Briefs

Thrift shop sale starts Saturday

The Westfield Service League's Consignment Shop, located at 114 Elmer St. will hold the annual year-end clearance sale beginning Saturday.

The sale will run until the shop closes for the summer June 5. The thrift shop, at the same location, will have a half-price sale starting June 1 and culminating with bag day June 5.

Both shops are open 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Proceeds are donated to charities.

Tamaques playground

Tamaques School recently had playground equipment installed. The purchase was made possible by P.T.O. fund-raisers. Picnic tables soon will also become a part of the play area.

Eye, ear screening

Free eye and ear screenings will be given to adults and children Saturday in the Lions Eye-Ear mobile located at 52 Elm St. (Castle Bootery). Screenings will take place 10 a.m.-2 p.m. when audiogist Dr. Suzanne Often will be on hand to perform hearing tests.

Child marchers wanted for library

The Westfield Memorial Library's children's department invites boys and girls kindergarden-age and older to march with the librarians in Westfield's Memorial Day parade Monday, May 31.

Marchers may wear clown make-up, clown costumes, or carry clown props to announce this year's summer vacation reading club. Participants must be willing and able to walk the parade route. Registration is taking place at the library in the children's department.

Dog bites costly

Last year dog bites cost the U.S. Postal service $3.2 million in medical expenses, plus countless other dollars in employee replacement cost.

Now that the weather is warming up, Westfield Postmaster David DeFrancesco wants customers to know that dog bites are a serious problem for letter-carriers. According to the postmaster, the postal service routinely sues to recoup workers compensation costs. Moreover, letter carriers can sue individually for owners negligence resulting in their injuries.

Local residents also suffered because of the attack, since all the dogs were not impounded, the postal service stopped delivering mail to the block-long area where the incident occurred.

"Quite simply," said the postmaster, "accepting responsibility for your dog means restraining your pet when the letter-carrier makes a delivery. This means keeping your pet in the house with the doors securely shut, behind a strong fence, or on an adequate leash. As an added prevention, keep dogs away from the door or where the mail gets delivered, even if it means keeping the dog in a separate room."

Welcome Wagon meets Monday

The Welcome Wagon Club of Westfield is planning a new member coffee Monday at 8 p.m. All area women are invited to attend this informational meeting to learn about the club, its organization, and activities for women and their families.

The purpose of the club is to extend a welcome to all. Those eligible are women who have resided in the area for less than two years, experienced a change in lifestyle such as the birth or adoption of a child, a move within the community, or occasion to seek out new friends and activities.

Those interested in attending may call the hostess at 654-3872 for details.

Zoners wary of store sign variances

They want to keep downtown ambiance

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

One of the directors of the Westfield Downtown Committee (WDC) was watching over the Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting Monday, criticizing two applications and asking board members to deny both.

The separate applications concerned signs: one for interior neon signs at Super X store on South Avenue; the other, for a free-standing sign at the strip mall facing Drug Fair on North Avenue.

Ray Knipple objected to both applications based on the fact that the WDC's charge is "to improve the city we have, not to allow it to deteriorate."

John Verv, the builder of the Super X store, asked for a variance to permit interior neon signs. Neon signs are not permitted anywhere in town.

"Even though the signs are visible from the outside they are not there to attract business, but rather to create an ambiance that encourages consumers to buy," he said.

The signs, he said, were merely there to direct people within the store.

Mr. Knipple voiced his concern with the application.

"A variance to permit neon signs would be a negative factor that would ultimately work against the activities that we are trying to bring forward," he said.

Board President Mary Herberich led the vote against the application.

"We don't need neon to direct us, you can accomplish the same purpose without using neon."

The board voted unanimously to deny the application.

In the second case, Jonathan Shaw, owner of Boston Chicken on North Avenue in the Drug Fair mall, asked permission to construct a free-standing sign bigger than permitted by ordinance. The proposed sign measured 5 feet 6 inches by 7 feet and would list all five tenants in the mall, which is perpendicular to the street.

While Ms. Herberich said there was some sense in doing this, she objected to deciding

Markets shorten store hours

By CHERYL HEHL
THE RECORD

Major supermarket chain representatives are willing to offer advice to those who have questions about striking store hours, crossing picket lines, and fully stocked shelves.

As the 13-day-old strike involving the Pathmark, ShopRite, Foodtown and Grand Union supermarket chains expanded this week to include 58 more stores, the Supermarket General vice president of public affairs offered suggestions for wary consumers.

"I know it is uncomfortable for customers, but there are always two sides to every story," said Larry Salinas, advising those who usually shop in Pathmark that "the shelves are fully stocked, and check-outs are manned by non-union temporary workers.

"I advise customers to be quiet when passing through picket lines, don't listen to anyone and just walk into the store," suggested Mr. Salinas, also saying that due to a restraining order, only four picketers are allowed at any entrance.

According to Mr. Salinas, supermarket suppliers and vendors will cross picket lines.

Pathmark in Garwood, normally open 24 hours, is now open 8 a.m.-9 p.m. and Sundays 8 a.m.-6 p.m.

Foodtown on Elm Street in Westfield has reduced hours to 9 a.m.-8 p.m. and is fully stocked said a manager yesterday.

ShopRite in Clark, normally open from 7 a.m.-midnight, has reduced hours to 8 a.m.-10 p.m. According to a representative answering the telephone Tuesday, the supermarket is completely stocked.

Watchung ShopRite in Blue Star Shopping Center has reduced hours from 8 a.m.- 9 p.m. and is also having no problem keeping shelves stocked.

Foodtown in Roselle is not on strike "yet," said a manager answering the phone yesterday, and is open 8 a.m.-10 p.m.

Talks continued this week for striking union grocery workers and the four major supermarket chains at the request of a federal mediator. Health care coverage and costs are at the center of the dispute.

Club '43: not over the hill, on it

By ANNIE ALPERT
THE RECORD

For some people, 1943 was a really good year.

Club '43, a baseball team of Westfield women born in that sparkling year, will be showing their spunk Sunday at Memorial Field when they play a team of "younger people."

"We'll get creamed," said team President Tina Lesher, a journalism professor at William Paterson college.

It's not exactly A League of Their Own, but the 21 members of Club '43 have longevity on their side. The group first met in 1983, Ms. Lesher said, when seven friends who were all turning 40 commiserated at lunch.

"We thought, 'Let's do something fun,' and we got some other people involved and had the first Salad Bowl game," she said.

Team members being what they are — successful, busy women — don't play together that often.

"We've had maybe five games in 10 years," Ms. Lesher said. "Practices are chancy too. We decided not to hold a practice for this game, in fact, because we were afraid we'd all get hurt before the big game."

This group of women has changed a lot over the years.

"We represent many professions," Ms. Lesher said. "Ten years ago, we were all doing different things. Today we have a professor, a therapist, a nurse, a broker, a principal, a doctor — we're highly educated as a group."

The team will be wearing new shirts — a big "43" on the back and the symbol for estrogen on the front. Linnea Rhodes, ex-director of the Westfield Day Care Center and starting pitcher for the original game, will take the mound again. Anyone still standing after the game will meet at the home of original member Diana McGonigle for some mutual congratulations and wound-licking.

Senior center costs covered?

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

All of the eight members of the Town Council present at the May 11 meeting had only positive remarks about the governing body's first step towards the creation of a second senior citizens project.

"This is a most ingenious way of building an asset for the town," said Councilman Anthony LaPorta after members voted unanimously to approve the resolution.

Councilman Gary Jenkins, who served on the senior citizen center development committee, called the town's relationship with the proposed developer a "win-win situation."

Budget advisers named

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

Saying he is unhappy with the town's budget process, Councilman Anthony LaPorta has created a citizens budget committee and will ask the Town Council to direct the town administrator to meet with the committee to explain the development of the town's $23 million budget.

"Basically, the Town Council did a good job at discussing and debating the capital budget portion of the municipal budget," he said Monday. "The rest of the budget, which measures almost $22 million, they did a very inadequate job, instead just rubber-stamping what they were sent by the town

Should computers close home economics doors?

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

The Westfield Board of Education voted unanimously to approve the allocation of almost $120,000 to purchase equipment for computer labs in its two intermediate schools, but were divided when pushed by Superintendent Mark Smith to locate those labs in home economic rooms.

The placement of those labs in the home economics rooms would end speculation that home economics courses might be reintroduced into the curriculum. The board voted three years ago to cut the home economics program at a cost savings of almost $160,000.

According to Dr. Smith, at the time of the board's decision, it stipulated the classrooms could not be changed or dismantled without the issue being revisited. The board will take up the matter again at its June 1 meeting.

"I wish that the realities of our financial resources were such that we could provide everything," said Dr. Smith. "But they aren't. It is time now to move ahead and not let those rooms sit there vacant because it is easier not to make this tough decision."

Several of the board members agreed that the rooms should be dismantled.

"I'm prepared to vote to proceed with using the classrooms for a computer lab while regretfully putting a period to the offering of home economics," said board

New, simpler recycle rules

Residents in Westfield no longer have to separate and sort their recyclables into different bins. The Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA)/Advanced Recycling Technology Systems Inc. (ARTS) regional curbside recycling program has begun a new co-mingled collection plan.

Aluminum, steel/tin, glass and plastic can be in one container, instead of two or three separate containers. Newspapers still must be bundled separately.

The program will also begin collecting household batteries at curbside. After July 1, the collection of this material will become a state law for every New Jersey municipality. Batteries should be placed in a clear plastic bag next to the other recyclables.

Council divides land at neighbor's request

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

The Town Council voted May 11 to subdivide town-owned land on Dunham Avenue, responding to a request from neighboring residents.

The council voted 7-1 to make the change, with an objection from Councilman Jim Hely.

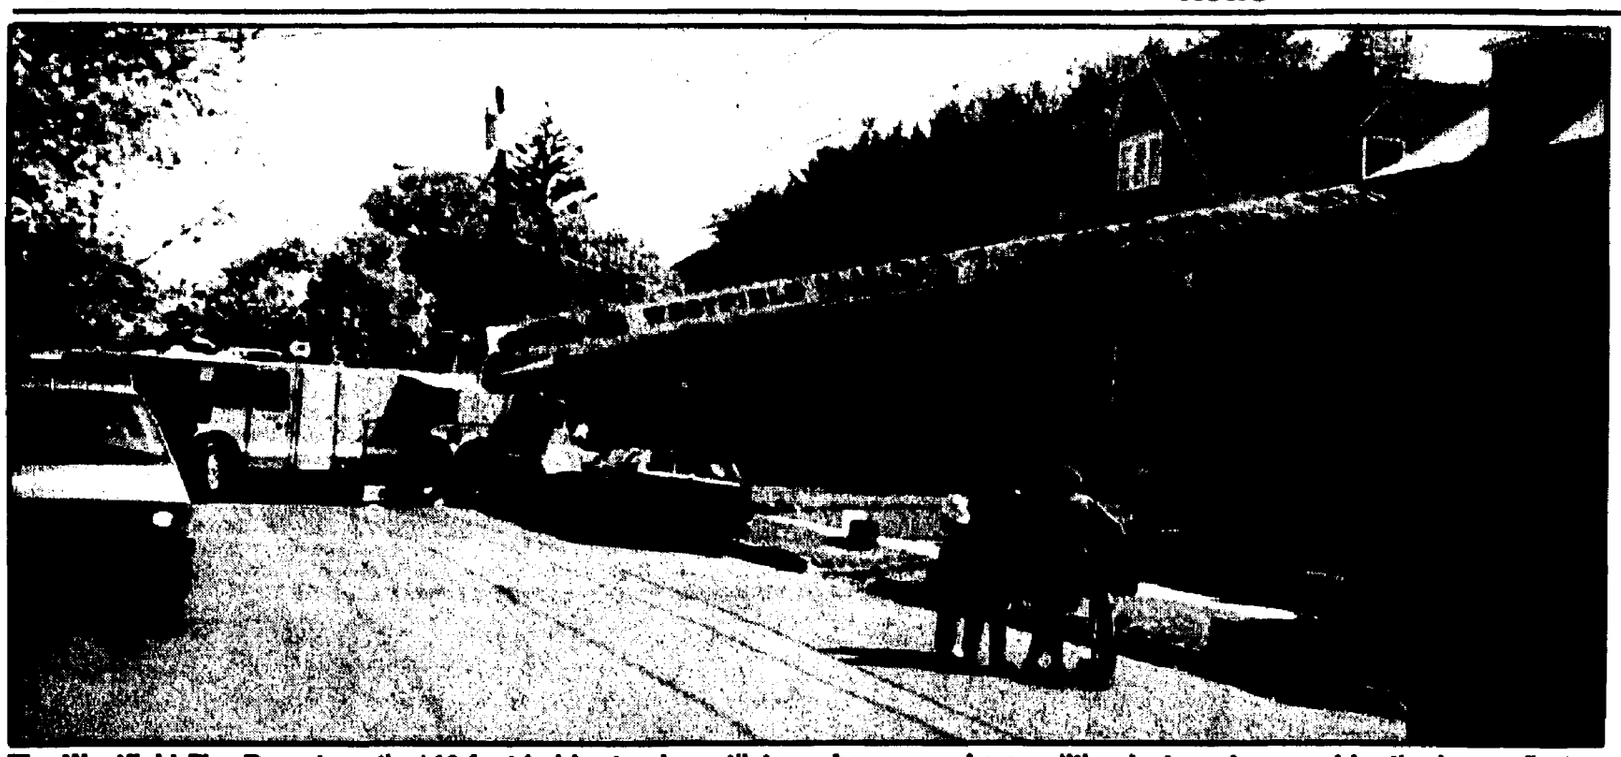

"It's easy to get 100 percent approval of our motions when we are giving away free land," said Mr. Hely. "This is not in the best interest of the town. A significant portion of this land will remain undevelopable now. This is a potential that we as town fathers should not be giving up."

The land in question is a 4-acre lot fronting on Dunham Avenue, Grove Street, Clifton Street and Waite Place that includes more than 2 acres of wetlands. Years ago, the property was mentioned as a potential site for affordable housing, as Westfield strived to fulfill its Mount Laurel housing obligation.

"We have 100 percent consensus that the plan to subdivide this land into wetlands and three developable sites is in the best interest of the townspeople and the neighborhood, which wants to preserve the character of Westfield," said Councilman Gary Jenkins, a member of the Building and Town Property Committee.

With approval of the resolution,

The Westfield Fire Department's 110-foot ladder truck ventilates a heavy smoke condition last week caused by the house fire on First Street.

Fire Friday dislodges First Street residents

Westfield Fire Department utilized its 110-foot ladder truck Friday to ventilate the heavy smoke condition caused by a house fire at 545 First St.

There was extensive damage to the second floor of the one-family dwelling, but all occupants of the house were able to get out of the building due to the quick thinking of the owner's daughter who alerted the rest of the family. When the fire department arrived, there was fire coming from the rear windows and a heavy smoke column billowing out the second and third floor windows.

Fire suppression was quickly carried out due to the fast response and the ability of the department to gain access to the upper stories of the home with the ladder truck.

Damage to the house caused it to be uninhabitable. The Westfield Red Cross was called to the scene by the Fire Department to offer assistance to the home owners for temporary relocation.

Cause of the fire as determined by a preliminary investigation was an electrical short. The Fire Prevention Bureau will continue the investigation.

the case until the Town Council could address the issue through an ordinance.

"There are a number of similar sites in town, and if we give this one, others will be in here pretty fast. I'd feel happier about this if there were rules governing these signs," she said, adding she will ask the council to address the issue.

"I understand your concern with maybe having an avalanche of applications," said Mr. Shaw. "But we have a hardship here and to penalize us until the council and Planning Board move forward is an undue burden."

Mr. Shaw explained the stores are not visible from North Avenue, and that without a sign, potential customers would not be drawn into the complex.

"Again I am concerned," said Mr. Knipple. "If five tenants need a sign 7 feet tall, then a similar building on Central Avenue with 14 tenants will need a totem pole to list them all."

The board decided to hold its decision until next month, looking for input from the council members.

In an unrelated matter, the board decided to delay hearing the case of Dr. Sean Fenton of Mountain Avenue who wishes to convert a two-family dwelling into an office building after attorneys representing both the applicant and the board debated whether the new application was substantially different from a 1982 application which was denied. If the new application is the same, said board attorney Robert Cockren, then the board cannot hear the case.

"In 1982, a use variance was denied for a two-story office building," said Mr. Cockren, "and today you're here with the same use."

But James Flynn, the attorney representing Dr. Fenton, argued the application is not the same because the plans for the building include a different size, different egress, and different architectural plans. In addition, he said, because the board denied that application, a 14-unit condominium was built, changing the neighborhood environment.

"The facts are different...and that's what you need to listen to. The facts will make or break the case," he said.

Whether or not the "footprint" of the building is different, said board member James Kefalouitis, the application asks for a use variance to permit an office building, and the office building application was denied before.

The board will allow Mr. Flynn the opportunity to prepare a formal brief on the subject and submit it at next month's meeting.

Car owners report vandalism, thefts

Police log

May 16

Three Elm Street residents reported damage to their cars in separate incidents during the day. Susan Pass and Ronald Balner reported their windows broken while the cars were parked at the train station. Denise Schwepfer reported her JVC stereo stolen from her car, and damaged to the door lock while parked outside her residence.

May 15

Arthur Gobrain of First Street reported his car phone stolen from his car parked at his residence sometime during the night. Entry was gained by smashing the driver's side window.

Patricia Tempid of Trinity Place reported her driver's side window broken sometime during the night. Entry was not gained.

May 13

The owners of Linderman Buick on North Avenue reported the theft of hub caps to several new and used cars parked on their lot. Police are still investigating.

May 12

Robert Massey of Roselle Park was arrested and charged with driving on the revoked list after police stopped him for other motor vehicle violations while at the intersection of Springfield Avenue and Woodbrooke Circle. He was released on $775 bail.

May 11

Lord & Taylor security arrested two women for shoplifting in separate incidents. At noon, Audrey Garber of Cranford was charged by Westfield police and released on her own recognizance. Ann Paleologes of Elizabeth was charged and released on $275 bail.

Senior center costs covered?

"The town will supply the land, the developers will incur the cost of building, the building will support itself through its rent. This project will be built free of taxpayers money," said Mr. Jenkins.

Under the proposal the town will authorize the use of town-owned land and the developer will oversee the funding, design and building of it.

According to Mr. Jenkins, the building of a second senior citizen center was included in the town's settlement in 1992 with state officials over the Mt. Laurel decision requiring the town to build more affordable housing units.

Earlier in the year, the Town Council hired the New York Partnership to provide technical assistance in finding a development firm that would work under the constraints of the town's wishes, said Mr. Jenkins — namely that the town would provide the land, but nothing more.

The selected developer, Forest City-Ratner of Ohio, has a long history of involvement in mixed use housing, having also worked with a variety of populations and incomes, said Mr. Jenkins.

"They also had the strongest financial backing and deepest pockets," said Mr. Jenkins. "They will spend almost $500,000 doing preliminary engineering work, and if the project is a no-go, they will take the loss."

While residents will have input into the design of both the site plan and building, the developer will be responsible for everything else.

According to Mr. Jenkins, the project will be funded by selling federal tax credits, which the developer will also administer. Although the federal tax credit program is not law yet, said Mr. Jenkins, industry insiders and politicians say it is inevitable because of the federal government's desire to spark the economy.

"They feel that it is only a matter of time until the government will pass this law," said Mr. Jenkins.

The cost of the project is estimated at $10 million and, Mr. Jenkins said, sell tax credits will fund almost 50 percent. Other funding sources include using the existing reserves from the first senior citizens center, and various mortgage and construction loans which would be paid off through rental fees on the units.

"The developer wishes to build a showcase model in Westfield that he can show off to other municipalities, and gain business recognition for it," said Mr. Jenkins. They looked to Westfield, said Mr. Jenkins, because its first complex is currently ranked No. 1 in the state in terms of management and conditions.

Westfield Cub Scouts from Den 6, Pack 79 live it up in cell at Kenilworth police headquarters.

Kenilworth cops rescue Scouts

By CHERYL HEIN
THE RECORD

Kenilworth police "locked up" seven Westfield Cub Scouts last week.

Well, not really. In fact, if it were not for the Kenilworth Police Department, Westfield Cub Scout Troop 79, Den 6 would still be wondering how they were going to earn their Bear badges by the end of this month.

It all started when den mothers Helen Leong and Laura Kremer found out the Westfield Police Department was under renovation and was not able to help the 9-year-olds in their pursuit of the coveted safety badge.

Meanwhile, Cub Scout Justin Bellotti bemoaned the tragedy to his dad, who decided to see if Kenilworth would help out.

Vinny Bellotti, who operates a business in Kenilworth, had no problem securing the help of borough police who willingly gave almost three hours of their time last Wednesday to help the Cubs earn their badge.

The seven Cub Scouts, led by Kenilworth's finest, Capt. Donald Tisch and Detective Richard Dolph, found out all the ins and outs of how a police station operates. Included in the learning experience was the art of fingerprinting, how a breathalizer test for drunk drivers operates, how to make a "wanted" poster, and a close examination of the guns used by police.

But what really impressed the nine year old scout troop was seeing what it was really like to be behind bars, which borough police made sure the scouts saw firsthand.

After doughnuts and soda, a question and answer period took place with scouts answering public safety questions posed by the two police officers to test their knowledge. Then the youngsters left.

However, the venture has had some lasting effects.

According to Mr. Bellotti, Justin requested a return trip to the Kenilworth police department because he had not seen a "shoot out," and everyday since has asked, "When can we go back."

The den includes Justin Bellotti, Brian Clancy, Robert Daurio, Danny Kremer, Alex Leong, Bryan Cordes and Matt Leitz.

Subdivision

The subdivision application goes forward to the Planning Board for consideration. The application proposes dividing the tract with a 3.44-acre northern section near Grove Street and a 1.4-acre section on the southern end near Clifton Street. The town would retain control of the 2.7-acre tract of wetlands in the center.

administrator."

Mr. LaPorta has asked four residents with a variety of experience in both public and private industry to review the budget and come back with recommendations for cost containment measures. They are Peter Gould, Jeff Scheininger, James Foerst and Julie Tarr.

"They are a bipartisan group of people comprised of business owners and residents with financial savvy and government experience," said Mr. LaPorta.

Mr. LaPorta's criticism of the town budget forced him to vote against its adoption at the May 11 council meeting. He objects to the way the town buys insurance.

"The way this town buys insurance is not the most efficient or competitive, and it is costing the taxpayers a lot of money," he said.

Besides salaries for employees, insurance is the second largest budget appropriation, he said.

Mr. LaPorta also objects to longevity raises, raises given to employees who stay with the town more than five years above and beyond their customary raises.

"We have some employees, who because they have been here for a number of years, are receiving 14 percent raises," he said, pointing to Town Administrator John Malloy as an example. "That's just unheard of today."

"I'm in favor of bonuses that are based on productivity. That's a good investment. But I'm against paying a portion of someone's salary, just because they didn't leave," he said.

According to Mr. LaPorta, the council spent very little time discussing the operations portion of the budget, instead allocating its time in determining capital improvement projects. The result, he said, was that the town council "rubber-stamped what the town administrator sent us without trying to cut it down at all."

member Melba Nixon. "We need to move forward with the more pressing need of including technology in our curriculum."

But many of the parents in the audience objected.

"There is not a parent in Westfield who would not support a computer program, but it shouldn't be an either-or situation," said Catherine Marchant of Dorian Road.

Dr. Smith explained the choice was not between computer technology or home economics, but the question was whether the board had any inclination to return home economics to the curriculum, and if not, would they vote to allow that room to be used to locate the computer labs. It was his recommendation to strike home economics from the curriculum forever.

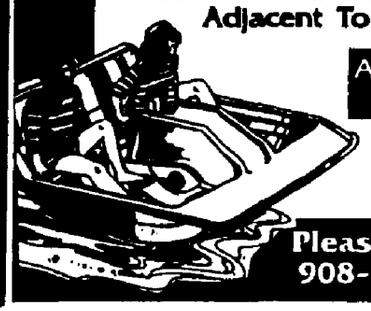

New board members, including Eileen Satkin and William Sweeney, asked the motion be tabled so they could review the discussions of two years ago when the original decision to kill the home economics program was voted on.

The motion was approved with board President Susan Pepper, Susan Jacobson, and Michael Fox voting against the postponement.

Hits & misses

Mixed blessings of perennial and annual varieties bloom like flowers — and pollen

HIT - Fanwood has managed to put together a $6,150 Small Business Administration loan and $2,000 of local taxpayer funds to plant triple the number of trees it normally does each year in the downtown and rail station area. Forty-one pear and dogwood trees were added to the townscape.

MISS - Too many other towns did a lot less ranging down to nil in this area of community improvement that is relatively inexpensive, yet literally a daily morale booster and town enhancement.

HIT - The township committee and the board of education in Cranford have signed a formal agreement by which they will strive to share services and goods in the name of economy and their common taxpaying constituency. The scope of the pact may seem a bit halting, but it's a vitally important and positive first step.

MISS - Too many other towns have yet to formalize joint purchasing of goods and services with school boards, or other towns and schools in their region. Town and school board treasurers should collaborate on an annual report to the taxpayers on such efficiencies to show taxpayers how they have been spared a few bucks.

HIT - High school senior proms are creating a symbolic high point of excitement and rite of social passage for students on the threshold of their adult lives. The music, the cars, the locations and the prices are alien to certain older prom veterans, but at least the spirit of the milestone occasion lives on in familiar form. A tip of the hat, too, to all those tireless and devoted parents, faculty and administrators who work to offer prom goers a safe, post-prom party environment as an alternate to heading to the shore, mountains or city.

MISS - The wrenching concern that a few of the prom goers will overdo it and expose themselves to physical or legal harm. Cranford High School felt it necessary to issue a public statement setting forth rules and procedures for prom day and night.

HIT - The care being taken by the Kenilworth, Garwood and Westfield planning boards in reviewing traffic impacts of proposed major new supermarkets on North Avenue astride the Westfield-Garwood border and on Market Street (of all places) in Kenilworth.

MISS - The temptation of ratable-starved local governments to underrate long-term problems embedded in such proposals.

Letters to the editor

Y wins gratitude of Rec Commission

To the Record:

The Westfield Recreation Commission would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the Westfield Y executive director, Stan Kaslausky, assistant director, Lisa Christian, and teen director, Glen MacAfee, for their cooperation and assistance with temporarily hosting the commission's Teen Center during the construction phases to the municipal building.

The Teen Center, which opened in September 1990 and operates out of what was once known as the Watenuk Room of town hall, was the result of many community organizations combining efforts for the same common goal — to provide a safe, supervised, social gathering facility for high school teen-agers. During the first year and a half of operation, the average participation at the center equalled 100 teens. With such a positive influx of teens it was the objective of the commission to expedite options in order not to allow this program to wane during the construction renovation.

On Friday, March 6, the Y officially opened its doors to the Recreation Commission and joined together to strive to offer substance-free programs. Without the assistance and cooperation of the Westfield Y's professional staff, this program may have been forced into a hiatus.

Friday, April 30, marked the return of the Recreation Commission Teen Center to the municipal building for approximately 65 high school teens. Although it will take several weeks to gain momentum, a safe, supervised social alternative is available due to the cooperation and assistance of our friendship with the Y.

The teen center is open Friday evenings from 8-11 p.m. For information on this substance-free alternative, please contact the Recreation Commission at 789-4080.

Inquiry on early Hessians

To The Record:

I am currently researching Hessians, who arrived in New Jersey between 1850 and 1880. I am planning to write a book about the lives of these immigrants. To help me in this search, I am asking descendants of these immigrants for photocopies of letters, diaries, newspaper clippings, official documents and other materials.

Fouratte memorial fund

To The Record:

Friends of the late Melissa Fouratte, former teacher of ancient and medieval history at Edison Intermediate School, have begun a memorial fund in her honor. Melissa Fouratte died June 13, 1992. She had been retired for 10 years after having taught for more than 40 years in Westfield.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund, which will buy history books and a plaque with Melissa's name for the library at Edison, please send checks made out to Fouratte Memorial/Lynn Ziobro and send it to me at Roosvelt Intermediate School.

Benign up-line slows pollution

By DAVID F. MOORE
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
New Jersey Conservation Foundation

Over the last few years, a wise change in basic environmental protection policy has been taking place, both in this state we're in and in Washington. The idea is to cut use of toxics by substituting more benign substances.

The shift away from old end-of-the pipe pollution abatement is due in part to the realization that we can't catch up. For example, as soon as catalytic converters were installed on cars, the number of cars grew so much that the load of junk in the air didn't diminish.

The new approach has been dubbed pollution prevention. And it make sense. A good example is the lead in gasoline. While it was an effective way to make gas burn more efficiently, exhaust fallout was loading the air and land with lead. Water draining from highways was getting quite toxic. The way to solve the problem was to take the lead out.

Now, even with more cars, there won't be more lead, because it's not in the fuel anymore. New gasoline formulations, as well as improved auto design, have made up the efficiency difference.

It is none too early, for science now realizes that subtle learning disabilities are associated with tiny amounts of lead in children's nervous systems. This is in addition to the well-known brain damage from larger doses of lead.

The N.J. Department of Environmental Protection and Energy has just come out with some regulations to put aspects of its pollution prevention program into effect. Like the lead answer, one of the central themes is to eliminate problems by shifting to nontoxic materials.

Some of the businesses affected by the new regulations are complaining that closed-loop recycling should be the answer. This is a technology in which nasty chemicals are recirculated within a manufacturing process, and thus do not enter the environment.

Maybe in some instances that's a good idea, but escape of minute amounts of toxics is inevitable. So are accidents; remember Bhopal? Since transport of toxic materials to be workplace is needed at the beginning, even if recycling is possible, the threat of leakage or accident is obvious. Better the lead solution if it is at all possible.

There is yet another side to the story, the fact that we often don't know enough to make decisions. For example, while we know dioxin is a dangerous carcinogen, we are just on the edge of learning how truly dangerous it and its 75 subspecies can be.

Listed among dioxin's low-level effects are damage to the immune system, reproductive functions and learning functions. We may have some answers soon; scientists at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are researching dioxin now.

Scientists know that we will never be able to assess all the 70,000-plus chemicals now in use; There are just too many. And just think how many combinations of chemicals of unknown synergy can exist in our environment.

But the realistic answer lies not in spending vast amounts of money and time in such research. When we know enough to document serious effects, we must find substitutes to have fewer repercussions.

Assemblyman Bagger assails governor's deceptive bonding

By RICHARD H. BAGGER
ASSEMBLYMAN

Guest essay

Bond news rarely leaves the financial pages of the newspaper. But during the past month, bond underwriters, financial consultants and bond deals have been front and editorial page news.

Journalists have questioned the web woven between bond underwriters, financial consultants and the Florio Administration, wondering whether campaign contributions by the underwriters or use of the "politically correct" financial consultants resulted in lucrative contracts with the State.

None of this speculation need occur if legislation I am sponsoring (Assembly Bills 1199 and 2276) are enacted.

A-1199, which I introduced in March of 1992, would create the New Jersey Review Board, which would authorize and oversee the issuance of state debt.

The reason for this bill is simple: in the past four years we have watched the Florio Administration rely more and more on financial gimmicks to pay the state's bills. Nothing has been sacred; even the state's highways were for sale.

But the gimmick of choice has been to float bonds to pay for operating expenses. Make no mistake about this. Selling bonds is simply borrowing money; this Administration has sold a lot of bonds and, thus, borrowed a lot of money.

This practice violates a fundamental principle of fiscal responsibility: that long-term debt, in other words borrowed money, should never, never be used to pay operating expenses. Yet this is exactly what state government did in 1991 and what many municipal governments have been forced by the state to do since then.

Over the past 10 years, New Jersey's annual debt service has more than doubled, from $185 million to well over $400 million. Last year alone, the Administration agreed to 85 bond issues totalling $6.5 billion. This now confers upon New Jersey the dubious distinction of having the second highest state debt among the most densely populated states. In fact, New Jersey's debt service is now double the national average.

Consider just one fiscally irresponsible deal. In 1991, the State "sold" part of I-95 to the Turnpike Authority. The Turnpike Authority issued bonds to purchase the road, and then raised tolls to pay for the bonds. The bottom line? In order to pay operating expenses, the State sold the Turnpike a highway, and the taxpayers were stuck with expensive debt and higher tolls to pay off 15 years debt service for a single year's operating budget.

But this is only part of the story. Lost amid the clutter of state government was a particularly irresponsible piece of legislation devised by the Florio Administration. Even though the non-partisan staff recommended against it, the Fiscal Year Adjustment Bond Act was enacted in 1991.

The justification for this measure was to allow local governments to change their budget year to coincide with the state's budget year. (Many municipalities run on a calendar fiscal year, while the State operates on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year.) In order to do this, however, municipal governments had to somehow find the money to operate during the six months of transition from the calendar year to the state budget year. The answer chosen by the Administration was to require municipalities to sell bonds to cover their operating expenses.

The result was that many towns and cities across New Jersey racked up needless debt. The only people who profited were the bond underwriters, consultants and lawyers. Assembly Bill 2278 would end this irresponsible practice by prohibiting municipalities from borrowing any further money under the Fiscal Year Adjustment Bond Act.

I expect these two measures designed to reform state and local borrowing to be acted upon during the coming months. A-1199 has passed the Assembly and awaits a vote in the Senate. A-2278 awaits consideration by the Assembly.

The bond industry may not like these bills, but the taxpayers of New Jersey will, as we reduce the debt that they and their children will have to pay in the years to come.

College Woman's Club awards seven grants and scholarships

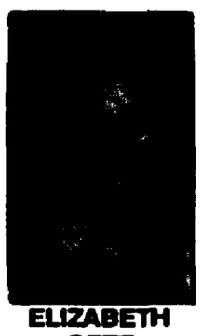

ALYSON LUCK

MICHELLE MARAFFI

NAJAT IBRAHIM

ELIZABETH GETZ

HEATHER PUSICH

SOO YUN CHUN

LANNI HARRIS

The College Woman's Club of Westfield has awarded two four-year scholarships and five freshman grants totaling $12,600 to seven members of the 1993 Westfield High School graduating class. The presentations at the annual meeting and scholarship dinner Tuesday, May 11, at Echo Lake Country Club marked the club's 76th year of fund-raising for scholarships. Recipients of the awards were selected on the basis of academic achievement, character, leadership and financial need.

Four-year College Woman's Club scholarships were awarded to Soo Yon Chun and Michelle Maraffi. Freshman grants were awarded to Elizabeth Getz and Heather Pusich. Lanni Harris received the Walter Campbell Memorial Grant.

The Katharine Heywood Jaruzelski Memorial Grant was awarded to Najat Ibrahim and Allyson Luck was the recipient of the Merck Community Relations Award.

Soo Yun Chun, daughter of Yong Sung and Young Joo Chun, will attend Cornell University. Soo Yun has maintained distinguished honor roll status throughout her high school career. She is a Rutgers University Presidential Scholar and won awards in the National Latin exam. She is the first violinist and concertmaster for the New Jersey Youth Symphony as well as playing in several other musical groups.

Michele Maraffi, daughter of Lewis and Jeannette Maraffi, will attend Swarthmore College, where she will pursue a bachelor of arts degree. She is a Garden State Scholar and Student of the Month. In addition to being a chorale member and associate concertmaster of Westfield High School Symphonic Orchestra, she has sung with many state and local groups, including the All State Chorus.

Elizabeth Getz, daughter of Albert and Janet Getz, will enroll at Middlebury College, where she plans to obtain a bachelor's degree with a concentration in language. She is an Edward S. Bloustein Distinguished Scholar and a Garden State Scholar as well as president of the French Honor Society. Outside of school, she is active in her church as a peer minister.

Heather Pusich, daughter of Michael and Ruth Ann Pusich, will attend the College of William and Mary pursuing a degree in education. She is a Garden State Scholar and a member of the National Honor Society and Spanish National Honor Society. At the varsity level, Heather has participated in field hockey and winter track as captain of both this year. She continues to pursue her interest in the piano and flute as well.

Lanni Harris will attend Wisconsin University at Madison pursuing a bachelor of science degree. She is the daughter of Michael and Judith Harris. She is a member of the National Honor Society and French Honor Society and served as president of the Environmental Club this year.

Najat Ibrahim, daughter of Mohamed and Barbara Ibrahim, who will attend Rutgers University as a science major. Najat belongs to the National honor Soicety, the French Honor Society and is a Garden State Scholar. An active member of Hi's Eye, the school newspaper, she served as opinion page editor this year.

Allyson Luck, daughter of Raymond and Kathleen Luck, plans to pursue her interest in biology and medicine at the University of Notre Dame. She is an Edward J. Bloustein Distinguished Scholar, a member of the National Honor Society and Student of the Month. Outside of school, Allyson is an active volunteer at Children's Specialized Hospital.

The College Woman's Club has awarded 77 scholarships and 167 freshman grants to graduating seniors. Funds for these awards come from membership dues, interest on investments, donations to the memorial and scholarship funds and proceeds of fund-raising projects.

Serving on this year's scholarship committee were Margaret Thompson, Bebbins Yudes, Kris Luka, Jane Orto, Jill Sitcer, Judy Gardiner and Katherine Dulan.

Army to camp at Miller-Cory

The Miller-Cory House Museum, 614 Mountain Ave.; Westfield, will feature 18th century army camp life during Sunday's open house 2-5 p.m. The last tour will begin at 4:30.

The Hallada family of Westfield, will explain life during the American Revolution when families often traveled with the soldiers. The various uniforms will be discussed as well as the role of women in the Revolutionary War army.

Open hearth cooking will take place in the Frazee building where Donna Hoel and Mary Lynn Meissner will use recipes and techniques of the period.

Costumed docents will guide visitors through the 1740 farmhouse, originally part of a 100-acre farm purchased by Samuel Miller. The Cory family owned the house from 1784 until the early 1900s. Both families can be traced to Long Island.

The gift shop contains a selection of books on the Revolutionary War period plus maps, crafts, and a cutout model of the Miller-Cory House.

The museum is operated by volunteers. Member are offered varied opportunities such as participating in a school outreach program. For more information call 232-1776.

Dressing for proms isn't easy

By CHERYL HEHL
THE RECORD

Prom time is upon us once again. Soon limousines bearing elegantly dressed teens will head out to the grandest of hotels for an evening to remember. Who could forget that night of nights. Not me, that's for sure.

My life seems to be a parody of what things are really supposed to be like, but then it does make for great memories.

I can still remember the events leading up to the prom. Not only did I not have a date until practically the last minute, but I was in my "earth mother" hippie stage. The one where I thought making my own dress would not only be economical, but prove to everyone once and for all that I had talent. Alas, the entire venture was doomed from the start.

The ice blue creation gracing the front of the McCall's dress pattern looked easy enough — except for the zipper. I knew I could not put in a zipper, so it seemed logical for me to ask someone who did. Old Mrs. Muselli (everyone called her that, even our parents) was the logical choice for this task, even though she was going blind. All my life I had heard she could sew with her eyes closed.

I had failed home economics twice, could only work the sewing machine in one direction, and never had made anything I could wear in public. But all that bore no weight on the decision to make my own dress.

The great sewing of the prom gown commenced, much to the concern of my family. Mom kept scanning the newspapers, looking for sales on prom gowns, discretely mentioning "We can always just look, you know."

Dad, bless his heart, tried to interpret pattern instructions, while my little brother gathered up all the paraphernalia needed.

At first, it looked like everything was going to work out fine. The dress was completed two days before the prom, plenty of time for Mrs. Muselli to put in the zipper. Proud of my accomplishment, despite somewhat lopsided sleeves, I went to bed and slept like a baby. The next morning I rose early to take the dress over to old Mrs. Muselli.

Unfortunately, I never realized how old she really was until I knocked on the door and her son told me she had died the night before.

I paid my respects to the family, discretely inquiring of each female member her capacity to sew in a zipper. But, alas, Mrs. Muselli took her gift for sewing to the grave.

So after taking to my bed of woe for several hours, I decided to sew the zipper in by hand after my mother said I "absolutely could not sew myself into any dress, no matter how much I cried."

My work seemed sturdy enough, and besides, I told myself, what could happen if I only was going to wear the dress for a few hours? Because time was running short, I stapled the hem up (which was covered by an overlay of organza) and crossed my fingers.

I have to admit the dress looked good. You could not see the staples in the hem, and if no one stood directly in front of me, they would never be able to tell one sleeve was bigger than the other. As far as I was concerned, I had mastered the art of sewing.

I must say it took a great deal of control on my mother's part to smile and tell me what a beautiful dress I had whipped up. Dad beamed and told me the dress looked "like a million."

Off I went to the prom, amid picture-taking proud parents, a supply of safety pins, and needle and thread tucked discretely in my purse.

It was a night to remember. I spent a great deal of time dashing to the ladies room to repair the zipper that threatened to burst at every turn, but that didn't ruin my night. Nothing could have ruined that night.

Recently, I came across my old prom picture, pleased that even after all these years, I could not detect one sleeve was bigger than the other, or that the hem was stapled up. Someone must have been watching over me.

Members of the Westfield Twig I volunteering at Children's Specialized Hospital include, in front, Fran Crampton of Westfield, Sue Hasse of Mountainside, Jean Gallagher of Mountainside, and Francis Walsh of Westfield. Standing are Bette Wintermute of Whiting, Louise Miller of Westfield, Jeanette Simpson of Roselle Park, and Mary Mannino of Westfield.

Twig I women honored

There are nine ladies who untiringly give of their time and efforts for the young patients of Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

Combined, the nine have volunteered an amazing 18,115 hours since they started their volunteering activities for the hospital many years ago.

These nine women, who comprise the group Westfield Twig I, were among the more than 400 area residents honored by Children's Specialized Hospital for their volunteer service during Volunteer Recognition Day April 29.

Half of the ladies sew items ranging from bibs to special clothing for the patients, plus laundry bags, nurses smocks, etc. The others volunteer in the Medical Library, assisting in information searchers and data retrieval.

But no matter what the activity, the members of Westfield Twig I are undaunted in their loyalty to the young patients.

"Children's Specialized is very lucky to have longstanding and devoted volunteers like the members of Westfield Twig I," said, community resource coordinator. "Their efforts over the years have helped hundreds of patients and their families."

The members of the Westfield Twig I, their activities and number of volunteer hours are:

Fran Crampton of Westfield, central supply, 1950 hours; Jean Gallagher of Mountainside, sewing and pharmacy, 3700 hours; Sue Hasse of Mountainside, sewing, 975 hours; Mary Mannino of Westfield, medical library, 1800 hours; Jean MacGregor of Westfield, medical library, 1700 hours; Louise Miller of Westfield, sewing, 2710 hours; Jeannette Simpson of Roselle Park, medical library, 1850 hours; Frances Walsh of Westfield, medical library, 1290 hours; Bette Wintermute of Whiting, sewing 2070 hours.

Children's Specialized Hospital, New Jersey's only comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital, is comprised of three facilities in Mountainside, Fanwood and Toms River.

Beth Fisher, Brian Cronin, and Ellen Freisen rehearse with the ensemble for their upcoming presentation of Encore, a musical revue, today through Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7 p.m. The show, sponsored by St. Helen's Church, will be presented at Edison Intermediate School at 800 Rahway Ave.

Scout camp openings are still available

Washington Rock Girl Scout Council still has openings at both its day and resident summer camps. Girls do not have to participate in a Girl Scout troop to apply. Brochures describing the camp programs are available by calling the council Service Center at (908) 232-3236. All girls entering grades 1-9 can attend day camp.

Washington Rock's resident Camp at Camp Hoover in Sussex County, N.J. is for all girls entering grades 2-12. Programs have been specially designed to appeal to each girl's individual interests and age. Older girl programs have been developed which feature the fun and challenge of canoe trips and tubing adventures.

Qualified counselors supervise programs which are offered on a weekly basis or on a mini-camp (three-day) schedule. Campers can sign up for all six weekly sessions if space permits.

Better Days
REDEFINING FAILURE

Ours is a success-oriented society. The need and desire to achieve goals, establish careers and expand horizons is one of the most admirable human traits. Too often, however, these drives turn into an obsessive fear of failure.

There is a significant difference between a healthy drive to succeed and a consuming fear of not succeeding. Research has shown that people who define themselves as successful also view failures not as personal defeats but as learning experiences useful for defining winning strategies. Truly successful individuals understand that they must experiment with a number of different approaches--some necessarily unsuccessful--in order to achieve the desired result.

People who view failure as a personal fault tend to be internally self-critical. They are less able or willing to explore new avenues when they come up against obstacles. Professional counseling can help those individuals to find ways to remove the word failure from their self-talk vocabulary. There are no failures, just less-than-desirable outcomes that point in other directions.

FDU gives top honor to alumnus Zenner

Fairleigh Dickinson University honored Patrick J. Zenner of Westfield with The Pinnacle Award during April 23 ceremonies.

The Pinnacle, conceived in 1989, is the highest honor that Fairleigh Dickinson University can extend to its outstanding graduates. It recognizes alumni who have reached the highest point of achievement in their careers and their service to society. FDU President Francis J. Mertz said, "These very special alumni have made a significant impact in their chosen fields and have truly distinguished Fairleigh Dickinson University."

Mr. Zenner, president and chief executive officer of Hoffmann-La Roche, was honored for his professional and corporate achievements and his contributions to the pharmaceutical industry. His citation scroll states, "You're in the forefront of one of the most vital concerns facing Americans today: health care, and you're poised to face the challenge...Your high level of energy and your demanding work ethic are two key ingredients in your recipe for success and enabled you to work your way through the ranks."

Catholic Daughters of America celebrates its 75th anniversary

Court Trinity of the Catholic Daughters of America marked its 75th birthday May 2. Members attended a Mass at Holy Trinity Church, celebrated by the Rev. Matthew Looney. A dinner followed at B.G. Fields.

Honored guests, welcomed by Regent Anna Checchio, included Father Looney; Grace DiCairano, secretary-treasurer of the National Court; and Agnes Daily, regent of the New Jersey State Court. Mrs. DiCairano was the speaker.

Jean Ricardo chaired the event.

Court Trinity was formed by 37 women in 1918, including Anne Brennan, who is still a member.

One of the court's early activities was organizing dances and offering assistance to the soldiers at the Colonia Army Camp at the close of World War I.

Help was given to victims of the flu epidemic early in the '20s.

The Catholic Daughters of America is a national organization of Catholic laywomen, with headquarters in New York City. Its purpose is charity.

Those wishing to join should call Mrs. Checchio at 233-5843.

Pupils can audition for Little Mermaid

Auditions for The Little Mermaid will be held May 24-26 from 3-4:30 p.m. at Westfield High School. Four honored for preserving historic buildings

The current residence of the Very Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Houghton, the Elliot House, dates before 1882. In the 1980s, the original siding of the building was restored and the building expanded in the rear.

Robert and Venna Sharer, longtime Westfield residents, and the Very Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Houton, pastor of Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, will receive Preservation Commendation Awards from the Westfield Historic Preservation Commission Wednesday, June 16 at 8 p.m. in the new Comm unity Room in the Municipal Building.

The Sharers will be recognized for restoration of late 19th century at 538 Westfield Ave., and Msgr. Houton for restoration of the rectory, of comparable vintage, at 315 First St.

Other preservation categories in which commendation awards are to be announced are: adaptive use (the retention of essential characteristics in adapting a building to a new type of use); additions or alterations sensitive to original architecture; and period-appropriate repainting.

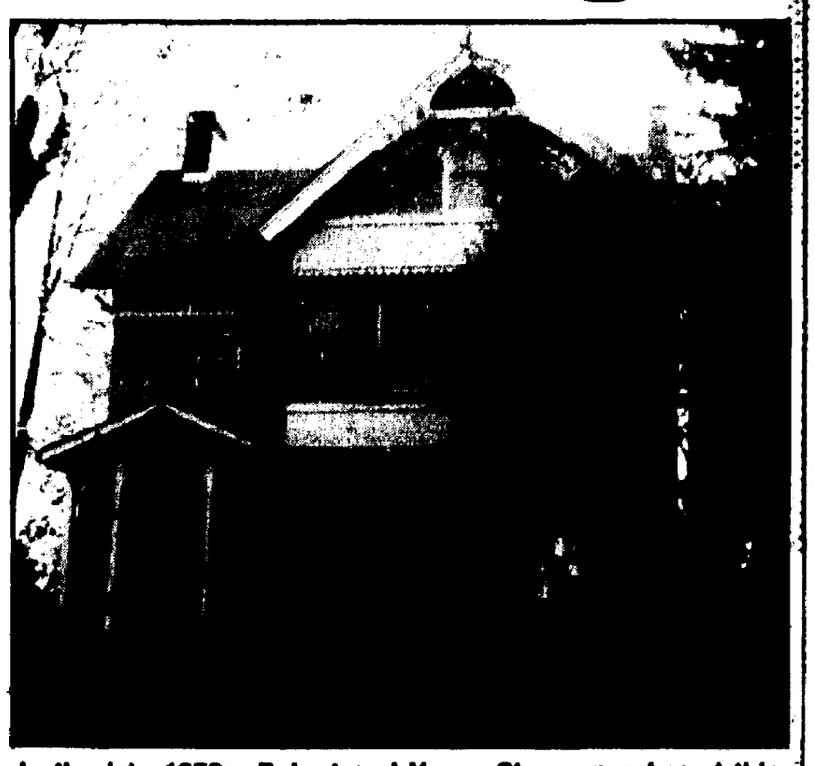

Two property owners whose awards were announced last fall will also receive their certificates. They are: Philip S. Kesler Jr., 120 Dudley Ave., for period repainting; and the Rev. Dr. William R. Forbes, senior minister, for restoration of an existing improvement (steeple).

Also attending the ceremony will be persons who contributed to the preservation of these properties, such as architects, developers and previous owners.

"The public is cordially invited," said Commission Chairwoman Florence Malcolm, who asked that those planning to attend phone in their RSVP to Martha Kielyka, commission secretary, at 789-4040. Refreshments will be served.

The Preservation Commendation Awards were established to spotlight outstanding examples of historic preservation. Among those serving as judges have been Harry Devlin, artist and architectural historian; Robert Eckman, architect; Marilyn Shields, landscape architect; and Linda McTeague, Union County preservation planner.

The Commission's mission is described by the ordinance that created it in December 1984 — to help protect "the historical, cultural, architectural and social heritage of Westfield (which is) given in trust from generation to generation to be used, enriched and then passed on. The character, lifestyle and quality of life of the town depend in great measure on town's protecting this heritage of the past."

In the late 1970s, Robert and Venna Sharer purchased this 100-year-old home at 538 Westfield Ave., and restored it to its original condition and style.

William Wilson honored by Y as Golden Man of the Year

William Wilson was honored as Golden Man of the Year May 11 at the 70th annual meeting of the Westfield Y.

Initiated in 1973 at the 50th anniversary of the Y, the award was designed to honor individuals for outstanding service to the community and the Y. Roger Love Jr., a past recipient, presented this year's award.

Since moving to Westfield with his family in 1965, William Wilson has been an active member of the Y Men's Club and has held offices several times. He was chairman of the Halloween parade for 27 years and cashier for 28 years of the Y's Christmas tree sale, which has raised more than $700,000 to support the Y and many other community groups.

Mr. Wilson has been active in the North Atlantic Y Men's Club and in 1988, his name was added to the list of outstanding Y's Men in the Golden Book in Geneva, Switzerland.

Also in association with the YMCA, Mr. Wilson and his family have donated their time and effort to Camp Speers-Eljabar and Camp Wawayanda. Mr. Wilson was elected to the Speers Board of Directors and has served many year. He also was active in raising funds for Four Seasons, the YMCA camp and education center in Lebanon, N.J.

Employed in the insurance industry since the end of World War II, Mr. Wilson currently is manager of Special Lines with Adlerman, Click & Company, Princeton Insurance Underwriters Agency. His community service activities include service on the board of trustees of the Colonial Cemetery; deacon of the Presbyterian Church; and trustee of the Westfield Historical Society and the Miller Cory Museum.

While his children were young, he was active in Westfield Little League, Franklin School Boy Scout Troop 172 and Scout Camp at Glen Gardner.

Also in attendance with Mr. Wilson was his family — wife Lucy, daughter Jeanmarie Keenan and son John, also a Y's Man.

Mr. Wilson was surprised and moved upon receiving the award and said, "I did not realize I had done all those things, but it must be true. Thank you."

College Men's Club grants awards

SIMON BAUKH

GLENN WOKCIK

MICHAEL COMANDINI

College Men's Club of Westfield has announced that a total of $15,000 in scholarships has been awarded to members of the 1992 graduating class of Westfield High School.

This year's recipients are: Michael Comandini, Craig Juelis, Matthew Sabanosh, Glen Wojcik, Benjamin Parker, Simon Baukh, Mark Davidson, David Duelks, Daniel Foerst, Peter Fontana, Ronald Mammano Jr., and David Shiwotsuka.

The College Men's Club, a non-profit organization, has awarded scholarships to qualified graduating seniors of Westfield High School for more than 65 years. The funds for the scholarship awards are made available through the generosity of its members and fund-raising activities. The scholarship committee, consisting of Dr. Stanley Gersch, chairman, Bertram f. Bonner Jr., Melvyn L. Coren, and Brian J. Molloy, interviewed the many qualified applicants for this year's awards.

Michael Comandini, son of Alexander and Beth Commandini was awarded a $2,000 scholarship. Michael plans to attend Muhlenberg College, where he plans to pursue a career in business. Among Michael's many activities at Westfield High School were sophmore representative, junior class secretary, senior class secretary, and the captain of the varsity basketball team. Michael also was on the 1992 all-area basketball team, second team.

Craig A. Juelis, son John and MaryJo Juelis, plans to attend Union College. Craig was awarded a $2,000 scholarship, and his many activities at Westfield High School include being a member of the lacrosse team, football team, and Students Against Drunk Driving. Craig is also very active in the community and he is involved in the 4-H seeing eye puppy project and the American Legion.

Glenn J. Wojcik, son of Randolph and Marie Wojcik, plans to attend Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute this fall. Glenn was awarded a $2,000 scholarship and his many activities at Westfield High School include being a member of the varsity soccer and captain of the varsity lacrosse team. Glenn is also active in the Key Club, Students Against Drunk Driving, the Spanish Club, Latin Club, and has been a class officer on the student council. Glenn is also a member of the National Latin Honor Society and he is involved in St. Helen's Youth Group, and works part time as a soccer referee.

Matthew Sabanosh, son of Roger and Marlene Sabanosh, was awarded a $2,000 scholarship and will be attending Cornell University this fall. Matthew has been very active at Westfield High School and has been a member of the National Honor Society in both 11th and 12th grades and a Garden State Scholar for the 12th grade. He is involved with the yearbook and his club activity includes the Horticulture Club, Art Club, and Latin Club. Matthew is on the varsity golf team and has previously been active on the baseball team as a freshman and a junior.

David T. Shiwotsuka, son of Ralph and Eiko Shiwotsuka, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and plans to attend Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. David participated over the last four years on the lacrosse team. His community activities include his association with Young Life through his church.

Ronald Mammano Jr., son of Ronald and JoAnn Mammano, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and plans to attend Hamilton College. Ron is a member of the National Honor Society and participates on the football, golf, and lacrosse teams, and he is also a member of the Italian Club and the Key Club. Ron is active in his church and has been involved in numerous food drives for the needy.

Peter J. Fontana, son of Thomas and Ellen Fontana, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and plans to attend Duke University this fall. Peter's activities at Westfield High School include membership in the National Honor Society, Key Club, and the National Latin Honor Society. He is also a member of the Latin Club and participates in the Students Against Drunk Driving program. Peter is a volunteer at the Westfield Community Center and he is a certified emergency medical technician with the rescue squad.

David Duelks, son of John and Marian Duelks, was awarded a $1000 scholarship and plans to attend Methodist College this fall. David's activities at Westfield High School include being captain of the football team, and he has been on the all-group, levels three and four football team. He was also a captain of the baseball teams during both his junior and senior years and has been on the all-county, all-area, all-central Jersey baseball team. He has also been a participant in the Garden State Games. David's community activities include tutoring children in baseball and participating in baseball camp to help the younger children in Westfield learn the fundamentals of the game. David has been a three year letter-man in football and baseball at WHS.

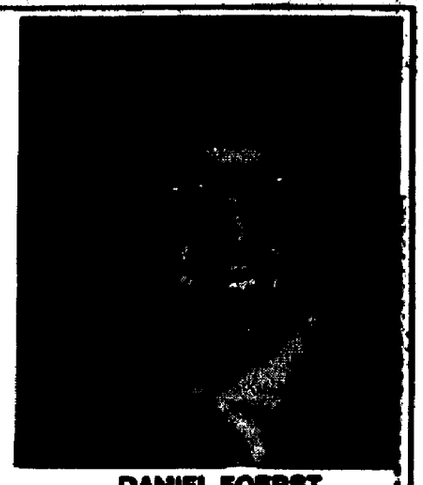

Mark Davidson, son of Harvey and Harriet Davidson, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and plans to attend George Washington University. David is active in the high school as co-president of the Radical Rock Reactionaries. He is involved with the mixed chorus and the concert choir and is a member of the Latin Club. David's community activities include volunteer basketball coach for the Westfield Basketball Association for the last four years.

Simon Baukh, son of Leon and Lydia Baukh, plans to attend Babson College this fall and was awarded a $1,000 scholarship. Simon's activities at Westfield High School include being co-captain of the varsity tennis team as well as being a member of the National Honor Society, Latin Club, Key Club and Students Against Drunk Driving. Simon is active in the Temple Emanu-El Senior Youth Group and is involved locally with the neighborhood council.

A merit scholarship of $500 was awarded to Benjamin W. Parker, son of Wallace and Linda Parker. Ben also recieved the Aaron Levine Award. The Aaron Levine award is a special recognition award granted each year to one of the applicants. This award is given in honor of a former trustee of the men's club. Ben has been a vice president and a treasurer of the Latin Club and Italian Club, and is a member of the Key Club. He has also been a Student Council representative and is a member National Honor Society, National Latin Honor Society, and the Madrigal singers. He also participates in Students Against Drunk Driving and is a member of the Westfield Choral and participates in his church fellowship program, and plans to attend Yale University this fall.

Daniel P. Foerst son of James and Mary Foerst, was awarded a $500 scholarship and plans to attend Catholic University. Daniel has been active at the high school as a crew member for many of the theatrical presentations at the Westfield High School and participates in the Young Life program for the last four years through his church.

The scholarship committee wishes to thank all the applicants who submitted applications to the College Men's Club. This year was an especially tough year for the scholarship committee to make its determinations due to the large number of applicants who applied and the limited resources of the club. The committee wishes each of the applicants who has applied continued success and wants to thank them for their application to the College Men's Club Scholarship Committee.

SIDELINES

Award winner

Scott Kautzmann, a member of the Westfield Y swim team, was presented the prestigious Perry Coultas Award by head coach Bruce Schaefer during the awards picnic May 1 at Tamaques Park. The honor represents excellence in swimming performance, meet and practice attendance, team spirit and sportsmanship. Kautzmann received an additional award for achieving "A" times in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle, the 50-yard butterfly and the 100-yard individual medley. Kautzmann is a fifth grader at Jefferson School in Westfield.

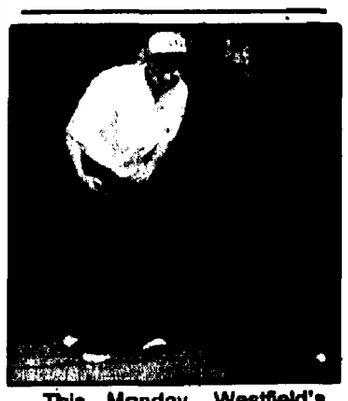

Sports dinner

The Westfield School Boosters Association, comprised of 50 members whose goals are to promote and support athletics and the general welfare of student-athletes in Westfield's public schools, will be holding their annual All-Sports banquet on Wednesday, May 26 at the Westwood in Garwood. All senior athletes and championship teams will be honored and scholarships will be presented. Anyone interested in attending, contact Ed Joffe (232-8705) or Skip Prybylski (232-8390). Tickets are $15.

Summer baseball

The Westfield Baseball League will conduct summer in-town league registration on Saturday, May 22, at Gumpert Field from 9 a.m. to noon. Boys and girls ages 7 to 13 will play an eight to 10 game schedule from June 28 to July 30. The W.B.L. encourages those who cannot attend all the games to sign up. Contact Bob Albino at 654-9458 for further details.

The Hot Spot

This Monday, Westfield's golf team will be in a familiar setting when it competes in the state finals at Echo Lake CC. The Blue Devils, who won the Region 4 Tournament last Wednesday with a 308, will try to improve upon last year's somewhat disappointing fourth place.

Pitching depth bodes well for Blue Devils

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

In many cases, teams only need one outstanding pitcher in order to make a prolonged run in post-season tournaments.

But, when a club has two hurlers capable of winning a big game, it bodes well for its longevity at both the state and county level.

This year's Westfield baseball team is one club which has prospered under such a security blanket. Entering its biggest games of the season tomorrow and Saturday, it will be interesting to see how head coach Bob Brewster plans to utilize his pair of aces — Chris Vogel (6-0) and Chris Infantino (6-1).

Infantino's five strong innings and his 3-for-3 performance last Friday helped the top-seeded Blue Devils (16-4) dethrone defending Union County champion Summit, which eliminated Westfield from last year's tournament in the quarterfinals. The Blue Devils' 8-2 victory vaulted them into the Union County Tournament semifinals against Elizabeth at Linden's Memorial Park at 3 p.m.

Tomorrow afternoon, fourth-seeded Westfield will take on the Minutemen, the No. 5 seed, in the first round of the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 playoffs. After beating Union in the first round last year, the Blue Devils were ousted by Randolph in the sectional semifinals. The Rams are seeded first this year.

As far as the county tournament is concerned, Brewster knows his club will have ample opportunity to win it all, regardless of who's pitching. He also believes the experience of his senior-laiden squad will show through.

"I like our chances," said Brewster about the county tourney. "However, we'll have to face some good pitchers. The seniors were in the finals as sophomores and got their clocks cleaned by Elizabeth, 10-1. I knew we had something good with these kids back then.

"Instead of letting the kids go home immediately afterward, I let them watch what it was like to be victorious in the finals and what think about it takes to be a winner."

Over the past two weeks, Westfield has proven it knows what it takes. After beginning the season at 5-3, the Blue Devils have won 11 of 12 ballgames, including five in a row.

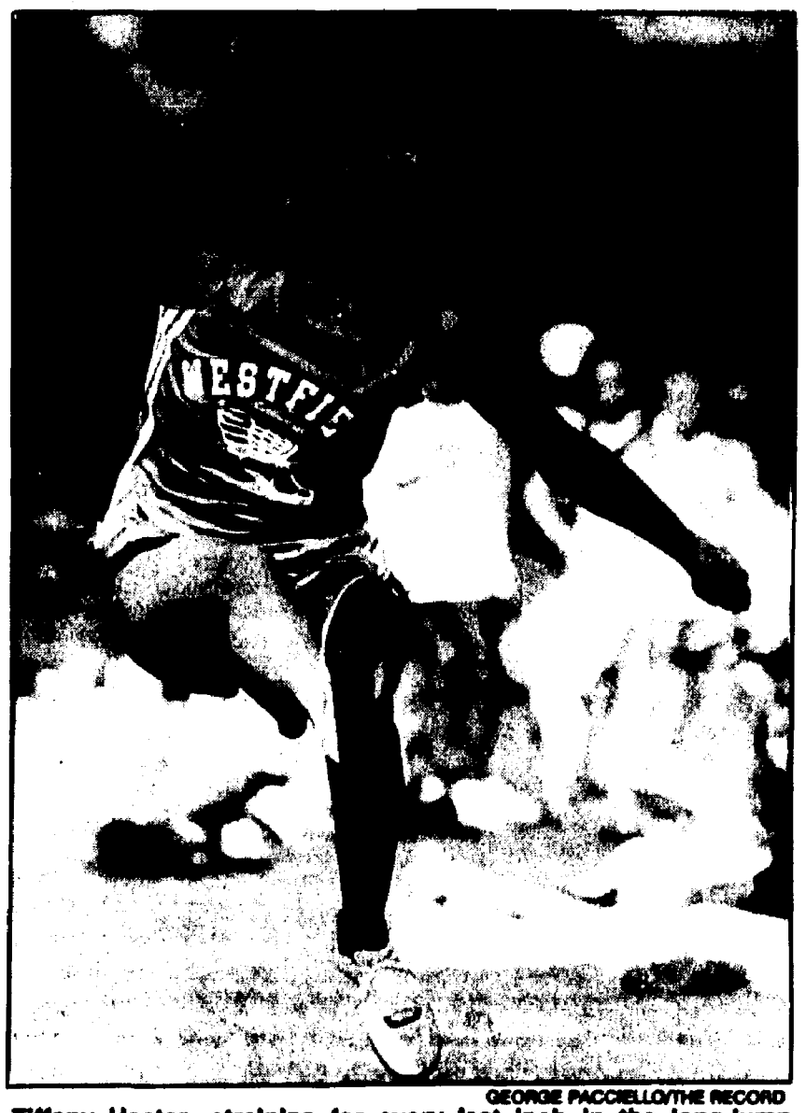

The reason for the turnaround can simply be attributed to better run production. During its current streak, Westfield has raised its team batting average by approximately 25 points and has scored exactly two and a half more runs per game.

"We're more focused at the plate," said second baseman Dave Duelks. "We're waiting for good pitches to hit and we're more patient. We're only swinging at pitches we know we can hit. We know our limits.

"For a while we weren't hitting well and the batter felt it was his job to do it with the big hit. Now, we know it's not going to take two or three bigs hits to win. We'll win with 11 or 12 hits. It's been a total team effort the past few weeks. No one's going for the big hit."

GEORGE PACCIELLO/THE RECORD

Tiffany Hester, straining for every last inch in the long-jump competition at the Union County Championships, has become one of the key members of the Westfield High girls track team.

Hesters: rising stars on Blue Devils track teams

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

For two people who did not become involved in track until their high school days, Tiffany and Jamal Hester have quickly risen to the forefront of Westfield's varsity track teams.

Jamal, a senior, owns the school record in the long jump (23-3) and is also the Blue Devils' premier high jumper and runner in the 200 and 400-meters.

His younger sister, a 15-year-old sophomore, is only in her second year of competition and she's already on the verge of eclipsing the existing school records in the long jump, the 200 meters, the 100-meter high hurdles and the 400-meter intermediate hurdles.

While Tiffany decided to participate in track after watching her brother run, Jamal had no such designs to embark on a career in track.

"I started as a freshman when I got injured playing football," said Jamal, a tailback who was Westfield's leading rusher during the football season. "I just wanted to stay in shape, so I started running winter and spring track. I remember when I hated to run. You couldn't even say track around me. Now, track is my No. 1 thing. It's amazing how things changed."

As far as the immediate future is concerned, Jamal will be focusing on Saturday's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 Meet and his imminent rematch with Elizabeth's DuLayne Morgan, who edged Hester by an inch and a quarter to win the Union County long jump title last weekend.

"If I feel good I think I have a really good chance at winning the whole thing," said Jamal, who has been hampered by a slightly pulled hamstring this spring. "If I'm healthy I think I can jump 23-5. I want to make the Meet of Champions and place in the long jump and the mile relay."

"I'd say he has a good chance at winning the section," said boys' track coach John Martin. "He's got good technique in the air and when he sees the board he explodes off it. He's got a lot of pop and he's got good speed for a long jumper. He's also a very coachable kid. He'll take any advice and try to adjust."

Outside of track and the classroom Jamal maintains a very full schedule. The future William Patterson College student balances academics and athletics with a part-time job at a local video store. He's also involved in a rap group with teenagers outside of Westfield High School.

Tiffany is, perhaps, even more active than Jamal. In addition to track and school, she models at the Westfield Community Center and practices ballet at the Westfield Dance Center. Tiffany has been dancing since she was 3 years old.

JAMAL HESTER

On the track, she is only two inches off Aimee Stout's long jump record (16-9) and is less than a second behind Stout's standing mark in the 100-meter high hurdles (14.9). The sophomore is also threatening the existing school

Netmen blank Columbia to reach sectional semifinals

Westfield's convincing 5-0 victory over Columbia-Maplewood (11-12) Tuesday propelled the Blue Devils (19-2) in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 semifinals against the winner of the Union-Montclair match. The Blue Devils, seeded second, are scheduled to host the match this afternoon.

At first singles, Seth Rosen split the first two sets before winning the third, 6-0. Chris O'Connell won at second singles, 6-2, 6-2, and Brad Jankowski did not lose a game in sweeping his third singles match.

Playing No. 1 doubles, Simon Baukh and Matt Pravda won, 6-0, 6-1, while Tom Vo and Steve Lehman cruised at No. 2 doubles, 6-1, 6-3.

On Monday, Westfield shut out its 10th opponent of the year when it blanked Irvington. Pravda moved up to first singles and won, 6-2, 6-1. Freshmen Rich Cohen and Brian Williams lost only one game between them in victories at No. 2 and 3 singles.

The Blue Devils used the same lineup as they did on Tuesday in defeating East Side, 5-0, on Friday. There were two changes in the lineup, as Louis Clinton replaced Pravda at first doubles and Marc Spirn replaced Lehman at No. 2 doubles.

Last Thursday, Westfield cruised by Kearny, 4-1, as Lehman and Clinton won at second and third singles, respectively. Spirn and senior Matt Jackson won, 7-6 (7-2), 7-6 (7-3) at first doubles, while Cohen and Marc Willemson encountered little difficulty winning at second doubles.

Blanding strikes gold in Union County Meet

Chris Blanding's first place finish in the intermediate hurdles and Jamal Hester's battle with Elizabeth's DuLayne Morgan in the long jump were the glaring highlights for the Blue Devils in Friday's Union County Championships at Williams Field in Elizabeth.

Blanding, who also placed fifth in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.8), edged Erik Bowser of Scotch Plains-Fanwood by one-tenth of a second for the IH title. Blanding broke the tape in 55.2 seconds.

Hester, the W.H.S. record-holder in the long jump, had quite a duel his Elizabeth counterpart, but Morgan's best leap of 21-4 3/4 was an inch and a quarter longer than Hester's best effort. Hester went on to finish fourth in the high jump (6-2).

Rischon Williams was fourth in the intermediate hurdles (57.8) and sixth in the high hurdles (19.1). Chris DeMasi took home a silver medal in the mile run (4:41.7). He also placed sixth in the two-mile run in a time of 10:23.3, 4.1 seconds behind teammate Geoff North, who was fifth.

Jim Nicoll finished fifth in the 800-meters (2:03.8) and Don Cambria was sixth in the 1,600-meters (4:51.4). The mile relay foursome placed fourth (3:29.4).

Westfield Cup set for May 29-31

It's almost Cup time in Westfield — and this year is the biggest!

The 13th Annual Westfield Cup, one of the Northeast's most prestgious soccer tournaments, gets underway Memorial Day weekend, May 29-31.

A record 95 premier teams, including 18 out-of-state clubs will be competing on fields across town during the Westfield Soccer Association's annual event. Over 1,600 boys and girls, ages 10-19, will participate in more than 200 contests throughout the holiday.

The Westfield Cup is known by soccer fans as the place to see tomorrow's stars. Several members of the U.S. National team, including midfielder John Harkes and captain/goalie Tony Meola played for their local clubs in past Cups and are slated to compete in the World Cup next year.

Many area college coaches regularly attend the cup to get an early line on hot prospects. Claudio Reyna, Springfield's Olympian, and Rutgers' star Lino CiCuollo were also standouts in the Cup during their prep days.

"The Westfield Cup not only showcases the best soccer teams in the region," said Chairman Bill Mansfield, "it also demonstrates the benefits of this sport for our young people. Soccer is the fastest growing youth activity in this country because of the health and fitness benefits for both boys and girls at all ages. We invite everyone to join us at the games and enjoy the excitement of top notch soccer."

According to Mansfield, the tournament will include teams from New York, Long Island, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and of course, some 50 towns in New Jersey.

"All of the teams accepted into the cup are leading teams in their respective divisions, and the competitions will be intense," said Mansfield. "In the last three years, teams from New

DIVISION IV

West Windsor Falcons 4, United Force 1

Enjoying a four game win streak, the United Force hosted the undefeated flight leader West Windsor Falcons on May 8.

From the start, United displayed their winning style as Brett Kahn set up an unmarked Mike Brunhoffer, who scored United's only goal. United continued their assault against the Falcon goalie, but could not increase their lead. Finally, Windsor grouped team and scored four unanswered goals to earn the win.

United Force 3, Mendham Rockets 1

On the following Sunday, United (5-3) met the Mendham Rockets at home. United's offense of Seth Fisher, Eric Finne and Brett Kahn made sure Mendham's goalie was not idle. The Force outshot the Rockets 6-1 and trailed at halftime, 1-0.

In the second half the defense of sweeper Mike Tricarico, fullbacks Jeff Van Ausdal and Dan Sawield, and stopper Adam Jack shut down the Rockets' hopes of gaining ground. Keepers Brian Kempe and Andrew Elken used fine judgement in coming out to stop any shots closer than the 18-yard line. This defensive shield allowed the offense to advance.

Eric Shoesmann, at left wing, left-footed Westfield's first goal past a flustered Rocket goalie. Tied 1-1, halfbacks Ricky Lang and Peter Wilson, along with center halfback Mike Klvetz took charge to control the midfield. Their clearing shots setup Westfield's strikers for many scoring opportunities.

On one such occasion, center forward Mike Brunhoffer side-stepped two defenders to strike pay dirt and give the Force a 2-1 lead. As time was running out, Mike Klvetz, now at right wing, scored the goal of the day. As he maneuvered passed a Rocket fullback to Mendham's 18-yard line, from the far right he sent a fine drive that hit the far post and ricocheted into the net.

Patriots Freedom 2
Bridgewater Challenge 0

The Westfield Patriots IV Freedom continue to pursue the National I Flight Championship in their league play, as they defeated the Bridgewater Challenge.

Willy Cashman and Jimmy Korn displayed good thoughts on heading destinations, while distributing the ball to their white-shirted attackers smoothly. Matt O'Neal and Mike Todd, playing inside right and left, relieved their enemies of the ball and kept it on their own feet at every opportunity.

Brian Osborne, wearing the keeper's shirt in the second half, filled in nicely and directed his side defensively. This gave Michael Carter an opportunity to play on the line. Carter cashed in and created two breakaway runs, picking up an assist on the second goal. Andy Ku and Sean Jaffe racked up more minutes defending the Bridgewater towards while keeping them from scoring in the 70-minute match.

John Humphries, fronting well at stopper, and Michael Orlando, playing sweeper, kept the middle of their end unpeasable with good tackling and shoulder charges.

Justin Del Monico and Albert Thrower displayed some well-timed diagonal runs in front, creating two scoring opportunities for the Patriots. Ralph Repuano had plenty of chances up front, winning the ball and one-touching back.

DIVISION V

Westfield Chargers 2, Watchung Stingers 0

The Westfield Chargers experienced a highly successful weekend. On May 8, the Chargers scored their first victory of the season as they beat the Watchung Stingers. The Chargers controlled the pace throughout the game due to an immovable defense, led by fullbacks Doug Minarek, Richie Rowe, Teddy Brown, and sweeper Ryan Hogan, plus superb goaltending by Paul Johnston and Chris Siwerz.

The first half ended scoreless as midfielders John Henry Flood, Jack Kane, Matt Karpa, Brendan Maher, and Chris McLellan kept the ball in their offensive end most of the time. Forwards Gavin Shulman, Eric Zimak, Kevin Doyle, and Matt Simone kept tremendous pressure on the Watchung keeper, but were unable to punch the ball into the net.

The third period truly tested the mettle of the Chargers as their opponents came close to scoring on several occasions. However, at the start of the final period, Matt Simone and Chris Schwarz assisted on the first Charger goal as Schwarz centered the ball to striker Kevin Doyle. Doyle made a quick move past two defenders and scored on a shot to the left of the goalie for a 1-0 Westfield lead.

The Chargers kept control of the game, but put it away on a scramble on the left side of the Stinger goal as Doyle passed to Eric Zimak, who, on a pretty step-over move, passed it back to John Henry Flood for a cross-corner shot past the Stinger keeper for the final score.

Westfield Chargers 0
North Hunterdon Falcons 0

The next day the Chargers held the powerful North Hunterdon Falcons to a scoreless tie. Once again it was the superb goaltending of Paul Johnston and the unforgiving defense, led by Doug Minarek, Ryan Hogan and Richie Rowe, which set the tone for the game.

The Charger's offense of Doyle, Shulman, Zimak, and Simone often came close, but could not quite put the ball into the net. Excellent all-round efforts were turned in by Flood, Hogan, and Minarek, but the whole team may have actually have played its best game of the whole season as they showed their true colors on this wonderful weekend.

Westfield Warriors 2, Livingston 1

The Warriors moved into sole possession of first place in their division on Sunday, May 16, with a comeback victory over Livingston.

Initially, the Warriors encountered some difficulty adjusting to the speed of the artificial surface at the Livingston field. The hosts took advantage of the Warriors' tentative play by scoring a goal at the five-minute mark.

The momentum of the game slowly began to shift, as strikers Xander Rothschild, Cam Anthony, Tim Carroll and Michael Farley began to pressure the Livingston defense.

In the second half, a coaching adjustment put Brad Gillin at center striker. The maneuver ignited the offense, as Gillin scored two unanswered goals. The Warriors controlled the flow of the game with aggressive attacks to the ball, which encircled Livingston's defense.

Gillin's first goal was a short-range deflection shot off a pass from halfback Greg Scanlon. The Warriors' ever-improving corner kick play supplied the second goal, when Brian Bottini delivered a corner kick to halfback Nick Geissler, who sent a one-time pass to Gillin, standing 10 yards from the goal. Gillin's hard shot to the right of the net proved to be the winning tally.

Strikers Adam Walker and Kyle Vanlesky excited the cheering crowd with breakaway attempts late in the second half that were deflected wide of the net by the Livingston goalie.

The Warriors' defense dominated the midfield and participated in several offensive opportunities. Sweeper Conner Mulvee and fullback Evan Molloy stepped up for long volleys that sailed wide of the net. Sweeper Matt Hall and fullbacks Greg Odachowski and Brandon Kape each won a loose ball in their area to form a defensive seal against the Livingston attackers.

Westfield Warriors 8, South Orange 0

Westfield defeated the South Orange Hurricane for the second time this week. Striker Brian Bottini scored the first goal in the rematch at the two-minute mark off a perfect corner kick from Michael Farley. The Warriors were camped out in front of the Hurricanes' goalie through the first half as Farley delivered numerous corner kicks. Fullback Evan Molloy assisted on the second goal with a direct kick from the 20-yard line to the goal area, which striker Cam Anthony gathered and shot into the net.

The Warriors went on a scoring binge in the second half, scoring several goals in the first few minutes. Striker Kyle Vanlesky dribbled the ball deep into the Hurricane zone before nailing the right post, which Tim Carroll volleyed the rebound into the open net. Carroll scored again with a hard shot into the left corner of the net. Adam Walker and Nick Geissler assisted on the goal.

Matt Hall assisted halfback Brad Gillin, who hit the net with a driving shot from outside the 18-yard line. Halfback Conner Mulvee scored late in the third quarter. Brandon Kape struck the goal post, just missing a goal, but Evan Molloy was there to knock in the deflection. Striker Xander Rothschild scored the last goal for the Warriors with a left-footed lob over the head of the goalie.

Fullback Greg Odachowski and halfback Greg Scanlon lead the Warriors defense and never allowed the Hurricanes to gather any momentum. Geissler and Hall shared time in the goal for the Warriors for their third shutout of the year, improving the Warriors record to 5-1-1.

Bruins 18, Irish 3

The two-game series between the Irish and the Bruins further demonstrated that each team has an explosive offense and that both teams are capable of finishing in first place.

The Irish had six consecutive hits, including a double by Robby O'Brien, as they scored 10 runs before the Bruins took their turn at the plate. Outstanding pitching was turned in for the Bruins by Danny Orevez and by Phil Orsini for the Irish. Bill Zacher's third hit of the game, a three-run homer in the bottom of the last inning, accounted for the Bruins final runs.

On Saturday, the Irish quickly took a two-run lead. After three walks and two hit batsmen to start a Bruins' rally. The Bruins sent 22 batters to the plate to give them a 17-2 lead after the first inning. Jim Thorpe drove in four runs with a triple and a single and Steve Taranto doubled and drove in three runs in the inning. Mark Matthews and Adam Grees also had run scoring singles. Brian Shaver went the distance, allowing just four hits to earn his second pitching victory of the season. Colin Osborn and Zacher each had two hits and scored a pair of runs in the game. Also scoring twice for the Bruins were David Osborn, James McKenna and Ben Gleason. The victory gave the Bruins a 5-1 record and first place.

On May 10, the New Norris Chevrolet Marlins continued their outstanding play and rallied for a 5-4 victory over the Roosters' Phillies at Memorial Field. Kristen Ostrega drove in the game-winning run with a single in the top of the sixth inning.

The Marlins jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on consecutive walks by Jackie McKeever, Lindsay Guerriera, Tara Clarke and Katie Brunette. Additional runs were scored by Lauren Caltrera and McKeever after hits by Bethany Dressely and Casey Benson. Strong catching and solid second base defense was provided by Robin and Amy Early.

Marlins 13, Cardinals 10

On Saturday, May 15, the New Norris Chevrolet Marlins extended their winning streak to five games by posting a come-from-behind victory over the Selb Plumbing Cardinals. The Marlins stormed back from a 7-2 deficit behind the clutch hitting of Jackie and Jessica McKeever, Lindsay Guerriera, Katy Brunette, Tara clarke and the power hitting of Lauren Coltera. Third graders Nicole DiFabio and Amy Early came through with hits and walks to help the Marlins forge their spirited comeback.

Two runs was plenty for Infantino to work with, as the right-hander allowed one hit and one walk over five innings. As usual, the senior displayed flawless control (40 strikes, 14 balls). Infantino threw his first ball of the game to the No. 8 batter with two outs in the second inning after he had thrown 17 consecutive strikes.

Westfield iced the game by scoring three runs in the fourth and fifth innings. An RBI single by Jeff Pereira, a wild pitch which scored Dan Higgins, and Infantino's perfectly executed suicide squeeze bunt allowed the Blue Devils to take a 5-0 lead.

Following a quick fifth inning during which Infantino threw only five pitches, Dave Schwarzenbek and Higgins cracked back-to-back doubles to center field to score another run. Billy Rodd's sacrifice fly and an error closed out the scoring and gave Westfield a comfortable 8-2 lead.

Matt Daly (7th in javelin, 140-0), Kirby Cleveland (43-9 in shot put) and sophomore Marcus Cognetti (23.6 in 200-meters) accomplished personal bests for the season.

In the team standings, Elizabeth won for the eighth consecutive year, beating Scotch Plains-Fanwood by 21 points. Union accumulated 53 points to finish third, while Westfield tied Plainfield for fourth with 47 points.

This Monday, Westfield will host a dual meet against Elizabeth at Recreation field. The winner will claim the Watchung Conference's American Division title.

Devils breeze in Reg. 4, play in finals Monday

As Westfield's golf team looks forward to Monday's state tournament at Echo Lake CC, the Blue Devils can only hope they can, collectively, emulate last Wednesday's performance in the Region 4 Tournament.

The Blue Devils won the tourney easily at Rutgers GC, posting an impressive total of 308, as three golfers shot below 80. Rich Jeremiah fired a two-over par 73 and finished in second place overall. Brian O'Connor (36-41) held things together for a 77, Matt Jessup (39-39) displayed consistency in shooting a 78 and Cregg Watner (39-41) shot slightly below his norm in carding an 80.

Jeremiah actually tied for the individual lead with Bob Sobieski of Woodbridge. On the first playoff hole, the 350-yard 10th, both players routinely found the fairway and green in regulation before two putting for par.

With the wind in his face on the next hole, a 135-yard par-3, Jeremiah's approach came up about 30 feet short of the hole. Sobieski's shot found the green and was 15 feet away from the cup. Sobieski two putted and Jeremiah missed a four-footer for par which would have forced an extra playoff hole.

"I'm not worried about it," said Jeremiah about losing the playoff. "I'd rather play better in the state tournament."

Westfield Head Coach Joe Soviero believes playing the state finals at Echo Lake CC, the Blue Devils' home course, is a double-edged sword.

"Playing on your home course is comforting on one hand, but it puts a little undo pressure on another," said Soviero. "I just hope they can relax and enjoy themselves and keep their emotions under control."

"We've always expected big things from ourselves, but I don't know if it's pressure," said Jeremiah. "We all have the right attitude. But, golf is a stupid game. We're always prepared, but things don't always happen the right way."

On Tuesday, the Blue Devils (12-0) defeated Union, 178-190, in the rain at Suburban CC. Watner (42), Jeremiah (45), Mark Hobbie (45), Jessup (46) and O'Connor (46) led Westfield over the Farmers.

Last Thursday, the Blue Devils tore up the Single Nine at Galloping Hill GC, shooting a one-under par 143 to beat Cranford by 31 shots. Jessup (34) and Watner (35) shot below par on the par-36 layout, while Jeremiah posted an even-par 36. O'Connor (38) and Hobbie (40) rounded out the scoring.

Second half woes hurt laxmen in two setbacks

In losses to Columbia and Ridgewood, Westfield took two-goal leads into halftime on each occasion. However, the Blue Devils ran into some problems down the stretch and lost both matches, marking the first time all year they had dropped back-to-back games.

Tuesday's 11-10 overtime loss to Columbia in Maplewood was exciting, albeit distressing. The Blue Devils (8-7) led 3-0 after four minutes and carried a 6-4 lead into intermission.

Goalie Jamie Howlett sustained an injury during Columbia's third quarter comeback and sophomore Tom Ryan kept Westfield in the game by making at least half a dozen outstanding saves. Ryan replaced Howlett instead of backup Mike Abeles, who is also injured.

When Howlett returned in the fourth quarter, Westfield trailed, but Paul Baly provided some late heroics by scoring a goal with eight seconds left, sending the match into overtime.

Jeff Ryan scored four goals and assisted on two others, while linemate Glenn Wojcik had a hat trick. Baly scored twice and was credited with two assists. Junior Charles Salzman added a goal in the losing effort.

On Friday, the storyline was similar, as Westfield hosted Hunterdon Central at Tamaques School. The Blue Devils led, 2-0, at halftime, but the Red Devils scored three times in the third quarter to tie the match at 3-3 entering the fourth. Hunterdon Central won the final 10 minutes and the game, 6-3. Ryan scored all three Westfield goals.

"We couldn't hold the ball on offense in both games," said head coach Shaun Cherewich. "Our attack couldn't keep possession. I'm disappointed because these games could've been big wins."

The status of Saturday's regularly scheduled home match against Ridgewood was undecided at press time because the Maroons will play Westfield in the opening round of the state tournament on May 26 in Ridgewood. The Blue Devils were seeded 13th and Ridgewood was given the No. 4 seed.

In the junior varsity state tournament, Westfield (13-1) earned the No. 1 seed and will play behind Tamaques School tomorrow afternoon.

Cafaro leads Devils over Linden, Rahway

Freshman Lauren Cafaro continued her progress this week and gave up only four hits and four runs in 16 innings to spark Westfield to victories over Rahway and Linden.

On Monday, Cafaro (6-5) did not yield a hit over the first four innings, but Lynda Canalas' single broke up her no-hit bid with none out in the fifth. The harmless single was the only hit Cafaro gave up in the Blue Devils' 7-1 triumph at Rahway (5-11).

Westfield (8-10) scored single runs in the first, second, third, fifth and seventh innings and added a pair in the sixth. Cafaro and Dana Fissell both went 2 for 4, while centerfielder Lori Chelius went 3 for 4 with a double and 3 RBI.

The Blue Devils exacted a measure of revenge against Linden on Friday, defeating the Tigers, 4-3, in nine innings and avenging an earlier one-run loss suffered a day before the cutoff for state playoffs.

Linden (4-10) plated three runs in the top of the first, but the hosts quickly tied the score on Julia Cerefice's RBI bunt single, Abby Bomba's run-scoring base hit and Chelius' sacrifice fly. The score remained tied at 3-3 until the bottom of the ninth, when Sharon Hay drove in Amy Gallagher with the winning run on a bases loaded walk.

Once again, Cafaro hurled an outstanding game, pitching all nine innings and allowing only three hits and two walks while striking out four. Gallagher went 3 for 5 with a double, Bomba went 2 for 2, and catcher Amy Korchak went 2 for 4.

Westfield visits Kearny today and will wrap up its season next week with home games against Plainfield (Monday) and Summit (next Thursday) and a road game at Shabazz (Wednesday).

"We've played good ball at certain times of the season," said head coach Maggie McFadden. "People like Amy Gallagher and Abby Bomba had a good season hitting and fielding and some kids like Lauren (Cafaro) got an opportunity to shine. We have shown some flashes of brilliance."

Carter breaks shot put mark again at counties

By IVY CHARMATZ
THE RECORD

Even though they had their hearts set at finishing among the top three teams, the Blue Devils took fifth place at the Union County Girls' Track & Field Championships Saturday at Plainfield's Hub Stine Complex.

As expected, Plainfield finished first (151 points), followed by Cranford (55), New Providence (47), and Summit (42).

"The competition was really super," said assistant coach Tom Hornish. "Unfortunately, we were a little flat. Some of the other teams had a great day."

Shi-Kia Carter placed third in the discus (106-0), and, for the second time this season, broke the school shot put record, even though she did not place in the top six. Carter threw 34-10 ½, over five inches longer than her previous record. Patricia Clairborne, (31-2) and Jane Ouilslo, (24-0) recorded their best throws of the season.

In the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, Erin Allebaugh placed fourth in 1:10.7, followed by Tiffany Hester in 1:10.8. Hester went on to place third in the 100-meter high hurdles (15.5). She also jumped 16-7 ½ in the long jump, her seasonal best. Plainfield's Demeika Tweedy jumped 20-8 ½, the second farthest jump in the United States this year.

Ahisha Winkler (27.4) and Stacey Tourtellotte (27.5) finished the 200-meter run in fourth and fifth place, respectively.

In the 1,600-meter run Bridget Keegan crossed the finish line in third place in a time of 5:42.7. She also placed sixth in the two-mile run (13:12.9).

Freshman Karen McGuire finished fifth (2:31) in the 800-meter run.

"We performed to the best of our ability," said Ouilslo. "We tried our best, but just had a bad day."

Westfield will try to improve Saturday in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 Meet at Morristown High School.

Improved play spurs Devils to fifth in UCT

In a busy week in volleyball, Westfield won two games, played extremely well in a loss to county champion Elizabeth and placed fifth out of 13 schools in Saturday's Union County Tournament at the Dunn Sports Center.

In the tournament, the Blue Devils compiled a 7-5 record in round robin play. Westfield lost its first game of the day to Johnson Regional, which placed third in the final standings, then reeled off consecutive victories over Cranford, Union and Rahway before meeting Elizabeth.

Westfield hung tough against the Minutemen and held a 9-8 lead at one point before losing to the eventual champions. Scotch Plains-Fanwood placed second and Cranford was fourth. Andi Scull and Gloria Ko were voted to the All-Union County Second Team by the coaches.

"By far, the Elizabeth game was the highlight of mu team's day," said Blue Devils Head Coach Heather Kennedy. "They realized Elizabeth was a beatable team if they got their serves down and took their hitters out of the game.

"Overall, Saturday was a day where my team learned where their limits were. It was a good day for us to find out what we're made of. I think we learned a lot about each other and about us, as a team."

Following a loss at Elizabeth Friday, Westfield (12-4) started a new winning streak Monday by defeating Summit handily, 15-7, 16-14. Lisa DeGutis scored nine points on serve in the first game and Ko registered eight service points in Game 2.

Despite their dual match loss to the Minutemen (15-10, 15-9), Kennedy was encouraged with her team's performance.

"I was really happy with their style of play," said Kennedy. "Marta Napiorkowski had a good day at the net, hitting and blocking well. The team realized that they could fix all the errors they made. It gave us a good sense for the next day."

Last Wednesday, the Blue Devils beat Plainfield in two games, 15-7, 15-12, thereby splitting the season series with the Cardinals and vindicating an earlier loss.

Vogel does it again in 9-0 win over Elizabeth

Chris Vogel threw another shutout last Thursday, scattering four hits, while striking out two and walking two in Westfield's 9-0 route of Elizabeth. Vogel (6-0) will enter this weekend's action with a 0.37 ERA. The senior has allowed one earned run in his last 33 innings.

Dave Harwood went 1 for 1, his only hit being a two-run home run to left field in the first. Dan Higgins lined a two-run single to spark a five-run third for the Blue Devils. Higgins went 1 for 2 and scored three runs.

Last Wednesday, winning pitcher Jeff Periera and reliever Rob Toth combined to give up only five hits in Westfield's 8-3 triumph at Plainfield. Eight different Blue Devils banged out hits in the nine-hit attack. Higgins, who was 6 for 10 over his last four games, went 2 for 3 and drove in a run.

Chris Infantino, Westfield's leading hitter, had 2 RBI and Dave Schwarzenbek tripled in three at bats. Westfield scored five times in the fourth to open up a 7-1 lead.

H. Wright is named MassMutual Master

Herbert H. Wright, a local agent for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been named to the MassMutual Masters Club for 1993, it has been announced by MassMutual president Thomas B. Wheeler.

Mr. Wright is a co-owner of Benefit Service Co., an employee consulting firm in Westfield. He is one of only 10 members of MassMutual's field force of 4,000 agents nationwide to be selected for this recognition of outstanding professional achievement.

"Those who achieve membership in the Masters Club exemplify MassMutual's commitment to excellence in serving our policyholders and their needs," Mr. Wheeler said.

A 24-year associate of MassMutual, Mr. Wright and his firm provide business and estate planning for business owners and key executives and design and administer pension programs. He has been a member of MassMutual's Masters Club six times in recent years. In 1990 and 1992, he was named Agent of the Year, MassMutual's highest individual honor.

He is a past president of the MassMutual Agents Association and the Executive Compensation Association.

HERBERT H. WRIGHT

Rosenbaum joins Stern & Associates

Susan Rosenbaum of Westfield has joined Stern & Associates as an account supervisor, it was announced by Susan Stern, president of the public relations and marketing communications firm.

Ms. Rosenbaum is responsible for developing and implementing programs for one of the firm's major clients, Steelcase Inc.

Before joining Stern & Associates, Ms. Rosenbaum had worked as a public relations consultant to both coporate and non- profit clients, and as a freelance journalist. Newspapers which have published her work include The New York Times and The (Newark) Star Ledger. She also has been an adjunct member of the communications department faculty of William Paterson College.

Ms. Rosenbaum has also held positions at Editor & Publisher magazine and Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, New York advertising agency.

Stern & Associates specializes in cost effective, results-oriented public relations and marketing communications programs that support specific client objectives. The company's programs are targeted to consumer, business-to-business and trade audiences and are geared to increase awareness of client products, services and issues.

A resident of Westfield and Amagansett,N.Y., Ms. Rosenbaum holds a bachelor's degree in French, with a minor in Russian, from the University of Pennsylvania.

Residents give post office stamp of approval

An overwhelming majority of Westfield postal customers in continue to express satisfaction with the daily performance of the United States Postal Service, announced Postmaster David DeFrancesco.

Independent measurement by Opinion Research Corp. indicated that in the second quarter for 1993, 90 percent of the households in Westfield believed the Postal Service was doing an "excellent, very good, or good" job.

"This is above the national score of 89 percent, which is the highest customer satisfaction rating since measurements began nearly two years ago," Mr. DeFrancesco said.

Every three months, Opinion Research Corporation polls 180,000 households nationwide to gauge customer satisfaction with Postal Service. A number of different functional areas that directly deal with the customer are measured, including letter carrier and window clerk service, complaint handling and physical condition of mail upon delivery.

"In appreciation to our customers, May 17 has been proclaimed Customer Appreciation Week. During this week we are inviting our customers to visit their post office for free refreshments and to tell us how we can continue to improve our service," said Mr. DeFrancesco.

Computer Systems celebrating a second year in business

William M. O'Donnell, president of Computer Systems for Everyone, Inc., is celebrating his company's second year serving the Westfield area.

Mr. O'Donnell develops custom software and manufactures personal computers to suit customers' needs and specifications.

Mr. O'Donnell, a 1980 graduate of Westfield High School, is a graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology where he earned a master's degree in computer science and a bachelor's in electrical engineering.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT SELLS

- Start your ad with what you're selling.
- Be descriptive. List the best features of your item first.
- Use only standard abbreviations
- Always state the price of a sale item and, if you're flexible on price, include "negotiable" in your ad.
- Be sure to include your phone number and times to call.
- Including the word "please" in your ad increases response.

A NOTE OF APPRECIATION— A little while back, my pet bird, a cockatiel, accidentally flew out of my house. I thought for sure that I would never see him again. Fortunately, a kind person brought him to Dandee's Pet Store. I am hoping that wonderful person will read this so I can thank them. Also my sincere appreciation to the kind & thoughtful pet owners of Dandee's. Thanks again for all you did & for bringing him back to be a healthy bird. Betty Kessler NISSAN'S PATHFINDER is a Sports Utility Vehicle (SUV) that's big and is an industry front-runner.

Nissan's Pathfinder is tough, sturdy, & strong

By BILL RUSS
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

In the beginning sports utility vehicles (SUVs) closely resembled the pickup trucks from which they were derived. They were mainly large and boxy, the truck bed replaced by the passenger and cargo area, and neither were really comfortable or commodious. However, they were known for their ability to go almost anywhere in most any kind of weather, and most offered part time four-wheel drive. Today SUV's haven't changed much as far as the basics go, but they tend as much towards passenger car comfort and amenities while retaining the full-frame rigidity and ruggedness found in pickup trucks.

.. The Nissan Pathfinder is an typical example of the SUV of the 90s, as it is equally at home in the city, the suburbs or on the range. It was one of the early projects assigned to Nissan's California Design Center in La Jolla, whose mission was to develop a utility vehicle for the Americas. Even though the design of today's Pathfinder dates back to the mid-80s, it has continuously been updated and refined to reflect the newest in both technology and customer desires.

APPEARANCE:

The four-door Pathfinder retains the rugged outdoors look that has become its trademark. In the SE version with the Sport/Power package it's equipped with alloy wheels shod with General AP all-season tires, plus a tilt-and-remove sunroof, a swing-away spare tire mounting, and a unique tubular running board. This year the front and rear bumpers and fender flares have been redesigned.

COMFORT:

In the SE trim with the Sport/Power package the Pathfinder rivals many luxury passenger cars when it comes to convenience and comfort. It is outfitted with all of the prerequisite power accessories, plus a tilt-away steering wheel, reclining and fold-down contoured rear seats, B-pillar assist handles to ease rear entry, remote rear hatch release, and a carpeted storage area. Both the sound and climate control systems perform very well in hot and cold weather. Rear vision is restricted by the spare tire, and rear seat headroom is limited for tall folks.

ROADABILITY:

While its suspension system has been designed to provide a more car-like ride, it does display its truck heritage on bumpy back roads. However, the Sport/Touring adjustable shock absorbers provide a noticeable difference in ride quality. I found Touring best for the highway and Sport for twisty roads. Four wheel disc brakes and rear wheel ABS deliver safe and straight stopping. The combination of part time 4-wheel drive, limited slip differential and the Goodyear Grabber 31X10.0 all-season tires insure excellent traction on all surfaces.

PERFORMANCE:

All Pathfinders are powered by a time-proven 3.0 liter, single overhead cam, 12-valve, port fuel injected V-6 engine that puts out 153 horsepower and 180 foot-pounds of torque. The 4-speed automatic transmission has an overdrive lock-out button, and next to it is the shifter that easily moves from 2- to 4-wheel drive and back. Both the engine and automatic transmission reflect the Pathfinder's truck heritage when it comes to noise and shifting smoothness.

SUGGESTIONS:

Add a secure covered inside storage area for purse and/or camera. Add a stowage net for the head rests when rear seats are folded down.

ECONOMY:

EPA ratings are 15 city/18 highway. My average was 19.7 mpg.

CONCLUSIONS:

While today's Pathfinder looks mighty similar to the one I reviewed a few years back, it certainly has come a long way in both roadability and interior comfort and convenience. It seems that even though a lot of us like to "rough it," we like to do so in comfort. Its an off-road vehicle with on-road qualities.

PRICE AS TESTED:

$27,255 with Sport/Power package and leather trim.

BASE PRICE:

$23,835 with 4WD and automatic transmission.

Shop, look and listen in New Hope

Pennsylvania's funkiest village is just across the Jersey border

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

Crisp white steam belched from the lovingly-restored New Hope and Ivyland Railroad steam locomotive as it crossed through downtown New Hope, Pennsylvania on its 50-minute run to Lahaska.

Children and families lined the tracks to get a good look at one of the last steam-powered trains left in the country.

New Hope is one of the most interesting places in the area for the entire family. No kidding – there is something for everyone there – a recent excursion to New Hope on a Saturday took us from the railroad to a mule-driven barge up the Delaware Canal to a Oaxacan Indian art gallery to a biker clothing store to a witch supply shop.

New Hope calls itself a "town of many personalities and I won't challenge that. It's a sophisticated village nestled along the Delaware River and the Delaware Canal in Bucks County – a modern shoppers' paradise with a touch of history and a carnival atmosphere.

The entire town is compact enough that one can walk the length and breadth without unduly taxing yourself – or ever being very far from a bar, restaurant or ice cream parlor. There are only four main streets – Main Street South and North, Bridge Street, Ferry Street, Mechanic Street – plus a couple of alleys and side streets. There's a boggling assortment of galleries, antiques, homemade chocolates, handmade quilts, trendy clothes, exotic cheeses and theaters. You can also view historical homes, ride paddlewheel river boats or take a horse and carriage ride – definitely something for everyone.

DIANE MATFLERD/WEEKENDPLUS

With a row of parked motorcycles – a familiar sight in New Hope – in the foreground, visitors wander one of the many shop-laden streets in the popular Pennsylvania village.

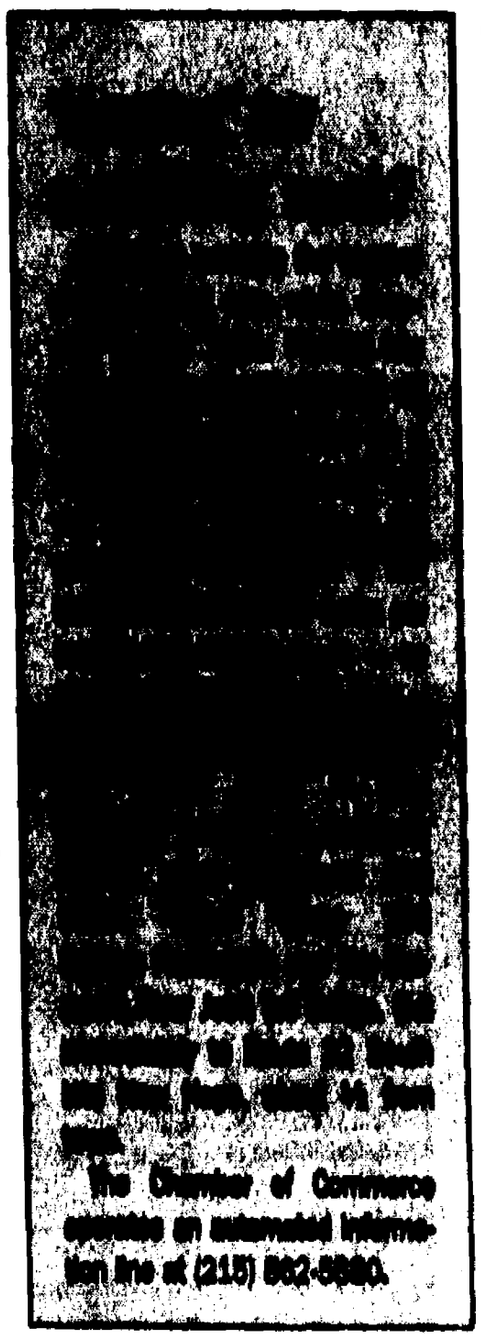

The first place we went was the information center in the historic town hall at the corner of South Main Street and Mechanic Street. We used the relatively clean restrooms and got all kinds of maps and brochures to help us sort out New Hope.

You can't help but notice the interesting assortment of visitors New Hope attracts – a mix of suburban couples, middle-aged bikers, celebrities, hippies and college kids. Everybody fits in and if you're looking for the place to wear your "Led Zeppelin T-shirt, this is it.

My 4-year-old daughter and I had lunch at the open-air Ringside Pub to fully enjoy the passing parade. This "casual" cafe was one of the least expensive spots on South Main Street, but still ended up costing $13.75 for a basket of fish and chips, a hot dog and two sodas. Prices on the main boulevard are not that inexpensive, we found, although the free show strolling by made it seem worthwhile.

A wedding party arrived for a Saturday afternoon ceremony and we got ice cream cones and joined the crowd watching the bride and her entourage get out of stretch limo. My daughter thought this was the most thrilling part of the day, actually, and wanted to look for a wedding dress in the local shops.

We next took a tour of the uniquely restored Parry Mansion on South Main and Perry Street. This 1784 home was occupied by direct descendants of the builder, Benjamin Parry, until it was bought by the New Hope Historical Society in 1966. You can see 125 years of decorating changes – from whitewashed walls to wallpaper, from candles to oil lamps – as you move through the rooms and additions. Hours are 1-5 p.m. Friday through Sunday. A donation of $4 is requested to help keep up the house.

The busiest shop by far on Main Street was Gypsy Heaven, "The Witch Shop of New Hope." There was barely room to squeeze in. "We're like this all the time," a modern "Wiccan" priestess told me. "We are everywhere." The shop sells new-age books, tarot cards, herbs, oils, and the "largest selection of magical and occult supplies."

Next door is another unique establishment – Brian's Motorclothes & Collectibles. If you are looking for that certain fringed-leather bra, "Live to Ride" boxer shorts or a pair of deerskin-fringed gloves with the Harley-Davidson logo, stop right here. New Hope attracts a lot of serious bikers. The lovely countryside and atmosphere makes it a nice place to ride to and meet friends.

One of the most memorable places we visited was Milagros Gallery on Mechanic Street. Enrique Patino has brought Oaxacan woodcarver Zuny Fuentes, son of famed folk-artist Epifanio Fuentes, to New Hope to demonstrate his technique for creating fanciful figures out of wood using a machete. The final shape – whether dancing frog, mermaid, beer-drinking skeleton or fire-breathing dragon – is serendipitous. The exuberant sculptures are then painted with irrepressible form and color.

"These were originally discovered in the 1950s for the Rockefeller collection," said Patino. "No two are alike." Zuny Fuentes will be at the shop from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. until May 23.

Buck's County Playhouse is renowned for its schedule of hit musicals and plays. Nunsense II premiered there until May 16 and Little Shop of Horrors starring Eddie Mekka (of Laverne and Shirley fame) is now playing until June 6. A series of children's musical theater is also scheduled, including Aladdin, Pinocchio and Cinderella in June and July. Tickets are $5 for these matinees. For ticket information call (215) 862-2041 or write PO Box 313, New Hope, Pa., 18938. Two other local theater groups offer quality productions – the S.J. Gerenser Theater and the Towpath House.

When you're tired of walking and window shopping, there are two paddlewheel ferry boats offering tours of the lovely Delaware River – Wells Ferry and Coryell's Ferry. Coryell's is recommended by none other than former local resident, General George Washington, ("Be sure to take the ferry by Coryell's as it is the swiftest, surest route..."). At one time the old ferries were the only link between the old colonial York road between Philadelphia and New York and was strategic to Washington during the Revolution. They brought troops across the river for the march on Trenton and victory over the Hessions. Half-hour tour prices are $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Other fun family outings are the New Hope Barge, where gentle mules pull barges up and down the picturesque canal, and the New Hope and Ivyland Railroad, offering steam passenger service since 1891. The nine-mile narrated round-trip between New Hope and Lahaska costs $6.95 for adults, $3.50 for children over age 3.

It's absolutely impossible to see all of New Hope in one visit. You'll want to come back again and again. It's the perfect spot for a weekend getaway at one of the many historic bed-and-breakfasts or charming inns, but it'll close enough that you can easily make the trip up for lunch and an afternoon of shopping. Don't forget to bring some comfortable walking shoes and prepare to broaden your horizons!

Seriously, Neil Simon

Not a comedy, not a drama, it's 'Lost in Yonkers'

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

Richard Dreyfuss gets top billing, but it's Mercedes Ruehl and Irene Worth, reprising their Tony-winning stage roles, who are the real stars of Neil Simon's Lost In Yonkers.

You can learn a lot about Hollywood by reading the opening credits of Neil Simon's Lost In Yonkers. Yes, that "Neil Simon's" is part of the title. And that tells you one thing.

Another thing you can learn is that whoever Richard Dreyfuss has for an agent, you want him/her on your side. Because Dreyfuss gets top billing on Yonkers despite the fact he doesn't come on screen for almost an hour into the picture, and then leaves a good 20 minutes before its over. And the story isn't even close to being about him.

It's about Bella (Mercedes Ruehl, recreating her Tony-winning stage role), a 36-year-old woman in Yonkers in 1942. Bella is supposed to have some kind of mental problem, like slight retardation or something, but the only manifestation Simon's screenplay gives us of this debilitating illness is that Bella tends to be incredibly cheerful and makes more sense than anyone else in her family. Must be rough.

Anyway, these two nephews of Bella's are left on her doorstep because their father is going off on a 10-month sales trip to raise $9,000 and pay off his dead wife's hospital bills. All of which would be fine, except Bella is still living with her German-born mother (Irene Worth, recreating her Tony-winning stage role), who is the grandmother from hell.

It's not long into the movie that Grandma makes her first appearance, and it's obvious at that moment, with director Martha Coolidge (Valley Girl, the underappreciated Real Genius) focusing on the slowly turning doorknob and dark lighting, that you realize what you're into here: Neil Simon hasn't written a comedy, and he hasn't written a human drama. He's written a monster movie, and the monster is a little old German lady.

Neil Simon hasn't written a comedy, and he hasn't written a human drama. He's written a monster movie, and the monster is a little old German lady.

From that point on, you start to dread Grandma's every appearance, since she'll just call one of the (inevitably wisecracking) boys "stupid" or hit them on the head, or yell at saintly Bella. It's no wonder Grandma's kids got the hell out of the house except Bella, and something of a surprise when Dreyfuss, playing a slightly shady Uncle Louie, comes back home when he's in trouble. You'd think he'd want to go someplace more homey, like jail.

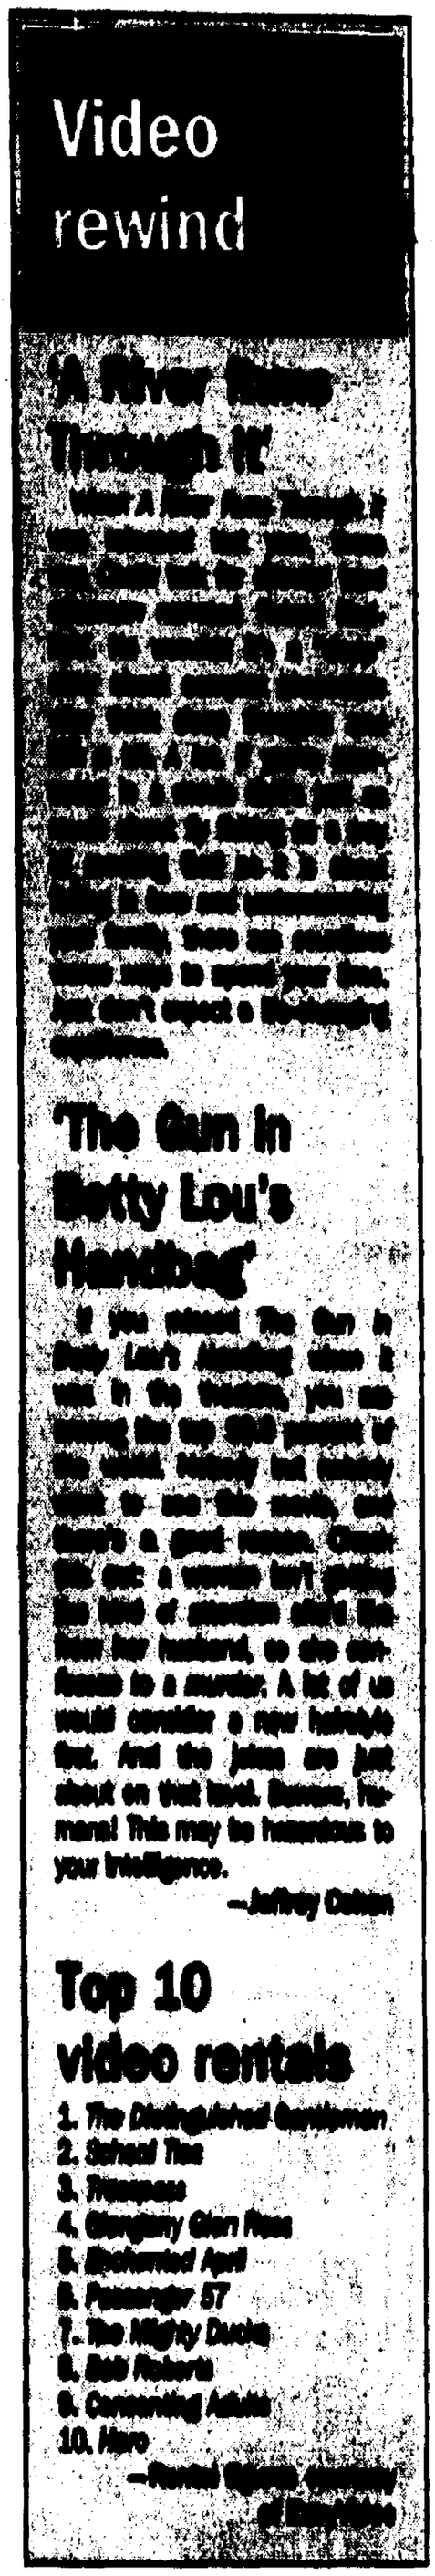

Dreyfuss, playing Louie (the role was expanded from the stage version once the Goodbye Man signed on) as a combination of Jimmy Cagney and Lou Costello, is entertaining as all get-out, which is a relief when you've been dealing with a maniacal grandmother for 50 minutes. And Ruehl, given all the character hot buttons she's got to push, goes all out. She's winning, she's delightful, she's touching...she's just not all that handicapped, and you wonder why she doesn't get the hell out of the house and leave the old battle axe to rot.

It's a pity when people like Neil Simon and Woody Allen, who have the gift of laughter, feel they must "expand" and move into Pulitzer Prize territory (a prize which, in fact, Yonkers won, causing some brouhaha). This is, after all, Simon's attempt at The Glass Menagerie, and it's a story that's already been told, by someone who knew it better.

In this case, the jokes seem even more out of place than usual, and coming from a 13-year-old boy (who gets almost all the best lines), they're especially artificial. The movie, also, can't make up its mind whether it's about the two kids left to suffer with mean old Grandma, about Louie trying to elude two scary hoods in a yellow car, or about Bella. It finally decides on the best option, but it's a while getting there.

Lost in Yonkers will appeal to anybody who thought Brighton Beach Memoirs was Arthur Miller with laughs. There's an audience for this, "Doc" Simon knows, and they get what they pay for. The raw emotions are revealed, the typical scathing words are yelled, and everybody makes up with everybody, kind of, eventually. But in the end, it's as disposable as this newspaper. Maybe moreso. After all, this newspaper is recyclable.

'The Gun in Betty Lou's Handbag'

If you missed The Gun in Betty Lou's Handbag when it was in the theaters, you can console yourself by the fact that it's a cute, lovely little movie with a good moral. Good for a rainy afternoon with the kids. Or a movie with grandma. Or a movie with a friend you feel kind of ambivalent about. Not too heavy, so she won't think it's a murder. A lot of us would consider a new handgun fun. And the jokes are just about on that level. Ramona, Norma! This may be hazardous to your intelligence.

THE ADVENTURES OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN
✔Disney retells the Mark Twain classic, one of the rare stories that just can't be done enough. Note the rating, though, parents. (PG)

AMERICAN HEART
•A paroled convict (Jeff Bridges) tries to reconcile with his estranged son (Edward Furlong, the kid from Terminator 2: Judgement Day). (R)

BENNY AND JOON
✔Aidan Quinn is the protective brother of unbalanced sister Mary Stuart Masterson, who falls in love with Johnny Depp in this offbeat romantic tale. (PG)

BOILING POINT
•Wesley Snipes (Passenger 57, White Men Can't Jump) stars with Dennis Hopper in the fastest cops and robbers action flick. (R)

BORN YESTERDAY
•Remake of the 1950 George Cukor comedy (based on the Garson Kanin play) about a millionaire who hires a journalist to tutor his showgirl girlfriend on cultured behavior. John Goodman, Melanie Griffith and Don Johnson assume the respective roles of Broderick Crawford, William Holden and Oscar-winner Judy Holliday. (PG)

BOUND BY HONOR
•Director Taylor Hackford (An Officer and a Gentleman) traces the lives of three young men in the Chicano culture of modern East Los Angeles. (R)

COP AND A HALF
•Burt Reynolds is a cop forced to partner with a pint-sized, 8-year-old witness to a crime, with the expected comic results. Directed by Henry Winkler. (PG)

THE CRYING GAME
✔Oscar-nominated romantic thriller about an IRA fugitive hiding out in London, where he falls for a woman who also has a few skeletons in her closet. (R)

THE DARK HALF
•George Romero (Night of the Living Dead, Creepshow) scripted and directed this horror flick about a successful author with a violent alter ego. Based on a novel by Stephen King. (R)

DAVE
✔Kevin Kline stars in this romantic comedy about a regular guy and presidential lookalike who's recruited to stand in for the Commander-in-Chief. Highly-anticipated film, directed by Ivan Reitman (Ghostbusters, Twins, Leagle Eagles), also pokes fun at the media and the Washington political scene and features numerous cameos by politicians, media and other celebrity-types. With Sigourney Weaver, Frank Langella. (PG-13)

DRAGON: THE BRUCE LEE STORY
•Talk about your creepy coincidences: this action-drama bio of Bruce Lee, the original martial arts movie star who died young (and mysteriously), comes on the heels of the death of his son, Jason Scott Lee, an up-and-coming star who was killed just a few weeks ago in a freak accident (shot to death by a prop gun) while filming another movie. Brandon Lee (no relation), Lauren Holly (TV's Picket Fences) and Robert Wagner. (PG-13)

INDECENT PROPOSAL
•Director Adrian Lyne's (Fatal Attraction) supposedly dramatic take on the same subject as Honeymoon in Vegas – a billionaire (Robert Redford) offers a young couple (Demi Moore, Woody Harrelson) a cool million if the wife spends one night with him. Deservedly-poor reviews of this film, which rehashes virtually every romantic movie that ever made a profit, haven't stopped it from becoming the box-office hit of the spring. Try to resist the hype. (R)

INDIAN SUMMER
•Ensemble cast (Alan Arkin, Vincent Spano, Diane Lane, Kevin Pollack, Elizabeth Perkins, Julie Warner) enlivens Big Chill-type comedy about a group of friends who spend a vacation at their childhood summer camp. (PG-13).

NEIL SIMON'S LOST IN YONKERS

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING
✓Kenneth Branagh (Henry V, Dead Again) directs and stars in this latest adaption of the Shakespeare comedy with his wife, recent Oscar-winner Emma Thompson (Howard's End). Also with Denzel Washington, Michael Keaton and Keanu Reeves. (PG-13)

Kevin Kline, impersonating the president, falls out of character to perform a magic trick for a homeless child in the new Ivan Reitman comedy Dave.

THE NIGHT WE NEVER MET
•Roomates Matthew Broderick (Ferris Bueller's Day Off) and Annabella Sciorra (Whispers in the Dark) fall in love in this urban comedy set in New York City. (R)

POINT OF NO RETURN
•Sexy Bridget Fonda (Single White Female, Singles) is a death-row murderess recruited by a covert organization of high-level assassins in this Americanized version of the French film La Femme Nikita. (R)

•Mario Van Peebles directs and stars in this story about black soldiers of the Spanish-American war who beome the renegade protectors of a black frontier community. (R)

THE SANDLOT
•Bad News Bears-style fun with a band of scruffy kids who start a baseball team. Karen Allen and James Earl Jones join the roster of young unknowns. (PG)

SIDEKICKS
•Karate-Kid style action comedy with Beau Bridges, Joe Piscopo and Richard Moll. The only question is whether Chuck Norris can finally turn in a believable performance when playing himself. (PG)

SPLITTING HEIRS
•Comedy about a search for missing royalty written and produced by Monty Python's Eric Idle, who co-stars with John Cleese, Rick Moranis and Barbara Hershey. (PG-13)

STRICTLY BALLROOM
✓Dazzling romance centering around a ballroom dancing competition features some spectacular choreography. (PG)

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES 3
•The Fab Four fight real ninjas when they are transported back to 17th century Japan in this latest live-action feature based on the popular cartoon series. (PG)

THIS BOY'S LIFE
•A violent, unstable Robert De Niro offers a stable home life for a divorced mother (Ellen Barkin) and her teenage son, who both come to regret the union. (R)

THREE OF HEARTS
✓Young romance with a twist – William Baldwin is a male hustler hired by a jilted lesbian (Kelly Lynch) to seduce and jilt her former girlfriend (Sherilyn Fenn, the cherry-stem temptress from Twin Peaks). Baldwin is surprisingly good and Lynch (Drugstore Cowboy) is a revelation. A warm, intelligent, delightful love story as long as you don't try to figure out why either of them loves the poorly-developed, badly-acted Fenn character. (R)

UNFORGIVEN
☆Clint Eastwood won Oscars for best picture and best director with this masterpiece about a former gunslinger who can't escape his past. Gene Hackman won a best supporting actor Oscar as a self-righteous sheriff. (R)

WHO'S THE MAN
•Rap stars Doctor Dre and Ed Lover play it for laughs as two misfits who stumble upon a scandal that threatens their Harlem neighborhood. (R)

Classic car show parks in Edison

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

The area's classic car show circuit heats up this weekend in Edison, where the seventh annual Springfest Antique Classic Car Show and Crafts Fair will attract hundreds of distinctive automobiles and thousands of visitors.

The 1992 show and fair raised over $15,000 for its organizers and benefactors — the Edison First Aid Squad No. 2 on New Dover Road, which will also host the event. Proceeds will help maintain their efforts to provide voluntary emergency medical services tot he township.

The event is scheduled for Sunday, May 23, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. The rain date is Sunday, May 30.

Last year, over 575 rare and classic cars, street rods and vintage ,military vehicles were on hand for the estimated 4,000 spectators. This year, a similar amount of vehicles will return, while entertainment will include music by "The Wolfman," a hot-air balloon flight, and the giveaway of a classic 1954 Buick (only pre-registered show car exhibitors are eligible). Refreshments will also be available.

SPRINGFEST ANTIQUE AND CLASSIC SHOW AND OUTDOOR CRAFTS FAIR Sunday, May 23, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., at the Edison First Aid Squad No. 2, 848 New Dover Road. Tickets $2. (908) 549-3883, ext. 4.

William Reinholtz' 1931 Buick, which will be one of the cars featured at the Edison First Aid Squad's seventh annual Springfest Antique and Classic Car Show and Outdoor Crafts Fair Sunday, May 23, is described as "John Dillinger's favorite getaway car."

New museum to open

A new 18th century museum, aimed toward children of all ages, will open in the Revolutionary section of southern Franklin Township Sunday, May 23.

The whole family can enjoy the hands-on games, weaving, cheeses, an open chimney demonstration and 18th century fashions from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, with students from the Live Histories Club of Montgomery High School serving as interpreters. The Montgomery students will also be honored during a brief ceremony for their time and effort in the planning and setup of the museum.

The Children's Museum at Rocksingham is located on Route 518, east of Rocky Hill between Rocky Hill and Route 27.

STAGE

A singular quartet

Sandra ReAves to star in 'The Late Great Ladies of Blues and Jazz'

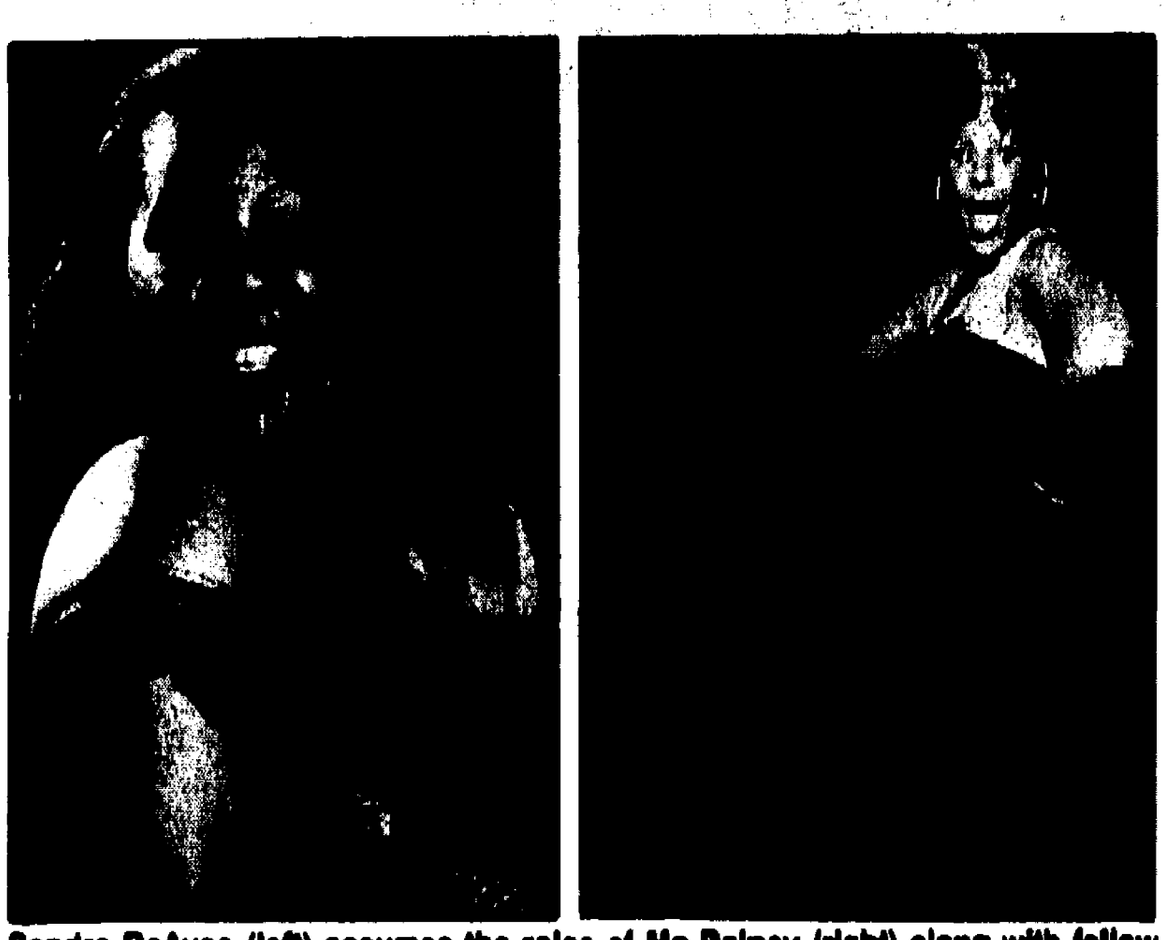

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theatre Critic

As the Crossroads Theatre this month approaches the close of its 15th season, the institution combines its usual reverence for the past with a dedication to the future. Having just completed its Genesis Festival, which included readings of new plays by rising African-American authors as well as a conference attended by some of the country's most important artistic directors, Crossroads closes its season with a return engagement of The Late Great Ladies of Blues and Jazz, a tour-de-force, one-woman show created and performed by Sandra ReAves, the actress and vocalist who herself has forged a career in which Crossroads has been instrumental.

ReAves, who has performed on Broadway, throughout the country and internationally, has been involved with Crossroads since its early days on the second floor of a creaky New Brunswick factory building. Now, welcomed like an old friend into the theater's elaborate, $4 million complex on George Street, ReAves is as much a part of the future of the institution, the leading African-American theater in the country.

"To come back and see this beautiful building where one cold winter day we stood outside and broke ground, it almost brought tears to my eyes, because I knew what the dream was," she said. "This kind of thing makes me very hopeful. I'm so proud to be a part of the progress and the forward motion of Crossroads."

ReAves played at Crossroads in past musical productions like Ma Rainey's Black Bottom, Raisin, One Mo' Time, and Further Mo', and she has appeared at fund-raising events for the theater as well as in a previous engagement of Late Great Ladies, her signature work and one she is delighted to bring back to the area, this time in a State Theatre appearance, running from May 21-25, directed by Crossroads artistic director Ricardo Kahn.

Sandra ReAves (left) assumes the roles of Ma Rainey (right) along with fellow musical greats Dinah Washington, Bessie Smith and Billie Holiday in The Late Great Ladies of Blues and Jazz at the State Theatre in New Brunswick.

Late Great Ladies, in which ReAves portrays through word and song Black American divas Ma Rainey, Bessie Smith, Ethel Waters, Billie Holiday, Dinah Washington and Mahalia Jackson, is a project special to this artist who first conceived the project 14 years ago.

"The show started out as a two-night tribute which paralleled my own life with the songs of these women," ReAves recalled. "When a lot of people suggested expanding the show, I did a lot of research into the lives and the work of these women, because I didn't know much about them. I was a do-wopper and a pop singer. I grew up with spirituals and gospel on Sunday, country and western on the radio, and Elvis Presley, who was the first singer I tried to imitate when I was growing up. What I found out through the research and writing of the show's text was that these women and their music were very much an influence on my work whether I had realized it or not."

During the initial performances of the show, performed at New York's legendary Cotton Club, Bessie Smith had felt the closest to ReAves, largely because she had for years been told she looked and sounded like the legendary vocalist. Eventually, through her research and performance, each of the subjects of Late Great Ladies took on special significance to ReAves.

"I was especially afraid of tackling Billie Holiday," she said, "but after a couple of years of doing the other women, I found it very necessary as an actress to meet the challenge of doing Billie. Ultimately, she's the one many people found the most believable, effective moment of the show."

Each of the women included in Late Great Ladies has personal significance for ReAves after her 14 years of recreating their diverse vocal styles and dramatizing their often troubled private lives on stage.

"I credit Ma Rainey for her earthiness and generosity as a singer," ReAves said. "Bessie Smith, for her pride, for how she just stood her ground and planted her foot in the music; Ethel Waters, who crossed all these lines no other performer had crossed; Billie Holiday, for her strength, overcoming adversity and leaving this incredible music; Dinah Washington for her flamboyance, versatility, and refinement; and Mahalia Jackson, for her commitment to doing her own kind of music despite her appreciation for the ladies who had come before her."

ReAves herself has been singing since she was a child growing up in the south, but she left show business after demoralizing experiences in the New York recording industry of the 1960s, a system she says often took advantage of young, eager artists. (Recently, while touring in Europe where American blues is extremely popular, ReAves discovered collectors who have early recordings of her work, many she was unaware existed and some printed under fictitious names.)

After 10 years working as a bar maid and office worker, ReAves returned to show business, somewhat reluctantly, through an acting class suggested by a friend. It was then her career began to take off, resulting in dramatic roles and ultimately a return to concert, off-Broadway and Broadway appearances. Today, ReAves divides her time between theater, concertizing, Late Great Ladies touring and even film work which has included appearances in 'Round Midnight and Lean on Me.

Today, one of the greatest pleasures of her work is bringing together diverse American audiences who are together rediscovering the music of the past.

"People are struggling for power and looking for ethnic cleansing, but we're messing up such a wonderful world," ReAves said. "But, thank God, music sometimes breaks down barriers. It can unite people who might otherwise not come and sit together as an audience. Five years ago, in one city I played in Kentucky, pretty much a segregated community, a woman almost in tears came to me after the show. She said she had tried for years to bring her community together and that Late Great Ladies was the first show to do it."

Blawenburg Band to offer free spring concert

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

The Blawnburg Band, "New Jersey's oldest town band," will perform its annual spring concert Saturday, May 22, at Montgomery High School.

The bold and brassy sounds of Broadway favorites, Sousa marches and Dixieland jazz will echo in the halls of Montgomery High School Saturday, May 22.

The free night of music comes courtesy of the Blawenburg Band, the Montgomery-based ensemble touted as "New Jersey's oldest town band," as it offers its 1993 spring concert and reception in the school's auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

The Blawenburg Band is made up of musicians representing several of the local communites, including Skillman, Rocky Hill, Belle Mead and Blawenburg. The 55 active members gather for about 50 performances each year, playing mainly at community events, retirement communities, nursing homes and civic celebrations.

But their talents have been showcased nationally as well, including White House performances the last two summers in Washington, D.C.

They're also well known for their musical contributions to special events on the local level like the North Princeton Development Christmas program, the Boy Scouts Strawberry Festival, the Carrier Clinic's volunteer dinner, the Rocky Hill Bicentennial and, of course, the traditional Montgomery fireworks display on the fourth of July.

Last year, the group marked the 100th anniversary of the first New Jersey appearance one of their inspirations, John Philip Sousa, with a concert in Plainfield. In keeping with their Sousa connection, accomplished tuba soloist Loras Schissel, a Library of Congress authority on Sousa, will be featured during the Saturday concert. Schissel appeared in the PBS documentary If You Knew Sousa, which was produced by Blawenburg Band member Tom Spain.

The concert will also include a full range of band music and showtunes along with serious instrumental compositions. Following the concert, the band's Dixieland ensemble will perform several traditional jazz favorites. A reception with free refreshments will follow in the high school lunch room.

BLAWENBURG BAND SPRING CONCERT AND RECEPTION Saturday, May 22, 8 p.m., at Montgomery High School, Burnt Hill Road, Montgomery. Free admission.

DINING

The great outdoors

Bridgewater Manor opens its patio for outside lunches

By MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

DIANE MATFLERD/WEEKENDPLUS

Patio diners enjoy fresh air, sunshine and the elegant garden atmospere along with their lunch at the Bridgwater Manor.

I love everything about spring. The blossoming of flowers, the buds on the trees — the return of the green in the lawn and the rainbow of colors all around us. The long, hard winter is over and new life is cropping up everywhere.

It's time to shed our cabin fever and get outside. And spring is the best time for being outdoors. It's not too warm or cold, the sun is shining (but not too brightly) and the breeze is blowing (but not too briskly).

One of the best ways to unwind in the middle of a hectic day is to relax at lunch with a co-worker. Jim Kaptain of the Bridgewater Manor called to remind us that patio dining was now available for lunch. I didn't need much to persuade me. Here was a chance to eat lunch and be outdoors at the same time.

The weather outside was perfect and the timing was right. I didn't want to spend another minute in my office. And what could be more lovely than to have lunch outside, in a picture-perfect landscape setting, on the patio at the Bridgewater Manor?

Apparently a lot of other people had the same idea. Most of the tables were filled by other office workers (you could tell by our pale faces.

The patio has white round tables with navy umbrellas. The chairs are comfortable and made for relaxing. There is an outside bar and a large white tent where all the cooking is done.

Off to the side is a large gazebo and behind that is a small pond with a water spout. The landscaping is impeccable. The gardens look like a picture from the National Geographic magazine. If only my yard could look like this!

We were told that the Manor's outside patio would be the setting for "Hemingway Under the Stars" — an evening featuring live bands and a D.J., with T-shirt giveaway promotions. This will be on Thursday evenings during the spring and summer seasons.

"Hemingway's Patio" menu is small with a few appetizers, salads, sandwiches, and one grilled fish, but a new menu will be available soon. The current one has five appetizers including steamers (market price), Jalapeno peppers ($4.50), wings ($4.95), fried calamari ($6.95) and Monterey sticks ($3.95).

You can order the soup of the day ($2.50) or a soup and a salad for $4.95. Other salads include a grilled chicken Caesar ($7.50), a tarragon chicken salad ($7.50) and a Key West platter of shrimp and tuna salads with tri-color pasta for $7.95.

For sandwiches, they have roast beef ($6.50), a half-pound burger ($5.25), shrimp salad ($6.95), deli hot dog ($2.50) and a sliced steak sandwich for $7.75. The grilled fresh fish of the day is at the market price.

The two of us ordered steamers (the real ones). There was a dozen in each order, served with drawn butter and served on a bed of lettuce.

My companion had the shrimp salad sandwich on toasted rye and served with a slive of melon and French fires. She said the shrimp salad was light and tasty.

I had the grilled chicken on a Caesar salad. There were mounds of tender chicken, home made croutons and fresh diced tomatoes, all on a bed of Caesar salad. It was one of the best I ever ate.

It was a good feeling eating outside after such a long and hard winter. We enjoyed it and it seemed like everyone there did, too. We returned to work relaxed and raring to go.

Wine With Reason

Marilyn Cormack

Royal Distributors had their Annual Spring Wine Tasting recently, so I have even more "must try" wines for you.

Atlas Peak Concenso 1989

Forget the fact that Dr. Richard Peterson is one of my teachers and a friend; this wine is great! My first impression was that I had not tasted anything so well balanced before. Inundated with fruit (berry and cassis) flavors and loads of spice. Tannins are there, but not overbearing. Say "yes" to this bottle.

Clos du Bois Briarcrest 1989

You knew this was coming. Briarcrest is 100% Cabernet from the Alexander Valley, and has a taste that I feel is totally unique to that area. The wine is way young to enjoy to the fullest right now but the fruit is ripe and rich, there's a good amount of acidity there, tannins, both wood and grape, are strong enough to make a backbone for at least fifteen years. One of my favorite wines in the world.

Hardy's Eileen Shiraz 1989

This bottle is like no other Shiraz I've tasted. Worth a long search to find some! The nose is almost all eucalyptus when first opened, and then you pick up heavy raspberries. In mouth, the wine just surrounds your mouth with flavors of berry, clove, and oak. Complex and wonderful. Try this at your earliest convenience.

Rodney Strong "Charlotte's Home" Sauvignon Blanc 1991

The 1990 vintage of this bottle sold out so fast that it feels like we've been waiting forever for another bottle. I'm happy to say that the '91 is superb! Herbs and melon on the nose, almost pure melon and apple in the mouth before the oak sneaks up on you. Totally fresh, acidic, lightly viscous with a very long finish.

Yes, there are still some more to come. There won't be any reason not to have wines for your summer parties. Enjoy!

A view of the highest quality

Horizons offers a glimpse of something special

GREEN BROOK — Perched atop a mountain, a small cluster of grand homes are a harbinger that something special is under way.

That special something is Horizons at Green Brook, a planned development of 52 homes offering quality construction and details that will appeal to the most discriminating homebuyer. Horizons celebrated its grand opening in mid April.

Builder Robert Goldman is offering the homes, which range in size from 3,000 to 3,600 square feet. Prices vary from $349,900 to $449,900. The higher priced lots boast breathtaking views of parts of Green Brook and Warren.

Two model homes, the Meridian and the Orion, are currently finished and open for viewing on the site. So far, 26 lots have been sold, said Joe Hart, the Coldwell Banker Schlott representative marketing the homes. Three of those are lots with views; there are 10 view lots still available, Mr. Hart said.

Op en, light-filled spaces characterize both the Meridian and Aurora models. Windows, sklights and numerous mirrors are designed to accent the homes' brightness.

SHARON WILSON/FORBES NEWSPAPERS

In the brick facade Meridian, Lovely, dark wood double doors open to an entry foyer with cathedral ceiling. The hardwood floor features a subdued design of squares and rectangles set at cross-grain to the lighter background wood. To the right of the door, a large coat closet falls several feet short of the ceiling, leaving an enchanting shelf area on which to display greenery or bric-a-brac.

Two the immediate left of the two-story entry foyer is the 15.5-by-14.6 step-down living room, highlighted by bow windows. Adjacent to the living room is the 17.5-by-14 foot formal dining room. again with cross grain hardwood floors. A walk-out bay window leads to the side yard.

At 17.5-by-11 feet, the kitchen is a cook's dream. Spacious and full of light from two windows about the stainless steel sink and sliding glass doors, the kitchen boasts a center island and pantry. The breakfast room is almost as large as the dining room. Sliding glass doors lead to the expansive wooden deck.

The two-story family room, at 17.5-by-17.3, is the showpiece of the first floor. A low wall separates it from the breafast room. A cathedral ceiling rises above a fireplace. Long windows with dramatic arced tops flank the fireplace. Above the hearth, three levels of mirrors reflect light and warmth back into the room.

Adjacent to the family room is a library — a snug 17.5-by-11.8 room with an optional fireplace. A laundry room, closet, powder room and two-car garage are also found on the first floor.

Ascending to the second floor via a staircase that sweeps up from the entry foyer, one enters onto a balcony that overlooks the family room. Four bedrooms, including a magnificent master suite, stem from the gallery area.

The master suite includes a 21.5-by-18 bedroom with optional tray ceiling, a 10.5-by-9.5 sitting area, and his and her walk-in closets on either side of the sitting area. Two more walk-in closets, both with en-

COVER HOUSE

A fireplace, flanked by two windows adds warmth to the Meridian's cozy library, with a full wall of built-in bookcases.

This model demonstrates the striking design of Horizons homes, including numerous windows to fill the homes with light.

Picture perfect contemporary style

Home boasts scenic grounds

HIGHLAND PARK – Luxury, comfort and convenience characterize this spectacular contemporary at 63 Brookdale Court.

Listing for $499,000 through Century 21, J.J Laufer, the home features executive-quality details, and panoramic views of its wooded lot and streams.

The entry hall boasts a valuted ceiling and a stunning Oak Bridge walkway over a winding stairwell leads to elegant lower level entertainment facilities.

The sunken living room overlooks the manicured country-like setting through picture windows. From the living room, a step up leads to the gracious dining room, located between the kitchen and living area. Full picture windows frame another lovely view.

The gourmet kitchen is custom made, with abundant cabinets and counter space. An open dining porch is accessed through the kitchen. A separate interior dining area and a breakfast room feature floor to ceiling picture windows overlooking the back yard.

An adjacent den featues a custom designed entertainment center, and rich paneling.

Built-in closets galore define the master bedroom, designed to eliminate the need for storage furniture. The suite also boasts a full bath.

There are three additional bedrooms, each with numerous custom built-ins. Three full baths connect to a 200-gallon water tank, gas fired and certain to never run out of hot water. The laundry is conveniently located on the first floor near the maid's room in the kitchen wing.

On the lower level, an elegant, banquet size family room boasts Tenessee marble, a fireplace, and wet bar fully equipped with hot and cold water and a refrigerator. Glass sliders lead to a 350-square

The family room overlooks the pool and patio in the back yard.

Ranch blends drama, taste with landscaping intended for summertime leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS — Located in a most desirable area, this dramatic ranch house at 3 Argyll Court nestles into a fabulously landscaped acre.

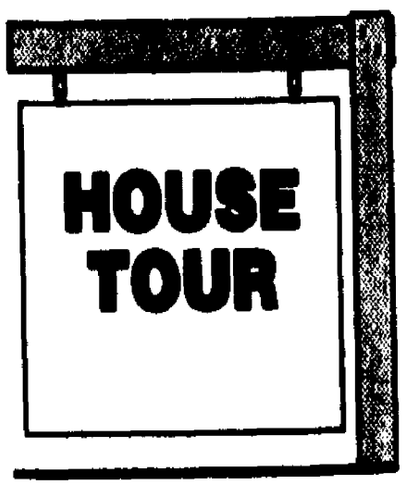

The home lists for $419,900 through Weichert, Realtors.

The grounds are beautifully manicured with mature plants and wooded areas. A heated inground pool, patios, gazebo and grassy sections make for the finest summer lifestyle.

This quality home calls out for a discriminating family. Rooms are generously sized, with three separate family rooms, and a wonderful floor plan to add to the home's special quality. On the first floor, the living room is a comfortable 15-by-23 feet. A brick front fireplace adds warmth and appeal to the room.

The formal dining room is 12-by-13, and features a lovely bay window. A skylight takes the place of a chandelier, using natural light and overhead spots to dramatic effect.

The family room is 13-by-23, keeping in step with the grand sizes found throughout the home. One wall of the room is almost entirely glass sliders to the back-

The kitchen is a generous 13-by-21, with ample cabinet space and a pantry. There are three bedrooms. The master bedroom is 14-by-16, and two additional bedrooms are 10-by-12 and 11-by-12. There are also two and a half baths.

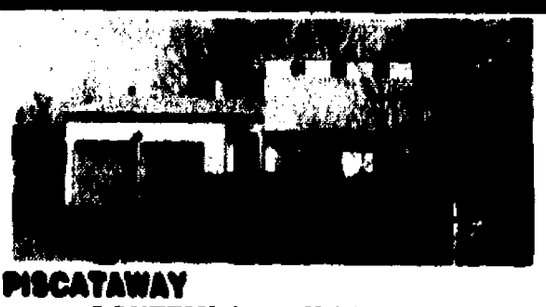

At the basement level, there are two more family rooms — a 16-by-21, and a 14-by-15 — a fourth 12-by-12 bedroom, and a full bath.

A wet bar highlights the larger family room, while the smaller room is currently equipped as a game room with a pool table. A fourth 12-by-12 bedroom and a full bath make up maid's quarters in the basement.

The lowest mortgage rates in 20 years!

Fixed-rate, 30-year home mortgages are the lowest they've been in 20 years.

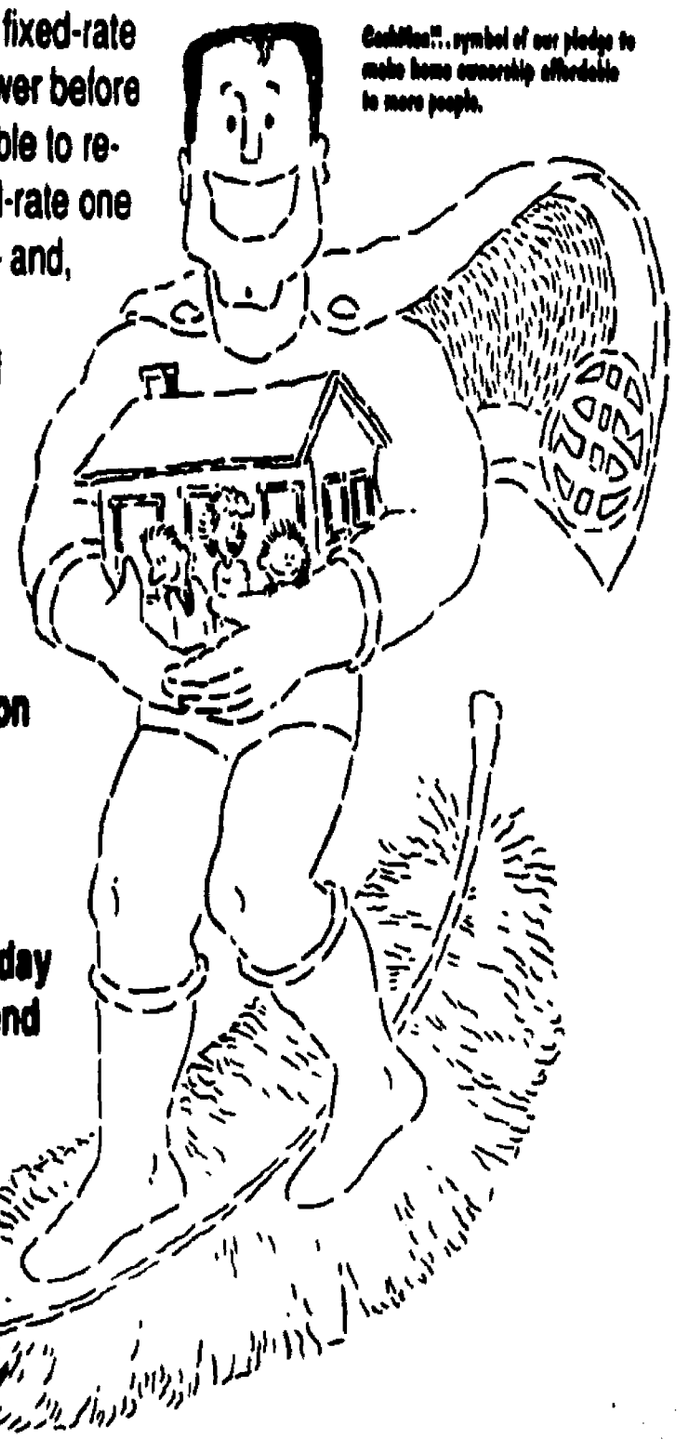

7.250% Rate

7.559% Annual Percentage Rate*

360 payments of $6.83 per $1,000 borrowed...up to a maximum loan of $203,150.

A low rate and a way to get an even lower one at no extra cost!

If the rates you're guaranteed when you apply for a fixed-rate mortgage go even lower before you close, you'll be able to re-lock into a lower fixed-rate one time prior to closing – and, quite possibly, save yourself thousands of dollars in interest charges over the life of the loan.

Hallmark offers grand homes at Orchard Hill Estates.

New homes are springing up

Spring is the season for starting new things, including a new life in a new home.

Fortunately for homebuyers, attractive, quality homes are popping up like fresh spring flowers, nourished by the brightening economy and the loving care of committed builders.

The Hallmark Group continues to build quality homes and a quality reputation, with two executive communities.

The luxurious executive community, Orchard Hill Estates, located on River Road in the South Branch section of Hillsborough, has opened a second section of homesites and sales are brisk already. All homesites will be of two-plus acres, and many are wooded.

"They offer all the privacy and beauty of a truly rural setting, yet they are in the very heart, of the central New Jersey corridor which offers easy access to Philadelphia, New York City, Princeton and New Brunswick as well as to some of the best-known shopping areas on the East coast," noted Paul Streifer, co-owner and marketing director of ERA American Dream. Realtors of Hillsborough, exclusive marketing agents for Orchard Hills Estates.

Paul Giannantonio, co-owner/ broker of EPA American Dream, Realtors noted that despite the soft economy over the past year, Orchard Hill homes have continued to sell. Mr. Giannantonio attributed this to "value for the dollar. Orchard Hill Estates offers more home for the money than any other new home in the state. The amenities have to be seen to be believed and the customizing is far more extensive than any other builder can provide.

"Right now we have three homes that can be delivered to buyers in 45 to 90 days, depending on the customizing requested," he said. "I really believe these homes are the best value in the state."

Another quality Hallmark development, Branchville Estates in Hillsborough, the single-family home community for executive-level families, is nearing a sellout, with only four building lots remaining.

These truly estate sized homes are on properties ranging from two to eight acres with views of both the mountains and the river. Ranging in size from 2,941 square feet to 4,500 square feet, they feature four or five bedrooms and two-and three-car garages with side entries and doors with raised panels.

With prices starting at $319,900, Branchville Estates represents the best dollar value in central New Jersey, and, when combined with Hallmark's generous amenity package it is an outstanding value.

The homes in Both Branchville and Orchard Hill are truly designed to impress. They feature brick entry steps with sweeping brick stoops leading to dramatic double front doors opening into two-story entry foyers with ceramic tile floors. All homes include a private master bedroom suite with a lavish bath including a garden tub, custom oak interior railing is used throughout, as is wall-to-wall carpeting, six panel colonial interior doors with colonial trim, abundant closets with ventilated shelving, family room with wood-burning fireplace, wolmanized decks, and one-, two-, and 10-year homebuyer warranties.

The designer kitchens are custom crafted and feature a dazzling array of GE appliances, stainless steel sinks, center island work areas and no-wax designer flooring in both the kitchen and breakfast areas.

The luxury decorator baths are accented with color-coordinated ceramic tile, custom-crafted vanities and full width mirrors.

The homes are ideally situated on gently rolling acreage with ample shade trees and permanent open space affording views of the Raritan River.

To reach Branchville Estates or Orchard Hill Estates, take Route 287, 78 or 22 to the Somerville area. Follow signs to Route 202 South. Proceed past Somerville Circle on Route 202 to Old York Road, turn left. Proceed a half-mile to South Branch Road, turn right. Proceedd one mile to Studdiford Road, turn left. After bridge turn left onto River Road and continue to models on right.

Hallmark Homes, builders of a dynamic line of estate homes for the past 30 years, proudly announce close out sales at Blue Ridge Estates.

With nearly the entire development sold-out, the builder has decided to put "spec" homes on the three remaining lots. Larry Horowitz, project developer, stated: "With such a demand from transferee buyers, we feel it is of the utmost importance to have homes that can be occupied within 60 Lo 90 days."

Evan Squire, new homes manager for Century 21 Worden & Green added, "We currently are marketing the three reniaining homes at Blue Ridge Estates and with the way these homes have been selling, these three won't last long. Prices at Blue Ridge start from $369,900."

Some of the model homes under construction are the 3,000-square-foot Bedminster model and the 4,400-square-foot Madison. All three remaining homes come with custom crafted kitchens, partial brick facades, ceramic tile, and a complete list of standard features too numerous to mention. All models are due to be completed by late

Vacation house lets you stay at home

Spring has sprung, and with the turning of the seasons the average person's fancy turns to thoughts of ... vacation!

If Somerset County, with its gently rolling hills and green landscapes, or Middlesex and Union counties, with their close access to the Big Apple, aren't your ideal of a getaway spot, don't despair. The Poconos are a short drive away, and the shore — not to mention all its sun, sand and water frolic — is an even shorter drive.

Envision yourself clad in a pair of thongs and shorts, stepping out the front door of your vacation condo and taking a stroll down the boardwalk. Or, imagine packing a picnic lunch, gathering the family together and walking a few blocks to the beach. If either of these scenarios appeal to you, it could be you're in the market for a shore area vacation home.

Benia Grygent can help you.

The market for vacation homes, like the overall economy, is making a comeback, said the branch manager for B&K Real Estate in Mantoloking.

"It's been a slow comeback," Ms. Grygent said. "The market really started slipping in the summer of '87."

Now, she said, realtors are seeing "a real leveling. I don't think will ever see the dramatic (growth) again."

Ms. Grygent's firm markets homes in the area of South Monmouth and Ocean counties shores, including Barnegat Bay, the Manasquan River, the Metedeconk River, and the Atlantic Ocean. She has listings in Point Pleasant Beach, Brick, Bayhead and Spring Lake, to name a few.

Vacation homes can be just about anything the individual buyer is looking for — from condos to full size homes. Condo prices begin around $89,000 and range up from there, Ms. Grygent said.

"Of course it's a whole different ball game if it's on the water. Everything is escalated by about $100,000," she said.

Home prices range from the mid $150,000s up to $5.5 million, she said. Again, waterfront pushes the property value up.

Advantages to waterfront are obvious. But that doesn't mean a home several blocks from the water is any less accessible to the numerous water sports and other attractions associated with the beach.

In many areas there are boardwalks with standard amusements, attractions and shopping, Ms. Grygent said. But there are also boardwalks aimed solely at those who want to enjoy the beach, without the distractions of an arcade setting.

The communities around the resort areas offer the usual types of entertainments, such as theaters, bowling alleys, parks, and shopping centers, she said.

Shopping for a vacation home, and securing a mortgage, are really no different than searching for a primary residence, Ms. Grygent said. Lenders still look at the property's location, and the results of a home inspection.

And if anyone doubted that the yen for a couple days off is a universal desire, witness the fact that there doesn't seem to be any typical vacation homebuyer.

"At the height of the market, in 1985-87, we saw a lot of stock brokers," Ms. Grygent said. "That's not the case now."

She said buyers range from doctors, attorneys and bank presidents in the higher price ranges, to office professionals and other working folk at the lower price levels.

Picture perfect contemporary style

-foot patio.

There is a gym/exercise room, a guest bath, and an additional kitchen facility. The second kitchen includes a refrigerator, oven, cooktop, sink and counter.

Also on the lower level are 1,000 square feet of unfinished space that can be used as storage area, or finished as additional living area.

The home sits on a professionally landscaped lot on a cul-de-sac, with a secluded rear yard that overlooks a brook.

For more information, or to view the home, call Ballard Hultkin at 247-4663, or Rebecca Rivkin at 572-0184.

Whether viewed by golfers from the fifth fairway of its Rees Jones-designed golf course or by guests and neighbors from the landscaped paddock on Augusta Court, Cherry Valley's premiere Showcase Home is an impressive sight.

"This one-of-a-kind home is grand in every sense of the word," said Frank C. Weed, vice president and general manager for DKM Residential Properties Corp., developer of the 644-acre master planned country club community near Princeton.

"Families will be especially impressed with the special features in this home because everywhere they look they'll discover something exciting and dramatic happening," Mr. Weed emphasized, noting The Grand Camberley is the first of several showcase homes to be built at Cherry Valley by DKM's Cherry Valley Construction Company.

The four-bedroom, three and a half bath residence, whose rear elevation overlooks the fifth hole of the community's 18-hole golf course, has more than 4,200 square feet of living space highlighted by a 22-foot-high interior stairwell that opens to an octagonal gallery with a double tray ceiling on the second floor.

The "arrival experience" in the two-story main entry foyer begins with a grand staircase which sets the tone for what families can expect to discover elsewhere in the home. Among those discoveries are a 500-plus square foot guest suite with its own entry and staircase; a hearth room with see-thru fireplace; decorative wood columns that frame room entries and define living spaces; a unique combination of ceiling treatments that add character and dimension to each room; and engaging interior merchandising by award-winning interior designer Kay Green of Orlando, Fla.

Four columns and an arched entry with decorative entablature lend a touch of elegance to the living room with its 13-foot flat ceiling and fireplace. The dining room — designed for formal entertaining — is defined by two columns, a bay window, and double french doors that open to the hearth room with thru-views to the outside.

The home's interior living space is amplified by volume ceilings, divided-light windows with transoms, and windows along the entire rear elevation which provide unobstructed views of the back yard terrace and golf course. Upstairs, the lavishly appointed master suite occupies half the floor space. A double tray ceiling with crown moulding, private sitting room with built-in wet bar and media center, and spacious his and hers walk-in wardrobes highlight the master suite, while the attractive master bath boasts a garden whirlpool tub tucked beneath a bay window, an octagonal tray ceiling, dual-sink vanity with wrap-around mirrors, and glass-enclosed shower.

Save Thousands!

Buying a home? Most buyers arrange their purchase with a combination of down-payment and a thirty-year mortgage. By stretching payments out over a long period - say thirty years - they are reduced to an affordable level.

Take, for example, a home selling for $100,000. Buyers might pay $20,000 as a downpayment, and finance the balance of $80,000 for 30 years at 8.5% interest. Payments for principal and interest would amount to $615.13 per month.

At the end of the loan, after 360 payments, a total of $221,477.09 would have been paid back on the original $80,000 mortgage. Does that sound high? Want to know how to save $62,164.48 and pay off the mortgage in only 18½ years?

The answer is simple. Pay and extra $100 per month, along with the regular $615,13 payment. By paying a little extra each month, the principal balance is reduced more quickly. This results in less interest each month which, in turn, accelerates the principal payoff even more. The result? The loan is paid in less than nineteen years.

Before paying extra each month, verify with the lender that you can make extra payments to principal. If so, make a separate check for $100, and identify that is is to applied against principal.

Here's an alternative that can save you even more. Many mortgage lenders offer interest rates that are ½% lower if you borrow for only 15 years. The same $80,000 loan set up at 8% for 15 years, would bear payments of $764.52.

Over fifteen years, you would save an additional $21,669.01 over the earlier example. That's an impressive total savings of $83,833.49 over what you would have paid on a thirty-year mortgage.

Ask a real estate agent for information about other mortgage plans currently available. There are many, and the likelihood is high that there is one perfectly suited to your financial needs.

Title insurance can protect home investment

By JOE MANCUSO
Regional Director, Century 21 of the Northeast

A new home is a substantial investment and most likely the largest purchase you'll ever make.

Like any investment, buying a home can be a calculated risk. That's why each homeowner should consider the type of protection only title insurance can provide.

A title is proof of property ownership and it extends to the owner the right to legally occupy and use the property. In order to grant you title insurance, a title company must first conduct a search through public records to learn if any judgments have been filed against the seller which may lay claim to the title of his or her property. Without title insurance, however, an owner's claim to the property may be jeopardized by several undisclosed threats.

Title insurance protects a homeowner against these threats, such as liens, a forged deed, an illegal title transfer or an invalid divorce.

If your title is challenged by one or more of these threats, you could eventually suffer the complete loss of your home and property. Even in less extreme cases, any claim against your title would more than likely result in a time-consuming and costly legal battle.

Title insurance, therefore, is vital to defend any claims against your title — your

Fixed, ARMs depend on realtor for rates

Q What are the current interest rates and points?

A Current 30-year fixed rate is about 7⅛ percent with three points. One-year Adjustable Rate Mortgages are at 4⅛ percent, three points. Check with your Realtor to provide quotes.

Q How much will I need for closing costs?

A Depending on the amount of down payment and mortgage program (e.i. points), a general rule of thumb is 4-6 percent of the purchase price of the home.

Q How much of a mortgage do I qualify for?

A Again, this depends on the strength of the buyer's qualifications, such as downpayments, credit history, job status, and mortgage program desired. Check with your Realtor for proper guidelines and direction. A typical example would be 25-41 percent of your gross income cannot exceed one month's proposed PITI payment.

Q How are the schools in the area?

A We recommend that the purchaser contact the schools or visit the schools for first hand knowledge. Call the superintendent of schools, or have the Realtor provide the school information, such as SAT scores, dollars spent per pupil, and student-teacher ratios.

Q What inspections should be performed when purchasing?

A We reccommend having a home inspection by a qualified engineer, as well as a termite and radon inspection. Fees vary. If the home has a well and/or septic system, these functions should be inspected as well.

Q What about recreation, shopping and major transportation?

A Have your Realtor provide you with this information, as well as giving you an area tour to determine if that area is being considered.

Q What about crime rates in the area?

A The local police can provide this information.

Q How can I find out what may be built in any undeveloped areas around my home?

A With your Realtor's help, go to the local municipal offices — building department, zoning office, planning board, health department. This will give you a good idea as to what will happen, or could happen in the future.

Q Who should I use for attorney, inspections and mortgages?

A Have your Realtor provide at least three names of each, call all and do some research on your own. Don't forget to ask for their fee structures.

Questions and answers were provided by Michael Santini of Prudential Golden Key in Piscataway.

Title insurance can protect you legal claim of ownership. If your title is challenged, a title company will pay to defend your rights in court. Even if you lose a court case, your title company will reimburse you for the full amount of the policy.

Once purchased, your title insurance will protect you as long as you legally own the property.

The owner's title insurance policy is usually paid by the home seller. By paying for the owner's policy, the seller is providing a sign of good faith, assuring that the title is in good standing.

Another type of title insurance is called a mortgage or loan policy. This is paid for by the buyer and is usually required by the mortgage lender. A loan policy protects the mortgage lender from similar undisclosed threats, and it guarantees that the lender will receive payment if the property is somehow lost to another claim.

The fee for title insurance differs little among the various companies which offer it. Many companies offer different types of policies, however, that range from limited coverage to the full purchase price of your property.

Considering that your home may be one of your largest investments, you should consult your real estate attorney or your title company before closing to learn about the extent of your individual title insurance policy.

Winston Farms in the Roxiticus Valley section of Mendham Township blends three different styles, all equally grand, in three magnificent mansions.

A Georgian, a French country, and an English country manor, each about 8,500 square feet are situated on on Winston Farm Lane. Now builder Howard Polo plans to continue this stately style with five other homes on Roxiticus Road.

The homes will be custom products, tailored to the homeowner's tastes, right down to the landscaping. Mr. Polo has specialized in custom homes and large-scale renovation in Morris County for 30 years.

Pride of craftsmanship is evident in the Polo homes. Moldings and doorway castings are finely wrought and full of authentic architectural detail that one might imagine being in a stately home of the past. Huge French doors and windows are everywhere, and the solid oak floors end where the improted Italian marble or ceramic tile begins.

To visit Winston Farms, take Route 24 to Mendham. Winston Farm Lane is located off Roxiticus Road. For more information, call (201) 543-2522.

Buying or a Home?

Either way it's important to find a sales associate who understands today's real estate market with the numbers to prove it. That's why so many buyers and sellers chose Marsha last year. Give her a call and you'll find out, too.
