

SILVERSTEIN'S SHOE STORE
ROBBED A SECOND TIME

For the second time within a few months the show window of the shoe store of Samuel Silverstein, at the corner of North avenue and Westfield avenue, was broken into early on Wednesday morning and a number of shoes taken from the window. The burglary took place at about one o'clock and was done in identically the same way as the first one on July 29, was perpetrated. The pane of glass in the window was broken and the shoes taken from the inside. As soon as Mr. Silverstein became aware of his loss he notified the police and Chief O'Neill began search for the burglar. Suspicion rested on a colored man named Homer King, who the police had arrested on Monday as a suspicious character, but subsequently let go. King could not be found in town on Wednesday, however, and the Chief telephoned to nearby towns. King was finally picked up at Roselle by Officer Lewis, of the police department there. The police here were notified and Officer McNeely went to Roselle and brought King back with him. He had some of the shoes he had stolen in his possession when caught. He was given a hearing before Judge W. B. Toucey on Wednesday night and held to await the grand jury.

The first time the Silverstein window was broken into it was done by a negro named "Jimmy" Green. Lieutenant Causefield caught the man in the act and in a tussle with the officer he got away. He was caught later, however, and locked up in a police station cell; but did not stay long as he made a get away by forcing the lock of the cell, climbing through a skylight and making good his escape. Green has not yet been recaptured.

BANKER'S CLUB
ABOUT TO DISBAND.

It is probable that the Banker's Club of this town, which was organized about a year ago, will disband, owing to a lack of interest and support. Last winter the club had many interesting lectures on financial subjects by men prominent in banking affairs. Owing to the fact that many of the other societies in town had prior claims on the members many were deprived from hearing the lectures.

After due consideration by the officers it was decided to put the matter up to the members as to whether the club should be continued or not. A card vote is now being taken to ascertain how the members feel on the matter. They have been asked to say whether or not they wish to disband and pay the funds in the treasury over to the District Nurse Association which is in need of funds at the present time.

LECTURE TOMORROW NIGHT

At Washington School Will be the "St Lawrence River From Niagara to the Ocean"

Tomorrow night the lecturer will be Ernest A. Reed, who will have for his subject "The St. Lawrence River from Niagara to the Ocean." Mr. Reed will tell of the fascinating beauty of Niagara in the winter; the tumbling foaming waters of the deep Gorge; the tragedies of Niagara; of a twilight cruise among the Thousand Islands; night on the broad St. Lawrence; the winter carnival. In all the scenes depicted by Mr. Reed there is the fascination of real life. The lecture will be illustrated by many stereopticon views and no doubt will be very interesting as Mr. Reed is a lecturer of note and well acquainted with his subject.

The lecture given in the assembly room of the Washington school on Saturday night, under the direction of the Board of Education by Glen Arnold Grove on "Italy The Garden of Europe" was attended by a large audience. Mr. Grove described the ocean voyage to Italy; the pillars of Hercules; the Mediterranean; Genoa, the city of palaces; ancient Verona; life in the monasteries; the city of the doges; Ravenna and Florence; the cities of Dante, Pisa and Siena; the Eternal city and the glory of the setting sun. The lecture was illustrated with many beautiful stereopticon views which were taken by Mr. Grove himself. The lecturer was introduced to his audience by E. E. Thompson of the Board of Education.

FOURTH WARDERS
DISCUSS BILLBOARDS

At Meeting of Taxpayers Association. Go on Record Against Billboards. Mayor Evans Present. To Hold Entertainment for Poor and Needy in Town

While only seven members of the Fourth Ward Taxpayers Association, together with Mayor Evans and two newspaper reporters were present at the meeting of that association held in the McKinley school on Tuesday night, there was considerable business of an interesting nature discussed and transacted.

In the absence of President Phelps, who is in Washington on business, Edward D. Clark, the first vice-president of the association, presided. After Mr. Clark had called the meeting to order and the routine business had been transacted the president pro tem asked the members if they had any suggestions to make for the good of the association. Some of the members present thought it would be a good idea to get up some kind of an entertainment to arouse enthusiasm in the members and get them out to the meetings.

One of the suggestions which seemed to meet with the approval of the seven members was to hold an entertainment early next month for the benefit of the poor and needy in the town. Several of the members stated that a committee for this purpose had been appointed by Mayor Evans and they thought it would be a good thing for the association to make an offering to the committee to help out Mayor Evans when asked to give his views on the matter stated that the committee was appointed by him at the instigation of the Methodist church and that they had already helped some who were in need and found employment for others who were out of work. He commended the idea of the association to help in this cause. The Mayor said that there was no great number of needy ones in the town at the present time and he thought conditions were improving. It was decided to hold the entertainment and a committee of five will be appointed by the president to arrange for the entertainment.

Another question which was brought up and discussed by the members was the erecting of billboards in the town. The members referred to the one that has just been erected on West Broad street, near South avenue and said that it was a disgrace to the town and to the ward. A motion was made and carried that the association was on record as being against them. The Mayor was asked about the billboards and if anything could be done to stop them from being erected. The Mayor stated that last spring one was erected on South avenue and the council refused at first to allow it. At a subsequent meeting of the council a lawyer from the billboard company appeared before the council and produced a large amount of data showing where the municipalities had refused to allow billboards to be erected and the company had taken the matter to court and won out. He said that the council then, on the advice of Town Attorney Oliver, had withdrawn its objection.

The Mayor said that if a man did not have a greater amount of civic pride in the town than to allow a billboard to be erected on his property there was nothing the town could do. He told the members of the association that he would use his personal influence against them. He said that it was a good thing for the association to go on record as being against them.

The Mayor said that he did not know what the property owners got for allowing the billboards to be erected on their property but he thought that it was the citizens of the town brought enough pressure to bear that they would relinquish the small fee they get for the betterment of the town.

It was decided, after the Mayor had expressed his views, to write a letter to the owner of the property on West Broad street, where the billboard has just been erected and state to him that the association is on record as being against the erection of these boards in the ward.

After several other matters of business were discussed the meeting adjourned.

SURPRISE PARTY.

FIRESIDE COUNCIL
ENTERTAINS LADIES

Orator Westerberg and His Committee Present Excellent Program Which Receives The Highest Commendation. Lodge Rooms Crowded to the Doors

Crowded to the doors and standing room only was the result of the Royal Arcanum's ladies' night entertainment last evening. Some two hundred odd brothers with their wives, sweethearts and mothers enjoyed the excellent program provided by Fireside's efficient orator, assisted by his committee and if the applause that greeted every number on the program is any evidence of the way the audience appreciated the entertainment, the Council certainly can feel it was a decided success.

The artists who so ably fitted the bill and added so much to the pleasure of the occasion were Miss Esther Lightfoot and Miss Steffy, who performed beautifully on the piano.

Miss Dorothy French accompanied by Miss Minnie Barr who sang in her own beautiful way and won all hearts and Brother J. Leslie Gossin, whose stories and monologues were highly appreciated.

Refreshments were quickly served and all present seemed to be repaid for coming out.

It was pleasant to see so many faces one rarely sees at the regular meetings which seems a pity—since every meeting now is a good one with something new and entertaining for the brothers enjoyment.

The Regent and officers are looking forward to having a delegation of at least one hundred go to Elizabeth on Monday night, Nov. 16th, to the Wickersham night rally at Arcanum Hall. It is up to the Brothers to support the efforts of the officers by turning out in force. The 7:30 trolley or the 7:41 train as well as the 7:30, from New York, will put the brothers who desire to go there in time. With this gentle reminder it is hoped this can be accomplished and Fireside will no doubt come back with a prize for attendance.

Loyal Association Doings.

Next Thursday night the members of Union Council not to be outdone by Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum will have a "Ladies Night." The entertainment which will be provided by Orator Witko and his committee will consist of a musical program followed by a dance.

Great preparations are being made by Union Council to take a large delegation to the monster meeting in New York at the Masonic Temple, 23rd Street and Sixth Avenue, on November 30, for the twenty-fifth anniversary of the order. A dinner will be served at the Market Hotel restaurant, 200 Greenwich street. Fifty members of Union Council should go as one of the members will occupy a station at the Class Intimation. Applications are being secured by the workers.

ANTHONY FIALA
TO LECTURE

At Playhouse Next Friday Night On His Trip With Colonel Roosevelt Through South America

On Friday evening of next week the first entertainment of the course of the Men's Club of the Presbyterian church will be held in the Playhouse, when Anthony Fiala, who was the speaker at the Men's Club banquet held last month, will lecture on his trip with Colonel Roosevelt in South America. The lecture will be illustrated with motion pictures and Mr. Fiala will tell of the explorations of the Papagallo River and the descent of the Juruna and Tapajos Rivers. Owing to the fact that such a large number of people will probably wish to hear Mr. Fiala, the entertainment committee of the club were of the opinion that the audience room of the church would not be large enough to hold the crowd and hence have secured the Playhouse for this entertainment.

Mr. Fiala is an explorer of some note and not only was with Colonel Roosevelt on his South American expedition but has explored the arctic regions as well. He was born in Jersey City and was educated in the Brooklyn public schools. He began his career in the office of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle and worked himself up to the position of art editor on that paper. During the Spanish-American war he was with Tropic C and saw active service in Porto Rico.

In 1902 Mr. Fiala joined the Baldwin-Ziegler Polar Expedition as a photographer. While on this expedition he was made mate of the vessel. He showed such a knowledge of polar expeditions that Ziegler put him in charge of the next expedition which went out in 1903. The expedition sailed from Tromsø in July, 1903. The party surveyed the France Joseph Archipelago. Fiala and his party lost their ship, the "America," in Teplitz Bay and failed to reach the pole. Ziegler sent out a relief party who found Fiala and his party at Dillon, in July 1905, and brought them home.

The great amount of scientific knowledge which Fiala brought home with him attracted considerable attention as did the photographs and motion pictures which were taken by him under extreme difficulties.

The lecture which he will give on Friday night will be a full account of his travels with the Colonel in South America and to those who have heard him before as well as those who have not it will be worth their while to attend the lecture as they will miss a great treat by staying away.

At the Men's Club banquet a week or so ago the editor of The Standard had the pleasure of sitting at the table with Mr. Fiala. In reply to a request for a likeness of himself for publication, Mr. Fiala borrowed the editor's pen and hastily drew the sketch of himself reproduced above.

The course of entertainments which have been arranged by the Men's Club for this winter, the first of which is Mr. Fiala's lecture, are all exceptionally good. On January 22, the entertainers will be Miss Katharine Ridgeway, monologist; Frederick Wheeler, basso and Miss Helen Wolverson, accompanist. On Friday, February 26, the attraction will be the Killarney Girls with Miss Rita Rich, impersonator. On Friday, March 26, Miss Belle V. Gottschalk, of this town, soprano, assisted by Miss Norma Sauter, violinist, and Miss Blanch Barbot, pianist, will close the season's course.

Carnes; fourth, Mrs. Stevens; fifth, Mrs. E. Baker; sixth, Mrs. Williams; seventh, Mrs. Schludonsky and the consolation prize by Mrs. Woldon. PARK COMMISSION HOLDS ITS MONTHLY MEETING

The Park Commission held its monthly meeting in the town hall on Monday night. But little business was transacted. President A. L. Russell stated that he had received a message from Mayor Evans to the effect that hunters were shooting the red squirrels and other animals in the wood around the park lake. It was decided by the Commission to have notices posted forbidding shooting on the property.

B. C. Howell, who has been superintending the trimming and caring for the trees during the summer, reported that there had been collected about four cords of wood from the various trees which had been trimmed. The tree committee of the Commission were empowered to sell the wood at $3 a cord. Mr. Howell presented a bill for $70 for services and this was ordered paid.

Owing to there being several bills outstanding and the Commission not having enough money to meet them it was decided to ask the council for an appropriation of $150 to meet these bills. President Russell presided and the members present were Secretary J. E. Grape, C. E. Halsted and Edward F. Gilby.

SECOND CARD PARTY VERY SUCCESSFUL.

The second of the series of card parties for the benefit of the District Nurse Association was held at the home of Mrs. F. D. Mooney, on Dudley avenue, and was a success both socially and financially. There were twenty-seven tables in play and 108 ladies played bridge and five hundred. Each table had its prize. The ladies in charge of the affair were very much pleased with the result of the card party. They wish to thank especially Mr. Grey of the Grey Burial Company and the firm of R. M. French & Son, for the use of card tables and chairs. They also wish to acknowledge contributions from Dr. R. R. Sinclair, Mrs. W. R. Davis, Mrs. Charles Halsted and Mrs. F. C. White.

The amount realized from the card party was $70 which is very pleasing to those interested in the association.

Temperance Sunday Observed.

Temperance Sunday was observed in all the churches in town last Sunday. At the morning services in the Baptist, Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches, addresses were made by representatives of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey. The offering at these services was donated to the League for its work.

In the evening a temperance service was held in the Westfield Theatre under the direction of the Congregational church. Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis made an address on "The Thief of Brains." The subject was illustrated by a wonderful motion picture entitled, "In the Grip of Alcohol." A feature of the service was the singing of Miss Helen Oswald.

Resolutions Relating To Death of John Kean.

Resolutions relating to the death of John Kean were adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of Plainfield-Union Water Company held November 10th.

The president reminded the board that on the fifth instant Mr. Kean had passed away at his home at Ursino, and spoke of the loss which the company had sustained and the directors personally by Mr. Kean's death. Thereupon Mr. Voorhees presented the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

RESOLVED, That since our last meeting this company has suffered a deplorable loss in the death of John Kean, our vice-president, who was the founder of the company and its principal supporter in the troublesome years when its works were constructed and its business undertaken. Drawn into the enterprise by an accident of business Mr. Kean saw an opportunity to establish a useful and important means of public service; he realized the difficulties of the undertaking and knew that repeated efforts to accomplish it made by others in more favorable times had failed. But when he decided to undertake the work he prosecuted it with the same degree of courage and perseverance that marked his useful and honorable career both in public and private life; and he lived to see more than fifty thousand people efficiently served by the company and constantly sharing in the success of his labors. One of his last business efforts was to improve the company's property, and to make provision for its efficiency in years to come. It was his wish and admonition, often expressed, that the company should discharge its important duties carefully and liberally throughout the communities in which its works are located, realizing the necessity and value of their good will, and it should be our purpose, now that he is gone, to continue that policy.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That this resolution be engrossed and presented to the family of Mr. Kean, and printed in the newspapers of the county.

The Care of Infants.

The Prudential Insurance Company has just published a little booklet addressed to mothers and having entirely to do with the care of babies. It has been called "The Baby Book," and is replete with excellent advice and other useful information as to the health, feeding and physical and moral training of the new arrival in the household. The book is divided into chapters, each one prefaced by a clever drawing marking somewhat the various stages of infancy and early childhood. The cover is in several colors and of a very novel and original style, depicting, as it does, two roly-poly, barbed-tots seated on a flower-strewn mound with a couple of newspapers before them from which they are apparently deriving much enjoyment and satisfaction. On the whole the book is one of the most attractive publications ever issued by The Prudential. An edition has been printed for general distribution and any one desiring a copy can secure the same by writing to the Home Office of the Company at Newark, N. J., or by making request to the local Prudential agency in the town or city where they reside.

"COLONIAL JACK" VISITS TOWN.

"Colonial Jack," a long distance walker, was a visitor to this town on Friday of last week. He was on one of his trips from "nowhere" to "somewhere." He was pushing a small wheel before him which was literally covered with cards, press notices and posters. He arrived here from South Jersey.

Among the trips which "Jack" credits to himself is a trip of 9,300 miles made around the border of the United States, starting from Portland, Me., along the northern border to Seattle, Wash., along the Pacific coast to Los Angeles, Cal., through the southern states to Jacksonville, Fla., and along the Atlantic coast back to Portland. This trip was made in 357 days, or 42 days ahead of schedule time an average of 25 miles a day.

During the trip "Jack" wore out eleven pairs of shoes, five wheels to the barrow and three extra tires. The barrow of pamphlets and books which "Jack" pushes, weighs from 60 to 100 pounds.

"PIRATES OF PENZANCE."

The rehearsals for the comic opera, "Pirates of Penzance," which will be given next January by the Westfield Golf Club, have been progressing with satisfaction to those in charge. The coach now has all the voices he wants for the production, music lovers, who can sing, having responded well to the golf club's invitation. The Playhouse has been engaged for the nights of Tuesday, January 26th, and Wednesday, January 27th.

It is the expectation of those in charge of this production that Westfield will be given a treat which will long be remembered. No expense is to be spared in order to produce this GALLEY—TWELVE result. Under the direction of the coach special scenery is being painted. Costumes are being obtained from Tams in New York. Mr. L. G. Wilson, the musical director in charge, has expressed himself very well satisfied with the quality of voices attending the rehearsals and he has prophesied good results from this material.

Some voices, new to Westfield, will be heard in the solo parts. The names of the complete cast will be published in a later issue of this paper.

The "Thimble Club" met at the residence of Mrs. B. P. Hall on Monday afternoon. Among those present were Mrs. George E. Hall, of Netherwood, Mrs. F. W. Westcott, Mrs. A. D. Beeken and Mrs. W. H. Hoar, of Fanwood.

Services will be held as usual in All Saints Episcopal Church on Sunday: Holy Communion at 7:30 A. M. Sunday school at 10 o'clock; Morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock with Rev. Oscar S. Michael in charge.

The semi-annual supper of the Baraca Bible Class of the Scotch Plains Baptist church was held Thursday evening, Nov. 6th. After supper addresses were made by the following: Rev. J. Madison Hare's subject was "Better Communities through the Activities of Baraca Bible Classes. F. H. Andrews of Plainfield, used as his topic—"Is Your Life a Merry-go-round or a Highway?" Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce, used "Possibilities of a Life" for his subject. There were about forty young men present.

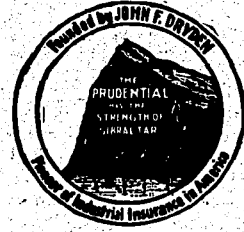

A "Suffrage Tea" was held on Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. William Hoar, for the purpose of organizing a branch in Fanwood, of the Woman's Political Union of New Jersey. The speaker was Miss Julia Wornig, of East Orange, and she gave a clear, concise and most comprehensive talk. An organization was formed, with several members to start with. Mrs. Sherwood was elected Secretary and Miss Dorothy Hoar, Chairman of the organization. After the meeting tea was served. The meeting was not a large one, only about twenty people being present, but a lively interest was manifested in the subject, "Votes for Women."

MEETING OF THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

Algernon Tassin, M. A., of Columbia, lectured to a large audience at the meeting of the Woman's Club on Monday. Preceding the lecture the regular business meeting took place with Mrs. Tubby presiding, in the absence of Mrs. Evans. The Chairman of the Program Committee for the coming year was announced—Mrs.
Sanborn.

Mrs. Perry, chairman of the special work committee, asked for the cooperation of the club with the town committee on relief work and it was decided to suspend the social center dances for this year and divert that money to charitable work. An appel was made to each member to send one warm garment for the refugees in Europe.

Prof. Tassin had for the subject of his afternoon's discourse "The Elizabethan Drama and Poetry" and said from so vast a field he would choose Shakespeare for his main topic, since he was the real exponent of his day and reflected his times more perhaps than his contemporaries. And as an exponent of his times we must consider him to view him abstractly an injustice. Conditions were so different for the playwright at that day and Shakespeare had to consider his particular actors, stages and audience.
Prof. Tassin described the evolution of the theatre from the court yard of an inn where the earliest plays were acted with the proletariat gazing up to the platform at the door way and the more favored ones gazing down from the galleries outside their rooms.
Lacking scenery entirely and employing only the simplest properties, the imagination of the audience supplied the exact locality for a play—for the platform remained, always the same.
So for this reason Shakespeare supplements his action with beautiful word pictures which are unknown to his fellow craftsmen of today.

Prof. Tassin quoted, with most intelligent reading of the lines, some well known excerpts from various plays and showed that, though the plot was child-like in its simplicity and strain on the imagination, his characters gave voice to our own deepest emotions. He did not try to stimulate real life for he lived in an age of superstition when witches and fairies and ghosts were every day folk.
Shakespeare's genius, according to Prof. Tassin, is shown in the reality of his people, his expression of human emotion and his ability to paint large pictures of our real, inward life—
"telling us the unbelievable so compellingly that we all believe."
Miss Cunningham, of New York, accompanied by Mrs. Parker, added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon by singing very charmingly two Italian folk songs and "The Day Is Done", by Stross. Her voice is a clear mezzo-soprano, under perfect control and the folk songs showed her versatility and dramatic ability, the first plaintive and the second gay.

a remarkable instrument for very little money.

Messrs. Gordon & Arndt make a specialty of player piano and organ repairing. They handle a full line of hand-played music rolls. The salesrooms have been tastefully fitted up and the members of the firm cordially their pianos and see and hear the new player device.

NOW SHERIFF OTTO AND UNDER-SHERIFF WARNER.

George C. Otto was sworn in as sheriff and Frank H. Smith as register by Judge Connolly in the office of County Clerk Calvert on Tuesday.
The ceremonies were witnessed by a number of the popular officials' friends and a number of floral tributes were in evidence. In accordance with the established custom, Sheriff Otto as soon as he was sworn in, announced as his under-sheriff, James E. Warner, of Cranford, and he too was sworn in.

Sheriff Otto and Under-Sheriff Warner assumed their duties on Wednesday. Mr. Warner the new under-sheriff is a resident of Cranford and has lived there for the past twenty-three years. He is owner and editor of the Cranford Citizen; a former postmaster of that town; was a member of the Board of Education, township clerk, and a member of the Union County Republican Committee.
He has a host of friends who wish him success in his new position.

W. B. WOODRUFF BEFORE BOARD OF HEALTH

To Explain Alleged Unsanitary Condition of Drains at His Place on Grove Street

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Health held in its rooms in the town hall last Friday night, W.
B. Woodruff, the florist, of Grove street, was before the Board in response to a complaint made by Inspector Carney in regard to an open drain on the property of Mr. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff in his behalf stated to the Board that he could not cover up the drain because it carried off the surface water from his furnace pits and greenhouse roofs. He said that if he closed the drain he would have to go out of business. He stated that his pig pens had been complained of and that he would like some suggestions from the Board as to how to keep the pens in a sanitary condition.
Mr. Woodruff admitted to the Board that water from his sanitary fixtures in his house ran into the drain of which complaint had been made. This was a big surprise to the members of the Board who were of the opinion that the house was connected with the sewer in Grove street. Inspector Carney did not know that the house was not connected with the sewer and he told the Board that the drain contained waste and wash water from a milk house on the property.

Inspector Clark of the Mosquito Commission said that he had made many visits to the Woodruff property and that while he had never found any signs of mosquito breeding there the drain was the kind the commission was trying to abolish in the campaign against breeding places for mosquitoes
in this town.

Dr. J. B. Harrison, president of the Board, told Mr. Woodruff that he had violated the health code and that there was no excuse for his property not being connected with the sewer.

Mr. Woodruff said that the sewer was at a great depth in Grove street, and that it would cost him nearly a $100 to make the connection. The Board decided to refer Mr. Woodruff to Town Engineer Vars and to have Mr. Vars suggest a remedy for the drainage and sewer conditions.

The report of Inspector Carney for the month of October was read and showed that there had been one case of tuberculosis, one of erysipelas, eight of diphtheria and two of chicken pox during the month. He also reported the bakeries, dumps and scavenger wagons as being in good condition, and that he had made 370 inspections
during the month.

Dr. Harrison, the president, presided and all the members of the Board were present.

Meeting of Men's Club of Madison Ave. Chapel.

The Men's Club of the Madison Avenue Chapel held their regular meeting, Friday evening, Nov. 6, at the chapel. The meeting was well attended about forty being present, consisting of members and their wives and sweethearts who were especially invited for this occasion. After the business part was over, the club's president, Mr. H. J. Sensbach introduced Dr. W. I. Stearns, of Westfield, who some time ago had promised to be present at this meeting, to deliver a lecture and which the members of the club and others were anxious to hear,
as the Pastor always has something good to tell and gives good advice to become good members not only of clubs and societies, but to the community.
No one was disappointed for Dr.
Stearns' lecture was just what the members and their friends wanted. He gave some excellent advice on what to do and what not to do, to keep the community which the members and their friends may live in free from bad evils and what to do for the people within their reach. The club gave him a rising vote of thanks and it is their earnest wish that he will soon call again.

Refreshments were then served by the committee, which were well arranged without any cost to the members or the club. The committee consisted of the following members:
Messrs. Davell, Winterson, Johnson, and Brynildsen. Then all present had the pleasure of listening to some good singing and music, after which all departed for their homes, with the understanding that everyone had a good time at the Men's Club in the Big Woods. Ten new members were added to the membership list.

Woman Suffrage

Pro and Con

The Suffragists feel very grateful for the many fine editorials appearing in the best papers of the land, the following from The Evening Mail of November sixth, shortly after the election, when Nebraska was still doubtful is indeed very inspiring.

The Victory of the Women.
The cause of equal suffrage marches on. On Tuesday the women won the right to vote in two more states, Nebraska and Montana, while the result is in doubt in Nebraska. Missouri, Ohio and the Dakotas withheld the franchise, but the majorities against the amendment in those states were not such as to discourage the movement.

This means that in twelve of the forty-eight states equal suffrage is firmly established, though with limitations in Illinois, while the final count may make the number thirteen.
These twelve suffrage states have 91 electoral votes, and Nebraska may make the total 92.

All of these states, except four,
have been won in the last four years, showing a rate of progress that should cheer the women who are striving for their just share in the political control of the nation, even if they win only two or three states

a year, it will not be long before equal suffrage will extend from the Rockies, where it started, to both oceans. Indeed, there is now partial suffrage for women in thirty-three states.

Opponents of the movement can make little of the fact that only 105, 163 women registered in Chicago, though over 400,000 were eligible, and that only 65 per cent. of them voted.
For Chicago today is thankful for the votes of the 107,000 women who went to the polls.

While the male voters, for the most part, went blindly along the partisan way, so many women voted with discrimination that they kept in the Sanitary District Board two excellent members and defeated a saloonkeeper who aspired to a seat in this body that controls the expenditure of millions annually. They also served their city well in electing the best man to the Municipal Court.

So Tuesday's election both set forward the cause by widening the area in which women will vote and vindicated the wisdom of equal suffrage by the results in Chicago.

Cost of Schools.

We publish below a tabulation of school attendance, distribution of state school money, and money raised by local taxes for school purposes, which furnishes interesting figures for study and reflection.

	Attendance 1912-13	Rec'd from State	Rec'd from Local Taxes
Cranford	131,958	$23,646	$14,427
Plainfield	581,917	98,960	109,130
Rahway	282,720	45,455	24,260
Roselle	128,823	21,830	19,000
Roselle Park	167,816	26,713	24,565
Summit	204,107	35,438	36,912
Westfield	239,101	41,311	59,467

It is to be noted that the cost of running schools in some localities is accomplished by supplementing the state moneys with a local tax in amounts ranging from 55 per cent to 190 per cent. If all the communities are getting full value for their expenditures, it would seem that some of our neighboring towns can offer but very ordinary school facilities, and on the other hand, it may be that lack of proper economies and efficiency might indicate that other municipalities are spending more than is necessary by bringing their costs above the average.

For instance, in Rahway the amount raised by local tax is about 8.1-2 cents per day attendance, whereas in Cranford the amount raised by local tax is over 30 cents per day attendance, while the amount of money received from the state varies slightly, but averages about 17-2 cents per day attendance. Inasmuch as the moneys coming from the State are more or less a fixed quantity, the question naturally arises whether the amount supplemented by our local tax rate is more than it should be or not. In all events, since our local school tax is becoming more and more a feature in making up the total of our tax budget, we feel that we should take the matter of school expenditures more seriously in hand and determine whether we are not traveling at too fast a pace in this matter.

We know the people of Westfield want the very best in the way of educational facilities, but we also know that we must keep them within a reasonable range as to cost.

John Kean.

In another column of this paper will be found resolutions upon the death of John Kean passed by some of his business associates. Mr. Kean was a man of considerable wealth and was connected with numerous business concerns.

He was, likewise, active politically, exerting a strong force in the Republican party for which party he worked faithfully and conscientiously. Back in 1892 when New Jersey was strongly Democratic Mr. Kean was a candidate for governor in opposition to Werts and was defeated by only a little more than 7,000 votes.

In 1899 Mr. Kean became a member of the United States Senate after having served two terms in Congress. He remained in the Senate until 1911 when he was succeeded by James E. Martine. Socially Mr. Kean was most affable and his circle of friends was large. In his death Union County loses a distinguished citizen and New Jersey a loyal son.

Sheriff George C. Otto.

In the recent election two sheriffs of such like characteristics were elected to office that a description of the one fits the other equally as well. These sheriffs are George C. Otto, of Union, and J. Warren Fleming, of Mercer. We feel that in commenting upon Sheriff Otto we cannot do better than use the phraseology of our friendly neighbor The State Gazette, in commenting on Sheriff Fleming.

Trills and furbelows are something that Sheriff Otto knows very little about. He is a plain every-day, honest, well meaning citizen, who enjoys the confidence and respect of the people of Union county.

Nothing more to the credit of Sheriff Otto can be said than that the people of his home city have the highest regard for his character and his integrity.

They stood by him almost unanimously during the campaign that ended with his election.

It has been said that a man is not without honor except in his own country and his own home. If this is true, an exception must be taken in the case of Mr. Otto, who is certainly honored at home.

Tuesday he entered upon his duties as sheriff unostentatiously. He took the oath of office seriously and accepted the congratulations of his friends with becoming modesty. He is a public official who may be relied upon to obey the law as he finds it and to do his duty as he sees it.

Under-Sheriff Warner.

Sheriff Otto had no easy task on Tuesday in selecting from so much available material his under-sheriff; but in naming James E. Warner, of Cranford, he has allied with himself in office a most efficient and able aid.

Mr. Warner, though born in Morris County, has lived in Union County since he was eight years of age. For the past twenty-three years he has been a resident of Cranford where he has been a pioneer in many movements. About fifteen years ago he, together with a number of other Cranford residents, started the "Cranford Citizen" of which he is at present editor. He has likewise served as postmaster of Cranford, a member of the Board of Education and township clerk. For many years he was secretary of the Union County Republican Committee.

The Standard congratulates brother Warner upon his appointment and Sheriff Otto upon having so able an assistant.

Forest Fires.

It is estimated that on Tuesday 60,000 licensed hunters scattered through New Jersey when the season opened for the killing of rabbits, quail and other birds.

Recent forest fires of most destructive character have been raging in the northern and southern sections of the state. It has been stated that these fires were started by hunters at the beginning of the deer season to drive the game out into the open. The probabilities are, however, that these fires were started inadvertently by burning gun wads falling upon dry leaves. The fact that there were no forest fires until the opening of the hunting season is fairly good proof that gunners are responsible for them.

As there has been but little rain this fall the woods and forests are very dry and in a highly inflammable condition. According to a statement by Town Clerk Charles Clark, over 175 licenses have been issued in Westfield. A word of caution to these sportsmen regarding the danger of fire either from ignited gun wads or carelessly dropped matches or pipe ashes is not amiss as Westfield can ill afford to lose any of the pretty woodland in the vicinity of the town.

The Reply Courteous.

Judging from two effusions that recently made their appearance in the paper down the street our esteemed and venerable contemporary seems to be somewhat peeved.

We are extremely sorry that in our wholesale slashing and pasting to fill our editorial page we should inadvertently have clipped and published anything that should have so riled him as to cause him to forget not only the ethics of professional journalism but the conduct of a gentleman as well.

We are pleased at all times to borrow the products of brains and bright intellects wherever we may find them, in order that The Standard may have the best. It may have been noticed in this connection, however, that we have never found it necessary to borrow from our local contemporary, and we dare say that in the future the children of his fertile imagination will be safe from our predatory rapacity.

It may be that we do not know as much about Westfield as "The Man Who Knows", but on the other hand Westfield doesn't know so much about us as it does about him; for which blessing we are duly grateful.

Six Weeks to Christmas.

It may sound like a grim joke to many to publish the fact that Christmas is coming and that "Do your Christmas shopping early" means now. A whole lot of fathers and mothers are too busy worrying about rent and the coal bill to spend much time over gifts. Nevertheless, it is only six weeks to Christmas, and this is the time to sit down and do your best for the day.

Buying as early as you can is not the only story this year. Many will be able to do little enough buying, anyway. But there are precious few of us so badly off that we cannot afford to bring a little Christmas to some one who needs it more than we do. Why not sit down now and plan to help out some one you know about? The need was never greater. The winter is likely to see more suffering and want than any of us can remember. Christmas is your day to lend a hand and now is the time to fill your basket.

TRAP SHOOTING AT THE WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB.

The new shooting traps at the Westfield Golf Club were opened on Saturday afternoon and some very good scores were made by the gunners. In the first string, E. F. Randolph killed 21 out of 25.

Matches will be held every two weeks but all members who desire to shoot other days in the week must notify the club steward in advance so that he can arrange for the trap boys.

The shoot for the point prize cup to be known as the Westfield Golf Club cup will begin on Saturday, December 5th and end on March 27th. Points to be first 5, second 3 and third 1.

On New Year's Day, Lincoln's Birthday and Washington's Birthday, take home cups will be shot for.

At the closing meet of the season on March 27, a special shoot for the President's cup, emblematic of the club championship will be held. This will be a 100 bird handicap event. The shooting days are November 21, December 5, 19, January 1, 9, 23, February 6, 12, 22, March 6, 20, 27.

The highest scores made on Saturday were E. F. Randolph 21; E. J. Gibson 19, E. Thompson, 12.

The club has a very commodious shelter house and traps that are electrically pulled and the birds fly in all directions.

Those who desire to go to the traps which are located at the end of the golf course should get off the trolley at the entrance to Lyde Park and take path direct to the shelter house.

GOLF NOTES.

In the finals completed last week for the Dr. R. R. Sinclair cup on the links of the Westfield Golf Club M. Yamawaki was the winner, defeated W. A. Gardner 3 up and 2 to play.

In the finals for the G. C. Abernethy consolation cup offered by Mr. Abernethy as a prize for the second sixteen in the Sinclair cup, R. L. McIntosh defeated R. E. Perry after a hard fought match, 2 up and 1 to play.

G. L. Morgan, G. C. Abernethy and A. I. Nichols played off the unfinished Election Day Belgian Relief event for the bronze medal given by the Metropolitan Golf Association and Morgan was the winner with a net score of 70. Abernethy was second with net 75 and Nichols finished third with net 80.

Thrown From Bicycle.

Thomas Moore, colored, of South avenue, met with a painful accident on East Broad street, on Tuesday morning. Moore was riding a bicycle on that thoroughfare, when near the residence of P. Traynor the bicycle hit a cobblestone, which was in the road, throwing Moore to the ground and rendering him unconscious. First aid was given him by nearby residents and later he was taken to the home of Dr. L. G. Newman where it was found he had sustained severe bruises about the head and face. After being treated by Doctor Newman he went to his home. It is not thought the injuries will be serious. The bicycle was not damaged.

DOUBLY PROVEN.

Westfield Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This grateful citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. John W. Lohman, 25 W. Jersey St., Elizabeth, N. J., says: "I suffered from backaches so severe that often I could just keep up. Frequently I was so stiff and lame in the morning that I had trouble in straightening or bending. Colds settled on my kidneys and not only caused me pain but also brought on trouble with the kidney secretions. I found out some years ago that I could depend on Doan's Kidney Pills to cure me of these troubles. They did this and for some time I have not suffered."

NO TROUBLE SINCE.

On August 13, 1913, Mr. Lohman said: "I have tested Doan's Kidney Pills very thoroughly and as told in the statement I gave some years ago, they completely rid me of kidney trouble. I am always glad to say a word for Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Lohman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Episcopal team of the Sunday School Athletic League defeated the Congregational team, who are the leaders of the League two out of three games on the Playhouse alleys last night and tied up with the Methodists for second place. The Congregational team who have been hitting the pins for good scores ever since the League started were off form and hung up some poor scores. The Episcopalists won the first two but lost out in the nightcap by seven pins. The scores:

METHODISTS WIN FROM PRESBYTERIANS.

The Methodist team of the Sunday School Athletic League made it three straight on the alleys of the Playhouse Tuesday night, when they took the Presbyterian, who are occupying the cellar position in the League, into camp. While neither team were doing any expert bowling, the Methodists had the better of the pins all the way through. Young of this team was the only man to post a 200 score.

In the first game the Presbyterians were defeated by sixteen pins, but in the next two it was a walk away for the Methodists. The scores:

Curiosity for Mother to See.

After mother had laid a steak on a hissing hot pan and the air became too thick for comfort, little Marelle retreated to a safer distance, and as the sputtering did not diminish, her sense of caution finally sent her into the pantry. From this vantage ground fascinated brown eyes peered forth at the volcanic action on the stove. Finding voice at last, the little one piped, "Look, look, mother, at the grease dust in the air."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. The Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Dr. Williams' Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and enabling nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Neither team did any sensational pinning and no two hundred scores were posted by a member of either team. In the second game all the Arcanum bowlers put up good scores and posted 910.

In the first game the Immediate Aiders won out by five pins. In the second game the Loyals were the winners by a good margin but in the last game they fell down with a thud and were beaten out by nearly one hundred pins.

K. B. DEFEATS ALPHA SIGMA.

The local basketball season opened last Friday evening at the Episcopal Parish House with a victory for the home team, the K. B. five winning 37-18. Although neither team showed any extraordinary playing, both teams showed promise of fine work before the regular season begins. The result points to a good High School team since all the scoring was done by High School players with the exception of four of the Alpha Sigma points.

Ewing was handicapped by the sprained ankle he received in football and did not show up quite as good as usual, for although he scored 17 points, Randall against whom he was playing ran up 14 points. Day and Lambert played steady games, scoring most of the rest of the K. B.'s total.

Tonight the K. B. will meet the Pilo five at the Parish House, at 7:30. Previous to the regular game the second team will play the W. A. C. Dancing will follow the game.

The lineup:
K. B. Position A. S.
Ewing R. F. G. Elliott
Day L. F. Cherry
Lambert C. Bachmann
Sisserson L. O. Randall
Pearsall R. G. J. Elliott
Field goals—Ewing 8; Day 5; Lambert 4; Sisserson 1; Randall 7; Cherry 1; Elliott 1.
Foul goals—Ewing 1.
Referee—Delatour.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE SCHOOLS

The following has been decided upon as the method which those interested may know when there will be no sessions of the public schools due to bad weather or some other unforeseen difficulty: Tuttle Brothers will blow their whistle on the mill for fifteen seconds to be followed by a rest of thirty seconds. This alternate blowing and rest will be continued until five minutes have passed.

The first practice of the girls basketball team of the high school took place last Thursday and there were seventeen reported for this practice. The first practice for the boys of the high school took place on Friday afternoon and about the same number reported for this practice that reported for the girls on the preceding day.

Several of the teachers of the schools are taking the examinations for certificates. These examinations are being held at the court house in Elizabeth and are under the direction of the County Superintendent. They are held on the first three Saturdays of this month. A similar series of examinations extend over the same length of time in April. The matter of certificates is an important one in the State of New Jersey and the requirements for them are being raised to higher standards each year.

Some of the topics that have proved of great interest recently in the work of the high school are Russia in America; Career of Prince Henry the Navigator; How to Make a Birch Bark Canoe; the Spanish Silver Mines; early Public Buildings on Manhattan Island; Studies and School Books in Early Colonial Times; New Jersey before 1700. These are taken up first as written reports of about a thousand words in length.

Miss Lillian Spencer, Miss Madeline Blair and Miss Dorothy Martin, members of the Sophomore and Junior classes at the North Plainfield High School visited the Commercial Department of the High School on Monday of this week.

The boys and girls basketball teams have arranged their schedules of practice for this month as follows: The second week in the month the girls practice on Monday and Wednesday. The fourth week they practice on the same days that they did the second week. This will about evenly divide the time between the two teams.

On Monday night the music department had a rehearsal of the comic operetta "Bulbul." The rehearsal was principally for the ladies and gentlemen of the court and the maids of honor. There were about sixty present to take these parts. "Bulbul" is a chorus for mixed voices. The books and lyrics are by Elizabeth Maude Inch and the music is written by W. Rhys-Herbert.

The committees of the Board of Education on Instruction and Teachers met at the Washington school on Monday night with the teachers of the sixth grades. The chief topic of discussion was the making of school progress and the time that is to be devoted to each subject of the curriculum. This was an introductory meeting for this topic for the committees are planning to give several evenings to this consideration of the subject shortly after the Christmas holidays. The foundation for the discussion on Monday was the State Monograph on the making in school programs. In this monograph there are several suggested schemes both for a fifteen hundred minute school week and a fourteen hundred and twenty-five minute school week.

The High School orchestra has its practice every Tuesday. Miss Burhans and Miss Dorothy Pearsall alternate at the piano. Mr. Henderson, Ralph Woodruff and Miss Irene Emery play the violins. Emil Brunner is assisting in the orchestra. Homer Dennis plays the drum and Donald Pearsall the cornet.

Miss Helen Stockton of the Art Department has been elected president of the Union County Art Teachers Association. There are about fifteen members of the association thus far and it is desired that all of the art teachers of the county enter into the work that the association is planning. One of the immediate plans is to bring about a large attendance of the members at the New Jersey State Teachers Association meetings in December at Atlantic City.

The following books have been recently added to the library of the Washington school: Readings in Grecian and Roman History, by Davis; Ancient Egypt and Assyria, by Maspero; Mediaeval and Modern History, by Davis; Essentials of Early European History, by Howells; American Citizenship, by Beard; Cyclopaedia of Political Science, Political Economy and American History, three volumes; Great Epochs in American History, by Halsey; Contemporary American History, by Beard; American Government and Politics, by Beard; Financial History of the United States, by Dewey; City Government in the United States, by Goodnow; The Trust Problem, by Jenks; Economic History of the United States, by Bogart; Money and Banking, by White; Tariff History of the United States, by Tausig; History of Commerce in Europe, by Gibbins; Principles of International Law, by Lawrence; Elements of Economics, by Burch.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Make-Believe.

For upwards of three-quarters of an hour of that golden morning which followed the night of his return to New York, Mr. Law was permitted to esteem himself the happiest of mortals. And inasmuch as this is not only a longer uninterrupted term of happiness than is humanly common but is more of that emotion than ordinarily leaves the whole of a lifetime, Alan was perhaps to be envied, even though disillusionment when it came was sudden, sharp, and to him unspeakably shocking—a swift, unexpressed plunge from sunlit peaks of supreme content to the black depths of a bleak Avenue of despair.

The beginning of the period was synchronous with the slam of a taxicab door that shut away a superfluous world from the company of two who loved.

The sound spelled safety as well as success in Alan's understanding.

The car slipped smoothly away from the curb, pursued only by a little gust of semi-ironic cheers from the little company of working men who had witnessed as well as measurably participated in the putative elopement from the house of Trine.

Vigilant for any indication that their evasion had had a witness in that strange home of deathless hatred, Alan watched it through the little window in the back of the cab until a corner blotted out the vision of it; then with a sigh of relief sank down by the side of the woman to whom his every thought, impulse and emotion were dedicated.

"Rose!" he whispered, and tentatively touched one of the hands that lay clenched in her lap.

She responded with never a sign to indicate consciousness either of his touch or his whisper.

And reminding himself of the strain imposed upon her by the experience through which they had just passed, Alan excused her unresponsiveness on grounds of reaction, and for the first time felt constrained to let his sweetheart rest and regain her normal pulse; there was bliss enough for her in the consciousness that she had won in the safely away, that nothing now more than a short hour's drive across town and by ferry across the Hudson stood between them and the marriage that should prove the consummation of all their trials.

Barring accident! Alan had too often suffered the penalty of disappointment for over-indulgence in this falling of his for depreciating the unforeseen, not to make the menial reservation, "Barring accident!" with a little shiver of dread.

Had any of Trine's household been cognizant of his daughter's escape, Alan argued, interference must have been instant.

Despite the reassuring aspect, the preoccupation of his companion so wore upon him that he was presently no longer able to restrain his disturbing her.

"Rose!" he begged again, closing a hand tenderly over hers. "Dearest girl, don't worry another instant! Do calm yourself; remember, we are safe."

She Appeared Anxious to Escape Without Being Seen.

now, when he needed them handily—thanks to your faith and bravery, sweetheart!—everything is going to be well with us from now on. Over in Jersey minister is waiting now to marry us; and down at the White Star dock the boat is waiting that is to carry us off to England the moment we're married. Think of that—and that I love you. Nothing can possibly break the strength of that combination!"

For another minute she rested as she had ever since sinking into the corner of the taxicab—motionless, taut, unresponsive.

Then a long sigh shook her to her very heart, and of a sudden the small fist in Alan's grasp relaxed and her face turned to his like a flower to the sun, a face transfigured, its lips now soft and yielding, its eyes unclosed and smiling into his a smile all misty with unshed tears.

"Alan," she breathed gently. "It can't be true! I'm trying so hard to believe—but all the while I know it can't be true!"

He converted a skeptic with the mute eloquence of his lips.

Head upon his shoulder, the girl clung passionately to him. "Tell me again that you love me!" she prayed. "Promise me you'll never let anything come between us. Promise me, Alan—promise me you'll be kind to me always, dear!"

"Can you doubt I will be kind?" he murmured reproachfully.

"I am afraid," she whispered. "How could I be anything else, loving you as I do?"

"I am afraid."

"Why should I be unkind to you?" "It isn't that. I'm just afraid."

"Of what?" "Of losing you."

"But that can never be!" "You can't be sure. What if you were to find you'd been mistaken?"

She caught her breath and added hastily—"That you didn't really love me, I mean."

"Oh, that's ridiculous!" "I can't be sure. Nothing in life is permanent. What is love? Illusion of the senses! What is happiness? A will-o'-the-wisp! What is life? A make-believe!"

"Dearest!" He held her more closely still. "You are nervous and overwrought. You don't know what you're saying. You can't mean what you're saying. But as for that life is all make-believe. You make-believe you love me."

"Oh, but I do, I do!"

"And make-believe for a little, we've caught the will-o'-the-wisp—only for a little—until you wake up, and realize that it's all real and true."

She closed her eyes again. "Yes," she breathed, "you are right. Let's make-believe. It's all true for a little longer."

He could not and forgot this strange humor; but he did his best to comfort her, none the less tender, because of his mystification. And for a long time she let illusion blind her, resting quietly in his arms, making believe.

Only on approaching the Twenty-third street ferry they must needs rouse and sit apart constrainedly for fear some one might glance through the window and surmise their secret.

As if one needed the evidence of a caress exchanged to know that they were lovers, who had eyes to see the flushed loveliness of the girl shrinking back in her corner or wit to interpret the radiant happiness that shone in Alan's face as he bent forward and watched warily from the window.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Ring.

Theirs was the last vehicle to swing between the gates before these last were closed.

And this was quite as well; for Alan, rising for one last backward glance through the rear window, started involuntarily and choked upon an exclamation when he descried a powerful touring car tearing madly toward the ferry-house, its one passenger half rising from the front seat, beside the driver, and exhibiting a countenance purple with congested chagrin as he saw his car barred out of the carriage entrance.

Quickly sensitive to his emotion, the girl caught nervously at Alan's hand.

"What is it, dear?" "Marrophat," he snapped.

She uttered a hushed cry of dismay. "Don't be alarmed, however," he hastened to comfort her. "He's lost the race: the gates are shut—even the passenger gates—and there must be a company spotter somewhere near by, for the gateman is virtuously refusing to be bribed by a roll of money as thick as my wrist!"

At that instant the taxicab rolled aboard the ferry-boat; the deck gates were closed; a hoarse whistle rent the roaring silence of the city; winches rattled and chains clanked; and the boat wore ponderously out of its slip.

"So much for Mr. Marrophat!" Alan crowed, sitting down. "Folled again! He can't stop us now!"

"Perhaps."

"Why that perhaps? Why that tone?" he demanded sharply, struck by the foreboding her accents confessed.

"This isn't the only ferry. There's the Pennsylvania and the Lackawanna—and by hard driving he might even manage to catch the boat that connects with this from the Christopher street ferry of the Erie!"

"Impossible! I don't believe it! I won't!"

"Let's not," she agreed. "But, Alan—"

"Yes?"

"Promise me—if he should manage to catch up with us—you won't let him talk to you. I mean, don't let him—"

"No fear of that!" he assented hotly. "If he tries to exchange one word with me—I only wish he would!"

She seemed satisfied with that; but the incident had served appreciably to chill their spirits. They accomplished the remainder of that voyage in a silence that was no less depressed because they sat hand in hand throughout.

Nor was their taxicab three minutes out of the ferry house on the Jersey shore—though the chauffeur, stimulated by Alan's extravagant promises, was doing his best to fracture the speed laws and escape arrest—when the girl's fears were amply justified; a shout from behind drew Alan's head out of the window on one side and the girl's on the other and proved to both that Marrophat had indeed found some way to make the crossing without great delay.

His touring car was within fifty yards when they first were aware of it; and Marrophat, standing on the running-board, was shouting inarticulately and flourishing an imperative hand; while the distance between them was momentarily growing less noticeable.

As Marrophat's car drew abreast Alan nodded and said quietly: "Don't be alarmed; I can attend to this gentleman single-handed."

And this he proceeded to demonstrate with admirable ease, even though called upon to do so far sooner than he had thought to be—thanks to Marrophat's half-brained precipitancy. For, failing to influence the taxi driver by shouted demands or threats, or to gain the least attention from Alan, Trine's first lieutenant abruptly and surprisingly took his life in his hands and in one wild bound bridged the distance between the two flying cars and landed on the taxi's running-board.

"Stop!" he screamed madly. "Stop, I say! You don't know what you're doing! Let me tell you—"

He got that far but no farther. In the same breath Alan had swung wide the door and was at the fellow's throat. There was a struggle of negligible duration; Marrophat was in no way his antagonist's match; within three seconds he threw out both hands, clutched hopelessly at the framework of the cab, and fell heavily to the street.

The taxi sped on without pause, its driver deaf to the halls of innocent if indignant bystanders. Alan pulled himself together and looked back just in time to catch a glimpse of a number of loafers lifting Marrophat to his feet and helping him to the sidewalk

"That Woman is Judith Trine, You Idiot—Not Rose!"

of an unsavory-looking tenement, before the cab took a corner on two wheels.

"Not seriously injured, I fancy," he told the girl in response to her eager look. "Worse luck!" he added gloomily.

But it seemed that he was to have greater cause than this to complain of his luck, before that ride was ended. Three blocks further on a tire blew out with a report like a cannon-cracker, and the taxi lurched perilously, hesitated, slowed down, and limped dejectedly to the curb.

Alan and the chauffeur piled out in the same instant, the one standing guard—with an eye out as well for another cab—while the other assessed damages.

"Nothing for it but a new tire, sir," this last reported sympathetically. "It must have been a broken bottle or something like that—it sure did rip the usefulness clean out of that shoe."

"Go to it," Alan advised him tersely; "and if you make a quick job of it, I'll stand the cost of the new tire."

"But if another cab comes along while you're at it you'll lose us as quick as a wink. Here's my card, in case we have to desert you in a hurry; you understand this is a matter of life and death, and I'll have no time to settle up with you. But you can call at Mr. Digby's office and he'll fix things up to your satisfaction."

The man took the card and after a glance at the name touched his hat with more noticeable respect.

"All right, Mr. Law," he agreed; "anything you say." And forthwith got to work.

The rapidity with which he completed the change of tires proved him an excellent chauffeur, an adept at his craft; but the delay was one disastrous for all that. It worked together with what Alan pardonably described as the devil's own luck to bring the touring car in sight at the precise moment when the chauffeur was cranking up and Alan on the point of re-entering the cab. And though they were off again before Alan could close the door, the attempt was hopeless from the start.

And yet—whether or not because Alan's distaste for interference had been too convincingly demonstrated—the touring car for the time being contented itself with trailing about fifty feet in the rear, while the taxi fled the tenement purloined of the Hoboken waterfront and found its way into the broader streets of an unpretentious suburban quarter.

Not until they were well into the suburbs, with few dwellings near and no pedestrians to interfere, did Marrophat's purpose become apparent. Then, however—and it happened while Alan was looking back—the touring car drew in swiftly and easily and Marrophat, rising in his seat, leveled a revolver over the windshield and fired.

The crack of his weapon was practically coincident with a metallic thud beneath the rear seat of the taxicab.

Not for some moments did Alan appreciate the viciousness of the scheme. Surmising that the gasoline tank had been punctured by the bullet, he was inclined to believe that Marrophat hoped to stop the taxicab by depriving it, in course of time, of its fuel. And with this in mind he was presently surprised, as the cab took a corner, to see Marrophat's car stop at that corner and Marrophat himself get down. The brow of a hill intervened, shutting off sight of the blackguard as he knelt and lit a match. It was the girl who gave the alarm, suddenly withdrawing her head from the window to scream at Alan:

"He's fired the gasoline! It's flaming along the street, following the line of the leak—and catching up with us!"

Without pausing to put his hand to the latch, Alan kicked the door open. "Jump!" he cried. "For your life—jump! As soon as that flame catches up with the tank—"

Simultaneously the chauffeur, over-hearing, shut off the power.

The three gained the sidewalk barely in time: the tiny trail of flames, almost imperceptible in the sunlight, was not a yard from the jet that spurted through the bullet hole in the tank. In the flutter of an eyelash the explosion followed. Had the cab been loaded with nitroglycerin its destruction could have been no more absolute.

There was a roar . . . and then a heap of smoking ruins.

Without waiting to admire the spectacle, Alan caught the arm of the girl and hurried her up the street, at the same time calling to the chauffeur to follow. And chance brought them to the next corner as another cab, far-chance to move aside, but seized so fiercely by the wrists that it instinctively lifted, to protect him, and she fairly threw him half a dozen feet from her. He brought up with a crash against the wall even as the door slammed behind the girl.

When Alan, the first to recover, gained the sidewalk, she was already in the taxicab. Whatever reward she had promised the man, he whipped his machine away as if from the fear of sudden death.

And darting from the house hard on the minister's heels, Marrophat leaped into his own car and, as if he had not heard her threat or received substantial proof of her earnestness, tore off in pursuit.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

And the Rose.

Taking the dazed young man by the hand, as though he had been a child, the Reverend Mr. Wright led Alan back to his study and established him in a comfortable armchair beside his desk.

"Sit there and compose yourself, my dear young friend," he insisted in a soothing voice.

At the elbow of the Reverend Mr. Wright a telephone shrilled imperatively. With a gesture of professional patience he turned to the instrument, lifted the receiver to his ear, and spoke in musically modulated accents. "Yes . . . Yes: this is Mr. Wright. . . . Ah, yes, Mr. Digby. . . . Not coming? But, my dear sir, Mr. Law is already here. I must tell you—"

He checked with a reproving glance for Alan, who was twitching his sleeve insistently.

"If you please," Alan begged, "let me speak to Digby at once. Forgive me—"

Reluctantly the minister surrendered the telephone.

"That you, Digby?"

"Alan! Bless my soul, what are you doing over there? Is Miss Trine with you? But how can that be possible?"

"Rose? No. What about her?" Alan demanded, stammering with anxiety.

"Why—one of my spies has just reported by telephone. He was going on duty this morning when he saw a young woman—either Rose or Judith—wearing a rough coat over boudoir dress—climb out of one of the basement windows of Trine's house. She was apparently in great distress of mind and anxious to escape without being seen from the house; but before my man—whose post of observation is in the third story of one of the houses opposite—could get to the street, she had been caught by several rough-looking customers, who rushed out of Trine's house, seized the girl, and made off with her in a motor-car bearing a New Jersey license number. I am sending men to watch the Jersey ferries. Call me up in an hour—"

Without a word of response, and without a word of apology to the Reverend Mr. Wright, Alan dropped the receiver, snatched up his hat, and fled; that house like a man demented.

Rose, escaping from Trine's house, overpowered and made the captive of Trine's lowest creatures—gunmen possibly, of the stamp of that animal whom Trine had charged with the assassination of Alan the night before!

There was neither a motor-car in sight for him to charter nor any time to waste in seeking one. Alan could only hope to find one on his way back toward the ferry. It must have been upwards of an hour before he came into a street which he recognized, by its dinginess and squalor, as that in which he had thrown Marrophat from the running-board of the taxicab.

And then, as he paused, breathless and footsore, to cast about him for the way to the ferry, a touring car, turned a corner at topspeed and slowed to a stop before that selfsame tenement of the unsavory aspect to whose sidewalk he had seen Marrophat assisted by the loafers of the quarter.

And this touring car was occupied by some half-dozen ruffians in whose hands a young girl writhed and struggled when, immediately on the stop, they jumped out and wrestled her out with brutal inconsideration.

Like a shot Alan had crossed the street—but only to bring up nose to the panels of the tenement door, and to find himself seized and thrown roughly aside by a burly denizen when he grasped the knob and made as if to follow in.

"Keep back, young feller!" his assailant warned him viciously. "Keep outa this, now, if you don't want to get into trouble."

To the speaker's side another ranged, eying Alan with a formidable scowl. At discretion he stepped back and turned as if persuaded to mind his own business, then swung on his heel, caught the two in the very act of opening the door, and threw himself between them.

An elbow planted heavily in the pit of the stomach of one disposed of him for the time being. A blow from the shoulder sent the other reeling to the gutter. And Alan was in the tenement's lowermost hall—a foul and evil-dowered place, dark as a pit the instant the door was closed, its murk relieved only by the flame of a kerosene lamp smoking in a bracket near the foot of the stairs.

Sounds of scuffling of feet were audible on the first landing. Alan addressed himself impetuously to the stairnose, gaining its top in half a dozen leaps, and only in time to see a door slammed at the forward end of the hall and hear a key turned in its lock.

A cluster of men blocked the way. He didn't pause to wait for it to be cleared, but threw himself headlong into their midst, and by dint of the

TALKS ON THRIFT

Bringing Up Nine Children.
"There is but one thing women can do now and that is to choose food stuffs carefully, cook them to the best advantage and disseminate their knowledge of right eating and living among those who are not so well informed."—Henrietta D. Grauel.
A mother who is bringing up a family of nine children in these times ought to know a good deal about how to manage, and her experiences should be of value to others, even to those with much smaller families.

There is such a family in a Minnesota city (there are seven girls and two boys, ranging in age from four to twenty-four). The mother gives some facts about her domestic arrangements which are very interesting. They are summarized as follows:
FOOD—Saving is considered to be largely wise buying. So there is no hand-to-mouth ordering in this family. A cement-walled and floored cold storage-room in the cellar makes possible the purchase of thirty bushels of potatoes when they are cheapest. Proportionate quantities of cabbages, beans, turnips, carrots, celery, etc., are also bought and stored at the proper time. Flour and sugar are bought by the hundred pounds or barrel, vinegar and molasses by the gallon, eggs by the crate.

A small vegetable garden contributes somewhat to reduce the cost of living in the summer, while extensive canning operations carry the war on into the winter. This fall thirty-two cans of tomatoes were "put up" and many feet of shelving in the cellar groans under the weight of tier after tier of glass jars of peaches, plums, pears, currants and jellies. This family could withstand a siege of several months, but good food, cleanliness, early hours and general care have prevented any such necessity, for the family has never been quarantined by the health authorities.

CLOTHING—Buying in quantities is the rule here also. When it's time to buy shoes and rubbers. Paterfamilias musters a squad of six or eight children and marches them to the shoe dealer, who is glad to give a liberal discount on such a sale. With a preponderance of girls it is not strange that most of the dresses and hats are made at home, especially since several of the girls have, perforce, become adepts with the needle and scissors. They watch the bargain sales and also the fashion hints in the newspapers. End-of-season remnants provide good material cheap for next season's dresses. All cleaning and dyeing is likewise done at home.

THE HOME—There is a mixture of Scotch, French and German in this family's ancestry, so it is not surprising that the home is owned. They rented part of a "duplex" at first. Then bought it and made the rent money from the other part help pay for the property. Later the husband and father, who is a building contractor, built a home in a part of the city more desirable for bringing up children.

THE BANK—Of course, the finances of this family are largely handled through a checking account, while most of the children have their own savings accounts or a little metal bank at home. It goes without saying that they will be thrifty and successful. They could not be otherwise with the wise example, precept and training impressed upon them constantly.

HOW TO CURE A CHRONIC COUGH

Told in the Following Letter by a Jackson Man Who Knows from Experience. His Word Is Good.

Jackson, Miss.—"I am a carpenter, and the gripe left me not only with a chronic cough, but I was run-down, worn out and weak. I took all kinds of cough syrups but they did me no good. I finally got so weak I was not able to do a day's work, and coughed so much I was alarmed about my condition. One evening I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Before I had taken a quarter of a bottle I felt better, and after taking two bottles my cough is entirely cured, all the bad symptoms have disappeared and I have gained new vigor and energy."
—JOHN L. DENNIS, 711 Lynch Street, Jackson, Miss.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because the active medicinal principles of cod liver oil contained in Vinol rebuilds wasting tissues and supplies strength and vigor to the nerves and muscles while the tonic iron and wine assist the red corpuscles of the blood to absorb oxygen and distribute it through the system, thus restoring health and strength to the weakened, diseased organs of the body.
If Vinol fails to help you, we return your money.

TREY O'HEARTS

surprise had gained the closed door before they recovered and sought to stay him.

Indifferent to them all, he shook the knob and shouted: "Rose! Rose!" Her cry came back to him, a muffled scream: "Alan! Help! Help!" Backing away with a mad idea of throwing himself bodily against the door and breaking it down, he was suddenly confronted by a hideous mask of humanity—face of man all misshapen, bruised and swollen and disfigured with smears of dried blood and a dirty bandage round his temples, but none the less vaguely recognizable.

The words that streamed from its distorted lips drove recognition home. "Gee, fellers, look't who's here! If it ain't th' guy what threw me off'n that girder this mornin'. Stand back and let me kill th'—"

Without the hesitation of a heartbeat Alan swung heavily for the thug's jaw. The blow went solidly home. The man fell like a poled ox.

Pandemonium ensued. Rallying to their comrade, the ruffians attacked Alan with one mind and one intent. Murder would have been done then and there had it not been for a rotten banister-rail, which gave way, precipitating the lot to the ground floor of the hallway.

Simultaneously the lamp on the wall was struck from its bracket and crashed to the floor, its glass well breaking and loosing a flood of kerosene to receive the burning wick. The explosion followed instantly. In a trice the hallway was a lake of burning oil, and hungry flames were licking up the rotting wallpaper and eating into decayed baseboards and stair-treads.

Still fighting like a madman, contesting every foot of the way, Alan was borne down the hall and out of the front door. A scream of "Fire!" greeted him as he reeled out into the open. It was echoed by a dozen throats.

The doorway vomited men and women of the tenement. They choked it for a time, blocking both egress and ingress. By the time they broke out and left the way clear a solid wall of flame stood behind it.

Thrice Alan essayed to pass that barrier of fire, and thrice it threw him back. Then, struggling and kicking to release himself and try again, he was seized by a brace of able-bodied policemen and rushed fifty feet from the house before let go.

Lack of breath checked him momentarily.

He looked up, dashing from his smarting eyes tears drawn by the stifling clouds of smoke, and saw vaguely at the second story window a woman leaning out and shrieking for help.

That it was hopeless to attempt the staircase he well knew. Drawing aside, he endeavored to come to his sober senses, and cast about for some more feasible way to effect the rescue of his Rose.

The tenement occupied one corner of a narrow street. Directly opposite, a storage warehouse stood upon the other corner. Before this last was the common landing stage for truck deliveries, protected by a shed-roof. And, suspended from a timber that peered out over the eaves, a hoisting tackle dragged the ground with its ropes. It was the work of a minute to convince a thick-headed policeman that the attempt was feasible and should be permitted. It was the work of less than another minute to rig a loop in the line and fasten round his body beneath the arms. Volunteers did not lack; a couple of husky longshoremen sprang to the ropes at his first call. They heaved with a will. His feet left the ground, he soared, he caught the eaves of the shed-roof, and shouting to cease hauling, drew himself up on this last, backed a little ways down it and calculating his direction nicely, with a running jump launched himself out over the street.

The momentum of his leap carried him well out over the heads of the throng assembled in the street and truly toward that window where Rose was waiting. Then his force slackened. For an awful instant he believed that he had failed. But with the last expiring ounce of impetus, he was brought within grasping distance of the window sill.

Hauling himself up, he gathered her into his arms. A great tongue of tawny flame licked angrily out of the windows as he swung her back to safety.

G. O. P. MAJORITY IN STATE WAS 23,872

An Absolute Reversal of the Vote of 1913, Which Gave Governor
Fielder 32,850

Complete official returns from every county in New Jersey show that the Republican majority based on the vote for assemblymen was 23,872—an absolute reversal of the vote of 1913 which gave Governor Fielder a majority of 32,850.

In 1913 Republican majorities were secured in only eight counties—Camden, Burlington, Atlantic, Mercer, Cape May, Gloucester, Ocean and Passaic. In the recent election Republicans were victorious in fifteen counties, losing only in Hudson; Bergen, Middlesex, Hunterdon, Warren and Sussex. In Bergen a Democratic majority of 3214 in 1913 was reduced to 252 this year.

A comparison of the figures for 1913
and 1914 will furnish convincing proof of the state wide resentment of the extravagance and incompetency of the Democratic majority in the last session of the New Jersey Legislature and also of the confidence of the people in the Republican Party to restore an efficient and economic government. Here

CHOCOLATE MAKING INTERESTS STUDENTS

A representative of the Hershey Chocolate Company presented to the students of the Domestic Science department two phases of the process of the making of chocolate. The first lecture was last week and on Wednesday of this week he gave the second one. The lecture of the first day was upon the making of the chocolate and some of its uses. The speaker had numerous forms of the substance and from these was able to trace from the beginning of the vegetable product to the finished article. One of the attractive parts of this talk was the number of etables that were given to those present. The second lecture was for the more advanced students but otherwise was much the same as for the first one.

The meeting of the Committees of the Board of Education on next Monday evening will take up the problems of the Fifth grades of the town schools. The teachers of these grades will be present to explain in detail
the work.

An informal meeting of the members of the Athletic Council was called on Thursday for the discussion of the athletic situation in the High School.
Mr. McLaughlin was a visitor to the Garwood schools on Wednesday morning.

Both the Grant and McKinley Parent-Teachers' Associations will be represented at the Congress of Mothers meeting in Atlantic City at the end of the week. Miss Penny, Miss Palmer and Miss Sechrist are planning to attend.

The Thursday Appreciation Class of the music department was devoted to a song recital by Mrs. Poolham. A number of visitors were present in addition to the usual members of the class.

culverts and is of the opinion that it is incumbent upon the Board of Freeholders to take care of these culverts.
Your committee would, therefore, recommend the construction of a new culvert on Russell place to take the place of one now composed of pipe, which is too small in size and not sufficiently strong—the new work not to cost more than $200.

With regard to the two culverts on Passaic avenue, your committee would recommend that these culverts be entirely closed up, and your committee would recommend laying all new corrugated iron pipe at these points, also the construction of a new corrugated iron pipe across West End place at the easterly side of Passaic avenue—the total cost of these three culverts not to exceed the sum of $200.

WILLIAM H. McMANE,
PETER H. MEISEL,
Committee.

This report was again taken up for consideration, as the action was deferred
at the last meeting of the board.
On motion by Freeholder McMane the culverts on Russell place were on roll call ordered constructed and the action on the remainder deferred and the report ordered placed on file.
