Expo draws more than 5,000

Cloudy skies didn't deter more than 5,000 people who poured into the first Kids Expo held at Union County College in Cranford last Saturday.

The event, a joint effort of the Westfield YMCA/YWCA and the Jewish Community Center (JCC), was considered a success.

According to Richard Common, Executive Director of JCC, the event went "exceedingly well."

Because it went so well, however, there was a problem with the crowds. Originally Mr. Common said that they only expected 5,000 people but many more showed up.

"One major problem was that there were too many people. We couldn't accommodate everyone," Mr. Common said. "So we had to turn people away."

But those that did get in had the opportunity to enjoy the 65 exhibits on display.

Offering education and entertainment at the same time, the Kids Expo provided children hands-on experience with everything from computers and vending machines to static generators.

"For the vast majority, it was a wonderful experience for the families," Mr. Common said.

Westfield's Donald Menella appears on Jeopardy — again

By ELIZABETH GROMEK
THE RECORD

ANSWER: This Westfield resident recently competed on Jeopardy! Although he came in third place, he asked the right question in the final round.

ANSWER: Who is Donald Menella?

No, "Westfield Residents" is not the latest category on the game show. If it were, Mr. Menella could have swept the competition.

After a series of tests and auditions Mr. Menella appeared on the long-running TV quiz show last Monday night. He started out by taking a test in Atlantic City and moved through the process until he got a call last November asking him if he could make it to Hollywood to be on the show.

There are four parts to the procedure, he explained.

The first is a preliminary test where would-be contestants have to get seven of 10 answers correct. In the next test, Mr. Menella had to answer 50 questions in 50 categories. However, unlike the actual show, the questions do not vary in difficulty, they are all the $800 and $1,000 questions.

The third part of the process was an interview where the contestants have to list five interesting things about themselves. Although Mr. Menella responded that he had been on the show in his first run, he ended up discussing how he graduated a year ahead of Danny DeVito from Oratory Prep in Summit.

Candidates see areas needing more work in school district

By ELIZABETH GROMEK
THE RECORD

If Westfield were Shangri-la, no one would be able to name anything in the schools that needed a little extra attention. But the school board candidates bring reality back by calling attention to several areas that could use a little TLC.

The five candidates are vying for three open board seats in the April 20 election. Incumbents Susan Jacobson and Melba Nixon will be challenged by Bill Sweeney, Jean Benisch, and Bill Reinhardt.

Mr. Sweeney suggested four areas for the board to spend more time looking into. There should be greater use of technology in the schools, which a task force is currently studying, he said.

He also called for improved teaching conditions for music and the arts. Space for these programs has been dwindling as the need for more traditional classroom space has increased. There should also be more after school activities at the two intermediate schools.

Finally, he said full-day kindergarten should be considered. Although he acknowledged it would be expensive.

For Jean Benisch, improvements to the curriculum need "tools available to monitor their effectiveness." Right now, she said, the standardized tests that are used do not reveal if the changes have proven successful.

"These tests are broad, and may not be sensitive to the immediate goals that we are trying to achieve in our curriculum changes," Mrs. Benisch said.

She suggested determining the assessment tools before implementing the program to judge their progress and allow for modifications.

One program that recently has been changed is the math curriculum, but Mrs. Nixon believes it should not fade into the background after the first year of observation.

"It needs at least one more year of serious attention," Mrs. Nixon said. "The students should be confident in their math ability."

Although the new curriculum includes the implementation of advanced math classes, it is not only for honors students, there are new programs for students at all levels.

"This is not something for a small segment of the population," Mrs. Nixon said.

Mr. Reinhardt also looks for more improvement with math and for the science program to get some more attention.

"Any vigorous look at math and science, to improve it, is critically important," Mr. Reinhardt said.

He would also like to make sure no students "fall through the cracks" in the stepped up curriculum.

"We need to prepare kids, teachers and the system to cope with the changes," Mr. Reinhardt said.

The recent changes in the math, science, and writing curriculums are part of the cycle of change in a school district, Mrs. Jacobson said. One area that could be expanded is the foreign language program. Although she thinks it is a "wonderful" program now, some additions could help Westfield students prepare for their future.

"I'm not saying anything negative at all about it, Mrs. Jacobson said.

But the extension of the program to include an Eastern language, like Chinese or Japanese, and Russian round it out. "This will be important in the twenty-first century," Mrs. Jacobson said.

Sign language should also be an option for both hearing-impaired students and especially for their classmates so they can communicate with each other. Knowledge of computer language is also vital.

The two sides to 3-family homes begin to emerge

By CRISTINA DE ISASI
THE RECORD

Westfield council members began to take positions on the issue of zoning for three-family housing at a meeting last Tuesday night after a resident called on them to voice their opinions.

Tracy Dugan read a statement before the council saying she and her husband, Edward, as well as other residents, oppose multi-family housing, citing differences between typical renters and the present Westfield residents, most of whom are homeowners.

"We must stand by the values and principles Westfield was founded upon: safe neighborhoods, good families, people that take pride in their houses," she said.

She charged that renters would most likely be singles looking for cheap housing. They would be less involved in community and school issues, less likely to donate money to the fire and first aid squads, and less likely to patronize small town shops, she said.

"Why would we seek to add an element contrary to what Westfield has?" she asked.

She also charged that a change in zoning laws would encourage the presence of "invisible landlords" who neglect their housing. She said that she and her husband are buying a house previously inhabited illegally by renters and ran down a list of maladies in it including a condemned roof, a sagging porch, a paved parking lot instead of a back yard, and a garage that she said seems as if it was never painted to match the house.

"This house is a true example of what three-family housing will be for you," she added.

Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe thanked her for her statements and said he could have used some of them when he was questioned recently by TV-3 about why Westfield is one of the 25 most desirable towns to live in.

Michael Panagos, who heads the Laws and Rules Committee considering the subject, said he is not sure how far the committee will get on the issue, but there may be a public meeting on it. He added that he was waiting for public reaction on the issue before proceeding further.

"The fact that it was referred to my committee does not mean that anyone favors it or that I favor it necessarily," he said.

Councilman Kenneth MacRitchie said there are presently owners of illegal multi-unit housing in town that have a definite interest in the upkeep of their units. He said three of the houses in one district are owner-occupied, and in five additional ones, the landlords live within a one-block radius of their properties.

He also cited two examples in his statement where three people are living in one house illegally because they are living in three different units, but in another house, 11 people reside legally because it is only one unit.

"We have to address this kind of inequity," he said.

Councilman James Hely said he didn't think it is right that "long-time residents have to ever think that their neighborhood is going to change because people are making illegal conversions.

"I would never convert it to a three-family housing zone because it's unfair to residents who put (Please turn to page A-3)

Council to air garbage per-bag issue in future

The Westfield Town Council's Rules Committee will hold a public meeting on whether the town should allow a per-bag fee on garbage hauling instead of the current uniform rate.

Resident William Barnes complained that households who generate less waste have to pay the same amount as those who generate more. He said this issue has been before the council for over a year, and urged them to finally take a vote on it.

"I don't see why a person with one container should have to pay the same as a person with three containers," he said. Councilman Anthony La Porta said he was not prepared to support something like that without more information on it.

He conceded that he thinks people who generate less garbage should be rewarded for it, but said a per-bag system would only save these people a few dollars while costing the average Westfield family 60-70 percent more.

Mayor Boothe added that garbage hauling prices could not be drastically dropped now because they are regulated by law, but new legislation will begin slowly phasing in deregulation by 1996.

Pinching Tax Pennies

A weekly look at prices paid by the six towns and six school districts for a "small thing" needed for daily office operations. These 12 taxing entities are now developing budgets for the new tax year. Public input on this or any other spending practice is welcomed by the respective elected officials.

This week's tax money comparison isn't a "small thing" as the preceding items have been. The salaries of beginning teachers and police officers average about $29,000 per year. Police officers also can be paid for uniform allowances, overtime and other differentials, whereas teachers are limited to stipends for directing plays and coaching. Teachers, however, are on a 10-month contract.

Council incumbents running again — unopposed

By ELIZABETH GROOMER
THE RECORD

All the incumbent town council members have decided to run to keep their seats. No candidates have stepped forward to challenge them either in the June primary or the general election in November. They seek new two-year terms.

Fourth ward councilman Jim Hely will seek his fifth term on the council. One of two democrats on the council, he has been serving longer than any other current council member. Mr. Hely currently heads the personal policy committee and has chaired the public safety committee.

Mr. Hely said he is running again because he feels serving on the council is a part of who he is. He is an attorney and has been designated by the state supreme court as a certified trial lawyer.

Ken MacRitchie will try for his third term representing the third ward. He chairs the transportation, parking and traffic committee. He also represents Westfield as a delegate to the Union County League of Municipalities.

Mr. MacRitchie, a republican, works as an attorney and accountant. He is looking forward to running an "up beat, high quality campaign," whether or not he is challenged, he said. He cites his commitment to his constituents in the third ward and to all Westfielders as one of the reasons he is seeking re-election.

"I feel the people of the third ward deserve the constituent services they expect," Mr. MacRitchie said.

Second ward representative Peggy Sur will be seeking her second term on the council. A republican, and the only woman on the council, she currently chairs the public works committee. She is looking forward to being able to take what she has learned in the past two years and focusing on some of the areas of concern in the town.

The main area that she is interested in is the town's infrastructure, the roads and sewers.

"The budget has been cut on roads and sewers in the past few years and we need to pay more attention to them in the next few years," Mrs. Sur said.

First ward councilman Norm Greco is running for his second term in office. This year he is heading the town buildings and property committee, and chaired the solid waste committee last year.

Also a republican, he expects to continue to hear from residents during his campaign to serve their best interests and the interests of the town.

"I pledge myself to continued conscientious service to the community," Mr. Greco said in a press release.

The last date to file a petition with the town clerk for candidacy is April 15 at 4 p.m.

In last fall's election, only one candidate faced any opposition. In that race the incumbent, David Mebane was defeated by newcomer Tony LaPorta.

their investments in it," he said.

Councilman Gary Jenkins said he hasn't made a definite decision yet, but reminded the council that Westfield does have a problem with low- and moderate-income housing. Quotas imposed by the state's Fair Housing Act, and that converted multi-unit housing could make it easier for Westfield to meet some of its requirements.

"Mount Laurel (the Fair Housing Act) is coming again and we have an assigned quota," he said.

Author luncheon set for 21st

Sisterhood of Temple Emanu-El of Westfield will host its annual Book and Author Luncheon featuring Lisa Belkin, author of First, Do No Harm. The luncheon will be at noon, Wednesday, April 21, in Greifer Sacks Hall, Temple Emanu-El. The lunch will be catered by Gitan. Admission is free for Sisterhood members and the cost for non-Temple guests is $15. Checks should be made payable to Sisterhood Temple Emanu-El and received by April 12.

First, Do No Harm by Ms. Belkin, is the dramatic story of real doctors and patients making impossible choices at a big city hospital. Every day in hospitals across the country, physicians, nurses, and health-care professionals face the most ethically challenging questions: Who shall live and who shall die? How long should life-sustaining measures be used to keep a patient alive? What are the legal ramifications surrounding certain medical decisions? In First, Do No Harm, New York Times reporter Lisa Belkin, explores the uncertainty of medical ethics and the complexity of hospital politics.

Donald Menella

In the last part of the audition process, he had to compete in a mock game to test his reflexes. Instead of the sophisticated electronic equipment seen on television, though, contestants ring in with a bell hop-like bell.

All this, though, does not guarantee that the competitors will ever meet Alex Trebek, the show's host, and get to say "hi" to their friends back home, Mr. Mennella said.

"Even if you do well, they only say they may call you," he said. "It's a case of 'don't call us, we'll call you.'"

But when the call came last fall, he got out his Trivial Pursuit, almanac, and encyclopedias and made arrangements to go to California with his wife, Susan. But like many students on the verge of a test, he studied the wrong things.

"Not one thing I studied came up — I guess it's the law of averages," Mr. Mennella said. "State capitals and presidents were my strong suits to begin with."

However, it is not only a matter of knowing the right answers, or questions, but speed, delivery and luck are also important.

"There's an element of speed, knowledge, delivery and getting the right categories," he said.

The show's organizers instruct the contestants on how to ring in. They advise hitting the button with your thumb. There is also a ring of red neon that lights up on the contestants' side of their podium after Alex reads the answer that indicates when to ring in.

They also give the contestants time to set up for final Jeopardy. Before they see the answer they have the chance to write down the "who is" or "what is" part of their question. That way, Mr. Mennella explained, no one will lose the game because they did not phrase it in the form of a question.

Mr. Mennella has not received the television or any of the prizes he won, nor has his opponent who won that day. Mr. Mennella was in touch with him and found out he will not get his prize money until four months after the show airs.

Franks maneuvers to put jet noise fighter in power

Representative Bob Franks, representing District 7, said he will continue to fight to give citizens exposed to intolerable airplane noise levels an opportunity to serve on a federal commission studying the future of the airline industry.

At a meeting of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee Feb. 23, Assemblyman Franks sponsored an amendment that would require a citizen representative from a community adversely affected by airplane noise to serve on the National Commission to Ensure a Strong, Competitive Airline Industry. The amendment was defeated by a party-line vote of 38-24. The committee then voted in favor of expanding the membership of the airline commission and removing the current requirement that one member represent people affected by airplane noise.

Assemblyman Franks said, "Despite the setback, I have not abandoned my efforts to have a citizen who is directly affected by the problem of airplane noise serve on this commission. Prior to scheduled House vote on this bill, I will be talking to members of the majority party in an effort to reach an acceptable compromise, which recognizes that people living near airports have a vital interest in the work of this commission."

He said, "The law establishing this commission recognized that the actions the airline industry takes in the years ahead to stay competitive can have a profound impact on the quality of life of people living under airplane flight paths. That is why one of the commission's specific functions is to recommend ways to reduce airplane noise without damaging the economic or competitive positions of the air carriers."

Assemblyman Franks said, "The commission cannot possibly do an objective or effective job in addressing the issue of noise abatement without having a citizen member who understands what it is like to live with a constant assault of airplane noise. A citizen representative on this commission is vitally important to the people I represent who are searching for some peace and quiet from airplane noise and to citizens all over the country who live in the shadows of airports."

A number of Central Jersey communities have been severely impacted by airplane noise from planes departing and landing at Newark International Airport.

Rabies clinics ahead in area

The Board of Health will conduct free rabies clinics for the inoculation of both cats and dogs at Westfield Fire Station No. 2, Central Avenue, Westfield, 4-6 p.m. Thursday, April 15; Garwood Public Works building, South Avenue, Garwood, 10-11 a.m. Saturday, April 24; Fenwood Public Works building, North Avenue, Fenwood, 6:30-8 p.m. Tuesday, May 4.

The public should take some preventive measures: Make certain all cats and dogs are vaccinated against rabies, do not leave family pets outdoors overnight or feed animals outdoors, avoid contact with all wild animals, discuss with children not to bring home or attempt to help a sick animal. If bitten by any animal, consult a physician immediately and call the health department at 789-4070 to report the incident.

Teen arts fest set for next week

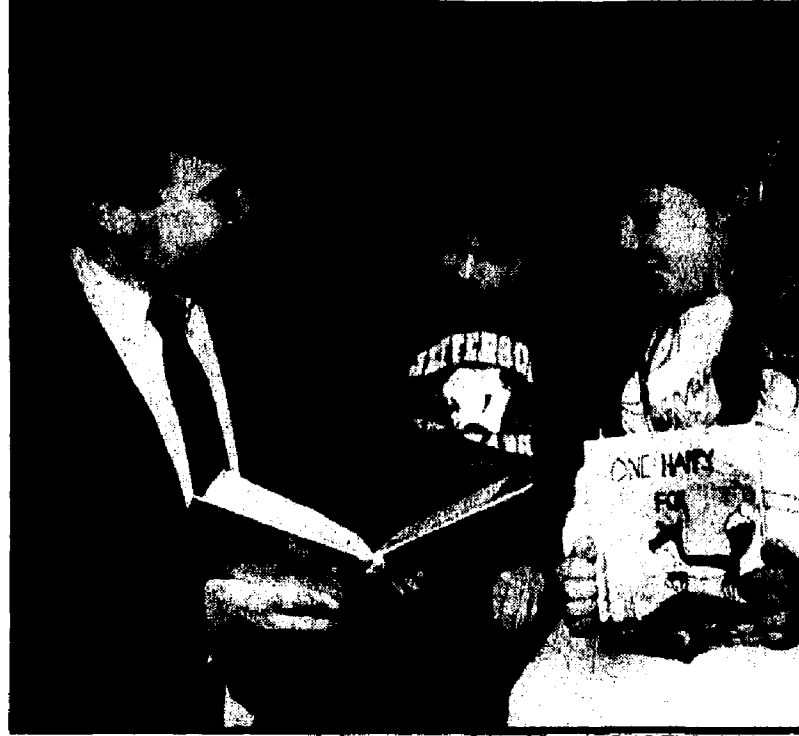

Union County's annual Teen Arts Festival, featuring instruction and critiquing of visual and performing arts presentations by some 1,000 Union County high school and middle school students, will be held Wednesday and Thursday, April 7 and 8, at Union County College's Cranford campus.

The students, ages 13-19 from 45 public and private schools, will use the entire campus while regular college classes are suspended for a week-long spring break. The program will be held 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m. each day.

During the festival, students will participate in workshops conducted by specialists in a particular area of artistic interest and present their original work in a show, which later would be critiqued. Students also may participate in an observer's capacity, gaining tips on various artistic aspects by attending workshops that most interest them.

This year, new additions to the varied workshop list include music using homemade instruments, comedic acting, computer music, computer art, guitar, and baritone. Other workshops will be in such areas as figure drawing, watercolor, caricature, sculpture, piano, flute, small instrumental music, vocal music, singing for the musical theater, fiction and poetry.

Author Kevin McClosky compares notes with student authors Kenny Sanucki and Kirstyn Scaperizoha during visit to Jefferson School.

Hank Dombrowski cited by county

The Union County Board of Freeholders honored Henry "Hank" Dombrowski of Westfield for receiving the Capt. Robert Migliore Award as Outstanding Citizen in Elizabeth.

Mr. Dombrowski has been active for many years in Elizabeth and the state, and was chosen Polish of the Year in 1977 by the New Jersey State Conference of American Polish, and in 1985 he hosted a picnic that raised $16,000 for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

He established the Henry Dombrowski Association which resulted in the first Little League Baseball Club in Elizabeth and has established or participated in numerous blood drives, food baskets for the needy and block parties.

Club '43 is meeting on April 18

A health workshop, the annual Salad Bowl, and varied social activities are among the scheduled events to be sponsored this year by Club '43 of Westfield. The organization is open to women who were born in 1943 and live or work in Westfield.

Dr. Mary Herald, an internist and club member, will conduct a health workshop Sunday, April 18, at the home of Diana McGonigle, a Club '43 charter member. Loretta Wilson will assist with arrangements.

Highlight of the year's activities will be the Salad Bowl, a May 23 softball game in which Club '43 will face a team of younger players.

"Club '43 was started as a lark by Pat Noerr 10 years ago when she and a number of others marking 40th birthdays celebrated at a luncheon," said Dr. Tina Lesher, president. "We decided to challenge some younger friends to a softball contest and it's been a regular event since."

The club, which has 18 members, wishes to expand. Call Madeleine Sullivan, membership chairwoman, 654-3863.

Club '43 activities include marking members' individual birthdays. Cathy Rock, Sue Carovillano and Dr. Herald head the observance committee.

Other club officers are Charlotte Clevenger, treasurer, and Margaret Ann McCarthy, secretary.

The next meeting will be 5 p.m. Monday at Dr. Lesher's home.

Rusty spring rite under way

Elizabeth Water Co. began the annual fire hydrant flushing this week to prepare its system for the summer months.

Customers may experience discolored water for short periods of time during flushing. The water will still be safe to drink and any discoloration will disappear rapidly. However, it is best to wait until the water is clear before washing dishes or clothes.

Commentary

Burning issue

There are holes in the state's control net on major town, school, hospital spending

The woods seem full of ironies in these days of budding school and town budgets. The problem is they lack forceful natural predators and tend to over-breed and over-feed, stripping the forest of greenbacks before lesser species can enjoy them.

One such irony that feeds heavily here and there on occasion is the shiny new fire truck acquisition. These massive, sophisticated apparatus can deliver firefighters, water, and hydraulically powered access to homes and businesses where flames threaten life and property.

Local firefighters have earned and enjoyed widespread political and public respect for generations. No one doubts their dedication or efficacy; it is common for families to have generations of firefighters in service to the community. Fire companies' fund drives are nearly always successful, and their well-maintained trucks are the heart and soul of many a local parade.

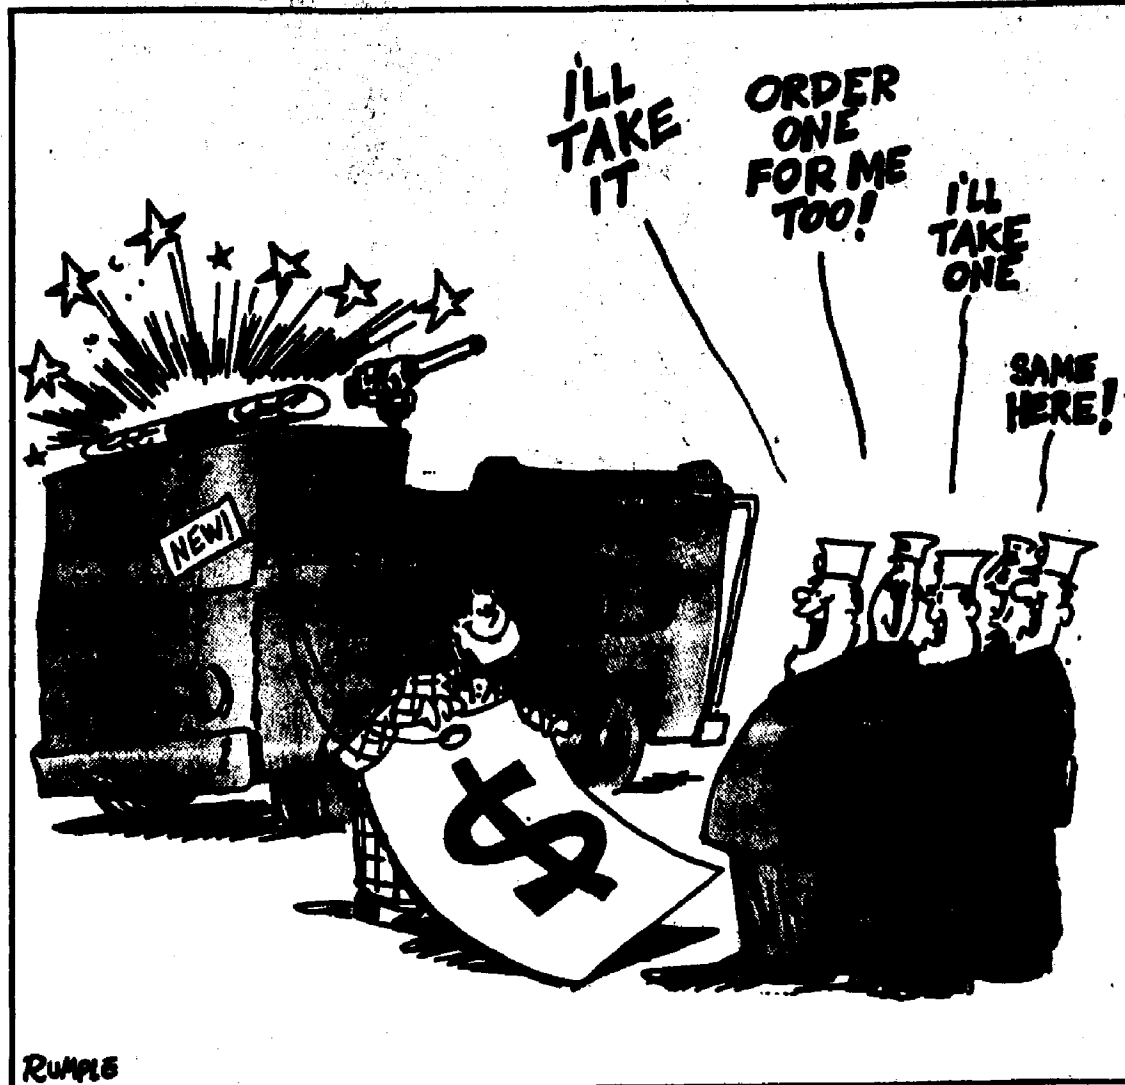

Here's the problem. The new trucks with peak water power and safety features for the firefighters can cost up to $400,000 or more.

Mettlesome state regulations and reviews face school boards adding to a building, hospitals must go through a Certificate of Need hearing when expanding or buying certain costly equipment like a $500,000 cancer-fighting linear accelerator. However, town governing bodies are "on their own" when facing a six-figure fire engine decision. That's the way it is.

Governing body members hear earnest, popular firefighters requesting the new equipment. It's politically nuts to really challenge them. The old engine is 20-ish years old, etc., etc. Inevitably, it seems, the purchase is authorized. The fire protection and the parades are improved, but no one really addresses the alternatives to purchasing a new truck or the local or regional need for it.

What's wrong with a plan that would have the Department of Community Affairs keep a running inventory of towns' fire apparatus and mutual aid pacts so that the state could analyze need and potentially endorse such requests by local fire companies? Any concerns about over-buying would thus be quelled — objectively.

Letters to the editor

Writer was off target

To The Record:

My comments during the March 2 public session of the Westfield Town Council meeting were in reference to two citizens demanding a resolution from the Town Council that evening. Someone obviously took this to mean I took a negative position on the pending semi-automatic gun legislation. This was not the case at all.

On March 2, during the meeting, Mayor Bothe carefully explained to these two citizens that a decision that evening would exclude any other citizen from public input, findings of fact, expert testimony, etc. concerning this issue. It also was pointed out by Councilman Panagoe that there was sufficient opportunity to bring this to the council at an earlier date. However, this was never done. In this context, I cautioned the council to beware of "yielding to hysteria" referring to the above demands for a hasty council resolution without the review of any council committee.

In the March 18 issue of The Westfield Record, Mr. Leonard S. Baskin misunderstood the context of this discussion.

A vote for Susan Jacobson

To The Record:

As the school board election approaches this coming April 20, those of you looking for a candidate need look no further than incumbent Susan Jacobson who is running for re-election.

Mrs. Jacobson, completing her second term is currently vice president of the Board of Education. She has served the board effectively as head of the negotiating committee and as a member of the finance and activities committee. She is active in education on the state level and serves as the legislative representative from District 22 as well as being the state representative from our geographical area on the Resolution Subcommittee.

Susan Jacobson has had two children come through the Westfield school system. She is an accountant and also has worked in education. Mrs. Jacobson is a dedicated public servant who has the experience and desire to face the challenges that face education as we move through the 90s. I urge you to support her candidacy and to vote for Susan Jacobson Tuesday, April 20.

Ex-administrator backs Jacobson

To The Record:

As a former administrator in the Westfield Public Schools, I had the opportunity to work with Susan Jacobson for over five years. Many people know Susan as a parent and educator who cares deeply about the children of Westfield. Her contributions to the band program, media services and curriculum are known to many who have dealt with Susan during her two terms on the board.

Less known but equally important are her skills in finance and personnel. Few people seem to know that Susan is also an accountant who was extremely helpful in developing the school district budgets. She labored through several contract negotiations, helped cost out proposals, and played a pivotal role in reaching fair, but financially sound settlements.

Susan Jacobson epitomizes what is good about the Westfield Public Schools, and I will support her in April.

Henry Salazar, center, and his mother Zenia with Forbes Newspapers Publisher Chuck Lyons at the Fourth Annual Forbes Newspapers Fashion Show Monday night. Henry, 17, from New Providence, has been battling leukemia 2 1/2 years. He is one of three young people who benefited from the show.

Fashion show proceeds to aid victims of cancer

By ELEANOR BARNETT
THE RECORD

Amid an array of spangles, sequins and designer display, no light shone brighter at the fourth annual Forbes Spring Style charity fashion show Monday than the light seen on the faces of three special children.

Forbes Newspapers, in conjunction with nearly 200 corporations, businesses and individual sponsors, set aside this special night at the Somerset Marriott in Franklin Township to help the families of these children who have been stricken with cancer and are clients of the Emmanuel Cancer Foundation.

The event raised more than $8,000 to benefit Emmanuel Cancer Foundation, which had selected the three families — one each from Somerset, Middlesex and Union counties — to receive proceeds from the event.

According to Amanda Missey, director of the foundation, the money from the fashion show will be used to offset the enormous cancer treatment costs the families expend to keep their children healthy.

"This money will help give them a little breathing space," she said.

By combining the up-beat event — which gave fashion mavens a peek at "what to wear" this season — with a more serious cause, Forbes garnered the support of hundreds of merchants, professionals, and employees.

"These kids really stand out because of their positive attitude and ability to take on this huge challenge in life," said Forbes Newspapers President and Publisher Chuck Lyons.

Attended by more than 300, festivities began with a silent auction where participants took chances on such items as dinners for two, health club memberships and more — most donated by Forbes Newspapers advertisers.

While the silent auction continued through the evening, Forbes employees joined the likes of Miss Middlesex County Cyndi Seago, Miss Somerset County first-runner-up Kelly Wood and Miss Essex County 1993 Nickle Jurado in a grand display of spring fashions.

Weekend Plus editor Bill Westhoven, who modeled clothes from Marty Orshan's Big and Tall, said the significance of the show touches him because his father John, 78, has battled with cancer.

"I've seen first-hand the suffering that people go through," Mr. Westhoven said. "But I've seen what the doctors can do when there is enough time, money and the facilities to treat the problem."

According to cancer survivor Shakeema Kimble, 10, of Edison, she came out a winner in her bout with a Wilms Tumor which is now in remission. Her family was helped by Emmanuel Cancer Foundation when she was fighting the battle and now Shakeema helps others.

Also benefiting from proceeds raised at the fashion show will be the families of leukemia patient Henry Salazar, 17, of Union County and of Kristin Baker, 12, who resides in Somerset County and suffers from an Askins Tumor.

Without the help of hundreds of sponsors and volunteers, the event would not have been a success, said Forbes Promotion Director Jean Casey.

Generous cash contributions came from Jim Pasquale of the Redwood Inn, $1,000, and other businesses such as the New Jersey Savings Bank.

Door prizes, goody bag items and auction gifts were donated by more than 110 restaurants, merchants and professional services and nearly three-quarters of Forbes Newspapers staff either volunteered their time or came out to show support, said Ms. Casey.

Proceeds were also realized from businesses which placed ads in Forbes Newspapers' fashion supplement. A portion of the ad prices were donated to the Emmanuel Cancer Foundation.

For Somerset County recipient Kristin Baker, a special fund has also been established and donors may address their gifts to: The Reformed Church of South Bound Brook, P.O. Box 347, South Bound Brook, 08880.

Community Life

Looking to wear the crown Westfield woman will compete in beauty pageant

By ELIZABETH GRONKOWSKI
THE RECORD

The crowd claps wildly as the parade of beautiful women walks along the stage, when all of a sudden something sounds familiar.

"My name is Amy Metroka, from Westfield. I'm Miss New Jersey!"

Well, not just yet, but the 23-year old resident will begin the pursuit for the crown at Saturday's Miss Union County pageant.

This will be Ms. Metroka's second pageant. As an actress, she became involved in the competitions to gain experience on stage, but has learned a lot about herself and the pageant routine along the way.

"Overall, it's been an interesting process," Ms. Metroka said.

Aside from the beauty and talent parts of the pageants, the contestants need to have a platform, which includes a charity they are involved in. They need to be able to speak about it in the personal interviews and have their views about it clearly defined. Ms. Metroka will be explaining her feelings on animal rights.

There are many facets to this cause, she explained. It can be as complex as saving or trying to "bring back" an endangered species or it as simple as controlling the pet population by spaying or neutering pets.

But, the bathing suit and evening gown competitions are not forgotten. Now they only count for 15 percent each of the total score. Ms. Metroka will be wearing a tea-length beaded gown she is borrowing from the friend who got her involved in pageants. Glamour also has not been forgotten. The sense of achievement.

"It's good experience. You feel like you've accomplished something," she said.

The feeling around a pageant is not like the meat market people would expect. The contestants are out there working hard and the competition is designed not to just highlight the women's physical beauty, according to Ms. Metroka.

"The people there are so talented. They don't seem like ditzy people who just want to show off their bodies at all," she said. "The organizers stress all the aspects of a girl."

The organizers are also conscious of the negative reputation beauty pageants have and try to improve the image, she said.

For the talent part of the competition, the graduate of Syracuse University will be reciting a monologue titled "Starting Monday." Although she majored in English and television/film production, she wants to work on the other side of the camera and is hoping this will be a chance for her to make some contacts.

"Hopefully, someone will hire me and make me a star," Ms. Metroka said.

The pageant takes place 7:30 p.m. at Arthur L. Johnson High School in Clark. For further information, call Susan Dougherty at the high school office, 382-0910.

Westfield resident Amy Metroka will compete in the Miss Union County pageant on Saturday at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark.

For the kids

Westfield Twig II, a Westfield volunteer group affiliated with Children's Specialized Hospital, recently presented a check for $10,000 to the hospital. The money was raised during the 1992 Westfield Craft Market Champagne Benefit. Presenting the check to hospital President Richard B. Ahlfield are Westfield residents Judy Jessup, Mildred Orlando, Debbie Gatesy, and Barbara Rothman. The funds will go toward the Twig's $50,000 pledge for a two-patient room in the long-term care unit. Nearly $35,000 already has been raised.

It's tea time Sunday at Miller-Cory

The Miller-Cory House Museum, 614 Mountain Ave., will feature a program on tea 2-5 p.m. Sunday, April 4. The last tour will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Kyle Nardelli of Scotch Plains will explain varieties of tea and their origin and availability in New Jersey during the 18th and early 19th centuries. She also will have samples for tasting.

Tea shrubs grow best in the warm, damp climates of India,

China, Japan, and Brazil. Containers for holding teas, known as tea caddies, often were kept locked because of the high cost of imported teas at the time of the Millers and Corys.

New Jersey experienced its own tea party in 1774 when residents of the town of Greenwich in South Jersey burned a British shipment of tea destined for Philadelphia.

Docents in period dress will be conducting tours through the furnished 1740 farmhouse. Members of the cooking committee will demonstrate open-hearth cooking in the Frazee building using period recipes and methods.

The museum shop also will be open from 2-5 p.m. and is supplied with books on all facets of early America, toys, maps, and a variety of decorative items.

The museum will be closed on Easter Sunday, but will reopen April 18. Call 232-1776.

Chamber to present awards

Five to receive Faith in Westfield Awards at reception

To formally recognize outstanding business achievements and volunteer accomplishments, the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce will present five Faith in Westfield awards for 1992.

Joseph F. Bei, Thomas Lauricella, Richard Trotter, Nancy Walbert and the Westfield Downtown Committee Inc. will be honored at the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce annual awards gathering to be held Wednesday, April 14, at Echo Lake Country Club in Westfield.

Mr. Bei has been selected Merchant of the Year. Joseph Bei is president and founder of Castle Bootery, which specializes in children's footwear for infants to pre-teens. Now in its 30th year, Castle Bootery recently moved to larger, renovated quarters at 70 Elm St., a few doors from its previous location.

Mr. Bei was nominated for being a retailer who offers good quality merchandise in a full range of styles and sizes and courteous service to his young customers and their parents.

Thomas Lauricella, chairman and founder of Thomas Lincoln Mercury Inc., 369 South Ave. E., has been selected Business Person of the Year. Mr. Lauricella has run his automobile dealership according to the highest business standards for 25 years. His dealership has won the Ford Motor Co.'s highest award, the Chairman's Award, four separate years, placing it among the best 32 dealerships in the country in customer satisfaction.

Mr. Lauricella was nominated for the courtesy of his sales staff and the excellence of his repair and service personnel and procedures. Mr. Lauricella and his son, John, who has been with the firm since 1974, have been supportive members of the chamber.

Richard Trotter, a salesman at Scotts of Westfield, 101 Quimby St., has been named Employee of the Year. He was nominated for being an excellent and faithful employee for almost 40 years, as long as Scotts has been in business in Westfield. His customers know he is dedicated to service; his employer says Mr. Trotter is also an able assistant in many facets of the business.

Nancy Walbert will win the Community Service award for her many years of exceptional volunteer service within the community. She has been an effective leader in the formation and long-term continuation of PANDA (Preventing Alcohol, Narcotic and Drug Abuse). As one nominator wrote, Mrs. Walbert's caring and commitment have made a significant, positive difference in people's attitudes toward education of Westfield children and parents in drug abuse awareness.

While her four children were enrolled in Westfield public schools, Mrs. Walbert was active in their school Parent Teacher groups, and served as president of the town-wide Parent Teacher Council. She was a Girl Scout leader for many years and was active in Boy Scouting, serving a term as district commissioner of the Watchung Area Boy Scout Council. For more than 20 years, Mrs. Walbert has been employed as a sales representative of Avon.

The Westfield Downtown Committee will receive the Presidents Award. The chairman, Robert Newell, and the whole committee will be cited for all of their efforts during the past year to bring the Main Street revitalization program to Westfield. This group compiled all the information needed for the Main Street application. The committee also is responsible for the success of the recent campaign for Main Street financing.

The 1992 Faith in Westfield award recipients were chosen from among 70 nominations submitted by Westfield business people, customers, clients, employers and residents. The selection committee, chaired by Russell Evans of Print Tech, includes Stan Baum of Scotts of Westfield; Debra S. Feldman, optician; Dr. Stanley Gerson and Thomas Walker of J.G. Mufford Co.

The committee unanimously endorsed the winners and will be on hand for the formal presentation of awards.

Robert Newell, president of the chamber, encourages people to make reservations for the gathering by calling 233-3021 by April 1. The event, a cocktail buffet, will begin at 6:30 p.m. and culminate in the presentation of awards.

Families create quilts for infants

Lenten project yields 106 quilts by 150 faithful

Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church hosted an ABC (At-risk, Babies Crib quilts) quilt-Thon March 27 as a family Lenten project. One hundred fifty volunteers created 106 comfortable, colorful quilts to be distributed to area babies born with the HIV/AIDS virus, fetal-alcohol syndrome, drug-addictions or who are boarder babies living in hospitals.

What first began as a project for the church's 55-member teen-age group, the Youth of Holy Trinity, soon mushroomed into a parish-wide project under the support of the Very Rev. Alexander G. Leondis. The event was eventually coordinated by the youth group, the Sunday school and the Ladies Philothochos.

Angela Stappes, Westfield resident and president of Philothochos, provided all the materials free.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. 10 sewers and 140 helping hands created the crib quilts out of pre-printed juvenile panels. Jean Appow, the New Jersey area coordinator for ABC Quilts, guided the group through each step.

On the following day, Fr. Alexander blessed the quilts with a special prayer before the entire congregation. They will be delivered to Children's Hospital of New Jersey, Newark; University Hospital, Newark; United Hospitals Medical Center which has the Children's Hospital AIDS Program (CHAP); and St. Clare's Home in Elizabeth which is run by the AIDS Resource Foundation for Children.

The Rev. Alexander G. Leondis blesses quilt he made during church's volunteer quilt making session Saturday at Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church. Blessing followed regular service on Sunday at the church.

An 8-foot fully completed gazebo will be raffled. This functional unit was built to professional standards by students in the UCVTS carpentry/construction program under the direction of Harold "Skip" Knittel, instructor.

Heinz Ricken, chairman, said all proceeds will be distributed to deserving Vo-Tech students by the awards committee during the annual awards night ceremony in June. By assisting young people with grants, scholarships, awards and monetary gifts in order to further their education, students as well as industry are being supported.

Admission is free and there is unlimited parking.

SIDELINES

Lax stars

Former Blue Devils Garry Benacquista and Ken Marsh will most likely play an important role in the success of the lacrosse team at Kean College this spring.

Benacquista, a 5-foot-10, 160-pound senior, and Marsh, a 6-0, 215-pound junior, both play defense for Kean, which has already started its season. Last year, Marsh was an All-Krickerbocker Conference selection.

Another W.H.S. graduate, goalie David Sprague, made eight saves to help Ohio Wesleyan defeat Guilford, 16-3. Sprague is a freshman at Ohio Wesleyan.

Correction

In last week's Record, it was reported that Seth Coren was named the Most Outstanding Wrestler in the Union County Tournament. This is incorrect. Roselle Park's Pat McCafferty won the honor at the UCT. Coren won the MOW award at the District 11 Tournament. The Record regrets the error.

7-on-7 soccer

Kean College will be running seven-on-seven outdoor soccer leagues this summer, beginning in early June and ending in early August. Seven separate divisions feature men's Division II and high school on Tuesdays, men's premiere, men's Division I and women's on Wednesdays and men's over 30 and boys under 19 on Thursdays. The cost is $355 per team, plus a $10 weekly referee charge. For more information contact Tony Ochrimenko at 527-2936.

The Hot Spot

This afternoon at 4 p.m., the lacrosse team opens its season against Delbarton at Tamaques Park. The rebuilding Blue Devils, who lost six All-State players to graduation, will try to avenge last season's 9-8 opening day loss to the Green Wave.

Graduation-torn lacrosse team regroups

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

The primary objectives for this year's lacrosse team have been modified quite a bit. Usually, nothing less than a state championship will suffice for Westfield.

However, due to a mass graduation of some very accomplished players, most of which will contribute considerably for their respective colleges as freshmen, merely qualifying for the state playoffs should be the Blue Devils' No. 1 goal.

To be sure, long-time head coach Shaun Cherewich has not been in this situation too many times before.

"It's going to be a learning experience for me because I have to praise a lot more and build up egos," said Cherewich, who nearly retired after last season. "It could be a great year for people who hate Westfield, or it could be a great year for people who love Westfield because we could win even though we're not supposed to do well."

Gone from last year's team, which lost to eventual state champion Montclair in the quarterfinals, is the No. 1 attack line of Chris Wojcik, Matt Connell and Matt Prybylski.

Wojcik, who also logged plenty of playing time in the midfield, scored 48 goals, assisted on 29 others, was a first team All-American and ended his career as the school's third leading scorer with 171 points. Connell and Prybylski (42 goals, 43 assists) were second team All-State selections.

Replacing what may have been Westfield's most prolific scoring line in its history will be juniors Paul Baly, Charles Salzman and senior Jeff Ryan. Baly saw limited playing time in the midfield on varsity last year, while Ryan and Salzman scored the bulk of the goals for last season's 14-3 junior varsity club.

Senior Joe Pelosi, who will also make the jump from JV, will likely fill out the No. 2 attack line with sophomores Ed Joffe and Boomer Wertheimer. Senior John Schundler, a first-year player, may also see some playing time.

Last season's first midfield line, which was often sparked by reliable face-off man Steve Kocaj, has also graduated, leaving quite a void.

This year's premier midfield line will be comprised of seniors Glenn Wojcik, Tony Czar and junior Steve Monninger. Last spring, Wojcik sat out the season with a knee injury. Czar played on JV and Monninger was on the varsity's No. 3 line.

Junior John Mask will join seniors Dave Shiwotsuka and Brian McGuire on the No. 2 midfield line. All three played on JV last season. Seniors Ryan Hughes and John Rotondo will vie for a spot on the third line, along with junior Mike Toth and long-stick middies Jason Henry, Geoff Hinman and Scott Gersch.

The defense, led by third team all-stater Bob Hermiston last year, was also depleted by graduation. The team's second returning letter winner, senior Lance Kovac, will be counted on to guide the back line corps. He'll be joined by juniors Andy DuPuis and Ron Mammano, both of whom were JV players in 1992. Seniors Craig Juella, Chris Manning, junior Mike Rotella and Gersch might see some action as the year unfolds.

Senior Jamie Howlett, last year's backup for second team All-State goalie David Sprague, will get the initial nod to start in net. If he falters, sophomore Mike Abeles will get a look.

Without any superstars, the Blue Devils will have to rely on the team concept in order to succeed.

"This year we have to accentuate the 'we,' not the 'I,'" said Cherewich, whose career (Please turn to page B-3)

Title chase

Baseball team wants it all

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

On Monday, Westfield baseball coach Bob Brewster distributed index cards among his players and asked them write down some things they would like to accomplish this season.

Once Brewster compiles the results he'll find a common thread connecting his team's thoughts — winning titles.

To a man, the Blue Devils steadfastly believe they can defend their Watchung Conference crown, claim the school's first Union County title since 1987 and win a sectional, and possibly even, a state championship.

While many outsiders may think the Blue Devils are simply blowing smoke with these pie-in-the-sky aspirations, those close to the program would certainly be disappointed if Westfield does not achieve at least one of these goals.

"We'd like to win all three. But, we have to take it one game at a time," said senior Dave Harwood. "It'll be a huge disappointment if we don't win anything."

Based on last season's performance and this year's returning cast, Westfield has one of the deepest, experienced and most talented clubs in the area. The Blue Devils lost only three key players to graduation (shortstop Drew Keehn, pitcher Jim Charlesworth and reserve infielder Jeff Battiloro) from a team which went 20-8, won its first conference title in 14 years and posted back-to-back 20-win seasons for the first time in school history.

"Talent-wise, I don't think anyone can stick with us," said senior Chris Infantino.

Infantino will be counted on to lead Westfield's formidable pitching staff. As last season's most effective starter, the righthander went 8-2, posted a 1.37 ERA and walked only 10 batters in 66 1/3 innings. He led the Blue Devils in practically all major pitching categories (innings, victories, strikeouts, ERA and fewest walks) and appears poised to duplicate last season's success.

Ryu Saito loosens up indoors as Westfield's baseball team was forced to practice inside thanks to inclement weather conditions. Saito's battling for a spot in the Devils' outfield.

Returning righthanders Chris Roguso (18 1/3 IP, 3.00 ERA), Jeff Pereira (36 1/3 IP, 4-3, 3.27 ERA) and Chris Vogel, a junior, figure to take turns in the starting rotation, as does promising sophomore Kris Williams. Williams went 17-1, had an ERA below one and averaged two strikeouts per inning last spring and summer with the freshman team and the town's Tri-County League club.

Harwood, a hard-throwing right-hander, and Adam Yannuzzi, a senior southpaw, will anchor the bullpen. Both saw limited duty on the mound last year. Seniors Brandon Love, Rob Toth and Corey Hayes, a lefthander, round out the staff.

Around the infield, Westfield returns three-fourths of last year's starters. Senior Pat Cosquer, a smooth fielder who hit .388 (19 for 49) in American Legion ball, will replace Keehn at shortstop.

Cosquer will combine with second baseman Dave Duels to form the Blue Devils' double play tandem. Duels, a senior who will likely bat in the leadoff slot, led last year's team in hits (36), batting average (.400), RBI (28), doubles (eight) and on base percentage (.533). He was also second in stolen bases with 15.

Yannuzzi, who made only four errors in 149 chances, will start at first base. Love and senior Matt Comandini may also see playing (Please turn to page B-3)

Westfield Soccer Association among nation's best

The Westfield Soccer Association is one of the best of its kind in New Jersey. Founded in 1968, and incorporated in 1970, it supports 22 traveling teams, 60 in-town teams and involves more than 1,500 players and adult volunteers. Its annual Westfield Cup Tournament, held on Memorial Day weekend, is one of the most prestigious in the nation.

"Our program is designed to make sure the young athletes have fun, enjoy the game of soccer and improve their soccer skills," said W.S.A. President Bob McGee. "We offer a place for everyone, regardless of ability. Every youngster is guaranteed to play at least half a game."

"We must be doing something right because many of our players go on to play at the high school varsity and college levels."

Included in the W.S.A.'s founding fathers are Reginald Barley, the first president, Jim Geoghegan and Peter Latarara.

"Our first fall group in 1968 had 64 players," said Latarara. "Our spring group had 30. The first practices were held in parking lots. In those days we'd choose sides for each match and rotate the kids so everyone had a chance to play."

Besides McGee, the current officers are: John Schmidt, vice president of the boys' traveling teams; Bob Meglaughlin, VP of the girls' traveling teams; Fred Geissler, VP of operations; Rich Humphreys, VP of the in-town program and Ed Murphy, VP of administration.

Westfield teams have won a number of state titles, which were sponsored by the Mid-New Jersey Soccer Association. The 19-and-under boys won Division I cups in 1969, 1971 and 1972. The Division III boys won the under-14 cup in 1972. The 12-and-under Division IV girls won the trophy in 1990.

The Westfield Cup Tournament began in 1981. This year's chairperson is Bill Mansfield.

Clubs from across the United States participate each year. The event is sanctioned by the United States and New Jersey Youth Soccer Associations.

Each team is guaranteed to play four games. Trophies are awarded to first- and second-place teams. Individual awards are given to the first-, second- and third-place finishers in each division. Each participant also receives a tournament patch.

The age groups for the tournament are: under-10 years old, under-12, under-14, under-16, and under-18. Soccer camp scholarships are also awarded. Applications for team rosters must be submitted by April 15. Bill Salmond is the girls' chairperson and Kevin Maloney chairs the boys' teams.

"Westfield varsity coaches George Kapner and Pete Giordano have been very cooperative in helping with clinics and other support activities. It's paid off at the high school level with many championships for both squads."

Softball team eyes repeat of last year

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

At times it seemed Westfield's softball team played above and beyond its capabilities last season. Heading into the year with an unproven pitcher who was not as overpowering as her predecessor and a lineup which was not set until mid-April, expectations were certainly not at an all-time high.

But, the team used a machine-like offense which averaged over nine runs a game to compensate for any shortcomings. In the end, things fell into place and the Blue Devils racked up 21 victories, earning trips to the Union County finals and sectional quarterfinals along the way.

At this stage, last year's pre-season might strike a familiar chord with head coach Maggie McFadden. Once again, the offense appears to be in fine shape and there are positions which need to be filled. But, the biggest question mark surrounds the pitching staff.

In 1992, Cari Greenwald did a commendable job replacing the legendary Meiko Saito. However, no single pitcher seems to be ready to assume the full-time job yet.

Junior Susan McCloy got her feet wet last year at the varsity level and is currently slated to pitch on opening day. Over the off-season the righthander changed her throwing motion from the windmill to the slingshot.

Junior Andrea Moore and sophomore Natalie Zarrillo, both of whom saw action on the junior varsity last year, will most likely get an opportunity to pitch on the varsity. Sophomore Jodi Bertelson and freshmen Lauren Cafaro and Anne Lutkenhouse present McFadden with more pitching options, but all three will probably begin the season either on the JV or freshmen teams.

"I don't think we'll have one pitcher this year," said McFadden. "But, I wouldn't be surprised if one of them steps up and takes over. We need control out of them, but we don't want them lobbing it over the plate. We want them to work spots. All of the girls have a lot of talent and are determined. They've all worked really hard and you can tell they've come a long way to be where they are."

Fortunately for McFadden, Westfield appears to have a solid defense and enough firepower on offense to make matters easier for its hurlers.

The heart of the lineup will consist of junior Abby Bomba and seniors Lori Chelius and Amy Gallagher. Bomba, a first baseman, led last year's team in batting average (.408), runs (30), triples (six) and slugging percentage (.704). She also drove in 27 runs.

Chelius, a centerfielder, is arguably the club's most complete player. In addition to a good throwing arm and excellent anticipation and quickness in the outfield, Chelius comes back as last season's leader in hits (34) and RBI (30). This year's captain is coming off a .395 campaign.

Gallagher will return to right field, where she committed only one error, drove in 13 runs and batted .327 in 20 games. Junior Dana Fizzell and sophomore Liz Kozub will battle for the starting job in left field.

Junior Liz Devlin had a remarkable season on the JV last year, hitting .458, scoring 26 runs and driving in 24. Devlin will start at (Please turn to page B-3)

The Record's
Girls' Player of the Year

ERIN ALLEBAUGH Westfield

The center played a major role in Westfield's most successful season in three years, as she led the Blue Devils in scoring (12 PPG), rebounding (8 RPG) and blocked shots. The senior was the focal part of the offense and was at her best when she made power moves to the basket.

After averaging 15 points a game over the first third of the season, Allebaugh was double-teamed incessantly and was forced to pass more frequently. Nonetheless, her height and presence under the hoop enabled the Blue Devils to improve their 1991 record of 5-16 to 10-13 this season. Westfield advanced to the quarterfinals of the Union County Tournament before falling to Scotch Plains-Fanwood, 44-38.

"She's a complete all-around player," said guard Taryn McKenna. "She moves well to the basket. She's a big scorer underneath and she's a big rebounding help. She's not too tall to get down and scrap for the ball either. When she's on the court all she wants to do is play basketball."

The Record's
Boys' Player of the Year

MATT COMANDINI Westfield

Coming off a fine junior year, the guard knew he would be counted on to carry the bulk of the offensive work load for the Blue Devils this season, since scorers Greg Prunty and Matt Connell graduated.

Comandini did not disappoint. He averaged 21.8 points per game, among the top five in the area, and averaged six assists a contest. The senior did most of his scoring from the perimeter, where an open jumper appeared as simple as a breakaway layup. Comandini shot 58 percent from the field in spite of various defenses which were concocted to slow him down.

"People see his scoring and forget about the other points of his game," said Westfield Head Coach Stew Carey. "He finds people open on the floor as good as anyone. I've seen him head and finish the fast break, go up with the big guys to get a rebound and make quick passes. Defensively, he's very quick. He does a good job getting into the passing lanes and he anticipates very well. He's a complete player."

Harwood, described by Brewster as the county's premier third baseman, will handle the responsibilities at the hot corner. Last season Harwood batted .356, drove in 14 runs, stole nine bases and reached base in exactly half of his plate appearances. Vogel can play third in the event Harwood pitches.

Starting in center field will be defensive stalwart Bill Rodd, who will be flanked by Infantino (.280 BA, 14 RBI, 485 OBP) in left and speedy Dave Schwarzenbek (.404 OBP, 9 for 9 in steals) in right. Pereira will probably play left field when Infantino pitches. Hayes and Ryu Sato will be the other reserve outfielders.

Brewster has been blessed with an experienced and highly capable catching corps. Senior Dan Higgins will get the bulk of the work early, while teammate Seth Coren recovers from a knee injury he sustained during the state wrestling tournament. Higgins (.359 BA, 15 RBI) and Coren (.375 BA, 586 OBP) saw equal playing time last year and provided plenty of firepower to the offense. Junior Ron Noble provides even more depth at the catcher's position.

"This team has the potential to do a lot of things," said Brewster. "But, it all depends on what they can do inside the lines. You have to guard against being overconfident with a team of this ability. Everyone will be out for us and that's what we have to be aware of. Teams are going to save their best pitchers for us."

"We can't take any opponent too lightly," said Harwood. "That happened a few times last year. We have to take teams seriously and play every game like it's our last. If we play like we're capable of playing I don't think anyone can stay with us on the field."

While the players will have to make sure their confidence doesn't turn into cockiness, they also have to deal with the pressure they're sure to face. The Blue Devils will have to overcome any self-induced pressure, as well as stress coming from fans, classmates and opponents.

"We're under a lot of undue pressure," said Infantino. "Every team we play will be gunning for us and if they beat us it'll make their whole season. Everyone expects us to win a lot of things and if we don't they'll say we choked."

Brewster believes the pressure his players went through in other sports will help them deal with it better this spring.

"One thing you look at is that these kids play more than one sport and there's a carry over of confidence from the other sports," said Brewster. "You can't have any more pressure than Chris Infantino did during the Livingston football game, or then Seth Coren faced during wrestling season. I think we play well in those situations."

record at Westfield is 164-86. "I'm hoping we can come together as a working class team. Last year we could take naps and have lapses in concentration and still have the talent to come back and win. We can't do that this year. There has to be 100 percent concentration from the get-go."

"Our attitude is a lot different this year," said Monninger, one of only two returning letter-winners. "We're more team-oriented. We're thinking of everyone being together."

With such an array of stars gone, the expectations have been substantially altered and the pressure to win has diminished. Therefore, improvement has become the operative word this season.

"If we improve game by game and people see that our intensity lasts longer and longer, that means we may surprise some people at the end of the year," said Cherewich. "People can't get down on us if we play poorly right away because we're talking about young kids who don't have much varsity experience. I don't know if we should have any specific goals. I just want to see constant improvement."

"Shooting for a .500 record is not a Westfield lacrosse type of thing. That's not something we put up as a goal. We want to improve and that's what the fans have to look for."

The players have their sights set slightly higher than their coach.

"If we don't make the playoffs it'll be a major disappointment," said Kovac. "A successful year would be a trip to the state championship. I'd be happy if we made it to the quarterfinals. If we lose a lot of games early we won't get down because we know we'll be twice as good as we were in the beginning of the year."

third base. Julia Cerefske, a speedy contact hitter, will play second base and senior Sharon Hay will replace Gina Lukaszewicz at shortstop.

Cathy Clabby, a junior, will function as the team's utility infielder and classmates Shannon Swift and Katie Teitelbaum will be reserve outfielders.

The catching duties will be handled by senior Amy Korchak, last year's starter who McFadden says has improved considerably at the plate. Sophomore Taryn McKenna will backup Korchak while starting on the junior varsity.

"I think our hitting production is going up," said McFadden. "I'm sure we can score runs. The problem is, we need to score runs until the pitching comes around. The new starters can throw and field well. I think they'll do well in the mental part of the game, which is very important."

"Our offense is much better. Our defense is much better and between the three pitchers, I think they can match what Carl did. Pitching is the key. The area we really want to improve on is performing well against the teams who beat us last year."

Take Control: Manage Your Own Career. Besides the Professional Presence workshops, four other workshops will be offered. These are: Entrepreneurship: Is It For You, New Strategies for Finding a Job, A Home Based Business? and Interviewing. Workshops will run concurrently so that participants will be able to attend two of the five being offered.

Registration is $9 which includes a light boxed dinner. To register, call Union County Continuing Education Department at 709-7800. For more information on the New Jersey Federation of Business and Professional Women, call the BPW state office, 233-0110.

'Welcome to Westfield' signs will appear soon after contributions

The Beautification Committee of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce proposes that Welcome to Westfield signs be posted at the entry points to town as many neighboring communities have done. The committee seeks financial backing for this project from local organizations and businesses.

By mail, the chamber has requested funding from 16 local organizations. However, because organizational funds always are being sought for worthwhile community projects, the chamber also seeks funding from local businesses.

A preliminary sketch of the proposed signs is available at the chamber office. The estimated cost of the sturdy, tasteful, completely non-commercial signs is $750 each. There are 13 entry points into Westfield. Any organization or business that can consider financing one or more signs is invited to contact the chamber office, 233-3021, or Warren Rorden, chairman of the Beautification Committee, 232-8400.

The committee feels the installation of Welcome to Westfield signs in 1994 would be an appropriate addition to the celebration of the Westfield bicentennial. As soon as financing is available, the project will get under way. Donors will be publicly thanked.

Lawmakers, business folk chat at chambers' session

By VERA CARLEY
THE RECORD

Mixing business with politics, the Cranford and Westfield Chambers of Commerce co-hosted Meet Your Legislator Night March 25 at the Westwood.

The annual event drew more than 100 business people and officials from local, county and state governments. According to Marta Person, Cranford downtown manager, the event offered business people the opportunity to network and talk to their representatives.

"It's an opportunity to network. It's also an opportunity to make personal contact with elected officials, not specifically to lobby them but make one-on-one contact with them," Ms. Person said. Elizabeth H. Youngs, a home design consultant in Cranford, said that was exactly what she was there for.

"I came to network. I am also very much interested in what the legislators have to say considering all the changes in government," Ms. Youngs said. "I'm starting a new business. I'd like to know where the state is going and what's happening."

What's happening on the issue of health care is what Otto Monaco, manager of special events and projects at Union Hospital, said he wanted to know.

"I intend to find out if anyone is going to monitor the health care policies of President Clinton," Mr. Monaco said. "I want to know if they're going to have any representative [in Washington, D.C.]"

On hand to hear some of these questions were state

Senate President Donald DiFrancesco, Assemblymen Alan Augustine and Richard Bagger. For Karen Positano, that meant getting a chance to talk to Sen. DiFrancesco. "I didn't ask about anything specific," she said. "I didn't want to put him on the spot."

But not all the officials were so lucky. Assemblyman Bagger said he was asked about the position he had taken in the Assembly on initiative and referendum (I&R).

"It's something that I support and he doesn't. Many people in the business community and most organized lobbying groups don't. I support the concept because it acts as a safety valve. If the legislators miss the point, then the people can step in and override the legislature's action," Mr. Bagger said.

According to Norman Greco, Westfield council member, all good legislators will respond to the concerns of their constituents. With enough persistence, he said, citizens should be able to speak to the representatives. And if they don't, Mr. Greco said, they shouldn't be in office.

Assemblyman Augustine said he felt talking to constituents is an integral part of being a legislator and that was one of the reasons he was there.

"The Chamber of Commerce is very important to Union County," Mr. Augustine said. "In order for us to be sensitive to the problems that business and industry have, we have to hear their concerns, and have a continuing dialogue so that we can try to do things that will help improve the economy, create jobs, and maintain economical stability."

NORMA SMITH

NUMBER ONE IN COMPANY FOR 1992, BREAKS RECORD

Norma Smith, (Center) is congratulated by Jean Burgdorf, Chairman, and Peter Burgdorf, President of Burgdorf Realtors.

With a remarkable 46 units of closed business, the largest ever amassed at Burgdorf Realtors, Norma Smith of the Metuchen office ranked first in the company for 1992 unit volume production. Over $8 million of production placed her fifth in dollar volume. Norma also swept all six year-end Metuchen office awards for sales and listings and won the company award for the most listings sold. Her production was ranked among 525 associates spread throughout Burgdorf's 30 offices in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

These outstanding accomplishments entitle Norma to a seat on Burgdorf's elite President's Council, an advisory board to senior management. She also earned the state's Million Dollar Club Silver Achievement Award, requiring a minimum of $5 million sales, as she did in 1989.

A lifelong resident of Metuchen and a real estate professional for 18 years, Norma is presently Fund Raising Chairperson of the House Tour for the Preservation and Restoration of the Borough Improvement League, a historic building in Metuchen.

You couldn't find a more dedicated and successful professional to help you with your real estate needs than Norma. She welcomes your call at:

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a large crowd gathered in a city square, likely during a protest or demonstration. The crowd is dense, filling the foreground and middle ground. In the background, there are buildings, including a prominent one with a large archway. The image is grainy and has a stark, almost graphic quality.

By ELEANOR BARRETT
WeekendPlus Writer

OK, I admit it. Until recently, I was unfamiliar with fresh water fishing in New Jersey.

Then, one spring day several years ago, I was enlightened while driving down an old country road in the wee hours of the morning.

At first, I thought the multitude of people gathered at that little stream just before sunup were there on some emergency. A drowning? A felled U.F.O.? Perhaps a mishap with a Wells Fargo truck?

Upon closer observation, evidence of Thermos coolers, family dogs and several people wearing funny pants and boots — I later found the appropriate designation for the gear to be waders and hip boots — led me to believe the brouhaha had something to do with fish.

It's trout season, stupid.

Trout season begins in New York this week, and on April 10, the Garden State opens for business as approximately 600,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout will make their way — with the help of the friendly folks at the New Jersey Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife — into public waters throughout the state between now and the end of May.

"The annual opening of trout season in April signifies a renewal of life in a sense, as it is a spring-time ritual for thousands of individuals and families in New Jersey," said Scott Weiner, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE).

The opening of trout season also, at least unofficially, signifies the opening of freshwater fishing as a whole, and anglers around Central Jersey will join those around the state who are readying for the action.

According to Ernest Schwiebert, Princeton author of the two-volume book Trout (1978, 1984 E.T. Dutton), the sport has enjoyed patronage "since shortly after the birth of Christ."

Schwiebert, who has published 11 books, including his latest The Traveling Angler (Doubleday 1991), has grown up with the sport and recalls as a boy spending summers trout fishing in Michigan, Wisconsin and Colorado.

While fishing from artificially stocked streams offers immediacy to weekend fisherman in search of an easy catch, Schwiebert said the decline of "wild" fish living in New Jersey brooks and streams is unfortunate.

"We have very little of the wild kind left in New Jersey. Most of the reasons for this are political," said Schwiebert. By stocking waters with hatched fish — DEPE estimated the cost is $2.10 per fish — constituents are happy and local politicians are, too.

In many fresh waters, though, wild fish have a hard time surviving because of the changing nature of their environment and the folks at such places as the Pequest Trout Hatchery & Natural Resource Education Center in Oxford help narrow the deficit.

All of the trout — which average 10.5 inches each — used to stock fresh waters are raised at the hatchery and according to Jeff Matthews, specialist at Pequest, the sport of fresh water fishing pumps some $200 million annually into the state's economy.

More than 250,000 fresh fishing licenses are issued each year. The licenses may be purchased through the Pequest facility — R.R. 1, Box 389, Oxford, New Jersey 07863 — or at most sporting goods stores, said Mr. Matthews.

For those who do seek "the real McCoy" and a willing to go out of their way to get it, he said there are a few streams in Northern New Jersey which are cold enough and clean enough to sustain a wild population year-round.

Pequest offers a list of wild trout streams but cautions "their listing herein conveys no right to trespass": Bear Creek (Southtown); Bear Swamp Brook (Mahwah); Black Brook (Clinton WMA); Cold Brook (Oldwick); Flanders Brook (Flanders); Indian Grove Brook (Bernardsville); Lomerson Brook (Pottersville); Passaic River (source to Rt. 202 Bernardsville); Rocky Run (Clinton Twp.); Van Campens Brook (Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area).

For die-hard stocked water fans, finding the perfect spot within Weekend Plus reading area is no problem.

While residents of Union County may find stocked waters in Scotch Plains, Mountainside, Rahway, Berkley Heights and Elizabeth, Middlesex County fishermen have not to go any further than Johnson Park (on the Piscataway/ Highland Park border) or at Spring Lake in South Plainfield.

Somerset County offers the largest selection of "fishin' holes" in the area and they can be found from Hillsborough, Bound Brook and Liberty Corner to Martinsville, Pepack, and North Branch.

Those in search of a fish of another color may find great quality largemouth bass, catfish, yellow perch, musky, crappie and sunfish at Farrington Lake in Milltown and much of the same at Westons Mill Pond in New Brunswick.

Roosevelt Park Pond in Menlo Park offers excellent sunfish angling opportunities and good conditions for carp, channel catfish and largemouth bass.

FOR MORE INFORMATION — The Pequest Trout Hatchery and Natural Resource Education Center will hold an open house Saturday and Sunday, April 3-4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

While there, visitors may feed the fish, meet Smokey Bear and Tommy Trout, see exhibits, videos and displays and the nation's foremost trout hatchery.

The facility is located on Rt. 46, nine miles west of Hackettstown. For more information call (908)637-4125.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have much to mull over this week, as you swing from passive to active and back again. Expect to soar like an eagle by the weekend, when your creativity brings you success in whatever realm you project. Others adore being with you right now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Count on being very practical, if not too practical, this week. The idea of taking time out or just having a good time is unlikely to happen. The good news is that you get a lot handled quickly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are in prime form this week, so show off your stuff and make it all happen. Money, good talks and some very mellow downtime are all part of the script. Your real caring side comes out when you connect with a special friend this weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Examine your alternatives before you jump into all the action this week. Having a good plan of attack puts you in the winner's circle. Know that you have the charm and charisma to swing any questionable votes over to your side.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Understand more of what is going on with you, and you may have your answers this week. You may need some downtime to reorganize your thoughts before you move into action. Count on one thing: the Lion will roar this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Accepting responsibility for what is going down is a big factor in your week. Look to new resources that will prove more effective for you. A loved one plays a big role in all of this. Do some serious thinking before you take action.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Understand more of what is going on with another. Try walking in their shoes to look at life from a whole other point of view. Do try to get some rest, however, before the hectic pace gets to you.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Get in close while you can. You have an opportunity to pull off quite a coup, be it emotional or financial. Use your imagination this week. Plan on celebrating this weekend. Any excuse will do.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Others are dominant this week, and the smart thing to do is allow it to all play out. Money and love are high stakes to be playing for. Be aware of all the options you may have overlooked. Exploring them this weekend could be fun.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Get as much work done during whatever open time you have this week. Others demand your presence and want your opinion. Then there's what you want to do. You get stung by the social bee this week. The good news is, it gets livelier.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Fun and games are always up your alley, Aquarius, and this week is no different. You have a full-scale romp, once you get the "mists" taken care of. Plan on an early weekend with lots of invitations. And make plenty of time for a special friend this weekend, as well.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Understand what is fundamentally important to you, before you get caught up in the flurry of the week's activities. You may need to take a few days off to think over recent decisions. Understand how much certain key people play into your security and give them their due.

Playing the fools

Marx Brothers' maternal inspiration is a hoot in Forum's 'Minnie's Boys'

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

With spring long overdue, and tax season nearly upon us, most of you could put a good time to good use. I'm no different, and last Thursday, after an exhausting day at work, I was still looking forlornly ahead at yet another assignment — reviewing a play, when I would rather go home and crawl under the covers.

So it wasn't in the best frame of mind that I nursed my creaky old Dodge Omni, shaken into a near-coma from a month of potholes and icy roadways, down to Metuchen, to see Minnie's Boys at the Forum Theatre.

"Good luck, Forum," I thought to myself, mistrusting my own critics' objectivity at that point. "You're gonna need it tonight."

But wouldn't you know that the Forum's spirited troupe, faced not only with a grouchy reviewer, but a sparse, silent crowd, brightened my cloudy day with a delightful performance of this charming musical about Minnie, mother of the soon-to-be Marx Brothers, and her efforts to make a name for her five sons in the world of vaudeville.

You want to put some slap back in your stick? This is the place, folks, at least through April 18.

Written by Arthur Marx, son of Groucho (or Julius, as he was known to mother Minnie) with Robert Fisher, the play has a credible base of fact, although the facts are played fast and loose here as the plot attempts to document the evolution of five poor Jewish Boys from New York City, who are better at making trouble than comedy, into one of the great comedy teams of the 20th Century.

Surprisingly, while there's plenty of laughs, as you might expect given the subject matter, the real draw to this show are the energetic musical numbers, complete with some whacky, and physically-demanding, choreography.

All four well-known Marx Brothers (Groucho, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo) hit the road to develop their careers, while Gummo stays home and is nearly forgotten, sort of like Richie's brother Chuck in Happy Days) are showcased individually as well as collectively, with their personalities quickly established in order to allow the audience to enjoy their transformation into cinema icons, but as the title states, this is not just a show about the Marx Brothers, it's about Minnie, who goes to extraordinary lengths to shape her brood into stars.

Whether she's conning the landlord or arranging for a performer to get sick at "The Palace," opening a slot for her boys on the world's most famous vaudeville stage, Minnie is not your average Jewish mother. Portrayed with an Ethel Merman-exuberance by Vicki Tripodo, the popular star of the Forum's recent production of Nunsense and the theater's managing director/co-producer, Minnie is loud enough not to ignore and smart enough to know when to punt — on at least two occasions, when trouble is breathing down her boys' necks, her motherly advice is: "Scatter!" I loved it.

Portraying the Marx Brothers, though, is a trickier assignment — Minnie isn't an easy role, but we don't know her, so there's some room for an actress to breathe. We all know the Marx Brothers — so much so, even us amateurs can imitate them — but to sustain the character convincingly over the course of two hours takes some doing.

They're the faces only a mother could love — they're the Marx Brothers, also known as Minnie's Boys in the musical comedy currently playing at the Forum Theatre in Metuchen.

Fortunately, director Peter Loewy found four very capable actors that not only fit the physical requirements, but could sing and dance as well. Frank Moran's lanky frame helped to accentuate Groucho's hunched-over gait and goofy dancing, and his vocal impersonation was dead-solid-perfect, as was Terry Burnett's Italian-accented doubletalk in the role of Chico. The plot does not allow Harpo's muted clowning until late in the second act, but Bill Perlach shows another side of the quiet Marx when he serenades his mother with the sweet, sentimental "Mamma, a Rainbow."

Michael DiGioia adds an enthusiastic touch as the "cute" Marx Brother, Zeppo, while a strong supporting cast, led by Ron McCloskey as Papa "Frenchie" Marx and Gerald Crawford, Ray Mogennis, Paul Whelan, Florence Irving, Marla Endick, Erika Insana, Marita Kleissler, and Joann Tocci, most of whom play a variety of roles, shines as well, again, especially during the busy production numbers.

The show is far from perfect; some of the non-musical comic bits fall flat on their backs, and the conclusion is anti-climactic at best; but as Groucho informed the audience during one routine, "They can't all be gems, folks." Maybe, but the show itself is a pearl. Or, as Minnie would be sure to add, a mother-of-pearl.

MINNIE'S BOYS through April 18 at the Forum Theatre, 314 Main Street, Metuchen. Tickets $22-$26; discounts available. (908) 548-0582.

Symphony to present 'The Russian Spirit'

Conductor completes cultural exchange after musical pilgrimage to Moldava

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

The fourth performance this season by the Central Jersey Symphony Orchestra won't be the last, but it is the climax of cultural exchange between conductor Roger Briscoe and his association with some dedicated musicians from Russia.

Briscoe, music director of the CJSO, first became involved in the exchange a year ago, when conductor Dmitri Goia, a native of Moldava (one of the many independent republics established following the break-up of the Soviet Union), came to America for a guest performance with the CJSO at Raritan Valley Community College in North Branch. Briscoe returned the favor by traveling recently to Moldava, where he conducted a Moldavan orchestra.

Saturday, April 3, the cycle will be completed when Briscoe conducts the CJSO — and featured pianist Christine Diwyk — through a program of works by Russian composers. The concert, aptly named "The Russian Spirit," will take place at the RVCC Theatre, which was recently rechristened as the Edward Nash Theatre.

The performance will open with Rimsky-Korsakov's "Russian Easter Overture," which is based in part on two chant melodies from the Russian Orthodox liturgy. The concert will also include Dmitri Shostakovich's Concerto No. 2 in F Major for Piano and Orchestra, with Diwyk as the featured soloist, and Sergei Rachmaninoff's post-romantic symphonic favorite, Symphony No. 2 in E minor.

Even if you're familiar with these works, however, you may hear them in a different light during this particular evening, as Briscoe will endeavor to enliven them with some of the influences he absorbed during his journey overseas.

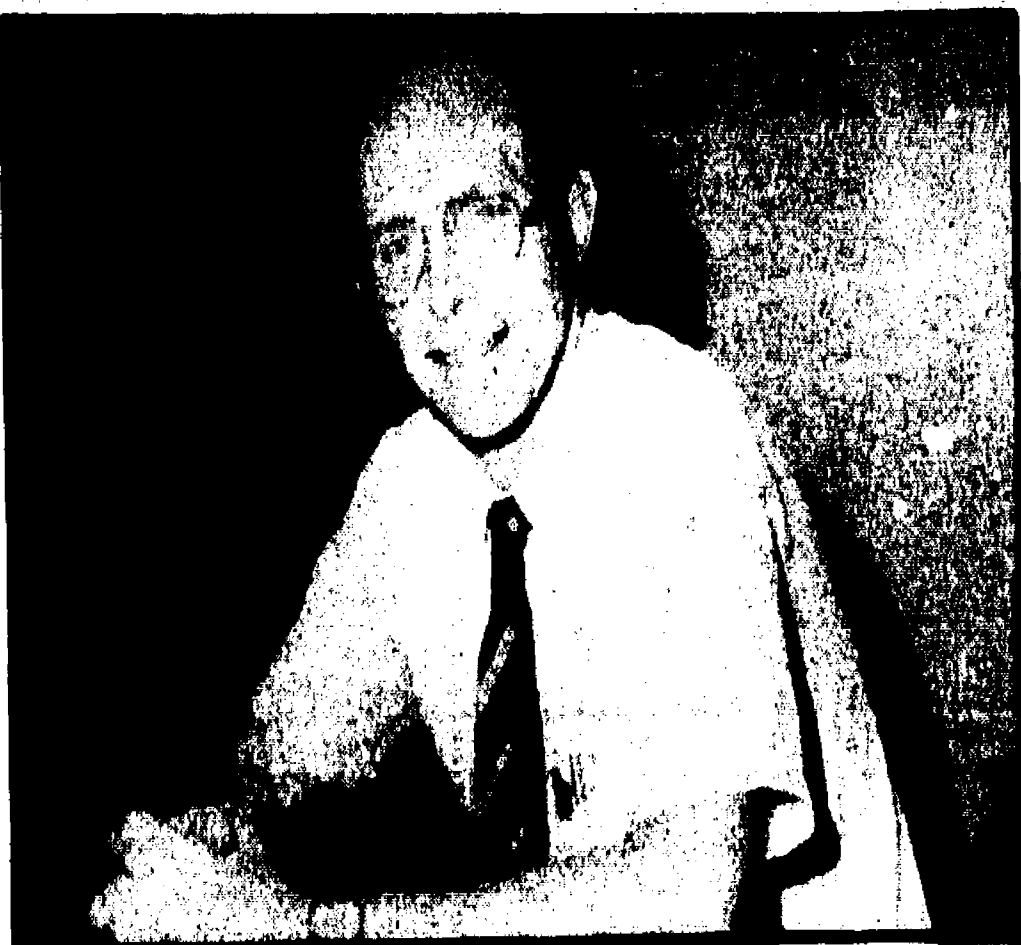

"I experienced Russian musicians and music first-hand, and I want to try and present that spirit to our audience," he said.

Briscoe, a resident of Scotch Plains, found it hard to explain the difference between the Russian and American interpretations of Russian composers, but narrowed it down to a difference in orientation.

"The living conditions over there are 50 years behind ours," he observed. "But Chisnau (a city of approximately 1,000,000 people in Moldava) has an arts program that sponsors symphony orchestras, chamber orchestras, three choruses and ethnic music and dance; they employ around 400 people — all professional — in the arts.

"Despite everything they are going through over there, there's a sense that the arts are an integral part of their history and they must be preserved. They were so friendly and anxious to make music, and they revere the great Russian composers. And they add an emotional quality to the music that gets lost over here sometimes."

Briscoe soaked up the culture, listening to numerous performances and collecting recordings to bring back home. As a result of his experiences, Briscoe promises a performance at the Nash Theatre that "will have a lot more emotion," and will be "a lot more flexible in tempo."

Central Jersey Symphony Orchestra musical director and conductor Roger Briscoe will present a concert of Russian classical music Saturday, April 3, 8 p.m., at Raritan Valley Community College in North Branch.

Diwyk's international experience will surely help to authenticate the atmosphere. An Artist's International's Young Musician's Audition winner, Diwyk has performed recitals at such prestigious stateside venues as Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center, while also performing recently in China. She was also the first American pianist to appear at the United Nations under the sponsorship of the American Mission.

Briscoe and Diwyk will both attend a pre-concert discussion prior to the performance at 7 p.m., which is free to all ticket-holders.

The CJSO, and the Master Chorale, are in their eighth season as the resident orchestra and chorus of Raritan Valley Community College. Founded in 1970 and 1974, respectively, as the Somerset County Orchestra and Chorus, the group is a mixture of professional and amateur musicians ("I like to call them gifted amateurs," said Briscoe), representing such outside professions as corporate president, business executive, student and housewife.

Briscoe, who earned a Ph.D. from Indiana University and also studied in France and Germany, is also professor of the RVCC's music program.

The CJSO and Master Chorale will conclude their season with a performance of French dramatic music on May 8, and their annual "Pops Extravaganza" on June 5, featuring music from the "Old World," including waltzes and polkas, and "lighter classical" music from America.

'Born Yesterday' takes a beating

Remakes are tricky business, and the better the original, the harder it is to satisfy the public — and the critics. After all, if the remake doesn't improve or add to the story, who needs it?

Born Yesterday, written by Garsin Kanin, opened on Broadway in 1946 before making it to the silver screen in 1950, with a stellar cast that included Broderick Crawford, William Holden and Judy Holliday, who won an Oscar for recreating the role she played in the theater.

Fast-forward to 1993, with John Goodman, Don Johnson and his wife, Melanie Griffith forming a new cast under the direction of Luis Mandoki, who takes over for the legendary George Cukor. You've got to give them credit for nerve, but was it worth the effort?

Vincent Canby

The New York Times

"They don't make 'dumb broads' like Billie Dawn anymore, or if they do, they don't, they don't call them that in our sensitized society."

This may be one of the reasons why Born Yesterday...plays so lamely in its glitzy new film version updated to the 1990s...Though the principal performances by Ms. Griffith, John Goodman and Don Johnson are no more than thoroughly adequate, the new film has some good things going for it, including an excellent supporting cast...Yet Born Yesterday is a shadow's shadow."

Roger Ebert

The Daily News

"Watching Born Yesterday," I picked up an enormous weariness, a dispirited approach to the material, as if everyone had lost heart. This is supposed to be snappy material, and it comes across gloomy...The screenplay by Douglas McGrath does the material no favors. Kanin's witty, literate lines have been dumbed down for today's audience."

Jami Bernard

The New York Post

"If there was a role Melanie Griffith and her little-girl voice were destined for, this is it...Johnson is very likeable as the journalist...Goodman is less the gruff, crude businessman of the original and more like a celebrity doing a hissy-fit...As usual, if you grew up on the original you probably won't cotton to this one, but Born Yesterday is such good material that it makes for a pleasing update. It's not intellectually challenging, but if that's what you're after, read De Tocqueville."

Mike Clark

USA Today

"Disney's embarrassing Born Yesterday remake plays as if it were made far too many yesterdays ago, despite script allusions to cable TV and exercise spas...Minus Holliday's comic timing, and with a lot of dead air, the '90s payoff is only for those whose political savvy was conceived and nurtured in Disneyland...Stillborn Yesterday has only one memorable scene, and it's likely to endure as the movie year's low point...One could hear the oozing sound of cerebral meltdown in my theater."

John Goodman hires journalist Don Johnson to refine his girlfriend's (Melanie Griffith) social manners in a remake of the classic 1950 George Cukor comedy Born Yesterday.

Film capsules

somewhat entertaining, but don't be fooled: this is just another exploitative action flick giving off all the wrong messages about justifiable violence. (R)

A FAR OFF PLACE

•The Disney-Spielberg connection strikes again with this outdoor adventure about two teenage friends who are chased into the African wilderness by a gang of violent poachers. Hardly a Disney classic, but likeable young actors help to overcome Swiss-cheesy plot. Film is screened with the latest Roger Rabbit 'toon, Trail Mix-Up. Unfortunately, both the film and the cartoon contain more violence than Disney's usual audience, kids, should have to endure. (PG)

A FEW GOOD MEN

•A few glaring flaws in script and direction undermine, but do not spoil, this hard-driving drama starring Tom Cruise as a lazy Marine lawyer investigating the hazing death of a young leatherneck. Demi Moore co-stars as the superior officer pushing him to get to the real truth, which leads him to scene chewing officer Jack Nicholson. Wasted scenes telegraph information the audience is better off without, but solid acting by the principals and capable support by Kevin Bacon, comedian Kevin Pollack, James Marshall (Twin Peaks) and J.T. Walsh overcome a rare bad outing by director Rob Reiner. (R)

FIRE IN THE SKY

•Cinematic treatment of Robert Lieberman's "true" story about an alien abduction. Stars include

D.B. Sweeney and James Garner. (PG-13)

GROUNDHOG DAY

•Bill Murray has a big showcase in this Harold Ramis comedy about a television weatherman who keeps reliving the same day — Groundhog Day, of course. Andie MacDowell (Sex, Lies and Videotape) co-stars as Murray's romantic target. (PG)

HEAR NO EVIL

•Thriller stars Oscar-winner Marlee Matlin (Children of a Lesser God) as a deaf woman who is threatened by a stalker. With D.B. Sweeney and Martin Sheen. (R)

HOMeward BOUND: THE INCREDIBLE JOURNEY

•Disney's latest adventure in the wild, based on the Sheila Burnford book The Incredible Journey, tells the story of three house pets — two dogs and a cat — separated from their human families and forced to journey through unknown wilderness in a search for their homes. Mostly for kids. (G)

MAD DOG AND GLORY

Robert DeNiro stars as a police photographer who saves the life of a gangster (Bill Murray), who rewards him with the beautiful Uma Thurman (Final Analysis). (R)

MARRIED TO IT

•Romantic comedy about three Manhattan couples who intermingle while planning a play at their children's school. With Cybill Shepherd, Beau Bridges, Mary Stuart Masterson and Ron Silver. (R)

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S LOADED WEAPON I

•The Lethal Weapon series gets the Naked Gun treatment with Emilio Estevez playing the Mel Gibson role as a Los Angeles detective on the edge. (PG-13)

POINT OF NO RETURN

•Sexy Bridget Fonda (Single White Female, Singles) is a death-row murderess recruited by a covert organization of high-level assassins in this Americanized version of the French film La Femme Nikita. (R)

RICH IN LOVE

•Strong cast (Albert Finney, Jill Clayburgh, Kyle McLachlan) enlivens drama about a family crisis. (PG-13)

SCENT OF A WOMAN

•Al Pacino stars as a blind, retired Army officer who leads a young prep school student, hired to care for him at home, on a mad weekend romp through Manhattan. (R)

SOMMERSBY

•Loose remake of the French film The Return of Martin Guerre with Jodie Foster and Richard Gere as Civil War veteran whose identity is questioned when he returns home. (PG-13)

SWING KIDS

•A group of dancing teenagers defy the Nazis in 1930s Germany. With Christian Bale (Empire of the Sun) and Barbara Hershey. (PG-13)

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES 3

•The Fab Four fight real ninjas when are transported back to ancient Japan in this latest live-action feature based on the popular cartoon series. (PG)

UNFORGIVEN

•Clint Eastwood's Oscar-nominated masterpiece about a former gunslinger who can't escape his past is back for another run. Gene Hackman is brilliant as a self-righteous sheriff. (R)

UNTAMED HEART

•Young love with Marisa Tomei (My Cousin Vinny) and Christian Slater (Pump Up The Volume) as a waitress and a busboy. Rosie Perez (White Men Can't Jump) is along for the ride. (PG-13)

THE VANISHING

•Jeff Bridges, Kiefer Sutherland and Nancy Travis star in this thriller about a man trying to save his kidnapped girlfriend. (R)

REVIVALS

SONG OF CEYLON (1934)/HOUSING PROBLEMS (1935)/COALFACE (1935)/NIGHTMARE (1936)

Part II of the Rutgers Film Co-op's tribute to British documentary pioneer John Grierson features four short films from the era of the Great Depression. Song of Ceylon looks at a British colony in Sri Lanka from an Orientalist perspective; the latter three, respectively, deal with the problems of urban housing, coal miners and postal workers. Friday, April 3, 7 p.m., at Middle Hall, Room 100, on the College Avenue campus of Rutgers University in New Brunswick. Presented by the Rutgers Film Co-op 1992-93 New Jersey Media Arts Festival Spring Program. Tickets $3, $2 for Film Co-op members. (908) 932-8482.

Can you say 'Lipizzaner?'

Famous horse show rides into Hunterdon Central High School

The Clydesdales may be the most famous horses in the United States, but all they really do is help sell Budweiser.

The Royal lipizzaner Stallions, meanwhile, have worked hard to earn their reputation as world-famous steeds.

Imported from Austria, the magnificent white mounts will perform their elegant, precise exercises as the stars of the Wonderful World of Horses show coming to Hunterdon Central High School in Flemington Sunday, April 4.

For more than 400 years, the six bloodlines of the Lipizzan breed, known for their nimble dancing and spectacular leaps, have been carefully maintained according to equestrian tradition. Their history of their forerunners can be traced as far back as 2,000 years, to ancient Carthage. In the late 16th century, the breed was established as the exclusive property of Austrian nobility and military aristocracy and were trained for battle.

Today, a select group of the Royal Lipizzaners, whose preservation during World War II is credited to a rescue from Russian troops by General George S. Patton (an episode dramatized in the Disney movie The Miracle of the White Stallions), tours throughout the United States and Canada, performing individual and ensemble exercises, intricate maneuvers that show off their superior breeding, athletic ability and style.

THE ROYAL LIPIZZANER STALLIONS, Sunday, April 4, 2 p.m., at Hunterdon Central High School, 84 Route 31, Flemington. Tickets $12.50 adults, $10 children under 12 and seniors over 60. (908) 788-1893.

The Royal Lipizzaner Stallions, a rare breed of horse whose lineage traces back to ancient Carthage, are featured in the Wonderful World of Horses Show scheduled to ride into Flemington for a performance at Hunterdon Central High School Sunday, April 4, 2 p.m.

All-star jazz-pop group coming to Club Bene

Club Bene in Sayreville will present A Night on the Town, a special concert featuring an all-star lineup of jazz and pop stars, Thursday, April 8.

The three-hour performance will feature an impressive group of international jazz instrumentalists, including trumpeter Hugh Masekela (of Sarafina and Paul Simon's Graceland fame), Bobby Lyle on keyboards, Gerald Albright on saxophone, Keiko Matsui on piano and Kumi Matsui on shakuhachi (Japanese flute).

Jazz instrumentals will dominate the first half of the show, while a jazz-pop sound, featuring the vocals of Chaka Khan and Phillip Bailey, will add a new dimension to the second set.

Khan and Bailey can each boast of a large resume of hit songs. After scoring several hits with the group Rufus ("Tell Me Something Good"), Khan went on to solo success, including her recent, Grammy-winning "Woman I Am."

Bailey hit the big-time as the lead singer of Earth, Wind and Fire, and also scored a soulful hit with ("Easy Lover") with Phil Collins.

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN Thursday, April 8, 9 p.m., at the Club Bene, Route 35 South, Sayreville. Tickets $25, $35 with optional pre-concert dinner (7 p.m.). (908) 727-3000.

Singer Chaka Khan will join former Earth, Wind and Fire vocalist Phillip Bailey and an all-star jazz band at Club Bene in Sayreville Thursday, April 8.

Last chance for Lufthansa's Romantic Europe

There's just a short time left to join us on this spring's tour of Romantic Europe. Twenty-eight readers from the Forbes' readership area have already signed up for our May 3 departure and there are just a few spaces left.

The tour, which is scheduled to depart from Newark International airport, will visit Germany and Austria. Arrangements have been made to travel to some of the most beautiful and historic cities in all of Europe such as Munich, Rothenburg, Oberammergau, Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Salzburg and Innsbruck.

The group will enjoy uninterrupted, four-night stays in both Munich and Salzburg. Our tour participants will experience the highlights that each of these magnificent cities has to offer. Then, using each city as a base, excursions will be made to the surrounding areas, returning to the hotel later in the day. This will alleviate time-consuming packing and unpacking and offers a more enjoyable travel experience.

The first stop on the tour will be in Munich, the capital of Bavaria, where arrangements have been made to visit the famed glockenspiel at the Marienplatz and the 18th century Nymphenburg Palace. The group will also enjoy a memorable evening at one of Munich's popular beer gardens.

While visiting Munich, readers turned adventurers will enjoy excursions to some of Germany's most famous sights. Our group will travel the world famous Romantic Road on our way to the picturesque medieval towns of Dinkelsbühl and Rothenburg.

On a separate day trip, our group will experience the incredible extravaganza of old world architecture of the castles of Hohenschwangau and Neuschwanstein. These fairy tale castles, built by Mad Ludwig II, were the King's final effort to recapture a bygone era. The group will also visit the small German village of Oberammergau, known worldwide for its passion play and its decorative wood carvings.

The next stop will be Garmisch-Partenkirchen — the famous Alpine resort which is dominated by the Zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain. Afterward, travelers from our area will visit the 700-year-old city of Innsbruck, capital of Tyrol and Maria Theresa's favorite city. Sightseeing here will include the "Hofburg" Imperial Palace and the world famous "golden" roof.

Continuing to Salzburg, the group will enjoy the scenic highlights of the "City of Mozart," including the Hohensalzburg Fortress, one of the largest in all of Europe. The group will also enjoy many of the sights and places closely associated with The Sound of Music.

Additional day trips planned will include visits to The Eagles Nest, Berchtesgaden and the picturesque Lake District.

The tour arrangements include round-trip airfare from Newark, accommodations in first class hotels, buffet breakfast daily, dinners, sightseeing and more for just $1,985 per person. These arrangements are offered on a first-come, first-served basis. Those who are interested in joining the group should make their reservations now.

Double the pleasure Roberto's adds a new location in Hillsborough

By MICK PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

Roberto's in Hillsborough is the newest restaurant by owners Roberto and Gail Cardaci. Their other one is on Route 202 in Flemington. Before either Roberto's opened, I can remember eating at their first restaurant in South Bound Brook about 10 years ago.

Their first restaurant was in a free-standing building on Elizabeth Avenue, and it seemed the more we went, the more crowded it became. Eventually, they moved from Elizabeth Avenue to a much larger building on Main Street.

After closing their South Bound Brook restaurant, the Cardacis opened their first Roberto's in Flemington. Their second one just opened in Hillsborough, and like the first in South Bound Brook, each week brings more new customers — so much so that reservations are suggested on weekends.

The restaurant is located in the Cinema Plaza shopping center. Once you find the plaza, Roberto's is easy to spot. It's the corner store to the left as you drive in.

The decorations are kept to a minimum, with a combination of wood paneling and white walls on one side and mirrors on the other. Tables are linen covered, and come with wine glasses even though Roberto's does not have a liquor license.

Your waiter will open your wine and chill the white wines in an ice bucket for you. Our service was professionally handled by Chucky O'Reilly, a friend of our younger son.

Roberto's menu is quite extensive with 18 hot and cold appetizers ($1.95-$7.25 for shrimp Roberto), three soups, and three vegetables ($3.50-$4.75) for starters. You can order an appetizer as an entree for $4 more than the list price.

Entrees include 10 seafood selections ($10.95 to market price for lobster tail), seven veal and chicken dinners ($13.95-$11.95) and 18 pasta choices ($8.95 to $13.95).

There are also 12 house specialties of chicken, pork chops, steak or veal chops cooked "Murphy" style (with a butter, wine and cheese sauce with peppers, onions and mushrooms), "Italiano" (with home fries, mushrooms and onions or with a marinara sauce, or "Scappicciata" (prepared with cream, capers, olives, butter, a touch of lemon, with broccoli and artichoke). These prices range from $11.95 for chicken Murphy to $21.95 for veal chop Scappicciata.

The menu also includes four veal chops dishes ($21.95) and four steak selections ($15.95-$16.95). There are also nightly specials of both appetizers and entrees. All entrees are served with hot Italian bread and a side of pasta.

Our two appetizers were delicious. My husband ordered the escarole sauteed in olive oil and garlic with vinegar peppers and black olives ($4.75). I had one of the nightly specials, grilled portobello mushrooms served in garlic and oil ($5.95).

Both of our entrees came from the special menu. My husband had the veal Sorrento ($18.95), a nice size piece of tender veal over fresh eggplant and covered with mozzarella cheese and a red tomato sauce.

I had the seafood combo ($22.95) of scallops, six whole clams, poached catfish, calamari, scungilli and shrimp served over a bed of linguini. This was served in a huge fish shaped platter with enough food to feed a small army.

This was the first time I ever ate catfish, and I have to admit, it was quite good. The seafood wasn't overcooked, and the mildly hot sauce delicious.

For dessert, I had the fresh strawberries (without whipped cream) and my husband had the Black Forest torte. We completed our evening with a good cup of cappuccino.

Roberto's has a lot going for it. The food is traditional Italian with a wide selection to choose from. The portions are large. The kitchen staff and servers are professional and efficient. They don't rush you. And the prices are moderate. Need I say more?

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

I'm always on the lookout for wineries and wines that I'm sure you haven't had a lot of exposure to, and this week, I think I've found a real winner. Lou Preston began Preston Vineyards in 1973 and watched his winery go from a 2,000 case winery to about 26,000 cases a year. His success can definitely be linked to his ability to choose exactly the right clone and varietal for the specific climate, microclimate and soil composition of this Dry Creek Valley vineyard. The very obvious choice for grapes at the beginning was Sauvignon Blanc and Zinfandel. Since then, Preston has experimented, and had great fortune, with traditional French Rhone varietals, such as Syrah, Carignane and Mourvedre and even the Italian varietal Barbera.

For this reason, Preston wines are anything but typical and boring. Lou's dedication to finding exactly what should be planted where shows the same kind of tenacity that kept French wines superior for so long. The next time you're out in that sea glutted with cabernet and chardonna, look for the Preston labels. You will not be disappointed.

Preston Cuvée de Fume 1991 - a white wine to be reckoned with. Beautiful straw color, full of the expected grass and herbal notes on the nose, but also showing pears and pineapple. Barrel fermenting gives the wine a lushness, but the acidity is still very marked and refreshing. Smokiness on the finish. Simply lovely.

Preston Zinfandel 1989 - this red has the ability to age another ten years, but is very accessible now. Loads of dark berries on the nose and in the mouth. Spicy, with firm but not overpowering tannins. Hints of oak add wonderful complexity.

Preston Barbera 1990 - this bottle is just a treat! Huge amounts of startling raspberry fruit, crisp acidity and very low tannins. For all of the flavor the wine has almost no weight in the mouth. You could easily make this your "everyday" wine for your dinners. It is simply drinkable.

Keep experimenting and enjoy!
