Students create educational murals

WALDWICK — After attending a workshop at Montclair State College last fall, Denise May and Nick Sinatra, member of the Waldwick Jr/Sr High School Pollution Awareness Action Committee (PAAC), encouraged the group to educate others about endangered species.

The committee invited the workshop speaker to make a presentation to Waldwick students, organized petition drives supporting protection for endangered animals, and worked with student artists to create environmental murals on corridor walls.

By the end of this school year, four paintings of endangered species will be finished: a snow leopard by senior Cheryl Dawson and junior Nicole Goodell; a bald eagle by juniors Mark De Manna and John Ruggiero; a blue whale by sophomores Megan Kunish and Holly Snyder; and a harp seal by freshmen Caitlyn Perry and Debra Harutunian. The students plan to paint additional murals next year.

During the 1992-93 school year, the PAAC also participated in a town cleanup. In February, committee member Allyson Green became the first student advisory member of the Waldwick Environmental Commission.

Brady graduates from FBI academy

WALDWICK — On June 18, Lt. Richard Brady of the Waldwick Police Department was among 256 law enforcement officers from around the U.S. and 18 other countries who graduated from the FBI National Academy program at Quantico, Va.

Internationally famous for its academic excellence, the National Academy Program, held at the FBI Academy, offers 11 weeks of advanced investigative, management and fitness training for selected officers having a proven record as a professional within his or her agency.

Attorney General Janet Reno was the principal speaker at the ceremony. The graduating officers were represented by the class spokesperson, Det. Chief Inspector Paul Leighton, Royal Ulster Constabulary, Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Lt. Brady joined the Waldwick Police Department in April, 1979, was then promoted to rank of sergeant in July, 1988 and to his present rank of lieutenant in October, 1990. He graduated from Pace University with a law degree in 1987.

Hot hitters top All-Suburban star cast

By JIM McCONVILLE

It was a year where the hitters were ahead of the pitchers for most of the season, and the All-Suburban baseball team boasts some powerful bats in a senior-dominated lineup.

The only two juniors to make the team last year return this season, as pitcher Tom Fleming of Hawthorne and shortstop Jay Hagedorn of Midland Park make it two years in a row.

Second baseman Dan Boniface of Fair Lawn was last year's sophomore of the year, and another second baseman, Jim English of Hawthorne, is the choice for the sophomore of the year this time.

Nine seniors and three juniors make up the unit, with Waldwick and Ramsey pacing the schools with three selections. Midland Park and Fair Lawn each snare two spots, while Hawthorne and Indian Hills each are represented by one player.

Ralph Weichand of Midland Park was named coach of the year for the first time.

MIKE FINNEGAN, WALDWICK —

The junior hurler made a big impact on a Warrior pitching staff that was very inexperienced coming into the season. He went 6-1 for the Warriors, losing his first decision before winning the next six. Not a big strikeout pitcher, he relied on the big ground ball. His earned run average was in the 1.80 range, and he had a high of 14 strikeouts against Paterson Catholic. In his six wins, the team scored 71 runs for him, and had 10 in his loss to Midland Park.

DOUG FINALE, WALDWICK —

A strong bat as well as a steady influence in the field, he moved from second base to third after the first two weeks to help strengthen the defense. He finished with a .360 average and had 31 runs batted, including a pair of 4 RBI games in the late season. He added five doubles and two home runs and had a game-winning RBI against Garfield that ignited a seven-game winning streak that got the Warriors a tournament berth.

MARK DEMENNA, WALDWICK —

Another in a long line of Warrior power hitters, this junior has the good combination of strength and speed. A .375-plus hitter, he smashed nine home runs and led the team with 36 runs batted in. He added three doubles and three triples to push his slugging percentage into the .700 range. He had a 5 for 5 game with two homers and five ribbies against Eastern Christian, and stole over 20 bases, being caught only twice.

WILMER L. MARTIN, 73, of Lakeville, Pa., formerly of Waldwick, died Wednesday. He was a carpenter. An Army veteran of World War II, he was a Purple Heart recipient and a member of American Legion Post 311, Hawley, Pa., and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6271, Benson, Ariz. Wyckoff relieved rapist remains in mental hospital

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

Wyckoff residents and officials breathed a collective sigh of relief Thursday after hearing that Donald Chapman would continue to be held in a psychiatric hospital, but they worry that he could be released in the fall.

"I think it's great," said Sally Singer, who lives a few doors from Chapman's Dartmouth Street home. "Maybe things are changing. Maybe they're [judges] thinking about the rights of the community instead of the rights of the criminal."

Singer, 30, who has two children, said the case of Conrad Jeffrey, the man accused of killing 7-year-old Divina Genao in Passaic, heightened the community's awareness of failures in the criminal justice system.

"That case made people more aware," said Singer, who helped collect signatures for a petition asking that Chapman be held. "People are tired of hearing about people who've been let out after committing crimes over and over again."

Chapman is expected to be held at a Trenton psychiatric hospital at least until the fall.

Debbie Chapman, Chapman's former sister-in-law and a Waldwick resident, said, "I'd rather see him kept in forever, but nothing is forever. I'm glad he's going to be getting more help. Not necessarily an evaluation, but therapy to help him work through this."

Before Chapman raped a West Milford woman in 1980, Debbie Chapman, 39, said she knew him as a "very quiet person" whom she didn't fear.

"That's what made it so hard,"

"I'd rather see him kept in forever, but nothing is forever."

Debbie Chapman
Chapman's former sister-in-law

she said. "But I'm definitely afraid of him now."

Patty Edwards, another Dartmouth Street resident, said she had a premonition that Chapman would be held.

"No one has said that he should be let out because he's been rehabilitated," Edwards said. "And I don't think that another three months is going to fix the problem."

Edwards said she feels sympathy for the family. "I understand he served his time, but my job is to keep my children safe," she said. "That's my responsibility as a parent — to make sure my children live in a safe environment. You could never feel safe with somebody nearby we know is a criminal."

Wyckoff Committeeman Harold Galenkamp Jr. said the town had been on edge waiting for the decision. "With summer coming, people should breathe a little easier," he said.

Linda Williams, the 49-year-old grandmother who launched the petition drives to keep Chapman confined, said she felt relieved. "Unfortunately, it's a temporary situation," she said. "He may not be criminally insane, but he's not a well person."

Waldwick urged to go high-tech

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — In a 45-page preliminary report, the Board of Education's Citizens Advisory Committee has recommended the purchase of more than $300,000 in high-tech equipment to prepare students for the future.

Charles Startz, chairman of the 10-member panel formed in January to evaluate the technology in the district, told board members they should invest in new computer, networking, and telecommunications equipment.

The $306,767 price tag for the new equipment, Startz argued, would be only 2 percent of the district's $13 million budget. Spread over five years, it would represent less than half a percentage point. The district spent $70,000 this year to beef up its technology.

The new equipment would be integrated into classroom learning and geared to technologically oriented occupations, Startz said. English, social studies, math, and science courses would be enhanced, and students might be able to link up with a computer library system from home, he said.

The recommendations include the hiring of a technology curriculum coordinator to plan curriculum and train teachers, Startz said.

School board President Paul E. Cottrell said the report was an "excellent beginning." Superintendent Patrick Piegari said the committee had "exceeded all our expectations."

Startz said that over the next six months the committee would be researching other possible uses for the equipment before submitting a final report.

Residents: One bag of garbage a week

7-4-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — In a move to combat the effects of the 13-county garbage strike, the borough has set up a contingency plan, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz announced on Thursday.

Borough residents will be able to take one bag of kitchen garbage per week to the a location behind the Department of Public Works (DPW) yard on 19 Industrial Way, where they can place the bags in garbage cans.

Kratz added that DPW employees will be checking identification to make sure the facility is only used by borough residents.

The facility will be open for garbage disposal Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Kratz said, "We have asked residents to keep as much (garbage) as possible in their homes."

But can they write?

Dear editor,

The eighth grade Early Warning Test was introduced in March of 1991 in order to determine whether New Jersey's eighth grade students are making sufficient progress mastering the basic skills in reading, mathematics and writing necessary to pass the eleventh grade High School Proficiency Test — a state prerequisite for a high school diploma.

Last spring, Concerned Taxpayers of Waldwick published a comparison of the EWT scores of Waldwick and the thirteen school districts that surround it. Of the surrounding districts, Waldwick scored second lowest in reading and fourth lowest in math and writing. Superintendent Piegari and the trustees indignantly protested that it was unfair to compare Waldwick's scores with those of the surrounding districts because many of these communities are more affluent. They complained that any comparisons should be limited to the districts that share Waldwick's "socio-economic classification." This year, we followed their suggestion in reviewing the EWT administered in March of 1991.

The New Jersey Department of Education classifies nine other Bergen County districts as similar to Waldwick in socio-economic status. In math, Waldwick's score was the fourth highest of the ten districts. Waldwick's math score was also higher than the average score of the county and similar districts in the state. However, for the second consecutive year, Waldwick's results in reading and writing were extremely poor. Of the ten similarly classified districts, Waldwick's writing score was the second lowest (9 out of 10). In reading, Waldwick's score was the fourth lowest (7 out of 10). More important, the district's scores in reading and writing were lower than the mean score for the county and for similar socio-economic districts statewide.

Although Superintendent Piegari received the EWT scores from the Department of Education in June of 1992, he failed to inform the trustees of the results until the Feb. 8, 1993 work session. The school district has yet to make a public report of the test results at a regular meeting of the board, as it is required to do by law. The EWT scores were even withheld from the public present at the work session.

But the comments of the trustees indicated that they were troubled by the report. The superintendent spent a great deal of time defending the results, prompting one trustee to exclaim angrily, "Our students don't know how to put a sentence together."

In the past, the superintendent has boasted that our children "consistently score high on standardized achievement tests." He recently told us that "students in grades eight through eleven, on average, scored at the highest possible grade equivalent (12.9) on all sections of the test." The latest results of the EWT, added to the fact that an unacceptable number of our high school graduates must take remedial courses in math and English before proceeding with their college studies, paint an entirely different picture.

We must not permit the superintendent to hide behind the meaningless, inflated results of self-serving "achievements tests" purchased by the district, or to persist in asserting that the per capita income and collective real estate values of our community limit the intellectual potential of our children. At a cost of $10,000 per pupil, it is reasonable to expect that our students be taught how to read and write effectively.

Mayor upset at seniors' position

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — At a recent council meeting Mayor Rick Vander Wende responded to the Golden Club of Waldwick's criticism of the senior room being named Litchult Hall.

Vander Wende said, "I thought it would be nice and other residents thought it would be nice to honor him. He was a long time member of the community grant committee. He has brought a great deal of money into the town."

Several members of the Golden Club of Waldwick, a local senior citizens' organization, had complained about the senior room being named after Russell Litchult, a current board of education member who served on council for 21 years before being defeated in 1992.

Golden Club members feel that the room, which is located on top of the ambulance corp building on Wyckoff Avenue, should have been named after Rose Ward, the founder of their organization.

Golden Club President Tom Fallon is opposed to Litchult's name on the room, in part due to Litchult's position on the 1992 board of education budget voted down by taxpayers after which Litchult voted against cuts.

Vander Wende added, "I was shocked and disappointed when members of the Golden Club complained. In my view the sign stays. We do not honor people, then unehonor them."

Are these the priorities for a competitive global economy? For educators and other citizens, the choice is clear: smarter students or football players. We can't have both. Ramapo made the right choice.

Isn't football's physical education important? Whole-body conditioning — not overemphasis on specialized muscles and beef layered on teenage frames — is important to all. Gym doesn't teach whole-body conditioning any better than 50 years ago. Luckily, there's a new breed of Phys. Ed. student leaving college: movement-science practitioners who understand the physiology of exercise.

What will ex-football players do with their spare time? Why not more (horrors!) homework, community service, extracurricular academic courses (funded by football-freed money), or sophisticated exercise instruction supervised by movement-science instructors paid the same way.

Ramapo College's move sends a message to our high schools, where administrators and boards of education sever teachers, drop courses, defer textbook buys, and jam 30-plus students into classrooms rather than touch football, that most sacred cow. These educators know the same half-dozen citizens show up at meetings to note wistfully deprived academic programs, whereas a hint of fewer freshman football games brings 50 angry parents to their gates. And so, with little fear, educators shortchange academe and roof

Editor, Community:

7-7-93
Outrage over Ramapo College's decision to drop football isn't surprising, given America's love affair with competitive (Kick their butts!) sports.

Why pick on football? Ask your football-player son — or another's son — how many hours he spends on football.

This premier sport is the most costly, most dangerous, and most gender-exclusive.

What about football scholarships? Spend football money on academic scholarships.

Doesn't football make money? Its costs can be hidden in other budget items; "cooked" books feed the egos of administrators,

CONNIE MACK

WALDWICK STAYS ON A ROLL

By GREGORY SCHUTTA
Staff Writer

RIDGEWOOD — For a team that nobody wanted, Waldwick is making quite a run in the Passaic/West Bergen Connie Mack League.

Waldwick is undefeated following Wednesday's 17-0 drubbing of Ridgewood, and with seven games left in the season, appears to be in the driver's seat for the state playoffs.

"I'm very surprised at this," Waldwick coach Ken Raia said. "Nobody wanted to coach this team. It nearly came to the point where there wouldn't be a team."

And that would have been a shame considering the show they put on Wednesday night against Ridgewood. Tom Hayes, pitching his first game in two weeks because of some torn muscles in his elbow, came back with five innings of three-hit ball and seven strikeouts.

"I really wanted to come back," he said. "I'd been throwing on the side during the time off and the elbow felt fine. It felt real good out there tonight."

That was music to Raia's ears because this is the first in a stretch of seven games in nine days, including a Tuesday night showdown with West Milford, the only other undefeated team in the league at 8-0-1.

"It's great to have him back," Raia said. "This is a make or break stretch for us, and we just don't have enough pitchers. I'm going to have to get five innings from all my starters just to survive."

And surviving means ending up with one of the two best records in the league. The team with the third-best record, which previously would have joined the top two teams with an automatic bid to the state tournament, will instead have to play in a round-robin elimination tournament with teams from other area Mack leagues for a wild-card berth in the tournament.

"This is definitely a tough stretch, but if we play like we've been playing, we can win them all," Hayes said.

"I think if we go 5-2 the rest of the way, there's no way you're keeping us out of the states," Raia said. "If it's 4-3, I think we'll be OK. Anything below that and we're in big trouble."

Raia has begun stockpiling arms. Besides Hayes, who raised his record to 2-0 Wednesday, he also has Mike Finnegan, who has won his last 10 games going back to Waldwick's high school season.

"We're also getting Mike Branagh back from Mantle which should help a lot," Raia said.

Most of the hitting has been supplied by Mark Demenna, Doug Sneyers, and Ed Abruzzee. Demenna went 4-for-5 against Ridgewood with a double, triple, and two RBI. Before flying out to left in the fifth, Demenna had hit in each of his last nine at-bats.

"We've been hitting well this year, but not for power," Raia said. "I knew going in that we'd have two or three good pitchers and excellent team speed, but there's not a lot of power on this team."

For a team that nearly didn't have a coach, that shouldn't be much of a concern. They appear to be doing pretty well without it.

Waldwick tax burden reduced

By JOHN TOIVONEN 7-8-93

WALDWICK — After receiving a $257,680 state grant designed to lessen the tax burden, the council has passed the 1993 municipal budget.

The $7.8 million budget will now add only $43.20 to the average taxpayer's levy. This is down from the $108 figure before the borough received the grant.

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz, who had urged the council to wait for a possible grant, was elated by the positive news.

"It was one of reasons this town held out as long as it did," he said.

The budget had come under heavy fire from several residents including former Mayor Frank McKenna, who claimed the proposed $108 increase would be a hard one for residents to swallow.

McKenna harshly criticized what he saw as an excessive reserve fund set up to help the borough pay its bills on time.

Councilwoman Denise Anderson feels that McKenna's criticisms were unfair. "We have not gone anywhere near his reserve fund (when he was mayor)," she said.

The 1993 budget, which is a 5 percent increase over last year, will raise the tax levy from 48 cents to 50.5 cents per $100 of property value. This is down from the old figure of 54 cents.

The combined municipal, school and county budget will add 10 cents to the tax levy, which translates to a $180 tax increase for a resident with a $180,000 house.

The Waldwick Concert Band will perform an outdoor concert on July 13, 8:30 p.m. at the Crescent School in the borough. Admission is free. Bring lawn chairs. Baritone Mark Murphy will be the vocalist. For more information, call 664-2939. Selections will include show tunes and classical pieces. 7-8-93

On July 3 at 2 a.m. a passer-by stopped Lt. Brady of the Waldwick Police Department to report that an Isuzu Trooper with heavy front damage had pulled into a driveway on Wearimus Road.

A search of the car's registration revealed that the vehicle belonged to a 20-year-old Midland Park man. Police called his home and spoke with his parents, who told the officers that their son had been in an accident and had brought the vehicle to 215 Wearimus Road. Police interviewed the driver, who admitted he had struck several trees on West Saddle River Road. Police then charged the man with leaving the scene of an accident.

Authorities probe death of man struck by train

By JIM CONSOLI 7-10-93
Staff Writer

Mahwah police on Friday were investigating the death of a Ramsey man who authorities said was struck in the head by a train Thursday night as he was apparently leaning onto the tracks.

Arthur Gannon, 34, was killed instantly when hit by the NJ Transit train on a stretch of track some distance from the Mahwah station shortly after 10:30 p.m., said Mahwah Detective Lt. Ray McGill.

"It hasn't been determined yet whether the incident was an accident or a suicide," McGill said.

Gannon was pronounced dead at the scene by the Bergen County Medical Examiner's Office. He was identified by investigators Friday, McGill said.

A few hours before the incident, Gannon had taken an NJ Transit train from Allendale to Mahwah after apparently visiting a girlfriend in Waldwick. "He had a ticket stub for the train in his pocket," McGill said.

The Hoboken-bound train that struck Gannon had left the station in Suffern, N.Y., minutes before the accident. The next scheduled stop was in Ramsey, McGill said.

An NJ Transit spokesman said the engineer slammed on the emergency brakes but was unable to stop in time.

The train was traveling about 50 mph — within the speed limit — when it hit Gannon, police said. About 20 passengers were transferred to another train.

Council: To trust or not to trust low bidder

By JOHN TOIVONEN 7-11-93

WALDWICK — The council has found a low bidder for a shared leaf removal operation with Ho-Ho-Kus, but based on the firm's past performance, council members have reservations.

While providing leaf removal services for the borough in 1985, Environmental Renewal, a Wanaque-based firm, illegally buried debris at the borough compost site on Wyckoff Avenue. While it did eventually remove the debris this incident has left many residents and councilmembers with bad feelings.

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra feels that Environmental Renewal cannot be trusted. If the council hires the firm, it would be repeating a past mistake, according to Sinatra.

"I'm recommending we don't (hire the firm). I don't want to put the fox in the chicken coop again," she said.

Borough Attorney Menelaos Toskos is concerned that a lawsuit could result if the low-bidder is not hired.

"You'll have to prove he was not a responsible bidder. You'll also have to show he is not responsible today. He may sue," Toskos said.

In 1986 the borough hired the firm again, a fact that Toskos thinks Environmental Renewal would use against the borough in court.

Hiring the firm would amount to large savings for the borough. It is charging a removal fee of $3.50 per yard, while most of the other bidders came in around $5 per yard.

Councilman Joseph Musumeci doesn't think the council should dismiss the firm because of a past problem. The fact that the borough hired Environmental Renewal a year after the incident is a sign that the firm can be reasonable in its policies, according to Musumeci.

Councilman James Gibson admits the cost issue is "compelling," but he still doesn't trust the firm.

"(He had) the audacity to do something he knew was illegal. That's the character of the person. That doesn't change."

Gibson may be willing to use the firm, but he has reservations and wants his Environmental Services Committee to look into the issue.

The council will consult the Ho-Ho-Kus Council before making a decision.

Full garbage service restored

WALDWICK — After a disruption in service that lasted less than a week, full garbage pickup has been restored, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz announced Wednesday.

The garbage strike had forced residents to take their garbage to the DPW yard on 19 Industrial Way and limited them to one bag of kitchen garbage per week.

Kratz added the borough will renew its recycling program on Wednesday, July 14. — J. TOIVONEN

Waldwick budget grows Uncollected taxes blamed

By CHARLES SAYDAH
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — A drop in tax collections and increases in insurance costs and salaries have combined for a 6.1 percent increase in the municipal budget adopted by the Borough Council.

This year's budget of $7.9 million is up $455,000 over last year's $7.4 million. The biggest single portion of that increase is due to the $590,000 reserve for uncollected taxes, up $190,000 from 1992.

This year's $3.4 million tax levy is up $160,911 from last year's $3.2 million; the 1992 municipal tax rate of 48.2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is expected to rise 2.4 cents.

This means that the owner of a home assessed at $180,000 will be paying $911 in municipal taxes, up $43 from 1992.

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said uncertainties about last year's tax bills contributed to a 96.5 percent tax collection rate, about a percentage point less than usual.

The state Legislature's failure to settle how much aid would be given to municipalities caused those problems, which were settled in the summer. However, by then, estimated tax bills had been mailed to property owners.

"It confused a lot of people," Kratz said. "It confused us."

Nearly $40,000 of a $213,000 increase in salaries for municipal employees — to $2.4 million from last year's $2.2 million — reflects higher labor costs for snow removal earlier this year, Kratz said. An additional $90,000 is going for terminal leave to retiring workers.

An 18 percent increase in premiums to Blue Cross-Blue Shield of New Jersey for health insurance has added $46,000 to 1992's costs of $254,960.

The budget was adopted by the council last week.

W. Milford pitcher stops Waldwick

By GREGORY SCHUTTA
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — West Milford's Shawn Romanker doesn't blow the ball by a batter, but when he's on, he's untouchable.

The right-hander kept batters off balance with a steady diet of curveballs as West Milford handed Waldwick its first loss of the season, 7-4, and tightened up the race for the top spot in the West Bergen/Passaic Mack League.

"I was just trying to hit my spots," said Romanker, who allowed five hits and struck out six in 6 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings to pick up his fifth win of the season. "I had two curves I was throwing tonight. Some batters I started with the curve and some with the fastball."

"He kept getting ahead of us," said Waldwick coach Ken Raia, whose team is 13-1 and just a half game ahead of West Milford (12-1-1) with two to go for the league title. "The worst I think he got on a guy was 2-1. When a guy's got control like that, you can't let him get ahead. You've got to swing."

Romanker only made three mistakes, and each was deposited in the trees beyond the outfield fence — two by Mark Demenna. But Romanker got his revenge in the seventh, striking out Demenna on three pitches to lead off the bottom of the inning.

"I just felt it would be a good high for us," said Romanker, who was thrilled to find out Demenna would be leading off the inning. "He'd smacked two long ones off me earlier in the game."

Earlier in the game, it looked like Baltimore's Oriole Park at Camden Yards during Monday's home run hitting contest as two balls left the park in the first inning.

West Milford got things going with two outs in the top of the inning when John O'Reilly reached on an error and Dave Haynie walked. Designated hitter Mark Maire followed with a blast over the short fence in right field at Waldwick High School for a 3-0 lead.

"When we came here I saw that fence and just tried to hit it there," said Maire, who will be a junior at West Milford this year.

But Waldwick came back with two unearned runs when Mike Raia's popup into short center was dropped leading off the inning and Demenna smacked the first of his two homers with two outs to cut the lead to 3-2.

CONNIE MACK

The bottom fell out for Waldwick pitcher Mike Finnegan in the third as West Milford scored four runs on two hits and two errors. Maire smacked a perfect hit-and-run single through the vacated shortstop position for his fourth RBI of the game, and Pat Mulligan scored another run on a failed suicide squeeze when Finnegan failed to cover home after the relay throw got past the third baseman.

The matter, however, was not settled until the bottom of seventh with the tying run at the plate when John O'Reilly came in and struck out pinch-hitter Paul Stone to end the game.

"This was probably the biggest win of the year for us," West Milford coach Bob Henry said. "They're the division leader in the east and we're the division leader in the west. This was the only time we would face them."

Both teams are virtually assured of automatic bids into the State Connie Mack tournament as the top two finishers in the league. If Waldwick beats Midland Park tonight or Wyckoff on Friday, West Milford would have to win both its games against the Bergen Crusaders Thursday and Wyckoff on Monday to win the league.

Waldwick scored an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth inning Tuesday night to stun previously unbeaten North Haledon, 2-1, in a North Jersey Majors game.

Bob Wagner gave Waldwick (8-16-1) the lead in the second inning with a solo home run. After North Haledon (24-1) tied it in the third, pitching dominated until the eighth, when Frank Licari scored on a grounder through the shortstop.

Paul Albarella (4-1) picked up the win and Ernie Fisher (7-1) absorbed the loss.

Residents won't get first dibs on housing

7-15-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Low-income housing is coming to the borough, but due to a recent New Jersey Supreme Court decision, it will not help Waldwick residents.

The decision makes it illegal to give preference to borough residents when offering low- to moderate-income housing. This disturbs council members who wanted to offer housing units to borough senior citizens.

Councilman James Gibson said, "I want to go on record stating my disappointment with the supreme court's decision. There are people who put their lives here. I think it's a shame."

Councilman Arthur Barthold

added, "We were hoping (boro seniors would get preference), but we got stabbed in the back."

Greenway Development, a Montvale firm, is building 35 housing units on Wanamaker and Wyckoff avenues. Seven of these units are designated low- to moderate-income housing units.

Originally, the council had put a provision in its ordinance offering 50 percent of the units to people who lived or worked in Waldwick.

At present, the council is working on an agreement with the New Jersey Housing Mortgage Finance Agency to market the housing units. The agency will also decide who will meet the requirements to buy the properties.

GARBAGE — If the garbage strike is still in effect at press time, residents can bring one bag of wet garbage per week to the borough's recycling center. Hours are 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays, Tuesday and Thursday 6-8 p.m., and Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. It may also be helpful to double bag wet garbage you have to store, and add some ammonia to the bag.

CUB SCOUTS — Members of Cub Scout Pack 308 wish to extend congratulations to the following scouts who recently graduated and crossed over to Boy Scouts: Sean Burke, James Geronimo, Matthew Godfroy, Matthew Latham, Jonathan Levin, Richard Nazario, Thomas Startz and Thomas Stonehouse.

In addition to beginning as Tiger Cubs, all the boys have persevered to earn the Arrow of Light award, the highest achievement in Cub Scouting.

SEMINAR — Save your marriage before the wedding. Even before you say "I do," there are steps you can take to ensure a happy marriage. One of those steps is premarital counseling using a computer scored questionnaire.

A similar method can also help married couples who are finding their relationship strained. To find out more about these services, attend a free seminar, "Solid State Marriages," on July 21 at 8 p.m. in Christ Community Church, located at 136 Wyckoff Ave., directly across from the Waldwick High School Athletic Field. Call 447-3065 for further information or to reserve a seat.

LIBRARY NEWS — Jeannette Miggels of Waldwick is exhibiting her miniature paintings and related items at the public library this month. Miggels, who works in oils, watercolors, and pastels, has studied with well-known artists Paul Burns and Joe Hing Lowe.

Hand-painted silk scarves and paintings on silk, fashioned by Joan Berglund of Waldwick, may be seen in the Main Room display case in the library. Berglund is a graduate of the Traphagen School of Fashion.

NEWSPAPERS — Members of Boy Scout Troop 308 will conduct the monthly newspaper collection drive July 17. Tie newspapers in stacks no higher than eight inches and leave them on the curb. The recycling company will not accept magazines. Recycling is the troop's only form of fund raising.

WPI-TV — WPI-TV will soon air the recent graduation ceremony at Waldwick High School. Throughout July, the Memorial Day Parade, the honoring of Mabel B. King, the founder of Waldwick Girl Scouting, the Lions' Club carnival announcement, and the Waldwick Baseball Association Opening Day Parade will air.

WPI-TV can be seen every Wednesday at 7 p.m. on channel 19/F on the TCI cable system.

BENCH PLAY LEADS WAY

By GREG MATTURA

LYNDHURST — The American Division reserves handled their unfamiliar backup roles far better than their National Division counterparts in Friday's Metropolitan Baseball League All-Star game.

Shortstop Bob Frassa of Hackensack led the charge as the American Division gained the upper hand over the final five innings to break open a tie and help earn a 5-4 victory at Breslin Stadium.

The Americans overcame a 2-0 first-inning deficit and took control in the sixth inning, using four singles — and three errors by National reserves — to score three runs and open a 5-2 lead.

Frassa earned the game's most valuable player honors thanks primarily to a run-scoring single in the sixth that gave the Americans a 3-2 lead. His one-out single through the left side scored Moonachie's John DiGirolamo, who had reached on a leadoff infield single.

"We were ready to go," Frassa said of the American bench. "I think we were a little more up than they were, I'll say that."

The National reserves — who made four errors — made three errors within a five-minute span in the sixth inning that allowed the Americans to score twice more and open a three-run lead.

With one out and runners on first and second, Glen Rock's J.R. Reid hit what looked to be a routine fly to left, and two errors followed. The first came when the ball was dropped. The second came when an infield throwing error allowed Frassa and Glen Rock's Bob Shaffer to score.

"I thought we were going to win after that," Frassa said. "But it got a little scary at the end."

Despite five errors, the Nationals had a chance to tie it in the ninth inning. But with the tying run on third, Tim Byron of Hackensack registered his third strikeout of the inning to end it.

"We had good subs," American manager Steve Dembowski of Moonachie said. "They went in after the fourth inning and did the job."

The Nationals scored the first run of the evening off Moonachie starter Kevin Thompson with help from the wind — and a sprinkler cap in center field.

It began with Wayne's Mark Wright reaching on a leadoff single when his pop-up in foul territory behind first base blew back fair — and beyond the reach of first baseman Jeff Gensheimer of Waldwick.

One out later Saddle Brook's Joe Carter hit a liner to straightaway center, and Moonachie's Mike Lauterhahn got his cleat caught in a sprinkler cap as he gave chase. Wright scored all the way from first and Carter wound up with a triple, then scored on a groundout by Parsippany's Spencer Day to make it 2-0.

The Americans parlayed an error and back-to-back hits in the second by Hackensack's John Kroeger and the Merchants' Rob Siegel to tie the score, 2-2.

Patients back to 'normal'

By JOSH MARGOLIN
The Herald & News

Waldwick Resident
RIDGEWOOD — James Blair, a Valley Hospital heart patient, never thought life after a heart attack could be "normal." But that is just what it has become for the 62-year-old retired truck driver.

Blair is only one of the heart patients who have been able to return to a regular lifestyle thanks to a revolutionary medication, Vesnarinone, being tested at Valley.

Vesnarinone's mission is simple: it stimulates the heart muscle, and for those afflicted with congestive heart failure, often caused by heart attacks, the drug could mean the difference between life and death.

"It was just unbelievable," Blair said. "My life is normal."

After his heart attack nearly six years ago, Blair contacted Dr. John Strobeck, who said Blair's congestive heart failure caused by the October 1987 attack, would not hinder him and would not force him to undergo a heart transplant.

"We have reduced mortality by 62 percent in a group of patients that have a high mortality rate," Strobeck said. "This treatment is the best we've seen so far."

Strobeck, the hospital's coronary care director, is leading Valley's research team, the only group working on Vesnarinone in New Jersey. And he said the medicine's results are nothing less than "superior."

"The chances of survival are two to four times better," Strobeck said, practically cutting mortality rates in half.

While not yet approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Strobeck said the drug is currently prescribed throughout Japan and Britain with good results.

Blair, however, said that he doesn't need statistics to see how effective Vesnarinone actually is.

"Initially, there was not much response from my body in accepting it," Blair said. "Then they put me on the 60 milligrams. Within four days I felt that I could jog."

Blair said he doesn't jog — doctor's orders — but "it was just unbelievable. I didn't have the ability to walk (long distances). Now, I do walk two miles a day, sometimes more. And I can still dance a little bit. My life is normal."

With the FDA application process now under way, Strobeck admits the medication has one side effect but stresses that it is reversible if found in any patients taking Vesnarinone.

"It's a serious effect and creates a risk of infection that needs to be watched very carefully," said Strobeck, adding that 2.5 percent of the patients using the drug experience dramatic drops in white blood cell counts.

That effect, he said, would be found in the first 16 weeks of treatment and is dangerous but not life-threatening as long as a cardiologist closely monitors the patient using the drug.

For those who do not suffer the adverse effect, though, the drug is a great accomplishment.

"There were two other doctors that were my family physicians that said to me that they wanted to put me on the list for a heart transplant," Blair said. "But I met Dr. Strobeck and I'm very fortunate."

Mt. Laurel comes to Waldwick

7 affordable-housing units in condominium project

WALDWICK — Construction of the borough's first seven units of Mount Laurel housing has begun, but officials say the state-imposed 96-unit obligation is unrealistic and likely will never be met in a town with so little developable land.

The low- and moderate-income units are part of a 35-unit cluster development known as Greenway at Waldwick, at Wyckoff and Wannamaker avenues. Twenty-eight of those units will be sold at market-rate prices.

The market-rate units — two-bedroom, 1,200-square-foot condominiums and garages — are expected to be sold for $149,500, said Greenway's marketing director, Henry Haake, who said the project should be completed within a year. He said he could not say how much the Mount Laurel units would sell for.

The Mount Laurel rulings, named for the Burlington County township that was the defendant in two major fair-housing cases, prohibit municipalities from using their zoning codes to block construction of low- and moderate-cost housing.

Greenway is being built as a cluster development because the 6-acre tract, zoned by the Borough Council for Mount Laurel housing, is divided by the Ho-Ho-Kus Brook and contains wetlands, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said.

While the condominiums are being erected on a two-acre upland portion, the other four acres will remain undeveloped, Kratz said. The 2.2-square-mile borough consists primarily of single-family homes, with an average assessment of $181,100. It is 98 percent developed, Kratz said.

"It's not a matter of not trying to fulfill our [Mount Laurel] obligation," said Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra. "It's just that I don't see where we can put that many units or families."

Planning Board Chairman Scott Lemmon said there are two or three sites remaining that have been designated for Mount Laurel housing, each of them a minimum of two acres. How or when those sites are developed will be determined by builders interested in those properties, he said.

"We've set aside the land we thought was adaptable for Mount Laurel housing," Lemmon said. "These things come about if they're economically feasible. But you need vast unused tracts of land, which we don't have. And you can't change the character of the area, which means no 20-story buildings."

Kratz said council members would have liked to reserve several of the affordable units in the Greenway project for Waldwick residents, but recent Supreme Court decisions have declared such preferential clauses to be unconstitutional.

The council last Tuesday introduced an ordinance to allow the state to broker the seven affordable units, under the Department of Community Affairs' Affordable Housing Management Service.

Program director Jane Wheatley said that by using the state's computerized information system, income-eligible prospective buyers can be located, interviewed, and certified from a statewide pool of applicants.

Resales can be monitored for a 20-year period, and towns can more easily keep track of their affordable-housing quotas, she said. Also, the borough will save money by not having to hire its own coordinator, she said.

The program charges a fee of $500 per unit paid by the developer on the original sale, and $250 per unit paid by the seller on a resale, Wheatley said.

A public hearing on the ordinance for the brokering agreement will be held Aug. 10. The borough needed an ordinance because the arrangement involves a contract between government entities.

The Greenway project is being built by Greenway Construction Co. Inc. of Montvale, headed by Eric Koskinen.

Kickers tie in opener

The Waldwick Kickers used a late goal from George Sivuika to salvage a 2-2 tie with Sportfriends in the opening round of the New Jersey Sportfriends Soccer Cup Saturday night at Sportfriends Oval in Wayne.

In other opening-night action, Doxa tied the N.J. Nationals, 2-2, and Clarkstown scored three goals in an eight-minute stretch to blank Elizabeth Portuguese, 4-0.

Waldwick assumed early control against Sportfriends, scoring six minutes into the match as Bruce Meyer headed a pass to Chris Coulhard, who fired a shot past goalkeeper Vince Porta.

Sportfriends tied it, 1-1, in the 25th minute, on Mike Vollmin's 20-yard blast from a sharp angle. The host team carried its momentum into the second half when Eric Angermund scored four minutes after the intermission.

Sivuika's game-tying goal was in the 55th minute. He stole the ball from a forward near midfield, then hit a 35-yard shot that dipped inside the top right corner of the cage.

Late heroics were the story of the Doxa-Nationals duel. Jaller Guarin took a pass from Mehmet Boga in the final minute, and sent a 16-yard shot past Nationals keeper Thoukis Stavrianidis.

Clarkstown decided its issue with Elizabeth with four goals in the first half. Gil Aguirre scored twice and set up another. The Rockland County team also received goals from Shawn O'Neal and Everaldo Benjamin. Goalie Doug Young made five saves.

Waldwick rallies to remain alive

By GREG MATTURA
Correspondent

RIVER EDGE — Three batters into Tuesday's Connie Mack State baseball tournament game and already Waldwick trailed by three runs. A walk, a double, and a three-run homer by Alain Perez gave North Bergen an ideal start.

Nobody in the Waldwick dugout smiled, but nobody was hanging his head, either. Coach Ken Raia visited the mound and calmly told right-hander Modesto Santiago to "stop throwing fastballs and mix it up" and everything would be OK.

"I wasn't really too worried," said Raia, whose team needed a victory to remain alive in the eight-team, double-elimination tournament. "I knew we would score runs."

A half-inning later, Waldwick tied it, 3-3. Two innings later, Waldwick led 6-4. By the time it was over, Waldwick had stroked 12 hits, including two triples and a homer, and emerged with a 9-7 victory at Memorial Park.

Eight of Waldwick's nine starters had at least one hit in this 2-hour, 25-minute slugfest. And the Waldwick batter who didn't have a hit, right fielder Mike Raia, had an excuse, drawing three walks in four plate appearances.

"I was a little concerned," Waldwick first baseman Jim Georgetti said of the three-run deficit. "But I knew we were going to pull it out. We were in good spirits."

MACK BASEBALL

Georgetti produced Waldwick's most impressive numbers and was the only player to reach base in every plate appearance. Batting fifth, Georgetti went 3-for-3, walked, scored once, and drove in two runs.

Georgetti drove in Waldwick's second run during the three-run first with a single to right field. During Waldwick's three-run third, he tripled to right and scored on designated hitter Ed Abbruzese's single up the middle to tie the score, 4-4.

"Once we tied it up, I knew we were going to win," said Georgetti, who drove in Waldwick's final run with a sixth-inning single to right-center.

Raia was confident Waldwick would win after center fielder Doug Sneyers led off the fifth with a home run over the fence in left-center to open a 7-4 lead.

"When Sneyers hit that home run, that was a big lift for us," said Raia, whose team plays Thursday at 5:45 p.m. against tonight's West Milford-Little Ferry loser. "It had us feeling like we could win again."

"It was easy to hit in those situations," said Georgetti. "Everyone was talking it up. Everyone was behind everyone."

And everyone on Waldwick was finding a way to get on base and either score a run, drive in a run, or both.

Older workers mean business

A 15-week program to prepare workers 55 and older to re-enter the workforce has been completed at Waldwick High School.

Working with a grant from the Bergen County Private Industry Council, 10 residents from Waldwick, Ridgewood, Ho-Ho-Kus, Allendale and Oakland have been polishing resumes, practicing interview skills, learning computerized word processing and landing jobs.

The re-training effort has placed the enrollees in area jobs — a success story that has earned the program a larger grant for the fall.

Curriculum for the program includes instruction in Word-Perfect 5.1. A video classified advertisement showing 30-second resumes of the participants is also part of the program. The advertisement is being shown on cable television.

Northwest Bergen County residents aged 55 and older who are interested in the program should call Janet Sobkowicz or Bob Finkelstein, coordinators of the program, at 652-9000.

Volunteering aid

Jim Morris, left, owner of Travel Network, presents Waldwick Volunteer Ambulance Corps Captain Rich Holdsworth with a donation while Waldwick Volunteer Fire Department Chief Jim O'Connell accepts a donation from Jim Zumbano, owner of Plaza Gift and Jewelry Shop. These donations represent $1,600 collected during Waldwick's Festival Day Raffle, an event designed to benefit these volunteer organizations.

CHURCH PICNIC—The fourth annual St. Luke's Church parish picnic will be held Sept. 12 from 1-6 p.m. in the ball field directly behind the church. Church members will provide hamburgers, hot dogs, grilled chicken, rolls, baked beans, pasta salad, cucumber/tomato salad, coffee, tea, soda, beer and ice. Each family is asked to bring a dessert for the "Dessert Sharing Table."

Participants are encouraged to bring their own folding tables and chairs. The cost will be $5 per person, and $15 per family ($7 per person and $20 per family if purchased the day of the picnic). In order to prepare the correct amount of food, participants are asked to inform church members if they are planning to attend. Tickets can be purchased at the rectory, or they can fill out the form in the weekly newsletter.

Court hurts housing plans

Decision makes it illegal to give preference to Waldwick residents

By JOHN TOIVONEN
For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — Low income housing is coming to the borough, but due to a recent New Jersey Supreme Court decision it will not help Waldwick residents.

The decision makes it illegal to give preference to borough residents when offering low- to moderate-income housing.

This disturbs council members who wanted to offer housing units to borough senior citizens.

Councilman James Gibson said, "I want to go on record stating my disappointment with the Supreme Court's decision. There are people who put their lives here. I think it's a shame."

He said there are enough people in Waldwick who adequately demonstrate their need for affordable housing.

"There is no preference given to whether a person lives in Waldwick," said Councilman Arthur Barthold. "We were hoping it would, but we got stabbed in the back."

Greenway Development, a Montvale firm, is building 35 housing units on Wanamaker and Wyckoff avenues.

Seven of these units are designated as low- to moderate-income housing units.

Originally, the council had put a provision in its ordinance offering 50 percent of the low- to moderate-income units to people who lived or worked in Waldwick.

At present, the council is working on an agreement with the New Jersey Housing Mortgage Finance Agency to market the housing units.

The agency will also decide which people will be allowed to buy the properties.

The townhouse complex, which will contain the borough's first state-mandated affordable housing units, cleared its final hurdle at the end of May when the council approved the developer's agreement.

ing." He did say that there have been several zoning changes passed in the borough to accommodate at least part of the rulings.

Laurel court decisions, Waldwick must accommodate a total of 96 affordable units by the year 2000, but Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said, in the current economy, "there just aren't a lot of people build-

"It's hard to find room for development when you look at a town that's already about 98 percent developed," said Katz.

'Deadbeat dads' deserve fair play

Editor, The Record:

Without a trial in which both sides of the issue were heard, citizens, mostly males, were awakened in the middle of the night, physically restrained, and incarcerated without any thought being given to extenuating circumstances or their ability to pay the amount demanded! The police state may be dead in the former Soviet Union, but it is alive and kicking in New Jersey.

Having undergone a painful divorce and having lived in poverty for several years myself in order to provide child support for my children without ever being late with a payment, I have no respect for "deadbeat dads." I feel strongly that they should not, in any way, be allowed to duck their responsibilities. However, before police state actions were called into effect, there is a whole spectrum of fiscal and societal actions that should have been brought to bear. What ever happened to negotiating realistic schedules of payment, garnishing paychecks, impounding property, and social ostracism?

While the vast majority of women seeking back payments are undoubtedly doing their best to make ends meet, what about those who refuse to work or make any special effort to provide for their children financially and those who demand large child support merely to punish their former spouses, and those who use their control of the children as a weapon for inflicting unreasonable pain on their former spouses?

Draft pays dividends for Waldwick

RIVER EDGE — Three years ago Waldwick dropped the opening game of the Connie Mack State baseball playoffs, only to rebound and win the championship.

"We can do it again," said coach Mike Raia after his club staved off elimination by beating West Milford, 7-6, Thursday night.

"Our pitching is now set and I have a choice of three to throw in our next game on Saturday," said Raia, whose team is one of four still alive.

Despite the high-scoring game, pitching proved to be the difference. "Our two pickups came through for us," Raia said.

Todd Buelow, a Northern Highlands product who was drafted from Midland Park, relieved Paul Stone in the third inning of the wild game. And after yielding an RBI single to Dave Haynie which put

CONNIE MACK BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

West Milford on top, 6-3, Stone fired three-hit shutout ball over four innings.

And Midland Park teammate Jay Hagedorn worked his way out of a two-on, one-out seventh to pick up the save.

Sweet-swinging Mark Demenna opened the bottom of the third with a drive over the right-field fence, his second homer in as many at-bats. And later Ed Abbrozese doubled in a run to cut it to 6-5.

In the fourth West Milford committed one of its five errors before Jim Georgetti delivered a two-run single to complete the scoring.

While there was plenty of excitement, most of the post-game talk centered on Demenna's first-inning homer. The drive cleared the center-field fence, about 380 feet from home plate, to give Waldwick a 2-1 lead.

"That's the longest I've ever hit a ball," said Demenna, who has six homers this season — four against West Milford. "The second came on a 2-and-0 count and I knew he [Tom Fleming] was coming in with a curve."

West Milford blew a great opportunity in the fourth after it loaded the bases on a walk and hits by Tom Dunbar and Brian Pieloch. But Buelow got Anthony DeLallo, who earlier had a two-run single, on a short pop to center and struck out Jaleel Strawbridge.

The third strike was dropped — the batter was automatically out with a runner on first — and for some reason Tony Meditz wandered off third. Alert catcher Ben Boufford fired a strike to third to pick off the runner and end the rally.

In the seventh Haynie delivered a one-out single and pinch hitter Pat Mulligan was hit with a pitch. John O'Reilly then hit a 340-foot drive to center that Doug Sneyers ran down. Hagedorn struck out Fleming to end the game.

"I didn't know anything about Buelow until I saw him in the last game of the season and I was impressed," said Raia. "And I drafted Hagedorn to be our closer, but he's now also our shortstop."

So far the draft has paid off for Waldwick.

East Ramapo met the Bergen Crusaders in the second game Thursday night with the loser being eliminated from the tournament.

Also still alive in the tourney are Little Ferry, which bested West Milford Wednesday night, and Demarest, a Wednesday winner over East Ramapo.

A single game is scheduled for tonight at George Field.

Merchants, Waldwick run a little too late

Darkness prevented the Merchants and Waldwick from settling their score Friday night in the Metropolitan Baseball League. The scoreless game was halted after nine innings.

Each team had four hits and one error. Waldwick right-hander Paul Knight had a no-hitter through 6½ innings against the Merchants who were looking for their 22nd straight win.

The suspended game will be picked up at 1 p.m. Aug. 15.

Homeowners may get 3% deferred loans

WALDWICK — Eligible homeowners in Waldwick will be able to make needed repairs to their homes under a 3 percent deferred payment plan, after having qualified for participation in the county's Community Development Home Improvement Plan, according to Freeholder Chairman J. William Van Dyke.

The Board of Freeholders recently approved a total of $117,102 so the eligible homeowners who qualified for loans under the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) guidelines can pay for repairs to their homes.

The loans, which range from $350 to $22,000, will enable the homeowners to add vinyl siding, make electrical repairs, install garage doors, rebuild a porch, replace sidewalks, replace a roof, replace a kitchen counter, range and hood, put in a new boiler, install a floor, tile a bathroom, paint interiors and replace doors.

Van Dyke said the amount of the loan is determined by family size and income under HUD guidelines. Those who participate pay an annual 3 percent interest deferred until their home is sold or the title changes hands.

Individuals with questions about eligibility and those interested in further information on the HIP loan program may phone the Community Development office at 646-2559.

Bills late, taxes lower

By JOHN TOIVONEN
WALDWICK — Due to a long wait for a large state aid package, tax bills are being sent out late this year. Tax bills will be mailed out by the end of this week and will be due on Sept. 1.

The bills are usually due on Aug. 1, but this year the borough had to wait for an answer from the state on the package before adopting its budget.

Tax Collector Mary Ann Viviani said, "It's a hardship because we have bills to pay."

The $257,680 state package is designed to cut taxes in the borough. The borough held out for over a month for state aid and received it about three weeks ago.

The $7.8 million budget will now add only $43.20 to the average taxpayer's levy. This is down from the $108 figure before the borough received the grant.

The 1993 budget, which is a 5 percent increase over last year, will raise the tax levy from 48 cents to 50.5 cents per $100 of assessed value. This is down from the old figure of 54 cents.

The combined municipal, school and county budget will add 10 cents to the tax levy, which translates to a $180 tax increase for a resident with a $180,000 house.

Soprano Donna Jeanne Schutz will be the featured performer at the Aug. 3 performance of the summer concert series of the Waldwick Band at Crescent Avenue School in Waldwick. She will perform selections by Saint-Saens, Lehar, and Jerome Kern. Instrumental soloist will be Elizabeth Graffius, french horn player from Glen Rock. 8-1-93

NBCUA gets $14.5M for plant expansion

By JOHN TOIVONEN
 8-1-93

AREA — Governor Jim Florio signed a wastewater treatment bill on Tuesday that will give $14,568,682 in low and zero-interest loans to the Northwest such water-intensive industries as pharmaceuticals and food processing," Florio said. NBCUA Executive Director Emil Porfido said that the funds (See NBCUA, page 7) would go towards the Stage II Expansion of the sewage treatment plant on Wyckoff Avenue in Waldwick. "It will be a big job for this area," Porfido said. "We recognize the economy will be helped," he said. Porfido said that the bids for the expansion work will come in by early September and that the job will be awarded on Oct. 14. While a majority of the funds will be used for renovating the settling tanks, where waste is processed, and the ultraviolet disinfection system, a smaller portion will go towards controlling odor, a problem that has plagued Waldwick and its neighboring communities since the 1970s. In recent months Waldwick and the NBCUA clashed over the odor problem because Waldwick Borough Council claimed the authority was not doing enough to control odor emanating from the Wyckoff Avenue sewage plant. For several months Mayor Rick Vander Wende was refusing to sign the C-P-1 Permit authorizing the start of Phase II Expansion. Vander Wende professed that about half of the funding would be in the form of a 3 percent loan and the other half would be at zero interest. He added that the loan will have a life of 20 years.

All contractors and subcontractors on this Contract will be required to comply with the anti-discrimination laws of the State of New Jersey; N.J.S.A. 34:11-56.25 et seq., dealing with prevailing wage rates and the requirements of P.L. 1975, C.127 and P.L. 1977, C.33, concerning disclosure of ownership. All contractors and subcontractors on this Contract will be required to comply with the Local Public Contract Law (N.J.S.A. 40A:11-1 et seq.).

The Contract will be performed with the assistance of a State loan under the New Jersey Wastewater Treatment Trust and the New Jersey Wastewater Treatment Fund. The successful Bidder will be required to comply with N.J.A.C. 7:22-3.1 et. seq., 4.1 et. seq. and 5.1 et. seq. Wyckoff Torpedoes girls edged in Colorado title game

Rachel Natale, Christine Hoppe, assistant coach Dan Caldwell, Cortney Glaubach. Back: Colleen Caldwell, Kerry Cerelli, Kristen Kayal, Alayne Baldassare, Katie Sullivan, Lisa Ackley, Brooke Biernacki, Megan Cooney.

The Wyckoff Torpedoes Soccer Club sent its league champion and State Cup semifinalist 1978-79 girls team to Colorado in July to compete in the Friendship International Cup, and the team responded by reaching the championship round.

The championship game remained 0-0 through regulation and two overtimes until a penalty kick with time expired won the title for Colorado's Littleton United. It was the best finish ever for a Torpedoes team competing in Colorado.

The team included players from Wyckoff, Ridgewood, Waldwick, Ho-Ho-Kus and Mahwah who will be ninth-graders this fall.

The Torpedoes lost their opener, 1-0, and tied their second game 1-1 until, having adjusted to the altitude, they reeled off three straight victories (2-1, 1-0 and 1-0) to qualify for the championship game. The final contest against Littleton United remained 0-0 until the referee called a handball in the box as time expired in the second overtime.

Goalkeeper Christine Hoppe and backs Katie Sullivan, Colleen Caldwell, Rachel Natale and Lisa Ackley led the stingy Torpedoes defense, while striker Kristen Caldwell had four of the team's five goals — including the game winners in the final minutes of both the third and fifth games. Cortney Glaubach had a game-winning header in game four. Each of the last three games was a "must win" for the Torpedoes in order to qualify for the championship.

All of Coach Leslie Stephen's veteran performers contributed to the team's success, with Suzanne Kuhnert, Brooke Biernacki, Megan Cooney and Kerry Cerelli showing their versatility at various positions. Alayne Baldassare, Kerin Maganzini, Kristen Kayal and Meghan Halloran were also key contributors to the attack.

Glaubach's goal was assisted by Katie Sullivan, and Caldwell's goals were assisted by Cerelli, Biernacki and Glaubach. Hoppe stopped two Littleton breakaways in the scoreless final contests.

The team was missing Meredith Bell, Suzanne Doraski and Leah Rosenzweig, who could not make the trip.

As successful as the team was on the field, coach Stephen's club also found time to enjoy various off-the-field adventures. These included white water rafting in the Arkansas River, waterparks, horseback riding, a Rockies' baseball game and a tournament dance at the headquarters hotel.

It was a memorable trip for the talented Torpedoes, most of whom will be entering leading area high school programs in the fall.

Little Ferry's Ricca snuffs out Waldwick hopes

CONNIE MACK BASEBALL

RIVER EDGE — Mike Ricca threw a wicked curve at Waldwick's New Jersey Connie Mack League championship hopes Saturday, allowing only three hits to lead Little Ferry to a 5-1 baseball victory at Memorial Field.

The win moved Little Ferry (3-1) into today's competition, while Waldwick was eliminated.

"We'll start Mike Leonard," said manager Bill Strunk, who had to wait for the results of the night game between unbeaten Demarest and the once-beaten Bergen Crusaders.

"If Demarest wins we play them, and if we beat them, we'd face them again," Strunk said. "But if Bergen wins, all three teams go into a hat to see which one draws a bye."

"We got a great game from Mike, but even though we got a lot of hits we're not getting key ones," Strunk said.

Little Ferry banged out 14 safeties, but 12 of them were singles. The only extra-base hits came in the second inning when B.J. Leon opened it with a double, took third on Billie Joe Straub's single to left, and scored when Waldwick couldn't turn a double play on Joe Villa's grounder. Villa came around on Mike Stauffer's double.

It would have been enough for Ricca, because for six innings the right-hander was virtually unhittable. Mike Raia led off the bottom of the first with a single, and that was the last hit until the seventh inning when Ed Abruzzeses singled, went to second on Mike Read's hit, took third on a groundout, and scored on Raia's sacrifice fly.

"I was getting a little tired, but that was probably from the hot weather," said Ricca, who hadn't pitched since losing Monday in the Stan Musial playoffs.

"My curveball was breaking right off the table today," said Ricca, who struck out nine and recorded 10 infield outs. "And when I needed it, I had my fastball, but my best pitch was the curve. Even with 2-0 counts, I was confident of getting over the curveball."

Although Ricca is also a fine hitter, he wasn't able to take part in the hit-fest. "I bruised my left thumb while catching on Friday, so I decided not to hit."

The thumb and wrist were taped, and in the fourth inning Waldwick forced him to remove the white tape. It didn't make any difference.

"I'll definitely DH on Sunday. That's too big a game not to hit in."

Little Ferry lost a chance to break open the game in the sixth when with no outs it loaded the bases on hits by Straub, Villa, and Robby Klein, who finished with three singles.

But suddenly reliever Modesto Santiago regained control of his curve and set down the next three batters on strikes. But in the seventh Leon put it away with a two-run single.

"We went into the ninth with a five-run lead, so all I tried to do was throw strikes," Ricca said.

Connie Mack tourney action heats up

The Connie Mack baseball state tournament in River Edge has reached the final four teams this weekend, and one area team gained a measure of revenge and another positioned itself for a different kind of revenge on Thursday night.

Waldwick and the Bergen Crusaders are joined by Demarest and Little Ferry in the fourth round of the double-elimination tournament, with the winner advancing to the regional tournament in Long Island next weekend.

Both teams advanced through the losers' bracket, with Waldwick knocking off Passaic-Bergen Mack regular season champion West Milford, 7-6, and Bergen dropping Valley/Central Mack divisional winner Spring Valley, 5-1.

Waldwick, which finished 14-2 and a half-game behind the 14-1-1 WM nine during the regular season, faced Little Ferry and Bergen went against Demarest in the first matchups of the weekend on Saturday night. For Bergen, a team composed of players from Bergen Catholic, it is a chance to exact a measure of revenge for a loss to Demarest in the Bergen County tournament during the high school baseball season.

"It always seems to come down to Bergen and Demarest," Crusader head coach Rich Tandy said. "We played three times in the tournament last year and were the only team to beat them in the tournament. Two years ago, we beat them."

It is also a matchup of the last two state titlists, Bergen in 1991 and Demarest last year. Demarest boasts some name players, but Tandy says, "There are no big names on our team, but we do play as a team, and that is why we are still here."

At 16-5, they had to survive a four-team elimination bracket to reach the tournament and lost to Little Ferry in the opener before beating River Edge and Spring Valley. Against Valley, Adam Lamparello tossed a complete-game two-hitter and had seven strikeouts. He also picked off two runners and had a third save for an error during a run-down.

"He has a good lefty move, and it surprises me the leads that they take on him," Tandy noted.

Bergen has not been a strong team offensively, but they got their hits in key situations. Mark DeRosa, who had a slow start to his summer season, got the Crusaders' first run with a game-tying home run to left field some 325 feet out.

Kaliem Brown, picked up from Paterson for the tournament, had a leadoff double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Pete Singagliese in the fifth, and DeRosa made it 3-1 with a 360-foot fly that became a three-base error, scoring on a two-out throwing error on Brian Mascis' ground ball.

Lamparello plated the fourth run with a 365-foot triple and scored the final marker on a single by Rob Farrell, who had been struck out his previous three trips.

"Rob and Brian have been getting the key hits and lead the team in runs batted in," Tandy said. "John Pucci didn't have a great varsity season, but he is hitting .500 (22 for 44) in Mack play to lead the team."

Singagliese (.474), DeRosa (.359) and Lamparello (.303) are the other hitting leaders, while the Crusaders have a number of arms to put on the mound. One of those hurlers, Dave Deramo, is currently sidelined, but Mascis, DeRosa, Tom Bochynski and Rob Moore are all available.

Demenna's bat comes alive in Waldwick win

Waldwick used the big bat of Mark Demenna to stay close to West Milford early, then pecked away and got a good middle relief job from Todd Buelow, who came from Midland Park along with Jay Hagedorn, who pitched the seventh for the save.

"I picked up Jay strictly to be my closer," Waldwick head coach Ken Raia said. "I was only going to take two players (Modesto Santiago was selected from Paterson), but I saw Todd the last game of the season and he had everyone off stride. I figured the extra arm could come in handy."

It was a good guess. Starter Paul Stone couldn't hold a 3-0 first inning lead, which included a two-run homer by Demenna, a 380-foot blast he called the longest he has ever hit.

Up 5-1 in the third, Stone surrendered five runs before giving way to Buelow, who threw four shutout innings and ended up the winning pitcher.

Demenna had his second homer of the game in the third, giving him four in two games against West Milford and five on the season. The leftfielder is hitting over .600 for the Mack season.

Ed Abbruzzese made it 6-5 with a run-scoring double in the third, then Jim Georgetti got the eventual game-winning hit with a two-out single in the fourth, plating a pair.

"Georgetti and Demenna have really been the big run producers," Raia said. Georgetti was hitting .350, but in the last eight games he has raised his average over 100 points and is chasing the .500 mark.

Other big bats in the Waldwick line-up include Abbruzzese at .374, Doug Finale at .342 and Mike Raia at .371. Coach Raia will look to either Mike Finnegan or Tom Hayes on Saturday, with Santiago, who beat North Bergen in the second round, a possibility.

Raia sees his team's chances of advancing to the regionals on a level with the 1990 team, which lost its first game before winning the state title out of the losers' bracket.

"I thought maybe we peaked too early (13-0 before losing to West Milford), but we've been playing with our backs to the wall now, and at this point you just go out and play."

Waldwick catcher Ben Boufford keeps runner on first base during his team's victory over West Milford.

Council bicker over $ 'deal'

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Disagreement over a financial deal between the board of education and the council has left bad feelings on both sides.

Board President Paul Cottrell claimed that the council struck a deal with him on July 9 promising to pay the board $4,300 in gas credits for school vehicles, then reneged on the agreement a week and a half later.

Cottrell said, "They said, 'Let's break the deal and make a new deal.' Kratz called the board office saying they wanted to change the deal. We can't take money from educational programs."

Council members claim that the meeting on July 9 was a subcommittee negotiation, not an agreement, and they are angry at Cottrell for what they see as undue pressure to pay up at a time when the borough is financially strapped.

Councilman Arthur Barthold said, "I'm very dissatisfied with the board of education. I thought we had a working relationship. I will remember this as long as I am on the council."

The alleged agreement came after the council said it was unable to pay the board its fully budgeted amount by Aug. 15 because of late tax bills. Tax bills were sent out late this year because the council had been waiting on a state aid package before it could adopt the budget.

Cottrell said he would accept only part of the money provided that the council compensated the board for interest it would have gained from investing the whole amount.

On July 9 Cottrell met with a council subcommittee comprised of Councilman James Gibson, Councilwoman Denise Anderson and Borough Administrator Gary Kratz.

The two parties discussed an agreement whereby the council would not bill the board every other month for using the borough fueling station until the interest amount was made up.

Cottrell is maintaining that in this meeting the council struck a deal with him. Kratz disagrees, stating that a council subcommittee does not have the authority to make this type of agreement and that the negotiations would have to go before the full council before a decision could be made.

There is also a dispute over the amount of interest. Cottrell claims it would come to $4,300, while Kratz said it would fall between $3,000 and $4,000.

The council will not be able to consider the matter until the Aug. 10 meeting.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said, "We've got a gun to our head. They could get an injunction which would mean we would have to pay immediately. I don't see any reason to make a fight out of it."

Waldwick moves a step closer to state-ordered dam repairs

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — The borough is expected to hire an engineering firm Tuesday to plan mandated repairs for the White's Pond dam.

The state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy ordered the borough to refurbish the dam and reposition its spillway into the Hohokus Brook, along whose course the pond lies, said Borough Administrator Gary Kratz.

The dam was built in the 1930s as a public-works project. The backup of the brook created the 8-foot-deep, 38-acre-foot pond, which is used for public boating, fishing, and ice skating.

In the 1970s, the Army Corps of Engineers identified the dam as a high-hazard structure endangering lives and property downstream. About a decade later, the borough succeeded in having the dam reclassified to a lower hazard level.

At Tuesday's Borough Council meeting, the Rutherford engineering firm of Goodkind & O'Dea Inc. is expected to be hired for $10,950 to plan the dam repairs, Kratz said.

He added that he did not know how much the actual work would cost.

The slimy politics of garbage (and vice versa)

Editor, The Record:

The great sage, Hillel, once wrote: "The only thing you get free in this life is garbage." The Bergen County Utilities Authority has proven him wrong. Under its supervision, the disposal of garbage has been scandalously expensive.

In 1989, the State Commission of Investigation began an inquiry into the practices of the Bergen County Utilities Authority (BCUA). The commission's 182-page final report documents incompetence, waste, and mismanagement of the taxpayers' dollars by BCUA officials after the authority contrived a "public emergency" related to the closing of the Bergen County landfill. It suspended the competitive-bidding process in order to negotiate directly with prospective vendors. Lucrative contracts were awarded to buddies and Republican party contributors.

The commission's investigators were unable to perform a complete trace of the monies generated by the BCUA project as many documents remained beyond their jurisdiction and were not made available to them. When questioned during the investigation, some BCUA officials suffered from amnesia. Tape recordings of crucial BCUA meetings were either missing, blank, or erased. Some of these officials remain at the BCUA. Why have they not been prosecuted?

As a result of the scathing SCI report, which described the authority as a "patronage mill," County Executive William "Pat" Schuber sought to dismantle the BCUA. He found that he was embarking on the unthinkable — tramping on some influential Republican toes.

On July 21, the Bergen County Freeholders and the Bergen County Republican Party chairman held court. The freeholders were pardoned for their transgression (agreeing to the dissolution of the sacred BCUA) and entered into a covenant with the Republican chairman. A deal was in the making.

We will soon learn which BCUA officials will be salvaged and which will be recycled to other agencies. The politics of garbage has become entangled with the garbage of politics.

WAYNE — The Elizabeth Portuguese remained in contention for a New Jersey Sportfriends Soccer Cup playoff berth Saturday night by defeating the N.J. Nationals, 2-1, at Sportfriends Oval.

In other games, Kavkus United tied the Waldwick Kickers, 1-1, and the New York Greek-American Atlas edged Sportfriends, 2-1.

Elizabeth and the Nationals entered the qualifying game needing a victory to have any chance of advancing in the tournament. The teams traded goals in the first half, with Luis Melo scoring for Elizabeth and Daniel Dos Santos gaining the equalizer on a breakaway.

Adam Olszewski became the hero for Elizabeth by scoring the winning goal with three minutes remaining. He took a pass from Roman Hupalo and drilled a 12-yard shot inside the near post.

The victory moved Elizabeth (1-1-1) into second place in Group B, one point behind the leaders, Clarkstown (2-0). They are one point ahead of third-place Doxa

In the governor's race, feminists are asking:
Do we really want to vote for Christine Whitman?

The Woman in Question

hat's a feminist to do?

For the first time in New Jersey history, women can vote for a woman for governor. She's pro-choice, supports family leave programs, and has promised to shake up the old boy network that has long kept state legislative offices off-limits to women.

Yet Christine Todd Whitman has also backed ideas that rankle feminists pushing a more liberal agenda: She supports antiabortion Republican partisans, softer gun control laws, a private school voucher pilot program, and fiscal conservatism. And like Governor Florio, she backs a state welfare package that freezes payments to mothers who have additional children while on welfare.

The debate among feminists across the state goes to the heart of a question that has nagged the national women's movement over the last few years: Is the electoral goal simply to get more women in power, or is it to make progress on "women's issues" — including those that affect poor and minority women?

For Democratic feminists, November's election decision is even more complicated.

"Given the Republican Party's record during the last 12 years, there's a real reluctance to back a Republican, but Whitman is a moderate and she's a feminist," said Donna Miller, a Democrat from Waldwick, who noted that both candidates support the issues that matter most to her — abortion rights without restrictions, the Equal Rights Amendment, and civil rights for gays and lesbians. "All things being equal, I'd rather pick a woman candidate because we're so underrepresented, but I guess I'm still waiting to be convinced by one side or the other."

Today, the state political action committee of the National Organization for Women will crystallize that debate when it votes on whom to endorse for governor.

In a state whose major political parties had never nominated a woman for governor, Whitman is playing up her gender, hoping to draw the votes she needs from independent voters. But Florio supporters say his record on women's issues is impeccable. He is responsible for one of the country's toughest sets of domestic violence regulations and enforcement procedures for child support. In his 3½ years in office, Florio has named 27 women to the Superior Court bench, effectively doubling women's presence there.

Nevertheless, many NOW members believe that a vote for Florio is highly unlikely, given the group's disappointment over his record of Cabinet appointments (only five women out of 20 seats), his accessibility (he refused to meet with NOW leadership last year), and his reluctance to push party bosses to place women in key races (only three of the 14 women in the state Legislature are Democrats).

The question is to endorse or not to endorse Whitman, and the search for an answer has provoked an animated debate that has split right through the organization's rank and file.

"It would be wonderful to be able to endorse her, because for so long, women haven't been in those offices," said Michelle Munsat, NOW's lawyer. "But she stands for things I have always been opposed to, like the school voucher system and backing George Bush. It's naive to assume that just because Whitman is a woman, she's in our best interest."

Every day, the state office is bombarded by letters from members threatening to drop out if NOW endorses Whitman, or if NOW doesn't.

"People feel very passionate about it," said Myra Terry, president of the state chapter, the overwhelming majority of whose 12,000 members are Democrats. "For a lot of women in NOW, this would be the first time they'd even consider voting for a Republican. We're in a quandary about the right decision for the organization. What's the message we want to give? What's the feminist message? It's a big responsibility."

To be sure, the debate about "the feminist thing to do" rages only for a subset of the electorate. For most voters, the deciding factors in this election are traditional party loyalties and basic pocketbook issues. More than a third of likely voters polled by The Record six weeks ago cited taxes as the crucial factor in winning their vote; another quarter cited jobs and the economy.

But for those whose paramount interest is the way government and society treat women, the question is: Which candidate is better for women?

"Women have had to decide the priority they attach to improving women's status in society vs. a broader, more progressive agenda," said Susan Carroll at the Center for the American Woman and Politics at Rutgers. "There's the additional consideration of how fed up you are with the male domination of politics in this state. It's not an easy choice."

In February, the national Women's Campaign Fund, which has supported bipartisan pro-choice women for 20 years, announced its backing for Whitman. Because Whitman is not accepting any PAC money, the group helped in other ways, including co-sponsoring a July fund-raiser in East Brunswick.

"We don't deal with any other issue except choice," said Chris Jahnke, a consultant to the Women's Campaign Fund. "That's the determining issue for us. No doubt people have concerns about her stands on other issues, but here is a woman running a major campaign for a major gubernatorial seat, and it would be very difficult for us to sit out of that race."

In March, the National Women's Political Caucus, which has trained and supported what it calls "progressive women candidates" regardless of party affiliation for more than two decades, also endorsed Whitman. About 30 percent of the caucus' 35,000 members are in the GOP, including the president of the New Jersey chapter, Joan Wright.

"One of our goals is to encourage the election and appointment of women to public office," said Wright, who lives in Woodcliff Lake. "Given a choice of people with equal stands on our other issues — supporting reproductive freedom and publicly funded child care — we'll certainly back the female candidate. That's what we're all about."

"Some men and women feel that by promoting only women, we're as chauvinistic as we accuse men of being. But there are many of us who feel that that's what it will take to gain equity."

But pro-choice Florio supporters counter that Whitman's stands and Florio's are not equal. Last June, the state coordinator of Right to Choose disclosed figures — gathered with the Florio campaign — showing that Whitman contributed more than $10,000 in 1991-92 to 17 anti-abortion Republicans.

"Out of 55 candidates or candidate groups that Whitman gave to, 26 opposed abortion and, in a lot of cases, the ones who were most anti-abortion got more money than those who were pro-choice," said Fran Avallone, state coordinator of the group, which endorses pro-choice incumbents over outsiders because they have a proven record. "Although she says she's pro-choice, her behavior sometimes is the opposite. What does that say about her judgment?"

Whitman retorted that Florio helped raise money for anti-abortion Democrats. But Avallone said that Florio, as governor and head of the state Democratic party, was obliged to offer broad support to Democrats, whereas Whitman could have sidestepped abortion opponents.

NOW-NJ stayed out of that entanglement, but is nonetheless stuck in one of its own. Two of the group's key public stands collide in the Whitman candidacy: On the one hand, NOW last year ardently reaffirmed its decade-long push to "Elect Women for a Change." On the other, for the past year, NOW-NJ has fiercely fought the state's recent welfare reform, which both Whitman and Florio support. Under a provision of the reform package, women who give birth while on welfare are denied the additional $64 a month to which they once were entitled.

NOW officials have called the rule racist and sexist, arguing that it punishes women. The organization plans to ask a court to overturn the law.

"I don't see how we can turn around and endorse a candidate who supports the legislation that we've fought so hard to stop, and still hang on to any credibility," said Munsat, NOW's lawyer, who favors endorsing no one in this race.

This is not the first time NOW has debated Whitman's candidacy. In 1990, when the former president of the state Board of Public Utilities ran against incumbent Bill Bradley for the U.S. Senate and seemed to gain notice overnight, the state chapter urged the national PAC to endorse her. But the national headquarters refused to follow suit after Whitman announced her support for David Souter's nomination to the Supreme Court, despite his refusal to clarify his stance on abortion.

This time, because the race is for a state office, the final vote rests with the state chapter.

Whether gender and "women's issues" will matter enough to make a difference in this race is unclear.

The Record poll in June showed Whitman and Florio tied, and indicated no significant pull based on gender, but a Star Ledger-Eagleton poll the same month found otherwise. Although women are usually more likely to vote Democratic than their male counterparts, the poll found that Democratic women were less likely to vote for Florio than men were, a sign that the presence of a female candidate may pull women's votes across party lines. The study also found that Republican women were more loyal to their candidate than men in the GOP.

Whitman, of course, isn't taking chances.

Acutely aware of women's growing impatience with male leadership — a sentiment that's particularly exploitable in a state that ranks 41st in the percentage of female legislators — Whitman is trying to strike a resonant chord with women.

But because New Jersey's troubled economy will play bigger than gender with most state voters, Whitman's campaign has tried to unite the two themes.

"The issue that cuts across everything is the economy," said Carl Golden, Whitman's campaign spokesman. "Some people may not see that as a feminist or women's issue, but it really is. When jobs aren't being created, it affects women as much — if not more so — than men."

In one Whitman television ad this spring, a woman complains of rising taxes and explains why Whitman will get her vote: "She's a mother. She has children. She understands what we're going through."

Florio supporters say Whitman's gender card is a ruse that falsely implies that she is more sensitive to a woman's plight.

It was Florio, they say, who fought to preserve the state Division on Women and the Commission on Sex Discrimination in the Statutes, both of which the Republicans earmarked for cuts. And it was Florio who allotted $4.7 million in his budget for clinics to replace federal funds jeopardized during the national fight over abortion counseling. It was the Republicans who removed the money from the budget.

"Governor Florio has a long record, both in Congress and the State House, of being a feminist and caring very much about the issues women care about," said Jo Astrid Glading, spokeswoman for Florio's campaign. "That goes beyond so-called women's issues to a clean environment, safe streets, decent health care, and decent job opportunities for everyone."

Prominent feminists from Texas Gov. Ann Richards to former vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro (both Democrats) have endorsed Florio.

"He has provided real leadership on women's and family issues," said Loretta Weinberg, a Democratic assemblywoman from Teaneck. "Is he perfect? No. Neither is my husband. But I have no ambivalence about him. Just because she's a woman doesn't mean she's a feminist."

Waldwick to highlight great moments in its history

Waldwick was the retirement home of a notorious horse thief. A borough minister once regularly posted the names of local residents given to drunkenness. The citizens elected a dead man mayor.

And just about 30 years ago, Waldwick was invaded by pigs.

These are just a few of the interesting facts discovered by the Waldwick History Committee while doing research for a new edition of the borough's history.

It will be published next year as part of Waldwick's 75th Anniversary celebration. The committee, which is working with the Waldwick Public Library, is issuing Honorary Historian certificates to all who make donations to further the work. An exhibit of Waldwick memorabilia is on view at the library.

According to historical records, horse thief Jeremiah Storms moved into town after spending 20 years in the state penitentiary in Trenton. He died in 1897, killed by a team of runaway horses. The committee has found no evidence that a 19th century minister's "souse list" embarrassed anyone into sobriety.

The pig invasion occurred on May 13, 1962, when 400, 5-month-old sows being readied for market at a Wyckoff pig farm escaped and headed down hill, directly to the intersection of Wyckoff and Crescent Avenues. A few years later the pig farm became the Bergen County Wildlife Center.

Republican Nathaniel T. Bogdanove was campaigning for mayor when he died on Oct. 26, 1971, too late for his name to be removed from the ballot. He still managed to beat Democrat Francis X. Herbert by about 200 votes. The council elected Anthony Scafuro, who had been elected mayor in 1970, to continue in the post until the 1972 general election.

The committee is continuing to research Waldwick's history and is offering Honorary Historian certificates to all who make a donation of $10 or more. The $10 donation also includes a listing on a special donors' page in the history. Those who give $25 will be listed on the patrons' page; $50 and $100 donors will be listed on silver and gold patrons' pages respectively. A Historical Society T-shirt is offered as an additional premium to $100 donors. Checks should be made payable to the Waldwick Historical Society, 75th Anniversary Committee and mailed to the committee at P.O. Box 209, Waldwick, N.J., 07463. Additional information is available by calling the Waldwick Public Library at 652-5104. ■

Residents urged to attend sewer meeting

To the editor:
 The Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air has lobbied the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) and the Waldwick Borough Council for almost a year to address the sewer odor problems coming from the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority (NBCUA) located in Waldwick. After writing voluminous letters, attending countless meetings and with the support of the local newspapers, we are just about at the finish line.

While the DEPE has authorized funds for the construction and operation of a "state-of-the-art" air scrubber system, the Sewer Authority has not yet finalized how they will build, test and maintain the new equipment. Prior to the construction of the new air scrubber system, the DEPE will be holding a public hearing at the Sewer Authority.

As residents, we have one last chance to ensure that all of our health and safety concerns are addressed. This meeting will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 18, 7:30 p.m. at the Sewer Authority's conference room, 30 Wyckoff Ave. in Waldwick.

The coalition strongly urges all concerned citizens to attend this critical meeting. The DEPE has promised us that before they authorize the operations of the air scrubber system, we will get all our questions and concerns answered by the Sewer Authority.

Some questions that need to be answered:

- What type of chemicals will they be using to "scrub" the air?
- What is the schedule for construction and testing of the air scrubbers?

• What are the hours of construction during weekdays and weekends?

• What kind of continuous monitoring will be put in place during the "test period" and what kind of monitoring will be in place after the "test"?

• If odors persist during the testing who do we call? What about after the testing?

• What type of redundant backup systems and/or equipment will be required on-site in case of breakdowns?

BOE, council in $ dispute

Cottrell claims borough officials reneging on reimbursement deal

By JOHN TOIVONEN
 For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — Disagreement over a financial deal between the board of education and the council has left bad feelings on both sides.

Board President Paul Cottrell claimed that the council struck a deal with him on July 9 promising to pay the board $4,300 in gas credits for school vehicles, then reneged on the agreement a week and a half later.

Cottrell said, "They said, 'Let's break the deal and make a new deal.' Kratz called the board office saying they wanted to change the deal. We can't take money from educational programs."

Council members claim that the meeting on July 9 was a subcommittee negotiation, not an agreement, and they are angry at Cottrell for what they see as undue pressure to pay up at a time when the borough is financially strapped.

Councilman Arthur Barthold said, "I'm very disappointed with the board of education. I thought we had a working relationship. I will remember this as long as I am on the council."

The alleged agreement came after the council said it was unable to pay the board its fully budgeted amount by Aug. 15 because of late tax bills. Tax bills were sent out late this year because the council had been waiting on a state aid package before it could adopt the budget.

Cottrell said he would accept only part of the money provided that the council compensated the board for interest it would have gained from investing the whole amount.

On July 9 Cottrell met with a council subcommittee comprised of Councilman James Gibson, Councilwoman Denise Anderson and Borough Administrator Gary Kratz.

The two parties discussed an agreement whereby the council would not bill the board every other month for using the borough fueling station until the interest amount was made up.

Cottrell is maintaining that in this meeting the council struck a deal with him. Kratz disagrees, stating that a council subcommittee does not have the authority to make this type of agreement and that the negotiations would have to go before the full council before a decision could be made.

There is also a dispute over the amount of interest. Cottrell claims it would come to $4,300, while Kratz said it would fall between $3,000 and $4,000.

The council will not be able to consider the matter until the Aug. 10 meeting.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said, "We've got a gun to our head. They could get an injunction which would mean we would have to pay immediately. I don't see any reason to make a fight out of it."

BOE, council kiss and make up

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Anger resulting from a financial disagreement between the board of education and the council has subsided and both parties now say they are willing to work with each other.

The anger stemmed from a July 9 meeting between the board and council in which Board President Paul Cottrell thought the council had promised to pay the board money in gas credits. When the borough administrator told him a week later he couldn't have the money he felt council members were going back on their word.

Cottrell explained that he thought the July 9 meeting in which a deal was struck was official, not a subcommittee negotiation and he wants to clear up bad feelings between the board and council.

"No one said there was going to be another meeting (after July 9). I saw everyone at the meeting three days later and not a word was said about an additional meeting. Those monies would have to be deleted from existing programs. It has nothing to do with a bad attitude towards the mayor and council," he said. Said Mayor Rick Vander Wende, "We regret there was a miscommunication. We're ready to move forward and work together." Gathering in the garden for the green Garden parties were held recently in Ridgewood and Wyckoff to raise funds for the Democratic candidates for District 40 — Ridgewood residents Bea O'Rourke and Jack Dabney, and Barry Winston of Fair Lawn.

O'Rourke is running for State Senate; while Dabney and Winston are running for Assembly seats.

Dr. James and Maryanne Cowan hosted the Ridgewood party for more than 75 guests who were entertained by pool-side music.

County committee members and members of both political parties joined together to mix and mingle with local celebrities, including village resident Lisa Brown, who stars in "As The World Turns."

The Wyckoff party — "Hot Dogs and Champagne" — was hosted by Kate Conover, Tom Groenfeldt, and Bob and Ann Bulger. This party was a family affair, complete with balloons for the children.

Jack Van Horne, Wyckoff Democratic Municipal Chairman, attended the party with his family; while Fair Lawn's Deputy Mayor Bob Gordon brought hometown supporters to both parties, as did Glen Rock's Howard Bookbinder and Bruce Miller.

attending countless meetings and with the support of the local newspapers, we are just about at the finish line.

While the DEPE has authorized funds for the construction and operation of a state-of-the-art air scrubber system, the sewer authority has not yet finalized how they will build, test, and maintain the new equipment. Prior to the construction of the new air scrubber system, the DEPE will be holding a public hearing at the sewer authority.

As residents, we have one last chance to ensure that all of our health and safety concerns are addressed. This meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the sewer authority's conference room, 30 Wyckoff Ave., Waldwick.

The coalition strongly urges all concerned citizens to attend this critical meeting. The DEPE has promised us that before they authorize the operations of the air scrubber system, we will get all our questions and concerns answered by the sewer authority.

Some questions that need to be answered:

- What type of chemicals will they be using to scrub the air?
- What is the schedule for construction and testing of the air scrubbers?
- What are the hours of construction during weekdays and weekends?
- What kind of continuous monitoring will be put in place during the test period and what kind of monitoring will be in place after the test?

• If odors persist during the testing, whom do we call? What about after the testing?

• What type of redundant backup system and equipment or both will be required on site in case of breakdowns?

The DEPE public hearing affords all local residents and customers of the sewer authority an opportunity to get their questions answered. Please join us at this meeting. Do it for your own peace of mind, and everyone's quality of life.

Borough Council, board of education solve problem

By JOHN TOIVONEN
For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — Anger resulting from a financial disagreement between the board of education and the council has subsided and both parties now say they are willing to work with each other.

The anger stemmed from a July 9 meeting between the board and council in which Board President Paul Cottrell thought the council had promised to pay the board money in gas credits. When the borough administrator told him a week later he couldn't have the money he felt council members were going back on their word.

Cottrell explained that he thought the July 9 meeting was official in which a deal was struck, not a subcommittee negotiation and he wants to clear up bad feelings between the board and council.

"No one said there was going to be another meeting (after July 9). I saw everyone at the meeting three days later and not a word was said about an additional meeting. Those monies would have to be deleted from existing programs. It has nothing to do with a bad attitude towards the mayor and council," he said.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said, "We regret there was a miscommunication. We're ready to move forward and work together."

The confusion came after the council said it was unable to pay the board its fully budgeted amount by Aug. 15 because of late tax bills. Tax bills went out late this year because the council had to wait for a state aid package before it could adopt the budget.

Cottrell had told the council that he would accept only part of the money provided the council compensated the board for the interest it would have gained from investing the whole amount.

The council has now agreed to pay the board $3,500 in gas credits. The money will be given to the board by not billing it every other month for using the borough fueling station until the amount is made up.

Competition no match for Class Act Dance

WALDWICK — The Class Act Dance Studio, Inc., of Franklin Turnpike, Waldwick, a two year old fledging dance program turned heads in the last five days at the national dance competition held in Ocean City, Maryland. The competition, sponsored by StarPower, a national dance program, involved dancers from all over the United States in a number of different dance categories as well as age categories.

StarPower holds regional dance competitions throughout the world, including two in New Jersey. From the regional competition's dancers, dancers qualified to enroll in the national competitions, three of which are held in the United States — one in Las Vegas, one in Orlando and one in Ocean City.

In the recent competition, Kelly Larkin, co-owner of the studio with Karyn Kulik and head choreographer, was named and awarded Best Choreographer in the 12 and under Jazz category for the entire event and received two additional awards for her choreography. In addition, several of Miss Larkin's dancing groups, as well as individual performers, won significant awards, including cash prizes approximating $3,000 for the studio. The Studio is only two years old and competed against studios that have been in business for 10-20 years, and with many more students than Class Act.

Specifically, Corinne McFadden won overall top honors for the second year in a row; Miss McFadden last year won a coveted Miss Junior StarPower title for overall performance. She won again for overall performance. She relinquishes her title next weekend at another StarPower National Dance Competition in Florida. A lyrical line, "Love of Love," which includes both the younger and older members of the Company, won top prize overall and a prize $1,000 for the studio.

The competition featured performers from age 5 and as old as 75 competing in a number of categories. Class Act Dance Studio also received a special award in a dance act of the "Dancing Dads," a group of fathers of some of the participating dancers who danced to "Just a Gigolo" and won special entertainment awards both for themselves as well as for the studio and Kelly Larkin.

Skip the driving, skip the fuss; take the train and bus

To the editor:
Two letter writers complain that it is not possible to go from Mahwah to Hackensack by public transit in less than two hours. I make this trip occasionally. While people who have cars will find driving the fastest way, it is quite easy to go by public transit in less time than two hours.

One route is to take the train to Broadway-Fair Lawn and transfer to bus number 770. This bus stops at the Garden State Mall and ends its run at the Hackensack bus transfer. One example of such a trip is to begin on train number 1158 which leaves Mahwah at 8:48 a.m. and arrives at Broadway-Fair Lawn at 9:13. After getting off the train, cross the street and walk west to Iolia Terrace where the bus stops a little after 9:20. Arrive in Hackensack 9:54 for a total time of one hour and six minutes.

An alternate route is to transfer to the B2 bus at Ridgewood. This bus stops at Valley Hospital, Bergen Pines Hospital and Paramus Mall as well as the Hackensack bus transfer. The same train, 1158, arrives at Ridgewood at 9:04. The B2 bus is on Godwin Avenue and Goffle Road at 9:04 and continues on Godwin to stop at the Ridgewood Station a few minutes later. Passengers arrive in Hackensack at 10 for a total time of one hour and 12 minutes.

People who wish to try these routes may call New Jersey Transit at 1-800-772-2222 or the Bergen County Transit Information Center at 488-0840 for travel advice.

Public transit is not as fast as driving would be especially if the car carries only one person. However the cost is far less than renting — much less owning — a car and the trip is not nearly as long as many people think.

Plant odors should abate

Air scrubbers should be ready for trial run by June, 1994

By CHRIS MAUTNER
For Suburban News

WALDWICK — A public meeting was held last week at the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority (NBCUA) to introduce a new air cleaning system which will hopefully get rid of some of the foul odors that have been bothering residents near the authority's sewage treatment plant for so long. Members of the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) were on hand to go over the project and answer any questions that residents might have.

The project involves the installation of "air scrubbers" at three areas at the treatment plant where odors seem to be the worst; the sludge thickeners and sludge holding tank, the Midland Park Pump Station exhaust, and the Inlet Building exhaust. The scrubbers, cylindrical upright vessels with nozzles on one end, inject a liquid into the air. The liquid is mostly made up of water, but also contains a treatment chemical which will supposedly remove the offensive odor from the air. The air then passes through a mist eliminator which prevents the applicable chemical from being released into the atmosphere. The liquid from the scrubbers then is returned to the process flow. On days where the sludge incinerator is operating, the air will be diverted to the incinerator combustion air inlet, "to obtain a 95 percent or greater destruction and removal of odor causing chemicals," according to the DEPE's report.

Ninety-five percent is the minimum amount that the DEPE expects to be removed by the system. However, because the scrubber's chemical compound, a mixture of "fermented vegetable extract, nonoxynol 10, wetting agents, and citric acid," is a new one, the first six months will be a trial period to ensure that the system is controlling the odors efficiently. If the chemical equipment fails, then the NBCUA must replace it with a more conventional chemical compound. The DEPE said it might take as long as nine months before the new system is put in because of the paper work necessary in ordering the new equipment, and the time it will take to get it installed.

The DEPE expects the new system will work and has set a date of June 15, 1994 to begin the trial process.

Once again, residents questioned the ten-month wait for clean air. Louis Mikolajczyk, the chief of the Air Pollution Permit Program for the DEPE, explained that it would take that long to go through the bidding process, deal with the insurance companies, and prepare the necessary paperwork. In fact, he said that ten months was a better timeframe than he had seen in the past.

On the whole, however, residents seemed pleased with the plan for the new system and the possibility of clean air. Emil L. Porfido, the executive director of the NBCUA, pointed out that this system would remove most of the odors, not all of them. "We are a sewage treatment center, and odor is part of the system. What we hope to do is keep these odors within the confines of our own area."

Waldwick begins drive for town fitness center

WALDWICK — The Board of Education is launching a drive to raise $125,000 for an addition to Waldwick High School's Greenberg Center for a student and community fitness center.

Board President Paul E. Cottrell said the Boosters Club is preparing fliers to be mailed to residents and fitness clubs asking for donations to build the 60-by-40-foot addition, which will have free weights, a universal gym, and a range of other fitness equipment.

"It's another twist on how to come up with something to improve the quality of life without adding to the tax base," Cottrell said.

Cottrell expects groundbreaking in late September, with completion slated for next year. He said a small fee might be charged for use of the facility.

The 70 active club members previously raised $80,000 for a children's playground near the municipal building, Cottrell said.

Budding star Wil Horneff says working on films is like working with his 'best friends'

By DOREEN L. KRUK
Of the Suburban/Town News

Wil Horneff says he thinks he's just an average 14-year-old about to start high school. Sure he is — if every average 14-year-old is on the verge of stardom with a blossoming movie career.

Starring in a forthcoming 20th Century Fox release, "Ghost in the Machine" (his first lead role), Wil, a Saddle River resident and recent Ramsey Smith School graduate, claims he's more at ease with the idea of walking on to a movie set than he is with the thought of entering Ramsey High School in September.

"I live a regular, normal life," said Wil. "It's just that acting is more fun than going to a mall." As a matter of fact, he said he'll be more interested in making the wrestling team in the fall than taking any acting classes in high school.

"My friends don't think it's a big deal, either," he said.

Perched in a director's chair in a small, back office of Robin Horneff's Performing Arts Center in Waldwick (his mom, Robin, is the director of the center, as well as a professional dancer and choreographer), Wil, squirming a bit in front of a camera, said his new-found notoriety really doesn't phase him. But it's obvious from the serious way in which he sifted through publicity photos from the movie, he is critical of himself.

"When I was doing the movie, I didn't want to see it when it was finished," said Wil. "If I had to see it, I wanted to sit in a screening room by myself. During filming, when we were done with a shot, I would tell the director that I could do it better if we shot one more time."

He seems to carry a certain level of professionalism and poise with him which certainly would follow him on to any movie set. It's no wonder, either. Wil and his two sisters and brother have grown up around show biz, so it only seems natural that he would follow in the family business.

Already with a commercial, "Four Baboons Adoring the Sun" on Broadway, and two films — "The Sandlot" and "Ghost in the Machine" — under his belt, Wil wants to "do it all," — and he's not talking exclusively about acting.

"I want to do a lot — I try to do everything I can," he said. This includes running, track and field, skiing (which he's been doing since age 4), and right now, he's into weightlifting and boxing. He doesn't think he's too young to be this active.

But, the young actor is most animated when talking about his new film. "I've been really lucky," Wil said, "the Lord's blessed me. I've worked on two films and it's been like working with my best friends. The casts and crews have been great...and it's so different on the set because they treat you like a king."

In "Ghost in the Machine," Wil stars with Actress Karen Allen of "Raiders of the Lost Ark" fame. He plays Allen's son, Josh Munroe, a computer whiz-kid.

"Working with Karen was great," said Wil. "She played my mom and we developed a nice relationship. It was so easy to play off of her. I still keep in touch with Rachel (Talalay, "Ghost in the Machine" director), too."

Wil said "it's hard to explain what the movie is about." It's not horror, he said, even though it is directed by Talalay (" Freddy's Dead"). It's more suspenseful, Wil says, but it's not "gross."

Wil Horneff, center, on the "Ghost in the Machine" set with Director Rachel Talalay. The film, set for release in October, offered Wil his first leading role.

It's a story about a boy and his mother who are being stalked by a psychopathic killer. The killer dies, but he merges with a computer and continues to terrorize the family through technology.

This is something of a change from the role he played in "The Sandlot," a movie about nine kids who loved baseball and the trouble they managed to get into. Wil played the bully, Punker Phillips, who loved to harass the team.

His next venture will begin in January when he goes on location to start filming a television movie for Disney subsidiary, Four Diamonds.

Wil has the lead in this one, too. This time he'll play a boy with cancer who creates a story of medieval romance and intrigue.

"With me, it's so much easier doing a dramatic role," said Wil.

But how easy is it to keep up with school while filming?

Wil said filming a movie can take between three to four months, so, for "Ghost in the Machine," he had two tutors on the set with about three hours of tutoring per day.

He's still managed to keep pace with his class back here in Ramsey. This is because, he said, school is important to him.

"When I'm back here, I'm just a regular student," Wil said.

Not only is he a regular student, he seems just like a regular teenager. As he sat in the director's chair with his hands folded, he talked about the splint on his right index finger — the stitches he earned after following through on a friend's dare. "I learned the hard way not to do that again," he said.

After the Four Diamonds film, will he continue acting?

"If I do well, of course I'll stay with it," Wil said. "I mean, it all depends. I like doing things that use my brain."

Right now, Wil is going through auditions for a "Lassie" movie and he says this is the type of film he really wants to do.

"I'd like to get into good, quality, family-type movies," said Wil. "There aren't enough of those. I'm just not into horror."

No matter what he does, he says he'll remain the same. Success hasn't spoiled him yet, nor will it, even after making it as a heart-stopping "Boy of Summer" in teenybopper magazine "Tiger Beat."

"People think that actors are a certain way and I really hate it when they are," said Wil. "I'm not like that and I don't like people who put their noses in the air over something like this."

In the meantime, waiting for school to start, Wil's biggest complaint is that there's nothing for him and his friends to do. Well, after being on a movie set and running to and from auditions for the past three years, life could seem a little tame in Bergen County for a 14-year-old.

Wil at ease in Robin Horneff's Performing Arts Center in Waldwick. Getting into show business seemed like the natural thing for him to do. His mom, Robin, is a professional dancer and choreographer.

Filters, caps planned at sludge-curing plant

By DAVID VOREACOS
Staff Writer

Neighbors of the Waldwick sewage plant run by the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority are looking forward to fresher air by next summer.

Residents agitated for an odor-control system for months after complaining that occasional foul odors have wafted from the plant.

In response, NBCUA commissioners have agreed to place aluminum covers on two settling tanks where sludge is thickened. They also will open bids on Sept. 8 for a scrubber system to remove noxious odors.

"We're very happy that they're going to go this route, but it's just a shame that it took all this time to make it happen," said Ken Gardner, a spokesman for the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air. "If they were truly customer-focused, they would have done this sooner."

Work began last week on the tank covers, which are being installed by WFM Contracting Co. of Brewster, N.Y. The company will be paid about $100,000, said Paul Malmrose of Havens & Emerson Inc., the NBCUA's consulting engineer.

Commissioners will then pick a contractor to install scrubber systems at the tanks, the plant's inlet building, and the authority's pumping station in Midland Park. Malmrose said the system may cost about $1 million.

The system, which is expected to start operating in June, will use non-caustic chemicals to remove at least 95 percent of the hydrogen sulfide that causes the offensive fumes.

After the system is in place, it will likely be monitored for six months by a private firm and the state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy. If the odors are not corrected, the authority probably will have nine more months to modify its system, said Max Friedman, supervising engineer in the DEPE's Bureau of New Source Review.

The authority is still awaiting a DEPE certificate that will outline the conditions of the scrubber operations. This month, it held hearings on the subject, and it has extended a comment period through Sept. 13 for residents of Ho-Ho-Kus, Midland Park, and Ridgewood, Friedman said. The DEPE will issue the certificate shortly after getting the comments, he said.

Once the system is in place and tested, the odor problems should vanish, Malmrose said.

"We're very confident that there will be no more odor complaints," he said. "We've made the system reliable, and we have a backup system."

DePaul senior breaks through

Totowa's Anthony Scelba overcame a rocky start recently to earn the first of what could be many tournament victories.

Scelba, 17, fired a 1-over 73 at Glen Wood Country Club in Old Bridge to earn the NJPGA Junior Championship. The DePaul High senior is hoping the victory will lead to bigger and better things.

"It's my first win and I knew that I was capable of doing it," Scelba said. "It's definitely a steppingstone for me. I'm feeling very good about my game right now and I couldn't have thought of any better way to close out the season."

KEVIN CZERWINSKI AT THE CLUBS

"I played in some AJGA tournaments in Florida and New York earlier this year and I didn't do that well. Then, I started off poorly in this tournament, bogeying my first three holes. I didn't have a chance to warm up because they ran out of range balls. It took me awhile to get going, but I played even on the last nine and it worked out."

Scelba is looking to further his golf career in college, possibly in North Carolina or California.

Kudos to Yaz Consalvo and the Bergen County Parks Department for the fine job they did in running last week's Bergen Junior Open at Darlington. Consalvo has been running the tournament for years.

The Parks Department also deserves some credit for donating the Darlington course for four days of stroke and match play. The course was in great shape and the kids were able to play at a relaxed, steady pace without any hassle from the paying patrons.

The 1993 Butterfly Open, sponsored by the Women's Guild of the General Hospital Center at Passaic, will take place Sept. 27 at Upper Montclair. Sponsorships are available ranging in price from $50 to $1,850. Cost for golf for the day is $275. The fee includes golf, a cocktail hour, dinner, and the opportunity to win two luxury cars, a $10,000 certificate of deposit, and a $2,500 shopping spree. Open bar and dinner alone is $85. For more information, call 365-1010.

The Academy of Holy Angels in Demarest will be host to its annual golf outing Sept. 13 at Montammy. Cost is $185 per person and includes brunch, green fees, cart fee, refreshments on course, cocktail hour, dinner, parking, and locker room. For more information, call 768-7822.

The Pascack Valley Lions Club is sponsoring a golf outing Sept. 13 at Edgewood. Golfers can play until 6 p.m., finishing as many holes as possible, whether it's 18, 27, 36, or 45 holes. Cost is $100, which includes breakfast, lunch, dinner, and drinks. There is only space for 200 golfers, so early reservations are necessary. For more information, call 391-6646.

The second annual Joe Arnowitz Golf Classic will take place Sept. 27 at North Jersey. Individual tickets are $150 and include golf and dinner at the Brownstone House in Paterson. Proceeds will benefit Youth Haven, a 24-hour hotline for abused and runaway children. For more information, call Jay Farrell at 696-6560 or Al Perow at 696-5712.

Ridgewood's Herbert Asdal recently aced the 155-yard second hole at Darlington. The feat was witnessed by Quent Weist, Chuck Egbert, and Dick Strickland. . . Ridgewood's Ken Moscarello aced the 168-yard fourth hole at Washtenow Country Club in Ypsilanti, Mich., with a 4-iron.

"I had broken my 4-iron a few weeks earlier at Ridgewood, so I had to borrow one," Moscarello said. "I hit the green on a fly and went into shock as the ball disappeared into the hole. I never did recover and wound up shooting a 97." . . . Waldwick's Cono Della recently eagled the 451-yard, par-5 12th hole at Walkill Golf Club. He

Waldwick's De Menna a ballplayer to watch

By BRIAN FARRELL

The 1994 baseball season awaits Mark De Menna, as do the college and pro scouts who should be flocking to Waldwick High School games to see the senior display his multi-talented game.

The 5-foot-9, 165-pound outfielder already has drawn the interest of the Kansas City Royals. De Menna was among 50 players, 12 of them outfielders, who attended an invitation-only tryout last month in New Milford. His report card, which came in the mail, was a good one. The Royals' scouting corps said the 17-year old's arm strength, power and running "are very good."

This summer, De Menna occupied his spare time playing for the Connie Mack and Met League teams in Waldwick. At both stops, he fared very well. In the fall, De Menna picks up the baseball again, playing on Sundays for Ridgewood in the Rockland County League.

Throwing and batting left-handed, De Menna's speed is the first item that usually catches the eye of the on-looker. Getting out of the batter's box is a swift, sweeping motion for De Menna, who runs to first base in 3.7 to 3.8 seconds. At the Royals' tryout, he was timed in the 60-yard dash in 6.45 seconds.

In the spring, De Menna, along with Doug Finale, tied the high school record for most stolen bases (41) in a season, set by Tom Russo in 1989. De Menna was thrown out just once, on a close play, by Glen Rock's Rich Reinartz, the First Team All-League catcher. Sophomore year, he stole 22 bases.

"I get my speed from my father," De Menna said. "He was a track star at Indian Hills (Class of '72) and William Paterson College."

"Mark had an outstanding season for us and really peaked in the summer," said Steve Konde, his high school coach. "Mark is a multi-talented player; he can beat you with his glove, arm, bat or legs. All of his statistics support that."

In 28 games for Konde's War-

rriors (19-9), De Menna, the leadoff hitter, batted .378 (40-for-106). He led the team in runs scored (42) and home runs (9) and was second in runs-batted-in (32) and hits (40). He had 13 multiple-hit games and an on-base average of .524.

De Menna also ripped four doubles and three triples. He had 18 walks and struck out 16 times.

"Next year, Mark will have to hit in the number three or four spot," Konde said. "But he has to cut down on his strikeouts."

Defensively, the leftfielder had a fielding average of .957, making just one error while recording 20 putouts and two assists.

DeMenna even chipped in pitching, throwing 9 2/3 innings of relief.

"Next year, Mark could possibly be a starting pitcher," Konde said. "He can throw well. His fastball tails away and moves, and he has a pretty good breaking ball. He must work on his control to throw strikes."

DeMenna, a two-year varsity starter, was a unanimous All-League selection, making Honorable Mention All-County.

In Connie Mack ball, Waldwick found success (a 15-3 record), and De Menna was a chief contributor. Moved to the cleanup slot, he batted .609 with five home runs and 25 stolen bases in as many attempts.

"Mark was our best hitter this year," said manager Ken Raia. "He's the best defensive outfielder I've seen anywhere in the state, and I saw a lot of high school baseball games this year. Mark made plays in the outfield that were just unbelievable."

"Here's a kid who could have pitched this year," Raia noted, "but I would have lost so much defensively that I only pitched him in certain situations, such as to get a lefity out."

Waldwick went out to a 13-0 start before losing to West Milford. Raia's team then went 2-2 in the state tournament, where De Menna slammed two home runs in one game against West Milford draftee Tom Fleming of Hawthorne. One traveled close to 400 feet over the fence in straightaway center; the other was a 355-foot clout to right-center.

In fact, DeMenna drilled four

of his five Mack homers off West Milford. In a regular-season game, he greeted another premier pitcher, Shawn Romanker, a First-Team All Passaic County selection, with a circuit blast.

In the Met League, De Menna started the last eight games of the season, and, overall, hit .259 (7-for-27) with one double, two triples (most on the team), four walks and three runs-batted-in. He scored five runs and stole two bases.

"Mark did a good job for us," said Senator manager Dave Anderson, who also is Konde's assistant coach at the high school. "Mark certainly was not overmatched by the pitching. He put the ball in play consistently with a little bit of power, and his fielding was excellent."

"I liked the challenge of hitting the pitching in the Met League and the sound of the ball coming off the wood bat," De Menna said. "And I also enjoyed playing on a team with older players."

"Mark is probably the best defensive outfielder Waldwick High School has ever had, and he brought great speed to our team," said Senator veteran Ozzie O'Keefe, 34, who has played semi-pro ball in Waldwick for 16 seasons now. "He carried himself well in the Met League and showed confidence, which is great to have as a young player in this league playing against many former minor league players."

"I've seen pro scouts at a few of our games watching Mark," O'Keefe noted, and hopefully one of the major league teams will draft him."

Even though the Senators went 4-32, De Menna had a refreshing attitude toward each game.

"When you're losing all these games, you just try to keep your head up and go out and play ball," he said.

"I saw a lot of Mark's Connie Mack games, and he really hit the ball well," Konde said. "I saw a couple of his Met League games, and he seemed to hold his own pretty good."

De Menna also was selected to the inaugural all-star series earlier this month for all Bergen County leagues comprised of 16-17-18-year olds. He started all four games, batting cleanup, for his West Bergen-Passaic team, which went undefeated to win the series.

For now, De Menna will concentrate on his fourth season as a varsity starter in soccer, his second as the stopper back.

The future is wide open for De Menna. The William Paterson and Montclair State baseball coaches have shown interest in his talents. Coach Konde already has contacted two schools in Pennsylvania, West Chester University and Allentown College, on his behalf.

"Mark has a good work ethic and is very coachable," Konde said. "I think he has made baseball a priority. He showed tremendous improvement from his sophomore to junior year."

De Menna also brings another important factor to his game, leadership.

"Mark has real positive leadership qualities," said Konde. "He's a quiet leader, and the kids respect him. Next year, Mark will be looked to as one of the players to carry the team. This year, he wasn't asked to take that burden on his shoulders, but he did along with seniors Doug Finale and Mike Read."

"I'd like to thank coach Konde, Raia and Anderson for helping me grow as a player this year," De Menna said.

"If his improvement continues and his work ethic is there, only good things will happen to Mark De Menna," Konde said.

Waldwick stages softball tournament

Town 'pitches in' for graduates John Schultz and Steve Rigoll

By BRIAN FARRELL

Waldwick once again is rallying around two of its own and showing support, both financially and morally, as Boro Park this weekend will be the site of the John Schultz and Steve Rigoll Benefit Softball Tournament.

As Waldwick did four years ago for Wendy Waters, who was afflicted with a brain tumor, the close-knit town does again, by having a weekend dedicated to John Schultz, 27, who was diagnosed with Hodgkins Disease in February, and Steve Rigoll, 38, who was diagnosed with leukemia in November of last year.

An eight-team, single-elimination softball tournament begins at 9 a.m. Saturday with four games and concludes Sunday with three more contests. Each team is paying $200 to enter the tournament.

Also, a home-run hitting contest will be staged Saturday at 5 p.m., and each player wishing to enter will be asked to make a contribution.

Spectators can make donations as they drive up toward the small bridge that leads to the Sandy Koufax field, where all the games will be played. Organizers say a $5 donation would be appreciated.

All proceeds will be divided in half and given to Schultz and Rigoll to help with the cost of their medical bills.

Claud Petruccelli, who played football and baseball with Schultz at Waldwick High School, where they both graduated in 1984, says the tournament is a town effort.

"A lot of people thought a softball tournament would be a good way to get both John and Steve involved and give them a show of support and to let them know that we care," Petruccelli said.

Rigoll, a 1973 graduate of Waldwick High School, and his wife, Diana, have a three-year old daughter, Shannon, and Gene Dunnigan of the Waldwick Senators of the Met League will be swinging a softball bat this weekend to help John Schultz, his good friend and fellow 1984 Waldwick graduate, and Steve Rigoll. Superintendent releases vandalism totals

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — At a recent board of education meeting, the superintendent released the annual vandalism, violence and substance abuse report.

During the 1992-93 school year there were 52 incidents of property damage, two incidents of arson and one incident of theft amounting to $10,000 damage.

Superintendent Patrick Piegari explained that most of the damage was done to windows.

There were also two reported threats of assault, 10 fights and three instances of alcohol abuse.

Board President Paul Cottrell said that Waldwick's substance abuse "in comparison with the county is remarkably low."

Piegari said that most of the vandalism occurred on the weekends or at night when there was no supervision.

Phyllis Beiger, Waldwick resident, wants the police to patrol the schools more effectively at night.

She said, "I'd like police to be asked to get out of their cars and look."

Piegari said that when the perpetrators are caught the parents are asked to pay for the damages.

During the year the district filed three complaints with the police and issued 50 suspensions.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING REGARDING APPLICATION FOR NON-CONFORMING USE DETERMINATION

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that an application has been made to the Board of Adjustment of the Borough of Waldwick for a determination of non-conforming use pursuant to section 97-73 of the Waldwick Zoning Code and N.J.S.A. 40:55D-58 and 40:55D-70(a) and (b).

This application concerns premises shown as Lots 11, 12 and 13 in Block 138 on the current tax map of the Borough of Waldwick, which premises are commonly known as 7 Yvonne Street, Waldwick, New Jersey.

Applicant proposes to resume use of the structure as a two-family dwelling in the R-1 zone, contrary to section 97-14 of the Waldwick Zoning Ordinance, which proposal would be a violation of the provisions of said section of the Waldwick Zoning Ordinance in the following respects: Two-family use in R-1 zone is prohibited unless Board finds that subject dwelling is a non-conforming use entitled to continuation and protection.

Applicant further appeals from the denial by the Waldwick Construction Code Official of applicant's request to use said structure as a two-family dwelling.

A continued public hearing will be held on said application by the Board of Adjustment of the Borough of Waldwick on Wednesday, September 22, 1993 at 8:00 P.M. prevailing time or as soon thereafter as the matter may be reached, at the Waldwick Municipal Building, 15 East Prospect Street, Waldwick, New Jersey.

A copy of applicant's application for variance relief and accompanying drawing is on file at the office of the Construction Official, Waldwick Municipal Building, 15 East Prospect Street, Waldwick, New Jersey for public inspection during regular business hours.

Waldwick raises $9,640 to help Jack Schultz and Steve Rigoll

By BRIAN FARRELL

And so it went this past weekend in Waldwick where there was no retreat or surrender, but just a gathering of people tied to a common bond to help Jack Schultz and Steve Rigoll win — to defeat their nemesis.

A benefit softball tournament was staged at Boro Park Saturday and Sunday to help raise funds for Schultz, 27, who was diagnosed with Hodgkins Disease in February, and Rigoll, 38, who was diagnosed with leukemia last November. Both are graduates of Waldwick High School.

And raise funds the caring people of Waldwick did, as $9,640 was collected through team entry fees, a home run derby (won by Jim Mistretta), donations, 50-50 drawings and concession sales. Schultz and Rigoll will each receive $4,820 to help with their medical expenses.

Helping the cause were Nellie's Place, Maratene's Liquors, Gil's Bar and Liquors, Appalachian Tree Service and the Waldwick Baseball Association, under president Bill Barlies and Gene Harvell, supervisor of the concession stand.

"It makes you feel proud that you grew up in a town like Waldwick," said Claud Petruccelli, 27, a good friend of Schultz's and, along with Tom McCloy, a chief organizer of the event. "This benefit was an affair where a lot of people stayed together for a whole weekend to show Jack and Steve that they cared."

"Some of the people who volunteered hardly even knew Jack or Steve, and for them to be out there in that hot weather Saturday was amazing," Petruccelli said. "But people from Waldwick respect each other and come together when other people need a hand. Waldwick is a unique kind of town — my kind of town."

Schultz, who still lives in Waldwick, was overwhelmed.

"You hear about it, but when you see it, it's just unbelievable," said Schultz about the weekend event. "To see how the people in a small town like this react, to come out and show support, is just a nice feeling. My family and I can't thank everyone enough."

"My family, my girlfriend, Tracy Garafolo, and my buddies have been there all the time," Schultz said. "They kept my mind off my illness and have made my ordeal go by very fast."

Schultz, who still works every day, says his prognosis is very good. His last chemotherapy treatment was Friday, when he will be told whether he will receive another operation or radiation treatment. All the cancer cells are dead, but a large tumor in the center of the chest, wrapped around the lung, remains.

"I don't feel sick," Schultz said. "Hopefully, through an operation or radiation, the tumor will be removed. It's nothing that I can't handle. When this is over, I want to help other people who have this cancer. It's scary, especially for a young person."

The weekend was a perfect one for Schultz, who played on his Safeway Movers team that won the eight-team tournament. In the finals, Safeway took a 5-3 decision over a team fielded by Kevin Schultz, Jack's brother.

Hope abounded in that small ballpark and that small town with the big heart last weekend. It was not about victories sought on the field, but those that are gained in life.

"It's nice to know that you're loved," Jack Schultz said. "Last weekend also gave me a chance to tell my family and friends how much I love them. Some people never get that chance. At least now, I had that chance."

Question was asked at Paramus Park mall. 9-7-93

What is it that makes you feel good about yourself? Who helps promote your self-esteem?

Taryn Wirtz, 17, Ridgewood

"Self-esteem comes from inside; you have to be confident in yourself to begin with. The whole atmosphere at Ridgewood High is really competitive, but most of the time everyone is looking out for and supporting each other. It makes you feel comfortable with trying new things. I try not to be too negative about things and just go with the flow. I swim and play soccer, and there's a lot of pressure; you just can't let it get to you. Friends promote my self-esteem a lot, and my parents, and there are certain teachers you look up to and become friends."

Jessica Williams, 14, Waldwick

"I have very high self-esteem. I don't let people put me down. If they do, I know they're just putting themselves down. I play piano, flute, made honors English, and tutor. It all adds to my self-esteem. My parents and my friends make me feel good about myself. They compliment me and if I feel down they'll say, 'That's not true,' or 'You can do better.' My mom promotes my self-esteem. She's very understanding."

School crime report out

Vandalism damage estimated at $10,000

By JOHN TOIVONEN
For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — At a recent board of education meeting the superintendent released the annual vandalism, violence and substance abuse report.

During the 1992-93 school year there were 52 incidents of property damage, two incidents of arson and one incident of theft amounting to $10,000 in damage.

This was down from the 1991-92 school year in which the schools sustained $10,800 in damage.

Superintendent Patrick Piegari explained that most of the damage was done to windows.

There were also two reported threats of assault, 10 fights and three instances of alcohol abuse.

Board President Paul Cottrell said that Waldwick's substance abuse, "in comparison with the county is remarkably low."

Piegari said that most of the vandalism occurred on the weekends or at night when there was no supervision.

Phyllis Beiger, Waldwick resident, wants the police to patrol the schools more effectively at night.

She said, "I'd like police to be asked to get out of their cars and look."

Piegari said that when the perpetrators are caught the parents are asked to pay for the damages.

"We have received money back in these situations," Piegari said.

During the year the district filed three complaints with the police and issued 50 suspensions. The prior year the district issued 44 suspensions.

In other action the board decided to send a letter to the council asking it to restore a crossing guard position.

eliminated two crossing guards, one of them at the corner of Crescent Avenue and West Prospect Street, without including the board in the decision making process. This disturbed board members who claim that the intersection is very busy and would be dangerous for young students to cross without supervision.

Piegari said the board was not informed of the council's decision making process because crossing guard staffing is an administrative function, not a legislative one.

"It's their (the council's) jurisdiction. The crossing guards are under the police department and the police department is under the jurisdiction of the mayor and council," Piegari said.

HOFSTRA CULTIVATES N.J. TIES

By LENN ROBBINS
Staff Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD — Joe Gardi was born in Harrison and coached football at Oratory Prep and Roselle Park, so he's well aware of the quality of New Jersey high school football.

That's why Gardi, now the football coach at Hofstra University, made the following statement Tuesday:

"We think recruiting in New Jersey is crucial to our survival."

With the recruiting success the Flying Dutchmen have had in North Jersey, Hofstra football won't merely survive, but thrive.

Rocco Sadler of Jersey City and Dave Fiore of Waldwick started in Saturday's 20-19 season-opening victory over Butler University.

Sadler, a sophomore defensive back, got beat for an early touchdown but settled down and made six tackles. "He had a great second half," Gardi said. "He's a great athlete. He had two interceptions for us last year and we're very, very pleased with him."

Fiore is a 6-foot-4, 255-pound sophomore tackle who Gardi describes as a legitimate pro prospect.

"We were shocked we got him," Gardi said. "He benches 450, squats 600, and is still growing into his feet. I'd love to say it was a great recruiting coup on our part but, honestly, I think a lot of other schools just missed the boat."

Wide receiver Wayne Chrebet of Garfield was still feeling the lingering effects of a concussion and did not start against Butler. He is expected to take the field with the first unit Saturday when Hofstra plays at Rhode Island. Chrebet had 18 catches last season as a sophomore, four that went for touchdowns.

"He's one of the toughest receivers I've ever coached," Gardi said. "He makes catches over the middle where a lot of receivers don't tread. He's not afraid to get smacked."

Junior Mike Doto of Cresskill won a four-way battle for the backup quarterback job. "His big forte is his arm," Gardi said. "He's got a pretty good gun. He's not as fast as some of the other quarterbacks we have but we can definitely put him in the game in certain situations."

There are several underclassmen from North Jersey that Gardi is also excited about. Freshmen offensive linemen Jim Montesano of Hackensack and Dean Ferrera of Montville should see playing time before the year is out. Big things also are expected from line-backer Eric Reid of Jersey City.

Gardi said he assigns three assistant coaches, plus himself, to recruit in New Jersey. Tim Weaver handles North Jersey.

SPECIAL TO THE RECORD
Cresskill's Mike Doto, a junior, is filling the backup quarterback's job at Hofstra.

JIM MONTESANO
Expected to see action on line

"We're really looking to establish a base there," Gardi said. "We think Hofstra has a lot to offer New Jersey athletes. They can get away from home without being too far away. Our Sports-Channel America television package means they'll be on TV nine times, which is very attractive."

Home improvement tax cuts nixed

By JOHN TOIVONEN
WALDWICK — After much debate at a recent meeting the council decided not to go with a tax abatement program designed to spur home improvements.

Instead the council will look into a possible grant or low interest loan from the Neighborhood Preservation Program, a program designed to help low to moderate-income homeowners.

The tax abatement program would have cut or eliminated the added tax assessment that resulted from home improvements for up to five years.

The program would also have brought in more tax money in the long run because it would raise property values.

Councilman James Gibson felt the program would have made it easier for some people to renovate their homes and would have improved the community.

"I've seen the condition of some of the houses in this town. If we can improve the housing stock we can improve the town."

Councilman Arthur Barthold was concerned about the borough losing tax dollars.

"You really believe at this time we can give some of the money back to the taxpayers and still operate," he said.

Barthold was also concerned that the renovation work under this program would be substan-

Senior contingent will key Waldwick

By JIM McCONVILLE
 The Waldwick High football team has been in a negative rut the past two seasons, going 2-7 in 1991 and 1992. This could be the year the Warriors return to winning football as a strong senior class is now an experienced group on the varsity level.

Head coach Terry Byrne enters his fifth season with a 17-20 career record, and he notes, "The staff is happy with the progress we have made so far this year."

"We are much further along at this point compared to last season, and the experience gained is a major factor. We also have good team speed, but we are lacking in depth and can't afford injury. We also will face a size disadvantage on the line in most games."

One of the key returnees is quarterback Mike Branagh, a junior who had eight touchdown passes last year, including four against Saddle Brook. He has added 10 pounds to his frame along with a season of experience.

Senior Doug Sneyers was the leading receiver last year, but he moves to the backfield this year at tailback. He had a 100-yard rushing game in one appearance as a runner last year, and Byrne feels he could be a real good one. He is joined by senior fullback Joe Avagnano and junior wingback Rich Parks. Sneyers scored four touchdowns last year along with a two-point conversion, and Avagnano a TD and Branagh two.

Senior Tom Hayes is a backup in the backfield, while junior Mike Fox (2 points last year) is the tight end and senior Jason Bain the wide receiver for Sneyers.

The offensive line is centered by John Ruggiero, a senior who is 5foot-9 and 180 pounds. Senior Tom Smith (5-9, 180) and junior Josh Thompson (5-10, 180) are at the guards, with seniors Robert Brankart (5-11, 185) and Mike Finnegan (5-11, 185) at the tackles. Senior David Perez (6-0, 190) is the backup for all line positions.

On the defensive side, the Warriors will present a 4-4 front, with Ruggiero and Brankart at the tackles and Bain and Fox at the defensive ends. Parks and senior Steve Majors will be at the outside linebacker posts, with Avagnano and Thompson manning the inside linebacker spots.

Sneyers and Hayes are on the corners, with junior Adam Wolfson at the safety post. Wolfson is also the placekicker, with Bain set for the punting chores.

Waldwick opens on Sept. 18 with a Saturday afternoon trip to Pompton Lakes, then entertains Saddle Brook on the following Thursday afternoon in a 2 p.m. start. The team will go to Hawthorne for a Friday night game on Oct. 1.

dard. He said that in his experience as a contractor he saw these types of programs lead to low-quality work.

"These community development programs are just government sponsored work. They always hire the worst (contractors). I laugh every time I turn it in for bid."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said he would support the program if it would have a positive impact, but he doubts it would do much for the borough at this time.

"I would rather hold onto the tax money and play it safe. I don't see where we want to take that step."

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra thinks that freezing building permit rate increases would be a better solution than tax abatements.

"Keep our building permit fees reasonable. Promise not to raise them. Why don't we do this. That's neat, that's easy. Everybody gets help," she said.

At present, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz is looking into the Neighborhood Preservation Program to see if the borough can qualify.

Outreach from Citizens First

Executives from Citizens First National Bank recently brought their message to the streets of Waldwick and Wyckoff.

Nearly 50 officers, lead by chairman Allan D. Nichols and president Rodney T. Verblaauw, called on their customers in these communities to thank them for their business, and introduced themselves and the bank to local residents.

"Our message is quite simple. Citizens First is back and ready to meet all of the financial needs of our marketplace" said Kevin J. O'Rourke, first vice president, marketing director.

The company also used this outreach program to introduce new branch managers to the people of Waldwick and Wyckoff. James Martin, a Midland Park resident and 10 year veteran of the company, was named the branch manger of the Waldwick office while Michael Minatelli, a Wyckoff resident, was appointed branch manger of the Wyckoff office after working for the company for 15 years.

In the past few months, Citizens First executives have also visited customers in other communities and plan several more community outreach campaigns in Bergen County in the months ahead.

Attention, parents of Crescent School Children. The Waldwick Town Council, in their infinite wisdom, have voted to remove the crossing guard on Crescent Avenue at West Prospect Street. They are saving us approximately $3,000 dollars.

Can our children be safe walking Crescent Avenue without and guidance? We have had too many accidents and a Free garbage?

Dear editor, 9-10-93

The great sage, Hillel, wrote, "The only thing you get free in this life is garbage." The Bergen County Utilities Authority has proven him to be wrong. Under its supervision, the disposal of garbage is far from free. It is scandalously expensive.

In 1989, the State of New Jersey Commission of Investigation began an inquiry into the practices of the Bergen County Utilities Authority. The commission's 182-page final report documents incompetence, waste and mismanagement of the taxpayers' dollars by BCUA officials after the authority contrived a "public emergency" and suspended the competitive-bidding process in order to negotiate directly with prospective vendors. Multi-million dollar contracts to transport and dispose of solid waste were awarded to vendors who had no operating history or financial backgrounds. Bid specifications were tailored to accommodate favored firms. Payments were approved by BCUA officials for contracts that did not exist.

The primary contracts awarded by BCUA officials went to Drill Construction Company ($11,819,498) and J. Fletcher Creamer & Sons ($17,521,413). In 1987, another vendor, Mitchell Environmental Inc., declared a net profit and salaries to principals of $107,549. One year later, after contracting with the BCUA, the firm's net profit jumped to $6,497,534. It soared to $7,950,474 the following year (1989). Shortly after the BCUA executive director left the authority, he was hired by Mitchell Environmental as a vice president at a salary of $160,000 plus a vehicle and other benefits. Alleged ties to organized crime prompted the DEPE to revoke Mitchell's hauling license in 1990.

The Commission was unable to perform a complete trace of the monies generated by the BCUA project as most documents remained beyond their jurisdiction and were not made available to them. When questioned during the investigation, BCUA officials suffered from amnesia. Tape recordings of crucial BCUA meetings were either missing, blank or erased. Some of these officials still remain at the BCUA. Why have they not been prosecuted? Who is protecting them?

As a result of the public disclosure of the scathing report by the SCI, Bergen County Executive Schuber sought to dismantle the BCUA. He found he was embarking on the unthinkable — trampling on some influential Republican toes. The SCI report described the BCUA as "a patronage mill" and cites interference and influence over the BCUA by the former Chairman of the Bergen County Republican Party.

On July 21, the Bergen County Freeholders and the Bergen County Republican Chairman held court. The freeholders were pardoned for their transgression (agreeing to the dissolution of the sacred BCUA) by entering into a covenant with the Republican Chairman. A deal was in the making.

We will soon learn which BCUA officials will be salvaged and which will be recycled to other agencies. The politics of garbage has become entangled with the garbage of politics.

Tax cut plan hammered

Abatement program was designed to encourage home improvements

By JOHN TOIVONEN
For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — After much debate at a recent meeting the council decided not to go with a tax abatement program designed to spur home improvements.

Instead the council will look into a possible grant or low interest loan from the Neighborhood Preservation Program, a program designed to help low-to moderate-income homeowners.

The tax abatement program would have cut or eliminated the added tax assessment that resulted from home improvements for up to five years.

The program would also have brought in more tax money in the long run because it would raise property values.

Councilman James Gibson felt the program would have made it easier for some people to renovate their homes and would have improved the community.

"I've seen the condition of some of the houses in this town. If we can improve the housing stock we can improve the town."

Councilman Arthur Barthold was concerned about the borough losing tax dollars.

"You really believe at this time we can give some of the money back to the taxpayers and still operate," he said.

Barthold was also concerned that the renovation work under this program would be substandard. He said that in his experience as a contractor he saw these types of programs lead to low-quality work.

"These community development programs are just government sponsored work. They always hire the worst (contractors). I laugh every time I turn it in for bid."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said he would support the program if it would have a positive impact, but he doubts it would do much for the borough at this time.

"I would rather hold onto the tax money and play it safe. I don't see where we want to take that step."

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra thinks that freezing building permit rate increases would be a better solution than tax abatements.

"Keep our building permit fees reasonable. Promise not to raise them. Why don't we do this. That's neat, that's easy. Everybody gets help," she said.

At present, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz is looking into the Neighborhood Preservation Program to see if the borough can qualify.

HO-HO-KUS — The Ho-Ho-Kus/Waldwick Cooperative Nursery School opened its 1993-94 school year on Sept. 14.

The school offers a morning program for children 2½ years of age; both morning and afternoon classes for children 3 and 4 years old; and a kindergarten Fun Shop. Classes are taught by professionally trained and state certified teachers. In the cooperative, parents have the opportunity to work directly with their children, in the classroom, on a regular basis.

Parents of preschoolers enrolled in the school for the upcoming year will have an opportunity to ease their child's anxiety and curiosity about school at the annual Fall Fun Fair on Sept. 19.

The fair will be held at Dunkerhook Park, off Paramus Road in Paramus, Pavilion D, from 2-4 p.m. and will have a circus theme. An afternoon with a clown, bubbles, balloons and many more goodies will provide children with an excellent opportunity to meet their classmates and start the school year off on a happy note.

Located in the Community Church of Ho-Ho-Kus, the cooperative is a state approved, nonprofit, and nonsectarian nursery school.

Parents cite safety, demand crossing guard

By JOHN TOIVONEN 9/16/93

WALDWICK — After hearing testimony from several board members and receiving a petition signed by 300 parents, the council voted to reinstate the crossing guard at the corner of Crescent Avenue and West Prospect Street.

The position had been eliminated by council before the beginning of the school year because it was deemed unnecessary and would save $3,000.

The move angered board members and parents who claimed the area had heavy traffic and posed a serious threat to children's safety. They pointed to the two accidents on Crescent, one in 1991 resulting in injury and a fatal one in 1970 as a compelling reason for having a crossing guard there.

According to police, neither of the accidents occurred at the corner of Crescent and West Prospect, but at different locations on Crescent.

Board President Paul Cottrell said, "There are parents who are not allowing their kids to walk (to school by themselves). It's a dangerous situation."

Board Member Carole Ann Geronimo said, "These impatient drivers may be speeding and there may be a child who's not looking."

Councilman Joseph Musumeci did not feel there was a need for a guard at the corner, but said he would be willing to reinstate the position to comfort parents. "I see now that it's a safety issue turned into an emotional issue. We never sat up here and said we don't care — let's save $3,000. I back the police report, (but) I don't want it to become a political issue."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende explained the decision to remove the position was made because of several police traffic reports that indicated the Crescent position was the "least justifiable position," to maintain.

Vander Wende added, "We have potential candidates. Someone can be on board in a day or two."

B-PSL CARPENTER: WALDWICK

Warriors must sustain offense

By JOHN MAYER

Inconsistency and a difficult schedule took their tolls on Waldwick to the tune of a 2-7 record, but both areas should be improved for the 1993 Warriors.

"The schedule certainly appears to be more favorable than a year ago," says coach Terry Byrne as he prepares for his fifth season. "We were simply outmanned by the better teams. We had our moments offensively but we couldn't sustain it."

Waldwick scored 100 points while allowing 248 in 1992, paying the price generally paid with a sophomore quarterback. With Mike Branaugh returning with a year of experience along with seven other starters on offense, Byrne is confident this season can bring different results.

"We're still not going to have depth in a lot of spots, but at least the players will be in familiar positions," Byrne says. "I thought we needed to put the ball in the air a lot last year to be a threat because our running game lacked substance and the inexperience really showed through."

Byrne says he feels better about the ground game with senior Joe Avagnano returning to fullback after spending two seasons on the offensive line. Avagnano will be joined by Rich Parks and Doug Sneyers — a two-year starter at wide receiver — on occasion.

"Doug has the blazing speed that can break a game open at any time," says Byrne, who'll also rely on the senior as his punt and kickoff returner. "He runs some great deep routes and if we can keep the defense honest with the run I think Mike Branaugh will be able to get him the ball."

Branaugh should get ample protection from a veteran offensive line led by Josh Thompson, Joel Wilson, John Ruggiero, and a pair of 6-foot-2, 195-pound tight ends — Jason Bain and Mike Fox.

"We'll be looking for Jason and Mike on the short pass routes, but they are also excellent blockers as well," Byrne says. "When we're in a pro set, there's a chance you'll see us go with both of them in the lineup."

The only question mark lies at the tackle spots where Byrne expects Rob Brenkert, David Perez, and Mike Finnegan to compete for the openings left by the graduation of Chris Caserta and Brian Jackson. Jackson was a second-team all-league selection in 1992.

On defense, Bain and Fox will anchor the front line that will miss graduated all-league selection Micheal Wynn. Avagnano and Thompson will be in the middle of the linebacking corps and Sneyers holds down the secondary. Byrne expects another large group of two-way players.

"These kids certainly won't be coming off the field very much,"

he says. "It's one of the things you have to accept when you coach at a Group 1 school. You go through cycles where you don't have a great deal of talent. You have to pay your dues and then start rebuilding."

Hopefully for Waldwick, the dues were paid in full at the end of the 1992 season and the rebuilding process is underway. How far along the Warriors are could be answered Sept. 19 against Pompton Lakes, a team they lost to, 28-6, in the season opener last year.

Waldwick's Gaertner makes racquetball flourish

By DENNIS WILSON
(Sports In The USA)

Racquetball is a fast, exciting sport which requires skill and determination. Waldwick's Lisa Gaertner, a 1979 alumna of Mahwah High School, has become the driving force behind the upsurge in interest in the sport in the Garden State.

A former legal secretary, Gaertner is president of the Garden State Racquetball Association and the owner of NJ Court Sports, a marketing entity which promotes the upcoming 1993-94 Spalding Racquetball Super Series which begins with the Fall Kickoff Championships which will be contested at King's Court in Lyndhurst Sept. 17-19.

Last year, Gaertner demonstrated her court skills in the 1992 Fall Kickoff Championship, taking the runnerup prize in the women's open division after dropping the title match to Lorraine Calloway of Jamaica Estates, N.Y.

Her marketing skills are reflected in the signing of Spalding as the major sponsor for the upcoming season for it is the nation's oldest full-line sports goods company.

"The 1993-94 Spalding Racquetball Super Series consists of 16 tournament throughout New Jersey, including the NJ state singles and doubles championships," said Gaertner. "Players from around the nation can choose from 26 singles and doubles divisions and compete for cash, prizes and awards.

"Spalding is very excited to be a part of such an outstanding racquetball program in New Jersey," said Sharlene Sones, national promotions manager of Spalding Professional Racket Sports. "The Spalding Super Series tour promises outstanding competition for players of all ages and ability, great giveaways and special events. And there will be free clinics and exhibitions at special events on the tour.

The remainder of the 1993 portion of the Spalding Super Series is:

- Oct. 1-3 — Warren Open, Racquets Club, Warren.
- Oct. 15-17 — GSRA NJ State Doubles Championships, Major League Fitness, Waldwick.
- Nov. 19-21 — Garden State Open, Westwood Racquetball & Nautilus Center, Westwood.
- Dec. 3-5 — Christmas Classic, Classic Athletic Club, Lyndhurst.

Garbage deal signed

To save Waldwick $500,000

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — The borough has a new garbage contract that is expected to save the town nearly $500,000 over the next three years.

The council on Tuesday awarded a $405,000 contract to Vito Stamato & Co., Inc. of Lodi, which underbid three other companies, Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said.

Stamato's bid of $135,000 a year over the next three years would save the borough $492,000 over the period of the contract, compared with the present contract, Kratz said.

The new contractor will begin pickups on Jan. 1, taking over from the Crystal Carting Corp. of Midland Park, which did the town's hauling over the past three years for $299,000 a year.

Kratz said Stamato will continue the biweekly pickups the borough's 9,700 residents receive now.

"The mayor and council are ecstatic," he said.

The council also hired a crossing guard for $6,000 for the intersection of West Prospect Street and Crescent Avenue after 300 parents signed a petition demanding the return of a guard.

Borough officials had eliminated two crossing guards in June to save $12,000. Kratz said traffic-accident statistics at that intersection did not warrant a crossing guard.

But parents said that children walking along a one-mile stretch of Crescent Avenue between Crescent Elementary School and Waldwick High School were endangered. They said the West Prospect intersection was used by motorists as a shortcut to avoid the more congested intersection of Crescent and Wyckoff avenues.

Calling card scam targets seniors

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Calling card con artists claiming they are employees of AT&T or police officers have been hitting the borough's senior citizen community this week and police believe there may be a group of callers involved.

Police said the phone scammers have called residents, telling them that their calling cards have been lost or stolen and then asking for the calling card numbers.

On Sept. 17 at 8:40 a.m. a resident of Tamaron Drive received a call from a man who said he was Officer Berell of the Waldwick Police Department. The woman hung up, called the police and found that there was no police officer with that last name in the borough.

A caller struck again on the same street on Sept. 15 at 7 a.m.

identifying himself as an AT&T employee. When he asked the woman for her card number, she gave it to the caller. She called the police later and then called AT&T. The phone company cancelled her card.

A Waldwick Avenue resident received a call on Sept. 14 at 5:50 p.m. from a man who claimed he was with AT&T. When the caller asked if the man's card had been lost of stolen, the resident hung up the phone and called the police.

Sgt. Joseph Donofrio said there are probably more incidents that weren't reported. Donofrio is concerned that many people may have already given out their numbers. He warns residents never to give their card numbers over the phone.

Scam

"They're very convincing and are fooling a lot of people. They're preying on older people," he said.

Similar incidents were reported in Midland Park on Sept. 3 and 4. In these two incidents, the caller identified himself as either "Frank Brown of NJ Bell Telephone," or "Frank Brown of AT&T."

On Sept. 3, the caller told a woman that she had over $800 of incorrect charges on her card and that he needed her card number to issue a new card. She hung up and called the police.

On Sept. 4, the caller asked another woman if she had lost her card. She asked him for his phone number and he hung up.

WALDWICK SAVORS A SPECIAL VICTORY

By KEVIN NEWELL
Staff Writer

POMPTON LAKES — Don't tell Waldwick that Saturday's 14-12 opening-day win over perennial Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division power Pompton Lakes was just another football game. To the Warriors, it might as well have been the Super Bowl.

For a team that was 2-7 and allowed 148 points more than it scored last season, Waldwick's well-earned victory over a team it hadn't beaten in recent memory was cause for celebration.

The only thing missing was a Gatorade bath for Warriors coach Terry Byrne.

"It's a big game," said an elated Byrne. "We thought coming in we were just as good as or better than them up front. If we could move the ball, we felt we could win. The guards and tackles did a great job. And our defense played real well.

"It's a big day for the program. It's always great to beat the Cardinal. They're the class of the league."

Pompton Lakes lived up to its lofty status by driving 99 yards in 39 seconds as split end Adam Minicucci gathered in 20-yard touchdown strike from quarterback Jason Mulvihill with 1:10 left in the game, cutting the deficit to two.

However, Minicucci, whose brilliant 55-yard catch and run set up the score, was unable to handle Mulvihill's conversion pass for the tie.

"I'm never happy when we lose," said Pompton

Lakes coach Garry Luciani. "But the kids didn't quit. We played hard the whole game. You can't ask for much more. Today was their day. It's been a while since they beat us. They came out for bear."

Actually, Waldwick spun its wheels in the scoreless first half. Meanwhile, its defense, led by Steve Major's two interceptions, held Pompton Lakes from crossing midfield.

Twice the Warriors squandered scoring chances. An apparent 9-yard TD run by running back Doug Sneyers (110 yards on 16 carries) was negated by a holding penalty early in the first quarter. The ensuing play resulted in an interception by Brian Togneri. In the second quarter, a first-and-goal inside the Cardinals' 5 turned up empty.

The second half was a different story, as Waldwick six times converted from 10 yards or more on third or fourth down.

A 26-yard pass from quarterback Mike Branagh (12-for-22, 135 yards passing) to Jay Bain (four receptions for 72 yards), on a fourth-and-10 from the Cardinals' 27 set up Joe Avagnano's 1-yard scoring plunge at 7:16 of the third. Adam Wolfson's first of two extra points made it 7-0.

Lakes answered two minutes later when sensational tailback Eugene Foster (21 carries, 133 yards) bobbed and weaved for daylight before breaking a 53-yard TD run down the left sideline. Minicucci's extra point was blocked.

Jay Bain of Waldwick stepping out at the 1-yard line to set up a touchdown as Bob Pallanto defends for Pompton Lakes. The Warriors scored on the next play and went on to a 14-12 victory.

Waldwick shared Pee Wee Reese state title

By BRIAN FARRELL

The rich pool of baseball talent found in Waldwick got another big splash this summer, as a group of 11 and 12-year olds brought home a Pee Wee Reese state championship.

Waldwick, under manager Bobby Guy, went 9-1 during the regular season and then 5-1 in the states to share the banner with Wyckoff. This year, there were two separate state tournaments of ten teams.

Waldwick, after losing its first game (4-1 to Demarest), stormed back to reel off five wins, defeating Oakland, 13-6, Fair Lawn, 10-5, Demarest, 12-6, Spring Valley, N.Y., 9-3, and Allendale, 6-1, in the title game. Waldwick's last two games were won in one night.

Waldwick claimed its state title at 11:30 p.m. on a Thursday and then, incredibly, because of a scheduling oversight by tournament officials, had to play the following day at 11 a.m. in Brooklyn in the North Atlantic regional tournament.

That Friday, with their pitchers arm-weary and all their players obviously tired, Waldwick had to play a doubleheader. The team, however, showed what it was made of despite losing to Brooklyn, 5-3, and Connecticut, 9-8, in a game that started at 2 p.m.

"In essence, we played four games in less than 24 hours," Guy noted. "The tournament officials thought they had an extra week, until the following Friday, to start the regionals. On that Tuesday (during the states), one of the officials realized he had the wrong date for the start of the regionals, and told the teams that everything had to be done by that Thursday, which is why we played the doubleheader that day."

Still, the 6-1 win over Allendale in the state final is what Guy and his players prefer to remember the most.

"We had two big defensive plays in that game which really helped us," Guy said. "In the first inning, our rightfielder, Chris Banta, threw a strike to catcher Tommy Guy to nail a runner at the plate. In the second, there was a runner on second, when the ball was bunted to our first baseman, Brett Vargo, who nipped the batter at first. The runner never stopped, and Brett threw a strike to Tommy to prevent another run."

"I felt those two plays broke Allendale's momentum for the whole game," Guy said. "Allendale was a very aggressive and well-coached team, but I think it was very hard for them to run after those two plays we made."

Guy used three pitchers in the championship game, with Jon Huff starting and working the first three innings, followed by Jimmy Fox and Tommy Guy. Robbie Finnegan and Doug Kirchner also pitched in.

In the tournament, Fox belted two home runs, while Banta and Mike Russo each slammed one.

"I thought Rob Padula (outfield) and Stephen Zuccato (second base-outfield) did a great job coming off the bench," Guy said. "Doug Kirchner, at second base, and Mike Fusco, at first and second, also did a nice job of filling in at those positions."

Last year, Waldwick, in Guy's first season, went 6-5 and 2-2 in the states. Nine of the players returned this year.

Will weigh allegations that bidding was illegal

By DAVID VOREACOS
Staff Writer

A Superior Court judge has halted work on a sewage-plant expansion while he weighs allegations that the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority improperly awarded a $9.8 million contract to the second-lowest bidder.

In his ruling on Friday, Judge James T. Murphy said he will hear arguments on whether Prismatic Development Corp. can do the work at the Waldwick plant despite bidding $400,000 higher than Michael F. Ronca & Sons Inc.

Ronca sued the authority and Prismatic after utilities authority commissioners voted Sept. 14 to reject the bid by Ronca, a Bethlehem, Pa., company. Commissioners said the Ronca bid was deficient, primarily because it did not specify a plumber with a proper New Jersey license, said NBCUA Executive Director Emil Porfido.

"That license has to be submitted with the bid, and they didn't name a plumber," Porfido said. "When we asked him [Ronca] about it, he said he would send us the license, and he never did."

But Ronca's attorney, Richard F. Aronsohn, said the company is a responsible bidder that employs a master plumber with a New Jersey license. Although the name of the plumber was not included with Ronca's bid, Aronsohn said the company has performed similar work and that plumbing constitutes a small part of the job. He insisted that Ronca had "substantially complied" with the bid specifications.

The complaint also claims that Prismatic bad-mouthed Ronca in statements to the authority that were "knowingly and willfully false and malicious."

Porfido denied the allegations. Murphy scheduled a hearing on the matter for Oct. 14.

Both bids were considerably below an engineering estimate of $10.7 million for the two-year project to expand the plant's capacity from 9.5 million gallons a day to 11.5 million gallons, Porfido said.

To fund the project and an odor-control system, the state will provide low-interest loans of up to $16.5 million.

EMIL PORFIDO
Defends NBCUA's action on bids

At their Sept. 14 meeting, commissioners also awarded a $1.1 million contract to Remsco Associates Inc. of Old Bridge to install a scrubber system to remove noxious odors from three locations.

Neighbors have pressed the authority for months to control the occasional offensive odors that waft from the sewage plant, which serves 11 communities.

Remsco will install a system that will use a non-caustic chemical that is supposed to remove 95 percent of the hydrogen sulfide that causes the stench. If that chemical doesn't work, the authority will pay Remsco another $500,000 to try a caustic chemical. The system is supposed to be in place by June.

In a related matter, the authority agreed to pay $2,300 to state environmental regulators to settle a $5,000 penalty imposed in December for two odor violations in 1992. The NBCUA did not admit the allegations, but it withdrew its request for an administrative hearing.

THIS VICTORY WAS WORTH IT FOR SNEYERS

By BARRY GRAMLICH
Staff Writer

Being a marked man on a high school football team has a price, and for Doug Sneyers of Waldwick, the unsteady walk and inability to shake hands Sunday were dead giveaways.

Sneyers didn't recall when the injury took place, only because the significance of Waldwick's improbable victory over Pompton Lakes outweighed any bumps or bruises he sustained. So don't expect The Record's Athlete of the Week to miss any time after the shining moment of his varsity career.

"I'll be fine, because I can't handle another 2-7 season," said Sneyers, a three-year starter and nucleus of a team that had lost 14 of its last 18 games. "There's not too many memories for me."

One game into his senior season, Sneyers has one for the books. The senior tailback carried 16 times for 110 yards and a touchdown, had six solo tackles at safety, and downed two punts inside the 5-yard line as Waldwick established itself as a legitimate contender in the Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division.

It was Sneyers' fifth varsity game as a tailback after beginning his career as a wide receiver.

"We had a run-and-shoot offense last year and canned it," said Sneyers, an all-league wideout. "I guess the coaches wanted to try some different guys at running back."

The 5-foot-8 Sneyers, who weighed 135 pounds as a junior and now barely tips 140, recalled his first trip to the backfield last season.

"It was against Paterson Catholic, and I thought I'd take a beating," Sneyers said. "But the first drive was really fun and I wound up with over 100 yards."

And he's paying the price.

"Now I'm getting hit pretty good even when I don't carry the ball, and I'm definitely the lightest back in the league," he said. "I took some unexpected shots."

Despite the day-after tightness, Sneyers remains a shot in the arm for the Waldwick program. When he completed his daily landscaping work during the summer, he lifted weights at night to prepare for his senior season. A B student, he wants to play in college.

His older brother, Lou, took a different route after his career as a Waldwick wide receiver ended in 1990. Lou Sneyers joined the Marines.

"But he's probably been my biggest influence," Sneyers said.

With a win over a perennial playoff power, Sneyers and his teammates are shooting for the stars this season. But he says the victory over the Cardinals will be a difficult one to forget so soon.

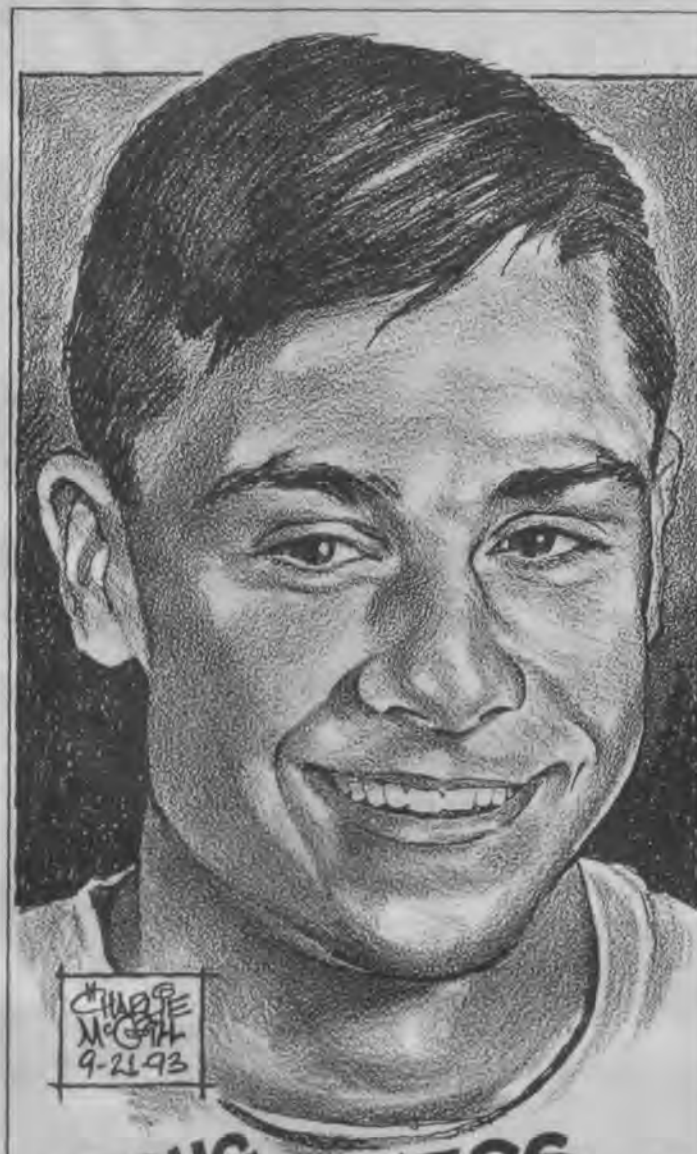

"I can't explain how we felt," he said. "We had them 14-7 my sophomore year and lost 17-14. Last year I caught nine passes and returned a punt for a touchdown and we lost, 28-6."

"My teammates were pretty much stunned. In the third quarter I got a first down on a fourth-and-10 after three straight incompletions. And I did it behind a line that is basically new."

But this is the new Waldwick, and Sneyers could be shaking a lot of hands by the end of the season.

Crossing guard reinstated

Council votes to return safety escort to corner of Crescent and West Prospect

By JOHN TOIVONEN
For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — After hearing testimony from several board members and receiving a petition signed by 300 parents, the council voted to reinstate the crossing guard at the corner of Crescent Avenue and West Prospect Street.

The position had been eliminated by the council before the beginning of the school year because it was deemed unnecessary and would save $3,000.

They pointed to the two accidents on Crescent, one in 1991 resulting in injury and a fatal one in 1970 as a compelling reason for having a crossing guard there.

According to police, neither of the accidents occurred at the corner of Crescent and West Prospect, but at different locations on Crescent.

Board President Paul Cottrell said, "There are parents who are not allowing their kids to walk (to school by themselves). It's a dangerous situation."

Boardmember Carole Ann Geronimo said, "These impatient drivers may be speeding and there may be a child who's not looking."

Councilman Joseph Musumeci did not feel there was a need for a guard at the corner, but said he would be willing to reinstate the position to comfort parents. "I see now that it's a safety issue turned into an emotional issue. We never sat up here and said we don't care — let's save $3,000. I back the police report, (but) I don't want it to become a political issue."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende explained the decision to remove the position was made because of several police traffic reports that indicated the Crescent position was the "least justifiable position" to maintain.

Vander Wende added, "We have potential candidates. Someone can be on board in a day or two."

WEF provides globes to all three schools

WALDWICK — The Waldwick Education Foundation has completed its first year. During this time the foundation was able to provide globes to all three schools.

The globes are located in the school libraries. In addition, four SONY CD ROM units, which are computerized encyclopedias, were distributed to all three schools. Each elementary school received a unit and two were placed in the Jr./High School.

The WEF has also allocated money to each elementary school for the upcoming 1993-94 school year. The money will be used to purchase books which will be presented to the student on his/her birthday. The WEF hopes to encourage children to read by presenting them with a new book.

On a social note, the WEF sponsored a Murder Mystery Dinner at the Radisson Hotel. The evening turned out to be great fun.

More fundraisers are planned for this school year. The Beefsteak Dinner is scheduled for October, a Progressive Dinner for January and a Craft Fair for March.

The Waldwick Education Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to enhance education in the public schools, needs your continued support. If you would like to lend support or have any question, please write the WEF at P.O. Box 184, Waldwick, N.J. 07463.

Center costs higher

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — At a recent meeting the council discussed ways to cut costs on community center construction that may run much higher than expected.

The council was hoping to spend no more than $330,000 to turn an old building on the corner of Hopper Avenue and West Prospect Street into a community center, but an estimate came in at $559,000.

Jeff Wells of Wells Associates, the architectural firm handling the project, said the high estimate surprised him and he made several cost-cutting suggestions, including a reduction of the price of an elevator, which he feels is $20,000 too high, and switching from metal to wood for the structural work.

Going for a state grant to fund the elevator and the bathroom was also a good possibility, Wells said.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende is concerned that even if they are able to cut costs, the lowest construction bid may come in at $410,000.

Wells said the council should take suggestions on how to cut costs from each contractor it interviews. He said this approach had helped him cut costs in other projects.

Vander Wende added that there is hope for a low bid because several recent bids have come in especially low due to the poor economic climate.

The council decided to solicit price quotes from contractors, but no formal bids.

In other business, Vander Wende decided to lift the restrictions on outside water use that had been in effect during the summer.

Warriors claim big win on Cardinal turf

Sneyers sparks 1st win over Pompton since 1988

By BRIAN FARRELL

A fearsome look does The Cardinal give, perched menacingly atop the white fieldhouse. "This is Cardinal country" the words read, and those words are backed up season after season on the football field.

Saturday, a band of Warriors landed in Pompton Lakes in Viking-type weather and challenged the mighty Cardinal, the one who was favored, the one who was supposed to deal Waldwick its fifth straight loss at its mighty hand.

But in one fell swoop, Terry Byrne's Warriors erased the pain of the past four seasons and stunned Pompton Lakes, 14-12, in the season opener.

"That Cardinal has a menacing look — to some people," Byrne said. "But any time you beat them, it's a red-letter day."

Pompton Lakes, the perennial power in the B-PSL Carpenter Division, usually loses just one or two games a year.

"After reviewing the films and scouting reports, we thought we were capable of beating them," said Byrne, brushing aside the word upset. "Going in, we felt we were as good as them. We just played a very inspired and emotional game."

The last time Waldwick upended the Cardinals was in 1988 — Waldwick's state-championship season.

One of the smaller Warriors, but not in stature, was the main thrust behind the trip up to Cardinal country. Doug Sneyers, all 5-foot-8, 140 pounds of him, rushed for 110 yards on 16 carries, including a one-yard TD run, from his tailback slot, registered six solo tackles at safety and downed a pair of punts inside the five-yard line. The senior also caught every kickoff and punt that drifted his way.

"Doug played close to a perfect game," Byrne said. "He was the standout; that's for sure."

"This was a great way to start the season after going 2-7 last year," said Sneyers, a three-year varsity starter. "The line did a great job of blocking, and things went our way."

It was only Sneyers' fifth game at tailback after beginning his career at wide receiver. He credited ends Mike Fox and Jay Bain, tackles Mike Finnegan and Dave Perez, guards Tom Smith and Josh Thompson and center John Ruggiero for making him a path through Cardinal country.

"Give credit to the defense; it played superbly," said Byrne, pointing to Pompton not crossing the 50 in the first half. "We did the little things right. All game long, we held them in check, except for that one long run by (Eugene) Foster (who scored on a 53-yard run)."

Byrne praised Fox and Bain, Waldwick's tall bookends, for leading the charge along with cornerbacks Steve Major and Rich Parks and safeties Sneyers and Tom Hayes. Major intercepted two passes, returning one 14 yards.

The Cardinals, though, gave Waldwick a two-minute warning. Facing a 14-6 deficit and 99 yards of turf with just 1:49 left, they struck in a mere 39 seconds, scoring on a 20-yard pass. The pass attempt for two points failed.

"They are a good team, and you can't let up on them," Byrne said.

After a scoreless first half, Waldwick took the kickoff and scored. Bain, on a "beautiful down-and-out pattern" hauled in a 26-yard strike from quarterback Mike Branagh. That set up the Warriors at the one from where fullback Joe Avagnano's dove over Thompson, the right guard, and into the endzone.

Pompton came right back, scoring on Foster's run, but the point-after kick was blocked by Fox.

Waldwick struck back in the fourth quarter, with Bain (four receptions for 70 yards) again fueling the drive by snaring an 18-yard toss on an out pattern for a first-and-10 on the Cardinal 30. From the five, Branagh faked to Avagnano, ran a dive option and pitched to Sneyers, who was knocked out of bounds at the one. Sneyers scored on an off-tackle play, behind key blocks from Avagnano and Perez, the left tackle.

In contrast, Waldwick was turned back twice from scoring in the first half. A holding penalty negated a nine-yard TD run by Sneyers early in the opening quarter. In the second period, the Cardinals stopped the Warriors on a first-and-goal inside the five.

"We're proud of our kids, because after coming up short in the first half, they never allowed Pompton Lakes to take control of the game in the second half," Byrne said.

Mike Branagh emerges as a leader at quarterback

When Mike Branagh steps on the field at quarterback, there is a link in Waldwick High School football history. His father, Bill Branagh, was the first Warrior quarterback in Waldwick's inaugural season of 1965.

Branagh, a 6-foot-3, 165-pound junior, in his second full season as the Warriors' field general, directed Waldwick to a big 14-12 triumph over formidable Pompton Lakes on Saturday to kick off the 1993 season.

It was a sweet win for Waldwick and Branagh, who actually has started against Pompton Lakes three times. In the 1991 season finale, Branagh, then a freshman, got the nod and threw two touchdown passes to then sophomore Doug Sneyers in a 28-12 loss. Last year, Waldwick lost, 28-6.

"This is a great feeling, beating Pompton," said Branagh, who completed 12-of-22 passes for 135 yards. "I wouldn't call it a big upset, because our coaches prepared us since mid-August; we were ready for them. It was just a big win."

"Mike made some excellent throws, key ones," said head coach Terry Byrne. "He is beginning to mature as a good quarterback. He surely has the touch of a quarterback."

"Our coaches fired us up right before the game," Branagh said. "Doug (Sneyers) ran the ball well, and our line blocked well. And I have big bookends to throw to in Mike Fox (6-3, 205) and Jason Bain (6-4, 205). They usually catch everything thrown to them."

Perhaps as a method to boost their confidence, Waldwick, after winning the coin flip, decided to kick off.

"We wanted to get our defense out there and show Pompton that we could stop them," Branagh said.

He sounds like a leader out there, too. FARRELL

'Golden Pass' key to jobs for older workers

By CHRISTINA ROSSI 9-26-93

WALDWICK — A new program entitled "Golden Pass" can help workers over 55 who have lost their jobs learn a salable skill and gain a new position through the use of a video resume.

The 15-week program held at Waldwick High School and coordinated by Janet Sobkowicz and Bob Finkelstein of the school's business department, teaches students WordPerfect 5.1, a popular word processing program in business and industry.

In addition, participants prepare a 30-second video resume which is broadcast over Waldwick's cable television station, seen in 13 Northwest Bergen County towns.

Sobkowicz says preparation of the video resume helps students polish their job interview skills.

Nine out of 10 of the students in the program's prior session, which ended in June, have been placed in jobs, according to Sobkowicz. They landed office, secretarial, data entry and telemarketing positions at area companies including the Bonaire Corporation in Allendale and Werner & Pfleiderer in Ramsey.

"It's a great opportunity for a new lease on life," says Sobkowicz. She adds that the retraining can help employees who have lost their jobs through corporate reorganization.

Waldwick is one of only two towns in Bergen County to sponsor the course.

The sessions are funded by the federal Older Workers Program, through a grant from the Bergen County Private Industry Council.

Applications are currently being accepted for the fall term, which will be held one day a week from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Waldwick High School. Students can also log additional practice time at the school.

Prospective students should be residents of Northwest Bergen County, and must meet certain income requirements.

For more information, call Sobkowicz or Finkelstein at 652-9000.

Is money the first choice, or time? It seems to me that we need time. Time to regroup ourselves in this competitive world and most of all, time to be with our families. We have so little of it today. Man dies as trench collapses

By PETER J. SAMPSON and DAVID GIBSON

WALDWICK — A laborer in a sewer repair crew working without proper permits and in violation of safety codes died Saturday after the walls of the pit in which he was digging collapsed and buried him, police said.

Wladyslaw Bak, 52, a Polish immigrant from Wallington, died despite feverish efforts to save him from the mud and raw sewage, officials said.

Police said the four-man crew, hired by Bogush Brothers Plumbing and Heating of Wallington, did not have building and health department permits and had violated safety codes.

The collapse occurred about 9:40 a.m. in the courtyard of the Tamaron, a 144-unit housing complex on Tamaron Drive, Patrolman Kevin Smith said.

When the sides of the trench collapsed, the mud buried Bak, Smith said. He said Bak's fellow workers, who spoke to authorities in broken English, were able to free his head, and rescue workers then cleared Bak down to his waist.

But the victim, who had been alert and talking, apparently went into cardiac arrest, and efforts to revive him were unsuccessful, Smith said.

OSHA begins probing 2 sewer worker deaths

By DAVID VOREACOS
Staff Writer

Federal safety regulators have begun investigating two accidents last week in which Bergen County residents died while working on separate sewer projects.

Wladyslaw Bak, 52, of Wallington died Saturday after the pit in which he was working on a broken sewer line collapsed at a Waldwick condominium complex. And Joaquin Costa, 20, of Lyndhurst died Friday when he fell 35 feet into a sewage pump station being built in Avenel.

"We want to get to the bottom of what actually happened and find out if there were any violations of federal safety and health standards," said Dennis Gaughan, area director for the central New Jersey office of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration. "If there were any violations, we want to find out if they contributed to the accident."

Gaughan said construction is one of the nation's most dangerous occupations and that industry workers accounted for 31 of the 64 deaths probed by OSHA statewide in the fiscal year ending in September 1992. Four workers died in Bergen and Passaic counties, including one construction worker.

Statewide statistics are not available for the fiscal year that ends this week, but 10 workers died in Bergen and Passaic counties during that period, said Lisa Levy, assistant area director. Half of them worked in the construction industry.

Bak, a Polish immigrant, died of a skull fracture and brain contusion, according to autopsy results released Monday by the Bergen County Medical Examiner's Office.

He was working for Bogush Bros. Heating and Plumbing of Wallington when the walls of the pit collapsed and buried him. Fellow workers were able to free Bak's head, and rescue workers cleared him down to his waist before he died.

The Tamaron Condominium Association had hired Bogush Bros. to clear a blocked sewer line and install a new one, said association President Milton Lichstein. Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said the company lacked a building permit for the new line.

Company officials could not be reached for comment.

Costa, a laborer who worked for James R. Ientile Inc., died Friday after plunging into a concrete well that was being installed for the township of Woodbridge. Police said Costa was guiding a 55-gallon drum to the bottom of the well and stepped on the drum, causing both to fall.

Ientile officials could not be reached for comment Monday.

Midland Park forum to debate 911 merger

Centralized system would serve 8 towns

By PAUL J. TOOMEY 4-28-93
Staff Writer

MIDLAND PARK — The Borough Council will hold a public hearing next Tuesday on the town's participation in a centralized 911 emergency dispatch system with Ridgewood and Glen Rock, a network that also will serve five other towns.

Under the plan, an emergency management technician would directly dispatch police, fire, and ambulance services in the three towns, Mayor Faith Walker said.

Calls from any of the other five towns — Oakland, Franklin Lakes, Wyckoff, Waldwick, and Ramsey — would be routed back to the appropriate service in each town for dispatch, Walker said.

The northwest Bergen system would be the largest in the county, serving 100,000 residents in the eight towns.

Borough Administrator David J. Internoscia said Midland Park's participation in the system would save the borough $70,000 a year. The borough now spends $161,516 a year to operate its own police, fire, and ambulance dispatch system, he said.

Robert Freudenrich, Glen Rock's borough administrator, said his town would hold its public hearing Oct. 11. Freudenrich said he expects "several thousand dollars" in savings.

Ridgewood will hold its public hearing Oct. 7, Bob Greenlaw, Ridgewood's emergency services director, said.

All Bergen County residents are expected to be protected under a 911 system by year-end, county officials say. Three-quarters of the communities will have their 911 calls handled by 11 regional centers, and the remaining towns will go it on their own.

A large majority of the county's 825,000 residents currently must dial the seven digits of their local police or fire stations in case of emergencies.

The three towns running the dispatch system — which will be known as Northwest Bergen Central Dispatch — will contribute $150,000 each in start-up costs, and the county will provide $248,944.

Why do Democrats attack NRA?

Editor, The Record:

The New Jersey Democratic Party is running television ads that proudly state the party is an enemy of the National Rifle Association. As both a registered Democrat and a longstanding member of the NRA, I ask why?

Sure, the NRA opposed Governor Florio's assault weapons ban. The NRA, with its tens of thousands of members in New Jersey, did succeed in persuading the Republican Party to nearly overturn the ban, with the argument that the law has no effect on criminal activity while unfairly punishing legitimate gun owners. The attempt to overturn the law failed. So why do the Democrats vilify the NRA (and its members) as if it were some criminal organization?

If this ad campaign proves successful, maybe the Democrats will broaden it to include other "enemy groups." Can we expect commercials about the Knights of Columbus or even the Catholic Church because of their opposition to abortion? Who knows where this style of campaigning might end? After all, Florio has made a lot of enemies.

This is a scurrilous attack on an organization and its members, whose only crime is believing that the Second Amendment to the Constitution means what it says. It's nothing more than a red herring in the current political campaign, from a party that hopes to conceal its record of the last four years.

This is one Democrat who has finally rethought his allegiance to that party.

Waldwick's Sue Gilfillan, a former soccer star at Immaculate Heart Academy of Washington Township, has started her third year as a member of the women's soccer team at the University of Scranton.

Gilfillan, a defensive back, is helping anchor a unit hit hard-est by graduation.

Last season, the Lady Royals won an unprecedented fourth straight Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) title as well as a berth in the elite 20-team National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) tournament.

The Lady Royals look to improve on their 15-6-1 record of last year and return to the NCAA tournament.

Gilfillan is a biology major.

Sneyers, Avagnano, defense spark Waldwick

By BRIAN FARRELL

And so the beat goes on for the Waldwick Warriors, who are drumming up a revival season after going 4-14 the past two seasons.

Last Friday, coach Terry Byrne's Warriors continued on that path of recovery by shutting down Saddle Brook, 28-0, for a 2-0 start.

"We have a better attitude toward football this year," says senior Joe Avagnano, the full-back and a middle linebacker. "We have an attitude to win. Everyone this year wants to win."

"Everyone just comes together on game day," says guard-middle linebacker Josh Thompson, a junior. "We're a close-knit group."

Avagnano and Thompson were two key contributors to the shutout win.

The 5-10, 200-pound Avagnano paved many of the routes taken by tailback Doug Sneyers, who again topped the 100-yard rushing mark, piling up 147 yards on 17 carries, including touchdown runs of 16 and 47 yards. Sneyers now has racked up 257 yards in 33 attempts (an average of 7.8 yards per carry) and has scored three touchdowns.

"Doug's our big threat; they have to stop him," said Byrne.

"Joe Avagnano had a lot of key blocks that opened up a lot of holes for me," Sneyers said.

Avagnano himself picked up 54 yards on 13 carries and scored his second touchdown of the season.

Sneyers said he was concerned going into the game.

"I didn't want to lose after coming off a big win (against Pompton Lakes)," the senior said. "It was definitely not an easy game. We can't take other teams lightly. Hawthorne (tomorrow's away game at 7:30 p.m.) is another tough opponent. They don't give up many points."

Thompson, a 5-10, 185-pounder, led the defensive charge, registering seven solo tackles. End Mike Fox had four takedowns and added a blocked punt and a fumble recovery. Middle linebacker Tom Smith had three tackles, and, from the secondary, Tom Hayes "made a couple of nice sticks and a (pass) knockdown."

"The defensive line stepped up and got the people out of my way so I could get in there and stop the run," said Thompson, a second-year starter.

"Josh is a consistent football player," Byrne said. "He's tough mentally. Josh is your typical guard-linebacker; he likes a lot of contact."

Quarterback Mike Branagh got things rolling for the Warriors in the opening quarter by hooking up with Fox on a 37-yard scoring play. Adam Wolfson booted the extra point.

"It was a classic post-pattern, and Fox was open," Byrne said. "Branagh hit him in stride; it was a nice pass."

Branagh only attempted nine passes, completing four for 85 yards.

"Saddle Brook was sending its linebackers up, and that took away from our passing game," Byrne said. "When they did, they gave us other things, like the off-tackle run."

Sneyers, off the right side, made that work when the speedster broke his 47-yard dash, unscathed, up the middle in the second quarter. Tackle Mike Finnegan and Fox, a tight end, sprung Sneyers, giving Waldwick a 13-0 halftime lead.

In the third period, Sneyers again ran the same off-tackle play behind Finnegan and Fox for his 16-yard TD run. Branagh tossed to Rich Parks for the conversion and a 21-0 advantage.

Avagnano's scoring plunge of one yard in the final quarter was made possible on a block by Smith, a guard. Wolfson converted for the extra point.

Low bidder drops suit over sewer contract

By DAVID VOREACOS 9-30-93
Staff Writer

A company that submitted the lowest bid on a Waldwick sewage plant expansion project has decided to drop a lawsuit it filed after the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority awarded a $9.8 million contract to the second-lowest bidder.

Michael F. Ronca & Sons Inc., the low bidder, sued the authority and the company that won the award, Prismatic Development Corp. of Parsippany, after the authority's commissioners disqualified Ronca's bid on Sept. 14.

Commissioners had said that Ronca's bid was deficient because it failed to specify a plumber with a New Jersey license. Ronca sued in Superior Court to block the award, but notified the authority and Prismatic this week that it will drop the suit.

"I'm happy that it's settled," said Emil Porfido, NBCUA executive director. "People don't realize that we have to follow bidding laws. We don't make the law that says Ronca has to have a plumber who is licensed in New Jersey."

Officials at Ronca, which is based in Bethlehem, Pa., could not be reached for comment.

The dropping of the lawsuit clears the way for the authority to begin a two-year project to expand its capacity from 9.5 million gallons a day to 11.5 million gallons. The project is being funded by low-interest state loans.

The authority also is installing a $1.1 million scrubber system to remove offensive odors at three locations. Neighbors have been pushing for the relief.

The authority treats sewage for 11 communities at the Waldwick plant.

Man is deputized to deal with neighbors

By JOHN TOIVONEN
WALDWICK — A complaint from a Manhattan Street resident about an overcrowded house in his neighborhood where there have been numerous complaints of noise, fights and several health code violations has led the council to deputize the resident in an effort to alleviate the problem. Alan Tischbeim of 92 Manhattan Ave. said he was tired of the problems at 90 Manhattan Ave. and that he would do anything to resolve the situation. "There has been an alleged stabbing in the house, fights in the house, garbage around the house. We have called the police several times. When the police come they bring police dogs. (See DEPUTY, page 4)

But Vander Wende admits that going against problem landlords is a tough fight because the New Jersey Supreme Court has struck down family unit laws that would restrict the number of unrelated people living in a house.

"The Supreme Court has been so outrageous in their protection of this type of situation. It is one of the most frustrating things to deal with," he said.

Tischbeim explained that the police had been helpful when it came to quieting down loud parties, but that nothing had been done to ultimately resolve the situation.

"I didn't know where to turn until I met Ed (Councilman Edwin Sherman, who lives on a nearby street)," he said.

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said that deputizing Tischbeim to be an official witness would give him credibility if he has to testify in court.

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra said, "When you build a really good case and you hit them in their pockets, it's no long profitable for them to rent. Then you win."

The landlord, David Hector, was not available for comment.

That's how bad it is. Verbal abuse has been done not only to myself (by a woman living there) but to children because she is a drunk. We'd like to know what you can do for us to go after the landlord so we aren't forced to leave a town we don't want to leave," he said.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said he was aware of a "litany of violations" at the residence and that the council would do what ever it could to help him.

Vander Wende said that overcrowded houses with zoning and health code violations had been a serious problem in recent years.

In 1992 the borough won a zoning case against a landlord on Dora Avenue who had anywhere from 20 to 25 tenants living on her property. She was fined $5,000 and then put her property up for sale because it was not profitable for her to continue renting.

Said Vander Wende, "We'll go to court as many times as it takes to let them know the borough of Waldwick will not stand for this."

Mistretta wins home run derby in Waldwick, Petrucci second

By BRIAN FARRELL 10-5-93

Jim Mistretta admits he's never been known as a home run hitter, but the 23-year old Waldwick resident turned slugger Aug. 29 in a softball home run derby at Waldwick's Sandy Koufax field.

Mistretta was one of seven finalists that Sunday from 37 entrants who each paid $10 on Saturday to participate in the derby, which was part of two-day softball tournament that raised $9,640 to help Waldwick High School graduates Jack Schultz, 27, who has Hodgkins Disease, and Steve Rigoll, 38, who has leukemia.

In the finals, each batter received seven pitches. Picking out of a hat, Mistretta was the "seventh-seed" — the last batter. The 1988 graduate of Don Bosco Prep needed only four pitches to slam three homers and edge Claude Petrucci, 27, who had two dingers.

Mistretta, a righty, hit the first two pitches out — one to left, one to right-center. He deposited the third pitch on one bounce to the left-center fence. On the fourth delivery, he pulled the pitch down the leftfield line and over the fence. Although he didn't have to,

Mistretta took his final three pitches. "The fans wanted to see more," he explained.

Mistretta received a Zett aluminum bat, and Petrucci received a Zett glove. Both items were donated by 1981 Waldwick graduate Allen Goldberg, regional sales manager for Zett Corp., the world's largest manufacturer of sporting goods.

The other five finalists — Eugene Schultz, B.J. Branagh, Bobby Leonard, John DePuy of Allendale and Darren Starr of Ho-Ho-Kus — each hit one homer. Each finalist had homered twice on Saturday to qualify for the final.

Mistretta, who hit nine home runs (three each season) in his three-year varsity career at Don Bosco, was shocked himself that he won the derby.

"I probably had the least career home runs, softball or baseball, among the finalists," Mistretta said. "Before the finals, some of the spectators were saying I didn't have a shot at it. They were saying, why even get up. People were saying the odds-on favorites were Eugene Schultz and B.J. Branagh. So they took me off the board. But I easily shocked everyone."

"I think Jimmy had too much pine tar on his bat," Petrucci noted. "I didn't get a chance to inspect the bat. Of course, that's pure speculation on my part. I'm probably going to play him in a game of marbles to determine the true champion."

All kidding aside, Petrucci, who hit 18 home runs in his three-year career at William Paterson College, said he thought Mistretta would win the derby anyway.

Meanwhile, Colin "Hal" Heafy was stationed beyond the fence. His job was that of a fly chaser.

"Colin did a great job of retrieving the home runs," Petrucci said. "He caught a lot of them on a fly. It was a tremendous feat by Colin, considering sticker bushes were all around."

Bill Branagh, who earlier had hurled his Safeway Movers team to the championship of the eight-team tournament, was the main pitcher for the home run derby, although veteran hurler Stan Biernacki, a senior citizen, made a guest appearance on the mound on Saturday.

Let the Seller Beware

[MARKETING, Sept. 13],

some readers are devising schemes to deflect unwanted pitches. Tom MacFadyen of Sunnyvale, California, suggests a law giving consumers "the right to have an asterisk after their phone-book listing to serve as public notice that unsolicited calls are illegal. A fine of $50 or more per call should be levied against violators." Kirk F.

Williamson of Kennewick,

Washington, wants the telemarketing industry taxed to provide basic telephone service to every household. Says he: "I pay for telephone service for my convenience. If they want to invade my privacy, they should pay for it."

Margaret Oberholtzer of Waldwick, New Jersey, says she has found an effective deterrent. "At the beginning of the sales pitch, I say pleasantly, 'It's inconvenient for me to talk now, but if you'll give me your home telephone number, I'll be happy to call you back when I have time.'" The result, says Oberholtzer, is that most solicitors hang up.

Last shot at County openings

The next few days will be critical for schools looking to get an invitation to the Bergen County boys soccer tournament. Games through Saturday will be included although the entry deadline is Friday.

Any coach who wishes to enter and hasn't received a blank may obtain one by calling Jerry Lewis at 646-7976 (days) or 845-0832 (nights).

Teams such as Tenafly, Ramapo, Don Bosco Prep, Pascack Valley, Lyndhurst, Midland Park, North Arlington, and Garfield appear to have spots wrapped up. But that leaves eight places.

Some teams, such as Cliffside Park (4-1), control their own destiny. The Red Raiders have three games this week, beginning this afternoon with visiting Tenafly, which is unbeaten.

Ready to make their moves are Waldwick, Hackensack, Dumont, Leonia, and Lodi. Throw in any other team that gets hot this week and you have your field.

Urgent Care welcomes Dr. Susan Matos-Cloke

WALDWICK — Urgent Care in Waldwick is pleased to announce that Susan Matos-Cloke, M.D., a board certified internal medicine specialist, will be opening a medical practice within the Urgent Care Center, along with Dr. Waters. She is affiliated with Pascack Valley Hospital and will soon be affiliated with Valley Hospital also.

Matos-Cloke received her medical degree from Mount Sinai School of Medicine and completed her training at the Montefiore Medical Center.

New York City. She also did a fellowship in General Internal Medicine at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, and has practiced primary care medicine for the past seven years.

Previous affiliations include attending at New York Hospital/Cornell, Beth Israel and Mount Sinai.

the crib and mattress instead of their mothers. I wonder what these mothers are to do when their babies begin to cry, should they let their child "cry it out" in fear of "spoiling" them.

I almost must laugh at Dr. Schmidt's assessment that parents letting their babies sleep with them creates dependency. To use the terms dependent or independent when speaking of a baby is foolish. Of course a baby is dependent. Independence is not something that is taught or forced. Dependency breeds independence. Dr. Schmidt is also apparently unaware that throughout the world the majority of children sleep with their parents.

It is dangerous to suggest to a mother that she not respond to her child. The mother-child relationship is the first relationship the child has and it is the one on which all others are based. Why are we so afraid to form attachments with our children? Doesn't a mother want the last thought her child has at night to be of her and not a mattress? Doesn't she want her child to be attached to her instead of giving them a "teddy bear or soft toy"? To suggest an inanimate object as a replacement for a mother is nonsense.

Most importantly a mother should follow her own instincts; they tell her what is right for her baby better than any blanket statement by a doctor. For new or not so new mothers who feel uneasy with Dr. Schmidt's tips, I would like to recommend Dr. Williams Sears, "Nighttime Parenting," which I believe to be a more humane approach, or Tine Thevenin's "The Family Bed." Babies grow up so quickly, why not enjoy the time we have?

Mothers should follow their own instincts

To the editor: I was extremely disturbed to read your article "Baby sleeping problems can be prevented by parents." I think it is only fair to note that Dr. Barton Schmidt holds only an opinion and that many other doctors, and more importantly mothers, disagree with him.

Reading Dr. Schmidt's "tips" made my heart ache for all the new mothers who would read them and feel compelled to try them since they were suggested by a doctor.

Dr. Schmidt states that mothers should put babies in their crib while they are awake so their last thought will be of

The ornament is about two-inches high, made of flat, gold metal. It has a girl's name written on it, and her year of birth. The girl should be about 10-15 years of age today. The ornament does not appear to be of value in a monetary sense, yet it may have sentimental value to the girl and her family.

Meet Waldwick's four-legged crimebuster

Brit's his name and sniffing out drugs, recovering stolen property's his game

By ANTOINETTE CAMPO
Of the Suburban/Town News

WALDWICK — Sgt. Russ Litchult and "Brit" are two members of the Waldwick police force who are constantly kept busy not only by the borough itself but also by neighboring municipalities as well. What skills do these two possess which makes them a valuable part of the northwest Bergen community?

Litchult and Brit have been working together on the Waldwick force since August, 1990. They work on apprehending criminals, following burglars, recovering stolen property, locating drugs and drug money and searching buildings.

Sgt. Litchult has been a member of the Waldwick Police Department since 1980 and comes from a family of police officers which includes both his father and grandfather. Before being paired up with Brit, Litchult was working on narcotics investigations because he enjoys this type of work.

Brit is a five-year old German Shepherd who was trained at Bairos Kennels in Bakersfield, California, to assist in investigating and searching crime scenes.

"I went to California to pick (Brit) up in July, 1990," recalled Litchult, a 31-year old, lifetime resident of Waldwick. Litchult trained with Brit in California for three weeks.

Brit, on the other hand, has traveled around the world. He was born in what was formerly known as Czechoslovakia and was raised in Germany. He was sent to California for training and now resides at home with Sgt. Litchult and his other dog.

"All of his commands are in German which is just as easy for me," explained Litchult who has learned the dozen phrases. "It took me several days of studying to get the proper language. It was a little awkward at first."

According to Litchult, since not many people speak German, Brit cannot be influenced by other people. "He listens to my tone of voice and not anyone off the street even if they do speak German."

"If someone spoke to me in German," said Litchult, "I know nothing but the commands."

Brit can scent five different kinds of the most common drugs: heroine, cocaine including crack, marijuana, hashish, and methamphetamines including "crystal ice." The dog is trained to find narcotics in dashboards of motor vehicles, briefcases, and other hiding places. He can spot small amounts of narcotics to larger quantities.

According to Litchult, Brit has participated in over 150-200 drug searches and recovered over thousands of dollars in drugs and drug money since joining the Waldwick police. Property has also been confiscated due to Brit's keen sense of smell.

"He is very effective with his nose," said the Waldwick officer. "We have recovered property, jewelry, car stereos, or whatever the burglar leaves behind while escaping. However, we don't often get the burglar."

Brit has assisted in approximately 100 arrests. Litchult said, "I lost count after 70."

According to Litchult, Brit can effectively search buildings even though access may be denied. He can sense the presence of human beings inside or if there has been a traffic in drugs in and out of the building. This saves patrol strength and man hours."

Sgt. Russ Litchult and Brit enjoy a quiet moment before starting out on their law enforcement rounds.

Brit has also assisted in investigations in other towns including Mahwah, Ramsey and Upper Saddle River.

Waldwick Police reported that their canine Brit and Sgt. Litchult were very much in demand by local authorities during a seven-day period this past spring.

It began on a Wednesday when the team was called to search a motor vehicle in Mahwah. There Brit, who is trained to locate U.S. currency, alerted police to the money in a car, which was later found to be drug related. Nearly $4,000 in cash and a small amount of marijuana was seized. The next day, the canine unit was dispatched to Ramsey to assist in a motor vehicle search where Brit found nearly 60 grams of packaged marijuana in a briefcase in the vehicle.

Then on the following Monday, the Upper Saddle River Police requested the team to assist in a narcotics search of a motor vehicle in their town. Brit was able to locate marijuana hidden in a small duffle bag located underneath the dashboard. Later that same day, Saddle River Police called for Litchult and Brit to assist in a search of a motor vehicle in their town. The German Shepherd uncovered $500 wrapped around an amount of marijuana and an additional amount of marijuana hidden under the passenger seat.

The dog's food and medical expenses are paid through private donations. Litchult stressed that there is no cost to Waldwick or local taxpayers. A German corporation called Stauff assists by sending donations to offset the expenses.

The pair also recently assisted the Glen Rock Police Department with getting a dog.

Litchult and Brit have visited the Waldwick schools and the high school as part of the D.A.R.E. program. "Brit is very friendly with the children," said Litchult. "We are always in contact with children."

The pair gives presentations to the elementary and high school students by demonstrating how they search for narcotics. "We show them that they can't hide contraband anywhere," explained the sergeant who graduated from Waldwick High School. "Some may fear getting caught by the dog."

"I have received nothing but positive reaction from the students and the people in town," said Litchult. "When we are driving around, people want to pet the dog."

The pair have a police car which is especially designed for them. "We have a police car dedicated to myself and Brit. We have a lot more equipment in my car than there is in an ordinary police car," said Litchult. He must carry leashes, water bowls, fresh water, drug toys, an aggression glove, "doggie first aid stuff" and other things which Brit needs in carrying out his law enforcement duties.

"The windows are screened so that people can't stick their hands inside the car and he can't jump out," said the officer.

The police car also does not have a back seat but has a specially designed traveling area for the dog. With an ordinary back seat the dog can slip off the seat and injure himself. Instead, the dog can move around easily on a rubbercovered plywood platform without getting hurt. Litchult also drives the police vehicle, which has "K-9 unit" decal on it, to and from his home and work.

The duo recently returned from California where they were both retrained and were re-certified to continue their work. According to Litchult, they "sharpened him up and fine-tuned him for his duties."

Brit also regularly trains with other police dogs from Allendale, Glen Rock, Mahwah and Suffern once a month.

The pair relax together on their days off. "I have another dog at home and they play together," said Litchult. "I let him be a normal dog."

He enjoys taking the dog to the park and plays with him. "We also do a little training, but I don't want him to do police work on his day off. He has stress like other police officers do."

Waldwick American Legion commemorates WWII

10-7-93

WALDWICK — The Department of Defense has designated the Waldwick-based Walter Nightengale Post 57 of the American Legion as one of the Bergen County posts to participate in the 50th anniversary of World War II Commemorative Community programs. Only 100 such communities throughout the nation will be selected for this tribute.

John Lyons, past commander and life member who is serving as chairman of the projects with World War II veterans Peter Lecowitch, Eusibio Montanile and George Figueroy, said that the post has already become certified for the national program, which honors veterans of that war and their families and those who served on the home front.

Lyons, a World War II veteran, said that the Commemorative Community project is a "grassroots initiative designed to encourage communities, states, federal agencies and military groups to thank and honor World War II veterans through various events and other activities."

Local plans have already been initiated to build a large float which depicts the Legion emblem, the "ruptured duck," (the commemoration logo) and two very large diamond logos showing the anniversary of both the American Legion and the borough of Waldwick. Both will be celebrating their respective 75th diamond anniversaries next year.

Serving on the Post No. 57 committee are Cmdr. William Shanley, Bert Riker, James Latham, Joseph Consentino, Mike Roszkowski, Kevin O'Hara, Alex Serra and Mike Korolevich.

Six rooms for Traphagen, Crescent schools?

10-7-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — To meet the needs of a growing elementary enrollement the board of education is looking to add more rooms to the Traphagen and Crescent elementary schools.

Superintendent Patrick Piegari said the project would probably include the addition of five or six more rooms, but this will not be determined before hearing the final report of the Citizen's Advisory Committee (CAC).

The board is considering several options, including on-site construction, installing structures that would be shipped to the locations or renting mobile units.

Funding for the project may come from the current budget, but the board is also considering a referendum and applying for a state loan.

Piegari said he would not know how much the project would cost until a decision was made on the type of expansion.

At present, Piegari said he was not committed to a specific option.

"The board wants input from the CAC to see which options should be pursued. I want to do it in a manner people will embrace and support," he said.

The plan would also include the hiring of five or six more teachers, Piegari said, adding that the hiring of new teachers and adding rooms could be phased in over a two-year period.

The board will hold a public hearing on Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

in the Waldwick High School Little Theater.

Branagh, Fox shine under Hawthorne moon

Sneyers scores three TDs

10-7-93

By BRIAN FARRELL

And the moon rose over an open field.

Under a full harvest moon, the lights shined brightly Friday night on Waldwick quarterback Mike Branagh, also known as "Moon", as the junior directed his crew of Warriors to a 28-8 victory over Hawthorne to remain unbeaten at 3-0.

Saturday, in a 1 p.m. start, Waldwick will be playing its biggest game in town since the 1990 state-playoff season, when the Warriors engage undefeated Glen Rock.

"Glen Rock is tough; we're going to have to work hard this week," said the 6-foot-3 Branagh, who completed 7-of-12 passes for 149 yards and one touchdown against the Bears.

Tailback Doug Sneyers, although limited to 58 yards rushing on 16 carries after two 100-yard-plus performances, scored three touchdowns to give him six on the season. He also caught two passes, including a screen toss that went 32 yards for a touchdown, and a conversion throw from Rich Parks. From his safety slot, Sneyers had an interception and a fumble recovery.

"Doug had a productive night," said Warrior head coach Terry Byrne.

Sneyers now has gained 315 yards in 49 attempts for an average of 6.4 yards per carry.

"The season is coming together very nicely for us," Byrne said. "To keep our winning perspective, we have to continue working hard."

Byrne cited the season-opening 14-12 win over power Pompton Lakes as the key so far to his team's start.

"It's still in our minds, and has given us the motivation to continue working hard," he said.

Mike Fox, one of the two tall bookends Branagh throws to, hauled in three passes for 89 yards and had a team-leading seven tackles from his end slot. He also had an interception, forced two fumbles and had a blocked punt, which he caught with one hand.

"Mike Fox was impressive," Byrne said. "We get used to him having great games; we're not surprised by it. Every time Mike plays, you get a superior effort from him. We're beginning to take him for granted. He makes great plays all the time."

Waldwick tailback Doug Sneyers flies over the back of Hawthorne's Ari Romero and into the endzone for an apparent touchdown early in the second quarter. The play was nullified by a procedure penalty, but Sneyers scored the first of his three touchdowns two plays later on a 12-yard run. (Photo by Tom Moorhead)

"Fox had a career night," Branagh added.

"I've been catching Mike's passes ever since sixth grade," said the 6-foot-3, 197-pound Fox, a First Team All-League tight end last season. He has a good arm, and he can hit you when you're on the run."

Branagh himself was on the run a couple of times when he released, under pressure, tight spirals to his receivers.

"Mike's passing was impressive and key," said Byrne. "He took another step Friday night in improving his game."

"Mike Fox and Jason Bain (6-4, 205) are probably two of the biggest tight ends in the league," Branagh said. "They have good hands and always seem to be open for some reason."

Bain caught one toss, but it was a big one for 17 yards on a 3rd-and-long that set up Waldwick's second touchdown.

"The line blocked very well," Branagh said. "In the second half, they were blitzing, but our receivers got open pretty much."

Tackle Mike Finnegan also had a blocked punt, and cornerback Steve Major intercepted his third pass of the season for Waldwick.

"Our line play and defense has really stepped it up this year," Fox said. "Josh Thompson and Tom Smith never played linebacker before this season, but they are doing a great job there."

Byrne cited nose guard Rob Brenkert as playing a tough game in the middle. "Rob put a lot of pressure on their quarterback and their offense," he said.

Blocking becomes Avagnano's forte

Blocking has become a forte of Waldwick fullback Joe Avagnano. The 5-10, 200-pound senior continued his bulldozer effect in the Warriors' 28-8 win over Hawthorne.

Avagnano also rushed for 41 yards on 11 carries and caught a 15-yard pass on a 3rd-and-10.

Waldwick's first score, a 12-yard run by Doug Sneyers, came off left tackle behind Avagnano and Steve Major.

Avagnano scored from the one behind right guard Josh Thompson and tackle Mike Finnegan. Sneyers, on a 4th-and-11 from the Bear 23, had run 12 yards on a draw play.

Sneyers made it 22-6 when he darted eight yards behind Avagnano, Finnegan and end Mike Fox.

The final score, a screen pass to Sneyers, went for 32 yards behind Avagnano's key block.

Hawthorne, after recovering a fumble at the Waldwick 30 in the third quarter, scored on a nine-yard run by halfback Ari Romero. The Bears got a safety when a Waldwick punt was snapped into the end zone. —FARRELL

Unbeaten Glen Rock posts second consecutive shutout

By JIM McCONVILLE

Don't look now, but there are two new faces among the leaders in the B-PSL Carpenter Division, and this Saturday the surprise front-runners square off for sole possession of first place.

Glen Rock came through with still another strong defensive effort to secure its place with Waldwick at 3-0, pending their meeting in Waldwick.

Midland Park was coming off a 26-point effort against Paterson Catholic, but the Rockers shut the Parkers down, 7-0.

A big goal-line stand in the third quarter proved a turning point, as the Parkers could not convert a first-and-goal from the Glen Rock seven-yard line. On fourth down at the three, senior tackle Mike Spencer sliced in and made a tackle for a three-yard loss to preserve the shutout.

Glen Rock made the most of a fumbled punt that gave them the ball at the Bear 20 in the second quarter, with quarterback Todd Bielen passing to Brian McDermott for an 11-yard touchdown. Kevin Tode added the extra point.

The Rockers will be sternly tested by a Waldwick team that has put up 70 points in its three wins. The Glen Rock defense has allowed only eight points and has posted consecutive shutouts, but will face its toughest task in tailback Doug Sneyers, Waldwick's leading rusher with 315 yards and six touchdowns.

The offense has scored only 28 points in three games and must step up a level if the Panthers expect to go 4-0. Bielen has gotten some of the sophomore jitters out of the way, and, in Will Shaw, has a fullback with size and power.

Midland Park will go in search of the elusive win number one against equally winless Saddle Brook. The Parkers need to get the passing combination of Jon Peet to

A season of power struggles

Three weeks into the high school football season — two weeks for some teams — and there are some new kids on the block hanging out on top of the league standings.

The remarkable power change-over is in the Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division where unbeaten Waldwick and Glen Rock hover on top with 3-0 records heading into today's showdown at Waldwick. They were a combined 2-16 last season.

In the B-PSL King, Elmwood Park sits on top with Passaic Tech. The Crusaders finished fourth last season. Bloomfield and East-side shared seventh place in the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League Atlantic last season, but here they are — along with Passaic — looking down on the division going into the weekend.

Sixth-place Wallington and fourth-place Hasbrouck Heights have a share of the Bergen County Scholastic League Olympic lead. Fifth-place Delbarton is tied with Caldwell in the Northern Hills Suburban. Fourth-place St. Joseph could be alone atop the NNJIL Pacific if it beats Hackensack tonight.

Noise complaint draws rebuttal

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Dawn Romero called her neighbor Alan Tischbein a liar and said that several of his allegations about her Manhattan Street house are motivated by prejudice against Hispanics.

Last week the borough council deputized Tischbein in an effort to solve problems at the 90 Manhattan St. residence that include overcrowding, noise, and health code violations, according to the council.

Romero denies allegations about a resident at the house verbally abusing children, police dogs coming to the house and a stabbing at the residence.

"This guy's got a vendetta. Maybe he should move out of town," she said.

Police confirm that a stabbing did take place at the address.

Romero said that the 11 residents of the home are hard-working people who spend most of their time at the house sleeping.

"These people work 12 to 14 hours a day. The house is for sleep. I'm not saying there haven't been fights. When you're drinking, things get out of hand. That happens once in a while."

Romero also said that six months ago there were 18 people living in the house and that this caused a lot of noise, but now with only 11 residents, things have quieted down.

The verbal abuse allegation stemmed from an incident in which Romero was playing her radio, she said. Tischbein called the police, she claims, and she then asked him why he didn't tell her to lower the radio instead of calling the police.

But the conflict with Tisch-bein is largely due to his prejudice against Hispanics, according to Romero. Romero is not Hispanic, but most of the other residents are, she said.

According to Sgt. Richard Carruthers, there have been several noise complaints at 90 Manhattan and police come to the house at least once a month.

Responding officers do not normally bring police dogs to the house, according to Carruthers, but in some cases, the responding officer was a K-9 officer and the dog came with him.

Barry Cohen, attorney for landlord Daniel Hocter, said that he and Hocter were not aware of problems at the house until last week and that they were trying to resolve the situation.

"He's (Hocter) horrified," Cohen said. He's not an absentee landlord, he's from town. We're trying to straighten it out," he said.

Zawacki's '93 Ironmen rank with the best

By JIM McCONVILLE

Over the course of 18 seasons as head coach, Rich Zawacki has seen many a Don Bosco soccer team come and go. This year, he fields a team that is 6-0-1 entering this weekend and the selections for the Bergen County tournament.

"This team is as good as any we have had here," he says, adding, "I don't know if we will receive a seed in the county tournament, as there are a lot of solid teams to choose from."

Following an 8-0 win over a Paramus Catholic team that is 0-6-1 and has scored only one goal all season, Zawacki noted, "We still have not played up to our full potential as a team."

"We have gotten some real

good individual performances to carry us in each game, but we still haven't gotten that game where the whole team is together working as one."

The Ironmen have gotten some balanced scoring, with an offense that is bolstered by some good runs out of the defense. Sophomore stopper Mike O'Donnell has been a big addition to the Bosco lineup this year, and he has four goals and five assists so far.

O'Donnell and junior sweeper Alex Jenski are central figures in a defense that has allowed only three goals in the first seven games. The outside defenders are senior co-captain Jim Vint and soph Jim Feeney, both of Ramsey. Vint has two goals and an assist as an attacking backliner.

The other Ironman co-captain is midfielder Rich Meyer (3 goals, 1 assist), one of the mainstay returnees of last year's 18-2-3 team. He teams with Hawthorne resident Giancarlo Lepore in the middle, with Ed Gilmartin of Suffern, N.Y., at the other midfield spot. Lepore has a goal and three assists, while Gilmartin has a goal and an assist.

Waldwick's contribution to the DB program comes in the form of three brothers, Tim, Chris and Matt Hurley. Tim is the senior goalie, with four shutouts to his credit, and Chris is a junior forward who leads the team with five goals. Matt, a sophomore forward, picked up his first assist against Paramus Catholic on Thursday.

The other member of the starting lineup is forward Trevor Beck (3 goals), with players such as Asim Mujahid (1 goal, 3 assists) in the midfield and Andy Gilfillan (1 goal, 4 assists) at forward valuable off the bench. Gilfillan is a senior and Mujahid a junior. Seniors Dan DeVoe (2) and Dan Yurt (1) had their first goals of the year in the PC contest, as did senior Victor Mendoza. Carlos Mendoza and Mike Bertino are senior and junior midfielders, respectively.

"The kids know they have not played their best yet, and in a way it is good that they recognize it," Zawacki said. "They are continuing to work hard, and if we can get the consistency game in and game out, we should do well in the county and state tournaments."

"Now is the time you like to see your club peak, and coaches will always tell you it is good to peak late, but in tournament play, one bad game and you're out, so consistent good play becomes more important."

Glen Rock halts Waldwick and continues undefeated

Staff Writer

WALDWICK — It's been a while since Glen Rock played in a meaningful football game. After all, there's not much at stake when your record is 1-26 over the past three seasons, including 0-9 a year ago.

However, it looks as though the past is prologue for the Rockers.

Sporting a 3-0 mark entering Saturday's matchup with unbeaten Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division foe Waldwick, Glen Rock took the initiative with a 9-6 win in a game that had all the intensity and atmosphere of a playoff contest.

"We really thought we'd be good this year," said Glen Rock coach Paul White, whose team sits atop the division. "Last year there was nothing to be ashamed of. We started about seven or eight sophomores on defense. It's really been the dedication of the kids. We may only have six seniors, but we have the right six. We do our best as a coaching staff. There's no magic formula."

Maybe not, but that's not to say the Rockers don't have a few useful weapons — mostly in the form of a quick, hard-hitting, ball-hawking defense that has come up big during the rebirth.

Thanks to outstanding field position, Waldwick (3-1), trailing by three, had four opportunities to tie or go ahead in the fourth quarter. Two drives began at the Glen Rock 38 and 27-yard lines, respectively.

But three costly interceptions forced by a Glen Rock defense thwarted the Warriors. The caper came with 23 seconds left when senior defensive back Rory O'Connor picked off Waldwick quarterback Mike Branagh on a second-and-20 from the Warriors 37.

"During the first three games we had to count on our defense to shut it down during some late drives," said O'Connor, who had three interceptions on the day. "It was nothing new to us. We're determined to get the job done. We're getting used to it."

"We had good field position," said Waldwick coach Terry Byrne. "We just made a couple of bad reads. They weren't giving us anything deep. It was mostly the underneath stuff. And they were putting a lot of pressure on our quarterback and things sort of broke down for us."

Glen Rock scored all its points in the first half. Sophomore half-back Damond Anderson high-stepped his way to a 73-yard touchdown run with five seconds left in the opening quarter. The extra point was blocked by Doug Sneyers, who was to score Waldwick's touchdown from the 1-yard line in the third quarter.

This time Yurman comes out on top 10-11-93

Monica Yurman of Waldwick stunned second-seeded Olivia Streatfield of Northern Highlands, 6-4, 6-2, Sunday to move into the quarterfinals of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association girls tennis tournament.

Last week, Streatfield defeated Yurman in the Bergen County semifinals in three sets and went on to win the championship.

Joining Yurman in Saturday's quarters at Mercer County Park was Beth O'Donnell of Mahwah. She eliminated another Northern Highlands player, Jamie Levine, 6-3, 6-1.

Passaic County champion Yuki Tokuda of Clifton was edged out of the tourney by Chrissy Travlos of Ocean Township, 6-7, 6-4, 7-6.

Earlier in the day Yurman ousted Dana Lewis of Middletown South, 6-2, 6-1, and O'Donnell got past Nutley's Cathleen Pete, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Also in the round-of-32, Streatfield topped Amy Pugno of Montclair, 6-3, 7-5; Levine defeated Kim Santos of West Deptford, 6-3, 6-2; Tokuda came back to stop Kim McConnell of Shawnee, 6-7, 6-1, 6-0; Mandi Mitchell of Pitman eliminated Emily Richards of Ridgewood, 6-0, 6-1; and Stephanie Alpert of Pingry tripped Ramapo freshman Alexa Quku, 6-1, 7-5.

In Saturday's second round Yurman eliminated Lisa Patel of Madison Borough, 6-1, 6-3. Does sewage ash pose a threat?

By DAVID VOREACOS
Staff Writer 10-13-93

The Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority has been turning sewage ash from its incinerator into construction fill at its Waldwick sewage plant for nearly a decade.

But as the authority prepares to begin a major expansion, state regulators say their rules have "evolved considerably" and they no longer are sure that the ash poses no environmental or health risk.

So, the state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy has ordered the authority to study the composition of the 650 tons of ash it produces annually

Northwest BCUA ordered to determine how safe it is by burning dewatered sewage sludge.

"While the department considers recycling of wastes such as ash to be of primary importance . . . the ash must first be shown to be safe for human health and the environment," Gary Sondermeyer, assistant director of the DEPE's solid-waste management division, wrote in a Sept. 24 letter.

The authority's executive director, Emil Porfido, said the ash poses no risk because it is derived almost entirely from household waste, rather than industrial waste.

"We've never had a problem with our ash being considered hazardous," Porfido said.

The authority has burned sludge since 1969, and it is one of 12 authorities around the state to do so, said DEPE spokesman George Klenk. Other treatment plants with incinerators are in Lincoln Park, Parsippany-Troy Hills, and Wayne, he said. In addition, waste is burned at four solid-waste incinerators, 12 hospitals, and dozens of incinerators operated by private companies.

After burning its waste, the authority stores the ash for up to six months, then spreads it before it is covered by roadway or construction projects, Porfido said.

Porfido wrote to the DEPE to make sure the authority's practice was still acceptable while it expands its treatment-plant capacity from 9.5 million gallons a day to 11.5 million gallons.

Authority commissioners will discuss the cost of conducting the ash study at a work session tonight and at a regular session Thursday.

Post participates in anniversary celebration

WALDWICK—The Department of Defense has designated the Waldwick based Walter Nightengale Post No. 57 of the American Legion as one of the Bergen County posts to participate in the 50th anniversary of World War II Commemorative Community programs. Only 100 such communities throughout the nation will be selected for this tribute.

John Lyons, past commander and life member, who is serving as chairman of the projects with World War II veterans, Peter Lecowitch, Eusibio Montanile, and George Figueroy, said that the post has already become certified for the national program, which honors veterans of that war and their families, and those who served on the home front.

Lyons, a World War II veteran, said that the Commemorative Community project is a "grassroots initiative designed to encourage the communities, states, federal agencies and military groups to thank and honor World War II veterans through various events and other activities."

For almost two years, Americans have been marking the 50th anniversary of major World War II battles (Pearl Harbor for example), but the biggest of all celebrations, in terms of returning GI's, will be the D-day anniversary next year. Because of this important date in world history, June 6, Congress has established this committee to coordinate with Britain and France the official events at the landing sites in Normandy.

The commemoration period lasts through Veterans Day 1995. Local plans have already been initiated to build a large float which depicts the legion ensemble, the "ruptured duck" (the commemoration logo) with two very large diamond logos showing the anniversary of both the American Legion and the Borough of Waldwick, when both will be celebrating their respective 75th diamond anniversaries next year, 1919-1994.

Serving on Post 57 committee are Cmdr. William Shanley, Bert Riker, James Latham, Joseph Cosentino, Mike Roszkowski, Kevin O'Hara, Alex Serra and Mike Korolevich.

NBCUA fined for violating pollution laws

By JOHN TOIVONEN
WALDWICK — The Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority (NBCUA) was recently fined $2,500 by the Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) for violating the Air Pollution Control Act.

The fine was levied against the authority for odors that emanated from the sewage treatment plant on Wyckoff Avenue in January and May 1993.

This marks the second time the NBCUA has been fined by the DEPE for air pollution. The authority was fined $2,200 in December 1992.

At present, the authority is installing an odor control system as a part of a two-year expansion project designed to increase the plant's capacity from 9.5 million gallons a day to 11.5 million gallons a day.

The odor control system should be in place by June 1994.

In recent years residents and council members have grown frustrated with the NBCUA, an organization they feel is insensitive to their needs.

The odor problem at the plant, which dates back to the late 1970's, has intensified in recent years as the population of the borough has caused larger quantities of sewage to be pumped into the plant.

Residents who live near the plant have complained that odors make being outdoors unbearable during the summer months.

NBCUA Executive Director Emil Porfido said the authority would appeal the decision.

Glen Rock edges Waldwick; O'Connor stars on defense

By BRIAN FARRELL

In a battle of unbeaten, Glen Rock continued on its road to redemption after going 1-26 over the past three football seasons by turning back Waldwick, 9-6, Saturday in an intense, hard-hitting war that lifted the Rockers to 4-0 and a private penthouse view from the B-PSL Carpenter Division.

Waldwick, 4-14 the last two years, fell to 3-1 and in a tie with Pompton Lakes for second place.

Glen Rock, despite having scored just 37 points in four games, has yielded only 14. In view of a big crowd at Waldwick, the Rockers' quick, swarming defense wrote another chapter in this turnaround season.

The Rockers bottled up the Warriors' swift tailback, Doug Sneyers, limiting him to 23 net yards on 16 carries, four of which resulted in minus 12 yards. Glen Rock put pressure on quarterback Mike Branagh, who completed just 6-of-22 passes for 104 yards, covered his receivers well and did not allow Sneyers much running room on punt returns.

Glen Rock intercepted four passes, three in the final quarter that ended Waldwick's last three possessions. Senior Rory O'Connor did most of the damage from the secondary, stealing three of the throws, two in the fourth period. His third pass theft came with 23 seconds left on a 2nd-and-20 from the Warrior 37. O'Connor also recovered a fumble in the first quarter. Defensive back Brian McDermott had the other interception.

Glen Rock led, 9-0, at half-time on one big, backbreaking play — a 73-yard run by sophomore Damond Anderson on a 3rd-and-22 draw play in the opening quarter — and a 26-yard field goal by Kevin Tode in the second period.

Anderson cut toward the left sideline and out-ran the secondary on his touchdown run. Sneyers, at 5-foot-8, leaped high to block the extra-point attempt.

Tode's field goal was set up by O'Connor's first interception, as Glen Rock, helped by a 15-yard Waldwick facemask penalty on O'Connor's return, started at the Warrior 28.

Waldwick scored with 5:27 left in the third quarter on Sneyers' one-yard run — his seventh TD of the season — capping a six-play, 49-yard drive fueled by a hookup of 36 yards from Branagh to tight end Mike Fox, who caught three passes for 75 yards.

Equal, however, to the task was the Waldwick defense, which forced Glen Rock to punt on each of its six possessions in the second half, when the Rockers ran 21 plays and gained just 26 yards.

In sequence, Glen Rock punted from its 25, 26, 12, 10 and 25-yard lines and from the Waldwick 49. In turn, the Warriors were unable to take advantage of the good field position resulting from the first five punts, starting, in sequence, from the Glen Rock 49, Waldwick 47, GR 38, GR 27 and Waldwick 48-yard lines.

Warrior nose guard Rob Brenkert and linebacker John Ruggiero were relentless in their pursuit, with Brenkert recording two quarterback sacks for minus 18 yards and the swift Ruggiero darting into the Glen Rock backfield, causing havoc. Fox, at end, had a nine-yard sack and also dropped Anderson for a five-yard loss. Jay Bain, the other end, and linebackers Josh Thompson and Joe Avagnano also played stellar defense. Bain and safety Steve Major combined on a tackle for a seven-yard loss on a busted run by McDermott, the quarterback, early in the fourth quarter.

McDermott, normally a split end, was inserted at quarterback, replacing second-stringer Todd Bielen, a sophomore. The senior ran his club exceptionally well, quick with his handoffs and quick with his feet, as he rushed for 67 yards on 17 carries, including runs of 14 and 21 yards.

McDermott attempted only two passes, completing one for 10 yards to Corey Wright.

Sneyers also caught one pass for 20 yards.

Saturday, Glen Rock is home for a big matchup with Pompton Lakes, while Waldwick travels to Lodi (2-2). Both games are 1 p.m. starts.

HOW BIG? — Waldwick coach George Farago took a look at the goal he was to defend in the second half of his opening-round meeting with Lyndhurst and didn't like what he saw. "It seemed higher and wider and since neither one of our regular goalies, Eric Wizeman and George Galvin, are tall, I was worried. So I decided to gamble and brought in freshman Emeka Ofo-dile, who is taller than both and can really jump."

It paid off because the youngster, in his first varsity competition, allowed one goal in the second half and none in the overtime as the Warriors registered a 3-2 victory.

Farago had to go to his subs late when the Del Valle brothers, Marlo and Paul, went to the bench with minor injuries. So Ryan Harris and Joe Mojowski came on and combined with Don Smialowicz for the winning goal.

Farago may have to go deep into his bag of tricks Sunday when he takes on tough Don Bosco Prep in the quarterfinals — a team which defeated the Warriors earlier in the season.

Grammar schools additions proposed

Waldwick projects could cost $850,000

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — The borough's two elementary schools will each have to expand by three classrooms to accommodate a local baby boomlet, a citizens' advisory committee to the Board of Education has recommended.

The six-member panel said Monday that the new classrooms would cost about $500,000 to $850,000, a price tag that might be too steep for voters who rejected two out of the past three school budgets, school board members said.

The special meeting at Waldwick High School was called to present the committee's recommendations to the public and to begin a public dialogue about the issue. About 100 people attended.

The board has been grappling with the overcrowding issue since December, when it took note of a five-year rise in enrollment in Grades K-6, from 683 students in 1987 to 730 in 1992. That increase was the impetus for creating the citizens' committee. Current enrollment is 739.

Crowding is more serious at the Crescent School than at the J.A. Traphagen School, said committee Co-chairman Thomas P. Price.

Enrollment in Grades 1-3 is averaging 112 to 115 students per grade — 25 percent higher than enrollment figures for Grades 4-6, Price said. This heightened enrollment is expected to persist for at least five years, a consultant hired by the board in March predicted.

"It's like the snake that swallowed the rabbit," Price said. "But I accept the demographers' figures. This is not just a temporary quirk, but a permanent trend."

Additional classrooms are needed, he said, to keep class size low and to accommodate state-mandated basic skills, special education, and English-as-a-second-language programs, he said.

As it stands now, fourth- and fifth-grade classes are averaging about 28 students per class, said Patrick Piegari, the schools superintendent. Piegari said enrollment projections envision classes swelling to well over 30 students as current first-, second-, and third-graders make their way through the system.

Shirley Feldman, president of the Concerned Taxpayers of Waldwick, questioned the enrollment figures and whether space was being used efficiently. However, she said she would support the initiative if, after a tour of the schools, she was convinced that additional space was needed.

Fantastic food, marvelous music at benefit

By LESLIE F. SCHWARTZ

Get ready for a night of fine wines, glorious food, and wonderful music Nov. 8.

The setting will be the Clubhouse in Bear's Nest, Park Ridge.

The occasion? A fund-raiser for the West Bergen Mental Health Center.

The Center is a non-profit agency in Ridgewood that provides a wide range of psychiatric services and counseling for 13 communities in northwest Bergen County.

Lyn and Norman Castellani, residents of the Bears Nest, and active supporters of the West Bergen Mental Health Center, are hosting the event, which features 10 noted restaurants and caterers from the area.

"In addition to sampling fine food," Lyn explained, "the evening will also feature a wide selection of premier wines as well as the wonderful music of Bucky Pizzarelli."

Participating restaurants are Above the Salt, Esty Street, Club Car Caterers, Cafe Panache, Duane Park Cafe, Il Villino, Ridgewood Country Club, Rosemary and Sage, Saddle River Inn, and Villa Cesare.

Mario Bokara, chef at Hillside's Villa Cesare for more than 20 years, shared his recipe for one of his specialties:

¾ pound cracked fettuccine noodles

10 oz. thinly sliced Prosciutto, diced fine

Peter Lambert, left, from Above the Salt, and Steve Hillia, chef at Esty Street, prepare for the Nov. 8 benefit for the West Bergen Mental Health Center.

3 cups heavy cream
6 oz. steamed spinach pinch of finely ground black pepper

¼ cup Parmesan cheese yolk of one egg
Cook pasta for 6 minutes. While pasta is cooking, saute Prosciutto for 2 minutes in a little butter. Add heavy cream. Cook slowly for a few minutes. Add spinach, black pepper and pasta. Mix thoroughly with ¼ cup Parmesan cheese and 1 egg yolk over medium heat until thoroughly heated. Serves 4.

Adam Hazan, chef of Il Villino in Waldwick, studied his craft in Italy, where he worked for four years at Il Trigabalo in Ferrari. Here is his creation:

SEMI FREDDO

4 egg yolks
6 oz. sugar
1 tbsp. honey
1 tbsp. Cognac

7 oz. Torrone candy, finely chopped
¼ pound Amaretto candy, finely chopped

2 cups heavy cream
4 egg whites, beaten stiff
Pistachio Sauce

8 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
2 tbsp. flour
1½ cups milk
½ vanilla bean
4 tbsp. pistachio nuts, finely chopped

Whip egg yolks with sugar until creamy. Whip in honey and Cognac. Fold in the Torrone candy and Amaretto cookies and mix until uniform. Fold whipped cream into the mixture. Fold egg whites into mixture. Pour into custard cups, cover with plastic wrap and freeze 8-10 hours, or overnight.

To make the pistachio sauce: Using wire whisk, whip the 8 egg yolks together with the sugar and flour until creamy.

In top of double boiler, add milk and vanilla bean and heat over boiling water until milk is hot. Remove vanilla bean and add hot milk a little at a time to the yolk mixture with constant whisking. When milk and yolk mixture is incorporated, return pot to top of double boiler. Cook mixture with whisking until thick.

Place top of double boiler in pot of cold water with ice cubes. Continue to whisk until sauce is cold. Pour sauce over the Semi Freddo and top with chopped pistachio nuts.

Waldwick

KEN GARDNER

Ken Gardner and his wife Helene have lived in Waldwick since 1985. They have two daughters: Emily is in first grade at Crescent School and Madelyn attends Rainbow Corners preschool. Gardner works for Westvaco Corporation, a Fortune 200 company and is held accountable for his department's results. He founded and organized the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air to address the foul odors from the Waldwick sewer plant. As a result of his actions, a state-of-the-art odor control system will be installed, at no cost to the residents, to resolve a 25-year-old problem.

Gardner has been involved in numerous organizations throughout Waldwick. He was president of the Highlands Community Association (HCA), co-chairman of the Citizens Budget Committee to the board of education, and an active member of the Citizens Advisory Council to the Waldwick Board of Education. He obtained a cash grant to Waldwick's Education Foundation this year.

My goal as a councilman is to continue improving the quality of our family life in Waldwick. When elected there are three areas I will focus upon. The first is cost control. To insure our council does not play politics with our budgeting process, I propose establishing a Citizens Budget Committee to review the council's thinking and to make objective recommendations. The second is accountability of our government. I propose we initiate a Goals Program for all of our borough's departments. This will enable you to know what your council is doing with your hard-earned tax dollars. And the third is communication and community involvement. I propose we establish a quarterly newsletter that will utilize surveys to seek your input, provide you with progress reports, and most importantly, seek your active involvement before the political patronage is handed out. We can continue on our present course of a one-party government, or you can have Ken Gardner's independent voice on our council. I am concerned about controlling costs, accountability in government and involving you in the process of governing our community. On Nov. 2, please give me a chance to serve you.

JOSEPH MUSUMECI

Joseph C. Musumeci is president of CJM Planning Corp., Fair Lawn. He received an accounting degree from Fairleigh Dickenson University. Musumeci volunteers his time with both the Waldwick Soccer Association as well as the Waldwick Baseball Association. He is a member of the Waldwick Lions and a past treasurer of UNICO, and a co-chairperson of the Waldwick Community Playground and is now serving on the Waldwick 75th Anniversary Committee. Musumeci has resided in Waldwick for eight years with his wife Geri and their three children.

As an incumbent, I would like to continue to better the environmental issues, such as improving, increasing and expanding our recycling abilities. I would insure the follow up of this council's long fight and hard stance that it took against the NWBCUA. We will make sure that the NWBCUA completes the necessary improvements to the sewer plant's odor controls as requested, so that the air quality in Waldwick is protected. We should apply for as much federal funded Green Acres money as well as County Community Development Grants as possible, to keep Waldwick beautiful and to continuously improve the buildings that we now have, without coming out of the taxpayers' pockets. I would like to modernize Waldwick's infrastructure and continue to improve its roads and sidewalks. I would like to set in motion some type of long-term planning manual that can act as a guide for this and future councils to use. If we can give the taxpayers as well as our own departments a game plan for the future, there will never be a time when people are surprised or left wondering when something will or will not happen.

Lioness Club sponsors annual Blood Donor Day

WALDWICK — Waldwick Lioness Club is sponsoring a Community Blood Donor Day on Thursday, Oct. 21 at the Traphagen School on Ridge Road and Summit Avenue from 3 to 8 p.m. in cooperation with the Bergen Community Regional Blood Center.

Each year the Waldwick Lioness Club helps organize this life-saving event. Rita Polchin, director of donor recruitment at the Regional Blood Center, calls blood donors "true heroes." Every year four million Americans depend on blood transfusions to save their lives.

Giving blood is safe, simple and takes only a short time. There is no risk of contracting AIDS or other infectious diseases when blood is donated. Needles and other equipment are sterile, used once and then disposed of. Needles are never reused.

Anyone in good general health, age 17 through 75, and weighing at least 110 pounds can generally donate blood.

Donors should eat a moderate meal before donating and must bring identification showing address and signature.

The Bergen Community Regional Blood Center is a non-profit community blood center.

The center supplies 13 hospitals and over two million residents in Bergen, Passaic, Morris and Hudson counties.

Call the Regional Blood Center, Linwood Avenue at Rt. 17 South, Paramus, 444-3900 for an appointment to save a life.

NBCUA ash under scrutiny

DEPE questioning if incinerated sewage sludge meets new environmental standards

By JOHN TOIVONEN
 For North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — The Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority (NBCUA) has been turning ash out of its incinerator at the Waldwick sewage treatment plant for over a decade, but now environmental authorities are concerned that the ash may not meet new environmental standards.

As the authority gears up for a major expansion, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) is demanding that the authority study the composition of the 650 tons of ash it produces annually burning sewage sludge.

DEPE spokesman George Klenk said, "The reason the DEPE requested that the ash be tested is our policies have evolved. We have no reason to believe it is not environmentally safe, but the only way to be certain is to have the ash analyzed."

NBCUA Executive Director Emil Profido said that the ash poses no risks to the environment because the ash is a byproduct of household waste, not industrial waste.

"We have never had a problem with hazardous (substances) in our ash," Profido said.

After burning the ash, the authority stores it for six months, then uses it for road construction projects.

Profido cited savings to taxpayers as one of the reasons the sludge is burned. He said that disposing of the ash in a landfill could cost as much as $300,000 a year.

"It saves taxpayers a considerable (amount of) funding.

"We believe that's a beneficial re-use of a product," Profido said.

This concern follows a recent fine levied by the DEPE against the authority for violating the Air Pollution Control Act.

In recent years the NBCUA has butted heads with Waldwick authorities over odors emanating from its sewage treatment plant off Wyckoff Avenue.

Residents who live near the plant have complained that the odors are so severe that is unbearable to be outside during the summer.

Borough officials have grown increasingly frustrated with the authority, an organization they feel is insensitive to their needs.

Waldwick loses in Lodi, 'officially speaking'

By BRIAN FARRELL

All week long, a football team works hard for its Saturday dream. Sometimes, the other team is just better, and winning must be worked at even harder. Sometimes, the momentum in a game is rearranged by outside forces, and the players and coaches have no control over it.

Such was the case Saturday in Lodi, and Waldwick was the victim, and not just on the scoreboard in a 36-12 defeat. There were two glaring, questionable calls that went against the Warriors, the first of which, had the play been allowed, could have gone a long way in not only changing the momentum of the game, but the outcome as well.

On Lodi's first possession, a 59-yard pass from quarterback Damon Montelbano to tight end Kevin Komar put the ball on the four-yard line. Komar would have scored had it not been for safety Doug Sneyers catching up to him and pushing him out-of-bounds.

Waldwick's line then came up big, stopping the Rams on four straight running plays that netted just one yard. Taking over at the three, quarterback Mike Branagh ran for nine yards. Then Sneyers, the fleet tailback, ripped off 88 yards of turf on an elusive run into the end zone.

A big defensive stand and an outstanding run — two huge sequences that could carry a team a long way. But, along the way, a yellow flag was thrown at the Lodi 47-yard line — about 20 yards behind the steaming Sneyers. The call was a clip, but the game film revealed that the call was very questionable.

There was a pack of five Waldwick and Lodi players running together when an official threw the flag. If there was any contact, it was incidental, like bumping into one another. The game film clearly showed there was no illegal hit or tackle from behind by a Waldwick player; no Lodi player hit the ground.

Sneyers, instead of 88 yards, was credited with 41 yards from the 12 to the Lodi 47, from where the 15-yard penalty was assessed. Waldwick, starting now at its 38, got to the Lodi 42 on first down before an interception ended the drive.

How do you explain to a young athlete that his hard work, his display of athletic skill will not be rewarded?

The other questionable call occurred in the final quarter. After scoring a touchdown to make it 28-12 with 5:36 remaining, Waldwick opted for an on-sides kick. The game film supported eyewitness accounts that the ball indeed travelled the necessary 10 yards without being touched by a Waldwick player. Furthermore, the ball bounced 13 yards before the Warriors' Rich Parks fell on it at the Waldwick 49. The side judge, however, ruled otherwise, and Lodi took possession.

Four plays later, Montelbano passed 23 yards to Steve Pickhardt for a touchdown at the 4:21 mark. Mike Ettz ran for the conversion and the final score.

Despite the loss, Waldwick (3-2) is still in contention for the B-PSL Carpenter Division title, with Glen Rock and Pompton Lakes also having one division loss each, and a state-playoff berth in Group 1. Saturday, the Warriors are home versus Paterson Catholic (2-2).

"We're going to stick together and make it work for us," said

Waldwick quarterback Mike Branagh completed 15-of-25 passes for 165 yards and one touchdown in a 36-12 loss to Lodi. (Photo by Tom Wegman)

Warrior head coach Terry Byrne. "There is a lot of parity in the league this year, and anything can happen."

Despite the 24-point loss to Lodi (2-2), Byrne said, "I think the kids played one of their better games. They were popping in there, and they moved the football. Lodi just hit us on a couple of long passes."

Indeed, Waldwick outgained hooked up with Sneyers on a 64-yard pass play. Sneyers, one-on-one with a linebacker, made an over-the-shoulder snare of the long spiral along the Lodi sideline and easily raced into the end zone. It was Sneyers' eighth touchdown.

"Doug had him by five or six yards on a beautifully-thrown pass," Byrne said.

With ten seconds left, Komar returned a squib kick 72 yards for a touchdown. A conversion pass made it 15-6.

With 5:36 remaining in the game, fullback Joe Avagnano ran nine yards up the middle for his fourth TD of the season. It capped a four-play, 43-yard drive highlighted by Avagnano's 24-yard run on a pitchout, as Branagh avoided a sack, and a 10-yard run by Branagh.

Sneyers rolls up 232 total yards

Tailback Doug Sneyers accounted for 232 of Waldwick's 369 net yards against Lodi — rushing for 121 on 18 carries and gaining 111 on 10 receptions, two of which were for no gain and one for minus three.

Fullback Joe Avagnano rushed for 87 yards in 10 attempts; Mike Branagh ran for 25 yards on five carries.

Nose guard Rob Brenkert and tackle John Ruggiero each had five tackles. "Rob played a very valiant game; he hung in there despite a very sore back," coach Terry Byrne said.

Sneyers had four tackles and Mike Fox three, including a nine-yard sack. Josh Thompson had a 10-yard sack. —FARRELL Should the borough build more classrooms?

10-21-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Growing student enrollment has resulted in the need for more classrooms at the Traphagen and Crescent elementary schools, according to a report of the Citizen's Advisory Committee (CAC).

CAC representative Tom Price cited overcrowded rooms, storage rooms converted to classrooms and a forecast of continued enrollment growth as reasons that the borough should spend between $500,000 and $750,000 to add three more classrooms to each elementary school.

"This (growing enrollment) is not a two or three year phenomenon that will go away," he said.

Crescent will need additional classrooms by September 1994, while Traphagen will be able to wait until 1995 because of an unexpected decline this year, Price said.

Price added that maintaining small class sizes is crucial to the quality of education in the borough.

Kim Natelli, Longview Court resident, is disturbed that fifth grade classes often had to meet in a kindergarten classroom. Natelli has a fourth grade student and she is concerned about him going to class in an under-sized room.

Boys teams at quarterfinals in Bergen County tourney

By JIM McCONVILLE

The Bergen County boys soccer tournament resumes play this Sunday, with Ramapo and Don Bosco each hosting a quarterfinal doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m.

Tenafly and Northern Highlands kick off the twinbill at Ramapo, with Don Bosco and Waldwick playing the second game. Ramapo and Ridgewood meet in the opener at Bosco, with Pascack Valley and Midland Park in the nightcap.

The first game at Ramapo's Franklin Lakes field features a pair of top scorers in Tenafly's Evan Dabby and Highlands' Eric Sandersen, while the second match pits two teams with balanced scoring across each front line and out of the respective midfields. Waldwick is led by Mike Raia, Seamus Halloran and Mario DelValle, while Bosco can counter with Chris Hurley, Mike O'Donnell and Trevor Beck.

At DB's Ramsey pitch, the opener features Ridgewood's Stefan Aps and his 19 goals against a Raider team that has gotten solid scoring from Frank Collado, Dan Martin and Dan Karaty.

The second game had similar patterns, with Valley's Jesse Van Saun atop the county scoring chart with 26 goals against a Panther eleven that has balance from Rommel Chatman, Mark Fernandes and Todd Hamlin.

Act now

Dear editor, 10-24-93

In early September Deputy Mayor Paul Callan sent a letter to each of Ridgewood's churches inviting comments on the repeal or amendment of the Village's Sunday Closing Laws. As of today, only one church has responded.

Civic leaders are entitled to expect and to obtain a more responsible reaction to an important quality-of-life issue. The churches should be in the leadership role on this particular issue and should promptly send comments to Mr. Callan.

When key institutions in society fail to have the "courage of their convictions," and do not demonstrate a willingness to stand up for their beliefs, important issues do not receive a meaningful discussion.

According to the lead article in last Thursday's newspaper, the Ridgewood Council will proposed a major change in the Sunday Closing Laws on Oct. 12. A public hearing is scheduled for Nov. 9.

All the churches in Ridgewood should be "on record" in writing before the meeting. The "institutional voice" of the Village community in the Village (as evidenced by individual church leaders) must be heard on this issue.

the stick for years," she said.

But Shirley Feldman, Concerned Taxpayers of Waldwick member, thinks the board may be jumping the gun. Feldman, who is skeptical of the CAC's enrollment forecast, pointed to a discrepancy between the projected 1993-1994 K-12 enrollment of 1,361 and the actual enrollment of 1,322.

"We should wait and see what's going to happen because the figures are incorrect," she said.

Price countered, "Crescent School is in trouble now. We're going to have fifth graders sitting in kindergarten classes all day long."

Superintendent Patrick Piegari added, "You have got to assume you're going to pick up students during the year."

The board is considering several expansion options, including on-site construction, installing pre-fabricated structures or renting mobile units.

KEN GARDNER

Ken Gardner

How do you feel about escalating property taxes and what has the borough council done to improve the quality of your family's life? These are the questions we should not have to ask, according to Ken Gardner. Gardner works for Westvaco Corporation, a Fortune 200 company, and he is held accountable for his department's results. He sees no reason why your council should not be run in a similar business-like manner. As stockholders in your community, taxpayers have the right to know the council's goals and how your tax dollars are spent. He is different from his opponents. He is organized and will follow through on his commitments. About a year ago, he founded and organized the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air to address the foul odors from the Waldwick sewer plant. As a result of his actions, a state-of-the-art odor system will be installed, at no cost to residents, to resolve a 25-year-old problem. He is not a member of the political group that has been running your council for the last couple of years.

Gardner and his wife Helene have lived in Waldwick since 1985. They have two daughters. Emily is in first grade at Crescent School and Madlyn attends Rainbow Corners preschool.

His goal as councilman is to continue improving the quality of family life in Waldwick. When elected there are three areas he will focus on. The first is cost control. To insure the council does not play politics with the budgeting process, he proposes establishing a Citizens' Budget Committee to review the council's thinking and to make objective recommendations. The second is the accountability of the government. Gardner proposes the borough initiate a Goals Program for all borough departments. This will enable you to know what your council is doing with your hard earned tax dollars. And the third is communication and community involvement. Gardner wants to establish a quarterly newsletter that will utilize surveys to seek your input, provide you with progress reports and most importantly seek your active involvement before the political patronage is handed out. We can continue on our present course of a one party government, or we can have Ken Gardner's independent voice on our council. He is concerned about controlling costs, accountability in government and involving you in the process of governing our community. On November 2, please give him a chance to serve you.

Leaders who won't take PAC money

Dear editor,

When is the last time you believed in a political person?

Well I have met three people running for office I believe: Bea O'Rourke, Jack Dabney and Barry Winston. They have proposed a new plan for New Jersey, a plan that will begin with campaign finance reform to stop the gifts and lobby money given to candidates and legislators. They have not taken any money from these groups and have pledged to never take — unlike our present men in office who take PAC money.

O'Rourke, Dabney and Winston have signed a pledge to never bring assault weapons back to New Jersey — unlike our NRA backed legislators in Trenton. Assemblymen Russo and Felice voted to override the assault weapons ban.

These new candidates, independent and creative are pro-choice and pro-child. Did you know that our present Senator McNamara did not support a requirement for seat belts in school buses and did not support increasing the prison term for aggravated sexual assault? Does anyone in Wyckoff remember Donald Chapman. He also failed to support A-802, a bill which would have prohibited weapons possession schools.

New leadership in New Jersey means changing the status quo now. What worked five to 10 years ago just doesn't work now. Elect leaders to the legislature who will cast their votes for the future of our children and the future of New Jersey.

Mahwah hangs on as conversion fails

MAHWAH — Joe Avagnano's touchdown run with 49 seconds left brought Waldwick within a point Thursday, but the two-point conversion misfired and Mahwah escaped with a 19-18 Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League interdivisional football victory.

It was Avagnano's third score of the day. The first two had given Waldwick a 12-0 advantage. Mahwah went ahead, 13-12, by halftime as Mike Cahill threw his ninth touchdown pass of the season and ran one in from 11 yards.

Marcus Giles put Mahwah ahead, 19-12, with a 6-yard touchdown in the fourth period. Frank Chamberlain had a pair of interceptions in the victory.

No suspect in power loss in six area towns

By ROYA RAFEI 10-24-93

RIDGEWOOD — A temporary blackout that left 29,000 households in four area towns without power on Wednesday night was caused deliberately, according to authorities.

"Someone entered one of our substations and threw a switch," said Neil Brown, a spokesperson from PSE&G. He added the power station was located on Hopper Avenue in Waldwick.

The blackout was the latest in a series of six deliberate power outages since February, Brown added.

"Whoever is involved knows enough about the engineering of the facilities to do this without getting hurt," he said, adding that the stations are secured with barbed wires.

When asked whether the incidents were an inside job, Brown responded, "We haven't ruled anything out."

Three of the other outages also resulted after an intruder tampered with the same station at Hopper Avenue in Waldwick, he said. The other two incidents occurred in Paramus and outside another station in Waldwick.

The latest outage, which happened (See POWER, page 5)

Power

at 8:45 p.m., Oct. 21, affected residents in Ridgewood, Waldwick, Ho-Ho-Kus and Saddle River and parts of Paramus and Midland Park, according to Brown.

About half of the 29,000 households had their power within a minute and the rest, within 45 minutes.

At around 9 p.m., emergency personnel from Ridgewood and Paramus were busy putting out flares at major intersections, including Linwood Avenue and Paramus Road where two cars collided during the blackout. No one was injured, according to Ridgewood Police.

The cases are still under investigation and police have no suspects.

Waldwick, Ridgewood, Pascack Valley post wins

By BOB KURLAND 10-25-93
Staff Writer

FRANKLIN LAKES — Ramapo Regional's soccer field turned into the Home of Upsets Sunday as Northern Highlands handed top-seeded Tenafly its first loss of the season and unheralded Waldwick topped Don Bosco Prep to gain the semifinals of the Bergen County boys tournament.

At Don Bosco, second-seeded Pascack Valley averted an upset at the hands of Midland Park by squeezing out a 1-0 overtime win and surprising Ridgewood ousted Ramapo, 2-0.

Northern Highlands' 2-1 win was a little more stunning because Tenafly had basically the same team that won the title last year. And the underdogs did it convincingly.

The Highlanders' defense, led by Sean Jareck, who did a fine job shadowing and containing high-scoring Evan Dabby, held the potent Tigers scoreless for 63 minutes. Tenafly scored only after an obstruction call placed the ball in the box and Jon Kind kicked it in from a couple of yards.

"It was tough marking Dabby," said Jareck, "but I used my strength to stay with him."

Meanwhile, Northern Highlands striker Eric Sandersen turned playmaker. At 27:47 of the opening half he headed the ball to Brad Edelman, who headed it home. And five minutes later he fed Rick Burns a good lead ball to set up a goal.

"They put a lot of pressure on Sandersen so he turned support for the rest of us and did a good job," said Burns. "He gave me a great pass."

Coach Roy Nygren was happy, especially over his club's first-half play. "We knocked the ball around in our style of soccer," he said. "And before Brad put one in, he had a chance and headed the ball over the top."

Nygren praised his defense. "They kept the ball out of trouble and Sean showed how smart he is with the job he did on Dabby. And John Walsh, our other back, was brilliant in the first half as he did everything right, including starting our attack."

The Highlanders' semifinal foe, Waldwick, stopped Don Bosco, 2-0, with freshman goalie Emeka Ofodile playing like a senior by turning back 10 shots.

The Dons dominated a good portion of the game, but had problems once in the box. Ofodile made two outstanding first-half saves, including a diving one to tip Matt Hurley's liner over the top. That made David Kanarvogel's early goal stand up.

"I was trying to win a head ball," said Kanarvogel, "and coming down I saw the ball bounce off the goalie's [Tim Hurley] hand and I volleyed it in."

"Beating a respected team like Bosco and us being a Group 1 school, I feel it puts Waldwick soccer on the map."

Don Bosco turned it on in the second half after Mike Raia headed home a throw-in from Seamus Halloran with only five minutes gone.

"I think that's the first header I scored this season," said Raia, who was inches shorter than the defenders.

"Give my defense the credit," said Ofodile, who had six saves in Man, 20, charged in power outages

Accused of break-ins at PSE&G facilities

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

A 20-year-old Ho-Ho-Kus man described as a genius and a social outcast was undergoing psychiatric treatment after his arrest on charges of switching off electricity to thousands of utility customers during five break-ins at Public Service Electric and Gas Co. substations, police said.

William J. Krywos of Duncan Road knocked out power to street lights; the Paramus Park Mall; Valley Hospital in Ridgewood; 32,000 customers in Waldwick, Ridgewood, Ho-Ho-Kus, Midland Park, Saddle River, and a small section of northern Paramus; and emergency communications systems, police said. Krywos was arrested Friday.

The power outages — three initiated at the Waldwick substation and two in Paramus — lasted for as little as a minute and as long as 45 minutes, said police and utility officials. PSE&G spokesman Neil Brown said the suspect was expert enough to know what switches to pull to avoid being electrocuted.

Police said schematics of PSE&G's equipment boxes were found in Krywos' home, leading them to believe that the suspect had memorized the layout of each box, and after returning home, drew schematics for later use.

No one was injured during the power outages, which took place between Feb. 10 and Oct. 21, police said. Because each of the incidents took place at 9 p.m., friends gave Krywos the nickname "2100," a reference to the military time for that hour, police said.

Waldwick Patrolman Kevin Smith, who assisted in the arrest, said Krywos chose that hour because, not wanting to hurt anyone, he didn't think there would be much traffic on the street.

Krywos was being held on five counts of criminal mischief and one count of possession of a destructive device. The latter charge resulted from an incident on July 10, 1991, when an unexploded pipe bomb was found in the vicinity of the annual Lions' Club carnival held near Waldwick High School, police said. The bomb was another means to get attention, and was not intended to harm anyone, police said.

Police said Krywos confessed to planting the pipe bomb after he was brought into custody on the criminal mischief charges.

He was being held Monday in lieu of $45,000 bail at the Bergen Pines County Hospital, where he was receiving psychiatric treatment, said Krywos' attorney, Diane Lucianna of Hackensack.

Lucianna said her client pleaded not guilty both to the mischief charges and the pipe bomb incident. She said she intends to contest the police search of Krywos' home, and his confessions while in police custody. She will seek a reduction of his bail, and expects him to be released from custody Friday.

Lucianna said Krywos, who lives with his parents and 27-year-old sister, receives supplemental income because he is unable to work for psychiatric reasons. The family have been longstanding Ho-Ho-Kus residents. Krywos' father, William, is a retired chemist.

Smith, who assisted in the arrest with Lt. Richard Brady and Detective Jeffrey Mandel, said Krywos was a "genius in his own way" in that he was knowledgeable about technical electronic equipment and schematics.

"He was a person looking for attention," Smith said, adding that he may have been trying to impress a woman. He said Krywos bragged about his nighttime exploits to friends when attending St. Luke's R.C. Church in Ho-Ho-Kus.

Police said Krywos climbed an eight-foot fence topped with barbed wire or hacksawed the gate at the substations in Waldwick and Paramus, opened equipment boxes by hacksawing open padlocks, and flipped switches to knock out the power.

The Waldwick switching station on Hopper Avenue services 30,000 customers including Valley Hospital, which has a backup generator.

The Paramus substation on Woodland Avenue services 1,596 customers including the Paramus Park Mall. A substation transforms high-voltage electricity into smaller voltages for household use.

The three power outages in Waldwick occurred Feb. 10, Aug. 9, and Oct. 21, the last one for 45 minutes. The Paramus incidents occurred April 7 and Aug. 5.

A neighbor who did not want to be identified said Krywos was a good-natured child who often was at the mercy of local children who dared him to do things. He complied to fit in, the neighbor said.

"He does crazy little things," the neighbor said, like cutting a neighbor's telephone wire, painting a neighbor's fence red, white, and blue, and throwing a rock at another boy. "He's totally unpredictable. But I feel sorry for him. I'd love to visit him just to let him know somebody cares for him."

The PSE&G spokesman, Brown, declined to discuss the security precautions before the incident or security measures taken afterward, but he said acts of vandalism have occurred to PSE&G property.

The facilities, however, remained unguarded even after several incidents, Brown said.

Developer is dealt setback in Waldwick housing-site dispute

10-26-93

Judge refuses request to dismiss case

By PAUL J. TOOMEY
Staff Writer

WALDWICK — A Superior Court judge has decided that a dispute between the borough and a developer who wants to build low- and moderate-income housing in town should go to trial, borough officials said.

Judge Peter Ciolino, in Hackensack, on Friday refused to grant the developer's motion for a summary judgment after testimony by borough officials convinced him that the two-acre site on Hopper Avenue, near White Pond, may be unsuitable for housing, said Borough Administrator Gary Kratz.

The developer, White Pond Landing Inc., owned by Joseph LoScalzo, wants to build 22 two-story town houses on the site, which is near the municipality's recreation area and pool. Six of those units would be designated for so-called Mount Laurel housing.

Borough officials have opposed the project for several reasons. The site lies in wetlands and should not be developed, and construction would interfere with a dam-repair project, they say.

In addition, the site is not part of the borough's affordable-housing plan, which had listed five other sites where such housing could be built. The developer contends that the borough needs the White Pond site because it is not even close to meeting its Mount Laurel obligation.

But Kratz said Waldwick would have difficulty meeting its 150-unit Mount Laurel obligation anyway because the 2.2-square-mile borough is already 98 percent developed.

Rulings by the state courts in 1975 and 1983 required all municipalities to accommodate, but not necessarily build, a certain amount of low- and moderate-income housing. The Mount Laurel rulings, named after the Burlington County township that was the defendant in two major fair-housing cases, forbid municipalities to use zoning codes to block construction of the housing.

Under the rulings, developers could bring "builder's remedy suits" to force municipalities to plan for such housing.

LoScalzo brought suit against the borough in March 1989, before Waldwick had an affordable-housing plan. He said the market-value town houses with garages likely would be sold in the mid-$200,000 range, while the affordable units probably would sell for $60,000 to $70,000.

His attorney could not be reached for comment Monday.

Center bids 'disappointing'

10-27-93

Most proposals received exceed targeted expenditures by $100,000

By James Hickey
Of Suburban News

WALDWICK— "Disappointing" was the reaction of Waldwick Mayor Rick Vander Wende and the rest of the Waldwick council to the news of the cost for the proposed community center.

At their last meeting, Wells Associates, the firm that is handling the proposals for the borough, reported to the council that they had received five out of six proposals whose projected costs would exceed, by $100,000, the amount the council had originally wanted to spend on the project. Most bids received were in the $400,000+ range.

Although the council was stunned by the news of how much the project would cost, Mayor Rick Vander Wende said "I'm not ready to give up on this project."

The council was told the bad news during a presentation by Ralph Rosenberg of Wells Associates. The proposal deals with the transformation of a house located at Hopper and West Prospect streets into a building that will provide a multiple-purpose facility that can be used by any borough resident or group.

Rosenberg stated in his presentation that "This is a bare-bones estimate for this job." He felt that all extra costs had been cut out and there was nothing else that could be done to lower the cost of the project.

Councilman Arthur Barthold

suggested that the project be broken up into two phases. Each phase would consist of refurbishing a floor and he felt that this might help to ease the project's cost. But Vander Wende and the rest of the council felt this was not a plausible idea because the second phase, or second floor, might never be completed.

Rosenberg also felt that the estimates on the proposed project were a good starting point for the council when they are considering the budget for this project. He stated that bids received ranged from $382,000, the lowest bid received, to the highest at $452,000.

Rosenberg felt that a $400,000-plus budget was a good starting point for the council when budgeting for the project. This is due to the fact that four of the six budget bids were within $10,000 of each other.

One of the major cost items for the project centered on an elevator that must be installed in the building. But the mayor was hopeful that some state money would help offset money needed for the elevator project.

Other council members, commenting that the starting price was already at more than expected, pointed out that the house was not furnished nor was there any landscaping done to the outside of the house.

Vander Wende commented that although the council had only expected to pay $300,000 for the project, he felt that there were some ways to raise additional money. One way would be to apply for grants and aid from the state. He asked Borough Administrator Gary Kratz to start looking into how much money the borough can receive from the state for this project.

Vander Wende still felt this was a worthy project. "There is a need for this kind of building in the borough for it will be used by all segments of the community," Vander Wende stated.

The mayor asked that Wells Associates look into getting some more bids for the project, and was hopeful that community groups would assist with landscaping and furnishing.

Suspect in blackouts called bright, troubled

Moved from Pines to county jail

By PAUL J. TOOMEY 10-27-93
Staff Writer

His friends and parents, his lawyer, and even the police who arrested him last week say William J. Krywos II is a bright but troubled young man, a gullible, underachieving misfit who craved attention.

Five days after his arrest for allegedly breaking into Public Service Electric & Gas Co. substations and triggering blackouts that affected 32,000 households, a hospital, and a shopping mall, Krywos was moved from Bergen Pines County Hospital to the county jail Tuesday. A psychological evaluation concluded he was not a danger to himself or others, Sheriff Jack Terhune said.

He is being held on $45,000 bail on five counts of criminal mischief and one count of possession of a destructive device, the latter charge stemming from a July 1991 incident involving the placement of a pipe bomb at Waldwick High School. Krywos, 20, confessed to planting the bomb following his arrest, police said.

No one was injured in any of the blackouts, which lasted from one to 45 minutes, police said.

Krywos, of 12 Duncan Road in Ho-Ho-Kus, is accused of switching off the power at two PSE&G substations in Waldwick and Paramus, knocking out power for 32,000 customers. The Valley Hospital in Ridgewood and the Paramus Park Mall, as well as numerous police communications networks and traffic lights also lost power on five occasions from Feb. 10 to Oct. 21, police said.

His parents called him Willie, the director of his youth program called him Bill, and some of his other acquaintances nicknamed him "2100," from the military designation for the hour he allegedly struck.

Krywos, who lives at home with his parents, William Sr. and Anne, and sister, Chris, was described by police, his lawyer, family, and friends as an affable, borderline genius who was trusting and easily influenced.

"This young man is extremely bright, but emotionally handicapped," said Krywos's attorney Diane Lucianna of Hackensack.

Krywos has pled not guilty to the charges. At a bail hearing later this week, he will petition the court to reduce his bail, said Lucianna, adding that he has no previous arrests. If convicted, Krywos faces three-to-five year prison terms on each of the six counts with which he is charged.

Lucianna said her client suffers from neurological impairment and an adjustment disorder which have prevented him from holding a job. He gets a disability check from Social Security, but has also done odd jobs for neighbors, including painting and house repair. Lucianna said Krywos is not currently on any medication.

He attended St. Luke's School in Ho-Ho-Kus and graduated in June 1992 from Midland Park High School. He briefly attended Bergen Community College, before dropping out. Krywos is a regular participant in a youth program at St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church in Ho-Ho-Kus, where he also attends church services.

He has an interest in science, acquired from dinner-table conversations with his father, a retired research chemist, Lucianna said. He has a ferret named Joe Bob and is an avid ham-radio operator.

The elder Krywos said he was employed by chemical companies in New York and Saddle Brook over the last 50 years, working with all types of chemicals, such as metal powders used in auto assembly and power components.

He said his son is "highly versed" in electronics, having studied textbooks on his own and that the two of them had worked on numerous science projects together over the years.

The elder Krywos described his son as a "notorious bragger" who was trusting and gullible, with an "active imagination. ... Everybody knows Willy," he said.

Police said they were led to Krywos after he bragged to friends.

Joel Peters, director of St. Luke's youth program, said that over the two years he's known Krywos, his impression has been positive. "He's extremely intelligent, witty, and has a great sense of humor," he said.

PSE&G spokesman Neil Brown said the company has upgraded its security over the years in response to similar acts of vandalism. The utility has installed fencing, barbed wire, locks, cameras, and alarms, but the equipment remains unguarded. Moving the circuitry indoors is not feasible, Brown said.

He warned potential copycats that tampering with such high voltage equipment could result in severe injury or death. "It's just not worth whatever thrill, risk or notoriety one would get from it," he said.

WALDWICK Police

Police stopped a vehicle on Wyckoff Avenue on Oct. 24 at 2:08 a.m. for a speeding violation. After speaking to the driver, Sgt. Richard Carruthers arrested the 40-year-old Ridgewood man for driving while intoxicated. The man was transported to headquarters where he refused to take a breathalyzer test. He was then issued a summons for driving while intoxicated, speeding, refusing to submit to a breathalyzer and failure to change address. He was released on his own recognizance pending a hearing in Waldwick Municipal Court.

Local man charged in power outage

By ROYA RAFFI

WALDWICK — A 20-year-old Ho-Ho-Kus man was arrested last week for deliberately causing five area power outages within the last year, including the latest on Thursday, according to police.

Described as "a social outcast" and "a self-taught genius" by police, William J. Krywos was charged with five counts of criminal mischief for intentionally interrupting the power supplied by PSE&G on Feb. 10, April 7, Aug. 5, Aug. 9 and Oct. 21. He was arrested on Friday.

"He's not your average criminal," said Ptl. Kevin A. Smith of the Waldwick Police Department. "He did it to get attention. Everything he did wasn't meant to hurt anyone — just to get attention."

Three of the outages were initiated at a Hopper Avenue substation here and two in Paramus.

Police connected Krywos to the incidents after an unidentified informant tipped them off.

"He bragged about it to other people," said Smith, adding that Krywos may have been trying to impress a girlfriend.

After searching his home, the officers found the schematics of the Hopper Avenue substation. He hopped over the barbed wire fence, jammed or cut the locks to get to the substations, then opened the boxes and allegedly flipped the switches, Smith said.

Krywos was never employed by the utility company, he added.

The blackout on Thursday left 29,000 households in six area towns without power, according to Neil Brown, a utility spokesman.

Half of the customers had their power back within a minute, the rest within 45 minutes of the blackout which occurred on 8:45 p.m. The powerout also affected The Valley Hospital, which has a backup generator, and the Paramus Park Mall.

The substation, which is secured with barbed wires, provides electrical service to Waldwick, Ridgewood, Ho-Ho-Kus, Midland Park, Saddle River and a portion of northern Paramus.

Krywos was also charged with one count of possession of a destructive device in connection with a July 10, 1991 incident. During the annual Lion's Club carnival that day, police discovered and eventually extinguished a lit pipe bomb on Wyckoff Avenue near Waldwick High School. After his arrest on Friday, Krywos confessed to designing and planting the bomb, police said.

Krywos was transported from Bergen Pines Hospital to the county jail, where he is being held on $45,000 bail, according to his attorney Diana Luciano. She plans to contest the bail at a hearing scheduled this week.

"It's crazy," she said. "He's had no priors and his offenses are not that serious."

Accused PSE&G saboteur freed on bail

WILLIAM J. KRYWOS II

A Ho-Ho-Kus man accused of breaking into Public Service Electric & Gas power stations and triggering blackouts was released from jail Friday on a reduced bail.

William J. Krywos II was released after his parents paid $2,500 — 10 percent of the bail that was reduced nearly by half from $45,000 by Superior Court Judge Sybil R. Moses.

But the 20-year-old, described as highly intelligent but troubled, must report daily to the Bergen County Probation Department for a supervisory program, the judge ruled.

Krywos was arrested this week on charges of switching off electricity to thousands of utility customers during five break-ins at PSE&G substations.

Power was knocked out in streetlights,

Paramus Park Mall, The Valley Hospital in Ridgewood, 32,000 customers in Waldwick, Ridgewood, Ho-Ho-Kus, Midland Park, Saddle River, and a small section of northern Paramus, police said.

Krywos' attorney, Diane Lucianna, argued that bail should be reduced because the charges are third-degree crimes. Her client will report to probation next week, Lucianna said.

No one was injured in the power outages, which occurred between Feb. 10 and Oct. 21.

Krywos has been charged with five counts of criminal mischief and one count of possession of a destructive device. The latter charge resulted from an incident on July 10, 1991, when an unexploded pipe bomb was found in the vicinity of the annual Lions Club carnival held near Waldwick High School, police said.

Rec center cost still too high 10-28-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — The council has tried just about everything to cut costs on the community center construction, but after soliciting several price quotes the price is still a bit too steep.

Council was hoping it could convert an old building on the corner of Hopper Avenue and West Prospect Street into a community center for no more than $330,000 after switching from metal to wood for structural work, but the lowest quote came in at $382,000.

Councilman Joseph

Musumeci said he was surprised. He said he had built a brick house with five bedrooms and five bathrooms for $100,000 less.

"I'm having trouble seeing what is in there that cost so much. I have seen houses built for less that this that look better," he said.

But Mayor Rick Vander Wende thinks the quotes are probably reasonable and the council may just be feeling the effects of "sticker shock."

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz said it's unlikely that the council could get a better price because most of the quotes came within $10,000 of each other.

Kratz added that when the council solicits formal bids the price could go up.

Vander Wende is determined to have the community center despite the higher costs. "There is a need for the building. It would be the most used building in the entire borough," he said. "I'm not going to give up on the project. People want it."

To cut costs council may apply for a state grant for the elevator and the bathroom.

Waldwick, Midland Park — two hungry teams — collide Saturday

10-28-93

By BRIAN FARRELL

Waldwick, with its state-playoff hopes balancing by a thin thread, and Midland Park, winless in five games, collide Saturday in Midland Park in the 27th football meeting between the neighboring rivals.

Waldwick (3-3), after being stampeded by Paterson Catholic, 39-8, must win to keep in the Group 1 hunt.

For Midland Park, a competitive team in four of its five losses, it would make the Parkers' season if they can grab their third straight win over the Warriors.

The series record stands at 16-9-1, in favor of Waldwick, after Midland Park's 19-0 victory last year. The Parkers have beaten the Warriors the past two seasons. Prior to 1991, the last time Waldwick had lost to Midland Park was in 1981.

"Midland Park has lost some close games and is basically a pretty good football team," said Warrior head coach Terry Byrne.

Indeed, the Parkers have lost to Hawthorne, 2-0, Paterson Catholic, 30-26, Glen Rock, 7-0, Saddle Brook, 14-6, and Pompton Lakes, 27-3.

"We have to regroup and go after our rival, Midland Park," said Byrne, whose team is on a three-game losing streak. "We have to get back to our winning ways. We are a very capable team."

"Saturday's game will have plenty of emotion; sometimes, in fact, maybe too much emotion," Byrne noted. "The emotion is going to take care of itself. You don't have to put the emotion in the game."

Against Paterson Catholic, Waldwick played without senior nose guard Rob Brenkert, sidelined with a chronic back ailment, and lost senior guard-tackle Tom Smith to an injury in the first quarter.

The Warriors met a Cougar team (3-2) that was swift, big and punishing in its ground game and hits. The Cougars unleashed three powerful running backs, including quarterback Jason Perry, that combined for 304 yards on just 33 carries, including touchdown runs of 51 and 88 yards. Paterson Catholic did not attempt a pass.

"Their interior men outmuscled us," Byrne said. "In their first couple of games, they tried to be a finesse team. Once they found out they were a muscle team, they have become a dangerous team now. They just come right at you."

Tailback Doug Sneyers, the Warriors' chief offensive threat, had to leave the game midway through the third quarter.

"They hobbled Doug in the first quarter, and that kind of took away from our offense," Byrne said.

The score was only 14-8 at halftime, but PC rung up 19 points for a 33-8 advantage after three quarters.

Waldwick scored with 55 seconds left in the first half on a one-yard run by quarterback Mike Branagh. Sneyers then made a diving catch in the end zone of a Branagh pass for the conversion. The key play in the 56-yard drive came on a 4th-and-3 from the 33. Sneyers snared a little swing pass from Branagh for a five-yard gain.

Byrne cited the play of defensive end Jay Bain, saying, "He was solid on defense. At the start of the game, they ran to his side a couple of times, but he beat them, so they ran away from him."

Sophomore Chris Heid, a 5-8, 150-pound safety, saw some action for Waldwick in the final quarter and prevented a Paterson Catholic touchdown by making a one-handed tackle of senior Kevin Thomas at the 11-yard line after the 6-2, 205-pound fullback had rambled 19 yards up the middle. On the next play, though, Thomas, who rushed for 125 yards on six carries, scored.

Waldwick, Mahwah to play football again Thanksgiving

By BRIAN FARRELL

Thanksgiving Day football returns for Waldwick and Mahwah this season for the first time in seven years, when the two Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League teams clash Nov. 25 at Mahwah in a 10 a.m. start.

The season-finale for both teams, originally scheduled Nov. 20, was officially changed last week to Thanksgiving Day.

"Last year, someone asked me to contact Dave Dunn (Mahwah athletic director) to see if we could possibly play on Thanksgiving this year," said Tony Caiazzo, Waldwick athletic director. "Since Mahwah is going to play Thanksgiving Day games in its new league, they thought it would be a good idea to start this year."

In September, Mahwah is moving to the larger-school Northern Bergen Inter-scholastic League (NBIL).

The last Turkey Day game for both schools was played in 1986. Because of rain, Waldwick and Mahwah played the Saturday after Thanksgiving, with Waldwick winning, 10-6. Prior to 1986, Waldwick's Turkey Day rival was Midland Park, and Mahwah's was Ramsey before the Rams moved to the NBIL in September of 1984.

By a league vote,

Thanksgiving Day games were discontinued after the 1986 season in the B-PSL. The reason behind the change was the state playoffs, which start the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Schools like Mahwah, Hawthorne and Passaic Tech, in anticipation of qualifying for the playoffs, no longer wanted to come back five days later on Thanksgiving and play its final league game. The other league members, with the exception of Waldwick and Midland Park, supported the measure.

Thus, in 1987, the B-PSL started its season a week earlier — the third Saturday in September — than the other leagues in Bergen County. As a result, the B-PSL finished its nine-game schedule the second Saturday in November instead of Thanksgiving Day. However, starting in 1991, an unbalanced league created one bye week for each team. This year, Nov. 20 is the season finale.

"I think Thanksgiving Day games are a good thing for the community," said Caiazzo, who, for 14 seasons (1974-87), was Waldwick's head football coach. "It's a place to go for kids coming home from college and other alumni. It's a time when they can meet up again with their friends."

Midland Park scores upset on Castro's 90-yard return

10-31-93

MIDLAND PARK — Alex Castro wiped out a brief Waldwick lead by returning a kickoff 90 yards for the deciding score in Midland Park's 20-14 Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League Carpenter Division upset of the Warriors.

Jason Porod caught touchdown passes of 56 and 27 yards from Jon Peet as the Panthers recorded their first victory in six games.

Junior linebacker Doug Gillespie led the Midland Park defense with 10 unassisted tackles and teamed with Kurt Vierheilig to make a tackle for a safety that opened the Panthers' 14-point fourth quarter. The Peet-to-Porod 27-yard score followed. Waldwick scored once more, but Castro answered with his return. Peet completed five of nine passes for 110 yards.

Gardner cleans up air pollution

10-31-93

Dear editor,

To the residents and voters of Waldwick, I would like to recommend for Council, Ken Gardner.

Ken has been an active participant in the many activities and organizations in Waldwick. He has proven his deep concern for our residents and is well aware of the problems that face the borough. Ken's most recent conscientious, laborious effort was with the NBCUA concerning air pollution. He led a group of residents concerned with the odors emanating from the sewer plant polluting the air. Through his efforts the NBCUA will now include in its expansion project the installation of a state-of-the-art odor control system.

This is one example of the kind of hardworking person we have in Ken Gardner. I assure you he has the motivation and background we need for a councilman representing our town.

I sincerely ask your support for Ken Gardner on Election Day.

Green or not green; it's up to residents

By JOHN TOIVONEN 10-31-93

WALDWICK — There is some disagreement about whether to preserve a stretch of undeveloped land next to Whites Pond, but a 3-2 council vote on Tuesday put the issue before the public.

The project calls for a $450,000 state loan and a $150,000 state grant to preserve the two-acre park and the council decided it will not go forward with the project without receiving the funds.

Councilman James Gibson sees a growing population without enough natural area in the borough as a serious problem. If the council doesn't seize this opportunity Gibson feels the land will be developed for commercial use.

"There will never be another opportunity in this town to increase parkland in that area. If we don't plan proportionately we're going to look like Paterson and you are going to have the ills that go with it," he said.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende,

Green

however, feels the price is too steep for a town with a tight budget and the need for several municipal projects.

"I'm vehemently opposed. With buildings and roads crumbling and having to scrape for every penny, there's no way I can rationalize spending (the money). I'm embarrassed to even put it in front of the people."

Councilman Arthur Barthold said, "I don't think we should bother getting any more land for parks until we can maintain the parks we have. I don't think the people can afford another $450,000."

But Gibson feels that a two percent simple-interest loan should not be so hard to swallow.

"When I took this job I said I believed in the town meeting. I'm willing to accept whatever they want," he said.

Councilmen Joseph Musumeci and Edwin Sherman joined Gibson in supporting the resolution. Councilwoman Denise Anderson also opposed the measure. Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra was not present for the vote, but said she would have voted no.

A public hearing will be held in November.

The Weaker Sex

Men's health issues getting serious attention

By JUDY JEANNIN
Staff Writer

More on other side

Turning 40 spurred Bob Weiser of Waldwick to turn from junk food to jogging.

KLAUS-PETER STEITZ/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

It may seem strange to us now, but at the turn of the century men and women had roughly the same life expectancy: 45 years for men, 46 for women. However, by 1950, women were outliving men by five years, establishing a pattern that was to become a norm.

Today, women live about 7½ years longer than men (women average 78.3 years, men 70.7). If the trend continues, by the year 2020 women will be outliving men by a dozen years.

It took most of the century, but men are finally starting to question this inequity — to wonder why women have become the more durable sex. Even feminist Betty Friedan, in her recently published book, "The Fountain of Age," asks why men's health issues have been neglected for so long. She notes that chronic conditions, which women once seemed to suffer more frequently, now render a far higher number of men unable to carry on major activities.

Part of the answer, say experts like Dr. Ken Goldberg, may lie in the fact that American women make 130 million more doctor visits per year than men — that they are simply more attuned to taking care of themselves.

"But just going to the doctor isn't enough to give men back their full lives," Goldberg, founder of the Male Health Center in Dallas, says in the introduction to his new book, "How Men Can Live as Long as Women" (The Summit Group, $22.95). "Men hold attitudes about health — an entire catalog of male myths — that not only keep them from living longer, but also prevent them from fully enjoying the years they've got."

Recently, a growing number of health professionals, men's groups, sociologists, and publishers have begun to focus on the sorry state of men's health. They are taking on some of the myths and hoping to make men's health one of the key issues of the Nineties. Individuals have also begun taking matters into their own hands.

Bob Weiser, 43, of Waldwick is among them. After years of downing junk food and ignoring his wife's pleas to eat nutritiously, Weiser saw the light when he turned 40.

"I made a decision to do something about getting in shape," he says. "I was about 25 pounds overweight. It was extra baggage I had been carrying for the last 12 years."

Joe Policastro, 28, grew up in an athletic family where there was plenty of emphasis on healthy living. He ran, he lifted weights, he played several sports.

He also learned to watch his fat and salt intake, and to stoke up on rice and pasta instead of red meat. To further his knowledge, he took an elective course in nutrition while studying for his master's degree in philosophy and the social sciences at Columbia University.

Today, the North Brunswick High School football coach tries to pass some of that knowledge on to his students. "As a coach I encourage the kids to maintain a proper diet and stay off fat," he says. "I don't like to see them leave the practice field and head for McDonald's. I don't encourage fast food."

Weiser and Policastro are among the growing group of men — mostly well-educated, physically active baby boomers — who see the merit in the adage "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

RIDGEWOOD, WALDWICK STAY HOT

PARAMUS — It'll be Group 4 Ridgewood going against Group 1 Waldwick for the Bergen County boys soccer championship Sunday.

The surprising Maroons (11-2) came from behind to eliminate second-seeded Pascack Valley, 2-1, Sunday at Bergen Community College. And in the other mud-splattered game, Waldwick reached the final for the first time with a convincing 3-0 win over Northern Highlands.

"I really underestimated how good this team is," said veteran Ridgewood coach Dick Bennett. "No one expected much of us going into the tournament and that was nice, because there was no pressure on us."

Pascack Valley (15-2-1) entered the game as the No. 1 team in The Record's Group 3-4 poll. And when Jesse Van Saun scored his 30th goal early in the second half, it looked as if the Indians were on their way.

But with 13:35 left, Keith O'Connor put a throw-in in the box which Tad Yearling flicked in the air. Jason Sowers beat goalie Derrick Cividini to the ball and headed in the equalizer.

"That was an excellent play by Jason," said Bennett, "because he beat an outstanding goalie."

It stayed that way until, with four minutes remaining, Stefan Aps received a deflection from a defender and fired home his 25th and biggest goal of the season.

"I had come down the right side," said Aps, "and after giving it up, I circled into the box and the ball just came out to me. I put it in the left corner."

But Sowers goal was the one which lifted the club. "We all played very hard," said Sowers, "but the big difference is having Keith back."

O'Connor, wearing a brace in only his fourth game since returning from a knee injury, just missed scoring when his diving 20-yard header banged off the crossbar in the opening half.

"He's about 80 percent," said Bennett. "And in a couple of weeks the header he missed would have been in. But having him out there means so much for the team because he helps in every department."

In the second contest Mark DeMenna scored 2½ minutes into the game. Before the half was over, he cleared Zack Main's shot off the line to keep the 1-0 lead.

His goal came on a header off Seamus Halloran's corner kick.

"I like playing defense [sweeper] because I can help the club more back there," said DeMenna. "Early in the season I played halfback. But give our goalie a lot of credit."

Young Emeka Ofodile wasn't tested much but when he was, he came up very big. Early in the second half he went low to make a one-hand save on Brad Edelman and the freshman saved his shut-out with a fine save on Highlands leading scorer Erik Sandersen.

"I'm just thrilled for our players," said Waldwick coach George Farago. "We were lucky to get out of the first half with the lead because Highlands and its short passing game outplayed us."

But 15 minutes into the second half, Dave Kanarvogel made it 2-0 when his shot glanced off a defender and took a crazy bounce into the right corner. Joe Mojkowski wrapped it up when he knocked in Mario Del Valle's pass with 3:46 to play.

From a wet, muddy, cold, selfish perspective, Sunday's Bergen County boys soccer tournament semifinals should have been postponed. From a practical point it was better that it was played, otherwise the four teams would have been backed up with regular-season, State, and County games. Now only Waldwick and Ridgewood face the prospect. Before the quarter-final game, Waldwick's Mark DeMenna said, "We're going to score an upset over Don Bosco." And after Sunday's semifinal win over Northern Highlands, he predicted, "We're going to win the whole thing." We'll see if he's a seer Sunday afternoon at Bergen Community when the title game will be played.

Man arrested in connection with area power outages

By JAMES HICKEY
Of the Suburban/Town News

11-3-93

WALDWICK — Waldwick Police arrested a Ho-Ho-Kus man in connection with the recent power outages that have been occurring in the Waldwick and Paramus areas.

The police arrested William J. Krywos of Ho-Ho-Kus on five counts of criminal mischief stemming from the intentional interruption of power on Oct. 22 at the PSE&G substation located in Waldwick.

According to police, Krywos, who is 20 years-old, would allegedly enter substations and flip switches that would cause power outages in the system. The most recent case resulted in a power outage at Valley Hospital in Ridgewood, said Waldwick Police Chief Daniel Lupo.

Krywos' five counts of criminal mischief stem from incidents that occurred on Feb. 10, Aug. 9 and Oct. 21, at the PSE&G substation plant at Hopper Avenue in Waldwick, and power outages that happened in Paramus on April 7 and Aug. 5 in the substation on Woodland Avenue, which services residential neighborhoods as well as the Paramus Park Mall. A total estimate of 32,000 customers of PSE&G are serviced by the substations that were effected.

Krywos was also charged with one count of possession of a destructive device after he confessed to the offense to Waldwick law enforcement officials. This charge stems from an incident that happened in the summer of 1991 when a lit pipe bomb was found on Wyckoff Avenue and was extinguished by Waldwick Patrolman John Enberg prior to detonation. The pipe bomb was found in the vicinity of the annual Lion's Club carnival held near the high school on July 10, 1991.

Diane Lucianna, lawyer for the accused, said her client pleaded not guilty on all charges. She questioned the validity of the confession about the pipe bomb. She also said that she would try to get the search of the suspect's house by the police ruled illegal as well.

Lucianna said that Krywos was a lifelong resident of Ho-Ho-Kus. He was unable to finish high school because of a neurological impairment even though he is a "genius," according to his lawyer, and this has prevented Krywos from holding down a steady job. He is currently on Social Security because of his impairment.

Lucianna did not rule out the possibility of using his disability as a defense in this case, but first wanted to pursue the legality of the police search of the home and Krywos' confession.

According to the police report, on Oct. 21, the night of the last power outage, information was received as to the possible identity of the accused. After receiving statements, a search warrant was drawn up.

The search was conducted by Lieutenant Richard Brady, Patrolman Kevin Smith and Detective Jeffery Mandel; with the assistance of the Ho-Ho-Kus Police Department the following morning at the suspect's Ho-Ho-Kus residence.

Numerous electronic items, including schematics of the PSE&G substation on Hopper Avenue, were recovered. These schematics would enable Krywos to determine which switches to flip so that power could be interrupted.

Chief Lupo said that "Krywos would climb into the substation and, several times, cut the locks to get into the substation." The chief also felt that his intentions were not malicious but that he was just looking for attention.

The substations are a major component of the utility's network that provides electrical service to Waldwick, Ridgewood, Ho-Ho-Kus, Midland Park, Saddle River and a small section of northern Paramus.

At press time, Krywos lawyer was going to a court hearing to contest the $45,000 bail for the first-time offender.

Green Acres bid passes

Controversial plan would expand White's Pond park

By JAMES HICKEY
Of the Suburban News

11-3-93

WALDWICK — A controversial plan to expand the White's Pond park area would have been scrapped if the full council was in session. Instead, the proposal to buy more land narrowly passed and is now set for public hearing, even though three council committee chairpersons oppose it.

The council voted for the resolution which will make application for a Green Acres Grant from the state which will offset part of the cost of acquiring two acres of land for the borough. The vote was 3-2 in favor of a public meeting on the proposal.

Councilman James Gibson brought the proposal before the council during his report for the Environmental Services Committee. He outlined the plan, stating that the borough was asking for a $150,000 grant from the state to buy the land and a loan of $450,000 at a very low interest rate.

Gibson also pointed out that the public would be heard on this matter. The resolution states that if the money requests are not met and the public does not want this project, the plan would be stopped before it goes any further.

At this point, Councilman Art Barthold announced his opposition to the proposal. He told the council that, as head of the Public Works Committee, he felt that buying the land should not be approved.

"We should not buy more land," said Barthold "until the land that we have is under control. As it stands now, the public works in this town can not up keep the park land in the borough right now."

He also said he had doubts about the budget estimates Gibson was quoting. He felt that the price tag for the project would wind up costing between $1 and $1.5 million.

Barthold said factors contributing to these increases include the need to buy houses that now stand on the tracts, legal costs involved in foreclosure of those houses and the leveling of the land after the houses are removed.

Councilwoman Denise Anderson also spoke out against the plan, stating that "as Financial Committee Member for the council, I can not recommend this project to this borough."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende expressed his opposition to the plan. He cited the same fiscal concerns about the project that Barthold had outlined earlier.

The council then voted, with the resolution passing. After the vote had been completed, Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra joined the council in session, explaining her late arrival was due to attendance at the Health Fair being held at the high school.

She asked if any action had been taken on the resolution for the Green Acres Grant.

Vander Wende advised that the council had passed it. She replied that she was against the proposal and would have voted against it.

Sinatra, who is head of the Health and Recreation Committee, felt that there were more pressing matters in front of the council and the borough than the need to buy land for park use, citing the need for more classroom space as an example.

Vander Wende said that she had been there, voting on the proposal would have ended in a 3-3 tie, and he would have cast the tie-breaking opposition ballot.

Gibson reiterated that the council can drop the plan if they so desire. He advised the board that they should be planning for the future and that the plan to buy the land was fiscally sound.

He also stated that he wanted the people of the borough to be heard and if they did not want the land, he would be the first person to vote against the plan.

Election 1993 WALDWICK 11-3-93

Republicans Joseph Musumeci and William Paterson won seats on Waldwick's council, handily defeating Democrat Kenneth Gardner.

Gardner's defeat gives Republicans all six council seats. Democrat Elaine Sinatra is stepping down after serving four years.

Of Waldwick's 5,744 registered voters, 4,050 — or 70.5 percent — voted.

Elected to a full three-year term after serving out a one-year unexpired term, Musumeci, 35, president of CJM Planning, an investment firm, garnered 2,457 votes. He defended the council as being fiscally prudent, after attacks during the campaign from Gardner, who said the council spent foolishly.

"I think we've been very much on budget," Musumeci said. "When we wanted money for extra crossing guards, we went to each department asking for a reduction in their budget items, so we wouldn't go over budget."

Paterson, 34, a Planning Board member who is vice president of the Automobile Association of America of North Jersey, got 2,294 votes.

He said keeping taxes under control is his first priority. "I intend to scrutinize the budget to see where we're wasting money," he said.

Paterson said his capital priorities will be the improvement of roads and sewers. "A community center is a great thing to have, but just as long as we get a grant for it," he said. "I'm completely against anything that's going to raise taxes."

Gardner, running on a platform of better financial planning for the 2.2-square-mile borough, got 1,863 votes. "I wish them a lot of success, and hope they do well for the community," he said.

A Civil War musket, with its booming sound echoing around The Adolph W. "Sonny" Santorine Football Field, was fired three times Saturday, the last time to punctuate Alex Castro's 88-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the final quarter that lifted Midland Park to its first win of the season, a 20-14 verdict over arch-rival Waldwick.

For Midland Park (1-5), it was the Panthers' third straight win over Waldwick (3-4). The 27-year series now stands at 16-10-1, in favor of Waldwick, which lost its fourth game in a row.

After the Warriors scored to tie the game at 14-14 with six minutes remaining, Joe Avagnano powered a long kick that was not caught; the ball rolled toward the Midland Park sideline. Castro, seemingly contained, picked it up, and, behind two key blocks and to the surprise of many, steamed up the sideline untouched for the rousing score.

Senior Chris Cotz, a tuba and trombone player in the Midland Park Marching Band, fired the musket (which contains only powder) into the rain-swept air, as the Parkers shocked the Warriors.

"Everything was wrong on that kickoff," said Midland Park head coach Pete Contaldi.

"Alex let the ball bounce past him; he turned his back on the defense, and he's standing there, perfectly still. Alex was kind of pinned there along the sideline, but Brent Hobart took one kid out-of-bounds, and Paul Elyia blocked another kid in toward the field. It opened up a hole, and Alex hit it; he just bursted up between the two of them."

Castro, a senior running back, also recorded 14 tackles (three solo) from his safety slot.

"Alex had the game of his career," Contaldi said. "He was running like a deer."

"This win makes the season easier on us," Contaldi said. "The fact that it was Waldwick made it a little nicer to take the win. Technically, it was an upset, but, in my mind, I didn't look at it as an upset."

"It was good to put a game together where we didn't make any big mistakes. In our losses, we've made some horrific mistakes. With the exception of Pompton Lakes (a 27-3 loss), I don't think anybody has outplayed us."

Statistically, Midland Park limited Waldwick to just 22 net yards rushing. Tailback Doug Sneyers was 17-for-26, fullback Avagnano 5-for-31 and quarterback Mike Branagh 7-for-35, but six sacks resulted in 70 yards deducted from Waldwick's 92-yard total.

Waldwick tailback Doug Sneyers is contained by Midland Park inside linebacker Matt Beneventi, who recorded four solo tackles and six assists. His linebacker partner, Doug Gillespie, had 12 solo tackles (10 in the first half) and assisted on six others. (Photo by Anthony Vassallo) Branagh completed 5-of-19 passes for 108 yards. Tight end Mike Fox caught four passes, one from Sneyers.

"Nobody has had a good running day against us," Contaldi noted. "Eugene Foster (Pompton Lakes) had 79 yards, including a 52-yard run, and Tony Muckle (Paterson Catholic) had 51 yards. Against good teams, those two have had great games."

Midland Park had 135 yards rushing — 57 on six carries by Mike Zynczenko — and 101 passing, as quarterback Jon Peet was 5-for-9. Tight end Jason Porod caught three of Peet's passes for 84 yards.

Peet hooked up with Porod for a 56-yard score in the opening quarter. The junior tossed a quick, short pass over the middle, and Porod found himself with no defender in front of him or near him. The 6-2, 180-pound Porod scored easily.

"We were running the ball, and their defense kept moving up, moving up on us," Contaldi noted. "Their linebackers were blitzing a little, and their defensive backs were spread out. That's why we threw the play-action pass."

In the third quarter, Waldwick took an 8-6 lead on Sneyers' one-yard dive and conversion run. It was Sneyers' ninth TD.

Midland Park tied it with a safety early in the fourth quarter. It was set up by sophomore Bill Saunders' 65-yard punt that was downed by Porod inside the one-yard line. On the first play, inside linebacker Matt Beneventi tackled Avagnano in the end zone.

Waldwick, helped by a pass interference call on fourth down, took a 14-8 lead on its very next play when Sneyers, on a halfback option from the MP 20, threw a perfect spiral to Fox in the end zone.

The Parkers tied it with the same personnel and same play they used for their first touchdown. Peet again found Porod for a 27-yard TD hookup. This time, though, a Waldwick defender, in position, slipped and fell on the soggy field.

"Jon Peet is a real headsy quarterback," Contaldi said. "He knows what's going on all the time and makes good decisions as to where to throw the ball. He doesn't really have a strong arm — he won't throw it 60 yards — but he can throw the short pass as well as anyone."

"Jason Porod has a real good sense of timing when he's going after the ball," Contaldi noted. "He just catches the ball and out runs everybody."

Porod also intercepted two passes, the last coming with 45 seconds left to end Waldwick's final comeback. The defensive back now has four interceptions.

Kevin Smith called for the Waldwick Fire Department and Waldwick Ambulance Corps to assist. A 21-year-old female driver suffered neck injuries. While at that location police received a report of a three-vehicle accident on Fredrick Street at 7:37 p.m. Officer Doug Moore left the scene of the first accident to handle the second accident. Injuries were reported at that location, but none requiring hospital care. After completing the first accident report Smith was dispatched at 7:58 p.m. to the Burger King on Franklin Turnpike to the scene of another accident. No injuries were reported at this accident.

He then saw the vehicle go through the light after after it changed to red. After speaking to the 31-year-old Hawthorne woman he placed her under arrest for driving while intoxicated. At police headquarters she was given a breathalyzer test administered by Ptl. Smith. Two readings of .19 blood alcohol content (BAC) were obtained, which is nearly twice the legal limit of .10. She was issued summonses for disregard of a traffic signal, failure to exhibit documents and driving while intoxicated. She was then released on her own recognizance pending a hearing in Waldwick Municipal Court.

□ Police were summoned to a Halloween Party on Lincoln Place on Oct. 30 at 11 p.m. to assist two female guests who had handcuffed themselves together. Upon arrival Sgt. Joseph Donofrio and Ptl. Mark Messner were able to remove the cuffs with the aid of a bolt cutter.

BIG TASK AWAITS WALDWICK

By BOB KURLAND
Staff Writer

Ridgewood has won six Bergen County boys soccer championships, while Waldwick is playing only its fifth tournament game in school history.

"It doesn't mean anything," Ridgewood coach Dick Bennett says of Sunday's Bergen tournament final at Bergen Community College. "I doubt if our players have even given a thought to what's happened in the past."

Waldwick, which has been invited to the tournament only twice, is looking forward to the big day. "Every one at the school is excited," says Waldwick coach George Farago, whose school has 311 students compared to Ridgewood's 1,109.

The match pits the No. 1 ranked team in The Record's Group 3-4 poll against the top-rated team in Group 1-2.

"If you have 13 or 14 good players, it doesn't matter what group you're in," says Farago. "But if we surprised some people by reaching the final, it's not that big a surprise to us because we know we have a good offense and a good defense."

Ridgewood plays a more disciplined game while the Warriors tend to hustle to the ball.

"They go with a lot of set plays," Farago says of Ridgewood, "especially on corners and direct kicks. Also, they're big and strong and mark very well. They remind me of Don Bosco [a game which Waldwick won, 2-0]."

Waldwick enters the game with freshman Emeka Ofodile in goal. Considering he wasn't the full-time goalie on the junior varsity and has played only 4½ games since being called up, the youngster has been amazing.

"His biggest attribute is his reflexes," Farago says. "And he's shown good poise under pressure. He seems very relaxed out there, nothing has rattled him."

Ofodile has been very cool while some more experienced netminders have cracked under the pressure of County competition.

"We also have two good senior goalies and a sophomore who is the JV starter," says Farago. "But it would be rather foolish not to go with the hot hand in goal."

Ridgewood will put the youngster to the test with 29-goal scorer Stefan Aps and Keith O'Connor circling him. O'Connor, who missed most of the season with a knee injury, is rounding into shape. He scored the only goal in a 1-0 State tournament victory over Passaic Tech.

"When we have Keith he settles us down on the field," says Bennett. "And he not only plays offense from the midfield, he's a strong defender. You don't have many players who play both ways as good as Keith."

Midfielder Mario Del Valle may draw the defensive assignment on O'Connor.

And with the return of O'Connor, it has enabled Bennett to move freshman John Sage to the outside where he has more room to roam.

While the Maroons probably have plans to pressure the young goalie, they must first deal with a tough defense which has allowed only 13 goals.

Surprisingly, the defense has only one senior, sweeper Mark DeMenna, who has had an outstanding tournament. But stopper Mike Jones and fullback Don Smilaowicz are only sophomores. And the other fullback, Chuck Trottere, is a junior.

It shapes up as a tough game, and for those who like to use history as a guide, you can go with Ridgewood because it has more championships than any other team. On the other hand, Waldwick can derive reassurance from the championship that Group 1 Dwight-Englewood captured two years ago.

Midland Park is no walkover

When Pete Contaldi was coaching at Columbia High School, he remembers a newspaper article one season that trumpeted the Cougars as the best 0-5 team in the state. Now the head coach at Midland Park, Contaldi might have had the best 0-5 team in Bergen County before Saturday's 20-14 win over Waldwick.

"The papers called it an upset," Contaldi says. "We don't feel that way."

The Panthers lost their first four games by a total of 21 points and self-destructed in each one. There was the final drive against Hawthorne — stymied by two off-side penalties — that ended on the 3-yard line. The five fumbles against Saddle Brook. The two excursions inside the Glen Rock 10-yard line that resulted in no points.

"Other than Pompton Lakes, no one has come close to outplaying us," Contaldi says.

And the Panthers' defense has pulled rank. It held Paterson Catholic tailback Tony Muckle to 52 yards. Eugene Foster of Pompton Lakes had a season-low 79 against MP, and 50 yards came on one carry. Waldwick's total rushing output — including sack losses — was less than 30 yards.

Credit the rugged play of inside linebackers Doug Gillespie (6-foot, 210 pounds) and Matt Beneventi (6-1, 210), who Contaldi describes as "two players who are unbelievable against the run." Gillespie had 12 unassisted tackles against Waldwick.

Bergen boys semi winners meet Sunday

By JIM McCONVILLE

An old familiar face has surfaced in the championship round of the Bergen County boys soccer tournament, and standing in the way is the new kid on the block.

Continuing its second half surge, Ridgewood will be trying to garner a seventh county title on Sunday when the Maroons face Waldwick in a 2 p.m. kickoff at Ramapo College.

The Warriors come into the contest with a 13-3-1 record and are making their first-ever appearance in the championship final. With wins over Lyndhurst, Don Bosco and Northern Highlands, they have certainly earned their way to the final.

One of the more interesting aspects of their success has been the insertion of freshman goaltender Emeka Ofodile into the lineup. He has shut out three straight tourney opponents after coming into the second half of the opening county game.

Waldwick is led offensively by Mike Raia (11 goals, 9 assists) and Seamus Halloran (7, 8), with Mario Del Valle (8, 3) also dangerous around the net.

Ridgewood (13-2) is on an eight-game winning streak, and head coach Dick Bennett says, "After the first two games, with Keith O'Connor out of the lineup and us playing poorly, I would have thought a .500 season would be a lucky finish.

"The younger kids stepped up and have contributed heavily to our success. Most were forced into the lineup, and they showed some good play and talent. Now, I have no concerns over making substitutions very early in the game with these boys."

Battle over sewage odors picks up

By JOHN TOIVONEN
WALDWICK — Straightening out odor problems at the Wyckoff Avenue sewage plant has been a tug of war between the council and the Northwest Bergen County Utilities Authority (NBCUA) and, now that the council is not sure about the effectiveness of the proposed odor fighting system, a fresh battle has begun.

According to Councilman James Gibson, a recent NBCUA-conducted sewage waste analysis showed that the odor level is 200 times above acceptable levels and this has the council doubting that the proposed scrubber system will do much to alleviate the problem.

Councilman James Gibson said, "It's no wonder that the odor could even be smelled on the steps of borough hall."

But NBCUA Consultant Paul

Malmrose thinks Gibson has mixed up his figures. He stated that the United States Environmental Protection Agency's odor detection level is 100 parts per billion and Gibson was using a standard of .47 to 1.1 parts per billion.

But before the authority proceeds with the installation of the scrubber system the council wants an analysis of the health risks posed by what is seen as a high level of hydrogen sulfide, the odor causing agent.

The council also wants the authority to consider a two-stage scrubber system that it feels may do more to combat odor.

Malmrose, however, feels that further testing is unnecessary and would only hold up an expansion project designed to increase the plant's capacity from 9.5 million gallons a day to 11.5 million gallons a day.

Malmrose also said the borough's odor problem is not severe enough to warrant a two-stage scrubber system.

"They (Waldwick) have intermittent problems. The two-stage scrubber system that's used in Rockland County is used because Rockland County has historically had problems," he said.

Malmrose added that a test of the proposed system in Pompton Lakes showed it effectively combated odors.

In recent years the NBCUA has butted heads with Waldwick authorities over odors emanating from its sewage treatment plant.

Borough officials have grown increasingly frustrated with the authority, an organization they feel is insensitive to their needs.

Jareck, Giordano vie for Bucknell

Courtney Jareck of Upper Saddle River and Jen Giordano of Waldwick are leading members of the Bucknell University women's soccer team that owned an 8-5-1 record through 14 games and qualified for the Patriot League Tournament.

Jareck, a freshman who starred at Northern Highlands Regional High in Allendale, has come on strong with three goals in the late season.

Giordano, a former Waldwick High standout, is a senior sweeper scored her first goal of the season in a 5-0 victory over Bloomsburg — a direct kick from the near midfield that cleared the defense, bounced once in front of the keeper, and then over her head and into the net.

Jareck tallied twice in the Bloomsburg victory.

Kimberly Giordano to wed Daniel Lysik

Mary and Richard Giordano of Waldwick have announced the engagement of their daughter,

Kimberly, to Daniel Lysik, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Lysik of Waldwick.

An October 1994 wedding is planned.

MARJORIE BUCHAN SEYMOUR, 70, of Ridgewood died Thursday. Before retiring eight years ago, she was a psychologist for the Waldwick Board of Education for 15 years. Waldwick goalkeeper earns praise in defeat

MAHWAH — An elderly woman clad in a Ridgewood sweat shirt made her way toward the parking lot when she spotted a group of Waldwick players standing by their bench.

"Where's that goalie?," the woman asked as she walked closer to the group. "He played a wonderful game."

After a bystander pointed out the Waldwick goalie, the woman approached him, her right hand extended. "I just wanted to say I thought you played very well," she said.

Emeka Ofodile, the Warriors' freshman goalkeeper, accepted the woman's praise, nodded politely, and even managed a smile. Ofodile was still hurting from his team's 2-1 loss to Ridgewood in the Bergen County final. But such acknowledgement for a job well-done — others approached him with similar comments — seemed to take a little of the sting out of the heartbreaking defeat.

"It's a tough way to lose," Ofodile said. "We played a good game. I made a mistake, and they scored a stupid goal."

Ofodile was referring to the game-winner, which was scored by Maroons sniper Stefan Aps about 2½ minutes into the first 10-minute overtime period. Aps drilled a low shot from about 15 yards that Ofodile couldn't handle. The keeper dropped to his knees and tried to scoop up the ball, but couldn't prevent it from slipping underneath him and into the back of the goal.

"I just lost focus and my concentration," he said. "It shouldn't have hap-

Aps, who has a team-leading 30 goals, and teammate Keith O'Connor said part of the scouting report going into the game included keeping the ball low against Ofodile, who finished the 100-minute match with 14 saves.

"[Assistant] Coach [Chet] Douglas said we should keep the shots on the ground, that the keeper has trouble with low shots," Aps said. "We kept trying and trying, and it finally worked."

Said O'Connor, who scored Ridgewood's other goal in the second half, "It turned out to be a good scouting report. But he [Ofodile] still played a hell of a game. He's a good keeper. We kept hearing he was kind of a new keeper, almost a rookie. But he really doesn't play like a freshman."

A DAY TO REMEMBER FOR RIDGEWOOD

Boys win in OT

By JOE CHESSARI Correspondent

11-8-93

MAHWAH — Keith O'Connor's legs were caked in mud and the right side of his face was smeared with dirt from the Ramapo College soccer field. He slowly tore the tape off his knee and removed his dirt-stained shin guards.

"I'm getting too old for this," he joked.

O'Connor was understandably tired from playing soccer in the blustery cold for 100 minutes Sunday afternoon. But the chilly conditions were tolerable for O'Connor and the rest of his Ridgewood teammates, who had reason to celebrate.

The Maroons, on the strength of Stefan Aps' 30th goal of the season in overtime, captured the school's seventh Bergen County boys soccer championship with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over upstart Waldwick. Aps scored 2:28 into the first of two 10-minute overtime periods, a low shot that was mishandled by Waldwick freshman keeper Emeka Ofo-dile.

"This game went a little too long for my liking," O'Connor said. "I remember playing in the final when I was a freshman. I thought I could run all day. Today, I feel like the oldest person in the world. The regulation game was fine, but I started really feeling it in the first overtime."

O'Connor, who spent the first month of the season nursing a knee injury, played his usually strong two-way game. The senior captain aided his midfielders on defense while generating offensive rushes with transition passes.

"It wasn't easy out there," said O'Connor, who gave his team a 1-0 lead with 9:44 remaining in regulation. "I think we did some good things, but I give Waldwick all the credit in the world for playing a strong game. Like us, they deserved to be here. I don't think anyone expected the final to be us against them."

The road to the 22nd Bergen championship game was littered with the remains of several highly ranked teams. Ridgewood (14-2) and Waldwick (13-4-2) each claimed its share of victims.

The Maroons, who last won the title in 1990, defeated Pascack Hills, 4-1; former three-time champion Ramapo, 2-0; and second-seeded Pascack Valley, 2-1. The Warriors, who never advanced into the semifinals before this season, posted victories over Lyndhurst, 3-2; four-time champion Don Bosco, 2-0; and Northern Highlands, 3-0. Highlands knocked off top-seeded Tenafly in the quarters. Only two teams were seeded.

Holy Family trimmed Waldwick, 2-1. Jeanne Kehrberger scored for the Warriors in the second half. 11-10-93

"I'd say this was a battle of two Cinderella teams," O'Connor said. "It was a tournament of upsets."

Dick Bennett, who has coached Ridgewood to all seven of its Bergen crowns, said the competitive road to the final only helped.

"We played a heck of a schedule to get here," he said. "I've often asked myself this season how we're doing it. Then I realize this team is probably tougher and gutsier than many teams I've had. They just know how to win."

Waldwick clean air
 Editor, The Record:
 The victory of the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air in its battle with the Northwest Bergen County Utility Authority is the culmination of a yearlong effort by the coalition to force the Authority to cease polluting the air from its Waldwick sewage treatment plant.
 Our successful effort is testament to both the power of organized community action and the stubbornness of governmental authorities, which too often need to be coerced into addressing the concerns of the people they were established to serve.
 Initially, the coalition's complaints of noxious odors were minimized and denied by the Authority. Although the Authority had already been fined by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy and ordered to stop polluting the air, the Authority continued to refer only to the "potential of odors" and failed to file the necessary information with its applications to install state-of-the-art odor controls.
 It took the organized, determined actions of affected and concerned homeowners to get the attention of the Authority. Through protests at Authority meetings, persistent complaints to relevant county and state agencies and, finally, the threat to block the proposed expansion of the plant, the people of Waldwick and surrounding towns will soon be breathing cleaner air.

 Community action clearly can make an important difference. It's unfortunate, however, when citizens are required to devote their substantial time and energy to matters that should be addressed in the normal course of government.

Council holds up payment

11-10-93
Feels contractor working on borough well project not meeting specifications

By JAMES HICKEY
Of the Suburban News

WALDWICK—The Waldwick Council agreed to withhold two vouchers from Don Car Construction Company until work contracted for is completed.

The discussion started when Borough Administrator Gary Kratz advised council members that he had two vouchers ready to pay the construction company, but is holding back on payment based on a report from Berge Tombalakian representing borough engineers, Boswell McClave Engineering Company.

Among the uncompleted projects that were discussed are a flow meter for Well #7 and a stripping project that needs to be completed on all borough wells.

The flow meter has not been replaced and cannot be reused because it does not conform to borough specifications and state mandated law.

The old meter worked with mercury and this type has been outlawed by the state. Moreover, the flow meter must be able to be remotely read. Data on flow rate and other measurements for all other borough wells are currently read at a central location. This capability is mandated by the borough, not the state.

Tombalakian also said that they he felt Car was having trouble meeting the flow meter specifications and had submitted material on a substitute unit to Tom Jacklin, who oversees the flow meters.

Kratz said he had been advised by Jacklin that he would have problems with the flow meter that Car was proposing since it could not be read from a remote site, among other things.

Tombalakian detailed for the council progress on the stripper project. The stripper that Car is contracted to install "volatilizes" into the air organic material that may be found in the well water.

Waldwick's system must remove 99.5 percent of any chemicals in the water. The borough is currently meeting state and federal requirements for the chemical levels in the system.

The borough has been ready to begin these tests since September. The test involves shutting down a well so that it can be injected with a controlled amount of chemicals. The stripper is required to remove 99.5 percent of the chemical content added to the water in the test.

The council agreed that Car should be held to the specifications set forth by the state, the borough and as spelled out in the contract.

Councilman Art Barthold asked if the contract called for the meters to have a remote reading capability. Tombalakian assured him that was the case and Barthold replied "Get us the same thing we had before the job started."

On the matter of payment to Car, Kratz told council members that he had two vouchers ready to pay the contractor for work completed — one for more than $25,000 and another for $29,300.

The council suggested Kratz hold off on payment to a later date until all the work is completed on the project, or until the borough is satisfied and approves payment.

Council nixes land grab

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — After a heated debate Mayor Rick Vander Wende cast a tie-breaker vote Tuesday to shoot down a land preservation grant application.

A supportive vote by the mayor would have called for a public hearing to discuss a $450,000 state loan and a $150,000 grant to preserve a two-acre stretch of undeveloped land next to White's Pond, but he didn't see enough council support to put it in front of the public.

"I don't think we can persuade the public unless we are in favor of it," he said.

But Councilman James

Gibson said that not moving on the land will leave it open to developers and this will cost the taxpayers even more than a preservation project.

Gibson estimated that a 22-unit development on the land would cost taxpayers $196,218 a year to provide sewage, schooling and other services to the residents of the units.

"I appreciate this town and I want the people of this town to appreciate it after me. Cluster development will be a burden on the taxpayer from the day it's up till the day we die," he said.

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra, however, feels that Gibson's thinking would push the town towards grabbing up every bit of undeveloped land to protect it from developers.

Sinatra also said that she had looked into grants for land preservation, but that a $450,000 loan was too much for the taxpayers to bear.

"If this were a grant I would want it tomorrow. I don't see taking another loan," she said.

Councilmen Joseph Musumeci and Edwin Sherman joined Gibson in supporting the preservation application. Councilman Arthur Barthold and Councilwoman Denise Anderson also voted to stop the application process.

911: Waldwick pulls out

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Waldwick had planned to join Ridgewood for a shared 911 emergency dispatch service, but a better deal came along and the borough council voted unanimously to go with Paramus.

The Ridgewood plan would have cost Waldwick $1 per resident, while the Paramus plan will only cost 25 cents a head, saving the borough $7,318.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said there will be no change in borough dispatch services with the exception of the added 911 service.

This move will make Waldwick the fifth town to join Paramus in the shared service. Oradell, New Milford, Rochelle Park and Tenafly have already approved inter-local agreements and River Edge is expected to come on board later this month.

To prepare for a five-person 911 staff, workers have begun demolishing two walls in the Paramus police station. The project will be funded by a $50,000 county grant. The county deadline for 911 to be operational is March 1, 1994.

The only criticism came from former Mayor Frank McKenna who favors 911 service, but feels the council needs to set up special public meetings to inform the public about 911.

"If we are going into an interlocal (service agreement) it doesn't hurt to let us know what you plan on doing," he said.

Vander Wende, however, said that the council has done a great deal to inform the public.

"We've spent many long hours in the chambers discussing the matter in front of newspapers. We've had several meetings with Waldwick community leaders."

Borough Administrator Gary Kratz added that while the borough has no plans to regionalize all dispatch services it has conducted studies on the matter.

Waldwick pulled within 13-7 in the third quarter when Branagh threw a 54-yard touchdown pass to tight end Mike Fox (five catches, 138 yards). Sneyers added the extra point.

Kristen Danihy pursues goal of 1996 Olympic Games spot

11-14-93

Any aspiring Olympian must make a big commitment, and Waldwick's Kristen Danihy is no exception. Kristen is currently on a four-month stay in Lake Placid, N.Y., with the U.S. national team handball team, with the goal of competing in the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta.

Team handball is a sport that has a long tradition but gets very little national attention in this country. It is aggressive, fast-paced and physically demanding.

Kristen, who will be 24 in January, is a former basketball standout at Waldwick High and Slippery Rock, Pa., State College. She won a bronze medal in team handball at the U.S. Olympic Festival in the Minneapolis Metrodome in 1990 and competed in the U.S. Olympic Festival in the San Antonio Convention Center this year.

At Lake Placid, the team has intense practices twice a day, morning and afternoon. Team members had to give up their jobs and receive room and board while training.

Kristen has taught in Atlanta and was an athletic trainer in high school and the Health Care South Rehabilitation Center.

Team handball players combine the skills of soccer, basketball, lacrosse and hockey. Kristen plays the center back position that is likened to the point guard in basketball or the quarterback in football.

131-foot court — 1½ times the size of a basketball court — and it is one of the most popular sports in the world. In Europe, team handball is the second most popular sport, behind soccer. It has great spectator appeal.

A goalie protects a hockey-style net within the sanctuary of a 19-foot, 8-inch semicircle, about the distance of a college basketball 3-point line.

From the perimeter, six offensive players try to hurl or spike the ball — slightly bigger than a softball — past the goalie. The offensive players are allowed three steps, a dribble, and another three steps before they must pass or shoot.

But the six defenders are allowed to physically block the shooters. An ordinary block in team handball is much like a flagrant foul in basketball.

"It's very physical," Kristen said. "You're allowed to hit people, and Americans like their sports aggressive."

KRISTEN DANIHY

Kristen calls it a "great 'American' sport. Unfortunately, in this country kids don't grow up dreaming of playing team handball in the Olympics. There are no high school or college teams."

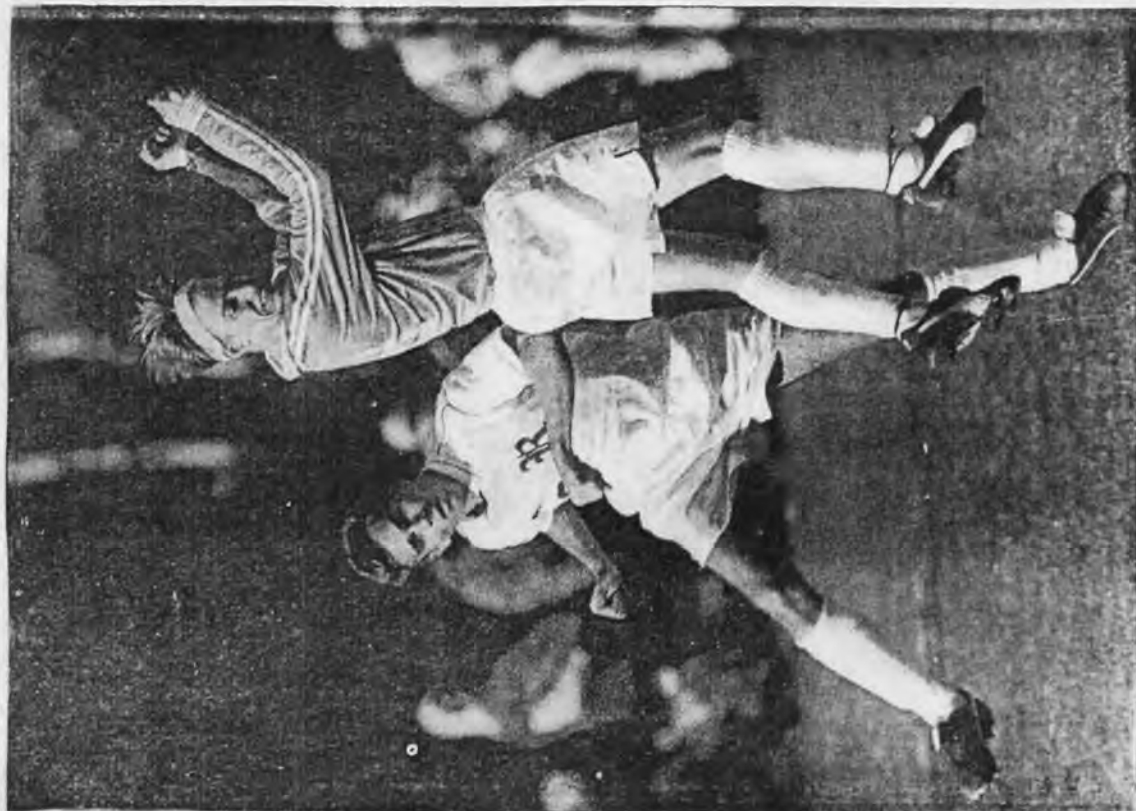

She started playing team handball five years ago for a club team at Slippery Rock. The opponents were Canadian teams or visiting European clubs. Kristen says, "It's addicting. It's a fun sport to play, and once you get into it, you don't want to give it up."

Kristen will be able to get a part-time job after the Lake Placid training, but future training and trips (including a three-week tour of the Far East) rule out full-time employment. Sponsors can make the difference in enabling her to continue the pursuit of her goal.

Many sponsors could team together to provide her living expenses, which she figures to be $600 a month.

Tax-deductible contributions can be sent to: U.S. Team Handball Federation, 1750 E. Boulder, Colorado Springs, CO 80909. It should be indicated that they are for Kristen Danihy.

Some 30 members of the North Jersey Masters Track and Field Club will travel together by bus for the race.

The Marathon will be covered live by WABC-TV, Channel 7, 9 a.m.-2 p.m., a presentation of ABC Sports.

Gloria Averbuch of the New York Road Runners Club, race organizer, will report the event on WFAN-AM radio along with New Jersey's well-known distance runner Tom Fleming.

Brian McCourt, 32, a Midland Park native who now lives in Wyckoff, has been one of the top New Jersey finishers in recent years. Chaz Hummel of Denville is one of the top Garden State contestants.

One of the female favorites is Ann Marie Letko of Glen Gardner, the women's open mile winner in the 1993 Ridgewood Run and past 5K champion in the event. She made the U.S.

Raia's timely goals send Waldwick to State final

Correspondent

11-16-93

GROUP 1 BOYS SOCCER

CHATHAM — This time it took less than 54 minutes for Waldwick to score. By the Warriors' postseason standards, this is what is known as "scoring early."

Then Waldwick scored a second goal in Monday's Group 1 State boys soccer semifinal against Whippany Park. By Warriors standards, producing two goals in one playoff game is what is known as "scoring big."

"It was nice to score a goal in regulation time," senior forward Mike Raia said after his two second-half goals led Waldwick to a 2-0 victory at Chatham's Cougar Field. "I'm sick of overtime and penalty kicks."

Waldwick (16-4-2) will shoot for its first New Jersey State Inter-scholastic Athletic Association Group 1 title when it faces defending champion Haddonfield (22-1-1) on 6 p.m. Thursday at Trenton State.

If Waldwick's final postseason match is similar to its first four, it might take more than two 40-minute halves for someone to score. The Warriors' first three victories were by 1-0 scores, with the first victory settled by penalty kicks and the third decided in overtime.

"I knew we would get one before [overtime], because we were dominating them," said Raia, whose goal in the second overtime Friday gave Waldwick a 1-0 victory over Midland Park and its first Sectional championship.

"I knew we were going to score against them, because we were the stronger team," said senior sweeper Mark DeMenna. "After what happened in the first half, I knew we would score."

What happened in the first half was Waldwick dominated the action and had several scoring chances, while Whippany Park (14-5-1) had only one. The second half offered more of the same as the Warriors controlled the action. One Waldwick goal might as well have been five, because the Warriors' defense has been spectacular in the postseason. Waldwick has not allowed a goal in 360 playoff minutes. The Warriors have allowed only 15 goals all season.

DeMenna, sophomore stopper Mike Jones, and junior fullbacks Don Smialowicz and Chuck Trotter kept the pressure off freshman goalkeeper Emeka Ofodile, who needed to make just three saves for the shutout.

Raia scored his 16th goal of the season with one minute remaining. He scored on an easy breakaway after Whippany Park goalie Ian Wong raced out to chase down a loose ball, it was deflected back toward goal, and Raia ran it down and rolled it home.

"It always helps to have an extra insurance goal," Raia said. "The games have been too close."

"Maybe we can score one in the first half [Thursday]," Waldwick coach George Farago said. "Hopefully we can score a little sooner and more often."

Waldwick opts out on 911

Decides to join Paramus PSAP net instead of Ridgewood system

By JOHN TOIVONEN
Of North Jersey Newspapers

WALDWICK — Waldwick had planned to join Ridgewood for a shared 911 emergency dispatch service, but a better deal came along and the borough council voted unanimously to go with Paramus' Public Safety Answering Point (PSAP).

The Ridgewood plan would have cost Waldwick $1 per resident, while the Paramus plan will only cost 25 cents a head, saving the borough $7,318.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said there will be no change in borough dispatch services with the exception of the added 911 service.

This move will make Waldwick the fifth town to join Paramus in the shared service. Oradell, New Milford, Rochelle Park and Tenafly have already approved inter-local agreements and River Edge is expected to come on board later

To prepare for a five-person 911 staff, workers have begun demolishing two walls in the Paramus police station. The project will be funded by a $50,000 county grant. The county deadline for 911 to be operational is March 1, 1994.

The only criticism came from former Mayor Frank McKenna who favors 911 service, but feels the council needs to set up special public meetings to inform the public about 911.

"If we are going into an inter-local (service agreement) it doesn't hurt to let us know what you plan on doing," he said.

Vander Wende, however, said that the council has done a great deal to inform the public.

"We've spent many long hours in the chambers discussing the matter in front of newspapers. We've had several meetings with Waldwick community leaders."

heated debate Mayor Vander Wende cast a tie-breaking vote to shoot down a land preservation grant application.

A supportive vote by the mayor would have called for a public hearing to discuss a $450,000 state loan and a $150,000 grant to preserve a two-acre stretch of undeveloped land next to White's Pond, but he didn't see enough council support to put it in front of the public.

"I don't think we can persuade the public unless we are in favor of it," he said.

But Councilman James Gibson said that not moving on the land will leave it open to developers and this will cost the taxpayers even more than a preservation project.

Gibson estimated that a 22-unit development on the land would cost taxpayers $196,218 a year to provide sewage, schools and other municipal services to the residents of the units.

"I appreciate this town and I want the people of this town to appreciate it after me. Cluster development will be a burden on the taxpayer from the day it's up 'til the day we die," he said.

Councilwoman Elaine Sinatra, however, feels that Gibson's thinking would push the town towards grabbing up every bit of undeveloped land to protect it from developers.

Sinatra also said that she had looked into grants for land preservation, but that a $450,000 loan was too much for the taxpayers to bear.

"If this were a grant I would want it tomorrow. I don't see taking another loan," she said.

Councilmen Joseph Musumeci and Edwin Sherman joined Gibson in supporting the preservation application. Councilman Arthur Barthold and Councilwoman Denise Anderson joined Sinatra in voting down the application process.

Waldwick plans

The 75th Anniversary Steering Committee met over the summer with Mayor Rick Vander Wende to discuss town-wide events to take place throughout 1994 to celebrate the town's 75 years.

A successful effort

11-17-93
The victory of the Waldwick Coalition for Clean Air in its battle with the Northwest Bergen County Utility Authority is the culmination of a yearlong effort by the coalition to force the authority to cease polluting the air from its Waldwick sewage treatment plant.

Our successful effort is testament to both the power of organized community action and the stubbornness of governmental authorities, which too often need to be coerced into addressing the concerns of the people they were established to serve.

Initially, the Coalition's complaints of noxious odors were minimized and denied by the authority. Although the authority had already been fined by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy and ordered to stop polluting the air, the authority continued to refer only to the "potential of odors" and failed to file the necessary information with its applications to install state-of-the-art odor controls.

It took the organized, determined actions of affected and concerned homeowners to get the attention of the authority. Through protests at authority meetings, persistent complaints to relevant county and state agencies and, finally, the threat to block proposed expansion of the plant, the people of Waldwick and surrounding towns will soon be breathing cleaner air.

Community action clearly makes an important difference. It's unfortunate, however, when citizens are required to devote their substantial time and energy to matters that should be addressed in the normal course of government.

Elmwood Park takes a late hit

By BARRY GRAMLICH
Staff Writer

In an unprecedented and highly controversial decision, the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association has stripped Elmwood Park High School of its football playoff berth because of the violations of another school.

Paterson Catholic informed the state's scholastic governing body Wednesday that it had used an ineligible player in four games — not three, as originally reported by the school. The resulting forfeit of Paterson Catholic's win against Waldwick cost Elmwood Park and Paterson Catholic spots in the playoffs and enabled Pascack Hills to jump past Elmwood Park for the fourth and final seed in Group 2, Section 1.

First-year Elmwood Park head coach Tom DeMaio expressed his frustration and anger Wednesday. His team finished with a 6-2 record on Saturday's playoff cutoff date.

"This is a case where a rule was used as a weapon, not as an act to punish," De-Maio said. "This is a big strain on me and my staff. The State never considered us in this matter."

Elmwood Park will not go down without a fight and plans to appeal today to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education Mary Lee Fitzgerald.

"Our boys are innocent bystanders, and we have an obligation to the team," said Elmwood Park Superintendent of Schools Mel Persi. "We realize the NJSIAA has its rules and feels it is implementing them, but we shouldn't be penalized for something we're not involved with.

"Our attorneys will move full speed ahead. The relief we're seeking is to compete in the playoffs. The state association owes it to us."

Elmwood Park was informed of the decision at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, and Persi addressed the football team after school. "The tension and disappointment in that room was very sad," he said.

Elmwood Park wound up losing two power points in the State's complicated ranking system because of two Paterson Catholic victories that were reversed. The Crusaders originally beat out Pascack Hills by 1½ points for the No. 4 seed.

With its second forfeit, Paterson Catholic's record dropped to 3-5, and the Crusaders were eliminated from the Parochial Group 2 playoffs. The winner of No. 3

Pingry vs. No. 2 Pope John will play top-seeded Marist.

Because the findings were revealed three days before the playoffs, Pascack Hills and top-seeded Ridgefield Park will have an extra week to prepare and will play their first-round game on Dec. 4. The Group 2, Section 1 championship game will be played Dec. 11.

NJSIAA associate director Jim Loper spoke in a textbook tone about the ruling.

"The regulations do not allow us to change the number of teams entitled to participate," Loper said Wednesday. "The only stipulation that would allow for the expansion of the bracket would be to accommodate an undefeated and untied team."

"If we had known about this earlier, it wouldn't have been an issue. It was simply a matter of timeliness."

Which is exactly why Persi and his administration are appealing.

"Had they told us straight-up in the beginning, OK, but they told us Monday we're in, told us Tuesday we're in, and told us Wednesday we're out," Persi said. "We prepared for the playoffs for three days."

"We'll go at it with our attorneys and I think we'll prevail."

Pascack Hills reportedly was tipped off that Paterson Catholic's ineligible player competed against Waldwick with a different jersey number. Waldwick coach Terry Byrne allowed Pascack Hills coach Steve Goepel and his staff to view the game film, and the player was spotted at a key position.

Paterson Catholic's administration then viewed the film and reported the additional infraction to the NJSIAA on Wednesday morning.

"We give Paterson Catholic credit for admitting this," said Pascack Hills athletic director Mike O'Brien. "We handled it in a proper manner by going to them first. They notified the State, and this was a State decision, but we look like the bad guys. It's sad that there's no winners in this thing."

"This is not an Elmwood Park-Pascack Hills thing," said Goepel. "I feel bad for their kids; I spent three great years there as an assistant. I thought the State might go with five teams."

Elmwood Park athletic director Joe Castiglia said he plans to do some detective work.

"If whoever was aware of the violations had proof of it, why did they wait so long?" he said. "That's the guilty person."

PATERSON CATHOLIC'S APOLOGY

'IT'S ONE OF THOSE PAINFUL LESSONS'

By GREGORY SCHUTTA
Staff Writer

RP coach sympathetic

After learning of the State's decision in the Paterson Catholic ineligibility case, Ridgefield Park football coach Tony Gonzalez felt more than the loss of a first-round playoff opponent. Gonzalez is an Elmwood Park resident.

"I live there and I'm pretty angry with what happened to those kids," said Gonzalez, whose team was to have played Elmwood Park in the first round before the ruling. "If this information about an ineligible player was available all year, then the guilty party is the adults. The only ones who get hurt here are the kids.

"Elmwood Park should be playing Pascack Hills this weekend and we should be playing the winner."

The New Jersey State In-terscholastic Athletic Association honored Gonzalez's request to move his first-round game with Pascack Hills to Dec. 4. Ridgefield Park had prepared for Elmwood Park since Sunday.

"In my conscious I have to prepare my kids the best I can," Gonzalez said. "There's nothing unfair about that."

— BARRY GRAMLICH

and discovered he had played in a victory over Waldwick wearing a different jersey.

"As soon as I found out, I immediately informed the State," Sister Perez said. "The coach had revamped the entire team before the Waldwick game, removing players for lack of dedication, and jersey numbers were changed in the process."

The second forfeited win gave the Cougars a losing record, dropping them from the Parochial Group 2 tournament, and because of the State's complicated power point system, dropping Elmwood Park out of the Group 2 tournament.

"I'm embarrassed for the school and the children, and I called the Elmwood Park principal to apologize," Sister Perez said. "This was not done in a dishonest fashion. We thought we were playing a child who was eligible."

The player in question transferred to PC from Kennedy in September with 25 credits, one class short of the 27½ required by the State for athletic eligibility.

"It is our policy with all transfer students from public schools to waive the religion requirement, which is five credits," Sister Perez said. "If a child comes in short a history course, he will have to make it up the following summer because it's a requirement. In our eyes, he was a 30-credit student and eligible."

But not everybody saw it that way.

"We received an anonymous call after the Waldwick game that this kid may have been ineligible," Ferraro said.

"The athletic director came to me with this and I told him to remove the child from the team until we can check this out," Sister Perez said. "We don't want to play games with the State. I told him to make sure this all remains above board."

But less than a week later, the player transferred back to Kennedy, and Sister Perez figured there was nothing left to investigate.

The NJSIAA thought there was.

"When we informed the State of our policy, they told us, 'You can't do that,'" Sister Perez said.

So when the NJSIAA called last week and asked which games the player in question had played in, Ferraro told Sister Perez three. She informed the NJSIAA, which then figured in the three Cougar forfeits and issued its playoff pairings on Monday with Paterson Catholic and Elmwood Park still included.

"But there was still some outside noise that this player had played in more games," Ferraro said. "So we went back to the films and discovered that he indeed played against Waldwick. I'd like to reaffirm that nothing dishonest was intended here. We believed this athlete was eligible."

"It's one of those painful lessons you learn," Sister Perez said. "But the sad part of this whole story is that it hurts the children. In athletics, we should be here to help the children. What upsets me is that this has been blown so out of proportion it simply hurts everybody."

Paterson Catholic principal Sister Gloria Perez publicly apologized for any suffering or disappointment her school's use of an ineligible football player caused, but she stressed that the problem could have been handled much sooner with much less fuss.

"There were people out there who knew about this child from the very beginning," she said Wednesday after the Cougars forfeited a second win, dropping themselves and Elmwood Park out of the NJSIAA football playoffs. "Not one of those people had the courtesy to call us. They called a lot of other coaches. They called the State. But they sat back and waited until it was too late for us to check into it. Let's take a look at some of the adults who weren't being honest here either."

Originally, Paterson Catholic had told the NJSIAA that the sophomore fullback-linebacker had played in three games — one of them a win against Saddle Brook — and forfeited all three games (The Record sports department has decided not to publish the name of the ineligible athlete).

After allegations surfaced that the player had played in a fourth game, athletic director Tom Ferraro and coach Lou Mathis went back to the films

Council will pay, then fine company renovating 3 wells

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — Despite frustration over late work on borough wells, the council has decided to pay Doncar Inc. $54,000, stipulating that when the final bill comes in, a $4,050 fine will be exacted.

Doncar Inc. was originally contracted to renovate three wells by March 1993, but the council extended the deadline to October and Doncar was late 23 days on the new deadline.

After hearing testimony from the President of Doncar, John Headley, the council decided to reduce the late fine from $10,350 to $4,050.

Headley said that he had fixed problems at one of the wells at no extra cost to the borough so that it would work during the summer and that he felt the council was not treating him fairly. He also said he should not be held accountable for sewer damage that occurred during the renovation, for which the council was deducting $7,000.

Headley said, "I believe Doncar went out of their way to save the town money. I'd like to have my invoice paid and the $7,000 added back to it ... if that is property damage that will be handled by insurance."

The council however, decided to hold Doncar responsible for the sewer damage and will deduct $7,000 from its check.

The council was also concerned about the quality of Doncar's drainage work.

Department of Public Works Superintendent Ray Schmidt said, "I've never seen any sloppier work than I've seen on that drainage. We don't accept work like that in this town."

Borough Engineer Rick McGrath said that the drainage work should sit until spring when the borough will be in a better position to evaluate it.

Mobile classrooms mulled

By JOHN TOIVONEN 11-18-93

WALDWICK — To meet the needs of a growing elementary school enrollment, the board of education is moving towards renting two or three mobile classroom units by September 1994.

Superintendent Patrick Piegari said the move would be temporary, allowing the board a year or two to review enrollment figures before installing permanent structures.

Piegari added that two units would be installed at Crescent Elementary School and that probably one would be put up at Traphagen Elementary School.

When the board installs permanent structures, it will have to choose between on-site construction or pre-fabricated units.

The board will meet on Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. to finalize expansion plans.

Waldwick set to make its stand

Don't expect tonight's Group 1 State boys soccer final to be a high scoring affair. At least not if Waldwick has its way.

The way the Warriors see it, their defense is their best offense.

"Our defense has been so solid lately it sort of gives the team some confidence that we can hold the other team to a goal," said Waldwick coach George Farago, whose team will face defending champion Haddonfield at 6 p.m. at Trenton State College.

"I think our players have faith that our defense won't let us fall behind by much. I think we're playing with more confidence than in the early part of the season. Once you've been through the [Bergen] County tournament and played some really strong competition, it's kind of like, how much tougher can it get."

That's the key question. Farago knows little, if anything, about Haddonfield (22-1-1), which defeated Pompton Lakes in last year's Group 1 final. He expects a feeling out process for the first five minutes of the game. What he's heard, however, plays right into the Warriors' hands.

"I heard they don't score a lot, but they don't give up much, either," Farago said.

Waldwick (16-4-2), making its first State final appearance after winning its first sectional crown and finishing second in the County's, has 11 shutouts, most of them in the second half of the season, while outscoring the opposition, 54-15.

Senior sweeper Mark De Menna, sophomore stopper back Mike Jones, and junior fullbacks Chuck Trottere and Don Smialowicz are the foundation of the defense. Freshman goalie Emeka Ofodile, outstanding in his own right, has been the beneficiary.

"De Menna's really come on strong for us this year," said Farago. "In the County tournament, he came into his own and played great soccer, defensively and offensively, I might add."

Not to be outdone, the offense is led by senior forward Mike Raia, who scored his 15th and 16th goals in Monday's State semifinal. Raia, who also has nine assists, has three goals in his last two games.

While he's optimistic of his team's chances tonight, one thing that does concern Farago is the size of the field at Trenton State, which also happens to be Astro-turf. Having not played on an artificial surface, the Warriors got a crash course by practicing Wednesday at the Eagles Soccerplex in Carlstadt.

So with both teams being defensive-oriented, Farago is in agreement that the first goal scored could quite possibly stand up as the difference.

"It will depend on when that first goal is scored. And how stingy their defense is," said Farago. "I'm thinking, and my players would agree, that we can probably stop them from scoring. Then let's see if we can score on them."

Branagh passes for 255 yards, two TDs, as Waldwick snaps slide with 13-13 tie

By BRIAN FARRELL

It was a gut check, said Waldwick head coach Terry Byrne about his football team's comeback Saturday against Garfield. Trailing 13-0 at half-time, the Warriors rallied for a 13-13 tie that kicked their four-game losing streak.

Once 3-0, Waldwick (3-4-1) now has a chance to finish at 500 Thanksgiving Day at Mahwah in a 10 a.m. start.

"The kids came up tough in the second half," Byrne said. "We were really proud of the way they stuck in there and came back."

"A tie feels a lot better than losing," said fullback-linebacker Joe Avagnano.

Quarterback Mike Branagh, tight end Mike Fox and tailback Doug Sneyers saw to it that their team would get up from its slide. Branagh, a 6-foot-3 junior, completed 14-of-24 passes for a season-high 255 yards and two touchdowns. Fox caught five tosses for 138 yards, while Sneyers snared eight throws for 103 yards.

Air Branagh was the answer to Garfield's imposing front line, for it was tough for Waldwick to cross that barrier, as the Warriors hit a wall that would yield just 32 yards rushing on 20 carries. The net result, though, was minus three yards, as the Boilermakers sacked Branagh four times for 35 yards in losses.

Branagh was the Warriors' leading ground gainer, picking up 24 yards, including a 17-yard run, in five attempts.

"They were getting in the gaps and took away our inside running game," Byrne noted. "It was hard to block them; they are very sizeable kids. They were pushing us around in the middle. Once we got Mike in a moving pocket in the second half, he was fine."

Garfield didn't sustain many drives, as the Boilermakers rushed for 130 yards on 35 carries, and quarterback Tom Ryan completed 5-of-12 passes for only 24 yards and was intercepted twice. A halfback option pass also was intercepted.

With 4:11 left in the game, Branagh found Sneyers along the Waldwick sideline and hooked up with the fleet senior for a 39-yard scoring pass. Sneyers hauled in the high spiral at about the four-yard line, took one step and dove into the end zone for his 10th TD of the season and a tie game.

"I was doing a corner pattern and slowed down," Sneyers said. "There were two defenders behind me, so I just dove for it."

"Doug is hard to stop, if Michael gets the time," Byrne said. "He's got the touch on the ball. Just give him the time, and he will hit his receivers."

Sneyers, pressed into duty as the placement kicker due to a hamstring injury to Adam Wolfson, saw his extra-point kick for the lead blocked.

"The timing was off on that kick," Byrne said. "The snap was a little high, so now the holder is behind and so is the kicker. The placement wasn't clean, and that caused Doug to get under the ball. He didn't hit it clean."

"Doug was making them in practice," Byrne noted. "He was popping them in there; he made ten in-a-row."

"I'm looking to keep my kicking career going on Thanksgiving," Sneyers said.

Maybe Sneyers will be driving the team bus to Mahwah, too.

Waldwick's tying touchdown drive was instigated by cornerback Rich Parks' second interception of the game with 7:11 remaining. The junior, in heavy traffic, made the pick on a leaping catch in the end zone and ran the ball out 19 yards.

The two other key plays in the 81-yard drive that took three minutes were Sneyers' leaping catch over the middle for 10 yards and Fox, over the middle and alone, hauling in a 24-yard pea from Branagh.

Waldwick never saw the ball again until there were four seconds left, for Garfield, starting at its 35, drove to the 15 on fourth down with nine seconds remaining. The Boilermakers tried a 34-yard field goal, but the snap was fumbled by the holder and recovered by the opportune Sneyers.

Phil Major, playing safety, got Waldwick heading in the right direction when he recovered a fumble at the Warrior 46 late in the third quarter. After two incompletions, Branagh, on a broken play, fired a long spiral to a wide-open Fox near the Garfield sideline. Fox caught it at about the 18 and then dodged the safety to run free into the end zone. Sneyers booted the extra point.

"When I caught it, I stepped back and slammed him out of bounds with my left arm," the 6-foot-3, 205-pound Fox said. "I thought he was going to catch me. On a prior catch, I tried to run past him, and he came up and pushed me out-of-bounds. So I learned a lesson, there."

"Mike was in a moving pocket and was trying to throw short, but couldn't," Byrne noted. "He made an adjustment and sprinted out the other way, and Mike Fox made a nice move on the safety. Fox is going to be a good one; he hasn't hit his potential yet."

"Mike was on Saturday; he was throwing the ball real well," Fox said.

"Both Doug and Mike helped me out by getting open and coming back for the ball, too," Branagh said.

Parks 'ballhawks' on defense

If you see a hawk flying around the Waldwick secondary with an eagle eye, you've probably spotted Rich Parks.

The 5-foot-8, 150-pound junior came up big again from his cornerback slot Saturday by intercepting two passes, the last of which sent the Warriors on their 81-yard march late in the game to tie Garfield, 13-13.

"Rich is a ballhawk," said coach Terry Byrne. "He has a good nose for the football. He's the player we always have in position to recover our on-sides kicks, because he is quick."

Parks' secondary partner, sophomore safety Chris Heid, had Waldwick's other interception, his second.

"Chris is a ballplayer," Byrne said. "He's a very intelligent, coachable kid. Plus, he's very quick."

Senior nose guard Rob Brenkert is out with a chronic back ailment. Taking his place for the second straight game was 5-9, 190-pound sophomore Erik Anderson.

"The kids call him 'Bull,'" Byrne said. "Erik is a rugged kid and is tough inside, defensively."

The Warriors' two middle linebackers, Joe Avagnano and Josh Thompson, each had seven solo tackles.

"We were fired up, and our defensive coach, Kevin Kilduff, was very happy with the way we played," Avagnano said.—FARRELL

WALDWICK NOT UP TO AN UPSET

EWING — When Waldwick marched to the sideline Thursday night, its fans greeted the team with a loud round of applause for a great season that ended in the championship game at the hands of defending Group 1 champion Haddonfield, 1-0.

"I'm proud of them," said coach George Farago. "A lot of people didn't think we'd be here, and playing a champion that close, that's great."

The lone score on the Trenton State turf came midway through the second half. It started with a Justin Reed throw-in that Nate Doran crossed into the box.

"Dan [Tyrell] headed the ball and the goalie stopped it, but it bounced off him," said midfielder Greg Wright, who pounced on the rebound and put it into the empty left corner.

"I don't know why I was so open," said Wright. "That's only my second goal of the season."

The other came in the semifinals, so after a seasonlong scoring drought he finished with two goals in the two critical games. "Hopefully I'll have to start next season this way," said the junior.

"The two differences were their very strong defense and the fact they were here last year," said Farago.

He could have added that this was a special year for the Warriors — they reached the Bergen County and State finals for the first time.

Waldwick played English-style with long kicks — mainly from sweeper

Mark DeMenna — but the Bulldogs' defense smothered them. At the end the Warriors were credited with only six shots against 19 for the winners.

"We were worried about [Mike] Raia, who they were trying to hit with the long ball," said coach Joe Falana after his 303rd career victory. "But we had our best marker, Brian David, on him and he did a great job. In last year's final he stopped a kid with 40 goals."

Haddonfield (22-1-1) had some good first-half chances. The best came at the 23-minute mark when Gerrit Kemps picked up the ball 15 yards out but with no one in front of him, shot wide of the goal.

"I thought that we were unlucky in the first half," said Falana, "but I felt we would knock in at least one in the second. But in a scoreless game it's always scary."

Sweeper Rich Lunsford did a fine job keeping the ball away from DeWitt, who had four saves. And much of the offense was generated by long throw-ins by Reed that usually fell in the box.

"We work hard on our throw-ins because on a high school level that's a big play," said Falana.

The Warriors went with freshman Emeka Ofodile in goal. At times he showed his inexperience, but he did come up with five saves.

Waldwick goalie Emeka Ofodile makes a leaping save in the Group 1 final.

"He held his line a little too much," said Falana, "but with all the pressure on him, we got only the one in, and that was a scrappy goal. "He did a real fine job for them." And so did all the amazing Warriors.

Waldwick falls one game short

11-21-93

Facing the defending champion in the Group 1 final, the upstart Waldwick High boys soccer team gave Haddonfield all it could handle before dropping a 1-0 decision on Thursday at Trenton State College.

The Warriors, in their first state final ever, could not mount a consistent offensive threat, and it took a scrappy goal off a rebound to give Haddonfield its title and a 22-1-1 record.

Waldwick finished 16-5-2 and got a gutty performance out of freshman goalie Emeka Ofodile, who made five saves and withstood the pressure of 19 Haddonfield shots.

Mike Raia, the team's leading scorer with 16 goals and 9 assists, was marked strongly and had little opportunity — with his best chance coming six minutes from the end of the game on a shot that was smothered by the Haddonfield goalie.

Head coach George Farago said before the game that the first goal would be very important, and that turned out to be true. The second half goal came off a throw-in and a shot that was put in off a rebound.

The Warriors got a good performance out of sweeper Mark DeMenna, who did his best to get the offense going with long kicks.

Toy trains a wonderland of movement

Lionels, American Flyers remembrance of department store Christmas displays

When the Friends of the Waldwick Public Library conduct their annual Thanksgiving Weekend train show, members of the Bergen County Model Railroad Club from Mahwah, Hawthorne, Westwood, Hillside, Haworth, Ho-Ho-Kus, Waldwick, Fairlawn and Oakland will play prominent roles not only in setting up and running the displays, but in allowing the public to see their prized collections of toy trains.

The show, which the library has hosted for 12 years, will be at the library building, 19 E. Prospect St., in downtown Waldwick from Nov. 26-28.

Hilmar Roberts and John Huska of Waldwick will display older Lionel and American Flyer standard gauge trains and Huska will also contribute his huge working model of a circus-amusement park. The standard gauge trains will operate on a large layout which can be set up in one day in the library's main reading room. "It's simple and portable," says Roberts.

John Hanlon and Tim Moritz of Ho-Ho-Kus, and Brooks Sunday of Oakland, will display collections of American Flyer electric trains. Joseph Campenella and Ernie Delcher of Mahwah, James Gallagher of Westwood, Greg Germakian of Hillside, Tom Grimason of Hawthorne, Frank Van der Wiede of Fairlawn and Ken Vogel of Woodcliff Lake will all operate one of the most elaborate displays of post-war Lionel trains in the nation. The Lionel and American Flyer display is combined to form a wonderland of continuous movement.

This main display, a 15-by-17-foot train set exhibit with full scenery, including a huge mountain and a deep canyon, is an attempt to recreate the department store train displays which marked Christmas seasons from the early 1920s until the late 1950s.

The Waldwick show is the most popular train show in the area. It annually draws over 3,000 visitors. Featuring three large train sets and Huska's fully operational model circus, the show will open the Christmas season for many North Jersey children again this year.

Beyond allowing the club to operate their collectibles, the club members have made major contributions to producing the display layouts. Many have spent hours wiring in accessories, which are moved yearly, and installing the American Flyer track layout, which is also redone yearly. Moritz of Ho-Ho-Kus is the club's principal electrician and has spent hours wiring the display to facilitate not only its smooth operation but the ability of the club to break the display down into four-foot by two-foot sections which can be easily reassembled. In fact, it will be reassembled in Pearl River, N. Y. for the club's next display in February.

This year's main display will feature a new mountain division, replacing the eight-foot peak which has dominated the layout for the last seven years. Delcher of Mahwah is the architect of the new mountain, built largely in his garage. This mountain features Delcher's complex timber tressel over a thundering waterfall which trains must cross on their steep climb to the summit.

The show dates and times are Friday, Nov. 26 from 5-10 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 27 from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 28 from noon-5 p.m.

Local seniors' tour a no-go

By ELAINE D'AUZIO
Staff Writer

A Waldwick couple thought they would be in Greece last week, soaking up the sights and the Mediterranean sun. Instead, they were back home — unpacking suitcases, restocking their refrigerator, and hoping it was just a bad dream.

"I am physically and psychologically exhausted, very upset, and totally bewildered," said the woman.

The couple, who asked not to be named, were among 28 would-be travelers — mostly seniors from Bergen and Passaic counties — who found themselves grounded at Kennedy Airport on Nov. 13 because their travel agent, who is now under investigation by the Bergen County Prosecutor's Of-ice, never came through with the tickets.

Members of a travel club called "Wonderful Weekends Plus," the group had paid the agent and club owner, Florence Ackerman of Fair Lawn, in full for the tour a year ago. What troubled members more was that some had invested more than $15,000 in future junkets that reach into the fall of 1995. The club has about 400 members.

"We figured the money already paid out for those trips could easily exceed $1.5 million," said one worried member who, like others, had high praise for the bargain excursions they took in the past through Ackerman. "There are people who took bank loans to go on these trips; it's a disaster if their money is gone."

Fears mounted as members learned that Ackerman had pleaded guilty in 1979 of defrauding travel clients of more than $73,000 for vacation tours that never materialized.

Bergen County Prosecutor John J. Fahy said his office is reviewing the 1979 case after receiving "numerous complaints" about Ackerman's business practices.

"We want to know what kind of a fraud she committed in the past, to see if there are any similarities," Fahy said Wednesday.

Until last week, members knew nothing about Ackerman's past.

"I'm in shock," said a Midland Park widow, who went on trips for four years with the club. "It can't be true. Nobody can believe it — we're all on the phone with each other, trying to understand what happened."

So far, no one knows exactly what happened. Ackerman has been in The Valley Hospital in Ridgewood, where she and her husband, Murray, both were admitted Nov. 14. Hospital officials would not discuss their conditions or why they were there, but a club member who visited Ackerman said she was recuperating from stress. Repeated efforts to reach Florence Ackerman were unsuccessful.

The owner of the travel agency with which Ackerman was supposed to have booked the trip was unavailable, too. An office worker said she was out of town.

But trouble apparently was brewing before the trip fell through.

An official of the Bergen County Office of Consumer Affairs said the office received two anonymous complaints about Ackerman's business practices Oct. 22 and Nov. 10, and one member called Wednesday to ask how to proceed with a complaint.

"We do not act on anonymous complaints," said Joan Steinacker, the director. "If four or five people sign a complaint and can document it with checks and receipts to show they have been defrauded, then we investigate."

At this point, about the only thing members are certain of is that the trips were cheap and what they called "fabulous."

"To be honest, she got terrific deals ... really superb trips for us," said another Waldwick woman, who went with her husband on "seven big trips" arranged by Ackerman.

The junkets did seem irresistible: $699 a person for a seven-day cruise to Alaska with two days in Vancouver and two meals a day, and $990 a person for a seven-day cruise to Hawaii and two days in Honolulu.

who are owed $2,500 for the trip to Greece, said the majority of the members are seniors and local residents. "But some are from New York and as far away as Florida," said the woman.

Members could not say exactly when Ackerman started the club, but said that she operated it out of her Fair Lawn home and began with day trips and overnight junkets to places such as the Catskills about four or five years ago. Checks were made out to Ackerman, they said.

"It was word of mouth; there was no advertising to join," said a member. As membership grew, Ackerman charged a $55 membership fee and sent out a bimonthly flier, called the Get-A-Way Gazette, featuring trips a year or two down the road.

"Limited to first 40 paid reservations," said an advertisement for an October 1994 trip to Greece at $1,020 a person.

A lot of members asked how she could find such great deals.

"Florence told us she had good contacts in the travel business and that by booking in advance, she was able to get such cheap rates," one member said. "She said she loved to see people enjoy themselves."

The longer, more expensive getaways seem to have multiplied in the last two years, members said, and details were usually a surprise.

"You never knew what airline you were going, and people would run to phones at the airport to tell family what hotel they were staying in," said one member. "You had to be flexible, because trips would often be delayed a few days at the last minute. But we always got extra days and extra entertainment for the same money; you go along because the rates were so cheap."

A Fort Lee member, who is booked into trips until 1995, said he was suspicious because the deals were too good to be true.

"But she always delivered, until this last trip to Greece," he said.

"She was so sweet, soft-spoken, very charming, and intelligent," said one member. Said another: "Florence is very disarming. She's like a maiden aunt or the demure character Helen Hayes played in the film 'Airport.'"

One woman, who helped Ackerman take reservations and called herself a friend, described her as "the loveliest person I know." And she defended her: "I can't believe people who knew her and loved her don't want to wait to hear what she has to say; the woman is ill, so give her a chance."

A Wayne woman, who also took reservations, said Ackerman recently had suffered a bout of pneumonia and was under emotional strain.

"From what she told me, she is going to correct everything," the woman said.

Claire and Leonard Jerlinski of New Hampshire, formerly of Maywood, are not so sure.

Ackerman still owes them $1,250 from 1978, when Ackerman left 41 people waiting hours at Kennedy Airport for a two-week, low-cost tour of Israel that never got off the ground.

The next day, Ackerman was in Holy Name Hospital, Teaneck, where friends said she was treated for stress. She later pleaded guilty of defrauding the public of $73,000 for bogus vacation tours. In sentencing her to 180 days in jail, Superior Court Judge James F. Madden did not impose a fine, saying that he "would rather see restitution to the victims."

"I hope this time, they're able to trace the money and some will get it back," Claire Jerlinski said.

Jerlinski believes Ackerman's soft-spoken style helped her in court.

"You trust her," she said. "But we were naive. We should have suspected something when we had to pay up front so far in advance."

Claire Jerlinski said the 1978 ordeal cured her.

"I've learned a lesson," she said. "And that is, there's no such thing as a free lunch."

Reach accord on boro wells

Council will pay construction company and levy reduced fines for missing deadlines

By JAMES HICKEY
Of the Suburban News

WALDWICK— The Waldwick Council decided last week to release payment it had been withholding from Doncar, Inc., the company that has been working on the borough's wells #2, #3, and #7.

The decision was reached after a council work session attended by representatives of the water department, the superintendent of the borough

DPW, municipal engineers and representatives of the construction company.

Doncar president John Headley addressed the council, stating that he had not been paid since May and was in need of the $54,000 outstanding.

He indicated he had come before the council to clear the air and settle all areas of dispute between the company, borough departments and the council.

Headley felt that almost all elements of the contract had been met and all disputed repairs on the wells had been taken care of or would be completed within the week.

Representatives from several borough departments were on hand to itemize specific questions and problems that needed to be addressed regarding the operation of the wells and other side issues that arose from the performance of Doncar.

At one point in the meeting, a representative of the borough's water department was running down a checklist of items that worried him when an agitated Headley stated that he felt the meeting was a "waste of my time."

Mayor Rick Vander Wende responded, saying that he "didn't care if I am wasting your time. I'm here to protect Waldwick." He went on to say that he wanted to make sure that everything was in agreement and all the questions of concern to the borough and its departments had been answered.

At the conclusion of open discussion, Vander Wende recommended to the council that the fines Doncar had incurred during the project be reduced. These penalties were assessed on a daily basis once the October deadline had passed.

Vander Wende proposed that the fines be reduced from $10,350 to $4,050 for the help that Doncar had extended in a number of situations that were beyond the scope of the contract.

The mayor also suggested releasing vouchers for $25,058 and $29,355 to the company for the work that Doncar had completed under the terms of the contract.

Doncar also agreed to specific dates when it would provide technical materials and training to borough employees involved with the operation of the wells.

Mahwah will host Waldwick in final game before NBIL

11-25-93
Thanksgiving Day usually represents traditional rivals meeting on the football field, but this year's Turkey Day game between Mahwah and Waldwick is the end of an old series.

The game is the final appearance by the T-Birds in the B-PSL on the gridiron as they prepare to move to the NBIL next season. And it is only fitting that the finale comes against an old rival in the Warriors.

Mahwah (5-3) will be looking to close out its season with a fifth win in six games, while Waldwick (now 4-3-1 after receiving a forfeit victory over Paterson Catholic in the ineligible player mess) will be trying to put a positive finish to a season that a gone awry after three opening wins.

Mahwah sophomore Marcus Giles has found the endzone 10 times this season and is looking more and more like the next in a long line of big-time Thunderbird running backs.

Waldwick counters with senior running back Doug Sneyers, who has scored 10 TDs and leads the team with 64 points scored.

The teams last meet in 1990 when Waldwick plastered the T-Birds, 42-12.

Garage sales to be limited

11-25-93

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — The council voted unanimously Tuesday to limit the number of garage sales in the borough.

Each home can have two garage sales a year for not more than three days each and residents will need a permit.

Mayor Rick Vander Wende said the ordinance was needed to improve the aesthetics of the borough and to insure that no one was running garage sales as a regular business.

Residents will be allowed to put up signs advertising their sales, but the signs cannot be put up more than 48 hours before and 24 hours after the sale. Violators could be fined up to $200.

Brophy halts Waldwick's comeback, as Mahwah wins its last B-PSL game

By BRIAN FARRELL

Thanksgiving Day football returned to the Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League after an absence of seven years in exciting fashion, as Mahwah, in its last football game in the league, held off a fired-up Waldwick team in the game's waning seconds and escaped with a 19-18 victory.

Ultimately, it was Ryan Martin's extra-point kick following Mahwah's first touchdown in the second quarter that decided the battle in the swirling wind up on Thunderbird hill.

Mahwah, which will be competing in the Northern Bergen Interscholastic League come September, exited the B-PSL by winning six of its last seven games after an 0-2 start.

Waldwick, after a 3-0 start, ended the campaign at 4-4-1, with one of its victories a forfeit win over Paterson Catholic.

The last time Waldwick and Mahwah had a scheduled Thanksgiving game was 1986. Due to rain, the game was played two days later, with Waldwick winning, 10-6.

Thursday, Waldwick played without one of its chief offensive weapons, quarterback Mike Branagh. The 6-foot-3 junior was sidelined with a broken and dislocated right index finger, sustained in the previous game against Garfield.

In stepped the versatile Doug Sneyers, the Warriors' tailback and primary breakaway receiver, in his first start ever at quarterback. The 5-foot-8, 140-pound senior valiantly kept his team in the game until there were 19 seconds left, when Mahwah outside linebacker Jim Brophy intercepted a pass at the Thunderbird 14-yard line to end the game.

Waldwick was trailing, 19-12, when fullback Joe Avagnano, running like a bull the entire game, scored his third touchdown and eighth of the season from two yards out with 59 seconds left. The Warriors went for the win on the conversion, but Sneyers, on a bootleg play to the right, was immediately brought down from behind by blitzing middle linebacker Mike Ryan.

Doug Sneyers, Waldwick's tailback, made his first start ever at quarterback, replacing the injured Mike Branagh.

The Warriors, however, weren't finished yet.

On the on-sides kick, Adam Wolfson recovered his own kick at the Mahwah 47. A pass-interference call gave Waldwick the ball at the 23; however, a 10-yard penalty brought the ball back to the 33. With 29 seconds to go, Sneyers, under pressure, lofted a pass to the middle, where Brophy made his game-saving heroics.

"Their receiver was covered, and the ball was tipped high in the air, and I just came down with it," said Brophy, a 6-foot-2, 180-pound junior. "I went down (on the ground) purposely; it seemed like the wise thing to do. I didn't want to fumble the ball."

With 6:19 remaining, Waldwick started its last TD drive, a 10-play, 58-yard march. Sneyers made two key passes. About to be sacked, he tossed a short pass in the flat to Avagnano, who turned the play into a 20-yard gain to the Mahwah 31. Then, on a 3rd-and-6 from the 15, Sneyers threw to the middle and connected with 6-foot-4 tight end

Jay Bain, who made a nice, leaping snare at the two-yard line. Avagnano scored on the next play.

Waldwick took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. The 5-foot-10, 200-pound Avagnano plowed through the Mahwah line and, with four defenders trying to bring him down, scored on a seven-yard run to complete a 62-yard drive. On the extra-point kick, Sneyers slipped, and his kick sailed wide right.

On their next possession in the second period, the Warriors marched 77 yards to make it 12-0. Avagnano again broke several tackles on a 20-yard burst of steam into the end zone. A conversion pass failed.

Waldwick got the ball right back, when Sneyers, playing safety, recovered a Marcus Giles fumble, caused by an Avagnano hit, at the Waldwick 49. Then, on the Warriors' first play, it was Giles who intercepted Sneyers at the Mahwah 38. That led to the T-Birds' first TD, a 15-yard pass from quarterback Mike Kayal to tight end Lascar, who caught the ball in the front corner of the end zone.

On Mahwah's next series, Waldwick turned in a nifty interception at its 10-yard line. Sneyers and cornerback Tom Hayes sandwiched a receiver, causing the ball to pop loose into the air. Middle linebacker Josh Thompson made the pick and dished the ball to Hayes, who ran it to the Waldwick 20.

But, with 42 seconds left in the half, linebacker Frank Chamberlain intercepted a pass, returning it 25 yards to the Waldwick 20. Giles ran for nine yards, and, on a 3rd-and-1, Kayal kept the ball and burst up the middle untouched to score from 11 yards out with 26 seconds left for a 13-12 Mahwah lead.

Late in the third quarter, Brophy and end Bob Kondrat teamed up to recover a Warrior fumble at the Waldwick 16. Five plays later, Giles scored from five yards out. Giles tried to run for the conversion, but Sneyers' cross-body tackle dropped the strong-running sophomore at the three-yard line.

Complaint on overcrowding heard

By JOHN TOIVONEN

WALDWICK — After hearing a resident's complaint about an overcrowded building, the council decided to investigate to determine if there are construction code violations.

Vickie Dispoto, of 6 Summit Ave., has lived in Waldwick for eight months and during that time she said four neighbors have moved because tenants of a building on 171 N. Franklin Turnpike have caused parking and litter problems.

"I already want to leave my house because I can't get out on the street. People eat lunch and throw it there. There were people working in the hallways," she said.

The building's owner, Joseph Healey, admits there is a parking problem, but he said it will be cleared up as soon as United Assurance moves out on Jan. 1.

"What created the problem is there are two companies that have grown appreciably. The problem is going to disappear," he said, denying allegations about people working in hallways and litter on the streets."

The real culprit, Healey said, is an ordinance that changed the zoning of parking in the borough.

"Without conferring with a significant taxpayer (Healey) they posted an ordinance that pushed parking into a residential zone," he said, adding, "I've never had a neighbor come to me and complain."
