Crackdown ordered on satellite dishes

By TINA PERROTTA
THE RECORD-PRESS

Satellite dishes are sprouting all over and some communities are reacting by limiting their placement and number.

In response to complaints, Kenilworth has recently approved a new code which requires all residents to obtain a permit before installing any dish on their property.

"People were installing satellite dishes all over their houses," said Zoning Enforcement Official Frank Rica. "This just came to light and it's gotten to be a problem," Rica said. "Most of the residents are not aware that we have rules for satellite dishes, they just go ahead and install them."

Rica said some residents were putting more than one dish in various locations on their property including the front of their house.

Kenilworth zoning codes state that there can be no more than one satellite dish per lot and it cannot project more than three feet from a wall or roof surface. The dish cannot face a street.

"The size and shape of satellite dishes present health, safety and aesthetic concerns to the community," the code states.

Rica said satellite dishes have been mounted on the roofs of Kenilworth properties for years and he wants at least some of them moved to back of the roof.

The zoning code states that all satellite dishes must be in the rear yard unless the applicant can prove the unreasonableness of the rear yard location.

Larger satellite dishes, if they pose a health, safety, and aesthetic concerns to the community, must be located in the rear yard and preferably on the ground. The zoning codes limit rooftop locations of satellite dishes to those applicants who are unable to receive satellite signals at other reasonable locations on their property.

The zoning codes are distinct for each community, especially when it comes to the number of dishes a resident can own.

Like Kenilworth, Westfield residents are only allowed to have one satellite dish on their property and the dish must be reviewed and approved by the zoning officer.

The satellite dishes must also be in the rear yard and cannot be mounted on the roof unless it's necessary for reception.

If the satellite is mounted on the roof, it cannot exceed 8 feet in diameter or extend higher than 10 feet above the highest point on the roof.

Cranford residents do not need a permit to own a satellite dish, according to Zoning Officer Judy Brown. But, they do need to have their satellite dish inspected by a Development Review Committee.

Residents are also not allowed to erect any satellite dish larger than 18 inches unless it's on the ground in the rear yard.

"The only ones I see around town are the smaller ones," said Brown.

Township adopts its '02 budget

By THOMAS SCOTT
CORRESPONDENT

SCOTCH PLAINS — The Township Council unanimously adopted its municipal budget last night, which together with the expected school and county components, will mean a $538 property tax increase for the average township home.

The total 2002 budget of $17.9 million represents an increase in spending of $288,382. A public hearing is scheduled for May 14.

The budget would increase the tax rate for local government purposes 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, from $1.01 to $1.06. The $1.06 rate includes the one tax point for the Length of Service Award Program approved by voters in a referendum.

Councilman Frank Rossi reported the net increase, less the 1 point for the award program, would result in a 3.9 percent tax increase on the 2002 budget.

If local voters approve the school budget Tuesday, the tax rate for education will rise 31 tax points from $3.66 per $100 of assessed value to $3.97. The Union County tax rate is expected to go up another 10 tax points, but, Rossi said, that number is not final.

Nearly $800,000 in budget requests were cut by Township Manager Thomas E. Atkins in early budget sessions, but that still left an 8 point increase in 2002.

Voters heading to the polls on Tuesday

Westfield and Scotch Plains-Fanwood voters will decide the fate of school budgets and elect members of their school boards from 2 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

The four candidates seeking one of the three open seats on the Westfield board are incumbent President Arlene Gardner, George Katak, Alice Hunnicutt and William Ziff.

Beginning this weekend and continuing up until Election Day, a broadcast of a taped candidates' forum will be shown on Westfield local cable channel TV36.

The Westfield school budget of $57.8 million includes $1.8 million in debt repayments. This translates into a tax increase of 27 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, meaning a house valued at $180,000, the town average, will pay $487 per year in taxes or $41 more per month.

Eliminated from next year's budget is eighth-grade sports, but not field hockey, which will save $40,000; an elementary teacher; a part-time nurse and cafeteria staff.

In the Scotch Plains-Fanwood district, there are two contestants, incumbent Edward J. Saridaki and Norman "Trip" Whitehouse, vying for the pair of Scotch Plains seats. Susan Dyckman is running unopposed in Fanwood.

The proposed budget is $55.2 million, of which $47.8 million needs voter approval. The taxable portion of the budget is up 6.65 percent and translates to a $354 annual increase for the average home in Scotch Plains, which is assessed at $117,000. In Fanwood, the increase would be $334 on the average home, which is assessed at $83,000.

Eliminated from the Scotch Plains-Fanwood district are six secretarial and classroom aide positions, but no teachers or staff who directly influence class instruction will be cut.

Fanwood mourning Councilwoman Wood

FANWOOD — Carol A. Wood, 57, a Borough Council member, Realtor and officer in many organizations, died Sunday at her home.

She served on the Planning Board, Zoning Board of Adjustment, Board of Health, Community Assessment Committee and Strategic Planning Committee before she was elected to the council in 2000. Mrs. Wood was a past president of the Fanwood-Scotch Plains Rotary Club, which honored her as a Paul Harris Fellow and Volunteer of the Year.

A past president of the Fanwood-Scotch Plains YMCA, Mrs. Wood most recently was its vice president of fund-raising as well as a trustee and a member of the Endowment Committee. She was a member of the Fanwood Republican Club and the 200 Club of Union County.

Mrs. Wood was the vice president of the Century 21 Taylor & Love agency in Westfield. The Million Dollar Club member earned Graduate Realtor Institute and Certified Real Estate Specialist designations from the National Association of Realtors.

The board honored Mrs. Wood as its Realtor of the Year for 1987 and 1993; she served on all board committees and in 1987 received the board's Community Service Award.

Westfield school officials do some spade work on the new three-story science wing at Westfield High School. It's expected that work on the addition will be finished in April, 2003. The $21.5 million cost of the project is covered by the $15 million bond referendum approved by voters in December 2000. The state will pick up the balance.

Teacher award nominations deadline Monday

WESTFIELD The Optimist Club of Westfield must receive nominations for the fifth annual Intermediate School Outstanding Teacher Award by Monday.

Two intermediate schoolteachers — one from Edison and one from Roosevelt — will be chosen to receive the award May 8.

Nominations should specify ways in which the teacher has demonstrated outstanding teaching, interest in children and continued pursuit of professional growth.

The nominee must be a full-time teacher in the Westfield Public Schools in grades 6-8 for a minimum of five years.

Students, parents and staff are encouraged to submit nomination letters to: Outstanding Teacher Award Committee of the Optimist Club of Westfield, Mr. Howard Trickey, President, 803 Dorian Road, Westfield, NJ 07090.

The recipients of the first Outstanding Teacher Award in 1998 were retiring Social Studies teacher, Frank Nolde, of Roosevelt Intermediate School and Robert Sanders, Special Education teacher at Edison Intermediate School. The 1999 award winners were Walter Buda, Social Studies teacher/supervisor at Edison and Roosevelt, and Lynne Gerber, Spanish teacher at Roosevelt Intermediate School.

The winners in 2000 were Thomas Reynolds, Industrial Arts/Technology at Roosevelt and David Shapiro, Instrumental Music teacher at Edison. Last year, Wendy Masteller of Roosevelt and Nancy Rygiel of Edison received the award.

The Optimist award joins other annual recognitions designated for Westfield teachers, including the Rotary Club's Philhower Fellowship presented to an elementary teacher and the following awards created for Westfield High School staff: The Robert and Linda Foote Memorial Award for Excellence in Education, the Distinguished Teacher Award and the Westfield High School Parent Teacher Council Organization Teacher of the Year Award.

Morin decides to bow out of November race

By GREG MARX
THE RECORD-PRESS

CRANFORD — The news at Monday's filing deadline confirmed what had been rumored for weeks: Republican incumbent Phil Morin will not seek re-election to the Township Committee in November.

Morin, 33, is nearing the end of his second term on the committee. He said his decision, which he had been contemplating since January, was influenced by his increasing professional responsibilities.

"I've served for a little over five years and enjoyed my time," said Morin, who works at a Newark law firm. "But the requirements of my job — have increased dramatically. I simply don't have the time to spend to be on top of the issues as I would like to be."

Morin said Republican candidates Ann Darby and Scott Mease, both of whom spend much of their day in town, would be better able to hold the regular meetings with township staff that are essential to the job. He said he may remain involved with the Republican Party on the local level.

"It's time to stop running around to meetings at night and spend some more time with my family," he said. "You have to have that balance."

"It's time to stop running around to meetings at night and spend some more time with my family."

—Commissioner
Phil Morin

Morin's announcement means that neither Republican incumbent will defend his seat this fall. Tom Denny, who remains the Republican Municipal Chairman, said last month he would not seek re-election.

The party endured a bitter internal dispute during 2002 reorganization discussions, but Denny, like Morin, said his decision was influenced by increasing demands at work.

costs and decreased revenues, the council decided to make an additional round of "tough" cuts. Another 3 points were lopped off the budget.

Rossi said the $290,000 cost increases the township faces include hikes in group health insurance of $236,000; fire hydrant service, $25,000; and an increase in the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, $25,000. Lost revenue includes $300,000 due to lower interest rates.

Costs associated with ball fields, recycling, spring cleanup projects for seniors at Scotch Hills, downtown development projects, the library, road programs and pursuing recreation field maintenance and development will remain intact.

Mayor Martin Marks said it was the first time in at least six years that the executive budget had been cut. It "was not a pleasant thing to do, but considering the nature of the times, we had to do it."

County taking aim at pesky mosquitoes

With the warmer daytime temperatures, Union County has begun fighting mosquitoes. The county's efforts will be in vain, however, if property owners do not take steps to eliminate mosquito breeding locations.

Union County Bureau of Mosquito Control, a division of the county's Department of Operational Services, is in charge of the county's efforts to monitor and control mosquitoes. The bureau works to eliminate potential breeding locations and monitors the species and number of mosquitoes found in Union County. There are 63 species of mosquitoes found in the State of New Jersey. About 20 mosquito species call Union County their home. Many mosquito species are known to spread disease, such as West Nile Encephalitis, in humans and animals. Last year, residents in Cranford and Westfield were sickened by West Nile.

Mosquitoes breed in pools of stagnant water and females have a life span of about 2 weeks. Eliminating the places where they breed is the best way to reduce their numbers.

Only female mosquitoes bite. They take blood to feed their developing eggs. They lay eggs in and near stagnant water where the larva develop and live. Each year sees the birth of several generations of most species of mosquitoes.

To monitor the county's mosquito population, Union County maintains 30 light traps (there is at least one in every municipality) where mosquitoes are collected and brought into the lab and identified.

There are several ways residents can help reduce the number of mosquitoes in their yards and communities:

- Dispose of cans, plastic containers, turn over empty flower pots and other containers that hold water, as these are all places mosquitoes breed;
- Remove discarded tires, a favorite breeding place for mosquitoes;
- Drill holes in the bottom of trash cans and recycling containers so they don't hold water;
- Clean roof gutters every year;
- Turn over plastic wading pools when not in use;
- Turn over wheelbarrows;
- Change water in birdbaths every three days;
- Clean and chlorinate swimming pools and remove water that collects on pool covers;
- Use landscaping that eliminates standing water.

The Union County Bureau of Mosquito Control staff can inspect an area within 24 hours of a call. If you have any questions call (908) 654-9834.

Brearley High School will keep block scheduling — for now

By GREG MARX
THE RECORD PRESS

KENILWORTH — The David Brearley High School will keep its current block-scheduling format for next year, after all.

The Board of Education passed a resolution Monday night that directs the district and school administrators and the block scheduling committee to continue to "review the current schedule and explore scheduling options ... that will improve the educational experience of high school students."

Superintendent Lloyd Leschuk and the committee will present those recommendations to the board by November, in an effort to make any changes before the 2003-2004 school year.

The current "four-by-four" format, in which students take four classes for the first half of the year and four for the second half, will remain in place next year. Leschuk said the block scheduling committee will also review whether there are any support programs that can be put in place prior to next year to supplement the current schedule.

The committee will also study the financial impact of any change, he said.

The debate over block scheduling has gone on for more than a year. Parents have repeatedly complained the current schedule harms students by only offering core subjects such as math and English for half a year.

Those frustrations boiled over at the board's March 4 meeting, when Board President George Schlenker criticized administrators for moving slowly to reform the schedule. Schlenker and other board members asked why a change could not be made by the start of school next September.

Following that meeting, Leschuk developed a plan to move next year to an "A/B" block, in which students would take each class every other day for the full year.

But that proposal drew criticism from teachers and students, with some students coming to a board meeting to protest the change. So the board stepped back again, leaving the current schedule in place.

Eventually, Leschuk said, the board will have to decide which of the recommendations of last year's ad hoc committee to accept. That committee recommended English and math classes, and all Advanced Placement classes, be held all year.

"If you accept all those recommendations, the only method that will accommodate them is an 'A/B' block," he said.

November ballot is beginning to take shape

By GREG MARX
THE RECORD PRESS

There won't be any primary races in local towns this year, but every municipal seat will be contested in November's general election.

In Westfield's mayoral race, incumbent Republican Gregory McDermott will be opposed in November by Democratic challenger Thomas Fucillo.

In Ward One of the Town Council, two newcomers will face off in the fall. Sal Caruana filed for the primaries as a Republican, and Mark Kuehn on the Democratic side.

In Ward Two, incumbent Republican Rafael Betancourt will seek re-election. He will be opposed by Democrat David Owens.

In Ward Three, Democratic incumbent Claire Lazarowitz will try for another term; Republican challenger Andy Skibitsky will try to unseat her.

And in Ward Four, incumbent Democrat Lawrence Goldman will go up against Republican Christopher Panagos.

In Scotch Plains, two Republican and one Democratic incumbents will seek re-election to the Township Council. The Republican slate includes incumbents Frank Rossi and Guy Celentano and newcomer Nancy Malool, a former assistant to Assemblyman Alan Augustine.

Scotch Plains Democrats counter with incumbent Geri Samuel and challengers Shelia Ellington and George Gowen.

Though the seats of two Fanwood Borough Council members are expiring, only one incumbent will seek re-election. Republican Stuart Kline will run again, joined on the slate by newcomer Andrew Calamiras.

They will face Democratic challengers Thomas Plante and Jack Molenaar.

Each of the council seats in the three municipalities, and Westfield's mayoral post, are three-year terms.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS MEDICINE

Presented by William Bell, R.P.T.

A REAL PAIN IN THE BEHIND

Piriformis syndrome occurs when the Piriformis muscle in the buttock irritates the sciatic nerve, the long nerve that originates in the spine and runs down the leg. Symptoms include pain in the buttocks, the lower back, and down the back of the thigh. The piriformis is a small muscle located deep in the buttocks that helps rotate the hip. It runs horizontally beneath the gluteal muscles of the buttock, stretching from the lower spine to the femur (thighbone). The sciatic nerve runs vertically and usually passes beneath the piriformis muscle. Sometimes, however, the sciatic nerve goes directly through the piriformis muscle. Piriformis syndrome can develop when the muscle becomes tight or swollen and puts pressure on the sciatic nerve.

If your physician or orthopedist has diagnosed piriformis syndrome, ask if physical therapy can speed up or enhance your recovery. If your physician doesn't think to offer a referral, there is no reason you can't ask if physical therapy would benefit you. Certainly, if your doctor prescribes medical care that fails to provide relief, you should take the initiative in making that request. With your physician's referral, phone BELL REHABILITATION & SPORTS MEDICINE at (908) 272-5955. We are conveniently located at 777 Walnut Ave., Cranford. Most private insurances are accepted. Auto Insurance Claims are our specialty, and we will submit your bills for compensation. No faults & Medicare.

P.S. Any sport that tightens the hamstrings and buttock muscles can cause piriformis syndrome.

Budget data is mailed out

WESTFIELD — The school district has published and mailed its newsletter Emphasis to every town residence. Delivered to households this week, the newsletter contains information about the 2002-2003 school budget. "We've prepared a summary that includes facts, figures, reasons, additions and deletions to the 2002-03 school budget that should help the Westfield voter make an informed decision on Tuesday, April 16," said William Wallace, finance chairman of the Westfield Board of Education.

Also available are copies of the New Jersey School Report Card. This document contains valuable information on each of the nine public schools in Westfield and how they compare with state averages. "Once again, the statistics show that Westfield students are achieving beyond the state average," said Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction Dr. Janie Edmonds.

The data in the New Jersey School Report Card is compiled through the State Department of Education. A New Jersey School Report Card is published for each of the nine schools in the district. One was sent home with every kindergarten through eighth grade student in the Westfield Public Schools. The New Jersey School Report Card for Westfield High School can be obtained in the main office of Westfield High School or in the School/Community Relations office at 302 Elm St.

Commentary

The responsibility for our children

Participation in next Tuesday's school election will be dismal.

According to the New Jersey School Boards Association, voter turnout has gone down consistently in recent years. That's discouraging because in 1996 turnout was only 18 percent.

That's disappointing. At a time when the quality of public education ranks high among the public's concerns, it's puzzling why the turnout is so low.

"Perhaps no where can New Jersey's citizens have a stronger voice in government than in the annual school election," said Patti J. Pawling, president of the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA). "Voters select the men and women who set the policies under which schools operate and who oversee more than $15 billion in expenditures statewide. They also have the opportunity to approve or reject a proposed school district budget."

"But citizens cannot be heard if they don't exercise their right to vote. In the past, too few have taken that opportunity."

Pawling's words should be taken seriously by all New Jersey voters. The biggest chunk of your property bill goes towards public schools; that's why your vote on the budget is so important. And though the state's control of education has increased in recent years, the local school board still has a considerable amount of power in shaping the quality of education in a school district.

If New Jersey voters do not go to the polls next Tuesday, they should not complain and whine about the public school system. By casting a vote, residents can make a positive difference in their communities. The future of the public school system depends on involvement by all members of the community. Whether or not our own children attend school, we share a collective responsibility for all the young people in our towns. That's why we should all vote next Tuesday.

Leave tattling to the children

What have we come to?

In the wake of Sept. 11, don't we have better things to do with our time than rat on our neighbors?

Cranford police have investigated 10 complaints by neighbors against their neighbors. Why? Because the villains were washing their car during a drought emergency. Were the car washers wrong?

Absolutely.

Should they be punished, if they are caught?

Absolutely.

But isn't turning in your neighbor akin to tattling on the classmate who tossed the spitball at the teacher?

The police have better things to do with their time. By all means, if they spot someone violating the drought regulations while they are cruising through the township, they should issue a summons.

But if you see your neighbor doing a no-no, talk to him. Maybe he honestly doesn't know he is violating the law. If he does know and doesn't care, say a prayer for him.

But don't be a snitch.

Jersey Boy

Mike Deak

I don't vote in school elections

I'm not going to vote in this month's school election.

I'm not apathetic. In fact, I probably care more for the education of our children than many of the people who will be voting.

I'm not going to vote because I don't want to participate in a system that is grossly unfair and ridiculously inefficient.

The funding of public schools in New Jersey is morally and politically unjust. The reliance on property taxes and a state aid formula only a bureaucrat can love has created severe imbalances in the quality of public schools from community to community.

No matter how many compensating allowances are made, it is still unfair that more affluent communities like Bedminster and Bridgewater have lower property tax rates than middle class communities like Somerville, Bound Brook and South Bound Brook. Bridgewater and Bedminster property taxpayers are blessed by the fates that brought to their municipalities, respectively, The Commons and AT&T, because these townships had loads of open space and easy access to highways, they were able to attract the big ratables that expanded the property tax base as the cost of education began to skyrocket in the 1980s. But older communities such as Somerville and Bound Brook have little land left to develop, so the property tax burden falls squarely on the shoulders of the homeowner, not a corporate giant. Unfortunately, the cost of education in the older towns is not necessarily any lower; the children in those communities may need more special programs, such as English as a Second Language. School districts are also burdened with having to include more and more state mandates in the curriculum; did you know, for example, the state Assembly has passed bills requiring gambling discipline and breast self-examination to be included in the state's core curriculum. And teacher salaries are negotiated based on the averages of salaries in other districts. That means salaries in South Bound Brook are somehow related to the salaries in Bedminster. Is that fair? The simple solution, which would solicit howls of protest from every special interest involved in the public school system, is to pay teachers throughout the state based on a single contract and a single salary guide. A fourth-grade teacher with a masters degree and 15 years experience should receive the same salary either in the East Orange or Branchburg school district.

Of course that's never going to happen. There are too many school districts in New Jersey, each with its own board of education and multiple unions. It would make sense, both fiscally and academically, to consolidate school districts, but this rational and reasonable option often falls victim to chauvinism, sentiment and arrogance. (Just think of the savings - only one football field to maintain!) But the state does not make easy to regionalize because of the inequalities in property taxes; somebody is bound to lose money on the deal. It's time to conclude somewhat reluctantly that as long as public school funding is based on property taxes, regionalization will never gain credibility as a viable option.

Another reason I'm not voting in this month's election is the double standard unjustly placed on school boards. While the school budget has to face judgment by the voters, the municipal budget escapes untouched by the general public. When a new school is proposed, voters must pass a bond issue. But if a new police headquarters is proposed no referendum is needed. Either both school and municipal budgets are placed before the voters or neither are.

I would participate in this month's election if I had the chance to vote on both the school and municipal budget; that seems fair to me.

Letters to the editor

Superintendent urges all to vote

To The Record-Press:

The annual school election is scheduled for Tuesday, April 16. The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Board of Education, after scrutinizing every area of district spending, has completed the difficult task of building the 2002-2003 school budget that will be put before the voters. While our primary focus is always the instructional needs of our students, severe constraints on outside revenues and the concerns of local taxpayer were also considered. More than $1.6 million dollars was cut from spending proposals during the deliberation process, including current staff positions and some existing programs, to bring the budget below state limits. The budget that is being proposed will allow us to maintain appropriate class sizes and add programs that are required by the state or are necessary to meet student needs. The budget will also allow us to continue our efforts in staff development, program evaluation, and curriculum improvement. The current instructional staff will be maintained next year and new staff will be added because of the move of the fifth grades into the middle schools and because enrollments are expected to continue increasing at the middle and high school levels. The proposed spending plan allows the district to meet its instructional goals in all the core content areas and also provides for the purchase of needed texts and materials. The elementary world language program will be expanded. Advanced Placement materials will be purchased, and continuing technology needs will be addressed. Multiyear plans for the replacement and repair of music and athletic equipment will continue. Special education costs, which are difficult to predict from year to year, will continue to increase and major cost increases for employee health benefits are anticipated.

On the revenue side, the state has frozen education aid at current levels, in effect reducing anticipated revenues by about $600,000. While we continue to seek grant funds from a variety of sources, such funds are extremely limited for districts such as ours. We are continuing our efforts to rebuild a fiscally responsible free balance of about 3 percent of the general operating budget, so no free balance has been applied to the proposed budget. In particular, the Board of Education has been ever mindful that local taxes for debt service will increase in the coming year as the full effect of recently approved bond referendums is realized.

In my experience, Scotch Plains and Fanwood are communities of hardworking people who are dedicated to providing a solid educational foundation for their children in a climate of high expectations and support. The 4,800 children in our local public schools continue to make us proud by their accomplishments that continually distinguish them and our communities in the surrounding area, the state, and even the nation.

No one should underestimate the importance of every vote in the school election on April 16. Voting, not flag waving, is what sets us apart as a democratic nation. To help residents cast informed votes, budget information is available via SP-F TV-34 and on the district's website, www.spfk12.org. The district newsletter, Perspective, should have arrived in local homes already. Specific voter questions can be answered via the budget hot line at (908) 889-9665.

I urge all eligible Scotch Plains and Fanwood residents to vote on April 16!

PTA Council backs school budget

To The Record-Press:

On behalf of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood PTA Council I'd like to pledge our endorsement of the school budget. We urge all members of the community to come out on April 16th and vote YES. Polls will be open from 2-9 p.m.

Enhancements in the 2002-2003 spending plan include additional new staff positions (to keep up with our rising student population), new textbooks, supplies and instructional materials at all levels and additional funds for technology.

We cannot afford a "no" vote for our students. Our community has shown that they value public education. Fixed costs are having a significant impact on the budget. Like many of our own budgets, the public schools face rising costs in utilities and health benefits.

It is critical that all voters cast a "YES" vote to ensure that all children continue to benefit from these essential educational incentives.

Sunday sports decried by clergy

To The Record-Press:

We, the undersigned senior clergy of the Westfield interfaith congregations, wish to express our concerns about sports activities which are scheduled on Sundays. For many years sports organizations avoided scheduling sports activities on Sundays out of respect for religious observances and educational programs. Unfortunately, with the increasing interest in sports and secularization of our culture, this no longer seems to be a consideration.

Sunday morning sports events and practices (and even those scheduled early afternoon out of town) conflict with religious education opportunities at all houses of worship in Westfield. Additionally, they conflict with primary worship opportunities at most churches. It is wrong to force children and their families to choose between enriching one's religious life and participating in sports.

Many would agree that our culture benefits greatly from the moral and ethical development of children and their families that comes from involvement in religious instruction and worship. Since both religious activities and recreational activities contribute to the overall well-being of our community, we should not compete for the allocation of such a precious commodity — our time.

We urge all sports programs in Westfield to make every attempt to avoid scheduling activities at times on Sundays that will cause a conflict between religious programming and recreational activities. Together we can enhance and improve the quality of our life in our community.

Cranford cop cars damaged after high-speed Rt. 22 chase

CRANFORD — A Hillside man was arrested Friday after leading two Cranford officers on a high-speed chase into Newark that ended when both police cars crashed.

Police pulled over Hillside resident Douglas Kennedy, 24, at 3:30 p.m. April 4 on the northbound Garden State Parkway. While Officer Derek Farbanec reviewed Kennedy's license and registration, the driver took off down the highway.

Kennedy and Officer Tom Bell followed as Kennedy drove east on Route 22 into Newark. The pursuit ended when the police cars each crashed while exiting the highway onto a local street.

Kennedy was arrested at his home the next day by two Cranford detectives. He was charged with eluding, reckless driving, and driving with a suspended license. He was taken to the Union County Jail on $6,500 cash bail.

No one was injured in the accident. Each police car sustained over $5,000 in damage to the front end, a police spokesman said.

Oriental Bittersweet is an invasive woody vine that strangles trees and shrubs along the Rahway River. Master Gardeners are working to root out the vine.

Invasive plants target of Master Gardeners

CRANFORD — Native plants along the Rahway River will get a boost from the Master Gardeners of Union County this month.

Sixty Master Gardeners from all over the county will bring their pruning tools, shovels and rakes to the park on Springfield Avenue next to the historic Hanson House on Tuesday.

The volunteer gardeners will remove invasive plants that are choking out native plants. At the same time they will prune and mulch native plants to encourage their growth and increase their ability to prevent erosion by holding down soil on the riverbank.

The parkland slated for restoration is divided between Union County and Cranford. The county owns the area along the bank of the river. This area, known as the Rahway River Parkway, Cranford Section, is kept natural and wild to preserve a piece of what Cranford was like before development.

Development has brought plants that were imported from Asia. With the help of birds and other wildlife, as well as their own vigorous growing abilities, these plants have moved from gardens into the wild, overtaking native plants. One such imported plant, Oriental bittersweet, is a woody vine that climbs into the tree canopy blocking the sun. It is an aggressive climber and its rapidly growing stems twine around other plants, strangling them.

Another import, Japanese honeysuckle is enjoyed for its flowers and perfume, but spreads rapidly and quickly engulfs small trees and shrubs.

Japanese knotweed, another invasive, is so hardy that a piece of it floating down the river can take root downstream. The Master Gardeners will work to combat these invasive plants in the Rahway River Parkway, keeping them under control while native plants grow and take hold.

Native plants have been reintroduced to the park by Union County over the past few years. These include pussy willow, silky dogwood, common highbush blueberry, flowering dogwood and common winterberry holly.

The Master Gardener program is an educational program of the Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County. Rutgers Cooperative Extension educational programs are offered to all without regard to race, religion, color, age, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or marital or family status.

For more information on the Master Gardener program or help identifying invasive plants, call the Union County Master Gardener Helpline, (908) 654-9852.

Westfielders serious about fresh veggies

By CANDACE WALLER
CORRESPONDENT

WESTFIELD — Neither the drought, thieves, marauding deer and rabbits, nor pesky insects will stop the growers in the Westfield Share Gardens. The organization that started as an idea in 1974 with the first crop in the spring of 1975 continues to overcome these hardships.

Jim Forgas, president of the Westfield Share Gardens, said that the group is creative in conserving resources. Each plot is 25 feet by 25 feet and costs $25, this fee includes water.

"We've gone through droughts before and it is usually not a problem because we hand water," Forgas said.

"Only about 30 percent of the water gets to the ground when you use a sprinkler. Hand watering gets more of the water to the roots. According to Elizabethtown Water Co. watering the plants are not a problem."

Still some members are taking extra precautions. Patricia Cheeks said she is using drought-resistant seeds. Other members are using mulch and grass clippings to retain moisture in the soil.

"I grow organic," said Cheeks who is in her third year of the program. "It's exciting and different every year. The best thing is when I pick the crop. There's nothing better than fresh-picked raspberries. Many of the fruits and vegetables don't make it home."

Many of the growers have started their seeds in the basement and will put them in the ground in the upcoming weeks. Growers have their favorite plants.

Some of these plants include zucchini, tomatoes, onion, leeks, various squashes, strawberries, raspberries, various herbs, collard greens, radishes, peas, Swiss chard, cucumbers, spinach, broccoli and cauliflower.

Lauramae Cutler, a retiree, is one of the original members. She said that she enjoys the camaraderie with the other growers.

"I like gardening. I grew up on a farm in Ohio," Cutler said. "We like to talk to the other people. The friendships have grown over the years. It's sort of a social club."

Other growers said that working in the soil brings back fond memories. David Sidaway from South Africa says he works on his four plots 2-3 times a week.

"I just like being down there. I find it fulfilling," said Sidaway who is growing Genn Squash that he brought from South Africa. "The people are terrific. We help each other out and trade ideas. The place is great if you are a bird or animal watcher. I get quite a kick out of watching the wildlife."

That same wildlife can test the survival of the plants. Rabbits, mice, ground hogs and birds enjoy eating the produce and seeds. Growers put up fences, plastic and traps to protect their plants. There is also the problem of weeds.

"You have to go out there at least twice a week to fight the weeds," said Tibor Pavleszek who starts his own seeds and last year grew an 11-lb pound cabbage. "I always had a garden while growing up. I studied botany in school and always fooled around with plants. Gardening is in my blood."

Forgas said the group is always looking for new gardeners to replace those that have retired or moved away. Members are from Westfield and neighboring towns. You can contact Forgas at 232-6365 for more information about this group.

Let's Ask Jill

by Jill Guzman

CLOSE CALL

Homebuyers may try to convince themselves that making a local move only requires a few trips in their minivans. The fact is, however, that a local move requires the use of a professional mover every bit as much as a longer move because people often delude themselves into thinking that they have fewer possessions than they actually have. Moreover, regardless of the length of the move, the services of a moving company are required for packing and safeguarding against damage and loss. Most of all, nearly all furniture is heavy and bulky, requiring experienced, brawny individuals to lift and protect it. In the final analysis, moving is an arduous process that is best undertaken by professional movers.

When it is time to hire a mover, if you are uncertain about whom to call, ask the real estate professional who sold your home or helped you purchase the new property. He or she is a valuable resource. Real estate agents deal with so many people in transit, they hear which companies have solid reputations and with which their clients have had difficulties. When you are ready to buy or sell real estate, call JILL GUZMAN REALTY. "Our success stories are never ending." Look for our homes daily.

Jill Guzman has achieved the ultimate distinction of being among the TOP 1% of more than (approx.) 7,040 Active Real Estate Professionals by units of listings sold in the year 2000!

HINT: A local move can be more difficult than a cross-country move if you try to do it yourself and make numerous trips without taking scrupulous care of your possessions.

Firing on all cylinders

Balanced Blue Devils off to impressive start

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

In a 14-9 victory over Pingry Tuesday the Westfield High girls lacrosse team showed the vast amount of talent and potential it has, and why its sights are set as high as any team in the program's six year history.

Senior Brittany Miller scored five-straight second-half goals, Ali Pino had three goals and five assists and goalie Julie Vanarelli stopped 12 shots as Westfield led throughout and played its best all-around game of the young season, and the type of lacrosse which could become a staple for the rest of the year.

In slaying a foe it hadn't beaten in three years, the Blue Devils (3-0) proved they have what it takes to be the best team in the program's six year history. Westfield is experienced and talented on offense, defense and everywhere in between.

"They we're phenomenal (Tuesday)," said Head Coach Erin O'Connell. "The girls played beautifully. It was a complete effort. The defense was really strong and the attackers turned it on in the second half."

It's the balance and the talent the squad has all over the field that has the Blue Devils confident they can surpass last year's 8-8 mark and first round exit in the state tournament. Pingry is traditionally a tough team, and Tuesday's convincing victory proves Westfield is a force to be reckoned with this season.

The Blue Devils face two difficult road tests back-to-back in Bridgewater-Raritan 11 a.m. tomorrow and Oak Knoll 4 p.m. Tuesday. B-R, a North Public A finalist last year, has gotten off to a 4-0 start and is considered among the state's top clubs.

Westfield is led by senior tri-captain Morgan Lang, who has scored 11 goals from the center position and senior first-home Miller, last year's leading scorer, who has tallied 10 goals and one assist. Pino (8 G) starts at second-home and Stacy Spass (1 G, 1 A) is at third home. Freshman phenom Sara Flood (4 G, 2 A) and Kristen Pollock (2 G, 3 A) are the attack wings.

Ashley Kent (5 G, 2 A) is at right-defense with Lisa Paul at left-defense. Christine Pirot plays third-man, Christina Popola plays cover point and third-man, senior tri-captain Elyse Goldweitz is at point and Vanarelli (27 saves) is in goal. Jenny Hayes plays low-d but had to sit out Tuesday with inflammation in her knee, but is expected to be in the lineup tomorrow.

Providing depth off the bench are senior tri-captain Liz Pirrella, Mollie Gibbons and Ali Weinstein on defense and Heather Lane and sophomore Laura Shelman on attack.

"If (Tuesday) is any sign of what the season is going to be like we'll be balanced from attack to defense," said O'Connell. "Everyone is trusting one another. If you trust each other everything connects. Our balance is the key this year. We're strong all over the field and we don't have to rely on just one person."

With Williams leading the way, Raiders are loaded

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

Depth wins conference, county and sectional titles. Superstars win group championships. The Raiders have both.

With All-American Ray Williams leading the way the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High boys track and field team has its sights set on not only an undefeated dual meet season and a sweep of the Watchung Conference and Union County titles, but it's ninth sectional title in 10 years and second Group 3 title since 1998.

But Williams isn't the only superstar on the squad this season. With Bob Wallden and Zack McGuire anchoring the distance team, and Chris Feighner taking charge in the field and enough quality depth in all areas the Raiders are, quite simply, loaded.

Williams, last year's 400 meter Meet of Champions winner, is not only chasing the New Jersey High School record of 46.0 in the 400, but could earn berths at the MOC in the 100, 200 and long jump as well. Williams ran a 47.3 against Westfield Tuesday, already a full-second lower from where he began last season, when his best was a 47.1. He's been clocked at 21.2 in the 200 — already better than last year's best — and 10.3 in the 100. He's also long jumped just over 21 feet.

Track and Field

Feighner reached the MOC in the shot put last year, and again this winter and should make it back this spring. Wallden took fifth in Group 3 in the two-mile last year, and is the top two-mile miler in the county. McGuire is coming on as a superstar in the 800.

Williams alone could score close to 40 points for the Raiders in the conference, county and sectional championships when it usually takes between 70-85 points to win. He could score between 30 and 40 at the Group 3 championships, when typically 50-55 is needed. Add in potential victories by Wallden, Feighner and McGuire and the Raiders fearsome-foursome could win team titles on their own.

But they also won't have to. Brian Kopnicki provides quality depth in the mile and two-mile, Sean Doyle can score in the shot put, Adam Ortyl will place in the javelin and JP Rebeck adds depth in the sprints. Scotch Plains will also be strong in the jumps, behind sophomore Mike Walker and seniors Steve Williams and Brian Schiller.

"We're looking pretty strong," said Head Coach Rich McGriff. "We've got some superstars but we've also got kids behind them who can take thirds, fourths, and fifths. People sometimes forget about the guys we have behind (Williams, Feighner, Wallden and McGuire)."

Raiders get out of the gate quickly

Young squad posts three impressive victories in first week

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

A young Scotch Plains-Fanwood High tennis team has gotten off to a fast start, fueling hopes it can surpass the success of last year's veteran squad.

The Raiders opened the season winning three of four matches, falling only to Westfield 5-0 Monday. Westfield and Summit have separated themselves early in the year from the other teams in Union County, but Scotch Plains hopes to finish in the top-three when the tournament rolls around May 2-3.

Scotch Plains took on Linden Wednesday and will host Shabazz 4 p.m. today. The three victories this season have come over strong squads from Oratory and Cranford, and a win over Irvington.

"I'm pretty pleased with the way we've been playing," said Head Coach Dave Blackman. "We're a young team and we knew Westfield would be a tough match, but we beat a tough Oratory team 4-1 and a pretty good Cranford team 4-1. I feel pretty good about starting 3-1."

Last season the Raiders finished

19-6, reached the North Jersey Section 2 Group 3 semifinals and tied for fourth in the Union County Tournament. Despite losing four starters and the top two players off the bench to graduation, Blackman feels good about the chances of this year's team to be as good and potentially better.

"You always compare yourself to last year's team and I expect we will be able to do just as well," he said. "This is the youngest team I think I've had in 16 years of coaching. As they pick up experience I expect to see them get improve, especially the doubles teams."

The young squad is led by senior captain Terry Levine, who moves up from playing third-singles and some first-doubles to the top singles spot this year. He's started the season 1-3, but has faced some strong competition.

"He's finding out every team we play, no matter how the team is, they all have a strong number-one," said Blackman. "He's jumped all the way from second-doubles to second singles this year, and has started the season 3-1, his only loss coming 6-3, 6-4 to Westfield's Rich Moran.

"He's a real smart player," said Blackman. "He keeps the ball in play, can serve and volley. He's tough to beat. He's got a lot of maturity for a sophomore."

Senior Josh Sanders has moved up from first doubles to third singles and is 3-1 so far. Like Thompson, Sanders will keep the ball in play, make his opponent work and won't beat himself with unforced errors.

"He's a very, very steady player," said Blackman. "He's real good with the forehand and the backhand and doesn't make too many mistakes. He's going to be a tough kid to beat at the three-spot for the rest of the teams we play this season."

The first doubles tandem typ-

got pretty good ground strokes from both the forehand and backhand."

Sophomore Mike Thompson has

"He's a real smart player," said Blackman. "He keeps the ball in play, can serve and volley. He's tough to beat. He's got a lot of maturity for a sophomore."

Senior Josh Sanders has moved up from first doubles to third singles and is 3-1 so far. Like Thompson, Sanders will keep the ball in play, make his opponent work and won't beat himself with unforced errors.

"He's a very, very steady player," said Blackman. "He's real good with the forehand and the backhand and doesn't make too many mistakes. He's going to be a tough kid to beat at the three-spot for the rest of the teams we play this season."

The first doubles tandem typifies Scotch Plains' youth, with sophomore Adam Corbin and freshman Jason Krueger both in their first year with the varsity. The two demonstrated their toughness against Oratory when they rallied back from a 5-2 third set deficit to win 7-5.

"They're both good players and work well together," said Blackman. "They have to get used to playing in varsity matches, but I expect good things out of them."

Blackman has been rotating three players in at second doubles, with junior Simon Poplyansky splitting time with seniors Jesse Rogowsky and Harry Yang.

"They compliment each other well," said Blackman. "Harry is the best serve-and-volleyer. Jesse is the best at the net and is very aggressive and Simon has the best ground strokes."

As the two doubles squads gain familiarity with each other, Blackman expects both to be tough to beat.

If the doubles teams begin to win on a consistent basis, there's no reason this group of Raiders can't reach new heights this spring.

Cranford shocks Blue Devils with six-run seventh

By DANIEL MURPHY
RECORD-PRESS

CRANFORD — Just three outs away from an important early season victory, the Westfield High baseball team let a seemingly insurmountable lead slip away and suffered a heartbreaking defeat Monday.

Cranford's Dave Drechsel lined a two-out two-run single to right center field and Derek Zulik slid in just ahead of the tag at home plate in the bottom of the seventh to cap a six-run rally and lift Cranford to a 9-8 victory over the Blue Devils (2-1) in a showdown between the three-time defending county champ and a team with its sights set on claiming the title this year.

Cranford (2-1) sent 10 batters to the plate in the seventh but Drechsel's game-winning single was only the second hit of the inning for the Cougars. Westfield's Joe Wosniewski (1-1) struggled with his control in relief of Jay Cook, hitting four batters in the inning and walking two.

While both clubs realized it was just one game early in a long season, Cranford's jubilant celebration behind home plate and the shell-shocked faces of the Westfield players showed there was more riding on this game than just a win and a loss. The two clubs aren't scheduled to meet again until May 20, though they could meet beforehand in the Union County Tournament.

"It's early in the season so you hope you can learn from it," said Westfield Head Coach Bob Brewster. "It's not the first time Cranford has beaten us with a big rally in the last inning. They don't know how to quit. I give them all the credit in the world. You can't take anything away from them."

"The bottom line is it was an 'L'. It's not good at all to lose a ball game you know you should have been able to win."

Drechsel finished the game 3-for-4 with three runs scored and two RBI and Cook was 3-for-4 with an RBI and two runs scored. While Westfield turned two double-plays and threw three runners out at the plate it was a sloppy defensive effort by both clubs, with each squad committing five errors.

For most of the game

Westfield was in control. Cranford jumped out to a 2-0 lead after two innings, but Westfield came back with three in the third. Cranford added another run in the bottom of the third, but it seemed like only a matter of time before the hot-hitting Blue Devils began to string together some hits.

It happened in the fifth inning when Mike Sofka and Cook led off with a pair of singles. Blair Richardson singled home Sofka, John Leonardis reached on an error, Manny Guasp singled home Cook, and Brett Picaro singled home Leonardis for a 7-3 Westfield lead.

Jim McKeon led off the sixth with a triple and was singled home by Cook for an 8-3 lead. But the play of the game may have been when Josh Ludner grounded to short and Cook was injured at second base breaking up the potential double play. Cook, who appeared to be hitting his groove after a slow start, came out to warm up in the bottom of the sixth, but couldn't go and Wosniewski came on.

In the bottom of the seventh Drechsel led off and was hit by a pitch, Jim Zamorski reached on an error, Matt Wilson and Sam Chaleef were hit by pitches, forcing home Drechsel, Mike Dollard popped to second, Steve Copeland walked scoring Zamorski, Brian Reid was hit by a pitch 's score Wilson, and Zulick walked to bring home Chaleef to cut the lead to 8-7.

Zack Bribiesca bloomed a single into no-man's land behind first base, but Picaro was able to cut Copeland down at the plate for the second out. Then Drechsel singled through the middle, scoring Reid and Zulick with the tying and winning runs.

"It's game three. It's a nice win," said Cranford Head Coach Dennis McCaffery. "Hopefully we would never think we're out of a game. Baseball is a wacky game and you can never think you're out of any game. It's very important to believe that."

"We talk about just giving yourself a chance to win and minimizing your own mistakes, which is something we have to work on. We gave them too many chances and they're too good of a team to give them as many chances as we did."

MacNeil earns MVP honors as Devils take second

Freshman Emily MacNeil captured the meet MVP award after leading the Westfield High girls track team to an impressive second place performance at the 26th Kearny Relays Saturday.

MacNeil ran a 2:21.9 split to lead the two-mile relay team to victory and a 2:31.1 split on the 880 leg of the first place distance medley team as Westfield finished second in the Division 2 with 34 points.

Westfield also took third in both the 440 yard relay (53.20) and the shuttle hurdles (1:19.50), and sixth in the 880-yard relay (1:52.6), and the team intermediate hurdles (4:04.80).

The boys squad also had a strong performance, tying for fifth with 40 points. Westfield took second in the team long jump (39-4 3/4) and third in the team high jump at 11-4, behind a personal best of 6-4 by Adam Wendel. Westfield also tied for second in the 440-yard relay (44.90) and the 880-yard relay (1:34.5), third in the one-mile relay (3:34.5), fourth in the team pole vault (19-6), and fifth in both the two-mile relay (8:46.6) and team discuss (212-2).

Murphy beds, once a source of amusement in old movies, may be returning.

Old-fashioned Murphy beds may be returning

BY ROSE BENNETT GILBERT
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Whatever happened to Murphy beds? They used to show up sometimes in the movies or on TV when Charlie Chaplin or somebody would get snapped up into the wall. My uncle had a fold-down bed that I thought was totally cool as a child. I loved the idea of putting the bed up out of the way and having all that room space. You didn't even have to make up the bed! I've been thinking about Murphy beds lately and wonder if they are still available.

A. Murphy beds are alive, well, and living up against some of the smartest walls around these days. At least, what we know generically as a "Murphy" bed is actually enjoying a comeback. In fact, I understand that the presto-change-o bed patented by William L. Murphy back in 1908 has now come into the public domain, so you may find the idea reinterpreted under different names and in many new and newsworthy materials.

It's a better than ever bet for any room that's starved for floor space by day, especially with some many of us desperate for a home office. The perfect case in point is the instant guestroom we show here. For 9 to 5 on weekdays, it hums along as a well-equipped, highly efficient home office. But at the drop of an invitation, the room morphs into comfortable, graceful accommodations for overnight guests, all thanks to the so-called Murphy bed that spends the business week up against the wall, literally. This photo, borrowed from Better Homes and Gardens' "Bed & Bath Decorating Ideas & Projects" (Meredith Books), shows how you can make "instant hospitality" even faster: pull down the bed and the poster's already hung in place.

Q. There's never enough storage space in our apartment. We have a sleeper in the living room so at least we can have overnight guests, but with the new baby and all her stuff, there's no place to stash the extra covers and linens. My husband thinks we should buy a quilt and just hang it on the wall until we need it. Think of something else!

A. The right hamper can, well, unhamper your space. Chances are your local furniture store can track down a storage ottoman for you, the larger the better. Such ottomans open to offer generous hidden storage inside. Plus, they're usually on small wheels so you can roll it where you need it, then out of the way. Buy it in a durable fabric, like leather, or have it upholstered to work with your sofa fabric. If your guest room needs are infrequent, you might also have a glass top cut to fit, the better to work as a cocktail table. Trade the storage ottoman for your usual cocktail table, and no one will guess it's chock full of company linens. At least, not until bedtime.

There's a whole lot to cover with paint

BY GENE GARY
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. You often say "use quality paints only" in your column. I am faced with major repainting, both interior and exterior, of an older home with wood siding and brick trim. Would you clarify what you mean by quality paints? Does it just mean more expensive?

A. Yours is a good question. Paint dealers who cater to professionals as well as do-it-yourselfers are usually a reliable source of information on paint quality and the type of paint recommended for different interior and exterior surfaces — such as masonry, wood, aluminum and vinyl.

It is more difficult to select the appropriate paint when you buy off the shelf without professional guidance. However, an excellent source of information is available from The Rom and Haas Paint Quality Institute.

All paints, oil-based and latex, are made of three main components: binders, pigments, and liquids. They can also contain other ingredients, which are known as additives.

Binder is the key to paint formulation. The type and amount of binder affects everything from stain resistance and gloss, to adhesion and crack resistance. Latex paints use several polymer binders, including: One hundred percent acrylic, styrene-acrylic, vinyl acrylic or polyvinyl acetate.

Oil paints use a binder based on a drying oil such as linseed, tung or soya. Paints that use some other modified oil are called alkyds.

In general, latex paints have better exterior durability than oil-based or alkyd paints. They have better color retention, chalk resistance and resistance to embrittlement and cracking. Higher quality latex paints have greater durability and other performance advantages over lower quality latex paints — mostly due to the type and amount of acrylic binder used.

Quality paints with 100 percent acrylic binders are especially durable. They adhere to many different surfaces, such as wood, masonry, aluminum siding and vinyl siding. These all-acrylic paints are more durable than latex paints with vinyl binders on fresh masonry surfaces.

Other paints will show early color loss and film deterioration while 100 percent acrylic latex paints are resistant to the effects of alkaline surfaces.

Pigments are fine particles that are dispersed in a paint. "Prime" pigments provide color and opacity (opaque coverage). The most common prime pigment is titanium dioxide, which is white. It is used in latex and oil-based paints.

"Extender" pigments provide bulk to paint at a low cost. These pigments influence properties such as scrub-resistance, stain-resistance and chalk-resistance. The better the quality of the paint, the higher level of prime pigment is used.

Better quality paints have less extender pigment in relation to binder level. This makes them more chalk-resistant on exterior exposure, providing better color retention and durability.

Though all paints will eventually fade, the rate of fade will be much lower with better quality paints.

Additives are performance-enhancing ingredients that are typically added to top quality paints more than to ordinary paints. Additives provide desirable properties such as ease of application and the appearance of the applied paint. Some also have protective qualities.

Mildewicides are a category of additives used in exterior paints to keep mildew in check so that the paint looks fresh and attractive. These ingredients are expensive, hence, high levels are found in high quality paints.

Some other additives used in latex paints are: dispersing agents (to help the pigment remain evenly distributed throughout the paint, rather than settling); preservatives (to prevent spoilage of the paint during storage); materials to minimize foaming during manufacturing and application.

The liquid portion of the paint is either water (for latex paints) or solvent (for oil-based or alkyd paints). A can of quality paint will contain a higher volume of solid material (pigment and binder) than do ordinary paints. In the case of top quality latex paints, that means more solids and less water. Therefore, if a top quality paint and an ordinary paint were applied at the same spread rate, the top quality paint would dry to a thicker paint film due to its high solids content.

A top quality paint will contain 35 to 45 percent volume solids, while ordinary paint will contain about 25 to 30 percent. Regardless of the quality of paint you use, key factors to durability of a paint job are proper preparation of the surface and use of recommended primers.

Surface preparation means the removal of all flaking and peeling paint, correction of any moisture problems which might be present from a leaking attic or faulty gutters, etc., binders for chalking paint if needed, and a clean, thoroughly dry surface before application.

Information on how to deal with specific paint problems are available on the Web site of the Paint Quality Institute. You can also E-mail the institute with specific questions if the information is not covered on the Web site. Contact the Institute at www.paintquality.com.

The Envoy may be true professional

BY MARK MAYNARD
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

GMC has said for years that it is different from Chevrolet. "It's more than adding a big red GMC in the grille," they'd say.

But, really, the biggest differences were in the advertising. GMC appeared to be a step up with more and varied option groups.

Under the skin, however, the foundation for a GMC was a Chevrolet, which hasn't always been easy to up-fit as an upscale vehicle.

At least until this year and the redesign of GM's midsize sport-utilities Chevy Trailblazer, GMC Envoy and the retiring Oldsmobile Bravada.

Finally, GMC can build a more refined sport-utility vehicle because the foundation of the Trailblazer is so well-done.

"Smooth and refined" are sometimes bipolar terms for a General Motors truck, but the Envoy is a good mediator in that argument.

There's a lot of talk about building SUVs that have truck appeal and carlike accommodations, but there's usually a bump in the translation.

I didn't feel it in the Envoy. And it even brings a new smoothness and ease of use to a mid-$30,000s sport-utility vehicle. It's as if there has been dedicated effort to close the gap — literally — in the quality of GM's truck-assembly process.

As the icon of GMC's ad campaign: "Professional Grade," the Envoy relies on good, strong engineering — not option package gimmicks. The truck is a balance of horsepower and horse sense, with some of the best acceleration and braking of any SUV.

And it only takes a few minutes behind the wheel to recognize the GMC's Envoy is a first-class SUV.

Envoy's virtues — and a problem or two. And even the problems I noticed were not fatal design flaws but glitches that should be easily corrected.

The Envoy/Trailblazer is state-of-the-art for GM, including the new 270-horsepower inline-6 engine. That's 30 more hp than the 4.6-liter V-8 in the Mercury Mountaineer. And the engine has all the pull of 8 cylinders and a well-milled engine note.

Switching from V-6 to inline-6 produced a couple of significant benefits. An inline-6 doesn't vibrate as much and allows for a 53/47 front-to-rear balance. The narrower engine also improves offset crash results.

"All the latest engine technology in the world has gone into this engine," says engineer Ted Robertson. The engine uses drive-by-wire throttle and the onboard computers will handle 43,000 commands a second.

It has undergone 4 million miles of testing on a dynamometer and it was run at wide open throttle for 300,000 miles. At 70 mph, it will accelerate up a grade pulling a 6,000-pound trailer, Robertson says.

Still, fuel mileage is a modest 16 mpg city and 22 highway, using regular unleaded. But the human factor of the Envoy's usability should smooth over credit card gouge at the pump.

Envoy has a low center of gravity and a suspension that supports and forgives, with surprisingly little body roll. Several times I turned hard and held on — waiting for the spring rebound that tosses occupants back and forth like a camel ride, but it didn't happen. So I pushed harder into the turns just to feel the suspension work. Engineer Robertson says he designed the truck to slide in a turn before it would tip over.

Powering along the interstate is as smooth and well-soundproofed as it gets in a GM vehicle. Step-in height is accommodating for most age groups — without adding running boards — most of which are useful only for reaching roof racks or climbing into third rows.

For those who would like to have seven-seat capacity, the Envoy XL debuts this spring with a starting price of $31,595 for the base two-wheel-drive SLE model and $36,595 for the uplevel four-wheel-drive SET. Prices include a $600 destination charge.

Dealership to hold child safety program

MENDHAM — In an effort to reduce the number of missing children each year, Maplecrest Ford of Mendham will host a free child identification event on April 13 from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Parents can bring their children to Maplecrest Ford for free "Commitment to Kids" safety ID kits. A photograph will be taken of each child and instructions will be provided for parents to complete their child's physical description information. A Mendham police officer also will be on hand to fingerprint children and answer questions.

The Commitment to Kids program is a partnership among Ford Blue Oval Certified dealers, the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children and actress Jamie Lee Curtis. Last summer, Ford Blue Oval Certified dealers helped educate communities about child safety by distributing more than 450,000 ID kits nationwide. Ford expects the number of kits distributed to reach one million this year.

"As a Blue Oval Certified dealer, we are personally dedicated not only to our customers, but to our community as a whole," said Thomas Giordano, President of Maplecrest Ford. "Through our Commitment to Kids program, we are able to demonstrate our commitment to all parents and children in our community."

Statistics show that community education and prevention programs help reduce the number of missing children. According to FBI data, the number of children reported missing in 2001 dropped to approximately 725,000 — about 2,000 children per day — a figure representing the lowest annual total in a decade.

"Through the Commitment to Kids program, Ford dealers are raising the awareness of child safety in their communities," said Jim O'Connor, president of Ford Division. "If we can help keep safe or locate even one missing child, our program will have been a success."

A completed ID kit can help expedite the return of a missing child. Taking a few minutes to complete an ID kit may be the single most important thing parents do for their kids this year. Parents are urged to repeat the identification process every six months to maintain updated information.

Appointments made at dealer

CLINTON — Andy Sulley has been named general manager, and Steve Raake, service manager, of Clinton Chevrolet Cadillac, announced Steve Kalafer and Byron Brisby, co-owners of Clinton Car and Truck Company.

Sulley, a Hampton resident, has 15 years experience in the auto retail industry. Raake, of Milford, was the assistant service manager at Flemington Nissan. Both individuals have earned numerous industry awards throughout their careers.

Dominick Fiorello, of Monmouth Junction and Doreen Ott, of Easton Pa., were named parts manager and office manager, respectively.

Clinton Chevrolet Cadillac, located on Route 31 just off the Interstate Route 78 interchange, is a member of the locally-owned Clinton Car and Truck Company Family of Dealerships.
