Mt. Laurel fear sparks town land sale

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

In order to prevent construction of new Mount Laurel affordable housing, Westfield has been actively taking steps to rid itself of vacant town-owned land.

In the past month, the town has subdivided tracts on Dunham Avenue, taken steps to sell lots on a tract behind Grandview Avenue, and successfully moved the second phase of the Senior Citizens Housing Complex into construction.

The newest focus is on a tract along Sherman Street. Last week the town filed an application with the Planning Board to subdivide the land into salable lots so that, according to Councilwoman Margaret Sur, "if the town wishes they can be sold off individually."

According to Town Engineer and Assistant Administrator Ed Gottko, the Sherman Street tract is being subdivided in order to sell a 40-foot lot to adjacent property owners.

Planning Board Chairman Doug Swartz said, "This is consistent with what's going on in town. My sense is that the Mount Laurel decision has focused the town on selling its vacant land."

The NJ Supreme Court Mount Laurel decisions imposed an obligation on municipalities to provide their fair share of affordable housing. In response, the NJ Legislature later adopted the Fair Housing Act and created the Council on Affordable Housing (COAH) to establish criteria, determine housing needs, and monitor affordable housing activities.

According to Sidna B. Mitchell of COAH, the proposed need for Westfield is 281 units from 1987 to 1999. This is only proposed by COAH.

Back in 1988 the town designed a master plan to fulfill Mount Laurel allocations. The Grandview Avenue tract, the Dunham Avenue tract, and the site of the Senior Citi-

Critics hit $1,000 plane noise outlay

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Although the Town Council agreed to spend $1,000 to help fight air craft noise in New Jersey, some residents feel that the council's work is not enough.

Last week, the council agreed to appropriate funds to the Union County Air Craft Noise Coalition after hearing a presentation and plea from representatives of the group. The group has come up with an alternative route plan aimed to lessen air noise in all of New Jersey and is now seeking funds from municipalities to help them in forthcoming negotiations with the FAA.

Citizens Michael Ancona and Monica Felsing appeared at Tuesday's council meeting to question the necessity of granting funds and to appeal for more citizen involvement in fighting the problem of air craft noise.

"What I am asking is — what can the council do to get citizens to take a more active role in this," said Mr. Ancona. "So many people I've spoken with seem to believe that this is being taken care of, and it's not."

Ms. Felsing agreed that many people are not taking citizen action because they have not been well enough informed and they think someone else is doing it for them.

Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe said, "The council has done what it can with a 29-cent stamp. We have spoken with our representatives and will continue to do so."

Mayor Boothe reminded Mr. Ancona that Westfield has no power or jurisdiction over air craft routes. "This is a federal problem," he said. "The federal government has pre-empted the whole field, we are doing what we can."

Councilman Norman Greco hopes that the council's action will open the path for public dialogue and encourage citizens to take action on their own. "I feel that this is a very necessary thing to do. By giving $1,000, it show that we care that we are concerned," Councilman Greco said.

Ms. Felsing also expressed outrage at the fact that, as a taxpayer, her money already goes to the FAA and with the council's action, she is now also paying taxes to fight the FAA.

Ms. Felsing believes that Senator Frank Lautenberg, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee for Transportation, has the power to solve New Jersey's air noise problem and has failed to do so.

"Lautenberg is hiding behind a smoke screen," Ms. Felsing said. "We have to tell him no vote unless he takes care of this."

Civics study on school agenda throughout the span of grades

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

As Westfield children hear more and more talk these days about Tuesday's election, Westfield educators hope that the youngsters understand what's being discussed.

According to David Rock, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, by the time Westfield students are old enough to vote, they should be well-prepared to understand the mechanics and processes of U.S. government on all levels.

From elementary grades to senior year, students are exposed to different aspects of government within the required social studies courses. Students are taught everything from the mechanics of Westfield's local government to current issues on the federal level.

"Beginning in third and fifth grades, students learn the basics of government and how it developed historically," said Dr. Rock. He said that third-graders even get to take a trip to Westfield Town Hall and experience local government first-hand.

Continuing through the intermediate schools, government is taught from a historical perspective within the regular social studies courses. At the high school level, students are required to take Survey of American History and American Issues, both of which have a unit that deals specifically with civics.

Robert Adriance, Social Studies Department head at WHS, said, "We go far beyond what is considered civics by building it into two of our core programs."

In the history course, students deal with specifics of politics historically, while in the issues course unit, the students are exposed to very specific current issues of U.S. politics.

Mr. Adriance stressed the importance of relating current issues to the education of politics. "We go beyond the straight text and place an emphasis on

More voters set for polls Tuesday than in '89 ballot

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield has 17,728 residents who have registered and are able to head to the polls Tuesday.

This latest count includes all who registered by the Oct. 4 deadline. The number is slightly higher than the amount of Westfield residents registered back in October of 1989, the year of the last gubernatorial election. In 1989, 17,606 residents were able to vote, out of a total population of 28,870.

However, not everyone got to the polls. The turnout of voters for the '89 election was 11,027.

The last gubernatorial election was the first for Governor Jim Florio. In Westfield 5,603 voted for Florio vs. 5,149 who voted for his opponent, Jim Courter.

This election will ask the public to vote for Governor, Senator, General Assembly, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and Town Council members.

In Westfield, current Town Council members are running uncontested in all four wards. Councilmen include Norman Greco for the first ward, Margaret Sur for the second ward, Kenneth MacRitchie in the third ward, and James Hely in the fourth ward.

Registered voters should have already received a sample ballot, which indicates voting sites, most of which are at the local elementary schools. The polls will be open 7 a.m.-8 p.m. Absentees can still vote absentee in person at the County Clerk's Office until Monday.

A devoted orchestra fan enjoys 11th opening night

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Saturday, Marnie Ainslie had the pleasure of savoring the music of the Westfield Symphony Orchestra for the 11th season in a row.

Mrs. Ainslie and her husband have been season patrons of the Symphony since its beginning. Five times a year for the past 10 years they have gotten dressed up, driven down to the Presbyterian Church or the high school, met with their friends, enjoyed a couple of hours of top-notch symphonic music, and headed out to a party.

"It's the one thing that we can all do routinely," Mrs. Ainslie said. "We try to sit in the same place every year, we meet up with all our friends and everybody just really enjoys it."

Unlike the first year of the orchestra in 1983, Marnie Ainslie was able to sit back and listen on opening night Saturday. At the very first concert of the Westfield Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Ainslie was part of the show, singing in the choir at the church.

Mrs. Ainslie said her involvement with the orchestra has much to do with her own devotion to music. She is a classical musician herself with a master's degree in music, and added that symphonic music is far from alien to the everyday lives of her family.

"It is our lives," Mrs. Ainslie said. "It's not just something we listen to onlyfive5 times a year."

But her support for the orchestra goes beyond her appreciation of quality music. The Ainslies value the orchestra for what it brings to the community as a whole.

"It's a great plus for the community," Mrs. Ainslie said. "Almost everyone who goes is from Westfield and you feel a kind of pride. It not only enhances the town image, but it enriches the whole sense of connectedness of the people."

On top of what she feels the orchestra does for Westfield, Mrs. Ainslie simply enjoys what the orchestra does for her. "I just really enjoy the concerts," Mrs. Ainslie said. "Sitting there in the church, listening to the music I feel sort of elegant."

Saturday night was opening night for the Westfield Symphony Orchestra, which has stood the test of time. The WSO was founded 10 years ago in an effort by the community to distinguish this area with its own professional orchestra.

According to Mrs. Ainslie, it has been a mixture of factors which have allowed this success, including the management of the people who started it, the Board of Directors and the Guild, the social desirability of the concerts, the support of local businesses and organizations, and, of course, the quality of the music.

"All of these factors work together," Mrs. Ainslie said, "if any one piece weren't there, it may have never worked."

Civics on school agenda

the student's knowledge of current events."

Dr. Rock said Westfield had a course years ago that dealt specifically with civics. But now educators have found it more effective to address civics through units within broader courses.

In addition to straight course work, every March the high school has a voter registration drive for students who are or will be 18 by the next election. With the help of the League of Women Voters, the drive is conducted through all the social studies classes.

The high school also offers a number of electives dealing with civics, including courses in law and international relations, as well as advanced placement courses in history and politics.

The high school also offers a Community Internship in Government and Politics, which allows students who are particularly interested to be placed with an appropriate sponsor in a local, county, or even a state office. These students must also take the advanced placement elective in Government and Politics, and spend five hours a week working with their sponsor and the instructor for a full semester.

zens Housing, along with about seven other sites were all targeted for affordable housing sites.

At present, at least 130 affordable housing units will be fulfilled by the Senior Citizens Housing Complex. However, Mr. Gottko said that many of the other sites have been dismissed because criteria set forth by COAH are constantly changing, and the town has yet to update this plan.

According to Mr. Jenkins, the town is taking a prudent course of action by developing vacant town-owned land with single-family homes before the next go around with Mount Laurel.

"Our motivation has been to address people's concerns about having high-density housing in their backyards," Councilman Jenkins said. "For the time being there's no real threat, but personally I don't put a lot of faith in that."

"The state didn't get the housing they wanted the first time around and the 10 percent need has not diminished so I think that they will get stricter and start looking at smaller lots," Mr. Jenkins explained. "I think that we're wise on the town level to foresee some of this."

Town officials seems to feel the town should actively take steps to develop its vacant land into single-family homes.

DeSimone named Tamaques principal

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Salvatore J. DeSimone, assistant principal of Roosevelt Intermediate School, has been named principal of Tamaques Elementary School.

"I am thrilled and excited," Mr. DeSimone said, "I can't wait."

Mr. DeSimone will replace former Tamaques School Principal David Tuller who became Director of Human Resources for the school district in August. Kathleen Zepf, also a former principal of the school, has been serving as interim principal and will continue until Mr. DeSimone assumes his new position in December.

Mr. DeSimone was chosen by Dr. Smith and a six-member Selection Advisory Committee: Nancy Biggio and Ronnie Caravello, co-presidents of the Tamaques PTO; Patricia Hughes and Debbie McCullam, Tamaques teachers; Kelley Kissiah, coordinator of elementary principals; and David Tuller, director of human resources.

During the 5 1/2 week principal selection process, the committee received 100 applications.

"Mr. DeSimone possesses great people skills," Dr. Smith said, "a thorough knowledge of teaching, considerable abilities in management and organization, a sensitivity to diverse student populations and a deep commitment to the belief that all students can learn and achieve at high levels."

Mr. DeSimone has been both teacher and administrator within Westfield schools for 20 years, beginning as an English and Spanish teacher at Roosevelt. In 1976, he was named English-Foreign Language Department Head at age 25.

After 12 years at Roosevelt, Mr. DeSimone was named assistant elementary principal at Franklin School in 1989, and remained there for three years before returning to Roosevelt as assistant principal.

Although Mr. DeSimone has spent most of his time with intermediate students, he expressed a special affection for elementary education.

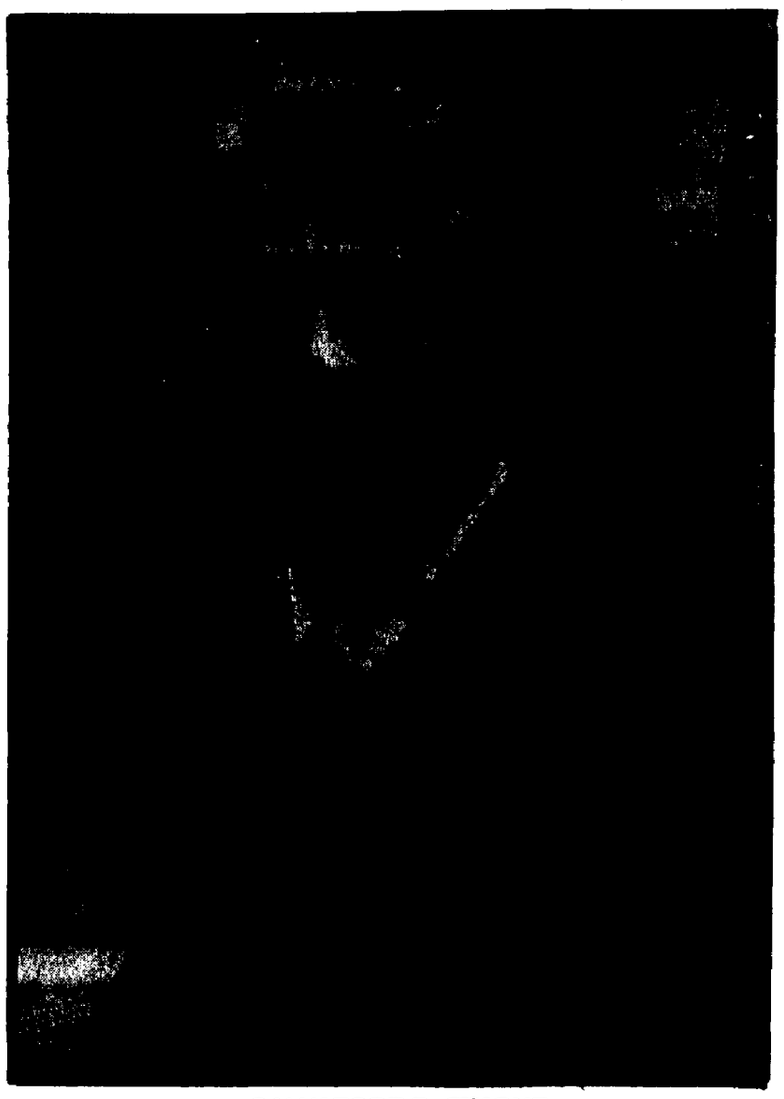

"Anybody who knows me will tell you how much the time at Franklin affected me," Mr. DeSimone said. "In my three years working with their exceptional staff, I realized the impact they have the students of that age."

Mr. DeSimone explained he believes elementary education is most important in setting foundations for learning. "The earlier we give the children the message, the more they can learn," he said, "I want to be part of that message."

Mr. DeSimone also called attention to his experiences with his own children as a qualification for anyone in his field. With six children of his own, from pre-K to eighth grade, Mr. DeSimone believes he is better able to relate to both parents and students.

As he prepares to move into his new position, Mr. DeSimone contemplates some new directions for the school. "I would like to move towards more school-based decision making, involving staff, parents, and perhaps students," he said. "I would also like to explore issues of parent education."

"He is a perfect match for Tamaques School," said Dr. Smith.

Roselle woman is charged with six check forgeries

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield police arrested Pamela Spina, 41, of Roselle last Wednesday for six counts of uttering forged checks and one count of theft by deception.

Ms. Spina was arrested in response to a previous report of forged checks filed by United Jersey Bank on Central Avenue in Westfield.

Ms. Spina allegedly forged and cashed six checks at the bank valuing a total of $1,490. The checks were found to belong to another Roselle resident.

Police arrested Ms. Spina in her home. Bail was set at $2,500, Ms. Spina was released on 10 percent, or $250.

SHOPLIFTING ARREST

Kimberly Alvarado and Francesca Columba, both of Staten Island, were arrested on Oct. 23 for shoplifting at Lord and Taylor. Each was released on $500 bail.

DWI ARRESTS

On Oct. 19 Martin F. Whelan Jr. was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol as a result of an accident at the intersection of Grandview and Rodger avenues. According to police, Mr. Whelan was traveling west on Rodger Avenue and attempting to turn right onto Grandview Avenue when he lost control of the car and struck the curb and a tree on the corner. Mr. Whelan was released on $375 bail.

BURGLARY AND THEFT

Franklin School reported that someone broke into the school, ransacked the school, and stole several articles Oct. 18. According to police, someone gained entry to the school through an unlocked, ajar window in the courtyard area on the northeast side of the building. Principal Kenneth Wark reported damage to two hallways and two rooms on the first and second floors. He said the rooms were ransacked and a cassette and CD player and speakers were stolen. Other articles may be missing but were unknown at the time.

On Oct. 23, a Central Avenue resident reported her home burglarized. Police believe entry was gained through the bathroom window. Three VCRs, two TVs, two cordless telephones, a handbag, and a leather jacket were reported stolen. The items were said to value a total of $15,000.

On Oct. 20, a West South Avenue resident reported the theft of an '87 Honda motorcycle. The cycle was reported stolen from the rear yard of the residence.

Clues scarce in investigation of Central Ave. hit-and-run

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Westfield Police are still searching for a hit and run driver who struck and killed a Westfield man on Central Avenue Oct. 16.

Police believe that about 7:26 p.m. on that Saturday night, Steven Kopelchak walked out of Palmer Video and was crossing the street when he was struck by a car. Less than 50 minutes later he was pronounced dead at Rahway Hospital.

According to the victim's father, he went to purchase a blank tape to record the World Series. His father, Steven Kopelchak, said that he was waiting for his return so that the two could watch the game together.

"We are looking for a dark colored sedan last seen heading southbound on Central Avenue," said Westfield Police Sergeant Cliff Auchter. "We have spoken with several witnesses and we are asking that anybody with any information to please call."

Sergeant Auchter or Investigating Detective Donald Fuentes can be reached at 789-4010 or 789-4008.

According to Sgt. Auchter, the police are continuing to speak with witnesses and neighbors and they have notified a network of places, including body shops in the area.

Police also set up a road block between 6:45 and 8:15 last Saturday, stopping all cars to ask if anyone happened to witness the pedestrian accident the week before. Two billboards have been put up on Central Avenue by the county in another effort to find more witnesses. Sgt. Auchter said they will probably remain for the next two or three weeks.

Westfield police are working with the Union County Prosecutor's Office and they have sent the victim's clothing to the lab at the FBI in Washington.

Steven Kopelchak, 31, had moved to Westfield from Roselle only three weeks ago to live near his father in the same apartment building. He was born in Monessen, Pa. and was a New Jersey resident for 17 years. An employee of a Coca-cola warehouse in Parsippanny, he is survived by his father Steven, his sister Kelly, and his mother Karen Downs. He was buried in Pennsylvania last Friday.

The 64% question

Average turnout hereabouts in the 1989 governor's race should be bested Tuesday

On Nov. 7 1989, only two out of three registered voters in this suburban zone of Union County managed to get to the polls and make Jim Florio their governor and Jim Courter the chairman of the federal military base closing commission.

Those two-out-of-three also made some contribution to dumping the Democrats out of the state legislature.

It seemed like a good election day. Mr. Florio won in each of the six towns in question: Cranford, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Kenilworth, Garwood and Fanwood. The locals' legislative favorites fared less well, but Mr. Florio's success sort of made up for any legislative disappointments.

The Florio decision is, of course, on the ballot again for Tuesday's elections. This time he faces strong competition and a weak record that includes stubbornly high unemployment, a high rate of business failures and a business climate that has been hanging low and chilly over the marketplace for four long years.

This is anything but a lesser-of-two-evils gubernatorial election; ditto the legislative races on the ballot.

The hope in this corner is that the Florio factor will effect change in the turnout, if no other improvement.

Union county election officials reported on Friday these voter registration figures for the communities in the Forbes Newspapers service area:

11-7-89 REG. VOTERS	REG. LAST WEEK
CRANFORD
13,820	13,766
FANWOOD
4,601	4,478
GARWOOD
2,257	2,313
KENILWORTH
4,264	4,220
SCOTCH PLAINS
12,643	12,698
WESTFIELD
17,606	17,728

If the record of the incumbent governor isn't enough motivation, there is the statewide public question that is a powerful turnout builder.

The question asks whether New Jersey should become the 16th state in the nation to allow voters to recall their U.S. Senators, Congressmen, Governor, and State Legislators.

Killing deer wrong approach

To the Record:

This is to tell you (County Freeholders) that I am appalled at the suggestion that you would allow hunters to run around the Watchung Reservation killing deer. There are so many things wrong with that idea, that I can't imagine anyone would even consider such lunacy.

First of all the Reservation belongs to all the citizens of Union County, not to the people whose shrubs and trees they are eating. The Reservation is a haven of beauty for all people who come to enjoy it. With all the stress, crime and personal problems the modern day living causes, it offers a place of peace and beauty where a person can stop and collect himself and get in touch with the real meaning of life.

Nature means all nature including the deer and other animals. They were there first and the homeowners were the intruders. The people brought near the reservation because it is what it is. They enjoyed it as long as it didn't intrude on the owner's territory.

I will never undrstand humans who are quite willing to kill animals that trust you. I think something human is being lost.

The tiresome excuse from the hunters of the deer have to be killed so the deer will have enough to eat and the weak will not sufferis not valid.

Balony! Hunters don't care - not for one moment - about the health of the deer, the deer population, your bushes and trees - or even who might get accidentally killed. They are in it only for the thrill of the kill.

There are humane ways to keep the deers away from your bushes. Plants can be moved - they really won't mind.

Why don't you people put away your guns and get a camera.

A strong pitch for the helpful power of the lowly penny

To The Record:

Who said a penny doesn't go very far these days? If many people deposit pennies into a two-gallon jar it will add up to a tidy sum. That money may make a slight but significant difference in someone's life.

Last year, money collected in our penny jar amounted to $117.30. It was given to the Elizabeth Coalition for the Homeless, earmarked for the children's summer activities. When the season was over, tenants of Westfield Senior Housing received notes from the children thanking them for the money they donated and telling them about their trips to the beach, the Staten Island Zoo and the Newark Planetarium. Many of the children had never seen the ocean or a live animal.

This past spring, two tenants delivered handmade blankets to St. Clare's Home for Children in Elizabeth. Tenants directed their penny collection to the home because they were so impressed with the care being given to such sick children.

When an appeal for shoes for the homeless appeared in the local paper the response was immediate and plentiful.

Each month food and clothing is collected for the food pantry and beautiful food baskets are made up for special families on Christmas and Easter.

Senior housing residents are giving, caring people willing to help when asked.

Halloween date is significant for Girl Scouts everywhere

To The Record:

Oct. 31 is Halloween, but for those of us in the Girl Scout Community, it is also the birthday of Juliette Gordon Low, the founder of Girl Scouting. When Juliette Gordon Low established her modest organization back in 1912, her dream was to make Girl Scouts contributing members of society.

Today Girl Scouts continue to work on projects that make the world a better place. Washington Rock Girl Scouts visit the sick and elderly, clean up the environment and learn about the world around them. Scouting offers badges in everything from literacy work and environmental commitments to issues of racism and divorce as well as traditional out-of-doors and creative arts badges. Girl Scouts learn about self-esteem and make friends with one another and their leaders.

If Juliette Gordon Low were alive today, she'd be proud to see how Girl Scouting has grown to be the largest volunteer organization for girls in the United States.

More than 80 years after its inception, Girl Scouting continues to be a values-based organization. As we look ahead to a new year of Girl Scouting, the roots, traditions and dreams begun by Juliette Gordon Low are still alive today.

Why kill the tame deer

To The Record:

The Freeholders of Union County are deciding whether or not to allow the NJ Division of Fish, Game, and Wildlife to kill the tame deer at the Watchung Reservation.

I am strongly opposed to the hunting and killing of tame deer, particularly in this location.

First of all, how safe is this for people in the surrounding area?

Second, it doesn't work! By reducing the number of deer, it only results in over-population. A reduction of herd size results in better nutrition for the surviving herd, therefore fostering more frequent breding and more offspring.

Third, an open hunt does not promote survival of the fittest. On the contrary, the hunter will set his sights on the healthy deer, leaving the weak to continue their suffering.

There are more humane and effective alternatives than this recreational hunting, which is clearly financially motivated.

Workshop grateful

To The Record:

The New Jersey Workshop for the Arts would like to publicly thank Ahrre's Coffee Roastery at 150 Elm Street, Westfield, for its support. Ahrre Maros, the proprietor, donated fine Hazelnut Creme and Latin American Blend coffee for our recent open house. By helping in this way he has joined a host of other local business proprietors who have demonstrated their willingness to aid in the development of the Center for the Arts, the newest project of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts.

Support for young cellist is found most gratifying

To The Record:

The local support shown for cellist Wayne Smith has been most gratifying. He is a highly regarded student at the Eastmen School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., one of the top music schools in the country. The Wayne Smith Scholarship Fund was initiated to help this gifted musician and scholar, a graduate of Westfield High School, with his tuition.

In appreciation for those who had already made donations to the fund, Wayne presented a recital June 20. So impressed and moved was the audience at the concert that even more people came forward to support him. Since this has included an anonymous cash donation, we wish to give thanks to that generous individual in this letter.

It is so typical of this open-hearted community that when there is a need, helping hands reach out. Among those helping hands, we wish to especially thank the Rev. Dr. John Wightman, pastor, and the membership of the Congregational Church of Westfield for opening their Sanctuary for the recital. Also giving of his time and talent was Kenneth Hopper, then the Executive Director of the Westfield Symphony, who was the piano accompanist.

Fine print kills expected health insurance coverage

By RON POLLACK
GUEST COLUMNIST

Guest essay

You've seen the ads on TV. There's no way you can miss them. Insurance companies spend millions on "image advertising" to make us feel secure, safe, confident. But there's a big difference between the image and the reality of what insurers call "protection."

More and more families are discovering their health insurance doesn't insure, not against the things that really matter or the health care crises that really come up. The "fine print" on health insurance policies allows companies to deny you benefits you've been paying for, or even cut off your coverage at a critical stage.

Every month, two million Americans lose their health insurance. People like you and me. In fact, one month it could be you or me.

Every month, two million people just like us find out they're cut off, on their own, helpless to defend themselves against the crippling costs of debilitating illness, accident or long-term care.

Some lose insurance when they are laid off. Others lose insurance when they graduate from school. Others, when their company plan collapses. Many are just plain priced out of protection when their premiums are raised sky high. And some, like one small business owner in eastern Tennessee, get letters by registered mail: "This is to inform you that your insurance policy is hereby canceled."

He was going through cancer treatments at the time. Now, this letter from some faceless insurance company bureaucrat felt like the final blow. And he suffered a dangerous nine-month delay in his cancer treatment because his insurance failed him.

A dentist in Baton Rouge was a little luckier — for a little while. First he got the grim news so many Americans receive each year — cancer. Then, like the Tennessee businessman, he got a letter from his insurance company. No, he wasn't losing his coverage, but he was going to have to pay more in premiums — $10,000 a year!

The dentist felt he had no choice. He paid the higher premiums. But his insurance company had a choice. After a while, they wrote him a second letter. This one was like the one the Tennessee businessman got.

You're no longer covered, the letter stated. After years of paying for insurance — even as rates became exorbitant — the insurance company was writing to inform the dentist they were going to take the money and run.

He is on his own now, with a cancer the doctors say is in remission but still a constant worry, shared by everyone in his family. What will happen if and when the cancer returns? What will he do after his remaining savings run out? The Tennessean knew about the operation that could save his life when he got his letter from the insurance company. It was a procedure that's available within a few weeks, or even a few days, to people who have comprehensive coverage. Unless your insurance fails you, as it failed him.

Thanks to our payments, insurance companies have grown rich and profitable. After all we've given them, these giants owe us more than reassuring ads.

Health care reform must include a crack down on insurance companies that don't insure. "Fine print" should be banned. Benefits should be spelled out in plain English. And no insurance company should ever have the right to dump you for any reason. Ever!

Ron Pollack is executive director of Families USA, the national consumer advocacy group for health care reform.

Bulky item clean-up service wins approval from Council

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

The Town of Westfield will finally offer a collection service for bulky waste in the name of the Spring Clean-up. Spring Clean-up will be a user-fee program giving residents the opportunity to get rid of items such as old appliances and furniture.

The Solid Waste Committee has been discussing the idea of this kind of service for several months, and recently brought the idea before the Town Council.

According to Solid Waste Committee Chairman Anthony LaPorta, the town has been without this kind of service for a little over 20 years. Before that, the town had a yard at the Public Works Department where residents could bring bulky waste to have the town then take it away.

The previous service came out of tax dollars and according to the town, was simply too expensive, costing about $400,000. Mr. LaPorta said that in the past several years, residents have been asking for some kind of service again but the council has continuously turned it down because of expenses.

"It's an idea whose time has come," Mr. LaPorta said, "people said that they always wanted this and now the user-fee way we can do it, at no cost to the taxpayers."

The idea originated from Cranford's clean-up program, which began 2 years ago after years of doing it at the cost of the taxpayers. This way, if a resident wants the service, they must pay for a permit. In Cranford the permit is going for $60 for 750 lbs. this year.

Town Engineer Ed Gottko received the go-ahead from the council to put it up for bid and put together the contracts. Mr. LaPorta anticipates the price to be comparable to Cranford but it will depend on how low the bids go.

The only alternatives residents have had in the past 20 years was to bring items to the AMS Transfer Station in Linden, which has a comparable cost, or to hire a private garbage hauler for the job which costs 3 to 4 times as much.

Residents only need to obtain a permit sticker and put items out on the curb. The town will be separated into four wards and one ward will be picked up a week.

In effect, residents will be notified of their week, and have to put the items out on Sunday to be picked up anytime during the week. For this reason, the town is planning to hold the Spring Clean-up from mid-April to mid-May, to avoid both Easter and the schools spring vacation.

According to Mr. LaPorta, the town will be mailing out brochures and applications to all residents sometime around February.

Stray cats surface on Council's agenda

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Tuesday night, Summit Court resident Myron Gadol made the Town Council aware of a recurring problem with stray cats in his neighborhood.

Mr. Gadol told council how early last spring, he found two half-decomposed cats in his tool shed. He explained that there are whole families of cats that live in nearby yards, with no owners and no caretakers.

The cats are reproducing quickly and Mr. Gadol said that 3 or 4 dead kittens and cats have been found recently in the bushes in the neighborhood. "My concern is that this may present a danger to the community, especially with young children," Mr. Gadol said. "I spoke to all the neighbors and they are all concerned and would like this taken care of."

Mr. Gadol said that his own attempts at taking care of the situation proved futile. He called the Westfield Board of Health who explained to him that Westfield contracts the Garden State Kennel for animal control.

Mr. Gadol was soon to learn from Garden State Kennel that to get the cats removed, Mr. Gadol would have to pay to rent a trap and then actually trap the cats himself.

Councilwoman Margaret Sur said, "A couple of years ago the county said to the town- you're on your own. It is the county's duty to address this and they don't care."

"You don't have to be an animal lover, you just have to care about public safety," Councilwoman Sur added, "It's time that the County Freeholders be held accountable to deal with this problem."

In the meantime, Town Administrator John Malloy said that Westfield Health Official Robert Sherr has also expressed concern over the problem. He asked Mr. Gadol and any other concerned residents to attend the Board of Health meeting next Monday at 5:00 in the Municipal Building.

Tuesday night, the council also approved a two-way stop sign on Kimball Avenue at the intersection of Wychwood Road. A Woodland Avenue resident asked the town to consider placing the signs on Wychwood instead of Kimball because the path of young children to Wilson School is generally down Kimball Avenue.

Councilman Gary Jenkins explained that the State Department of Transportation needs to approve each sign and had decided that the best location of it was on Kimball. However, he also reminded residents that the town is in the process of applying for a four-way stop sign at this intersection.

"It's a very busy road and it has a long history of many accidents," Councilman Jenkins said, "we should go ahead with this two-way stop now for safety reasons."

In other business, council passed the ground lease for the Senior Citizens II Housing Project on first reading. Councilman Jenkins updated it's progress, "The financing is falling into place and we did better than expected, it will be a revenue producing piece after it is completed." He explained that the taxpayer is not paying anything to put the complex in place, but the town will receive tax credits after it is built.

Council acts to aid Anspachs

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

After a series of conflicts and misfortunes, Tom and Maryann Anspach may finally rest easy.

Tuesday night, the Westfield Town Council approved an amendment to a town code which threatened to dislocate them from their already temporary home.

Last January, the Anspachs and their three children had to move into a trailer on their front lawn due to fire damage in their house. The situation worsened when tried to settle with the insurance company.

"We had problems from day one with the fire," Mr. Anspach said. He told the council how he hired an adjuster who disappeared for months, then hired an attorney who failed to do anything.

Before he knew it, eight months had passed. The town code limits trailer permits to eight months, with no provisions for extensions. About two weeks ago, the Anspachs received a call from the trailer company saying that the Town Construction Official told them they would have to vacate.

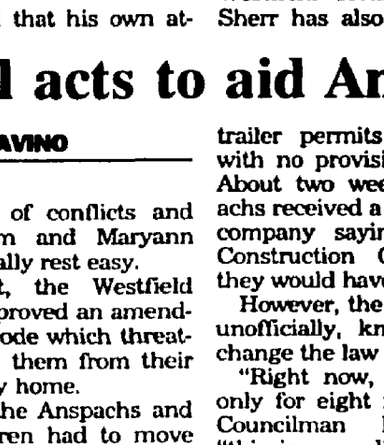

However, the town let them stay unofficially, knowing they would change the law as soon as possible.

"Right now, a trailer permit is only for eight months," explained Councilman Michael Panagos, "this is an ordinance to allow the town council to give another four month extension if good cause is shown for special circumstances."

On first reading, the town also passed a resolution granting the Anspachs a four-month extension.

Mr. Anspach told the council that the architect's plans are complete and the contractor should have the permits by the end of the week. The contractor has told Mr. Anspach that he expects to finish all work within two months.

Lone ballot question asks about recall right

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Next Tuesday voters will be asked whether they believe they should have the power to recall elected officials.

On Tuesday's ballot, voters will be asked one public question entitled "Power of electors to remove elected officials." The question will ask "shall Article I, paragraph 2 of the Constitution be amended, as proposed by the legislature, to provide for the recall of elected officials?"

Presently, statutory provisions allow certain elected officials on the county and municipal level to be removed by a recall election. Over 160 municipalities and 10 counties in New Jersey now permit recall of certain officials. However, according to the League of Women Voters, this law is used very infrequently.

On the other hand, the governor, members of the legislature, U.S. Senators and Congressmen need constitutional provisions to allow removal by recall election. There are now 15 states which have statewide recall election.

This amendment would direct the legislature to develop administrative regulations for the recall of any elected official, including county and municipal officials, and school board members, along with the Governor, members of the state legislature, and members of congress.

If the legislature does not do this within one year, the secretary of state will implement the constitutional amendment. Any regulations adopted by the secretary of state will be superseded by any subsequent legislation regarding the recall of elected officials.

The amendment says that the official must be in service for at least one year, but does not define any specific reasons which would be necessary to subject an official to recall election. It does provide that the reasons shall be political and not judicial, so that the courts cannot set aside a recall on the basis that the reasons are inadequate.

If at least 25 percent of the registered voters in the officials' electoral district petition, the question of whether or not to remove the official will be presented to popular vote.

This questions asks voters whether they believe that recall can be productive in making elected officials accountable to the public for their entire terms. The answer depends on whether a voter feels that the threat of recall will act as an incentive to better officials' performance or whether it will inhibit an official from taking action or making decisions which results may not show immediately, thus inhibiting performance.

According to the League of Women Voters, other concerns about this amendment include whether a petition by 25 percent of registered voters is possible. Some favor a recall petition signed by a percentage of the total number of voters in the election at which the official was elected.

In addition, some voters are concerned that recall might require an expensive special election and that recall could facilitate manipulation of the system by well-financed special interest groups.

On the positive side, some feel that recall provides an additional opportunity for citizens to chose their representatives and believe that this amendment would extend the right to recall to all New Jersey elected officials, a right that is now only granted for some.

Burned-out stores plan April restart on South Avenue

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

If everything goes according to plan, the three stores lost in a Sept. 18 fire will be back in full force by April 1, 1994. Meanwhile, store owners are doing everything possible to hang in there.

According to building owner Robert Santos, plans are underway to rebuild. "We are going to have to demolish what's left and then rebuild," Mr. Santos explained. "The architect's plan is complete."

According to Mr. Santos, the necessary permits from the town for both demolishing and rebuilding have been held up because of the utilities, but he expects them this week. He said bids for contractors will be going out this week.

"By the beginning of November, we hope to get the demolition work complete and begin the rebuilding."

Mr. Santos expects the stores to be operable within the next five months.

Mr. Santos said that Meeker's and Shear Perfection have agreed to wait for the rebuilding and to move back into the building.

Expressions offered temporary space to Shear Perfection. The owner does have intentions to move back and is doing her best to get by in the meantime.

Irene Meeker was looking for temporary space but decided to sit tight until the rebuilding is finished. She wants to make sure her customers know that they will be returning. "We're letting our costumers know everything that's going on."

Six UCC courses start next month

Union County College will offer six non-credit courses during November that will be conducted during single sessions to accommodate persons with busy schedules who still wish to obtain information about a selected topic of interest.

"How to Prepare for Early Retirement" will outline for participants the types of choices that companies provide employees through early retirement packages. Pluses and minuses of each early retirement choice will be discussed. The course will be held 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9 on the Cranford campus.

"Getting Your Act Together" will help participants to live happily despite heavy obstacles, dealing with such subjects as using less psychology and more philosophy, working towards a goal of happiness and a sense of personal fulfillment, and building a meaningful feeling of self-confidence. The course will be held 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6 in Cranford.

"Make Your Resume Work for You" will provide the rationale behind effective resume writing and how individuals can work it to their advantage. The seminar will highlight how to write a resume that is clear, concise, and markets the person's individuality. The course will be held 10 a.m.-noon Saturday, Nov. 13 on the Plainfield campus.

"Developing Confidence for the Job Interview" will offer an insight into effective way individuals may market themselves and get a desired salary and benefit package. The course will be held 10 a.m.-noon Saturday, Nov. 20 in Plainfield.

"How to Get Anyone to Do Almost Anything You Want Almost All the Time" will provide some powerful techniques that great salespersons, hypnotists, and politicians use to get others to willingly do what they want them to. The course will be held from 7-9 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 22 in Cranford.

"How to Get Anyone to Fall in Love with You Almost Instantly" will deal with a simple secret for becoming successful with the opposite sex, even if you aren't especially attractive. The course will be held 7-9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 29 in Cranford.

For more information, call 709-7600.

Women leaders group plans Nov. 9 session

The New Jersey Association of Women Business Leaders (NJAWBO), Union County Chapter, will hold its monthly dinner meeting 6 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9 at the Westwood, 438 North Ave., Garwood.

The meeting will be an opportunity to network and meet other women businesswomen. Three panelists will inform members about personal, commercial business owners current health care issues and how to shop for insurance.

Members of the panel are Scott Rappoport, vice president of Employee Benefits of American Economic Planning Group and Employee Benefits Consulting and Brokerage firm; Robin Suydam Simko, manager and partner in the Suydam Insurance Agency, owned and operated by the Suydam family for almost 35 years; and Eileen Shrem, a brokerage manager and disability specialist with the Guardian Insurance Co.

Cost for the dinner meeting is $22 for members and $28 for nonmembers.

For information, call Miriam Skaar at 889-8973.

HOMES

Patterns add warmth

By CHRISTINE RETZ
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

There is more to feeling comfy and cozy in a home than a warm sweater and a thermostat set at 75 degrees. There is the matter of your home's ambiance. The "warmth" that a well-appointed room projects is equally as important as its Fahrenheit reading.

For some of the most innovative ideas today in how to give your living space that special glow we consulted some of the foremost decorating and accessory specialists in central New Jersey.

Cranford-area homeowners will be excited by all the ideas at the Designers Den in their area. Karen Sanders said the store is chock full of terrific ways to turn your home into a showplace at prices you can afford. Her business runs the gamut from draperies to wall coverings, furniture, accessories and window treatments, and does she know what's "in" this fall!

"Green is definitely 'the' color for the '90s," Ms. Sanders said.

Almost every shade of green is popular, particularly the greens found in nature such as hunter green, she reflected, noting that these same tones are popular in automobiles now. "Greens are popular because of their ecological ties. People care about their environment, which naturally has a lot of green in it, and their care carries over into their choice of colors to decorate their interiors. Green was also popular with colonial settlers, and this return-to-the-past theme that is so predominant today can be reflected in the warm, dark greens used to decorate this fall."

Ms. Sanders also said that more people are staying home in the evening, perhaps because of the economy, perhaps because they are comfortable among their roots. Being home so much causes them to take more of an interest in their surroundings, and so they turn to the Decorating Den for ways to increase their comfort level at home.

The Decorating Den, Cranford, is emphasizing comfortable, less formal furniture that enables people to relax and be themselves. They like natural sunlight, too, and the Decorating Den's soft window treatments, featuring soft swags and jabots, are designed to let in the maximum amount of light.

"Everything today is warm and airy," Ms. Sanders said. "Nothing stiff and formal."

Colors and patterns at the Decorating Den are reflecting this relaxed motif, too. Consumers are no longer afraid to thoughtfully mix florals, stripes, checks and even plaids to bring out the best in each pattern.

"Plaids are enjoying quite a comeback," Ms. Sanders said. "I am finding that the greens and yellows, in particular, are popular with my customers."

'Everything today is warm and airy, nothing stiff and formal'
—Karen Sanders
Decorating Den

Susan Dalandan is manager of Hearth and Home, 55 Mountain Boulevard, Warren, said, "The little touches are what makes a house a home. Soft towels, handcrafted items, plaques and other accessories are but some of the ways to personalize your residence and make it uniquely your own."

Another popular accent this fall is country animals. A few years ago the popular animal was a goose, done in cream with a country blue background. The goose is still popular, Ms. Dalandan said, but the theme has broadened to include cows and pigs, and has even expanded to include a fruit theme, particularly apples to reflect the harvest season.

Hearth and Home also carries a unique collection of folk art to personalize your living space. A philosophical return to traditional family values, upon which America was built, is steadily increasing in popularity. Effective utilization of these lovely pieces is a way for people to reflect their concept of this philosophy.

Scented candles provide a totally new way to accessorize your home. Sold in a variety of pleasing fragrances, these candles can set the mood for that special time of day or evening. Aroma therapy is in vogue these days, and Hearth and Home has a large selection of candles in delicate fragrances designed to smooth away all your cares at the end of a busy day.

Pat Burr, owner of the Decorating Den, Martinsville, said, "For the past couple of yours decorating trends have remained conservative, but the rumor is that textile designers and furniture manufacturers are ready to take a few risks and come out with some exciting new designs for 1994.

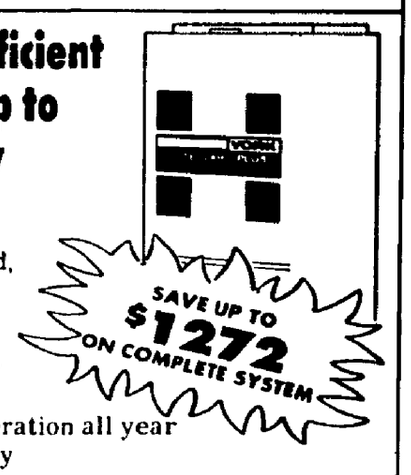

"The buzz word right now in home furnishings is informal. High Point showrooms featured comfort, casual, rustic, shabby chic and contemporary. Textile manufacturers followed suit with washed looks and denims, textures and novelty prints. The cutesy country look is gone, and cleaner design is the direction seen in shelter magazines. Lots of itsy, bitsy accessories have been replaced by collections or a single important piece.

"Eclectic style maintains its popularity. Combining wrought iron with stone or wood, mixing inexpensive items with things more costly, melding styles and veering away from matching suites and colors (coordinating, yes; matching, no). These are the ingredients for the personal, individual look that everyone is searching for in the super-fast-paced '90s.

"Colors represented in these designs are the current trend. The golden yellows of the sun to ocher to burnt amber — sky blue to midnight — seafoam to azure to teal — stone and dove grey — barn red and leaf green — and lavender to purple," are all featured in Ms. Burr's Decorating Den in Martinsville.

Lawn work in autumn cool means less in summer heat

By AMY GARVEY
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Ah, summer. Baby splashing noisily in a wading pool, roses scenting the afternoon heat...the drone and sputter of a temperamental lawn mower. Well, maybe some of you aren't so sorry that summer is over. And while fall and winter may mean a respite from lawn care, there are still a few chores to do that will insure a healthy and beautiful yard come spring.

Angie Wallace, landscape designer at Parker Greenhouse, Farm and Garden Center at 1325 Terrill Road, Scotch Plains, recommends fall as a perfect planting season.

"Fall is a good time for planting because the soil is moister and, while there is less heat, the soil retains its warmth, which is great for root production," she said. Evergreens and most deciduous trees and shrubs can be planted now, as well as bulbs.

Parker Greenhouse offers winter workshops and seminars for the year-round green thumb, and topics range from dried wreath arrangements to bulb planting and bulb forcing seminar. The center will also hold a mum festival, with a petting zoo for the children, this fall.

Jeffrey Popik, manager of Nischwitz and Co., 223 Front St., South Plainfield, a garden center that carries fertilizer, grass seed, chemicals, and other lawn supplies, recommends readying your lawn for the long winter's nap.

"It's time to rake out, reseed and fertilize your lawn," Mr. Popik said. "This will rejuvenate it from summer's heat and give it a kind of last feed before winter."

Gardens need some attention, too, as well as planning for later harvests. "All bulbs should be planted now," Mr. Popik added. Crocuses, daffodils, and tulips will provide spring color, and ornamental cabbage and kale will add to a vegetable garden. Mums are also a good choice this time of year.

Of course, lawn work usually requires equipment, and Doug Stiles, owner of Somerset Lawn and Garden, said, "We carry products designed to make yard work more enjoyable."

The center sells and services equipment such as leaf blowers, leaf vacuums, chipper vacuums, and chipper shredders. Of course, lawn mowers are also available, and the center carries the popular chipper vacuum brand Troy-Bilt. For those looking toward winter, snow blowers are also available at Somerset Lawn and Garden.

Experts offer home improvement tips

Q&A

Q: How do I inject color into a mostly monotone room without painting or wallpapering?
A: "You always have to look at how much you're willing to spend," said Karen Sanders of Decorating Den, Cranford. "For the budget-minded, relatively inexpensive ways to add color to a decorating scheme include draping an afghan in complementary colors over the back of a sofa, using throw pillows in coordinating colors, and adding ceramic pieces, silk flower arrangements, and artwork.

"If you spend a little more money, window treatments are a good choice, and for a real designer look you can carry the drapery fabric through to some accent pillows. Even if you have wall-to-wall carpet, you can add an area rug, either patterned or solid with a contrasting border."

Q: What's the best way to coordinate wallpaper with my furniture and other decor?
A: "I suggest picking your wallpaper pattern first," said Debbie Pryor of Decorating Den, South Plainfield. "This makes it easier to coordinate other furnishings. However, you have to decide where your focus is. If the walls are going to be the room's focal point, then you can pick upholstery fabric or window treatments that will accent the walls, without competing with them. For instance, if you've chosen a large floral patterned wallpaper, you might want to go with a small stripe for upholstery; stripes are a good companion for almost everything. Another floral, in a smaller pattern, would compete with the wallpaper in this case. By the same token, if you have a sofa in a large or wide stripe, making it the room's focus, you might want to choose a small floral for your wall covering."

Q: I'm a first-time homeowner and I have to do a lot of painting to get my new house into shape. What do I need to know?
A: "Preparation is 90 percent of the job, inside or out," said Randy Redelico, owner of Redelico's at 118 W. Main St., Somerville.

"Preparing the wall surface correctly insures a job that will last. Primer is needed most of the time, especially over bare sheetrock or bare wood. It's not as necessary over a previous coat of paint, as long as you degloss.

"Painting over wallpaper is not a good idea. The paper should be stripped and the walls washed with the same solution to remove excess glue, even if you want to repaper. An oil-based primer and a latex paint would be your best choices for repainting."

Mr. Redelico and associates Yvette Smith and Jodi Figliolino recommend two coats of paint, especially when changing color. "Even on bare wood, two coats is best," Mr. Redelico stressed, "especially if you have forced hot air heat, which dries out the walls."

Protect your shrubs from winter's wrath

Winter can be a truly miserable time to be outside, what with frigid weather, ice and snow storms, howling winds and early darkness. Just the thought of being exposed to winter's harshest days is enough to send chills up anybody's spine.

But, year after year, that's exactly what your shrubs are forced to do. They can't fly south. They can't go indoors. Shrubs are anchored in the yard and must endure winter's fury. They can survive, however, if you help to protect them.

This season, instead of giving your plants the cold shoulder, take advantage of moderate temperatures and hints from the experts at Easy Gardener to prepare your shrubs for winter chills to come.

Like the saying goes, sometimes the best offense is a good defense. One of the best ways to defend tender shrubs against freezing winter winds is to strategically position them in sheltered sites at planting time, such as the south side of a wall or house. If your preferred landscape design has shrubs in isolated and exposed locations, additional defensive measures will be necessary.

To help protect plant roots from severe freezing, landscape fabrics, such as WeedBlock, can be installed. Laid under shrubs atop the soil bed, landscape fabrics will deter weed growth and act as a soil blanket, insulating plant roots from the cold.

To install WeedBlock, begin by clearing away all surrounding weeds and grass. Place strips of WeedBlock over the entire area, pulling the fabric as close to the plant base as possible. Trim away any excess. Then cover the fabric with an attractive layer of decorative mulch. Mulch will add another layer of protection against the cold as well as prolong the life of the fabric indefinitely.

Scottish night

A Scottish Night of singers, dancers, pipers, harpist, and a fish and chips dinner at the Westfield Presbyterian Church on Saturday Nov. 6 is chaired by Mr. and Mrs. Al Lindgren of Fanwood, shown with their granddaughter, Linda Timko of Scotch Plains. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m.; takeouts are 5-5:30 p.m.; the program starts at 7:15. Tickets are at church office, 140 Mountain Ave.

Broom making demo Sunday at museum

The Miller-Cory House Museum, 615 Mountain Ave, Westfield, will hold demonstrations of the art of broom making.

Broom corn, a type of corn stalk which bears no corn ears, is grown strictly for the long tassels. Broom corn can be seen growing behind the Frazee Building. These tassels are cut and dried to become stiff bristles. They are then bunched and tied together around a central handle.

The Miller-Cory cooks will demonstrate open-hearth cooking in the Frazee Building fireplace. It is a difficult task to prepare a full meal on an open fires, but one which adds a distinct flavor to real home cooking, especially In these days of microwave ovens.

During the colonial period, cooking in an open fireplace accounted for the second leading cause of female deaths, from burns and burn infections.

The main farm house (circa 1740) will be open for tours beginning 2:00 p.m. Sunday, with the last tour starting 4:30 p.m.

For more information, call 232-1776.

Big crafts show is set for 5 days

Creative Crafts, a Union County artistic event distinguished by its museum quality, has invited over 150 crafts people from across the country to participate in the 27th exhibit and sale of contemporary crafts.

The show will begin Saturday evening, Nov. 6, with a Patron's Champagne Gala and will continue through Nov. 10. The hours are 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Sunday-Tuesday, and 11 a.m.-8 p.m. Wednesday. The event is sponsored by the Sisterhood of Temple Emanu-El and will be held in the social hall at 756 E. Broad St., Westfield.

Participating artists represent virtually all craft media including fine woods, hand blown glass, pottery, metals, fibers, and leather. Fine and moderately priced can also be purchased. Many boutique items have been chosen with holiday gift-giving in mind and there will be items for everyone from the novice buyer to the serious collector.

Several New Jersey craftsmen will be doing personal demonstrations Sunday and Monday, giving those who attend an opportunity to see how much skill and love is put into an individual and unique craft item.

Admission to Creative Crafts is $3; $1 for senior citizens; no admission charge for students.

A light gourmet lunch and refreshments can be purchased at the Gallery Cafe.

Derek Smith to play in UCC jazz concert

A jazz concert featuring Derek Smith and His Quartet, a nationally recognized performing group, will be held 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21 at Union County College as one of 40 special events planned during 1993-94 to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the College's founding.

The public is invited to attend the concert, which will be in the Roy W. Smith Theater, Campus Center, Cranford Campus, under the sponsorship of the college's Alumni Association.

Derek Smith, leader of the group, will be at the piano, displaying a similar style to his work with such noted performers an Mel Torme, Benny Goodman, and Doc Severinsen on The Tonight Show. He also has performed at the wedding of Caroline Kennedy Schlossberg and at the White House for former President and Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

His quartet consists of Harry Swartz on bass; Jack Wilkins on guitar; Ron Zito, who had performed with singer Bobby Darin, on drums; and special guest Ken Peplowski on clarinet and saxophone.

Tickets may be purchased either in advance or at the door. For more information, call the alumni office at 709-7506.

Shenanigans

By Cheryl Hehl

'Trick or treat' can turn ugly—at least to me

Halloween brings back many fond memories, but nothing could compare with the one that put new meaning to the words "trick or treat."

I was 18, out in the working world for the first time and the proud owner of a 1964 Chevy super sport, gas-guzzling convertible with a gas gauge that never worked.

With careful planning, two bucks worth of gas could get me just about anywhere I wanted go. And on this particular Saturday night, just four days from Halloween, I was headed for a costume party hosted by one of my new co-workers.

Heading down a lonely stretch of highway, trying to remember if I had put gas in the car that morning or the day before, my loving car choked, sputtered and died.

I decided that walking back to town was the logical thing to do and climbed out of the car. It never dawned on me that my costume was a "lady of the evening," complete with hot pants, black mesh stockings, stiletto heels and my mother's red wig. The only thing I had on my mind was finding a gas station and getting on my way.

I had just spotted a bar where I figured there would be a pay phone when a police car pulled up alongside. Relieved that I would not have to go into a bar to make a call, I leaned down and said, "I was beginning to think no one was going to come along," followed by some nervous laughter and the comment, "Some nights it just doesn't pay to come out at all." After looking at each other, one officer said curtly, "Get in the car."

Grateful I was going to get a lift to a gas station I climbed in the back, further explaining that a "working" girl has to be careful these days "out on the streets." This brought only icy stares from the two officers.

Now you have to understand, when I was growing up Dad always called anyone who worked in an office a "working girl." Of course, I knew about "ladies of the evening," but they were not a part of my small town's life.

Meanwhile, back in the police car, things were beginning to look bad. The only station I was headed for was one with the word "Police" over it and it had yet to dawn on me that there was a major case of mistaken identity going on. At the station I was told to sit on a bench in between a guy that looked like he was a member of the Manson family and a real "lady of the evening," who took an immediate liking to my maribou shawl.

Although I was allowed one phone call, the line was busy at my house for three hours. Between calls I heard how the guy next to me was wrongfully accused of stealing a car and driving it into a car dealership window and how much the gal on the other side would pay for my maribou shawl. Just when I thought things couldn't get any worse, Mom, Dad and my little brother walked in.

Mom, coat over her robe, curlers in her hair and rosary beads clutched in her hands, bemoaned the tragedy of it all to the desk clerk who couldn't have cared less. Dad kept asking about a cop named Louie that served with him in WWII, and my little brother kept asking everyone who passed by "how long are you sending my sister up the river for?"

Eventually it all got straightened out, but it was months before my mother was able to "live down the shame of it all," weeks before my father stopped talking about the fact Louie the cop had died 10 years before, and for my little brother to quit telling everyone he knew that I had been "in the clinker."

The one bright spot in the whole ugly mess was the 20 bucks I made when I sold my pink maribou shawl to my bench mate. I understand now why people turn to a life of crime, I imagine their families drive them to it.

Westfield's own Cybil Martin ponders some Tarot cards during a recent interview session.

Cybil the witch invites you to a psychic tea

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

The 'Witch of Westfield' this weekend will hold an Annual Brew in the spirit of Halloween and All Souls Day, the highest spiritual day for witches.

Also known as Cybil, this witch is a certified psychic and clairvoyant who is preparing an open house brew for any and all seeking a psychic reading. The Annual Brew is much like a large Psychic Tea Party that Cybil also holds by appointment.

"The teas bring out so much about clairvoyance, because everyone has ESP and psychic abilities," Cybil said, "a group of people will come together and we'll sit down for tea or coffee, and I'll get a sense of the aura in the room, then I'll do one on one readings with cards or crystals."

Cybil has studied parapsychology at Columbia and NYU, as well as with renowned clairvoyants in both the U.S. and Europe. Those who have seen Cybil in action contest that she is 100% bona fide. "She is so good, so accurate I just couldn't believe it," said client Bruce Campbell.

Cybil herself disagrees with many of the horoscopes and psychic hot lines out there. "What people are looking for in these times is a sense of assurance," Cybil explained, "they get taken advantage of by all these phonies, I would really like to see them stopped."

Cybil can remember becoming aware of her psychic abilities at an early age. "There were many things that happened in my childhood that I never understood," she said, "around 7 or 8, I started having sightings, some were good, some were tragic."

The sightings Cybil talks about are something she can't really explain. "You can't say how you do it, it's just there, a whole pattern comes before your eyes, like a movie," Cybil explained.

She described it more like a sixth sense that everyone has, but only some tune into. Using accidents and sickness as an example Cybil explained, "everyone has the abilities but some block it out, as a psychic I can pick up on a sense of malfunction, that something is going wrong."

Cybil admits that everything she sees is not always positive and this is not easy for her. "I am not sorry I have the gift, but I am sorry I see things so clearly sometimes-generally you can't stop it," she said. "You sometimes regret what you think and what you know and you have to go about it very carefully, I'm not out to be the doom of gloom."

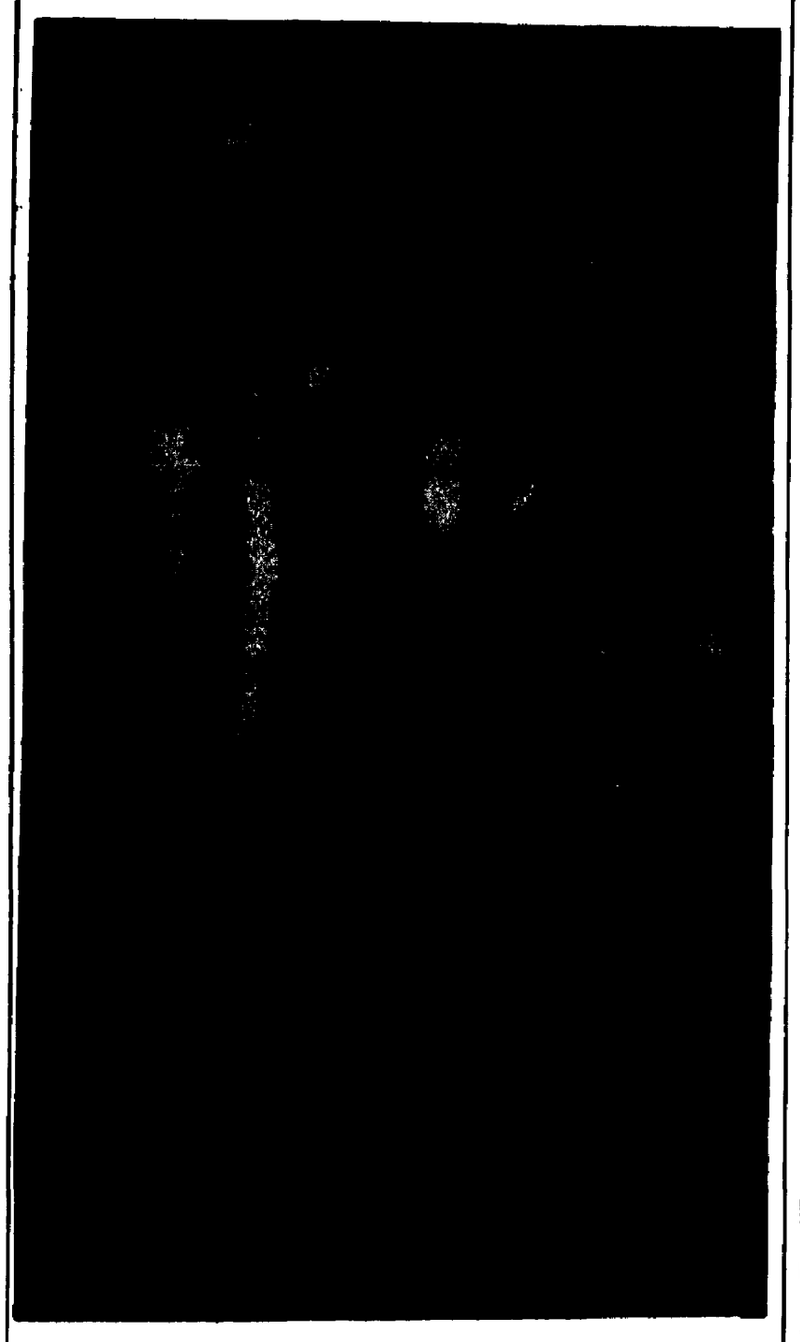

Indeed, Cybil has done a lot of work with local police departments, helping out with missing persons cases. She has also done extensive research in Salem and with the Navajo Indians.

Cybil is currently working on two books entitled 'Dream Weaver' and 'Psychic Quest'. Both will be published and in circulation by next March.

Cybil holds psychic teas regularly, and because they become very popular around Halloween, she will hold the larger Annual Brew this Halloween weekend. It will be Friday 4-9 p.m., Saturday noon-6 p.m., and Sunday 11-a.m.-5 p.m.

Anyone interested in attending the brew or making a separate appointment should contact Cybil by writing to P.O. Box 53[illegible] Westfield, NJ 07091, or calling 654-2701.

Dedication

Lee Hale and Roger Love display plaque which will be donated to the school board at Gary Kehler Stadium Dedication Day Saturday, at halftime of the Westfield-Summit football game. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. The school board recently voted to rename Recreation Field, and Mr. Hale and Mr. Love volunteered to raise funds for the plaque and letters.

Gen. Lee's trial to be the topic of lecture

Dr. Mark E. Lender, director of Advanced Study and Research at Kean College, will address the West Fields Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution at the Municipal Building Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. He will discuss the court martial of Gen Charles Lee, raising the question of whether the Revolutionary War Trial was political of militarily justified.

Dr. Lender received his PhD in American History at Rutgers and has been affiliated with the university since 1974 in both administration and in alcohol studies. He has written extensively on American History and on alcoholism. Among his published works are four books on state history.

Dr. Lendr presently serves as executive producer/historian of a TV presentation about Gen. Lee's court martial. At the Battle of Monmouth in 1778, Lee advanced with the American forces against the British, and then retreated. He asked for a court martial and was found guilty of misconduct in a trial long debated by historians.

The S.A.R. welcomes the public to its meetings which conclude with refreshments. Please use the Broad Street enterence to the municipal building.

New members will be feted at coffee

The Welcome Wagon Club of Westfield will hold a new member coffee 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 8.

The Welcome Wagon Club is a good way to meet people and enjoy many activities and events the club has to offer. The best way to get acquainted is to attend the new member coffee.

If you are new to the area, have lived here less than two years, or experienced a change in lifestyle, such as the birth or adoption of a child, you are invited to join.

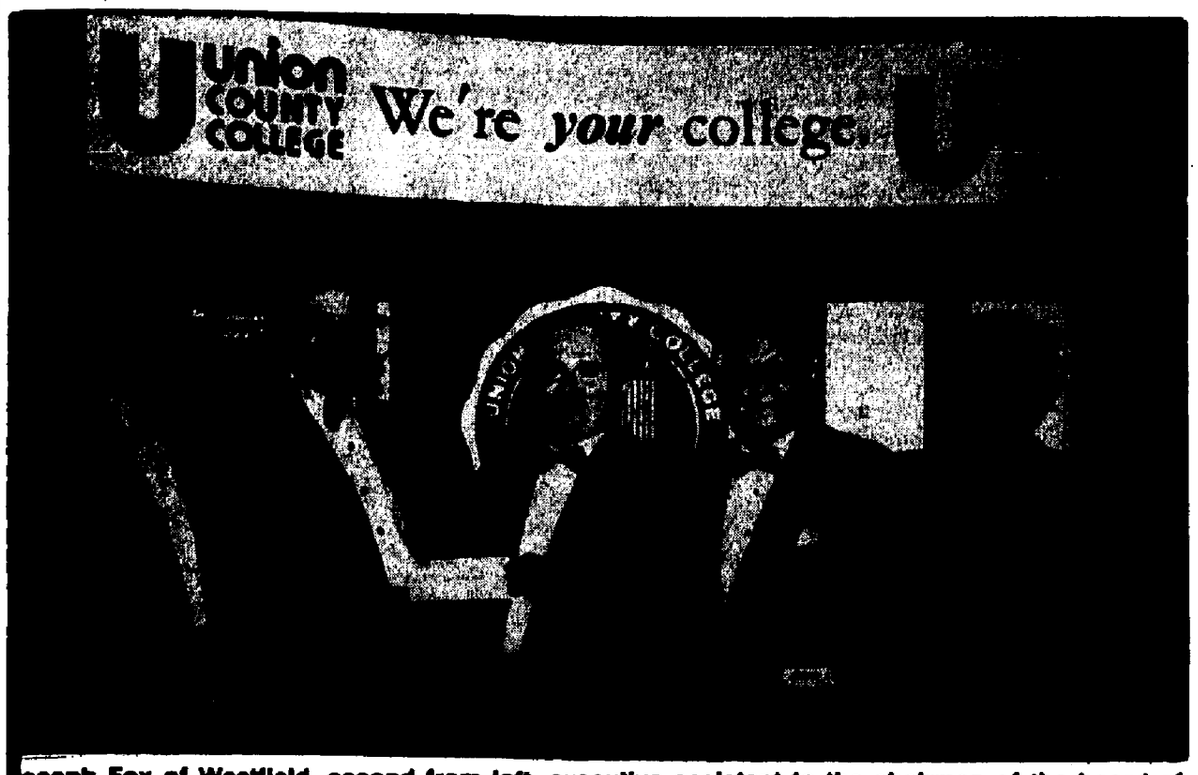

If you plan to attend, call the hostess for the evening at 233-2231 for information and location.

Crafters

Westfield TWIG II co-chairwomen Joan Callender and Kathy Livaudais show Mark Bistany, a patient at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside, a sampling of the handicrafts to be sold at tomorrow's 10th annual Westfield Craft Market at the Westfield Armory. Beginning at 5 p.m., opening night ticket and raffle proceeds will be donated to the hospital as well as 10 percent of sales from the first night of the two-weekend run of the show.

Locals help mark college's 60th celebrations

Joseph Fox of Westfield, second from left, executive assistant to the chairman of the board of Merck & Co., Inc. presents check for $40,000 to Dr. Thomas Brown, president of Union County College, during a 60th anniversary kickoff event for the college Oct. 16 at the Cranford campus. Looking on are Frank Blatz of Scotch Plains, board of governors chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Kellogg of Bay Head, president of Union County Foundation. The check was first payment on a $100,000 pledge to finance a biology lab at the new Elizabeth campus.

John Burns of Westfield, president of the Student Government Association of Union County College, Dr. Thomas H. Brwon, UCC president, and Assemblyman Alan Augustine cut the birthday cake at SGA-sponsored 60th anniversary celebration Oct. 20 at Cranford campus.

Union County College launched its 60th Anniversary Celebration Saturday, Oct. 16, with a Gala Concert and Silent Auction attended by 325 people at the college's Cranford Campus.

The 45-piece New Jersey Pops, under the direction of Michael Bugglio, presented creative arrangements of songs spanning the years 1930-1993 and received a standing ovation at the conclusion.

James R. Perry of Plainfield, chairman for the event, presented an award to Merck & Co. Inc. for its contributions over the past 35 years to Union County College. He also presented awards to Elizabeth I. Kellogg of Bay Head, formerly of Elizabeth, president of the Union College Foundation and a former trustee and governor; William J. Biunno of Mountainside, chairman of the board of governors; and former Plainfield Mayor Frank H. Blatz Jr., chairman of the board of trustees.

Also recognized at the concert were Edward Aborn of Hot Springs, Va., formerly of Cranford and Rumson, a past chairman of the board of trustees of Union College; and Sidney P. Lessner of Westfield, a former trustee of Union College, a trustee and governor of Union County College and past chairman of the UCC board of trustees.

More than 300 gifts were on display in the atrium area of The Commons where an elegant buffet dinner was available along with coffee and desert following the concert.

Twenty-five members of Phi Theta Kappa national honorary scholastic society served as student hosts and hostesses and operated the "tote" board where bids were displayed for the many articles available.

Serving on the Gala Concert and Silent Auction Committee with Mr. Perry were: Dr. John Carmichael and Mrs. Victor M. Richel, Berkeley Heights; Prof. Richard Cohen and Frank Hallaran, Clark; Veronica Clinton, Helen Gmitro, Lynn Hynes, Eugene Matics, Alberta Matyas, and Thomas Sharkey Jr., Cranford; Dr. Marion Bonaparte and Dorothy Gasorek, Elizabeth; Dr. Roseann Bucciarelli, Garwood; Kathleen Longo, Hillside; and Livio Mancino, Kenilworth.

Also, Mrs. Thomas B. Brown, Stephen Kato, Dr. Wallace Smith and Patricia Walsh, Plainfield; Beatrice M. Austin, Rahway; Violet Wilmore, Roselle; Dr. Helen Aron and Mrs. Marion Menzer, Scotch Plains; Dr. Toby Grodner and Hanna Praport, Springfield; Philip Gonzales, Linda Kurdilla and Anthony Paglia, Union; Prof. Barbara Foley, MaryLou Gray, James Kane, Jacquie Leonard, Mrs. Sidney F. Lessner, William McKinley Jr., Prof. Helene Roholt-Moen and Prof. Regina P. Siemoneit, Westfield.

Also, Prof. Ruth N. Henderson, Bloomfield; Prof. Josefina S. Mark, Highland Park; Shirley Alper, Millburn; Jean B. Waldron, South Plainfield; and Prof. Maureen Greenbaum, Watchung.

Layman Dr. Gibbons will preach

Church member and Westfield resident Dr. Phillip B. Gibbons will preach Sunday on "What is God's Vision for Us?" at the 10:30 a.m. service at the Baptist Church of Westfield, 170 Elm St. Dr. Gibbons is among many members of the congregation performing pastoral roles while senior minister Dr. Robert L. Harvey is on a study sabbatical at Harvard University.

"The sermons this fall by church members have been quite special," Dr. Gibbons said. "We all have a personal story to tell, a story about how God's love is made real to us, and the insights we have gained. I am not trained to expound upon deep theological issues, but I can tell my story."

Dr. Gibbons will focus on the importance to Christians of having both a personal and corporate vision of their role as members of the body of Christ.

"All Christians want to serve God, but there are many avenues for service," Dr. Gibbons said. "The joy comes from determining the particular gifts you have and then applying them. Likewise we as a church need a vision of what we are and what we are striving to be."

An avid runner, Dr. Gibbons is a top finisher in many local road races and won the Westfield Recreation Commission one-mile and five-mile races this past April.

Temples plan first joint program for Nov. 6

Temple Beth El of Plainfield and Temple Israel of Scotch Plains, will hold their first joint program Saturday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Temple Israel, 1920 Cliffwood St, Scotch Plains.

The speaker will be Robert Meeropol, whose parents, Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, were executed when he was six. Forty years after this event, Meeropol believes a similar miscarriage of justice would occur again, despite the fact that in a recent mock retrial during the annual convention of the American Bar Associates the Rosenbergs were aquitted.

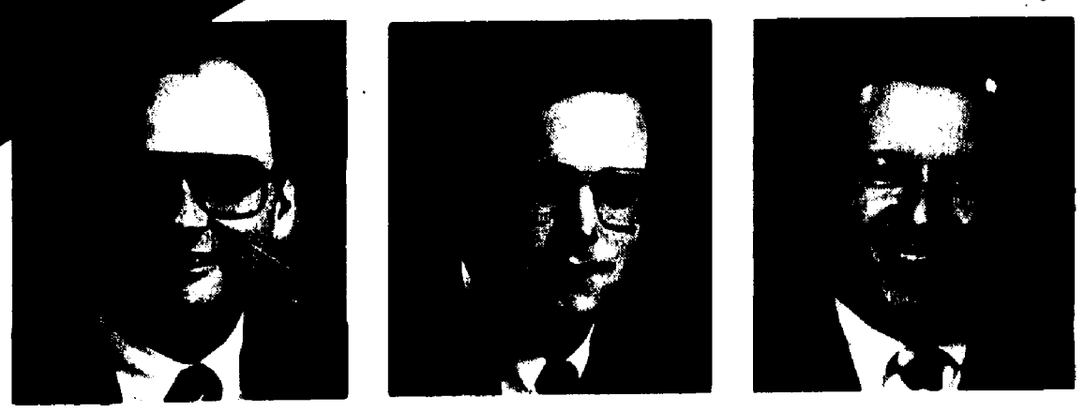

Meeropol's topic is "The Crime of the Century: The Trail and Execution of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg." In 1950, J. Edgar Hoover charged Ethel and Julius Rosenberg with committing the crime of the century - the theft of the secret of the atomic bomb.

Meeropol, an attorney, author and speaker has written the book We Are Your Sons and many articles that have been published in the Nw York Times and the nation.

After 15 years of planning, Robert Meeropol opened the office of the Rosenberg Fund for Children Sept. 1, 1990. The Fund for Children is a public foundation established to provide for the educational and emotional needs of the children whose parents have been harassed, injured, jailed for progressive activities.

Tickets are $10 in advance, $12 at the door, for information call 756-2333 or 889-1830.

Business

There are tricks and treats in costume trade

By CHERYL HEHL
THE CHRONICLE

Westfield business owner Bruce Campbell takes his occupation very seriously. Too bad no one else does.

Long before he was the owner of The Costume Corner and The Party Stop on Central Avenue in Westfield, this lifelong Scotch Plains resident was learning everything there was to know about the lighter side of life.

After all, when your mom and dad own a store that deals in party supplies, you really don't take life very seriously. But more than a decade later, the 32-year-old has taught his mother a thing or two about the business.

The Campbell family were the proprietors of United Rental for years, later changing the name to The Party Stop. So no one was very surprised when Bruce took over the business and later opened up a costume shop just a block away. Not that Bruce was always the number one candidate to step into his parents shoes. Quite the contrary. In fact at one point, while working for his folks during the teenage years, he was fired by his mother for not taking his job seriously enough. However, more than a decade later she proudly admits that her son is "quite the businessman."

Although his parents have since moved to Tennessee, they still come up at Halloween to lend a hand. After all, it's the busiest time of year for anyone dealing in the sale and rental costumes, fake blood, and every kind of mask and wig you could imagine. Not to mention the hundreds of hats, and accessories that customers look for when putting together an unusual costume.

Nevertheless, on this day the shop is packed, both mother and son assisting customers in the selection of rental costumes and original creations that run the gamut from the mundane to the outrageous. Other customers roam the store searching for the perfect mask or other accessory needed to complete their costume. And one could spend hours in the store since it was expanded this past year.

Aisle after aisle are filled to overflowing with a vast collection of the macabre for those who intend to put together the most gruesome of costumes, as well as an ample supply of the more humorous accents customers need to create the hilarious. And for the less enterprising, a vast selection of rentals fill rack after rack.

From the ever popular Dracula to a stunning royal blue velvet, sequin trimmed Mozart costume, just about every fantasy can be fulfilled at The Costume Shop. Regular and pink gorillas await, as does Elvis, Elvira, Indians, Southern Bells, and Alladin, and Genie costumes, which are "very popular," this year the owner said. And for those who are plus sizes, the shop offers a wide selection of costumes that are unavailable in most stores.

If outdoing everyone else is your game, then the Space Trooper or Alien costume will certainly fill the bill. Both rival those wore by actors in past movies and although somewhat cumbersome, could take first prize for "most unusual." The average cost of renting a costume is $20-$50, but the more complicated ones, such as the Alien or Space Trooper can rent for as high as $85.

In a world of fantasy, the owner has created a yellow brick road that leads customers throughout the shop. Manager Kathy Schmidt, who seemingly is everywhere at once, whips together outfit after outfit for customers who are unsure of what they are looking for, and nods her approval to those who seem to have done just fine on their own. Others receive one or two helpful hints or a pat on the back by the employees before leaving the shop with a smile on their face.

Mr. Campbell, who sprints from one end of the store to the other and back every few minutes, is a hands-on owner who greets every customer personally. His expertise is obvious as is his genuine regard for each and every customer need. Halloween 1993 has been busy, with dinosaur costumes a big seller, Beavis and Butt Head, and masks that are "the gorier the better," selling like hot cakes. Those who wish to celebrate Halloween with a political flair are leaning more toward former presidents like Reagan and Bush and not President Clinton, as the owner would have predicted.

Pint size trick or treaters will find a full selection of costumes for newborn and up, including "Fred the Word Bird," all types of dinosaurs, princesses, Alladin and Batman, as well as the traditional cowboy, cow girl or Indian.

The "unusual is usual" at The Costume Shop. Just ask Bruce Campbell, who is about to become the father of triplets "any minute." Although "a little nervous," the fact that it is almost Halloween doesn't leave much time to think. And in the next few days the store will shift into high gear staying open 9:30 a.m.-10 p.m. each night and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Halloween.

Faith Campbell, who is extending her visit this year to help with the new babies, gazes at her son with a look of pride as he flips throughout the store helping customer after customer with the most unusual of requests.

"Now I go to him for advice," she laughs, shaking her head. "He is very service oriented, he even complains when I don't smile enough at customers." But it is easy to see that Faith Campbell is more than proud of how her son tuned out. And even prouder of the father he will soon become.

Westfield man heads philanthropy conference running today, Friday

David F. Lyons, a Westfield resident, is chairman of the annual New Jersey Conference on Philanthropy to be held today and tomorrow, at the Hyatt Regency in Princeton.

Mr. Lyons is executive director of Cancer Care, Inc., New Jersey Division. He is a board member of the New Jersey Chapter of the National Society of Fund Raising Executives.

The registration fee for the conference, which is sponsored by the National Society of Fund Raising Executives (N.S.F.R.E.), New Jersey Chapter, is $200.

This year's day and one-half program has something for everyone — newcomers to the field as well as seasoned professionals. Topics include annual giving, special events, working with volunteers, capital campaigns, strategic planning, ethics, grantsmanship, public relations and a special track on philanthrophy from the donor's perspective, including the media's point of view.

Keynote speaker for the conference is Jerold Panas, executive partner and chief executive officer of Jerold Panas, Linzy & Partners, a fund-raising consulting firm, and author of Boardroom Verities, a highly acclaimed new book on how to form a superb board, and guide and sustain its members toward ambitious and achievable goals. Mr. Panas will speak on "What Makes a Great Fund-raiser". He will also present a workshop specially tailored for trustees of non-profit organizations.

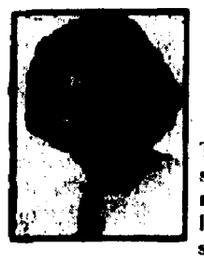

Awards for philanthropic and volunteer efforts will be presented at the Friday luncheon in the categories of community organization, corporation in the philanthropy, volunteer and the Robert J. Smythe Award for Outstanding Professional Fund-raiser.

N.S.F.R.E. is an association which exists to foster the development and growth of fund raising professionals, preserve and enhance philanthropy and to promote high ethical standards in the fund-raising profession.

For further information, call the N.S.F.R.E. at (201) 455-1555

Better Days

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE AGAIN

The human desire to be needed, wanted, loved and respected can be acted out in a variety of forms. Most people develop a balance between needing acceptance from others and maintaining a sense of self and integrity.

Problems develop when people try too hard to please others, to be needed, or to insure acceptance. A classic example is being caught in the middle as family arbitrator, peacekeeper or messenger. These people are bombarded from every side with the problems and negative feelings of those around them. Caretaking can become a full-time job. Others quickly come to expect the caretaker to fulfill the role, while at the same time they are resentful. The result is seldom the desired acceptance and appreciation.

Changing roles, even those with highly negative aspects, is seldom easy. People resist change and fear the uncertainty of trying on new identities. Consultation with a qualified mental health professional begins the process of freedom from the middle.

Presented as a community service by Barbara T. Fishbein, ACSW, BCD
Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist.

Town resident coordinating psychosocial oncology service

BARBARA W. HALE

Westfield resident Barbara W. Hale has been named to the position of psychosocial oncology coordinator of the oncology program at Elizabeth General Medical Center.

In her position, Ms. Hale helps patients and families overcome worries and fears associated with cancer. She acts as a liaison to connect the patient with supportive services, as well as seeing patients and their families in individual or family therapy when needed.

Ms. Hale's responsibilities also include providing community services such as the "Living With Cancer" and "Us Too" support groups for cancer patients and their families.

She received a bachelor's degree in psychology from Hartwick College in Oneonta, N.Y., and a master's degree in social work from Rutgers University in New Brunswick. Her professional affiliations include membership in the National Association of Oncology Social Workers.

Ms. Hale recently served as a social work intern at the American Cancer Society in Elizabeth and was a principal with Elder Living of Westfield, a geriatric care management firm.

She lives with her husband, John Ricker, and daughter Jessica.

WLD wins Brioschi

Dan Bonardi, a resident of Westfield and executive vice president of WLD Communications of Montville, has announced that Brioschi, the effervescent antacid in existence for more than 100 years, will run a new campaign by WLD.

SIDELINES

Kehler honored

Gary Kehler Stadium, currently called Recreation Field, will officially be dedicated at special halftime ceremonies during Saturday's football game against Summit, which begins at 1:30 p.m. Westfield citizens, along with School Superintendent Mark C. Smith and the Board of Education, wanted to recognize Kehler's contributions to students and town residents. Over a period of 36 years, Kehler coached football, golf, wrestling and was the high school's athletic director. Kehler, who resigned as AD on Aug. 31, compiled a combined record of 719-110-23 in guiding these three teams. The halftime ceremony will include remarks by Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe and School Board President Susan Pepper. Roger Love and Lee Hale will present a plaque honoring Kehler to the Board of Education. Love and Hale helped raise funds to finance the bronze letters and a plaque for the stadium's new name.

Lacrosse clinic

The Westfield Recreation Commission has sponsored a free lacrosse clinic for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys. The clinic will run from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the next four Saturdays (Oct. 30, Nov. 6, 13 and 20) at the Edison Intermediate School field. The rain date is Sunday. Helmets and gloves will be provided by the Rec Dept., so all you need to bring is a stick and a desire to learn. For further information call either the Recreation Department at 789-4080 or Ed Joffe at 232-8705 (after 7 p.m.).

Super Bowl raffle

The Westfield Booster Club is giving sports fans the opportunity to attend Super Bowl XXVIII while supporting athletics at the high school. A raffle is being conducted to benefit its scholarship fund and help pay for athletic projects at WHS. Each ticket is $10 and the grand prize includes two tickets two Super Bowl XXVIII, a round trip airplane ticket to Atlanta, Ga., hotel accommodations, car rental and limousine service to and from Newark Airport. In order to buy tickets, contact either Jerry Infantino (654-3120) or Mel Coren (654-5848).

The Hot Spot

The Lady Devils' gymnastics team visits a familiar setting tomorrow when it travels to Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School to compete in the Union County Tournament, which begins at 5 p.m. Last year Westfield finished second to the Raiders, who have owned the county title in the decade of the '90s.

Westfield gets back on right track against rival Raiders

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Sometimes only a thin line separates winning and losing teams. Saturday's football game between Westfield and Scotch Plains-Fanwood lent more credence to this often-used cliche.

The Blue Devils and Raiders walked the tight rope all afternoon at a sun-drenched, but muddy Perry Tyson Field. There was little disparity between the two rivals in terms of the final numbers or the effort displayed on both sides.

In the end, however, Westfield staked its claim to a 22-16 victory which broke a personal two-game slide and snapped the Raiders' two-game winning streak.

"We shot ourselves in the foot a couple of times, but this is a young team," said Raiders head coach Steve Ciccotelli. "The mistakes we made were because of inexperience. I told them they have nothing to be ashamed of."

The Blue Devils (2-2-1), who will enter their next three games as underdogs against Summit (5-0), Elizabeth (4-1) and Linden (3-1-1), notched a victory which should lessen the sting of two recent losses and a disappointing opening day tie with Rahway.

In a game traditionally dominated by the run, both teams threw the ball surprisingly well. Westfield's Stephen Cheek was on the money with all six of his passes, even though two were deflected by receivers into the hands of the defense.

"Cheek made a lot of good choices out there," said Westfield Head Coach Ed Tranchina. "We worked on the passing game a lot and we're getting better at it."

It was Westfield's running game, however, which led to its first touchdown. Eight consecutive rushing plays covered 75 yards and tailback Erwyn Lyght traveled the final five yards himself when he ran through a huge hole on the left side.

Holder Paul Baly salvaged two points on the conversion when he picked up a low snap and followed blockers into the right corner of the end zone to give the visitors an 8-0 lead.

Westfield's offense was snakebitten for the remainder of the first half, turning the ball over on all three of its possessions.

The Raiders took advantage of the second turn over to cut into the Blue Devils' lead. Defensive end Shawn Roberts recovered a Cheek fumble at Westfield's 27-yard line. Two plays after completions of 5 and 14 yards to wide receiver Adam Cote, Rosander followed the surge created by the right side of his line and plunged into the end zone. A failed pass play on the two-point conversion left the score 8-6 at halftime.

Ignited by its defense and a big special teams play, Westfield controlled the third quarter and forced Scotch Plains to fight an uphill battle which it was unable to complete.

The hosts were pinned deep when the opening kickoff was bobbled by Cote and the coverage unit gang-tackled him at his own 10. A 1-yard gain by fullback Brian Anglin and an intentional grounding penalty put the Raiders at their own 1, where Rosander unloaded a 45-yard punt on a quick kick off the shotgun formation.

Seven running plays and a 20-yard reception of a swing pass by fullback John Mask set up Westfield inside the Scotch Plains 5. Cheek's 1-yard keeper and Chris Vogel's extra point supplied Westfield with a seemingly comfortable 15-6 lead.

"We played a sloppy first half and still had the lead," said Tranchina. "We wanted to pin them deep to start the second half and we did that when the guys did a great job covering. Then, we played great defense and got the ball where we wanted it and put it in the end zone, which gave us the cushion."

An exchange of punts gave Scotch Plains good field position to start the fourth quarter. Five running

Lady Devils' offense doesn't miss a beat with Schwarzenbek, Konet

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Panic and worry are the first two words that come to mind when seeking replacements for two first team All-County field hockey players who essentially carried the offense.

Westfield was confronted with this situation in the wake of losing center halfback Erin Allebaugh (five goals, 10 assists) and right wing Diana Daniel (13 goals, five assists), a tandem which had a hand in 77 percent of the team's 43 goals last fall.

But, head coach Maggie McFadden realized she had a security blanket of sorts, in senior Alison Konet and junior Jen Schwarzenbek.

Following Monday's 3-0 victory over Union, Schwarzenbek led Union County in scoring with 12 goals and seven assists. Meanwhile, Konet, a tri-captain, has bolstered the Blue Devils' attack with four goals and seven assists. Like Allebaugh and Daniel, this year's one-two punch has contributed the attack heavily and have been involved in approximately 90 percent of Westfield's goals.

According to McFadden, Schwarzenbek and Konet might not possess the physical skills demonstrated by last season's top scorers. Instead they have made their mark by employing an intelligent, aggressive style of play.

"They're not the fastest girls, but they make up for it with good anticipation," said McFadden, in her 10th season as head coach. "They fight for the ball. They're scrappy players and they play together well."

The diminutive Schwarzenbek scored nine goals and assisted on four others from left wing last year, where her primary responsibility was moving the ball from the neutral zone to the attacking third of the field. Now playing at left inner, the junior has been equally dangerous either shooting or passing.

"She's a very unselfish player," said Konet. "She's not waiting to score goals. She's always creating goal opportunities. She doesn't immediately take the shot if she gets the ball in the circle. She looks to open players first."

"She's a quick, smart athlete," said McFadden. "She's got a nose for the goal. She's got a good idea of where she should be. She's tough and competitive and it carries over onto the field."

Schwarzenbek, who is also in her second year of ice hockey, works closely with Konet, who is the starting right inner. Both girls have clicked with wingers Erin McCarthy, Cathy Culligan and Laura Cashman to spark an offense which averages 2.1 goals a game.

"We're five yards apart and we work together, alternate spaces and talk to each other a lot," said Schwarzenbek, who was one of six girls to participate in Westfield's initial field hockey clinic for seventh graders.

Like her partner, Konet has a penchant for anticipating where the play will go.

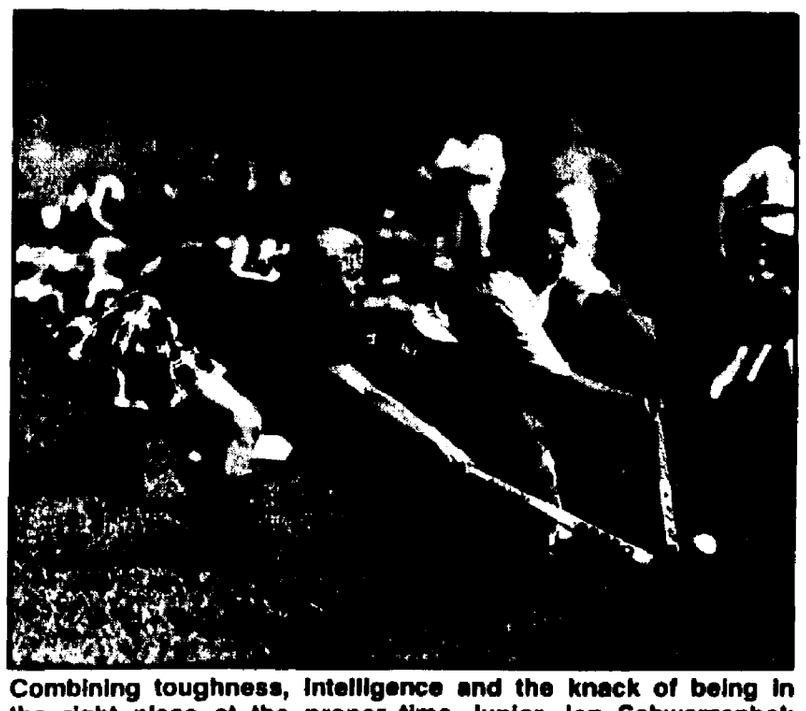

"She tends to be in the right place at the right time," said McFadden. "She thinks ahead and cuts to the right position — that's her strength. I feel really confident when she's on the field because she's such a smart team player."

In her second year at right inner, Konet is one of the main communicators on the field. She sends out the ball on all penalty corners and calls all the corner plays. The vocal Konet has also been known to uplift the Blue Devils before, during and after games with a few well chosen words.

(Please turn to page A-17)

Senior tri-captain Alison Konet, who has four goals and seven assists, has been instrumental in keeping the ball in the attacking half of the field from her right inner position.

Combining toughness, intelligence and the knack of being in the right place at the proper time, junior Jen Schwarzenbek leads all of Union County in scoring with 12 goals and seven assists. Schwarzenbek has scored a total of 32 points during her two-year varsity career.

Return trip to UC final denied by Cranford

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

In the fantasy world, Batman and Robin had to deal with The Joker and The Penguin. In the Depression Era, Al Capone constantly had to beware of Elliot Ness.

In field hockey circles, Westfield's archrival this year is Cranford. The Cougars (10-1) have given the Blue Devils (8-4-3) exactly half of their losses despite barely beating them on both occasions.

Saturday morning's 3-2 loss at Cranford in the semifinals of the Union County Tournament was both distressing and encouraging.

It was disheartening in that the Cougars scored two goals in the final 3½ minutes to prevent Westfield from a return trip to the UCT finals.

But, the Blue Devils played, perhaps, their best game of the season and they realize if they continue at this level they just may find themselves playing once again at Trenton State College to close out the season.

"I thought it was the best game we played all year and if we play like we did against Cranford we can do that against anyone," said head coach Maggie McFadden. "I think this game gives us a lot of confidence."

Laura Cashman's second half goal off a penalty corner from Erin McCarthy knotted the game at 1-1. A few minutes later McCarthy carried the ball down right wing and sent a crossing pass to junior Jen Schwarzenbek, who scored her 11th goal of the year to give Westfield the lead.

Kristen Johnson scored the equalizer for Cranford on a penalty corner with 3:22 remaining. The corner was rewarded when one of Westfield's defenders attempted to clear the ball, but missed and was called for a dangerous hit.

Less than two minutes later Cara Degenhardt tallied the game-winner when she stuffed in a loose ball from close range. Junior goalie Megan O'Brien, who was brilliant in making 13 saves, stopped an original shot and went to clear the ball. But, she fell down on the slick field, creating the loose ball opportunity.

"Both teams played very well and it was an evenly matched game," said McFadden, whose team was outshot 16-8. "Cranford was just one goal better on that day. Sometimes it takes a little luck. I

Fabulous foursome provides immediate results

THE RECORD

With a dual meet record of 11-1, there is no doubt Westfield's girls' cross country team has been a top contender all season. But, while most of the competition will be undergoing great changes next year due to graduation, 19 of this year's 23 runners will be slipping on the flats for the Blue Devils next fall.

Among those returning are sophomores Karen McGuire, Kellie Goncalves, Xanda Martins and Sharon Gambino, four individuals who have already left quite an impression.

"These youngsters are seasoned athletes,"said head coach Tom Hornish. "Their mission is to get on that line and run as best as possible. They set the tone."

"I love running with the sophomores," said varsity runner Lisa Citrin, a junior. "They have continuous energy and they never give up."

In most instances, these athletes are competing against runners with considerably more experience. However, the age difference never enters into their thought process.

"I don't think about how old they are," said McGuire. "I just concentrate on their ability."

"For a while it was intimidating, but now I know I belong there," said Gambino, who runs each of her races with her inhaler in hand. "Once you're out there, it doesn't matter what grade you're in. You just try your best."

According to Hornish, while most teams are preparing to lose some of their finest harriers, Westfield is still improving.

"I have to believe that we are one year away from the state scene," he said. "These kids say they can make a difference. They really believe they have made their mark."

With two more years to accomplish their goals, these sophomores are already anticipating their success.

"If Kellie, Karen, Sharon and I continue to improve, I know that, as seniors, we will gain many titles from our experience," said Martins.

"Usually, younger runners can't handle the pressure, but our front four sophomores are calm, cool and collected — on and off the course," said Catherine Engell, a junior who fills the No. 5 position on the varsity roster.

Westfield's talented foursome of sophomores, (left to right) Karen McGuire, Sharon Gambino, Kellie Goncalves and Xanda Martins, have already made an impact on this year's varsity team.

Westfield, Scotch Plains boys set for today's soccer rocker

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

This afternoon another chapter in the storied history of the county's fiercest soccer rivalry will be written when Westfield visits Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School to take on the two-time defending Group 3 champions.

Last year's regular season meeting ended in a scoreless tie, but the Raiders defeated the Blue Devils two weeks later in the county finals. While there is nothing tangible at stake, the motivation to win is obvious.

"It's big," said head coach George Kapner. "Even though it's just for bragging rights it's big because it's between two of the better soccer teams in the state."

"There's always a big rivalry between us, but it's not between the players. It's basically between the fans," said senior sweeper Keith Zadourian. "I think it always turns out that both teams have equal skill and can match player for player. It comes down to who's more prepared and who wants it more. Both teams will get shut down. It'll come down to who runs and gets to more 50-50 balls."

Last Thursday's match against Raritan was canceled, as was Tuesday's game against Plainfield, leaving Saturday's Union County Tournament quarterfinal victory over Union as the only game played in the last two weeks.

Westfield (10-2-1) came out strong in the first 15 minutes, but it wasn't until the 25-minute mark that the Blue Devils scored the first of their three goals.

Dave Schaller broke the scoreless tie and Kevin Aldrich scored an insurance goal 15 minutes after halftime from a severe angle. Three seconds after an injured Union player was taken off the field, Steve Flynn one-touched a direct kick from Zadourian into the net for Westfield's third and final goal.

The Blue Devils, seeded second, will square off against No. 6 Governor Livingston in the UCT semifinals at Elizabeth's Williams Field at 6 p.m. The Highlanders (11-4) upset Johnson Regional 1-0.

"Governor Livingston's a nice team," said Kapner. "They run well and have a good striker and a good keeper. There's no such thing as a breather in the semifinals of the county tournament. If you can't get motivated under these circumstances you can't get motivated at all."

Playoff curse continues for Lady Devils' tennis

After traveling to Millburn last Thursday to find out their match in the sectional finals had been unexpectedly postponed by Livingston, Westfield had added incentive to bring home its first sectional championship in 10 years.

The following afternoon the top-seeded Blue Devils (13-2) got the jump on the No. 2 Lancers (13-6) and were actually leading in all three remaining matches with the score tied 1-1.

Heather Post won handily at third singles and looked on as three of her teammates tried to close out their matches after winning the first set. But, the Blue Devils began to unravel as their opponents switched around the momentum and slowly started to assume control.

Unable to gain their confidence or find their stroke, Westfield dropped the decisive third set at No. 2 singles and second doubles, while Lauren Kazanoff and Gloria Ko won six straight games in staging an amazing come-from-behind triumph at first doubles.

Their tremendous victory was overshadowed by the weight of the frustrating setback.

"It wasn't a matter of them being better," said head coach Lance Wildstein. "It's a matter of not closing out matches and it's happened before. It was a match of lost opportunities. Once the girls lose the momentum it's tough for them to recover. They lose their composure and have trouble getting back in the match."

"We weren't mentally set," said senior captain Jessica St. Clair. "We were ahead and played great, then we lost our heads and got shaken. Once you lose the second set you're forced to play catch-up and you lose your self-confidence after that. This is one of the hardest losses we've had because they weren't that good."

The entire team feels as though it might have played better if it competed against tougher teams in the weeks leading up to the tournament. After finishing the Union County Tournament the Blue Devils were never actually challenged.

"Livingston had lost six matches and they were tournament tough," said Wildstein. "We needed to play against good competition to get ready."

On Monday the Blue Devils recorded their ninth shutout of the season in defeating Kearny. Post, Liz Ryu and Shari Gersch won in singles action while Ko and Kazanoff remained undefeated (14-0) at first doubles. Senior Ellen Rudolfsky joined sophomore Efrat Magdielli to register a straight-set victory at No. 2 doubles.

SETH CALLEN/THE RECORD
Despite placing five runners in the top 13, Westfield was the runner-up to Kearny for the fifth consecutive year at Saturday's Watchung Conference Championships in Warinanco Park.

Boys complete clean sweep of X-C titles

Precisely as head coach John Martin had predicted, Westfield's varsity, junior varsity and freshmen teams left Warinanco Park Saturday carrying first-place trophies.

Filling out exactly half of the top eight spots overall, the Blue Devils' varsity topped East Side by 16 points to claim its third consecutive conference crown. Union was a distant third.

Heralded freshman Matt Elmuccio led for about half of the race and placed second in 16:27, 17 seconds behind Watchung Conference champion Tony Barocco of Kearny. Andy Ruggiero was fourth (17:10) and Don Cambria placed sixth and registered his quickest time of the season (17:15). Geoff North finished eighth (17:20).

Ted Kilcommons (13th, 17:35), Lawrence Ho (14th, 17:40) and John O'Brien (18:02) rounded out the top seven for Westfield.

"We ran pretty well," said Martin. "There was nice improvement across the board and hopefully it will continue in the section."

DIANE MATFLERD/THE RECORD
Sophomore Heather Post easily put away Livingston's Elyse Leitinger 6-0, 6-0, at third singles during Westfield's 3-2 loss in Friday's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 finals in Millburn. The Blue Devils' final test of the year will come this afternoon, when East Brunswick visits Tamaques Park.

Adam Barcan won the junior varsity race in 18:10. Close on his heels were Jim Nicoll (3rd, 18:28), Evan Baldwin (4th, 18:30), Ryan Stotler (6th, 18:43), Adam Borchin (7th, 18:46) and Phillipe Gabriel (8th, 18:47).

Abdallah Simaika (12:48) and Ryan Stefiuk (12:48) were the first freshmen across the finish line and led Westfield's ninth graders to the conference title.

Race time is 10:50 a.m. for the boys in Saturday's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 Meet at Warinanco Park. The top five teams and 10 fastest individuals advance to the Group 4 Meet in Holmdel Nov. 13.

Big soccer matches on horizon for Lady Devils

A one-week layoff appeared to have a minimal effect on Westfield, as it dominated play and permitted opponents only three shots on goal in recording 2-0 victories over Hackettstown and Oak Knoll.

Friday's triumph over Oak Knoll propelled the Blue Devils into the semifinals of the Union County Tournament, where they will meet No. 5 Summit at Johnson Regional High School in Clark at 1 p.m. With a victory, Westfield will play in the final against the winner of the Union Catholic-Scotch Plains-Fanwood match.

"You always have butterflies going into these matches," said head coach Pete Giordano. "You just have to worry about how the team will come out and play. We've had some big layoffs and we're hoping for the best. But, you can't ask for much more from these girls."

Facing a setup which had nine defenders packed around the goal, Westfield had little difficulty in controlling the tempo. Constantly moving the ball and hitting gaps in the defense, the Blue Devils opened the scoring when Suzy Folger banged one home off a pass from Gretchen Mansfield.

Mansfield assisted on Lexi Tourtellotte's 11th goal of the year, which concluded the scoring. Freshman Amy Williams recorded the shutout, but did not have to face a shot.

Westfield put the clamps on another foe and utilized a quick-strike offense to blank Hackettstown (8-5-2) Tuesday. The Blue Devils outshot the Tigers 7-3 and drew first blood when midfielder Nancy Schultz scored off a Folger pass 31:26 into the match.

Seven and a half minutes later Folger notched her 11th goal of the season when she converted a feed from Tourtellotte. Entering this afternoon's match against Scotch Plains-Fanwood, Folger (11 goals, seven assists), and Tourtellotte (11 goals, seven assists) were tied for the team lead in scoring.

Deja vu strikes girls in conference X-C meet

THE RECORD

Since 1989, Westfield has played bridesmaid to Kearny in the Watchung Conference. Saturday's conference meet at Warinanco Park did nothing to interrupt this trend. For the fifth straight year, Westfield placed second, allowing Kearny to maintain its nine-year reign as conference champs.

Despite tremendous effort from Westfield's front, the Kardinals were still able to defeat Westfield by 21 points. East Side placed third, finishing six points behind the Blue Devils.

"Our front five really ran a strong, competitive race," said head coach Tom Hornish. "We

Summit at Westfield

Date: Sat., Oct. 30
Time: 1:30 p.m.
Location: Recreation Field, on Rahway Ave. in Westfield

The Hilltoppers (5-0)

Summit was utterly dominant in recording its third shutout of the season last week in a 55-0 victory over Cranford. The Hilltoppers held the Cougars to 39 yards of total offense, limited the visitors to two first downs and scored on their first five possessions. Head coach Jim Benedict's single wing offense has plagued opposing defenses all season. Employing an unbalanced line, the center snaps the ball directly to any one of three backs — QB Jaime Allen, FB Ian Paxson or TB Torrie Fogg. Fogg scored four touchdowns last week, two on pass receptions and two on punt returns. In addition to running effectively, Allen has been adept throwing the ball. Not only does Summit's offense wear the opposition down and keep the defense guessing, but it takes a considerable amount of time off the clock and prevents the opposing offense from getting in synch.

The Blue Devils (2-2-1)

It wasn't exactly a thing of beauty, but Westfield sorely needed last week's 22-16 victory over Scotch Plains-Fanwood to get back on track. QB Stephen Cheek had his finest day in his five-game varsity career, completing four of six passes for 53 yards. Cheek made good decisions on the roll out and threw the ball accurately on all six attempts, even though two passes bounced off intended receivers and into the hands of the defense. The Blue Devils' improved passing game lightened the load on the running game, which accumulated 204 yards against the Raiders. TB Erwyn Lyght continues to run through, over and around defenses. Lyght notched his third 100-yard performance of the season by gaining 109 yards and scoring two touchdowns on 22 carries. On the year, the junior has amassed 550 yards rushing and averages 6.2 yards per attempt. FB John Mask is emerging as a force. The senior tri-captain gained 83 yards on 14 carries and caught three passes for 43 yards. Of course, credit for the success of the offense must be given to linemen Andrew DuPuis, Matt Palumbo, Marc Phillips, Ron Nobile and Steve Monninger.

may have come up a little short, but it certainly was not because we didn't try."

Karen McGuire was the first Westfield runner to cross the finish line. Her time of 21:39 was good enough for fourth place. Xanda Martins (22:08), Kellie Goncalves (22:12), Sharon Gambino (22:19) and Catherine Engell (22:26), packed together to finish 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th, respectively.

Saturday, Westfield will once again meet East Side, along with pre-race favorites Columbia and Randolph, in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 meet. The race starts at 10 a.m.

Five gymnasts qualify for sectional tourney

Westfield registered its second highest team score of the season Friday in defeating Roselle Catholic 97.55-93.45. The meet provided gymnasts with a final opportunity to qualify for the Group 4 meet on Nov. 5.

Dana Fahey took advantage of the opportunity to attain her second qualifying score on bars. The senior placed third in the event with a score of 7.95.

Joining Fahey in the sectional meet at Cranford High School will be: Jill Smith (all four events), Dana Fizzell (vault and floor), Brandi Kovac (bars and beam) and Megan Clarke (floor).

Against the Lions, Smith won in the vault (9.0) and placed second in all-around (33.65), bars (8.15) and beam (7.85), while posting the third highest score in the floor exercise (8.65). Fizzell was second in the vault (8.2) and floor routine (8.7).

The Blue Devils take a short trip to Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School tomorrow to compete in the Union County Tournament.

plays resulted in a third-and-three from the Blue Devils' 11.

Cote's touchdown run appeared to narrow the deficit, but a holding penalty nullified the score and made the Raiders settle for Juliano Dinizo's 26-yard field goal.

On its subsequent possession, Westfield effectively iced the game when Lyght capped a six-play, 66-yard drive with a 37-yard touchdown scamper off left tackle. The play guaranteed Lyght his third 100-yard performance of the season.

"Mask (83 yards on 14 carries) and Lyght (109-22, 2 TD) did a great job running on a horrible field," said Tranchina. "Except for the penalties I'm pleased with the offense."

Scotch Plains scored on its final possession, as Rosander completed four of five passes and took it over from the 1 with 45 seconds remaining. The Raiders recovered the onside kick, but touched the ball before it traveled the required 10 yards, which gave Westfield the ball to run out the clock.

can't fault my kids. They tried to do what they were supposed to do."

Westfield guaranteed there would be no late heroics Monday, as it scored a pair of early goals en route to a 3-0 victory over Union (2-9-3). McCarthy converted a centering pass just 30 seconds into the game and Schwarzenbek added an unassisted marker nine minutes later.

Two minutes after halftime Cashman received a feed from Alison Konet and found the back of the cage to close the scoring. O'Brien made five saves to notch her seventh shutout of the season.

Lady Devils

"She's got a good personality," said Schwarzenbek. "When we're down she'll encourage us."

"There have been times when we needed someone to take more initiative on the field and that's where Alison comes in," said McFadden. "She also talked to the players about doing their job. Since that happened the kids have played a lot better (6-1-2)."

Konet is not necessarily looking to score all the time. Instead, she prefers to pass the ball to the open player.

"I'm looking to get the ball to the other forwards," said Konet. "I hang back a lot to send the ball to the front line. If the goalie sends the ball past the forward line I'll send it back in."

How Can Employee Ownership At STS Benefit You?

Jack Apgar of Bound Brook, NJ founded STS in 1958 based on his study of the Lincoln Electric Co., and employee ownership. Lincoln Electric operated on the theory of incentive management whereby each employee shared in the company's ownership and therefore has a vested interest in it's success. Jack perceived a high degree of employee indifference to customer service in the tire and automotive service business. Yesss! there was opportunity if management and labor could work together, with a common bond of shared ownership, toward a mutual goal of superior customer service. Thus was born, STS.

Sharing our success is vital. We like to think of it as building capitalists, and preparing everyone to realize the American Dream. Yes, hard work, perseverance, and sacrifice still pay off in the U.S.A. We count our blessings; there is no better place, anyplace!

Employee Ownership Week

At STS we're celebrating the proven concept of Employee Ownership during the month of October. Come to any of our convenient locations between Monday, October 11th and Saturday, October 16th, and receive an "STS Travel Mug" - FREE! No purchase necessary.

Just how do our customers benefit from employee ownership at STS you ask? Here's how:

- Trust and Confidence Customers see the same faces on their visits to STS. Owners don't come and go like hired hands.
- Service Beyond Your Expectation Owners want you satisfied during and after the sale, so you'll want to come back again.
- STS Career Development Center We maintain our own 7,000 square foot training center to stay at the cutting edge of automotive service. STS is recognized as an industry leader in the development and certification of automotive technicians.
- Value Received Pricing Pricing on all products and services at STS is based on that unique combination of price, quality and service. Our formula has stood the test of time, and guarantees you value received.

The STS Promise:
Your car is ready when promised, the work is done right the first time, and you pay only for what you authorize.

If you believe employee/owners who will truly listen to your wants and needs, and make recommendations based on factual findings, and their certified expertise in what you're searching for; then come to STS. Purposeful, hard working people with a genuine commitment to making your experience at STS pleasant and satisfying is what STS is all about. For over thirty-five years, our consistent human approach to business has made STS the envy of the industry. Come in today and experience the difference. EMPLOYEE OWNERSHIP - at STS!

YOUTH SPORTS

P.A.L. FOOTBALL

Westfield's Police Athletic League Football teams were welcomed to Malapardis Park in Hanover Township on a sunny Sunday afternoon by the sounds of college fight songs and Sousa marches. Hanover's black-and-red clad Tigers ran onto the field through the corridor of cheerleaders at the start of each game, as the public address announcer called out their names. But, that was the highlight for the hosts. Westfield kept the home team scoreless for the day, recording their first sweep of the season.

Westfield C 20, Hanover C 0

Evenly matched for a change, the C Devils played in spirts through the first half, alternating fine bursts through the Hanover line with fumbled snaps and missed handoffs. The defense made up for it with the hard tackling of Matt Daly, Michael Duelks and Tim Young, who foiled Tiger quarterback Dave Wiederman and running backs Dave Scalley and Andrew Ormland.

Mike Mroz's fine punt return to Hanover's 30-yard line at the start of the third quarter got the Devils going. Two plays later, on third-and-four, he bolted 24 yards straight up the middle for the first tally of the game. Quarterback David King's keeper for the PAT made it 7-0.

After holding the Tigers on downs, despite Wiederman's fine 12-yard pass to Scalley, Westfield began the final period on Hanover's 38. Mroz went off tackle for 11 yards, then Hurley slanted right and barreled for another 18 yards to the 9. On first-and-goal, King bootlegged left and just made it into the corner of the end zone before he was hauled down. Louis Mercer's plunge for the extra-point was good, putting the Blue Devils ahead 14-0.

The play of the game came on the next Hanover series. On third-and-10 from the 25, left cornerback Travis Russo stepped in front of a Tiger receiver to pick off Wiederman's pass, running it back to the Hanover end zone untouched for the final Westfield points.

In their first victory of the season, the C team doubled its point total and every player made it into the game for at least a full series of downs. Jeff Gabriel took advantage of the playing time to put a big rush on the quarterback and hear his name called by the game announcer.

Westfield moves to 1-2-2, while Hanover remains winless.

Westfield A 2, Hanover A 0

Hanover's center snapped the ball over his punter's head and through the end zone in the first quarter to provide the only points of the game. Westfield's offense struggled, blowing several golden opportunities to make their lead truly safe. In the meantime, the defense bent, but did not break, repelling a Tiger threat inside the 20 late in the game to preserve the victory.

Robbie McCullam made a second quarter interception, returning it to the Tiger 30, but the drive fizzled when Joe Murphy was stopped for no gain on fourth-and-2 from the 22. Another bad snap on fourth down led to Greg Gorski's punt block, leaving Westfield with first-and-goal from the 4. However, penalties pushed the Devils back to the 13 and Jason Osborne's reverse fell far short of the goal.

Starting from deep in their own territory, the Tigers began moving the ball, with quarterback Mike Miller throwing short passes to Tom Foley and Jeff Soriano as the half ended.

In the third quarter, Osborne's punt return to the Hanover 35 started a Devil drive keyed by Rasheed Hawks' slants off tackle. When the drive fizzled on fourth-and-goal from the 8, Matt Hughes ran on to try a field goal. His 25-yard attempt fell just short.

In the fourth quarter, Hanover drove deep into Westfield territory on the running of Foley, Paul McLaughlin, Ron Nisivoccia and Miller's short passes over the middle. But on third-and-seven from the Westfield 18, Greg Montgomery's 17-yard sack of Miller, with help from Brendan Hickey and Blair Bartlett, took the Devils out of danger. Rasheed Hawks recovered a fumble on the ensuing play and Westfield ran out the clock.

Hawks, the workhorse running back, stood out for Westfield, while Chuck Bartell excelled for Hanover. The win puts the Devils at 2-3, while the Tigers dropped to 3-2.

Hanover	0	0	0	0	—	0

Westfield B 31, Hanover B 0

Phil Orsini's two interceptions and Jim Korn's kicking highlighted the B team's impressive win, their 13th in a row and fifth consecutive shutout.

The B's are winning with sound, fundamental football and very disciplined play from some of the less recognized men in the trenches. For instance, Tim Rich made a key block on a first quarter punt return by Todd Dowling, who ran 45 yards straight up the middle and over every would-be tackler for Westfield's first touchdown.

Mike Stoller executed an outstanding trap block to give Kevin McCormack room to sweep around right end for 25 yards and the second score. Ben Gleason's perfect snap on Korn's straight and true 25-yard second period field goal made the score 17-0.

Korn can also run and did so on a 1-yard plunge for a TD in the third period behind Andre Moore. The reliable McCormack closed out the scoring with his second touchdown of the day on a 30-yard reception from Brandon Doerr.

The defense preserved the shutout in the fourth quarter with sharp tackling by Pat McMahon, Randy Russell and Brian Russo as the Tigers mounted a threat. The drive was snuffed out by Orsini's leaping one-handed interception at the 15 against a taller Hanover receiver.

Westfield moves to 5-0 in quest of the 1990 C team's record of seven straight shutouts. Hanover drops to 0-4-1.

SOCCER

Division V
Westfield United 5, Hillside 0

The Westfield United continued their winning ways with a dominating performance against the Hillside Juniors in Hillside. Griffin Maloney started off the scoring when he knocked in a rebound from his left forward position. Shortly after that, Dan McAnally drilled in a 17 yarder from the left side for a 2-0 lead. Diego Vargas continued the assault with a nice cross to Andrew Odachowski, who chipped it over the goalie's head.

United's constant pressure forced another corner kick and this time Josh Ludmer found David Santoriello in the box and Santoriello calmly punched it in for a 4-0 lead. Before the first half ended Adam Yoffie charged a ball from his stopper position and passed to United's speedy halfback Gerritt III. III led Santoriello with a beautiful pass and it was no contest with Santoriello one-on-one with the goalie. The United ended the half with a 5-0 lead.

In the second half Coach Mansfield called off the massacre and the United worked on its passing game and did not take any shots. Once again its fierce wall defense kept Hillside contained.

Westfield United 4, Roxbury 0

The United traveled to Roxbury and came away with another trademark victory highlighted by tremendous offensive pressure and fierce air tight defense. United's first score came on Diego Vargas' unassisted goal as he used his slick moves to break free and score. Then, Robert Larsen, a dominating force at halfback, stole the ball and passed ahead to big striker Josh Ludmer, who ripped a low shot past the goalie. United's other twin tower, striker David Santoriello, finished off the half when he stole a goal kick on the left side and launched a rocket into the right side of the goal.

In the second half the United continued to dominate the play and Duffy Lau slid in a goal off a rebound of a Gerritt III shot that had hit the post. Griffin Maloney, Dan Caprario, Tim Mansfield, Tommy Wade, Anthony Tomasso, Condi Thiam and Andrew Odachowski continually won balls and controlled the game for Westfield. Sal Fazio was his usual steady self in goal, coolly handling the few shots that got through to him.

Westfield United 5, Jackson 0

Westfield's United continued their winning ways following thei first place finish in the Northport, LI, tournament last week with a commanding victory in the NJ State Cup Tournament Oct. 16.

Robert Larsen controlled the ball and passed it to Josh Ludmer, who placed a shot into the upper left corner to open Westfield's scoring. Condi Thiam then passed to Diego Vargas, who took a shot on goal. Andrew Odachowski was in perfect position to put in the rebound for a quick 2-0 lead.

Westfield's defense of Duffy Lau, Anthony Tomasso and Adam Yoffie maintained The Blue Wall all game to secure the shutout and Tim Mansfield performed flawlessly in goal.

Dan McAnally scored on a fine pass from Thiam after Mike Caprario had cleared the ball across the center line. Then, Ludmer sent a fine header pass to David Santoriello, who broke away and boomed a big shot past the defenseless goalie.

After some fine throw-ins by Mike Nahaczewski, Gerritt III and Sal Fazio set up Ludmer, who broke away and beat the goalie for the final goal. Griffin Maloney and Tommy Wade also played well for the United, who are 7-0-1 in their last 8 games.

Westfield Chargers 1
Somerset Hills Strikers 0

The Chargers came out flying and kept the ball on the opponent's side of the field. Halfbacks Jack Kane, Gavin Shulman and Michael Schoenfeld continuously fed the ball to the forwards. Playing his first game since recovering from pneumonia, Brian Bottini scored early on a shot from the corner.

On two occasions Somerset Hills had scoring opportunities on breakaways. The first run was foiled by sweeper Rich Rowe. Matt Simone, John Henry Flood, Tim Carroll and David Seligman kept the pressure on with shots on goal, while Ryan Hogan made several good passes. But, the Chargers failed to get another goal, leaving the score 1-0 at halftime.

The Chargers' defense was tested in the second half, but Brendan Maher and Teddy Brown rose to the challenge. Stopper Kiernan Miller returned from injured reserve and used his strong foot to stem the tide of the attack. On the Strikers' second breakaway of the game left fullback Seth Fischer came across the goal to deflect the shot. The final few minutes were tense, as the visitors tried desperately to score. However, Paul Johnston's tenacious goal tending preserved the shutout.

Division IV Boys
Westfield Warriors 3
Watchung Hills 1

The Warriors improved their regular season record to 3-2 by defeating Watchung Hills in a controversial game played on Oct. 24 at Tamaques Park. Spectators observed a tough, physical game on the field and a rowdy contingent on the sidelines.

The Warriors went on the attack from the opening whistle and controlled the flow and tempo of the game throughout the first half. Aggressive defensive play by stopper Matt Hall, fullbacks Ryan McDonald and Evan Molloy and sweeper Michael Farley kept the visiting club in a defensive posture for the entire first half.

Striker Greg Odachowski scored five minutes into the game with a chip shot over the large goalie from Watchung Hills. Center striker Kyle Vantosky and striker Cam Anthony assisted on the goal as they moved the ball down the field with short, crisp passes.

Halfback Conner Mulvee scored a goal a few minutes later with a volley from the 25-yard line over the head of the wandering Watchung Hills goalie. Watchung Hills closed the gap with a goal shortly before the half to reduce the lead to one goal.

Solid, consistent defensive play by the Warriors in the second half led the visiting club to frustration, yellow cards and ultimately, an abbreviated game when they walked off the field after a disputed call. Halfbacks Brad Gillin and Greg Scanlon made several fine plays in the midfield to thwart offensive drives, with strikers Doug Midarnik, Nick Geissler and Xander Rothschild dropping back to help with the defensive surge.

The escalating tempo of the game erupted when Greg Scanlon converted a penalty kick late in the second half following a take down of Rothschild in the penalty box. The visiting club abruptly left the field after the successful penalty kick when they refused to comply with the directions from the referee to control unruly adults on the sidelines.

In-Town League - Division V
Cougars 2, Jaguars 0

In a game with great intensity, the Cougars overcame the Jaguars at Washington Field on Sunday.

The Cougars gained the early advantage by keeping the ball in the Jaguars' half as Suzi Goldenker, Stephanie Breakstone, Jessica O'Neill and Kimberly Jacob took charge of the midfield. Beth Mokrauer scored on a corner kick from her right wing position and the Cougars led 1-0 at the end of the quarter.

The Jaguars picked up the pace in the second quarter, but a strong effort by sweeper Sara Mattes and teammates Bethany Goldman, Hannah Israelow and Christine Velazcow turned back the attackers, while a great save by fullback Eileen Gessner in front of an empty net preserved the slim lead at the half.

Cougar strikers Erin Biggio and Alexandra Maus had several shots on goal but the Jaguars' keepers rose to the occasion time and again until Nicole Infantino scored from her halfback position on an assist from Tara Schoenman midway through the third to give her team the 2-0 advantage.

The final period was played at a furious pace with neither team able to gain the upper hand. The Cougars' Nicole Herttua and Stephanie Forman were superb in goal as they combined for the shutout.

K-Co. 5 , Top Guns 0

The shot of the day, however, belonged to center forward Jack Gordon. Handling a cross from halfback Brian Kemps, Gordon sent a line drive from the 18 that deflected off the goalie and into the net to end the half.

As the whistle started play, the Top Guns went on the offense, attacking K-Co's goal. K-Co's goalie Brian Williams stopped three shots, but the big story was K-Co's three backs: Brian Rief and Tadashi and Motoki Matsura. The threesome ran down all breakaways and diverted all scoring threats to the sidelines, away from the goal. Their fine example of play was copied throughout the half by first-time goalie Adam Brundage and fullbacks Danny Egan, Sam Sobel, and Mike Krivak, who were brought in at the 45-minute mark.

With the defense taking charge, the offense went back to work. Chaz Maffey sent his throw-in up the line to forward Bob Fromtling, who fed right wing Genghis Niver. Displaying some fine foot skills, Niver sidestepped four defenders to find the far post for the fourth score.

K-Co. closed out the game with a corner kick play that had Brian Williams hit John Johnnidis, whose high arcing shot was back spinning so much it was too difficult for the Top Gun goalie to handle. The loose ball was immediately recovered by an open John Kotler, who scored to end the game and give K-Co. their third triumph of the season.

AUGUSTO F. MENEZES/FORBES NEWSPAPERS
Cadillacs glide down the lane past a Ride and Drive guest.

This is not your mother's Cadillac

By KATE LINCOLN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

What do Americans think when they think Cadillac? Many picture a white stretch limousine heading to the airport or a sedate maroon touring car showing a quartet of well-coiffed grey heads inside.

Both these images still cover a portion of the Cadillac picture, but for a company that has captured the largest share of America's luxury automobile market for the last 46 years, the reality is far more diverse. Reflecting this, for every white or maroon Cadillac test drive vehicle at the 'Ride and Drive' event at the Forbes family estate in Bedminster last weekend, there was one in vibrant, jewel-like Calypso green or Dark Montana blue.

The test drivers were a diverse group as well, including everyone from blue-jean clad twenty-six-year-olds to tweed-jacketed septuagenarians, all there due to the luck of the draw — a computer draw, that is. The guest list was selected randomly from the ranks of both Forbes magazine subscribers and current Cadillac owners. A number of guests, it seemed, had doubly good odds for selection — they happened to fall into both categories.

Mr. and Mrs. Grecco of Kearny were among those who qualified on each count.

"We both drive Cadillacs," Mr. Grecco said, "the '93 Sedan de Ville and an '88 Seville. And we get Forbes magazine."

They were looking to test drive the new Concours model. Why the Concours?

"For the Northstar engine," said Mrs. Grecco, who also mentioned the size of the Concours as an attraction. "You need the larger car. This is why we went into the Sedan deVille. The European cars are for 4 ½ people," she added. "(With those) you wind up taking two cars for no reason. There's no question, six can fit comfortably (in the Concours)."

Jim and Nancy McKenna of Peapack-Gladstone drove to the Ride and Drive event in a yellow Mercedes-Benz 560 sport coupe. Mr. McKenna echoed, in a way, the Grecco's feeling that European cars are in a different category altogether.

"The 560 is a toy," he said.

A Seville is their current Cadillac, although they have owned Cadillacs "for many years," he said, "7 or 8" different models.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenna planned to test drive the Eldorado Touring car before heading into the large white tent for the gourmet lunch offered to the day's guests.

"We were at Kempers (host dealer for the Forbes magazine event) a couple of weeks ago, but didn't have time to test drive the vehicle then," Mrs. McKenna said.

The Eldorado Touring features the Northstar system.

Cadillac's Eastern Zone Manager, Dick Welday, emphasized that Northstar is not simply an engine.

"The Northstar system is a combination of engine and transmission, a state-of-the-art power system," Mr. Welday said. "The engine and transmission are perfectly matched."

Developed first for the STS (Seville Touring Sedan) and Eldorado Touring, the Northstar system has been included in Concours and deVille models. It will eventually power all Cadillacs, defining the product line.

It should prove a powerful definition.

Jerry Kimble, Eastern Zone district sales and service manager, noted the STS was named 1993 Car of the Year by Rolling Stone magazine. This award may account for some of the new Cadillac owners Mr. Kimble has seen.

"We have converts from BMW's 5 series and Mercedes Benz's 300 series, LS 400 Lexus, even a few Q45 owners."

While the test drive satisfied traditional Cadillac owners (one silver-haired driver emerged from a grey Brougham and said, "Nice car. A lot of engine. Smooth, very smooth."), it pleased non-owners as well.

Joe Nemensky of Linden, who does not currently own a Cadillac, said of the Northstar system, "The engine's incredible. They've really done some quality engineering. This engine's sleek. And it doesn't need service for 100,000 miles — incredible."

Tom Rayski of New Brunswick agreed.

"I'm very impressed with it, and all the horsepower," he said. Mr. Rayski noted other honors the system had received, including Motor Trend magazine's accolades.

Mr. Nemensky also admired the finishing touches on the vehicle.

"They've done a lot of nice things with the overhead compartments, the little things you like but don't really think about," he said.

Which Cadillac would he like?

"A black Eldorado Touring with gold trim," he said.

While Mrs. Grecco found the Calypso green appealing and the McKennas admired the Dark Montana blue, Forbes magazine host Christopher Forbes settled on a Polo Green Concours.

"It should be delivered in a few weeks," he said.

What had decided him on the Concours as a replacement for his current Cadillac, a 1989 model with 131,000 miles?

"The Brougham is too big for my garage," he said.

Whatever model or color the day's participants may have set their sights on, it seems that John Kemper of Kemper Cadillac in Bridgewater summed up the marque's final appeal for all the day's participants:

"Everything about these Cadillacs is no more than two years old. The Northstar is available for '94 in all but two models. Power, performance and handling are the keys."

As he spoke, strains of Dixieland jazz carried on the breeze from the big white tent where nearly 300 happy test drivers were gathering for their gourmet lunch.

The driving just gets better

By BOB and TOM HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

(This week, father-and-son team Bob and Tom Hagin explore the Infinity G20, the car Nissan's upscale division has been marketing in the compact car niche for five years and which has been largely unchanged since. Both agree that this car handles well and offers an armload of standard equipment.)

TOM: The Nissan people say the G20 was one of the first "cab forward" designed cars offered for sale in North America. I see why other auto makers have begun making this type of vehicle. The short hood and trunk increase interior room by quite a bit over Nissans of earlier vintage. It was wishful thinking when Nissan designated the G20 a five-passenger car. Four full-sized adults fit well, even for extended rides, but five people is pushing the limit. What sets the Infinity apart from Nissan siblings is the fact that it has a lot of standard amenities and safety features like dual air bags and anti-skid braking.

BOB: There were a lot of little things I liked about the G20, like the fact that the steering wheel was leather wrapped so I didn't fry my hands when I got behind the wheel on a hot, sunny day. I also liked the good side support that the front seats have. I enjoyed tossing this unassuming little sedan around and while it isn't a real sportster, the engine response was good and the suspension stuck to the road very well. It handled more like a rear-wheel-drive car than most of the front-drivers I've tried and I've read that the G20 has a sophisticated front suspension system that's responsible. Unfortunately, I didn't get a chance to get the G20 up on the rack to look it over. I think that the car could use more rubber on the ground.

TOM: The shift mechanism on the five-speed transmission is really direct acting, without the slop that you find in some front-drive sedans. The gearing through the first three gears is low and gave pretty good off-the-line performance and when the engine began to wind up, the power came on strong. Nissan has pumped 140 horses into this all-aluminum two-liter package using twin camshafts, multi-point fuel injection, four valves per cylinder and Nissan's ECCS engine computer system. I know this car costs a lot for a fairly small machine, but driving it became nicer with each trip.

BOB: It's easy to get used to high quality and if anything could get me out of the "beaters" that I drive, it's things like leather upholstery and upscale interior appointments. I liked the fact, too, that I didn't have to spend a summer's evening reading the operator's manual to figure out the radio and the air conditioning controls. The trunk lid was easy on my back since it had a very shallow lift-over and opened up wide. I could even have gotten my tool box into it.

INFINITI G20

TOM: Inside, there are large analog gauges which include a 9,000-rpm tachometer, a 130-mph speedometer, fuel level and coolant temperature instruments. Since I love to toy with stereos, I found the 160-watt AM/FM cassette with six speakers a joy to experience. It produced the same clear, high-power sound usually reserved for the more upscale cars.

BOB: I wondered why Infiniti would put its badge on such a small car, and put such an obviously high amount of detail into it. A buyer can get what amounts to the same car in a much lower-priced Nissan. But in retrospect, I think there are many drivers who find appeal in quality without bulk and there's a great amount of prestige attached to the Infiniti name. There's also the great amount of reassurance that goes with the knowledge that there are Nissan and Infiniti dealers all over the United States and that Nissan products have a reputation for reliability and longevity. It's like the difference between owning a Ford Crown Victoria and a Mercury Grand Marquis. Same car but with different trim.

TOM: Sometimes just putting a different label on a product makes it more appealing. By the way, I thought you were the guy who didn't approve of "unnecessary" leather upholstery. What happened?

BOB: Well, Tom, you can't go all the way through life being a grouch. Besides that, your mother liked it.

Olds is still alive, well and achieving

By TOM HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

The Achieva has been Oldsmobile's best-selling vehicle since 1985. For 1994, the car comes in four models: the S coupe and sedan; SC coupe and SL sedan. We drove the 1993 SCX model, and after a few minor refinements, is now called the SC.

EXTERIOR

Clean, rounded lines accentuate a sporty look. Front and rear aero fascia, body-colored bumpers and the familiar Oldsmobile grille work distinguish the Achieva from its N-Car relatives, the Pontiac Grand Am and the Buick Skylark. Five-spoke alloy wheels with B.F. Goodrich Comp T/A size P215/60VR14 tires enhance esthetics and offer above-average road grip. A small rear spoiler is standard as are low-mounted fog lamps. Twin rear-view mirrors are also body-colored.

INTERIOR

The instrumentation featured a speedometer and tachometer, as well as oil pressure, coolant, voltage and fuel gauges. Our test car had intermittent wipers, tinted glass, a leather-wrapped steering wheel, halogen headlamps and dual mirrors. Other options included a rear-window defogger, carpeted floor mats, power windows with driver's side express-down and air conditioning. The driver and front passenger sit low in the saddle and side bolsters in the front buckets helped to "cradle" those seated there for maximum support. A tilt steering column, cruise control, and a concert-quality AM/FM CD player with six speakers round out interior appointments.

ENGINEERING

Our first look under the hood was to check for a V6, although we found only four cylinders. Disappointed at first, we were quickly pleased with GM's Quad-4 powerplant — all 170 horsepower of it. How GM could pull this much reliable power from so little displacement - it puts out almost 74 horses per liter, is quite an engineering feat. I was somewhat disappointed in the lack of smoothness in the engine, however, and have experienced the same thing in other GM cars equipped with the Quad-4 engine. Once over the idle speed, the roughness disappears and the unit is smooth. This year GM has added a new air intake system to reduce inlet noise, which was very loud on previous models. An exhaust shield and lots of sound-deadening material also help to quiet the powerplant. The power was weak in the low rpm range, but above 4,000 revs the Quad 4 engine began to pull hard. The iron block/aluminum head four-cylinder engine sports a high 10:1 compression ratio, port fuel injection and a tuned exhaust system with a free-flow muffler. It has an assertive "rap" to the exhaust tune, and a throaty induction noise which growls on acceleration despite the aforementioned resonator. The five-speed transmission features close-ratio shifting and seems perfectly suited to the Quad-4 engine. My only complaint is the somewhat vague gearshift mechanism which required some poking around to get into the right gear. In time, its vagueness is overcome and in a short time I was swinging through the gears with redline gear changes. Zero-to-60 mph came in 7.6 seconds and a 1/4 mile passed in just over 15 seconds.

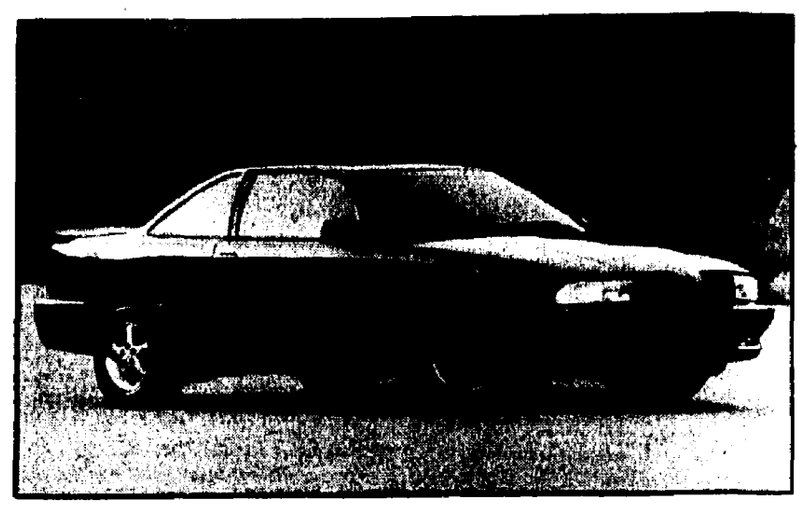

HANDLING

The power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering is stiff, but gives good road feel. GM uses hard steering mount bushings which give the Achieva less of the dreaded torque steer that you get in many high-powered front-wheel drive cars. The Oldsmobile uses Comp T/A tires, which hold well on tight mountain roads. I had the opportunity to test the car on wet pavement, and the tires work well there, too. Cruise control performed well, but the button was a bit loose-feeling. Suspension tightness is selectable via dash-mounted buttons which enable the driver to alternate between "soft" and "firm" settings, and the change between them is very noticeable. The refinement of the automatic door locks for 1994 is a welcome relief. The doors lock when the car is driven forward, or put into gear in the automatic transmission.

SAFETY

A driver's side airbag is standard on all Achievas, as are anti-lock brakes and shoulder belts for all passengers.

Two years ago there was a rumor afoot that the demise of the Oldsmobile was near. We are happy to announce that the company is alive and doing very well, indeed.

The Achieva attests to the fact that Oldsmobile is alive and well.

Rear tire wear may mean suspension alignment is off

By BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Automotive Q&A

Q I own a 1990 Ford Tempo which is powered by the 2.3-liter engine. At approximately 30,000 miles I rotated the tires and, to my surprise, found that while the front tires were in almost-new condition, the rear tires were worn about halfway down. Isn't this backward to the normal wear pattern for cars that have front wheel drive?

A Whenever the rear tires of a front-drive car wear abnormally fast, I'm always suspicious that there is some kind of alignment problem with the rear suspension. The old solid rear-drive rear axle was almost bulletproof and to put it out of alignment required a pretty hard knock. Not so with front wheel drive or with rear-drive vehicles that use independent rear suspension or a "dead" (non-driven) rear axle. Some, like the system used on the Plymouth Horizon/Dodge Omni clones, were adjustable by installing shims under the rear wheel spindles. Others are not, and in order to alter the alignment on these car, something has to be replaced or pulled into specification. You should consider having the rear suspension alignment of your Ford checked out. There are other factors that can cause higher wear in the rear, but they usually involve operation variables like constantly carrying passengers in the back seats or a heavy load in the trunk.

Q I own a 1991 Oldsmobile with six cylinders. At 16,000 miles I took it to the dealer's service department for an oil change, etc. At that time I was told that it was due for a tuneup according to the Oldsmobile service schedule. Most of my driving is done in the city with an occasional 200- to 400-mile trip now and then. Is this maintenance schedule really necessary to adhere to when the car is driving OK?

A The old adage "If it ain't broke, don't fix it" brings up one problem: if it does get "broke," it may be too late to do a repair relatively cheaply. When you use your car mostly around town, you subject it to much harder use than if it was in constant service on interstate highways. Around town, the engine is turned on and off many times each day and short trips usually don't allow the engine and running gear to get up to the right operating temperature. Around-town drivers should cut the time between oil and filter changes in half for best engine life expectancy. "Tune-up" is really a misnomer for modern cars as routine service involves servicing emission control systems, vacuum hoses, fuel delivery systems and filters and a host of other items. Look over the recommended operations that are listed for your Olds at 16,000 miles and you'll find more than just a spark plug change. If you feel that the price asked by your Olds dealer's shop is too much, shop around at the shops of other GM dealers (your money is green there, too) and at some of the independents that are in your Yellow Pages. Finding a good, reliable service operation is tough and it couldn't hurt to ask friends and neighbors for shop recommendations.

Q Is it possible to paint one's own car at home? The finish on my 1984 Honda Civic is pretty bad, but I don't want to spend a lot on getting it refinished. Are there any books on the subject?

A Yes, and I guess that it's possible to do brain surgery at home, too, but it requires more skill than the average car owner possess. Bookstores list several how-to books on the subject and there are even a couple of videos that cover things like repairing dents rust-outs in your driveway. The problem arises after you've done the preparation work. Doing the actual painting requires a spray gun, compressor, ventilated spay booth and all the other items that make for a successful and safe operation. There's always the old system of going over your car with several cans of spray paint, but the results are always grim.

HALLOWEEN HAPPENINGS

A scene from one of the best 3-D movies of all time — House of Wax starring Vincent Price, Phyllis Kirk and Carolyn Jones in a 1953 remake of The Mystery of the Wax Museum.

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Just as St. Patrick's Day is for the Irish, so is Halloween for things that go bump in the night.

Monsters will dwell in the dark at the State Theatre in New Brunswick Sunday, when the Rutgers Film Co-op sponsors a Halloween 3-D night, featuring the '50s horror classic The Creature From the Black Lagoon and the sci-fi favorite It Came From Outer Space.

A third movie, House of Wax, will still be screened, but unfortunately, according to Co-op director Al Nigrin, the only available 3-D copy of the Vincent Price thriller was damaged during a recent screening at another location, so House of Wax will be shown "flat."

Come in costume, but bring an extra buck to buy your special 3-D glasses, which you'll need to experience the 3-D effect that'll have you ducking to avoid those horrible apparitions when they leap of the screen and, well, go bump in the night.

"We have 800 pair of glasses, so we're prepared for a big crowd," said Nigrin.

All three films harken back to the early '50s, when television was first capturing the fancy of the American public. Hollywood, sensing the threat television posed to their billion-dollar industry, looked for new gimmicks to lure their audience out of the living room and back into the theaters.

One of the first solutions was Cinerama, which produced an incredibly-wide screen image, but required special projection equipment and a three-panel screen that was too expensive to install in all but the largest big-city theaters.

But in 1952, independent producer Arch Oboler introduced a polarized 3-D process known as Natural Vision, which used two interlocked cameras to record with lenses positioned to approximate the distance between the human eyes. In the theater, the two prints were projected at the same angle, and moviegoers were issued disposable glasses that allowed them to percieve a 3-D image.

In the next two years, Hollywood produced 69 3-D movies, mostly in the Western, science fiction and horror movies where action and scary images exploited 3-D to its fullest effect. It proved so poular, in fact, that such mainstream films as Kiss Me Kate and Dial M for Murder were filmed in 3-D as well.

But the popularity of 3-D, as it is with many Hollywood fads, quickly faded, and plans to film future blockbusters like A Star is Born and East of Eden were abandoned. In fact, by the time Dial M for Murder was released, 3-D was considered dead and the producers only released it "flat." The 3-D print was finally released in 1981 and played in several revival houses, giving film buffs their first taste of 3-D as done by the master, Alfred Hitchcock.

There were many reasons for the demise of 3-D, including film producers who fond it difficult to work in the gimmicks of 3-D into serious films. Another was the effect wasn't all that impressive to start with, especially after experiencing it a few times, and people complained that the glasses gave them headaches.

But it's still impressive enough that 3-D is revived on occasion, as it was in the '60s for a few films, including the soft-core porno feature The Stewardesses and the X-rated Andy Warhol's Frankenstein.

In 1981, 3-D was revived again when the Fernando Baldi western Comin' at Ya was a surprise success and was followed in 1983 with 3-D presentations of Jaws 3-D and Friday the Thirteenth, Part III.

The early '80s also saw 3-D come full circle as it debuted on the medium that prompted it's development — television. Locally, large crowds piled into retail outlets like 7-Eleven and Crazy Eddie's to purchase 3-D glasses for presentations of Creature From the Black Lagoon and a few others on WPIX. But as it had so many times before, 3-D's popularity proved to be short-lived.

Still, 3-D lives in a significant corner of both film history and the history of American culture. And Sunday at the State Theatre, you can experience it again, or for the first time, in a festive setting that's sure to make for a memorable Halloween.

HALLOWEEN 3-D NIGHT Sunday, Oct. 31, at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick. Admission $7, $5 Rutgers Film Co-op members (3-D glasses $1 per pair). (908) 246-7469.

National Horse show begins Wednesday

By KATE LINCOLN
WeekendPlus Writer

How do you launch 1200 pounds over a seven-foot wall? You use at least a half-ton of horse.

Horses and riders from Europe and the United States will take flight in an equestrian high jump at the Meadowlands Brendan Byrne Arena during the 110th National Horse Show, which begins Wednesday and runs through Sunday.

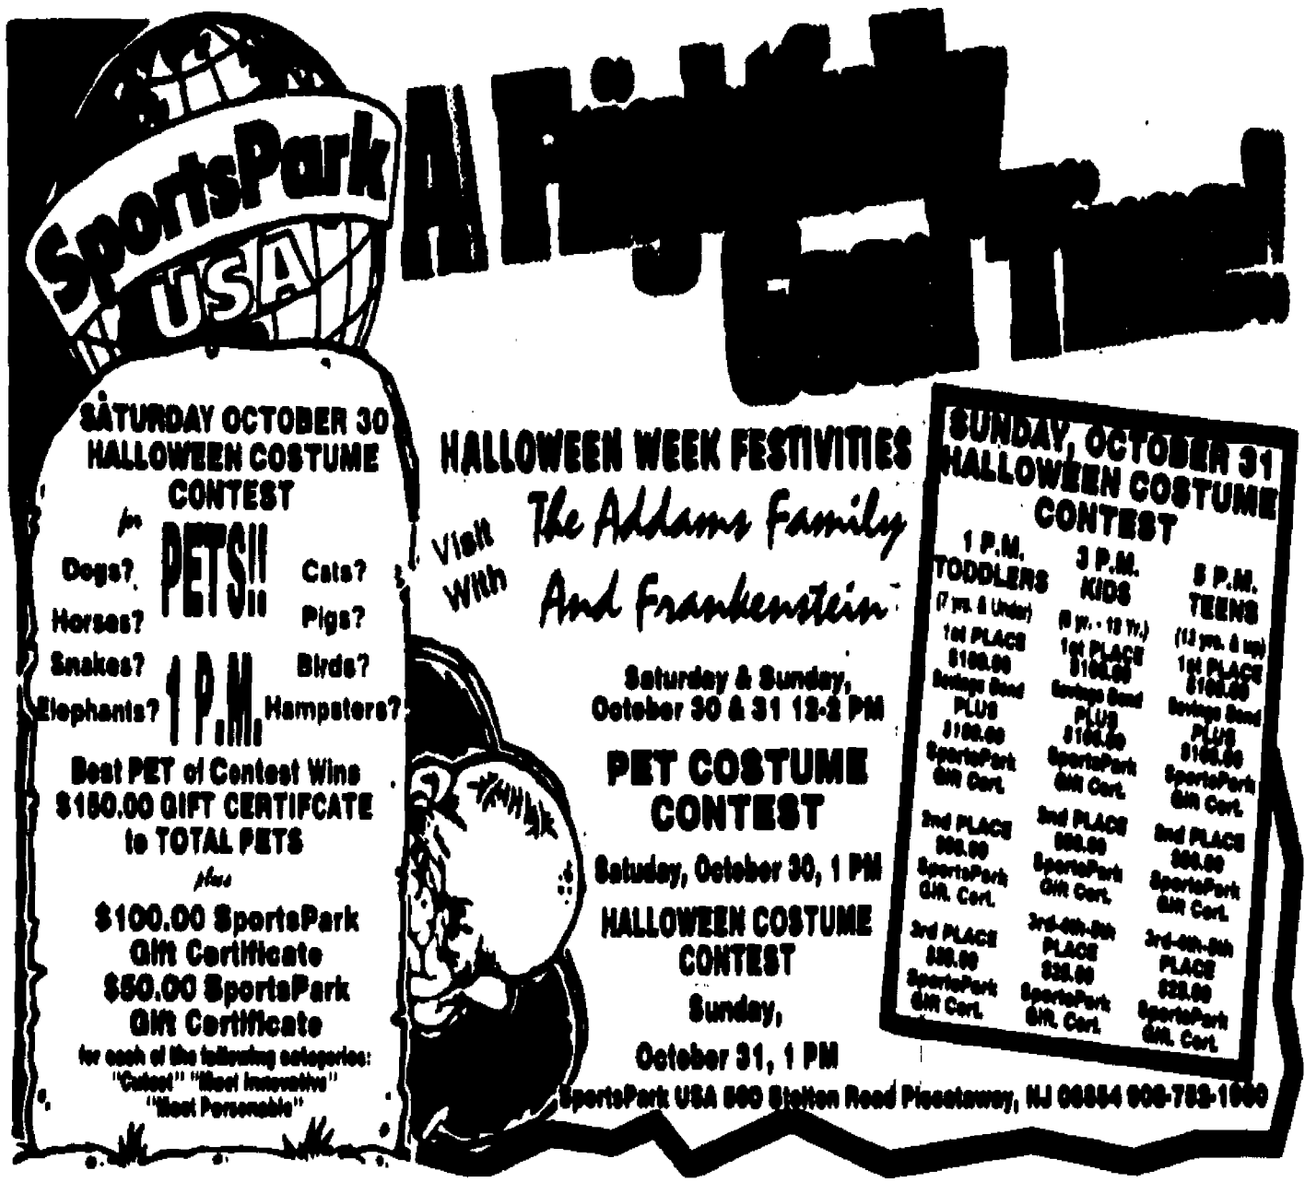

In this contest, the Puissance (a French word meaning "power"), a wall of blocks is raised, just like a high jump bar, until the last contestant brings it down. The record in the event is 7 feet, 7½ inches.

The Puissance, scheduled for Thursday evening, is only one of the dozens of contests filling the horse show's five-day run. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions showcase many different equestrian disciplines: show jumping, culminating in the $100,000 Grand Prix of New York which draws the world's best jumpers; three- and five-gaited Saddlebreds, the flashy high-tailed horses that give their best when the audience roars; hunters, elegant steeds carrying children and adults, and women riding sidesaddle as they did in days of old; and more.

New to the National this year is a team competition in dressage, where a horse performs with the precision of ballet. Saturday afternoon, Nov. 6, the Grand Prix Musical Freestyle will feature rides choreographed to music. Saturday night will bring a relay race, where teams of horses and the famed Canadian "Superdogs" jump matching grand prix courses.

The true stars of the horse show, however, are the horses themselves. Five hundred are expected to walk, trot, canter and jump their way toward ribbons and trophies. Many of the jumpers are international travelers, having competed from Germany to L.A.

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW Wednesday-Sunday at the Brendan Byrne Arena, N.J. Turnpike exit 16W, East Rutherford. For tickets, call the box officew at (201) 935-3900.

Top crafters prepare for Westfield Market

This year's Westfield Craft Market is so big, you'll need more than one weekend to see it all.

Good thing the organizers of this 10th annual event have scheduled it for two weekends -- this weekend, beginning Friday evening, and next weekend at the Westfield Armory.

Featuring 275 craft artists selected from a much-larger list of applicants, the Westfield Craft Market is the largest juried craft event in the state, according to event representatives, and will offer a different group of artists each weekend.

The festivities get under way Friday with a benefit preview party from 5-9 p.m., with 10 percent of exhibitor sales and Friday's ticket sales ($12 tickets will be sold, which include admission to the show for both weekends) going to Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside. Westfield Twig, a volunteer auxiliary group of the hospital, is organizing the preview.

At the market, visitors can peruse a wide variety of arts, crafts, decorations, jewelry, pottery, blown and leaded glass, toys and fashions. Food and entertainment will also be part of the celebration.

Many visitors are satisfied to window shop, while others take advantage of the market every year to get an early start on their Christmas shopping, especially those who are looking to purchase something truly unique for that special someone.

Among the popular crafters in attendance will be clay mask-maker Louis Mendez of Jersey City, pottery artist Kris Pixton of Vestal, N.Y., jewelry designer Irene Scotti Lantz of New York and cutting edge fashion designers Rick and Maryke Benedict of Pennsylvania.

The Westfield Craft Market is also open Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Friday, Nov. 5, 5-9 p.m., and Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 6-7, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Weekend passes are $6, while two-weekend passes are $9. Children ages 10 and under are admitted free of charge. Parking is also free at the Westfield Armory, which is barrier-free for handicapped access.

Fashions by Rick and Maryke Benedict are but a small sampling of the items available at the Westfield Craft Market.

'Batman' Burton animates Christmas 'Nightmare'

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

When Tim Burton first conceived The Nightmare Before Christmas years ago, he was a lowly Disney animator and thought the story was right for a half-hour holiday TV special. But after Burton became a director and made Batman, Edward Scissorhands and acres of money, Disney convinced him to come back and make it a feature movie.

Burton should have stuck with his original idea.

A few things: first of all, it's downright amazing this movie got made at all. It's animation, all right, but not the ink-and-paint traditional style that is so familiar in, say, Aladdin. No, what we have here is stop-motion animation, a technique by which 3-D models are photographed one frame at a time, and painstakingly manipulated to simulate movement. Think about it: 24 frames per second, times an 86-minute movie. Yikes.

Now, Nightmare is not the first movie to use stop-action. In fact, you can go back to King Kong and even earlier to find examples, and the technique is relatively standard in TV commericals, short films and music videos, but this may be the first full-length feature that relies strictly on stop-motion, and it is certainly the most ambitious.

One other misconception: Tim Burton did not direct The Nightmare Before Christmas. Henry Selick did, based on a story and characters (and original drawings) by Burton. Burton served as producer (with Denise Di Novi) and was probably looking over Selick's shoulder, but Selick directed the film.

Technically, the film is nothing short of amazing. It bears the look of a pop-up book of Edward Gore sketches, as if the Addams Family had lept to life off a page of The New Yorker. The movement is rarely jumpy (a typical stop-motion glitch) and the characters are beautifully thought out, the settings opulent, the colors not at all obtrusive, but beautiful in a strange, off-beat way.

It's a pity the screenplay (Caroline Thompson, "adaption by Michael McDowell," whatever that means) isn't nearly as inventive. Burton's films (and even if he's not the director, this is clearly a Tim Burton movie) have always been more about art direction than narrative logic, and here, the whole story premise, if not the story itself, is secondary to the film's screening "lookit me!" in virtually every frame.

What you get here is essentially a macabre reading of How the Grinch Stole Christmas. It seems every holiday has its own land, and the king of Halloween Land is Jack Skellington, a ghoulish but soulful twig of a being whose speaking voice is provided by Chris Sarandon and singing by composer Danny Elfman, who gets his name in the credits no fewer than four times. It may confuse children that Jack has a British accent when he sings, but not when he speaks.

Jack is bored with presiding over Halloween, and by accident one day discovers Christmas Land. He decides to give Santa Claus a break for one year and take over Christmas himself, but he has a rough time explaining to all the ghouls, goblins and vampires why they're making toys for children and being nice to people. He also doesn't bother to explain to Santa why he's being kidnapped and held against his will on Christmas Eve.

And that's basically it. Jack tries to take over Christmas, just about what you'd expect results, and in the end everything is set right. The filmmakers are so busy making our eyes pop that they forgot about our heads. And, especially, our hearts.

Word of warning: yes, this is an animated film and yes, it's about Christmas, but it is absolutely too ghoulish for very young children. Anybody over the age of six or seven willhave no problem with it, but my four-year-old would be diving under his seat in the first five minutes, when the characters explain that there really are monsters under youor bed and in your closet. There are also scenes in which Jack delivers macabre Christmas gifts and scares a lot of small children. Older kids will find it funny, younger ones will cry.

The Nightmare Before Christmas is literally a film like none you've ever seen before. It blazes the trail for stop-motion and makes possible types of animation yet unexplored in features. If they add a story next time, they might make movie history.

'Dennis the Menace'

You'd figure if you took John (Home Alone) Hughes and crossed him with archetypal hellion Dennis the Menace, you'd get a few laughs. And that's what you get. Very few. The rest of the time, it's downright depressing to see a brilliant comic actor like Walter Matthau reduced to playing storeburn straightman to a 5-year-old with a lisp. There isn't a joke that doesn't announce itself from two miles away, and just to be timely, there's a homeless man who's a murderous thief. They hired brilliant comic actor Christopher Lloyd for that one. All in all, more tragedy than comedy.

'Posse'

Mario Van Peebles' Posse is a revisionist Western in that it actually acknowledges the role of Black cowboys in America. Aside from that, it's about as standard as you can get, and it's pretentious as all get-out. But the cast, including Van Peebles, his actor-director father, Melvin, and every other African-American actor within 900 miles, is game, and some of the jokes are funny. Sooner or later, this man is going to make a really good movie. This just wasn't it. Yet.

OPENING THIS WEEK

FATAL INSTINCT
•Carl Reiner directs this comic spoof of dark thrillers like Basic Instinct with a cast featuring Kate Nelligan, Armand Assante, Sherilyn Fenn and Sean Young. (PG-13)

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD
•What a vicious circle: the sequel to the sequel of the semi-serious horror film that pays tribute to George Romero's Night of the Living Dead, and the sequel to its sequel... (R)

CURRENT FILMS

THE AGE OF INNOCENCE
•Director Martin Scorcese (Goodfellas, Cape Fear) switches gears with this faithful adaption of Edith Wharton's romantic novel about a man who falls in love with his fiancee's cousin in late 19th century American high society. Starring Daniel Day-Lewis (Last of the Mohicans), Michelle Pfeiffer and Winona Ryder. (PG)

THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES
•Feature version of the TV series stars Cloris Leachman as Grannie, Jim (the Ernest movies) Varney as Jed and Lily Tomlin as Miss Hathaway. (PG)

A BRONX TALE
•First-time director Robert DeNiro also stars in this urban drama about a working class father who takes on gangsters that embrace his son when the boy "keeps his mouth shut" after witnessing a crime. (R)

COOL RUNNINGS

DAZED AND CONFUSED
•An American Graffiti for the '70s: director Richard (Slacker) Linklater's low-budget, unapologetic look at the decade of free love, marijuana and horrible fashions seen through the eyes of high schoolers in the Bicentennial year of 1976. (R)

DEMOLITION MAN
•Big-budget, cartoonish action-adventure nonsense with Sylvester Stallone staring as a cop frozen in our time who is thawed out to catch a violent criminal (Wesley Snipes, sporting a blond Mohawk) in the year 2032. (R)

FEARLESS

FOR LOVE OR MONEY
•Michael J. Fox stars as the hustling, ambitous concierge of a posh hotel who falls in love with the girlfriend of a wealthy cad who Fox hopes will finance his own hotel. (PG)

THE GOOD SON
•Home Alone wunderkind Macaulay Culkin goes against type as an evil orphan who terrorizes unsuspecting relatives, including a visiting cousin. (R)

THE JOY LUCK CLUB
•Well-received Wayne Wang film, based on the Amy Tan novel about four Chinese mothers and their American-born daughters. (R)

JUDGEMENT NIGHT
•Incredibly stupid, but well-filmed action flick starring Emilio Estevez and Cuba Gooding, Jr., as members of a suburban group threatened while stranded in inner city Chicago after witnessing a murder. (R)

MALICE
•Alec Baldwin and Nicole Kidman star in Harold Becker's suspense-thriller about a group of professors and professionals who may or may not be hiding dark secrets in a New England college town. (R)

MR. JONES
•Lena Olin (The Unbearable Lightness of Being stars as a doctor who falls in love with an troubled but fascinating patient (Richard Gere). (R)

MR. NANNY

MR. WONDERFUL
•Matt Dillon (Singles) plays a Con Ed Worker struggling to pay for his ex-wife's college education, and fix her up with another man to take him off the financial hook. Featuring William Hurt. (PG-13)

THE NIGHTMARE BEFORE CHRISTMAS
✔This stop-action, animated musical fantasy about the people of Halloween taking over Christmas was directed by Henry Selick, but the story and characters come courtesy of Tim Burton, the visually-oriented director of Batman, Beetlejuice and Edward Scissorhands. Music by frequent Burton collaborator Danny Elfman. (PG)

THE PROGRAM

RUDY
•True Rocky style-story of an undersized but determined adult who pursues his dream to not only attend the University of Notre Dame, but to play for the football team. Starring Sean Astin. (PG)

STRIKING DISTANCE
•Bruce Willis returns to the action genre as a Pittsburgh river patrol officer on the trail of the serial killer who murdered his father. With Sarah Jessica Parker (Honeymoon in Vegas). (R)

REVIVALS

PERFORMANCE (1970)
☆Nicolas Roeg's melodrama about a violent gangster hiding out in the home of a rock star features a much-younger Mick Jagger in the obvious role. Friday, Oct. 29, 7 p.m., at Milledoler Hall Room 100, College Avenue campus, Rutgers College, New Brunswick. Part of "Potpourri" festival sponsored by Rutgers Film Co-op and N.J. Media Art Center. Admission $3; $2 Rutgers Film Co-op members. (908) 932-8482.

CREATURE FROM THE BLACK LAGOON (1954)/ IT CAME FROM OUTER SPACE (1953)/HOUSE OF WAX (1953)
☆A trio of horror classics (see cover story, page 4) presented for Halloween, with the first two presented in glorious 3-D. Sunday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m. at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick. Admission $7, $5 Rutgers Film Co-op members. (908) 932-8482.

High notes

She made her New York Philharmonic debut under Zubin Mehta in 1982, and 11 years later, she's one of the most celebrated musicians in the international world of classical music.

And she's only 22!

Like Madonna, she needs only one name — Midori, and she'll return to New Jersey Saturday for a recital at Morris Knolls High School in Denville.

The concert will be hosted by the Morristown-based Friday Evening Club, which presents a variety of musical events at Morris Knolls in the school's 1,200-seat theater.

Saturday's program will include the Schnittke Suite in the "Old Style" along with Bartok's Sonata No. 1; Beethoven's Sonata No. 1 in F ("Spring"); Szymanowski's "Dryades et Pan" from Mythes, Opus 30 and Saint-Saen's Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso, Opsu 28.

Midori will be accompanied by pianist Robert McDonald.

Tickets for the concert are $35-$20, and are available by calling (201) 538-6413, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Jazz singer at Watchung Arts

Jeenie Bryson, daughter of jazz legend Dizzie Gillespie and songwriter Connie Bryson, will perform in concert Friday at the Watchung Arts Center.

A compelling singer whose voice is often compared to Peggy Lee and Billie Holiday, Bryson has developed her own following, singing jazz, pop and samba favorites accompanied by guitarist Vic Juris, who also performs with her on recordings. Her set also includes many rarely-heard pieces, including some written by her mother.

Tickets for the show, which begins at 8 p.m., are $10, which includes light refreshments at intermission. Reservations are suggested due to limited seating.

Playwright Anna Deavere Smith stars in 'Twilight: Los Angeles, 1992' at Princeton's McCarter Theatre

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theater Critic

The New York theater audience, particularly during recent seasons, has proven difficult to impress. But last summer, when playwright, actor and performance artist Anna Deavere Smith opened her Fires in the Mirror: Crown Heights, Brooklyn and Other Identities at the Joseph Papp Public Theatre's New York Shakespeare Festival, she literally became the talk of the town.

Now, this San Francisco resident and associate professor of drama at Stanford University returns to the east coast theater scene with her newest work, Twilight: Los Angeles, 1992, a work directed by McCarter Theatre artistic director Emily Mann. Originally performed last spring at Los Angeles's Mark Taper Forum, where Smith was commissioned to create the work, Twilight was hailed as "an American masterpiece," by Newsweek magazine's Jack Kroll, who went on to praise Smith as "the most exciting individual in American theater right now."

Smith's one-person shows, which have been called human collages, begin when the artist conducts interviews with a diverse number of subjects who express their experiences and opinions surrounding a particular event or issue. From this factual material, she then forms a text using segments taken verbatim from her tapes. Most impressively, Smith then performs all of the characters herself, masterfully depicting men, women, and young people of various ages and races, some well-known and some not, with a minimal use of props and costumes.

"What's amazing about what Anna does is that she internalizes an entire event and all of the people involved so that she becomes a one-woman documentary," said Mann. "Because we see one person able to embody opposing points-of-views without judgement, to listen to and love all these people, then we can, too. We in the audience have a way into a new place in ourselves because, if Anna can get there, then there's a real challenge that we can as well.

Mann herself clearly understands the power of documentary theater and the unique poetry of everyday speech. Among her own writing work is Still Life, an award-winning drama based on interviews conducted with a Vietnam veteran, his wife, and his mistress.

"It's a complete natural to be working with Emily on Twilight," Smith said. "I knew and admired her work, and wanted her to direct Fires in the Mirror, but she was unable to do so at the time.

Fires in the Mirror, the work which first catapulted Smith to national attention, dealt with the racial conflict that erupted in Crown Heights, Brooklyn in August of 1991 after Galvin Cato, a 7-year-old black child, was killed by a car driven by a Hasidic resident of the same area. Soon after, Yankel Rosenbaum, a Hasidic student, was killed during retaliatory unrest among the coexistent black and Hasidic communities.

To create Fires in the Mirror, Smith interviewed well-known figures including Reverend Al Sharpton, Leonard Jeffries, Ntozake Shange and Angela Davis, as well as Galvin Cato's father and a number of area residents who penly expressed their views on the events, as well as racial identity in general.

Both Fires in the Mirror and Twilight are part of Smith's series titled On The Road: A Search for American Character. These theater pieces, which the artist has worked on during the last decade, have dealt with crucial issues challenging America, issues including drug abuse, AIDS, gender identity, and, perhaps most consistently, racial identity.

"I can't think of anyone else who's doing what Anna's doing," Mann stressed. "It's genius. She'll see a moment, a gesture, a posture, or a hesitation that says it all."

Twilight deals with the 1991 beating of Rodney King by four L.A. police officers and the resulting unrest which gripped the city after the acquittal of the police in Simi Valley. After conducting nearly 150 interviews with numerous Los Angeles residents, Smith took the audiotapes into a large rehearsal room and worked alone to, as she puts it, "see how the words [of interviewees] feel on [her] body."

"I think my own voice comes in between the characters," Smith added. "I'm where one character ends and another begins because that's where my intelligence is, in those choices."

Smith maintains that she never approaches her interviews with any particular strategy, but simply with the goal of having the subject do the talking. Included in the dozens of Twilight interviews are the words of public figures like Daryl Gates, Willie Williams, and Maxine Waters, as well as lesser-known figures, among them one of the Simi Valley jury members. Through this process, Smith creates her working text and attempts to document the differences inherent in her subjects.

GSP excited about 'Sheer Boredom'

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theater Critic

Never underestimate the inventiveness of a playwright, for whom inspiration can come from absolutely anything or, in at least one case, from the vast, psychological space of absolute nothingness.

John Viscardi, the playwright whose Sheer Boredom opens this week at the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick, was first inspired to write his work several years ago while working as a doorman in New York City. The two summers Viscardi spent as a doorman were followed by eight years spent as a regular on the soap opera One Life to Live and as a player in some 35 off-Broadway and off-off-Broadway plays, but those hours spent guarding the lobby did more than pay the bills of a struggling actor — they also inspired a play.

Sheer Boredom, Viscardis first full-length play, is an outrageous, unconventional comedy in which three doormen struggle to fill the uneventful hours of their work with some excitement, stimulation, and perhaps a bit of self-revelation. The setting of Sheer Boredom is the sleek, marble lobby of an exclusive urban building. In this space, the doormen attempt to break free of the constraints of their job and, through that process, learn more about themselves. The only other characters in the play are imaginary tenants who help create the play's forward momentum.

"Most people might not ponder what it is like to do eight hours of nothing," Viscardi said. "What happens when you are face-to-face with doing nothing? You are in the strangest of places. While I was a doorman, I started questioning what the hell I was doing with my life."

During that period of his life, Viscardi continued playing out scenes and formulating ideas in the notebooks he first began keeping during his studies as an English major at Columbia University. He kept taking notes during his years as an actor and later began to formulate the thoughts into Sheer Boredom.

"While trying to focus the ideas and give them a form, I decided to condense a lot of the material and wrote it as a 10-minute play for a competition at The Actors Theatre of Louisville," Viscardi said. "The play ended up being one of 20 finalists out of 2000 submissions."

Though the playwright has seen his 10-minute text in a workshop production, the George Street production, directed by Tom Bullard and starring Matt Arkin, Harsh Nayyar, and Joel Rooks, marks the first full staging of his finished play.

The elaborate lobby set, which is as important an element of Sheer Boredom as the play's characters, has been created by designer John Lee Beatty, currently represented on

'Los Angeles'

With her unique form, Smith gives her audience in 90 minutes a human landscape more complex and complete than the factual account of a newspaper article or the sound bites of television reporting (feeling the media was like another character in the L.A. events, video elements have been worked into the Twilight production).

"A lot of people [in Los Angeles] have been angry and afraid," Mann said. "They feel they haven't been heard. What Anna does so brilliantly is give voice to those people who are usually silenced. There was no intelligent analysis of the events in Los Angeles last year. We're suffering as a nation from that lack of analysis. I think the media has begun to look carefully at their responsibilities."

"We're working toward finding a common language, a vocabulary, a way to tear down the curtain which seems to obscure people's vision of each other and of reality," Mann explained. "That's what Anna's work is really all about."

"What I found [in Los Angeles] is that we often lack the language to have a meaningful discussion about race," Smith said. "The more I interviewed, the more I found people contradicting themselves. I sensed people worrying that they weren't saying the right thing to me."

"I have a great appetite to watch and to hear what's going on," Smith continued. "Not just in Los Angeles, but in general. I think a lot of people want to see and hear, and that excites me."

TWILIGHT: LOS ANGELES, 1992 Oct. 29-Nov. 14 at McCarter Theatre, Princeton. Tickets $30-$23; discounts available. (609) 683-8000.

'Boredom'

Broadway with his set for The Sisters Rosensweig.

The text of Sheer Boredom, the playwright explained, defies traditional narrative structure and opts instead for a episodic structure composed, in some sections, of short vignettes.

"A lot of straight, conventional plays have a naturalistic setting and narrative," Viscardi maintained. "I'm creating conventions on the stage in a different way. For example, when the doormen are doing nothing, I have a loud clock in the background. The clock becomes an theatrical convention, but the play's handling of time is very unconventional. I'm not really altering reality in the play. I'm entering a character's unique psychological world, trying to dramatize what's going on with the characters internally."

SHEER BOREDOM through Nov. 14 at George Street Playhouse, 9 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick. Tickets $30-$18. (908) 246-7717.

A spicy alternative

Louisiana Seafood & Steak joins Hub City restaurant fraternity

By MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

ROBERT YOUNG/WEEKENDPLUS

Atef Hanna, owner of Louisiana Seafood and Steakhouse in New Brunswick, offers his customers a variety of Cajun and Tex-Mex favorites at reasonable prices.

Louisiana Seafood & Steakhouse is the newest member of the New Brunswick restaurant scene. It offers an alternative to most of its neighboring competitors -- the food is Cajun and Tex-Mex, and the prices are moderate to low.

It is located on George Street in the building once occupied by Hub City Restaurant. The old restaurant had a pleasant atmosphere to begin with, and the new owners, Atef Hanna and Sam Abozedo, made very few changes.

The main difference is that they've changed it from a sports bar to a family restaurant. They painted the walls a soft pink, and replaced the framed Rutgers sports photos with old photos of New Brunswick.

The main dining room has large framed painting on the wall. Other than that, everything else remained the same. There is the high ceiling with all the pipes showing, a parquet floor as well as a wide wood plank floor, brass railings and light oak wood.

The woodwork is absolutely stunning! There is a wide stairway leading to the second floor with an oak railing that must be six inches wide. The last time I remarked that the place reminded me of a turn-of-the-century saloon, and it still does.

Louisiana Seafood's menu consist of nine hot and cold appetizers ($3.95-$5.95), three soups ($1.25-$2.50) and six salads ($5.95-$6.95). Appetizer selections include hearts of palm salad, blackened jumbo shrimp, Cajun baby ribs and a shrimp cocktail.

Entrees are divided into three sections: Mexican, broiled or grilled Cajun fish and steak, and barbecue selections. All entrees are served with a salad or soup and bread. The Mexican selections includes 10 items from $6.25 to $8.95. There are also nine barbecues choices from $7.95 to $10.95.

But since the restaurant is named the Louisiana Seafood & Steakhouse, let's talk about the Cajun cuisine. They have 13 Cajun entrees divided into meat and seafood. Blackened meat include filet mignon, baby ribs, steak, pork, and chicken ($8.95-$14.50 for the filet mignon -- the most expensive item on the menu).

Seafood items include blackened Boston scrod, flounder, catfish, swordfish and shrimp and scallops ($8.95-$12.95). You can specify your meal to be cooked hot or mild.

My husband started with the Louisiana seafood soup ($1.75) and I ordered the blackened jumbo shrimp on toast ($5.95). The soup was spicy hot with lots of vegetables and a good tomato stock.

My five blackened shrimp were topped with scallions and served over toast. They were also spicy hot, but at a temperature I could handle.

For entrees, my husband had the blackened N.Y. steak for $10.95. He ordered it medium rare and hot. The steak was topped with onions, whole mushrooms, cauliflower, broccoli, zucchini and a baked potato. It was served with a brown sauce. The steak was cooked as ordered, and the vegetables had a stir-fried taste.

The steak was delicious and tender, but the sauce wasn't hot, or at least he thought so, until halfway through his meal. Then the hot spices kicked in.

I ordered the grilled blackened seafood kabob ($11.95), which consisted of shrimp, scallops, flounder, tomato, onion, green pepper and mushrooms on a bed of rice. This was served on a platter minus the skewers. I ordered mine mild, but it had a nice tangy taste. The seafood was very good, and not overcooked.

For desserts I had a very rich carrot cake and my husband had the hot apple crumb with whipped cream. I couldn't finish mine, but it's just as well. I don't need all those calories.

Louisiana Seafood & Steakhouse has both a smoking and non-smoking dining room. We ate in the smaller, non-smoking area, where all the tables filled up before we left.

As we were getting ready to leave I glanced over the larger main dining room and realized that it, too, was filled with patrons. There were no empty tables in either dining area. That's always a good sign for a new restaurant.

But hey, the prices are right, the food was good, and the atmosphere is pleasant. All the ingredients for a busy restaurant.

Wine with Reason

Marilyn Cormack

Everyone knows French wines like Chateau Margaux or Lafite. You know French wine regions like Bordeaux and Burgundy. But at a wine tasting I attended recently, a bunch of us learned that some unfamiliar wines can be awfully good. And, just because it's French doesn't mean it has to be expensive.

1992 Pierre Clement Sancerre - From the Loire Valley, this white wine made from Sauvignon Blanc Grapes showed a beautiful straw color. The nose was closed at first, but after a few minutes, opened up to a pure melon, light grass and pear. Fresh & flavorful in the mouth. A very, very nice white wine.

Chateau Jonqueyres Bordeaux Superior 1990 - A three week maceration period gives this wine good tannic structure and saturation. Full berry flavors, some diacetil, and oak are well intergrated in the mouth. This wine will show well with more bottle age.

Domaine LaCharade Cote De Rhone 1991 - A 60%-40% blend of Grenache and Syrah. Incredible fruit and spice in the nose and mouth. Lots of young grape tannins adds puckerability. Will soften beautifully in time.

Chateau St. Esteve 1991 Corbieres - Jammy fruit flavors surrounded by vanilla, toast and wood. Viscous and mouth filling, with long after tastes of blackberry and pepper.

None of these wines are over $15.00, so you can stock up well for the cold winter months ahead.

Enjoy!

The stately Courtland model at Berwyck Chase in Scotch Plains exemplifies the quality of the homes in this American Properties community.

Grand home, in 'best-loved' hometown

COVER HOUSE

For more than 200 years, Scotch Plains has been one of the best-loved and most prestigious hometowns on the Union County map.

It is very popular with families ready for the so-called "move-up" home; and Berwyck Chase is the newest community they are moving up to.

American Properties, a company well-known for building estate-style homes, is creating the unique community. Inspired by the rich variety of architectural styles that gives Scotch Plains its great charm, Berwyck Chase has been designed as a collection of villages or enclaves, each with a distinctive character and appeal. Recently, two new designs were introduced and the early response has been so enthusiastic that construction is now under way on both.

The Avalon is a handsome, 2,367-square-foot, three-bedroom home with a spacious loft that is also offered as a fourth bedroom. It features two and one-half baths, an impressive entry foyer with a volume ceiling, and a first-floor library and family room in addition to the formal living and dining rooms. It is priced from $279,990.

The second new design is The Bentley, a 2,379-square-foot, four-bedroom home with two and one-half baths, an eat-in country kitchen adjoining a large family room, a luxurious master retreat and a "California linen" storage unit adjacent to the second full bath. The Bentley is priced from $284,990.

Volume ceilings, 9-foot first-floor ceilings and spectacular windows are a few of the architectural details intended to enhance the sense of spaciousness in both homes. Both will also have an attached two-car garage, attractive front entry shrubs and landscaping.

As an added feature, both homes are located near the community's planned swimming pool and tennis courts, scheduled for completion next year.

"Being situated virtually next door to private tennis courts and a luxurious pool gives these homes an added appeal," said Diana Sandberg, American Properties' vice president of sales and marketing. "Anyone familiar with the current prices of substantial single-family homes in Scotch Plains will immediately see that our two new homes are very compelling buys indeed."

Two other design portfolios are featured at Berwyck Chase: The Estate Series and The Executive Series. A number of models are offered in each series; and each model is available in several exterior treatments. Homes in The Executive Series are priced from $339,990, with homes in The Estate Series starting at $417,990.

"We offer a wider selection of homes than most new communities because we believe in creating communities with a richer and more diversified ambience," Ms. Sandberg said.

Berwyck Chase "also has the considerable advantage of an absolutely top drawer location in Scotch Plains," she said. "It's flanked on the north by 800 acres of the Watchung Reservation and on the south by the Ashbrook Golf Course and Wildlife Sanctuary."

American Properties' history in residential, corporate, commercial and industrial real estate development spans more than a quarter century. The principals of American Properties have been involved in the successful creation, development and marketing of more than 10,000 homes in New Jersey, Florida and California. In addition to Berwyck Chase, American Properties is currently marketing Stoney Hill and Treetops (both in Bridgewater), Pointe de Jardin in Marlboro Township, Woodgate at Branchburg, and Warren Rise in Warren Township.

To visit Berwyck Chase, take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 135. Follow the signs to Westfield onto Central Avenue. Turn left at the first light onto Raritan Road. Proceed approximately 1.7 miles to the fourth light and turn right onto Lake Avenue. Proceed ½ mile and bear left onto Martine Avenue (Lake Avenue becomes Martine Avenue). Proceed to Cooper Road and turn left. Continue on Cooper Road for 1.7 miles to Rahway Road, turn right and proceed four-tenths of a mile to Berwyck Chase, on the left. Or, take Route 22 to Terrill Road, proceed on Terrill Road to Cooper Road. Turn right on Cooper Road and proceed as above.

The sales center is open 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday-Tuesday. For more information, call 755-6606.

Appraisal rule changes are scrutinized

Regulators should press ahead with finalizing all but one of several appraisal rule modifications proposed by federal banking and lending agencies, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The modifications, proposed by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), and the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS), call for increasing the threshold level (the level at which licensed or certified appraisers must be used for a transaction) from $100,000 to $250,000 for residential and commercial loans.

The threshold level was established in response to the Appraisal Reform Amendments (Title 11) contained in the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act (FIRREA) passed by Congress in 1989. FIRREA requires that all federal-related real estate transactions use a state licensed or certified real estate appraiser. FIRREA also authorized states to establish their own licensing and certification systems.

The rule changes were proposed in response to efforts by the Clinton administration to alleviate the credit crunch for small- and medium-sized businesses.

In recent meetings with the FDIC, NAR representatives said the association is opposed to the proposed increase in the threshold level for residential loans. NAR, which supports the other proposed rule changes, recommended to the FDIC that federal regulators adopt all but the residential change, to provide additional time for comments from the real estate, banking and appraisal industries.

"NAR believes the issue of the proper threshold should be separated from residential and non-residential properties," said Edward Starchurski, 1993 chairman of NAR's appraisal committee. "By moving forward with all of the proposed changes except the threshold level for loans on residential properties, the FDIC will avoid lengthy delays in adopting its modification package for the sake of discussion over one rule change."

"While we support the government's effort to ease the credit crunch for businesses, we really believe that raising the residential property threshold to $250,000 does not encourage fairness and consumer protection the appraisal process provides home buyers and sellers," he said.

Specifically, NAR is concerned that raising the residential threshold could lead to federal financial institutions becoming hiding places for residential real estate loans that cannot withstand a professional appraisal or conform to typical quality-directed underwriting standards.

Mr. Stachurski said the proposed changes to the residential threshold level also raise the question of whether such a move could provide a market advantage to federally insured financial institutions over lenders who require appraisals.

"We believe there should not be an incentive for borrowers to forego loans purchased by the secondary market," Mr. Stachurski explained. "As such, NAR is very concerned with any regulations adopted that seem harmless on the surface, but in practice may damage the secondary mortgage market."

NAR also believes that keeping the threshold at $100,000 for residential loans serves to further solidify Congress's intent for passing Title 11 of the FIRREA. Raising the fees on residential loans could potentially lead to a sharp reduction in the licensing fees that currently support the state appraisal commissions and boards established under Title 11.

Raising the threshold for commercial loans would not create the same scenario, however, Mr. Stachurski said, because mortgage amounts for commercial properties are generally much higher than the proposed $250,000 threshold.

NAR created its Appraisal Section in March, 1991, to meet the specialized needs of its appraisal members. The section services more than 5,000 members. NAR recently amended its policy to permit licensed and certified appraisers to qualify for Realtor membership, and thereby become eligible to participate in a board's Multiple Listing Service. The definition of "active real estate license" for those boards requiring a real estate license to qualify for Realtor membership was expanded to also include an appraisal license/certificate.

Gracious two-family living in Dunellen

DUNELLEN — This gracious home is about 125 years old, said its owner, who has lived in the house at 600 Grove St. all her life.

It is listed for $239,900 through the E.A. Boniakowski Agency in Green Brook.

The south-facing residence, currently a two-family home, sits on a sunny subdividable lot.

Downstairs is a two-bedroom apartment which includes a 15-by-15 living room with a built-in china closet and a dining room, 16-by-14. The 14-by-12 eat-in country kitchen features a fireplace. Two bedrooms measuring 15-by-13 and 16-by-8 and a full bath complete the first floor.

Upstairs, the owner's apartment includes a working fireplace in the 14-by-14 living room. The 16-by-10 den might serve instead as a dining room. The kitchen is 14-by-13 and has been recently renovated.

There is also a screened porch.

There are three bedrooms upstairs, 15-by-16, 14-by-14 and 14-by-8, as well as a full bath, currently being fully renovated.

The one-car detached garage has both electric and heat installed for use as a year-round workshop.

For more information, or to visit this home, call Tom Boniakowski at E.A. Boniakowski Agency, 968-0700.

Tewksbury to So. Plainfield, choices abound

The Meadows can be your hunt country home; Contempo South keeps you close to the action

For those who have always dreamed of living in horse country with spectacular views and rolling hills, The Meadows at Tewksbury will make your dreams come true.

Only nine magnificent homes, starting at $405,000, will comprise this one-of-a-kind community. Several homes are already sold and only five lots remain. Each home at The Meadows has been designed to blend and capture the breathtaking Hunterdon County countryside.

Sweeping views are evident from each 3-acre homesite and the community's cul-de-sac assures a private and tranquil lifestyle. Several distinctive home designs with soaring 9-foot ceilings and masonry fireplaces, and the opportunity to customize are available to each potential homebuyer.

Tewksbury is one of Hunterdon County's most prestigious communities. Its rolling farmlands and unspoiled natural landscape have attracted many house enthusiasts as well as executives searching for an exclusive retreat. Minutes from Routes 206, 287 and 78, Tewksbury is also known for its great schools, charming small shops and easy access to major suburban conveniences in nearby towns like Bedminster and Far Hills. It is only a short drive from Princeton as well as New York City and Newark Airport.

For more information on The Meadows at Tewksbury contact Mike Gleason at the Clinton office of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors.

Prospective homebuyers shopping the market for a "best buy" will not want to miss Contempo South in South Plainfield.

Now in its final phase with just a few lots remaining, the popular community just minutes off the Garden State Parkway has proven a standout in the marketplace by offering quality single family homes at starting prices as low as $155,999.

"The outstanding values offered here are attracting prospects from a wide geographic range, from northern and central New Jersey and from Staten Island as well," said Diane Bender of the Metuchen Office of Weichert, Realtors. "These are feature-packed homes at unbeatable prices."

A variety of model styles is offered. Buyers may select from three- and four-bedroom colonials with up to two-and-one-half baths, to two different sizes of bi-levels to an easy living ranch. For those who have their own favorite plans, the builder will custom build to suit.

"The wide selection of model styles assures that buyers can get the individual look they want," Bender said.

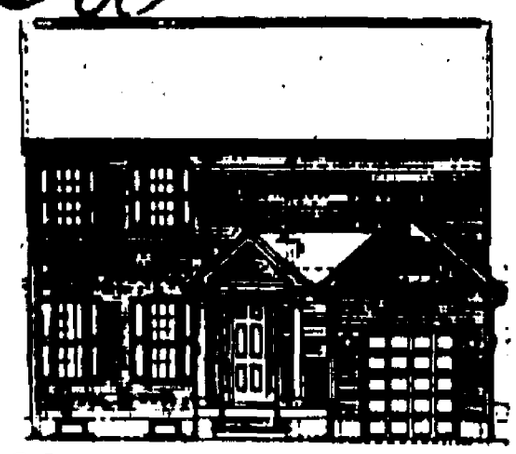

Contempo South is being built by Batra Construction & Development Corp., a builder/developer/engineering firm with an extensive background in fine home building. Their talents and experience are reflected in the many desirable features included in Contempo South homes. The Nation's Largest Independent Real Estate Company Construction quality is seen in the plywood exteriors, the no-maintenance vinyl siding, the steel entry doors, the all vinyl insulated windows, the fully sheetrocked garages, and a host of other quality products.

All Contempo South homes feature spacious kitchens offering the beauty of oak cabinetry, formica countertops, and no-wax vinyl floors. Kitchens come equipped with dishwasher as well as gas range with outside vented hood. A value priced options list allows buyers to add to the luxury and excitement of their new home even more.

Skylights, cathedral ceilings, central air, fireplace, bay and bow windows, and master bedroom whirlpools are among the most popular options. Contempo South homeowners will enjoy the gracious atmosphere of an established residential neighborhood served by all city utilities. An excellent selection of lots remain in various sizes. One lot offers dimensions as large as 266-by-105-by-180 feet.

"For those ready to move up to single family home ownership, Contempo South offers the chance to afford a brand new home with all the features on your wish list for incredibly low prices we may never see again," said Ms. Bender. To view, from Metuchen take Central Avenue to Park Avenue. Follow Park to right at traffic light at Oak Tree Road. Turn left and proceed approximately nine-tenths of a mile to Diana Drive on the left and proceed to Contempo South. For more information on Contempo South, contact Diane Bender at the Metuchen Office of Weichert, Realtors at 906-8200.

At 6 March Place, there's something for whole family

KERRIE HAGY/FORBES NEWSPAPERS

This expanded cape at 6 March Place, Fords has the space, and amenities, for a growing family.

FORDS – From the cozy living room fireplace to the outdoor deck with a Jacuzzi, this charming expanded cape at 6 March Place has something that will please every member of the family.

Listing for $159,000 through Prudential Winhold Realty, the home sits in a family neighborhood that is convenient to schools and major transportation.

Room sizes are generous, beginning with a 13-by-23-foot living room that boasts a fireplace. The formal dining room is a comfortable 12-by-14 feet.

A pantry, dishwasher and exhaust fan add practicality to the 12-by-13 eat-in kitchen.

Four bedrooms are 14-by-16, 12-by-10, 10-by-11, and 9-by-11. There are also three full baths, some carpeting and some finished wood floors throughout the home.

Central air conditioning will keep the home cool on the hottest days of summer, but the outdoor Jacuzzi will be an appealing alternative for beating the heat.

HOUSE TOUR

Amenities include a cedar closet, four ceiling fans, a burglar alarm, and attached garage with a door-opener. The furnace and roof are only 6 years old.

When the weather turns cold and raw, the finished basement offers a space suitable for an afternoon or evening in front of a good football game – there is a wet bar complete with bar stools.

For more information, or to visit the home, call Nancy Di Cosmo at 494-7677.

"Trick or Treat!"

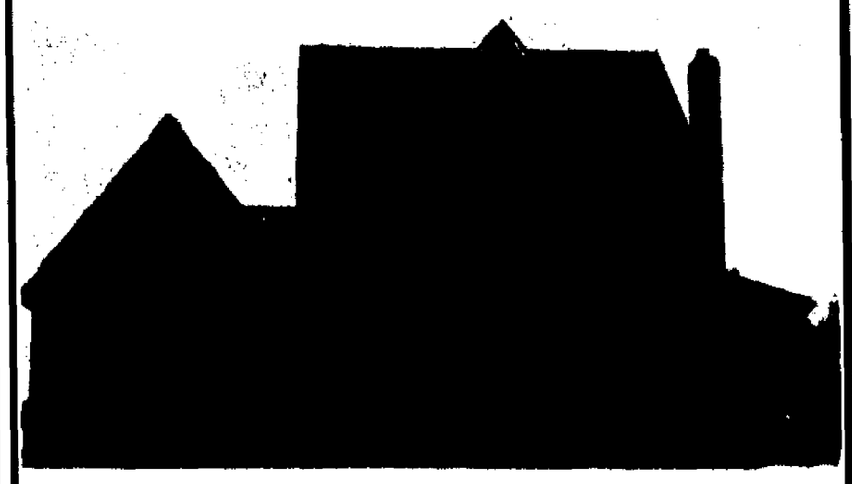

Bill Decker

If you're thinking of selling your home on your own you don't want the process to be like "Trick or Treat." The first step is to prepare your home for sale. Next establish a fair marketable asking price, and attract a "Qualified" buyer. Finally and most important bring that buyer to a successful closing on the sale of your home. All steps are important but the last step is crucial or obviously everything else is for naught! A professional realtor like Bill Decker (Bearded witch on the right) can take the "Trick-or-Treat" out of selling on your own and earn the commission you pay him-Honest!
