On the job and on the board, Fuhrman's focus is education

By Stephanie Brown
Record assistant editor

According to Susan Fuhrman, the best thing about the Westfield Public Schools is the community's support of education; the worst thing is the danger of complacency.

Fuhrman should know: not only is she serving a second term on the Board of Education, where she was just appointed vice president, she directs the Consortium for Policy Research in Education, a center funded by the U.S. Department of Education.

The consortium is a joint venture of Harvard University, the University of Southern California, Rutgers University, Michigan State University, Stanford University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. It studies state and local policies to improve schooling.

Fuhrman said the consortium focuses on educational policies and learning, and on education finance and productivity.

The research includes looking at "how states develop systems of instructional guidance by coordinating curriculum frameworks, materials, assessments, and professional development," Fuhrman said. It also investigates "how such programs affect teaching and learning, and how they influence flexibility at school; resource allocation at different schools in different states and nations."

The consortium is affiliated with 25 education associations around the nation.

"We study the natural experiment," Fuhrman said. "We look at what is being done and also at particularly promising examples."

Fuhrman's started her career in education as a social studies teacher in Illinois, and then taught at a private school in New York City. From there, she moved to California, where she decided to go back to school.

"I wanted a master's in administration and my advisor said, 'You don't want a master's in administration — you want a Ph.D. in education policy.'"

She took her advisor's advice. The degree eventually brought her to the Eagleton Institute in 1979, where she conducted policy research.

New van would help paraplegic regain independence lost after assault

"IT STILL CONFUSES ME AS TO WHY," Shawn McMiller said of a 1989 assault that left him paralyzed from the chest down. McMiller, shown here with his mother Katie and father Julius, is in need of a van which would help him resume some of his favorite activities.

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

Before Nov. 4, 1989, two of Shawn McMiller's favorite things to do were driving and playing basketball — things he is no longer able to do.

"Things like being able to get in a car and just go wherever you want to go, you just kind of take them for granted," said Shawn.

These things no longer go unappreciated by the soft-spoken Scotch Plains Avenue man, who was rendered paraplegic following an 1989 assault.

The incident made it impossible for Shawn to return to his job as a driver for a beer distributor, and helped to end his marriage, he said. Shawn, who turned 32 Monday, now lives with his parents Julius and Katie, who, along with his brother and other members of the family have taken to caring for him.

"Our lives have changed in so many ways," said Julius, who along with his wife, is retired. "Caring for Shawn takes a lot of time. We don't mind, of course, but someone has to be with him all the time."

By Shawn's account, the incident happened because he was trying to come to the aid of his wife's niece, who was arguing with her boyfriend in front of her East Windsor Avenue home.

Shawn said that when he tried to get between the two to calm them down, the boyfriend accused Shawn of touching him, and pushed him to the street curb.

He said that two unidentified men wrestled him to the ground, where he was knocked unconscious.

MacRitchie opposes McClure...

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

On June 4, Third Ward residents will have a chance to put the controversy of the Republican primary behind them and vote for the candidate they feel will best serve them.

Councilman Kenneth MacRitchie, who is finishing up his first term in office, will try to thwart Board of Adjustment member Pamela McClure's bid to unseat him.

MacRitchie took issue in with Republican party chairman Allen Chin in early April, when he was bypassed for the party endorsement, which was given to McClure. MacRitchie and Chin exchanged accusations in a series of press releases.

McClure said this week that MacRitchie's effectiveness as a councilman has been diminished severely because he has alienated himself from other politicians in town. MacRitchie disputes that.

"Ken tends to be a negative person more than a positive person," McClure said, "and he has alienated other politicians. I feel I would have a better working relationship with members of the Town Council."

"I'm not the one who ran a negative campaign," MacRitchie said. "I merely responded to each salvo of her highly negative campaign. I have been working effectively with the mayor and council for over a year. Mayor Bagger and I are close friends. I expect this warm sense of harmony on the council will continue. This is just one more example of her negative campaign."

...as Greco faces Corbet in race

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

In this year's First Ward Republican primary, Councilman William Jubb Corbet faces a political threat in the form of businessman Norman Greco.

Though they agree on some issues, the two men are separated by what Greco describes as "philosophical differences."

Corbet, the council's finance chairman, thinks the biggest issue facing the town is the tax impact of the Quality Education Act.

He said that the revisions to the act would "force the town to use up all its financial assets, and that would go from the 1991 to the 1994 budget years."

Corbet said that the initial effect of the act would be a dramatic decrease in taxes over the next four years, "but once the money is all gone, we'd no longer be able to have money to invest to generate interest income."

"We're currently working on, or guessing at the ground rules," Corbet said of the act. "Our goal is to minimize the effects of this."

To Greco, taxes are also the town's greatest concern.

"Taxes are just spiraling higher and higher," he said. "The increases disturb me, and the fact that many elderly citizens are being forced out of their homes of 30 and 40 years disturbs me. These are the concerns of the constituents, and their concerns are my concerns."

Town may collar cats with $10 license

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

A cat licensing ordinance that has already been tentatively approved by the Town Council will be on the council's agenda for an initial vote at next week's official public meeting.

The ordinance would make it illegal for cats over the age of six months who are not licensed or vaccinated to be let outdoors by their owners. The cost for the license would be $10.

If a cat has never been vaccinated, the license would be good for one year, because that is generally how long the vaccine is effective the first time it is administered.

If the cat has been vaccinated before, the inoculation lasts about three years, and the license would be good for that time period.

All licenses would expire on December 31.

The licensing will be handled through local veterinarians, who would be responsible for filling out the necessary paperwork. The fee for the license would be tagged on to the veterinarian's bill.

The council has opted to mandate cat licensing in the wake of the increasing threat of rabies in New Jersey. The first case of rabies in town was confirmed earlier this month when a raccoon found dead in Lenape Park tested positive for the disease. A suspected case in March was never confirmed, while two cases of rabies have been documented in Cranford.

Following the discovery of rabies in town, two local veterinarians urged the town to adopt a licensing ordinance.

The council had been split on the issue, with some members of the opinion that vaccination without licensing could suffice.

McClure: 'I'll be a more effective member of the council'

Pam McClure, Republican candidate for Third Ward Town Council, summarized this week her commitment and her campaign.

In a written statement, McClure said "Many weeks ago I made a major decision to run for Town Council. I decided to run because I care deeply for our town and its people. I have the time, energy and ability to make a positive contribution to Westfield and I want to give something back to the town that has given me so many friends and a community I call home."

"As I complete my door-to-door campaign in the Third Ward, I warmly reflect back on the wonderful experience I have had in meeting so many friendly people that truly make Westfield a great town. I have been a gratifying experience," McClure said. "I have noted some of the concerns and feedback of the residents I have met. Many are concerned with airplane noise, speeding on Central Avenue, the present No. 59 bus route traversing residential neighborhoods, commuter parking on the streets adjacent to South Avenue, safety of school children walking to Jefferson School, the future of the Manor Park Swim

Club, and above all, obtaining effective representation on Town Council."

"I have tried to fully address these issues in my campaign, news articles and literature," McClure said.

"My opponent has attempted to make an issue out of my being an apartment dweller and not owning a home, intimating that I should not be allowed to run for Town Council. Owning a home or real estate is not a prerequisite to serve on Town Council and to suggest such is insulting," she said.

"The major difference between me and my opponent is his lack of effectiveness on Town Council," said McClure. "My opponent has so alienated other elected officials with whom he has to work, he has lost respect and credibility. On the other hand, through my personal contacts with them and my numerous community activities such as service on the Zoning Board of Adjustment and my work at St. Helen's Parish and Saint Joseph's Soup Kitchen, I have gained their respect and can anticipate a good working relationship with them. Thus, if elected, I would be much more effective in implementing important programs for the Third Ward. We won't have to fight for everything."

"I have conducted an issue-oriented campaign and have already taken action on several items such as calling for a reduction in the speed limit on Central Avenue and rerouting of bus no. 59 from quiet residential areas. I'm confident I can make a positive contribution to the town, be fully responsible to my constituents, and provide more effective representation for the Third Ward. My record of helping others is a proven one and I welcome the support of all Third Ward residents," McClure concluded.

MacRitchie ends tour, refutes swim club and Central safety charges

Third Ward Councilman Kenneth L. MacRitchie, running for re-election in the June 4 Republican primary election, this week announced the completion of his door-to-door campaign in that ward.

In a written statement, MacRitchie explained that his door-to-door campaigning accomplished three purposes. First, he said, it enables the citizens of the Third Ward to meet him and obtain information about his qualifications for reelection. Second, it enables him to obtain input from the citizens regarding various public issues. Third, it provides an opportunity for the citizens to request assistance on any matter, from aircraft noise to zoning problems, he said.

MacRitchie noted that this was his fourth door-to-door campaign in the Third Ward, and that his previous door-to-door campaigns had occurred in spring 1989, fall 1989 and fall 1990. He added that each campaign involves over 200 miles of walking.

On an unrelated matter, MacRitchie refuted his opponent's claim that he had not taken steps to preserve the Manor Park Swim Club. He related that he and Councilman Gary Jenkins had discussed this matter extensively with officers for the swim club, had reviewed relevant documents and had consulted with other municipal officials, in seeking ways to help the swim club remain in operation. "If my opponent had telephoned any officer of the swim club, she would have learned that Councilman Jenkins and I have been actively pursuing this matter," he said.

MacRitchie likewise refuted Vic Trzesniowski's claim that he had not actively pursued the matter of Central Avenue safety. He indicated that he had proposed Central Avenue safety measures to the Public Safety Committee in January, and had urged the committee chairman to place this issue on the committee agenda, before voting in favor of such safety measures (including a 25-mile per-hour-speed limit) at last Thursday's meeting of the Public Safety Committee.

Free rabies clinic offered by local health board next week

The Westfield Board of Health will conduct a Free Rabies Clinic from 9 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, June 8, which will be offered for the inoculation of both cats and dogs. The clinic will be held at the Westfield Fire Station No. 2, Central Avenue, Westfield. No appointments will be required.

At least one rabid case has emerged here. Bob Sherr, health officer, has noted that a confirmed case of rabies in a raccoon was documented in Westfield.

In response to the rabies outbreak, the health unit said the public should follow some simple preventive measures:

- (1) Make certain that all cats and dogs are vaccinated against rabies.
- (2) Do not leave family pets outdoors overnight, or feed animals outdoors.
- (3) Avoid contact with all wild animals.
- (4) Discuss with children not to bring home, pet, or attempt to "help" a sick wild animal.

If bitten by any animal, consult your physician immediately and contact the local Health Department at 789-4070 to report the incident.

A talk about colonial taverns

Vincent J. Parlapiano will be principal speaker at the "First Wednesday" meeting sponsored by the Westfield Historical Society Wednesday, June 5.

Parlapiano, a past president and currently a trustee of the Rahway Historical Society, is a member of the Union County and Roselle Park Historical societies.

Along with two others, he founded the K.I.S.S. (Keep It Standing Straight) campaign to raise funds needed to restore the Merchants & Drovers Tavern in Rahway. So far donations have exceeded $100,000. His presentation next Wednesday will be: "Colonial Taverns and Their Uses."

William B. Shafer, toastmaster, said attendance is limited to 45 people. The event is at Raymond's Restaurant at noon and are "Dutch Treat" with individual checks. Make reservations by phoning 232-1776.

Ethics from Moses to town government

Municipal officials are grumbling about the new ethics law. Their predecessors were grumbling similarly in Babylon three millennia ago when King Hammurabi dared impose a code of laws and when Moses came down from Mount Sinai bearing commandments. Essayist Paul Greenburg says the first person who greeted Moses was no doubt a lawyer asking, though surely in more elevated fashion: "Who needs it?"

The same question has been asked by doctors, lawyers, tradesmen, professionals and cleaner-than-a-hounds-tooth scribes who have come up with ethical standards. The golden calf pops up in Trenton and Elizabeth periodically and, lo, even in small towns, in sufficient instances to pose an ethical conduct code to municipal governments, too. Public service is a high enough calling to answer to the new Local Government Ethics Law. Last year the Town Council opposed the statute as unnecessary, bothersome and inhibiting public service by financial disclosure. Four volunteers serving on local preservation and construction boards have resigned since the law took effect this spring. Others might be affected, and some talents might be lost to the town service. Public office holders and employees and their spouses and dependents must file an annual financial disclosure form reporting sources of income over $2,000 and all real estate holdings, business interests, sources of fees and honoraria over $250 and sources of gifts, reimbursements or prepaid expenses over $400. The reports will be in Trenton.

The town has over time enjoyed large numbers of unpaid volunteers serving on boards, by one informed estimate as much as ten percent of the citizenry. Talent abounds. The code can give the public more confidence in government and give the government more credibility. Greenburg says it is precisely the best people who may examine their conduct most, and who trust their own rationalizations least. They will want to think about the ethical implications of their decisions and be grateful for whatever guides are available. And, he says, the less than good need to have those guides enforced. The law creates a uniform set of standards for all communities. And it can give the public another tool to make sure that officials are always acting in the town's best interests, not their own.

Letters to the editor

Blames councilmen for lauding downtown while actively and financially ignoring it

To The Record:

I read the press release-letter of support for Mr. Corbet in utter disbelief.

It states "other towns envy it (downtown Westfield) and are constantly trying to emulate it." I wish Westfield were emulating the changes that have occurred in Cranford. They have participated in the Main Street program and have made some very desirable changes in their downtown. It was our former Mayor Stone that put the cabash on our own CBD special improvement district years ago. Where was Mr. Corbet when we needed him? Today we would be years ahead of surrounding communities if that entity had been initiated.

The article credits Mr. Corbet with the trash bins located throughout Westfield. The fact is that it took several years of prodding and lobbying by the local Chamber of Commerce and the recent advent of State of NJ monies to provide basic services which local authorities should have provided years ago. Now, if only we could get the trash emptied once in a while, they would not be the eyesore and magnet for insects that some have become.

We are informed that "We have been able to purchase sidewalk sweepers." These expensive units were purchased about two years ago and are still in an almost brand new condition. The dirty sidewalks and gutter only underscore the lack of ongoing and consistent planning-maintenance. I am in town almost every day including Sundays. The only time I have personally seen them use it is during the Chamber of Commerce sponsored "Westfield Cleanup Day." Don't you think it is time to start using them on a regular basis?

The article goes on to talk about the constant reviewing and fine tuning of Westfield's parking facilities. Pardon me while I try to alleviate the pain in my side from laughing. The lack of political leadership and will by Mr. Corbet who is known as the "financial wizard on council," and several former councilmen and mayors, is the reason for the current financial bind that the town finds itself in, as well as for its parking and traffic debacle.

Taxation without representation is what I call it. It is a little like the three card monte game played on the streets of New York City. The new Library-Municipal Building project was insufficiently funded, and improperly explained to the taxpayers of Westfield. The old Municipal Building renovations were not included properly in the figures for the project, nor was the actual real estate value of the Grant School site. If that site had been sold off, the town would have received several million dollars of immediate revenue. Several key councilmen decided without public discussion to help underwrite the costs on these two building programs by selling off a tract of town owned land known as the "Ewing Tract." A public announcement was made of the intent to auction off the site, however the use that the funds were to be put to, was never discussed in public. What put the monkey wrench in the works was a Mt. Laurel law suit which put an unexpected road block in their plan. It was because of this improper and irresponsible decision making process, one that was not held up to public debate, that a several million dollar shortfall in revenue was created. To help cover this shortfall, one million dollars, bonded and allocated several years before for downtown parking improvements has been re-allocated to cover these gaffs in financial planning.

The press release closes with a short discourse on an "Architectural Review Commission," for the downtown district. Unfortunately the downtown needs more than "Architectural Review." A "special improvement district" or "main street" type program is what is essential for the Central Business District. The CBD has long been the "Cinderella," which town councilmen have verbally applauded but financially and actively ignored. It is my hope that a new emphasis on long term financial planning and a new Master Plan will help to correct and re-focus the poor planning and lack of action in the past.

Letters to the editor

Reject messages that would put only white, upper class males who own property in office

To the Record:

Some recent letters to the editor and paid political advertisements have suggested that only "homeowners" should involve themselves in our democratic political process. As a young person who does not "own" my own home, I must say that I am sick and tired of being treated as a second class citizen by certain "homeowners" who feel that only they have the right to be involved in town politics and be elected to office. These "homeowners" apparently feel that they are paying all the property taxes in town, and so they are more qualified to choose candidates and serve on the Town Council. Their arrogance and smug slogans smack of sexism, classism and racism.

Where do these elitists think rent money goes? Senior citizens who pay for their group housing, tenants who pay rent, and family members who share household expenses all contribute to the Town treasury because their monthly payments are the source of revenue for the landlord's property tax bill!

And what about those properties that are registered under one spouse's name? Is the other spouse (often the wife) not allowed to vote and hold office?

We know from history that "owning property" as a condition for political involvement was declared racist and unconstitutional long ago. By insisting that only property owners could vote and hold office, our Founding Fathers were able to exclude blacks, women and poorer people from exercising their full rights as citizens. I certainly hope this is not what some "homeowner" activists and politicians want us to revert back to!

I dream of someday owning a beautiful home in a town like Westfield. At this time, I simply cannot afford the expensive down payment and mortgage it takes to purchase a home in this area. But if anyone thinks this is going to keep me from participating in our political process, that person is in for a big surprise! Any adult resident of this town, regardless of age, sex, race or marital status, has a right to vote and hold elective office.

Senior citizens, renters and extended families beware! There are people out there who feel you are second class and not entitled to full participation in our democratic political system. I ask all Westfielders, homeowners and non-homeowners alike, to reject political messages that would have only white, upper class males who "own property" serve in elected office!

Pam McClure and Ken MacRitchie differ on negative and positive aspects of contest

To The Record:

My name is Pam McClure and I am writing this prior to knowing the outcome of the Third Ward Republican town Council race. The decision to run for Town Council was a major one for me but on reflecting back on that decision, I realize it is a natural continuation of my personal desire to help and serve my fellow Westfielders. I have made an intense effort to visit the Third Ward residents on a door-to-door basis and I have been rewarded by this experience in meeting so many friendly people. Regardless, of the outcome of the election it has been one of the most gratifying experiences of my life.

I have tried to address the major issues that Third Ward residents have expressed to me they are concerned with including airplane noise, speeding on Central Avenue, rerouting of No. 50 bus, commuter parking in the Third Ward, safety of school children walking to Jefferson School, the future of the Manor Park Swim Club and, most importantly, obtaining effective representation on Town Council.

My opponent has run a very negative campaign and in doing so has alienated the Mayor and Town Council, the very elected officials he has to work with. He has lost their respect and thus will not be effective in getting things done. However, I have gained the respect of the Mayor and Town Council and I know I will be able to work with them in achieving programs for the Third Ward. If elected, I pledge to be as responsive as possible, serve with honesty and integrity, bring dignity and respect to the Third Ward Town Council seat, and be extremely effective in convincing the other elected officials to vote for Third Ward programs. I want your vote so that I can serve you and work on resolving your concerns.

Editor's note: The writer's comments about Ken MacRitchie's campaign were delivered just before deadline and he was given the opportunity to rebut. His response: "I have conducted a positive campaign and have responded to personal attacks only when such attacks have been made. I have been able to cooperate effectively with the mayor and other council members and expect to continue this cooperation in the future."

Heard around the town

"No one really knows who has the right of way." Petitioner Elizabeth Gilland, seeking stop sign at Wychwood Road and Kimball Avenue. 108 people supported plan.

My daughter, the graduate

By Stuart Awbrey

I'm sitting up in the pigeon gallery, straining to pick her out of the sea of 500 mortar boards below. But I couldn't spot her under the black lid and the dark hair.

"Look for the one without the tassel," my wife said. "She lost it on the way to the procession."

She lost her panty hose before that and mislaid the corsages for the grandmothers. But at this moment, we were looking only for the candidate, not her attire.

Suddenly she rose from the sea to gesture upward toward parent country. "There she is!" I exulted, waving back.

From that moment on I was riveted on her every movement toward D-Day, balancing my camera lens on pigeon doo from the rafters and keeping one eye free to follow each step toward what passes for sheepskin nowadays.

"She's going to make it," I said, not quite believing.

After all, this is the same kid who skipped classes her freshman year and chose sports and parties over scholarly pursuits. Flashbacks accentuated my disbelief. "My God!" I awakened to the reality of the procession. "They've got a diploma up there waiting for her!"

She got her act together halfway through matriculation. And here I am at her finish line, skeptical dad turning into a believer.

I commanded eight programs for confirmation. Every one of them spelled her name right.

It must be true.

My daughter, the graduate.

It has a ring to it.

I imagined her ambivalence as she inched toward the rite of passage, anticipating the diploma and wanting to get on with life, and at the same time lamenting her departure from best times and good friends.

"She's moving up," my wife said. "Get ready."

"Where'd she get that tassel?" I asked. "Just shoot," said my wife. And suddenly our firstborn is mounting the stage and I'm exposing frames by the second — ten shots of ritual paper passing, hand shakes and tassel tossing.

I got giddy when highland pipers escorted her out and I embarrassed her when I stopped shooting and started hugging.

Part of me was graduating, too. From skeptic to gushy convert. My daughter, the graduate.

She recovered her shared tassel, found and pinned the missing orchids, and began a round of farewells with classmates and profs.

A sage said there are only two lasting bequests we can hope to give our children. One of these is roots; the other wings. The roots, including those of us in the generations ahead of the graduate, cheered her on from the rafters. She has wings, now, and road maps, and has gone west, somewhere, to make new discoveries. I think that's what college was mostly about. For dad as well as for daughter.

Fraternity friendships? Just add dog food

By Donald Pizzi Jr.

I got a call from an old friend last week; I once filled his dresser drawers with dog food.

I know what you're thinking; why the heck would this guy want to call me after that, unless, of course, he has a Gravy Train fetish?

Pookie (not his real name, but I hope I really didn't have to tell you that) and I were college fraternity brothers and at one point, house mates. For some reason that is long forgotten by both of us, we also were vicious rivals in a war of practical jokes.

There was of course the above-mentioned Gravy Train incident. The true beauty of that joke wasn't that every drawer he opened contained wet dog food; and keep in mind that in order to make Gravy Train, you need to add lots and lots of water.

No, the best part of that particular prank was that I gave all the clothing I took from Pookie's drawers to the dog; a 130-pound

New Finland with a tongue like a car wash.

In revenge, Pookie sauntered over to my room one day, and checked out my dresser drawers.

I awoke the next day, showered, and returned to my room to get dressed. I pulled out a pair of underwear from my drawer to find that someone had snipped the crotch out. It now resembled a little skirt.

Feverishly rummaging through my drawer, I found out that I was the less-than-proud owner of about 30 little skirts.

Desperate, I ran to my hamper. There, I found a couple more little skirts. Pookie was diabolical, but thorough.

Back I came. One Friday I neglected to give the dog her late night snack (this was a big dog, so it was probably something like half a chicken).

At about 6 a.m., I let the dog into Pookie's room and locked the door.

What's so devilish about this you ask? Well, it could be the fact that I had snuck in at 5:58 a.m. and quietly taped a Gaines Burger to my friend's head.

I then sat by the door and happily listened to Pook's panicked cries of "Down! Down Cujol! Aceeaaagh!"

Back came Pookie. Upon returning from class one day, I happened to look up and see a pair of boxer shorts flying from the flag pole. My boxer shorts. My favorite boxer shorts. The ones with the big black ants on them.

I was faced with an interesting dilemma. Should I attempt to retrieve them, thus acknowledging ownership to those who had already gathered to watch my undies flap in the breeze? Or should I just quit while I was embarrassingly behind?

A strong wind decided the matter for me moments later, taking my ant boxers majestically across the Potomac River.

This went on for months. Two days after I surprised Pookie in the shower with a pitcher of strategically aimed ice water, I awoke to find the words "sleep stinks — it really stinks" written all over my body in magic marker.

I then retaliated by coating Pookie's under arm deodorant with Vaseline. He said later that he rubbed it against his skin once before the deodorant went crashing through a closed window.

Talking to Pookie last week, we realized that neither of us really knew who started the war (though we both assumed it was me) or who had retaliated last (though we both assumed it was me).

"So does this mean that the hatchet is buried?" I asked hopefully.

"Let's put it this way," he said. "My favorite fisherman sweater still smells like kibbles."

It's time to amend those rules that govern bridal showers

By Millicent K. Brody

The elegant, delicious cake was decorated, with the most adorable umbrella. Edible raindrops sprinkled about the little girl, dancing under the title, "Showers for Jane."

Musings

by Millicent

Ladies arrived dressed in wonderful afternoon attire. Candles glowed. Strawberries and raspberries floated in the frothy punch bowl and tiny glass plates were filled with tea sandwiches.

We were there to honor the bride to be. She arrived from Virginia with her grandmother, and aunts. Her sister drove all the way from Connecticut with the latest addition to her family — a six week old baby boy.

Never in our wildest dreams would we dare take our tiny babies to a shower. Never would we expose a six week old child to a room full of sneezing, coughing adults. But he slept quietly, oblivious to the noise and chatter. It's a new world.

At another shower celebrants arrived from New York in net and spangled skirts, silk body suits, headbands, chunky shoes and dangly jewelry. They were laden with gifts and full of speeches. The gala opened with humorous speeches full of praise and sound advice. Advice your mother would never dream of thinking, let alone repeating.

Sociologists tell us couples tend to be older and quite likely to have lived on their own for some time before marrying. This precludes a need for coffee pots, toaster ovens, and other accoutrements.

This couple, however, needed everything.

Theme colors were black and white. But the box of peach towels and Garfield pot holders were just fine. Glasses in every size and shape were acceptable. The bride assured us, "They'd all break, anyway."

There were pots to boil, broil and fry. Kettles, jars and under the counter appliances were unwrapped. Cookbooks. Wine books. A wine rack. Wine. Glasses. All sorts of utensils.

The bride informed us that she wasn't into cooking. "He did that."

She wasn't into cleaning, either, therefore welcoming the vacuum cleaner and dust buster. "He'd really appreciate a new vacuum." She liked the dust buster. Smaller jobs were her thing. She left the big "stuff" to him.

The best were the unmentionables, the tons of "after-hour" wearables. Each teensy piece was large enough to fit your average Barbie doll. The panties, or tap shorts as they are referred to now, were cut up to here, and slashed down to there.

One guest included a colorful dish towel in her beautifully wrapped box. It was carefully concealed under a midnight blue, ruffled midriff and matching fashion-colored thong. The guests appeared upset. She'd forgotten the matching silk boxer shorts for the groom.

"You'll need the towel to wipe the dishes," read the card.

"I don't do dishes," remarked the bride. "That's his job."

Showers were once practical. Couples had few household items. Friends and relatives were called upon to "shower" the guest of honor with basic elements to set up a home.

The rule should be amended. I think we could all use, and deserve a shower.

Wouldn't you love to throw out your battered belongings and replace them?

Let's send pledge cards as invitations.

Each pastel colored note would include our very own "wish" list. Each guest would be asked to circle the gift of their choice, and bring it to the shower on the appointed date.

Imagine: designer sheets for every bed in your house. Eight steak knives that really cut it. Thirsty towels from a real bath shop. One fry pan with a firm handle. A soup pot with a tight fitting lid. An apron that did not descend from your mom's Hope chest. Eight wooden salad bowls that can fit in a dishwasher. Six English bone China mugs from other than Disneyland. One visit to a spa. One week completely devoted to a shopping spree. An on the spot cleaning lady to wipe up the instant mess and spills, guaranteed to appear at a moment's notice.

It can be safely predicted that with June comes a spate of weddings.

Equally true then, is that a lot of showers are in the planning stages. Maybe one will be for me? If not, I'll gladly "pledge" to attend the one planned for you.

Happy spring showers.

Hely: think long range on maintenance of tennis courts

To The Record:

My comments to the Town Council regarding the recent allocation to redo some additional tennis courts at Tamaques Park were reported in your paper, and I am afraid that the reported comments are being misinterpreted by the tennis playing public.

My objection to spending this money at this moment was based on my feeling that we don't have a solid, long range plan which addresses how many tennis courts we need and how we can maintain these courts to permit the proper enjoyment of the game. We have some courts in town which are now in very good condition, and some courts that are in poor condition. I don't have a monopoly on what is right or wrong on any issue, but I have sensed that long range thinking about the proper maintenance of our tennis courts has been less than I would like to see as a Town Councilman.

Rebuts McClure on future of Manor Park Swim Club

To The Record:

I am vice president of Manor Park Swim Club. I have read Miss McClure's news release in last week's Record, and I find it deserves a rebuttal.

Miss McClure claims that Councilmen MacRitchie and Jenkins have not been promoting the survival of Manor Park Swim Club. However, both councilmen have been actively involved in pursuing all available means to prevent the closing of the swim club.

Miss McClure furthermore claims to have assembled a staff of volunteer experts to assist in the preservation of Manor Swim Club. However, Miss McClure has never introduced herself to me, much less have I encountered her staff of experts.

Councilmen MacRitchie and Jenkins have established both their credibility and their record of performance. Miss McClure has established neither.

All this makes her eminently qualified as a candidate for the council, but it is her character as well as her competence that should be emphasized. She is faithful, honorable and hard-working. I believe she would be

UCC in summer

Summer Session II runs from July 8 to August 15 at Union County College.

Buenaides awarded $4,000 scholarship by CPA society

John M. Buenaides of Westfield was awarded a $4,000 accounting scholarship by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (NJSCPA).

He was congratulated by John C. Kelly, NJSCPA president, and James F. Healey, CPA chairperson of the Scholarship Awards Committee.

Award recipients are selected on the basis of their performance on a general aptitude examination administered by the society. Over 1,000 high school students who expect to be accounting majors in college sat for the exam. Thirty-two individuals with the highest scores were awarded scholarships totalling $82,250.

Buenaides will graduate from Westfield High School in June, and plans to attend the University of Illinois — Urbana.

"It is an honor to receive support from an organization that inspires and encourages future businessmen and women," said Buenaides.

Buenaides is a Union County Outstanding Scholar and an Edward Bloustein Distinguished Scholar. He is a member of the National Honor Society and the Computer Club. He also served as an Asian Awareness Club Officer and Key Club Vice President.

The NJSCPA represents 12,500 members in public accounting, industry, education, government and nonprofit organizations.

Reunion for seniors and teachers

The courtyard of Westfield High School will be the scene of the fifth consecutive reunion of teachers and members of the graduating senior class.

They will gather on Thursday, June 6 together over homemade refreshments, to share memories, autograph yearbooks, and witness the awarding of the Westfield Education Association scholarships. This year, scholarship chairperson Louise Lindsey expects to award two scholarships: one to a graduating senior at the high school and the other to a son or daughter of a faculty member, each of whom has demonstrated scholastic merit, community spirit and financial need.

"The formal education of these young people is a process covering 13 years, and teachers want a chance to see and reminisce with those they taught along the way," said Annesley Swicker, who with her co-chairperson, Susan Apgar, organizes the reunions. Both women have been teachers in the local system for many years. The reunion is the culmination of weeks of fund-raising activities to support the scholarships.

Kids can go to college at UCC this summer

With 10 new courses, Union County College will offer an expanded and broadened College for Kids this summer at the Cranford Campus.

College for Kids provides youngsters in elementary through high school grades enrichment courses ranging from arts and crafts to science and sports. The college's Department of Continuing Education makes these courses available to youngsters as a way of exposing them to collegiate environment, while learning among peers in a fun setting. Dr. Joann LaPera of Cranford, dean of continuing education, said.

The new courses are: Research in Fun, Musical Theater Workshop, Put On Your Thinking Cap, Baseball Camp, Needlework for Kids, Be A Better Thinker, Stenciling for Kids, Ceramic for Kids, Medieval Times, and Science Show.

Research in Fun, is for grades three through five. They may select from two time slots, either from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays through Thursdays, July 8 through 18, or from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. on Monday through Thursday, July 29 through Aug. 8.

Musical Theater Workshop, for ages nine through 11, will develop skills and talents in acting techniques, stage presence, choreography, characterization, and voice. Broadway show music will be used to prepare student presentations on the last day of class. It will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Monday through Thursday, July 8 through 11.

Put On Your Thinking Cap, for ages six through eight, helps nurture the child's creative and critical-thinking abilities through observation, classification, logic, problem-solving, brainstorming, and imagining. A choice of two time slots is available: 11:20 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. on Mondays through Thursdays, July 8 through 18, or from 9 to 10 a.m. on Mondays through Thursdays, July 29 through Aug. 8.

Baseball Camp, for ages eight through 12 and 13 through 16, will provide the fundamentals of baseball. Students learn from some of the area's top high school and college baseball coaches in pitching, infield play, hitting, outfield play, and base running. Organized games will be played between participants of the same age groups. The camp will use ball playing fields at Nomahegan Park across from the Cranford Campus. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, July 15 through 19.

Needlework for Kids, for ages nine through 12, has youngsters participate in projects such as counted cross-stitch and needlepoint on plastic canvas. It will be held from 10:10 to 11:10 a.m. on Monday through Thursday, July 15 through 18.

Be a Better Thinker, for ages eight through 12, enables children to select designs from numerous patterns and stencil on various materials. It will be held from 10:10 to 11:10 a.m. on Monday through Thursday, July 22 through 25.

Ceramics for Kids, for ages nine through 12, has students work on no-fire bisque figures and learn the art of staining, antiquing, and painting on ceramics. It will be held from 10:10 to 11:10 a.m. on Monday through Thursday, July 29 through Aug. 1.

A trip to Medieval Times, located in the Meadowlands Sports Complex, will show children spectacular pageantry, horsemanship, sword play, and an authentic jousting tournament. Price includes bus transportation, show, and a four-course Elizabethan dinner. Children under third grade must be accompanied by an adult, but other adults also are welcome. Buses will leave at 11:15 a.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 7, and return about 4 p.m. Registration is required by Wednesday, July 10.

Pre-registration is required.

Kelly gets four-year scholarship

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation recently announced that Jennifer D. Kelly has been selected as a winner of the J.P. Morgan Scholarship. This four-year scholarship is awarded solely on the basis of academic performance.

While at Wesleyan, she was a Founding Sister of Epsilon Sigma Chapter of national sorority Phi Sigma Sigma. She served as Panhellenic Representative to the sorority and held the office of vice chairman of the campus' Greek Council. Laura also was appointed to the position of teacher's assistant to Dr. Marilyn Del Brady, professor of American social history. She also has served as tutor for the History Department.

Students elected to 'Who's Who'

Joseph DeRubeis and Patricia Gerhardt, both of Westfield, are among 19 Union County College students elected to Who's Who Among American Students at Union County College for 1990-91.

Job seekers are welcome at Collegiate Career Day

Employers and recent college graduates seeking jobs will have the chance to get together at the next New Jersey Collegiate Career Day at Rutgers Friday, May 31.

The event is sponsored by Rutgers Career Services and the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce.

About 90 New Jersey companies will set up booths at Rutgers' Brower Commons and the Rutgers Student Center on College Avenue between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. to talk with graduates interested in working in the Garden State.

Graduates of any college or university who want to work in New Jersey are invited to participate, said Janet Bernardin, program coordinator of career services at Rutgers.

"Despite the sluggish economy, many companies are still hiring, or at least collecting resumes for anticipated openings in the near future," she said.

All degree levels and academic majors are welcome, and students will be able to discuss career opportunities with employer representatives and to interview for jobs.

Graduates planning to attend the program are advised to bring an ample supply of resumes and to dress as they would for a job interview. No fee will be charged for attending.

Companies will generally be located according to the following areas:

Rutgers Student Center: engineering, technical, health care-medical, management consulting, pharmaceutical, scientific-environmental-labs.

Brower Commons: consumer products, financial, hospitality, government, retail, service industries.

For more information about Career Day, call Rutgers Career Services at 932-8105 or 932-7998.

Lawson receives scholarship from Spanish Honor Society

The requirements for the scholarship application included: a typed essay (in Spanish) summarizing his goals and philosophies, a sample of his Spanish classwork, and a list of the school activities in which he participates.

David was one of 15 students throughout the nation to receive this award. He is a member of the National Honor Society, the National Spanish Honor Society, and the Westfield High School Spanish Club. He also volunteers as an assistant in the high school's Foreign Language Resource Center.

David plans to attend Hope College in Holland, Mich., this fall, and will major in Spanish. He hopes to become a teacher of foreign languages.

MacRitchie opposes

McClure said that the biggest concerns of the residents in the ward are the number 59 bus route, which runs through several residential streets, and airplane noise.

"It's town wide, but it's of great concern in the Third Ward," she said of airplane noise. "I was surprised at the number of people who mentioned it to me as I walked door-to-door."

On the matter of the $2.6 million Municipal Building renovation, both candidates agreed that it was best to do the work all at once.

"I'd say it would probably be most beneficial to get it done all in one time," said McClure.

"I don't see any savings in postponing it," MacRitchie said. "It should be done now. Mayor Bagger has done an excellent job in structuring it to minimize the burden taxpayers."

When asked to describe what it is about him that makes him a good councilman, MacRitchie said that he has "a proven track record on the legislative functions of a councilman, and a proven track record on constituent service."

MacRitchie said that he has excellent meeting attendance, background in finance and solid waste, and experience drafting ordinances. He also said that he responds to all constituent service requests in writing.

When asked what traits would make her a good member of the council, McClure said, "Certainly a willingness to make a commitment of the time, and a tremendous love of the town. That's what's motivating me to do this. Life has been very good to me, and it's time to give something back."

Greco faces Corbet

Greco said that the biggest concern in the ward is the possible closing of Roosevelt School.

"I am taking a stand and saying I am firmly opposed to its closing," he said, "and I oppose it because the people I speak to oppose it."

Corbet agreed, stating, "People are concerned that the school will be torn down and low cost housing will be built there. I would not like to see that, but I also do not want party politics to get in the way of the children's education."

On the subject of Municipal Building renovations, Corbet said that doing the work in stages could make the cost increase by as much as 25 percent.

"I would say at least 25 percent," he said. "The whole total is about $2.6 million, but given the state of the construction industry right now, I strongly believe it can be done for less than that."

Greco, however, feels the town would be better served by renovating in stages.

"My concern is that the complete renovations will not benefit all the people of the town," he said. "I think there are better ways to spend that money, and I question whether doing complete renovations is the best thing for the town in this time of recession."

Greco said that some of the rehab, such as the work in the Police Department, benefits the whole town and is necessary.

"But let's not spend if for the sake of spending it," he added.

Among the attributes that will make him a good councilman, Greco said, is that he is own man.

"There are no political strings attached to me," Greco said. "I'm a good listener, a do-er, and most of all I care, because I've lived in this town all my life. I'll bring a business-like approach to the office, as well as honesty and integrity. You'll know where you stand with me and I'm a person who gets things done."

"I am a good observer of what goes on," Corbet said when asked what traits make him an effective councilman. "I question things, I always let people know what I think. I'm willing to study and do my homework and I'm prepared to do the right thing, even if it is not the popular thing."

SHAWN MCMILLER, paraplegic since a 1989 assault, has adjusted to many inconveniences in his day to day life. Above, Shawn's father Julius helps him exit his home with the aid of a wheelchair lift. Below, Julius sets a board against his car, so he can slide his son in. The family hopes to get a van that would allow Shawn to be more independent.

A summary of this week's Town Council deliberations

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

Here are highlights of this week's Town Council meeting: ● Town administrator John Malloy said that fire chief Walter Ridge is still reviewing bids which were received for an exhaust ventilation system for the fire headquarters on North Avenue.

● A resolution allowing for the demolition of a garage at 808 South Avenue will be on the agenda for next week.

● An auction of bicycles in possession of the police department will be up for approval by the council next week. The auction is scheduled for June 15.

● The transportation, parking and traffic committee has recommended that two-hour parking meters be installed on Elmer Street from Lenox to North avenues. The matter will be discussed by the council in two weeks at its next agenda session.

● An ordinance approving the vacation of Country Club Road will be on the agenda for next week. The measure will allow the two homeowners on the road to pave it at their own expense.

● The council will vote whether to approve the cancellation of the balance of a series of special ordinances next week. The move could put about $73,000 into the capital surplus account and about $9,000 into capital improvements.

● An ordinance that will amend the construction code fee schedule in town will be up for a vote next week. Malloy said that the about 150 changes to the schedule, most state mandated, will result in about a 30 percent increase in fees.

● Bids for a traffic signal at Mill Lane and Springfield Avenue will be taken by the county on June 4.

● The public safety committee has recommended that school crossing guards who are crossing less than 10 children at lunch time be removed from their posts at that time of the day. The committee has also recommended that the guard currently at Kimball and Woodland avenues be switched to Linden and Kimball avenues.

● The Manor Park Swim Club has requested that they be released from deed restrictions, in case it is decided that the club must be sold because of financial problems. Councilman Gary Jenkins, whose building and town property committee will review the request, said that the club bought additional lands from the town years ago under resale restrictions. While the club hopes that relief in the form of tax abatement will come in September, they are guarding against the possibility of a sale, Jenkins said.

● Next week's government meeting will be on Wednesday instead of Tuesday. The change stems from the primary election on Tuesday.

New van would help

When he came to, Shawn said, the group had moved out into the street. He said that two individuals, who have never been identified, grabbed him from behind, picked him up, and held him perpendicular to the ground. After taking a running start, the man in front dropped to one knee and the pair drove his head into the asphalt.

"I suffered a broken neck and a severed spinal cord," he said, "and was paralyzed from the chest down."

Shawn spent six months in The Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation in West Orange and another nine months on an outpatient basis.

He believes the police have done what they can in their investigation, but he is frustrated that eyewitnesses or people with information about the assault have not come forward.

"A lot of people (at the scene) took off, or said they didn't see anything," he said. "My ex-wife's niece was questioned several times and told several different stories. I wish more people would be cooperative."

His father and brother canvassed the neighborhood with copies of a newspaper article about the incident, in the hope that someone would come forward with information. No one did.

Shawn believes that many people who lived in the area of the assault questioned his part in the incident. He said that the newspaper article also got the story wrong.

"I just want the story to come out that I was a victim," he said.

"Sometimes I feel like everybody thinks I was the troublemaker."

What also disturbs McMiller is the elusive reasons behind the assault.

"I still don't know why they went to such an extreme," he said of his attackers. "I don't know whether they tried to paralyze me or just wanted to knock me out. It still confuses me as to why."

Now that he has completed therapy on an outpatient basis, Shawn is trying to get on with his life. He recently finished vocational training at The Robert Wood Johnson Rehabilitation Institute, and is interested in a career in computers.

What would help make Shawn more independent, his father said, is a customized van that would allow him to travel alone.

"The insurance company has been great," Shawn said. "They've paid for everything. They'd pay for the modifications for a van, but we'd have to buy the van."

The van is an expense the family can not afford, however.

Currently, Shawn's wheelchair is lowered from the back of the McMiller's house with the use of an electric lift. His parents then help him into their car using a wood ramp.

"It's pretty difficult," Julius said. "We don't mind, but it'd be easier with the van."

The customized van would allow Shawn to gain access through a side door ramp, and would have a gas pedal and break at hand level.

"It would help if he could get out to his friends," Katie said. "It's kind of lonely for him sometimes, with just the two of us with him every day."

On the job and on the board

When the federal government decided to fund a policy research group, she and several other colleagues at different universities banded together and wrote a proposal. They were awarded a five-year grant, which was renewed last year.

In addition to gathering information, Fuhrman said, "We spend a lot of effort disseminating results. In the first five years, we spoke to about 60,000 people."

She has also just been named to the Commissioner's Task Force on Educational Assessment and Monitoring. Monitoring legislation was passed at the same time as the Quality Education Act, she said, explaining that the task force's job will be to, "come up with new standards for holding schools accountable." The problem with the current monitoring system, she said, is "There is lots of paperwork and no real indicators of performance."

Performance is key, according to Fuhrman. She wants to see standardized tests such as the HSPT altered to include more "performance components."

Fuhrman's research has given her strong views about the educational systems in Westfield and in the United States as a whole.

"We're just starting to look into other countries," she said, adding, that in some schools in other countries, "The importance of education is reinforced," by providing students with incentives to do well.

Although "There are aspects of the president's program I find exciting," Fuhrman added, "I don't want to see a tracking and sorting system like in some other countries. We're a nation of second chances. We should incorporate rather than exclude."

The best thing about our nation's schools, she said, is "We want to educate everyone."

The worst thing is "a lack of support for students out of school. The schools are being asked to take on tasks way out of their key missions, especially in urban districts."

The best thing about Westfield schools, Fuhrman said, is that the community is "supportive of education." And while she says, "There is nothing very worse about Westfield," she admits there is a danger the community will become complacent. "We need to keep it challenging," she said.

Fuhrman's work has helped her in her position as a local board member. She also has direct experience with the schools: she has lived here for 19 years, and all three of her children have been in Westfield schools. The oldest is graduating from Rutgers and plans to earn an MBA. The second is a sophomore at Tufts University and the youngest, a freshman at Westfield High School.

"It has been useful to me to be on the school board," she said, explaining that her duties there gives her further understanding of districts around the country. "We had to hire a superintendent when I first got there (on the board); we've dealt with restructuring and budget cuts. I've dealt with every situation."

Where Westfield's future is concerned, Fuhrman said, "I'd like to see more school-based management, more flexibility at the school site, and parent participation. I'd also like to see us look into the middle school philosophy, to make it more personalized and less of a mini high school."

On hand for the festivities was F.S. He was named general superintendent and secretary of the commission in 1957, a post he held until 1960.

Council approves move of 59 bus route to South Avenue

By Donald Pizzi Jr.
Record staff writer

The Town Council voted 6-1 Tuesday to move the number 59 bus route from Summit Avenue to the less residential South Avenue.

Town administrator John Malloy said that New Jersey Transit now must be notified in writing of the town's decision. Malloy said that he did not believe any formal action such as a resolution was needed.

The council's transportation, parking and traffic committee was split 2-2 on the issue prior to the vote.

Councilwoman Margaret Sur, who chairs the committee, said that the diesel buses do have an environmental impact, which is one reason she felt they should be moved from the mainly residential street. She also cited the problem of child safety.

A proposal to reroute the bus down Central Avenue gained no support from the governing body.

The $1,984 check was presented to A. John Glockner, Watchung Area Council president on May 20, at the council's annual meeting held at Union County College in Cranford. The presentation was made by two Exxon retirees, Gordon D. Specht and George P. Gross, both of Westfield, who made arrangements for the grant. Specht is an Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 72 of Westfield and Gross is a Troop Committee member of Troop 77 of Westfield where he served for many years as its Troop Committee Chairman.

The jobs will be done on an appointment basis and will be organized and supervised by the Red Cross. Materials must be provided by the resident and the Red Cross will provide transportation for the student hired.

The handyman program is in response to the Union County Division on Aging's survey of elderly citizens in Union County which found that approximately 40 percent of those surveyed reported a need for some assistance inside and outside the home. In addition to answering the division's recommendations, both the Westfield Foundation and the Red Cross believe that the handyman program will provide valuable social contact for both the clients and students involved. Students interested may call the Red Cross at 232-7090.

Come savor nine kinds of superb Kabobs.

There are no secrets to the ways in which we prepare our freshly made Kabobs every day.

We simply skewer the best meats, seafoods and vegetables one by one. Come to our Butcher's Corner, for example, and see for yourself.

Our butchers cut our Beef Kabobs from our own tender USDA Choice Sirloin Steak after they've trimmed the Sirloin to one-eighth of an inch of fat or less.

Our Lamb Kabobs are strictly USDA Choice American Lamb, the finest in the land. And each tender cube is cut only from the Leg.

For our Pork Kabobs, which we prepare with the finest Western Grain-Fed Pork, we use only the Tenderloin.

As for our Chicken Kabobs, they're cut only from the Breast. And we insist on our own Kings Country Farm Fresh Chickens, the freshest birds in town.

Our Seafood Corner is just as particular.

The tenderest, most flavorful Swordfish from Hawaii is yours in our Swordfish Kabobs.

The Yellowfin Tuna in our Tuna Kabobs is from the Caribbean. And each fish is caught by long line to protect the dolphins.

Our Shrimp and Monkfish Kabobs offer you our Red Tiger Shrimp from Singapore and our Monkfish from the North Atlantic.

And the large, tender Scallops in our special Scallop Kabobs are from the North Atlantic, too.

Each of our Kabobs is yours either with or without the freshest vegetables from the Farmer's Corner, which offers you a meatless Kabob all its own consisting of Cherry Tomatoes, Mushrooms, Peppers and Onions.

So come to Kings and discover all of the many differences that quality can make. It's worth every penny. This week and every week.

Booster awards honor nine scholar-athletes

The Westfield School Boosters Association held its 24th annual All-Sports dinner last night at the Westwood in Garwood. Tom Mix, head lacrosse coach at the University of Pennsylvania, was the featured speaker.

The dinner is held annually to honor all graduating senior scholar-athletes and to recognize their dedication and achievements. An award was presented to every senior athlete and a special plaque was given to each member of an undefeated or state championship team.

The highlight of the evening was the awarding of nine scholar-athlete awards, each for $1,000. This year's recipients were Jenée Anzelone, Anne Burkett, Brian Cheek, Jodi Heimlich, Mark Linenberg, Michele Mollard, Kanade Shinkai, Lee Topar and Heather Wigg.

The winners were selected on the basis of athletic accomplishment as well as scholarship and leadership as demonstrated by participation in student and community affairs. The scholar-athlete must achieve a minimum 2.5 grade point average to be eligible for consideration.

The scholarships this year consisted of memorial awards to honor past coaches, athletes and boosters. In addition to awards given by the Boosters organization, awards were donated by the Cosenza Agency, Taylor and Love Realtors, Friends of Westfield Track, Mr. & Mrs. Terry G. Kelley and two by an individual Booster member.

JENÉE ANZELONE was presented with the Walter L. Clarkson Honorary Award, donated by the Friends of Westfield Track to honor Walt Clarkson, a retired and renowned coach of the Westfield track and cross country teams. The daughter of Peter and Ivette Anzelone, Jenée won eight varsity letters in cross country, winter track and spring track and was captain of all three teams.

Her athletic awards included most valuable player in cross country and winter track, two-time Watchung Conference and Union County 800-meter champion, 1990 Union County 1600-meter champ, 1990 Group IV sectional 800-meter outdoor champion, 1991 Group IV runner-up indoor 800-meter and state indoor 800-meter champion. Jenée holds the school record for both the indoor and outdoor 800-meter run.

Academically, Jenée ranks in the top third of her class and is a member of the National Honor Society, Latin Club, Art Club and Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). In addition, she is a member of the Holy Trinity CYO and a soup kitchen volunteer. She will attend the University of Pennsylvania.

Rountree, Anzelone sectional winners

By Josh Albertson

Drew Rountree overtook Lee Barnett of Columbia on his last throw to gain first in the discus and lead the Westfield High School boys track team to a seventh-place finish at the North Jersey, Section 2, Group IV championships on Saturday.

Westfield tallied 19 points, six less than sixth-place Columbia. Elizabeth was the winner with 50.

Rountree followed up his discus victory with a second place in the shot put, where he was backed up by teammate Maurice Barnett. Rountree's toss of 51-feet, 6 1/2-inches was eight inches short of first while Barnett was third, just three and a half behind Rountree.

These performances qualified the weight men for the Group IV state championships, where they will be joined by Westfield runners Isak Baldwin and Grant Cowell.

Baldwin ran to a second place in the 3200 meters, crossing the line in 10:07.7 in extremely hot conditions. Jason Vigilante of Morristown, who is the reigning cross country sectional champion, was the only man faster than Baldwin on the day.

Cowell, who had minimal time to warm up, ran a 1:59.3 800 meters to place fourth. Cowell was in the lead for a short while, but Jean Destine of Elizabeth pulled away en route to tying the meet record of 1:53.

On the girls' side, Jenée Anzelone continued to impress as she won her second straight sectional 800-meter title. Anzelone, who won the county champion-

Dashed hopes Laxers ousted from states

By Brian Carovillano
Record Correspondent

The Westfield lacrosse season ended abruptly last Saturday with an unexpected loss to lower seed Delbarton in the state tournament's quarterfinals. The laxers put forward a 14-4 record on the season. The loss came after a decisive 19-2 second-round victory over No. 18 seed Seton Hall Prep.

After receiving a first-round bye, the third seeded Devils faced the Pony Pirates, who had previously beaten No. 16 Voorhees in an 8-6 contest. Seton Hall picked up a ground ball after the faceoff and took it downfield for the game's first goal, but from there on it was all Westfield. The Blue Devils tossed in six consecutive unanswered goals in the first quarter, then continued with more of the same in the second to take an 11-1 halftime lead.

In the second half the Blue Devil reserves kept the pressure on, scoring eight more unanswered goals before Seton Hall finished the game in the same fashion it had begun, scoring the final goal with less than a minute to play. Chris Wojcik led the scorers with seven goals, adding two assists for nine points. Fellow attackman Matt Connell also contributed six points with three goals and three assists.

Delbarton came to Westfield Saturday having lost here just three weeks ago in a 14-8 thrashing. This game would prove to take a different course, however, as Kevin Mahoney opened the scoring to put Delbarton up 1-0. Connell answered back to even it up soon after, but Delbarton's Kevin Lynak scored to end the first with the Green Wave up 2-1. The second quarter saw more Delbarton scoring against a listless Blue Devil team. At the intermission the Green Wave was up, 5-2, the Devil goal coming early in the second from Matt Prybylski.

The explosive Westfield offense came to life at the opening of the third quarter, with Prybylski, Connell and senior co-captain Brian Cheek scoring in a flurry to tie the game at five. Penalties

Batsmen lose in county final; still alive in state tournament

By Seth Coren
Record Correspondent

The Westfield High School varsity baseball team fell to Elizabeth in the final round of the Union County Tournament, 10-1, while advancing to the semifinal round of the state sectionals. The Devils fell to Linden in a Watchung Conference matchup last Thursday. The season record now stands at 19-9.

The Minutemen jumped on starter John Fox early in the UCT final, capitalizing on a leadoff walk to score two runs in the first inning on only one hit.

Aided by six walks, Elizabeth pushed across five runs in the second on just two hits. The lead stood at 7-0 after just two innings, and Elizabeth starter Pat Migliore flustered Blue Devil batters throughout the game, allowing just one hit and striking out 14.

Sophomore Chris Infantino supplied the only hit, a soft liner into right field in the third inning. Infantino would be stranded at third base. In the fourth, however, the crowd stirred as Fox was struck by a pitch, and after moving to third on a stolen base and a groundout, the senior standout crossed the plate on a wild pitch to notch the Devils' only run.

lowed three runs in six innings of relief work, yielding five hits and striking out six. There was a glimmer of hope in the bottom of the sixth frame as the Devils loaded the bases with two outs, but Migliore was able to retire sophomore Dan Higgins to thwart the rally.

The Devils defeated Union, 3-2, in the quarterfinal round of the Group IV, North Jersey, Section 2 playoffs, propelling Westfield into a semifinal matchup with Morris Knolls on Tuesday (too late for deadline), and, if victorious, possibly a rematch with Elizabeth tomorrow. Infantino (7-2) took a two-hit shutout into the sixth inning before surrendering three hits and two runs — the only offense the Farmers would produce.

Junior Drew Keehn and senior Mike Smith walked to lead off the game, putting runners on first and second. After a one out balk, Fox came through with a clutch single to give Westfield a 1-0 advantage.

Keehn got things started in the third as he slapped a leadoff single. After Smith dropped a sacrifice bunt to move Keehn to second, Fox rose to the occasion once again, driving a single through the infield to plate Keehn.

Padres 8, Angels 7
Padres 10, Mets 7

The Padres (9-4) finished the season undefeated by beating two formidable opponents in close games. The Padres will receive a bye in the first round of the playoffs scheduled to begin on June 1. However, they will be without the services of their power hitting, golden glove infielder Sarah Gordon who will be on the disabled list throughout the playoffs. Gordon was among the league leaders in all hitting categories.

The Padres had a terrific season that was truly a team achievement. Amy Edge and Heather Post hit safely in all nine games. Amanda DiGirolamo led the team in batting average (.550), RBI and pitching victories. Megan Tassumano had the best fielding percentage, Lauren McGovern had the most walks, Edge had the most pitching saves, Post had the most hits and a .735 batting average, and Mary Gilmarin had good all-around stats.

Gretchen Mansfield was the most improved player, she upped her batting average by 300 points in the last five games and solidified the defense with her sparkling play in shortfield. Suzanne Vierno had the best hits-to-on-base ratio, Anisa Dujic was the most versatile fielder, Trudy Schundler had the highest batting average and Laura Sweeney had the highest on-base percentage among sixth graders.

Jaguars tame Orioles, 11-6

The Jaguars' bats came to life as they earned their third victory of the season.

Brian Osborn, Jeremy Chilnick and Sam Ruecktenwald each struck out three Orioles batters in their one-inning stints on the mound, as the Jaguars forged an 11-1 lead through three innings. Chilnick scored the first of five Jaguar first-inning runs as Robbie Chernela and Reucktenwald each stroked RBI singles. Other RBI were contributed by Eddie Thomas and Tom Langton. Tom O'Connell delivered his second hit of the game the following inning, when the Jaguars also had a run scored by Paul Kazazis and an RBI by Chris Dixon. Reucktenwald had his second hit in the third inning, as RBI singles were hit by Greg Tatum and Osborn. Max Langford drove in the final run of the inning with a hard-hit groundball.

The Orioles rallied in the final as they scored five runs and loaded the bases before Niko Tricarico, coming out of the bullpen, could register the final three outs of the inning to preserve the victory.

Spikers end season on up note

By Jessica Walsh
Record Correspondent

Coming off a slow start, the Westfield High School volleyball team has shown a successful rebound this season. Co-captains Debbie Peluso and Michele Mollard led the team on the court. They are among the six graduating seniors this season.

This past week, the Devils triumphed over Union on Tuesday and Rahway on Wednesday.

In the first Union game, the scoring was led by senior Peluso and freshman Gloria Ko, each with seven points. Mollard performed three successful kills, followed by Heather Wigg and Rose Marie Miller with two each. The second game was again a success as Peluso scored five points. In this game it was Miller with three points and two kills who dominated the offense.

The win against Rahway was secured for Westfield in two games with scores of 15-7 and 15-2. Peluso in the first game led the scoring with seven points. She was followed by Wigg who had five points on her serve. Mollard came out on top with four successful kills. In the second game, Wigg led the scoring with six points, followed by Peluso, who had four. Mollard stood out for the offense and secured two kills.

The season ended yesterday with a home game against Scotch Plains, too late for deadline.

Hanna wins volleyball honors at Marist

Senior outside hitter Tom Hanna, who founded the Marist men's volleyball club, was named a Division II all-American at the 1991 National Collegiate Club Volleyball Championships in Colorado Springs. Hanna, who also serves as coach and co-captain, finished up his collegiate career while leading Marist to a ninth place finish in Division II.

Hanna, a 1987 Westfield High School graduate, paced the Red Foxes with his outstanding all-around play. Marist was led by Hanna's team-high 70 kills during the tournament, as well as his passing and defensive abilities, which anchored the Red Fox defense. Hanna finished his career with over 700 kills and just missed recording his 500th dig in the 1991 season. He currently holds 16 club records.

Since arriving on the Poughkeepsie, N.Y. campus in September of 1987, Hanna has been the driving force of the Marist volleyball program, which also includes the school's varsity women's team, which competes in Division I. Hanna is currently serving as interim head coach of the women's program after serving as assistant coach for three and a half years. He's also finishing up his fourth year as coach of the men's team, a position he held while playing.

Hanna said he was excited to finish up his career with all-American honors, but had one regret. "It's a great way to go out as an individual, but I would trade anything for us to have finished up with a stronger record and a higher finish at the Nationals," he said. Marist finished the season a disappointing 9-22 after finishing 13-9 last season. "We lost some key players who were supposed to return and our schedule was definitely above us," Hanna said, "but we still should have finished closer to a .500 record." The Nationals were just a part of the tough schedule that Marist took on this season.

Hanna has been nominated for two awards for his contributions both on and off the court by his fellow coaches at Marist. Both awards recognize students for their contributions to the Marist athletic department.

GIRLS
Division IV
Jazz 6, Nether Providence 0

Competing in the Eastern Pennsylvania Invitational Tournament, the Jazz faced off against some good regional teams on its run to the championship round. The Jazz combo of team speed, ball control tactics and conditioning proved to be a troublesome trio of skills for these opponents.

In the team's first game, the players got off to their patented slow start, and the action rocked back and forth. Vintage Jazz defense led by Becky Hamilton, Kati Bertelson, Hill, Jessica Humphreys and Stefuk stopped the Palominos. The first Jazz run to strike began off a crisp cross by Stefuk to Egan who carried and crossed hard to the box. Margaret Kostro finished it for the first Jazz journey tally.

The Jazz were then able to swing the action to their advantage. Kostro broke away from the pack to out run the Palomino defenders. Kostro lifted a high drive over a changing keeper for the 2-0 score.

The Jazz were warming up with the day. Suzanne Vinegra and Abby O'Neill worked the left side. Kostro trapped a goal kick, returning a picture feed to O'Neill, who one-timed it through the keeper, 3-0 Jazz.

Forcing the Jazz back on defense, the Palominos were awarded a penalty kick. But the Jazz keeper, Vicki Nusse, was ready. Moving sharply on the touch, she guided the try wide of the net as the Jazz held the 3-0 lead.

The Jazz jumped out of the gate after halftime. Humphreys set up at fullback to steal a Palomino cross, centering to Kostro. Kostro worked her way through the defenders to score the hat trick and the Jazz fourth.

Roping in the Palominos became a true test for the Jazz defense. Bertelson, Rodihan, Nusse and Humphreys controlled all strays. When the Palominos tried a clear kick, Hamilton swept up to cover and return. One of her longer clears sailed to the top of the box, and Kostro was there for a turn and shoot fifth score. Constant pressure by Brahm, Egan, Megan Elliott and Allie Faulkner forced the Palominos to retreat. A smart throw-in by Kostro found Nusse open. Nusse's 15-yard liner popped in the final game tally.

Jazz 7, Yardley 1

Taking advantage of a long break between games, a well-rested Jazz faced the host team next. This time the action was quick and physical on both sides of the ball. Kati Bertelson paced the Jazz defense with quick field changes on the Express. It was a strong through pass by Bertelson that sent Megan Elliott. Pure hustle and determination by Elliott derailed the Express early. Her low hard drive made the far post for the opener.

The Jazz switched gears to passing. Allie Faulkner started the ball wide to Kostro. Kostro changed fields to Nusse. Nusse moved it down and out to Brahm. Brahm two-stepped past the last defender and buried it deep for the 2-0 lead.

But the Express got back on track. A rally downfield was cut short by Jessica Humphreys' strong tackle and clear to Bertelson. Bertelson rocketed it back again to Egan on the run. Katie fed Brahm, whose left side drive was bobbed by the Express goalie. Nusse crashed in to scoop the roller in for the third Jazz score.

Yardley came right back again. This time a good through pass caught the Jazz up too tight. The Express striker freed up to rifle it past a charging Sarah Hill for the only score against the Jazz.

The second period started rolling with neither team at the advantage. Strong physical play by Rodihan, Stefuk, Humphreys and Hamilton kept the Express in the slow lanes. Both teams had tries that tailed all wide or high but no success.

Last mid-period, Kostro took a Vinegra throw-in deep. Kostro fired up wide for a shot that carried over the Express keeper, 4-1 Jazz.

Catching a second wind, the Jazz turned on the heat. Kostro put one in close from the left. Claire Kendrick picked it up quickly for the fifth finish. Suzanne Vinegra pushed one hard down the line with skill and power. Her cross to the box found Kostro for the easy putt and a 6-1 final.

Jazz 7, West Chester 0

The following morning, Jazz squared off against a pumped up West Chester squad. Quickly the Jazz found themselves down in its own home turf. Fortunately, the alarm sounded for the Jazz defense. Humphreys, Stefuk and Hamilton stopped the Hawks Hill and Bertelson defended the middle and the Jazz returned.

Revelry jarred the Jazz scoring machine as it rolled upfield. Volleys by Egan, Brahm, Faulkner and Megan Elliott could not find an opening to the Hawks' nest. After several runs, Kostro got clear on center and popped in the eye-opener.

Fully awake, the Jazz offense really got in tune. Elliott swept wide with a Faulkner feed. She shipped it to Kostro at the top who set up Hill, who put it in for the 2-0 lead. Brahm and Egan put on an aggressive ball control show for the fans. A weak clear was gathered in by Elliott, whose power scored the third of the half.

There was no let-up in the second period as constant pressure rocked the Hawks. Suzanne Vinegra teamed with Abby O'Neill to fly past the winded Hawks. O'Neill opened one up for Kostro who scored from 10 yards out for a 4-0 lead.

Vinegra quickly followed, hammering one into the goal. Claire Kendrick slipped in behind the defense to redirect it under the keeper for the fifth. The Jazz were unloading from 18 yards now. Bertelson, Stefuk, Egan, Elliott and Vinegra all popped. Brahm rifled one that hit the crossbar. Elliott rebounded the rebound and fired in the sixth. After Egan and Kostro were denied, Elliott completed her hat trick with another ground finish for the final 7-0.

Jazz 4, Hamilton 0

Squaring off against another New Jersey late cup contender, the Jazz expected to face hard times. But the Jazz defenders matched the deer Hurricane forwards step for step. The Jazz offense proved too quick for the Hibernian backline.

Vicki Nusse set the tone early with some aggressive midfield play for the Jazz. Her opening volley from 25 yards proved too hot to handle. The Jazz jumped out to the 1-0 lead.

Egan, Brahm, Kostro, Allie Faulkner and Megan Elliott teamed with Nusse to pin down the Hurricanes and deflate Hibernian up front pressure. Faulkner powered a corner kick to and through the box. Elliott finished it from right wing as the Jazz controlled, 2-0.

The Jazz then called up a little of their own luck. A hand call against the Hibernians set up Kostro on a penalty shot. Kostro gave their keeper no chance as she buried it deep to the corner for the third score. The Jazz lines all yelled. Smooth transition ball by Rothschild, O'Neill, Kendrick and Vinegra took advantage of overlaps by Rodihan, Stefuk and Humphreys and patrolled the backfield turning defense to offense off Hurricane clears.

At the start of the second period, the Hurricanes mounted some early changes, but Rodihan, Humphreys, Hamilton and Bertelson reeled in their forwards before any damage could be done. Then the action shifted back to the Hibernian end.

Aimee Stout will join Anzelone as she earned a place in this weekend's championships with a third place in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. Stout's time of 1:06.5 was only .5 seconds behind second place Kyla Scott of Columbia.

Stout and Anzelone will also team up with Anne Engell and Erin Allebaugh in the mile relay, which took fifth on Saturday.

The 10 points accumulated in these three races allowed the Blue Devils to take 10th overall, just four points from fifth.

slowed down the streak, however, as Delbarton was able to score in man-up situations to go up 7-5 at the quarter's end. The Blue Devil offense couldn't get it back as the game ended with each team scoring one in the fourth for an 8-6 decision, ending the Westfield season. Connell led Blue Devil scorers with two goals and two assists.

Sixth seeded Delbarton went on to face No. 2 Ridgewood, winner of 32 consecutive games, in Tuesday's semifinal at Madison Borough. The winner of that game will face the Montclair-Mountain Lakes victor for the state championship Saturday at Madison.

Fox opened the top of the sixth with a double, his third hit in three trips to the plate, and senior Jim Barone singled to put runners on first and third. Sophomore Dave Duelsk singled to bring home Fox and give the Devils a 3-0 lead.

The Farmers scored twice in the sixth, but Infantino shut the door in the seventh to give Westfield the victory.

The Linden Tigers defeated the Devils for the first time this season, 17-8, in regular-season play after falling to Westfield twice this month already. Linden pounded out 16 hits off of five Westfield pitchers, highlighted by a seven-run second inning.

Offensively, Keehn slapped two singles and drove in a run, and Barone singled and scored twice. Higgins reached base and scored four times while driving in a run, and Infantino chipped in two RBI.

Ninth grade lacrosse team makes record books

By Lori Chellus and Seth Coren
Record Correspondents

The 9th grade lacrosse team ended its season but will remain in the record books in four different areas. The team had the most wins for a Westfield freshman lacrosse team, tied for the fewest losses, scored the most goals (108) and had the least number of goals against (28). According to Coach Ron Barner, the key to the season was an unselfish team-oriented squad.

In its last two outings, the team defeated North Hunterdon, 5-2, and St. Joe's, 8-1.

The JV softball team ended its season on a one-hit shutout victory from Cari Greenwald. Greenwald only allowed a single in the second inning. At the plate, Sharon Hay went 2-for-4 with two RBI while Katie Richardson went 2-for-3 and Shannon Swist went 2-for-3 with two RBI. The final score was 10-0.

Junior Beth Silbergeld led the team in batting average (.542) and RBI (29). Freshman Liz Devlin, who hit .492, was first in hits with 29. Sophomore Hay, who hit .407, was the only player to play in all 19 games and led the team in runs scored (37) and stolen bases with 15. Sophomore Amy Korchak had the most extra base hits with five doubles, two triples and three home runs. Sophomore Richardson was first in on-base percentage (.603).

On the mound, junior Greenwald (10-3) pitched 74 innings and had 61 strikeouts, three shutouts and a 3.49 ERA. Freshman Sue McCloy was 6-0 with a 2.50 ERA. The team finished with a 16-3 record.

The 8th grade baseball team ended with a 13-1 record as it won its last two games. Against Orange Avenue (Cranford), Steve Cheek had the win in the 12-2 victory. Scott Gersch went 3-for-3 and Jim Wholly had a triple. In the 18-0 win over Roosevelt (Elizabeth), Dave Schaller had a home run and the win while Gersch went 2-for-2 and stole home. Ed Joffe had two hits, and John Conover had two RBI.

The team averaged 15 runs scored per game while averaging only two against. The team missed being undefeated by one game, one which they lost in the bottom of the sixth inning. Marcus Cognetti and Chris Brucia, who were selected as alternates for this year's team, still came to every practice and ended up playing in many games.

Golfers win two more

By Dryden Watner
Record Correspondent

The Westfield High School golf team added two more wins last week, over Watchung Hills and Union, to improve its record to 12-2.

Westfield beat Watchung, 152-165, thanks in large part to Cregg Watner's 35, one under par for the Echo Lake course. Watner started off the match strong, with birdies on the first three holes.

Co-captain Ted Danser finished behind Watner with a 38 and Brian O'Connor turned in a 39. Dave Broad rounded off the scoring with an even 40.

Last Thursday the Blue Devils buried Union at the Suburban Golf Course in Union, a tight, hilly course which gave some Westfield golfers a few problems.

Tennis team regains title

By Josh Schwartz

The Westfield boys tennis team finished off its season last week with a 20-6 record, finishing ranked No. 1 in the county and regaining the Watchung Conference title it lost to Elizabeth last year.

To be assured of that title, the Blue Devils had to play Elizabeth twice last week. On Tuesday the team played host to the Minutemen and handed them a 4-1 loss. At first singles Colin Upham lost to Matt Fortna, 6-4, 6-0. At second singles Chris Harris ended his season with a win, defeating Luis Sinibaldi, 7-6, 6-3. At third singles Seth Rosen had no trouble with his opponent, defeating him 6-0, 6-2.

At the doubles positions, Larry Beller and Garth Burrill ended

Although Westfield's scores were not unusually low, no one from Union was able to break 50. Once again Danser shot a 38, two over par for this course. Danser's short game was not up to his usual standards, but he compensated with good drives and fairway shots.

Watner finished with a 44 while Rich Jeremiah and O'Connor both had 45s.

All the members of the Westfield team encountered problems on the seventh hole, which Watner called "one of the trickiest" holes he had ever played. "The fairways are tight and you must hit an iron off the tee and place the ball perfectly, or else you don't have a shot to the green," he said.

Westfield wrapped up its season with a match against Cranford on Tuesday (too late for deadline).

their season with a 21-3 record by defeating their opponents 6-1, 6-0. At second doubles, Simon Baukh and Mark McGann posted a shut-out.

Wednesday the Devils traveled to Elizabeth for another contest. At first singles Bernardo Castro-Silver lost to Fortna 6-1, 6-0. At second Brett Garra played a tough first set, losing it 7-6, but in the second Luis Sinibaldi ran away with it, 6-1. At the third singles position, Josh Schwartz lost the first set, 6-2, but eventually battled back by winning the next two, 6-3, 6-4, and clinching for the Blue Devils a 3-2 victory.

At the doubles positions Matt Fountain and Mark Spirm won with ease, 6-1, 6-1. At the second spot Luis Clinton and Jeff Roesgen won 6-2, 6-1.

Scotch Plains in the championship game of the Union County Tournament, 8-4. It was the team's fourth loss of the season, bringing its season record to a 21-4 finish. The Raiders jumped on the Devils early, scoring four times in the first inning. Westfield tried mounting a comeback in the late innings, but poor defense allowed Scotch Plains to seal the victory as they added three runs in the sixth inning.

The 9th grade baseball team won 7-2 against South Plainfield and 7-0 against Elizabeth. Pete Morris hurled the Plainfield victory, while Chris Vogel had 12 strikeouts in five innings in the Elizabeth win. Mark Koslowsky blasted a home run against Elizabeth to spark the offense.

ris. He was also pleased with Vogel's performance. "He was everything I thought he would be," said Carey.

The 8th grade softball team lost 13-10 to Orange Avenue (Cranford) but beat Hillside (Cranford) 18-6 and Roosevelt (Elizabeth) 18-0.

Coach Judy Cabanas noted Natalie Zarrillo for a fine season performance on the mound and heads-up thinking by her team. After coaching the team for 15 years, this will be her last season as eighth grade sports are being cut from next year's curriculum.

The 9th grade softball team ended its season with two wins to bring its record to 10-5. The team beat Cranford 10-7 and Bishop Ahr 12-2.

Last year's celebrities included Jeff Torborg, Chicago White Sox manager, Dave Masur of the Penn/Jersey Spirit and Mike Sheppard, Seton Hall baseball coach.

All participants will receive a camp t-shirt and participation awards. These camps are open to residents ages 8-17. For additional information on the programs, consult the brochure or call the Recreation Department at 789-4080.

Pool offers memberships

The Westfield Recreation Commission is accepting memberships for the Westfield Memorial Pool's 1991 summer season. New categories have been developed in order to better service the community, including resident family with full-time child care and resident or non-resident husband and wife.

Registration fees are as follows:

Category	Res.	Non-res.
Family	$185	$360
Family F/T care	$240	N/A
Husband & wife	$150	$300
Individual	$110	$215
Senior citizen	$50	$95

Swim lesson registration has also begun. Because of their popularity, those interested are urged to join early. The popular and successful swim team will also be offered again this year.

To join, stop by the Memorial Pool office on the second floor of the Municipal Building. For more information, call 789-4085.

Abramowitz wins squash title

Hillary Abramowitz of Westfield won the women's B draw at the Summer Squash Championships held at the Chatham Club, 484 Southern Boulevard, Chatham last week. She defeated Sue Carter of Madison in the finals, 3-0.

Pat Cosquer, also of Westfield, lost in the semifinals of the junior draw to eventual runnerup Andrew Merrill of Short Hills, 3-0.

Dembiec, Dursee scholar-athletes

Christopher Dembiec and Timothy Dursee, both of Westfield, recently received Union County College's scholar-athlete awards for excellence in both academic and athletics during the 1990-91 academic year.

Recipients of the award must have played two years on a UCC team and received a letter for their performance.

Dembiec played on the soccer team while Dursee played on the men's basketball team.

PAL to sponsor

8th grade football

Due to budget restrictions for the 1991-92 school year, the eighth grade football program for students in Edison and Roosevelt Intermediate schools has been eliminated. The Westfield Police Athletic League, however, has volunteered to sponsor a team. It will play a competitive nine-game schedule as a member of the Suburban Union County Youth Football League.

Three coaches are needed for the program to succeed. The season runs from September 1 to November 22. Interested candidates should call Joe Young at 233-6383 or Ron Allen at 789-4019.

Bernstein wins outdoor medal

Irwin Bernstein of Westfield won his first medal of the outdoor masters track season at the New York Masters Sports Club Classic at Kings Point, N.Y. last weekend. Representing the Garden State Athletic Club in the 800 meters for ages 55-59, Bernstein placed third with a time of 2:29.7.

In June, Bernstein will seek his fourth straight TAC outdoor championship and third straight state Senior Games title.

Wrestlers gain regional berths

Several Westfield wrestlers competed in the New Jersey State Freestyle and Greco Roman championships recently, qualifying the boys to wrestle in the Northeast Regional championships at the Niagra Falls Convention Center.

INTRODUCTIONS

A WAY FOR PEOPLE TO MEET PEOPLE

Isn't it time to get out and meet some new people? "Introductions" are easy and confidential. With Forbes Classified, you can place your own "voice mail" personal ad and await responses, or you can leave a personal message for a voice you'd like to meet.

How "Introductions" works: Just put a FREE ad in your local Forbes Newspaper, and then record a more detailed 900-number message. Now other singles can hear your message and record their own message in response. There's no waiting for a letter with this "introduction." You can even listen to the voices of those interested in meeting you.

Beginning on June 3, you can place your free "Introductions" ad just by calling 1-800-334-0531. Our specially trained staff will help you write your introduction ad. The Forbes six-line ad is free. The cost for the voice message is $2.00 for the first minute and $1.50 for each additional minute.

Honoring 'America's newest heroes'

Mayor Richard Bagger's Memorial Day address

America's first Memorial Day — 125 years ago this spring — was held to honor the Union dead who had fallen in small towns and distant places such as Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Bull Run and Shiloh.

The proud members of the Grand Army of the Republic marched down Main Street that first Memorial Day, while the returning heroes' friends and neighbors applauded. The bands played a tune called "When Johnny Came Marching Home" and, as the song said, the men cheered and the boys shouted and the ladies all turned out, when Johnny came marching home.

They did the same on Memorial Days past when our grandfathers came home from World War I and again when our fathers and uncles came home from World War II and later from Korea. The men would cheer, the boys would shout, and the ladies would all turn out, when the heroes of those generations came marching home.

But when our older brothers came home from Vietnam, there were no parades. The bands stayed home and the cheers were silent. It was wrong, and America only recently began to cheer and say a belated thank you to the heroes of that war.

And today on Memorial Day we honor America's newest heroes. Our brothers and husbands, sisters and wives have come home from the Persian Gulf with their heads held high and our flag unfurled. So today we're out to cheer them, and to say thank you, and welcome home.

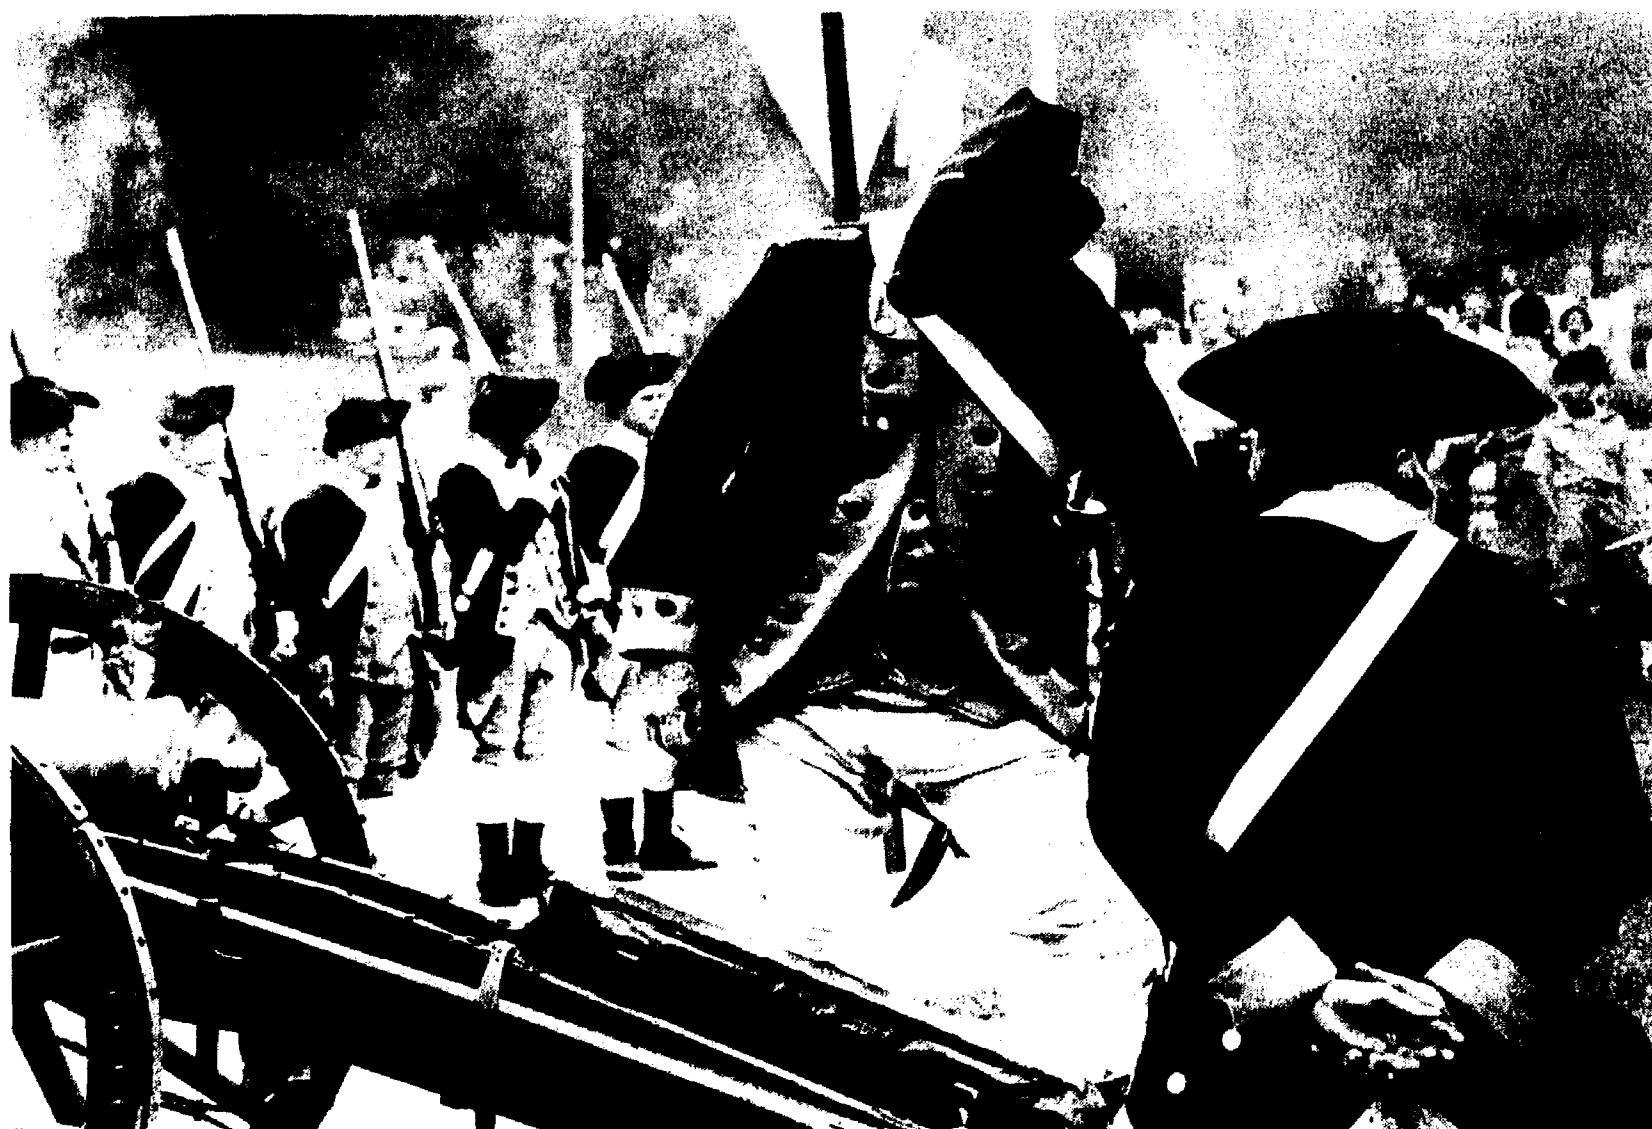

We thank God that nearly all came home safe and sound. But, sadly, others did not. As did their counterparts in prior generations, young Americans gave their lives so that the rest of us may continue to live in freedom. Douglas MacArthur said it best: "All their yesterdays, make possible our tomorrows."

Today is the day we memorialize their service and their sacrifice. Today we remember those who have fallen in freedom's fight. Today we also salute those who stand with us here after defending America in faraway places like Guadalcanal, Normandy, Inchon, Da Nang and Kuwait City.

The Desert Storm is over and several of its local heroes are back home and with us today. Because of their efforts, our world is a safer and more peaceful place. Because of what they have done — we salute them this Memorial Day. As Americans have done for 125 years, today — in their honor — we will cheer, and we will shout, and the people of Westfield have all turned out. Thank you.

A COLONIAL TOUCH: Artilleryman John Vilven loads cannon for traditional salute at Monument Plaza ceremonies. He's a member of New York Lambs Artillery. Daniel Morgan Company Riflemen fired volleys, too. Cannon was pointed toward NJ Transit trestle.

FLAG BEARER Joseph Siejk of the Veterans of Foreign Wars marches in color guard at forefront of parade that contained more than 30 units. Master of Ceremonies Albert Moeller lauded outpouring of patriotism and reminded citizenry not to forget those who gave their lives in wars.

DOUBLE POPPIES were attached to shades worn at parade by Tom Stedman. Poppy sales benefitting veterans were conducted over the weekend.

'AND THE PEOPLE OF WESTFIELD HAVE ALL TURNED OUT' said Mayor Richard Bagger of Memorial Day 1991. They included these women in colonial attire at the corner of Prospect and Broad streets. Many marched the two mile distance of the parade route.

Neuschwanstein, the fairytale castle with history to boot

This is one in a series of articles about the cities and places to be visited on the 10-day tour — European Holiday — being offered by Forbes Newspapers and Lufthansa German Airlines.

One of the most interesting stops on the "Romantic Europe" tour will be our visit to the magnificent castle of Neuschwanstein, a fairytale of architecture built on a flight of fancy of Mad King Ludwig II. (See photo below).

In 1868, after a visit to the great castle of Warburg, the King wrote to his good friend, Richard Wagner: "...I have the intention to rebuild the ancient castle ruins of Hohenschwangau...in the true style of the ancient German knight's castle..." The following year, construction began on the first of a series of fantastic castles, a series which stopped only with Ludwig's untimely death in 1886, just five days after he was deposed because of alleged insanity.

Neuschwanstein was the greatest castle of Ludwig II. Until the king's death, construction had taken 17 years. After his death, all work stopped, leaving a part of the interior incomplete. In the years from 1884 to 1886, Ludwig lived in the rooms on and off for a total of perhaps six months.

Neuschwanstein was his most ambitious project, set in its isolated location atop a rock ledge high above the Pollat Gorge. The ledge served as the foundation of the castle, and because of the unusual configuration, supported portions of the third floor as well as the floor at the top of the main staircase of Untersberg marble. This hall, with its colorfully painted Romanesque vaults is trapezoidal in shape, the walls decorated with scenes from the primitive version of the Siegfried saga.

The doorway off the left side of the vestibule leads to the king's apartments. The study, like most of the rooms, is decorated with wall paintings showing scenes from the Nordic legends, the very ones that inspired Wagner's operas. The theme of the study is the Tannhauser saga painted by J. Aigner. The only fabric in the room is that used in the hand embroidered silk curtains and chair coverings, all designed with the gold and silver Bavarian coat-of-arms.

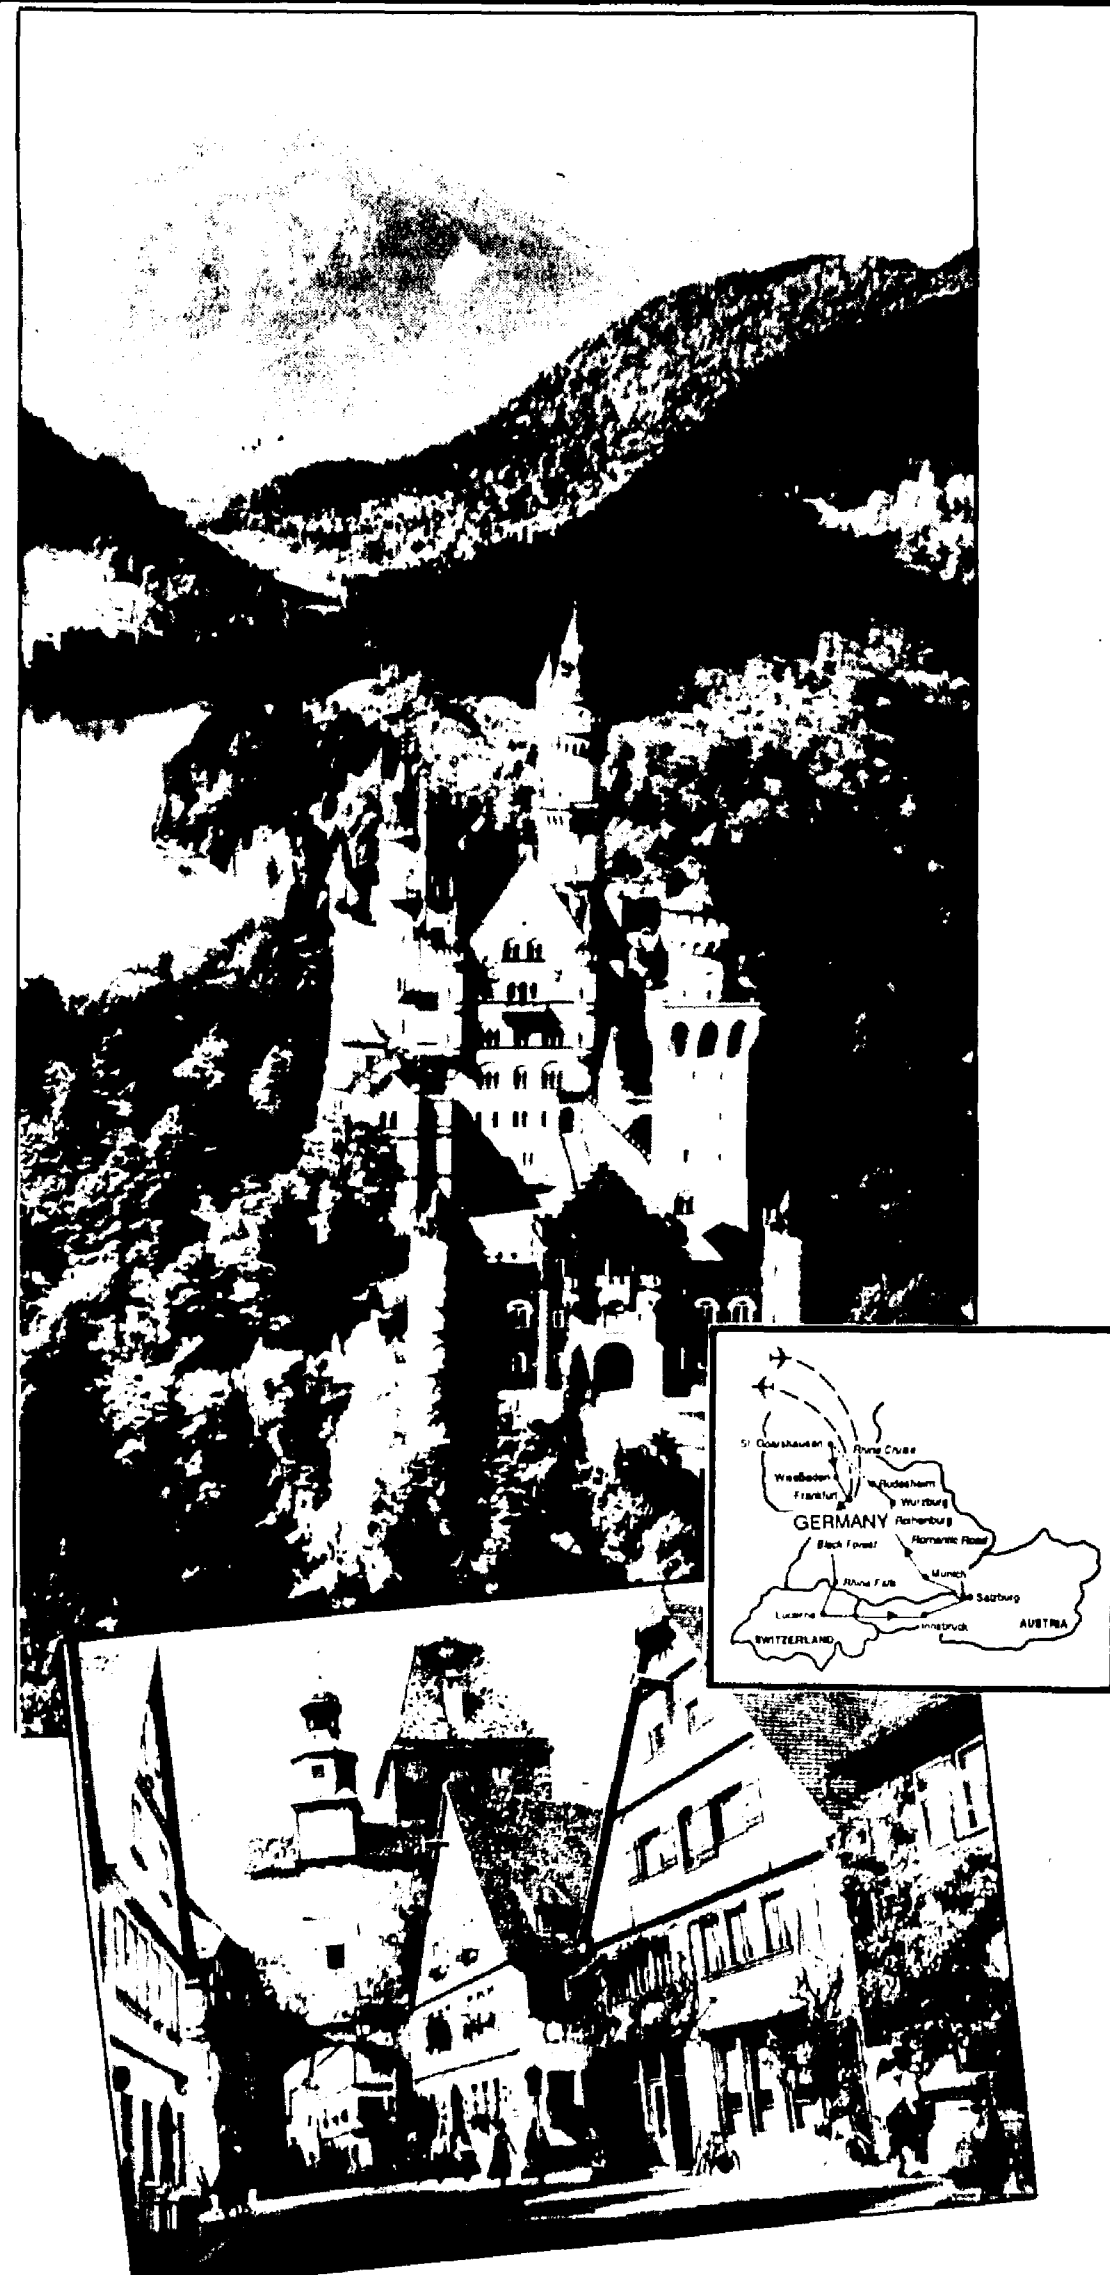

From the vestibule, you enter the throne room through the doorway at the opposite end. This hall designed in a Byzantine style by J. Hofmann, was never completed. The floor of the hall is a mosaic design, depicting the animals of the world. The columns in the main hall are the deep copper red of porphyry. The circular apse where the king's throne was to have stood is reached by a stairway of white Carrara marble. The walls and ceiling are decorated with paintings of Christ in heaven looking down on the twelve Apostles and six canonized kings of the Holy Roman Empire.

The king's bedroom is the most richly carved in the entire castle. It took four and one half years to complete this room alone which, aside from the wall painting, depicting the legend of Tristan and Isolde, is completely covered in oakwood carvings. The walls are decorated with panels carved to look like Gothic windows. In the center is a large wooden pillar completely encircled with gilded brass sconces.

The bed, on its raised platform, is the most ornate furnishing in the room. The elaborately carved canopy blends into a simple Gothic design at the foot. From the balcony of the room, you can see the 150 foot water fall to the Pollat Gorge, with the mountains in the distance.

Passing through the winter garden and a grotto with artificial stalactites, you come to the great parlor whose theme is the Lohengrin saga, expressed in the paintings of Heckel and Hauschild. The heavy chandelier holds 48 candles and is studded with pieces of colored Bohemian glass.

North Plainfield auto dealer marks three decades in business

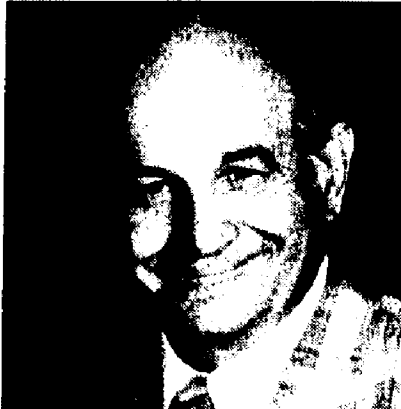

Bill Vince, owner of V.I.P. Honda, North Plainfield, looks back proudly on thirty years of putting people into reliable transportation. It's a long way from a small lot on Arlington Street; today Vince is owner of the modern complex of sales and service buildings and display lots at Somerset Street and Route 22, plus Madison Honda in Madison and Acura of Somerville, Bridgewater.

"It took a lot of people to make V.I.P. Honda the world's largest Honda dealership," says Vince. "And the most important people were our customers. That's been our motto for the whole thirty years. V.I.P. has always stood for Very Important People — our customers. We wouldn't be here today without them."

Customer satisfaction is the reason V.I.P. Honda set up the V.I.P. Honda Car Club, the first Honda owners club in the country, more than 15 years ago. Now called the Preferred Customer Club, membership is open to anyone purchasing a new Honda from V.I.P. Honda. Club benefits include free use of a service loaner car, a minimum of 10% discount on all parts and service and more.

Bill Vince's constant attention to complete customer satisfaction keeps those Very Important People coming back. Vince has held a concern for satisfaction ever since he founded the business as VIP Motors, a used car dealership on Arlington Street, Plainfield. Honda motorcycles were added and within a few years, growth of the business and the addition of Honda automobiles mandated a move to a converted supermarket on West 7th Street in Plainfield.

The dealership moved to the present North Plainfield location in 1978. In 1988, cycle sales were discontinued to make room for further expansion of V.I.P.'s auto sales operations. In anticipation of the 30th anniversary promotions and activities, the Somerset St. facility underwent a complete remodeling in early 1991.

V.I.P. Honda's vehicle selection spotlights the Accord, the number one selling automobile in the U.S.A., in sedan, coupe and wagon configurations, plus Preludes, Civics and the sporty, exciting CRX.

Bill Vince is proud of the Honda Accord's top sales spot. He says, "A position like this can come only from total owner satisfaction. Our aim at V.I.P. is to give our customers just as much reason for full satisfaction as they receive from the vehicle itself."

To celebrate this 30th anniversary, all three of Vince's dealerships have scheduled joint anniversary sales promotions, with in-store giveaways and special pricing on both new and used cars. For more information, call V.I.P. Honda, (908) 753-1500, Madison Honda, (201) 822-1600 or Acura of Somerville, (908) 704-0300.

Plan will pay mortgage after layoff or transfer

Many first and second time home buyers are reluctant to enter the marketplace for fear of losing their jobs during periods of economic uncertainty, according to national realty specialists. Now, these potential buyers can purchase that new home without fear, and at no extra cost to them, through the EMPLOY (Economy Mortgage Protection Looking Over You) Program.

EMPLOY is a new mortgage protection plan endorsed by the New Jersey Builders Association (NJBA). It guarantees that a participating builder member will pay the buyer's mortgage for up to 12 months, if the purchaser is involuntarily terminated at his place of employment, or required to relocate within one year of the closing date on the residence.

NJBA President Robert H. Karen believes that "EMPLOY addresses the recessionary worry. It allows the potential buyer to make a long-term decision without having to worry about temporary softness in the economy."

The EMPLOY protection, which does not cover health-related incidents, offers a maximum of $3,000 per month and covers mortgage payment, principal, taxes and even home insurance, if it's part of the monthly payment.

Builders who enroll in the program receive a master policy which entitles them to issue certificates of insurance to home buyers at closing. The one-year certificate has no deductible and is not renewable, although it has a 30-day waiting period after loss of job. The cost of the insurance, which includes a premium representing five percent of the annual mortgage and a seven percent tax, is paid entirely by the builder.

One of the first builders to join the EMPLOY program is John J. Mattaliano of Lian Homes in Colts Neck, president of the New Jersey Shore Builders Association. "We expect EMPLOY to contribute significantly to improvement in the market for the first-time home buyer in 1991," he said.

EMPLOY's unique insurance coverage, which is believed to be the first of its kind offered in the United States, is underwritten by American Empire Surplus Lines Insurance Company, which has an A rating from Bests, and is sponsored exclusively by Meeker Sharkey Financial Group, New Jersey's largest independent property and casualty insurance broker.

For additional information on EMPLOY, please contact Jeff Carlson of Meeker Sharkey Financial Group at (908) 449-0333.

THE QUALIFYING INTERVIEW

Some innovative entrepreneurs have found a profitable business: they handle difficult or unpleasant situations for other people. Their assignments may run from standing on line for baseball tickets or returning ugly gifts to firing a nasty employee.

We do a job or two that most people don't want to tackle. We ask strangers personal questions about their finances. Then we get even pickier and question them intensely about their lifestyles. Most people would cringe at the idea. We do it all the time: it's called the qualifying interview.

Before we bring a prospective purchaser to your house, we devote time and serious effort to making sure that this person or this family really wants a home the size of yours, with the amenities your offer. And then we ascertain that the prospect has adequate income or savings to afford it. We don't waste your time, or ours, with the "browsers" who can't or won't buy.

Let us do the hard jobs, like selling your house, for you. List with the can-do people at Barton Realty.
