Runnells renews its lease on life as county promises new facility

AREA — The Union County Board of Freeholders has both unanimously adopted and directed the county manager "to fully implement all of the recommendations" of a professionally developed long range plan to construct a new, multi-purpose, John E. Runnells health care facility as well as those recommendations contained in a financial review report and of a special committee that reviewed the hospital's programs and managerial operations.

The recommendations primary focuses are to improve the quality of patient care and to increase the overall numbers of persons being treated, the Freeholders said.

The Freeholders say they are committed to keeping the present Runnells Hospital, owned by Union County and located in Berkeley Heights, functioning until the new Runnells facility is built and ready for occupancy sometime in the Spring of 1988.

In this way the professional plan assures that there will be no break in patient care. Patients and employees at Runnells at that time will be admitted to the new facility, they added.

The present Runnells is located on a portion of a 115 acre county-owned tract of land in Berkeley Heights. The new Runnells will be situated on another section of that tract of land.

The new Runnells will continue to provide services to patients in the longstanding Runnells' tradition. That means services will be available to all Union County residents with a paramount concern for and emphasis in providing approved medical services to the elderly and sick poor of the county based on the inability to pay. Although cost containment is a critical issue that is addressed, the quality and availability of patient care remains foremost, according to the Freeholders.

The plan for financing helps to guarantee services for the elderly and sick poor for generations to come. The fact that the bulk of the funding for the construction costs of the new $14.6 million dollar, multi-purposed 345-bed facility will be coming from Medicaid reimbursement dollars, assures that the financially indigent and others of limited financial resources will have a place to go for quality, affordable health care.

These Medicaid Capital Facilities Allowance funds are federal dollars that can be applied toward both principal and interest for new construction only.

The project will also be partially funded by selling about half of the 115-acre Runnells tract and dedicating all of the proceeds to the Runnells facility.

The Freeholders say the plan will allow Runnells to re-establish itself as a pioneer in the health-care field. At one time Runnells was known as a pioneer in the area of thoracic surgery and medicine. This took place back when it had a functioning operating room.

Over the many decades of its existence, Runnells has played a significant and ever-changing part in the constantly evolving role of Union County health care. Runnells role has traditionally been one of augmenting, not competing with, the Union County health care community.

The Board of Freeholders was prompted into action based on the independent and professional findings of the nationally renowned Joint Commission for the Accreditation of Hospitals, a state imposed requirement for a long-range plan to be developed by July 1st, and the results of staff presentations and a tour of Runnells Hospital by the Freeholder Board. A comprehensive financial review showed Runnells per patient day costs to be three to four times higher than in other health care facilities.

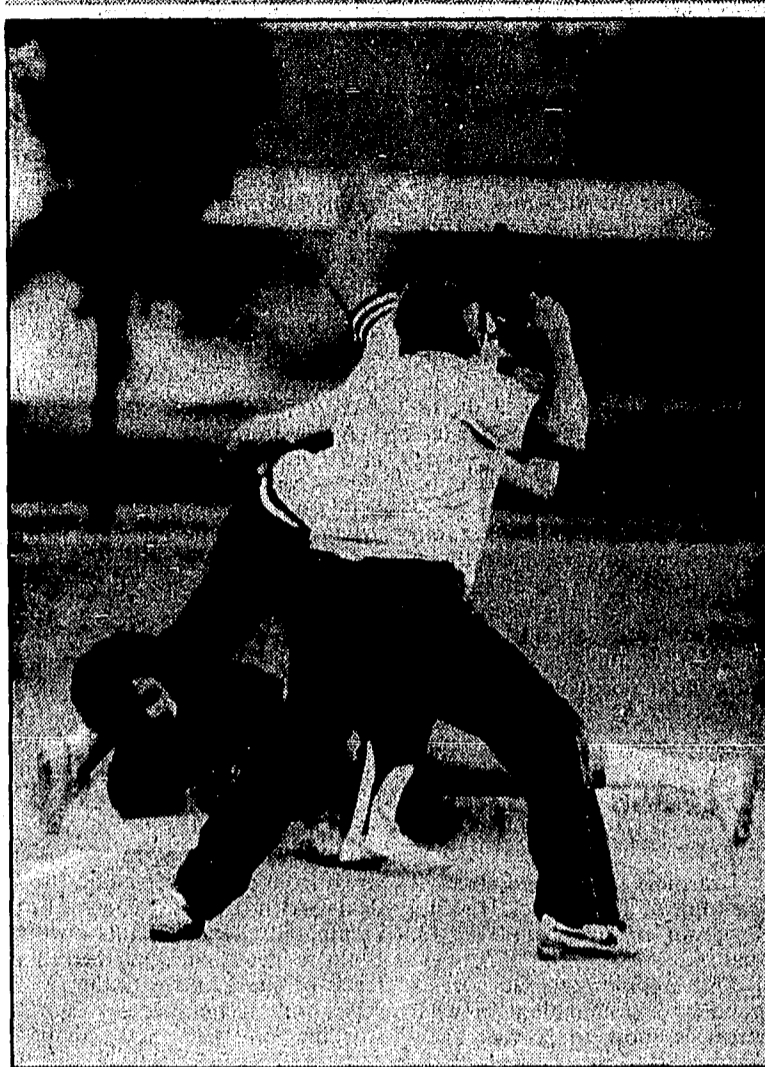

The long range plan was developed over a period of many months of intense study involving numerous people and with input from all of the other hospitals of Union County, architectural and engineering firms, public health and maintenance officials, Runnells' staff, county government management, and senior citizen representatives.

Memorial General Hospital of Union, with a background and expertise in geriatric medicine, was unanimously retained by the Freeholders to develop the long range plan after an interview procedure involving presentations and questions and answers to numbers of professional firms.

Victor Fresolone, President of Memorial General Hospital, and a New Jersey licensed nursing home administrator, and Joan Furman, director of planning and marketing there, were the primary representatives in developing this plan. A special bipartisan Freeholder committee created by the Freeholder Board was also a part of the process.

The new Runnells long range plan must now go through the New Jersey State Department of Health's lengthy "certificate of need" review process in order to obtain state approval to begin construction and implement the plan. The Freeholder board and county manager must meet an October 31st state filing deadline. If this date is not met, any improvement to Runnells will not be eligible for filing until February or March which could result in years of delay.

CLOSE CALLS abounded during the third of playoff games between Terry's Luncheonette and Wallberg Studios on August 17. Wallberg clinched its third straight victory against Terry's, winning the Slopitch Championship of Summit for this year. Wallberg triumphed 4-3 over Terry's to win the required three out of five for the playoff championship.

A REAL PICK-UP—Vans for seniors are available for transportation to the Summer Arts Festival. The service is provided by the Parks Department and the Union County Paratransit System.

Free rides take seniors to art festival

Free transportation, always available to senior citizens, will be particularly useful to seniors and others with special needs for the remaining events of the Union County Summer Arts Festival.

Vans are provided by the Union County Paratransit System in conjunction with the Parks Department. No door-to-door service is available; interested groups may designate a group leader, who may make arrangements for pick-up and drop-off by calling the Parks Department at 527-4900. Groups are scheduled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Plans for veterans' memorial take off—in hot air balloon

By PEG THURLER
SUMMIT — Balloons inscribed with the words Brown-Fowler Co., Realtors, will rise to the sky in a giant balloon release on Sunday, September 23, in the first fund raising effort by a local business to help raise $30,000 for a war memorial on the Village Green. Prizes will be awarded to owners of balloons that go the fastest and the farthest.

Starting on the day after Labor Day, Tuesday, September 4, balloons will go on sale at Brown-Fowler, 7 DeForest Ave. to balloon lovers of all ages at $1.50 each. Entrants will fill out a stamped postcard to be attached to each balloon. The card will contain the name of the balloon's owner, and the name and address of Brown-Fowler.

The giant release of the balloons will take place at 4 p.m. on September 23. Anyone finding one of the balloons is asked to detach the postcard and drop it into the nearest mailbox. The first postcard to arrive back at Brown-Fowler's offices at 7 DeForest is a winner, and the person who bought and signs the card with the balloon will receive a $25 Savings Bond.

An additional Bond will be given to the person whose card traveled the farthest, and was mailed back to Summit by the person who found it.

A similar balloon release sponsored by students at Washington School this spring got responses from more people than 100 miles Summit office, Marilyn Flagler said that her firm's aim is to sell 500 balloons to aid the Veterans Memorial Fund for the remembrance of Summit servicemen killed in World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam conflict.

"The business community has been asked to participate in the Memorial project, and we hope others will follow our lead," said Flagler.

The realtor's offices are open 9-5:30 p.m. at 7 DeForest Ave. and the phone is 273-0400 for further details or information.

The Veterans War Memorial Committee is conducting a fund raising campaign to meet its goal of $30,000 for a memorial to be located next to the World War I "angel" monument, to be for those killed in the last three years.

Contributions may be sent to the Committee treasurer, James Piana, c/o Summit Hills Florist, 11 Beechwood Rd., Summit,

Requiem for the Railroad Avenue mailbox dropoff

By PEG THURLER

SUMMIT — It will be missed, oh lovable, convenient, driver's side mailbox that used to perch precariously on the curb behind the Post Office on Railroad Avenue. Legend had it that mail moved faster from that box to its destination than any other outdoor box in town.

Never mind that it got pushed off its perch once in a while by an over-zealous motorist. You could drop in your mail without using a "boarding house reach," because it was on the left side of the one way street. But a couple of weeks ago an ominous sign was hung on the front of the box announcing its imminent removal because the road would close August 1 to facilitate construction work at the senior citizen housing site.

A barricade was stretched across the entrance to the road at the Maple Avenue corner, barring access to that stretch of Railroad Avenue. But habit is a powerful thing and for several days drivers tried to squeeze around the barriers, if not to use their beloved box, at least to park-and-run into the building to deposit their mail.

The usual crunch in front of the Post Office on Maple Street has intensified as motorists double park, jump out, and push through those swinging doors to get to the indoor mail chutes. By 4:30 on a weekday afternoon, when the service windows close up for the day, traffic crawls past the P.O. Frustrated letter mailers take a chance and make an illegal left turn just over the railroad bridge in order to use the mailboxes on the east side of Railroad Avenue at the corner of Maple.

Pity the poor pedestrian trying to cross ANY street near the P.O. but especially when he finishes wading through water on the railroad bridge coming from the center of town, and thinks he can cross Railroad Avenue safely and get to the Broad Street light. Cars were double parked at 4:30 one afternoon last week at the corner boxes, and still more continued to turn left illegally from Maple to use the boxes. And every driver had left his car with the motor running as he jumped out, ran around, and mailed his mail.

Maybe someone will invent a mechanical arm that will stretch out on the passenger side of a car and release a letter into the slot, or better yet train your dog to stick his neck out the passenger window and woof the mail into the slot.

"We're getting more mail in those boxes now," said James Farley, director of Mail Processing for the local post office. "Mail is picked up at least three times from those boxes each day," he noted, and he is encouraging people to use them to alleviate the Maple Street crunch.

Suggestions have been made as to where other boxes could be installed, but Farley said that no additional ones are planned.

Sgt. Michael Yannotta of the Summit Police Department said that many metered parking spaces have already been eliminated by the closing of the western section of Railroad Avenue, noting that "we cannot spare any more in that area." He indicated that any new box locations would necessitate removal of meters.

Parking might improve in the Post Office part of town if rumor ever becomes reality—rumor having it that Common Council is considering locating a parking area behind the P.O. if/when the City acquires property along Broad Street currently being appraised.

So-o-o—please, Mr. Postmaster, don't discard the mailbox you removed from the Railroad Avenue drop-off. Keep it handy. It is a good box and some day there may be another place for it—on the driver's side of some lane or road or lot. We drivers will be watching for its return.

Amalfe seeks resignation of three Republicans

Union County Democratic Chairman Anthony Amalfe, who is a former Union County Freeholder, has called for "the immediate resignations of Republican Freeholders Alan Augustine, Edward Slomkowski and Paul O'Keefe for non-performance in public office."

Mr. Amalfe added that he would be "quick to support and urge the remaining Democratic Freeholders on the county board to support the appointment of any reasonably qualified nominees proposed by the Republican party leadership to fill the vacancies."

"Republican Freeholders Alan Augustine and Edward Slomkowski," Mr. Amalfe said, "apparently are Hell-bent on raising phoney campaign issues that are designed to detract public attention from their own lack of achievement. Their campaign manager is Republican Freeholder Paul O'Keefe. He's missed more meetings so far this year than any one can recall. He frequently arrives late and leaves early."

"Augustine's sole claim to fame is an allegedly perfect attendance record but this collapses readily. He served as finance chairman in 1983 and never called a single committee meeting. When a member of the policy committee he used to write letters and make phone calls explaining that since he worked far away in New York state that he didn't have the time to attend. This deplorable situation still exists," stated Mr. Amalfe.

"Slomkowski claims to be interested in the taxpayers but drives around in a flashy Eldorado Cadillac and then puts in mileage expense vouchers to get reimbursed at taxpayers expense," Mr. Amalfe continued.

To err is human

A typographical error last week turned "sight problems" into "slight problems," at two of the railroad bridges spanning major Summit streets.

Common Councilman Thomas

Button described the wooden barriers at the bridges as causing sight problems, and promised that they would be re-designed so "people will be able to see."

Karen Lyn Cotter

Karen Johnson ties the knot with Christopher Cotter

Miss Karen Lyn Johnson, the daughter of Mrs. Henry Kulzer of Millington and Mr. Mark Johnson of Oldwick, was married on June 30th to Christopher Jesse Cotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Cotter of Summit. The Reverend Canon John T. Morrow and Father Michael Alliegro performed the ceremony at St. Luke's Church in Gladstone.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white taffeta dress with a lace bodice. Matching lace trimmed her chapel length train. She carried a cascade of white roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Diana Johnson, sister of the bride, was the maid of honour. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Gauthier of Dover; Miss Jean Mullett of Potterville; Miss Laurie Slotnick of Warren; Miss Patricia Cotter of Summit; and Miss Kathy Kasper of Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Mark Cotter, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. John Cotter of Sacramento, California; Mr. Brian Cotter of Summit; Mr. Kevin Cotter of Summit; Mr. Douglas Marvin of New Providence; and Mr. Raymond Carlson of Summit.

After a honeymoon in Ireland, the couple will reside in Summit.

Margaret Glynn sets the date with Matthew Musum

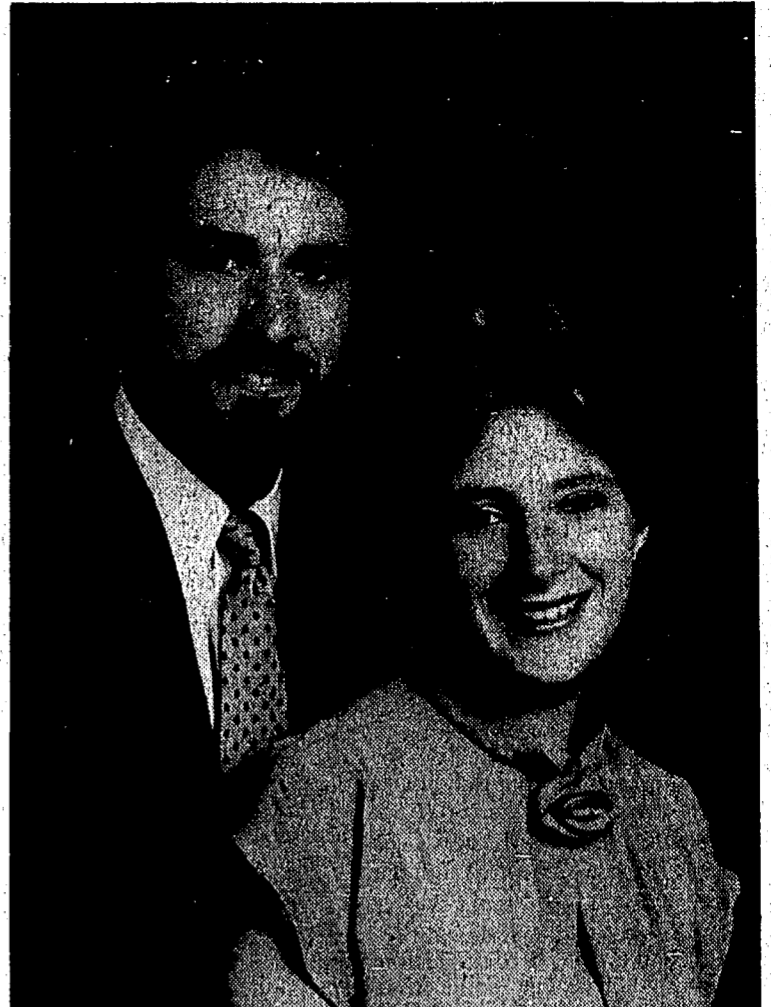

Margaret Mary Glynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Glynn of Scotch Plains, is engaged to Matthew Thomas Musum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Musum of Summit.

The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School and the Katharine Gibbs School. She is employed by Public Service Electric and Gas Company, Newark.

Her fiancé is a 1979 graduate of the Pennington School. He is employed by Hill City Deli, Summit.

The couple will be married on September 7, 1985.

Free maps show scenic bicycle tours

Want to take a scenic bike trip? The N.J. Department of Transportation offers three new free bicycle tour guide maps for cyclists. Guides for additional routes are being prepared.

Each map contains a short description of the origin of the route, points of interest along the way, an indication of the quality of the roads and type of terrain, the amount of traffic found along the route, and general tips for safe cycling. Many of the maps also offer shorter versions of the full tour.

The routes covered in these three guides are:

Great Swamp — This map includes two routes through and around the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge in southern Morris and northern Somerset Counties. The Great Swamp itself is a remnant of a glacial lake in the area that is also the source of the Passaic River. The Great Swamp tour offers numerous opportunities to stop and hike along wildlife observation trails in the area.

Battle of Monmouth — This extremely scenic route connects Monmouth Battlefield State Park and Holmdel County Park, skirting Freehold and passing several historic sites including Molly Pitcher's well and the Battle of Monmouth Monument. The full route is nearly 31 miles long and was originally prepared by the Monmouth Touring Society.

Last Covered Bridge — Based on a route used for the annual Princeton Free Wheelers bicycling event, this tour offers several loops varying in length from 14.6 to 47.6 miles, all passing the Green Sergeant's Covered Bridge, the last such structure remaining in New Jersey. Although the route is very hilly, its low-volume rural roads are very picturesque, especially during autumn.

The maps can be obtained free of charge by sending written requests to William Feldman, DOT's Bicycle Advocate, at 1035 Parkway Ave., Trenton, NJ 08625.

Mackie, Lemaku join forces at Schlott

Annette Mackie, of Summit, Susan Carroll Lemaku, of Short Hills and Patricia Stewart, of New Providence have joined Schlott Realtor's Summit office as sales associates.

Mackie attended Kean College and formerly worked as a travel consultant and is a member of the Summit Realtors Board. She is also active in her community serving as President of the Junior Fortnightly Club and Chairperson of the sustaining committee of the Junior League.

Born and raised in Boston, Lemkau is a graduate of Marymount College in Tarrytown, New York. A former teacher and partner in a boutique, she has lived in New Jersey since 1977. Mrs. Lemkau is an active member of the Junior League and the Millburn/Short Hills P.T.A. and enjoys tennis, gardening and sailing.

Stewart graduated from Brown University with a B.A. degree.

She brings management experience from her former position as a district manager at AT&T to her new profession. She is a member of the Summit Board of Realtors and recently completed Schlott's sales training program.

Summit Office Manager Al Rancke said, "We're very pleased to have Patricia join us. Her experience and enthusiasm will help her establish a challenging career."

Austin named V.P. Epilepsy Foundation

William E. Austin, of Summit, has been elected a Vice President of the Epilepsy Foundation of New Jersey.

Austin, a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute of Blacksburg, Va., is retired as vice president of sales for the Air Compressor Group of Ingersoll-Rand Company in Woodcliff Lake.

Austin has served as Vice President, President and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Epilepsy Foundation of New Jersey during his six years on that Board. He agreed to accept special assignment this year in the area of board recruitment and training.

The Epilepsy Foundation is providing services to more than 100,000 New Jersey residents with epilepsy and their families.

Fairleigh Dickinson graduates eleven

Eleven students from Summit have graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, in its 41st commencement ceremonies this year.

Graduates of Fairleigh's diverse degree programs include: Troy Anderson, MBA; David Genauldi, DMD; Russell Harding, MBA; Lynne McCully, MBA; Ian Milsark, BS; Mark Popper, BA; Michael Ricca, BS; Rachael Ruth, BA; Linda Stetson, MBA; Sallyann Stewart, BS; and Richard York, BS.

Kean reports on education as key to economic growth

One of the most rewarding of the duties I assumed as Governor is my membership in the Education Commission of the States. This highly prestigious organization is widely recognized as the leading private education-oriented group in the country. So naturally, I am both pleased and honored to have been chosen Chairman-Elect of ECS.

In the past two years ECS has achieved a critically important goal -- we have successfully managed to focus the attention of the nation on the dangerously lagging state of public education in the United States; equally important, we have kept that attention focused. I believe there is now in our country a wider recognition than ever before of the dangers we create for ourselves by ignoring the quality of education.

Nearly three decades ago America was electrified by the launching of the world's first man-made satellite. That achievement by the Soviet Union generated fears at home that American education was falling behind that of our rival, and the result of that fear was increased emphasis on education in our public schools.

Today, we face a new threat -- a threat to our economic future and, more importantly, the economic future of our children, who must compete in the marketplace of tomorrow's highly technical world.

To meet this challenge ECS created the Task Force on Education for Economic Growth. Last year the Task Force reported on the serious decline in the quality of education in our public schools. This year, the Task Force's report focused on the new and imaginative proposals many different states have developed to meet the challenge of providing excellence in education. The responses have been swift and energetic, and they make it clear that a powerful national commitment to renewed excellence in education does not have to originate in Washington.

The report makes many points, but there are three that I think every American must keep in mind -- because every American has a direct stake in the quality of the education we provide our children.

The first point that must always be remembered is that there is no single answer to school renewal and no uniform approach. Each state, and even each school district, must devise approaches that meet their specific needs.

Second, we must not rest on our laurels. Many reforms have been achieved in New Jersey, and in other states, over the past year or two. But to ensure that these achievements become permanent improvements to our school systems, and to ensure that we continue to work toward more and better improvements in the system, we must remain diligent.

Our educational decline was caused in part by paying only sporadic attention to the plight of the schools. This nation can no longer claim ignorance of the damage this kind of inattention causes.

Finally, we cannot deny that knowledge is power; that trained intelligence is a chief component of a nation's productivity, or its general economic health. Most importantly, only a nation of well-educated citizens can successfully maintain our future as a democracy. Government of the people, by the people and for the people can only survive if those people are equipped to rule themselves intelligently.

A nation requires leaders with courage and patience and daring and trained intelligence to solve problems. But we don't need only an elite few -- we need millions and millions of them, and the way to foster them is through the public schools.

I believe we now have the momentum to keep up the pace of educational reform. That momentum comes from parents, from students, from professionals and people in business, industry and public life. Most importantly, it comes from those who hold the keys to excellence in education -- our teachers.

It is past time for the adult world to burden teachers with our common and serious responsibility to the generation after our own. Ensuring continued high quality in our public schools is a task which must fall to every one of us -- not just to our teachers.

LIVE OTTER SHOW! — The Somerset County Park Commission's Environmental Education Center will feature a live Otter Show on Thurs., Aug. 30.

Live otter show - vacation end

The Somerset County Park Commission's Environmental Education Center will feature a live Otter Show on Thurs., Aug. 30.

Dorothy Wisbeski, the noted animal trainer and author, will share stories of otter antics and escapades. Two shows, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. at the Environmental Education Center will feature film clips of the otters in action and a live show with Lori Lou the Otter. Tickets are on sale now at $1.00 for children and $2.00 for adults. All tickets at the door will be $2.00.

As a follow up to a strong interest in otters seen in the zoo, Mrs. Wisbeski also began to do research on these lively creatures. After becoming a self-taught otter expert the challenge began. A call to a zoo supply house and a six-week wait brought Okee, a South American otter. Okee developed quite a career for himself during his life with the Wisbeskis. He had three one-man art shows and spent many carefree hours in the Octopus Pools at the Turtle Back Zoo.

The Environmental Education Center is located at 190 Lord Stirling Rd., Basking Ridge. Stop by the Center for advance ticket sales, 9-5 weekdays, 10-4 Saturdays and 1-5 on Sunday, or call 766-2489 for more information.

Mayor declares Grandparents' Day

Summit's Mayor Robert J. Hartlaub recently signed a proclamation declaring Sept. 9 Grandparents' Day. The proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS, national recognition of Grandparents' Day has been established for the first Sunday after Labor Day; and WHEREAS, New Jersey shall proclaim its Grandparents' Day in conjunction with the National Grandparents' Day and join with other states now participating; and

WHEREAS, for generations grandparents have strengthened family ties and played an important role in the lives of grandchildren;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT I, Robert J. Hartlaub, the Mayor of Summit, hereby declare Sun., Sept. 9, 1984, as Grandparents' Day and extend our good wishes to all grandparents with the hope that they may enjoy the special pleasure that grandchildren give them on that day and throughout the year.

Experts to examine cardiovascular disorders at Ciba-Geigy symposium

AREA — Two leading international medical research scientists will examine the role of "Calcium and Cardiovascular Function" at the Eighth Annual CIBA-GEIGY Drew Biomedical Research Symposium scheduled for Oct. 17 from 1:30-5:30 p.m. in Baldwin Gymnasium located on the 186-acre Drew University campus on Route 24.

Dr. Albrecht Fleckenstein, professor of physiology and head of the Physiological Institute at the University of Freiburg, Freiburg, West Germany, and Dr. Harald Reuter, dean of the medical faculty and chairman of the department of pharmacology at the University of Bern, Switzerland, will be keynote speakers. Both men are this year's recipients of the CIBA-GEIGY Drew Award in Biomedical Research, presented annually for outstanding work in medical research.

Fleckenstein will speak on "Calcium Antagonism in Heart and Smooth Muscle." Reuter's topic is "Calcium Movements Through Cardiac Cell Membranes." Dr. John Laragh of the Cornell Medical Center is the program moderator.

Commenting on this year's program, George deStevens, chairman of the CIBA-GEIGY Drew Award Committee and Drew research professor of chemistry, notes, "Within the past decade it has been learned that calcium ion at the cellular level plays a decisive role in regulating cardiovascular function and controlling angina, hypertension and myocardial infarction, which are the most serious conditions affecting the cardiovascular system. Professor Fleckenstein has been a pioneer in developing drugs known as calcium channel blockers which are used therapeutically to control these conditions; and Professor Reuter is at the forefront in studying the pharmacology of calcium and sodium ions in cell membranes."

The event is free and open to the public.

Drew University is located on Route 24, some 30 miles west of Manhattan and three miles east of historic Morristown. For more information, contact George deStevens, chairman of the CIBA-GEIGY Drew Award Committee and Drew research professor of chemistry, at (201) 377-3000, ext. 374.

La Leche offers breastfeeding course

Mothers and mothers-to-be curious about breastfeeding may attend the next meeting of the Summit-New Providence La Leche League, at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 5. All area women are invited; babies are welcome.

The topic of the evening's informal discussion, "The Advantages of Breastfeeding", begins a series of four meetings which explore all aspects of breastfeeding and help nursing mothers with any breastfeeding difficulties they may be experiencing.

The League has available at each meeting an excellent lending library including books on breastfeeding, nutrition, childbirth and child care. League leaders are trained, experienced mothers who can provide help with specific problems and questions.

For further information about the meeting or help with a breastfeeding problem, League leaders may be reached at any of the following numbers: 464-2267, 464-0775, 322-4238, and 273-2354.

Docent workshops to open at Arboretum

SUMMIT — Docent workshops begin soon at the Reeves-Reed Arboretum for men and women volunteers who are needed to help children learn more about the natural environment.

Those who become docents also find out more about natural science and history through field study and in-service training. Opportunities are now available to assist with the fall series of education classes for area school children, grades K-6. Children come from local and area schools ranging from Berkeley Heights to Mountainside, Summit to Montclair.

Classes run on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, Sept. 18-Nov. 8. The docent commitment is for a two-hour session each week. Docents lead minifield trips on the Arboretum grounds and assist students at the Nature Discovery Center inside the Arboretum building.

Those interested in training to be a volunteer in an opportunity offering botanical and nature history education may join the workshops on Sept. 11 and 13 from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon. For more details, call the Arboretum, 273-8787. The Arboretum is located at 165 Hobart Ave., near Rt. 24.

Kindermusik strikes new chords for toddlers

AREA — Kindermusik of Millburn/Short Hills will begin its fifth school year September 23 at the Community Congregational Church, 200 Harishorn Drive, Short Hills.

The school, which began as a two-year program for 3½-year-olds, now has children returning for third and fourth-year classes. Some of the students study piano outside the school while continuing to receive musicianship training within the school. Others may or may not ever study an instrument, but choose to keep studying music.

New students attend a two-hour session once a week in a spacious classroom. Listening, singing, and movement are the main activities as instructors Irene Hakim or Charmaine Cave guide children into the enjoyment of musical knowledge and skill.

A brochure is available by calling Director Charmaine Cave at 379-4615. Registrations of children between the ages of 3½ and 4½ (or still in Nursery School) are presently being taken. Class size is limited.

Policemen's children win scholarships

SUMMIT — Scholarships have been awarded to four college students whose fathers are members of the Summit Police Department. On behalf of the John Sayre Scholarship Committee, Common Council president Dr. Murray Ross made the presentations at the Council meeting last Tuesday evening.

Cheryl and Charlotte Brick, daughters of Patrolman and Mrs. Raymond Brick, are enrolled at Fairleigh Dickinson University.

Cheryl is majoring in accounting and marketing. Charlotte is a hotel and restaurant management major.

Michael Haley, son of Sergeant and Mrs. Robert Haley, is a Trenton State College Industrial Arts major.

Jacqueline Horn, daughter of Sergeant and Mrs. George Horn, is enrolled at Kean College, majoring in Industrial Arts. All four are attending colleges in this area.

CHRISTOPHER ATTEBERRY of Murray Hill presents Gov. Thomas H. Kean with a T-shirt from the Governor's School in the Sciences at Drew University during the governor's Aug. 16th visit to the school. One-hundred of the state's brightest high school seniors will end their four-week, intensive study session at the Governor's School on Aug. 25. The program, to be held each summer at Drew, is one of three Governor's Schools founded by Kean. The other two are at Monmouth College (in public issues) and at Trenton State University (in the arts).

RUDOLF NUREYEV in the title-role of Apollo (Stravinsky/Balanchine) "Nureyev and Friends" August 16-26, 1984. At the Gershwin Theatre.

Rudolf Nureyev: The Muse of Dance for mortals

NEW YORK — One need not journey to the heights of Mount Olympus in search of the Muse of Dance. For there, indeed, you are apt to find only myth, and not the true spirit that is embodied, for us mortals to behold, within the living genius of Rudolf Nureyev.

Now through Aug. 26, The Gershwin Theatre is our Olympus where "Nureyev and Friends" are celebrating for 13 performances. If you were born, as most of us, too late to see the great Nijinsky immortalize himself, and were somehow, in our own time, too lax to seeing Nureyev at his electrifying peak, still take this opportunity to glimpse the greatness even when the luster has begun to dim ever so slightly.

Assisted, not by a full corps de ballet, but by The Paris Opera Ballet's premier danseur Jean Guizerix and four extraordinary prima ballerinas — Eva Evdokimova, his favored partner of late; Boston Ballet's Marie-Christine Mouis; N.Y.C. Ballet's Stephanie Saland; and soon to be Principal with the Australian Ballet, Evelyne Desutter — Nureyev has assembled an enjoyably eclectic program that carefully favors his unparalleled dramatic capabilities and more noticeably earthbound pyrotechnics.

Still the world's most handsome and charismatic dancer, Nureyev uses his Svengali-like abilities to hypnotize us into fanatic worshippers even when the reality is slightly less than the dream.

Olympus, appropriately, is the setting for the evening's opener — Stravinsky-Balanchine "Apollo" — where Nureyev, as God of the Arts gives the acid tests to the Muses of Poetry, Mime, and Dance. Even the somewhat posey and arch dancing, that typifies this 55 year old Dionysian divertimento, failed to deter the enthusiastic audience from responding vociferously. Standing ovations and loud cheering also greeted Evdokimova and Nureyev in the Pas De Deux from the classic Bournonville ballet "Flower Festival At Genzano." While not quite as ebullient and airy, as befits the youthful piece, the virtuosity of Nureyev's meticulous, rapid footwork, and Evdokimova's assuredly sylph-like spiritedness, nevertheless, captivated the cheering idolators. One could easily call the delightful 1845 "Pas De Quatre," the battle of the ballerinas as it pits, in genteel style, four of the most celebrated ballerinas of the Romantic era in a series of variations that extol the virtuosic gifts, and particularly the unconcealed conceits of the Mlle's Tagliioni, Cerrito, Grisi, and Grahn. As portrayed respectively by Evdokimova, DeSutter, Saland and Mouis, the wry humor, and competitive natures of these artists were handsomely and wittily displayed.

For me, the highlight was the riveting emotionalism invested in Maurice Bejart's "Songs of a Wayfarer" to songs by Mahler (sung superbly in the pit by baritone William Metcalf). Nureyev personalizes this moody, introspective dance—dialogue into an intensely provocative experience. It is here that Guizerix makes some dazzlingly formidable statements as the alter ego. Jose Limon's modernesque dance treatment of "Othello" — "the Moor's Pavane" to music by Purcell had more to do with grimacing and groveling, but was still a grandly histrionic exhibition of dance-drama. Conductor Stanley Sussman made the pit orchestra sound remarkably rich and full bodied.

Save your quarters for a bus-train trip without traffic

by PEG THURLER

SUMMIT — Grandmothers and other relatives who yearn to see their family, but are timid about venturing out on the highways and up into the airways, gather round while Grandma Peg presents a guide to traveling by bus and train.

A handful of quarters will take you from Summit to the Newark Amtrak train station by No. 70 bus (five quarters, to be exact). From there it's north to Boston, or south to Washington, D.C., with connections on down the east coast.

For this Grandma, it was north to Canton, Mass. south of Boston, to see her 3 month old granddaughter, Andrea Hopkins Thurler, baptized. (Five and one half hours door to door).

A wrench would have been a handy tool to have as the bus left Broad Street and rattled through Millburn, Maplewood, Springfield, Irvington, and on to Newark. Tightening the bolts that held the seats to the floor would have made for a smoother ride. But never mind, the bus kept to its schedule, the train glided into the station on time, and Amtrak's finest headed north. Up on Saturday took a $38 ticket. Back on Monday cost $10. Modern cars made it easy to walk to the snack bar for coffee and a frankfurter. No doors to drag open. Press the black button, and the door slid back to let you through, then closed automatically.

Time passed quickly—doing the crossword puzzle in the Newark Star Ledger took one and one half hours. The quiet inside the car enabled passengers to listen to conversations.

As the train crossed the bridge over the Connecticut River a four year old across the aisle commented, "That's my favorite river, now how far is it to the Mississippi, three or four miles?"

Two boys who had a radio tuned in to a local station were asked to turn it off because, said the conductor, "It interferes with the reception up front."

The prizes for the most unusual signs along the route with questionable spelling and grammar would go to a parking lot sign that read, "Violators will be summonsed," and a restaurant sign that said, "Food-coctails" (sic). Conspicuously missing were station signs identifying the towns—the local stops that the train sped past.

Most unusual piece of luggage brought on board the train was a 25 pound Purina Dog Chow bag, bulging with the traveler's "worldly goods."

Late summer wildflowers grew beside the train tracks, the pink of Marsh Mallows, the yellow of Goldenrod, the white of Queen Anne's Lace, deep pink of Wild Phlox, and fields of a purple flower native to New England, that only a botanist could identify.

The trip back to Summit was a breeze, train and bus were on schedule. The necessary quarters had been hoarded for bus fare. (One passenger boarded the bus with a dollar bill, and the bus ground to a halt while quarters from helpful seatmates were rounded up to make change.)

Traveling by bus and train from Summit to vacation land is practically worry-free—are you counting your quarters?—There is an adventure to be experienced along the way, and a restfulness upon arrival that makes public transportation preferable for people like Grandma Peg.

Runnells Hospital: a history of service, a future of efficiency

By Louis J. Coletti
Acting County Manager

One of Union County's oldest and most honored institutions, John E. Runnells Hospital, has been the center of considerable controversy in recent weeks. The combination of an aging and inefficient physical plant with serious instances of mismanagement have created untenable financial burdens for the future.

The quality of care at John E. Runnells Hospital is not at issue. Patient care staff and volunteers have consistently demonstrated exemplary levels of service. County officials have received innumerable letters from patients and their relatives about the dedication of these fine people.

My concerns are directed to the maintenance or expansion of our hospital services at a prudent and reasonable cost to the taxpayers of Union County. The Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on John E. Runnells Hospital and the Long Range Plan prepared by Memorial General Hospital have explored numerous areas where economies can be realized while enhancing the quality of care. Many of those recommendations are currently being implemented.

The concept of constructing a new health care facility has been discussed for many years. Primarily because of financial considerations the concept has never become a reality.

There is no dispute that the current complex is structurally antiquated and operationally inefficient. To invest a substantial amount of tax dollars in the existing facility is not economically feasible. A massive amount of renovation is necessary to bring the hospital into compliance with the New Jersey Administrative Code and to bring the facility to proper and efficient operating levels. Over the years various state regulatory officials, architects, engineers, and energy experts have indicated that the only financially justifiable solution is the construction of a new facility.

Financing this project is of paramount concern. At present, Union County enjoys a desirable AAA bond rating, a valid measure of our ability to provide services in an efficient and economic measure. A project estimated to cost $17.5 million must be considered in the context of the county's long-term financial well being. The recommendation of the Ad Hoc Committee to sell the property south of Route 1-78 to finance a considerable portion of the project is a viable and necessary financial alternative compared to total capital funding.

The completion of Route 78 makes this prime real estate that will command a favorable market value. In complying with statutory requirements, the property will be publicly advertised. All interested parties must submit sealed bids for consideration by county officials.

While my current assessment leads me to believe that a new health care facility is not only desirable but a wise financial decision, other recommendations require careful consideration. These proposed changes at Runnells will have a significant impact on the health care delivery system in this county. They will also have an effect on the financial base of the institution itself. In my view, the only responsible course of action requires that we take the time to evaluate these issues before making a decision with consequences for county residents for many years to come. We are moving expeditiously in terms of meeting of state regulatory agencies but at the same time carefully assessing other recommendations in both reports. For example, a meeting of approximately 50 community mental health agencies will take place this week to discuss the mental health program at the hospital. Additional community input should and will occur as the project develops.

Union County has the fifth largest population of residents 65 years and older in the state. It is clear that the need for long-term care will continue into the foreseeable future. As stated in the Governor's Nursing Home Task Force Report, special attention should be paid to the 75 plus age cohort, which is expected to increase significantly between 1980 and 1990. Often called the "old-old," this group is the one most at risk of requiring institutional care. This fact can be understood by noting that the average age of a nursing home resident is 84.

The current bed shortage is a problem that affects most seriously the Medicaid-eligible population. This county has a proven record of providing health care services to this segment of its population and will continue to strengthen its commitment as the new Runnells project develops.

Of equal importance to meeting the institutional needs of our elderly population is the necessity of developing a more balanced long-term care system. Most families use the institutionalization of their loved ones only as a final option. Union County needs to incorporate an expanded home and community-based care system that will allow the elderly to remain in a home setting should they so desire. The development of such a system should take place in concert with the construction of a new health care facility.

The alcohol rehabilitation and mental health programs of the current facility also provide services that would not be affordable to most of the clients they serve. These services, whether provided on or off the site of the new facility are an integral part of local health care and shall be maintained. The issue of providing these services on or off the site is deserving of a thorough analysis prior to any final determinations.

Back pain need not be 'forever'

A mother leans over to pick up her toddler and before she picks the child up, a stabbing pain immobilizes her.

A commuter walks away from the train and realizes it's a good thing his wife is meeting him with the car, his back is hurting...again.

These are actual case histories, typical of the kinds of reasons people are referred to and sign up for the "Y's Way to a Healthy Back" offered at the Summit Area YMCA.

The Summit Area YMCA's Healthy Back Program is not unique. It's part of a national program that has been featured in "The Wall Street Journal" and national consumer magazines. The class was developed by medical experts to help people help themselves. The class helps people to relieve back pain, and in many cases, avoid surgery.

Many experts believe that the key to long term relief from back pain is in strengthening and stretching the muscles in the back and abdomen.

Healthy Back instructor Diane

Martin says, "The program focuses on how to work, play, move and exercise to reduce stress on the spine."

Class participants, she says, learn basic anatomy and back care, and, the best part, they gain confidence and a feeling of control in being able to keep pain away.

Most students have few recurrences of back pain, spend less on treatment, and miss fewer days of work as they continue to exercise.

Ralph Pedicini, a hair dresser at Innovations in Short Hills says the program is extremely effective for him.

He says, "I went to the class, two nights a week for six weeks and began feeling terrific."

Pedicini is on his feet a lot during the work day and a back problem could cause him serious difficulties.

"I'm continuing the exercises now," he says, "and I feel much better."

A woman with a degenerative disc problem says, "The Healthy Back Program was the best thing I ever did." She has a young and active child and an extremely busy life. "Doing the exercises gives me the confidence to get through my schedule comfortably."

"My doctor," she continues, "told me about the class and said he thought it would help me. He was right."

Helen Coen of Short Hills says the exercises have helped her and many of her athletically-involved friends who use the exercises as both warm up and cool down workouts.

"It's really a good program," she says, "and a regular part of my fitness routine."

A new series of Healthy Back Classes begins in September.

Summit Unico in wins way to Intra-County League Finals

Summit Unico finished its regular season with a 10-8 record and a 4th place finish to gain a berth in the ICL playoffs. Summit's season started off as though Summit would run away with the title as it began with a 4-2 record.

But then a dark cloud seemed to hang over Summit's head as they began to play poorly against some of the weaker teams of the league and play strong ball against the usually strong Westfield and Rahway teams.

The season saw Summit go on a combination of 3 game streaks. From a 4-2 first place record, Summit then lost 3 straight, won 3 straight, lost 3 straight again. Then it won its final 3 games to enter the playoffs.

In Summit's second 3-game streak, coaches Chris Tarashuk and John Mochandless had a talk with the players letting them know that they still had a chance to get into the playoffs. In its very next game, Summit lost to Westfield 2-1 in a very close game. After that Summit took its next three games highlighted by a 12-3 victory versus Rahway which saw Dave Munzo hit three home runs, including a grand slam and 7 RBI's.

Horn heroics
In Summit's regular season finale, fans witnessed a 6-4 victory against Westfield. Summit knew it had to win to have a chance for the playoffs, but before doing so, Summit needed some last inning relief heroics by Leroy Horn. Going into the bottom of the 7th inning, Summit was leading by a score of 6-4.

Mike Barrow gave up a leadoff single. Then a double by Mike Padula put runners on second and third with nobody out! Chris Tarashuk then went to the mound to summon righty, Leroy Horn to relieve Barrow. Leroy came in to strike out the three batters he faced to preserve Barrow's victory. (See "Unico ousts Westfield," this page.

Season notes
Summit ended its season batting .319 as a team. On this year's team it saw the likes of Paul Tarashuk: BA-.356, 17 runs, 2 triples, 4 doubles, 14 walks and 9 SB's. Brad Vance: BA-.313, 10 walks and solid defense between 3rd base and shortstop. Mike Barrow: BA-.409, 18 hits, 9 RBI's and 3 wins, 1 loss record with a save in relief. Pat Emplezare in his first year for Summit with a BA-.289, 8 runs, 3 doubles, 9 RBI's, 8 SB's and solid defense in Centerfield. Chris Mardany: BA-.333, 9 runs, 17 hits (2nd on team) and solid defense at first base. Ken Weeks: BA-.454, 9 walks and some clutch hitting and fielding. Mike DelGrande and Paul Aumont combine for 4 wins highlighted with DelGrande's 4-hitter over Rahway. Dave Munzo: BA-.438, 3 HR's, 9 RBI's. Leroy Horn: BA-.368, 1 HR, 6 RBI's and coming back down the stretch of the season with some strong relief pitching when needed. Other players who did a great job coming off the bench when needed were Dan Murphy playing 2B and OF, John Shields at 3B and SS, Matt Sinclair-C and DH, John Redunski-3B, John Bartz, P-OF-DH and Matt Schwarz playing OF.

THE SLOPITCH CHAMPIONSHIP was snagged by the Wallberg Studios on Friday, August 17 as Terry's Luncheonette fell for the third playoff game in a row, giving Wallberg the required three out of five games. After a heated battle with a 4-3 finish, players shook hands before leaving the field--to practice for next year!

Austin Speni and Graham Officer

Summit's aces NJ Tennis Association

The Summit Tennis Club

recently hosted the New Jersey Tennis Association's Junior Tournament. Summit claimed three of the top four seeds in the tournament--seeded first through fourth were Wes Bartlett, Lake Valhalla Club; William Borden, Beacon Hill Club, Summit; Braden Bell, Summit Tennis Club; and Ashley Griggitt, Beacon Hill Club.

Wes Bartlett ran true to seed, winning the tournament 6-4, 6-1 over Braden Bell. Consolation Champion of the competition was Graham Officer, Summit Tennis Club, who defeated Austin Speni of the Beacon Hill Club with a score of 7-5, 6-2.

Board of Recreation kicks off football program

SUMMIT — The Summit Board of Recreation sponsored football program for boys in grades four through eight will begin Sat., Sept. 1. Players on vacation during this date will report Sat., Sept. 8.

The program will begin at 9 am at Tatlock field, for approximately two hours. All players will report to the game field bleachers. In case of rain, players will meet at the Edison Recreation Center.

To assure that each boy will compete with other boys of his own age and weight, individuals will be placed on one of four squads according to an age and weight co-efficient.

The program for younger, smaller and less experienced boys will last approximately ten weeks and consists of (A) Warm-up, (B) Football Fundamentals, and (C) Game Participation.

The three more experienced squads wearing the Summit colors of maroon, white and gold jerseys, will play a proposed schedule against Berkeley Heights, Mountainside, Millburn, Chatham Boro, Springfield, Chatham Township, South Orange, Westfield, and Scotch Plains. Additional practices for these two groups will be held on Wednesday afternoons after school at Tatlock field.

Each boy in the Paperweight and Flyweight groups will need a good helmet (white). NOC-SAE approved helmets will be provided to the Batam-weights. All players will need shoulder pads, practice jersey, football pants, tooth guard, athletic supporter with cup, and rubber-molded cleats. Each boy is requested to print his last name on a piece of adhesive tape and place it on the front of his helmet.

Registration forms have been mailed to previous participants and are now available at the Memorial Field Office and beginning Aug. 27 at the Edison Recreation Center. Each registration must be signed by a parent and accompanied by a doctor's certificate of good health.

The registration deadline is Tues., Aug. 28.

Fore!

Bob Harris of Summit has qualified to win a free trip to Scotland for two and $1,000 as a result of scoring a hole-in-one at the Miles Grant Country Club. Bob's ace qualified him for the 24th Annual Drambuie Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Liqueur Co. of Edinburgh, Scotland.
