'WASTE MANAGEMENT'

In Linden, residents have expressed concern about a proposal that would see a medical waste treatment center open in the old public works building.

Politics as usual

Gloves come off in Elizabeth as primary candidates prepare to spar

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

ELIZABETH — It is said what goes round comes round and it appears that when it comes to political races, old grudges take the same route.

Although the primary race has yet to officially kick off, one side is already gearing up for a major political battle.

When Oscar Ocasio, the former city Director of the Department of Planning and Community Development, decided to throw his hat in the mayoral race against incumbent Mayor Chris Bollwage, the primary heated up.

Bollwage, a Democrat now in his 19th year as mayor of the city of 125,000, was elected in 1992. But while the mayor will run as an incumbent on the Regular Democratic Organization line in the June primary, Ocasio will have to run as an independent Democrat because he was not invited to a recent screening for candidates.

Twenty of the of the 21 municipal chairman were invited to the screening, but the current Democratic Municipal Chairman of Elizabeth, Carlos Cedeno, was not permitted to attend, according to an Ocasio spokesperson. Efforts to discover why Cedeno was not invited, though, failed to produce any credible results.

Cedeno, an Elizabeth councilman and past member of the embattled board of education said nothing is written in stone until April 2 and then it all will depend on the polls. Whether that means Cedeno might throw his own hat in the ring for a chance to be mayor remains to be seen.

Although there have been rumors that Ocasio does not have enough political backing to sustain a campaign, this was found to be untrue. In fact, Tony Monterio, a former councilman and former board of education member, is actively working, along with others, to see Ocasio win the primary.

While that could be a longshot because Bollwage has held the seat for almost two decades and has the support of the regular democratic organization, Monterio is pulling out all the stakes. Including digging up information on what Bollwage has been doing while in office.

"Neptune Ambrose is a textbook example that for some people, following the law doesn't matter," Monterio said, adding "when you have a brother linked to Democrat Sen. Ray Lesniak, the requirements that apply to other people can just be ignored."

Monterio is referring to the fact that Ambrose's brother, Hiver, has worked for Lesniak and may still work for him in some capacity.

In 2006 Ambrose was removed from the New Jersey State Department of Personnel list as eligible to be an Elizabeth police officer.

"The basis for his removal was psychological unfitness and a later appeal was denied," Monteiro said in an interview.

LocalSource confirmed with Elizabeth Public Information Director Kelly Vence that Neptune Ambrose is currently enrolled in training to be an Elizabeth police officer at the Union County Police Academy.

Although LocalSource was unable to obtain documentation to verify that Ambrose was denied entrance into the police academy because of "psychological unfitness," a copy of the State of New Jersey Department of Personnel Merit System Board minutes of a ROSELLE PARK — Local representatives opposing the closure of the Roselle Park Post Office took their message to Washington D.C. this week to meet with federal representatives.

Mayor Joseph Accardi along with several council members and residents were expected to travel to the capital Wednesday to meet with Senators Lautenberg, Menendez, and Congressman Leonard Lance. With them went a petition bearing 1,700 signatures in favor of keeping the office open.

"We're looking to go in and rally support behind our post office," Accardi said. "We demand that our post office remain open."

Councilwoman Tanya Torres said closing the post office would be a setback to the borough's efforts to revitalize its downtown area. The post office draws a lot of foot traffic and fills an important role for many residents, she said. Located on Chestnut Street, the borough's post office was built in 1911.

"It's a successful branch and closing it would be detrimental to our town," Torres said.

Accardi said many people would be negatively impacted, including senior citizens who are unable to obtain stamps online.

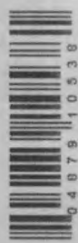

"It would have a horrible impact on us," Accardi said. "It really is a focal point for our community. It's a place where people go and see each other there."

Local residents are also opposing the closure. Resident Saul Qersdyn said the U.S. Postal Service representatives are working off demographics that were outdated by at least ten years and did not have satisfactory answers to questions that were asked at a meeting in Elizabeth in February.

"We just want to know what the thinking was behind closing a post office that makes $600,000 a year and over $300,000 after overhead and expenditures," Qersdyn said.

U.S. Postal Service Spokesman George Flood said the postal service announced in July of last year that they were initiating 3,700 studies of various post offices in response to declining market demand.

Proposed plant draws 'waste-filled' criticisms

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

LINDEN — There will not be any hazardous medical waste processed in the Tremley Point area, according to officials, despite information to the contrary being circulated in a flier to residents.

Controversy over EarthCare, the medical waste processing facility that would like to rent the former public works garage from the city on Lower Road in the 7th Ward area, brought out more than 100 residents to a meeting last week. The location on Lower Road is also adjacent to Buchanan Park.

But if anyone thought residents of this area would welcome EarthCare with open arms, they were mistaken.

Eight years ago another company, also called EarthCare, sought city approval to bring their medical waste facility to the waterfront, but residents came out in force to ensure it never happened.

The meeting was called specifically to explain to residents the truth about what would be disposed of at the facility as opposed to the misleading information landing in the mailboxes of residents.

EarthCare representatives met with strong resistance to their proposed facility at the meeting despite reassurances that this facility must meet strict New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection guidelines and permitting, which they are going through now. In fact, the machines they will be using are already certified by the state for disposal of medical waste.

Some residents in Linden are upset about a proposal to rent the old public works building to a medical waste processing company, but the mayor says the company will bring in much needed money.

The newly formed medical waste facility's site plan also must pass muster with the Planning Board prior to start up. However, the area where the public works garage is located is already zoned for heavy industry.

"We want to encourage heavy industry because it will help reduce the tax burden on residents," said Mayor Rich Gerbounka, who is in favor of the facility because of the millions in revenue the city would generate.

The facility, according to Gerbounka, will not be processing hazardous medical waste such as infectious disease waste products associated with HIV, Smallpox and vaccines. Neither will there will be amputated body parts, limbs, tonsils or animal carcasses such as rats and dogs.

The facility will only be processing and sterilizing medical waste such as surgical gloves, containerized needles used to draw blood and gauze used in this process.

"They will only be processing medical waste associated with patients and that could include soda cans and coffee cups used by patients," the mayor said.

Jack Sheehy, 7th Ward Councilman, though, did not care what the facility was going to process, because he does not want it in his ward.

"We don't want you here," the councilman shouted during the meeting, his words echoing the sentiments of fellow residents who voiced concerns about the safety of such a facility trucking in medical waste that would see liquid by-products flow into the sewer system.

Christopher Cardinosa, a lifelong resident for 46 years is also against the proposed venture.

Cranford to elevate as many as 18 homes after flooding

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

CRANFORD — Six months after Cranford residents were inundated by floodwaters from Hurricane Irene, there is hope and help for a brighter future on the horizon for some.

Although the township initially thought the $3.1 million they will receive from FEMA would only be enough to raise 11 homes in the northeast section of the township, it appears the option has been extended to 18 families.

But, while this offer appears to be a godsend for those who have had their homes destroyed countless times by flood waters, there is a caveat. The 18 families will have 75 percent of the cost of raising their homes paid by FEMA, but they still have to come up with the remaining 25 percent on their own.

Interim Township Administrator Eric Mason said last week the process involved with selecting the 18 homeowners had specifically to do with the type and dollar amount of property damage sustained, flooding damage in the past and the location of the home in the flood area.

The township, however, was not involved in the final selection process because, at that point, FEMA took over.

While many families in the flood area whose homes sustained significant damage felt the township was not forthcoming about the criteria used to select the 18 homes, Mason did not agree.

"This money comes from the federal government, and we are bound by their criteria," he said, adding that FEMA made the final cuts through a formula that calculated many things, including prioritizing which homes should be included in the 18 that will be raised.

"I know its disappointing for residents but FEMA is in charge of this, not the township," he added.

A resident of Riverside Drive where many homes were not livable because of basements imploded from the force of floodwaters, was confused when she heard the number of homes being raised had increased from 11 to 18.

"I can't understand why my home was not included because I was one of the first to submit my name for possible raising," she said, adding that despite speaking with township officials she was unclear about the criteria used to determine which 18 homes would be raised.

Mason explained that when the township first heard there might be FEMA monies available to raise homes in Cranford, residents were asked to notify the township if they were interested.

"That was a list of interest only," the township interim administrator explained, adding that regardless where any homeowner was on that list it had no final bearing on whether their home would be raised or not.

"That was determined by FEMA's criteria," he said.

One bright spot, Mason noted, is that this particular grant is not a one shot deal. Every year FEMA offers grants to municipalities where there has been repeated, disastrous flood damage to homes from storms. Hurricane Irene was downgraded to a tropical storm just before making landfall in New Jersey.

"Actually even though FEMA issued a declaration on Irene, the data was not available in this particular grant for $3.1 million," the administrator said, adding that the township can put in a letter of intent to FEMA

USDEP: Medical waste risk to public 'minimal'

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

LINDEN — After medical waste washed up on several New Jersey beaches in 1987, Congress enacted the Medical Waste Tracking Act the following year.

As a result, over 90 percent of potentially infectious medical waste in New Jersey is now incinerated. In August 1997, the EPA put in place regulations governing the emissions from medical waste incinerators so the population is further protected from any toxic danger. New, stronger regulations are in the works but many in the field believe any further restrictions on medical waste will be too expensive for medical facilities to comply with on site.

The EPA believes these facilities will have to switch to other methods of medical waste disposal, such as using companies like EarthCare, because they utilize disinfection at high temperatures to remove bacteria, leaving the remaining by product safe from contamination. But, while most people believe medical waste carries considerable risk to the population, according to the USDEP that risk may be minimal.

During a two-year demonstration program, the EPA concluded the disease causing potential of medical waste is greatest at the point of generation, or at the medical facility itself, tapering off after that point.

"Thus, the risk to the general public of disease born pathogens caused by exposure to medical waste is likely to be much lower than risk to the occupationally exposed individual or employee," the EPA said.

There are currently many facilities in New Jersey registered to treat and destroy medical waste on site.

These facilities process a portion of the 89,000 tons of medical waste generated in the state each year, including small amounts accepted from other registered New Jersey generators.

Private companies such as Coast Medical Services and Ameri-waste Medical Waste are registered New Jersey Medical Waste Removal facilities.

Mayoral candidate begins to attack incumbent Bollwage

meeting held July 19, 2006 confirmed it was valid.

The Merit Board, according to the minutes, notes that Ambroise appealed the removal of his name from the eligible list for the title of police officer in the city of Elizabeth. However, the board denied this request and the standing remained.

No further documentation was located to confirm or deny that Ambroise later was granted an appeal.

Bollwage, who usually directs all media to go through Vence for information regarding city activities, did return a call to LocalSource, but could not discuss the issue.

"You know I can't discuss personnel issues," the mayor said.

Although no further information was obtained on the record from the city, another source who works at city hall confirmed that Ambroise was taken off the eligible list for the police academy in the last year. Monteiro, though, thinks Ambroise was allowed to "skirt the requirements that apply to others."

The former councilman maintains that when Ambroise ran as a candidate for the board of education in 2008 "he decided the law didn't apply to him."

"He ran for office, accepted large contributions from Lesniak and Chris Bollwage but ignored the filing of campaign reports as required by law," Monteiro said in an interview.

According to documentation obtained by LocalSource, the New Jersey State Election Commission is investigating the fact Ambroise never filed election reports, as required by law.

Monteiro also is frustrated with the election commission, who he first wrote to about this situation in late October 2008. While he did receive a letter from the Election Law Enforcement Commission dated Dec. 23, 2008 notifying him that they had completed a preliminary review, at a meeting Oct. 21, 2008 the commission "determined to open a review into the alleged non-filing of reports by the Joint Candidates Committee."

Recently the political associates of Ocasio again wrote to the Election Commission to remind them that it has been four years since they first made a complaint and it was supposed to be investigated.

Post office closing angers some

Authorities examined offices that were at a certain revenue level and were in close proximity to alternate access points such as UPS Stores and banks.

Flood noted the Roselle Park Post Office's revenue has declined 22 percent, from $852,409 in 2007 to $662,717 in 2010. However, this was not factored into the decision to consider closing the location.

Flood said closing the Roselle Park Post Office is expected to save the Postal Service $201,196 the first year and $1.6 million over ten years.

While there are 32,000 post offices across the country, about 35 percent of retail revenue comes through alternate sources other than actual post offices.

At least 50 other post offices in the state are slated to close, resulting in a loss of 3,000 jobs in New Jersey. More than 3,600 offices may be shut down nationally, resulting in a loss of about 35,000 jobs total.

A moratorium has been placed on any closings until May 15 in response to a request from the senate in order to give congress the opportunity to enact an alternative plan.

There are several other post offices in Union County that will close, including one in Hillside and one in Plainfield. Flood said the fates of these branches are not yet decided.

"The list is fairly fluid. We can't make a final decision on any of them until May 15," Flood said.

Flood said postal use had declined substantially in the past five years since the economic crisis began in 2008. However, he said the U.S. Postal Service's financial problems can be attributed largely to a "manufactured crisis" stemming largely from a bill passed by congress in 2006 on the last day of the lame-duck session.

The Roselle Park post office is in danger of being closed, but a final decision is on hold until May.

Known as the Postal Accountability Enhancement Act, the bill stipulated the U.S. Postal Service pre-fund the health benefits of their retirees at 100 percent for the next 75 years. This in effect requires the service funding the retirements of people who are not born yet, let alone employed with them.

"No other corporation, organization or Federal agency is required to do that," Flood said.

The Postal Service must pay about $5.5 billion a year to meet this requirement in the required time frame of ten years.

"That is the key driver of the Postal Service's economic problems," Flood explained.

The Postal Accountability Enhancement Act, combined with a drop in revenues and the impact of the 2008 financial crisis, have put a significant strain on the finances of the postal service, which is self-funded and does not take in tax dollars.

"It's almost like the perfect financial storm for us," Flood said.

Flood declined to speculate on why congress would saddle the Postal Service with the requirement.

Accardi said the Postal Accountability Enhancement Act is "certainly one of the things they will be talking to the congress members about."

Flood said there is proposed legislation in committee that could repeal the most burdensome aspects of the Postal Accountability Enhancement Act.

Increasing internet use has not necessarily hurt the Postal Service, Flood said. While the internet eroded the volume of first class mail, online ordering has driven up package services over the last couple years, he said.

"Even though overall volumes are declining, we've seen an increase in package services due to people ordering online," Flood said.

The U.S. Postal Service is confident they will continue to do business with help from meaningful legislation.

"Moving forward we're having to make some prudent and tough decisions in the future," Flood said.

City introduces $47 million budget

By Paul Greulich
Staff Writer

SUMMIT — City officials and residents are well into the budget process, having introduced the proposed 2012 municipal budget on March 6.

According to Councilman and Finance Committee Chair Dave Bomgaars, the municipal portion of the tax rate is projected to increase 0.64 percent, translating to an increase of about $23 dollars for a home assessed at the city's average of $410,000. The library tax, which is listed as a separate item, makes up $8 of this increase.

Total general appropriations stand at about $47 million, up from $46.7 million in 2011. The tax levy is almost flat at about $25.6 million, increasing by about $10,000 over last year and coming in $900,000 below the state's two percent tax levy cap.

Bomgaars said city officials trimmed the budget with help from new shared services agreements. They also reduced some expenditures such as capital funds, contributions to HomeTowne TV and the reserve for tax appeals.

"We're seeing that tax appeals have leveled off, so we're reducing our reserve for those appeals," Bomgaars said.

He said there will probably not be any significant changes to the budget before its adoption.

Bomgaars said a preliminary draft of the budget was supplied some months ago and the council and finance committee have "whittled it down" since.

"We've gone through four changes since it was first presented to the council in December," said Bomgaars.

City Administrator Chris Cotter begins meeting with department heads and assembling the framework of the budget in October, giving finance committee members time to review and alter the plan.

"The budget process is really a year-long process," Cotter said. "We constantly monitor the budget and we begin the process formally in October by having a goal-setting meeting with the governing body."

The budget has been submitted to the state for approval. However, this year municipal officials have noted a delay of several weeks on the part of the state that may be a result of many municipalities switching from a fiscal budget year to a calendar year budget.

One of the next steps in the budget process is the publication of a mailing that will be sent out to all the residents in the city. It will list the various components of the tax bill including municipal, school and county taxes.

"We like to include what the entire tax bill will be for the residents," Cotter said. "That's been the practice of Summit for many years — to communicate with the community about the changes year to year in the budget and what it will mean to the taxpayer."

However, the city is still waiting for the county to provide the necessary information to complete this publication. Cotter said he expects the figures to become available in the beginning of April.

Members of the public still have the opportunity to comment on the budget before its adoption. There will be a public hearing on April 3 and a final hearing and vote April 17.

Paul Greulich can be reached at 908-686-7700 ext. 121, or at thelocalsource@gmail.com.

K-9 unit helps track hit and run suspect

By Paul Greulich

HILLSIDE — A local resident was arrested Sunday shortly after fleeing the scene of a traffic accident that left two Essex County women seriously injured and a road closed for six hours.

The Hillside Police Department responded to the scene of an accident at 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of North Avenue and Jerome Avenue.

The suspect's car, a Lexus, burst into flames immediately after the accident, causing the closure of North Avenue.

According to witnesses, one driver ran from the scene of the accident and fled down Jerome Avenue, a dead end street off North Avenue. A police K-9 unit arrived consisting of Officer Michael Flowers and his canine partner, "Champion."

According to Police Chief Robert Quinlan, Champion was able to get close enough to the still-burning car to pick up the scent of the driver through the open door. The K-9 unit tracked the driver for several blocks and found him hiding in bushes near a house on Union Avenue.

Ishmael Harrison, 26, of Hillside, was arrested and charged with leaving the scene of an accident with serious bodily injury and resisting arrest.

The arrest was made by Officer Flowers.

The cause of the accident remains under investigation, but police reported it appears that Harrison's vehicle struck a Pontiac Grand Am driven by an East Orange resident. Both driver and passenger sustained head trauma and were transported to University Hospital in Newark. The passenger, a Newark resident, was listed in critical condition on Saturday.

Police have not yet determined if alcohol was a factor in the accident. Anyone who may have witnessed the accident is asked to contact the Hillside Police Department at 973-926-5800. The Hillside police have two K-9 units, one consisting of Officer Flowers and Champion and another comprised of Officer Ronald Bartell and a dog named "Comet," in honor of Hillside sports teams that traditionally go by the same name.

"Both dogs and their handlers are highly trained in patrol operations and narcotics detection," Quinlan said.

Quinlan said the units see regular use.

"They are deployed every day," Quinlan said. "Both dogs have been on the streets for over a year and have had many successes."

He noted that the K-9 units have been funded entirely with federal forfeiture funds, at no cost to the tax-payers.

A Hillside resident was arrested stemming from a car accident around 2:30 a.m. on Sunday after his car collided with another at the intersection of North Avenue and Jerome Avenue. The suspect, who was tracked down several blocks away with the help of a K-9 unit, was reportedly seen fleeing the scene after his car burst into flames.

The walls of a Cranford resident's basement imploded from the pressure of the floodwater from Hurricane Irene. FEMA funds will help pay for as many as 18 homes in Cranford to be elevated off the ground.

Elevation likely for 18 Cranford homes

for a grant covering Irene damage to homes.

The next step, Mason said, is for the township to put out a Request for Proposals and bids for various aspects of the raising of these homes. But the township is also bound by FEMA to put in place a grant administrator, construction manager, architect and contractor to do the actual raising of the homes.

Meanwhile, one resident, a firefighter in the township, decided he could not wait for FEMA to decide whether he was on their list or not.

Frank Genova, his wife, Joan, and their two children began the process of raising their own home on Bluff Road. The couple had been living with a family member for months after Irene because their home sustained so much water damage.

After the basement walls collapsed while Irene still raged outside, Genova knew it was time to raise his home so this could not happen again. In early February the Genovas were the first family to elevate their home, but even though this family applied to FEMA for grant monies, they still have not heard if they are among the 18 families who will receive 75 percent of the cost.

In the meantime the house was raised some 40 inches in early February, at a cost of $120,000.

Many other residents living directly adjacent to the river or on nearby Riverside Drive are just completing renovations to their homes, a full six months after Irene hit the township.

But while many preferred their names not be used, they did note that as rough as things have been since the flood hit, they are looking forward to moving back into their homes and getting life back to normal. Some even saw the worst flooding in Cranford's history as a blessing in many ways.

"This is my home town. I was raised here and now I'm raising my kids here. Life sometimes hands you heartache; you either cave or rise to the occasion," said one young husband and father who just moved his family back into their home recently.

"None of us who were flooded out took on more than the other. We all suffered and we all managed to make it through. None of us are heroes but we are friends and we have been there to help one another," he added.

PSE&G RATE DECREASES

UNDERSTANDING YOUR BILL

Both gas and electric bills are separated into two parts: Delivery, which includes the cost of maintaining and upgrading the distribution system, and Supply, which is the cost of the electricity and natural gas PSE&G purchases on behalf of its customers. Supply costs represent more than half of your energy bill.

Tom was happy to get our news.

With our latest rate reduction, we have lowered residential gas supply charges over 35% since January 2009. The cost for electric supply is also dropping. Starting June 1, electric bills for residential customers will be reduced by about 3.6 percent on an annual basis - on top of a 3.5 percent decrease from last year.

That's good news for all of us.

14th Annual Art Night at Bloomingdale

The 14th annual Bloomingdale Avenue School Art Night will be held on March 28.

The students, accompanied by one parent or guardian, are invited at 6 p.m. to spend an evening at the school making art, fun and memories together.

This year, Art Night will center around the books of Eric Carle, whose collage style illustrations of animals of all kinds will be the inspiration for an opportunity for parent or guardian and child to work together making art.

The group will be reading books by Carle and speculating about his works of art, including what materials, techniques and skills were used. All the students will explore, learn and practice the process of painting various papers for collage. The students will experience being "the expert," who will lead their parents through the process of creating their own collage.

All artwork will be hung once completed and exhibited for viewing throughout the school building.

Historian discusses his latest work 'of the unknown woman'

Historian Alexander Shipley will talk about his book, "The Case of the Unknown Woman: The Story of One of the Most Intriguing Murder Mysteries of the Nineteenth Century," on March 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Cranford Community Center at 221 Walnut Ave. "The Case of the Unknown Woman" is about a young woman, whose frozen corpse was found by four brothers on Central Avenue in Rahway on March 26, 1887. Her throat was slashed, and her body was covered with bruises.

The most bizarre element of this murder is that no one was ever able to give a positive identification of the victim. News of the case spread far and wide, and as many as 10,000 people filed past the victim's coffin in hopes of identifying her as a missing relative or friend. To this day, her identity is unknown and the case is unsolved. Shipley is Rahway's city historian and the director of Museum Operations at Rahway's Merchants and Drovers Tavern Museum. Copies of "The Unknown Woman" will be available for purchase and for signing. Admission is free, and all are welcome.

The program is sponsored by Cranford Public Library.

Just the facts, please

In Linden, the mayor is very much in favor of allowing a medical waste facility to be opened in town. The facility, according to the mayor, would adhere to very strict Department of Environmental Protection guidelines and permits. And in the past weeks, hundreds of flyers have been handed out in town by a group called the Tremley Point Alliance clearly spreading obvious falsehoods about the proposed plant.

And while we are not taking a position today about the possible existence of a medical waste plant in Linden, we choose to denounce the spreading of such obviously false information.

One of the fliers states in big, bold letters "Bio hazardous medical waste trucks are coming to your neighborhood," and then goes on to detail what is classified as medical waste. The list, which is accurate in its classification of medical waste, barely applies to Linden, but insinuates otherwise. It lists HIV, amputated body parts, limbs, semen, animal carcasses and even smallpox among the medical waste. And while these things are in fact medical waste, we have been told repeatedly that they are not coming to Linden.

For starters, smallpox is a viral disease that was classified as eradicated in 1979. The mere fact that we are addressing smallpox is laughable in and of itself. But of the 17 items listed on the flier as medical waste, only four, according to the mayor, are likely to be moving on trucks through Linden: surgical gloves, hypodermic needles sealed in plastic containers, bandages, and refuse patients used, such as soda cans, for example.

The spreading of false information, particularly on brightly-colored flyers and distributed by the hundreds throughout town is downright irresponsible. And while the flier never clearly states that smallpox will be on trucks moving through town, it does say "medical waste trucks are coming to your neighborhood" and then states that smallpox, HIV, amputated body parts, and limbs, among other terrible-sounding things, are medical waste. These are factual statements. But by combining them, the Tremley Point Alliance is doing nothing but a disservice to the town, and educating the public with inaccurate statements.

We maintain that a DEP-approved medical waste treatment center, next to a park, is something Linden needs to think long and hard about. There are obvious potential drawbacks, but according to the mayor, there are also obvious rewards, like a minimum of $750,000 a year in host community revenues for the town, that could be as much as $1.4 million.

We only hope that the people of Linden get the facts before leveling an opinion. And we wish the Tremley Point Alliance would act more responsibly when they disseminate their information.

Linden residents need facts about this potential facility, not fiction.

'What's going on' in Union County?

By Cheryl Hehl
Staff Writer

Last year, after my one and only meeting with a reputed gang member, I walked out of a local diner shaken and wondering how to give credence to what took place during this very unusual meeting. After that column ran, I thought it would be the last time I would encounter someone whose path had taken them so far into the dark side of life. I was wrong.

When the murders in Roselle took place recently and there was evidence at least one was gang related, I pulled out the crumpled piece of paper I carried in my wallet for the last year and stared at the cell phone number for a long time. As a reporter I knew I had to contact this gang member once again. Especially after last week when the mayor of Roselle made an impassioned plea for an end to the violence that left two more young men dead on a street in this borough.

Although this gang member and I had been in touch a few times since last year, I never wrote about those encounters because it didn't feel right. This time, though, I felt very differently. Young men were being gunned down on the streets of our towns and it was time to find out why.

Any apprehension I initially had quickly faded as I made the call and steeled myself for however it turned out. It took some time for my contacts to reach him and for a while I thought that call might not come. But when my cell phone rang several hours later and I heard that familiar, confident, silky voice on the other end, I was taken back by the relief I felt just knowing this young man was still alive.

Reporter's Notebook

By Cheryl Hehl

I managed somehow to quickly shift into my reporter voice, the one that never betrays my emotions, and only demonstrates bravado and fearlessness.

"Hey, took you long enough to call me," I said flippantly, knowing my off-handed comment would set the tone for further bantering.

"Yeah, I figured you might call," he said lazily, his voice tinged with such machismo and confidence that I chuckled at his natural ability to make arrogance so charming. We joked back and forth for a moment or two, but it wasn't long before I blurted out my reason for calling.

"We need to meet," I said a little too quickly, knowing full well I could have betrayed the anxiousness I felt. Something I know he could and would use against me given the chance. Endless seconds passed before I heard the familiar throaty laugh that told me he was willing to talk, perhaps even about the gang violence erupting in Union County.

"You gonna write about us again," he asked in an engaging, friendly tone that bordered on the teasing that often occurs between a man and woman. I quickly shot back.

"Maybe, if you have something to say that's worth printing."

He laughed again and then grew more serious. He told me it might not be the best time because of the way things were, but I pushed on, hoping he would not cut me off or hang up.

The silence at the other end was palpable. In fact, it was so long, I thought we had been disconnected or he hung up. Heart pounding, I held my breath and waited for his response, certain that if I pushed too hard, our conversation would be over.

When he spoke again, there was a hard edge to his words, one I heard before in our conversations. The coldness hung in the air as his defiant side reared its ugly head, sending chills down my spine.

"You want to ride with us and see how it is," he asked sarcastically, his words so icy and intimidating that it unnerved me. But not enough to take my marbles and go home. Not this time.

"Yeah, right," I said just as defiantly, adding that I didn't have "a death wish." His laughter told me I had met his challenge and the door was open to further conversation.

Shortly after that I brought up the Roselle murders again, trying to ease back into a conversation that could shut him down completely. But if I expected he would be an open book, I was wrong. Again his voice turned stone cold and he

Gang life comes with steep price tag

(Continued from previous page) made it very clear he knew everything that went on when it came to gang activity, but he was not going to go into it.

"I don't mess in anyone's business but my own," he said flatly, his voice completely devoid of emotion. "Why do people think they have the right to mess in mine or any gang's business?"

"People have no reason to fear gang members. We have business to take care of and killing innocent people isn't part of it. They need to get a life and stop worrying about our business," he said, frustration edging each word.

What happened in Roselle was business, he told me. Gang business. The only end to gang problems or issues is usually bloodshed, he said. The fact it occurs in Roselle, Elizabeth, Plainfield or any town in the county, is happenstance. Gang members, he said, are well aware their turf wars leave towns reeling with fear but he said that is not their business. Neither is there fear that law enforcement or the prosecutors office will crack down so hard gangs will be eradicated.

"That won't happen," he said without hesitation, adding that gangs "never have a problem recruiting."

If there is a solution to gang violence it goes much deeper than any town or prosecutor's office has been able to figure out, he said. It starts in childhood when an empty place grows in someone and there is nothing there to fill it.

Later, when this child becomes a youth, gangs are there to offer the one thing no one else seemed to be able to offer — acceptance, loyalty and a brotherhood.

But it comes with a price tag. One they may or may not have to pay with their own bloodshed or someone else's.

As my contact told me a year ago and again last week, "all of us have blood on our hands."

"They think by arresting gang members and putting them in jail it will eventually stop us, but that will never happen," he said softly, adding almost defiantly that there are always more kids "with holes in their hearts and souls."

If I have learned anything from my gang contact, it's that their world is not rooted in the same morals that rule our own. Their code is darker and far deeper within the fiber of their being.

How they got that way, though, is something every parent, citizen, elected official and law enforcement officer needs to think long and hard about. Because, even when gang members are caught and prosecuted, they have a wealth of willing participants waiting in line to fill their ranks.

Fighting it might be the way law enforcement tackles the problem, he said, but that won't stop the violence or the murders. If it was the answer, things would be getting better, not worse.

"We get our members when they are young. The problem is not with us. We give them the one thing they need and that is a sense of belonging. The price they pay for this acceptance is understanding that we will always have their back if they are loyal," he said, adding that anything less always ends in violence.

As our conversation came to an end, I knew that I might not ever hear again from this young man whose life was so vastly different from my own. I looked down at the piece of paper with the new cell phone number he gave me, tucked in my wallet and sighed heavily.

There are no easy answers to this story and no happy endings. That was hard for me to accept as a reporter, even more heartbreaking as a human being. But it is what it is until someone can figure out what to do to make it better.

Until then, I leave you with the only thing that seemed to make any sense to me after this intense conversation. My latest encounter with this gang member brought to mind a Marvin Gaye song called "What's going On." Though it was written in the 1970s, the words seem to fit now more than ever. But like the 1970s, sometimes there are no easy answers. Just pain for what falls away.

"Mother, mother, there's far too many of you crying ... brother, brother, brother, there's far too many of you dying ... You know we have to find a way to bring some lovin' here today."

Father, father, we don't need to escalate, you see war is not the answer, for only love can conquer hate ... You know we have to find a way to bring some lovin' here today ... what's going on? what's going on?"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Kean inactions par for the course in New Jersey

To the Editor:

Was anyone really surprised by the outcome of the vote by the Kean University Board regarding their president? As the late, great Ralph Kramden would say, "Oh, what surprise!"

For realistic people like myself it is no surprise at all. Recall how Cheryl Hehl, a reporter for this paper, tried her best to corner Tom Kean Jr. in Westfield about this very topic at the Armory. He ran away from her like someone who saw a ghost. One would think with the school bearing his name there would be some interest. His interest was zero.

And why should he have any? He did not attend the school and his children will never attend there either. They are blue-blood Ivy leaguers and a diploma mill like Kean is of no interest to them. During the stories, Sen. Raymond Lesniak's name came up — another surprise. I am certain that Sen. Kean will, at some point, need the support of Lesniak and vice-versa. To those working in Trenton, that is far more important than that of a low-end school at the low end of Union County.

Recall how the students marched two miles from Kean to Lesniak's office. He wasn't in. Was any further arrangement made to meet with the students and the senator? The reporting went on to note that during the board vote Lesniak was on the Kean campus, but why? To ensure the outcome he wanted. Some of his relatives have well paying jobs at the school, probably better than most students will get when they graduate.

The students have to wake up and realize that no one really gives a hoot or a holler about their higher education. It is an illusion. All of it.

The president of Kean, who is 62, will get a $200,000 bonus next year. Before he is 65 he most likely will leave with an enormous pension, a grand party and retire to someplace like Boca Raton. I would urge all your readers to read the book "The Soprano State" written by two really sharp reporters. What happened at Kean is standard operating procedure for our state and this is not going to change.

Lest you think the GOP is any better, did anyone hear a peep from Christie? Of course not, his son is going to Princeton.

STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT THE "BRAZILIAN BLOW OUT"

Straight hair has been extremely popular with women of all ages over the past few years, so it is not surprising that some will take any measures to straighten their hair. One of the more popular hair-straightening treatments, known as "Brazilian blowout," provides long-lasting results, but users may pay a price that goes beyond the dollar cost of the treatment. Investigations are currently underway that are looking into complaints that the products expose users to formaldehyde (a substance classified as a human carcinogen by the National Toxicology Program), which can be inhaled and/or absorbed through the skin. In some cases, manufacturers failed to list formaldehyde on ingredient labels or even falsely claimed that their products were formaldehyde-free.

Formaldehyde was added to the list of carcinogens last year after it was found to cause nasal cancer. Chemical damage is one of the most common culprits of hair damage. Using hair dyes, perms and products that straighten the hair, will eventually end up damaging the hair's structure and ultimately affect its appearance. For expert advice on caring for your hair, skin and nails, call 908-925-8877. We provide evening and Saturday appointments. Our office is conveniently located at 833 North Wood Ave., Linden. New Patients are gladly accepted.

P.S. Currently, there are no limitations on the amount of formaldehyde that can be used in personal care products in the United States.

Blackwell Women Lead

Reverend Antoinette Blackwell was America's first ordained woman Minister. After graduating from Oberlin College with a Bachelor Degree in Literary studies she applied to the College's Theological Course Studies. She was allowed to attend with the provision she would be given no official recognition as a Minister. Antoinette was given a license to preach by the Congregational Church in 1851.

Her sister-in-law, Elizabeth Blackwell, was the first woman to receive a Medical Degree in the United States. Elizabeth was accepted into Geneva Medical School in 1847 after her admission was put to a vote by the 150 all male students. She was unanimously voted into the School. On Jan. 23, 1849 she received her degree.

States of America declared war and joined Britain in World War I. President Woodrow Wilson called for men to enlist in the U.S. Army. Linden Borough and Linden Township soon had their quota of volunteers. But history was being made in another way; among the township enlistees was a woman, Ida Feinberg.

Women Doing Their Part

George Washington's Army was scantily clad and suffered during the severe winter. The women of Westfield Township knitted mittens and socks for the soldiers.

Some of them even quilted blankets. The Jersey Blues, from the beginning of the War, were outfitted by the ladies of the County who supplied each soldier with two frocks, pantaloons they spun and a coat of blue trimmed with red.

Mrs. Caldwell Immortalized

The County of Union has an unusual seal; it depicts a British Soldier shooting a woman — Mrs. Caldwell — at Connecticut Farms in Union.

On June 6, 1780 the British crossed from Staten Island and pushed towards Washington's Troops at Morristown. The British fought Colonel Elias Dayton's Troops at Elizabethtown. Colonel Dayton retreated to Connecticut Farms and the British followed, and there the shooting of Caldwell occurred.

The death of Caldwell has been immortalized on Union

County's seal, but, the mystery remains as to whether Caldwell was an accidental shooting victim or did the British Soldier know she was the wife of the fighting Parson, James Caldwell?

Women in Government

The first woman elected to serve in the New Jersey Senate was Elizabeth's Mildred Barry Hughes.

Another Elizabeth native, Florence P. Dwyer, was the first woman elected to the U.S. Congress, serving in the House of Representatives.

But the woman who racked up the most firsts was Springfield's Joanne Rajoppi, the first woman elected Union County Clerk. Previously, Joanne was the first woman to chair the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and First Union County Register of Deeds and Mortgages.

Women in Power

Today's women hold seats of power from Colleges to the Capital but Union County's most powerful woman is not a CEO of a large corporation or a legislator, she's Hillside's Charlotte De Filippo.

Charlotte started her rise to power in July of 1975 when she was appointed Hillside's Acting Township Clerk. In 1976, she was the first woman appointed to the Zoning Board.

As Director of the Union County Improvement Authority, Charlotte helps Union County municipalities grow as she oversees the granting of millions so everything from firehouses to libraries can be built.

As Chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, Charlotte has been instrumental in the Democrats maintaining control of the County with an all Democrat Freeholder Board.

Coming up next week, women in sports.

Medical waste plant in Linden causes stir

"I felt insulted by this company's supposed presentation at a packed community meeting I attended," he said in an email to LocalSource. "They showed less than a five minute sales clip of a piece of machinery they might use, nothing about their company. They were not forthcoming with any information about their financials, business history, business hours, literature, contingency plans, building plans, worker bios, certifications or client lists."

Gerbounka said Friday EarthCare is a safe medical waste facility that must receive DEP approval before beginning operation. But also making this deal very attractive is that the city could reap as much as $1.4 million from the venture. As for moving public works to the municipal garage, the mayor said that is something that should have happened a long time ago.

"It doesn't make sense to have two public garages," the mayor said.

"Combining them will save us $140,000 a year in electric and other utilities alone," the mayor explained, again mentioning the additional revenue the city would generate beyond that number.

Although joining public works with the municipal garage will present some building problems, Gerbounka felt that in the long run it will work to the city's benefit.

"We will have to add a butler building to the side of the municipal garage so our public works trucks can be repaired," he explained, noting that this addition would cost about three-quarters of a million dollars.

But, Gerbounka said that for Linden being the host community for EarthCare, the city will receive 10 cents a pound for all the medical waste processed at the facility. Given the amount of medical waste this facility could process in a year, that could add up to between $1.2 and $1.4 million.

"We need revenue desperately," the mayor explained, noting that in recent years the city has lost major industries that kept the city afloat. "We have to bring in more revenue and this is a safe way to do it."

Despite reducing city employees by 80 people through attrition over the last five years, which saved Linden $6.7 million, the mayor reported that staying under the state imposed 2 percent cap is very hard.

"Where are you going to get $1.2 million to $1.4 million in revenue," the mayor asked, suggesting that residents opposed to the idea think about the $300 to $400 more in taxes they will have to pay if the facility is not approved.

"This is the same medical waste traveling on our streets right now," Gerbounka added. "It's generated in every doctor's office, picked up and taken to Pennsylvania, Maryland or New York state."

"All this medical waste leaves doctor's offices and other facilities in heavy plastic bags or Sharpe's needle containers," he continued. "Then it is shredded up under very high temperatures until all the bacteria is destroyed. After that it is pounded onto a screen and the liquid carried into the sewer system."

"This will be bacteria free and it will be no different than flushing the toilet," Gerbounka added.

However, the mayor discovered at the meeting last week, residents did not believe what they heard from EarthCare.

"They don't believe it will be bacteria free," he said, adding that residents were concerned that there

Some residents are upset about the possibility of EarthCare renting the old public works building and making it into a Department of Environmental Protection-approved medical waste treatment plant. The site, on Lower Road, is located adjacent to Buchanan Park, but set back from the road and separated by a fence.

could be an accident involving spillage prior to the medical waste arriving at the facility.

The mayor also said there will be safeguards in place to ensure the city brought in a certain amount of revenue should EarthCare process less medical waste than planned.

"If they don't operate at full capacity, we are still guaranteed three-quarters of a million dollars," he said.

As for the medical waste being a danger to residents, Gerbounka said the scare tactics being used by the Tremley Point Alliance are unfair to residents who are taking this information as the truth.

"This is a group with just four members and they won't even let anyone else join their ranks," the mayor said, strongly suggesting that residents not believe the flyers circulating in their neighborhood.

"They're misleading people," the mayor said, adding that he would never put residents in any part of the city in harms way.

The flier contains considerable material that either does not relate in any way to what will be brought to the proposed medical waste facility, or it is "outright lies" according to the mayor.

For example, information about "medical waste in the flier is followed by a list of things this facility cannot handle according to NJDEP permitting law."

Not only will body parts not be processed, but infectious disease medical waste will not be permitted by the state, the mayor said. Medical waste from infectious diseases such as smallpox, the mayor said, was meant to scare residents.

According to the World Health Organization, or WHO, the single last known natural case of smallpox was contracted in Somalia in 1977, and a fatal laboratory experiment accident occurred in 1978 in the United Kingdom.

"The global eradication of smallpox was certified, based on intense verification activities in countries, by a commission of eminent scientists in December 1979 and subsequently endorsed by the World Health Assembly in 1980," according to the WHO website.

A representative of the Tremley Point Alliance refused to comment when questioned specifically on the flier, but did comment on the the group's opinions in an email release.

"EarthCare has no track record for the Alliance to check, having never operated a bio-hazardous medical waste plant," said Beatrice Bernzott, Tremley Point Alliance Vice-President, in an email release. "Consequently, there is no way of knowing which of the medical waste categories will be processed and which of the waste generators will be their customers."

"Under the circumstances" she continued, "the Tremley Point Alliance wants to give the voters of Linden the opportunity to say 'no' to EarthCare Systems by placing the question on November's ballot. A 'no' vote would protect residents' health, safety and property values."

KENILWORTH BRIEFS

Book Club to meet on April 10

The book group of Kenilworth Public Library will meet at 7:15 on April 10 to discuss "Tinkers," by Paul Harding.

Winner of the 2010 Pulitzer prize for fiction, "Tinkers" introduces the reader to an old man named George Washington Crosby, a one-time repairer of clocks and watches, as he lays dying. Caught up in his delirium, Crosby's thoughts return to his harsh Maine childhood and memories of his father, an epileptic, itinerant peddler. Although the subject matter is somber, "Tinkers" is described in its liner notes as being "at once heartbreaking and life affirming ... an elegiac meditation on love, loss, and the fierce beauty of nature."

Participation in the book discussion group is free and open to adult members of the general public, including residents of communities other than Kenilworth. No previous experience with a book group is required and new members are always welcome. Copies of the book will be available at the circulation desk for checkout and non-residents are encouraged to inquire regarding how they may be eligible for Kenilworth library borrowing privileges. Because space is limited, preregistration is requested and can be done at the library or by calling 908-276-2451 during regular library hours.

The Kenilworth library is located at 548 Boulevard. More information about the library can be found at www.kenilworthlibrary.org.

Gallery exhibit through April 30

The Gallery on the Boulevard at the Kenilworth Public Library will present "Discovering Watercolours," a collection of paintings by Jeanne Lucas, through April 30. Born and raised in England, Lucas studied drawing and sketching in high school but only became serious about studying art again after she came to the United States in 2004. After having enrolled in drawing and oil painting classes at Union County College, Lucas also discovered additional opportunities for study in Roselle and it was here that she realized her true love was for watercolour. Subsequently, her watercolour painting of a scene in Venice at dusk was awarded third prize in the Union County Senior Art contest.

Artists and photographers interested in having their work displayed at the Gallery on the Boulevard can contact Library Director Dale Spindel for more information. The Kenilworth library is located at 548 Boulevard. More information about the library can be found at www.kenilworthlibrary.org.

Shopping trip visiting Rockvale

The Kenilworth Historical Society will be host to a bus trip to the Rockvale shopping outlets in Lancaster, Pa., on April 12.

The bus will leave Kenilworth's S. 21st Street Municipal Parking lot across from the Kenilworth Veterans Center, at 8 a.m. and return at approximately 8 p.m. The cost of the trip will include motor coach transportation, approximately six hours of shopping time, a discount coupon booklet and a shopping outlet map.

Rockvale features more than 100 outlet stores offering up to 75 percent off retail prices on popular brand names, plus additional discounts daily. There is no sales tax on clothing and shoes. There also will be trolley and shuttle service. Additionally, there will be complimentary door prizes. For further information and reservations, call 908-709-0391 or 908-709-0434. As space is limited, it is suggested that reservations be made early to ensure availability. Gift certificates are available.

Proceeds will benefit the Kenilworth Historical Society's ongoing project to restore the local 19th-century Oswald J. Nitschke House and transform it into a "living history" museum and cultural arts center.

The Kenilworth Historical Society is an independent, non-profit, tax-exempt organization, dedicated to the research, preservation and interpretation of the historic Oswald J. Nitschke House, local history and culture.

For more information about the Kenilworth Historical Society, visit the organization's Web site at www.kenilworthhistoricalsociety.org.

4-H looking for agricultural volunteers

Science and Agricultural Education Majors are being sought by Rutgers' Cooperative Extension of Union County as volunteers to lead summer science day camps in Plainfield, Rahway and Elizabeth. The day camps run through the months of June, July and August, and provide science activities that are both educational and entertaining.

"By making science fun and engaging, the summer enrichment program gets kids excited about learning through unique hands-on experiences," said Freeholder Board Chairman Alexander Mirabella.

Recent Union County 4-H Summer Science activities have included the physics of toys, earthquake-proof buildings made of toothpicks, and constructing boats to learn about flotation.

The program is intended for children in first grade and older. Training will be provided for volunteers, and those donating at least 300 hours from June 1 to Sept. 1 will be compensated with a $2,000 stipend and a $1,175 education credit. To apply, or for additional information contact 4-H agent James Nichnadowicz at 908-654-9854 or via email at Nichnadowicz@njaes.rutgers.edu.

Honore Willsie: A step ahead of her time

By J. Pencinger

Cranford Historical Society

In the early twentieth century, a time when American women could not vote, the primary image of women was an upper-class lady who wore a corset and fancy dress, and sat home all day, not working; her only occupation would be being a wife and mother.

Honore Willsie, a one-time Cranford resident, did not fit this description. Willsie, though married, did not just sit at home. Instead, she had a career writing several books and being the editor of a magazine. In this light, Willsie can be viewed as a part of the group of women who, in seeking a life beyond the home, contributed to the feminist movement and the goal of achieving social equality for women.

Honore Willsie was born Honore McCue in 1880 in Ottumwa, Iowa to two descendants of families from the East that had moved to the West, William Dunbar McCue, a lawyer, and Lilly Bryant Head McCue. Unlike most women of her time, Willsie received a higher education, attending college at the University of Wisconsin where she earned her bachelor's degree in history.

After graduating college, Willsie then took on a more traditional role when she married Henry Willsie, an engineer, in 1901. Willsie and her husband lived in various places including a mining camp in Arizona, a location that would inevitably influence Willsie's later writing, before moving back East.

The reason behind Willsie's move east was so that the aspiring writer could focus on her career. Willsie's ultimate career goal was to write her own stuff — in other words, Willsie wanted to publish her work on whatever subject she chose, which, in her case, was historically-based fiction.

However, in the early 1900s, this was extremely difficult for even male authors to accomplish due to the editorial policies of magazines. In an interview for the New York Times, Willsie later stated that authors were often forced to write pieces that only focused on what mainstream audiences would read. Thus, in the early days of her career, Willsie met with several different publishers based in New York City in order to sell some of her stories as well as current event articles to magazines. Eventually, Willsie's work was featured in magazines such as Harper's Weekly and Collier's.

Due to her exposure in these magazines, Willsie and her works grew in popularity, leading to the publication of her first book, "Heart Of The Desert," in 1913. "Heart Of The Desert" was a controversial novel — fitting to be written by an unconventional female author — that featured taboo topics such as an interracial romance between a white woman and a Native-American man. Nonetheless, the novel was a success: Critics praised both Willsie's story and her main protagonist as masterfully written and suspense driven to both capture and keep the reader's attention.

Seen here in a greeting card from 1911 is Honore Willsie, a former resident of Cranford. According to the Cranford Historical Society, Willsie broke the mold of traditional women at the turn of the century, being productive beyond the confines of the household. Willsie was a magazine editor and celebrated author, among other things. She died in 1940 of influenza.

After "Heart Of The Desert," Willsie then went on to write several more books including the culmination of her research on Abraham Lincoln — the "Great Captain trilogy," 1927-1930), a novel on missionaries in the West, "We Must March," 1925, a murder mystery "Judith Of The Godless Valley," 1922, and a novel on the poor treatment of Native Americans, "Lydia Of The Pines," 1917, as well as biographies of Bronson Alcott and Mary Todd Lincoln among other things.

However, Willsie was not only an author. She was also a magazine editor from 1914 to 1919, during the tumultuous times of World War I. The magazine Willsie worked on was called The Delineator.

Started in 1873, The Delineator was a women's magazine that originally focused on dressmaking, something considered as traditional women's work. Later, though, The Delineator expanded its subject matter to include short stories and articles on current event topics similar to what Willsie had written in the past.

During the productive time that Willsie both wrote her first books and began working as the editor of The Delineator, she and her husband were living in Cranford.

The couple moved to Cranford in 1910, and, in a 1911 issue of The Cranford Chronicle, there is an announcement regarding a story written by Honore Willsie titled "Youth's Sweet Scented Manuscript" being published in Pearson's Magazine.

In Cranford, Willsie resided in Hampton Hall before moving to 7 Berkeley Place in the fall of 1911. Willsie also owed a fair share of land in the town separate from her husband that equaled over seventy acres northwest of what is today Nomahegan Park. Though Willsie eventually left Cranford to move closer to her job as the editor of The Delineator in New York, she still returned to the town to be a speaker at local organizations such as the Women's Progress Club in 1914 and 1917.

The topics that Willsie spoke and wrote about often dealt with current issues that were not associated with the traditional affairs of women at the time. World War I, as the most influential global event of Willsie's lifetime, greatly affected Willsie's thoughts. For example, Willsie stated in an interview that the war was not only causing humanity to reevaluate its search for what occurs after death, but it would bring about a new philosophy for writers as well.

Willsie also spoke out about the role of women, pointing out that women, in raising children, set their future values. Even though this statement is far from full-out women's liberation, Willsie's argument fits in nicely with similar arguments from the first wave of feminism that women are more than just incubators, and, in shaping the opinions of the future generations, they had valuable opinions that should translate into the right to vote.

Further topics that Willsie elaborated on included a more liberal stance on the then controversial and rare practice of divorce as well as immigration on which she stated that "to be an American you must have a certain philosophy of government," not a specific birthplace.

It is not surprising that Willsie had a less traditional view of society: In 1922, Willsie divorced her first husband. She remarried a year later in 1923 to William Morrow, a publisher. Willsie then had two daughters and a son with Morrow, and took on the traditional role of motherhood though it was also during this time that she wrote some of her later books. However, Willsie continued her more liberated life after Morrow's 1931 death when she, like many of the other expatriate American writers of the Lost Generation, moved to Europe. Willsie lived the rest of her life in England before dying of influenza during a 1940 visit to see her sister in Connecticut.

Through her active life, Willsie disproved the stereotype of the passive Edwardian woman and showed that women in the early twentieth century did more than just sit around in the house and have children. As such, Willsie was also a sign of the changing times in which women could be more than just wives and mothers: Her experience illustrates that women were gaining more social power, and had more options to get educations and have careers.

Willsie's local connection brings this transition toward modern society and more equality for women closer to home. In fact, Honore Willsie both is an individual that symbolizes the movement toward equality for women, as well as someone who brings the larger women's movement back to the modern individual.

• March 18: Linden Police officers responded at 2:28 a.m. to Nuro's Pavilion, 300 Roselle St., on a report of a large crowd leaving the nightclub and acting disorderly. An officer, working security at the club,

Both were transported to the county jail in lieu of $2,000 bail, each with a court date set for April 9.

Linden police called for mutual aid from neighboring police agencies and the Union County police to assist in dispersing the crowd. At 3:15 a.m., an individual, later identified as Patrick M. St. Fleur, 28, of Newark, refused to leave the parking lot and continued to yell and act in a disorderly manner. After being told to leave several times, he was placed under arrest. He struggled with the officers and refused to get into the patrol car while threatening Officers Jay Mohr and Martin Jedrzejewski. While being booked at headquarters, St. Fleur spit at Officer Jedrzejewski. He was charged with disorderly conduct, failure to disperse, resisting arrest and aggravated assault by throwing bodily fluids at a law enforcement officer, an indictable offense. St. Fleur was taken to the Union County Jail in lieu of $7,000 bail with a court date set for March 23. There were no injuries reported.

E-cycle event to be held March 31

The County of Union will sponsor a recycling event for electronic equipment on March 31. Union County residents can get rid of unwanted computers, televisions and other electronic equipment in an environmentally proper manner.

The special E-cycling event will take place from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Alcatel-Lucent Technologies facility located at 600 Mountain Ave., New Providence.

All residents of Union County are eligible to participate at no cost. There is a limit of six electronic items per car.

"Computer monitors, old televisions and other electronic devices are the source of a considerable amount of dangerous material, including lead, mercury, cadmium and PCBs — and it is unlawful to dispose of them with the regular garbage," said Freeholder Christopher Hudak, liaison to the Union County Solid Waste Advisory Board. "Up to 95 percent of most electronic appliances can be recycled. This is a responsible way to keep hazardous heavy metals out of our environment."

Electronic equipment that will be accepted on March 31 includes computer monitors, hard drives, modems, keyboards, CPU's, mice, printers, scanners, speakers, televisions, VCR's, fax machines, telephones, circuit boards, CD's, DVD's and video cassettes.

All that residents need to do is drive to the site with their unwanted electronic equipment, the county said. Workers at the site will unload the vehicles.

Pre-registration is not required for this special Saturday collection.

Refrigerators, washers and dryers, microwaves, and air conditioners will not be accepted.

A complete list of the materials that will be accepted on March 31 is available at the Union County Bureau of Recycling and Planning website: www.ucnj.org/recycle.

The electronics collection will be held rain or shine, for Union County residents only and not for businesses. Proof of Union County residency is required.

In addition to the special March 31 recycling event, there are local businesses as well as 15 municipalities that provide E-cycling opportunities for residents. Visit the website www.ucnj.org/recycle or call your municipal recycling coordinator for more computer and electronics recycling options.

For more information about recycling events, call the Union County Recycling Hotline at 908-654-9889.

Taking the plunge

On Feb. 25 the Cranford Plungers participated in the Special Olympics New Jersey Polar Bear Plunge in Seaside Heights. The temperature was in the 30-degree range, the wind was relentless and it snowed, but the Cranford Plungers jumped into the Atlantic Ocean along with 6,000 others. The Plunge raised $1.4 million and the Cranford Plungers ranked 10th in funds raised with a total of $10,242 donated towards Special Olympics New Jersey.

CLARK BRIEFS

Blood drive on Saturday

There is an effort to meet the urgency of the community's increasing need for blood, and the Deutscher Club of Clark is hosting a blood drive in conjunction with The Blood Center of New Jersey on Saturday to help meet that need. The Deutscher Club is located at 787 Featherbed Lane, Clark. Hours of donation are from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This spring New Jersey faces continuing shortages of blood donations and must import up to 30 percent of their blood supply regularly, from other states; potentially causing emergency operations to be delayed. Donations are needed every day to meet the needs of New Jersey hospitals, in the immediate area, for the patients who require life-saving transfusions.

Blood center officials note that each unit of blood donated is broken down into several components including platelets, plasma, and red cells so one donation can save up to three lives.

The donation process is safe and simple. Donors are first asked medical history questions and given a mini-health check, including pulse, blood pressure, and iron level. The actual donation of blood takes just five to seven minutes, and then the donor can enjoy a light snack provided by the Blood Center as well as a continental breakfast or light German lunch provided by the Deutscher Club of Clark.

Each donor will also receive a $10 ShopRite gift card from the BCNJ. The entire process generally takes under one hour. Donors will receive a free cholesterol screening directly from the Blood Center of New Jersey.

Donors can be as young as 16-years-old, weight 120 pounds, and be in general good health. Sixteen-year-old donors need a consent form signed by a parent or guardian. There is no upper age limit for donors provided they meet health requirements. Donors should bring a signed or picture form of identification. People with a fever or sore throat should wait until they are feeling better before donating, and there is a 24-hour deferral for teeth cleanings and fillings.

For those who have recently traveled outside of the United States, please call the blood center at 973-676-4700, ext. 140 for eligibility criteria. For more information or to sign up for this blood drive, call the blood center at 800-652-5663, extension 155.

Proceeds from the recycling will help fund the Green Science and Green Citizen scholarships for college-bound high school students.

Moscow Festival Ballet's 'Romeo and Juliet' was performed at the Kean Stage this past weekend. The ballet company also performed 'Chopiniana.'

Moscow ballet at Kean Stage offers plenty of culture, delight

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

This past weekend was a true delight to ballet aficionados. And particularly Russian devotees.

On Friday evening, the Moscow Festival Ballet offered an exciting evening of "Romeo and Juliet" and "Chopiniana" on the Kean Stage in Union. And on Sunday afternoon, the Bolshoi Ballet, by way of the enormous screen at the Digiplex Cranford Theater, the Bolshoi Ballet presented the glorious "Le Corsaire," photographed live from the Bolshoi Ballet Theater in Moscow, Russia.

Kean opened with a bevy of ballerinas, as ballet nymphs, all dressed in white costumes, and the Corps de Ballet, to decorate "Chopiniana," and Aydoz Zakan, as the romantic youth danced to the beautiful music of Frederic Chopin. This brief, but entertaining grand pas was choreographed by Mikhail Fokine with sets and costumes by Elena and Sergei Radchenko.

"Chopiniana," which emerged from Chopin's "Seventh Waltz," and its women become the embodiment of a young man's dream. It appeared to an audience that the nymphs could have provided much more in the dance department than was performed. Still, they managed to brighten up the theater with their sparkling, snow-white costumes, their lovely smiles, and their delicate stance.

However, the Moscow Festival Ballet made it up by staging a whirlwind, exciting full-length production of "Romeo and Juliet," with music by Peter Illyich Tchaikovsky. It was derived from William Shakespeare's tragedy, with original choreography by Marius Petipa, restaged by Elena Elena and Sergei Radchenko.

The well-known, tragic story of the romance of Romeo and Juliet is sharply unveiled by the excellent company of the Moscow Festival Ballet. With the thrilling appearance of Ekaterina Egorova as Juliet and Dmitry Schsemelinin as Romeo, the audience becomes engulfed in the marvelous dancing in addition to the agony of the romance.

Despite the Capulets' rivalry with the Montagues, a romance emerges between members of their families. Ultimately, they cannot be together because Juliet takes a hypnotic drug so that she is unable to marry a rich man, whom her parents had chosen for her. The drug, of course, renders her into a dead state, which is how Romeo discovers her. As a result, Romeo takes poison and dies. And Juliet awakens to find him dead, then plunges Romeo's dagger into her own heart.

Throughout the entire production, the elegance of the dancers is extremely enticing, and the company, plus the Corps de Ballet, are exceptional. With such performers as Alexander Daev, Samat Abrahmanov, Evgeniy Rudakov, Dmitri Romanov, Natalia Ivanova and Galina Ischenko, this classic Russian ballet company has enchanted a large, anxious audience, many made up of Russian ballet fans.

More of the same can enhance the cultural aspects of Union and the state of New Jersey. Bravo, Kean. Brava, Moscow Festival Ballet.

Praying for a spring full of dew and worms

The Gardener's Apprentice

By Elisabeth Ginsburg

The weather is unseasonably warm. The snowdrops and early crocuses have thrown in the towel and are beginning their slow disappearing act. The daffodils are coming on strong. Flowering quinces are right behind them, and all the other spring plants are revving up. On quiet days you can almost hear them. The sap is rising along with my anxiety level. The garden tour is only 65 days away.

Unseasonably warm weather acts on plants like time-lapse photography, making them open, bloom and fade at lightning speed. I fear this will happen to all the fresh, young daffodils that look so brave and hopeful right this minute. Even extra water only slows the too-rapid progression from bud to withered stalk.

I watch the roses like a hawk, as they leaf out a little more each day. Tiny buds will begin forming any minute now. If those buds develop too quickly, the flowers will have bloomed and faded before the garden tour in late May. In my nightmares, garden visitors will have nothing colorful to look at except the green, metallic backs of hundreds of Japanese beetles perched triumphantly atop denuded rosebushes.

I cope with the unseasonable weather by making a concerted effort to live in the moment, reassuring myself that all things, with the possible exception of aphids and crabgrass infestations, will work out for the best. This is easiest to believe when I look at plants like erodium. These tiny, absurdly vigorous plants are sometimes known as "heron's bill," and are related to hardy geraniums. They feature lovely, lobed foliage and small pink flowers with five petals apiece.

Like others of their clan, erodium have the unique ability to spit their seeds great distances, which they do with wild abandon. As the result, baby erodium edge many of my beds. Even now, when much of the garden is in a state of post-winter ennui, the erodium are a vibrant, attractive yellowish green. The leaves will darken over the next few weeks and the flowers will appear in late spring.

Since erodium is so profligate in creating offspring, I can be generous in digging them up and spreading them around the garden. Japanese beetles and other pests disdain them, so I don't have to worry that they will disappear in the night. Erodium are a comfort.

For several weeks, I have stepped daintily amid the hundreds of erodium plants, raking the winter accumulation of leaves from the beds. This is absolutely essential so that I can get a handle on the amount of onion grass that has popped up in various parts of the garden. Onion grass is tenacious and must be removed — bulbs and all — with the garden knife. If you miss even one bulb, a new clump will start forming as soon as you turn your back. When it infests the lawn, you can cheat and whack off the tops of the onion grass with the lawnmower or string trimmer. This keeps the plants at bay for about half an hour. In garden beds, however, onion grass must be dealt with promptly and without mercy.

The seasonal pruning, clipping and lopping chores are proceeding nicely and my butterfly bushes are now thoroughly disciplined. Most of the rampant roses of Sharon are under control. This week I will start moving plants around, dividing the emergent hostas to cover bare spots in shaded areas and adding bits of color with some new, inexpensive primroses.

I also bought two incredibly cheap hellebores to install in the pots that flank my front steps. I stole this idea from a gardening friend, but if anyone asks, I will be absolutely shameless about claiming the inspiration as my own.

This past week, I made it through the inspection by the garden-tour organizers, who seemed enthused about my still-messy landscape. I am lucky that they either have good imaginations or excellent poker faces.

If I had any financial savvy, I would find a way to invest in mulch futures, so that I could profit from my impending large-scale investment in mulch.

In his wonderful book, "The Gardener's Year," Czech playwright Karel Capek wrote a prayer, encouraging God to provide perfect garden conditions, including gentle daily rain from midnight to three a.m. He concludes by asking "that there may be plenty of dew and little wind, enough worms, no plant lice and snails, no mildew and that once a week thin liquid manure and guano may fall from heaven."

I am not sure about the practicality of "thin liquid manure and guano" falling from the skies, especially here in the suburbs, but the rest of Capek's requirements align perfectly with my own. I think I will repeat his prayer every night at bedtime.

'Le Corsaire' was shown at the Digiplex Cranford Movie Theater over the weekend.

Cranford digiplex shows 'Le Corsaire'

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

This past weekend was a real treat for the ballet public, particularly for the followers of their truly great Russian culture — two Russian ballets.

At least, on Friday evening, on Kean Stage in Union the Moscow Festival Ballet offered "Romeo and Juliet" and "Chopiniana." And at the Digiplex Cranford Theater on Sunday afternoon, there was enthusiastic fanfare when the extra large screen brought forth a live performance of the Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet's "Le Corsaire," in three acts.

Emerging Pictures is responsible for presenting "Ballet in Cinema," an expressly modern picture, and providing magical moments to the audience of what actually takes place at the empirical Bolshoi Ballet Theater in Moscow, Russia.

It's really quite astounding to be able to experience such exotic moments like what the Russian audience looks like; backstage before and after the performance, an explanation in French and English of what each act has to offer — in addition to the exceptional performance itself.

A theater-goer actually feels as if he or she is sitting in the first row of an enormous piece of work such as "Le Corsaire," watching the energetic dancing toes playing their magic, and the performers, themselves, panting after an exhausting moment or two.

The Adolphe Adam ballet, "Le Corsaire," in three acts, with two intermissions, has a new staging of Marius Petipa's choreography by Alexei Ratmansky and Yuri Burlaka.

The dazzling production, with its exquisite costumes and scenery, concerns a young, Greek girl, Medora, who falls in love with a pirate, Conrad, and cannot consummate her relationship with him because the Pacha, Seyd, has fallen for her and wants her for his queen. She is sold to the Pasha by a slave dealer, but manages to escape with Conrad, both of whom, are pursued and captured. Conrad is sentenced to death, but Medora saves his life by agreeing to marry the Pasha. And this is where all the excitement is exuded. In between, there are conflicting moments, disguises, escapes, and all the while, Medora and the ballet dancers, dance away — large as life — postcard picture perfect — up on that big screen.

The lovely Svetlana Lunkina, is absolutely delightful in the role of Medora. Her delicacy in her persona and in her beautiful dancing are in a class by themselves. Ruslan Skvortsov as Conrad, a Corsair, is equally fine in his twists and turns and his gentle handling of Medora. Outstanding is Alexei Loparevich, as Seyd, the Pacha. He has a wonderfully expressive face, and his movements with and toward his beloved Medora are invaluable. Loparevich also has a tendency to steal every moment in this ballet.

The other principals in the cast are really exceptional, particularly Andrei Merkuriev as Birbanto, one of the chief corsairs; Kristina Karasyova as Zulmea, the Pacha's favorite sultana; Nina Kaptsova, as Gulnare, the Pacha's slave girl; Gennadi Yanin as Isaac Languedem, the bazaar owner, and Andrei Sitnikov, as the keeper of Seyd, the Pacha's harem.

It really is a pleasure and a privilege to be able to enjoy such a fantastic attempt to bring the "real thing" to a movie screen as large as the one in Cranford. The public, particularly this reviewer, can hardly wait for the next one, the Royal Ballet Company's "Romeo and Juliet," scheduled April 1 and April 10 in the Digiplex Cranford Theater. It'll be a treat — beyond all treats — for the theater-going public from New Jersey, and elsewhere.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Springfield star lifts hockey team To Squirt AA championship

The Jersey Penguins defeated the New Jersey Colonials 4-1 in the New Jersey Youth Hockey League's Squirt AA championship game March 11 at the Jersey Shore Arena in Wall.

Gabriel also scored both goals in his team's 2-1 semifinal win over the Ramapo Saints March 10.

The Penguins, who play their games at the Rock in Dunellen, finished second in the regular season at 10-4-3, while the Colonials, who play their games at Mennen Arena in Morris Township, placed first at 12-1-3.

Cranford's Klimek won't forget game won at Kean Will be returning there for North-South

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

PISCATAWAY — Michael Klimek will never forget the only high school football game he played at Kean University's Alumni Stadium.

On Saturday morning, Dec. 3, 2011 in Union Township he became part of Cranford sports history when the Cougars won their biggest game.

Klimek's play on both sides of the ball — specifically on defense at linebacker — helped lead Cranford to a 27-0 win over Parsippany Hills. The Cougars won North 2, Group 3 to capture their first playoff championship.

Before the 2011 season, Cranford was the only Union County program that had not reached a championship game since the playoff era in New Jersey began in 1974.

Klimek will lead a contingent of 10 Union County players who will compete for the North squad at Kean when the 34th annual North-South All-Star Football Classic will kick off at Alumni Stadium June 25 at 7 p.m.

The South leads the series at 16-14-2, with no game being played in 2002 because of inclement weather — thunder and lightning — occurring right before kickoff at Rutgers. The North has never led in the series.

This is the fourth straight year that the game will be played at Kean, which has proven — on many levels — to be a much better venue than Rutgers was.

At Sunday's Media Day, Klimek was all smiles when asked about the last time he played at Kean.

"To be back there, the memories are all great," said Klimek (6-1, 215), who just two days ago committed to playing on the Division 3 level at Montclair State University. "To be in that locker room again and know that the last time I was there we walked out and won a state championship — that will be great."

The other nine players from Union County on the North roster include — on offense — Union guard Nazir Barnett (6-3, 250), Governor Livingston center Anthony Manganiello (6-3, 270), Rahway tackle Dion Dawkins (6-3, 275), Scotch Plains running back Anthony Byers (6-0, 180) and Elizabeth wide receiver Elijah Hughes (5-9, 178) and — on defense — Plainfield end Chad Lewis (6-5, 230), Hillside end Gordy Dufresne (6-3, 210), Roselle tackle Scott Wiggins (6-3, 220) and New Providence linebacker Dave Barletta (6-5, 205), who committed to Fordham right before last season began.

The only Union County player that could not make Media Day was Wiggins. He was represented by his head coach — Roselle mentor Lou Grasso Jr. — who is the wide receivers coach on the North staff.

Klimek is the first Cranford player in six years to be playing in the North-South game. Chris Brown, a 2006 Cranford graduate, was the last.

Brown was one of the senior leaders present head coach Erik Rosenmeier had during his first season at the helm in 2005.

"I remember watching Chris Brown play," Klimek said. "It's an honor to be the first player from Cranford to be playing in this game since Chris did."

Klimek led Cranford in tackles his sophomore, junior and senior seasons, with the Cougars finishing 6-4 in 2010 and a program-best 10-1 in 2011. Cranford made the playoffs last year for the first time since 2004.

After the North-South game, Klimek will be playing for longtime MSU head coach Rich Giancola. Former Cranford standout Chad Faulcon earned Division 3 All-America honors at MSU as a senior last fall.

"When I met with Coach Giancola he talked a great deal about the program," said Klimek, who chose Montclair State over Wagner. "I'm excited to be going there."

Klimek is also ready to represent Cranford football in three months in a setting that will feature the very best football players in the state.

"Word spread around fast (in town) that I was going to be playing in the game," Klimek said. "I've watched this game before on TV, so to be able to play in it is really cool."

With a state championship now accomplished, Cranford football will seek to continue a winning tradition. Cranford was 30-30 from 2005-2010 before last year. The Cougars are now 16-5 in their last 21 games, including a winning season of 6-4 in 2010.

"Our goal from the beginning was to change the culture," Klimek said.

Klimek credited coordinator Joe Hubert for the success the defense had.

"From weightlifting to practice, we were taught to just do our jobs and keep it simple," Klimek said. "Coach Hubert had a lot to do with that."

Cranford kept it simple enough to halt Colonia star running back Greg Jones, who is on the South roster at that position. In a North 2, Group 3 semifinal at Colonia, the Cougars held Jones to under 50 yards in the first half.

Jones scored a meaningless touchdown against Cranford reserves in the game's final minute — long after Cranford was dominant in what turned out to be a 34-7 victory.

The win was Cranford's second playoff triumph, its first in eight years and also its first on the road.

"Jones is a great player," Klimek said. "We controlled the line of scrimmage, which was key."

Jones (5-10, 185) came into the game with 30 touchdowns, including five in his previous game, which was a 33-12 home win over a 7-0 Wall team. He also rushed for 450 yards in that contest, leading the Patriots to a seventh straight victory.

"We saw him on film and knew that he likes to bounce outside," Klimek said. "We had to stay to our assignments."

"We controlled the line and didn't let him have any holes to run through."

Manganiello, also a standout wrestler, will continue playing football at Lehigh. Although the Highlanders were just 3-7 last fall, they did manage to win two of their final three games.

"We had a rough season, but I'm happy to be representing the coaches and our team," Manganiello said. "I went to last year's game and made it a goal of mine to be able to play in this year's game."

Many football players eye the skill positions, such as quarterback, running back or wide receiver. Manganiello gets just as much satisfaction when he gets dirty and mixes it up with opposing linemen.

"I have a lot of fun in the trenches," Manganiello said. "I like battling guys one-on-one."

Manganiello was not pleased with the decision that was made regarding highly-successful, eight-year GL head coach Terry Hanratty not being retained for a ninth season.

Hanratty guided GL to an unprecedented six straight playoff seasons, including the program's second state championship game.

"He was one of the best coaches I ever had," Manganiello said.

"It wasn't only about winning. He was a great guy and went out of his way to make sure nobody got in any trouble."

"He was a great leader. I will come back and visit him wherever he is coaching next."

Through his blocking, Barnett helped pave the way for one of the top running backs in the state, sophomore Jamauri Bogan.

"This is a big honor," Barnett said. "To be here among the best kids in the state is special."

After rushing for over 1,100 yards as a freshman, Bogan rushed for 2,260 yards on 258 carries (8.76 average) and scored 27 touchdowns last year. Bogan is on pace to easily eclipse Union's record for career yardage, which is held by 1986 graduate Tony Stewart.

"We helped each other," Barnett said of Union's offensive line blocking for Bogan. "We knew Jamauri would make things happen. We expected a lot out of him."

Barnett's performance helped lead head coach Brian Sheridan's Union squad to a playoff season last year. He plans on playing on the defensive line at Wagner.

"I like lining up and going against bigger guys," Barnett said. "I like to see who is stronger."

Barnett chose Wagner over Army, Navy and Bucknell.

"It's closer to home," Barnett said. "I'm looking to play end. I like the defensive side of the ball better because I like to hit people."

Hillside only won a single game last year, but it was its last, a 22-12 win over Snyder at Caven Point in Jersey City.

Dufresne will seek to be part of another gridiron victory in three months.

"It feels great to be here," Dufresne said. "I'm honored."

"I'm looking forward to representing Hillside."

Dufresne, who is considering American International or prep school Fork Union Military Academy, will count down the days before he gets a chance to chase down a South player with the ball.

"At end, I love being on the outside and using my speed to get to the ball-carrier," said Dufresne, a two-year varsity starter for head coach John Power.

"I owe my life to him (Power)," Dufresne said. "He put me on the right track."

"He's a big reason why I love playing football right now."

NOTES: The South won last year's game 21-14 after the North dominated 17-3 in 2010.

Cranford became Union County's third state champion in three years last fall after Union County did not produce a single champion in 2007 and 2008.

Summit captured North 2, Group 2 in 2009 and New Providence North 2, Group 1 in 2010.

Other Union County state champions since 2000 include Elizabeth winning North 2, Group 4 in 2000, Johnson capturing North 2, Group 2 in 2002 and Elizabeth winning North 2, Group 4 and Brearley North 2, Group 1 in 2006.

Summit and Elizabeth also reached state championship games last year, with Summit falling to defending champion Madison 47-7 in the North 2, Group 2 final at Kean, while Elizabeth lost in the final minute to defending champion Piscataway 41-34 in the North 2, Group 4 final at Rutgers.

Bloomfield College standout senior point guard Ahmad Harris of Linden was chosen to perform in the Reese's Division 2 College All-Star Game, which is tomorrow night at the Kentucky Bank Center at Northern Kentucky University.

Linden's Harris is selected for contest

Bloomfield College men's basketball senior guard Ahmad Harris of Linden has been selected to play in the Reese's Division 2 College All-Star Game, in results announced by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) last Thursday.

The contest will be held tomorrow night at the Kentucky Bank Center at Northern Kentucky University, which is the sight of this year's Elite Eight.

Harris joins former Deacons Andre Dabney and Omari Knox as the only players in Bloomfield College history to participate in the event.

Harris was also named named to the NABC All-East District First Team, in results released by the organization last week.

One of the top floor generals in the nation, Harris started all 28 games for the Deacons and led the CACC in assists, ranked seventh nationally at 7.0 per game (197 total in the regular season). The 197 regular season assists also eclipsed the CACC single-season assist mark of 195, which was established by Holy Family's Chris Kozole in 2004-05.

The 5-9 backcourt standout also led the league in steals with 64 and assist-to-turnover ratio at 2.95, which was sixth-best nationally. In addition, Harris tallied a 10.4 scoring average while helping to guide Bloomfield to a 21-7 overall record and 15-3 CACC mark which included the North Division regular season title.

Bloomfield College also went on to win its fifth CACC Tournament crown in 10 seasons.

The CACC Co-Player of the Year, Harris has also earned a first team Daktronics All-East Region selection so far this season.

Linden coach Migliore will face former mentor

In 4th RP Dad's Club Baseball event

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

When Pat Migliore pitched at Elizabeth over 20 years ago one of his coaches was Dan Mondelli.

When Migliore was an assistant coach at Linden, Mondelli was the head coach.

Mondelli left Linden to take over at Holmdel in 2009, with Migliore moving up as head coach.

Three years later the two will coach against each other for the first time.

Linden will face Holmdel in the second of four games scheduled for the Saturday of the 4th annual Roselle Park Dad's Club Baseball Invitational Weekend, which is April 13-15.

"Playing Holmdel will be fun," said Migliore, a 1991 Elizabeth graduate who tossed one-hitters in the 1990 and 1991 Union County Tournament championship games, losing to Rahway 2-0 in 1990 and beating Westfield 10-1 in 1991. "Dan was my coach and then I got to coach with him and then I took over for him."

ROSELLE PARK DAD'S CLUB BASEBALL INVITATIONAL

2012 – 4TH ANNUAL WEEKEND

FRIDAY, APRIL 13

Oratory vs. Dunellen, 4 p.m.

Johnson vs. Columbia, 7 p.m.

SATURDAY, APRIL 14

Weehawken vs. Union Catholic, 10 a.m.

Linden vs. Holmdel, 1 p.m.

Cranford vs. Hillsborough, 4 p.m.

Roselle Park vs. Brearley, 7 p.m.

SUNDAY, APRIL 15

Dayton vs. Metuchen, 9 a.m.

New Providence vs. Newark Academy, noon

Bridgewater-Raritan vs. Nutley, 3 p.m.

Governor Livingston vs. Mendham, 6 p.m.

Migliore's three-year record at Linden is 30-36, including two winning seasons of 14-9 in 2009 and 12-11 in 2010. This year's squad will seek to bounce back after last year's team finished 4-16.

"I know Dan has a really nice club this year," Migliore said.

"We're not going to be great, but also not the caliber of last year. We're markedly better."

Mondelli is 31-41 in his first three seasons at Holmdel. The former GL assistant under Bill Howard and longtime aid to Ray Korn at Elizabeth is ready to face Linden for the first time since he left the Tigers for the Shore Conference.

"I worked with Patrick and the first couple of years I didn't want to play Linden because I coached many of the varsity kids," Mondelli said. "Now that time has gone by there's kids at Linden that don't even know that I was the coach there."

"I know the kids and like them and Pat has good kids. The time felt right now to play Linden."

Linden is 1-0 in the event, coming back to beat Union Catholic 3-2 last year at Union Catholic. The game was moved to UC's field turf field because of rain the day before.

Holmdel's Sunday game against Hoboken in last year's event was rained out. Mondelli said that the teams tried to play again on May 15 and the game was rained out again.

Holmdel has an 0-2 Roselle Park Dad's Club record, falling to Colonia 9-8 in 2009 and to Johnson 6-4 in 2010.

This year's event has newcomers such as Weehawken, Columbia, Nutley, Mendham and Brearley.

Roselle Park was supposed to play Brearley on the Saturday night last year, with Roselle Park alumni to be honored before the game. However, the game was rained out, with the alumni recognized at Frenchy's Restaurant.

Roselle Park and Brearley were unable to make up the game last year. They hope to play on the Saturday night of this season's event.

"We're fortunate to have a full card again," Roselle Park head coach Nick Agoglia said.

The three-day schedule includes last year's defending Union County Conference champions all playing on April 14. Watchung Division winner Cranford is playing Hillsborough at 4 p.m., Mountain Division champion Union Catholic is facing Weehawken at 10 a.m. and Valley Division winner Roselle Park will clash with longtime rival Brearley at 7 p.m.

Agoglia tried to get Millburn for the first time, but the weekend was not feasible for the Millers. However, Agoglia said that Millburn second-year head coach Brian Chapman was able to assist getting Nutley, coached by Bob Harbison.

Scotch Plains participated the first three years, going 1-1 vs. Bridgewater-Raritan and losing to Bloomfield. The Raiders couldn't make it work with their schedule and decided not to play.

"We should have a lot of competitive games once again," Agoglia said. "We hope that the weather cooperates."

After the 2009 event was rain free, inclement weather has hampered the event a bit the last two years, especially last year when cold and rainy weather made the conditions less than spectacular for the players and fans watching them.

Linden and Holmdel both have some key standout players back and look forward to a challenging game that weekend.

"We scrimmaged Holmdel at Holmdel two years ago and I think it ended in a 2-2 tie," Migliore said. "He (Mondelli) has a lot of guys back and I have a lot of guys back. It depends on who gets the breaks that day."

Linden's pitching staff is led by one of the top junior right handers in Union County in three-year varsity performer TJ Santiago. He was to get the ball in Linden's first scrimmage, which was last Saturday at home against Hunterdon Central.

"TJ has really refined his breaking ball and change-up, they're both a lot sharper than they were last year," Migliore said.

Santiago went the distance in beating Union Catholic in last year's event and finished 3-2 with an earned-run average around 1.00. Santiago was 3-0 his freshman year, with a 2.00 ERA.

"TJ's also put a couple of more miles on his fastball and his control remains impeccable," Migliore said. "His control has always been there and always will be there."

Migliore also reported that Santiago played for a team out of Staten Island last summer, in addition to Senior Legion.

"He played 80 games last summer. He played every day," Migliore said.

Linden has 10 players back from last year's squad, including four of five pitchers.

The other returning starting pitcher back is junior righty Eddie Mack, who beat Union last year and then got hurt (bicep injury). Relief pitchers back include senior right hander Abraham Frech and junior righty Bobby Dillon.

Marcano's switch to track has paid off handsomely

To continue running at St. Peter's College

Roselle Catholic's Mike Marcano traded his basketball shoes for sprinting sneakers and the rest is history.

Marcano played basketball in grammar school, but after suiting up for Roselle Catholic's freshman hoops team three years ago he turned his undivided attention from the court to the track.

The decision paid off in a big way.

Owner of a half-dozen school records in the sprints and relays and a key cog in the Lions' run to a state championship last winter, Marcano will continue his track and academic career at St. Peter's College in Jersey City.

The Roselle Catholic senior, a Roselle resident, recently inked a National Letter of Intent in the school's library.

"I always thought that I would be playing basketball in high school until my eighth grade coach told me that he thought I could be a good tracker runner in high school," said Marcano, who graduated from St. Joseph the Carpenter in Roselle.

Marcano's top events are the 55 meters, 100 meters and 200 meters sprints. A short sprint specialist, Marcano also competes in the 400 meters run and is proficient in the long jump.

"My best and favorite event is the 100 dash," Marcano said. "It's the ideal race for me. I hope to run the 100, 200 and 55 in college and possibly long jump as well."

"Mike obviously has a good amount of natural talent, but he works very hard at the sport and puts in a lot of time both on and off the track," said Roselle Catholic co-head coach Paul Irwin.

"Mike's explosiveness and shorter stature combine to give him a start that is far superior to most of his competition," said Roselle Catholic co-head coach Carmine DeNicola.

The highlight of Marcano's track career, so far, is the Parochial B state championship he helped the Lions secure in 2011 at the Bennett Center in Toms River.

Marcano won the 400 (52.3), the 55 dash (6.72) and split 53.0 as the anchor on the winning relay that ran a school record 3:37.63.

Marcano and his teammates, including Tyler Boscia and Christian Brown, gave RC its first state championship on the track since 1969.

"Being a part of RC's track program has been a great experience," said Marcano, who won the 55 dash again this year and placed eighth at the Meet of Champions. "The track program has definitely taught me a lot about hard work and humility."

"The fact that we're somewhat of a small school makes us all work extremely hard in order to be able to compete against the larger schools."

As he gets ready for his senior spring season, Marcano's coaches are confident he'll continue to compete well at the next level and picked a college where he'll have a great chance to succeed in and out of the classroom.

"St. Peter's is a very good fit for Mike athletically, but most importantly academically," DeNicola said. "Mike has a bright future at St. Peter's."

"St. Peter's is a school where I think Mike will be able to get very personalized coaching and attention and is member of a conference (MAAC) where he should be able to compete at a very high level right away," Irwin said.

Coaches DeNicola and Irwin and their staff, which currently includes Tom Hannen, Joe Cistaro and Mike Kennedy, have helped quite a few Lions run track at the collegiate level, including: Catie Cohen (NJIT), Adam Drastura (St. Joe's) and Ines Simoes (LaSalle). RC graduates Vladimir Manasse, Josh Stinson, Nick DeRosa and Sheana Foster are all members of the track team at Rutgers-Newark.

Marcano is undecided about his major, but is excited about his decision to join Peacock Nation.

"St. Peter's has a great combination of academics, athletics and atmosphere," Marcano said. "I liked the size of the classes, which I think can lead to a positive teacher-student relationship."

"I noticed the track program had great team chemistry and stressed how important being a team is."

"I hope to be able to take the next step as a student and an athlete at St. Peter's."

Big games at RP in the middle of April

Abraham and Bobby will be used primarily as relief guys," Migliore said. "Both can throw one time through the order and confuse people."

"If they get the job done, we won't have to stretch our starting pitchers."

The starting rotation includes Santiago, Mack and sophomore right hander Jacob Taveras, who was last year's No. 1 junior varsity hurler.

"Jacob won most of our JV games last year, he had five of the team's seven wins," Migliore said. "Now he's going to have to step up as a sophomore and give us something on the varsity level."

Linden is taking advantage of opening early, with a noon game scheduled at Hoboken on March 31.

"We originally had a scrimmage scheduled that day with Hoboken," Migliore said. "As soon as we found out we could play on the 31st, I called the Hoboken coach and we agreed to play our first game that day."

Linden has played Hoboken in the recent past, although the teams did not face each other last season.

"Playing Hoboken on March 31st opens up a date for us to play somewhere else," Migliore said. "We picked up Metuchen because they have a turf field. We're going to play them on May 9."

Hoboken reached the North 2, Group 1 final last year, falling at Roselle Park 5-4 in the bottom of the seventh.

"Hoboken has three very good pitchers, two of them left handed," Migliore said. "We'll run Santiago out there and they will run one of their lefties. If both kids are on the game could be something like an hour and a half."

"We need to pitch and defend in order to win."

Migliore initially planned to honor former Linden player Sean Bury, who passed away last April during his first year on the varsity.

"We wanted to put something together this year in his memory, but I couldn't get it together the way that I wanted to," Migliore said. "Rather than do something sloppy, which would be a disservice to the kid, we decided not to do anything at all."

"What we have in mind for next year is a Saturday at Memorial Field where we have three baseball games. I already have commitments from Union Catholic and Holmdel."

Linden, like most teams, has also taken advantage of — perhaps — the warmest and driest end to winter and beginning of spring in some time.

"Last year was a nightmare with our practice facilities," Migliore said. "They were doing construction on our field and we were behind the 8-ball immediately. We got on the field two times before Opening Day."

"So far this year we've been on the field eight times (as of Friday). That's huge. Because of that we should be a little better off than last year."

As a result, Linden will seek to move up in the Watchung Division standings.

"Between high school season, legion and fall ball, our kids have played 75 games together," Migliore said. "They know each other in and out and are a close-knit group."

Holmdel is coming off an 11-13 season after the Hornets went 6-16 in 2009 and 14-12 in 2010 under Mondelli, who is a 1982 Governor Livingston graduate.

"The last two years we had an aggressive schedule," Mondelli said. "We should be better this year. Two years ago we were a little ahead of schedule because of a transfer player we had from Middletown who was All-Shore Conference. He put us over the top."

"Last year we were where I thought we should be."

Mondelli said that he has six returning starters, including DH, and he also returns all of his pitching, which is comprised of four seniors — two righties and two lefties.

Those arms include right handers Cole Whatley and Jon Cardaci and left handers Dylan Baxter and Eric Scanardella.

Whatley was 6-3 last year and will continue on the Division 1 level at Northern Kentucky. He also plays first base and outfield and is Mondelli's No. 5 hitter.

Baxter is a four-year starter and has not made his college decision yet. Scanardella is a four-year pitcher, who will continue on the Division 3 level at Catholic University. He also plays center field and first base and the switch-hitter bats third.

Mondelli was an assistant coach at GL in 1985 and 1986 and at Elizabeth from 1987-2001. He was the head coach at Linden from 2002-2008, leading the 2003 squad to the UCT championship game.

Migliore was an assistant coach at Linden all seven years Mondelli was the head coach.

NOTES: Union County teams that won state championships the past two years that are back in another Roselle Park Dad's Club weekend are 2010 Group 3 champion Cranford and 2011 Group 2 champ GL.

The Linden wrestling team enjoyed one of its finest seasons ever, producing a 17-5 record and capturing the District 11 championship at Westfield for the first time. Front row, from left, are captain Keith Simpson, Diego Ataca, Justin Rodriguez, Josh Sheehy, Nick Tekula, Gabe Magalhaes, Steven Dorcelly and Qudir White. Back row, from left, are head coach Anthony Reinoso, captain Bobby Clark, Sha-Quan Champagne, Chris Gonzalez, Terrence Tiller, captain Sumir Burns, Travis Foster, Ismail Abdul-Wahid and assistant coach Alvaro Fernandez.

Linden wrestling team enjoys a strong season

The Linden wrestling team has come a long way under fourth-year head coach Anthony Reinoso.

Accomplishing goals such as winning District 11 for the first time and having grapplers qualify for the NJSIAA Tournament in Atlantic City were just some of this season's highlights.

Linden finished 17-5 and outscored defending co-champion Brearley to capture the District 11 championship at Westfield.

Heavyweight Sumir Burns, in his first year wrestling, qualified for the states by placing third in Region 3 at Union.

The senior then went on to earn a medal at Boardwalk Hall after placing sixth in the state. He was 38-3, with 23 pins.

Senior Travis Foster led Linden in pins with 25 and was 34-9 at 160. He finished a solid career with a record of 109-38, becoming only the second Linden wrestler to win 100 matches.

The information presented in columns 1 through 3 as well as the related descriptions of the per pupil cost calculations are contained in the 2012 Taxpayers' Guide to Education Spending (formerly Comparative Spending Guide) and can be found on the Department of Education's Internet address: http://www.state.nj.us/education/under_finance, when available. This publication is available in the board office and public libraries. The same calculations were performed using the 2011-12 revised appropriations and 2012-13 budgeted appropriations presented in this advertised budget. Total Budgetary Comparative Per Pupil Cost is defined as current expense exclusive of tuition expenditures, transportation, residential costs, and judgments against the school district. For all years, it also includes the restricted entitlement aids. With the exception of Total Equipment Cost, each of the other per pupil cost calculations presented is a component of the total Budgetary comparative per pupil cost, although all components are not shown. 2009-10 actual, 2010-11 actual, 2011-12 original, 2011-12 revised, and 2012-13 amounts include a total of $ 324, $298, $315, $316, and $ 313 per pupil, respectively, in federal and state funds in the blended resource school-based budgets.
