MISS GOTTSALK SAFE IN LONDON

Her Mother Receives Cablegram Announcing Her Arrival in That City From Berlin

Word was received by Mrs. H. Gottshalk, of 427 Boulevard, this week, from her daughter Miss Belle Gottshalk and her niece, Miss Hannah Gottshalk, of Bethlehem, Pa., announcing their safe arrival in London from Berlin. Miss Gottshalk and her cousin had lived in Berlin since the fall of 1908, when Miss Gottshalk left this town to study music under Madam Gaska, a prominent German instructor. The two ladies were in Denmark for the summer and when the war broke out they returned from Denmark to Berlin to get their belongings. When Miss Gottshalk received the cablegram from her daughter her mind was considerably eased as she was becoming worried as to where her daughter and niece were.

Miss Belle Gottshalk has won fame abroad with her beautiful high soprano voice. She was graduated from the Westfield High School and Mount Holyoke College. Last winter she sang in grand opera at Lodz, Russia, and has also sung in the largest opera house in Russia. She was to have sung in grand opera in Berlin during the coming winter and was to have returned to that city tomorrow. Miss Gottshalk planned to return home next summer but owing to the war she has cancelled her engagement and will probably come home as soon as she can get passage on a steamer to America.

Miss Gottshalk is considered to be one of the luckiest young women in this town, as by the will of her uncle, David Gottshalk, of Bethlehem, Pa., father of Miss Hannah Gottshalk, she was bequeathed several thousand dollars if she took up a musical education. As a child she decided to study to become a great vocalist and as a girl she took part in the Christmas cantatas at the Presbyterian church, and her fine voice was heard in the church choir for many years.

Miss Hannah Gottshalk has acted as a chaperone for her cousin and when she decided to go to Berlin she went with her and has been her constant companion ever since. Miss Gottshalk's great uncle was a great composer of music and his name is well known in the musical world. Miss Gottshalk and her cousin left Berlin in June to spend the summer in Denmark.

COMES IN CONTACT WITH LIVE WIRE.

Frank Parries, of Ripley place, who is one of the town's tree men working under B. C. Howell, of Chestnut street, who has the contract to trim the shade trees of the town, was badly burned on the right forearm and hand on Monday, while using a pruning hook in Broad street, near the First Methodist church property.

Parries was pruning a limb when the metal cutter, came in contact with a live wire, the current running down the rod to his hand and arm. Parries called for help and other workmen pulled him away from the tree. Parries went to Casey's pharmacy for treatment and from there was sent to Dr. G. S. Laird's office on Central avenue, where the burns were dressed.

The burns while painful were not serious.

Have a Pleasant Sail.

Instead of going on the outing of the Merchants Association to Coney Island on Wednesday afternoon the owners and employees of the Lawrence store on Broad street, enjoyed a sail around Staten Island in Chester B. Moffett's motorboat, the "Phantom."

The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lawrence and son, George Archbold and Miss Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Moffett, Elmer Goodman, A. D. Marengi and Miss Harris. They all left here in two large automobiles for Sewaren, where they boarded the "Phantom."

LOCAL REPORTER FIRED.

Yes, he was actually fired but not in the way of which you are thinking. A Standard reporter was very busy interviewing a lady in town yesterday morning about some recent happenings when his attention was directed to the smell of smoke. He asked the lady if she noticed it, to which she replied in the affirmative. The two then began an investigation. The reporter soon saw smoke coming from his coat pocket and putting his hand into his pocket he located the fire. There was some hustling for a few minutes but the fire was soon extinguished and it was not necessary to call out the fire department.

The reporter, like a good many other men who smoke, carries matches loosely in his pocket and in some way the matches ignited. No serious damage was done but the lady was frightened and the reporter is suffering from the burns he received when extinguishing the fire. Now, Cal, be a sport and buy a match safe.

He is Now Preparing for a Campaign
In Union County

John H. Capstick who is one of the Republican candidates for the nomination of Congressman at the coming primaries is a resident of Montville, near Boonton. His claim for the office of Congressman is that experienced business men should be in Congress. He is an enthusiastic advocate of protective tariff. He thinks that the tariff should not be high enough to cause monopoly but high enough to protect the manufacturer and laboring men. Mr. Capstick is a great friend of the laboring men. He also makes the claim that the office of Congressman in the Morris County as it has not had a representative in over twenty-five years. Mr. Capstick is preparing for a campaign through Union county where he has a number of warm supporters.

JOHN H. CAPSTICK.

COMMON BAG WORM NOT ARMY WORM

Is Causing the Trouble With Westfield's Trees. Its Depredations Not Likely to Be Serious

The pest, which a week or so ago made its appearance on a few of the trees on Broad street and Elm street, has been reported the past few days as spreading through the town. In an interview with tree commissioner B. C. Howell this morning, Mr. Howell stated to a Standard reporter that the pest is not the army worm as previously reported but is the common bag worm. To satisfy himself that his judgment was correct, Mr. Howell had sent specimens of the worm to the department of agriculture at Washington and this morning received word from them confirming his suspicion.

Mr. Howell said that the insects seemed to be confining their attacks to the young maples but the damage done he thinks will not be serious. The trees so far treated are showing marked improvement; now buds are beginning to show and Mr. Howell thinks the trees will probably be in foliage again this summer.

He was instructed by the members of the Board to re-advertise for those bids. Other business pertaining to the new school were brought up and discussed.

MERCHANTS ENJOY ANNUAL OUTING

To Coney Island. Saw All There
Was to be Seen and Returned Home At an Early Hour

The fifth annual outing of the Retail Merchants Association to Coney Island was held on Wednesday afternoon and it goes without saying that the twenty or more who attended had an enjoyable time such as is always to be had at this popular resort. The merchants went by train and left here on the 1:06 train and went from New York by boat, arriving at the Island about three o'clock. A few of the merchants made the trip by automobile. Upon arriving at "Coney" they proceeded to take in the sights and amusement places to be found there until five o'clock, when they went to Henderson's where they had dinner.

While eating dinner Gus Danker qualified as a leader of the orchestra and also proved to his brother merchants that he never takes a dare, as one of the merchants told Gus that he did not dare get up and lead the orchestra which was playing popular airs during the meal. Gus took the dare and those who saw him declare he did as well as any professional.

After the dinner the merchants again sallied forth to do the Island. They took in Steeplechase, all the scenic railways, Luna Park, etc. A. B. Hutchinson and E. C. McMahon proved their ability to throw a ball and as a result of their efforts the former brought home a doll baby and the latter a poodle dog.

It is said that F. H. Schaefer spent most of his time in Steeplechase park. The merchants who were with him say that he told them he was there on business, taking note of the different styles of hosiery.

At eleven o'clock the return trip was begun and the merchants arrived here at 2 o'clock tired but well pleased with their annual outing at Coney Island. Those who went by automobile arrived home at one o'clock.

The merchants who went were A. B. Hutchinson, Warren French, Augustus Nash, Charles Clark, F. H. Schaefer, W. H. Barton, M. B. Walker, Elmer Reynolds, August Danker, G. W. Baker, E. C. McMahon, Henry Danker, Horace Martin, Edward Woodruff, J. H. Wells, Samuel Silberg, Arthur Irving, S. Schlenger, Benjamin Kissam, Fred Toms, Phil Brady and Karl Baumann.

MANY SIGNING PETITIONS.

Petitions endorsing Arthur N. Pierson for the Assembly nomination on the Republican ticket at the coming primary election are being circulated by the friends of Mr. Pierson. He is receiving endorsement from all classes of citizens. Many Democrats have expressed their disappointment at not being able to sign his petition.

ARTHUR N. PIERSON.

Those who wish to sign his petition will find one at Edward N. Brown's place of business, 47 Elm street.

Mr. Pierson is not only receiving the endorsement of the citizens of his home town but throughout the county, where he is well and favorably known.

TO MARRY TOMORROW.

Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock, Miss Harriet Beck, of Downer street, will become the bride of James F. Bush, of West Broad street. The ceremony will be performed in Irvington, at the home of a former minister of the Bush family. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in this town.

Miss Beck was formerly manager of the local office of the Public Service Corporation and Mr. Bush is in the employ of Tuttle Brothers.

MOSQUITO COMMISSION COMPLETING WORK

But Few Swamps Left to be Drained,
Then—"Good-bye, Mr. Mosquito."

The Union County Mosquito Commission with the co-operation of the owners have drained and filled nearly every important pool and swamp in Westfield, lying between Broad street and Springfield avenue, and North avenue to Woodland, with the exception of those bordering on Clark street and Dudley and North avenues, numbering about 13.

On upper Prospect street, bordering on Mountside and belonging to Mr. Percy Cook and which he has promised to drain, and four more on the edge of the woods, just north, and which we hope through the owner to also have abated. When these are finally done away with, Westfield can thank these owners for their public spiritedness in ridding the town of these breeding places.

CONVENTIONS OF THREE PARTIES

The Geran Law Provides for Them
All to be Held on One Day in Trenton

Three political State conventions, Republican, Democratic and Progressive will be held in Trenton on Tuesday, September 29, as provided by the Geran election act. The Geran act provides that each State Convention shall be held at the city of Trenton on the Tuesday following the holding of the primary election in each year. The Socialists and Prohibitionists have not yet shown enough votes in the State to entitle them to a State convention under the Geran law.

The Republican convention will be composed of the five held-over Republican Senators, who are: Edgar, of Atlantic; White, of Burlington; Hutchinson, of Mercer; Rathbun, of Morris; and Mathis, of Ocean; the eight Republican candidates for Senator in the counties already enumerated; the sixty candidates for the Assembly and the twenty-one members of the Republican State Committee. This will give the Republicans 94 delegates.

The Democratic convention will be composed of Governor Fielder; the eight Democratic hold-over Senators, who are Hennessy, of Bergen; Wheaton, of Cape May; Ackley, of Cumberland; Egan, of Hudson; Martens, of Hunterdon; Ramsay, of Middlesex; McGinnis, of Passaic; and Munson, of Sussex; the Democratic candidates for Senator in the eight counties which elect Senators, viz., Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem, Somerset, Union and Warren; the sixty candidates for the House of Assembly and the twenty-one members of the Democratic State Committee. This will make the Democratic Convention consist of 98 delegates.

The Progressives have no members in the Senate. If they nominate full tickets in every county, their convention will consist of eight candidates for the Senate, the sixty candidates for the Assembly and the twenty-one members of their State Committee, giving them a convention of 85 delegates.

The only work these conventions will have to do will be to adopt and promulgate the respective State platforms upon which the battle for the election on November 3 will be fought, and to make arrangements for conducting the respective campaigns. The real work of the campaign, however, will be delegates to the State Committees.

MET AT TOWN LAKE.

The members of the Park Commission and Town Plan and Art Commission met at the town lake on Broad street Wednesday night at six o'clock and went over all the lake and park property. The Park Commission members showed the Town Plan Commission members the land they wish to acquire for park purposes and gave their reasons for wanting it.

While no plans were discussed it is expected that at the meeting of the Town Plan and Art Commission to be held on the fourth Tuesday in this month the matter will be discussed at considerable length and some recommendations made.

No Meeting Held By Park Commission.

Owing to the absence from town of President A. L. Russell, of the Park Commission and there being no important business to come before the Board of Park Commissioners the regular meeting of the Commission scheduled for Monday night was not held.

EDUCATIONAL SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 13

State Commissioner Urges Day be Set Apart to Consider Advantages of Educational Institutions

An appeal has been sent broadcast throughout the state that Sunday, September 13, be observed as Educational Sunday. This appeal has been sent out by State Commissioner of Education, Calvin N. Kendall and approved by Governor Fielder. It reads as follows:

To the Clergy and the People of the State of New Jersey:

Upon the opening of our schools and colleges, public and private, during the month of September, hundreds of thousands of young people in the State will return to their studies. Though these educational institutions afford numerous and various means of securing an education many of those enjoying the privileges cannot fully appreciate the provision that is being made for their training.

In order that pupils, teachers, parents and citizens may more fully realize the aims and advantages of our educational institutions the clergy of the State are invited to join with their respective congregations in observing an Educational Sunday, the thirteenth of September.

In such a service the opportunities provided for securing an education might be explained and the value resulting therefrom set forth. The need of cooperation on the part of parents and teachers might be emphasized to the end that both may endeavor to search out and respect the individuality of pupils in the effort to develop those habits of mind and traits of character which distinguish the efficient citizen.

The home, the church, and the school are three great factors in human uplift and development. Such a service would tend to unify the aim and effort of home, church and school and would impress upon the young the desirability of taking advantage of their educational opportunities and be helpful in increasing the efficiency of our educational institutions.

CALVIN N. KENDALL,
Commissioner of Education.
I heartily approve the foregoing recommendations.
JAMES F. FIELDER,
Governor.

K. OF C. COUNCIL EXTENDS SYMPATHY

Secretary Directed to Send Letter of Condolence to President
Wilson

At the meeting of Westfield Council, Knights of Columbus, held in Columbus hall on Wednesday night, in addition to the other business of the Council transacted, the recording secretary was instructed to send the following letter of sympathy and condolence to President Woodrow Wilson:

Westfield, N. J., Aug. 12, 1914.
Hon. WOODROW WILSON,
The President,
Whitehouse, Washington, D. C.
Sir—I have the honor to write and inform you that the Westfield Council No. 1711, Knights of Columbus, Westfield, N. J., in special meeting assembled, unanimously begs to convey to you and your family, in this hour of your sad bereavement, our profound sympathy and our most fervent prayer, that you be given the strength to bear this supreme trial with the same fortitude and abiding faith for which you have become distinguished amongst the Rulers of the earth, and which have won for you the respectful regard of all the American people.

The gentle spirit who has been called away from your side was beloved by all, for her quiet but untiring zeal for the cultivation of the highest ideals of Christian womanhood and the helping of the unfortunate to improve their condition. Her memory will long be an inspiration and an ennobling ideal in every American home.

Respectfully,
A. D. Marengi,

PARENT'S DAY NEXT THURSDAY

Miss Putnam Has Prepared Interesting Program of Events,
Playground Still an Attraction
For the Children

The Playground at the Washington school park still proves to be a great drawing card for the children of the town who are to be found there in large numbers daily enjoying the amusements which have been provided by the Playground Commission and which are under the supervision of Miss Putnam, the instructor, who is assisted by Mr. Huber. To-date there have been $300 children on the playground since it opened, which goes to show that the playground has been a success this year as it was last. Through the kindness of the Playground Commission, the children of the Coles Memorial Home, at Mountside, have been granted the privilege of using the playground twice a week and about fifty children from this home have been on the grounds in the mornings and enjoyed themselves on the apparatus. They are in charge of attendants and do not give any trouble at all to Miss Putnam or Mr. Huber.

On Thursday of next week Miss Putnam has planned to have a parent's day on the playground, and all the parents of the children are cordially invited to attend. This will be the first annual parent's day and the program which Miss Putnam has arranged will begin at 2:30 in the afternoon. In case of rain it will be postponed until the next pleasant day.

CHILDREN CLEAN UP NORTH STREET YARDS

For the second time this summer the children living on North street, between Central avenue and South avenue, have cleaned up the backyards and a section of the street. Most of the children are Italians and are to be commended for their work.

ROSELLE VICTIMS OF WESTFIELD'S SPEED

Teams Play Snappy Ball. Sharp Fielding a Feature

Westfield traveled afar to Roselle Saturday and triumph over the home team by the score of 6 to 1, the game took an hour and a half, and was very well played from start to finish. Pearsall while hit hard at times, pitched a heady game, while the team prove right in back of him throughout.

Captain Green's work at first base was a stone wall of defence, making man that made him look like his old self again.

Green started the game when he looked safe one an infield hit to Patterson, but was called out. Strickland misjudged Crutty's grounds and he was safe. He took second on Vallean's sacrifice but Austin scored on Worth's hit.

In Roselle's half, Strickland struck out, Ryan worked Pearsall for a pass, Vallean was under Brophy's fly, H. Davis hit safe, but the inning was over when Saunders made a nice running catch out in deep left of G. Davis' line drive.

Each side went out in order in the second inning, but the fans found the third full of life. Pearsall went out on strikes then Green picked one for two bases and while Crutty was letting the umpire call things on him twice and then take a swing, Green went to third on a passed ball, but Vallean hit a weak fly to the pitcher and was out at first, ending Westfield's half. Proudfoot opened Roselle's half with a clean hit, Strickland then hit to Crutty, who seeing he was too late to get Proudfoot at second, played first. Proudfoot seeing third uncovered started for third and beat Crutty to the bag. Pearsall then hits Ryan with the ball, who steals second, while Brophy falls before Pearsall's speed.

GREEN MAKING ONE HAND STAB DAVIS' LINE DRIVE.

then Green saved the day when he made a one hand stab of Davis' line drive about eighty feet over first base.

Westfield found Proudfoot generous in the fourth but failed to score. Wain walked but went out stealing, Crutty struck out, Dallas received four balls and was safe at second when Patterson dropped the catchers throw to catch him stealing and took third on a passed ball, Saunders walked and then stole, Hunt went to first when he felt one of Proudfoot's inshoots in the ribs, Pearsall proved easy and struck out.

In the fifth Green hit safe, Crutty forced him at second, and went to third on Vallean's long hit while Vallean took second on the throw-in, Worth's hit scored both for two runs but Austin and Dallas were out.

Westfield scored three more in the seventh on two errors, a hit batsman and a single. Roselle opened their half when Davis hit safe and stole, Bradshaw worked Pearsall for a pass, Patterson hit to Austin, who made a pretty stop and tagged Bradshaw as he passed and played first in time to get Patterson; Davis in the meantime was on his way to the plate, but Green's throw was true and Hunt had him in a bad hole in the eighth, but the team's right support and Roselle scored but one run on two bases on balls and a single.

The Westfield fielding throughout the game was of a high standard; Jimmy Austin subbing for Recordon put up a fine game at second base. While Saunders work in left field was of the Schenck type.

Tomorrow Elizabeth will line up against the locals, who will have Pearsall in the box.

Too Quiet a Fire.

A fire at Cologne is described with true American spirit in "Europe After 8:15."

"It was in a feed store near my hotel, and I got there before the firemen. When they came at last, in their tin pot hats, they got out half a dozen big squirts and rushed into the building with them. Then, when it was out, they put the squirts back into their little express wagon and drove off. You never saw such child's play—not a line of hose run out, not an engine puffing, not a gong heard, not a soul letting out a whoop. It was more like a Sunday school picnic than a fire. I guess if these people ever did have a civilized blaze it would scare them to death. But they never have any. Well, what can you expect? A country where all the charwomen are men and all the garbage men are women."

Lincoln's Appearance.

Senator Dawes, describing Lincoln's appearance on the morning of his arrival in Washington, ten days before his first inauguration, wrote: "I never saw a man so unkempt. His hair was disheveled and his clothes were the ones he had worn on the sleeper from Springfield. He was long and angular. It seemed as though his body was made up of component parts of different bodies—as though his head were not in the right place. Rough and uncomely, he was a typical backwoodsman. But there was something incomprehensible in his face, something unfathomable."

Hinduism.

In "Myths of the Hindus and Buddhists" is given this account of the origin of Hinduism: "Hinduism is, in fact, an immense synthesis, deriving its elements from a hundred different directions and incorporating every conceivable motive of religion. The motives of religion are manifold. Earth worship, sun worship, nature worship, sky worship, honor paid to heroes and ancestors, mother worship, father worship, prayers for the dead, the mystic association of certain plants and animals—all these and more are included within Hinduism. And each marks some single age of the past, with its characteristic conjunction or invasion of races formerly alien to one another. They are all welded together now to form a great whole. But still by visits to outlying shrines, by the study of the literature of certain periods and by carefully following up of threads it is possible to determine what were some of the influences that have entered into its making."

Guarded Himself Pretty Well.

Not many people guard their health so carefully as did Sir Tatton Sykes, who in winter wore five or six coats when out riding and shed some of them as he became warmer. Prince Poliakine, however, took even stronger precautions against illness. If there was a touch of cold in the air he had fires lighted in his grounds before venturing to stroll in them. His waistcoats were made in two separate pieces, joined at the sides by buttons, so that he could take them off or put additional ones on without removing his coat. If caught in a shower he sheltered himself with an umbrella nearly two feet wide which came down below his waist and was pleated with little windows. In very bad weather the prince wore boots coated with tin as a protection against mud dogs and carried spencers soaped with vinegar in his shirt front to ward off unpleasant smells.

THEATRES

Officially the new theatrical season was ushered in last week when F. Ray Constock presented "The Third Party," a new farcical comedy in three acts at the Shubert Theatre, with Taylor Holmes and Walter Jones as the co-stars. The play is fun from beginning to end and all of the three acts are crowded with humorous incidents and snappy lines. So great a success did the piece score that the New York American praised it in the following glowing terms:

"If New York really appreciates a good show, lots of good laughs a great deal of humor and topped off with lots of fine action, the management will be compelled to keep 'The Third Party' on the boards for at least one solid year." Every subsequent audience has laughed greater than the first night audience and the business has steadily increased.

Christopher Pottinger (Walter Jones) a member of Parliament, comes to the Royale Restaurant with a pretty dancer. As there are no private dining rooms available, the proprietor suggests that Mr. Pottinger have luncheon with the dancer and a chaperone. Hillary Chester (Taylor Holmes) a man-about-town, poses as Mr. Cazazza, the official chaperone of the restaurant, and as the trio is just beginning to get acquainted, Mrs. Pottinger enters with her sister and brother. Pottinger introduces the chaperone as Mr. Cazazza and the dancer as Mrs. Cazazza. Thereupon Mrs. Pottinger invites the entire party to her country home and here so many complications arise that the audience is kept almost in the unpleasant state of having to laugh constantly. Chester is engaged to a Miss Mayne who is stopping with the Pottingers and when he is confronted by his fiancée and introduced as Mr. Cazazza, one can readily imagine the uproar. Then there is a country magistrate who the week before had won additional renown by sending a man and woman to jail who had been posing as husband and wife. When this fact is told to Mr. Cazazza he all but succumbs on the spot. Just as he is planning to escape, a terrific thunderstorm comes up and the home is struck by lightning. The ending of this scene is humorous in the extreme. The play has been admirably cast for in addition to Mr. Holmes and Mr. Jones are Marjorie Wood, Jefferys Lewis, Jobyna Howland, Alma Belwin, Richard W. Temple, Alfred Hesse, Alfred Wells, William Gibson and others.
The matinees are on Wednesday and Saturday.

Sylvester Schaffer, who is known all over the continent as the most versatile artist on the variety stage today, will make his American debut at the 44th Street Theatre this Monday evening, August 17th, surrounded by his own European company of novelties. He will be preceded by Herr S. Rachman, the German Impresario, by an arrangement with the Shubert Theatrical Company. It is announced that beginning with the first performance Mr. Schaffer will appear nightly including Sundays with madness on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

It is no easy task to describe everything that Mr. Schaffer does or to convey the proper conception of a man who gives an entire performance by himself. Perhaps a better understanding of his work may be arrived at by saying that he is not, as many persons suppose, a so-called protean actor. His performance is at once marvellous on account of the wide range of his accomplishments in all of which he seems to excel. He astounds one with his coin and card manipulations. Next he completes an oil painting or a "Delft." Thereupon he proves himself a master at juggling really surpassing the dexterity of the Japanese. Next he appears on a noble steed riding to perfection. Then he exhibits the familiar German lehran feats using dogs instead of children. In marksmanship this versatile young fellow shows more than ordinary skill and, by way of adding to his accomplishments he plays the violin in a way to compel admiration. He rides a chariot, performs Olympian games, doing wonderful athletic feats without giving the impression of the usual "strong man of the stage." In his exhibition Mr. Schaffer uses many animals including a half dozen horses, deer, foxes, a bear and many other dumb actors.

Preceding his performance will be seen the Sisters Althoff, two impressionistic children pianists who were brought from Germany by Herr Rachman, the Horelick Troupe of 15 men and women dancers and four or five well known American performers.

"CABIRIA."

At Proctor's Park Place Theatre, Newark, August 31.

The most stupendous of all motion picture spectacles—CABIRIA—which is now packing the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York, and which has created a sensation the like of which has never been witnessed here or abroad, will be the attraction at Proctor's Park Place Theatre, Newark, beginning Monday, August 31.

The presentation of this gorgeous and mammoth achievement in motion picture enterprise, will mark the re-opening of Newark's most popular playhouse and the inaugural of an entirely new policy about which more will be announced later.

The opportunity to witness CABIRIA at a popular scale of prices should prove welcome to the people of this city. Apart from its tremendous educational value CABIRIA should be seen because it will stand out for years to come as the most wonderful the most remarkable, the most colossal film drama ever produced.

CABIRIA was written and personally staged by Gabriele D'Annunzio, the distinguished Italian poet who has contributed several extraordinary successes to the modern stage. It cost $250,000 to produce this magnificent drama and several hundred men, and women artists of superior histrionic ability appear in its unfolding. Thousands of supernumeraries and thousands of animals of all kinds are in the picture forming the greatest ensembles ever shown.

Annoying Either Way.
Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, at the recent benefit of the Authors' society in New York, said to a reporter: "I like to see authors work together in harmony. Authors are prone, you know, to be a little bit unfriendly. I said once to a noted playwright: 'How is it that I never see you at any of your confreres' first nights?' 'Well,' he replied, 'I'll tell you. If the play is bad it annoys me, and if it's good it annoys me, too.'"

Credited to Gratification.

A member of the Pacific Union club, San Francisco, owns a handsome place up in Marion county in which he takes great pride. A few days ago he was boasting that he made $6,000 off it last year. "Did you include the earnings of the farm when you made your income-tax return?" asked an irreverent son of Bonifia. "I did not. Why should I?" "Why you said you made $6,000 from it." "Oh, that wasn't actually cash; $5,000 of it was personal gratification."

Standard Tests for Hemp.
According to a report from the American consul at Hongkong, the fiber division of the bureau of agriculture at Manila is conducting extensive experiments for the purpose of establishing scientific standards for testing hemp, in lieu of the present methods according to which experts of many years' experience judge the quality and value of the product by sight and touch. The new tests will be based upon the relation between the weight of a meter length of the fiber and the breaking strain. Tests for single filers will be varied with tests for twisted fibers. As soon as this system of tests is fully worked out it will be put into effect in the Philippine hemp market.

To Force Flower Bulbs.

Place the bulb in the center of a good-sized sponge, set it in a pretty dish and keep the sponge wet. After the bulb is well started, scatter some grass seed over the surface of the sponge. To make geraniums branch out and blossom, place a common pin directly in the center of the end of the main stalk. To force crocuses indoors, put a thin layer of absorbent cotton on a dinner plate. Place the crocus bulbs on this and cover with another layer of cotton about two inches deep. Keep the underneath layer damp, and from time to time, as the top cotton gets dusty, add a little fresh cotton. Put the plate where it will get plenty of sunshine, and the crocuses will grow through the cotton. Bulbs that are making slow progress, although they have formed good roots, may be forced by placing the crocus in a pan and pouring at least an inch of boiling water around the bottoms. Give them sufficient sunshine and turn them daily that each side may benefit by the sun.

Forced Napoleon to Yield.

The abdication of Napoleon was negotiated one hundred years ago April 5. The plenipotentiaries of Napoleon arrived in Paris at 10 o'clock in the morning and were immediately received by the Emperor of Russia, who was the dominating spirit among the allied sovereigns. The Russian emperor, after a moment of deliberation with the allied princes and their ministers, informed the negotiators that the maintenance of the imperial dynasty was out of the question. The offer of the island of Elba as an asylum for the de-throned emperor was then made, together with the promise of a principality in Italy for Maria Louisa and the King of Rome. Napoleon endeavored to secure greater concessions in the interest of his family, but these were denied him and six days later he unconditionally yielded up his throne.

Bench Has a Sobering Effect.

"I have become acquainted with about fifty or more district judges of Kansas, as well as a dozen or fifteen supreme justices, and one characteristic of practically all of them that has greatly impressed me is their utter lack of arrogance, self-assertion and domineering instinct," writes Judge J. C. Ruppenthal of Russell. "The loudmouthed swashbuckler who eats the enemy alive, who loudly lays down the law (which none knew so well as he), in the court room, on the street, in the hotel lobbies and wherever he can gather a gaping, awestruck group, to tell what he would do as judge, either never reaches the bench, or is transformed into a model of meekness, cautious, wary of gratuitous opinions, when given power and charged with responsibility."—Kansas City Star.

Simplified Spelling Pioneer.

A hardy pioneer makes monthly appeal to our notice. "The Pioneer of Simplified Spelling" certainly has the courage of its convictions; it carries the principle of phonetic orthography (we acknowledge the contradiction in terms) to its remorseless limit. Without going beyond the latest issue, we note such headings as "Mr. Sexton's Scorn," "Volses From Across the Channel," "A Hed Mistres's Apologia," "Neetz and Nyuz," "Pres Cuttings of the Month." Who can fail to admire the unabashed insistence on forms like "woz" for unreformed "was," "poet" for "pet," "mistaken" for "mistaken," and "chain" for "changa"? Bravo! Better a few wel stue tu than the truth waitin' ing.

Boom in Calcium Carbide.

The world's output of calcium carbide in 1913 exceeded 350,000 metric tons, says the Engineering and Mining Journal. The autogenous welding of metals requires a large quantity, about 22,000 tons being consumed for that purpose in Germany, as compared with 28,000 tons for illuminating. The price for calcium carbide in Europe was maintained at about £11 10s per ton. The production and price are regulated by a syndicate, which at the end of 1913 was renewed for another term.

Celtic Opera Trilogy.

London is to hear another opera by Lord Howard de Walden and Mr. Joseph Holbrooke this summer. It is entitled "Dylan" and is to be produced on July 4, 9 and 17, at Drury Lane, during the Beecham season. "Dylan" is a sequel to "The Children of Don," which was produced by Mr. Hammerstein in 1912 at the London Opera house, and it forms the second of a trilogy of Celtic operas.

Make Haste Slowly.

From time to time, there have been suggestions that extending street improvements in the outlying districts of Westfield has already reached the limit for safety. The fact that over 75 per cent of the frontage on improvements made during the past six or eight years is still without buildings, suggests that a halt be made in any further extensions of our improvements until some of the property now within the improved limits shall be built upon.

Economy and efficiency would seem to support such a program as the present town budget would carry an increase of 25 per cent of buildings, if located within the present improved zone, with but little or no increase. The present street lights, the sewer system, our fire and police departments, the town expenses, hydrant service, our sinking fund, interest charges, etc. would furnish service for these additional buildings.

The proposal seems to be based on sound business principle and is worthy of the serious consideration of the Board of Trade, Merchants' Association, Town Council, and other official bodies.

Let Westfield be clever in her economy and efficiency as well as her improvements and other affairs. Even gold dollars are dear if they come too high or if we cannot find ready or profitable use for them.

Better Never Late.

It is becoming quite an ordinary sight to see the street cleaning crew at work along the streets in the center of our town. They are seemingly an indispensable part of our town's welfare. But as important as they may be, the crew of tree men under Forester Howell, who are now going over the trees along the streets and giving them needed trimming and attention is a far more indispensable and important feature than the street cleaning crew. The tree men are doing work that will not avail if not done at the proper time, and contributing to the welfare of our trees, which, when once destroyed, no amount of money can replace.

We hope our town fathers will not cease their efforts in preserving the trees at any cost until the tree pests have been eradicated and our trees are in the highest state of preservation. It is better late than never, but it is more true about trees than anything else, that it is better never late.

Keep Contributions at Home.

Every day we read in the papers of large contributions being raised by the sympathizers of some of the powers who are at war in Europe. These amounts run into millions, and we presume the money will come in handy for the war chests which are under tremendous strains at the present time. Without being at all selfish, it would seem that the people of the United States will be obliged to pay their share for the war in the increased cost of food stuff and the upsetting of many economic conditions.

This is about all that our people should contribute, and if the residents in this country are bound to go back to take up arms for their fatherlands, any money provided by the sympathizers make for the war should be kept right in this country to keep the families and dependents of those who have gone from being objects of charity as they are bound to be to a greater or less degree.

A Merchant Marine.

For several generations, there has been more or less discussion as to the merchant marine, but each time the subject has been discussed or legislation proposed to bring it about it has been side-tracked or killed.

On Tuesday, Congressman Moss of West Virginia, introduced a bill appropriating forty million dollars for the construction and operation of a merchant marine. There is little question but that this bill will fail; as it is not good business for the Government to go into the shipping business. Every attempt of the kind heretofore made has been a failure.

The ship subsidy, which answers every purpose that the Government need have of the merchant marine in the time of war, is the only way to handle the Government side of this situation. A subsidy large enough to meet the difference between the wage of American seamen, and the wage of the foreign seamen, together with the difference in cost of constructing and operating a boat under American conditions as against the conditions obtaining in foreign countries, will meet the situation and induce American capital to invest in shipping.

There is no doubt but that with a comprehensive subsidy bill, many of the lines operating under the English way, but, in reality, owned by American capital, would use the American registry and be the nucleus of a merchant marine that would meet the demands of both commerce and war.

A Pernicious Measure.

It is refreshing to note that the attempted raid on the part of the Democratic leaders from the South in trying to take assistant postmasters and some of the other post office employees out of the civil service class is likely to fail, coming as it does when the platform of both parties declare for civil service even to extending this proper provision to federal offices. There would seem to be nothing else for our Congressmen to do but to defeat this pernicious measure.

While we have been prepared for almost anything in the way of radical and unreasonable measures from this part of the party in control at Washington, the boldness of this move, coming as it does in the face of an election which looks none too favorable for the Democratic party, is beyond comprehension. If the measure does not fail, there will be but one answer for such treasonable tactics and November 3, will bring it.

Jersey Roads and Pork Barrels.

Interesting statistics have been furnished by the United States Government showing data regarding state roads in the various states. It is a matter of pride that New Jersey should stand fifth among the states in the total number of miles of improved roads, whereas she is but eighth on the list in the amount of money expended during the last twelve months. This can readily be explained by the very wise provision made for the expending of our state road money—the state pays but 1-3 of the cost of the road, and the municipality and county the balance.

We think this is a very wise provision, as it distributes the burden and stimulates the work as it should be, whereas most of the states bear the entire cost of the roads.

The latter mode precipitates a general grab for road improvements, and brings much merited criticism of the authorities who designate the roads to be improved. It is simply a pork barrel, under the tap of which the favored ones are very apt to hold their bats and get the prizes. If the government pork barrels were managed in some such way as the New Jersey road work there would be less bad results and more real good obtained than by the present system.

Our Glory.

The foreign trade and business relations of the United States would have been much less interrupted could Europe have adopted the American principle of exemption of private property from capture at sea in war.

At The Hague conference of 1907, the American delegation made a plea for such exemption from capture. This principle has always been advocated by our government. France, Great Britain, Russia, Japan and other governments opposed it at The Hague, and it was beaten.

In more barbarous times, wives and children were captured and sold into slavery, cities were burned and non-combatants put to the sword.

Gradually these wicked customs have been refined, as respects the lives and freedom of non-combatants, and as respects property on land. Even in a country so backward and reactionary as Mexico, non-combatants have been mostly safe, and destruction of private property has been at least the exception.

Yet in the matter of capture of private property at sea, the old archaic principles of ancient warfare yet prevail in all their barbarism. The warriors may be too cultured to attack women and children. Yet they will capture the food supplies that will keep those women and children from starvation. They will seize the materials of manufacture that will permit a country to maintain its economic existence.

Nothing is gained by these survivals of savage practices. History shows few instances where nations have been overpowered by blows at economic prosperity. Besieged cities always eat horse flesh rather than submit. It is only by direct attack on fighting power that war can win. The subjection of the commerce of the world to the terror of naval attack is thus a medieval survival.

The United States has the glory of having led the fight against this barbarism.

For the last few years our seasons have been much later, caused probably by the change of the Gulf Stream which flows along the Atlantic Coast.

This enables people to wear low shoes much later in the Fall. Therefore the purchase of a pair of Pumps or Oxfords at a reduced price would be a wise move at this time.

THE COUNTY CLERK
A BUSY OFFICIAL

It is inevitable that in an office as busy as County Clerk James C. Calvert's there should be some duties performed with greater frequency than others. As a result they do not attract more attention than is necessary for their proper performance. It is also just as inevitable that there should be some duties which are performed so seldom they are out of the regular routine and attract a lot of attention.

This is particularly true of the approaching election, at which Mr. Calvert himself happens to be a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket. Election comes only once a year and yet it is one of the most important functions the County Clerk has to perform. The responsibility for the correctness of the ballots, the legality of the various notices, advertisements and other things pertaining to the selection of officials by the voters, rests upon him.

Elections however, are not the only thing that seldom needs Mr. Calvert's attention; and moreover he knows they are coming. But in the case of handling condemnation proceedings, and getting them properly filed and recorded, remittances from the upper Courts in civil and criminal suits carried upon appeal, and filing the official death certificate of executed murderers, as was done some weeks ago—these are duties not anticipated and which he is not often called upon to perform.

SHERIFF WRIGHT CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERKSHIP

During the administration of William H. Wright as Sheriff, the office has been raised to a degree of efficiency which is recognized by lawyers, real estate men and all others having business there, as being unsurpassed in the history of Union county.

In fact Mr. Wright is basing his candidacy for the County Clerkship on the Republican ticket on the record he has made as Sheriff.

The State Constitution prevents him seeking re-nomination to the office he now fills and recognizing his ability as a public official many friends urged him not to retire to private life as was his intention, but to endeavor to remain in public office.

Not only have the professional men of the county appreciated the modern system by which the Sheriff's office has been conducted, but citizens when doing jury duty have benefited by it. A phone call to the office always brings the desired information whether it be relative to a sale, jury duty, court proceedings or any other duty connected with the office.

Owing to the nature of the business transacted by a Sheriff, he frequently sees the adverse side of life. This is particularly true about those who are unable to meet their obligations and the uniform courtesy all have received and the material assistance in the shape of postponements or extension of time to make arrangements to prevent losing their business or property has frequently made the going much easier, but in no way has affected the businesslike manner in which the office was conducted.

Sheriff Wright proposes to establish and conduct the County Clerk's office on just as efficient a basis, if selected by the voters to the position. His training in the postal service, made him a master of details in office routine and his experience as Chief peace officer of the county taught him the fine art and potency of organization.

These abilities stand out in his campaign efforts and are commanding the respect and support of a large and influential following.

Dece Founde Artist Home.

Elvina Duse, the greatest actress in Italy, has contributed $2,000 toward the foundation of an artists' home or club in Rome. Signora Duse says that Italian actors and actresses in Italy are relegated to a sort of ghetto, and it is high time that they should have a home or club with a library, a reading room, a lecture hall, and other comforts. Very likely Signora Duse will give her villa in Rome for the artists' home which she hopes to have inaugurated next month.

A SPECIMEN CALUMNY.

(Contributed by)
R. A. LAWRENCE.

Under the title "New Light Shed on Miss Bronson," The Woman's Journal of April 11 published the following:

An interesting incident in Miss Minnie Bronson's career has just come to light. New Jersey is a very wet State. Thus far all attempts even to secure a local-option law have failed. In the country at large, most of the people who do not favor State-wide prohibition believe that any locality has a right to vote out saloons if the majority of the men choose to do so. But it seems that Miss Bronson does not think so, as she spoke at a legislative hearing against the local option bill when it was pending in New Jersey several years ago.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of Plainfield, N. J., head of the Evangelistic Department of the New Jersey W. C. T. U., writes to Mrs. W. H. Stokes, of 9 Vought avenue, Freehold, N. J.:

"It was at Trenton in March, 1908, that I heard Miss Bronson speak before the committee on local option. She certainly spoke against the measure, and from her argument I presume that she was engaged by the Liquor Dealers' Association, since she seemed to represent them."

Comment would be superfluous. Let us see whether comment on the foregoing accusation is "superfluous."

On the day of the legislative hearing referred to, March 24, 1908, Miss Bronson was in Augusta, Georgia, on business for the United States Bureau of Labor, by which she was at that time employed. This fact is certified to by Ethelbert Stewart, Acting Commissioner of Labor Statistics, under date April 23d, 1914. Obviously therefore, Mrs. Bodine did not hear her speak at the hearing against local option at Trenton, on that date, and her assumption that she was probably "engaged by the Liquor Dealers' Association" is a calumny.

Appeal for the Blind.

The head of every firm in the United Kingdom employs two blind men who have received a commendable training in the art of counting. The National Association for the Blind whose new premises have just been inaugurated by the king and queen. The letter asks them to permit the exhibition in their works of posters on which is a picture of a blind man to whom a book in Braille is being handed by a pretty girl, while underneath the picture is an appeal for contributions.

Proved Most Satisfactory.

Pollswoman Lulu Parks of Chicago was sent to New York to bring back a young woman accused of stealing money from her family. The substituting of a woman for a man in this case proved most satisfactory, and the young girl was so glad that she did not have to travel with a policeman that she gave Miss Parks no trouble at all. The girl told her entire story to the policeman, and the result is that she will probably not be prosecuted at all.

Skeleton of Small Dinosaur.

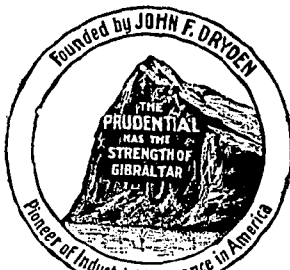

There are now being assembled in the United States National museum the bones of a very small three-horned dinosaur, which is being made the type of a new species. This diminutive dinosaur, when completely assembled, will measure about six feet in length and stand only about three feet high. Its head is 22 inches long. When its bones are compared with those of the larger members of this extraordinary family of reptiles, it will be seen that this specimen is less than one-fourth of their size. In the National museum are several skulls of one of the large horned dinosaurs, Triceratops, which measure from six to eight feet, and in one case nine feet.

Sick Insurance in Prussia.

Prussian sick insurance, which in amended form went into effect January 1, has been found applicable to domestic servants. In Berlin the rate amounts to about ten per cent of the wages paid, which is considered out of all proportion to the risk. The government is considering an amendment to separate the class of domestic servants from other labor.

HOME OF THE BIG TREES.

Forest Giants in the Sequoia and General Grant National Parks.

The Sequoia and General Grant National parks, the home of the big trees, are situated in Tulare and Fresno counties, Cal., and are celebrated mainly for the great groves of the big trees which are scattered through them. Sequoia National park may be reached from Visalia, thence by way of electric railway to Lemon cove, thence forty miles by stage or private conveyance to Camp Sierra. In the park, General Grant National park can be best reached from Sanger, thence by automobile, stage or private conveyance, a distance of forty-six miles to the park.

The streams and lakes in these parks afford splendid trout fishing, boating and bathing. The waters are all pure and fit to drink. The forests contain the largest, oldest, tallest and most valuable trees in the world. Aside from the giant Sequoia, there are other forests of pine, fir, cedar and many deciduous trees that are truly royal. There are many shrubs, wild flowers, ferns and mosses of superb beauty, while frolicking wild animals and beautiful song birds are another enjoyable feature of the parks.

In four of the groves certain trees within them have been named, while in all other groves they have not. The General Sherman tree was discovered by James Wolverton, a hunter and trapper, on Aug. 7, 1879, at which time he named the tree in honor of General Sherman, under whom he had served during the war. The General Grant tree was named by Mrs. Loretta P. Baker, who was a member of the party which camped near the tree in August, 1867. This tree has a height of 264 feet and a base diameter of thirty-five feet.

EXPECTATION OF LIFE.

Years One May Count Upon Living at Any Given Age.

No statistics have been calculated with greater care than the tables which give the exact expectation of life for men and women at various ages. These mortality tables are officially accepted by the various states in the United States, and from them the life insurance companies compute their rates of insurance. They are as accurate as the most carefully gathered figures can make them.

At ten years of age the expectation of life is 48.72 years. When one has reached the age of twenty the chances are much improved, and there is still an expectation of 42.20 years before one. At the age of twenty-five the average has improved, and there are still some thirty-nine years ahead.

For the normal man or woman thirty years of age the average length of life is sixty-five years. A person thirty-five years old may count, according to these tables, on thirty-two years more.

As each milestone is passed the prospect brightens. Thus at the age of forty the prospect is for nearly twenty-nine years more, and at forty-five there is an expectation of twenty-five more years.

By the fiftieth year the expectation is about twenty-one years, and in the fifty-fifth year it is nearly eighteen more. A man of sixty may look forward with some confidence to fifteen more years of life, and this increases so that at seventy years the prospect is eight years. On having successfully passed the eightieth year there is an expectation of about five years.—Exchange

Raphael's Price.

The "Panshanger Madonna" of Raphael has been purchased by P. A. B. Widener for $700,000. Of this picture George H. Lake, the well-known New York artist, told a story the other day. "A friend of mine in Washington square," he said, "was showing his canvases to a lady from Wawa. 'And here, madam,' says he, 'is an exact copy of the Panshanger Raphael which Mr. Widener has just bought for $700,000. And all I ask for is $100,000.' 'What's the cause of this difference in price?' said the lady from Wawa. 'Competition, madam,' said the artist. 'The business isn't what it used to be.'"

Next Sunday's Preacher At The Methodist Church.

The third of the special August preachers at the Methodist Church will be Rev. Millard L. Robinson, A.
B., S. T. B., Executive Secretary of the New York City Society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Although but 34 years of age, Mr.
Robinson has achieved much in the eight years of his ministry. He was born in Westfield, Mass., and education in its schools and in the Boston University. After a short pastorate in Manchester, N. H., he became Religious Work Director of the Philadelphia
Y. M. C. A., where he was brought in close touch with city problems in Christian strategy. Coming to Brooklyn he served as Assistant Pastor of the Hanson Place Church and later took up pastorate in the 17th Street
Church and the 11th Street Church,
New York. In that cosmopolitan section of the great city he valiantly fought against heavy odds and became thoroughly conversant at first hand with the difficult problems of reaching the unchurched.

From such experience he gathered the necessary preparation for the office which he now holds in the New York Society whose object is to promote Christian agencies and institutions particularly in the sections of the great city where the population is foreign born. Under his supervision are missions in Chinatown, on the East Side, the famed Hadley Mission on the Bowery and many others doing noble Christian work.

Have Sentences Suspended.

Recorder Springstead had two cases before him on Friday night in the police court. The first one was that of Bailey Green, colored, who was summoned before the Recorder on a complaint of William Taylor, colored, of Mountainside, who said that Green interfered with him whenever he was out with his lady friend. After hearing the evidence the Recorder suspended sentence.

The other case was a complaint made by Mrs. John King, of upper Prospect street, against her husband
John King and John Clark for fighting. Sentence was suspended in this case by the Recorder.

A generation ago the only people

¶ Now, look you, businessmen have something on their only people who pass up the possibilities of dog-day publicity are the Hot-Cross-Bun manufacturers and the makers of waistcoat armholes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC ENJOYED BY MANY.

The annual picnic of the Presbyterian Sunday school, held Saturday on the Gaffney property, Cranford, was a huge success. The weather was ideal for the event, which largely accounted for the general good time. More than 100 were present, grown-ups as well as children. The trip was made in hay-wagons, starting from the church at 10 a. m. and 1 p. m., and returning at 6 p. m. Bathing was the main feature, watermelon and ice-cream serving as side issues.

An annual affair, the picnic is chiefly for the benefit of the younger generation, who are unable to attend the school's excursion to Asbury Park. The committee in charge of the picnic this year was Rev. Mr. Wellhoelter, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Snyder, Mrs. W. R. Conover, John Stiff, Henry Rabb and Walter B. Johnston.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING
PLANS CONSIDERED.

A joint meeting of the borough council and fire department was held Tuesday night, to discuss the final specifications for the new borough hall and fire house. Mayor Erikson and Councilmen Roth, Carlson, Hessler and Wood, representing the building committee, were present, together with a committee of five from the firemen. Architect C. C. Bell of Cranford submitted sketches, which were carefully considered.

TO VOTE
FOR FOWLERNew Jersey Volunteers Grateful to Congressional Candidate for Chicken Dinner

The following article appeared in the Dover Advance of August 3rd, concerning the candidacy of Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler.

WHY WE ARE GOING TO VOTE FOR FOWLER.

We, the undersigned, former members of the First New Jersey Volunteers (Spanish-American War), take extreme pleasure in telling the Republican voters of Morris county why we are going to vote for the Hon. Charles N. Fowler, at the Republican Primaries on September 23rd.

The First Regiment Vols. of New Jersey went into camp at Alger, Va., on the 15th day of May, 1898, with fourteen hundred officers and men, in the latter part of June. After we had been eating pork, beans and hard tack for three times a day for about three weeks, Congressman Fowler visited our regiment and found that typhoid and other sickness was breaking out all through the camps around us, as we had at that time thirty regiments stationed there. Realizing, as every one did, the disease must certainly break out among us unless we had some change of diet, Mr. Fowler, at his own personal expense, sent to every man in the regiment a chicken—or one thousand and four in all; and we had chicken in some form or other for the best part of a week, when the commissary department came to our relief.

It is interesting and important to state that not an officer or private in the regiment came from Mr. Fowler's Congressional district. They were Jerseyman and that was enough for him. He felt that it was necessary to break up the pork and beans and hard tack program to protect us from typhoid and other diseases that were spreading out around us.

The members of this regiment have never forgotten his generosity and whenever they have a chance to live in his district they will assist him in his campaign.

How Yucatan Gets Its Water.

In Yucatan the people depend for their water supply chiefly on what are known as "cenotes," or subterranean reservoirs, fed by hidden underground lakes or a network of water courses. Some of these are so near the surface that the soil has given way and left a surface pond or reservoir; others again are reached only by powerful pumps or a system of ladders by which the women descend into enormous caverns or traverse narrow galleries to fill their jars from the hidden springs, and in some cases the entrance to these deep caverns is a considerable distance from the nearest village or farm. Sometimes a crust of rock if left over such a "cenote," with an aperture through which the daylight reaches the cavern, forming a real grotto, with stalactites and stalagmites of considerable beauty.

Nearly all of the ancient cities and modern towns and haciendas are located near some one of these subterranean water caverns.—Charles Winslow Hall in National Magazine.

Was It For Him?

Blithers and Smithers were neighbors. They were friends before they became neighbors. The enmity started by Blithers' boy pushing Smithers' kid off a high picket fence and nearly breaking his young neck. Then Smithers killed four of Blithers' chickens. After that they glared at each other like a couple of horse thieves.

Blithers hired a colored man to mow his lawn. Rastus threw the grass over the fence into Smithers' yard.

"If you," yelled Smithers. "What in thunder are you doing?"

Rastus blinked.

"Das foh yo' mool, mister," he smiled.

"Mule!" roared Smithers. "I ain't got no mule!"

Rastus stared.

"Ain'tcha?" he gasped. Then he scratched his head. "Das funny," he added. "De gemman what hb here say de grass foh de jackass next doh!"—Judge.

Too Many Books in 1600.

In bawling the fact that too many books are published Mr. Heilmann echoes a complaint made over three centuries ago. Barnaby Rich, in his preface to "A New Description of Ireland," published in 1600, writes: "One of the diseases of this age is the multitude of books that doth so overcharge the world that it is not able to digest the abundance of idle matter that is every day hatched and brought into the world, that are as divers in their forms as their authors be in their faces. It is but a thriftless and thoughtless occupation, this writhing of books. A man were certainly better to sit slinging in a collier's shop, for his pay is certainly a penny a patch! But a book writer, if he get sometimes a few commendations of the judicious, he shall be sure to reap a thousand reproaches of the malicious."—London Chronicle.

A Masterpiece in Fragments.

Dr. Ohnefalsch-Richter, the famous antiquarian, writing in the Pall Mall Magazine on the ancient civilization of Cyprus, describes the chance discovery of a vase of the fourth century B. C. which ranks as one of the finest examples of ancient art ever found. "It first escaped the eyes of my workmen altogether," he writes, "when I accidentally found a single fragment in the earth dug out of a tomb. After a good baskin had been promised for each delivered fragment I succeeded in finding the whole vase with the exception of one small bit and in gluing together with my own hands the sixty-eight pieces and thus obtained the masterpiece of art." Today it has a place of honor in the British museum among the collection of Attic vases of the best period.

Java's Teak Forests.

Teak forests in Java cover 1,480,000 acres, and, as the area reforested is two and a half times as large as the area felled in a given time, this magnificent stock of timber is continually increasing. A pest of the Java teak plantation is along grass (Imperata grandinacea). In order to prevent the incursion of this plant, as hoeing is too expensive, the foresters sow a leguminous plant, lucerne glaucus, between the rows of teak seedlings. This chokes the along, keeps the soil clean and enriches the soil in humus and nitrogen, and ultimately disappears with the increase of the forest cover.

The various mints of the United States are located as follows: New Orleans, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Denver and Carson City. Each mint is directly in charge of a superintendent, the whole system being looked after by a board of directors, who are responsible to the federal government.

Sealed Orders.

Bachelor Uncle—Well, Frankie, what do you want now? Frankie—Oh, I want to be rich, Uncle—Itch? Why? Frankie—Because I want to be petted, and ma says you are an old fool, but must be petted because you are rich, but it's a great secret, and I mustn't tell.

Like a Lake of Flame.

One of the most remarkable of the hot springs in the Yellowstone National park is Firehole lake, in which flames seem to appear in the water. These flames are seen from only two points, and should the wind be causing a disturbance of the water the tourist may not see them at all. At the eastern end of this small lake is a circular opening of a deep seated spring not unlike other vents of thermal waters. Through this vent, which usually stands full of clear, transparent water, numerous bubbles of mingled air and superheated steam rise gradually. Before reaching the surface they unite to form one large mass that in its upward passage strikingly resembles a flame of fire. This continues until the bubble bursts, only to be followed by a repetition of the phenomenon. The explanation is that the slightly agitated water is reflected in the thin film of the ascending volume of gas. The phenomena are far better seen at Firehole lake than elsewhere, but under favorable conditions they may be seen at other localities, but in a far less striking manner.

Sacred Bangles.

One of the oldest and most curious of existing industries is the making of narrow rings or bracelets, called bangles, from the chunk, or sacred shell of the Hindus. This chunk—Turkella pyrum, Linn.—is found chiefly at a depth of about two fathoms in the gulf of Mannar, and about 2,000,000 of the shells are exported annually to Calcutta. So important is the bangle of the Hindu women that J. Hornell, representing the Madras government, has specially investigated the industry. Tracing the early history of chunk ornaments, Mr. Hornell is unable to assign prehistoric specimens in the Madras museum to the later stone age, as had been previously done, but believes marks on some of them were made by metal implements. He has found, however, remains of ancient bangle factories scattered over the greater part of India. Bangle cutting is now confined almost entirely to Bengal, and it proves to be in flourishing condition in spite of the growing taste for gold ornaments.

Adversity's Only Sure Bet.

Don't place too much dependence in human nature—not because men in general are untrustworthy, which I do not mean to imply, but because they are human. Promises are often born of momentary enthusiasm and made with the best intentions of ultimate fulfillment. But things happen, conditions change, ardor cools; the sentiment of liberality is superseded by one of selfish interest, and pledges made in the best of faith are forgotten. Everything human is frail and mutable. The nature of a man may change with each new environment, but the coin of the realm has a fixed and dependable value. You may fall to cash in on promises, but you can always collect 100 cents on a dollar bill.

That's the reason I say to you that

It's all right to have faith in men, but put your implicit trust in cash. It's the only sure bet in the moment of adversity.—Maurice Switzer in Leslie's.

She Knew Tommy.

Mr. Platte—This paper says astronomers assert that there is another system beyond Neptune, which is the most distant of all the planets in our system. Mrs. Platte—For gracious sakes, pa, not so loud. If our boy Tommie hears you talking about it he'll want it.—Vancouver Statesman.

Fishermen's Language.

A correspondent of the English magazine, Country Life, has been studying the vocabulary of Hastings fishermen. He says: "Where there is a dead calm, with the air hot and moist, the weather is said to be 'planety.' If it is oppressively sultry with a heavy sky and oily sea it is 'swallowy,' and presages a storm, which often breaks suddenly with a roaring squall. A long loop of cloud with trailing ends is designated an 'eddenbite,' blown out streamers of white cloud are 'windogs,' large wool-pack-like clouds scurrying before a high wind are 'messengers,' small, widely scattered clouds floating in an otherwise clear sky, are 'postboys.' Occasionally, when the sun is setting, a mock sun is seen on each side of the solar disk. This phenomenon goes by the name of 'smithereediddles' and is regarded as a sign of bad weather. A thick, soaking mist, moving rapidly from the land over the sea, is called an 'egger jagger.'"

The Labeled Children of Old Canton.

The crowded water front of the old Canton of a century ago, with its thronging sampans alive from stem to stern with swarming children, is vividly pictured in the "Memoirs of William Hickey." In his account of the river for miles after mile Mr. Hickey describes a novel method of protecting the children of the floating city from the dangers of the water. Each child wore a large vegetable something like a gourd or pumpkin fastened to its back. The vegetable was buoyant, of course, and, if the infant fell overboard, floated it until the child was picked up by its parents or the occupants of any other sampan that happened to be near. "This vegetable life preserver had the name and station of the sampan to which it belonged cut in Chinese characters upon it, and by that means the rescuers could at once identify the child; otherwise in such a multitude of boats great confusion would have arisen. It scarcely ever happened that any one was drowned."

The Intelligent Newcomer.

We are credibly informed that Englishmen are the greatest colonizers in the world, the greatest sportsmen in the world and the greatest outdoor people in the world. Sometimes, out in the newer parts of Canada, people are willing to argue that. A western bishop hired a new come Englishman to cook, as he was the only one in the party who could not cook, and cautioned him to be sure to wash the meat before cooking it. He did—with soap.

It was an Englishman not yet across the water who wrote to find out about the proper outfit for Canada and who inquired whether moccasins or snowshoes were regarded as the warmer for footwear.

It was an Englishman on the Athabasca river who bored a hole in a floating scow to let the water out. And yet another Englishman, when asked to set a watermark at night to determine whether or not the river was rising, carefully made a mark at the water line on the side of a floating boat.

On the whole, there seems to be a great difference between colonizers and colonists.—Saturday Evening Post.

How Absinth Is Made.

An old Moor to whom a trader tried to explain the tyrannous nature of the order forbidding the sale of absinth in Morocco took a wholly unexpected attitude.

"Absinth," he said, "is an invention of the evil one. On its roots he pours the blood of a peacock; then when the leaves begin to grow he sprinkles them with the blood of a monkey; then he dips the stalks in the blood of a bear; lastly he mingles with the juice of the plant the blood of a pig."

"So that when the faithful drinks absinth at the first glass his appetite awakes, and he arises proud as a peacock; at the second glass he becomes excited and gesticulates like a monkey; at the third he becomes quarrelsome and spiteful, like a bear; at the fourth he becomes besotted and falls to the earth and rolls like a hog in the mire."

"May Allah protect us, the order is right."—New York Times.

Italy's Deep Blue Skies.

The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper not because the dust there is finer than in the northern countries, but because in the countries of the north, due to the greater coolness of the air, the vapor more readily condenses upon the dust particles. The dust particles thus become larger and consequently not so effective in turning back the blue rays alone, but others are also reflected, and a grayish effect is produced. In a single location the blue of the sky may appear bluer at one time than another. The sky is oftentimes said to be very blue when some white cumulus clouds are outlined against it. The sky is then a deep blue by contrast with the brilliant white. After a shower, when the lower stratum of air is washed of its coarse dust particles, a deeper and purer blue is the result.

The Polar Star.

As is well known to most readers, the north star marks the point in the skies toward which the axes (poles) of the earth point. But the poles have another motion called "precession" (much like the secondary motion of a spinning top), by which the ever changing poles describe a big circle in the sky, reaching from the present north star across to Vega. It requires over 25,000 years to complete that circle, and during that time numerous stars will in turn inherit the title of north star. Eleven thousand years hence the job will fall to Vega, and a most worthy holder of that most important position in the skies he will be. When that time comes Polaris will be almost forgotten.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Its Only Guise.

New diseases or new cures are always of interest to the reading public. Therefore an enthusiastic reporter believed a story lay in waiting because of a rumor that germs of a new disease had been discovered. He located the doctor responsible for the find and questioned him.

"In what guise," he asked, "do these germs appear?"

The doctor smiled. "You needn't be afraid," he said. "This is to be a fashionable disease and will appear only in the guys with money."—New York Tribune.
