Briefs

Westfield plans Haunted House

Plans are being formed for the seventh annual Haunted House 5-9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 31 at the Westfield Memorial Pool.

More than 3,000 people attended last year's event, according to the Recreation Commission. Admission is $1 for adults, free for children 5 and under.

To volunteer for the event, call 789-4080.

Fanwood slates Halloween parade

The Fanwood Recreation Department will hold its Halloween parade Friday, Oct. 31.

Marchers should meet in costume 6:15 p.m. at the Fanwood Memorial Library. The parade will step off 6:45 p.m. and proceed via Martine and Marian avenues to La Grande Park. Prizes will be awarded in various age groups for costumes and the jack o'lantern contest. If your child is decorating a jack o'lantern, bring it to the park between 4-6 p.m.

Doughnuts, cider and coffee will be served.

Pumpkins for sale in Scotch Plains

Parents of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood pre-kindergarten students will be offering pumpkins for sale 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at the Scotch Plains Municipal Building. The raindate is Sunday.

All pumpkins are freshly picked and reasonably priced. Profits from the sale will be used to purchase instructional materials for the classrooms.

Scotch Plains sets Halloween parade

The Scotch Plains Recreation Department has scheduled its Halloween parade for Friday, Oct. 31.

All who come in costume will meet 6 p.m. at the Municipal Building for the march to Park Middle School, accompanied by the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School marching band. A member of each family will receive a pumpkin donated by the Scotch Plains Business and Professional Association when he gets to the school.

For more information, call 322-6700.

Single Catholics reschedule dance

The Young Single Catholic Adults Club has rescheduled its Halloween dance for 8 p.m.-midnight Saturday, Nov. 1 at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, 1571 S. Martine Ave. in Scotch Plains.

Singles between 25-45 are welcome. Admission of $8 includes snacks and beverages. Costume is optional. For more information, call Jim at 382-2754 or Mike at 679-9012.

Council candidates in the home stretch

ELECTION '97

By TINA GUARINO
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — The election season is winding down as six candidates square off in three of Westfield's wards. Republican Matthew Albano is unopposed in the 2nd Ward. Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 4. The following are profiles of each candidate:

Marc McCabe

Marc McCabe, a Democrat, is facing Gregory McDermott, a Republican, for the 1st Ward seat. The following is Mr. McCabe's profile:

Mr. McCabe is an assistant vice president at Acordia Northeast.

Mr. McCabe wants to improve the town infrastructure and boost the downtown by improving lighting, sidewalks and benches.

"I want to address the parking problems and show the retailers that we are really going to reinvest in our downtown and are working together to prepare for the next century," he said.

He also wants to focus on quality of life issues such as pedestrian safety and speeding.

"There has to be a partnership between the retailers, the Special Improvement District (SID), the landlords and Town Council," Mr. McCabe said. "I will make sure the SID has the right funding to implement their plan of action."

Mr. McCabe said the biggest concerns he hears from residents is a better delivery of services for the taxes that are paid and the need for repaired roads and curbs.

"I want to bring the parties together and address the issues," he said. "I don't feel that for example, paving roads is a partisan issue, it's a town issue."

"I feel that I can bring an end to a lot of the bickering and politics that take place and help lead this town."

"I am going to work hard, I am going to understand all the

Sunrise residence gets rave reviews

WESTFIELD — "I'll never put my mother in a nursing home," said a 53-year-old daughter. She didn't have to — she brought her mother to Sunrise Assisted Living on Springfield Avenue.

The senior-care residence celebrated its grand opening last week. The community is opening with 47 founders (residents) and has a maximum capacity of 96.

The event was marked by a ribbon-cutting ceremony with Councilman Norman Greco, and speeches by John Moore, executive director of Sunrise Westfield, and Timothy Smick, the chief operating officer of Sunrise Assisted Living Inc. The event was capped off with a spirited staff dedication song to the residents.

Founding resident Gertrude Nichols said, "Of all the places I looked at, it was the most homelike and the most fun."

Sunrise Assisted Living held its grand opening last week.

"The staff here is fantastic and I've had a chance to compare," the 78-year-old said.

"They are caring, generous people," she added. "They know you are not sedentary old people. They take time to understand the things you like."

The residents' fondness of the staff is returned.

"I feel like I am part of a family and not treated as just an employee. We work as a team here," said care manager Marie Nelson.

"The minute I walked in the door, just like the name of the place — Sunrise — I have nothing to be unhappy about," she added.

Sunrise's mission is to change the way people in society age and is encompassed in their eight principles: personalizing services, enabling freedom of choice, protecting privacy, fostering individuality, encouraging independence, preserving dignity, nurturing the spirit and involving family and friends.

Sunrise has considered every aspect of living to ensure the resident is empowered and in charge from the staff's team philosophy to the strategic architecture which ensures a residential environment and not a clinical environment.

Residents want law on zoning returned

By TINA GUARINO
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Westfield Avenue residents want things to return to the way they used to be.

Shelley De John asked the Town Council to return to the zoning that existed before the latest master plan was issued in 1991 and the ordinances enacted in 1995.

A 130-year-old house may be demolished to build two new homes. There is a pending application before the Planning Board to subdivide the house's 121-foot-wide lot on Westfield Avenue. The house straddles the proposed new lot line.

Under the current zoning plan of 60-foot frontage, subdivision is possible, however Ms. De John said if it were the original 70-foot frontage that subdivision would not be possible.

She said the change in zoning from RS-70 to RS-8 has created an opportunity for developers to "change forever the landscape and density of the neighborhood."

RS-70 zoning means the property requires a 70-foot front to build on an 8,400-square-foot lot. RS-8 means only a 60-foot width is required in an 8,000-square-foot area.

Ms. De John wanted to know why the affected residents weren't informed. She said a publication of the official wording of the master plan doesn't qualify as true communication.

She said she believes the council did not fully realize the consequences of their actions.

"We believe that a group of dedicated men and woman who give voluntarily of their time without compensation, who have other pressing responsibilities like family and career are likely not to appreciate the details of

Residents speak out on maintenance proposal

By TINA GUARINO
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — The code hasn't been broken, but it may be bent.

Residents came out to share their concerns, recommendations and approvals of certain aspects of the proposed exterior property maintenance code.

Some were concerned about the provision for property owners who would be unable to meet the standards of the code because of physical illness or finances. They wanted to make sure these individuals were protected in the language of the code.

"We have heard the citizens who came out to speak on the property maintenance code, mostly what we heard were supporters of the code but there were some who opposed the code," Councilman Donnell Carr said. "But it seems most will accept this code if first, it is not too intrusive, second, it is not too severe with the penalties, third, the town will proactively help hardship cases and fourth, 'the tenants' rights are protected."

Downer Street resident David Mone lives near a dilapidated home.

"We live right next door to a house that is falling apart. Windows are falling out, the front and back porch is falling apart not to mention the backyard is falling apart," he said. "Nobody has lived in the it the 12 years I've been there."

He said he has caught children, who call it the "spook house," playing in and near it and chased them away.

"My 2-year-old daughter plays outside. What happens if a piece of glass falls out on her, who is responsible?" he asked.

According to the law, the owner of the property would be responsible.

"I support the code for houses like this, but I'm not looking to put somebody in jail because their house isn't painted or their grass isn't cut."

Councilman Norman Greco presented the council with a revised draft of the code he put together himself. He said his draft is an easy to read, comprehensive exterior property maintenance code. Mr. Greco said he made sure there was no reference to the interior of homes.

William Jubb Corbet Jr., president of the Board of Health and director of the Chamber of Commerce, offered the services of the Board of Health to cover the code's enforcement. He said the person would also cover four other towns under the board.

He said, however, there are certain areas of the code that needs more attention, such as the height requirement for the screening of the trash bins and lighting. He said although in residential areas the code says light shouldn't shine on other properties, he said in the business district it should be encouraged to promote safety.

Jefferson Avenue resident and Realtor Warren Rorden said he and other real estate agents in town have read the code and support it.

"But we support it with caution," he said.

Mr. Rorden is concerned about the position of enforcement officer who makes the determination on the property.

"It's got be a person who really has a great deal, a great deal of insight into the particular problems some of these people have," he said.

He took pictures of six different properties that have been "eyesores" for years and gave them to the mayor and council.

"We know the public works department is extremely busy these days," he said. "When the town administrator (Ed Gottko) goes to appoint this particular person, he's got to make very, very sure that this person is going to have the time, the knowledge, and the insight to make the judgments that are needed to be made."

Mr. Rorden noted a property on Carlton Road was rejected by four different insurance companies because of the condition of the sidewalks which he said are like many others in town — in disrepair.

"I think it behooves everybody to make sure that they're aware that these properties are going to come under more scrutiny by other officials other than our own town," he said.

Mr. Rorden suggested using some of the block grant money for people who can't maintain their property because of illness or other reasons.

"It's a big job. The job should not be a political one, it should be looked at as a nonpartisan issue," he said. "I know all the people that sit at council and I know you all have the interest of Westfield at hand or you wouldn't be sitting up there and doing the job that you're doing."

"I may not agree with all of you, but I think we all agree that Westfield is a very special town and I think we need to address these points," he added.

He said just like any document it could be redrafted 50 times, but he said it seems well-written.

"I urge you to pass it as soon as possible even with the revisions," Mr. Rorden said. "I think it is a good piece and I commend you all for it."

Former councilman, general contractor and landlord James Caldora said the original draft seemed a "bit thrown together."

He assumed commercial properties, the town of Westfield and the Board of Education would be included if the code were passed.

"So be prepared that if we have an ordinance of this nature we should have a clean house first in all conditions," he said.

He said he supports the council and thinks members do a good job.

"Whether our property values are two percent or 40 percent in 50, 60 years, it isn't going to matter much," he said. "But if you leave something good for everyone, that will."

issues and I am going to see them through to completion," he said. "I am going to listen intently to what is important to my constituents and I'm going to make sure that the direction we set is in the best interest for all of us."

He said he is not promising quick fixes but rather a long term effort to doing the things that need to be done.

As a member of the Westfield Solid Waste Advisory Commission, Mr. McCabe wants to aggressively fight the increased litter problem.

"Part of the solution is getting better garbage service and charging taxpayer less money for it," he said.

He also proposed revising the public works schedule to focus on keeping the streets and sidewalks clean. He said the Town Council must encourage volunteer cleanup efforts in the Central Business District and along South and Central avenues.

"Westfield is a town that has a well-deserved reputation for volunteerism, town government must work harder to tap that potential."

As a member of the American Cancer Society fund-raising committee, he headed up a jail and bail fund-raiser, raising $15,000 in four hours, a record for Morris County. He is the secretary for Seton Hall University School of business alumni council.

Mr. McCabe said he has 15 years of business experience.

He and his wife, Alison, live on Clark Street with their daughter, Elizabeth.

Mr. McCabe said he is invested in town for the long term.

"I want to be involved in town projects and facilitate decisions that are going to positively impact our future," he added.

"I want to bring all the parties together and come to a consensus, we have to do what's best for Westfield," he said. "I'm young, energetic, a hard worker and I'm committed to the cause."

Gregory McDermott

The following is Gregory McDermott's profile:

"The biggest problem facing Westfield is that we must be able to maximize our tax dollars without impairing on the use of our services," he said. "We've got to be able to maintain the high standard of services that we have become accustomed to in Westfield."

Mr. McDermott said he thinks people are very happy and proud of the town.

Mr. McDermott wants to work with the Special Improvement District to revitalize the downtown. He said Westfield's "vibrant" downtown makes the town unique and distinguishes it from other communities.

"I would like to work with them (SID) and encourage them to maintain a clean area to bring in businesses to complement the existing business-such a massive plan," she said.

"We believe a mistake was made and we want it rectified," Ms. De John added.

Westfield Avenue resident Sol Barer agrees.

"What I do understand is something, mayor that you said before, which is very to the point," Mr. Barer said. "Sometimes one has to do the right thing, not the popular thing, not the easy thing, but what the right thing is."

"And the right thing in a case like this is to preserve our town and to preserve our neighborhood," Mr. Barer said. "I would ask you to act with the utmost deliberation and speed in resolving this issue so we can keep our town and our neighborhood in the way we all would like it to be."

Westfield Avenue resident Nancy Albanese said the neighborhood has historical significance for the town and the creation of 60-foot frontage lots would completely change the character of the area.

"It will happen, continue to happen, throughout Westfield, that these lots are everywhere," she said. "And we go down and somebody else goes down after us."

She said that the builder interested in the lot isn't even from Westfield and could care less about Westfield and the town's heritage.

Councilman Jack Walsh said this falls under the category of "here we go again." He said two years ago, the rezoning of town enabled the developers to subdivide a lot that was never intended to be subdivided.

"As I understand it, the change in the zoning of town is supposed to preserve the status quo," he said.

"One change we need to make in our master plan is to eliminate the 'lowest common denominator' approach which zones to the smallest properties in a neighborhood, not necessarily the prevailing size property in the neighborhood," Councilman Neil Sullivan said.

Mr. Sullivan explained to the east of the Westfield Avenue and Summit Avenue neighborhoods are homes that are 10,000 square feet with 70-foot fronts. He said there is a cluster of homes on Summit and Park Avenue which can not meet either the 70-foot front or the 10,000-square-foot standard, so the entire neighborhood was rezoned to the RS-8 standard.

The 1991 master plan recommended a new plan which grouped properties by total square footage. The area is now an RS-8 zone which means it requires an 8,000-square-foot area and a 60-foot width, creating smaller lots.

"The intent of the master plan was to establish zone standards that are more in keeping with the existing conditions," Mr. Sullivan said.

"If the purpose of the zoning change was to keep things the way they were, we ought to think about rezoning Westfield Avenue to an RS-10 (70-foot width and 10,000-square-foot area) which is more in character with the houses there right now," Mr. Walsh said.

"The town engineer's office did a study of all the lots last year to ensure that there aren't houses torn down to create subdivisions," Mr. Sullivan said. "I hope the council and planning board can take action to revise our zoning ordinances to avoid these situations."

Vo-Tech plans holiday boutique

SCOTCH PLAINS — A wide variety of crafters from throughout New Jersey and beyond, will make their wares available when the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools hold its sixth annual fund-raising Holiday Boutique. The event takes place 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 1 indoors at the Raritan Road campus in Scotch Plains.

Admission to the Holiday Boutique is free and there is unlimited parking. Refreshments will be available. For more information, call 889-2999.

Residents give rave reviews for Sunrise

Mr. Smick said the paternalism that is persuasive throughout the health care industry does not happen at Sunrise.

"They still have a say in their health care and what goes on around here," he said.

In the age of loss of a spouse, physical ability, family and friends, he said Sunrise strives to protect the residents' maximum independence.

"It is more dignified than a nursing home," said care manager Phyllis Brucheski. "At the end of the day you can say you made somebody happy."

"So far it's been very exciting," said founding resident Pearl Green.

"It's a family here," said staff member Kevin Austion.

"I'm looking forward most to seeing the smiles on their (residents') faces," said care manager Kathleen Gann.

Care manager supervisor Carole Jacob said the welcome is warm and everybody is happy.

Sunrise's trained professionals deliver personalized services to residents and provide meals, transportation, planned activities, wellness programs and medical assistance. The cost ranges from $59 to $114 a day.

To meet the needs of residents with Alzheimer's disease and related memory impairments, Sunrise has developed an innovative program developed in accordance with the Alzheimer's Association's Guidelines for Dignity.

The program incorporates elements that help stimulate the memories and senses of residents with Alzheimer's disease. The program is delivered in dedicated, secure neighborhoods within the home specially designed to meet the unique needs of residents with cognitive impairments.

Sunrise was founded in 1981 by Paul and Terry Klaassen with the idea of providing care in a homelike, residential atmosphere rather than the traditional institution settings prominent at the time.

The residence is based on a social model, rather than a medical model in order to preserve the dignity, privacy and independence of their residents.

The Klaassens' 49 homes across country evolved from their first facility — a defunct nursing home in Oakton, Va., they renovated themselves.

The Westfield residence is one of four to open in northern New Jersey. Sixteen more are slated for groundbreakings by 2000.

es," he said.

He said he wants to create the position of ombudsman for the SID program to help potential renters get into town and facilitate the rapid rental of the vacant buildings.

"I would like to be able to work to get the most productivity possible out of our department of public works and just to maximize our dollars," he said. "The wise use of tax revenues is a hallmark of good government."

McDermott said he would like to establish a directory of services for the town so residents know who to contact when. He said he would also like to establish suggestion boxes throughout town so residents can express their concerns.

"A lot of people who do have complaints don't know where to put them," he said.

He said he would like to investigate grant programs that the state can offer to help maintain the roads, sidewalks and curbs without putting a tremendous burden on the taxpayer.

"As a councilman, I will be able to investigate how we can get some of the funds necessary," he said.

He said his experience as the vice chairman and former treasurer of the Union County Improvement Authority is an asset.

"I work with municipalities through bonding to help them relieve money directly through their budgets, whether it be a capital lease program or a bond anticipation note," he said. "These might be areas that we can actually research."

Mr. McDermott currently serves on the Westfield Expenditure Review Committee. He said his experience on the committee finding ways to make the Police Department, the Fire Department, the Department of Public works and the administrators office more efficient has familiarized him with department heads and the budgetary process.

Mr. McDermott has coached baseball for the last six years.

"Through a lot of interaction and talking to parents and children I get a pulse for what people are talking about and where Westfield is headed."

"I am a very approachable person, willing to listen to anything residents want to talk about," he said. "I am a very positive and energetic person and I am willing to put these energies into the town to make it better and to give people what they want."

Mr. McDermott grew up in Westfield. He lives on Lawrence Avenue with his wife, Andrea, and four children: Bryan, Maggie, Melissa and Patricia.

Kenneth Rotter

Kenneth Rotter, a Democrat, is facing incumbent Republican Neil Sullivan for the 3rd Ward seat. The following is Mr. Rotter's profile:

Mr. Rotter, a resident of Greene Place, is an attorney specializing in corporate law at a New Jersey firm. A former clerk for Superior Court Judge Karen D. Russell, Mr. Rotter graduated from Georgetown Law School in 1991. He is a Westfield representative to the State Master plan Review Committee and a member of the Raritan Valley Line Commuter Commission.

Mr. Rotter has been a leader of Jewish youth activities and a leader in building greater participation in the political process.

"People's number one concern is that their property taxes go up while their streets continue to deteriorate," Mr. Rotter said.

"Over the past several years, property taxes have consistently gone up and town services and the condition of south side streets have deteriorated and there is something fundamentally wrong with that ," Mr. Rotter said. "Westfield has the second highest property tax rate in Union County and one of the highest in the state."

Mr. Rotter said he would like to focus on repairing the street and sidewalks.

"When people pay property taxes what they expect from a town is to take care of the streets."

Mr. Rotter said he wants to focus on cleaning up Central Avenue.

"It should be the gateway to downtown Westfield," he said. "It really has been left behind, it was left out of the special improvements district."

He said there is a lot of potential for business on Central Avenue with just a "little bit of cleaning up."

"If we clean it up so that it looks good, businesses will come and look at Central Avenue in a different light," he said.

Mr. Rotter said the town needs a comprehensive road improvement plan. He said the funding for it should come from the $600,000 library which will soon be freed up.

"We can do that without increasing property taxes one penny," he said. "We can do it at less of a cost than that library debt and maybe even give the taxpayers some relief."

Mr. Rotter said the town should set aside money for a sidewalk trust fund.

"Residents have to pay for sidewalks themselves, if we had a sidewalk trust fund, the town might be able to help with a matching fund or some percentage to encourage the residents to fix their sidewalks," he said.

Mr. Rotter said he supports the property maintenance code 100 percent. He said he also wants to focus on a road improvement plan, the downtown store vacancies and improving Central Avenue to increase business.

"The special improvement district is a great idea and hopefully we will work with them to bring a greater diversity of businesses to the downtown, it shouldn't be just restaurants," Mr. Rotter said.

Mr. Rotter said he sees the disparity between the south side and the north side of town. He said as councilman he would fight for the south side.

"My strongest asset is that I am not a lifetime Westfield politician," Mr. Rotter said. "I think I take a fresh approach and that is what is needed to handle the problems that have festered over time."

"One-party rule has led to complacency," he added.

Mr. Rotter is a member of the Raritan Valley Line Commuter Commission, which is challenging New Jersey Transit to improve the ride for commuters and eliminate the transfer in Newark for New York-bound passengers.

Mr. Rotter said as councilman residents of his ward would have access to him.

"To give people good government you have to really stay in touch with them," Mr. Rotter said.

"People complain that town council is not responsive to their needs," he said "When election day is over I am not going to stop asking for their concerns."

"I can say you won't find somebody who is going to work harder than I will."

Neil Sullivan

The following is Neil Sullivan's profile:

Mr. Sullivan, a financial executive, has served on the council for three years.

"I want to ensure we maintain and improve the quality of life that has attracted the many families to our town as well as those who decided to stay and raise their families here," Mr. Sullivan said. "That has to do with how well we plan and how well we implement our plan through our zoning ordinances."

"We need to be mindful that as the world changes we need to embrace that change and adapt our planning to that change," he added.

"We need to use technology better as a government to communicate better, to make government better to lower taxes," he said.

Although federal law prohibits banning cellular towers altogether, Mr. Sullivan wants to take action so there isn't a "series of 200-foot towers all over town."

"We need to limit the locations of them in our town," he said "We need to keep the number of these towers to a minimum and make sure those that are built are built in locations acceptable to the community," he said.

"Every politician says they are against waste in government spending, I have the financial background in both the private sector and municipal budget experience to ensure that our tax dollars are spent wisely and economically."

Mr. Sullivan said he can continue to offer the council his extensive zoning and planning experience from his career and the two years he served on the Planning Board and the one year he served on the zoning board.

"It is one of the key responsibilities of a councilman to ensure that we are planning for our community's future," he said.

"It is the council's obligation to enact the ordinances that will keep mature neighborhoods form being disturbed by inappropriate development as well ensuring that our downtown remain the vital heart of the community," Mr. Sullivan said.

Mr. Sullivan said the specific action steps that he has been working toward include downtown revitalization, shade tree protection, ensuring the streets and sidewalks are safe and that the parks and recreation facilities are something the town can be proud of.

"I would liked to be judged on my experience and accomplishments as councilman which includes passage of the SID for downtown, effective control of town spending while improving services in the area of leaf collection and road maintenance and being very responsive to the needs of the people of the third ward," Mr. Sullivan said.

"If you look at the spending of our municipal government during the three years I've been councilman, spending on projects for the south side have been equal to or exceeded spending in other parts of the town," he said.

"We spent over $1 million on road improvement projects which have repaired or resurfaced many of the key roads and side streets in the third ward and also in the fourth ward."

Projects Mr. Sullivan said he would like to complete are passing the shade tree ordinance and the cellular tower ordinance. He wants to complete the enactment of the zoning ordinance which he said implements our 1991 master plan and updates our zoning ordinance to reflect changes in state law and broader business trends.

Mr. Sullivan wants to see a master plan developed for the park system which would include "creative partnerships" where the resources of community groups, the private sector and the town are pooled to improve the parks.

"I have a better understanding of what we need to do as a community and have both the professional and the municipal experiences to better lead the town into the next century," he said.

Donnell Carr

Donnell Carr, an incumbent Democrat, is facing Republican Janis Weinstein for the 4th Ward seat. The following is Mr. Carr's profile:

An electrical engineer and a 16-year resident of Westfield, Mr. Carr has served on the Town Council since March, replacing James Hely, who resigned.

Mr. Carr said the wish list he has received from residents calls for better sidewalks, replanting of shade trees, cleaner parks and streets, speed zone enforcement and pedestrian safety. He said he would also like to work to control development, improve the town's infrastructure and cut municipal cost.

"I am part of the team that will work to develop a way to fix our sidewalks without putting the full burden on our citizens who already pay enough taxes," Mr. Carr said.

Mr. Carr is working with his colleagues to develop the shade tree ordinance which will require builders to include in their site plan the replacement of some of the trees that were removed for construction.

As chairman of the Town Council's Traffic, Parking and Transportation Committee Mr. Carr has been working with the organization BRAKES (Bikers, Runners and Kids Entitled to Safety) to improve the streets' safety for pedestrian and bikers.

"We have asked for and received better enforcement of our traffic laws," Mr. Carr said.

"I have asked our Public Works Department to put forth a special effort in Memorial Park to keep it clean," he said. "I am supporting the chairman of the Public Works Committee, Jack Walsh, in his efforts to develop a parks improvement proposal as part of a comprehensive plan that we propose."

Mr. Carr said while the council is currently reviewing proposed changes to the Land Use Ordinance, he is particularly interested in the commercially "C" zoned area of about 10 acres at the Westfield /Garwood border.

Mr. Carr said he wants to use the zoning ordinance to the town's advantage to encourage new business while also maintaining the integrity and character of the neighborhood.

"By getting more ratables in town, we can stabilize the burden on taxpayers," he said.

"We need to immediately act to apply the appropriate delineations and restrictions to allow a good mixture of business and light industrial users," he said. "At the same time we must stem the likely influx of users that might be disruptive and inappropriate to our communities."

"While Westfield is overwhelmingly residential, some land is designated for business and other uses. It is good for us to encourage and attract these users for we must always seek ways to minimize the tax burden on our homeowners."

Mr. Carr said he wants to bring some balance to the two party extremes. He said his broad background in the corporate world, the military and in the community has enabled him to understand the cause of issues and to take action. He said he is a good at problem-solving.

"I am proactive, not reactive," he said. "I will not simply talk, I will do."

He said he wants to be judged on is merit and his commitment to the community.

Mr. Carr is a member of the Echo Lake Church of Christ, where he serves as a trustee. He serves on the Boards of the Westfield Community Center and the United Fund of Westfield. He is a member of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Association of Westfield and is a founding member and former president of the children's advocacy group CAAP (Concerned African American Parents) of Westfield. He has represented the town of Westfield on Union County Revenue Sharing Committee for several years.

Mr. Carr lives on Hort Street with his wife, Christine, and 13-year-old daughter, Ashley. His 21-year-old daughter, Briony, attends Douglass College.

Janis Weinstein

The following is Mrs. Weinstein's profile:

Mrs. Weinstein, an office manager at a law firm in Westfield, is a former member of the Town Council (1996). She served for 10 months, replacing Michael Panagos, who resigned.

"Elected officials must be responsive to the needs and concerns of the community. We must recognize the importance of fiscal responsibility," she said. "We must provide our residents with the highest level of town services and public safety."

Your Dental HEALTH

by Robert A. Wortzel, DMD

QUALITY BRUSHING

Making the commitment to brush your teeth twice a day is certainly a good step toward oral health. Beyond that, the American Dental Association (ADA) recommends that you brush your teeth correctly. This means spending at least two to three minutes with each brushing, instead of giving teeth the one-minute once over. The ADA also advises toothbrushers to loosen their "tight grip" on the toothbrush, which may cause premature wear of the enamel at the gum line. Also, children should limit themselves to only a pea-size amount of toothpaste with each brushing. Any more than that can lead to excessive swallowing of toothpaste, which may cause fluoride staining. Toothbrush-ers of all ages are advised to use gum-saving soft-bristle brushes and to floss the spaces between teeth that brushing cannot reach.

During October, "National Dental Hygiene Month," we would like to increase public awareness of the importance of preventive oral health care. We want you to receive the highest quality of complete, affordable dental care. We're located at 1122 Route 22 West, Mountainside, where our aim is to provide individual attention and care to every patient so that we can learn about their special needs. Call (908) 654-5151 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. Replace your toothbrush every three months. Older brushes are too worn to clean well and may harbor bacteria that promote gum disease and infections

Stores gear up for 'Fall into Westfield' promotion

By TINA GUARINO
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Leaves won't be the only things falling in downtown next week.

So will prices. The Downtown Westfield Corporation will celebrate the fall season with a special retail promotion entitled "Fall into Westfield...A Special Time," as part of its effort to maintain the growth and vitality of Westfield.

Visitors will be able to sip a glass of wine, view the latest fashions up close and shop and save 'til they drop.

The four-day event, sponsored by Comcast Cable, will begin on Oct. 30 and 31, when participating retailers will offer mystery savings of 5 percent to 50 percent off the purchase price. Plus, the first 20 shoppers to present $500 in receipts from these retailers, shoppers will receive a "WAM Coin," good for $25 off their next purchase at any participating Westfield area merchant.

This is the first year for the event and Sylvia Allen, president of Allen Consulting Inc., said the event will become annual.

Ms. Allen said the event is different from other retail promotions because it combines a variety of elements — food, fashion and fun.

"People should come down because it will be fun and it is an opportunity to taste all of Westfield from the great food to the great musical performance to a variety of fashion while saving money," she said.

"The purpose of the event is for people to enjoy the downtown where retailers, restaurants and the consumer all benefit," Ms. Allen added.

The Music Studio Chamber Ensemble will set the mood as you savor the distinctive bouquet of Greek wines at a free wine and cheese reception on Saturday, Nov. 1, in the North Avenue municipal parking lot. The reception, sponsored in part by J&M market, will take place from 4-7 p.m. and will feature Greek wines courtesy of Nestor Imports Inc. in Cranford and New York.

Kathy Spiliotopoulos, executive vice president of Nestor Imports, will present a sampling of Kouros red and white wines, Amethystos red and white, Kourtakis dessert wines and the infamous Retsina form the most celebrated wineries in Greece.

Participating are restaurants will supply a list of their specials for Saturday evening and guests will be encouraged to patronize these establishments following the reception.

A free fall fashion show will be presented in the North Avenue municipal parking as well as brunch 11 a.m.-2 p.m.

The Chris Fiore Trio will provide the sounds of light jazz during informal modeling of the latest in women's and children's fashions from some of Westfield's finest clothing stores.

A luncheon buffet will be provided by local downtown eateries.

Throughout the weekend, Comcast will help visitors "surf the net" at the cable company's display area, showcasing their new Internet service.

The DWC is a nonprofit downtown revitalization program supporting Westfield's central business district. The DWC works to enhance the town by developing and maintaining a business attraction and retention committee working with property owners to preserve the architectural integrity of their buildings and by running a series of special events that will attract people to the downtown.

For more information on the DWC, call Executive Director Michael La Place, 125 Elm St., Office #1, Westfield, N.J. 07090 or call 789-9444.

She makes your home a sweet one

By TINA GUARINO
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Kathleen Kovolisky is not a typical house painter.

"When I paint a picture of a house, I want to bring the personality of the home and the people who live in it out," the Cranford artist said. "The color, set up and perspective of the painting all communicate that personality."

"It isn't a house painting, it is a home portrait and everybody's is different," she added.

Her work can be seen in the Westfield Art Gallery's show in December and January. The gallery is on East Broad Street.

Ms. Kovolisky, an accessories designer for a fashion firm in New York, received her bachelor's in fine art from Montclair University. She has been in the fashion industry for 12 years and decided to revive her love for fine art.

After painting her own home portrait titled "Home Sweet Home," Ms. Kovolisky was surprised by the reaction of friends and family.

"I thought they were just trying to be nice to me," she said laughing. "I showed it to friends of mine who are, actually to me, real artists who display their work in Soho. So I thought well, if they like it, what does it hurt for me to walk into a gallery and ask."

She did ask and the Juxapose Gallery on Elm Street responded. They offered to represent her work.

"It is exciting enough to walk into a place, I really just wanted to get their opinion on how I should proceed," Ms. Kovolisky said. "First, they said they had a lot of them (paintings) in the back and they couldn't put them all out."

Artist Kathleen Kovolisky shows off some of her work.

"When I showed them my painting, they got excited about it and said they wanted to display it."

Ms. Kovolisky said she was ecstatic. This is the first time her artwork will appear in a gallery.

"Right now, for me, painting makes me feel complete," she said. "It is more important to me than designing hand bags."

"In my job in fashion, you have to do what you know is going to be salable. Painting, although you want it to still sell, there's more self-expression involved."

Ms. Kovolisky said the key to her home portraits are the detailed exteriors, which personalize the painting.

"The detailed exterior brings to life the interior," she added.

She said the details of what the painting shows on the outside make each one unique — a child playing on the side of the house, a tricycle turned over by the porch, a pet in the window, an open garage door or a car in or out of the driveway all function to visually and emotionally depict the personality of the home.

Ms. Kovolisky applies her years of experience in the fashion industry working with fabrics, patterns and colors to her painting.

"My background actually made me more aware," she said.

Ms. Kovolisky said the response to the home portrait concept has been overwhelming and she has already been commissioned to do a few.

"They are not just cold facades of people's houses," she said. "It turns a regular house into a one-of-a-kind home."

"I think that people really love their homes," she said. "People work really hard to get their homes."

"It is just like that little dream you had when you were younger of what your life would be like when you grow up — the little house and a picket fence with the two children playing in the backyard," Ms. Kovolisky added. "The painting captures that."

Ms. Kovolisky lives in Cranford with her 9-year-old daughter, Sarah, and her 5-year-old son, Jacob.

To contact Ms. Kovolisky for a home portrait, call 276-7287.

Joe McElroy's a valued volunteer at Ashbrook home

SCOTCH PLAINS — A short stay at a rehabilitation center did more than just help Ashbrook Nursing and Rehabilitation Center volunteer Joe McElroy of Westfield get back on his feet again.

It prompted him to reflect upon his own life and examine what he was doing to help others.

While making a speedy recovery from a hip replacement operation, Mr. McElroy, a former executive vice president with Manufacturers Hanover Trust (now Chase Manhattan Bank), noticed other residents in the facility were not as fortunate.

"I was making progress while others around me were having trouble," Mr. McElroy said. "Some residents didn't have visitors, and I thought it would be appropriate to start helping others."

Two months later, Mr. McElroy chose to volunteer at Ashbrook, where he was eagerly welcomed by staff and residents.

"People barely have time to take a break from their home and work responsibilities," said Ashbrook Activities Director Pat Ray. "It is so easy to forget the little things that mean so much, like spending time with an elderly person."

While at the home, Mr. McElroy often visits with Ashbrook resident Joe Kerekes, who knew his father many years ago.

This common bond prompted a special friendship between the two men. Now, the companions read passages from the Bible or enjoy picnic lunches together.

Some days, Mr. McElroy listens as Mr. Kerekes recounts stories of his travels with a previous employer.

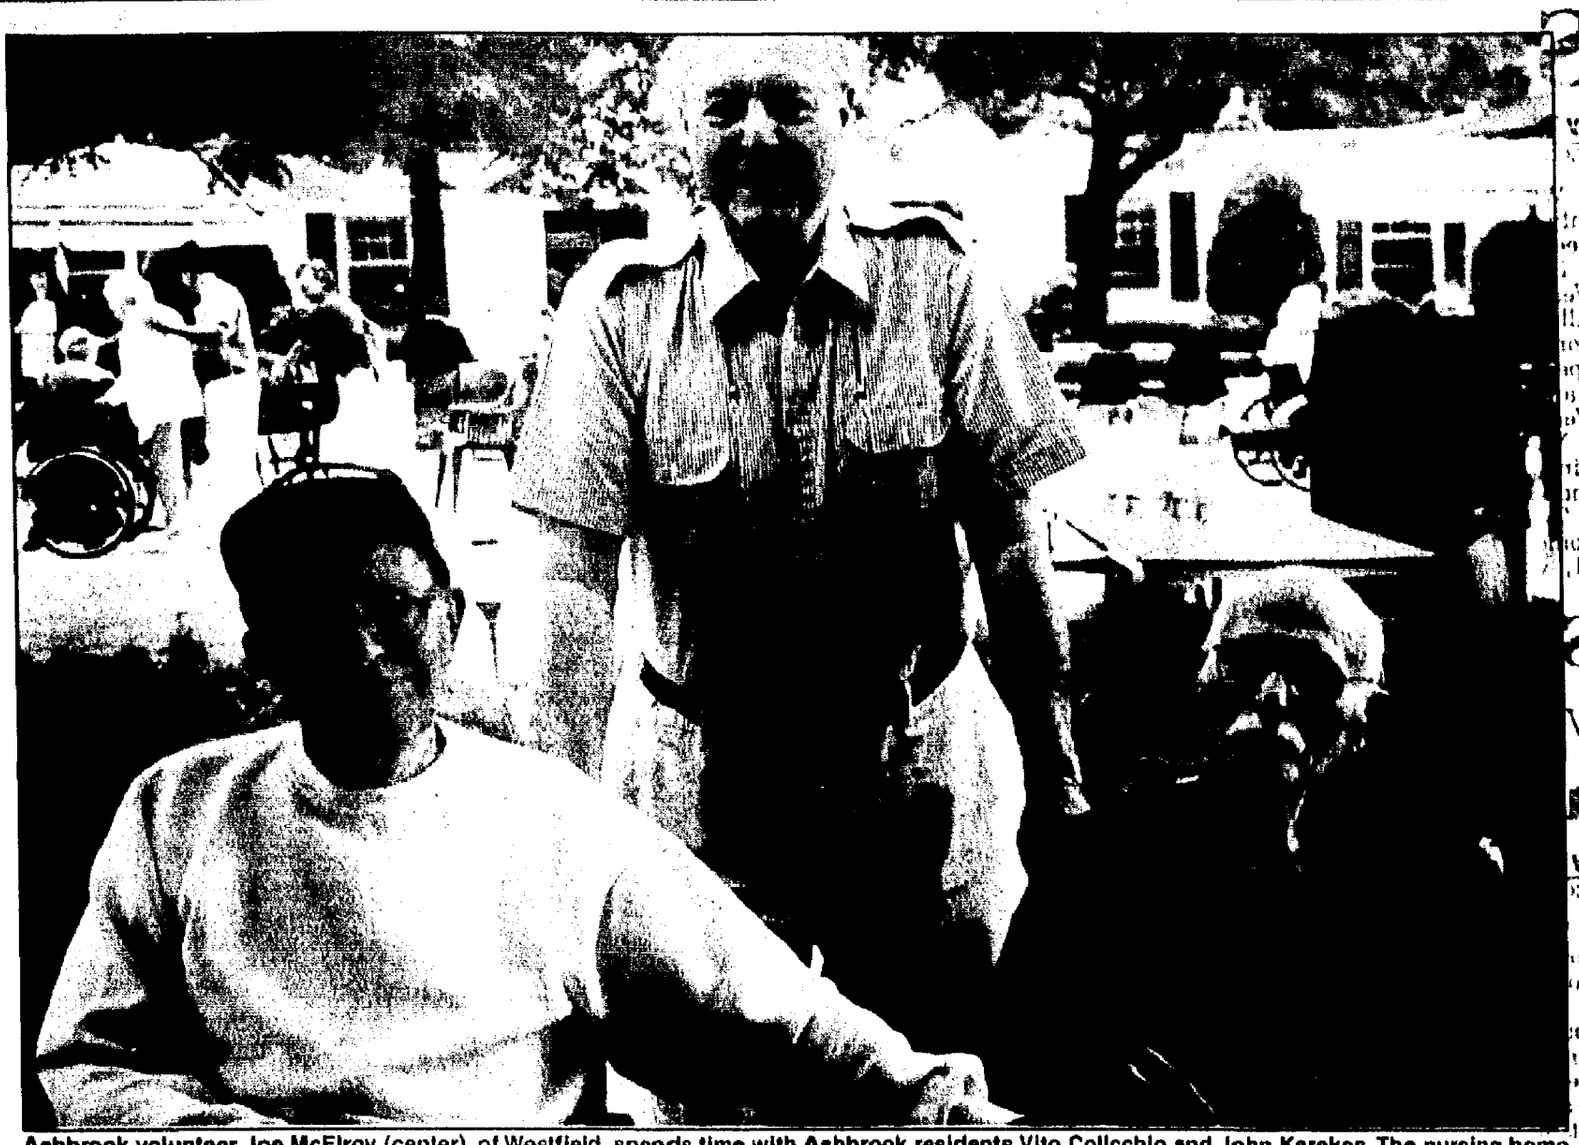
"I am very fond of Mr. Kerekes and all the gentlemen I visit with," Mr. McElroy said. "I hope I have made a contribution to their lives."

According to Mrs. Ray, Mr. McElroy and all male volunteers at Ashbrook are an invaluable and positive asset to the men in the home.

"In the nursing home atmosphere, where men are often outnumbered by women nearly eight to one, male volunteers offer many benefits to male residents," Mrs. Ray said. "They give them special attention and engage in activities they enjoy."

Retired since 1989, Ms. McElroy maintains a busy schedule as a consultant and an expert court witness in the fields of trusts and estates.

The latter takes him across the country where he has made appearances in more than 28 trials in 13 states, including New York, Florida and Alabama.



Ashbrook volunteer Joe McElroy (center), of Westfield, spends time with Ashbrook residents Vito Colicchio and John Kerekes. The nursing home is in Scotch Plains.

Although the court cases and extensive travel can be overwhelming, Mr. McElroy still values his time spent at Ashbrook.

"It's easy enough for people to spend a couple of hours each week with someone who doesn't get a lot of visitors," added Mr. McElroy. "It is something people should find time to do for one another."

Ashbrook Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, a 120-bed long-term care facility in Scotch Plains, is an affiliate of the Saint Barnabas Health Care System.

Arts getaway planned at Pines Hotel in Catskills

WESTFIELD — When the December holidays are over and everyone is gloomy because we think the cold will never leave and spring will never arrive, the Westfield Young Artists' Cooperative Theatre (WYACT) will offer relief.

School is not in session during what the Westfield Board of Education calls the "Presidents' Weekend" from Feb. 15-17, so WYACT is sponsoring a "Presidents' Family Arts Getaway" at the Pines Hotel in the Catskill Mountains in South Fallsburg, N.Y.

Five theater classes in such areas as drama, dance, music and costuming will be offered on a rotating basis, as well as use of all hotel amenities which include an indoor pool, indoor tennis, fitness and game rooms.

Although parents are encouraged to participate in classes and activities with their children, they are welcome to take advantage of the hotel facilities. Snow activities such as snowmobiling and skiing are available on premises and nearby, but there are additional costs for these activities. Monday evening, the Pines will sponsor a party for WYACT and their guests.

The fee for all accommodations (room, six meals) and activities (except for snow activities), including tax and gratuities is $200 per person based on triple occupancy. Families of four receive a $40 discount.

A 36-seat bus will be provided for those not wishing to or who cannot drive, booked on a first-come, first-served basis.

Profits will benefit WYACT's summer productions. Tickets for this event are on sale at the Music Staff, 102 Quimby St. For more information, call 233-3200.

Scotch Plains plans trip to see 'Cinderella' in Metuchen

SCOTCH PLAINS — The Scotch Plains Recreation Department of Parks will offer a first-time opportunity for parents of children who love fairy tales — especially the story of Cinderella and her wicked stepmother and stepsisters.

A live actor presentation of the famous tale will be presented for children of all ages at 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 6. The tickets cost $11 each for residents and $12 for nonresidents. Ticket reservations can be made Nov. 3-14 in the recreation office.

Price includes the bus as well as the performance. The bus will leave from the municipal building, Park Avenue, at 10:30 a.m. and return immediately after the performance at the Forum Theater, Metuchen.

For more information, call 322-6700.

Commentary

These three are best for the job

Deciding who will be best to serve a community such as Westfield is never an easy job for a newspaper. Each candidate nearly always has a strong and honest desire to give something back to the community, and this year is no exception.

On Nov. 4, voters in Westfield must choose candidates to serve on the elected board known as the Town Council. In a nutshell, the council is in charge of passing ordinances, resolutions and the municipal budget. It's not a responsibility to be taken lightly.

This year, the Democrats are seeking to feed off the momentum of last year's sweep of the election. Before last year, the Republicans held a 7-1 majority on the council and the mayor's seat. After the votes were counted, three Democrats were elected and the mayor's seat was Democratic. Including the mayor, the council now has five Republicans and four Democrats. The Democrats would love nothing more than to add a few more Democrats to the council.

Running this year in the 1st Ward are Democrat Marc McCabe and Republican Gregory McDermott. Both are newcomers looking to win Republican Norman Greco's seat. This contest is the most difficult of the three to pick. We have been torn for weeks over this one. But because we are forced to make a decision, we endorse Mr. McDermott.

We were especially pleased with his recent questionnaire of residents. We like his open approach to government. We are also impressed with his idea of creating an ombudsman to work with real-estate agents, the Building Department and the town government to help new businesses overcome obstacles when locating to Westfield.

Mr. McDermott also has good experience from serving on the Union County Improvement Authority. He said his responsibilities included financing bonds for all 21 municipalities in the county. Mr. McDermott is also the son of former Republican state Sen. Frank McDermott.

In the 3rd Ward, incumbent Republican Neil Sullivan is facing a challenge from Ken Rotter, a Democrat. In this race, we whole-heartedly endorse Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan is experienced, thorough and seems to know every detail about Westfield and what is important to it. He is very efficient and is always on top of things. Clueless is the last thing you'd call Mr. Sullivan.

He also has good Planning Board experience. He's doing a fine job, and there's no compelling reasons to rock the boat in the 3rd Ward.

In the 4th Ward, incumbent Democrat Donnell Carr is facing Republican Janis Weinstein. Mr. Carr joined the council after being named to fill an unexpired term. Mrs. Weinstein is looking to regain a seat on council. She, too, filled an unexpired term. Mrs. Weinstein was narrowly defeated last year in her bid to become an elected councilwoman.

In this race, we endorse Mr. Carr. We are especially impressed with his understanding of the issues and his involvement in many diverse groups. He is easy to work with and is flexible when it comes to looking at both sides of an issue. He doesn't put his party affiliation ahead of what's best for the town.

We like his work as chairman of the Traffic, Parking and Transportation Committee and his efforts on improving pedestrian safety.

The other race in Westfield is in the 2nd Ward, where Republican Matt Albano is running unopposed. Apparently, the Democrats didn't think they had a shot in this heavily Republican ward.

Death of the American dream

To The Record-Press:

Mix ignorance, greed and lust for power, and you get a recipe for the death of the American dream. The bloodshed by our patriots over the last two centuries should have us truly respect and value the freedoms they won and maintained.

Sadly the ignorance of the large body of voters dumbed down on endless hours of television trash, and wanderings through the Internet, and a press dominated largely by the leftist liberal intelligentsia underlies the insidious takeover of our government by a criminal mentality, special interests and anti-free enterprise comrades.

One need not look further than the Internal Revenue Code (78,000 pages), the Environmental Protection (persecution) Agency and the state Department of Environmental Protection ("Destruction of Economic Progress") to see how our valued common sense as citizens has been lost to the autocratic mandates of "command and control" bureaucratic legislation. Those regulations not understandable to the mind of man would exceed the height of the Washington Monument.

The common threads of morality contained in almost every religious lithology, the basic Ten Commandments and our own Constitution and Bill of Rights must be our guiding beacons. Such respect for human rights and fairness to own and enjoy the fruits of one's labors are insidiously being lost through voter ignorance of the issues and the immorality of our political leaders. Add the greed of special interest and the cadre of "walk on water" self-appointed anti-capitalist environmental comrades.

What you thought was free America is facing a hostile takeover as you sit impotently watching our flag hang limp in the shame of your inaction. To have our flag again fly smartly in the breeze demands that (1) every political leader reflect moral character and a continuing record of honesty, (2) require every regulation to be reduced to a user friendly high school graduate level of readership in a clear and compact manner, and (3) reduce the size of bureaucracy by mandating a 10-year/5 percent annual reduction in size, and 5 percent reduction of their budgets, all fines and fees or collections going to the general treasury. This is a start toward common sense government.

CVS starting to resemble Scrooge

To The Record-Press:

Two years ago while soliciting support from local merchants for the John Shippen Memorial Golf Tournament which raises funds for golf scholarships, I was told by the CVS manager at the Park Avenue Scotch Plains store that they could not make a contribution. Decisions of that sort had to be made at the corporate level, which would take some time, certainly more than what we Shippen folks had to make our printing deadline.

Several months ago I wrote a letter to the president of CVS suggesting that if they were located in a community, they ought to be part of that community — and that local managers ought to be able to respond positively to requests from local nonprofits for support for community projects. I received what appears to be a form letter thanking me for my thoughts, and promising that the issue I raised will be considered by appropriate company personnel. Uhm!

In the Fanny Wood Day program CVS is conspicuous by its absence. Conspicuous by its presence in the program booklet — which was to be expected by anyone who knows Fanwood and Scotch Plains — is Tony's Pharmacy. Tony's of course is, after so many years of good service to its customers, as well as care, concern for and involvement with the communities of Scotch Plains and Fanwood, no longer in business.

Oh, CVS also has a policy against allowing local charities to place change canisters at the checkout counters.

At Christmas time the shelves at CVS will be full of holiday cheer! The store windows, which front on Park Avenue, will garishly be plastered with hideous-looking advertisements, just as they are year-long, rather than the attractive decorations that should be on display.

I wonder if the do-gooders who come in this December to CVS asking for Christmas donations for the poor will be given the same answer that that Dickens fela gave to the do-gooders of his day?

I wonder what kind of reception the Salvation Army bell-ringers will receive?

Civic pride should be the rule in Westfield

To The Record-Press:

Being that the town is thinking about a property maintenance code, maybe the people of Westfield should read again my poem that was published three years ago. I have been a resident of Westfield for 50 years and have always taken pride in maintaining my property.

"Civic Pride"

When growing up I was taught to abide,
Which once was known as Civic Pride.
I learned it at home, also in school;
It seemed to be part of the Golden Rule.
Today there is so much pollution,
Only the people have the solution.
Strive to make it a double hitter,
By keeping your property and streets free of litter.
Once again, let's all try to abide,
And learn to have some Civic Pride.

Don't 'harvest' New Jersey's black bears

To The Record-Press:

Plans on the Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife drawing board call for a possible hunt of New Jersey Black bear next year because of bear conflicts with humans. Sound familiar? It should. The same agency "manages" the white-tailed deer in our state. Under Fish and Game "management" the deer herd has increased from 76,000 in 1975 to 150,000 in 1996 in New Jersey despite killing 60,000 each year.

The fact is the indiscriminate "harvest" of black bears would alleviate conflicts with humans no more than the random elimination of humans would eradicate criminals.

Let your state Assembly representative and senators know how you feel; also send a copy to Gov. Whitman.

Keep New Jersey black bears protected.

Mother's work has an impact

It seems impossible that Mother Teresa's work with the impoverished halfway around the globe could have any influence in thriving Central Jersey, yet we can trace one of our most successful programs for the poor back to the saintly lady of Calcutta.

Approximately 10 years ago, Marguerite Chandler (Bridgewater Industrial Park owner, PeopleCare founder and former Congressional candidate) was in Sri Lanka as an international hunger organization representative at a conference seeking appropriate technology for feeding Third World countries. Despite disappointing attempts, shortly before departure Marguerite received "a miraculous" call telling her of a pensione in which she could stay during her week of volunteer work with Mother Teresa.

Marguerite found an excitement at the Mother House, despite the conditions of the people they were helping. Helpers are stimulated to be with Mother Teresa, and the street people appreciate being treated with dignity and respect.

When the sisters go into the home of the sick and dying with a purposeful resolve to preserve dignity, the first thing they do is clean the house and then add a touch of beauty, such as a bouquet of flowers, because "both are important."

Mother Teresa, says Marguerite, was always dignified, clear, gentle and allows her sense of humor to come through. Her demeanor never changes whether she is talking with a street person or the BBC. When a cub reporter asked how to save the world, she simply smiled and said, "Smile at one another."

When asked the dumb question "Are you married?" she merely replied, "Yes I am, and Christ is a very demanding husband!"

At one point during her visit, Mother Teresa asked her why she had come. Marguerite, a former Peace Corps volunteer, told her about the conference and trying to end world hunger.

"You don't need to come to India," Mother Teresa said. "There's hunger in your country."

Marguerite responded she lived in an affluent part of the United States and didn't think there was a need there. She was told to look, and Marguerite agreed she would and promised if found, she would help.

Only a month later, Marguerite received a call about a mid-70-year-old lady who was about to be evicted from her tiny home in Somerville. Once living the comfortable life as wife of a prominent judge, when widowed she fell on unfortunate circumstances and although moving to smaller homes, she was still unable to care for herself.

Now, too proud to seek assistance, her pipes had burst because she hadn't paid her heating bills. The authorities had no choice but to insist the house be put into habitable condition or they would have to bulldoze it.

Taking the stranger into her own home (with a sense of how circumstances create the poor and except for their poor circumstances they are just like us), Marguerite made a deal with her. She would see to it the house was put in order if the lady would agree to allow it to be a distribution center for a blossoming food bank system where the needy could come one day a week for a bag of groceries.

It was a way of allowing the recipient to be a giver, allowing her to maintain dignity — a lesson Marguerite had learned only a short time ago by Mother Teresa.

Of course, the rest is history. The Food Bank Network is one of the most successful projects in this affluent section of the country where, if you look, you will find poverty.

'Convergence of circumstances' hit SP-F

By CAROL B. CHOYE
SPECIAL TO THE RECORD-PRESS

In grammar, a double negative makes a positive. In mathematics, multiplying negative numbers yields a positive. How is it then that in the area of school finance, sometimes several positives can yield a negative?

That's exactly the situation we are facing right now in the Scotch Plains-Fanwood public schools. We're analyzing just how it is that after carefully budgeting for the current year so cost increases were closely controlled and the local tax impact was minimized, the district now finds itself without a free balance and facing a potential deficit unless steps to generate savings are taken immediately.

What happened? We're dealing with a situation I describe as a "convergence of circumstances." Despite our conservative planning of the 1997-98 budget, several unanticipated costs have contributed to undermine our "best-laid plans":

• Prudent insurance planning. In order to provide the most cost-effective insurance plan for the district, the Board of Education has maintained a long-term relationship with an independent insurance carrier and thus has been able to obtain health insurance rates more favorable than those of the state insurance plan. As of September, long after budgeting for this school year was completed, the insurance carrier notified the district that increases were required in accounts for "premium stabilization" and for "terminal reserve liability." Furthermore, due to recent state legislation, a surcharge of $144,000 was levied on the Scotch Plains-Fanwood public schools because we choose not to participate in the state's insurance program. So after building a positive insurance history and obtaining insurance at the most reasonable cost, suddenly our free balance was unexpectedly encumbered for nearly a half-million dollars!

• Positive programs for students. We are proud of all the programs we offer district students and have earned an enviable reputation in the area of special education. The district currently has 60 out-of-district special education placements for which the state pays less than a third of the costs — not including costs for transportation. The district has no way of forecasting or controlling the number of special education students whose families will choose to live in the district.

The number of our students who attend programs at the Union County Vocational and Technical School has increased this year from 31 to 42.

A form of voucher system was recently established for students who attend the new magnet High School for Science and Technology. This county school accepted six Scotch Plains-Fanwood students into their program after assuring districts that a maximum of only two would be accepted. The added tuition for these programs increased district costs by thousands of dollars.

These are all positive programs which meet the needs of students, but the number of students served and the related costs rose well beyond what was anticipated during the budget process.

• Concern for the taxpayer. In order to minimize local property tax increases, we have applied free balance monies when it was fiscally prudent to do so and have chosen not to maintain sizable reserves. This is consistent with recent state demands for districts to minimize free balances. In planning budgets, we have been careful to cover only one-time costs like our new modular classrooms when using free balance money, but unexpected charges and assessments have now totally wiped out any available free balance funds for the current school year.

So despite all our positive efforts to provide the best programs for our students; to maintain management class sizes in appropriate facilities; to provide staff, equipment and supplies for our growing enrollment; to produce budgets which are below state caps; and to be mindful of concerns over local property taxes, we find ourselves in a challenging financial situation. We must continue to provide a high quality education for our students, meet our financial responsibilities and generate a comfortable level of free balance during the current year.

In order to discuss this situation with the public and outline our current plan of action, the Board of Education and I scheduled a special meeting for last night.

I am confident that with the efforts and understanding of everyone in the district, we will meet the challenge we're facing while continuing to strive toward our ultimate goal as a school community — optimum student learning and achievement!

Editor's note: The writer is superintendent of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood public schools.

Council candidates profiled

Mrs. Weinstein said she will work hard to address these issues by being an open-minded and objective voice on the council.

She said she wants to work with the Special Improvement District to address the vacant stores in the downtown. She said she is concerned about public safety and speeding on local streets. Mrs. Weinstein said working closely with the police department and monitoring problem areas in town are some ways to solve the problem.

"I've lived in this ward my entire life, I know the streets like the back of my hand," she said." "I've grown up with some of these residents and know many of the people now in my adult years through my children."

"I have the pulse of the people in this ward, I am there I am responsive, I listen I am an independent thinker and I thrive on trying to get things done," she added.

While Mrs. Weinstein was president of the McKinley School Parent Teacher Organization in 1991, the organization raised $45,000 in one school year to improve school technology and get computers in each classroom. She also headed up a beautification committee that improved the appearance of the school — landscaping, sidewalks, fencing and new basketball courts.

Mrs. Weinstein was appointed by Mayor Tom Jardim as commissioner to the Westfield Recreation Board. She initiated a project to install public phones in recreational parks and fields. She also has proposed a plan to improve the baseball infields at Gumbert Park.

She has been a member of the executive committee of Westfield Historical Society for two years. She is the former co-chair of the United Fund of Westfield Special Business Committee.

Mrs. Weinstein said she has a good list of organizations that she puts time and effort into.

"I basically think of this job on the town council as an extension of that type of volunteerism," she said.

"I just think when you know people and you are involved with people you, can reach out to people," she said. "I 've done this and been successful in this."

Mrs. Weinstein lives on Knollwood Terrace with her husband, Loren, and her 12-year-old daughter, Alison, and 9-year-old son, David.

Businesses, volunteers lending hands to schools' Mini NetDay

WESTFIELD — As a result of response from more than 55 volunteers and the financial support of local businesses, Westfield Public Schools' Mini NetDay on Saturday will save the district close to $10,000, according to Technology Director Darlene Nowak.

"Westfield's Mini NetDay is our first venture into using volunteers to provide hands-on technical expertise that would otherwise cost the district money," Ms. Nowak said.

Volunteer groups headed by a team leader and a technology leader will spend several hours Saturday providing cabling infrastructure to seven school libraries.

Bell Atlantic provided material resources integral to the success of the project. Other major contributors included Haven Savings Bank and Comcast Home. Also donating funds for equipment and tools were ELB Internet Services, the Leader Store, Weichert Realtors, Westfield Leader, Westfield Website Corp. and an individual contribution from Peter Billson, member of the Westfield Technology and NetDay committees. Stuart's Audio has pledged the services of three of their employees to help with the wiring as well.

A kickoff breakfast will be held 8:30-9:15 a.m. at Westfield High School and will precede the cabling project. Superintendent of Schools William Foley and members of the Board of Education will be on hand to extend their appreciation to volunteers.

State and local officials are invited to attend the kickoff event.

Refreshments and paper goods for the breakfast will be donated by Bruegger's Bagels, Burger King of Garwood, Dunkin' Donuts, Edwards Super Food Store, Kings Supermarkets, McDonald's of Garwood and Starbucks. Pat Clark, who served on the district's Technology Committee, has made arrangements for breakfast.

Willow Grove women to take annual retreat

The women of Willow Grove Presbyterian Church in Scotch Plains are preparing for their 18th annual retreat this weekend at Camp Johnsonburg in Warren County.

The retreat begins tonight and ends after dinner tomorrow. Women of the church are welcome to attend with their guests.

"Reflecting on God's Plan for the Seasons of Our Lives" is the theme of the retreat led by Lonnie Miller, who holds a master's degree in educational psychology from Rutgers University. Her husband, Rev. Ron Miller, is senior pastor of the Wilson Memorial Union Church in Watchung.

Cost of $40 includes overnight accommodations and three meals. For registration, call Barbara Couphos at 322-7892 or the Willow Grove church at 232-5678.

Briefs

Members are asked to bring staples for the food bank, including cereal, tuna, canned fruit and peanut butter.

Coming for club members are a Veterans Day salute Sunday, Nov. 16; luncheon and a show Wednesday, Nov. 10 at the Hunterdon Hills Playhouse; and a Christmas party Sunday, Dec. 14 at Pantagis Renaissance.

Brunner PTA offering coupon books

The Brunner School PTA in Scotch Plains is sponsoring the Gold C and Entertainment coupon book sale. The Gold C book costs $12 and has savings for fast food, travel, shopping, services, and recreation for the entire family. The New Jersey Entertainment coupon books have been reduced in price this year to $30.

They contain many of the same coupons as the Gold C books plus savings on fine dining, airline tickets, and other values.

Entertainment books also can be purchased for other areas of the country (prices vary according to the area). The books are shipped directly to the recipient.

HEALTH MATTERS

Get in shape to tackle your yard this fall

Before you rev up the lawn mower to reach for your rake this fall, consider the possible consequences: lower back strain, pain in the shoulders and upper back, neck strain.

Just as playing football or golf can injure your body, the twisting, turning, bending and reaching that go into mowing and raking may injure you if your body is not prepared.

"When you get out the rake or the mower, you're about to do something that is awkward," says Dr. R. Reeve Askew, an Easton, Md. chiropractor and member of the American Chiropractic Association's executive committee and board of governors.

"And like an athlete, if you leap into something without warming up or knowing how to do it, the chances of injury are greater."

Dr. Askew recommends the following:

* Stretching exercises, a total of 10-15 minutes spread over the course of your work. Before you tackle the lawn or the leaves, stretch, but don't bounce while stretching. Take a short walk to stimulate circulation. Do knee-to-chest pulls, trunk rotations and side bends with hands above your head and fingers locked.

* Work for half an hour, then rest for a few minutes and stretch again. When you're finished with the yard work, repeat the stretching exercises.

* Stand as straight as possible and keep your head up as you rake or mow.

* Avoid the heat of the day. If you're a morning person, get the work done before 10 a.m. Otherwise, do your chores after 6 p.m.

* When you're raking, use a scissors stance: right foot forward and left foot back for a few minutes, then reverse, putting your left foot forward and right foot back.

* Bend at the knees, not the waist, as you pick up piles of leaves or grass from the grass catcher.

Make the piles small to decrease the possibility of back strain.

* For mowing, use your weight to push the mower.

* If your mower has a pull cord, don't twist at the waist or yank the cord. Instead, bend at the knees and pull in one smooth motion.

* Drink lots of water, wear a hat, shoes and protective glasses. And, to avoid blisters, try wearing gloves.

If your equipment is loud, wear hearing protection, and if you have asthma or allergies, wear a mask. Try ergonomic tools. They may look funny, but they're engineered to protect you when used properly.

* If you do feel soreness and stiffness in your back, use ice to soothe the discomfort. And if there's no improvement in two to three days, see your chiropractor.

"A doctor or chiropractor is trained to analyze problems with your spine and take steps to help you become healthy again," says Dr. Askew.

For more information about chiropractic health care, call the American Chiropractic Association, 101 Clarendon Blvd., Arlington, VA 22209, or call 1-800-986-4636.

How to choose a martial arts school

Just as with academic schools, the quality of a martial arts school depends on the curriculum, the quality and experience of the teacher and the standards set for achievement.

While some schools emphasize competitions and their students train primarily to prepare for tournaments, traditional martial art was never intended to be a sport with winners and losers but rather a path toward each student's own self-realization.

At the Traditional Taekwon-Do Center (TTC), 1 Commerce Drive, Cranford, training is not emphasized. While there are occasional in-school and intra-federation tournaments, the emphasis instead is placed on the development of courtesy, integrity, perseverance and self-control.

One should also consider the teacher. At the TTC, all classes are taught by Robert Schneider, who has more than 20 years of experience in the art of Taekwon-Do. He is a second degree black belt and an ISSA-certified martial arts conditioning specialist and continues his training on a regular basis.

One should also be aware that stand-alone schools, which are not part of a larger system, may stray from the traditional ways. Some schools which are franchises may be less concerned with teaching an art than with making money.

The TTC is part of a world-wide federation of schools reaching 5,000 students, but at the same time it is individually owned and operated and not a franchise.

The atmosphere in the school should be serious but friendly and the students should be well disciplined and courteous. On a more practical level, the school should be clean, safe and well maintained.

Studying a martial art is often a long-term commitment. When looking for a school, one should visit, observe, ask questions and even take a trial class to make an informed decision. One must feel comfortable with the style, instructor, and overall atmosphere. Traditionally, martial arts emphasize the process of training over the end result.

Remember that although students may have varied reasons for studying a martial art, ultimately, they are learning a physical skill. Teachers who have mastered not only their art but also the principles and methods of scientific sport training will get the best results from their students.

For more information, visit the Traditional Taekwon-Do Center of NJ at 1 Commerce Drive, Cranford, or call (908) 497-1100.

New approaches to psychological disorders

By KIRTLEY E. THORNTON, Ph.D.

There have been exciting developments during the past several years in the treatment of Attention Deficit Disorders, Learning Disabilities and various psychological disorders such as Post-Traumatic Stress disorder and alcoholism.

A new treatment modality has been shown to increase IQs in children 15-25 points, to treat chronic alcoholism with an 80 percent cure rate and to successfully treat Post-Traumatic Stress disorders and anxiety disorders. The treatment involves the providing of information of the electrical activity of the brain to the subject who then can effectively change how the brain is operating. The treatment approach is called Neurotherapy. Concepts such as phase, coherence, peak frequency, theta activity, etc. have become the nomenclature of the new approach.

No longer do psychologists working in this area speak of unconscious conflicts or Oedipus complexes. In this cutting-edge technology, the focus is upon changing the brain itself and how it is functioning. Closely allied with this approach is the field of Neuropsychology, which addresses areas such as memory disorders due to head injuries, strokes, etc. or amnesia.

The treatment approach, however, required highly developed skills in the areas of Neuropsychology and Quantitative EEG as well as expensive equipment. Due to these obstacles, there are not many practitioners engaging in this area of treatment. One such local center is the Center for Health Psychology in South Plainfield. This clinic is actively engaged in memory research in this area and is currently seeking and paying normal subjects (adult and children) to participate in the research necessary to expand the knowledge base of this approach.

Research is being actively engaged in throughout the country in terms of chronic fatigue syndrome, age-related memory decline, peak performance, weight control and a host of other clinical conditions with many clinicians reporting positive results. Controlled research studies are needed to confirm these reports.

The writer is a licensed clinical psychologist and managing director of the Center for Health Psychology, 2509 Park Ave., South Plainfield. For more information, call (908) 753-1800.

Natural ways to avoid colds and flu

Vegetarian Times magazine recommends the following natural remedies for preventing colds and flu. While no guarantee of a cold-and-flu-free season, these may go a long way toward preventing or shortening your bug.

Garlic — Raw garlic has been shown to kill several types of bacteria and viruses and it boost immunity. If you're worried about "garlic breath," deodorized supplements contain the equivalent of many cloves in each pill.

Vitamin C — By far the most popular cold and flu preventative is vitamin C, which has the wide-ranging effects of being a potent antioxidant, boosting interferon (a natural antiviral substance), raising antibody levels and maintaining a strong immune system. Eating five generous servings of fresh fruits and vegetables each day, especially citrus fruits, bananas, berries, greens, peppers, tomatoes and potatoes, will ensure you get your recommended daily allowance of vitamin C.

Zinc — Non-meat sources of zinc include whole grains, beans, nuts and nut butters and pumpkin and sunflower seeds. Zinc lozenges are popular weapons on the prevention front and have been shown to dramatically reduce the lifespan of colds and flu.

Echinacea — Herbalists use echinacea to jump-start the immune system; it is recommended that you take course of echinacea, three weeks on, one week off.

A Stress-Free Life — Working too hard and not getting enough sleep exhaust the body and leave it more vulnerable to infection.

Weddings & engagements

MR. AND MRS. JOHN T. MARQUARDT JR.

Elizabeth Sylvia is wed to John Marquardt Jr.

Elizabeth Sylvia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Sylvia of Cape Cod, Mass., was marred to John T. Marquardt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Marquardt of Fanwood, Aug. 9, 1997.

The ceremony was held at St. Pius X Church in Forked River with Father Robert Leahy officiating. A reception followed at Ocean Acres Country Club in Manahawkin.

Escorted by her brother-in-law Patrick Moran, the bride wore a white gown of Chantilly lace embellished with sequins and pearls. She carried white roses and her grandmother's lace.

Lori Moran of Forked River served as matron of honor for her sister.

Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride Karen Sylvia and Andrew Whitney, both of Massachusetts, and sister of the bridegroom Susan Hillman of Maryland. Niece Caitlin Moran of Forked River was flower girl.

Michael Moran of Long Beach Island served as best man.

Ushers were Richard Morris of Summit, John Morris of Bedminster, Christopher Baumann of Chatham and nephews Benjamin Murdock and Patrick Moran, both of Forked River.

The bride is a student at the College of New Jersey in Trenton majoring in elementary education and English

The bridegroom is a graduate of Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School and holds a bachelor's degree in business administration with a marketing major from Seton Hall University. He is owner of Proforma Printing and Business Products.

The couple's wedding trip was to Bermuda. They reside in Fanwood.

TARA MANDRILLO AND PAUL WILLIAM JORDAN

Tara Mandrillo to wed Paul Jordan

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mandrillo of Westfield have announced the engagement of their daughter, Tara Mandrillo, to Paul William Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jordan of Westfield.

The future bride, a graduate of Westfield High School, holds a cum laude degree from Westchester University. She is a teacher in the Millburn-Short Hills Township Public School System.

Her fiance is a graduate of Westfield High School and the University of Virginia. He is employed by Charlton GOIN-SLK on the American Stock Exchange. An August 1998 wedding is planned.

Dr. Chinoy is named to dental post

SCOTCH PLAINS — Walter I. Chinoy, a general dentist with offices in Scotch Plains since 1979, has been re-elected to a seventh one-year term as Speaker of the House of Delegates of the New Jersey Dental Association.

Dr. Chinoy received a bachelor of arts degree from Rutgers University in 1970 and a D.M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine in 1974. A former commissioned officer in the U.S. Public Health Service, he completed a general practice residency at the U.S. Public Health Hospital, Staten Island, N.Y., in 1975.

He has served as a member of the NJDA Board of Trustees since 1988 and has been a member of the House of Delegates since 1983. In addition to his membership in NJDA and the American Dental Association, he is a Fellow of the Pierre Fauchard Academy, the International College of Dentists and the American College of Dentists. He is a member of the Academy of General Dentistry, America Academy of the History of Dentistry and the American Institute of Parliamentarians. He was president of the Central Dental Society in 1987-88.

Dr. Chinoy is an active member of B'nai B'rith and enjoys sports reading history and collecting United States coins, with a special interest in large cents, half dimes and liberty seated dimes. He and his wife, Elaine, a registered dental hygienist, have two sons, Adams and Evan.

Have a laugh for your health at 'Y'

WESTFIELD — As part of its commitment to helping people improve their lives, the Westfield "Y," 220 Clark St., will present a workshop called "Humor: The Necessity of Life" 6:30-8 p.m. Sunday.

Rick Shapiro, a humor therapist and consultant, will demonstrate how the latest research has proven the effects that humor and laughter have on reducing stress and improving our immune system.

Modern research supports the use of humor to reduce stress. Humor and Health Journal, by Joseph R. Dunn, is dedicated to humor and communicating its relationship with a person's health, medical, psychological, social and spiritual well-being.

The UCLA Medical School Department of Behavioral Medicine is studying Norman Cousins' research on the effects of humor and laughter.

Mr. Shapiro specializes in humor and stress management. A former Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus clown, Mr. Shapiro has worked as a professional comedy performer, writer and slapstick comedy coach. While serving in the Air Force in Vietnam, he performed for fellow servicemen/women and hundreds of children in an orphanage outside of Saigon.

After working for 22 years producing special events for companies, he now devotes his life's work to speaking and consulting full time on Humor: The Necessity of Life.

The workshop costs $15 per person and is open to the public. Register at the Westfield "Y." For details, call 233-2700, Ext. 246.

American Girls Fashion Show set

SCOTCH PLAINS — Tickets are now available for The American Girls Fashion Show, a children's fashion show and fundraiser sponsored by the Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield. Three shows will be held the weekend of Nov. 8 and 9 at Union Catholic Regional High School in Scotch Plains. Showtimes are Nov. 8 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. and Nov. 9 at 1 p.m.

Based on costumes from the popular line of dolls and books, The American Girls Fashion Show features historically inspired clothing for girls modeled by local children and accompanied by historical narration and entertainment. The show brings to life such storybook characters as Felicity Merriman, a Colonial girl, and Kirsten Larson, a Swedish immigrant during Pioneer days.

A special feature is the introduction of clothing from the newest American Girl, Josefina Montoya, a 9-year-old Hispanic girl growing up in northern new Mexico in 1824. Participants will see firsthand the rich traditions and colorful flavor woven into the clothing worn by Josefina and inspired by Spanish and Mexican influences in the early 1800s. Girls are encouraged to bring their favorite doll to the party.

During intermission, guests will enjoy refreshments in the "Candy Corn Cafe" and a chance to shop in the American Girls bookshop and boutique. Door prizes and party favors from the Pleasant Company will be offered at each show. In addition, seven dolls from the American Girls Collection, including a gift certificate for an "American Girl of Today," will be awarded as raffle prizes at the end of the weekend; tickets are $3 per chance.

Proceeds from The American Girls Fashion Show will benefit the Paige Whitney Babies' Center in Basking Ridge, a nonprofit organization, dedicated to providing the basic necessities for babies of disadvantaged homes, and The Elizabeth Coalition to House the Homeless, an agency dedicated to providing transitional housing for homeless families in Union County.

Last year's event raised more than $30,000 for the AIDS Resource Foundation for Children and other community projects of the Junior League.

In addition, a portion of all catalog sales generated by the event will be donated to the Rosemary Cuccaro Medical Day Care Center in Elizabeth, an affiliate of the Visiting Nurse Service.

Tickets to The American Girls Fashion Show are $22 each and can be purchased by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "American Girls Fashion Show," c/o The Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield, 110 Walnut Avenue, Cranford, N.J. 07016. Make checks payable to the Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield and indicate first, second and third choices for showtimes. Add $3 for each raffle ticket desired.

For details, call 709-1177.

Caitlyn Oster and Melissa McDermott, both of Westfield, model clothes from the American Girls Collection. The fashion show will be Nov. 8-9 in Scotch Plains.

Temple to hold Godparents event

WESTFIELD — Godparents 1997 will take place 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16 at Temple Emanu-El, Westfield.

Benefiting the newly constructed Mother and Child Center of Hadassah Hospital, Ein Karem, the project features a sumptious dinner replete with assorted hors d'oeuvres, multichoice entrees, and a dessert table featuring delicious cookies, cakes, pies, and fruits.

Leonard Bornstein Entertainments will feature a disc jockey to entertain with line dancing and modern and traditional melodies for dancing enjoyment.

The first entirely new Hadassah building in 15 years, the Mother and Child Center proudly services the emotional and physical needs of both the child and the mother.

Compassionate pediatric care, advanced medically expert attention to both mother and child, and a facility built to house the latest technological equipment all combined into this newest of Hadassah projects. Godparents project has supported this facility for many years donating funds for equipment and furnishings.

Godpatents' certificates will be issued for the $185 contribution per couple ($92.50) single member).

Godparents' names will be inscribed in the Book of Life on permanent display at Hadassah Hospital.

Contributions should be mailed to Maxine Bradie, 1134 Puddingstone Road, Mountainside, N.J. 07092.

SCHOOLS & COLLEGES

Union County College Partners with Medical Centers to Offer Nursing Careers

Cranford–Union County College, whose programs were found to be "clearly excellent" by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, offers those who aspire to enter the nursing field significant opportunities through its partnerships with two outstanding medical centers.

With its own campuses geographically situated to cover the easternmost and westernmost ends of the county, the College offers cooperative programs with both Elizabeth General Medical Center (EGMC) School of Nursing in Elizabeth and Muhlenberg Medical Center School of Nursing and Allied Health in Plainfield.

At Muhlenberg, the cooperative programs in Professional Nursing and Radiography lead to an Associate in Science degree from the College and a Muhlenberg diploma. Classes are available in both day and evening divisions over five semesters, but students may choose an accelerated program in Radiography that spans four semesters. Students in these programs fulfill their general education requirements and take some theory courses at Union County College, while fulfilling their practical courses at Muhlenberg in a clinical setting.

In Elizabeth, the Cooperative Program in Nursing offers a Diploma in Nursing from EGMC School of Nursing and an Associate in Science Degree from UCC. Here, too, general education courses are conducted at the campuses of Union County College in Elizabeth, Plainfield, or Cranford, and nursing courses are conducted at the School of Nursing. EGMC is also offering a relatively new program which provides existing Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN) the opportunity to complete the necessary courses to become Registered Nurses (RN) over a 12-month period.

Both programs will be holding fall open houses to familiarize prospective students with their programs. Union County College and EGMC will co-sponsor an Open House from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 28, 1997, in the Billington Conference Center of the EGMC School of Nursing, 925 East Jersey Street, Elizabeth. The Muhlenberg programs will be featured at an Open House on Thursday, November 13, 1997 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the School of Nursing and Allied Health in the Medical Center, Park Avenue and Randolph Road, Plainfield.

For further information, contact the Union County College Enrollment Services Office at 908-709-7518.

Early use of tin to be discussed at Miller-Cory

WESTFIELD — The use of tin in early New Jersey will be featured 2-5 p.m. Sunday at the Miller-Cory House Museum, 614 Mountain Ave.

Owen McWilliams of Westfield will explain the work of tinsmiths during the 18th and 19th centuries. He also will demonstrate the process of tin piercing.

Tin cost less than brass or copper during colonial times. Because tin is malleable, it could be formed into candlesticks, utensils, pans, candle molds, lanterns and foot warmers. Tinsmiths often pierced designs in some of their products, especially lanterns; the designs created an interesting effect when the lanterns were lit.

Among the museum's collection is the 1802 inventory of Joseph Cory, which includes tin pieces that will be on display Sunday.

As usual, open-hearth cooking will be conducted at the historical site. Docents in costume will guide visitors through the restored farmhouse and answer questions about life in colonial times.

Admission is $2 for adults, 50 cents for students and free to children under 6. For more information, call 232-1776.

The museum has scheduled its annual apple bee Sunday, Nov. 2 with Thomas Sherry of Westfield.

'Senior Awareness' program planned

WESTFIELD — Aren businesses and organizations that service the needs of seniors and those who care for seniors are invited to participate in "Senior Awareness 2000: Planning for the Future" scheduled for 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 2 at Edison School.

Sponsored by the Westfield "Y," the Lauren Danis Eldernet Project of Temple Emanu-El and the Union County Division on Aging, "Senior Awareness 2000" will provide a wealth of information and resources for seniors and caregivers of seniors via table displays and informative presentations in planning for the financial, housing, health, and wellness needs of older adults. This resource fair also will provide free health screenings.

Susan Chasnoff, executive director of the Division on Aging, will give the keynote address. Fore more information on how to participate, call Dave Mueller at 233-2700, Ext. 233.

Kumon Helps Prepare Children for the Future

In today's demanding and ever-changing world, a solid foundation in Math and Reading is essential. This is why more and more parents are turning to supplemental education for their children. "In today's very competitive world, it is important that we provide our children with the tools to succeed," states Carol Smith, Kumon Director, "and Kumon can do just that."

Kumon Math and Reading Centers are dedicated to providing students with the ability to reach their potential. Often educational requirements are not being met by school systems. Most students require extra practice to be truly proficient, and that extra, individualized help cannot be provided in a classroom of 20 to 25 children. The extra practice that Kumon gives students makes the difference in achievement, and students become more inspired when the material they are faced with in school is easier. Their self-esteem increases, as well as the ability to tackle more difficult tasks.

Students from all walks of life attend Kumon after school. Some attend for remedial study to boost lagging skills, or just to keep up without falling behind. Some attend for enrichment, developing high potential. Since the program is individualized, it fits every students needs. Students come to a Kumon Center once or twice a week, for about 30 to 45 minutes. They come on a drop-in basis, which fits easily into the hectic schedules of most families. "I noticed a change in my daughter very soon after enrolling her in the Kumon program. At first I was concerned it would be too much to schedule, but that is not the case. Kumon is very manageable, and the benefits Katie has received far outweigh any inconvenience I may encounter. Katie is excited about this school year because she knows she will be better than she was last year," asserts a new Kumon parent.

Children whose parents provide all the opportunities to help them succeed are really lucky. Kumon is a wonderful opportunity to help your child be successful in school, and of course, later in life. Not only the skills obtained, but the perseverance of study can be a critical distinction between success and failure in many scenarios of life. The old saying, "The difference between the man who failed and the man who succeeded was five extra minutes of hard work," is a simple but telling example of what a difference perseverance can make in your child's life. It is not a coincidence that the successful students are diligent and hard working students also. Most of the top students are long-time Kumon students as well.

To give your child the edge that Kumon provides, call the Center in Parsippany at (973) 739-9559; in Millburn at (973) 258-0963; in Randolph at (973) 927-9559; or in Denville at (973) 625-9559. Tuition is $80 per month.

'Fun Run' set for Nov. 15 at YMCA

SCOTCH PLAINS — A 5 km "Fun Run" Saturday, Nov. 15 will begin a year of special events marking the 50th anniversary of the Fanwood-Scotch Plains YMCA.

The "Fun Run" is open to runners, walkers, cyclists, strollers, even those in wheelchairs. All who participate will receive a certificate and a give-away prize. The first 100 who register will receive an embroidered cap.

Check-in begins 8:15 a.m. at the YMCA's Grand Street building. The run will begin 9 a.m. at the Grand Street building and end at the main building on South Martine Avenue. Water stations will be set up along the route.

Local dignitaries are expected to attend a program after the "Fun Run."

Registration is $12 per person except for strollers.

Deadline for registration is Friday, Nov. 7. For a registration form, call 889-8880.

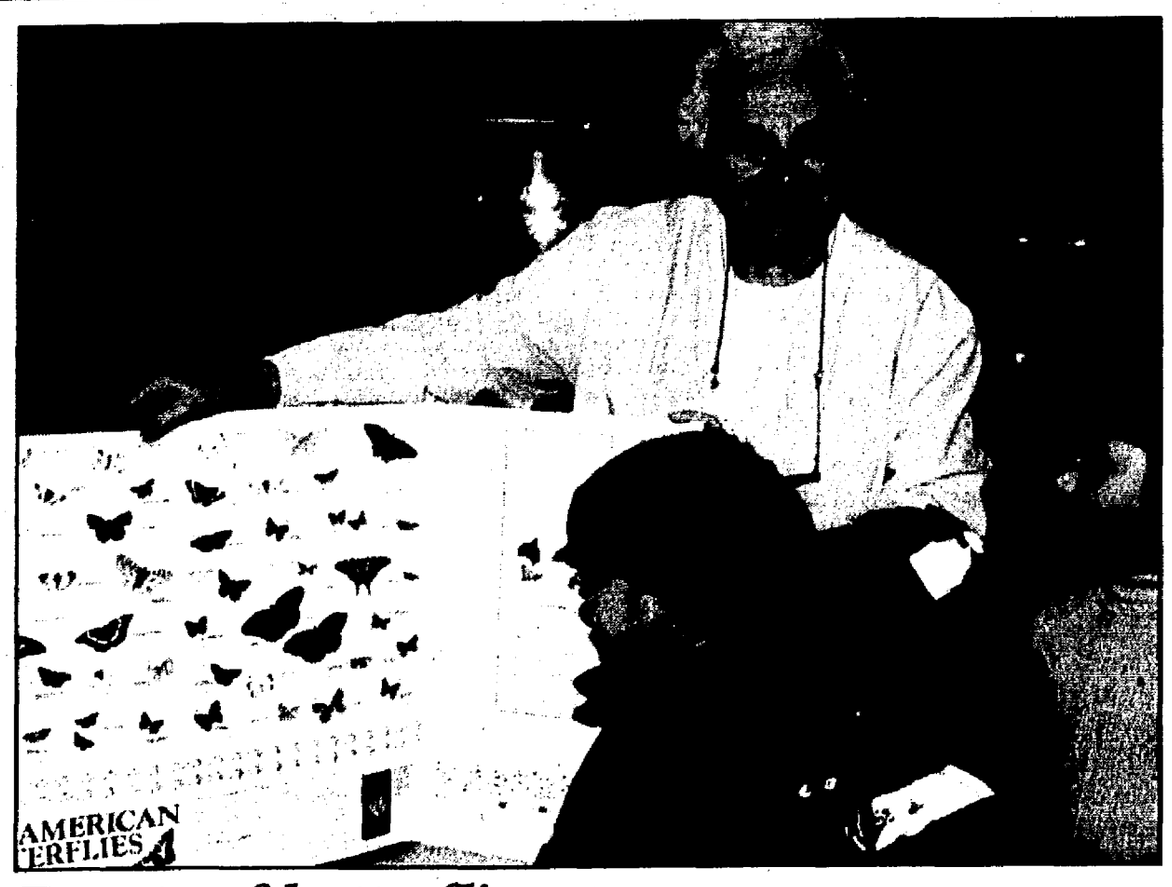
Genesis ElderCare selling cookbooks for $7 each

WESTFIELD — Just in time for the holidays, Genesis ElderCare-Westfield is selling a cookbook full of main dishes, desserts and everything in between.

More than 200 recipes were submitted by employees and residents of the nursing home as well as their families. Cost for each cookbook is $7. Proceeds will purchase items for those in the "quality of life" program.

To purchase a copy, visit Genesis ElderCare, 1515 Lamberts Mill Road.

For more information, call 233-9700.



Beauty of butterflies

Vi Debbie of Scotch Plains describes the hundreds of species of butterflies to Jeffrey Solomon, Alexandra Gockel and Shannon Murray as part of a classroom presentation sponsored by the Sharing Talents and Skills program of the Westfield public schools. The students are in Carol Mastroianni's first-grade class at Franklin School.

Leaf collection details announced

WESTFIELD — The changing color of leaves and the chill in the air remind us that leaves will begin to fall soon, and the Department of Public Works is busy making preparations for Westfield's annual leaf collection. With the cooperation of all residents and Mother Nature, the town can repeat the efficient and timely service provided last year.

METHOD OF LEAF COLLECTION

As you may recall, a unique new method of leaf collection was used in 1996 and it proved to be the most efficient, economical approach to date. In view of the success of this approach, the same methodology will be used this year. The key features of this program are:

- Collection will begin Monday, Oct. 27, one week earlier than in past years.
- Collection will begin simultaneously on the north side and south side.
- Collection on the north and south sides will be by town DPW crews, augmented by rental equipment.
- Leaves from the north side will be hauled to the Union County compost facility in Springfield. Leaves from the south side will be hauled to the town Conservation Center on Lamberts Mill Road, where a private contractor will pick them up and haul them away.
- Continuation of the Leaf Hotline, 789-4120, which residents can call to check the collection schedule on any given day.

Prior to 1996 all leaves were hauled to the county facility and much valuable time was diverted from collection to hauling, especially from the south side, which is furthest from Springfield and requires trucks to cross the North Avenue-South Avenue corridor at one of the three congested locations.

The current approach, which was made feasible by lower disposal fees at private compost facilities and lower equipment rental costs, dramatically reduces the hauling distance and time, allowing much more time for collection and removal from the streets.

The town will be divided into the same 10 areas as in past years, Areas 1-6 on the north side and Areas 7-10 on the south side. Collection will begin simultaneously in Area 1 on the north side and Area 7 on the south side, then proceed in numerical order. Collection will continue through mid-to-late December, when most of the leaves have fallen (again, weather permitting). Because crews will be operating simultaneously on the north and south sides, completion of a full pass on each side and return to any given area will be quicker. As you may recall, in past years we began in Area 1 and did not return for the next pass until the entire town was completed.

HOW RESIDENTS CAN HELP

We emphasize that the success of any leaf collection program is due in large part to the cooperation of residents. Following area the ways in which you can help:

- Before raking leaves to the street, call the Leaf Hotline, 789-4120, to determine when the crews will be in your area. This will minimize the amount of time leaf piles are on the street.
- Place only leaves at the curb. Tree branches, grass or other debris are not accepted at the compost facilities and piles containing anything other than leaves will not be picked up.
- Leaves should be placed in narrow rows along the curb or shoulder, leaving a space along the gutter for drainage. This will help minimize local flooding during fall rains.
- Do not pile leaves on or near drainage inlets, which can lead to local flooding.
- Keep vehicles off the streets during collection days to avoid interference with leaf collection crews.
- Do not park cars over leaf piles. Hot exhaust systems can ignite the leaves and cause a car fire. Also, leaves cannot be picked up if a car is in the way.

OTHER LEAF DISPOSAL OPTIONS

In order to further maximize service, the town offers residents two other leaf disposal options:

- On-Demand Pickup. To take advantage of this service, residents may obtain clear plastic bags at no charge at the Public Works Center, 959 North Ave. West, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. Filled bags will be picked up at the curb by the town DPW within 24 hours of request by the resident, in person or through the Leaf Hotline.
- Conservation Center. The Conservation Center will be open during leaf season 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday for any residents who want to dispose of their leaves, loose or in clear plastic bags. The Conservation Center will be closed Veterans Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11; Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 27; and Friday, Nov. 28.

Be sure to read the Record-Press for articles on the leaf collection program. In addition, weekly updates will be televised on Comcast Cablevision Channel 36.

Dr. Deckenback to be church's guest preacher

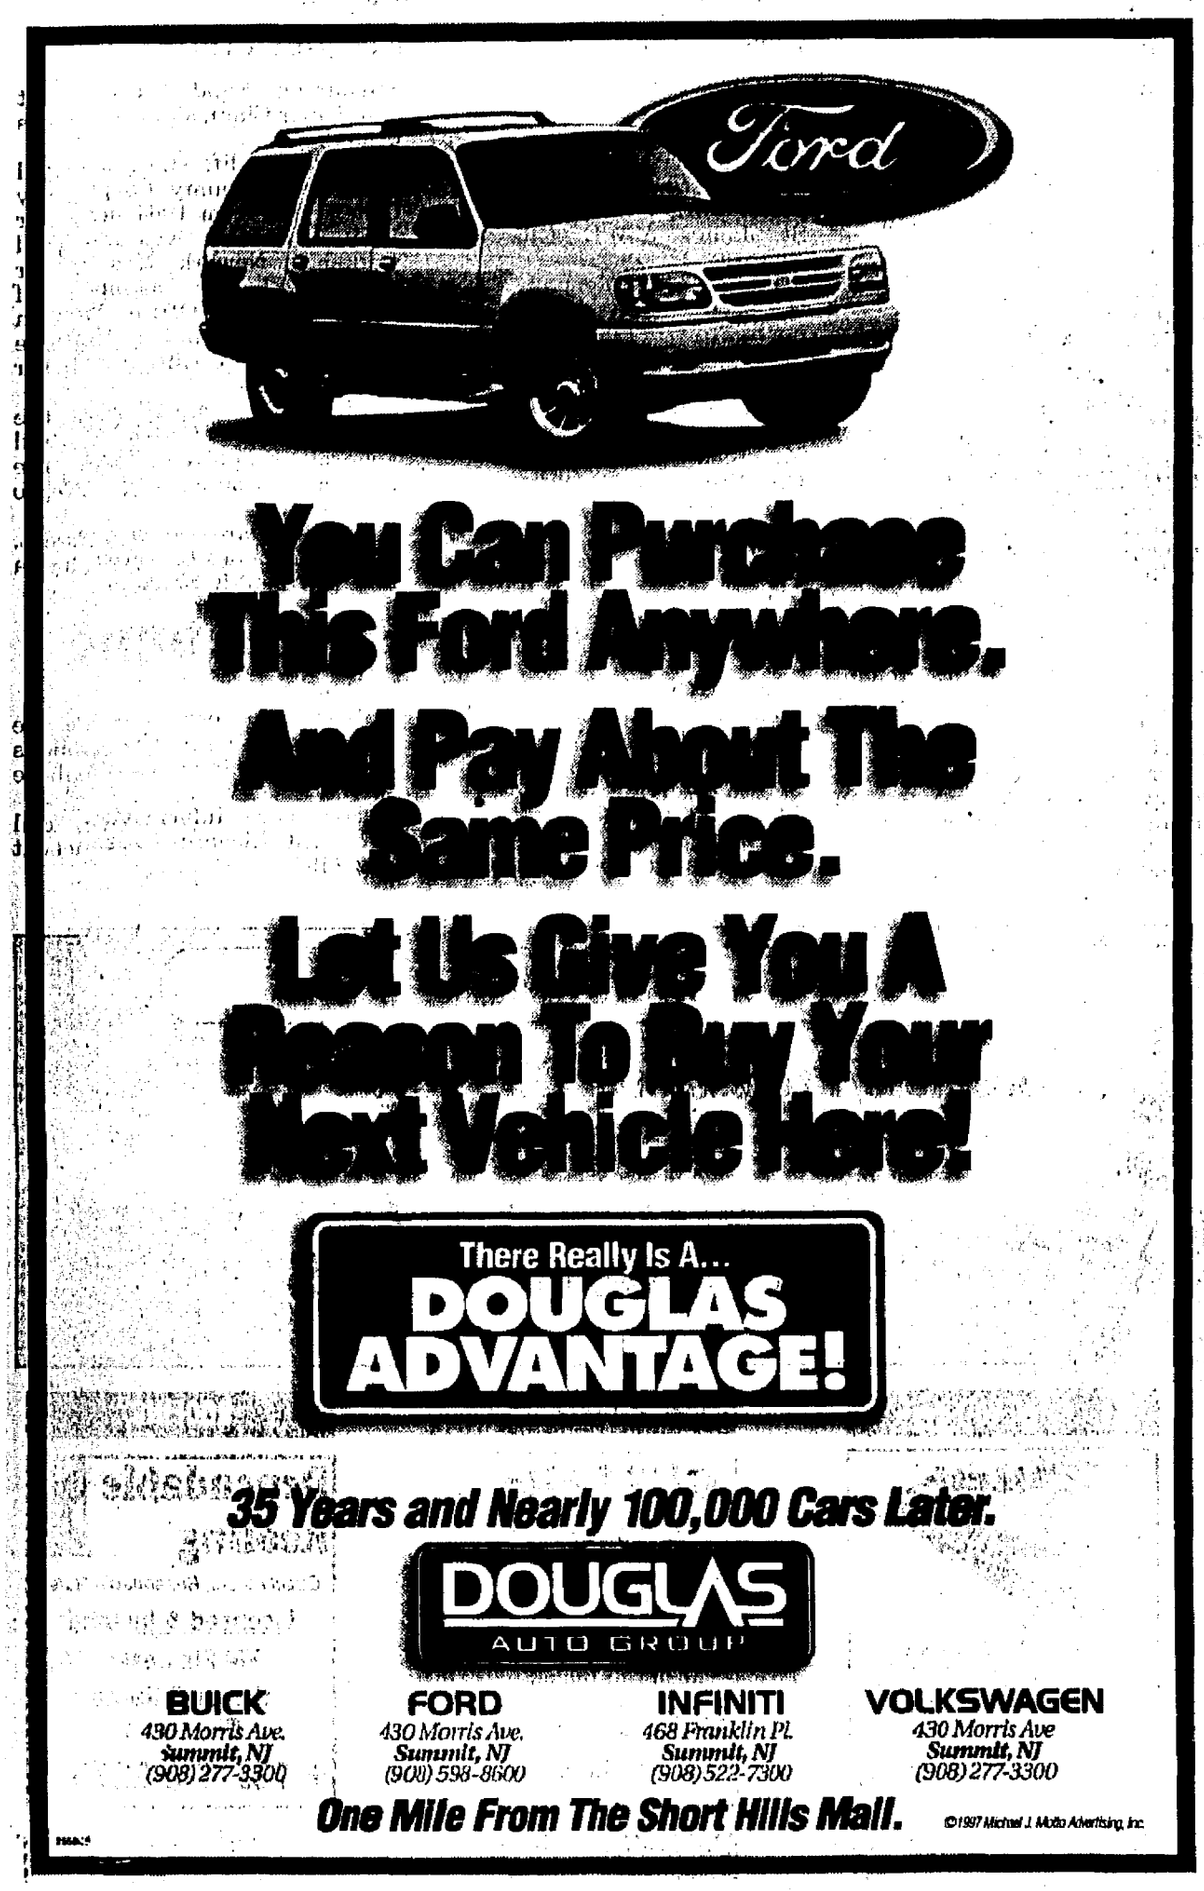
WESTFIELD — John R. Deckenback will be the guest preacher for a special service 10 a.m. Sunday of the First Congregational Church, 125 Elmer St.

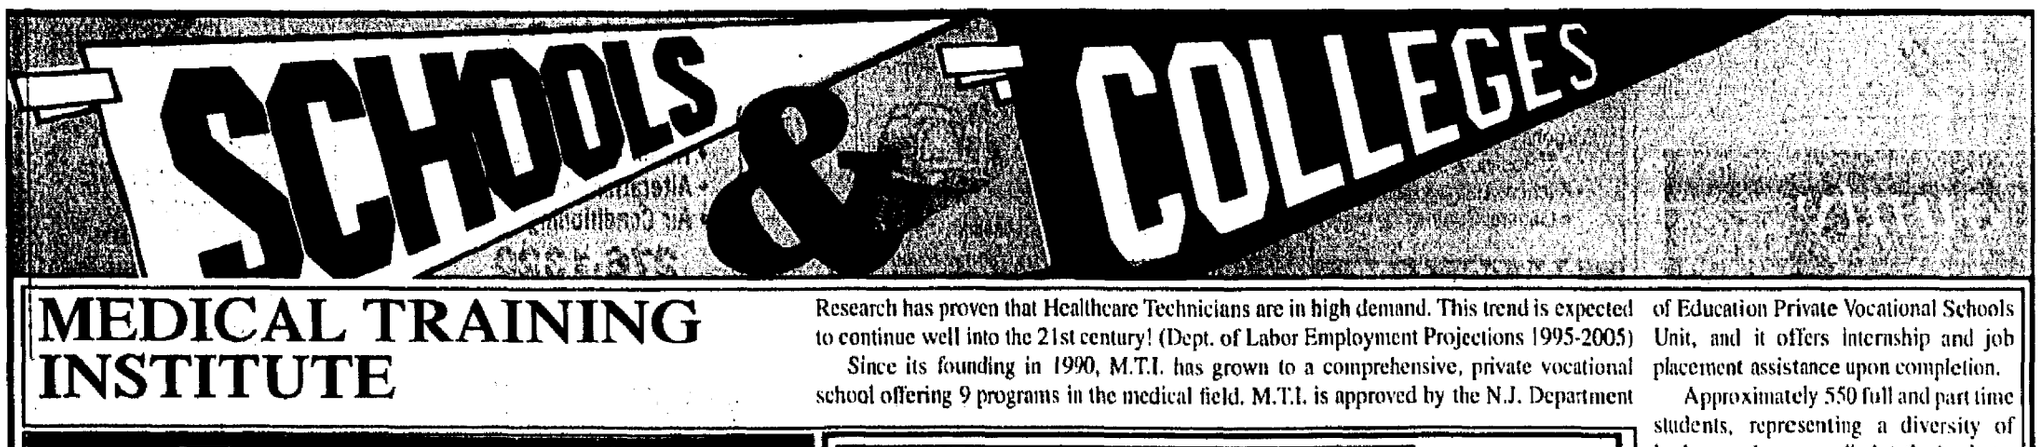
He is the spiritual leader and chief executive of the Central Atlantic Conference of the United Church of Christ, which incorporates New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The responsibilities he holds are similar to those of a bishop in other denominations.

A native of Cresskill, Dr. Deckenback is chairman of the Council of Conference Ministers Cabinet and a member of the Office for Church and Society Directorate within the United Church of Christ. He is a trustee of the Lancaster Theological Seminary in Pennsylvania and the Hope Homes of Maryland.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., and two graduate degrees from the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, Calif.

Visitors are welcome and child care will be available. For more information, call 233-2494.





MEDICAL TRAINING INSTITUTE

Research has proven that Healthcare Technicians are in high demand. This trend is expected to continue well into the 21st century! (Dept. of Labor Employment Projections 1995-2005)

Since its founding in 1990, M.T.I. has grown to a comprehensive, private vocational school offering 9 programs in the medical field. M.T.I. is approved by the N.J. Department of Education Private Vocational Schools Unit, and it offers internship and job placement assistance upon completion.

Approximately 550 full and part time students, representing a diversity of backgrounds are enrolled at the institute. Consisting of the Bloomfield Campus as well as the Hudson County annex in Jersey City, M.T.I. offers easy accessibility from all areas.

It is the mission and goal of Medical Training Institute (M.T.I.) to give each student a high quality, short-term, extensive training as a healthcare technician. We offer these programs taught by professionals working in their field of expertise. M.T.I. encourages additional effective skills for working in the healthcare field such as communication, compassion, cleanliness and professionalism. We also encourage and teach specific laws related to specific healthcare environments. We are proud to offer these vocational, technical programs to you. FACT: "Over 70% of program graduates find employment."

M.T.I. programs are offered days, nights & weekends. Payment plans are available. Training = Jobs In Healthcare.

Surviving are his wife, Teresa Carnevale Rombicone; a daughter, Rita Hamer; two brothers, Giovanni and Franco; and two grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated yesterday at St. Helen's Roman Catholic Church. Entombment was in the mausoleum at Fairview Cemetery.

Arrangements were by the Dooley Funeral Home in Cranford. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Alfredo Colicchio, 69

Machinist with a dairy in county

WESTFIELD — Alfredo Colicchio, 69, died Oct. 20, 1997 at Overlook Hospital in Summit. He had been a machinist with Tuscan Farms at its Union dairy prior to his 1991 retirement.

Mr. Colicchio was born in Vallata, Italy.

He immigrated to the United States in 1957 and lived in Elizabeth before moving to Westfield in 1969.

Surviving are his wife, Frances; a daughter, Rose Stepner of Scotch Plains; a son, Tom, and a daughter-in-law, Mary Lou, both of Westfield; a brother, Enrico of Italy; a sister, Amalia Colicchio Petitto of South America; and a granddaughter, Danielle Stepner of Scotch Plains.

A funeral Mass was celebrated yesterday at Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church. Entombment was in the Good Shepherd Chapel Mausoleum at St. Gertrude Cemetery, Colonia.

Arrangements were by the Gray Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 815, Elizabeth, N.J. 07207.

Tressy B. Taylor, 75

Postal worker; official of her church

SCOTCH PLAINS — Services have been held for Tressy B. Taylor, 75, who died Oct. 11, 1997 at Morristown Memorial Hospital. She had been a retired postal worker and an official of St. James A.M.E. Church in Newark.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., she lived in Newark before moving to Scotch Plains in 1995.

Mrs. Taylor was president of her church's New Members Club for more than 18 years and first vice president of the church Missionary Society. She was a Girl Scout leader and vacation Bible school instructor at St. James Church.

She also a member of the Precious Gems, Marie B. Moses Scholarship Fund, Nurses Unit and Senior Choir, all at St. James Church.

In secular life she graduated from Essex County Community College and from 1964 until her 1989 retirement was a postal worker in Newark. Mrs. Taylor was a charter member of POWER, Post Office Women Equal Rights, and a lifetime member of the Coalition of Labor Union Women.

She was a member of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees and the National Council of Negro Women.

Surviving are two sons, Fred L. Webb and James L. Lofton; and a brother, Yusuf R. Shakoor.

History of quilts to be topic

New playground

Deputy Scotch Plains Mayor Joan Papen cuts the ribbon dedicating the newly installed playground at Farley Park. Pictured with Mrs. Papen are Councilman Martin Marks, Tywan Bynum, Jake and Daniel Palumbo, Jerome Cunningham, Dianne Ledder, recreation commissioner George Oberle, recreation commissioner Elijah Moore, Councilman William McClintock and recreation commissioner Donald Paterson. The playground was made possible through a Community Development Block Grant.

UCC Gala set for tomorrow

CRANFORD — Finishing touches are being made to plans for the gourmet menu and entertainment to be featured at the Union County College Foundation's fifth annual Gala. The event will be held 6:30 p.m.-midnight tomorrow in The Commons of the college's Cranford campus.

"The Right Mix," an eight-piece contemporary band, will perform throughout the evening. Their repertoire includes pop, jazz, Big Band and other favorites. Johnson & Johnson has underwritten the cost for the evening's entertainment, which was booked through Flying Frog production company in Somerset.

A two-piece section of the band ill play during the cocktail hour and the entire ensemble will play 8 p.m.-midnight for guests' listening and dancing pleasure.

The Gala will begin with a cocktail hour featuring carving stations, coconut chicken, pigs in a blanket with honey mustard sauce, bruschetta, crudite and cheese cascade with a pesto cream, shrimp scampi with bowtie pasta and cherry tomatoes, and a choice of three types of sautéed mushrooms.

For dinner, guests will dine on a tortellini Alfredo appetizer, followed by mesculen salad with balsamic vinaigrette dressing and lemon sorbet. The entree will feature a choice of either chicken breast stuffed with wild rice and served with a strawberry sauce or roast sirloin of beef Bordelaise. Baby glazed carrots and roasted red bliss potatoes with dill butter will round out the entree. Baked Alaska will top off the meal for dessert, along with coffee and assorted teas.

According to Nadine Brechner, executive director of business and college development, responses are coming continuously from individuals and business representatives wishing to purchase tickets for the black-tie-preferred event.

The Gala is the foundation's major fund-raiser, generating money to support UCC students and programs. Many people also are interested in purchasing tickets to the Gala's raffle in which 24 prizes will be awarded, she said.

Additionally, Ms. Brechner notes, the foundation is well on its way to achieving its goal for advertisements in its Gala journal. The journal will be distributed after the Gala. It will include pictures of the event and serves as a reference and business directory for attendees. It also will be distributed to some 1,500 business and other college supporters.

Ms. Brechner said raffle tickets may be purchased through Oct. 25, the Gala date. Winners need not be present to win. Heading the raffle prize list is a first prize "create your own" dream vacation for two, valued at $3,000, and donated by Affiliated Travel-Union County and CoreStates Bank.

Second prize is a DEC computer with Pentium chip, 15-inch color monitor and CD-ROM, valued at $1,550, donated by Atrion Corp. Two round-trip tickets donated by Continental Airlines to a destination of choice is the third prize, valued at $1,000.

Arts grants made in county

Forty-eight Union County organizations and presenters of arts programs will receive a total of $81,600 from the 1997-98 Union County Arts Grants Program.

"That sum represents the majority of the grant of $108,700 awarded by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts to our Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs," said Freeholder Chairperson Linda Stender, liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

"The remainder and a cash match provided by the Board of Chosen Freeholders will enable the division to hire staff, present technical assistance workshops, and provide other programs for the benefit of Union County artists, cultural organizations, and residents," she added.

The organizations receiving grants through the Union County Arts Grant Program presented by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will be 6 p.m. Tuesday. The reception will be hosted by Elizabethtown Gas Co. at its headquarters at Liberty Center in Union.

Marcia Cohen, chairwoman of the Arts Grant Committee of the Union County Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board, said the applications were initially evaluated by professional panels and then were reviewed by the Arts Grant Committee in a highly competitive process before being acted upon by the entire Advisory Board.

"We are very excited by the quality and variety of programs available to county residents through this program," Ms. Cohen added.

For more information about the Union County Arts Grant Program and other services offered by the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Department of Economic Development, contact the Division at 24-52 Rahway Ave., Elizabeth, 07202, N.J. or call 558-2550, Relay users can dial (800) 852-7899.

Thrift Shop has hotline

SCOTCH PLAINS — The Thrift Shop in Scotch Plains wishes to advise the public that a 24-hour hotline has been installed. Customers may now call the shop's answer machine at 322-5240 to learn the hours the shop will be open and hear announcements of special sales scheduled.

Donations to The Thrift Shop of all kinds have far exceeded expectations. The shop volunteers have been diligently working, and fall apparel for the entire family in a wide variety of sizes and styles is in the shop awaiting customer approval. Halloween costumes also are available.

In response to the demand of working townspeople, the shop has scheduled 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Oct. 25 as an Open Saturday. Special sales will be posted in the shop, announced on the hot-line, and on local television.

Additional volunteers are needed to maintain this shop. Volunteers are scheduled two hours a week on a day and time of their choosing. On-the-job training is simple.

The Thrift Shop is at 1730 E. Second St. Shop hours are 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Friday and Saturdays, except Oct. 25.

Women IN BUSINESS

Mountainside's First Choice Celebrates 15 Years of Business

MOUNTAINSIDE - First choice, a placement agency that focuses on women in the work place, located at 1020 Springfield Avenue, Mountainside, was started by Joy Fickett in 1982. July 7 marked 15 years that the agency has been in business. An innovative leader in temporary full-time placement, it work provides free word processing training to aid individuals seeking to further their employability. Also, the staff offers conference and event planning and staffing.

Finding herself in a difficult life situation in the early 1980s as a single mother of two young children, Fickett's own personal strength led her to some very positive choices. Rather than accept the limitations of struggling with babysitters while trying to compete in the field of sales, Fickett make a conscious assessment of the market. "I always wanted to buy a house for my children and almost saved enough for a modest down payment. But, then, I realized that I could invest in myself with the hope that I could provide not only a home, but a college education for my children."

Both adversity and a mother's love was the impetus to start her own business. She found a need not being met in the market. Therefore, she started a quality permanent placement agency that focused on women in the workplace. "I have always found that a way to not be enveloped in my own problems was to reach out and help others." With this special quality, Fickett's business has grown in this direction to what it is today in 1997.

Not only has First Choices offerings expanded, but the company places an enormous amount of energy in volunteer work for the community. Fickett was selected to carry the Olympic torch as a result of her work raising money and housing families for The Gift of Life. The organization provides life-saving open heart surgery to children of need from third-world countries. In addition, Fickett raises money for the Midland School in Branchburg. The school is very successful in educating and mainstreaming children with learning disabilities.

Gloria Rose, President of the Hal Rose Agency, is proud to continue the family tradition in bringing the best insurance to Union County. For almost 50 years the Hal Rose Agency has specialized in commercial insurance for the small or large business owner, as well as offering quality service.

Seated are Tom Kiem, Union County Advisory Board on the Disabled (Union resident) and Charles Newman, director, Union County Office for the Disabled (Cranford resident). Standing in front are Susan Spurr, Union County Advisory Board on the Disabled (Union resident). In the back are Union County Freeholder Edwin Force, liaison to the Advisory Board on the Disabled; Frank Truppo, Plant Services supervisor, Eugene Tucker, director, EEO & Workforce and Pamela Fisher, Human Services manager, all from Schering-Plough Corp.; Robert Colicchio, Union County Office for the Disabled (Elizabeth resident), and Ed Heaton, vice chairman, Union County Advisory Board on the Disabled (Union resident).

County presents access awards

Because they make access easier for people with disabilities and otherwise work to accommodate them, four local establishments have received special awards from Union County government.

Schering-Plough Corp. in Kenilworth, Union County College in Cranford, the Westfield "Y" in Westfield and the Olive Garden restaurant in Springfield are the winners of the second annual Access/Union County Awards.

During recent ceremonies at the county Administration Building in Elizabeth, they received framed resolutions from Freeholder Edwin H. Force and members of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders' Advisory Board on the Disabled.

"These establishments have gone beyond complying with laws established by the Americans With Disabilities Act," said Mr. Force, liaison to the Advisory Board on the Disabled, explaining that the ADA requires places of public accommodation to make their facilities, goods and services accessible to the disabled community.

"They have taken additional, voluntary steps to break down barriers. Not only because they were required to do so by law, but because they wanted to."

The Access/Union County Awards Program was initiated in 1990 by the Advisory Board on the Disabled, in conjunction with the Union County Office for the Disabled and the Eastern Paralyzed Veterans Association to promote compliance with the ADA, improve access for people with disabilities and recognize establishments that take optional steps to further accommodation.

Nominations for this year's awards were made by county residents with disabilities and other disabilities advocates. The winners were selected by a subcommittee of the Advisory Board on the Disabled.

Schering-Plough's Drug Discovery & Manufacturing Facility, 2000 Galloping Hill Road, was recognized in the category of Private Sector, For Profit. Not only does it accommodate people with disabilities, but makes them feel welcome. Among other criteria, it also was cited for making its buildings and grounds as barrier-free as possible, including installing new ramps, doorways and accessible bathroom facilities.

Union County College, 1022 Springfield Ave., was recognized in the Educational Institution category. The institution meets all accessibility guideline, offering plenty of assistance for all people who need it. Its staff was noted as being particularly helpful to people with disabilities.

The Westfield "Y," 220 Clark St., was recognized in the Community Center category. Its ongoing ADA program is considered a model and it meets all mobility and access requirements. In addition to automatic doors, special exercise equipment and swimming-pool lifts, the facility includes Braille signs, evacuation chairs and telephones with amplifiers.

The Olive Garden restaurant, 275 Route 22 East, received the award in the Eating & Drinking Establishment category. Nominated by a person with a wheelchair, the establishment is fully accessible; it has no steps, its telephones are not far from the ground and it has enough room between tables for wheelchairs.

Guess the pumpkin's weight at Ashbrook

SCOTCH PLAINS — Charlie Brown is still looking for the Great Pumpkin but your own child doesn't have to look for one.

Bring your children age 3-12 to the Ashbrook Nursing and Rehabilitation Center and have them guess how much the giant-size pumpkin weighs. One entry per child will be allowed. Winners will be announced on Halloween, Friday, Oct. 31, and cash prizes awarded.

For an entry form, stop by the reception desk of the nursing home, 1610 Raritan Road.

For more information, call 889-5500.

Anarchy in Germany topic of UCC course

CRANFORD — Union County College will offer a noncredit course that assesses the period of anarchy in Germany from 1918-30 that preceded the rise of Nazism. "The Genesis of Tyranny: Berlin in the 1920s" will be held 7-9 p.m. Nov. 5 through Dec. 12 at the college's Cranford campus.

The course will focus on German culture and society during this period, considered by historians to have been one of the most fertile and productive periods in the history of German ideas, art and literature. Students and their instructor will critically view the cultural and political atmosphere that was precursor to a totalitarian state. In addition to art and literature, studies also will focus on German film, theater and music, with some films shown in class.

Course session topics will be: Nov. 5, "German Political Arena of the 1920s"; Nov. 12, "German Films of the 1920s"; Nov. 19, "Brechtian Theater"; Nov. 26, "German Prose and Poetry of the 1920s"; Dec. 3, "Architecture: The Bauhaus"; and Dec. 10, "German Opera and Operetta."

Those interested in further information should call the college's Department of Continuing Education and Community Services at 709-7600.

Making a point

Raiders edge Cranford to stay unbeaten

BY MIKE CHRISTEL
RECORD-PRESS

For a game that was chock-full of fireworks and late-game dramatics, Saturday afternoon's back-and-forth nail-biter between Watchung Conference-National Division rivals Cranford and Scotch Plains-Fanwood essentially came down to one measly extra point.

Well, it was actually far from inconsequential, because that one point proved to be the difference in the game. With the contest deadlocked at 20-20 entering the fourth quarter, both squads scored one touchdown in the final frame, but the Cougars would miss their all-important point-after, while the Raiders' Adam Baumwoll chipped his opportunity through uprights to help SP-F escape with a 27-26 triumph.

The Cougars (3-2) actually had a chance to win at the end, but a 29-yard field goal by senior Joe Muccia was blocked by SP-F's Jonathan Winkler as time expired and the now 4-0 Raiders could finally breath a collective sigh of relief.

"I was really proud of the way our guys came back," said Raider Head Coach Steve Ciccotelli, whose team trailed 20-12 at intermission after taking a 12-6 advantage late in the opening quarter. "The last two games we've been down at halftime and we've come out and won them. They don't quit. Both teams played hard and it's a shame there's a loser in a game like this."

And Cranford Head Coach Nick Brown could certainly understand the pressure his players were under with just 4.8 ticks left on the clock and his team trailing by one. After all, the Cougars had just frantically moved the ball down the field to put themselves in position for the potential game-winning field goal, and after 18 and 28 yard pass completions from senior quarterback Terrel Lewis to classmate Mark Stiansen and a 13-yard run by senior halfback Adrian Moore to set up the last-second attempt, they were feeling mighty drained.

"If you've never played this game, you don't understand," said Brown. "By the end of the fourth quarter and you've played your butt off, you're just worn out. We have 35 kids. When we shout field goal team, two guys run out on the field. The kid that has to snap (George Fulling) just made a great quarterback sack and his leg was killing him. But he wouldn't make an excuse, and that's why I love these kids. Unfortunately, the snap was off and the line kind of caved in a little bit. It would have been exciting if Joey made it."

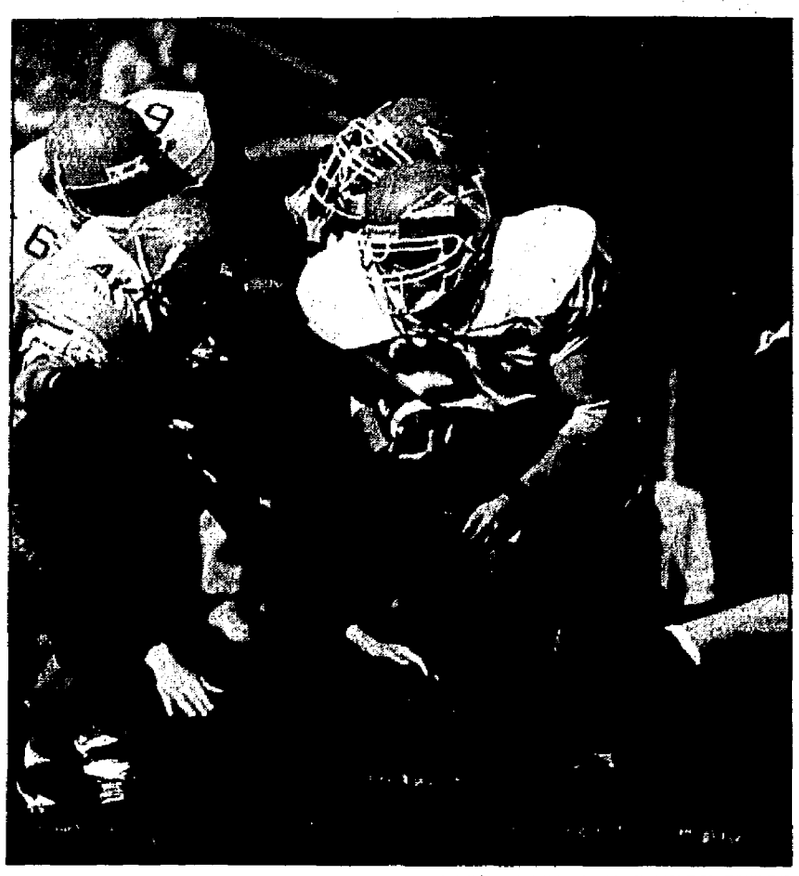
In a game that boasted several stellar individual performances, it was the war at special teams that stood out most at the end.

Sure, Cranford had a career day from Moore, who bullied his way for 203 and three touchdowns, and customary efforts from senior co-captains Nik Fekete (22 carries, 126 yards) and Stiansen (two interceptions, 2 catches for 46 yards).

And, yes, SP-F received another marvelous showing from speedy senior tailback Delmar Patterson (13-117), who dashed 57 yards to pay dirt the first time he touched the ball, and got a gutsy effort from backup quarterback Joe Franzone (5-for-9, 85 yards, one TD), who was starting in place of the injured Eddie Willams, out with left-shoulder sprain.

But, no matter how well each team's respective "money" players fared, with only one quarter to go and the score knotted at 20-20, it didn't take 20-20 vision to see, with both teams trading jab-for-jab, that the kicking game would inevitably be in the spotlight before thing were through.

Cranford scored first in the fourth quarter on a 52-yard TD run by Moore, who in the first period, alone, rumbled for TD runs of 13 and 74. The Cougars missed the extra point and had to settle for a 26-20 lead, handing things over to their defense with 8:18 left to play.



GEORGE PACCIELLO/RECORD-PRESS
Raider fullback John Stack (right) scored a first-quarter touchdown Saturday in SP-F's 27-26 victory over Cranford.

"I thought we needed to make that extra point," said Brown. "I think that's where we lost the game."

Unfortunately, for Cranford, the miss cam back to haunt them on the Raider last possession of the day.

After a 26 yard completion from Franzone to Patterson and a Cranford 10-yard pass interference penalty on a third-down-and-three helped set the ball up at the Cougar 7-yard line, Franzone hooked up with senior running back Maurice Dockery in the flat for a seven-yard score with just 1:35 remaining on the clock.

"It was a four or five-yard out, and I just caught it and ran," said Dockery. "It was going either me or the wideout. So I looked for it and he threw it to me."

Baumwoll then drilled home the extra point and the rest is history.

"It was a big win," said Dockery. "We didn't play well in the first half, but in the second half we came back strong."

But afterwards, even while the Raiders were celebrating the hard-earned victory, Brown was proud of his team's effort as well.

"I'm thrilled with the way these kids played football today," said Brown "We had two or three opportunities to get into the end zone that maybe could of put them way."

Blue Devils facing big-time challenge

SCOUTING REPORT
HIGH SCHOOL PREVIEW FOOTBALL
Westfield at Elizabeth
7 p.m. Tonight

You don't have to rush the Westfield High football team and advanced scouting report.

The Blue Devils know how good Elizabeth is. They've seen it a few times first hand.

That's why they're not feeling unnecessarily overwhelmed traveling to Elizabeth tonight to battle one of the top teams in state at Williams Field.

Come kickoff time at 7 p.m., they know what type of game to expect.

"Elizabeth has been good for a while and every time we play team it's a challenge," said Westfield Head Coach Ed Tranchina. "Our kids just have to believe they can play with them, and I think they do."

Both squads have been solid in the first half of the season. The Blue Devils bring a 3-1 record to the table and are coming off a sluggish, but nevertheless, hard-earned 12-9 double-overtime victory against Irvington on Saturday.

Games haven't been quite as tense for undefeated Elizabeth, which has rolled together four consecutive wins, beating St. Peter's Prep., East Side, Shabazz, and, most recently Union (21-7 on Friday) along the way.

Elizabeth's usually potent offense, which is spearheaded by senior quarterback Asad Abdul-Khaliq and a high-octane passing attack, wasn't in top form against Union (outgained 170-152), but it's special teams and defense made up the difference.

Abdul-Khaliq, who is being recruited by several big-name colleges, has completed close to 80% of his passes this season (49-of-64), for 820 yards and eight touchdowns. Just last season, Abdul-Khaliq threw for 1,900 yards and a couple weeks ago against Shabazz, he put together a 349-yard effort.

"Their quarterback is dynamite," said Tranchina. "He can really air it out."

Elizabeth's talented and deep receiving crew can vouch for that. Abdul-Khaliq's main passing targets are senior wideouts Maurice McClean (19 catches, 390 yards, three TD's) and Abdul McCrary (14 catches, 216 yards, two TD's).

Classmate Travis Mack and juniors Rahim Orr and Josue Montalvo are also dangerous receiving threats off the bench.

"Their receivers have speed, size, the whole deal," said Tranchina. "We can't give them long TD passes, because once they do that, they pour it on and all hell breaks loose. I'm looking for our secondary to come up big for us. We're challenging them this week and they like a challenge."

But Westfield can't forget about the Minuteman ground game either. Junior tailback Jakeen Stockling has rushed for six touchdowns this season and leads the team with 320 yards on 50 carries.

Not only do the Blue Devils need to keep a tight watch on Abdul-Khaliq, Stokling, and company, they also have to figure out a way to deal with Elizabeth's powerful offensive line.

Part of that will simply be trying to keep the Elizabeth offense off the field as much as possible.

Defensively, the Minuteman are led by middle linebacker, senior captain Pete Czajkowski, senior lineman Craig Sporer (6-foot-3, 280-pounds), senior defensive corner Javis Anderson and Orr and McCrary, who switch sides to play linebacker and safety, respectively.

"They're 3-1, so they must be a good football team," said Elizabeth Head Coach Jerry Moore on the Blue Devils. "From what other teams are saying and our scouts, they seem to be playing much more consistent this year. I think it will be a good game."

Westfield is one win away from its 500th in school history. The Blue Devils notched No. 499 last week when Jason Kreiger kicked a 27-yard game-winning field goal in the second overtime to beat Irvington.

The Blue Devils forced overtime when Thomas Lee, who finished with a team-high 68-yards on 15 carries, scored from two yards out in the final quarter.

WHS hopes to continue conference reign

Cross Country

With the Watchung Conference Cross Country Championship slated for tomorrow morning at Warinanco Park in Roselle (10:20 a.m. start), the question of the day will be can the Westfield High boys and girls be the leaders of the pack once again?

Well there's probably a good chance they will be, but as the far as the boys National Division race is concerned, Scotch Plains-Fanwood and improving Cranford may have something to say about it.

Westfield, Cranford and SP-F all enter tomorrow's meet with identical 4-1 records, each losing one meet inside the division.

The Blue Devils were edged 27-28 by Cranford on Oct. 14 and if it wasn't for a 21-38 win over the Raiders on Tuesday, they would have had to relinquish their rights to the National Division conference title, which they won last season after switching from the American Division, where they held the crown since 1991.

Rules stipulate if a team loses two conference dual meets, it can't win the conference group meet. Schools get two points for every dual-meet victory and in tomorrow's conference meet, they will be judged on a sliding scale.

But with their win over the Raiders Tuesday, the Blue Devils can now concentrate on the business at hand.

"It's going to be a very good battle with Scotch Plains and Cranford," said WHS boys Head Coach John Martin.

And as far as contention for the individual crown goes, it should be a battle between Westfield junior Gordan Kaslusky, Cougar junior Tim Styler and SP-F three-year letter winner James Canterbury.

Styler, in just his first season running cross country, may have the inside track after beating Kaslusky on Oct. 14, but the Blue Devils No. 1 runner did have a faster time than Styler at the Shore Coaches and Stewart Invitational meets earlier this season.

"Styler probably has the edge," said Martin. "Tim had a great year in spring track. He's a solid kid and a good runner. But Gordan is ready to go. He's a very competitive runner and is looking forward to racing Tim again."

With Kaslusky leading the way, Westfield will also be looking for good times from senior co-captains Mark Matthews and Dave Citrin. They are hoping senior Bill Zachar, junior Peter Angelone, who is coming back from a recent injury, and sophomores Chris Driscoll and Scott Bercofsky will help the team pack together its share of runners.

"It's pretty much uncharted waters for our young guys," said Martin. "Gordan and Mark have our only championship-meet experience. But hopefully the younger guys will help out."

WHS GIRLS

Head Coach Tom Hornish and the Westfield girls cross country team are pretty confident in their chances to repeat as conference champions for the third straight season.

"I think we're in a good position to win it," said Hornish on his team's chances tomorrow. "Since the Shore Coaches meet, we've regrouped. We ran well in a meet in Randolph last weekend. Scotch Plains-Fanwood and us should be the top two contenders (tomorrow). I don't think Cranford has enough depth this year."

Expected to lead the pack for Westfield and contend for the individual crown is junior Lindsay Totams.

"Lindsay has the experience and has the talent," said Hornish. "She is gaining more and more confidence every week and I would think she has a legitimate chance to win. She's worked hard and deserves it."

Hornish says Totams is being pushed by several of her teammates.

Running strong behind her of late has been freshman Alexis Anzelone, as well as senior captain Laura Brucia, classmate Anna Dujnic, emerging freshman Rachel Ackerman, senior Susan Wilson, junior Sara Carpenter and senior Tina Ho.

"We have a strong group of six runners behind our top three," said Hornish, whose team will go for it's seventh consecutive Union County title on Oct. 30. "Our goal is to have seven runners finish between 20:30 and 21:30."

Westfield 19, SP-F 44 — The Blue Devils won their 28 straight dual meets Tuesday, beating the Raiders 19-44.

Anzelone finished first in 20:35 as Westfield packed 12 runners between 20:35 and 21:57.

Placing third-eighth were Totams (21:28) Carpenter (21:31), Sara Mullen (21:36), Brucia (21:39), Adrienne Blaubelt (21:44.3) and Wilson (21:44.9).

Westfield also placed 10th-13th behind Ho (21:52), Dujnic (21:54), Tara Bhandari (21:55) and Ackerman (21:57).

Pressure heats up for Raiders this weekend

BY MIKE CHRISTEL
RECORD-PRESS

Cross Country

The biggest concern Scotch Plains-Fanwood High cross country Head Coach Jim O'Connor has heading into the championship-meet season is whether his teams are tested enough for the stretch run.

He felt before Tuesday's dual meet against Westfield, that his runners weren't seriously challenged yet this season, potentially making the Raiders adjustment to the group-meet schedule that much more difficult.

O'Connor and the Raiders can find out exactly where they stand tomorrow when they compete in the Watchung Conference Championship, set for 10:20 a.m. at Warinanco Park in Roselle.

"Both our teams really haven't been tested until Tuesday's meet against Westfield," said O'Connor. "We haven't had to run well the last couple weeks and we haven't been challenged for most of the year."

Until Tuesday, when the Raiders got a possible preview of things to come from the defending conference champs. The SP-F boys lost to the Blue Devils 21-38, while the Raider girls were beaten by Westfield 19-44.

But despite the setbacks, the SP-F, Westfield and Cranford boys squads all finished the dual-meet season with identical 4-1 records, meaning no team has a head start going into tomorrow morning's Watchung Conference-National Division competition.

On the boys side, Raider senior James Canterbury will try to contend for the fastest individual time, along with Gordan Kaslusky of Westfield and Cranford junior Tim Styler, who might have the inside track between the three.

Canterbury won't be helped by the fact he's been nursing a nagging injury for the last month or so.

Running behind Canterbury for the Raiders have usually been senior Ben Lee and Josh Ricca and sophomores Pete Mosko, Nick Klastava, Jim L'Heureux and Russell Rabadeau.

"We're stronger than we were last year," said O'Connor. "Our sophomores have run well and we'll need good times from them to have a chance (tomorrow). I'm looking forward to it. On both side we have a shot to win it and we haven't been able to say that in recent years."

The SP-F girls squad, which finished second in the National Division a year ago, is led by senior runner Jeannette Tourjee, who placed second in Tuesday's dual meet with Westfield in 20:19.

After Tourjee, the Lady Raiders hope to pack well behind emerging freshman Dana Berkowitz, senior Dana Esposito, who took ninth Tuesday in 21:48, classmate Andrea Maggi and freshman Erin Kelly.

"Dana Berkowitz has made us a lot stronger this year," said O'Connor. "If our younger runners can run well, we might have a shot at competing with Westfield."

Blue Devils swing into sectional final

WESTFIELD H.S. Roundup

The Westfield High tennis team guaranteed an appearance in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 State Tournament final after beating Roxbury in a semifinal match Tuesday.

The Blue Devils weren't challenged much in singles competition as Jen Matro beat Dana Dema 6-0, 6-0 at the first spot, Becky Matro defeated Andrea Rossi 6-1, 6-0 at second doubles and Ilka Netravali topped Kelly Hogan 6-0 ,6-1 at No. 3.

Westfield's doubles players fared just as well, with Sarah Sharpe and Meghan Corbett defeating Roxbury's Kelly Castriotta and Namrata Krishna 6-4, 6-4 at first doubles and Caroline Tell and Katie Richards cruising past Jessica Rasper and Melissa Doran at second doubles.

With the victory, Westfield advanced to meet Livingston for the sectional title.

Westfield 5, East Side 0 — Westfield cruised by East Side in regular-season play Monday as doubles units Rebecca Goldberg and Maggie Wei and Emilia Guasconi and Jen Phillips each prevailed 6-0, 6-0 at first and second doubles, respectively.

In singles action, Netravali won 6-2, 6-2 at first singles, Richards prevailed 6-0, 6-0 at the second spot and Lisa Gorbaty finished on top 6-0, 6-0 at No. 3.

In singles play, Richards and Gorbaty both won 6-0, 6-0 at first and second singles, respectively, while Wei prevailed 6-1, 6-0 at the third spot.

Guasconi and Goldberg and Lianna Kong and Phillips won 8-0 pro-set victories at first and second doubles.

Westfield 5, Union 0 — The Blue Devils defeated Union 5-0 Oct. 16 to advance in State-Tournament action.

Jen Matro won 6-0, 6-0 at first singles, Becky Matro prevailed 6-2, 6-0 at the second spot and Netravali won 6-0, 6-2 at No. 3.

In doubles action, Corbett and Sharpe won 6-0, 6-3 at first doubles and Tell and Richards earned the straight-set shutout at second doubles.

BOYS SOCCER

Union County Tournament

The Blue Devils rolled past Brearley 6-0 Saturday in the first round of the Union County Tournament.

Mike Idland only needed to make one save for the Blue Devils, who advance to meet Roselle Park in the county quarterfinals tomorrow at 11 a.m. in Westfield.

GIRLS SOCCER

The Westfield girls put up a four-spot in both halves of play Tuesday to take care of visiting Bishop Ahr 8-0.

Union County Tournament

Top-seeded Westfield erupted for eight goals in the first half Saturday en route to a 9-0 first-round win over Mother Seton.

Next up for the Lady Blue Devils is a UCT-quarterfinal showdown with Scotch Plains-Fanwood, slated for 1 p.m. tomorrow in Westfield.

Lutkenhouse registered a hat trick for the Blue Devils Saturday and teammates Jocelyn Puschel and Kristen Salmond scored a pair of goals each. Also getting into the scoring act for the Blue Devils were Heinkel and Schaller.

Westfield outshot Mother Seton 27-0.

Peddie 2, Westfield 1 — The Westfield girls lost for just the second time this season Oct. 16, falling by one to Peddie.

Westfield tied the game at 1-1 on a goal by Lutkenhouse, who was assisted by Coccaro's corner pass. Peddie answered with one goal in the second half to pull out the win.

Nusse made five saves for Westfield.

Somerville's Melissa Robert won the all-around with a mark 35.75.

Westfield 84.9, Elizabeth 53.9 — The Blue Devils stormed by Elizabeth Friday in Westfield.

Tara Clarke took top honors in the vault (8.3) and the floor (7.0) and tied for second with teammate Amy Seligman in the bars (7.4).

Kathy Brunetto took second in the vault (8.0) and the floor (6.4), Allison Checchio placed third in the vault (6.7), first in the bars (7.7) and first in the beam (7.4). Kathryne Solon took third in the beam (5.9) and Sarah Mack placed third in the floor (5.9).

Cardinal, Sweeney, Fiorino pace SP-F

SCOTCH PLAINS-FANWOOD H.S. Roundup

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood High boys soccer team broke a scoreless tie Tuesday with three goals in the second half to knock off Elizabeth 3-0.

Chris Cardinal, Ted Sweeney and Jeff Fiorino all got on the board for the red-hot Raiders, who improved their record to 13-1-1. Jeff Gillie registered a pair of saves in goal.

Union County Tournament

The top-seeded Raiders advanced to the Union County Tournament quarterfinals with a 5-0 victory over Linden Saturday in Scotch Plains.

Adam Bowser and Todd Moser notched a pair of goals each for the Raiders, who also got a score from Taffarie Laing.

GIRLS SOCCER

Also finding the net for SP-F were Justine Mosko, Amy Citrano, Eryn Bushinger and Leah Saenz de Viteri.

Chrstine Bower and Christine Romeo saved three shots each for the Raiders.

Union County Tournament

The SP-F girls edged Summit 1-0 Saturday to advance in the county tournament.

Kate Vanderhayden netted the game winner with two minutes left to play on an assist by Karen Haight.

Bowers made 13 saves for the Raiders, who well meet top-seeded Westfield in the county quarterfinals tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Westfield.

TENNIS

The Raiders bid for an appearance in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 3 State Tournament final was denied Tuesday after a 3fi-1fi loss to Morristown in the sectional semifinals.

SP-F's only points came at first and second singles where Carolyn Pilkington drew with Suzy Feit 4-6, 7-5 because of darkness and Diegi Notoane beat Ali Widman 7-6 (7-0), 6-3 at the second spot.

SP-F 4, Kearny 1 — SP-F topped Kearny Monday for its 12th win of the season.

Notoane (6-0, 6-0) and Danielle Kapner (6-0, 6-1) won at first and second singles, respectively, and the tandems of Gita Shoor and Cara Bristol (6-2, 6-2) and Allison Zatorski and Jan Weiner (6-1, 6-0) prevailed at first and second doubles.

SP-F 4, Union 1 — The Raiders got by Union Friday, sweeping all three singles matches.

Pilkington won 6-1, 6-0 at first singles, Notoane prevailed 6-1, 6-1 at the second spot and Kapner won 6-2, 6-1 at No. 3.

SP-F 5, Nutley 0 — The Raiders rolled past Nutley in a state sectional match on Oct. 16.

Pilkington, Notoane (6-1, 6-3) and Kapner (6-0, 6-1) each won in singles action.

GYMNASTICS

The Raiders eclipsed Linden 98.9-69.45 Oct. 16 behind strong efforts by Liz Baker and Dinna Mendez.

Baker and Mendex tied for second in the all-around with a score of 32.7. Baker placed first in the floor exercise (8.8) and second in the uneven parallel bars (8.05), while Mendez took first in the balance beam (8.55), second in the floor (8.75) and tied for second with teammate Rachel Eannuccio in the vault (8.65).

Eannuccio also captured second in the beam (8.35) and Stacy Welsh placed third in the bars (7.65) and third in the floor (8.35).

Sabers make State Cup quarterfinals

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Division 4 boys Sabers defeated the Freehold Cosmos 3-0 to advance as one of the final eight teams in the N.J. State Cup Tournament under-11 Division.

The game was dominated from start to finish by the Sabers because of the strong midfield play of Casey Hoynes-O'Connor, Jeff Bell, Patrick Schiazza, Steven Gaetano and Robert Lasher.

The Sabers defense was rock solid, allowing no shots on goal in the first 15 minutes. Playing strong defense were Bully Schoenbach, Greg Leischner, Ryan Aspell and Terrance Charles. The unit has yet to allow a goal in State Cup Competition.

In the second half, striker Sean McNelis was on fire and struck for three goals. The first goal was assisted by Hoynes-O'Connor and was started by a terrific steal by Leischner, who then fed Andrew Silber, who sent it over to McNelis.

The final goal was set up by the work of Matt Colon and Adam Greenwald. Goalkeeper Billy Albizati continued his strong play, recording his second consecutive shutout.

The Sabers travel to Fort Dix for quarterfinal-round action tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Rockets blast Hillsborough

The U9 Rockets powered by Hillsborough 3-1 as Angela Smith connected for the opening score.

On defense, Amanda Makowski and Lauren Weissbrod kept turning back the Hillsborough attack, and Emily Meehna made five saves in goal. Makowski smashed a shot on goal which LaForge calmly put away. LaForge also scored the final tally with a header off a pass from Allie Zazzali.

Second-half defensive stars went to fullbacks Samantha Buteas and keeper Molly Meehan. Alex Garber and Liana Rivera looked strong on their lines.

Rockets tie Rahway

The Rockets drew with Rahway in a tough 5-5 contest.

The Rockets struck quickly on a Makowski throw in, which set up a Weissbrod goal in the opening minute. Emily Meehan dug out a ball from a crowd after a Weissbrod corner to even the match at 2-2.

Weissbord scored twice herself to lead the Rockets' comeback and tie the score at 4-4. The second goal was a Weissbord special direct from a corner kick.

In the second half, Zazzali, Buteas and LaForge dominated play, but could not find the net. But it was Weissbrod taking a midfield pass from Buteas in the last 10 seconds to shape the final 5-5 score.

Molly Meehan was outstanding at halfback to help the defense shut down Rahway in the second half.

Bravehearts nip Royals

The SPFSA Bravehearts defeated the Randolph Royals in an exciting 2-1 game in the Wall Fall Classic Tourney.

With the Bravehearts clinging to a one-goal lead late in the match, goalkeeper Mark Clecura came up with two outstanding saves, the second on a leaping grab.

DJ Garret preserved the scoreless tie midway through the first half in the tense contest by clearing the ball from the goalmouth with the keeper down and the Royals swarming.

Danny Birnbaum put the Bravehearts on top by combining with Brian Halpin and Joe Capparulo for the game's first goal.

A suffocating defense, led by Brian Osbahr and Jonathan DiFiore, kept the Royals off the board, while Sean Young, Jeff Annese and Dave Van Anda had close calls for the Bravehearts.

Halpin upped the SP-F lead to 2-0 with a beautiful goal in which he moved around and through several defenders.

Earlier in the tourney, the Bravehearts fell to the Wall Rattlers 6-0 and tied the Robbinsville Revolution 1-1. Garret notched the lone goal.

WESTFIELD PAL FOOTBALL
"B" team continues streak

The Westfield PAL "B" team extended its undefeated string to five games by beating perennial powerhouse Perth Amboy 13-0 at Gary Kehler Stadium.

A nine-yard second quarter touchdown run by seventh grader Brian Butts, and a third-quarter pass from sixth-grader Jan Cocozziello to Butts provided the offensive highlights, while two sacks by outside linebacker Eric Braxton were the outstanding defensive plays.

The junior Blue Devils led 7-0 at halftime after Ben Kokot ran in the conversion following Butts' nine-yard TD run. Perth Amboy was limited to one first down and 10 yards of total offense in the first half.

Westfield increased its lead to 13-0 on an 11-play drive, capped off by a 14-yard scoring strike from Cocozziello to Butts in the flat.

Jordan Sailors and Pat Daly helped stuff the Perth Amboy run and Kirt Giresi and Mike DeFazio made some big catches.

SPORTSCENE

BASKETBALL REGISTRATION

The Westfield Basketball Association has announced registration for the 1997-98 season.

Registration will take place at the Westfield Y, 22 Clark Street, today and Friday, from 7-9 p.m., and Saturday, Nov. 1, from 9 a.m.-noon.

Leagues for boys and girls are organized by grade level, not by age or date of birth.

The second and third grade leagues are combined for boys and girls.

There are individual boys and girls leagues in grades 4-9. The boys high school league covers grades 10-12.

All games are played on Saturdays from December through early March.

In addition, the WBA will sponsor traveling team (if there is sufficient interest) for grades 5-8. Registration is on the above dates and these times will be chosen following tryouts that will be announced after the start of the regular season.

For further information, call the WBA Message Center at 654-6361, the Westfield Recreation Commission at 789-4080, or League President Bill Mann at 789-9136.

CLUB BASKETBALL USA

The Club Basketball USA leagues for Masters (40+) and Seniors (50+) are now being formed for a late November start.

Games will be played Tuesday and Thursday night at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School.

Each league is seeking new teams, and players may join as individuals. For more information, contact league commissioner Bill Clancy at 756-4502.

BASEBALL REGISTRATION

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Youth Baseball Association will hold registration at the Fanwood Train Station for the Spring baseball season on the following dates: Saturday, Nov. 1, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.; Thursday, Nov. 6, 7-9 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 8, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

The league is open to all boys and girls between the ages of 6-15, who are residents of Fanwood or Scotch Plains.

Children must be born after Aug. 1, 1982 and before July 31, 1992.

Players will be sized for uniforms, so parents should bring children with them to registration. If your child is new to the league, parents must bring a birth certificate or other proof of age.

The league is divided into six age groups: Junior T-Ball (6-year-olds), T-Ball (7-year-olds), Pee Wee (8-year-olds), Junior (9-10-year-olds), Majors (11-12-year-olds) and Senior (13-15-year-olds).

The league's goal is to let children have fun playing baseball and to help them improve their baseball skills.

SINGLES RACQUETBALL TOURNAMENT

The Westfield "Y" will be holding an Intermediate-Advanced Racquetball Tournament on Saturday, Nov. 8 at 7 p.m.

The tournament will be co-ed, single elimination competition for Westfield "Y" members. There will be a $10 registration fee due by Thursday, Nov. 6 at 6 p.m.

T-shirts will be awarded to all contestants. Registration forms can be picked up at the Westfield "Y". Spaces are limited.

For further information, contact Derek LaBarr at 233-2700.

WBL MEETING

The Westfield Baseball League (WBL) will hold its annual public meeting on Friday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community room of the Municipal Building.

Anyone interested in helping the Board for the 1998 baseball season is welcome to attend or call the WBL Message Center at 233-4767.

Marvel reprints '80s classic

By DAVID LEARN
WEEKEND PLUS

Critics scoffed and said it was an obvious rip-off of the JLA, but Mark Gruenwald's Squadron Supreme was a high point for Marvel Comics in the mid-1980s.

Originally released in 1985 as a 12-issue limited series, Squadron Supreme broke new ground by putting superheroes in a real-world setting. Supervillains who wanted to blow up the universe weren't the squadron's chief enemy; instead, they fought foes familiar to the rest of us: hunger, crime, unemployment and disease, to name a few.

The story is set on a counter-Earth teetering on complete collapse, forcing that world's superheroes to re-evaluate the obligations inherent with their abilities. In the ensuing year in which the Squadron Supreme labors, Gruenwald steers us to consider the dangers of allowing any group, no matter how well-intentioned, too much power.

The book broke the Squadron away from its roots as a pastiche of DC heroes and put the heroes through paces that could never be explored in a regular monthly comic. Some, like Nighthawk or Golden Archer, find a form of salvation, while others wander so far from heroic mores that become more villainous than their usual foes.

Squadron Supreme also deals with its themes honestly. Many comics feature superheroes who routinely level whole city blocks with only a twinge of angst and hardly ever seriously injuring anyone, certainly no one of consequence to the story. The toll on the Squadron Supreme as they adopt a progressively fascist agenda is massive, as Gruenwald tellingly shows on the final page.

The paperback volume reprints the entire run of the original series, as well as Captain America #314, in which ex-Squadron member Nighthawk makes a guest appearance to recruit allies against his former teammates.

The book also includes a new cover painting by Alex Ross, and includes reflections on the original series by those who knew Gruenwald.

ART BY ALEX ROSS/REPRINTED COURTESY OF MARVEL COMICS
Mark Gruenwald's 12-issue limited series Squadron Supreme is hitting the stands for the first time in 12 years as a one-volume paperback.

Regrettably, the book does not reprint the original covers from the series, nor is the print quality especially high. Readers are likely to be disappointed at the ease with which they can count some of the color pixels.

Only recently released in this one-volume format, Squadron Supreme has been repeatedly compared to Kingdom Come, which also dealt with themes of power and the responsibility inherent in it. The comparison is certainly valid. While Squadron Supreme does not end on as hopeful a note, it does provide the thoughtful reader with plenty to chew on.

Squadron Supreme costs $24.99, and is available at local comic book stores.

Also coming out this month from Marvel is the four-part series Heroes Return by Peter David.

The series, which releases a new issue each week, wraps up the controversial Heroes Reborn line by bringing back all the heroes Onslaught "killed" a year ago.

Franklin Richards and the Hulk figure prominently in the storyline, in which at least one of the two Earths is supposed to be destroyed.

Starting next month, Marvel will re-relaunch its Fantastic Four, Avengers, Iron Man, Captain America and Thor titles.

Alisa Kwitney tells a story that, while visibly not Gaiman's, remains faithful to his characters as it deals with them. The story deals with a mysterious man named John Ryder and his arrival in a town decimated by bubonic plague in the early 21st century.

The story is extremely captivating, and its otherworldliness is enhanced by Kent Williams's sharp, angular paintings.

In the first volume, a parallel story, illustrated in smooth curves by Michael Zulli, recounts the plague that struck the Byzantine Empire during the reign of the Emperor Justinian in the sixth century A.D.

If the remaining two issues are as good as the first, Destiny deserves a seat next to Gaiman's two Death books.

* * *

This summer was big for comic book-based movies. Just off the top of my head, I can think of four: Spawn, Steel, Men in Black and Batman and Robin.

It might not be an obvious choice for filmmakers, but I think Terry Moore's Strangers in Paradise would be a welcome sight on the big screen.

Gallery recalls innocence lost

NEW BRUNSWICK — Elizabeth Anne Seton Memorial Gallery will open "Loss of Innocence," an on-site installation by Roy Crosse, 7-9 p.m. Thursday. Gallery hours afterward are 8 a.m.-3 p.m. weekdays by appointment.

The theme is one Crosse hopes will speak to the students of St. Peter's High School, where the gallery is located. Crosse has been working on "Loss of Innocence" since July and will do the final installation a week before the exhibit opens.

The installation will include sculptural, fabric, paint and audio-visual elements that will be triggered by a motion-detector system designed and developed by Barry Dusault, the father of a former gallery assistant.

Crosse, who has won several arts awards, was born in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad in 1945. He now lives in Newark.

Symposium previews holiday films

By CHARLES EVERETT
WEEKEND PLUS

This year, you don't have to visit Manhattan to see the prestige movies being held back for Thanksgiving and Christmas releases.

The Brielle-based Filmmakers Symposium this year has added a venue easy for Weekend Plus readers to get to: the Sony Theatres in Mountainside, a modern-day 10-screen theater on Route 22 east of Echo Lake Park.

Among the movies confirmed so far for the symposium are Deconstructing Harry, the latest Woody Allen movie (he'll direct); Ma Vie en Rose, about a French boy who believes he is a girl; and Welcome to Sarajevo, set amid the rubble of the war-torn Bosnian capital. The first two open in New York in December while Sarajevo gets its Manhattan opening the day before Thanksgiving.

Drected by Steven Spielberg, one of the three principals in that new studio,the film tells of a landmark Supreme Court case in which slaves escaped to freedom before the Civil War.

The Sweet Hereafter is directed by Canadian-born Atom Egoyan from a novel about the aftermath of a catastrophic accident; that movie won much praise at film festivals in New York and Toronto. Great Expectations is the latest version of the Charles Dickens standard, this one with name actors (Ethan Hawke, Robert DeNiro, Gwyneth Paltrow, Anne Bancroft).

The Big Lebowski is the latest project by the Coen brothers of Fargo fame. As Good as It Gets is the only "wide release" under consideration and as typical of such has star power: Wth Jack Nicholson and Helen Hunt, directed by James L. Brooks ("Terms of Endearment"), it's scheduled to open in theaters everywhere Thursday, Dec. 25.

It's a shame the symposium may not show Jackie Brown prior to its scheduled Christmas opening; director Quentin Tarantino gets to direct star Pam Grier in a flick based on an Elmore Leonard novel.

Of course you won't find Titanic, pushed back to Dec. 19 after months of promises that it would be ready for the Fourth of July; the reams of hype for that movie will sell the tickets.

But hey, why complain? We're not yet out of October and the end-of-the-year releases look to be icing on the cake. Maybe you can have some before most people get a slice.

The Filmmakers Symposium will run six Monday nights at the Sony Theatres in Mountainside beginning Nov. 3.

Cost is $95 for the six-week series with a registration fee of $20. Seating is limited; call (800) 222-7719.

Annual haunting resumes

SOMERSET — The Haunted Village is back and more terrifying than ever.

Developed in 1994 by Triumvirate Productions Inc. as a fund-raiser for the New Jersey Renaissance Festival & Kingdom, the Haunted Village has taken on a life of its own, with more than 4,000 visitors arriving each season.

To accommodate increased numbers of visitors, producers have modified the format of the village, and now offer separate tours for families and adults through the Haunted Forest. Entertainment in the village and in the family tour is geared toward the entire family, and has a mix of humorous and frightening elements. The adult tour features gorier effects and explores more mature themes, and is therefore more suitable for those wanting a night of terror.

Producers have also added a new storyline to keep visitors interested. Nighttime visitors to the haunted village will find themselves transported to an Austrian village plagued by mummies. Food and merchants' wares are available for purchase in the main town square, and free candy is available to children in costume.

Included in the price of admission to the haunted village is a ticket through the Haunted Forest, for either the adult or family tours. Tour guides lead families through the forest and defend them from monsters there. Visitors waiting for their tour time are free to roam the village and sample humorous and gruesome short skits.

Guides are the only ones who will be physically contacted by monsters.

Tickets to the Haunted Village cost $7 for adults and $6 for children younger than 12; children younger than 3 are admitted free. The village is open 6:30-10 p.m. Thursday through Sunday and Oct. 30 through Nov. 1.

For more admission, call (732) 271-1119, or visit the Haunted Village's web site, at http://www.NJKingdom.com.

TEST DRIVE

No Shortage of Options Available on Dodge Ram Sport

By JOHN EATON
Denver Post

Summoning all its powers and an historical knack for creating a truck that will make strong truck lovers weep - weep because they don't have one - Dodge has created the Ram 1500 4X4 Sport.

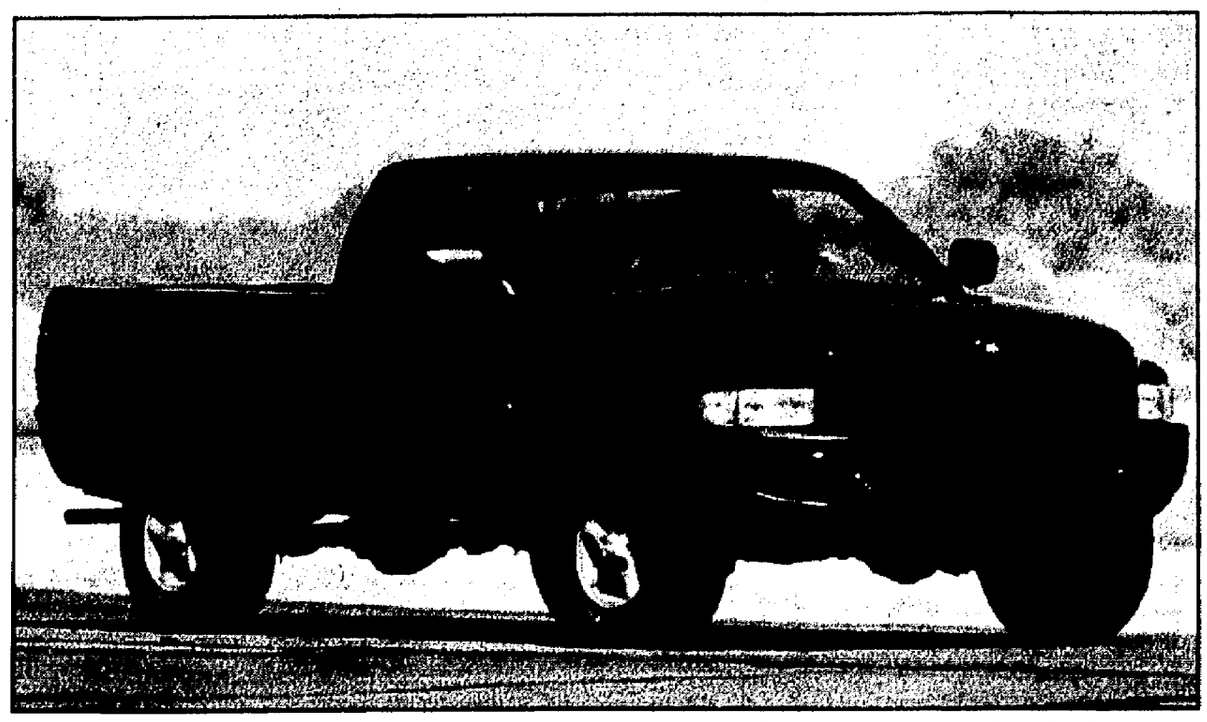
This is the latest gilded model to be added to the already long line of variations of the Ram truck lineage, which was introduced in 1994 and in the intervening time has set production and sales records and won a disproportionate share of automotive awards for design.

The test truck was the 1997 model with enough options to fill its cargo bed - and more. The Sport is base priced at $19,005, but after the extensive options were added it finally ended up at $27,815. Only the great truck wizard in the sky could think of anything to add to this vehicle.

There were so many items that the sticker on the truck was printed in such small type (to include them all) that a magnifying glass was in order.

Basically, underneath, it's a tough Ram standard cab, short bed pickup, powered by its 5.9-liter V-8 engine that vents 245 horsepower at 4,000 rpm and 335 foot pounds of stump-yanking torque at 3,200 rpm. Turn the key, listen to that big V-8 with its sport tuned exhaust system. It's a smooth, fast unit, but it's also thirsty. EPA mileage estimates are 12 mpg in the city and 16 on the highway.

But the test truck got 11.4 mpg in combined city and highway driving. That's a part of the territory, love it or leave it.



For the 1997 model year, the new Dodge Ram Sport appearnce group features 17-inch wheels, refined suspension, standard 5.9-liter V-8 engine and a sport-tuned exhaust system with chrome exhaust tips.

Possibly its glossy interior will make amends.

For starters, this interior is big. Big. Big and comfortable.

The leather interior group, at $1,400, includes many upscale features that were never in the dreams of truck designers 15 or more years ago those days when trucks were seen as tools, not luxury vehicles.

This package includes the supple leather split bench seat - plus individual rake adjustments for driver and passenger and a power driver's seat, dual lighted mirrors, wood grain trim to decorate dashboard and door areas and a huge folding arm rest, big enough for a table tennis game, of clamshell design, that opens up to provide fitted areas for tapes, CDs and a laptop computer. (Don't forget that many owners use a truck as their office.)

Tip the passenger-side seat back forward and discover a storage area in the rear, just below the rear sliding glass window. There are compartments, of varying sizes, to hold an endless amount of smaller items, all of which can be neatly stored and separated and kept from rattling around. It's an area in a standard cab pickup that, historically, served little function, possibly a home for the jack.

That last feature is a part of the Laramie SLT Advantage Package, at $3,545. See how the price balloons?

This add-on includes air conditioning, power windows and locks and remote control, speed control and tilt steering wheel with air bag, a convenience light group and overhead console, tachometer, aluminum chromed wheels and power exterior mirrors.

And don't overlook the thick carpeting and neat, attractive headliner.

Note how this truck, like an emerging butterfly, is evolving into a luxury sports car, albeit with a rather large cargo area.

Now let's add a dash of splash with the Sport Appearance Package, $610, which includes the body colored front and rear bumpers, body colored grill, fog lamps and the beefy P265-75R16 tires, lined by those bright wheels.

Now, for $390, let's mix in some heavy duty items: a 136-amp alternator, 750-amp battery, heavy-duty engine cooling and an auxiliary oil cooler for the optional four-speed transmission, another $950.

Underneath let's tack on four-wheel anti-lock brakes, $500, and an anti-spin differential, $285.

There are more options included, but the last major one, at $690, is the AM/FM stereo cassette and CD player with Premium Infinity Sound - all the better to give you quality sound as you drive your gilded Ram over highway or mountain ruts.

This is an upscale and ultra sporty pickup truck that's loaded with features that would suggest that it was the product of a custom aftermarket shop.

It's handsome with deft handling and built as if it will last longer than you.

HIGHBEAMS: Appearance. Its tough mechanical design throughout. Handling and acceleration. An enviable interior design with occupant comfort a top priority. Price, but only when not so elaborately outfitted.

LOWBEAMS: Test engine, at 11.4 mpg, would gnaw at the wallet. And, remember, this is a short-wheelbase truck. Don't let its choppy ride surprise you.

No Mystery About Intrigue: Much Car, Little Money

By JOHN EATON
Denver Post

Oldsmobile has introduced the 1998 Intrigue, a car that it hopes will snag off a portion of the competing import market.

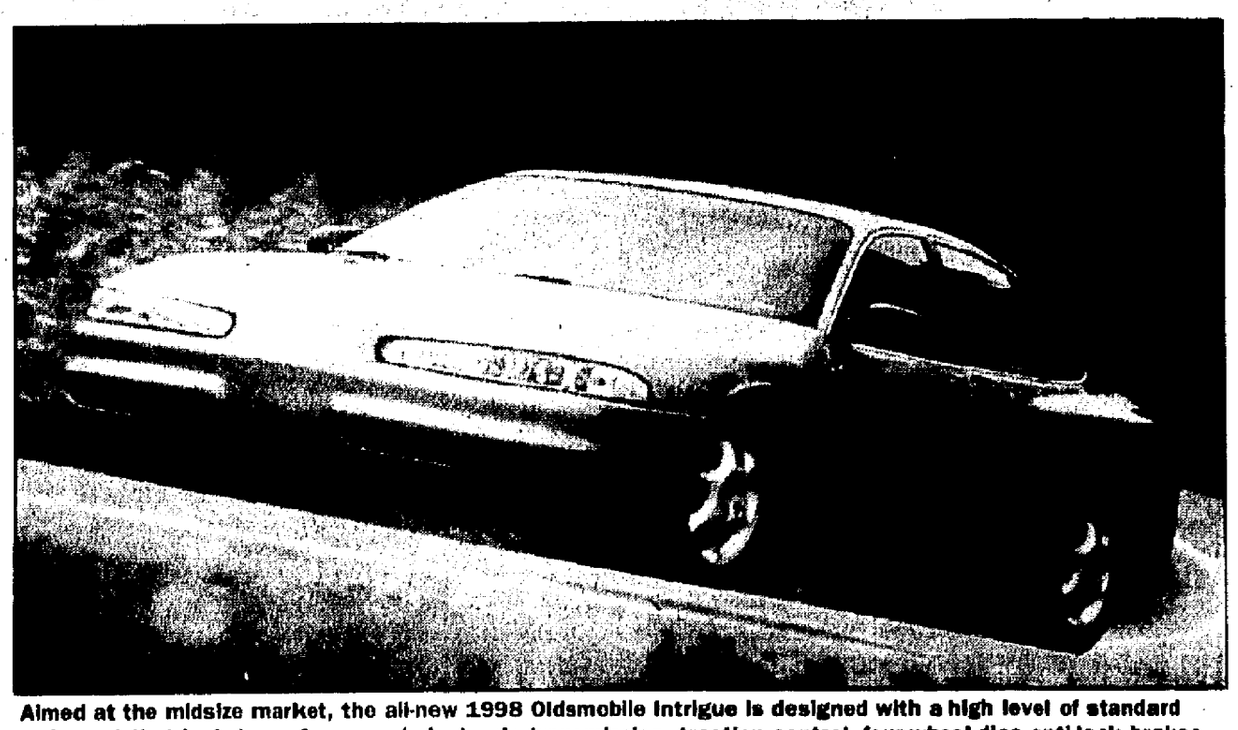
The Intrigue, all new, was designed to be placed in the upper areas of the large midsized car market. Base priced at $22,100, the Intrigue is designed to attract import buyers with a car that not only provides good handling, but also has a long list of standard features.

The mission has been accomplished. The test car was the higher-level GL model and with only four added options the comfortable car came to $24,615, including shipping, which is only a couple notches above $21,750, the average price paid for a vehicle during 1996, the last year for which figures are available.

That's probably the most impressive aspect of the Intrigue - what you get for your money. It clearly is one of the more fully contented, yet reasonably priced, vehicles that currently rolls the pavements. There are no bargains out there, but the Intrigue nudges the bubble.

That final price on the test car included leather-trimmed seating areas, $995; power sunroof, $695; rear deck spoiler, $150; and $125 for steering-wheel radio controls - all features that few would lose any sleep over if they weren't included. So, without them, you are back to the car's starting point, $22,100.

And for that price you still get a car with a long list of standard features, one of Oldsmobile's objectives; the Intrigue is designed to provide hard competition for the Nissan Maxima, Honda Accord V-6 and the Toyota Camry V-6.



Aimed at the midsize market, the all-new 1998 Oldsmobile Intrigue is designed with a high level of standard equipment that includes a four-speed electronic transmission, traction control, four-wheel disc anti-lock brakes, air conditioning and speed sensitive rack and pinion power steering. Options include leather seating, sunroof and 12-disc CD changer. For performance perfectionists, an Autobahn package is also available.

Included are such features, often options, as a four-speed automatic transmission, traction control, four-wheel disc brakes with the anti-lock feature, air conditioning (and, incidentally, the GL test car has a dual-zone design with separate temperature controls for driver and passenger), Magnasteer speed-sensitive rack-and-pinion steering, fog lamps and folding exterior heated rear-view mirrors.

Other standard features include split-folding rear seat, trunk cargo net, powerfuel door and trunk releases, and a driver-side six-way power adjustable seat. That seat should prove popular with both the long and the short of it. Leg extensions are generous and the seat has considerable height adjustment.

There's not much that could be added to this "averaged-priced" car.

And another positive feature is its appearance. The test car, a jet-black number that soaked up heat like a baked potato, was sleek and handsome when clean, but a droplet of water could just look at the car and a spot would show.

Its lines are simple and marked primarily by a lack of grille, little chrome and its gleaming headlights under clear lenses, which give it a predatory, sharklike countenance. It carries a blend of lines from Oldsmobile Aurora, a handsome car, and from the Antares concept car. That's a solid mating of lines.

And it has good reason to wear that aggressive face because Oldsmobile has chosen to power the Intrigue with General Motors' ubiquitous 3800 V-6 engine, a power plant that propels a host of other GM products. It's got plenty of power, it's smooth and quiet and it's economical with EPA mileage estimates of 19 mpg in the city and 30 mpg on the highway.

GM originally planned to put its 3.4-liter V-6 in the Intrigue, but it got nudged too many times in consumer test clinics to provide a more powerful engine.

There's little in the Intrigue's spacious interior to flaw, other than the fact GM must have gotten a bargain-basement buy on dark gray leather and instructed all of its divisions to use it up. It's dark, hot, has no character and bears little resemblance to a naturally colored leather, other than an elephant emerging from a mud bath.

Other than that the interior wins high marks. There is plenty of head, shoulder and leg room, the bucket seats are comfortable, the rear seat is elevated for better vision for those passengers, the gear shifter is canted toward the driver for easier grasp, big analog instruments keep you informed, and controls are well-placed - although the climate-control push buttons are a tad too small and elusive.

A lot of engineering forethought has gone into this car. That 3800 gives it brisk acceleration, the suspension design tends to encourage brisk handling, and the ride is a great balance between hard and soft.

Much car, little money.

Smallish Honda CR-V is big on customer appeal

By JOHN EATON
Denver Post

Introduced early this year, Honda's CR-V is one of those multi-talented vehicles that reaches out to satisfy a variety of customer appetites.

It's a four-wheel-drive vehicle for the bad-weather days, it's small and economical with an estimated fuel economy rating of 22 mpg in the city and 25 on the highway, it handles and rides more like a car than a sport-utility vehicle, and its base model (you only have two choices) is priced at $19,300, low for this market.

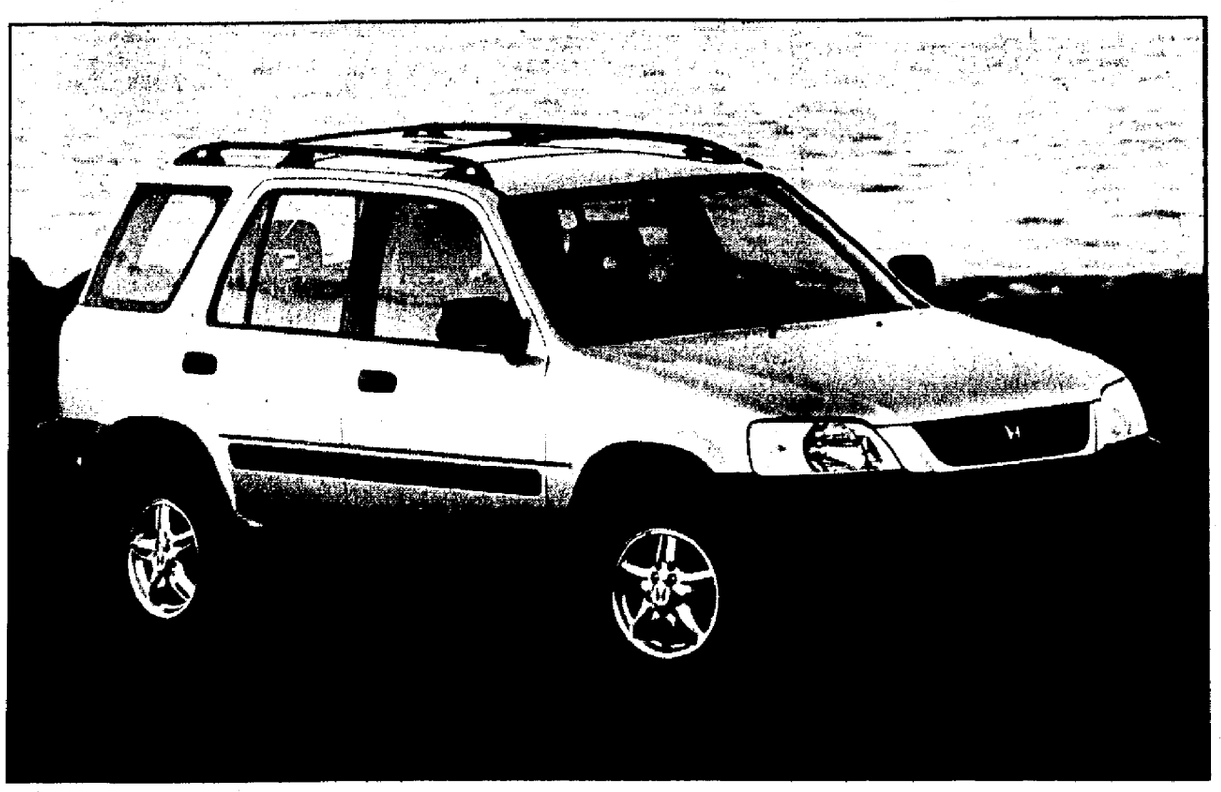
If you add a package for anti-lock brakes and alloy wheels, the price comes to $20,300. To those prices add $395 for shipping.

Honda designed the car to get in on the current lust for sport-utility vehicles, but with the idea that it would be smaller and easier to enter, lighter and more fuel efficient and less costly than the escalating prices on the myriad sport-utility vehicles on the market. Honda likes to say that it's priced like a mini-sport utility, but has the interior of compact models.

It wasn't made for bashing along on back-country roads in search of the wily elk, but how many sport-utility vehicles on the road now will ever see an elk? Most such vehicles are made and sold to satisfy a current fad, but, coincidentally, do very well in bad-weather travel.

In most cases the CR-V will answer many needs owners have for a sport utility. With a claimed clearance of 8 inches and its Real-Time 4WD, it will negotiate the urban and highway bad-weather roads.

Its biggest drawback is size.



The 1997 Honda CR-V is powered by a 126-horsepower, 2.0-liter, DOHC 4-cylinder engine and has four-wheel drive capabilities. The mini-sport-utility vehicle is equipped with standard power windows, mirrors and door locks, two 12-volt accessory outlets and a picnic table.

With a 103-inch wheelbase, it has limited interior space. Honda calls it a five-passenger vehicle. Four is more on target. And if it were to be bought by a young family with, say, two children ages 11 and 12, it quickly will be outgrown. That's a personal choice; you make it.

But with that aside, let's look at the car as is.

The Real-Time 4WD, a Honda design, allows the car to be driven in front-wheel drive most of the time. But when bad road conditions arise, the system automatically - no buttons to press or levers to move - begins also to shift power to the rear wheels. The differential shifts power to the right and left rear wheels as the need arises to achieve traction. Real-Time is simply there. You don't have to think about it and it goes to work when you need it.

All of this is powered by a new Honda engine and a four-speed automatic transmission, the only transmission offered.

The engine is a 2-liter, 16-valve layout with dual overhead cams that develops 126 horsepower at 5,400 rpm and 133 foot pounds of torque at 4,300 rpm. The figures aren't high, but neither is the weight of the car - 3,164 pounds - so the power-to-weight ratio provides an adequately powered car.

Also, the engineers who designed the new engine chose to provide an engine with a broad torque curve that would be available in the mid- or lower-rpm ranges. Translated, that means you get the power when you want it, at city speeds, not at the peak 6,300 redline. Peak torque arrives at 4,300 rpm. This means the CR-V is a peppy and aggressive car.

The transmission uses a Grade Logic design, which means the transmission, using its "black box" brain, will determine whether the car is going uphill and then "tell" the transmission when to shift so that it doesn't constantly shift back and forth among gears. Also, it will downshift and maintain a gear when going downhill to use the engine's back pressure for added braking.

It's a smooth design. And all of this rides on a four-wheel, double-wishbone independent suspension, the only SUV with such a ride-enhancing design.

Entering and exiting the CR-V are easy. Doors are large and there is no climbing to enter or sliding to exit. Outward visibility is excellent.

If you prefer firm seats, you'll be happy. If not, gain weight.

Standard features are many: air conditioning with a built-in air-filter system with replaceable filter, AM/FM stereo sound system with nearby niches for added sound accessories, power windows-locks-exterior mirrors, cruise control, rear wiper-washer, rear heater ducts, and a cargo-area light.

And get this: The bottom of the rear cargo area is removable. It has folding legs and can double as a picnic table. And beneath the table storage area is a large waterproof receptacle to store wet gear, such as swimsuits or ski wear.

LOWBEAMS: The test car was a light color, which tends to accentuate all the busy designs of this car - the luggage rack, grille door handles and various bric-a-brac. Consider a darker color to mute the contrasts. Size. Will you outgrow it?

HIGHBEAMS: Workmanship, ride, handling, utility. And, most of all, price.

Buick Tightens Grip on Midsized Market With Regal

By JOHN EATON
Denver Post

Buick has just done a major facelift and mechanical redo on its popular midsized Regal sedan and introduced it as a 1997 1/2 - just in time to head off some competitors who will show off their new 1998 models in about a month.

You never know when a new model will be introduced these days. Get ready for the 2000 1/2 models.

But no matter. Any time Buick freshens up the Regal, it's time to listen up. This car has had a strong grip on the midsized market for a long time. And for good reason.

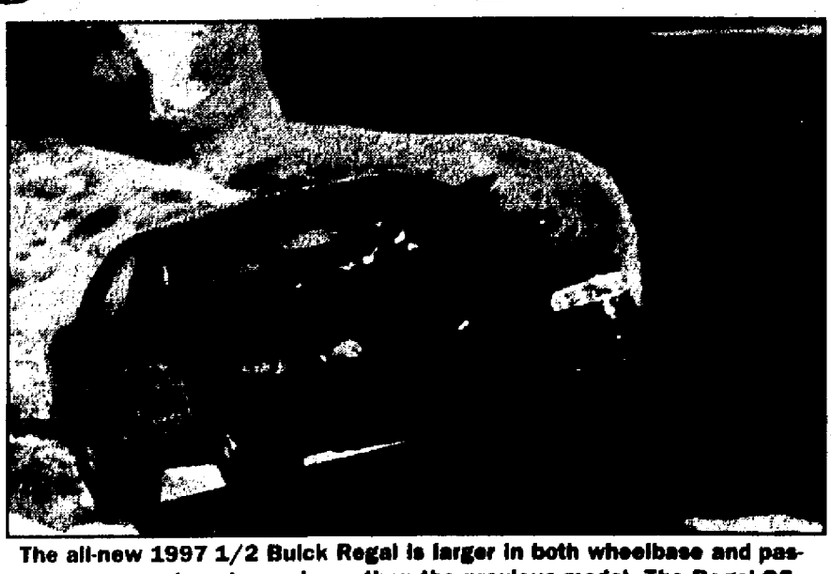
For starters, it's an attractive sedan with aerodynamic lines and just the right amount of chrome to offset those lines.

With its clean appearance you would take it home to meet mother. She would never guess that beneath the hood beats the heart of a fast person.

Fast because the test car was the GS model, which is powered in this new model by General Motors' 3800 Series II supercharged V-6; this engine gives the car a youthful, sporty flair, coupled with fine handling. The engine is new to the Regal.

The price is right. The test-car model is base-priced at $22,945 and, after some options were glued on, topped out at $25,600 - a competitive price in this market.

The supercharged engine, coupled with the 4T65E heavy-duty, four-speed automatic transmission, which is used to deal with the added power, is a smooth unit with seamless shift points. The handling gets a boost in this new model with the standard magnetic variable-effort power steering, a smooth invention that gives effortless steering and yet retains a good sense of the road.



The all-new 1997 1/2 Buick Regal is larger in both wheelbase and passenger compartment roominess than the previous model. The Regal GS sport sedan (above) is powered by a supercharged 3800 Series II V-6 engine.

The Regal is prepared to move out in a smart manner because this engine develops 240 horsepower at 5,200 rpm and 280 foot pounds of torque at 3,600 rpm. Translated, this means this substantial 3,520-pound car will get around in city traffic without a hitch or gasp. And there's no gambling involved in merging onto interstates.

Another engine powers the base model, the LS. It's driven by the above engine, sans supercharger, and it, even without the supercharged boost, has plenty of power - 195 horsepower at 5,200 rpm and 220 foot pounds of torque at 4,000 rpm.

Either engine moves the Regal in traffic and on the highway with attention-getting qualities. And both do it with a degree of fuel conservation. The EPA estimates the supercharged model at 18 mpg in the city and 28 on the highway; the standard V-6 is estimated at 19 mpg in the city and 30 on the highway.

And all Regals now have four-wheel disc brakes coupled with an anti-lock design. What goes fast will also stop fast.

Step inside. This is where many of the changes are in the 1997 1/2 model.

The test car had an impressive Santa Fe red pearl finish, but the interior appearance was a disappointment (but not the fitment and content). It was all done in a monotone gray.

But other impressions were positive.

All the interior is new. T instrument panel has big anal gauges, although only equipp with a speedometer, temperatu gauge, and tachometer. Mo would be better.

New standard equipment the Regal include the leathe wrapped steering wheel, an air tration system, programmab automatic door locks, a remo keyless entry system, and tra tion control.

Smallish Honda CR-V is big on customer appeal

By JOHN EATON
Denver Post

Introduced early this year, Honda's CR-V is one of those multi-talented vehicles that reaches out to satisfy a variety of customer appetites.

It's a four-wheel-drive vehicle for the bad-weather days, it's small and economical with an estimated fuel economy rating of 22 mpg in the city and 25 on the highway, it handles and rides more like a car than a sport-utility vehicle, and its base model (you only have two choices) is priced at $19,300, low for this market.

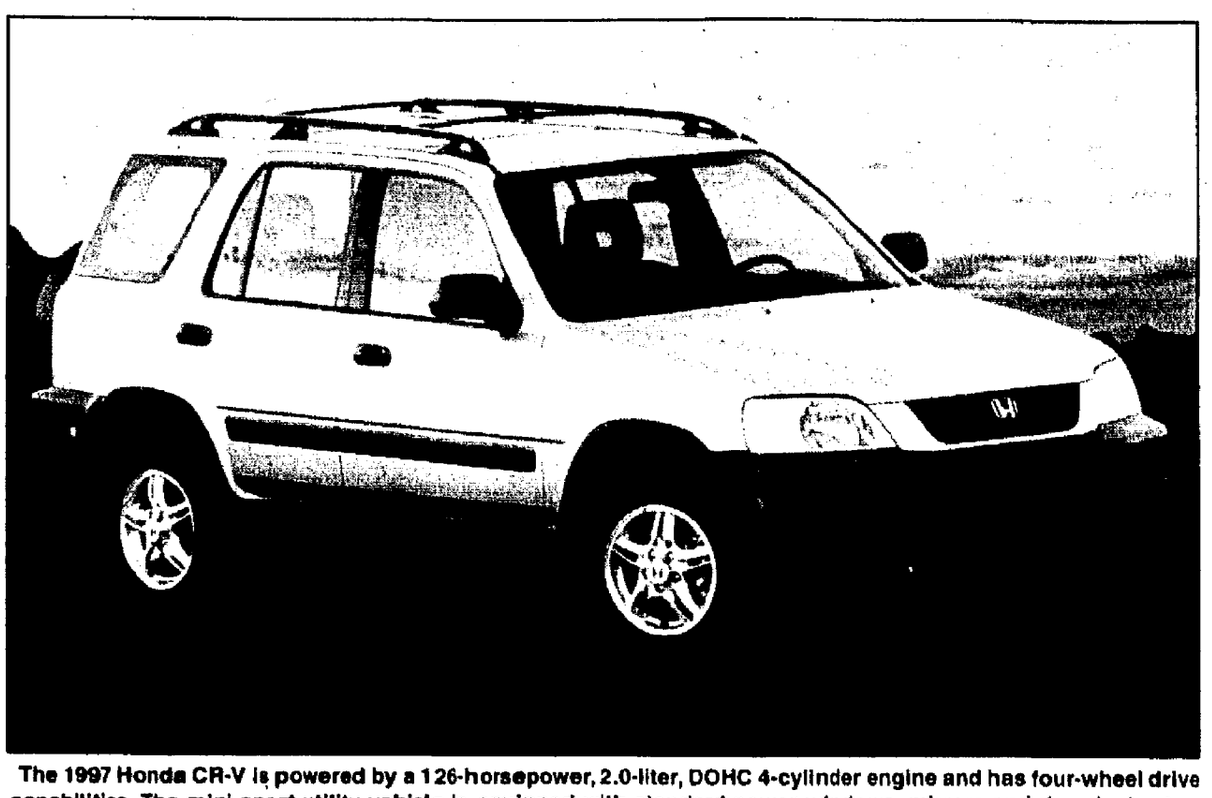
If you add a package for anti-lock brakes and alloy wheels, the price comes to $20,300. To those prices add $395 for shipping.

Honda designed the car to get in on the current lust for sport-utility vehicles, but with the idea that it would be smaller and easier to enter, lighter and more fuel efficient and less costly than the escalating prices on the myriad sport-utility vehicles on the market. Honda likes to say that it's priced like a mini-sport utility, but has the interior of compact models.

It wasn't made for bashing along on back-country roads in search of the wily elk, but how many sport-utility vehicles on the road now will ever see an elk? Most such vehicles are made and sold to satisfy a current fad, but, coincidentally, do very well in bad-weather travel.

In most cases the CR-V will answer many needs owners have for a sport utility. With a claimed clearance of 8 inches and its Real-Time 4WD, it will negotiate the urban and highway bad-weather roads.

Its biggest drawback is size. With a 103-inch wheelbase, it has limited interior space. Honda calls it a five-passenger vehicle. Four is more on target. And if it were to be bought by a young family with, say, two children ages 11 and 12, it quickly will be outgrown. That's a personal choice; you make it.



The 1997 Honda CR-V is powered by a 126-horsepower, 2.0-liter, DOHC 4-cylinder engine and has four-wheel drive capabilities. The mini-sport-utility vehicle is equipped with standard power windows, mirrors and door locks, two 12-volt accessory outlets and a picnic table.

But with that aside, let's look at the car as is.

The Real-Time 4WD, a Honda design, allows the car to be driven in front-wheel drive most of the time. But when bad road conditions arise, the system automatically - no buttons to press or levers to move - begins also to shift power to the rear wheels. The differential shifts power to the right and left rear wheels as the need arises to achieve traction. Real-Time is simply there. You don't have to think about it and it goes to work when you need it.

All of this is powered by a new Honda engine and a four-speed automatic transmission, the only transmission offered.

The engine is a 2-liter, 16-valve layout with dual overhead cams that develops 126 horsepower at 5,400 rpm and 133 foot pounds of torque at 4,300 rpm. The figures aren't high, but neither is the weight of the car - 3,164 pounds - so the power-to-weight ratio provides an adequately powered car.

Also, the engineers who designed the new engine chose to provide an engine with a broad torque curve that would be available in the mid- or lower-rpm ranges. Translated, that means you get the power when you want it, at city speeds, not at the peak 6,300 redline. Peak torque arrives at 4,300 rpm. This means the CR-V is a peppy and aggressive car.

The transmission uses a Grade Logic design, which means the transmission, using its "black box" brain, will determine whether the car is going uphill and then "tell" the transmission when to shift so that it doesn't constantly shift back and forth among gears. Also, it will downshift and maintain a gear when going downhill to use the engine's back pressure for added braking.

It's a smooth design. And all of this rides on a four-wheel, double-wishbone independent suspension, the only SUV with such a ride-enhancing design.

Entering and exiting the CR-V are easy. Doors are large and there is no climbing to enter or sliding to exit. Outward visibility is excellent.

If you prefer firm seats, you'll be happy. If not, gain weight.

Standard features are many: air conditioning with a built-in air-filter system with replaceable filter, AM/FM stereo sound system with nearby niches for added sound accessories, power windows-locks-exterior mirrors, cruise control, rear wiper-washer, rear heater ducts, and a cargo-area light.

And get this: The bottom of the rear cargo area is removable. It has folding legs and can double as a picnic table. And beneath the table storage area is a large waterproof receptacle to store wet gear, such as swimsuits or ski wear.

LOWBEAMS: The test car was a light color, which tends to accentuate all the busy designs of this car - the luggage rack, grille door handles and various bric-a-brac. Consider a darker color to mute the contrasts. Size. Will you outgrow it?

HIGHBEAMS: Workmanship, ride, handling, utility. And, most of all, price.

1997 Honda CR-V Sport Utility Vehicle

Manufacturer's suggested retail price: $20,300. Includes extensive standard features.
Price as tested: $20,695.

Coldwell Banker's Kantor helps first-time buyers

To the renter, buying a first home may seem an overwhelming process that's filled with unexpected hurdles.

But a thorough education from Coldwell Banker real estate professionals can make the experience more manageable and pleasant.

1996 Rookie of the Year Clarissa Kantor of Coldwell Banker's Westfield office is intimately familiar with the concerns of first-time buyers. In 16 months as a real estate associate, a remarkable 80 percent of her sales involved first-time home buyers.

"Many first-time buyers feel that they can't afford to buy a home," says Kantor. "They think all they can do is rent but we always seem to find properties that accommodate their needs for space and affordability. We turn a lot of renters into first-time home buyers."

Many first-time buyers are pleasantly surprised to learn how much house they can afford to own, according to Kantor. Coldwell Banker offices also host buyer education seminars that address the nuts and bolts of the home buying process from shopping through closing. "Then I introduce them to what's out there in the market," notes Kantor.

Following an extensive free consultation that addresses home specifications and location desirability, Kantor tours the area with her buyers.

First-time buyers gravitate to Kantor because she's also at a similar stage in her life. At age 28, she is the youngest sales associate in the Westfield office. "Most of my buyers are between age 25 and 32. It's easy for them to talk with me one on one. It hasn't been long since I was a first-time buyer so I seem to strike a chord with younger folks," she says.

Kantor learned the trade from her colleague and mentor Margaret Maguire, who is also a sales associate in the Westfield office.

Their professional relationship began three years ago when Kantor visited the office in search of a new home. "Margaret sold my existing home and sold me my new one," says Kantor. The experience inspired Kantor to pursue a real estate career.

Houses aren't new territory for Kantor. The former architecture student and kitchen and bath designer viewed real estate as an opportunity to focus on a home's entirety.

"Just being able to turn someone else's house into someone's special home is what I've always wanted to do. Offering the entire package seemed appealing to me," she says.

Her philosophy and emphasis on education is clearly appealing to the many first-time buyers who rely on her expertise.

The Westfield office has been ranked as the number one Coldwell Banker sales office for 12 consecutive years and is also number one on the Westfield Board of Realtors.

The office is located at 209 Central Avenue, Westfield and may be reached by phone 233-5555.

Perch Joins Westfield Office Of Coldwell Banker

WESTFIELD - Donna Perch has joined the Westfield office of Coldwell Banker as a full-time real estate professional, announced Marilyn Kelly, office manager.

"Donna is a wonderful compliment to our office," Kelly said. "She is highly regarded within the local real estate community and has a track record of exceptional success. Our office is home to the top real estate professionals in the area, so it's only fitting that a person of Donna's stature should join our team."

A real estate professional for more than nine years, Donna has frequently been cited for exceptional achievement in marketing and sales.

Perch has lived in Union County most of her life and currently resides in Westfield and her husband, Murray. They have three daughters: Rebecca, Sarah, and Marissa, who attend McKinley School in Westfield.

Perch is very involved in community activities including Union County Master Gardeners, Rake and Hoe, Hadassah, NaÔamat, McKinley School PTO, Congregation Beth Israel Sisterhood, the building committee of the JCC of Central Jersey, and Jewish Federation of Central Jersey.

The Westfield Office has been the top Coldwell Banker office in the greater New York Metropolitan area for 12 years, consistently selling more houses and generating a greater sales volume than any other office. The office counts more than 30 sales associates who have achieved Million Dollar Club status.

Shorlin joins Weichert in Westfield

WESTFIELD - James M. Weichert, president, has announced that Kara V. Shorlin has joined the Westfield Office of Weichert, Realtors as a sales associate.

A newly licensed real estate professional, Shorlin is a graduate of High Point University in North Carolina, where she earned a bachelorÔs degree in psychology. She completed a three-year program in sign language interpretation, and is proficient in American Sign Language.

For real estate transactions, call Shorlin at WeichertÔs Westfield Office, 654-7777, located at 185 Elm Street.

Weichert, realtors has 7,500 sales associates in 200 offices in Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and Washington D.C. Weichert handles both residential and commercial real estate, and offers a full array of time-effieicnt, one-stop shopping services, including mortgages, insurance, rentals, relocation, new homes and land, estate marketing, title services, property management and moving services.

Cohen earns Weichert's top award

WESTFIELD - James M. Weichert, president, has announced that Holly Cohen, a sales associate with Weichert, Realtors' Westfield Office, has won an office top marketing award for the month of July.

It is the most recent award for Cohen, a consistent million-dollar producer who qualified for Weichert's President Club, comprising the top one percent of the company's 7,500 member sales force, in 1996. She also earned the silver award in the 1996 New Jersey State Million Dollar Club. She is a member of Weichert's 100 Marketed Club and Million Dollar Sales and Marketed Clubs.

Cohen, who is licensed in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, also holds a New Jersey broker's license. She is a member of the Westfield, Greater Eastern Union County, Middlesex, Somerset and North Central Jersey Associations of Realtors.

A longtime resident of the Westfield area, she can be reached for real estate transactions, at Weichert's Westfield Office, 654-7777, located at 185 Elm Street.

Koster earns sales award

James M. Weichert, president, has announced that E.W. El Koster, a sales associate with Weichert Realtor's Westfield office, has earned an office sales award for the month of August.

It is the most recent award for Koster, who has been a licensed real estate professional since 1954.

Since then, he has been active in 35 states, working with transferees and commercial investors.

He earned his broker's license in 1959 and joined Weichert in 1980.

The lifelong Fanwood resident holds a master of business administration degree from New York University and is working toward a doctorate degree from the Kennedy-Western University in Boise, Idaho.

Koster is a member of the International Real Estate Federation (FIABCI) and has attended congresses in Stockholm, Israel, Munich and Toronto.

He has successfully completed transactions throughout Europe, the Pacific Rim and the Americas.

He was a founder of the Fanwood Jaycees and was active local community activities, serving as a trustee of the local United Fund and a director of the YMCA, while helping his wife raise their two daughters and two sons.

Koster can be reached for real estate transactions at Weichert's Westfield office 654-7777, located at 185 Elm Street.

Edzek earns Weichert marketing award

James M. Weichert, president, has announced that Carole Edzek, a sales associate with Weichert Realtor's Westfield office, has earned an office marketing award for the month of August.

It is the most recent awards for Edzek, who has been listing and selling homes for 12 years.

Before joining Weichert earlier this year, Edzek was associated with another local real estate firm where she was a million dollar producer. She is a member of the Westfield Board of Realtors and the Garden State Multiple Listing Service.

She is a past chairman of the Eastern Union County Board of Realtors.

Edzek, who resides in Linden, can be reached for real estate transactions at Weichert's Westfield office 654-7777, located at 185 Elm Street.

Thank you
Jill Guzman

ANOTHER "SUCCESS STORY"™
MEET GRACE J. MAHER
HER CLOSING TOOK PLACE
10/10/97!

"It was a difficult decision to put my house on the market, having lived at 1116 Thompson Avenue for 41 years, but thanks to Jill Guzman Realty, especially Isabelle DeRosa, my home sold very quickly. When Isabel, very confidently, told me in May that she would sell my house, I knew she meant what she said. Thanks Isabelle for finding a buyer who loved my house as much as I did.

My sincere thanks to all of you.
