Music, lights, free parking downtown

By NICOLE A. GAVINO

THE RECORD

Westfielders will kick off the holiday season this weekend with an array of events culminating in the annual lighting of the tree with Santa Sunday.

This weekend is just the start of a month-long string of events sponsored by the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce and Westfield MainStreet. The theme of all the events is "Welcome Home to Westfield."

Chairperson Danielle Walsh said the theme is meant to encompass the feelings of returning to an old hometown, a friendly place where the stores know your name, offer personal service, and are one in the same with the community. Mrs. Walsh said that the theme draws on the holiday season as a time when people return to their family and friends where they grew up in Westfield.

In addition to free parking available from Thursday through Sunday at parking meters through Christmas, the downtown area will be immersed in the holiday spirit. Each weekend will feature musical events by local musicians, holiday fanfare including train and trolley rides with Santa as well as holiday contests. Local girl scout troops will be handing out candy canes and coupons and refreshments will be offered by different area businesses and organizations including Lia's, Ahre's Coffee Roastery, and the American Red Cross.

This weekend festivities begin with the Westfield High School Homecoming Parade Wednesday at 2 p.m. and the Bonfire at Edison School at 5:30 p.m. Thursday the fun continues at the WHS football game between Westfield and Plainfield.

On Friday and Saturday, free sittings for family portraits will be offered by Arcanum Hall at 102 Elm St. 10 a.m.-4 p.m. And Saturday barbershop performances will be provided by S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. From 10 a.m.-3 p.m., different groups of the barbershop band will be performing in front of 102 Elm St. and refreshments will be offered by Ahre's.

The weekend will be topped off by the annual tree lighting ceremony at the train station on North Avenue. From 5-6 p.m. residents meet to see the tree lit and get their first peek of the season at Santa. Santa will pass out candy canes and good cheer at his arrival and music will be provided by the Westfield Community Band.

In the following weeks, the central business district will be home to holiday activities such as holiday music care of brass quartets, an ice-sculpting contest, photos with Santa and trolley rides.

In the meantime, people can pick up restaurant promotion coupons and receive free gifts at many area eateries. Also, the Chamber of Commerce and Main Street are holding a holiday decorating contest. Look for shop entrance and window displays creatively decorated in full seasonal array.

Garbage hauler sues over hours

State calls local law 'unenforceable'

By NICOLE A. GAVINO

THE RECORD

Fanwood Disposal has filed suit against Westfield challenging its new ordinance which prohibits garbage pickup before 6 a.m. The suit cites state DEPE tariffs as superseding the town ordinance.

Back in September before the town enacted the ordinance, Town Attorney Charles Brandt inquired to the DEPE whether state regulations supersede any town laws. Last week he received a letter from Fred De Vesa, acting attorney general of New Jersey, stating that Westfield's ordinance, "is unenforceable, in that the State of New Jersey has preempted the entire field of solid waste regulation."

Although the letter said that the state tariffs will supersede any local ordinance, Councilman Anthony LaPorta pointed out that, "This is only an opinion of the writer. There is no case cited in the letter that would be similar to ours."

Fanwood Disposal will cite their state-regulated tariff as the ruling law. According to their tariff, Fanwood Disposal is allowed to conduct business between the hours of 5 a.m.-6 p.m. President Steve Scioccia mentioned numerous safety problems his company has suffered since he held his trucks back an hour due to Westfield's new ordinance.

Fanwood Disposal's complaint against the Town of Westfield was filed with the Union County Supreme Court Nov. 5. Sandra Thaler-Gerber, civil division manager, said Westfield has not yet responded. No proceeding has been scheduled yet and Ms. Thaler-Gerber said that the case probably will not be heard for about two years.

Meanwhile, two other garbage disposal companies have also received summons for violating the local time limits and have said that they will challenge the summons in Westfield's municipal court. However, Mayor Garland 'Bud' Boothe said that the debate will have to be argued out in the Superior Court because whatever judgment is made in the Fanwood Disposal suit will supersede matters of the Westfield police and the Westfield court.

Town Council members expressed confidence that Westfield will win in the courts. However, they discussed alternate routes that could be taken if they don't win.

Councilman LaPorta said that the town could petition the state to change the haulers' tariffs to coincide with Westfield's ordinance. He explained that the tariffs are currently being phased out and may not even exist in a few years.

"How can the state tell us we can't enforce our ordinance when they don't even enforce their own tariffs? It doesn't make any sense," Mr. LaPorta said.

Town Attorney Brandt said that he will write a letter to the state informing the DEPE that many of Westfield's haulers are currently violating their individual tariff times. The different times vary from 2 a.m. to 8 a.m. startup times.

Students flock to first career day

By NICOLE A. GAVINO

THE RECORD

Westfield High School held its first Career Day last week, signaling the growing concern in today's youth to get an early start on their future.

The program was spearheaded by WHS business teacher and Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) adviser Lisa Bellomo. FBLA, a student extra-curricular club, sponsored the Thursday's event in recognition of American Enterprise Day.

Local businesses were brought into the school and all WHS juniors and seniors were given the opportunity to meet with an array of about 25 professionals representing occupations ranging from medicine to drama. More 100 students turned out to explore career choices.

FBLA Vice-President Jon Haack said, "I think it was an overwhelming response on the part of the students. Students these days are really goal oriented and this is just another one of those little samplers."

The event came in response to a sizable request for it on the part of the students who evidently are more future-oriented than their predecessors.

Professional Roger Love noted, "When we were this age, I don't think we were thinking about anything but today. Kids are looking a lot farther down the road now."

Both students and professionals seem to feel that times are changing and so are student concerns.

"The economy and the job market seem to be getting worse and it's just harder today," senior Andee Moore said. "We are focusing earlier because we want to make sure we're happy and we have money, especially here in Westfield when we look at our parents."

Ms. Bellomo feels that parents and teachers have contributed to the students' early concerns. "We are training them to look ahead," she said. "In every classroom we are teaching them and giving them opportunities that we never had at that age."

Ms. Bellomo said that this first career day is just the beginning. A larger, more expansive event is being planned for the spring, which the school hopes to make an annual event.

Parking meters bagged, 'Welcome home' begins

"Welcome Home to Westfield" will be the theme of the month-long series of events beginning Nov. 24, sponsored jointly by the Westfield MainStreet Program and the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce. In addition to the free parking available from Thursday morning through Sunday evening at all the town's short-term parking meters through Christmas, the Central Business District will be awash in the holiday spirit, providing customers extra services and, in some cases, free refreshments, candy canes and discounts.

Thanksgiving weekend will see such special events and services as the Westfield High School homecoming parade and bonfire at Edison Intermediate School field Nov. 24; complimentary portrait sittings by Arcanum Hall Studios Nov. 26-27; and the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony at the Westfield Train Station Nov. 28, complete with an appearance by Santa.

Complimentary musical performances will be ongoing throughout the weekend and special restaurant promotion coupons and candy canes will be available at the MainStreet office on East Broad Street and the Chamber office on Quimby.

Westfield MainStreet is the downtown revitalization project. To volunteer, call Michele Picou, program manager, at 789-9444.

MainStreet promotions committee chairperson Joseph Specor bags a downtown parking meter as program manager Michele Picou and Katherine Brohier, chamber executive director assist.

Santa train tickets are still available

Tickets for Train Rides with Santa Saturday, Dec. 4, are now available at Brunner Opticians, 100 East Broad St. and Harrison's Gift Shop in Cranford. The train rides will depart from the South side of the Westfield train station at 9:45 a.m., 11:45 a.m., and 2:45 p.m. for round trips between Westfield and High Bridge.

The Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce is providing coloring books for young passengers, who will be able to visit with Santa Claus on the train. Jersey Central will give away three "HO" train sets to lucky ticket holders on each trip.

The round trip lasts about an hour and forty minutes. Ticket prices are $9 per adult, $6 per child.

Drive-by shooting intended victims mum

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Police are continuing the investigation of a drive-by shooting incident which occurred late last Friday night.

At about 2:20 a.m. Nov. 13 unknown suspects in a brown Buick drove by the Southside Shopping Plaza and fired shots at a two adults and five juveniles standing outside Dollar Video Store.

No one was hit but police did recover bullets and their shells. They said that they know what type of gun was used but cannot release that information at this time. Witnesses said there were three males in the Buick and believe the car's passenger side front door window is smashed out.

The shooting came after police arrested Reali Goode, 18 of Linden; Richard Harris, 18 of Plainfield; and a 16-year-old juvenile of Cranford in a fight which took place only an hour earlier in the same vicinity.

After his release, Mr. Goode returned to his vehicle parked at the Southside Shopping Plaza, 301 E. South Avenue, to find that his vehicle had been severely damaged, with all the windows smashed and the body dented. He was standing outside Dollar Video along with six other individuals when shots were fired a few moments later.

Police said that the three incidents may be related, but at this point they cannot verify a link. The shooting was not originally reported by the victims but by a number of witnesses. In fact, police said that the victims themselves have not been the primary providers of information.

At this point police believe that they know of everyone who was involved in the incident and are now checking out several leads in the process of figuring out who was in the Buick.

The case is being investigated by Detectives Patrick Gray and Ronald Allen. Anyone with information concerning the events surrounding this incident is requested to contact the Westfield Police Department at 789-4012.

In other business, police are still searching for the driver responsible for the death of Steven Kopelchak. Mr. Kopelchak was a victim of a hit-and-run accident on Central Avenue nearly a month ago.

Signs requesting witnesses help have been taken down from Central Avenue, but police are still open to hearing any new information. Police are still speaking with witnesses.

The Union County Crime Stoppers have posted a $6,000 reward, including $1,000 from the victim's family, for any information that will lead to the arrest and indictment of the individual responsible for the fatal hit and run.

Anyone with information regarding the hit and run may call 654-TIPS or Sergeant Clifford Auchter at 789-4008.

Chamber asks for donations for lighting

As the holiday season approaches, the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce is appealing to members, local businesses, landlords, organizations and individuals for financial support of the Holiday Lights Project. Contributions are needed to fund the annual display of illuminated decorations that brighten the central business district and welcome visitors and shoppers to Westfield during December.

"The generosity of Holiday Lights Fund donors last year will allow modest expansion of the lighted area, primarily filling in gaps on several streets," said William Moore of Classic Studio, chairman of the project. "In addition to our appeal to local businesses and organizations, we encourage the heart-warming practice of those who make contributions in memory of loved ones."

The Holiday Lights Project will install 115 displays this year, plus four new ones to be installed on South Avenue West and one on North Avenue at Clark Street.

Checks in any amount, payable to "Holiday Lights Fund," may be mailed to the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 81, Westfield, NJ 07091.

Woman calls cops from her closet as burglars rummage on first floor of Boynton Ave. home

A Boynton Avenue resident who was home when thieves entered her house was one of four people reporting burglaries last week.

At about 9:30 a.m. Nov. 18, the Boynton Avenue resident called for police help while hiding herself in a closet. The woman was on the second floor of her home when she heard noises coming from the first floor. Believing it was her mother returning home, the woman called out from the hallway.

When she didn't hear her mother respond, but heard instead strange voices saying "go! go!" she quickly realized that someone whom she didn't know was in her home. Grabbing the phone, she ran up to the third floor and hid in a closet until police arrived.

Police suspect that entry was gained through the garage door which was found open, or the side door. Pry marks and fresh paint chips were found near the door.

Once inside, police believe the burglars rummaged through the kitchen drawers until the resident called out, whereupon they left immediately.

About 12 hours later, a Central Avenue resident also reported a burglary and theft. Police believe that entry was gained through a bedroom window that runs alongside a roof. Police found a plastic garbage can which they think was used to get onto the roof, and a small wrench near the window which was held for prints.

The resident said that the first floor and the stairwell to the second floor were both alarmed. Police found only the second floor ransacked and believe that the suspects did not go downstairs.

A pillow case was found missing from one of the bedrooms, but it is unknown at this time what was stolen.

Earlier last week, an Elm Street resident reported burglary and theft of her second floor apartment. On Nov. 16, the resident reported that someone entered her home sometime while she was away on her honeymoon. She reported several pieces of kitchenware missing valuing a total of $350. Police found no signs of forced entry; doors were found locked and windows sealed.

On Nov. 21, a Doris Parkway resident also returned to find her home burglarized. The resident had been gone only one day. Police believe the suspects gained entry through a rear window on the first floor which was found ajar. Two bedrooms and the second floor were ransacked but it is unknown at this time what is missing.

Theft

Sevell's Auto Body on Windsor Avenue reported the theft of services. On Nov. 18, one of the tow operators went to tow a vehicle that was impounded by N.J. State Police because it was unregistered and uninsured. The driver's license was also revoked. The tow operator transported the driver and the vehicle back to Sevell's lot. When they arrived, the motorist said he would walk to the train station to call for a ride.

However, other tow operators said they saw him hanging around the impound lot. The original tow operator was in the office trailer when he saw the suspect in vehicle that he had just towed, driving out of the lot. He said that the vehicle was locked and Sevell's had the key.

Criminal mischief

A Ripley Avenue resident reported vandalism to his home Nov. 21. The resident reported that someone threw eggs at his home, damaging and staining the paint.

Both the resident and his wife are teachers in Westfield schools.

Accidents

An 84-year-old Mountainside resident is still hospitalized from a Nov. 21 accident. Ms. Helen R. Tag was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Westfield Rescue Squad at about 6 p.m., after hitting a tree on East Broad Street.

Ms. Tag said that she was traveling west down East Broad near Gallows Hill Road when she had difficulty seeing. She told police that she couldn't see that the roadway curved and she struck a tree on the opposite side of the street.

Four people were injured during an accident on Central Avenue on Nov. 17. While stopped at a light in the southbound lane on Central Avenue between North and South Avenues, driver Joseph Bruno hit the car in front of him, which in turn hit another car.

Christopher DeBose and Darryl Randolph of Elizabeth, and June Abramowski of Lawrence Harbor were all brought to Overlook Hospital by the Westfield Rescue Squad where they were treated in the emergency room and released the same day. Mr. Bruno was also brought to Overlook but was treated until his release on Nov. 18.

Business leaders see hope, harm in NAFTA

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

One week after the U.S. House of Representatives passed the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), area locals are hoping for the best. Although several companies in the area are confident that NAFTA will be an asset to the entire country, local small-businessmen and labor and consumer groups are not so optimistic.

Seventh District Congressman Robert D. Franks voted in favor of NAFTA last Wednesday. "NAFTA will enable us to tap into new markets for American products so we can build a more secure and prosperous future for American workers," he said.

According to Congressman Franks, Mexico is the sixth largest export market for NJ businesses, and with NAFTA this can only grow, bringing more revenue and more jobs to NJ.

Local companies such as Biach Industries Inc. of Cranford, Croll-Reynolds Co.

of Westfield, and Fanwood Chemical all expect to reap the benefits of NAFTA. All three companies expressed complete support of the House approval and feel that the benefits will go beyond their companies and into the overall economy of northern NJ.

Ed Panek, treasurer/controller for Biach Industries said, "we feel that it will increase productivity because we can sell more to Mexico. Along that line it should create additional revenues for the area." Biach is a designer and manufacturer of engineering tools.

The local companies all feel that without NAFTA, they are losing business to other countries. In other words, Mexico has been buying their type of products from someone else but now NAFTA opens the doors for their goods to compete in the Mexican market.

"It is a complete fallacy that Mexico doesn't have the economy to absorb our products, our overseas competitors have already been in Mexico," said Samuel Croll, president of Croll-Reynolds Co. "As far as international trade goes, if we are to be profitable in the future—that's where it's going to be."

Both Croll-Reynolds Co., a pollution control company, and Fanwood Chemical, a chemical marketing company, have already conducted a small amount of business with Mexico. They presume that this will increase.

Samuel Croll said that Mexico City is probably one of the most polluted cities in the world, and he hopes that his company will help battle this pollution with the ability to sell Croll-Reynolds' pollution control equipment.

However, NJ environmental groups feel NAFTA will only worsen pollution both in Mexico and the U.S. NJ Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) feels that U.S. companies will be tempted to move to Mexico to take advantage of weak pollution restrictions.

Moreover, the group believes that the influx of Mexican goods will in effect weaken our own U.S. standards. For instance, goods from NJ farmers may be turned back from Mexico because NJ has to deny Mexican goods due to its Farm Fresh Law. NJPIRG believes that situations like this will put pressure on NJ to weaken the food safety law, and eventually offer consumers poorer quality products.

"The agreement is fundamentally flawed in that it creates a threat to our own environmental laws and will only create more pollution in Mexico," said Andy Igreas of NJPIRG.

Union County's local Brotherhood of Teamsters also disapproves of NAFTA, saying that it will threaten safety standards in NJ, particularly highway safety. NAFTA presumably will open our highways to Mexican truckers, workers who don't have the same restrictions and protections as U.S. truckers.

Current transportation standards make our roads safer by controlling the hours workers can drive and how much sleep they must have as well as regulations for vehicle safety. President Frank Prainito noted Mexico's lack of licensing and safety testing for both the trucks and the drivers. "It's going to create major problems," Mr. Prainito said. "We expected a fair trade agreement not a free trade agreement."

President of Greco Custodial, Norman Greco has mixed emotions about NAFTA. Although he hopes that it will create more revenue and more jobs for NJ families, he expressed concern over the possibility of job loss and the welfare of local laborers.

"Now we can only take a wait and see attitude and try to look on the positive," Mr. Greco said. "This is a giant step and only time will tell."

Robert Newell, President of the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce does not see how NAFTA will impact the local business area. He does not think the local region has the kind of businesses that will be directly effected by the new trade agreement. Personally, Mr. Newell believes that NAFTA will be beneficial to the U.S. economy as a whole and will set the path for future trade agreements with other countries as well.

State demands shift in ShopRite plan

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Traffic engineer Henry Ney, witness for Village Supermarkets, may have to return to the ShopRite hearing again due to revisions mandated by the N.J. Department of Transportation (DOT).

The Westfield and Garwood planning boards are considering the site plan for a proposed ShopRite which would sit on the border of Westfield and Garwood on North Avenue. Mr. Ney was brought back to the Thursday's hearing in an effort to complete his cross-examination, after he was unable to attend October's meeting.

Mr. Ney completed his testimony in September, and both the Westfield and Garwood planning boards had completed their cross-examination. However, in his cross-examination Thursday, private attorney Brian Fahey revealed that Village supermarkets is being asked by the DOT to make some revisions in the site plan.

Mr. Fahey cited a letter sent from the DOT to Mr. Ney last month, which requested a number of revisions in the plan that Village Supermarkets submitted to the DOT. Concurrent with Village Supermarket's need to get approval from the Westfield and Garwood planning boards, they also need to get approval from the DOT.

However, Westfield Planning Board Attorney William Jeremiah reminded Mr. Fahey that "this is a site plan before the Westfield and Garwood Planning Boards, we have our ordinances and rules to follow, not what the DOT requires."

Mr. Lehrer said, "I don't think this is relevant at this time. We acknowledge that if there are any changes we will have to submit them to these boards. If we have to make amendments, then you may question Mr. Ney on them then."

Mr. Fahey continued to question Mr. Ney on the traffic increases at the intersections of North and Central Avenues in Westfield, North Avenue and Center Street in Garwood, and the proposed driveway and signal at the intersection of North Avenue and Chestnut Street.

After Mr. Fahey completed cross-examination of Mr. Ney, Mr. Lehrer brought back Village Supermarkets General Counsel Frank Sauro, who testified last month on the proposed store's operations.

Both the Westfield and Garwood planning boards completed their cross-examination of Mr. Sauro last month, but questions continued Thursday from residents and private attorney Bill Butler. Resident concerns focused on the size of the proposed ShopRite store and its proximity to Gumpert Park.

Last month Mr. Sauro compared the ShopRite to Garwood's Pathmark and said that the volume will be "significantly less." Westfield resident Beth Yonker asked Mr. Sauro they expect significantly less volume, why they need a store that is significantly bigger. Mr. Sauro said that size was not based on volume but on the ability to serve their customers well and offer modern conveniences.

Concerns about the proximity of Gumpert Park on Chestnut Street centered on the amount of truck traffic the store will generate and the safety hazards trucks may cause near the park.

"There are certainly ways that truck traffic could be prohibited through local ordinances," answered Mr. Sauro. "I certainly think it's a good idea."

Both residents and private attorney Bill Butler questioned Mr. Sauro on the amount of truck deliveries the proposed ShopRite would see. Mr. Butler compared the proposed store to the Elizabeth store, citing how many trucks he has seen at the store during different hours. Mr. Sauro admitted that some of Mr. Butler's numbers were surprising.

Mr. Sauro assured resident Bob Miller that truck deliveries would comply with any local ordinances regarding time of delivery or the amount of noise. However, both town officials said they did not know of any local ordinances which restrict truck delivery.

Mr. Butler also compared the proposed ShopRite to Westfield's Food Town. He asked Mr. Sauro why the site would need 290 parking spaces, 90 more than Garwood zoning allows and nearly 120 more than Food Town has, if ShopRite is expected to generate about the same amount of business as Food Town.

Mr. Sauro cited poor on-site circulation at Food Town which in effect causes off-site traffic problems. "Food Town parking is kind of like the mall at Christmas-time but everyday," Mr. Sauro said.

Mr. Butler and Mr. Fahey will complete cross-examination of Mr. Sauro at next month's meeting. In addition, Mr. Lehrer will present a new witness, Dr. Harvey Moskowitz, who will testify on planning issues.

EXCITEMENT VS. SECURITY

To feel secure and safe within our world is a basic human drive. We all make a concerted effort to cultivate stability, consistency and control in our lives. Without it, existence would be chaotic and highly stressful.

At the same time, human beings require varying degrees of novelty, excitement and change to prevent boredom and stimulate growth. Most of the time people are able to balance out these two seemingly conflicting needs.

Problems develop when they allow the need for excitement to undermine those things in life that offer a feeling of security. Overindulging in thrill-seeking behavior patterns can seriously erode the security everyone needs. Seeking professional counseling is a necessary step to bring an impartiality into the process of moderating excitement and security.

Thanksgiving '93

Early settlers took stock of positives and set precedent for us to do same

The first Thanksgiving at Plymouth, Massachusetts is much heralded, but not so well documented, it turns out. The legend is based largely on a pair of Pilgrim leaders' letters reproduced here in the spirit of taking stock of all for which we have to be thankful at this Thanksgiving, 1993, 372 years later.

Pilgrim Edward Winslow wrote this account of the first harvest at Plimoth Plantation to the financial backers of the expedition living back in London.

"Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling, so that we might after a special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors. They four in one day killed as much fowl as, with a little help beside, served the company almost a week. At which time, amongst other recreations, we exercised our arms, many of the Indians coming amongst us, and among the rest their greatest king Massasoit, with some ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five deer, which they brought to the plantation and bestowed on our governor, and upon the captain and others. And although it be not always so plentiful as it was at this time with us, yet by the goodness of God, we are so far from want that we often wish you partakers of our plenty."

William Bradford also reported on the colony's status at harvest time after about a year in New England. His account lends credibility to the first letter and further inspires the spirit of gratitude and of counting blessings.

"They began now to gather in the small harvest they had, and to fit up their houses and dwelling against winter, being all well recovered in health and strength and had all things in good plenty. For as some were thus employed in affairs abroad, others were exercised in fishing, about cod and bass and other fish, of which they took good store, of which every family had their portion. All the summer there was no want; and now began to come in store of fowl, as winter approached, of which this place did abound when they came first (but afterward decreased by degrees). And besides waterfowl there was great store of wild turkeys, of which they took many besides venison, etc. Besides, they had about a peck a meal a week to a person, or now since harvest, Indian corn to that proportion. Which made many afterwards write so largely of their plenty here to their friends in England, which were not feigned but true reports."

The Pilgrims' quiet perseverance and courage, and their humility and gratitude for the outcome are worth celebrating and emulating every day.

Health insurance is vital at this transitional period

By SENATOR BILL BRADLEY

(D) — U.S. Senate

Today, many New Jerseyans find that keeping a job, holding onto their family's health insurance, and saving enough money for the kids' college and their own retirement add up to an insurmountable challenge. Most are wondering why it's suddenly so hard to achieve these basic goals.

There is a reason. New Jerseyans are now facing a series of major economic transformations more powerful than any in 200 years. Though personal circumstances vary widely, many feel they've been swept into a surging river of economic change with very little to cling to.

In these times of transition, government must provide all Americans the economic security to weather the changes. Government must keep bad luck from running its full course while creating the right conditions for people to use their own initiative to stabilize and move forward.

The first of these transformations is the end of the age of ideology and the U.S.-Russian conflict. While the end of hostilities has produced widespread feelings of security, for millions of defense workers, peace has cost them their jobs.

Fortunately, New Jersey's military installations have vital missions in the post-cold war world. However, only 4.4 million people will be left in the defense industry by 1997, down from 7.2 million in 1987. An entire sector of our economy is rapidly downsizing, and few will remain untouched.

The second transformation is the literal explosion of the world markets. U.S. companies stand to gain the most of the world's three billion new customers by the turn of the century, creating thousands of jobs here at home. But some Americans will lose their jobs as our industries streamline to compete with the one billion additional workers producing tradeable goods.

The country is also adjusting to the knowledge revolution. Not long ago, a nation's strength was based on natural resources, labor supply and capital. Now, the key to economic strength is knowledge. Manual labor serving a machine can never match a computer serving man. That means countries with the most unskilled workers will have the worst economic problems, and successful work careers will be available only to those whose skills keep up with the demands of the new economy.

Finally, the national debt is crippling our economy. Government can't counter low growth by reducing interest rates, cutting taxes or making new investments because the money isn't there. I often cite a study that says if we do nothing about the debt, by the year 2020, our income will be 40% less than they otherwise would be. The debt is robbing our children of the belief that hard work usually yields reward.

To cope with the effects of these changes, all Americans need what I call an economic security platform: a guarantee of basic health coverage, an opportunity for lifetime education, and a guarantee of pension security.

Quality, affordable healthcare should be available to every American, despite job loss, changes, old age or serious illness. And we simply must control its costs.

And given the demands of a knowledge economy, the opportunity to advance and learn anew must be available for workers at every stage of their careers. Lifetime education means counseling, training and relocation. Access to education can be assured with direct loans, like my Self-Reliance loan program, which lets students pay back the federal government as a percentage of their future income.

Lastly, our current pension system is failing large numbers of our workers. Too many of them are facing uncertainty in their later years. When someone works and gets pension benefits, they should be able to take these benefits with them if they change jobs. Workers should have guaranteed benefits, companies should fund their pensions adequately, and government should assure that promises of income security for the aged are kept.

With an economic security platform limited to these components, people can live with less anxiety because job loss won't also mean catastrophic health costs or lost pensions, and lifetime education will offer the chance to start anew if you want to work for it.

What Americans don't need is a web of additional costly programs, work rules and regulations that dampen initiative and self-reliance. We must not prevent the market from efficiently allocating resources. But by giving assurance on health, lifetime education and pension security, Americans will be able to steer through these transformations and look to the future from a position of strength.

Thanksgiving message from leader of town United Fund

To The Record:

Thanksgiving is a distinctively American holiday, set aside for giving thanks for the blessings of health, food, shelter, family, friends and community. During the Thanksgiving season, many Westfielders who recognize how much they have to be grateful for say "thank you" by giving to the United Fund of Westfield, which helps maintain the quality of life for all in the community.

We are grateful to all who have generously responded to the 1993 United Fund campaign, and we urge all who have not yet sent in a pledge card to do so now, as a sign of "thanks-giving". By sharing their blessings, Westfielders can extend the spirit of Thanksgiving throughout the coming year.

In a past edition of the Friendly Place, a newsletter for Westfield Community Center Senior Citizen and one of the 20 agencies supported by our United Fund, contained the following inspirational poem which we would like to share:

Be Thankful
Even though I clutch my blanket and growl when the alarm rings each morning, thank you, Lord, that I can hear. There are those who are deaf.

Even though I keep my eyes tightly closed against the morning light as long as possible, thank you, Lord, that I can see. There are many who are blind. Even though I huddle in my bed and put off the effort of rising, thank you, Lord, that I have the strength to rise. There are many who are bed-ridden. Even though the first hour of my day is hectic, when socks are lost, toast is burned, tempers are short, thank you, Lord, for my family. There are many who are lonely.

Even though our breakfast table never looks like the pictures in the magazines, and the menu is at times unbalanced, thank you, Lord, for the food we have. There are many who are hungry. Even though the routine of my job is often monotonous, thank you, Lord, for the opportunity to work. There are many who have no job.

Even though I grumble and bemoan my fate from day to day, and wish my circumstances were not so modest, thank you, Lord, for the gift of life. Happy Thanksgiving!

Westfield scored well on postal patron survey

To The Record:

As we approach the hectic holiday season and our busiest time of the year, I want to let you know how well we are doing in providing you with the best service possible.

I'm pleased to report the following encouraging good news. A recent customer satisfaction survey compiled by the Independent Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, indicated that 88% of Westfield Postal customers rated our service as "Excellent, very good, or good" for 1993.

These results have placed a collective smile on all our faces, but we've still got work to do. As long as we have one unhappy customer, we can't afford to rest on our overall laurels, no matter how impressive.

This is why the employees of the Westfield Post Office are rededicating themselves to ease your holiday mailing burden and giving you some needed "Peace of Mind".

Traditionally, the United States Postal Service has always played a large part in your family's holiday celebration. This year we are putting an even greater emphasis on our holiday season performance. We are introducing "No Lick" holiday stamps, are setting up philatelic gift cases (where you will find some great gift ideas), and helpful mailing tips that will speed your holiday mail across town or across country.

The entire staff of the Westfield Post Office looks forward to once again becoming an important part of your holiday season. Remember "You get it here, we'll get it there!" The Westfield Post Office "Delivers for Yule".

Government thinking 'watershed' at last: great

By DAVID F. MOORE

N.J. Conservation Foundation

At last, government has embraced watershed management as the way to achieve better water quality. It's happened in other venues, and now in this state we're in.

Thus it is refreshing to see the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy (DEPE) starting to explore watershed-based integrated planning and permitting in the Whippany River drainage area.

Right now, many different permits are necessary to alter streamside habitats: wetlands, stream encroachment, flood plain management, pollution discharge, sediment control and many more, at the federal, state and municipal levels.

Each is governed by different bureaucracies, which seldom coordinate their activities. Developers sometimes find that one agency's permit requirements disagree with another's.

We seldom have adequate knowledge about a watershed and the human insults it suffers. Even a place like the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge has insufficient water quality and quantity information to affix blame on whatever polluters cause the most damage.

The Great Swamp is a sink-like piece of topography, with a relatively small drain at the southwestern corner of its watershed. So everything draining from civilization upstream ends up in the refuge. That's poison to the plants and animals for which it was created.

Luckily, in the Whippany, just to the north of the Great Swamp, the DEPE is planning a "basinwide ambient systematic survey," BAS$ for short, which should provide long-term, consistent monitoring of chemical and biological pollution. Regulators will know what effects regulation and development have as changes are made in the landscape.

That will provide data necessary to bring back water quality so once more, we can swim and fish in the Whippany and other New Jersey rivers without fearing contamination or disease.

You can find out more about the formative plan by sending me a card here at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, or calling DEPE's watershed pilot study at (609) 984-0058.

Samantha and Steven Treat with yet another turkey slow-roasted in their dell's 12-foot brick oven.

Treats welcome the holidays

By CHERYL NEHL
THE CHRONICLE

The Robert Treat Delicatessen on Quimby Street in Westfield has been helping families get through the holidays for 16 years. And this year is no different.

More than 50 turkeys will slow cook to a golden brown in the 12-foot deep brick oven starting Thanksgiving eve for customers who put their order in weeks before. By the time all is said and done, Farwood residents Steven Treat and his wife Samantha will have prepared turkeys ranging in size from 11 to 35 pounds. And those who opt to go this route won't be disappointed in the trimmings that are also available. From two kinds of homemade stuffing to side dishes of mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, turnips and every kind of vegetable you can imagine, each dish is prepared traditionally.

It is Steven's mother's own recipe for stuffing that customers enjoy, as well as a cornbread stuffing that is Samantha's own. Steven, whose father originally opened the business 16 years ago, took over the Quimby Street store in February. Since then, he and his wife want to provide "homemade quality food," to their customers and of course Steven's "good natured personality" is free of charge.

Steven points out that providing families with a way to have an excellent meal in their own home has become so popular that this year the business had to stop taking orders for turkeys more than a week ago. But although Thanksgiving week is hectic, the Christmas season is even more so says the 28-year old owner shaking his head in amazement.

"With the holidays as fast paced as they are," he explains, "why not turn the cooking end over to us. We make it just like Mom does, but without the hassle."

Despite the hustle and bustle the holidays bring, the couple enjoys making everything from scratch, using recipes that have been in both sides of the family for many years. Perhaps it is this eagerness to produce "good food for good value," that has kept the business thriving over the years. And while Steven and Samantha have only been managing the delicatessen since February, they haven't hesitated to make changes.

According to Steven, now that all the salads and other items on the menu are homemade, which they believe is important to consumers. And even though the couple works overtime Thanksgiving week to make sure customer needs are met, Samatha still has the energy to go home and prepare a complete dinner for the entire Treat clan.

Running a business like the delicatessen is a family affair, with even five-year old Steven Jr. pitching in to help decorate gingerbread houses for the holiday rush. Although running the business is more than full time, the couple manage to get home before 7 p.m.

in the evening.

"We made a commitment to offer the best to our customers and when you think about it there is a lot of satisfaction in knowing your meeting that goal," said Steven, as Samantha nodded in agreement. Still, it's easy to see that having an "easy going nature," is part of what keeps customers coming back.

Optometrists honor Dr. Suzanne Offen

Dr. Suzanne Offen of Westfield has received the American Optometric Association (AOA) 1993 Initial Optometric Recognition Award. The award is given to doctors of optometry who have completed 150 credit hours of continuing education in their field over a consecutive three-year period. About 1,900 of the nation's 27,000 practicing optometrists have earned the Initial Optometric Recognition Award. Dr. James C. Leadingham, president of AOA, praised the 71 recipients of the 1993 award.

Miller is to direct MainStreet funds

Westfield MainStreet has announced the designation of Richard Miller as director of funding.

"We have appointed Mr. Miller to membership in the finance committee because of his broad experience in the marketing division of Merck and Company and because of his many successful fund-raising efforts on behalf of a number of church groups," said Frank MacPherson, chairman of the MainStreet Economic Restructuring Committee. "Mr. Miller's dedication to the welfare of Westfield is a concomitant of his residence here for the past 25 years."

Cooking for Thanksgiving isn't easy, but consider days of hearth, hooks and heft

By CHERYL NEHL
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

If cooking Thanksgiving dinner has you running for cover, imagine what it was like in Colonial times.

At the Miller-Cory Museum, 614 Mountain Ave., Westfield, the cooking committee Sunday recreated the warmth and atmosphere of a traditional Colonial open-hearth feast. It was hard work Sunday and for thousands of years before.

Using authentic recipes and cooking methods of the period, Ann Douglas, Janet Murphy and Judy Murphy took visitors back to a time when the woman of the house had to not only do everything from scratch, but to begin preparations months before with the harvest of the garden. As for the turkey, there was no doubt it was fresh because it was raised just a few feet from the kitchen door.

The kitchen in a Colonial house was always the most cheerful and picturesque room in the home. Often the fireplaces were so large that a horse was needed to drag in the big fire logs. Kitchen fireplaces had a projecting inner bar on which rested hooks or iron chains in various lengths. Housewives hung pots and kettles at various distances from the fire, depending on the temperature required. These vast iron pots often weighed 40 pounds, but the brass and copper pots and pans that might hold fifteen gallons were housewives' choice possessions.

The cellar was well-stocked with bins of winter vegetables and barrels of salted or pickled meats and fish, as well as bags of sausages, large tubs of lard and many pounds of butter. It was here, beneath the house, that Colonial housewives went "shopping" for their Thanksgiving staples. Salt, spices and herbs were important in all early kitchens, but all had to be ground by hand. But these earnest, resourceful women were creative and inventive when it came to preparing holiday meals, and every member of the family participated.

After a hearty fire was built, a reflector oven, usually made of tin (also called a tin kitchen) would be placed directly in front of the fire and the heat reflected from the oven back roasted the meat. While the turkey roasted slowly, the women prepared the balance of the meal which often included a hearty chowder, a fall vegetable and, of course, desserts like bread pudding and pies made from fresh berries.

After the holiday meal the tables were pushed back against the walls and the big kitchen was made ready for "merry making," or games and celebration.

their lives enduring unrealized

Women of long ago lived out hardships.

Did you know that...

- From Indian neighbors, Colonial women learned to make many dishes prepared from corn or "Turkey Wheat," as the colonists called it. Corn soon became the mainstay of their lives.
- The colonists learned about "Boston Baked Beans," from the Indians who baked beans in earthen pots. Often beans, peas, corn and pumpkin were boiled together to make a kind of vegetable stew.
- Sometimes bread was baked in pans and in great mass and set on oak or cabbage leaves in the huge built-in brick oven to the side of the massive fireplace. A long-handled shovel known as a "peel," or "slice," rested beside the oven. This peel was sprinkled with meal, then great heaps of dough placed upon it, and by a dexterous twist of the wrist, thrown onto cabbage leaves or oak leaves already placed in the oven. This oven was only heated once a week.
- Apples were used fresh, but also dried or made into apple sauce or apple butter for winter use. Drying apples were strung on linen thread and suspended from the rafters. Sweet and sour apples were cooked in large brass kettles and sweetened with molasses since sugar was practically unobtainable.
- In many towns an autumn harvest of oak leaves was gathered by the children to be used through the winter. The leaves were strung on sticks and the gathering was known as "going-a-leafing."

Tips for cooking hearthside

The staff at the Miller-Cory House prepared the following tips for those cooking at the hearth in colonial attire.

- When there is a fire, two cooks must always be in attendance.
- Always wear clothing made of natural fibers. Wool, linen and ticking are best. When working over an open hearth, always keep your skirt close about you and out of the way of the fire. Check your skirt now and then to make sure it is not scorching.
- Hair should be covered with a cotton cap.
- Fill a large pitcher in the cupboard with cold water and keep on the work table. If you burn your hand slightly, you can plunge it into the cold water.

- When frying, take care to avoid splattering fat. Always place the food to be fried gently into the fat. Do not drop. NEVER, NEVER deep fry over the open hearth. The danger of upsetting the hot fat is too horrible to chance.
- Before removing hot pots, frying pans, Dutch ovens or reflector oven from the fire, make sure you have cleared a place to set them.
- Keep a bucket of sand close at hand and a wool cape for beating out a fire.

Note: Fire was the second leading cause of death in colonial days; child birth was the second.

How 'The Turkey' became the talk of my family

By CHERYL NEHL
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

I will always hold dear to my heart the way Mom and Dad made holidays special. It never mattered how bad the economy was or whether Dad was on strike, tradition reigned on Thanksgiving.

Several weeks before the momentous day, Mom would start talking about "what we were going to have to eat on Thanksgiving." Not that the menu ever changed. Of course, Mom tried a few new recipes every now and then, but they usually were met with disdain by Dad and us kids. We were not interested in having candied yams with marshmallows, stuffing made with sausage and pine nuts or pumpkin chiffon pie. We were diehard supporters of the same old dishes Mom's mother used to make. That was what tradition was all about.

Meanwhile, back in the little house where I grew up, the fanfare began when Mom brought the turkey home from the supermarket along with about 10 bags of groceries. But the turkey took center stage from the moment Mom lugged it from the car into the kitchen. No one in the family ever received compliments like a turkey did in our house. The turkey, a person in its own right, was doted on and praised from the minute it came out of the bag until the very last spoonful of turkey soup was consumed a week later.

"Take a look at that bird," Mom would say to Dad while gazing at the bird lovingly. "I think it's the best one we've ever had, don't you?"

"It's a real beauty," Dad would respond, eying the turkey the way he did a new Chevy. "We're going to get some good meat off that bird, Hon. You really picked a good one this time."

Of course Dad said that every year, and Mom always said the turkey was "the best we ever had." In our family you not only were raised to respect your elders, clean your plate and not talk back, but to pick out the "best turkey we ever had."

Preparations for Thanksgiving dinner began the night before when Mom began peeling, scraping, soaking, rinsing, chopping, blending and mixing things in a variety of "Pyrex" bowls. Ultimately the counters were filled to overflowing with concoctions in different stages of preparation, with Mom racing between the refrigerator and the counter in order to do six things at once. I don't know how Mom did it, but somehow all the contents of the bowls resulted in the bountiful feast that graced the table each and every year.

Shenanigans

By Cheryl Nehl

By the next morning Mom would begin to show the strain of her marathon cooking binge. Hair sticking up, flour dusting her face and a look of desperation in her eyes were enough signals to send all of us out to a football game or away from the general vicinity of the kitchen.

By the time we returned from the game my grandparents had arrived with the pies. Every year Grandpop carefully wrapped Grandma's pies in homemade cardboard boxes, brown paper and about 80 yards of string. I don't know what he expected to happen to those pies in the mile-and-a-half trip to our house, but it was his contribution to the effort and he took it very seriously. Everyone always raved about how solidly the pies were wrapped and how wonderful it was that Grandma had baked two pumpkin and two mincemeat pies. Even though they did the same thing each and every year.

In the interim Mom would be looking frantically for the scissors so she could cut the string, asking between clenched teeth, "Where are the scissors." The entire time I was growing up no one knew where the scissors were, and Mom always wound up muttering under her breath about pies, turkeys, kids, no help and how "next year we will eat out." Of course, we never did eat out the next year, but suffering was part of the cooking ritual. And Dad always would say, "We shouldn't try to take that (suffering) away from them."

At last, Mom would call us to dinner, and the table would be laden with the fruits of her labors. Mashed potatoes, candied yams, creamed onions, mashed turnips, cranberry sauce, homemade rolls, Mom's famous stuffing, olives, celery, gravy all lay waiting in the beautiful once-a-year dishes, not to mention the turkey, which was a vision.

Dinner conversation centered on how the food was prepared, how good the food was, where the recipes came from, and, of course, about how good the turkey was (a subject that had not yet even begun to have its surface scratched).

Afterward, as we sprawled on couches, chairs and the floor suffering from over-indulgence, my mother and grandmother started the two-hour process of cleaning up. A momentous occasion in itself. After the last pot was dried, the once-a-year dishes put away, the table wiped clean, 10 bowls of leftovers covered and squeezed into the refrigerator, the turkey covered to cool on the stove top, Mom looked like she had had it.

But it never failed that just when Mom began to have that "I can't stand up another minute" look, Grandma would say sweetly, "I don't think we have to fuss too much for dinner, do you, dear?" Mom never answered. She just knelt down on the floor and put her head in the oven, obviously at the end of her rope with the entire Thanksgiving ritual.

Of course, no Thanksgiving holiday was ever complete without discussion about how the turkey was cooked. From "I think this is the juiciest bird we ever had," the memorial to the turkey went on and on, until the last bone was in the garbage. But even long after the turkey was gone it still was eulogized.

"That was such a good turkey wasn't it, Hon?" Mom would say to Dad out of the clear blue sky a few weeks after Thanksgiving.

Dad, gazing lovingly at Mom would reply, "It was the way you cooked it, Hon, that made it so tender and tasty."

No turkey ever had a more fitting memorial.

Capitalism in Siberia to be speech topic

"Capitalism Comes to Siberia" will be the theme of a talk by Robert M. Bishop at the next "First Wednesday" Dutch-treat luncheon to be held in Raymond's Restaurant, Westfield, at noon Wednesday.

Mr. Bishop, a former Westfield resident currently residing in Scotch Plains, will describe his assistance this past July to the two-year old Siberian Stock Exchange in Novosibirsk, Russia.

As the former Soviet Union moves from state-owned industries to privatization, Mr. Bishop's expertise was applied in creating a market for privatization vouchers and shares in nearly half of the Russian business and industries in the Siberian regions. A highlight of his month-long visit was an aerial helicopter overview of Siberian cities, agriculture and industries.

Mr. Bishop retired in 1986 as senior vice president and chief regulatory officer of the New York Stock Exchange. Since retirement he has counseled stock exchanges and government securities regulators in Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe and the Caribbean in 24 projects averaging one month per project. He returned just this month from similar projects in Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

Although sponsored by the Westfield Historical Society, these monthly luncheons are open to the public. However, Toastmaster William B. SIDELINES

All-County

Three gymnasts from Westfield High School were named to the All-Union County first and second teams. Jill Smith made the first team on the balance beam and received second-team honors in the vault, uneven bars, floor exercise and all-around. Senior Brandi Kovac was a second teamer in bars, beam and all-around. Dana Fizzell, another senior, earned second-team status in the vault and floor routine. Candidates were selected on the basis of ranking an individual's top five dual meet scores.

Adult hoops

A limited number of openings are available for an over-35 men's recreational basketball league for local residents. Play begins this month from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and continues until April. For more information, contact David Rehner at either 789-4335 (business) or 232-4993 (home).

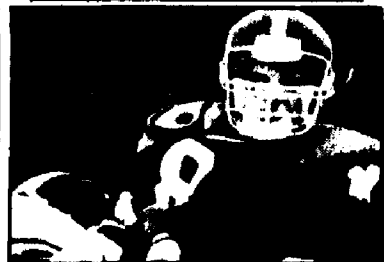

Softball signups

This spring, Westfield Girls' Softball will offer a new league for second and third grade girls. Designed to introduce girls to the sport, the league will emphasize instruction and skill development through relaxed, fun-filled games and practice sessions. Registration will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Roosevelt Intermediate School. All Westfield residents are welcome. Call Bill Nicol (233-7081) or Bob Guerriero (654-1799) for further details.

Fencing Club

The Westfield Fencing Club is becoming increasingly popular in town, which is largely due to professional instructors Tom Tomko and Tom Boutsikaris. During each Saturday session, which meets at the Redeemer Lutheran Church at Cowperthwaite Place and Clark Street, youth and adults learn to use an epee, a foil, and a sabre. One of the goals is competition, both within the Club and at regional gatherings of fencing clubs. The early winter sessions of the Club, a component of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, have already begun and will continue until Jan. 22. All levels are welcome, from beginners to experienced, youth and adult, male and female. For further information call the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts at 789-9696.

The Hot Spot

The football team will attempt to break a three-game losing streak and help send head coach Ed Tranchina out as a winner in his final game when the Blue Devils host rival Plainfield at 11 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day. Westfield, which holds a 39-38-5 edge in the all-time series, has won 21 of the past 26 meetings.

SUZY FOLGER
Junior, Soccer

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

When she steps onto the soccer field at the beginning of a match, Westfield's Suzy Folger usually receives little attention from opposing teams.

Maybe it's her unassuming look, her diminutive frame or the way her baggy shorts swim around her thin legs.

But, once No. 2 gets her feet on the ball, opponents take notice. The striker combines speed, a hard shot and the ability to control the ball deftly with either foot with a persistent determination that has become her trademark.

"I'm so glad I've never had to play against her," said fullback Laura Todd. "She's little, but she's tough. She can get knocked down 16 or 17 times a game and still get back up right away. It's such an inspiration to see her on the field because she never gives up. She fights hard until the end of the game."

"Suzy is a very tenacious player," said senior tri-captain Christie McGovern. "She keeps going strong, even when she's knocked down. Because of her size people aren't intimidated. But, once she starts playing she's feared by many."

The striker proved last fall's 11-goal, six-assist performance during her first varsity season was no fluke. The junior was the Lady Devils' second leading scorer this year, denting the twine 13 times while assisting on eight other goals.

Folger is The Westfield Record Female Athlete of the Season.

Folger elevated her game when Westfield needed it the most. Whenever Lexi Tourtelotte, the team's leading scorer, was sidelined with an ankle injury or was double-teamed, Folger often took it upon herself to pick up the scoring slack.

"When Lexi went down this year Suzy stepped up and did the job," said head coach Pete Giordano. "She really responded. Everyone asked me where the kid came from. I knew where she was all the time. It wasn't like she couldn't put the ball in the back of the net."

Teammates will remember Folger's never-say-die attitude during losses in the sectional and county finals. Against Randolph and Union Catholic, Folger was continually knocked over and pushed down, but rebounded quickly each time to sprint for every loose ball and chase down opponents.

"In the Union Catholic game she was getting so many cheap shots," said McGovern. "She got pushed down so many times and was beaten. But, she never stopped. It brought her game up instead of bringing it down."

Folger, a three-sport athlete who celebrated her 16th birthday Monday, developed her aggressive style as soon as she started playing for the Lady Devils. She discovered the only way to respond to rough tactics was to be tough herself.

Memory lane
Special moments dot storied
Westfield-Plainfield rivalry

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

As the current playoff format continues to pillage traditional Thanksgiving Day football games, many anticipated holiday rivalries are quickly becoming an extinct species.

With one exception.

It seems that no matter what the circumstances may be, the annual Westfield-Plainfield game will endure.

As the state's longest running rivalry, the Cardinals and Blue Devils have met every year since 1944. The first game was played in 1903 and the two teams have battled a total of 82 times, with Westfield holding a 39-38-5 edge.

Even though the rivalry has lost a bit of its luster over the past decade, the feeling of history and ritual surrounding the series is unmistakable.

"What makes it special is because it's a long-term, uninterrupted series that isn't one-sided," said Westfield High School Principal Dr. Robert Petix, who has not missed a Thanksgiving Day game in 13 years. "It's a community event. People of every age come back to take part in this Westfield experience. It's part of the glue that holds Westfield High School together."

"It's always very big," said current head coach Ed Tranchina, who has 6-1-1 record against the Cardinals. "A lot of guys who played in past games will be up in the stands and the guys on the field want to hold up the tradition."

As you would expect, some constant factors will always enhance the rivalry. The fact that the seniors will play their final high school game before a multitude of family and friends on the morning of Thanksgiving Day adds to the flavor.

"It's the Super Bowl for most kids because most of them don't play after that," said Gary Kehler, who led the Blue Devils to an 18-5 record during his 22-year coaching stint at WHS. "Another thing is that you don't get any closer friendships than the ones that are formed in high school. Everyone from school and all the relatives come back and you want to perform for them."

"It's a culmination of a football career and by having a traditional game you look forward to it and anticipate it."

"I remember in Dave Brown's senior year (1987, a 35-6 victory) we had large group of tight-knit seniors," recalls current defensive coordinator Ron Barner, who has been on the Westfield sidelines for the past 14 seasons.

"Near the end of the game the seniors literally did not want to come off the field. They walked off slowly because some of them knew when they came off they would get revenge

in M of C

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Following last week's Group 4 meet at Holmdel Park, the boys' cross-country team from Eastern High School celebrated its narrow first-place victory over Westfield by whooping it up directly in front of the Blue Devils.

The two teams actually tied for first, but the Camden County school was awarded the trophy because its No. 6 runner finished ahead of Westfield's sixth fastest runner.

Last Saturday, the Blue Devils exacted a measure of revenge against the Vikings, as Westfield returned to the same course and placed third overall in the Meet of Champions.

Westfield accumulated 133 points and finished well behind Christian Brothers Academy (46 points) and North Hunterdon (64). Eastern came in sixth with 189 points.

"Group 4 was a letdown, but Saturday helped a lot and made the season," said junior Ted Kilcommons, Westfield's No. 3 finisher on Saturday. "Losing to Eastern sure did motivate us. I know it got me fired up."

"We absolutely wanted revenge on Eastern," said Adam Barcan. "At the Group 4 they were shouting and rubbing it in that they won."

Westfield competed in the Meet of Champions for the first time in eight years and emerged with its best finish since 1976, when it won the season-ending event. All in all, the harriers surpassed their own expectations.

"I didn't expect it, but I knew we were capable of it," said head coach John Martin, who set a pre-race goal of winning a medal and finishing as the No. 1 public school. "We improved a lot and I think some teams had a letdown after the group championships."

"I didn't think we'd be third," said Barcan, who crossed the line as the team's sixth fastest runner in 18:21. "I thought we'd be in the top five, behind CBA and Paul VI."

Not surprisingly, heralded freshman Matt Elmuccio led the charge for Westfield. "The Mooch" broke the existing freshman course record, set by North Hunterdon's Brad Hudson in 1981.

Elmuccio made his big move near the top of the bowl at the two-mile mark, where he was in 14th place. The ninth grader finished with a strong kick, passing 10 runners over the final mile and placing fourth in the state in a time of 16:27.

Elmuccio did not do it alone. Senior Andy Ruggiero

Hamrah finds Fountain of Youth at the Big M

By JOSEPH W. SAMULKA
THE RECORD

The world of harness racing at the Meadowlands race track in East Rutherford is being dominated by the young.

In his mid 30s, John Campbell is the track's leading driver in purse money. The leading trainer is Monte Gelrod, in his late 30s, and the top horse on the grounds, 4-year-old Staying Together, set a world record in the mile in 1:48.2.

Still, there is enough room in the industry for elder statesmen George Hamrah, 85, and his record-setting pacer Instrument Landing, 12.

The former long-time Westfield resident who moved to Scotch Plains, and his horse, shattered the Meadowlands track record for most victories by a standardbred on Apr. 18, by winning on a sloppy track.

Instrument Landing, the offspring of Flying Bret and Real Lace, collected his 44th victory at the Big M, adding three more victories to pad his total.

The record-setting day was one which Hamrah had looked forward to for quite some time. However, the $15,000 claimer made the owner wait nearly two months for the 43th victory. Hamrah, who had put off some personal business to be at the track when and if the day would come, began to wonder if his horse would ever get the tie-breaking victory.

Well, the day did come and it did in a driving rainstorm. Instrument Landing won the $7,000 purse by 5 1/4 lengths. There was some doubt whether the horse had a victory left in him during the nearly two-month hiatus from the winner's circle.

"I was very elated when he broke the record," Hamrah said. "I had postponed going to Florida so I could be at the Meadowlands."

Veteran French-Canadian Mike Lachance, who was the horse's driver that night, took Instrument Landing to the lead right out of the starting gate and continued in front wire-to-wire. The pacer covered the half-mile in a quick 66.3 seconds, but the cagey standardbred still had enough kick home to win.

"I was crazy about him as soon

Standing by the side of jockey Mike LaChance, long-time Westfield resident George Hamrah (wearing a hat) proudly holds up a sign which commemorated Instrument Landings' record-setting 44th career victory at the Meadowlands. The 84-year-old owns Instrument Landing and two other standardbreds.

Memories

never be on any football field ever again. It was a great sports moment and one of my most touching moments."

"This year's meeting takes on added meaning because it will be the last game in Tranchina's coaching career. Tranchina replaced Kehler, who retired as the athletic director on Aug. 31.

"We've already discussed that we don't want to win the game just for ourselves," said senior tri-captain Ron Nobile. "We don't want him to go out a loser. We want to give the game to him."

Over the past 30 years there have been some highly entertaining and memorable contests. In particular, the games during Kehler's and Tranchina's rookie seasons stand out.

Anyone who braved the driving rain and almost-freezing temperatures will never forget the scoreless tie played in Westfield in 1985.

"It was the last game played at the current Gary Kehler Stadium and the field conditions that day validated the need for a new drainage system.

"That was the coldest, rainiest game in my life," said Tranchina. "I remember Plainfield had one kid in the hospital for two days."

"The lasting memory from that game was when Ed and I held up a player in the showers after it was over," said Barner. "We literally had to hold him up to keep him there. It was the worst conditions I've ever been involved in."

Kehler will always remember his first Westfield-Plainfield game in 1961, while trying to forget his last one in 1982.

In 1961, Plainfield entered the game with a 7-1 record while the Blue Devils were undefeated. Westfield capped a perfect season with a 13-6 triumph.

Thirteen years later, Kehler's son, Glen, scored every Westfield point in a 31-14 victory. The running back scored a touchdown on the ground, returned a punt, a kickoff, booted a field goal and went 4 for 4 on extra points.

During a five-year stretch from 1976 to 1980, Westfield did not permit a Cardinal touchdown while winning six straight, including a 34-0 playoff romp.

In 1979, a goal-line stand late in the fourth quarter allowed Westfield to escape with a 3-2 victory. The Blue Devils held Plainfield one yard short of the game-winning touchdown, then took an intentional safety with seconds left to preserve the victory.

Three years later, Plainfield broke 14 consecutive years of Kehler-led Westfield dominance. The Cardinals ruined Kehler's last game as head coach and broke a 15-game losing streak by recording a 21-3 victory.

"It was such an emotional game for so many people," said Barner. "The papers did a really big spread on it and all that week everyone was talking about Gary's last game. It was really magnified and the whole day was put under a microscope."

was the second Westfield runner across the tape, placing 42nd in 17:19. Kilcommons was 18 seconds behind Ruggiero in 58th place. Don Cambria (17:54) fought off a stomach illness and was 83rd, while Lawrence Ho finished in 17:58, good for 93rd place. Barcan and John O'Brien (18:22) also competed for the Blue Devils.

Plainfield at Westfield

Date: Thur., Nov. 25
Time: 11 a.m.
Location: Gary Kehler Stadium on Rahway Ave. in Westfield

The Cardinals (2-6)
Following five consecutive losses to begin the year, Plainfield's defense has stepped to the forefront, resulting in vastly improved play. The Cardinals sandwiched decisive victories over Kearny and Cranford around an 8-6 loss to Irvington (6-1-1), a game they led for three quarters. The defense, which limited an explosive Blue Knights' offense to just 90 yards, has scored one touchdown in each of the past two games. Interception returns by LB Rayland VanBlake and DB Ken Dickens have accounted for 12 of the team's last 36 points.

On offense, junior QB Jermaine Thomas complements his quickness and mobility with a five arm. Thomas hooked up with FB Melvin Brown and WR Steve Brunson for a couple of long pass plays during Plainfield's 30-2 dismantling of Cranford last weekend. TB Antoine Chrisp and Brown comprise the Cardinals' primary threats out of the backfield.

The Blue Devils (2-5-1)
You can be sure anyone who was on the Blue Devils' sidelines for last year's embarrassing 14-9 loss at Plainfield will be especially motivated for this year's edition of the state's longest running high school series. As long as Westfield can prevent, or at least reduce the amount of mistakes they have been making at critical junctures, it stands a great shot at avenging last season's setback.

Southpaw QB Stephen Cheek, a junior, has been improving with every outing and will be looking for FB John Mask and TE Mike Mitchell on dump-off and screen passes. Junior TB Ewynn Lyght, who has gained exactly 700 yards on the ground this fall, is looking to rebound from back-to-back 24-yard rushing performances against Elizabeth and Linden. Of course, the offensive line of LT Andrew DuPuis, LG Matt Palumbo, C Marc Phillips, RG Ron Nobile and RT Steve Moninger hold the key to Lyght's success.

Westfield Fencing Club
The Westfield Fencing Club is becoming increasingly popular in town, which is largely due to professional instructors Tom Tomko and Tom Boutsikaris. During each Saturday session, which meets at the Redeemer Lutheran Church at Cowperthwaite Place and Clark Street, youth and adults learn to use an epee, a foil, and a sabre. One of the goals is competition, both within the Club and at regional gatherings of fencing clubs. The early winter sessions of the Club, a component of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, have already begun and will continue until Jan. 22. All levels are welcome, from beginners to experienced, youth and adult, male and female.

For further information call the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts at 789-9696.

Local Card Show
The Clark-Cranford Coachman stamp, coin and baseball card show will be held on Sunday, Dec. 26, at the Coachman Days Inn on 10 Jackson Drive in Cranford from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A wide range of choice United States and worldwide stamps, coins, post cards and covers will be on display and offered for sale at attractive prices. In addition, there will be dealers with extensive stocks of sports cards for sale. The public is urged to bring any material they may have for sale because the participating dealers will be ready to purchase anything they need for their stocks. Call 247-1093 for more information.

Turkey Trot enters new decade
The Friends of Westfield Track and Field will hold the 10th Annual Westfield Five-Mile Turkey Trot rain or shine on the morning of Nov. 27, at Tamaques Park in Westfield. Colleen Bodayia, President of Friends of Westfield Track and Field, said the track program aims to provide more scholarships and improved equipment for its athletes with the money raised at the Turkey Trot. Currently, the Walter Clarkson Award is the only scholarship for Westfield High School athletes.

Girls' varsity track coach Thomas Hornish stated that the event has grown into one of the biggest races of the fall season. He explained one reason is the date, which is close to Thanksgiving.

The Five-Mile Race will start at Tamaques Park and continue around neighboring streets, before finishing in the park. The race is open to all ages and trophies will be given out to first, second, and third place male and female winners, according to age categories.

The Tamaques Mile will be held entirely inside the park and is restricted to Westfield students in grades four through nine. The One-Mile Fun Run, also conducted solely in the park, will award first, second, and third place trophies to male and female. Medals will be awarded to all finishers in the One-Mile Fun Run. All ages are eligible to run.

The race director of the Turkey Trot is Peter Mogendorff. For information, call Mr. Mogendorff at 654-5591, Mrs. Bodayia at 233-4395, or Peter Anzalone at 654-3625.

Suzy Folger

"I started playing that way in high school because the coaches told me to play aggressive," said Folger, who ran three miles a day and played soccer with the Central Jersey Stars and in the Garden State Games during the summer. "When I got by people they would take a cheap shot at me. It happened a lot when I was a freshman and that's why the coaches told me to be aggressive."

Folger's perseverance was illustrated many times during scrambles in front of the net. While four or five players from each team battled for the ball in the crease, Folger would frequently find her way through the crowd to score.

"She's not afraid of anything," said Giordano. "She can be physical herself."

To maximize your vehicle's performance, and satisfy your safety concerns, STS has the "Tire Specialist".

At each STS location, you'll see a person dressed in a bright red shirt with script lettering identifying him/her as our "Tire Specialist." HOW ABOUT A TIRE FOR $5.95?
Recently, in Florida's Orlando Sentinel newspaper, a tire dealer offered size 145R10 Michelin ZX tires for $5.95. Sound great? Not unless you're driving a 1958 Austin Mini-Cooper. At STS, we advertise sizes that fit the most popular vehicles on the road. We won't insult your intelligence with obvious bait and switch tactics.

42,000 AND COUNTING
Last month we serviced the needs of over 42,000 customers. That number has grown steadily for over thirty five years. Why? Because people want to go where they're recognized, are appreciated, and are satisfied. STS meets that criteria and more. P.A.L. FOOTBALL

Westfield and Summit closed out the Police Athletic League football season on Sunday at Gary Kehler Stadium with the Blue Devil B Team capping its undefeated season with another shutout victory in the final contest of the day. Westfield won the B Division League Championship for the second year in a row and went the entire season without giving up a point.

Summit C 26, Westfield C 0

Westfield won the loss, started the game with the ball and went three plays and out. Summit took over and went three plays and in, scoring on Tremaine Fogg's 35-yard run that set the tone for the game.

The larger Hilltopper squad — composed mostly of sixth graders, compared to Westfield's predominantly fourth and fifth grade crew — scored in each quarter. In addition to his first quarter score, Fogg had an 8-yard run and a 3-yard touchdown run, while Mike Nelson ran 47 yards for Summit's final score late in the game. Adam Breeno kicked two extra points.

The overmatched Devils, needing some razzle-dazzle, came out for the second half showing a new look installed this week by coaches George Giresi and Bruce Baker. Westfield overshifted to the right side, splitting four men wide on the line of scrimmage and alternating two flankers or setbacks to the same side.

It took the boys some time to get the system working, but by the end of the end of the game the Devils were starting to gain some yardage on pitchbacks by David King to Mike Mroz and King's 13-yard pass to Glenn Hurley. Louie Mercer, Blair Richardson and Kirt Giresi also gained yardage for the Devils. Jake Dupont and Matt Daly stood out on defense with their hard tackling.

Summit A 25, Westfield A 8

Things started quite well for Westfield. Robbie McCullam intercepted John Brown's dying quail of a pass on Summit's first play of the game. Then Blue Devils drove 52 yards in 10 plays on their second possession, with Bobby Baykowski scoring on a quarterback sneak to give Westfield the early lead. Matt Hughes' booming conversion kick increased the advantage to 8-0.

It's hard to tell just how things went wrong, but for the second time this season, the Devils gave up four touchdowns in losing to the Hilltoppers. Summit, which won 29-0 on Oct. 3, amassed nearly half of the total points scored against the Westfield A Team this season in the latest renewal of an intense rivalry between neighboring towns.

Penalties played a big role in Westfield's downfall. Offsides and facemask calls against the Devils nudged a Hilltopper drive along early in the second quarter. Brown's pass to Robbie Baraboe gained 18 yards to the Devils' 12-yard line and Baraboe carried in three plays later from the 2 with 6:56 remaining in the half.

All-around stand out Greg Montgomery, perhaps the most versatile player on the Blue Devils' roster, blocked Brown's conversion kick, leaving Westfield ahead 8-6. Baraboe reeled off a 53-yard run to the Westfield 3 on Summit's next possession and quarterback Scott Schroeder ran it in on the next play to give the Hilltoppers a 12-6 halftime lead.

The Devils seemed poised to counter-attack in the second half, but faced with a third-and-12 at their own 33 on their first series of the session, safety Dominick Ferraro picked off Baykowski's pass intended for Jason Osborne and returned it 45 yards for Summit's third score of the day. Schroeder's pass to Brown added one more point.

With the wind definitely taken out of Westfield's sails, Ferraro scored again moments later on a 47-yard sweep down the right sideline one play after his teammates blocked Osborne's punt.

The result spoiled Osborne's productive afternoon. The slender speedster gained 112 yards on 13 carries and had one reception in a losing cause. McCullam, in addition to his interception, caught two passes for 23 yards in a drive that had reached the Summit 10 when time expired in the first half. Jason Krieger, Sam Edge, Rasheed Hawks and Montgomery stood out on defense.

The Blue Devils, led by the enthusiastic coaching of Tim Doerr, Joe Walsh, Ken Ciarracca and Greg Gorski, finished at 4-5.

Westfield B 20, Summit B 0

With starting quarterback Brandon Doerr absent, Kevin McCormack stepped up to lead the B Devils to their 17th consecutive victory. The result was sealed on the third play from scrimmage when Lamont Turner broke free from a crowd of tacklers and raced 59 yards into the Summit end zone to make the score 6-0 with 10:28 remaining. Jim Korn's conversion kick was wide to the left, only his second miss in 27 tries.

Less than five minutes later, after Turner's fumble recovery, Korn scored on a quick hitter up the middle from 12 yards out and this time nailed his extra point try to give Westfield a 13-point advantage before Summit had run their second play from scrimmage. After the Hilltoppers' third offensive play, the Turner and Korn combo struck again, causing and recovering Matt Dill's fumble.

Todd Dowling, the Devils' bruising fullback, took turns with Turner hauling the pigskin toward the Summit goal. Turner scored yet again, on a 10-yard sweep with 23 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

At that point, the rout was on and it seemed unlikely that Westfield had scored its final points of the season, especially after linebacker Phil Oraini snared his fourth interception of the season early in the third period. Pat McMahon and Chris Giaccone took over the rushing duties and ground out yardage efficiently, obviating the need for an air attack.

The defense still had to go to work as the game wound down because Summit mounted a late threat. The Hilltoppers reached the Westfield 25 before the Devils held on a critical fourth down play which allowed them to run out the clock.

Greg Freisen, who kept pressure on Summit quarterback Josh Upsey all afternoon, led the defensive charge with Norris Brown and Kenta Barr. Meanwhile, Todd O'Connell, Brian Russo, Dowling, Turner and McCormack all contributed with big tackles. Greg Edgreen heard his name announced on nearly every play for Summit.

The B Division champs went 9-0 and scored 207 points while permitting none. The B Devils were led by coaches Jay Factor, Paul Harbaugh, Dean Fizzell and Doug Kehler.

DIANE MATFLER/THE RECORD

Alyssa Gray of the Westfield Sting (No. 16) tries to get by Vicky Kerby of the Franklin Lazer (No. 17) during Sunday's match in Westfield.

George Hamrah

as I got him. He's a very honest horse and gives you all that he has," Hamrah said. "In most of his races he always goes out to the front end. Sometimes he was ahead by six or seven lengths at the quarter pole."

Hamrah was the President of five carpet stores in New Jersey and was in the carpet business from 1930 to 1980, when he lived in Westfield and was civically active as President of the Lions' Club and the Little League baseball. Later that year he moved to Scotch Plains to live with his daughter Denise and her husband.

The way Hamrah and Instrument Landing became linked is quite an interesting story. A friend of the Scotch Plains resident, who went to Freehold Raceway, knew trainer Marshia Gardner, who was notorious for 'resurrecting' horses who had failed with other trainers.

"I called her up to make a deal with her. She told me how much it would cost me for training expenses and I said OK," Hamrah said.

The first time she trained a horse for me I expected to win," he said. It was obvious that Gardner, one of the first female trainers in the state, restored Hamrah's confidence because he had bad luck with other trainers in the past.

She became the sole trainer for Hamrah in the early 1980s and trained approximately 20 horses for him. Because of her honesty and loyalty, Hamrah listened to Garndner when she told him to claim (buy) Instrument Landing eight years ago for $50,000 from owner Melvin Papkoff of Woodbury, N.Y.

It was a wise investment for a horse which had earned $615,623 in his career. Besides the Apr. 16 triumph, Instrument Landing's most prestigious victory came at the mile oval in Syracuse in August in a 2-year old stakes race with Hall of Fame driver William O'Donnell in the sulky. The owner, trainer, and driver shared the $34,470 purse.

The pacer has run in a class as high as $75,000 claimers, but is currently racing with $10,000 claimers at Garden State Park in Cherry Hill, N.J.

Hamrah introduction to harness racing is also intriguing. After retiring, Hamrah needed something to do, so he and three doctors became partners and bought some race horses almost 15 years ago.

"I retired and I had nothing to do and I had some money," Hamrah said. "I just needed a hobby. I didn't do it for the money."

Hamrah explained he was fed up dealing with his partners because they decided to stick him with the payments and red tape. About 11 years ago he decided to break off the partnership with the three doctors and tried to tackle the sport by himself.

"I enjoyed (harness racing) and that's why I'm still alive today," Hamrah said. "It's really kept me awake. I would feel like an old man without it."

Real Estate Guide

The New Jersey Association of Realtors will hold its annual convention, "Get Set to Soar in '94," Nov. 30-Dec. 2 in the Trump Taj Mahal, Atlantic City.

The convention will feature talks by Wally "Famous" Amos, and former professional football player Rocky Bleier. Educational sessions will focus on agents, their sales and management techniques, such as buyer brokerage, mega-million dollar secrets, and managing a winning real estate office.

For more information, call the NJAR at 494-5618.

Sondra W. Epstein, a sales associate with Weichert, Realtors' Warren office, has tied for the office's top producer award for the most listings in September.

Ms. Epstein has been a licensed real estate professional for nine years. She holds a bachelor's degree in biology education from the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut. A longtime resident of Watchung, she is a member of the American Association of University Women, and the Organization for Rehabilitation and Training.

tation and Training.

Leon Thomas Hughes, a sales associate with the Warren office of Weichert, Realtors has earned the office's top producer award for the highest dollar volume in September.

A licensed real estate professional for five years, he is a member of the Somerset County Board of Realtors. Mr. Hughes formerly managed Bridgewater Oaks, a condominium community. He is a resident of Somerset County.

Weichert, Realtors has begun its 15th annual Holiday Toy Drive.

Weichert offices will collect new toys for needy children through Friday, Dec. 10. Anyone interested in participating may call a local Weichert office for more information, or may drop off a new, wrapped toy at any local Weichert office.

The Westfield office will kick off the drive 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Nov. 20. Anyone who brings a new, wrapped toy to the office at 185 Elm St., will have his or her photograph taken with Santa Claus. The toys will be distributed to local charities. For more information, call 654-7777.

A sales associate with Weichert, Realtors, Joan Vogelsang has tied for the Warren office's top producer award for the most listings in September.

Ms. Vogelsang has been a licensed real estate professional for 10 years. She holds the Graduate, Realtors Institute professional designation. She is a Warren Township resident.

He was the office's top producer for the highest dollar volume and the most sold properties during the first six months of this year. He has already qualified for the company's 1993 President's Club, an honor achieved by only 1 percent of all Weichert sales associates.

Mr. Madalone specializes in marketing properties throughout North and South Plainfield, Plainfield, Green Brook, Bridgewater, Warren, Watchung, Dunellen, Westfield, and Scotch Plains. He is a member of the Somerset and Middlesex counties, and Westfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, and New Providence Boards of Realtors. He is a lifelong South Plainfield resident.

altors, has attained the New Jersey Association of Realtors' Graduate, Realtor Institute (GRI) professional designation.

She is on the board of the Union County Chapter of New Jersey Association of Women Business Owners (NJAWBO). She has been a resident of Cranford for 30 years.

Member brokers of the Electronic Realty Associates network can now use their ERA member broker's computer to view high-resolution color photos of listed homes nationwide.

The service integrates the personal assistance of a local agent with innovative technology. The database of homes listed with ERA

Automotive Guide

The '94 Mitsubishi Galant has been widened, lengthened, and continues to use the company's trademark cutting edge technology.

Mitsubishi's Galant is a new generation

The extremely competitive mid-sized car market has been tough on Mitsubishi.

Last year, only 24,000 Galant sedans were sold. Its class competition outsold it by many hundreds of thousands and its own stablemate, the Eclipse sports car, outsold it two-to-one.

But that was last year. This '94 new-generation Galant has been widened, lengthened, and continues to use the cutting edge in technology in which Mitsubishi is well-known in the automotive world. In vogue these days is the "Americanization" of imports, and the Galant is built in the U.S. at that all-American "normal" town of Normal, Ill.

The Galant is offered in four trim levels: the base-model S, mid-level ES, sporty GS and the model we tested, the upscale LS.

OUTSIDE

The Galant's newness is everywhere for 1994.

A size increase has stretched the car to 187 inches in total length, which is now longer than most others in its class. Interior volume has grown to almost 110 cubic feet of usable space, which quickly becomes apparent when four full-sized adults climb inside.

A blend of innovation, sensibility and value presents an argument that the Galant is a good mid-sized value. Mitsubishi's lowering of the roof line and rounding of all corners eliminated the top-heavy look of its predecessor, and brought its looks closer to that of the competition. A low .29 drag coefficient is down from last year's model, and even the underside of the car uses "aero" technology. Our model's directional alloy wheels gave it an appearance nearly identical to the GS.

INSIDE

Four adults will find great comfort in the cabin, which is tastefully designed around a 140 mph speedometer, tachometer, fuel and coolant temperature gauges, all located within easy sight of the driver.

A center sun visor, found just above the rear view mirror is one of those "Why don't all cars have this?" niceties. Interior trim pieces are finished clean and feel tight, which is necessary for longevity.

The Galant is a driver's car, with map pockets and storage areas everywhere. Inside the trunk is a storage bin that will easily fit jumper cables (for other cars, of course) and a small tool kit. All the amenities such as cruise control, intermittent wipers, rear defog and a power driver's seat are found on the LS model. Even with two air bags, a large glove box is integrated into the dash. A powered glass sunroof with a sliding shade is standard on the LS.

BEHIND THE WHEEL

Grab the leather-wrapped steering wheel, adjust the tilt mechanism to suit your driving style, and push the throttle pedal down. The single-cam inline four cylinder engine is slightly underpowered until the tachometer reached 4000 or so.

Our model featured a four-speed automatic transmission with a special feature called "fuzzy logic" and more important than how it works is what it does. The feature keeps the transmission in a lower ratio on downhill grades, using engine compression to control speed. Conventional transmissions upshift to the next higher gear, causing the car to gather speed, which requires extra use of the brakes.

Four-wheel independent suspension on the LS is semi-firm, yet smooth. Goodyear Eagle tires came on our LS and provided good grip — especially on wet pavement. A 30-second electrical reserve enables the closing of the power windows or sunroof should the key be pulled from the ignition.

ON THE ROAD

Twin electrically powered outside mirrors are handy while headlight controls, turn signals and wiper switches are stalk-mounted, and the radio antennae rises automatically. The handling of the Galant LS is predictably mild with a slight built-in understeer for safety while the acceleration is adequate.

SAFETY

Available ABS, dual airbags, and a reinforced undercarriage are new, while CFC-free air conditioning refrigerant helps the environment.

SUGGESTED OPTIONS

Anti-lock brakes (ABS) are an option, as was the AM/FM cassette with a compact disc player.

We recommend both and feel that the extra 19 horsepower and beefier undercarriage available in the Galant GS would be most desirable.

Old favorites return to toy market in '93

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

It's the toy-buying season again.

Time to pick your way through the mine field of the competitive toy industry and select playthings that will please today's sophisticated youngsters -- and bring a bit of intelligence and stimulation into the home.

This year's crop of new toys combine high-tech gadgetry with the usual fads -- but parents will be happy to note a return of some of the old-fashioned classics they grew up with.

Erector Sets are back

The new version of the popular building set, produced by Meccano, comes in both traditional metal and new-fashioned plastic versions -- complete with those tiny little screws and screwdriver.

Lego introduced two new systems to their market-dominating line this year -- Ice Planet and Wizard World -- that have "Legomaniacs" everywhere panting, but a newcomer to the building-kit market seems to be giving Lego a run for its money this year. K'Nex plastic construction sets are color-coded, snap-together kits that were rated one of the top toys by a panel of kids sponsored by the Duracell U.S.A. battery company.

The Duracell panel also loved Milton Bradley's Loopin' Louie game, Fisher Price's Radio Control Racer, Pressman's Zoom Ball, and the updated classic, Crayola's Designer Lite Desk among other new products.

Other new versions of classic toys include the venerable Etch-a-Sketch by Ohio Arts with a new color version that uses markers and paper. Toymax's Creepy Crawlers Workshop is a re-working of an old favorite using "plasti-goop" and molds to cook icky insects over a light bulb. The Vac-U-Former is also by Toymax, and molds sheets of plastic into custom-sports car bodies to be painted and decorated by kids.

Barbie still user-friendly

She's an astronaut. She's a doctor. She's a model. What can't that girl do? This year Barbie and friends come in a new western-motif Stampin' Horse version while her sister, Skipper, comes in a Mermaid Twin set that many girls have their eye on.

This year's feverish addition to the Barbie world is the Fold 'N Fun House, a fully furnished doll house that, mercifully, folds into a carrying case.

If you want a break from Barbie, Disney has entered the fashion-doll market through Mattel with a number of Barbie-sized Disney characters -- Aladdin and Jasmine are the most popular this year, but Snow White is also strong.

Violence is Out

Blazing guns and gory monsters are less visible on the toy market this year. A "kinder-and-gentler" kind of weaponry in the form of soft foam Nerf projectiles are selling well, including Nerf Arrow Storm, a six-shot arrow gun; Nerf Slingshot and Nerf Blast-O-Matic.

Computer games are still hot

This year's sizzler will be the Genesis CD-ROM player according to Fran Cooperstein of UVT Video in Scotch Plains. She says the hot new game is the ultra-violent Mortal Kombat by Sega Genesis. The new Madden Football and Nintendo Tecno-Bowl football are expected to be big, too.

Portable games are holding up well, too, according to Mrs. Cooperstein. "The new portable Game Gear system has become very popular because it's in color -- Game Boy is in black-and-white," she said. "These are things kids can put in the car and take with them on trips."

Panasonic targets adult kid market

Every year around this time, there's always some adults who look at the new toys on the market and say "Gee, I wish that was around when I was a kid."

Well, if you're one of those people, there's a new toy that's impressive enough, high-tech enough, and even practical enough to justify its purchase, even if you don't have any kids.

Perhaps toy isn't the best word to describe it, but the new Panasonic REAL 3DO Interactive Multiplayer is sure to make the big kid on your list go totally crazy when he finds it under the tree. Like the Phillips CD interactive system, which made an impact on the consumer electronics market last year, the Panasonic makes full use of interactive technology, but it is being marketed more as a fun and games system than the Phillips unit, which touted heavily as an educational tool in addition to its other uses.

However, there will be educational software titles, while the 3DO system can also be used to play compact discs, display photo CDs, and video CD movies with an optional Full Motion Video (FMV) cartridge to be introduced, along with other optional gadgets and software titles, early next year. Home video editing and special effects, along with MIDI musical instrument capabilities, are still more options being considered.

But the games, which employ specially-designed, ultra-fast animation and sound processors drawn from the vast storage potential of the CD format, are the big attraction. The images feature impressive 3-D effects and near-photo quality, while the action offers performance levels up to 50 times greater than 16-bit video game systems like Sega and Super Nintendo.

In more technical terms, that means the 3DO systems can process up to 64 million pixels per second, while 16-bit systems can only process one million per second. The 3DO can also produce up to 16 million colors, compared to a 250-color capacity for the 16-bit systems.

"Crash 'N Burn," a combat racing game developed by Crystal Dynamics, is packed with the unit, while future releases include "Total Eclipse," "John Madden Football," "Star Trek: the Next Generation," "Dragon's Lair," "CPU Bach" and "Shelly Duvall's It's a Bird's Life."

The retail price of the Panasonic REAL 3DO Interactive Multiplayer is steep -- $699.95 (including "Crash 'N Burn" and a second CD loaded with brief interactive programs), so you may want to wait until after Christmas to see if it catches on, which should result in deeper discounts than are currently available. But if that's not too much to spend on your special big kid, the system looks like a winner -- unlike many other game system companies that have come and gone over the past decade or so, Panasonic is a huge company with the reputation for supporting their products.

—William Westhoven

Panasonic has entered the CD interactive marketplace with the REAL 3DO Interactive Multiplayer, which plays games, photo CDs and audio CDs, among other capabilities.

'Kidvid' choices for Christmas

What's hot and what's not in children's video for the holidays

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

So your kid has been serenading you with chorus after chorus of "Prince Ali/fabulous he/Alibaba," taking you on journey after journey to the cave of wonders and insisting that — in public — you call him Abu.

Well, that's natural; Disney is selling more copies of Aladdin ($24.99) than anybody ever sold of anything before, ever.

The scary part is, Christmas is still weeks away! What can you do to top this?

Well, nothing, really. But you can consider scores of other video titles for children's gifts. "Kidvid," as it's called in the trade, is the most profitable niche of the video marketplace, and with the staggering success of such recent titles as Beauty and the Beast, Fantasia, The Little Mermaid and the Home Alone series, no one is eager to be left out in the cold.

So, relax. No matter what age group, what gender, what taste in video entertainment, there's something out there for your child, should you decide to go the video gift route. And occasionally, you can actually find something that you wouldn't mind horribly if you had to sit through yourself. But not too often.

Keep in mind that any prices given in these listings are suggested retail prices. Just about every store in the world that carries these things will discount them. If you actually paid $24.99 for Aladdin it's a decent bet you got it at the Disney Store (and even there, you can find occasional sales).

Consider: this is the season of Free Willy (Warner Home Video; $24.96), that heartwarming tale of an orphan boy and the emotional attachment he develops to a captured whale. Of course, it's just about like every other orphaned-boy-develops-emotional-attachment-to-fill-in-animal you've ever seen, but at least it's topical. My 4-year-old doesn't follow the story very well, thinks the whale's name is "Free Willy" and gets bored in the middle, but he loves it. Go figure.

Those lovable folk at Disney haven't given up on all other movies just because Aladdin is raking in cash by the bushel, either. The Muppet Christmas Carol (Jim Henson Home Video; $22.99) is a re-re-telling of Dickens' classic (if over remade) tale, starring Kermit, Miss Piggy (in what amounts to a cameo) and Michael C. (just cast me, I'll show up!) Caine as Scrooge. There are jokes that parents will get and kids won't, the songs are extremely average and the guy doing Kermit ain't Jim Henson, but give it its due: the Muppets know how to put on a show. Now, let's get Congress to pass a moratorium on Christmas Carols until the Old Couple version stops being re-run.

Dennis the Menace (Warner; $24.96) is an embarrassment to Walter Matthau, Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson and any audience member over the age of nine. But some kids are just going to laugh at the slapstick, even if it's bad slapstick. On the subject of slapstick, Tom and Jerry (LIVE; $19.99) could have used more of the stuff, since that was what made their vintage cartoons tolerable. As it is, the speaking voices, singing, dancing and moralistic plot are not going to thrill children or adults.

Not all kid releases are from big movie studios, and not all are exactly familiar. Something like The Secret of the Seal (Celebrity Home Entertainment; $24.99), for example, is an example of something that was animated (sort of; the characters move their mouths occasionally) with European children in mind, then brought to the United States with the idea that anything marked "heartwarming" with a picture of a cute boy and a cuter seal on the cover would sell like hotcakes.

As it is, the movie opens with a boy watching his mother die in a hospital (from "pollution-related diseases" — how's that for a light touch?) and then goes on to document his growing attachment to a rare seal and his almost getting that creature's mother killed, too. More sensitive children might have a hard time; less sensitive kids are likely to be bored out of their skulls.

Just about every possible character has been dug up and stuck into kidvid programming. Although they're not scheduled for release until January 26 (and Lord only knows why), four episodes featuring Raggedy Ann and Andy (CBS video; $9.98 each) will aim at the little-girl market so often ignored by TV programmers and video marketers. So if your daughter, especially, doesn't mind waiting a month for a Christmas present, consider. Already in the stores for a while are a series of titles featuring Spot (Disney; $9.98 each), the lift-the-flap book dog for toddlers.

There are recycled TV shows to be found for those who like a Christmas theme: Turner Home Entertainment is releasing such shows as How the Flintstones Saved Christmas, A Christmas Story (no, not the Jean Shepherd live-action feature) and Yogi Bear's All-Star Christmas, all at $9.98 each. For what they are, they're fine. Just don't expect a Disney-scale spectacle.

For that, you've got to head for Aladdin, assuming you haven't done so already. Even if the movie suffers whenever Robin Williams' genie isn't around, and if the songs suffer from the only partial participation of the late Howard Ashman, it's still head-and-shoulders above anything the rest of the animation world is providing (and, in some cases, the rest of the entertainment world in total). Sometimes, the public just buys something because it's good.

New video selections kids will be sure to ask for this holiday season include (from top): The Muppet Christmas Carol, Aladdin and Dennis the Menace. Listen when they ask for the first two, but change the subject when they ask for Dennis.

Allan Sherman revived at the Forum Theatre

Late comedian's memorable song parodies basis of 'Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh'

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Does the name Allan Sherman ring a bell? If not, it's a good bet, no matter what age you are, you know the song Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh, which just happens to be the title of the musical comedy revue opening Wednesday at the Forum Theatre in Metuchen.

A lot of folks don't remember Sherman, in part because he died in 1973. But "Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh" is on the tongue tip of anyone who's ever participated in a campfire sing-a-long.

Sherman, though, was far more than one-hit wonder, having penned scores of song parodies, many featured on the top-selling albums My Son, the Folksinger and My Son, the Celebrity.

His old albums, most of which were recorded in the early '60s, are all out of print, but Rhino records has reissued several compilations, the best of which is My Son, the Greatest: The Best of Allan Sherman.

Perhaps the best way, however, to experience the magic of Allan Sherman will be at the Forum, where Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh will be presented for the first time since it's successful off-Broadway run closed at Circle in the Square back in June of 1992.

The Forum's production, though, boasts an added attraction — Rob Krause, who developed the story along with Doug Bernstein, will star in the production as Barry Bockman, whose life from birth to retirement frames this high-spirited musical revue.

Krause, a lawyer ("In my family, it's 'my son, the lawyer,'" he joked) who also works as an administrative law judge for the City of New York (investigating complaints for the Taxi and Limousine Commission, of all things), says his law work helps to underwrite his passion for writing and performing.

"Even when I was in college and law school, I was always involved with performing," said Krause, who's put his day job on the back-burner for the moment. "And when I was growing up, my parents bought Sherman's records and I grew up listening to them."

"About six or seven years ago, my mother was cleaning up the house, and told me to come over and pick up some of my things, or else she was going to throw them out. When I opened one box, there were my Allan Sherman records, and when I played them, all of a sudden all the lyrics were coming back to me and out of my mouth."

Inspired by the discovery, he secured the rights to the songs from Sherman's estate and, with Bernstein, began to work the songs around the life story of fictional Barry Bockman, a merging of the Jerry Bockman character from the song "Sarah Jackman" and the title character of the song "We'll Call Him Barry."

Forum Theatre favorite Vicki Tripido and other cast members will play several roles in the comedy musical revue Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh.

"We see him through birth, going through elementary school, his first date, and follows his life all the way up to retirement in Florida," said director Peter Loewy, who also grew up listening to Sherman songs.

"He was one of the first, before Weird Al or Tom Lehrer, to start writing parodies of well-known songs," said Loewy. "He was very clever satirizing events of the day, or taking things out of Jewish life. He was very clever."

He wasn't much with a melody, having bombed on Broadway with a musical featuring his original songs and music, called Fig Leafs are Falling. But give him a catchy tune, and he'd warp the lyrics until you couldn't stop laughing. He also wrote for Jack Gleason and created the game show I've Got A Secret early in his career.

But his greatest legacy are the songs, which Loewy feels can be enjoyed even if you're hearing them for the first time.

"The show will be nostalgic for some; certainly they will bring back some memories," Loewy said. "But you don't have to remember the songs to appreciate them. In fact, a whole new generation will start finding out what Allan Sherman is all about."

While the show is thin on plot, it's long on laughter.

"It's just a good time," said Loewy. "An old-fashioned comedy revue and a terrific holiday show with many yucks."

The cast also features Joanne Bortes, Jack Kirk and Paul Wheelahan along with Forum favorite Vicki Tripido, with the entire cast, including Krause, playing a variety of roles.

"When it was first being developed Doug and I decided we couldn't be both actors and writers," said Krause. "Now that it's about to go on a national tour, and I heard they [The Forum] were doing it, I asked if I could audition."

"I'll tell you one thing — it's a lively, faced-paced show, and all my muscles ache from rehearsal. I now have a great respect for anyone who does the full time."

"There was no deal made in advance," said Loewy of Krause's casting. "It just turned out he was Barry Bockman."

HELLO MUDDAH, HELLO FADDUH

Special events planned for GSP world premiere

The George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick will offer several "theme nights" during its upcoming world-premiere production of Summer Feet Hearts, which begins previews Saturday and opens Friday, Dec. 3.

Young Professionals Night (Thursday, Dec. 2) will be dedicated to area professionals interested in socializing and networking, while Lambda Night (Thursday, Dec. 9) has been organized for the lesbian and gay community to serve as an alternative to the bar scene and a way for patrons to meet others with an interest in the arts.

Both events will include a pre-play hot-and-cold buffet and cash bar at the nearby Raritan River Club, a ticket to the play and a post-play get-together. The buffets will begin at 6 p.m., with the play to follow at 8 p.m. Tickets are $25.

The final event, the Half-Century Singles Party (Sunday, Dec. 19) is for patrons born in 1950 or before. The party includes a 2 p.m. matinee showing of Summer Feet Hearts, followed by a wine and hors d'oeuvres reception held in the theater's Benny Rubin Cabaret. Tickets are $22.

Summer Feet Hearts tells the story of three generations of Southern women affected by the return of their prodigal father/grandfather. The theater is wheelchair-accessible and offers large print and braille programs at every performance. For more information about any of these special events, call the box office at (908) 246-7717.

Model Railroad Club invites public to annual show in Union

By ANNIE ALPERT
WeekendPlus Writer

"Half our members come down here because they aren't married — the other half come down because they are," Model Railroad Club member Scott Dunlap chuckled.

The club has been building scale layouts since 1949 and now has a single 40-by-40 foot operating display housed in a Lenape Park building. Club members built the clubhouse themselves in 1971 and donated it to the Union County Park System.

The uniquely-designed building has no windows — security hazards — and an eight-foot raised floor that creates a labyrinth beneath the 1600-square-foot layout for access the thousands of relays and wires in the system. A balcony allows visitors to see the entire layout at once.

"Model railroading is an unusual hobby," said Bob Salfi, 51, a club member for 12 years. "It uses a lot of different skills. There's a breadth of things you need to know — engineering, systems, electrical wiring, woodworking, carpentry."

"We spend a lot of time on it," said Dunlap, 38. "It keeps us out of trouble."

The club's annual holiday show is coming up and the public will be treated to a specially choreographed light-and-sound tour of the layout from Pittsburgh to Hoboken. The layout is a 1:87-inch HO scale model — a fully-operational 1950s-era recreation running on actual railroad timetables simulating actual time. Speedy passenger trains and lumbering freight trains wind their way through tinyhills and valleys. Familiar towns are populated with tiny people, autos and even Burma Shave signs by the roadside.

The sprawling layout has been a labor of love for the 75-member club for two decades of painstaking construction. Members are mostly men, although there are a few women in the club. "We have a couple of professional railroaders, too," said Mr. Dunlap. "Conrail employees, New York Metro and Amtrak. They can't get enough, I guess."

The club is currently working on an ambitious plan to triple the already impressive layout by building an addition onto the building. They will do all the work themselves, from pouring concrete to digging sewer lines and electrical wiring. The 10-year expansion project is expected to cost $200,000 before all the dust settles, Salfi said. It will expand the track size to 50-by-120-feet, making it one of the world's largest.

"In 1971 the county gave us the land to use for the club," Dunlap said. "The Union County Parks and Recreation Department sponsors us and the county picks up the trash, but outside of that we're on our own. We pay our own expenses through dues but money for expansion comes from our annual holiday show and donations."

The holiday show lasts for three weekends after Thanksgiving — November 26-28, December 3-5, and December 10-12. Hours are 7-10 p.m. Fridays, noon-9 p.m. Saturdays, and noon-6 p.m. Sundays.

The clubhouse is located off Route 22 East at the end of Jefferson Avenue in Union. Admission is $4 for adults and $1.50 for children 12 and under. Senior citizen discounts are available on request. Group rates are available by advance registration at (201) 373-2762. For more information call (908) 964-9724, evenings and weekends, or (908) 964-8808 for a 24-hour recording.

In addition to the holiday show, the Model Railroad clubhouse opens every Saturday for open house from 1-4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 75 cents for children

Brass bands slated to usher in holiday season of music

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Time to trumpet the holiday season.

Musical ensembles throughout New Jersey are currently hard at work, preparing their holiday programs that are as big a part of this joyous season as turkey dinners and presents under the Christmas tree.

Lovers of brass, especially, will want to make special note of performances scheduled for the next two weekends. Sunday, the Westfield Community Concert Band's Brass Ensemble will add a festive note to the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony at the Northside Train Station in Westfield. Santa Claus will also be on hand as the ensemble performs Christmas carols beginning at 5 p.m.

Wednesday, Dec. 1, the entire Westfield Community Band will join the Roosevelt Intermediate School's Sharps and Flats at the Clark Street school for an evening of holiday songs beginning at 8 p.m. The audience will be invited to sing along, and admission will be free of charge.

Back on the brass bandwagon, the Merck-sponsored New Jersey Artists Series at Raritan Valley Community College in North Branch will begin with a Christmas concert by the Solid Brass, New Jersey's answer to the Canadian Brass, on Saturday, Dec. 4.

The 11-member ensemble (including one percussionist) includes several professional musicians who have appeared with the Metropolitan and New York City operas, the New York City Ballet and other Lincoln Center orchestras. Together, the Morris County-based group has toured extensively throughout North America, featuring a varied repertoire ranging from Medieval to classical to contemporary — they're as fluent in Bach as they are in Sousa, Scott Joplin and Duke Ellington.

Along the way, they've garnered critical praises from the likes of The New York Times and Fanfare magazine.

The variety, and the autonomy, are two of the things that make playing in the Solid Brass as fun as it is to listen to them.

"It's our thing, and there's a great deal more freedom playing in a group like this," said trumpet player and arranger Douglas Haislip, comparing the experience of playing with the Solid Brass compared to being a part of a larger orchestra. "You're not being directed to play in a certain style according to the conductor's wishes. There's much more freedom to be able to express yourself in a way we feel comfortable with. And we like to have fun while playing."

Their carefully-chosen program will begin with a suite of Medieval carols, arranged by Haislip for the modern brass instruments that did not exist during that time. Bach will be represented by Wachet auf, while other classical selections will include Christmas Day by Holst, excerpts from The Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikovsky and Handel's Hallelujah Chorus.

Other selections will include French and German carols and the traditional "Greensleeves."

"There will be something for everyone, unless what you're into is Nirvana," said Haislip, referring to the band, not the state of mind.

The New Jersey Artists Series, which is being underwritten by a $50,000 donation by the Merck Corporation, will continue at RVCC's Edward Nash Theatre next year with the return of the New Jersey Symphony on Jan. 15, the New Jersey Ballet on Feb. 26, and Nicholas Rodriguez and Dance Compass on May 7.

Tickets for the individual performances are only $10, while season subscriptions for all four performances are $37.50. For more information, call (908) 725-3420.

SOLID BRASS 8 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, at the Edward Nash Theatre, Raritan Valley Community College, Route 28 and Lamington Road, North Branch. Tickets $10. (908) 725-3420.

Musicians unite for the recorder

Highland Park Recorder Society aiding ancient instrument's comeback

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

The recorder is making a comeback, and the Highland Park Recorder Society is hip-deep in the middle of the revival.

The Highland Park Recorder Society, Inc., a chartered chapter of the American Recorder Society, is a non-profit organization whose members meet regularly to make music and, in general, "cultivate and foster a love and appreciation of the art, history and literature of the recorder, and to raise the level of proficiency in the performance of the recorder."

The next meeting of the Society will begin 7:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Presbyterian Church, 100 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick, and all recorder players, including non-members, are invited to join in.

Sharon Seeman, a New England Conservatory of Music graduate who has conducted the Rutgers Summer Arts Institute's Chamber Ensemble, will be the guest conductor for the meeting. The program will include a variety of English ballads, Bach fugues, Mozart fugues and Scott Joplin rags.

Meanwhile, offshoots of the Highland Park Recorder Society include two groups, including a new ensemble called Cantabile, which will make its performance debut during a songfest of community choruses Sunday, Dec. 5, at the Reformed Church of Highland Park, 23 South Second Ave. For more information, call (908) 249-7349. Another performance will be held 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19, during the annual Festival of Trees at the Somerset County Park Commission Environmental Education Center, 190 Lord Stirling Rd, Basking Ridge. For more information on this program, call (908) 766-2489.

The program will feature such works as Quartetto in F Major by Alessandro Scarlatti and Bach's Sinfonia No. 3 in B Flat Major.

Cantabile members include founder-president-music director Donna Messer of Highland Park, Sheila MacRae of Princeton, Virginia Kenney of Bernardsville and Lou Dutter of Somerville on recorder, supported by cellist Janet Walker of Highland Park and harpsichordist Eva Botal of Somerset.

Another branch of the Highland Park Recorder Society, the Tuesday Tootlers, meet weekly in the Highland Park home of leader Jewel Fisher, and have a performance, augmented by cello and keyboard, in January on a date, time and place yet to be announced.

The entire Highland Park Recorder Society will also perform for the public during their Consort Night in May of next year, again at a date, time and place yet to be announced. For more information about the Society, call Messer at (908) 828-7421.

Marilyn Rosenberg, Jewel Fisher and Marjan Scheik of the Tuesday Tootlers, an offshoot of the Highland Park Recorder Society, perform during a concert at the Cornelius Low House Museum in Piscataway.

Wine with Reason Marilyn Cormack

Zinfandel is a most misunderstood grape. To begin, a vast majority of people believe it comes in one color - white. In fact, it does come in only one color but the color is Red. The blushing liquid so popular with Americans now is what happens when you don't leave the Zinfandel juice on its skins long enough to achieve full color absorption. Zinfandel, at its best, is deep, jeweled red, almost inky black in saturation.

Another mystery surrounding Zinfandel is where the heck the grape came from. While some theories point to Italy as the place of origin, many viticulturists believe Zin is a true American grape. Just when you think the votes are in on this debate, someone comes up with new evidence one way or the other. I personally think we can find the "Roots" to the grape in Italy, but that's only until I read another paper on the subject.

A last point of contention about this wine is when do you drink it? Some claim it should only be drunk young, within five years, when the wine is showing its youthful vibrance, its fresh raspberries and spice flavors. The other school feels that old Zins show such silky tannins, such mellow, deep dried fruit flavors, that it's a shame to drink them young. I've had big, beautiful, young Cline Zinfandels that were mouth-filling and zesty. I've also had a 1978 Louis Martini Zin that was earthy, velvety and a near religious experience. I guess more research is needed. Oh, well!

If you're looking for some fun bottles to try, pick up Cline 1990 Contra Costa County Reserve, Consentino Russian River 1991, Coturi Sonoma Valley 1990, Frey Mendocino 1990, Grgich Hills Sonoma County 1989, Hidden Cellars Mendocino County 1990, Kenwood Sonoma Valley Jack London Vineyards 1990 or 1989, Deloach Russian River 1990, Louis M. Martini Paso Robles 1989, Robert Mondavi Woodbridge 1990, any Zin by Ravenswood, Seghesio, Ridge, and the people who started it all, Sutter Home. Enjoy!
