for the runs. Verona added insurance tallies in the fourth and seventh innings.

BREAK TIE

Springfield broke a 1-1 tie with a run in the fifth inning and added an insurance tally in the seventh inning in downing Summit. Mitch Wolff limited Summit to five hits and struck out four. He didn't issue a walk. Joe Millman had a single, double and a run batted in for Springfield.

Officers for this year include Mrs. Henry Harman of Chatham, co-chairman; Mrs. Doris Kramer, co-chairman, and tournament chairman, Mrs. Joseph Dickie. Information regarding the women's group may be obtained from the Pennbrook Pro Shop.

Red Sox, Giants Tied For PAL Loop Lead

SUMMIT - The Red Sox and Giants are tied for first place in the PAL Baseball League with 3-0 records. The third-place Yankees have a 2-1 record.

The top three teams all won last week, with the Giants downing the Tigers, 8-2, the Red Sox edging the Indians, 1-0; and the Yankees squeaking past the Cardinals, 4-3. The Mets outlasted the Dodgers, 10-9.

L. Kelly pitched the Giants to victory, while the Red Sox's B. Miller outdueled the Indians' R. Gross. W. Bray pitched the Yankees to victory.

It Looks Like Next Year for Tennis Squad

Summit's tennis team this season has been remarkable, but a 3-2 loss to Millburn meant the best Summit could do in the Suburban Conference was second place, as the Millers all but clinched top honors in the powerful conference.

Summit played Chatham last Wednesday for second place honors, though the season has a long way to go. Summit's record is now 10-2.

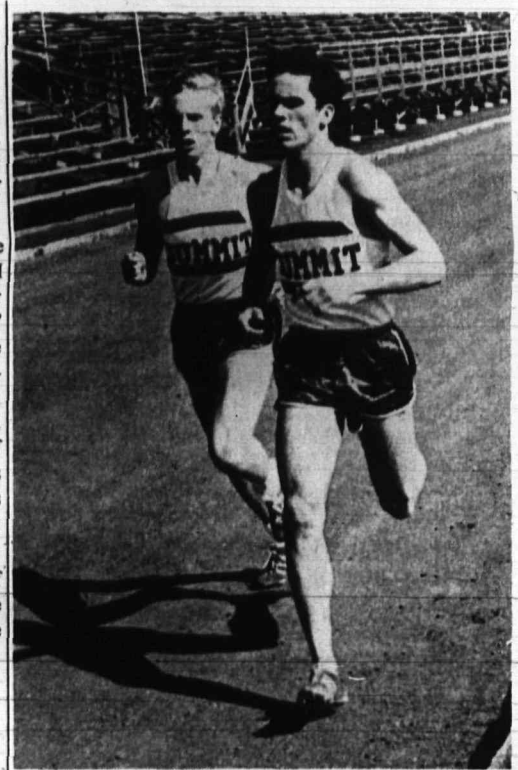

Summit's two top singles players, Steve Nycum and George Krieger, both won against Millburn, but the Millers swept the last three matches to maintain their perfect record.

Nycum and Krieger improved their records to 11-1 with victories over Cedar Grove in Summit's 4-1 win. Coleman Parker won third singles, and rain canceled the doubles matches, and thus Cedar Grove was awarded one consolation point.

combination clinic and game schedule ends June 11.

The Sixth and Seventh Grade Boys Spring Baseball League schedule got under way last Saturday with 10 teams lined up for the competition.

Five games are played every Saturday at Memorial Field. The season ends June 14.

Something's Cooking

By Sue Maloney

Luncheon, as we know it, was virtually unknown before the days of Queen Victoria. But in that period dinner moved to the evening hours introducing a new form - the luncheon.

Victorian era cookbooks are full of advice about the luncheon. In 1853 The Family Friend counseled wives that "luncheon be taken about five hours after breakfast to allay the cravings of nature, but not entirely to destroy the appetite."

Whether it is having the girls for a bridge luncheon or just a friendly get-together, the same advice still holds today. And mild, sunny spring days inspire a foursome for a light, lively luncheon. Most of all, a luncheon for the ladies should be unique. Not soup or sandwiches or meat and potatoes, but a happy interlude.

Luncheons are fun because one can serve a more feminine menu than husbands enjoy. And of course, a luncheon dish should be decorative and eye appealing. Another prerequisite is*the menu should be simple for the hostess, preferably a dish one can make the night before.

A shrimp luncheon mold easily meets all these requirements. This delectable pink mold looks beautiful on a bed of greens, and it is made the night before. Rolls and fruit are the perfect accompaniment to this creamy, tangy, gelatin salad.

If you prefer a warm lunch, try Asparagus Bacon Broil. This is a slice of toast with bacon and asparagus spears on it and topped with a mushroom cheese sauce. It's briefly broiled. This colorful combo has a lot of eye-appeal. A third choice is Chicken and Avocado. Chilled chicken salad, sparkled with raw mushrooms and capers, is heaped on an avocado half. This tempting duo is surrounded with tomato wedges and lettuce leaves.

All these one dish luncheons are easy, economical and appealing. If a dessert is necessary, serve fruit or ice cream.

They accused the Newark administration of not providing enough education for children, and asked "Why does it happen?" First Aid Course of Area Red Cross Continues to Save Countless Lives

"Countless lives will have been saved and serious injury prevented this summer through the basic knowledge of First Aid," stated Mrs. Robert Nichols, First Aid chairman for the Summit Area Chapter of American Red Cross.

"The administration of the 'breath-of-life' by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, the stoppage of bleeding, the protection of injured limbs, care of burns, and the practice of safety measures and accident prevention are some of the essential elements of first aid."

Mrs. Nichols stated that the Red Cross instructors in the Chapter area annually give between 23 to 25 First Aid courses for the communities. A standard course is in progress now and both an advanced course and a CPR (closed heart massage) course are scheduled before the summer. Standard courses are a minimum of 10 hours in two-hour sessions with a minimum age requirement of 14. The courses are geared for the needs of the group taking it. For example, the same basic information has a different application when given to mothers of small children and when taught to foremen of industrial shops.

Course 16-Hours Long

In addition to the standard course Red Cross instructors teach first aid to all First Aid Squads, Police Departments, and Fire Departments. It is essential that these emergency service personnel keep up with current first aid procedures. For this reason all cards, standard and advanced, are current for only three years. These advanced courses are 16 hours long and are aimed at the people who have daily need for the use of advanced techniques.

Junior Courses are available for the children of 12-14 years of age and are given in 15 one-hour sessions. Special groups of more than ten persons who wish courses can request such a course at any place or hour and a volunteer Red Cross instructor will be provided. The Springfield Branch of the Summit Area Red Cross has given instruction to several industries in the area this year including General Electric, Monsanto, and the Defense Corporation in cooperation with the industry and the AFL-CIO Union requirements for safety instruction for all foremen.

Although the Red Cross stresses the importance of total First Aid training, groups may request a special instruction in the technique of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. P.T.A.'s, Scouts, home pool owners, and all community groups may make arrangements for such a one-hour program by calling Mrs. Robert Nichols at Red Cross Headquarters 273-2076.

"Invaluable" Course

Mrs. W. W. Braunwarth, Chapter chairman, commented, "The contribution to the health and safety of our communities by the volunteers of the First Aid Service of Red Cross is invaluable. Mrs. Nichols and the committee of qualified instructors deserve the highest of praise and gratitude for their dedication and countless hours of volunteer work and instruction for the benefit of the Area."

Instructors include: Mrs. Michael Herzlinger, Mrs. Richard Marshall, Mrs. Dexter Force, Mrs. Frank Rioux, Mrs. George Bowles, Daniel D. Kalem, Thomas Poznanski,
