Mountainside residents against development

By Elana Knopp
Staff Writer

The vast parcel of land at 1490 and 1496 Route 22 in Mountainside has quite the storied past. On the property sits the former residence of Genovese crime family member Angelo "Gyp" DeCarlo, who ran the family's loansharking operations during the '60s. The huge house sits, crumbling and deteriorating, on land that has long been neglected by its current owners.

Now all five acres of this notorious piece of property are slated for redevelopment by the borough after being rezoned in 2014, a move that, according to residents, was completely unknown to them.

The land's developer, The Pond at Mountainside, LLC, plans to raze the house, clear the land, and drain the large pond that serves to mitigate storm waters in the area during flooding events.

Residents are deeply concerned about issues of water drainage, traffic congestion, parking and safety.

According to Nick Barbera, who owns a house adjacent to the proposed development, a meeting of the Planning Board brought in a frustrated crowd of residents.

The pond that is on the property to be developed. Plans include draining the pond, which would affect wildlife, and could pose a problem for water drainage.

"It was standing-room only," said Barbera of the March 23 meeting.

Approximately 100 residents showed up to protest the proposed redevelopment of Block 3-A, Lots 17 and 18, which is situated directly on Route 22. The property is set to accommodate 23 market-priced units and six affordable housing units, all age-restricted. Each of the units will be 2,500 square-foot, three-story townhomes, with the market-priced units getting two-car garages and the affordable housing units, one garage.

The land was rezoned in 2014, at which time the borough's governing body adopted the requisite amendments to the existing Zoning Ordinance. The board's amendment, set forth in a written report by professional Planning Board Consultant John T. Chadwick IV, included the affordable housing component.

A Fairness Hearing was held in February of 2014 and, according to council documents, "nobody lodged any objection to the plan."

But according to Barbera, no one knew anything at all about the rezoning or the development until a letter was sent by the board in early March.

"We only knew about this because the borough was required by law to send us a certified letter," said Barbera. "Before the residents got the letter, no one had any idea about the housing," he said of the proposed development.

Panarese cites payroll, administration in email

By Elana Knopp

Hillside Mayor Angela Garretson's abrupt demotion two weeks ago of former Chief of Police Louis Panarese has unleashed a firestorm of criticism.

The notification of the demotion of Panarese from chief of police to captain — just one of many controversial moves by Garretson — came three hours before that decision went into effect, according to an attorney for Panarese, Vito Gagliardi, Jr.

Panarese, 57, is a 32-year veteran of the police department and served as captain for six years before being appointed as chief of police.

Many in the department believe the demotion came as a result of an email sent by Panarese to other officers in the department. The letter was intended to boost morale within the department, according to Officer Matt Casterline, Union President for the Patrolmen's Association. Casterline says that the department has been dealing with scores of serious issues under Garretson's administration. Casterline cites failure on the township's part to make pension payments on-time and in-full, as well as deducted funds from subsidiary employee retirement accounts by the township that have never been deposited.

"For over six months we were led to believe that our investments were being managed properly," said Casterline. "So not only did the town deduct our money, it sat in an account somewhere where the town benefitted off the interest. And when they were deposited, the amount was insufficient."

In addition, Casterline says that employees are working without contracts.

"Not one department within the township is working under a contract right now," said Casterline. "We have started negotiations over and over for the last few years and to no avail. Most recently we made agreements with the township attorney and we were ready to sign a contract. Then the mayor told me she was unaware of any of the agreements, causing us to start over."

According to Township Business Administrator Stephanie Bush-Baskette, all of the unions are in contract negotiations — all except the Patrolmen's Association. "We sat down individually with each union representative," said Bush-Baskette. "The only ones that didn't show up was the Patrolmen's Association. They said they couldn't show up."

But that's not quite how things played out, according to Casterline. "Our union labor representative was unable to make it that day, so we asked to reschedule the meeting," said Casterline. "Garretson refused to reschedule and said they were proceeding without us."

Saving Earth today for a better Earth tomorrow

By Jennifer Rubino
Staff Writer

Fifth-grade gifted and talented students from Rahway, Roselle, Kenilworth and Berkeley Heights participated in an environmental convocation called, "Kids Saving Earth Today for a Better Earth Tomorrow," on Wednesday, March 23. The goal of the event was to promote environmental awareness in the surrounding community by setting positive examples and providing fun activities that demonstrate environmentally friendly actions. The students gained a deeper understanding of environmental issues affecting the community. The students also had a chance to make new friends from other towns; It was a networking experience for both the instructors and students.

The main activity was a mock trial that involved the Lorax, the main character in Dr. Seuss's book about the dangers corporate greed poses to the environment. Dr. Seuss uses personification to give life to the environment, as the Lorax, and industry, as the Once-ler. After watching the video, students participated in a mock trial to determine the verdict of the Once-ler. They debated as to whether the Once-ler was guilty of ignoring the common good and polluting the environment.

Amir Robinson, of Rahway, was assigned the role of the Lorax. "It was a lot of fun and a great experience," Amir said. "The Once-ler shouldn't have been polluting the land and chopping down all the trees. Everything was polluted and dying. The Lorax won the trial because everyone was on his side."

Amir was anxiously anticipating the other activities for the day. "My teacher is so nice and plans great activities for us. We take a lot of trips. We get to learn and have fun at the same time."

Students also discussed how to fix the mess the Once-ler made in the land of the truffula trees. They thought about possible laws that could be passed or agencies that could be responsible for overseeing the environment. Students were assigned roles in the hearing and worked cooperatively to prepare a statement of the problem from the character's perspective. One of the student groups took the role of the Environmental Protection Agency, and prepared questions for each group of students to answer. Each group selected one leader to conduct the hearing. Follow-up activities included having students find articles in newspapers, magazines and the internet about preserving and cleaning the environment.

Another activity called, "Clean It Up," told the story of a fictional town called So What, where a few careless townspeople contribute to the problem of polluting Lake Benjamin. Students were provided with two pans, a coffee filter, paper towels, a strainer, cotton balls and plastic cups. They had to figure out how to clean the lake using the materials provided.

"After completing this activity, I want to make sure all the water I drink is purified,' said Madeline Christopher, of Rahway.

The importance of recycling was emphasized to students as they participated in an activity called "Invention Convention." It asked them to give new life to an old product that had already served its original purpose. They divided into groups of three to market their new product to the class."

"My favorite activity of the day was the 'Invention Convention,' because it required creativity," said Madeline. "It showed the importance of recycling, and it was cool to make things that can be used for new purposes."

In an activity called "Unplug Me," students learned about energy vampires, or appliances that use electricity even when they aren't in use. Students were taught about surge protectors that can easily be turned off to cut the flow of energy. They were asked to make a list of all the appliances in the room that are energy vampires. They wrote messages on index cards as reminders to turn off or unplug appliances when they aren't in use. Pictures or symbols were also drawn on the cards as decorations. After the cards were complete, they planned to hang them at school or at home near the energy vampires to remind them to "unplug it."

"These convocations are more than just about learning," said Gifted and Talented Association Co-President Maryellen Moffitt. "It gives students and instructors an opportunity to network. It's so important for children to socialize in today's world of technology"

The convocations require students to solve problems that require higher-order thinking skills. A full day of higher order thinking gives students a chance to really challenge themselves. Students are encouraged to return to their districts to share the knowledge they learned.

"The number of gifted and talented teachers in each district is so small it's crucial for us to come together," said Maryellen. "The convocations are networking opportunities for the brightest students to move beyond the world of technology."

The Gifted and Talented Association consists of all the gifted and talented teachers and coordinators in Union County. They meet periodically to discuss lesson plans, field trips and new research. The convocations, such as the one they had today, have won Best Practice of New Jersey awards from the New Jersey Department of Education. They usually have about 10 convocations per year for grade levels two through eight.

Lisa Lesiak is the president of The Union County Gifted and Talented Association. It was established in 1988 to provide opportunities for teachers and coordinators to participate in professional development and create effective learning experiences for the students. Today there are 13 towns involved with the association. They include Berkeley Heights, Clark, Cranford, Elizabeth, Kenilworth, Linden, Rahway, Roselle, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains/Fanwood, Springfield and Westfield.

Battle Hill Elementary School students and staff members add their handprints in gold paint to the Battle Hill playground as part of a fundraiser for the Team Campbell Foundation, raising $1,200.

Battle Hill students, parents and teachers have also come together to create more than 150 pillowcases and raise more than $400 for caseforsmiles.org, which helps reduce the emotional stress associated with children's hospital stays.

Battle Hill raises funds for Team Campbell

Gold handprints in the shape of a ribbon adorn the playground at the Battle Hill Elementary School on Killian Place in Union. And often, the students come outside to take another look at the special masterpiece they have created.

Alison Brehm, fourth-grade teacher and student council advisor at the school, says that the beautiful hand-printed ribbon represents a meaningful mission to the students, parents and faculty at the school.

"This is something that is very meaningful to us," said Brehm, of the fundraiser for the Team Campbell Foundation, an organization that was formed in 2014 in memory of Campbell Hoyt, who battled Anaplastic Ependymoma, a rare cancer of the brain and spine. She passed away in 2014 at the age of 8.

The foundation assists pediatric cancer patients and their families who are faced with a cancer diagnosis. Some of their efforts include raising awareness, funding research, and providing a variety of services to patients and their families.

"This is a fundraiser that is very close to our hearts," said Brehm. According to Brehm, Campbell Hoyt was niece to Mark Hoyt, principal of Battle Hill School.

Brehm says that each student and staff member got the opportunity to place their handprint on the playground.

"Each student rolled their hand in some gold paint, then placed their handprint on the playground," said Brehm.

Between the students, parents, and staff, the school managed to raise more than $1,200 for the foundation.

According to Brehm, the students enjoyed working together to create the gold ribbon, as well as feeling a strong sense of pride. "The kids love looking at their handprints," she said. "Some of the kids weren't big fans of gold paint on their hands, but they all loved it at the end."

The money raised will help the Team Campbell Foundation to continue its mission to help pediatric cancer patients and their families. The foundation has sent patients and their families on special outings, such as to Great Adventure, and provided box seats at local baseball games, giving the families a much-needed respite from rounds of difficult treatments. In addition, the foundation plans on providing scholarships to the siblings of young patients.

"The Battle Hill PTA offered their time to ensure that each child participated in this memorable experience," said Brehm. "It will be on the Battle Hill playground for years to come. These experiences not only helped members of the community in need, it enriched the lives of the students, parents and teachers by helping others."

Marsili is Union County's teacher of the year

Teachers are often underappreciated, overworked and underpaid, but every once in awhile they get the praise they deserve. Janice Marsili aced her work as lead teacher of fine and performing arts at David Brearley High School in Kenilworth, where she has taught for the past 19 years. She was named Union County's Teacher of the Year for 2015-2016.

Marsili began her teaching career at Bishop George Ahr High School in Edison. Prior to teaching, she worked in a department store in the visual merchandising and store planning department. Although she's been teaching for many years, she's still a student herself.

"I am now in my second year of doctoral studies at Montclair State University, where I will receive my Ph.D. in teacher education/teacher development," said Marsili. "Before that I received my undergraduate degree from Drexel University in Philadelphia and my master's degree from Kean University."

Marsili has combined her passion for teaching and art to become successful in her career. She believes it was for this reason that she received such a prestigious award. In addition to all her dedication and education, she also contributed to the appearance of David Brearley Middle and High School, which are located on the same campus.

"I think that I was chosen as the County Teacher of the Year for the interdisciplinary work I have done throughout my career, but most recently since 2007 when I was awarded the first of eight Artist Residency Grants from the NJ State Council on the Arts," she said. "These grants provide schools with a resident artist for 20 visits to help to carry out some sort of special project. Our grants have combined art with English, history, science and business to create various projects. Since 2010 our projects have revolved around large-scale mosaic installations within the school building and on the school grounds," said Marsili.

Three indoor mosaics were added to the school, in addition to a 14-foot tall mosaic tree in the school courtyard with a diversity theme. A student-designed bench and tabletops dedicated to the students' grandparents were also created. A pond with a 15-foot mosaic with a tolerance theme also spreads a positive message. A mosaiced greenhouse and butterfly garden, where students can learn to hybridize plants and then plant them in the garden, also add to the aesthetics of the school.

"These projects have been partially financed by sales projects carried out by the students," says Marsili. "These students are from the business department, and they learned about running a business in the process."

As the 2015-2016 Union County teacher of the year, Marsili has enjoyed the opportunity to work with other teachers throughout the state. Under the leadership of the State Teacher of the Year, Chelsea Collins, she and other teachers have traveled to schools to deliver School Teacher Professional Development presentations in each of their areas of expertise. Marsili's presentations included topics such as grant writing and cross-curricular projects.

"I also served as a grant reader for the Department of Education and was on the selection committee for the 2017 Teacher of the Year," she added.

After Marsili finishes her doctorate degree, she hopes to use her education and experience to make even more of a difference in her field. She looks forward to working with all the people she's met after being recognized in her profession. Although she will only be named Teacher of the Year for one year, she will always be involved with the group.

"I didn't realize when I was named County Teacher of the Year that this was more than a one year position. Once you're involved with this group, you are always involved," she said. "Teachers have a voice and I hope I can help them be heard."

Concern over development

Repeated calls to the township went unanswered as of press time.

The issue of rezoning to accommodate affordable housing has its roots in two cases decided by the Supreme Court in 1975 and 1983, setting forth what is now known as The Mount Laurel Doctrine. This doctrine states that zoning ordinances that do not provide affordable housing opportunities are unconstitutional, requiring municipalities to zone and take actions in order to provide their "fair share" of affordable housing. The doctrine defines affordable housing as housing that is affordable for low- and moderate-income people.

According to records, "Developers try to identify municipalities that do not provide affordable housing and then bring lawsuits to have the courts set aside their zoning ordinances as being unconstitutional. The developers then try to build projects with 20 to 30 apartments or condos per acre, which is far more than the municipality's zoning ordinance would have permitted. The lawsuits are called Mount Laurel suits, or builder's remedy lawsuits."

The borough received a Judgement of Compliance and Repose from Judge Cassidy on September 10, 2014, which dictates that, "so long as the borough complies with the terms of the judgment, it is immune from Mount Laurel suits until September 10, 2024."

Barbera says that the movement opposing the development is gaining steam. "We have a grassroots movement," said Barbera. "The residents are up in arms that they weren't told about the rezoning back in 2014."

According to Barbera, the borough is claiming that the proposal is in the best interests of the residents. "If it's in our best interests, then why did they hide it?" Barbera said. "They didn't want to deal with it in 2014. Now they're dealing with it in 2016."

A huge concern is the proposed draining of a large pond that sits on the property. According to resident Dottie Unchester, the pond is integral to the flooding issues that often plague the neighborhood.

"They say they'll drain the pond," said Unchester, who has lived on the property immediately behind the proposed development for 35 years. "The storm water drainage goes into the pond. They say they'll drain the pond and backfill it. Where is the water going to go?"

According to Unchester, residents did not get many answers at the packed meeting. "When the engineer was asked where the water would go he wasn't sure," she said.

Unchester says that more and more people are finding out about the controversial development. "We had such a huge crowd there," she said. "That's unusual for Mountainside. People are concerned that they are setting a precedent," Unchester said of the council.

According to Unchester, there would be just 25 feet between her property and the townhouses. "It's a little speck of green left, and there are few of them," remarked Unchester. "There is an ecosystem that is being destroyed. They'll be cutting down trees. There are foxes back there, frogs, cranes, deer — lots of wildlife. There were fish in that pond."

Unchester says that she does not object to the six affordable housing units but to the others. "I understand the obligation for the affordable housing units," she said. "But why not just build those six units and not build the other 24? It's very sad and very disheartening that all this is being done for profit. It's a shame."

Unchester also expressed doubt at the ability of the units to sell. "It's hard for me to imagine seniors spending so much money, and right on Route 22," said Unchester, who says that the houses start at about $500,000. "Who knows if they will sell? I just don't understand why our planning board would do this. We had faith in our town that they were not going to let this happen."

Cranford teens show creativity at arts fest

By Elana Knopp
Staff Writer

There are paper mache sculptures, African tribal masks, watercolors, ink and pencil sketches, jewelry and pottery in the bustling Student Commons at Union County College. Down the hall in a vast gymnasium, a group of dancers dressed in gray and white and wearing dramatic face paint perform a modern dance before a pumped and cheering group of fellow students. In the theater beyond the gym, a choral group has just finished a performance to excited applause.

The energy was palpable at this year's annual Union County Teen Arts Festival on Wednesday, March 23, and Thursday, March 24, at Union County College in Cranford.

The event, which is administered by the Union County Department of Cultural and Heritage Affairs and the Board of Chosen Freeholders, attracts more than 4,000 students from more than 60 high schools and middle schools throughout Union County.

Teen artists across all disciplines come together to showcase their unique talents on what has become a very special and much-anticipated two days.

County Freeholder Bette Jane Kowalski, who helped organize the event, said the event offers students a unique opportunity to showcase their talents and connect with other teen and professional artists throughout the county.

"It's an opportunity for students from all around Union County to present their art to experts who give them feedback so that they can improve their talents," said Kowalski.

Students involved in music, theater, dance, voice, photography, sculpture, painting and more take part in the event.

"It's a rare opportunity for students from different schools to meet each other," said Kowalski. "And it gives them an audience. It's a very positive experience for all involved."

Kowalski said the festival, which was started more than 30 years ago, has kept up with the times.

"The event now includes a drumming circle, salsa dancing and etch-a-sketch," Kowalski said.

Kathy Kakaletris, Teen Arts coordinator, said she has been involved with the festival for 11 years.

"I love it," Kakaletris said. "The kids are so talented. It's amazing how talented these kids are."

Kakaletris, who is poised for retirement next year, said she plans on continuing with the festival.

"I hope to retire next year, but I'm still going to do this," she said.

According to Kakaletris, about 50 volunteers and 55 paid professional staff help run the event. Experts across many artistic disciplines are called in to give feedback and invaluable advice to the budding artists.

"We get a very varied group of talented artists and performers," said Kowalski, speaking of the many experts who give their time and abilities to the event. "They are retired professors and people involved in the arts. They say that they learn as much from the students as the students learn from them."

Kakaletris says preparation for the event starts early.

"We start preparing around September time when the kids go back to school," said Kakaletris. "December is when things really start gearing up."

Lauren McArthur, a senior from Cranford High School, stands next to her artwork, a large infographic in hues of green and beige that focuses on recycling.

"You incorporate the images and important statistics," said McArthur, explaining the artistry of infographics. "It makes it more impactful."

McArthur says recycling is an issue very important to her.

"I'm really into recycling," she said. "I've been using the same reusable water bottle for a year. I feel like I'm saving space in landfills."

According to McArthur, she was inspired to create her graphic from her environmental science class. "I feel like all of the images that I incorporate make it really apparent," she said of her passion for both art and recycling.

Eva Popp, also a senior at Cranford High School, is a photographic artist. Her work, a dramatic black and white image titled, "Distance," portrays a teenage boy beneath a graffitied underpass.

The boy, a friend of Popp's, who posed for the photograph, is looking into the distance, a reflective and introspective look on his face.

"Our project in class was environmental portraits," said Popp. "It wasn't supposed to be just a portrait of someone's face. We had to get the environment that that person was in."

Popp says the setting in which she took the photograph is under a busy highway, which is known to local teens.

"It's a secret hangout place we call 'Dungeons,' " she said. "You can see the sunset from down there. The lighting is very dramatic."

Union County College President Margaret McMenamin says the event is one she and everyone at the college looks forward to every year.

"We welcome them every year and we look forward to it every year," said McMenamin. "The event brings in what we like to call our future students. These are our future artists, the future leaders of our nation. We need fresh young faces."

McMenamin said the festival offers a truly unique experience for everyone involved.

"We need to celebrate artists," said McMenamin. "We can't lose sight of the importance of the arts. We recognize that our world is made up of more than doctors, lawyers and accountants. People travel all over the world to see art. Why shouldn't we encourage it right here in the community?"

Cranford High School senior Mairead O'Gorman, whose watercolor, 'In the Still of the Night,' was on display, said she got interested in painting when she was 10 and plans on pursuing a career in the arts. Her piece, a vibrant depiction of a dragon against a night sky, was inspired by the concentration she is currently studying in her studio art class.

"Our theme was winged creatures," said O'Gorman. "I really love dragons and I really like contrasting bright colors in my pieces. I also really love night skies."

Vicki Jenkins, a dance teacher at Plainfield Academy for the Arts and Advanced Studies, was there with her dance students, who were warming up in the hallway before going in for their performance.

"It's a lot of hard work," said Jenkins. "My favorite part of this is that my students get to see other kids perform."

Recreation and Parks Director Ron Zuber says a lot of hard work and logistical planning goes into the event and it is remarkable to see it all come to fruition.

"I love seeing how it all comes together," said Zuber. "We hear such positive feedback. It's really kept its life, its steam," said Zuber of the event.

Although the event is not a competition, there are artists who are selected by expert adjudicators to move on to the State Arts Festival, which will be on Wednesday, June 1, at Ocean County College.

"It's a spectacular event," said McMenamin. "We are celebrating the youth of Union County. It's a joyful day here at Union County College."

Trailside hosts presentation exploring the space station

By Jennifer Rubino
Staff Writer

It may be dark in outer space, but thanks to NASA Solar System Ambassador Paul Cirillo, patrons at the Trailside Nature and Science Center attended an enlightening presentation describing the experience of living and working in the International Space Station. The presentation took place Saturday, March 26, at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountainside. It was an informative afternoon for guests of all ages.

Cirillo has studied astronomy for 30 years, and as a graduate of Rutgers University and volunteer speaker for NASA, he's very enthused by the subject. He began by explaining how and when the International Space Station was built. Due to the difficulty and danger of building the largest habitable satellite, it took 14 countries including the United States to construct.

Building a space station is no menial task, and each component of the station was sent to space by different countries over the course of about 20 years. The part sent by the United States is called Unity. It was first launched in 1998. In 2002 the space station was docked and solar panels were added. It is now about the size of a football field

"The station weighs about a million pounds and its velocity is about 17,500 mph. It's about the size of a five-bedroom home, and there are six to seven people needed to experiment and maintain the station," according to Cirillo. "The view of Earth is absolutely spectacular. It's built above the Earth, for the Earth." He showed us some photos of what Earth looks like from the station.

New Jersey native Scott Kelly recently returned from the longest voyage of any American astronaut. He spent about 340 days at the space station. Scientists now have the ability to study the long-term effects of being in space, as he returned just this past month.

Kelly is also a unique study because his identical twin brother, Mark, is a retired astronaut. They both underwent extensive medical studies, comparing the brothers after 340 days of one living on Earth and the other in space. This data will help prepare scientists to eventually journey to Mars.

The most crucial item to bring to space is water. Not only is water used for drinking and elimination, it's also used to provide oxygen. Food is consumed in cans and packages. To prevent crumbs from floating through the station, pita bread is commonly consumed.

Astronauts must exercise two hours per day to ensure their bones and muscles will not deteriorate due to the lack of gravity. A piece of equipment used for exercising in space is named for celebrity Stephen Colbert, another space enthusiast. The astronauts were shown strapped to the machines as they completed their exercise routine for the day. They were also shown nestled in a cocoon type of apparatus to sleep at night.

The most interesting experiences shown at the space station were having a haircut and using the bathroom. To get a haircut, a vacuum is he held to the head to remove the hair after being cut. Handle bars and leg straps are used to go to the bathroom, and the water is recycled and used as drinking water, since it is a precious commodity in space.

Lastly, Cirillo concluded his presentation by providing websites on which the user can enter his or her location to determine the visibility of the space station. It can be seen almost every morning or night as long as it's not too cloudy. It also depends on the angle of the satellite.

"It has to be at a certain angle for it to be seen," he said. "The website will provide all the information needed. It's definitely visible though. It will appear in the sky as a white light, moving at a slow and steady pace. Unlike an airplane, there won't be any blinking lights."

Union County Cooperative Extension receives awards

By Jennifer Rubino
Staff Writer

The Rutgers Department of Family and Community Health Sciences was bestowed with a prestigious Culture of Health award from YMCA Alliance in partnership with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation during the Culture of Health conference in December.

Karen Ensle was also among the faculty members recently honored by a "Team Award Best of the Best" recognition by the Rutgers Cooperative Extension, a statewide program that has branches in each county. She is also the co-author of "Small Steps to Health and Wealth." It includes information about healthy diets and how to cook nutritious foods on a budget.

In addition to co-authoring a book, Ensle has written numerous articles on the subject of health such as, "Preparing Meals — Is The Time Worth It?," "Is it Healthier to Cook at Home?," and "Dine In to Save Money Today and Tomorrow." In the first article, she refers to the "Barilla Study" that found that families that ate together were less likely to be overweight than those that did not eat together as a family. In the second article, she examines the difference of eating in versus eating at a restaurant or grabbing take-out. The article explains that by eating at home, it's easier to cut calories and control portions than when ordering food at a restaurant.

Ensle's other article discusses the cost of eating healthy. This is a challenge for most people because the healthier foods almost always seem to cost more money. She notes that according to the Department of Agriculture, about one third of the money in the U.S. is spent toward food services. Ensle explains not only how much money can be saved by eating at home, but how much money can be made that way, too.

"A key take-away is that the money people save by eating more meals at home is just the beginning of their potential savings. For additional financial impact, this money could be invested and allowed to grow over time. Through the magic of compound interest, small dollar amounts can grow handsomely," said Ensle.

Health and agriculture are the two subjects on which Rutgers Department of Family Health Sciences program aims to educate and enrich the youth throughout Union County. They aim to get students and teachers to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables. They also have handicapped-accessible gardens for teaching tools.

The Rutgers Family and Community Health Sciences faculty were awarded for their initiative in schools throughout Union County. The Union County location in Westfield is run by Ensle, who was honored with the recent recognition. The Rutgers Department of Family and Community Health Sciences recognized March as National Nutrition Month and urged students to pay attention to the warning of fad diets. In November, thanks to 35 members of Union County's 4-H Clubs and the Tree Stewards, trees were planted in Cedar Brook Park in Plainfield. The Union County Tree Stewards were recently awarded with an environmental award at the Wild Earth Fest in Mountainside.

The Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County belongs to a national network of more than 3,100 county offices and research institutions, including Rutgers University, organized under the U.S. Department of Agriculture to foster youth development and community health. It was established more than 100 years ago to help improve rural communities. Today, it embraces both urban and suburban life and has expanded its influence to families throughout Union County.

Union County supports executive action

By Jennifer Rubino
Staff Writer

On Thursday, March 10, Union County joined several other local advocates and officials to sign onto the amicus briefs filed in U.S. v. Texas, the Supreme Court case that will determine the fate of President Obama's executive actions on immigration. The decision to unfreeze programs such as Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals and Deferred Action for Parents will affect the lives of millions of undocumented immigrants and American families. Nearly 200,000 immigrants in New Jersey will be eligible for the programs should the Supreme Court pass uphold the executive action.

"I believe these programs will greatly help the economy and prevent families from being separated," said Sara Cullinane of Make the Road New Jersey, an organization that works to protect the rights of immigrants. "If the executive actions are passed, five million undocumented workers will have work authorization. I believe the only reason the action is on hold right now is because of racism and anti-immigration."

Although the programs are unavailable right now, people need to start preparing documents and saving money to apply. According to the Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy, 11 million undocumented immigrants living in the United States paid 11.64 billion dollars in state and local taxes. A study found that tax contributions would increase significantly under Obama's executive actions and even more under comprehensive immigration reform granting all undocumented immigrants lawful permanent residence.

"DAPA will help us come out of the shadows and gain respect and dignity for our families," said Maria Pereira of Hillside, and member of Make the Road New Jersey, in a recent press release. "DAPA means no more separation of families. It will end the nightmare of deportation for so many of our families, giving us the chance to live in peace. Today we say yes to DAPA, yes to our families."

The programs were first introduced by President Obama in November of 2014. Just one month later, Texas and several other states filed a lawsuit against Obama's action. It was determined by Judge Hanen in Texas to freeze the programs. In March of 2015, the amicus brief was filed to support immigration action. There will be a debate on April 18, about unfreezing these programs, and a final decision is anticipated to be made in June.

"It is well past time to fix our immigration system, and as the grandson of immigrants from Eastern Europe, I am proud to support President Obama's Executive Action on Immigration," said Union County Freeholder Chairman Bruce Bergen in a recent press release. "What better way to celebrate our American success story, than by paving the way for others to renew our country and live out their American dreams? We are a nation of immigrants, and this is what has made our country great. We must continue to honor this legacy."

Other county officials agree that our country would benefit from these programs. They agree it's time to address the issue of immigration and to implement a plan of action. Other cities in the democratic state of New Jersey that have signed onto the bill include Haledon, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Plainfield, Princeton, Roselle, Union City, and Trenton.

"As the youngest Democratic Freeholder in the State of New Jersey, as an elected official representing a county that I consider to be a 'melting pot' of different ethnicities and as a son of two hard-working immigrants who came to this country for a brighter future as so many other immigrants also do, President Obama's Executive Action on Immigration is a personal issue for me that I very strongly support," said Union County Freeholder Vice Chairman Sergio Granados in a recent press release. "Today's immigrants are tomorrow's entrepreneurs, scientists and professionals, and are major contributors to our economy and society. It's well past time to fix the system, and it is a simple matter of humanity."

The president's executive actions will allow approximately 5 million undocumented immigrants to gain work authorization and contribute to the economy while providing for their families. Many people, including local officials and immigrant leaders, will fight to put Obama's plan into action this year. Whatever the outcome, a decision must be made and hopefully it will be one that benefits the majority of Americans.

Liberty Hall Museum's annual Easter egg hunt

By Elana Knopp
Staff Writer

It was a picture-perfect day for an Easter egg hunt.

Liberty Hall Museum's annual Easter egg hunt was held on its 23-acre campus, located on the grounds of Kean University, on Saturday, March 26.

Bill Schroh. Jr., director of museum operations, said the popular event is sold out every year.

"We've been doing the hunt for six or seven years, and each year it's sold out," said Schroh. "People start making reservations in January."

The event is limited to 400 kids, and the day is split into four sessions throughout the day.

"There are a hundred children per session," said Schroh. "People like the smallness of it."

According to Schroh, candy-filled plastic eggs are hidden by volunteers — mostly Kean University students — throughout the grounds. "We spend a month filling 4,000 eggs," Schroh said. "We're really into recycling. We ask people to put used eggs into our big basket so we can reuse them for next year."

Once the hunt begins, the excited egg-hunters and their parents take off down a wide gravel stone path that leads to a wide expanse of emerald lawns dotted with dogwood and cherry-blossom trees, flowers and other plantings. The colorful eggs are scattered across the lawn, beneath trees, and hidden under bushes and inside flowerbeds. The kids scramble to collect their eggs, then head off down another path to greet the Easter Bunny.

Kean University student Michelle Fitzula, of Linden, said she's been coming back to volunteer at the event for three years. "I love it," said Fitzula. "It's a good way to spend a Saturday. I love seeing the kids all dressed up."

Lacey Bongard, coordinator of museum programs, said she has enjoyed running the program for the last five years.

"I love seeing all the kids dressed up and with their Easter baskets," she said.

The Easter Bunny is the main attraction, and the kids wait anxiously for him to make his grand entrance. Bongard muses that while some of the kids get excited when the Easter Bunny arrives, others may react differently.

"Lots of the kids have really amusing reactions to the Easter Bunny," said Bongard. "Some kids — usually the younger ones — have cried when the Easter Bunny has shown up.".

Jeanne Gregory, a Union resident, said she's been bringing her kids to the hunt for four years.

"It's really pretty here," said Gregory of the lush grounds. "There's always some fun games and it's a great photo opportunity. My kids think that this is where the Easter Bunny lives. Every time we come here, my kids say it's the Easter Bunny's house."

Oneida Lebron was there with her two granddaughters, Christina and Miranda.

"We like the Easter egg hunt," said Christina, 7. "You can find a bunch of things inside the eggs like chocolate, stickers and stamps."

Liberty Hall Museum has an illustrious past which dates back to the Colonial era. The 50-room Georgian-style house in which the museum is housed was built in 1772 by William Livingston, a prominent lawyer who, in 1776, became the first elected governor of New Jersey. Livingston, who was a signer of the United States Constitution, would serve as governor for 14 years.

In 1811, the estate was purchased by Peter Kean, in trust for his mother, Susan Livingston Kean Niemcewicz, Gov. Livingston's niece, and the Kean family lived there until 1995. The estate, which is now a National Historic Landmark, was turned into a museum in 2000.

RAHWAY NEWS

Rahway High School French students are cooking

Since January Rahway High School French students have been devoting their afternoons and evenings to work under the tutelage of the owners and staff of Rahway's Rail House to learn how to run a gourmet restaurant, from preparing, cooking, and serving food to making sure all their guests are enjoying flawless service.

On Monday, April 25, in the culmination of Rahway Restaurant Week, owners Larry and Bobbie Fishman will allow their restaurant to be turned into a Parisian bistro by the high school's French students, who will offer a five course prix-fixe French dinner, complete with a strolling violinist and requisite cabaret 'chanteuse'! The entire event will be hosted and run by the students, who hope to raise $10,000 for donation to the St. Jude Children's Hospital Cancer Research Center.

"It actually started out as just a seed of an idea," said Rob Kinch, Rahway High School French teacher and advisor to the French Club. "Our club has been preparing and serving small French finger foods at various school events throughout the years, and now the students wanted to try something a little more daring. The idea of running a restaurant came up and, though it seemed a bit of a stretch, we all decided it was worth a try."

Kinch and High School History teacher Joseph Mudrak brought the idea to Rahway's Creative Arts Committee, whose members include representatives from the Mayor's office and Board of Education. The idea was embraced by the committee and the Fishmans offered their townhouse, help and the help of their head chef, Manny Salas, to train each student.

Through the support of United Foods Corp., all the food for the event will be provided to the students free of charge, thus helping them more readily to realize their financial target. The Federal Express Corp also showed its support through a substantial grant to the Rahway High School French Club to subsidize future learning programs and activities.

According to student Asa Coleman,the experience afforded her "an opportunity that I never would have had the initiative to pursue on my own." Oliver Pierre said he is grateful for the chance "to see how the real world works while still being a high school student." Gelsey Pierre is fascinated to have discovered "all that goes on behind the food and the tables."

"I feel a sense of pride when patrons come back and say they like something I made," said Alisha Griffn. Xavier Lighten, adding, "I'm happy to give up my Friday nights if it can help someone who really needs it." Brandon Krutzler said, "I never knew that my town cared that much about my future," and Sean Akande said, "This whole thing has allowed me to see the good in the world."

Reservations for the evening may be made, for 6 or 8 p.m. by contacting the Rail House restaurant directly until April 5. All proceeds will go directly to help the children of St. Jude's.

Hillside email contents

Casterline went on to say that the union representatives that did sit down with the council for negotiations still don't have contracts.

"No progress was made," said Casterline.

The email written by Panarese — which was obtained by Union County LocalSource — addresses both the work environment under the current administration, as well as serious budgetary irregularities.

"The entire Finance Department has resigned or, in the case of the CFO, choose not to renew their contract. Imagine, if you will, a firm whose sole purpose is to make money as Chief Financial Officer for public entities not seeking to renew a contract. These people leaving are a direct result of a hostile work environment created by the administration," Panarese wrote in his October 2015 email to fellow officers.

"The latest incident involving the Deferred Comp Fund is a direct result of this," continued Panarese. "I informed both union presidents a few weeks ago that some type of payroll irregularities would occur. This is no way to run the Township. We have been without contracts for 3 years, yet the administration finds it appropriate to hire what I consider political patronage positions costing the Township hundreds of thousands of tax dollars."

Panarese went on to say that he has lodged formal complaints to the Union County Prosecutor's office, as well as the New Jersey Civil Service Commission. "My office has not sat idle, on any issue, in voicing its displeasure with the incompetence of the current administration."

In the letter, Panarese urged the unions to tackle the issues, and states that he will back the unions with any course of action they decide to take.

"Rest assured, I will not waiver in my quest to adequately staff the department and to make ALL of the promotions that are necessary to continue with the level of service that the citizens of Hillside deserve."

OPINION

Don't let Zika affect donations

EDITORIAL

Blood is in the news again, or actually, the lack of it. The Zika virus has been greatly reducing the number of blood donations throughout the nation, particularly along the border of the United States and Mexico, where the donations have dropped from 20 or 30 percent. United Blood Services is recommending that anyone who has traveled to the Caribbean, Mexico or South America, where the Zika virus is common, should wait 28 days before donating blood. The shortage is being made worse by the fact that it is happening at the height of the cold and flu season. People suffering from those illnesses are also barred from donating blood.

What is the Zika virus? It is a disease spread to people primarily through the bite of infected Aedes species mosquito. First discovered in 1947 and named after the Zika forest in Uganda, it later spread to tropical Africa, Southeast Asia and Pacific Islands, although now it has migrated to the United States. The most common symptoms of the illness are fever, rash, joint pain and conjunctivitis or pinkeye, and many people don't even know they had the Zika virus, although some people have been hospitalized. In addition, there have been instances when Guillain-Barre Syndrome, an uncommon sickness of the nervous system, has become more frequent in those infected with the Zika virus. Between people not donating because they need to wait the recommended time and those who are afraid to donate, blood is becoming less available than normal.

Simply put, blood is life. Blood serves many important functions, including: supplying oxygen to tissues; supplying nutrients, such as glucose, amino acids and fatty acids; removing waste, such as carbon dioxide, urea and lactic acid; immunological functions, including circulation of white blood cells and detection of foreign material by antibodies; coagulation, the response to a broken blood vessel, followed by the conversion of blood from a liquid to a semi-solid gel to stop bleeding; messenger functions, including the transport of hormones and the signaling of tissue damage; regulation of body pH; regulation of core temperature; and hydraulic functions. To say it's necessary would be an understatement.

As blood is an essential ingredient in life, a shortage of this valuable fluid has made blood drives absolutely necessary. Anytime there is an accident or injury and blood is spilled, more blood is needed. Worse yet, blood has very little staying power. Whole human blood has a shelf life of 42 days. To put that in perspective, 43,000 units or pints of blood are used every day in the United States.

The solution is not to give in to fear. As long as you haven't traveled to any of the areas currently classified by the World Health Organization as being an area with active mosquito-borne transmission of the Zika virus — or, if you have, that you have waited for the 28-day period recommended before donating — then donate blood as soon as possible. In the United States, it is estimated that only 111 million citizens are eligible blood donors, or 37 percent of the population. However, less than 10 percent donate annually. In patients prone to iron overload, blood donation prevents the accumulation of toxins. Donating blood may even reduce the risk of heart disease for men. Repeated blood donation is effective in reducing blood pressure; blood glucose; HbA1c, which indicates diabetes; low-density lipoprotein/high-density lipoprotein ratio; and heart rate in patients with metabolic syndrome. Give the gift that keeps on giving and help save a life today.

The Sunshine on the First

LEFT OUT

BY FRANK CAPECE

The Sunshine on Boorish Conduct

It started as a sophomoric prank by a former county corrections officer. It ended with a precedent-setting decision by a state appellate court, as well as national coverage including the Washington Post and publications geared to covering first-amendment cases.

After being thwarted in the Elizabeth Municipal Court and the Superior Court, ex-corrections officer William Burkert prevailed and had his conviction for harassment of another officer overruled by the higher court.

The Appellate Division ruled that flyers Burkert created at the workplace, which contained the wedding photo of a fellow officer and included vulgar handwritten comments in speech bubbles, were protected free speech. The final decision was that while the court found the material, "unprofessional, puerile and inappropriate for the work place" they were speech protected by the First Amendment.

The mini adventure had some twists and turns. The sergeant who was the victim of the flyers had his attorney represent him at the municipal and court hearings. The Union County Prosecutor's office chimed in with a brief by Meredith Balo, special deputy attorney general/acting assistant prosecutor, arguing in favor of the conviction.

The well-known Pennsylvania Center for the First Amendment even submitted a brief supporting Burkert. The aggrieved sergeant in the matter said the bubbles made him so "distraught, embarrassed" that he filed a worker's compensation claim for psychiatric injury and thereafter retired.

After the lower court in 2014 found him guilty of the harassment charges, Burkert's counsel appealed to the three-court Appeals Panel. In a 16-page opinion they gave a textbook analysis of the New Jersey law on harassment. It gets complicated. They boil down the argument that the "creation of the vulgar flyers is not criminally actionable because it amounted to speech protected under the first amendment because the speech was communicated to others and not directed to the sergeant" and therefore the "uncouth annotations, despite its boorish context" is protected under the first amendment.

Enter Gene Deason, well known for his writings on the first amendment. To him it was a pleasant coincidence that the Burkert decision was announced during the national press designation of "Sunshine Week." He boldly proclaims, "It is a time when we are reminded of issues related to open government, transparency, and freedom of information."

Things are changing. One of the ironies of the sunshine theme has been the full frontal attack on the press itself. The Donald Trump and Fox reporter Megyn Kelly feud has been visibly uncomfortable for her fellow reporters. Gov.Chris Christie used both barrels in calling a Star Ledger editor "an angry drunk."

Back to the Burkert decision. His attorney Steven Kaflowtiz said the decision would thwart future offended targets from using the criminal code to seek a redress.

The Union County Prosecutor's office, which actively participated in the appeal, were reported to decline any comment on the losing decision.

Miniature daffodils

THE GARDENER'S APPRENTICE

BY ELISABETH GINSBURG

I have a friend who is fond of saying, "the devil is in the details," and she is right. Ambitious plans have come to a screeching halt because someone forgot the AAA batteries. Failure to tighten a strategically placed button can cause an embarrassing wardrobe malfunction. Most of us could make up our own lists of minor detail omissions that caused major problems.

Miniature daffodils are often relegated to "detail" status in the spring garden. This is a mistake, because while little, they add a lot of emphasis. But if they are indeed details, I think the angels are on their side.

All daffodils are members of the Narcissus genus, which experts and aficionados generally break down into a number of subgroups — usually up to 13 — according to traits of various species and varieties. The American Daffodil Society has long recognized a group of "ADS Miniature Daffodils," but it is a selection of varieties drawn from many of the recognized subgroups. Just about the only thing miniature daffodils have in common is small stature.

So how big is a miniature daffodil? This is also a subject of discussion among Narcissus lovers. The Chicago Botanic Garden, one of the nation's hotbeds of horticultural knowledge, invokes the standards used by the ADS and the best Narcissus retailers, characterizing minis as plants that grow about 6 inches tall, with 1-inch flowers. The real key to miniature status, they say, is that the plant has all the traits of the larger members of its particular class, but is proportionally smaller. A true mini, for example, would not combine 6-inch stature with 3-inch-wide flowers.

Miniature daffodils: jewels of the garden

At this time of the year, minis are the stars of grocery store flower departments and garden-center shelves, ready for their moment in the spotlight as household or table decorations. These potted specimens are generally not identified by a specific varietal name, but resemble miniature versions of classic large-cup daffodils, such as King Alfred or Carlton. Most can be planted outside in the garden after they have flowered.

And outside is where they should be — in large numbers. I love to plant them under deciduous trees, because it is easy to fit the bulbs in soil pockets between tree roots. Minis also work well in containers, naturalized in grass, or adorning the edges of borders and beds. They can be sprinkled throughout rock gardens as well. Wherever you put them, the early types look especially lovely when combined with pansies or grape hyacinths. In addition to beauty, they share another major virtue with normal-size daffodils — varmint resistance. Four-footed garden marauders will bypass minis in favor of tastier treats, such as tulips or hydrangea tips.

One of the best known miniature daffodils is little Minnow, a variety so garden-worthy that it has received the Royal Horticultural Society's Award of Garden Merit. Minnow is a tazetta-type daffodil, with multiple fragrant flowers on each stem. The cup is yellow and the perianth or surrounding petals are ivory or white. The plants top out at about 6 inches.

Years ago I bought a bag of Hawara triandrus Narcissus and was pleasantly surprised by their good looks and toughness. They are a little taller than the standard mini — probably about 8 inches in height, with medium yellow cups and petals. The petals are slightly reflexed or back-turned, giving the flowers a windswept look. Like Minnow, Hawara plants feature more than one flower on each stem. Another, somewhat similar mini is the classic Tete a Tete, which multiplies well over time.

Sun Disk looks just as you would expect — rounded, with a somewhat flattened golden cup, surrounded by lighter yellow petals. It is a fragrant, late-bloomer, one of the jonquilla tribe of daffodils, which are especially beloved — and successful — in the American South. If you grow it up north, install it in a place where it can get a good summer baking.

Minis have the same cultural needs as other daffodils, including well-drained soil and sunshine. Planted under deciduous trees, they can also do nicely, as they flower before the trees leaf out. After the blooms have faded, let the foliage ripen and begin to turn brown before removing it. Because of their small size, minis are somewhat less ugly in decline than larger daffodils. If you are worried about "the uglies," plant the daffodils amid daylilies or hardy geranium, which will cover the dying foliage nicely.

Minis are generally quite inexpensive, so you can easily plant them en masse. Don't even think about planting individual bulbs. Dig holes big enough to install odd-numbered groups of bulbs for a naturalistic effect. I like to put in at least five per planting hole.

If you want to cheat, buy a few pots of miniature daffodils now and plant them in gaps in your garden. No one will be the wiser. Otherwise, order some for fall. If you see something rare, say something!

THE STATE WE'RE IN

BY MICHELE S. BYERS

Have you spotted a bald eagle lately? Seen a bobcat at the edge of the woods? Caught a glimpse of a peregrine falcon, bog turtle, corn snake, blue-spotted salamander or southern gray tree frog?

If you've seen these or dozens of other rare and endangered animals, the New Jersey Division of Fish and Wildlife's Endangered and Nongame Species Program wants to know.

With warmer weather arriving and people spending more time outdoors, the state is asking sharp-eyed "citizen scientists" to help enlarge its database by reporting sightings of endangered and threatened animals.

"It's extremely helpful to have the public's eyes and ears out there," said Gretchen Fowles, biologist with the Endangered and Nongame Species Program. "We have a very small staff, and we can only focus on so many projects at once."

In the last year, citizen scientists reported 465 rare species sightings, supplementing approximately 2,000 staff reports. "Some of those were in geographic areas where we don't conduct our own surveys, or some were species that we're not conducting surveys for," Fowles said.

After being verified by Endangered and Nongame Species Program, data reported by the public is used for mapping habitat and population trends. The mapping, in turn, helps the state develop strategies to boost the survival chances of the Garden State's endangered and threatened animals.

Data from New Jersey is also passed along to Nature Serve, an organization that maintains a rare and endangered species database for the entire Western Hemisphere.

New Jersey is home to about 500 animal species, 83 of which are classified by the state as endangered or threatened.

"Endangered" refers to species whose prospects for survival within the state are in immediate danger due to factors like habitat loss or degradation, disease, predation, competition from other species or environmental pollution. "Threatened" applies to vulnerable species that may become endangered if conditions deteriorate.

Endangered birds include peregrine falcons, northern goshawks, red knots, piping plovers, short-eared owls, black skimmers and breeding populations of bald eagles.

In addition to bobcats, the endangered mammals list includes Indiana bats, Allegheny woodrats and six whale species — blue, fin, humpback, sperm, sei and North Atlantic right whales. The Allegheny woodrats are found only in the rocky Palisades cliffs along the Hudson River, and their population is at risk from a parasite known as raccoon roundworm.

The state's endangered reptiles and amphibians include timber rattlesnakes, corn snakes, bog turtles, Atlantic loggerhead and leatherback turtles, blue-spotted and eastern tiger salamanders, and southern gray tree frogs. Invertebrates on the list include northeastern beach tiger beetles, gray petaltail dragonflies, Aragos skipper butterflies and green floater mussels. Two fish, Atlantic and shortnose sturgeon, are on the endangered list.

How can you help? First, familiarize yourself with rare species.

To see a list of New Jersey's endangered and threatened animals, go to www.njfishandwildlife.com/tandespp.htm. For an online field guide to help identify these species, visit www.conservewildlifenj.org/species/fieldguide.

If you spot a rare animal, go to the Fish and Game website at www.state.nj.us/dep/fgw/ensp/pdf/rptform.pdf and download a report form. You'll be asked to submit the form, a map showing where the sighting occurred and, if possible, photos, video or audio recordings.

The reporting process is a bit cumbersome, requiring forms and maps to be downloaded and then emailed or mailed back to the state.

But if you love animals, this is a fantastic way to help out New Jersey's most vulnerable species. So keep your eyes peeled — and your camera or smartphone ready — when enjoying the outdoors this spring!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

We are each responsible

To the Editor:

We as Americans take for granted the right to vote. Many Americans see it as a chore, still others fear to register to vote because it may cause them to participate in other civic duties such as jury duty. Look — we talk about government in the third person; Did we forget that we are the government and that we are the artists of our governmental tapestry? When did we forget that the bedrock of democracy is the Declaration of Independence, which begins, "We the people?"

The state of our nation is the result of 'we the people,' either passively, by not voting, or aggressively putting the present officials in office. This year when you go to the polls to vote and close that curtain behind you, before you pull that lever or push that button and cast that most precious vote, search your soul and think. Am I voting for a political party, or for a person whose sole purpose is to represent me in all affairs?

We are all well aware of this most exciting and unusual primary year, Democrats and Republicans alike.

We as voters must see through the smoke and mirrors of the candidates and find the true one who will most represent us as a people and lead our nation.

Laughter yoga at April 7

On April 7, from 1 to 1:45 p.m., SAGE Eldercare will host Pradep Nair, laughter consultant at HomeWell Senior Home Care of Morris County, for its monthly programs on "Laughter Yoga." The sessions will take place on the first Thursday of each month.

According to the Mayo Clinic, the health benefits of laughter include short-term and long-term benefits, such as stress relief, immune system improvement, and pain alleviation. Laughter yoga, which has gained recent popularity, is a combination of deep yogic breathing and unconditional laughter that increases the oxygen and energy levels for participants.

Nair has been doing research on happiness for the past 15 years. Based on his research, he conducts activities and programs for older adults on the topics of laughter yoga and therapy, chair-based energization yoga, and brain yoga.

He is the owner of HomeWell Senior Care in Parsippany, which provides home care services in Morris, Somerset, and Union Counties.

To register for "Laughter Yoga," please call 908-598-5548 or email education@sageeldercare.org. The monthly events, which are free and open to the public, will be held at 290 Broad St. in Summit.

Conference will explore China April 7 to 8

From April 7-8, the two-day "China in the World" conference at Kean University will focus on the growth, progress and influence of China, both within its own borders and around the globe through lectures by Chinese scholars and an expert panel discussion. The conference is open to the public and especially designed for teachers of social studies, international relations and the humanities. Register now at http://www.kean.edu/china-world-conference.

On March 21, at 10:45 p.m. police responded to the Dunkin Donuts on N. Wood Avenue, on a report of a theft. A male employee, age 23, said he was alerted by patrons that two individuals had just fled the store on foot with a jar filled with cash for cancer donations. Officers were given a description of the men and located two individuals walking approximately five blocks away with similar clothing, and stopped them. Jeffrey A. Fellows, 29, of Rahway, was found to be in possession of numerous dollar bills and change totaling $34.91, said police. He also was in possession of a Ninja throwing star and a knife. Both men admitted to being at the Dunkin' Donuts. Fellows was charged with receiving stolen property and unlawful possession of a weapon. Springfield business owner sentenced to five years

The owner of a home health agency was sentenced March 22 to 60 months in prison for her role in a $7 million scheme to defraud Medicaid and engage in bribery, money laundering and tax evasion, U.S. Attorney Paul J. Fishman announced.

Irina Krutoyarsky, 62, of Springfield, previously pleaded guilty before U.S. District Judge Katharine S. Hayden to an information charging her with conspiracy to commit health care fraud, bribery, conspiracy to commit money laundering and tax evasion. Judge Hayden imposed the sentence in Newark Federal Court.

According to documents filed in this case and statements made in court:

Krutoyarsky owned HHCH Health Care Inc., of Linden, which provided home health aides and health care services to New Jersey residents. Home health aides visit patients at their homes and provide a variety of health care services, such as assistance with eating, dressing and grooming. These home health aide services were subsidized under Medicaid.

Krutoyarsky and her conspirators defrauded Medicaid by submitting false documents to the state Board of Nursing, the agency responsible for issuing home health aide certifications. Krutoyarsky falsely represented that prospective home health aides had attended and satisfactorily completed required training and testing. In truth, Krutoyarsky charged prospective home health aides hundreds of dollars for fraudulently obtaining their certifications.

Krutoyarsky also fraudulently billed Medicaid for services not actually rendered to patients. Numerous HHCH home health aides routinely falsified records that claimed they had visited patients and provided them with health care services. These home health aides had other jobs, were on vacations overseas, or were in other parts of the state during the times they claimed to be with patients. Home health aides sometimes gave cash kickbacks to patients who were also participating in the scheme. Federal agents introduced a cooperating witness who posed as a prospective home health aide to Krutoyarsky. During one meeting in January 2012, Krutoyarsky and another conspirator met with the witness to discuss having him join the scheme to defraud Medicaid. In explaining the scheme, Krutoyarsky explained that they would fraudulently bill Medicaid to obtain "free money [from the] government."

Krutoyarsky hired individuals with no home health certifications and no status in the country and then sent them into patients' homes. Krutoyarsky and her conspirators then billed Medicaid, fraudulently claiming that the services had been provided by duly certified home health aides.

Krutoyarsky defrauded Medicaid out of $7 million. She directed certain home health aides to establish checking accounts at a bank near HHCH's office and then took control of their checkbooks. After Medicaid paid the claims and transferred the funds into HHCH accounts, Krutoyarsky then transferred portions of the money into the aides' accounts and used the money to purchase, maintain and pay for real property in New Jersey, New York, Florida; purchase personal property for her own use and benefit; and pay for personal expenses for her own use and benefit and the use and benefit of her family.

Krutoyarsky also bribed an employee of the N.J. Department of Labor, who was working in an undercover capacity with federal agents. In mid-2010, the NJDOL received a complaint that Krutoyarsky was not paying overtime wages to her employees and commenced an investigation. The department demanded Krutoyarsky produce certain HHCH records. Realizing that providing these records would reveal the Medicaid fraud scheme, Krutoyarsky paid approximately $10,000 in a cash bribe to the employee for the purpose of obstructing and unlawfully influencing the NJDOL investigation. The employee, however, was wearing a recording device and recorded Krutoyarsky making the bribe payment on video.

In May 2011, Krutoyarsky paid a second cash bribe of approximately $15,000 to the employee for the purpose of obstructing and unlawfully influencing a second NJDOL investigation related to one of Krutoyarsky's conspirator's companies. This bribe payment was also captured on video.

Between 2007 and 2011, Krutoyarsky cheated the IRS out of $907,150 in taxes due and owing to the United States. She sent home health aides to the homes of patients who were not eligible for Medicaid. These patients wrote checks payable to HHCH. A conspirator cashed these checks at check-cashing businesses in New Jersey and equally divided the cash with Krutoyarsky. Krutoyarsky also issued HHCH checks to "no show" employees, who then wrote personal checks back to Krutoyarsky. On her corporate tax returns, she falsely characterized these payments as legitimate business deductions, thus reducing her business's corporate taxes.

In addition to the prison term, Judge Hayden sentenced Krutoyarsky to three years of supervised release, ordered her to pay $7 million in restitution and entered a forfeiture order for $7 million, including forfeiture of her home in New Jersey and properties in New York City and Florida.

Woman robbed at gunpoint at Garden State Motel

Members of the Union Police Department responded to the Garden State Motel on Route 22 on Friday, March 25, at 11:55 p.m., after a woman dialed 9-1-1 and reported being robbed at gunpoint.

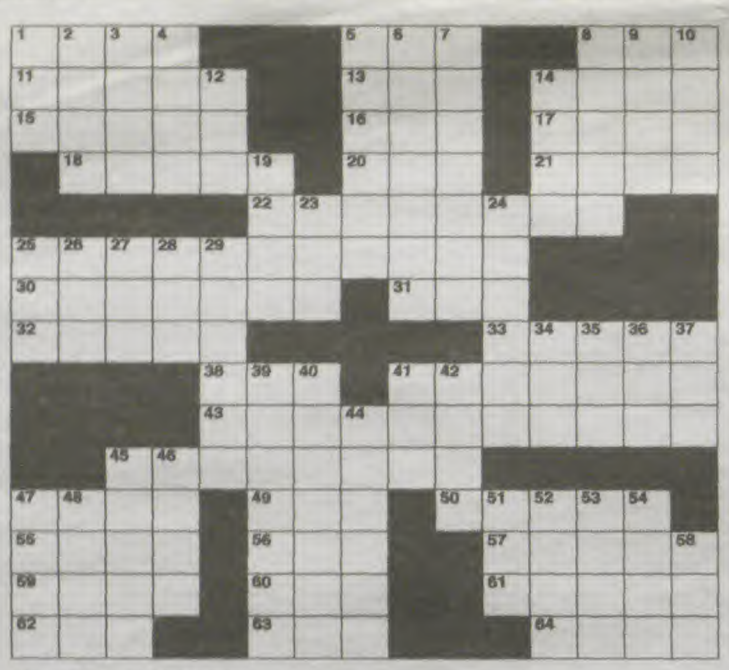

During an investigation, the victim reported that she was supposed to meet up with a man she met via the Internet, and said he showed up with a friend and they pointed guns at her and took her money, cell phone and purse. They used duct tape to tie her up and left the motel room, but the victim was able to free herself and eventually found someone to help her, she said.

The following day, police viewed a surveillance video with an image of the suspect's car and later found it parked in Newark. The robbery victim's identification was allegedly visible inside the car and the driver was arrested for possession of the stolen property. The car was towed back to headquarters for further investigation.

A search warrant was obtained from a superior court judge to search the suspect's home and car; inside the house, police officers reportedly found a quantity of marijuana and other items that appear to have been stolen. Inside the car were phones, purses and personal possessions from numerous victims, and two imitation guns, said police.

Joshua Wilkens, 26, of Newark was arrested and the victim later identified him as one of the men who robbed her. He was charged with armed robbery, handgun possession and receiving stolen property. Wilkens also matches the description of a suspect in similar crimes in nearby towns. He was held at the Union Police Department Headquarters pending transfer to the Union County Jail. Anyone with further information is asked to contact the Union Police Department Detective Bureau at 908-851-5030.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HOROSCOPE

ARIES, March 21 to April 20
Use caution with certain boss-figures, power-trippers, and official-types might interpret your innovative brainstorm-passions as a threat to their authority or position.

TAURUS, April 21 to May 21
Continue reserving that wide cushion of psychic space between your own mental machinations and everybody else in the world.

GEMINI, May 22 to June 21
You'll be in a stronger spot to postpone any potentially dicey discussion if you took the initial lead with getting in touch.

CANCER, June 22 to July 22
Be vocal in recounting the efforts you're devoting to your daily responsibilities, the challenges you're courageously confronting, and the progress you're ultimately making.

LEO, July 23 to Aug. 23
Please don't forcibly attempt, therefore, to make yourself into the type of protagonist you imagine they'll want to root for. Be you.

VIRGO, Aug. 24 to Sept. 22
Contrary to what any unconstructively self-imposed guilt might report, you aren't causing anybody undue harm or hurt by addressing the awkward, off-limits, or unspeakable topic.

LIBRA, Sept. 23 to Oct. 23
you can use the initiative they took as fuel for your fire, and be that much more unapologetically direct with your own disclosures'.

SCORPIO, Oct. 24 to Nov. 22
Look also at those items you tend to attack first, not because they are the most immediately pressing or important, but so you can indulgently enjoy their relative ease while still telling yourself you're 'hard at work'.

SAGITTARIUS, Nov. 23 to Dec. 21
Speaking your truth should be an act of identity expression and/or elucidation, not a gesture motivated by some mischievous desire to get a reaction.

CAPRICORN, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20
This is your chance to reason with that internalized voice-of-repression, using the simple straight-line logic of 'as an adult, I can choose to do whatever I feel I want to do'.

AQUARIUS, Jan. 21 to Feb. 18
As long as you keep everybody on their toes with one curve-ball after another, they can't possibly notice how adeptly you're steering 'em away from the real puzzles you're immersed in.

PISCES, Feb. 19 to March 20
Doing something new is the only way to figure out how to do something you haven't done before. Whether you soar with success or sputter while struggling, your way-forward will be unconditionally yours; it won't resemble anybody else's, nor should it.

We also provide the opportunity for families and funeral directors to publish a more extensive, special notice about their loved one called an obituary. These notices are published on our website immediately and then in the next edition of this newspaper. To place a paid obituary send an email to obits@thelocalsource.com or fax to 908-688-0401. Family and friends' submissions must include sender's name, address, phone and the name of the funeral home. Call 908-686-7850 for assistance.

I became frustrated watching my 13-year-old come home ravenous and eating empty carbs like a vacuum cleaner. Although it would mean cleaning the blender, I decided to make a healthy concoction that he couldn't resist. This shake is not only creamy and filling, it's positively delicious! If he doesn't finish it, I pour the leftovers into popsicle molds and serve them for dessert. Feel free to add in other fruit and yogurt.

Healthy Peanut Butter Shake

Ingredients

2 cups ice
1 1/2 bananas, preferably sliced and frozen
2 heaping Tbs. peanut butter — can use almond or sunflower seed butter
1 1/2 cups almond milk
2 Tbs. unsweetened cocoa powder
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract

Steps

Puree all the above in a blender until smooth and serve.
Pour leftovers into popsicle molds.

SUMMIT NEWS

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SPD Youth Academy applications available until April 18

The Summit Police Department runs its Youth Academy from July 18 to 22 at the Summit Police Department. Classes will run from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

This program is designed to provide area youth with the opportunity to gain an understanding of the role of the police officer. While other youth academy programs provide a day camp setting, the Summit Police Youth Academy has been modeled after today's police academy. Those accepted to the program will undergo physical training and daily training in drill and ceremony, as well as instruction in criminal investigation techniques, evidence recovery and patrol practise. In addition, cadets will participate in field trips to the Union County Police Academy and attend demonstrations from various specialized units that are available to law enforcement, such as the police canine unit, SWAT team and the bomb squad.

Each cadet will receive an official Summit Police Youth Academy uniform to wear throughout the course. Upon successful completion of the course the cadets will participate in a graduation ceremony and receive a certificate of completion and an official Summit Police Youth Academy patch. Each cadet will also receive a DVD slideshow of photos taken during their session.

Acceptance into this program requires that the applicant be between the ages of 11 and 14. Cadets will be selected on a first come, first serve basis. Please note, however, that preference will be given to Summit residents who are new applicants; former recruits and out-of-town applicants will be placed on a waiting list.

To be considered, the tuition fee must accompany the application; there are a limited number of scholarships available.

Applications will be available at the Police Department, the Summit Middle School Office, and online at http://www.cityofsummit.org. The deadline for applications will be April 18. For additional information, contact Det. Sgt. Rick Proctor at rproctor@spdnj.org or 908-273-5871, or Pam Ferreira at pferreira@spdnj.org or 908-277-9473.

The Bonds will be awarded to the bidder on whose bid the total loan may be made at the lowest net interest cost. Such net interest cost shall be computed, as to each bid, by adding to the total principal amount of Bonds bid for the total interest cost to maturity in accordance with such bid and by deduction therefrom of the amount of premium, if any, bid, which premium shall not exceed $298,320. No bid shall be considered that offers to pay an amount less than the principal amount of Bonds offered for sale or under which the total loan is made at an interest cost higher than the lowest net interest cost to the City under any legally acceptable bid, and if two (2) or more such bidders offer to pay the same lowest net interest cost, then the Bonds will be sold to one (1) of such bidders selected by lot from among all such bidders. No interest on the Deposit Amount will accrue to the successful bidder. The Deposit Amount will be applied in part payment for the Bonds or to secure the City from any loss resulting from the failure of the successful bidder to comply with the terms of its bid.

income tax purposes, and in such case the Deposit Amount paid by it will be returned and the successful bidder will be relieved of its contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of its bid.

If the Bonds qualify for issuance of any policy of municipal bond insurance or commitment therefor at the option of a bidder, any purchase of such insurance or commitment therefor shall be at the sole option and expense of the bidder and any increased costs of issuance of the Bonds resulting by reason of such insurance, unless otherwise paid, shall be paid by such bidder. Any failure of the Bonds to be so insured or of any such policy of insurance to be issued, shall not in any way relieve the purchaser of its contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of its bid for the purchase of the Bonds.

Prior to or simultaneously with the delivery of the Bonds, the successful bidder shall furnish to the City a certificate, in form acceptable to bond counsel to the City, setting forth the price or yields of each maturity of the Bonds calculated on the basis of retail sales of the Bonds, in accordance with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such number on any Bond nor any error with respect thereto shall constitute cause for the failure or refusal of the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds. The CUSIP Service Bureau charge for the assignment of CUSIP numbers on the Bonds shall be the responsibility of and shall be paid for by the successful bidder.

A preliminary official statement (the "Preliminary Official Statement") relating to the Bonds is available at www.i-DealProspectus.com and the Preliminary Official Statement is deemed final as of its date by the City for purposes and within the meaning of Rule 15c2-12 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. A final official statement (the "Official Statement") will be delivered to the successful bidder within seven (7) business days of the award of the Bonds. In order to assist bidders in complying with said Rule 15c2-12, the City will undertake to provide certain continuing disclosure as further described in the Preliminary Official Statement.

The successful bidder will be furnished, without cost, with the approving opinion of the law firm of Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, bond counsel to the City, to the effect that the Bonds are valid and legally binding obligations of the City and, unless paid from other sources, are payable from ad valorem taxes levied upon all the taxable property therein without limitation as to rate or amount. The obligations under this Notice of Sale to deliver or accept the Bonds pursuant to this Notice of Sale shall be conditioned on the availability to the successful bidder and delivery at the time of delivery of the Bonds of the said approving opinion and of certificates in form and tenor satisfactory to said law firm evidencing the proper execution and delivery of the Bonds and receipt of payment therefor and including a statement, dated as of the date of such delivery, to the effect that, except as may be disclosed in the Official Statement, there is no litigation pending or (to the knowledge of the signer or signers thereof) threatened relating to the Bonds.

The City reserves the right to postpone, from time to time, the date and time established for receipt of bids and the right to adjust the maturity of the Bonds. Any such postponement or adjustment will be published on TM3 News Services, or by other available means, not less than twenty-four (24) hours prior to the sale. If any date fixed for the receipt of bids and the sale of the Bonds is postponed, an alternative sale date will be announced via TM3 News Services, or by other available means, at least forty-eight (48) hours prior to such alternative sale date.

Printed copies of the Preliminary Official Statement and this Notice of Sale, and additional information regarding the sale, may be obtained from Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, bond counsel to the City, One Gateway Center, Newark, New Jersey, 07102-5311 (telephone: 973-642-8584).

Union will count on senior right hander Steven Dembeck to deliver quality innings.

Union baseball is anxious to show improved product

Seniors Meola, Boyd among team leaders

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

Opening Day is now just a day away.

It couldn't come sooner for a Union team that is anxious to show a great deal of improvement.

What better way for the Farmers to begin their 2016 campaign by knocking off defending Group 2 state champion Governor Livingston at their place after losing to the Highlanders three times in three tries a year ago, including twice up on the hill in Berkeley Heights.

It all starts for Union tomorrow on the other side of Union County.

An uncharacteristic 0-8 start a year ago included the Farmers getting shut out three times in their first five games.

Behind quality pitching from the likes of senior right hander Jonathan Brignoni and senior lefty Joe Poland, Union was in most of those games, with many of them going down to the final seventh inning out.

In total, Union lost three games by one run and four others by two runs in an at-times-frustrating 5-18 campaign. Union lost its first eight and closed with a three-game slide, but in between went 5-7, including a Union County Tournament win.

Brignoni, Union's best pitcher last year, is now playing at Ramapo College and just earned his first victory in a game played in Florida.

Although Union will not have the luxury of having him in its rotation again, third-year head coach Angel Navarrete expects to count on seniors Matt Meola and Kyle Boyd to provide a lift the Farmers will surely need.

Meola is Union's first baseman and one of its pitchers, the lone lefty on the staff. A three-year varsity starter, Meola went 3-for-3 with an RBI and a run to earn Union County MVP honors in last June's Union-Essex Underclassmen All-Star Game at Kean.

"Matt is an unbelievable clubhouse leader," Navarrete said. "He's capable of being a top player in Union County."

Boyd, Union's left fielder, batted .471 last year.

"Kyle is a freak athlete," Navarrete said. "He started in football and is a great leader on and off the field. He has great speed and power."

Also back are junior Quincy Bryant at shortstop and senior Chris Petrucelli at second base.

"We started a lot of young guys last year, but the kids continued to work hard and kept learning and kept getting better," said Navarrete, a 2000 Cranford graduate who played for Dennis McCaffery and also coached on his staff.

Farmers working to show high upgrade

Navarette's first Union squad went 7-15 in 2014.

"I feel like the kids want to prove something, that they were better than they were the last two years," Navarette said. "Our seniors have been through some tough times."

Union is set to open its season at defending Group 2 state champion GL tomorrow at 3:45 p.m.

"The program is healthy and the kids and coaches are working their butts off," Navarrete said. "They never stop believing, day by day.

"I give all the credit to the kids and the coaches."

NOTES: The Union County Conference alignment remains exactly the same for this year.

Cranford and Gov. Livingston shared the Watchung Division crown a year ago, while Johnson, Dayton and Union Catholic finished tied for first in the Mountain Division.

Roselle Park won the Valley Division undefeated at 8-0 and Rahway aptured the Sky Division perfect at 7-0.

The Governor Livingston baseball team is sparked by sophomore shortstop Dan Serretti, who this past November gave a verbal commitment to continue playing in college at St. John's.

GL baseball has vast amount of newcomers ready to excel

Is seeking 12th straight winning season

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

One of the most consistent public school baseball programs in the state has fresh faces at many positions after graduating 15 seniors of which six are now playing on the collegiate level.

Defending Group 2 state champion Governor Livingston will not use that as an excuse.

The Highlanders expect to still be among the best teams in the Union County Conference, Union County and now North 2, Group 3.

GL is coming off a program record for wins in a season with 28 as it concluded 28-6 a year ago.

The Highlanders are seeking a 12th straight season above .500. GL has won at least 20 games six of the past seven seasons.

"We have a lot of juniors (8), but are inexperienced at several positions," head coach Chris Roof said. "I like our pitching, I like our defense and I believe with have a future Division 1 player behind the plate."

One of GL's newcomers is junior catcher Dan Baroff.

"He's a lefty batter and he can really throw," Roof said. "He's also very high academically. I can see him playing in the Ivy League or Patriot League."

GL's new infield consists of sophomore DJ Gonnelli at first, senior Brendan Lake at second, senior Brian Cranston at third and junior Vin Doren at shortstop.

Returning sophomore SS Dan Serretti, who this past November gave a verbal commitment to continue playing in college at St. John's, is out for the season after having surgery on his elbow in January.

"It's a huge loss, but we have a player in Vin Doren who would be the starting shortstop at a lot of other schools," Roof said. "We're very happy with him."

At designated hitter will be junior Jace Tweeten and freshman switch-hitter Drew Compton, who will also see time on the mound and at third base.

Roof lists his top four pitchers as junior right hander Cole Schneider, Cranston, Cocchia - a lefty - and junior righty Sean Savage.

Other hurlers in relief include senior right hander Matt Bruno, junior right hander John Colendenski, Compton, Doren and Jennings.

Backing up at third and another right handed pitcher is Liam Hulbert.

Backing up at first is junior Thomas Barbera and at catcher is sophomore Sam Pile. Senior Lucas Vitollo, a first-year player like Hulbert, Barbera and Pile, will see action in the outfield.

The 19-player breakdown is five seniors, eight juniors, five sophomores and one freshman.

Former RC stars reach Final Four

Including Union's Roberson

By JR Parachini
Sports Editor

Three years ago, after a stunning upset loss to Union in the Union County Tournament quarterfinals, Tyler Roberson and Malachi Richardson - more determined than ever - helped spark Roselle Catholic to its first Non-Public, South B sectional championship, its initial Non-Public, B state crown and then, ultimately, its first-ever Tournament of Champions title.

Now the former Union County high school standouts are two wins away from being key members of a collegiate national championship squad.

Roberson, from Union, and Richardson, from Trenton, are two of the reasons why Syracuse reached its first Final Four since 2013 and will next take on North Carolina in Saturday's second semifinal in Houston.

Like the Roselle Catholic team of 2012-2013 that eventually finished 25-5, was named Team of the Year in New Jersey and went 8-0 after the loss to Union, this year's Syracuse squad - which many pundits believed didn't deserve an NCAA Tournament bid - has rebounded from 13 losses to reach the Final Four as a 10 seed.

Roberson - NJ Player of the Year his senior season of 2012-2013 - scored 10 points and grabbed eight important rebounds in Sunday's thrilling come-from-behind 68-62 win over top-seeded Virginia in the Midwest Region final in Chicago.

Roberson played at Union High School and then transferred to Roselle Catholic.

Syracuse improved to 23-13 and became the first 10 seed and just the fourth double-digit seed to reach the Final Four. The last double-digit seed to reach the Final Four was VCU - as an 11th seed - in 2011.

Richardson, who played at Trenton Catholic his freshman, junior and senior seasons, scored 21 of his 23 points vs. Virginia in the second half. He was voted the Midwest Region's Most Outstanding Player.

Syracuse defeated seventh-seeded Dayton, 15th-seeded Middle Tennessee State, 11th-seeded Gonzaga and top-seeded Virginia to reach the Final Four. Syracuse closed its Virginia win with a 25-4. Virginia led by 15 with nine minutes to go before the Orangemen turned the game around.

Syracuse is in its sixth Final Four and won the whole thing in 2003. The Orangemen first reached the Final Four in 1975 when present head coach and former Syracuse player Jim Boeheim was an assistant. As the head coach of the Orangemen, Boeheim has now led Syracuse to the Final Four in 1987, 1996, 2003, 2013 and 2016.

Saturday's Final Four in Houston includes Villanova vs. Oklahoma in the 6 p.m. game, followed by Syracuse vs. North Catholina in the nightcap.

The championship game is Monday at 9 p.m.

Union softball opens home tomorrow

The Union High School varsity softball team, coming off an improved 10-11 campaign, is scheduled to open its 2016 season home tomorrow vs. Scotch Plains.

First pitch is set for 11 a.m.

Union won 10 games each of the past two seasons - the Farmers were 10-12 in 2014 - and last year's squad also finished tied for second with Scotch Plains in the Union County Conference's Mountain Division at 8-5.

The UCC is aligned in four divisions for this year, including the Sky Division. Union and Scotch Plains remain in the Mountain Division.

Union was swept by Scotch Plains in Mountain Division action a year ago, falling 14-2 on the road and then 6-5 at home.

JV UCT CHAMPIONS - The Union High School junior varsity boys' basketball team, shown above and below in white, captured its Union County Tournament championship this winter season and did so as the top seed. Here, Union is in action against Roselle Catholic in the championship game at Kean University's Harwood Arena in Union. The Farmers first defeated 16th-seeded Governor Livingston, downed ninth-seeded Elizabeth and then bested 13th-seeded Hillside to reach the final. Roselle Catholic reached the title game as the third seed and defeated second-seeded Linden in the other semifinal. Union's title team was coached by Ron Zieser. The Farmers beat RC 79-53 in the UCT final and finished with a fine 20-1 mark.

Johnson's boys' basketball team finished 12-13 overall and captured the Union County Conference's Sky Division championship with a league mark of 7-2. Oratory Prep of Summit also finished 7-2, but Johnson swept Oratory in division action.

Both Johnson and Oratory did not play Brearley a second time in the division.

Johnson's girls' squad went 9-14 and captured its own holiday tournament championship in late December.

One of the team's top wins was a 49-46 home triumph over Gov. Livingston in a UCC-Mountain Division clash in Clark.
