Dan Gutman, a children's book author, talks to Jefferson Elementary School students about reading, writing and sports. He told the youngsters that he hated to read as a child until he became a sports fan at age 10. "Reading baseball cards, magazines and biographies of my favorite athletes made me into a reader," he said. Gutman is the author of "The Kid Who Ran for President," "Honus & Me," "Jackie & Me," "The Million Dollar Shot," "Ice Skating" and others.

$6M bond inked in Scotch Plains

By GREGORY SHORO
CORRESPONDENT

SCOTCH PLAINS — The township has completed a $6.355 million bond issue at a net interest cost of 4.2708% over the 15-year life of the bond.

The bonds will serve as a general improvement resource for the township, said Township Manager Thomas Atkins. The winning bid was submitted by RBC Dain Rauscher, an affiliate of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Financial officials were "very pleased with the quantity and quality of the bids," according to Atkins.

"Accolades are deserved of Mr. Atkins, our finance department, our auditors and our bond counsel for putting us in a position to go out to the bond market probably at the best time we've ever been able to do it, with interest rates as low as they are," said Scotch Plains Mayor Martin Marks.

The favorable outcome of the bond sale comes on the heels of a Wall Street downgrade of New Jersey's credit rating at the end of February.

Many times, a state that receives a poor credit rating will create a negative impact on general improvement bonds for public bodies that lie within it, said town auditor Robert Cagnassola, a member of the financial team overseeing the sale that included Scotch Plains Chief Financial Officer Lori Majeski and bond counsels Steve Rogut and Nick Coniglio.

However, Moody's Investor Service assigned an Aa rating to Scotch Plains for its upcoming bond sale, signifying "high quality by all standards," according to the company's rating system.

The official closing of the bond sale will be Friday.

Municipal tax rate going up 4.5 cents

By THOMAS SCOTT

THE RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — The Town Council passed the 2002 municipal budget that calls for an increase of 4.5 cents per $100 of assessment.

Susan Jacobson and Kevin Walsh voted against the budget. "We can't keep taxing people," said Jacobson, who noted that the Board of Education budget was voted on by residents, but the municipal budget was decided only by the council. "We need a different process — the departments need more direction — to present budgets with no increases."

Walsh struck a similar note saying he would like to see a zero-spending scenario. "I just want to know what a zero increase looks like," said Walsh. "And then see if the loss of services are what my constituents want."

The council met on Feb. 20 and decided on a surplus of $200,000. State aid is estimated to be the same as was realized in 2001. The state has informed the council that certified numbers will be available for 2002 in late March.

A separate line item has been created in the Capital Improvement Fund for parking developments. The town will have a bond sale for unfunded debt, providing cash on hand and a clear picture of the future. The Capital Improvement Fund will be used to fund 2002 capital ordinances.

Downtown presentations sought

THE RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — Five firms will be asked to make a presentation on the town redevelopment and the building of two parking decks.

Six firms responded to the town's request for qualifications. Five of the candidates are from New Jersey and one is from Maryland, said Councilman Rafael Betancourt, chairman of the Traffic Parking and Transportation Committee.

Town officials will ask each of the in-state firms to respond to a Request for Proposal that will be sent out soon. Gildea anticipates a March 16th preview of the responses of each of the firms. There will be a series of half-hour previews from each candidate.

The applicants include: Beacon Planning and Realty Advisors, L.L.C., Colts Neck; Atlantic Group, Princeton; Paulus, Sokolowski and Sartor, Warren; DeCotis, Fitzpatrick, Gluck & Cole, LLP, Teaneck; and Schoor Depalma of Manalapan. The out-of-state candidate — Hunter Interests Inc., of Annapolis, Md. — will not be considered.

According to Town Administrator Jim Gildea, town officials will contact towns to hear of their experience with the applicants.

teach at Zayed University and more importantly, a friend to young Muslim female students. On her 10-day trip, Leshner will visit her former students and exchange views about the Sept. 11 attack.

"Two students that I still keep in touch with were the first people to email me after Sept. 11. My friends tell me that there was almost pure silence there. The next day (after the attacks) everyone was in shock. It was extremely hard for them to accept that two of the terrorists were from their country."

"One of the reasons I was shocked (to find out they supported the Taliban) was because my students repeatedly showed their outrage at the way women were treated in Afghanistan. Not only did they express disgust for that, but they had a song, "Insane Hussein".

Unlike the pictures taken of Muslim women in Afghanistan wearing long flowing burqas, the young women in the Emirates have more freedom to express themselves and grow intellectually. They are encouraged to pursue education, Leshner said.

Leshner explained that underneath their Muslim garb, the Emirati women wear designer jeans. They also dye their hair and travel to other countries.

"In this country the women have equal rights. They can work side by side with men, they can drive and they still own businesses," Leshner said.

But there is one hangover from earlier days. "Their marriages are arranged," Leshner said.

Leshner is a mother of three and has shared her experiences with her children as well as the Westfield Historical Society. A newsletter that she wrote monthly while in the Emirates can be viewed at www.wpunj.edu.

education within a reasonable means of public support."

Increases in special-education services to out-of-district schools is up 16 percent, insurance costs are up 24 percent, and debt service relative to construction is up 39 percent.

Budget allocations break down to 67 percent for personnel, 10 percent for insurance, 7 percent for Special Education Tuition, 3 percent for transportation and food, 3 percent for utilities and maintenance, 3 percent for contracted services, 4 percent for supplies/equipment and 3 percent for debt service.

The total funds, amounting to $63.7 million, will come from tax levy, $4.69 million in state aid, a free balance of $1.09 million, and $689,000 in miscellaneous income. No increase in state aid is expected.

SPORTS MEDICINE

Presented by William Bell, R.P.T.

MEETING RESISTANCE

Resistance bands (or tubing) used for rehabilitation, were inspired by old bicycle tire tubing. These rubber bands are employed to address a wide range of orthopedic problems. Resistance bands effectively strengthen any body part, from feet to shoulders. They are so versatile for strength training that they can be used in place of dumbbells in all the standard weight-training moves (bicep curls, shoulder presses, and others), with similar, if not better, results. Unlike dumbbells, which are typically assisted by gravity on their downward movement, the bands challenge muscles through the entire range of the repetition. By varying the length and elasticity of the band, the physical therapist can increase or decrease the resistance.

The choices of the equipment used in physical therapy and modalities of treatment differ from person to person. Usually, your referring doctor and the physical therapist work together as a team to devise a therapy program ideally suited to your needs and capabilities. With your physician's referral, phone BELL REHABILITATION & SPORTS MEDICINE at (908) 272-5955. We are conveniently located at 777 Walnut Ave., Cranford. Most private insurance companies are accepted. Auto Insurance Claims are our specialty, and we will submit your bills for compensation. No Inds & Medicare.

P.S. Because they are lightweight and portable, resistance bands can be used at home.

think this is a good plan." He called the plan, for all practical purposes, an amendment to the zoning ordinances that will allow developers to apply their creativity to the downtown.

"A vote for the plan is moving forward," said Whitaker.

Councilman Thomas Ryan, who also favored the plan, said it was almost impossible to please everybody and that compromises must be struck. Ryan said the "densities are in keeping" with reasonable guidelines, the Planning Board is behind the plan, and people are now anxious to see the change.

"We're at a crossroads," said Councilman Stuart Kline.

Westfield woman is Green Brook's teacher of year

By JENNIFER McCANDLESS
STAFF WRITER

GREEN BROOK — "She's a real prize."

That's the way Irene E. Feldkirchner School Principal Armand Lamberti describes Nancy Grosso, the school's teacher of the year.

Grosso said she tries to teach students at their own pace so they understand what they are learning and receive a quality education. Grosso said she encourages students to "find something special" within themselves and develop their talents.

"I always tell my students to find something they are good at and run with it," Grosso said. "I tell them I was no good at athletics and other things, but I knew I would be a good teacher. Teaching made me special and I encourage students to learn what makes them special."

"Her act of teaching is always on," Lamberti said. "She is always a teacher, always looking out for others. She's a real prize."

Grosso has been a teacher at Feldkirchner since 1970. How she became a teacher involved a bit of good luck, she said.

During her senior year at Monmouth College, Grosso tutored a woman who had just gone back to school. Since she was facing graduation and the job market, Grosso asked the woman if she could use her as a reference on her applications. Grosso said the woman agreed and offered her husband as a reference. Her husband was a principal at Green Brook High School and he and the superintendent eventually offered her a job at Feldkirchner.

"It's funny how it all worked out," Grosso said. "But here I am and I've been here ever since."

In 1975, Grosso left the school to raise her children but returned as a part-time teacher in 1985. During her 10-year leave, the Westfield resident was a substitute teacher in the town's school district. When she was ready to return to work, Grosso said she looked forward to coming back to Feldkirchner.

"This school district is like family," Grosso said. "I just loved working here and really wanted to continue teaching in Green Brook. There was only a part-time position available, but I took it."

At least one of Grosso's former co-workers was happy the first-grade teacher had returned to Feldkirchner. Second-grade teacher Jean Ohan said she works well with Grosso, and was excited to have the opportunity to work with her again.

"I've been here just about as long as she has," Ohan said. "I have always admired her. You can see she is something special. She teaches her students in a way that makes them comfortable and easier for them to learn."

Ohan said she has many memories about Grosso but there is one story that sticks out in her mind. Ohan said she was the English as a Second Language teacher and there was one student who did not speak English. Ohan said Grosso always told her what type of day the student was having and informed her of any problems the student had.

"She definitely made a change in this student," Ohan said. "He was completely different when he was around Mrs. Grosso. He turned into an honor student and is now going to college on a full scholarship. Teachers can make a difference and Mrs. Grosso surely does."

Grosso said she is simply enjoying doing what she always wanted to do.

"I always wanted to be a teacher," Grosso said. "Growing up, I loved baby-sitting and I loved organizing games and playing with children. I am very happy. When you love what you do, others can see it. If my students know I am happy, they're happy."

Lamberti and Ohan said Grosso is very dedicated.

"When she's sick, you have to force her to go home," Lamberti said. "She obviously enjoys what she does and you always love having teachers like that."

"Nancy (Grosso) is an inspiration," Ohan said. "She inspires her students and the rest of the staff with her commitment to teaching and helping others."

Grosso said she is just doing her job, but admitted she enjoys hearing from former students who say how much they enjoyed having her as a teacher.

"Some of the parents are my former students," Grosso said. "I think it is so nice when a parent stops by to tell me they had me as a teacher and that they love what I am doing for their child."

Sisters flown to hospital after 7-car Rt. 22 crash

SCOTCH PLAINS — Two sisters were airlifted from a Route 22 traffic accident Monday after their car was struck by a dump truck.

The Honda, which was driven by Shumita Sharma of Jersey City, was apparently stopped at a traffic light at Glenside Avenue when it was rear-ended by the truck. In all, seven vehicles were involved in the chain reaction collision.

The truck driver, Acacio Loureiro, of Newark, claims that he "blacked out" and "didn't remember hitting anything." No charges had been filed at press time. The case is still under investigation.

Sharma and her sister, Monica Sharma of Bridgewater, were flown to University Hospital for treatment. The truck driver and one other person were taken by ambulance to Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center for treatment.

Traffic on Route 22 was tied up for two hours while the wreckage was cleared.

Kenilworth woman fined after teen drinking party

By GREG MARX
THE CHRONICLE

KENILWORTH — A borough woman was arrested and fined after serving alcohol to dozens of teenagers.

Shanna Ellison was charged with serving alcoholic beverages to minors, a disorderly persons offense, after police responded to her 304 Monroe Avenue residence Friday night on a noise complaint.

Ellison was supervising a birthday party for her daughter, who is under 18, police said. Approximately 30-40 youths from Springfield and Kenilworth, all under age 21, were present when police arrived at 10:05 p.m.

Police said there was also evidence of marijuana at the scene, though no drug possession charges have been filed. None of the guests were visibly intoxicated when the officers arrived.

police said.

No underage drinking charges have been filed against the minors. The borough, like many others in the area, passed an ordinance last year authorizing a six-month suspension of driving privileges and $250 fine for juveniles convicted of underage drinking.

Ellison pled guilty to the charge in municipal court Monday night, according to court officials. She was fined $70 for the offense, which as a disorderly persons charge carries a maximum fine of $1,000. All persons convicted of non-violent disorderly offenses must also make a $50 payment to the state Violent Crimes Compensation Board.

The incident is the second in the area in recent weeks in which police have disrupted a teen drinking party. On Feb. 14, Cranford police arrested 14 Cranford teens and one each from Scotch Plains and Linden for underage drinking.

No adults were present at that party. The minors were charged under an underage drinking ordinance identical to the one Kenilworth passed last year.

Community Center hopes to entice teens

By GREG MARX
THE CHRONICLE

CRANFORD — In an effort to become more "teen-friendly," the Community Center will be open to high school students 8-11 p.m. Saturdays beginning this weekend. But Tuesday night, the Township Committee and Recreation Director Frank D'Antonio sought to develop more ways to bring young people — especially hard-to-interest high school students — into the center.

The center has in the past operated successful dances for seventh- and eighth-graders, and the new Teen Nights — which will cost up to $2,300 for the year in extra staffing responsibilities — are targeted for high school students. The building will be open only to students in Grades 9-12, who will have use of the teen room, lounge, game room, and gym.

But several commissioners pushed D'Antonio to develop more opportunities for high school students. "We've got to have something out there to hook them to come in," said Tom Denny. "You need to give them a feeling of something different ... Can you get them, especially the older ones, to come back?"

"Having (teens) there for two, three, four hours on a Saturday night — it's just a lot less time for them to get in trouble," said Dan Aschenbach.

One possibility, D'Antonio said, would be to organize dances for high school students with performances by student bands.

The center will also soon begin to operate pool, table tennis and basketball tournaments, he said, though some of those competitions will be geared for Grades 7-8.

The center will also host an "Open House Week" sometime in May, the group decided Tuesday. To be held over a four-day period, the events will be designed to attract teens, senior citizens and families, and to show off the center to the public. The building is just now operating at full capacity, with the library recently moving into its adjacent renovated facility.

More details on the "Open House Week" will be available by the end of April.

Communities must show restraint

Especially this year, it's important for municipalities to tighten already austere budgets.

The economy is turning around, Alan Greenspan says. And he may be right. The national unemployment rate has dropped two months in a row.

But all that rings hollow when you've been laid off or been encouraged to take early retirement. There may be jobs out there and maybe those who've been displaced have found new employment, but chances are the positions — and the pay scale — require some residents to scale back their spending.

Sure, it was a mild winter and heating bills have been a pleasant surprise. Gasoline, too, is hovering at about $1 per gallon. So residents got a break.

So did school districts and municipal governments. And those savings should help local governments absorb unavoidable budget increases.

Soaring health insurance costs are most often cited for ballooning municipal and school budgets. Property tax bills are climbing much faster than the rate of inflation.

Voters have some limited control over school budgets, but they have to trust their municipal governing bodies to act in their and the communities' best interest when it comes to adopting a municipal budget.

Educating our children is a costly proposition and scrimping on technology and facilities could be penny wise and pound foolish. No one wants that.

The freeholders who ultimately make the decision on the county portion of our property tax bill are almost too far removed from us. Even if each of us asked them for an austere budget, would it matter? We're just small fish in a big Union County pond.

Fair or not, we need our municipal governments to practice some restraint.

It appears that Gov. James E. McGreevey is going to postpone the NJ Saver rebate checks. When proposed, those checks were considered an offset to the high property taxes. Last year, some Union County homeowners received more than $600.

The year 2001 was a difficult one for many people in Union County. It's time someone gave us a break.

Glee Club makes solid contribution

To The Chronicle:

We are blessed to live in Union County, an area of pleasant neighborhoods and attractive surroundings. There are many factors contributing to the high quality of life in our towns. In addition to the many service organizations, we have a multitude of cultural groups which add a great deal to the spiritual side of life. One such group is the Westfield Glee Club. Members come from all over the county to share the joy of singing. For 77 years, the club has brought the joyous sound of quality choral singing to the area.

We ask for your financial support to keep this wonderful tradition alive.

Patron and Associate memberships are available. Our next concerts will be April 27 and 28. For information call (908) 276-2330.

Give consideration to non-hunters

To The Record-Press:

It is argued that hunting is a sport. Regardless of whether you agree with that statement or not, sports do have rules! There are many hunters that do not follow these rules. Their behavior puts everyone at risk of becoming injured or killed.

It is sad enough that there is only one day a week, Sunday, when I can take my child to a park without the risk of becoming a hunting statistic. Residents of New Jersey are put at risk more often than they know.

The state law for hunting from an occupied building is only 450 feet. On numerous occasions hunters have been witnessed shooting their guns in locations closer to buildings than the state law allows. One early morning last fall there were three deer killed next to a set of railroad tracks less than 400 feet from my home. When this happened, it was not yet shotgun season and it was illegal to be on or around the railroad tracks. Last year a deer was shot two weeks after deer season was over and died near the edge a resident's property. Hunters seem to continuously get away with such violations. New Jersey had numerous hunting related injuries and deaths this season. How many more hunting accidents does it take for the authorities to enforce the laws?

There are townships in New Jersey that allows hunting on public lands acquired with taxpayers' money. How about the many empty alcohol bottles and garbage thrown about under and around hunting stands on public lands? Why does 98 percent of New Jersey's taxpayers have to tolerate inconsiderate behavior? There are wood pieces with the points of nails sticking out of them. Townships don't seem to make hunters responsible for cleaning up their mess?

In addition to not following hunting rules, hunters make it sound like they are doing a good thing by claiming they are helping the hungry when they donate the dead deer to soup kitchens. NORWESCAP can't get their appropriated funds unless they take the deer meat. Soup Kitchens and welfare mothers don't have a choice. In reality, many of the charities don't want the deer meat and it is thrown in the garbage. As one legislator said, "The hunters just want the antlers, why not give the deer to the poor?"

Hunters helping the hungry should be called Taxpayers Helping Hunters. The hunters have their fun; they leave the rotten carcasses, the taxpayers' clean up the hunters' mess and the poor get stuck with the deer meat. The deer meat is not inspected, who is to say that it is safe to eat?

Isn't it time that we stop ignoring hunting violations and that violators get more than a slap on the wrist, for risking our lives? More consideration needs to be given to the majority of the residents in this state, who are non-hunters.

Deer kill methods are inhumane

To The Record-Press:

The misguided Community Based Deer Management Plan, which passed into law by a single vote, has resulted in the most dangerous, inhumane and repulsive wildlife legislation in New Jersey history. In the name of justice and in respect for civil, moral and safety standards, S-1090 must be repealed.

This unacceptable legislation allows for culling deer by baiting, sniping, netting and head bolting, trap and transfer in addition to bow hunting; each method contemptible in itself.

Know the facts: Municipalities contract with hired guns which enables the invasion of armed strangers to convert our public parks and private properties into bloody slaughterhouses. If this isn't frightening enough, there's more. S-1090 also condones the use of shotguns and/or high-powered rifles with silencers, shooting after dark with inadequate visibility and shooting from moving vehicles — all paid for with our precious tax dollars to boot.

The persistent pro-kill schemes endorsed by the Division of Fish and Wildlife have caused our government to sink to the depths of degradation. Has our civilization come so far only to regress to this barbarism? New Jersey residents demand and deserve better for ourselves, our children and our communities.

I pray our new governor, James E. McGreevey, and elected officials will not continue to support the heavily funded and anachronistic Division of Fish and Wildlife which will further jeopardize our safety. Your letters and calls to the governor and legislators are needed now to insist upon civilized, intelligent and enlightened wildlife policies.

Ask yourselves, New Jersey and Sniping....Perfect Together???

Enron debacle: A look at our future?

To The Record-Press:

Before Enron officials declared bankruptcy, upper-level management gave themselves tens of millions of dollars in bonuses. Having distributed the available cash, they fired their employees and had security guards escort them to the streets. There, they held each other and wept, stunned by the disappearance of their jobs, the loss of their retirements and the demise of a company they had worked so hard to build.

When George W. Bush came into office, the nation had a record surplus. However, our President immediately went about giving bonuses to the wealthy. These came in the form of huge tax cuts and attempts at gutting environmental protections. Undoing the Clean Air Act would help his many friends in oil refinement. Relaxing restriction on arsenic and cyanide would be a big bonus to his friends in the mining business. Ending the research on super-efficient cars and trucks would aid his friends and family in the energy industry.

Is America's fate similar to that of Enron's employees? Our retirement fund, Social Security, is disappearing. Our government coffers are being drained. And our future is being made bleaker by dirtier air and water. Perhaps we need to scrutinize the longtime friendship between Kenneth Lay and George W. Bush. The parallels are a bit too chilling.

Welcome to the vast wasteland

By the time you read this, we will know whether our nation has survived the humiliation of Tonya Harding and Paula Jones punching out each other in another Fox television spectacular.

There is nothing pleasantly decadent about the "Celebrity Boxing" show Rupert Murdoch's network presented in its video vomitorium on Wednesday night.

Even the gruesome and grotesque surrealism of Vanilla Ice battling Todd Bridges or Danny Bonaduce duking it out with one of the Brady Bunch does not tempt the dark side of curiosity fascinated by a two-headed calf in a jar at a carnival's freak show. This exercise in cultural embarrassment makes the trashy trailer park travails on Jerry Springer look like the Lunts in a Noel Coward comedy.

The specter of a disgraced figure skating thug and a hussy who blew the whistle on a president beating each other in the squared circle is more unbelievable than any of the movies John Waters made before he went legitimate. It is beyond kitsch, camp, reckless parody and savage satire; it is an insult to our collective intelligence.

Yet the show may garner good ratings. After all, a picture of a car accident on the front page of a newspaper is usually good for newsstand sales. No doubt sometime in the future Fox — which airs the most sophisticated and intelligent entertainment show on television, "The Simpsons" — will shovel "Celebrity Boxing, Round 11" into our living rooms, featuring a bout between O.J. Simpson and Jayson Williams.

Bruce Springsteen may have been right when he wailed "57 channels and nothing on." And the former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Newton Minnow may have been right four decades ago when he declared television, at that time still dominated by the three networks, as a "vast wasteland." How many times in a week do we play video roulette with our remote controls, searching for that fleeting image that will grab and hold our attention without offending our sense of tolerable taste and intelligence?

It was on one of those thumb trips around the dial that I found "Blind Date" and instantly became a shameless fan.

Just as I know eating a bag of barbecue potato chips is bad for me, I know my fondness for "Blind Date" is not good for my health or image. It's another "reality television" show that has nothing to do with "reality." Instead, it's all about what hapless prisoners of narcissism will do to grab their quarter hour of fame on television.

The premise is simple. The show throws together two strangers on a blind date in already reality-challenged Los Angeles. The camera follows the couple on a date from door to door, through some type of unusual activity to a dinner, then drinks at a nightclub. The audience wants to see either a date fail miserably or end in a sexual escapade better left for the post-midnight hours on Cinemax.

What makes "Blind Date" better than the rest of the "reality shows" is its sense of humor. The show takes neither itself nor its clueless participants seriously. In fact, it mercilessly pokes fun at the bubble-brain contestants with a running commentary that is as sharp and insightful as the jabs on "The Simpsons." "Blind Date" is a satire not only on those overly earnest reality shows like "Survivor" and "Real World," but also on the hedonistic fantasies and overblown notions of romance we harbor like bags of barbecue potato chips in our nightstand. It is also a winking commentary on how far many of us will go to even be a celebrity, maintain our celebrity or regain our celebrity status.

I'll take Tonya in Round 3; she already knows how to fight.

Matthew Glassett wins Evergreen geography bee

SCOTCH PLAINS — Matthew Glassett, a fourth-grader at Evergreen School in Scotch Plains, was the school-level winner of the National Geographic Bee held recently at Evergreen.

The school-level competition, in which students answered oral geography questions at a student assembly, was the first round in the 14th annual National Geographic Bee. By winning at the school level, Matthew earned the opportunity to advance in the bee and possibly win a $25,000 college scholarship.

All fourth- and fifth-grade students at Evergreen took part in the bee by answering several rounds of multiple choice and other questions. The top five fifth- and fourth-grade scorers then competed in the school finals, which were conducted by Evergreen Principal Rudi De Brito. Runner-up in the finals was fifth-grader Cody Kalebota.

Matthew and all other school winners in New Jersey will now take a written multiple choice test that is scored by the National Geographic Society. The top 100 scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state bees in April. State champions will receive all-expenses-paid trips to Washington, D.C., in May when they will compete for the national title in the televised finals of the bee moderated by "Jeopardy" host Alex Trebek.

Armory parking appears closer

WESTFIELD — Members of the Town Council and the Board of Education met recently to discuss parking at the high school.

There is growing sentiment on the school board to go along with the $70,000 cost for building a parking lot behind the Westfield Armory. The armory will allow 25 cars to park in the front lot once construction starts.

The town will also relax parking requirements along Dorian Road and Trinity Place.

Construction trucks are to park on the grass and off the street to keep the street open for parking.

Dr. William Foley is interested in the additional parking as long as he knows he has a long-term commitment from the armory. If he gets his assurance, he will recommend appropriating money.

Mozart, Schubert performance set

WESTFIELD — Two rarely heard pieces from German composers are being performed 4 p.m. Sunday by the choir and orchestra of Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, 315 First St.

The free program features "Grabmusik," K.42, by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart; and an adaptation of "Stabat Mater" by Franz Schubert. Both works will be sung in German; English translations will be available for the audience.

"Grabmusik" is German "grave music," written to be sung before a replica of the Holy Sepulchre in 18th-century Austria. Some churches include such a replica in the sanctuary between Good Friday and Easter Sunday. Soloists are Joseph Loria, bass; and Janet Natale, soprano.

"Stabat Mater" is the traditional Latin oration of Mary at the foot of the cross. Soloists are Jonathan Pilkington, tenor; Glenn Boothy, bass; and Natale, soprano.

The Holy Trinity choir and orchestra are under the direction of Rives Cassel.

Everything that a good Scout might need

Westfield shop times re-opening to mesh with anniversary

BY TINA PERROTTA
THE RECORD-PRESS

WESTFIELD — When Illia Alston was a Brownie she never imagined a store where she could buy specialty items for Girl Scouts.

Forty-nine years later, she's the shop manager of a store that offers just that.

With her assistance, the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council at 201 Westfield Ave. opened in September and quickly became a vital lifeline for area Girl Scouts.

The shop is especially significant to the 21 service units in the area who regularly need uniforms, patches and accessories that previously would have had to be ordered by catalog.

"I think it's a fabulous idea," said Ann Lane, a troop leader. "We've been waiting a long time for this."

Though the shop originally opened four years ago and sold pins and patches, it has recently taken on more merchandise and was re-opened early Tuesday to celebrate the council's 45 anniversary coupled with the Girl Scouts 90th anniversary. Monday kicked off Girl Scout Week.

Besides the patches and uniforms the shop offers pins, specialty pencils, cookbooks, and activity books. There's also T-shirts, hats, socks and belts. Even the famous Girl Scout cookies can be brought at the shop when they're in season.

The council also offers tours of the building and classes in baby-sitting and acting.

Founded in 1912 by Juliette Gordon-Low, the organization has grown to more than 3.7 million girls and adults. The organization also has 317 councils in the United States with 11 in New Jersey. Though the organization has remained steady on building self esteem and independence in young women, other characteristics have drastically changed.

"The items have changed (over the years)," Alston said, while looking in a case filled with Girl Scout memorabilia. "The uniforms are updated and easy to wear now. The interest projects and patches, badges and triads go along with the interests that today's students have."

For more information about the Washington Rock Girl Scouts contact them at (908) 232-3236.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR EXPERIENCE

Although the flood of information available on the Internet once gave rise to an expectation that electronic commerce would replace real estate agents, just the opposite has happened. The Internet has made it possible for real estate agents and their clients to share information more effectively and work together more efficiently. In the end, buyer and sellers realize that there is no substitute for experience and the personal touch. While it has become easier to accumulate information, knowledgeable agents know how to synthesize the facts into a coherent picture that their clients can use to guide their decisions. A lot of hard work and savvy is involved in advertising, qualifying prospects, negotiating, and shepherding the deal to conclusion.

In addition to FHA guaranteed loans, your real estate professional may advise you about banks that offer special programs for first time buyers, alternative financing (such as seller financing), and loans that have lower starting rates. If a home is within your reach, your agent will help you find a way to make that purchase. For additional information, call JILL GUZMAN REALTY. "Our success stories are never ending." Look for our homes daily!

Jill Guzman has achieved the ultimate distinction of being among the TOP 1% of more than (approx.) 7,040 Active Real Estate Professionals by units of listings sold in the year 2000!

HINT: Roughly four home in five are bought and sold with the help of a real estate agent.

Retired teacher named trustee for youth and family service

Hetherington, who lives in Mountainside, recently retired after 29 years as a reading teacher in Westfield. As a member of the "Hands Across the Water" teacher exchange program she spent three weeks teaching in Kirov, Russia.

The master gardener is a member of the Westfield Community Players and an AARP chapter's nominating committee.

Cranford Repertory to present 'Grease'

CRANFORD — The Cranford Repertory Theater has announced its spring production of "Grease" will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. April 12, 13, 19 and 20, and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. April 14 and 21. All performances will be held at the Orange Avenue School auditorium in Cranford.

This production of Grease features a diverse cast under the direction of Frank Andrews. The cast includes Michael Bellina from Union as Danny; Kimberly Apadula as Sandy; Evan Schupak as Kenickie; Robyn Bloom from Rahway as Rizzo; Jeff Don as Sonny; Jen Hanselman from Linden as Marty; A.J. Meeker from Linden as Roger; Stephanie Pearl from Cranford as Jan; Jodi Zeicher as Cha-Cha; Nuno DeSousa from Linden as Doody; Eric Brenda as Eugene; Janelle Cumberbatch-Smith from Plainfield as Frenchy; Howard Whitmore as Johnny Casino and Teen Angel; Laura Scott from Union as Miss Lynch; Samantha Hahn as Patty Simcox and Todd Aikens as Vince Fontaine.

Director Frank Andrews has directed "Forever Plaid" and "Bye Bye Birdie" with Stagecrafters, which garnered him two RECT nominations for Outstanding Direction of a Musical. Other directorial credits include "Joseph," "Annie," "Oliver," "Grease," and "Peter Pan" with New Jersey Repertory Theater; "Little Shop of Horrors" and "Into the Woods" at Johnson Regional High School in Clark; "Snoopy" at Roselle Park High School, and "Oklahoma!" at Edison High School.

Plays in the Park fans will recognize Andrews from summer productions of "Charlie Brown," "Guys and Dolls," "Gypsy," "Me and My Girl," "West Side Story," "Anything Goes," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Bye Bye Birdie," "Sweet Charity" and "My Fair Lady."

For the Cranford Repertory Theater, Andrews directed the 1999 production of the "Wizard of Oz" and has been featured in "Joseph" (1995) and "Once Upon a Mattress" (1996), not to mention the Cranford Showstoppers.

Andrews is the recipient of the 1997 ACT Award for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Musical for his portrayal of Curley in "Oklahoma!" at the Sayreville Main Street Theater.

Theater.

The choreographer for "Grease" is Kristen Baldoni. A veteran of many Cranford Repertory Theater productions as both performer and assistant choreographer, "Grease" will be Baldoni's first opportunity as the choreographer.

Additional technical support will come from Mark Riley as the lighting designer, Terri Rodd as the costume designer, and the sets were designed and constructed by Tony Smith.

"Grease" had its world theatrical premiere on Broadway in 1972 and has triumphed throughout the world in acclaimed theaters and countless school productions. In 1979, Grease took over the record as the longest-running show in the history of Broadway, and the hit film starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton John proved to be the highest grossing movie musical to date.

Mayors, wives will chair gala

WESTFIELD — Mayor Gregory McDermott and his wife Andrea and Mayor James Kennedy of Rahway and his wife Lori Kennedy, will serve as honorary chairs of Westfield Symphony Orchestra's (WSO) annual gala to be held April 20 at Shackamaxon Country Club, Scotch Plains, according to Jane Francz, chairwoman.

"The symphony is very gratified by the willingness of these outstanding couples to participate in the gala evening being held for the benefit of the WSO," said Mrs. Francz.

She said Mrs. McDermott is a longtime volunteer for the symphony and a past president of its auxiliary group, the Friends of Westfield Symphony Orchestra. The symphony performs concerts each year at the Union County Arts Center in Rahway where Mayor and Mrs. Kennedy are supportive hosts.

EASTER DINING

BOB NEWHART

Newhart is coming to Rahway

RAHWAY — Bob Newhart has become a household name to generations, thanks to his two successful, long-running television series and their resurgence on Nick at Night. He will be performing at the Union County Arts Center in Rahway, April 6, at 8 p.m.

Remembered by millions of fans for his world famous one-way phone conversations, Newhart is one of the most recognizable comedians on television ("The Bob Newhart Show," "Newhart") and on the big screen (In and Out, Little Miss Marker).

He has also been a hit on the charts...when Billboard issued their 100 Most Popular Albums of the past 40 years, Newhart came in at Number 20, besting some of the greatest recording talents in history.

Newhart's critically acclaimed comedy concert includes routines created from today's headlines in his unique style, plus his early classics that audiences love.

Tickets are now on sale at the Union County Arts Center Box Office, located at 1601 Irving St., Rahway. For further information, call the box office at (732) 499-8226 or visit them online at www.ucac.org. Tickets are priced at $62, $52, $42.

For something different, try pasta with ham and mushrooms

My favorite meal is pasta no matter how it is prepared.

Whether it is with garlic and oil, marinara sauce or pesto, pasta is always a good entree to make when you just aren't sure what to cook.

Today's recipe is linguini with mushrooms and ham, a very simple delicious recipe which will be enjoyed by all. Any ham will taste delicious but a savory ham such as baked ham will really boost the flavor. When you purchase the ham, don't have it sliced.

I find this entree is a sufficient dinner and combined with a mixed crisp salad, is more than enough.

LINGUINI WITH MUSHROOMS AND HAM
(Linguini con funghi e prosciutto cotta)
1 tbsp. olive oil
1 large onion,

finely chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 pkg. white mushrooms (with caps and stems)
1 pkg. wild mushrooms (assorted gourmet blend)
1 lb. ham or ham steak, cut into strips
1 c. chicken broth
1/4 c. medium cream
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 lb. linguini
1 pkg. frozen peas
Heat olive oil in a large non-stick skillet over medium heat. Add onion; cover and cook 5 minutes or until tender and golden, stirring occasionally. Add garlic and cook 30 seconds, stirring. Add mushrooms; cook 10 minutes or until tender and golden, stirring occasionally. Stir in ham, broth, cream and pepper. Heat to just above simmering; cook 1 minute, stirring frequently. Set aside.

Bring a large pot of lightly salted water to a boil. Add linguini and cook according to package directions. Place peas in a colander; drain linguini over peas. Return linguini and peas to pot. Pour ham mixture over linguini and heat 2-3 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve immediately.

NOTE: All white mushrooms can be used if wild mushrooms are not available.

An old house has a new home at the Smithsonian

BY JAMES M. WOODARD
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

If the walls of old houses had ears and a means to communicate, what stories they could tell.

Every family has fond memories of experiences in a particular residence. It could be their current home, or a house they lived in many years ago. Happy family memories are closely tied to the family house.

One very old house was moved last year to the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington. It represents all the old houses packed with rich memories for a succession of resident families. If you enjoy seeing old houses and learning about their residents, make it a point to visit this proud old wood-frame house and learn about its five past resident families.

The 2 1/2 story, 10-room house was built in the center of Ipswich, Mass. (30 miles north of Boston) in the 1760s. During its construction, a section of an older house, built around 1710, was joined to the rear of the house to create more space. An addition to the main structure, along with several one-story sheds, were added in the 1800s.

It was originally built as a fashionable home for a fairly well-to-do family. A little more than a century later, a busy industrial district had grown up around the house and it was divided into apartments. Several families moved in and out of the residence in the first half of the 20th century. By the end of 1961, it was a vacant lonely looking old house.

The current display at the Smithsonian Museum includes photos and information about five families who called the house home at different periods in the past. The house, saved from the wrecking ball in the 1960s, was rebuilt inside the museum and is now its largest single artifact display.

Called "Within These Walls," the display is sponsored by the National Association of Realtors. Viewing this old structure and learning about its past residents will probably remind visitors of houses where they lived in the past — and stories that could be told by those walls.

Q. What is a stigmatized home?

A. If you're selling a home with a shady past — e.g., where a major crime had been committed or it has the reputation for being haunted — it's best to reveal that information to prospective buyers. Otherwise, after the buyers move in and discover that previously unrevealed information, you might be facing a lawsuit. These are often referred to as "stigmatized homes" by real estate professionals.

Note a case now pending in Kansas: After discovering their recently purchased home had been the site of a brutal murder 18 months before the sale was closed, the owners filed a suit claiming the crime should have been disclosed by the previous homeowners and the broker handling the transaction.

Responding to the case, the local board of Realtors has created a new disclosure form requiring sellers to inform buyers of any condition negatively affecting the property value. This will allow the buyers to decide for themselves whether to purchase the property.

In this case, the buyers, who learned of the crime from a contractor, claimed they were misrepresented and are suing for more than $200,000 in property damages, $500,000 for pain and suffering, and punitive damages totaling $5 million.

Q. How do brokers use computer systems beyond accessing info on available properties?

A. Real estate brokers are increasingly relying on special computer software programs to handle many of their daily business functions. Some brokers claim this type of high-tech assistance can help them build their business volume and enhance customer service without the need to add personnel or incur more infrastructure costs.

For example, about a year ago broker John Reinhardt, president of Fillmore Real Estate, implemented a software program specifically designed to build a more healthy revenue bottom line. It's an Internet-based program from Interealty Corporation called Realty Desktop.

The program helps his brokers and agents manage virtually all aspects of a transaction. Reinhardt claims that the usage of this program increased his firm's overall business volume by 4 percent last year, over the preceding year. And, so far this year, business is up by 25 percent over the same time last year.

"Eighty percent of our transactions are now managed to a great extent by this software program," he said. "It provides more control of transactions, and that improves customer satisfaction and helps us better manage our growing operations."

D. Francavilla places 7th/8th

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

ATLANTIC CITY — An outstanding season for Derek Francavilla, filled with three months of undefeated wrestling, ended with a 7th/8th place finish in the state tournament Sunday.

Francavilla headed to Atlantic City's Boardwalk Hall with an undefeated 30-0 record, Union County Tournament, District 11 and Region 3 103 pound titles and was hoping for a top-five finish in the state.

Though that hope was quickly dashed with a pre-quarterfinal round loss, Francavilla regrouped, wrestled well to finish out the tournament and complete what was a tremendous season for the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High sophomore.

"I wanted to be top-five, but I was pretty pleased I placed," said Francavilla. "I definitely had a great season. There's not much else I could do. I'm proud of the season I had and I'm proud of what I did at states."

In his first match Saturday afternoon, Francavilla admittedly wrestled below his usual level, and dropped a 6-4 decision to James Grant of St. Mary's Rutherford.

"I was on and off in the first match," he said. "Maybe I was nervous to be in such a big arena and such a big tournament."

But he quickly settled down and won his next two bouts Saturday, defeating Ryan McCormick of Camden Catholic 5-1 in the first wrestling and Nick Mattia of Belleville 4-2 in the second round.

On Sunday Francavilla dropped a 15-5 decision to Nick Manocchio of Manlapan to finish 7th/8th in the state as a sophomore with a 32-2 record.

He wasn't the only Raider at the state tournament, nor was he the only Francavilla as older brother Lucas completed his high school wrestling career Saturday. He fell to eventual 140-pound runner-up Mark Cartella of Clearview by fall in :59. In the first round of the wrestlingbacks, Francavilla fell to Tyler Tisdell of Washington 6-1.

He completed his season with a 26-4 mark, his second district title and a Union County Tournament victory.

"I was hoping to be able to win a match," said Francavilla. "But I was thrilled to get down there. That was my goal and I met it."

"I just wanted to make sure it was a good season and I made the best of it. I thought I had a really good season, overall I thought I wrestled well and did the best I could."

Scotch Plains sophomore Derek Francavilla placed 7th/8th in the state tournament Sunday, finishing the season 32-2.

GEORGE PACCIELLO/RECORD-PRESS

Raiders reached new heights, Devils begin ascent

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood High wrestling team had one of its most successful campaigns in years this winter, while the Westfield squad built a solid foundation to chase such accolades in the future.

The Raiders completed the season with a 14-8 dual meet record, while winning the Watchung Conference for the second time in three years with a perfect 10-0 record, finished third in the Union County Tournament, won their first district tournament team title in 24 years, crowned four district champs, advanced eight wrestlers into the Region 3 tournament and sent two wrestlers to the state finals.

The Blue Devils were much improved this season, finishing with a 10-6 dual meet record, taking fourth in the District 11 tournament, advancing seven underclassmen, including four runner-ups, on to the Region 3 tournament and one into the super-regions.

With graduation leaving some major holes to fill the Raiders have a lot of question marks looking ahead to next winter, while Westfield hopes to build on the momentum of this season and continue to climb the ranks in the county, district and region.

Scotch Plains was led by senior captains Lucas Francavilla (140 pounds) and Matt DeNichilo (145). Francavilla won the Union County Tournament and his second District 11 Tournament while reaching the state finals in Atlantic City. DeNichilo was also a county and district champ and both will be sorely missed by Head Coach Dave Bello next season.

"They're irreplaceable," said Bello. "You couldn't ask for two more remarkable kids. I don't know what I'm going to do without them. They're godsend. They're great leaders, great kids and great wrestlers."

Scotch Plains will also lose seniors Pat Romeo and Tyler Stender to graduation, but bring back a strong corps of underclassmen, beginning with sophomore Derek Francavilla and freshman Stephen Mineo. Francavilla took a 7th/8th place at the state tournament (see above article) and Mineo who won a District 11 title at 112 and was fourth in Region 3.

Sophomore Eric Connolly took second in the district and county tournament and third in the region at 119. Junior Matt Loomis will return after taking second in the district at 215, as will Andrew Loomis, Charlie Bachi and Andrew Silber.

"We're cautiously optimistic about next year," said Bello. "112 to 130 we should be very strong and 160 to heavyweight we're very solid. But we need some people to come in and step up."

Westfield Head Coach Glen Kurz is also looking ahead to next season with cautious optimism. With seven regional qualifiers and four district runner-ups slated to return, the future looks bright for Westfield. But the key will be to make sure the kids not only improve between now and then, but keep the passion for the sport and are as enthusiastic about the season next winter as they were this year.

"We are certainly going in the right direction, but by no means is this where we want to end up," said Kurz the fourth-year coach. "This was the best season since I've been here, but it's not an ending point."

"Up until this point talk of the team and individual state tournaments were unrealistic pipe dreams, but certainly with what we did this year we can think about it more realistically and we have a lot of kids coming back who realize they can be as good as anyone in the area."

Westfield saw its youth movement begin to take hold at the District 11 tournament when freshman Tom DeDuca (130), sophomore Lee Tomasso (140), and juniors Jake Kramer (125) and Dan MacDonald all took second and sophomore Rob Mench and juniors Ethan Powell and Joe DeCampo took third. DeCampo also took third in Region 3.

Westfield will also welcome back Nick Gismondi and Gil Arbatsman, but Kurz will miss the three seniors who are graduating — Chris Gismondi, Mike Barbieri and Eric Gale.

"All three of them are kids who did not come in as freshman with a wrestling background and worked themselves into wrestlers," said Kurz. "They came in with a group of eight or nine who eventually quit, and I give those guys a lot of credit for sticking it out. All three of those guys made contributions this year that will hopefully carry over."

St. Helen's captures OLP tournament title

The St. Helen's 5th/6th grade girls basketball team added to this season's impressive list of accolades by winning the Our Lady of Peace Tournament Friday night in New Providence with a 38-14 victory over Berkeley Heights.

St. Helen's built a 21-10 halftime lead and used its depth at all positions to wear down Berkeley Heights in the second half, outscoring them 17-4.

Stephanie Slodyczka led the way with 13 points and Erin Miller added 11. Allie MacDonald and Danielle Infantino dominated inside, each scoring four points and grabbing 12 rebounds.

Rose Driscoll had two points and six assists, Allison Oberlander had three steals and three rebounds, Nina Brownstone chipped in with two points and excellent defensive pressure and Kate Sheridan and Annie DePalmer helped lead St. Helen's pressing defense.

In the St. Francis Cabrini Tournament Saturday, sixth-seeded St. Helen's knocked off third-seeded Monmouth 28-25 and will take on second-seeded Warren today.

St. Helen's was led by Slodyczka's 14 points and Miller's 10.

Elizabeth Harbaugh and Krissy Wendel each hit clutch foul shots to help St. Helen's hang on for the win.

In the IHM March Madness tournament in Scotch Plains

YOUTH SPORTS

St. Helen's defeated Secaucus 30-26 Sunday to win their pool and advance to single elimination play, avenging a previous loss to Secaucus 24-18 in the IHM preseason tournament and improving their record to 55-8.

It's best just to leave slate floor blank

BY GENE GARY

COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. The floor in our foyer is made of Vermont slate. We are getting ready to put our house on the market, and would like to bring back the slate to a condition as close to the original appearance as possible. What cleaning method would you recommend — it has water marks where we had some plants? We also want to give it a nice shine.
 A. Slate is a hard, dense rock and is known as an easy-to-maintain material. When first installed, it should be protected from stains with a masonry impregnator or sealer, which chemically closes the pores of the stone and hardens the surface. Maintenance should include frequent dusting and damp mopping with a neutral no-rinse cleaner designed for stone.
 Unfortunately, people often wax slate or apply shiny coatings. This will eventually make the flooring look worse, as these waxes and surface coatings do not adhere to this hard, non-porous stone. Such treatments are easily worn off by even light foot traffic. The wearing and scratching of these surface coatings mar the natural appearance of slate.

The use of a stone cleanser or a strong solution of synthetic detergent, spread over the surface and left to stand several minutes prior to rinsing, is a good general cleaner. However, if the surface has been waxed, use a commercial wax removal product to remove all traces of wax.

The removal of chemical water deposits from planters will require a special product such as CLR, available at most supermarkets or hardware stores. Apply to water marks and let stand an hour, then scrub with a stiff bristle brush (do not use a wire brush, which will leave rusting fragments), then wipe dry.

If these cleaning methods fail to clean the surface satisfactorily, clean again scrubbing with a solution of muriatic acid diluted with water. Start with one part muriatic acid to 10 parts water. Stronger solutions up to 50-50, can be applied if necessary.

Use muriatic acid carefully. Pour acid into water to mix the solution, not water into acid. Be careful to avoid splashing and wear eye goggles and gloves for protection. Don't get the solution on surrounding woodwork or walls. One caution: Do not use a vinegar cleaning solution on slate. It will dull the floor overall.

Once clean and dry, the natural appearance of slate, to some eyes, is dull. A masonry impregnated sealer can be used on the stone, but be sure the masonry dealer recommends the product for slate. Unlike Mexican tiles, brick or concrete, slate is non-porous and some sealers are not suitable. Any slate sealer should be applied in thin coats, sparingly brushed on the surface. cabinet installation.

For Hummers, rocks are no obstacles.

Cadillac dealer now carrying line of Hummers

Frank Sassi, president of Royal Cadillac, has announced the recent acquisition of the extremely popular Hummer line of Sport Utility Vehicles.

Sassi's newest automobile offering will share space with his already existing 31,000 square foot, state-of-the-art Cadillac facility.

The all new Royal Cadillac Hummer will offer brand new Hummers, including the all-new H2, a family sport utility vehicle, set to make its debut in June of 2002.

"I'm excited to bring this blend of high line luxury vehicles to the Tri-State area," Sassi recently stated. "I'm confident it is the perfect fit."

Since 1975, Sassi has been a leader in Tri-State's automotive community, offering automobile consumers the finest selection of both new and pre-driven Cadillacs.

Royal Cadillac Hummer is located at 334 Columbia Turnpike, just west of the Livingston Mall in Florham Park

Communication necessary with your mechanic

(NAPSD)-Whatever type of repair facility you patronize - dealership, service station, independent garage, specialty shop or national franchise - good communication between the customer and the shop is vital.

The following tips from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) may help.

Do your homework

Read the owner's manual to learn about the vehicle's systems and components.

Follow the recommended service schedules.

Keep a log of all repairs and service.

You know your car better than anyone else. You know how it feels and sounds when everything is right, so don't ignore its warning signals. Use all of your senses to inspect your car frequently. Check for:

Unusual sounds, odors, drips, leaks, smoke, warning lights, gauge readings.

Changes in acceleration, engine performance, gas mileage, fluid levels.

Worn tires, belts, hoses.

Problems in handling, braking, steering, vibrations.

Note when the problem occurs. Is it constant or periodic? Does it occur when the vehicle is cold or after the engine has warmed up? At all speeds? When accelerating? When braking? When shifting? When did the problem start?

Communicate findings

Professionally run repair establishments, have always recognized the importance of communication in automotive repairs. Be prepared to describe the car's symptoms.

Carry a written list of the symptoms that you can give to the technician or service manager.

Resist the temptation to suggest a specific course of repair. Just as you would with your physician, tell where it hurts and how long it's been that way, but let the technician diagnose and recommend a remedy.

Stay involved

Ask as many questions as you need. Don't be embarrassed.

Don't rush the service writer or technician to make an on-the-spot diagnosis. Ask to be called and apprised of the problem, course of action and costs before work begins.

Before you leave, be sure you understand shop policies regarding labor rates, guarantees and acceptable methods of payment.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) was founded in 1972 as a non-profit, independent organization dedicated to improving the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive professionals. ASE-certified technicians wear blue and white ASE shoulder insignia and carry credentials listing their exact areas of certification. Their employers often display the ASE sign. Visit www.asecert.org for more information and for additional car care tips. Good communication will help you get better automotive service.
