911 emergency call service turned on

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

The 911 emergency telephone service became effective yesterday. At Tuesday night's Town Council meeting, Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe announced the commencement of the 911 service.

"Westfield will become part of the 911 emergency service," Mayor Boothe said, "this comes as a result of a lot of effort over many years by many people."

Mayor Boothe explained that Westfield's 911 service is an independent system so that when someone calls 911 they will receive a Westfield police dispatcher, as opposed to a police dispatcher from a surrounding community such as Elizabeth.

In other business Tuesday night:

- Council passed an ordinance amending the town code which regulates liquor licenses. The required seating capacity for such restaurants was lowered from 150 to 25.

"This change recognizes the reality of the economic situation," said Councilman Michael Panagos.

- Council also approved an ordinance to adopt a re-development plan for the senior citizens housing complex on Boynton Avenue.

- On first reading, council approved two other resolutions in relation to the senior citizens housing, one approving the financial agreement and the other approving the application to construct project.

These are all steps in the process for the town to proceed in the development of the Senior Citizen II project.

- Also on first reading, council approved a two-way stop sign on Kimball Avenue at the intersection of Wychwood Road. This action comes as a result of a proliferation of auto accidents at this intersection over the years.

Although the town has approached the state for approval of a four-way stop sign for this intersection, the council feels the two-way stop is a positive step for the time being.

- Council approved on first reading a resolution to file an application with the Planning Board for the subdivision of town-owned land on Sherman Street.

"At the present time we have a large parcel of land here," said Councilwoman Margaret Sur, "this application would divide it into salable lots so that if the town wishes they can be sold individually."

Globe-hopping plans

Trailer family hit by alarming call

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Although the Town Council is amending an ordinance to allow the Anspach family an extension to continue living in their trailer, it seemed last week that someone was pushing to get them out — immediately.

The Anspachs have been living in a trailer on their front lawn for the past eight months, waiting to get their house repaired after a fire severely damaged it. The work is just beginning and should be finished in the next month or so. In the meantime, the trailer permit has expired and the family has nowhere to go.

Tuesday night, the Town Council approved first reading of an amendment to the ordinance which controls the permit, in order to allow for extensions. But the amendment will not be effective until it is passed again in two weeks on a final reading.

Two weeks ago, Mayor Garland

'Bud' Boothe said that under the circumstances, the town would not take action against the Anspachs. "Most matters like this are handled by bringing it to the attention of the council and the council deciding whether to proceed against them or not," he said, "I think it would be very unlikely for the town to cause these people any more hardship."

However, last Wednesday the Anspachs received a phone call from After Disaster, the company from which they leased the trailer. After Disaster said they had to come and retrieve the trailer because they had received a phone call from the Town of Westfield explaining that the permit expired and it was against the law to keep the trailer in place.

Construction Official George Tzamos said his secretary did call After Disaster to inform them of the law and the penalties. "Technically, they are in violation of the law until the council changes it," (Please turn to page A-2)

Downtown holiday parking to be free

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield shoppers will be able to park downtown for free Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays throughout the holiday season, courtesy of the Westfield Main Street Program and the Chamber of Commerce.

In an effort to promote Westfield businesses, the two groups won approval from the Town Council to bag all the meters in the central business district from Thanksgiving weekend until the end of December.

The approval came despite several councilmen's concern over $15,000 in lost revenue the town will endure without the meters on the weekends. Councilmen James Hely and Kenneth MacRitchie said that the town should not waive this revenue when the demand for parking is at its greatest.

According to Councilman and Downtown Liaison Norman Greco, it is a question of what comes first — the chicken or the egg. "I don't think the town will lose out because this is an effort to get more people in and generate business," Mr. Greco said.

According to Katherine Brohier, Executive Director of the Chamber of Commerce, the meter bagging comes in response to resident requests on a Chamber survey. Although the town has never offered free parking to this extent, in recent years it has been more lenient during the holidays. For instance, last year parking enforcement officers handed out "Merry Christmas" cards to first offense overtime parkers in the week before Christmas.

The Chamber and Main Street are currently looking to purchase the bags, which will have a holiday message courtesy of the two groups. The groups will place the bags on the meters Thursday morning and take them off again Saturday evenings every weekend. These days were chosen both to coincide with Chamber holiday events and retailers' hours.

According to Captain John Wheatley of the Westfield Police, the hours and pay of the parking enforcement officers will not be affected. He said that they will still have plenty of work during that season with all of the no-parking and loading zones, and permit parking areas.

Schools way ahead of calculator use mandate

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

As juniors prepare to take the High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) next week, the state has mandated that students use calculators while taking both this test and the eighth-grade Early Warning Test (EWT). Mandate or not, according to Director of Instruction David Rock, Westfield schools are way ahead of the game.

Westfield schools are in their second year of implementing a new math program which follows guidelines of the Curriculum for School Mathematics of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. A major goal of this program is to use calculators as an integral part of mathematics learning.

"We are teaching students how to use them, and how to use them when it's most appropriate," Dr. Rock said. "Our emphasis is really more on problem-solving, on teaching students how to think using calculators."

Westfield has been using calculators in all the classrooms for the past several years and has just bought a large number of calculators in the last school year. Dr. Rock said there is now a calculator available for every student in every classroom in grades 1-12.

The schools encourage students to buy their own calculators to use both at home and at school, but assure that a calculator is available for any student for use at school. Different calculators are being used at different grade levels, but the Texas Instrument TI-34 will be available for use by students taking the EWT and the HSPT tests.

Besides the TI-34, a scientific model, elementary students are using the TI-108 which just has basic math functions. In addition, all teachers have access to calculator overheads, a machine which shows a transparent outline of a calculator on a large screen.

Laymen take to pulpit, preach in minister's absence

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield resident and churchgoer Judy Vastano felt a mixture of excitement and fear as she ascended the pulpit on Sunday to preach at The First Baptist Church.

"It's like when you have something that you're excited about and you get to share it with the people you really care about," Mrs. Vastano said. "My reaction when they asked me to preach? It's a feeling of both joy and nervousness at the same time."

Mrs. Vastano is one of many church members who are performing pastoral roles while senior minister Dr. Robert L. Harvey is on a study sabbatical at Harvard Divinity School.

The First Baptist Church is unique in that it has chosen to fill his roles by lay members until Dr. Harvey returns in December.

"I don't think it would work in every church," Mrs. Vastano said. "Dr. Harvey worked to strengthen the laity, developing leadership skills and encouraging us. This is part of our support to Dr. Harvey," she said.

For Mrs. Vastano the excitement centers on sharing her religious sentiments and experiences from the pulpit, while her fear is mostly just stage-fright.

"It's very important to me that I seek God's leading in what I say. The closer the time comes the more peace comes, because it gets clearer," Mrs. Vastano said. "The fear — that's mostly just the public speaking part."

Mrs. Vastano's sermon "Journey to the Center" focused on her own spiritual journey to a deeper level of spirituality that goes beyond church involvement.

"It is my testimony of what God has led me to, how He has touched me," she said. "It is about knowing God on a more intimate and personal level and beginning the journey to my own center."

For Mrs. Vastano, ministry work is not all that unfamiliar. Although she does not have any seminary preparation as do many of the other lay preachers, both her father and brother are ministers in different churches.

"Not having gone to a school of divinity and being prepared in that area, one of my concerns is to make sure that I am spiritually on track," she said.

Hearing on rail station set for Wednesday nite

Proposed modifications to the Westfield train rotation platform and tunnel will be the subject of a public hearing Wednesday by the town council's traffic, transportation and parking committee.

In announcing the referral of this proposal to the committee, Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe said the town was approached by NJ Transit representatives over the summer as the state-operated rail system plans to have its most heavily utilized stations come into compliance with the new Americans With Disabilities Act.

"The town administrator, Mr. Malloy, the town engineer and administrator designate, Mr. Gottko, committee chairman Kenneth MacRitchie and I discussed with NJ Transit a number of proposals and the requirements for bringing the Westfield station into ADA compliance," Mayor Boothe said. "As a result of these thorough and frank discussions, NJ Transit will describe a series of proposals which we believe are in the best interest of Westfield, all commuters using the Westfield station, the Westfield business community and Westfield residents generally."

"In accordance with our usual practice, a project of this magnitude is referred to the appropriate committee for detailed investigation and a report back to the mayor and the entire council."

Representatives of NJ Transit will attend the meeting and describe the plans.

Because the Westfield Station is a historic station, all plans must be approved by the State Historic Preservation Office. As described by the mayor, the proposals include the following:

- High-level train platforms will be installed on both the eastbound and westbound tracks. Such platforms are level with the train car floors and have existed for many years at Cranford, Roselle Park and Newark, and will be installed throughout the NJ Transit stations across the state.

- A new tunnel under the tracks, 10- to 12-feet wide, will be constructed to the east of the station buildings. The tunnel will be accessible on each side by glass-sided, well-illuminated elevators and by stairs.

- The existing tunnel, which was built sometime around World War I, will be permanently closed.

In compliance with federal law, the agency is required to modify its rail and bus facilities to accommodate passengers with disabilities, including those with wheelchairs. As a result, NJ Transit has designed a new station that will meet those requirements and enhance the quality and convenience of the existing station.

The ADA requires NJ Transit to ensure that customers with disabilities have equal access to public transportation facilities. In order to meet the mandates of that law, its representatives are working closely with the communities it serves to design improvement plans to meet the travel needs of all rail customers.

"Among the topics discussed with NJ Transit were possible rehabilitation of the existing tunnel, where to position the high-rise platforms and indeed whether such platforms were necessary for the length of the stations," Mayor Boothe said. "We emphasized to NJ Transit that reconstruction of the existing tunnel was simply not acceptable based upon our long history of drainage, lighting, vandalism and other problems."

"In addition, we pointed out that relocation of the tunnel to an easterly location would increase usage of the southside parking facilities during Saturday shopping periods, which would support the effort Westfield is making to revitalize our central business district through the state-supported Main-Street New Jersey program."

The town officials requested that the high-rise platforms continue to be positioned between the two station buildings rather than be shifted in an easterly direction. They expressed concern that any movement easterly would result in excessive vehicular and pedestrian traffic at the middle of the southside parking lot and in the area on the north side adjacent to the parking lot between Raymond's Restaurant and the fitness center, the mayor said.

For its part, NJ Transit emphasized that full platforms were necessary not only to benefit the handicapped or wheelchair patrons of the railroad but also as a safety measure for train crews and others. These platforms will be covered with a shed roof on each side, and a shielded area will be positioned where passengers awaiting trains can be protected properly from weather.

Improvement plans for the Westfield Station also include:

- New canopies, lighting and signage.
- Tactile stripes along the platform edge for customers with visual impairments.
- Accessibility improvements within the station buildings such as lowered ticket counters, wider doors and a text phone.
- New ramps and shelters at the east end of each platform.

"I am very pleased that NJ Transit has worked closely with us in developing these plans," Mayor Boothe said. "Extensive cooperation between state and local agencies is badly needed whenever a state agency proposes to do major work in a municipality. In turning further scrutiny, investigation and discussion of this project over to Map provided by town shows location of proposed new tunnel to replace existing pedestrian underpass, as well as platforms which are to be raised to comply with federal ADA laws. Hearing on the plan is Wednesday in the Municipal Building.

the traffic, transportation and parking committee, I am entrusting it to an experienced councilman and veteran train commuter, Mr. MacRitchie, and I am sure that he and his committee will carefully evaluate all comments by interested parties."

The hearing will be held 8 p.m. in the town council chamber in the Westfield Municipal Building. Interested commuters and others are invited to attend, observe and participate.

Westfield is one three stations along the Raritan Valley Line scheduled for high level platform work to meet the requirements of the federal government's Americans with Disabilities Act.

Drs. Smith, Petix visit administrators in Chelyabinsk

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Schools Superintendent Mark Smith and Westfield High School Principal Robert Petix returned last week from an educational trip to Russia.

The Westfield administrators headed into Chelyabinsk to study the school district and consult on educational issues. The city itself is home to more than a million people, and is divided into seven school districts with more than 150 schools.

"In Chelyabinsk, I will meet with educational leaders on ways that Russian schools can improve instructional practices to involve students as more active, creative and thinking learners," Dr. Smith said before the trip.

Dr. Smith, Dr. Petix and their wives paid all expenses for the trip that comes as a result of the work of two Westfield teachers in Chelyabinsk. Project 79 social studies coordinator Alan Lantis and foreign language teacher Randee Lantis spent January through June of this year teaching in Chelyabinsk as part of an exchange program.

In continuation of these efforts, Dr. Smith and Dr. Petix were invited to Chelyabinsk by the Commission of Education, Science and Culture. Their host was Eivon Oshotnikov, head of Education, Culture and Health for the region.

Their agenda included two full days meeting with the city's top education officials, including district superintendents, principals, and members of the Education Commission.

In addition, Dr. Smith and Dr. Petix visited a number of the cities schools, including an experimental English immersion school, a French school, and a school for the handicapped.

"The educational leaders of that city are interested in moving beyond the high level of memorization and rote learning which marks much of Russian Education," Dr. Smith said. "They are also interested in making the governance of the schools less authoritarian and hierarchical."

Dr. Smith and Dr. Petix also had the honor of meeting with the city mayor and other town officials and taking a tour of the city, as well as the schools. The two educators brought back new ideas and increased knowledge of Russia. "For the schools' benefit, we broadened our understanding of another culture," Dr. Petix said, "which we can in turn pass on to the teachers."

Some specific ideas gained from observing Russian education includes the stress on teaching foreign languages from an early age. The trip also gave suggestions to future involvement with Russian educators as Dr. Petix discussed the possibility of sending more Westfield teachers overseas and bringing Russian teachers here.

The educators were coincidentally in Moscow, at The White House during the recent strike. "It was very interesting as an American to observe the people's reactions," Dr. Petix said. "What was most striking to me was that there was not one bit of anti-American sentiment, everyone was very curious and friendly."

Along with ideas about education, Dr. Smith and Dr. Petix also brought over a surplus of items such as Westfield's bicentennial poster to share with the Russian educators. According to Dr. Petix, they returned with lighter suitcases, although they did receive many gifts common to Russians.

"It was one of the most enriching experiences I've ever had," Dr. Petix said.

Trailer family hit

Mr. Tzamos said, "there's nothing we can do. The law says when the permit expires, the trailer has to be removed."

Mr. Tzamos explained his office only issues the permits and informs people of the rules. Enforcement is by the zoning department and the police. He also added that his office had received several phone calls from neighbors complaining of the unsightliness of the trailer.

This week, Mayor Garland 'Bud'

Boothe said that he did not realize that this was happening and he would see what he could do about it. He said again that it was not the intention of the town to cause the Anspachs any more problems.

At this point, After Disaster is waiting until the town clears up the situation. After conversations with Councilman Norman Greco, who has asked the enforcing offices for relief, After Disaster has agreed to let the trailer and the Anspach family stay on their front lawn.

Seven arrested in wake of disturbance

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

An ongoing dispute between several out-of-town youths and residents of Cacciola Place triggered the arrest of seven people Friday, police said.

Jeffrey VanDunt, 27, of Linden Avenue was arrested first on a charge of simple assault against a Cacciola Place resident. According to the victim, a black car pulled up in front of his residence with approximately four male passengers, who were known to him through previous incidents. The victim and the suspects engaged in a conversation which led to an argument.

The victim said that at this time Mr. VanDunt got out of the vehicle and took a wooden stick out of the trunk of the car. Mr. VanDunt allegedly struck the victim on the left side of the head twice before jumping back into the vehicle and fleeing the scene.

The police soon stopped the suspect's vehicle in Garwood. Mr. VanDunt was arrested for simple assault and is being held in lieu of $250 bail. Meanwhile, the victim was treated for head injuries by the Westfield Rescue Squad.

Later in the day, six males, including two juveniles, were arrested on Cacciola Place for disorderly conduct in an incident relating to Mr. VanDunt's arrest, police said.

Police found more than 70 people in the street on Cacciola Place. Witnesses told police that people in a small gray car were driving up and down the street shouting obscenities and attempting to start a fight over the prior dispute and arrest.

The car approached the crowd and, according to police, the crowd became enraged and tried to surround the vehicle. The police managed to direct the vehicle to a safe area farther down the street.

All occupants of the car were then placed under arrest for disorderly conduct. Three of the suspects, Andre Cherry, 19, of Cranford, Charles Cherry, 20, of Cranford, and Donald Alexander, 19, of Elizabeth were allegedly involved in the previous incident with Mr. VanDunt. Also arrested were Winston Speed, 20, of Roselle, a 16-year-old from Linden, and a 17-year-old from Roselle. The two juveniles were released to a responsible adult while the other four suspects were held in lieu of $500 bail.

According to the police report, this incident is one of several that have occurred in the past few months in an ongoing dispute between the suspects and residents of Cacciola Place. Police said that the suspects had been repeatedly warned to stay out of the area, but that they have continuously returned threatening harm to the residents.

Other arrests

On Sunday, a 16-year-old from Westfield was arrested for shoplifting at Lord and Taylor. The juvenile was turned over to a parent.

Robert Moore of Rahway was arrested last Sunday for DWI. Breathalyzer obtained a blood alcohol content of .26, police said. Mr. Moore is being held in lieu of $1,150 bail, his license is revoked for the second time.

On Sunday, Evangelos Lamprou of East Broad Street was arrested for being an unlicensed driver at South and Cumberland Streets. His motorcycle was also unregistered and uninsured. He was released on $225 bail.

Also on Sunday, Wayne Foskey of Jersey City was arrested for an outstanding contempt of court charge from Westfield Municipal court. He was released on $1,000 bail.

Last Friday, Howard Candia of Plainfield was arrested for an outstanding warrant of Union County Superior Court. The original charge was for possession of controlled dangerous substances. Mr. Candia was turned over to the Union County Sheriff's Office.

Harassment complaint

A South Chestnut Street resident reported harassment last Saturday. The resident claims that she received numerous hang-up phone calls between Oct. 4 and Oct. 9, along with having eggs thrown at the residence on Oct. 8.

Burglaries

On Oct. 4, police recovered property from a previous burglary at a business on South Avenue. A wallet, a pocketbook, a ledger, and several miscellaneous papers were found in a wooded area near the south side of the train station.

Also on Oct. 4, an Irving Avenue resident reported his home burglarized. The victim said entry was through the rear unlocked window. Although several rooms were ransacked, the only item missing was a television set.

Criminal mischief

On Oct. 4 a witness said that someone shot at and broke eight Jefferson School windows with an air pistol.

On Oct. 8, a Maple Street resident reported criminal mischief to his vehicle while it was parked at Gumpert Field. The windows were smashed.

Criminal mischief to a vehicle was also reported on Oct. 9 by a Harrison Avenue resident. A hole was punched in one of the tires.

Halloween parade is set for 24th

The annual Halloween parade, sponsored by the Y's Men's Club of the YMCA of Westfield, has been held for more than 35 years.

"Here's your chance to dress up funny like a kitten, witch or bunny. You'll be sure to win a prize if you have the best disguise."

"Some of the parents will probably remember that little slogan," said Bill Wilson, parade chairman for more than 28 years.

This year's parade will be held Sunday, Oct. 24. Assembly for the parade will begin 1 p.m. at Orchard and Elm Street Playground. Judging for trophies and cash prizes will run 1-1:40 p.m. and the parade will begin 1:45 p.m.

Led by the Westfield Fire Department's snorkel, the parade will proceed down Elm Street to Broad Street, and up Broad Street to Mindowaskin Park where trophies and cash prizes will be presented to the winners.

Shop Rite hearing continues tonight before plan boards

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Village Supermarket Attorney Jeff Lehrer will present new witnesses tonight at a joint hearing of the Westfield and Garwood Planning Boards for a proposed 59,000-square-foot Shop Rite straddling the two communities on North Avenue.

Due to new zoning requirements from Garwood, Mr. Lehrer presented revisions in parking plans at the last session in September. The new plans eliminate a shared parking access with Plaza Properties next door. Traffic Engineer Henry Ney testified that this alteration will not create any changes in traffic conditions.

The public was then given the opportunity to ask questions regarding all of Mr. Ney's testimony that has been presented over the last several meetings. In addition, two attorneys who represent private concerns cross-examined Mr. Ney.

There is still one more attorney to cross-examine Mr. Ney. However, according to Mr. Lehrer, Mr. Ney will not be able to be present tonight and will be brought back for November's session to complete the cross-examination of his testimony.

Instead, at tonight's meeting new testimony will be presented by Frank Sauro, General Counsel for Village Supermarkets. Mr. Sauro will speak about the proposed Shop Rite's management and give testimony on the basic operation of the store. He will be address issues such as the amount of deliveries, the hours of operation, and the number of employees.

After each time new testimony is presented, both planning boards and then the private attorneys cross-examine the witness. Then the public is given time to ask questions regarding that testimony.

If time allows, Mr. Lehrer will also present his next witness, Dr. Harvey Moskowitz. Dr. Moskowitz is the planner for Village Supermarkets and will testify on planning issues, including any zoning or variance matters.

The meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Westwood, 438 North Avenue in Garwood.

Dr. Horn brings jungle to students — and vice versa

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Sixth-grade reading teacher Joan Horn's passion for the rain forest has done more for her students than to arrange a field trip to Peru. Her own interest and enthusiasm is spread to her students through unique educational techniques, both in and out of the classroom.

Although she teaches reading for a living, Dr. Horn admits a lifelong interest in environmental science. She has been to Peru twice working with scientists and other American educators.

"It really did change my life," Dr. Horn said. "I fell in love when I went down there."

Dr. Horn described the days spent along the Amazon River, climbing the clay hills, visiting the black lakes, and teetering along a canopy walkway at the crown of the rain forest.

"Every day you're learning a new thing; it's all just poured into you," Dr. Horn said. "I came back and I knew I had to do something, so I bring my experiences into the classroom."

For the third consecutive year, Dr. Horn has been integrating her experiences into her reading classes. Along with geography teacher Cindy Macgonle, who has also gone to the educators workshop, Dr. Horn has devised an interdisciplinary unit with the math and science departments.

All four disciplines take one month out of the year to focus on rain forest issues. The teachers expose the students to the culture and environment of the Amazon Rain Forest while teaching topics in each different subject.

For Dr. Horn this has meant simulation exercises, teaching the students about non-verbal communication. The children take the place of either tourists or natives and have to bargain trades without talking to each other. The teachers decorate the walls of the school and have the students search and identify animals native to rain forest.

In addition, Dr. Horn has the students

"When you really want to do something, and you have a goal, you just do it"

—Joan Horn

do written exercises which encourage them to think about the differences of life in Peru, in the rain forest.

"They loved it; it was a great success," Dr. Horn said, adding that the students are able to learn more as they experience things instead of only reading about them in books. "It's really something to see the kids get so excited."

This year, Dr. Horn is going even further. She has begun a co-curricular Rain Forest Club for students in grades 6-8. The club meets once a week and learns about the flora and fauna of the rain forest by making actual-size replicas of the living things.

Due to Dr. Horn's personal efforts, the club has received a glass case for the replicas from Mercedes Benz and a grant from PSE&G for scientific supplies and two field trips. The club will visit the tropical areas in the Museum of Natural History and the Bronx Zoo.

"I want them to see a connection between the rain forest and our environment," Dr. Horn said. "It's important that they understand what's happening and have compassion for both here and there."

What drives her to spend all this extra time and energy teaching the children about the rain forest? According to Dr. Horn, it's just the way she is. "Certain things just do that to you," she said.

"When you really want to do something and you have a goal, you just do it."

Dr. Horn has taken the big step and proposed a field trip to a children's workshop in Peru next summer. The trip was narrowly approved by the school board in a 5-4 vote mainly due to concern over safety.

"I understand that if you've never been there you may question the safety," Dr. Horn commented. "But I know from being there that it is extremely safe; it's safer than my own home."

Dr. Horn's field trip to Peru is still dependent on her ability to raise funds to pay for it. She hopes to aim her efforts toward businesses and non-profit organizations but will not count out individuals, no matter how small the contribution.

"I just really want this to happen, and I have no doubts it will," Dr. Horn said. "If I did I should quit. There have to be people out there who want our children to be educated, to be able to be there in it and to come back and spread the word."

Report cards on schools are sent home

Yesterday Westfield Schools handed out the New Jersey Report Cards, which include a School Profile for each of the town's nine public schools.

According to State Education Commissioner Mary Lee Fitzgerald, "The 1992-1993 School Report Card represents two essential elements necessary for school improvement: accountability and community involvement. The School Profile will give the public a better understanding of their schools and a base line by which each school can measure its own progress against."

The 1993 School Report Card-Profile replaces the annual School Report Card issued over the past two years. The old report included district-level data, and the new report provides school-level data and some state-wide averages for comparison purposes. The new report is meant to focus on student performance.

"I support this initiative," said Dr. Smith. "We have a responsibility to report to the public about their schools and the public has a right to know. Publication of the School Report Card-Profiles could lead to positive discussions about what we are doing or not doing well."

Master copies of the nine individual School Report Card-Profiles for Westfield are available for public viewing in each school building, in the administration building at 302 Elm St. and in the Municipal Library.

Suburban inks deals for TV service here

Suburban Cablevision has reached agreements with all five local broadcasters who had elected retransmission consent. Vice President of Suburban Cablevision Frank DeJoy announced the close of negotiations Oct. 1, five days before the deadline imposed by the FCC.

This means that Union County cable watchers will not need an antenna and an A-B switch to continue watching all of the broadcast channels.

WCBS has granted retransmission consent with no compensation for one year, whereupon they will work on a new agreement.

WNYW has extended the deadline to Dec. 6, by which time they will have reached an agreement.

WABC, WNBC, and WPIX all agreed to retransmission consent under the condition that Suburban Cablevision launch new cable channels from the networks, including "America's Talking" from WNBC, WABC's "ESPN2", and WPIX's "The Television Food Network".

"In all cases our agreements provide us and our customers with something of value," Mr. DeJoy said, "and does not include outright payments for the programming non-cable customers receive at no cost."

League registers 300 voters at fairs

Members of the League of Women Voters of the Westfield, Mountainside, Scotch Plains and Fanwood Area were out in force registering new voters at Fanwood's first Fall Street Fair and at Westfield's Festival in September.

Carolyn Pulliam, voter registration chairperson, said 300 witnessed registrations were sent to the board of elections.

Towns mull boundary change to speed development of land

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield is in the process of negotiating an agreement with Cranford which will change the municipal boundaries between the two towns.

Westfield wants to develop a tract of town-owned land behind Maryland and Delaware Streets in Westfield, referred to as site-7. The 2½-acre tract of developable land is cut off from Westfield by a tract of non-developable wetlands.

The wetlands area prohibits any road access or sewer access from Westfield. "It would be isolated from Westfield because of the wetlands," said Westfield Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe, "to get in and out, you would have to go through Cranford. In addition, the sewers would have to connect to Cranford."

Although these types of issues arise quite often between communities that are adjacent, this solution is not so common. The last time either community changed its border was over 25 years ago. According to Jay Johnson of the NJ Division of Community Affairs, this kind of change is very rare in this area.

Westfield originally just asked Cranford for an agreement to hook up to their sewers, paying so much a year for the use. But Cranford had a different idea.

"We think it is the best approach to benefit both communities," Cranford Mayor Daniel J. Aschenbach said, "because of the access in Cranford, it is the more responsible option."

According to Mayor Aschenbach, this approach would allow a greater tax yield for Cranford, with little cost for additional Cranford services. In Westfield, it would allow for a greater yield of land sale because they could sell more lots under Cranford zoning than under Westfield zoning.

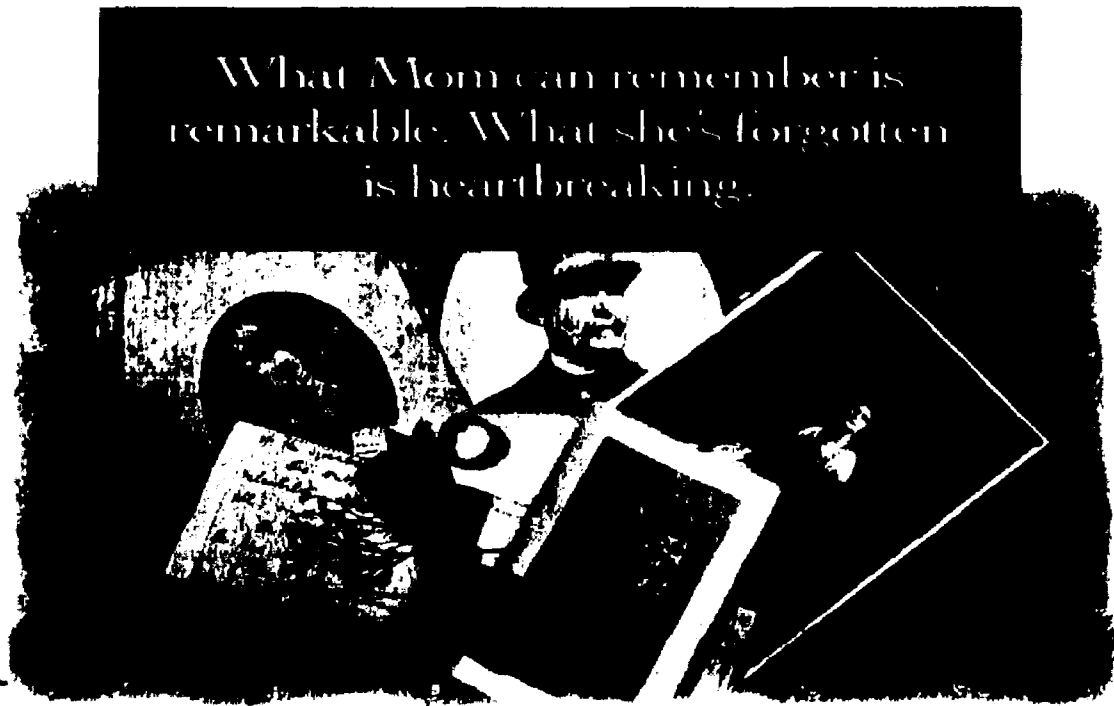

Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe first thought that it was a crazy idea. But he said, "The more I thought about it the more it made a certain amount of sense. On a further look, I saw that if this was sold to be developed according to Cranford zoning, it would allow for 11 lots instead of eight."

Westfield Councilman Gary Jenkins said that the town wants to develop site-7 soon because it is a potential Mount Laurel site, and this is a way to get the development done. "The neighbors in this area definitely want this taken care of with single family houses," Councilman Jenkins said. "They know the consequences of Mount Laurel."

Regardless of why the towns want to do it, the process of doing it is unclear at this time. The administrators and engineers of both towns will be working out the details in the coming months.

According to Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe, right now Westfield hopes that they can subdivide the tract into 11 lots according to Cranford's zoning and sell them off privately with the understanding that the area will become part of the Town of Cranford. The boundary would be moved only to include the developable land, not the wetlands.

New historic district proposed

Third Ward Councilman Kenneth L. MacRitchie, seeking reelection on the Republican ticket in the Nov. 2 general election, has proposed the creation of a Boulevard Historic District.

According to Councilman MacRitchie, the Boulevard Historic District would encompass the 400 and 500 blocks of Boulevard, with possible later addition of certain adjoining blocks. The district would be an informal organization; it would not mandate the colors of people's houses.

Councilman MacRitchie said the Boulevard Historic District would serve two purposes. First, it would create appreciation for the Victorian architecture of the neighborhood. Second, it would promote street improvements, such as Victorian streetlights, Belgian block curbs and tile street signs.

Christie Whitman for governor

New Jersey Governor Jim Florio three years ago proposed and signed into law what was up to then the largest state tax increase in American history. The results were immediate — and catastrophic. Overnight New Jersey's economy went from a national leader to a laggard. It suffered far worse in the recession than the nation as a whole, and its recovery has been slower. Over 300,000 jobs have been destroyed, more than eight percent of the labor force. The state has not seen anything like this since the Great Depression.

Not only has the Garden State fallen behind the rest of the country, but its performance has also trailed neighbors New York and Pennsylvania. In the ten years prior to Florio, New Jersey had done better than those states. Rarely has a state fallen so quickly from economic grace. And New Jersey hasn't had the excuse that California has of big cutbacks in aerospace and defense. Its comparative disaster is entirely Florio-made.

All of this is why New Jersey's GOP gubernatorial candidate Christie Whitman is proposing one of the most radical state tax cuts in history, just the opposite of what Florio did. She wants to remove Florio's tax poison from the state's economic bloodstream. Personal income tax rates will be cut an average of 30 percent over three years (20-25 percent for high-income earners). People who work and live in distressed urban areas will have their income tax bills slashed even more. Over 300,000 low-income earners will be dropped from the income tax rolls entirely.

Recognizing that we live in the information age, Mrs. Whitman will also phase out the telephone sales tax. She will permanently do away with the corporate tax surcharge and will rescind the motor fuel/motor carrier tax. In addition, she is proposing a dramatic jobs creation tax credit, patterned after one enacted by Ohio earlier this year. This credit doesn't affect the current budget or the state's capacity to issue bonds. It kicks in only when new jobs are created. In Ohio it has already generated almost 10,000 new jobs and brought in over $800 million of new investment.

Unlike the federal government's, New Jersey's budget must be balanced. Most other governments put together and add up spending proposals, then match this against revenues. If anything is left over, they may give a small tax cut.

What makes Mrs. Whitman's tax ideas and approach so different, indeed so truly breath-taking, is that she plans to make her tax cuts the core of the budgeting process. Spending decisions will be made around the cuts, not vice-versa.

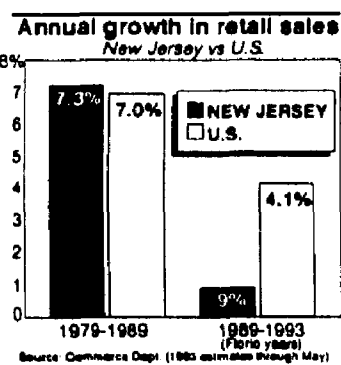

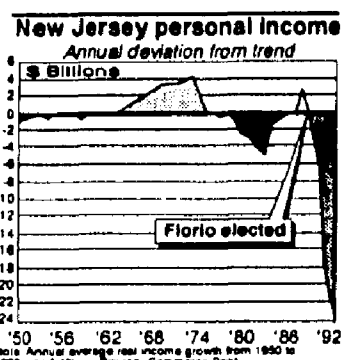

Unlike many policy makers, Christie Whitman recognizes that people make an economy grow. She knows that high taxes mean fewer jobs; lower taxes, more and better-paying jobs. It's called incentive.

Christie Whitman's pro-growth, pro-jobs platform of dramatic tax cuts, fiscal restraints, regulatory reform and urban revival will not only win her this election, but will be a model for the rest of the nation.

This summer Mrs. Whitman asked Bear, Stearns economist Lawrence Kudlow and me to co-chair a committee to recommend proposals to revive New Jersey's battered economy. Her charge to us was dramatic and simple: "Recommend what you think is right. Don't worry about the politics." After taking input from us and others, she has put together a program that is bold — and right.

Christie Whitman is on her way to becoming an American Margaret Thatcher.

Parent pleads for controls in Kimball-Jefferson area

To The Record:

I am writing to you to follow up on our conversation of Sept. 10, 1993 when our 2-year-old Labrador retriever was hit by a car just beyond our driveway on Kimball Ave. Our family has lived at the corner of Kimball Ave. and Jefferson Ave. for four years now.

I have repeatedly called the Westfield Police Department during that time requesting some type of speed control on Kimball Ave., especially before and after school and at lunchtime. Not until September 14th, did I see a policeman stationed on Kimball Ave., attempting to deter speeders. I have not seen one before or since that date.

Our dog, Maggie, was hit at 8:43 a.m. on September 10th as she escaped out the door and a Wilson School mother, who was running late, came flying over the hill on Kimball Ave. near the corner of Topping Hill Rd., swerved to avoid another dog pulling on a leash into Kimball Ave. and hit Maggie's front legs as she began to leave the driveway. Maggie suffered a severely broken right leg and a fractured left leg. My children, ages 7, 6, and 4, were very disturbed.

The main point is that this time it was only a dog that was hit, but the next time it could be a child who might not be as lucky as Maggie and could be killed! As you probably aware, there are no sidewalks on our side of Wilson School. Children must walk on the street due to the contour of the land and landscaping such as stone walls meeting the pavement's edge. And, the precise spot where the dog was hit is traveled by over 100 children a day.

Therefore, I urge you to put a stop on this extreme hazard before a real tragedy occurs! Since the majority of the traffic is neighborhood cars that should know better, drastic measures that attract major attention must be used. First of all, I request that a policeman make an ongoing attempt to issue tickets to those who exceed the 25 MPH speed limit (almost everyone!) via a speed trap until some of the measures below can provide a more permanent solution:

1. More stop signs between North Chestnut and Woodland Ave. to slow traffic. Possibly some four-way stop signs at Wychwood Rd. and at Jefferson Ave. and/or Linden Ave.

2. A crossing guard at Linden Avenue and Kimball Avenue, capable of controlling traffic. This would also alleviate another hazard to the many Wilson School children who cross from two directions at that most busy intersection.

3. A "SLOW-SCHOOL" sign with flashing lights for 10 MPH during those critical times placed on Kimball Ave. between Canterbury Rd. and Topping Hill Rd., where the sight distance on Kimball Ave. becomes extremely limited. I have seen this method used very effectively on Benson Place and Rahway Rd.

I hope you take this matter seriously and rectify this dangerous situation before a child is killed.

Pepper clears air on health issue

To The Record:

I'd like to correct a statement attributed to me in your September 30, 1993 article about reactions to the Clinton Health Plan. While I said that I supported the concept of everyone contributing toward health care costs, I have reservations about the provision requiring everyone to pay 20 percent. I favor more progressive-type provisions that are based on ability to pay. Clearly many doctors have higher salaries than many teachers. I don't believe that they ought to necessarily pay the same for their health care.

The Westfield Board of Education implemented a system of shared health costs with our administrators, custodians and paraprofessionals where the employee contribution is based on a scale related to income. The contributions range from $120 for lower-earning employees to $480 for higher-paid administrators. I am pleased that Westfield is the first school district in Union County to achieve the principle of shared costs for employee health benefits.

Coffee shops grounds for complaint

To The Record:

In the Aug. 19 Westfield Leader, I read that the Westfield Board of Adjustment has approved the application of Coffee Connection for conversion of a vacant retail space at 117 Central Ave. into an open-air coffee shop.

When I first moved to Westfield in February, I walked around downtown, at first I was pleased that I could purchase gourmet coffee in town. However, by the end of the day, I was surprised and turned off by the number of shops selling gourmet coffee.

In addition to Westfielders shopping at home, there has to be a sense of balance in the shops to keep the business district alive. Some one or group of individuals with old fashioned common sense need to steer the course to a balanced business district so that new businesses have a chance to survive.

I feel it is time to speak out and say enough is enough of gourmet coffee and gourmet coffee shops.

Health plan won't reach all in need

By DR. WILLIAM F. WALSH
PSYCHOLOGIST

President Clinton hid a tight fist within a velvet glove when he recently introduced his far-reaching plan for changing the way patients will get their health care in the future. Called managed competition, the President's unconventional therapy is meant to discipline the unruliness of supply and demand in a free market economy with limit setting government regulations.

The President has said, for instance, that under his plan, patients will retain the right to choose their own provider. Yet, that is true only if they select a traditional fee-for-service option.

In a fee-for-service plan, moderately higher premiums and copayments allow patients to select providers and facilities from a virtually unlimited array. When it comes to health care, freedom of choice can be empowering as well as consoling. It is reassuring to know a provider's only focus is the well being of the patient being served. It is encouraging to know that one has obtained the services of a provider for whom healing, in accordance with the highest standards of professional practice, is the primary concern.

It is important to remember that HMOs have evolved over the past decade or so as a means for stabilizing health care costs of insurers and employers. Stability is achieved by funding fixed annual HMO budgets. Accordingly, HMOs receive just so many dollars per covered person, whether or not the person is treated. HMO providers agree to accept reduced fees and to treat according to restrictive guidelines in exchange for referrals. With few exceptions, patients in an HMO are limited to the HMO's preferred providers.

Patients who need expensive care may actually become a strain on an HMO's budget, because the costs of their care exceed present allowances. Similarly, the cost of care may reduce year-end bonuses some HMO providers and managers take from unspent benefit dollars. To meet budgetary constraints, care may be reduced, postponed, or even denied. Providers who do not consistently work within the guidelines will not retain their so-called preferred status in the HMO. These are not ideal conditions for a trusting patient-provider relationship. Patients who need care should not have to worry whether their providers hands are tied by budgetary or bureaucratic strings.

As a psychologist with over 14 years of experience as a cost-conscious and independent fee-for-service provider, I have hesitated to jump on the managed care bandwagon. Review of several existing managed care programs, some adopted by major employers, shows that they are profoundly insensitive to some of the basic features that make psychotherapy an effective change agent for children, adolescents, and families as well as for individual adults and couples.

Intrusive monitoring procedures not only waste time and money but ride roughshod over confidentiality. Narrow limits on the number of authorized sessions add to patient anxiety by creating uncertainty about the duration of therapy. While applauding the President's decision to include both outpatient and inpatient mental health services in his benefits package, I recommend the temporary limit of 30 outpatient sessions per year be removed now, not in the year 2000.

Readers are encouraged to let their legislators know what they think about such managed health care issues as choice, treatment limits, confidentiality, etc. Those who consider psychological and psychiatric services a valuable community resource are especially urged to let their legislators know that they favor inclusions of such services with no annual cap on sessions. We can shape the future of health-care reform by acting now.

Girl Scouts seeking adults to help lead

Washington Rock Girl Scout Council invites interested adults who would like to create a positive impact in the lives of young women to consider being a Girl Scout leader.

Training sessions and assistance from experienced leaders and staff at Washington Rock Girl Scout Council provide preparation and continued support for new volunteers.

Washington Rock Girl Scout Council has more than 2,000 adult volunteers, most of whom are Girl Scout leaders, from all walks of life. Many of them manage professional careers, families, or both, while still others are single adults. More than 7,000 Girl Scouts in Washington Rock Girl Scout Council's communities in Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties depend on leaders to make Girl Scouting a reality for them.

As an adult volunteer in Girl Scouting, the troop leader helps create a unique, supportive environment where Girl Scouts develop critical life skills of decision-making, leadership and self-confidence in a diversified environment, regardless of ethnic, religious or economic background. This is accomplished through troop meetings and other activities which are scheduled to meet the needs of the leader and the girls.

Together they set their own schedules and objectives to enhance rather than conflict with other activities or commitments. Many leaders obtain support from parents of the girls in their troop, or they work with several co-leaders to share their time with the girls.

For more information on becoming a Girl Scout leader of girls ages 5-17, call 232-3236.

Weekend gala is kickoff for 60th UCC anniversary

By CHERYL HEHL
THE CHRONICLE

As Union County College enters its seventh decade this weekend, it also is celebrating its 50th anniversary in Cranford.

Saturday is the kickoff of a year-long program of activities commemorating the 1933 founding of the college, the oldest in New Jersey.

"Diamonds are Forever," is the theme for the Gala Concert and Silent Auction that will take place this weekend when the New Jersey Pops will perform music from the 1930s through the 1990s.

Survival and uniqueness have brought the college to the point where it now serves more than 11,000 full-time and part-time students on three campuses. The 48-acre main campus in Cranford today serves more than 11,000 students through 50 programs leading to an Associates degree, certificate or diploma. Union County College also is home to the state's largest professional nursing program and one of the state's largest programs for intensive English.

The college sees itself as well placed strategically to serve the residents of Union County with modern well-equipped facilities, a highly-credentialed and experienced faculty and staff, and a unique governing system that maintains ideals and traditions developed over the last sixty years. The college has earned the reputation of having "quality and depth."

The college's first survival battle came in 1936 when a federal grant for $17,000 expired. A group of professional people, including businessmen and educators, formed a private Board of Trustees to keep the college alive and functioning. Originally the college was formed to primarily provide work for out of work professors and higher educational opportunities for men and women who could not afford to go away to college. Classes were held in the evening at a high school in Roselle for 243 men and women.

World War II and its aftermath caused the next major test of survival for the college. As men and some women headed off to war and others went into defense jobs, enrollment in the old Grant School on the corner of Springfield Avenue and Holly Street in Cranford (the college's first home) dropped off to a low of 75. But faculty members led by a faculty member and a Cranford attorney resolved to see the college continue.

The college later purchased the building and offered day and evening classes there through 1959.

When the GIs returned from the war, they headed to American colleges and universities in unprecedented numbers. A similar experience occurred after the Korean conflict.

The Westfield High School, Class of 1943, as they appeared in their high school year book that year.

Theme is 'schmoozing' as WHS's Class of 1943 gathers for its 50th

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

In preparing for his class's 50th reunion, Westfield High School Alumnus Bill Clotworthy said, "There's something magic about 50."

Westfield High School's class of 1943 will gather Friday-Sunday after 50 years, with great anticipation of reminiscing and 'schmoozing.'

"We're all there to see old friends," Mr. Clotworthy said, "the theme is 'schmoozing,' conversation, everything else will be secondary."

Many alumni on the committee were hesitant to hold a 50th reunion at first but once the ball got rolling, they began to recognize it as a very special opportunity.

"I am usually reluctant to do these things," said Mr. Clotworthy, the committee chairman, "but there is really something intriguing about the 50th, you pick up the phone and talk to someone you haven't spoken to in 50 years and it's just amazing."

Alumna Dorothy Baldwin had similar feelings. "A lot of these people went from kindergarten all the way through in Westfield and they have this kind of homey instinct," she said. "We were a very close class and we realize that we probably won't have another reunion after this."

The class of '43 was a special class for a number of reasons, one of the most prominent of which was WWII. Indeed, their senior yearbook was dedicated to 18 boys who left the senior class to join the military. The book marked a time "when the clouds of war cast their blight upon all parts of the globe."

Mrs. Baldwin recalled the changes in school because of the war. "I remember how they made us do army training, thinking that we might be invaded and the girls too would have to fight. We had to do these obstacle courses that were built like army camps, and we weren't too orderly but we had to train marching."

"We went through a lot of emotional times," said Mrs. Baldwin. "It definitely made us much closer to go through a lot of turmoil together."

"When we graduated we were really changing our lives," added Mr. Clotworthy. "Maybe because of that, we had a particularly close group."

This group will be coming in from Florida, California, British Columbia, and just about every state in the union. They will be coming in for one reason -- to once again see the people with whom they shared their growing years.

"I'm there to meet with friends I haven't seen in many years, that's the most important part of it all," said alumnus Jack McHugh. "It has changed a bit, then everybody knew everybody in school."

In 1943, the high school was housed in the building on Elm Street which is now used for the district's administration. Mr. Clotworthy said many of the alumni have not even seen the new high school on Dorian Road. And Mr. McHugh recalled how then, the administration of the district was made up of only one employee, the school superintendent.

Mrs. Baldwin pointed out how the boys and girls were separated in and out of school, unlike today. "Friday nights all the girls used to get together for 'hen parties'. The boys weren't invited, they would try to come anyway but they weren't supposed to and the parents wouldn't let them in."

The alumni also remembered going down to Robert Treat for sandwiches during lunchtime because the school cafeteria food was meager.

"We would go down to Robert Treat or an old place called Hoyermann's," said Mrs. Baldwin. "It was also the time when ice cream sundaes and banana splits first came into being."

Alumni are looking forward to "schmoozing", to reminiscing about the times they had together then, and catching up on what has changed in everybody's lives.

Close to 100 of the 200 original graduates will be attending the festivities, including about 5 alumni who haven't returned in all 50 years. Although they will be coming from all around the country, over a quarter are still living in Westfield today.

The weekend will begin with a reception at the Ramada. On Saturday they will enjoy a historical bus tour in the afternoon and a grand dinner-dance at the Westwood in the evening. Graduates will finish the weekend off with a brunch back at the Ramada.

With Mr. Clotworthy taking care of entertainment, expected highlights include music by alumnus Robert Miller, a performance by alumni of the cheerleading team, and visits from old teachers of the class of '43.

Classmates who have not signed up yet, or anyone interested in more information about the reunion should contact Marilyn Roberts at 276-0267 or Louis Roche at 232-2405.

At a reunion in 1983, the Westfield High School Class of '43 posed for an updated photograph.

Train travelers are a breed apart — except for me, of course

I never realized how normal my life was until I was sent on assignment to Florida a few weeks ago. Of course, my mode of transportation just might have had something to do with it.

My phobia about flying ruined my chances of ever becoming an ace reporter for some major television network. But I can live without bullets flying past my head as I report what is happening in some war-torn country 6,000 miles from home and hearth. The way I see it, I came pretty darn close to dodging bullets of a sort a few weeks ago anyway.

Knowing I had to get to Florida, and having decided some eight years ago that I was the typhoid Mary of the airplane industry, I decided to explore other methods of travel. Having flown 14 flights in as many years with 11 involving a variety of engine problems, blown out tires, lack of fuel, and the ever-popular smoke in the cabin, it seemed evident to me that if God wanted me to fly he would have given me wings. Besides, why should I place other people's lives in danger just because I have a hex on me?

I don't like to think of it as a "fear of flying," but rather a prudent approach to an industry that condones people climbing aboard a plane that is going to take them miles above the earth where no one even suggests they wear a parachute. Call me stupid, but that does not make sense to me.

Hence, no amount of cajoling by my boss or husband could convince me that flying was the way to go. I really won them over when I craftily (and luckily) discovered it was much cheaper to travel round trip by train than to fly. Of course, traveling by train would take 24 hours one way, as opposed to flying, which delivers its rested passengers to Florida in just two and one-half hours.

Despite the extended traveling time, there's something to be said about traveling on the ground. Parachutes are unnecessary and the ability to see the ground is worth the 21 and a half extra hours you get to spend wondering if you need your head examined.

There was one wrinkle, however. Two days before we were to depart I heard a radio announcer explain how an Amtrak train hurled off a bridge during the night.

Nevertheless, my beloved and I boarded a train bound for Florida a few days later. Settling down in seats 139 and 140, I immediately calculated where the emergency exit was, should the train have some sort of mishap. Not that I thought it would. Then I began praying, and continued to pray for the majority of the trip. Except when I was sleeping, which amounted to a total of 43 minutes.

When I wasn't praying, I mulled over whether the sum total of all my sins was enough to keep me out of heaven. I also spent a considerable amount of time trying to estimate whether these sins were major or minor. But trying to concentrate was difficult, thanks to a self-appointed entertainment committee of one who felt obligated to keep everyone in our car entertained.

Shenanigans

By Cheryl Hehl

He was a former state trooper from Jersey City who was on his way to take a test in Florida. He'd wander up and down the aisles talking loudly, joking around, and generally making sure everyone was "having a good time." He talked non-stop from Newark to Washington. After a while, I had his laugh down pat. That irritating Ha HA HA HA HA, snort, snort, haha, he hee heee was starting to make me wish I'd flown.

I was plotting how to lock him in the bathroom when he simply fell asleep. And for the remainder of the trip (some 20 hours more) he remained that way. Frankly, I think one of the other passengers just couldn't take it any more and slipped him a Mickey.

I settled back in my seat to ponder the probability of another train wreck occurring in the same week and eventually fell asleep, my head lodged against the window, one leg on my husband's knee, the other curled under me at an odd angle.

I'd like to say I slept like a baby, but no such luck.

I twisted, turned, fluffed that 6-by-8 inch pillow they gave me into a hundred different positions, but sleep was elusive. In fact the 43 minutes of sleep I did get was in five-minute pieces over 24 hours.

Eventually, I joined the other insomniacs in the lounge car, where we played cards, chain-smoked or just sat staring out windows into the inky blackness that whirled by.

It was a long night, one I spent wondering if it would ever end. But after a while I thought a lot about the people who decided to take the train instead of flying. Were they all people like me who had built up a fear of flying, or was it some other reason that put us all on this train bound for Florida?

I'll never know the answer, yet throughout that long, endless night, I wondered about the people whose lives came together during that long trip. Did they feel safe on the ground as I did?

As the sun began to rise and we drew closer to our destination, I decided that nothing could have stopped the train wreck outside of Mobil, or save the people who died that night. It was fate. And nothing I do, no matter how I decide to travel, worry or protect myself, can change that.

However, I'm still not ready to hop on a plane. After all, I'm not going to throw all caution to the wind.

Why tempt fate?

First U.S. tour

Prof. Gilsbert Lekkerkerker, well-known in Europe for his organ concerts and improvisation, will perform works by Bach, Gigout and Widor and improvise on the organs of First United Methodist Church 7 p.m. Sunday. The Dutch organist performs 70 concerts each year and has made five records and nine CDs. This is his first United States tour. Prof. Lekkerkerker will begin his program by performing three movements by Nikolaj van Krakow on the Moeller antiphonal organ. These will be followed by major works using the Aeolian-Skinner main organ. The program is open to the public. No tickets are necessary; however, donations will be welcome at the door.

Counseling Services lists new officers for 1993-94

Youth and Family Counseling Services, an independent, non-profit agency which serves eight Union County communities, has announced the election of its new officers for the 1993-94 year. They are Margaret MacPherson of Westfield, president; Margaret Walsh of Westfield, vice president; Eleanor Campbell of Rahway, secretary; and T. Milton Kupfer of Westfield, treasurer.

Margaret MacPherson has served on the Youth and Family Counseling Board since 1989. A resident of Westfield for 37 years, she has been an active member of the Westfield Service League and the Auxiliary of Children's Specialized Hospital, having recently chaired a major fund-raiser for that organization. She and husband Frank have three married daughters.

Mrs. MacPherson, who succeeds the Rev. Lois Meyer Schenks as president, says, "I'm happy to work as the agency's president. Keeping Youth and Family Counseling Service healthy supports our families and our young people. The challenge is to ensure that the agency is strong financially so it doesn't ever have to turn away someone in crisis who comes to us seeking for help. The agency has provided these services for 75 years. I'm proud to be a part of that tradition."

Margaret Walsh is a native of Massachusetts and a graduate of Regis College. She and her husband Thomas have lived in Westfield for 21 years. A former teacher, she worked as an administrator for St.

Helen's Church, where she is a Eucharistic minister and is involved with the religious education program. She served for two years as president of the Westfield Service League and is currently on the board of the Westfield College Women's Club. Her other volunteer associations include the Friends of Westfield Library, the PTOs of Franklin School and Union Catholic High School, the Westfield Convalescent Center, Elizabeth Coalition for the Homeless and the Westfield Food Pantry.

Eleanor Campbell, the agency's new secretary, is a longtime resident of Rahway and has been a trustee on the Youth and Family Counseling Service board since 1989. Active as a community volunteer for many years, she works with the Rahway Hospital Auxiliary, the National Council of Negro Women and NAACP.

Mrs. Campbell teaches Sunday School at the Second Baptist Church of Rahway where she is a member of the congregation. She and husband William Campbell, who also serves on the Youth and Family Counseling Service board, have three grown sons.

T. Milton Kupfer continues as the agency's treasurer. A retired accountant, he was formerly a partner of Deloitte Haskins & Sells. He attended the University of Notre Dame and is active in such volunteer organizations as The United Fund of Westfield, The Westfield Foundation, Friends of Mindowaskin Park and St. Helen's Church. He and wife Bette Jane Shoemaker have six grown children.

United Fund

At this year's commuter campaign kickoff, representatives of the United Fund of Westfield's member agencies, Janice Blackburn of the Girl Scouts, Gail Moffett of the American Red Cross, Barbara Brande Desmorie of Catholic Community Services, and Sue Rowe of the Westfield Neighborhood Council serenade commuters and serve them coffee.

Library poll of in-house use begins Monday

Beginning Monday, the Westfield Memorial Library will conduct a week-long state-mandated survey of in-house use of all library materials including books, magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, even puppets and records.

Patron cooperation is very important, since results form the survey form part of the basis for state funding of the library.

The staff will count all items' patrons use for homework, for reading in the library, pick up and look at, or even just touch. To get an accurate count, everyone will be asked to place all materials in designated cartons, on table tops and shelf tops.

Better Days FRIENDS OF THEIR OWN

Being jealous when one's friends have friends of their own can be very painful. It also creates an atmosphere in which individuals sabotage the relationships they have by being too demanding about their own needs. At the core of this problem and deep-seated insecurities that generally stem from early dysfunctional family styles in which members are emotionally unavailable to each other. Family members compete with each other for what attention exists. Often this pattern creates negative attention in the form of punishment or anger, thus fueling the cycle.

Individuals raised in this environment come to view everyone else as rivals for the affection of significant others; they become jealous without apparent cause. Understanding this pattern is the gateway to inner healing. Counseling helps family members understand past family patterns so that they can develop more functional interpersonal coping skills.

NJ Workshop for Arts opens downtown center

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts celebrated its 21st season by opening its new center in downtown Westfield Sept. 26. Specially invited guests filled the Broad Street offices and studios of the nonprofit workshop. They were there not only to celebrate the opening of the facility itself, but to congratulate Dr. Theodore K. Schlosberg on seeing to completion his vision.

"I have always dreamed of having an arts center in Westfield," he said. "This may not be the size of the Newark Center being built, but it has what we need in the central Union County area."

The facility has a moderate-sized room for recitals and lectures, replete with a Steinway concert grand piano. This room will eventually double as an art gallery, but the heart of the facility is its teaching studios where more than 100 students flock for instruction in areas of endeavor as varied as music, drama, art dance and fencing. The offices and studios of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts in Fanwood were becoming increasingly cramped.

Attending the opening were such Westfield notables as Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe, former Mayor Allen Chin, and Board of Education President Susan Pepper.

Dr. Schlosberg made particular mention of Councilman and Mrs. Norman Greco.

"They were special benefactors," he said. "Knowing of our continuing growth, they helped enormously with the realization of our expansion."

Councilman Norman Greco and Mrs. Richard Bagger congratulate Dr. Theodore Schlosberg on the new New Jersey Workshop for the Arts facility in downtown Westfield.

While the guests toured the rooms, piano music was provided by Peter Bridges. In other rooms, violin students were accompanied by Anna Bazhenova from Kiev, Ukraine, the newest addition to the piano staff. On the walls hung a sneak preview of an exhibit of paintings by Dawn Robin, which will open later in the fall.

Exxon program aids Special Olympics

You can pass a football, kick it, carry it, and even cuddle it, at the same time helping Special Olympics programs, thanks to a special promotion by tri-state Exxon retailers.

The promotion, through Nov. 15, offers a blue and white pillow shaped like a football with an Exxon emblem on it. You can toss it, sleep on it, or use it as a decorative accent. But you can also turn the eight-inch football inside out to become a black and orange plush Exxon tiger.

Anyone buying the pillow, or an Exxon tiger tail, or just making a donation to Special Olympics will receive a sheet of money-saving coupons good at businesses such as Pizza Hut, Pearle Vision Centers, FootAction, and Avis Rent-a-Car.

Also, for a small donation, participants can test their quarterbacking skills by trying to pass a regulation football through one of three "receivers" at the far end of a booth, each a painted two-dimensional tight end with hands held in the three most common receiving positions.

Local Exxon dealers participating in the football promotion for Special Olympics include: Warrenville

Center's course will air Judaic issues

Religion

The Rabbinic Center Synagogue will sponsor a Course in Judaism for Intermarried Couples 8:30-10 p.m. for nine weeks, beginning Thursday, Oct. 21. The oldest continuous program of Jewish studies in New Jersey specifically designed to meet the needs of intermarrying and intermarried couples, the course teaches the fundamentals of Jewish tradition — beliefs, values, ideals, the festival, life cycle events and history — in an informal atmosphere. All classes are limited to five couples.

In addition to the weekly classes, the course also includes a one-day workshop, Raising Children in the Intermarried Home. When a Jew marries a non-Jew, says Rabbi Irwin H. Fishbein, there are always complex issues to face as children are anticipated and as they are born and grow up. Sometimes the differences in background seem overwhelming and even if a basic decision about religion has been made, there are always new issues that arise.

If you would like to talk about your concerns, the upcoming workshop, Raising Children in the Intermarried Home, can help you. Interested couples may attend the workshop without attending the course in Judaism.

For more information, call Rabbi Fishbein at 233-0419.

Library Friends seek members in campaign

"Won't you be a friend of the Westfield Library?" Anne Arkel requests, as the Friends of the Library begin their annual membership drive. Mrs. Arkel, president of the Friends, is "paging all friends," asking former members to renew and new people to subscribe for membership.

In the past year, the Friends purchased for the library additional video cassettes, puppets, reference and foreign language materials, video shelving, and provided funds for the installation of a Local Area Network (LAN) to improve computer capacity and versatility.

Over the years, the Friends have provided door openers for the handicapped; computer and CD-ROM hardware and programs; a microfilm reader/printer and other furnishings and equipment.

Opera trips and other outings are annual offerings of the Friends. Programs are offered during the year for children and adults, free of charge. For example, Alan Axelrod, a frontier and Civil War historian who is a Westfield author, has been scheduled for Nov. 14 to speak to adults on espionage in the Civil War. Prof. Leshner addresses PR task force

The Westfield Downtown Committee's Public Relations Task Force was addressed at its first session Sept. 28 by Prof. Tina Leshner, coordinator of the journalism and public relations concentration in Department of Communication at William Paterson College in Wayne. The task force met at its headquarters at 150 E. Broad St.

"The Task Force will have as its objective the creation of an awareness of the purposes and activities of the Westfield Downtown Committee," said Dr. Sam Freeman, leader of the Task Force. The committee is chaired by Robert Newell, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The Westfield Downtown Committee is a not-for-profit organization operating under the aegis of the Main Street New Jersey program in Trenton and in turn is part of the National Main Street Network involving 32 states and over 800 communities throughout the country. Westfield is one of nine communities in New Jersey selected to participate in the program, which is designed to enhance the town's image and economic growth.

Welcome

Youth business day is slated for Oct. 26

Rotary Club of Westfield will sponsor Youth in Business Day in cooperation with Westfield High School Oct. 26. This annual event provides an opportunity for senior high school students to experience first-hand the details and inside operations of a business or field of study of special interest to them. Students will be able to choose from more than 35 local businesses. More than 50 students participated last year.

The students, along with the sponsoring Rotarian, will spend 10 a.m.-noon — at the business of their choice, then be guests of the Rotary Club for lunch at The Westfield YMCA.

The lunch program will feature a slide show on the Rotary Youth Leadership Awards. RYLA, an International Youth Program of Rotary, is a two-day leadership conference, expenses paid by the Rotary. The RYLA program has been designed to demonstrate Rotary's respect and concern for youth and to encourage selected student leaders (and potential leaders) in methods of responsible and effective leadership by providing an in-depth training experience.

Rotary Club of Westfield encourages parents to discuss with their children this unique opportunity to learn about an area of interest first-hand.

Details can be obtained from Mr. Scott at the High School or by calling Rob Yeager from Rotary at 232-8393.

Town's newest espresso business is bean-savvy

By CHERYL NEHL
THE RECORD

Le Cirque, Lutece, and Twenty-One Club have used it for years. In Seattle, it's all the rage. Westfield resident Paul Partridge decided there was no time like the present to get in on a growing trend.

Espresso connoisseurs have sung the praises of the dark brew for eons, but its popularity has recently blossomed. A new mail order service, 5-Star Espresso, started in September by Mr. Partridge, is helping to make a legendary espresso more widely known.

Mr. Partridge said exclusive restaurants such as Tavern on the Green have used Illycaffe espresso for years. For many people, he said, the only way to enjoy this rich blend of nine types of arabica beans was to visit one of these famous establishments. And if you are unfamiliar with espresso, or thought it too bitter or strong, Mr. Partridge will dispel the myth.

"Many Americans think that espresso tastes bitter," said Mr. Partridge, "but that is because they have only had bad espresso." The difference, he said, is in the beans. Espresso is just coffee beans that have been roasted a little longer, however, it is the type of bean that determines how bitter espresso will be. There are two types of beans: arabica and robusta. Robusta beans are bitter, acidic and can contain three times as much caffeine than the arabica type. But they are less expensive so often are used as filler in espresso blends.

But the essence of good espresso, said Mr. Partridge, is firm body and pleasantly lingering aftertaste. Bringing great espresso to homes of people all over the United States is the goal of this enterprising mail order businessman who by day is an advertising director in New York City.

Five years ago, he noticed espresso and cappuccino were becoming very popular in the northwest in "almost ridiculous proportions." Hearing that espresso shops could be found sometimes four per block in Seattle, Mr. Partridge decided to research a mail order company to service the growing customer base. After considerable research, he decided there was no time like the present to embark on a mail order business.

The company's 800 telephone number makes it easy to order the world famous Illycaffe espresso coffee. Surprisingly, whether you own an espresso machine does not matter. A connoisseur can use an automatic drip coffeemaker to achieve the same results, although the entire ambience of espresso is linked to the Old World tradition of brass espresso machines found in restaurants and coffee bars.

"There is a whole romance to espresso coffee," said Mr. Partridge, "and people get carried up in it. People know the Italians are a passionate people and espresso becomes an aphrodisiac of sorts."

Besides, he said, "there is something relaxing about drinking espresso."

Whenever the rest of the country wakes up to the lure of espresso, 5-

Star Espresso already has 250 members who wait anxiously for their monthly order.

New officers

The Westfield School Boosters Association held its annual installation dinner at the Westwood Restaurant last month. The Boosters Association is a volunteer organization consisting of 50 Westfield residents who are committed to the ongoing development and preservation of quality athletic programs within the high school. This is achieved through the coordination of various fund-raising events during the year, along with each member's commitment to volunteer their time, energy and experience to further the quality of each program. In this way, the student-athletes and their sports programs are given the added support necessary to acquire additional sports equipment and related items. The officers for the 1993-94 school year are as follows: President - Tom Kocaj; 1st Vice President - Ron Mask; 2nd Vice President - Ron Nobile; Secretary - Bill Mann; Treasurer - John Yarnuzzi; Corresponding Secretary - Gene Schwarzenbek.

Super Bowl raffle

The Westfield Booster Club is giving sports fans the opportunity to attend Super Bowl XXVIII while supporting athletics at the high school. A raffle is being conducted to benefit its scholarship fund and help pay for athletic projects at WHS. Each ticket is $10 and the grand prize includes two tickets to Super Bowl XXVIII, a round trip airplane ticket to Atlanta, Ga., hotel accommodations, car rental and limousine service to and from Newark Airport. In order to buy tickets, contact either Jerry Infantino (654-3120) or Mel Coren (654-5848).

The Hot Spot

The Westfield High School field hockey team seeks a return trip to the Union County finals and the first step for them will be Saturday afternoon when the sixth-seeded Blue Devils (5-3-2) visit No. 3 seed Roselle Park at 1 p.m.

Westfield bedeviled in 36-0 loss to Farmers

Running game prospers, but can't reach pay dirt

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

To its surprise and dismay, Westfield High School's football team discovered a few things during its 36-0 loss to Union Friday under the lights at Harry R. Cooke Jr. Memorial Field.

□The Blue Devils found out the hard way their smaller, quicker defense could not stand up to the utter strength and brawn of the Farmers' imposing offensive line.

□On the positive side, Westfield even surprised itself with the way it churned out yards on the ground. The Blue Devils gained 163 yards rushing, more than they had totaled in their past three games combined against Union.

□Finally, despite losing to Irvington in Week 2, everyone who witnessed Friday's game walked away believing the Farmers are probably still the favorites to three-peat as North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 champions.

"We ran into an offensive juggernaut," said defensive coordinator Ron Barner. "They're a superior offensive team. On this night, they played exceptionally well and we didn't have a good defensive game. It was disappointing because I thought we could continue last week's solid effort."

The Farmers (3-1) set the tone on their first possession. The hosts only used two different plays — five fullback bellies and three sweeps — to travel 75 yards for the opening touchdown.

"I was in a state of shock after that first drive," said Barner. "I didn't think they could move the ball that quickly, that well against us. I thought it was just a fluke. I thought we'd settle down after that."

Unfortunately, Union's dominating front wall and its new found passing attack escalated Westfield's defensive problems. Following the Blue Devils' second punt, the Farmers proved they have some speed to complement their overwhelming, relentless running game.

Quarterback E.J. Collins hooked up with split end Shane Jacobs at midfield on third-and-eight from the Farmers' 37-yard line. After making the reception, the 5-foot-10, 160-pound senior reversed fields, cut across the middle of the gridiron and outran everyone to the right corner of the end zone for Union's second touchdown of the first quarter.

On its third possession, a 32-yard reception by tight end Rodney Tul-

Senior linebacker Dan Zemsky brings down Farmer fullback Marco Caban in the backfield during Friday night's 36-0 loss at Union. Despite gaining 163 yards rushing against Union's stingy defense, Westfield fell behind early and was unable to recover.

lis on first down advanced the ball to the Westfield 30. After an incomplete and four running plays, fullback Jacyn McPhail barreled into the end zone from nine yards out and the score was 20-0 by halftime.

At this point, the physical disadvantage the Blue Devils were operating under became glaring. Union's offensive line averaged 238 pounds, exactly 38 more than the median size of the Blue Devils' four linemen. Simply put, Westfield was outmatched at the point of attack.

Gallman overcomes adversity, emerges as one of nation's top kick returners

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

In these days of pampered, spoiled professional and collegiate sports figures, it's rare to see an athlete turn around a negative situation and make it into a positive one.

But, Westfield's Leroy Gallman has done precisely that during his senior year at Duke University.

Last fall, the 1989 WHS graduate was Duke's No. 2 tailback behind Randy Cuthbert, who was a 1,000-yard rusher. After a solid spring and a fine pre-season, Gallman was virtually assured of the starting job by the Blue Devils' coaching staff.

However, each Saturday the oldest running back on the squad watches from the sidelines while others execute the plays he practices all week.

"I have no explanation why it's happening," said Gallman. "I asked the coaches and they said I'd play because I deserve it. They're always telling me to be ready, but, come game day I'm not getting any snaps. I don't want to get into it with the coaches because as a fifth year senior I want to be a team player."

"It's frustrating, but, I think of it as a growing point in life. You can either deal with it or quit. Quitting isn't me, so I try to get any positives I can out of it."

Deprived of the opportunity to help the offense, Gallman's lone contribution to the team is returning kickoffs. While many schools employ a starter with pressing responsibilities to fill that role, Duke channels plenty of attention and care to its special teams unit.

Every season it seems at least one Blue Devil is listed among the 10 best in the country in kickoff returns. Last season Gallman was second in the NCAA with a 30.9-yard average, a figure which established a new school record.

When opposing teams began kicking away from fellow deep man Brad Breedlove, Gallman got loads of action late in the year. Exactly half of Gallman's 14 returns were made during the final three games of the season.

The 5-foot-11, 185 pounder's biggest effort was against North Carolina State in Week 10, when he returned five kicks for an Atlantic Coast Conference record 231 yards, including an 82-yarder.

This fall, Gallman is Duke's featured returner. After six games the senior is ranked 11th in the nation with a 27.8 average. He has returned 17 kicks for 473 yards.

"The best way for me to vent my frustrations is through kickoffs because I know I can only contribute five or six times a game," said the former Lemming All-American high school selection.

By far, Gallman's largest contribution came during Duke's contest at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville Oct. 2. No. 29 tied the school record during the second quarter when he ran 100 yards for a touchdown.

"That was probably the highlight of my career because I put everything together in one play," said Gallman. "It was actually a busted return. It was supposed to go to the right, but, I left my blocks and went for a big gap in the middle of the field. I made one guy miss and it was between me and the kicker. I stiff-armed the kicker to the turf and it was a foot race between me and another guy for 60 yards. I don't think I would have lasted another five yards."

"It was a great feeling because for every kickoff the crowd gets up, and just before I was about to score it went dead silent. It's an incredible feeling of excitement and power to make 98,000 people sit (Please turn to page A-13)

Devils dominate, but fall short against EB

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

A forlorn case of deja vu struck Westfield's girls' soccer team in its only match of the week last Friday, as it once again got the better of the play against powerful East Brunswick, only to lose 2-0.

In a rematch of last year's Group 4 title match and a possible preview of this year's finals, the Blue Devils (8-1) outshot the Bears (9-0-1) 15-8. Junior keeper Betsy Ostrov made several fine saves during the match and was helped when Westfield just missed the mark on a few occasions.

"It was last year's finals relived," said head coach Pete Giordano. "I thought we played an excellent game. We dominated the first 25 minutes, but, we just didn't finish. Two inches here and there and it could've been a different game. The girls knew they played a good game, but, the score didn't prove it."

"I thought we dominated the whole game and we know what we have to do if we face them again," said senior tri-captain

Black sent a direct kick to Courtney Blore, who beat the defense and freshman keeper Amy Williams from close range.

"The main thing the girls have to realize is that life goes on and we have to play the next game," said Giordano. "If we play every game like we did during the second half [of the East Brunswick game], we'll do fine."

Westfield will shift its attention to the Union County Tournament, which begins this weekend with first round matches. The 12-time defending county champs are seeded first and will host the winner of the (Please turn to page A-13)

THE RECORD

Before the season began, it was widely recognized that Jim Corcoran would have a profound effect on the fortunes of Westfield's soccer team.

Conversely, Dave Schaller arrived at the first pre-season practice without any varsity experience and without any guarantees that he would get considerable playing time.

While Corcoran seems destined to eclipse last year's 15-goal total and earn All-County honors for a second straight year, Schaller has developed into, perhaps, the most pleasant surprise on the team.

The duo has combined to score 21 of the team's 24 goals and jump start an offense which has encountered trouble finishing at times.

Head coach George Kapner admits Corcoran's play determines, to a large degree, how well the Blue Devils will perform on most days. During his two-game suspension for a red card, the senior's presence was sorely missed, as the team floundered in a loss at Kearny and a tie against Roxbury.

"We didn't play as a team without him," said Kapner. "We tried to use individual talent. We didn't play as a team."

Once Corcoran returned to the lineup Westfield reeled off seven consecutive victories. In addition to his physical attributes, Corcoran appears to have the power to will his teammates to play at a higher level. This mental fortitude is tested each game because Corcoran is typically singled out by other teams who will try anything to break his concentration.

Junior striker Dave Schaller has surprised everyone by scoring 10 goals in his initial varsity season.

"My role is to lift the abilities of my teammates and I've learned the hard way that I have to laugh at the guys who taunt me," said Corcoran, who has scored 11 goals, assisted on five others and has been on the field for only one goal against. "One of my goals this year is to ignore that stuff. I either bite my tongue or hit the ground to calm myself down."

"Marking him tight just gets him going," said Kapner. "His internal drive to succeed is phenomenal. When he tries difficult things on the soccer field, I sometimes scratch my head wondering how he thinks it will work. But, he's so confident in his abilities he believes he can pull it off, and he often does."

As one would expect from someone who was chosen to compete on a regional select team which included players from the entire Northeast, Corcoran has the tools to excel.

"He has all the skills — ball control, a variety of passes — and he sees the field and spaces very well.

Quick feet, uncanny ball handling skills, adept passing and an unflappable drive to succeed has made center midfielder Jim Corcoran one of the premier players in the area. The senior who seems destined to repeat last year's All-County honors is only four goals shy of matching last season's total. Corcoran is sorely missed when he's not on the field. Westfield is 0-1-1 without him in the lineup and he's been on the field for only one goal against.

He has incredibly quick feet. You can't teach that," said Kapner.

Schaller, a striker, has unexpectedly burst onto the scene to score 10 goals and register one assist. The junior has displayed a penchant for producing in the clutch. Four of his goals have either tied or won games in the waning moments or in overtime.

Originally, the junior anticipated he would play either fullback or defensive halfback. But, Schaller impressed Kapner with his shot during the summer, so the head (Please turn to page A-14)

Cranford and Westfield, two neighboring rivals, got together on a brilliant October afternoon last Sunday to play Police Athletic League football at Edison Field in Westfield. At the end of the day, Cranford had two victories, but the Westfield B's extended their winning streak to 11 games and remained unscathed.

Cranford C 33, Westfield C 7
It was a tale of two halves in the C game. The best of times belonged to Cranford, which scored three times in the first quarter and twice more in the second before Westfield came back after intermission.

The first half was the worst of times for the C Devils, as they watched Cougar running back Mike Verhoeven scamper 50 yards into the end zone on the second play of the game to score a quick 6-0 lead. On Cranford's next possession Antoine Moore took off on a 28-yard dash for another touchdown and quarterback John Tange ran the ball in for the extra point. Moore got loose again on the first play of Cranford's third possession, this time taking off around right and for 44 yards. The PAT made it 20-0 before the first 10 minutes had elapsed.

Verhoeven and Moore each scored again during the second quarter. The versatile Verhoeven picked off a pass and ran it back 40 yards to score the Cougars' fourth TD. Shortly thereafter, Moore back peddled to field Travis Russo's fine punt, but, he made his way 70 yards through the coverage for Cranford's final score.

The second half belonged to Westfield. David King and Mike Mroz ran the Blue Devils downfield and converted two fourth-down opportunities to keep the third-quarter drive alive. Then, Mroz swept around left end and breezed 30 yards down the sideline to put the Devils on the scoreboard.

But, it was a case of too little, too late. Although the defense was stellar for the remainder of the contest, the offense couldn't score again. Leale Mercer and Matt Daly were notably strong for Westfield's defense, while Mike Carbone caught two passes for Cranford's offense.

Defense was the name of the A game, as both squads played punishing, hard-hitting football. Behind the blocking of 280-pound Kall Bell and the running of Mark Stanton, Chris Falout and Tarnell Lewis, Cranford's ground game ate up time and yardage.

Still, Westfield's defense held the Cougars inside its 10-yard line twice in the first half. The first half ended when Greg Gorski intercepted a Jason Harris pass. Robbie McCullum's 30-yard reception to midfield and a couple of power runs by Joe Murphy were the offensive highlights for the Devils.

The Devils started the second half with a better level of play, as Gorski blocked, then recovered a Cranford punt. The offense could not move the ball, however, forcing Jason Osborne to punt. Unfortunately, his beautiful kick bounced through the end zone.

up front," said head coach Ed Tranchina. "We did the best we could, but, their fullback (McPhail, 5-10, 210) is bigger than our line-men."

"They were physically stronger than we expected," said defensive end Ron Nobile. "We expected to match up with them pretty well, but, we lost a lot of interior battles and our linebackers got blocked. We weren't getting that first step off the line and they were able to push us back."

On the offensive side of the ball, the Blue Devils' line had considerably more success. After compiling less than 100 yards in three previous games against Union, Westfield averaged nearly five yards a carry Friday night.

Junior tailback Erwyn Lyght continued his hard-hitting running by gaining 84 yards on 18 carries. Fullback John Mask enjoyed one of his finest rushing performances ever in a Westfield uniform, picking up 62 yards on 10 attempts.

Westfield will have extra time to prepare for its Oct. 23 contest at Scotch Plains-Fanwood. The Blue Devils' coaches and players believe the bye week has come at a proper time.

"It's going to allow us time to walk away and regroup," said Barner. "A lot of our kids have been practicing since mid-August and a break for a couple of days will do them wonders."

first score of the game. Andrew Nordstrom's conversion kick put Cranford ahead 8-0.

The Cougars' running game went 53 yards in nine plays to start the fourth quarter. Falout scored the touchdown on a 10-yard run around the left side. The conversion kick failed.

Rasheded Hawkins, Bobby Baykowski and Murphy each reeled off good runs to help Westfield threaten as the clock wound down. But, with three seconds remaining Baykowski's sprint out was smothered in the backfield, ending the game and preserving the shutout for Cranford.

Nick Fickell and Brian Weingart stood out for Cranford, while Greg Montemary, Blair Bartlett, Brandon Mickey and Osborne were stellar on defense.

After starting slowly and sloppily, Westfield's B team settled into a steady, productive running game. Todd Dowling carried the ball 16 times for 77 yards and scored a touchdown. Kevin McCormack picked up 38 yards on five attempts, but had the misfortune to have a touchdown run called back.

Lamont Turner, who improves with each game, dashed for 135 yards on 11 carries and hit pay dirt twice. Mike Stotter came up with a clutch 5-yard gain and Chris Gleason also ran well for the Devils. Westfield succeeded behind the superb blocking of Ben Gleason, Mike Gleason, Chris Chella, Norris Brown and Phil Orsini.

In the meantime, the defense bedeviled Cranford throughout the game, stifling every Cougar threat. Mike McCue registered four quarterback sacks and Todd O'Connell made three tackles from his safety position. Brandon Deert had a great game at linebacker, while Andre Moore anchored the defensive line.

In addition to extending their winning streak to 11 games, the B Devils checked up their third consecutive shutout. Kicker Jim Korn also remained perfect on the season, converting all three PATs to make him 8 for 8 on the year.

The Cougars got off to a fast start with forward Eric Biggio and Alexander Meus leading the attack. While midlineers Joe O'Hell, Bethany Golden, Eileen Goener and Christine Valasco controlled the ball in the Tigers half, Beth Mekusur opened the scoring for the Cougars by firing a shot deep into the left corner at the six-minute mark.

The Cougars struck again quickly as Hannah Israelow and Kimberly Jacob worked the ball to stopper Suzi Goldenker, who launched a shot from 20 yards out to give the Cougars a 2-0 halftime advantage.

The second half saw the momentum swing as the Tigers went on the offensive. Striker Jane Anderson scored on a breakaway to cut the lead to 2-1. The Cougars' defense, which relied on the strong leg of Sara Mattes at sweeper and fullbacks Nicole Infante, Stephanie Breakstone and Shannon Kunath, rose to the occasion. However excellent play in goal by Stephanie Forman and Nicole Hertue preserved the victory.

The Devils started the second half with a better level of play, as Gorski blocked, then recovered a Cranford punt. The offense could not move the ball, however, forcing Jason Osborne to punt. Unfortunately, his beautiful kick bounced through the end zone.

Devils' scoring dilemma may be created by pursuit for perfection

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

A 1-0 victory over Elizabeth last Thursday gave Westfield its seventh consecutive victory, but, the team's scoring problems manifested themselves the next afternoon during a frustrating 1-0 setback at East Brunswick.

The Blue Devils (7-2-1) outshot the Bears (7-1) 31-9, but could only manage 11 shots on net. Despite playing virtually the entire second half in EB's end of the field, the Bears stubbornly clung to their one-goal lead, supplied by Joe Conduro during the first half.

On the verge of scoring the equalizer, Westfield's fate was sealed when midfielder Jim Corcoran missed a great scoring opportunity from 10 yards away with only seven seconds remaining.

"I can think of at least six different times that we had a one-on-one against their goalie," said head coach George Kapner. "It comes down to the frustration factor and when you start to press you get harder shots. You can't outshoot a team and think that's good enough to win."

"I think the problem is that we're trying for the perfect shot. We're aiming for the upper 90 percent. It's almost like, if we don't score a great goal it isn't good enough. I think that's part of the problem because we're getting a lot of scoring opportunities every game, we're controlling the midfield and we're stringing together seven or eight passes in a row."

The Blue Devils were facing the prospect of playing their second overtime match in as many games last Thursday, as they battled Elizabeth to a scoreless tie for 78 minutes.

With two minutes remaining senior Jim Pipher dribbled the ball down the left sideline and delivered a deft crossing pass to a wide open Dave Schaller, who beat the goalie from 12 yards out to score his 10th of the year and win the game in dramatic fashion.

New month ushers in success for hockey team

Once again, the Blue Devils' field hockey team is finding the month of October to its liking, as it rolled to road victories over Somerville and Union last week.

In 1992, Westfield followed a 2-2-1 September with an impressive 11-1-3 mark during the season's second month. Last Thursday's 1-0 shutout of Union was Westfield's third consecutive victory. More importantly, head coach Maggie McFadden is seeing her team round into shape at just the right time.

The Blue Devils (5-3-2) have a series of difficult games looming, which include regular season road trips to Oak Knoll (occurred yesterday after press time) and Kent Place (tomorrow), a first round county tournament game at third-seeded Roselle Park (Saturday at 1 p.m.) and a rematch against undefeated, untied Cranford (Monday).

"The kids decided to take more upon themselves," said McFadden, whose team is seeded sixth in the nine-team UCT field. "They're working together and communicating with each other on the field a lot better. Plus, we've gotten more confidence after beating Somerville and Union."

The Blue Devils peppered Union's cage with 16 shots last Thursday, but the contest remained scoreless until right inner Alison Konet banged home a feed from senior Erin McCarthy with eight minutes remaining. Despite the narrow victory against the winless Farmers (0-6-2), McFadden was pleased with her squad's performance.

"They really stepped up their game and their goalie kept them in it," said the coach.

Last Wednesday, the Blue Devils jumped on Somerville (3-4-1) from the opening whistle and did not relent one iota during a thorough 3-0 triumph. Left inner Jen Schwarzenbek opened the scoring just a minute and a half into the match, finding the mark after receiving a nice pass from Konet.

Laura Cashman added an insurance goal on a breakaway at the 14-minute mark of the first half, then Schwarzenbek notched her team-leading ninth goal of the season six minutes after halftime.

Girls improve times against Shabazz, Union

By IVY CHARNATZ
THE RECORD

All 19 runners on Westfield's roster recorded their best seasonal efforts, igniting the girls' cross country team (7-1) to easy victories over Union and Shabazz last Tuesday at Branch Brook Park in Newark.

Sophomore Kellie Goncalves had an outstanding race, crossing the line in 19:53.

"As soon as I hit the one-mile point, I didn't think I could maintain that pace (8:17)," said Goncalves. "Breaking 20 (minutes) lets me know what I'm capable of doing this season."

"Anytime a runner can finish in less than 20 minutes — it's truly outstanding," said head coach Tom Hornish. "In addition to the records, we significantly beat Union. This is an especially heartening win because we were missing two of our front seven."

Trailing close behind Goncalves were teammates Xanda Martins (20:45), Sharon Gambino (20:56) and Catherine Engell (21:18). Ellen Freisen finished sixth in 22:33.

Although Branch Brook's path may be 20 to 50 seconds faster than other competitive courses, this victory sets a positive tone for the remainder of the season.

"There are three things we can take from this performance. First, it demonstrated that we have a really well developed strong front pack. Second, it encourages us at both the county and state levels. Finally, it's an encouraging sign that we are ready to make an effective run to the sectional title on Oct. 30," said Hornish.

It's tournament time for Westfield netsters

The girls' tennis team lost only two sets in recording three shutout victories over East Side, Union Catholic and Summit. Yesterday's showdown against unbeaten Scotch Plains-Fanwood, which occurred after press time, probably went a long way in deciding this year's Watchung Conference champion.

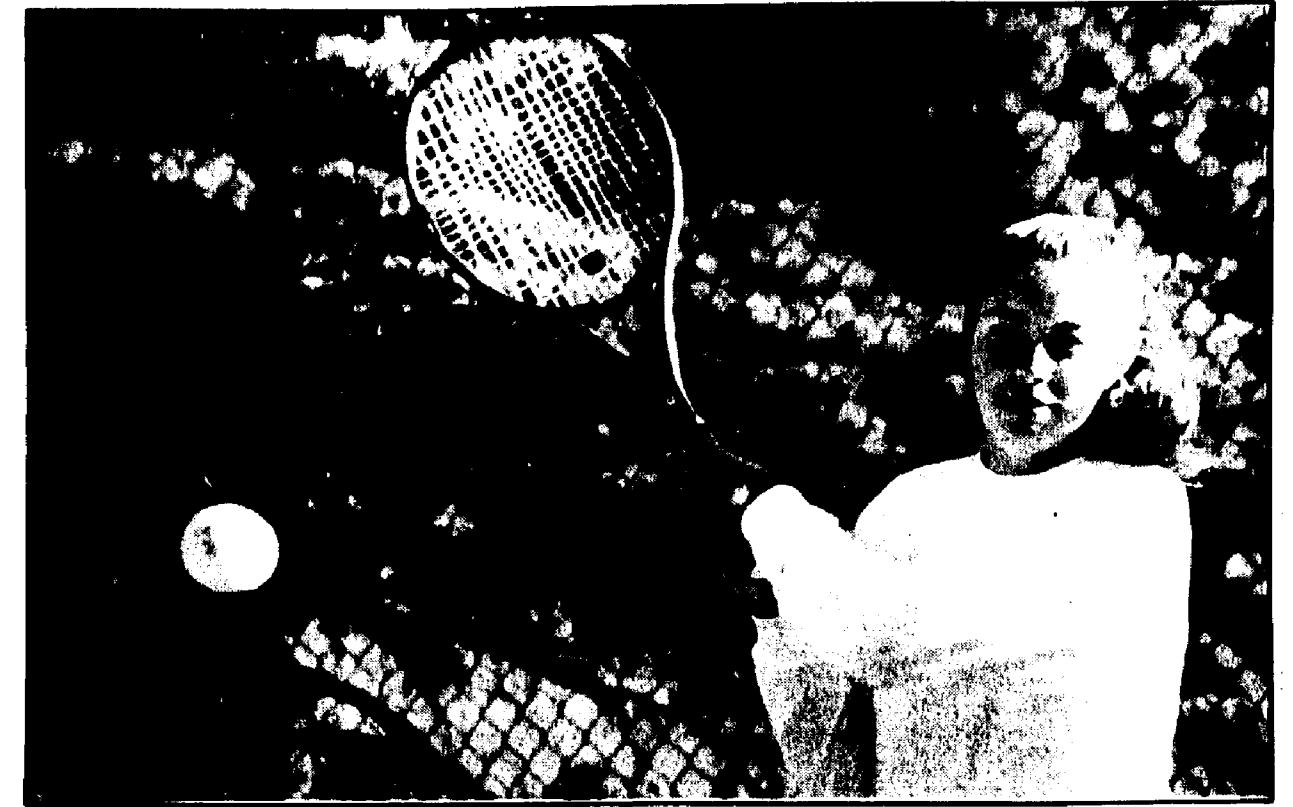

In any event, the girls are undoubtedly concentrating on the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 tournament. Westfield (8-1) is seeded first and will host No. 8 seed Linden this afternoon at Tamaques Park. Earlier in the season the Blue Devils breezed by the Tigers 5-0, so they should look forward to playing the winner of the Randolph-Bloomfield match Tuesday.

First-year head coach Lance Wildstein is optimistic about his team's chances of winning a sectional title.

"Being strong closer to the bottom of the lineup, I still think we have a good shot against anybody," said Wildstein. "Everyone's playing well and as long as we play up to our capabilities, I think we can win it."

The Blue Devils demonstrated their abilities Monday by shutting out visiting Summit (7-4). Sophomore Laura Faulkner beat her opponent 6-1, 6-4. Faulkner defeated Naomi Lebofsky of Kearny, but lost to Mandi Mitchell of Pitman Academy in the second round of the state singles tournament at West Windsor Park over the weekend.

Against the Hilltoppers, Liz Ryu defeated Alice Noll at second singles 6-2, 7-5 and sophomore Heather Post won at No. 3 singles 6-1, 6-1. In doubles action Gloria Ko teamed up with sophomore Shari Gersch, who played her first varsity doubles match, and won 6-4, 4-6, 6-0. Jessica St. Clair and Sarah Tirone did not lose a game during their easy victory.

DIANE MATFLERO/THE RECORD
Laura Faulkner has been Westfield No. 1 singles player all season long. The sophomore competed in the state singles tournament at West Windsor Park over the weekend and was defeated in the second round after beating Kearny's Naomi Lebofsky in straight sets.

On Friday, Westfield kept Union Catholic winless and lost only seven games the entire day in winning a 5-0 decision. Faulkner won by default and St. Clair and Tirone moved up to claim victories at second and third singles. Lauren Kazanoff rejoined Ko and won 6-0, 6-1, while juniors Danielle Cohen and Sonia Ko won by forfeit.

Gloria Ko, St. Clair and Gersch won their singles matches in last Wednesday's 5-0 triumph over East Side, while seniors Lindsay Napor and Ellen Rudofsky emerged victorious at No. 1 doubles and sophomores Marcy Beller and Efrat Magdileli won at second doubles.

Gymnasts score high, eye sectional playoff bid

The walking wounded that comprised the core of Westfield's gymnastics team had a little time to heal last week, allowing it to register its highest score of the year in Tuesday's 97.2-0.45 victory over Columbia (4-2).

Jill Smith's back injury healed slightly and the junior responded with her highest all-around score of the season (33.6). Smith won the vault (8.75) and bars (8.55), was second on beam (7.55) and third in the floor exercise (8.75).

Brandi Kovacs turned in another solid performance, placing third in vault (8.1), bars (7.75) and beam (7.45). Recovering from bruised ribs, Dana Fizzell was the runner-up in vault (8.35) and floor (8.9) and she was also third on beam (7.45).

Westfield (5-3) encountered little difficulty in defeating visiting Cranford last Thursday, winning 93.45-87.1. Smith won the vault (8.7) and beam (8.05), while Kovacs won in bars (7.75), was second in beam (7.75) and third in vault (8.25). Fizzell won the floor routine with a score of 8.75 and followed it up third place finishes in the vault (8.25) and beam (7.65).

Still fighting a sore knee, Dana Fahey placed second on the bars (7.65). Sophomore Megan Clark finished second in the floor exercise (8.55). Junior Allison Gorski and sophomores Justine Moncrief, Debbie Linta and Lauren Rosenblatt aided Westfield's cause.

Two more easy victories for boys' cross country

The Blue Devils' harriers (7-0) maintained their perfect record last Tuesday with resounding victories over Union (19-40) and Shabazz (15-50) at the 3.0-mile course in Newark's Branch Brook Park.

Heralded freshman Matt Elmucio returned to the varsity lineup after sitting out the last two weeks with respiratory problems. Elmucio breezed to victory, crossing the finish line in 15:35.

A tight pack filled places three through seven, as Ted Kilcommons (16:05), Lawrence Ho (16:07), Don Cambria (16:09), Geoff North (16:12) and John O'Brien (16:41) were close on each other's heels throughout.

Adam Barcan (17:22), Adam Borchlin (17:22), Ryan Stotler (17:23) and Evan Baldwin (17:28) also packed in tightly, but did not score.

"This was probably the best performance in a couple of weeks," said head coach John Martin. "The times were tight. We had six guys finish within a minute of each other."

Cocoran, Schaller leading boys soccer team

"I'm pretty surprised," said Schaller, who started at left full-back on the junior varsity last year. "For a lot of my goals I just happen to be at the right place at the right time. Hopefully, I'll keep it up."

"I see Dave as someone who's a natural goal scorer," said Kapner. "Scoring is his biggest skill — a lot like Jeff Hughes. Schaller has great ball control and he has the ability to take the ball from the air and put it on the ground. He has a great, low shot and can score goals from either the left or right side."

Schaller has found the back of the net in several different ways. He broke a scoreless tie with East Side in overtime when he turned around after his back faced the goal, to fire a shot past the keeper from 20 yards out.

He scored the only goal in last Thursday's victory over Elizabeth with two minutes remaining when he deposited a 10-yard shot from the right side of the net.

Schaller put in the equalizer late in regulation time against Roxbury on a semi breakaway down the left side and he tallied the game-winner against Montclair by opportunisticly stuffing in a loose ball while almost standing on the goal line.

"Right now, he has the ability to hold off defenders and be at all the right spots," said Corcoran. "His shot isn't hard, but, he'll place it in the goal."

EFINGER'S ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

GLORIA KO
WESTFIELD

The senior has yet to lose in the 13 matches she's competed in this fall. Gloria's doubles partner is usually Lauren Kazanoff. The duo won the No. 2 doubles title at the Union County Tournament, extended its record to 11-0 last Friday and recently moved up to first doubles after winning a challenge match.

Heading off-road means a driving good time

By BARBARA MENDOZA
THE PRESS

The crisp air and the spectacular autumn colors provided the perfect backdrop for a ride in the country Sunday.

This, along with a spectacular lunch at Timberfield, the Forbes Family estate on Old Dutch Road in Bedminster, created the ideal setting for American Isuzu Motors Inc. to showcase its revamped Rodeo and Trooper.

"It's totally new," Robert F. Mansfield, director of regional operations for the northeast region, said of the Rodeo. "It's been redesigned from the ground up."

Several hundred subscribers to Forbes magazine were invited to the estate of the late Malcolm Forbes for an afternoon of fine food and the fun of test driving the Rodeo and Trooper along the back roads of the township and on an off-road track created on the grounds of Timberfield for the event.

The four-wheel drive Rodeo, with a newly designed V-6, 3.2 liter, 175 horse power engine, easily handled the washboard surface of Old Dutch Road, the smooth surface of Lamington Road and the twists and turns along scenic Black River Road.

Also providing an extra test was the stop-and-go traffic surrounding the U.S. Equestrian Team Headquarters off Pottersville Road which was the site of the World Pairs Driving event this past weekend.

Then it was onto the off-road portion of the test drive, allowing drivers to test the handling of the vehicle with auto-locking hubs that engage the four-wheel drive without the driver having to leave the vehicle.

The Rodeo easily maneuvered along the bumps and turns of the dirt course before flying over a large rise in the road that caused the vehicle's front wheels to leave the ground.

"It's unbelievable," said Richard Wishnie of West Orange, who was impressed with the price of the vehicle in addition to its handling. "It's a good ride, an excellent ride."

For those more interested in comfort, the Rodeo provides all the amenities of a luxury sedan with the practicality of a four-wheel drive vehicle.

Cloth-upholstered adjustable seating is designed to reduce fatigue on long trips.

Carpenter is installed throughout the Rodeo, even in the rear cargo area, which provides a more "sedan like" quality.

The four-speaker AM/FM stereo cassette, standard on LS models and optional on S models, surrounds passengers with crisp, clear sound.

And the logically designed panel can be read at a glance allowing the driver to focus on the road — even when driving off-road.

"I was expecting it to be uncomfortable," Mr. Wishnie added, "but it was not at all. It was like a luxury car."

Linda Curtis of Basking Ridge agreed. "I'm ready for a four-wheel drive," she said. "The pick up on this model was excellent. It was really fast."

Although this was Isuzu's first "Ride and Drive" at the Forbes estate, it turned out to be a complete success, said Mr. Mansfield.

"It turned out just great," said Mr. Mansfield. "We have ten vehicles out here running at all times and they are going in a steady stream."

Also contributing to the day's success was the delightful buffet lunch prepared by Forbes chef Jeff Lamperti.

I was expecting it to be uncomfortable, but it was not at all. It was like a luxury car.

— Richard Wishnie
on the Isuzu Trooper

Guests gathered under a large white tent and dined on filet mignon with a chipotle mayonnaise, South African chicken stew cooked with onion, garlic, nutmeg and star anise. Mr. Lamperti also served a flavorful baked ziti prepared with beef from the Forbes family farm, wild rice with pine nuts and sun dried tomatoes and a mixed vegetable medley. This was complemented by a wild greens salad dressed with a Caesar vinaigrette.

After lunch, guests could stroll the grounds or admire the collection of motorcycles once owned by the late Malcolm Forbes.

And although strong winds prevented the launching of the green and gold "Capitalist Tool" balloon, members of the Forbes Balloon Ascension team were on hand throughout the afternoon.

"It turned out to be a wonderful day," said George Chissold, consumer advertising manager at Forbes magazine. "It really went well."

William Tims of Connecticut, one of the 270 guests on hand agreed.

"These are nice vehicles," he added, "and the event was really nice. The weather turned out perfectly and everything seemed to be a success."

Big car ride, small car package

By TOM HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Travelers approaching Los Angeles International Airport usually can't help but see the vast parking areas filled to capacity with an incredible diversity of automotive machinery. Most of the lots nearby are filled with rental cars, ready for the plane loads of business and leisure flyers to drive, return and forget.

A car that typifies the rental car scene in the Buick Skylark Custom. Four doors, cloth seats, air conditioning and a just-satisfactory stereo is all the renters need to zip them through L.A. traffic in comfort and style. Forget about the L.A. rental companies that specialize in renting the exotics. The real meat and potatoes of the business come in the form of the Buick Skylark and its clones.

Three levels of Skylark are available: base-model Custom, Limited and the hot-handling Gran Sport. We drove the Custom model, which featured lots of equipment not usually found on base model vehicles.

EXTERIOR

This car shares its platform with several GM siblings from other divisions, but the styling of the vehicle is all its own. Up front, an integrated air dam with a slim opening for fresh air blends nicely into the fenders and functions as a part of the bumper. Large, flush headlights accentuate the unique styling and help to lower wind drag. The hood is short and slopes slightly into the windshield, which continues across the top and drops sharply into the trunk. The appearance of the Skylark says it's a full-sized car, but its designation is in the mid-sized category. Chrome wheel covers are standard and black matte-finish outside mirrors offset the one-color look of the Skylark.

INTERIOR

Here's where the car feels big again. The low-mounted front 55/45 split bench front seat with cloth upholstery gives ample support, and provides both driver and front passenger with reclining ability. Tilt steering allows drivers positioning preference, while full carpeting blocks out most road noise. The AM/FM stereo sounded fine, and I particularly like the traditional tuning knob which makes it easy to locate stations. Automatic door locks are a great feature for children seated aft, while a new device for '94, the child comfort guide, was designed specifically for children who have outgrown child seats but are still too small to comfortably use standard three-point belts. The device, which fits in the palm of the hand, permits most children aged four to 10 to wear the rear shoulder belt without the harness interfering with their faces or necks. Rear adult passengers are treated to ample legroom and easy entry and outboard rear passengers use shoulder belts for maximum safety. New also is battery run-down protection, which turns off power after 20 minutes if an interior lamp is inadvertently left on. The power is restored by turning on the ignition, turning off the offending lamp or opening the front door.

'94 BUICK SKYLARK

ENGINEERING

GM's rack-and-pinion steering is power-assisted and gives adequate road feel, but doesn't convey a performance attitude. Switching on the air conditioner gives an amazingly quick rush of cold air — a GM trademark, and an added amenity is the courtesy lighting in the front visors and rear area. Tinted glass softens harsh sunlight, while analog gauges are back lit nicely and easy to read. GM's Electronic Warning Tone reminds drivers of signals or headlamps left on or seat belt left undone.

HANDLING

MacPherson strut front suspension and trailing links in the rear are soft. It's tough to describe, but the best analogy would be: a big car ride in a small car package. I was really impressed with the optional 3.1-liter V6, which launched the car to freeway speeds quickly and smoothly. Engage the cruise control and long trips are experienced in comfort and style. It was nice to be able to squeeze over 13 cubic feet of cargo into the trunk for extended touring.

SAFETY

Standard four-wheel anti-lock brakes (ABS), a driver's side airbag, and three-point safety belts round out crash-protection.

SUGGESTIONS

For my own use, I'd opt for firmer suspension, wider performance tires and an upscale sound system.

Where and how to enjoy the spectacular spectrum of autumn hues

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

Autumn road trips are swell for clearing summer cobwebs out of your head. Roll down the windows and breathe in the crisp October air while enjoying the glorious russet, scarlet and amber leaves that are at their peak this week.

The intense crimson and gold of autumn foliage is caused by red and yellow chlorophyll that is always present, but becomes visible after the brighter-green chlorophyll has been shed in the tree's annual bedtime ritual. After a few weeks of dramatic cardinal or lemon, this chlorophyll, too, is discarded and the leaves turn brown, dry up and fall off — covering the ground with a biodegradable carpet to feed and protect next year's growth.

Carolyn Lyndon, Horticulturalist at Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit, said the optimum viewing time is now — the second or third week in October. Further north, in upstate New York and New England, the colors peak a week or so earlier.

"The drought may affect the display this year," she said, "since some trees may have produced fewer leaves and trees may be under stress. The sourwood, yellowwood and ginkgo trees show their colors early, followed by maples, fringe trees and later the scarlet oak and larches."

Still, even during a drought year, Mother Nature's big show is never less than spectacular, and deserves at least one day-trip's worth of your time to take it all in. The following are a few suggestions as to where and when to go, whether you want to drive yourself or let someone else do it for you.

BY BUS OR RAIL

Saturday, the United Railroad Historical Society of N.J. and Friends of the N.J. Railroad and Transportation Museum are offering a "Pocono Express" rail excursion to benefit restoration of rare, old, "rolling stock" rail cars. Riders will board comfortable coaches (or first-class accommodations, if preferred) pulled by restored "Eric" E8-locomotives and be treated to a 275-mile tour of fall foliage from Hoboken to Honesdale, Pennsylvania, and back.

The train will climb atop the 3000-foot-long, 200-foot-wide Moonda Viaduct and will parallel the Delaware River between Pt. Jervis and Lackawaxen. Passengers will board in Hoboken between 8-9 a.m., with additional stops in Rutherford and Waldwick for passengers. Adult fare is $52 for the all-day excursion, children under 12, $27. A box lunch will be available enroute for $7. Call (609) 443-4746 after 8 p.m. for reservations and information.

Closer to home, another leaf-watching opportunity will be offered by the Watchung Hills Adult School in Warren on Saturday — a bus trip to Connecticut River Valley in Essex, Connecticut. The bus will leave Watchung Hills High School at 8 a.m. for historic Essex where travelers will enjoy a luncheon at a local inn. In the afternoon, they will climb aboard the Valley's steam train and travel through the villages of Chester and Deep River, followed by a steamboat cruise up the Connecticut River to East Haddam, the site of Gillette Castle. The $60 fare includes all transportation and lunch. For more information call (908) 657-4820.

Sly's 'Demolition Man' has something to offend everybody

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

It's not often you get to see a movie that goes wrong in six or seven different directions at the same time. But then, you rarely get a chance to see a movie as wrongheaded and badly executed as Demolition Man.

This action/adventure/science fiction/fantasy/Fascist polemic is supposed to be the next arc in Sylvester Stallone's career resurgence, something that began with this summer's Cliffhanger, which was actually a pretty interesting movie. Here, though, the whole point seems to be to offend pretty much everybody who isn't a white middle-class man who eats a lot of cholesterol.

And make no mistake, Demolition Man will offend you, if you are at all a thinking person. The premise is this: in the year 1996, rogue cop John Spartan (guess who) raids a big warehouse to catch maniac killer Simon Phoenix (Wesley Snipes, with a blond square coiffure and a blue contact lens in his left eye). The level of wit in this movie is evident immediately in the character names.

Spartan does arrest Phoenix, but purely on the word of a serial killer and drug lord, the cops also arrest Spartan. Apparently in the next three years, the judicial system is going to collapse, and the ability to collect forensic evidence will die with it.

Anyway, Spartan and Phoenix are both frozen in cryogenic prison, making large ice cubes out of them. They're supposed to be rehabilitated with the help of computer-programmed behavior modification chips, but anybody who's hip to the politics of this film will know what to think about the possibility of rehabilitation.

Waking up for a parole hearing in the year 2036, Phoenix escapes and starts performing what the futuristic cops unfortunately insist on referring to as "murder death kills." Get used to it: all the twits in the future talk like that.

See, it seems that there was this giant earthquake in 2010, and afterward, power was siezed by those pesky environmentalist/health freaks, chiefly Dr. Raymond Cocteau (Nigel Hawthorne, who's probably ashamed of himself all the way to the bank). So now, nobody has guns, nobody has meat, nobody has cigarettes, nobody has sex and nobody has any fun. It's all illegal.

Of course, nobody has any idea, either, how to catch a complete maniac, so the cops have to thaw out Spartan to go after Phoenix. And the rest of the movie, pretty much, is devoted to the two of them

Sylvester Stallone is John Spartan, a maverick cop from 1996 thawed out from cryogenic prison in 2036 to recapture psycho killer Wesley Snipes in the new action/adventure movie Demolition Man.

stalking each other, shooting a lot, and never hitting either principal. Lots of other people get shot, but not Stallone or Snipes, and it's chiefly because they're just real lucky.

The idea that Snipes, or for that matter any African-American with a sense of dignity, would accept this role, is mind-boggling. This is the white middle-class nightmare: a pumped-up black guy with lots of weaponry and no scruples about killing, just for fun.

For that matter, every minority group imaginable is seen as weak, evil or just plain annoying. There are anti-Japanese references, there is the obligatory effeminate flunky, all the bad guys are black or Hispanic and until very late in the film, homeless people are seen as dirty, offensive thieves who spoil the idyllic atmosphere. This will probably be a hoot for everybody who truly misses the wonderful freedom of the Reagan Administration. It's a wonder Rush Limbaugh didn't have a hand writing the screenplay.

The fact is that Demolition Man, despite looking very good and having a few minor witty touches, is pretty much a bore. It's all punching and shooting, but never with any sense of purpose or suspense. The whole movie is just waiting for the last 10 minutes when the principals face off. It's not worth the wait.

Stallone, it should be said, does what he can. A truly underrated comic actor, he looks sufficiently bemused at the madness going on around him. And Snipes chews the scenery with gusto. It's just too bad that the movie going on around them leaves them with virtually nothing to do, and a lot of time in which not to do it.

Ambitious, but flawed

'Conversations with my Father' overlong, but it has its moments

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theater Critic

Eddie Goldberg, the central character of Herb Gardner's somber Conversations with my Father, is a loud, hard-edged, blindly determined Jewish immigrant and saloon owner who emotionally brutalizes his family in an effort to Americanize them. As a Jew, he tells his two sons, "you have to be smarter than those around you because basically, they want to kill you."

Herb Gardner's drama, which enjoyed a healthy run on Broadway and won Judd Hirsch a Tony a couple of years ago, is currently being given its New Jersey premiere by Metuchen's Forum Theatre. The play, framed by the narration of Charlie, Eddie's younger son, unfolds between the years of 1936 and 1976. Gardner's play is an ambitious work which not only explores Jewish identity in American culture and the challenges of survival in our multicultural society, but also functions as a familial drama, the heart of which involves the emotionally agonizing father-son relationship with which Eddie and Charlie struggle their entire lives. By the end of the play, the adult Charlie, as imperfect as his own father, realizes that he is as trapped by the pains of his past as his father was by his own difficult history.

Eddie Goldberg, who by the end of the play's first act has changed the family name to Ross, hopes to turn his Canal Street saloon into a New York hot spot despite the prejudice of the community around him and the pressures of local hoodlums who seek to control the business. With the same single-minded determination he displays in his efforts to protect his business, Eddie strives to control his family and to subvert, if not completely deny, their Jewish faith and history. Gusta, his wife, struggles to master English while Charlie and his older brother Josh learn to fight schoolmates who accuse them of having killed Christ.

"A yarmulke is not an outside garment," Eddie tells his sons, confusing them by insisting they go to Hebrew school but simultaneously instructing them to keep their attendance a secret. They should treat God, Eddie says, "like any other loony" by "keeping him calm."

The tragedy at the heart of Conversations with my Father is that Eddie, trying to shield his family from persecution and fearing for their safety, is emotionally tearing them apart.

The "adult" Charlie observes as the "young" Charlie is counseled by his father, Eddie, in the Forum Theater's production of Conversations with my Father.

is a mixed bag of characters performed to varying degrees of effectiveness. As Zaretsky, a Yiddish actor whose specialty is his 12-minute version of The Dybbuk, Jerry Matz give the most vivid performance of the evening, alternating between Zaretsky's comic nature and the painful past he carries inside. Also lending fine support are Ed Kershen, as small-time hoodlum Jimmy Scalzo, and Herbert Nelson, a saloon regular who bears an uncanny resemblance to Santa Claus. Less effective is Sandra Ben-Dor, who directed the excellent The Immigrant at the Forum two seasons ago, here giving an amusing but one-dimensional performance as Gusta.

Overall, Conversations with my Father needs a more energetic presentation than is provided here. Part of the problem rests with Gardner's text. Though heartfelt and sincere throughout, Conversations often covers well-worn ground and the playwright, whose past works include The Goodbye People and A Thousand Clowns, faces the challenge of combining agonizing drama with the occasional one-liners he apparently cannot resist writing. Conversations is a dark, painful drama which, despite its intelligence, is overlong and burdened with the frequent ring of familiarity. Though this is Gardner's most ambitious work, he is not an innovative enough writer to reinvent the cliches, no matter how truthful, which are inherent in the subject matter.

Ultimately, the Forum's production, as ambitious and as flawed as Gardner's text, is an occasionally moving, frequently thought-provoking evening about people who, as Zaretsky says at one point, came to the melting pot and melted, melted away.

CONVERSATIONS WITH MY FATHER through Oct. 31 at the Forum Theatre, 314 Main St., Metuchen. Tickets $27-23. (908) 548-0582.

Murder in Somerville

The latest murder-mystery to hit the dinner theater circuit comes to Jasper's Restaurant in Somerville for less than $10 a meal.

Will Death Do Us Part, produced by the Shining Star Theater Company, combines the elements of both the two most popular forms of popular theater — the dinner mystery, and the "black comedy" which is popularized by the Off-Broadway Hit Topy in New's Theater.

Will Death Do Us Part, set in a restaurant, is a fast-paced, suspenseful, and hilarious comedy of a wedding reception, complete with dinner, dancing, a DJ and open bar, during which wedding guests and restaurant family members are bumped off one-by-one.

As characters mingle with the patrons, the plot develops and the race is on to solve the mystery.

The production, which has a four-year history of success in other areas, will be staged on two nights — Oct. 15 and 20 — 7:30 p.m. at Jasper, located on Route 236 south of the Somerville area.

Admission is $24.95, which includes dinner, drink, tax and tip. For more information, call (617) 262-6664.

Plays-in-Park goes indoors for 'Emperor's New Clothes'

Plays-in-the-Park, Middlesex County's outdoor summer theater showcase, will reopen its doors open for a few more weeks to stage a special musical.

For the first time ever, the Plays-in-the-Park facility, located in Edison's Roosevelt Park, will host a play for children -- a theatrical version of the popular fairy tale The Emperor's New Clothes, with performances scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 16, 23, 30 and Saturday, Nov. 6 and 13. But instead of the audience spreading out on the lawn, patrons will be invited inside, where there's room for 150 seats. Directed by Gary Cohen, the production, developed by Jim Eiler and Jeanne Bargy (who produced several children's shows during the '80s in New York City while known as the Prince St. Players) features David Christopher as the emperor and Michele A. Walker, who appeared in this summer's production of Nonsense, as the Empress. Other roles will be filled by Brian Ust, Melissa Pladdys, Glen Albright and Paul Kaye, all of whom were seen this summer in 42nd Street.

FOR BOOTH RENTAL & INFO - (908) 996-3036

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Now in its third year, the Raritan Valley Traditional Musicfest just keeps getting better and better.

Started in 1991 by Charles Miller, theater director at Raritan Valley Community College, and Bridgewater native Lew Alpaugh, a member of the popular bluegrass band Point Cross, the Musicfest has featured several local and regional acts in the past two years and increased its audience from 500 in '91 to 800 in '92.

This year, the Musicfest, scheduled for this weekend, is likely to attract more than 1,000 music lovers with a Saturday evening program at RVCC's Edward Nash Theatre featuring Grammy-winning bluegrass sensation Alison Krauss and her band, Union Station.

The festival, however, begins late Saturday morning, when several folk and bluegrass artists will perform a free outdoor concert on the Somerset County Courthouse steps and the nearby Somerville Shopping Center. Scheduled to appear during the program, which runs 11 a.m.-5 p.m., are Walt Michael and Company, One Way Ticket, The Village Brasswinds, Drew Smith and Friends, Willie Lynch, Andy Wasserman and Jim West.

Related activities on Saturday in Somerville include an invitational art exhibit (in the juror's waiting room of the historic church on the Courthouse Green) and an open house at the Bicycle Hall of Fame (166 West Main St.).

Saturday night at 8 p.m., the Musicfest goes into high gear with a performance by Krauss, who this summer became the first bluegrass artist in 29 years to be inducted into the Grand Ole Opry and, at the tender age of 21, is the youngest member of the Opry's current family.

Her status, however, is not limited to Nashville. A two-time Grammy winner, who has played and sung with the likes of Dolly Parton and Vince Gill, her incredible fiddle and vocal talents have even been noticed by rock-oriented Rolling Stone magazine, which featured her in a recent issue. She's also been featured by USA Today, The New York Times and even Newsweek.

Krauss was also honored by the International Bluegrass Music Association as "Entertainer of the Year" in 1991, when she also captured her second straight "Female Vocalist of the Year" award. In 1992, she won a Grammy for her album I've Got That Old Feeling.

In other words, if there is a true superstar in bluegrass, she's the one, and the Musicfest has got her.

Tickets for the concert are $17.50, or $15 for seniors and students. For reservations and information, call (908) 725-3420.

Sunday, the Musicfest concludes at RVCC with a concert by the Dutton Family, a family of nine from Utah that performs all over the world and plays everything from folk to classical. The Duttons will appear at 1, 3:30 and 6 p.m. Tickets are $6.

Leap of faith

Fanwood concert to debut album of Christian musician Wayne Tate

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Contemporary Christian musician Wayne Tate doesn't want to be confused with Steve Martin, but the Fanwood resident feels his new album, Whole Heart, represents a leap of faith on his part. Son of a preacher, Christianity and music have been a big part of his life since childhood, which was spent, among other places, in Staten Island and Elizabeth.

"In school, my nickname was Rev. Tate," he recalled with a chuckle.

In his teens, he performed with his brother, and together, they won several CCM competitions and even recorded an album. But after college, Tate, 36, detoured into a career as a dental technician before returning to his roots as a youth minister in Elizabeth.

Music, though, remained a passion, and 2½ years ago, he recorded his first solo album, an experience that convinced him that music would be the medium to spread his message.

"After that experience, I knew this was what I was supposed to be doing with my life," he said.

And this past summer, he committed to his "leap of faith," and traveled to the CCM capitol — Nashville — to record Whole Heart at his own considerable expense.

Saturday, his friends and fans will gather at Evangel Church, 1251 Terrill Road, Scotch Plains, to celebrate the album's debut with an 8 p.m. concert featuring the impressive Whole Heart band, which includes David Cleveland, a member of the popular CCM ensemble the Steven Curtis Chapman Band.

Helping him produce the concert will be Dane Lowrie, founder of the Evangel Church's The Times Coffeehouse, which has grown over the past year into one of the major CCM showcases in Central Jersey.

"My brother and I used to perform in coffeehouses back in the '70s, so it's nice to see them making a comeback," said Tate.

These days, Tate is busy touring with his wife, Rachel, and his three children, along with a guitarist. Playing at churches and other venues, the "tour" is a family affair, with Tate singing and playing keyboards, his wife and daughter, Rachel Lynn, adding vocals and his 13-year-old son, David, helping to run the sound board. His other son, Jordan, 4, completes the Tate road crew. "He gets the most attention," said Tate.

Of course, the concerts showcase the gentle songs of devotion featured on Whole Heart, which actually sounds more West Coast, in the tradition of Andrew Gold and Jackson Browne, than the country stylings normally associated with Nashville.

On tour, however, the arrangements are a little more sparse and acoustic, but Saturday, the full band will help Tate recapture the lush pop arrangements that make Whole Heart an easy, pleasant listen.

Admission to Saturday's concert is free (donations accepted), and the album will be for sale on tape or CD. Whole Heart is also available by calling Triumphant Ministries at (908) 889-5925, or writing to P.O. Box 381, Fanwood, N.J. 07023.

The Times will also host a concert on Saturday, Oct. 23, featuring Force for good and Mary Taylor. For more information, call (908) 322-9300.

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

Somebody called me a wine geek. Me! The one who hates vague, nondescript words like "elegant" and "body" and "breeding" because they don't tell you what a wine tastes like! The person who said this, however, is a very good friend who informed me that lately I can't even go to a party without giving some wine glass holder a dissertation on aroma vs. bouquet. So, to try and bring my geek-dom into perspective, here are some classic definitions from The Eno File, a publication from Sutter Home Winery. Enjoy!

Barrel Fermentation - A process in which white wines are subjected to a alchemical indignities while residing in charred, porous, overpriced oak containers, air-dried in the imaginary forests of France.

Clone - A derogatory designation for a winemaker who produces a $20 over-oaked Chardonnay in order to get profiled in The Wine Spectator.

Dirty - A useful generic term for wines that smell like soil diapers, riled-up skunks, or rotting eggs; has no sexual connotations.

Elegant - A wine geek term often used to describe over-rated, overpriced wines made by famous wine makers.

Finish - the end of a bottle.

Oaky - Wines that are acceptable, but not great.

Phylloxera - Roman goddess of diseased grapevines; met win god Bacchos through an Etruscan dating service.

Find your dream home: Crossfields

From the free-form pool to whirlpool bath, colonial estate boasts only the finest quality

TEWKSBURY — If your dream home includes panoramic views, sun-drenched rooms and the finest quality in home design, Crossfields at Tewksbury is a dream come true.

The 5-year-old colonial, located off Potterstown Road, lists for $2,450,000 through Coldwell Banker Schlott in Pluckemin.

A tree-lined, illuminated, quarter-mile drive leads to the circular parking area. The home perches on 60 acres of well landscaped grounds in prime equestrian country.

The highlight of the grounds is unquestionably the free-form inground pool, copied from one on a hillside in Italy. The pool features a center spa, and pool house. Nearby is a lighted tennis court.

The home is wood with insulated windows, a wood shingle roof, and a three-car attached garage that has direct entry to the house. There is also a full unfinished basement.

The attention-grabbing windows, beautiful from the exterior, are breathtaking from the inside. Nearly all of the home's 23 rooms boast a panoramic view of the surrounding countryside.

A grand foyer leads into the home. A marble fireplace and hardwood floors accent the spacious 23-by-30-foot living room. A second marble fireplace is found in the 31-by-17 dining room. A cathedral ceiling soars above a magnificent celestory window.

Also on the first floor is a 30-by-21 kitchen with a center island, two sub-zero refrigerators, dual Jenn-Airs, a butler's pantry, hardwood floors and a third fireplace. A balcony overlooks the kitchen.

A family/recreation room is 31-by-20, and features yet another fireplace and an impressive window wall. A sun room boasts a marble floor. A full bath and powder room, and exercise room are also on the first floor.

The master bedroom suite, with a stunning 24-by-22-foot bedroom, large sitting room and two fireplaces dominates the second floor. The suite features a walk-in closet, and sunburst window. The master bath boasts its own dressing area, a bidet and four-person whirlpool.

Additional bedrooms are 18-by-13, 14-by-15, 24-by-17, and 15-by-14. In all, there are seven bedrooms in the home. There is a laundry and five baths on the second level.

A guest suite features a bedroom, living room, bath and private entrance. A children's room has a fireplace and balcony. There is also a domestic/au pair suite.

Amenities include a security system, dishwasher, electric stove and central air conditioning. The home is located minutes from the center of historic Oldwick, and a few miles from Routes 78 and 22.

The home has propane heat, a deck and screened porch. Taxes were $17,200 in 1991-'92.

For more information, or to visit the home, call James F. Jones or Joy Barrett at 658-9000.

Federal flood insurance program needs an overhaul, NAR says

A major overhaul is necessary to revive the federal flood insurance program, said Pat Campbell-White, vice chairwoman of the public policy committee of the National Association of Realtors.

Ms. Campbell-White testified before a U.S. Senate panel recently.

"One of the biggest problems is only a small percentage of eligible property owners carry flood insurance," Ms. Campbell-White said. "Especially in areas with infrequent flooding, many owners don't insure against flooding or they allow their policies to lapse."

In testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Housing and Urban Affairs, Campbell-White said NAR supports the National Flood Insurance Reform Act of 1993 because it would increase participation while preserving property rights of individual owners. In addition, it would discourage overbuilding in high-risk areas.

Under the bill, flood insurance would not be available for non-movable residential construction in 30- and 60-year erosion zones determined by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), in consultation with state and local governments.

"However, property owners would have the right to build at their own risk or obtain private insurance, whether it's in a coastal erosion zone or an inland floodplain," she said.

While existing structures would remain eligible for federal flood insurance in the 30- and 60-year erosion zones, new additions that make existing structures non-movable and new commercial structures within the 60-year zone could not participate in the program.

Lush lawn can help sell home

"A lush, green lawn can be a homeowner's pride and joy, as well as an asset when the time comes to sell," said the president of the New Jersey Association of Realtors.

"However, beautiful lawns do not grow that way themselves," said Gene Azzalina, NJAR president.

"Autumn is an excellent time of year to build a lawn and help it recover from the ravages of the hot summer."

Fall is an ideal time for planting grass seed. Weeds that thrive during hot summer months lie dormant, and young grass does not suffer from summer heat. Also, planting seed in the fall allows it to sprout and form an insulating cover for underground pipes during winter.

Proper cultivation is the key step, both in planting new lawns and reviving existing ones. The Lawn Institute offers the following tips:

- Expose the soil. For smaller areas, a sharp-tined tool is acceptable, but for larger areas, a power-operated lawn thinner is more appropriate.

- When the turf is thinned out, gouge the soil so the seeds will lodge in holes and find a place to sprout.

- Add fertilizer, preferably one rich in nitrogen. The amount of fertilizer needed depends on the type used. For major lawn makeovers, fertilizer should not be spread until grading is completed. Otherwise, it will be unevenly distributed.

Calton cultivates quality at Staats

Calton Homes Inc. has just announced plans for a new community of four- and five-bedroom estate homes in Branchburg Township, Somerset County.

The preview grand opening of The Estates at Staats Farm is continuing. Calton is developing this community in response to the increasing demand for moderately-priced estate homes in the Route 287 corridor. Set on a beautiful 142-acre parcel of land, the new community is named in honor of the well-known family farm which once occupied the site.

Priced from only $269,990, the homes at Staats Farm will range in size from 2,456 to 4,377 square feet. Each home will be set on a minimum half-acre homesite and will feature four or five bedrooms, up to 3½ baths, 9-foot first-floor ceilings, central airconditioning, poured concrete basement, Andersen windows, a family room with woodburning fireplace, and dramatic volume spaces in the entry foyer and select living spaces.

Marc Schneiderman, Calton's Senior Vice President and North Division Manager, said Staats Farm is expected to attract "move-up" homebuyers out of smaller single-family homes or townhomes.

"We're expecting a lot of sales from executives in middle and upper-level management, as well as executives relocating to the area," said Mr. Schneiderman. These homes have clearly been designed to accommodate growing families. And true to form, early interest at Staats Farm has come from families with school-age children.

"Not only is Branchburg an exceptionally convenient location for those who work in either New Jersey or New York, it is also a township with one of the best public school systems in the state," said Mr. Schneidennan.

Convenience at Staats Farm means easy access to any number of major highways, including Routes 22, 78, 202 and 287. Residents can commute to corporate offices along these routes in half-an-hour or less while popular boating and camping areas such as Spruce Run and Round Valley Reservoirs are also just minutes away. Another one of the community's advantages is the proximity of a nearby commuter train station which allows residents to commute into Manhattan in just under an hour.

Mr. Schneiderman said the on-site Sales Information Center is now open and that Calton has begun accepting reservations from homeseekers who would like to lock-in the low preconstruction prices currently being offered. Schneiderman adds that only 122 homes will be built and for best price and selection, homeseekers are advised to visit The Estates at Staats Farm at their earliest convenience.

To reach the community, take Route 287 North to Route 22 west to Route 202 south. Go through Somerville Circle and make a right onto Old Yorke Road. Proceed approximately 1½ miles and make a right onto Readington Road. Go another 1½ miles to the sales information center on the left. For

For those who have always dreamed of living in horse country with spectacular views and rolling hills, The Meadows at Tewksbury will make your dreams come true.

Only nine magnificent homes, starting at $405,000, will comprise this one-of-a-kind community.

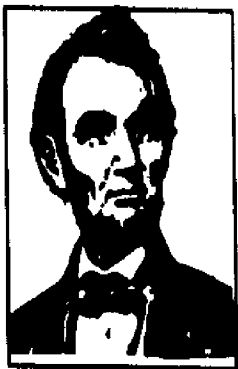

Several homes are already sold and only five lots remain. Each home at The Meadows has been designed to blend and capture the breathtaking Hunterdon County countryside.

Sweeping views are evident from each 3-acre homesite and the community's cul de sac assures a private and tranquil lifestyle. Several distinctive home designs with soaring 9-foot ceilings and masonry fireplaces, and the opportunity to customize are available to each potential homebuyer.

Tewksbury is one of Hunterdon County's most prestigious communities. Its rolling farmlands and unspoiled natural landscape have attracted many house enthusiasts as well as executives searching for an exclusive retreat. It is only a short drive from Princeton as well as New York City and Newark Airport.

For more information on The Meadows at Tewksbury contact Mike Gleason at the Clinton office of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors.
