BILL PERRINE VINDICATED; GETS HONORABLE DISCHARGE.

Thanks the Court, and Presents Mrs. Frainie With a Large Lemon.

Bill Perrine has been vindicated, and Bill is satisfied. No longer do the founts of righteous indignation bubble and foam within his manly bosom, for he has gallantly defended his honor, and Judge Toucey has removed any possible stigma of suspicion by granting him honorable discharge.

Bill, it will be remembered, was arraigned before the Judge last Friday morning, charged by Mrs. Oula Frainie with having been so low down as to chuck a tomato can at her. Bill resented the charge, declaring first, that Mrs. Frainie never owned a tomato can, and second, that he was too self-respecting to fire cans at women who were not in his social set. The Judge postponed the case until the following morning to allow both parties time to secure witnesses.

It was at the second hearing that Bill read his title clear. He brought several witnesses to court, including a colored lady, who stood ready to swear that Mrs. Frainie had been guilty of chucking the can herself, and that Bill was entirely innocent, having conducted himself with the dignity and self-possession of a highly respectable bachelor. Mrs. Lent was also there, bringing a portion of her infant family with her. She was for Bill. In fact, everybody was for Bill, and the court told him he ought to feel proud.

Bill swelled up to Aldermanic proportions, and faced the court. "Judge," he said, "I ain't no speaker, but I want to say right here that I ain't no fool. I was bring up to pick my company, and I never gets out of my class. Mrs. Frainie ain't in my set, and I never done nothing to make her think that she was. I thank you, judge, for vindicating me. I'm a man of my word, judge, and I'll take 30 days for getting a jug on, but I don't want no slurs slung at me about the company. I keep 'em in Class A."

Bill fumbled in his pocket, and finally drew forth a choice product of Florida sour fruit.

"Here, Judge, if there's no objections, I'd like to make Mrs. Frainie a present of this lemon."

Mrs. Frainie wheeled about, and nickered for the door, flashing a demon-like glare at Bill as she swished by. "You loader," she hollered as she hurried up the street. "You peripatetic wretch, you dog. I'll have the law on you yet, Bill Perrine."

"Geo," said Bill, "ain't she got the legs though?"

The Court convulsed.

Bill told a STANDARD representative last night, that he was in the repair business.

"Yes," said Bill, "I'm in the repair business. I couldn't mend women's ways, so I'm mending horses and wagons."

E. B. WOODRUFF WITHDRAWS COMPLAINT AGAINST KREINOPH.

Laundry Proprietor Will Not Prosecute Man Alleged to Have Used Profane Language.

Elmer B. Woodruff, proprietor of the Westfield Steam and Hand Laundry, who was recently arraigned before Judge Toucey on a charge of assault and battery proffered by John Kreinoph, and who after the dismissal of the case for lack of evidence, preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against Kreinoph alleging that he had used profanity in the presence of Mrs. Woodruff, has withdrawn his complaint, and the case has been amicably settled.

Woodruff appeared before Recorder Toucey, yesterday morning, and asked to have the complaint withdrawn. The Recorder complied with his request. The first case was heard before Recorder Toucey on July 17, and occupied the greater part of the afternoon. Kreinoph alleged that Woodruff had struck him in the face, but could not make out a case against him.

ROBERT TAYLOR AND BRIDE HONEYMOONING BY AUTO.

Well-Known Westfielder Married to Mrs. Laura Scanlin at Edgeworth.

Honeymoons by auto are getting to be quite the proper thing. One Westfield benedict is now touring through the west with his bride, after being happily wedded at the home of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Olat, Usung, at Edgeworth.

Here Robert Kirby Taylor, of North Avenue, who was married on Monday to Mrs. Laura Scanlin, of Evansville, Ind. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. McMillan, of Sawickley.

The bridegroom is well known here, having resided in Westfield for a number of years. He is a talented banjo player, and has taken part in many local entertainments. Olat Usung, at whose home the marriage was solemnized, is a former resident of Cranford, and has been a life-long friend of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Taylor will reside in New York city upon their return from their wedding trip, about August 20.

MARRIED MAN ELOPES WITH MARRIED WOMAN.

Mrs. Frank Ricardo, of Westfield, and Alex. Watt, of Garwood, Skip Town.

Mrs. Frank Ricardo, of Westfield, and Alexander Watt, of Garwood, eloped from Garwood Monday afternoon, taking with them his four year old boy, Roland. It is supposed that the pair have gone west, probably to Indiana. Watt left a letter for his wife in which he said that she would never see him again. They left Garwood on the 3:40 train, and were first reported at Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs. Watt, it is reported, is grief stricken, not having had any suspicion of her husband until she learned of the elopement. Watt was employed at the Acolian factory at Garwood, and lived with his brother, Assessor Richard Watt, on Center street. He bore a good reputation, being known as an honest, hard-working man. He had been married seven years and had one child whom he took with him. Recently Watt sold all his furniture. It is thought that he had been planning to elope for some time.

Assessor Watt is determined to hunt down the couple and bring the child back to his mother. He is now on his way to Whiting, Ind., where the couple were last reported to be. Mrs. Ricardo has no children. Her husband, it is said, will make no effort to find her, but has expressed sympathy for Mrs. Watt.

WESTFIELD IS FOR PERKINS

Local Republicans Will Work to Secure His Nomination.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS.

Consensus of Opinion Is That the Local Man Should be Endorsed—His Record Upheld.

The Westfield Republican executive committee met Monday evening, and considered plans for the coming campaign. Many important questions were fully discussed, particularly those affecting the local situation. While there is said to be no fear for defeat at the polls next fall, the local leaders will do all in their power to roll up a big Republican majority. The outlook, it is said, is most encouraging. Charles N. Cocking, chairman, presided, and all the wards were represented.

The committee, it is reported, took up the question of assembly candidates, and it was the consensus of opinion that the local organization ought to do all in its power to secure the nomination of Randolph Perkins. It was pointed out that if Mr. Perkins were not nominated, the town would lose the right to nominate a local man for the lower house, he being the most available local man for the place. Mr. Perkins record in the assembly was carefully reviewed, and the committee, it is said, were of one mind in agreeing it was worthy of the unqualified endorsement of his constituents in this town. Mr. Perkins had, it was declared, showed himself an able and independent representative. It was pointed out that the sentiment throughout the county was not adverse to Perkins. His enemies, it was said, were opposing him for personal reasons. The fact that he had already served two full terms in the assembly would not, it was thought, injure his chances for re-election. On the other hand, it was held, his experience and familiarity with legislative matters better qualified him for service.

The local option issue was touched upon, and Mr. Perkins stand was thought to have been logical. In the opinion of many local leaders, the champions of local option are making a tactical mistake in forcing the issue so soon after the bishops bill has been passed. It was pointed out by one of the committee that local option was an issue to be taken up after the Bishops Bill became a fixture.

"The only way," declared the committee, "to keep the Bishops Bill intact is to keep the Republican party in power. If the Democrats once get in power they'll knock the bill higher than a cocked hat. I do not consider the local option bill, nor have I anything to say against its backers. Most of them are sincere in what they say and do. But I do not believe that local option should be made an issue at this time. It must be remembered that every brewer in this state is out to kill the Bishops Bill. That means that he's out to knive the Republican party candidates and to pit men in the legislature that will vote the bill out of existence. The Republican party cannot afford to stand a new excuse when it has a fight on its hands to keep one recently passed from being wiped out by the back."

"What do you think of the report that the local option people will put an independent candidate in the field in this county if Perkins is nominated?" he was asked.

"I think it would be colossal blunder. An independent ticket would probably draw many good people to its support, but it could not win out in this county. It would get most of its support from those who usually vote the Republican ticket, and might mean Democratic success in Union. It might also mean the repeal of the Bishops Bill, and the sudden death of local option as an issue for proposed legislation. That would help good government, now wouldn't it?"

Prud' P. Coudt was elected treasurer of the committee from the third ward. He was formerly a member from the first ward.

Wheel of Big Truck Breaks Down.

The rear wheel of a large truck owned by the Common Wealth Roofing Co. of Newark broke down completely near the Cooper fountain, on North Broad Street, Wednesday. The truck was loaded with roofing material. Traffic on the East bound trolley track was delayed until the truck could be shifted to one side of the road. It was some time before the wheel could be replaced by a new one and the truck proceed on its way.

Country Cat Says Its Them What Makes or Breaks the Government.

T'AIN'T POLITISHUNS.

No Self-Respectin' Crook'll Steal When He Knows Somebody's Lookin' at Him.

Some folks has got an idee that ruin' the government 'aint none of their business; all they's got to do is stay to hum an' let the politishuns make 'em, that's what politishuns is made for. No 'tain't either. Not by a long shot. Politishuns 'aint fools, or they wouldn't be politishuns. It's the peepul what's fools. Politishuns 'll do just what the peepul tells 'em, an' if the peepul don't tell 'em nothin' why they'll do bouts they please. Skin flints 'aint born, they's made, an' it's mostly the peepul what makes 'em.

The straightest thing about Josh Hawkins was his legs, an' he was bow-legged at that. But Josh was slicker'n a greased pig. He was Mayor of Hayville once, an' he got himself 'looted' 'cause he thought he could make money skulin' the peepul. Hayville was a jay town, but if know'd a thing or two 'bout what it wanted, 'f folks went in for a thing they got it, or they got the fellar what fooled 'em. Josh want long in findin' out how things stood, an' when it come time for him to skin flint the town on a winter deal, he didn't do it. "Nop," says he, "it's bad business. It ud be different if folks want so wide awake." Jake made a good Mayor, 'cause the peepul made him be good.

It's those wide awake towns what gets the best of everything. There 'aint a self respectin' crook livin' what'll steal if he knows somebody is lookin' at him. In Hayville folks has got their eyes open from January to January. There ain't no reformers. Everybody is plain regular, an' nobody dast to be anything but regular for fear they'll have the law onto him. The last fellar what was irregular in Hayville was superintendent of the poor house. He bought 'taters by the barrel an' sold 'em to the poor house for twice what they cost him. He's crackin' stone now with the ball and chain gang. The fellar what took his place at the poor house, 'aint cuttin' no capers with 'taters, you bet.

There's no good a blamin' politishuns an' offshuls if things 'aint run to your likin'. Blame your self for bein' too lazy to get out an' hustle a bit. It's gettin' no howdays that a man won't take no interest in politicks, less he's tryin' to beat some other fellar out on a job. The only time a man hollers is when he's pinched, which is 'bout the same as feedin' a horse med'cin' after its dead. The time to do your docterin' is afore the disease has had time to catch hold.

Zeek Hopkins was an' ouest fellar. He never did nobody outen nothin'. He never bet, he never swore, he never stole, an' he was eluck'n block fall of religion. But Zeek couldn't see morn a foot in front of his nose. He'd make a bargain, an' think he'd done a good job until his neighbors and come round an' tell him he'd 'bout stunk. Then he'd flog it all out, an' agree with his neighbors. Holler! Why Zeek 'ud holler worsen'n spanked baby, an' when he want hollerin' he was prayin', which was 'bout the same thing when Zeek done it.

That's the way with most folks, only if you told 'em so they'd kick like a steer morn' likely. But they go on just same, you'll for this fellar, on that party, an' insist on questions after lecturin' over. Then it's shontin' time. Wide awake towns don't do no hollerin'. They knows what they wants an' they gets it first an' 'ardness, an' it's only the best fellars what can stay on top.

"Tain't the politishuns what makes or breaks the government, it's the peepul. Charlie Hughes knows that an' he's makin' good use of his knowledge. There's plenty of room for wide awake peepul, an' the more of the better it'll be for the countree.

Enthusiably yours,
THE COUNTRY CAT.

THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 18, 1907
Specially Prepared for This Paper

LESSON TEXT—Lev. 16:1. Monday
GOLDEN TEXT—"Wherefore he is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him."—Heb. 2:13.

TIME.—In the interval between the first day of first month of the new year (April) when the tabernacle was completed and the twentieth day of the second month (May) when the tabernacle left Sinai, 100 B. C., according to the common chronology.

PLACE.—In the plain before Sinai.

Comment and Suggestive Thought.

In order to understand the symbols and types of this lesson, it will be best to have the scholars see for themselves in the history how untrained and imperfect these people were, how often they sinned against their heavenly father in spite of all he had done for them.

They needed something to make them realize more deeply the awful evil and danger of sin, the greatness of its wrong against their God; something to remove the separation and estrangement from God which sin always brings between the sinner and his heavenly father, as wrong-doing separates a child from his earthly father; something to deliver them from the sin itself and the tendency to sin.

Our Need of Forgiveness.—Every person sins in thought and in deed. Even the youngest are conscious of wrong-doing, and as they grow better they will realize still more the contrast between themselves and the perfect law of God. The better we grow the higher our ideal, and the farther away our sins seem to place us.

The day of atonement was one of the five great festivals of the Jews: 1. The Feast of Trumpets—welcoming the new civil year, on the 1st of Tisri (September-October), one day only.

2. The Passover, 14th of Nisan (or Abib), April—the beginning of the sacred year, lasting seven days; as did 3 and 4.

3. The Feast of Pentecost (in Sivan, end of May), the first fruits of the harvest.

4. The Feast of Tabernacles, in Tisri (beginning the 15th), feast of ingathering or thanksgiving.

5. The Day of Atonement, fast day (10th of Tisri)—one day only. All were joyous festivals except the Day of Atonement. For even in deliverance from sin, the goodness of God, joyous delight in God, a glorious future has more to do than grief and mourning, though these are absolutely necessary.

The Day of Atonement was held on the 10th day of the new year, about October 1, varying with the new moon. It was a day of fasting and prayer, of the most solemn services, of repentance and reformation, and of good resolutions.

It was kept as a most solemn sabbath and fast, when all must abstain from work and "afflict their souls," on pain of being "cut off from the people" (v. 29, Acts 27: 9). "Its ceremonies signified the public humiliation of the people for all the sins of the past year, and the remission of those sins by the atonement which the high priest made within the veil, whether he entered on this day only."—Smith. "The Day of Atonement is the time when universal reconciliation takes place. Children ask forgiveness of parents; those who have wronged one another implore pardon; all differences on that occasion are healed, and everybody is on good terms with one another."—C. S. Robinson.

In the observance of the day amid a varied ceremonial two young goats were chosen (v. 9) to represent the atonement for sin and its forgiveness, by two object lessons, both of them essential.

The first object lesson was the offering of one of the goats as a sacrifice for sin (v. 9). The offerer was himself purified by a special sacrifice (vs. 11-14).

For God to offer free pardon for sin without the atonement would be to defeat his own purpose of redeeming the world.

The blood of Jesus Christ is the highest expression of his love.

The second object lesson was the scapegoat (vs. 8, 10, 20-22). "To be the scapegoat" (vs. 10, 20) is translated in the R. V. "for Azazel." The sacrificed goat was "for Jehovah." This was "for Azazel," his exact opposite, the prince of darkness, according to the majority of modern scholars. "In Milton's Paradise Lost 'Azazel is represented as the standard bearer of the infernal hosts, cast out from heaven and become the embodiment of despair.'"—Century Dictionary. "The meaning is very uncertain."

There can be little doubt that the ceremonial was intended as a symbolical declaration that the land and the people are now purged from guilt, their sins being handed over to the evil spirit to whom they are held to belong.—Professor Driver in Hastings' Bible Dictionary.

Practical Points.

The cross is the eternal emblem and expression of God's forgiving love. God's love can transform even the scars of sin into songs of victory. Out of the cross, the work of wicked men, blossoms the heroic example of Christ and everlasting loving kindness of our father in heaven.

Forgiveness does not remove the penalty of sin. It does bring back many blessings that sin has forfeited. It does restore the outward expressions of God's favor. We cannot conceive of a pardon that goes on punishing the same as before.

Artistic Originality in Dress

The best-dressed woman is she into whose costume enters a touch of individuality—of originality if you choose. A woman instinctively knows this but shrinks from the effort to model her own gowns because of the trouble it involves. The Singer Automatic reduces effort to a minimum. It is a mechanism that makes a single thread chain-stitch and its Simplicity, Ease of Operation and Excellence of Work commend it to all who wish to express their artistic sense in the nature of a beautiful wardrobe. Dressmaking is a pleasure if a Singer be used. SOLD ONLY BY SINGER SEWING MACHINE CO. H. C. GAITHER, Agent. 188 Broad Street, Westfield, N. J. Tel. 137-L.

Devotion of Mother Stork.
The devotion of a stork to its young has been strikingly shown during a fire at Basle. The nest was set on fire by a spark from a chimney, but the mother bird refused to leave the nestlings, and all were burned to death.

Trees and Lightning.
Some trees are much more liable to be struck by lightning than others. Thus the oak and the elm are often struck and destroyed; but the ash is rarely struck, and the beech, it is said, never.

SPOILED THE ROMANCE.

The silvery moon looked down upon them as they stood upon the pier, ravenously devouring the lovelight in each other's eyes.

As he gazed upon her ethereal form he wondered how such an angelic creature could survive in such a vulgar and unympathetic world.

She looked so bewitchingly fair that it seemed like desecration to touch her, and he longed to speak to her with a golden harp instead of the commonplace everyday language.

Steadily such a sweet mouth was never intended to drink anything but the nectar of the gods? No—

"Becca," said a little voice at her side, "ma wants to know if you want tripe or liver an' onions for supper?"

Then the young man's watch stopped, and a seagull fell into the water and was drowned.

HOW CARELESS OF HER.

Mr. Jones—I can't find my hat. Fair One—Good gracious, Mr. Jones, I think I'm sitting on something.

KEPT HIS WORD.

There was a young king from Madrid Who promised his people a tid: When, true to his word, It came, they were stirred To remark with delight: "Well, he did!"—Life.

A Horrible Discovery.

Tired Timothy—Wot's de matter, Rufus? Rambling Rufus—I'm a-goin' ter commit suicide—it's de only way.

Tired Timothy—Wot fur? Rambling Rufus—A guy told me dat bummin' wuz harder'n workin' an' I kin see where he's right. An' I been bummin' fer years! Good-by, pal!—Cleveland Leader.

A Pun.

"Curious thing about that statue of Wellington," said old Crane, in a missing sort of tone, as he sauntered past the Register house with young (ull); "always shrinks when it rains; you know?"

"Don't say so?" said the latter. "Fact," muttered the old man. "Every time it rains it becomes a mere statue-let!"

Speaking of Men's Birthdays. She—Candles are far from obsolete. Despite the general use of petroleum gas and electricity, the production of candles in the United States during 1906 amounted to $3,559,362.

He—Why, of course, men's birthdays demand an increased number of candles every year.—Yonkers Statesman.

In Chicago.

Maud—Well, I understand that Fussandfeather's girl was married six months ago?

Mabel—Yes, she was. Then there'll be a chance for some of us to get attention from the men. "No, I think not. She got a divorce last week!"—Yonkers Statesman.

No Answer Required.

Tommy—Paw! Mr. Tucker—What's the trouble now, my son?

Tommy—Why is it that the magazines don't make their reading matter as interesting as they do their advertising pages?—Chicago Tribune.

Keeping Them Out of Trouble.

"An Old subscriber writes us to know what a married couple can live comfortably on," said the stenographer.

"Tell her a thousand a year more than they have," answered the correspondence editor, wisely.—Life.

It All Depends.

Miss Knox—There's a scandalous story about her in this morning's Daily Howler.

Miss Gooder—But you can't believe anything you read in that paper.

Miss Knox—I can't if I want to.

His Tact.

"Could you learn to love me, Miss Gettington?"

"I'm afraid I never could, Mr. Great."

"Oh, come—one's never too old to learn!"—Cleveland Leader.

Marital Amenities.

Mr. Jawback—How well Kipling has described this plate of hash!

Mrs. Jawback—How? Mr. Jawback—A ring and a bone and a bank of hair!"—Cleveland Leader.

LOCALS TO TACKLE RAILWAY.

Series of Three Games With Old Rivals—Clinton Avenues Also Scheduled.

Manager Dave Smith has completed arrangements for a series of three games with Rahway. The first game will be held at Rahway, August 31; the second at Recreation Park, September 7, and the final game at Rahway, September 14.

The Clinton Avenues have clinched the championship of the Inter-city baseball league, having defeated Scotch Plains in the deciding contest, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 9-1.

STARS CLASH SHAKES FANDOM'S FIRMAMENT.

Local Orbs of Brilliance Bested by Garwood by Score of 7-6.

Those scintillating orbs of brilliance, the All Stars of Westfield and the Stars of Garwood came together in a red hot diamond struggle at Garwood last Saturday afternoon.

The local stars have but recently flung themselves into space, but they came with such comet-like grandeur as to attract the discerning eyes of wise-astrologists, who have predicted that they will dim the luster of the once famed constellations which centered round the planets Coddling and Demman.

These same prognosticators are not inclined to retract because of the defeat by the orbs that glow over the factory villa. They claim that this will serve to intensify the luster of the Mt. Ararat constellation in the years that are to come. The oldest All Star is but 15. Wait, they say, until the youngest has reached the years of diamond experience of the erstwhile refractory George Mallon, and there will be a miracle of fulgences in the Recreation Ball yard.

We are told that All Star Eller's pitching for the locals was a Red Waller sensation. That he served 'em up in such bewildering array that ten of the Garwood Stars beat the 'ozone' the final three times. Errors, such as young and inexperienced Stars are likely to make, were responsible for the All Stars defeat.

Be it so. The game was exciting from play-ball to last-man-out. The score was even up until the last stanza, when the Garwood Stars squeezed in the winning run.

This is the score by innings: Westfield Stars... 1 0 2 0 1 2 0 0 0—6 Garwood Stars... 0 0 0 9 0 4 0 0 1—7

Golf Notes.

By A. De-Armond Tuttle. To begin with there's nothing doing. George Oruse played better than he know how; Sunday, doing a 76.

Big Bill Bogert and Alden Whitman were the easy marks at syndicate golf, Sunday morning. Oruse, Carroll and Sherman cleaned the course with them.

The Alpine club held a meeting Sunday night. Lanky Joe Sherman was suspended until further notice for being too proud. The club is said to be flourishing. A constitution and by-laws were recently adopted. The preamble, it is said, is a work of art. Bob Rawlins cribbed it from a history of the U. S. The rules are known only to members, and are said to be as strict as the New Jersey Blue Laws. The membership is restricted to 23. The club holds its sessions in full dress. The costumes were designed by A. de Armond Tuttle, and consist of lumber yard jumpers and alpine hats.

Bill Tuttle's name has been posted for membership. Bill recently returned from Germany, where he has been teaching members of the Kaiser's court how to play golf.

Jack Fails and Sam Poor have been initiated into the mysteries of the Alpine club. Each was made to drink two quarts of milk and sing 'Sweet and Low' before being admitted to active membership.

George Bets, a charter member of the Alpine club, can't play golf very well, but if anybody wants to know how she's there with the goods.

Victor Hugo De Talbot is out of town, and the benches on the veranda feel very, very lonely.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF.

Opening Play on Local Links Begins To-morrow, Sherman Favorite.

To-morrow afternoon, on the links of the Westfield Golf Club, will begin the opening round in the club championship contest. This is the big event of the golf season, and all the local cranks will compete for honors. There is considerable friendly rivalry and it is expected that some of the club records will be broken.

Joe Sherman the present champion of the club, is in fine fettle for the play, and is looked upon as a likely winner. Sherman has been playing a fine golf throughout the season. Al Worth, Ray Carroll, Sam Poor, Bill Bogert, George Oruse, and other local celebrities are entered, and declare that they will give the Champ the run of his life.

Open Games.

The New York Colonial Club cordially invites athletes, everywhere, to take part in their open games, at Washington Park, Grand Street, between Maspeth and Newtown, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday September 2nd, for which liberal cash prizes are offered.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

WE are justly proud of our MAIL ORDER SYSTEM. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger Mail Order System is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking efforts. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly and conveniently by mail as in person. There are no errors—no delays—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

EXPLAINING BASEBALL

It was at a professional baseball game in Philadelphia. On the great wooden benches 5,000 people were watching a showing that one would think would have surprised them with their number with surprise.

Only the bleachers were full. They, with their solid alternation of coats and faces, looked like a dark blanket thickly polka dotted with dinky white.

Up in the second story of the grand stand, where you pay 75 cents and don't care who knows it, sat rank and fashion, indicated by the presence here and there of flowery hats. That the wearers of the hats were familiar of the place would have impressed even a detective, for when a stray ball hot from the bat shot straight in among them, striking the boards with a fearsome crash, not a shriek, not a squeal, scarred the tense silence of the throng.

Down on the floor below, in the very front row, and just beyond the screen behind the bat, sat a woman who had never seen a ball game before. Beside her sat a friend.

You pay only 50 cents in the lesser glory, but you really see better than from anywhere else, and you really feel that you are one of us. Flowery hats count for nothing there. All distinctions sink unnoticed under a happy haze of ball.

The woman had been curious to see the national game and the friend had been obliging.

"But," he had asked, "will you have it college or professional? The difference is that college teams sometimes play real ball, while professional play it always."

"Now, don't try to explain things," said the woman virtuously as they settled into their places. "I know what a nuisance it would be. Just watch the game and enjoy yourself, and let me look."

And yet she asked questions. Questions like: "They don't run very well, do they? What makes them fall down so often when they stop?" Or "Why does he make such angry faces at that other man with the muzzel on his head?"

Next her, on the other side from the friend, sat a red-headed youth, alone: a youth of the proletariat, liberal minded, gregarious. The fate that gave him that day no mate had been unkind. He suffered for some one to talk to.

The first time that the friend answered a query of the woman's with "I don't know" this young man supplied the facts from an evident specialist's depth of information. He did it shyly, kneeling his hat further back from his freckled brow, shifting his cigarette hard apart, and with his eyes unswerving from the game.

But he might never have spoken, might never have existed, for all the recognition the friend vouchsafed. The friend was no snob, but he considered that youth excessive in local color when one had a lady in charge.

Again and again it happened. A jest sent one would have coagulated. But the red-headed one too truly abounded in good fellowship easily to believe in an intention to rebuff.

Nevertheless, he felt a certain something and his remarks grew rarer and more rare. The woman was sorry. But this was the friend's party, and he knew best.

The game progressed. Innings waned and waned. Then came a moment when the young pitcher, given heretofore to by mechanic sweep and velocity in his play, stood suddenly motionless with the ball held close before his face.

Seconds flew and still he stood, with never a shift from that queer attitude.

"What is he doing? Whatever can he be waiting for?" cried the woman now kept after the idea of the game.

"I'm sure I can't guess," answered the friend.

The red-headed youth stirred uneasily. Mental stress showed in the very twist of his shoulders.

He had meant not to speak again. But this was too much. His resolution shook and fell.

Ostensibly apostrophizing the pitcher toward whom his face was turned, but with his mouth so wreathed away that it spoke straight into the woman's ear, he jerked out deep and hoarse, this brief, enlightening truth: "A-ah, you, Maggie! Stop spittin' on dat ball!"

Feminine Privilege or Tears.

The new preference for the bright side of life is probably due—in women, at least—to the undeniable truth that they no longer cry as easily as they used to do, says a writer in Black and White. At one time a good weep was a recognized feminine luxury which, like a summer shower, had a marvellous effect in clearing away clouds. Now all but a few members of the sex seem to have lost the art of crying becomingly and readily, and when they begin it is a painful and unshy business. To be able to weep without shedding tears is a real gift. It is rare that masculine specialists can resist the soft suspicion of moisture in beautiful eyes, but they object to the deluge which reddens the nose and puckers up the face. The woman who cries because she can't help it usually succeeds in driving a man away, but sorrow under restraint, with a possible smile hidden behind the curtain of tears, is an irresistible invitation to him to stay and comfort.

Part of Her Learning.
The child was quietly sitting on a footstool, nursing a sick dolly. The mother was earnestly advising her visitors not to send their daughter to Paris to learn French. "I can speak from experience," she said. "I went over as a girl to get the accent. . . . They learn other things besides French. . . . In particular, they learn to be untruthful." "Did you, mother?" innocently inquired the child.

Matrimony No Miracle.
After long years, matrimony may be said to wear off some of the rough edges, but the long years might have worn them off had these people remained single. So think well about it, men and maids, before you enter upon its precincts and choose wisely, for the one you marry is the one you must live with, and matrimony works no miracle with character.

First Peace Congress.
An early American peacemaker was Elihu Burritt, the "blacksmith scholar" of Connecticut. It was mainly to his efforts that the Paris peace congress of 1849 practically owed its existence. Though now almost forgotten, the same principles were discussed and the same propositions laid down as obtained at The Hague in 1899.

Her Difficult Task.
"Don't talk to me right now," she begged, as she closed the door and came back into the room. "Let me rest awhile. I have just finished trying to explain the difference between a grass and a sod widow to a Spaniard who doesn't understand anything else but French. Yes, I was trying to explain it to him in French."

Campaign of Education.
"In the summer," remarked the obese passenger with the big diamond stud, "people should eat nothing but cold food and drink the coldest water obtainable!" "Ah!" exclaimed the railway detective, "you are evidently a doctor?" "Not me," replied the o. p. "I'm an ice dealer."

How Rabbits Swim.
While not fond of the water, rabbits can swim if they are forced to. They have a swimming position all their own and look queer enough in the water. They keep their heads and tails high and dry, while the front part of the body sinks deep in the water.

Love, the Debtor.
"The greatest thing," says one one, "a man can do for his Heavenly Father is to be kind to some of His other children." I wonder how it is that we are not all kinder than we are. How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How instantaneous! It acts! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back—for there is no debtor in the world so honorable, so superiorly honorable, as love.—Henry Drummond.

Summer coughs and colds yield at once to Bees Laxative Cough Syrup. Contains honey and tar but no opiates. Children like it. Pleasant to take. Its laxative qualities recommend it to mothers. Hoarseness, coughs, croup yield quickly. Sold by James G. Casey, Drug Store, Broad and Prospect Streets.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is sold under a positive guarantee to cure constipation, sick headache, stomach trouble, or any form of indigestion. If it fails, the manufacturers refund your money. What more can any one do.—For sale by G. W. Frutchey, Druggist.

Far From It.
"Dora, dearest, I love—"
"O! O!"
"Do you interrupt me, Dora, because you don't want to hear it?"
"That wasn't intended as an interruption, George. Go ahead."—Chicago Tribune.

NOT JUST WHAT HE MEANT.

Owner—Are you lads aware that no one is allowed to fish here?
Dor—Why we saw 'er fishin' 'ere yerself, 'oher day!

Arousing Him.

The cuckoo clock announced the hour when graveyards yawn and specters hold carnival.
Clarence yawned the weary girl. "I wish you would end your visits like you end your letters."

Why, how is that?" asked Clarence, in surprise.

Why, in haste.

And then Clarence called for his hat and cane.—Chicago News.

Making Progress.

Neighbor—How's your boy, Milton, getting along at college?
Uncle Haycraft—Fine, Mill's going to be a regular orator. He can talk about the personal equation, an' other things, being equal, an' questions for academic discussion, an' all that sort o' thing, jest like an old hand.—Chicago Tribune.

Discovers a Resemblance.

Mr. Dear, mildly remonstrated her husband, speaking of this new idea in railway motor car construction, "I wish you hadn't such a gyroscopic tongue."

What do you mean, sir?" shrilly demanded Mrs. Vick-Sean, "by gyroscopic tongue?"

Why, when you set it going it will run on one rail all day long, and never stop till the power motor gives out.—Chicago Tribune.

In Memory of George Eliot.

In Aubury park, Warwickshire, England, the ancestral seat of the Newdegates, a tapered pillar in gray granite on a three-stepped pedestal has been erected to perpetuate the memory of George Eliot. Her birthplace is nearby, and her father, brother and nephew served the Newdegate family in the office of land agent. The monument is the gift of F. A. N. Newdegate.

Ancient Writers on Poisons.

Poison lore, "poison-lore," as it was long called, was considered a forbidden subject for many ages. Oaten, in his work "On Antidotes," remarks that the only authors who dared to write of poisons were Orpheus, Theologus, Morus, Mendelius the younger, Heliodorus, of Athens, and a few others. Unfortunately, none of their treatises is in existence.

Jute Sacks by the Thousand.

Immense numbers of jute sacks are annually used in the shipment of nitrate from Chile. They come principally from Australia and the East Indies, and are never used the second time, as the nitrate rots the fiber. During 1906 about 20,000,000 sacks were used, and the demand is constantly growing.

The Effeminate Man.

"If there is anything that makes me feel like going out and practicing with the dumb bells," said the mannish girl, "it is to see a man going about the street wearing pumps or very low shoes that look like a girl's shoes, daintily tied with wide ribbon in a fetching bow. You'd be surprised how many you see of them, too."

"The Wise Man Foreseeth the Evil."

"No, sah, thank'ye," said Alphonse. "Ah, doan' wishes to wuk all de time, sah. Ef Ah wuz ter wuk all de time, Ah'd most likely hab nuff money ter git married wif an ef. Ah had nuff money to git married wif, mos' likely Ah'd git married. No, sah! Deed Ah doan' wishes ter wuk all de time."

Bride's Foolish Wager.

Some 60 years ago a native of Pennsylvania undertook, for a wager of $100, to remain mute for the first month of her marriage. Her husband, not being in the secret, left her only to return later, when he was apprised of the real reason of her silence.

A LIFE SAVED.

Mr. Slimkins (wildly)—You must be mine. Say "yes," or I will drown myself.

Miss Prettle—You will at least wait until I have had time to think it over, I am sure.

Mr. Slimkins—How long? It is now September. Will you give me my answer in October?

Miss Prettle—I will if I can. If not, you will have to wait longer.

Miss Prettle (the following December)—What! Still in the land of the living? It is a month, nearly, since I refused you, and you know you were to drown yourself if I said "no."

Mr. Slimkins (despondently)—Yes, but you waited so long that the—the water got too cold.—N. Y. Weekly.

Where He Met Him.

He was one of those smart men who like to show their cleverness.

"Watch me take a rise out of him," he said, as the tramp approached. Then he listened solemnly to the tale of hard luck.

"That's the same old story you told me the last time you accosted me," he said, when the vagrant had finished.

"It is?" was the answering question. "When did I tell it you?"

"Last week."

"Maybe I did, maybe I did," admitted the tramp. "I'd forgotten meeting you. I was in prison all last week."

A Miso.

Old Gent (evidently under great mental strain)—See here, sir, I want to speak to you, sir. You were at my house until very late last night, and after my daughter went to her room I heard her sobbing for an hour. You're a villain, sir, and I've a great mind—

Young Man—Sobbing?

O. G.—Yes, sir. How dared you to insult—

Y. M.—I wouldn't think of such a thing. Believe me.

O. G. (temporarily)—What did you say to her, sir?

Y. M.—I merely remarked that I was too poor to marry.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Sympathetic Employer.

Old Gent—And so that is your employer going to the funeral of one of his clerks?

Young Clerk—Not a clerk, but a distant relative of one of the clerks.

"My! my! I'm sure that is very thoughtful."

"Yes, most too thoughtful. Whenever any of us loses a relative and tells him about it, he always goes to the funeral, doesn't he?"

"Eh? And do you object to such kindness of heart?"

"That's kindness of heart, sir. He goes to make sure that the funeral isn't an excuse for a day off.—N. Y. Weekly.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Hookport, Mo., writes: "I suffered from enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old."—For sale by G. W. Frutchoy, Druggist.

MUNICIPAL UNACY.

By JOHN KUNDRICK HANGS.

Has anybody yet thought of the desirability of municipal ownership of the harbor wharves? If not it is respectfully suggested that the matter be looked into, for under private control it is undoubtful that many abuses have grown up. No misplaced respect for alleged private rights should be permitted to take the matter out of the mouths of the public.

The Brooklyn Eagle says that "you simply can't worry business and politics." Ah, but you can. Miscellaneous are always possible. The real trouble will come when you try to divorce them, even for cause.

Only a fool would suggest managing gas companies, street car companies and so on regardless of cost.—Hearst's New York Evening Journal.

Now, William, stop calling yourself names. Leave that to your enemies.

One thing is very certain. If capitalists refuse to take the municipal bonds that are being offered on the markets, it won't take more than fifteen minutes for an alert common council to pass an ordinance requiring them to take them. Better be warned in time, for money sharks. When that ordinance is passed, who knows but that one of its provisions will set the price of a hundred dollar bond at $125?

Too much credit has ruined many a man. Wherefore the city that cannot sell its mortgages for over 8 1/2% is just that much further from ruin as 8 1/2% is from par. Q. E. D.

There seems to be a general suspicion in New York city that the more flourishing of its pool rooms and other gambling institutions are controlled by a committee of municipal officials acting ex officio. This is one of the few varieties of municipal control which can be said to realize enormous profits.

Northfield, Vt., before starting in upon municipal ownership owed $2,082. At the close of the experiment it owed $47,310, a nice little profit of $45,227.

Opera Note of the Future.—Now that New York city has assumed charge of the Metropolitan Opera House and opera has been thoroughly municipalized the music lovers of the city are looking forward with much curiosity to what promises to be an interesting season. The appointment of Mr. Fassett, the well known plumber, to its management by the common council will infuse new spirit into the institution, though there are still timid souls who doubt whether the artists he has engaged, notably Mr. O'Brien, the lively stable keeper, and Miss Maggie Dugan of Lacey's ribbon counter, to sing Romeo and Juliet are vocally equal to the roles assigned them. Those who have heard Miss Dugan summon a cash boy are perfectly familiar with the wonderful quality of her voice, especially in its higher altitudes, and her enunciation of the word "cash" is bell-like in the clarity of its tone. Mr. O'Brien, however, is more of an experiment; but, while we must confess we have only heard him address his horses in the past, there is no denying that there is a superb quality to the notes of his middle register. Signor Cospetto di Napoli, the popular dealer in confetti in Mulberry street, who will lead the orchestra on Italian nights, comes of a musical family, his parents having toured the country with a barrel organ for many prosperous seasons.

"The People Must Foot the Bills."

A city of some 40,000 inhabitants not long ago decided to change its street lighting from gas to electric and proposed building a municipal plant. The local electric company offered to pay $300 toward the expense of getting an estimate by a first class expert, with the proviso that it would supply lights at a substantial reduction from the expert's estimate of what it would cost the city to furnish its own lights. The offer was rejected, one member of the council voicing the general sentiment of that body in these words: "It doesn't make any difference what the cost will be, the people want the plant, and the people will have to foot the bills."

Which of the parties to this offer was working for the best interests of the city? When you answer don't blink the fact that the self interest of the company that wanted the contract was fully balanced by the shortsighted self interest of the councilmen who desired re-election.

M. O. Employees Badly Paid in Vienna.

The Chicago Daily News states that the wages of a first class motorman on the municipal street railways of Vienna is 72 cents for a twelve hour day and that a large number of the employees of the municipal gas works earn barely 50 cents a day. These low wages are paid to enable the city to make a profit on its undertakings. A special cable says that a general revolt against the miserable wages of city employees is threatened.

Profit in Baiting Corporations.

The celebrated Edward W. Bemis, whose efforts to extirpate gas monopolies have brought fame and fees, is suing the city of Peoria, Ill., for $1,000, which he asserts was earned in the service of Peoria when the authorities of that alcoholic spot were endeavoring to put the Peoria Gas company out of business.—American Gas Light Journal.

NEW IN FOOTWEAR MODELS THAT ARE POPULAR THIS SEASON.

Fashion Has Decreed Some Decidedly New Designs to Be Worn—Shoes Now Should Always Match the Gown.

The footwear pictured shows the best models for the coming season, the figure illustrating a dress model in patent leather, ornamented with brilliant cut-steel discs. This same design is also very smart in bronze or in gray suede. Figure two shows a pedestrian oxford in mat kid—this style being especially recommended for general street wear.

Figure three shows a good model, which may be had in tan or russet leather, in black kid or patent leather or in white or colored canvas. Figure four shows another model in a pump, and No. 5 a more unusual cut for a low shoe. This last model is especially good in colored kid or tan or black leather. The high shoe shown in the sketch is considered particularly smart, the black patent leather lower part having an upper of white kid, with black buttons.

Shoes to match the gowns with which they are worn will be more in vogue than ever this season, and with white and light-colored gowns the canvas shoes to match are very attractive. For general street wear tan shoes and hosiery are in order, and have the advantage of requiring less care than a black shoe, on which dust so readily shows. Hosiery is also most important in considering fashionable footwear. The lace and openwork styles are shown in the shops, but are not as smart as the thin plain weaves or those showing silk clocks or small embroidered designs. The hosiery should always match the shoe in color, except where a white shoe is worn, when light pink, blue or other light colors are permissible.

NEW SHADE OF RED. Pronounced Color Popular With Fashion's Devotees.

Dragon's blood is the new shade of red which has been brought into prominence, and although the name suggests heathenism, colorists seem to have dipped deep into the heart of the American Beauty rose for their newest inspiration. Not that fashionable women have tired of the browns and greens, for these are in evidence everywhere, and scarcely any two shades alike, but Paris likes novelty and the couturieres must supply it in color when there is a lull in the number of designs or new decorative schemes.

Browns of various shades come next to blues, but few very dark shades will be worn. Golden browns and russet shades are the deepest and for summer wear the tans and ecrus, as always, will be much seen. The coming shade of green will be that rich, pure tone called forest green. It lacks the blue of the emerald tones and the yellow of the bronze shades. It is an especially good shade with which to place other colors without discords.

Some New Fabrics. The dimities, printed batistes, organdies and, in fact, all the old favorites among cottons of modest price are prettier than ever, and there are several entirely new fabrics of the cotton and silk class, which, however, they may wear—a matter still to be determined—are undeniably of phenomenal beauty in color and design. A snuff-color spider cloth is conspicuous on this list. It is very sheer, though not transparent, and of exquisite sheen, while in point of design and color it yields the palm to none of the most costly printed materials.

When Traveling. There is no question but that the simpler a traveling costume is the better. Indeed it is hard to get a smarter model than the severe fitted three-quarter tailor coat with full skirt just clearing the ground.

VOT A CHANCE! Ikey Rolansky's Fadder Yud Klaf Heaps Mit Money to be Fred Tecker.

Mrs. Rolansky was busy at her ironing board—intensely absorbed in her work, for she heard the shuffle of little feet near the kitchen door, and knew that her infant progeny, Ikey, aged four, was about to make his morning visit. She knew too, that he would have something pertinent to say.

"There was a deafening sound. Ikey had turned summer suit over the door sill, and stood erect before his mother, who eyed him admiringly, but not without approval. "Mudder?" "Vell, vot its dot vot you wants now Ikey?" "Mudder, who is Fred Tecker?" "Er ist ein tailor, Ikey." "Ein tailor mann vot mensh oblings und makes dem fine suits." "Yah." "Aber, Mudder, I saw him mit der fire engines go by." "Yah, er ist der chief mit der fire departments?" "Vot, Mudder, ist er chief mit der fire departments und ein faller yet?" "Yah." "Aber, Mudder, I saw him mit der insurance company signs by his bicee." "Yah er ist ein insurance agent." "Vot, Mudder, ist er ein tailor, und der chief mit der fire departments yet, und ein insurance agent?" "Yah, Ikey." "Ach, Mudder, Fadder yud klaf heaps mit heaps of money for chnist vum chance like dot."

A Great Booklet Of A Great City.

The McCormack Real Estate Company has complimented this office with a booklet entitled "The Greatness of New York." The book is beautifully printed and strikingly illustrated and contains facts and figures relative to Greater New York, much of which has never before appeared in print. It is said by statisticians to be the most comprehensive and exhaustive work of its kind ever sent out under one cover. This handsome booklet typifies the Greatness of this Greater New York's enterprising real estate company, the McCormack people, who to-day are in a class by themselves. The retail price of this booklet to which you are making reference is one dollar. To a limited number of our readers it will be sent postpaid, for 25 cents—if the name of this paper accompanies the order.

Frank Off for Jamestown. Weighted down with paraphernalia, Otto Chagn Frank, of Big Woods Terrace, left yesterday morning for the Jamestown Exposition, where he will remain until late in November. Before departing, Mr. Frank announced that he had negotiated a big deal by which he would be sole proprietor of a "hot dog" stand, located on one of the fashionable streets of the exposition grounds. Bill Perrino went to the depot with his "old pal," but made a hasty exit by a rear door when he saw Mrs. Frank approaching.

LETTER TO W. C. HACHMAN, Westfield, N. J.

Dear Sir: What will it cost to sow ten acres half wheat and half daisy mixed? and what'll the crop be worth? We don't know what daisy-seed costs nor how bulky it is; we suspect half wheat and half daisy would make a big crop of daisies, and last a long time; the wheat might be short. The parable throws some light on the cost of paint half whitewash. Whitewash, mixed half-and-half with paint, is all-paint in look and feel; indeed nine tenths of the "paint" in the stores is part whitewash: some half, some more, some less. Paint has to be spread with a brush, the surface prepared, the ladders, scaffolds, pulleys and ropes arranged and moved, there's a great deal of labor in putting paint on; it costs $2 to $4 a gallon to do it. What does it cost to paint whitewash? Just the same. Half-whitewash? Just the same. It doesn't seem worth while for the whitewash does harm, not good. Will the paint hold the whitewash fast? or the whitewash loosen the paint? Better paint pure paint, the least-gallons paint, the least-money paint, Devos.

Yours truly F. W. DEVOE & Co. P. S. Chas. Crickenberger sells our paint.

Proposals for Flagging.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Council of the Town of Westfield at 8.30 p. m. on August 19, 1907, at the Town Rooms for laying about 400 lin. ft. of 2 in. bluestone flagging on the east side of Westfield Avenue between South Avenue and Park Street. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $100.00 drawn to the order of the Town Treasurer as an evidence of good faith and a bond of $500.00 will be required to guarantee the faithful performance of the contract. Further information may be obtained of A. W. Vars, Town Surveyor, Broad and Elm Streets, Westfield, N. J. The Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids. LLOYD THOMPSON, Town Clerk. Westfield, N. J., Aug. 8, 1907.
