SPRINGY HILLSIDES. Directions For Draining and Utilizing the Waste Water.

Much of New England, New York and Pennsylvania is either hilly land or, if flat, has hills and mountains back of its level portions. In these mountains part of the surplus water comes down in streams and brooks on the surface, and still other parts sink into the soil to reappear in the lower side hills or on the level lands below. The amount of water soaking these underground conduits is much larger than is commonly supposed, says American Cultivator, authority for the following: It is not the natural water fall on the lower hillsides that obliges the farmer to under-drain them. It is the water that comes from still higher land, and percolating through the soil, meets some obstruction lower down and breaks out into a clear spring of water. Sometimes these springs are natural siphons. Then the flow is intermittent. But not many springs are of this character, and their sources are generally where they cannot well be got at.

Sometimes springs that were good when the country was new for an un-failing supply of water gradually fail until they only supply water for a few spring months. It may be in such cases that the source of these springs was near by and affected by the local conditions which clearing of the land about the spring involves. But in far more cases, in New England at least, the spring fails because plowing and cultivation have compacted the water courses near the surface, and the underground streams have gone down to still lower water courses. In such cases digging a hole or well three to ten feet deep, where the old spring was, will disclose it, and the water, being lower down, will be better and less subject thereafter to changes. Wherever there has once been an un-failing spring water may generally be found by digging down. Thousands of farmers whose stock is suffering for lack of water can secure the very best supply if they know where to sink ponds for this purpose.

If the outflow below is interrupted or shut off, advantage may be taken of such springs to make a series of ponds excellent for growing trout or other fish. If possible, let the water flow underground between the ponds, with screens at the upper entrance of each pond to keep the fish from one pond passing to others above or below. This is probably for the farmer who owns such springs the best use he can make of them. When this succession of ponds is extended down to low level land, there will need to be a pond larger and deeper than any other, into which will be deposited much of the soil brought down by surface streams or in the steep and swift underdrains from the soil above. This silt basin will be especially necessary if the drains from the upper spring are not interrupted by silt ponds.

AT THE THEATRE. One of the most refined vaudeville entertainments ever presented in New York is that now at Keith's cosy Union Square theatre. Everything is new and sparkling with humor, and every number is taken by an artist in his or her line.

Marie Dressler, in her hilarious travesty "Toss of the vaudevilles," has hit the Pleasure Palace audiences with the force of a pile driver. She keeps the crowded music hall ringing with laughter and applause during every minute that she is upon the stage. The Lumiere Cinematograph had a fine new selection of motion pictures, just received from abroad. The new contingent of vaudeville entertainers was headed by the whimsical wit and story teller, Geo. Fuller Golden, and others were Josephine Sabel, Drummond Staley and Belle Birbeck, Ballard, the Iowa bard, Ryan and Richfield, the five Balkes, and Nelson, Gins-erri and Demonio.

In the best advertisement that any business can secure. No matter how cleverly an ad. may be written, no matter how glib the arguments of a suave salesman, if a purchaser be in the long run displeased with his purchase, it would have been better had the sale never been made.

It is the recognition of this business principle that has made our such an immense Piano business. Because we have ever been at great pains to give satisfaction to the buyer, we've reaped the harvest of success.

"We won't sell you a bad piano" is a literal truth; we feel that it would be business folly to do so, for we depend upon the customer of to day to send us the customer of to morrow.

REFORMS IN CUBA.

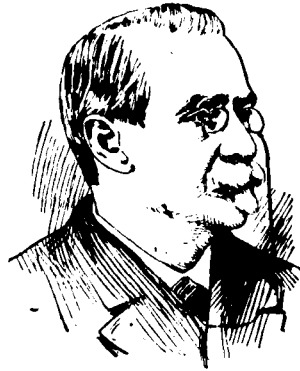

SPAIN HAILS HER DEFEAT AS A VICTORY.

Orders Elections as if Nothing had Happened and Expects Cubans to take Part in Washington Views of the Situation in the Island.

The Government has cabled to Captain-General Weyler, instructing him to introduce into the administration of affairs in Cuba the reforms which the cabinet recently agreed to institute in that island.

The Epoca, a semi-official organ, says that negotiations for the restoration of peace in Cuba are in progress, with every prospect of successful conclusion.

Weyler suggests to the Insurgents that after the present plan of reforms has been practically tried in the island, Spain will grant to Cuba more liberal terms. He holds out the prospect, also, of a general amnesty, including the pardon of all Cubans who are in the revolutionary ranks and all who are under charges before the Spanish tribunals for common offenses. He adds that, in the treaty of capitulation, the insurgents will receive all the military honors of a belligerent army.

PREMIER CANOVAS.

It is positively known that, notwithstanding all the semi-official Spanish news to the contrary, Gen. Gomez has sternly rejected all these proposals and warned Senor Garcia that if he ever falls into his hands he will be hanged as a traitor.

The same attitude is assumed by the Cuban Government at Camaguey. A commission from Gen. Jimenez Castellan was dismissed by President Cisneros with the answer that, though the Cubans do not like to ill-treat official captives, they will be obliged to arrest and try before a drum-head court martial all who may in future enter the Cuban camp with proposals for peace not based upon the absolute independence of the island.

What is Known in Washington.

A dispatch from Washington, says: Spain has decided at last to cease offensive military operations in Cuba at the beginning of the wet season, now only a few weeks away. She is preparing to withdraw all her active forces from the interior and to send back to Spain and the Philippines a large share of her troops. Her occupation of the ports and of strategic positions will be of a tentative character. The three trochas will be practically abandoned, and the insurgents may range the interior at will from Cape Maysi to Cape San Antonio.

This is the downfall of Spain in Cuba, not even in her humiliation and bankruptcy she assumes the role of conqueror, bestowing favors on the conquered.

It has been given out by the Spanish Legation that the meeting at the Cortes, which was regularly set for Easter Monday, has been postponed until some time in July. Madrid dare not attempt their Cuban retreat with the Cortes in session. Action is imperative, and when the Cortes does meet a bill of indemnity will be asked for.

For the past ten days General Weyler, under instructions from his home government, has been persistently asserting that the war will be over in three weeks. The date set for the cessation of hostilities is not to be later than April 15.

This assertion is part of the general plan. Weyler has been instructed to return to Havana within the week if possible, but certainly before April 15. He will find awaiting him a royal edict prepared at Madrid, to be immediately promulgated, setting forth that the war is over.

With characteristic consultations and thanks to the armies, the Queen will then proclaim that elections for Deputies to the Cortes and representatives to the insular assembly will be held in Cuba on a date to be fixed about the end of April, and the reform laws lately enacted will be proclaimed as in full and perfect operation.

While no broader basis of suffrage will be allowed, Weyler is directed to instruct the officers who have charge of the election machinery to exercise the greatest leniency and latitude in the scrutiny of the suffrage. The legal requirements will not be changed, but the officers will be invited to vote, and the Cubans of election will be instructed to allow them to cast their ballots.

Our Cuban Sympathizers.

The cruiser Vesuvius captured the brig Alexander Jones off Fernandina, Florida, on Saturday night, and presented an expedition which was to have been sent to Cuba on the Bermuda, which was overhauled at sea, waiting for the Jones.

George Mowbray, the engineer of the alleged filibustering steamship Woodall, which is said to have made a successful trip to Cuba in June, 1895, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields, in New York, to answer a violation of the neutrality laws, on a complaint made by the Spanish Consul. The case was continued until the 9th.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind., "Sun" writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stolle, 2925 Cottage Grove Avenue, Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a headache which never left her, and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.

Judges of the Olympian Games.

Universal peace during the month of the games was proclaimed by heralds in every part of Hellas, and the slightest breaking of the sacred truce was thought worthy of a death sentence, and men alike were bound to punish. The judges of the games, or Hellas, consisted of magistrates from 9 to 12 in number at different times, were elected by the Eleians. All who wished to be judges were required to show not only that they had never committed a crime, public or private, but that they were stainless in moral character. Not infrequently even men of distinction were excluded by this severe test during the golden age of Hellenic honor.—G. T. Ferris in St. Nicholas.

Sporting Notes.

It is said that the candidates for the Williams University football team propose to form an eleven which will be a surprise.

The starter of the California Jockey club, J. E. Ferguson, has decided to remove part of his famous Kingston stud at Lexington, Ky., to California.

The new chapter boat in which Jake Gauntner of Toronto rowed James Stambury of Australia for the championship of the world is built of Mexican cedar.

The Virginia, Maryland and Delaware racing circuit will last seven weeks. It takes in the tracks at Timonium, Elkton, Easton, Baltimore, Dover, Bel Air and Upper Marlboro.

It is a singular thing that the Pittsburgh baseballists have played winning ball ever since Beckley left them, and the New Yorks started their winning streak as soon as Beckley joined them. Everybody ought to be satisfied with the change.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 50c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Testing Coal.

An apparatus by which an engineer may test or determine the quality and adaptation of the coal he receives is described in the Boston Journal of Commerce. The test is not intended to be an analysis, but principally to show the amount of fixed carbon in the coal and the percentage of ash. As each coalfield is received samples are taken from 20 or more parts of the car, thoroughly mixed and quartered, each quarter being also mixed and quartered until the sample is obtained. This sample is then carefully weighed, the volatile matter driven off, weighed again, and the carbon consumed, and the ash weighed. This estimate is important in judging against the use of coal having an undue percentage of ash. The various coals differ in the percentage of ash which they contain, some Cumberland coals having from 12 to 14 per cent of ash, while a good New River will have as low as 3 or 4 per cent. Thus, though the coals may look alike to the average engineer, the heat value characterizing them is 10 per cent greater in one description than the other, and, ascertaining this, an important saving in the cost of fuel may result.

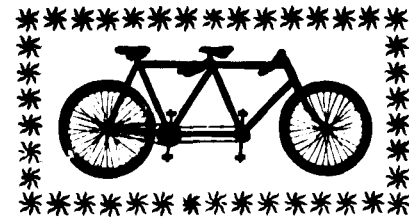

Arnold's Comment.

As school inspector Matthew Arnold was examining a class in geography one day, and holding up the poker with which he was about to stir the fire, he asked if any child could tell him where it was manufactured. There was a long silence, broken by the schoolmistress, who remarked nervously that such information was not mentioned in Cornwell's geography. "No," said Arnold; "Cornwell's is an ass!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

"And friendly free discussion calling forth from the full jewel Truth its latent ray."

Bill Penseley says: Never be eager to grab the only vacant chair in a crowded assemblage; it may have a tack on it.

We congratulate the Board of School Trustees on the long stride they made, on Tuesday evening, toward efficiency in our schools. They passed a resolution appointing an advisory board of five women, whose delegated duties will be to look after needed improvements and report to the parent board. Well done! The men of the board are mostly business men, and it would be strange if many details that are necessary for the successful conduct of the schools did not escape their attention. An advisory board of women in educational matters is a grand idea, and we take off our hat to the man who conceived it and to the board who voted it.

The sympathies of the civilized world must be with the Greeks. A little nation of only about three million people, that would have been swallowed up by the great powers of Europe years ago, were it not for an independence, based on intelligence, that commands respect the world over. Crete, or Candia, the base of the present trouble, is off the coast of Greece to the Southeast and directly in front of the Archipelago—an ocean of Islands; that must be passed on the way to the Turkish ports in the passage to the Black Sea. Crete has an intelligent population, much more in accord with the Greeks than with the ways of the Turks; but they have been kept under Turkish rule against their will, not so much from the superior power of the Turks as from the combined forces of grasping Europe. The Christian nations, above all Great Britain, are now showing their hand in helping atrocious Turkey coerce Crete into submission.

Turkey shows her character by butchering Armenians and are we to suppose that she treats the Cretans any different? If not, hasn't Crete a cause for her present uprising?

As an illustration of inequality in placing street lights we note that there are three lights on the west side of Summit avenue, between South avenue, and Academy place. One at the corner of South and Summit, one in front of Mr. Gardner's property and one opposite the junction of Summit avenue and Academy place.

There are at least ten times as many people who travel on the east side of Summit avenue as on the west side, yet the east side hasn't a light for the whole block. The danger on the east side is enhanced by a ditch three feet deep the whole length of the block.

Academy place has three lights in a distance of 300 feet, while the Boulevard has only three in a distance of 700 feet. Ross place has no light from the corner of the Boulevard to the corner of Carleton place, a distance of 135 feet. All the lights on North avenue, west of Clark street, are placed on the North side of the streets where there is not even a sidewalk, and no one walks there; while the south side has a walk and all pedestrians take that side of the street. There is one light on Charles street, a short distance from Clark, then comes a stretch of nearly 100 feet ending up in the woods and no light.

Gentlemen of the town committee, we are looking for equality. We protest against the new town committee man having a light and stone cross walk, until some of the rest of the population are served.

Did we hear you say last fall that Wm. J. Bryan never had a case before the Supreme court, and that his practice was that of a fourth class lawyer? Ah! We thought so; well, it will be well for you to read Wm. J. Bryan before the Supreme court of the United States on April 6th, in the greatest and most far-reaching of all cases that ever came before that court.

Wm. J. Bryan, a defeated candidate, calls on the president and creates a greater sensation than the president himself. Senators and Congressmen stand aside, yielding their turn for an interview, to this herculean intellect, who has commanded the respect and admiration of the true democracy of this nation.

When Wm. J. Bryan opens his mouth in speech, a vibration is felt that compels all up-to-date journals to notice him, whether they like it or not. Bryan in 1896 was the Gabriel of resuscitating democracy. His trumpet reached to the uttermost, all those in whom dwelt the "spirit of life" of Jeffersonian democracy.

Twenty-four years after that immortal document—the Declaration of Independence—was written, its author was elected president of the States that that document called into existence. After a lapse of 120 years, in which we have lost sight of the fundamental principles of government, a new interpreter of old principles comes, with all the vigor of manhood, re-declaring our independence from enslaving laws. Long live Wm. J. Bryan!

MRS. HART'S MUSICALS.

She, Her Pupils, the Arion Quartette and Miss Cooper Play to a Full House.

There was a full hall of people at the Club house Tuesday evening to listen to what the program announced as "An evening of classical music, given by Mrs. E. Hart and private pupils, assisted by the Arion quartette and Miss Anna D. Cooper, reader." The entertainment was in two parts of eight minutes each and the music was all piano music except that of the two numbers in which the Arion quartette appeared. The stage was decorated with palms, flowers, and potted plants, and the young ladies, all in white or very light colors, completed a very pretty stage setting. The program provided an opportunity for each pupil to appear, and the playing all seemed good, very good, to the unscientific ear, and the friends and admirers of the young ladies did not forget the floral tributes, which usually cover the feet lights on such occasions to delight the heart of maidenhood. The selections made by the Arion quartette were less classical than the piano music and met with a more general appreciation. The "Old Oaken Bucket," with which they closed, was very well received indeed, which was proper, for it was very timely done. Miss Cooper gave a reading in Part I, and posed as some classical divinity in Part II, she met with a very satisfactory reception.

Approaching Nuptials.
Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Anna May Irving, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Irving, of Westfield, to John Ward Crooks, of Newark, which is to take place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday evening, April 21, at 7:15. The Rev. N. W. Caldwell will officiate. Miss Grace Irwin, of Brooklyn, will be maid of honor, and Harry W. Crooks, of Newark, cousin of the groom, will be best man. The bride is well known in Westfield society. She is a sister of Mrs. Frank Miller, whose husband was a son of ex State Senator Miller of county road fame. The groom is a son of President Crooks, of the Essex County National bank, in which institution he holds a position. He became quite prominent in Newark among our athletes last year, and is well known socially in Newark. They will live in Westfield. Mr. Crooks retaining his position in the bank.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS.

WE ARE TO HAVE AN ADVISORY BOARD OF LADY VISITORS.

They are to be Appointed by the Board of Education, and are to Visit and to inspect the Schools and School Rooms, and Report to and Advise with the Board.

The board of education met at the Prospect street school Tuesday evening. The full board was present. Secretary Cooper assuming his duties for the first time.

The chairman of the special committee in charge of the proposed Garwood school matter reported that the Garwood board had appointed a committee to confer with them.

F. R. Pennington was appointed school-inspector for which he is to receive five cents per mile.

The clerk was instructed to make an inventory of the school property.

The schools will close Good Friday and Grant's birthday, if the teachers' committee agree.

W. F. Marsh, of Elizabeth, was given permission to take exterior and interior views of the school houses, and of the classes, with Principal Edwards' permission.

Mr. Reese reported that the Spring field board of education was anxious to conclude the agreement with Westfield on the re-arrangement of district lines, as the taxes are to be levied about May 1.

Messrs. Reese, Knight and Fink were appointed a committee to attend to the matter before the next meeting of the board.

The teachers' committee was authorized to provide substitutes to fill vacancies.

Mr. Edwards' report showed the average daily attendance for the month to be about 100. Also that 118 pupils had been sick during that time.

The following bills were ordered paid: Suburban Electric Co., Prospect street school $3.00, high school $2.72; for a teacher's desk, $10; Westfield Leader, advertising $10.

The interesting event of the evening was a resolution introduced by Harry E. Knight, which was as follows:

Resolved. That there shall be formed a board of visitors of the public schools of Westfield, to assist the board in the inspection of schools and otherwise in the carrying on of the work of the board; the said board of visitors to consist of five women of known fitness for the work to be appointed by the president with the approval of the board, and to serve from year to year.

Speeches were made in its favor by Messrs. Knight, Green, Clark and Welles. It was warmly opposed by Mr. Reese, who moved to postpone action on it at least until the next meeting, and by Mr. Fink, Mr. Schoonover and E. L. Taylor voted with them to postpone, making the vote four against to five in favor.

The matter was very thoroughly discussed. The resolution had been carefully prepared, and suggested that the plan had been carefully matured. Mr. Reese argued that it was an undue delegation of their authority; that the lady teachers would not accept criticism as kindly from women visitors as from men; that the arrangement would give rise to much circumlocution and mere friction; that petty jealousies among teachers and the lady visitors would create intemperate confusion and demoralization, and that public sentiment would not approve, the public having repeatedly refused to elect women to membership on the board in recent years. Mr. Fink argued that it was a wholly unnecessary proceeding, inasmuch as nine capable men had taken upon themselves the duty of overseeing the schools; if any of them wished to avoid the obligation they might resign from the board; he could see no advantage to be gained by transacting their official business through a third party; he could conceive of no circumstances under which a capable man should not be as fit as a capable woman.

The arguments made in favor of the resolution seemed to him of no real weight or moment. He didn't wish to be understood as opposed to women in school management—he would oppose an advisory board if composed of men—yet he thought it time enough to place women on the board when they had been given the right to vote in school matters, as is proposed by the pending constitutional amendment.

It was argued by those in favor of the resolution that they were delegating no authority or power, but simply arranging to get valuable advice and assistance. They made the general argument of women's superior fitness in matters of education, the management of children and the care of their health. The quick eye of a housekeeper and mother, for instance, would note signs of dirt, discomfort or unsanitary conditions where the eye of a business man would not. Mothers, they argued, were better than fathers at winning and retaining the confidence of children, and female teachers would discuss freely with a mother all the possibly unsavory details pertaining to sanitation or the cleanliness, health or physical peculiarities or weaknesses of the pupils, where they might keep silent or speak guardedly to members of the board. They argued finally that the experiment had been tried with surprising success in Brooklyn, and that its failure or success should assist voters materially in deciding how to vote on the proposed amendment giving women the right to vote in school elections.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION. OFFICERS' REPORTS.

A Chattering Showing Made of Its Financial Condition. Work Done, Promoted Future Usefulness, etc. Dr. Daniel's Appeal on Behalf of the Sick Babies.

The annual meeting of the Children's Home Association was held Tuesday evening in the Baptist church. Mrs. V. O. Burris, the president, was in the chair, and all the officers were present. Reports were received and accepted from the recording and corresponding secretaries and the treasurer and other routine business was transacted.

The present officers of the association were re-elected, as were the following:

EIGHT MANAGERS, FOR THREE YEARS.
Mrs. N. B. Arnold, Mrs. W. R. Woodruff, Harry Knight, A. E. Grant, T. B. Green, Miss Anna M. Clark, R. R. Sinclair, Emma M. Bridges.

ADVISORY BOARD FOR ONE YEAR.
W. G. DeLaunay, C. H. Embree, James O. Clark, James T. Peterson, Martin Welles.

Mrs. Dr. Anna S. Daniel, of the New York Hospital for women and children, made an address which was principally a stirring appeal on behalf of the sick babies of New York, under 3 years of age, belonging to the same class who are entertained at the Country Home here.

She said, among other things which may surprise people who have not noticed the growth of such things, that there were 57 agencies in New York city where provision is made for taking poor children, between the ages of 5 and 12 years, into the country where they can enjoy fresh air, wholesome food and surroundings and healthful recreation for a long or shorter period. There are 14 hospitals which have their own country homes, as a sort of annex, where they can send children who are convalescing but who need a better opportunity to recuperate than their tenement house homes furnish. There are three societies which take sick babies and their mothers on fresh air trips or for a short stay in the country. But for the sick babies under 3 years of age whose mothers must work every week day of their lives in order to give their babies enough to eat and some clothing, no provision has yet been made.

Dr. Daniel closed with a moving appeal to the association to take up this work. The officers of the association say the question is mainly one of expense. Their present income and equipment will not admit of their undertaking that work and continuing the work done in the past.

At the close of Dr. Daniel's address the association adopted resolutions thanking those who contributed to the Home's support last year including the merchants who contributed supplies, etc., and the physicians who contributed their services, the Baptist church for the use of their parlors, and Dr. Daniel for her address.

Below will be found the reports of the recording and corresponding secretaries and the treasurer.

RECORDING SECRETARY'S REPORT.

During the year twelve meetings have been held, seven being regular, four adjourned and one special. A brief outline of the work is given in the following:

At the first regular meeting after the annual meeting of the board, the officers elected were: Mrs. V. O. Burris, president; Mrs. Martin Welles, vice-president; Miss E. L. Bridges, corresponding secretary; Mrs. N. L. Moore, recording secretary; Mrs. Geo. H. Embree, treasurer. It having been decided at the close of the previous year to purchase the Drew property for a permanent home, it was thought best to make a personal appeal to the citizens of Westfield and to all friends of such charitable work to so increase the building fund that no large mortgage should remain upon it when taking possession. A form of circular letter was adopted which met the determined efforts of the manager, and was successful in producing the desired results.

The new home was opened on May 31, with a home warming and festival, from which the sum of $81.05 was realized. On June 1st the home was opened to receive the children. During the summer the Christian Endeavor societies and Epworth League of Westfield did much to make it pleasant for the children. The merchants have all given liberally, and the doctors very kindly gave their services. Donations of clothing and provisions have been received, also many useful articles of furniture, crockery, pictures, etc., for the improvement of the home. The home has been under the personal supervision of the home and visiting committee, and by their untiring efforts has been most successfully managed. The matron, each month, gave a very satisfactory verbal report on the children.

The home was closed in September, 98 children having been cared for during the season, 29 of whom remained from two to three weeks beyond the usual two weeks, their board having been paid by interested parties. There have been two resignations from the board of managers, caused by the ladies removing from town. One, Mrs. J. H. Boebe, had been treasurer of the home from its organization, and we parted from her with —Miss Sadie M. Breyer, of the third Grammar school, goes to Grammar school No. 44, one of the finest in Brooklyn, this week. Professor Edwards has secured an excellent teacher in her place. —Two new cases of diphtheria have been reported in Westfield this week, besides John F. Dorvall, who lives in Mountainside borough. One case is that of Harry, aged 5, son of Stewart Toms, of North avenue, with whom Dr. Sinclair has spent the greater portion of three nights this week. He has what are usually called diphtheria and membranous croup combined. It will be news to many that up-to-date doctors now consider these two ailments really one and the same disease. Harry Toms is still a very sick boy, but is past the danger of suffocation, which was imminent for three nights. The second case is in the family of Wm. Moore, on Dudley avenue, the patient being an 11-year-old girl named Beckwith, who lives there. She is now well, apparently. —The coroner's jury which was sworn in by Coroner Sinclair Saturday afternoon viewed the body of Carl Bierstetter and the scene of the explosion, and then adjourned to meet next Wednesday the 14th, at 2:15 p. m. Meanwhile the coroner and some others are pursuing investigations. By that time also, Conrad Peltz, the injured man, may have recovered sufficiently to give testimony which may throw much light on the strange occurrence. The Plainfield Courier-News reports a conversation between Peltz and a married daughter, which, as reported, discredits the statement that the post exploded under the blows of Belrattetter's hammer. The Courier-News gives the names of the coroner's jury as Edward Hamd, Frank Allen, Benjamin Elliott, George L. McDonald, Stiles N. Parse and Norman Dunn.

—B. H. Woodruff is on the sick list. —Annual election at the Westfield club next Tuesday evening. —The Congregational church collection of next Sunday morning is to go to the Elizabeth hospital fund. —Mrs. H. P. Trenchard, of South Orange, spent two days with her son, Druggist Trenchard, this week. —An account of a wedding which took place in Westfield Wednesday evening arrived too late for today's paper, and will appear next Tuesday. —One of the telephone company's wagons collided with Miss Ella Ayer's bicycle last Tuesday afternoon, throwing her off and damaging her wheel considerably. She was not much hurt. —Westfield has a walking club with quite a numerous membership. According to the Journal they took a 20-mile trip last Sunday, and will meet at Brunner's club house on Westfield avenue at 1:30 next Sunday, at which hour they will start for Washington Rock. —The Gun club met last night at the Park hotel, expecting to have received the articles of incorporation by that time from the secretary of state, which were to be signed by all the members. For some reason, however, the papers had not arrived, and no business was transacted, though many things were discussed. A supper was served after the adjournment which was the feature of the occasion. The members are unanimous in the opinion that they had a mighty good time. Some of those seen were a trifle lazy in their minds as to the proceedings at the meeting, but they remembered the supper distinctly.

—"THE GREAT LIGHT." A Very Satisfactory Performance, Which Was a Genuine Treat to Many Lovers of Music. "The Great Light," at the Presbyterian church last night, was a very satisfactory success. There was present what theatre people would call a "good house," even for that big church. The brightly lighted auditorium was a pleasant contrast to the dark rainy night without, the leader was graceful and dignified, the accompaniments were good, and the professional quartette were quite up to all expectations indulged in concerning them. When they sang "Slowly the Daylight is Fading," the audience demanded an encore, and kept demanding it for several minutes; but they got only a respectful and dignified quartette bow. The tenor voice was spoken of as of remarkable clearness and compass, and the baritone and contralto were specially admired by different people. Most of the numbers were both well done and well received. The quartette were Miss Katherine Opldyke, soprano, Miss Louise Borchers, contralto, and Messrs. Fred J. Kaestner and Wm. Holmes, tenor and baritone respectively. B. E. Chambers presided at the organ and Mrs. Ed. Hart at the piano. There were twenty-eight ladies and twenty-four gentlemen in the chorus.

Garwood Station, April 7th, 1897. To the Editor of the Standard: DEAR SIR—Your issue of the 6th, inst. shows decided signs of improvement in your newspaper. Your report of the proceedings of the Township Committee is decidedly the best and most complete that has been published. It is absolutely impartial. Your reporter however did not get my statement about Mr. Bergen exactly right. I stated that Mr. Bergen had expressed the opinion that one of the illegal items was authorized by law, and that opinion was in opposition to the decision of the Supreme Court. The result was that the assessor and collector each received last February over seventy-five dollars not legally due to them. All the other illegal items, five or six on each bill, were stricken out of the claims, and for that much, at least, Mr. Bergen is to be commended. His opinion however on this one point, would interfere with the proper and vigorous prosecution of the cases on his part. Yours respectfully, L. G. COMES. The Debating Club. The Westfield Debating and Literary society will have their first regular debate this evening in the Methodist church class rooms. P. R. G. Sjostrom will give a 5-minute address on Parliamentary rules, which will be followed by a debate on the advisability of a town ordinance requiring 4 foot sidewalks on both sides of all Westfield's streets, and making it a misdemeanor for a man to walk to his home on the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street from his house. W. H. Ruth Jr. will lead in the affirmative, and N. Cadmus in the negative.

"Burnt Corkers" at the Westfield Club. Friday April 23rd is the date set for the Westfield club minstrel show. Rehearsals for this entertainment have been going on for several weeks, and those in a position to know say that it will be the most polished minstrel ever given in Westfield. The company consists of nineteen members, all but three being "local talent." The proceeds of this entertainment are for the benefit of the club, and it is expected that every seat in the hall will be filled.

The communion wine, once upon a time kept in the cellar of Trinity church, is supposed to have been the attraction which tempted some local villain to enter the church last Sunday night. A cellar window was broken out, and a trail of burnt matches showed where the intruder had gone in his search for stimulants. But previous experience had taught the church people the unwisdom of keeping wine in the church cellar, and on this occasion it was safe in the rectory cellar instead. The thief left empty handed.

A BEAUTIFUL CHURCH WEDDING.

A FORMER METHODIST PASTOR RETURNS HERE TO WED.

Miss Augusta Shirley Hughes and the Rev. William Botford Judd, now of Tabitha M. E. Church, Paterson, Begin Life's Journey Together.

Church weddings are rare in Cranford, it seems, so that the beautifully conducted nuptial service in the Methodist church last Tuesday evening had almost all the charm of novelty, and the ladies are declaring it was the prettiest wedding ever seen in Cranford. So that as it may, it was a very pretty wedding.

The groom, one time pastor of the church, returned as was fitting, to wed the lady of his choice in the church where he had preached for five years to a contented congregation.

There will probably be a meeting of the board of education next Tuesday evening, but the date is not finally decided on yet.

There was a very enjoyable card party Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hunt, on Union avenue. About twenty people were present.

The entertainment at the Country Club's smoker next Tuesday night will include music, stereopticon pictures and an all round humorist.

The annual parish meeting of the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening, April 8, at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Judd, father of the groom, assisted by the Rev. A. K. Sanford, of New York city, and the Rev. Alfred Evans, pastor of the church.

Miss Edna Michel of Catawqua, Pa., formerly of Cranford, was maid of honor; Miss Clara Clawson, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Miss Mabel Hughes, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids, and Miss Queenie Clawson was flower girl.

The Rev. E. E. Count, of Carmel, N. Y., acted as crossman. The ushers were Messrs Lester Inglis, of Paterson, G. W. Nutman, of New Brunswick, and Edward Maroney and Oar Ussing, of Cranford.

Clyde VanDyke, of Elizabeth, was organist for the occasion.

The bridal procession was led by the flower girl, followed by the bridesmaids and ushers, and they by the bride leaning on the arm of her father.

The groom and best man awaited her arrival at the altar railing. The ceremony was what is called the "long service," the groom conferring the ring and each repeating the marital pledge to the other.

After the ceremony the flower girl preceded the party in reverse order, strewing flowers in the path of the bride. The center aisle was kept clear for the procession by wide white satin ribbon fastened to the ends of the pews.

The bride wore white beaded satin, with a long tulle veil caught up with ribbons of the valley, and carried white bride roses. The maid of honor wore white organdie over cream silk, and carried tea roses. Miss Clawson wore floral organdie over pink silk and carried pink roses, and Miss Mabel Hughes wore flowered organdie over green silk, carrying white roses.

The flower girl wore white India silk and carried a vine-covered basket of flowers.

The pulpit and the platform inside the altar railing was banked with palms and potted plants, with a few cut flowers.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the spacious home of the bride's parents on High street, at which about a hundred guests were present. The house was beautifully decorated with smilax and cut flowers, and a wedding supper was served during the evening.

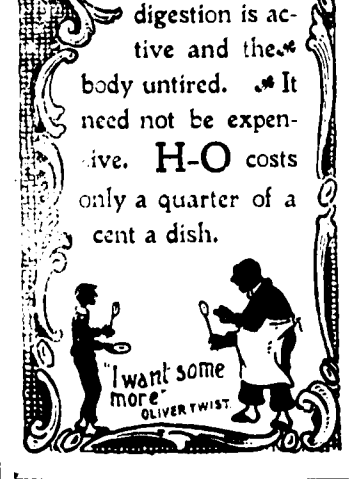

After receiving the congratulations and hearty good wishes of all present, the happy couple departed about 10:30 p. m. amid the customary shower of rice, for a short wedding trip. They expect to reside in Paterson on their return.

The wedding gifts were numerous and very fine. Notable among them were two twenty-dollar gold pieces from Dr. Judd's parishioners in Paterson, accompanied by a beautifully worded congratulatory letter.

Among those present at the reception, besides the bridal party whose names are given above, were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hughes and Miss Essie Hughes, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Robinson, the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clawson and Mr. Douglas, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Mc-
