Breaking down the barriers

New ramp should ease school access

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Hopes to improve handicap access in Edison Junior High School are slowly becoming realities as the Westfield Board of Education makes progress toward the installation of a new ramp and access lift.

Although Westfield High School is already equipped with adequate handicap access, the junior high schools, both multi-story buildings, are lacking such facilities.

According to Robert Rader, the assistant superintendent for business, buildings of this kind potentially deny access for certain individuals. Ramps do exist now at Edison School, but they are inadequate because they are too steep. Because access is currently difficult, a new ramp and a handicap access lift are on the way.

The new access facilities will provide for both students and staff, including special education students, physically handicapped faculty and also temporarily handicapped students. In addition to helping people who already use the school, the new ramp and lift will open the door for more people to be able to use the facilities.

"We know we have physically challenged students who will be coming to the school," Mr. Rader said. "The goal is to make sure that no one is denied access because of a physical handicap."

Progress towards the installation of the ramp and lift is underway, as the Board of Education looks to Mr. Rader to handle the project. The new ramp has already been approved and will be built this summer, hopefully in time for school opening in September.

About $10,000 has been set aside for the ramp and $25,000 allocated so far for the lift, which is not yet approved. In addition, the parents of special education students have donated $5,000 to go towards the project.

"We were delighted to get the donation, it will be a great help to the project," Mr. Rader said.

The lift is currently going through a standard review process. The project needs to get state approval.

How to help flood victims in Midwest

Cash is the number one priority for local American Red Cross chapters gathering support for Midwest flood victims.

Volunteers are not high on the priority list right now — however a call for helpers could come soon, officials at the regional Summit Red Cross Chapter said last week.

Psychological support volunteers could be sought later to assist flood victims adapting to rebuilding homes and businesses when the waters recede, officials added.

Checks can be mailed to: American Red Cross Disaster Relief, P.O. Box 37243, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Donations can also be made by credit card by phoning the Red Cross at 800-842-2200.

About a dozen inquiries had come to the Mountside-Westfield Red Cross Chapter by Thursday afternoon, according to Red Cross official Gail Moffett. She said that hundreds of Red Cross-trained volunteers already are on duty at shelters in the flooded area. More volunteers are not being actively recruited, but inquiries are welcome, she said. There is a stand-by list of volunteers awaiting Red Cross training before possible assignment to the flood area, she said.

Making the most of summer

7-week playground program keeps kids busy all season

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

As the children of Westfield play their summer away, many are taking advantage of the recreation commission's summer Playground Program.

At local playgrounds across town, children are taking part in a variety of free activities due to the help of the town and the motivation and commitment of playground workers.

The summer playground has been around since 1950, around the time when the Recreation Commission was created. Many adult Westfield residents can remember attending during care-free summers of childhood.

The program has changed and been improved through the years but its reason for success remains the same: the children are getting together and having a good time.

The Summer Playground is a seven-week program held from late June to mid August at all the local elementary schools and the Westfield Neighborhood Council. Children can register at any time during the summer program. Currently, nearly 900 children who are active in the program and the Recreation Commission estimates more than 1,000 will be involved by the Playground's big picnic finale.

Funded primarily through town taxes, the playground is free to all Westfield residents from first through sixth grades. The activities range from indoor movies and arts and crafts to a weekly pool swim to old favorites like Knock-Hockey and Kickball. Each site has its own annual Fair Night, when the children have the opportunity to interact with both parents and counselors to create and run their own fair activities. The Fair Night also provides each site with the chance to generate funds which go back into the program.

In addition, an educational theme is chosen for each week of the program, including Earth Week, Olympic Week, and Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week. Activities are created in a way that the children can enjoy themselves and learn new things at the same time. For example, during the first week of the program, children attended a Pool Safety Program through the National Swim Pool Foundation at Memorial Pool. The children got to walk through a mobile trailer unit which showed safety features for swimming and diving before trying them out themselves in the pool with lifeguards "Gus and Goldy Goldfish."

The Summer Playground will finish its season with the All Parks Picnic, when children from all the different sites will get together for a final bash.

"We're always striving to research new programs to maintain interest," said Paul Campanelli of the Recreation Department. "I (Please turn to page A-3)

Local GOP leadership changes hands

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

One of the founders of the Westfield Republican Club is now at the helm of the town's GOP Committee.

The Westfield Town Republican committee recently announced the changing of its chairman, moving from one solid political activist to another.

Now effective is the resignation of Allen Chin and the election of Robert W. Cockren as the committee's new chairman.

Mr. Chin had served as chairman for the Town Republican Committee for the past six years, but felt the need to resign due to business commitments. His company, George C. Sharp, Inc. has expanded greatly, and he is now very busy.

The retired chairman has been a Westfield resident since 1966 and first got involved in town politics in 1973, when he became a town councilman. Mr. Chin later served as Westfield's Mayor from 1979-1982 and first served on the Town Republican Committee in 1987 as chairman.

The newly elected chairman, Mr. Cockren, said he will continue the committee's goal of supporting candidates and seeing that they get elected. Mr. Cockren has also long been involved in Republican politics and hopes that his knowledge and experience will be assets to the Westfield Town Republican Committee.

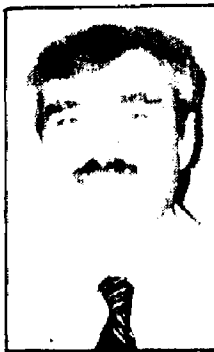

Politically active since the early 1970s, Mr. Cockren served many years in the New York State Legislature as a staffer, and for local politics in Long Island, where he previously lived.

He moved to New Jersey in 1981 and to Westfield in 1983, where he immediately got involved in town politics. As an attorney, Mr. Cockren represented the Westfield Board of Adjustment and serves as legal counsel for the town Republican Committee. He also has served on various mayoral committees, as well as being active as a volunteer for the church of St. Helen's and as a soccer coach.

In 1992, Mr. Cockren formed the Westfield Republican Club and was elected president. Because the GOP committee's bylaws limit that group's membership, the Westfield Republican Club was created as a device to allow people in town to become more active. Mr. Cockren will resign as the club's president while taking the helm of the GOP committee, but said he will still be active in building club membership.

Mr. Cockren is honored to be chosen and feels confident in his ability to serve as the Republican Committee's new chairman. "The people recognized that I have an understanding of politics both in Westfield and in Union County," Mr. Cockren said. "My goal is to bring new, talented people into the party."

While serving as GOP leader, Mr. Chin said he followed the same principle as the chairman before, and hopes that Mr. Cockren will do the same.

"We in the Republican Party want to make sure we look for people who put the town's interests and security before the party," said Mr. Chin.

Mr. Chin has continuously been involved in other town activities, and said he will continue to be active as much as time allows. He is a member of the Westfield Police Athletic League board of directors and is a representative for the Rahway Valley Sewerage authority of Westfield. In addition, his wife, Mary, serves as a committee-woman for the town Republican Committee. Mr. Chin hopes to help with November's council campaign.

Parking lot space swap for shops

By BOB SULLIVAN
THE RECORD

The transportation, parking, and traffic committee of the Town Council recommended last week changes to commuter train station parking designed to help South Avenue businesses.

The committee wants to reduce commuter permit parking spaces by 12 on the train station's south side. The spaces instead would be allotted for metered parking, effectively allowing more shoppers to park near stores.

"We want to promote shopping in Westfield, and we want to promote shopping on South Avenue," Councilman Ken MacRitchie said.

The full council will consider the proposal in August or September, he said.

Three arrested on many drug charges

The Westfield Police assisted the Union County Prosecutor's Office in arresting three males, one from Westfield, on a variety of drug charges last Friday.

Darren McGhee of Newark, Louis Green of North Brunswick, and John Desmond, of Ripley Place were arrested at 2:10 p.m. at the home of Mr. Desmond. Mr. Desmond and Mr. McGhee were charged with possession of cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to distribute and possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Mr. Desmond was held on $25,000 bail; Mr. McGhee, on $100,000 bail.

Mr. Green was charged with possession of cocaine and was released on $7,500 bail.

According to the Union County Prosecutor's Office, the arrests were the culmination of a two-month investigation into the distribution of marijuana and cocaine. Seized during the arrest was a Marijuana Hydroponic Laboratory. The device contained high pressure sodium lights and other sophisticated equipment which allowed for artificial growth of marijuana plants. According to Lt. Jeffrey P. Hummel, 98 female plants were growing and within 10 days of maturation. Eventual street value would have been about $225,000, he said.

Parking lot space swap

Mr. MacRitchie also said plans for a downtown area parking deck will once again become a topic of discussion, this time because of the Main Street downtown enhancement program.

The Main Street committee will study parking needs of downtown workers, shoppers, commuters, and residents. While the deck has been studied before, Councilman MacRitchie said the plan will get much more serious consideration because the Main Street program is "highly structured."

"A parking deck in Westfield is an inevitability," he said. "We expect more office space downtown, and we hope the economy continues to improve."

The logical place for the deck, he said, was behind Woolworth's store on East Broad Street.

In other business, the committee:

- Discussed replacing current parking meters with digital parking meters. Mr. MacRitchie said that Westfield is considering purchase of a series of new meters because one town employee currently spends "half his time fixing broken down meters."

- Replacing them with digital meters would cost about three times as much as mechanical meters, Mr. MacRitchie said. The meters would tell meter-readers exactly how long a parked car is in violation.

- Improvements to the South Avenue Circle and Tuttle Parkway Bridge, both which might be funded by county and state agencies, are currently being discussed by those agencies.

- There has been concern with potential disrepair of the New Jersey Transit Crossway Place train underpass. According to Councilman MacRitchie, stones from the structure are bulging outward, and New Jersey Transit crews inspect the underpass weekly. The committee hopes the structure will be replaced.

- Residents near Kimball Circle and Golf Edge have been complaining of cars speeding through the area. The committee has suggested putting a "kink," or sharp right turn in the roadway to allow for installation of a stop sign.

- The committee also discussed repainting downtown roadways to include left-turn only lanes, but made no recommendation.

The transportation, parking, and traffic committee meets "as needed," or about four times each year. The next meeting will take place in the fall.

don't know any other town that operates a program like this one."

But it takes more than an idea to keep the children coming back every year. Without the motivation and commitment of the playground counselors, the program could never be the success it is.

According to Wilson School Playground Leader Michelle Ceklosky, it's not an easy job.

"I think that as far as the children are concerned, what gets them interested is a lot of fun activities," said Ms. Ceklosky. "It's not a kid-around job. You have to be very motivated."

This is Ms. Ceklosky's fifth year as playground counselor. She recently completed her undergraduate degree in art education and is involved with teaching children throughout the year. Because of her commitment to the summer playground, the Recreation Department has also helped her with other jobs during the school year. Last winter, she designed and taught her own art class through the recreation department.

Ms. Ceklosky finds that besides motivation and an interest in the children, the counselors need to be active and athletic.

"It's a fun job for the summer, but it's not that simple. Most of the people who apply for the job don't realize what it takes until they get here," she said. But she finds that those who can do it can't help but keep coming back. "The counselors have to be able to really enjoy working with children, doing different activities everyday and working outdoors. Their work is a challenge, but without (them) many Westfield children would be missing out."

In the straightforward words of Wilson School playground-goer Peter Gately, "It's good because it's fun."

Play offers haunting good time

The Westfield Workshop for the Arts will present the Studio One production of The Ghost of Canterville Hall at Edison Intermediate School in Westfield 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

The show will feature two Cranford students who are currently busy rehearsing their lines and making their costumes.

Sir Simon undergoes a ghostly transformation that is sure to delight both children and adults. Jan Elby and Polly Nelson are the directors of The Ghost of Canterville Hall.

The show has a separate cast each night to allow more students to participate. Annika Davis plays Besty on Tuesday night. Annika is 12 years old and enters the seventh grade in the fall at the Orange Avenue School in Cranford. She has appeared in school productions of Ziggy's Follies and Lambeth Walk.

Laura Pinto is Magda on Tuesday evening. Laura is also a seventh grader at Orange Avenue School. The 12 year old appeared recently in Brookside Follies as a tap dancer, last year in The Emperor's New Clothes as a child, and in Lambeth Walk as a dancer. Franks visits area seeking public input

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Owner Steve Franks opened the Excellent Diner on North Avenue in Westfield this past rainy Monday to a special visit from Rep. Robert Franks (R-7).

Rep. Franks toured several diners in the seventh congressional district Monday to answer questions and listen to reactions regarding the state of the American economy and proposed tax hikes.

Last Wednesday, Rep. Franks was appointed to the Conference Committee for the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993. That committee will be responsible for finding a compromise between versions of President Clinton's tax budget that have been approved by both the House and Senate.

Rep. Franks said that his appointment to the influential committee provides a good opportunity for him to hear first-hand from the people of his district.

"I want to get a sense of the feeling from local residents, their views on the economy and the budget," Rep. Franks said, "to make sure we're in touch with the people."

During the busy lunch hours, Rep. Franks traveled from the Golden Corner Diner in Bound Brook to the Excellent Diner in Westfield and later headed to Cranford's Rustic Mill Diner.

"Diners provide a marvelous cross section of what our district is all about," said Rep. Franks.

The crowd of about 20 citizens varied from local business people to mothers carrying their babies.

The congressman entered alone, and after a friendly greeting from the diner owner and staff proceeded from booth to booth to listen to locals' opinions and answer their questions.

"I think he believes that you can't solve the economy's problems with taxes," said Westfield resident Suzanne Covine. "It was very nice. He goes around and he listens to you."

Through his interactions with local diner patrons, Rep. Franks found that the general response from the people is that times are tough. Many residents are out of work or in fear of losing their jobs.

"They want the federal government to go through the same process these families have to go through to adjust to the economy's hard times," Rep. Franks said. "Individual families have cut their own spending and want the government to do the same instead of reaching into the people's pockets."

Rep. Franks said he tries to talk directly to the citizens as often as he can. He has visited the Excellent Diner several times in the past and hopes to be back again soon.

"I think it went pretty well," diner owner Steve Franks said. "I opened up just for him. The diner staff agreed that it was worthwhile to work on their usual day off, saying that you have to sacrifice sometimes for things that are important."

Pact ensures UCC grads can go to Rutgers

Dr. Francis L. Lawrence, president of Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, and Dr. Thomas H. Brown, president of Union County College, Cranford, signed an agreement July 1 providing for a Dual Admission Program.

Under the agreement, Union County College graduates will be assured matriculation with full junior standing in the undergraduate college of their choice. The agreement includes the following undergraduate colleges of Rutgers: Camden College of Arts and Science, College of Engineering, Cook College, Douglass College, Livingston College, Newark College of Arts and Sciences, Rutgers College, School of Business-Camden, School of Business-New Brunswick, School of Communication, Information and Library Studies, University College-Camden, University-Newark, and University College-New Brunswick.

"This Dual Admission Program agreement with Rutgers provides a wonderful opportunity for our graduates, because they can plan their higher educational careers knowing exactly what they have to do and knowing there will be a place for them at Rutgers when they graduate from Union County College," Dr. Brown said.

To qualify, admission to a Rutgers undergraduate school for a bachelor's degree program is contingent upon completion of the Associate in Arts or Associate in Science degree at UCC with all degree credits earned at either of the two institutions only. Students must have completed academic entrance unit requirements appropriate to the student's intended participating college.

Up to 64 credits would be granted at the Rutgers-Camden campus for college level courses successfully completed at UCC, up to 85 credits would be accepted at the Rutgers-New Brunswick campus, and up to 60 credits would be transferable at the Rutgers-Newark campus.

UCC students may enroll in the joint admissions program upon applying to UCC.

For more information, call Marilyn Flood, transfer coordinator, at 709-7027.

Ms. Broihier assumes reins

Katherine L. Broihier from Saginaw, Mich., has been hired as executive director of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce. After two weeks of transition with outgoing Executive Director Cynthia Kowalczyk, Mrs. Broihier has assumed her post to manage the chamber office at 111 Quimby St. and to implement the policies and programs of the executive board.

To her new position, Mrs. Broihier brings a wealth of experience in economic development, public relations, marketing, sales, tourism and administration. In her previous employment with Buena Vista Charter Township, a 36 square mile district of heavy manufacturing and rural communities, Mrs. Broihier coordinated proposals for public and private financing of business ventures and focused on area business retention and new business development.

Formerly, Mrs. Broihier served as tourism marketing director in Saginaw County, where she produced marketing programs that increased Motorcoach and general tourism activity in the community. She holds a bachelor's degree from Saginaw Valley State University and was active in many Saginaw community groups, including the local Genealogical and Historical Societies.

Mrs. Broihier moved to New Jersey recently with her daughter, who works in New York City. As a newcomer, she is expected to offer fresh insights into the strengths and needs of this area. In the next few months, she will examine the goals, both long-term and short-term, of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce. With members of the various chamber boards and committees, she will assess current programs and projects of the chamber, with attention to coordinating future chamber activities with those of Main Street.

Through the chamber, Mrs. Broihier wants to develop Westfield's potential as a professional/service/retail business center.

"Following the wonderful ad-

vances made during the term of Cynthia Kowalczyk, I hope to unify the various segments of chamber membership," said Mrs. Broihier. "I look forward to meeting new people and addressing new challenges within the Westfield area business community."

Group tabs $11,000 for youth jobs

About $11,000 was allocated for the summer youth employment program of the Westfield Foundation. Through this program, eight Westfield area agencies are able to offer summer jobs to young Westfielders.

Participating agencies this year are Westfield Day Care Center, the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, Children's Specialized Hospital, Westfield Memorial Library, Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of the American Red Cross, Washington Rock Girl Scouts Council, United Fund of Westfield and Westfield Neighborhood Council.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the foundation's summer youth employment program, which previously relied on matching financial support from the Westfield business community. In recent years, that support has been lagging, but the foundation has continued the program because the trustees believe it is so worthwhile.

The United Fund of Westfield was granted $2,500 to help finance the purchase of a new copying machine.

The Westfield Community Band was given $2,228 to purchase 25 musical arrangements and the necessary equipment in which to safely store and transport them.

The Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of the American Red Cross received a grant of $2,100 to paint the exterior of their 110-year-old headquarters on Elm Street.

Project Graduation — BASH '93, the all-night substance-free party for Westfield High School seniors on graduation night, was given a $1,000 grant.

Also, $500 was allocated to the Westfield-based Choral Arts Society of New Jersey Inc. to underwrite the cost of free tickets for senior citizens at the society's May and January concerts.

Mr. Hale also announced that the foundation was able to send a previously allocated matching $1,000 grant to the Hi's Eye, Westfield High School's student-run weekly newspaper.

Last fall, the 1992-93 staff of the newspaper was confronted with debts of $7,700 accumulated since 1985, as well as escalating operational costs.

Godspell will be performed

The Union County Music Theater will present Godspell at Redeemer Lutheran Church, 229 Cowperthwaite Place, across from Roosevelt Intermediate School, Westfield, July 22, 23 and 24 at 8 p.m. The show is directed by Peter Bridges and Anne King.

Five Cranford students will be among those appearing in Godspell. Amy Blitz, 15, will sing in the chorus of Godspell and appeared in last year's production of Hideaway Haven and in the 1991 production of Snoopy.

Chorus member Robert Coalkey appeared in Grease, Bells are Ringing, and Joseph and the Amazing

Technicolor Dreamcoat.

Tammy English is also a chorus member. Tammy is appearing this summer in The Little Mermaid as the Housekeeper and played Miss Finch earlier this year in Our Miss Brooks.

Mark Skarecki, a disciple in the play, will attend Susquehanna University in the fall. Mark appeared in the Paper Mill Playhouse production of Camelot and locally in Grease as Danny Zuko.

Kate Wilson is another Cranford resident in the chorus of Godspell. The 15-year-old appeared recently in Grease, Hideaway Haven, Snoopy and The Jungle Book.

Hits & misses

Everyone hits beaches and swim pools;
no one misses the punishing heat wave

HIT: The end of the 100-degree temperatures that strained air conditioners, patience and flora and fauna for 11 days over the last two weeks. Why did tempers stay so cool through all that, anyway?

MISS: The 60-something days remaining in the summer of '93 with its seemingly permanent Midwest rains, Northeast heat, Southern humidity, and generally unwelcome, unpleasant consistency.

HIT: A topic under study in many communities, including Cranford and Westfield, is the best manner of charging homeowners for disposing of garbage. If volume is to be considered a basis for fairly apportioning charges, the per-bag system emerges, since it also fosters recycling as a means of reducing bulk.

MISS: The recent strike that threatened to ripple back into the towns in the form of skipped garbage pickup dates. Too bad there isn't a state law that could bar strikes by garbage haulers accepting public money through a contract, or as wages. Police and teachers are living with such strike ban statutes.

HIT: A dog adoption day will be held on Sunday, Aug. 1 at the Boulevard Veterinary Clinic, 429 Kenilworth Boulevard from 11 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. A free exam and bath are provided for each pet adopted. The fee is modest, proceeds go to caring for other animals sheltered by The Associated Humane Society, and the need for the sheltering and adoptions is great.

MISS: Those otherwise rational neighbors who, despite the summer's heat, noise-bearing humidity, and manicured neighborhood lawns and gardens, allow their beloved pets to howl, prowl and you-know-what at will and at any hour in the neighborhood.

HIT: All those young and young-at-heart counselors and lifeguards working through heat, humidity and a variety of mishaps and miscues to make summer recreation programs useful and fun for hundreds and hundreds of children.

MISS: Any youngsters home alone who, for whatever reason, cannot take advantage of these neat town recreation programs.

HIT: An ice cream cone on a hot night.

MISS: The failure of modern technology and the culinary arts to plug up that little drip hole that always develops at the bottom of the cone.

Letters to the editor

Selection process for Moonchildren a major mystery

To The Record:

As a concerned parent of a Westfield High School graduate and a child currently attending the high school, I want to comment on the recent production of Moonchildren by Michael Weller. This play was recently performed by the Repertory Theatre Group with the participation of the drama coach.

After reading both the original play and the edited script used for the performances, I cannot comprehend why a play which contains patently offensive language was selected. In addition, the subject matter of the play was not age appropriate material for students in grades 9-12. I cannot accept the fact that Moonchildren is representative of the kind of theater that our administration and faculty would endorse.

The purpose of this letter is not to comment on artistic license or to debate the semantics of what constitutes profanity versus what constitutes art, but rather to focus on the role and responsibility of concerned parents, residents and educators alike.

As parents and adults, we are mindful that our children as well as other people's children are influenced by our examples. Our children spend most of their time at home and at school which makes home and school activities of primary importance in the shaping of our children's attitudes and values.

Our schools, therefore, have a prominent role to play and teachers and school activities undoubtedly have a significant if not a pervasive influence on our children. What message are we giving our students when we permit and defend productions like Moonchildren? Is it that community productions which contain an abundance of profanity and intended to offend are appropriate? Is it that selecting materials that contain mature subject matter reflect a coming of age of our students? Should the freedom to choose any subject matter be a more important issue than the appropriateness of the subject matter.

Since performances such as Moonchildren are sponsored by our high school and supported by our tax dollars, I would like to encourage parents and citizens of Westfield to attend these performances. Although the students may not be your own children, they need the support and guidance of the entire community. We must not sit in judgment of our government, our state or our local school when they dictate policy that determines our children's motivation and choices if we do not make ourselves heard. Please write to our Board of Education, principal and superintendent. Westfield is our community and these students are our children.

GRETCHEN HOGAN, Westfield

Aid squad grateful to fund drive donors

To The Record:

We would like to thank the citizens and businesses of Westfield who contributed during our annual fund drive. Although this is the first in many years that we did not reach our fund drive goal, we are still gratified by the response we received.

During the fund drive people frequently include thank you notes for the care they receive or thank you for just being there in case they do need us. We received one thank you that touched us all and we would like to share it with you. Dear Westfield Rescue Squad, I read your letter in the newspaper and am sending you a contribution. I wish it were big, but it's not. It's only $3. I hope that, in some small way, it can somehow help you. You see I'm only 12 years old, so that's all I can give up. About 2 years ago, I fell out of a tree and almost broke my back. You came and helped me. Thank You. I'm okay now, thanks to your quick service. You all deserve medals, because your doing this voluntarily. Once again, thank you. I hope you can continue this work to help other citizens like me.

From Ms. Lindsay Totams
We have said before that it is your contributions, large or small, that pay for gas and supplies that make the ambulances go. But it is thank you notes like this one that keep our members going during the many hours they volunteer providing coverage and in training to maintain their state certifications.

Thanks once again to all who have contributed and for all your kind wishes.

Most devastating myth about teen sex education

To The Record:

I am writing in reply to the letters in the Westfield Record on July 1 regarding the health curriculum at Westfield High School.

I am an educator and a parent of a Westfield High School student. I applaud the Health Education Department for not preaching, but instead, for giving information on choices that need to be made regarding sexual decisions (and abstinence is certainly presented as the first choice).

The most devastating myth that parents can believe is that giving teenagers knowledge about birth control makes them more likely to have sex. What is needed are more frank and concerned - not judgemental - discussions. This is the key to creating the all-important trust between ourselves and our teenagers. What better place to discuss the choices and focus on issues such as AIDS, pregnancy, and other sexually transmitted diseases that the environment of a classroom? There ideas can be explored, discussed and evaluated. This should be a part of the educational process of any high school.

Letting go of our children is difficult, but this is exactly what we must do as our teenagers move toward becoming young adults. If we have done our job as parents, then we must believe that our teenagers will do theirs. Not because of the fears of their parents, but out of respect for themselves that we and the educational system of Westfield have provided.

Noise fighters thank lawmakers

To The Record:

The New Coalition Against Airplane Noise (NJCAAN), a volunteer organization comprised of citizens and citizen groups from 280 communities throughout New Jersey has waged a prolonged battle with the FAA to restore peace and tranquility to our towns, resulting from air routes created by the extended East Coast Plan in New Jersey. As president of the coalition, and a district 22 resident, I wish to applaud the efforts of two of our legislators whose efforts produced a $1,000,000.00 line item budget allocation from the Department of Transportation to support a response to the Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS). This critical allocation allows us to complete a technical and adequate DEIS document and our ocean air route design presented to Secretary of Transportation Federico Pena in a July 8 special briefing session arranged by Senator Lautenberg.

Senate President Don DiFrancesco introduced this grant in aid into the budget process. Mr. DiFrancesco's sponsorship was vital to its subsequent passage. Additionally, his staff, in Trenton and Scotch Plains worked effectively with the attorney for NJ CAAN to complete this initiative. Assemblyman Rich Bagger, a member of the Appropriations Committee was instrumental in placing this line item in the Assembly budget. Mr. Bagger has been a staunch and steadfast supporter, working capably with local citizen's groups on this civic and environmental crisis. Our appreciation for shier efforts is enormous.

The citizens and state legislators of district 22 have demonstrated preeminent leadership in New Jersey's aircraft noise controversy. The process of a democratic government is augmented by the diligent work of an active educated electorate working in cooperation with their elected officials to bring change.

Where, how will costliest scourge finally end?

It is the worst of plagues. It knows no season and no boundaries. No mosquito will be identified, no microbe isolated, no vaccine invented to end its reign. It is a pestilence with all the classic trappings of social disruption, suffering and death - and one terrible defining difference: we invite it to kill and maim and diminish us. We know how it enters us, and we open the doors to it, lured by the short-term pleasure it offers, lulled by the years or decades it incubates before erupting into host-killing maturity.

And because its vector is pleasure and its mask is time, we have not even recognized its horror fully enough to grant it a name worthy of its grisly power. How inadequate it is to call this peerless filler of graves and plunderer of nations by so pallid a name as substance abuse.

Nevertheless, this plague is responsible for $240 billion in health and disability costs each year in this country. According to the Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University, at least half of all hospital beds in urban areas are filled with patients whose illnesses stem, directly or indirectly, from alcohol, cigarettes or some other form of substance abuse. A Johns Hopkins study estimates that 30 percent of that medical center's adult intensive care unit costs are substance abuse-related, and there's every reason to believe that the Hopkins experience is typical of other urban hospitals.

Substance abuse underlies nearly one-third of all cancer deaths, one-fifth of fatal heart attacks, more than one-fourth of suicides, and one-third of the fatalities from accidents. One-third of AIDS cases are linked to substance abuse.

Sixty to 90 percent of homeless people are substance abusers.

Three-fourths of murders, rapes and child molestations are committed by people under the influence of drugs or alcohol. The criminal drug case load has overburdened the nation's courts so severely that the civil court system, which is constitutionally obligated to take a lower precedence than criminal actions, is collapsing in many states.

The cost to business in lost productivity, absenteeism and health insurance premiums is astronomical.

Even if we found a panacea for this scourge tomorrow, the damage it has wrought and the disease it has spawned in the bodies of at least two generations of Americans would fill our hospital beds and empty our purses well into the 21st century. And there will be no panacea.

We tried outright prohibition of alcohol, and launched a criminal enterprise of such size and savagery that we were obligated to abandon the experiment.

We made it a severe criminal offense to sell or possess even small quantities of illicit drugs - particularly crack cocaine - and incarcerated more of our citizens than any other nation on earth without materially affecting the traffic.

Our only significant triumph has been over cigarettes, and even here we have less to cheer about than many imagine. While it is true that nearly half of all living adults in this country who ever smoked have quit, and that smoking has become almost socially unacceptable behavior, one-third of the adult population still smokes, and cigarettes claim more than 400,000 lives a year.

That is a most imperfect victory, and it took us two generations to win it!

We don't have another two generations to invest in the search for ways in which to slow the megadeath rate from the pandemic of substance abuse. But there is little to suggest that the next victory will come with any greater speed.

What sort of basic health care system will we be able to afford, if it must deal, ad infinitum, with this flood of self-inflicted ruin?

We may soon find out. And it is doubtful that we will find the answer satisfactory - very doubtful indeed.

Pair provides 'pick-me-ups'

By DEBORAH SOMMERS
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Lions, and tigers, and bears — oh my! OK, try dogs, and cats and rabbits; but don't be afraid — these animals are not lurking along the yellow brick road, instead they are accompanying 14-year-old Melissa Roccia of Bridgewater in her quest to comfort the elderly and handicapped.

Talking to the animals may be a film fantasy, but Melissa's dog, Sandy, has found a way to communicate through the Somerset County 4-H pet therapy club, "People Pic-Me Ups". Melissa and Sandy meet with other members and their pets twice a month where they are able to discuss and visit senior citizens and handicapped children.

A 1993 graduate of Eisenhower Middle School and winner of the Outstanding Educational Performance Award, Melissa discovered the club two years ago from a friend. She says, "It is fun because I love animals and it's nice to help people and see them get excited when we come."

Although Melissa claims Sandy is the largest animal, the golden retriever isn't the only pet involved in the service club; other animal members include mice, ferrets, rabbits, hamsters, cats and guinea pigs. This happy zoo, founded five years ago, has been led by co-leaders and parents, Connie Burck and Pat Olivo, for four years, and has increased its membership from five to about 20 members.

Receiving the Junior American Citizen Award from the Daughters of the Revolution, the state and divisional award for service and the local chapter awards last year, Ms. Burck said, "It is so rewarding for us to watch the whole thing evolve."

Although they are encouraged to do their own visiting, members of the award-winning club pay a regular monthly visit to the Bridge-way Convalescent Center. Gloria Baita, the center's coordinator stated, "The residents love the animals and look forward to the children's visits." Ms. Burck claims that the animals serve as catalysts for conversations between the child and the client.

Images of flying hairballs and crying kittys may come to mind when thinking of this motley crew of animals working together, but Ms. Burck insists that pets must attend the meetings to socialize and become acquainted with one another. It is not necessary to own a pet in order to join the club because the children share the animals during their outings.

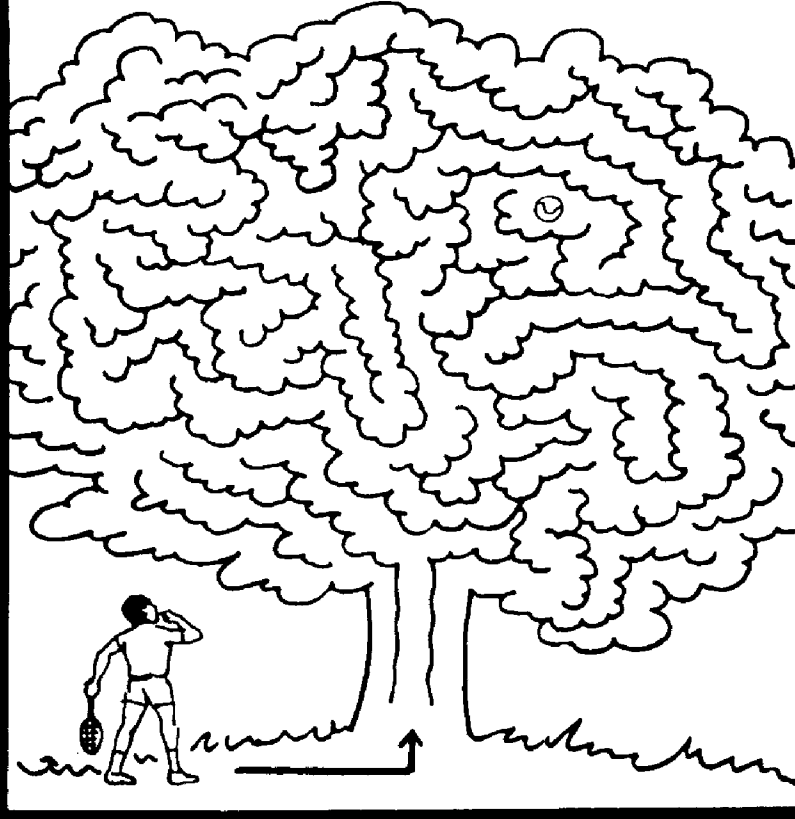

Ms. Burck has definitely seen personal growth among the 10- to 15-year-old members since their initial interest in the club. She said, "They gain self-confidence, compassion, and tolerance, which is harder to learn the older you get."

Self-confidence comes easy to Melissa — an academic award-winner with the biggest dog on the block!

In addition, the club has recently made special visits to the V.A. Nursing Home in Lyons, the McCarrick Care Center in Somerset and Camp Jotoni in Warren.

Missing Mary
by Cynthia Rylant

Summer is a loving girl of 12 years old who lives with her caring Uncle Ob. They live in an old cozy trailer. They are heartbroken when their loving, joyful Aunt May dies. They miss her very much.

In this story Uncle Ob and Summer learn a very loveable and valuable lesson. While they are learning this lesson it took courage and lots of love for Uncle Ob and Summer to figure the lesson out.

I like this book because you learn about what true love is for your family. I would really recommend this book to others. Even adults will enjoy this book. I got this book out at the Bound Brook Memorial Library. I enjoyed this book and I am sure anyone who reads it will enjoy it, too.

Missing Mary is published by Orchard Books.

Players present P.T. to nursing homes in area

The Traveling Players music and dance review will be taking their act on the road, performing P.T. for area nursing homes and camps, July 19-29.

The Players are part of the Westfield Workshop for the Arts, a summer arts enrichment program that began classes June 28 and runs through July 30. More than 100 courses in drama, instrumental music, dance, fine arts, crafts, foreign languages, computers are offered.

The Traveling Players are a group of 30 talented students between 9 and 12 years old who have been working for several weeks on a production of P.T. Each year, the group visits nursing homes, hospitals and camps and performs their 35 minute show.

Not only do the students entertain, but they also warm the hearts of nursing home residents and hospitalized individuals by greeting them personally after the show. The show is a musical circus extravaganza based on the adventurous life of the circus man P.T. Barnum. Using a variety of colorful props and hats, the group plans to create a festive circus-like atmosphere.

The Traveling Players will perform at the following elder care facilities: Manor Care, Mountainside; Mt. St. Mary, Watchung; The Woodlands, Plainfield; Robert Woods Johnson, Plainfield and Roosevelt Hospital Nursing Center, Edison.

They will also perform for seniors and day campers at the YMHA in Union, the Association of Retarded Citizens Day Camp, Rahway, and for children with orthopedic problems at the West Lake School at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

'Dave Duck' turns smiles into memories

By BOB SULLIVAN
THE RECORD

Something happens when little children find themselves in front of a camera lens. Normally, it's crying, squirming, or a teeth-and-gums smile.

But when Dave Rossi is behind the lens, something magical happens.

His child subjects are fond of calling him "Dave Duck" because he often imitates the famous Disney character during shoots — just one way he works to make a day with the photographer fun.

"I try to make sure the whole experience is about fun, not taking photographs. It shouldn't be like a trip to the dentist's office," he said. "If kids feel like they're having fun, their smile is natural...I make it so they don't have to just sit there."

"I leave about an hour for each shoot. I don't have a line of people out the door."

Children then become Mr. Rossi's friends, and often stop by to say hello to "Dave Duck" and visit his aquarium.

"One of the things I always say is never 'smile for the camera.' You want a natural expression."

Mr. Rossi has been working as a professional photographer for 15 years, and has worked in commercial photography in his Orange studio for much of that time. His Westfield studio has been located on Central Avenue for eight years, and he's been working extensively with children for the past five.

Now he's decided to give something back to the kids who have supplied him with laughs and a livelihood for the past five years.

For every portrait taken during July and August, Mr. Rossi will donate $10 to the Children's Miracle Network.

Dave Rossi, who spends most of his time photographing children, is donating $10 for each portrait taken this summer to the Children's Miracle Network.

"I work mostly with kids now, and some of those children really need the help," he said. "I'm just looking to give a little something back. After seeing a telethon, it sparked my memory, and I decided to donate the money for photos." He said he also gives to other child-related charities.

Mr. Rossi started his own career as a child. He started working with camera and film at age 9. Then, in junior high school in Orange, when his photography teacher couldn't finish the term, Mr. Rossi stepped in and finished the year teaching.

He then learned "on-the-job," working in studios in New York before he went into business for himself.

"I'm not sure how I ended up doing kids," Mr. Rossi said.

This month he is trading in his Central Avenue studio for a larger location at nearby 104 Quimby St.

"I take each assignment as it happens," he said. "Kids in front of a camera are always a challenge. But being a kid myself, acting silly, I'm always able to get the shot."

One sitting, which would include one 8 by 10 print and two 5 by 7 prints, costs $129, but Mr. Rossi said most patrons, once they see their children, order the large 30 by 40 size.

"When they see how magical they look, they order the poster size," he said. "And it has my signature on it. That's how I get most of my business, from people who have seen the prints."

Look out!

Melissa Miller, center, strikes a pose as the evil witch Ursula, while Becca Hanscom and Chrissy Michaels are Flotsam and Jetsam, her evil eels. The three will perform in The Little Mermaid at Westfield High School July 29 and 30 as part of the Westfield Workshop for the Arts.

Youths are honored at New York Times dinner

The New York Times honored its first group of New Jersey young citizens at The New York Times Young Citizens Award dinner recently at Brower Commons, Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

The dinner, which was previously sponsored by New Jersey State Sen. Bill Bradley, honored young New Jerseyans between the ages of 15 and 20 who have demonstrated exceptional commitment to principle and service.

Among the winners were Audrey Desch,

Christina Liebrich, Kate Gomperts, Katherine Tell and Carina Tamnam of Westfield.

Four hundred young people received this year's awards. They all received a Certificate of Achievement and 15 received a special recognition medal.

The New York Times held a reception in January launching the awards program, sent materials to more than 1,500 New Jersey educators and community service organizations to help identify award candidates, and ran an advertisement in The Times announcing the award and specifications.

John Cooney, the executive assistant of community affairs at Rutgers University, Raymond L. Bramucci, Commissioner, the New Jersey Department of Labor, Senator Bill Bradley, Zulena Farber, New Jersey Public Advocate, John Amos, actor and artistic director of the John Harms Theater, former governors Brendon Byrne and Thomas Kean and a group of Times executives also attended the dinner.

Girl Scouts reach out for Worldreach donations

Girl Scouts from Westfield Troop 45 fulfilled their Community Service requirement recently by packing donations for Worldreach, the children's foundation. Assisting in the effort were Cristina Barabas, Ilke Netravali, Nicole Bentivegna and Elise Tate. They were supervised by troop leader Valerie Bentivegna.

Once packed, the shipment headed to Newark Airport in a truck donated by Penske Truck Leasing. Continental Airlines provided cargo service to Miami, Fla. The donations made the international leg of the journey on planes provided by the Peruvian Air Force. In Peru, final distribution is being handled by COFA, a local charity headed by wives of Army officers.

The donations will be distributed to the children and families of soldiers killed in battle. The current conflict there is estimated to have cost Peru more than 25,000 lives and $20 billion.

Worldreach, headed by Wayne and Edna Howell of Westfield, is working to make a dent in the misery, shipping items to Peru which might ordinarily go to waste here. Worldreach operates on the "waste nothing" principal. Any item with practical value which can be packed for shipment is welcome.

Contact Worldreach at 1121 Prospect St., Westfield, N.J. 07090, or call at 233-6170.

Near-fatal accident reminded me: parents are precious

Holiday accident statistics were just numbers to me until July 4. On that day, they became a part of my family's life.

It was unmercifully hot and humid July 4. Still, my beloved husband and I came up from the shore that morning to plant flowers with my Dad and Mom and spruce up their yard. Even though the heat was unrelenting, we finished our work in record time and sat beneath a canopy of trees in the front yard for a spell. We declined an invitation from our parents to go "out for a bite to eat," deciding instead to go home and seek shelter from the heat. It was a decision I would regret.

The call came a few hours later...there had been a serious car accident...my parents were in the emergency room of a local hospital in critical condition.

It seemed like it took hours to get to the hospital. Over and over, I wondered whether my parents would die, and how I would handle that. Throughout the ride, I wildly tried to figure out how this had all happened in just a few hours, and prayed for another chance to be an even better daughter. Most of all, I wondered why I had not gone with them to get a bite to eat. Perhaps if I had, the accident would never have happened. Perhaps if I had, Mom and Dad would have been home, safe and sound.

The next eight hours were a blur of doctors, nurses, waiting and worrying — of seeing my once healthy parents battered, broken and confused. In a maze of CAT scans, x-rays and a bevy of specialists, my 82-year old Dad and 73-year old Mom were hooked up to machines, bottles, bags, monitors and oxygen. As I raced from one to the other, offering comfort and support, it dawned on me how close they had come to losing their lives. But most of all, I realized how fragile life is; how in just a few seconds everything that seemed important was no longer significant.

It was close to midnight when my parents were moved to the Intensive Care Telemetry Unit. Dad, with severe chest trauma, was under heavy sedation for pain. He had hit the steering wheel so hard the seat belt was imprinted in black and blue on his chest and stomach. Pinned against the steering wheel, he sustained trauma to vital organs. With bruised heart, lungs, liver, spleen and kidneys, he was in agony. In fact, it was the first time I had ever heard him cry out in pain.

It took hours to sew up Mom's head. But that was the least of her problems. A fractured pelvis, broken ribs on both sides, severe whiplash and a concussion left her a mere shadow of her former self. Despite their condition, each worried about the other and each tried to make light of the situation as they weaved in and out of consciousness.

For the first time in my life, I saw my parents as vulnerable. Who would watch over them when I went home for a few hours sleep? Who would offer Dad a drink of water when he called out? Who would explain to Mom again and again that there had been an accident and everything would be fine? I knew that just about anyone could help them, but only I could offer the comfort they needed.

After a sleepless night, my husband and I ventured to see the remains of the car, something that will stay in my mind for a long time to come. Most of the car was destroyed when it was hit on the passenger side, spun around twice and sent flying over a curb and front yard where it was stopped by a chain link fence. Somehow, Mom's new umbrella lay amid the little that remained of the car without a mark on it.

During the first few days we rarely left the hospital. In spite of this, I made time to water the flowers we had planted on July 4, believing that if I could keep them alive in the heat wave, Mom and Dad would be all right.

Shenanigans

By Cheryl Hehl

My parents are out of immediate danger now, but a long, tenuous recovery road lies ahead. As my folks slowly mend, I realized the accident has changed many things in my life. It has made me value everything so much more, and also take stock of what was important in life. It also provides a chance for me to take care of the parents who had spent so many years raising and nurturing me. It's my turn to nurture them, my turn to give back something.

Although they are home now, life is far from normal. It will be a long time before Mom can walk, and Dad is still limping from the internal bruises he received. A nurse is there each day, and I make early morning and evening visits. They depend on me now. I am their daughter, and I am proud of that.

And while some may consider this time a burden, I do not. After all, my parents spent 18 years raising me, and I definitely know that wasn't easy for them. But I am afraid sometimes. Afraid of losing these precious loving parents who always think I am wonderful, no matter what happens.

Someone asked me the other day if they could do anything to help. "Call your folks and tell them you love them," I said. And keep telling everyone you know how you feel.

Better Days DOWNTIME

Our times are technologically exciting. We can send messages around the world instantly and be readily apprised of world events. There is immediate access to anyone through beepers, cellular phones, faxes and laptop computers. For many in our society, it is as if they are always on call.

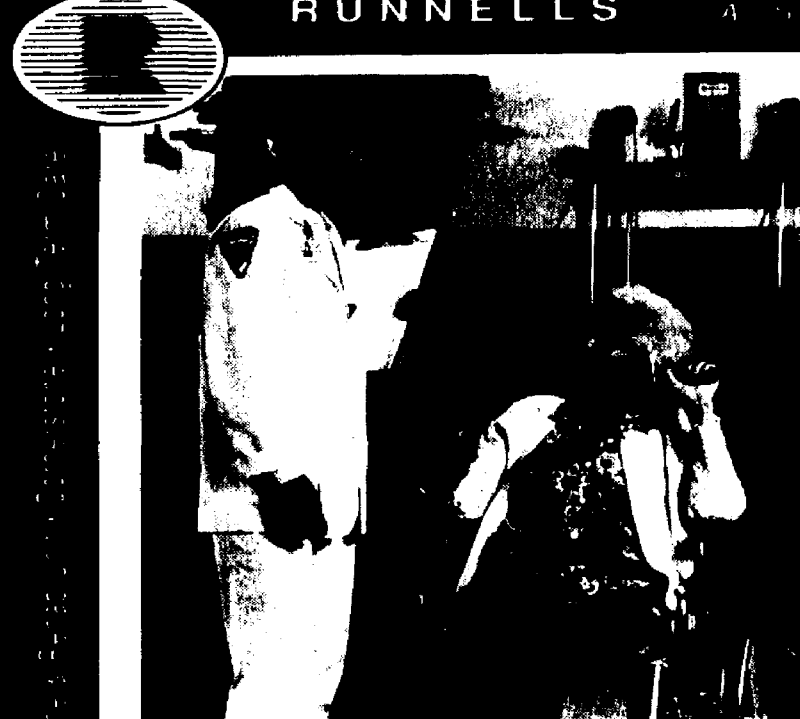

In the past few years, therapists have been seeing increasing numbers of cases where the symptoms are identical to "burnout." Depression, anxiety, fatigue, reduced motivation, increased isolation and insomnia are all signs of burnout. Upon review, it becomes clear that these people have little or no "downtime." They work at computer terminals during their daily commute, field phone calls wherever they are, and have no definition of when they step out of this available role.

Mental health professionals will need to teach a more complex and individualized form of time management. As technology progresses, people need to be able to make conscious and regular decisions to take themselves "off call" and provide for privacy, relaxation and personal time.

Jewish Federation recognizes local hunger awareness group

The Coalition for Hunger Awareness, an inter-ethnic and inter-religious group, received a community award from the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey last month at Temple Emanu-El in Westfield.

The Federation gave the award to the coalition for its commitment to the welfare of the general community, the responsibility to mankind and for the dedication and the spirit of volunteerism promoted by the project carried out by the group.

Coordinated by the Jewish Community Relations Council of the Jewish Federation, the coalition was involved in two major programs this year. A Hunger Awareness evening was held in November 1992 and the coalition also organized a walk for local hunger in April in which 120 people participated and money was raised for area food pantries.

The money raised in April was distributed to representatives of local food pantries.

All-Star winners

Baseball Project 93' announced the winners of the Major League All-Star Game raffle, held on June 19. The first-prize recipient was Donna Dzury of Westfield, who won four tickets to the All-Star Game in Camden Yards last Tuesday. Also included in the grand prize were Amtrak tickets to Baltimore, hotel rooms and a rental car for four days. The second prize, a 25-inch color television, went to John Fox of Whitehouse Station. The winner of the $100 dinner gift certificate was Bo James of New York City.

Proceeds from the raffle are helping defray the costs of field improvements at the Edison Intermediate School complex, home of the Westfield H.S. varsity team, as well as other teams sponsored by the Westfield Baseball League and American Legion.

PAL champs

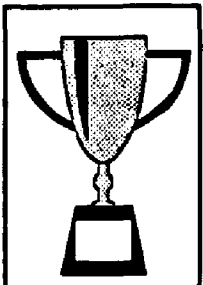

Over the weekend, a team comprised of Westfield players won the Police Athletic League Tournament, held at Tamaques Park and Edison Intermediate School. By virtue of its lopsided victory over Cranford in the championship game, Westfield will travel to Columbia County, Georgia, to compete in the National PAL Tournament in approximately two weeks. In a four-team field, Westfield defeated teams from Cranford, Scotch Plains and Jersey City to gain a spot in the finals.

GSG update

Westfield resident Jay Polack finished third in the 11-12-year-old 400-yard freestyle, held at Rutgers University on July 11. Polack was clocked in 5:12.81.

Coach trades whistle for briefcase

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Gary Kehler's successor will immediately be faced with an important decision when he or she takes over as Westfield High School's athletic director.

The new AD, who will likely be named in a Board of Education meeting next Thursday, must select a replacement for Chris McGiffin, who recently announced his resignation as the boys' varsity swimming coach.

During his five-year tenure McGiffin upheld the high level of success of a program which has been consistent in its excellence for quite some time.

Under his tutelage the Blue Devils compiled a 74-9 record, won one state championship, five consecutive Union County titles and four straight Pirate Invitational crowns. In addition to coaching numerous state champions, which include Dave Schwartz and Darren Hertell, McGiffin helped Westfield reach the state semifinals in each of his last four years.

"I've been at Westfield for five seasons and I've enjoyed every one of them," said McGiffin, who was also a substitute teacher at W.H.S. "I felt I achieved the goals I set for the swimmers and I felt it was time to move on and face new challenges. The whole experience was very dear to me. I'll definitely be something I'll miss."

After coaching boys' swim team five years, McGiffin steps down

While McGiffin will continue to be an assistant coach at the Berkeley Swim Club through August, he does not plan to coach on a full-time basis in the future. Instead, he will be working at the Chubb Group of Insurance Companies in Warren, where he is currently an information services trainee.

"I think the decision came naturally to me," said McGiffin. "I was lucky enough to do exactly what I wanted to do after college. I think I've done what I could and learned as much as I could at this level."

"I wanted to try something different and experience what it's like to be a business professional. I've offered my services to some coaches on an informal basis, more in terms of YMCA rather than high school."

Those who knew McGiffin will remember his unrelenting attention to detail and his unwavering commitment to the boys' swimming program.

"I thought Chris was a very well organized and thorough coach who was really concerned with his program. He was very knowledgeable," said Kehler, whose retirement officially begins Aug. 31.

"The thing I'll remember the most is the friends I made along the way, with the swimmers and the staff at the high school," said McGiffin. "Everyone was always very supportive, especially the parents."

"I'm going to keep track of the Westfield High School season and the swimmers and I want to keep in touch with the people I met."

Keehn feels at home on pitcher's mound
Westfield grad currently 6-0

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

He lives about 2,500 miles away from home in a place where sand is commonplace on front lawns and 110-degree temperatures are the norm.

As someone who's been playing baseball since he was able to walk, he was drafted five weeks ago by a Major League team to play a position which he has never attempted.

But, Drew Keehn of Westfield feels right at home in Phoenix, Ariz., where he's currently playing the game he loves for the Phoenix Bandits, an 18-and-under select team which competes in the Connie Mack "A" League, as well as in various tournaments around the nation.

After the Colorado Rockies selected him in the MLB Amateur Draft, Keehn believed it was not in his best interests to sign a contract with the big league club.

The 18-year-old did not think he was ready to take such a big step, especially playing a position he had no experience dealing with.

Instead, he'll complete his season with the Bandits (29-9) and continue to play at Central Arizona Junior College with the hopes of inking an athletic scholarship at a four-year school.

Last year, Keehn batted .354 and stole 23 bases for the Blue Devils.

At the All-American Memphis Invitational, Keehn attracted the attention of several Southeastern Conference schools. While the head coaches from Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Mississippi State, South Carolina and Georgia contacted Keehn during the tournament, the former Blue Devil has his heart set on attending Arizona State.

Westfield's Jeff Perlera takes a cut during Sunday's American Legion game against Watchung Hills. Perlera, who was selected to play in the league's All-Star Game with four of his teammates, will be at the Edison School field today at 5:45 p.m. when Westfield concludes its season against Roselle Park.

Subsets give more options to collectors

Card companies are going Subset crazy these days. Is there anything in cards today that is not a subset?

A quick peek at the most recent issue of Beckett Baseball Card Monthly reveals that from 1992 to present, there must be at least 20 different subsets with most being more expensive than the actual card set itself, which contains hundreds of more cards.

Most collector's are obviously out looking for the subsets, due to the fact that most companies claim they limit the production of them.

But there is one set that I feel will no doubt be the hardest to complete. With approximately 2,000 cards per player in circulation, Topps

In the Cards

by Peter Smith

A column about sports collectibles

Stadium Club First Day Production cards are the rarest cards on the market.

Never before, to my knowledge, has a major card manufacturer had such a limited production of a card.

Even the single common cards are going to have value, due to the fact people will be trying to put this set together and will have to pay to get them.

Out on the market, dealers have stated that the common cards are going from $3 to $5. At that price alone, a 750 card set is worth $2,250 to $3,750.

In addition to the common cards there are also hot Rookie-of-the-Year forerunners, such as Mike Piazza of the Dodgers and Tim Lincecum of the Angels.

Their Stadium Club regular cards are $5 and $4 respectively. Tack on about 50 to 75 times the value of the regular card and their First Day Production cards range from $200 to $375.

Keep in mind, there are approximately only 2,000 of each of the 750 cards in the series, translating into around 1.5 million cards in all. Expect the value to rise not only with their success but also the demand. People still do not realize the value of these cards at this point.

It is a safe bet they will be valuable cards and Topps states that there is approximately one of these First Day Production cards in every box, but does not guarantee that rate of success.

Boxes of the Topps Stadium Club ranged from $29-$32 at last week's Middlesex Mall Card Show.

In football, the Fleer 93' and Classic already hit the market even before baseball hit the All-Star Break.

One footnote on Stadium Club III baseball cards, there is only 150 cards in this set. The rumor is that there will be Beam Team cards inserted in this series, but Topps has yet to confirm this.

Vacations, injuries damage Westfield's CJTBL playoff run

Team resigned to playing out string of games

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

A mass exodus, prompted by vacations and injuries, left Westfield in a lurch last weekend when it played four big games against the upper echelon of the Central Jersey Plainfield Twilight Baseball League.

Still harboring playoff hopes entering last Friday's contest against defending league champion New Providence (19-6-3), Westfield left 11 runners on base and blew a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the seventh in a 5-4 loss.

The team's problems were compounded further because it only had nine players available for the rest of the week's games. Head coach Raf Crocco was pressed into service and started at first base after not playing between the lines for at least five years.

The lack of players forced people to play out of position and compelled pitchers to throw beyond their normal capacity. Substitutions were rendered practically impossible and the squad's morale floundered with each loss.

As of Tuesday evening, Westfield had lost five straight games after piecing together a four-game winning streak. Instead of forging a playoff drive, Westfield is simply limping into the homestretch and playing out the string.

Chris Infantino has been unable to pitch for Westfield because he was diagnosed with tendinitis in his throwing arm. With about 10 games remaining in the Central Jersey Plainfield Twilight Baseball League season, Westfield (9-16-1) is seven points out of a playoff spot and is in last place in the Central Division.

AUGUSTO F. MENEZES/THE RECORD

With eight games remaining, Westfield was 9-17-1, four points behind fourth-place Kenilworth (11-17-1) and seven points behind the Hillsborough Petrocks (13-13). The top three teams in each division qualify for the playoffs.

"Mathematically, we're still in it," said Crocco, who has gotten a pair of hits in eight at bats. "There's no reason why we couldn't make the playoffs with a full complement of players. But, right now we're resigned to playing out the string."

"We had a decent season. We lost a lot of one-run games early. Now, it's show up and get blown out."

The scarcity of bodies has been hardest on the pitching staff. In the New Providence loss, Pete Ausiello threw 106 pitches and said he experienced arm stiffness later that evening. In Tuesday's 8-3 loss to Manville, Adam Yannuzzi started his first game all season and performed well until tiring late in the game.

The starters, who are not afforded the luxury of leaving in favor of a reliever, must also endure their share of four and five-out innings, due to Westfield's makeshift defense. In its last four losses, Westfield has committed 17 errors.

The outlook does not appear to be much brighter. With key players not returning from vacation for another week and with others choosing not to show up at all, relief is not in the immediate future. Many players have become disenchanted, to the point where they do not feel like playing anymore. This situation has aggravated Crocco.

"I guess the kids don't want it bad enough," he said. "The record we have reflects the attitude, commitment and dedication on this team."

WEEK IN REVIEW — On Tuesday, Manville scored five runs in the bottom of the sixth to break a 3-3 deadlock. Yannuzzi, who pitched a courageous game, absorbed the loss after leaving the bases loaded with none out in the sixth. Infantino went 3 for 4 and scored a run, while second baseman Dave Duels, catcher Seth Coren and Yannuzzi went 1 for 4.

Westfield traveled to Washington Park Sunday and suffered through a pair of somewhat embarrassing losses in a doubleheader at Perth Amboy. The visitors made four errors during an 11-4 loss in Game 1, then committed half a dozen fielding miscues in a 17-2 setback in the nightcap.

Duels went 2 for 4 and scored a run in each game. Over the past three games, Duels is 5 for 12 and has been the team's leading hitter. In the opener, Crocco went 2 for 3 and Coren ripped an RBI double. Jim Charlesworth took the loss.

In the second game, losing pitcher Dave Koehler (2 for 3, RBI), Duels (2 for 4, run scored), Yannuzzi (2 for 2) and Cort Montross (2 for 3, RBI) had multiple-hit games.

Montross pitched a fine game Saturday in a 6-3 loss to North Hunterdon, which leads the league with a 26-3-1 record. Montross gave up eight hits, two earned runs and struck out six during his complete-game effort.

Rodd went 2 for 3 and scored a run. Yannuzzi's two-run double in the second temporarily tied the game for Westfield. Coren and Mike Smith both went 1 for 3.

Following last Wednesday's rain out against Iselin, Westfield lost to New Providence, 5-4. Coren went 2 for 3 and drove in two runs and Duels went 1 for 3. Infantino reached base in three of four plate appearances. Ausiello took the loss.

New AD may be named Thursday

The Westfield Board of Education announced it will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 29, in the board meeting room on 302 Elm Street.

The main item on the agenda is the selection of a successor to Gary Kehler, Westfield High School's Athletic Director, whose retirement is effective Aug. 31. The meeting is open to the public and time will be put aside for questions and comments.

As of press time on Tuesday evening, a list of possible candidates was unknown.

YOUTH SPORTS

BASEBALL

American Legion

Westfield 12, Berkeley Heights 4

On Sunday, Westfield trailed, 4-1, going into the bottom of the fourth. Then the locals scored six runs to take the lead. They added five more runs in the fifth to clinch the victory. Joe DiLauro had a double and two singles. Kris Williams doubled and singled. Adley Torres added two hits. Ryan Mann had an RBI single, while Dave Fala drove in two runs with a single.

Westfield 11, Rahway 6

Williams led the attack in Westfield's fourth consecutive victory. He drove in five runs, including three on a bases-loaded double. Jeff Pereira and Pat Cosquer each reached base four times. Craig Tinervin had two singles, each of which drove in a run. Fala had two singles and a walk, while Bill Rhodes added two singles.

Cosquer, Pereira, Williams, Tom Oravez, and DiLauro represented Westfield in this year's All-Star Game, which was played in Union on July 9th.

13-14-year-old Junior Tri-County

Westfield 6, Cranford 4

In quarterfinal round playoff action on July 18, the Westfield defeated Cranford to advance to the semifinal round. Cranford had defeated Westfield twice during the regular season.

Westfield was led by the outstanding relief pitching of Michael Kotter, who allowed only one run on four hits in five and one-third innings to pick up the victory.

Westfield jumped out to an early lead with four runs in the top of the first inning. Adam Welland had a key, two-out two-run single, and Josh McMahon and Bobby Meyer drove in the other two runs. Cranford rallied for three runs in the second inning before Kotter came in to tie the score.

Other contributors for Westfield were Jeremiah Tabor, who had one hit and scored two runs, and John DiGiovanni, who made a fine catch in centerfield to end Cranford second-inning rally.

Westfield, which is coached by Gerry McMahon, Bill Meyer, and Bill Hedden, will next meet Scotch Plains which finished first overall during the regular season.

SOFTBALL

12-and-under Tri-County League

Tough times continue for Westfield's Tri-County softball team. Their record fell to 0-8 following two more home games during the past week. Against Fords, the Blue Devils lost, 11-1. Jessica Lutkenhouse reached base three times via walks, with Brooke Smith and Stephanie Flynn getting singles for Westfield. Allison Checchio scored Westfield's only run on a fielder's choice by Liz Yannuzzi.

The Blue Devils nearly had their first win in the most exciting game of the year against East Brunswick. Trailing 6-0, walks to Flynn and Checchio, along with a single by Sue Phillips accounted for the first run for Westfield. Hills Soccer Inc.

With soccer becoming ever more popular in New Jersey, the expert coaches of the Hills Soccer Camp are making valuable contributions to the sport's development. Male and female instructors will be chosen from the top teachers in physical education colleges throughout Great Britain and the United States. Under our new skills and tactical curriculum, all camp participants will be organized into teams and trained as an entire unit, based on international principles of play.

There will also be a separate clinic for goalies and strikers. This particular program will benefit those players who need intense, individualized, specific instruction necessary for the improvement of goalie and striker skills.

Two more camps will be offered in the immediate area. From July 26-30, a camp will be given in Clark and will include instruction for beginners, intermediate and advanced players.

From Aug. 2-6, camps will be offered in Westfield and Scotch Plains, both of which will focus on new progressions, skills and tactical curriculum based on international principles of play.

Keehn

Since starting his first game a little more than a month ago, Keehn has compiled a 6-0 record and is allowing approximately two earned runs a game. In 45 innings pitched he's struck out 37 and issued only 10 walks. In his most recent start he hurled a complete-game victory in the finals of a tournament in Albuquerque, NM, and gave up only one earned run.

"I feel really comfortable and confident on the mound," said Keehn, who throws a straight change up, a curve and a fastball with three different grips. "Every time I go out I think I'll win. I try to keep the ball down and just concentrate on where the catcher wants me to throw the ball."

Although he's concentrating mostly on pitching, Keehn still plays shortstop and assumes a regular spot in the batting order. As of Sunday, he was hitting .379, and has not committed an error all season.

"When I go out to play shortstop I feel it's a much easier job," said Keehn, who's also working on a slider. "It's just fielding grounders. Now, when a pitcher walks someone or throws a wild pitch I feel more sympathetic."

In the Memphis tournament on Fourth of July weekend, Keehn doubled in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh in a semifinal game against Jackson, Miss. In the finals against Columbia, Tx, Keehn was credited with the game-winning RBI.

As far as speculating on a possible future in the Major Leagues, Keehn prefers to dismiss such talk. He believes the most important task is playing the next game.

"I just try to take it one step at a time," said Keehn, who is rooming with Tim Fields, the Bandits' pitching coach. "I just want to deal with the situation at hand and go one step at a time."

Espresso house has a friendly flavor

By BOB SULLIVAN
THE RECORD

Some people just aren't comfortable in the bar scene, and they're looking for an alternative setting to meet friends and socialize.

That was the philosophy which led Barry Tobin and partner Michael Farina to open Lucca's Espresso and Fine Coffee shop in Metuchen one year ago. Twelve busy, successful months later, the two have decided to branch their business into Westfield.

"When you're an entrepreneur, you take risks," Mr. Tobin said. "But we think we've found a niche, and we're going to fill that niche."

"People want a cocoon. They want to stay in their home community and have a place to enjoy themselves. They don't want to go to bars with alcohol all the time. Lucca's gives people a place to meet and relax."

Lucca's features 80 different varieties of coffee — including Jamaican Blue Mountain, Cinnamon Nut Swirl, and an array of chocolate coffees — and almost 30 types of tea, including English Breakfast and Lapsang Souchang. No matter what's brewing at the bar, patrons can sample any one of the varieties, as Lucca's offers cups made French press pot style, which can be ready in three minutes.

But the focus of the bar is the big, bright red espresso machine in the front of the shop. The bar is strictly for service, and patrons can relax at one of the shop's 15 tables — there's room to accommodate about 40 coffee lovers.

Adding to the laid-back atmosphere of the store are soothing undertones of classical music which hover around the shop throughout the day. Wagner, Chopin, and Mozart add to atmosphere.

"It adds to the flavor of the place, but it's not distracting," Mr. Tobin said. "If you're chatting here, you don't have to yell above the music."

Mr. Tobin, 43, became interested in the coffee business during several trips to Europe with his wife.

"I've been interested in coffee for a while," he said. "Coffee bars are the place to go in Europe."

And he hopes they will be the place to go in Westfield.

"We think we've found a niche, and we're going to fill that niche"

— Barry Tobin

Barry Tobin sits with some of the specialties available at Lucca's Espresso and Fine Coffee Shop.

Yoga center to begin new session Aug. 2

Nicole's Yoga Center, Inc., one of the largest yoga centers in the area, located at 94 North Ave., Garwood, will begin a new session Aug. 2.

Nicole's method of yoga is a way of life. It is a scientific system of exercise which teaches you how to take care of yourself mentally, physically and emotionally. Yoga teaches you how to connect mind and body in order to self-improve the body's functioning.

Nicole's teaching is a progressive system of yoga exercise that combines all aspects of yoga — breathing, elongation, physical exercise, energy balancing, relaxation and meditation — all in accord with the Western language and our present-day lifestyle.

This session's schedule includes 20 yoga classes weekly, with new classes at 10:40 a.m. Tuesdays and 4:30 p.m. Thursdays, for beginners through advanced students of all ages.

Of these 20 classes, there is one especially for senior citizens, one for those with back problems, and one class of "Yoga in Motion" for intermediate to advanced yoga students who wish to experience a choreographed flow of yoga movements. In addition, there are two meditation classes, powerful tools to help strengthen your immune system and deepen your relaxation.

Students of the Yoga Center also have the opportunity to purchase a customized audiotape made especially for problem areas such as the lower back, hamstring, shoulder and neck region, etc., and a meditation audiotape. The Yoga Center is also offering private therapeutic yoga sessions for people with weight disorders, bad smoking habits or other personal problems.

Nicole's is also offering several semi-private classes on the new YogaProps, yoga equipment professionally designed to add another dimension to one's workout. It's a safe, fun and extremely beneficial way to work yourself from the inside out to a healthier life.

Because classes are limited, early registration is recommended.

The Yoga Center will be open for general registration (free personal evaluation by appointment only) on the following days: Monday, July 26 from 4-6 p.m.; Thursday, July 29, 10:30 a.m.-2 p.m.; and Saturday, July 31, 1-4 p.m.

For a brochure, further information or to set up an appointment, please call 789-6426. Due to the precise progression of our yoga classes, all participants must enroll for the full program. Early registration is strongly suggested.

Dinner stroll

Dina Wilhelm, right, of Meridian Nursing Center helps Helen Welcher walk to the dinner table. A new "Walk and Dine" program at the center encourages residents to walk to the dinner table with help from a professional, instead of using wheelchairs.

THE SAAB 9000 AERO is the latest example of Saab's plan to introduce a new model or new innovation every year for the next 10 years.

Saab's new 9000 Aero has trademark quality

The 1993 9000 Aero is the newest, most luxurious and most powerful passenger car that Saab has yet produced.

It is the latest example of Saab's long range plan to introduce either a new model or an important technological innovation each year for the next 10 years.

What sets the Aero apart from earlier 9000s is its new deluxe leather interior, a larger turbocharger that adds 25 horsepower to its 2.3 liter four-cylinder engine, sporty new lower body aerodynamic trim, special three-spoke alloy wheels, and high-performance low-profile tires. At the same time, it retains all of the safety, quality and durability features that have become Saab's hallmarks.

Saab started out as an aircraft manufacturer, and for the past 46 years has succeeded in producing both top-quality commercial and jet fighter aircraft as well as a line of unique, sturdy and distinctive passenger cars. I gave this new Saab a thorough workout and came to these conclusions:

APPEARANCE

Above the beltline the Aero retains the clean, classic styling that belongs to the 9000: the traditional Saab grille; lower, wider headlights and wipers; large side mirrors; a big rear hatch and lots of glass. New is the distinctive trim on the bumpers, rocker panels, front air dam, rear apron and high spoiler that give the Aero a sporty low stance that sets it apart from earlier 9000s.

COMFORT

Saab has always combined comfort and safety, and the Aero is no exception. The black leather interior seating is fitted to give club room comfort. All seats are large and contoured, and the front ones are powered and heated and have memory settings. All controls are clearly visible.

The climate control arrangement works well, but requires reading of the manual for best use, and the AM/FM/CD/cassette system delivers quality fidelity and tone. Windows, mirrors, locks, rear hatch and fuel door are electronically controlled for convenience.

The Aero offers a viable combination of luxury, comfort and practicality.

ROADABILITY

What sets the Aero apart from other 9000s on the road is the way its special sport suspension kit improves its sports driving characteristics. A combination of a stiffer body structure, lower chassis, large stabilizer bars and traction control provide impressive road handling characteristics for a family/sport sedan. Safety is enhanced by four-wheel disc/anti-lock brakes, air bags, tension controlled seat belts, front and rear crumple zones, side impact bars and special low-resistance tires.

PERFORMANCE

Four-cylinder engine power has been a trademark of Saab since it started producing passenger cars. The latest 2.3 liter, dohc 16-valve, four-cylinder, Trionic-controlled management system engine is no exception, except that it has been specially tuned and the size of its turbo has been increased to give it a 12-plus percent horsepower boost from 200 to 225. Torque has been upped to 258 foot-pounds to provide excellent broad range power characteristics with the five-speed manual transmission.

At this time, an automatic transmission is not available for the Aero model.

SUGGESTIONS

Redesign manual gearbox to provide smoother shifting.

ECONOMY

EPA ratings are 20 city/24 highway. I averaged 22.8 mpg.

CONCLUSIONS

The 9000 Aero continues Saab's tradition of building practical, roomy, safe and powerful means of automotive transportation.

By continuously adding new technology in structure, suspension, engine management and design, this latest Saab 9000 aptly demonstrates that a manufacturer does not have to be large to produce interesting cars.

Consumers won't buy electric cars unless they're convenient

By BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

At the turn of the century, the automobile business came to a technological crossroad: would the industry continue to develop the fossil-fuel powered vehicle with all its attendant noise, smell, danger and turmoil, or concentrate on the silent, easy-to-drive electric car?

You need only look out of your front window to know the answer. No one that I know drives to work in a Baker or a Clark or a Buffalo Electric or any of the other 294 electrics listed in The Standard Catalog of American Cars. All of those names are long gone and street-worthy mass-produced electric cars and trucks are ancient history.

But now, after an 80 year hiatus, the factory-built family electric sedan, station wagon and van is not only being given serious (if somewhat confused) consideration by all the auto makers, but is being touted as the answer to the atmospheric ills that plague our cities.

The reason for this renewed interest is because various governmental bureaus mandate that those same car makers must build a certain number of zero-pollution vehicles within four years or face large fines.

But as it is with all new products, the final judgment on whether or not the electric vehicle (EV) will be a major (or even minor) part of everyday traffic is in the hands and checkbooks of the average American new car buyer. Unless things such as price, convenience and comfort are equal between the gasoline and the electric car, Mr. & Mrs. New Car Buyer will cast their ballot by sticking with what they have known for eight decades. Gasoline may be polluting our air and be the focal point of world-wide conflict, but it's reliable, convenient and fairly cheap.

Recently, I've read reams of literature on the EV, how it will be built, how far it will go on a single battery charge and how fast it will be on the highway. But when the subject of who might buy them and how much those hypothetical buyers will be willing to pay to be Responsible Citizens, most analysts change the subject.

The general population has reservations about making its upcoming new car purchase an electric. According to a recent survey, the inconvenience of it is the major drawback to owning an EV for most of us. The inability to "fill it up" with a quick charge and the need to plan ahead with an overnight recharge at home is most often cited. Its relatively short range (about 150 miles maximum at this point) is another perceived problem. Even with quick-charge stations located on the interstate highways, long distance cross-country driving in an EV is looked at as a tedious proposition by most of us.

Another drawback to private ownership of an EV is the resistance to giving up creature comforts. Electrically powered air conditioning will rob a commuter's EV of about 10 miles of range. To increase range by 20 miles, an EV of reasonable size would need to sacrifice the two back seats to increased battery capacity. According to the survey, even the use of a safety air bag decreases EV range by five miles and nearly three-quarters of those surveyed were unwilling to delete that safety item.

One would think that those members of our population who are the most vocal about saving our air would be the first to jump on the EV bandwagon. Not so, according to what I've read. The reason is economics: a new EV is going to come in at about a 20 percent higher retail price than its gasoline powered equivalent and cost about 10 percent more to drive per mile. Traditionally, hard-core environmentalists aren't in that income bracket. Once the EV shows up on used car lots around the nation, the story may change, but that's many years down the road.

Another drawback is the lack of a sales infrastructure to sell the EV. New car sales is almost a contact sport to buyers and sellers alike and putting EVs on a sales room floor along with its conventionally accessory-laden gasoline powered counterpart might be viewed as putting a sheep in the lion's den.

One multi-line retailer I talked to put it succinctly. "Electrics (cars and trucks) will be great in fleet use. They'll probably get license fee breaks, special parking privileges and other perks, but I don't see us rolling them off the (show room) floor. Our fleet managers are the guys who will do the (EV) dealing," he said.

I road test a lot of new cars. Most new car makers gladly offer new products to auto journalists for evaluation but to date, no manufacturer or vehicle converter has offered me a new EV to drive except in a very controlled race track setting. When a new factory-built EV is parked out in my driveway for week-long use, I'll take the EV industry seriously.

Do bearings need to be replaced?

By BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Q I own a 1988 Chevrolet Cavalier.

Since it has 70,000 miles on it and the manual I have suggests that the front wheel bearings be checked and repacked, I requested a mechanic to do this. He said that the wheel bearings are going bad and they needed to be replaced. I requested another mechanic to do this for me. He said that I needed new bearings too, but that there were none available here.

In the meantime I had the front brakes replaced. Neither of the shops are authorized repair shops. When I went to an authorized repair shop to order replacement bearings, I decided that I should let them do the job for me. The dealer checked the front bearings and said that everything was OK. I intended to purchase the new bearings during this visit, but learned that they were $200 each and they are not the type that needs lubrication. I was also told that special tools would be required to do the job. How can I test to see if new bearings are needed and what would be the worst case scenario if I do not replace them?

A Toss that manual; it's wrong. The front wheel bearings on your Cavalier are, indeed, sealed and unreplaceable and can only be replaced if they go bad.

According to my source of Chevy information, the only cases of front wheel bearing failure he has encountered have been on cars that had been damaged in transit to the dealerships. He also says that when they are bad, you'll hear a growling noise from the front end, much like a tire that's badly cupped.

If a front end noise crops up, swap the front and rear tires to see if the noise follows the tire. If the noise stays up front, the problem is mechanical.

Q I have the opportunity to buy a 1946 Dodge pickup truck for only $1,000. It is currently licensed, and being run on the road by its present owner and is in OK shape. Can you recommend a source to determine if it is a collector's item and if so, what its present value might be?

A The vintage trucks have become very popular, especially with shops and auto parts purveyors who want to promote their businesses as having been around a long time. An auto machinist who works near me drives his perfect '51 3100 Chevy pickup daily, a hotel in Hawaii has a '36 Ford as its patio center piece and the collectibility of the '50s Ford F-100 is legendary. Check in your phone book under Automobile Appraisers for an accurate number, but the current Gold Book lists your Dodge at between $1,600 and $4,600 depending on its condition.

A rose by any other name is still infamous 'kit car'

By BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

In the world of home-assembled auto builders, the term "Kit Car" has almost become a dirty word. For proof, you need only observe that Kit Car Magazine has changed its name to Specialty Car. And "specialty" is a good word for the industry. The car components have become so exotic and expensive that most take enormous amounts of skill and money to assemble and complete. Kit Car is too gauche a description for most of these machines.

I know that this statement is going to earn me some "This For You, Hagin" letters to the editors from proponents of the avocation. It has happened before.

This automotive linguistic phenomenon has happened before. Those of you who remember the late '40s and early '50s will recall the term "Hot Rod" evoked a look from the general population that was usually reserved for a bad smell. Fortunately Kit Car isn't looked on with the same scorn.

The idea of building one's own car from scratch is very old:

originally it was the basis for the American auto business. Before the advent of The Big Three, small automakers would buy frames from a metals fabrication company, engines from another and drive trains from a third. Bodies would be produced by a local buggy builder and the "manufacturer" would simply put all the pieces together. American enterprise was at work.

Youthful Hot Rodders of 40 or 50 years ago had that pioneering spirit. Besides the fact lashing a flat-head Ford V8 onto a spindly Model A Ford was an inexpensive way to own a vehicle that would go fast, building a drivable machine that had been made almost from scratch was tremendously satisfying.

Modern amateur assemblers of Kit Cars know that satisfaction too, although there are probably as many unfinished kits sitting in home garages and under carports as there are finished examples out on the road. Completing these projects can require extreme patience and buyers sometimes find their aspirations outstrip their capabilities. In the high school auto shop where I teach, we've undertaken the assembly of a shortened Classic Roadsters Ltd. frame to accept the running gear from a Ford Pinto (one of 90 that we've acquired over the years) and I can only hope my students involved eventually get the same personal satisfaction I did when I stripped and modified vintage Fords and Chevis in my own high school days.

The fact we're using a Classic Roadsters, Ltd. frame brings up another factor in ever-changing specialty car (or kit car, if you prefer) industry. While there are lots of honest and well-run operations in the market, there are many that have a more-than-somewhat tarnished reputation.

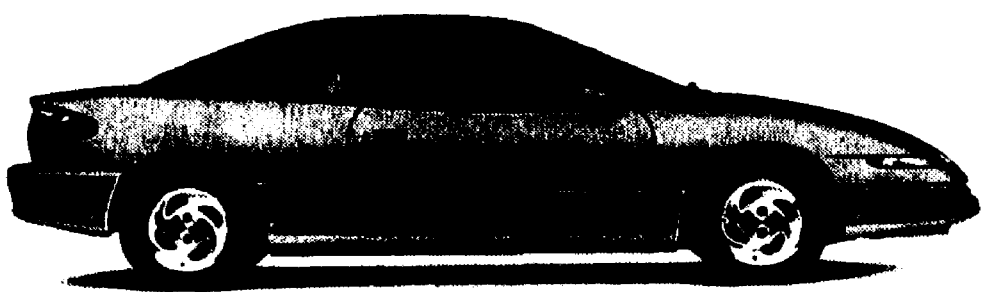

Traditionally kit buyers are required to put up a substantial deposit to the manufacturer for the merchandise and this is understandable. They're not cheap to manufacture and the company wants to make sure the buyer is serious. A problem arises when that manufacturer finds himself unable to come up with the goods.

In our own case, it took my high school class nearly a year and numerous phone calls to the plant in North Dakota before we finally received our Classic Roadster frame. We had visions of our pre-paid $1,400 disappearing into the Dakota Badlands.

As it turned out, we were among the lucky ones. Classic Roadster, Ltd. was recently closed down by the attorney general of North Dakota and forced into bankruptcy because of violations of that state's fraud laws. A great number of kit buyers were left holding empty or nearly empty bags when they found the phone number at the company's headquarters had been disconnected. Many who had received incomplete kits are now faced with the task of trying to find or make pieces for their incomplete jigsaw puzzles.

To help police the industry, the Specialty Constructed Vehicle Association has been formed and operates out of Long Beach, CA. Time will tell if its efforts are successful. Membership is strictly voluntary so kit buyers will have to remain wary. I'd remind them to keep in mind what happened to my high school class.

Thanks for your patience. Your Saturn is here.

Not long ago, as you may recall, we had so many customers we sometimes had to ask them to wait a few weeks while we built their cars. Well, the people in Spring Hill voted to put in a bit more overtime to help keep up with the demand, and we now have a pretty wide selection of models to show you. So the only thing that might try your patience from now on is hearing, over and over again, "Say, how do you like your new Saturn?"

Former Norris-Oakey House is oldest one in Cranford

CRANFORD — With part of its structure dating to 1740, the Norris Oakey House at 1119 Orange Ave., is the venerable grand dame of Cranford's historic homes.

UNION HOUSE TOURS

A home that has endured so many decades amasses culture, style, personality, and of course, history. All these qualities are evident in the Norris-Oakey House, which has deep roots in the colonial, federal and Victorian periods.

Listing for $299,000 through Barton Realty of Cranford, the three-story home blends historic features with modern amenities.

One side of the house dates to circa 1740. The other side dates to circa 1820. It is the oldest house in Cranford.

During the Revolutionary War, the building was used as a troop billet. It served as an inn during the early 19th century and as a boarding house in the early 20th century. It has been a center for horse shows.

The Cranford Heritage Corridor, a preservationist group, saved the home from the wrecking ball in the 1970s. The group intended to restore the home and convert it into a "living museum." However, the cost of restoration at the time was estimated at $150,000 and the group was forced to abandon the idea. The home was (Please turn to page RE-7)

NEW LISTING
4 BR charming Cape on private wooded lot with beautiful views, in-ground pool, and screened porch, are just a few of

A venerable, historic home

eventually purchased by its current owners, who have meticulously restored and revitalized the house.
Built with a traditional center hall, the first floor features a living room with a fireplace, a formal dining room with a fireplace, a family room, kitchen, heated solarium, rear porch/laundry, a powder room, and front and rear stairways.
The solarium is unquestionably a highlight of the home. It features radiant heat and a built-in fishpond. Window treatments/shades are electrically operated.
The living room is a grand 14-by-26 feet and boasts a working fireplace and two entrances from the center hall. The dining room is spacious and also has a fireplace (not represented as working).
The recreation room is located between the dining room and kitchen and has a built-in display case under the rear stairwell. The kitchen is 12-by-23, with a separate dining area, dishwasher, trash compactor, garbage disposal, fan, wall oven, bar sink, skylight, ceiling fan, and new floor covering. There is a rear porch/laundry, powder room and deck on the first floor, as well.

The master bedroom suite, with a marble fireplace, dominates the second floor. The bedroom is 14-by-26. There is a Jacuzzi tub in the master bath. There is also a second bath, large and updated to modern standards, and two additional bedrooms.
On the third floor, there is a 14-by-26 family/recreation room with a wood burning stove, ceiling fan, built-in air conditioner, cherry storage benches, bookcases, and an original chestnut beamed ceiling.
A library loft overlooks the family room. It features a wet bar, powder room and a room that can be used as a private office or bedroom.
There is a two-car detached garage, and a full basement.
The main stairway to the second floor has an original brick and timber wall. The floors are hardwood and plank.
The house features nine zone heating (nine individual thermostats in rooms) and oil heat with hot water baseboards. Propane gas is used for cooking and the dryer.
For more information, or to visit the home, call Isabel Taylor at Barton Realty, 272-4020.

PSE&G rates new homes

The catch phrase at recent energy conferences is, "energy-efficiency is a win-win situation."
According to Remodeler Magazine, consumers win because they save money, utilities win because they don't need to invest in new plants and the environment wins because less energy consumption means fewer pollutants.
A home qualified as EEH is constructed with weather-tight windows and doors, extra insulation in both ceilings and walls, high efficiency heating, cooling and hot water systems, and automatic set-back thermostats, all of which contribute to lower energy bills.
Information about the Energy Efficient Home Program, participating builders and their communities is available through PSE&G's EEH hotline. Call 800-220-8090, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Fun in the fast lane

Flemington Raceway markets its cars, and stars, as family entertainment

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

NASCAR Daytona-style modified stock car races at Flemington Speedway — on the "world's fastest 5/8-mile asphalt tract" — are wild fun for everyone.

"It's a great place for a family — clean, exciting fun for all — wives, daughters, grandparents, sons and dads," said Flemington spokeswoman Wendy Kennedy. "The promoter, Paul Kuhl, feels he's not just putting on a race program, he wants to entertain the fans. We encourage people to come out and give them something to see."

Stock car races are good, clean fun — and you can't beat the price with a stick. Adult general admission is $11 for most programs and children under 12 are free. That's right: FREE. You can load up the car with a gang of kids and entertain the crew for less than the cost of a movie. Added features — like this Saturday's vintage stock cars and "Great American" street stocks — will drive the price up to $13. Ms. Kennedy said, but she points out there's no cost for parking. "We feel you get the best return for your money — a ball game costs $20 these days. Here, kids are free. We want to encourage the family to come as a family — it's clean fun. No dinosaurs, but you won't get dirty and you can bring your wife."

Bleachers are general admission but for those with a taste for more comfortable seats, a covered grandstand is available at $1 extra per person (that includes kids). "Some people feel you get a better atmosphere in the grandstand. There's more vibration," Ms. Kennedy said. "People have sat in the same seats for years and years with their same band of friends."

Another neat attraction is the "Hall of Fame," a free museum of vintage race cars. Hall of Fame cars race once a month on Saturdays from noon-3 p.m. The next time they're scheduled to run is Aug. 14.

Looking for a novel birthday party idea? "We encourage people to bring kids here for birthday parties," Ms. Kennedy said. Since kids get in free and you can bring your own food, this may be one of the best deals around. "We'll arrange a couple of picnic tables and the kids can meet a driver. We have at least one every week — this week the birthday boy is 55!" For more information, call (908) 782-2413.

Pit crews prepare for another weekend of auto racing action at Flemington Speedway.

Flemington Raceway: When, where and how Flemington Speedway is halfway north on Route 31. You can't miss it. For a schedule of programs, to arrange a special party, or for more information, call (908) 782-2413. Most programs start at 6 p.m. Admission is $11 for adults (some special programs $13). Children 12 and under free. Hall of Fame admission free for all. Covered grandstand seats $1 extra per person. Special programs, times and prices will be in effect during the upcoming 137th annual Flemington County Fair, Aug. 31-Sept. 6.

Warren racer Ken Brenn, Jr. ready to make his return

There's a lot to see this week at Flemington Speedway — an extra big program will include triple 20-lap feature races; late-model car races; "Great American" street stocks and vintage stock cars from the 60s and 70s.

But what the fans are looking forward to most is the return of popular local racer Ken Brenn Jr., back to racing with a new "Flemington modified" in his familiar red and yellow colors carrying number 24.

Brenn, 41, was born and raised in Warren, graduated from Watchung Hills Regional High and still lives near the house he grew up in. He is tall and ruggedly good-looking with a mass of curly hair. His dad, Ken Brenn Sr., owned race cars since Ken Jr. was a kid.

"He had cars that went to Indianapolis, he had vintage sprint cars, he had dirt champ cars," said Brenn.

Brenn got into racing when his dad hired driver Stan Bobka to drive a new stock car he bought.

"Stan said, 'The old car's sitting here, why don't you try it?' So I tried it," he said. "And from that point — until I don't know how many years later, here I am and I'm still doing it."

Now, Brenn said, "I'll race anything I can get my butt in the seat of."

Brenn didn't run a car at all last year — "lack of financial backing," he said. "This year we got a hold of seven sponsors and got enough money to get a car. My one big sponsor is Napa Auto Parts."

Like most stock car driver/owners, Ken Brenn does not do it for the money. Most of the parts for his new car are borrowed, in fact. "The motor's borrowed, the wheels are borrowed, transmission is borrowed," he said. "It took a long time to get this together."

Money and prizes are negligible too. "It's nothing," he said. "You put it all right back in the car. This is not a money making operation."

There's one moment that makes it all worth while, though: "When you pull into victory lane after you've beaten everybody," he said. "That's what everyone goes there for. It's the old story — second's good but it ain't good enough. There's no position other than first."

Another Flemington owner and driver, Somerville resident Mike Sena, 33, feels the same way. "So much work and time goes into racing, when you win it makes it worth while," said Sena. "Usually the driver gets all the recognition, but when you win, the whole team gets recognized — that's the time when it's all worth it."

Ken's "Flemington modified" is a racing oddity. "This is a one-track car," he said. "This is the only place you can race 'em — a white elephant kind of thing." Flemington is the only asphalt-track racing series for New England paved tracks. "When Flemington paved their track (2½ years ago), they picked up on this type of car," Ken explains. "In the middle of last year, DIRT canceled their asphalt series, so Flemington is the only track left in the country that runs these kinds of cars. It's a one-of-a-kind oddity."

Don't let

on Bette

Talented stars wasted in Disney's dreadful 'Hocus Pocus'

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

It's been said that nobody sets out to make a bad movie. The person who said that had obviously never seen Hocus

Pocus.

Consider: you've got a juicy, tantalizing premise, in which three 17th century witches are resurrected one Halloween night by a skeptical teenager (Omri Katz), and have to deal with the 1990s. Add dream casting for the witches: Kathy Najimy (Sister Act) and Sarah Jessica Parker (Honeymoon in Vegas) as the backup witches and — get this — Bette Midler as the head witch. Great, right?

Um...the only problem here is that the filmmakers, chiefly screenwriters Mick Gazzo, Neil Cuthbert and David Kirschner and director Kenny Ortega (Newsies) have made a grievous error — they've made the witches evil. And if there's one thing you want to do when you go to a Bette Midler comedy, it's root for Bette Midler.

But that's not all. They've buried Bette and her "sisters" under tons of makeup and costumes that leave them crippled, unable to move with any subtlety. Midler, especially, is saddled with a pair of buck teeth that, coupled with a strange British accent which is supposed to be very 1600s, leaves her looking and sounding like a demented Eleanor Roosevelt. If that's your idea of funny.

Chief among the problems of reviewing a film like this is that it's going to sound funnier than it actually is. The movie itches with its constant endangering of children (one little girl is actually murdered by the witches and her brother condemned to eternal torment, all in the first five minutes), its concentration on tired plot devices and relatively bland special effects, is less amusing than it is just unpleasant to watch.

Because it comes from Walt Disney Pictures and because of its overall childish ones, Hocus Pocus is being marketed as a kid picture. And to be fair, the older children present at the showing I attended seemed at least to be caught up in the story. When the sun begins to rise to foil the witches at the last second, one was heard to yell "all right!" As if we had a shred of doubt.

But younger kids, say 5 or under, were also clearly scared by some of the goings-on, even those intended to be slapstick humor. A zombie summoned by the witches to help them out is constantly getting parts of his body broken off, and a cat is run over by a bus at one point (he revives himself). Some of the smaller kids were crying.

It's all by-the-numbers plot construction: we first meet the witches in their original incarnations for background, then are thrust into the world of Max (Katz), a contemporary teenager transplanted against his will (by his typically brain-dead parents) from Los Angeles to Salem, Mass. He's the one at school who doesn't buy the legend of the Sanders sisters, and in order to win the heart (and other parts) of a pretty classmate (Vinessa Shaw), he offers to go to their house on Halloween night to prove the whole thing is hogwash.

The filmmakers...have made a grievous error

After being bullied by a couple of escapees from Wayne's World, Max gets the ball rolling and lets the witches out of their 300 year imprisonment. Just when you want to see Midler shake a few ol' webs loose and take on 20th century mores, you get more plot construction: the witches must suck the life out of all the children in Salem by dawn, or perish at sunup. That should pretty much kill the suspense for you right there.

Parker and Najimy, both of whom have been quoted as saying the only reason they took these roles was to work with Midler, are given types — not characters — to play. Parker shows off her cleavage and flirts with everybody as the dumb but cute one, and Najimy mostly sniffs the air and growls as the, yes, hungry one.

Let's put it this way: if the sight of a witch flying away on a vacuum cleaner strikes you as an original joke, by all means go see Hocus Pocus. If, on the other hand, you remember that one all the way back to Bugs Bunny, you might want to skip it.

Video rewind

'Rich in Love'

Rich in Love is one of those movies that's obviously made from a "woman's novel." It's set in the South, of course, and features a teenage girl coming of age. Ho-hum. With Albert Finney, Jill Clayburgh, Alfre Woodard and Kyle MacLachlan, of all people, as the normal guy. Kathryn Erbe plays the girl, and everybody talks about the meaning of "luuv" a lot. Whatever.

'Riff Raff'

Nobody talks about "luuv" in Riff Raff, a comedy/drama set in the north of England, about a group of construction workers and their lives, loves and horsing around. It's entertaining enough for a while, but some unpleasant things happen, and it doesn't end so much as stop. One odd note: although everybody speaks English (albeit with thick Scouse accents), the cassette features subtitles. In English. And they don't always match. Don't they think we notice?

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Let your creative engines surge this week, and you'll get the answers you need about work, love or money. You might even want to hang out a shingle. You give testimony to what can be accomplished by ingenuity mixed with will.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As an earth sign, you are always grounded, and right now, you're out to prove just that. Attempts at shaking up the status quo have you boiling with passion. You may need a couple of days off from all the intensity. Phew!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Imagine life without talk, writing or any other form of communication. That's the isolation you might need toward the end of this week. Sorry, dear Gemini, -- looks like you said too much and, uh, put your foot in your mouth. You'd prefer fun, alone, or with another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You make resolutions about money one more time and decide to show you really mean it. Conversations this week are wild with loved ones. It'd be better to say little, and let your actions speak. Count on a nice, quiet, inexpensive weekend at home.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You are your magnetic self as the sun moves into your sign. You want everyone with you to celebrate -- your birthday, the new boss, or whatever. Yes, you sure put on a good party this weekend. Enjoy the spotlight and put on.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Contact a pal who can keep a secret, because, wow, do you have a whopper. Popularity peaks just before the weekend and ultimately dips because you simply can't say yes to everyone. Difficult being so desirable, isn't it?

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Examine what your best interests really are, or you'll find yourself deep in the doghouse this week. The good news is that it's a relatively short stay, and you'll exit grinning and all the better for the rest. Oddly enough, you clearly made your point even if you were in a forced submission. Lap up all the apologies this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Do notice (subtly) that others are noticing you this week. Put your best foot forward at both work and play. You may receive an unusual offer that allows you to split early. Don't be responsible, go. You can have it all right now, so why not?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You are so fanciful, Sag. It must be difficult to stay in town this week. Nevertheless, the boss demands high performance, and that is what you give. The spotlight is on you, so take bows for a job well done. You find time to celebrate this weekend. Any excuse will do.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) It's been said that more people fail for lack of purpose than lack of talent. Not you, as you can be a tough negotiator when you know what you want. Your expertise is in demand all week as others keep calling for your ability to find solutions. Expect to be on call all weekend, too!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) The ball is NOT in your court this week, but, frankly, you don't care. You go with others and their plans. Popularity is high right now, so the passivity isn't all that bad. If you know what's good for you, make extra time for a special someone. You clear out this weekend and go for the escape. Enjoy. You deserve.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Plunge into work this week and demonstrate you are quite capable of handling fairy tale weekends. The less said to co-workers about the romantic times, the better. You'll gain both professionally and emotionally if you learn to sort the work from the play. And hold on tight -- it is a lulu of a weekend!

'Free Willy' is a whale of a good time for kids

The Daily News

Jami Bernard

"Surprise! This entry...is cute without making you choke, affecting without depleting your hanky supply...Australian director (Simon) Wincer anthropomorphizes the whale until Willy seems more human than the humans. But it works, because of the whales, who are the film's true stars. That's clear from the start, with lovely footage of them playing and having a whale of a time."

The New York Post

Michael Medved

"The only real surprise in this creaky material is how well it all works — especially for kids. Young moviegoers above the age of 5 will find themselves crying and cheering at the appropriate moments, together with the more sentimental and susceptible among their parents."

The New York Times

Vincent Canby

"Willy is played with startling docility by the star attraction at a marine park in Mexico City, where all his scenes were shot...The film is nicely acted by Mr. (Jason James) Richter and his older associates, including Lori Petty, who plays a warm-hearted marine biologist, and Jayne Atkinson and Michael Madsen, as the childless couple who come to love Jesse, and through him, Willy."

USA Today

Mike Clark

"As children's animal pics go, Free Willy is a lot closer to The Yearling...than to Jurassic Park...One can't say anything seriously against it, other than to note that it's the kind of good-for-you outing grandmothers still persist in dragging youngsters to, even kids who'd rather be seeing The Untouchables again."

Jason James Richter plays a troubled youth who finds a rather unusual friendship with a killer whale in Free Willy.

Opera star returns to her roots

Somerset's Fredricka von Stade coming home for concert at Waterloo

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Opera star Fredricka von Stade rarely gets the chance to perform in her native Garden State, so naturally, the Somerset County native is looking forward to her Waterloo Festival of the Arts debut on Saturday.

"Growing up in Oldwick was so wonderful, I think part of me has been searching for it ever since. I go back to the fields around my grandmother's house in my mind all the time," said the world-renowned mezzo-soprano, who now lives in Alameda, Ca., an island community near Oakland that has been her husband's family home for three generations. "I really will sound exceedingly corny about it, but I loved it. It was a kind and generous community and I thought everyone was my aunt and uncle."

Born "in the corridors" of Somerville Medical Center, "Flicka," as she's known to her friends, spent many of her childhood years living in Washington D.C., "but we spent every summer and vacation in Oldwick and in Far Hills because my grandmother lived on Long Lane."

"It was really a magic time of my life. I had a very big hill and lake in Far Hills. We used to go swimming in the Black River, and Mrs. Brady's pool -- of course, that was before everyone there had a pool -- and ice skating on the river. I remember the fire department would spray the ice so it would be nice and smooth."

"It was the kind of childhood I don't think exists anymore because of the world we live in. We had to show up for meals -- that was about it -- and the rest of the time we were off playing in the barns and in the hay, and getting into trouble, too!"

The community was also there for her as a young adult, when "all of my mother's friends would come any time I would make a peep onstage."

These days, she only has a few relatives and friends still living in the area.

"An uncle, my godmother, and your new governor is a friend of mine," she said, referring to gubernatorial candidate Christine Todd Whitman, adding with a laugh, "Well, maybe the new governor. I'm sure she will be."

But she's hoping to make some old acquaintances at Waterloo, where she's never performed, but she remembers her grandmother taking her there to see -- and fall in love with -- the magical voice of Marilyn Horne.

Saturday, conductor Yoav Talmi will lead the orchestra through such works as Ravel's Daphnis and Chloe Suites Nos. 1 and 2 and incidental music from Bizet's L'Arlesienne. The orchestra will then be joined by von Stade, who will sing six of the 19 Songs of the Cycle by Camille Saint-Saëns, along with arias by Meyerbeer, Thomas and Offenbach.

FREDRICKA von STADE w/THE WATERLOO FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA Saturday, July 24, 8:30 p.m., at Waterloo Village, Stanhope. Tickets $20-$10. (201) 347-4700.

World-famous mezzo-soprano and Somerset County native Fredricka von Stade will make her debut at the Waterloo Festival of the Arts Saturday.

Guitarist brings 'Midwestern Jazz' to Westfield

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Ironically, Westfield may be the birthplace of something that's come to be labeled as "Midwestern Jazz."

That's because Westfield is the adopted home of jazz guitarist Glenn Alexander, who was born and raised in Kansas before seeking his musical muse in and around the Big Apple.

"My family is still in Kansas, but I'm a Jersey guy now," said Alexander, 35, who's lived for the past six years in Westfield with his wife, Laura. "I like where I'm living, I have a nice little piece of property with woods in the back. And it's close to New York, which I feel I need to be, so I think I'm here to stay."

And he'll celebrate the release of his debut on Shanachie Records Saturday, July 24, with a hometown, in-store appearance at the Music Staff record store, 9 Elm St., where he'll perform selections from his new album Rainbow's Revenge, which features several of the jazz greats he's played with during the past few years.

The Rainbow's Revenge roster, in fact, includes a jazz Who's Who, including former Weather Report percussionist Manolo Badrena, Pat Metheny bassist Mark Egan and bassist Dave LaRue and keyboardist T. Lavitz of Dixie Dregs fame.

Other jazz greats Alexander has recorded or toured with include guitarist Allan Holdsworth, drummer Dan Gottlieb, violinist L.

Shankar (who's played with everyone from Frank Zappa and John McLaughlin and is currently on tour with Peter Gabriel), horn player Randy Brecker and percussionist Mino Cinelu (who's played with Miles Davis and Sting). Alexander also played on the We Remember Pastorius tribute album with Gabriel, Shankar, Stewart Copeland and Bruce Springsteen, among others.

Brecker and Cinelu, in fact, played on Alexander's debut solo album in 1987, an ill-fated project that, as often happens, provided publicity and good notices, but little profit for the young artist.

His first project for Shanachie, a rising label based in Newton, was the 1987 album Inside Out, when Alexander, Gottlieb, LaRue and Lavitz were billed as a band called The Connection.

But locally, Alexander may be best known for his work with the band Stretch, a jazz-fusion trio featuring LaRue and drummer Bill Elder. Stretch recorded an album and toured nationally, but also had a regular Wednesday gig for years in the '80s at the Court Tavern in New Brunswick, where Alexander is planning a CD release party July 29.

"I had a record release party on the 14th of June in New York, and we had a packed house," he said. "But I really wanted to play at the court. I like that funky little joint."

A graduate of Wichita St., where he later taught guitar and studied under the legendary Jerry Hahn, Alexander first landed in Jersey City upon his arrival from the east a little more than 10 years ago.

"After playing with Jerry Hahn, I had pretty much played with the best there is out there. There wasn't much left to do. After I made a couple of trips to New York City, it just became apparent this was the spot to be. I didn't want to live in the city, so I packed up the van and the trailer, threw the dog in, and moved to Jersey."

"It was pretty dim for a few months, but pretty early on I landed a gig with a famous drummer named Chico Hamilton, who's played with everybody from Duke Ellington to Lena Horne. That was a great gig, we played the Kool Jazz Festival and Carnegie Hall but it wasn't paying the rent."

He supplemented his income with a few country and pop jobs, some of which required commuting to Los Angeles and touring on the West Coast, helped, but "Then I finally decided this road crap, playing music I wasn't into. So I just bagged it, came home and proceeded to starve for the next two years. I figured out a lot of ways to eat rice and beans."

But these days, he's an accepted member of the jazz elite, fronting an all-instrumental band that features not only his considerable talents (his diverse style has drawn comparisons to Metheny), but that of his musical friends, making Rainbow's Revenge a satisfying treat for just about any fan of contemporary instrumental jazz.

After growing up and obtaining a music degree in his native Kansas, jazz guitarist Glenn Alexander sought fame and fortune in New York. Now a resident of Westfield, Alexander has a new album he'll feature during an in-store concert appearance at the Music Staff record store in Westfield Saturday.

Rockin' the country

Modern country stars teaming up for big show at the GSAC

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Country music's mission to capture the Metropolitan area continues Sunday as a powerful lineup featuring Travis Tritt, Trisha Yearwood and Little Texas pulls into the Garden State Arts Center.

Actually, the Budweiser-sponsored concert is part of a massive, 110-city tour that began in February and doesn't end until New Year's Eve. But Duane Propes, bassist for Little Texas, acknowledged that the Tri-State area is still considered an lucrative, but elusive market, at least compared to other regions of the country that have warmed up to country music in recent years.

Little Texas perhaps isn't the best representative of the country sound, given their pop-rock leanings and trademark long hair look, but Propes was quick to point out that country is more of an orientation than a musical style, anyway. "What do you think country music is supposed to sound like?" he asked during a recent phone interview.

His point being "new country" artists, who grew up listening to Elvis and the Beatles, and later, bands like the Eagles and Lynyrd Skynyrd, have a different orientation than the previous generation. Now, the members of Little Texas, who already have a No. 1 single ("Some Guys Have All the Love") and are all still in their '20s, have the opportunity to put their own stamp on the evolution of country, a process they've continued with their latest album, the optimistically-titled Big Time.

"We say it ain't your grandfather's country," he said. "We're not big believers in steel guitars and twin fiddles, but that's what we're up against in that area — people saying it's not country, but really it is, or what it's coming to — the '70s rock influence but with the stylism of country. I think the days of twang and a guy standing in a cowboy hat behind a microphone are over. Nobody wants to hear it anymore, and none of the younger artists want to play it."

But it is enjoyable sharing the stage with modern country legends like Tritt and Yearwood. It's also fun, said Propes, to break out of the club scene and into major halls and outdoor concerts, including an outdoor gig in Phoenix that drew 125,000. "Where a lot of people feel awkward playing a place that big, that's our forte," he said. "The more people we have in front of us, the better we feel about it."

TRAVIS TRITT/TRISHA YEARWOOD/LITTLE TEXAS Sunday, July 25, 8 p.m. at the Garden State Arts Center, Garden State Parkway exit 116, Holmdel. Tickets $17 (lawn only). (908) 442-9200.

Travis Tritt (left), Trisha Yearwood and Little Texas (below) will bring the sounds of modern country music to the Garden State Arts Center Sunday.

The world in pictures

'Life' photojournalist Alfred Eisenstaedt's historic images to be exhibited in Woodbridge

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Back before the days of television, many Americans saw the world through the eyes of Life magazine photographers like Alfred Eisenstaedt.

With 86 Life covers to his credit, Eisenstaedt is one of the most visible photographers in history. And for those of you who were too young to see most of his photos — or for those who desire to see them again — it's time to head to the Circle Gallery at Woodbridge Center, where an exhibition of his works will be on display starting Friday.

Famous for his sensitive portraits of celebrities and world leaders such as Marilyn Monroe, John F. Kennedy and Winston Churchill, Eisenstaedt, it is claimed, has had more of his photos published than any photographer in history. Born in Dirschau, West Prussia, in 1898, he began taking photos in 1914 in Europe, Africa and the Middle East before joining the original photo staff at Life in 1936, a staff that included Margaret Bourke-White and Peter Stackpole.

One of his most famous works, titled "V-J Day, Times Square, 1945," was honored as one of the "Ten Greatest Images of Photojournalism" in Time magazine's 150 Years of Photojournalism.

Eisenstaedt has also featured his work in many books, while his photos have also been displayed in countless exhibitions, including one at the Museum of Modern Art. In 1989, Eisenstaedt was on hand for the opening of a major exhibition of his limited edition photos at the Circle Gallery-Soho in New York. And now, the Circle Gallery of Woodbridge Center, part of the Circle Fine Art Corp., is also featuring many of those limited edition works through Aug. 15.

Admission is free to the exhibition. Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m., Monday-Saturday, and 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (908) 636-7710.

DINING

The court, at the mall

*Begin your evening with a light dinner
at Nordstrom's*

By MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

Nordstrom's Garden Court Restaurant in the Menlo Park Mall is a bright and comfortable dining room. As its name implies, the atmosphere resembles an outside garden court.

There is white lattice, ivy, palms and live plants throughout. Diners are seated at cafe tables with cushioned metal armchairs, or at a banquettes located on both sides of the dining room.

An interesting feature was the small black bowl with fresh carnations and baby's breath flowers at each table. I was told that the flowers are changed daily.

The Garden Court menu is small. It offers lighter choices, sandwiches, salads and entrees. The "Lighter side" menu includes vegetable soup ($2.50) and salads ($3); soup, salad and sandwich for $7.95 or a quiche and salad ($7.95) or a Sante Fe for $6.95.

There are six sandwiches ($6.95-$8.95) with choices of steak, turkey club, grilled chicken arugula, shrimp salad and the traditional hamburger. Some salads (five selections), can be ordered as an entree ($5.95-$8.95) or as an appetizer ($4.95-$6.25).

I can list all the entrees starting with penne pasta ($8.95), wild mushroom pasta ($9.95), shrimp and scallop provencale ($12.95), pasta primavera ($7.95), chicken dijon ($8.95), potato crusted salmon ($12.95) and New York steak for $14.95.

For appetizers my husband had the courtyard greens ($3 or $1.75 if ordered with an entree) of radicchio, red oak and Boston bibb lettuce in a light vinaigrette. I had the arugula salad for $4.95. This was tossed with a blue cheese vinaigrette and topped with caramelized onions.

My husband chose the salmon fillet wrapped in crisp potatoes, with fresh tarragon and tomato fresca ($12.95). His order surprised me because he usually doesn't eat fish.

I in turn ordered the wild mushroom pasta of fettucini tossed in a light sauce of tomato, fresh basil, shitake and cremini mushrooms

SHARON WILSON/WEEKENDPLUS

Nordstrom's Garden Court Restaurant at the Menlo Park Mall is a popular destination for diners on their way to the movies or nearby Plays-in-the-Park performances.

($9.95). This was a dish he would normally ask for.

The salmon was light and flaky and tasted fresh. I know because my husband asked me to try some. He said he had nothing to compare it with. I thought it was very good.

My pasta dish was also very good. The sauce was light enough to enhance the taste of the fresh basil and the mushrooms. I ate all of it.

My husband had the toasted pound cake and vanilla ice cream for dessert ($3.25). A cup of coffee was enough for me.

The Garden Court offers theater tickets (both movie and plays in the park nearby) at reduced prices. Inquire about them at the entrance to the dining room. We noticed several people eating the large salads as entrees. They make a nice light meal for someone planning to take in a movie for the night.

If you haven't been to the recently-renovated Menlo Park Mall, it's worth a trip to see how attractive it now is. And if you go, stop in a Nordstrom's Garden Court for a lovely meal. The setting is relaxing, the food light and tasty, and the prices extremely reasonable.

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

Many readers have been writing me, asking me to "go out on a limb" and discuss New Jersey wines. People who know me well know that I have long been a champion of all East Coast wines, New Jersey wines in particular. I simply love a success story! It does my heart good to know that more and more New Jersey-ans are taking their state's wine industry seriously.

So, why can't you find more of these wines in your local wine stores? Well, there's always been the problem of people not buying them when they were displayed. But, let's assume that we are in a turn-around stage where this is concerned. There is the additional problem of some New Jersey wineries not being able to produce enough wine to cover the entire state. Only a few of the 14 local wineries are large enough to fill volume orders. If you're lucky, through, you will be able to find several gems - like the following bottles:

A sparkling Rkatzitelli, which was a joint venture between Sylvin Farm and Tomasello Winery, took this year's Governor's Cup at the New Jersey Wine Competition. The Rkatzitelli grape is a cold hearty variety whose origins come from Russia. According to Dr. Frank Salek, winemaker of Sylvin Farm, this is one grape he can count on even when other varieties have surrendered to late frosts. The flavors are intriguing, fresh and definitely worth seeking out.

Sylvin Farm also has Pinot Noir and Cabernet Sauvignon bottlings that should finally quell arguments that New Jersey can't produce serious red wine. Their Merlot is fabulously full of fruit, acidic and balanced with soft round tannins. The Cabernet Franc is a lighter style red, with good, young berry flavors and a clean finish. Of course, the lively, bright Sauvignon Blanc is not to be forgotten - it has all the herbal, citrus notes you've hoped for, and tremendous acidity.

Next week, we'll look into a few more of New Jersey's finest.

Enjoy!

SUMMER DINING

229 William Street
 Piscataway, NJ
 (908) 752-1240

Headquarters Cafe in Piscataway is a great place for good times & good food. Friday night is Comedy Night. If you're not interested you may want to sit at the large bar & watch one of the five TV sets, or stop in for a cocktail after work.

But what you can't do is eat lightly! They serve you so much food, and in such large quantities, that eating lightly means only picking at the food in front of you.

The Cafe's menu has a little bit of everything. They have six appetizers ($4-$4.95) including nachos, wings and Mexican chicken. In addition, there are four salads ($5.50-$5.85 for a Caesar salad with chicken), five side orders ($1.50-$2.50 for homestyle onion rings) and a different soup each day.

Sandwiches include ranch chicken ($4.95), sloppy Joes ($4.50) and chicken tenders ($5.25). They also offer five stuffed pocket choices ($4.75-$4.95), and seven different kinds of half-pound burgers ($4.75-$5.25).

Entrees on the menu include a T-bone or broiled fish ($6.75) and an item called chicken heaven ($5.95). They also offer pasta primavera and pesto ($5.50) each. The nightly specials are hand written (with prices) and include prime rib ($7.95), T-bone ($8.95) broiled haddock or salmon ($8.95), Maryland crab cakes ($7.95) and several seafood items.

Each entree is served with potatoes (mashed, homestyle fries, curly fries and baked), choice of vegetable, (peas or broccoli) and salad with several dressings to choose from. The most expensive item on the menu was $6.75, and, on the special menu, $8.95.

If you order appetizers, the macho nacho platter ($4.75) with refried beans and fried zucchini ($4). There is more than enough for four people.

The Cafe has just added a male Revue on Tuesday Nights 9 P.M. $5 Cover charge.

The Headquarters Cafe is not for everyone. I say that because the only separation between the bar and the dining area is a brass rail divider. The dining area, however, is nicely decorated with hanging plants, mirrored walls and green lamps hanging over each table. The tables are wood and the seats are captain chairs.

It is very informal, as it should be, with the bar so close. But if things like that don't bother you, it certainly wasn't a problem for us, then you might enjoy eating at the Headquarters Cafe. We did. Besides, you can't beat the prices and quantity of food served.

COACH N' PADDOCK

The Coach N' Paddock is no longer Hunterdon County's best kept secret. From the looks of the parking lot it is apparent that many people know of the fine quality food and service at this landmark restaurant.

This restaurant features German/ Continental cuisine served in the atmosphere of an old rustic country inn.

The facility is large and can seat 550 customers in eight dining rooms which are available for ala carte dining or private parties in rooms that can accommodate affairs of 10 people or large corporate functions or weddings of 200.

The ala carte menu has well rounded selections of appetizers, soups, salads, pastas, international dishes, fresh seafood entrees, and many veal, chicken and steak choices.

In keeping with its German/Continental theme, the Coach N' Paddock serves excellent German Sauerbraten with Burgunder Cabbage and homemade potato dumpling. Other delicious German specialties include Wiener Schnitzel, Jaeger Schnitzel, and Rahm Schnitzel all served with homemade spaetzle (a homemade German noodle made of flour and egg which is boiled then pan sauteed).

Try their Caesar salad, Chateaubriand, rack of lamb or Steak Diane. All prepared and served tableside (Friday and Saturday, time permitting).

They use only the finest ingredients. Plum De Veau Veal, Grain Fed Beef, fresh fish and vegetables. All dishes are prepared to order and all food is cooked from scratch.

There is a "Specials Board" in the lobby. Your server will explain their ingredients and preparation.

"Family Style" servings include in the menu price a small cottage cheese and herb appetizer, salad, potato (or starch), vegetable bread and butter.

Don't miss the extensive dessert menu which includes German specialties like Black Forest Cake, Schwarzwaldbecher (an ice cream dish with black bing cherries, cherry brandy and lots of fresh whipped cream, German Chocolate Cake, Chambord Tort, Samoca Ice Cream (Coffee Ice cream doused with Sambuca). Finish this off with Espresso, Cappacino or German Reudisheim coffee (coffee laced with brown sugar, Asbach Uralt brandy, topped with whipped cream and chocolate.

The wine list is well rounded, and reasonably priced with a good selection of red and white wines from California, Italy, France and Germany. A good variety of bottled wines served by the glass are also available.

The Coach N' Paddock is located four miles west of Clinton at Exit 12 off Route 78 on Route 173 West. Open for lunch Monday to Saturday 11:30 to 4:00. Dinner Monday to Saturday 4:00 to 10:00 and Sunday for dinner from 12:00 N to 9:00. Sunday Brunch is very popular and available from 12:00 to 3:00 for $11.95.

All Major Credit Cards are accepted AMX, V, MC, CB, DC.
