DISCUSS WIDENING OF WESTFIELD AVENUE

At Meeting of Town Plan and Art Commission Held Tuesday Night

The Town Plan and Art Commission held a meeting in the town hall on Tuesday night. One of the most important subjects which the commission discussed was the widening of Westfield avenue from Broad street to North avenue.

This section of the avenue is a county road and was paved with a supposedly fine pavement about a year ago. It did not prove to be a success and now it is a disgrace to the town, and automobiles and business wagons have a hard time driving over it.

President Pierson of the Commission reported that he had been in touch with Mr. Besley's office of the Central railroad and that official had assured him that work was contemplated on the Scotch Plains avenue bridge as well as on the Westfield avenue one and that when the work was done it would be in harmony with the wishes of the town.

The matter was laid over until the next meeting of the Commission when it is expected that enough data will have been secured so that a recommendation can be made to the town council.

The widening of Railway avenue and the extension of Pleasant place were also discussed, but no definite action was taken in either case.

When the meeting adjourned it was subject to the call of the president.

President Pierson presided and all the members were present except Messrs. Davis and Orr.

LAWN PARTY BEING HELD THIS AFTERNOON

The annual lawn party for the primary, beginner's and cradle roll of the Presbyterian Sunday School is being held on the lawn of the church property this afternoon, from two to five.

The little ones are being entertained with games, under the direction of Miss Bessie Fowler and Miss Elizabeth Johnson. After the games the little ones will be served with ice cream and cake. The mothers of the little ones are also present and enjoying it as much as the children.

The lawn party takes the place of an outing to the seashore. The superintendent of this department of the school is Miss Harriet Williams.

PASSAIC BOARD VISITS WESTFIELD.

President Johnson and a delegation of members from the Board of Trade of Passaic visited this town on Wednesday afternoon and while here were the guests of President A. N. Pierson, of the local Board of Trade, Mayor H. W. Evans and Town Engineer Vars. The visitors were shown the system of streets in the town, the fire house, public library and the town parks. The trip around to the various places of interest was made in automobiles after which the visitors were taken to the town hall and shown the charts used in the recent town exhibit.

The visitors were very much interested in the charts and wanted to know just what it had accomplished. The charts were spread out on the desks of the council room and hung on the walls.

The President of the Passaic Trade Board declared that the exhibit was an excellent thing and said that Passaic would have a similar one in the fall.

BOYS' LEAGUE GOES CAMPING

Fifty-Six Boys Enjoy Annual Trip To the Mountains and Lake. Are Entertained by Frederick S. Taggart.

Since it was announced three weeks ago, at the Boys' League Meeting, that June 25th was the date for the annual camping trip, the boys have been making their plans for that big event.

Wednesday Charles Wittke was busy selling fishing lines and hooks; and the furnishing stores were equally busy fitting the boys out with swimming trunks.

At sunrise yesterday morning 56 boys were up and getting ready for the mountain trip. At eight o'clock all were gathered at the chapel of the M. B. Church. Herbert R. Welch arranged the boys into groups of eight with a leader for each group, who was to be responsible for his boys during the day. At eight-thirty, after giving the club yell the tramps started down Broad street, in double file, led by Charleston Smith, secretary of the League.

Then up Mountain avenue to Bird's Corners, past the Children's Country Home, over Pot Luck Hill to Fred Taggart's Farm. Mr. Taggart greeted the boys, and led them out into the orchard to see his beehives. After covering his head with a wire mask, and putting on gloves for protection, he opened a hive, and explained to the boys how the bees make honey. He then took the boys across the fields and through the woods to Ackerman Lake. Here the boys enjoyed bathing and fishing. Conrad Johnson caught the first fish. Billy Learned surprised the boys with his "catch", and brought the fish home in his pocket. Walter Clark made the biggest "catch."

At noon the camp fire was started, and all gathered for the big feed. Mr. Beem arrived at noon, and enjoyed part of the day with the boys. After dinner some of the boys went off on short tramps. Several of the boys had their first swimming lesson. About three o'clock, the boys started from the lake for the tramp home, along the valley to the copper mine, then to the gorge, over the mountain to Scotch Plains and home.

Forris Pearsall took many pictures of the boys on the tramp.

The boys all agreed that this was the biggest day ever.

HOME FROM MEXICAN WAR

Barney Lane, Who Knew Thomas Clark While in Service, Brings Tales of Mexican Women Warriors

Barney Lane, a brother of Charles Lane, of Elm street, who is a jackie on the U. S. S. Utah, is spending a thirty day furlough with his brother in town. Lane enlisted in the U. S. Service about a year ago and was in action in Vera Cruz in the recent engagement there. He says that the women of Mexico are doing most of the sniping in that place and that the children who are too small to carry guns are given ammunition to carry to the women.

He knew Thomas Clark who was buried with military honors in this place a few weeks ago and said that before the body was sent here from Texas a short funeral service was held and all the American flags were at half mast. Lane brought home with him an old fashioned Springfield musket which he took from a woman who was going to fire on him. He also has a machete which he prizes very much.

He says the jackies were treated fine and had plenty to eat and a good time when not on duty.

Mrs. Burhans accepted the bouquet in an appreciative manner. Mrs. Isabel Miller who is one of the oldest members of the society then in a brief address presented Mrs. J. H. Titus who she said was soon to go to California with a very handsome hand bag. Both the bouquet and hand bag were gifts of the members of the society.

The reports of the officers were read for the past year and showed the society and its auxiliaries to be in a flourishing condition. The Home Guards which is composed of children was especially commended for its work, it having raised $60 for missions during the year just closed.

At the close of the business session of the society ice cream and cake were served and a social hour enjoyed by the members on the lawn.

AUTOMOBILISTS TO HAVE WARNING

Large white signs with black letters bearing the words, "Town of Westfield, Speed Law Enforced, Go Slow" are being placed at all the gateways to the town by the authorities. The object of the signs is to cut down the speed of automobilists passing through the town. A danger sign is also being made to be placed at the corner of East Broad street and Springfield road, where several head-on collisions have taken place.

The Go-Slow signs will be located at the following points: Central avenue and L. V. R. R. crossing, Broad street and Lambert's Mill road, north, and Scotch Plains avenues; Mountain avenue and Mountain line, Willow Grove road and town line; North and Fourth avenues and South and Scotch Plains avenues.

Many citizens maintain that a traffic post should be located at the junction of East Broad street and Springfield avenue and the post lighted at night with an electric lamp.

To Join Brightwood Forest Colony.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hudson, and two daughters, have rented Leigh M. Pearsall's house in Edinboro Place, and will soon join the Brightwood Forest Colony. This rental fills the only unoccupied house in that section of our town which is becoming more popular each day.

The Hudson family comes from Plainfield and has expressed itself as greatly surprised by the splendid appearance of the town, more particularly specifying its schools, churches, roads and trees.

During the summer months The Standard will be published Friday mornings instead of Friday afternoons as heretofore.

This change in the hour of publication goes into effect with our issue of next week.

Until September, when we shall resume our former hour of publication, it will therefore be necessary for all news matter and advertising copy to be in our hands by Thursday of each week.

This change in publication hour is made necessary by the fact that we are this summer publishing a weekly at Lake Hopatcong which is also printed on Friday.

CLASS OF 1912 HOLDS REUNION

Second Anniversary Celebrated With Much Noise and Merry-making in Westfield Theatre

The Class of 1912, W. H. S., held its second annual reunion in the Westfield Theatre Assembly Hall last Wednesday evening. Some noise, you say? Well, we should say so!

The evening started with dancing by those present, after which some "old fashioned" games were played, to the amusement of all present. After playing games, the class and its guests retired to the moving pictures. A slide stating that this was the second reunion of the class of 1912 was thrown upon the screen. This was followed by other announcements of special events, i. e. Kieler giving the "high sign." "Oh you Mrs. G. L. D. Jr." "Let George do it," and he did. After the announcements, slides with the perfect likenesses of Ed. Underwood, "Jasper," "Betty Vana," "Jack Meredith," "Vera Lee," "Case," and "Bassett," were thrown on the screen, much to the delight of those portrayed, their friends, and those who were in the theatre. To show how they felt toward the Class of 1911, a picture showing the "A Puritan" walking in the woods, and an Indian, 1912, shooting him with an arrow was thrown on the screen. This picture was taken by the staff artist of the "Blabber." The "Judge" certainly enjoyed himself even though his wife kept him from talking too much.

After seeing the "movies" the members reassembled in the upper hall, where refreshments were served, followed by more games.

The class president handed each one a present program, upon which was printed a song dedicated to the class, and written by one of the members. When the song had been sung the members gave a rising vote of appreciation to the "author" whose name we are not allowed to mention. The president made a few fitting remarks, then called upon each of the members to say something fitting. "Judge" Springstead told some stories which were events that had happened to him in school, but must be kept a secret by the members of the class.

After the rain stopped, which by the way happened to be at a very, very late hour, the members returned home.

Among those present were the Misses E. O'Neill, E. M. Gladwin, M. Roy, G. Spalekhauser, K. Dietz, H. McAnis, E. D. Harrison, M. Fink, R. App, and Messrs. P. Kieler, W. Bachmann, E. Underwood, J. Elliott, W. Mae Monnies, R. Walsh, G. L. Todd, L. Bush, G. Wright, R. Coddington, and E. W. Wittke; Mrs. M. B. Elliott, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Springstead acted as chaperons.

The room was decorated with the Class colors, maroon and gold, and the basketball banners won by the Class.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of E. W. Wittke, chairman, Edith M. Gladwin, Katharine Dietz, Emma D. Harrison, and Gertrude Spalekhauser.

TESTIMONIAL TO REV. H. J. WATTERSON

Knights of Columbus, Council No. 1711 Give Dinner in Honor of Their Chaplain at Columbus Hall, Westfield, New Jersey

The Rev. Henry J. Watterson, Rector of Holy Trinity Church, Westfield, was the recipient on last evening of a genuine and most delightful surprise which bore eloquent testimony to the affectionate regard in which he is held by the Catholic people of this community.

A committee from Council No. 1711, of the Knights of Columbus, consisting of John J. Daly, Wm. A. Thornton, and Police Lieutenant Martin Canfield, called on the Reverend gentleman at the Rectory and invited him to attend a little function which they were holding in Columbus Hall, at which they plausibly stated they particularly desired his presence. On arrival, the good Rector was astonished to find the New Headquarters of the Knights of Columbus Council beautifully decorated and a sumptuous banquet prepared under the guidance of Mr. John W. Kelley, especially for this occasion. His entrance into the hall was the signal for an outburst of enthusiastic demonstrations of welcome from the assembled knights.

MOTORCYCLIST BADLY INJURED

Miss Raybold, of Cranford, Thrown Against Bank at Corner of North Avenue and Elmer Street

A serious motorcycle accident took place at the corner of North avenue and Elmer street on Wednesday night about eight o'clock when a Miss Raybold of Cranford, had her collarbone broken and one of her legs badly lacerated between the knee and the ankle.

Miss Raybold was riding on the back of a motorcycle with Charles Johnston, of Roselle, and was coming from Garwood with a party of four others.

Mr. Johnston, who was leading the way, was not acquainted with the road and when he reached the corner of North avenue, instead of taking the turn went straight ahead and ran into the embankment on the side of Elmer street. Miss Raybold was thrown over Mr. Johnston to the ground, landing on her side. She was picked up in an unconscious condition by her companions and placed in an automobile which was passing and taken to the office of Dr. R. R. Sinclair, on Elm street, where her collarbone was set and several stitches taken in her leg. She was later removed to her home in Cranford where she will be confined for several days.

BOY'S WHEREABOUTS WANTED BY UNCLE

Left Home Last Saturday is 14 Years Old and Poorly Dressed

Elsewhere in this issue of The Standard appears an advertisement under the caption of "Will you Help Me to Find My Boy." The advertisement pertains to the nephew of Louis Humphrey, the janitor of the Post Office Building, who ran away from his home last Saturday and has not since been heard from by his uncle or any one. The boy is colored, and when he left home was poorly dressed. His name is Napoleon Humphrey and he is fourteen years old, has black eyes and is a little knock kneed when walking. The boy's uncle is very anxious to find him.

This is the second time young Humphrey has run away. The first time was about a year ago and he was found by his uncle in Round Brook about a month after. He was brought back to Westfield and attended the McKinley school until it closed last Friday. The next day he ran away again. His father and mother are both dead, but he has a brother and sister living with Mr. Humphrey. Any information as to his whereabouts will be gladly welcomed by Mr. Humphrey. The police have been notified and are on the still hunt for him.

CRANFORD CARNIVAL NEXT WEEK

Neighboring Town Promises Most Gorgeous Pageant in its History of Years of Carnival Making

Assured of the presence of a distinguished company of State, County and Town Officials as guests of the great land and water pageant of July Fourth, the Cranford Carnival Association has redoubled its efforts to make the event the most elaborate ever held.

The Program for the parade on The Rahway River in Cranford in the evening is now complete. Announcement is made that on account of the difficulty experienced in recent years in awarding the prizes, owing to the large number and the remarkable beauty of the illuminated canoes and floats, eight additional honorary prizes will be given this year. The prizes will include silver loving cups, 16 foot canoes, lawn swings, paddles, back rests, traveling bag and large American flags.

In addition to the thousands of Japanese lanterns that will shed a colorful glow upon the river, the lawns and its banks, the bridges and approaches, all the residences and shores will be festooned with flags and bunting.

From the number of entries for the Evening Parade received to date, it is certain that about 100 canoes and floats will take part. The Equal Franchise League of Cranford, which carried off first honors last year, and the town firemen will have larger and still finer floats than heretofore. Some interesting surprises will be sprung in the novelty class.

The Cranford Carnival Association, which has this spectacle in charge, comprises all the clubs of the town. At the signal bomb at 8:15 P. M., all decorated craft will fall in line behind the flag boat, near the Canoe Club. Residents and property owners along the half mile course, will, as in previous years, give the public the privilege of viewing the parade from their lawns. Large parties of visitors, it is announced, will be present from nearby towns and cities.

LITTLE CHILD HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Albert C. Fox, while on his way to his home in Washington street, last Saturday afternoon, narrowly escaped running over a three-year-old Italian child, who with other small children were playing in the street. Mr. Fox saw the children and slowed down but not before the car had hit the child. When Mr. Fox got out of the car he found that the left wheel was on the child's dress.

The mother of the child came out to the street and took the child to the house. Mr. Fox reported the affair at the police station. It is thought that the child was not hurt as nothing further has been heard from it.

STEADFAST CONFIDENCE

The Following Statement Should Form Conclusive Proof of Merit to Every Westfield Reader.

Could stronger proof of the merit of any product be desired than the statements of grateful endorser who say their confidence has been undiminished by lapse of time? These are the kind of statements that are appearing in your local papers for Don's Kidney Pills. They are twice-told and confirmed with new enthusiasm. Can any reader doubt the following? It's from a resident of Elizabeth.

Mrs. Robert Irvine, 1111 E. Grand Street, Elizabeth, N. J., says: "Backaches, headaches and a general run down condition caused by weak kidneys, had been bothering me for some time. I saw Don's Kidney Pills advertised and began taking them. They were the means of stopping the trouble. I am free from backache and headaches now and all other symptoms of kidney trouble."

A LATEL ENDOUSEMENT.
On August 12, 1913, Mrs. Irvine was interviewed and she said: "You are just as welcome to use my endorsement of Don's Kidney Pills today as in the past. I have told my friends about Don's Kidney Pills and shall continue to do so."

Fanwood

Miss Irma Hart, of Cranford, visited friends in town on Tuesday.

Miss E. C. Marsh, of Cranford, visited friends on Martine avenue, yesterday.

The Misses Hour, of Martine avenue, entertained out of town friends on Sunday.

W. Ulrich, of Plainfield, was the guest of Maurice Hall, of South avenue, on Saturday.

Several local people attended the informal dance at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday evening.

Paul Phillips, of La Grande avenue, motored to Lake Hopatcong on Sunday with the Plainfield Motor Cycle Club.

The Fanwood Field Club baseball team was defeated by a Garwood nine on Saturday. The final score was 4-3.

The local tennis courts are in the pink of condition and many Fanwoodites are enjoying lively games of tennis.

The Fanwood Borough Council will hold its July meeting on Wednesday evening next, at the regular place of meeting.

Rutgers Neilson, of Martine avenue, attended the commencement exercises and dance of the West Orange High school on Wednesday evening.

Fanwood was well represented at the Junior reception and dance held in the auditorium of the Westfield High School, last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reeder, of Jersey City, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Reeder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reeder, of Martine avenue.

Mrs. Floyd I. Jones, Miss Elizabeth Jones and Mrs. S. A. Wagner, of Patterson road are visiting Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zimri West, of Asbury Park.

Linemen were busy during the past week placing new telegraph poles along the west bound railroad tracks, to replace those broken down last March in the blizzard.

Mrs. L. J. Briggs, of Martine avenue, lost a valuable cameo brooch, which has been an heirloom in her family for years, while taking a walk through the borough on Sunday.

Miss Olive Garda, of North avenue, and Miss Ethel Strong, of Martine avenue, attended a party given by Miss Marjorie Allen, at her home, on Harrison avenue, Westfield, Tuesday afternoon.

The Civil Service examinations for those desiring the positions of fourth class postmasters in various parts of New Jersey, were held on Saturday, at the several places stated in the circular issued by the Civil Service Commission. The postmaster in Fanwood will probably be affected by the result of the examinations.

A leading citizen has expressed a desire of having a traffic post where North and Martine avenues meet. This seems a good suggestion, as the automobile drivers like to "cut in" on the corners and break other traffic regulations, but unless there is an officer stationed at said post, automobilists are likely to attempt to evade "rounding" the traffic post.

The "Musical Evening" held last Friday evening in Fanwood Hall was largely attended and was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. The various numbers on the program were well rendered by the artists. The entertainment was under the direction of Robert Thorne, violinist of the Philharmonic Society of New York, and he was assisted by Mrs. Robert Thorne, pianist, and Leonard D'Amico, violinist.

The entertainment and dance held by the Saturday Night Club last Saturday evening was very successful. Cards were dealt in the forepart of the evening and dancing followed. There were a number of guests present, among whom were the following: Miss Schreyer and Mrs. Walsh, of Brooklyn; James MacNabb and W. Phelps, of Bound Brook; Miss Baisler, Mrs. Marston, Mr. and Mrs. Read-Holliday of this place. The dancing proved the most popular feature of the evening. Music was furnished by Dushanek.

DR. RAY T. MUNGER IS HEALTH SECRETARY

A meeting of the Borough Board of Health was held on Monday evening in Fanwood Hall. Dr. F. W. Westcott, the president, presided. Mr. Nieder nominated Dr. Ray T. Munger for secretary to succeed S. W. McAneny and the Board unanimously elected him. Dr. Westcott reported that Plainfield is willing to allow Inspector Addis, of that city, to act in like capacity in Fanwood. Mr. Addis will be paid a fee of $2.00 for each inspection. He is now official inspector for Fanwood.

Various ways of disposing of the surface water in several sections of the borough were discussed, but no decision was reached. A Plainfield ordinance regarding inspections etc. was looked over, and the board decided to adopt one somewhat similar to it, which will be arranged for at the next meeting two weeks hence. W. G. Britten acted as secretary pro tem. The following members were present: Dr. F. W. Westcott, Messrs. Albert H. Riblet, Philip Nieder and W. G. Britten.

ALL SAINTS' GUILD HELD FESTIVAL.

A delightful strawberry and ice cream festival was held on the lawn and veranda of Fred W. Creevy's residence, on Martine avenue on Tuesday, under the auspices of All Saints' Guild of the Episcopal church. In the afternoon, the refreshments were served at tables on the lawn beneath majestic shade trees, and in the evening they were served on the veranda, which was prettily decorated with, and lighted by Japanese lanterns.

The guests were served by the following young ladies, who acted as waitresses: The Misses Helen Neilson, Rose Thomas, Claire Hall, Kathryn McAneny, Mariette McAneny, Emily Garda and Olive Garda. The great success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of the following ladies, who managed the festival: Mrs. Fred W. Creevy, Mrs. Richard Tull, Mrs. Harry P. Robinson, Mrs. Frederick Sherwood, Mrs. Porter and Miss Ethel Kyte. The festival was a social as well as a financial success.

AMONG FANWOOD CHURCHES

The newly elected officers of the Epworth League were installed at the meeting held last Sunday evening at the Methodist church. The officers are as follows: President, John Wade; first vice-president, Miss Mamie Clark; second vice-president, Miss Matilda Kuhn; third vice-president, Miss Mattie Hall; fourth vice-president, Miss Daisy Wade; secretary, Clifford Cuthbertson; organist, Miss Florence Wade. The pastor, Dr. H. K. Carroll, conducted the service.

The Baptist Young People's Union held a strawberry festival on Tuesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of All Saints' Episcopal church, will hold no more meetings this season. A very successful year has been completed.

The Rev. G. H. Houghton Butler has requested that members of the congregation at All Saints' Episcopal church bring flowers to church on Sunday. Mr. Butler was formerly chaplain at the hospital on Blackwell's Island and he will distribute the flowers among the sick in the hospital on Sunday afternoon. It is hoped that a large number of people will respond to this appeal.

Holy Communion was celebrated at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning at All Saints' Episcopal church. The regular services will be held on Sunday; Sunday school at 10 A. M. and Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11 o'clock.

The usual services will be held at the Baptist and Methodist churches on Sunday.

Local members of the Royal Arcanum displayed the Stars and Stripes on Tuesday in commemoration of "Arcanum Day."

suffrage for twenty years. It required fifteen years to develop the female professional politician to the full flower and fruit of her possibilities. She having arrived, however, this may be said of her, and said truthfully, a professional female politician in her relation with society and politics is just as much a thing apart from the home-loving, child-rearing, God-fearing wife and mother as the professional male politician and ward heeler is a thing apart from the industrious, home-providing, workman and the upright, intelligent man of business. Actual experience with this class of women has proven over and over again that there is no trick of politics, no specious arguments, false promises nothing used by the male politician that these female politicians will not use to accomplish their political ends.

I will not at this time attempt to go into all the particulars of why woman suffrage or vote for women has proven to be so valuable in bringing about political reforms, a higher standard of political practices and a development of a higher spirit of civic pride and citizenship than it has. I will say this, however, that the hysteria brought about and developed because of the fact that women are in politics keeps this State and the larger communities of the State in constant political turmoil. We in Denver during the past twenty-four months have held some fourteen city elections and at this writing recall positions are out calling for more elections.

In closing I will say that not 31 per cent. of the women of Colorado use the ballot now that they have it. If an active campaign in New York is going to be carried on don't talk to the women along the lines that they do not know enough to vote; simply lay before the people of New York the history of women in politics in the State of Colorado for twenty years. That's the answer."

From the New York Sun:

"Women have voted on equal terms with men in Colorado since 1893. For ten years that progress in better social conditions which we are assured from countless platforms, must inevitably result from the dropping of ballots into ballot boxes by women's hands has been daily advertised from Denver. We have read dozens of pamphlets, letters and articles setting forth in glowing periods the notable advances in civilization made by the State since the purifying influence of woman has been at work."

"Yet the State government of Colorado has gone to smash, in a manner not in any way unlike the breakdowns of other State governments put in power by men exclusively. It has failed in its fundamental duty; the obligation to preserve public order. If the strikers say sooth, the trouble began because of intolerable labor conditions, those conditions women's votes were promised particularly and promptly to correct."

"The votes of women seem to have left the State about where it was. It does not appear to be better administered than its neighbors, in proportion to its population it uses a larger number of ballots."

A quotation from the editorial page of a prominent magazine which ardently supports woman suffrage, Collier's Weekly, of May 31st: "The trouble in Colorado comes from the absolute failure of government there." In the light of this statement, and of recent events in Colorado, one may be pardoned for being skeptical as to the benefits that will accrue to this or any other State by reason of woman's vote. Is not twenty-one years of woman suffrage long enough to produce some result in the way of improved conditions in the State of Colorado? What answer can be given by Suffragists to this statement from their own ranks that government in Colorado is a failure?"

The Coldest Hour.

The proverb which tells us that "the darkest hour is that before dawn" is inaccurate, for light increases in the morning as gradually as it decreases in the evening. The saying should be "the coldest hour," etc., which is perfectly true and is owing to causes connected with the deposit of dew. Hoarfrosts, too, usually take place just before daylight and are an additional cause of the peculiar chilliness of this time.—London Mail.

The head of a certain Washington family was recently approached by his son just wearing his majority. "Father," said he, "I want to have a talk with you concerning my future. I have decided to become an artist. Have you any objections?"

Willow Grove

The Women's Sewing Circle, of the Willow Grove chapel has completed a very prosperous year. The Circle has held eleven regular monthly meetings, an all-day meeting, and was tendered an "at home" by Mrs. William Sissonson, the president. One special meeting was held during the year. There are 48 active members on roll and 12 honorary members. Eleven new members joined this past year. There was but one resignation, which was accepted with regrets. The average attendance at meetings for the year was 23.

Several social functions were held. They included a strawberry festival, an oyster supper, two picnics, and a novelty bazaar, all of which were very successful. The ladies have purchased several articles for the chapel, such as three new tables and table cloths, etc., and also paid for several repairs on the building. The new shingle roof which is now being put on will be paid for by the Circle. A donation was made to the Bethlehem Sunday school and flowers have been sent to sick people and bereaved families. Twenty-two garments were sent to the Westfield Needlework Guild.

The Women's Sewing Circle was organized by Mrs. William Sissonson, wife of the superintendent of the Sunday school, on November 12, 1907. It started with a membership of 21 ladies and has grown steadily in numbers. The object of the society is the holding of monthly meetings for sociability and mission work.

Woman Suffrage

Pro and Con

To the Editor of The Standard:

Dear Sir—Please pardon a little personal element in your "Suffrage, Pro and Con" column this week.

During the week of the Town Exhibit last month I was on duty at the Children's Country Home exhibit one afternoon when Mr. A. B. Pearsall came into the hall. He was ever and is still an ardent lover of the work of our Home and we had pleasant converse as in former years. Then he remarked, "I suppose you are as busy in good works as ever." "Yes, in the Children's Country Home, Missionary Work, Anti-Suffrage"—Anti-Suffrage! He held up his hands in astonishment and horror. "You, you, a woman of your standing, a taxpayer, with no one to represent you in public affairs?" "Oh! I said, that has no bearing on the question." "Well, not argue, but I'll give you a year to come around to the other position." "I'll not take it." I then said, "Mr. Pearsall, I am not considering what women, who are seeking suffrage in these Eastern States, say will be done when they get the vote, what great good will be brought about by the ballot in their hands, I look to the Equal Suffrage States to see what has been accomplished there. Look at Colorado! Not a prohibition State, after twenty years of equal suffrage, and, in educational matters, at a far lower standard than ten or twelve years ago. Then she stood first among the States in everything pertaining to public-school instruction, now she stands sixth on the list." Mr. Pearsall's face colored and with a slow sideways shake of the head, he said, "That's not 'Taint' not, he returned to the charge. 'I'll give you a year to change'; my last words were, 'I'll not take it.'"

The current number of the WOMAN SUFFRAGE PROTEST AGAINST WOMAN SUFFRAGE contains several articles about present conditions in Colorado. They were written by men, whose character, standing and ability are beyond question and I am sending you a few excerpts for which I trust you can find place in your column.

PAST COUNCILORS ASSOCIATION FORMED.

Central Council, No. 121, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a regular meeting in Arcanum hall last Friday evening. After the regular meeting, a meeting of Past Councilors of the order in Union County was held for the purpose of perfecting a Past Councilors' Association in Union County, the same as is now running in Middlesex and Hunterdon Counties. The objects of this organization are to promote a new interest for those members who have passed through the chairs of the Subordinate Councils. The organization will meet in the rooms of several councils in the county in an endeavor to instill further enthusiasm among the members of the order.

After a very able speech by Past State Councilor W. B. LaRue, an organization was perfected and the following officers were elected:

County Councilor, C. B. Trim, Roselle; county vice councilor, W. A. Howarth, Westfield; county junior past councilor, W. J. Hartpence, Plainfield; county recording secretary, H. E. Cline, Westfield; treasurer, Charles Elliott, Scotch Plains; county conductor, L. Reysenat, Elizabeth; county warden, Mr. Davis, Plainfield; county inside sentinel, W. H. Miles, New Providence; county outside sentinel, R. A. Norman, Cranford; county chaplain, R. A. Buckley, Rahway. The next meeting will be held at Elizabeth, July 21st.

KICKED BY HORSE.

Michael Marco was kicked in the leg by a horse which was standing in Park Place, near North street on last Saturday night and as a result had his leg broken.

Marco was standing near the horse when some one hit the animal with a whip and he kicked, striking Marco. He was taken to his home and later removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital.

FIRESIDE COUNCIL ATTENDS CHURCH.

Last Sunday night Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum members observed their annual memorial day by attending the First Methodist church in the evening in a body. Rev. G. Franklin Ream the pastor of the church preached a special sermon to the members of the order on "The Measure of Manhood." There was also special music by the church choir.

There was a large attendance of the members and the service was greatly appreciated.

Westminster Abbey's Prizefighter.

Observant visitors to Westminster abbey may have noticed in one of the groups of statuary near the north door of the edifice a remarkable arm on one of the figures. Not a few people have thought that it was an exaggerated model of a limb, but as a matter of fact it was actually modeled from the arm of a verger at the abbey, named John Burton, who at one time was champion prizefighter of England. Burton was the dean's verger, and on one occasion he was asked if he would like to be buried in the abbey. Burton replied in the affirmative and also asked that the fact that he was champion prizefighter of England should be inscribed on his tomb. To this the dean actually consented, but when the time came it was decided by the chapter that the inscription should be omitted. Burton, however, was buried in the abbey, although there is nothing on the tombstone to indicate who or what he was.—London Opinion.

Inhaling Spaghetti.

There is a popular belief to the effect that the Neapolitan eats his spaghetti by a deft process of wrapping thirty or forty inches round the tines of his fork and then lifting it inboard, an ell at a time. This is not correct. The true Neapolitan does not eat his spaghetti at all; he inhales it. He gathers up a loose strand and starts it down his throat. He then resumes from the diaphragm, and, like a troupe of trained acrobats, that entire mass of spaghetti uncoils itself, gets up off the plate and disappears inside him—en masse, as it were—and makes him look like a man who is churning himself over a set of bend portieres. I fear that we in America will never learn to siphon our spaghetti into us thus. It takes a nation that has practiced deep breathing for centuries.—Irvin S. Cobb in Saturday Evening Post.

Unfair Handicap.

Willie had resigned his position in the big bakery, where he labored in the pie department, and had gone to work in a carpenter's shop for smaller wages. The social investigator having heard about Willie questioned him.

"Aren't you sorry you left the bakery and came to this shop?" she asked kindly.

"No'm," Willie answered quickly.

"But you get less money."

"Yes'm."

"Well, what was the matter with the bakery?"

"'Twuz this way," explained Willie. "It hurt my mouth. I wuz in de pie part, de cherry pie part, an' I had to stomp cherries. An' dey got a rule over there dat all de boys has to whistle all de time dey's workin', so as to show dey ain't eatin' no cherries."—Popular Magazine.

Union Council L. A. Has Interesting Session.

On Monday night Union Council, Loyal Association, held another of its interesting meetings in Arcanum hall, which was attended by a large number of the members. One candidate was initiated into the mysteries of the order and one application was received and several more were promised by the brothers present.

An interesting account of the Supreme Council session which was held in New York on June 9, was given by Supreme Representative Morton.

After the business session the members enjoyed a game of indoor baseball and some exciting plays were made by the members and they proved that they were adepts at the sport.

Orator Witke who arranged the program was highly complimented on his selection of the game for the evening. Cigars and refreshments followed the game.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

Last Monday evening, G. R. Shotwell of Summit avenue, while out riding in his automobile had a narrow escape from serious injury when the top of his car fell as he rounded the curve near the Traynor coal office on North avenue.

Mr. Shotwell's view of the road was obstructed by the falling top and it also threw his steering wheel around. The car ran up the bank breaking the top of the crank case, denting the sides and mud guards and cracking the chassis in the middle.

The front axle was also damaged. The car was towed to a nearby garage. The damage to the car is estimated at nearly $500.

SMALL CHIMNEY FIRE.

The fire department was called out on Wednesday morning in answer to a still alarm from the meat market of T. O. Bohn on Prospect street. It was found that a chimney was blazing merrily.

The contents of two fire extinguishers soon had the flames out. There is a flat over the store and it was from the range in this flat that the fire started.

TO HAVE PICNIC HERE.

On July Fourth, the members of Clan Mackenzie Order of Scottish Clans of Plainfield will hold a picnic and games in this town. Grounds have been secured on Grove street, near the corner of Summit avenue.

The committee in charge are preparing a fine program of amusements for the members. Members of Craigston Lodge, Daughters of Scotia will take part in the picnic.

PASSING OF ST. HELENA.

Made Famous by Napoleon, the Island Appears to Be Doomed.

When the great French emperor died in exile in 1821 there was probably a wish buried deep in his Corsican heart that the island which had been the scene of his humiliation might be wiped from the face of the seas.

Whether or no such a curse was ever cast upon the island, it is certain that St. Helena is doomed if not to extinction at least to become an uninhabitable rock. With the advent of steam navigation the island ceased to be a regular port of call, so that its always scanty exports dwindled almost to the vanishing point; plagues of insects destroyed its vegetation; rats, brought thither by foreign vessels, multiplied and overran its soil until the government was compelled to offer a bounty of a penny for every rodent captured. Then the English garrison, which had been practically the sole source of income to the inhabitants, was withdrawn, and the needs of the natives became desperate.

Then, as if this series of misfortunes was not enough, the terrible that curse of tropical and semitropical countries—invaded the island and will unless controlled reduce the city of Jamestown to a pulp of sawdust.—New York Independent.

Possibilities Overlooked.

He was a suburban garden faddist, who innocently bored all his friends by asking them down for week ends and showing them around his 2 by 4 estate. Just now it was Brown from the office. He showed him his three rose trees, his pocket shrubbery, his half inch fountain jet with his little bush and pair of goldfish. He showed him his summer house, which would accommodate two people at the same time.

"Never know what you can do with a bit of ground till you try," said the host gleefully.

"Quite so—quite so!" returned the visitor. "But why don't you take a strip off the flower bed—say about six inches wide—turf it over and make it into a blooming golf links?"—New York Post.

Wagner and Beer.

Signor Anzellotti Giustolanti, who traveled specially from Rome to Baltimore in order to be present at the first performance of "Parsifal" July 20, 1882, gave an account of his impressions in the Rassegna Contemporanea. He was surprised at seeing Wagner drive up to the theater "in a carriage which also conveyed a large barrel of beer perched conspicuously on the box seat by the side of the driver. This was carried into the theater, presumably with a view to slaking the thirst aroused in Wagner and his friends by the performance of his masterpiece."—London Chronicle.

IMAGINARY MILLIONS.

Money Myths That Hover About England's Chancery Court.

Most people seem to think that there are countless and vast fortunes in chancery waiting to be bestowed upon their proper owners. This, as a matter of fact, is purely a myth, and how it arose it is impossible to say.

"We are supposed," said an official of the pay office recently, "to have the estate of a man named Hoffman, valued at £18,000,000, and we are repeatedly receiving inquiries—almost always from Poland—but we know nothing of the estate." Another estate with which the pay office has nothing to do—that of the great Sir Francis Drake—is also the subject of many questions.

In all there are 3,818 estates in chancery, but the value of the largest is not more than £7,000. And, so far from many millions, the paymaster of the supreme court of judicature has only £1,250,000 in his hands awaiting claimants. A large proportion of this money, moreover, has been lying unclaimed since the early part of the eighteenth century.

If you think you are entitled to any of this money you should first study the official list at the law courts and then make a formal claim. But, it may be said, it very rarely happens that such applications prove successful. London Answers.

Why Not?

Anyone passing the Park Lake this past week and seeing its disgraceful condition would readily understand why the people demand immediate action by the council on the Park Commission's recommendation that a program be laid out without further delay to start the Park Improvement.

Why not a Park? Why not now?

An Earned Compliment.

What our neighbors think of Westfield is of course of some concern to us. It tickles our pride to hear our town spoken of as the "up to the minute town of Central New Jersey." But the flattering bids received for our bonds is a real compliment that we can take to heart and get comfort from, as the bond houses never let sentiment or mere talk influence their bids.

They "want to be shown" and needlessly to say they were shown a very good statement—thanks to the earnest and honest work of the Mayors and Councils of the present and past.

Think It Over.

A careful survey of the Road Map of Westfield will show a vast amount of outlying territory with fully improved streets. This looks good as we have made the improvements without straining our credit.

To insure the best results from these miles of improved frontage the council should refuse, or at least discourage, any further street improvement extensions until the frontage already improved has been built up.

Such a program would force a proper and safe development of the town and accrue to the best interest of all taxpayers. Think about this, Mr. Mayor and councilmen.

Welcome, Brother Heaton.

Brother Potter, we learn, has sold the Cranford Chronicle to Hugh Heaton. That Mr. Heaton is well thought of in Cranford is evidenced by the fact that he was but lately elected president of the Board of Education of our neighboring town.

The Standard congratulates Brother Potter upon his twenty years of faithful service to the people of Cranford and extends to Brother Heaton a hearty welcome to our "trade or profession—call it what you will."

Some Show.

It should be a matter of pride to the people of Westfield that the fame of our recent Exhibit should have extended throughout our state to such an extent as to have brought numerous inquiries concerning the charts and details of the exhibit to the Board of Trade, and even a delegation from the Cassia Board of Trade who spent much time in studying the charts and such exhibits as are to be found at this late day. We feel that we had some show; it did us good, and we will be happy if others can find profit in the example.

Rahway vs. Westfield.

The comparison of Rahway's and Westfield's 1914 budget is extremely interesting. It shows how and why our neighbors to the south are under such a handicap.

The reason for the urgent call for help which came to our fire chief from Rahway a year ago, when a fire in the business section threatened to sweep the city, is found in their fire budget. What city of 8,500 people can expect to have an adequate fire department on $3100 a year?

Their police and poor budgets are higher than ours. This is easily explained when you consider that Rahway has seven or eight times as many saloons. Another proof of the wisdom of our administration's policy.

BUDGETS FOR 1914:

	Rahway Westfield
Board of Health.....	$1,700	$1,500
Town Expenses .....	15,000	7,500
Fire Department .....	3,100	7,850
Street Lighting .....	8,000	10,250
Roads .....	10,000	16,500
Police .....	13,000	12,000
Poor Account .....	3,000	1,200

The Claflin Failure.

In the Claflin failure President Wilson gets an answer to his "psychological" analysis of the present business situation, but an answerable rebuke to his charge of business interference with his supreme right to run everything.

The Claflin house, the oldest as well as largest and most influential in the country, failed because it tried to help the merchant over the hard times Mr. Wilson and his tariff brought upon the country.

They did it all in a heroic and unselfish effort to carry the business houses over. We wonder what beautiful explanation Mr. Wilson will offer to this matter.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip struck a popular chord in his speech at the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce banquet on Monday evening when he said that what this country most needed and must have is her business men, not theorists in Congress to make the laws. The country is suffering from ill considered legislation.

Mr. Vanderlip made a suggestion which we think is most apropos to the present situation and would be in strict accord with Mr. Wilson's pre-election pledges of "Pitiless Publicity" and "Legislation in accord with demands of Public Sentiment."

Mr. Vanderlip suggested that Congress formulate their Business Regulation Laws to the best of their ability, then adjourn for 60 or 90 days so as to study the real effect and application of the law and to get the sentiment of the business men of their district. Then with the public sentiment and information thus obtained to then pass the law if it still seemed for the best interests of the country or amend it to properly express the public sentiment and the will of the people.

What fairer or more reasonable suggestion could be made to the President or Congress?

Clean Vacations.

How many people know how to get the most out of the annual vacation? Assuredly, not all of those to whom in these rare June days the woods, the lakes, the shores and the sea are calling with the myriad voices of the "Red Gods." The right kind of vacation makes new men of us; brings us back to work in better health and better temper, with a heart for any fate, with a normal outlook on life.

But the wrong kind of vacation is worse than none at all, and although over-much planning in advance is apt to take the edge off the days of play, the wise man looks before he leaps and tells himself at least what he ought not to do.

There are all sorts of rules laid down by well-wishers as well as by busy-bodies as to what constitutes the right kind of vacation, but none of these rules can be made to fit all cases. One man's meat is another man's poison. Some men work harder at play when they are off duty than they do at their desks and it does them good where it brings others back to the office exhausted.

Loading is best for some and worse for others. The reason is plain: No two men respond to the same treatment for that tired feeling.

But certain rules as to what not to do if one would avoid almost certain damage when one gets off the highway of the year's routine are applicable to everybody, and some of these rules are pointed out in the weekly bulletin of the Department of Health and Charities.

They vitally concern the health which many a man and woman by neglecting to observe them finds worse instead of better after getting back home. They are few enough and simple enough, these rules. They may be stated in a sentence: Be sure that at the resort you pick out the water you drink, bathe in and swim in is pure, that the milk is pure, and that the flies, which do not breed or stay in clean places, are scarce.

By such precautions you are at least almost certain to avoid typhoid fever and other kindred diseases. As for the rest, every man, as usual, will be a law unto Indication of Extravagant Living.

We consider there has been no better way offered in the past to a young man to invest his surplus earnings than in a life insurance policy. If he has taken out an endowment plan, paid-up-policy, not alone has he secured life protection but he has also placed his money where it has been accumulating some interest.

In the gamble of life it is neither safe nor fair for a poor man, especially, to leave his family unprotected for in case he meets death from accident or disease. There has been no better way to secure his family than through life insurance.

It is unfortunate that the loan provisions of life insurance contracts are operating to destroy their value. While such provisions have offered a medium of relief to men in times of financial stress, it was not calculated they would be employed except in cases of emergency. It is found, however, that unnecessary and frequent borrowing on life insurance contracts now results. It is but another indication that the American people are ceasing to be thrifty. In fact, Americans are not noted for being thrifty in any time—much less in this generation.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents reports that $587,000,000 has been loaned policy-holders on their premium accounts. Of this amount, according to the experience of the companies, only ten per cent. is likely to be returned. Borrowing has increased 100 times in the last twenty-five years; and the habit is increasing.

This is a bad state of affairs—to bankrupt the families of the future to meet our present extravagance. It is well the officials of the different companies are sending out warnings.

Nicely Explained.

A second hand picture dealer was trying to sell what he described as a genuine Raphael.

"The signature does not look like Raphael," remarked the prospective customer after using his magnifying glass. "It reads more like 'Rachoff'."

"Ah," said the dealer, "I will tell you the history of that. When Raphael painted that picture he was heavily in debt, so he put in the wife's name for safety."—Argonaut.

DUNELLEN AT WESTFIELD TOMORROW.

Dunellen who like the locals, have lost but one game and that being to Plainfield, will be the visitors at Recreation Park, Saturday, June 27th, (tomorrow). In former years Dunellen has won over Mac's team by big scores, but this will be the first time that these two teams have met in Westfield.

Cowperthwaite will face Harney in the first game of the series, and Joe Alberts, the old Scotch Plains manager, will be in left field for Dunellen.

The lineup will be as follows:
WESTFIELD—Green, 1b; Crutenden, rf; Taylor, 3b; Recorden, 2b; Douglas, lf; Valteau, ss; Worth, cf; Hunt, c; Cowperthwaite, p.

DUNELLEN—Heagney, rf; Lamberton, 3b; Wall, cf; Alberts, lf; Giddes, ss; DeNizio, 2b; Montross, 1b; Teeling, c; Harney, p.

WESTFIELD HAS LOST BUT ONE GAME.

The Westfield Athletic Association has yielded to but one team so far this season and looks to be by far the best team managed by MacDonald in five years. It was the name of Mathewson that helped Hank in pitching when he beat Westfield and the town can be well proud of it's team as its victory over Marconi which is one of the best teams in Union County and who claimed the championship in 1913.

Following are the scores of games played:
Westfield 14—Westfield H. S.—2
Westfield 12—Monroe Baptist—2
Westfield 3—Somerville A. A.—1
Westfield 4—Garwood A. A.—2
Westfield 1—Plainfield A. A.—9
Westfield 1—Garwood A. A.—0
Westfield 6—Marconi B. B. C.—2

WESTFIELD TRIMS MARCONI TEAM.

The Westfield A. A., continued their winning streak last Saturday, defeating the fast Marconi team of Aldene at Recreation Park, 6-2. Seven errors spelled defeat for the visitors, who came to Westfield with no mean reputation.

Cowperthwaite, Westfield's twirler was erratic at times, but kept his opponents' hits well scattered. "Lefty" Marsdon pitched a steady game for Marconi, but miseries by Morgan and Exleben at critical times proved his undoing.

The wireless men started strong, scoring twice in the first frame on a pair of passes, three stolen bases and Exleben's single to right. After that inning Cowperthwaite held them scoreless. Westfield came back in its half with a lone tally. Green reached second on an error and scored on Crutenden's single in the fourth, two errors, a sacrifice and Worth's timely single netted the home team two runs. The eighth, however, was the big inning. Green again was safe on an error. Crutenden was hit, Recorden singled and Taylor came through with a "hit and run" hunt. Result: Three runs.

Recorden played his first game at second for Westfield and garnered two safeties.

Next Saturday Dunellen will play at Recreation Park. McLaughlin and Ford will be in the points for the visitors.

Fiji Islanders' Sugar Cane Dance.

A very curious and exceedingly clever dance may be witnessed in Fiji called by the natives "the sugar cane make," or sugar cane dance. It represents the growth of the sugar cane. In the first figure the dancers squat low on the ground, shake their heads about their eyes and murmur slowly and softly an unintelligible sentence. Gradually they all stand up together, growing taller and taller, and as they "grow" they wave their arms and tremble all over from ankle to head. Like the tall, tasseled cane waving in the wind, and still they keep on chanting louder and louder. The last figure represents a series of combats meant to symbolize the exertions of the chiefs, who compel the "kabal," willing and unwilling, to come and cut their crops.—London Standard.

OUR WORD "GARDEN."

In the Old Anglo-Saxon It Meant Private Inclosed Land.

We speak so freely and often of a "garden," assuming that there is some well defined common use of that word even among the authorities on gardening subjects. But the fact is that it has reached mighty elastic limits in their writings and speech and can be taken to mean anything from the enormous private parks and estates to the tin can glories of a back yard.

The word garden is from the old Anglo-Saxon root "gyrden," meaning an inclosure. At that time, due to the uncertain character of community life, it was either inclosed within fortifications or left unprotected and exposed without. This private inclosed land was the garden of that time. That is the meaning of garden in the Song of Solomon.

Gradually the sense of the word has changed to cover those parts of the land devoted to the cultivation of plants either for pleasure or for use; thus, we have the vegetable or fruit garden, and on the other hand, the wall, water or rose garden, etc.

Liberty Hyde Bailey defines a garden as "the personal part of an estate, that area which is most intimately associated with the private life of the home."

Whatever the sense in which it is used, the word "garden" always succeeds in carrying with it an atmosphere of romance and beauty, which countless ages of use cannot diminish.—Philadelphia Record.

HUMAN INSTINCT.

More Potent at Times Than Reason in Directing Our Actions.

That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by these two cases:

There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steambot a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever any one approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile challenged any one to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattler strike at it. There was no danger, and it seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

A young man in Paris had lost his last sou at the gambling table. Not only was he without means, but he had lost a large sum belonging to his employer. He started for the Seine with the intention of drowning himself. On the way there was a great commotion, caused by the escape of a lion from a strolling menagerie. The animal came galloping down the street, and people fled in every direction.

Instantly the man who was seeking death climbed a lamp post and clung to the top of it, trembling in every limb. When the animal was captured and the danger was over he proceeded to the river and plunged in.—Washington Star.

Spanish Nicknames.

One of the peculiar ways in which Spanish differs from English is in the names the language gives to all people with a certain infirmity or peculiarity. A blind man is referred to as el ciego, a man with but one eye is a tuerto, a pug nosed man is chato, one who is cross eyed is a bisoso, a cojo is a lame man, and a rubeo has but one arm. If he is humpbacked he is a jorobado. If baldheaded a calvo, and if his hair is very short he is a pelon. The four nick names for the same classes are the same, with the exception that they end in "o," where the masculine terminates with "a." These short names are not most commonly. In fact, they are applied as nicknames in many cases, and especially among the lower classes persons are addressed or referred to only by these names.

Europe's Diamond Industry.

Years ago Amsterdam was at the head of the diamond industry in Europe. Of late Antwerp has forged ahead and taken first place. Amsterdam very largely specializes in small stones, and its superiority over Antwerp in cutting these diamonds is unquestioned. Antwerp, on the other hand, cuts large diamonds and small ones, according to what happens to be most in demand. It works on the larger Transvaal stones furnished by the London syndicate, and at the same time it monopolizes the small southwest African business.

The Word "Lurid."

The word "lurid" is misused by many people as a synonym for "glaring" or "fiery." One speaks in this sense of "lurid" language, "lurid" flames, "lurid" dreams. It is probable that not one person in three knows the real meaning of "lurid." The dictionary defines it as "ghastly, pale, wan, gloomy," which in no way carries out the general and mistaken idea of the word.—New York World.

Postage Stamps.

There was stamped postal letter paper as early as 1818, but postage stamps proper began with those used in Great Britain between 1838-1840. It was not until 1839 or 1840 that the red hawkey stamp was used on letters and other mail matter.—New York American.

Not Worrying.

"Oh, Luella! There's a man just fallen off that next pier, and I think it's your husband."

"Well, dear, don't get excited; we'll soon know. If he doesn't come up it's probably Jim—he can't swim, you know."—Life.

THE SALE OF TITLES.

Brazil Has a Hospital That Was Built Upon Man's Vanity.

Dom Pedro II, who lost the throne of Brazil in 1889, was the last monarch to offer titles for sale. In order to obtain funds for the erection of a hospital in Rio de Janeiro the emperor announced that he would confer the title of "baron" on every subscriber of 100,000 milreis and the title of "count" on every subscriber of 250,000 milreis. Many proved willing to become ennobled on these terms, and sufficient money was forthcoming to endow the hospital as well as build it. Over the main entrance may still be seen the inscription, suggested by Dom Pedro, "Human Vanity to Human Misery."

Although French titles of nobility were abolished at the time of the revolution by a decree that was revived in 1871, yet the ministry of justice issues certificates of nobility. Members of the French diplomatic service who use titles have to obtain one of these certificates and pay stiffly for the transaction. The fees in the case of a duke amount to $2,400, a marquis pays $2,000, a viscount $1,400, a baron $500 and a chevalier $200.

The certificate is to the effect that, the pedigree of the holder having been investigated, his claim to the title he bears has been fully established, and the seal of the republic is affixed to this patent of nobility.—Chicago News

OUR NAVAL CODE BOOK.

Jealously Guarded Signal Secrets That Are Bound in Metal.

Few things are so jealously guarded as the secret code book of the United States navy. It is a book of signals—not the ordinary "wigwag" signals used in the daily direction of the fleet by a commanding officer—but a code of signals to be used solely in time of war and in the presence of an enemy.

These secret code books are issued only to the executive officers of a ship, who are enjoined to protect them against theft by every possible means. These books are threatened not so much by the ordinary thief as by secret emissaries of other governments who desire to obtain knowledge of what the battleships would do in time of action. Governments have no scruples against theft in such cases.

The loss of one of these secret books by an officer, unless explained to the entire satisfaction of the secretary of the navy, would mean court martial and probable expulsion from the service. To the honor of the United States service no officer has ever yet been brought up charged with loss.

The books are bound in heavy metal covers, so that in time of threatened capture they may be thrown overboard, sinking at once to the bottom of the sea and thus avoiding seizure.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Queer Legal Precedent.

Mr. Justice Holmes has the reputation of citing more peculiar cases from the old lawbooks than any other member of the supreme court. He dug up one recently to the amusement of his associates, when it was contended in a libel suit that the declaration was insufficient because the offenses were not stated properly.

"That leads me to recall a case in the old books," said the justice, "where an indictment set forth that the accused struck a man on the head, splitting the skull until a portion fell down on either shoulder, and the court held the indictment defective because it did not allege that the man was killed." The justice observed that it was a hair splitting decision and he didn't intend it as a pun, either.—New York Times.

They Were Particular.

"We do our best to serve the public," the proprietor of the corner drug store told us, "but we can't please everybody, try as we may."

"A few minutes ago two young women swept into this place and demanded to look at our directory. I showed them where to find it. In a few minutes I heard one of them say:

"Why, her name isn't in this directory! Did you ever hear of the like?"

"Then the ladies approached me haughtily.

"Can you tell us if there is a first class drug store in this vicinity?" asked the spokeswoman. "We wish to consult their directory."—Chicago News.

A Bull From Ulster.

The Ulsterman is not incapable of a bull, says the British Weekly. It was an Ulster marquis who endeared himself to his tenantry by the memorable bull uttered in his speech at an agricultural dinner: "I wish my farmers would use iron plows, because they last forever and will afterward sell as old iron." It was an Ulsterman who at a funeral observed the awkward work of an unaccustomed hand and exclaimed as he seized a shovel: "I wasn't seven years courting a sexton's daughter without learning to sod a grave."

He Was Satisfied.

"You are very beautiful," said a young man to his sweetheart.

"Ah, well," she answered, "beauty, you know, is only skin deep."

"Well," he replied, "that's plenty deep enough for me. I'm no cannibal."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Chivalrous.

Blotbs—Would you marry a girl for her money? Blotbs—Well, I should consider it very unchivalrous to allow her to remain an old maid.—Philadelphia Record.

Don't be a dabbler. Gentiana means means simply doing the common things of life uncommonly well.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The Plain of Curragh.

The Curragh in plain in the County Kildare, Ireland, is a stretch of open ground of about 4,800 acres and serves the twin purposes of a large military camp and a race course, and in the latter capacity it has a reputation extending as far back as the first century A. D., at which period, it records may be accepted, chariot races were a diversion which the people of the time permitted themselves. The camp only dates from the Crimean war. The plain of Curragh was often the scene of host engagements between early Irish kings, and it is St. Bridget who is credited with having received a grant of the district from the king of Leinster and with having turned it into a common. The young men of Kildare are often jokingly described as "the boys of the short grass" in allusion to the herbage of the district of Curragh. —Westminster Gazette.

One of the Weather Men.

Shortly after the establishment of a station in Wytheville by the weather bureau a youth named Tom erected a signal pole on his mother's coal shed. He would daily hoist flags of his own in imitation of the ones of the government. This was done so persistently that Mary, a neighbor's daughter, soon adjusted her movements for the day to Tom's flags.

On the morning for a picnic she was rejoiced at the sight of a fair weather flag flying from Tom's flagpole. Her mother, being discouraged by the number of clouds, remarked, "You cannot depend on his flags, for he may not have followed the weather man's." Mary, thinking them thoroughly reliable, said, "You can depend on them, mother, for Tom does his own guessing." —National Monthly.

Fooled the Culprit.

Dr. Kennedy, a former head master of Shrewsbury school, has a keen sense of humor. One year, on April 1, an audacious schoolboy put the school clock forward, and the chapel bell was rung an hour too soon. The culprit duly received the alarming order to come to the head master's room a little before noon.

Preparations were made for the usual form of punishment. The cane whizzed in the air, but, bracing his nerves to meet his descent the victim found himself untouched. A second time he heard it swing with sound and fury, yet it signified nothing. The boy was still trembling for the third stroke when he heard the master's voice:

"Go away, you April fool!" —London Answers.

QUEER STYLES IN HATS.

The Kokoschnik of Russia and Winged Headress of Alsace.

In Russia the maiden who is fancy free may dress her locks as she wishes. But not so the wife. She must hide her hair. So, as a recompense for this sacrifice, she dons a hat which may well be called weird. In shape it is not unlike a bishop's miter, and it is adorned as the fancy or the purse of the wearer dictates. Gold, silver and even precious stones have been used in decorating this kokoschnik, as it is called.

In certain parts of Spain a hat similar to the Russian style is worn. Particularly in this popular with the dancers among the Toledo peasantry, although it must be very hot and uncomfortable for this purpose.

The Dutch maiden of Amsterdam plans her faith—and her head—to a hat which resembles in shape an inverted flowerpot. It may not be the style most suited to her round, placid face, but she would not change it for the latest "thing" in millinery.

On the island of Marken, in the Zuyder Zee, the fashionable hat is again of the miter shape, but with the addition of wide, flapping wings. Farther north, in Norway, a maiden on her bridal day dons a traditional erection which can best be likened to an eccentric castle.

In the province of Alsace-Lorraine the women wear huge winged head-dresses. The wonderful thing about the Alsatian hat is—how is it supported? Are there concealed wires? And how does it "stop on" in a high wind? —London Answers.

THE HUMAN SKIN.

Its Evolution Forecasts the Coming of an Ultra White Race.

Professor Daniel Berthelot, eminent French specialist, declares that the skin of the human race has undergone great changes since our primitive ancestors. He finds notably that, while the whitest of modern skins reflect almost all the colors of the spectrum, the skins of the more primitive races absorb the colors of higher and finer vibrations and only reflect the stronger colors at the spectrum's lower end.

For instance, the skins of the primitive negro races reflected practically no colors at all. The red skinned races reflected only the reds at the lower end of the spectrum and the so called yellow races only as far as the yellow in its center. The white skins of the races of today are able to reflect not only the blues, but also the violets at the top of the visible spectrum, although the strength and clearness of the reflection vary with each individual skin.

But no skin has been found so far capable of reflecting the ultra violet rays, which, although present in almost all light, vibrate at a rate too high to be visible to the human eye.

It is therefore believed that the past evolution of the human skin forecasts the existence in the distant future of an ultra white race, which, in addition to its other capacities, will have a skin capable of reflecting the invisible ultra violet rays. —Indianapolis News.

Interrupted the Firing.

It is told of Lieutenant General Leandras Polk of the Confederate army that he rode into the midst of an Indiana regiment late in the evening at Perryville. He had observed a body of men firing upon his troops and supposed that those firing were Confederates and were shooting by mistake. He rode over that way to order the firing to cease and found himself confronted by a Hoosier colonel. General Polk wore a dark blouse, and the dusk of the evening saved him. He was asked as to his identity when he ordered the firing to stop, but, making a threat to show them who he was, rode away. As soon as he reached a copse of wood he put spurs to his horse and rapidly drew away.

Old Things Are Better.

"I mean to write a sermon on this text some time," said the prettiest woman in the group. "We are all going crazy nowadays over novelty—new fashions, new inventions, seeing new places. But I tell you the old things are half the time better—the old friends, always the good old furniture, which is so often discarded for newer patterns not half so really nice. And I love a good old dress that I am used to and that has become a sort of part of me. And old shoes—Is there anything on earth quite so comfortable and delightful as a pair of soft, flexible old shoes?" —Leslie's.

Stories of Shaw.

One of Bernard Shaw's dramatic criticisms is the shortest on record. It was about a play called "Poor Jonathan," and Shaw's notice was simply "Poor Jonathan."

After the production of his first play, "Widowers' Houses," he met with so mixed a reception that he wrote, "I became infamous in a single night, and if the play did not achieve a success it created an uproar."

Foreign Relations.

"What does the committee on foreign relations have to do?"

"I can't exactly say. But if it has to keep track of the foreign relations that our rich girls acquire by marriage it has some responsibility!" —Washington Star.

Cold Feet.

"They say that a man who has cold feet is pretty sure to have an active brain."

"Yes, either that or a well filled purse." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Hancock and Gwinnett.

Probably John Hancock is the best known signer of the Declaration of Independence. That is because that patriot was not ignorant of the value of advertising. One has to stand some distance from a framed copy of the Declaration to be unable to read that name, which has passed into our language as a synonym for "signature." There are many signatories of the Declaration who are remembered, many who are forgotten, but Button Gwinnett lingers in our memory. It is not altogether easy to imagine a man named Button by his parents as a patriot and a man of influence. His name was enough to single him out in that sober company. But his fame rests secure on something else. History takes account of men for various reasons, but Button is important because—he was apparently cautious about signing his name. His autographs are more valuable today than Hancock's because so few of them are in existence. Perhaps it was hard work for Button to sign his name.—American Boy.

How Tolstoy Made His Will.

How Tolstoy made his will is told in the annual of the Tolstoy society by Alexei Sergeienko, who was one of the witnesses. On July 22, 1910, he was summoned by a lawyer, who said that Tolstoy wanted to make his will without an hour's delay. They rode away at once to the meeting place, a mile from Tolstoy's home. He met them and led the way into a dense forest. "In the thickest part of all," the narrative continues, "we stopped at a big stump of a tree. Tolstoy sat down on the stump, took a fountain pen from his pocket and asked for a sheet of paper. With feet crossed he began to make the rough sketch of his will." It was completed, signed and witnessed then and there, and then "he rose, and going to his horse said to me, 'How ghastly all this legal business is!' With an actively remarkable in a man of eighty-two, he swung himself into the saddle and vanished quickly into the dark greenery of the undergrowth."

"The Wide and Winding Rhine."

From a guidebook published in Frankfurt-on-the-Main the following is taken:

The Rhine, a boundary stone of the German history, is only and solely of its kind. On his banks one meets the vestiges of past civilization, we find there traces of its regeneration and of the modern civilization of which children we are. Various impressions make arise in us so many different sensations, so that a profound enthusiasm gets place in us. On the one hand the works of the hand of art, and on the other the imposing curiosities of nature combine themselves on the banks of the Rhine, crowned by vineyards, to an admirable symphony, in which we are touched all accents shuddering the heart and the powerful records of the profoundest emotion. Therefore, one cannot be astonished about it, that the Rhine has always given inspirations to many poets to their most celebrated works.

The Cinque Ports.

The lord wardenship of the cinque ports goes back to the Saxon period, when the five ports, Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings, constituted an essential part of England's defense against France. The warden was a highly important personage, who exercised civil, military and naval jurisdiction, being at once sheriff, custos rotulorum, lord lieutenant and admiral. Winchester and Rye in later days were added to the five towns, but the name remained cinque ports, as of old. In the days of the first Edward these ports were bound to furnish fifty-seven ships fully equipped and manned at their own cost for fifteen days, in consideration for which they were freed from certain taxes and granted special privileges. —London Standard.

How the End Will Come.

The professor of natural phenomena had acquired a gasoline car.

"The day is coming," he said to his class a few weeks later, "when the fire will gag and punctures pierce the inner tube and the casing blister and then this old earth of ours will have a blowout that may shake the Dog Star from its kennel and hurl the Dipper to kingdom come!" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Consenting Silence.

"Do you believe that silence gives consent, Dabbie?" asked Gostling.

"Why, yes. The old saying says so. Why?" said Dabbie.

"Then you may congratulate me on my engagement to Miss Moneybags. I wrote to her asking her to marry me six months ago, and I haven't heard a word from her since." —Judge.

His Disguise.

Miranda—Couldn't you think of a brighter idea, Reggie, than turning up in your ordinary clothes? Reginald—Here, I say, hold on! I've come as a taily waiter. —London Bystander.

Varieties of Bridges.

Bridges are seen hanging over rivers and upon noses. They also span some streets. They should not be confused with the game called bridge, which spans only time and money. Some bridges, like poker, depend entirely upon the draw. Bridges spend their time in heaving up and down and leaning against their towers. The object of bridges is to give very one a chance to get back from where he has been, or to go whence he can get back. Sometimes bridges are built over railroad tracks and spend all their time in saving people from being run over. A bridge which is thus employed is very happy, because it leads an upright life; also because the railroad company was sad when obliged to put it there.

Bridges are also used over chasms. Every chasm ought to have one. It provides a place for children to fall from; also it gives the chasm something to look up to.—Life

Friendliness of London.

There is no friendliness like the friendliness of London. Six or seven years ago I went rather frequently to a certain tea shop, which has every afternoon a crowd of men taking their tea and playing dominoes and chess. We used to talk occasionally, but none of us ever knew the name of any of the others. Then for five years I did not go near the place until one day when I dropped in almost by accident. At once there was a greeting and a welcome from at least half a dozen. The other day I went in again after another absence of six months, and the greeting was the same. This will do to tell those people who insist that London is an unfriendly place.—London Citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Brown, of Mountain avenue, have moved to Flemington. Mr. Brown is working a 250 acre farm. Mr. Brown was formerly employed at the Hub factory on South avenue, Westfield, and also conducted an oil route.

Seventy children from the Newark Orphan's Home arrived at the Coles Memorial Home Tuesday. Miss Ormandy is the Superintendent in charge this summer. Dr. Coles has made the cellar waterproof and Miss E. M. Walter, of Newark, donated a crate of strawberries. Mr. Lyons had peas picked and other garden truck on hand.

LITTLE WHITE WINGS CLEAN STREET.

The residents of North street who are mostly Italians were much surprised Tuesday morning when they went out from their homes to find the street for two blocks had been all cleaned up and presented a fine appearance.

This street has been in an untidy condition for some time and several children in the neighborhood took it into their heads to clean the thoroughfare, so they went at it with spades, hoes and rakes and when they had finished the street looked better than it ever did before. The children say that they intend to keep it in a good condition in the future.

The children who did the work and to whom the credit is due for the display of civic pride were Mary Iannacconi, Mary Filicello, Nick Ivricio, Raphael DeCicco, Dewey Colone, Dorothy Iannacconi, Mamie Filicello, Tommaso DeCicco, Josephine Ivricio, Gustave Iannacconi, John Filicello, Angelo Gudditta, Michael Gargano, Benjamin DeCicco and Rose Iannacconi.

Friendship Not To Be Patched.

Friendship is a vase which, when it is flawed by heat, or violence, or accident, may as well be broken at once. It can never be trusted after. The more graceful and ornamental it was, the more clearly do we discern the hopelessness of restoring it to its former state. Coarse stones, if they be fractured, may be cemented again; precious stones, never.—Landor.
