Briefs

NJAWBO meeting is Sept. 14

The New Jersey Association of Business Owners (NJAWBO), Union County Chapter, will hold a dinner meeting Tuesday, Sept. 14 at the Westwood, 438 North Ave. in Garwood at 6 p.m.. Cost for the meeting is $22 for members and $28 for non-members. For information call Miriam Skarr at 889-8973.

Support group for singles

A support group for separated, divorced and widowed individuals is holding meetings at 7 p.m. on the second and fourth Sundays of each month at St. Helen's Parish Center, 1600 Rahway Ave. in Westfield. For information call Bob Laudati at 322-8862 after 8 p.m.

Special award for school board

Washington Rock Girl Scout council recently presented the Community Service Award to the Westfield Board of Education in recognition of outstanding cooperation and support the school system has given to Girl Scouting. The presentation was made at Washington Rock Girl Scout Council's Awards and Recognition dinner held June 8. More than 200 adult Girl Scout members attended the function.

An invitation to laugh

You are invited to join Toastmasters of Westfield Humorous Speech Contest Thursday, Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. at the Fanwood train station. Refreshments will be served. For more information 889-1890.

Foreign film festival concludes

The Memorial Library Thursday evening foreign film festival ends tonight with a 7:30 p.m. showing in the meeting room. Tonight's film is: Adam's Rib (Russian 1992) — A wonderfully wry Soviet comedy about three generations of women living in nerve-jangling proximity to one another.

Senior housing meeting is Sept. 2

Two community meetings will be held at the Westfield Senior Citizen Housing facility, 1133 Boynton Ave. tonight and Sept. 2, 7 p.m. in the community room. The purpose of the meetings is to give the public an opportunity to learn firsthand about the new senior housing to be built adjacent to the existing housing.

Thrift Shop reopens Sept. 8

The Westfield Service Leagues Thrift and Consignment Shops, located at 114 Elmer St. will reopen for business Sept. 8. The thrift shop will be open for registration and receiving Sept. 8-9, 9:30-10:45 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Proceeds from the shop are donated to local charities.

Cancer Care seeks office volunteers

Cancer Care of New Jersey is seeking volunteers for its Milburn office at 241 Milburn Ave. The volunteers are needed to help with the daily office work such as typing letters, answering phones and other related tasks. If interested call Pat Connolly at (201)379-7500.

Cancer Care is a non-profit, non-sectarian social service organization established in 1944 to help cancer patients, their friends cope with devastating impact of cancer.

Central Ave. will be closed next week

By BOB SULLIVAN
THE CHRONICLE

Police expect some traffic snarls next week while a major traffic artery through central Westfield is closed to traffic.

Union County workers on Monday will shut down the Central Avenue Bridge near Terminal Avenue in Clark at 9 a.m. for "emergency repairs." The construction will affect travelers heading into and out of the center of Westfield.

Cars and trucks will be re-routed around the area in two different directions, said Capt. Owen McCabe. He added repairs could take two-days days.

Repairs in Clark force detour on south side

About a one-mile section of Central Avenue will be closed to through traffic.

Cars travelling south out of town on Central Avenue will be detoured in a half circle to the west to avoid the construction area. Drivers will be forced to turn right on Grove onto Central Avenue.

Cars and trucks travelling north will still follow separate routes, simply reversing the above detours.

Capt. McCabe said Westfield police officers will be posted at the intersection of South and Central avenues and Rahway Avenue and Grove Street to assist in directing traffic. Regular duty officers will be used for the first two days, he said, but should the construction take longer, off-duty police may be used.

County engineer Armand Fiorletti said in an official statement that the repairs will be completed in "approximately two days."

"We apologize for the inconvenience this will cause. However, if these repairs are not made, then the risk of the bridge being closed for an indefinite period can arise. The work is being performed during the summertime, when school is out and traffic flows are lighter."

Churches ransacked

By BOB SULLIVAN
THE CHRONICLE

Two churches were ransacked by burglars overnight Friday and Saturday. At press time, the churches did not know what had been taken, but police believe the crime was a simple burglary, not a religiously-motivated attack.

Inside the First United Methodist Church on East Broad Street, police found a half-eaten, cooked chicken in the microwave oven and a pitcher of lemonade. A window on the west side of the church had been smashed open to gain entry to the church, and police found a blood stain on the sidewalk. Inside the church, small door windows were smashed as the burglar or burglars made their way through the building.

A similar method was used inside the First Congregational Church on Almer Street, but police don't know how the suspects entered that building. Police found Marlboro cigarette butts at both churches.

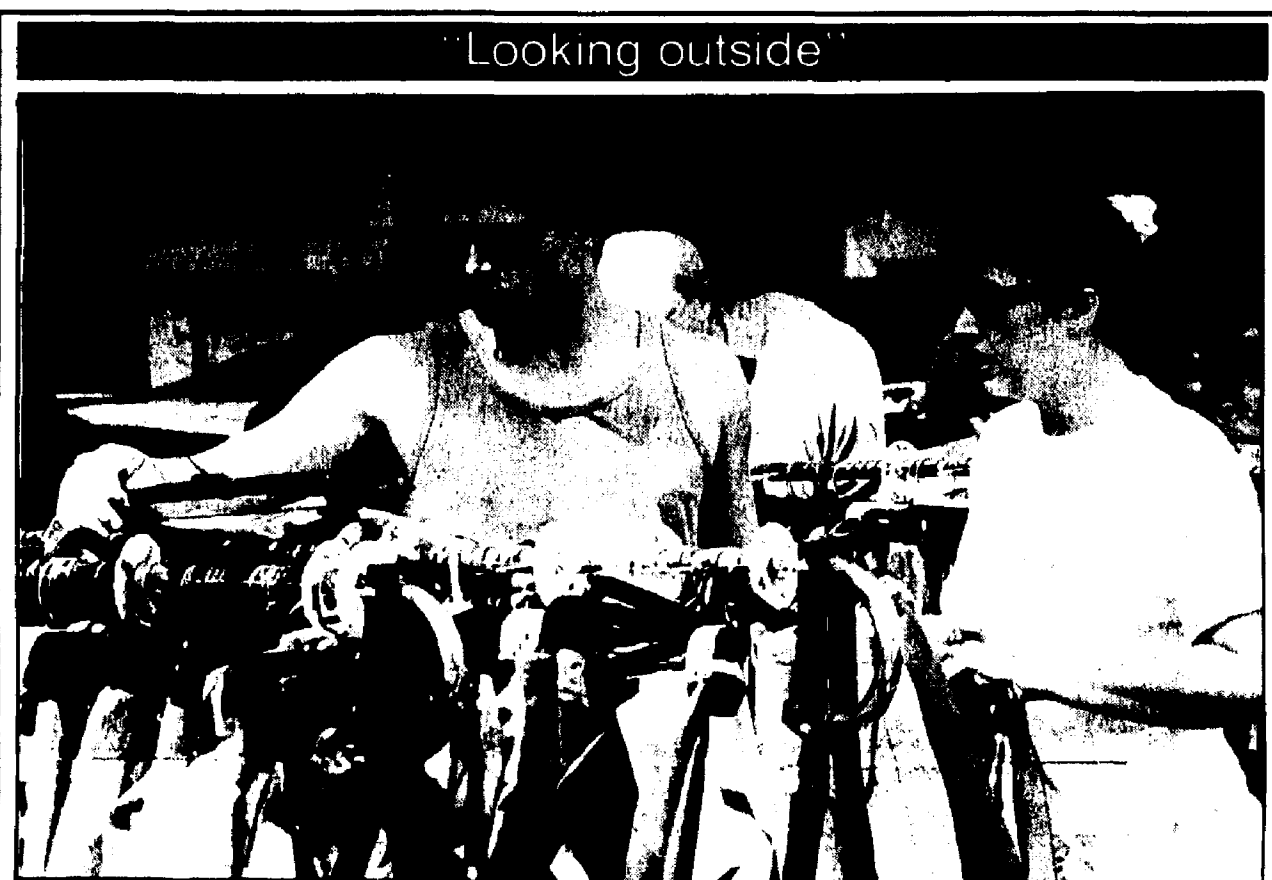

Homeowners, police foil 2 burglaries

A Central Avenue resident foiled a house burglary Aug. 12 when she stumbled upon the burglar in her home's first floor.

The suspect, Thomas Ball, 56, of Westfield, had performed several odd jobs at the home prior to the incident.

The victim said she spotted the man in her home pulling a wallet out of her purse. She grabbed it from him, then called police at 8:45 p.m., according to her report. Mr. Ball had entered the home through an unlocked kitchen door, police said. He was sent to Union County Jail after failing to post $10,000 bail.

Kenneth Süth, 46, of Westfield, was arrested and charged with attempted burglary after police saw him banging at the rear of a Myrtle Avenue home Sunday evening. (Please turn to page A-2)

A few hours of rain Friday evening didn't dampen the Westfield downtown sidewalk sale this weekend, according to Westfield Chamber of Commerce president Catherine Brohier. Though some retailers said business was not as busy as some past years, and less merchants participated, the chamber president said the sale was a success. "Considering we didn't do a lot of promotions, everyone was happy with the amount of traffic we generated," she said.

Westfield youths rendezvous with John Paul II

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Devotion to their faith brought Westfield High School students Tara Corno and Tara McEnerney half-way across the country last week in the name of their church.

The two young members of the Church of St. Helen's were part of a select few who got the opportunity to travel to Denver, Colo., where Pope John Paul II was visiting the U.S.

The two young women were chosen through their involvement with the youth program at St. Helen's. As peer ministers, they lead small groups in discussion about their beliefs and feelings about their faith. Of all the youths at St. Helen's, Ms. Corno and Ms. McEnerney were chosen because of their leadership qualities, their enthusiasm, and their devotion.

"They are both the cheerleader type of person, they draw other people into things," said Cathy Ochs, head youth minister at St. Helen's.

Ms. Corno said she was amazed from the moment she found out she was going to see the Pope.

"It was like shock, all I could think was — Why me? Why did I get picked?" said Ms. Corno.

During the last year, the two young women have been meeting with others around the state who were also planning to go to Denver. It was through these meetings that Tara McEnerney was chosen by Archbishop Theodore McCarrick as one of two people to represent the Newark Archdiocese.

According to Ms. Ochs, Tara McEnerney was singled out as a youth delegate because she was very active in these meetings and very outspoken.

"She became recognized as a leader, they saw her enthusiasm and her good thoughts and opinions about her faith," Ms. Ochs said.

Ms. Corno and Ms. McEnerney arrived in Colorado last Tuesday and immediately began their World Youth Day activities by attending Masses led by Archbishops from various countries.

Tara Corno recalled her amazement at the opening Mass: "All around us there were people from all over the world and as we were walking everyone around us was greeting us. The whole thing was just amazing, I had chills up and down my spine the whole time."

The Pope arrived on Thursday and was greeted by President Bill Clinton and a limited crowd of about 500. Although the young Catholics from Westfield could not be part of this group, their time to see the Pope was soon to come.

It was at a special Mass Saturday morning at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception that Tara McEnerney was able to meet the Pope. (Please turn to page A-2)

Tara Corno and Tara McEnerney of St. Helen's Parish were in Denver last weekend for the papal visit of John Paul II.

Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe, sitting, looks over plans for the Main Street Program with Westfield resident B. Carol Molnar; J. Scott Beresford and Robert G. Cox of Summit Bank; and Robert Newell, Chairman of the Westfield Downtown Committee. Ms. Molnar, also an employee of Summit Bank, recently worked to have her corporation donated funds to Westfield's Main Street effort.

Summit Bank invests in downtown

Committee member helps secure donation from employer

Westfield resident and Downtown committee member B. Carol Molnar Esq., was instrumental recently in obtaining a donation to support Westfield's Main Street revitalization program.

The pledge, to be awarded over three years, is from Ms. Molnar's employer, Summit Bank, where she works in the loan administration department at the headquarters office in Chatham.

Westfield was one of only four towns to be accepted by the state agency, New Jersey Heritage, into the Main Street New Jersey program for 1993.

As a private citizen, a public servant and an employee of a community-oriented corporation interested in promoting the betterment of Westfield, Ms. Molnar said, "Being a member of the Westfield Planning Board, I was involved in the development of our town's new master plan which will enhance the quality of life in town and will facilitate revitalization efforts in the central business district. Main Street Westfield is a downtown revitalization program which will help the town enhance the economic base, retail mix, appearance, and image of the business district.

"As a corporate citizen, Summit Bank invests in community projects such as Main Street, which encourage positive growth, economic development and social well-being," Ms. Molnar said.

A second-generation, lifelong Westfield resident, Ms. Molnar also devotes many hours to the Board of Education, where she is currently serving her second three-year term; to Westfield's Planning Board; to the Westfield Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee; and to the Friends of Mindowaskin Park.

"I am proud to be associated with these civic groups and with Summit Bank," Ms. Molnar said.

She and her husband, Allen Molnar Esq., a Florham Park attorney specializing in banking and corporate law, have two daughters, Amy, 11, and Meg, 7.

Summit Bank, headquartered in Summit, chartered in 1891, operates 66 commercial banking offices in Bergen, Essex, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Ocean and Union Counties.

'Comeback Kid' to drive fund

In the United Fund's opinion, Roger Love is the organization's "Comeback Kid."

"That's what Linda calls me," Mr. Love said with a laugh, referring to Linda Maggio, executive director of the Westfield United Fund.

Twenty years ago, Mr. Love served as a chairman to the United Fund Drive.

"Emerson Thomas talked me into it," he said, "when I was serving with him on the Westfield YMCA board."

And who talked Mr. Love into accepting the same post two decades later?

"Emerson Thomas," he said.

Mr. Love points out that "the same faces" have been the key operatives in local campaigns and, with many of those individuals retiring and moving out of town, "We've got to bring new business people and others into the campaign."

Mr. Love's ties to the town should enable him to realize those objectives. A fourth generation Westfielder and an alumnus of Westfield High School, where he was on the basketball team, Mr. Love has owned Century 21 Taylor & Love Inc., a real estate firm here, for almost 20 years. His co-chairman, Doug Schwarz, also is a Westfield native.

"When they asked me to consider serving as chairman, I said I'd do it if I have a straight man who's organized," Mr. Love said. "That's Doug Schwarz."

The pair will lead a campaign team of more than 300 volunteers. And, in Love's words, "We're going to make the goal."

"The most satisfying part of this process is handing out money to the agencies which help Westfielders," Mr. Love said, "so we've got to make our goal."

A past president of the Westfield Y Board of Directors, he currently serves on the Y's board of trustees. He also serves in an advisory capacity to the Washington Rock Girl Scouts. Both the Y and the Girl Scouts are member agencies of the United Fund. He is also trustee of the Education Fund of Westfield and a member of the Westfield Boosters Association.

ROGER D. LOVE

Mr. Love, a graduate of Springfield College, enjoys sports, sailing and his family. He and his wife, Michelle, are the parents of four children, Roger III, Christopher, Amanda and Traci Love Gray.

The following division chairmen have been chosen for the 1993 campaign cabinet: Douglas Schwarz, campaign co-chairman; H. Emerson Thomas, pillars club; Samuel McCauley, special gifts; John C. Leshner, Lawrence Man-nino, advance gifts; Brian Malloy, Donald Pray, A. George Rogers, major gifts; Christine Cosenza, Norman Greco, retail/business; Dr. Thomas Streko, dentists; Dr. Harris S. Vernick, physicians; Grant Buttermore, lawyers; and Jill Sitzer, Danielle Walsh, residential.

"It is a privilege and an honor to work with those who contribute talent, enthusiasm and leadership to the United Fund campaign efforts," Mr. Love said.

The appointment of Roger Love as the chief organizer of what traditionally is the broadest-based volunteer effort in Westfield was announced by Frederick Buhendorf, president of the United Fund Board of Trustees.

The United Fund monies are allocated to 20 member agencies: American Red Cross, Association for Retarded Citizens, Boy Scouts, Catholic Community Services, Community Access Unlimited, Contact We Care, Girl Scouts, the Jewish Community Center, the Jewish Family Service Agency, the Mental Health Association on Union County, Union County Legal Services, Union County Psychiatric Clinic, United Cerebral Palsy League, United Service Organization, Visiting Homemaker Service, Visiting Nurse & Health Services, Westfield Community Center, Westfield Neighborhood Council, the Westfield Y and the Youth & Family Counseling Service.

UCC names Biunno to alumni post

William J. Biunno, chairman of the board of governors of Union County College, has announced the election of George Kraemer of Westfield, president of US Travel/Regal Travel in Cranford, as an alumni governor.

The governance of Union County College, the public community college of Union County, is shared by the 30-member board of governors and by the 12-member board of trustees. UCC serves about 10,500 full-time and part-time students in 50 programs at its main campus in Cranford and major branch campuses in Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Mr. Kraemer earned an associate's degree in business in 1971 from Union County College, a bachelor's degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University and a master's degree from the University of Nevada at Reno. His background includes employment as district manager in the personal products division of Johnson & Johnson Corp., and he is a certified public accountant.

Mr. Kraemer has owned US Travel/Regal Travel for the past six years, and has been an active member of the Cranford Lions Club and Cranford Jaycees. He is vice president of the Westfield Optimist Club, where he chairs its community affairs committee.

Master your trees with Rutgers Co-op

The Rutgers Cooperative Extension is offering a Master Tree Steward Program, beginning in September. The classes will teach concerned people about trees so that they can, in turn, teach youth about them.

Classes will be held every Wednesday, from 1:30-3:30 p.m., at the North Broad Street branch of the Elizabeth Free Public Library. Classes will run Sept. 22-Nov. 17. Ample, secure, parking is provided by the library.

For an application, call James Niedmowicz, Union County 4-H Agent, at 654-9854.

Space is limited and the deadline for applications is Friday.

Build a better magnet...

Downtown merchants, once hurt by malls, rebound determined to win shoppers back

First it was the malls. Their hours, parking, major "anchor" stores, selection of items, and seeming compactness led hometown shoppers to drive on by Main Street's shops and parking meters and head out to the XYZ Mall. Local shopping habits that went back a generation or more were forgotten in a moment. Consumers can be as fickle as some merchants can be resistant to change, it turns out.

Then the non-recession and non-deniable recessions came, and Main Street shopkeepers took another setback. Shoppers seemed to skip both them and the malls.

Now, Main Street merchants and their organizations are on the offensive. If those shoppers who snubbed them for the mall are still fickle, and they certainly are, then why not bring them back home where personalized service, accountability and accessibility are so much greater than at the regional mall?

Right here in suburban Union County, there are signs of the vitality and renewed determination by merchants to keep their towns and themselves alive as shopping locations.

• In Cranford, shopkeepers are coming out of back-to-back weekends of a downtown sidewalk sale and a new, multi-media arts festival. This aggressive quantity and quality of programming coupled with the gaslights-and-brick architectural treatment of the shopping district set the stage for an enduring comeback.

• Westfield has just organized a Main Street program and office, and is building up to its annual FestiFall, another outdoor celebration that blends exhibits, arts and retailing in a pleasant downtown atmosphere.

• Scotch Plains earlier this month hosted a first — the Fred Spencer Memorial Bicycle Race featuring professional riders. It was such a success that another race is already set for next summer, and the event has given heart to its Chamber of Commerce and township leaders, as well.

• Fanwood's newly organized merchants already are planning a September sidewalk sale to induce local shoppers to rediscover hometown shopping.

Crowd-pleasing events help. Phenomenon like The Gap turning up in a former Westfield landmark shop help. Hometown shoppers can help, too, by keeping a close eye on their downtown stores. A customer-friendly revolution has begun.

Letters to the editor

Classroom best place for sex education to occur, writer says

To The Record:

I am addressing the response of Irene Kalinowski (Aug. 12, 1993) to Ann Rose's letter (July 22, 1993).

I find your phrase "that issues of teen sexuality can best be discussed in the classroom" is but one more tragic example of an American trend of recklessly empowering the institutions — a farce! The main reason why teenage pregnancy is up some 60% from 50 years ago or why the average age a child loses their virginity is 12 is because the most important institution — parenting was 'recklessly empowered' without the knowledge provide the education.

Parents 50 years ago didn't teach their children about sexuality in a matter of fact, textbook manner because they didn't know how, their parents before didn't know how either. Fifty years ago, a woman who was of age, married and pregnant couldn't walk down the street without embarrassment. As a result of this attitude, broad, romantic terms and symbols were used when talking about sex.

How much do you think a child absorbs if he is uncomfortable because his parents are embarrassed. Parents have only started talking about sexuality with their kids, as a result of the AIDS epidemic. Kids aren't just having sex, they're dying too.

I feel there's no better place for kids to learn about these issues than in the classroom. There the information is correct and up to date. It's presented in a matter of fact way with plenty of opportunity to ask questions without embarrassment.

Frankly, I think this class should be given to the parents as well. Parents need to be educated on exactly what issues our kids are dealing with. Children learn a lot of things in school from politics to religion. Like it or not, the choice of whether he's Republican or Democrat, celibate or not will ultimately be his.

Today's children are smarter with more resources for learning than ever before. Some of them not so good. Our responsibility as parents is to know what these resources are, what the facts are and how our children perceive them. Working with our educators and educating ourselves is clearly the best way to guide our children to be confident in the knowledge of the issues and their consequences.

Judging from your letter, I think you should come out from under that 50-year old rock and go talk to one of those young dying AIDS victims or a 13-year old in her last trimester of pregnancy. Find out where they got their information on these issues and then give us your opinion on how we shouldn't recklessly empower our schools with the task of sex education.

A heartfelt greeting to ShopRite's board chairman

To The Record:

(Here is a copy of my letter to Mr. Thomas Infusino, Chairman of the Board, Wakefern Food Incorporated.)

Dear Mr. Infusino,
Congratulations on selecting Westfield as your site for another excellent Shop-Rite! I just wish you had chosen Fanwood. No matter, I shop in Westfield, attend church in Westfield, worked in Westfield and enjoy all the cultural events in Westfield. I also buy my groceries at Kings and the A&P.

The only impact I see is a relief on traffic on Elm street, a relief on parking at the A&P and Kings and the improved service by having another first rate grocery store in a part of Westfield that is not served by the existing stores.

Keep up the chase and good luck to you and your franchise in Westfield!

Lyons bids farewell to readers; heads suburban Washington newspapers

By CHUCK LYONS

The resignation of an editor-turned-publisher is never complete until the final column is written.

The past week has been filled with emotional farewells and speculation about the future of myself and of Forbes Newspapers. Two newspapers, citing those infamous unnamed sources, ventured inaccurate accounts — the Courier-News reporting that I was returning to a former company, and the Home News, assuming that no news about where I am going must be bad news, asserting the departure was about a decline in circulation — something 90 percent of New Jersey newspapers have experienced during this recession.

Let me break the silence and give this not-very-big story some facts to stand on. This week I began work for The Washington Post Co. as president and publisher of a 238,000-circulation weekly newspaper company located in the Washington, D.C., suburbs of Montgomery County, Maryland.

The opportunity has two very special personal attractions. First, the move places us a short distance from our 30-foot wooden Cheoy Lee sailboat at the old family pier off the Chesapeake Bay. If you know about sailing the Chesapeake, you know about the solitude of anchoring in a quiet river, the glory of a beam reach, and cracking crabs at St. Michaels or Rock Hall. Once drawn, the bay is difficult to enjoy from a distance.

Secondly, it seems one of the things that keeps changing in our family is that there are more of us. Another member came along this year. His name is Drew and doctors say it was an infinitesimal long shot that he was ever conceived.

You might say Drew's miracle birth brought this whole next-generation dimension of life to the forefront — at least for me.

There are enough of these tykes around now that I am beginning to acknowledge the word "grandpa" (although I always did prefer, "Hey, Chuck") and the special responsibility that goes with being connected to grandchildren.

Once we settle in Montgomery County we should be close enough to be dinner guests, but far enough away to qualify as "emergency only" babysitters.

It has been much harder than I ever anticipated saying farewell to friends and colleagues at Forbes Newspapers and in a number of community organizations. In fact, I left the office early the day of the announcement a bit done-in by my own sense of loss.

For Forbes Newspapers, this is a team of fighters and their list of accomplishments in the past couple of years has been extraordinary. By using new technology such as pagination, and improved systems such as newsprint re-winders to reduce waste, and innovative programs such as an alternative delivery service, the staff at Forbes has lowered the company's cost structure by hundreds of thousands of dollars while at the same time carving out a well-researched marketing niche underneath the embattled daily newspapers — a program which has attracted hundreds of new automotive, real estate, classified, and retail advertisers in 1993.

As the result of the recession and belt-tightening, as in most area businesses, there are fewer people around Forbes Newspapers and the work is harder. But they are turning out even higher quality work from process color special publications to national award-winning newspapers — and still make time to volunteer hundreds of hours of their personal time to downtowns, shopping centers, and non-profit agencies.

But that is what is special about weekly newspapers and why they have a brighter future than most dailies. They live close to their communities and, for the most part, they give a damn.

Equally as difficult in my departure is saying farewell to folks like Ray Bateman, Dick Shive, Lew Alpaugh, Frank Torpey and Steve Dragos at the Somerset Alliance for the Future;

Mark Chazin, Marguerite Chandler, Arlyn Rus, Mort O'Shea, Charlie Harrison, Barbara Roos, et al, at the Somerset Chamber;

Mary Ribeiro, Dennis Clancy, John Pastre and the board at the Business-Education Partnership;

SBPA Executive Director Allison Sanders, Mayor John Kobiela, Marti Butterfield, Ron Kaye, Tony El-tore, and other Somerville merchants;

Dave Prugh, Ted Bates, Lauren Segal and the staff at the United Way; And many, many more.

Upon arriving in Somerset County, my co-worker Jan Rozelle and her husband Ken escorted me to a recognition dinner for Fred Howlett.

I remember Jan commenting that I should look around because this was the leadership of Somerset County and I would be seeing these folks around.

Afterward, I placed a telephone call to my wife back in Virginia during which I commented that my first impression was that I had met the leadership here and they seemed to be people who were both genuine and generous. I got that one right. And, my life is richer for having known you.

Citizen power can overtake nuclear proliferation

By GRETCHEN COLE

Union County Peace Action

On Aug. 10 and 11, citizens of Cranford, Westfield, Garwood and surrounding towns participated in our First Amendment right of freedom of speech.

Union County Peace Action, formerly Union County Sane/Freeze, organized petition signing at the

Guest essay

Garwood Pathmark to end nuclear testing. There was nuclear test information... and most importantly, the open discussion of ideas.

On Aug. 6, 1945, 140,000 human beings were killed by the first atomic attack in history. Three days later, 70,000 more were killed by the second atomic attack. Now almost 50 years after the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the world may again face nuclear disaster. However, this time the threat may come not from world powers. The next atomic attack may come from one of a dozen countries now suspected of building nuclear bombs.

The spread of nuclear materials and technology is impossible without the assistance and selective tolerance of the United States, Russia and Western Europe. We can no longer give the world a double message of "do as I say, not as I do" by producing, and testing nuclear weapons and then punishing other countries for doing the same. Actions speak louder than words.

The United States is continuing to cling to thousands of its nuclear weapons, is pursuing the resumption of nuclear explosive tests, and is designing new nuclear weapons. Interest in acquiring nuclear weapons is unlikely to change as long as the nuclear powers, led by the United States, encourage by actions the belief that nuclear weapons are valuable.

The United States has conducted at least 942 nuclear tests since July 16, 1945 at a cost of 30-80 million dollars per test. The total cost per year, including testing laboratories and infrastructure is approximately $2.5 billion (U.S. Dept. of Energy). Each underground explosion creates an underground nuclear waste dump which contaminates the ground and water table. Most underground tests also vent radiation into the atmosphere. The International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War has estimated that 430,000 cancer deaths will have been caused by nuclear testing by the year 2000.

The nine-month moratorium passed by Congress and signed into law last October was the culmination many years of action by Peace Action (formerly Sane/Freeze), the coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, other organizations and concerned citizens.

New Jersey Peace Action was also instrumental in President Clinton's recent decision to extend the moratorium on nuclear testing for 15 months beginning July 3, 1993. Senator Lautenberg, Senator Bradley, and Governor Florio have praised New Jersey Peace Action's instrumental role in this extension of the temporary 15-month freeze on nuclear testing. Every Union County resident who wrote a letter, attended a demonstration, organized an educational activity or in any way advocated a test ban deserves congratulations for helping generate the political will for initiating these moratoriums.

The extension of the testing moratorium is a major victory for the peace movement, and it is clear proof of the power of grassroots activism. New Jersey Peace Action, founded in 1958, is the largest and oldest peace and disarmament group in the state. We have been a consistent and effective force working to end the nuclear arms race. This country was begun by a citizen movement. The right of women to vote was only possible due to citizen movement. The legal enslavement and discrimination of people of color was eliminated by citizen movements.

We all have to fight for what is right. We cannot presume that others will do it. Our advanced scientific technology requires moral regulation in order for life to survive on this planet. For the safety of us and our children, we need to end nuclear testing forever.

Union County residents make history happen one more time by contacting your Senators and Representatives urging that they work to negotiate and ratify a Comprehensive Test Ban and otherwise seek to halt nuclear proliferation. Join or rejoin Union County Peace Action NOW! Call (908) 709-9016 for more information.

Governor signs three Bagger-backed bills

Three bills sponsored by Assemblyman Richard H. Bagger (R-Westfield) were signed into law by Gov. Jim Florio during recent weeks. The new laws impose a retaliatory commuter tax on New York residents, provide a procedure for dissolution of school districts, and phase in the pre-funding of certain pension obligations.

Assembly Bill 1071, which became law four years after first being proposed by former Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, taxes New York residents working in New Jersey the same way New York taxes New Jersey residents working there. Since 1988, New York has taxed New Jersey commuters at a tax rate based on the taxpayer's entire family income. The new law retaliates against New York by taxing its commuters the same way.

"This measure doesn't make New York's commuter tax go away," Mr. Bagger said. "But it restores evenhandedness to interstate taxation. In addition, it will generate $27 million in revenues which I propose using to provide an additional tax credit for New Jersey residents to offset New York's commuter tax."

Assembly Bill 2294, Assemblyman Bagger's second school regionalization measure to become law this year, creates a procedure for the dissolution of regional school districts. The new law sets forth a series of studies and approvals necessary to break up a regional district, culminating in a voter referendum.

"Voluntary school regionalization can help create educational excellence at an affordable cost," Mr. Bagger said. "The ability to dissolve or reconfigure regional districts is an additional incentive for voluntary regionalization. If a community knows it is possible to leave a regional district, it will be more likely to join one."

Assembly Bill 2175, also signed into law by the governor, even out and accelerates the actuarial pre-funding of certain post-retirement benefits under the New Jersey Public Employees Retirement System.

"This bill continues New Jersey's very conservative approach to its pension system, prudently pre-funding benefits that most other states pay on a current basis," Assemblyman Bagger said.

Including these three new enactments, a total of 10 bills sponsored by Assemblyman Bagger have become law during his first legislative term.

The Countdown Has Begun

Students start the school year well-dressed

Baggy clothes, denims and plaids slated to be popular with students of all ages

By RACHEL KURTZ
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

The only rule in fashion is that if you want to keep up, you have to keep buying clothes. This back-to-school season is no exception.

The first day of school usually means kids are donning their summer tans and their new fall clothes. In the ever-changing world of fashion, this means big baggy clothes for all ages, new colors, and a somewhat revised version of the retro '70s look for older kids.

Ever-present denim is still popular with all age groups. Boys in grades about 8 through 10 are still buying IOU jeans in colors bright but toned down versions of other years. Levis are still big sells for the older teens and denim with various trims and details are in stock for younger kids up to fifth grade.

Steve Rubinstein of Kid's Country in Scotch Plains says that young kids will be wearing a lot of plaid this year. Almost anything can be found in plaid and Buffalo Plaid — one color on white — will be especially popular. The colors are bold and some garments have contrasting plaids.

Plaids are showing up for the older set in flannels in mostly muted colors of fall like cranberry, mustard and forest green.

The prints are colorful and flowery and, Mr. Rubinstein says, the key this year is not to print-coordinate outfits but to match the colors.

Although the "homeboy" look is still in for this younger set, older kids are moving on to a little neater look. Boys will still be wearing jeans that hang around the hips, threatening to fall off at any moment but the jeans will be wide legged this year and shirts are more likely to be tucked in.

Young girls will still be wearing big shirts over leggings but this year they will be hooded with bold floral designs. Silk flower hair accessories can be matched up with the outfits.

Older girls can buy body-hugging stretch pants, too, but will most likely match them up with coordinated tops, either fitting or cropped. Bodysuits are still around, too, now shown in green, burgundy and cream for fall.

The retro look has progressed beyond bell bottoms and peace signs. Some platform shoes will make it back to school although shoe stores are also stocking up on romantic lace-up boot. Muted flowery dressed with high waists and pleats, "pallazo" pants with wide legs and matching vests, ruffy front shirts go with these boots.

Girls of all ages are accessorizing the new looks with chokers.

Much to parents' dismay, what is "so cool, all the kids have it, I need it" this year will be the "are you kidding? I can't wear that!" of next year.

Concert, auction to kick off college's 60th year

CRANFORD — Gourmet cuisine will be the fare at a Gala Concert and Silent Auction, featuring the New Jersey Pops orchestra, Saturday, Oct. 16, to commemorate the 60th anniversary of Union County College.

It will serve as a kickoff for a year of activities, including 40 events such as festivals, facilities dedications, concerts, lectures, exhibits, a Back-to-College Day, and athletic events.

The gala, a black-tie-preferred affair, will begin with doors opening at 6:30 p.m. in the Commons Building atrium area on the Cranford Campus, as some 300 specialty items will be on display, to be auctioned off at a silent auction. Among the items will be gift baskets, gourmet cheer baskets, personal services, weekend trips, jewelry, artwork, gourmet food items and family outing packages.

Gourmet food stations will enable guests to sample elegant cuisine featuring beef and turkey, pasta, seafood, and ethnic delicacies.

Entertaining will be a three-piece ensemble portion of the New Jersey Pops, playing piano, bass, and tenor saxophone.

At 8 p.m., the event will move to the Roy W. Smith Theater, where the New Jersey Pops will perform hits from the 1930s through '90s, including works by Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Aaron Copland, George and Ira Gershwin, Rodgers and Bernstein. A dessert buffet will follow.

The college was founded Oct. 16, 1933 as Union County Junior College. At the time, the college enrolled 243 students who attended evening classes in Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, under a $17,000 grant from the Emergency Relief Administration.

Union County College, which had been known as Union College, Union Junior College, and Union County Junior College, was established in 1982 through a consolidation with the former Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains.

Today, UCC is a public community college enrolling some 4,500 full-time and 5,500 part-time students, with more than 50 programs available leading to associate degrees, certificates, and diplomas.

For more information about the gala and other upcoming 60th anniversary events, call Matthew Lynch at 709-7039. For more information about the college and its programs, call the Admissions Hotline at 709-7500.

Stock students for success in '93-94

By AMY GARVEY
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

The smell of new paper, the scratch of freshly sharpened pencils...and a Donny and Marie lunch box?

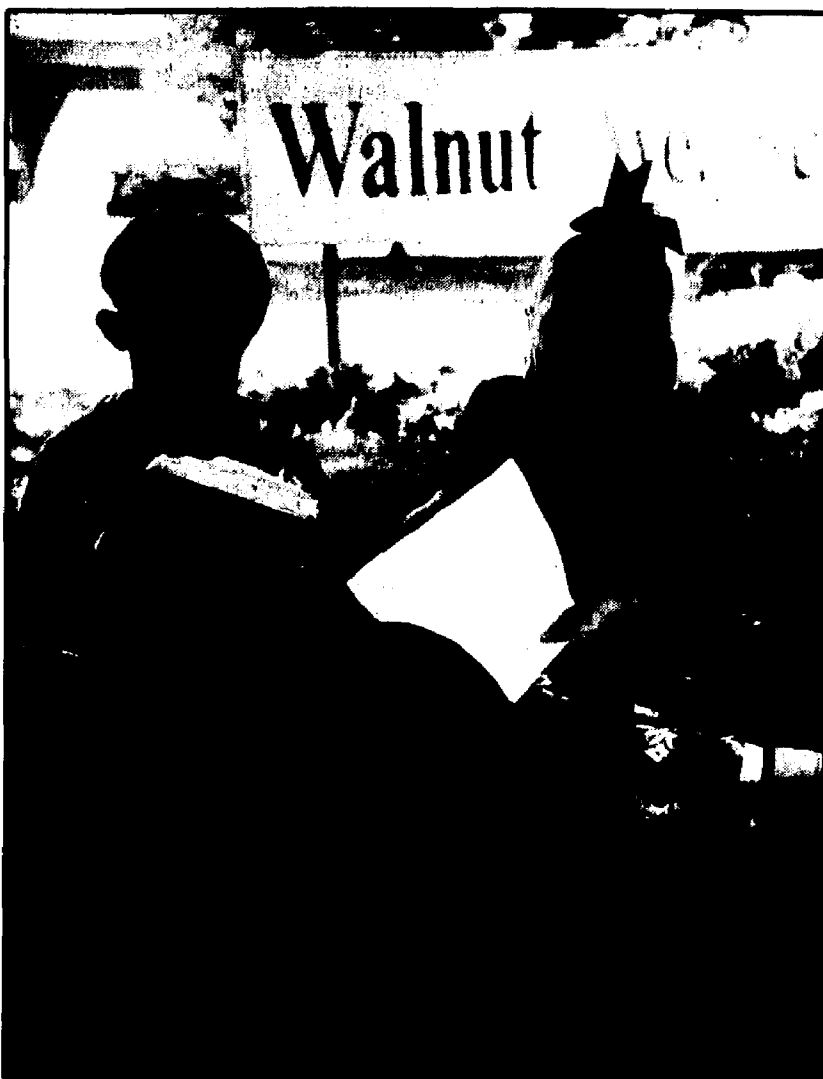

Well, some things have changed since I was in school, but the basics remain. Back-to-school means new supplies, and this year there are more products than ever to make sure your student is well-stocked.

Of course, every student needs the most "elementary" equipment, such as paper and pencil. The variety available is overwhelming, ranging from the plainest tablets and basic No. 2 pencils to colorful notebooks, binders and pens. Helpful for older students, Mead has come out with "All-in-One Super Shades Binders" that include a spiral-bound notebook, paper, dividers, a class schedule, and even a telephone directory.

Younger kids will be thrilled to know that as they pack their supplies, some friends can accompany them...on their supplies, that is. Drug Fair, on South Avenue in Cranford reports brisk sales of Jurassic Park paraphernalia, as well as supplies sporting the familiar faces from Aladdin.

Upper Deck, the maker of popular sports cards, is also offering notepads this year. Belle and the Beast, from another wildly popular Disney movie, are also gracing the covers of pads and notebooks, according to a representative of Bradlee's in Clark, and are sure to be a high on the list of a lot of little girls.

Of course, kids today need something to carry their assorted equipment in, and backpacks are the bag of choice. Nylon and canvas are both durable and usually available in an array of colors and styles. Westfield's Leader

Kristin and Brian Zuravnsky from Cranford check out some of the new school supplies they will soon be putting to use.

DIANE MATFLER/FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Store on East Broad Street carries a broad assortment of Jan Sport and EastPac models, and the manager of the Cranford Sports Center noted that some models have leather bottoms for the student with a lot of gear.

Thermos has a new model with an insulated pocket for keeping snacks fresh, and Mischief Makers offers a roomy bag that is also waterproof.

With paper, pencils, and a hearty lunch, your child will be stocked for success when September rolls around. Don't forget the most important item — an apple for the teacher never hurts.

Enrichment doesn't end when the school bell rings

By AMY GARVEY
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

School days, school days...well, they don't end at three o'clock anymore. Whether parents want kids to develop additional skills or simply need an after-school program due to their own work schedules, '90s kids face a day almost as long as their parents'. It's time that can be well-spent, however, in a variety of activities designed to introduce children to creative and coordination-oriented pursuits.

While athletics are an obvious — and often school-sponsored — choice, martial arts are an alternative. The Judo and Karate Club, 107 South Ave. West, Cranford, offers classes beginning at 4:30 p.m. for children ages 4 and up. The owner and head instructor, Yoshisada Yonezuka, said that judo and karate helps children develop self-discipline, as well as experience lower-stress learning through observation. Karate emphasizes striking with the hands and feet, while judo teaches kids how to fall safely and throw off an opponent, and the instructor added that all kinds of children can benefit from the skills taught.

"Children who go on to play football and soccer later will have already developed the appropriate coordination," Yonezuka said.

Programs are offered year-round, and the club can be reached at 276-3544.

Dance is another popular physical activity; children love music and aren't as inhibited about movement as adults. The Suburban Fitness Center on South Avenue in Westfield offers ballet, tap and pre-dance for children ages 3 and up during after-school hours, and has recently branched out into jazz aerobics and martial arts for youngsters as well. Susan Fell explained that moms who work out at the center had requested birthday parties for the kids, with an hour of instruction and a half hour of refreshments, often including a clown or "Barney."

"The parties introduced a lot of kids to a new kind of movement," Ms. Fell explained. The center also offers adult-teen jazz and martial arts classes. The Suburban Fitness Center can be reached at 654-2700.

The Yvette Dance Studio, located at 118 Walnut Ave., Cranford, is also accepting registration for fall programs. The studio can be reached at 276-3539.

Of course, not all pursuits need to be physical. For kids who love music, learning to play an instrument can be especially satisfying. The Bandstand, 138 E. Broad St., Westfield, offers instruction in guitar, piano, saxophone, clarinet, flute, and drums. Piano lessons can be given to children as young as 6, while kids 7 and 8 are ready to begin instruction in other instruments, and lessons are given in studio rooms at the back of the shop.

"All lessons are one-on-one, because we believe that's the only way to teach kids to play an instrument," said Joe Grasso, the store manager. The Bandstand can be reached at 232-6363.

The New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, located in Summit, offers art instruction for children as well as adults. To inquire about classes for your budding Michelangelo, call 273-9121.

Whichever type of program you choose, after-school enrichment activities can be a great opportunity for your child to discover hidden talents and new hobbies.

Illegal aliens: parents turn to 'outside' child care

By CHERYL HEHL
THE RECORD

Apparently, parents in Union County care more about their kids than they care about the law.

The recent publicity surrounding political candidates in New Jersey and Washington over in-home child care has not shaken up parents in Union County. In fact, an unscientific Forbes News-papers survey of area parents revealed that many continue to buck the law when it comes to taking taxes out of child care workers' salaries.

According to U.S. Census figures fashioned by AuPair Intercultural Childcare, a Massachusetts non-profit organization, more than 50 percent of children in America are cared for by people other than parents or relatives. Institutions, like day care, handle half of that figure, and surprisingly the rest are willing to break the law in order to have competent and dependable child care.

With more than 26 million dual-career families in the United States, nearly 25 percent have at least one child younger than 6 years old, according to census figures from AuPair. Only 8.9 percent of mothers, and 15 percent of fathers, provide self-care for their own children, and the rest will spend $18 million annually for child care.

Only 8.9 percent of mothers, and 15 percent of fathers, provide self-care for their own children, and the rest will spend $18 million annually for child care

With 6.6 percent of the average family's income being spent on child care, 10 to 25 percent for dual-career families, many parents have elected to seek child care through an underground network of providers in and outside the United States.

While many of these individuals have visas, they come into the country on travel visas. Many others are illegal aliens who are desperate for work.

In the long run, everyone is happy but the government, who rarely discovers the employment. And although this illegal avenue avoids the financial impact employment taxes play in child care, most of the parents interviewed by Forbes News-papers cited other more important reasons for bucking the system.

OH... WE'RE PLAYING "ILLEGAL ALIEN NANNY" OF COURSE JAIL IS UNLIKELY, BUT IT CAN CARRY SOME STIFF FINES.

Nevertheless, not deducting taxes and social security from employee salaries, employing an illegal alien, or allowing an au pair to work when here on a travel visa is illegal. The 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act requires that employers verify the citizenship status of employees before they hire them.

Fines for violating this law range up to $3,000 per violation. Anyone who pays a household employee more than $50 a quarter is required by law to arrange for payment of Social Security and Medicare taxes, which are paid half by the employer and half by the employee. Lawmakers in Washington conceded recently that this threshold should change. The Social Security Subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee recently approved an increase of the threshold to $1,750 per quarter.

But this does not address the problem of the high cost child care has on dual career and single-parent families. In many cases, Forbes News-papers found that child care for one infant ran an average of $200 per week, and often as high as $300. And the cost for more than one child can be astronomical. Although many day care facilities have special rates for more than one child in the same family, single-parent families stagger under the burden this cost imposes on their budget.

Looking for alternatives, many parents are using illegal aliens, nannies, and au pairs (both legal and illegal) in order to ease the financial burden. The underground child care network is easily accessible, and in most cases can cut the cost of child care significantly.

Despite the fact there are penalties levied by the state and federal government for not complying with the laws involving the hiring of aliens and the withdrawal of taxes from an employee's salary, parents continue to use this avenue when selecting child care.

However, being caught and fined is unlikely.

The underground child care network is easily accessible, and in most cases can cut the cost of child care significantly

Internal Revenue Service spokeswoman Colleen Hancock said "No law says specifically this person goes to jail, (because) nothing is written in stone," when it comes to the law. Furthermore, each offense discovered, said Ms. Hancock, is prosecuted on a case-by-case basis.

Even in a premeditated case where someone defrauds the government for $300,000, "sentences come out like a pat on the hand," she said.

Immigration and Naturalization Service spokesperson Verne Jervis said there are only 1,500 investigators, "which is nowhere near enough," to concentrate on household help.

Working parents are aware of this, and continue to utilize the underground childcare network, because it is virtually foolproof.

'Chances of being found are slim' — single mother

One Scotch Plains single working parent with a 2-year-old child and another child on the way, decided to use the underground child care network after trying just about everything else.

"Being the 'Murphy Brown' 90s mom, I decided I could do it all," said Jenny B., a 38-year-old bank executive whose second child is due in late September.

Unfortunately, using a legal au pair (foreign employee brought specifically to the United States to provide child care in exchange for room and board), that was from a registered approved agency did not fare well for her or her infant.

"Not only was I unable to select the person myself," said Jenny B., "but once the au pair was here I knew I was stuck for a year."

Recalling the year she and her son lived with the 19-year-old Swedish au pair, Jenny candidly spoke about the difficulties she encountered.

"We just did not click," said Jenny bluntly. "We were on a different wavelength and I just did not like the way she did things."

She said this was "a nightmare." However, as soon as the au pair left, Jenny decided to take her son to a "friend of a friend," who watched children in her home. And although this option fared better than the first, she was left "high and dry" when the woman decided to "give up watching children for a living."

"At this point I was a few months pregnant with my second child, my son was learning to walk, I was promoted at work, and about to have a nervous breakdown," said an exasperated Jenny.

"With a new baby on the way I knew I was in trouble and needed someone who could live in my home," she said, describing how a colleague told her about an underground network for finding illegal aliens who live-in and "treat your kids like their own."

Jenny found a "wonderful European woman" who not only loves her rambunctious son, but who has become "like a member of our little family."

Is she worried about employing an illegal alien?

"The chances of being found out are slim," said an unworried Jenny who maintains she "sometimes" worries about losing the "the most loving lady I have ever known," but rarely is concerned about any fine she may have to pay to the government should it be discovered.

Lack of health inspections is no concern — young couple

By CHERYL HEHL
THE RECORD

Realizing they were facing child care costs that were "out of our range," a Westfield couple with two young babies and a need for two incomes in order to keep their head above water decided to buck the system to save costs.

"Although both of us work," said 22-year-old Barbara H., "our combined income before taxes is just $45,000 a year. With a mortgage, health insurance, car insurance, and the medical cost of having the twins two months early, we just could not handle high child care costs."

"We knew it was going to be tight," Dan, husband and father, said with a worried look, "but it wasn't until we started looking for child care that we realized we just could not afford this kind of money."

The couple managed to take vacation and personal leave time in order to have one parent home all the time after the birth of their children, but eventually it was apparent they would have to find alternative child care at a lower cost.

Both Barbara and Dan did not want the babies to wind up in a child care facility with "20 other kids all crying and not really getting the needed attention."

After much thought and talking to friends and relatives, the couple decided to use a neighbor who watches children in her home. The cost was significantly lower than most other in-home facilities because the woman runs the business illegally.

"We never would be able to pay what most child care places charge," said Barbara, who maintains she is "not one bit worried the facility is not watched over by the health department."

"We know this woman and she takes good care of our babies, and that is all we care about."

Currently the couple is looking into getting an au pair to live in their home, "which would even make things easier." Until then, they "refuse to worry about the small stuff." Nevertheless, Dan agrees that getting up at 4:30 a.m. every morning in order to get the babies fed and dressed is hard — as is the amount of illness the babies have had because they are around other kids who are "constantly sick."

"The ideal situation is an au pair," says Barbara, "but it takes time."

Unfortunately the couple does not have much of that. Barbara just found out she is expecting a third baby in February.

'Everyone else is doing it' — pair with 100K income

Last winter was the last straw for Joe G. and his wife Sandy of Cranford. Bundling up their 3-year-old and 6-month-old children each morning and dropping them off at a day care facility at 7 a.m., then going through the entire routine at night again, was just too wearing for the children and mom and dad.

"The kids were cranky all the time, we were cranky and in general it just was not working out," said Joe, who is in the finance field and making more than $60,000 a year. Sandy, in the insurance business, earns more than $40,000 a year. But finances had little to do with the decision to try an alternative child care route. After much discussion, they decided to take the illegal alternative.

However, the couple did not go through the normal channels. In this instance, Joe and Sandy had friends who knew of lady who would act as a liaison between girls in Germany who wished to participate in this type of program. The only problem was, the au pair would be working illegally in the United States, since she would have to say she wanted a visa to travel, not work. This was not a problem for Joe and his wife, and in fact it became even more attractive to Joe because they would not have to pay taxes.

"It seemed like the best of situations," Joe said, noting that the illegal terms saved him $40 a week "easily."

Child care for two children would have cost the couple close to $300 a week, something they thought was "ridiculous."

"We wanted an English speaking European who we could interview and write to," Joe said. The underground liaison provided them with the names, addresses and phone numbers of au pairs and it was up to them to decide which girl was best suited.

The couple selected a girl from Germany named Ingrid and "could not be happier," with how she has worked out.

"We pay Ingrid $100 a week plus room and board to work 7 a.m.-5 p.m.," says Joe, "and we could not find an American to do this for that money."

While Joe admits this is not the best of situations, he is certain "everyone else is doing it."

"Ingrid gets to live and work in the U.S. and we have live-in care for our kids by someone who really loves them," Joe said with a grin.

The parents' names have been changed in this report to protect their anonymity.

Dance company preparing for coming season

The Westfield Dance Company is preparing for its 1993-94 season. The company is a non-profit children's dance company comprised of young dancers (ages 8-18) from the Westfield area. Jenny Logus, owner and artistic director of the Westfield School of Dance is the director of the award-winning dance company.

The purpose of the company is to educate young people on the art of dance by training new talent through classes, rehearsals, performances, competitions, workshops, attending performances, and working with choreographers from the New York City area.

The Westfield Dance company also serves as a community service by performing for local organizations (such as churches, street fairs, club activities) at no cost to the public.

For more information on auditioning for the Westfield Dance company, joining the Westfield Dance Guild, or booking the company for performances, call 789-3011.

Cindy Koons and Julie Buy of the Westfield Dance Company strike a pose.

Mostly Music beginning 14th year

Mostly Music, the critically acclaimed chamber music series, which has been presenting concerts since 1979, will begin its 14th season Sept. 11-12. Co-hosts Ani Kavafian, violin, and Carter Brey, cello, will be joined by special guest artists Charles Wadsworth, piano; Joseph Kalichstein, piano; Kenneth Cooper, harpsichord; Beverly Hoch, soprano; Ida Kavafian, violin; and Lawrence Dutton and Paul Neubauer, violas.

The three founding members of Mostly Music — Robert McDuffie, Gary Hoffman and Toby Hoffman, will return as guests. Claire Angel, formerly of Westfield, is the artistic director, and Eleanor Winslow of Maplewood is the administrative director.

Mostly Music will present five Saturday evening concerts at Prospect Presbyterian Church in Maplewood, and five Sunday evening concerts at Temple Emanuel in Westfield. The first concert in Westfield will be held at The Presbyterian Church, 140 Mountain Avenue, because of a conflict in scheduling.

Ani Kavafian is an artist member of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center. She has appeared with virtually all of America's leading orchestras, and is on the faculties of The Mannes School of Music and the Manhattan College of Music. Ms. Kavafian will tour with pianist Andre Watts in the coming season.

Carter Brey is the recipient of major prizes, including the Avery Fisher Grant, the Rostropovich Prize, Young Concert Artists International Auditions and the Piatigorsky Prize. He performs regularly with the Tokyo and Emerson Quartets and the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center.

Subscriptions are $75 for five concerts. Tickets are honored at both locations. Single tickets are $20 and student tickets are $10.

For more information, call (201) 762-8486.

Smith earns two writing awards for articles

Joan Lowell Smith was presented with two writing awards by the New Jersey Press Women at their annual award banquet for articles which appeared in the Westfield Record and the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Press. The Westfield writer received second place for feature writing and third place for news reporting.

A journalist for more than 20 years, Mrs. Smith has been published in the New York Times, Daily News, Suburban News, Westfield Record and Scotch Plains-Fanwood Press, as well as various magazines. She is currently a contributing writer for Union County Family and New Jersey Lawyer, the weekly newspaper of the New Jersey Bar Association.

Locally, Mrs. Smith was executive director of the Westfield Chamber of Commerce and the Alzheimer's Disease Fund. She also served as legislative aide to Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick and as public relations director of the New Jersey State Opera.

Nierle is attending playwrights' workshop

Joseph Nierle, a teacher at Westfield High School, is one of 41 teachers from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation Theatre Program for Teachers and Playwrights who is meeting for a week-long resident conference at Bloomfield College this week.

Now in its sixth year, this innovative state-wide project gathers to celebrate the success of its two-fold purpose — to weave close creative relationships between full-time educators in New Jersey High Schools and to promote playwriting as an integral part of the theater education.

At the heart of this conference is the development and presentation of the new scripts written by these teachers/playwrights.

Friday's agenda will include a staged reading of selected teacher/playwright scenes and short plays. Mr. Nierle's play, Cross Current, will be performed and he also will appear in the casts of Wicked Dreams by Jewel Seehaus and Secrets by Laine Sutton.

The presentations will be held in the Westminster Theatre at Bloomfield College and begin at 7:30 p.m.

For reservations, call the Playwrights Theatre of New Jersey box office at (201) 514-1940.

Members of the class, their guests and faculty members are asked to make their $65 reservation checks payable to UC Reunion 1993 and send them to Kathy Donohue, 673 Thoreau Terrace, Union, N.J. 07083.

For more information, call Kathy Donohue at 851-0258 or Tricia Wiser at 322-7747.

Better Days

STRETCHING THE RULES!

Life is full of rules. Many times they are clear and consistent and make sense to most people. But rules governing behavior often have a number of possible interpretations or have different meanings in different situations.

Some individuals repeatedly find themselves in trouble at work and at school, with family and with peers. They seek treatment in an attempt to understand "why everyone seems down on them" or after receiving repeated evaluations at work or school.

These kinds of repeated problems often come from a pattern of stretching rules to suit one's "best advantage" and from subconsciously distorting the consequences of one's behavior. These self-defeating patterns are generally learned early in life and most often go unquestioned without professional help.

Effective social skills require the balancing of an individual's needs with those of others. It is important to understand the spirit behind the rules rather than always play on the edges of social convention.

Monsignor James A. Burke, pastor of St. Helen's Church, and Helen Guidigas, Anniversary Fund Committee member, donate $4,000 to Mary Orrico, Vice-president of Raphael's Life House. The parish recently donated funds to five area organizations.

Donations earmarked for needy

St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church has presented grants totaling $13,000 from the church's 25th Anniversary Fund for the Needy.

Raphael's Life House, which provides a residence for women who are homeless and pregnant and in need of a place where they can give their child a start in life, received $4,000. Raphael's Life House, located in Elizabeth, will open in September.

Link Community School, located in Newark, is an alternate junior high school providing a turning point education for "at risk" inner city minority youth. The school was awarded a $3,000 grant.

Elizabeth Habitat for Humanity also received $3,000, to build new and renovate existing homes to sell to low-income families.

Two free, 45-minute presentations about the school will be held Aug. 19 and 22 at 8 p.m. at the Echo Lake Church of Christ on the corner of East Broad Street and Springfield Ave. in Westfield. Light refreshments will be served. To reserve your place at one of these presentations, please call Tom Turnbull, school director, at 753-8240.

Even though he is a perfectionist who never seems to be satisfied after he completes a round of golf, Rich Jeremiah will have to smile when he remembers the 1993 New Jersey State Golf Association Junior Championship.

Experience pays off for Jeremiah

17-year-old wins NJSGA Junior Championship

THE RECORD

The future Westfield High School senior made his next-to-last tournament of the summer his most successful, as he walked away from the Morris County Golf Club in Madison with his second junior title in as many years.

Jeremiah, who won the Metropolitan Golf Association's Junior Open last July, placed fifth after an 18-hole qualifying round, thereby including him in a group of 18 golfers who went head-to-head in stroke play over the next two days.

The 17-year-old defeated Brian Bevens, 3 and 2, in his opening match, then dispatched Ed Shannon of Chatham, 4 and 2, to earn a spot in the semifinals.

Playing against Dennis Blake, who won the New Jersey PGA Junior title earlier this summer, Jeremiah led by five holes after he shanked a chip shot, then drained a 40-foot par saving putt on the 12th hole.

Blake regrouped and mounted a charge, taking Nos. 14, 15 and 16 before depositing his four-iron approach four feet away from the cup on the par-3 17th. But, both players two-putted to halve the hole, enabling Jeremiah to reach the finals.

Jeremiah trailed Immaculate High School's Mike Deo by two holes after No. 8, but kicked his game into a higher gear, winning the next five holes to take a three hole advantage. Jeremiah played the five holes in one-under par and the stretch was highlighted by a near hole-in-one on the 13th.

Following a flawless five-iron and the subsequent birdie, Jeremiah lost No. 14, halved No. 15 and begrudgingly won the 16th with a bogey to sew up the victory.

"I wasn't going to lose this tournament," said Jeremiah, who will wrap up his busy summer at the American Junior Golf Association's Smith-Corona tournament in Darien, Conn., next week. "I was nervous, but it makes me play better because I concentrate more. If I'm not nervous I'll shoot a thousand."

Jeremiah admits his golf game has improved considerably since winning the Met Open last year. While he cannot seem to figure out exactly why, a packed schedule which included tournament stops in Fort Worth, Tex., San Diego and Portland, Ore., not only afforded him more practice this year, but it also gave him more experience dealing with pressure situations.

"Playing a lot has definitely helped me," said Jeremiah. "You can practice all you want, but there's nothing like playing in a tournament. I feel like I've improved, but I don't know in what sense, except that I'm scoring better and I'm more consistent when I want to be.

"I don't know what I learned, or when, but I did learn something. You definitely learn more when you lose than when you win."

Glen Kehler recalls past glory days on gridiron

The Kehler name has been synonymous with Westfield High School football for over 35 years.

Gary Kehler, whose coaching achievements fill the record books, will effectively retire as the Blue Devils' athletic director on Aug. 31. All three of his sons — Glen (Class of '75), Todd ('79) and Doug ('85) — played on the gridiron at Recreation Stadium on Saturday afternoons.

Glen holds several of the school's offensive records. He scored the most points in W.H.S. history with 349, owns the all-time rushing record with 2,797 yards and possesses the mark for most points scored in a game (36).

His close friends and teammates, which he met in fifth grade and played with through his varsity years, were John Bass, Bruce Jester, Jim Reid, Rich Baldwin, John Williams and Johnny and Bobby Davis.

"When I was a member of the in-town league, my mother Alice was just like all the other football mothers, even though my father was the high school coach," said Glen. "She drove me to all the practices and games, fixed a late supper and washed mountains of dirty football clothes."

"We have always been a low-key family. Later, when I played on the varsity my dad would stay in his den the night before games working out game details, while I would be in the basement trying to relax or study. We talked only about football during practices with the rest of the team, but hardly ever around the house."

Glen recalls his outstanding game on the opening day of 1973.

After guiding the Blue Devils' girls soccer program since its inception in 1980, George Kapner became the boys' head coach two years ago and was blessed with what he called "the best season in Westfield High School history."

It would be difficult to dispute Kapner's claim. The 1991 Blue Devils went 22-1-1, won every conceivable high school title, including the Group IV championship, and established new school records for victories and the least number of games lost.

"The thing I remember the most about that team was how much they banded together," said Kapner. "There was no fighting. It might be a cliché, but everyone was on the same page from Day 1. They did anything I asked them to. There were no questions, they just went out and did it."

A couple of years later, the same players who made crisp passes, scored big goals and marked opponents effectively are continuing to demonstrate their skills on the college level. Three of Westfield's seven seniors that year earned plenty of playing time and contributed significantly to their respective teams as freshmen last fall.

Chris Wojcik and Kevin Zadourian are just two members of the 1991 state champion Blue Devils who made a splash on their college soccer teams as freshmen last year. high school career as Westfield's second leading all-time scorer in lacrosse, enjoyed a successful soccer campaign at Harvard. The midfielder scored eight goals and assisted on eight others for the 8-7 Crimson, which finished third in the Ivy League. Wojcik earned his way into the starting lineup based on his excellent pre-season performance.

Eric Pepper, who many will remember for making a diving save off a penalty kick during the second half of the Group IV finals, quickly became a fixture in goal at Ithaca College.

Starting all 19 games, Pepper registered six shutouts, allowed a little over a goal a game and compiled a 10-8-3 record. Like Wojcik, Pepper impressed his head coach during the exhibition season, when he shut out every team he faced.

Kevin Zadourian had not played soccer for nine months prior to his arrival at Lafayette College, but he wound up starting the final 12 games for the Leopards. The Economics-English major was a marking back for the 9-11 Patriot League team.

New Ted Williams Card Company ready to hit stands later this month

Just when you thought there were already too many cards flooding the market, another one is ready to hit the shelves and should be here by the end of this month.

But this isn't just another card company, it's the Ted Williams Card Company.

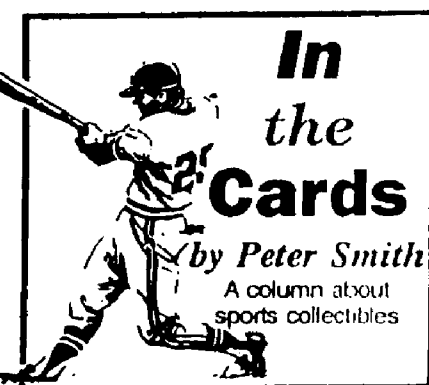

That's right, the legendary Ted Williams is coming out with his own card set. More importantly, he's not just offering his name to the company, he will have an active role in its development.

"Ted is very much involved with the picking of the players in this set," said Dale Kohler, a representative for the Ted Williams Card Company. "He's also choosing the players for one of the sub sets, which will be called 'Ted's Greatest Hitters of All Time.'"

The card set will consist of 160 regular and sub set cards, featuring such former major leaguers as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Ty Cobb, Yogi Berra, Roberto Clemente and Willie Mays, to name just a few.

There will also be cards highlighting players from the old Negro leagues that eventually made it to the majors, such as Satchel Paige and Cool Papa Bell.

Players from the American Girls Professional Baseball League, which you will remember from the hit movie, A League of their Own, will also have a set of cards.

A pair of sub sets will include titles such as, "Goin' North," which will have players in their minor league uniforms and "Ted's Greatest Hitters of All Time."

There will also be a sub set entitled "Dawning of a Legacy," which will feature two current major leaguers, Juan Gonzalez of the Texas Rangers and Jeff Bagwell of the Houston Astros.

Kohler also stated that there will be 40 insert cards, for three separate sub sets.

These sub sets will include "Etched in Stone," which will salute Hall of Famer Roberto Clemente.

Another sub set will be called the "Locklear Collection," an illustrated series that will be sequentially numbered and printed on a special parchment style card. This set will include current full color illustrations of all-time greats.

The third sub set will be a memories series that will take fans back to the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers, the 1963 Los Angeles Dodgers, the 1971 Pittsburgh Pirates and the 1975 Cincinnati Reds.

These cards will be regionally distributed, although the exact whereabouts of each of these sub sets is still unknown.

Kohler noted that 3,000 of the 9,999 cases that are produced, will be shipped to ANCO Collectible Supply, which is the supplier for the retail store chain, Wal Mart.

The 3,000 cases will not have regional sub sets, but will have a special Brooks Robinson sub set. This can only mean that the regional sub sets will be scarce and in demand.

This card series will also offer games pieces, known as P-O-G's or milk caps. These will be randomly inserted cards with punch outs the size of bottle caps.

P-O-G, which stands for Passion-Orange-Guavas, a popular juice blend at the Haleakala Dairy in Hawaii, was a game developed in (Please turn to page A-12)

(Continued from page A-11) the 1900's, using the milk bottle caps. This will be the first Major League Baseball licensed company to off this type of collectible, although Topps had something similar in the 1960's, but was not licensed at that time. The P-O-G's will feature MLB and Negro League team logos, plus special signature P-O-G's, with 50 in all.

In other card news, Topps has issued a Gold Basketball set, just like it did with baseball and it will include the Beam Team cards as well. Stadium Club Series III is now out and includes the First Day Production cards, which was alluded to in last month's edition. These cards' prices are still soaring. Mike Piazza's First Day Production card is now estimated to be worth between $450 and $600. In Beckett's Price Guide, these cards are priced at 40 to 100 times the regular issued stadium cards. Finally, check out the new Football Card Play-offs. It is a different kind of card. It's hot and it's limited. Next month, I will have all the information on its numbers, sub sets and popularity.

CARD QUERIES — Speaking of P-O-G's, Bill Volkman of Cranford wrote in to inquire about certain 1964 and 1968 Topps P-O-G's. Since this is novel item, prices and information about them are scarce. Mr. Volkman is encouraged to either purchase a copy of Beckett's 1993 Sport America Baseball Memorabilia and Autograph Price Guide or to make a personal inquiry with a legitimate dealer.

Glen's teams only lost once during his high school career. His eighth grade team was 6-0, his freshman team was 7-0 and his varsity teams went 9-0 in 1972, 7-1-1 in 1973 and 9-0 in 1974. The '74 squad was ranked No. 1 in the state and shared the co-championship with Morristown. The starting backfield in 1974 included all of Glen's former elementary school teammates and buddies — quarterback John Davis, left halfback Jim Reid and right halfback Tom Bass. Glen was the starting fullback. Glen's junior year was his most difficult. Westfield lost its only game to Montclair, 20-15, tied Nutley, 0-0, and defeated a powerful Scotch Plains-Fanwood team, 14-7.

In addition to his football career, Glen was also an outstanding sprinter. He was clocked in 9.8 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 21.6 seconds in the 220-yard sprint, an event he in which he became a county champion. Among his track rivals were Bob Calhoun of Scotch Plains-Fanwood and Plainfield's Cliff Jackson. Glen was awarded a full football scholarship to Rutgers University. As a Scarlet Knight he earned four varsity letters and never participated on a losing team under the direction of head coach Frank Burns.

He was the starting place kicker during his freshman year and went on to start at fullback in each of his next three seasons. Glen played his last collegiate football game at Giants Stadium in the Garden State Bowl against Arizona State. Glen and his wife Susan have two sons and one daughter — Chris, 8, Dan, 4, and Allison, 3. He has been the owner and operator of Kehler's Athletic Balance Sport Shop, located in Westfield, since 1988.

YOUTH SPORTS

SWIMMING

Westfield Memorial Pool "Blue" Team
The Westfield Memorial Pool's "Blue" Team completed a successful week in the North Jersey Summer Swim League two and a half weeks ago with victories over Springfield (274-171) and New Providence (270-162). Eight-year-old John Chessa turned in a strong performance, winning six races over the two meets to continue his personal undefeated streak. Marcus Knaus had the same results in the 9-10-year-old age bracket. Mike Schwebel and Ted Pollack also swam well with five wins in the 15-17-year-old age group and Matt Janson added five victories in the 13-14-year-old events. Other big winners included Colby Fagin, Jay Pollock, Seth Burstein and Frank Coppa, each of whom garnered four victories. Not to be outdone, Saskia Riley led the female point scorers with five first-place finishes of her own, followed by Kristin Zadorian, Abby Coxson, Megan Beck and Erin McClellan with three wins apiece. Eddie Sincox was the only boy to score a triple victory. Double winners included 9-10-year-olds Ashley Saul, Aubrey McGovern, Tara Christakos, and Jesse Savage; 11-12-year-olds Mike Todd, Christian Fagin and Kitty Fromling; and 13-14-year-olds Trudy Schundler. Swimmers contributing a single first-place showing to the effort were: 8-and-unders Sean O'Neill and Tori Maffey; 9-10-year-olds Devin Power, Brian O'Neill, Chaz Maffey, Duffy Lau, Libby Schundler and Michelle Panagosa; 11-12-year-olds Scott Kautzman, Erik Finne, Jesse Coxson, Jan Chessa and Erin Dupont; 13-14-year-olds James Kirk and Tim Romano and 15-17-year-olds Lacey Koski, Brendan Lechner, Brian Janson and Jen O'Brien. The team effort was not complete without the swimmers who turned in second and third-place finishes. This group included: 8-and-unders Amanda Prunest, Gianna Guasconi, John Boyd, Zach Coppa and Robbie Eckman; 9-10-year-olds Eddy Savage, Chrissy Romano; 11-12-year-olds Meghanna McMahon, Adeline Cope and Kyle McClosky; 13-14-year-olds Colby Lechner, Chris Janson, Amy Cocco and Maura Burstein; and 15-17-year-olds Rob Schundler, Eric Linen-berg, Carrie Masteller and Shannon Stone.

Westfield Memorial Pool "White" Team
The third week of the season saw a much-improved Westfield Memorial Pool "White" Team turn in some outstanding performances, only to come out on the losing end to South Plainfield (333-188) in a meet abbreviated by lightning, and to Nomahegan, 301-228, in a closely contested meet.

Thirteen-year-old Abdallah Simaika was the team's only triple winner, taking the individual medley, backstroke and butterfly. Simaika teamed up with Shane Boulos, David Treut and Shaun Fahrion to win the medley relay against Nomahegan.

Double winners in the Nomahegan meet included Treut in the freestyle and breaststroke, 8-year-old Vincent Shen, also in the freestyle and breaststroke, and 15-17-year-old John O'Brien in the freestyle and backstroke. Against South Plainfield, 15-17-year-old Sara Mankoski captured the freestyle and butterfly and 9-10-year-old Jacob Dupont also won a pair of races.

Individual event winners in the South Plainfield meet were: 7-year-olds Elena Darr and Ryan Bartholomew, 6-year-old Mike Finne, 8-year-olds Shen, Katie Dura and Robert Freundlich, 10-year-old R.J. Fahrion, 11-12-year-old Corney Stone, Trout in the breaststroke, and 15-17-year-old Shannon Stone. Two relay teams also emerged victorious: the 8-and-unders boys' team of Shen, Freundlich, Greg Matthews and Shawn Paine; and the 11-12-year-old girls' foursome of Stone, Natalie Musick, Melanie Page and Isabel Shen.

At the Nomahegan meet, Dura scored another victory, as did Emily Sharpe in the 8-and-unders age group. Nada Simaika won the 6-year-old freestyle event. Among the additional individual winners were: 9-10-year-old Emiri Hayashida, 11-12-year-olds Suzanne Vinegra, Melanie Page and Isabel Shen, 13-14-year-old Jen McCullum and 15-17-year-olds Mike Vinegra, Sara Mankoski and Elena Widows. Westfield's three winning relays included: the 11-12-year-old girls' team of Stone, Page, Shen and Katie Bartholomew; the 11-12-year-old boys' team of Chris Diacioli, Matt Cahill, Randy Russell and Don Mutz; and the 13-14-year-old boys' foursome of Simaika, Fahrion, Boulos and Treut.

A host of swimmers scored second and/or third-place points in both meets. In the 8-and-under events, Elena Darr, Heather Paine, Dura, J.J. Sobals, Josh McMahon, Shen, Matthews, Paine, Freundlich, Amanda Reider and Nada Simaika all earned points. In the 9-10-year-old age group, Laura Hessler, Ali Pino, Nichole Hertius, Almee Lombard, Hayashida, Fahrion and Dupont all contributed by picking up points.

Eleven and twelve-year-old point scorers included: Michael Knaus, Greg Jackson, Maura McMahon, Bartholomew, Shen, Stone, Cahill, Page and Russell. Among the 13-14-year-olds who added points were: Jen McCullum, Erin Scanlon, Robby Myers, Adam Andreksi, Boulos, Fahrion and Treut. Rounding out the point earners in the 15-17-year-old age group were: Shannon Stone, Lauren McMillan, Mankoski, Widows, O'Brien and Michael Vinegra.

A final mention must be given to the swimmers who participated, but did not score any points during the two meets. This group included 6-year-olds Emily Dura, Marykate Maher, Lucy Fromling, Katelyn Hoens, Kory Savage, Josh McMahon, Bryan Power, Andrew Prunest, Adam Subhas, Jonathan Hertius and Brady Lau; 7-year-olds Keith Layton, Kristian Valla, Christine Leiz, Kate Wade, Chris Heinen, Tyler Seeger and Steven Fromling; 8-and-unders Robert Will, Ryan Hoens, Toby Savage, Charlie Hely and Keith McCloskey; 9-10-year-olds Jenny Hayes, Jackie Cusimano, Molly Orbach, Behany Dresely, Terri Gibbons, Kristen Ostrega, Amy Sobals, Ashley Carr, Kate Miller, Kaitlin Valla, Courtney Thornton, Mike Mutz, Timmy Carroll, Brendan Maher, Vincent Will, Mike Tozzi, Raymond Encarnacion, Matthew Dupont, Bob Fromling, Daniel Seeger, Matthew Leiz, Greg Scanlon and Brian Martin; 11-12-year-olds Elizabeth Tozzi, Claire Villis, Donna Schaller, Elena Bernstein, Allison Unlacks, Adrienne Darr, Amanda Pirozzi, Valerie Reider, Lauren Maloney, Peter Wilson, Marcus Thornton and Stephen Cusimano; 13-14-year-olds Laura Brucia, Christine Perez, Susan Wilson, Suzanne Segal, Meg Hely, David Griffith and Chris Tafelski.

Introductions has moved to WeekendPlus

Look for a newly-designed Introductions, the best way to meet people in Central New Jersey, now in our popular entertainment section, WeekendPlus. Try these two new features:

1. Introductions Infoline: a recorded message with all the information you need to help you place your written ad, record your voice greeting and retrieve your messages. Kristen and Russell answer all your questions when you call 1-800-559-9495 and ask for extension 6200. If you receive a recording that the office is closed, hit * (star button) 6200 on your touch tone phone.

2. Introductions Mailbox: a private mail box you can rent through Forbes Classifieds to receive letters and/or photographs, in addition to voice responses. The introductory rate is only $5.00 a week. Order your mailbox when you place your FREE Introductions ad by calling 1-800-559-9495.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the son of God, immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and hear me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. A.P.

Chevrolet's Caprice LTZ no longer sports rear fender skirts, but it has lost none of its power or comfort.

Chevy Caprice is no 'plainclothes' sedan

By TOM MAGIN

FORBES NEWSPAPERS

It's not often we get to evaluate V8-powered, rear-wheel drive big American sedans anymore. When we do, performance is usually not a consideration. Plush interiors, a boulevardride and other comfort accoutrements are provided in lieu of performance and handling.

The 1993 Chevrolet Caprice LTZ hasn't totally shattered these impressions of the traditional domestic big family car but it provided us with unexpected performance and roadability. While our test vehicle was a deep maroon color, it could just as easily have been fitted out in black with white doors and a white top. It does, indeed, seem to be a police car in plain clothes. In fact, the heavy-duty version of the Caprice is a favorite in police departments and taxi services nationwide.

APPEARANCE

The appearance of this Caprice differs from the '92 with the absence of rear fender skirts. The full cutouts at the rear give the car an a more youthful and sporting appearance, with easier access to the rear tires in case of a tire problem. Eight panes of glass flood the interior with light, eliminating blind spots and giving full view of the road behind. The oversized Goodyear Eagle tires add to the Caprice's big-body image of a no-nonsense road hauler.

COMFORT

Open the driver's door of the Caprice and you find a wide, six-way adjustable fabric-covered front seat which keeps surface temperatures low in sunny weather. Scotchgard protects the upholstery from spills. An automatic day/night rear view mirror, power trunk opener, Delco/Bose music system with CD and dual power-adjust side mirrors are convenience plusses. Add to this a digital and accuracy-certified speedometer (a requirement for police work), analog tachometer and gauges, intermittent wipers, tilt steering column, door pockets and a leather-wrapped, wide-grip wheel, and the interior envelope becomes a pleasant place to engage in the business of driving.

PERFORMANCE

The 5.7-liter V8 is only listed at 180 horsepower but the effects of 300 foot pounds of torque are immediately evident, pulling this big car to 60 mph in just over eight seconds. Electronic fuel injection gives quick throttle response, while the four-speed overdrive transmission provides up to 28 highway mpg using cruise control. I ran the engine at about 1500 rpm at free-way speed, which gave great fuel economy. Our Caprice LTZ was equipped with a special 3.08 axle ratio and a limited slip differential which really helps in slippery conditions. With all that torque on hand, the Caprice can tow an amazing 5000 pounds of weight while still offering good performance and economy.

ROADABILITY

Roadability is exceptional, with the LTZ-only extra heavy duty frame and sport suspension package which includes thicker front and rear anti-roll bars, tighter steering, stiffer springs and shocks, gas-charged in the rear. The exhaust system is made of stainless steel. Extra acoustical insulation was put into the headliner, hood, dashboard which effectively insulates the passengers from road noise. We whipped the big Caprice through twisting roads near home and were impressed with how flat the body remained, while the tighter steering gives the driver a better feel for the road. To balance a slight lack of interior space up front, 20 cubic feet of trunk space can fit stacks of suitcases as well as enough groceries to last a month.

SAFETY

The brakes utilize ABS, driver's side has an air bag, the steering column is energy-absorbing and the shift interlock on the transmission requires the brake to be depressed before the gear shift can be engaged.

SUGGESTIONS

The only option missing from this Caprice LTZ was a pair of police-style nerf bars attached to the front bumper. We could have done without the CD player, however.

CONCLUSIONS

The Chevrolet Caprice LTZ proves that a traditional American V8 sedan with conventional suspension and a solid rear axle needn't be dull and insipid. The more you drive this big Chevy, the more you like it. About 30,000 new Caprice LTZ clones are pressed into law enforcement service every year, and all those policemen can't be wrong.

Automotive Q&A

Q My Toyota Camry is a 1989 model V6 with 51,011 miles on it. For the past year it has been getting harder and harder to turn on the ignition. I have two keys for it and while both are hard to use, I'm afraid that the one I use most will break off. Now the driver's door lock is becoming hard to turn as well. A locksmith told us the only remedy is to replace the ignition switch but that will make the ignition and door keys different and inconvenient.

A As a young mechanic, I always serviced all the locks with powered graphite whenever I did a lube job. Give it a try, but I think it's too late. Powered graphite is available at hardware stores. Your locksmith can change the ignition switch and recode it to match the existing keys, but try a periodic graphite lube to keep it from happening again.

Q I own a '91 Oldsmobile Royale 88 with 23,833 miles on the odometer. Recently during an oil change and lubrication, the mechanics checked my front brakes and informed me that I only had two to three thousand miles left on the pad linings. The mechanic also said that I should have them replaced soon. I feel that brakes should last a lot longer than 25,000 miles especially on a vehicle used by a conservative senior citizen. What is your opinion? Is their information correct? I was told that due to the removal of asbestos from brake linings, they don't last as long.

A No manufacturer guarantees how long brake linings should or will last on a new car but I think that 28,000 miles is a bit short, too. On the other hand, stop-and-go driving around town wears out brakes sooner than highway use, so it's not far-fetched to think they need replacement. In many states, a mechanic has to inform an owner of how much lining is left on brake pads or shoes and do it in writing. They are also required to give the old parts to the vehicle owner, but only to give the owner an idea of what percentage of wear the brakes have undergone. I haven't found non-asbestos brakes to be fast wearing.

Q I bought a used '91 Ford Explorer in February of '93. It had 56,000 miles and no extended warranty. I have had no major problems with the car until the past couple of months. The car loses antifreeze from the rear of the engine. My first and cheapest way to remedy the problem was to use a leak-stopping chemical in the cooling system. That seemed to work for a while, but recently it developed another major leak, on the side opposite the original hole. The mysterious thing about this is that the leak doesn't always occur when the engine is hot. I have located the leak at the rear of the heads using a mirror but I cannot pinpoint the leak to the head gaskets or freeze-out plugs. Could I find out if there is a factory recall on this? Also, do you have any suggestions on how to pinpoint the leak? I am quite familiar with working on engines so I'm planning to tackle this myself since the job is very labor-intensive.

A Finding the source of an outside leak is pretty easy and the engine doesn't have to be hot to do it. You need a cooling system pressure tester, a device that screws onto the radiator in place of the radiator cap. Attached to it is a pressure pump that allows you to pump up the cooling system to a safe maximum pressure of around 17 psi. Clean off the back of the engine and heads first, pump up the pressure and you should be able to spot the leak. I don't think that the problem is leaking freeze plugs since leaks there usually don't come and go. Contact your local Ford shop; the manager should be able to tell you of any recalls, and maybe set you with a factory fix - but don't hold your breath on that.

Mazda Protege is a 'pocket rocket'

By TOM and BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

(The Mazda Protege LX is evaluated this week by the father/son team of Bob and Tom Hagin.)

BOB: In John Edwards' new Auto Dictionary, a sleeper is defined as a deceptive vehicle, one which looks ordinary but is actually a hot performer. Edwards could have had this Protege LX in mind when he wrote that description. Pocket Rocket is another that comes to mind. The acceleration lets the driver squirt through traffic and the handling is as nimble as a polo pony's. I'm not a horseman but that analogy seems right.

TOM: Right on the money, Dad. I was able to whip the little car through traffic quickly, easily avoiding sticky situations which would hinder a larger car. The little four-banger sports twin cams and four valves per cylinder, and when you romp on the throttle, its 125 horsepower is evident. Our Protege had a five-speed transmission which was great - automatics in small cars tend to rob them of performance.

BOB: The suspension is pretty conventional for the current batch of small sedans with MacPherson struts and disc brakes. Disks have been added to the rear this year which make the thing stop as well as it goes. I think the fifth gear ratio could have been raised a bit for better mileage. It's pretty low.

TOM: The car stopped quickly enough, but the lack of ABS would have had me worried on slippery roads.

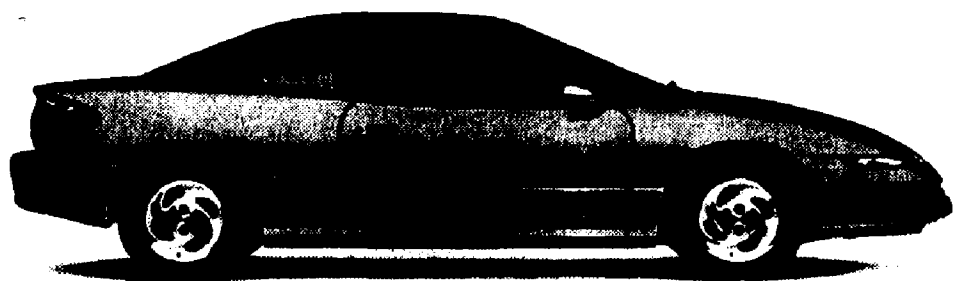

BOB: The adjustable thigh support was useful. I'd guess you kids enjoyed the sun roof, but it kind of restricted head room for me.

TOM: I loved it. It tilted up for ventilation, and slid back for maximum air and sunshine. Interior room was OK for a small car, but legroom was cramped for people in back. I thought there was plenty of headroom front and rear for those of us who don't wear top hats. Mazda claims this is a five-passenger car, but three of them would have to be pretty small. My larger-than-average friends had a tough time climbing into the back seat. The analog tach and speedometer were well centered and easy to read, and Mom liked the big center console with a built-in cupholder.

BOB: Yes, she has different priorities. She's also the one who thought this Protege should get better than 28 miles to the gallon.

Thanks for your patience. Your Saturn is here.

Not long ago, as you may recall, we had so many customers we sometimes had to ask them to wait a few weeks while we built their cars. Well, the people in Spring Hill voted to put in a bit more overtime to help keep up with the demand, and we now have a pretty wide selection of models to show you. So the only thing that might try your patience from now on is hearing, over and over again, "Say, how do you like your new Saturn?"

M.S.R.P. of the 1993 SC2 is $13,110 including retailer preparation and transportation. Tax, license and other options additional. ©1993 Saturn Corporation.

Realty Notes

The Westfield office of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors has set another record, with 16 real estate professionals from the office selected to attend the International Business Conference recently held in San Antonio, Texas.

The agents were selected for the conference in recognition of their outstanding sales production for 1992. All of the agents are members of the company's President's Club, which requires a production of at least $3 million in closed sales.

Representing the office at the conference were office manager Marilyn Kelly, and sales associates Elvira Ardrey, Karleen Burns, Carla Capuano, Hye-Young Choi, Jackie Conover, Susan D'Arecca, John DeMarco, April John-Fey, Kay Gragnano, Margaret Maguire, Lucille Roll, Kathy Shea, Ruth Tate, and Vivian Young.

Honored as the most productive Coldwell Banker sales office in the country last year, the Westfield office continues to break sales records. In 1992, 28 office sales agents qualified for the New Jersey Association of Realtors Million Dollar Club. The office is consistently the top office in the company.

Several local Weichert, Realtors offices will hold real estate career seminars 7 p.m. Thursday. Three sessions will be held Saturday, as well.

The Thursday seminars will be held at the following locations: Branchburg, 526-5444; East Brunswick, 254-1700; Metuchen, 906-8200; and South Brunswick, 297-0200.

The Saturday sessions will be held 10 a.m. in Hillsborough, 874-8100; Princeton, (609) 921-1900; and Princeton Junction, (609) 799-3500.

'Reverse mortgages' can buy some security for aging homeowners

American demographics are changing. As a nation, Americans are getting older and living longer.

As inflation erodes the purchasing power of many individuals, seniors on fixed incomes frequently find themselves cash poor and house rich.

According to the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), there are 32 million people over the age of 65 in the nation; about 15 million homes are owned free and clear by this group. A 1992 survey conducted by the AARP disclosed 86 percent of older home owners wish to stay in their homes for life.

As a result, there has been a steady upsurge in the number of elderly home owners who are "house-rich" but "cash poor," turning to reverse mortgages to help increase their income.

"Home ownership is one of the safest investments you can make, and today's senior citizens can now take advantage of their debt-free homes with a reverse annuity mortgage (RAM)," said Gene Azzalina, president of the New Jersey Association of Realtors (NJAR).

"By tapping into their home equity, senior home owners can sustain or enhance the quality of their lifestyle. These types of loans make it possible for seniors to convert some of their home equity into spendable cash while retaining ownership of their home," added Mr. Azzalina.

Unlike a traditional mortgage where the lender provides a lump sum and it is paid back periodically, a reverse mortgage loan pays a periodic sum to the owner based upon the value of the home. When the home is sold (often upon the death of the home owner), the loan is paid back with interest from the sale of the house.

According to the National Center for Home Equity Conversion, the number of elderly home owners using reverse mortgages to boost their retirement income is growing at an increasing rate. Based on a recent survey by that group, more than 12,000 private sector reverse mortgages were made from 1981 through the end of 1992, with about three-fourths of this number having been made in the last two years of that period.

Reverse mortgages are available through several resources from the public and private sector, including the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), said Mr. Azzalina, broker/owner of Century 21 Centennial in Elmwood Park.

"Because each program may offer different opportunities, we recommend the exploration of all options before making a decision," he said.

Under the provisions of a RAM, when the home owner moves or dies, the principal and interest come due. Heirs can either repay the loan and keep the house, or sell the home to pay off the loan.

Most programs will financially provide for seniors who outlive the value of their homes.

But home owners and other family decision-makers should carefully explore this aspect of the loan. As with all loan arrangements, it is advisable to have a lawyer review all mortgage documents," Mr. Azzalina said.

Reverse mortgages are not for everyone, cautioned Mr. Azzalina, who believes it may make more sense for senior homeowners to trade down to a smaller home and invest the difference. "Being they are over 55, seniors qualify for a $125,000 one-time tax exemption on the sale. They should explore state and local tax deferral programs allowing home owners to take out low-interest, deferred-payment loans to pay property taxes."

Mr. Azzalina advised seniors who are interested in a reverse mortgage to contact an area lender or real estate professional to get all the facts. Other resources about reverse mortgages are available from the National Center for Home Equity Conversion, 1210 E. College, No. 300, Marshall, MN 56258.

English Village CONDOMINIUMS

Words Can describe...

From my window, I can see, Beauty beckoning to me, Lindens, maples, spruce and pine, Cheer this very heart of mine.

In that garden, calm, serene, Happy people can be seen, Little children play at will, and birds come to my window-will.

Sometimes when I see the sun, Rising on the day begun, To amplify my Garden's peace, I pray God, it may never cease!

In the Spring, come flowers rare, Wondrous beauty EVERYWHERE, Azaleas, Rhododendrons white, Robins sing from morn to night.

Spring grows into summertime, When the sun does warmly shine, But I love it all the more, With roses blooming at my door.

Alas, too soon, there comes the Fall, When only Blue Jays stay to call, But My Garden seems e'en more fair, As Nature uses colors rare.

And when, we come to Winter, white, Again, I see a beautiful sight; The trees with branches, bold and bare, Like silhouettes are standing there.

And so, you see I love it all, Winter, Summer, Spring and Fall! Never more could I give praise, The peace I find in English Village!

Attention: All Boating Enthusiasts. Waterfront property

- Eleven boat slips on one developed parcel. Drive down off the road to large parking area.
- A second undeveloped waterfront property - ready to be improved. Great potential opportunity.
- Outstanding location opposite a barrier island in Smith's Creek leading out to the Arthur Kill.
- Two parcels in all. Last year the taxes on one were only $1656. It has "dry dock" capability and is being marketed "as is". This parcel has 11 boat slips and electrical power. Water is available for future development.
- The second parcel was listed for taxes of only $1031. and is 100 feet wide by 151 feet deep.
- No ECRA approval needed for improvements. Army Corps of Engineers does the dredging of this waterway.

A protected spot that boatmen love. If your boat is being kept anywhere in or near the Raritan Bay then you must call for all of the details. You will love owning your own bit of waterway. In Sewaren the property is off Cliff Road where the big houses are. A wonderful investment that is fun to own.

Don't miss this opportunity. Waterfront property in Middlesex County is extremely limited. Could this be the answer to one of your dreams?

Last chance for Lufthansa's Imperial Capitals Tour

It was announced by Steven Neuschulz, director of sales for the "Imperial Capitals Tour" being sponsored by Forbes Newspapers and Lufthansa German Airlines, that this will be the last in the series of articles about the upcoming trip. There are still a few spaces available for those who would like to join those already signed up from the newspapers' readership area; however, time is running out for the Oct. 5 departure.

The tour, scheduled to depart from the Newark International Airport Oct. 5, will visit some of the most beautiful and historic parts of Austria and Hungary. The historic seats of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, Budapest and Vienna offer the traveler some extraordinary locales.

The group will enjoy unhurried, four-night stays in both Budapest and Vienna and experience the highlights each of these magnificent cities has to offer. Using each city as a base, excursions will be made to the surrounding areas, returning to the hotel later in the day.

Highlights of our stay in Budapest will include visits to the famed Buda Castle, Matthias Church, Fisherman's Bastion, Parliament and an excursion to Budapest's playground, Marguete Island. The group will also experience a moonlight dinner cruise on the Danube. Free time has been built into the schedule so that participants can visit museums, shops, the Turkish baths, and the theater.

While visiting Budapest, readers-turned-travelers will leave the city and visit some of Hungary's most famous sights. Our group will travel south along the Danube to the Puszta (the great plain) area where they will receive a taste of tradition when they visit Kalocsa, a town known for its folk art and paprika. They will also be treated to a demonstration of equestrian skills by descendants of the Magyar Tribesmen.

On a separate day trip, our group will experience the scenic "Danube Bend" area and visit the town of Esztergom, ecclesiastical center of Hungary and the birthplace of King Stephen, the first Hungarian King. We'll also visit the largest church in the country, the treasury and the Christian Museum. Continuing to the area where the Danube finally breaks free of the mountains, we'll see the ancient castle town of Visegrad, with ruins of royal residences and the panorama of the Danube landscape. Finally, its on to the medieval artist village of Szentendre.

Continuing to Vienna, our group will see many of the residences and historic sights related to the Hapsburgs who ruled the Austrian Empire for over six hundred years. Sightseeing will include the Hofburg, Schonbrunn and Belvedere Palaces. Tour participants will also explore the Ringstrasse, visit the Spanish Riding School, St. Stephen's Cathedral and the Museum of Fine Arts. Arrangements also include an evening at a "Heuriger" – a wine tavern.

Additional day trips planned will include visits to The Vienna Woods, Mayerling, Baden and "Seagrötte" – the largest underground lake in Europe. As in Budapest, there will be ample time to browse through the shops, visit a theater or nibble on a famous Sacher Tort.

Tour arrangements include round-trip airfare from Newark, accommodations in first class hotels, buffet breakfast daily, most dinners, sightseeing and more for just $1,985 per person. There are a few openings remaining; if you are interested in joining the group please make your reservations as soon as possible.

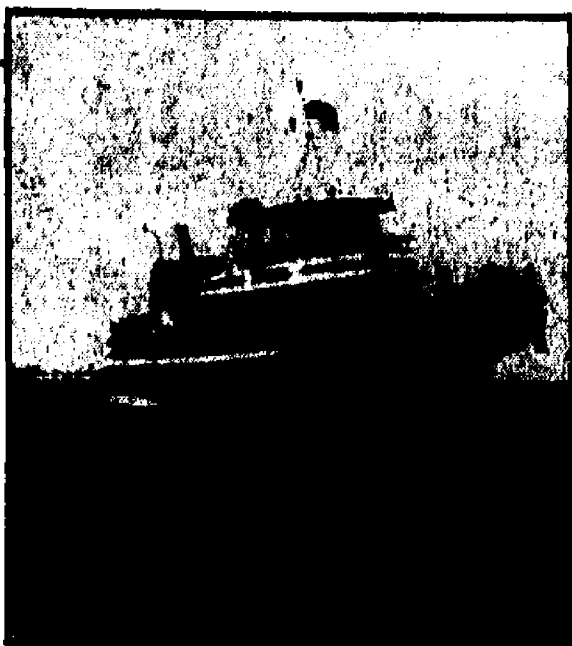

For further information regarding the "Imperial Capitals" Tour, please contact your travel agent or call Romantic Tours at 644-3179 or 1-800-523-6767.

Sponsored by Forbes Newspapers and Lufthansa.

A $30 day of fishing can cure the 'blues'

Deep-sea fishing party boats offer fun, action, rewards and maybe dinner for whole family

By Ed Carroll
WeekendPlus Writer

Only one thing rids a weary worker's soul of cobwebs quicker than a bracing boat ride on the shimmering Atlantic Ocean.

That one thing is fishing, while enjoying a bracing boat ride on the Atlantic Ocean.

It's inexpensive, sometimes downright exciting, always absorbing, and can even be rewarding.

New Jersey's 170-mile-long coast is dotted with scores of deep-sea fishing "party boats" that offer half- or full-length trips, day or night. They're first-come-first-served vessels catering to amateurs or fishing experts of virtually any age. No experience necessary, and no reservations accepted.

Typical of the local harbors is Belmar, where free parking, convenient shops and restroom facilities, and a fleet of more than 20 boats await angler customers.

rooms, of course, and some craft even have heated handrails for the comfort of anglers on 18-hour, winter offshore cod fishing trips.

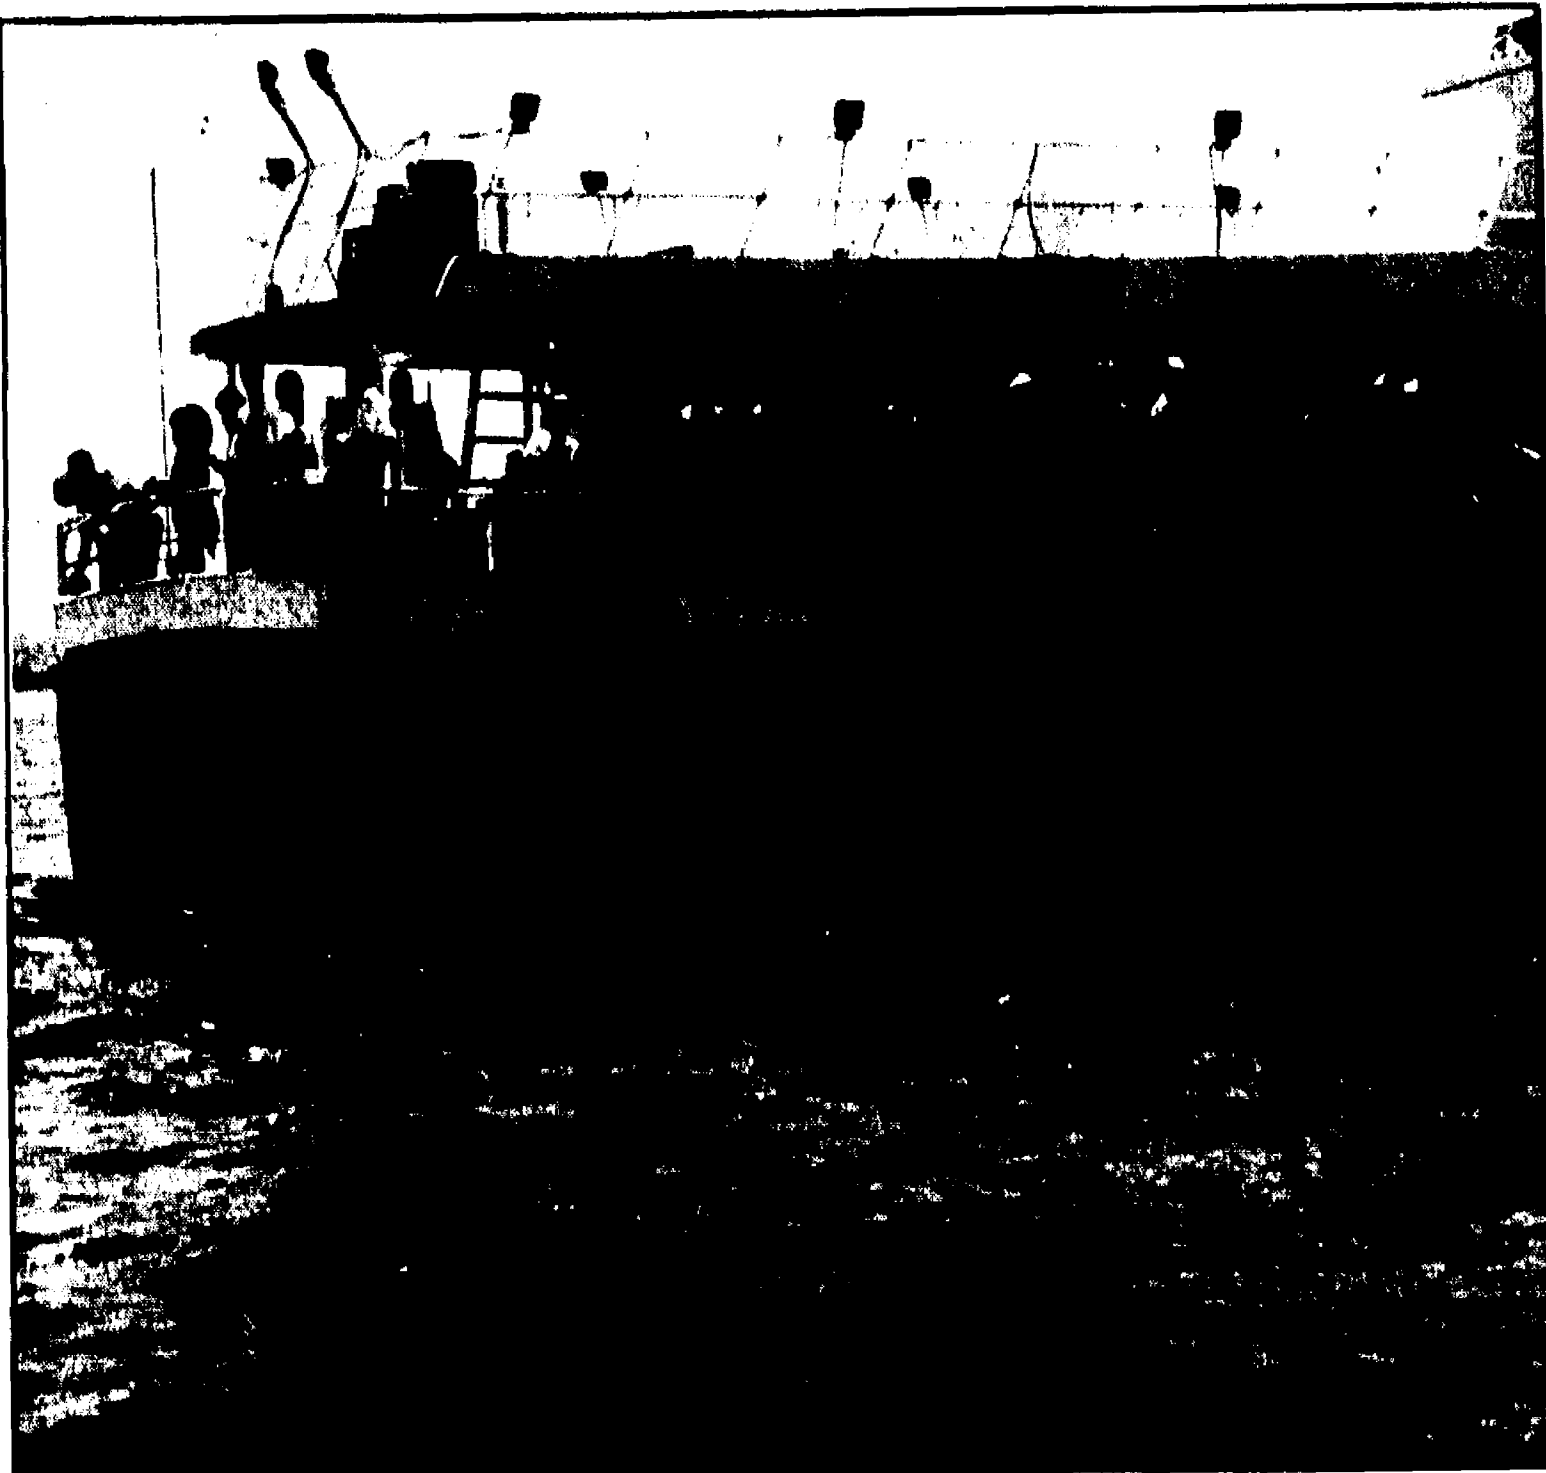

About the crews

The salvation of many a first-time party boat angler is the quantity and quality of free advice provided by the busy young members of the boat's crew. These mates, as they're called, prosper only on tips they receive from customers.

Mates cut and deliver a continuous supply of bait to the fishermen. They untangle lines, provide encouragement when the going gets slow, and tacitly serve as a communications link between the customers and the captain up in the pilot house or bridge.

Thus, service with a smile, free instructions on use of bait and tackle, unhooking fish, cleaning the catch, and patience with a capital P are available to anglers in abundance.

Some captains complain that an-

SHARON WILSON/WEKENDPLUS

A party boat from New York finds its way to the fishing rich waters off the Jersey Coast.

New Jersey's 170-mile-long coast is dotted with scores of deep sea fishing "party boats"

Fishermen can stroll the wharf discussing shipboard facilities, fishing strategy for the day, and crew expertise with the boat captains. Here, as in most harbors all along the coast, fishermen unfamiliar with the various boats and price-hours packages can literally shop for a vessel for the day's excursion.

How much it costs

The price is always competitive and reasonable, especially in light of the times in which we live and seek to escape. A full-day outing will cost an adult about $30. Half-day (morning or afternoon) trips are about $18. Some captains offer three-quarter-day trips, too. Children's fares are reduced.

Some anglers take their own fishing gear on the trips, but the majority rent all the necessary gear right on the boat. The going rate for rod and reel rental is $4.

Most boats offer an optional pool, normally an added $2. The angler catching the largest fish wins the cash pool. Crew members stage a pool fish-weighing session on the ride back to the harbor, or on the wharf after the trip.

Creature comforts

Party boats are up to 100 feet long or more, and generally are better at minimizing rocking and rolling than the vast majority of smaller, private craft bearing fishermen in the inshore area. Most have snack bars offering soft drinks and sandwiches, but no alcohol for sale. There are compact but perfectly serviceable rest rooms, of course, and some craft even have heated handrails for the comfort of anglers on 18-hour, winter offshore cod fishing trips.

"A hooked fish," explained Captain Tony Bogan of Bogan's Brielle Boat Basin, "will run away from the point of the hooking." Mates instruct the angler to walk in the direction of the movement to avoid ensnaring other fishermen's lines. It's good advice, but not always heeded, Captain Bogan said.

Creature discomforts

The "S" word in all this is seasickness. Captain Bogan is something of an expert observer of the well-known bane of some marine enthusiasts.

"Fifty to 60 percent of the people who become seasick on a trip do it to themselves," the Captain said. His advice for anyone concerned about seasickness is to eat a reasonably solid breakfast before stepping aboard. He said he has observed that patches, which dispense medication through the skin, are effective. They're available through physicians, he said. Another new device, sea bands, worn on the wrist, also dispense medication and work, he said.

Whether most cases of seasickness are self-inflicted is unclear to laymen. However, Captain Bogan said that his crew has given demanding, ailing anglers aspirin tablets with the identification scraped off. "Many later thank us for the relief," the captain said with a wink.

Free advice for party boaters

Neophytes and serious amateurs should heed these party boat excursion tips:

1. Take along a rag and a bag. The rag is tied to the boat's rail to wipe hands of bait and fish scales, and to mark your personal spot. The bag is for the fish you catch. Some boats sell bags.
2. Arrive about an hour early. You need time to pick your boat, fishing spot — and parking spot.
3. Youngsters and beginners should go on a weekday when boats are much less crowded.
4. Sunscreen and well-fitting caps are a good idea. Ocean breezes can snatch loose-fitting caps.
5. Most captains ban hard liquor on board. Most limit quantity of beer any one passenger can consume.
6. Non-fishing "riders" can go along at a usually reduced fare — but probably not on weekends.
7. Kids under 7 may not enjoy such an outing, particularly a full-day excursion.
8. Pack a substantial lunch; appetites blossom out on the ocean.

—Ed Carroll

Captain, how about a rain check, eh?

There are no rain checks given on party fishing boats.

If the weather's bad at the dock, the boat won't make the trip anyway.

If no fish are caught, a few captains will offer discount coupons for future trips.

The prevailing policy, however, is enunciated by Captain Tony Bogan of Bogan's fleet in Brielle:

"It's a fishing trip, not a catching trip."

"The fish are there all the time, but when they feed is up to them," Captain Bogan added.

—Ed Carroll

Coast Guard stands behind safety

Safety on party fishing boats should not be a concern to anglers, according to Coast Guard Commander Conrad Viehweg at the Manhattan Station that serves northern New Jersey.

Anglers can ask captains to point out their vessel's "Certificate of Inspection" which must be displayed and which shows the date of inspection and certificate expiration.

This document guarantees passengers,

Commander Viehweg said, that the vessel has undergone rigid inspection for many things, including fire protection devices, fuel systems, space for passengers, life preservers for every child and adult on board, life rafts, high-tech harness linked to autohooks for instant location of life rafts, pumps, emergency steering, and much more.

The Coast Guard in Manhattan handles about 800 calls per year, of which about 75 involve boats with passengers. This figure includes ferry boats. The Coast Guard also performs medical evacuations of passengers with medical emergencies such as appendicitis, colic, heart attacks and other disorders.

Bottom line, Commander Viehweg said, is that the Coast Guard has passengers covered through inspections, licensing of captains and standby emergency services.

Simon's suites

Season concludes with laughter at Plays-in-the-Park

Neil Simon's California Suite, which opens at Plays-in-the-Park Tuesday in Edison, is more like a Neil Simon medley than a play.

Rather than focus on one story, the lively comedy centers around a Los Angeles hotel suite, where four different groups of guests base their hilarious activities.

In the first "skit," a divorced couple meets to discuss their daughter. The second finds a man who wakes with a call girl in his bed on the eve of his wife's arrival. In the third, a famous British couple quarrel while attending the Oscars. The final sketch finds a pair of couples enduring a disastrous decision to vacation together.

None of the skits are what you call high-concept, but part of Simon's magic is finding the humor in familiar situations. California Suite is no different, and has a proven track record for major yucks.

CALIFORNIA SUITE Aug. 24-31 at Roosevelt Park, Route 1, Edison. Admission $2. Gates open 6 p.m. for 8:20 performance. (908) 548-2884.

Stage right

Dinosaurs come to Somerset

The Enchanted Creations traveling theater company, which specializes in children's participatory theater, will present its new production, The Dinosaur Play, Saturday at the Village Theatre in Somerset.

The Dinosaur Play transports children back to the age of the last dinosaurs, where they must help a dinosaur egg hatch and join with a vicorops to protect the new dinosaur family from the nasty Tyrannosaurus Rex.

Tickets are $5 for the 1 p.m. show, which will also be presented at the Watchung Arts Center on Saturday, Aug. 28. For more information about either show, call (908) 805-0385.

Audition time for SVP's 'Nine'

The Somerset Valley Players will hold open auditions for the musical Nine Aug. 30 and Sept. 1 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Somerville.

The production is scheduled for weekend performances Nov. 5-6. Auditions must be prepared to dance and sing. For more information, call Wayne A. Coughlin at (908) 219-8268 weekdays or (908) 587-2711 evenings and weekends.

"We are all ghosts of old ideas," says Mrs. Alving, the long-suffering wife and mother who lives a life of deception and guilt in Henrik Ibsen's Ghosts, the latest offering of Madison's New Jersey Shakespeare Festival, located at the Bowne Theatre on the campus of Drew University.

Continuing its summer season with Ibsen's originally groundbreaking drama of temptation and scandal which helped to usher in a modern era of naturalistic drama, the Shakespeare Festival provides area audiences with another straightforward, intelligently realized production of a theatrical classic.

The brooding story of Ghosts involves the long-suffering Mrs. Alving, the matriarch of an upper class, 1881 Norwegian household about to crumble under the presures of time and deception. A widow who has lived her life concealing her husband's incessant lasciviousness and protecting her only son from the truth, Mrs. Alving welcomes her child home from Europe while she spends much of her husband's fortune to establish an orphanage in his memory.

Having created for Oswald the happy illusion that his father was a man of commendable morality and character, Mrs. Alving reveals during the course of the evening depicted in the drama the truth of her past to Oswald as well as to Pastor Manders, the hypocritical religious leader of the community who had years earlier convinced Mrs. Alving to fulfill her societal role as wife and mother despite her attempt to escape the humiliating truth of her domestic life.

"Do not deny our ideals," Manders warns Mrs. Alving, "for retribution will surely follow."

In denying her own values and conscience in the name of societal duty, though, Mrs. Alving has allowed the ghosts of the past to make their most haunting appearance in her home: Oswald, on the brink of a debilitating madness caused by an illness born of his father's "degenerate" behavior, announces his love for housekeeper Regina, unaware as his mother is that the young woman is actually his half-sister, the product of one of his father's lusty encounters.

During the course of Ghosts, Ibsen challenges the moral and religious codes which ruled his time, the law and order which, as the liberal-minded Mrs. Alving says, causes all of the misery in the world. In Ibsen's drama, this "law and order," the societal concepts of righteousness and reputation, are only a deceptive cover beneath which lies scandal and selfishness.

The Ghosts of Ibsen's title are the remnants of old ideas, the consequences of tradition and morality (Please turn to page 6)

Carrie Nye stars as Mrs. Alving and James A. Stephens is Pastor Manders in the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival's production of Ibsen's Ghosts.

Ibsen's 'Ghosts'

which squelch the joy of life Oswald seeks.

Ibsen, who wrote that he created Ghosts because he felt the time had come for moving some boundary posts, was widely condemned for the play's severe criticism of the religious and social codes of his time as well as for his treatment of then unutterable topics such as incest, venereal disease, and liberal ideology. Though the notion of an inherited venereal disease and the ideals of a liberal utopia are dated for any but the most puritanical of modern audiences, the play remains not only a worthwhile piece of theatrical history, but a still effective condemnation of false values and the often empty rhetoric of morality.

Carrie Nye, the popular stage and screen performer returning to the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival after her appearance in last year's The Sea Gull, gives a powerfully emotional but beautifully controlled performance as Mrs. Alving. With her lithe physique, her movingly expressive face and throaty voice, Nye provides a grand dame performance well-suited to the overwhelmingly confessional nature of Ibsen's drama.

Jennifer Wiltsie, a lovely actress whose voice brings to mind Glenn Close, seems just right as Regina. Also lending fine support are James

A. Stephens, appropriately self-righteous and shallow as Pastor Manders, and Charles Cragin, simultaneously seedy and amusing as Engstrand, a drunkard who has raised Regina as his daughter. The only weak link in the production is James Lynch who, in the admittedly difficult role of Oswald, rarely reaches the convincing emotional pitch needed to breathe life into the character's overwrought, angst-ridden nature.

The production, largely directed by Carlo Gabriel Sparanero, was taken over during the rehearsal process by Festival Director Bonnie J. Monte. Though the pace of the production is slow, particularly in the first of the three acts, few can argue that Ibsen's work is meant to move at a furious pace. The production is beautifully enhanced by Hugh Hanson's costumes and Steven Capone's set.

In the context of his time, Ibsen was a progressive and daring thinker, a fact evidenced not only by Ghosts, but by other enduring works like A Doll's House and An Enemy of the People. This Ghosts proves that Ibsen still carries the power to haunt the mind.

GHOSTS through Aug. 28 at the Bowne Theatre, Drew University, 36 Madison Ave., Madison. Admission $30-$14. (201) 408-5600.

What a drag

Raceway Park to host Harley swap meet and race

Top fuel motorcycle drag-racing is just one of the attractions Sunday at Raceway Park in Old Bridge, site of the fourth annual Harley Davidson Summer Festival and Swap Meet.

There are hobbies, and there are obsessions.

There are motorcycles, and there are Harleys.

If you don't get the connection, you can begin your quest for knowledge Sunday at Raceway Park in the Englishtown section of Old Bridge, where the fourth annual Harley-Davidson USA Summer Festival and Swap Meet will draw thousands of motorcycle enthusiasts for a long day of buying, browsing and -- best of all -- drag racing featuring some 300 high-speed bikes.

Sponsored by Harley-Davidson of Edison, the swap meet will feature dozens of vendors selling the Harley-related hats, pins, leathers, decals, jewelry, patches and T-shirts, many of which have become a fashion statement even for non-bikers. There will also be an area where both new and used cycle parts and accessories may be purchased.

For the racing fans, there will be plenty of racing in several categories, from street-legal bikes to the top fuel pro dragsters that compete on the East Coast Racing Association circuit.

Such top racing names as Danny Fitzmaurice, Jim Hausler, Jamie Morocco, Bill Furr, Larry "Durms" Brancaccio, Bob Spina, Tony Mattoli, Wayne Loftain and Paul "Wild Thing" Matyla will compete for a total purse of $40,000 in cash and prizes.

Those who want to preview some of the goods available at the swap meet should stop by Harley Davidson of Edison, located on Route 1 South, on Saturday, when there will be an open-house and sale from 10 a.m.-3 p.m., complete with hot dogs and soda.

Sunday, the Raceway Park gates open at 7:30 a.m. for the all-day event. Raceway Park is located on Pension Rd., accessible from Englishtown Road off Route 18. For track information, call (908) 446-6331. For race information, call (609) 652-1159.

Dinosaurs live at Meadowlands

Now that the furor over Jurassic Park has calmed down somewhat, there's another interesting dinosaur event worth looking into.

The high-tech "Dinosaurs Alive!" exhibit, which opened last month, will continue through Jan. 2 at the Meadowlands Convention Center.

Designed to both educate and entertain, the exhibit features 20 life-size dinosaur models, complete with movement and sound.

The exhibit also features other hands-on exhibits, interactive play areas, museum exhibits and a theater, where DINOdd, a one-hour musical, will be performed twice daily.

Tickets for "Dinosaurs Alive!" are $8, or $5 for children under 12. Hours for the exhibit are 10 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Saturday, and 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (201) 223-1000.

Upcoming country

The last week in August will offer several options for country music fans.

Friday, Aug. 27, Ronnie Milne and Lee Greenwood will headline the American Music Festival at the Pompton Parkgrounds near Pompton Speedway. Local musicians on the bill include the Tim Gills Band and Captain Hawker and the All Stars.

General admission tickets are $22.50 for the show, which begins at 7 p.m. For more information, call (908) 782-2413, or for tickets call Ticket Master at (201) 507-8800.

Saturday, Aug. 28, the Edward Nash Theatre at Portman Valley Community College in North Branch will host a Central Jersey Homecoming for Belle and the Boys, featuring Kathie Belle of Savannahville and her husband, Michael Bonagura. They will feature several songs from their current RCA album, The Best of Belle and the Boys.

Tickets for both shows (6 p.m. and 10 p.m.) are $17.50 and $15 for seniors and students. For more information, call (908) 725-3420.

Rooked on a feeling

Child's view lost in flawed, but compelling 'Searching for Bobby Fischer'

By JEFFREY COHEN

WeekendPlus Film Critic

A lot of ink has been used up praising Searching for Bobby Fischer, the new darling of those dangerous beasts, the serious film critics. After all, how could a movie that boasts Ben Kingsley, Laurence Fishburne, and Joe Mantegna miss?

Well, Searching for Bobby Fischer doesn't miss, but don't believe everything you've heard about it, either. This is not the film that will move chess up there with the serious spectator sports, nor is it a deep and penetrating character study of a 7-year-old boy (Max Pomeranc, and he's very good) who discovers, accidentally, that he has a gift for moving little pieces of plastic around a board with black and red squares on it.

What this is, when all is said and done, is Rocky with rooks. It comes down to finding out if you have what it takes to be a winner. Wake me when it's over.

Ben Kingsley plays a chess expert tutoring young prodigy Josh (Max Pomeranc) in Searching for Bobby Fischer.

Once the child's talent is realized, in some very nicely-paced sequences, the movie bogs down into discussions among his suddenly obsessed father (Mantegna), his chess tutor (Kingsley, here doing an Irish number and sporting a white toupee that makes him look eerily like Steve Martin), and occasionally his mother (Joan Allen). The idea that this is supposed to be a battle for the boy's soul is just a touch overblown, and that's where this movie's fatal flaw is revealed — it's self-important enough to drive us mortals into the booby hatch.

Going from tournament to tournament, first as a tyro, then as an established presence, it's never clear whether Josh Waitzkin (Pomeranc) is playing for fun or because his father wants him to. The fact that Searching for Bobby Fischer is based on a true story (a book written by Fred Waitzkin, the boy's father) is telling, in that the portrait painted here is of a man who goes too far in his wanting his child to succeed, while his wife is seen in saintly terms as a woman with enough common sense to straighten out the federal deficit and cure AIDS in time for lunch. At times, though, the boy's point of view is left in the dust of the adults struggling over what's best for him.

In fact, that's the problem with this film — we never know just why (or for that matter, if) the boy cares about chess. Mostly what it taught me was to be grateful that my own Josh, now 4 years old, has so far shown no particular aptitude for chess.

Director/screenwriter Steven Zaillian knows his audience doesn't care much about chess, so he jazzes it up as much as he can. He adds cliches from the Rocky movies: the grizzled old tutor part is divided between Kingsley and Fishburne (who is given far too little screen time).

The title plays off the legend of Bobby Fischer, the young chess genius who came to thrust the game into the worldwide spotlight, only to intentionally vanish for years at a time, presumably to maintain what little sanity he can muster. And the struggle for Josh, trying to stay a normal little boy while still exhibiting his extraordinary talent, is seen as a parallel. It's a little more heavy-handed than it needed to be.

There are joys to be found, as this is a well-made movie. It doesn't bore, even as it presents a parade of cliches. It doesn't condescend to its audience and it doesn't feel the need to scrape the barrel looking for an obscenity or two to push the rating to PG-13. The whole family can see this movie, even if younger viewers might not want to.

OPENING THIS WEEK

HARD TARGET

•Jean-Claude Van Damme hides his accent once again in New Orleans, where he struggles to bust a band of sadistic hunters who employ homeless veterans as their prey. (R)

MANHATTAN MURDER MYSTERY

•Woody Allen de-emphasizes romantic entanglements (hint: wonder why?) for the first time in a while to present a good old-fashioned comedy about a couple (Allen, Diane Keaton) who become obsessed with the death of a neighbor. With Angelica Huston and Alan Alda. (PG)

CURRENT FILMS

ANOTHER STAKEOUT

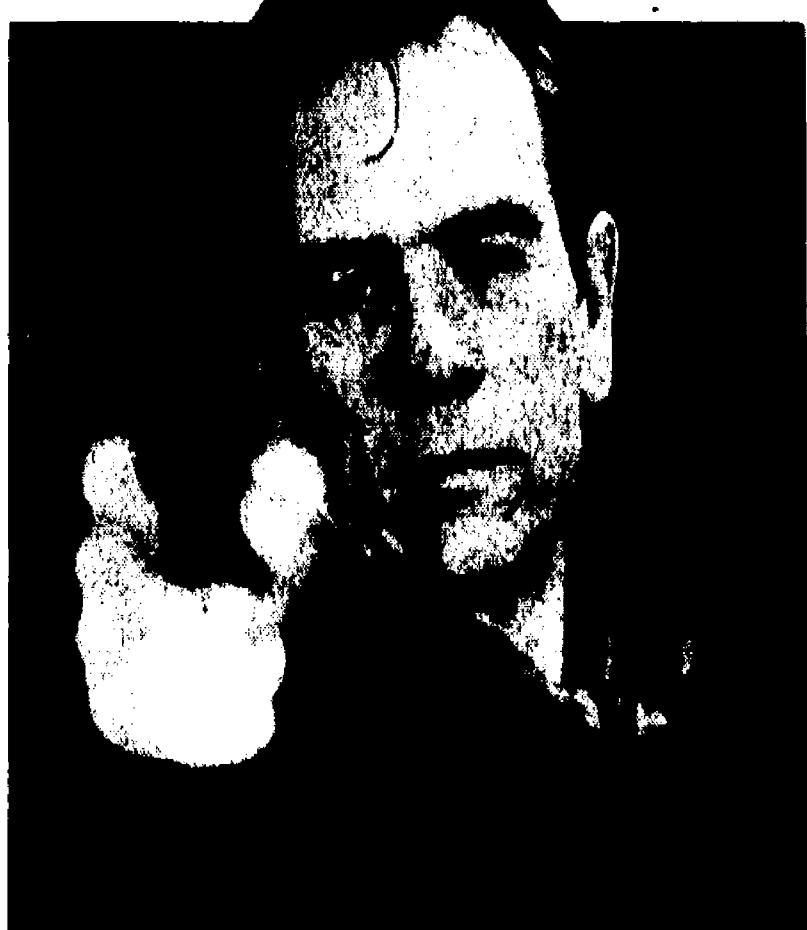

•Sequel to the modestly-successful 1987 cop flick starring Richard Dreyfuss and Emilio Estevez. Rosie O'Donnell (A League of Their Own) joins the returning stars. (PG-13).

CONEHEADS

•Dan Aykroyd and Jane Curtin reprise their Saturday Night Live sketch roles in this comedy feature about missile-headed aliens who become stranded in suburban Paramus. A cute idea stretched way too far, but it has a few funny moments. (PG)

THE FIRM

•Tom Cruise stars in this long, but intriguing film adaption of the John Grisham bestseller about an Ivy League law school grad who accepts a lavish offer from a small, but wealthy partnership that turns out to be more than he bargained for. All-star cast features Gene Hackman, Hal Holbrook, Wilfred Tommy Lee Jones plays an obsessed federal Marshall looking to capture Dr. Richard Kimble (Harrison Ford) in the hit thriller The Fugitive.

Brimley, Holly Hunter, Gary Busey and Jean Tripplehorn (Basic Instinct). Directed by Sydney Pollack (Out of Africa). (R)

FREE WILLY

•Homeless young boy forms an unlikely friendship with a killer whale at an adventure park, where evil plans for the beast prompt an even more unlikely escape. Newcomer Jason James Richter stars with Lori Petty (A League of Their Own, Point Break), Michael Madsen (Reservoir Dogs). (PG)

THE FUGITIVE

•Harrison Ford stars as Dr. Richard Kimble, on the run from the police after being wrongfully convicted of murdering his wife, in this thrilling big-screen adaption of the popular '60s television series. With Tommy Lee Jones (JFK, Under Siege). (PG-13)

HEART AND SOULS

HOCUS POCUS

IN THE LINE OF FIRE

•Clint Eastwood stars as an aging Secret Service man, haunted by his failure to protect JFK, but determined not to let a psychopath (John Malkovich) kill the current president. (R)

JASON GOES TO HELL! THE FINAL FRIDAY

•The "final" Friday of this fraudulent fright series was supposed to be the fourth, which was released in 1984. This is the ninth. Just say no. (R)

JURASSIC PARK

•Steven Spielberg's long-awaited summer blockbuster centered around an island theme park featuring real dinosaurs (cloned from prehistoric DNA) that begin to run amok on their creators. (PG-13)

THE METEOR MAN

MY BOYFRIEND'S BACK

•B-movie comedy about a teenager who comes back from the dead to keep his prom date with the most popular girl in the school. (PG-13).

POETIC JUSTICE

•Singer Janet Jackson makes her big-screen debut in Boys in the Hood director John Singleton's drama about a hairdresser who meets up with a lonely postal worker while sharing a ride from Los Angeles to Oakland. (R)

RIISING SUN

•Sean Connery and Wesley Snipes (Passenger 57) team up as detectives who travel to Japan to investigate the murder of a woman in the Los Angeles offices of a large Japanese corporation. Predictable and unbelievable at the same time, but engaging stars manage to keep it afloat. (R)

ROBIN HOOD: MEN IN TIGHTS

•Errol Flynn and Kevin Costner's versions of the Sherwood Forest legend both get the Mel Brooks treatment, with a cast that includes Cary Elwes (The Princess Bride), comedian Richard Lewis and Tracey Ullman. Not Brook's best work, a lot of fun nonetheless. (PG-13)

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

•A medical mishap gives a 12-year-old Little League reject the ability to pitch his way into the major leagues. His on-screen victims include many current pros. (PG)

SEARCHING FOR BOBBY FISCHER

•Based on a true story, a father pushes his son to be a champion when he demonstrates an uncanny ability at chess. With Joe Mantegna, Laurence Fishburne, Joan Allen and Ben Kingsley. (PG)

THE SECRET GARDEN

•Maggie Smith stars in screen adaption of Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel about three lonely children who rehabilitate a garden. (G)

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE

•Tom Hanks (Big) and Meg Ryan (When Harry Met Sally) star in this summer romance about strangers who manage to find each other despite being separated by an entire continent. (PG)

SO I MARRIED AN AXE MURDERER

•Mike Myers (Wayne's World) stars as a confirmed bachelor who falls for a mysterious beauty (Nancy Travis), with the comic complications suggested by the title. (PG-13).

THAT NIGHT

•Juliette Lewis (Cape Fear, Husbands and Wives) stars with C. Thomas Howell (Soul Man) star in this coming-of-age story about a popular girl and a guy from "the wrong side of town," all seen through the eyes of a 10-year-old girl. (PG-13).

TOM AND JERRY: THE MOVIE

•The animated cat and mouse games begin when the classic characters are forced into the street after their home is demolished. (G)

The Vanishing

The Vanishing isn't the most unpleasant movie ever made, but it's in there playing. Based on a Dutch film of the same name by the same director, we have here Peter Faiman as a man whose girlfriend mysteriously disappears. He becomes obsessed with finding out what happened to her, as the psychopath who knows (Jeff Bridges) offers to show him. But he has to go through the whole mess himself. About as much fun as having a tooth pulled.

Jazz legend Lionel Hampton returns to Buccleuch Park in New Brunswick

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

In a town known for many musical traditions, perhaps none is more appreciated, not to mention anticipated, than Lionel Hampton's annual free concert at Buccleuch Park, which takes place this year on Thursday, Aug. 26.

While this long-standing date between Hampton, his big band and Hub City jazz fans is now in its 13th year, Hampton's career, of course, goes a lot farther back. He entered the big-time in the late 1930s as a member of the celebrated Benny Goodman Quartet, but Hampton's career actually goes back more than 60 years.

Hampton left the quartet (which included Goodman on Clarinet, Teddy Wilson on piano, Gene Krupa on drums and Hampton — naturally — on vibes) in 1940 to form his own band, and has gone on to play virtually every major jazz venue in the world, not to mention seven presidential inaugurations. His resume also includes touring the world dozens of times on behalf of the State Department.

The Grammy-winning artists has also been honored with honorary degrees from several universities, partly due to his philanthropic efforts, like the Lionel Hampton Ear Research Institute and an endowment fund that awards scholarships to students from all over the country.

The concert, which is funded by New Brunswick Tomorrow and contributions from many Hub City businesses, is free to the public. Lawn chairs and blankets are recommended for comfort, although in case of rain, the concert will be held at the State Theatre on Livingston Avenue.

LIONEL HAMPTON Thursday, Aug. 26, 8 p.m., at Buccleuch Park, Easton Avenue, New Brunswick. Free admission. (908) 246-0603.

Old-fashioned fun in Somerset

The six-piece country band Redhanded will headline an afternoon of music, food and games on Saturday, when the Rutgers Preparatory School on Easton Avenue in Somerset hosts the Franklin Old-Fashioned Summer Fair.

The fun kicks off at noon, at Rutgers Prep and nearby Van Winkle House, where games will include a derby hat toss, watermelon pit-spitting and sack races. There will also be a dunking booth featuring local dignitaries. Kids will also enjoy a demonstration by the Somerset Fire Company and appearances by the Famous Purple Dinosaur and Ronald McDonald.

Music will begin at 1 p.m. with the Wooster Street Trolley Jazz Band, followed by a Rodgers and Hart musical revue by the Villagers Theatre (3 p.m.), the Sweet Adelines (3:45 p.m.) and the Marshall Staley Dixieland Band (5 p.m.) before Redhanded takes the stage to close the event at 6 p.m.

Admission is $5 per family or $3 per person. Food, soft drinks and beer will be sold as well. For more information, call (908) 828-7418.

Party Dolls free in the park

The popular Party Dolls will perform a free concert Wednesday, Aug. 25, at Echo Lake Park in Mountainside.

The beehive-haired ladies have become a big club attraction in recent years with their musical tribute to the '60s "girl group" era, singing songs from the Ronettes, the Shangri-Las and more.

The music gets under way at 7:30 p.m. in the park, which is located on Route 22. In case of rain, the concert will be held at Cranford High School. For more information, call (908) 352-8410.

'R' for Rachelle, 'B' for Bene

Singer-songwriter Rachelle Farrell, whose debut album spent several months on the top of the Billboard R&B charts, will appear Saturday at Club Bene in Sayreville.

Her 6½ octave vocal range powered such hits as "Til You Come Back to Me" and "With Open Arms."

Tickets for the show, which begins at 9 p.m., are $17.50, or $27.50 with optional dinner served at 7 p.m. For more information, call (908) 727-3000.

Music at the Garden State Arts Center

Voices from down under Midnight Oil coming to Garden State Arts Center

By BILL HOWARD
WeekendPlus Writer

Nearly 20 years since a trio of outspoken Aussies formed Midnight Oil, the band is still, as drummer Rob Hirst elegantly put it, "shouting from the rooftops" with its latest release, Earth and Sun and Moon (Columbia).

The Oils, as their die-hard fans affectionately know them, will bring their rousing brand of raw, rejuvenated rock to the Garden States Arts Center in Holmdel Friday with special guests Hothouse Flowers from Ireland and Ziggy Marley & the Melody Makers from Jamaica.

"We wanted to have a United Nations of touring," Hirst said. "We like putting these sort of festivals together. We like making a good-value show, because more people expect, quite rightly, that there be an interesting, varied and good-valued show these days."

While their music has changed direction several times since its inception as a surf-punk quintet on the beaches of Sydney, the Oils' devotion to their fans has not wavered. Always playing each show like their last, lead singer Peter Garrett still flails his arms and legs on stage in almost pure ecstasy while the rest of the gang — Hirst, guitarist/key-boardist Jim Moginie, guitarist Martin Rotsey and bassist Bone Hillman — pound away with a power and passion far surpassing most of the new wave of twentysomething alternative bands around today.

"We still feel lucky that we have a band that's so committed and enjoys playing our instruments together...who believes in the new record and has actually found it easier to translate the current songs live now than for a long time,"

The Australian band Midnight Oil will bring its brand of raw, politically-charged rock Friday to the Garden State Arts Center on an international bill that includes Ireland's Hothouse Flowers and second-generation reggae star Ziggy Marley.

Hirst said. "I think that became a bit of a problem some records ago, when some of the songs, produced up to a point, were difficult to naturally reproduce live. Now, I think we're really having a ball again."

Refreshing words from one of the few active bands strong enough to avoid burning out from the anger-driven punk era that dominated the late 1970s and a good portion of the Cold War 80s.

"I don't think (the movement's) dead, either," Hirst said. "Maybe it's more frustration now than anger. The same people that used to come to the Sydney pubs we started in years ago...a lot of them were young, drunk men and some of them might have been angry. But the difference now, 15 years down the track, is that the world is very different, and the men and women that would come to the shows — bless their hearts — don't necessarily have a future carved out for them the way it was back then."

"There's a certain sense of desperation and frustration taking over. We've seen it in our live shows in Canada and Europe with the moshing," Hirst added. "Moshing's a very self-destructive urge which we've noticed amongst a minority of the audience. And that really comes from the sense of 'What the hell is there for us?' I think that's the difference."

Moshing may have invaded the Oils' field, but they don't dig it.

"There are usually just a couple of men high on their own importance and ego and testosterone or whatever," Hirst quipped. "We usually don't tolerate that now, particularly as women won't come to the shows at all. And that's a great shame, because we're not making our music just for men."

Caring has always come first from the Oils. The band still detours regularly during its traveling to play benefit shows. Their most high-profile United States gig, a 1991 protest concert in front of the Exxon building in New York City after the Valdez oil-spill disaster in Alaska, drew a frenzied lunch-hour crowd of nearly 10,000 people.

"It's worth shouting a bit louder from the rooftops to make your point," Hirst said. "Perhaps we're more fortunate in that we can see the way the world's going.

"We've been to Japan and seen those four main islands concreted over. We've seen the industrial Northeast of the United States many, many times, and we've seen the acid rain problem in what was East Germany and Eastern Europe. We can see it all around us, and we feel like it's part of an obligation, if you'd like, to comment on it."

Sometimes the band's playfulness gets lost in the bustle, but Hirst quickly reminds us the group still has fun.

"We may appear to be quite serious on the outside, but there's a lighter side of the band which is not as evident. Music is fun for us. We've always felt that way."

Central New Jersey's Best Choice For Meeting Someone Close To Home.

NEW TO NEW JERSEY

My life so far has been interesting. I've been married. Divorced. I've lived all over the country. I'm 50, a white male, very down to earth, 5'8, 155 lbs. affectionate, warm, caring, loving, with green eyes, black hair, mustache, dark complexion. I'm funny, romantic, faithful, a one-woman man, sincere, honest, not superficial, not pretentious or materialistic. I prefer natural things, cuddling, gardening, dogs, house plants, the outdoors, parks, farms, long walks on the beach, or the beauty of the woods. I'm an artist, I like crafts, exploring flea markets, old movies, all animals, laughter, good conversation, friends, backyard barbecues, books, museums, dancing, dining out, or just eating pizza at home. I would like to share a pie with a woman who enjoys the simple things of life, like quiet cozy evenings. A woman who's sensitive, affectionate, warm and loving, with a good sense of humor and who's a bit unconventional. I would like to meet a down to earth real person with old fashioned traditional values, 35-48 (please, not too overweight), for friendship, snuggling, and possible long-term monogamous relationship. Please call Ext. 4513.

QUALITY WHITE MALE

NEW TO SOMERSET COUNTY

44, divorced white female, healthcare professional busy working on my degree at a weekend college finally has the summer off. Haven't had a chance to make new friends. I'd like to get back to what I enjoy, natural living, outdoors activities like biking, hiking, long walks, rides in the country and exploring, all types of music from Reggae to Blue Grass, getting into shape, but most importantly good and funny conversations and friendship. I have an adventurous nature and I'm open to learning, sharing and having fun and taking risks. I just returned from a white water rafting trip in WV with my kids. What a blast although I was a little scared! I appreciate the absurdities that life can offer and can laugh at myself (why else would I write this personal). I'd love to meet a patient man with similar interests who wants to explore (the Bridgus of Madison County) with me this summer. Please respond to ext. 4479

SUMMER DINING

FERRARO'S OF SOMERVILLE

18 W. Main St.
Somerville, NJ
(908) 707-6029

The 'family' at Ferraro's includes co-owners Joe Bonfantino and John Hrindo, holding John Jr.

Ferraro's combines quality, and service with good price

Do you want to treat that special client or customer to some fabulous Italian cuisine for lunch or dinner, but have to keep the tab within reason? Do you want to go where the staff knows you personally and treats you like the valued patron you are? Do you want to dine with a loved one in an intimate atmosphere?

If you answered "yes" to any of the above questions, you and your party will want to experience Ferraro's of Somerville, at 18 W. Main St. Under the experienced management of co-owner Joe Bonfantino for the past year, Ferraro's has experienced a renaissance in its kitchen and wait staff.

"Our motto is 'Fine Food at Casual Prices,'" he said, beaming.

Mr. Bonfantino honed his restaurant skills under the expert tutelage of Paul and Anna Ferraro, owners of Ferraro's of Westfield. "I am tremendously grateful to them," he said. "They believed in me and gave me my start."

From the Westfield establishment has recently come chef and co-owner John Hrindo, who creates different specials for each meal, a feat that few other establishments can't match. "We always have a pasta, chicken fish and veal or pork special," Mr. Hrindo proudly said.

Two of their most popular specials are Pasta Giovanni (homemade pasta with a pink cream cognac sauce, sundried tomatoes and shitake mushrooms served with fish or chicken) and Filet Mignon Tre Sapore (medallions of filet mignon, breast of chicken and shrimp, sauteed with mushrooms, garlic, white wine) served over a bed of arugula. Mr. Hrindo trained under some of the best chefs in New York who themselves create exquisite dishes.

Mr. Hrindo is always trying new dishes culled from the best culinary books and magazines and greatly enjoys combining foods in new and flavorful ways. One of Mr. Hrindo's assistant chefs is a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America who also delights in creating new dishes, and creating some of the blackboard specials that constitute about 50 percent of patron's choices. And special requests are always accommodated.

There is another factor in the success of Ferraro's of Somerville. It is the restaurant's efficient, friendly wait staff of 10 who, Mr. Bonfantino said, "have contributed a lot to our success. Their loyalty and professionalism have helped make us what we are. They know our customers and provide the finishing touch so important in our overall image," he added.

Because people want the best foods at the most reasonable prices and are more selective in spending during a recession, the current economic climate has boosted Ferraro's business. As soon as the restaurant reopened a year ago, word began to spread and spread fast about its fine food, staff and moderate costs.

"Business has sky-rocketed in the past year. I couldn't be happier," Mr. Bonfantino noted.

Ferraro's specials and staple menu items are all priced under $12. The restaurant accepts all major credit cards, and now has a liquor license. It is open for lunch Monday-Friday, and dinner every night of the week.

The owners of Carpaccio's Restaurant, the Qiku family, are once again doing what made them so successful in the past. They have been at this site for 16 years and in the first 12 they were known as the Ox Bow, a pleasant family restaurant with a large menu and low to medium prices.

Carpaccio's has three dining rooms, one large and two small intimate ones separated by a fireplace. Most of the ala carte dining is done in the two small rooms. The main dining is a lovely setting consisting of wood paneling half way up the walls, grey painted walls and ceilings, and large bay windows in the front wall.

The table setting consist of white table cloths, pink under lining and matching napkins. Waitress's are adorned in tuxedo's, a carry over from their upgrading movement. The servers are all pleasant, knowledgeable and courteous. I have always felt that a good server can make the difference between an average and entertaining dining experience. The servers are always there when needed, always changing the silverware and always ready with an answer to all questions.

Carpaccio's menu consist of 10 appetizers, 4 soups, including stracciatella, and Italian egg drop soup with spinach and 2 salads including Caesar.

There are 9 pasta dishes with 9 different sauces, 8 veal, 5 chicken, 5 chops and steaks and 9 seafood entrees. In addition, there are nightly specials such as soft shell crabs, broiled salmon filet, and rigatoni in a vodka sauce.

All entrees come with a salad and vegetable. The house salad consists of iceberg lettuce, spinach, cucumbers and red cabbage in a vinaigrette dressing.

The desserts are worth mentioning. Choices are Carpaccio cake, a bitter sweet dark chocolate sponge cake, ricotta cheese cake, Napoleons, fresh strawberries & much more.

Carpaccio's may have upgraded their establishment, but in the process it has become once again an unpretentious, satisfying restaurant worth going to.

Wine With Reason Marilyn Cormack

Ten years ago, the thought of California producing world class wines brought laughter. They laughed at Washington and Oregon, too. Okay. Are you ready? Texas wines. Are you laughing? I hope not because there is a pattern developing here.

I recently tasted the wines of Llano Estacado, a 70 thousand plus case winery located in Lubbock, Texas. I remember about five years ago when all of the wine periodicals were heralding Texas as THE new place to watch in the wine world. Even though some may not be as enthusiastic about the wines as they once were, Llano wines certainly show that Texas can be a player.

The winery actually started out as an experiment in organic chemistry and it wasn't until 1983 that the remaining hybrid vines were replaced with vinifera. Winemaker Don Brady is not afraid to play with the fruit, giving it oak accents or malolactic where it is needed.

The 1990 Sauvignon Blanc is both powerful and simple. The nose, filled with green grass, melon, and fig just about takes your socks off through your shoes. And, there is a very intense alcohol tingle. But, in the mouth, the wine is not overpowering at all. The flavors of herbs and melon do follow through (and I was really glad they did) but somehow the acid/alcohol balance tamed the flavors and you have an excellent food pairing wine. Heck, this is fine by itself before dinner!

The 1991 Chardonnay has to be the "star" of Llano's lineup. It has layer upon layer of flavors - apple, oak, vanilla, pineapple, and a hint of butter - all set in refreshing acidity and ML richness. And, this is only their regular bottling. Wow! The 1989 Cabernet Sauvignon, which is (unfortunately) very limited, had to be my favorite. Rich in plum, blackberry and black pepper flavors, velvety smooth and just enough tannins to give the finish a firm bite. Shows me that Texas reds are nothing to sneeze at.

Texas wines can only improve. They have the climate, they have the technology, and they have talented winemakers using the grapes to their greatest advantage. I like 'em. I hope you will, too. Enjoy!
