A Forbes Newspaper 50 cents

Briefs

Aides sought

The Westfield Library and the Neighborhood Council are sponsoring a program to give reading assistance to students in grades 1-8. The program is open to pupils enrolled in the Neighborhood Council. The sessions are Tuesday afternoons, April 20, May 4, May 18 and June 1, at 4 p.m. There will be an orientation meeting for volunteers Monday, April 19, at 4 p.m. at the library. For more information call Carol Wilson at the library at 789-4090.

Bus routes change

NJ Transit has revised some bus routes effective Saturday. The No. 113 Dunellen-New York route will be extended from Cranford to Westfield on the 6:45 p.m. trip from New York. An additional route has been added from Mountlake to New York. Riders can call NJ Transit at 800-772-2222 or (201) 762-5100 from out of state for more information. For persons with hearing impairments the number is 800-772-2287. Copies of the new timetables are available at the major terminals and on the buses.

Squad drive is on

The First Aid Squad is holding its annual fund drive this month. Donation requests have been mailed to all Westfield homes. The squad is totally dependent on contributions.

Dog census begins

Raise your paws and be counted. The police department has begun the annual dog census, as mandated by the state. All dogs 6 months of age or older must be licensed by Jan. 31. Owners of dogs without a current license may contact the town clerk at 789-4030. Proof of rabies inoculation must be furnished to apply for the license.

Calling all crafters

Crafters are wanted for the Spring Market and Fair to be held at the high school May 15 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the scholarship funds for graduating students. There will also be crafts and activities for children, entertainment, and a Chinese auction starting at 2 p.m. For $20, crafters will get an 8-by-5-foot space. Contract forms can be obtained by writing Bonnie Como, WHS Project, 636 Hart Street, Westfield, 07090. Call Bonnie Como at 233-0945 or Nancy Page at 233-9477.

Candidates night

The Westfield Parent-Teacher Council is sponsoring its annual candidates night Monday at 7:45 p.m. at Edison Intermediate School. The debate will also air on Suburban Cable channel 36 April 13, 14, 15, and 19 at noon and 9 p.m. and April 16, 17, and 18 at noon and 8 p.m.

Big egg hunt on

The 54th annual Easter egg hunt is Saturday at 1 p.m. at Meadowlark Park. The Easter Bunny will greet all children. There will be a special egg hunt area for children under 3 years old and accompanied by a parent. The Lions Club is sponsoring the traditional spring event.

Seniors to meet

The Senior Social Club of Holy Trinity Church will meet Monday. A speaker will discuss consumer fraud, and refreshments will be served. Attendees are asked to bring a contribution to the food pantry, such as one meal package. The meeting starts at 1:30 p.m.

Downtown's future

The Westfield Adult School is sponsoring a lecture titled All Roads Lead To Westfield: The Future of Downtown. Robert Newell, president of the downtown committee, other members of the committee, and members of the Town Council will present a question and answer session Monday 7:30-9:30 p.m. in room 163 of the high school.

School candidates face parents' questions African-American forum focuses on minority students' grade performance

By ELIZABETH GROMEX
THE RECORD

At a "meet the candidates night" last week, the school board candidates tackled some of the more pressing questions facing the school district and revealed more about their plans for Westfield's schools. Host for the forum was the Concerned African-American Parents.

The five candidates are running for three seats in the April 20 election. Incumbents Melissa Nixon and Susan Jacobson are being challenged by Bill Sweeney, Jean Benisch, and Bill Reinhardt.

Amid the predictable questions about budgets and taxes came questions on a wider range of topics like the performance of African-American students in town schools.

All candidates called for more competition and higher teacher expectations to bring the scores of African-American students closer to their counterparts' scores. Mrs. Jacobson proposed more programs to promote minority achievement and training the teachers to "appreciate the diversity." Mrs. Jacobson said she was "aware and disturbed" by the problem, and believes it is an area worthy of attention.

"I won't kid you, there is a lot of work to be done," Mrs. Jacobson said.

Mr. Reinhardt wants to raise the expectations of the teachers and looks to Edison Intermediate School Principal Sam Hazel as a role model for the minority students. According to Mr. Reinhardt, Mr. Hazel is implementing a mentoring program to expose students to a wide range of role models. The candidate also said the test scores are improving.

One of the reasons minority students are not performing at the same level as white students is because the former do not have access to the same benefits, Mrs. Benisch said, such as the high number of students who are tutored privately.

Mrs. Nixon said this concern was one of the main reasons she ran for the board. Although progress is being made and the number of programs is increasing, more should be done, she said.

"I'm not comfortable with the programs at all. We need to keep the issue before the public and the administration," Mrs. Nixon said.

Mr. Sweeney did not have recommendations for improving the test scores of African-American students.

"I can't give any recommendations because I don't know why it's happening," he said.

Later, all the candidates agreed the town is approaching the "breaking point" in absorbing the increasing costs to run the schools. But they had different views on where the money is being spent, where it could be saved and when the taxpayers will say "uncle."

Mrs. Benisch believes the district is spending "a lot" of money on education but not getting the best outcome. However, Mrs. Jacobson feels that maintaining the programs and standards already in place, such as keeping class sizes small, costs the town more. The answer is to bring money in from other sources, like corporations.

As a taxpayer, Mr. Sweeney believes that the town is "just about at the breaking point." But one solution of regionalization would be "unacceptable."

Mrs. Nixon agreed the public will not handle much more, but said the increase in this year's budget is lower than it had been in many years. It would be up to the school board to call it when the increases become too great, said Mr. Reinhardt. He said there is "anxiety in the community."

New plans for a Shop-Rite to be built on North Avenue on the border of Westfield and Garwood border were introduced at last month's joint meeting of the two towns' planning boards. The plans, which overcame many original objections, were approved by Westfield's board of architectural review. The boards meet again at 7 tonight at Washington School on St. Mark's Avenue to continue to hear testimony.

Westfield woman competes for grand title

It's only three steps from Miss Westwood to Miss New Jersey to Miss America.

And on April 4, Julie Stiefel, 22, from Garwood, moved one step closer to realizing her dream of being crowned the next Miss America when she won the Miss Westwood contest.

Theresa Saunders, 21, of Westfield and Michelle Miller, 21, of Scotch Plains also competed in the Westwood pageant. Ms. Saunders who attends Rowan College plans on teaching music after she receives her master's degree in vocal education. Ms. Miller also plans to continue her education after graduating from West Virginia University in May when she begins study at American University for a master's degree in business administration.

Ms. Stiefel, a junior at Ramapo College, is an active volunteer with a children's group called

These are the girls who are not the most beautiful. These are the girls you're proud of

— Jo-Ellen Rox
Pageant executive director

Pro-Kids, who plans to be an entertainment lawyer.

Although Ms. Stiefel might be considered by some as a beauty queen, according to Jo-Ellen Rox, executive director of the pageant, the contest is really a scholarship pageant. Each contestant is in the pageant vying for scholarship money for their education.

"Anyone who sees our pageant can tell the difference," she said. "It's not a beauty pageant it's a scholarship pageant. It's not like a little talent show."

But the talent contest is one of the three categories that the 12 contestants competed in. They also participated in personal interviews and a swimsuit competition.

The women are judged, according to Ms. Rox, on their abilities and physical fitness.

"These are the girls who are not the most beautiful. These are the girls you're proud of. (They're) not the typical average girl," she said. "They're unique. She may not be the prettiest girl but she's the best girl — well-rounded, educated and talented."

PBA wins 5% yearly pay hikes in new, three-year contract

By ELIZABETH GROMEX
THE RECORD

Westfield's policemen will receive a 5-percent raise each year over the next three years under terms of a contract agreed to by Town Council's negotiators Tuesday night. A salary ordinance expected to be passed at next Tuesday's meeting will be the town's official ratification of the pact.

The force has been working without a contract since January.

The Town Council introduced the new contract as a resolution at Tuesday's meeting and will formally vote on it next week. It was pointed out at the meeting, though, that the town already is committed to the agreement regardless of how the council votes on it.

One town official on the negotiating team said the talks went well.

Negotiations were wrapped up about two weeks ago and the union, the Policemen's Benevolent Association, voted in favor of the contract 40-7. There are 50 members on the force. Head negotiator for the PBA, Patrolman Robert McInerney, could not be reached for comment before press time.

The contract also includes an extra $100 for supervisors on the force in the years 1993 and 1994 because "we think they're overworked and underpaid," town Administrator Jack Malloy said.

Augustine bill aims at insurance fraud

Assemblyman Alan M. Augustine called on the Assembly speaker to post legislation he is sponsoring to broaden the scope of the state's insurance fraud laws to cover the filing of misleading or false information during the application process.

Assemblyman Augustine said he considers the posting of the bill, A-2285, to be vitally important to help send a message that the state will not tolerate insurance fraud.

He said, "The key to this bill is that it attempts to stop fraud at its source by making an individual who files false or misleading information on an insurance application subject to criminal and civil penalties even if the applicant never attempted to collect on a claim."

"The basic supposition of the bill is that an individual who would go as far as to lie or mislead an insurer on an application is highly likely to try to file or attempt to collect on a claim that is likewise fraudulent," the 22nd District assemblyman added.

Currently, the state's Rate Evader Law only provides penalties in cases where an individual files false information on an auto insurance application.

A-2285 would extend the law to apply to individuals who file false or misleading applications for auto as well as health, fire, life, property and casualty, homeowner's and any other type of insurance coverage.

The penalty for violating the law would include fines that could reach as high as $15,000 per violation.

The Assembly Insurance Committee, on which Assemblyman Augustine serves, voted to release A-2285 on Feb. 22 as part of a comprehensive four-bill anti-insurance fraud package that was also reported out and placed on second reading in the Assembly.

The other bills in the package include: A-1874 (Ogden), which would require policyholders who experience a fire-related loss to file an affidavit that would be filed with local fire departments; A-1875 (Oros), a measure requiring the DMV to maintain and operate a 24-hour insurance data bank and A-1876 (Oros-Ogden), which would require insurance companies to void the policies of people who file fraudulent information in order to obtain coverage.

"The key to this bill is that those people who cheat the system are primary contributors to the escalation that has taken place in insurance premiums," Assemblyman

Augustine said. "By doing whatever we can to reduce fraud, as this package does, we will help reduce a primary contributing factor to the record growth that has taken place in rates."

Red Cross continues fund drive

The Red Cross is still collecting funds as part of its annual March campaign. Last year was difficult for the organization due to the need for assistance for the victims of hurricanes Andrew and Iniki, as well as the nor'easter that hit the New Jersey coast in December.

As part of its fund-raising efforts, the Red Cross received the proceeds from Dr. William Bon-sell's patient appreciation day. Each patient examined donated to the Red Cross for the cost of the exam. The $500 raised by the Westfield chiropractor will be used to purchase computer programs for the chapter's services.

Donations to the Red Cross can be sent to the Westfield/Mountaineer chapter at 321 Elm St.

State aid previewed by board hopefuls

By ELIZABETH GROMEK
THE RECORD

As the state reworks the formula that determine the amount of aid allotted to school districts, Westfield could be faced with the loss of these funds. Currently, the state contributes $3.7 million to the school budget, or less than 10 percent.

The candidates running for school board could be faced with the shortfall of state funds when the ink is dry on the new formula and the difference may be headed to a poorer district. However, they differ on their approaches to dealing with it.

The five candidates are competing for three open board seats in the April 20 election. Incumbents Susan Jacobson and Melba Nixon will be challenged by Jean Benisch, Bill Reinhardt, and Bill Sweeney.

Mr. Reinhardt does not believe throwing money at the poorer districts will necessarily be the solution. But he favors spending it in the interest of equity.

"If the money were spent to promote the goal of equity, I'd be sorry to see it go, but I'd have to do my vote for equity," Mr. Reinhardt said.

However, Mrs. Nixon rejects the idea that it must be a this-or-nothing situation. Each child is deserving of state monies, there are no dollars that will be ill spent, she said.

"In truth, all our children are worthy of aid if we are to function and prosper in this post-industrial world," Mrs. Nixon said.

Mrs. Jacobson advises being cautious when looking at the dollars coming from the state. Often money not given in one way is provided in another, as in the case of the state paying the pensions and Social Security of the teachers, but maintaining the amount of aid. She advises townspeople to be patient while the state is getting everything settled.

"We need to be careful and patient and very flexible in the way we look at it," Mrs. Jacobson said. "It's important to look at everything and understand the issue and not act on impulse."

Mrs. Benisch offers solutions to the current organization of school districts across the state. If the number of districts were reduced, it would allow more flexibility to fund the districts.

"We can no longer afford the luxury of supporting 630 independent school districts in New Jersey," Mrs. Benisch said. "Either a centralized solution, of reducing the number of school districts and funding reform, or a decentralized solution of charter schools will prevail."

Mr. Sweeney calls for maintaining the quality of Westfield's schools to provide guidance and leadership for the other schools in the state.

"I believe Westfield's metaphorical status as a lighthouse district is important to the urban schools as well," Mr. Sweeney said. "We can't maintain this level without the aid."

Good citizen

Deacon Wilbur Mason, right, of Bethel Baptist Church of Westfield accepts the Rebecca Oakes Good Citizenship Award Sunday. Looking on are Warren Victor, second from left, who founded the award in 1982, Congressman Bob Franks, who presented a flag flown over the Capitol in Washington, and the Rev. Kevin Clark.

Walk for Hunger set for April 18

A community-wide walk for local hunger will take place Sunday, April 18, to raise funds to be given to the hungry in Middlesex, Union and Somerset counties.

The walk will culminate at Echo Lake Park, Mountainside, where Rep. Bob Franks will speak. A drama group from Morristown, The Primal Rhythm Tribe, and the Cranford High School jazz band will entertain. Refreshments will be available.

The walk will begin at four different starting places: Temple Israel in Scotch Plains, 1:30 p.m.; Westfield Memorial Library, 2 p.m.; Union County College in Cranford, 2 p.m.; Arthur Johnston High School in Clark, 1 p.m. The routes will lead to Echo Lake Park.

Participants may register for the walk by sending $5, name and address, to Luis Fleischman at the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey, 843 St. Georges Ave., Roselle, 07203 or may register the day of the walk at each starting point. The first 300 registrants by mail will receive a free T-shirt, which will be distributed at any of the starting points.

Staples turn up in meat in high school cafeteria

By ELIZABETH GROMEK
THE RECORD

A ninth-grader bit into a hot dog in the cafeteria of Westfield High School last week and discovered she had a mouthful of staples. After she spit out the staples and partially chewed hot dog, she was worried that she swallowed some of the metal objects, according to Principal Robert Petix.

After she saw the school nurse, her mother took her to the doctor for X-rays, to be sure she had not swallowed any staples, Dr. Petix said. However, the X-rays proved negative.

The cafeteria and the food service company, Service America Corp., were both notified immediately. The student was back in school the next day, Dr. Petix added.

Westfield Health Officer Bob Sherr also was notified. The remaining hot dogs were pulled from the cafeteria and the manufacturer was notified, he said.

Westfield school Assistant Superintendent for Business Robert

Rader said the source of the staples was unknown as the package they came in was staple-free. The cafeteria also has switched brands of hot dogs. He reassured students and parents that the incident was not the fault of the cafeteria workers.

"It had nothing to do with the cafeteria people," he said.

The police also were notified of the incident, but no action has been taken aside from filing a report, said Detective Cliff Auster.

Volunteers sought for cleanup day

The Beautification Committee of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce seeks workers of all ages from local organizations, youth groups, businesses and residents to participate in its Clean Sweep, Saturday, April 24. The fifth annual spring cleaning of the public areas of Westfield will prepare the town for spring and summer beautification projects.

To recruit workers, letters have been mailed to chamber members and local organizations. Families, neighborhood groups and civic-minded people also are welcome and needed.

Workers bringing brooms and favorite cleanup tools, wearing gloves and work clothes, are to come to Rorden Realty, Elm and Quimby streets, between 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Volunteers will depart for assigned places as a group to pick up litter and make the site broom-clean. Trash bags, provided by the town Public Works Department, will be collected.

Financial contributions in any amount are welcome. They will be used to treat workers to refreshments and to defray costs incurred during cleanup. Checks, payable to Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce, may be mailed to the chamber, P.O. Box 81, Westfield, 07091.

Warren Rorden, chairman of the Beautification Committee said, "By pitching in together, we can make Clean Sweep fun. An hour of work before or between Saturday's chores or ball games can get Westfield looking the way we all want it to look."

Five strong candidates vie for three full terms on board facing ongoing fiscal woes

There are always plenty of uncertainties in the day-to-day operation of a school district and in board of education elections. Westfield traditionally has enjoyed the comfort of consistently strong fields of school board candidates, and lately has teetered on the brink of some frightening aid-related budgetary crises.

As the April 20 election looms, the budget-aid situation is temporarily stabilized, but next year will be typically uncertain, as the legislature and the phalanx of local and statewide school and teacher lobbyists thrash out yet another aid plan.

In this light, incumbents Melba Scott Nixon and Susan Jacobson appear to be strong and proven voter investments in the financial and educational future of the district. Newcomer Bill Reinhardt emerges among the three non-incumbent candidates as the most likely to contribute the most at this juncture in the district's history. The third board seat is being vacated by businessman Bruce McFadden.

Ms. Nixon correctly points out her perspective on both the board's ongoing local and state issues and on local values and needs in listing her assets in seeking re-election. She is winding up four years of service on the school board and has earned wide respect for her insightful representation of various town interests in that demanding period of time on the board. Her seemingly boundless energy and ability to be effective for the recreation commission, United Fund, library, YW — you name it — in addition to the school board speak volumes of her worthiness for another term.

Ms. Jacobson is completing her sixth year on the school board where her expertise in accounting has been put to the task on the finance committee. In addition, her part-time professional work as a consultant for vocational student organizations keeps her in touch with education leaders statewide and, thus, enables her to bring perspective and ideas to the town board.

Mr. Reinhardt, a newsletter publisher, is fueled by a concern that fiscal constraints imposed by the state or courts will compromise the quality of town schools. He is active in Boy Scouts, Project 79, Little League, his church and the historical society, and various business-related organizations. He has lived in town for five years.

The other candidates in this year's field of quality are attorney William J. Sweeney and Jean Benisch. Mr. Sweeney chairs the architectural review board and advocates a school cost containment plan.

Mrs. Benisch, a 14-year town resident, owns a communications marketing firm. She seeks to bring industry's quality and communications skills to the district.

Letters to the editor

Ex-board member endorses Susan Jacobson

To The Record:

I am writing in support of Susan Jacobson's candidacy for the Westfield Board of Education. Having served with Susan on the board for five years, I know firsthand that she is an extremely effective board member. Two characteristics stand out: her broad experience and her strong dedication.

Susan is very knowledgeable about all aspects of board service. Not only is she very attentive to and interested in curriculum issues, but she brings a special background in media and resource use that enhances her effectiveness in this area. Her leadership on committees such as operations and facilities indicates that she has developed expertise in a wide range of board concerns. Particularly deserving of mention is Susan's longstanding involvement in negotiations and her leadership in contract discussions with each union in the district. Susan is very skilled at this challenging, painstaking activity. We relied strongly on her judgment and ability. Over the last year, Susan has served as vice president, a position which capitalizes on and enhances exposure to the varied aspects of board service.

The negotiations Susan led and participated in frequently lasted until after midnight, several nights a week. This effort is just one example of the tireless devotion to board duties

Susan exhibits. She is active at the county and state levels on Westfield's behalf and is a visible, energetic presence within the district. Her devotion is clear from her time commitment and her upbeat support of school activities.

Susan's experience and commitment is precisely what is needed now as Westfield continues through a difficult period of cost containment while we strive to continually improve quality. A vote for a third term for Susan Jacobson would be a vote for expertise and enthusiasm.

Resident raps MacRitchie for multi-housing stand

To The Record:

This is an open letter to Councilman Kenneth MacRitchie.

Your comments favoring multi-unit housing in Westfield show your lack of knowledge about this subject and a disregard for the views of your constituents.

Certainly, you may point out cases where absentee landlords or renters take pride in their homes. The point is: Does multi-unit zoning "foster" that kind of attitude. I suggest that it does not.

Why bother with painting, home repairs, maintenance, etc. when the absentee landlord may be more interested in getting money out of his investment than putting money into it. This is how the term "slumlord" was born.

You also used flawed reasoning in your following example: Yes, one legal dwelling may house 11 people and three illegal units house one person each. However, there is nothing to stop each of those multiple units from housing 11 individuals either, once zoning laws are changed.

I hope the community becomes active in this issue because it most certainly will affect home values. But, more important, it will affect the aesthetic values that have attracted families to Westfield: small-town atmosphere, caring neighbors, etc. These are qualities that make Westfield a town to emulate, not change.

I also wonder whether or not you have considered the extra services and burdens this town will bear regarding schools, police, fire, road repair, town parking and congestion if the zoning change is approved. It seems as though your good intentions were not well thought out. You would rather punish Westfield and its inhabitants than the chronic offenders who break the present zoning laws.

My family and I have noted well your views on this issue. They will be duly reflected by our vote on election day.

Fellow rec commissioner backs Ms. Nixon for school board

To The Record:

I am writing to express my support for Melba Nixon who is running for re-election to the Westfield Board of Education. I have known Mrs. Nixon for over six years and have the pleasure of serving with her on the Recreation Commission.

Melba Nixon is an extremely hard-working and compassionate person whose foremost priority is to serve the community of Westfield and especially its younger citizens. In her role on the Board of Education, Melba has consistently kept a sharp focus on ensuring a high quality educational program, which reflects the values and ideals of our community. I believe one of Melba Nixon's unique advantages is her close connections to the major local community organizations such as the Y, JCC, Neighborhood Council, the Rotary and others. This gives Melba an opportunity to be aware of the views of the different sectors of our town, which can then be effectively factored into the Board of Education's work plans.

Westfield needs Melba Nixon's active and ongoing service to our education system.

Conservationist asks Congress to correct N.J. 'tunnel' vision

By DAVID F. MOORE

Executive Director
New Jersey Conservation Foundation

An open letter to the New Jersey Congressional delegation:

With the new attention on the federal budget and cutting expenditures, I thought I'd send you a few of my suggestions, which relate to New Jersey.

We should no longer subsidize things which will become more costly both in lives and property damage. I refer to the Federal Flood Insurance Program, and to the funding to plan the Passaic River flood tunnel.

If only we had set up a flood insurance program with the teeth to preclude further insurance on construction in high hazard areas! With a rule that paying once for flood damage would give the government an option to buy property again severely storm-damaged, we would be saving millions upon millions in the future.

To claim that the flood insurance program is funded by enough property owner payments to cover damage payments is dishonest. If it were so, the government would have no need to be in the insurance business. Experience shows that taxpayer dollars instead cover payments after storms like those recently felt along the New Jersey Shore.

Flood insurance in terms of subsidizing unwise construction along our shores and streams is an idea for which the time is long gone.

The proposed $2 billion Passaic River tunnel, 40 feet in diameter, would carry flood waters from the central Passaic Basin to Newark Bay.

If we had used money spent so far to study and validate flood control plans for the Passaic, we could have bought out those places flooded the most frequently. The tunnel plan would no longer meet its cost-benefit ratio.

In U.S. Army Corps of Engineers parlance, the tunnel cost would then exceed the value of its benefits, and thus be uneconomic.

So, why not spend a mere fraction of the $2 billion on buying out the places most frequently flooded, and protect and restore wetlands in the process? Creating parks this way would bring amenities and enhance property values in the neighborhood.

That would get rid of all the high-tech construction that will take many years to complete, and probably save some lives and certainly some property in the meantime.

Some places would still get wet in floods, particularly commercial and industrial buildings. I believe those corporate developers had the capability to know they were building in the flood plain to start with, and should pay for floodproofing themselves, instead of asking us taxpayers to pay for it.

While we're at it, there is another way you can save money by spending a bit now to prevent future problems. I'm talking about protecting the surface drinking water supply for half the state's population.

That water comes from the Highlands physiographic province, and we had better protect the forestland there quickly. Right now development plans target some of the most critical places.

Their loss will mean big trouble for future generations of New Jerseyans. You should know that intact forests are the best and cheapest way to keep a water supply clean and plentiful.

Scrapping the tunnel and retiring flood-victim homes can reduce the budget and probably save lives. Saving northern New Jersey forest tracts will keep our water supply safe and clean in this crowded state we're in.

Driver pleads for plowing Crossway Pl. underpass

To The Record:

While the town has done a good job with the snow removal, one area seems to need improvement: the underpass at Crossway Place.

The snow should have been completely and quickly removed from there as the underpass is too narrow to begin with.

With only one car at a time able to go through, traffic was slowed unnecessarily. With the Tuttle Parkway Bridge out of service, Crossway Place is even more important to the flow of traffic in town.

Hometown author inspires third-graders

By ELIZABETH GROMEK
THE RECORD

Former Westfield resident Kevin McCloskey, a children's book author, gets some of his own medicine when Jefferson School student Kenny Sanocki shows off a book he wrote in school.

The students in Diana Collins's third-grade class know all about being an author.

Not only did they recently write and illustrate their own version of Mrs. Fitz's Flamingos, but last week they met the book's original author, Kevin McCloskey. The former Westfield resident spoke to all the students of Jefferson School about his first children's book.

Mr. McCloskey explained how he wrote and illustrated the book, which tells of a Brooklyn resident's flock of lawn flamingos. He described how he took pictures of some neighborhoods in Brooklyn to use as reference as he made the original ink and watercolor drawings.

The character of Mrs. Fitz is based on the author's mother, Betty McCloskey, who still lives in Westfield. She recently tried out the story on some of the neighborhood children for whom she babysits. It has made her almost a celebrity, she said. On one occasion when her son was signing books, some of the children asked for her autograph, too.

In the story, the view from Mrs. Fitz's window consists of the top of a warehouse and the back of billboards. To spruce it up, she buys pink lawn flamingos to put on her fire escape. She starts out with two and buys a pair each week until she has 12 perched on the fire escape looking in at her. Eventually, the flock moves to the roof of the warehouse, where it grows until lawn ornaments are all over the roof.

After he showed the children a slide presentation about his book, the children asked questions about what it is like to be an author. Mr. McCloskey told the assembly the book took about six months to complete. He also gave them a sneak preview of his next book, which will be about a dog that picks up radio stations.

The author got his start writing for the NY Eye at Westfield High School. He has illustrated other books and worked as a newspaper cartoonist, but this is his most successful endeavor to date. Although he described how hard he worked on Mrs. Fitz, he said he also "feels very lucky" that kids like what he has done.

"I'm very proud to be an author," Mr. McCloskey said. "I love illustrating books."

He has been talking to school children almost every week since the book hit the shelves last April. He enjoys meeting his readers, but he wishes he had more to talk to them about.

"I'm anxious to have another book to talk about," Mr. McCloskey said.

The students in Ms. Collins's class had the author autograph their versions of his book. These stories ranged from rhyming verses to one where Mrs. Fitz goes out and buys a flamingo pink dress. These school children will share their stories with the first-graders at Jefferson.

Mr. McCloskey left the children with words of inspiration.

"Any one of you could be an author and I hope if you do, you come back to this school and tell about it," he told the assembly.

As for the mothers of these authors, Mrs. McCloskey has her own thoughts.

"Having a book dedicated to you makes up for everything," she joked. "He makes it up for everybody."

House tour marks WSO's anniversary

What do an impressive pre-Revolutionary War home filled with extraordinary antiques and a modern day birthday party have in common?

The Westfield Symphony Orchestra Guild house tour will celebrate the Westfield Symphony Orchestra's 10th birthday party at its theme house, the Platt home, Saturday, May 1, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Refreshments will be served in the garden to all participants.

In keeping with the theme, the dining room will be festively set as if for a birthday party and the living room as if for afternoon tea. Period costumes donated from the Scotch Plains Historical Museum, antique instruments compliments of The Bandstand, and old quilts will be displayed. In addition, music will fill the air. There even will be photographs of the house in the 19th century when it was located in Maplewood.

Throughout the home is a mixture of family antiques and collectibles. Mr. Platt is particularly proud of his heirlooms and has extensive knowledge of the history of each one.

Tickets at $16 are available in Westfield at Barret and Crain Realtors, Barons Drugs, Lancaster Ltd., and Rorden Realty; in Scotch Plains at the Scotch Plains Music Center; in Cranford at the Cranford Book Store, and in Summit at Camelot Books on Springfield Avenue.

Magician to perform in family show May 1

Magician and illusionist Steven Michaels will appear at the Roosevelt Intermediate School, Clark Street, 2:30 p.m. Saturday, May 1. This family-oriented production is presented by the 25th Anniversary Children's Committee for the Church of Saint Helen, Westfield.

Mr. Michaels has performed with well-known celebrities including Whoopie Goldberg, Johnny Cash, Brooke Shields, Tom Selleck, Bon Jovi and others. He also has appeared on MTV and Good Morning America and was featured in the motion picture Her Alibi. A first-place winner in the New Jersey

Clown Olympics, Mr. Michaels has trained clowns for Six Flags Great Adventure, and has produced magic shows throughout the country. His talents include comedy, illusion, fire eating, juggling and singing.

Admission is $4 and all seating is unreserved. Tickets are available at St. Helen's Parish Center, 1600 Rahway Ave. Call 233-8757. They also may be purchased on a first-come basis at the following locations: in Westfield, Barret and Crain Realtors, Castle Bootery, and Sealson's Young World; in Cranford, The Village Shoe Shop II; and in Clark, Sun Spot Tanning Studio.

Marcia Cohen and Kathleen Cuckler will present four-hand piano selections at the start of the Spring Assembly of the Westfield History Societies Wednesday at the First Baptist Church.

Historians to present look at county history

The Spring Assembly of the Westfield history societies will feature Ruth and William Frolich in an audio-visual presentation on the history of Union County, Wednesday at the First Baptist Church, Elm Street.

The program will begin at 7:45 p.m. with a musicale of four-hand piano selections by Marcia Cohen and Kathleen Cuckler of the Westfield Musical Club.

The assembly is an annual gathering of the members of the town's five history groups: The Genealogical Society of the West Fields, The Westfield History Society, the volunteers of the Miller-Cory House Museum, The Daughters of the American Revolution, and The Sons of the American Revolution. The meeting, which is open free to the public, will conclude with refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Frolich of Roselle, long-time photo recorders of area history, title their new program Let's Look at Union County. The illustrated lecture is an overview of the county's development incorporating many rare old pictures.

The Frolichs were honored recently by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs for their contributions to the preservation of local history. Their discussion for the Spring Assembly is the newest of several they have prepared and presented widely throughout the county.

Camp has ecological programs

Let's Help Others, an environmental service camp, will be sponsored by the First Congregational Church of Westfield, 125 Elmer St., during August.

Designed for youth entering grades 6-8, the program will stress environmental awareness by exposing participants to a variety of hands-on experiences.

Each day, campers will be involved in a specific service project that introduces a variety of environmental areas.

Project areas will include beach clean-ups, urban parkland restoration, and the maintenance of wood and swamplands. An animal protection program also is being investigated.

The program will be offered the weeks of Aug. 16-20 and 23-27. Participants may enroll in one or both sessions and enrollment is limited.

There is a $75 fee for each week. Hours are 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Campers should plan to bring a lunch. Call the church office at 233-2494.

Contact We Care marks 18th year of service

Contact We Care's Annual Meeting and Commissioning Service was held March 25 at The Presbyterian Church, Westfield. This year's ceremonies celebrated the helpline's completion of 18 years of service to central New Jersey.

Elected to the Board of Trustees were Ellen Anthony, the Rev. David Harwood, Robert Spina and Rebecca Szezyler, all of Westfield, Bert Eldert of Scotch Plains and Bernard Peterson of Fanwood.

Candy Santo, executive director of Contact We Care, gave the State of the Service report. She stated in 1992, 146 volunteers donated a total of 9,262 hours on the phone lines answering more than 12,000 calls. "At the rate of calls so far this year, we will answer more than 15,000 calls in 1993," Mrs. Santo noted. The executive director said that in February, Contact began a new service, Care Ring, a telephone reassurance program which provides daily telephone calls to the elderly, homebound and disabled. "We hope to see this service grow as more people become aware of it," said Mrs. Santo. Also included in the report were plans currently underway for the development of Contact's financial base and for a major fund-raising event.

The commissioning address was given by the Rev. J. David Singh, interim pastor at Willow Grove Presbyterian Church in Scotch Plains. He talked about his visit to the Life Line center in Sydney, Australia, from which the Contact centers in the United States originated. And he discussed the hope and the light one should find in the common meeting ground between the caller and the helpline volunteer.

After the speech, those who became volunteers in the past year were commissioned and presented with Contact pins and certificates.

Telephone workers who reached milestones in 1992 were recognized. Honored for a career total of 2,000 hours on the lines was Harry Lampon. Honored for a career total of 1,000 hours were Sylvia Ballatt, Lynda Stanbach and Mary Anne Sutor. Those honored for serving 500 or more career hours were Phyllis Babbs, Bert Eldert and June Wirkowski.

Fifteen other volunteers who played an important part in Contact We Care during the past year, other than phone time, also were recognized and presented with the Esther Brunquell Honorary Hug Award.

The evening concluded with a reception for Contact's volunteers and their guests.

Contact We Care, which includes both Contact Helpline and Contact IDD Helpline, is staffed by trained volunteers 24 hours a day, seven days a week to answer calls for help about various issues. Call 232-3017 for information on the next training class. Contact We Care is a member of The United Way, Contact USA and Life Long International.

Rev. Granzen to address women

The Rev. Michael A. Granzen, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth, will address women of county-wide Presbyterian churches Tuesday, April 20, as evening speaker at their day-long Spring Gathering.

His topic will be Learning to Pray Again. The event will be held at Central Presbyterian Church, Maple Street, Summit.

Rev. Granzen, a graduate of Harvard Divinity School, is completing his first year at Second Presbyterian Church, 1161 E. Jersey St., Elizabeth. His work follows 11 years in urban ministry in Boston.

Massed choir will perform on Easter

A brass quartet and massed choir will provide music for Easter services Sunday at 9:30 and 11 a.m. at the First Unitarian Society of Plainfield, a liberal Unitarian-Universalist Church, 726 Park Ave., Plainfield. Visitors are invited to hear the Rev. Margot Campbell Gross celebrate The Rebirth of Hope. At 9:30 a.m. an Easter Egg Hunt will be held for children of all ages, and infant care will be offered during both services. Call 758-0750.

The Summit program will include the Rev. Ferenc Duszica, pastor of the Hungarian Reformed Church, Nemesvaros, Hungary, a visitor to the staff of Summit's Central Presbyterian Church. Rev.

Duszica will lead the morning program which precedes an afternoon workshop presented by Mark Elliot, a recent graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary. Call Blanche Schaffer at 464-2066 for more information.

Special music is slated for two Easter services

Special music performed by the Chancel Choir, senior high choir, handbell choir, brass quartet, organ and timpani will highlight the Easter services at Westfield Presbyterian Church, announced James A. Simms, director of music at the church.

The prelude will include music for Two Trumpets and Organ by Bach and selections by the handbell choir.

The choirs in procession will sing Entrata Festiva by Flor Peeters, accompanied by the brass quartet, timpani and organ. For the anthems they will sing The Promise Which Was Made, by Edward Baintow; Since By Man Come Death, and Hallelujah from Handel's Messiah.

The organ postlude will be Toccata from a symphony by Charles-Marie Widor. The music will be performed at both the 9 and 11 a.m. services.

'Wild wreath' workshop planned at Miller-Cory

The Miller-Cory House Museum will present a workshop to make a "wild" wreath Monday, April 19. Craft instructor Anna Lanam will lead the participants. Seating is limited and reservations are required. Payment of $28 must be made in advance. Call 232-1778.

Obituaries

Kerry L. Hoffmann, 43 Title examiner; active in schools

Kerry L. Hoffmann, 43, a title examiner during the 1960s and 1970s in Westfield and the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area, died of cancer March 15, 1993 at Fairfax Hospital, Falls Church, Va.

A native of Rahway, Mrs. Hoffmann graduated from Westfield High School and attended Union College (now Union County College). She had lived since 1973 in Springfield, Va.

She later became a volunteer tutor and the president of the Parent-Teacher Association at Ravensworth Elementary School in Springfield, Va. Mrs. Hoffmann also served on the boards of the PTAs at Poe Middle School, Springfield, Va., and Annandale High School, Annandale, Va.

In Virginia, she was active in the Fairfax County School Board as a member of the board's middle school task force, language arts curriculum task force, and school-scheduling advisory committee. She also was an assistant coach of a girls' soccer team in the Fairfax County Recreation Department and a Girl Scout troop leader.

Surviving are her husband, Richard Hoffmann; three daughters, Meghan, Corinne and Caitlin, all of Springfield, Va.; Mrs. Hoffmann's mother, Audrey Long of Westfield; three sisters, Leslie O'Leary of Washington, D.C., Meredith Humphreys and Alexandra Cornell, both of Westfield; and two brothers, John Long Jr. of Newburgh, N.Y., and Christopher Long of Scotch Plains.

John J. Cerillo, 77

John J. Cerillo, 77, a former supervisor with the Aluminum Co. of America and an avid bowler, died April 3, 1993 at his home in Piscataway.

Mr. Cerillo, who was born in Plainfield, lived in Westfield from 1936 until he moved to Piscataway in 1970. He retired in 1970 after 33 years with Alcoa at its former Garwood works.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret

Piscopo Cerillo; a son, John J. Cerillo Jr. of Bridgewater; two daughters, Shirley Wolfe of Cranford and Joanne Kuznet of Colonia; seven grandchildren; a great-grandchild; and a sister, Florence Munro of North Plainfield.

A funeral Mass was offered Tuesday at Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church.

Arrangements were by the Doolley Colonial Home.

Ruth E. Thomas, 84

Ruth E. Thomas, 84, who had lived in the Westfield and Plainfield area for the past 60 years, died March 30, 1993 at her home.

Mrs. Thomas was born in King and Queen County, Va. She formerly was a member of the Bethel Baptist Church on Trinity Place.

Surviving are two sons, Morris Thomas of Westfield and James Thomas of Plainfield; 13 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren, 10 great-great-grandchildren, and three great-great-great-grandchildren.

Services were held Friday at the Plinton Funeral Home.

Piccolo winners

Walter J. Ridge, Executive Vice President of Westfield UNICO, has announced that W.H.S. seniors Chris Infantino and Dave Duets have been selected as the recipients of the Annual Brian Piccolo Sports Award. The award is sponsored by the NJ District X of UNICO National and is given to athletes who portray the qualities characteristic of Piccolo, which include leadership, courage, unselfishness and dedication to his or her team. This year's award presentation will be Sunday, April 18 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Holiday Inn on Route 22 in Springfield. Call 233-0322 for tickets.

WTA tennis news

All former and current Westfield Tennis Association members, as well as town residents, who are interested in playing in any of the town's tennis ladders — singles, doubles, mixed doubles and seniors — are encouraged to sign up by April 15. The season begins on May 1. Registration will include you in the WTA directory. Applications are available at the Westfield Recreation Department and the Westfield Library. For more information, please call Jean Power at 654-5783.

Coaches clinic

The Westfield Baseball League will be sponsoring a two-part managers and coaches clinic on Wednesday, April 14 and 21, at Edison Junior H.S. from 7-10 p.m. All managers and coaches from the 7-year-old league through the Major League (10-, 11- and 12-year-olds) are encouraged to attend this practical clinic.

The Hot Spot

The lacrosse team battles rival Summit for the Bristol Cup Saturday morning (11 a.m.) at Tamaques Park. Westfield has won the trophy five times in seven years. The Blue Devils reclaimed the cup after a two-year hiatus with their 13-3 rout of the Hill-toppers last year.

You must be a high school student interested in journalism available to work two afternoons/evenings per week, five hours a day. Interns are involved in all aspects of production and writing, and the position is unpaid. For more information, call Executive Sports Editor Norb Garrett at 722-3000, ext. 6340.

State title or bust for Devils golfers

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

A fourth-place finish in the state tournament would provide most high school golf teams with a gratifying feeling of achievement. But, Westfield's golfers viewed last season's showing as a major disappointment. After cruising through the regular season with a 21-2 record and easily winning the county and conference tournaments, the Blue Devils truly believed they had the talent to win the state title.

With every starter returning from last year, the prospect of playing the state tournament on their home course (Echo Lake CC), and with last spring's memory haunting them, the Blue Devils will settle for nothing less than No. 1 in 1993.

"Anything less than a state championship will be a disappointment for this team because we're that deep and talented," said junior Cregg Watner, who was Westfield's low-man in the state tourney with an 80. "We feel we're one of the most talented teams in the state."

"I think the whole team would agree that if we don't win (the state title) it'll be a major disappointment," said senior Matt

Jessup, who began the season in the No. 1 slot. "This is really the year. But, we felt the same way last year."

Instead of dwelling on last year, the golfers plan to use the past as a motivational tool. With an added year of seasoning and plenty of tournament experience under their belts, the Blue Devils think they are better equipped to deal with the large scale pressure the region and state tourneys will bring.

"I think the fact that we have the same talent level and didn't win last year will drive us," said Watner, who's averaged 38.7 shots for nine holes in four rounds this spring. "We're an older team now and everyone's played in tournament competition. We can all make a putt when it counts."

Not only will Westfield be competitive in the state, but it will also be competitive among themselves. Based on three practice rounds and the season opener against Union, no one in the starting five has a nine-hole stroke average over 40.

Jessup and Watner will start the year as Westfield top two golfers. Jessup finished 1992 with a 41.6 average, while Watner was only Blue Devil to average below 40 (39.0). Senior Brian O'Connor has cut six shots off. (Please turn to page B-3)

Off and running

Infantino's gem gives Westfield first victory

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

Chris Infantino personally made sure the Blue Devils would begin their promising season successfully by firing a complete game three-hitter in Westfield's 3-1 opening day victory at Elizabeth.

H.S. ROUNDUP

The senior threw just 68 pitches, 40 over the last five innings, walked one and struck out four while allowing only one run, which was unearned.

"They're a well-schooled team," said Westfield Head Coach Bob Brewster about the Minutemen. "They'll definitely be a team to contend with. Right now, the big thing for us is just getting outside and seeing live action."

While the Blue Devils were sharp defensively for the majority of the game, they took advantage of sloppy Elizabeth fielding to score all three of their runs in the top of the fourth.

With two outs, catcher Dan Higgins reached second base on a throwing error and scored on Adam Yannuzzi's single to left. Dave Schwarzenbek walked and centerfielder Billy Rodd plated Yannuzzi with a base hit to left field. Schwarzenbek came around to score Westfield's final run on a throwing error.

Elizabeth mounted a threat in the bottom of the seventh and sent the tying run to the plate with one out. But, Infantino induced a pair of weak ground outs to preserve the victory.

Netmen exact revenge on Oratory, jump to 2-0

In a matchup of the two defending Union County champions, Westfield reeled off three quick victories to defeat Oratory Prep, 3-2, in Summit on Tuesday. Both teams shared the Union County title and eagerly await the tournament, which begins April 29.

Track teams look to go the distance

Girls relying on experience

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

For years, the backbone of Westfield's girls' track team was its distance runners.

So, when second-year coach Nancy Carpenter learned she would enter the spring without the defending county champion in the one- and two-mile runs (Catie Robinson) and two standouts from the cross-country team (Anne Engell and Noelle Nolas), one could understand the anxiety she may have been feeling.

But, Kennedy's fears have been allayed, thanks to an accomplished group of young distance runners, a highly improved unit in the weight events and, perhaps, Westfield's most well-balanced team in quite a while.

Despite having only two seniors, Kennedy believes the Blue Devils have a good opportunity to defend their title in the Union County Relays, which will be held Saturday morning at Plainfield's Hub Stine Field.

"We don't have a lot of seniors, but we have a couple of great role models," said Kennedy. "There's still a lot of experience here. But, on the track on the day of the meet, they're all the same and everyone puts the racing flats on the same way. I don't think these girls know enough to be intimidated. They just want to be there because they like it."

Sophomore Tiffany Hester figures to be one of Westfield's leading scorers. She'll be a threat to score in the intermediate and high hurdles, as well as the long jump and 400-meter run.

Senior co-captain Erin Allebaugh and sophomores Ahisha Winkler and Rasheedah Hawks will join Hester in the high hurdles, while sophomores Suzy Folger and Deirdre O'Brien will help in the intermediate hurdles.

Replacing the trio of proven performers in the one- and two-mile events will be junior co-captain Bridget Keegan, Ellen Freisen, sophomore Lisa Citrin and freshmen Kelli Goncalves and Sharon Gambino. Freshman Xanda Martins and junior Janna Chernetz will run exclusively in the 3,200-meters. Sophomore Alexis Rich and fresh-

Rising to the occasion

The Westfield High girls volleyball team got off to a successful start, topping Union Catholic on Friday. Lisa DeGutis had a hand in the 2-0 decision. The Devils fell to 1-1, however, after losing to Scotch Plains-Fanwood.

Sports card companies cutting back

Card companies are beginning to listen to their buyers, finally cutting down production to increase the value of their cards. Of course, this translates into higher prices for the consumer.

With the glut of cards in the market, gimmicks, sub-sets, gold cards, etc., it is no wonder that companies have decided to limit production.

Topps has cut its third eight-hour shift, a total of 350 workers, to cut down on its production.

Donruss stopped producing factory sets and is only putting out boxes of foil and wax packs, while Score and Upper Deck both claim to have cut production. Only time will tell what is actually on the market and how limited these cards really are.

Former Philadelphia Flyer Ron Hextall was in town when his Quebec Nordiques were at the Byrne Meadowlands Arena to face the Devils.

Hextall is an avid card collector and said that he religiously visited three stores when he lived in the Philly area.

"I concentrate my collecting on rookie cards, for the most part," Hextall said. "I usually buy sets and sometimes even cases. I have five (Wayne) Gretzky rookie cards and some Mario Lemieux rookie cards."

Hextall has full hockey sets dating back to the 1979-80 season, but it has been tougher collecting cards since he was traded to Quebec and is losing the desire for various reasons.

"I'm getting tired of trying to figure out which cards to buy," said Hextall. "With all the NHL, Minor League and Prospect sets, you really don't know which are rookie cards."

"I'll just pick-up the best thing that I can get at the time and leave it at that. I'm collecting these cards for my kids."

THE HOT LIST — Who else but the Shaq could be leading the way? O'Neal's cards' prices can range anywhere from $8-250. Here is a recent listing of prices for his cards: Stadium Club Member's Choice $8-12, Stadium Club (regular edition) $13-18, Stadium Club Beam Team subset $250, Topps Gold $55-65, Fleer Ultra $20 and Fleer Ultra subset cards $75-100.

Boxes of Upper Deck (high number series), Stadium Club II and Fleer Ultra II, that usually sell in the $30-40 range are going for around $100-135, in anticipation of getting a hold of some of O'Neal's cards.

This is not a good time to purchase O'Neal's cards. It would be a better idea to wait until the basketball season is over, when you will begin to see dealers trying to rotate their stock. This is always the trend, and Shaq's prices should drop.

It might also be a good idea to just buy packs or boxes and gamble on finding one of his cards in a pack. Supposedly, on the average, you should find about three or four cards per box.

The closest thing to O'Neal in hockey these days is Teemu Selanne of the Winnipeg Jets. His 1991-92 Upper Deck rookie card is selling for about $9-13.

Nothing is really hot in baseball cards yet. Rookie of the Year (ROY) candidates Mike Piazza of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Tim Salmon of the California Angels are the only cards worth looking into at this time.

Talented distance runners to lead Devils' boys track team

By IVY CHARMATZ
THE RECORD

The boys track team's first meet Saturday at the Kearny Relays left much to be desired, as far as top finishes were concerned.

But, according to head coach John Martin, the team was missing too many performers to be competitive in any meet. Martin is looking forward to Saturday morning's Union County Relays at Plainfield's Hub Stine Field to show off his more experienced team.

"We're looking to make our debut (this) weekend," said Martin. "We always try to place high in the Union County Relays. It's a good team indicator and a good sign of the team's strengths."

The track season as a whole is divided into two parts — the relays in April, and the more individualized meets in May. The team hopes to improve upon last year's third place showing in the Watchung Conference meet, and maintain its No. 1 spot in the county.

Jamal Hester will undoubtedly be a key factor in Westfield's success. On the track, Hester has completed the 200 and 400-meter runs in fast times. He will also be the anchor leg in the 4x400 meter relay, and will be joined by teammates Rishon Williams, Chris Blanding, and either Jim Nicoll, Ken Silverman, or Rodney Hayes. On the field, Hester is a leading high jumper and long jumper.

Overall, the distance runners are expected to have an exceptional season. Chris DeMasi will be anticipating quick times in the 1600- and 3200-meter events. Following him in the one-mile run will be Ted Kicommoms and freshman Lawrence Ho. In the two-mile run, Matt Gorbaty.

HIGH SCHOOL ROUNDUP

Both doubles pairings of Simon Baukh-Matt Prayda and Steve Lehman-Tom Ve won by identical 6-1, 6-1 scores. Minutes later, Brad Jankowski won, 6-1, 6-2 at third singles to sew up the victory.

On Monday, the Blue Devils (2-0) cruised past Kearny, 5-0. At first singles, Seth Rosen registered a 6-3, 6-2 victory. Singles players Chris O'Connell and Jankowski each won 6-0, 6-0. Both doubles teams won in straight sets.

Laxers edge Princeton, 3-2, in season opener

After watching rain wash out the regularly scheduled opener against Delbarton last Thursday, Westfield raised the curtain on the 1993 season with a sloppy, but ultimately successful victory over Princeton at Tamaques Park Saturday morning.

Senior midfielder Brian McGuire began the scoring 1:45 into the second quarter when he converted a feed from classmate Jeff Ryan. The Little Tigers tied the game at the 8:20 mark of the third, but five seconds later Ryan broke the brief deadlock, scoring off a pass from attackman Charles Salzman.

With 3:10 remaining in regulation, Paul Baly tallied an important insurance goal when he scored from close range after battling a defender all the way down the field. The visitors cut the Blue Devils' lead in half by capitalizing on an aborted clearing effort with 30 seconds left. But, time ran out for Princeton, and Westfield held onto its 3-2 advantage.

"A win is a win," said Westfield Head Coach Shaun Cherewich. "It gives us a game under our belts in a full field situation. But, we made a lot of first game varsity mistakes. One thing that really bothered me was that we were making some of the same mistakes in the fourth quarter that we made in the first."

Jamie Howlett made seven saves to make his debut in goal a victorious one. The Blue Devils picked up 35 ground balls, to Princeton's 23. Westfield was scheduled to play at Mountain Lakes yesterday in a match that occurred after tea time.

McCloy shutout leads Devils by Elizabeth

Junior Susan McCloy plagued Elizabeth all day long Monday, as she hurled a five-hit complete game shutout, went 2 for 4, scored three runs and stole two bases in Westfield's 14-0 opening day rout.

McCloy (1-0), who encountered a few control problems during her brief stints last year, walked only four batters and struck out none. The junior benefited from a defense which committed only one error and appeared to be in mid-season form.

"Susan looked good. She kept the ball down and made them hit it on the ground," said head coach Reggie McFadden. "We really played well in the infield and outfield. We showed a lot of patience at the plate and made contact."

The Blue Devils wasted no time getting on the scoreboard, as they scored four runs on no hits in the first inning. Amy Gallagher, Amy Korchak, Sharon Hay and Liz Kozub drew bases loaded walks to account for all the scoring. In the second inning, centerfielder Lori Chelius staked Westfield to a 6-0 lead by driving in McCloy and Liz Devlin with a double.

In her varsity debut, Kozub drove in three runs and doubled once in two at bats. Korchak went 2 for 2 with 2 RBI and one run scored.

Volleyballers succumb to Scotch Plains, 2-1

While the outcome of Monday's loss to Scotch Plains-Fanwood was disheartening in that Westfield won the first game, Blue Devils' Head Coach Heather Kennedy saw plenty of good things from her club.

During the first game, a 15-6 victory, senior Lisa DeGutis scored seven points on serve. Sophomore Laura Todd accounted for five serving points in the second game, which Westfield lost 17-15. In the rubber game, the Raiders stormed out to a 5-0 lead and held off a gallant Blue Devils' rally to win 15-9.

"That match gave us our first opportunity to come together as a team," said Kennedy. "Scotch Plains is similarly skilled and similarly coached in terms of strategy (set-pass-hit attack). In the second game, Scotch Plains countered to what we were doing and they pushed through in the third game. We didn't change our style in the third game and we were unable to take over the pace of the game."

"But, our service percentage really improved and our communication was much better. That was really my main concern. I'm glad we lost to a team which uses the same strategy as we do in the beginning of the season, instead of the end."

On Friday, Westfield opened the season with a 2-0 victory over Union Catholic. Senior co-captain Jessica Burley scored seven points on serve during the first game, a 15-12 triumph. Marta Napierkowski, a junior, notched six service points and sophomore Lexi Tourtellotte recorded six kills in Westfield's 15-3 rout in the second game.

The Blue Devils hosted Watchung Conference powerhouse Elizabeth yesterday in a match which began after press time. Westfield returns to action Wednesday, April 14, at Irvington.

Harriers open season with win over Tigers

Tiffany Hester won three events and Shi-Kia Carter won a pair to catapult Westfield to a 67-55 victory over Linden at Recreation Field in the first dual meet of the season for both teams.

Hester, a sophomore, won the intermediate hurdles (1:09.5), the 100-meter dash (15.8) and the long jump (15-4 1/2). She also ran the anchor leg of the mile relay, which finished first with a time of 4:30. Stacey Tourtellotte, Ahisha Winkler and Suzy Folger ran the first three legs of the relay.

Carter earned first place finishes in the shot put (28-2) and the discus (101-3) and was third in the javelin (68-1).

Westfield racked up plenty of points in the 800-meter run, sweeping the event. Freshman Karen McGuire (2:45.9) edged out classmate Sharon Gambino for first

SOFTBALL PREVIEW

Cranford vs. Westfield
 Date: Thur., April 8
 Time: 4 p.m.
 Place: To be announced

The Cougars (0-0)
 After a 14-10 record last year, Cranford looks to improve with many of the same players. C Allen Daly is one of the area's elite receivers and a force at the plate. The pitching combo of Karl Zaklankus and Erin Matkowski is a formidable one.

SS Jessica Dwyer returns to give the Cougars a strong presence in the infield and a steady bat in the lineup. 3B Sue Goldberg and 1B Chrissy Gonzalez offer Coach Terry Blunno stability on the corners.

The Blue Devils (1-0)
 Heading into the season without a proven pitcher, Westfield will depend on run support and defense to record victories in the early going. Junior P Susan McCloy, who changed to the singlet pitching motion, figures to begin the season as Westfield's No. 1 hurler. She threw a complete game shutout, allowing only five hits while going 2 for 4 at the plate in the Blue Devils' 14-0 opening day victory at Elizabeth.

Junior 1B Abby Bomba returns as the team's leading hitter (.409). Senior CF Lori Chelius (.385) led the team in hits (34) and RBI (30) last year and is an outstanding fielder. RF Amy Gallagher, C Amy Korchak, 3B Liz Devlin and 2B Julia Cerviche lead a potent offense.

The Skyline:
 Westfield took three straight from the Cougars last season, including an 8-4 victory in the Union County Tournament. The Blue Devils boast an impressive lineup, but if the game comes down to pitching Cranford may have an advantage with its veteran pitching.

The Cougars have a good young lineup, but in a slugfest Westfield should emerge victorious. Due to inclement weather, the site of this game had yet to be determined at press time. Contact either school's athletic department for information.

place and Kanda Martins, another freshman, placed third (2:54).

Tourtellotte won the 200-meter run (28.4) and crossed the finish line third in the 100-meter dash (13.7). Freshman Kelli Gonzalez won the mile run (6:15.9), while Winkler was second in the 100-meter dash (13.7) and third in the 200-meter run (28.4). Folger placed second in the intermediate hurdles (1:12) and third in the 400-meter run (1:08).

Competing against 30 schools in Saturday's Ridgewood Relays, Martins, Gonzalez, McGuire and Laura Faulkner won the 4x800 relay for freshmen in a time of 11:37.

Senior co-captain Erin Allebaugh, Winkler, Rasheedah Hawks and Hester finished fourth in the 4x100 hurdles, breaking the tape in 1:13.13. Hester, Folger and Amanda Love totalled 42-1/2 in the long jump, good for fourth place.

YOUTH SPORTS

St. Helen's girls win county title

A new dynasty began at St. Helen's this year in the form of the fifth and sixth grade girls' basketball team. Last year's seventh and eighth grade team departed with a perfect 19-0 mark and the county title. Their younger counterparts stepped in where the departed veterans left off a year ago.

After dropping its opening game, St. Helen's strung together a 22-game winning streak. The team captured first place in three tournaments: St. Michael's (Union), St. Theresa (Kenilworth), and Our Lady of Peace (New Providence). A second place trophy was garnered at the St. Augustine Tournament in Kendall Park.

A tenacious defensive posture, combined speed, agility, and rugged offensive and defensive rebounding were the hallmarks of this squad, as it completely overran and outgunned the rest of the field in Union County.

Sixth grade leadership was provided by power forwards Natalie Warren and Kelly Meyer. JoAnne Devito and Robla Kraft were defensive and rebounding stalwarts. Mary Ann Beamer and Tracy Mulvaney were masters of St. Helen's full court press. Jessica Lutkenhouse and Liz McKeen exhibited poise, determination, and hustle, particularly down the stretch.

Rookies such as Katie Behr and Lindsey Elkoury could always be counted upon for valuable efforts off the bench. The twin towers of Kristen Leonardis and Jacquelyn Cushman were the crowd pleasers on the team, bringing everyone to their feet with patented end-to-end rushes.

As evidenced by the defeat of Our Lady of Victory several weeks ago, where the St. Helen's squad trailed 14-8 at halftime and rallied for a 22-14 victory, this squad of determined young ladies never gave up or surrendered. In the season finale at Kendall Park against St. Bart's of East Brunswick, St. Helen's trailed early, 13-1. Although bowing by a 21-17 score, St. Helen's nearly pulled it out with a pair of last second shots, both of which spun in and out of the basket.

youth.

Now, the former parochial Holy Trinity High School, is home to Trinity Gardens condominiums, 515 Trinity Place, where Burgdorf Realtors of Westfield is listing a one-bedroom on the third floor for $119,900.

The stately building was converted in 1986 to lovely one- and two-bedroom condos, all of contemporary design with high ceilings. They offer the advantages of owning one's own home, coupled with services provided condominium living, such as garbage removal and a heated, underground garage with assigned parking spaces.

Unit 3L boasts an 11-by-11 living room with a mantled fireplace. The formal dining room is 10-by-9. The custom kitchen is 9-by-6 and features a skylight and ceramic tile floor. Included with the kitchen area is a dishwasher, microwave, refrigerator. The master bedroom is 14-by-10, and the bath also has a skylight.

A $144 monthly maintenance fee includes garbage removal, outside maintenance, sewer, snow removal and water.

For more information, call Mary Ellen O'Boyle at 233-0066.

Life, liberty and the pursuit of fair housing

EDISON — April is Fair Housing Month and the 34th Anniversary of Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, otherwise known as the Federal Fair Housing Act.

According to the New Jersey Association of Realtors, while Title VIII celebrates a quarter century in existence, the concept that all persons are entitled to equal protection of the law actually derives from the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution passed after the Civil War.

Unfortunately, the guarantees of the 14th Amendment were severely restricted for more than 100 years by U.S. Supreme Court interpretations approving in concept "separate but equal" schools and other public accommodations, and sanctioned racial discrimination by private employers and property owners.

In 1968, Congress made clear once and for all discrimination in housing based upon race, color, religion or national origin is against the law. In 1974, Congress also prohibited discrimination based on sex.

Recognizing the enforcement of Title VIII has not been adequate, Congress amended it in 1988 to prohibit discrimination against handicap persons and families with children, and to authorize federal government to bring cases against persons accused of discriminatory housing practices. The amended law also provides the same statutory protection to victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) it affords to handicap individuals.

"The NJAR supports Title VIII and the principles it embodies," said Gene Azzalina, NJAR President. "Housing discrimination is an insult to the dignity of all Americans. The time has long since passed when a person's qualifications to own or rent property depend upon the color of their skin, their religion, their sex or their national origin." Committed to compliance with fair housing laws, many local boards of Realtors also have voluntarily joined their local offices of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in becoming signatories to the Voluntary Affirmative Marketing Agreement (VANM).

First established in 1975 between the National Association of Realtors and HUD to help ensure fair housing practices in the real estate industry, the VANM provides signatories with guidelines and marketing, advertising, training and education for Realtors and the public. The agreement also encourages cooperation with community-based, fair housing and civil rights groups.

Specifically, the VANM provides guidance on the size fair housing logos should be in display advertising, a promise by local boards to conduct self assessments of their fair housing-related efforts and the efforts of members firms, and information about office procedures firms can adopt to further ensure fair housing practices in their business dealings.

"Realtors are committed to complying with the fair housing law. There is no room in our profession for housing discrimination. The VANM is a win-win situation because everyone is guaranteed to be treated fairly. It provides boards with a user-friendly document that lays out all the cards on the table, so signatories know what is expected of them in the marketplace," said Mr. Azzalina.

"Fair housing isn't just a matter of good business. It's a matter of basic human rights. People have a right to live where ever they can afford to live, and Realtors have an obligation and commitment to protect that right," he said. "It's more than a business commitment; it's a moral commitment."

Home re-sales rose during February

WASHINGTON — Sales of previously owned homes rose in February from one year earlier, as buyers continued to respond to falling mortgage rates and improving economic conditions, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The NAR recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate of 3.55 million existing single-family homes in February, up 2.6 percent from February 1992, when the resale rate was 3.46 million units. Sales rose on a year-to-year basis despite poor weather conditions in many sections of the nation.

According to NAR President William S. Chee, the steady activity is a promising sign.

"We are seeing the impact of improved consumer confidence. More and more people are becoming convinced that the economic recovery is here to stay," Mr. Chee said. "There is substantial pent-up demand to be filled, due to consumer reluctance to enter the market during the recession." Although the bulk of purchases are being made by first-time buyers, the trade-up market also is busy, Mr. Chee noted. "With today's low rates, people are realizing they can buy a bigger home, using a bigger loan, without seeing an increase in their mortgage payments," he said.

Last month's national median existing single-family home price was $104,200, which was 1 percent higher than a year earlier, when the price was $103,200. The median is the midpoint in the price range — half the homes sold cost more, half cost less.

In the Northeast, the resale pace of 550,000 units jumped 12.2 percent from February 1992. The median price for existing single-family homes in the Northeast was $136,900 last month, down 3.5 percent from one year earlier.

According to NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo, the Northeast's economy is starting to rebound. Many of the home sales in that region are occurring in the lower end of the price range, he noted.

"Buyers are coming back. They feel the market has turned the corner," Mr. Tuccillo said. He predicted that activity would remain steady in the Northeast in the months ahead.

Weidel program benefits associates

Richard A. Weidel Jr., president of Weidel Corp., Realtors, recently announced the introduction of a 100 percent commission plan option for company sales associates.

Weidel, ranked by Real Trends as one of the nation's largest independent real estate brokerages, is one of the largest independent companies in the area offering this type of program.

"In the past, a sales associate seeking a 100 percent commission plan could find one, only on a limited basis, typically within a one-office franchise operation," said Maury Torne, vice president/general manager. "Experienced sales associates selecting this option with Weidel can now obtain the same comprehensive career support and services typically found only among large independent real estate companies and have the opportunity to receive 100 percent of their commissions."

The Weidel 100 percent Option was introduced as part of the company's strategic plan to offer the most progressive services for its sales associates.

For more information call 1-800-WEIDEL-1 or the manager of any Weidel sales office.

Looking for relief?

Good news! Mortgage interest is tax deductible

With tax time just a couple of weeks away, homeownership-related deductions remain one of the few forms of tax relief left, according to Vision Mortgage Corp. of North Brunswick.

President Richard A. Rosenberg said mortgage interest is fully deductible on tax returns.

"For 1992, mortgage interest, financing points, and property taxes remain sacred deductions," Mr. Rosenberg said.

Last year's rush to refinance mortgages has brought up new questions about tax deductions.

"Initial points paid on the purchase of a principal residence can be written off the year they are paid, but refinancing points must be amortized over the life of the loan," he said.

There is one major benefit for people who refinance multiple times. When you refinance more than once, the points paid on the previous refinance are deductible during the current refinancing's tax year.

"Because the amortization of refinancing points does not give you the full bang for your buck, I often recommend a zero point program," Mr. Rosenberg said. "Another benefit of the zero point program is flexibility to refinance again with out feeling like money spent on points was wasted."

"The IRS makes an exception if part of the proceeds of the refinanced loan is used to pay for home improvements," he said. "Points attributable to that part of the loan can be deducted immediately."

Points are the one-time fees that are often assessed on home loans. "Although you may not have qualified for a $200 homestead rebate last year, the IRS still allows deductions for real estate taxes — which can add up to thousands of dollars," Mr. Rosenberg said.

To determine your own personal mortgage deductions, Vision Mortgage suggests contacting a professional tax adviser.

Vision Mortgage, headquartered in North Brunswick, was founded in 1983 by Mr. Rosenberg.

NEW YORK AUTO SHOW

THE BMW 325i CONVERTIBLE is a sporty model of car which can be seen at the Auto Show, which runs from Saturday until April 18.

Javits Center doors open for biggest auto show yet

NEW YORK — This year's New York International Automobile Show, set for Easter Week, April 10-18, at the Jacob Javits Center in Manhattan, promises to be as much a show as an automobile exhibit. For, in addition to displaying 1,200 new cars, vans and concept vehicles, the New York Auto Show will feature more celebrities, sports stars, live music, dances, magicians and singers than ever before.

According to Show Manager Mark Schienberg, executive vice president of the Greater New York Automobile Dealers Association: "Families are always looking for something fun, different and exciting to do together during Easter week. The Auto Show not only presents attractions for everyone, but it also offers an excellent family entertainment value."

The New York International Auto Show is the oldest auto show in the country, having first opened its doors in 1900. This year, manufacturers will be displaying the newest, most innovative and most environmentally conscious vehicles in their 1993 and 1994 lines, while the entertainment, glamour and electricity on all levels of the Javits Center will lift the spirits of young and old alike. As always, people who are planning to buy a car, van or truck will have the opportunity to view the world's largest and best selection of automobiles at the New York Auto Show. With more than 1,200 vehicles and 300 exhibits on display from 35

GETTING THERE

Visitors to the 1993 New York International Automobile Show at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center will find it easy to get there — thanks to a number of special deals being offered in conjunction with the show.

Whether traveling by car, train, bus or ferry, it's simple to visit the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center, located at 34th Street and 11th Avenue on Manhattan's West Side. Here are some tips on facilitating your trip to the show:

PARKING

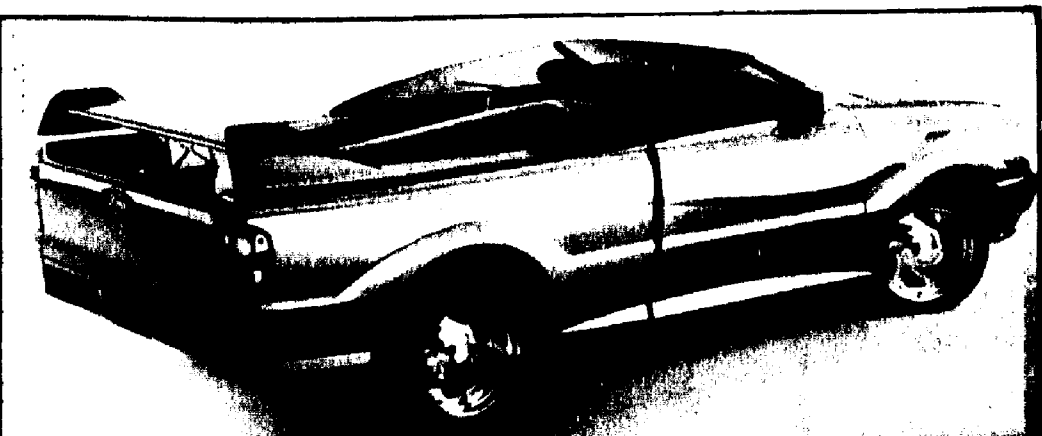

For those driving into Manhattan, the show's sponsors recommend parking at the Manhattan Plaza Parking Garage, 42nd Street between 9th and 10th avenues. Parking up to 12 hours is available for $9.50, and on weekdays after 5 p.m. just $4. There will be shuttle service to and from the show from the garage every weekday from 4-11 p.m. and on weekends from 11 a.m.-11 p.m.

DRIVING

FROM CENTRAL NEW JERSEY: Take Route 287 to the Route 78 East to the Holland Tunnel. Take the West Side Highway to the 42nd Street exit and proceed two blocks east and proceed two blocks east to the Manhattan Plaza Parking Garage. (Please turn to page 3) of the world's auto manufacturers, consumers and car enthusiasts will have a chance to compare the models side-by-side. In addition, exotic supercars, classic cars of yesteryear and concept vehicles of the future will be showcased at the nation's largest auto show.

"For the past few years, the New York Auto Show has had record-breaking attendance of more than one million visitors," noted Mr. Schienberg, "What makes the New York Auto Show such a success is its universal appeal; the show caters to all age groups and everyone can enjoy the entertainment and the fantasy."

THE FORD COMPACT PICKUP JUKEBOX is a new concept Ford Ranger featuring a 2,500-watt stereo system, flashing neon lights and a 'dancing' pickup bed on three axes.

Auto makers showing greater concern for environment

NEW YORK — These days we separate trash for recycling and search out products that are considerate to the environment.

In light of this public interest in the environment, producers of all types of products, from plastic containers to cars, are examining the environmental impact of their products from development to disposal.

The heightened awareness of environmental issues has sparked multi-billion-dollar research and development programs by many industries to make their products more friendly to the planet.

This is especially true in the auto industry, because its products impact the environment in many different ways.

Visitors to the 1993 New York International Automobile Show at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center, April 10-18, will have the opportunity to learn about what the world's auto makers are doing to help protect the environment today and in the future. Various exhibits throughout the show and at the special "Responsible Motoring" display in the lobby will address issues such as recycling, alternative fuels, basic automotive design and lightweight materials.

There is even a special environmental exhibit for the kids, courtesy of Chrysler Corporation. Children will be invited to design (draw) vehicles in response to some of our environmental problems. The exhibit encourages children to begin thinking at an early age about ways to care for the planet.

One vehicle on display, sure to appeal to environmentalists, is the Jeep Ecco, a futuristic Jeep built of recyclable aluminum and plastic and powered by a 1.5-liter, "lean-burn" two-stroke engine.

"Auto makers are producing more environmentally friendly cars right now," said Mark Schienberg, executive vice president of the Greater New York Automobile Dealers Association, sponsors of the show. "Today's cars might look a little different on the outside, but underneath there are revolutionary changes being made. And in the next decade the changes will be even more dramatic."

Environmental research undertaken by auto makers generally focuses on two areas: lowering emissions to preserve air quality and the ozone layer and the recycling of the vehicle.

Every automobile is comprised of a few thousand pounds of raw materials, so proper recycling is extremely important.

Approximately 75 percent of those materials are recyclable. The remaining 25 percent is comprised of what the industry calls "luff": glass, plastics, rubber, fluids and fabrics.

Featured at the "Responsible Motoring" lobby exhibit will be a recycling display from Audi, which will explain the various materials in their vehicles and their strategies for renewal. Also in the lobby will be a display from Ford, documenting recycling and electric vehicle experimentation at the company since the early days of Henry Ford I.

At the BMW, Volkswagen and Toyota exhibits there also will be displays explaining the challenges of automobile recycling. One major step in improving the recycling process is the coding of plastic parts. This coding enables more efficient sorting of the more than 60 different types of plastics used on a car today (metal parts are now recycled, but the plastics often end up in a landfill). Auto makers are also focusing their resources on developing alternative low-emission fuels and new power systems.

"At the auto show," added Mr. Schienberg, "visitors will see the alternative-fuel vehicles now being tested by many manufacturers, many of which are on the road today, particularly in California and New York test fleets."

Manufacturers will have information on alternate-fuel vehicles so the public can learn how they operate.

The auto show will feature flexible-fuel vehicles as well as many powered by compressed natural gas, electricity, and other various combinations.

Some of the alternate-fuel vehicles on display will be the methanol/gasoline Mustang Mach III concept car, the electric Ford Ecostar European delivery truck, the methanol/gasoline Ford Taurus FFV and the battery-powered Dodge Caravan.

One type of low-emission vehicle receiving more attention lately is the hybrid or combination electric/fuel powered vehicle.

Volvo will display the ECC (environmental concept car), a family sedan powered by electric motors and a small gas turbine engine.

When operating on its electric power for stop-and-go urban driving, it is a zero-emission vehicle. For longer distance high-speed driving on highways, the ECC automatically switches over to its second engine, which delivers the necessary performance with extremely low emissions levels.

The ECC also incorporates a number of other advancements such as an aluminum body and superior aerodynamics.

Another low-emission concept vehicle on display will be the Toyota AXV-III environmental vehicle. This vehicle incorporates many advanced features such as a new "lean burn" engine and a NOX-sensitive catalytic converter.

The outer shell of the vehicle is made of recyclable aluminum and all plastic components are made from the same kind of plastic resin to simplify recycling.

Lowering emissions continues to be an important goal, but the real challenge lies in developing the zero-emission vehicles, which will be required in the near future. There only are two zero-emission power sources: electricity and hydrogen.

Currently, most research is done on electric vehicles due to the many problems inherent in using hydrogen as a fuel for automobiles.

Many auto makers have also taken a giant step to protect the ozone layer by eliminating CFC (chlorofluorocarbons) refrigerants from air conditioning systems. CFCs are known to deplete the ozone layer, allowing ultraviolet radiation to reach the earth. While the task may appear simple, replacing one refrigerant for another is not; it requires the complete redesign of the air conditioning system. Auto manufacturers are moving quickly toward elimination of CFCs and many cars and trucks on display at the auto show this year are CFC-free.

"The driving public will be amazed at the technology being developed by the industry to meet the environmental challenges of the 90s and the next century," Mr. Schienberg said. "The public will see first hand how the new technologies will be incorporated into the cars they soon will drive."

● FROM NORTHERN NEW JERSEY: From the George Washington Bridge, take the first exit off the bridge, the Henry Hudson Parkway South (9A), which leads directly to the West Side Highway. Exit at 42nd Street, and proceed two blocks east to the Manhattan Plaza Parking Garage.

● FROM THE LINCOLN TUNNEL: Exit at 39th Street. The parking garage is three blocks ahead and can be seen from the tunnel.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

New York City is served by public transportation from all points in the metropolitan area, and visitors can take advantage of several special discount packages being offered.

It is easy to catch a taxi cab to the show or a New York City bus bound for the Convention Center. Remember, however, New York City buses require $1.25 exact change fares.

● FROM PENN STATION: The M34 Bus

West proceeds directly to the Convention Center. From the Port Authority or Grand Central Station, The 42nd Street Javits Center Bus, west-bound transports visitors to the Convention Center.

● FROM THE GEORGE WASHINGTON BRIDGE PORT AUTHORITY TERMINAL: Take the A Train downtown to 34th Street/Penn Station.

● FROM NEW JERSEY: The Port Imperial Ferry in Weehawken is offering a special combination Ferry/Show package that includes round-trip ferry to Manhattan and admission to the show for $13. For information, call 800 53-FERRY. All day parking is available in Weehawken for $4.50.

● NEW JERSEY TRANSIT: NJ Transit and other independent companies operate buses from all points in New Jersey to the 42nd Street and George Washington Port Authority Terminals. NJ Transit also operates trains from most points in the state to Penn Station.

For any questions concerning transportation and/or special discounts, contact the appropriate local public transportation company or the New York Auto Show special information hotline, 800 282-3336.

Sales Manager Paul Kemper recommends three cars to visitors at the Auto Show: The Cadillac Seville STS, a "technologically advanced product," the Pontiac Grand Am, a car "with a new, contemporary design," and the Pontiac Bonneville, a car he says is "the best buy for the money."

THE CHRYSLER CONCORD is a luxury sedan that is reasonably priced, roomy and handles well.

LICCARDI

General Sales Manager Jeff Liccardi recommends Auto Show visitors size up the Chrysler Concord or Chrysler Fifth Avenue LHS. Also, Mr. Liccardi recommends the Ford Explorer, Ford Ranger, or Ford Ranger Splash.

THE CADILLAC SEVILLE STS is a world-class, five passenger, four-door luxury sedan equipped with a full array of driver comfort, control and convenience features, including new Speed Sensitive Steering, multi-link rear suspension design, standard power recliner front seats and airbags for both the driver and the front seat passenger. The Seville STS accelerates from 0-60 mph in 7.5 seconds. It is featured in two additional colors for 1993, Academy Gray and Dark Cherry Red Metallic. Inside, the vehicle features Zebrano wood trim on the instrument panel, console and doors, along with perforated leather seats with adjustable four-way power lumbar support and articulating headrests. Heated seats are available.

Check brakes before it's too late

The cost of crashes is staggering, according to figures from National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. In 1990 the figure was $137.5 billion. Deleting the third attributed to "driving under the influence," there's still a $91.5 billion tab against the sober driver.

An estimated five percent of these accidents are attributed to poor condition of the vehicle: loose steering, a bald tire, bad brakes or other discrepancy. If, through proper preventive maintenance, we could avert just 10 percent of these accidents, says the Car Care Council, savings to society could be as much as $475.5 million.

Even with impressive advancements in vehicle safety design, brake-related accidents cause millions of dollars worth of damage and affect thousands of lives each year. These sophisticated systems, with as many as 160 parts, demand periodic inspection and maintenance. And when service is needed, anything less than quality workmanship may compromise the safety of the driver, passengers and others on the road.

When having brakes inspected, which should be done at least annually, go to a professional. They'll look beyond the drums, lining and pads with which the layman is familiar. He'll examine the critical hydraulic system and the various hardware components that can wear or bind. New brake lining is worthless if the hydraulic system is leaking. He can spot worn bushings that can cause disc brake pad failure, and sticking callipers that can shorten brake lining life.

For more information, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Car Care Council, Dept. B, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Canton, OH 43452.

Play Ball

Young ballplayers get into uniform for another year on the field of dreams

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

It starts with oiling the glove. You can tell how bad your child has spring fever by how soon he or she oils the glove.

If it's March, they'll be driving you crazy by April. If it's February, you'd better pray the groundhog didn't see his shadow.

If it's January, you'd better think about moving your family south before next season.

Baseball season, that is. Or softball season, depending on your preference.

My nephew in Connecticut brings his glove to school every day of the year, just in case the weather breaks and a game starts up. He's got it bad.

By now, hundreds of young athletes, parents and boosters are currently hard at work, preparing their fields for another spring and summer of bats, balls, and bases. It's a tradition as American as apple pie and hot dogs — whether you play in a Little League, Babe Ruth League, Amateur Softball Association league, or you just start your own pickup game in the sandlot.

Some leagues begin play next week, while almost all of the leagues will be in full swing by the end of April. Of course, in warmer regions of the country, Little Leaguers often begin their season as soon as January.

Every town in Central Jersey has at least one youth baseball league, and most have a youth softball league for the girls who are welcome, but who would rather not play baseball. Most are affiliated with the largest and oldest organized system — Williamsport Little League, which started in 1939 and is well-known for the Little League World Series, which is televised every year on ABC's Wide World of Sports.

Of course, few teams make it as far as the World Series showcase, but winning it all isn't the main goal of Little League, according to Scott Rosenberg, special projects director for Williamsport Little League.

"We emphasize leadership over competition," said Rosenberg.

Nearly 3 million youngsters participate worldwide in the Williamsport Little League organization, which began with one league, three teams and 30 players back in 1939. By the time the first Little League World Series was staged, there were 200 leagues and almost 800 teams in the system.

These days, more than 125,000 children in New Jersey alone participate in Little League, while thousands more play in Babe Ruth League or ASA organizations. Only Williamsport Little League teams are eligible for the Little League World Series, although Babe Ruth teams play in local, regional and district tournaments that run throughout the summer (Little League teams are only allowed to play in World Series qualifying tournaments).

And when you add up the players, umpires and volunteers, there are more than 10 million Americans involved in the process of youth baseball and softball. As Mel Allen would say, "How about that?"

Going against the grain of the Industrial Revolution

Influence of the English Reform Movement on exhibition at the Zimmerli Art Museum

Modern art embraced the world of technology a long time ago, but back in the early days of the Industrial Revolution, many artists fought to preserve the traditions of their craft.

Specifically, the English Reform Movement of the 1850s and '60s promoted handicraftsmanship and revived traditional workshop techniques in the quest for integrity in the production of decorative arts.

Art works from this era, including items from Louis Comfort Tiffany and Emile Gallé, are part of an exhibition titled Opulence in the Age of Industry: Turn-of-Century Decorative Arts From the Collection of Sigmund Freedman, which opens Sunday, April 11, at the Jane Voorhees Zimmerli Art Museum at Rutgers University.

The exhibition, which runs through June 27, will feature roughly 40 objects of art, ranging from lamps and glass vessels to bronze candlesticks and ceramics — objects that also reflect the aesthetic and technical innovations of the age.

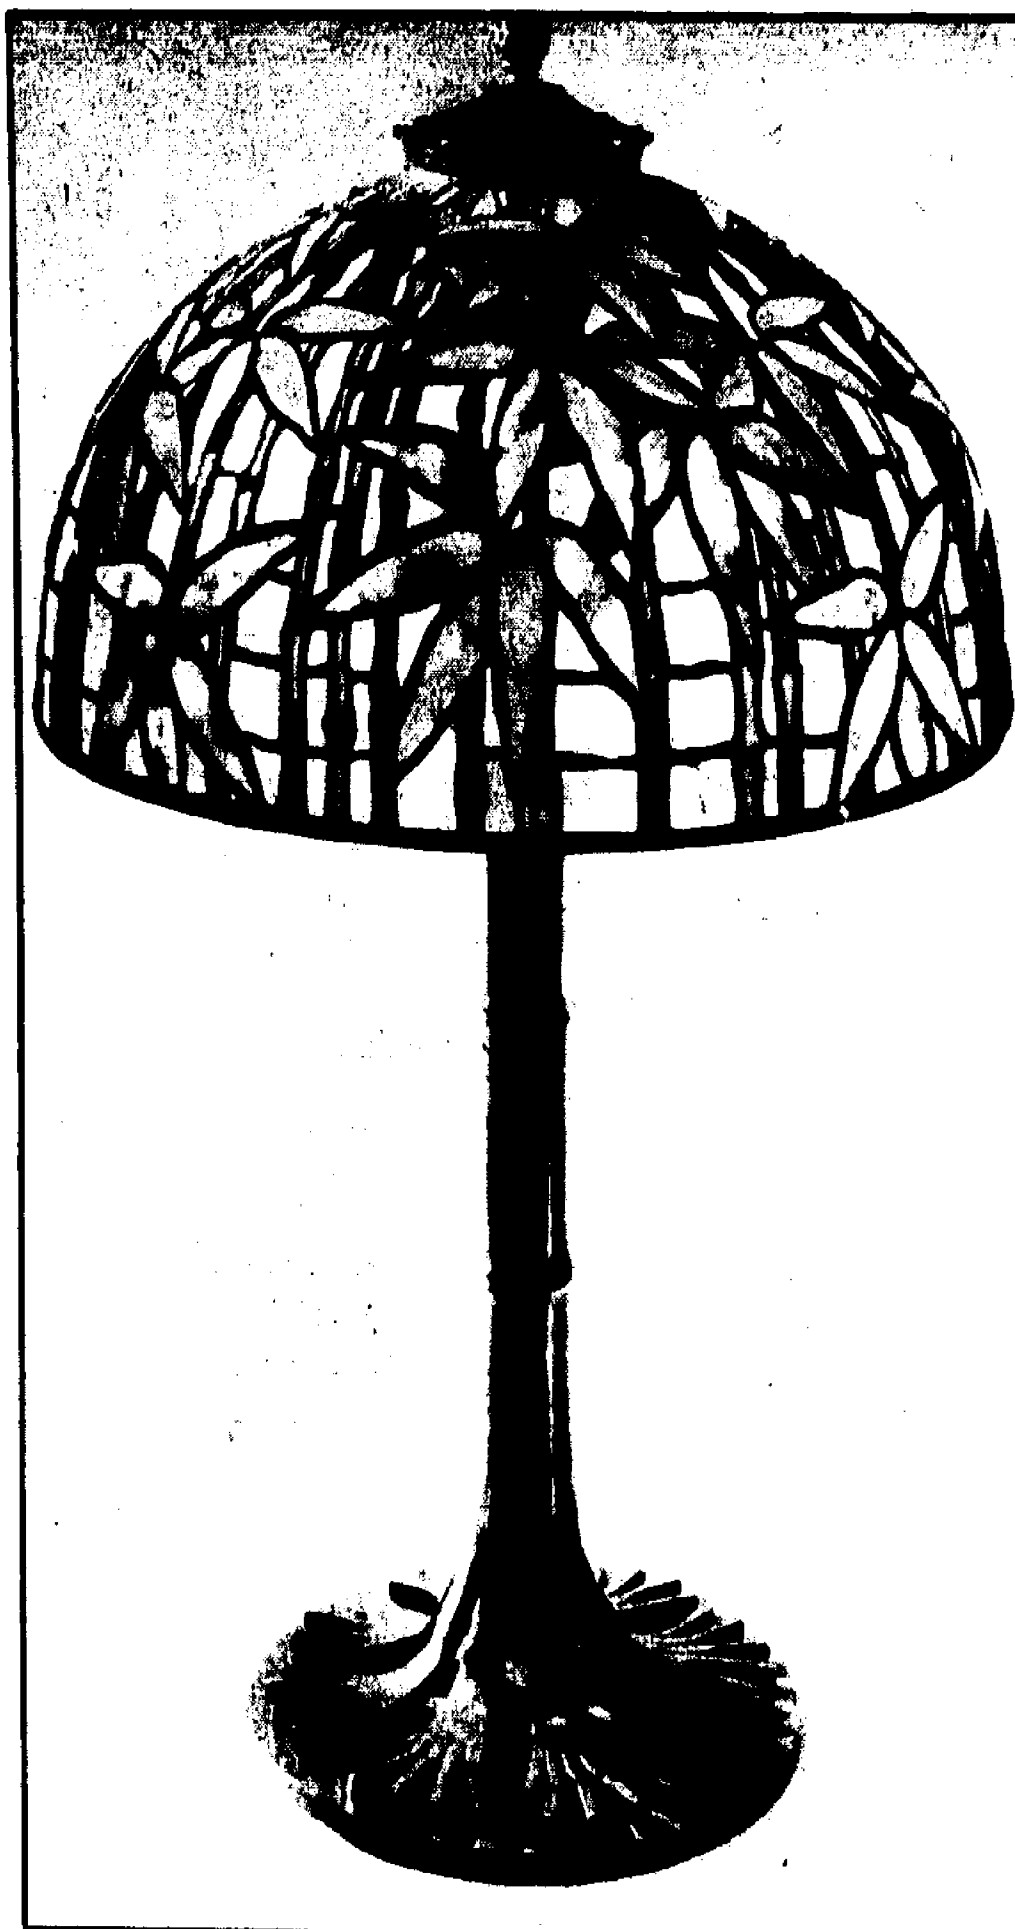

Sigmund Freedman, a resident of New Brunswick and treasurer of New Brunswick Scientific Co., developed his collection (which is promised as a gift to the museum) for two decades. At a later date, his collection will merge with the Zimmerli's current collection of turn-of-the-century graphic arts and stained glass.

The emphasis of the exhibition is on presenting a diverse range of effects, including representations of the the Gothic and Rococo Revival styles. Traditional methods of production are also represented.

The exhibition coincides with the American Craft Council's 50th anniversary and the year-long celebration of 1993 as "The Year of the American Craft."

Also opening on April 11 will be The Mikado's Empire: Early Photographs of Japan, 1868-1912, an exhibition of 120 photos and illustrated books from the Zimmerli collection. The photos, created for Western consumption by European photographers living in Japan and European-trained Japanese photographers, attempt to provide insight into traditional Japanese society while preserving the past for study and interpretation.

OPULENCE IN THE AGE OF INDUSTRY: TURN-OF-THE-CENTURY DECORATIVE ARTS FROM THE COLLECTION OF SIGMUND FREEDMAN April 11-June 27 at the Jane Voorhees Zimmerli Art Museum at Rutgers University, corner of George and Hamilton streets, New Brunswick. (908) 932-7237.

A Clematis table lamp of bronze and leaded glass from the Tiffany Studios is one of the art works loaned to the Zimmerli Museum from the collection of Sigmund Freedman.

Student artists exhibit works

Graduating seniors from the Bachelor's of Fine Arts program at the Rutgers University Mason Gross School of Art will display the results of their labors at an exhibition running April 12-22 at their New Brunswick gallery, 225 Elm Street.

The diverse collection includes oil paintings, prints, photos and graphic designs, and will feature the studio work of several area students, including Harriet Cunningham of Westfield, Leo Chang of Edison, Dorcas Sridharan of New Brunswick and Julie Magan of Raritan Ridge.

A reception for the artists will take place at the gallery Thursday, April 15. For more information, call (908) 899-1439.

'Quatro' opens in Watchung

Nicholas Marrella of Scotch Plains and Yelena Platigorsky of Bridgewater are two of the four featured artists in the "Quatro" exhibition opening Saturday, April 10, at the Watchung Arts Center.

Marrella's favored medium is painted wood sculpture, but his glass sculptures and furniture designs have been exhibited both in New Jersey and Manhattan. Platigorsky, a native of Ukraine, uses oils and watercolor to create surrealist, figurative compositions.

Completing the exhibition will be the painted wood and metal constructions of Michael Hessel of Ridgewood, and the sculpture-influenced graphic images of Robert Rames of South Orange.

The exhibition will continue through April 25. Hours at the gallery, located at 26 Siding Road at the Watchung Circle, are 1-4 p.m. weekdays and Sundays. Additional hours are available by appointment.

For more information, call (908) 753-0190.

A heck of a 'Huck'

Disney's 'Huck Finn' might even make kids read the book

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

You have to approach a movie called The Adventures of Huck Finn with a certain wariness. After all, trying to adapt one of the greatest American novels of all time is no small task. And even saying that, there's always the risk that the public — bless 'em — will look at something that smacks of literature, yell "give me Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles!" and head for the exits.

That would be a mistake, especially for a movie that the 8-year-old and up crowd might find enjoyable. This Huck, adapted and directed by Stephen Sommers, sticks to the bare bones of the story, which is the right choice when you're marketing to families and you don't want to make a six-hour movie.

Alas, it also loses some of Mark Twain's teeth along the way, but it's not anywhere near as sticky-cute as the Johnny Whitaker/Jodie Foster (oh, yes it was!) version of Tom Sawyer Disney put out more years ago than we might care to remember.

It is, however, not the book. Elijah Wood, one of the few kid actors working today who actually seems natural (and looks just like my cousin Joanie's son Brian, but you don't care about that), plays Huck a little bit strangely, if the truth be known. Despite the protestations about being "civilized," he seems like a middle-class kid who just likes to run around and get his clothes dirty. He's also a little young to be taking on Huck, but that makes all the adventures a little more dangerous, since it drives home the point that no matter how resourceful, this is still a child we're talking about.

The heart of the film is Huck's relationship with the runaway slave Jim (Courtney B. Vance), and here it succeeds most admirably. Eschewing any use of the dreaded "N" word (lest we almost 20th Century-types realize what people actually talked like in the 1800s), Jim's plight as a slave trying to become free is a real eye-opener for Huck, who thinks Robbie Coltrane and Jason Robards play con men who threaten to sell Huck Finn's (played by Elijah Wood, right) friend Jim back into slavery in the new Disney version of The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

The heart of the film is Huck's relationship with the runaway slave Jim, and here it succeeds most admirably such things are going against the laws of nature. At one point, he almost turns Jim in only because he realizes "it's the right thing to do." Luckily, Huck has enough con man in him to con himself into doing something that's not "right."

Make no mistake — this is a Huck for the '90s. Women dominate all the social situations, the slaves are seen in a more than sympathetic life, and Huck and Jim are constantly proclaiming to each other what good friends they are. Change the clothing and the modes of transportation, and Bill Clinton could be in the White House.

It's a family movie in the best sense, meaning that families can see the film, the parents won't be bored, the children (keeping that 8-year-old limit in mind) won't be terribly traumatized and the message of mutual tolerance is clear without being preachy. But for those under 8, scenes of violence and danger could be disturbing. A friend of Huck's is killed, Huck himself is shot and there's lots of menace from Huck's Pap (Ron Perlman), bringing child abuse into play.

No, this is not the book. But no movie could hope to be and still bring in kids who just got out of Cop and a Half. Consider this movie an invitation to read the book, perhaps the best reason to remake Huck again in the first place.

OPENING THIS WEEK

INDECENT PROPOSAL
Director Adrian Lyne's (Fatal Attraction) serious take on the same subject as Honeymoon in Vegas — a billionaire (Robert Redford) offers a young couple (Demi Moore, Woody Harrelson) a cool million if the wife spends one night with him. (R)
THE SANDLOT
Bad News Bears-style fun with a band of scruffy kids who start a baseball team. Karen Allen and James Earl Jones join the roster of young unknowns. (PG)
THIS BOY'S LIFE

An unstable Robert De Niro offers a stable home life for a divorced mother (Ellen Barkin) and her teenage son, who both regret the union. (R)

CURRENT FILMS

THE ADVENTURES OF HUCK FINN
Disney retells the Mark Twain classic, one of the rare stories that just can't be done enough. Note the rating, though, parents. (PG)
ALADDIN
Disney does it again. Impressive followup to Beauty and the Beast is an animated retelling of the Arabian Nights fairy tale. Voices include Robin Williams as the genie. (G)
THE BODYGUARD
Kevin Costner stars as a Spartan Secret Service alumnus who falls in love with his client, a sexy singer played by Whitney Houston in her feature film debut. (R)

BORN YESTERDAY

Remake of the 1950 George Cukor comedy (based on the Garson Kanin play) about a millionaire who hires a journalist to tutor his showgirl girlfriend on cultured behavior. John Goodman, Melanie Griffith and Don Johnson assume the respective roles of Broderick Crawford, William Holden and Oscar-winner Judy Holliday. (PG)
CB4
Rap music comedy about three friends, one of whom assumes the identity of a well-known criminal rappers, stars Chris Rock and Phil Hartman of

Saturday Night Live and comedian Chris Elliott (Groundhog Day, Fox-TV's Get a Life). (R)

COP AND A HALF

Burt Reynolds is a cop forced to partner with a pint-sized witness to a crime, with the expected comic results. Directed by Henry Winkler. (PG)
THE CRUSH
Thriller about a teenage girl who obsesses on a magazine writer (Cary Elwes). (R)
THE CRYING GAME
Oscar-nominated romantic thriller about an IRA fugitive hiding out in London, where he falls for a woman who also has a few skeletons in her closet. (R)
FALLING DOWN
Michael Douglas stars in director Joel Schumacher's action thriller about an angry Los Angeles motorist who turns violent. Strong supporting cast includes Robert Duvall as the police officer in charge of the manhunt, along with Fredrick Forrest, Barbara Hershey and Tuesday Weld. Offbeat humor in the vein of Revenge of the Nerds meets Death Wish is somewhat entertaining, but don't be fooled: This is just another exploitative action flick giving off all the wrong messages about justifiable violence. (R)

A FAR OFF PLACE
The Disney-Spielberg connection strikes again with this outdoor adventure about two teenage friends who are chased into the African wilderness by a gang of violent poachers. Hardly a Disney classic, but likeable young actors help to overcome Swiss-cheese plot. Film is screened with the latest Roger Rabbit toon, Trail Mix-up. Unfortunately, both the film and the cartoon contain more violence than Disney's usual audience, kids, should have to endure. (PG)

A FEW GOOD MEN
A few glaring flaws in script and direction undermine, but do not spoil, this hard-driving drama starring Tom Cruise as a lazy Marine lawyer investigating the hazing death of a young leatheneck. Demi Moore co-stars as the superior officer pushing him to get to the real truth, which leads him to scene chewing officer Jack Nicholson. Wasted scenes telegraph information the audience is better off without, but solid acting by the principals and capable support by Kevin Bacon, comedian Kevin Pollack, James Marshall (Twin Peaks) and J.T. Walsh overcome a rare bad outing by director Rob Reiner. (R)

FIRE IN THE SKY
Cinematic treatment of Robert Lieberman's "true" story about an alien abduction. Stars include D.B. Sweeney and James Garner. (PG-13)
GROUNDHOG DAY
Bill Murray has a big showcase in this Harold Ramis comedy about a television weatherman who keeps reliving the same day — Groundhog Day. (Please turn to page 9)

Review revue

Critics form a hung jury on 'Cop and a Half'

Burt Reynolds, who has seen the been to the top and the bottom of the movie-star pecking order, is now enjoying the security of a hit TV sitcom. But he hasn't given up feature films — in fact, with Cop and a Half, he's pushing his luck by ignoring the Hollywood axiom of never working with kids or animals, in this case, an 8-year-old witness to a murder, who will only cooperate with the authorities if he's partnered with — guess who? — who plays a hard-boiled Tampa cop who, naturally, hates kids. Sounds on the surface like another nail in Burt's career coffin, but not all the critics agree.

Roger Ebert
The Daily News

"There isn't much that's original in Cop and a Half, but there's a lot that's entertaining, and there's a winning performance by a young man with a big name — Norman D.

Golden II...Reynolds and Golden work well together. They have a chemistry that seems based on friendship and a sense of humor...The movie, directed by Henry Winkler, is essentially sunny and good-hearted. In its depiction of a kid in a world of adult criminals, I found it more entertaining than Home Alone II with its cartoon violence."

Audrey Farolino
The New York Post

"If there's one formula that Hollywood never seems to tire of, it's the old 'tough cop paired with the oddball partner' routine...So one can perhaps understand why the creators of Cop and a Half felt compelled to go through the absurd extreme of pairing a tough guy...with — get this — a third-grader...This all sounds, of course, like a moviegoer's worst nightmare. But it isn't — or at least, it's not quite that bad, — thanks mostly to Golden."

Susan Wloszczyna
USA Today

"Cop and a Half is a pain and a half. Imagine a grade-school production of 48 Hours starring the cast of Problem Child. Only, the grade of this kiddo fodder is strictly Z-minus...Yes, there's a bowlful of bathroom humor and worse. At one point a playground contingent pelts the bad guys with Twinkies. Audience members may wish they could do the same to the theater screen."

Stephen Holden
The New York Times

"The gimmick may be cute, but it is also somewhat unsettling...For all its amusing touches, Cop and a Half is as slick and predictable, and as glib about exalting juvenile violence, as last year's family-comedy hit 3 Ninjas."

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be more understanding of those around you. They want to please, but the full moon could create a problem or two. Anyhow, making up is fun, especially when it's you being kissed up to. Plan on a romp this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Plunge into work and handle what no one else can. Your efficiency is tested. You gain your just desserts by the weekend when you have plenty of time to savor them. Others seek you out big time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be more direct with a project that is close to your heart. Ideas flow left and right. Streamline red tape, so you have more time for fun. Don't worry about the loving admirers. They are all around you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be aware of your options this week. You must take care of you and yours first. Understand more of what it is you want, and then you can make it happen. Unfortunately, you may have to work way into the weekend as you get so distracted during the week.

LEO (July 23-August 22) The pace may be hectic and there may be much to do, but trust one thing, you need to talk through a recent misunderstanding. Once this is cleared up, you are centered. Accomplishment is the name of the game, and you get to savor the trophies all weekend long.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Be more energetic when it comes to what really counts to you, and don't let another call the shots. Give yourself a pep talk and zero in on what you really want. Count on a cozy, snug weekend for two at home.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You are so full of vigor, you could overwhelm those around you. Be more aware of what makes your life work. Visiting with a pal proves to be a wonderful weekend pastime. No time like the present to catch up on news!

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Much of the week is spent reflecting and planning, or it should be. Don't move until you are absolutely sure as to what it is you want. You indulge yourself and another all weekend long.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Count on a busy week, when you need to attend many meetings, be social and make the most of the encounters. You may need to question another's motives. When you decide to take action, it will be just in the nick of time.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Show off your stuff this week as you take care of responsibilities and handle what must be done with care. There are many reasons for celebration and fun, even before the weekend. So make the most of any excuse for a romp.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Check out what's going on behind the scenes at work. You come up with vital solutions and new understandings. Many could be in awe of what you are about to do. Others wish just to know you. In this spirit, you soar into the weekend.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Close encounters of a practical, material nature, as well as a loftier, spiritual nature, are highlighted this week. Tune into your higher self as you come up with incredible ideas and loving wisdom. Know you are in prime shape to take the reins of power and desire.

New music highlights Good Friday concert

Plainfield church to celebrate holiday with premiere work for choir and orchestra

Music is a big part of many religious holidays, but the music we associate with them is normally of the traditional variety.

But on Good Friday, April 9, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church in Plainfield will present a new Easter choral work by Dr. Walter W. Schurr.

Schurr, organist, choir director and artist in residence, wrote O Vos Omnes: Those Who Pass By expressly for the Good Friday concert. This world premiere presentation will be performed by the Crescent Singers and the Oratorio Choir and Orchestra.

Scored for flute, oboe, bassoon, trumpets, French horns, trombones, timpani, strings and organ, O Vos Omnes is based on remembrances of different characters who witnessed the crucifixion of Jesus. Each tells the story from his or her perspective.

The four soloists who sing the roles of the lead characters are soprano Fleta Hylton, mezzo soprano Sandra West, tenor Howard Carr and bass David Neal.

Schurr, a published composer, is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory and Catholic University, where he received his Ph.D.

Also scheduled for presentation will be Schubert's Mass in E Flat, the last of Schubert's six masses for chorus and orchestra, written shortly before his death in 1828.

The Good Friday concert is offered each year as a benefit for Muhlenberg Regional Medical center in Plainfield. Last year's proceeds of $46,000 were given to the Plainfield Health Center, which is run by Muhlenberg.

This annual event is extremely popular and is likely to sell out, so call ahead for information on ticket availability.

O VOS OMNES: THOSE WHO PASS BY
Friday, April 9, 8:15 p.m. at Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, 716 Watchung Ave., Plainfield. Preferred seating tickets $50-400; gen. admission $5. (908) 756-2468.

Tenor Howard Carr is one of the featured soloists performing O Vos Omnes: Those Who Pass By, a new choral work scheduled to premiere during the 21st annual Good Friday concert at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church in Plainfield.

Brass and more for Easter

Music for brass quartet, organ and choir will highlight Easter services at Emanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church Sunday in New Brunswick.

Scheduled for performance are "The Five Mystical Songs" by English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams (with text by poet George Herbert), and "Entrata Festiva" by Belgian composer Flor Peeters, along with festival hymns for the day.

Mezzo soprano Sandra West will be featured during "The Five Mystical Songs," while the entire ensemble will join in on "Entrata Festiva."

Services at the church, located on the corner of New and Kilpatrick streets, are at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m., with a light breakfast being served at 10 a.m. Childcare is available.

For more information, call (908) 545-2673.

'Eclectibilly' comes to Long Valley

Recording artist, instrumentalist, singer-songwriter and cable TV host Ralph Ubin, known to many as the "Hillbilly Pavarotti," will appear at Rosie's Cabaret in Long Valley Saturday, April 10, 7 p.m.

Ubin, whose most-requested song is "Y'd Better Say Goodbye to You Than Give Up on Your Love," often performs in a style that combines an blues, reggae, blues-rock, country, folk, and even island music. His show combines music, humor and storytelling with an optimistic, problem-solving outlook.

For more information, call Rosie's (located in Tucker's Breakfast King) at (908) 876-9310.

Sam Ash seminar features Burtnick

Rockers Glen Burtnick of the Slaves of New Brunswick and other popular recording bands will be part of the panel at the Music Business seminar scheduled for Sunday, April 18, at the Sam Ash Music Institute in Edison.

Topics for the seminar include tips on songwriting, publishing and promotion.

Buddy's just a regular Guy

Grammy-winning blues guitar legend to rock the Stone Pony

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

For many blues artists, the surging popularity of the genre came too late — Muddy Waters, Albert King and Willie Dixon, just to name a few, have all died within the last 10 years.

Thankfully, there are a few out there who are reaping the benefits, including Buddy Guy, referred to by many, including guitar god Eric Clapton, as the greatest guitar player alive.

Yet as recently as 1990, Guy, 58, was enduring a 12-year stretch without a recording contract, forcing him tour day after day, year after year, just to make a living. But in 1991, after several well-publicized concert jams with Clapton, Vaughan and others (he was part of the fateful concert preceding the helicopter crash that claimed Vaughan's life), Guy was signed to Silvertone Records, which released his Damn Right I've Got the Blues that same year.

Songs from that record and his recently-released Feels Like Rain, are sure to be heard when Guy plays the Stone Pony in Asbury Park Friday, April 9.

Guy, in a recent interview, claimed ignorance of the Stone Pony's fabled history as the birthplace of the "Jersey Shore" sound, probably because he's never had much luck playing the Garden State.

"I've never could crash New Jersey too easy," he said. "I drove through there a lot, got stopped a lot by the cops on the Turnpike, but never got to play there that much."

Damn Right I've Got the Blues turned out to be more than a comeback album as it earned him a Grammy for best contemporary blues album of the year.

Feels Like Rain, as opposed to its predecessor, shows off the variety of styles that Guy has mastered, as song written by John Hiatt, Marvin Gaye and John Fogerty take him into the areas of rock, soul and R&B. All are connected by Guy's searing guitar.

"Actually, it's what Buddy Guy been doin' all his life, but never got a chance to record," he said. "Buddy Guy never had a chance really to be Buddy Guy and play what I was playin' in person."

"I kept drawin' people in the clubs but no record company would listen to me. Then all of a sudden thanks to the late Stevie Ray Vaughan and Eric Clapton, who kept sayin' 'Buddy Guy, Buddy Guy,' people started listenin'. Finally, Silvertone made me an offer that if I signed with them, I could play what I want."

Some blues artists, like Willie Dixon, were resentful, at least at first, of the young white rockers who copped their riffs while offering little or no credit in return. But Guy is enjoying the attention, and relishes the opportunity to play with the current generation of superstars.

"Oh, man," he said. "These people bring out the best in you. You get with them and you say 'I didn't know got that in me.'"

Life, though, hasn't changed much for Guy, who is still on the road and has no plans to take an exit in the near future. He even still wears the trademark overalls that have dominated his wardrobe since Muddy Waters discovered him on a Chicago street.

"I'm not looking for any time off. I feel like a kid with his first Christmas toy," he said.

Blues guitarist Buddy Guy, whose fan club includes Eric Clapton, will play the Stone Pony in Asbury Park Friday, April 9.

BUDDY GUY Saturday, April 10, at the Stone Pony, 913 Ocean Ave., Asbury Park. Doors open 8 p.m. Tickets $13 advance, $15 day of show. (908) 775-5700.

Champions of the regional theater

Whitmore, Lindley reunite in 'Foxfire' on George Street

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theater Critic

When stage and screen veterans James Whitmore and Audra Lindley speak together, their conversation often sounds like the dialogue of a play — some charming, meandering, witty two-character comedy about a pair of longtime friends who share a genuine fondness for each other as well as years of shared triumph and tribulation.

These two legendary performers can comfortably discuss show business topics ranging from Louis B. Mayer, mogul on Hollywood's so-called "Golden Age," to contemporary cinematic players like Oliver Stone and Goldie Hawn, to the advantages of working throughout the country in America's blossoming regional theaters.

Whitmore and Lindley are currently closing the George Street Playhouse's 19th season with Foxfire, a drama by Hume Cronyn and Susan Cooper with music by Jonathon Holtzman. The play focuses on Annie and Hector Nations, an elderly couple who have spent their entire lives in Appalachia. After a forceful real estate developer threatens to turn their land into a vacation resort, Annie's battle to deal with their future takes her through a series of flashbacks in which she examines her life with her husband and children.

Foxfire, which deals with issues ranging from familial love to the importance of tradition and history, was inspired by folklore and actual interviews conducted by Eliot Wigginton, a Georgia teacher who with his high school students collected the material later adapted by Cronyn and Cooper.

Foxfire originally played on Broadway starring another famous acting couple, Cronyn and wife Jessica Tandy.

Having already appeared two times at the George Street Playhouse, in 1989's The Eighties and 1990's Handy Dandy, artistic director Gregory Hurst approached Whitmore and Lindley about doing another project in New Brunswick. Tom Coles' The Eighties, later retitled About Time, played in repertory with Handy Dandy at New York's John Houseman Theatre after the plays' run on George Street.

The Foxfire script was chosen for this appearance, the stars explain, largely for the two main characters with whom Whitmore and Lindley felt an immediate connection.

Whitmore plays Hector Nations, a cantankerous husband and father whose overbearing manner forces his children away from their home.

"Hector is very religious," Whitmore explains. "He believes what he believes, and he's not tortured about self-doubt. He is an unbending man who rarely shows his emotions, but he loves his wife very much. He also has a caustic but valuable sense of humor."

Lindley stars as Annie, Hector's long-suffering but dignified wife, a pillar of maternal strength who stands up to her husband and keeps her children from crumbling before his rough demeanor.

"I love these characters," Lindley says. "This is a great woman and a great, challenging role. She works so hard to protect her children from this man."

For the third time, Whitmore and Lindley are bringing their years of experience to the George Street stage and, as before, the theater-going public is responding enthusiastically; the run of Foxfire has, even before its opening, been extended due to ticket demand.

James Whitmore and Audra Lindley play an aging couple facing eviction from their home in Appalachia in Foxfire at the George Street Playhouse.

Whitmore's stage success began early when he won a Tony Award for Command Decision, his first Broadway show. Later, the actor triumphed in films such as Tora! Tora! Tora!, The Asphalt Jungle, Planet of the Apes, and The First Deadly Sin. One of his most critically successful screen projects was 1975's Give 'Em Hell, Harry, in which he played Harry S. Truman and was nominated for an Academy Award as best actor.

"Timing in life is everything," says Whitmore, stressing that the political climate in 1975 was just right for Give 'Em Hell, Harry and that the film "would never do as well if it were released today."

Black Like Me, a popular film which tells the story of a white journalist who masquerades as an African-American in the south in order to chronicle the black experience of the time, is one of the films for which Whitmore is most remembered.

"That was a labor of love for everyone involved," he recalls. "We sometimes forget today how much better things have actually gotten. We shot that film in the south and we had a lot of trouble with the local authorities. Things were awful at that time. I had to have a bodyguard during the shoot."

Of his recent projects, Whitmore particularly enjoyed working for producer and star Barbra Streisand in Nuts.

"I respect Streisand a great deal," Whitmore says. "If she weren't a woman, I think she'd have gotten all kinds of awards by now."

In addition to her numerous acclaimed stage appearances, Lindley has worked in films such as The Heartbreak Kid, Desert Hearts, and When You Comin' Back, Red Ryder? She gave a particularly memorable screen performance as the slightly eccentric mother of Burt Reynolds and mother-in-law to Goldie Hawn in Norman Jewison's 1982 Best Friends, an unusual, underrated study of marital and parental relationships.

"That was a wonderful experience," she says. "I'd known Burt for a while, but I hadn't worked with Goldie before. I'm extremely fond of both of them. It was such a good movie I was surprised it wasn't more

Villagers offer play readings

The Villages Theatre's 19th annual playreading series opens Tuesday, April 13, 8 p.m., with the comedy Trail of Life by Michael E. Murray of South Lake.

Directed by Mark Pollock, Trail of Life deals with the misadventures of American Jonathan Napier in England, where a series of disasters leads him to believe he may be cursed.

All reads are reads all to presented two of change in alternate Tuesdays at 8 p.m. through June 23 at the Villages Theatre, 475 Oakmont Lane, Somerset. Interval discussion with the playwright will follow each performance.

For more information, call (908) 673-3710.

Trilogy adapts 'Spoon River'

The Trilogy Repertory Company will continue its adaption of Edgar Lee Master's 1915 classic Spoon River Anthology with performances on April 10, 16 and 17 at the Ridge High School Little Theatre on South Maple Avenue in Basking Ridge.

The play creates a fictional community through a series of short dramatic pieces spoken by its deceased residents. The cast includes several local actors, including Alec Adams of Somerville, Rhonda King of Somerset and Paula Rood of Bridgewater.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for seniors and students. For more information, call (908) 580-0122.

'Mothers' to run until April 25

Last week's directory listing of Mothers, currently running at Crossroads Theatre in New Brunswick, incorrectly listed the old closing date of April 11. The production has been extended to April 25, and tickets are still available.

For more information, call (908) 249-5560.

successful."

She also played opposite Nick Nolte and Debra Winger in Cannery Row, a 1981 drama. "Nolte is wonderful to work with and Debra Winger is favorite of mine. That was only her second starring role, and you could tell she was nervous doing the film, but she was great," Lindley recalls.

Lindley's largest audience, though, came during her run in television's Three's Company. After almost three seasons on the top rated sit-com, Lindley's character of Helen Roper, the harried landlady of John Ritter and company, was spun-off with co-star Norman Fell into her own series, The Ropers, which lasted about a year and a half.

"The place I can get the interesting roles today is in the theater," Lindley stresses. "Film and television always cast older women as someone's mother, never as the protagonist of a story. When I was younger and raising a family, I would do any role in order to make a living. Now, I am able to be more choosy about the roles I take on."

Lindley recently played a cameo role in The New Age, an Oliver Stone project written by Michael Tolkin, the screenwriter of last year's critically praised The Player. The New Age, which stars Judy Davis and Peter Weller, is similar to The Player, Lindley explains, in its critical evaluation of Hollywood and the contemporary film industry.

George Street Playhouse veterans Audra Lindley and Dorrie Joiner return to New Brunswick for Foxfire.

"No one in the film industry is writing roles for women my age," Lindley says. "The youth obsession now is such that women get retired just when they reach their peak."

Whitmore and Lindley were married from 1971 through 1978, then divorced. Despite the dissolution of their marriage, the two continued to act together and have remained close friends.

"It's tragic that so many couples go through a divorce and, because of the egobruising involved, end up unable to remain close," Whitmore says.

"We're just very good friends," Lindley adds. "People continue to think of us together when they send scripts. How many older acting couples are there around? Our first experience working together after the divorce was not ideal, but we learned to accommodate each other. It is easier working with someone you know so well as opposed to working with relative strangers."

"We choose material carefully," Whitmore continues. "Our tastes are not necessarily the same. I prefer to do new plays, for example. But we always end up agreeing on material."

"Regional theater is the hope of the American theater," Whitmore believes. "This is where the real people are. They're not in New York. It's a strange situation in the New York theater. You get a lot of people there on vacation or business trips or whatever, people who go to the theater only looking for a good time. It's just not the same as people going to see a play in their hometown."

"It's nice for us, too," Lindley continues, "because we're able to do a lot of the roles written years ago when theater stars were older than today's stars. We've inherited a lot of the work couples like Lunt and Fontanne used to play and, frankly, regional theaters offer better roles than what is often offered in New York or Los Angeles."

Judging from how pleased Whitmore and Lindley have become with their George Street appearances, and with the warm welcome they are once again being given by local audiences, the relationship between the stars and the playhouse should continue to grow.

"This is a truly great operation full of great people," Lindley says of the George Street Playhouse. "It feels so comfortable and friendly. It's like old home week, coming back again."

FOXFIRE through May 2 at the George Street Playhouse, 9 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick. Tickets $16-$30; discounts available. (908) 246-7717.

DINING

Upstairs, downstairs

Kim's offers a variety of dining experiences

By MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

Kim's, the area's newest restaurant, offers diners a combination of Italian and American food in a sleek and stylish atmosphere. The two-story restaurant, located in the Hyde Park Mall in Green Brook on Route 22, features casual dining at the lower level and more formal dining on the upper floor.

The lower level includes a large bar, live music and a dance floor as well as a separate dining area in the front. In back, by the bar, is a wide staircase and elevator leading to the second floor.

There are large, dark mirrors on all the walls, including the staircase. Kim's, although spacious to begin with, looks even larger because of them.

The second floor lounge is impressive. The front has atrium windows, large skylights, brass rails and a small bar. To the right, enclosed with large windows and French doors, is the formal, non-smoking dining room.

If you drive around the back of the mall, which is on an incline, you can enter at ground level. The color scheme is mauve and grey with mauve booths, chairs and carpet, and grey walls. The room is much larger than it looks. We realized that as the room started to fill the Saturday we dined there.

The menu at Kim's has a nice selection of hot and cold appetizers, soups, salads, pasta and entrees. Hot appetizers include grilled calamari served in an olive, caper and lemon sauce ($5.95), coconut shrimp ($6.95) and stuffed artichoke ($5.95).

You can order clams ($5.95) or oysters ($7.95) on the half shell, shrimp and roasted peppers ($5.95) or smoked salmon for $5.95. Salads include a Caesar ($4.95) and a tri colore for $5.95.

There are five pasta selections ($7.95-$9.75) including cheese tortellini served with a cream sauce of four different cheeses ($8.95), bowtie pasta in a vodka cream sauce ($8.95) and penne pasta tossed in a tomato sauce with ricotta, eggplant and topped with mozzarella ($7.95).

All pasta dishes are served with a salad and Italian bread. Kim's has nine entrees from $11.95-$18.95. There are selections of seafood, including tuna steak for $11.95, chicken Rosemary ($11.95), one each of veal and lamb and two steaks (filet mignon or New York sirloin for $18.95). Entrees are served with a salad, bread, potato and vegetable of the day.

LINDA D. EPSTEIN/WEEKENDPLUS

Casual and fine dining can both be enjoyed at Kim's restaurant in Green Brook.

My husband had the stuffed artichokes, two baby artichokes with a good sausage stuffing, and baked with peas and potato wedges. I had the shrimp and roasted peppers. This consisted of four large shrimp first steamed then tossed in a blend of garlic, oil and roasted peppers, and served cold over a bed of lettuce.

For entrees, my husband had the 16 oz. New York Sirloin ($18.95) served with a wild mushroom sauce, a baked potato and zucchini. The beef was aged Black Angus, which is very tender and juicy.

I had the linguini La Verdura ($9.75) which was linguini tossed in a light marinara sauce with sun dried tomatoes, fresh spinach, radicchio, arugula, mushrooms and a touch of cream and butter. It seemed to me that the light marinara sauce enhanced the flavor of the three salad greens. It was a very tasty meal.

All of the desserts, displayed on a tray by our waitress, looked delicious, but I know when to quit. My husband, however, ordered the banana chantilly torte ($3). He doesn't count calories.

Kim's has a lot to offer. If you're stopping for drinks to unwind after a day of work, you can choose the downstairs pub atmosphere or the more subdued upstairs lounge. If you want to eat, you have the upstairs formal dining room or the lower level lounge with a separate menu.

Either way, it's worth a visit to Route 22's newest restaurant and bar.

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

We are coming into the holiday season again but I am not going to talk about dessert or sparkling wines. In fact, I'm not going to tell you what to drink with your holiday meals, because everyone is doing that. I've even heard radio commercials that are offering food and wine pairings. And, in the liquor stores, you can find a wonderful glut (about time, too!) of Passover wines ranging from the traditional sweets to the very classic and dry varieties. Instead, I would like to inform you of two wines that you may or may not have already tried. If you haven't, you should. If you have tasted them, you're probably hooked.

Caymus Conundrum and Liberty School "Three Valley Select" are two white wines from the 1991 vintage that go way beyond trying to be another chardonnay blend. Chardonnay is not even a big player in the blend of these wines, although there is some used to add viscosity. What this means is that you are going to have a wine that is not at all typical. I like that.

Both of these bottlings use the muscat grape, some chardonnay, semillon and sauvignon blanc. The wine has a citrusy, linalool, fresh nose that almost makes you think the wine will be sweet, but it isn't. The flavor is full, very dry but intensely fruity, full of spice, pear, apple, vanilla, and some other stone fruits. Make no mistake, there is a lot of stuff going on in the glass! If you, like I, are getting tired of the same old thing, these bottles offer a wonderful diversion. The acidity makes them compatible with a wide variety of foods, and with all the complex flavors, you'll have a field day pairing sauces and condiments. Yes, for those of you who are addicted, there is oak in them, too. White wines and Spring fit together like Beaujolais and Fall.

Why not kick the chard, or chard blend habit with a bottle of Conundrum or Liberty School? Both wines are reasonably priced — you shouldn't have to pay much over $16.00 for a 750 ml. I think that these would be great for the holidays. Oops. I said I wouldn't do that. Oh, well. Enjoy!

8 Chamber of Commerce board meeting, Room 108, Municipal Building, 8 a.m.

10 Shop downtown and greet the Easter Bunny as he makes his way throughout the shopping district giving holiday goodies to the young. Three bunnies will stroll through the streets from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

17 Cranford Parent Teacher Council will hold its third annual Service Auction at Trinity Church on North Avenue. The event begins at 7 p.m. Proceeds benefit the Ruth S. Janovsik Scholarship Fund. For ticket information, call 709-1269.

19 The Garden Club of Cranford will hold its spring fund-raiser, lecture and demonstration. For more information, call 276-9610.

21 The Chamber of Commerce will hold its Secretaries Day luncheon and fashion show from noon to 2 p.m. at the Coachman Inn Banquet Center, 10 Jackson Drive. Enjoy a lovely luncheon with door prizes and fashion show. For reservations, call 709-7208.

24 The Cranford River Committee will sponsor a River Cleanup from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Although residents are encouraged to register in advance, they may show up at any of the five areas of concentration: Mohawk Drive in Sunny Acres; Crane Parkway at Wall Street; South and Centennial avenues; Riverside Drive at the Balmiere footbridge; and the Kenilworth Boulevard by the bridge. For more information, call 276-7382, 272-1790, 272-8293, 272-5265.

30 The Cranford Dramatic club will present The Little Shop of Horrors at 8 p.m. Additional presentations are scheduled weekends throughout May. For ticket information, call 276-7611.

MAY

1 The Cranford First Aid Squad will conduct its annual fund-raising drive throughout May. For more information, call 276-7177.

8 All Female shoppers in the downtown shopping district between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. will receive a carnation courtesy of the Downtown Merchants.

15 The Cranford Jaycees will hold its annual fishing derby at Nomahegan Park at 9 a.m. For information, call 272-3883.

29 The Cranford Pool Utility will open both pools for members' enjoyment during Memorial Day Weekend. They will open permanently June 4 and operate shortened hours until June 18. For specific hours, call 709-7260.

JUNE

5 Health Day '93, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Union Hospital, will be held at Orange Avenue School. Twelve screenings will be offered; admission is free. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Celebrate

R A N F O R D

Join in the spring holiday spirit in downtown Cranford

Celebrate the spring holidays with a spirit that is alive and singing.

Dress the family in new outfits, set the table for a festive meal, and decorate the home with bright colorful flowers. Cranford's stores and boutiques are ready for the spring, too, with value-priced goods and services including clothing, fashion accessories, holiday table settings, and linens, household items, home decorations, gift baskets and flower arrangements.

Join us Saturday, April 10, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. as three Easter Bunnies stroll through the shopping district favoring youngsters with holiday treats.

Courteous sales people will deliver personalized service and careful attention to customers' needs. Many Cranford merchants offer shoppers extras, like free gift wrapping, senior citizen discounts, and free parking. Tokens are available from participating merchants and for sale at the change station, soon to be located in the Park & Shop Lot off Miln Street.

Giants taking on local cagers to raise fireworks bucks

In an effort to defray the costs of the holiday celebration, the Cranford Fourth of July Committee will challenge the New Jersey Giants in a basketball game Thursday, April 29, at 7 p.m. at Cranford High School. The cost of a ticket is $10. Proceeds will be used to pay for the fireworks display.

According to Tony Smith, chairman, the proposed budget for the fireworks display is $7,500.

"The last two years the budget has been $3,000 and the show reflected that. We know the town is strapped for funds, and although they did commit to coming to our aid, we hope it won't be necessary. We hope we can raise it ourselves," he said.

Mr. Smith arranged a similar game last year to benefit the Orange Avenue School's eighth-grade trip.

"The potential for us to be successful is there," he said. "If we can sell out, we would not only have enough to stage a first-class show this year, we would be well on our way for the next year."

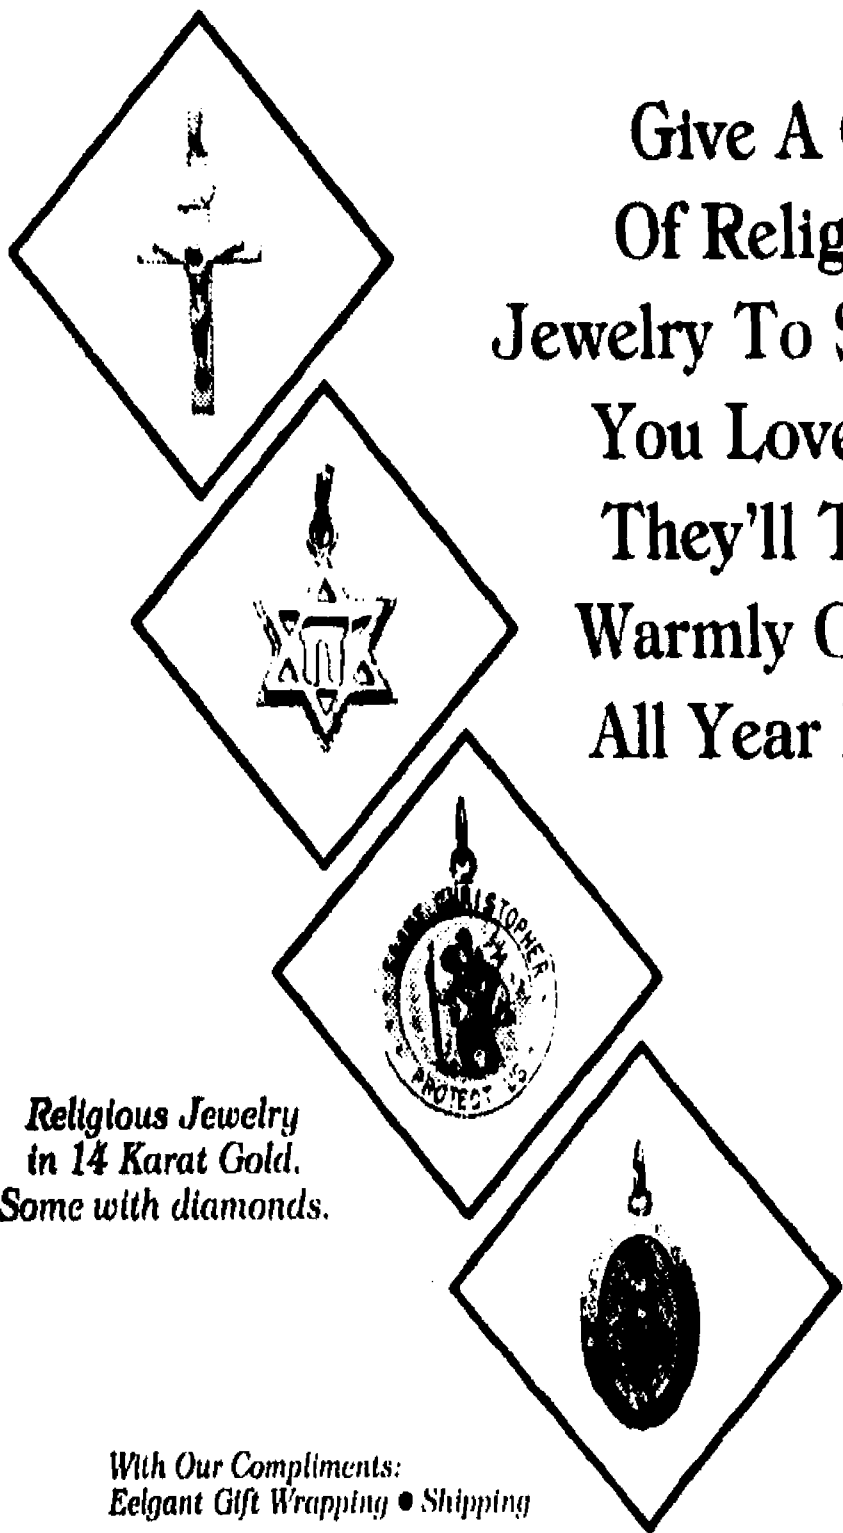

Because the First Aid Squad will celebrate its 100th anniversary in June with a parade, no Fourth of July parade is planned for 1993. It will return in 1994.

The two-day event will be held at Nomahegan Park. It will begin with the annual Jaycees 4-mile race, and feature canoe races, games and music.

Tickets are on sale at the following Cranford stores: Bagel America, Cranford Bike Shop, Cranford Book Store, Cranford Community Center, Four Star Liquors, Geiger's Fine Women's Apparel, IJ's Market, Rustic Mill Diner, and Swan Cleaners. For information on group rates call 709-7283 or 276-1939.

Survey shows 85 percent shop in downtown Cranford

Forbes Newspapers recently completed a readers' survey that indicated nearly 85 percent of all readers had shopped in downtown Cranford in the previous three months. The survey was completed in November 1992.

In addition, the survey indicated that the Cranford Chronicle is the leading source for local shopping information.

Just who are these Cranford shoppers?

Some are parents who come looking for shoes or sports apparel and equipment.

"Every season brings a new sport, and I can get whatever my children need from the downtown area," said Susan Appolonia of Mohawk Drive.

"I have four children and wouldn't go anywhere else but the Village Shoe Shop for shoes," said Carol Polidore. "They are very helpful, and not any more expensive than the highway stores."

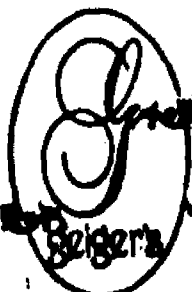

Some are commuters who find Thursday and Friday evening shopping hours an unmatched convenience.

"Once a week, you have the opportunity to shop when you come off the train," said Ellen Fox, an accountant with an insurance firm in Newark. "You're able to buy whatever you need — food items, clothes, books. You can work out, eat dinner, and rent a movie all before going home. It's much better than going home and having to go out again."

Many downtown shops have added Sunday hours, and customers seem to agree that it's helpful.

"Sundays are probably my only chance to shop," said Cranford resident John Gertz. "Sunday store hours allow me to bring my children shopping in a friendly, safe and beautiful environment. We usually stop off for a treat on the way. It's my way of spending some quality time with my children."

Chamber sponsoring secretaries' lunch, health fair

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its second annual Secretaries Day luncheon in April and introduce a new event, a health fair, in June. The luncheon and fashion show will be held April 21 at the Coachman Inn Banquet Center on Jackson Drive at noon.

"This is an opportunity for employers to acknowledge their staff's contribution to the overall workings of the business and to thank them for their dedication throughout the year," said Owen Daly, chamber president.

Fashions will be provided by Geiger's Fine Women's Apparel, Cranford Leather, Bridals by Athena, Shapiro's and Little Bow-tique. Tickets for the luncheon are $20 and can be purchased by calling 709-7208.

On May 21, a legislative breakfast with state Commerce Commissioner Barbara McConnell will be held at the Coachman Inn at 8 p.m.

The free health fair will be held June 5 at Orange Avenue School and is co-sponsored by Union Hospital.

"Hopefully, this will give all adults an opportunity to get the proper health screenings they need," said Mr.

Daly. Orange Avenue Pool will also be open for swimmers' enjoyment.

Twelve different screenings will be conducted. In addition, speakers from various fields of health will be featured.

The chamber's Business Education committee will meet with representatives from the high school including the principal, guidance counselors and PTA members, to discuss the creation of a one-on-one mentoring program. Chairman Bob Schmidt is currently looking for corporate and professional volunteers to participate.

Author of children's books to autograph them at store

Ruth V. Cullen, author of two children's books, will autograph her books at a signing at the Cranford Book Store on North Avenue on Saturday, April 17, from noon to 2 p.m. In addition, the book's illustrator, Emil Antonucci, also will be present.

Ms. Cullen's first book, Sometimes You Just Have To Tell Somebody, appeared in stores in October. The book focuses on a little girl who must learn to deal with her father's alcoholism. Ms. Cullen, the child of an alcoholic, describes her own childhood as traumatic.

"The book began as a poem that I had written and turned into a great form of therapy for myself," she said. "I've had a lot of really positive feedback from people who say they were both touched and moved by the story, but I would really like to know what children think of it."

After reading her first book, her editor from Pualist Publishing Co. asked her to write one that would help children deal with loss. Her second book, My Letter from Grandma, was just released. In it, a children receives a letter her grandmother wrote shortly before dying.

"It's really a life-affirming book," she said. "A person is never truly gone...their energy is really always with us.

Even after reading it so many times, I still cry."

Both books were illustrated by Mr. Antonucci, a New York designer best known for his work on the Four Seasons restaurant's logo.

"He created some incredibly sensitive portrayals for the book," said Ms. Cullen, a Cranford resident with children in Brookside Place School. She is also a published poet and songwriter.

"There was a real need for this type of book. It sold on its own merit. We need to get these feelings out...to open the doors of communication for our youth."

New businesses abound in Cranford downtown

Kantar Jewelers love it here

Mari and Zeki Kantar, owners of Kantar Jewelers at 105 N. Union Ave., which opened April 1, wanted to relocate their Brooklyn business to Westfield. But a funny thing happened on the way. They drove through Cranford and fell in love with its Victorian-decorated downtown center.

"We'd been looking in Westfield and then we drove through Cranford," said Mari. "We loved it right away...everything about it. The way it is decorated and the people we met."

With diamonds, precious stones, and 14- and 18-karat gold jewelry in his possession, Zeki was more concerned with Cranford's fine safety record.

"That was a big concern of mine," he said. "With so much inventory, I needed to be able to sleep at night knowing my livelihood would be safe."

Zeki began his career at the age of 12 when he worked as a jewelry bench worker in his homeland of Turkey. At 30, he immigrated to the United States and immediately became employed by Jose Hess, one of the top jewelry designers in the country.

Twelve years later, he got the urge to go into business for himself and opened his doors in Brooklyn.

Now in Cranford, Kantar Jewelers offers exquisite fine jewelry including diamonds, precious stones and gold settings. He designs almost all his pieces himself.

"He makes only the best," said Mari. "It is top of the line. We will not sell anything that we would not wear ourselves."

The inventory will develop as the Kantars slowly assess the needs of its clientele.

"As we find our market, we will respond to the interests of the residents in our designs," said Mari.

And because they manufacture most of their own jewelry, they are able to offer it at savings of up to 25 percent over other stores.

"We pass the savings onto to the customer, but we always remain quality conscious," said Zeki.

They are so much in love with the town that they find themselves promoting it to other Brooklyn businesses as well as old clients.

"We are hoping to bring a lot of business to the downtown," said Mari. "We've extended a lot of invitations."

They intend to move to Cranford eventually.

Something's always 'brewing'

Dave Hoffmann, owner of Brewmeister at 115 North Union Ave., has been brewing his own beer for more than three years now. Recently he decided to turn his hobby into a business and opened a store that sells brewing and wine making supplies.

Home brewing became legal this year, and with the proposed "sin" tax on liquors, more and more people are becoming interested in the process, said Mr. Hoffmann.

"I was tired of paying a lot of money for beer that wasn't worth it," he said. "Home brewed beer just tastes better. It doesn't have to be served ice cold to be pleasant tasting."

Mr. Hoffmann first started brewing after reading an ad in Popular Science magazine. Since then, he has networked with other home brewers at state and national conventions. He recently won two third-place trophies for his pale and black beers at the first brewing competition in New Jersey in 60 years. It was sponsored by the New Jersey Freedom to Brew Association. He also has won several silver awards in national competitions.

"Probably the best thing about home brewing," said Mr. Hoffmann, "is the fact that you can vary the taste of the beer to your own liking."

Home brewers can make 29 different kinds of beer and experience the satisfaction of knowing he or she did it all from scratch, he said. The home brewery can produce English, Australian, German and Irish beer, in addition to continental dark, brown ale and bock.

The store offers brewing equipment kits stocked with everything one needs to get that first batch of beer going, while ingredient kits are designed to produce a specific style of beer. Everything is premeasured and formulated to produce award-winning beers every time.

Sport Center is expanding

Pat Mack is a Cranford success story. The owner of Cranford Sport Center, Mr. Mack began his career with a small store on North Avenue East.

Several years ago, he relocated to his present location at the corner of Alden Street and North Union Avenue. Mr. Mack's success continues, and this month he will expand his store once again as he breaks through the wall of the adjoining property and adds more than 2,000 square feet to his holdings.

"Those who take risk get ahead in life," said Mr. Mack jokingly. "But seriously, even throughout these bad economic times, the business has continued to grow. This expansion will allow that to continue because now I will offer a more comprehensive full-range sporting goods store," he said.

The Cranford Sport Center offers everything that any athlete needs from golf accessories to baseball to soccer to hockey to swimming. Even spectators will enjoy browsing.

"There is no need to go elsewhere," said Mr. Mack. "We have it all here."

Athletes can look for a larger golf accessory department as well as larger baseball, soccer and hockey offerings. In addition, the store will stock more outerwear and sportswear including shirts, shorts, sweats, and socks. NFL licensed sports clothes, team and collector's hats, and popular college names are featured.

Footwear, sports equipment, and in-line roller skates, hockey skates, and figure skates are all available.

"We also have a very good selection of Speedo swimwear...over 200 suits to select from," said Mr. Mack.

Anglers looking forward to the April 10 opening day can find fishing rods, bait and licenses at the store.

Discount Cleaners opens

April 8, 1993 - CRANFORD DOWNTOWNER - 7

Katherine and Ernie Blunt had been looking for a storefront in Cranford for a long time. Just four weeks ago, they found one and opened Discount Cleaners of Cranford at 105 Walnut Ave.

"It was important for us to open a store in Cranford," said Mr. Blunt. "We live in town, and we wanted to work in the downtown area and hopefully bring to it something that the community needs."

The store functions as a drop off/pickup site; clothes are actually cleaned at a facility in Union where the Blunts are partners. And while the store is new, the Blunts are not newcomers to dry cleaning. They have operated a commercial cleaners, Time Savers, for years which contracts with several large chain stores to provide dry cleaning services for their stock.

Discount Cleaners is able to offer lower prices, said Mr. Blunt, because he cuts out some extras like paper on the hangers and individual bags.

"We found that people just throw the paper around the clothes hanger into the garbage, and if we can bag garments together we can save on the plastic," he explained. "Between the materials and using our own labor force, we are able to keep prices down. When you do that, the volume increases and you do just fine."

Store hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays and Saturday, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., a real convenience to commuters, said Mr. Blunt.

"Commuters can come here both before and after work," he said. "That's very helpful to them. And the bonus is, at that time, there's always a parking space."

The full-service business offers dry cleaning of all garments including leather and suede in addition to alterations. Free box storage of winter garments, including coats and sweaters, is also available.

"Remember it is important to dry clean your clothes before putting them away for the summer," said Mr. Blunt, reminding patrons that stains including those from rain, snow and road salt can be hard to get out if they sit too long.

Gone today — hair tomorrow

Darielle Hair Studio, located at 6 North Union Ave., specializes in hair replacement and extensions.

According to owner Raphael Ruiz, the salon uses a technique he developed over the past 11 years.

"It is my own system," said Mr. Ruiz. "I've had a great deal of success with it. The end result is natural looking hair."

Mr. Ruiz uses hair replacement systems for people plagued with balding and thinning problems.

"Losing one's hair at an early age...in fact, at any age...can be very upsetting to a person," said Mr. Ruiz. "We can help. We use a number of different techniques to replace hair that has fallen out."

Hair weaving uses synthetic hair that is woven onto existing hair to create a longer length. Many people who have short hair that will not grow to the length desired will use hair weaving as an extension.

Mr. Ruiz has freelanced at a number of shops in the county and more recently, had owned his own shop in Millburn. He relocated to Cranford because of the downtown shopping district.

"I was very impressed with the people, with the atmosphere, with the friendships offered to us, with the response we have received," he said.

In addition, the salon also offers a full range of services including cutting, styling and perms.

Sprucing up

Improvements to several buildings along one of Cranford's main thoroughfares continues to illustrate the property and business owners' dedication to the revitalization of the downtown. While facade improvements are almost complete on the Stender & Hernandez building at 205 North Ave. W., construction on the Simpson and Brown building two doors away begins.

Cards and comic books are nothing to joke about

Comic book and baseball card collecting is serious business. Collectors, dealers, comic book publishers, and baseball card manufacturers stage conventions each year to trade and sell.

By the late 1980s, baseball cards and comics had become collectible and like other collectibles, were being seriously considered as a hedge against inflation. As demand increased, prices of the popular cards of the 1950s rose by leaps and bounds; gains of 50 percent to 100 percent a year were common. Then speculation set in. Collectors familiar with the ways of big business began to treat both cards and comics as another Wall Street commodity. There were daily quotes, buy and sell spreads, attempts to corner the market in particular issues, and a feeling that prices were on a never-ending upward spiral.

Recently, explained Jon Morrison, store manager of The Drawing Board on North Avenue, a Marvel Comic Book sold for over $100,000.

"Comic books continue to appreciate in value," said Mr. Morrison. "Of course, price is dependent upon the condition of the issue, but there is money to be made," he said.

"If people are buying a card, it's going to be worth more," said Scott Arnesen, co-owner of First Place on Alden Street. "But not every card sells, and when they don't, their value does not increase. I know what is selling so it's not so much a gamble"

The steady influx of new collectors, and the growing demands of established collectors, continue to push prices upward.

"The safest bets are the older cards of established players. They will continue to rise in value," said Mr. Arnesen.

The biggest seller is Marvel Comics, the makers of Spider Man, Hulk, Captain America and Thor.

Keeping Cranford clean is a year-around endeavor

Keeping Cranford clean is a matter of pride...or a matter for the litter enforcement officer. Since the summer of 1991, Tim Whelan, a township employee whose part-time position is funded by a grant from the Clean Communities Act works to keep the both private and public property litter-free.

According to Patricia Lynn, township recycling coordinator-sanitarian, the grant provides funds for three separate programs: education, cleanup, and enforcement. Under her direction, the department provides educational material to schools including computer programs and curriculum guides.

riculum guides.

In addition, said Ms. Lynn, the department sponsors a major townwide cleanup every year and also supports the Cranford River Committee annual cleanup.

"These programs have all been successful in bringing about a greater awareness to the problem of litter," she said.

Mr. Whelan will be responsible for the enforcement of township codes. To ensure that business and property owners are not cited for litter violations, they should be prepared to sweep the sidewalks daily at the opening and close of business.

Leaves must be cleared from the door and walkways whenever necessary. Leaves should be bagged in clear plastic and brought to designated disposal locations in parking lots 2 and 7.

When snow removal and ice melting are necessary, business and property owners must use calcium chloride only as salt will destroy the brick sidewalks.

Business and property owners also are asked to assist the township with general everyday cleanup by removing litter from the planters and tree wells when needed.

'The Gourmet' gathers his recipes from many sources

Dominick LaMantia never took cooking lessons, yet he is known throughout Cranford as The Gourmet...or at least as the owner of The Gourmet delicatessen on Eastman Street.

"I guess my talent came naturally from my grandmother and my mother," he jokes. "I've collected my recipes from them, from my friends, and from food shows."

Well, wherever he gets his recipes, his customers agree they are delicious.

"I come here for everything," said Mary Sullivan of Cranford, a customer for the past six years. "He's very friendly, very helpful and the food...well it's the best quality and the best tasting."

In addition, said Mrs. Sullivan, Mr. LaMantia is willing to participate in the community and help out its non-profit organizations including the Orange Avenue School PTA, which Mr. LaMantia just supplied with 10 3-foot subs. Proceeds from their sale were used to buy equipment for the school's students, said Mrs. Sullivan.

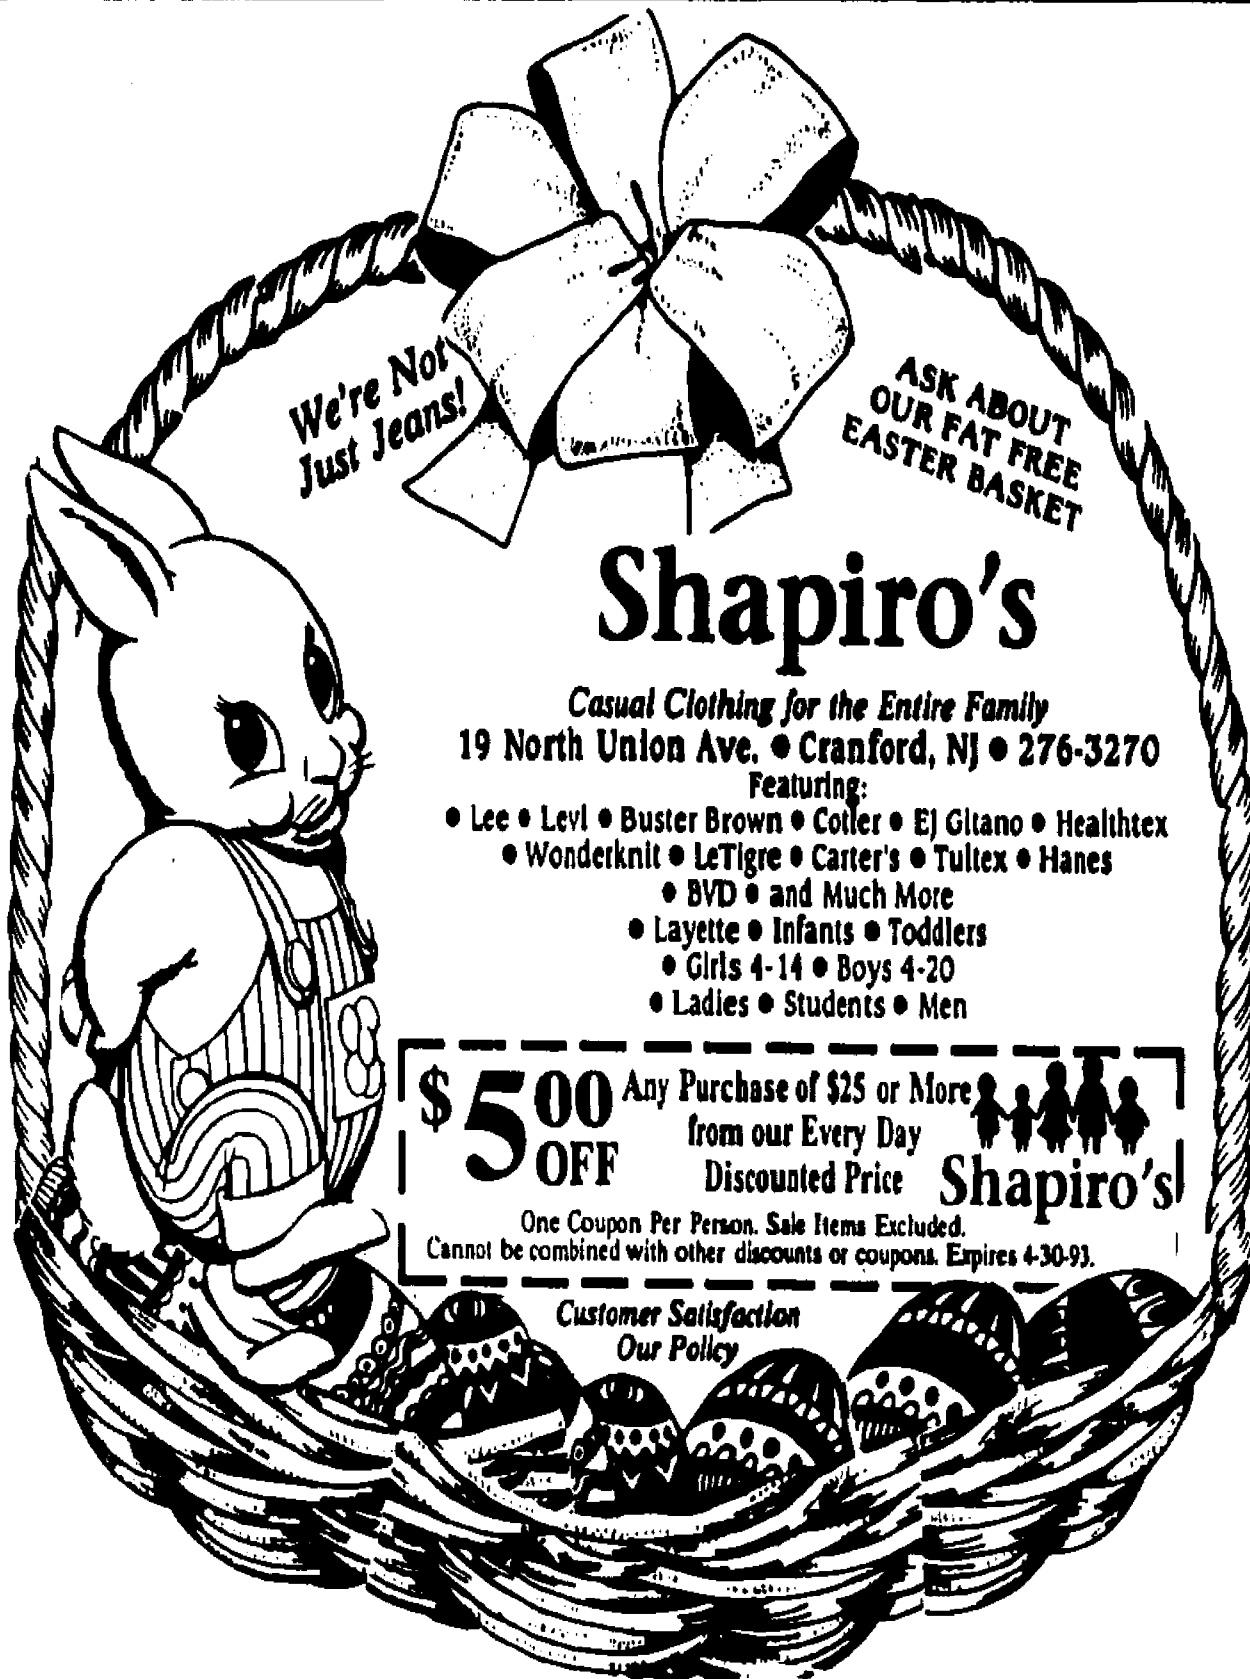

The Gourmet specializes in Sicilian cooking and offers a long list of hot entrees every day.

"My favorite is a recipe from my mother and it doesn't even have a name," he said. It's a combination of macaroni, broccoli, potatoes and sauteed sausage.

His most popular seller though, is his eggplant parmigiana.

"You are always learning," said Mr. LaMantia. "And cooking is no different. Everyday, I try to create something a little bit different."

The Gourmet is also well known for its salad bar. Along with traditional offerings are angel hair garden salad, a combination of angel hair pasta, arugula, radicchio, and fresh basil, and tuna-pasta salad.

Community Events:

St. Michael's Casino Night

St. Michael's School will hold its second annual Casino Fun Night Saturday, May 22, in the school gymnasium. The cost is $20 per person and includes gambling for fun, live and silent auctions, a 50-50 drawing, and a variety of hot and cold foods continuously served throughout the evening. A cash bar is provided.

For ticket information, call 272-7925.

"While the proceeds enabled us to meet the needs of both our students and the members of our congregation, the event also served to bring the community together for a night of socialization in an casual but entertaining atmosphere," said Betty Ann Curry, co-chairwoman.

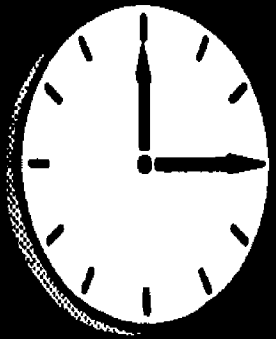

The evening can begin with the roll of the dice, the spin of the wheel or the deal of a card. Roulette, blackjack, craps and red dog games will be featured. With admission, each person receives $100 worth of play money that can be converted into chips at the tables. Additional play money also is available.

A dance floor will be set up for the enjoyment of all participants.

In addition, an ad journal will highlight citizens and local businesses that have made financial contributions or gift donations for the auctions. The cost of a one-line ad is $10; four lines is $35; a quarter page is $64; half-page is $130; and a full page, $250. For more information on the ad journal, call 272-6193.

Community organizations are invited to submit press releases concerning special events or anniversaries. While we will try to publish as many as possible, we cannot guarantee publication because of space limitations.

Hear our experts talk — Realtors

Jerry Izenberg always gets two paragraphs. If he doesn't own me by then, I probably won't finish his column. He started a column last September with these words from Walt Whitman, "There will come a time when nothing will be of more interest here in Brooklyn than authentic reminiscences of the past."

These words were written more than 100 years ago and I wonder what caused Whitman to feel as he did. Brooklyn was a vital, vibrant, bustling collection of diverse communities during his life and for long after he died. Still, most of us would concede that his prophesy is accurate. Why? What happened? What didn't happen?

My feeling is that Whitman was commenting on what he perceived to be a diminishing sense of community spirit. A community won't survive, let alone thrive, if a substantial part of that community isn't in some manner, way, shape or form committed to making it happen. Brooklyn, when it prospered, drew on the energy, enthusiasm, hopes and dreams of a large immigrant population. I suspect that Whitman watched as people labored long and hard, finally succeeded, then chose to leave Brooklyn. As more and more people considered Brooklyn a better place to be from, than to be, a large percentage of those who remained stayed only because the option to leave wasn't available to them. Once the spark that kindles a community's self-esteem is lost, it is difficult, if not impossible, to recapture it.

Perhaps this helps to explain why I'm excited about what's happening in Cranford. A central business district that had been grappling with a light blight and some badly decaying walks, has been nicely refurbished. The bricks, Victorian lamps and the clock at Eastman Plaza are visible aspects and help define the project. But that's not what the work is about.

The historian, John Gardner, wrote, "A nation is never finished. You can't build it and leave it standing as the pharaohs did the pyramids. It has to be built and rebuilt, recreated in each generation by believing, caring men and women. It is now our turn." Gardner wasn't talking about infrastructure; rather he was addressing a civilization's absolute need for spiritual renewal.

When Gardner says "our turn," he's speaking in terms of duty. This generation in Cranford did what had to be done. Critical needs were assessed. Plans were then developed and implemented to meet those needs. As the Streetscape began to role out, other changes occurred. Landlords were more willing to invest in renovations, and merchants became more concerned about their stores and facades.

Cranford has demonstrated that it has a vital, sharply defined sense of community. Because this is in place, the town will continue to attract people who want to be part of that community. Cranford has effectively positioned itself for the years ahead.

Jack Quinn of Monmouth County Distributors presents Kurt Petschow a plaque in recognition of his status as one of the top 10 dealers in the state.

Petschow qualifies as one of top 10 Sunoco dealers in New Jersey

Kurt Petschow of Cranford Sunoco was honored recently by Sun Oil Co. and Monmouth County Distributors as one of the top 10 dealers in the state in sales volume of tires, batteries and accessories. He received the award last month at the annual dealers meeting at Bally's Grand Hotel in Atlantic City.

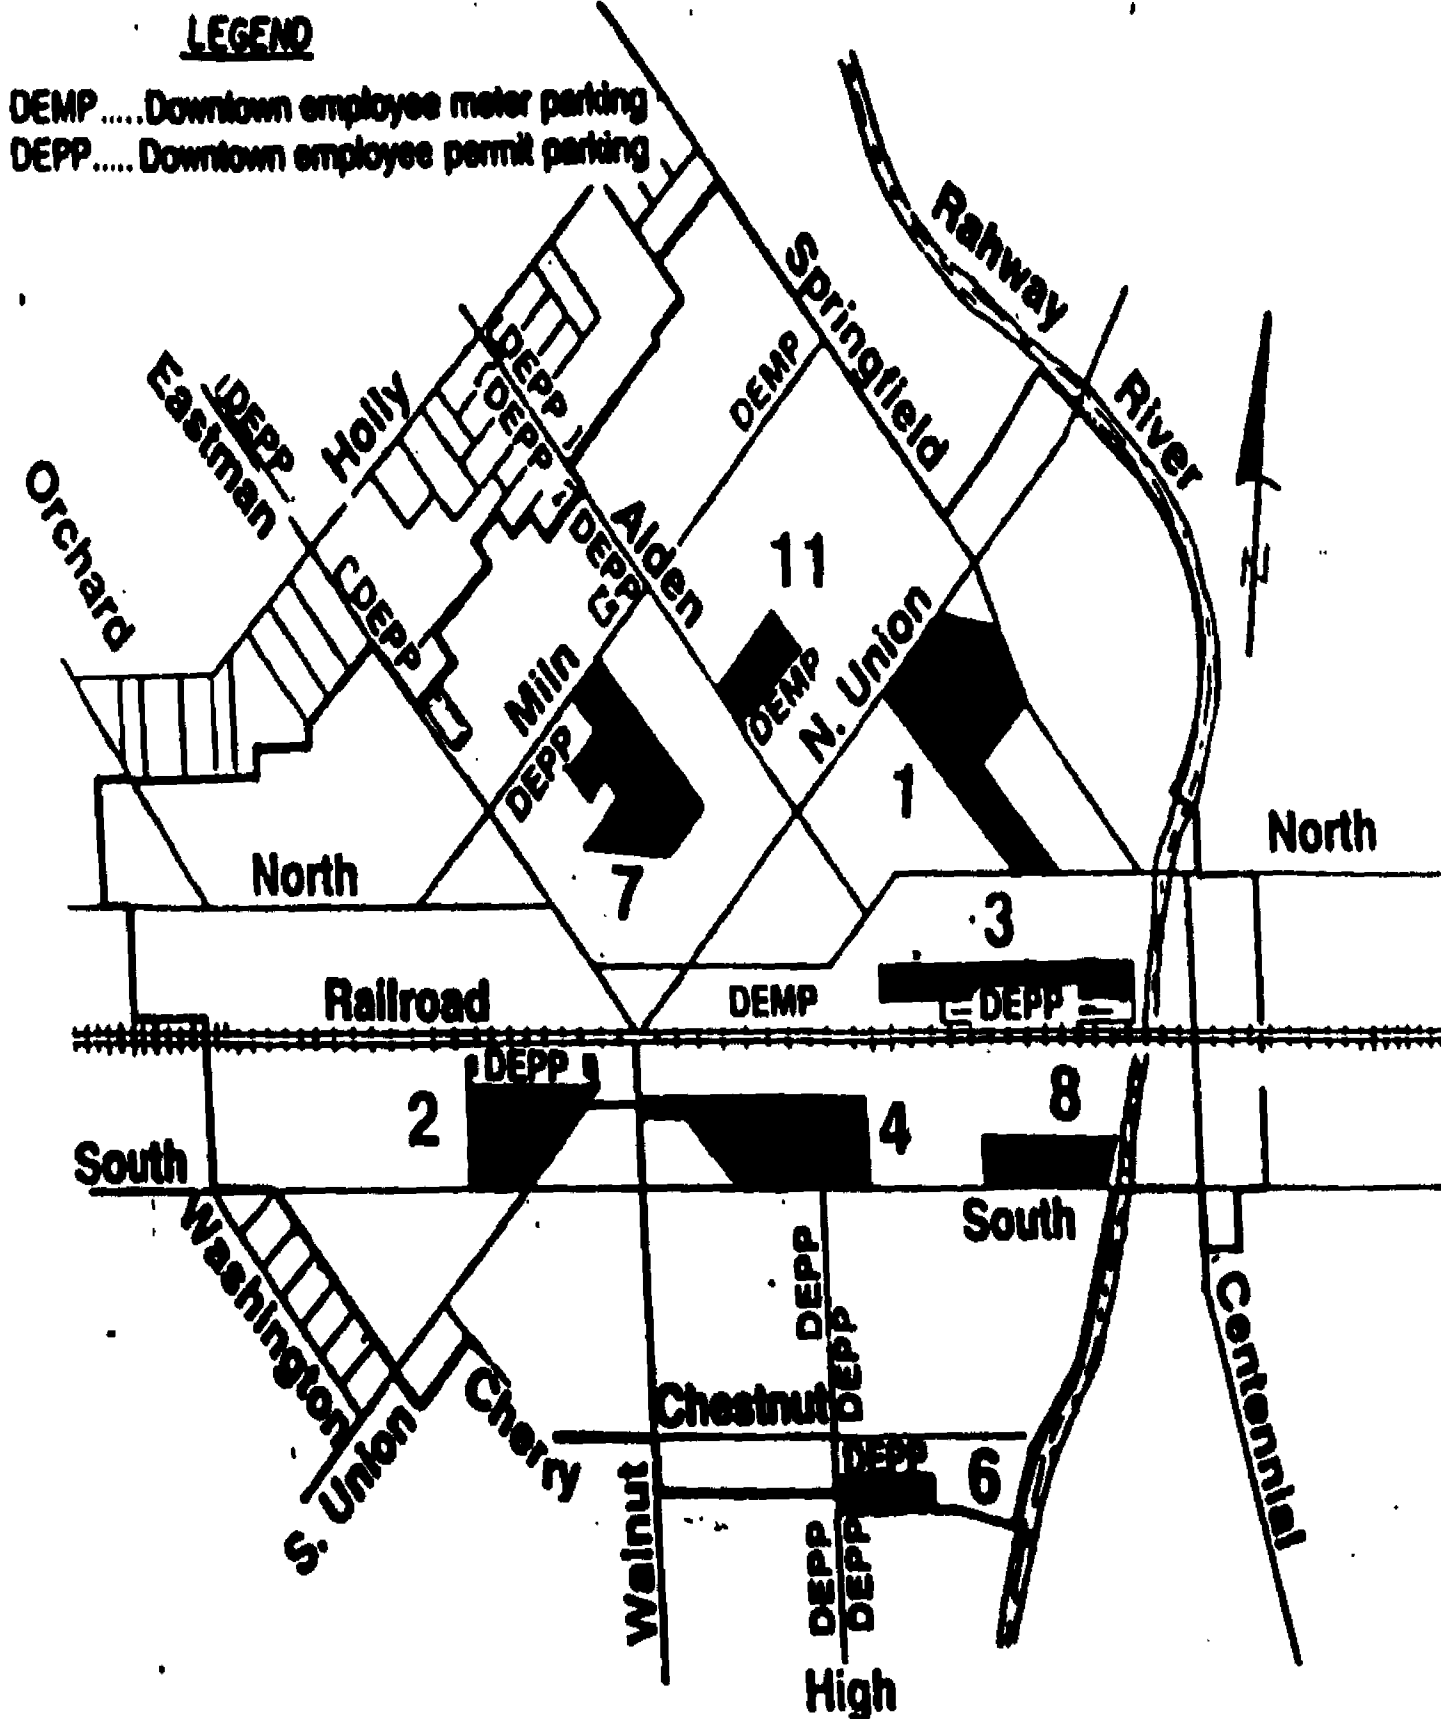

"In order to meet the demand of our customers for the original equipment tires, we have introduced the Firestone Tire line into our product mix," said Mr. Petschow. "A unique feature of this line will be our ability to offer our customers instant credit," he said.

Firestone offers customers a credit card program that will provide a $2,000 credit line to qualified buyers immediately.

The service station will continue to carry the full line of Kelly-Springfield tires, which it has sold for the past 21 years
