Rabbi Horn bids farewell after 43 years

By LIZ KEILL

SUMMIT — Rabbi William Horn was just getting out of his car, carrying a big cardboard box, when I arrived to interview him at the Jewish Community Center on Kent Place Boulevard.

"I'm sorting through books, and I'll show you what I mean," he said as he opened the door to his office. Rabbi Horn will retire at the end of June, after leading his congregation for 43 years.

Although his office holds floorto-ceiling books on philosophy, religion and history, and the center's library is one of his favorite rooms, he sees himself as an activist more than a scholar. He attended New York University and Yeshiva University, and received an honorary doctorate from the Jewish Theological Semi-

His office reflects other enthusiasms, too. On one wall is a tribute to the late Frank Sinatra. Not only is he a long-time fan and acquaintance of the entertainer, but he has a framed picture of the two of them as well. 'He was a story teller and a star from the time he was born. He had savoir faire," the rabbi said of Sinatra's style. Another love is boxing, and he proudly displayed boxing gloves signed by Arturio Gotti. In another corner is a replica of Louis Armstrong singing "Hello Dolly" and a policeman statuette. If you lift his hat, a voice says, "Don't rob the cookie jar," or words to that effect. 'I love to see the kids' reactions." he said of this eclectic collection.

It's apparent that Rabbi Horn has show biz in his soul. As a teenager, he performed on Broadway in Kurt Weill's "Street Scene." But, he said. "I didn't feel I had a future" as a performer. Those talents, however, have not been wasted. Before giving a sermon, he would deliver stand-up comedy for 20 minutes, he said. That, of course, was before a stroke slowed him down two years ago. Rabbi Horn said the congregation was "wonderful, supportive and helpful. They left me alone when I needed time to recover." He explained he couldn't speak for three or four months and needed intensive speech and physical therapy. He said, "When I started conducting services again. I needed everything typed, like when to say 'please stand.' I knew the words, but sometimes they wouldn't come to me. A stroke will do that.

Yet that support is a two-way

Rabbi William Horn

street. Rabbi Horn has served as Summit's police chaplain and has been available for individual counseling. "But we meet informally," he added, "maybe at the diner or just going for a walk." One of his most meaningful outreach efforts, he noted, is at Overlook Hospital. "You can save somebody's life by changing their way of thinking," he said of the need to find an understanding

"When I came here, I only expected to stay five years," he recalled. He had been warned, in fact, by the Rabbinical Assembly that the congregation had gone through about 10 rabbis in as many years, "They eat their rabbis," he was told. But, he said, "I was a tough Brook-lyn kid. What could they do to me?" Eventually, the congregation came around, and by the time he announced his retirement he told his teen-age students, "Do you realize how proud I am of you?" One of the youngsters replied, 'We're so proud of you.' Then we all cried together. It was such a warm moment."

Rabbi Horn said his door is always open to young people. They don't need an appointment. "They may have to wait a few minutes, but they know I'll see them," he said. "I have a great relationship with teenagers. We kibitz and kid around."

The rabbi stressed how important it is to have someplace to turn. "As a kid, my whole neighborhood was my family," he said of his youth near Coney Island. "It's nice to know if you have a problem, you can talk to someone just three blocks away." With families living farther apart and so many parents retiring to Florida, he said, "That's fine for the first 10 or 15 years, but when you're older, it's hard. My father was 93, and the last two years I had to be back and forth to Florida. Yet I was not around when he died."

His compassion shows in a thriving congregation, which has grown from 80 families when he arrived to 350 today. That includes a nursery school for 80 children, a religious school of about 100 youngsters, a high school group of 20 and a youth group of 40.

Plans are in the works to expand the center.

"We bought two parcels adjoining our building. There's a lot of property, and now we're engaged in fundraising. We hope to start construction in April 2006." If plans are approved by the Zoning Board of Adjustment, the new building will house a sanctuary, among other

Rabbi Horn said he will continue to live on Edgar Street in Summit with his wife, Dena, and not too far from his three adult children and nine grandchildren (enough for a baseball team, he pointed out.)

"It's not heaven, but it's life," he said of his long and rewarding career. "I can't believe I've been here

City okays review of its Master Plan

By LIZ KEILL

SUMMIT — The city's planning consultant, Susan Gruel, of Heyer, Gruel and Associates, is expected to re-examine the city's Master Plan during 2005, Planning Board Chairman Paul Deehan wrote in a memo to Common Council in May. Funding for the project, at a cost of $15,000, is included in the 2005 operating budget, he said.

Master Plan 2000 was developed by resident Phyllis Sank, along with a task force, and made recommendations for re-zoning of certain properties, providing buffers between business and residential areas and other aspects that would continue to make Summit both livable and affordable.

The newest study would include: Identifying problems and objectives relating to land development since the last report.

- Analyzing density and distribution of population and land uses.

- Reviewing housing conditions. - Appraising conservation of natural resources and energy.

- Reviewing disposition and recycling of materials.

- Reviewing changes in state, county and municipal policies and objectives. Preparation would include three meetings with the Planning Board sub-committee and would be completed within six months of authorization to proceed.

City administrator Christopher Cotter also submitted a proposal to complete a Housing Element/Fair Share Plan as part of the Master Plan. "The recently adopted Round Three COAH (Council on Affordable Housing) regulations are considerably more complex and will require more detailed planning analysis," he said.

Ms. Gruel would perform the study at a cost of $20,000, with funding available in the operating

The requirements include analysis of historic and future development, zoning and supporting documentation.

Ms. Gruel spelled out a number of specifics in the study:

An inventory of the municipality's housing stock by age, condition, purchase or rental value, occupancy characteristics and type, including the number of affordable to low and moderate income households, as well as substandard housing capable of being rehabilitated.

- A projection of the city's housg stock, including future construction of low and moderate income housing for the next 10 years.

- A Fair Share plan to meet new obligations. The 1987-2014 fair share includes municipality sponsored construction projects, regional contribution agreements, alternative living arrangements, buy-down programs, accessory apartments, expanded crediting opportunities and municipally sponsored rental pro-

An analysis of demographic characteristics, including household size, income level and age.

- An analysis of the existing and possible future employment in the community.

In addition, Ms. Gruel has proposed reviewing certificates of occupancy issued since Jan. 1, 2004, construction and demolition permits issued and projected, approval of applications for development and historic trends.

SUMMIT — With an increased number of tear-downs and renovations going on in neighborhoods throughout the city, the Zoning Board of Adjustment has issued guidelines to control development, spare trees and prevent drainage problems. The board delivered its annual report to Common Council last month.

The report states there are "numerous violations of the Summit DROs (development regulation ordinance)" and that violators should be fined. In many cases, the homeowner has already started work before the application is submitted or work is completed before the request for a variance is granted.

"The Zoning Board is left with homeowner to remove a patio or structure at great expense. In many cases, the damage is already done. Drainage has been disturbed. Trees have been removed." the report

In neighboring Berkeley Heights and New Providence, fines range from $1,000 to $5,000 to remove a tree over eight inches in diameter without a permit.

Steep slopes are also covered in the report. Building on those terrains can create drainage problems for low-lying neighbors. The report specifically describes a Wildwood Lane site, where the applicant said an enhanced drainage plan would be better than a vacant lot. But once the work is done, neighbors have little recourse for their grievances if problems result. In addition, erosion can well as endangering existing trees. The board recommends the city forester be pro-active in seeing that homeowners develop a plan to protect trees from damage during construction.

The board would require applicants to replace any trees damaged or removed during construction that the city forester has designated should be saved. As part of a tree protection plan, the applicant would be required to show all trees that would be impacted. Failure to replace trees would result in a fine.

The report addresses a one-wall standing approach, which some homeowners have used to side-step permits for new construction.

The board now requires a front yard setback in which 25 percent of the linear footage of the pre-existing, front-facing wall is altered.

Board to bond for capital improvements

By MIKE DeMARCO

BERKELEY HEIGHTS -Board of Education members last week were presented with a school renovation budget estimated at between $21,304,450 and $23,304,450.

Two presentations on the renova-tion project, which the board will present to the New Jersey Department of Education for state aid on June 15, were heard during the board's May 26 meeting at Columbia Middle School. Board members said they hope to have aid secured in time for a bond referendum in De-

Member Paul Beisser explained that the presentations followed a meeting of the board's Facilities Committee, which consists of members Mr. Beisser, Denis Smalley, vice president Joseph Bruno and an alternate, John Sincaglia. The state requires a district to submit a long-range facility plan (LFRP) every five years; Berkeley Heights' last was in 2000.

Many improvements, including to all the schools' heating and ventilation systems, need to be made, according to Mr. Beisser.

District bond counsel Andrea Kahn discussed bond options, not-proposed, it must be approved by the Department of Education. The floor for state aid is 40 percent of a plan's eligible costs. "All renovation costs are eligible" provided they relate to educational ends, safety, health," Ms. Kahn said. An alternative to a grant is debt service relief, which would be provided at the same percentage at which a district would be eligible for direct aid. For example, a district for the state would have provided 40 percent of its costs directly and would have 40 percent of its debt service covered. If Berkeley Heights opts for debt service relief, it would have to bond the entire cost of the project.

It takes the department 90 days to review an application. If the application is granted, the district will have 60 days to file a written request for a special election for a bond referendum. Special election dates are limited to September, December, March and June. After the board receives a letter from the state, called a PEC letter, it may make minor revisions to its plan, but may not make major changes. In the past, Ms. Kahn said, she would have recommended going for the grant because it would have been ing that every time a capital plan is a "sure thing," whereas the money for debt service aid would have to be appropriated every year. However. the state is currently unaware of precisely how much of promised grant money will actually be available. In addition, the state's authority to give grants is being challenged by litigation. Due to the uncertainty, Ms. Kahn suggested that seeking debt service aid might be the sounder option. She said that the debt service schedules her office has devised are conservative, based on a five percent interest rate, which will vary in real-

> Ms. Kahn added that the state may choose to fund any percentice of the eligible costs - anywhere the tween zero and 40 percent.

District architect Peter Campisano of USA Architects, project consultant Mike Bryson and engineer David Strunk of Albert & Strunk Engineering presented their plan and budget for the renovations, which had been worked with the Facilities Committee.

It includes work on all the schools, including full or partial roof replacement work, window replacement, exterior door replacement, nurse's office upgrades, stair tower door replacement work and bleacher upgrades. Partial asbestos removal would be undertaken at Governor Livingston and Columbia. Ventilation air improvements, exhaust fan replacement work and air conditioning work are also included. At Governor Livingston, there would be stadium field turf upgrades and the replacement of four tennis courts. The total of renovations are as follows: Governor Livingston High School: $8,430.500, Columbia Middle School: $3.035,500. Hamilton Terrace Early Childhood Center: $2,083,500, Thomas P. Hughes Elementary School: $1,558,500, Mountain Park Elementary School: $1,498,500, and William Woodruff Elementary School: $1,320,500, for a $17,926,500 total in construction work, and $5,377,950 in soft costs (15 percent contingency fees, A/E fees, state review fees, bonding, and environmental fees).

The total project cost estimate is $23,304,450. A 40 percent state grant would be $9,321,780, with a ocal share of $13,982,670.

However, Mr. Campisano and Mr. Strunk said that the cost of conversation from steam to hot water heat distribution had been left in the

They argued that steam and hot water distribution would be more efficient and thus a worthwhile investment. However, if it were taken out, it would reduce the overall cost of the project by approximately $2 mil-

Mr. Beisser and Mr. Campisano said that, if all the things that the team found to be renovated were worked on, the plan would run to approximately $50 million.

The members and the presenters discussed the advantages and disadvantages of replacing vs. repairing most exhaust fans, as well as doing other projects by a repair or renovation approach.

"Do we really want Band-Aids?" Mr. Beisser asked. "We've got boiling systems that are 50 to 60 years old, the heating systems are a mess...If we proceed with renovations, are we going to put Band-Aids on everything, or are we going to do it right? If it's not done to the standards people expect, they'll say,

"Why did you waste my money?"

"Let's do it the right way," Mr.
Bruno said, so that the improvements will last for 20 years.

Mr. Strunk, Mr. Bryson and Mr. Campisano will again appear before the board during the body's Thursday, June 9, meeting at 8 p.m.

Price of freedom is parade's theme

By MIKE DeMARCO

BERKELEY HEIGHTS - With the theme "Freedom is not free; our troops have paid the price," the township paid tribute to its deceased and living veterans and to current soldiers with its Memorial Day parade and field ceremony on May 30.

The Grand Marshal was Vincent Groppi. Mr. Groppi and his family rode in a special car. Mr. Groppi was also the field ceremony's keynote speaker. Iraq war veteran and Berkeley Heights police officer Dan Seib was also honored.

The parade began by the Berkeley Heights Volunteer Rescue Squad headquarters at the intersection of Locust and Snyder avenues at ap-Memorial Park on Park Avenue, the site of the field ceremony. In addition to the Grand Marshal vehicle, the parade featured a special police car, a military vehicle and Humm V, the Berkeley Heights wastewater treatment plant and Road Department vehicles, and vintage cars of the Schulz and Stauber families Among those marching were the Township Committee, Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), Post 6259, the Berkeley Heights Volunteer Fire Department and Ladies Auxiliary, the 3rd New Jersey Regiment/Revolutionary War Reenactment Group, the Rescue Squad, the Berkeley Heights Nursing/Rehab Center bus, Senior Citizens of Berkeley Heights, the Governor Livingston High School Highlander Band, Westminster Nursery School, the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies and Daisies, the Adventure Guides, and the Dixieland Band. Also featured were Berkeley Heights Recreation - Girls' Softball, the Berkeley Heights Police Athletic League (PAL), the Galloping Hill Cruisers, and the Summit Area Chapter of the

At approximately 10:30 a.m., the field ceremony began with Westminster Presbyterian Church pastor John M. Luyben's invocation. The Boy, Cub and Girl Scouts and Adventure Guides then recited the Pledge of Alliance and were followed by resident Christina Ryan's rendition of the "Star-spangled Banner." Afterward, parade/field cere-mony chairman Craig Pastore addressed the crowd, noting, "I've been doing this for 13 years. On this important day, let's remember that we have men and women out there right now protecting our freedom. Good men and women have sacrificed to fight tyranny and preserve democracy. Their efforts...have made the world a better place."

"One of the reasons we have this parade is to pause and remember those who serve in Iraq and Afghanistan, not just today but every day," Mayor David Cohen said as he introduced Mr. Groppi.

Referring to those who have lost loved ones to war, he added, "We cannot understand their loss, nor comprehend the measure of their Current soldiers, Mayor Cohen said, "stand up between us and evil and tyranny." He added that, for those active in the Berkeley Heights community, Mr. Groppi needed no introduction.

"To paraphrase a line from the late Arthur Miller," Mr. Groppi said, "just being around to receive this award is a great joy...To earn the respect of your peers is the highest compliment any man can hope to receive. I'm deeply humbled...Although, at present, there is no timetable for withdrawing our troops from Iraq," people can pre-pare for the day that they come home; they should be welcomed as

VFW Commander Raymond Di-Giambattista said, "Many times in our nation's history, the military has been called upon to preserve freedom and the rule of law. As I speak, it is nighttime in a very dangerous part of the world." Referring to soldiers' sacrifices, he added, "We, not they, enjoy" the benefits of their sacrifices. Mr. DiGiambattista said that the United States is uniquely successful because of the freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and protected by soldiers. "Your freedom comes at a heavy price," he said. "For every death, there are many wounded. Many must spend their lives institutionalized because of broken minds and bodies. Our hard-earned rights will endure only if a few of us are willing to go into harm's way.'

Local businesses make pledge to back a benefit duck race

AREA — Businesses in Berkeley Heights, New Providence, Stirling, Gillette and Mountainside have been contributing to this year's Rubber Duck Race in Berkeley Heights.

"We have been amazed at the generosity of so many of our local businesses," said Gerry Harris, chairman of the race for the Berkeley Heights Rotary Club. "More than $2,500 in prizes have been donated, some 80 prizes, which will boost ticket sales in aid of our good

Highlights of the prizes include a Ski Scooter, free bagels for a year, jewelry treasure chests, a $150 hair cosmetics travel bag, $150 of sports memorabilia and gift certificates from many of the local restaurants and businesses.

The Rubber Duck Race takes place on Saturday, June 18, at the soccer fields on Springfield Avenue by Passaic River Park in Berkeley Heights. Tickets are on sale at Kings Supermarket, Hilltop Bank and Summit Federal Savings Bank. Boy Scouts from Troop 368 are also selling tickets. Each duck is numbered to match a ticket number.

The race starts at 10:30 a.m., when the rubber ducks will dive into the Passaic River, jostling for the lead. The competitors will reach the finish line by the soccer fields, where the winning ducks will earn their lucky owners a prize.

Hot dogs and soda will be for sale, and there will be games and fun for families.

The funds raised by the Berkeley Heights Rotary Club are given back to the community as scholarships to Berkeley Heights seniors from Governor Livingston High School, chartering the local Boy Scout troops and packs, sponsoring a medic alert program for more than 80 seniors in Berkeley Heights and New Providence, and making other donations to local projects and organizations.

The Berkeley Heights Rotary Club also contributes internationally to the Polio Plus Program, whose goal is the eradication of polio worldwide, and helps with the Pedals for Progress Program.

Businesses that have donated prizes so far include A Gem of a Deal, Alex's Getty, Aquila Italian Bistro, Bad Moo Games, Bensi's, Berkeley Berkeley Carwash, Heights Dental Group, Berkeley News, Berkeley Heights YMCA, Blimpie, Chez Z Restaurant, D&S Interiors, Delicious Heights, Dolce Restaurant, Dunkin Donuts, Espresso Pizza, Feathers Hair Salon, Ferdinand Jewelers, Fountain of Vitality Health Foods, Hacienda Restaurant, Hair & Beyond, Hall's Garden Center, Hooray For Toys, J Michaels Jewelers, KaBloom Flower Shop, Kings Supermarket, Krauszers Food Shop, Leisure Travel, Marcellos Restaurant, Michael Salon, Neelam Restaurant, New Pizza Stop, New Prestige Diner, New Providence Florist, Panera Bread, Quilt Connection. #### Officials: State health coverage too high

By LIZ KEILL

SUMMIT — Common Council received information from the New Jersey League of Municipalities that would have yet another impact on taxpayers.

William G. Dressel Jr., executive director of the New Jersey League of Municipalities, has written to Mayor Jordan Glatt and other mayors in the state that this is one more 'burden" on taxpayers.

The league has urged council members and residents to write to their senators opposing a move that would increase health coverage to and overall economic shortages."

state employees.

The Senate Health, Human Services and Senior Citizens Committee has proposed expanded mental health coverage that would require all state health insurers to cover unlimited treatment for alcoholism and other substance abuse disorders.

Its timing and costs "give no consideration to the impact on the defenseless property taxpayer caught in the middle," Mr. Dressel said. "Municipalities are stretched to the limit, coping with decreased state aid, reduced property tax revenues

Mr. Dressel notes that health benefit cost is the fastest growing budget item for municipal and county government. Acting Governor Richard Cody has said that providing lifelong health benefits to state employees and teachers is "breaking the bank." He projected within four years spending for health benefits will surpass the $4 billon mark.

The league is urging Senate representatives to "cease and desist passing another healthcare man-

Thomas K. Williams, 91, long-time local resident

A memorial service will be held for Thomas Kniley Williams on Sunday, June 5, at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist Church of Summit, 17 Kent Place Boulevard.

Mr. Williams graduated from Wyoming Seminary in Pennsylva-nia, and from Washington and Lee University in Virginia.

Mr. Williams moved to Summit in 1949, and was a resident of Summit and New Providence until his move to Keswick Pines, Whiting, one and a half years ago.

He worked for the Arkansas Company, Newark, until his retirement, and then worked for many years assisting his son, the late Thomas K. Williams Jr., at Williams Land Company.

Mr. Williams was a member of the Free Masons for more than 65 years, and was active in the Eastern Star along with his late wife, Laura K. Williams, in both the Pearl Chapter, Dover, and the Atlas Chapter, Westfield. He served as Worthy Patron for several chapters, filling this position more than 30 times.

An avid swimmer, Mr. Williams volunteered with the Summit Chapter of the American Red Cross for more than 20 years, helping with its swimming program for the handi-

Rocco G. Cirelli, 88, machinist, florist and golfer

Rocco G. Cirelli, 88, died at home on Thursday, May 26, 2005. Born in Murray Hill, he remained a lifelong resident.

A funeral mass was offered at Our Lady of Peace Church in New Providence on May 31, followed by entombment at St. Teresa's Mausoleum, Summit. Arrangements were by the Paul Ippolito Berkeley

Mr. Cirelli was a caddy at the Murray Hill Golf Club during the Depression years, as well as working in his father's greenhouses raising roses.

From 1950 to 1961, he was a machinist for the Mack Truck Company in Plainfield. In addition, he was a great golfer, and won many awards for the Mack Truck team.

He then attended the Floral School of Design in New York City and trained in the flower shop at the Algonquin Hotel in New York City. In 1961, he established the New Providence Florist, where he was the owner until 1972.

In 1972, he began work as a packaging clerk at Ciba-Geigy Pharmaceuticals in Summit for 13 years before his 1985 retirement.

An Army veteran of World War II. Mr. Cirelli served in a M.A.S.H. unit. He sailed on the Aquitania, a British ship, and was stationed in Persia, which today is Iran.

He was a member of the Scotch Hills Golf Club in Scotch Plains.

It's hard to put into words what Rocky has meant to all of us who knew him.

I met him when he was 70 years old. I was yet a baby, and he was already an old man. At a period that many people use to relax and enjoy their retirement, he gave up much of his time to driving me to and from school in his little red Tovota, making me grilled cheese sandwiches when I was sick, teaching me how to perfect my golf swing when I wasn't and keeping me company when Aunt Fran was out getting her hair done. He was my great uncle, but he treated me like a grandson.

Uncle Rock could barely finish a sentence before he had us all quaking with laughter. He made you feel comfortable. He made you happy to be around him.

Uncle Rock was a gentleman, raised during the Great Depression. nurtured by a large, loving Italian family. Growing up in this historic time period, he learned lessons of humility and respect that would shape his personality and life.

As a young adult, he served in the Army during World War II. He did not fight, however. His contribution was through that of a M.A.S.H. unit, a group of soldiers who provided quick and constant care to wounded soldiers. Even in war, he found a way to be gentle. He participated solely out of loyalty and devotion to his country. As a mature adult, he came to find war as an unnecessary evil, and even then, he knew that peace could only be discovered through gentle acts of kindness and

For much of his adult life, after he left the Army, he worked with flowers. Skillfully arranging them with his hands, his shop was ripe with their fragrance. "It is the work of the Sprit of God to make us more and more like Jesus so that we carry the fragrance of the knowledge of Him wherever we go," reads a verse from Second Corinthians. Not only did he carry the sweet fragrance of flowers with him after a hard day's work, he also carried this Holy fragrance, one only intensified by his humility. It was easy for him to put others first.

A MORNING WITH MAYOR GLATT — Summit Mayor Jordan Glatt recently read to kindergarteners at The Learning Circle. The mayor read "Casey at the Bat," by Ernest Lawrence Thayer and "Where the Sidewalk Ends: Poems and Drawings," by Shel Silverstein. Then he took questions from the audience of five and six-year-olds, who wanted to know what the mayor does, whether he is a teacher, if he goes to concerts, has children, is like President Bush, what sort of laws he makes, whether he meets other mayors, if he gives speeches and if he goes to meetings. Then the Learning Circle kindergartners presented Mayor Glatt with a book they had made for him. a thank-you for his time and company.

Be a 'Peeping Tom' for N.J. horseshoe crabs

By MICHELE S. BYERS

Want to help find spawning horseshoe crabs?

The N.J. Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has put out a call for volunteers to help identify horseshoe crab spawning habitats this spring.

New Jersey's Delaware Bay beaches are the main spawning, or egg-laying, grounds for the world's largest concentration of horseshoe crabs. This year, the N.J. Division of Fish and Wildlife is looking for current, personal observations of spawning activity. It's all part of an effort to protect the horseshoe crabs and their habitat.

Why all the fuss about horseshoe

Horseshoe crabs have been around for 250 million years. Their primitive body structure has withstood the test of time. Their thick curved shell makes it hard for predators to eat them. And they're tough! They can go a year without eating and can endure extreme temperatures and salinity.

Their eggs provide food for at least nine species of migrating shorebirds. The Delaware Bay has the Western Hemisphere's second largest spring shorebird migration

- and has attracted a S34 million ecotourism industry in Cape May and Cumberland counties alone.

But there is cause for alarm. Long-term research shows that horseshoe crab concentrations along the Delaware Bay beaches have declined significantly. One reason is over-harvesting of adult horseshoe crabs as bait for eel, whelk and conk. To preserve the crabs and crab eggs. several Mid-Atlantic states, including New Jersey, have now limited the crab harvest.

A severe decline in crab eggs means the future of these migrating birds is at stake. For instance, red knots must gain 80 grams, nearly doubling their body weight while feeding in the Delaware Bayshore, in order to reach their arctic nesting grounds and be capable of laying eggs. Red knots time their migration to arrive during horseshoe crab spawning season, just in time for the abundant eggs. They reach the Delaware Bay beaches, and the horseshoe crab egg buffet, at the end of a 2000-mile. 70-hour flight from South America.

They must gain weight quickly to fuel the rest of their trip to their breeding grounds on arctic Canadian islands. Horseshoe crab spawning season in New Jersev usually happens in late May and June. You'll find horseshoe crabs moving onto sandy beaches to mate and spawn. Areas that are protected from waves are particularly popular. like sandy beach areas within bays and coves. If you come across mating horseshoe crabs, you've found a spawning ground.

If you want to help with this spring's survey, your best chance to find activity is from a few days before to a few days after the June 6 new moon and June 22 full moon.

You can report your observations by filling out a "Horseshoe Crab Spawning Habitat Identification Form" at the Division's Web site. You can also call their toll free phone number, 1-866-NJ-CATCH (1-866-652-2824).

Just be sure to leave your name and telephone number so someone can reach you.

You can learn more about this program at the division's website. www.njfishandwildlife.com/news/2 005/hchabitat.htm.

Editor's note: Ms. Byers is executive director of the Far Hills-based New Jersey Conservation Foundation. She may be reached at 1-888-LAND-SAVÉ, or via e-mail at info@njconservation.org.

SOME SIBLING RIVALRY — Fourth and fifth graders at Washington School in Summit recently staged "How to Eat Like a Child (And Other Lessons in Not Being a Grown-Up)," a musical based on the book by Delia Ephron. Performing in the number called "How to Torture Your Sibling" were, from left, Cori Crisfield, Hope Trisler, Grace Newcomb, Madelyn Dottle and Rachel Burke.

'Prayer Safari' is the theme for local church's Bible school

BERKELEY HEIGHTS — Area children are invited to join a Prayer Safari, a journey into the Lord's Prayer, each morning from 9 a.m. to noon during the week of Aug. 1 to 5, at Westminster Presbyterian Church, 725 Mountain Ave. The Bible School offers fun and games with the focus on God's Word. The cost for the week is $25. Registration is open for students going into first to fourth grades. Preschool and kindergarten classes are already fully registered.

This year, as part of the church's revitalization efforts and building on its successful youth group ministry. the Vacation Bible School is expanding its outreach to students in middle school. Registration is now open for the new Prayer Explosion, a weeklong event for students who have completed fifth, sixth and seventh grades. This outreach for middle schoolers offers music, projects, worship, and prayer during the week of Aug. 1 to 5, each evening from 6 to 9 p.m., with dinner included. Reservations are first-come, firstserved. The cost for the week is $30 per student.

Westminster Bible School registration continues through June 1. Class sizes are limited. For information, call the director of youth ministries at 908-464-9400, ext. 14.

County arts grant deadline is June 6

AREA — Do you need funds for an arts project?

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders invites community arts organizations, schools, libraries, health and social service agencies, and other nonprofit organizations that wish to present cultural arts programs to apply for funding through the Union County Arts Grant Program. Funds for this program are made available through the Local Arts Program of the NJ State Council on the Arts, Department of State, a partner agency of the National Endowment for the Arts. The purpose of the grant program is to enrich the quality of life in Union County by stimulating and supporting production, presentation and understanding of the arts.

Arts activities to occur between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 2006, are eligible for consideration.

The Arts Grant Program awards grants to organizations that demon-ism in sponsoring or producing arts activities. Special project and general operating support grants are available. The deadline for proposals is Monday, June 6.

Fair raises funds for Washington School

SUMMIT — Washington School on Morris Avenue hosted its annual Country Fair on Saturday, May 21. The PTA fundraiser was declared a success by its organizers, once again aided by beautiful weather.

Washington School family, staff, friends and neighbors turned out to enjoy-the day's festivities, including old favorites like the musical cake walk, face painting, a bake sale and lots of fun games and crafts. The children were able to enjoy outdoor activities that included a giant dragon, the moonwalk, a hay ride and a new addition this year, two piñatas.

The tin can auction this year was bigger than ever, with more than 120 baskets donated by Washington School families, Summit businesses and even national businesses. As in the past, a highlight for students was being able to bid on special outings with their favorite Washington School teachers and staff, including spending time with principal Lauren Banker as "principal for a day."

The Country Fair is sponsored and run by the Washington School PTA and is the major fundraising activity for the PTA.

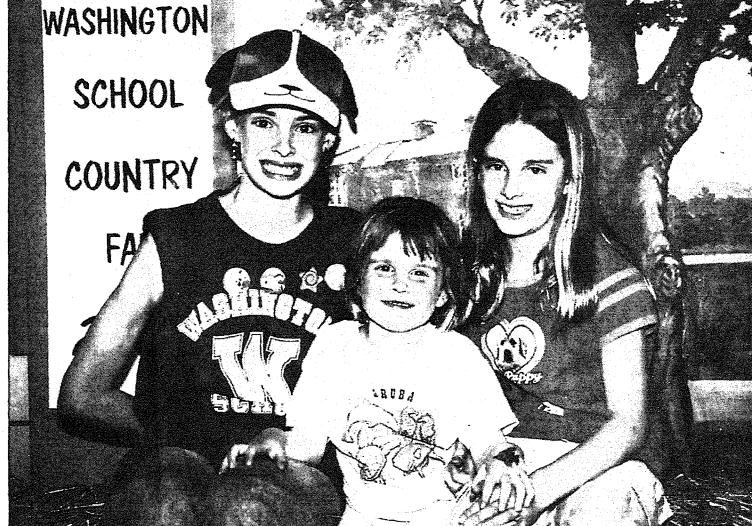

NICE WORK — First grader Tucker Hall displayed some of the artistic face painting done at the fair by Washington School fifth graders.

FAIR CO-CHAIRS — Country Fair co-chairs Kathy Po and Colleen Manion, with the assistance of many parent volunteers, began planning the school's biggest fundraiser last fall.

TATTOO TIME — Fifth grader Meghan Giffin, at far right, helped second grader Kallan Ryden and little sister Darby apply a tattoo.

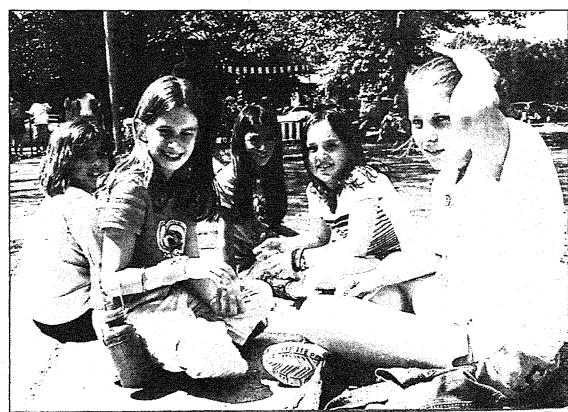

SAY, 'CHEESE' — Washington School alumni Megan Trindell posed with her sisters Lauren and third grader Erin at the Polaroid corner at the fair. The children were able to enjoy outdoor activities that included a giant dragon, the moonwalk, a hay ride and a new addition this year, two piñatas. The tin can auction this year was bigger than ever, with more than 120 baskets donated by Washington School families, Summit businesses and even national businesses.

NEW EVENT ENJOYED — Second grader Patrick Manion tried his best to open the piñata, which was a new event at the fair this year.

YOUNG POOL SHARK — Third grader Chris Melka tried his hand at the pool shark table, as Rob Meier officiated.

RACE TIME — It wasn't quite the Daytona 500, but these first graders didn't seem to mind. From left, Matthew Burke, Russell McIlwain, Jonathan Ollum, Michael Kaelin and his brother Brian started their engines, as Washington School parent Jill Corcoran refereed.

SUMMIT - With her final spring as a member of let alone to do it with people the Oak Knoll community drawing to a close, it is important to take time to reflect on the impact that Tara Tighe has had on our school. Over the past two decades, Miss Tighe has filled several different roles here - as a student, a coach, a teacher, and finally, the 'Dean of Students' for the Upper School.

Tara Tighe has been at Oak Knoll since 1982, when she began school as a kindergartener. Thirteen years later, she graduated in the class of 1995, the second of four sisters to go through OKS. Erin graduated in 1990, Kelly in 1996, and Devon was a member of the 1998 graduating class.

All four Tighe sisters were avid athletes who fashioned distinguished careers representing their high

Tara Tighe played field hockey and lacrosse for the

She went on to continue Division I field hockey while earning a degree at Villanova University. The following September (1999), Miss Tighe returned to Oak Knoll as a teacher in the theology department and field hockey and lacrosse coach. For the last six years, she has shared the varsity lacrosse headcoaching position with Elizabeth Brodbeck, a 1996 Oak Knoll graduate. While after spending two years as an assistant, Miss Tighe has been Oak Knoll's head coach in field hockey through the past four seasons where she's been assisted by 1995 Oak Knoll graduate Ali (Sumas) Good.

Back in high school, Sumas (in field hockey) and Brodbeck (in lacrosse) had been among Tighe's more illustrious teammates. Miss Tighe regards them as two of her best friends.

"It's rare to come back to your alma mater to coach, you first experienced the sports with." Tighe reflected. "Ali, Elizabeth, and I have the same roots, and the same disciplined mentality. I've thoroughly loved working with both of them?

It's perhaps these roots and disciplined approach that have enabled Oak Knoll's field hockey and lacrosse programs to enjoy so much success under the guidance of these three coaches. The 2004 field hockey campaign can probably be labeled the most successful in school history, as the Royals posted an undefeated regular season and earned County and Conference championships.

While this spring has certainly showcased the best lacrosse team in Oak Knoll annals. The Royals are presently 22-1, the lone defeat coming in a close (8-6) match against Moorestown, ranked number-one in the state. (Speaking of rankings. the Royals are currently ranked third in New Jersey).

Miss Tighe attributes the success logged by each of those programs to the extensive effort their athletes have put forth.

'We believe that success doesn't come overnight.' She explained. "It's a result of the diligent work by so many athletes - both the girls here now and their predecessors who laid the groundwork for the program."

Oak Knoll campus when she stepped in to fill the Dean of Students position, replacing Mrs. Aimee Reali who's on maternity leave. The students received Miss Tighe in her new position warmly and consider her to be fantastic at that job.

"I think everyone is so receptive to Miss Tighe because she was an Oak Knoll student herself relatively recently," senior Jeannie Cambria said. "She really understands the balance between what the students want to accomplish, and what we can accomplish."

Miss Tighe particularly developed a special bond with the seniors, as she worked closely with them on Student Council, Courtney Hubschmann, the Student Body President related that, "Miss Tighe is fair, dedicated, and enthusiastic. She works so hard with all of us and always has our best interest in mind. Everyone, but especially the seniors, will miss her greatly next

As for Miss Tighe's feelings on leaving Oak Knoll a place that (excluding her four years at Villanova) has essentially been her second home since the age of

"It's hard to put into words how much I'm going to miss the school," she expressed. "I could speak voluminously about everything I've gained as both a student and teacher at Oak Knoll."

Her marriage this summer will result in Miss Tighe moving to San Diego, where she'll continue her teaching career.

'I'm going to search for a coaching position as well," she added, "Which is a bit trickier than you might imagine, since field hockey and lacrosse aren't as popular on the West Coast. Nevertheless, I'm deter-

Recently, Miss Tighe broadened her domain on the mined to find a school that offers those sports.

Tighe is certainly leaving those two Oak Knoll programs in fine stead. Ali Good will direct the field hockey team with the help of her sister Christina Sumas, likewise an Oak Knoll graduate who served as an assistant last autumn. As for lacrosse, Coach Brodbeck will continue without Coach Tighe, while a determination on a second-in-command must still be de-

Miss Tighe's farewell to Oak Knoll is certainly bittersweet, and - for the moment - would necessarily be termed permanent. However, knowing Miss Tighe's great love and devotion to our school for more than two decades, there are people within the Oak Knoll community who firmly believe (and hope) that she will someday return.

Editor's note: A young lady who'll graduate Oak Knoll next Sunday, Darcy possesses first-hand experience of Tara Tighe's coaching ability as a four-year player in the field hockey program. Darcy was likewise a basketball and track athlete throughout her high school career, a 12-season sports commitment that's even more impressive at a school with Oak Knoll's academic demands.

Yet on that theme, her time/management skills have certainly been evident, from our perspective, via the extremely conscientious job Darcy's done as our 'Royal Report' columnist. We express thanks for those considerable efforts, on this occasion of her final column, and wish her the best in all future endeavors. Darcy will continue her education at Vanderbilt University. -

Colors saluted in 'last' column of school year

BERKELEY HEIGHTS - Governor Livingston's have felt like insurmountable class of 2005 has a new obsession. It's a craze sweeping through the 12th grade, causing one idea to become the focus of everything the prospective graduates say. All anyone can seem to talk about is how it's the "last."

From the most trivial action ("This is the last time I'll ever close my locker on a Tuesday!") to the truly final, the "lasts" of high school are preoccupying every senior To an athlete, especially with the spring season all wrapped up, the most prominent "last" is the last time he or she will ever play a sport for our school. But that's not how people are phrasing it. What they're saying is, "I'll never wear a GL uniform

And what's in a uniform, really? What difference does it make? Trading in one jersey for another, does it matter at all? Does it mean anything?

To the casual spectator, it doesn't. In a day where professional athletes swap shirts all the time, team loyalty seems to be a thing of the past. Baseball players are traded every year; football players are bid on like pieces at an auction, and when the smoke settles everyone is playing for somebody new and no one makes a big deal about it.

Does it depend on who you ask? Say you went to Governor Livingston. Would the band be less prestigious if they weren't wearing GL's traditional kilts? The athletes less victorious if they donned different gear? The cheerleaders less spirited if they wore another outfit? You would think it wouldn't.

admit that, in reality, the uniform makes no difference at them.

But ask them, "Does it mean anything?" And the response would be, "It means something to me."

They would tell you that 'red and blue' means something more when you're here. There is an indescribable mentality that comes with the GL iersey.

The student/athletes who'll receive their diplomas on June 22nd have spent a notable portion of the past four vears wearing a Highlander uniform. They have experienced the overwhelming joy of triumph and the devastating crush of defeat. They have conquered what may challenges. They have sweat, Highlander they have cried, they have lost. and they have won - all while wearing red and blue.

Highlights

In 18 days, it will abruptly come to a close. The word 'over" will take on a powerful new meaning to each and every graduate.

Sabrina Govindarajan will never pick up a tennis racket for GL again. Marla Madden has laced up her soccer cleats at the high school for the very last time. The next time Andrew Egan takes a shot at a lacrosse net, it will be for a different team.

Does it matter?

It will matter because it will mean something else. It will be of great importance because pride, passion, and perseverance. The Highlander spirit is embodied in those jerseys of red and blue. That is what they have during the four

Even the most superstitious among us would have to say, the very "last" time. And it will mean everything to

Editor's note: Jessica's "last" 'Highlander Highlights' feature of the 2004/05 school term won't be the "last" time you'll be reading her column in our newspapers, which we're very happy to say. women's lacrosse team did not reach its ultimate goal of a state title, the Lady Hilltoppers' courageous effort is truly commendable. A 12-6 loss handed them by crosstown rival Oak Knoll, the State Section's topseeded contingent, ended Summit's campaign last week, that match having been contested at Oak Knoll's outdoor complex in Chatham.

The Hilltoppers had their share of ups and downs in finishing with a 12-8 record. Summit plays one of the toughest schedules in the state, as its Iron Hills Conference includes extremely such challenging opponents as Mendham, West Essex, Chatham, and West Morris. Each of those IHC foes handed Summit at least one loss this spring.

"The most memorable game of the year was when we beat Chatham the second time we played them," noted junior defender Cristina Maurizi. "It was a tough match all the way. Defeating our neighboring rival while getting revenge for the previous loss really made all our hard work pay off."

Many of her teammates share Cristina's opinion about the Chatham victory being the highlight match of the girls' campaign.

Following a State Tournament victory over Hopewell Valley, the Hilltoppers were quite aware of the challenge they faced against Oak Knoll. The Royals have lost just once all season and feature three seniors with Division I lacrosse scholarships, accompanied by perhaps a half-dozen underclassmen destined to be future D-I recruits.

Yet Summit fashioned a very valiant effort, with Gina Scioscia scoring four goals and Emily Moore adding a pair of tallies. At one point late in the match, Summit has sliced Oak Knoll's lead to 8-6. However, Oak Knoll rose to the occasion and scored the final four goals.

Scioscia, a junior, was Summit's leading scorer this spring, topping the team in both goals and assists. Gina would normally net four or five goals every match, regardless of the opposition. Even against the strongest defensive teams, she always attacked the net with

Scioscia's quickness, agility, and superb stick-skills have elevated her stature in the high school lacrosse

SUMMIT - Although the Summit High School world. Virtually every opponent entered its match with Summit focused on defending Gina.

> The Hilltopper defense really came together during the course of the campaign. Led by Liz Wheeler in goal, Summit's tough defensive play was a key to its success. Still, it's agreed that the team's exceptional senior leadership was the most significant ingredient of all. This 12th-grade group included Moore, Wheeler, Kristen Dinsmore, Liz West, Becky Sandgrund, Heather Scudellari, Annie Burns, Alex Cotter, Amy Santella, and Sky DiRuggerio. These young women came together and showed the underclassmen how to work as a team.

'The seniors helped us in more ways than just by their on-field lacrosse performance," Scioscia explained. "They taught us to bond together for the team's benefit. Closeness off the field improves everyone's game. We're going to miss them next year because they really helped us a lot."

Although Summit fell short of a state championship, the girls are pleased with their accomplishments this season. Congratulations for a job well done.

And good luck to the graduating athletes - and particularly those who will be furthering lacrosse careers at the collegiate level. We know you will do Summit

NEWELL

SUMMIT - With her final spring as a member of let alone to do it with people the Oak Knoll community drawing to a close, it is important to take time to reflect on the impact that Tara Tighe has had on our school. Over the past two decades, Miss Tighe has filled several different roles here - as a student, a coach, a teacher, and finally, the 'Dean of Students' for the Upper School.

Tara Tighe has been at Oak Knoll since 1982, when she began school as a kindergartener. Thirteen years later, she graduated in the class of 1995, the second of four sisters to go through OKS. Erin graduated in 1990, Kelly in 1996, and Devon was a member of the 1998 graduating class.

All four Tighe sisters were avid athletes who fashioned distinguished careers representing their high

Tara Tighe played field hockey and lacrosse for the

She went on to continue Division I field hockey while earning a degree at Villanova University.

The following September (1999), Miss Tighe returned to Oak Knoll as a teacher in the theology department and field hockey and lacrosse coach. For the last six years, she has shared the varsity lacrosse headcoaching position with Elizabeth Brodbeck, a 1996 Oak Knoll graduate. While after spending two years as an assistant, Miss Tighe has been Oak Knoll's head coach in field hockey through the past four seasons where she's been assisted by 1995 Oak Knoll graduate Ali (Sumas) Good.

Back in high school, Sumas (in field hockey) and Brodbeck (in lacrosse) had been among Tighe's more illustrious teammates. Miss Tighe regards them as two of her best friends.

"It's rare to come back to your alma mater to coach, you first experienced the sports with." Tighe reflected. 'Ali, Elizabeth, and I have the same roots, and the same disciplined mentality. I've thoroughly loved working with both of them.

It's perhaps these roots and disciplined approach that have enabled Oak Knoll's field hockey and lacrosse programs to enjoy so much success under the guidance of these three coaches. The 2004 field hockey campaign can probably be labeled the most successful in school history, as the Royals posted an undefeated regular season and earned County and Conference championships.

While this spring has certainly showcased the best lacrosse team in Oak Knoll annals. The Royals are presently 22-1, the lone defeat coming in a close (8-6) match against Moorestown, ranked number-one in the state. (Speaking of rankings, the Royals are currently ranked third in New Jersey).

Miss Tighe attributes the success logged by each of those programs to the extensive effort their athletes have put forth.

"We believe that success doesn't come overnight." She explained. "It's a result of the diligent work by so many athletes - both the girls here now and their predecessors who laid the groundwork for the program."

Recently, Miss Tighe broadened her domain on the Oak Knoll campus when she stepped in to fill the Dean of Students position, replacing Mrs. Aimee Reali who's on maternity leave. The students received Report Miss Tighe in her new position warmly and consider her to be fantastic at that job.

"I think everyone is so receptive to Miss Tighe because she was an Oak Knoll student herself relatively recently," senior Jeannie Cambria said. "She really understands the balance between what the students want to accomplish, and what we can accomplish."

Miss Tighe particularly developed a special bond with the seniors, as she worked closely with them on Student Council. Courtney Hubschmann, the Student Body President related that, "Miss Tighe is fair, dedicated, and enthusiastic. She works so hard with all of us and always has our best interest in mind. Everyone, but especially the seniors, will miss her greatly next

As for Miss Tighe's feelings on leaving Oak Knoll - a place that (excluding her four years at Villanova) has essentially been her second home since the age of

Her marriage this summer will result in Miss Tighe moving to San Diego, where she'll continue her teaching career.

"I'm going to search for a coaching position aswell," she added. "Which is a bit trickier than you might imagine, since field hockey and lacrosse aren't as popular on the West Coast. Nevertheless, I'm determined to find a school that offers those sports.

Tighe is certainly leaving those two Oak Knoll programs in fine stead. Ali Good will direct the field hockey team with the help of her sister Christina Sumas, likewise an Oak Knoll graduate who served as an assistant last autumn. As for lacrosse, Coach Brodbeck will continue without Coach Tighe, while a determination on a second-in-command must still be de-

Miss Tighe's farewell to Oak Knoll is certainly bittersweet, and - for the moment - would necessarily be termed permanent. However, knowing Miss Tighe's great love and devotion to our school for more than two decades, there are people within the Oak Knoll community who firmly believe (and hope) that she will someday return.

Editor's note: A young lady who'll graduate Oak Knoll next Sunday, Darcy possesses first-hand experience of Tara Tighe's coaching ability as a four-year player in the field hockey program. Darcy was likewise a basketball and track athlete throughout her high school career, a 12-season sports commitment that's even more impressive at a school with Oak Knoll's academic demands.

Yet on that theme, her time/management skills have certainly been evident, from our perspective, via the extremely conscientious job Darcy's done as our 'Royal Report' columnist. We express thanks for those considerable efforts, on this occasion of her final column. and wish her the best in all future endeavors. Darcy will continue her education at Vanderbilt University. -

Colors saluted in 'last' column of school year

BERKELEY HEIGHTS - Governor Livingston's class of 2005 has a new obsession. It's a craze sweeping through the 12th grade, causing one idea to become the focus of everything the prospective graduates say. All anyone can seem to talk about is how it's the "last."

From the most trivial action ("This is the last time I'll ever close my locker on a Tuesday!") to the truly final, the "lasts" of high school are preoccupying every senior

wrapped up, the most prominent "last" is the last time he or she will ever play a sport for our school. But that's not how people are phrasing it. What they're saying is, "I'll never wear a GL uniform again." And what's in a uniform, really? What difference does it make? Trading in one jersey for another, does it matter at all? Does it mean anything?

To the casual spectator, it doesn't. In a day where professional athletes swap shirts all the time, team loyalty seems to be a thing of the past. Baseball players are traded every year; football players are bid on like pieces at an auction, and when the smoke settles everyone is playing for somebody new and no one makes a big deal

Does it depend on who you ask? Say you went to Governor Livingston. Would the band be less prestigious if they weren't wearing GL's traditional kilts? The athletes less victorious if they donned different gear? The cheerleaders less spirited if they wore another outfit? You would think it wouldn't. Even the most superstitious among us would have to admit that, in reality, the uniform makes no difference at But ask them, "Does it mean anything?" And the response would be, "It means something to me." They would tell you that 'red and blue' means something more when you're here. There is an indescribable mentality that comes with the GL jersey.

The student/athletes who'll receive their diplomas on June 22nd have spent a notable portion of the past four years wearing a Highlander uniform. They have experienced the overwhelming joy of triumph and the devastating crush of defeat. They have conquered what may have felt like insurmountable challenges. They have sweat, they have cried, they have lost. and they have won - all while wearing red and blue.

In 18 days, it will abruptly come to a close. The word "over" will take on a powerful new meaning to each and To an athlete, especially with the spring season all every graduate.

Sabrina Govindarajan will never pick up a tennis racket for GL again. Marla Madden has laced up her soccer cleats at the high school for the very last time. The next time Andrew Egan takes a shot at a lacrosse net, it will be for a different team. Does it matter?

GOLDSTEIN It will matter because it will mean something else. It will be of great importance because the GL uniform is of great importance. It stands for pride, passion, and perseverance. The Highlander spirit is embodied in those jerseys of red and blue. That is what they have during the four short years they spend here, and that is what they will leave behind when they depart from Governor Liv-

They will return those uniforms for, as they love to say, the very "last" time. And it will mean everything to

Editor's note: Jessica's "last" 'Highlander Highlights' feature of the 2004/05 school term won't be the "last" time you'll be reading her column in our newspapers, which we're very happy to say. A young lady concluding her sophomore year at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights, Jess will take over as our 'Highlander Headlines' columnist in the Independent Press when "Students on Sports" resumes in Sep-

Lax girls succeeded despite tough slate

SUMMIT - Although the Summit High School women's lacrosse team did not reach its ultimate goal of a state title, the Lady Hilltoppers' courageous effort is truly commendable. A 12-6 loss handed them by crosstown rival Oak Knoll, the State Section's topseeded contingent, ended Summit's campaign last week, that match having been contested at Oak Knoll's outdoor complex in Chatham. The Hilltoppers had their share of ups and downs in finishing with a 12-8 record. Summit plays one of the Each of those IHC foes handed Summit at least one loss this spring. "The most memorable game of the year was when we beat Chatham the second time we played them,' noted junior defender Cristina Maurizi. "It was a tough match all the way. Defeating our neighboring rival while getting revenge for the previous loss really made all our hard work pay off."

about the Chatham victory being the highlight match of the girls' campaign. Following a State Tournament victory over Hopewell Valley, the Hilltoppers were quite aware of the challenge they faced against Oak Knoll. The Roy-nied by perhaps a half-dozen underclassmen destined to be future D-I recruits. Yet Summit fashioned a very valiant effort, with Gina Scioscia scoring four goals and Emily Moore adding a pair of tallies. At one point late in the match, Summit has sliced Oak Knoll's lead to 8-6. However, four goals. Scioscia, a junior, was Summit's leading scorer this spring, topping the team in both goals and assists. Gina would normally net four or five goals every match, regardless of the opposition. Even against the strongest defensive teams, she always attacked the net with Scioscia's quickness, agility, and superb stick-skills have elevated her stature in the high school lacrosse world. Virtually every opponent entered its match with Summit focused on defending Gina.

The Hilltopper defense really came together during the course of the campaign. Led by Liz Wheeler in goal, Summit's tough defensive play was a key to its success. Still, it's agreed that the team's exceptional senior leadership was the most significant ingredient of all. This 12th-grade group included Moore, Wheeler, Kristen Dinsmore, Liz West, Becky Sandgrund, Heather Scudellari, Annie Burns, Alex Cotter, Amy Santella, and Sky DiRuggerio. These young women came together and showed the underclassmen how to work as a team. "The seniors helped us in more ways than just by their on-field lacrosse performance," Scioscia explained. "They taught us to bond together for the team's benefit. Closeness off the field improves everyone's game. We're going to miss them next year because they really helped us a lot."

Although Summit fell short of a state championship, the girls are pleased with their accomplishments this season. Congratulations for a job well done.

And good luck to the graduating athletes - and particularly those who will be furthering lacrosse careers at the collegiate level. We know you will do Summit

We thank him for all his efforts on this occasion of his final column and look forward to Scott's September return on our 2005/06 'Students on Sports" staff, when he'll take over as the 'Hill Topics' writer in the Independent Press. - A.P.
