WHS sports legend will retire

Kehler coached 48 consecutive grid wins; was also AD

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

The Aug. 31 retirement of Gary Kehler will mark the end of one of the most successful coaching careers in the state.

Westfield Superintendent of Schools Mark C. Smith lauded Kehler during the June 22 meeting of the Board of Education as he recalled the man who led Westfield football squad to nine undefeated seasons and a 48-game undefeated streak.

According to Dr. Smith, during his tenure as football, golf and wrestling coach, Mr. Kehler tallied 719 wins, 110 losses and 23 ties. He was named to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame in 1988 for his achievements.

"His record exceeds most renowned coaches, such as Bear Bryant ... and Pop Warner," he said.

Mr. Kehler came to the district as a teacher in the late 1950s. In 1961, he was appointed football coach. After serving as coach for three sports for a number of years, Mr. Kehler became the supervisor of athletics in 1982.

"He oversaw a sports program that more than doubled in size and brought women into varsity sports at our high school," said Dr. Smith.

During the 1982-1993 school year, 322 boys and 523 girls participated in interscholastic sports.

"When people talk about Gary, they talk about his record," said Dr. Smith. "Gary put a high priority on helping his athletes develop into successful men," he added.

Classroom aides sign; teachers, board trying

By BRENDA J. FOY
THE RECORD

The Westfield Board of Education has reached a tentative agreement with the third of four employee groups with whom contracts are being negotiated this year, but the big one still remains to be settled.

The stalemate with the Westfield Education Association (WEA), which represents the teaching staff of the school system, continues after a negotiation committee failed to reach an agreement Monday night.

The previous pact with the teachers' union expired at midnight last night. The debate over health insurance costs continues to be the cause of an impasse between the teachers and the board.

Dr. Susan Pepper, president of the school board, announced at Tuesday's board meeting that the Westfield Instructional Support Staff Association, which represents the

Parking lot a safe move, Smith says

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

The Board of Education will consider creating off-street parking for staff at Franklin School, a move, said Superintendent Mark C. Smith, that will help to alleviate parental concerns over street safety at the Prospect Street elementary school.

"A contributing factor to the congestion at the school is the fact that the staff and parents must park in the street," said Dr. Smith, Thursday.

Dr. Smith will present the board with preliminary design drawings for a 24-car parking lot soon.

"The board needs to decide if this is something we want to do, and if it's something we can do," he said.

In early April, shortly after March's surprise storm dumped more than one foot of snow on the town, several parents appeared before the Town Council asking them to address safety problems at the school, including the volume and speed of traffic on Prospect Street, and leaf, snow, and ice removal. Parents called the problem critical, saying that there were times when intersections were left unplowed and uncleared, and children and crossing guards were not able to be seen.

Linda Maggio apparently can't be busy enough. She is currently Westfield Rotary president, director of Westfield's United Fund, and chairwoman of the Westfield Bicentennial Committee, and volunteers at several other organizations.

She 'does it all' to make a difference

By CHERYL HEHL
THE RECORD

The word 'no' is not in Westfield resident Linda Maggio's vocabulary — but then if it was, she would not be the wonder woman she is.

Mrs. Maggio is a human dynamo. Sometimes she doesn't even know what drives her to get involved the way she has in the community. But the woman who became the first female Westfield Rotary president last year, the same one who has spent 19 years as director of Westfield's United Fund, and the one and only who chairs the Westfield Bicentennial Committee and its planning for a year-long celebration in 1994, admits she is her "own worst enemy."

How does she do it? Where does she find the time?

"Sometimes you just do not know what drives you," she said candidly, laughing at her own inability to figure out why she takes on all the projects she does. But one thing is certain to Mrs. Maggio: the "fruits of your labors often are payment enough when everything is said and done."

"I don't know if it matters why or how," she speculated, "as much as what the end result will be."

This year, the woman who takes on just about anything is looking forward to 1994.

"We have been working on this a good solid year ahead to make sure everything is ready to go in 1994," she said, explaining that good planning is a key to handling many things at once.

And it must work, because Mrs. Maggio has managed to raise a daughter, and keep husband Glenn "100 percent behind me all the way."

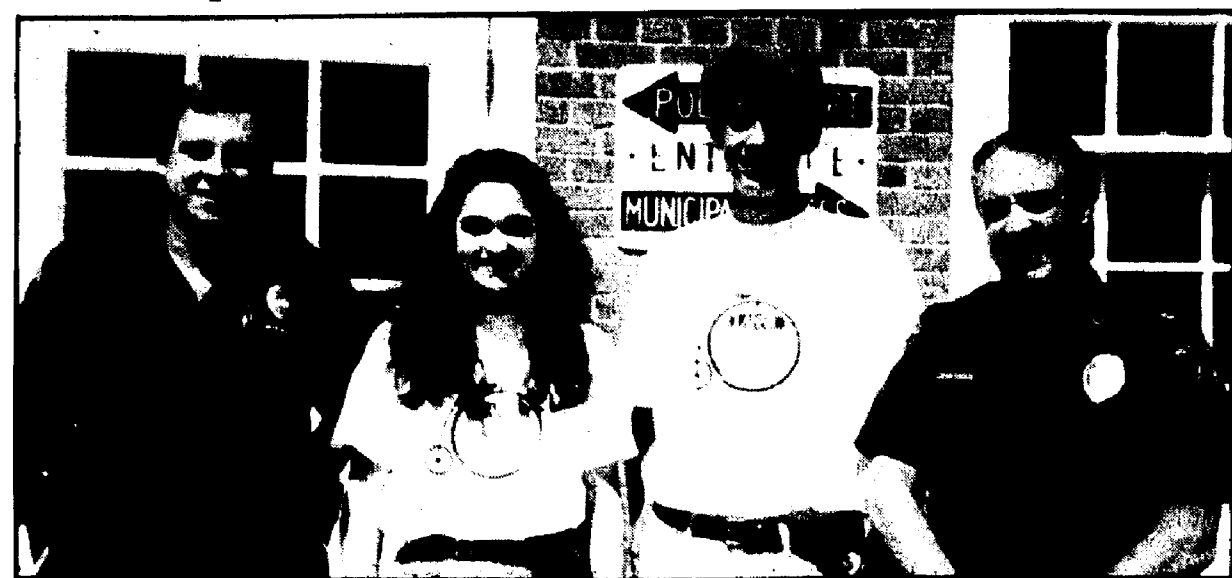

Besides, she admitted, "He copes beautifully, but also knows I'm happiest when I'm involved." However, she does have moments when "taking a step back" looks inviting.

"Sure, I think about it," she laughed, "but then the phone rings and I'm off again."

Off again, headed toward the recent goal of $660,000 for the United Fund campaign and getting 90 percent of that figure. Or seeing the Westfield Rotary raise $53,000 for college scholarships, and $10,000 more when resident Paul Jackson needed a racing wheelchair in order to compete in the New York Marathon last fall. This satisfaction, coupled with her desire to "strive for perfection," is what keeps Mrs. Maggio going — plus the added bonus of those who tell her, "It will keep you young."

But for Mrs. Maggio, all this is worth it because "making even a little difference is what it is all about."

Pedal patrol

Lt. Bill Keleher, Westfield Key Club President Pamela Gold, Vice President Jon Haack, and Capt. Mike McCabe prepare for the second annual Westfield Classic Bike Tour to be held in October. The event is sponsored by the Westfield Jaycees, and will benefit the Westfield Rescue Squad, Westfield Police Athletic League, and Westfield Jaycees Foundation. Registration forms can be picked up at the records bureau of the Westfield Police Department. For additional information, call Capt. McCabe at 789-4017.

Four people held on drug charges

Four suspects charged with serious drug offenses June 22 faced steep bail later in the week, police said. The drug bust netted four people reportedly with cocaine, heroin and marijuana in a car on Central Avenue and Elizabeth Street last Tuesday night.

Annett Williams of Plainfield, Lee Liszewski of Pinegrove Avenue, Richard Thomas of Windsor Avenue and Pamela Faggins of Cacciola Place were charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute. Bail was set at $15,000 for Mr. Liszewski, Mr. Thomas and Ms. Faggins. Mr. Williams faced $50,000 bail.

26 aides in the district, was able to arrive at a tentative agreement with the board during talks on Monday.

She did not reveal the terms of the proposed contracts, stating, "Details of that agreement will be reported when it has been ratified by the aides' association and the full board."

"I can report," she added, "that the tentative agreement is consistent with the agreements reached with the administrators and the custodians in its approach to the challenge of controlling the costs of health benefits insurance. Agreements had been reached with the administrator and support staff teams earlier this year, with a decision to share costs of health benefit coverage for dependents."

Negotiations with the teachers will continue later this summer, according to Mrs. Pepper, with a mediator appointed by the Public Employees Relations Commission. Mrs. Pepper said that because there are often several boards negotiating contracts during the summer months, mediation might not begin until August, but she is hopeful that an agreement will be reached prior to the start of the 1993-94 school year.

In other business at the board meeting, salaries for administrators, supervisors and department heads for the 1993-94 school year were approved by board members, as well as salaries for non-union staff.

Budgetary items regarding the 1993 summer curriculum writing committees and personnel for the upcoming school year were also discussed and approved.

Bridge reconstruction set to begin

The town is scheduled to begin reconstruction of the Springfield Avenue bridge near Geiger's next week. The work will continue until October and will require lane closings to one lane in either direction in the area. This will probably result in traffic tie-ups, according to the Council.

Permit to expire

The current permit for the Conservation Center, established in 1972, is expiring. The council discussed the possibility of registering the center as a "vegetative waste transfer site," saving effort and money. This would give up Westfield's right to make compost at the site, but the center has not made compost for three years anyway, according to town Engineer Ted Gottko.

"We've been fined $2,000 for odor already," noted Mr. Malloy. "If we were to go back to making compost, we could expect more problems like that."

Computer pact favored

Town Administrator Jack Malloy recommended that the council continue the contract for the computerized motor vehicle reporting system used by the violations bureau. A new state-supplied system is expected to be available sometime in the future, but in the meantime, he said, "They've provided us with reasonable service up til now. We'll keep going with them until we get a new service in

Trash talk

Complaints about trash haulers beginning pickups at extremely early hours has prompted the council to consider a law to limit trash collection to after 6 a.m. in residential areas off main arterial streets. Mayor Garland 'Bud' Booth decided to write a letter to haulers encouraging their voluntary cooperation before the council takes any steps.

"We're doing this for the two or three bad apples in the barrel," said Councilman Norman Greco. "Most haulers don't have a problem with this, but for those who can't abide by it, we may have to make an ordinance."

Edison Wildcat produces some impressive stories

Katie Rowan, Alex Taner top student staff

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

When people think of fast breaking news, they think of Time and Newsweek magazines, CBS and NBC news, and the New York Times. But here in Westfield, residents who read the Edison Wildcat, the school publication of the Edison Intermediate School, know all too well that the publication is often at the same cutting edge.

This year alone, reporters from the Wildcat broke stories concerning the validity of the early warning test, gender bias, and school stress at the same times as the prestigious members of the fourth estate.

For Katie Rowan and Alex Taner, authors of an article on sexual harassment in their school, breaking the news at the same time as the networks was exciting.

"I heard a teaser from the CBS evening news," explained Alex, "about a report on sexual harassment in the schools. I jumped on the phone and told them I have all the information, and I did it before you," he said with a laugh.

As other networks and publications picked up on the report, Alex contacted more and more of them in hopes of getting some publicity for their story.

"I called, and the ones that were interested, I faxed a copy of the article to them," he said. "But I haven't heard anything."

Ace reporters for the Edison Wildcat, Katie Rowan and Alex Taner, are hard at work on a story.

Saying it would have been the "cat's meow" to get some national exposure, adviser Bob Hild credits Alex and Katie with their persistence and dedication.

"He's a master on the phone. He comes across very professional, very convincing," Mr. Hild said.

Katie agreed. "I left all the calling to him, because he was so good at it," she said.

This was the second time they had witnessed Alex's talent. After deciding that the right accompaniment to the article would be a photograph, the students located the perfect one using a computer data base, NewsBreak. Deciding on a Time magazine picture of Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas and Anita Hill, the two set to getting permission to use it.

Because the photo was taken by another company, Contact Press Inc., Time could not give permission. Conversations with the photography company yielded contractual permission to make one copy and use it for one publication.

"At first they weren't too responsive," said Alex. "They were slow to respond."

Did they know they were working with a eighth-grader?

"I'm really not sure what they thought," he said. "I think they thought I was the adviser, and I never really corrected that. I let them think whatever they wanted."

LaPorta wants items on bills explained

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

Anthony LaPorta, one of two Democrats serving on the 10-member Town Council, vowed to vote against the monthly bill list until the finance chairman agrees to include an explanation of each item in its monthly statement, he said June 22.

"It is difficult for me to vote to pay these bills, without knowing what each amount is for," he said.

Jim Gruba, chairman of the finance committee, responded with a short statement. "He can vote any way he wishes," he said.

Mr. LaPorta also called a recommendation that he meet with the township administrator prior to the meeting for any necessary explanations regarding expenditures, "burdensome both to me and the township administrator."

"I have a problem approving these lists and making decisions without information," he said. "Since it is our fiduciary responsibility to spend money wisely, I will have to continue to vote no until these explanations are forthcoming."

The council also took the following action June 22:

- Approved an ordinance that will help to control problems regarding the opening and excavation of township streets. According to Margaret Sur, chairwoman of the public works committee, the ordinance will regulate who can provide excavation services, and why it can be done, in addition to setting fees, time schedules, and cash bond amounts.

- Approved an ordinance that will provide for the improvement of Birch Place from North Avenue to Forest Avenue. Residents will be assessed for the new Belgium block curbing to be installed. The estimated cost of the project is $70,000; it will be funded through the capital improvement funds.

- Approved an ordinance providing for the improvement of Stoneleigh Park from Dorian Road to Shackamaxon Drive Terminus. The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000. Residents will be assessed for the improvements, which will be funded through the issuance of bonds and monies from the capital improvement fund.

WHS class of 1943 planning 50th anniversary reunion

Organizers need help finding classmates; some uncovered, but mysteries remain

The Westfield High School Class of 1943 will hold a 50th Anniversary Reunion Oct. 15-17.

Reunion Chairman William Clotworthy has announced the theme of the weekend as "Schmoozing," with planned activities to include a Friday reception at the Ramada Inn in Clark, historic Westfield bus tour, and a gala Saturday dinner dance at the Westwood Banquet Hall in Garwood. The festivities will end with a farewell Sunday brunch at the Ramada.

Honored faculty guests at the dinner dance will be former school librarian Marion Scott and teachers Edmund Allen and Sam Bunting.

Members of the planning committee are class president John Dietze, Jack McHugh, Angel Bavosa, Louise Neubauer Roche, Marilyn Washburn Roberts, Ronald Foster, Dorothy Scruton Baldwin, Barbara Sherman Brotherton, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Brenneholz.

Invitations have been extended to over 150 graduates, but some have not been located, and the committee would appreciate help in finding the missing class members. If you know how to contact any of the following class members, call Louise Neubauer Roche at 232-2405:

Paper's survey exposes belief that harassment exists in school

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

It was an innocent enough discussion during a brainstorming session that led two eighth-grade Edison Intermediate School students to write an investigative report on sexual harassment in the school environment.

But the results of a survey on which the article is based were anything but innocent: of the 285 students who responded to the newspaper's survey, 18.8 percent said they had experienced some form of sexual harassment.

"I was surprised at the sorts of harassment, not exactly at the numbers," said Alex Tanner, who with Katie Rowan authored both the student survey and the article which appeared in the June 4 edition of the Edison Wildcat.

"Based on other surveys, I expected even more students to report harassment," said Katie.

The most common sources of the harassment, according to the survey, were other students and friends, 16.2 percent; and teachers, 6.8 percent.

"I don't know how to explain those percentages," said adviser Bob Hild. "I don't know what their perception of harassment was since there was no opportunity for a narrative explanation."

The two reporters used information from a U.S. Equal Educational Opportunity poster in the teacher's lounge and a similar survey in the May 1993 Seventeen magazine to design questions for their own survey. Although students were asked to tell in their own words what sexual harassment was, no formal definition was included in the survey.

"Sexual harassment is whatever you define it to be," said Katie. "Students responded according to what sexual harassment was in their own minds. So what you got from each person, was different from the next."

"My perception of the answers was ... words and actions that some thought were jokes, others found offensive," said Alex.

The Wildcat survey results are far below national averages, said Mr. Hild. According to a survey from the Wellesley College Center for Research on Women, 89 percent of more than 4,200 surveyed female students, grades 2-12, have experienced gender harassment at school. The Seventeen survey showed that of girls ages 12-16, 92 percent report experiencing some form of sexual harassment.

Now, said Alex, incidents are decreasing as students become more aware of the subject.

Awareness of the subject matter was even evident at the high school graduation June 22, when Bob Petix, high school principal, addressed the subject in his speech to the seniors.

"Some traditionally acceptable attitudes and behaviors, for example, are now finally recognized as inappropriate and detrimental to human relationships," he said.

At a June meeting, the Board of Education introduced a policy statement regarding gender harassment within the district.

"It was more of a result of the national exposure that the issue has gotten in society," said Superintendent Mark Smith.

The policy, said Dr. Smith, defines the district stand regarding sexual harassment and lists the procedural steps to be taken when filing a grievance. The policy, said Dr. Smith, also applies to students.

"This is one topic that the administrators and principals are working on together," he said. "We are working to help students understand the issues and respond appropriately."

According to the Wildcat article, the incidents included in descending order of occurrences, suggestive or sexual gestures, looks, comments or jokes; unwanted touches such as pinches and grabs; leaning over and cornering of victims; sexual notes or pictures; pressure to do something sexual; use of force to do something sexual.

Friends of Midowaskin Park near $250,000 goal

The Friends of Mindowaskin Park are just topping the halfway point in their goal to collect $250,000 toward refurbishing the 75-year-old park.

This summer, new benches and lamp posts will be installed in areas not affected by the drainage project slated to start after Labor Day. The new drainage system is scheduled to be completed for the bicentennial celebration in January 1994.

Residents have several opportunities for participating in rehabilitating the park. T-shirts have been for sale throughout the year; Adopt-A-Foot certificates are available at Rorden Realty for minimum donations of $10; and flyers and direct-mail solicitations are currently in circulation.

The Friends wish to thank all those who have given generously to this volunteer effort. The following is a list of cash contributors (effective May 31):

Fine arts director and a principal are chosen

School news

The Westfield Board of Education filled two administrative positions at its public meeting June 22. Charles (Chic) Hansen III has been named supervisor of fine arts and Connie Odell will be principal of Washington School.

Mr. Hansen, director of music and supervisor of fine arts for the School District of the Chathams, will replace Jean McDermott when she retires at the end of this school year.

Mrs. Odell, assistant principal of Fine Brook School in the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District, will replace Kenneth Wark at Washington School. Mr. Wark has been transferred to Franklin School to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Faith Divisek.

"I am delighted that these two able administrators are coming to Westfield," said School Superintendent Mark C. Smith. "Mrs. Odell is an experienced elementary classroom teacher, a highly successful teacher of teachers and a knowledgeable administrator. Her experience as an instructional leader, her knowledge of special education, her communication skills and her ability to work creatively and effectively with many different people make her a superb candidate for the principalship of Washington School."

Commenting on the new supervisor of fine arts, Dr. Smith said, "Mr. Hansen is a dynamic, knowledgeable and skilled leader of the fine arts. He has a substantial record of success in building outstanding programs, hiring exceptional faculty and working creatively with students, teachers, administrators and community members. A master teacher at all levels, he has extensive experience in instrumental music, school bands, vocal music and theater."

A graduate of Northern Illinois University, where she majored in elementary education, Mrs. Odell earned a master's degree in special education from William Paterson

College and is fully certified not only as a teacher and school principal, but also as a teacher of the handicapped and a learning disabilities teacher/consultant.

She taught second, third and fourth grades in Vermont, Illinois and New Jersey for 14 years before joining the staff of the Academy for the Advancement of Teaching and Management in 1984. From 1991 to 1992, Mrs. Odell served as acting director of the academy which was established by former State Education Commissioner Saul Cooperman to provide professional staff development courses for New Jersey teachers. Her current position as an assistant principal of an 800-student elementary school has given her additional administrative experience.

Mrs. Odell was selected from more than 100 applicants for the Washington School principalship. She was the choice of the principal search advisory committee composed of Carol Joyce and Andrea Bayroff, Washington School teachers; Mary Dura and Robin Nicol, president and vice president of Washington School PTA, David Tuller, principal of Tamaques School; and Marie Scian, supervisor of elementary education and personnel and Affirmative Action officer.

Mr. Hansen holds a bachelor's degree in music education and a master's degree in music from Westchester State College. He has done postgraduate work at Temple University, Trenton State College and Drew University.

He began his career in education as vocal music teacher in Kintnersville, Pa. in 1969 and also taught and served as department head at Wordsworth Academy in Fort Washington, Pa.

Mr. Hansen was selected from 61 applicants for the position and is the choice of a staff advisory committee composed of Samuel Hazell, principal of Edison Intermediate School; Kelley Kiasiah, principal of Jefferson School; Robert Petz, principal of Westfield High School; David Rock, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction; and Marie Scian, supervisor of elementary education, personnel and Affirmative Action officer.

There are so many July 4 hits to anticipate that misses must be from Summer Scrooge

HIT: Cranford's colorful, competitive, celebration of July Fourth Saturday and Sunday offers active and passive events for enjoying the most patriotic of holidays in the most accommodating of community atmospheres. Summer is in full bloom and everyone's feeling great.

MISS: Summer Scrooge notes that, "Hard as it is to believe, Cranford schools reopen in just over two months from the July Fourth festivities — on September 7."

HIT: The glow of pride, class and accomplishment generated by the graduates of Brearley, Cranford, Westfield, Scotch Plains-Farwood and Union Catholic High Schools in their recent awards nights and commencement ceremonies. It was a treat for young and old to witness the culmination of nine years of education and maturation.

MISS: The federal labor department reports, and Summer Scrooge underscoring, that jobs for teens are scarcer than usual — even as college costs loom and some parents softly tap the drum of financial independence for their eldest offspring.

HIT: The matchless taste of fresh strawberries, blueberries or blackberries mingling with cream or ice cream. What a hit on a hot summer's eve, eh?

MISS: The continuing absence of an electrifying, air-tight medical/nutritional study that proves beyond anyone's reasonable range of doubt that the aforementioned summer desserts actually reduce body weight, build strength, mental acuity and reduce cholesterol levels. "Fat chance," says Summer Scrooge.

HIT: That ever-fresh sensation of taking a plunge into the backyard, club or community swimming pool as yet another hazy, hot and humid day slowly dims to a restless night of tossing and turning.

MISS: The fees, limited parking or bath facilities, inability to swim, agoraphobia, or other restrictions that effectively make truly free and open public swimming in a suburb like ours a goal, rather than a reality. "No pay, no play," Summer Scrooge snuffs.

HIT: A chilled summer drink and supper taken on the lawn, porch or deck.

MISS: Ants, yellow jackets and that blasted Summer Scrooge.

Letters to the editor

Students' rights include learning about responsibility

To The Record:

In reference to last week's school board meeting, I would like to clarify the issue about which many parents are concerned:

The infamous play, Moonchildren, performed recently and attended by many high school students and parents is just one example of the many inappropriate and offensive vehicles through which our children are being instructed on sexual topics "outside the health class." This is one of the symptoms of the lack of control and the inconsistent guidance to which our children are being exposed.

Why is it we can't talk about God or even have a moment of silence in school, but can be very vocal about obscenities such as the ones that were part of the script of Moonchildren:

"He was the first to give me an orgasm," "You let her get you by the balls," "Godammit," "Sure would like to lay Susan again," "It was those strict Roman Catholics with a bunch of kids running around who complained about our running around bare-assed." And so it went on and on using the "F word" almost as often as the article "the."

We have opened the door to moral relativism and have been hostile to "family values" which are taught in the home. Our schools reek of this! Don't we see how mentally abused our children are becoming — all under the guise of having their "rights?" When a teacher spoke of the word "abstinence" in health class, they told her they had their right to do what they chose. They were given permission to choose to perform Moonchildren. They had the right to place a condom on a banana in a public speaking class and then commended for doing so; the right to pass out a questionnaire to freshmen in homeroom asking whether they were homosexual or heterosexual; and they say they have a "right to have sex."

But do they understand the right to be held accountable for their actions? Take for instance their right to use the savior of our time — the condom — which, from the latest study, is proven to be as low as only 46 percent effective in preventing HIV transmission in heterosexual couples. Are these teens willing to die for the right to use condoms?

Why are a minority of students being given the privilege to do all these things that are "politically correct" while the majority find these same things offensive — what chaos! When will we teach them that along with freedom and choices come responsibility — they must "learn to discern" and that this has to be based on certain standards and guidelines. We don't hand our kids the keys to our car and send them out on the road before they learn the road rules and take a driving test. They have to be taught that authority plays an important role in their lives. If they aren't taught to respect authority as teens, how will they ever make a living on the job as adults under the authority of a boss? They must be prepared now.

Everyone is screaming "Censorship!" It seems that this word has been redefined to mean "I have the right to do my own thing."

If we are to be consistent, let's look at how censorship has affected our schools: We can't tell our kids the biological, scientific facts about the development of an unborn baby — that by the time a woman even realizes she is pregnant, the unborn baby has a beating heart and brain waves can be recorded, but we are refraining from telling them the truth about the so called cure-all condom.

To quote the journalist Cal Thomas: "Those who have considered that the first amendment is absolute and that no speech or expression should be restricted were caught with their legal briefs down. They could hardly argue cursing God was within the bounds of the first amendment but that saying something nice about him was not ... The public schools appear ready to collapse under the weight of imposed secularism and anti-religious attitude that has encouraged young people to worship nothing higher than their glands and has stripped the spiritual history from textbooks and music classes."

The State of Michigan released a study to our New Jersey legislators in January, based on their findings about their state-wide sex education program called "The Michigan Model." It has concurred that "the official state policy for the past decade is not working. Teen pregnancies are still epidemic. The social and economic costs of this educational philosophy and method of teaching are bankrupting the state both morally and financially. Through this policy the state has endorsed by default teenage single-motherhood and abortion. Michigan's teen-agers have been victimized by our slanted and one-sided sex education teaching."

If you would like to have more details on the "Michigan Model," please call me at 654-5442.

We are recommending that we continue to support and appreciate the positive programs that are available at Westfield High School. My daughter, in particular, had a wonderful experience during cross-country season last fall; the holiday music programs and the spring concerts were an extraordinary demonstration of the talent on the part of the students and the music teachers. We have an award-winning school newspaper and the academics have provided them with the opportunity to attend some of the best colleges and universities in the country.

Let us help our children to channel all these opportunities and energies in aiming to be all they possibly can be. Our children are very precious to us — we don't want them ignorant, we don't want them abused and we don't want them dead.

The parents who have voiced their opinion and concern at the last school board meeting strongly aspire to the words of Eli Weisel when he received the Nobel Peace Prize:

"I swore never to be silent wherever and whenever human beings endure suffering and humiliation. We must always take sides. Neutrality helps the oppressor, never the victim. Silence encourages the tormentor, never the tormented."

Sex ed curriculum has legal, moral sides

To The Record:

As a Westfield resident for 15 years, this is the first time we have a child in the Westfield public school system. Last Tuesday night, I attended my first school board meeting, at which many parents spoke out about the method of teaching moral ethics, especially with regard to sex education for our children.

The complaints regarding children were not just concerning the use of excessive foul language, but also the prolific sexual commentary, too blatant to be considered innuendo, which would be improper in its own right.

Should we be shocked? Contrary to Dr. Petix's claim, a production of Chicago in recent years also offered as entertainment questionable judgment in presenting sexual material, which did receive complaints from Westfielders. These productions present for our children (those who produce them as well as those who come to view them) opportunities to see the most sensitive aspects of sexuality heralded in crude manner.

The fact that at this school board meeting, children stood to answer to a charge of impropriety, was appalling in itself. These teens cannot be expected to understand their lack of respect in presenting this type of play. The writer admitted in his rebuttal statement that he had acted as censor in his editing, but objected to additional censorship by his parents.

Dr. Petix's statement in last week's Leader referring to the subject matter of these plays was irrelevant. They can be enlightening topics, but an "avant-garde" play should be considered too precocious a style for high school age groups.

The other incidents mentioned at the meeting, where a young man demonstrated for his speech class how to put on a condom using a banana (with the teacher's commending his courage), and a questionnaire being handed out in history class with one of the questions being "What is your sexual preference?" are at best inappropriately presented and not welcomed by all in attendance. If this had taken place in any business or professional setting it would be considered sexual abuse. No one asked my child or myself if we wanted to witness or participate in the demonstration or survey.

Is the AIDS epidemic not good enough reason to honestly inform our teens of all their options? I wonder why abstinence is not touted as the only 100 percent certain method of avoiding sexually transmitted diseases. This informational point is not a dictum to kids who are intent on being sexually active, but rather a base line fact for those teens who are mature enough to process this life-saving information.

As one of the parents was stating her feelings on this topic, members of the audience could be heard mumbling about not changing the curriculum to suit any one's moral standards, obviously begrudging the intrusion of the idea that Westfield High School's curriculum was reproducible in any way.

But my true introduction to Westfield High School's community-making capabilities came after the board meeting was over. On the way out to my car, people's conversations were lively with indignation and caustic humor towards the issue of the challenge of improving our sex education program. Several teachers made light of the discussion by jokingly commenting to each other, "Don't use the 'F-word' too much! You're going to offend me!" A teacher, while driving away, yelled out "Was it a right-handed banana or a left-handed banana?"

I am confused as to why these teachers felt so defensive toward the parents' comments. Are we not able to use the open school board meetings as a forum for hearing each other out? Is it so unthinkable that, when different opinions are brought to the table, we might step back from a situation maintaining a neutral position. This would provide our teens with an example of how to react objectively while reviewing what is in their best interests.

The comments of the speakers were not an effort to dictate any other child's morality, but rather an effort to influence what their child has to be exposed to. This is a legal as well as a moral issue.

Market's traffic ripple will spread over area

To The Record:

I need to call attention to additional traffic problems that would result from the placement of a ShopRite warehouse along North Avenue in Westfield. As Joanne McFadden reported in The Record on June 10 and 17, the Westfield and Garwood planning boards have focused their attention on various intersections along North Avenue. While the testimony of traffic engineers estimated the added number of cars coming in and out of the shopping center (up to 200 per day), little mention was made of the substantial truck traffic required to keep a food warehouse adequately stocked.

Nor was any mention made of the traffic impact on other Westfield thoroughfares — Broad Street, Mountain Avenue — and side streets now serving as thoroughfares. Since Westfield is arguably well served by several supermarkets already, the only way an additional food warehouse could be fully utilized is by encouraging shoppers from surrounding communities to come to Westfield. Because of its location on the border of Garwood and Westfield, a ShopRite food warehouse would inevitably increase the flow of speeding cars on Woodland Avenue and North Chestnut, streets which offer unimpeded connections between Mountainside and East Broad Street.

We are already giving insufficient attention to the problem of young children who regularly cross North Chestnut on their way to and from the Wilson School. People in a hurry do not now observe the 25 MPH posted speed limit on this seemingly wide thoroughfare. A discount food warehouse near the junction of North Avenue and South Chestnut would only increase the traffic on North Chestnut, and increase the chances for mishap.

Not everyone is convinced the tax revenues brought to Westfield by a large-scale shopping center (up to $125,000) would be worth the increased concerns for traffic and safety. Both sides of the argument need to be heard. I would encourage other Westfield residents to turn out for the next Planning Board meeting on July 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Washington School to share their thoughts and opinions.

ASK The PRO'S...

- 1) What compression ball should I use?
Strong players should use 100 compression balls and mostly balata. Average players should use 90 compression with surlyn covers. Ladies should use 80 compression balls.
- 2) What's the difference between balata and surlyn?
Balata is more of a rubbery substance where as surlyn is like a plastic. Balata has a softer feel.
- 3) What is the advantage of Cavity Back Irons?
a) They have a lower center of gravity to hit the ball higher.
b) They have a bigger sweet spot to make your mis-hits more forgiving.
c) They have more toe weight to stabilize impact in the hitting area.
- 4) Should tall women play mens clubs?
No. Men's golf clubs have stiffer shafts and are generally too heavy most of the time for women.
- 5) Should golfers play with jumbo grips if they have big hands?
No. Because the thicker the grip, the more it increases a slice. Only in very extreme cases do we suggest jumbo grips.
- 6) Are all graphite shafts whippy?
No. You can get extremely stiff graphites. To fit a person properly you need to determine club head speed.
- 7) What is custom fitting?
It is when a golf club is properly fitted to a person's golf swing, club head speed, height, hand size, weight distribution, etc.
- 8) What are the advantages of graphite shafts?
They are lighter and they generate more club speed for better distance. They also absorb a lot more shock than steel.
- 9) What makes 'Tee To Green Golf' stand out above the competition?
We pride ourselves with delivering the finest customer service in N.J. Our club fitting is an exact science, leaving very little to chance. Our professional staff, along with our computerized swing analyzer enables us to fit you to the exact right clubs for your swing. We guarantee it!!

Shenanigans

By Cheryl Hehl

When the classroom closed

"No more pencils, no more books, no more teachers' dirty looks," we'd yell at the top of our lungs the last day of school. There was no better feeling than knowing school was over at last and summer was starting.

The countdown usually began months before, when the bluster and biting winds of March made every kid wonder if summer was really right around the corner. But sure enough, day by day, we drew ever closer to freedom from school.

We lived to play. Planning when, how and what we would play was almost as important as the actual playing itself. Weeks before school let out, we would begin discussing how many school days were left, and what we would do as soon as school was officially over. In fact, this subject became almost a constant topic of conversation, reaching a fevered pitch a week or so before school ended.

During those last few days, daylight lasted until around 8:30 p.m., so we had a taste of summer before the fact. This only made us want school to be over even more. We would gulp down dinner and race back outside for a rousing game or two of "red light" or "hide and go seek" before we were summoned home because "it was a school night."

There were always one or two kids who never had to be home. We knew they had a home, but they were allowed to "stay out to all hours," as Mom put it. Needless to say, we kids thought this was great and vowed when we grew up and had kids we would never make them come in before they were ready.

There was little we could do to contain ourselves the last few days of school. The good sisters tried their best to keep control, but about the best they could do was use idle threats that none of us believed.

Except one year, on the very last day of school, I was suspended for helping hang Theresa Quigly out the window by her feet. Personally, I do not believe there was any threat to her life because we were only on the second floor, but nevertheless, I was banished to the principal's office.

Being suspended on the last day of school had little clout with me, but Mom certainly took it seriously enough. Saying something about "somebody switching babies on me in the hospital" and telling me I was going to send her "to an early grave," she washed her hands of the entire issue and left it up to Dad to handle the problem when he got home.

Now Dad used to be a kid, and he remembered how it was. Mom, of course, was a kid once too, but she has "milk of amnesia" when it came to her youth. However, her memory was perfect when it came to recalling the misadventures we got into the summer before. This led to our having to endure the annual "State of the Summer" address each and every year.

Mom would walk back in front of my brothers and me, explaining exactly what could happen if we "wandered off somewhere," climbed a tree and fell out, threw a rock and "someone lost an eye," or the ever-popular "stepped on a rusty nail." I lived in mortal fear that I would come down with the dreaded "lock jaw" from some minor puncture wound I always seemed to have.

Once school was out, we kids would meet every morning on one porch or another to discuss what we would do that day. There was a strategic plan involved, and the majority had to agree before we could set out on our ventures. There was a constant tug of war to see who

I be the ring leader, but we were a democratic group. Whoever came up with the best game of pretend for the day, and was able to execute it perfectly, became the leader.

Our job was to pack in as much fun as we could during the summer. It was a hefty load, but someone had to do it. It was a science. I wonder if it still is.

Musical notes

Westfield Symphony President Nancy Priest passes the gavel along to M. Jockers Vincentsen, her successor (above). Vincentsen assumed his post June 11. He will serve a two year term. (At right) Arthur Taylor receives the Ann Allen Award from the award's namesake, Ms. Allen. The annual award recognizes significant service for the orchestra.

Concert set for July 4th

The Westfield Community Band will appear tonight with Mayor Garland C. Boothe Jr. and numerous area dignitaries and civic groups in the annual Fourth of July concert in Mindwaskin Park, East Broad Street, Westfield. The concert is the second in the band's 81st Summer Concert Series.

Patriotic greetings will be given by Stephen Clarke, SAR president, and Carol Graf, DAR president. The invocation will be performed by SAR chaplain Leslie Rowe and will be followed by the presentation of the colors by the color guards of the SAR, DAR, Mountaineers VFW and Westfield American Legion.

The concert will begin with traditional favorites including El Capitan March, A Gershwin Portrait and America the Beautiful. Following the first half of the band's program, concertgoers will be hearing Westfield's "latest gossip" from compatriot Sam McCauley, the Town Crier, and an Independence Day Address by Westfield Mayor Garland C. Boothe, Jr.

The concert will continue with favorites such as Tumbalaca, 1920's sing-along, Armed Forces Salute and God Bless America.

The band's 81st summer concert series will continue for two additional performances — July 8 and 15 at 8 p.m. in Mindwaskin Park. Admission is free; please bring blankets and chairs. In the event of rain, concerts will be held at the Westfield Community Room in the municipal building.

The Westfield Community Band is sponsored by the Westfield Recreation Commission. For more information, call 789-4080.

Women's 5-K race planned for July 10

The Westfield Women's Five-Kilometer Race, presented by the Redeemer Lutheran School, will be held Saturday, July 10, at Tamaques Park.

The race has been changed from a five-mile race to a 5-K event to give more runners the chance to participate and to reduce the chance of heat exhaustion. It will start at 9:30 a.m. rain or shine with start and finish in Tamaques Park. There will be water on the course for the runners.

Entries postmarked by Saturday and including the $10 entry fee will guarantee a special event T-shirt to the entrant. Entries received after that date and up to race time are $10 and T-shirts can be purchased for $5.

Post-registration and T-shirt pickup will begin at 8 a.m. at Tamaques Park. The entrance is from Lamberts Mill Road or Dickson Drive off Willow Grove Road.

Trophies will be awarded to first through fourth places overall finishers, awards to the next 30 finishers and medals to the next 70 finishers. Pastries for runners and supporters will be served after the race.

Parking will be available along the side roads, with limited parking in the park. Participants should come dressed to run. Limited toilet facilities are available.

Friends end year of success

Friends of the Westfield Memorial Library have concluded a successful year of fund-raising to help purchase books and equipment for the library.

It was agreed at the June 7 annual meeting of the Friends to provide $12,445 for major reference sources, children's materials, popular foreign language books, and to update a section of the adult non-fiction collection. These funds will provide additional shelving for the growing video collection.

To make the CD-ROM materials more accessible, the Friends agreed to a grant commitment up to $30,000 for the installation of a Local Area Network or "LAN" which will connect all of the individual microcomputers to one "master." This will be provided from the Friends of the Library's Westfield Foundation funds.

The Friends' annual book sale raised about $12,500, under the direction of David Kirkwood and Jane Curtis. Some other sources of income for the Friends include operation of the Xerox machine at the library, the rental book collection at the library, trips to historic places, the annual opera trip and membership fees.

For the Valerie Fund

Westfield Women's Club members Laura Stone and Jan Devlin present a check for $8,000 to Steve Halpern, medical director of the Valerie Fund Children's Center for Cancer and Blood Disorders at Overlook Hospital. Looking on are Seymour Frankel, Valerie Fund trustee, and patient Alexandra Kilduff. Ms. Stone and Ms. Devlin were co-chairwomen of the Women's Club's recent fund-raiser for the Valerie Fund.

Applications available for gardening course

Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County is currently accepting applications for its 1993-94 master gardener program.

The master gardener program gives people with an interest in horticulture an opportunity to become more educated in a variety of horticultural topics and share their expertise with county residents through volunteer programs sponsored by Rutgers Cooperative Extension.

Master gardeners complete a course that involves attending weekly horticulture and entomology lectures taught by Extension faculty and staff from Rutgers University. They are also trained to answer telephone inquiries, diagnose plant problems, and identify insect pests.

The lectures will be held on Friday mornings 10 a.m.-noon at the Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County Auditorium, 300 North Ave. East, Westfield. Class will begin Sept. 17 and run through April.

Forty applicants will be accepted into the program. Upon acceptance, an $80 tuition fee is due.

Tuition covers the cost of a textbook, notebook and other class materials.

Students in the master gardener program are committed to 100 hours of volunteer service to Rutgers Cooperative Extension.

Master gardeners provide county residents with information on gardening and maintaining their property through a speakers' bureau and garden fairs. Master gardeners assist hundreds of gardeners annually through the Garden Hotline, which operates weekdays 1-3 p.m., Wednesday evenings 7-9 p.m. and Monday and Friday mornings 10 a.m.-noon.

The Hotline number is 654-9854.

Master gardeners are also involved with a horticultural therapy program. They are currently working with young people at the Cerebral Palsy League of Union County.

Grads challenged to argue civilly, avoid subtle gender harassment

By JOANNE McFADDEN
THE RECORD

Under clear skies and brilliant suns, the 308-member Class of 1993 walked down the aisle in white and blue gowns with mortar board to receive their diplomas. Afterward, the students celebrated at an all-night substance free party at the Richochet Racquet Club in South Plainfield, sponsored by the Project Graduation Bash committee, the Optimist Club, the PTO and the Recreation Department.

In his remarks to the graduates, Superintendent Mark C. Smith asked for a restoration of greater civility in public discourse.

"To deal constructively and successfully with the difficult social and economic issues we must resolve," he said, "it is imperative that a higher level of civility be restored to public discussion and public debate."

Dr. Smith asked students to follow five basic rules: being truthful, focusing on ideas — not personalities, being moderate in the use of language, respecting those who hold a view different than you do and conveying that respect in word and behavior, and avoiding simplistic labels and absolutist positions.

"America in the 1990s is faced with a variety of difficult social, political and economic issues. Too often, public discussion of these issues — at all levels — has degenerated to an all-time low," he said. Dr. Smith referred to last fall's presidential campaign and this spring's gubernatorial primary as characterized by personal attacks, distortions of truth, inflammatory language, and appeals to emotional biases rather than reason.

"In our own community," he said, "discussion of important public issues is frequently characterized by false statements and inflammatory language."

Board of Education President Susan Pepper also addressed the graduates, quoting from Robert Fulghum, author of All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten; Ralph Waldo Emerson; and Maya Angelou, the poet who delivered the 1993 Inauguration poem.

Using quotes from those authors to illustrate, Mrs. Pepper said that even great thinkers and modern writers disagree about the period of time in which we should place our focus — the past, the present or the future.

"I believe it is important to continue to remember the past, to make the most of the present and to dream for the future," she said.

Westfield High School Bob Petix addressed the graduates concerning gender harassment. Dr. Petix told males to consider their actions when dealing with females asking themselves if anything they would say or do could be construed as insensitive, demeaning, belittling, or disparaging to the female and whether or not they would speak or behave differently if the female were their sister.

He told females never to accept harassment as normal behavior, and to establish expected standards of behavior in business and personal relationships and confront those who do not adhere to those standards.

At right, the band plays pomp and circumstance. At left, Lauren Mannino shows her graduation message to Ali Manville before the ceremony. There were 308 graduates who earned their degrees and celebrated June 23.

Most graduates spent the night at Project Graduation, playing sports, games, or just sitting enjoying each other's company

Even Elvis (graduate Danon Lawson) stopped by to enjoy the Project Graduation festivities.

JUST FOR KIDS

CHECK IT OUT

Two thumbs up

By ANNE LEMAY

Have you ever found yourself telling a friend about a book you've read? Have you ever spent time with a friend picking apart a book or movie you didn't like? You may not have realized it, but you were acting as a reviewer.

You have the power to reach hundreds of friends with your opinion about a book by writing a review for this newspaper. It's almost as simple as just writing your thoughts down on paper, but here are a few tips to help you:

First, tell what the story is about in a few short sentences. If you've ever seen Reading Rainbow on public television stations, you've seen kids doing exactly that. For example, if you were telling about The Tale of Peter Rabbit by Beatrix Potter, you might say, "Peter is a naughty rabbit who just can't stay out of Mr. McGregor's garden, even though his father was captured there and put into a pie by Mrs. McGregor."

One sentence tells who the main characters are, where the story takes place and gives a hint of the story problem. Start by listing the main characters (not all of them); find an adjective to describe each.

Once you have all this, put it together in a sentence or two. There is no one way, no "right" way to describe a story. If you are reviewing a longer book you might use a few sentences to describe it. The key is to say just enough to make someone want to read the book — but don't give away the ending, in case they do!

If there are pictures in the book, you can tell what kind they are — drawings, paintings, in black and white, or in color. Do they add to the story? What do you think about the pictures in your book? Did you see the characters the same way?

Now it's time to give your opinion: Did you like it? But that's not enough. Why did you like it (or why didn't you)? For example, what I liked about Peter Rabbit is the exciting chase scene.

If I didn't like Goldilocks and the Three Bears I might say, "I can't believe anybody would be stupid enough to leave their house unlocked." Another reason I might not like the story could be that "I think there is too much repetition, which slows down the plot." Whatever you think, it's your opinion. It isn't right or wrong, but the people who read your review need to know why you think this is so.

Finally, would you recommend this book to others? Do you know any other books like this that the readers also might enjoy? If you didn't like the book you reviewed, you might suggest some books kids might like instead.

Be sure to include the full title, the author's name, the publisher and the copyright date. Your local librarian can help you find this information — it's right in the book. You might also mention whether you bought the book or found it at your local public library, because this might help others find it.

Thumbs up or thumbs down, it's up to you to decide because YOU ARE THE REVIEWER.

Anne Lemay is librarian with Children's Services of the Piscataway Public Library.

Send your reviews to Kids' Stuff, Forbes Newspapers, P.O. Box 699, Somerville, NJ 08876. Be sure to include name, age, address and phone number.

How to be a model child

By RACHEL KURTZ

Jackie Zampella had a cluckin' good time with Phil Hartman on Saturday Night Live. Jackie was a principal performer on "Cluckin' Chicken," a Saturday Night Live commercial starring Phil Hartman that pokes fun at fast food restaurants.

When Jackie was 2 years old, people always asked her mother Doris if the outgoing and charming little girl had ever modeled or tried out for commercials. After two years of these questions, Mrs. Zampella, along with several hundred other parents, brought her daughter to audition for an agent. Jackie was one of the few children the agent agreed to represent.

Jackie began to model in catalogs such as Caldor, Ames, and Bradlee's. Her biggest modeling jobs were appearing on the cover of the Kids R Us 1991 calendar and the cover of the 1992 Spiegel Christmas catalog.

At 4, Jackie appeared in her first commercial, for Fisher Price. The company liked working with her and booked her for a commercial about their toy laundry. Since then she has been in several other commercials.

Jackie says of modeling and being on TV, "It's fun. I like it." Her most exciting job, she says,

JACQUELYN ZAMPELLA

... was the Saturday Night Live commercial.

Mrs. Zampella says if Jackie stops enjoying what she is doing, she won't ask her to continue. Mrs. Zampella is careful not to become a "stage mom" and push Jackie to a point where she's not having fun.

Now 7 years old and entering the second grade at Crim School in Bridgewater, Jackie has gotten used to all the attention. While family and friends get excited about seeing her face in magazines and on TV, Jackie is more interested in seeing the children she has met while shooting commercials in New York City.

Despite all the time she spends modeling and shooting commercials, Jackie still has time to be a kid. Jackie takes dance classes, voice and piano lessons and has already sung on a record with her voice teacher and two other girls for an aspiring songwriter; she began to learn piano by ear before she started taking lessons.

When things get busy with her other activities, Mrs. Zampella tells the agent that Jackie needs a break to go to birthday parties and play with friends.

Jackie says simply that the difference between her and other kids is that "I model and they don't."

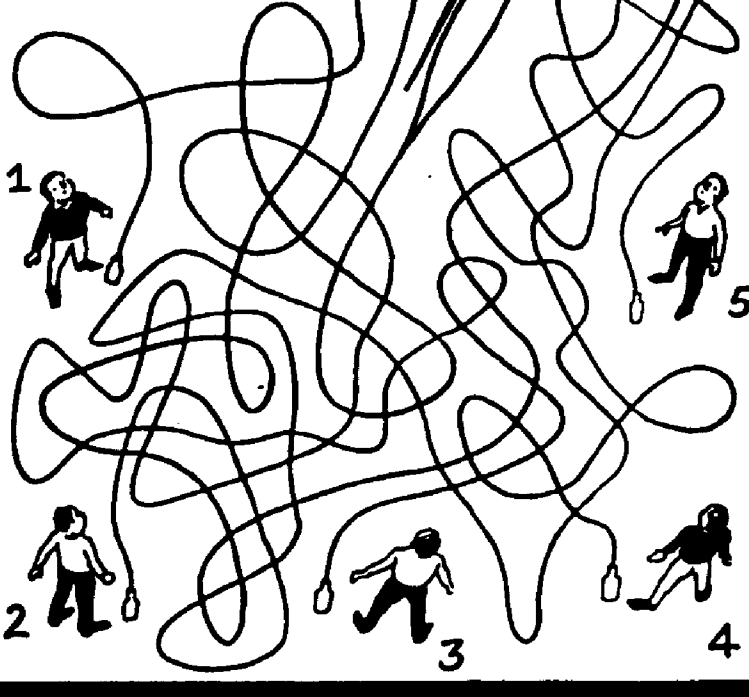

All of her activity doesn't take Jackie away from her schoolwork either. She did well in her first-grade class and her teacher said that Jackie is a compassionate, patient and disciplined child. Mrs. Zampella attributes some of Jackie's maturity to modeling.

Jackie gets an allowance of $1 an hour for the work she has done but all the rest goes into a fund for her college education.

When she grows up, Jackie says she wants to be a model and a doctor. She thinks she can do both.

Onur Tezucar, a 12-year-old Westfield resident, recently won three first place trophies and was one of only four "Triple Crown" winners out of more than 2,400 participants at the AAU Grand National Wrestling Championships, held June 23-27 at Hershey, Pa. In the 11 and 12-year-old age group, Tezucar was unbeaten in a total of 16 matches. He beat seven opponents in the freestyle division, five in the Greco-Roman category and four in the Sambo, a class of wrestling which blends judo with Russian wrestling. Tezucar defeated Kyle Fisher of Havre, Mont., 16-12, in the finals of the 85-pound freestyle wrestling competition.

Kehler's retirement ends era

Search for successor has already begun

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

Initially it came as a shock. But, now that everyone has comprehended and accepted Gary Kehler's decision to retire as the athletic director at Westfield High School, the focus has begun to shift toward who will replace one of the most respected sports personalities in the state.

The opening for the position has already been posted, applications have been and are currently being accepted, and the first interviews will take place today, according to Maggie Cimei, Westfield's Director of School Community Relations.

While a fixed timetable will be difficult to adhere to, the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mark Smith would like to agree on a successor in approximately one month, when the school board will hold its August meeting. The board, however, may conduct a special meeting at any time to address the situation.

It may be construed as a misconception that Dr. Smith and the school board will pursue applicants from inside the school system first.

"We want to pick the best person, whether they are inside or outside the school system," said Cimei, speaking for Dr. Smith, who could not be reached at deadline.

Dr. Smith, Westfield Principal Dr. Robert Petix and Director of Personnel Marie Scian will take part in the hiring procedure.

Following a complete review of the nominees Dr. Smith will recommend someone to the Board of Education, which will either accept or decline the nomination. In most instances, the superintendent's first selection is approved.

"No matter who they pick to replace him it won't be the same," said W.H.S. football coach Ed Tranchina, who has worked closely with Kehler for the past nine years. "Those who worked with him know it won't be the same without him. Everyone knows his legacy and what he's done. He's a special man. He's the best."

"We were all surprised he did it, but apparently he knew all along. I guess he didn't want to go out with a lot of fanfare."

"He was a good person to work with and he was always very supportive," said John Martin, the head coach for boys' cross country and winter and spring track.

Following his illustrious coaching career in football, golf and wrestling, Kehler continued to make an impact as Westfield's athletic director. During his 10-year tenure as AD, Kehler fostered considerable growth in the school's athletic program, creating new programs and increasing the participation of women in sports.

"I just thought it was about time to retire while I still felt good," said Kehler. "After 36 years I think now is as good a time as any to do something else, or nothing. It wasn't anything I suddenly decided. I thought it was a good time to do it while I could still do some things."

"This was a great atmosphere and a great place to work in. I've been very fortunate over the years to have such a great group of kids and parents to work with. I was lucky to be here."

Parents who have had their child play for Kehler, fellow and opposing coaches and followers of Blue Devils' sports over the years have probably felt as though they were the fortunate ones to have watched and learned from such an esteemed person.

"We're obviously losing something with his retirement, but Westfield benefited from his outstanding teaching and coaching of our students," said Dr. Smith in a statement June 22.

Lomicky aces foes at Westfield Tennis Inv.

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

If you're holding a sports tournament of any kind in a small town such as Westfield, it's a pretty safe bet that some monetary incentive will attract more participants and stiffen the competition considerably.

So, with a total purse in excess of $1,100, the 30th edition of the Westfield Invitational Men's Tennis Tournament brought in competitors from as far away as Armenia and Tel-Aviv, Israel.

But, when all 31 matches were played and the field of 32 players was paired down to only one on Sunday, Dave Lomicky of Middletown won the event at the Westfield Tennis Club and took home the $750 first prize.

In addition to winning his second straight tournament in two weeks, Lomicky concluded the lengthy run of Washington D.C.'s Randy Vignostad, who was the four-time defending champion.

Lomicky, the No. 2 seed, breezed to victory over the top-seeded Vignostad, dispatching him in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Vignostad had won 24 consecutive matches in the tournament.

Vignostad, who survived two match points in beating Lomicky in three sets in the finals two years ago, might have had some of his strength taken away in his semifinal match Sunday. The 29-year-old was pushed by New York's Alex Roberman, the No. 4 seed who lost 6-4, 7-6 (7-4).

Meanwhile, Lomicky lost only three games in his semifinal victory over Robert Soneru of New York.

Lomicky, who graduated from Arizona State last year, has accumulated 24 points on the Association of Tennis Professionals, ranking him 680th in the world.

As far as local residents were concerned, Westfield had a trio of representatives in the tournament — Dave Shallcross, Joey Deer and Brett Ashley.

Deer, the sixth seed, enjoyed the most success of the threesome. He pasted Bridgewater's Tim Morita in the first round, 6-0, 6-0, and defeated Bob Tanis of Wayne by injury default before succumbing to Somerset's Jay Kanetkar, 6-1, 6-1.

Shallcross beat Dave Laudati of Scotch Plains in the opening round, 6-3, 6-4, then lost to Roberman, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Ashley was eliminated in the first round by Jason Zuckerman of East Brunswick, 6-3, 6-3.

Errors, one-run losses hurt Westfield in CJPTBL

By KIP KUDRUK
THE RECORD

Roughly a third of the way into its season, Westfield's entry in the Central Jersey Plainfield Twilight Baseball League has endured a turbulent and often frustrating start.

However, as a club which is giving up a few years of physical maturity and experience to the majority of its opponents, Westfield (5-9-1) has been competitive in every one of its games.

As a matter of fact, if the team could improve its sub-par record in one-run games and tighten up its defense, head coach Raf Crocco might currently be entertaining playoff hopes instead of simply hoping to reach the .500 mark.

"Before the season if you told me we would be 5-9 at this point, I'd be satisfied," said Crocco. "But, after watching the games I'm aggravated. If we played innings two through six we'd be undefeated. We've been gift wrapping games."

Crocco is undoubtedly referring to the game in which first-place North Hunterdon (17-2-1) scored all 10 of its runs with two outs in the 10th inning. That game ended in a 10-10 tie.

On Friday, Westfield took a 4-3 lead into the final inning against East Division leader Union (13-3-1). Back-to-back errors allowed the tying run to score and the winning run scored on another fielding miscue.

"We've lost a lot of one-run games and we've blown some leads," said Dave Harwood, one of the team's leading hitters with a .293 batting average (12 for 41) and a .431 on base percentage (22 for 51). "We've also left a lot of guys on base."

After seeing practically every team in the league once, the consensus among the players and coach is that the hitting is a cut above high school baseball, and the pitching and defensive capabilities of opposing clubs is not too much better than what the Blue Devils faced this spring.

"I don't think this league is as good as I thought it would be," said Crocco. "The kids are learning a lot and they're seeing a lot of aggressive play. It's getting them ready for college."

"The hitting is a lot better," said Harwood, who has a 1.89 ERA in 11 1/2 innings of relief. "The pitching (Please turn to page A-14)

Legendary coach will be missed

"The Coach" is retiring. Gary Kehler, the athletic director at Westfield High School and a living legend in high school football circles, has announced his retirement, effective Aug. 31.

"I decided the time has come for me to retire," said Kehler. "I have no plans for the future. My life has been centered around Westfield athletics. I've been fortunate to be in a community that's been very supportive of the athletic program, plus giving us so many young people who have been so competitive and confident."

Kehler was Westfield's head football coach from 1961-1982, compiling a 171-26-7 record which included 17 conference championships, nine state titles and a 48-game unbeaten streak that spanned nine seasons.

Also, his wrestling teams went 237-44-10 over a 24-year period, and his golf teams posted a 311-40-6 record over exactly one quarter of a century.

In combining all three sports, Kehler's teams went 719-110-23, good for an impressive .844 winning percentage.

Kehler has received numerous awards and recognition. One of the most significant was his selection to the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame in 1986.

"I'd like to be remembered for teaching players to set lofty goals for themselves and to strive hard to reach their individual potential," said Kehler. "Some of the most pleasant memories are the great camaraderie I've had with, not only my own coaching staffs, but with opponents, many of whom are great friends of mine."

Kehler was born in Washington, N.J., and graduated from Hackettstown High School in 1950. He was a left halfback in the old single-wing formation and was also an All-State second baseman.

To this day, he keeps a 1961 Christmas card which was sent to him by his high school football coach, Chet Morrison, who influenced Kehler as a player and coach.

Following his high school graduation Kehler served in the U.S. Army from 1951-1954. Then, he attended Rutgers University, where he graduated in 1957. His first job after college was as a physical education teacher at Westfield High School. He was hired as Westfield's head football coach on Aug. 8, 1961.

All three of his sons — Glen (Class of '75), Todd, (1980) and Doug (1985) — played football for W.H.S. Kehler and his wife, Alice, also have three grandchildren — Chris, Dan and Allison.

Several years ago, a book entitled "The Coaching Edge - The Gary Kehler Story," took a close look at "The Coach" from his formative days as a high school football and baseball player to his glory days at the helm of Blue Devils' football.

"Ever since I can recall he's worked 12-14 hours a day, seven days a week, 12 months a year with football, wrestling and golf teams, and now with the athletic director's job," his wife Alice said in the book. "Like many business people that didn't leave us much time together. But, the time we've spent together has been quality time."

Lou Rettino, the head football coach and athletic director at Union High School, was just one of many counterparts who revered Kehler's system.

"Gary's organization was the model," said Rettino. "It was a blue print other coaches tried to emulate in building their programs. It was the measuring stick by which all other programs were judged."

"I, along with other coaches, had a desire to beat Kehler, not because of hatred or jealousy, but rather of the feeling that comes with beating the best. Just to compete on his level was a challenge, to win was euphoria. There can be no greater tribute to Gary Kehler."

YOUTH SPORTS

SPRING SOCCER

Division V Boys
The Westfield Warriors of the Westfield Soccer Association completed an outstanding season by winning the Division V state championship on June 19. The team's overall record, which included the regular season, as well as tournaments and divisional playoffs, was 17-2-3.

Team work, solid defensive plays and a balanced scoring attack were the Warriors' strengths this season. The Warriors scored a total of 73 goals and allowed only 18. Each member of the team emerged as a star at various times throughout the season.

Warriors 3, Princeton 1

The Warriors' first divisional playoff game was against Princeton on June 14. The Warriors appeared weary from the opening whistle and although they controlled the ball through most of the first half, they entered halftime trailing 1-0. Westfield got on track quickly after the intermission, as Evan Molloy scored a goal from his fullback position with a high chip shot from the 35-yard line which bounced out of the keeper's hands and into the goal.

Striker Adam Walker's speed set up the next goal, as he carried the ball wide of the net before crossing the ball perfectly to striker Cam Anthony, who volleyed it into the net. Halfback Bradley Gillin set up the third goal with an accurate lead pass to striker Xander Rothchild, whose hard shot deflected off the far post before crossing the goal line.

Warriors 5, East Brunswick 0

The second divisional playoff game took place June 16, and the Warriors were at the top of their game, as they thoroughly dominated play. The first goal was scored only two minutes into the game, as Walker beat the goalie with a shot into the low corner of the net. Striker Tim Carroll scored the second goal on a hard volley high into the far corner of the goal. Carroll was set up by Rothchild, who sent a crossing pass through the mouth of the goal.

In the second half the Warriors were simply no match for their opponents, as they played the entire second half in the opponent's defensive zone, allowing the ball to cross the middle for only one brief moment.

Westfield's third goal, set up by Brian Bellin's pass from the right side, came off the foot of striker Nikk Gelester from close range. The constant pressure of the Warriors' offense produced two quick goals when striker Kyle Vantovsky chipped a shot from the left side of the goal over the keeper's hands into the opposite corner of the net. Later, Walker tallied his second goal of the game late in the half with a driving shot from the 10-yard line.

The Warriors' scoring opportunities were created by the seemingly flawless skills of halfbacks Brad Gillin, Greg Scanlon and Brandon Kape, all of whom controlled the middle of the field.

Sweeper Connor Mulvey's quickness and agility with the ball rarely allowed East Brunswick the chance to venture into the Warriors' defensive half. Fullbacks Greg Oleschewski and Molloy used a combination of aggressive attacks and foot strength to thwart emerging offensive plays and deliver long volleys to waiting halfbacks.

Warriors 2, North Haverden 1

In the Division V championship game on June 19 the Warriors played under threatening skies and occasional rain to claim their first divisional title. A penalty shot midway through the first half quickly became a goal, as Brad Gillin calmly sent a scorching shot along the grass into the net before the goalie had an opportunity to move.

Michael Farley, playing sweeper for the ailing Mulvey, made several big plays by rejecting loose balls within his reach and ridding down those beyond him. Stopper Matt Hall was a nemesse to the opponent by preventing any scoring threats up the middle of the field.

Walker scored the game-winning goal early in the second half on a beautiful play off a throw-in to Vantovsky. The back pass to halfback Kape created the opportunity for a long lead pass by Kape to Walker, who promptly kicked the ball into the net for the winning goal.

Nikk Gelester and Brandon Kape earned championship honors in goal during the playoffs.

BASEBALL

American Legion
Westfield increased its record to 6-1 by sweeping a doubleheader on June 20. Westfield defeated Roselle Park in the opener, 15-1, then squeaked by Springfield in the nightcap, 3-2.

Jeff Pereira led the onslaught in Game 1 by going 5 for 5. Ryan Mann and Adley Torres collected three hits apiece. Dave Fala and Joe DiLauro cracked two doubles each. Steve Cheek and Bill Rhoades also enjoyed multiple-hit games. Cheek pitched five shut-out innings, getting relief from Torres and All-State honoree Chris Vogel.

The second game was highlighted by the outstanding pitching performance turned in by Kyle Williams, who gave up one run in five innings. Vogel picked up the victory in relief, hurling three shut-out innings. Tom Oraves hit the game-winning homer in the bottom of the eighth. Craig Timarvin did an excellent job behind the plate and he also drove in a run. Pat Cosequer upheld his fine defensive reputation at shortstop.

Westfield Legion suffered a tough loss against Union last Thursday. Westfield led, 9-2, after three innings, however, Union came back to win, 10-9. Hitting stars for Westfield included Pereira, who had three hits and 2 RBI, Joe DiLauro with two doubles and 3 RBI, and Tom Oraves, who had three hits including two doubles.

Other players with multiple-hit games were Adley Torres, Chris Vogel, and Ryan Mann. David Fala had a single, as did Pat Cosequer, who also scored two runs.

Westfield lost to Berkeley Heights on Friday, June 25, 12-8. Westfield showed a lot of spirit by fighting back from an 8-2 deficit. They closed the gap to 6-7 with a five-run sixth inning. DiLauro led off the inning with a double, Adley Torres tripled, Ryan Mann singled, and Dave Fala reached on an error. Craig Timarvin singled in a run, then Tom Oraves followed with another single. Bill Rhoades had two singles and 2 RBI. Westfield was not able to hold Berkeley Heights in check as they came back to score four runs in their half of the inning.

Westfield lost to powerful Watchung Hills on Saturday, 11-8. Westfield again had to fight back after Watchung Hills scored eight runs in the second inning to take an 8-3 lead. Westfield scored two runs in the third and one run in the fourth and fifth innings. The locals actually took a 9-8 lead with two runs in the sixth.

But, Westfield was unable to hold the lead, as Watchung Hills scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Leading hitters for Westfield were Dave Fala with a double, two singles and 2 RBI, Tom Oraves, Jeff Pereira, and Ryan Mann, all of whom had 2 hits apiece. Mann also drove in two runs.

Westfield will play six games over the next four days. This will surely test the resolve of the players, particularly the pitchers and the coaching staff.

Junior Tri-County

In the Elmore game on June 22nd, Westfield was led by Jeremiah Taber, who had two hits, 2 RBI, and made a diving catch in center field. Other contributors were John DiGiovanni and Dave Richards, each of whom had three runs scored. Michael Kotler pitched two strong innings to pick up the victory.

In the Clark game on June 23rd, Westfield jumped out to an early six-run lead after belting six hits in the first inning, which included an RBI single by Phil Orsini. Adam Wallen had three hits and 2 RBI for the game, and struck out eight in four innings of pitching. Bill Hedden pitched three solid innings in relief to preserve the victory.

Tri-County

Last week Westfield's Tri-County team defeated Green Brook to improve its record to 6-0. Green Brook opened the game in the first inning by scoring four runs on three hits and two walks. Jorge Amorim, the pitcher of record, managed to control the hitting of the Cougars over the next four innings and Westfield clawed back to tie the score at 4-4 after key hits by Mike Barone, Brian Murphy, and Frank DiGiovanni.

Jason White pitched the last three innings, as Westfield entered the bottom of the seventh trailing, 8-6. However, after loading the bases on singles by Steve Shannon and White and a walk to Jon DiGiovanni, Barone looped a single down the right-field line to drive in two runs. Chris Schwarzenbek and Jeremiah Taber made a number of key defensive plays. The player of the game was Barone who had a perfect day at the plate, going 4 for 4.

WEEK IN REVIEW — On Monday, Westfield scored five runs in the third inning to take a 5-2 lead over the Woodbridge Cardinals (13-7), but the Cards answered with five runs of their own in the fourth and held on to win, 7-5. An RBI triple by Chris Infantino, a run-scoring single by second baseman Dave Duels and a three-run double by Harwood highlighted the uprising. Jim Charlesworth took the loss.
Following Westfield's disconcerting loss to Union Friday, a game in which catcher Seth Coren blasted his second home run of the summer, Westfield split a doubleheader with the Hillsborough Petrocks, a team which reached the league's championship series last year.
Westfield won the opener, 4-3, behind the strong starting pitching (4 1/3 IP, four hits, one walk, three strikeouts) and hitting of Infantino, who doubled in a run in Westfield's two-run fourth. Coren, who went 2 for 3 and is among the team's hitting leaders with a .289 average (11 for 38), drove in the game winning run with a single in the fourth. Chris Vogel finished the game to pick up his second save.
In the nightcap, Westfield took a 4-2 lead into the fifth, but Hillsborough scored three times in the fifth and three more times in the seventh to build an 8-4 lead which eventually became the final score.
Westfield scored all of its runs in the fourth, when Adam Yannuzzi, Pete Ausiello and Vogel ripped RBI base hits and Duels delivered a sacrifice fly. Harwood and Ausiello had two hits apiece.

Mazda's Miata sports car is ready for fun-in-the-sun driving

By BILL NUSS

FORBES NEWSPAPERS

When the warm weather rolls around a lot of us get the urge to do some top-down driving. That convertible cars are still quite popular is attested to by the fact that nearly every major automotive manufacturer world-wide is producing at least one rag-top model. They range in size from the wee Suzuki-built Geo Metro to the sumptuous Rolls Royce.

In the mid-eighties Mazda decided to share in the renewed interest in convertible cars, and to bring a sports roadster to America. It was labeled the MX-5 and was specifically designed as a traditional front engine, rear drive sports car. Although built in Japan, Mazda received a lot of design and convenience input from its California studio. In mid-1989 the MX-5, now better known as the Miata, was introduced to the Americas. This two-seater sports roadster became an overnight success. It was highly acclaimed by the automotive press who presented Mazda with many prestigious awards. Buyers also lined up at dealerships, and soon the Miata was acknowledged as a world class sports car.

To recapture our interest in the Miata, Mazda periodically comes out with a limited edition model. These distinctive models give Mazda the opportunity to prominently display the new wares it has developed for the Miata. Two years ago it was the British Racing Green model, and for 1993 1/2 it is the Brilliant Black Beauty.

Here's my comments after a week of fun-in-the-sun driving:

APPEARANCE

This latest limited edition Miata is distinguished by its totally shiny black finish that is highlighted by special BBS cast alloy wheels shod with Bridgestone P185/60R14 92H tires, plus a low front air dam and a rear spoiler and apron. This treatment plus its red tonneau cover gives the newest Miata its very low and very sporty look.

COMFORT

The Miata is snug, and yet roomy enough for six footers. In Limited Edition trim the highback seats are red leather faced and each headrest has a pair of speakers for clear reception at highway speeds from the sensitive AM/FM/CD/cassette sound system. Its heater/air conditioner works very well and comes in handy with the top up or down. Other comforts include power windows and mirrors, plus more leather trim, and remote trunk and fuel door release levers. Inside storage and trunk space is minimal and there's no room for golf clubs.

ROADABILITY

The Miata was designed and built to be an agile sports car, and it is. Its rigid structure is fitted with a special independent sport suspension package, four-wheel anti-lock disc brakes, limited slip differential, and power assisted steering. These handling and safety components tied in with the Miata's short wheelbase and rear wheel drive provide it with excellent driving characteristics on all types of roads. This Miata maintains its reputation as a true sports car that is fun to drive, handles well and has many safety features.

PERFORMANCE

A peppy 1.6 liter, four-cylinder, 16 valve, multi-port fuel injected engine powers the 1993 1/2 Miata. It develops 116 horsepower that is delivered to the rear wheels via a smooth-shifting, short-throw five-speed manual gearbox. This sporty combination gets the latest Limited Edition up to 60 miles per hour in slightly over nine seconds, while its sporty tuned exhaust provides the sound of power.

SUGGESTIONS

Add body side molding for protection against dings. Place map pockets in doors. Move spare tire to a vertical position to increase trunk storage space.

ECONOMY

EPA ratings are 24 city/30 highway. I averaged 28.6 mpg.

CONCLUSIONS

In this era of heavy commute traffic with its frequent delays and MAZDA'S LIMITED EDITION MIATA features sports suspension, silver alloy wheels, ABS, leather seating and air conditioning and power windows.

Charged up by electric cars? Don't plug into idea just yet

By BOB HAHN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

The last time I saw an electric car in a positive light was when the astronauts used one to crawl around the surface of the moon — and that was on television in 1971.

The first electric vehicle I ever saw in actual use was an old Baker Electric that was used by an elderly lady in Oakland in the early '30s — and I can't actually remember if I really saw it or if it was something my dad told me about.

In any event, the emergence of the electric car in contemporary American society has been a long time coming — and it isn't here yet.

You're no doubt going to hear a lot about electric cars in the near future. The California Environmental Protection Agency has decreed that by 1998, two percent of the vehicles sold by an auto maker in the state are going to have to put out zero emissions and that pretty well narrows the propulsion system of those cars and trucks to electricity. And as usual, the federal government isn't far behind.

Unfortunately, none of the major auto makers are anywhere near making a practical and acceptable vehicle to fulfill that requirement.

There are some big drawbacks to the use of electric vehicles by the general population. The first is cost. It's estimated by auto company spokespeople that an electric car capable of being used by a commuter will cost about $5,000 to $10,000 more than a comparable gasoline-powered machine. Of course, it's hard to say whether or not this is gospel. We've all heard of that well-known college test book How To Lie With Statistics. But if that's what the auto makers say, that's how they will approach the problem.

The other major drawbacks are varied. We've all become accustomed to the luxuries that come as standard on new car purchases. While the California mandate specifies that the two percent electric new cars must meet normal safety standards and be able to be equipped with a radio, heater and a windshield defroster, this leaves out that energy-sucking air conditioner that has become almost a necessity while creeping along the highways and city streets during the peak traffic hours in major metropolitan areas.

Another problem is that battery

Battery technology isn't up to providing a storage battery that is capable of providing sufficient range for anything over 'normal' one-day commuting technology isn't up to providing a storage battery that is capable of providing sufficient range for anything over "normal" (whatever that may mean) one-day commuting to work and back. Traveling in an electric car from New York to Baltimore, for instance, would be a nightmare of trying to find places to plug in for a recharge although it would be an interesting plot line for a National Lampoon vacation-plot movie featuring Chevy Chase.

Several battery companies are banking on the capabilities of the lithium metal-sulfide battery for use in the immediate future. The batteries in an electric make up a great portion of the total weight of the machine and so the more reliable and efficient the battery pack, the more acceptable the vehicle will be to the public.

Unfortunately, batteries tend to run down progressively and forward progress falls off gradually as the batteries discharge unlike its gasoline powered counterpart which is still going great guns until the fuel tank runs dry. Larry Weiss

(a former PR guy for Ford and now spokesman for the U.S. Advanced Battery Consortium) says that the lithium-metal sulfide battery has "...made the final cut..." and companies are ready to invest big bucks in its production.

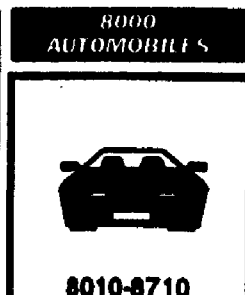

I know that many of you are going to bring up the fact that electric golf carts and in-plant delivery trucks have been in use for as long as some of us can remember but we shouldn't forget that a maintenance crew takes care of their illa, "refuels" them at night and in general, takes the worry out of being transported electrically.

And there's always the appearance factor. Golf carts are about as attractive as a phone booth on wheels and as safe in everyday traffic as crossing the Golden Gate Bridge in rollerblades.

Consumer surveys have turned up some very negative statistics on the general use of electric cars. Most surveyed said that they wouldn't sacrifice a rear seat for extra battery capacity; they wouldn't give up air conditioning; they would only buy one if there were local service stations and recharging areas already in place (no pioneers, these folks) and they wouldn't give up conventional specialties like a stereo and CD player. Even the best AM/FM isn't acceptable on its own any more.

So are we relegated to pistons and valves, gears and exhaust fumes in the future? Probably — but there are others who will disagree. In future columns, we'll discuss what is currently available on the market, what educated and enthusiastic amateurs are building and driving every day and why electric vehicle development has been neglected for the past 90 years.

If you like mystery stories, you'll love that one.

Central Jersey celebrates with food, fun, fireworks

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

The Fourth of July means many things — a family day, a long weekend, softball games, car trips, picnic feasts, fireworks — all set against a backdrop of Old Glory's fabulous red, white and blue.

After we've taken a moment to reflect on the spirit of America and the patriots who made this country great, let's think about the best part of Independence Day — food, fun and fireworks. Here are some suggestions for having a blast this Fourth of July.

FOOD

Early July marks the beginning of harvest time for summer fruits and vegetables — and New Jersey is a vegetarian's delight. Early tomatoes, fresh sweet corn, juicy strawberries and crunchy cucumbers are all available from Jersey farms. Whether you pick-your-own or stop at a roadside stand, be sure to fill your picnic table with the July bounty.

What's the Fourth without icy, cold lemonade? Probably the best lemonade you ever tasted can be whipped up quickly and easily using this method: whiz some coarsely chopped fresh lemons in a food processor with water and sugar to taste. Strain the mixture into a pitcher, chill and serve frosty cold. Garnish with a sprig of mint.

FUN

Somerset County's biggest celebration will be the Somerset County Park Commission's Family Festival in Bridgewater at North Branch Park on Milltown Road.

The festival will feature many different performers, strolling musicians, pony rides and Mott's Artillery, a Revolutionary War encampment. Children will be entertained by O.T. Zappo and Cowboy Joe Phillips dog and horse show.

Cranford Fire Department Local No. 37 in Union County found a "ducky" way to raise money for the Burn Center at Saint Barnabus Medical Center in Livingston by sponsoring a duck race down the Rahway River, 2 p.m. July 3. Numbered plastic ducks will be floated down the river between Prospect and North Union avenues and over a waterfall. Ducks are available for $2.50 each and entrants do not have to be present to win. To enter, call (908) 709-7630 or (908) 276-1952.

Cranford is holding a huge two-day festival July 3 (noon-8 p.m.) and July 4 (9 a.m.-11 p.m.) with vendors and children's rides at Nomahegan Park on Springfield Avenue. A four-mile Firecracker Fun Run will be held July 3.

The Central Jersey 4th of July Parade Committee will be sponsoring a concert/fireworks program July 5, 7 p.m.-dusk at the West End School Field. A pre-fireworks concert will feature two local bands, Captain Hawker and the All Stars, and N.Y.C. The concert is open to the public and donations will be solicited at the gate.

The Piscataway High School football field will be the site of an evening of fun beginning at 5:30 p.m. July 4. Events will include an antique car show, clowns and rides for the children before the fireworks display begins after dark.

Safe, sane fireworks

Thinking of lighting the fuse with a spark plug? Don't do it. If you have a spark plug, you're probably not a fan of fireworks. But if you are, here are some tips to keep you and your family safe. First, read the instructions carefully. Second, never throw a lit firework. Third, never look into the fuse of a firework. Fourth, never light a firework that is on the ground. Fifth, never light a firework that is in the air. Sixth, never light a firework that is in the water. Seventh, never light a firework that is in the fire. Eighth, never light a firework that is in the sun. Ninth, never light a firework that is in the moon. Tenth, never light a firework that is in the stars.

Fireworks are a fun way to celebrate the Fourth of July, but they can be dangerous if not used properly. Always follow the instructions on the box, and never drink and drive. If you have a child, make sure they are supervised at all times. And remember, fireworks are only fun if they are safe. So, be safe and have a blast!

Talmi meets his Waterloo

Aclaimed conductor Yoav Talmi, music director of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra, returns to the Waterloo Festival of the Arts this month for two concerts, during which he'll be joined by two special friends.

Saturday, July 3, 8:30 p.m., the program will feature pianist Alexander Toradze as Talmi conducts the Waterloo Orchestra through William Schuman's American Festival Overture, Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1 in Bb minor and Saint-Saen's Symphony No. 3 ("The Organ Symphony").

Saturday, July 24, Talmi returns to Waterloo, where he'll be joined by famed mezzo-soprano (and Oldwick native) Fredricka von Stade for six of Canteloube's 19 Songs of the Auvergne plus arias by Meyerbeer, Thomas and Offenbach. It will be the first Waterloo appearance for Ms. von Stade, who rarely performs in her native state.

For Talmi, however, this will mark the third straight season at Waterloo, which is presenting its 18th season of classical performances in the historical village, located in Byram Township in the heart of scenic Allamuchy State Park. A frequent guest conductor of major orchestras and opera companies around the world, Talmi is also in his third season as music director of the San Diego Symphony.

Included among the orchestras he's led are the London Philharmonic, the Israel Symphony, the Polish Radio National Symphony, the BBC Scottish Symphony, the Berlin Philharmonic, the Tokyo Symphony and the Vienna Symphony.

Talmi is also a frequent conductor of recorded works, including releases by such prestigious labels as Decca (France), Teldec (Germany) and Chandos (London). His most recent releases with the San Diego Symphony include Gliere's Third Symphony, an all-Brahms CD (of three rare transcriptions) and an all-Rachmaninoff CD which will be released later this year on the Pro-Arte Intersound label, which will release it in surround-sound.

Conductor Yoav Talmi of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra will return to lead two concerts at the Waterloo Festival of the Arts in Byram Township on July 3 and July 24.

Born in Isreal, Talmi is a graduate of the Rubin Academy of Music in Tel-Aviv and the Juilliard School in New York, both as a conductor and composer. He was the recipient of the Koussevitsky Conducting Prize at Tanglewood (1969) and the Rupert Conductor's Competition in London (1973).

Single ticket prices are $15 and $20 for the Waterloo orchestral series, and $10 for the chamber music series. Discounts are available for senior citizens and students. Subscription prices are $42 and $96 for the orchestral series and $22 and $36 for the chamber music series. For more information, call (201) 347-4700.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) There seem to be too many loose ends to tie up this week regarding a career matter. Talks may break down. However, toward the end of the week, a new opportunity comes to you. Common sense is your ally in dealings with others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You may receive misleading advice about a financial matter. You seem to have your head on your shoulders where career interests are concerned. Your feet are definitely on the ground this week. A fun opportunity arises this weekend, though some social plans will be changed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It will be difficult to agree with others about financial interests this week. Watch your use of credit. Higher-mind pursuits bring happiness. A talk with a lawyer or adviser is beneficial. Watch temperament in romance.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) In some ways, you feel misunderstood or unappreciated this week. Self-analysis brings you important insights. Judgment is good regarding financial interests. Dealings with bankers about loans and property improvements are favored now.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You will be busy on the job this week and may have to postpone a social engagement. Partners work well together as a team. Though some business appointments will be changed, you will still meet with a wonderful new opportunity for financial gain.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Problems involving children concern you for part of the week. Efficiency marks your performance on the job. Talks with those in important positions go well. Luck is with you regarding publishing, travel and personal publicity.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Before you can feel free to travel, a domestic matter will first have to be settled. You will be pleased about happy developments in a loved one's life this week. This week's financial developments are in your favor.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You may have difficulty making up your mind about an investment or financial move this week. Talks with bankers about loans and mortgages are favored. A heart-to-heart talk at home eliminates misunderstandings with loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Partners may not agree on a possible purchase, but otherwise you will enjoy remarkable rapport with each other. Now is the time to make important plans together. A career opportunity to your liking comes to you this week.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You seem undecided about how to handle a job concern, and you will make no progress until you make up your mind. It should be a good week for income. An invitation to visit others comes this week. Both travel and dating are favored for the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You may have some worries about a needless relationship. Get things off your chest and realize that others are more than willing to meet you halfway. The weekend is not a good time for having company over.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Interruptions from friends could keep you from completing an important mental project or a domestic task. You will get the answers you are seeking about an investment concern later in the week. Talks with business advisers are favored. Make a point of getting the privacy you need this weekend.

Gustafson muses over music and artistry

Apollo Muse celebrates group's 10th season with 'Month of Sundays in July' concert series

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

It has been said that those who can't do, teach. In a manner of speaking, that's what Eric Gustafson, founder and artistic director of the Apollo Muses, is all about.

A dedicated advocate of the arts, Gustafson long ago gave up the notion of performing as a musician or actor, despite training in both, and turned his energies towards directing, producing, teaching and lecturing. But with the formation of the Apollo Muses, now celebrating its 10th season of presenting "A Month of Sundays in July" performances in Somerset County, he's taken an innovative approach to merging artist and audience into one supportive body.

The latest series of "A Month of Sundays in July" begins Sunday, July 4, with talks by Sted Mays of Rutgers University ("Michelangelo and Shakespeare: Male Beauty in Renaissance Italy and England") and musicologist Bob Butts ("The Broadway musical") followed by a performance by flautist Wendy Stern (substituting for Gretchen Pusch) and pianist Anthony Strong.

The musical program will include Mozart's Sonata No. 5 in C, K. 14, Beethoven's Sonata in E major ("Undine"), Op. 167, Gershwin's Three Preludes for Piano and Martin's Ballade.

Before the afternoon gets underway at the Carney Center for the Performing Arts at Purnell School in Pottersville, patrons are encouraged to come early to enjoy the serene setting and a light lunch.

And before the musical portion of the afternoon begins, there's an opportunity to enjoy refreshments and conversation with the artists, a trademark of Apollo Muses events.

"What we're trying to encourage is a dialogue of the arts," said Gustafson, a native New Yorker who also lived in Europe and New Mexico before settling in Gladstone. "We also ask all the artists to attend the other artist's performances — I insist they take the focus off the self and exchange ideas."

So you can see, this isn't your usual Sunday at the bandshell in the park. Entertainment in a lovely setting is a big part of the program, but learning about the arts and sharing your ideas with others is what makes it special.

The size of the audience is also limited to preserve an intimate atmosphere, while "distinguished artists" such as actresses Celeste Holm and Ruth Warrick, longtime supporters (and participants) of the Apollo Muses are often on hand to encourage the many young artists who are invited to perform.

This is the first year at the Purnell School, after staging the events for many years at historic Lu Shan Farm in Gladstone, where Gustafson himself renovated a barn to serve as a gallery/performance space.

"It's a beautiful location, very tranquil and cozy," said Gustafson.

Highlights of the remaining Sundays include an appearance by distinguished painter and New Jersey resident Clarence Holbrook Carter, a slide talk by Gustafson ("The Court Theatres of Europe") and a performance by tenor Michael Stuenkel, accompanied by Strong (July 11); a performance by cellist Arthur Cook and pianist John Schucker preceding a screening of the film Champagne for Caesar, featuring a talk by Ms. Holm, who starred in the movie with Ronald Coleman (July 18); and a performance by the New Jersey Ballet preceding a screening of the film Guest in the House, featuring a talk by the film's star, Ms. Warrick. (July 26).

Tickets for all Apollo Muses events are $25, or $90 for a subscription to all four. Space is limited, so reservations are necessary. Lunch begins at noon, with the first program scheduled for 1 p.m.

For more information, call (908) 879-2428.

The group Apollo Muses, led by Founding President and Artistic Director Eric Gustafson, will celebrate its 10th anniversary with the series A Month of Sundays in July beginning July 4 at the Purnell School in Pottersville.

Sometimes 'corny' works Tom Hanks gives 'Sleepless in Seattle' a wake-up call

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

Sleepless in Seattle, Nora Ephron's over-the-top romance, is manipulative; it's artificial; it's yes, corny. It would be an absolute disaster if it weren't for one small fact: it works like a charm.

Most of the credit, however, can't go to Ephron, who directed and wrote the screenplay with David S. Ward (The Sting, Major League) and Jeff Arch. She tends to be a little heavy-handed with her characters' emotions, and borrows heavily from her own screenplay When Harry Met Sally..., which was directed more ably by Rob Reiner, who here appears all too briefly as a wisecracking contractor.

In fact, the success of Sleepless rests firmly on the shoulders of one, not two, of its leads: Tom Hanks, as usual exuding as much likability as one person can possibly possess on screen, makes you ache so badly for him (he's a young widower and single father who's convinced he'll never love as deeply again) that at times it's practically unbearable. The fact that this is supposed to set us up for the inevitable romantic ending doesn't excuse the pain through which the audience is dragged for two-thirds of the picture.

Hanks, though, is so good that you want to sit down with him after the movie's over and have a couple of beers, just shoot the breeze. He plays the BIG emotions of the story: loss, pain, hope, longing, with just enough self-awareness to keep sadness from becoming maudlin. And he does deliver laughs, too. The scene in which Hanks and his married friends compare men's movies and "chick movies" is priceless. You'll have to wait until the cassette comes out to catch all the lines the rest of the audience laughed through in the theater.

Meg Ryan, playing a Baltimore Sun reporter (who, as in all these movies, seems to have more time to devote to her personal life than any working reporter in real life) is very nice. But the fact that she doesn't register in the role isn't her fault — she's been given no role to play.

Tom Hanks (as Sam Baldwin) reluctantly "appears" on a radio call-in show when his son, played by Ross Malinger, telephones an on-air psychologist.

Ryan's Annie is just a nice girl with a nice job and a nice fiancée (Bill Pullman) who keeps hearing about "magic" in love and wonders why she hasn't found any. When she hears Hanks' touching remembrance of his deceased spouse on a radio talk show, she catches an audio glimpse of that elusive commodity, and becomes obsessed with the lonely widower's description of love at first sight. It's clear a woman had a hand in writing and directed this movie — she's setting up the ultimate Sensitive Guy and sending her deserving heroine out after him.

There's so little plot they could have done the movie in an hour, but luckily, Ephron added secondary characters to the stew: Rosie O'Donnell, who should be given a movie of her own sometime, does great things with the standard girl's-best-friend role, and Reiner, on the screen much too little, delivers the best one-liners in the movie. Pity almost all of them were in the trailer, too.

In the role of Hanks' eight-year-old son, who still calls for his mommy in the middle of the night, Ross is just about perfect. He's not so movie-kid obnoxious that you want to smack him, but he's also hip and funny enough that you really care about him.

Much has been made of how women and men will react differently to Sleepless in Seattle. It's probably not true. The men will side with Tom Hanks, and the women will, too. They'll both be right.

Making of a monster Stageworks re-stages its 'Frankenstein'

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Writer

Stageworks/Summit, one of New Jersey's lesser-known but consistently interesting professional theaters, is also one of the state's quirkiest. Performing out of the Arts Center Theater on the campus of the Kent Place School in Summit, artistic director, playwright and director Robert Pridham has steered Stageworks through a seven-season repertoire which has included revivals of rarely-produced works like Larry Atlas's Total Abandon and Eric Bogosian's Talk Radio, literary adaptations like Orson Welles's stage version of Melville's Moby Dick, and Pridham's own stage adaptations of popular works like Ghost Stories, based on short stories by Stephen King, and last summer's premiere of The Graduate.

Struggling, as any regional theater company must, to increase its audience base while remaining true to its creative mission, Stageworks is currently preparing to open its eighth season with a full production of Pridham's adaptation of Mary Shelley's Frankenstein. When the work premiered in a two-week, non-professional workshop in 1988, area critics responded favorably and the play ended up on some 10-best lists.

This Frankenstein, promises Pridham, posits Shelley's original narrative against an appropriately dark, foreboding backdrop. Set on a tilted set, complete with special effects involving lightening, thunder and fog, the playwright has set it in its original 1795 period.

New Providence actress Cynthia Boorujy portrays Mary Shelley in 'Mary Shelly's Frankenstein' at Stageworks/Summit July 8-Aug. 7.

"This is a very sophisticated Frankenstein," the playwright maintains. "The true love relationships in the story become very important and convoluted, and there is some chaste nudity which makes this a uniquely adult and faithful version of the story."

"This script is a direct return to Shelley's novel," the playwright continues. "Significant material has also been drawn from Shelley's letters and journals. Many events in Shelley's life are paralleled in her novel, the amazing thing being that many of these events happened after she wrote about them."

Mr. Pridham describes his text as a "chamber horror piece for five players," and he is extremely excited with the cast he has assembled for this run of the show.

In this adaptation, Mary Shelley herself appears to narrate the story she originally wrote at the age of 19. Portrayed by New Providence resident Cynthia Boorujy, whose most recent New Jersey appearance was in the Triad Arts Ensemble's production of Christopher Durang's The Marriage of Bette and Boo, Shelley takes the audience through her dark fiction while pointing to the astounding parallels between the narrative and tragic events in her own life. Shelley herself opens the play and later becomes involved in the narrative unfolding on-stage by giving information to the characters.

"There are direct parallels between the characters in the novel and real people in Mary Shelley's life," adds Ms. Boorujy, who read several biographies of the author to prepare for her Stageworks role. "The character of Victor Frankenstein was influenced by Percy Shelley, Henry Clerval was influenced by Lord Byron, and, in a lot of ways, the monster himself is Mary Shelley's alter-ego, a darker side of herself."

"Specific events in the novel also correspond with the author's life. William, Mary Shelley's child, died at the age of 3. In the novel, a character named William, Frankenstein's younger brother, is killed by the monster."

Playing the "created man" of the title is Hoboken resident and Stageworks regular James Cronin, who originated the role of the monster during the 1988 workshop and previously appeared in Stageworks' versions of Jungle Coup and Moby Dick. Neil Bradley, a regular off-Broadway and television performer, plays the mad doctor. Rounding out the cast are DeAnne Kemp as love-interest Elizabeth and G.R. Johnson as Henry Clerval, Frankenstein's friend and confidant.

"This Frankenstein originally put Stageworks on the map," Mr. Pridham believes, confident that the five years of development and work he has put into the script since the 1988 workshop will be reflected in the coming production.

The playwright and director is acutely aware that, as he produces his Frankenstein, popular culture is rediscovering the version of the novel, while actor and director Kenneth Branagh prepares his own film version, to star Robert Deniro as the monster.

"A lot of the renewed interest in Frankenstein has to do with the upcoming 150-year anniversary of the novel," Mr. Pridham says. "The fact remains, though, that very few of the adaptations of Shelley's novel remain close to the source material."

Frankenstein runs July 8-Aug. 7, Thursdays-Saturdays at 8 p.m. at The Arts Center Theater at the Kent Place School, 42 Norwood Ave., Summit. Tickets range from $10.50-$15.50. Call the Stageworks box office, (908) 273-9383.

Concert tour was no Little Feat

July 1 Garden State Arts Center reunion show features the Band

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

All you hear from the music business these days is how promoters are losing their shirts staging concerts that draw smaller and smaller crowds each year.

But there are a few acts out there that are more reliable than others — ironically, several of them, like Steve Miller, Jimmy Buffett, The Grateful Dead and even Paul McCartney — are classic rockers who haven't had a hit record in years.

Add Little Feat to that list. Despite being in the market for a new record label (Morgan Creek released them from their contract after Shake Me Up in 1989) — the quintessential kings of Southern boogie rhythms have been doing a bangup job on the concert circuit, drawing healthy audiences at places like Waterloo Village and the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel, where they'll headline a bill featuring the Band Thursday, July 1.

"We have been fortunate," said keyboardist Bill Payne, who helped found the band along with the late Lowell George and others back in the early '70s. "But it's still a tough situation right now. They didn't want us in Austin, but we said 'lets book it and see what happens' and we ended up selling out three shows."

Payne will be joined by fellow longtime Feats Richie Hayward (drums, vocals), Paul Barrere (guitar, vocals), Kenny Gradney (bass) and Sam Clayton (percussion, vocals). Fred Tackett (guitar, trumpet), and Craig Fuller (guitar, vocals), who joined the band when it reformed in 1988 after disbanding in the wake of George's death in 1979, complete the lineup of crack musicians.

Payne serves as an unofficial leader, but said that everyone has a say in the band's sound.

"We all have different backgrounds," he said. "Mine was in classical — I used to play pipe organ in church, which I think might have led to my use of synthesizers — and when Craig, who was in Pure Prairie League, and Fred, who I've known since the beginning, joined the band, that they would be bringing more of a blues influence."

The final product, as Little Feat fans well know, is a category-busting mix of jazz, western swing, rock, country, and a few dozen other styles. "And there's a lot of room to improvise," Payne added. "Not quite to the point like the Grateful Dead where we're making it up as we go along, but there's a lot of room. Sometimes I call it an exercise in terror."

Payne's excited about returning to New Jersey, where he always found the crowds to be "enthusiastic," and he's even more excited about sharing a stage with his heroes. "It's a real thrill to play with the Band (minus, of course, ex-Band-leader Robbie Robertson and the late Richard Manuel) because I've always listened to them," he said.

Future endeavors will include, hopefully, a new album. The first order of business, though, is to find a new label. "Our record company let us out of our contract, which I think was the best for all concerned," he explained. "We're hoping to get into the studio sometime around the end of the summer. We'd like to get involved with a record company that takes a more creative approach to marketing. Most of them treat records like movies, where if it doesn't take off in the first three weeks, it's just written off."

But in the meantime, there's always the concert circuit, where the band has proved that the best way to survive is to put you best feat forward.

LITTLE FEAT/THE BAND Thursday, July 1, 8 p.m., at the Garden State Parkway, Exit 116 on the Garden State Parkway, Holmdel. Tickets $28-$25; $18 (lawn). (908) 442-9200.

1993 GARDEN STATE GAMES

THE NEW JERSEY SPORTS FESTIVAL

CHAMPIONSHIP FINALS

JULY 9-11

AT RUTGERS UNIVERSITY AND SURROUNDING AREAS

GSG feature wide variety of events

Athletes of all ages, all sizes and ability ranges will be busy next weekend competing in the Garden State Games championship finals at various sites throughout the state.

While Rutgers University in Piscataway will host a majority of the action, the finals of several events will be held elsewhere, mostly in Middlesex County. The track competition takes place at Raritan Valley Community College in the North Branch section of Branchburg Township, Somerset County.

The 11th annual Garden State Games is New Jersey's own Olympic-style sports festival, showcasing the best of the state's amateur athletes. Over 5000 are expected to compete in the finals July 8-11.

In 31 different sports, ranging from archery to wrestling, and in divisions determined by age or levels of skill, residents from all 21

New Jersey counties compete for gold, silver and bronze medals — and enjoy the opportunity to perform at their best under organized tournament conditions.

Events for Masters and physically-challenged competitors also are part of some sports, thus filling out this year's athletic offerings.

During the past several weeks, thousands of boys and girls and adults have participated in over 100 regional tryouts at 64 sites for their particular sports. The top placers at each tryout have qualified for the finals.

With the exception of field hockey, lacrosse, soccer and wrestling, athletes represent the following regions: Northeast (Essex, Hudson and Union counties); Northwest (Bergen, Morris, Passaic, Sussex and Warren counties); Southeast (Hunterdon, Middlesex, Mercer, Monmouth, Ocean and Somerset counties); Southwest (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Field hockey, with a modified round-robin tournament format, is among the 31 sports being held during next weekend's championship round of the Garden State Games.

Cape May, Cumberland, Salem and Gloucester counties).

Regional colors: Northeast (yellow); Northwest (red); Southeast (blue); Southwest (green).

In the Olympic tradition, competitors finishing first through third in each division will receive gold, silver and bronze medals. The Governor's Cup, presented at the annual fall banquet, is awarded to the top male and female athletes in each sport.

Festive opening ceremonies for GSG

While the focus of the Garden State Games is on competing, New Jersey's annual summer sports festival also features other activities.

"Let the Games begin" with the sounds and sights of the GSG's Olympic-style Opening Ceremonies Friday, July 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Rutgers University in Piscataway.

The evening's schedule includes an athletes' parade and torch-lighting ceremony, music, entertainment and featured guests. All participants in the finals, along with a cheering section of family and friends, are invited to attend the ceremonies.

Admission for the Opening Ceremonies is $2 for adults, $1 for children (under age 14) and senior citizens.

Athletes Picnic

The Athletes Picnic, open to all finals participants, will be held Saturday, July 10 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Holiday Inn-Raritan Center, the Games' headquarters.

This is an opportunity for the entire Garden State Games family — athletes, officials, staff members, volunteers and guests — to relax and socialize with one another. Family members and friends are welcome.

Governor's Cup Banquet

The Governor's Cup, recognizing the outstanding male and female competitors in each sport, is presented at the annual Governor's Cup Banquet in the fall. Honored athletes and their guests are invited to attend this elegant cocktail reception and dinner, and will receive a commemorative plaque during an individual presentation.

Volunteers

The Garden State Games Committee Inc. is the non-profit organization which conducts all aspects of the Games. Funding is provided by various other local and national corporate sponsors.

The success of the Garden State Games is built on a foundation of over 2000 volunteers — sports-minded students, retirees, parents and service groups — who serve in various capacities, both before and during the finals weekend. For information about becoming a member of the GSG volunteer force, contact the Games office at 908-225-0303.

Apel hopes to lead SW laxers to title

By ALLAN CONOVER

FORBES NEWSPAPERS

The Garden State Games always can use a little help, which is among the reasons that Chuck Apel is the head coach of the Southwest Region lacrosse squad.

"Usually there aren't a lot of volunteers for this," said Apel. "So, if you want to have it, you put up your hand and do it."

The coach of state power Bridgewater-Raritan High School during the spring, Apel has been active in the GSG's lacrosse program for eight years, either as an assistant or head coach.

He's anticipating some sharp competition in next weekend's GSG Boys Scholastic tournament at Rutgers, which involves some of the top talent throughout the state among players who haven't yet graduated from high school.

"Every year it seems to get a little better," said Apel. "In 1991 the talent level was very high — it was a real strong year in the state, so I figured things would be down last year. But that wasn't the case. There were a lot of good players out there."

There'll be plenty of outstanding players showing up at Rutgers next week, too. Apel's 28-man Southwest Region team is heavily-dominated by his own B-R players, with eight Panthers on the roster. The SW Region is comprised of Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties, plus all the other counties below Mercer.

Representing Bridgewater-Raritan on the squad are midfielders Greg Mecca, Mike Camarino and Billy Cordivari, attackmen Eric Farber and Bob Vallario, defenders Brian Potter and Jason Bittner and goalie Blake Anthony. All will be seniors this fall.

"We have some real good mid-dies," said Apel, whose team dumped the Southeast 6-3 in an earlier preliminary contest, "and we're solid on defense and on attack. We look pretty good."

The Southwest takes on the Northwest in a semifinal game Saturday, July 10 at 2 p.m., while the Northeast and Southeast tangle at 11 a.m. The next day at 11, the consolation game (for the bronze medal) takes place and the championship clash is at 2 p.m.

GSG basketball action will heat up next week

By NICK D'NORIO

FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Basketball is usually associated with a few people and things, like Dick Vitale, Michael Jordan, and cold weather. But when the Garden State Games climax next weekend at Rutgers University there will be plenty of basketball action to think about.

In the Southeast Region the boys and girls teams had very competitive tryouts before the rosters were decided. Of 70 boys who tried out, a dozen made the final cut. Thirteen of 30 girls made the squad.

"This was the toughest year we had to choose our team," said girls Southeast Region Head Coach Bill Bulman. "All the girls that showed up were talented, which made the decision tough."

Mike DeRocckis of St. Joseph's-Metuchen and Sloan Wobbekeing of Bernards High are among the members of the boys Southeast Region No. 5 team, which won the gold medal two years ago. This region is comprised of players from Somerset, Middlesex, Mercer and Hunterdon counties.

Rounding out the roster are Shaheet Brown (South Brunswick), Kenya Merritt (St. Peters-New Brunswick), Jose Urena (Perth Amboy), Ronald Snipes (Perth Amboy), Dave Capers (St. Peters-NB), Danny Singleton (Ceder Ridge), Gene Derkak (Colonia), Kirk Webber (Princeton), Anthony Rogers (Carteret) and Charlie Eibler (Spotswood).

"This is an extremely athletic and talented team," said boys Southeast Region team No. 5 Head Coach Frank Cipot, who guides Highland Park High during the winter. "We feel confident about this team and we're happy about any combination that steps onto the floor."

And Cipot seems to know what he's talking about as his team won its first preliminary game 119-68 over the Monmouth-Ocean club. Capers, who led St. Peters in scoring as a sophomore last season, had 18 points, Derkak (who averaged 20 a game for Colonia) had 17, and Urena, a Perth Amboy star, had 29, including seven three-pointers in only 20 minutes of play.

"Urena is the best three-point shooter I've ever seen," said Cipot. "I've been around this game for a long time and I've never seen anyone bury jump shots as consistently as he does. He has a quick release and he's deadly."

Local players on the girls Southeast Region team are Jen Clemente and Diana Koehler, both from Bishop Ahr-Edison.

Also on the squad are Michelle Hollister and Keri Hollister (Allentown), Angela Burgo (Middletown South), Candi Campo (Middletown North), Jenny Carey (Keyport), Marisa Ship (St. Peters-NB), Patricia O'Toole (St. Mary's-South Amboy), Erica Gomez (St. John Vianney-Holmdel), Alison MacFarland (St. John Vianney-Holmdel), Collen King (East Brunswick) and Kristen Breen (East Brunswick).

"This is an extremely good group of basketball players," said Bulman. "It'll be a lot of looking through before our starting five is settled."

St. John Vianney, which won the State Tournament of Champions title last winter over Newark East Side, features one of the top guards in the state in Gomez.

The boys and girls tournaments will be held July 8-11. The boys tourney features eight teams while the girls tournament will have four. All players must play an equal amount of time in the Garden State Games.

Eight boys scholastic basketball teams from four regions throughout the state will be vying for the Garden State Games championship next weekend at the Louis Brown Athletic Center on the Rutgers University campus in Piscataway.

GSG

mittee Inc. is the non-profit organization which conducts all aspects of the Games competition. Funding is provided by various other local and national corporate sponsors.

Additional support is provided by the Department of Community Affairs. Private donations have increased each year, too.

Among the sponsors of this year's GSG are Forbes Newspapers, The New York Times, Summit Associates Inc., New Jersey Chiropractic Society, Pepsi, UPS, Avalon, Holiday Inn-Raritan Center, First Page Pagors, CellularOne, CMF Computer Systems, Oscar Mayer and VTS Travel Enterprises.

The success of the GSG is built on a foundation of over 2000 volunteers — sports-minded students, retirees, parents and service groups — who serve in various capacities, both before and during the finals weekend. For information about becoming a member of the Garden State Games volunteer force, contact the Games office at 908-225-0303.

The purpose of the Games is multi-faceted — to inspire New Jersey residents of every age and skill level to develop their physical abilities, and to encourage all residents to participate in regular physical activities.

TOUR HIGHLIGHTS:

The Danube

This is one in a series of articles about the cities and places to be visited on the 10-day tour, "Imperial Capitals," being offered by Forbes Newspapers and Lufthansa German Airlines.

The Danube is the Mississippi of Europe, the Old World's grandest waterway. It passes through nine countries, defining borders and sculpting mountains for 1,776 miles, stretching from the Black Forest to the Black Sea. The second longest river in Europe after the Volga, it has been an object of history, literature, music and bitter politics.

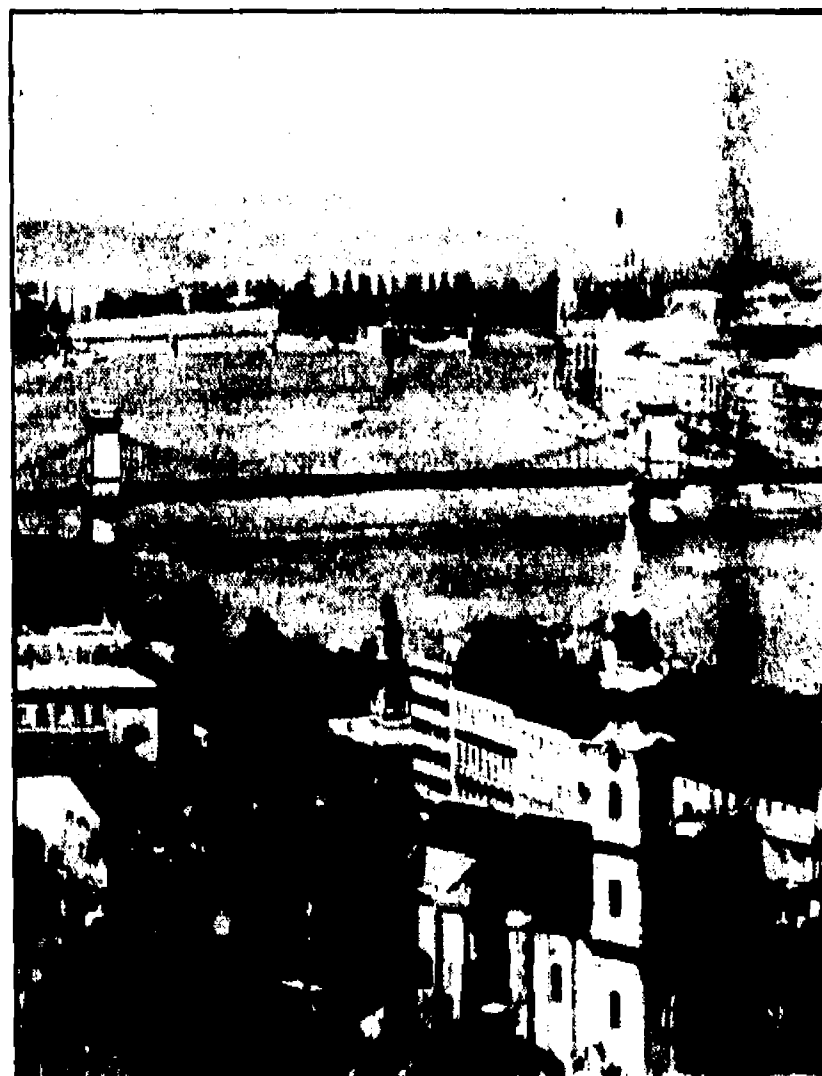

The Danube has always been one of the most important rivers in Europe. Its banks are crowded with historical sites, grand cities and the ever present beauty of the surrounding countryside. Centuries have formed the history of the Danube region, its people, culture and its art – but above all, its unmistakable nature. The Danube lands offer the visitor many faces: bizarre and rugged in the Iron Gate, yet gentle, green and flowering in the Wachau. The Danube region ranks among the few almost untouched European river landscapes and forms an important bridge between East and West, connecting the charm and amiable lifestyle of Old Europe with the fascinating world of the Balkans.

Up river from Vienna the river flows through the Wachau, a region steeped in legendary lore which is known to have some of the loveliest countryside of the Danube. Picturesque villages, castles and fortresses line both sides of the river surrounded by the vineyards of world-famous wines. Located here is Durnstein, the charming medieval town which encompasses the fortress in which Richard the Lion-hearted was imprisoned and held for ransom.

As it flows eastward, the river skirts the legendary city of Vienna, a city rich in Baroque grandeur. Once seat of the vast Hapsburg Empire, this historic city has been home to some of the world's greatest composers and musicians. Today, as in the past, it is a center of world affairs where east meets west. The history of Vienna is synonymous with that of its "Beautiful Blue Danube."

SUMMER DINING

McATEER'S

Easton Avenue, Somerset

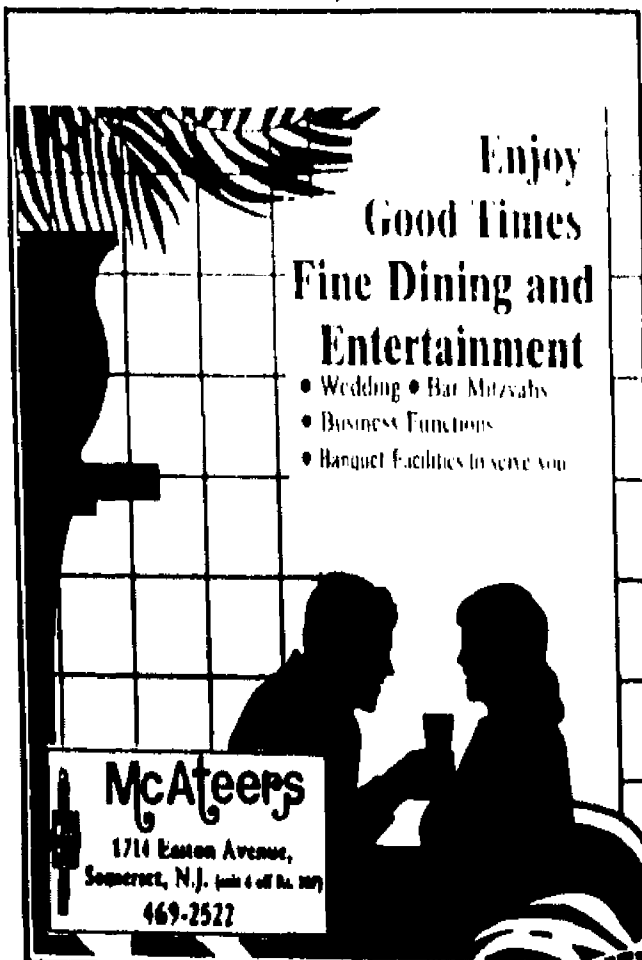

(908)-469-2522

In 1714 a small farm house was built near the corner of Easton Avenue and Cedar Grove Lane. Today it is a restaurant that can accommodate almost 1,000 people at any given time.

Recently completed and opened to the public was a ballroom able to accommodate up to 500 people. Felix Protos has owned the restaurant since 1972 with his brother John and brother-in-law Nick Papadakis "We started out small and grew through the years. It was a lot of work," said Protos. But the work has paid off, for McAteer's is one of the few restaurants that has people making reservations for well into the new year.

Protos and his partners began their expansion plans about two years ago and put their efforts not only into the construction but also into the interior design of the new banquet hall. The rich coral and teal carpet was shipped from Georgia and the many chandeliers are made of Italian crystal. Solid oak wood and detailed moldings on the walls of the ballroom are just a few of the many attributes of the addition.

Despite the new addition, Protos does not want anyone to forget about the elegant dining that has always been a trademark at McAteer's. The American continental cuisine at McAteer's is reasonably priced. Lunch is served between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Entrees are priced between $5 and $7. The dinner menu has a wide selection of items ranging from lobster to blackened salmon to prime rib or veal Oscar. These well-portioned entrees run between $16 and $21.

DINING

Masterpiece in dining

*From its cuisine
to its decor,
Verdi's is a picture
of elegance*

MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

If I had to describe Verdi's in a few words, I would say "understated elegance." Everything is done modestly and in good taste. For example: each table is covered with a white tablecloth, a single white candle and a single iris in a vase. There are wine and water glasses at each setting.

The windows on the south wall have white sheer curtains. There is a lovely banquette on the north wall and above it, dark mirrors. The west wall is dark paneling while the east wall is a combination of white stucco and wood, with a fireplace. The ceiling has exposed beams.

The service is professional and evenly paced. No one is rushed at Verdi's. You're here to dine, not graze. All of this provides for a lovely and romantic evening of dining.

Vito, the Maitre'd, recites all of the nightly specials, takes everyone's order, and even made one of our desserts table side. He doesn't serve the food; waiters do that.

Verdi's menu is large, with 14 hot and cold appetizers ($4.75 to $10.50 for an antipasto for two), and 6 different soups ($4.50 to $5.50). They also have 5 salads ($4 to $8.50 for a Caesar for two), and 6 vegetables ($3.75 to $4.50).

There are 12 pasta choices ($9.50 to $11.50), and 6 baked pasta dishes ($9.50 to $10.50). Half portions of pasta are available for $7.50.

Entrees include 14 seafood ($12.50 to market price for Maine lobster, any style), 10 chicken ($10.50 to $12.50), 10 veal ($12.75 to $14.00), 6 grilled items ($13.50 to $17.50) and 3 "house specialties for two" ($34.50 to $45 for Maine lobster fradiavolo).

A complimentary dish of sharp provolone, Italian rolls and a bowl of extra virgin olive oil is brought to each table. One of the servers visits each table to see that neither is ever empty.

Our starters included Misto della casa (assorted house specialties) for my husband and broccoli rabe for me. The house specialties included hot stuffed peppers with prosciutto, eggplant, artichoke hearts, mozzarella, sundried tomatoes, stuffed peppers, olives, roasted peppers and broccoli rabe. What a great way to start off an Italian meal!

My broccoli rabe sauteed in a garlic sauce was excellent. This was the first time I ever asked anyone to wrap up an appetizer.

Our entrees included one special of the night and one pasta dish. My husband had the Marechiara special ($18.95) which consisted of mussels, New Zealand baby clams, scallops and served over a bed of capellini in a light marinara sauce. When he likes something, he always insists that I taste it. But, at the same time, he won't try any of mine. This time I did, and I agree with him — it was delicious, especially the baby clams and the sauce.

My menu item was Fusili Mare e Monte ($10.50) which was fusili pasta cooked with sundried tomatoes, porcini mushrooms and shrimp in a delicate white wine sauce. What a tasty dish this is. The light sauce enhanced the meaty taste of the mushrooms and shrimp.

My husband had zambaglione, prepared table side, over fresh strawberries ($6.50). This is made by whisking together egg yolk, sugar, and brandy over simmering water into a light, foamy custard. The warm froth is then poured over fresh strawberries. It was worth the price just to watch Vito prepare the zambaglione.

Describing the food at Verdi's is like depicting the restaurant itself, "understated elegance." Even the simplest of dishes like the broccoli rabe can be a masterpiece. Everything we tried was flavorful and fresh.

There was so much to choose from that a single visit is not enough to fully appreciate their food. We plan to return and perhaps eat outside in their alfresco cafe in the front of the building. What could be more romantic than moonlight and good food?

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

I don't know about you, but once the hot weather hits, my eating habits change drastically. I eat less. There's more salads, more seafood, more pasta. And, I turn from my big, voluptuous reds to by bright, light whites.

White wines are natural partners to the lighter fare of summer. I especially like the very dry and tart whites from Italy and the Loire Valley in France. Stefano Parina Gavi is a wonderful pour, reasonably priced at about $6.99. It has light citrus fruit flavors and a slight effervescence that makes your mouth feel good when you drink it. Antinori Orvieto Classico Campogrande is a briskly acidic wine that is magnificent with pastas done simply in Olive Oil. The wine cuts straight through the oil and refreshes your palate with every sip. And, although it is quite flavorful by itself, the wine never gets too big for the food.

Seafood seems to fall into three categories: delicately flavored sea creatures that are often enhanced by a flavorful sauce, foods that are more "fishy" in taste and even oilier in texture, and then the very strongly flavored foods that can be called "briny" that also have a rich consistency. Scallops fall into the first category, lobster and salmon into the second, oyster and clams into the third. Where some people may reach for a chardonnay, I would prefer a Dornier de La Monnerie Muscadet de Severe et Maine or a Joseph Mellot Mene Tou-Salon. These Loire Valley wines are produced near the Atlantic Ocean. Does it make sense that wines made in the area would be wonderful with seafood? It should. This is how the basics of food and wine pairing came to be. People ate the local food with the local wine and it was great. The Muscadet, a refreshing, almost mineral quality to it plays against seafood very well. The J. Mellot is a Fume Blanc whose herbal notes play off of dishes where fresh greens are used.

I certainly won't pity you if you choose to drink your reds all Summer. But don't negate the possibility of a crisp, dry white for a change. Turn in your cardigan for a T-shirt. You might enjoy it!

Enjoy!
