BIG UNION EXCURSION WAS HELD YESTERDAY

The big union excursion of the Methodist, Episcopal and Congregational Sunday schools to Asbury Park, which was scheduled to take place on Tuesday but was postponed on account of the stormy weather, was held yesterday. About seven hundred people went from this town and although the weather looked threatening when the start was made it turned out to be a nice day and every one who went had a fine time at this popular seashore resort.

Many enjoyed the bathing while others were attracted to the amusement places. The excursion train was run in two sections. The return trip was made from Asbury Park at 7:10 and when the excursionists arrived home, expressed themselves as having had an enjoyable day.

In addition to the members of the Sunday school mentioned above the members of the Scandia Heights Mission also went along, the children of the mission going free.

This was probably the only opportunity that many will have of visiting the seashore this summer.

VEGETABLE GARDENING FOR PUPILS AT SCHOOL AND AT HOME

By A. L. Johnson, County Superintendent of Schools.

Following and supplementing the article which appeared in last week's Standard, the accompanying article has been prepared by County Superintendent A. L. Johnson in the hope that it will be of some help in the establishment of gardens for pupils and may result in more active interest in the school gardens and in the home project plan of vegetable gardening.

BETTER EDUCATIONAL USE OF TIME.

The total school population of cities, towns, manufacturing villages, and suburban communities of the United States is approximately 13,000,000 children between the ages of 6 and 20. About 9,750,000 are enrolled in public and private schools. The average daily attendance is 6,500,000. There are 200,000 teachers employed at a cost of $200,000,000. The average school term is 180 days in length, while the average yearly attendance is 120 days. The average length of the daily school session is five hours.

About five per cent of the children enrolled spend their vacation months with their parents at summer resorts or in the country. Nearly ten per cent are employed in some useful, healthful, productive occupation. About 85 per cent remain at home without regular employment of any kind. Some of these children work a portion of the time and this employment is generally some unsuitable occupation. The major part of the vacation is spent in idleness. The majority of them belong to families who must earn their own living by daily labor, and the earnings are so small that anything which can be added to the family income is greatly needed. Many are poorly clothed in winter and must go hungry much of the time. They live in small crowded rooms or small houses poorly furnished. Considerably more than two-thirds of them leave school at fourteen or at an earlier age to become bread winners for the family. Because of the lack of proper contact with nature and the experience which comes from a useful purposeful occupation most children do not get from their few years of school training the kind of education they need and should have.

This situation presents an important problem which is both educational and economic, and it is quite generally believed by those who have given the subject careful consideration that the most practical solution is the establishment of home gardens under the direction of the schools. In every manufacturing city, suburban district, town, and village there is valuable land in back yards, vacant lots, and elsewhere which can be utilized for this purpose. There is in every community at least one teacher who has had some experience in gardening, and who could be employed for twelve months teaching elementary science during the hours of school and out of school hours could direct the home gardening of the children between the ages of seven and fifteen. If this teacher could have the assistance of an expert gardener the work would become more practical and profitable, plots would be better selected and properly plowed and pre-

RESIDENT LIABLE
UNDER LAW

For Failure to Report to Board of Health Case of Contagious Disease.

Word has been received from Trenton that the local Board of Health has been sent word from the State Board of Health at Trenton that under the law the former Board could proceed against Hugh M. Smith, of 222 Clark street, for failing to report to the local board that his sister was ill with diphtheria in his home. The sister is Miss Marguerite Smith, a young woman 22 years old. She was first treated by Mrs. William H. Sperry, a Christian Science healer of Cranford. The notice sent by the State Board is based upon an opinion received from Attorney General Westcott.

According to the report to the State Board by the Westfield Board, Miss Smith had the "sore throat" from June 14 to June 20, last. Mrs. Sperry was the only one to treat her during that time. On June 21, Dr. L. G. Newman, of Westfield, was called by Mr. Smith to prescribe for his wife's maid, and while there was asked to look at Miss Smith. He immediately diagnosed the case as diphtheria, reported to the local Board of Health and quarantined the house. The quarantine was maintained until June 29, at which time Miss Smith was reported well.

The Westfield Board reported the matter to the State Board with a request for information as to what action could be taken, and the State Board referred it to the Attorney General.

Attorney General Westcott in his opinion points out that the health act of 1911 provides that every physician shall, within 12 hours, report each case of contagious disease to the local health authorities; and further provides that every house owner or house holder who has reason to believe that any person living in any building under his control is affected by any contagious disease, shall, when no physician has professionally attended the patient, within twelve hours report the case in writing to the local health authorities.

A representative of The Standard was the first to advise Dr. J. B. Harrison, president of the local Board of Health of the notice sent out by the State Board last night. Dr. Harrison told the representative that it was the first word he had heard in regard to the matter and that he had received no official notice from the State Board himself and that he did not care to discuss the case in any way until after the meeting of the local board which will be held on Friday evening of next week.

DISTRICT NURSE
NEEDS SUPPORT

A Valuable Service Heretofore Supported by Proceeds of Entertainments and by Subscription Appeals for Town Aid.

One of the most worthy institutions in this town, and one which should appeal to the heart of every resident is the District Nurse Association which was organized by a number of ladies interested in the work about two years ago. At that time Miss MacKenzie was made the district nurse and has since devoted herself to the service without a vacation.

The association was founded to give the sick, especially those in limited circumstances, the best home nursing under existing circumstances. The sick that are unable to pay have the service of Miss MacKenzie free of charge but those who are able to pay the charge, ranging from ten to fifty cents an hour. All such payments are applied to the regular work of the association.

In an interview with one of the officers of the association a Standard representative gleaned the following information:

"Miss MacKenzie has all the work that she can do and it was with reluctance that she consented to take a vacation this year as she thought her services were in too great a demand for her to be spared. Last year she was kept so busy that no opportunity occurred for a vacation.

"Miss MacKenzie has done a great deal of good since she became the nurse. She has in many cases proved a god send to those whom she has aided. One lady who has been confined to her home for some months with a broken limb said this week that she did not know what would have become of her if it had not been for the service which was rendered her by Miss MacKenzie.

"One of the great drawbacks to the success of the association is the fact that although everyone in town realizes the fact that the institution is a good thing still the support is not what it should be from a financial standpoint.

"It is purely a town institution and should be supported by the town. While the members of the association have up to the present time been able to meet expenses through the help of entertainments and personal subscriptions the ladies who organized the association feel adverse to having any entertainments to raise money for its support but think that the support should come voluntarily from the town without resorting to entertainments.

"Plans of the association include the provisions of two rooms in a central part of the town where the district nurse can have one to use as a clinic and the other for a living room.

"At the present time Miss MacKenzie has all the work that she can possibly do and it is the hope of the members that they will soon be able to appoint an assistant to help in the work.

"The physicians of the town are unanimous in their praise of the work of the association and of what is being done by Miss MacKenzie and have stated that they would not know how to get along without her.

"It is hoped that the town will see their way clear to appropriate something towards this most charitable institution and thus help the good cause which has been started by the ladies of the association.

"Miss MacKenzie leaves tomorrow on her vacation which she will spend at her home in Maine."

TWENTY-SEVEN CHILDREN AT COUNTRY HOME

Enjoying Outdoor Life and Good Food Provided by the Matron

There are at present twenty-seven children who are enjoying the delights and pleasures to be derived from the Children's Country Home. These children are at the home for four months and while they are in most cases cripples they are not incurable. The children have a good time while they are at the home and enjoy the fresh air and the good food which is provided for them by the matron, Mrs. Schwartz. Most of the children are from New York and some of them are from Newark, but none are turned away who apply for admission.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week, they were guests of Manager Bogert of the Playhouse and that they enjoyed the movies was evidenced by the pleased expression on the children's faces when they came out of the theatre after the show. They have a standing invitation from Mr. Bogert of the Playhouse, and Mr. Flagg, of the Westfield Theatre, to attend these theatres and see the pictures whenever they wish to and no doubt they will take advantage of the courtesy extended to them.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN NEW LONDON, CONN.

Lieutenant Henry Hammerstein, of the Ninth Regiment, New York National Guard, a former resident of this town, died at New London, Conn., on Wednesday night, where he had gone with his regiment to prepare for its encampment there. Mr. Hammerstein had been ill for a year and went to New London in the hope that the change would do him good. The body was shipped to his home in New York, and was attended by the regimental officers. A company of guardsmen in service uniform formed a guard of honor.

Mr. Hammerstein was associated with his father, Oscar Hammerstein, in the construction of his theatres and opera house ventures. He was 45 years old and is survived by his wife, his father, one brother and two half sisters.

BURGLARS PAY
MORNING VISIT

To Shoe and Grocery Stores
Get Shoes and Money. One of Them gets away from Lieutenant Cauefield but is Caught in Plainfield.

James Green, colored who has the name of being a store and slot machine thief was captured by Captain Flynn, of the Plainfield police force, in that city on Wednesday night under instructions from Chief of Police O'Neill. Green broke into the shoe store of Samuel Silverstein, at the corner of Westfield and North avenues, and the grocery store of Duffy Brothers, at the corner of West Broad street, and South avenue, at three o'clock Wednesday morning.

Green also attempted to enter the North Avenue Hotel, where his sister is employed but was frightened away. At Silverstein's Green gained an entrance to the inside of the show window by breaking a pane of glass. He took one pair of shoes, three single ones, all of which had the toes to them. At Duffy's store Green took a pair of shoes.

Lieutenant Cauefield who was on duty last night just been to the call box on Westfield avenue, and was coming back when he heard a crash. He thought that someone was trying to break into the lunch wagon, opposite the Silverstein store. As he reached the corner of Westfield and North avenues, he saw a man coming around the corner and another colored man inside the show window of Mr. Silverstein's store. He made a grab at the latter man and caught him. They had a tussle and finally the man slipped out of his coat and got away. The Lieutenant gave chase and fired his revolver twice at the fleeing negro but failed to hit him.

Later in the day Chief of Police O'Neill got in touch with several police departments in nearby towns with the result that Green was picked up in a colored pool room by Captain Flynn that night.

Green is a notorious character and has done time in Trenton State Prison on two different occasions.

Chief of Police O'Neill is of the opinion that Green has been doing all the petty thievery in this town lately and that the town will be rid of that sort of burglary now. Green was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

PRISONER ESCAPES
STILL AT LARGE

James Green, Colored, Who Robbed Two Local Stores Wednesday Morning Breaks Jail and Escapes

Last night between six and seven o'clock, James Green, colored, who broke into the stores of Samuel Silverstein and Duffy Brothers early Wednesday morning and who was arrested in Plainfield by Captain Flynn of the police force of that city, after getting away from Lieutenant Cauefield and who was brought to the local police station after being caught by the officer in Plainfield, in some way got out of the cell in which he was confined and escaped through the skylight and has not as yet been recaptured. It is said that he was given his supper by one of the officers and that when the officer went back to the cell to see if he was through eating he found Green gone and the supper untouched.

The knife with which he was to eat his supper was found on the roof, near the skylight. It is thought that he used the knife to pry open the lock of the cell. The police are busy looking for him but up to the hour of going to press the prisoner had not been apprehended.

MISS MOFFETT NOT ABDUCTED

Lifts Mystery of Her Disappearance by Returning Home After Spending Three Weeks in Newark

Miss Genevieve Moffett, of this town, alleged to have been abducted by Frank Weigmann, of Plainfield, cleared the mystery surrounding her disappearance from her parents' home nearly three weeks ago, and lifted the shadow from Weigmann when she walked into the office of County Detective John A. Galatian, at Elizabeth, Monday afternoon, and explained that she had been staying at a boarding house in Plane street, Newark, since her disappearance.

Her statements relative to her going away following her quarrel with her parents corresponds in detail with that told by Weigmann. After telling a story covering her actions to Detective Galatian, the girl returned to this town with her mother, who met her at the detective's office.

Miss Moffett corroborated Weigmann's statements that on the night of July 7, they had walked the streets of this town; that she had left for New York with him in the morning, where he is employed, remaining there all day and returning with him at night after work, to the home of his mother in this city, where she was cared for by Mrs. Weigmann. Miss Moffett stated that the instigation of the quarrel between herself and her parents was her announced intention of becoming the wife of Weigmann.

She stated further that when she left the Weigmann home in the morning it was with the understanding that she would meet him that evening and they would be married.

Mr. Weigmann made the same statement, declaring that he was at the appointed place at the time stated, but that Miss Moffett was not, while she says that he did not appear at the place, although she waited a long time. Thinking that Weigmann had forsaken her, she says she went to Newark. Her expenses were defrayed by funds received from a friend in this town.

SHE MIGHT HAVE BEEN QUEEN

Colorado Woman Claims Descent From the Stuart Kings of England.

Denver, Col.—But for the defeat of James II of England at the battle of Boyne, Mrs. Mary Her of Sterling, asserts she, instead of Victoria, daughter of the duke of Kent, might have reigned as queen of England, says a Denver News, Sterling correspondent.

She declares she is a lineal descendant of the Stuart kings through the line of Charles I, through his son, James II, through the pretender, son of James II, and finally through the young pretender, son of the old pretender.

The young pretender, Charles, did not succeed in maintaining his claim to the British throne; but had the fortunes of war gone in his favor, and the Stuart family instead of the house of Hanover prevailed in the struggle for the crown, Mrs. Her avers she had as valid a claim to the throne as had Victoria.

Mrs. Her is seventy-eight years old. She was born in Canada two years before Victoria came to the throne. She was for many years a teacher and writer for the press, and is engaged in lecturing in the cause of temperance. She is a woman of brilliant attainments and pleasing personality. She is connected with some of the most notable families of the United States, being a descendant of Gen. Thomas Gage, commander of the British forces at Boston during the Revolutionary war. She is a cousin of Lyman G. Gage, secretary of the treasury under President McKinley, and is closely related to Oscar Underwood of the house of representatives, and to former Governor Carpenter of the Philippines.

CHICKENS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Woman Says Hubby and Girl Spent Night Hours Feeding Them.

Brooklyn.—Mrs. Alice Carlson of Brooklyn explained to Advisory Master Roe in Jersey City in the trial of her divorce suit against her husband, Adolphus M. Carlson, why she left her husband.

Carlson had a peculiar notion that the chickens on his farm at Dundee needed feeding at ten o'clock at night. When he required the assistance of Miss Bertha Stavanaugh, a visitor, and it took both of them an hour to give the chickens their late suppers, Mrs. Carlson balked.

Everett Carlson, the twelve-year-old son of the pair, testified that he spent most of his time with Miss Stavanaugh because he did not like his mother. When his mother wanted to kiss him he slapped her face. The boy was withdrawn from the stand by the master, who said that he believed the boy's mind had been poisoned.

Fifteen Hundred Inmates of Pennsylvania Penitentiary Seek Prevention of Liquor Sale.

Philadelphia.—A petition drafted by prisoners in the eastern penitentiary asking that forty per cent of the crime within this state be directly attributable to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors and asking for the enactment of prohibition legislation is being circulated among the convicts confined in that institution. It is reported that 1,500 signatures of inmates of the prison will be attached to the petition which is to be presented to the legislature. The editor of a paper published in the penitentiary, by the prisoners inflated the movement.

Woman Suffrage

Pro and Con

MORE ABOUT COLORADO!

When one notes the intemperate zeal with which a few Suffragists of the non-suffrage States demand their "rights," the threats which they make against the hesitators and doubters in authority, and when the profound indifference and apathy manifested by the great mass of the women in the suffrage States are seen and considered in connection therewith, he wonders why that information is not sought and given which the suffrage States alone can supply; he wonders why facts are not demanded rather than declamation and clamor.

Colorado has passed through the fire. In woman suffrage, Colorado, in "progressive" Colorado, political depravity has sounded lower depths than in any other State. Woman's vote not only did nothing to correct the evil, but it did much to aggravate it. Not, of course, actively, but passively. That the evil has been considerably ameliorated and partially suppressed is not due to woman or her political influence. It is wholly due to the patriotism and resource of resolute and honest men.

It is true that politicians have frequently affirmed that suffrage was a success in Colorado and occasionally political and semi-political assemblies have resolved that Colorado has enjoyed an uplift by reason of it, but it is significant that all such declarations and all such resolutions have failed to point out in what respect suffrage has been serviceable to the cause of good government. It seems to have been assumed that because women have consented to register and to vote in considerable number and because a few of them attended conventions and behaved civilly, and because no disturbance followed their assumption of the duties of the exceedingly few offices to which they had been elected, ergo, suffrage had been a success. The fact is, nothing beneficial came of it. No perceptible change in the manner of doing things political occurred. As the waters of the Ohio, when they disengage into the Mississippi unite with the waters of that great stream and become one river, so did the votes of the women unite with the votes of the men. The course of the Mississippi was not changed by receiving the waters of the Ohio. The river was just a little wider and a little deeper. In Colorado the total vote was swelled by 75 or 80 per cent. That was all. And that is what has been heralded as a success.

"Whereas, in Colorado, the only State where time, population, and general conditions have afforded a test, we find, after twenty years, a disappointment for every promise. In lieu of Government we find anarchy; in lieu of order, chaos; in lieu of home rule, Federal control; in lieu of economy in Government, the highest per capita tax rate of any State. We find, with but two exceptions, his capital and principal city, with the highest per capita expense of those in its class. In lieu of improved domestic conditions we find but two States in 48 with a higher divorce rate; we find the social evil aggravated, not abated."

From a letter in the New York Sun: A friend of mine, born in Denver and in business there, a man and not a politician nor a seeker after office, obtainable by popularity, writes as follows, under date of May 23, 1914: "The strongest argument against woman suffrage that has presented itself in this State is the attitude which some have taken on the recent strike situation. They have met in large mass meetings. Without adequate investigation they have adopted absurd resolutions. They have accepted the most ridiculous and palpably false statements of the strikers as facts. GALLEY—FIFTEEN They have thrown themselves into hysterics, and done untold harm. This is not an indictment against all the women by any means. What those women have done is what a small body of partisan men wanted them to do. I may, perhaps, state the matter more clearly in another way. Women, are prone to see apparent wrongs and to apply apparent remedies, which affect not only the wrongs which they aim to cure, but which breach the consistent principles of government which they do not intend to weaken."

Extract from letter (May 1, 1914), of another Denver business man, also not a politician nor after the popular vote: "They do not do any good for the community that I have ever observed, neither do they represent any particular elements except, possibly, the element which keeps our fellow townsmen, the Hon. Ben B. Lindsey, in office."

COMPLAINS OF DOG KILLING HIS CHICKENS

E. L. Brodeur of Austin street, was down in the police court on Tuesday night on a complaint made by W. H. Bush, of West Broad street, who charged that a dog belonging to Mr. Brodeur had killed some of his chickens. Mr. Brodeur stated to the Recorder that he knew that the dog killed chickens but that he kept him tied up with a chain and at night kept him fastened in a place with slats across so that he could get air; that on Sunday morning the dog gnawed his way out and got away and undoubtedly killed the chicken complained of.

Mr. Brodeur said that every chicken that had been killed in the past year had been killed by his dog and he did not think it was hardly fair to him or the dog either. Recorder Springfield told Mr. Brodeur to keep the dog tied up and he did not think there would be any further trouble.

VEGETABLE GARDENING FOR PUPILS AT SCHOOL AND AT HOME

All children must have instruction after the years of childhood, otherwise state and society must be a dismal failure. If the child can make his contribution to the support of the family while in school he is not carried as a dead weight and there would be no longer an excuse for sending him to work as soon as he arrives at the age of fourteen. This work will produce a generation of men and women who will find recreation as well as profit in the home garden after the close of their day of labor.

When we compare the results, the cost is a mere "bagatelle". No addition to the force of teachers is required, only a different preparation for one teacher in each school. It would mean no more than $500 additional salary to one teacher in order to obtain his or her services throughout the entire twelve months. In doing this however you are bringing health, joy, educative labor to children who now spend more than half their waking hours in idleness harmful to them physically, mentally, and morally.

VEGETABLE GARDENING.
The field of gardening is so large that the individuals who maintain such a project must necessarily narrow their efforts to as few of the activities as possible.

There are four kinds of possible garden projects which may be undertaken under the direction of the school, viz:

1. The School Garden.
2. Individual Gardens.
3. Partnership Gardens.
4. Home Project Plan.

THE SCHOOL GARDEN.
One of the principal aims in school gardening is to show the boy or girl what profit may be derived from the cultivation and marketing of vegetables. To secure the best satisfactory results it is best to make a choice of two or three vegetables which may be grown and harvested either before the close of the school term or early in the summer, that is, provided no arrangement can be made by the district for continuing the garden during the summer. If the garden is in a town or village there will be no difficulty in disposing of products at considerable profit. This garden should be placed under the direction and management of a teacher or principal who is interested and who has had some experience in methods of cultivation.

INDIVIDUAL GARDENS.
If considerable area is at the disposal of the school, plots may be assigned to each pupil for cultivation. This plan will be most effective where the pupil is allowed to select this own vegetables. The general plan should be discussed in the class room and related whenever possible to other school activities.

PARTNERSHIP GARDENS.
It sometimes happens that two or more children are able to secure a plot of ground for cultivation in partnership. In such a case the project should be encouraged and the children helped and directed by the teachers in the same way and manner as in school gardening. The plot should be visited by the teacher or teachers and suggestions and help given. This should be a very profitable and undertaking and the commercial value of such an enterprise emphasized.

HOME PROJECT PLAN.
In some instances conditions surrounding the school make it impracticable to secure a plot for a school garden. In this case the children should be encouraged to establish home gardens, which should be reported to the teacher or teachers having the school garden in charge, and a record kept and regular visitations made by these teachers. Reports at regular intervals should also be made by teachers assigned to this work. In this way the interest of the children may be kept alive and the success of the home project will be assured.

DAILY RECORD.
Each child engaged in a gardening project should be taught to keep a daily record of the work he does and also an accurate account of receipts and expenditures. A small book should be kept for this purpose and it should be examined at regular intervals by the teacher.

EXHIBITION.
Early in the autumn the time and place to be fixed later, there will be an exhibit of the products of the school and home gardens. It is hoped that every district in the County will be represented.

PRIZES.
First and second prizes (ribbons) will be awarded at the annual exhibit by a committee of competent judges to the children in each district having the best exhibit of vegetables and flowers.

MATERIAL.
There is much interesting and helpful material published by the Experiment Station, Washington, D. C., which is available for school use. Some of the school teacher should be from these bulletins, and the children should be encouraged to write exercises in connection with their work in English Composition based upon their gardening experiences and from bulletins, articles on gardening, agriculture and clippings from the press on farm topics.

COLORED BOY ADMITS STEALING BICYCLES

Walter Dickinson a colored boy, eleven years old was picked up by Sergeant John Rosecrans on Saturday on suspicion of having been the one who has stolen several bicycles from in front of houses and stores in this town during the past few weeks. The boy was given an examination by Chief of Police O'Neil and Sergeant Rosecrans on Sunday morning and he admitted having stolen seven bicycles but could not tell what had become of them. After stealing the bicycles the boy said that he rode them around on the streets awhile and then took them behind buildings or in vacant lots and left them and that some one else then got them. The boy said that he had seen other boys riding the bicycles around the streets which he had stolen. The boy came to this town from Philadelphia and is living with his father on Clark street.

On Monday morning the boy was paroled in the custody of his father. Two of the stolen bicycles have been recovered by the police.

SUBURBAN A. C. HAS INTERESTING MEETING

On Monday night the Suburban A. C. held a meeting at the home of A. Quipp on Westfield avenue. There were about twenty members present and one application was read. The president read some very interesting reports which proved that the club was in a very good condition. New club rooms were secured, which will be opened Saturday. After much business was discussed the club was given a big surprise. In the next room there was a large table beautifully decorated. After the toast was made by the president the members sat down and enjoyed the supper. The Misses Quipp served the refreshments. The evening was a great success owing to the hard work of Mr. and Mrs. Quipp.

A checker game was played between P. Erbeck and G. Keppeler, the latter winning two out of three games. The rubber will be played at the next meeting for championship. Other members enjoyed themselves by playing pinocle, etc. Dancing was enjoyed till a late hour and music was furnished by the Misses Quipp.

ENTERTAINS AT DANCE.

Mrs. R. H. Middlehitch entertained a number of friends at a dinner and dance at her home on the Boulevard last Saturday night in honor of Miss Gertrude Spalckhaver and her classmates in Wellesley College. Miss Gladys Williams, of Philadelphia; Miss Hazel Moses, of Tilton, N. H.; and Miss Lois Bangs, of Bridgeport, Conn. The dining room and parlor were prettily decorated with roses. The music for the dancing was furnished by a Victrola.

Those present were Marion and Robert Keyes, Florence and George McClintock, Helen Jackson, Jack Elliott, Catherine Dietz, Wallace McMonies, Floyd Meyer, William Cokerley, Livingston Middlehitch, Miss Gertrude Spalckhaver, Miss Gladys Williams, Miss Hazel Moses, and Miss Lois Bangs.

Our District Nurse.

Of all the institutions which Westfield so proudly boasts, there is none that is doing a nobler work or meeting a greater need than the district nurse. Her assistance and ever-ready service to those who are not able to employ a nurse in time of need, as well as her readiness for emergency calls to any home, renders her service to the citizens of Westfield indispensable. In fact, the demands for the nurse's services have been so great that she has hardly been able to meet them, and those who are identified with the work tell us that there is really need for an assistant, but the funds available are hardly sufficient to meet the cost of the nurse already employed. This should not be.

Westfield supports two moving picture theatres, a well equipped and flourishing golf club and automobiles without number, and why an association so worthy and so indispensable to the best good and welfare of our community, should be in any way embarrassed for the want of funds can only be explained by the fact that the people do not know of this wonderful work and the good accomplished. The good women who have given themselves to this work should not be embarrassed for the lack of funds. They need fifty new $10.00 memberships at once, and we trust this appeal will meet with generous response that there may be no further embarrassment.

If it is within the powers of our Council to place a contribution to this cause in their annual budget, they could not expend $100.00 of the people's money to better purpose or where it would do more good than in this worthy enterprise.

It has proven its value as a public institution and there can be no question but that it is within a reasonable function of the governing body of the town to raise through the general tax budget a sum sufficient to place this institution beyond the necessity of curtailing its work for the lack of funds.

No, the District Nurse's Association does not need the kind suggestion, "suppose we get up a show," "give a card party or dance," or even "hold a rummage sale" for the benefit of this work. Just go down in your pocket as you should and the worry will be over.

Golf Club Progressive.

Westfield has the distinction of having the second night lighted tennis courts in the state, and the tournament held last week on these courts, showed the interest which the people of Westfield and the surrounding towns take in tennis. Contestants and their friends came from Sewaren, Rahway, Cranford, Plainfield, Summit, and one or two teams from New York City.

While the Westfield players were not able to win the contest, we are all happy that this very popular tournament should have been played in Westfield on her tennis courts, and we congratulate the governing body of the Golf Club in their enterprise and the popularity of their courts which the play and the large attendance proved beyond a question of doubt.

Primary Candidates.

Politics is becoming quite a subject of discussion, and the center for the Fifth New Jersey Congressional seat, now occupied by our fellow townsman W. E. Tuttle, promises to be a spirited affair. Mr. Tuttle will have an opponent in Mr. Thomas J. Pierson, of Elizabeth, proprietor of the Berkeley Hotel, but Mr. Tuttle's chances at the primary seem to be the best thus far.

On the Republican side, the Rev. W. T. Stutchel, of Rahway, Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, and John H. Capstick, of Morris County, are the three candidates before the primary. Mr. Capstick will pay a visit to our town Monday afternoon, in the interest of this candidacy, and Mr. Stutchel is billed to speak in Westfield tomorrow evening.

The new form of primary law has brought a unique condition into politics, which places a heavy burden upon the candidates in a campaign for nomination, followed by a campaign for election, which is not only expensive, but wearing on the candidates, and in the long run, may have the effect of hindering business men from allowing their names to be used for public office.

There seems to be little activity in the Assembly contest thus far, but there may be several booms launched at Sea Girt today, when Union, Morris, Somerset and Middlesex County politicians go to Sea Girt at the invitation of our Governor.

Well Done, Commissioner.

Well done, Mr. Shade Tree Commissioner! Glad to see that you have engaged a man of experience to look after our trees. You are doing it just right. Keep at it. Don't let any one stop the good work. It is the most needed work in town, a work that can't be done next year, and any further neglect of our shade trees will be criminal. If the Council tells you they can't afford to make a job of it, tell them they can't afford not to.

Teach Them How To Swim.

One of the most distressing aspects of the summer season is the number of drowning accidents. Every Monday morning's paper through the warm weather brings a catalogue of deaths, "drowned while bathing." All through the week, from the surf bathing beach to the village swimming hole, there is one long story of sorrow and death.

Overturned canoes and row and sail boats contribute a heavy toll.

And the parent does not secure safety for his youngsters by teaching them how to swim. Every boy and girl ought to learn to swim. With a little pains and effort, this can be arranged almost anywhere. Also, let them know how many accidents are all the time happening from a too venturesome spirit.

Young people should not be permitted to use canoes and boats until they have learned to quit fooling on the water.

—State Gazette

Shall We Sleep?

The doctors are debating a question on which there is profound difference of opinion, but much greater uniformity of practice. The issue is, shall man—the average, healthy, moral person—sleep much or little. Some men have succeeded in getting themselves into a condition where they did not sleep at all. The result has been an early death. Man is still akin to the animals in his physical system, and while we cannot make accurate comparisons as to the mental or nervous system, we find that these go awry when deprived of sleep, but those who get along with four hours or less very soon show the results. The professions or occupations which turn night into day have a lower average of longevity than those which set aside from seven to nine hours for unconscious recuperation. We, at all events, have no desire for the acquaintance of a humanity that has cured itself of sleep. The prediction is hardly hazardous that it will at least be very quarrelsome. Domestic peace will vanish and we will be squabbling about seats in street cars till the vote will be unanimous to obtain peace by all going to sleep in the old way.

Popular sympathy in this country has been with Kaiser Wilhelm in the disagreements between himself and his eldest son, the Crown Prince, but in the disagreement between the Kaiser and his fifth son, Prince Oscar, Americans are likely to applaud the young man who marries the girl he loves, in spite of the anger of an aristocratic father. But the American idea of the morgant character of the union will be that it is deplorable.

It is interesting to note that the Assessor's books show ratables of $9,800,000 this year which is $382,000 more than last year's ratables exclusive of second rate railroad tax.

A milliner devised a hat that cost $2.75 and was a beauty, but it wouldn't sell. Then she marked the price up to $16.50, and she couldn't make them fast enough to supply the demand.

A contemporary points with pride to the fact that not a single umpire has been mobbed this season. Now, watch out for some old fogey to say the game isn't what it used to be.

An Ohio man advises girls to marry plain, ordinary men. If the girls hadn't been doing that since the time of Eve, where would most of us be now?

Talking about the good old days, what has become of the game of croquet?

John Wilkinson.

John Wilkinson, 76 years old, father of the Misses Elizabeth A., Florence E., and Orella Wilkinson, of 543 Summit avenue, died at the home of his son Wellington M. Wilkinson, in East Rutherford on Thursday night of last week. Mr. Wilkinson had been in poor health for several years but his death was unexpected. He is survived by two sons, Wellington M. Wilkinson, of East Rutherford and John A. Wilkinson, of Stratford, Conn. Four daughters also survive him, Mrs. F. M. Hobbs, of Greenwich, Conn., and the Misses Wilkinson of this town.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the home of the latter daughters on Summit avenue, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. W. E. Stearns, of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Arthur Rowland sang two solos, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Forever With the Lord." The bearers were George Wilkin, Albert Wilkinson and John Tunt, of Brooklyn, Charles Wilkinson of Ridgewood, Walter Penfield of New York and Walter R. Darby of this town. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Emily Apgar.

The death of Mrs. Emily Apgar, mother of Charles E. Apgar and Miss May Apgar of Carlton road occurred at the home of her son, Albert R. Apgar in Columbia, Pa., on Tuesday. The funeral service will be held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry L. Terry, 714 West Eighth street, Plainfield with whom Mrs. Apgar had made her home for two years. Another daughter, Mrs. J. Sherman Colley resides in Flemington.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of two dear children, Francis Dane Webb, who entered the Homeland July 30, 1904, aged eleven months; and also of his sister Marion South Webb who joined him there, February 28, 1908, aged eleven years, children of George Boardman and Marion South Webb of Westfield, New Jersey.

"There's a home for little children
Where Jesus reigns in glory,
A home of peace and joy;
No home on earth is like it,
Nor can with it compare;
For every one is happy,
Nor could be happier there."

Pat's One Regret.
Pat—Arrah, now, thin railways are a mighty fine invention, anyway.
Friend—I shouldn't have thought you could find much to admire in them, Pat, seeing that you lost your leg in a railway accident.

Pat—Faith, and didn't Oi get a 'tousand dollars damages? Shure, if it had only been me head Oi'd have owned the loine.—Dallas News.

Drew the Line.
"Genevieve, I notice you like to write your name on the eggs you pack."

"Yes," admitted the dairymaid. "Do you object?"

"Not at all," said the farmer. "You have a pretty name. Write it upon all the eggs you please. But don't set down any dates."—Kansas City Journal.

On the Road.
A man spent three days among the heavily upholstered restaurants looking, and in vain, for a native New Yorker.

"Where are the native New Yorkers?" he asked of me.

"Many of them are away traveling," I answered cheerily. "for firms managed by the adopted New Yorkers."—Puck.

The Church Prosperous.
"Do you have matins in this church?" asked the high church visitor of the vergor of the village church.

"No, indeed," replied that dignitary, with scorn. "We have oil cloth, and right up the chancel, too!"—Christian Register.

IN THE DARK.

Mrs. B.—I heard Mrs. Swift has left her husband.

Mrs. W.—What was the trouble?
Mrs. B.—I don't know. I've had the grip and haven't been able to go calling any afternoon this week.

"Yes, when the bench is a dog show with a salmon attachment in the rear."

Equal Impersonation.
Miss Footlight badly hurt yesterday in that auto accident?
Squibb—Not at all. She appeared last night in two parts and that was all the excitement called for.

The Geometry of It.
"Are you going to square yourself with the voters out at home?"
"I am going to square myself," replied Senator Sorghum. "I am simply going to round 'em up."

Preferred.
"I don't like those osculatory dances at the parties, do you?"
"No, I don't like any of the new-fangled dances. Give me the good old-fashioned dancing games."

Correct!
"The lights—Men are just like lights, aren't they?"
"Yes, you've always been right in getting the rings off the ladies."

Play Golf Either.
"Do you prefer golfing?"
"No, I don't. Nobody can afford to play golf on Sundays."

What a Pity.
"What a pity, what a pity," said Miss Josselyn, "that you, then, for I had a very good idea of you."

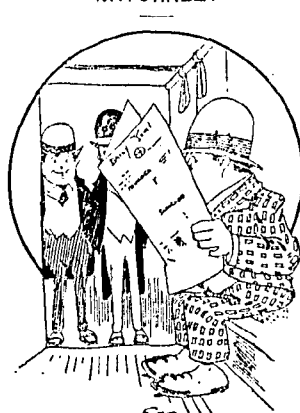

PEER-LESS

Mrs. Hickson—She says she's a peerless actress. I wonder what she means by that?

MARCONI WIRELESS GETS REVENGE

Defeat Westfield A. A. 10 to 4, Deciding Game to be Played Tomorrow

The Marconi wireless baseball team took sweet revenge on the Westfield A. A. at Recreation Park on Saturday afternoon, the final count being 10 to 4. Marston, never forgetting the previous 6 to 2 beating he received here before, kept the home team's hits well scattered. Coddling who started for the Westfield A. A., was hammered all over the lot. Green relieved him in the fourth and did much better. Crutenden's catch of a line drive was well applauded.

Manager McDonald's alibi for the defeat was the absence of four of his regular players. Tomorrow the deciding game with the wireless men will be played at Recreation Park and a different tale may be told.

SAVING ART WORKS

How Paintings Hacked by Women Are Restored.

Professionals Only Need a Hot Iron, Strong Fish Glue, Manila Paper and New Canvas—Many Men Are Experts.

London.—Although Mr. Sargent's portrait of Mr. Henry James, the novelist, was badly hacked by a cleaver welded by a suffragette at the opening of the Royal Academy, it will not be an over difficult task to repair it. The work of restoration has been entrusted to Maj. George C. Roller, says London Tit-Bits.

In restoring the portrait the canvas, after the painted surface has been protected with tissue paper, will be placed on a slate table. The back will then be covered with a sticky fluid, which will be pressed through to the surface of the picture with a heated iron. In this way the canvas will contract, and the cuts in it will close up. The canvas will finally be relined, and many spots where paint may be missing will be filled in by the restorer with a special preparation.

There are men in London who follow the profession of picture restoring, who are able to restore old paintings of value which have large holes in them, or the materials on which they are executed hanging in threads. Moreover, they can, when necessary, transfer a painting to a new canvas.

If a picture of which the canvas is cracked, torn or rotted with age is handed to a clever restorer, the first thing he does is to purchase a new canvas the same size as the old one. Having obtained this, he glues a sheet of stout manila paper to the picture. He then carefully scrapes away the old canvas. This is a job that might occupy him for several days, or weeks if the canvas is a large one. Having removed every bit of canvas, the grounds upon which paint lies are taken away by solvents or gentle scraping, until nothing remains but the fragile shell of pigment adhering to the paper.

The new canvas is then covered with the strongest fish glue obtainable, and pressed firmly down upon the paper bearing the picture. As soon as the painting is firmly attached to its new foundation nothing remains but to take off the manila paper. This can be done with hot water, and the surface of the painting has only to be cleaned to look as bright as it was when the artist painted it.

In days gone by many masters of the brush painted their works on wood or panel. Several such works brought to light during recent years have been found with their timber badly decayed, and in order to preserve them it has been necessary to transfer them to canvas.

We believe it was M. Haquin, a French artist of note, who first successfully transferred a panel painting to canvas. He glued a sheet of paper over the surface of the painting, and afterward upon this a fine layer of muslin. When the glue was dry he planed down the panel until it was of the thickness of match wood, when he scraped off the remainder with a long, flexible knife. This done, the mere skin of color held together by the paper and muslin was left, and it was a comparatively easy task to glue this to a canvas and remove the paper and muslin.

If an old picture has a portion of its pigment missing this may be replaced by an artist with colors from a brush, but sometimes old but worthless paintings are used for the purpose.

When the coloring of the drapery, flesh, foliage or sky, as the case may be, is found to match exactly the missing portion it is cut out to size and glued on the canvas, the edges of the joint being made imperceptible by the aid of the brush.

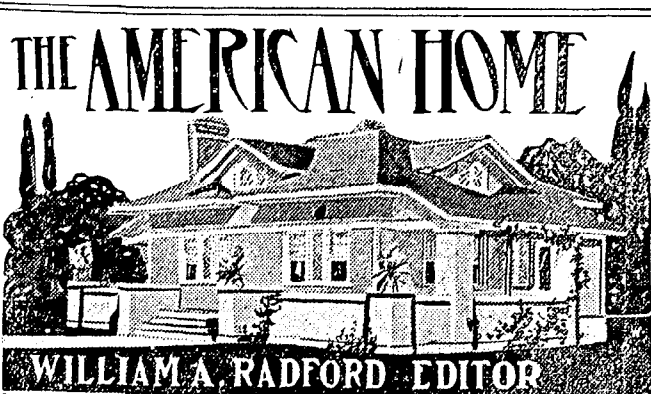

Many tricks have been played by unscrupulous restorers upon the owners of valuable old paintings, the most common being the foisting upon the victims in lieu of their own works of skillful copies of the originals, known as "changelings."

DEMAND HORSE RIGS OR NONE

Delegates to International Union of Journeymen Horsehoofers' Convention Bar Automobiles.

Memphis, Tenn.—A serious break between the delegates to the International Union of Journeymen Horsehoofers' convention which opened here recently and the entertainment committee appointed by the local union was threatened when the committee announced that arrangements had been made to give the delegates an automobile ride about the city. A number of delegates immediately objected, declaring that unless horses and carriages were furnished, they would refuse to take part in the ride. "We are not going to favor the auto in any way," said H. B. Marshall of Cincinnati. "We want horse rigs or none." The clump was made.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD, EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

A house 36 by 40 feet is just about the right size when you want four bedrooms with good sized living rooms down stairs. It makes a great difference in the cost of building whether you have large rooms or small rooms.

Many times architects are asked to design an eight-room house with no sizes stipulated, but it is intimated that large rooms are wanted. When the plan is finished and the cost computed there is an objection at once on the score of expense and the architect is asked to reduce the size to come within the owner's means.

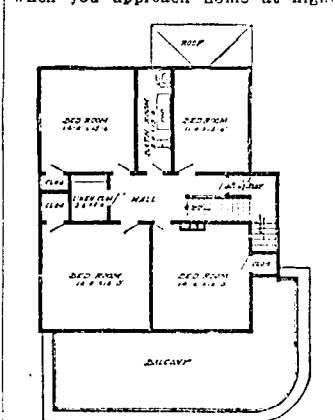

This is a difficult task. In the first place the owner has got his ideas up to a rather pretentious house and he has decided that he wants four bedrooms, which, with bathroom, hall and stairway means that he must either have a house about the size of this one or he must cut down the size of the rooms considerably. The decision usually is to make the rooms smaller, but this often alters the appearance of the house until the general effect is disappointing.

If a person can stand the expense this eight-room house plan is a good one; the proportions are right and the floor space is utilized to the very best advantage for convenience, sanitation and general utility, when considered as a home for a good sized family.

A great deal of time has been devoted to the stairway to make it one of the most complete house stairways ever built. It is easy to look at a stair when finished and admire it, but only architects realize how difficult it is to start with a naked plan and build a stair that will connect all parts of the house, including the cellar and the before deciding on any plan or design I find that it is necessary for people who are not accustomed to reading architectural drawing to study the subject in this way in order to get a clear idea of what the plans, elevations and specifications really mean. The study of a book of house plans will often result in a building entirely different from the one first decided upon.

There are so many different styles of roofs, for instance, and the roof has a good deal to do with the value of the house. If you like the roof, you are almost sure to like the house. It is a sort of introduction from a distance. It is the first thing you see when you approach home at night.

Second Floor Plan.

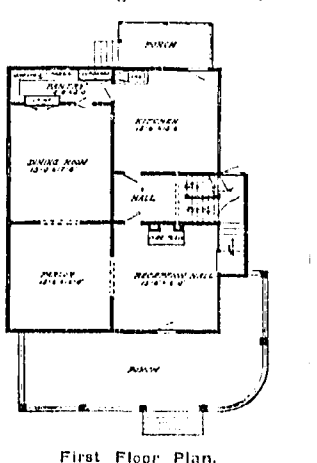

and the last thing you see upon leaving in the morning.

A good roof has a good deal to do with the real value as well as the sentimental value of a dwelling. Some roofs are so made that snow piles up in the corners to melt and freeze and back up the water so you have to get up in the night and set pans, and pails around at different places to catch the drips. This happens with comparatively new roofs that are improperly constructed. There are a attic, in a neat, convenient combination that will not eat into the cubic space unnecessarily.

This stairway is the product of the inventive genius of several generations of architects and it deserves very careful consideration on the part of the owner when he starts to build. There are many house plans in which the stairway is made to occupy a great deal more room than it should, while interfering with some of the

S. Northwest to United States.
The death of Francis Xavier Mathieu in Aurora, Ore., at the age of ninety-six years, reveals a maker of history. It is claimed that the vote of this French pioneer preserved a great slice of the northwest to the United States. The old Oregon territory, including Oregon, Washington, Idaho and a part of Wyoming, once trembled in the balance. May 3, 1843, settlers assembled at Champeog, Ore., to decide whether they should be under British rule or the rule of the United States. Two lines formed, one for the British and one for the United States, and when the count was made there were fifty-one on each side. For many minutes the men of the two lines glared at one another and not a word was spoken. Suddenly, to the surprise of all, Mathieu, a Frenchman, born and reared under the British flag, stepped out of the British line and walked slowly to the American line and Oregon was saved to this country.—Springfield Republican.

New Yorker Shoots Polar Bear.
The shooting of the first polar bear was delegated to Mr. S. Osgood Pell of New York, a privilege of no secondary kind in a party of rather keen sporting appetites. It was midnight—the transparent gauze of a half darkness. A sailor called our attention to a blot of white moving cautiously toward the ship, and in a few minutes the ungainly bulk of a polar bear was plainly visible, ambling along faster and faster. When within a hundred yards he uttered an angry growl and her passengers off the map of the Arctic. Mr. Pell's first shot hit him in the shoulder and tumbled him off the ice. Mr. Pell's second shot hit him in the head and he fell. He attempted to dive, but after he took a line on him and landed four or five shots before he gave up the fight. We lowered a small boat, photographed Mr. Pell and his bear, and brought the first real trophy proudly aboard.—Wide World Magazine.

House Moved Over Street Car.

A large private house in San Francisco was recently moved along a narrow street to a new site in the adjoining block without blocking street car or vehicle traffic. A single-track cable-car line runs along the center of the street, and the width of the house was too great to permit it to be moved longitudinally along either side of the street at ground level without obstructing the car track. The street railway company objected to any interference with its service, so the contractor resorted to the expedient of jacking the structure to a sufficient height to permit cars to pass beneath it. Crib work was then placed on the skids to support the house and moving operations were performed in the ordinary method.—Engineering Record.

NO LEGAL WAY TO STOP HIM.

However brave the policemen are, they are careful about not breaking the laws and ordinances. A patrolman was kicking his feet down on one of the docks on the river front the other morning, when an excited citizen ran up to him and cried: "Say, hurry up! A man has just jumped off the pier!" "With his clothes on?" asked the officer.

"Yes—fully dressed. Hurry!"

"What do you want me to do? There ain't no ordinance against a man swimmin' as long as he's properly dressed."—Philadelphia Times.

Disqualified.

"I should like to be excused, your lordship," said a man who had been summoned on a jury.

"What for?"

"I owe a man $5 and I want to hunt him up and pay it."

"Do you mean to tell this court you would hunt up a man to pay a bill instead of waiting for him to hunt you up?"

"Yes, your lordship."

"You are excused. I don't want any man on the jury who will lie like that."—London Chronicle.

GOOD PARTNERSHIP.

Cholly—Well, I hear that you and Grace are to become life partners.

George—Yes, she puts in the capital and I put in the experience.

A Beauty Spot.

I kissed her on the spot.

Of nectar I did sip;

But when I'd finished kissing

That spot stuck to my lip.

A Rare Work.

Fogg reports that he overheard this in the book department of one of our big stores:

Customer—Have you Arnold's poems?

Saleslady (turning to head of department)—Miss Simpson, have we Benedict Arnold's poems?—Boston Transcript.

An Investor.

"I had my fortune told the other day," said one woman.

"What a waste of money!" said the other.

"Not at all. I gave the woman 50 cents and she informed me that I am to inherit a hundred thousand dollars. Wasn't that a bargain?"

Gloomy Alternative.

"Will you make a speech at that banquet?"

"I don't know whether to do so or not," replied the eminent personage.

"When you make a speech nowadays, it either attracts so little attention that you're disappointed or so much that you're embarrassed."

Not Exactly the Expected Answer.

Professor—What produces sound waves?

Student—I don't know, sir.

"Well, here I speak to you for 15 minutes, and that which proceeds from my mouth produces sound waves; now, what is it?"

"Hot air!"

HOUSE MOVED OVER STREET CAR.

A large private house in San Francisco was recently moved along a narrow street to a new site in the adjoining block without blocking street car or vehicle traffic. A single-track cable-car line runs along the center of the street, and the width of the house was too great to permit it to be moved longitudinally along either side of the street at ground level without obstructing the car track. The street railway company objected to any interference with its service, so the contractor resorted to the expedient of jacking the structure to a sufficient height to permit cars to pass beneath it. Crib work was then placed on the skids to support the house and moving operations were performed in the ordinary method.—Engineering Record.

PATIENCE PERSONIFIED.

The man who shot himself only after he had married his eighth wife must have been astonished at his own moderation.
