BLIND MOOSE FINDS A FRIEND

Led About the Woods Beshand Protected by a Younger Muth.

From the region north of Daluth comes a story of a biling mose that is led about by one of his antes, taken by him to feeding ground, and protected from wolves.

Last full some functions at this mose, but insign or hilling dimensione ceeded only inchinging him. Woods men have had opportunity to wit the animal more or less during the winds and have been much interested in him. The moose does not appear to hive all. The moose does not a and is sheek and fat. Ho is a margific ent specimen, with antiers that branch nearly six feet says the Orienge.

Moose form so-called yards in Witer in places where there is abunda brush. When the feed about oneyar is exhausted they make another son distance away, and there they tray in circles as before, enting the small trees and branches clean of tips at buds. If alone and forced to shift is himself a blind moose would die starvation.

To this blind moose there has a starvation.

To this blind moose there has attached himself a younger bull, and the two are constantly in company, say those who have seen them. The younger moose is the guide and friend of the blind one. One woodsman who watched them for hours one days are that the them for hours one day says that the younger led the elder to the best bushes about the yard. It had then been eaten pretty clean, and was soon to be deserted, and it was with some difficulty that the young animal was able to lead the other to clumps of twigs. The blind moose showed sagacity in following, and was almost able, probably are are housened, as almost of the by an abnormal development of the sense of smell, to go without assist-wolves are plenty in the neighbor-hood of moose yards, and the backs and necks of the companions showed plainly the marks of fights with them. It was plain, too, from the position of the wounds on the smaller bull, that he had borne the chief attack and had defended the other. The blind bull has developed a won.

ABOUT LENGTHENING LIFE.

ABOUT LENGTHENING LIFE.

What Was Accomplished During the Life Century in This Regard.

The average age of man within a century has been sincreased 7½ years. What is like in the way of still further increasing the average? As far as can be seen, there is absolutely, nothing. New discoveries are being made all the time which aid physicians in controlling diseases. Once smallpox was such a scourge that big cities were decimated by it. Now it excites very little alarm, except in communities where there is not the proper facilities for treating it and dealing with it. May it not be that the time is not distant when consumption will be dealt with as effaciliatly. Even pow stem age being consumption will be dealt with as effectively? Even now steps are being taken to prevent its spread. Consumptives have not the freedom in many ho tels and in sleeping cars they once had, and in most cities spitting on the floors of street cars is prohibited. Yellow fever is receiving the closest attention from the best minds in the medical profession. In fact, through-

The winds of March are the last gasps of a dying Winter. They breathe the breath of death.

Who does not know some sad story brought to a fatal ending by the uncertain winds of March? Women are so susceptible to weather changes. All Winter they protect themselves, but with the first indication of Spring they lose caution and take a sudden cold. Latent weakness is developed

Many women do not know how weak they are until a March wind finds them unprepared.

This is a treacherous month. Don't take chances. Dr. Greene's great medicine will guard you against sudden exposure by building up the entire system. It fortifies the weak points in the armor and turns weakness into strength. New life is taken in with every breath. Every pulsation of the blood is health-giving. All the action of the nervous system is strengthened and brought intocontrol by healthy, well circulated blood. Health shows itself in the quickened step, the clear eye and the active brain In the Spring. THE PART OF ME LOW, I LAND TO THE WAY

Mrs. H. H. WAKEFIELD, of Montpelier, Vermont, "About a year ago my health was very poor. I was very nervous, with a bad feeling in my head and at the base of my brain, extending down the back of my neck. I was thin in flesh, and pale, weak and tired, and unable to sleep nights. I had a terrible deathly feeling which I should describe as a falling sensation, and many times I should have fallen if I had not taken hold of something. This constitution for the state of dition continued for about three months before I found help. I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and commenced using it. Before I had

A practical instance of the curative power of Dr. Greene's Nervura is that of Tirs. William Fish, of So. Tontrose, Pa., who writes the following letter:

"I have read so many testimonials that I feel as if I wanted some one to read mine in regard to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I have had nervous trauble for over two years; it came upon me suddenly, without warning. In the night I awoke and found myself getting helpless after doing all my family could. I finally was myself again, but the effects lasted me the whole of the next day. I was so weak I could hardly walk; that was only the beginning; more followed, sometimes two or three spells in one night, and night after night not a wink of sleep did I get.

"I employed one doctor, then another, until I had tried three. Well, I got some relicf, as long as my medicine lasted, but no cure. I was discouraged and took my case in my own hands, saying nothing to anyone, and began using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

HOME OF THE MALLARD. Migntory (Night Cowary of Wider Hange of Despitors—Ain Quest Markh No one of our ducks has a wider range than the majlard, which, as has been said, is the progenitor of the common domestic duck. It is found been the entire merthern portion of the world, and in America as far south as Mexico, while in Europe it breeds in southern Spain and Greece. It is believed to be common throughout Asia, except in Iropical India, and it is more or less abundant in north-

found throughout the winter, Iving in warm springs or along swift streams where the ourrent is so rapid that the water never freezes. Thus it is seen that the water freezes. Thus it is seen that the water seed has little to do with the migration of the many other due is and that if food is plentiful the little can bear almost any degree of cold. It is the freezing of the waters and thus shutting of the food apply; that forces these inland birds to move southward.

In the New Dayland states the mallard is not a common birds but in the southern states, the interior and California this extremely abundant.

In the northern finiterior and California this extremely abundant.

In the northern finiterior and California this extremely abundant the waters of occin's ownsher, and all through the winter it; is abundant in the southern states. Here, it feeds in the marches along the salt water, in the rice fields mid along the soutern states. Here it feeds in the marches along the salt water, in the rice fields mid along the soutern and streams throughout the interior, and becomes fit and wall-flavored and is engerly pursued. It comes readly, to decoys, and if one or more live ducks are tethered with the decoys to call down the wilds birds they are quite certain to be spoud and to offer easy shooting to the gunner. Formerly the millard bred in considerable numbers within the limits of the United States, the gunner. Formerly the malitral bred in considerable numbers within the limits of the United States, though it, has never been'n common bird at any senson on the Atlantic coast north of New York, at formerly been, however, in great numbers in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, as well as in the prairies of the farther west and about alkali lakes and pools on the high central plateau. Now most of the birds proceed farther north to breed, and Canada, the Illinois bay country and the shores of the Acctic breed, and Canada, the Hudson bay country and the shores of the Arctic sea are all occupied by it during the nesting season. Dr. Brewer states that "it has been known in rare instances to nest in a tree, in such eases occupying a deserted nest of a hawk, crow or other large bird,"

The mallard is one of our typical fresh water ducks. It is rarely or never found on salt water, but, on the other hand, is common on the lagoons along the southern. Atlantic coast, which are brackish. Here it associates, with many other fresh water ducks, and is frequently seen flying in company with black ducks, sprigtalls, widgeons and other species.

Perhaps no one of our North Amer-ing in company with black ducks, sprigtalls, widgeons and other species.

Perhans no one of our North American ducks its so well known as the malard, and year it has comparatively few common names. It is called greenhand, wild drake, wild duck, English duck French duck and gray duck or sometimes gray mallard for the tender. In Canada the same stock duck was formerly a progenitor of the domestic duck. The French-Canadians call it canara Francais, or French duck. Mr. Trumbull cells attention to the old but now obsoicte ducking and word supposed to be a corruption of cluck and mallard the male. The word is has the equivalent of duck male and drake it having been the custom scenningly to speak of the species by this double name.
