

Valdwick streaks to 14-0 sta

By BRIAN FARRELL 57-9

In his 11th season, Steve Konde has a nice blend of sophomores, juniors and seniors on his baseball team at Waldwick. There is even a freshman starting at shortstop.

And the Warriors, young and old alike, have put together all facets of the game rather well to give Konde and the school their best start ever with a 14-0 record after Thursday's 13-1 victory over Lodi.

"It is a surprise to me," said Konde, whose club was 19-9 last year. "I knew we would be very competitive, but I thought we would have dropped one or two games by this point. Usually, there is some kind of breakdown, whether it be pitching, defense or hitting. But we have been solid in all three of those areas, and everything that could go right has gone right."

That includes Konde's usual menu of playing non-league games on Saturdays. Thus far, the Warriors have knocked off Emerson, Fair Lawn and Teaneck prior to Saturday's game at Indian Hills.

"My players are intense, but relaxed and enjoy playing," the veteran coach said. "As long as we keep that attitude, we're going to continue to have success.

And it is an unselfish crew of Warriors that take to the diamond.

"They give up individuality for the sake of the team," Konde said. "There is a positive team chemistry here, and everyone is willing to play whatever position they are needed at in order to match up well against an opponent."

Konde says his catcher, sophomore Devon DeMarco, is doing an excellent job. "He handles our pitchers well, and they respect his ability back there.'

At first base is Jason Bain, who also is a starting pitcher and can be used at catcher and in rightfield. The 6-foot-5 senior is on a hitting tear of late. Saturday in a 14-2 victory over Teaneck, Bain slammed a pair of two-run homers, batting 3-for-3 with four runs-batted-In. Overall, he's hitting .333 (12for-36).

"Jason is putting the ball into play with authority," Konde said. "He has gained a lot of confidence this year and has improved on his stroke."

Sophomore Keith Bersch is the second baseman, as junior Rich Parks, the DH, is nursing a sore arm. "Keith is very solid, defensively, and he knows the game very well," Konde said.

R.J. Giordano is that freshman shortstop.

"He is an outstanding player," Konde said. "R.J. has excellent composure and plays with confidence. He turns the doubleplay very well. We've had some pretty good shortstops here, but, by the time R.J. graduates, he could possibly be the best."

Sophomore Brian Barlics, who starts at shortstop on the jayvee team, has seen some varsity action and "has done a good job also."

Senior Mike Raia, in his third varsity year as a starter, anchors third base. season, he was the rightfielder; his sophomore year, he played while Doug Sneyers roams centerfield. Rightfield can be played by one of four players -Bain, Dave Bernal, Adam Wolfson or Mike Jones. DeMenna slammed his seventh homer of the season Thursday.

"It's kind of a luxury at a Group 1 school to be able to utilize four different players at one position," Konde noted.

The pitching staff, all righthanders, is solid and deep, with junior Mike "Moon" Branagh (3-0 with two saves), senior Tom Hayes (5-0), sophomore Mike Jones (3-0), Bain (2-0) and senior Mike Finnegan (1-0). Bernal and DeMenna are used as relief pitchers.

Two bomb threats at WHS

By PATTADDEO

WALDWICK - Dr. Patrick Pegari, the superintendent of schools, reported bomb threats at the high school at the recent board meeting.

Over the past two weeks, the school has received two phone calls stating that a bomb had been planted in the school. The school was then evacuated and the Hackensack Bomb Squad and Waldwick police department searched the property.

Though no bombs or bomblike devices were found, the police are conducting a full investiga-Pegari said, "When the individual is finally caught the penalty will be harsh and swift.

We will prosecute to the fullest extent the law will allow ... they are taking very aggressive measures, some of which I can't even discuss."

When a bomb threat occurs, the fire department and police department require that all individuals evacuate the building. Four years ago the high school was subject to a similar situation and the threats were not carried out at that time

In other business, John J. Salvia, the newest member of the school board, was sworn into office. The board re-elected Paul Cottrell as president and Carol Rice as vice-president.

1994-95 school calender, the substitute teachers' list, the appointment of 'Citizens First National Bank of New Jersey and State of New Jersey Cash Management Fundas the official financial institutes for the board. The official publications of the board are The Ridgewood News and The Record. The board appointed Richard Kerber as treasurer to serve a one-year tern starting July 1. The law firn of Fogarty and Hara was aplpointed.

Over a three-game stretch from last Saturday through Tuesday, Sneyers drove in 10 runs. He had a five-RBI game in a 14-2 rout of Teaneck, hitting a grand slam home run in the seventh inning. Monday, he collected two RBIs in a 7-2 victory against Hawthorne and, the next day, belted a bases-loaded triple versus Don Bosco Tech in a 12-5 win.

"Stature-wise, Doug is not very big, but he does have pop in his bat," said Steve Konde, Waldwick's coach.

DeMenna, with six home runs, is the Warriors' chief power source and leading hitter. However, Konde has De-Menna leading off like he did last season in order to get him the most at-bats and avoid having opponents pitch around him, like they probably would if he were in the number-four hole with men on base.

"They still might walk Mark, but little do they know what's behind him," said Sneyers, referring to Richie Parks, Mike Raia and himself.

"Our 2-3-4 batters are all ideal leadoff men and numbertwo hitters," Konde noted. "It all works out pretty well."

"Parks does a lot of things well; he's a very intelligent player," said Konde. "He handles the bat, hits behind the runner and is a good bunter. Richie is not a free swinger as Doug is. If we want Mark stealing second or third, Parks is able to fit into the scheme of taking pitches."

"Raia fits ideally for us as the number-three batter. He knows the strike zone very well and usually puts the ball in play."

Konde also noted that his first four batters, each of whom have an on-base average of over .500, present a lefty, righty, lefty, righty scheme.

"I put Doug fourth because, compared to Parks and Raia, he's drives the ball the

Ironically, Waldwick's number-five batter, Jason Bain, at 6-foot-5, looks like he should be the cleanup hitter.

"His foot speed is not like Doug's, and I want my quickest players at the top of the lineup," Konde explained.

"We're a good team; we got what it takes," said Sneyers.

So does the cleanup hitter, who, contrary to rumor, does not have a bus driver's license.

Center stirs controversy

Public questions need and cost of community facility

By JAMES HICKEY Of The Suburban News 5.4-9 J

WALDWICK— A jam-packed borough hall was the setting last Tuesday for the special public meeting on the proposed community center.

The emotion-charged two and one-half hour session brought historical refrences ranging from the Boston Tea Party to current social problems of underage drinking and illlegal drug use.

And what was finally settled? Nothing and everything at the same time.

The council closed the meeting after hearing both pros and the cons as well as several alternatives to the project.

The council prepared a packet of information to the public that detailed the proposed project. Included in the documentation were anticipated costs and revenues; potential uses of the center; a physical description; a historical fact sheet; before and after renovation pictures; the 1976 Master Plan that first introduced the community center concept, and the

August, 1991 Citizens Committee Report recommending steps necessary to convert the old DPW site into a community

But, due to the over-flow crowd, sufficient copies of the information package were not available. As a consequence, Mayor Rick Vender Wende provided a brief summary of the data.

He told attendees that the anticipated cost of the project would be $450,000. To the average taxpayer, that would force an increase of $15.75 per household, which was met with a chorus of cat calls and boos from the public.

Vander Wende went on to advise that the borough had applied for a Community Development Grant and received word that they would receive $96,000 to help offset the construction costs. Also, Waldwick was in the process of applying for private foundation grants, including one from the Nabisco Foundation.

He told the crowd that he hoped the center would be used as a center "...functional for all ages and groups."

Vander Wende concluded his comments to the public by saying that "I believe in this proposal. I believe this would be a positive addition to our community."

At that point, the meeting was opened to comment from the public. The first person to speak was resident Thomas Price who stated "I listened for a key word in your speech, mayor, and I didn't hear it. That word is 'need'."

Price praised the mayor for his enthusiasm for the project but felt that many members in the borough would not be able to handle the financial obligations the project would entail.

Shirley Feldman, a member of the Concerned Taxpayers of Waldwick who has lead the opposition against the community center, talked to the public (and, according to Councilman Willam Patterson, to the television cameras that made their debut at this meeting) about declining population and the Master Plan's outline that said duplication of building use should be avoided.

She also cited a study that her group conducted of the 33 community groups that had been previously polled by Waldwick officials. Of that number, 21 said that there was no real need for center in terms of meeting space. Another five indicated that they were satisfied with their current situation (which she interpreted as meaning they were against the center), while another seven groups came out in support of the center plan.

But there were also voices of support for the center. Elaine Krulish said that she was involved in high school programs that provided alternative activities for students not involved in school programs, such as sports.

She worried that these kids would go to parties that could involve underage drinking and the illegal use of drugs. She felt that the proposed center would be a viable alternative for the students.

After a chorus of boos rained down from the large contingent of senior citizens, Borough Attorney Menelaos Toskos wondered aloud how a generation of people "that had lived through the depression and fought for democracy in World War II," would scorn people that had a different view from theirs.

Board of Education President Paul Cottrell rose to say that although he "applauded the council's courage" for proposing the project, he said they must consider the fiscal resposibilities all municipal governing boards would be facing due to the cutback in state aid.

Former Mayor Larry Williams suggested that the building site not be used as a community center but as a storage

He cited the case of the police department that is "bursting at the seams" because all available space is being used at borough hall.

Other residents suggesting putting the issue in referendum form for a November vote. Others condemned the project because they would be unable to afford the taxes in the borough.

In his closing remarks, the mayor thanked the residents for coming out, adding, "There is no deadline...no rush on this project. We will take everything (that was said tonight)into consideration."

After the meeting, Vander Wende said that the subject would be raised at the next executive session.

Ten Waldwick senior citizens were honored guests in the second grades where they explained their memories of Waldwick and of their own elementary school days. To commemorate the occasion, the children created a mural showing their favorite things at Crescent School.

After interviewing the school's teachers and principal, fourth graders published the information in a special illustrated newspaper, the Crescent School Chronicles According to Hase, the children were surprised to learn that a cuurent Crescent teacher was at the school in 1968 as a kindergarten student.

The PSO also participated in the special anniversary by organizing an Open House reception with a memorbilia display. In addition, the group donated a new outside sign to advertise school events.

Passing the buck on iail overcrowding

To the editor: On June 19, 1981, in response to prison overcrowding that he said had created a "state of emergency," Gov. Byrne issued an executive order that mandated the housing of state prisoners in county jails. The governor declared his order to be a "temporary measure," to remain in effect for 90 days. This "temporary measure" has routinely been renewed by our various governors for the past 13 years. The annual renewal of these executive orders merely caused even greater overcrowding at the county facilities. The 1990 figures indicate that while the county jails were operating at an "average of 167 percent of capacity, the state's prisons operated at a projected 1991 average of 108.6 percent of capacity. In April of 1993, the New Jersey Supreme Court rescinded the mandate for county jails to house state prisoners. In their decision, the judges wrote: "As the parade of annual executive transferred the problem and orders passes before us, it is our function to state that 'the emperor has no clothes'; there is no emergency. There is rather, an ongoing condition that must be recognized by the state.' In an attempt to circumvent the Supreme Court decision, our legislators approved bills S-870 (sponsored by the Senator Kosco) and A-1582 (sponsored by Assembly Stuhltrager) that permits the state to continue dumping state felons in the county jails.

Senator Kosco assured us that "two years from now, this problem will be solved." However, his promise is revealed to be shallow rhetoric when one realizes that the bill stipulated that after Gov. Whitman signs it, it will remain in effect for two years "at which time the legislators may continue the state of emergency for prison crowding by subsequent legislative action."

Unfortunately, although Gov. Whitman has publicly declared her opposition to state mandates without state financing, this proposal actually originated in her office.

Per diem reimbursement for state prisoners housed in county jails does not begin until the 15th day of incarceration. In addition, with ever-increasing police salaries (spurred by mandatory binding arbitration) the daily state stipend of $58.50 per prisoner does not fully reimburse the counties for all related expenses. Local taxpayers are unfairly called upon to make up the difference. At the Bergen County Jail, last year's bill just for salary overtime payments was $2,000,000. The ambitious expansion plan for the Bergen County Jail will double its present size. increasing its capacity from 855 beds to 1700 beds. The jail's increased size will provide an incentive for the State Department of Corrections to to continue to use it as a dumping site for convicted state felons. State prisoners are the state's responsibility. Our legislators in Trenton are not elected to craftily "pass on" problems; they are elected to solve them. The emperor, it seems, not only lacks clothing—he lacks courage.

Waldwick keeps it going

By BOB KURLAND Staff Writer

WALDWICK — The Waldwick base-ball team should be a pressure cooker as its winning streak continues, but the unbeaten Warriors seemed to be having fun Thursday when they cruised past Garfield, 8-1, for their 18th victory.

"I don't see them showing any pres-"They've played on the same consistently high level all season."

The latest victory boosts Waldwick's Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division record to 13-0.

"If anything I feel more relaxed," said hot-hitting Mark DeMenna, who went 3-for-3 including his ninth homer of the season which made it 3-0 in the third inning. "I like the idea of everyone going out to try and beat us for the first time because it seems to bring out the Senior Jay Bain (3-0), who allowed four hits in pitching his first complete varsity game, agreed with his left field-er. "I think we're relaxed because we have everything together and on target. Maybe it's a little tight being on top with everyone looking for you, but it's nice being there."

DeMenna, who boosted his batting average over .600, opened the game with a single. He took second on a wild pitch, moved to third on a balk, and scored on Mike Raia's sacrifice fly.

In the fourth DeMenna walked to load the bases and came in on Rich Parks' triple. Overall he reached base in all five trips.

"I'm much more patient at the plate this season," said DeMenna, who batted .380 last year while stealing 41 bases. "This is the best team I've been on, all solid players. Our goals now are to win the States and County."

On Wednesday he drove in five runs against Passaic Tech, which included a long home run.

"Td say all his homers were at least 350 feet," said Konde. "He's stronger than he was last year. Mark can do it all - catches the ball, throws, beats you with the bat or glove, and can pitch. A very talented player."

Bain, who normally is a fine-fielding first baseman, lost his shutout in the sixth when Mark Calderio tripled to right and scored on Chet Kwiatkowski's groundout. "I was thinking of letting someone else finish the game, figuring he was tiring," said Konde, "but he asked me to let him finish."

So in the seventh Bain set down the Bulldogs one-two-three, with two strikeouts.

"We're a young team (6-7) which has been improving," said Garfield coach Charlie Rigoliosi. "Our goal is to finish at .500 and make the States, but we have to win at least three of our next

Waldwick K of C plans golf outing

By BRIAN FARRELL

The third annual Frank Durando Golf Outing, sponsored by the St. Luke's Knights of Columbus of Waldwick, is scheduled Monday, May 23 at the Darlington Golf Club in Mahwah. The rain date is June

The late Mr. Durando was a member of St. Luke's Council No. 5257 and was very active in community projects.

The purpose of the golf outing is to raise funds that are used to award college scholarships to seniors at Waldwick High School or to a resident who is graduating from a private school. As a result of last year's successful outing, three $500 scholarships were awarded on graduation day.

Tee off for the outing is 8:30 a.m. The cost is $65 per person, which covers golf carts, green fees, a one-hour cocktail party and dinner at the K of C hall and many prizes. A $25 deposit is required to secure a spot in the outing.

Golfers are encouraged to sign up for the outing as soon as possible at Gil's Bar & Liquors Wyckoff Avenue in Waldwick or with one of four K of C members, particularly Hank Wynne (445-2957), the general chairman of the event. Don Meyer (447-2171), Mickey Fearon (445-8571) or Al Scheidler can be contacted.

Sponsorship also is needed to help raise money for the scholarship fund. The cost is $50 per hole, and the sponsor's name will be recognized.

In addition, Wynne points out that there is a non-player's way to be part of the fund raising event. Donors contribute $25 and boosters $10, and those people will be recognized also.

All checks for golfers, sponsors, donors and boosters are to be made payable to Knights of Columbus No. 5257.

Last year's outing had 129 golfers - up from 62 in 1992. There were winners for low gross, low net, nearest to the pin, nearest to the line and longest drive.

Through donations from corporations, local merchants and families, the K of C raised $2,840 last year to put into the Frank Durando Scholarship Fund.

"Frank was a past grand knight, an usher at St. Luke's and, overall, a very involved member of the town,' said Wynne, a past grand knight himself. "And Frank was a golfer; he loved golf. So we felt it was appropriate to raise the money for the scholarship fund in that fashion."

"Frank meant a lot to our council and to the town of Waldwick," added Fearon, the current grand knight.

Have your child's vision tested free on May 17

The Waldwick Board of Health is offering a free preschool vision acuity screening for all Waldwick preschoolers, age 3 to 5.

The testing will be done at the Waldwick Health Center, 22 Whites Ln., on Tuesday, May 17. Appointments should be made by calling the health department, 445-7217.

Children will be scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The screening is able detect many vision defects, including amblyopia which is commonly known as "lazy eye," and is one of the leading causes or partial blindness in children. If this condition is not discovered before the age of 6, it may lead to a permanent weak eye.

This screening will be done in conjunction with the Child Health Program and will be conducted by Waldwick Public Health Nurse Carol Shepard, R.N.C., who will be assisted by volunteers. Necessary referrals will be made.

The board of health also offers free monthly physicals, required immuniations, TB testing, urinalysis, blood lead screening, hematocrit and hemoglobin, hearing and vision screenings, counseling and referrals for preschool well chil-

Rodent complaints multiply

By PAT TADDEO

WALDWICK — The rats are on the move. More and more residents are complaining about large rats running rampant through their neighborhoods.

Waldwick Avenue appears to be the new focal point. Dan Sweeney, a resident on the street, noticed a large hole under his deck.

His first step was to cover the hole up. The effort was in vain. By the next morning the hole reappeared. Sweeney dug the hole out and stuck a broom handle in to get an idea of the depth. The hole "swallowed" the five foot broom handle right up to the bristle. He was able to move the handle from side to side about a foot either way.

Sweeney called the Health Officer, Rod Priess, and explained his predicament. Priess looked at the hole and told Sweeney he didn't have a rat problem but had a groundhog living under his deck. When Sweeney asked how he knew, Priess said it was due to the size of the hole. Sweeney then informed Priess that he was the one who had made the hole larger while digging it out.

According to Sweeney, Priess then agreed that he did indeed have a rat problem.

Another Waldwick Avenue resident, Ed Haverlock, a 30-year resident, lives on property that borders Route 17. Between his house and the highway lies a strip of barren land owned by the borough of Waldwick that he has maintained for all those years.

"I asked them to come down and clean it and trim the hedges but they won't do it. Well, next year I can't do it I'm going to be 64 years old. They won't give me soil, they won't give me seed, they won't give me any help in maintaining their property."

Haverlock pointed to the hill that sloped up from the bordering houses to the fence along Route 17. "When the lady bought the house behind mine there were piles of debris up along the hill near her property. The lady who sold the house had a kid come down and clean it out and the kid said, "Hey! There's a nest of rats in there!"

The "hill" was littered with holes and nests. "I never knew they sent a health officer down here until I read it in the papers." said Haverlock.

Haverlock recalls an instance when he witnessed a rat actually chasing the birds from his bird feeder in the middle of the afternoon. Later, he saw feathers on the ground by the feeder.

Why hasn't the town baited these nests and tried to exterminate the rats? According to Priess, the liability is too high. If a dog or a cat or child eats the poison, the town would face a serious lawsuit, he says.

"What kind of liability is worse, the rats possibly attacking our children or getting in our homes causing sickness and bringing disease?" ???? asked.

"If the traps and baited areas are clearly marked and they make the parents aware of it, they would show the residents that the town is doing something for their tax dollars as opposed to building community centers.

Recently the health officer baited the area along the highway. The residents asked if the health officer is so concerned about a liability suit, then why wasn't the area he recently baited posted.

There is no fence to prevent children or pets from entering the area, they claim, so they wanted to know what the difference is between that and baiting the whole neighborhood.

To the editor: 5-11-94 The long hard fight between The Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air and the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority is almost over. The $1.3 million Air Scrubber Odor Control System is projected to be operational by May 19. I am told by the NBCUA (the sewer plant) that construction is running on schedule.

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (NJDEPE) will monitor a six-month air scrubber equipment and chemical trial, before authorizing its ongoing operation. While I believe this new equipment will resolve our odor problems in Waldwick, Ho-Ho-Kus and Ridgewood, local residents must actively participate in this system's testing and evaluation process to ensure our air quality needs are

The NJDEPE will be keeping a special log during the odor control trial. This log will be used to correlate residents' odor complaints and the operation of the authority's air scrubbers.

If you smell noxious odors, call in a complaint. You must give your name, phone, address and be available to sign a complaint when the air pollution enforcement officer verifies the odor. (Note: It may take a halfhour for an officer to respond.)

From 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday call 599-6108. This is the County of Bergen Department of Health

Other hours and weekends, call (609) 292-7172. This is the NJDEPE hot line.

If you have an odor problem luring this time period, check with your neighbors and have them also call. It takes three complaints, from different people, for an officer to be sent out during these hours and days.

By JAMES HICKEY Of the Suburban News

WALDWICK- A problem dealing with the reconstruction of Waldwick Avenue has been reported to the borough council.

According to Charles DiMarco, a senior associate with Vollmer Associates who are handling the reconstruction project, the problem centers around the a clay base under mation would cause the life expectancy of the rebuilt road to

> The problem that he outlined to the council is that water would seep underground and moisten the clay.

"With the clay being so close to the asphalt, in this instance, the clay would cause the potholes in the street," said DiMarco.

He said that instead of the project lasting for 20 years, the area in question would only be in good condition for 10 years, DiMarco said to correct the problem, a drainage system would have to be built under the clay and a synthetic fabric placed between the clay and the asphalt.

The cost of the project would be an additional $25,000 to the borough. The break down in cost he detailed to the council would be $21,000 for the drainage pipe and $4,000 for the synthetic cover.

He also stressed to the council that they did not necessarily have to correct the problem, but he merely wanted to bring it to their attention to see if they approved the corrective action.

The council was skeptical of the need for the additional work. Councilwoman Denise Anderson asked if removing the clay was an option or if putting sand on the clay, which is commonly used with lawns that have a clay base, would be better for the borough and cost DiMarco estimated it would cost $80,000 to remove the clay and refill the area with soil. Sand, he reasoned, would not be favorable because it would not alleviate the drainage problem, which he said was his main concern.

Councilman James Gibson and Edwin Sherman cited engineering concerns with the project and felt that there was not a need for it while Anderson asked "Where are we going to get the money?" while casting her nay vote.

The council decided to pass on the project by a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Arthur Barthold being the lone dissenter.

The council also heard a presentation from Peter Black, of Goodkind O'Dea, on the Whites Ponds Dam project.

He informed the council that the project would cost the borough $30,000 to conform to DEPE standards.

The borough was pleased to hear the amount because when the project first came before the council, the price tag on the dam was in the $250,000 neigh-

But Mayor Rick Vander Wende cited the efforts of Boswell McClave Engineering to reclassify the dam from a Class I to a Class III dam. This resulted in the price reduction.

The plan, if approved by the DEPE, would begin some time in the fall. Black told the council that he had been working closely with the DEPE and thought that the proposal would pass.

Contract settled

Editor, The Record:

I am responding to the April 27 Letter to the Editor that encourages the Waldwick Board of Education to settle the teacher contract now!

Please be advised that the Waldwick Education Association and the Waldwick Board of Education have agreed upon a three-year teacher contract settlement that was approved at our March 28 board meeting.

Unfortunately, the letter that appeared was outdated and I do not want the community to think that negotiations have not come to a resolution.

The Board of Education worked very hard during negotiations to bring about a fair and equitable settlement for both parties. We have a difficult task of providing a quality education program with a limited amount of state aid. We also have a responsibility to the community to present a school budget that is reasonable and responsible.

I feel the passage of our school budget on April 19 by the voters of Waldwick indicates that we have support in our community for our schools.

Paul E. Cottrell president, Waldwick Board of Education

Taxes up after state takes refund back

By PAT TADDEO

WALDWICK - At a public hearing on the municipal budget on Tuesday, Financial and Administrative Committee spokesperson Denise Andersen gave an overview.

"The good news is that the budget is $30,000 under last year's. The bad news is that the government cut the refund from the franchise and gross receipts tax, which had gone back to the municipalities," she said.

Mayor Rick Vande Wende said, "The $30,000 is a cut in spending. The council's goal was to have a zero tax increase.

Over the year we did achieve it but several days after achieving it, we had to raise the taxes.

There is a four-point tax in-

Resident Shirley Feldman of the Waldwick Taxpayers Association asked if the borough had asked the state to review the budget to see if there are any other areas they could save on. She said that on a home assessed at $180,000, the taxes will be somewhere in the range of $4,700 a year.

"We know the town better than they do," said Mayor Vande Wende. "I have no faith in the state at this moment though I would not rule out doing this next year."

Ex-Mayor Larry Williams asked, "Why are we losing a tremendous amount of dollars in state aid?"

"It's not just the governor but it's also the legislature backing out on their word. I always felt the gross receipt tax was ours and now they're saying it's unlikely we'll be getting any of it back." replied Vande Wende.

The budget could not be approved until the county budget comes out on May 18.

Harry DeSonia of 35 Sycamore Drive complained about a large hole on Birch Lane. Recently, DeSonia said he was driving and noticed a little boy who fell in the hole and couldn't get out. He said he helped the boy out of the hole. "I just want somebody to check it out and fix it."

The mayor said he would make it a priority to get it done. Finally, Glen Veltman, of 81

Hudson Ave. spoke on the ro-dent problem. "I'm speaking on behalf of our neighbors. We would like to thank you for your efforts in taking care of the problem. In the past three weeks we have not had a single sighting. I can even let my kids in the yard again."

County tourney berths pursued

By JIM McCONVILLE

With the cutoff for the state tournament having passed on Friday, there is one more deadline for local baseball teams, that being the cutoff for the Bergen County tournament that will start next weekend.

The local nines will be well represented in the 16-team field, and with the new rule this year stating that any team with a winning percentage over .600 automatically qualifies, there are teams guaranteed spots already.

Waldwick, with its stellar 21-0 record, is a lock and could very well be the top seed. The Warriors, with Mark DeMenna's 11 home runs and Rich Parks' .400 plus average, are an awesome offensive team that has 24 team homers. Tom Hayes (7-0) and Mike Branagh (5-0) lead a pitching staff that is deep and can stand the rigors of a schedule crunch in late Another team in the field is Pascack Hills, now 15-5 after a fourgame losing streak likely cost them the top seed. The Cowboys are led by Andrew Mariniello's 6 roundtrippers and the hitting and pitching of Brett Hawken, who is 6-0 on the mound and has four homers. Their 7-0 win over Ramsey on Thursday gives PH some momentum heading into the post-season run.

A slow start had some wondering, but Bergen Catholic has won five of its last six games to reach 11-5 and a certain berth in the tourney. Matt Parisi, Rob Halder and John Foerch have been the hot bats lately, while Rob Moore has won five games in a row since an opening day loss.

The Jekyll-and-Hyde award goes to Ramsey, which began 6-0, then went 1-6 before putting up a sevengame winning streak prior to the Hills loss to reach 14-7 and garner its spot in the tourney. Charlie Gonzalez has been a consistent power hitter, with five doubles, four triples and four home runs so far, while Roger Iorio (4-1), Ken Kupfrian (3-0) and Chris Schucht (4-2) lead the pitching

Emerson has earned its way in with a 15-3 record paced by Armen Simonian's 7-1 mound mark and .500 plus average. Bob Waananen and Kevin Batista are also hot at the plate in recent games.

A number of other local teams have a chance to make the field, including last year's runnerup, Paramus Catholic, which is 13-7 entering the weekend. Don Bosco (11-7), St. Joseph (11-7), River Dell (11-7), Westwood (118), Glen Rock (10-7), Fair Lawn (11-8) and Paramus (11-8) are all on the bubble, needing wins in a pair of games before the final cutoff to have

Among the notable players for these teams are Bosco's Dan Boublil (42 pitching, 11 extra base hits), the Cutters' Dan Boniface (5-1, .400 plus average) and Tony Hodum (4 HRs) Nick Bell of GR (6-1, 2 HRs), Justin Loughran of the Spartans (8 RBI in last three games), Brett Sawyer o RD (10 extra base hits including HRs), Joe Zeccardi (8-0, 9 doubles, homers, .600 average) of St. Joe's and Westwood's Sean Falk (13 extra base hits, 5 HRs).

In a season of parity, even Waldwick's undefeated record does not make them a clear-cut favorite, and the tournament is bound to be the most wide-open affair in recent memory.

Hurting for state buck$

Loss of traditional funding may necessitate tax increase

By JAMES HICKEY Of The Suburban News

WALDWICK- The borough council presented its operating budget to Waldwick residents with the expected results: both sides expressing great displeasure with state govern-

The council's unhappiness concerns state funds that will be withheld, thereby forcing the borough council to raise taxes to accommodate their projected budget. Obviously, this did not sit well with residents.

The session began with an opening comment from Councilwoman Denise Anderson, chairperson of the Financial and Adminstration Subcommittee of the borough council.

She told those attending that there was some "good news." The council had shaved $30,000 from the budget's proposed expenditures.

cuts were from the spending side of the ledger and would not affect services paid for by residents' tax dollars.

But, Anderson added, in spite of the fact that the borough had cut spending and been under the 2.5 percent cap limit, the borough would have to raise taxes to make up for the monies usually forthcoming each year from Trenton. This shortfall will necessitate a four percent tax increase in the borough.

The state funds that are being withheld are supplemental, franchise and gross receipts taxes totaling $257,680 which the borough was counting on to meet its budget projections.

"The cost to the average taxpayer will be $72 per household," said Anderson.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende explained that as mayor one of his goals had been to present a zero percent tax increase to meet the budget.

"And we had this ac-complished," until the tax receipts were not returned by the state, Vander Wende commented.

While the council also receives grant money, for example the updating of police computer equipment, those funds must be processed through the budget. This would indicate an increase in spending but, in reality, the funds were donated to the municipality, Vander Wende said.

But the council could not hide its displeasure with Trenton throughout the meeting. When the council was asked if it would consider having its budget looked over by the state, for free, to see if spending could be reduced, the mayor replied, "No...because I have no real faith with the people in Tren-

He said that he had talked to state representatives from the area and the chief of staff for Gov. Christie Whitman in the hope of getting the funds restored, but he was not optimistic that this would happen.

Councilman James Gibson expressed his discontent over losing state funds, saying that it was "unconscionable" for the state to be withholding them.

"It's not right that they hold up munciplities' funds so that they can cover the budget for the whole state," Gibson stated.

The council was unable to vote on passing the local budget because it must wait for Bergen County (which is scheduled for May 18) and the state to pass their respective budgets, Vander Wende said.

No school is perfect

Editor, The Record:

I would like to respond to the letter of April 13 by Lindsay Russin concerning Catholic schools. Obviously she is feeling quite bitter toward the school her child attends. On the surface it sounds like the main criteria is money.

Having five children of my own in various schools I feel it is safe to say that no school is perfect, Catholic or public. Both types of schools are constantly asking for money, your time, and/or your help. You as a parent are expected to support your child's school.
If you send your child to a Catholic school, it is usually by choice. Certain requirements are expected to be met by the parents. These expectations are not a hidden surprise presented to you after your child is enrolled. (tuition criteria, helping with Bingo, etc.)

Considering the problems our schools have today, a school that tries teach moral and spiritual values is worth every penny it costs to send your child there. The money you spend is well spent to keep the school open. It is not a contribution to the individual parish church. The reverse is true. The church has to give a specific amount to the school each year.

HO-HO-KUS - A truck driver was killed during Wednesday morning's rush hour when he lost control of his vehicle and smashed into a concrete sound barrier on Route 17 south, police said.

The Record pays tribute to 74 athletes

By BOB KURLAND 5-20-90

Staff Writer EAST RUTHERFORD Record's annual Athlete of the Week Dinner honored 74 winners and their parents Thursday night at The Landmark II.

Every week during the school year, two athletes - one from Bergen County and one from Passaic/Morris - are selected for their accomplishments in the preceding week. What they did in previous weeks has no baring on the award.

Some go on to earn All-County honors, while others return from their great highlight week to be contributing members of

The lone winner of two AOW awards was Ridgewood's Jenna Rogers, who earned the honor last June for capturing the Eastern States 3,000-meter test and again in the fall for cross-country.

Each recipient was honored individualand presented with a portrait done by Charlie McGill, plus a smaller version encased in Lucite as a paper weight.

The highlight of the program was the presentation of the Al Del Greco Memorial Award to Kim Eickhorst of Northern Highlands. The award is named in honor of The Record's longtime sports editor who was a great advocate of scholastic horst overwhelmingly fit the following guidelines:

"A student who has demonstrated leadership, sportsmanship, and citizenship, and who has made a significant contribution to scholastic athletics.'

In addition to a plaque with her portrait on it, Eickhorst was presented with a $1,000 scholarship check by sports editor Gabe Buonauro.

Eickhorst was a second-team All-Bergen County field hockey player and also played basketball. And in the classroom she carries a 4.34 grade-point average.

The guest speaker was former Knicks great Willis Reed, now the vice presidentgeneral manager of the New Jersey Nets. The guests were welcomed by Glenn Ritt, editor of The Record.

Since the spring season is still under-way, recipients of the AOW award over the next few weeks will be honored at next; year's dinner.

Some of last spring's winners are per-forming in college. Northern Valley at Demarest's Alex Hayden is pitching for Penn, Garfield slugger Kevin Montelbano played for Fairleigh Dickinson, and soft-ball pitcher Michele Harding of West Milford had a successful first year at Kutzstown State.

And Hackensack's Darius Pemberton set a Tennessee long jump record of 26 feet, 4½ inches. He will compete in the NCAA championships.

It's decision week - coaches must decide whether they have the pitching to go after the Bergen County or State baseball championships, or attempt to win both.

On Tuesday night the Bergen tourney will extend bids. This year, the committee will automatically include teams with .650 records but not necessarily in the 16-team field. It could decide to put those clubs into an out bracket.

into an out bracket.

If that's the case, a team could conceivably play Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, including State games.

The tournament gets underway at Emerson and Northern Valley at Demarest on Saturday. And, for the first time since Emerson won it in 1981, a small school has a great chance to win it.

There's no dominant big school, with Group 1 Waldwick (23-0) showing the best record in the County. If the Warriors defeat Pompton Lakes today, they could

Since the big schools aren't shoo-ins it becomes very difficult to predict a field. Take the top four teams in each poll and you have half the field. After that it's anyone's guess, especially with the usually powerful Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League having an off-year.

WALDWICK - Unbeaten Waldwick wraps up its regular season this afternoon against Midland Park after surviving a 12-8 victory over Pompton Lakes on Monday in a Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League baseball game.

"I don't know what it is, but ev-ery time we play them it's an ugly game," said Warriors coach Steve Konde.

It was an accurate description, as the Warriors picked up their 24th victory with the help of 12 walks, a hit batsman, two errors, and poor defense by Pompton.

The Cardinals outfield handed the home team three runs in the first inning, and starter Jack Curran (3-3) issued four straight walks in the third to increase the Waldwick lead to 5-1.

Pompton's Jade Kendall smashed a two-run homer in the fourth, but the Warriors scored six times in their half off reliever Ja-son Mulvihill.

"I'm just happy the way my kids battled back with the bats, Pompton coach Dennis Arnold. "And they did it against a great team."

The Cardinals (14-6) banged around starter Tom Hayes (8-0). They scored three times in the fifth with the help of two errors, and in the sixth, Chris Dyer hit a two-run homer into the centerfield screen.

Mike Branagh was brought in to thwart the comeback.

"Hayes wasn't able to get his curve over for strikes," said curve over for strikes," said Konde, "and that might be because he hasn't pitched in a week and a half. The pre-game plan was to bring in Branagh to pitch the seventh inning to get him ready for our State opener.

He'll start Thursday against Palisades Park in the second round of the Group 1 competition.

While there was some erratic play in the field, Waldwick's outstanding utility player, Parks, proved to be the steadying influence at second base. Twice he shut down potentially big innings.

In the third he spoiled a double steal by stepping in front of second and firing to the plate to get the runner for the third out.

And in the fourth, the Cards had two runs in and a man on second when Jim Donahue launched a one-out scorcher that seemed headed for the outfield. But Parks went as high as he could to glove the liner and stepped on second to end the threat.

"He's our most knowledgable infielder," said Konde. "That's his fifth game at second, he played one at short, four at first base, with the rest as the DH."

BETH BALBIERZ/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHE Jade Kendall of Pompton Lakes circles the bases after homering.

It'll be interesting to see where he plays in the tournaments.

Celebrating its 75th year, Waldwick has been through it all

By PAUL J. TOOMEY

steam-engine locomotive ripping through time into the present is the symbol of Waldwick's 75th anniversary celebration.

At is fitting because it was dur-ing the late 19th century — with the railroad providing jobs and commercial development — that Waldwick, a "sleepy railroad hamlet" known as New Prospect, grew and prospered, said Kay Williams, president of the Waldwick Historical Society.

The borough was named after its first railroad depot, which was built in 1886 at the urging of a citizens' committee headed by Orvil Victor, for whom Orvil Township was named. Prior to 1886, the Erie Railroad simply tossed sacks of mail off the train once a month.

The depot was named after Waldwick Cottage, a local colonial farm owned by the family of Theodosia Provost. Waldwick Cottage was where she married Aaron Burr. "Wald" came from the German spelling for woods, and "wick" for light; together, they mean a "light in the woods." The Waldwick rail yard, em-ploying 50 men, had a signal tower that remains the largest railroad tower in Bergen County. It remained in use until 1988, when it was replaced by comput-

Mahwah poet Joyce Kilmer im-mortalized Waldwick by mentioning the borough in a poem about railroads, "The Twelve-Forty-Five," and one of the first moving pictures ever shot was of an Erie train going through Waldwick. In 1852, Waldwick (New Prospect) was part of Franklin Township, one of nine in Bergen County at the time. But in 1885, it split off with Allendale, Ho-Ho-Kus, Saddle River, and Upper Saddle River to form Orvil Township.

By 1894, the move toward home rule was under way and Al-lendale, Saddle River, and Upper Saddle River formed their own boroughs. In 1908, Ho-Ho-Kus also broke away from Orvil Township, claiming that Waldwick students were getting better textbooks.

In 1919, a local state legislator, Edgar DeYoe, had a measure passed to change Orvil's form of government from a township to a borough, and Waldwick, population 1,300, was born in the process. John W. Quackenbush was elected its first mayor on Oct.

The drawing of the train, the historic depot, and signal tower by local artist Andrea Mistretta now adorns T-shirts, hats, sweatshirts, and posters as part of the borough's Diamond Jubilee.

The celebration was officially kicked off last October with a golf outing, and continued in April with a flea market. The borough has also scheduled a series of events for the rest of the year, including a parade, an end-of-summer festival with a steam-engine train ride into the country, music, fireworks, and a gala ball in Oc-

The parade, scheduled for Sat-urday, June 4 at noon, will wind one mile through the center of town, said parade committee chairman Jim O'Connell. He said he expects "thousands" of town residents from every club, athlet-ic team, and civic organization will be participating.

There also will be floats, pets in costume, decorated bicycles, antique cars, and "creative vehicles." The Bergen County mounted police are also slated to march. The reviewing stand will be in front of the municipal building on East Prospect Avenue.

Jubilee organizers have selected Josephine Lupo, 84, to serve as parade grand marshal, said town clerk Paula LaPorta Jaegge, a jubilee committee member. Lupo, the mother of Waldwick Police Chief Daniel Lupo, is the oldest living borough resident; she's lived in town her whole life.

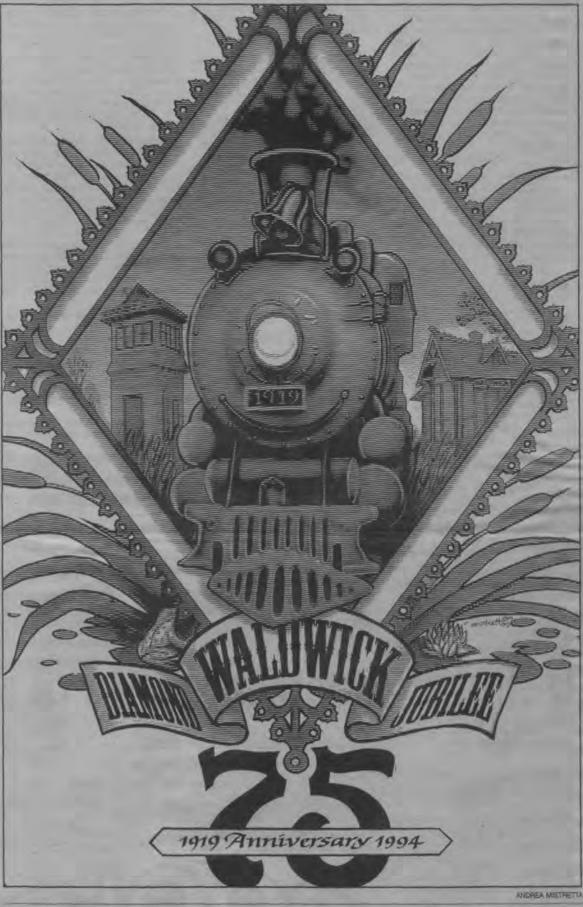

Jaegge said merchants will hold sidewalk sales on the day of the parade and offer giveaways. Children will be able to "spacewalk" in a giant air bubble, take pony rides, and visit a pet-

She said a map showing the locations of all merchants in town will also be available for $3.

Organizers have also secured from the Newark Museum the famous oil painting of the "Old Erie Station/Waldwick" created by James Wilfrid Kerr in 1943. It will be hung in the Waldwick Public Library, next to the mu-nicipal building, until the end of

A daylong celebration is also slated for Saturday, Sept. 24, featuring a steam-engine train ride along the Erie Lackawanna Railroad Line from Waldwick to Har-

The gala ball will be held in late November at the Fiesta in Wood-Ridge, said O'Connell, Tickets will likely be $50 a person, and be sold at merchant counters.

A new hardcover, 52-page history book of the borough, "Waldwick Then & Now," is being published by the Waldwick Historical Society for release on the day of the parade.

The new edition replaces "Our Neighborhood," written by Julia A. Traphagen in 1953. Traphagen, who died in 1969, was a teacher and librarian for 50 years. An elementary school was dedicated in her name in 1957.

Jubilee history committee member Virginia C. Lambert said a number of interesting facts were discovered in researching the book.

For instance, Waldwick was the retirement home of notorious horse thief Jeremiah Storms, who, after serving 20 years in the state penitentiary in Trenton, was trampled to death by a stampede of horses in 1897.

The borough also elected a dead mayor, and was invaded by pigs on May 13, 1962, when 400 sows being readied for market in nearby Wyckoff escaped and headed downhill to the intersection of Wyckoff and Crescent avenues. A few years later the Wyckoff pig farm became the Bergen County

Wildlife Center, Lambert said. Republican Nathaniel T. Bogdanove was campaigning for may-or when he died on Oct. 26, 1971, too late for his name to be removed from the ballot. He still managed to beat Democrat Francis X. Herbert by about 200 votes.

Waldwick Then & Now is being sold for $10, and about 2,000 copies have been printed. For more information, call library director J. David Kamykoski at

Trees posing a problem

Council ponders replacements following Waldwick Avenue reconstruction project

By JAMES HICKEY Of The Suburban News

WALDWICK- The topic of environmental renewal versus long-term care of borough infrastructure came under debate at the last Waldwick borough council work session.

The problem centers around two homeowners who have requested that the borough replace trees that were lost during the reconstruction project on Waldwick Avenue.

The borough decided that planting replacement trees between the sidewalk and street could conceiveably lead to sidewalk damage in years to come. Instead, they would offer residents replacement trees for their front lawns, if the setback were large enough.

The current problem stems from the two homeowners wanting replacement trees at the curb since that there is little room in their front yards.

According to Kratz, both houses have a deck that takes up most of the homeowners front lawn, leaving one home with about six feet avaiable to plant a tree and the other yard with only two to three feet available.

The road project claimed a total of 51 trees along Waldwick Avenue. The borough sent out letters to residents to see how many wanted the trees replaced. According to Kratz, only four residents asked that a tree contract that the borough has with Tomaro Contractors, the company in charge of the road reconstruction, calls for all the trees to be replaced with sugar maples.

"This is the tree that we have historically used in the past when replacing trees in the borough," said Kratz when quizzed on the choice of the maple.

The reason the borough is reluctant to put the trees where the two residents prefer is that

The council discussed some options in dealing with the problem. One involved making the residents sign a waiver absolving the borough of any future financial obligations if a problem arose. Another suggestion examined was to have a "credit-for-credit" payback for obtaining another tree that could be placed between the sidewalk and the street.

sugar maple roots in time would uproot the sidewalk.

The council decided against both options. The council felt signing any waiver would not make much difference since the root problem would not appear for another 30-40 years, when premusably, neither the residents nor any council members would be there to handle the problem.

The "credit-for-credit" solution was dismissed because of the fear that the cost would become too extravgant for the borough.

"Instead of just having to replace six trees, we may wind up having to replace 51 trees,' stated Councilman Arthur Barthold.

Councilwoman Denise Anderson asked that from now on the borough should look into replacing trees with ones that have deep roots so that this type of problem does not occur in the future.

The council then directed Kratz to inform the two residents that the council had vetoed the idea of placing a tree between the road and the sidewalk.

In other news, the borough adminstrator reminded borough residents that there would be a change in the recycling pick-up that will go into effect in the coming weeks.

In the past, recycled materials were picked up on the first and third Wednesdays of the month. In accordance with a new contract, the recycling will be picked up on every other Wednesday, starting June 1.

The 36th annual Bergen County baseball tournament could be the wildest, because there doesn't appear to be a dominant team. The only sure prediction is that the team with the most pitching should win. Most of the field also is competing in the State tourna-

Enough is enough

There has been considerable amount of discussion both in your paper and our community regarding the proposed Recrea-tion Center for Waldwick. While I applaud the mayor's efforts in trying to help our children, the fact of the matter is that the taxpayers of our town can't afford an additional $450,000 of indebtedness in 1994.

During the last year of Demo-crat Rich Bradley's tenure as finance chairman (1991), Bradley established a limit on yearly capital expenditures not to exceeed $400,000. The financial discipline was forgotten with the election of Republican Mayor Vande Wende and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Anderson, as finance chairperson. Since 1992, capital spending has increased each year and in 1994 the current budget capital budget calls for $709,400 of new debt. Add the almost halfmillion for the recreation center as a separate bond issue and Waldwick faces close to $1,250,000 that must be borrowed.

The hard working people of Waldwick have all felt the severity of a bad economy and the impact of additional tax increases. It's time to take a step back, catch our breaths and say "enough is enough."

Council mulls shared services BY PATTADDED 5-22-94

WALDWICK - The council discussed the possibility of the Waldwick Board of Education participating in certain joint ventures with the town.

By doing so, council members agreed there would be a substantial amount of money saved

Councilman Arthur Barthold suggested shared garbage pickups and facilities as some of the services the two town governing groups could share.

For example, the school could oben up their multi-purpose rooms on rainy days for public use. The town already allows the board of education to use the compost site free of charge to dispose of grass clippings and fallen leaves.

In other business, the removal of trees on Waldwick Avenue was discussed.

Fifty-one people had re-quested the town remove the trees from the property in front of their homes.

After the trees were removed, six homes requested that the town replant the trees. The trees the town chose are Sugar Maples. This particular tree has a shallow root system which eventually will uproot the sidewalk, according to Barthold.

In the past, the town required residents to sign a waiver which pardoned the town of any responsibility for fixing the sidewalk because of such uprooting.

The waiver system will stay in effect.

'Great Oaks from little acorns...'

The environmental studies program in the Waldwick Schools has an additional "hands-on" component this year as a result of a $500 grant to the Waldwick Education Foundation from the National Tree Trust.

Waldwick is the first school district in New Jersey to receive a grant through the Trust's Growing Together program.

On April 21, after an introductory presentation on the importance of forests and the care of seedlings, every Waldwick third grade student planted an acorn and will monitor its growth.

In June, with the help of Webelo scouts working on a forestry badge, the 121 students will transplant their red oak seedlings on school grounds and at other community locations.

Through the efforts of Waldwick Education foundation member Kenneth Gardner, who secured the grant, the National Tree Trust provided grow boxes and a growth chart for each student.

The New Jersey Division on Forests donated the acorns to grow the state tree and Home Hardware in Waldwick contributed the potting soil.

Before the tree planting program was implemented, representatives from Project Learning Tree, a national environmental education program, provided free in-service training to all Waldwick third grade teachers, including information on appropriate curriculum-related activities on forest ecology and environmental science.

In addition, Westvaco Corporation, a major forest product company, donated videos to the schools on the growth and harvesting of trees and on converting paper into various products.

The National Tree Trust is a non-profit corporation which encourages and assists in the planting of trees and the preserving of the nation's natural resources and environments.

Its goals in support of community tree planting are outlined in the America the Beautiful Act passed by Congress in 1990.

The Trust's Growing Together program forms partnerships with schools and non-profit volunteer groups to educate and involve children in tree planting so they can "grow together" in knowledge of the importance of trees and develop a sense of stewardship.

A representative from the state Division of Forests helps Crescent School third graders Michele Wood and Jennifer Langan plant acorns as part of their environemntal studies program.

American Legion post celebrates

WALDWICK — The men and women of Walter Nightengale Post No. 57 of the American Legion are now taking part in a diamond Jubilee Celebration.

Since 1919, The American Legion has been conducting programs that benefit communities across the nation from nearly 16,000 local posts.

Post No. 57 was formed in Waldwick in 1927 by a number of local veterans and one of its early programs was the organization and starting of the Waldwick American Legion Volunteer Ambulance Corps. (W.A.L.V.A.C.), with a devotion to the residents of Waldwick.

The membership of the post served, trained and maintained the ambulance corps for 22 years before relinquishing it to the town as a necessity due to the demands of services.

Over the years the post has continued to focus on the needs of veterans in Waldwick with an active service officer providing much to all veterans, financing delegates to the very successful civics programs—American Legion Boys State and American Legion Boys Nation.

"In the past year we have sent delegates to Boys State at Rider College, presented Eagle Scout awards, certificates and medals to several boy scouts from the surrounding towns, as well as within Waldwick, honored our local policeman, fireman, and citizen of the year, initiated and followed through with the bronze memorial for our deceased veterans of Waldwick at the monument location at the borough hall," said John E. Lyons, commander of Post No. 57, of the post's many accomplishments during the past year.

"The American Legion is responsible for what many consider the most significant piece of our social legislation passed in the 20th century," Lyons added, referring to the G.I. Bill which provided many members of the post with educational benefits and homes.

Through the next year, the membership of Post No. 57 will take time to reflect on the strong traditions of The American Legion. Special activities are planned for Memorial Day, as well as the upcoming parade and celebration of the 75th Diamond Anniversary of both the town of Waldwick and The American Legion, 1919-1994.

The primary event will be the displaying of the float depicting all the varied programs and activities that the post sponsors. This will set the focus for all the other events planned for the rest of the year.

Improvements qualify for tax break, according to new Waldwick measure

WALDWICK - The council passed an ordinance that entitles residents who are adding or fixing up their homes to a tax exemption.

The first $15,000 of the full value of the improvements will be exempt.

The ordinance will go into effect in January and the exemption will be available for five years after.

"I think it's demeaning to enact this on the people of Waldwick. Why should I have to subsidize for someone who had a deck or other fixing done to their home. How am I going to benefit from this?" asked for-mer Mayor Frank McKenna. You think this will be good for Waldwick? ... Instead of passing this ordinance, why not lower the permit cost on such jobs as fixing a fence or a sidewalk?"

Coucilman Jim Gibson said, "It's a voluntary program. Anyone interested would have to qualify for this by bringing the receipts in and then the tax assesor would have to go and "I don't think it's an insult. If people need help then they come in and we can help them and also help the community.' Gibson added.

"I believe the people of Waldwick do receive a benefit whenever someone improves their home," said Mayor Rick Vande Wende.

"The community at large benefits from this," said Councilwoman Denise Andersen. "The more attractive a home becomes the more attractive the community becomes and this keeps property values up.'

"This is not a taxabatement this is a tax deferral." said Gibson. "In other countries they reward the person who takes care of his home, here we penalize them."

It was explained that the ordinance didn't just cover pools or decks but also kitchens, baths, and living rooms.

In other business, the council voted to pass the 1994 municipal budget.

WALDWICK 5-36-94

The Borough Council has adopted a 1994 budget of $7.86 million, down slightly from last year's $7.89 million. The tax levy is up 9.5 percent to $3.67 million from $3.35 million last year. The tax rate for municipal purposes is also up, 4 cents per $100 dollars of assessed valuation, meaning property taxes on a home assessed at $180,000 would increase by $72.

Waldwick is the top draw in county baseball tourney

5-29-94

By JIM McCONVILLE

Having completed the regular season with a perfect 25-0 record, the Waldwick baseball team will now look to continue its run in the post-season, having started Friday in the state tournament against Palisades Park and Saturday in the county tournament.

The Warriors were awarded the top seed for the first time ever in this year's county tournament and will open with the winner of the Palisades Park-Paramus Catholic game, an out-bracket matchup to decide the final spot in the 16-team neid.

Five other local nines were selected for the tourney, with Emerson (21-4) being installed as the third seed and Bergen Catholic (15-6) slotted as the fifth seed.

Ramsey (17-9) was named the seveth seed, while Don Bosco (16-8), Pascack Hills (18-7) and St. Joseph (16-8) will also participate. River Dell, Fair Lawn, Glen Rock and Westwood were not chosen by the selection committee.

Waldwick will likely go with Mike Branagh (6-0) in its firstround game and Tom Hayes (8-0) in the quarterfinals against the winner of the Demarest-Don Bosco game.

Mark DeMenna has been one of the most prolific players in Bergen County this season with a county-leading 13 home runs. The support cast includes Rich Parks, who has been steady both with the bat and in the field, where he has played three different infield positions. Add in the recent power hitting of Jay Bain and Mike Raia along with the consistent batting of Doug Sneyers and R.J. Giordano, and the Warriors present a nightmare for any opposing pitcher.

The key to beating Waldwick lies in keeping their hitters at bay and taking the game to the late innings, where the Warriors have rarely been tested.

Don Bosco and Demarest could make that happen, as both teams have shown strong pitching that can shut down opposing hitters. Bosco, winners of six of its last seven games, will likely try to dethrone the defending champion Norsemen with either Dan Boublis (5-3) or Trevor Mendelsohn (3-1) on the mound. Mendelsohn owns a nohitter in May, while Boublis is a power pitcher who has had a 14-strikeout effort this year.

Emerson will go with either Armen Simonian (8-2) or John Tortorella (5-1) against Cliffside Park in the first round. Simonian is also an offensive threat with a .480 average and five homers. Bob Waananen has 12 doubles and Kevin Batista nine doubles in the strong Cavo batting order that has taken Emerson to 11 wins in its last 12 games.

Another team on a roll is Bergen Catholic, winners of nine of its last 11 games. Rob Moore has won seven straight decisions after a season-opening loss and could get the call in the opener with Pascack Hills in a game that will feature the pitching and defense of BC versus the high-powered Cowboy hitters.

John Penatello has been leading the Crusader hitter in recent games, while Rob Halder will need a big tournament for Bergen to have a legitimate chance at winning. Mike Gesner broke out with a home run in his last game and is another key ingredient for the Crusaders.

Pascack Hills will likely counter with Brett Hawken (6-1) or Jason Frenz (7-2) on the hill. The Cowboys feature the hitting of Andrew Mariniello (7 home runs, one in the last 14 games) and Mike Frezza (4 homers, 2 in the last four games). Both average in the .400 hitting range and can carry the team.

Ramsey has concluded its regular season and was also eliminated in the state play, so this tournament is its last hurrah

County Home Run King — The offensive talents of Waldwick senior Mark DeMenna will be showcased in the county tournament this weekend. The Warriors' leadoff hitter leads Bergen County in home runs (13); runs-batted-in (52) and runs scored (61) while hitting .625 (55-for-88). The lettlielder has hit safely in all of Waldwick's 25 games, with 16 multiple-hit ones. DeMenna has nine doubles and four triples and has been walked 23 times while striking out just four times. The speedster has 36 stolen bases, while his on-base average is .745 and his slugging percentage an incredible 1.460. (Photo by Anthony Vassallo)

DEMAREST - Go ahead, make Paramus Catholic play an outbracket game on the road to earn a berth in the Bergen County baseball tournament. Then if the Paladins win, match them against the unbeaten No. 1 seed.

Now watch Paramus Catholic win the outbracket game. Now watch as right-hander Casey McGuire teaches that unbeaten and No. 1 seed a lesson for the second consecutive year. Now listen to Paladins coach Ed Bertolini.

"I think everybody in the county respects us, but I don't think the tournament selection committee respects us," Bertolini said after PC humbled Waldwick, 15-2, Saturday at Northern Valley at Dem-

Bertolini said the same last sea-son after PC beat host Park Ridge to earn the 16th and final seed in the tournament, then knocked off unbeaten and top-seeded Rutherford, 5-0, before advancing to the

ry over 13th-seeded Ridgefield. The final game of the day was suspended because of darkness after five innings with St. Joseph leading Northern Valley at Old Tappan, 3-2. It will be completed this morning at 10 o'clock.

Waldwick (26-1) taught McGuire a lesson in the first inning, then McGuire did the teaching over the the next six innings en route to a three-hitter with 10 strikeouts.

In the first inning, McGuire learned that the Warriors are a disciplined bunch of grinders who don't need a hit to score. With the help of an inning-opening error, two walks, and a fielder's choice, the Warriors scored a run.

After the first inning, though, McGuire recognized that the best way to neutralize Waldwick was to throw plenty of strikes, even when ahead in the count. He threw his fastball early to get ahead, then mixed in his curve.

McGuire owned every Warrior except senior left fielder and lead-off hitter Mark DeMenna. In the third, DeMenna ripped a fullcount triple to center field. He led off the seventh with a home run over the right-field fence. Nevertheless, McGuire drove in as many runs as he allowed. In the first inning, his one-out, oppositefield double down the right-field line drove in the Paladins' first two runs, and they led 3-0 before Waldwick came to bat.

Paramus Catholic sent Waldwick reeling with a seven-run sixth inning to open a 12-1 lead.

"In Waldwick, we've experienced multiple offers on homes within the first 24 hours," said Tom Johnson of Liberty 100

"Low interest rates created a rush in sales, especially with first time buyers," Johnson said.

In the past six months, mortgage interest rates bottomed out to 6.75 percent for a 30-year fixed rate which translated to a $648.59 payment per month on $100,000 of mortgage money.

"The average sale price of a home in Waldwick is currently $190,845 offering first time buyers an excellent opportunity to pursue the American Dream," said Johnson.

Calls for $15,000 exemption for improvements to house, property

By JAMES HICKEY 6-1-90 of The Suburban News

WALDWICK— A limited tax exemption on residential property for certain improvements was unanimously approved by the Waldwick borough council at their recent public meeting.

The legislation adopted by the council calls for an exemption of the first $15,000 of home improvement work done on a house in the borough. Covered under the new ordinance are one- or two-family homes with work being done on accessory buildings located on the same property and on any part of the land on which the home is built.

The improvements, as defined in the new statute, mean "moderization, rehabilitation, renovation, alteration or repair which produces a physical change in the existing building or structure and does not change its permitted use."

Improvements must be made to houses 20 years or older to qualify for the $15,000 exemption that will extend over a period of five years.

Following the five-year period, the value of the improvements shall be added to the assessment of the house.

No exemption shall be granted unless a written application is filed with, and approved by, the borough assessor. Every application must be filed with the assessor within 30 days following the completion of the improvement.

The granting of an exemption will be recorded and then made a permanent part of the borough's official tax records. With this, even if the house is sold by the owner, the tax exemption status remains with the house until the fifth year anniversary is reached.

The exemption of property taxes provided by this new law applies to property taxes levied by school boards and county and municipal governments

Councilman James Gibson said the council felt this bill would continue the revitalization of the community which has experienced growth over the last couple of years.

PLEASE SEE COUNCIL, PAGE 36 .

"With interest rates going up, this will act as a mechanism for residents in the community to continue to improve their homes," Gibson said.

He stressed that this ordiandce would not come into effect until tax year 1995, but that he had already received positive feedback from the community.

"I had a couple tell me that they were going to do renovations on their kitchen but were now going to wait until 1995 when this ordinance comes into effect," Gibson said. He said that people on fixed incomes have complained about rising taxes. They complain thay can't afford to do these type improvements. Now thay have an avenue to have the work done on their home.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende commented that he and Gibson had heard from people on the 1992 campaign trail that they needed tax relief.

Vander Wende felt that this was a step in the right direction and that, in the long run, the whole community would benefit.

Gibson also said that the U.S. tax system punishes those who make improvements to their homes, whereas Europeans are rewarded for fixing their homes. He felt that this new tax law would help the people in the community and hopefully encourge residents to invest in the community.

One councilman was skeptical that this would work, even though he had voted for the new law.

"I don't think it will work, but I am not going to stand in the public's way for some tax relief," said Councilman Arthur Barthold.

Waldwick is still a great place to live

Waldwick was chosen early in our lustrated by many changes in the country's history as a fine place to live. Easy access was the key to its growth. It was the Saddle River and the Ho-Ho-Kus Brook which provided both access to its fertile land and sustenance for the area's first recorded residents - the Lenni-Lange Indians. Much later it was the highway and railroad that spurred Waldwick's growth. Today, Waldwick is characterized as predominantly a single-famliy, commuting town.

The railroad has probably had the most important influence upon Waldwick's development. Some suggest that it was the early locomotive that gave birth to the name Waldwick, meaning "light in the forest." In the early 1900s, Waldwick was a bustling freight yard. Most of its residents were employed by the Erie. Today it is the railroad that divides the borough almost equally in half and controls east-west access to the town's central business area.

The long and varied historical development of Waldwick is il-area near the intersection of Franklin Turnpike and Prospect Street. First, as the site of an Indian camp, the center of Waldwick was the hub of activity for members of the Lenni-Lenape Indian tribe. Next as part of New Barbados Township, which was formed in 1709, it was farmland for the Dutch and English farmers who first settled in his area. When General George Washington's troops passed through New Jersey during the Revolutionary War, it was part of Franklin Township (incorporated 1772) and provided a campground for his weary soldiers. Later it was the site of the first schoolhouse and now it is part of the central business district.

Numerous name changes for the area now known as the Borough of Waldwick resulted from the rapid growth of this area. It formerly was part of Ho-Ho-Kus Township, Orvil Township, and the Borough of Orvil. When the Erie Railroad established its depot and freight yards, the Township Committee changed its name to the Borough of Waldwick.

Boro of Waldwick: How it came to be

Until about 1600, the area that is now Waldwick was a wooded wilderness sparsely populated by the Lenni Lenape Indians who occupied small camps along Ho-Ho-Kus, Sprout Brooks and the Saddle River. A large Indian camp was located where Genovese Drugs stands today at the intersection of Franklin Turnpike and East Prospect Street. The first recorded land grant in our immediate area was to Henry Hopper around 1700. He received 700 acres including most of modern-day Waldwick and Ho-Ho-Kus. Another early settler was Johannes Aries Ackerman, who according to an original deed dated 1773, owned all the land from Franklin Turnpike to the Saddle River and from Prospect Street to somewhere in Ho-Ho-Kus. His descendants still live on the last bit of that land on Rustic Drive.

No battles were fought here during the Revolution, but during the period in 1778 when General George Washington had his headquarters in the Ho-Ho-Kus Inn; his troops camped along Franklin Turnpike and along the Saddle River.

By 1790 all the land here was owned and farmed by just a few families. There was only one real road (now Franklin

Turnpike) which followed an old Indian trail and became a stage coach route. A local stop for the stage coach was the La Rue Tavern, later the Bamper House, which stood where Center Drugs is today. Cotton and grist mills, lumber and paper mills were built on the Ho-Ho-Kus Brook during the early part of the 19th century. The completion of the railroad in 1848 brought easy access to the markets of New York and Paterson for farm and mill products. It also brought new people. The town also became known as a summer resort. People from New York came on the train and stayed in local guest houses, enjoying fishing, swimming, boating and country air. By the 1880s the population of what was then called New Prospect (part of Hoppertown) grew to 500 and a depot was built in 1886. It was called Waldwick Depot after the Rosencrantz house which had been called "Waldwick Cottage" before it was renamed the Hermitage. That first year there were 20 daily commuters. A few years later a train yard and signal tower were added and Waldwick functioned as a northern terminus. The area around the R.R. depot became the main business district and many of the buildings dating from that time (turn of the 20th century) still remain. From 1912 until 1929 a trolley also ran through

Sizable floods occured on the Ho-Ho-Kus Brook and the Saddle River in 1839, 1843 and 1858, and a very bad flood in 1886 washed away mills on the brook. A flood in 1904 finished all the mills on the brook except the Ho-Ho-Kus Bleachery. A factory building still stands on West Prospect Street, which has housed many businesses over the last century and is still in use.

The first school was located on the N.W. corner of East Prospect Street and Franklin Turnpike around 1890, and consisted of one room. A larger building was built on the same spot in 1894. That was replaced in 1940 by the building on West Prospect Street which is now the Berkley College of Business. Traphagen Elementary School was built in 1957 and Crescent Elementary School in 1968. The Waldwick Jr. Sr. High School opened in 1963.

Principal Frank Workman had opened the school library to the public in the 1930s, and in 1941 the first public library opened in the basement of the Waldwick School on W. Prospect Street. In 1956 the Waldwick Public Library was built and has been expanded three times.

By 1919, when the Borough of Waldwick came into being, the population was almost 1,300. There were 70 commuters using the trains daily. Farmland had given way to housing on smaller lots around the center of town. The real building boom started after World War II, and housing developments spread over most of the farmland in the east and west ends of Waldwick.

In 1907 a Volunteer Fire Department was organized. There are two fire stations today, and the department is still manned by volunteers. The Police Department was organized in 1953. A marshal system was used prior to that time. The Waldwick Volunteer Ambulance Corps started in 1951.

Today Waldwick is an up-to-date suburb which still retains its small town ambiance. People tend to know their neighbors and are interested in town problems and solutions. Many social and civic organizations are active, and schools and sports for the children benefit from volunteer sup-

By PAUL J. TOOMEY Staff Writer

Patrons of the Northwest Bergen Multi-Purpose Center for senior citizens in Midland Park breathed easier on Wednesday, when the county linked the center's new fire alarm system to a rescue agency after a 10-month delay.

"I have more peace of mind now, knowing we're not going to roast," said Dora McLaughlin, 80, a center regular.

McLaughlin and the others who use the center learned last week that the alarm system wasn't hooked up to anything when an overheated toaster triggered the alarm and no fire-fighters responded.

"It could have been a sad episode," said Francis Catrambone, 71, of Waldwick. "The county was very negligent."

The center is the largest of 20 overseen by the county's Division of Aging, a branch of the Department of Human Services. It is visited daily by about 70 senior citizens from 13 municipalities, and as many as 200 gather for special events that occur several times a month, said Ginny MacIsaac, the center's director. Patrons, some of them wheelchair-bound, range in age from 65 to 100, she said.

Quentin W. Wiest II, the county public works director, said Wednesday that work crews from the T&R Alarm System, Inc. of Wallington installed a digital communicator in the 100-year-old former church building at 45 Center St., and had run several tests confirming that it functioned properly.

The digital communicator transmits a signal through telephone lines to a computerized monitoring service that is staffed around the clock, said Tom Sansone, T&R president.

Should a fire alarm sound, he said, the service would dispatch firefighters.

He said the new system also will detect malfunctions in the building's electrical wiring. It has a self-monitoring feature that will tell if the fire alarms are in working order.

Sansone said the equipment cost $250. But he added that the county will have to pay $40 a month to maintain the monitoring services.

Wiest turned to T&R which also monitors the Bergen County Courthouse in Hackensack and school buildings throughout the county - after published reports Tuesday said that the $16,000 local alarm installed in August at the center was not connected to any rescue agency. A local alarm simply alerts building occupants to smoke or fire.

Accepting responsibility for the delay, Wiest said he selected the monitoring service after several attempts to install a less reliable tape-dialer had failed. The tape-dialer, had it been properly installed, would have sent a pre-recorded message to the Bergen County Police Department, he said.

With Midland Park Mayor Faith Walker standing by Wednesday, MacIsaac announced to a lunchtime group of about 40 that the alarms had been fixed.

Walker said it took the "power of the press" to get county officials to correct a situation that could have jeopardized

Harriet Hup, 76, of Midland Park, wondered why it was so hard to get action in an election

"Where are the big shots like Mr. [County Executive William "Pat"] Schuber when you need them?" she said. "The county was not alert on this one."

'Puts a horror movie to shame'

Editor, The Record:

Your articles on juvenile justice have to get the attention of all our law agencies. I hope the series will bring about a major change in the dilapidated system we see today. Your report puts a horror movie to shame. It's unbelievable that this travesty of justice has continued for these many years without anyone it was going on.

Congratulations to the reporters, photographers, and editors of The Record for bringing this sick mess out in the open. I thank you and I'm sure the public as well thanks you and appreciates your effort in this matter.

Waldwick to participate in academic tournament

WALDWICK - Waldwick High School will be participating in the 1994 American Academic Challenge Invitational Tournament at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville, Tennessee. It is an honor to be chosen to compete in this national tournament which will take place June 11 through 15.

Students will be involved in adacemic competitions as well as leadership training seminars. One of the many qualifications for invitation to the American Academic Challenge is that students submit a "Give Back to America" essay in which they identify a need at their school or in their community, and as a team propose a solution to that need.

If they complete their project and submit documentation to AAC, they become eligible for the "Give Back to America" scholarship. Winners of the tournament will also receive awards, prizes and scholar-

Emerson slams Waldwick

By GREG MATTURA 6 494

TEANECK - Armen Simonian ripped a liner into left-center field that looked to be a sure extra-base hit, maybe even a home run. When Simonian rounded first, he glanced toward the outfield and was stunned when an umpire signaled he was out.

Waldwick senior left fielder Mark De-Menna had made a full-speed, over-theshoulder catch - as good as you'll see on any level - five feet short of the 360-foot sign to rob the Emerson senior of a run-scoring hit in the third inning.

His next time up, Simonian smoked a line drive far enough that DeMenna would have had to run through the 15foot-high fence at Fairleigh Dickinson University and into the parking lot to make the catch.

"I felt like I was on top of the world, because the pressure was on and I came through," Simonian said of a fourthinning grand slam that lifted Emerson to a 9-6 victory Friday and a third consecutive Group 1, Section 1 champion-

With the bases loaded, two out, and a full count, Simonian pulled a belt-high fastball over the fence in left to give Emerson a 7-3 lead. As he rounded the bases, the usually reserved Simonian waved his arms in the air in celebration.

"That's why he's 'The Man'," said Emerson coach Bob Carcich. "And, as he rounded third base, I told him "That's why you're "The Man.'"

"I was relaxed, and I hit the ball hard; I wasn't trying to hit it out of the park," said Simonian, who is better known for his pitching. "I knew the game wasn't over, but I sure felt great.'

In a 3-hour, 10-minute grindfest in which a majority of the runs were scored via walks and bloop hits, Simonian's blast changed the game's complexion. It enabled Emerson (24-5) to relax and forced Waldwick (27-2) into needing a big inning to come back.

Emerson junior right-hander Kevin Batista kept the Warriors from that big inning. He tossed 5% innings of threerun ball to earn the win. His fastball and curve weren't dominating, but they didn't have to be. All he had to do was throw strikes. He allowed six hits, three walks, and struck out six.

"I knew when he [Batista] came in he was going to keep the ball over the plate, and he did," said Carcich.

Prior to Simonian's grand slam, Emerson used walks to score its first three runs. Three Waldwick pitchers issued a combined 13 walks.

Emerson left fielder Damon Giaritta opened the game with a walk and later scored on a balk. In the second inning, center fielder Eric Ayala walked and later scored on a single by designated hitter Alex Hormechea. Third baseman Steve Takla led off the third with a walk and later scored on a bloop single to right-center by shortstop Bob Waananen.

Waldwick also benefited from walks early on. DeMenna led off the first with a walk and scored on a single through the left side by Jay Bain to tie it, 1-1. In the second, Devin DeMarco walked and later scored on a bases-loaded walk to second baseman Rich Parks. Later in the inning, third baseman Mike Raia was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded to force in a run and give the Warriors a

For those who prefer hits over walks, Simonian's blast was an eye-opener. He was behind in the count, 1-2, then took two high fastballs to create the full count. He expected the payoff pitch to be another fastball.

"Every time the pitcher [Tom Hayes] shook off the catcher, his next pitch was a fastball," said Simonian. "He shook him off."

And Simonian ripped a 360-footer into the parking lot.

Branagh hurls two wins for Waldwick in states

Raia collects 2 home runs, 9 RBIs

By BRIAN FARRELL

As cool as a bright harvest moon, Mike Branagh, who goes by the nickname "Moon", kept his Waldwick High School baseball team in the sunlight of the Group 1, Section 1 state tournament last week by pitching two victories that placed the Warriors in Friday's sectional final against Emerson.

The 6-foot-4, 175-pound junior raised his record to 8-0 by first blanking Palisades Park, 7-0, May 27 and then containing Pompton Lakes, 14-7, Tuesday by yielding just four total runs (three earned) in 6.1 innings of work.

Fueling the Warriors offensively was third baseman. Mike Raia, who drove in nine of those 21 runs, five of them on two home runs.

Against Palisades Park, Branagh scattered seven hits (six of them singles) over seven innings in hurling his third shutout of the season. He walked two and struck out four.

"I didn't think Mike was sharp as usual, but he showed how good of a pitcher he is by pitching a shutout," said Waldwick coach Steve Konde. "But whenever there is a big game, Mike wants the ball because he's a true competitor. He's been outstanding for us all year."

And it was the defense behind Branagh that assisted in preserving the shutout.

"They did have 11 baserunners in the game, but we played very sharp, defensively," Konde noted. "It was probably one of our sharpest games of the year."

Three plays in particular each ended an inning and kept the Warriors moving briskly in the middle portion of the game.

In the third, Mike Peluso, on a hit to deep center, slightly over-ran second base, and, as Doug Sneyers was firing a strike to shortstop R.J. Giordano, he tried to slide back in. However, an alert Giordano tagged him out.

In the fourth, a swiftly-executed Giordano-to-Richie Parks-to Jason Bain double play was the highlight.

Then, in the fifth, it was Sneyers, using the tailback-wide receiver speed that made him an explosive threat in football, who stepped in, or, rather, dived in to preserve the shutour of Branagh, who was Sneyers' quarterback.

With the bases loaded of Tigers, Sneyers, playing deep, saw a screaming liner heading his way. The drive was sinking and Sneyers, in full gear, made a nice diving catch to end the threat and the inning.

"Those were three defensive plays that really took away any momentum Palisades Park could have gained," Konde noted.

And now to Waldwick's more famous "Lumber Company", with a little touch of aluminum thrown in.

In the bottom of the third, the Warriors, leading 1-0, tanked up on the swing of Raia, who clouted a three-run homer over the right-center fence. One batter later, Jason Bain, launched a rocket to straightaway center that landed on the roof of the first house nearest the fence.

"And I think the wind was blowing in at that time," said Konde of Bain's fastball crush.

On the productivity of Raia, Konde said: "Mike has good swing mechanics, and he knows the strike zone very well. He's been an excellent number-three hitter for us."

Through 28 games, Raia was batting .430 with four doubles, four triples, three home runs and 35 runs-batted-in. He had scored 44 runs and stolen 22 bases. His 31 walks this season and his 69 career walks have established single-season and career records at Waldwick.

Against Pompton Lakes, the Warriors defeated the Cardinals for the third time this year, using two-run homers by Raia, Sneyers, Marion Falco and Dave Bernal to pin Pompton into submission.

The round-tripper by Sneyers, who stole three bases, was of the the inside-the-park variety. The senior drilled a pitch into spacious leftfield, near the line, and once again used his speed to score without a play.

With a 9-1 lead entering the top of the sixth, Konde pulled Branagh and put him at first base. But Pompton, facing Bain and then Mark DeMenna, scored three times and had the bases loaded with two out. So Konde brought Branagh back to the mound from where he induced the number-three hitter to fly out to Bernal in right.

In 6.1 innings, Branagh yielded eight hits and one walk, which was intentional, while striking out four.

"Moon is a true competitor," Konde said. "His work ethic, mechanics and ability to focus on the task at hand has improved tremendously since last

Little to complain about

To the editor: 6 8-84 The New Jersey Educational Association (NJEA) has launched a campaign against Governor Whitman and her proposed reform of the public employee health and benefit system. A barrage of letters from teachers complaining of their "hardship" has been published daily in various newspapers. One of the latest letters was from Paula Criqui which appeared in the May 18 issue of Suburban News.

Mrs. Criqui stated her concern that the governor's proposed budget will provide "less security" for her pension and "less opportunity" for school children. Opposed to the borrowing of surplus funds from state employee health benefits and pension funds, she wrote: "We all know what the proposed budget may mean to the state: bankruptcy." She failed to address the fact that generous increases in teacher salaries and benefits have already been bleeding the educational system and bankrupting communities. In the 1994-95 school year, 42 of the 91 Waldwick full-time tenured teachers will receive salaries between $73,050 and $75,020. During recent contract negotiations in Waldwick, teachers displayed their "dedication" and concern for the children's "opportunity" by conducting a number of job actions that directly affected students. Teachers called in sick; they refused to assign children homework; they withheld progress reports and after school help.

In her letter, Mrs. Criqui identified herself as "a school employee." Both she and her husband are employed as teachers in the Waldwick school district. Their combined salaries plus stipends for the 182 day, 1993-94 school year was $130,660. This will increase by 5.7 percent during 1994-5. In addition, although the average per pupil cost in Waldwick is $10,000, the Criquis, who are not residents of Waldwick, are permitted to send their child to a Waldwick school (of their choice) free of

While over 800,000 people in the state of New Jersey have no access to health insurance, Mrs. Criqui and her husband are among a number of "doubledipper" public employees who receive a duplication of publicly paid health benefits. The taxpayers of Waldwick paid $17,500 for health insurance for the Criquis during the current school year.

It appears as though Paula Criqui has little to complain about. Although she considers teaching to be "hard" work, she only works for 182 days each year and has 183 days to rest. It even appears as though their combined salaries qualify her family as one of the "richer residents in the state" that she inexplicably complained will be given a "big income tax break" in Governor Whitman's budget. The question is, like so many other teachers in this NJEAorchestrated campaign, why is she whining?

Cost of repaving way up over bid

BYPATTADDEO 6-9-94 WALDWICK - During a work session on Tuesday, the council got bad news about the cost of repaying Maple

Berge Tombalakian, a representative for the borough engineer firm of Boswell and McClave, stated the cost for the project will be $105,000. Initially, they had quoted a price of $75,000.

Tombalakian explained that the road needs to be completly reconstructed in certain areas and that if they just repayed the road, they would have the same problem two years from now.

Councilman Art Barthold ques-tioned the drastic increase. "When Boswell did look at the road, didn't they take this into consideration?"

Waldwick had applied for a DOT grant from the state to cover the cost of the initial sum. They had received the grant to pave the road.

Strawberry Social is scheduled at church

Church of Waldwick.

There will be homemade pound cake or biscuits, topped with vanilla ice cream and strawberries.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, and take out orders will be available.

Cost

"Our professional (Boswell) came in and said you can spend $75,000 and now they come back in and say no, it's $105,000. If we knew this and it was done right from the begining there wouldn't be a problem because we would've applied for a grant for $105,000 and not $75,000." said Barthold.

Another question was building new curbs. Mayor Rick Vander Wende said they had asked the residents of Maple Avenue if they wanted to be assessed for the curbs and the residents said before bringing the issue before a public session, the engineer will go back to Boswell and write up a new proposal excluding the cost of the curbs.

Another issue was 120 curb cuts that have to be done around Waldwick in order to provide barrier free access to the sidewalk for the handicapped. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $90,000. The main problem in putting in the curb cuts is that it will open up a sort of bicycle freeway. Instead of the children riding to the curb, stopping, rolling off the curb to the street and then crossing, these bikers will be able to zip right through intersections without stopping. The obvious concern is that these young children may seriously hurt.

Last night the borough held the primary elections. Councilpersons Jim Gibson and Denise Andersen did not run for re-election. On the Democratic ticket. candidate Scott Stahlman and candidate William Branagh each received 105 votes. Republican write-ins Toolen and Kathy James Pender received 22 and 21 votes respectively.

Both Gibson and Andersen were not able to run again due to increased personal responsibilities. Jim Gibson will be relocating to Houston and Denise Andersen has taken on more travel responsibilities with her job.

Offender responsible for Haz/Mat cleanup costs

Of The Suburban News 6-8-94

WALDWICK-A proposed ordinance introduced at the last Waldwick Council meeting would establish a policy for reimbursing the borough for any costs incurred in the cleanup of a hazardous materials spill within the community.

The stated purpose in the proposed statute is reimbursement for use of equipment, manpower, supplies or money expended for the control of any hazardous discharge.

One key component of the plan is the definition of "hazardous materials" and "discharge" in the ordinance that the borough would enforce.

The council has defined hazardous materials as any material, whether solid, liquid or gas, listed as such according to various federal guidelines including those of the Department of Transportation, the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Clean Water Act or any list of toxic pollutants designated by the U.S. Congress or the EPA pursuant to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

Discharge is defined as any intentional or unintentional acin accordance with state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) laws, borough attorney tion or omission resulting in the releasing, spilling, leaking, pumping, pouring, emitting, emptying or dumping of hazardous substances, sewage or sewage sludge into the waters, air or land (public or private) in the borough.

It would force code violators (ranging from an individual homeowner to a private company/enterprise) to reimburse the borough for the wages (including overtime) and any benefit costs paid to borough employees as a result the incident.

The deadline for the payment would be 30 days after receiving statement totaling the amount required in reimbursement. A request for an appeal hearing before the borough council must be made within ten days of receiving the damage assessment.

The proposed ordinance also states that the individual person/entity is liable for attorney's fees and costs incurred in the collection of the costs.

Any violator who fails to reimburse the borough within the alloted time can be fined up to $500 per day or be put into jail for up to six months.

When questioned by Ken Gardner, a member of the borough's Clean Air Coalition, if the law would actually work Menelaos Toskos and Councilman James Gibson, who cowrote the ordinance, felt that it would.

Toskos told Gardner he felt this ordinance was well within the guidelines of the Environmental Rights Act and would stand up.

When informed by Gardner that he had talked to the state dner was asking for. DEPE and that officials there did not think this ordinance would work, Gardner asked that the borough plug into the the process that the DEPE has

Gibson reiterated that he felt that the proposed ordinance would accomplish what Gar-

After further prodding on this issue by Gardner, Mayor Rick Vander Wende said that the council would consider the suggestion in their next executive session.

The reimbursement ordinance will be voted on at the next public session on June 14.

Mary-Ellen Devine is wed to Christopher Fine

Mary-Ellen Devine became the bride of Christopher Fine in a double ring ceremony April 9 in Our Lady of the Visitation Church in Paramus, Monsignor LoBianco officiated.

A reception followed at the Tides in North Haledon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Devine of Paramus.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fine of Waldwick, formerly of Ridge-

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Colleen Devine, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Loretta Conway, also a sister of the bride, Mary O'Hara, cousin of the bride from Ireland, and Kathy Cornella. Junior bridesmaids were Katheryn Wilke, niece of the bride and Patricia O'Hara, also a cousin of the bride from Ire-

Rodney Meek served as best man. Ushers were Chuck Goss. Alex Ricart, nephew of the groom, Mitch Lobou, and Jason Wilke, nephew of the bride. Ring bearer was Jimmy Meek.

Mrs. Devine, a graduate of Ridgewood High School, is a watch operating engineer with Johnson Controls.

Disappointment

I read with disappointment Mr. Stahlman's letter criticizing my record as mayor. While he enjoyed four years in a taxpayer-paid political patronage job in Hackensack, I have been active in Waldwick improving the public properties and infrastructure so neglected during his term of office.

It is unfortunate that he does not believe that fire engines, paved streets, park facilities or safe public buildings are necessary capital improve-

As a gentleman, I find Mr. Stahlman's personal attacks, and my need to respond, sad. It is my sincere hope that his brand of partisan political rhetoric is not typical of the campaign he plans to conduct. This strategy served him well while running Jim Florio's campaign, but the people of Waldwick don't appreciate dirty negative politics.

Waldwick K of C 'chips in' for students

By BRIAN FARRELL
Three Waldwick residents who will be graduating from high school this year will each receive a $500 scholarship, thanks to the efforts of the Waldwick Knights of Columbus, St. Luke's Council

The K of C staged its third annual Frank Durando Scholarship Golf Outing May 23 at the Darlington Golf Club in Mahwah, as 118 golfers hit the links. Through donations from sponsors, local merchants and families and from the proceeds from raffling door prizes at the dinner that followed the outing, the K of C raised $3,150 to put into the scholarship fund.

"We now have a very strong foundation for the scholarship fund," said Hank Wynne, chairman of the golf outing. "In the event we discontinue the golf outing, which I extremely doubt, we still have enough money to continue the scholarship program for three more years.

Last year, the Waldwick Knights raised $2,840 to put into the fund, and three $500 scholarships were awarded. In 1992, the outing's first year, $2,000 was raised, but no scholarships were given, for a good reason.

"We did it that way to guarantee that we would have the money to award scholarships in the following years," Wynne said.

A committee from the Knights of Columbus reviews the applications from Waldwick residents who are applying for one of the three scholarships. The committee is chaired by Ken Vehrkens, the academic advisor, who is Dean of Edward Williams College of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

The late Frank Durando, after whom the scholarship is named, was an active member of the St. Luke's Council, including serving a term as grand knight.

There is another avenue of student assistance that Wynne says the K of C is planning.

"It would be a student emergency fund," Wynne said. "We would help a college student who is undergoing extreme family hardship. We're trying to come up with some ground rules."

At the outing, Jay Stafford, retired Waldwick police sergeant, once again videotaped and photographed the golfers in action. The video was shown that night at the K of C-hall, and the pictures are displayed at Gil's.

"I personally want to thank Angela and the other people at the Darlington Golf Club for the great job they did for us," said Grand Knight Mickey Fearon. "The course was immaculate. I also want to thank Hank Wynne for running the outing and all the people who participated in it. They are the ones who made it happen. Also, I thank the cooks in our kitchen, Al Scheidler and Jim Gordon, and our bartender, Don Hughes."

Wynne, who was assisted by Fearon and Don Meyer, added, "I want to thank Stan Biernacki and Joe Perino for checking all the golfers in and Larry Williams for his assistance. And I thank Mark McGuire for his very generous support."

Those sponsoring a hole and supporting the fund were Mary Durando, widow of Frank Durando, the Scavone family, Home Hardware, Nellie's Place, Mickey and Debbie Fearon, Hank and Margaret Wynne, St. Luke's, Stoker Travel (New City, N.Y.), Gil's Bar & Liquors, Fairleigh Dickinson University, Don and Eileen Meyer (in honor of uncle Marty), the Dick Dahlin family (in honor of Frank Durando), Plaza Jewelry, Waldwick Pharmacy, Feeney Funeral Home, Sequoia Lawn Care, Barthold Home Improvement, Citizens First National Bank (Waldwick branch), Flowers by Joan of Waldwick, Midtown Security of New York City and Dr. Allan Zwillinger

(Mickey Fearon's dentist). Making donations were Sister Margaret O'Donnell and Sister Mary O'Donnell, who are relatives of the Durando family, Chick Manzo, Jeff and Pat Wadman, Charlie and Mary

The Dean and The Professor — Tom Swanzey (left), professor of English at Edward Williams College of FDU, shows Ken Vehrkens, dean of the college, exactly where he hit the golf ball on the green that netted him a birdie, namely an eagle.

Ann Tyls, the Tacconi family, Kevin and Michele Kenny, Jim and Alice O'Neill, Clem and Ellen Gallahue, Jim and Cathy Foley, Tom and Gertrude Kadien, Robert Smith and family, Bob Duffy and family, Milt Judas, Dr. Adrian, DDS, of Waldwick, Mr. Egalberque, Sr., Don Senft, Waldwick Deli, Hudson City Savings, Eugene McAvoy, Joe DeFlora, Broderick's Florist and Grand Union of Waldwick.

Wynne looks forward to planning next year's outing. He has the time to give, since he took retirement five years ago from Sheet Metal Workers Union, Local 28, in New York City.

He began his apprenticeship in the union in 1948 before serving in the Navy for four years (1951-55), including in the Korean Conflict. He spent time on two aircraft carriers the Coral Sea (No. 43) and the USS Hancock (No. 19). After returning to the union, Wynne became a worker, mechanic, foreman and then a supervisor.

Wynne said that any donations the K of C receives at any time during the year will go into the scholarship fund. Checks, payable to the Frank Durando Scholarship Fund, can be mailed to St. Luke's Knights of Columbus, P.O. Box 144, Waldwick 07463.

Golden Swing — P.J. O'Connor (left) won the category, "Nearest to the Pin" at the outing. On the par-3 12th hole, P.J.'s tee shot landed nine feet from the pin. P.J., who carded a 91, then calmly sank his putt for a birdie. With him are Mickey Fearon (center), grand knight, and Kevin O'Connor, P.J.'s brother, who shot a 95.

The White Shark — Joe Perino (left), head bartender and manager of Gil's Bar & Liquors in Waldwick, stands with Hank Wynne, golf outing chairman, back at the K of C Hall. Noted the White Shark, "I finally broke 115." The Greg Norman-type hat obviously made the difference.

The Mayoral Contest — Two former mayors, Larry Williams (left) of Waldwick and Jim Moriarty of Du-mont, teamed up on the links to support the Waldwick Knights of Columbus' scholarship fund. This year, $3,150 was raised for the fund, and three more high school graduates from Waldwick will each receive a $500 grant. Both mayors, who served their respective towns during the same time period (1988-91), declined comment when asked what their scores were.

GR's Brady steps to the forefront

By BOB KURLAND 6-14-90

WOOD-RIDGE - The top high school boy athletes and coaches were honored Monday night at the Bergen County Coaches Association's annual spring All-County dinner at the Fiesta.

While family and friends were on hand to applaud the youngsters, the coaches honored their own with separate awards.

Schools also were presented The Record/BCCA Team of the Year trophies: Emerson and Tenafly for baseball; Dwight-Englewood and Ramapo for tennis; Ridgefield Park and Don Bosco Prep for track; and Bergen Catholic for golf.

Surprisingly, none of the coaches of the top teams earned Coach of the Year awards. They went to Art Brady of Glen Rock for golf; Neil McCarthy of Hasbrouck Heights for tennis; Fred McClain of Northern Valley at Demarest for track; and Steve Konde of Waldwick for base-

Brady's award is just short of amazing because he's been playing golf for only five years and two years ago resurrected the Glen Rock program after a 20-year ab-

The Panthers turned in an impressive 21-4 record this season.

"Golf came back because kids in the phys ed program became interested in it, says Brady. "It started when some would join me on the soccer field after school and hit balls. Happily the sport was put into the budget, we had a big turnout, and it's been great."

Brady took up golf after giving up soft-ball and fell in love with the game. "I've gone to many clinics, took a course management course, and lessons in Florida. I found the other coaches in the county great because they're happy to share their ideas with me."

The Panthers qualified for the districts this year and Ken MacDonald tied for third in the State competition. "It also helped that we had a good freshman, Scott Tkacz," Brady says.

STEVE KONDE, Waldwick — It's the second time around for the one-time Hackensack High outfielder, who captured the award in 1988.

This season the Warriors set a County record by winning their first 26 games and winding up with a 27-2 record.

"It was a dream team to coach," says Konde. "Anything you asked of them, they did. We expected a good year because of a lot of returnees, maybe a 20-win season. But they were successful last summer in Connie Mack, Mickey Mantle, and Sandy Koufax play."

The Warriors also enjoyed playing Konde's style of ball. "We like to be aggressive on the bases [Mark DeMenna stole 42 bases], at the plate, and in the field," he says.

Konde, who has taught in the Paramus school system for 23 years, has coached

NEIL McCARTHY, Hasbrouck Heights

"This team really surprised me," says McCarthy, whose team went from 4-11 last season to 18-4.

'Everyone helped, but two players really provided the difference. John Paul Paradisi - who was originally from here but went to live in Italy - returned to play

No. 1, and Tom Isakovich, who ran track in the past, came out for the first time and was outstanding at third singles.'

McCarthy, in his 14th year, also has coached the girls for 15 years, and has been a music teacher at the school for 31 years. "We're not really a tennis town and it has helped that we've had a JV program run by Dean Hoskin."

FRED McCLAIN, Demarest - McClain was another second-time winner of the award, with the other coming in 1982.

"We won every championship meet we entered except the State Group 3," says McClain. "We had 18 seniors, so we knew we'd be very good if we stayed away from injuries.

Obviously, the Norsemen remained healthy as they won the Northern Bergen Interscholastic League title, and the Bergen and sectional Group 3 crowns.

"I have a great group of assistant coaches, including former Demarest standouts like Mike Theuerkauf and Keith D'Amico," says McClain, who in 14 years has been known as an outstanding teacher of weight events.

To protect ourselves from tyranny

Editor, The Record:

The Second Amendment was written to give us the means to protect ourselves from tyranny. If the reader operates under the false premise that tyranny can-not happen in this country, I should remind the reader that it already has.

The examples of slavery, segregation, and the internment of Japanese-Americans into concentration camps during the Second World War prove this. If blacks were free and armed, would they have gone peacefully into slavery? If the free black man were armed, would he not fight to protect his life from the lynch mob?

Tyranny has existed, and will again exist if we allow it. The Second Amend-ment helps to prevent it: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

Maple Avenue resurfacing project may also require some reconstruction

By JAMES HICKEY

WALDWICK- A proposed resurfacing project on Maple Avenue hit a pothole when the borough engineer alerted officials of a possible infrastructure problem.

The problem surfaced when the engineer was updating the council on the proposed schedule for the Maple Avenue refor $75,000 that called for plans to resurface the street with oneand-half-inches of asphalt.

The council received a grant

But Berge Tombalakian, representing borough engineers Boswell McClave Engineering Company, informed the council that the job that was now be proposing to the council had grown to $105,000.

This grew out of a recommendation by Boswell McClave that some segments of the street should be reconstructed due to decay.

Tombalakian laid out several options to the borough council, including having the borough paying the difference over the $75,000 figure or reapply to the state to receive more money for

At that point, Mayor Rick Vander Wende wondered aloud how Maple Avenue had turned into a "$105,000 asphalt job?"

Tombalakian told the council he was worried that in two years the pavement in certain areas could buckle, and stressed that it was just certain segments of the road that needed to be reconstructed.

When pressed further on the | subject, Tombalakian said "I can't in good faith put one-anda-half inches of resurfacing on Maple Avenue because it will fall apart.

"I don't want the borough council or Boswell criticized when the project does not live up to its life expectancy," he

Vander Wende became visably agitated when told there would be some curb work done if segments of the road were reconstructed

▶ ROAD

We had asked the residents on the street if they wanted curbs and they had told us no," the mayor said.

"This project has gone way out of scope," he stated.

Councilman Arthur Barthold felt that Boswell McClave should be criticized because they had orginially set the project price at $75,000 when the borough was calling for bids and now the engineering company was coming back with different numbers and a different project scope.

Borough Adminstrator Gary Kratz defended the engineering firm, informing Barthold that the Department of Transportation and the Department of Public Works along with Boswell McClave had deemed that only a resurfacing job was needed on Maple Avenue.

Vander Wende said to Tombalakian "I understand your viewpoint... but we can't engineer this job to the max.

Tombalakin then asked the council for guidance on what he should do. It was decided that Tombalakian would try to rework project figures eliminating curb work to keep work within the limits of the grant

Malls should pay to ease traffic

Editor, The Record:

The construction of large shopping centers along our major highways has caused traffic problems. The burden has always been borne by motorists and by the taxpayers of New Jersey, in one way or another. For example, the Route 17-Route 4 debacle in Paramus.

I feel that whenever developers decide to build shopping centers, they should bear the costs for the roads and overpasses related to their projects, as well as the costs incurred after the initial development because of expansions or poor planning or engineering.

The big joke is that the state (the taxpayers) are asked to shell out $15 million to purchase the 10 acres needed for a proposed streamlining of the Route 4-Route 17 intersection. Alexander's and the Garden State Plaza businesses should give up the necessary property or pay for the acquisition of needed property for roads, ramps, overpasses, or other traffic projects. Why do the taxpayers of this state have to bear this financial burden?

Route 17 near Route 4 in Paramus.

The project is more to the retailers' benefit than it is to the taxpayers. We can always go somewhere else to shop, rather than put up with the hassle and mess at this infamous intersection. I know I do.

Should parks host drinkers?

BY PAT. TADDED 6-16-94.

WALDWICK — "To drink or not to drink;" that was the question at Tuesday's council meeting.

Several council members and some members of the audience spoke out against the council permitting people to consume alcoholic beverages in the park during picnics, parties or other private functions.

"Tam against passing permits which allows the consumption of alcohol in our parks," said Councilman William Patterson. "My intention at the next executive session will be to ask the council to discontinue this policy."

Councilman Jim Gibson backed Patterson on the decision to promote the ban of permits that allow alcohol consumption in public parks.

Shirley Feldman of 47 Rustic Drive also supported Patterson's position. "My husband and I have done surveys in Bergen County on the subject of substance abuse. The numbers of abusers have reached into the age groups of our children," she said, adding, "You gave permission to a parent to hold a graduation party where they would be serving alcohol in the borough park....shame, shame, shame,"

Resident Bill Branagh supported the permits. "I can't remember the police being called, maybe one time, for drunkenness. It's assumed whenever someone has a picnic and requests permission to serve alcohol, they will be getting drunk...I don't think people should be deprived of having an enjoyable picnic. I don't see a problem unless it has to do with insurance."

Drinkers

But Feldman differed. "We're living in a different century, Mr. Branagh. Alcohol abuse is more widespread now than before. We're not asking for prohibition, we're saying if you want a drink, drink at home,"

Henry Cole of the Waldwick Fire Department said, "We shouldn't use the word promote when all we are doing is permitting. What's next? No smoking in the park?"

Said Branagh, "Parents are suppose to guide their children. Not by staying home and having 8 to 10 beers as opposed to having a beer at a picnic."

The council agreed to discuss the matter in a work session.

Councilman Jim Gibson formally resigned and recommended that Cathy Pender replace him. "It has been a rewarding three years and it's tough to leave," said Gibson. He will be moving to Houston on the job.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said, "Jim Gibson is a hard, dedicated worker and he will be missed."

The council thanked the following individuals and businesses who made the 75th anniversary parade possible:

Home Hardware, Rohsler's Allendale Nursery, DeMartini Lumber, Waldwick Auto Service Center, Waldwick Deli, Italian Riviera, Plaza Jewelers, Morning Glow Hair Stylists, Jerry's Cleaners, Rolff Helmich, Art Barthold, Weeping Pine Nursery, Waldwick Radiator, John Mooy, Tom Tamburo, plus special thanks went to Art Ade who built the float and to Tom Fallon, president of the Golden Club of Waldwick.

School Notes

WALDWICK - As a result of a special program sponsored by Public Service Electric and Gas Company, seventh grade stu-dents at Waldwick Junior School now have a better appreciation of the connection between energy and the enviroment as well as specific recommendations to help their families use energy more efficiently.

Under the direction of PSE&G representative Mitchell Harrison, 100 stu-dents successfully completed "In Concert with the Environment," a three-session program which showed them how everyday energy conservation in-creases environmental quality and saves money.

The participants first completed an extensive home energy survey, includingdata on large and small appliance use, heating and cooling systems, lighting, family cars, and recycling habits.

Next, they processed their data through a sophisticated computer software program that generated a personal action plan.

From the ten-page customized report they learned where their families spend energy dollars, what environmental benefits they gain from implementing energy conservation recommendations such as recycling more trash, adding insulation, and substituting fluorescent for incandescent ☐ Sgt. Russ Litchult was en patrol Wednesday at 5 p.m., when he observed a motor vehicle accident on Franklin Turnpike and Wyckoff Avenue. He then noticed one of the vehicles drive away from the scene and proceed west on Wyckoff.

Litchult followed this vehicle, stopping it on Wyckoff Avenue and Lee Court. After speaking with the 52-year-old Waldwick resident, Litchult placed him under arrest for driving while intoxicated.

The man was brought into police headquarters where a breathalyzer test was administered and a reading of 17 percent blood alcohol content was obtained.

The man refused to take the second test.

Summonses were issued for careless driving, driving while intoxicated and refusing to submit to a breathalyzer test.

On Monday, June 13, at 2 p.m., Ptl. John Unger reported stopping a vehicle for an inspection violation.

After speaking to the driver, Unger discovered the driver's license had been revoked.

A routine computer check on the 21-year-old, Passaic resident showed there were three active warrants out of Passaic for his arrest.

Unger wrote summonses for failing to make repairs and driving while revoked. The suspect was also taken into custody.

Bail was set at $500 and $232 for the three warrants.

After posting bail, the man was released pending a hearing in Waldwick Municipal Court. Compiled by Pat Taddeo

6-18-94

With a list of Bergen County baseball statistics in his hand, Cresskill coach Chuck Schnabel was reflecting on the great offense the deep defenders had produced this year.

"Bergen County had one of the best groups of outfielders it's had in years,"

Whether it's contagious or coinci-dence, outfielders in Passaic County and other neighboring counties also had bountiful seasons. Many of them will be on display today at Princeton University for the annual New Jersey State Baseball Coaches Association all-star

Political lesson

Editor, The Record:

Residents attending the April 26 meeting of the Waldwick Mayor and Council were treated to a couple of lessons in the workings of the democratic process.

The first lesson demonstrates what can be accomplished when people voice their opinions and concerns on an issue. The near unanimous opposition to the development of a Community Center has sent a loud and clear message to our elected officials: "We do not need nor can we afford such an ill-advised proposal."

A second lesson deals with the attitude of our governing body. In spite of the overwhelming objections by the vast majority of a standing room only crowd, our mayor steadfastly voiced his continued and unwavering support of the project.

Not one of the council representatives expressed a desire to rethink or review their position on this matter. This is indeed a classic example of the need of a better balanced, more politically diverse form of representation. Two party systems that operate in the dark void of one party representation soon lose touch with the electorate. Eventually, it also dismisses the need of accountability for its actions to that electorate.

As a wise man once said: "Power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely.

William J. Branagh

Butler Kinnelon hand. And for many suburban school districts, cuts proposed by Governor Whitman will stand.

Under the theory that every little bit counts, local leaders welcomed the Legislature's budget proposal. But many said it would make a only small dent in their planned property tax increases.

Most of the money the Legislature is offering — $33 million — would be divided among all 567 municipalities, with larger communities getting more and smaller communities getting less. The aid could be used only to reduce property taxes.

The other $7 million is for school districts losing $14 million in desegregation aid that was eliminated under Whitman's budget. Lawmakers prefer a phaseout, cutting $7 million this year and $7 million next year.

Also, the Legislature has earmarked $4 million for North Jersey communities to defray security costs for World Cup matches at Giants Stadium.

In North Jersey, the amounts in the program, called Legislative Block Grant Property Tax Relief, range from $601,451 for Paterson to $94 for Teterboro.

"It does nothing for property tax relief," Teaneck Township Manager Gary Saage said.

Teaneck would get the most municipal aid in Bergen County—$161,471. But Saage said taxes on a township home assessed at $100,000 are due to increase about $500, or 25 tax points. The new aid will cut that by half a point.

Paterson Mayor William Pas-

Paterson Mayor William Pascrell Jr., a Democrat who is also an assemblyman, said he does not know whether he'll support the proposal.

"It can't hurt," Pascrell said.
"But in terms of inflation and the reductions in state aid we've had, we were obviously looking for a whole lot more."

Hackensack, losing nearly $2 million in school and municipal aid this year, would get $158,159 in property tax relief under the new program. In addition, $146,650 in desegregation aid would be restored.

"It is encouraging the state is recognizing we need support to stabilize taxes," said Mayor John "Jack" Zisa. "But it is a lot less coming back than what has been taken away."

Hackensack schools Superintendent Anthony Marseglia said the restoration of half the desegregation aid that was to be cut would mean the district could continue some of the multicultural pro-

The additional municipal aid also does not make up for losses in aid to densely populated municipalities, another form of help that Whitman plans to phase out. For example, Bogota loses $186,437 in density aid and gets $33,000 in property-tax relief. Bergenfield loses $421,224 and gets $104,409.

More than 50 Bergen County school districts that are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars in so-called "transition aid" get no break from the Legislature's proposal. Lawmakers were apparently fearful of angering the state Supreme Court by sending affluent districts additional funding when the courts have championed the concept of parity between urban and suburban schools.

"You'd have to be careful which districts you gave it to — especially if you gave it to wealthy areas," said Sen. John Ewing, R-Somerset, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Assemblyman John Rocco, R-Camden, had been pushing for some sort of education-aid package, but apparently his bid failed in negotiations between the Assembly and Senate. But Rocco did not walk away empty-handed.

The package has $1 million for a new "Education Excellence Initiative" — with $700,000 of that money going to Cherry Hill in Rocco's district.

It was not clear Tuesday how the $4 million for World Cup costs would be distributed. "We asked for this, we spoke about it, and I guess they recognized what we were asking for was reasonable," said Moonachie Mayor Fred Dressel, executive director of the Hackensack-Meadowlands Municipal Committee.

If approved by the full Legislature, the budget proposal goes to Whitman, who can approve it, reject it, or veto certain line items.

hand. And for many suburban school districts, cuts proposed by Governor Whitman will stand.

Under the theory that every little bit counts, local leaders welcomed the Legislature's budget proposal. But many said it would make a only small dent in their planned property tax increases.

Most of the money the Legislature is offering — $33 million — would be divided among all 567 municipalities, with larger communities getting more and smaller communities getting less. The aid could be used only to reduce property taxes.

The other $7 million is for school districts losing $14 million in desegregation aid that was eliminated under Whitman's budget. Lawmakers prefer a phaseout, cutting $7 million this year and $7 million next year.

Also, the Legislature has earmarked $4 million for North Jersey communities to defray security costs for World Cup matches at

Teaneck schools would get $365,590 in desegregation aid cuts restored, and Englewood would get

The additional municipal aid also does not make up for losses in aid to densely populated municipalities, another form of help that Whitman plans to phase out. For example, Bogota loses $186,437 in density aid and gets $33,000 in property-tax relief. Bergenfield loses $421,224 and gets $104,409. More than 50 Bergen County school districts that are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars in so-called "transition aid" get no break from the Legislature's proposal. Lawmakers were apparently fearful of angering the state Supreme Court by sending affluent districts additional funding when the courts have championed the concept of parity between urban and suburban schools.

"You'd have to be careful which districts you gave it to — especially if you gave it to wealthy areas," said Sen. John Ewing, R-Somerset, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Assemblyman John Rocco, R-Camden, had been pushing for some sort of education-aid package, but apparently his bid failed in negotiations between the Assembly and Senate. But Rocco did not walk away empty-handed.

The package has $1 million for a new "Education Excellence Initiative" — with $700,000 of that money going to Cherry Hill in Rocco's district.

It was not clear Tuesday how the $4 million for World Cup costs would be distributed. "We asked for this, we spoke about it, and I guess they recognized what we were asking for was reasonable," said Moonachie Mayor Fred Dressel, executive director of the Hack ensack-Meadowlands Municipal

Debates confinuance of issuing permits for alcohol consumption at boro site

By JAMES HICKEY

WALDWICK - A debate on the merits of allowing alcohol in Borough Park is gathering steam as the council and the public butt heads on the issue.

Spearheading the debate is Councilman William Paterson who, since he joined the council in January, has repeatedly vetoed resolutions that would allow the practice to continue. The proximate cause of the debate was a 3-2 vote to issue a permit to Patricia Leonard for a family picnic on August 6.

Paterson has voiced his disapproval in two areas: the legal liability the borough would face if an accident were to occur involving drinking and driving while leaving the park, and setting a bad example for chil-

In the past, permits have been issued to allow drinking at reunions, graduations, fire department gatherings and family picnics and other parties.

Paterson, backed by departing Councilman James Gibson, told the council, "I will continue to vote against permitting alcohol in the park ... It is against an ordinance we have and it's not right to hand out these permits.'

According to Mayor Rick Vander Wende, "I said at the last (public) meeting that we will try to get some public input

He said that at the next executive session, the council would start to discuss the finer points of the policy and review their options.

But if the elected officals are looking for a clear-cut opinion from the public, the debate the public carried on after the vote showed that there are strong feelings on both sides of the

Bob Feldman criticized some of the council member's unwillingness to change, saying that "these are different times than the 1960's and 1970's."

But other residents felt as strongly that the council should still have the option of allowing the permits.

Henry Cobb wondered where the banning of alcohol use in the park would stop. "Are you going to tell us next that we are not allowed to smoke in the park?" he asked.

He cited examples of parties that he had been involved in with the fire department where alcohol was served and where no questionable incidents oc-

Other residents urged the council to check with police before coming to a final decision to see if there is a past history of drinking problems at parties for which the council has issued a

Vander Wende said he would take that under consideration and survey public opinion before reaching a final decision.

Gibson resigns from council

By JAMES HICKEY 6-22-94

WALDWICK - The Waldwick Borough Council has accepted the resignation of one of its own.

Councilman James Gibson submitted his resignation at the council meeting last week. And, along with the resignation, he suggested the name of Kathy Pender as his replacement on the council.

Gibson cited his health as the deciding factor in tendering his resignation. He said he is moving to Houston. Since last spring, Gibson has battled malaria, a disease that will remain with him for the rest of his life. Speaking of his move to a warmer climate on a hazy, hot and humid day here, he quipped that the weather "feels good to

However, he characterized his leaving the borough after 20 years as "bittersweet."

Going through a list of 15 items, he noted his accomplishments during his service as a councilman for the last three years.

Most of the accomplishments he cited dealt with environmental concerns. Gibson has chaired the council's environmental services committee. Among the achievements he listed were acquiring a leaf tub grinder, closing the leaf compost thereby eliminating an odor problem, and upgrading the borough water system.

He implored the council to diligently keep up with the work of overseeing agencies that perform work in the borough, especially in enviromental areas.

"We just passed a law tonight that outlines our ability to retrieve money lost due to hazardous waste spills. And, in the next weeks, (the council will consider an ordinance) establishing (the position of) an environmental officer," Gibson

He will be around over the next couple of months on weekends, just to make sure the council is doing a good job, he said with his tongue firmly in

Mayor Rick Vander Wende recalled the first time he and Gibson ran for council and "got our butts kicked." He praised Gibson for the work he had done for the community, especially on the environment. He said the people in Waldwick would miss Councilman Joseph Musmeci added that the "people (of Waldwick) are better off ... due to his service.

Gibson was also praised by Shirley Feldman, president of the Waldwick Taxpayers Group and a frequent critic of government officals.

"I usually don't praise elected officals, but I wanted to thank Jim," she said.

She thanked him for being flexible to the concerns of local groups "and even though if we didn't agree, you always listen-

Feldman seemed to sum up what most observers at the meeting felt when she said, "There will be a big void to fill."

ERIK WIZEMANN, Waldwick - A second-team choice in the 100 last year, he moves in at the 400 meter spot this season. He won the 400 and was third in the 200 in the B-PSL Carpenter meet, and was second in the 400, third in the 100 and fourth in the 200 in the county Group 1. He ran a season-best 50.7 to win the sectional Group 1 400 and was third in the 100 and fourth in the 200 and was fifth in the BMOC 400. He closed the season with a sixth in the State Meet of Champions.

Alcohol permits: yes/no

By PAT TADDEO
WALDWICK — Whether or not alcohol should be allowed in borough parks was the topic of discussion at Tuesday's borough council meeting.

"I recommend we draft a survey letter and send it to the residents of Waldwick and get their feedback," suggested Mayor Rick Vander Wende.

Councilman Bill Patterson requested that private funding pay for the survey and not taxpayer dollars. A survey was recently published in a Bergen County periodical, he said, in which 81 percent of those surveyed were in support of the ban of alcoholic beverages in public parks.

He also requested that while the council is conducting this survey, they stop issuing any further permits.

When Mayor Vander Wende asked the council if they were interested in honoring the request, they were not.

"There is no interest in doing that at this time by the council so permits will be allowed to go through until further notice," announced Vander Wende.

Patterson said that he had received permit applications for alcohol consumption at a block party. "If they are going to have alcohol, why don't they put the beer and booze on one of the resident's property," he asked.

Said Councilman Joe Musumeci, "I see it as avoiding the open can law. If I serve liquor on my property, for example, and I step off my property into the street, I'd be breaking the

"I've been contacted by a lot of groups that feel there's no reason to ban this. Adults should be responsible for themselves...the block party would bring the community closer," he added.

On June 29, the mayor and council will meet in a public session with the board of education to discuss joint shared services. The meeting will be held at the Greenberg Center at the High School.

perior students. The award was presented in March.

Active in athletics, as well as highly motivated in academics, Munro, a defensive tackle, earned a varsity letter in football and has been inducted into the National Honor Society this past spring. He also is an officer in the "Murray Nuts," the RHS physical fitness team.

"Greg works hard and has the potential to become a very good football player," said Steven Hyman, Greg's football coach. "He's one of the best conditioned players on

Munro, had his early education, grades kindergarten through fifth, in a self-contained class for hearing impaired students.

Since being mainstreamed in Ramsey schools in sixth grade, Munro has had daily one-hour classes with Margaret Gorski, a resource room teacher for the hearing impaired at Traphagen School in Waldwick.

Gorski, who stays in close contact with Greg's teachers at Ramsey High School, has reinforced Greg in all academic areas, as well as in speech reading and auditory Munro much prefers mainstreaming to the early selfcontained classes.

"I'm in Ramsey, closer to my friends. Also, the work is more advanced, more challenging."

"Greg is a very positive influence on others his age and younger," said Gorski. He goes with her to talk to various classes where he tells the students, "Hearing impaired people can do anything they want to. The disability doesn't stop them."

'Hearing impaired people can do anything they want to. The disability doesn't stop them.'

— GREG MUNRO

Greg wears hearing aids which magnify "gross sounds," but do not help with speech. For speech he depends 99 percent on lip reading.

"I can't look down to take notes in class," he said, "because I will miss what the teacher says. Some teachers forget and talk with their backs to the class, but I let them get away with it sometimes.

"The biggest pain in the neck abut being deaf is in large groups like the lunchroom with several people talking at once," Greg said.

To call his friends, he uses TTY, a telephone service in which he types information to an operator who relays the message to the person he is calling. The operator types an answer to him.

Munro's favorite subject is math, although his grades in all subjects are high.

"Tm not crazy about reading. I'd rather do physical things — hockey and football. I like to move around."

Munro, the youngest in the family, has two brothers and a sister, all graduates of Ramsey High School.

"My family is blase, accepting, not worried. I'm not treated special, but being the youngest has advantages. My parents have gotten softer," Greg laughed.

His sister, Karen, 27, is a nurse in Guam where her husband works at the naval base; his oldest brother, Tom, 26, is a Navy pilot. Jamie, who is also deaf and an excellent student and athlete, will graduate from Rochester Institute of Technology this spring.

Referring to Jamie, Greg said, "Our deafness motivates us both."

Greg's future plans are set on attending Rrochester Institute of Technology where he will study "civil engineering or something in the stock market." Meanwhile, he has another year at Ramsey to continue his admirable academic and athletic achievements.

Excellence recognized

Waldwick teachers Jo Ann Leonard, left, Sherri Lange, Roberta Salsbury and Vincent Crique participated in the Governor's Convocation on Excellence in Teaching held at Princeton University to honor outstanding leachers. These four were selected by a panel of teachers, administrators, parents and other local citizens hased on exceptional contributions in the use of effective instructional techniques and methods, a productive classroom climate and rapport with students and the development of feelings of self-worth and love of learning in students.

RICH PARKS, Waldwick, DH - An arm injury in the opening game of the season moved Parks to the DH role where he batted .359 with 43 RBI on only 36

Parks, a fine defensive infielder, filled in a bit at second and third with Konde hoping the junior didn't have to make many long throws.

He also showed some good foot in stealing 14 bases and connecting for four triples and eight doubles. If his arm is OK next year, he'll demonstrate his fine glove work.

Rich Parks Waldwick Designated hitter

MARK DeMENNA, Waldwick, OF - Coach Steve Konde doesn't have to say that DeMenna is the greatest hitter in the school's history because it's a given.

The Rickey Henderson of Bergen baseball finished with a .604 batting average. His 61 hits and 68 runs scored are County records. He had 14 homers, five triples, and 10 doubles as he batted in 55 runs from the leadoff position.

Pointing up his great batting eye is that he struck out only five times.

"He's an outstanding player in every department," says Konde. "Besides his hitting and stealing 42 bases, he's a tremendous fielder." DeMenna made only one error.

Although he's leaning toward Allentown College, he's also looking at County College of Morris and Brookdale, schools that regularly produce players who enter organized baseball.

The Bergen County Board of Freeholders has approved a $460 contract to inoculate and train 20 school district workers in treatment of bloodborne diseases.

Waldwick porch aids Bergen win

By GREG MATTURA 6-28-44

WALDWICK - Rob Moore of the Bergen Crusaders said that coming to Waldwick High School and seeing that short porch in right-center can be intimidating for a pitcher.

Surrender a 290-foot fly ball to right-center in just about any other field in North Jersey and it is a routine out. Surrender the same 290-footer at Waldwick's rectangular-shaped field and it could be a grand slam.

"It is intimidating — every time you see a ball out there, you wonder, 'Is it high and long enough to go out?" Moore said after Bergen's 7-3 victory Monday over Waldwick in West Bergen/Passaic Connie Mack League baseball.

If Moore was intimidated Monday, he didn't show it. The righthander allowed two earned runs naturally, those came on a pair of home runs to right-center - eight hits, two walks, and struck out six.

Moore, a Bergen Catholic graduate who will pitch for Iona in the fall, was told by coach Rich Tandy that the key to surviving was to make the Warriors hit the ball to left field.

"We made a determination that we were going to make the lefties hit the ball to left field and make the righties hit the ball to left field," Tandy said. "We were going to keep the ball in on the righties and away from the lefties.

Moore said that while the field may have dictated his strategy, he did not allow the pressure of sur-rending a home run to consume him. Not every pitch to a righty was inside, and not every pitch to a lefty was away.

Moore remained poised after Waldwick shortstop Jay Hagedorn hit his first pitch of the second inning over the eight-foot high fence in right-center to give the Warriors a 1-0 lead. Only at Waldwick would Hagedorn's 310-foot opposite-field shot have been a homer.

Moore also remained poised after Waldwick left fielder Mark DeMenna, who hit 14 homers during the high school season and earned All-State, led off the sixth with a home run to right-center. Only at Waldwick would DeMenna's 300-foot liner have been a homer.

First baseman and cleanup hitter John Foerch gave Bergen a 2-1 lead with an opposite-field tworun homer to right-center. Like the homers by Hagedorn and De-Menna, Foerch's traveled a little more than 300 feet.

Later in the inning, after Waldwick shot itself in the foot with a two-out error, designated hitter Gary Ballabio showed that a No. 9 hitter can look like a cleanup hit-ter at Waldwick. Ballabio poked an opposite-field three-run homer to, you guessed it, right-center, to open a 5-1 lead. Ballabio's shot was less than 300 feet.

The WEA congratulates Di Petrillo and her classmates, and wishes the graduating class happiness and success.

ENERGY - As a result of a special program sponsored by Public Service Electric and Gas, seventh grade students at Waldwick Junior Schoolnow have a better appreciation of the connection between energy and the environment, as well as secific recommendations to help their families use energy more

The participants first completed an extensive home energy survey, and then processed their data through a sophisticated computer software program that generated a personal action plan.

SUBMISSIONS - The deadline for next week's column has passed. Submisisons for the July 13 column must be received by July 2.

Seeking alcohol advice

Waldwick wants to poll residents to add to council debate on issue

By JAMES HICKEY

WALDWICK - The Borough Council will poll residents to determine whether they want the practice of allowing alcohol use on public property to con-

Saying that, "since it has been brought to our attention, it is our job to look further into the matter," Mayor Rick Vander Wende suggested that an objective survey be drafted as soon as possible.

He said the tough part would be to present a survey that would be stated objectively. He suggested to the council that a draft be done as soon as possible so that the council can approve

William Councilman Paterson, who has spearheaded the campaign to try to have the permit policy abolished, said he has conducted an informal door-to-door survey and found many residents in support of his stance. Paterson said, "Why should the taxpayers pay for the mailing of the survey to each home?

Vander Wende assured him that the borough would solict an outside donation to cover the cost of the mailing.

Paterson has said the permit practice places legal liability on the borough should an accident due to drinking occur on public property. Also, public drinking sets a bad example for children, he has said.

Paterson cited a recent informal poll in a local daily newspaper showing that 81 percent of respondents supported a ban on alcohol consumption by groups or at parties on public property.

"I found that in my own informal survey the people want this practice stopped . . . I again ask the council to immediately stop issuing these permits," Paterson said council was to continue distributing the permits. Councilmen Edwin Sherman, Arthur Barthold and Joseph Musumeci thought it best to continue. The mayor deferred to them.

Paterson later objected to the proposed issuing of a alcoholconsumption permits for two block parties.

"Why do they need a keg in the street? Why can't residents just serve the alcohol on their private lawns?" he asked.

Musumeci said that what

Paterson suggested is against the law, according to the way he interprets it. He said he talked to a borough policeman who said it would be against the law if a resident crossed the street with a beer can, even at a block

"The object of the open container law is to have these situations banned. That's the way I see it," said Musumeci.

The councilman went on to say that he has been contacted by groups and individuals who want the permit-issuing practice to continue.

The council indicated that, although they have a problem with the large number of streets residents are asking to have blocked off, they would vote for the permits. Paterson would vote against the resolutions, he said.

Many share blame for Vietnam

Editor, The Record:

I would like to take issue with a letter written by Augie Deblieck Jr. titled, "Nixon unfairly blamed for Vietnam (June 12)." Deblieck claims that attacks on Nixon "showed a pitiful lack of concern for history." He blames President John F. Kennedy for starting U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Our involvement in Vietnam, however, began well before Kennedy ever came to office. In fact, you could trace our involvement in Vietnam as far back as 1945 when U.S. Merchant Marine ships were used to carry French soldiers back to re-colonize Vietnam. President Truman sent millions of dollars in military aid to the French, who were doing battle with Ho Chi Minh and his Viet Minh forces. After the French were defeated in 1954 at Dienbienphu, President Eisenhower made it the responsibility of the U.S. to prevent a communist takeover of Vietnam by Ho Chi Minh. The U.S. promptly installed its own puppet regime in the South, led by Ngo Dinh Diem. Also, Eisenhower, not Kennedy, sent over the first military advisers to assist the new Republic of Vietnam in its battle with communist insurgents, Furthermore, Eisenhower, not Kennedy, was the first president to present us with the "domino theory," which laid the groundwork for a rationale that justified increased U.S.

involvement in Vietnam.

The history of our involvement in Vietnam is far too complex to pin blame on any one president. Certainly, Kennedy increased involvement, just as Eisenhower did before him, and Johnson did after him. As for Nixon, he deserves blame for extending the war into Laos and Cambodia and for intensifying and initiating the first U.S. sustained bombings, which, according to our own CIA estimates, resulted in 600,000 deaths. They all deserve blame.

Waldwick stars pace All-Suburban nine

They set the county on fire for most of the season, setting all kinds of records, and it comes as no surprise that the Waldwick baseball team leads the way on this year's All-Suburban first team.

JIM ENGLISH, Hawthorne — After missing the first half of the season with injury, this junior came back strong and finished up the season as the top hitter for the Bears, who were 3-8 without him and 6-6 with him. He

The Warriors grabbed four of the 13 selections, as well as coach of the year honors for head man Steve Konde. Don Bosco and Indian Hills each placed two players on the team, while Fair Lawn, Midland Park, Ramapo and Ridgewood each had one representative on the seven-senior, six-junior squad.

Two players are back from last season, Mark DeMenna of Waldwick and Fair Lawn's Dan Boniface, while Jim English of Hawthorne moves in from the sophomore of the year in 1993. Glen Rock's Kevin Van Lenten was named the sophomore of the year. The player profiles:

MIKE BRANAGH, Waldwick — After a 2-5 season as a sophomore, he came back this year and led the staff with an 8-0 record and a 1.50 earned run average. "He throws the fastball, breaking ball and forkball for stikes," Konde said. "He's a true competitor." The junior threw six complete games in his nine starts and had 45 strikeouts and 19 walks in 62.2 innings. He tossed three shutouts, one against Palisades Park in the state tournament, and added two saves in his three relief appearances. Of the 52 hits he gave up, only 13 went for extra bases.

JEFF GRAHAM, Ridgewood — After missing most of last season with an injury, he came back to lead the Maroons' staff this year. His 7-4 record is deceptive in that he had a 1.85 ERA and three of the losses came by onerun margins in games that the defense let him down. He got the ball against the best opponents and owned a pair of wins over Bergen Catholic for the 12-13 Maroons. He added five doubles, three triples and a .360 batting average to the offense.

SHAWN TRACY, Midland Park — A second-team selection last year, the senior was the heart and soul of the 11-11 Panthers in 1994. Head coach Ralph Weichand called him "a fine power pitcher with effective off-speed pitches," and he posted a 7-4 record with a 2.24 ERA. He struck out 103 in 68 innings, including 17 against Mahwah, and had a 3 to 1 strikeout to walk ratio while limiting opposing batters to a .173 batting average against him. He also led the Panthers in every offensive category, hitting .375 with seven doubles, three triples and two home runs and 27 runs batted in.

RICH MICHALSKI, Don Bosco — In his first full season behind the plate, this senior did a good job of handling the pitching staff and playing solid defense. He committed only 3 errors in 190 chances and threw out 15 of 36 potential base-stealers, a 42 percent success rate. Offensively, he hit .288 with two doubles, a triple and two homers, and added 20 runs batted in. He hit a big three-run homer to fuel a 5-3 state tournament win over Immacualta in the Ironmen's surge to the Parochial A state title.

RYAN HODGSON, Ramapo — One of the big factors in the team's 11-10 mark this year, he was 28 of 67 for .418 average. His 11 walks left him at a .500 on-base average, and he stroked eight doubles, one triple and four roundtrippers to lead the team. A good-fielding First baseman, he is headed to the University of Massachusetts on a partial scholarship. Head coach Fred Conrad said, "He should hold his own against Division I pitching."

DAN BOUBLIS, Don Bosco — He capped his junior season with one of the finest pitching performances in state tournament history, throwing nine innings of four-hit shutout ball for his third win in state play. As a secondsacker, he had a .944 fielding average and hit .386 on 34 hits, with 8 doubles, six triples and 1 home run. He scored 28 runs and knocked in 20 more, and walked 27 times for a .530 or -base percentage. His mound mark was 8-3 with a 3.01 ERA and 82 strikeouts in 69.2 innings.

missing the first half of the season with injury, this junior came back strong and finished up the season as the top hitter for the Bears, who were 3-8 without him and 6-6 with him. He had two doubles, three triples and two home runs and knocked in 16 runs, and added a 22 mark on the mound, including a shutout of Don Bosco Tech in the season finale. His batting average came in around .320, and a healthy senior season could propel the Bears back over .500.

BILL GORTON, Indian Hills — This junior was one of the top offensive contributors to the Braves' 11-13 season and is an integral part in their continuing buildup for next year. He hit .347 with 25 hits and 17 runs and had five doubles, two triples and 14 runs batted in. He walked 12 times and had a .454 on base percentage. His 4-RBI game against Pascack Valley sparked a win, and he was also 1-2 on the mound in limited innings in the first half of the year.

DAN BONIFACE, Fair Lawn — A second-base choice last year, he moved to the outfield when not pitching and hit for a .506 average for the 12-13 Cutters. A four-year letter winner, he had 40 hits, with four doubles and two homers. He also had a 6-3 record on the hill with a 2.70 ERA, making him 15-9 for his career. The Dominican College-bound athlete stole 37 bases during the season and owned pitching victories over Demarest and Pascack Hills, a game in which he had a homer and three ribbies.

MARK DeMENNA, Waldwick - His season will go down as one of if not the best offensive campaigns in Bergen County and possibly state history. The speedy centerfielder was no slouch in the field, making difficult catches look easy, but his offensive numbers are astounding: 61 hits in 101 at-bats, 68 runs scored (the hits and runs are single-season county records), 10 doubles, 5 triples, 14 home runs and 55 runs batted in, all Warrior singleseason marks. He stole 42 base sin 45 tries and had an on-base percentage of .780 and a slugging percentage that borders on the impossible, 1.210.

Konde called him "The Franchise". He holds the school career marks for hits (122), runs (133), home runs (25), runs batted in (105) and is tied for doubles (17), all in 84 games over three seasons. He was named All-State by the Associated Press.

DOUG SNEYERS, Waldwick — Hitting in the number four spot in the Warrior order, he had a lot of chances for RBI and he cashed in 49 of them. He had a .404 batting average on 36 hits in 89 at bats, with eight doubles, five triples and six home runs, and the senior stole 15 bases and had 11 walks for a .470 on-base percentage. He played to a .944 fielding average despite enduring a sore ankle for most of the season. "He played with injuries that would have kept most guys out of games," Konde said. He had two 4-RBI games and ignited a state tournament win over

RICH PARKS, Waldwick - A chronic shoulder injury turned him into a designated hitter early in the year but "he took a negative situation a made something positive for himself and the teasm out of it," Konde praised. The junior finished with a .357 average on 36 hits in 101 at bats, scoring 43 runs in the second spot in the batting order. He recorded 8 doubles and 4 triples, drove in 43 runs and stole 14 bases. He added 17 walks and a team-high 7 sacrifice flies for a .450 on-base percentage. He had a five-RBI game in an early-season win over Emerson, and Konde is hoping for his return to the left side of the infield next year.

MATT KAZMIERCZAK, Indian Hills -Not only was he the offensive leader, he also became the ace of the pitching staff in the second half of the season. The junior tied the single-season record of 9 home runs and had 32 runs batted in, tops on the team and 25 percent of the entire Braves' total. He had 31 hits, 27 runs, 8 doubles and a .397 average, all team high, and added 18 walks. He had a 2-homer, 7-RBI game against Englewood and homered in four straight games at one point. KEVIN VAN LENTEN, Glen Rock — This sophomore came into the season without a sure job, but head coach Bob Edge said, "He came out of nowhere, and we knew right away that he was going to be our catcher." He went on to catch every inning for the 13-9 Rockers and batted .323 on 20 hits with a teamleading 25 runs batted in. He hit five doubles, one triple and three home runs and had a .581 slugging percentage. # Council, board brainstorm to cut Waldwick spending

WALDWICK — With state aid cuts impending, the Board of Education and the Borough Council met Wednesday for the first time to find ways to share costs, and immediately found a suggestion that could save taxpayers $30,000. Mayor Rick Vander Wende called the brainstorming session a "groundbreaking meeting" because it was the first time the board and the council met for such a purpose, although the two bodies have shared services in the past.

Times have been tough and they're only going to be getting worse in the future," Vander Wende said. "We decided to take the bull by the horns and be aggressive in finding savings for taxpayers."

Board President Paul Cottrell

The borough is expected to lose $250,000 in school aid.

said he was trying to engineer such a meeting for three years.

"With further constraints on each of our budgets, it seemed necessity was the mother of invention," Cottrell said. "It just made common sense that we try to stretch each dollar as much as we

One of the savings plans included having the borough's garbage hauler pick up for two elementary schools and the high school. Such move could save the board $15,000, said Borough Administrator Gary Kratz.

Having the board's janitorial staff clean Borough Hall and the Public Works Building would save a similar amount, Kratz said.

Other ideas to be studied: cooperating for hiring and purchasing of supplies, letting the high school graphics department handle borough printing needs, regionalizing the high school, and lobbying the legislature for further cost-cuttings, officials said.

Cottrell said drastic measures are necessary because the school board's $13 million budget is due to lose $250,000 in state foundation aid next year.

The cuts come as the district is preparing to spend $45,000 for three portable classrooms to alleviate crowding, and is looking to expand computer and satellite capabilities, Cottrell said.

When visiting baseball teams pulled into Waldwick and their coaches asked for volunteers to take the mound against the Warriors, pitchers were a little reluctant to raise their hands. You can't blame them when you realize that the first man they'd face would be Mark DeMenna, who went on a tear this year that would make Ken Griffey Jr. jeal-

DeMenna rewrote the County record books at the plate this year in leading the Warriors to a County-record 26game winning streak to open the season. He batted .604 from the leadoff position with 61 hits and 68 runs scored, both County records, while hit-ting safely in 27 of Waldwick's 29

He capped his senior season with a mind-boggling 1.210 slugging percent-age on 29 extra-base hits, including 14 homers, and drove in 55 runs while striking out only five times.

DeMenna led an extraordinarily potent lineup that included Rich Parks (.359, 43 RBI) and Doug Sneyers (.404, 49 RBI) and made the small Group 1 school one of the powers in the county this year. The Warriors went 27-2 while winning the Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division title and The Record's Group 1-2 poll and pulling down the top seed in the County tour-

Council still mulling alcohol use

By PAT TADDEO

WALDWICK The council voted 5-1 to allow alcohol consumption at several block parties for which applications were pending, and residents and council members spoke out on the possible banning of alcohol consumption in the borough park in the future at this week's council meeting.

Council member Bill Patterson voted against the permits because of the alcohol consumption, although he was in favor of the block parties.

Council members Joe Musumeci, Art Barthold, Ed Sherman and Denise Andersen were in favor of granting the permits.

Residents then got their chance to voice their opinions. Walter H. Poppy of Alexander Avenue said, "I'm not here to debate having my drinking privileges taken away at the borough park. It's the Big Brother aspect I'm against. We don't need Big Brother to regulate us."

Another resident, John Neer of Vine Street, lined up with Poppy. "We are talking about taking a privilege away from the people of this town. If you want to ban outsiders from having this privilege, fine, but don't ban the residents from doing so."

"What would you think if I had a party in the park with alcohol consumption and the majority of the guests were non-resident family and friends?" asked Patterson.

"I don't have a problem with that. You're a member of the town and family is family," responded Neer.

"My concern is the liability involved if someone is in an accident while under the influence after leaving one of these get-togethers." said Patterson. "If the party does get out of hand, I don't feel we should expose our children who play in the park. I can't back a possible drinking and driving situation.

Borough Attorney Menelaos Toskos explained that the person serving the alcohol is responsible for the actions of those at the party.

Neer wasn't placated. "My concern is the taking of our individual rights. What's next, closing all the taverns? When you take individual rights away from the people who might want to have a party, the people who support this town, you will have animosity and that support will stop.'

Shirley Feldmen of Rustic Drive spoke in favor of the ban. "I understand these permits are a tradition in Waldwick. Well, alcoholism is also a family tradition handed down from generation to generation. I find it ludicrous to even consider doing a survey to find out who's pro and who's con on the issue. I think we're sending a mixed message to the younger resi-

Feldman asked Mayor Rick Vander Wende if he would allow the consumption of alcohol in the municipal building.

"No, unless it was a fire department function, or a wet down. We don't allow eating in here either," said Vander Wende.

Alcohol talk still on tap

Two residents tell the council that they favor alcohol permits

WALDWICK- The debate over permitting alcohol consumption on public property had another go-around at a public meeting here last week.

After the council had voted 5-1 to allow alcohol consumption at several block parties for which applications were pending, residents and council members spoke out on the possible banning of alcohol consumption in the borough park.

Council member Bill Patterson voted against the permits because of the alcohol consumption, although he was in favor of the block parties.

Council members Joe Musumeci, Art Barthold, Ed Sherman and Denise Andersen were in favor of granting the permits.

The debate had been spearheaded by Councilman William Patterson, who has been voting to deny permits for drinking alcohol on public specifically property, s Borough Park.

He cited three main reasons for his continued opposition to these permits by saying that they are in violation of a borough ordinance against the consumption of alcohol in a public place, that the borough would be responsible if a person drinking in the park caused a car accident and that a negative social message is being sent to

Patterson was assailed by two residents, Walter H. Poppe and John Neer, who want the current policy to continue.

Poppe said that residents do not need "Big Brother" looking over their shoulder, what is needed is personal responsibility when it comes to drink-

"I've talked to the police department and they have said there have been no incidents reported in the parks," related to parties for which permits have been issued by the council, said Poppe.

Neer said it is borough organizations and residents who are asking for the permits and are using the parks made possible by residents' tax dollars. "Take the park away from outsiders . . . and continue to give the permits to the people and civic organizations who want them," he said. Patterson asked Neer if there would be a problem if he threw a party and out-of-towners attended. Neer said that would not be a problem since the situation involves a resident using the park with family and

Patterson said he fears that an alcohol-related accident will result when a participant leaves one of these parties to go home to New York State or southern New Jersey and that the town will be sued. "Then the cost for paying for a lawsuit will go to the taxpayers of Waldwick," he said.

"Public parks that I and other young parents of Waldwick use that we teach our children to fish and play in . . . are sending a mixed message by allowing people to drink there," Patterson said.

He also commented that 150 individuals in town have contacted him in regards to his stance and that "I can count on my hand" the number of people who have expressed disagreement with his position.

Neer disagreed with his statement, arguing for an individual's rights.

"What's next, no drinking allowed in the home? People support the borough through taxes. Let's not take away the rights from the people," he said.

"I could see if there were problems with drinking in the park (to take away the permits), but there are no problems," he

Neer asked the council not to rush to a decision when deciding to end the practice of issuing these permits.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende explained that the borough would be sending out a survey that would allow residents to give their input on the issuing of permits for the consumption of alcohol in public.

Local dancers to perform

Adding to a list of special honors, Robin Horneff's Performing Arts Center (PAC) Dance Company will perform this week at Epcot Center's American Pavilion.

"The PAC dancers will be part of Disneyworld's 'Magic Music Days,' a special program designed to showcase the best talent across the United States," Horneff explained. She added that the PAC company's selection is particularly noteworthy since the group was selected from thousands of dance companies that auditioned via video tape.

"We're one of just a few dance companies in New Jersey and the only one from Bergen County - to be selected," Horneff added.

A professional dancer and choreographer, Horneff strives to encourage her students to become well-rounded dancers who enjoy the exhilaration of competition and graciously share their talents with others. This year, the PAC dancers gave their time to perform for Beth Israel Hospital's "Diversity 2000" program in conjuction with the Passaic County

The group also gave a benefit performance at St. Jude's Children's Hospital at the request of Martha Byrne, who plays Lily on "As the World Turns." During this charity event, PAC dancers and the Junior New Jersey Nets Cheerleaders (the Junior Jersey Girls), 12 of whom study at Horneff's Performing Arts Center, appeared with a host of daytime drama actors including Lisa Brown and Susan Marie Snyder of "As the World Turns," Eva LaRue (Maria on "All My Children"), Michael Zaslow (Roger on "The Guiding Light"), and Rick Hearst and Tonja Walker of "One Life to Live.

This year, Horneff will again direct the Junior Jersey Girls, who appear at New Jersey Nets basketball games at the Byrne Arena. Anyone between the ages of 7 and 10 who is interested in trying out for the cheerleading team call the studio at 444-3205.

Two Outstanding Choreography awards were also presented at Star Power. The Best Choreography Award and the Entertainment Award were given to PAC for the best routines for the entire competition.

ALL-MOST BASEBALL TEAM

This group can do damage

By BOB KURLAND

The high school season officially comes to an end today with the release of the sometimes-awaited annual Kurland All-most Bergen County baseball team. And for those who scoff, 1991 member C.J. Nitkowski of Don Bosco Prep was the ninth player selected in last month's amateur draft and was signed by the Cincinnati Reds.

Amazingly the latest edition is led again by one of the best pitchers in Bergen County, Casey McGuire of Paramus Catholic - the first-ever repeater. The right-hander was eligible as he wasn't voted to any of the coaches' All-Bergen teams despite going 15-3 over the past two years.

"Of all the pitchers I've had," says PC coach Ed Bertolini, "he's the one I would want for the biggest games. Last year he defeated top-seeded Rutherford in the County tournament and this season stopped top-seeded Waldwick."

McGuire was overlooked this year because of his few decisions, going 6-2, but he had an impressive 1.11 ERA. "We only use our starters once a week," says Bertolini. "He should have won another game, but we lost in extra innings to Teaneck."

He finished his career with a 23-3 record and broke Silvio Censale's school ERA career mark of 1.61 with a 1.49.

Florida State agreed with the Allmost selection and gave him a baseball scholarship.

Rounding out the the pitching staff are Ridgefield senior Dave Morgan and Cliffside Park sophomore Jason Mes-

The hard-throwing Morgan (7-1, 2.61 ERA) led the Royals to their first County appearance in 19 years. He had a big strikeout pitch, fanning 71 in 53% in-

And young Messina (8-3, 2.35 ERA) also carried the Red Raiders into both tournaments. Big things were expected from the fine fielding pitcher ever since he was brought up to the varsity midway through his freshman year and posted a 4-2 record. His losses have been to teams over .500.

There weren't too many first base candidates, but Fair Lawn's Anthony Hodum, who will play at Connecticut next season, is a solid choice. He was edged out by Ramapo's All-County first baseman Ryan Hodgson at the Northern Bergen Interscholastic League meeting.

Hodum slugged six homers while hitting .388. In seven of the 12 Cutters victories, he delivered the winning run. And he was a solid fielder, making only two errors.

Waldwick freshman R.J. Giordano showed great range at shortstop this season for the B-PSL Carpenter champions.

Sophomore Pete Ackermann of Rutherford is our second baseman with the help of a gaudy .462 batting average plus 18 stolen bases.

Another sophomore, Mike Gray of Teaneck, earns the spot at third base with a .367 batting mark and 14 stolen

Shortstop was a tough call, but some outstanding clutch defensive play down the stretch by Cliffside Park's Miquel Checo gave him the nod. After some erratic throwing early in the season, he switched to a sidearm delivery and everything fell in place.

Checo covered a lot of ground and the leadoff man batted an even .400 with 16 stolen bases. He'll be playing some-where next season, possibly for Bergen Community.

And when it comes to range at shortstop, Waldwick's freshman R.J. Glordano might have been the best. The youngster went deep into the hole for grounders and over second base for others while hitting well over .300.

He got to balls that others couldn't, and that and his inexperience led to errors. If the coaches don't latch on to him in the future, and he continues to develop, he's a shoo-in for this team.

The outfield, which averaged better than .400, is led by Queen of Peace speedster Gary Edwards, who hit .468 with eight doubles and was 22-for-22 in stolen bases.

Sophomore Hector Cruz batted .443 with 29 RBI on 32 hits, which included 11 doubles. He also stole 24 bases. Rounding out the trio is strong-armed Sean Falk of Westwood, who coincidentally had six doubles, six triples, and six home runs while batting .422.

Normally there are too many outstanding catchers, but this year only four leagues even nominated one for All-County. Many schools converted field players to the receiver's post.

Fair Lawn was one of them, and from its ranks we've selected Mark Kogan, who batted over .300. He gunned down 19 of 35 runners, including Demarest's All-County speedster Toph Lake twice.

Jon DeRosa of Northern Valley of Demarest was a shoo-in for the utility post as he divided his time between first base and the outfield. He batted .386 and knocked in 46 runs on 39 hits. The Georgetown coach will have to decide which position he'll play next season.

The DH spot has been left open as no strong candidate emerged.

So there you have the annual Allmost team. And our players are ready to challenge the All-County first team. It would certainly make for an interesting meeting.

'The consummate professional'

Editor, The Record:

It's a shame that you decided to use the quote by Mr. Pascarella (June 16) regarding Phil Simms. He obvi-ously is not familiar with Phil, either on or off the field.

I saw my first Giants game in 1959 at Yankee Stadium. As I grew, I began to look beyond a player's ath-letic ability on the field. Phil Simms represents what I appreciate in a true professional, both on and off the field. Of course he is a fierce competitor, but he also demonstrates great leadership ability, he is a motivator and teacher, and most of all he is a team player. Off the field, he is community-minded.

Football is a business. Business decisions are made, whether popular or not, for the good of the team. I feel that in making the decision to re-lease Simms, the Giants have lost a superior athlete, but more than that, they have lost the consummate professional.

DeMenna shatters county, Waldwick baseball marks

By BRIAN FARRELL 7-10-94

The State of New Jersey, the County of Bergen and the Borough of Waldwick, according to Mark DeMenna, baseball player extraordinaire who just graduated from the local high school.

"I don't think anybody, in an allaround sense, in Bergen County has ever put together the kind of statistics Mark did this season," said his coach, Steve Konde,

The 5-foot-9, 170-pound DeMenna was one of the top three outfielders in New Jersey, as he was chosen First Team All-State, All-Groups. In Bergen, he easily made First Team All-County.

The catch here with DeMenna is that he can do everything on the field, and do it extremely well, whether it's hitting for power, stealing a base or fielding his position in leftfield with grace and speed along with a strong and accurate arm.

DeMenna, batting leadoff in Konde's lineup, established new county records this season for hits (61) and runs scored (68).

He also set seven more singleseason standards at Waldwick High Batting Average - ,604 (61-

☐ Triples - 5, tied with Doug Sneyors (1994 graduate)

☐ Runs-Batted-In — 55
☐ Stolen Bases — 42 in 45 attempts

☐ On Base Average — .780 (96-

□ Slugging Percentage — 1.210 As a three-year varsity starter, De-Menna either set or tied the following career records at Waldwick:

☐ Hits — 122

☐ Doubles — 17 (tied Tom Russo ('90) and Bill McAvoy ('88)

☐ Triples — 9

☐ Home Runs — 25 (breaking 1986 graduate Steve Mennella's mark of 17)

DeMenna's batting average climbed each season. Sophomore year, he hit 323 (21-for-65); junior year, he batted .378 (40-for-106).

His 16 strikeouts of 1993 were reduced to just five whiffs this year. "We wanted Mark to cut down on his strikeouts as a leadoff batter this year, and he sure did," Konde said, "We told him to make sure he hits his pitch and hit only strikes, and he made that adjustment."

DeMenna, with ten, just missed tying the mark for most doubles in a career, shared by Mike Read ('93) and Gabe Terlemezian ('88), who each had 11. Mike Raia set the school singleseason and career records for most walks, with 32 this year and 70 totally. DeMenna was walked 27 times this season and 60 times for his career.

"As amazing as all of his offensive statistics are, Mark is even a better defensive player," Konde said.

And it was the total package of Mark DeMenna that helped to fuel Waldwick to a Bergen County-record 26-game winning streak to open the season. The Warriors had the most victories and best record in the county at 27-2, while finishing with the second-best record in New Jersey. Gloucester Catholic went 29-1.

Konde was selected Bergen County Coach of the Year in baseball for the second time in his 11-year career at Waldwick. He also received the award

"Mark is a legitimate player; he's a prospect," said Konde. "With his talent and work ethic, he's going to be an impact player at the next level."

To underscore DeMenna's athletic ability, he also made First Team All-County in soccer his senior year at stopper back. It marked the first time a Waldwick High School athlete made First Team All-County in two sports in the same scholastic year.

DeMenna's next stop: William Paterson

Jeff Albies will be the next coach for high school star Mark DeMenna. The most productive player in the history of Waldwick High School baseball will be refining his skills come September at William Paterson College.

The veteran coach actively sought DeMenna to play for his nationallyknown Division 3 power.

"Mark is going to be in a program where he will have the opportunity to reach his goal of becoming a professional player," said Steve Konde, his coach at Waldwick, "He will be in a program that gets exposure and where the coach has a lot of contacts, professionally, and places his players in summer leagues. It's an ideal situation for Mark.

"Jeff Albies is a great teacher of baseball, and he cares about the kids who play for him," Konde noted. "Jeff will not only help to improve Mark's skills, but he will also make sure that he does the job in the classroom.'

Konde sees Albies penciling in De-Menna as his centerfielder for the next three to four years.

On July 1, DeMenna attended a workout conducted by the Minnesota Twins at William Paterson College. There were 60 position players, 20 pitchers and 15 catchers, mostly comrpised of players who just graduated from high school.

John Wilson, a scout for the Twins who played baseball at William Paterson, invited DeMenna and Konde's freshman shortstop, R.J. Giordano. -FARRELL

Waldwick's Tripaldi plays soccer in Italy this summer

Kenneth Tripaldi, a goalkeeper on Waldwick High's soccer team, was chosen to play for a Staten Island, N.Y., team in Italy this summer.

The team, comprised of Cosmopolitan and Mid-New Jersey league players, will travel to Venice, Italy, to train with coaches of the Italian Soccer Federation.

The training is in conjunction with the Italian Olympic Committee, District of Udine, and first Division soccer team Udinese. After training, the select team will participate in the Coppa Friuli Cup games - competing against Italian select teams in the Milan and Venice area.

Tripaldi has been on club soccer teams for the past six years in the goalkeeper position. He has played for the Allendale Americans and Ridgewood Maroons and currently is a member of the Union Lancers.

Disney dancing on war graves

Editor, The Record: I find the prospect of Disney teaching history to our children appalling. It is inappropriate to have the Civil War portrayed as just another theme. Men struggled and died on those fields of Virginia for a purpose, not for entertainment. It would be as inappropriate to build a theme park on the site of Dachau. # Unity reigns in Waldwick

Council and school board trustees explore areas of common concern

By James Hickey

WALDWICK- The borough's two elected bodies recently met to establish a framework and exchange of communication so the two groups can work together more closely.

The borough council and board of education met for roughly two hours June 29 in Waldwick High School's Greenberg Activity Center to, as the agenda stated, "discuss the possibility of instituting, consolidating and/or exchanging cost-saving measures in mutual service to the residents of Waldwick."

Board President Paul Cottrel said the time to come together is now, due to decreased aid that will be coming from the state government, which for schools comes in at around $250,000 less in 1995.

Among the items discussed at the joint meeting were:

• Garbage collection - The board asked the borough to see if there is a way for garbage from the two elementary schools and the high school to be collected under the borough contract, Mayor Rick Vander Wende said the council would contact with the garbage contractor to see if the schools can be included.

- · Public buildings cleanup -The board offered to have their janitorial staff clean Borough Hall and the Public Works building. This is a service currently contracted at an annual cost of $12,288.
- Cooperative buying The board and the council said they would share cost information and look into bulk buying of office supplies, such as paper, if it is cost effective. Some members said they might receive a discounted rate by ordering large quantities together.

- · Borough newsletter The council may have the high school's graphics arts department, as a project for the students, handle borough printing needs, such as the newsletter the council sends out to resi-
- · Lobbying efforts The council and the board agreed to inform each other when lobbying at the state level on issues such as state mandated/state pay issues and community development grants. The borough council, at their last work session July 6, put in motion an application to see if they can obtain some money for the fitness center under the banner of Social Services.

· Auto repair - The board and council said they would consider consolidating contracts for repairs to borough

- · Recreation program The board said it would look into helping the borough recreation program, which operates on school grounds, and run rainy day programs in which the board would provide school rooms for the borough to show
- and school vehicles.

Shot, cut up father-in-law and sister

By THOMAS ZAMBITO

A Cliffside Park woman was sentenced Tuesday to 30 years in prison after admitting that she shot her sister and father-in-law, carved up the bodies, and left them to rot in the closet of their Waldwick home.

By pleading guilty to two counts of murder, Kim Kuchler was spared a possible death penalty. And prosecutors were spared having to prove a case in which the victims' bodies never been have found.

They sus-pect, though, that Waldwick police might have inadvertently stroyed the evidence when a few months after William Believing that bones found inside eight to 10 garbage bags belonged to animals, police had Kim Kuchler's husband, William C. Kuchler, discard them.

Prosecutors believe those might have been the couple's remains.

Kuchler, 47, appearing frail and speaking in a soft voice, told Bergen County Superior Court Judge Sybil R.

Moses that she had found the Lord and was dedicating herself to helping troubled women.

But Moses was not persuaded. "She talks about peace and the Lord," an incredulous Moses said Tuesday morning. "Better she should ask the Lord for forgive-

Moses also questioned the portrait Kuchler's attorney, Harold Borg, painted of his client.

"It's hard to reconcile, Mr. Borg," the judge said. "The image you present of her, to the image that is reality - a coldblooded murderer."

Moses then sentenced Kuchler to 30 years without eligibility for parole on the two murder counts.

Kim Kuchler has recanted earlier statements that she had hired hit men to do the killings.

Local police reopened their investigation into the disappearances when Kim Kuchler was arrested in 1991 in Queens, N.Y., and charged with the shooting death of another sister, Okja Kim,

At the time, authorities say, Kim Kuchler possessed her sister Changsoon Kuchler's identification. Also, they determined that several of William K. Kuchler's Social Security checks recently had been cashed.

Prosecutors say that Kim Kuchler drained $150,000 from the couple's bank accounts. "It's not only a crime of brutality but a crime of greed," Assistant Pros-ecutor Sharyn Peiffer told the Peiffer said it would have been more difficult proving murder without the bodies. But, she said, Kuchler had left an extensive paper trail that linked her to the kill-

That trail eventually led authorities back to the home on Crescent Avenue. There they interviewed William C. Kuchler. He introduced his father to his sisterin-law in 1990 and the two were later married.

TI I have peace now.

William C. Kuchler told police that in 1985, shortly after the couple's disappearance, he smelled a foul odor coming from the room that the couple shared and reported it to police.

Kim Kuchler still faces New York charges in the 1991 slaying of her sister, Okja Kim. That fatal shooting is said to have been witnessed by Kim Kuchler's mother and a third sister, according to New York police.

She is expected to plead guilty to the New York murder charge and then be returned to New Jersey to serve the remainder of her sentence, Peiffer said. The sentences are expected to run concurrently, prosecutors say, and so the maximum she could serve is 30 years. She also will get credit for 580 days already served.

Kim Kuchler told Moses Tuesday that since her 1992 arrest, her life has taken a new direction.

"I have the Lord now," she said, holding a microphone in her hand so she could be heard. "I have peace now ... God gave me a chance to hear about a lot of things I really did not know.'

Borg said his client had lived out the American dream upon arriving here from her native Korea. She was highly intelligent and hardworking, he said. At the time of the killings she was an electrical engineer in Secaucus.

But Borg said that she had found herself living with an alcoholic husband and a stepfather who could be abusive. "I never had anybody to talk to," she said. "I didn't know what to do." But Peiffer dismissed that suggestion. "Kim Kuchler had the education and the know-how to get out of that household but she didn't want to," Peiffer said.

hen Waldwick Junior-Senior High School eighth-graders invested in stocks, Jeff Banta also put in his two cents.

Banta, who was then in 11th grade, contributed a computer program for the mock student project. The program, designed in Banta's computer class, helped the younger students manage their stock portfolios.

"It was a utility students could use in the classroom so they wouldn't have to do the calculations," said Banta, who ranked first in his junior class of 99 students during the 1993-94 school

"The students start out with a certain amount of money and invest in whatever stocks they want buying and selling fictitiously, Banta, 16, said. The students had to realize that brokers fees were incurred, so they had to invest wisely, he added.

"There are so many calculations - especially when some owned 25 stocks," Banta said. "Constantly calculating all of that weekly gets to be a lot, so we designed a program which would manage all the different stocks."

Banta's program adds new portfolios, puts in new share prices, and views overall statistics. Other juniors participated in the programming as well. The project earned Banta a top grade in class.

"I just love programming," he said of using an IBM compatible at home and programming in PASCAL. Banta, who plans to study computer science in college, also is interested in computer engineering.

"Most of what I actually do on my own is make video games," he said. "In school we're doing data management and data process-

A member of the National Honor Society, The Minds Eye literary magazine, and the math team, Banta explains that he has excelled in programming since childhood.

"It's simple on one level or complex on another," he said of PAS-CAL. "It can do whatever you want it to. It's just a matter of understanding all of it and being able to harness its power.

Last summer, Banta decided to hone his business skills he hopes to combine with his computer expertise - by attending a three-day Learn About Business Seminar (LABS), in Mahwah. "It's essential to understand the basic concepts of supply and demand," said Banta, who attended three lectures per day focused on introducing youths to the business world.

"They talked about how the foreign market interacts with ours. One of the big things I hadn't known before was how many governmental regulations there are in business," he said, "and all the red tape."

Banta, who received the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Medal for Outstanding Achievement in Science and Mathematics, said he is still weighing his career options. He will attend the Exploring Career Options in Engineering and Science (ECOES) program at Stevens Institute of Technology for two weeks this month. While there, he will attend lectures and work on an independent research project that he hopes will help reaffirm his career goals

A member of the Academic Decathlon team, as a junior Banta earned a bronze medal in history at the honors level and an honorable mention in fine arts. In the state competition, he won the bronze medal in fine arts on the honors level and was named most valuable team participant.

This fall, Banta will study advanced-level chemistry and physics as well as calculus, English, and advanced-placement history. He hopes to maintain his No. 1 ranking throughout the

"There's a lot of pressure," he said. "It's much easier when you're trying to get there than when u're trying to stay there.

Banta's history teacher, Herbert Schroter, said: "He is everything that you would want in a student.

Computer whiz Jeff Banta is top ranked in his class at Waldwick High School. "I just love programming," says Banta.

Waldwick parade thanks

To the editor: It takes many people and hours to put together a celebration to commemorate the 75th Anniversary of the Borough of Waldwick. On June 4, we did just that.

As chairman of the Anniversary Parade, I would like to thank all those who helped to make it a big success: Mayor Rick Vander Wende and the council for their support and cooperation; Paula Jaegge who was my right-hand man throughout the preparations leading up to parade day; the Waldwick Jaycees for assisting with the parade line up; the residents of Waldwick who donated the use of their cars for the day to carry dignitaries; Bob Ryan for his organization and MC work at the reviewing stand; the Merchants Association for the donations of the pillow bounce and pony petting zoo; Joan Benedetto for the balloons; Tamaron Association and Home Hardware for their donations towards the American flags in the business district; Plaza Gifts for donating the trophies, Nancy Freitag for the donation of the signs that were used on the automobiles in the parade; the many organizations that put in long hours building the floats and all the other borough organizations for their contributions in making the parade festive.

Also to Joseph Agugliaro and the men of the Waldwick Department of Public Works for all the work they did in preparing the town, Richard Hennig and Tom Mastrofilipo of the Board of Education Maintenance Department for helping in moving the sports bleacher for use as a reviewing stand, Sergeant Litchult and the officers of the Waldwick Police Department for keeping Waldwick running smoothly around the parade,

To the members of the 75th Anniversary Committee for helping to promote the parade; Colleen Beech, Drew Churchson, Tom Johnson, Brian Maher, Susan O'Dwyer, Diane Vander Wende, Jim Zumbano.

To the members of the Waldwick Fire Department, especially Steve, Joe, Mike, Stevie, Billy, Tom, Keith, Kevin and Rich. As Chief of the Fire Department I know how these men can come out and support their chief, but this parade had nothing to do with the fire department as some were led to believe. Many of the firefighters came out to make my job that much easier.

To Andrea Mistretta and her family for all their artistic tal-

And to the residents of Waldwick who came out to cheer and support those who marched. The borough has not seen a crowd that big at a town parade in many years.

Thank you all.

Voman sentenced in '85 murders

By JIM HICKEY

WALDWICK - The accused murderer of a borough couple pleaded guilty to the murders and was sentanced to 30 years without parole last Tuesday in Bergen County Superior Court.

Kim Kulcher, 47, of Cliffside Park, was sentenced by Bergen County Superior Court Judge Sybil R. Moses after Kulcher admitted that she shot and carved up the bodies of William K. Kuchler, her father-in-law, and his wife Changsoon, her sister.

The guilty plea means she will not have to face the possibilty of the death penalty and spares the prosecution having to prove a case in which the victims' bodies were never found.

Bergen County Assistant Prosecutor Sharyn Peiffer detailed Kim Kulcher had drained

$150,000 from the couple's bank account.

"It's not only a crime of brutality but a crime of greed," Peiffer told the Kulcher still faces a New York murder charge in the 1991 slaying of another sister.

It was this charge that led local authorities to reopen the case of the the missing Waldwick residents.

At the time she was arrested in New York, Kim Kuchler possessed her sister Changsoon Kuchler's identification. It was later determined that several of William K. Kuchler's Social Security checks at that time had recently been cashed.

The trail eventually led authoriteis back to the home on Crescent Avenue that Willima K. Kuchler shared with William C. Kuchler, who had in-troduced his father to Changsoon and was married to Kim, reported to the the Waldwick police in 1985, shortly after the couple's disappearance, that he smelled a foul odor coming from the room the couple shared and reported it to the police.

Waldwick police may have inadvertently destroyed the evidence when the police found eight to ten garbage bags they thought contained animal bones.

At that time, police told William C. Kuchler to discard them, which prosecutors now believe may have been the couple's remains.

Solve the real problems

To the editor: /- 20 -44 Much has been written regarding Waldwick Councilman William Paterson's efforts to abolish the practice of granting permits to Waldwick residents to allow the consumption of alcoholic beverages at private events on public property. This council has continued the practice of former borough councils, both Democrat and Republican, in granting these permits to residents.

Mr. Paterson cites his concern for potential legal liability on the part of the borough as well as the bad example it sets for the children as his reason for spearheading this drive.

As a resident of Waldwick, I question his addressing an issue that doesn't exist. Permits have been granted to groups from the fire department to family reunions for many years. Mr. Paterson does not cite any case in which the permit has been abused.

He claims that his "informal" survey conducted in Waldwick indicates that "the people want this practice to stop.'

I didn't conduct an "informal survey" but I have yet to hear someone complain about this issue. I've heard complaints about high taxes. I've heard complaints about contaminated soil dumped behind the borough hall and still there after three years. I've heard complaints about smells from the Sewer Authority. I've heard complaints about a Community Center that Waldwick can't afford. Those are the complaints I've heard from my neighbors.

Mr. Paterson was elected to solve the real problems Waldwick faces not imagined ones although imagined problems are easier to solve.

Mr. Paterson should stop infighting with the rest of the Republican members of the council and all of them should start working to solve the real problems Waldwick faces.

Council fills vacant seat

Waldwick votes unanimously for former campaign treasurer

By JAMES HICKEY

7-20-90

WALDWICK- James Toolen has been unanimously appointed to the borough council to fill a vacancy created when Councilman James Gibson resigned in June.

Active in borough politics, Toolen last year was campaign treasurer for Councilmen Ed Sherman and Joe Musumeci.

At the council's July 5 work session, Mayor Rick Vander Wende said that it is in the "best interest of Waldwick to have a full council." He then asked for nominations.

Barthold nominated Toolen, saying that he thinks Toolen's experience in the borough would be beneficial to the council, specifically citing his experience on the planning board of which Barthold is also a mem-

After the vote to seat Toolen on the council, he was sworn in by Vander Wende.

Toolen said it was at a mutual meeting of the council and himself that the appointment was made. "The council knew that I was running for election in the fall so they knew there was some interest to become part of the council," he said. He said he believes that his experience on the citizen's advisory board to the board of education was a factor.

Toolen will also be environmental committee chairman as was Gibson. His career involvement with industrial waste will be helpful with this appointment, he said. "I deal with water pollution and sewage treatment on a daily basis; issues that specifically effect Waldwick.

"Plus, working in the industrial waste industry, I am no stranger to the regulations involved with the DEPE," he said.

He said his short term goal is to seamlessly finish out the Gibson's term and, in the long term, to "make soild improvements in Waldwick.'

Toolen will be ceremoniously sworn in at the next public meeting on July 19.

Gibson had submitted his resignation at the public meeting in June. He said health concerns were forcing him to move to Houston and he would not be able to serve out his term, which expires at the end of this

The council has received three bids (including one from borough engineers, Boswell /McClave) in response to a flooding problem on Yvonne

The waterway in question enters the community from Midland Park in an easterly direction, runs behind the high school to underground piping that brings the water to White's Pond.

The problem is that a debris screen accumulates refuse and blocks stream flow. This in turn leads to flooding of low-lying areas on Yvonne Street, West Prospect Street, Lindbergh Parkway and Lakeview Drive.

Borough Adminstrator Gary Kratz said he doesn't want to try cleaning the screen during a storm for fear that a backhoe needed to do the job might destroy the screen.

Vollmer Associates' bid seems to offer a solution that the council liked. They suggested installing a removable gate which could be cleaned in case it gets clogged during a storm.

But Vander Wende requested that Kratz solicit more information from Vollmer on their plans before they move ahead with a solution to the flooding problem.

Veteran pitcher 1-21-94

Bill Figart, a 1976 graduate of Waldwick High School, is now pitching for his third Met League team since 1987. The 6-foot-6 righthander has a 6-2 record for the Fair Lawn Merchants, who have the best record in the league at 16-4. The past two years, he hurled for Oakland, which disbanded after last season. From 1987 to 1991, Figart was the most dependable pitcher for the Waldwick Senators while also pitching in with the groundskeeping of Traphagen Field, which was one of the best facilities in the Met League. During the past seven Met League seasons, Figart has always been among the league leaders in innings pitched. (Photo by Tom Wegman)

Council, BOE mull shared services

BYPATTADDED 7-21-94

WALDWICK — The mayor and council met with the board of education last month to explore the possibility of shared services.

At the meeting were Board of Education President Paul Cottrell, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Patrick Piegari, and board members John Carr, Carol Geronimo, and James Mallen. Mayor Rick Vander Wende, and council members Art Barthold, Joe Musumeci, Bill Patterson, and Ed Sherman were there.

The Board of Education now shares such services with the borough as leaf and grass clipping disposal and fueling trucks at the DPW gas pump, but now wants to incorporate other services.

"This isn't just about saving money, this is also about possibly being able to use our town resources more productively," said Cottrell.

The first issue discussed was

The first issue discussed was having one contract for the disposal of garbage.

"We are minus $240,000 in aid from the state. What we would like is the government have a joint service in garbage disposal. We have three sites that get picked up three times a week," explained Cottrell, who added, "what we would like to offer in return is a plan to use our custodial personnel to clean the borough hall and the DPW offices and area except the garage."

The board offered the council the crew for three hours a day as opposed to the current twohour period and they would supply all the materials.

Cottrell suggested the idea of joint services in health benefits. He requested the borough pass a joint resolution addressing the governor on this issue.

"I think this whole concept tonight is going to open a whole new avenue for the governing bodies in Waldwick," said Council member Art Barthold.

The board and council discussed sending vehicles out for maintenance. It was suggested that a mechanic be hired to maintain borough vehicles inhouse. The mayor agreed to look into it but also suggested that if it was too expensive, joint bidding should be considered.

"We're here to do the best we can with the dollars we get." said Barthold.

Council member Joe Musumeci suggested that the borough share such purchases as paper products in bulk, perhaps even buying a full trailer and sharing the expense with another town.

Barthold said a music store owner in town had requested that his school students be allowed to perform shows for their peers every week or two weeks. The school owner would supply the equipment, security, and clean-up crews. He would charge admission, some of which would go to charity and the rest into new equipment for the performers to continue the shows.

Barthold suggested the use of the school gymnasium for these events.

Sandy Kouax 7-24-44

Mike Ewald belted a three-run homer in the top of the first inning, and later picked up the save as Spring Valley downed Waldwick, 8-6, Saturday in a Sandy Koufax National League tournament game.

Ewald, who relieved Steve Paulos, also singled. Jim Fox doubled for Waldwick, which was eliminated from the tournament after its second loss. Spring Valley is 2-0.

Moviegoers find hope in unlikely hero Gump Why are people across North Jersey Forrest's pratfalls, crying at his losses.

Why are people across North Jersey packing movie theaters to watch an Alabaman with an IQ of 75 triumph over our nation's travails of the past 40 years? More important, why is "Forrest Gump" striking such a responsive chord?

For two weeks, I've been hearing reports of unusually attentive and demonstrative audiences — from Wayne to Edgewater — laughing at Forrest's pratfalls, crying at his losses, and, in many cases, applauding the screen at the end.

Children who haven't even seen the movie are imitating Tom Hanks' catch phrase from the TV commercials: "Life is like a box of

See MOVIE Page A-8

MOVIE: Audiences draw inspiration from 'Forrest Gump'

Why is this unlikely hero the man of the moment? What does it say about us? I drove up to Ramsey on a hot summer's night to try to find out.

Knots of people were milling outside the Loews Interstate Twin on Route 17 as the first show of the evening let out. There were animated discussions in the parking lot.

"Tom Hanks projects tenderness and strength, both at the same time," said Karen Mersch of Waldwick, her hands enthusiastically slicing through the humid air. "He didn't come across as wimpy. What an unbeatable combination in a man!"

man!"
"I would like to know a person like that," interjected her friend Delores Sydoruk of Ho-Ho-Kus. She added, sadly, "We don't usually give people like that a chance."

A third member of the party, Teri Baird of Midland Park, chimed in: "The movie seemed very simplistic but there was an incredible depth. I feel like I'd have to come back three more times just to catch everything."

I spoke with more than three dozen people before and after the movie, as well as several who had attended a matinee in Paramus earlier in the day. Virtually everyone was there on the recommendation of a friend or family member. There were teenagers, senior citizens, young adults, baby boomers; Caucasians, blacks, and Asians. Families. Mothers and daughters.

All praised the movie lavishly. Their faces lit up when they talked about it. Many wanted to see it

"It's the way life should be, not the way it is," said Arthur Elias of Ramsey, an older gentleman. His wife Ann added: "It puts a lump in your throat."

Amy Rosen of Ridgewood, who brought her sons at her mother's urging, said, "It was like a fairy tale come true." Evan, 6, and Philip, 12, raved about the special effects, which place Forrest in newsreel footage with Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon.

"Forrest Gump" is a national phenomenon. It sold more than $72 million worth of tickets from its July 6 opening through last Sunday; unusually, business has dropped off hardly at all since it opened. It will probably make more money than Arnold Schwarzenegger's "True Lies," which narrowly bect out "Gump" for the top box-office spot last weekend, and, if it maintains its current momentum, could challenge "The Lion King" as the top-grossing movie of the season.

This is pretty amazing for a movie that in no way fits the profile of a typical summer blockbuster. Based on an obscure 1986 novel, "Forrest Gump" is a comic fable with political and religious overtones, a formula that has yielded no box-office gold in recent years.

For all its comedy, it has some very heavy moments including the deaths of three major characters (one from AIDS) and the maining of another in the Vietnam War. It entertains with dazzling special effects but requires the audience to follow a convoluted story that cannot be easily conveyed in advertising or conversation. Forrest becomes a football star, a war hero, a Ping-Pong champion, a millionaire businessman, a cult figure. He triumphs over his mental and physical limitations and unrequited love. He is a tower of strength and inspiration to those around him.

The movie has received mixed reviews. Roger Ebert gave it four stars; People magazine, for one, dismissed it as a "plodding, heavy-handed parable." It was clear from "sneak previews" on the July 4 weekend (audiences who paid to see another movie got to see it for free) that the movie had struck a nerve that made it critic-proof.

"I sneaked it at my Cinema 23 [in Cedar Grove], and we had to turn hundreds of people away," said Charles Sayegh, president of the New Jersey affiliate of the National Association of Theater Owners. "It's been doing phenomenal business; we're selling out on weekends. When the movie was screened in advance for theater owners, the reaction wasn't overwhelming. It's the surprise of the summer. It appeals to a very broad audience, and people just love it."

Why?
A good part of the credit goes to Hanks, a popular actor whose performance even the movie's critics have praised. That doesn't explain why, in just two weeks,
"Forrest Gump" has sold more tickets than the entire four-month run of "Philadelphia," the movie for which Hanks won an Academy Award as best actor. Or why the new movie has seized the nation

"The movie pushes a lot of buttons," said Bernard Beck, a sociology professor at Northwestern University in Illinois, noting that "Forrest Gump" is a virtual catalog of contemporary problems, including by its heartstrings.

child abuse, drug and alcohol abuse, spousal abuse, and racial, political, and economic unrest.

"We're suffering from a vast end-of-the century hangover, and it's very reassuring to see someone who has gone through the same traumas we have and muddled his way through them." Beck said. "Forrest has a low IQ, and a lot of people feel they're not quick enough or smart enough either. Life today is too challenging for them. The idea that you can triumph through good luck and being a good person is pretty irresistible."

Clearly, there are elements in "Forrest Gump" that resonate in practically all of us, even if we can't necessarily articulate what it has touched deep inside.

A bespectacled young man was standing outside the Interstate Twin in Ramsey the other night waiting to see the second show with his girlfriend. I asked what had brought him out here on this sultry evening.

"I identify with the character portrayed in the TV commercial," he said shyly, declining to give his

How so, I asked?

There was a long pause. "I think," he finally said, "roaybe figuring that out is why I'm here."

Striking swing for DeMenna

By GREG MATTURA

FAIR LAWN - Mark De-Menna of Waldwick came to bat figuring that with the bases loaded via walks, the first pitch he saw had a good chance of being a strike. He decided if it was in the strike zone, he was swinging.

"I thought he would at least try to throw a strike," DeMenna said. "I was just looking for anything close to the plate.'

DeMenna swung, and his three-run double in the fourth inning gave Waldwick a 5-2 lead in an eventual 5-3 victory Monday night over Hoboken in the Connie Mack State baseball tournament at Vander Plaat Field.

In Monday's losers bracket game, Teaneck (12-8, 1-1) remained alive and eliminated host Fair Lawn (10-8, 0-2) with an 11-7 victory.

DeMenna said reliever Danny Lopez's first pitch was a high curve, out and over the plate. His one-out line drive kept Waldwick (12-6, 1-1) alive in the eight-team, double-elimination tournament and eliminated Hoboken (14-6, 0-

"Big hit, big hit, that was a big hit," said Waldwick coach Ken Raia, whose team plays at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at Fair Lawn High School against the loser of tonight's second-round winners' bracket game between Paterson and Demarest. "It's a 2-2 game without that double."

DeMenna drove in first base-man Jay Bain, designated hitter Mike Finnegan, and second baseman Mike Raia, who all reached on walks. After left fielder Ryan Hodgson popped to short, De-Menna, batting third, came through.

"It [the double] relaxed us," said DeMenna, a first-team All-State outfielder who is headed to William Paterson in the fall. "We were more relaxed."

Waldwick benefited from one Hoboken player's inability to re-lax. After Hoboken starter Ruben Mercado was thrown out at the plate in the fourth, he was ejected for arguing with the home plate umpire. After being ejected, Mercado had to be restrained by teammates, but still managed to throw a soda bottle.

Had Mercado remained calm after the inning-ending play at the plate, Hoboken would have had a better chance. That's not to say that Waldwick wouldn't have won, because right-hander Mike Branagh was giving Hoboken junkball Branagh only surrendered four singles, three coming in Hoboken's two-run fourth. Branagh's specialty was breaking balls in the dirt and he struck out six - including the side in the seventh — and walked three. He did not allow a hit over the final three innings.

Raia said Branagh was chosen to start Monday rather than hard-throwing Tom Hayes, because Hoboken had trouble hitting the off-speed pitches of West Milford's Shawn Romanker in Sunday's 5-0 opening-round loss. Said Raia: "I saw Romanker make them look bad throwing junk."

Waldwick second baseman Mike Rala slips after making a catch in short right field for the game's first out in Mack tourney vs. Hoboken.

Waldwick lost its State opener last season, then won its next two, over North Bergen and West Milford, before being eliminated by Little Ferry. DeMenna said this summer's team is better than last

Said DeMenna: "We're a lot better than last year. I still think we

Traffic court justice

To the editor:

Justice in a traffic court is not only blind, it doesn't listen. You are guilty and must prove your innocence.

This was the rude awakening I was treated to at the Ho-Ho-Kus Traffic Court where a very pedantic Judge Lechter quoted Shakespeare through the night. No one was impressed. Comments were continually cut off with condescending remarks. Attempting to present evidence is useless, he refuses to look at

When explaining why not at fault, his response was "Thou protesteth too much." My God, isn't protesting what created this country. I guess he was educated in 18th Century England. A sign needs to be placed in front of the courtroom reading "God Bless America, and Just Payeth thy Fine we needeth Revenue.'

Waldwick council wants environmental officer

By PAT TADDEO

WALDWICK — Continuing their environmental crusade, the borough council has introduced an ordinance to establish a position for an environmental officer.

The ordinance allows the environmental officer to perform three things for the borough:

 The environmental officer will advise the mayor, the council and the environmental commission of the borough on environmental matters.

 The officer shall keep the governing body informed as to federal and state grants or programs concerning the environment for which the borough may qualify.

 The environmental officer shall identify, investigate complaints and incidents concerning the environment of the borough.

After performing these duties, the environmental officer will report to the appropriate federal, state, county and municipal agencies.

Under the direction of the mayor and council, the environmental officer shall pursue the remedies available to Waldwick through the Environmental Rights Act.

Along with an ordinance passed earlier this year that established a policy for reimbursing the borough for any costs incurred in the cleanup of a hazardous material spill within the borough, the position of an environmental officer will coincide with the "master plan" for a cleaner environment.

The reimbursing code forces violators (ranging from an individual to a private company /enterprise) to reimburse the borough for the wages (including overtime) and any benefits costs paid to employees as a result of the incident.

The ordinance also states that the individual person/entity is liable for attorney's fees and costs incurred in the collection of the costs.

Stiff penalties for failing to reimburse the borough within the alloted time can be fines up to $500 per day or be put into jail for up to six months.

According to the council's proposed new ordinance, the justification of these actions is the Environmental Rights Act.

This allows any person, including a municipality such as Waldwick, to bring a civil action in court against any other person alleged to be in violation of any statute, regulation or ordinance which is designed to prevent or minimize polution, impairment or destruction of the environment.

"This is a step in the direction to get a handle on the environmental laws that we are not taking advantage of," said Councilman Art Barthold.

Objections to the proposed ordinance were raised by Ken Gardner, president of the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air, who felt that the two ordinances would not work and may prove invalid in court.

Borough Attorney Menelaos

Borough Attorney Menelaos Toskos told Gardner that these ordiances were drafted within the framework of the Environmental Rights Act.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said, "the council would add anything to the ordinance that 'would strengthen the ordinance.' "

Area home sales rise in first half

Sales of new and existing single-family homes in the 13town area covered by the Northwest Bergen Board rose more than three percent in the first half of 1994 vs. the same period

According to the board's official computerized reports, a total of 957 homes were sold in the six months ending this June 30 compared with 927 homes sold in the six months ending June 30, 1993.

"These gains are evidence of a remarkably healthy real estate market despite the recent uptick in interest rates," said Karen White, Northewest Bergen Board President stated.

White explained that the Federal Reserve Bank raised interest rates four times beginning February 4, yet the subsequent increases in mortgage rates have not diminished the consumer's appetite for homebuying.

She agreed with the National Association of Realtors assessment that some of the buoyancy may be owing to the increase in the National Association of Realtors' Housing Affordability Index, now at its highest levels since the early

WALDWICK - It was a busy first night on the job for James

First, he was sworn in as a borough councilman to finish the remainder of the term of former Councilman James

Next, he was put in charge of Gibson's former committee, the Environmental Services Committee. Then, Toolen had the pleasure of informing the council that the dirt pile that has been sitting in the municipal parking lot has been classified as soil that can be moved to another site by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE).

This news was tempered by Borough Administrator Gary Kratz who told the council that, although the DEPE had finally classified the dirt after 21/2 years, the borough would now ment Agency before actually moving it.

Kratz estimated that it takes "two to six weeks" to get ap-

Toolen also said that borough wells 2, 3 and 7 have passed air stripper tests according to DEPE standards.

The DEPE also awarded the borough an engineering grant for a study on the Whites Pond Dam, said Councilwoman Denis Anderson.

"The problems (associated with Whites Pond Dam) won't go away until they are fully vironmental news at the meeting as odor problems have appeared again at the Northwest Bergen County Utility Authority (NWBCUA) plant.

Ken Gardner, president of the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air, told the council there had been six complaints lodged by residents on the weekend of July 16 and 17 in regards to odors coming from the NWBCUA plant.

He told the council there are some operational problems from his group's viewpoint that were leading to these complaints.

"We believe that the problems stem from the plant not being operational during the weekend," said Gardner. He said a lack of NWBCUA manpower on the weekend means that the incinerators for sludge are not in use.

Gardner said he had spoken to the "executive director of the sewer authority" who told him that he had spoken to Mayor Rick Vander Wende who had told him a proposed NWBCUA water capacity expansion "would be signed off on (July)

Vander Wende said that, although the resolution would be considered at the public meeting, it is "not true, I have not spoken to him.'

He asked when the NWBCUA had to hear from the borough on the application for an interim expansion. This is required because part of the application process requires that the host community, Waldwick in this case, consent to the request.

The resolution was reworked so that passage was contigent upon the council receiving satisfactory information prior to Aug. 1, which is the last possible date that the borough can consent to the interiem expansion increase.

With the approval, it requires the NWBCUA to provide the council with additional information concerning maintenace, staffing and incineration of sludge during weekends.

Rishon Membership Committee will be hosting an "Open House" at the Temple on Aug. 21 at 7 p.m. There will be a tour of the facilities and the opportunity to meet the temple's religious leaders, officers and members. Coffee and dessert will be served, and children are welcome.

Branagh's pitching, DeMenna's three-run double lift Waldwick Mack team in states

By BRIAN FARRELL 7-28-94

Two reliable producers for the Waldwick High School baseball team that recorded the best mark (27-2) in Bergen County this past season came to the forefront Monday evening at Vander Plaat Field in Fair Lawn to pump new life into their Waldwick Connie Mack team in the state tournament.

Mike "Moon" Branagh, 8-0 in the spring, spun a four-hitter to baffle Hoboken and help Waldwick stay alive in the eight-team, double-elimintion tournament with a 5-3 victory.

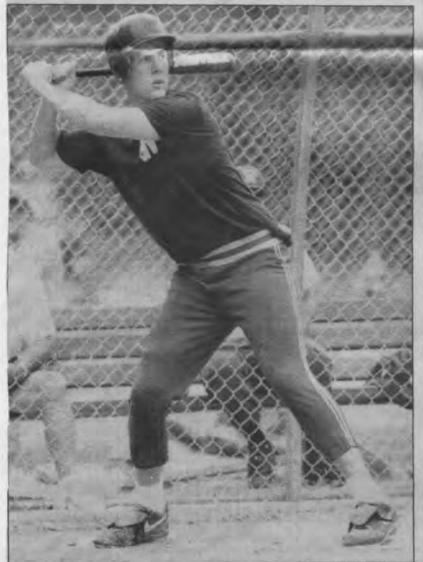

Branagh, a 6-foot-4 righthander, yielded just four singles, three coming in a tworun fourth, while walking three and striking out six, including the side in the seventh. He did not allow a hit over the final three innings.

DeMenna, who drove in a county-best 55 runs in the spring, drilled a bases-loaded double to the left-centerfield fence to break a 2-2 tie in the bottom of the fourth inning. It drove in Jason Bain, Mike Finnegan and Mike Raia, all of whom had walked.

The loss eliminated Hoboken (14-6, 0-2), while Waldwick (12-6, 1-1) plays today at 5:30 p.m. at Fair Lawn High School against the loser of last night's winners' bracket game between Paterson and Demarest.

"Their pitcher hung a curveball, and I took advantage of it," said DeMenna of his game-winning hit on an 0-0 count. "And Moon pitched a great game; he's been on all year."

Waldwick manager Ken Raia said he decided to use Branagh, an off-speed pitcher, instead of the hard-throwing Tom Hayes against Hoboken after watching the off-speed deliveries of West Milford's Shawn Romanker shut down Hoboken, 5-0, on Sunday.

"That was key in my decision," he said. "Mike doesn't throw many fastballs at all, although he has a better-thanaverage fastball. When he's ahead of you in the count, his split-finger fastball, curve and slider makes him tough to hit."

"Once Mike developed his split-finger fastball, he's been better off not throwing the fastball," Raia noted. "But he does have the ability to do so."

Raia was also pleased with his most celebrated hitter, De-Menna, a First Team All-State outfielder.

"It was a big hit," he said.
"Mark hadn't been hitting the ball that well, but he's hit in the clutch."

Fair Lawn's Joe Piela, Hayes'

cousin, got Waldwick on the board in the opening inning with a line-drive single to center that plated DeMenna. Piela, the catcher, will be Bergen Catholic's returning quarterback this fall; he also is a standout wrestler.

In the third, Jay Hagedorn of Midland Park lifted a long drive to left-center for a sacrifice fly, as Wyckoff's Ryan Hodgson, who led off with a double, scored.

Hodgson, this year's First Team All-County first baseman from Ramapo, is one of Waldwick's three draft choices for the state tournament. The others are left-handed pitcher Jim Thoelen of Mahwah and pitcher-outfielder Rob Moore, a resident of Dumont, who played for Bergen Catholic.

Editor's note: This space features a North Jersey neighbor who tells about his or her life.

since early childhood, I've been trying to improve on technical things. In addition to being able to understand the technical aspects of things, I became very handy.

I'm from Moscow, and I came to the United States with my family three years ago. In Russia, at the age of 3, I learned how to take doorknobs apart and I became responsible for maintaining all the doorknobs in the house.

There was a lot of suffering and hardship in Russia following World War II. It was a very tough time. My mother couldn't afford to buy me a briefcase for school when I was 14, so I made one for myself. It was a very complicated job and I was proud of it.

Later on, in college, I spent a lot of time studying mechanics, electronics, and communications in addition to my major courses. Then around 1964 I was sent to a Congress of Youth because of my technical achievements in school.

Among the people at that congress was Yuri Gagarin, the first man in space. I had an opportunity to talk with him between sessions when he stopped to shake hands with everyone. He had a charming smile. He was interested in everyone's background and told us he became interested in technical things as a child. Meeting him encouraged me to continue.

After my education, I worked in the design bureau of the communication industry and in 1965 I had the task of developing the first Russian telephone answering machine. They didn't know anything about those things, and my group studied the work of 10 leading countries, including the United States and Japan. We were able to obtain our own Russian patent.

In the early 1970s I put together a device that reacted to voice commands. You would say

"light," and the light would go on. The interesting thing is, it works on the same principle as the clapper. But back then, people in Russia couldn't believe it was possible.

In all, I had 15 patents in different areas of expertise. My inventions over the years have covered many areas, including construction, tape recorders, pumping devices, and the leather, fur, oil, and gas industries.

But my inventions in environmental protection are the ones I am most proud of. I've worked on solid- and liquid-waste incinerators that prevent the poisoning of surrounding water, air, and soil. I had a device for melting and filtering the snow taken off the street and one for filtering waste water from factories in the Moscow industrial complex.

When I left Russia, the country was in the initial phase of uncertainty, chaos, and false democracy. I realized that although I would eventually go into retirement, there was no real future for my son, Boris, there. He is an inventor himself.

I left a reputable position as head of the department for patents and new technology in Moscow. Before that, I worked for the scientific and research institute there.

When I came to the United States, I pursued one of my hobbies — restoring old mechanisms, like clocks. And I am negotiating with American companies on the use of some of my inventions in environmental protection. Environmental problems of a big city like Moscow are the same as those in any big American city.

I brought to this country a medal I received that recognizes inventions that led to a high economic payoff and contributed to the economy of the U.S.S.R. It is the highest honor for an inventor in Russia.

I noticed some striking differences when I arrived in the United States. Americans pay a great deal of attention to food, in terms of advertising, going to restaurants, and eating a lot. The attention people in this country pay to sex issues is striking, too. And the level of crime in big cities is something we are not used to. I still can't get used to being cautious about one's surroundings.

But in America, there is a highly organized volunteer movement. It ranges from a personal level, with people spending time and money to help others in need, to the national level. America helps many other countries, yet it's clear there are places right here where money could be spent. Americans are willing to help people without rewards.

I am hoping to develop new inventions that will help keep the air and water clean, to help preserve nature in this country, and help improve conditions for people who live here. I think that's the best way I can repay all the goodness I have received.

Salary arbitration reform is needed

To the editor:

For a number of years, municipalities and taxpayers have petitioned our state legislators to reform the 17-year-old, compulsory salary arbitration law covering police officers and fire-

This law has had a devastating affect upon municipalities, forcing them to accede to out of control salary increases for police and fireman, increases that have far outpaced those of most taxpayers. For example, the average police salary in Jersey City is $60,000 (not including benefits). Individual overtime and longevity payments add an additional $20,000 to $60,000.

Several bills that would have reformed the binding arbitration process have been allowed to gather dust and die. Our legislators pay lip service to reform but lack the political courage to go beyond rhetoric. Although Assemblyman Paul DiGaetano has held hearings on this matter, he refuses to release a compromise reform bill from his committee.

Chuck Haytaian, the assembly speaker, has refused to post an arbitration bill for a vote until Senate President DiFrancesco posts a senate bill addressing the problem. Senator Donald DiFrancesco claims that he cannot post the senate arbitration bill (S-1144) because the bill has not been released from committee. The author of S-144, Senator Peter Inverso, has inexplicably refused to release his own bill from his own committee.

It is obvious that the legislature is more concerned with courting the favor of the special interest groups than with serving the interests of the taxpayer of New Jersey. They tend to step over themselves to eagerly introduce and enact laws that promote salary increases and benefits for the members of the Police Benevolent Association (PBA) and the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA), benefits and increases that have driven up property taxes to the extent that New Jersey leads the nation in mortgage foreclosures, One of every forty homes in New Jersey is in foreclosure.

It is time for our legislators to concern themselves with matters other than campaigning and collecting money for their next election. Their callous disregard for the taxpayers, coupled with an obsessive concern for the PBA and the NJEA, has created the topsy-turvy condition whereby the taxpayers of New Jersey have become the obedient "public servants."

Law introduced to establish post of environmental officer

By JAMES HICKEY 8-3-94

WALDWICK - The borough council, in a continuing effort to use fully the environmental laws at their disposal, has introduced an ordinance establishing the position of an environmental officer.

The ordinance would allow for an environmental officer to specifically do three things for the borough:

1) To advise the mayor, council and environmental commission on environmental mat-

2) To keep the governing body informed of federal and state environmental grants or programs for which the borough may qualify, and

To identify, investigate complaints and incidents concerning the environment in the borough.

In doing so, the environmental officer will report to appropriate federal, state, county and municipal agencies. The environmental officer, at the direction of the mayor and council, shall pursue remedies available to Waldwick through the state's Environmental Rights Act.

The creation of the job goes hand-in-hand with an ordinance passed earlier this year establishing a policy of reimbursement to the borough of any costs incurred in a cleanup of hazardous material spills.

This ordinance forces violators (ranging from individuals to business enterprises) to reimburse the borough for wages, including overtime, and any benefits costs paid to employees as a result of an incident.

The ordinance also states that a violator is liable for attorney fees and costs incurred in the collection of the costs.

Any violator who fails to reimburse the borough within the alloted time can be fined up to $500 per day or be put into jail for up to six months.

The basis for these actions, according to the council's proposed ordinance, is the Environmental Rights Act which allows any person or municipality-such as Waldwick-to bring a civil action in court

Garbage is sticking point in joint plan

By PAT TADDEO

WALDWICK - The first monkey wrench has been thrown into the plan for the borough and the board of education to join services. The borough's garbage contractor, Stamato, didn't refuse the project but rather his price was just not cost effective.

Stamato will do the job for $19,000, providing the board of education purchases the containers. If they choose not to purchase the containers, the charge will be $24,000.

These prices do not include tipping fees which are based on the weight of the garbage, a cost that can range from an additional $7,000 to $10,000.

The next time the borough bids on a garbage contract will be in 1997.

Another problem in the area of waste disposal is the increase of tonnage being dumped compared to last year's figures.

Until April, everything was equal to last year. Beginning in April, and for the three months that followed, the tonnage going down to the landfill was 200 tons more than usual.

According to Stamato, the residents of Waldwick are putting out more vegetative waste than normal. Rather than putting out a few bags of sticks and debris at a time, they appear to be putting out whole bushes and shrubs.

The solution, according to the council, is to tell Stamato to abide by the contract and not to pick up the extra

Friday's arrests of two of the highest-paid and highest-ranking members of the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office on charges of illegally purchasing three cars at $11,000 below book value came as neither bad news nor a surprise to their colleagues.

"Everybody is thrilled," said a Prosecutor John J. Fahy said he was disappointed that Deputy Chief Edward Denning and Lt. Michael Carlino had thrown away distinguished careers that collectively span nearly 50 years.

Denning, 51, of Oradell, began his law enforcement career years ago as a graduate of the 69th State Police Class in Sea Girt. He worked as a state trooper, on general assignment road duty, from September 1965 until he resigned suddenly in February 1969. The circumstances surrounding his resignation were not immediately Denning then worked for the Palisades Interstate Parkway Po-lice, before he was hired by the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office in 1972. During the 1980s, Denning was selected to head the county's nine-member homicide sqaud.

The deputy chief of investiga-tions for the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office and a lieutenant in the narcotics division were arrested Friday on charges of using their positions to purchase former county vehicles at big discounts. Edward Denning, 51, the second Denning and Carlino are the only members of the Prosecutor's Office to face criminal charges during Fahy's tenure. In an unusual move, Fahy appeared at the arraignment Friday afternoon.

The two men appeared briefly before Superior Court Judge Sybil R. Moses and pleaded not guilty through their attorney, Dennis Calo. They were immediately sus-pended without pay, ordered to give up their county vehicles and weapons, and instructed not to have any contact with members of their office concerning the investifice said Fahy planned to select Denning as the county's new chief of investigations after Michael Tobin's scheduled retirement next vear.

Denning, who is paid $87,700 a year, was promoted by Fahy in 1992 from captain to deputy chief.

Carlino, 35, of Waldwick, is a 16-year veteran of the department who makes $66,500 a year. He was promoted from sergeant to lieu-tenant last year. Carlino served as an investigator and later a senior investigator of the Bergen County Narcotics Task Force.

One of Carlino's largest cases developed in 1985 when the task force arrested a former municipal judge in Lodi who was accused of buying cocaine. Carlino worked undercover in the sting, but the judge was later cleared.

If found guilty of official mis-conduct and theft by deception, Denning faces a maximum 15 years in prison and $107,000 in fines. Carlino, who is charged with two counts of each offense, faces as much as 30 years in prison and $215,000 in fines if convicted.

price that the seller asked for the cars, which was the same price that was being made available to the public.

Fahy, however, said the vehicles were never offered for public sale. He said the two essentially stole the buy-out option available at the end of the lease period. The option is supposed to be available only to the county for vehicles it intends to purchase for official use.

According to county records, the three vehicles were among 20 re-turned to Alco Cadillac and Pontiac in Englewood Cliffs when their three-year leases ended in April. The county replaced those vehi-cles with 20 1994 models, signing new three-year leases at a total cost of $261,047.

Two months after the county returned the vehicles, Denning and Carlino purchased three of them from Alco for substantially less than market value, records show.

The two officers received price breaks because they claimed they were buying the vehicles for the county, although neither was authorized to do do, Fahy said.

Fahy said Carlino, who was in charge of the lease deal, visited Alco before the county awarded the contract in April. He said he was not sure whether Carlino tried to gain special favor with the dealership, although he said Alco later turned out to be the lowest of three

"It gives the appearance of impropriety," Fahy said, "He's the number two guy on the task force who negotiates the contracts." Sources in the Prosecutor's Office said that in January, four months before the end of the lease, Carlino and Denning selected the vehicles from the fleet and reassigned them to officers who were given instructions to keep the mileage low and to take care of them. Denning, who assigned one of the cars to himself, instructed that the other vehicles not be used for any undercover work, sources said.

We were not allowed to use these vehicles for undercover work because they were concerned with keeping the vehicles from being damaged," said one prosecutor's office official who did not want to be identified.

According to state Division of Motor Vehicles records, Carlino purchased a 1991 Ford Explorer on June 10, paying $7,210 for the brown utility truck - about $6,500 less than the vehicle's $13,500 trade-in book value. The 4-wheel-drive truck had 33,076 miles on it, records show.

Denning purchased the 1991 Buick Century on June 1, records show. He paid $5,878 for the four-door vehicle with 37,325 miles, about $3,000 less than its book value. Eight days later, Denning reg-istered the car to his 26-year-old daughter Kristine, who lives at the family's Oradell home, according to DMV records.

Carlino also is accused of assist-Paramus, in the purchase of a 1991 Mercury Cougar on May 4 for $6,694. That car, which had a book value of $9,600, had been assigned to Denning before he took over the Buick Century, sources

Fahy identified Paul Carlino as an employee of the court system in Bergen County, but his position could not be identified late Friday. Paul Carlino was not charged with any wrongdoing.

Fahy said he was dismayed by the actions of two men he regarded as top-notch investigators and had previously promoted. He said he plans to file papers with the Attor-ney General's Office on Monday asking the state to take over the investigation and prosecution of the case.

"They have to come in and take er," he said. "We're too close to over," he said. "We're too close to this. These are men we work with and no matter what we would do in terms of prosecution, it would be seen as not good enough, even if it was the best we could do."

Denning, who has been with the investigation division since 1972, receives a annual salary of $87,700. Carlino, of Waldwick, is a 16-year veteran of the department who makes $66,500 a year. He was promoted from sergeant to lieutenant last year.

Fahy said the two men apparently worked in concert, although they were not charged with conspiracy.

Meanwhile, county officials said they may call Fahy to a closed session to explain how such alleged wrongdoing could occur in his of-

"No doubt, we would want some explanation of what happened," said Freeholder Richard A. Mola, the board's vice chairman.

The prosecutor, who is appointed by the governor, always has been fairly independent of over-sight from the county executive and freeholders.

The elected officials approve the office's budgets and its purchases, but the prosecutor can appeal any cuts in court, an option rarely invoked but always in the background in budget talks.

"We try to do what's best with them and certainly are aware of the tax impact," Mola said. "But he pretty much has his own budget and oversees his own department."

Area soccer players spark Jersey United

MP's Mejury nets 5 goals, 3 assists

By BRIAN FARRELL

Led by Parade Magazine All-American Wendy Hartwig of Ridgewood, there was a strong cast of area soccer players that joined forces with standout players, age 19-and-under, from central and South New Jersey to form this year's edition of the Jersey United Soccer Club that won the Italy Cup Tournament and was runner-up in the Holland Cup.

Despite missing the entire Holland Cup (seven games) with a strained patellar tendon (below the knee cap in her right leg), Hartwig scored six goals in the club's 5-0 run through the Italy Cup.

"Wendy didn't win the outstanding player award in the Italy Cup, but, in our judgment, she was the outstanding player," said Jeff Yearing, head coach of Jersey United and Hartwig's former coach at Ridgewood High Hartwig backs up Yearing's claim. She scored the winning goal in the championship game with 40 seconds left for a 2-1 victory over Denmark.

"Wendy definitely showed herself to be a national-level player against the competition she faced," Yearing

With the absence of Hartwig, it was Midland Park's Elaine Mejury who stepped up and picked up the scoring slack in the Holland Cup. Mejury netted five goals and assisted on three others.

"Elaine gave us the scoring depth we needed coming off the midfield line," Yearing said. "She really elevated her game in preparation for a Division 1 career at Monmouth College."

Ridgewood's Laura Picarelli snared the goaltending duties with Vernon's Kim Mateus. In five games, Picarelli yielded just five goals, posted two shutouts and averaged three saves a game.

"In the fourth game of the Italy Cup, Laura came up very big when she smothered a breakaway shot that kept Dianalund (Denmark) from taking the initial score in a 4-1 win for us," Yearing said.

Ridgewood's Erika Bauer netted three goals and one assist, but it was the biggest assist of the club's tour, as she fed Hartwig for the Italy Cup-clinching goal. She played outside back and central and outside midfield.

"Erika's greatest contribution was that of her physical play in the central midfield when we needed it to settle us down under trying circumstances," Yearing noted.

Ridgewood's Tricia Pappalardo also scored three goals and one assist. She played outside marking back and central outside midfield.

"Tricia was very versatile in playing a variety of positions in giving us a lot of depth with our speed and technical skills," said Yearing. "She allowed us to rely on our exceptional speed to vary our attacks and counter opponents on the defensive end."

Wyckoff's Karen DiDomizio, who will be a senior at Ramapo High School, had two goals and one assist playing a front-runner.

"Karen gave a great complementary look to our forward line and raised our level of play significantly," said Yearing.

Two future seniors at Waldwick High School also contributed to the club's success - Lisa Fontana on the forward line and Jeanne Kehrberger on the outside midfield.

"Lisa many times gave pressure opposite the ball and opened up scoring opportunities for others because of her unselfish play off the ball," Yearing said. "Jeanne's greatest contribution was her ability to put the ball into scoring position with her long crosses and accurate inside passing," said Yearing.

Midland Park's Amber Monaghan, who will be a senior, played both outside marking back and the mid-

"Amber had an outstanding game against Habo, Sweden, in the semifinals of the Holland Cup," Yearing noted. "She provided a steady influence in that game with her strong transitional skills leading to a quick buildup for our counter attacks."

Three girls from Indian Hills High School - 1994 graduate Kristen Zack and future seniors Liz Lawlor and Dana Hawryluk — also pitched in with their fine play. Hawryluk had one goal.

"Kristen and Liz did an exceptional job in marking opponent's best forwards," Yearing noted. "Dana, as a midfielder, provided the necessary offensive and defensive capabilities on the outside, working along with our central midfield to give us a lot of opportunities on the offensive end."

Pascack Valley High School's Candace Goddard played in the midfield and on the front line.

"Her level of play accelerated in the Holland Cup," Yearing noted. "She was a strong influence in making major contributions for our offensive setups."

Waldwick appoints an interim councilman

By PAUL J. TOOMEY Staff Writer

WALDWICK - The mayor and Borough Council have appointed James J. Toolen to serve out the unexpired term of Councilman James Gibson, who is moving to Houston.

Toolen, 31, a sales representative for GSI Automation, a manufacturer of pollution-control equipment in East Hanover, and his running mate, Kathleen Pender, 43, a public relations consultant for medical firms in Union County, both failed to get enough signatures on their petitions to run in the Republican primary in

The two opted for a write-in campaign, but again failed to muster the 28 votes needed to get on the November ballot.

On Tuesday, Toolen said he would try another write-in campaign to defeat the two Democrats who are vying for two seats on the council. He said his running mate in the campaign will be Arthur Weland, an engineer and former council member who serves on the Waldwick Board of Adjustment.

"It'll be a long road to haul," said Toolen, who will campaign on a platform that stresses ways to ease the tax burden. "But it's not been unheard of for write-in candidates to emerge victorious."

The candidates hope to fill the seats left by Gibson and Denise Anderson, who is not running after the expiration of her three-

The two Democrats, who are the only candidates on the November ballot, are William J. Branagh and Scott W. Stahlman.

"They have a tough job in front of them," said Branagh, 69, retired supervisor of maintenance for the Jersey City Public Library. Branagh also served on the council be-tween 1970 and 1982, losing a bid for mayor in 1972.

Stahlman, 38, a personnel manager for a computer firm, is executive director of the Bergen County Democratic Party and former Bergen County Board of Elections commissioner. He also served on the council between 1987 and ## adding to Waldwick disposal costs

By JAMES HICKEY

WALDWICK- Increases in the amount of "vegetable debris" have so far added $20,000 in fees to the borough's collection costs, according to the hauler hired last January.

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said he was told of a "significant increase" in tonnage by Vito Stamato & Sons, the garbage hauler. He stated the borough had been on schedule with former collection rates until April. Then, from April to June, there was an increase of 200 tons of garbage.

The administrator said Stamato & Sons told him that "vegetable debris" such as whole bushes and large tree limbs are creating the extra weight.

Kratz offered two options to the borough council: 1) the borough could continue as is and wind up disposing tons of extra garbage, the costs of which will be passed on to enforce the limits of the garbage contract which allows homeowners to discard a maximum of two bundles of three-footlong sticks and not whole bushes and large tree limbs like they are now doing.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende suggested that residents have to be "re-educated" as to what and how much can currently be put out in the trash.

Kratz said he is not certain what is causing the increase in the amount of yard waste, but he suggested the numerous thunderstorms that have hit the area may be a cause.

The council directed Kratz to tell Stamato & Sons to enforce the contract as of Aug. 15 and also to inform residents of what they may place at curbside for

Similarly, the council has not met with success in an effort to try to cut garbage collection costs for the board of education.

The council had told the board they would explore the option of combining the school's garbage collection into the borough's contract. Kratz informed the council the possibility does not seem to be cost effective at this time.

He told the council that

Stamato & Sons told him it would cost $24,960 plus fees to include the school system's garbage.

Kratz then asked the hauling company to rework the figures so that the boardcould buy a garbage container. Stamato informed Kratz that it would then cost the borough $19,080 to include the board.

"At that point, we would still be at a net loss and at best we would be at a push," Kratz said. The current board contract calls for an expenditure of about "$20,000 some odd dollars," he Kratz said he thinks the best option would be to wait until bids go out again for the garbage contract and to include the board in negotiations.

Although Vander Wende characterized the situation as "disappointing," he asked that Kratz continue to team up with the board in looking for savings.

Calo said Denning and Carlino accepted an "open invitation" from Alco Cadillac and Pontiae in Englewood Cliffs for county officers to purchase any vehicle formerly leased to the county which had been returned in exchange for new vehicles.

Alco owner Al Cohen did not return repeated calls this week.

Sources in the Prosecutor's Office, who asked not to be named, confirmed Alco had made the offer to other county officers, and that only Denning and Carlino accepted the deal.

"Whether it is legal or not, it wouldn't have looked proper to buy a car," a source said, speaking on condition on anonymity. "At the very least, you could be brought up on administrative charges.

Fahy said last week that Carlino the second in command of the county narcotics division - was in charge of negotiating a lease and visited Alco before the April contract was awarded.

Flood said his client played no role in negotiating the lease deal with Alco, the lowest of three bid-

Fahy alleged that the two officers returned to Alco after the new cars were received and, claiming they were representing the county, purchased three 1991 vehicles for about $11,000 less than their wholesale value. The vehicles had been used by the Prosecutor's Office until replaced by the newly leased cars.

Because the prosecutor received "bid waiver" from the Attorney General's Office for the lease deal, the contract did not have to be advertised publicly, as required for other purchases or leases. County and state officials said such waivers are granted for security reasons to protect vital information regarding undercover vehicles.

The waiver essentially removed oversight by the county purchasing office, which monitors the majority of bids and contracts by reviewing requisition forms, and placed the responsibility of privately seeking bids on Prosecutor's Office personnel.

"Once I saw the letter from the Attorney General's Office, anything to do with the car-leasing contract was out of my hands, said Frederick Cenci, county pur-chasing director. "That automati-cally became Fahy's business."

"County purchasing should be involved in these things," Cali-

Freeholder Anthony J. Cassano, who oversees the county's law and public safety committee, agreed.

"Without breaching the security issue, we should try to do everything we can to make sure the bidding process is as tight and de-pendable as possible," he said.

Bergen County officials on Wednesday said the desire for secrecy in the Prosecutor's Office when leasing new undercover vehicles earlier this year opened the door to the kinds of abuses two top police offi-

"The checks and balances obviously didn't work well in this case," Freeholder Todd Caliguire said. "This process is not right.'

Officials said the Prosecutor's Office, citing security concerns, was allowed to bypass normal procedure when it secretly solicited bids and awarded a $261,074 contract to lease 20 unmarked vehicles in Both men were charged with theft by deception and official misconduct and have been suspended without

While county officials questioned the process Wednesday, the accused officers and their lawyers blasted Bergen County Prosecutor John J. Fahy for bringing charges against the two men.

"These are criminal charges searching for a rationale," said Dennis Calo, who represents Denning. "Fahy pulled the trigger before getting his facts. There is no crime here. This was an arm's-length transaction."

Carlino's attorney, Raymond Flood, agreed.

"No crimes have been committed," he said. "The charges against both men will be dismissed."

Denning, who faces losing a $62,000 annual retirement pension if convicted, said Wednesday in his first public statement since his arrest that Fahy's "fabrication" of the charges has ruined his life.

"Fahy has devastated my family and my friends, who are as shocked as I am," said the 51-year-old Denning, likening eet Larry, Chris, and Larry C. Restleri, Chris Restieri, and Larry T. Restieri are close relatives: Larry C., 49, is the father of Chris, 24, and Larry T., 21, and all are bonded by tennis.

Family fanatics flourish

"Tennis for us is a family adventure," says Larry Sr., a Franklin Lakes resident. "We are all avid tennis fanatics."

The Restieris will soon embark on one of their most memorable adventures when their United States Tennis Association team — Quest 2 — travels to Albany, N.Y., to play in the level 4.5 sectionals. Last weekend, the squad ousted Poughkeepsie and West-

Larry Sr. took up tennis about 20 years ago and he taught his sons
a few years later. Chris and Larry Jr. both played for Indian Hills High School and took part in Eastern Tennis Association youth tournaments.

The Restieri men often entered father-son tournaments, with Chris and Larry Jr. taking turns as Larry Sr.'s partner (on the Quest 2

HOW TO PLAY; First read the list of words, then look at the puzzle. The words are in all directions — vertically, horizontally, diagonally, backward. Circle each letter of a word found and strike it off the list. The letters are often used more than once, so do not cross them out. It is best to find the big words first. When you find all the words listed in the clues, you'll have a number of letters left over that spell the Wonderword. ## Criminal cases coming undone?

By MICHAEL MOORE 8-13-94

The arrests of two high-ranking investigators in the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office could jeopardize other criminal cases, several lawyers and legal experts said Fri-

Defense attorneys involved in cases handled by Deputy Chief Edward Denning and Michael Carlino, a lieutenant in the narcotics division, said they are studying options for appeals or challenges to the prosecution cases.

Louis Acevedo of the Bergen County Public Defender's Office said he is considering a review of convictions and plea bargains stemming from cases handled by the two investigators.

Waldwick Resident

The question is, if the officers are convicted of having no regard for the law, then do they also have no regard for fabricating investigations or committing perjury on the stand?" Acevedo asked.

Hackensack lawyer Brian Neary, a former assistant prosecutor in Bergen and Hudson counties, said he also will review Carlino's role in a pending bribery case against one of his clients.

"I will make requests for information on how close he worked on this investigation," Neary said. "If he worked close to it, it could prove fatal to the state's case."

Denning and Carlino were arrested Aug. 5 on charges of theft by deception and official misconduct for allegedly using their positions and inside knowledge to purchase three vehicles, formerly leased by the county, for $11,000 below their wholesale value. They have pleaded not guilty and were suspended without pay.

"These charges could have a devastating effect on any cases where these officers have testified or are scheduled to do so," Acevedo said.

ARRESTS: Pose jeopardy

Frank Askin, a professor at Rutgers Law School in Newark, agreed the allegations present a problem for prosecutors. "It's natural to expect that a jury won't believe officers who haven't been straight and honest in their career. Their credibility is now an issue."

A spokesman for the state Attorney General's Office, which is handling the investigation of Denning and Carlino, referred all questions about the case to Bergen County Prosecutor John J. Fahy, who did not return calls Friday.

The number of recent or current cases handled by Carlino and Denning could not be determined Friday.

Sources in the Prosecutor's Office, who asked not to be identified, said the arrests pose a strate-gic problem for Fahy, who is saddled with determining whether certain cases have enough merit to prosecute without the officers' tes-

"Fahy may now be willing to offer plea bargains for serious charges he doesn't believe he can make stick without the testimony," one source said.

One prosecution that might face review is that of former South Hackensack Police Chief Arthur Montenegro, who said he may seek to have his case reopened.

In June, Montenegro pleaded guilty to a charge of witness tam-pering and was sentenced to five years of probation and 500 hours of community service. He also was banned from working in law enforcement. Montenegro had ordered two officers not to file charges against two young men detained on minor drug charges.

Montenegro maintains no wrongdoing and said his case deserves another look because Denning was a primary investigator. Montenegro, who now works as a truck driver, said Denning was belligerent during interrogations.

"In the interview he flat-out told me, 'You better think about everything you say because we don't give a [expletive] about your rights," Montenegro said. "The whole way he handled this was completely wrong and illegal."

Denning could not be reached for comment Friday.

> Dog helps police find burglary suspect

WALDWICK — A Hackensack man who allegedly climbed through the bedroom window of a Donald Place house while its occupants were home was arrested after the Police Department's K-9 unit found him in a nearby back yard, police said.

Ronald Fisher, 37, was charged with burglary and attempted theft, Sgt. Joseph Donofrio said. He was in the Bergen County Jail in Hackensack in lieu of $20,000 bail.

As the homeowner was walking downstairs at 10:30 a.m. Monday, he heard a noise that sounded like a crash coming from his daughter's bedroom. He went to investigate.

Police said the homeowner discovered Fisher standing in the bedroom and started screaming "get out, get out," Donofrio said. Fisher told the homeowner he would and left through the same window he had used to enter the house, police added.

'Lizzie' play to benefit Tomorrows Children

WALDWICK-"Lizzie Borden of Fall River" will be presented by Waldwick Boy Scout Troop 308 8 p.m. Friday Aug. 19 and Saturday, Aug. 20.

Free-will donations will benefit Tomorrows Children's Fund of Hackensack Medical Center,

The Peformance will be held at Saint Luke's Church, 340 N. Franklin Turnpike, Ho-Ho-Kus.

The play by Tim Kelly is being produced and directed by Waldwick senior Frank Wlderman for his Eagle Scout project.

Other Waldwick student cast members include Lori Prince, Barbara Maranzani, Andrea Pinyan, Kim Brown, Lisa Marshall, Alex Westner, Alexis Startz, Kevin Churchwell, Sara Harvell, Keith Rosso, Jessica Quast, Don Doraski, Danielle Doucette, and Danielle Nordyk.

The play concerns the unsolved murder of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Borden in Fall River, Mass, in August 1892. Mr. Borden's younger daughter by his first marriage, Lizzie, was arrested and tried for the double murder amid much publicity. She was found not guilty.

The case was never solved. However, solving how the elderly couple, who were locked in their house on a busy street, could be murdered in the middle of a hot sweltering day remains one of the great murder mysteries of American folklore.

Tomorrows Children Fund of Hackensack Medical Center provides support services to children afflicted with cancer and blood disorders as well as their families.

Taxpayer rape?

In March 1993, County Executive Pat Schuber announced his "Project Integrity" with great fanfare. His project was to replace the Bergen County Utilities Authority with a new authority, the Bergen County Improvement Authority. "The taxpayers of Bergen County deserve an agency that is efficient and free of political maneuvering," said Schuber.

Despite his rhetoric, however, the dismantling of the BCUA has become a $2.5 million dollar ripoff of legal fees, executive buyouts plus salary and expenses for a phantom department. His initiative has proven to be yet more business-as-usual, backroom dealings financed by the taxpayers of Bergen County.

The two commissioners Schuber appointed to help "clean up" the BCUA orchestrated costly buyouts for the two directors of the BCUA. This December, at taxpayers' expense, Schuber's appointees gave the directors a Christmas present. Mr. Toscano, deputy executive director, whose contract was to expire in March, 1995, was given a $169,000 buyout. Mr. McClure, executive director, whose salary of $146,000 makes him the highest paid public official in the county, was given a vote of confidence. His contract, which would have expired in January, 1995, was extended another year. Commissioner Trautwein (retired Bergen County Superior Court Judge) explained his action by stating that

Thomas Aquinas College during commencement ceremonies held on May 22: from Glen Rock, Joan E. Burke; from Mahwah, Amy Willa Ortiz and Amy Barbara Pielka; from Ridgewood, Susan Enright; from Upper Saddle River, Gregory Peter O'Donnel; from Waldwick, Andrew H. Fowler, Victoria M. Hageney and Maria Christine Terjanian.

OUTSLAY — Caroline L. (nee Farnum) age 39 years of Midland Park, NJ on Thursday, August 18, 1994. Beloved wife of John Outslay and sister of Samuel B. Farnum of Waldwick, NJ and Michael Grueters of New York City. Funeral Services on Saturday, August 20 from the J.H. Olthuis Funeral Home, 159 Godwin Avenue, Midland Park at 11 AM. Interment at the convenience of the family. Visiting hours on Friday, August 19 from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 PM. Memorial contributions to your favorite charity would be appreciated.

McClure (former Bergen County prosecutor) "has a family."

On July 21, the BCUA commissioners, with Pat Schuber's blessing, reversed themselves and approved a buyout for Mr. McClure in the amount of $235,000 plus free health benefits. Effective January, 1955, Mr. McClure will be able to sit home, clip coupons and collect this outrageous salary package at taxpayers' expense.

The BCUA has long been synonymous with waste and mismanagement. It has a deserved reputation as a political patronage mill for appointees, employees and contractors. Municipalities should not be held hostage to the Bergen County government-sanctioned BCUA monopoly. Local governments must be permitted to find less expensive garbage disposal alternatives. The present sys-tem has caused New Jersey's garbage disposal costs to soar to the point where they are now the highest in the nation. The only hope for the taxpayers of New Jersey is for the courts to deregulate the state's monopolistic control of garbage disposal and allow for the privatization of the waste industry. Only then will we be truly able to rid ourselves of trash.

On Monday, Aug. 15 at 10:30 a.m., a Donald Place resident phoned Waldwick Police and told them that he had heard a noise upstairs in his home.

After investigating, he confronted a man standing in his daughter's bedroom, who then retreated through an open window and fled.

Waldwick Officers Mark Messner and Frank Paccione, along with K9 Officer Sgt. Litchult and Officer "Brit," the dog, responded to the area.

A perimeter of the area established by Waldwick Police Chief Dan Lupo with the assistance of Officers from Saddle River and Ho-Ho-Kus.

He was brought to police headquarters where it was determined that there were active warrants for him for burglary and parole violations.

He was charged with burglary and attempted theft and was brought to the Bergen County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bail.

Sources: Board of Taxation in Bergen and Passaic counties, local finance officers, state Department of Community Affairs, and 1990 U.S. Census.

HOW THE CHART WAS COMPILED:

The calculation of each community's property tax change is based on a comparison of the total local levy for the budget years 1993 and 1994. The levy is the amount of money raised through the local property tax for municipal, school, and county purposes. That figure was then multiplied by the residential percentage of each community's tax base to separate out the amount owed by residents as opposed to business or commercial interests. That was then divided by the number of households in each community to arrive at a property tax change per household. The income tax saving per household was calculated by figuring the tax liabilities on the average per-household incomes as reported in the tax liabilities on the average per-household incomes as reported in the 1990 U.S. Census for each community.

Next, the Hackensack woman pulled some cat toys from her shopping cart, dropping them, almost furtively, in the farthest reaches of her car trunk.

"I don't want you to use my name," she said, apologetically, before acknowledging she had 20-odd assorted pets at home, including a lizard named Tiffany. "It's just that I'm afraid the Hackensack Board of Health will come after me. I'm a real animal lover — a vegetarian and everything."

Although not everyone has her menagerie, more than half the households in Bergen and Passaic counties are also homes to pets. There are more households with pets than there are households with children.

Petsmart, a West Coast chain looking to move into New Jersey, says it is "very, very attractive to us. Big houses and big yards mean big dogs, and lots of them."

That's not an entirely accurate picture of North Jersey. According to a 1991 survey by the American Veterinary Medical Association, New Jersey has a low rate of dog and cat ownership compared with the rest of the country. There are dogs in about 28 percent of New Jersey households; cats in 25 percent. That compares with national averages of about 40 percent and

The most populous region in the most densely populated state in the union, North Jersey is not an anomaly when it comes to pet ownership. Dog ownership tends to be highest in states with lots of open spaces, such as Texas, Oklahoma, and Wyoming, and lowest in the congested Northeast. Cat ownership is less predictable, but is generally lower in the Middle Atlantic.

New Jersey also tends to have more two-career couples, more single-parent families, and fewer children per household - mean-

Character of a leader

Editor, The Record:

Richard Reeves' July 31 column refers to a report on voters' views commissioned by the White House, which suggests that "The 'character' problem of Clinton is real but . voters are concerned about the quality of his political leadership, not his personal morality."

8-2294

It disturbs me to hear people separate character and leadership. Perhaps there is a misunderstanding about what character means. If a person lied to you on a number of occasions, would you trust him? If this person also often cheated on his wife, to whom he had made solemn vows, would you believe he wouldn't cheat you? Suppose he made a significant number of bad judgments in his personal life and in his business life; would you want him in charge of your affairs?

I am firmly convinced that you can't separate character from a person's ability to govern. The man of character believes in objective standards that he tries to live by. He doesn't lie because lying is wrong. He doesn't cheat on his wife because his marriage vows are sacred and should be honored. The man of character is a man of his word and he values others who keep their word to him. He is a man who believes in teaching his children by living out the principals he espouses.

As leader, he chooses people of similar values, and the result is an elevation of standards for all. We all know some people of character. We trust them. We look up to them. We learn from them.

The warning also allows for a summons to be issued 24 hours after the warning and a summons issued each day after until the owner of the house complies with the summons.

The borough board of health, department of public works and police and fire departments may now have snow removed from in front of a home if one of these departments deems it dangerous. After all efforts have been made to contact the owner of a home, the DPW will then remove the snow.

The cost of the removal will be charged against the home abutting the sidewalk and become part of the taxes levied on the house.

In regards to parking during snow, the town's ordinance now reads that whenever snow has fallen and the accumulation covers the road, no vehicle will be allowed to park on the street.

The parking prohibition will remain in effect until after the snow has ended and until the streets have been plowed so that parking will not interfere with normal traffic.

At least one resident was happy to see this new law enacted.

"I want to applaud the council for this because last winter I used to have to dig out from my driveway to the middle of the street due to the fact that three of my neighbor's cars would be parked in the street and the plow could not get to my driveway," said Georgina Starks.

Summer memories of snow

Heavy weather of last winter prods updating of ordinances

By JAMES HICKEY 8-2499

WALDWICK — As the sun sets on a long, hot summer, the borough council passed an ordinance brought on by the abominable weather of last winter.

Passed by unanimous vote, the ordinance amends sections of borough regulations pertaining to snow and ice removal from private homes and street parking during snow and other emergencies. "There are a few revisons that are made to clarify for safety purposes. Most of these changes were brought to our attention by the borough's Department of Public Works as well as the police and fire departments," said Councilman Joseph Musumeci.

The first amended section now reads that "All sections must be shoveled for the full width of the sidewalk and driveway apron. Any sidewalk terminating at a corner must be shoveled to the pavement surface of the sidewalk."

The reason for this amendment, according to the council, is due to the fact that some residents only shoveled a small pathway along their sidewalks, sometimes as small as four inches wide, and considered that a cleared walk.

Another amended section deals with depositing snow or ice when shoveling. It now will read "... It is the intent and purpose of this section to prohibit all persons from throwing, casting, placing or depositing snow and ice which accumulated within the private property ... upon the sidewalks or streets of the borough or upon other property without the owner's permission."

While some residents questioned the need for this new interpretation, Mayor Rick Vander Wende said the borough had received complaints from residents when a neighbor, in plowing out their own driveway, moved the snow to another neighbor's yard.

There are also two non-compliance provisions that will be enacted for the upcoming season. One allows police to issue a warning 24 hours after the snow has stopped falling to residents to clear their side-

Support WALVAC

8-24-91 To the editor: I recently received a letter from the Waldwick Ambulance Corp (WALVAC) stating that 75 percent of the families in Waldwick have not responded to their appeal this past April for donations to help defray the costs of operating a volunteer organization like WALVAC, It's inexcusable.

If for one reason or another one cannot volunteer physically, then the next best thing is to respond to their requests for a donation whether it is large or small. To ignore their request is unconscionable.

As residents of Waldwick for the past 44 years, we answered their call for financial help every year that WALVAC was in existence. We gave what we could each time.

I am sure if a medical emergency should arise at anytime of day or night, through good or bad weather you will be grateful to WALVAC for their professional expertise and help. A volunteer organization cannot operate without help and/or funds. Although I am not associated with WALVAC, I am making a plea on their behalf to please send in your donations. Be therefor WALVAC so that WALVAC can be there for you.

Politics of inclusion

To the editor: I would like to commend Al Kratzer for his cartoon which appeared in the July 27 edition of your newspaper. Showing the dilemma of Tom Kean, former Republican governor of New Jersey, as he spoke to the delegates of the state Republican Convention in Des Moines about the politics of inclusion. The politics of inclusion, as Tom Kean said, suggests unity on the principles that guide the Republican party while leaving room for differences of opinion. Mr. Kean considers himself a moderate or centrist Republican. His concern, as it is for many Republicans and other Americans, is that the far right should observe the separation of church and state, reject the politics of division and anger and promote the politics of inclusion. He fears this will not be the case. When one reads over the years of some of the things Buchanan, Limbaugh, North and Robertson have been and are engaged in, it is easy to see why there is concern. More Republicans should speak up and stand alongside of Tom Kean.

Getting rid of trash at BCUA

Editor, The Record: In March 1993, County Executive William F. "Pat" Schuber announced his "Project Integrity" with great fan-fare. His project was to replace the Ber-gen County Utilities Authority (BCUA) with a new authority, the Bergen Coun-ty Improvement Authority (BCIA).

"The taxpayers of Bergen County deserve an agency that is efficient and free of political maneuvering," said Schuber,

Despite his rhetoric, however, the dismantling of the BCUA has become a $2.5 million ripoff of legal fees and executive buyouts, plus salary and expenses for a phantom department. His initiative has proven to be yet more business-as-usual, backroom dealings financed by the taxpayers of Bergen

The two commissioners appointed by Schuber to help "clean up" the BCUA orchestrated costly buyouts for the two directors of the BCUA. Last December; at taxpayers' expense, Schuber's appointees gave the directors a Christmas present. Thomas Toscano, deputy executive director, whose contract was to expire in March 1995, was given a $169,000 buyout. Larry McClure, executive director, whose salary of $146,000 makes him the highest paid public official in the county, was given a vote of confidence. His contract, which would have expired in January 1995, was extended another year.

On July 21, 1994, the BCUA commissioners, with Schuber's blessing, reversed themselves and approved a buyout for McClure in the amount of $235,000 plus free health benefits. Effective January 1995, McClure will be able to sit home and collect this outrageous salary package at taxpayers' ex-

The BCUA has long been synonymous with waste and mismanagement. It has a deserved reputation as a political patronage mill for appointees, employees, and contractors.

Municipalities should not be held hostage to the BCUA monopoly. Local governments must be permitted to find less expensive garbage disposal alterna-

The only hope for the taxpayers of New Jersey is for the courts to deregulate the state's monopolistic control of garbage disposal and allow for the privatization of the waste industry. Only then will we be truly able to rid ourselves of trash.
