Bookmarks discuss danger of date rape

New bookmarks are sending a vivid message: "Don't Let Your Dream Date Turn Into a Date Rape."

Plans are being made to distribute the bookmarks to high schools and colleges throughout Union County as part of a public service program involving five county agencies.

According to County Prosecutor Thomas Manahan, the message on the bright purple bookmarks includes a description about the types of substances used to render victims helpless. The bookmarks contain important warnings about preventing involuntary intoxication.

"The clear message is that you should not drink any beverage that has been left unattended because these substances are often clear and odorless," said Jennifer Pruden, director of the Union County Rape Crisis Center in Westfield.

Among the substances cited by Pruden are Ketamine, used as a tranquilizer for animals, and rohypnol, known commonly as GHB.

Also on the bookmarks are suggestions for contacting a friend or authorities if you begin feeling dizzy, disoriented, sick or disproportionately intoxicated.

A young woman can be victimized if a date rape drug is slipped into an ordinary soda, Pruden said.

Sponsors of the bookmark program are the Rape Crisis Center, county prosecutor's office, Union County Police Chiefs' Association, Union County Narcotics Strike Force and Union County Crimestoppers program.

Fall fun

Beautiful weather and fun for all were the hallmarks of Westfield's annual Festfall celebration, held Sunday in the downtown area. The 10th-annual event featured arts and crafts, games, food and shopping bargains galore — like the hand-made wares for sale by Peggy Klely (left). Linden's Jeffrey Felter (above), 2, was not interested in shopping, though — he was more concerned with perfecting his drumming techniques at the Kindermusik booth.

Local 'Alphornists' head to Switzerland to play with world's best

By TERRENCE DOPP

RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — For Chris Velderman, the most important part of the whole thing was the chance to meet other "Alphornists."

Of course, going to Switzerland to do it was kind of nice, too.

Chris, a seventh-grader at Roosevelt Intermediate School, and teacher Dr. Ted Schlosberg took off Sept. 10 for the Alps and a convention of 12 premier Alphornists from around the world. "The experience was the best part, seeing another country," Chris said. "Everything was so different."

Being interviewed on Swiss television was not bad either, he added.

Chris and Schlosberg, the founder and executive director of the New Jersey Workshop for the Arts, spent a week at the Alphorn Academy of Switzerland in Montreux. The two have studied the Alphorn — perhaps best known as the 10-foot horn blown in the advertisements for Ricola cough drops, which sponsored the duo's trip — and the trip was a great chance to play and hear their instrument in its natural setting.

"We performed in the mountains, very high up in the Alps," said Schlosberg. "It was the highlight to hear eight to 10 echoes of what we were playing."

Schlosberg first began teaching Chris, who has played the prestigious first Alphorn at the Academy, about two years ago. "It's a fantastic feeling to hear the echoes after you stop playing," the teacher said. "That's what is all about — the Alphorn needs to be played in the mountains."

To Chris' surprise, and everyone else's at the academy, the two Americans were among the best players who attended the convention. "Most of the people were beginners," Chris said. "It was really neat because it was all older people. It really made me feel great."

"We never knew what to expect," Schlosberg noted. "We went in preparing heavily to be killed by the European horn players."

Chris and Schlosberg both said learning the Alphorn was relatively easy, something they both attribute to their experiences with other instruments. "Schlosberg got me one and we just started doing duets together," Chris said. "I already played brass instruments — they're pretty much the same thing."

Schlosberg said the instrument is most similar to a French horn without the valves used to change pitch. "The biggest difference is that the Alphorn has a wooden mouthpiece," he said. "It tires your lip muscles out a lot faster."

Schlosberg said he became interested in the Alphorn during a trip to Switzerland several years ago, during which he heard a horn player from the Canadian Philharmonic Orchestra playing Alphorn on the shores of Lake Geneva. "I heard the music all over the mountains," he said. "I went to where the player was and started a conversation. I called the Swiss Embassy in New York to find a man who builds Alphorns. I did."

Back home, Schlosberg began playing at fairs and festivals in the area. "People would scream 'Ricola,' and I had no idea what they were talking about," he said, but a call to the company's U.S. headquarters created a partnership which has lasted more than three years and has landed Schlosberg and Chris on international television.

And the cough-drop company did not sponsor the trip for nothing, Schlosberg added. "I have given out at least 50 cartons over the last three years," he said.

Residents: Pool plan is all wet

By TERRENCE DOPP

RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Opposition to the town's proposed large-scale redesign of the Memorial Pool complex was in full force this week, as almost 200 irate residents packed Monday's meeting of the Westfield Recreation Committee to argue against the plan — and over three dozen of them returned Tuesday night to do the same before the Town Council.

"Everyone is for fixing the fields and alleviating drainage problems, but not on this kind of grand scale," said Joseph Penczak, a North Scotch Plains Avenue resident, referring to the original scope of a project that he said started as a means to improve soccer fields and became a plan for an entirely new facility. "It's like building the Meadowlands in our backyard."

Scotch Plains pushes for better flood plan

By JON LEDERMAN

RECORD-PRESS CORRESPONDENT

SCOTCH PLAINS — The havoc wreaked by Tropical Storm Floyd has generated renewed calls from residents and the Township Council for final disposition of a 26-year-old plan to construct water retention basins that would protect Scotch Plains and other area towns from storm flooding.

The federally funded Greenbrook Flood Control Project was developed by the Army Corps of Engineers on the heels of a major 1973 storm that killed six people and left parts of Scotch Plains and neighboring towns under water. The plan is based on input from the Greenbrook Flood Control Commission, a body of municipal appointees established in 1973, and calls for retention basins to be constructed to protect municipalities in the two Greenbrook drainage basins. The upper basin consists of Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Berkeley Heights,

'Alphornist' Chris Velderman, a seventh-grader at Westfield's Roosevelt Intermediate School, and his Alphorn instructor, Ted Schlosberg, executive director of the New Jersey Workshop For the Arts, love their favorite instrument so much, they went to the Swiss Alps to prove it.

Westfield approves sidewalk repair plan

New legislation means residents, town will split repair costs down the middle

By TERRENCE DOPP
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Sidewalks throughout town will be improved thanks to legislation passed Tuesday night by the Town Council.

The council unanimously passed an ordinance and unanimously adopted a resolution setting up a plan under which money spent by homeowners to repair sidewalks in front of their homes would be matched by the town.

Previously, homeowners had to pick up the tab for sidewalk repairs on their property, but — courtesy of a budget surplus for town sidewalk repairs — a program was created allowing municipal government to split repair costs 50-50 with residents. The surplus comes from last year's capital budget, which set aside more money for sidewalk repairs than was needed.

"We had allocated $120,000 for sidewalk repairs and the bid came back at $75,000," said Councilman Jack Walsh, adding the surplus spurred the town to initiate the program, which has already received a huge response from property owners. Walsh said over 110 property owners have expressed interest in the program, and the town wants to expand that number as much as possible.

"This is a tremendous program and we hope to get started in the next few weeks," said Councilman Gregory McDermott.

Another resolution adopted Tuesday night, this one proposed by Councilman Larry Goldman, will allow homeowners to repair sidewalks with the original material used to construct them. Previously, the town required homeowners to repair sidewalks with concrete, although many sidewalks in town were originally made of darker asphalt.

Goldman said when concrete was required, "no one replaced asphalt sidewalks at all," because residents were forced to repair the sidewalks illegally or use concrete. Goldman said he hopes to prevent what he calls a "zebra-effect" created when lighter concrete alternates with black asphalt.

"I have first-hand knowledge," said Goldman, who lives in an area with asphalt sidewalks. "Some of these sidewalks are 50 years old and have not been repaired since the houses were built. No one wanted to be the first to use concrete."

The program also means that older stone sidewalks can now be fixed with stone.

Scotch Plains-Fanwood Youth Baseball taking 2000 registrations

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Youth Baseball Association will hold its 2000 season registration at the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School cafeteria 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Oct. 23, 7 p.m.-9 p.m. Oct. 27 and 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Oct. 30.

The association has six division for players ages 6 to 15 who reside in Scotch Plains or Fanwood. Registrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian and present a copy of their birth certificate for proof of age. The association also needs the name of the parent or guardian's medical insurance carrier.

League fees are payable at the time of registration, preferably by check. There will be a $25 late fee for registrations after Oct. 30. The association is all-volunteer and the help of any interested adults is welcomed.

For more information, contact Jim Morris at (908) 322-8387 or Tom Peterson at (908) 322-4117.

Area towns still wringing out

Floyd clean-up continues as region takes stock of damage

By TERRENCE DOPP

RECORD-PRESS

Tropical Storm Floyd dumped nearly 14 inches of water during the two days it spent in the area, and surprised residents and officials from numerous townships are still trying to put the pieces back together.

Union County towns are finally finishing clean-up efforts and starting to return to normal life after the events of Sept. 16 and 17, when the worst storm since 1971's Tropical Storm Doria ravaged Central Jersey and left behind a legacy of downed trees, flooded basements and snarled roadways.

In Scotch Plains, where the fire department responded to 214 calls to pump flooded basements, clean-up projects continue. Most of the clean-up is being handled by the Department of Public Works, which had to hire trucks from the Waste Management Corporation to assist in the collection of the vast number of items residents lost to flood waters and abandoned.

"We had tremendous tree damage," said Cathy Budzinski of the Scotch Plains Department of Public Works, noting the Glenside Avenue stream suffered so much damage the town is seeking help from the county to remove the brush she said "imploded" on the stream.

Still, the department remains on-call to assist Scotch Plains residents. Budzinski said, "We're very willing to help anyone with any type of storm damage," she said.

Scotch Plains Fire Chief Jonathan Ellis said he realizes the damage was worse in other parts of the Garden State, but that doesn't mean the township hasn't had its share of woes, he added. "There wasn't flooding like in Bound Brook," Ellis said. "But our people have real problems."

Ellis' department has real problems, too. During an emergency response Sept. 16 — in fact, the first emergency call Ellis' department received during Floyd — the department's newest rescue truck and the chief's own Chevrolet Suburban were swamped by flood waters that entered engine intakes, sidelining the two vehicles for the duration of the storm.

Ellis said the truck was originally thought to be repairable by Atlantic Diesel, which is servicing the truck, but the damage turned out to be more severe than was originally estimated. The engine will have to be replaced, which will cost $20,000 to $30,000, he said.

"We thought we would be able to just drain the water out of the engine," Ellis said. "It will be cheaper in the long run to replace the engine."

The chief said an insurance adjuster has already appraised the damage and insurance will cover the cost of replacing the engine, which means it will continue to be covered by a warranty.

Ellis said he did not know when the repairs would be finished, but he had previously stated the loss of the engine does not affect his department's ability to respond to emergencies. The truck's predecessor has been filling in while repairs are made, he said.

The chief's Suburban, meanwhile, fared better than the rescue truck — water got into the oil and the rear end of the sport-utility vehicle, but "there was no major damage," Ellis said. "It needed an oil change anyway."

Floyd's pounding rains and wind also wreaked havoc in Fanwood, where Department of Public Works Director Ray Manfra said flooding was the first of many problems his crews encountered during and after the storm.

"In the beginning, the biggest thing was flooding," Manfra said. "Some areas got 4, 5, even 6 feet of water. We worked until about three o'clock in the morning (Sept. 17) and were back in by 7:30 a.m."

Emergency crews spent the night pumping out 25 flooded residential and commercial basements, according to Manfra.

After the storm, he said, crews from the eight-man department began dealing with the trees that were down all over town. "One of the most serious problems we had was a town tree that went down through a borough house," he said.

Manfra said borough efforts to clean up after Floyd's unwelcome stay were complicated by electrical wires strewn across many of the trees his men needed to clear. "There were wires down," he said. "Of course, PSEG is in charge of that, so there is a problem when a wire is dangling across a tree."

He said there were a number of roads his crews were forced to block off while waiting for PSEG workers to repair the downed wires.

"(The storm) made our workload increase by 100 percent," Manfra said. "We're doing it, we're just getting tired. We don't have a big crew."

Things were similarly busy in Westfield, where "we were inundated with calls," according to Deputy Fire Chief John Castellano.

Some South Side residents were evacuated in the face of rising flood waters, and Castellano said his department received about 250 calls during the storm — about 135 of which required a response, such as pumping out a basement. "It was a multitude of things," the deputy chief said. "There was a lot of rain, so water was a big thing."

Castellano said the fire department spent two days cleaning up after the storm, which caused some minor damage to equipment. "We had the normal things," he said. "Three pumps burned out from all of the water and a radio got wet and burned up."

One thing nearly all of Central Jersey had in common was a lack of drinking water after floods washed over the Elizabethtown.

Water Company's Raritan-Millstone water treatment plant, causing severe damage and crippling the water-giant's supply system. Although water-boiling restrictions have not been lifted, the effects of Floyd will be felt for quite some time, according to company President Andrew Chapman, who said main breaks will most likely occur throughout the Elizabethtown system due to pressure changes caused by the company's return to normal operations.

With a little help from Sharon Rabbitt, a volunteer for the North Jersey Affiliate of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, Westfield Mayor Thomas Jardim ties a pink ribbon in recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Westfield, Fanwood and Scotch Plains are among the more than 20 North Jersey towns participating in the Tie a Ribbon for the Cure program.

Cancer program has some seeing pink

The pink ribbons you will see popping up around your neighborhood will signal the beginning of the "Think Pink for the Cure" publicity campaign, aimed at raising awareness of the seriousness of breast cancer.

The campaign is sponsored by the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, North Jersey Affiliate. The program is scheduled for October in 20 some New Jersey towns as part of Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Last year's campaign won the National Group Volunteer Award from the Texas-based foundation.

The pink ribbon has become the international symbol for breast cancer awareness. During this month, volunteers will be tying pink ribbons around municipal trees and selling the ribbons at certain locations. Youth volunteers also are scheduled to tie and remove the ribbons.

As part of the campaign, a ribbon with a special card and commemorative lapel pin will be sold as part of a community outreach program of the North Central Jersey Realtors Association.

"Last year's 'Tie a Pink Ribbon' campaign was embraced by many of the Realtors in the association," said Carolyn Gibson, owner of the Mountain Agency in Summit and president of the Realtors' group. "The occasion to raise money was complemented by the opportunity to spread important breast health information to the public."

Summit Bank has joined the effort again this year and will have baskets of ribbons available at its branches. Woodward Properties has underwritten the cost for printing posters.

Volunteers spent more than 100 hours preparing the 2 1/2-inch satin ribbons, as well as "In Memory Of" and "In Honor Of" tags.

Human spirit is alive and well

Now that Floyd is gone — though, for many, he will never be forgotten — and we can reflect on the events of the last few weeks, there is one positive that stands out from among all the tragedies we witnessed: In the midst of crisis, Central Jersey residents did not hesitate to reach out to help each other.

The tales of local heroes have been well documented. But "heroism" takes many forms, from the many who volunteered at local shelters to the man who helped his elderly neighbor clean out her flooded basement, from the woman, living in an area relatively unaffected by the ravages of Floyd, who bought supplies to donate to those in need to the woman who alerted her neighbors not to drink the water; from the volunteers who manned the water distribution sites to the businesses that made financial donations to the Relief Fund. Residents clearly recognized the severity of the situation and were not only thinking about themselves.

It is this same human spirit that will help enable residents to go on. But with this, too, they will need help. If you would like to continue to help those most severely impacted by Hurricane Floyd — particularly residents of Bound Brook and Manville — here is what you can do:

* Monetary donations can be sent to a special fund set up by the United Way to help victims. Checks should be made out to "United Way Disaster Relief Fund" and mailed to United Way of Somerset County, 205 West Main St., Somerville, NJ 08876. The United Way stresses that every dollar collected in this fund will be distributed to aid victims.

* Material donations: Clothing needs have been met, but there are other supplies still in need. Nonperishable food items and cleaning supplies may be dropped off at the Food Bank Network of Somerset County, 9 East St., Bound Brook. For information, call (732) 560-1813. FISH, Inc. is accepting donations of bed linens, towels, blankets and personal hygiene items at 456 New Market Road, Piscataway (732-968-7952).

* Manpower: Volunteer work crews are needed to help residents and business owners rebuild their homes and shops. People fluent in other languages are also needed to help translate documents into Spanish, Arabic or Polish. For more information, call United Way at (908) 253-6500. No matter where you live, you can lend a helping hand.

Letters to the editor

Flood-stricken town thankful for aid

To the Editor:

On behalf of the town of Bound Brook and its residents, I would like to express our gratitude to Temple Emanu-El and its members. I originally asked my sister-in-law, Laurie Goldsmith-Heitner, if an announcement could be made during the High Holy Days about our need for clothing. Little did I realize that in one day, over 700 bags of clothing and bedding would be collected and delivered to our town. Please be assured that we will make very good use of each of these items over the next several weeks.

To Rabbi Charles Kroloff, his staff, Laurie and especially to the many truly generous members, we say thank you and may you have a happy and healthy new year.

A life's memories drowned by eight feet of water

By NAT BODIAN

Living on Henley (Avenue) off Riverside Drive, mine was one of the homes inundated by the Rahway River's rampaging waters during Hurricane Floyd.

The water level in my basement reached ceiling height, burying everything therein under approximately 8 feet of water.

Eventually flood insurance should cover some of the material losses like furnace, water heater, central air unit, washer, dryer, etc.

But there were numerous losses in the basement that can never be replaced, and certainly not by any insurance. My three record collections were heartbreakers. I had a collection of original Broadway cast musical albums amassed over a 12-year period during the 1970s and early 1980s, a collection of musical recordings totaling about 175 and a collection of vintage Yiddish music that dated back to the 1920s. All lost.

When the 3,000-gallon-per-hour sump pump emptied my basement, the contents were a helter-skelter pile of debris resting on a muddy floor.

I had been especially proud of my files — boxes and boxes of them. I'm a hoarder and collector of information. In the course of my lengthy career in the fields of marketing and communications, I had created a file for practically anything I ever wrote or had published, including assorted original book manuscripts and correspondence related to them.

From the debris, I searched out and scooped up a few pieces with special memories and laid them out to dry in the sun, but virtually everything else was a loss and discarded.

Here are a bare dozen samples I was able to salvage from the accumulated flood debris — still damp and musty more than a week after the end of the flood:

* A letter dated May 6, 1980 from Boston University informing me, "I plan to make your Book Marketing Handbook the required text for my Boston University Graduate Book Publishing Program."

* A letter dated Oct. 16, 1980 addressed to my employer, John Wiley & Sons, thanking Wiley for allowing Nat Bodian to lecture at the Book Publishing Class in the Science Communication Masters Program.

* A letter dated Nov. 3, 1981 from McGraw-Hill Book Co. thanking me for being a judge at their Professional Recognition Awards program, an annual event for McGraw-Hill's creative staff.

Guest commentary

at a seminar titled "Marketing Scholarly Publications" at the Third Annual Meeting of the Society for Scholarly Publishing.

* An attractive four-page folder dated 1981 from Solar Press which is titled "For Book Publishers Interested in Direct Response Card Promotions." The folder contains three pages of excerpts from my 1980 book, the "Book Marketing Handbook."

* A letter dated Dec. 31, 1982 from City University of New York thanking me for being a guest lecturer at the CUNY Book Marketing course.

* A letter dated March 29, 1983 from the Association of American Publishers thanking me for speaking at the AAP Professional and Scholarly Publishing Conference in Hershey, Pa.

* A letter from New York University dated May 11, 1983 welcoming me to the faculty of New York University's Summer Publishing Institute.

* An April 1986 tear sheet from The Inc. Advisor, a Boston newsletter containing a lengthy article titled "Mail lists: getting the most for your money." It was an article they had commissioned me to write.

* An article from the July 1986 issue of Society for Scholarly Publishing Letter written by me, "Worthy Books with Short Sales Life: Tested Ways to Extend Life Cycles."

* A letter dated Feb. 13, 1987 from the International Association of Independent Publishers confirming my appearance at their July 1987 annual conference on the UCLA campus, where I would conduct a day-long seminar "Direct Mail Marketing for Publishers."

* A letter dated March 26, 1987 from the Association of American Publishers thanking me for speaking at the International Division's three-day course on "Fundamentals of Selling Books and Rights Abroad."

I am but one of the hundreds of Cranford citizens who suffered flood losses, but even with these losses and a piece of my roof gone from a fallen oak, I may have fared better than some of my neighbors.

But the recent flood, at least for me, had an interesting side effect: It opened a window to a long-past retirement life, reviving memories dimmed by more than 12 years of retirement, of an earlier, busier and fulfilling life.

Voters, are you ready to rumble?

Once again, it's everyone's favorite time of the year. That's right, October.

The baseball playoffs, you may be wondering? Fun, yes, but not what I'm getting at. The onset of colorful fall foliage? Certainly a dazzling reminder how lovely nature can be, but just as certainly not the highlight of this particular month. Halloween? A thrill for the kiddies, no doubt, but the subject here is a little more grown-up — not much, but a little.

Of course I'm referring to the campaign season, when candidates from local to national levels strut their stuff, make their pitch, tell us why their narrow-vision party line is better than the other party's close-minded agenda. From an endless array of baby-kissing hopefuls to charges of corruption and every potential sex scandal in between, this is the month we get to see our incumbents and their challengers bare their derrieres, so to speak, and boy, won't it be fun!

Yes, get excited, friend ... we can now look forward to about five weeks of political advertising gracing our newspapers and television screens. All those informative and amusing messages telling us about one office-seeker's superiority over another, or, if we're really lucky, no information whatsoever about the person sponsoring the add, just a litany of charges against his or her opponent.

Don't hide your enthusiasm, chum ... you're just as revved up as the rest of us, ready for a month's worth of mud-slinging, criticisms and counter-attacks. Why should a candidate bother reflecting on his or her own record or plan for the future when it's easier — and, let's face it, much more entertaining — to slander the enemy? Remember, this is the country that brought us such mind-enhancing gems as "The Jerry Springer Show" and "WWF Smackdown." Politicians know their audience. They're no dummies.

Now I know what you're thinking, amigo ... not all candidates take this approach. Some take the high road and avoid the offensive and insulting tactics we've come to know and love. Well, rest assured, fellow citizen ... these same champions of morality will be dragged down soon enough by their opponents' underhanded strategies, left to explain how their family has forgiven them for the tryst with the au pair or how they "experimented" with cocaine but never actually snorted.

That's right, Johnny and Joan Public, it's the playoffs of politics. The Super Bowl of suffrage. The 11th hour of the electoral process, when it's smear or be smeared — a month of no-holds-barred, in-your-face stamping worthy of an Aaron Spelling vehicle. Too bad more debates aren't held beside inground pools, because you know sooner or later, two candidates would wind up soaked to their skivvies, pulling hair and throwing hay-maker slaps.

So grab your clicker and pull up a chair, registered voter ... it's time to appraise the attacks and rate the rebukes. Time to weed out the winners from the losers, and while most of us have only these political advertisements to guide us, we're certainly up to the task. Hey, we're a nation that re-elected a cracked-up mayor, put a professional wrestler in charge of an entire state and elected a draft-dodging, intern-friendly, non-inhaling rube to the highest office in the land — twice. This election business is nothing we can't handle.

And the best part is, confrere, we get to do it all again next year, when the stakes will be even higher. A presidential election, the first of the new millennium! Too bad Dan Quayle dropped out — that much less ammunition for the political pundits' pens. If we're lucky, Hulk Hogan and Donald Trump will square off for the Reform Party nomination. They can debate in a steel cage on "Smackdown."

The countdown to the millennium will now be a little easier in downtown Fanwood, where a new "millennium clock" was unveiled Sunday as part of the Fanny-Wood Day celebration. The new clock doesn't actually tick off the seconds remaining until the year, century and millennium come to an end — it got its name simply because of the timing of its unveiling — but it will help passers-by know when they're late for an appointment.

Defibrillator donation

Scotch Plains Chief of Police Thomas O'Brien (at the microphone) and Scotch Plains Rescue Squad Vice President Bob Gurske announced Sept. 14 the squad's donation of three Lifepak 500 automated external defibrillators to the Police Department. The chief, who said he hoped the new equipment would help make the difference between life and death in cases of sudden cardiac arrest, said the donation put his department more than three years ahead of schedule as far as supplying officers and their patrol units with the life-saving devices. O'Brien also encouraged community members to continue their support of the 63-year-old Rescue Squad's annual fund drive.

To Mexico, with love

When Alfred Lawrence of Westfield went to Acapulco, he was immediately swept away — not by the warm breezes or crystal clear ocean, but by the plight of homeless orphans there. Now, after years' worth of charitable efforts, a Mexican orphanage is being renamed in his honor.

NICOLE DIMELLA/RECORD-PRESS

Mexican orphans have a friend in Westfield

By TERRENCE DOPP
RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — The Salvation Army recently honored town resident Alfred Lawrence by renaming a Mexican orphanage he has sponsored, and helped build along with his wife, the Alfred and Ray Lawrence Children's Home of the Salvation Army.

The honor marked the first time the Salvation Army has named an orphanage after one of its volunteers.

"I'm very honored," said Lawrence, 95, while preparing the next batch of donations he will take to the orphanage in Mazimba, a suburb outside of Acapulco. "It's a work of pleasure. If I didn't have these things to do, I'd go crazy, I guess."

Lawrence, who moved to Westfield from the Upper West Side of Manhattan a decade ago, has been involved with the children's home for over 35 years, bringing donations he collects from his own family and other groups in the area to the Mexican children who have become like his own.

"They're all my godchildren, and they all call me abuelito (Spanish for 'grandfather')," he said.

Lawrence's daughter, Lucille Weiss, said her father has helped too many children to count — a number she placed in the thousands — during the time he has been involved with the children's home, which holds up to 90 children at a time.

"The Salvation Army says they provide the leadership and God does the rest," said Weiss, a former middle school guidance counselor in Springfield who has also been indispensable in helping the orphanage, according to Lawrence. "They look at him and they say that God provided him."

Lawrence has been a patron of Acapulco's neediest children since 1961, when he was vacationing in that city with his wife Ray, who passed away in 1992. He said he saw a little boy on the beach starving and in obvious need of medical attention and took the boy to the local hospital, then took him to a restaurant, fed him and offered to help the boy return home.

"I told him I would write to his parents," Lawrence said. "I asked him if they take you home, would you go?"

While waiting for a reply to his letter, which never came, Lawrence took the boy to the orphanage that would eventually bear Lawrence's name. Upon seeing the conditions, Lawrence said, he knew he had to help the children of Acapulco's streets. "From that moment on, I kept coming back to the home," he said.

Lawrence has returned to the home every year since, with shipments of clothing and other goods to help out the orphanage. The orphanage, Lawrence noted, could provide the items itself, but would have to spend money that otherwise could be used for school supplies and transportation.

Lawrence brings the shipments to the orphanage himself in his personal baggage, which Continental Airlines has allowed him to do free of charge.

In 1971, he even went as far as buying a condominium near the home, and began spending six months of every year in Mexico, where he could be closer to and continue to help his beloved children.

"When I go there, (the children) line up in the airport with flowers," Lawrence said. "I don't know if it's me they want, or the lollipops and balloons."

Lawrence points out the camaraderie and family atmosphere at the home is one of the reasons he has been going back for so many years. "We'll get a little kid at the home, crying," he said. "It might be she misses her mother or the mother may be dead. Two or three kids will go up to her, get around her and talk to her. The next thing you know, she's right at home. I just can't believe how wonderful it is."

Lawrence and his daughter are hoping to collect more donations before he leaves for his next trip to Mexico, scheduled for Nov. 2. To donate summer clothes and other needed items, call Lucille Weiss at (908) 233-4815.

Interactive evening aimed at helping learning-disabled 'Get Organized'

for organizing schoolwork.

"Let's Get Organized" is open to all parents and professionals. It will be held 7:30pm Monday, at the Evergreen School in Scotch Plains.

Ceremony puts library on World Wide Web

FANWOOD — Even the aftermath of Tropical Storm Floyd could not stop the Fanwood Memorial Library from going online.

A Sept. 17 ceremony officially put the library on the information superhighway, thanks to a new computer system that includes Internet access.

Mayor Maryanne Connolly and library Director Dan Weiss cut the ceremonial ribbon to mark the addition of the new computer, stationed in the library's main area.

Also in attendance at the ceremony were Steve Clark, president of the Fanwood Memorial Library Board of Trustees; Ellen Paravano, executive director of the Libraries of Middlesex Consortium; and Jack Livingstone, a librarian with the New Jersey State Library.

The Fanwood library is a consortium member.

"It is gratifying to direct a library in a town that demonstrates such widespread support for the library and recognizes what an asset it is to the entire community," Weiss said.

Funding for the computer system was provided in part by grants from the State Library.

Scotch Plains pushes for better flood plan

Plainfield, North Plainfield, Watchung and Warren; the lower basin includes Middlesex, Dunellen, Piscataway, Boundbrook, Greenbrook and Bridgewater.

While the lower basin project has moved ahead with $1 million in federal funding, the upper basin project has been bogged down over the proposed locations of the basins.

Several people from the north side of Scotch Plains who were hit hard by the storm pleaded with the Township Council to be more aggressive in dealing with the impasse. "These so-called hundred year storms are happening more than once every hundred years," said one resident, who noted that Floyd was the third major storm to hit Scotch Plains since the 1960's.

According to Mayor Geri Samuel, the bottleneck is partially due to Berkeley Heights' resistance to placing the basins in certain locations. "Retention basins are not very attractive," said Samuel, "so you can understand the concerns. But something has to be done, and soon."

Scotch Plains Engineering Department spokesman Dennis Harrington added that Union County has expressed concerns about the environmental impact of the basins, and therefore hasn't given the project its full support. "It's been difficult to build consensus among all the different interest groups," Harrington said, citing the lack of continuity caused by frequent turnover of county and municipal officials.

According to Harrington, the Greenbrook Flood Control Commission has presented alternative approaches for study by the Army Corps of Engineers. Some of the alternatives include the construction of fewer and smaller basins, the government purchase of flood zone properties and the relocation of the property owners. It could take up to 18 months for the Army Corps of Engineers to complete its review and make recommendations to the commission, according to Harrington. He estimated that once an agreement has been reached on an approach, it could take another 10 years to complete the work needed to protect Scotch Plains and other Union County communities from the likes of Tropical Storm Floyd.

Pool plan

It's not needed."

The plan presented to residents Monday night, created by consultants Kinsey Associates, would build three new pools at the site and allow the town to alleviate the lack of membership openings it has experienced in the recent past. It would also create a large roller-hockey rink with bleacher-style seating and 18 lighting poles that would make it possible for the park to be used after dark, something Penczak noted does not happen in any other park in Westfield.

"We are talking about a hockey court with 4-foot walls 12 feet from my property," said George Toll, whose house stands mere yards from the site of the proposed rink. "In the service, I used to go to Boston Gardens to see the Bruins play on a smaller rink."

Many residents of the area agreed the plan went beyond its original scope and would create what one homeowner called an "athletic complex" that could host swim meets during crowded weekends at the pool and competitive roller-hockey matches.

To accommodate the new pools and the hockey rink, Kinsey Associates' plan would move the edge of the facility nearly 100 feet closer to houses bordering the property, which residents said would effectively destroy the noise buffer the town created by setting the pool back when it was built three decades ago.

Residents also expressed concerns over the intent of the project, which they said would place too much use on the Memorial Pool facility. They stressed the quiet neighborhood and the probability of traffic problems on dead-end streets.

Tuesday night's meeting was the first time some Town Council members heard the details of the Kinsey plan, which had to pass through the Recreation Committee before the council could vote on it.

"I think a lot of work needs to be done (on the plan)," said Mayor Thomas Jardim. "There is a clear need for going back to the drawing board."

The mayor said he hopes a committee of area residents will be formed to offer input during the planning stages. He was backed by other members of the council who agreed the plan was too ambitious in scope compared to the original goals of fixing fields and repairing the high-dive tank at the pool.

"It raises the question of 'Do we need some of these things, anyway?'" said councilman Larry Goldman. "Is the aim to fix what we have, or to buy a new Cadillac?"

Other council members were less diplomatic about the Kinsey plan. "I can't imagine taking this plan in its present form from the Recreation Committee to the full Town Council," said Councilman Carl Salisbury.

Westfield-Scotch Plains rivalry heats up

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School will look to win back the local bragging rights when they battle a Westfield High School football team which has won the last two meetings between the schools.

Scotch Plains (2-0) has started the season strong, winning their first two games, including last week's 18-15 defeat of Shabazz. Westfield (1-1) got their season off to a shaky start, but rebounded to beat Cranford last week, 20-7, and even their record.

Scotch Plains Head Coach Steve Ciccotelli down played the significance of the rivalry, calling it just another game on a long schedule.

"The next game on your schedule is always the most important game," said Ciccotelli. "We try to play every game like its the last game we're going to play."

Ciccotelli's message got through to his team as well. Senior captain Dave Herrmann commented that the team will continue to take one game at a time, and not try to get too anxious for Westfield.

"If you get over excited you tend to play bad," said Herrmann. "Its a big game for the school but we're trying to look at it as another game. I think we should beat them, but we aren't going to take it easy either."

Westfield Head Coach Ed Tranchina also downplayed the extent of the rivalry, but said he always enjoys games against neighborhood rivals, and that any plans by the state to eliminate these games isn't a good idea.

"It's a nice neighborhood rivalry. I love these games," said Tranchina. "They've got a great team. We got our work cut out for us."

Westfield senior linebacker and fullback Pat Tuohy is also looking forward to the game.

"Its Scotch Plains, its a big rivalry. We've beaten them two years in a row and we're looking to do it again," he said. "We feel we got something to prove so we might as well do it against Scotch Plains, who's having a good year so far."

In order to be successful, the Blue Devils will have to shut down Scotch Plains' star running back Nathan Jones. Jones rushed for over 160-yards for the second week in a row, and is the catalyst of the Raiders attack. The Westfield defensive line will have to shut down the running holes created by a Scotch Plains offensive line, averaging 250lb.

"We have to stop their ground attack," said Tranchina. "They've got a great ground attack."

Westfield will be the third Wing-T team that Scotch Plains has seen this season. They held Shabazz to less than fifty-yards of total offense in the second half, and shut down Hudson Catholic in its opener. Ciccotelli said he will approach tomorrow afternoon's game the same way he approaches every other, and try to limit the mental mistakes the Raiders made in the first half against Shabazz.

Herrmann believes that it is those mental mistakes which are holding Scotch Plains back from being a great team.

"I think we have a few minor mistakes which are holding us

IRON WALTHERS/RECORD-PRESS
Nathan Jones, who has rushed for over 160 yards in each of the Raiders first two games, will be the main focus of the Westfield defense tomorrow.

back from being a great team," said Herrmann. "Penalties and first game mistakes are what's holding us back."

Tranchina was happy with the way his team rebounded from their opening day loss to Marist, and was able to deal with the loss of starting quarterback Chris Giaccone, who spent the day pacing the sidelines in street clothes due to suspension. Ryan MacDonald filled in nicely for Giaccone, who will be back behind center Saturday for the Blue Devils.

The Blue Devils were looking to raise their level of intensity against Cranford and senior linebacker Mike Ciaciarelli set the tone early with a huge hit on Cranford's Dan Daly on the games opening kickoff.

"It was a great hit," said Tranchina. "It set tempo for the rest of the day."

The Blue Devils jumped on the Cougars quickly when Pat Tuohy intercepted a pass by Cranford quarterback Bob Sawicki on the opening possession and returned it to the Cranford 25-yard line. Sophomore running back Terrence Jenkins, who ran for 124 yards and three touchdowns on 12 carries, rumbled in from the 2-yard line four plays later, and Westfield grabbed a quick 7-0 lead.

"We did what we had to do to win," said Tranchina. "We improved, which was good, but we still have a long way to go."

Scotch Plains fell behind Shabazz early when Derrick Foster ran 83-yards on the first play from scrimmage for the touchdown. Scotch Plains answered when Jones ran it in from four yards out with 2:45 remaining in the first quarter.

Shabazz took a 15-6 half-time lead when Jabril Stokes barreled in from the 1-yard line. Scotch Plains took the lead in the third quarter behind a 15-yard run by Jones and a 27-yard kick by Brian Schiller. They added a safety in the fourth quarter for the 18-15 victory.

GEORGE PACCIELLO/RECORD-PRESS
Westfield's Terrence Jenkins hopes to repeat last weeks performance which saw him run for three touchdowns and 124 yards.

Raiders rolling through competition

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood boys soccer team has shaken off several injuries so far this season, and after a 2-1 victory over neighbor and rival Cranford, improved their record to 5-1.

After star goalkeeper Brad Lowyns broke his wrist over the summer, and replacement Rob Bugg broke his leg in the first game, the Raiders have been playing with Pat Meredith in goal. Meredith was originally slated to start on the junior varsity, but was thrown straight into the fire and has so far performed well for Scotch Plains.

Lowyns is slated to come back Oct. 11 and Head Coach To m Breznitsky is eagerly awaiting his return. He hopes to have Lowyns back in goal when the Raiders battle Ridge Oct. 12, but admits that it may take longer.

"He'd be in there with the cast on if it were up to me," joked Breznitsky. "But we're hoping that he has enough flexibility that he will be able to go."

Breznitsky feels that when Lowyns returns, Scotch Plains will be close to full strength, and any window other teams had at upsetting the Raiders early on will be shut. The Raiders suffered another set back when Mike Franzone suffered a cartilage tear in his knee and will miss at least six weeks. But the return of Lowyns, should be able to sure up the Raiders defense in time for another championship run.

"We'll have a 25-30% improvement the minute he gets back," said Breznitsky. "We will be able to diffuse a lot of things."

Breznitsky is hoping that the presence that Lowyns brings to the field will improve the overall team defense and allow his players to concentrate on other things. Lowyns is someone who takes command on the field and is much more aggressive than Meredith, subsequently the Raiders defense will have to deal with less balls in the box, and can look to create the attack more.

Senior captain Jeff Fiorino is also eagerly anticipating the return of Lowyns. He feels the team has not played up to its capability offensively so far, because they have been extra concerned about their defense. He feels the return of Lowyns will get them back on the right track.

"We're all looking forward to it," he said of Lowyns return. "It will probably be the turning point of the season."

But Scotch Plains hasn't assembled a 5-1 record on luck alone. The play of Fiorino, Eugene Ferrera, and Mike Zotti has been vital to the team's success, and the performances of freshman Ray DiNizo, and Dwight Simms have impressed Breznitsky.

"They have been our catalyst," said Breznitsky.

Cranford used long passes over the top of the Raiders defense to try to take advantage of the absence of Lowyns.

The Cougars controlled play in the first half and jumped out to a 1-0 lead early when Rob Sands sent a pass that Tom Arthur hammered home.

The Raiders rebounded in the second half when Mike Zotti tied the score in the 52nd minute. Andrew Babiez scored off a cross from Jeff Hensal in the 67th minute to secure the victory.

WHS girls soccer is off to a quick start

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

With a 7-0 drubbing of Linden on Monday, the Westfield High School girls soccer team improved their record to 3-0-2.

While the Blue Devils are undefeated, Head Coach Pete Giordano was a little disappointed that his team hadn't notched a couple more wins in their belt to this point. He felt Westfield could have beaten Cranford, instead of walking away with a 1-1 tie, but was proud of the way the team fought back and salvaged a tie against a tough East Brunswick squad after falling behind 3-1.

"The girls showed some character," said Giordano. "Their not giving up and constantly playing hard."

At the start of the season Giordano

was concerned about the Blue Devils ability to put the ball in the back of the net and take advantage of their scoring opportunities. But he says so far that hasn't been the problem. His main concern has shifted from offense to defense.

"We're doing all right so far," said Giordano. "I'm not happy with our team defense. We still have some work to do."

Giordano said the defensive let downs have not been entirely the fault of the back line, rather its been a lapse on the part of the entire team.

"The whole concept of team defense needs to get better. We need to play defense as a unit," said Giordano. "We've been getting back a little late."

The Blue Devils have so far been able to take advantage of their scoring opportunities. During preseason scrimmages Giordano was concerned that the team wasn't looking to finish its opportunities, and wasn't offensive minded enough. But after two weeks, he has been pleased with the play of the offense.

"There getting themselves in good positions, and beating their defenders," said Giordano. "There getting them selves the confidence to put it in. There putting the ball in the back of the net and getting themselves shots. These were the things I was worried about at the beginning and their starting to do it."

While Giordano said the play of Donna Schaller, Kristin Salmond, Taryn Wyckoff, Leigh Kendrick and Stevie Larson stand out in the mind of Giordano, he says he has been pleased with the play of the entire team.

"I hate to single people out," said Giordano. "Everybody that has played has done the job."

After playing three consecutive overtime games, the Blue Devils have amassed some nagging injuries. While Giordano wouldn't go into specifics, he did say he has been resting some of his players during practices.

"We've got some nagging injuries," he said. "A lot of them are playing through pain, and playing hard. But its no excuse. The kids that get put in have to play and we don't use injuries as an excuse."

Westfield gymnastics undefeated

The Westfield High School gymnastics team continue its impressive start winning two meets last week and improving their record to 3-0. The Blue Devils defeated Old Bridge 101.05-85.5 and Arthur Johnson 103.5-77.

Leading the way for the Blue Devils against Johnson was Ashley Flood, who competed in all four events tallying a 34.3 score. Lauren Caravello finished first on the uneven bars with a 9.1, and senior Tara Clarke contributed an 8.4 in vaulting in her first appearance of the year for the Blue Devils.

Against Old Bridge Jessica Caravello totaled competed in all four events for 35 points. She finished first in vaulting, balance beam, and the floor exercise. Lauren Caravello finished first on the uneven bars with a 9.35, and Flood finished second on the uneven bars with a 9.0.

Field Hockey

Westfield 2, Johnson 0—On the strength of goals by Paige Corbett and Val Wicks, the Blue Devils defeated Johnson on Saturday.

Boys Soccer
Westfield 7, Linden 1—The Blue Devils evened their record at 3-3 with the victory in Linden, Monday. Alex Lau had a goal and two assists, and Erik Westfield's Patti Oslislo goes up for the kill against Union Catholic. The Blue Devils fell to the Vikings 2-0.

GEORGE PACCIELLO/RECORD-PRESS

Finne had one goal and one assist.

Westfield 3, Bridgewater Raritan 1—Ralph Rapuano led the Blue Devils over Bridgewater-Raritan on Saturday. Rapuano tallied a goal and an assist in the victory.

Volleyball

Cranford 2, Westfield 1—The Blue Devils dropped a tightly contested match 12-15, 15-11, 15-12. Westfield will compete against some of the top teams in the state in the Livingston Tournament tomorrow, before having a rematch with Cranford on Monday.

Union Catholic boys soccer earning respect

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

After years of being viewed as an easy game on everybody else's schedule, the Union Catholic boy's soccer team has become a team to be reckoned with in Union County.

In his seventh year as head coach, Joe DeOliveira feels his team has finally reached a level where they will not only be competitive in the tough Mountain Valley Conference, but will make some waves if their opponents continue to look past them.

"Union Catholic has never been known as a soccer school," said DeOliveira. "But we're slowly coming around and turning the program around. For a while we weren't respected. We're no longer an easy game."

The Vikings went to the state tournament last year, posting a better than .500 record, and advanced to the second round of the Union County Tournament. They will be looking to better those marks this season.

In order to do so, Union Catholic, who had posted a 3-1 record going into this week, will need strong play from their midfield, which DeOliveira says is the strength of the team. Leading the way is senior Mark Hordynsky, an all-state selection last year, Sergio Malaquias, and junior Ryan Price. They will be counted on to control the ball on the ground in the midfield, and set up scoring opportunities for the Union Catholic strikers.

"Our midfield controls the ball and makes excellent passes to our forwards," said DeOliveira. "They make it easy for our forwards."

Looking to capitalize on those opportunities will be senior Andre Tobar, the Vikings leading scorer so far this year, junior Mark DeOliveira, the coaches son and an all-conference selection last season, and junior Tommy Simpson. Juniors Eric DaRocha and Craig Gorceyca will sure up the defense for Union Catholic. DaRocha will look to score on set plays with his powerful shot, according to DeOliveira.

DeOliveira attributes the recent success and growth of the Union Catholic program to a growing crop of full-time soccer players.

He said he expected to turn the program around immediately after he started, but it wasn't until now that he had the pieces to fit the puzzle.

"I thought I was going to come in and change the whole program, but it takes time and wins," said DeOliveira. "I was teaching soccer, but didn't have the tools to win. Now I have the tools."

Those pieces are beginning to fit together.

They played Arthur L. Johnson yesterday, and square off against Ridge and Rahway next week.

Need a new roof? Here's how to make that decision

If your home is nearly 20 years old, or it's been a good two decades since it was last shingled, chances are you may need a new roof.

Autumn is a good time to inspect closely and evaluate the condition of your roof. If the roof has deteriorated significantly, you'll have enough time to get your home re-roofed before winter weather arrives.

The Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association (ARMA) suggests that consumers look for the following aging/deterioration signs in trying to determine if they need a new roof.

* Using binoculars, walk around the outside of the house and look for cracked, severely curled or broken shingles. Never walk on a roof, it can be dangerous and may damage the shingles.

* Check gutters and downspouts for excessive accumulation of the mineral granules that coat the shingles. (It is normal for shingles to lose some of their granules, as an excess amount is applied during shingle manufacture). These granules provide important weather resistance to your roof. Noticeable loss of granules usually signifies roof aging or deterioration.

* Using a flashlight, inspect your attic space, looking carefully at the underside of the roof deck and rafters for stains or wet spots; both can be signs of leakage.

If you decide it's probably time to re-roof, you'll quickly discover there's a wide variety of products and options available in today's asphalt shingles. According to ARMA, four out of five homes in the United States have asphalt shingles.

For the most part, asphalt shingles remain the number one choice of homeowners because they offer the broadest array of colors, shapes and textures to match most architectural styles at the most affordable price. In addition, asphalt shingles offer a long life expectancy and low maintenance requirements.

For roofing professionals, asphalt shingles are often preferred because they offer good performance in all types of temperatures and are considered the easiest to apply of the standard roofing materials.

In addition, asphalt shingles are available in a variety of classifications that meet specific fire, wind and hail resistance testing standards. For example, all shingles carry a Class A, B or C fire rating, with Class A providing the highest fire resistance. These fire ratings are defined by nationally recognized standards and tested by independent testing agencies. In addition, many asphalt shingles carry a "wind resistant" label indicating that they've been tested to meet specific high-wind criteria.

Once you decide on the type of roof you're interested in, then color and style questions loom large. ARMA experts recommend that you consider the following basics when trying to decide on a roofing style and color.

* The color of your roof should harmonize with the color of your home's exterior walls. For example, if you have light gray siding and white trim, choose a roof color in the gray family and avoid brown shades.

* Stay in keeping with the neighborhood. You'll be happier with a roof that blends into the background rather than one that differs noticeably from the surrounding homes.

* If you want your home to blend in with the natural environment, pick a roof color that blends together varying shades of browns, grays or greens.

* A small home may be given added dimension with a light-colored roof to direct the eye upward and create a sense of airiness.

* Dark roof colors on tall homes or steeply-sloped roofs will help to recede the roofline visually and seemingly reduce the structure's scale.

To learn more about roofing styles, design color and aesthetics, order the ARMA brochure, OA Homeowner's Guide to Quality Asphalt Roofing" available for $1 by writing to the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association, 400 Department, P.O. Box 1532 North Babylon, NY 11703.

Classes are offered 10:30-11:30 a.m. or 1:30-2:30 p.m. Tuesday in October, November and December. Pre-registration is required. Fee is $4 per person for each class.

Hikers will look and listen for evidence of nocturnal residents who visit Lake Surprise at night. Hikers will gather at the parking lot on W.R. Tracy Drive in the Watchung Reservation. Pre-registration is required. Fee is $3 per person; bring your own flashlights.

For a fall program brochure, which includes a list of all workshops for children and families as well as special events, call (908) 789-3670 or visit the center at 452 New Providence Road.

Historic expeditions in October weekend

The Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit (above) and the Miller-Cory House Museum in Westfield are two of the sites which will be showcased Oct. 23-24 during "Four Centuries in a Weekend."

Pick any or all of five separate historic theme expeditions as a way to enjoy the 22 house museums, sites and buildings in "Four Centuries in a Weekend ... A Journey Through Union County's History."

Sightseers can select their favorite time period of the past and visit examples of it at their own pace. The free Heritage Festival takes place 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23 and noon-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 24.

"There are five historic themes, and they describe major changes that took place in what is now Union County from colonial times until the early 1920s," said Nicholas P. Scutari, chairman of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. "Everyone can select a cluster of sites to visit or mix and match from all of them."

Choices include: the grand homes of the "Early Aristocracy"; the setting for the dangerous "Revolutionary Frontline" years; modest examples of hard "Farm Life"; the successful undertakings of "Commerce and Industry"; and the grandeur and comfort of the "Victorian Resorts and Suburbs."

For this self-guided journey, free booklets are available. They contain brief descriptions of the sites as well as illustrated maps with all the stops marked.

"The stories of the theme clusters tell four centuries of Union County history," added Freeholder Mary P. Ruotolo, liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board. "Because buildings changed to meet new needs and styles, some sites appear in more than one cluster."

Showcased during "Four Centuries in a Weekend" are: the Littell-Lord Farmstead and the Deserted Village of Feltville-Glenside Park in Berkeley Heights; the Dr. William Robinson Plantation in Clark; the Crane-Phillips House in Cranford; the Belcher-Ogden Mansion and Boxwood Hall in Elizabeth; Evergreen Cemetery and Woodruff House/Eaton Store Museum in Hillside; the Deacon Andrew Hetfield House in Mountainside; the Salt Box Museum in New Providence; the Drake House Museum in Plainfield; Merchants and Drovers Tavern in Rahway; the Abraham Clark House in Roselle; the Roselle Park Museum in Roselle Park; the Osborn Cannonball House in Scotch Plains; the Cannon Ball House in Springfield; the Carter House, Reeves-Reed Arboretum and Twin Maples in Summit; the Caldwell Parsonage and Liberty Hall in Union; and the Miller-Cory House Museum in Westfield.

"Four Centuries in a Weekend" is made possible by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and grants from the New Jersey Historical Commission, the New Jersey Division of Travel & Tourism, and the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, a state partner of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Additional support from AAA New Jersey Automobile club has enabled driving routes and laminated county maps to be available at each site.

Ensemble cast prepares to stage Ludwig's 'Moon Over Buffalo'

WESTFIELD — Naomi Yablonsky, known to local theatergoers for her many past appearances and directing efforts with the Westfield Community Players, has assembled an ensemble cast for Ken Ludwig's comedy smash "Moon Over Buffalo."

The show is set to open 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 16. Additional performances are 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22 and Nov. 5, 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, 30 and Nov. 6; and 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 7. All shows are at the WCP theater, 1000 North Ave. West.

Rambunctiously funny, this slam-bang farce set in Buffalo in 1953 presents a tired troupe with a repertoire of Noel Coward's "Private Lives" and "Cyrano de Bergerac." While rehearsing, stars Charlotte and George Hay are told Hollywood director Frank Capra is on his way to audition them for starring roles in his upcoming swashbuckler "The Scarlet Pimpernel." Will George be sober enough to appear? Will Charlotte run off with her agent? Will Mr. Capra see anything remotely resembling a play, or will backstage shenanigans, missed entrances and blown cues send him back to Hollywood on the next train?

John and Linda Correll return to the WCP stage as George and Charlotte Hay, the featured actors in this sorry troupe. Linda Guiditta of Westfield is Charlotte's deaf and cantankerous mother. Stanley Kaplan, also of Westfield, is the Hays' agent trying to land everything together.

Mary Kate Cullinan returns to the WCP stage as Rosalind. Matthew Kaplan is Howard, Patti Vidakovic of Cranford is Eileen and Ralph Romeo is Paul.

Admission is $12. Advance tickets are available at Burgdorf Realty in Westfield or by calling (908) 232-1221. Opening night patrons are invited to stay for the traditional celebration featuring light snacks and coffee in the lobby after the final curtain.

Funding is in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State through a grant administered by the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

Championship rodeo comes to Continental Arena

Oct. 21-23 will mark the first time that America's most honored rodeo, the International Championship Rodeo, will stampede into the Continental Airlines Arena.

The International Championship Rodeo is a big-league, professional rodeo sanctioned for world championship points by the International Pro Rodeo Association (IPRA) headquartered in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma and produced by the award-winning World Classic Productions, Inc. of Nashville, Tenn.

The International Championship Rodeo produces rodeos exclusively indoors, in civic centers and coliseums throughout the United States and Canada.

This rodeo consistently attracts world class athletes in all six world championship events of Bareback Riding, Bronc Riding, Steer Wrestling, Saddle Bronc Riding, Cowgirls Barrel Racing, Calf Roping and Bull Riding.

Much like professional golf, rodeo competitors are independent athletes. Each pays an entry fee for the privilege of competing. Their entry fees (as much as $500) are added to the prize money to determine the total payoff in each event. Because the cowboys and cowgirls compete only one time over the three days - four performances run at the Meadowlands - these competitors will also be competing at other IPRA-sanctioned rodeos scheduled during the same week. Every dollar won by these professional rodeo athletes represents one world championship point. The more rodeos they attend during the year increases the competitors' chances of taking home not only additional prize money but championship points as well.

Unlike many professional sports, each performance will feature the six championship events, clown and horse acts, live musical entertainment, camel and ostrich races - but not the same cowboys and cowgirls. Each contestant competes one time only. At the close of the final performance only the top four scores and times turned in during the four performances of competition will receive a share of the prize money.

This rodeo offers something for everyone in the family, including special spotlighted musical production numbers, colorful costumes and the best rodeo acts, trick performing horses, rodeo clowns and live musical entertainment from International and World Finals Rodeo.

Each January, the International Finals Rodeo is held in Oklahoma City. The world's top 15 cowboys and cowgirls (top money winners) compete for the world championship titles in their respective events. Unfortunately, not everyone can just take off to Oklahoma City to see this great rodeo, with the International Championship Rodeo coming to the Meadowlands, the trip to Oklahoma is not necessary.

"After this rodeo's tremendous success at the Nassau Memorial Coliseum on Long Island earlier this year, we are genuinely excited about returning to the northeast and being at the Meadowlands," says Bob Teaff, director of marketing for the rodeo.

The International Championship Rodeo stampedes into the Continental Airlines Arena Oct. 21-23 for four action-packed performances.

Ticket prices are $18, $14 and $10. Tickets for children (ages 12 and younger) are available for select performances. A limited number of VIP seats is available at $25, no discounts.

Tickets are available at the Continental Airlines Area Box Office and all TicketMaster locations, or to charge by phone, call (201) 507-8900 and in New York, (212) 307-7171. For special group discounts, call (201) 560-4370. For event information, call (201) 935-3900.

Author McDaniel to sign at book store

CLARK — On Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m., author Bonnie W. McDaniel will sign copies of In the Eye of the Storm: A Celebration of Family and the Real Purpose of Home at Barnes and Noble, 1180 Raritan Road, Clark.

McDaniel offers refreshing insights into the heart, soul, and power of the family. Using both old-fashioned wisdom and practical parenting tips, this book is a perfect tool for anyone, whether they be a child or adult, who is interested in improving the value of their family life. In the Eye of the Storm includes essential advice that empowers parents to re-establish the home as a place of stability, peace, and love.

"The answers to today's family problems," said McDaniel, "aren't necessarily found in modern-day theories or ideas, they are perhaps found in our past. We've lost sight of the simple lessons and effective parenting skills used by our grandparents."

McDaniel is a well-known expert on the home and its importance in family life. She is the creator and publisher of The Art of Good Living Internet Magazine, as well as a syndicated columnist across Northern Virginia through the Times Community syndicate. She has appeared on the Les Brown Morning radio show, broadcast out of Washington, D.C., and on Fox television in Washington, D.C., and Tampa. In addition, McDaniel was featured in the May 1999 issue of Essence Magazine in which In the Eye of the Storm was highlighted.

'Mostly Goodman' concert showcases small band swing

WATCHUNG — "Mostly Goodman," an evening of small band swing music, is booked at the Watchung Arts Center for Oct. 1, starting at 8 p.m. The Jazz Series concert will feature clarinetist Dan Levinson, pianist Mark Shane and drummer Kevin Dorn, all familiar with Benny Goodman's signature pieces, as well as tunes made possible by Artie Shaw and others. Tickets are $12 and include light intermission refreshments.

The intimate space in Watchung's gallery fills quickly, so reservations are advised to assure a seat will be waiting. Call (908) 753-0190, leaving a message on the tape outside of the 1 to 4 p.m. office hours. Tickets will be held at the door.

Levinson was asked to lead the band for the major Benny Goodman tribute in January, but illness required him to withdraw. He's back and in top form, so this concert should treat the audience to some of what they would have heard. Levinson, who plays a variety of reed instruments, considers himself "clarinetist first," and thus is well prepared for the repertoire of the bands of Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and other Swing Era greats. Levinson is well known on the jazz festival circuit, leading the Roof Garden Jazz Band, which captures the difficult ensemble style of the Original Dixieland Jazz Band.

Mark Shane was the pianist of choice for both the 50th and 60th anniversary concerts, marking the date of Benny Goodman's historic Carnegie Hall appearance. Two different leaders felt he was best to reprise the Teddy Wilson and Jess Stacy parts. Shane is often "first call" when assembling all-star groups, and has appeared at Watchung many times during a decade of jazz there.

Kevin Dorn is most often heard as a restrained drummer for groups exploring the early jazz styles, but he has excellent swing credentials as well. Gene Krupa of the Goodman Band was the quintessential driving Big Band drummer, so filling his shoes is no small matter.

The Watchung Arts Center overlooks the Watchung Circle. Parking is available on site or at nearby municipal lots.

Hear Klezmer All Stars in Springfield concert

SPRINGFIELD — Mary Feinsinger's Klezmer All Stars will perform at the Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library on Oct. 3 at 2 p.m.

The Klezmer All Stars are four outstanding musical artists who combine their talents to present a unique sound in klezmer music, often called "Jewish jazz." The offer a mix of traditional and original klezmer tunes, Yiddish songs, and gypsy, Russian melodies.

Mary Feinsinger, voice and keyboard, co-wrote and performed in last season's off-Broadway Hot Klezmer and was co-founder, vocalist and keyboard artist of the West End Klezmerim. A Julliard graduate in voice, she has sung contemporary classical music, opera, and cabaret. She serves as cantor of the Rossmoor Jewish congregation and teaches at Mannes College of Music.

Margo Leverett, on clarinet, is at the forefront of the new generation of klezmer clarinetists. She has performed original and traditional music for radio, television, dance, theater, and for the concert stage.

Barry Mitterhoff, mandolin, guitar and tenor banjo, is one of New York's foremost performers and instrumental teachers. He has performed with the New York City Ballet orchestra and played the mandolin at a 1999 Metropolitan Opera premiere.

Peter Stan, on accordion, was a member of the West End Klezmerim. Born in Australia into a Rom musical family from Yugoslavia, he brings the richness of Balkan music to the All Stars.

Funding for this concert has been provided by the A. Leigh Balber Memorial Fund. Balber, a long-time local resident, was active in all library issues. Because of his actions on behalf of the county system and of local libraries in Essex County, the New Jersey State Library Association awarded him its Library Service Award in 1988.

This program is free and open to all with an attendance limit of 120 people. Tickets are available at the circulation desk. The Donald B. Palmer Museum is located in the Springfield Library at 66 Mountain Ave. Call (973) 376-4930.

Museum accepting exhibit applications

SPRINGFIELD — The Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Public Library is accepting applications for artists who wish to exhibit their work in 2000-2001. Applicants are asked to submit a current resume, 10 slides representative of the work, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Applications will be reviewed by the Museum Committee in November.

The 36x50-foot Palmer Museum was opened at its current site in 1975.

The Palmer Collection was started in 1939 when the library Board of Trustees appropriated $25 to Springfield resident Donald Palmer to purchase pictures of Springfield. The collection grew to include historical mementos, antique guns, toys, tools, glass and china, etc. Portions of the permanent Palmer Collection are on display throughout the year.

Since 1992, the museum has provided space for the exhibit of art and historical works and for the presentation of cultural programs.

The museum is currently in the second year of a three-year series of concerts sponsored by the Balber family.

Many other events have been made possible through grants from the Union County Department of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

Over the past year, the museum has exhibited the works of many fine local and regional artists.

Exhibits featured have included photography, sculpture, paintings, handmade dolls, needlepoint and prints.

Applications should be mailed to the Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield, NJ 07081 no later than Oct. 29.

Big Band's concert to be a dance party

The 15-piece King's Road Swing Band would not have been invited back to the Watchung Arts Center's Jazz Series for 10 consecutive seasons if they did not fill the room. In fact, in recent years, demand was so great that a limit on admissions had to be imposed.

King's Road will return to Watchung on Oct. 22 with Nancy Nelson as their featured vocalist. Their "dance party" format provides a recently-refinished dance floor for those who enjoy "active listening" as well as comfortable padded seats for those who just want to soak in some great Big Band tunes. Music starts at 8 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $15 ($10 for Arts Center members), including intermission refreshments. To assure seating, send a check to the Watchung Arts Center, 18 Stirling Road, Watchung NJ 07060, and tickets will be returned by mail. An SASE will speed processing.

WATCHUNG Devereux Deerhaven: The Children's Collection, an exhibition of paintings by students at the Devereux Deerhaven residential treatment center in Chester, will be presented from Oct. 5-31 at the Watchung Arts Center on the Watchung Circle, 18 Stirling Rd.

Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday from 1-4 p.m. A gala opening reception will be held on Oct. 10, 1 to 4 p.m., at the Watchung Arts Center.

Students between the ages of 9 and 20 in the Devereux Deerhaven art program painted upwards of 90 acrylics on canvas, all framed, that will be showcased in the Watchung Arts Center exhibit. The paintings, which measure 15-by-30 inches, 18-by-24 inches and 24-by-30 inches, include landscapes, still lifes, and portraits. The artistic styles range from representational to surrealist, with some folk art influences.

Devereux Deerhaven, located on a 33-acre former country estate in Chester, gives a second chance to troubled girls and young women, aged 5 to 21, most of whom have experienced trauma, abuse, neglect or abandonment in their short lives. The only residential treatment program in the state exclusively for girls, Devereux Deerhaven provides support and guidance to help these girls and young women develop coping skills and personal strength in an atmosphere that nurtures growth and stability.

Besides the art program, Devereux Deerhaven offers music and interpretive dance therapy, academics in an approved private school, pre-vocational training in horticulture/landscaping, child care, maintenance, food service and office skills, and organized team sports.

The non-profit Watchung Arts Center is located in a structure built in 1898, as the original schoolhouse for the village of Watchung.

Renovations in the 1930s added more room.

Today the lower floor houses a small gallery and a studio for the many art classes and children's art exhibits staged at the Watchung Arts Center.

The upper floor includes a performance space for jazz, folk, classical, vocal and contemporary music concerts.

Theatrical productions are sometimes produced in this space as well.

Both professional and emerging artists perform and exhibit their work at the Watchung Arts Center.

Admission to Devereux Deerhaven: The Children's Collection is by donation.

Villella's acclaimed Miami City Ballet to make NJPAC debut

The New Jersey Performing Arts Center presents Edward Villella's acclaimed Miami City Ballet (MCB) 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9 and 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 10 in Prudential Hall.

The company arrives with two separate programs that include masterworks by the legendary George Balanchine as well as pieces choreographed by Paul Taylor and MCB resident choreographer Jimmy Gamonet De Los Heros. Tickets are $12-$56 and may be purchased by calling 1-888-GO-NJPAC (1-888-466-5722) or at the NJPAC Box Office at One Center Street in downtown Newark.

Miami City Ballet is presented as part of the Aetna-US Healthcare International Dance Series.

For its engagement at NJPAC, the company will perform Balanchine's complete Jewels ("Emeralds", "Rubies", "Diamonds") on Oct. 9. This performance will be the first time any company has danced the complete Jewels in the northeast other than the New York City Ballet (NYCB). While this ballet was created by Balanchine for the New York City Ballet, Miami City Ballet was the first company outside of NYCB to acquire the rights to perform the full-length ballet, widely regarded as one of Balanchine's supreme achievements.

The company's Oct. 10 program is a mixed repertoire, including Balanchine's "Prodigal Son" and "Glinka Pas de Trois," one of Paul Taylor's most successful ballets, "Arden Court," and "The Big Band SUPERMEGATROID" by Jimmy Gamonet De Los Heros, set to the swing hits of Benny Goodman and Glenn Miller.

Edward Villella (whose autobiography is titled Prodigal Son) did much to popularize the role of the male in dance through the artistry and virility he exhibited during his performance career. He was the first American-born male star of the New York City Ballet, where he was a performer from 1957 through 1975. During his years with NYCB, he originated a variety of roles including Tarantella, the "Rubies" section of Jewels, and the part of Oberon in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Villella literally leapt to stardom in the 1960 revival of Balanchine's Prodigal Son, with his powerful and passionate interpretation of the Prodigal in NYCB's revival of the 1929 masterpiece. Set to a score by Sergei Prokofiev, Prodigal Son captured the attention of ballet audiences and confirmed Villella as a star of the ballet stage.

Villella was the first American dancer to perform with the esteemed Royal Danish Ballet, and the only American ever to dance an encore at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow.

He danced for President Kennedy's inaugural and for President Johnson, Nixon and Ford.

He also branched out as a television producer and director with the PBS series, Dance in America, and with an Emmy-winning CBS production of Harlequinade.

Villella became the founding artistic director of Miami City Ballet in 1986 and, over the course of the next decade, achieved worldwide acclaim for the company.

In recognition of his achievements, President Clinton presented Villella with the National Medal of Arts. He was a 1997 Kennedy Center Honoree and has been inducted into the Florida Artists Hall of Fame.

With a repertoire of more than 80 ballets (38 of which have been world premieres), including many of George Balanchine's most famous works; the neoclassical work of resident choreographer Jimmy Gamonet De Los Heros; and works by contemporary masters such as Paul Taylor, the acclaimed Miami City Ballet was described as "the fastest growing and certainly among the most exciting ballet companies in the country" at the 1997 Kennedy Center Honors.

Now entering its 14th season, Miami City Ballet and Artistic Director Edward Villella have become acknowledged forces in the international dance world.

The New Jersey Performing Arts Center (NJPAC), located on the Newark Riverfront near Gateway Center, Newark's Penn Station, and the Ironbound District in downtown Newark, is the first major performing arts center to open in the northeast in more than 30 years and the sixth largest performing arts center in the United States.

Funding has been made possible through a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State and funds from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Boat Show to feature large craft selections

EDISON — Buoyed by a strong economy and a summer of outstanding fishing, boat dealers throughout the area are reporting strong sales.

The 12th annual New Jersey Fall Boat Show, Oct. 8-10 at the New Jersey Convention and Expo Center, will reflect the fishing boat industry's expansion with displays of more than 250 models.

"It's been a very strong selling season this year and inventory levels are low," said Robert Barone, general manager of D&R Boats, in Green Brook. "We're getting a lot of first-time boat buyers, which we haven't seen in seven or eight years."

Still, consumers will find some of the best deals of the year on fishing boats at the NJ Fall Boat Show as dealers attempt to sell off their 1999 and model inventories before the slow winter season, said Kevin T. McLaughlin, show director.

"The fall show also will offer the first look at many 2000 models, which will be available at special show prices," McLaughlin said.

The show also will feature eight free fishing seminars, presented by The Fisherman Magazine, featuring some of the best known anglers and fishing writers from the Jersey Shore and covering topics from inshore saltwater fly fishing tactics to catching deepwater strippers.

"Boat shows are an especially good time to buy a boat," said Gerry McConaghy, sales manager for Irwin Marine Inc., a Bayliner dealer in Red Bank. "There will be incentives from manufacturers and dealers. We offer our own incentives, like free storage and delayed payments, to help make the decision to buy a boat make sense. And, you beat the price increases that come in mid-winter."

McLaughlin said that, in addition to the strong economy, increased emphasis on family values and activities that let families spend more time together also are driving strong fishing boat sales.

"Fishing and boating are super family activities," he said. The show will feature boats and equipment from more than 40 dealers and suppliers, according to McLaughlin, who added that models on display will include everything from aluminum runabouts to offshore/inshore fishing cruisers in the low-30-foot range.

The NJ Fall Boat Show, produced by McLaughlin Associates Corp., Spring Lake, will be open 1-10 p.m. Oct. 8; 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Oct. 9; 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Oct. 10. Admission is $6 for adults and $4 for children ages 12-17.

Children under age 12 are admitted free when accompanied by an adult. Senior citizens will receive discount admission of $4 on the first day of the show.

For additional information, contact McLaughlin Associates at (800) 332-3976 or visit the company's website, www.nucevents.com.

NEW RELEASES

"THE ASTRONAUT'S WIFE" - Johnny Depp is cocky astronaut Spencer Armacost. Spencer is sent up for another shuttle tour, but while working outside the vessel, he and Capt. Streck (Nick Cassavetes) suffer a brief visit from something cold, obscure and scary. They return, inwardly changed. Spencer, seemingly unharmed, declared a hero, takes a lavishly paid aviation job in New York. But blond-muffin wife Jillian (Charlize Theron) starts to detect differences. Some memorable sex leaves her feeling invaded. Soon she is pregnant with twins, while paternal Spencer hovers rather menacingly. With its winky little clips from the classic suds "Penny Serenade," and some scenes that come very close to Hitchcock, this is a fine movie. The expressive, razor-crafted details and moods drill some depth in the generic story. Cast: Johnny Depp, Charlize Theron, Joe Morton, Clea DuVall, Nick Cassavetes, Samantha Eggar, Blair Brown, Donna Murphy. Running time: 1 hour, 51 minutes. (Elliott) Rated R. 3 1/2 stars.

"CHILL FACTOR" - The movie's two heroes, played by Skeet Ulrich and Cuba Gooding Jr., come into possession of an extremely nasty chemical weapon that they must keep chilled below 50 degrees, or risk causing many people to die unpleasant deaths. Ulrich is Mason, who happens to be fishing buddies with the town eccentric, a scientist named Dr. Richard Long (David Paymer). The good doctor, 10 years earlier, had presided over a disastrous test of the experimental chemical weapon in which 18 servicemen perished. When Long gets shot at his lab late one night by a vengeful ex-Army officer bent on stealing the chemical for profit, the dying scientist bundles up the stuff and escapes to the diner, where he hands off the package to Mason, instructing him to keep it cool and keep it away from the bad guys. Fortunately, the deliveryman Arlo (Gooding) has shown up with precisely the right getaway vehicle: an ice-cream truck. Cast: Cuba Gooding Jr., Skeet Ulrich, Peter Firth, David Paymer. Running time: 1 hour, 40 minutes. (Hebert) Rated R. 1 1/2 stars.

"OUTSIDE PROVIDENCE" - Shawn Hatosy plays the very working-class and (so we first think) not very bright Tim Dunphy. Dad Dunphy is Alec Baldwin. It's 1974, and he is a sort of sub-Kowalski Archie Bunker, very close to an abusive sorehead, yet funny. Dad, not proud of his own lack of education, rigs it that dud student Tim can get away from his beefin', barfin', drinkin', tokin' pals by going to the demanding Cornwell Academy, a strict prep school. Of course, once in, he gets some more beefin', barfin', drinkin', tokin' pals. Tim does, indeed, shape up. He learns to get around A.E. Funderburk (Tim Crowe), the fascist nut who enforces school rules, and he wins the love of an endearing girl (Amy Smart). There is some easy patronizing of the working class in this comedy, and a greater measure of considered if ribbing affection. And Baldwin is so good he deserves a Farrelly Oscar. Call it the Floscar. Cast: Alec Baldwin, Shawn Hatosy, Amy Smart, George Wendt, Richard Jenkins, Tim Crowe, Tommy Bone. Running time: 1 hour, 29 minutes. (Elliott) Rated R. 3 stars.

RECENT RELEASES

"THE BLAIR WITCH PROJECT" - Supposedly a "found" documentary using discovered footage, this enterprising little horror movie follows the 1994 trek of three young filmmakers into deep woods in Maryland. Their goal is to document the local story of the Blair witch, responsible for murders or hauntings or, at least, myths. As teaser intro to the woodland scenes, they interview locals who mention "an old hermit" who was a serial killer, a "crazy woman" and the 19th century tale of "the Coffin Rock massacre." The tiny plot meanders forlornly, resorting to spook touches that were old before the brothers Grimm were born. When the finale involves an old haunted house, it is the climax of a dullard's checklist. Darn, did I simply miss the black cat? Cast: Heather Donahue, Michael Williams, Joshua Leonard. Running time: 1 hour and 27 minutes. (Elliott) Rated R. 1 1/2 stars.

"BOWFINGER" - Steve Martin stars as Bobby Bowfinger. He works out of his stucco dump of a home ("Bowfinger International Productions"), and his new dream in a long line of losers is called "Chubby Rain." It seems to be a sci-fi crime thriller, and its unknowing focus is a very big action star, Kit Ramsey (Eddie Murphy), a macho fireball full of racial paranoia. Murphy is sharp as the fraudulently macho star, hurling insults like bombs, and is often funny again as Ramsey's look-alike, Jiff, a grinning dweeb whom Bowfinger presses into service as a stand-in. Basically, Martin has welded pieces of "Ed Wood" to his "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels." Cast: Steve Martin, Eddie Murphy, Heather Graham, Christine Baranski, Terence Stamp, Adam Alexi-Malle, Robert Downey Jr. Running time: 1 hour, 37 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 1/2 stars.

"BROKEDOWN PALACE" - Darlene (Kate Beckinsale) and Alice (Claire Danes) have been Ohio chums since childhood. Now, after telling their parents that they're topping high school graduation with a trip to Hawaii, they fly to Bangkok, Thailand. The girls fall under the charm spell of a blithe hustler (Daniel Lapaine), who uses them as expendable decoys for his drug smuggling operation. Tossed into a prison after a mild rough-up in jail, the adorables fall into the funk of suddenly chalky lighting and a sepia color scheme. Hardly anyone can aid the fair maidens, sucked into a legal nightmare. The bribes and attempted escape are like fumbled moves by someone who never got a rule book.

The movie is rather inconsequential. Cast: Claire Danes, Kate Beckinsale, Bill Pullman, Lou Diamond Phillips, Jacqueline Kim. Running time: 1 hour, 47 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"DETROIT ROCK CITY" - "Detroit Rock City" is centered around four Kiss-obsessed high school guys in a Cleveland band (MyStery) who spend their evenings in a basement performing covers of the face-painted icons' songs. Their every thought and conversation revolves around the upcoming concert in Detroit. But when a religion-crazed mother gets a hold of the tickets, the boys see their dreams go up in flames and are left to fend for themselves. This, of course, leads to some childish, unbelievable ways of getting into the concert. Anyone who walks into the theater in search of deep meaning and life-changing events will be severely disappointed. Once that realization is made, "Detroit Rock City" gets, as they say, groovy. Cast: Edward Furlong, Giuseppe Andrews, James DeBello, Sam Huntington, Natasha Lyonne, Lin Shaye. Running time: 1 hour, 34 minutes. (Garin) Rated R. 2 stars.

"DICK" is funnier than Oliver Stone's "Nixon." After all, this is an intentional comedy. Kirsten Dunst is smartly fluffy as Betsy, the yummiest airhead in "Dick." And so is Michelle Williams as her best gal pal, Arlene, living in the Watergate complex in 1972. It is they, on a late-night goof, who affix the tape on the door which leads a flutulent security guard to call the cops, thus opening the first squirm of Dick Nixon's Live Bait Worm Farm. As usual in these spoofs, Nixon is not merely a klutz. He's Lord Destructo. No sooner has he met the awed girls than he loudly whines to H.R. "Bob" Haldeman (Dave Foley). "All I asked for is a simple bug-ging." Dan Hedaya's Nixon is a shrinking shadow, almost sympathetic when he isn't roaring expletives. About himself, he is clueless. Cast: Kirsten Dunst, Michelle Williams, Dan Hedaya, Jim Breuer, Saul Rubinek, Teri Garr, Dave Foley. Running time: 1 hour, 30 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 3 stars.

"DOG OF FLANDERS" - "A Dog of Flanders," like "The Iron Giant" this summer and "Madeleine" before, could signal the return of something welcome and overdue: films for kids that are grounded in story, not in merchandising. Heroic duties are split between Nello, the orphaned boy who finds the mistreated dog and becomes his pal, and the kid's artistic hero, no less than the majestic painter of blood-rich flesh and fleshy fabrics, Peter Paul Rubens. Eager to become a painter, which was the dream of his late mother, Nello is befriended by an artist of some stature, acted with earnest humanism by Jon Voight. But first there are snowstorms and poverty and a nasty peddler to endure. This fine movie manages to combine art, pathos, dog love, boy/girl puppy love, grandfatherly advice, a little religion and urgent but modest violence. The firm result is good entertainment. Cast: Jon Voight, Jesse James, Jeremy James Kissner, Jack Warden, Cheryl Ladd, Bruce McGill, Farren Monet. Running time: 1 hour, 33 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG. 3 stars.

"DUDLEY DO-RIGHT" - Everything in "Dudley Do-Right" is delivered in broad strokes. It's a parody of those hokey, one-dimensional early-century dramas featuring the white-hatted hero battling the black-hatted villain, with the innocent damsel as one of the prizes. The germ of a funny movie is here, but writer-director Hugh Wilson clearly doesn't know how to develop it. Cast: Brendan Fraser, Sarah Jessica Parker, Alfred Molina, Eric Idle, Alex Rocco. Rated PG. 1 1/2 stars.

"IN TOO DEEP" - Rookie cop Jeffrey Cole (Omar Epps) begs to be sent undercover. He wants to bust up the drug ring masterminded by a smart, slick thug named Dwayne Gittens, a.k.a. "God" (LL Cool J). Cole's clenched-jawed supervisor, Preston (Stanley Tucci), tries to keep a tight rein on Cole, but it doesn't take long before Cole is ... "MARKED FOR DEATH." "In Too Deep" sports relatively little violence, but what there is director Michael Rymer badly mis-times. The grand finale, especially, disappoints: That's it? But the film never falls into any kind of rhythm, broken up as it is by Cole's overly long pastoral retreat when he's (temporarily) yanked from the case to fall in love with a Perfect Woman (Nia Long). Of course, we're just marking time before Cole talks his way back. And before long, there's ... "NO WAY OUT." Cast: Omar Epps, LL Cool J, Stanley Tucci, Pam Grier, Nia Long, Hill Harper. Running time: 1 hour, 35 minutes. (Sahn) Rated R. 2 stars. "THE HAUNTING" - Hill House is vast, and so Gothic that you expect to find Mary Shelley dancing with Edgar Allen Poe while an entire Wagnerian opera company works its way down the grand staircase. Victorian, robber-baron stone on the outside, it's a splurge of dizzy styles inside, including hidden rooms and trick rooms, plus beds, statues and paintings that come alive morbidly invited to this theme park of luxurious peril is the naive little group of patsies recruited for a study in insomnia, actually an experiment in fear. "The Haunting" is not for kids. On a conceptual level it is, of course, rather childish, but then so is almost every horror movie. Let's call it adolescent with a vividly adult load of design. Enjoying it, you can feel a little foolish, but not a fool. Cast: Liam Neeson, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Lili Taylor, Bruce Dern, Owen Wilson, Virginia Madsen, Marian Seldes. Running time: 1 hour, 42 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 3 stars.

"INSPECTOR GADGET" - Almost entirely devoid of story, wit, style and character development, the thing is just a platform for effects - gadgets, to be cute about it. The movie is very cute about it, in a way that may entertain kids without challenging them on any level. Eternally boyish Matthew Broderick stars as security guard John Brown. Chipper as a puppy in clover, he gets smashed up in one of his attempts at bravery, then rebuilt as an androidal Swiss Army knife called Inspector Gadget. Brown has a teen-perk niece (Michelle Trachtenberg), a darling "scientist" as his girl-pal (Joely Fisher), and a big villain to fight. The mad genius and Brown rush through the barely contrived plot, flashing gizmos and violence at each other.

Cast: Matthew Broderick, Rupert Everett, Joely Fisher, Michelle Trachtenberg, Dabney Coleman, Rene Auberjonois, Cheri Oteri. Running time: 1 hour, 15 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG. 1 1/2 stars.

"IRON GIANT" - "The Iron Man," it is about a kid named Hogarth in a small Maine town. He finds a robot from outer space, more than industrially sized and hiding in the woods (hard to hide when you're about 40 feet tall and flatten trees with your tonnage). People panic as the "monster," who wants to be accepted, is pushed by federal security officer Kent Mansley into showing its inner, military hardware (awesome stuff, with death-ray shots based on 1953's "The War of the Worlds"). The violence flows from the story rather than squashing it, and there is a resonatingly fairly compelling anti-gun message. "The Iron Giant" has the art and heart to be special. Don't wait for the video. Go for the dessert right now.

Voices: Jennifer Aniston, Harry Connick Jr., Vin Diesel, James Gammon, Cloris Leachman, John Mahoney, M. Emmet Walsh. Running time: 1 hour, 23 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG. 3 1/2 stars.

"MICKEY BLUE EYES" - Hugh Grant, as Michael Felgate, exquisitely English gavel man at a posh New York auction house, falls in love with luscious Gina (Jeanne Tripplehorn), then still wants to marry her after discovering she's the daughter of a mobster, Frank Vitale (James Caan). One of the hoods does huge, godawful paintings. Though Michael assures Gina that he will avoid any mob tainting, he soon finds himself auctioning the terrible art, part of a money-laundering scheme and also an ego vent for the top don (Burt Young). Fumbling Michael becomes a murder suspect, with FBI men and hoods chasing him around town. It ain't major comedy, but kicking the movie hard is sillier than the movie itself.

Cast: Hugh Grant, James Caan, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Burt Young, James Fox, Joe Viterelli. Running time: 1 hour, 45 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 1/2 stars.

"MYSTERY MEN" - Greg Kinnear is Capt. Amazing, a futuristic action hero more interested in his product tie-ins than in foiling villains. Anyway, in his clunky boyish but sporty style, he has already vanquished the lot, including the meanest, Casanova Frankenstein (Geoffrey Rush). Of course, Casanova must gain parole, so that Amazing can be abducted by him, deep into the creepster's castle. Next, a squad of superhero wannabes challenge the cackling lord of evil. Maybe the best is infallibly wired Janeane Garofalo as The Bowler, a caped cupcake who flips K.O. stingers and hurls a lethal bowling ball. The gags have a fast fade. For all its zeal, the hipsterism is dated, a truth that thuds home in the line, "You bet your sweet bippy."

Cast: Ben Stiller, Janeane Garofalo, Greg Kinnear, William H. Macy, Paul Reubens, Wes Studi, Hank Azaria, Tom Waits, Claire Forlani, Lena Olin. Running time: Two hours. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"THE RUNAWAY BRIDE" - Julia Roberts plays Maggie, who keeps spoiling her own weddings. Three times the pretty Marylander has gone to the altar and then fled, once on horseback. Wind of the bizarre serial of nuptial mishaps breezes to New York, where USA Today columnist Ike Graham (Richard Gere) is desperate for some copy. He takes the story down at a bar and whips out a column, only later to be fired once USA Today discovers that Maggie jilted just three men instead of the seven reported by Ike. Down but not out, Ike zips to Hale, Md. In the perfect town, where Norman Rockwell and Frank Capra must be spiritual mayors, Maggie is much liked, yet is also a running joke. The story is a sustained giggle. Nothing to it, really, but Ike showing up, taking a few rebuffs, charming the ladies, winning over Maggie by the pure and simple grace of his Gereness.

Cast: Julia Roberts, Richard Gere, Joan Cusack, Laurie Metcalf, Hector Elizondo, Christopher Meloni, Paul Dooley. Running time: 1 hour, 55 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG. 3 stars.

"THE SIXTH SENSE" has Bruce Willis as Dr. Malcolm Crowe. The devoted child psychologist has just been given an award by the city when, in front of his wife (Olivia Williams), he is gut-shot by a former patient who thinks Crowe failed him. Only months later, Crowe is walking around as if not physically marred by such a drastic wound, but the patient's suicide has left him at loose ends, unsure of his vocation and with his marriage falling apart. Crowe gets a chance for recovery and redemption with the case of a strange boy, Cole (Haley Joel Osment). The kid is bright, lonely and haunted by visions - ghosts who spook him, but pathetically, as if asking his help. Skillfully crafted and made with pensive regard for the nuances of fear, "The Sixth Sense" is never quite stupid, but it does seem stupefied.

Cast: Bruce Willis, Toni Collette, Haley Joel Osment, Olivia Williams. Running time: 1 hour, 55 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"TEACHING MRS. TINGLE" - As the title figure in "Teaching Mrs. Tingle," Helen Mirren exhibits what literature pros call "motiveless malignancy," for she is the brazen, nasty definition of the word witch. In her history classes at Grandsboro High, Mrs. Tingle teaches by a refined and proven dialectic: vicious dissing. Leigh Ann (Katie Holmes) and Jo Lynn (Marisa Coughlan), both hopelessly involved with cool "rebel" Luke (Barry Watson), manage with him to corner Tingle in her witch's castle of a house.

The premise is the old youth fantasy: Wouldn't it be great to gain control of your most hated teacher, and watch him/her squirm?

The plot turns very silly as the students try to figure how to wiggle out of their illegal situation, while savoring the sadistic options.

Cast: Helen Mirren, Katie Holmes, Marisa Coughlan, Barry Watson, Molly Ringwald, Michael McKean, Jeffrey Tambor. Running time: 1 hour, 33 minutes. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"THE THIRTEENTH WARRIOR" - It must have been a little tough on Antonio Banderas - not exactly a Pee-wee Herman among stars - to be the least macho of the manly warriors in "The Thirteenth Warrior." He shapes up, of course, despite being an Arab among Norsemen, and having the least amount of hair.

Ibn (Banderas) is sent from Baghdad in heroic times, a sort of ambassador without portfolio.

He wanders through Slavic lands and becomes the 13th warrior, joining the dozen hairy fellas as they return home to save their terrified families. Director John McTiernan's film, from Michael Crichton's "Eaters of the Dead," is silly, scary, bashingly violent. And often quite entertaining, not for the "Emma" crowd.

Cast: Antonio Banderas, Dennis Storhoi, Omar Sharif, Vladimir Kulich. Running time: 1 hour, 43 minutes. (Elliott) R. 2 1/2 stars.

"THE THOMAS CROWN AFFAIR" - The new version stars Pierce Brosnan and Rene Russo. It is a swift, deluxe and enjoyable escape. Brosnan is Crown, a buccaneer of big-money mischief in New York. He has a secret gallery of stolen masterworks. Crown wants something new - a precious Monet oil, which, at the start of story, lures his hired gang of Euro-crooks to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. But the best fun and Crown's surprise is the tag on the heist - the insurance investigator, Catherine Banning (Rene Russo).

She can challenge and checkmate Crown in smart moves, snappy lines and corkscrews of chicanery. Catherine oozes beautifully into Crown's home, bed, plane, glider, cars, favorite restaurants and gorgeous Caribbean getaway.

"The Thomas Crown Affair" has a delightful affair with the audience.

Cast: Pierce Brosnan, Rene Russo, Denis Leary, Ben Gazzara, Faye Dunaway. Running time: 1 hour, 54 minutes. (Elliott) Rated R. 3 stars.

Nabisco seeks art for annual edible show

The Nabisco Gallery in East Hanover wants imaginative buildings, objects (or whatever an artist dreams up) made of Nabisco products for its holiday show.

Nabisco is calling young and old alike to submit their candy, confectionery, cracker and cookie creations to the annual Edible Architecture exhibit. Prizes will be offered for the best food creations.

Use imagination and five or more Nabisco products to fashion a creation for the company's annual holiday competition. Make it early and spray it with polyurethane.

Send Nabisco a photograph(s) of the creation by Nov. 4, 1999.

An exhibit of the top 25 or so of these appetizing works of art will be featured in the Nabisco Gallery in East Hanover during the holiday season, Dec. 6-Jan. 5, 2000, the gallery's most visited time of year.

Entries must not exceed 22 inches long by 22 inches wide by 34 inches high.

At least five different Nabisco products must be used, including products such as: Oreos, Chips Ahoy!, Newtons, Ritz, Premium, Wheat Thins, Life Savers, and Milk-Bones. There are thousands of Nabisco products to choose from, so finding five "building materials" should be as easy as Easy Cheese and as quick as a snap-ginger, of course.

Prizes will be awarded in three divisions: one for adults with prizes of $500, $300, and $100, a second division for families working together, and a third division for young people (18 and under) and youth groups.

Both of these last two divisions will be awarded Nabisco cookies and snacks as the prizes.

To have work considered, submit no more than five color photographs to:

Art Advisor, Nabisco Gallery, 100 DeForest Ave., East Hanover, NJ 07936.

For more details or a complete list of Nabisco products, call (973) 603-4425.

Lucille Roll attains Gold NJAR

WESTFIELD - As one of the top sales associates with the Westfield office of Coldwell Banker, Lucille Roll is no stranger to tremendous success. This past year was no exception, as Roll's sales volume earned her prestigious Gold level status within the 1998 NJAR Million Dollar Club, mirroring a similar accomplishment in 1997.

A real estate veteran since 1973 and a broker since 1976, Roll has transacted more than $130 million in real estate. Roll works with her husband, Ed, and together they provide first class customer service and support to clients and corporate transferees relocating to the area.

"The extraordinary effort Lu puts forth every day allows her to bring her career to new heights," commented Marilyn Kelly, manager of the Westfield office. "She is quite popular because she possesses a great deal of industry expertise and is a pleasure to work with."

Clients feel very comfortable with Lu on their side."

In addition to NJAR Gold, Roll has been a longtime member of the association's Distinguished Sales Club and recently celebrated 25 consecutive years of membership. Roll was also named to Coldwell Banker's International President's Elite, a highly distinguished group consisting of the company's most accomplished real estate professionals from across the nation. To earn status as an Elite member, Roll demonstrated a superior sales performance, thus placing her among the top 1 percent of all Coldwell Banker sales associates.

Currently, a resident of Mountainside, Roll has lived in Union County since 1959.

"As a longtime resident who has raised her entire family here, my heart belongs to this area. I've gotten to know the people, the businesses and the schools very well," Roll noted. "I feel that I can give back to the community by educating my clients about our towns and all they have to offer."

Located at 209 Central Ave.,

Open house: Always look both ways before you go in reverse

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Our growing number of seniors are generating an increasing demand for reverse mortgages. But is this relatively new concept a good thing for today's senior homeowners? A new study by Consumer Reports magazine throws some light on the subject.

A reverse mortgage is a special type of mortgage loan for seniors over age 62, with the borrower's home being used as collateral. It allows the senior homeowner to borrow against the equity in his or her home in order to access funds.

In most cases, the homeowner receives a specified payment every month - for a stipulated term or for the rest of the senior's life (or until the house is sold). However, the senior could receive a lump sum or a line of credit, which are usually not repaid until the borrower moves or dies.

With senior home ownership and life-expectancy rates climbing, a steadily increasing number of seniors qualify for a reverse mortgage.

For some seniors, a reverse mortgage can enable them to maintain financial independence and an adequate standard of living by converting their home's equity into tax-free cash. For others, these mortgages carry serious hazards that should be seriously considered, according to Consumer Reports.

Those hazards include very high costs, charged by some lenders. And the complex contract terms are confusing, and the high overall costs are often not fully disclosed.

Numerous fees drive up the costs, including origination fees, points, mortgage insurance premiums, closing costs, servicing fees, shared equity or "maturity" fees, and shared appreciation fees, according to Consumer Reports. And the promised "financial counseling" is often inconsistent and not independent of the lender.

"Consumers should make informed choices," said Norma Garcia, an attorney with Consumers Union. "We also urge state and federal policy makers to improve consumer protections in this industry. The lack of regulation and education in this new industry has opened the door to numerous hazards. It's important for policy makers to close that door and protect America's seniors."

Information on reverse mortgages can be obtained by calling Consumer Reports at (415) 431-6747. Another good source of general information on various reverse mortgage plans and firms offering them is the National Center for Home Equity Conversion, 7373 147th St. West, Suite 115, Apple Valley, MN 55124.

Q. You recently mentioned that a global commercial real-estate auction was being planned. When and where will it take place?

A. The first such auction was set for Chicago on Sept. 24. It will be at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel, and will be simulcast in Dallas, Miami and London, said Steven L. Good, CEO of Good & Company, the firm that will conduct the auction.

"This will be a 1 1/2-hour bidding frenzy," Good said. "We'll auction an unprecedented $100 million slate of prime international real estate in the United States, Mexico, Chile and the Caribbean."

The inaugural global auction forms the cornerstone of "Transact '99," the nation's first international real-estate conference developed jointly by the National Association of Realtors and the Urban Land Institute, with major sponsorship from The Wall Street Journal and 50 other national and international trade organizations. About 1,000 delegates from around the world are expected to attend Transact '99, which culminates in the global auction.

Q. Are first-time home buyers backing off from purchasing a home since prices are on the increase?

A. No, indeed. They are a stronger segment of the market than ever. Ten years ago, first-time buyers accounted for 31 percent of all home purchases. Today it's 47 percent.

Q. How old is today's typical Realtor?

A. The median age of today's Realtor is 52 years, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors. The median age of today's home buyer is 37 years. The median age is that point where an equal number of people are older and younger.

Now is the time to prepare for lush spring lawn

A lush, green lawn can be a home owner's pride and joy, as well as an asset when the time comes to sell, according to Gloria Woodward, president of the New Jersey Association of REALTORS (NJAR).

However, beautiful lawns - whether they provide the owner enjoyment or help make a sale - don't grow that way by themselves, she notes.

"Autumn is an excellent time of year to build a lawn and help it recover from the ravages of the hot summer sun. Steps taken by early October can give a lawn a head start on the spring planting season," advises Woodward, president and broker of Woodward Realty Group in Middletown, Rumson and Freehold.

Fall is an ideal time for planting grass seed. Weeds that thrive during hot summer months lie dormant, and young grass does not suffer from summer heat. Furthermore, grass seed planted now will have time to sprout and provide the yard with an insulating cover for winter.

"Don't discount the value of insulation provided by grass. It just might keep underground pipes from freezing in the winter," Woodward says.

Proper cultivation is the key step, both in planting new lawns and reviving existing ones. The following are a few tips on cultivation provided by the Lawn Institute:

1) Expose the soil. A sharp-tined tool is suitable for small areas, but a power-operated lawn thinner might be more appropriate for larger jobs.

2) When the turf is thinned out, gouge the soil. Grass seed will lodge in the holes, finding a place to sprout.

3) Add fertilizer, preferably a type rich in nitrogen. The amount of fertilizer needed depends on the type used. For major lawn makeovers, fertilizer should not be spread until grading is completed. Otherwise, it will be unevenly distributed.

4) Once cultivation is completed, plant the grass seed, spreading it evenly. About two pounds per 1,000 square feet should be sufficient if a spreader is used. Water the seeds and cover with mulch, such as a thin layer of straw, to keep the area moist. After the first watering, the seedbed will remain moist with occasional light sprinklings.

According to the Lawn Institute, perennial rye grass will sprout within a few days.

Fine fescue or Kentucky Bluegrass varieties take longer: sprouting probably will not occur for about two to three weeks.

The new grass should be watered and mowed before it reaches twice its customary height. After the second mowing, dust-free lawn food may be applied. Late-blooming dandelions and winter weeds can be eliminated with weed-feed applications.

The yard is the first thing buyers see when they drive up to look at a home. A healthy lawn definitely adds curb appeal," Woodward says.

The New Jersey Association of Realtors is a non-profit organization serving the professional needs of over 33,000 real estate agents in the state. NJAR, and its 24 member boards of Realtors, are part of the National Association of Realtors, the largest trade association in the United States with more than 730,000 members.

Burgdorff ERA Westfield first in sales dollar volume sold

WESTFIELD - The Westfield office of Burgdorff ERA has been named the number one office out of 29 offices company-wide for sales and listings sold, and dollar volume sales, year-to-date. Jean T. Massard, vice president and manager, believes that their high volume of success is due to the excellent training and pro-active approach each individual sales associates, and the office as a whole, takes in the marketing of real estate.

Through the extensive training Burgdorff ERA sales associates receive, they are highly qualified to offer the Signature Service their customers have come to know and expect.

"Signature Service is the total assistance provided to clients in every aspect of the home buying and selling process," said Massard. "They're the services we are able to offer through our experience with local service providers and our auxiliary services we have access to through our affiliation with the Candant Corporation."

"We are very consumer oriented. We, in effect, become a team with the home seller. We are able to obtain the highest and best terms that the market place has to offer, in the shortest amount of time. Basically we offer our buyers and sellers have home warranties, giving them additional piece of mind in their real estate transactions," added Massard.

"We are highly trained and offer the finely-tuned real estate services that keep us on the cutting edge of the real estate industry. Along with being able to offer our buyers a pre-approved mortgage loan through our affiliation with Candant Mortgage, Burgdorff ERA has been named as a Platinum Broker with Candant Mobility."

Candant Mobility is the nation's largest relocation network handling 52 percent of all corporate relocation in the United States. Additionally, Burgdorff ERA has a strong international affiliation through the ERA network with strong business relationships in Europe and Asia.

Another factor that Massard explained sets the Burgdorff ERA Westfield office apart from other real estate offices in the area, is its pro-active marketing proposal. It differs from that of the usual competitive market analysis used by other real estate companies, and contributes significantly to the overall success of the company, and to the Westfield office position of number one within the company. "We truly work as a team, supporting each other and each other's clients," concluded Massard.

2000 Buick lineup:

All-new LeSabre, Special Century for new Century

Buick heads for the new millennium with a more powerful Century - and a significant new feature for its full-size Park Avenue and LeSabre.

StabiliTrak, an advanced system that helps the driver maintain control of the vehicle, especially in slippery conditions, is newly standards on the luxury Park Avenue Ultra and optional on Park Avenue. It is now also offered on the all-new LeSabre that reached the market in February 1999. StabiliTrak became an option on the 2000 LeSabre in May of 1999.

Regal, the division's premium midsize model, is also enhanced for the 2000 model year. And Buick, the industry leader in supercharging, has again equipped both Park Avenue Ultra and Regal GS with the 240-horsepower supercharged 3800 Series II V-6.

Buick's reputation as a quality leader was underscored when Buick ranged second (and was the top-ranked domestic) among 37 international car brands in a recent independent quality study. LeSabre, Family Circle magazine's "Family Sedan of the Year" for 1998 and the Good Housekeeping Institute Automotive Satisfaction Award winner for 1999, placed second among premium midsize cars in the quality study. Century placed third in the same study. (The 2000 LeSabre has already been named a "Best Buy" by the Chicago Tribune.)

"Buick is positioned very well for the new millennium with four premium contemporary family sedans that are strong in the market," said Buick General Manager Roger W. Adams. "When you count the first experimental models, Buick's been building cars for a hundred years. That's a long tradition, and the models we're offering today play to our traditional strong suits - premium amenities, comfort, roominess, distinctive but not faddish styling, smooth power and basically great overall value."

Century
The midsize Century is offered in three sedan versions: Limited, Custom and a special edition Century 2000 to help celebrate the turn of the century.

Providing a new look for the new century, the special edition Century 2000 comes with blacked-out grille, body-colored fascias and side moldings and commemorative badging on its doors, tail lamps, instrument panel, headrests and floor mats.

"When your brand name is Century, and you're heading into this new millennium, you need to bring another level of vehicle to the marketplace," said Century Brand Manager Anthony H. Derhake. "Century provides little touches of luxury, like a remote keyless entry, anti-lock brakes, V-6 engine and electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission, all standard - and now we're offering more power. We like to refer to Century as 'a luxury car for everyone.'"

All three Century sedans are powered by a revised 3.1-liter 3100 V-6 engine that delivers 15 more horsepower, increasing total output to 175 horsepower. Torque has also been increased, from 185 to 195 lb.-ft.

Century's horsepower boost was achieved by revising cylinder head and engine calibration and by installing less restrictive air intake and exhaust manifolds. At the same time, projected highway fuel economy has also been improved by one mile per gallon to 30 mpg. Projected city mileage remains at an excellent 20 mpg.

Another new feature is a side air bag for the driver, packed on Century Limited and special edition models ordered with leather-trimmed seats.

LeSabre
LeSabre, which was introduced as an early 2000 model, has been well accepted in auto writers' reviews and by the buying public. LeSabre has been the best-selling full-size car in the U.S. market for seven straight years.

LeSabre Brand Manager Joseph J. Fitzsimmons Jr. said the goal with LeSabre was simply to make a great car even better. For 2000, LeSabre is stronger, quieter and more convenient and secure. It has, among a long list of improvements, side air bags for the driver and right front passenger, better ride and handling and more luggage capacity (and, on Limited, a pass-through between the trunk and rear seats for hauling long items). There is more stowage in the passenger compartment, new inset exterior door handles, larger gauges and larger outside rear-view mirrors that are hinged so they will fold if bumped.

From an engineering standpoint, LeSabre's major news is its more substantial body structure, the latest generation of the unusually strong architecture that early won praise in Riviera (1995) and Park Avenue (1997).

Among many safety features are Catcher's Mitt seats, described as high-retention front seats with self-aligning head restraints. These features can enhance the seat system performance in rear impact collisions.

In a rear impact, the new seat system is designed to absorb energy and "pocket" a properly positioned occupant's pelvis and lower back into the seat. The self-aligning head restraint, built into each front seat back, uses the rearward movement of the occupant's upper torso in an accident to rotate the head restraint closer to the occupant's head. This simple mechanical device can reduce head motion in certain rear impacts and, therefore, reduce the potential for a "whiplash" injury.

Now, as a mid-year enhancement, the 2000 LeSabre offers StabiliTrak, the General Motors advanced integrated vehicle stability system, as an option.

LeSabre is the highest volume car on the market to offer StabiliTrak. On LeSabre, StabiliTrak is part of a Driver Confidence Package that also includes self-sealing tires and a head-up driver information display.

Park Avenue
Park Avenue and Park Avenue Ultra feature refinements in safety, stability and comfort for 2000. Besides StabiliTrak (standard on Ultra, optional on Park Avenue), the 2000 models of Buick's luxury full-size sedans have seat-mounted side air bags for the driver and right front passenger, and rear-seat child seat tether anchors.

Other new features include new 16-inch wheels and optional chrome wheels, a front seat map pocket for expanded storage, optional separate heated seats, an optional trunk-mounted compact disc player and several interior changes designed to further quiet the car's interior. The Personal Choice option package includes numbered remote keyless fobs that allow two drivers to program separate settings for mirrors, seat adjustment and other comfort, security and safety features into Park Avenue's "memory." Ultra models also will sport new ebony instrument panel and door trim plates.

"Park Avenue's pedigree is luxury but its value lies in sophisticated features that continue to satisfy the functional needs of its driver and passengers," said Park Avenue Brand manager Katherine J. Benoit. "Park Avenue exceeds the demands of today's luxury car customer - a customer who demands refinement but insists on practicality."

Regal
Regal now features a standard split-folding rear seat to make hauling long items easier and more convenient. A driver's seat side air bag is also provided on Regals equipped with leather seats.

Exterior changes include new 16-inch cast aluminum wheels, standard body-colored grille on the GS and two new colors, Gold Metallic and Sterling Silver Metallic.

But the primary feature that attracts many buyers to the midsize Regal is the power of the 3800 Series II V-6 engine. In the Regal GS, the supercharged 3800 engine generates 240 horsepower at 5200 rpm and 280 lb.-ft. of torque at 3600 rpm. The naturally aspirated 3800 engine, which is standard on Regal LS, provides 200 hp at 5200 rpm and 225 lb.-ft. of torque at 4000 rpm.

"Our customer is looking for one of three things - performance, sporty styling or accommodations for the family," said Mark Hines, Regal's brand manager. "At Regal, we deliver on all three. We have sporty styling - not over the top but classic, enduring, contemporary. We offer more power than any other car in its class. And we have plenty of room and comfort for the super-charged family we're targeting."

StabiliTrak
StabiliTrak helps the driver maintain control by electronically comparing what the driver wants the car to do with information from sensors indicating how the car is actually responding. If the car is in danger of sliding or skidding, StabiliTrak slows and stabilizes the car to help the driver maintain control.

OnStar
All Buick models offer the new three-button GM OnStar driver assistance system as a dealer-installed option for the 2000 model year. OnStar provides a hands-free link to real-time, person-to-person in-vehicle safety, security and information services from GM's 24-hour seven-day-a-week OnStar Center. The new three-button system eliminates the need for a customer to buy separate telephone service to access the OnStar system.

VIP Honda, Acura of Somerville dedicate October to flood relief

Bill Vince, owner of VIP Honda in North Plainfield and Acura of Somerville in Bridgewater, announced that his dealerships are dedicating the month of October to aid victims of Hurricane Floyd in Bound Brook and Manville. Vince and his dealerships join a long list of charitable organizations, local residents and area businesses that are pitching in under the auspices of the Bound Brook Flood Relief Fund to aid victims of this disaster.

Hurricane Floyd saved much of its most intense fury for central New Jersey, inundating many areas with more than 12 inches of rain in 10 hours. Roads were flooded, schools were forced to close, residents made homeless, and many homes and businesses destroyed. Towns in the path of the overflowing Raritan River, such as Bound Brook and Manville, are still suffering.

To ease the suffering of Bound Brook and Manville residents and to facilitate the massive cleanup of this unprecedented tragedy, Vince has made his dealerships available in a number of ways. Both dealerships, VIP Honda and Acura of Somerville, will be serving as collection centers for donated items to be distributed to those in need.

"According to Relief Fund representatives," Vince said, "what is needed most is cleaning supplies, especially large trash bags, small brooms, large push brooms, shovels, garbage cans, buckets, bleach, disinfectant and rubber gloves for contaminated materials."

Clothing is not being accepted at this time but other items in need are personal toiletries and non-perishable food items. In addition, both VIP Honda and Acura of Somerville will donate to the Bound Brook Flood Relief fund $100 for each new or used car purchased or leased during the month of October.

"If the customer requests," added Vince, "we will make the donation in their name."

VIP Honda is located at 555 Somerset St., North Plainfield, and Acura of Somerville is at 1231 Route 22 West, Bridgewater. Both dealerships will accept donated items for the Bound Brook Flood Relief Fund during their normal business hours: VIP Honda is open 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday and 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Saturday; Acura of Somerville is open 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday.

For more information, call VIP Honda at (908) 753-1500 or Acura of Somerville at (908) 704-0300.

Bernardsville Volkswagen, WDHA will be giving away a 2000 Beetle

BERNARDSVILLE — Bernardsville Volkswagen, in conjunction with WDHA Radio is celebrating 45 years as a Volkswagen only dealer in Bernardsville by sponsoring a special 2000 Beetle contest giveaway.

Here's how it works. Now through Oct. 17 just stop by the dealership, located in the center of town, and guess how many little toy Beetles are in the actual 2000 Beetle. The winning or closest guess gets the Beetle. It's as simple as that.

The winner will be drawn Sunday, Oct. 24 at Bernardsville Volkswagen. The Beetle is currently being displayed outside the dealership, stuffed with the colorful little toys.

Speaking of new Volkswagens, with the close of production of 1999 models, there are many new 1999 models to choose from, such as the Beetle, Cabrio, Jetta and Passat. Tony Altomare, dealer president, indicates that these cars must be sold soon to make room for the 2000 models. So this happens to be a very good time to lease or buy, especially with interest rates being what they are.

Bernardsville VW is located on Route 202, just off Exit 30B on 287.

For more information on the contest or anything else relative to the dealership, call Sales Manager John Oliver at (908) 766-1600.

Crystal Mazda celebrates 25 years

GREEN BROOK — Donald Toresco, founder of the Crystal Automall, celebrated his 25th year as a proud owner of a Mazda franchise. Mazda North American Operations (MNAO) recognized Mr. Toresco's years of valued service in a recent grand celebration at Crystal Mazda.

"Crystal owes a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Toresco for all his hard work and years of dedication to making our product great," said Tom DeFranco, Mazda general manager, Northeast Region. "Mazda is proud to have given Mr. Toresco the opportunity to help grow our corporation and look forward to 25 more prosperous years."

Mr. Toresco was unable to attend the celebration in person; his son, Albert Toresco, accepted the honor on his behalf. Also in attendance at the gala affair was Mike Rendine, dealer principal.

"This has been a really great year for Crystal Mazda," said Rendine. "Mazda North American Operations (MNAO) just bestowed the highest certification in Mazda technical training upon two of our top technical team and now this."

Belle Mead family dealership is embarking on its 73rd year

Belle Mead Garage, Chrysler/Plymouth/Jeep dealership on Route 206 in Belle Mead is going on its 73rd year.

This family-owned and operated dealership is proud to say that "the right deal is still made with a handshake."

Leroy Higgins started building this fine reputation in 1927 with his gas station and garage. Even then, the service was renowned.

In 1935 Chrysler Corporation awarded him the Plymouth franchise. Then came the complete Chrysler line of fine automobiles. Years later, due to an outstanding record of customer service relationships, Chrysler rewarded the Higginses with the ever-popular and successful Jeep franchise.

Since Leroy embarked on this warm, friendly and "customer is always right" attitude, his son Roy has kept the tradition going. Now the third generation of the Higgins family, Kip, is involved, to be sure this tradition never ends!

When visiting the dealership, you'll always see both Roy and Kip Higgins' total involvement and commitment to this dealership, from sale to service or to just opening the door to say "Hello." With this outstanding attitude, which starts at the top and filters down throughout the entire dealership, it's no wonder they've been around for more than 72 years. Without a doubt, they will be around for another 72 years (there are a lot of young Higginses in the background).

Partners turn love for cars and racing into Clinton dealerships

When Mark Porcaro and Gerald Lustig say they're racing to work, they aren't kidding.

The men who co-own the Clinton Car & Truck Family of Dealerships on Route 31 in Clinton sell and service cars for a living and race them for fun.

Since he was a kid, Porcaro has had a love for cars and racing. Porcaro is a former Road Racer who now races a Small Block Modified Stock Car at Flemington and his partner, Lustig, races road courses all over the country in the Sports Car Club of America.

Their racing endeavors seem to encourage area residents to visit the dealerships for conversation. It's not unusual for people to call just to talk racing and Porcaro is happy to take the time to answer every call and question.

Both Porcaro and Lustig are active in their communities and share the philosophy of reinvesting in worthy endeavors to assist recreation and charitable causes.

The partnership formed when Porcaro, a mechanic and service manager, worked for Lustig at Autosport Honda. The two became partners in two dealership in Summit and sold them to acquire the Clinton Ford/Chrysler, Clinton Chevrolet stores.

Over the years the two have added Cadillac, Dodge, Jeep and Hyundai dealerships to form what is now Clinton Car & Truck.

There is always a large selection of new and used cars and trucks and new stock arrives daily.

Currently the hottest item on hand may be the Plymouth Prowler, a limited edition street rod. Few have been manufactured and Porcaro expects the red rag-top to generate interest in the entire Chrysler lineup!

Porcaro's excitement is evident when he talks about the great products coming, like the new Impala, a car he describes as being in the great Chevrolet tradition of family value.

The new retro T-bird with strong styling comes from the '55-'57 Thunderbirds, the Chrysler PT Cruiser and, of course, all the great trucks from Chevrolet, Ford, Dodge and Jeep make this an exciting time in the retail automobile business.

Lustig, Porcaro and their staff work hard to meet their customer expectations, and Porcaro is quick to point out that the dealerships' recent award from an area daily newspaper as "Best of the Best for 1999" is a direct result of management and staff efforts to assist our customers in every way possible.

Customers waiting for their cars to be serviced can place breakfast and lunch orders and dine while they wait.

Shuttle service and loaner cars are available for customers who have to leave their vehicles for service.

To help customers who like to shop from home, Clinton Car & Truck maintains two web sites for all the manufacturers they represent.

Without leaving home, our customers can shop for vehicles, get price quotes, arrange service appointments, and order parts — we update our sites every month to offer shop tips and specials and other pertinent information.

The partners are proud of their business and the fact that they and their staff ensure that their slogan "Where cars and trucks cost less everyday" is a reality!

Al Szymanski joins the sales staff at Kemper Pontiac Cadillac

BRIDGEWATER — Kemper Pontiac Cadillac, located on Route 22 in Bridgewater since 1941, is proud to announce the addition of Al Szymanski to its automotive sales staff.

Formerly with Queen City Buick/Pontiac/GMC for the past 28 years, Szymanski brings a wealth of experience and community involvement to Kemper Pontiac Cadillac.

Paul Kemper, general manager of Kemper Pontiac Cadillac, is pleased about his new sales staff member.

"Al Szymanski is one of New Jersey's top-ranked automotive salesmen," remarked Mr. Kemper. "Al's commitment to customer satisfaction has earned him his stellar reputation."

"Here at Kemper Pontiac Cadillac, we are dedicated to complete customer satisfaction and have been for more than 50 years. That's one of many reasons why we are so pleased to welcome Al to our dealership. We share the same pride in our reputation."

Al Szymanski has chosen to join the professional staff at Kemper rather than any number of other dealerships for a variety of important reasons.

"Professionalism. Service. Reputation. Location. The history of the dealership. Honesty. Integrity." Al thoughtfully replied. "Over the years I have made many friends in this business. I like to consider my customers my friends. That's why I chose a professional dealership with the kind of reputation that I feel would suit them. Kemper Pontiac Cadillac is just such a dealership. They have been successful for so long because they know, respect, and take the time to satisfy their customers' wants and needs. I like that. And so will my customers."

Join in welcoming Al Szymanski, a true professional automotive consultant, to Kemper Pontiac Cadillac on Route 22 in Bridgewater. Stop in or call to tell hello to Al today.

Royal Chevrolet offers special assistance to victims of Floyd

Royal Chevrolet, 1548 Route 22 East in Bridgewater, wants to help assist the flood victims of Bound Brook and the surrounding communities affected by Hurricane Floyd.

"We just moved our dealership a few months ago from downtown Bound Brook to Route 22 East in Bridgewater," states Glen Staropoli, owner of Royal Chevrolet. "Being a part of that community since 1966, we still have strong ties with so many customers and their families there. Since Royal Chevrolet has both sympathy and great respect for them, we decided to assist everyone and the surrounding communities around Bound Brook."

Royal Chevrolet will be offering anyone from the flood-affected towns an opportunity to purchase or lease a new or used vehicle from the dealership now before their insurance companies' final settlement for the loss of their vehicle.

"All we need is a copy of that person's insurance draft from their insurance company and Royal Chevrolet can use that to structure a purchase or lease on a vehicle before the monies are given to the flood victim," says Jim Knodler, sales manager at Royal Chevrolet.

Anyone interested in taking advantage of this opportunity should contact Royal Chevrolet at (732) 356-2462 and ask to speak to Glen Staropoli or any of his managers, Jim Knodler, Ray Rigby or Joe Krutovil.

Altima boasts 'affordable' luxury

The 2000 Nissan Altima is a precision-made automobile, with long-lasting luxury that's built in, not tacked on.

Those familiar with the Altima will be glad to know that the 2000 Altima maintains its European accent and elegant simplicity and its personality remains intact — it just has more. For a sportier, more commanding presence, the front and rear were restyled. The cabin features noise-reduction improvements. A new center console offers dual-level storage and dual cup holders (front and rear), which tuck away.

Technically, its 2.4-liter engine now boasts a class-leading 155 horsepower and a retuned suspension.

The engine is quick to respond, eager to sprint. The European-inspired handling is crisp, taut — a happy discovery for the engaged driver.

Altima is available in three distinct personalities.

Whatever personality you choose, the Altima offers "unexpected luxury at an affordable price."

Mazda retools the 626 sedan inside and out

By Mark Maynard
COPY NEWS SERVICE

Mazda called for reinforcements in the redesign of its 626 sedan for 2000.

It goes on sale in October with hardware reinforcements to stiffen the chassis and emotional reinforcements to inject more of the company's engineering and performance heritage.

The midterm face-lift and attitude adjustment have created a lively family sedan or perhaps a poor man's sports sedan.

Prices, including the $450 destination charge and $150 emissions fee for California and some Northeastern states, start at $18,845 for the five-speed LX and rise to $23,845 for the top-line ES V-6.

There are the typical face-lift type of changes, such as a new grille, headlights and rear end, but the most noticeable changes are under the skin, and the subtle changes to refine the interior. More than 70 changes were made inside and out.

"It should feel tighter and more solid with less NVH (noise, vibration and harshness)," says "Koby" Kobayakawa, vice president of product and design. The suspension is more taut, the braking response is stronger and the rack-and-pinion steering was adjusted for greater precision, he says.

The re-engineering work was done at the Mazda research and development center in Irvine, Calif., where Kobayakawa has been for the last two years.

He has been with the company for 35 years and is credited with putting Mazda first at the 1991 LeMans race, which saw the first Japanese sports car win the endurance race. He also helped put together the engineering team for the rotary engine, designed the convertible RX7 and redesigned the RX7.

Building cars that are fun to drive is important to Mazda, but horsepower was not a major element of the makeover. The changes help the 626 feel more precise in its handling - not aggressive as in the serious RX but light and agile as in the Miata. It is an appropriate personality for this sensibly priced sedan.

There are four trim levels - LX, ES 4-cylinder and an LX-V-6 and ES-V-6 - all with a choice of five-speed manual or optional four-speed automatic transmission.

A recent test drive of several limited-use production vehicles also gave a taste of the level of quality from the Auto Alliance factory, a 50:50 venture with Ford in Flat Rock, Mich.

The 626 is Mazda's only American-made car. I drove cars with VIN numbers as low as 62 and 71 and couldn't detect anything that wouldn't have passed inspection at the factory.

In the redesign, Mazda benchmarked the Honda Accord and also considers the Nissan Altima among its prime competitors.

The adjustments to the interior of the 2000 model are to make it a little more sophisticated. Many of the changes, however, appear to be small concessions to make this car more appealing for its North American audience, which is smart because the 626 is not sold in Japan.

There is significantly more soundproofing, but the athletic engine note of the 170-horsepower V-6 still carries into the cabin, which is good for those who care about such ambience.

The 2-liter, double overhead camshaft four-cylinder engine was tweaked to add 5 horsepower and 3 foot-pounds of torque. By moving to larger intake ports, a higher-lift camshaft and a freer flowing exhaust, the power ratings now are 130 horsepower and 130 foot-pounds of torque.

The 2.5-liter DOHC V-6 is rated at 170 hp and 163 foot-pounds of torque.

REINFORCEMENTS

The engineers stiffened the chassis by adding diagonal braces at the rear suspension; larger stabilizer bars front and rear; and a simple C brace added to the top of each front shock absorber. A solid (rigid) chassis is easier to tune for sporty driveability without making the ride feel stiff and jarring.

On the test drive, I sawed the steering wheel back and forth at highway speeds to test the stability. Instead of the tires and suspension mushing the car back and forth, the tires got a clean bite and steered the car.

There is a comfortable balance between steering input, acceleration and brake response. The ride felt wide and low going when pushed through the swales and esses of the hilly back country.

EXTERIOR

A new five-point grille and jewellike reflectors in the headlights (similar to the Accord) result in a classier face while the rear has a bigger tail-light design, heftier chrome around the license plate and bigger logos (badges) for "Mazda" and "626" to better leave an impression of the brand to those following behind.

The 626 appears a little more poised by upping the tire sizes by an inch to help fill up the wheel openings. The thick midsection also appears leaner since the designers extended the door-side rub strip to the front fenders.

The lines also were simplified by adding a remote-release fuel door instead of a thumb tab on the flap and an antenna that is integrated into the back window, which cuts down on breakage at the car wash and eliminates a hole punched into a fender.

INTERIOR

Inside, there is more chrome (door handles, locks, shifter and hand-brake button) and a metallic Mazda badge in the steering wheel.

A front center console-armrest has a dual bottom tray with power point for a phone and an opening for the cord so the phone can be used without having to leave the cover partly open. Two covered cup holders also were added to the console, and the center armrest is more amply padded in cloth or leather.

There are now map lights, courtesy lights (for entry/exit) in the doors and a lighted glove box.

Instead of a basic black steering wheel, shift lever and brake handle, those plastics are now colored-keyed to contrast with the other interior plastics. It's a nice refining touch.

A three-in-one audio for AM-FM-CD is also a welcome improvement on the LX and above. An optional system adds a six-disc CD changer that is fed through the in-dash unit, not a cassette that is stored in the trunk.

Other standard features include:

- Remote keyless entry.
- Rear seat center armrest with cup holders and covered storage tray.
- Rear seat heater ducts.

Mazda's trademark "swing" or oscillating vent in the front instrument panel is still in place.

Introducing the new 2000 Saturn LS

choices...choices...choices...

Bigger is definitely better in the case of the brand new 2000 Saturn LS with its roomier interior and trunk space. Along with it comes the powerful 2.2-liter, 4-cylinder or 3.0-liter, V-6 engine and all the unexpected luxuries like optional heated leather trimmed seats and eight speaker audio system. As always, our polymer panels on the doors and front fenders (bigger, of course) are two to four times more dent and ding resistant than steel. With the arrival of the new, bigger Saturn LS, you have a lot more choices about which Saturn to drive and now a lot more choices on how to pay for it.

39-MONTH CUSTOMIZABLE LEASE

Here's what you pay monthly for 39-month: $269* $239** $209***

Here's the amount due at signing: $999* $1999** $2999***

2000 FORD EXCURSION

Big, bigger, biggest: Ford's utility vehicles

By Mark Maynard
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Sticks and stones can break its windows, but names will never hurt the Ford Excursion.

Ford's newest utility vehicle, the biggest passenger-type vehicle on sale today - has been scrutinized by consumers and media since production plans were announced last February.

The Sierra Club called it a "4-ton suburban supertanker," and its competitors have nicknamed it Extortion or Exponential.

It is easy to criticize such a big target, but after a week behind the wheel of a two-wheel drive XLT with V-10 engine, I can say to Henny Penny, the sky is not falling.

The Excursion is big, and it's heavy, though not quite 4 tons.

Curb weights range between 6,650 pounds for a base two-wheel-drive V-8 to 7,688 pounds for the topline four-wheel-drive with diesel engine. It measures 226.7 inches long, 80 inches wide and 77.4 inches tall with the roof rack or 80.4 inches in four-wheel-drive form.

Parked next to a Chevy Suburban, it is 7.2 inches longer, 3.3 inches wider and up to 6 inches taller depending on tires and 4WD. Excursion is also 20 inches longer than its Expedition stablemate built off the F-150 platform. Compared with Ford's 15-passenger Econoline van, Excursion is 5 inches shorter, half an inch wider and not quite as tall.

Still, don't expect to park an Excursion in your condominium one-car garage, unless it is at least 20 feet deep and the door is at least 7 feet high. You'll have to look twice at the opening to an underground parking lot, and many times you'll have to park outside and walk.

It comes in XLT and topline Limited. Base prices start at $31,145 for the XLT and go to $40,880 (including destination) for the topline Limited, which adds Arizona-beige body cladding with wheel-lip moldings, chrome front bumper with Arizona-beige valance, Arizona-beige step pad on rear bumper, illuminated running boards in Arizona beige.

Also added are aluminum wheels, rear-seat audio controls, wood-grain trim, trip computer, power rear quarter windows, captain's chairs with leather and 6-way power driver's seat.

Ford knows Excursion sales will be limited by its size, not to mention its 44-gallon gas tank. Multiply that by a buck sixty, and the masses who would love to pile into this behemoth are drastically whittled down to the hardcore truckers who A) want the biggest rig available or B) have something really big to tow.

The government doesn't require a fuel-economy rating on trucks with a gross vehicle weight in excess of 8,500 pounds, but Ford estimates that the 5.4-liter V-8 will deliver 10 to 11 miles per gallon city/highway, the 6.8-liter 15 to 16 mpg, the 7.3-liter turbo diesel 17 to 18 mpg. (The diesel will make the most of the fuel, but it is a $4,600 premium on 2WD trucks and $4,005 on the 4WD.)

The V-10 test truck gave brisk acceleration at all speed ranges, but I'd question how handily the V-8 would horse around the curb weight.

The average mpg readout from the test truck's trip computer held fairly constant at 12.2 to 12.6 mpg. I also remember noticing the readout for "Distance to Empty" when it was at 635 miles, and the tank was not full.

Ford says it can build 50,000 Excursions a year, which is a shadow of the 30,000 Explorers it sells every month.

Technically, it is a new model, but it is a borrowed rib from the Super Duty pickup trucks - a Crew Cab with a steel shell over the cargo area.

Like General Motors' pair of Suburbans, it makes a workhorse of a family vehicle, but it is almost too big to fill the role of family station wagon. The turning radius is expansive, and it can be a handful to maneuver in small parking lots.

Excursion is a use-specific truck. It makes sense for anyone who loads up a couple of kids and regularly heads to the mountains or to Baja California with a travel trailer or boat. And, unlike the pickup, your belongings can be locked inside and protected from the elements.

Smaller uses just don't cut it for this kind of travel. When you try to pack two adults, two kids, the dog, luggage, cooler and sporting gear into an Explorer, something gets left on the curb or strapped to the roof.

Moving up to the larger Expedition gets you more elbow room, but your trailering is constrained by horsepower, from either the 215 horsepower 4.6-liter V-8 or 260 horsepower 5.4-liter V-8.

This is where Excursion excels.

Its three engines cover the need for power, and all are rated as low-emission - or better - in all 50 states, producing up to 43 percent less smog-forming exhaust emissions than permitted by law. Both of the gasoline engines run on regular unleaded.

The 5.4-liter V-8 is rated at 255 horsepower and 350 foot-pounds of torque;

The 6.8-liter V-10 is rated at 310 horsepower and 425 foot-pounds of torque;

And the 7.3-liter V-8 diesel is rated at 235 horsepower and 500 foot-pounds of torque.

The only transmission is Ford's 4r100 heavy-duty four-speed overdrive automatic unit, and the four-wheel drive system is a part-time, two-speed transfer case with electronic shift-on-the-fly engagement.

GM and Dodge will argue that they have smaller engines and smaller trucks with comparable power ratings, but it is more than power that separates the Excursion. It has frame rails with the heft of steel girders that lay a solid foundation to endure decades of towing and hauling abuse.
