SAFE, SAFE FOURTH ORDINANCE DISTURBING TO SOME MERCHANTS.

A. E. Snyder and Others May Make a Test Case of It.

The safe and sane ordinance did not get by the Council like the proverbial green-eyed cat. There had been quite an agitation on this matter among our townsmen, and there was a difference of opinion among the councilmen. The measure was passed only after a "recess" of nearly two hours. Messrs. Casey, Hohenstein and Smith opposing the measure to the last.

The ordinance prohibits the using, selling or attempting to sell, under a penalty of $10 per each offense, toy cannon, pistols, except those using caps, or other fire arms, instruments, contrivances or devices producing an explosion either by ignition or concussion through the use of gunpowder or other substance. Likewise it forbids the placing of torpedoes on trolley tracks, and the sale of fireworks over one-half inch in diameter.

After ordinance had passed on final reading, the local dealers in fire works, it was said, would make a test case of the matter. These dealers when seen by a STANDARD representative gave the following information: Mr. Snyder says he has purchased and has in stock $500 worth of fire works, that the action of the Council, under the circumstances, is an outrage, and that he proposes to dispose of his stock if possible, although he has always observed and will observe the ordinance of 1907 forbidding the sale of fireworks previous to July 2.

Mr. Arthur E. Flagg says he has no intention to violate any ordinance passed by the Council. He wishes to obey the law, even to the letter, although he has about $150 of fire works on hand. He will try to make a test case of the matter.

Mr. White thought the Council should have taken final action on this matter some time ago, before the dealers had laid in their stock, although he believes in a case Fourth.

The safe and sane Fourth of July question has been agitated in Westfield for three years. Last year the passage of the ordinance was deferred because local merchants had ordered their supply. The matter was revived this year in April and has been discussed ever since.

CONVEYS BREEZES FOR THEM.

L. S. & S. Annual Trolley Party to Island Monday Night.

The annual trolley party of the L. S. & S. to Conny Island, will take place on Monday evening, June 27. Instead of June 26, as previously announced. The special trolley car will leave through Ball, Brooklyn, at six o'clock sharp. Returning, the car will leave the island at 10:45 sharp, in order that the members may catch the last train from New York. Arrangements are being made for a "shore dinner" immediately upon arriving at the island. The party will be held rain or shine, and no person of questionable conduct may be disappointed. It is going to be a merry party—why, of course!

Notice of Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Baitman's Fish Company will be held on the 1st day of July, 1910, at 10:00 noon, at the general office of the company, Elm street, Westfield, N. J., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors and receiving and acting upon the reports of officers and for the transaction of such business as may properly come before the meeting.

Brown-Elliott.

Miss Maude Elliott, daughter of Mr. Sarah Elliott, of First street, and Mr. Geo. Freeman Brown, were united in marriage by the Rev. John H. Edwards, pastor of the Trinity Episcopal Church, at Cranford, Monday night. The couple are enjoying a honeymoon trip in New England and Canada. On their return they will reside in Westfield. The bridegroom is cousin of President Council, E. A., and shares with his bride a large popularity.

Junior Class Reception A Success.

The Junior class reception and dance was held in the Washington School Auditorium, last Friday evening. This was the first appearance of the Class of 1911 to seniors and a large gathering greeted them. The graduating class was out in full force. Never again probably will so many members of the class of 1910 be together on one occasion. This class the school festival for this season.

WERE MARRIED LAST NOVEMBER! HAVE JUST ANNOUNCED IT.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Oldfield are Residing in This Place.

It has just come to light that Miss Myrtle Steele, daughter of Postmaster Steele of Little Falls, and Mr. Chester F. Oldfield, of this place, were secretly married on November 23, 1909. The father strenuously objected to his daughter getting married, so the couple were forced to circumnavigate.

A short time ago the groom screwed his courage to the sticking point, while his bride was at lunch, and faced Mr. Steele with the news. After a moment of quavering the postmaster untied the groom by extending his hand in hearty fashion and warmly congratulated his son-in-law. Both bride and groom are well known and popular in Westfield. Miss Steele was employed in the post office in her home town, and Mr. Oldfield is connected with the Lockwood Company.

NEW BANK MOVEMENT.

Said That Preliminary Arrangements for New Institution Have Been Made.

For some weeks the rumor has been about town, that a new National bank would soon be opened here. The names of prominent local and New York business men have been mentioned in connection with the organization, and it is understood that the bank will be purely local, without outside influences, its officers and directors being all Westfield men.

The promoters of the new institution believe that there is ample room for another bank and that the rapid growth of Westfield of the deposits in the present institutions, show that additional facilities will materially aid Westfield's growth. It is also said that the capital will be $100,000, with a paid up surplus of $25,000. How soon the bank will be opened for business cannot be learned, but it is declared that the preliminary arrangements are being rapidly pushed.

PUBLIC MEETING TO DISCUSS IMPROVEMENTS IN BOROUGH.

Mountainide Seeks Better Roads and Fire Protection.

Their Honors, the Aldermen of Mountainide, at their last meeting held a discussion about the need of fire protection and good road communication on the top of the mountain. The discussion was participated in by his Honor, the Mayor, Aldermen Hohenstein, Lawyer Peckham and others. It seemed to be the general opinion that Mountainide was losing money and the value of a great deal of fine scenery by failure to afford protection against fire in the woods. Every year five or six thousands of fire trees and shrubs are lost on Mountainide to insects and fire. Everything is made unsightly and unsuitable for generations. Many good people have refused to buy and build. Also every year all the road work that is done comes to nothing. The roads are so steep that the dirt that is tumbled in the spring time is back in the gutters in the fall. The Mayor said he would call a public meeting in the fall to discuss the above subjects and to form some scheme to preserve for the Borough the advantages of its splendid scenery.

A. K. GALE NAMED TO PLACE OF POSTMASTER, L. M. WHITAKER.

Last Executive Committee Endorses Present Assistant.

The local Republican executive committee endorsed the name of Augustus K. Gale to succeed Luther M. Whitaker as postmaster, last Friday evening. The applicants were C. A. Smith, Fire Chief Fred C. Decker, T. M. E. Mills and Mr. Gale. Fourteen of the sixteen members of the local Republican executive committee were present and Mr. Gale finally received an unanimous endorsement.

Mr. Gale is a life long resident of Westfield and has served as assistant postmaster in an efficient manner for a number of years. Mr. Gale was for many years tax collector. He has been an active Republican all his life.

OCTOBERMAN FALLS FROM TREE INJURED MAY PROVE FATAL.

Charles L. Weeks Suffering From Internal Injuries.

Only the earth softened by the recent rains, saved Mr. Charles L. Weeks of 678 North avenue, from a probably fatal injury. Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock Mr. Weeks climbed a ladder and made his way into a cherry tree when he slipped on a limb and fell to the ground a distance of twenty feet. Dr. Mayo was summoned and visited the patient several times during the night. Apparently no bones were broken but severe internal injuries are feared. This coupled with the advanced age of the patient, 80 years, makes his recovery doubtful.

Mr. Cooke was a manufacturer of animal oils and conducted a business with his brother, the late Charles A. In spite of the rain the semi-finals for the golf championships were played at the Golf Club grounds Saturday afternoon. Keller won the semi-final of the second eight from Fortine, 3 up. Sherman won the semi-final of the first eight by default from Carroll. Sherman then defeated Keller 10 up and 6 to play in a 20 hole match.

The local Golf Club will play the Railway Club to-morrow afternoon.

Councilman's Son Has Narrow Escape.

Edward F. Hohenstein, son of Councilman Hohenstein, had a narrow escape from serious injury Saturday afternoon. He was trying to raise an awning in front of his father's store, when he touched a wire which was concealed in the awning fixture. A slight burn only resulted as the wire fortunately was not heavily charged.

Epworth League's Last Meeting.

The local chapter of the Epworth League held its last meeting for the season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ververt, of Mountainide avenue, Monday evening. THE COUNCIL'S SESSION Proclamation Against Dogs Running at Large Without Muzzles Extended to Sept. 1.

LEATHER MUZZLES WILL NOT DO.

The State Law is Specific—Safe Fourth Ordinance Passed—Routine Matters Taken Care Of.

The Town Council held a regular meeting Monday night. The safe and sane Fourth ordinance was passed on second and final readings, and the proclamation relative to dogs running at large was extended to Sept. 1. Mayor Alpers and every member were present.

When the safe and sane ordinance came up C. F. W. Witte made a protest; Albert Snyder and Arthur R. Flagg protested at the last regular meeting. The protests were unavailing and the ordinance now holds in Westfield. Councilmen Casey, Smith, Hohenstein voted against the measure. The ordinance in full may be found among the legal notices in the STANDARD, and a discussion of same may be found on another page of this issue.

The proclamation requiring dogs running at large to be kept muzzled was extended until Sept. 1. Councilman Wilson asked if it was compulsory to have a wire muzzle on each dog, as he had observed several dogs with leather muzzles. Mayor Alpers said according to the State law wire muzzles are required. The proclamation in full is as follows:

"Whereas, in the opinion of the Council of the Town of Westfield, and of the Mayor, the public safety requires the measures herein taken, proclamation is hereby made, that up to Sept. 1st, 1910, all dogs, male and female, found running at large within the limits of the Town of Westfield, except such as shall be properly muzzled with a wire muzzle about the nose, contrary to the provisions of the State law, after one day's public notice of this proclamation, will be destroyed.

By the advice and consent of the Council of the Town of Westfield.

AUGUSTUS L. ALPERS, Mayor.

March 24, 1910.

June 20, 1910.

It was voted to notify the Board of Freeholders that the Town would pay the balance of its assessment on County road bonds at the meeting of the Council, July 5.

Frank L. Greenman was appointed special policeman upon the recommendation of the police committee. Bills to the amount of $2,700.00 were ordered paid and a certificate of indebtedness for $1,000 was issued.

An amendment to the code, omnibus and junk dealer's ordinance was passed on first reading. The word "scavenger" is struck out in order not to interfere with the Board of Health ordinance which regulates the scavenger work.

The ordinance to lay a sidewalk on New street, to improve Mountainide avenue and East Broad street were laid over until the next regular meeting.

The ordinance to improve North avenue was passed on second and third readings.

The ordinance to lay a cement sidewalk on the southwest side of Prospect street, from Dudley avenue to Newton place, passed on first reading.

On motion of Councilman Adcock all bills on money of the Town belonging to the Union County Contracting Company, were referred to Town Attorney Oliver.

On motion of Councilman Hohenstein the time for reading in full for the new fire laws was extended to July 5. The Council voted that bids for flagging and curbing several streets and certain pieces of sewer work will be opened July 12.

H. L. Abrams was granted permission to make certain improvements on Washington street, and the Pennell Company to lay a concrete sidewalk on Westfield avenue, in front of their property.

The Town Clerk was instructed to notify the Board of Health that several houses were not connected with the sewer.

Annual Meeting of Sunday School.

At the annual meeting of the Sunday school of the Congregational Church Tuesday night, the officers submitted encouraging reports. W. J. Kennedy was elected secretary, and Chester B. Kellogg, treasurer, for the coming year. The election of a superintendent was postponed. This officer will probably not be chosen until fall.

MOUNTAINSIDE SCHOOL PROGRESS.

Fifty-three Out of Fifty-six Pupils Passed Their Examinations.

Out of the fifty six pupils at the Mountain-side school, fifty-three passed their examinations and will be advanced. Although there is no eighth grade at the school, the pupils of the seventh grade have taken examinations for both seventh and eighth grade work and all passed with good marks. They will be admitted to the Westfield High School next fall.

The above is the splendid showing made by the Borough school during the past year, and it speaks well for the school trustees, the teachers and the pupils. The marked advance in the Borough is being noted and favorably commented upon on all sides. Dr. Havita, who takes a great interest in the Borough school, is much impressed by the evidence of progress. The trustees are grateful to him for his co-operation and advice.

The members of the Board of Education of Mountain-side, through whose efforts the school has made such commendable advancement, are: W. H. Brown, president; Edward B. Laing and John Kellott. W. B. Snyder is principal of the school and Miss Edith Osborn is teacher in the primary department.

The Ladies' World.

A summary effect that is decidedly pleasing pervades the July number of The Ladies' World, just received. The fiction, of which there seems even more than usual, is bright and entertaining, and the departments are filled with sensible matter that will save time, thought and labor to every housewife. The opening story is one of school life, by Kate Miller Rabb. It is called Miss Fidelity's Tune and Time, and is the romance of the pretty school teacher, although the little blind girl plays his usual pranks before happiness comes. The Disciplining of Lower Girl, by Clarice Vallette, tells in a delightful way of the attempt of a maiden aunt to bring up her infant niece by rule. There is also the second installment of a charming three-part novelette, A Garden Incident; A Double Celebration, by Emma R. Hoover; The Fall and the Rebuilding, by Grace MacGowan Cooke; and In Search of Yesterday, a story of collecting, told by a collector.

Among the special articles Conservation and the Housewife is worthy of special mention, for it shows in an easily understood way what the continued destruction of the forests means. The fashions for the month are pretty, and there are besides pages of Needlework, Health, Good Looks, Our Children, Etiquette, etc.—(New York: Fifty Cents a Year.)

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

Gentlemen—Whereas the undersigned County Road Committee by and with the approval of the State Commissioner of Public Roads, have changed the location of the county road proposed to be built, leading from Two Bridges to Rahway at the point known as Goodman's Crossing, and by reason of said change it is necessary to construct a bridge over Robinson's Branch of the Rahway River at said point:

Freeholder Swain moved that the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

Gentlemen—The undersigned committee having been appointed to examine the site and report as to the necessity for a bridge on Ellingham place, Westfield, would report that they have visited the location and find that said Ellingham place has been graded and opened to public travel and that it has been accepted as a street by the Town of Westfield and that the bridge originally built over the stream on this street has fallen in and the street is in consequence closed to travel.

We therefore recommend that a bridge be built at this point with concrete abutments and a beam and concrete top at a cost not to exceed $700.

FINE JOB PRINTING

A GYMNASIUM FOR WESTFIELD.

BY MILDRED BUNCE.

Winner of the Prize Offered by the Woman's Club of Westfield To High School Contestants.

"A Gymnasium for Westfield," is the cry one hears now continually. New people moving to town say, "What, Westfield has no gym?" and it is extraordinary for a town with the exceptional advantages of Westfield, such as fine schools, good teachers, a well stocked library and the best of churches, besides the natural location of the town, that the boys and girls have been so overlooked.

There are two classes of boys in town that greatly need a gymnasium or some suitable building, where, under the proper supervision, they might carry on athletics. They are, firstly, the school boys and secondly, the boys who have either left school and have gone to business early or those who have graduated but have not gone to college.

I heard some one remark a little while ago, "Why, I should think that the school-boys would have plenty to do with their foot ball, basket ball and base ball." I wondered if that man realized that aside from each of these sports having only its own season, only eleven boys are used for the foot ball team, only five for the basket ball and nine for the base ball. Then, too, nearly the same corps of boys are used for all the sports. Those who have been in school two or three years naturally have the better chance, which leaves the bulk of the pupils merely spectators. But then the objection is raised that many more come out to practice. It is a general fact, though, that boys have enthusiasm for a sport when they realize that it simply means drudgery and no chance of playing on the team, so it divides down usually to merely the first team and one or two "subs" coming out for practice.

Of course in the class basket ball games all, who can, come out. But it must be remembered that the class games, including practice, do not last over two weeks.

People seem to think that because we use the school auditorium for basket ball that nothing else is desired. We are certainly very grateful to have that place, but the conditions under which it is used are very difficult. On account of the grammar grades being in session we are not allowed to go up stairs until three fifteen o'clock. It then takes about half an hour to put the seats back and set up and then the building must be closed at five thirty, before which time the chapel must be put in order again. This leaves about an hour for actual playing.

If the system under which we carry on our basket ball has been thoroughly examined it is readily seen that we are responsible enough to look out for a gymnasium. The whole affair is carried on practically by the pupils themselves, the expenses met, order looked out for and all without any trouble.

While I am speaking of the High School boys needing a gymnasium I want to put a word in for the girls of the High School. Perhaps on account of the difference in temperament a girl may not need a gym quite as much as a boy, but certainly nothing would be better for her. Girls are naturally weak and their muscles need to be strengthened. Basket ball is too hard for many girls and they need some easier exercise to keep them healthy. As you look through the High School you see that the strongest, best developed girls are those who play basket ball. But only a few play that game, and it lasts for but a short time. Would it not be better for all of them to have an easier exercise to last during the school year?

The second class of boys that I want to speak about are the so-called "hard-core boys." "Westfield is the slowest place; there is nothing to do in the evening," was the remark I heard the other night from one of these young fellows. He also said that the Westfield Casino was the only public building to which one could go and he did not like to go or be seen there. "Yet we have to do something," he added "after sitting over a desk all day or doing some other tedious work a fellow cannot come home and sit around and read as some would have us do." That is just it; they need exercise. Most of the positions of the young men when they start in business are hard and unattractive and they want recreation. An hour or two at night is their time. Think how much better they will sleep in the evening unconsciously, perhaps, a young fellow will wander out and go down town where he meets, perchance, a couple of others and they loiter around the corners of Broad street looking for trouble. They smoke to excess and meet rough fellows; both physically and morally it is bad for them. Boys coming from fine families with the best of surroundings, often degenerate in this very way while their parents find fault and feel hurt because their sons do this. How much better a gym would be where the healthy, spirited young men could meet and come under good physical and moral training.

I know a number of people who have chosen some other town in preference to Westfield because of a Y. M. C. A.

there for their young men in business. Some young men said to me how they missed the gym and reading room in the town from which they came and how great the temptation was to loiter around the streets at night.

I think that there is no doubt but that the love of athletics is now a very important part of the life of not only American boys and girls but of older people as well. I have heard it stated that even a generation ago American people cared little for the activities of athletic sports. Of course base ball games were attended by hundreds of thousands, but the people as a whole took no part in the playing of games.

Price Collier in his book, "England and the English," speaks of this trait of the American people, and of the great difference shown by our English cousins. Englishmen love all sorts of out-door sports and games. Every English town and village has its cricket team, and tennis and golf are played by all who possibly can. English boys and girls, too, take the greatest interest in sport. It is part of their life. They love the game itself, not only for the sake of winning, and a well-played game, even if lost, is appreciated and enjoyed.

Our people are now fast learning how to enjoy and value good out-door and in-door games, and everywhere we read the accounts of foot ball and basket ball games, tennis and golf matches as well as the great national game base ball. Our last two presidents are great lovers of athletics and their influence is felt all over the country, and especially by young people. But it is not of much use to love to play if a playground or building cannot be had.

I can imagine a neat, substantial building in Westfield, with a large gymnasium, containing all the equipment for the regular gymnastic work, and shower baths, of course, and even a swimming tank. Think of the pleasure a swimming tank would give! There is a hall where basket ball contests could be held, where all the parents and friends could come to enjoy the exhibition games. Rooms for reading and quiet games, I can see, and a bowling alley too. There is a little stage where amateur theatricals can be given. There are tennis courts on either side of the building, and at the back a fine field with a small stand for spectators. Think of the base ball and foot ball games and of the tennis matches and running and jumping contests that could be given. Would not everyone enjoy the building? Young and old, fathers and mothers, teachers, boys and girls? A boy would be base indeed who could go wrong with such a place to spend his evenings. Many men who are especially good in certain lines would come over once in a while to help and instruct the boys. The girls would come for the dancing, too. Is this too much for Westfield to have? I think not. Other towns have it. Let us work for it, and if we can all work together, schools, churches, social organizations and individuals, we will have it. Is this "the stuff that dreams are made of?" No, indeed, but a plan that if carried out will make Westfield an ideal home town.

Woman's Home Companion for July.

The July number of the Woman's Home Companion is an ideal summer story number. Mary Henson Vorse contributes a Fourth of July story with an Italian setting. "Two Kinds of Men" is a characteristically sprightly and interesting Halbert Footner tale; and a good deal of fun is supplied by Anne Warner in Susan Clegg's "Improvements." "The Valley of Paradise" by Grace Keon is really the story of a mother's heart and is the first of a series of three containing the same lovable characters, Grace Richmond's serial, "Brothers Four" has now become well started and we find that its interest never flags.

The special articles are of an unusual variety. The following titles suggest a wide range of subjects: "The Romance of the Lighthouse," "The Rural Delivery Man," "Am I An Old Fog?" "Furnishing the Summer Camp," etc., etc.

Charming suggestions fill the various popular departments of the Woman's Home Companion for July. Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster devotes her page to an opinion on suffrage. The Tower Room contains unusual advice for girls during their vacations. Two practical bungalows are shown for the benefit of home builder, and Kate V. Saint-Maur speaks with common sense and affection upon certain house pets which are often neglected. Summer reading and summer entertainment and summer cooking form no small part of this great number.

There is an unusually delicate and humorous collection of stories and verse on the Postscript page, and this number also contains a charming song entitled "Return Again."

The Things That Will Please

Are Found at Peter Klee's.

The choicest cuts are here on sale; the best market can supply; you can take your pick of them—but pay cash when you buy. Our system run by steady cash, this is the means by which we buy and sell and keep the road while others take the ditch. If you keep Dame Worry out and keep Dame Pleasure in, you ought to patronize our store—this is the way to win. For, though your credit may be good, just think of all the fret you cause yourself and others by some "bothersome old debt," and if you pay cash when you buy your conscience is serene; you can eat and sleep in comfort, for your credit-slate is clean.

Now, Klee runs a cash market and he only asks fair pay; he handles only products that are fresh with every day. If you want meats and vegetables, the finest in the land, you had better get acquainted now with his cash system plan.

Tragedies of the Sea.
As vessels starting from ports thousands of miles apart pass close to each other in the naked breadth of the ocean, nay, sometimes even touch, in the dark, with a crack of timber, a gurgling of water, a cry of startled sleepers—a cry mysteriously echoed in warning dreams, as the wife of some Gloucester fisherman, with coasting shipper, wakes with a shriek, calls the name of her husband, and sinks back to uneasy slumbers upon her lonely pillow—a widow.—Doctor Holmes, "Professor at the Breakfast Table."

Cheerfulness.
Wonderous is the strength of cheerfulness and its power of endurance—the cheerful man will do more in the same time, will do it better, will persevere in it longer, than the sad and sulky. Wonderous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts, to be permanently useful, must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine, graceful from very gladness, beautiful because bright.—Thomas Carlyle.

Wanted a Freight.
A sailor entered a livery stable bent on hiring a horse for the day to take some friends into the country. The proprietor brought out one for inspection. "Now, here's a beauty," he said, "small head, clean legs, short back." "Short back," responded the sailor. "Short back be blowed. I want one with a long back and room for a deck-load of naps."

Foolish Habit is Breeding.
It's a good plan, also, to forget your own mistakes. Why let the past reach up and choke the present? Breeding over what is done is a habit, as bad as opium smoking. Quit it. Because your main asset for life, for love, and happiness is confidence, a sure aim, a clear eye, a strong heart.

Smoking in Tibet.
Smokers in Tibet make a pipe in the floor, of two holes connected by an underground channel. In one hole is placed lighted tobacco, while a rod is stuck in the other, to keep the smoker from bending his back too much. Similar groundhog pipes have been used by prisoners the world over.

Rolls of Dark Ages.
"Just think," said the student of history, "there was a time when men seemed to enjoy torturing their fellow beings!" "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "and even now a smart lawyer seems to derive a great deal of satisfaction from cross-examining an expert witness."

Impossible!
Stanich (with newspaper)—"Here's a little item that goes to prove that the age of miracles is not past." Mrs. Stanich—"What is it?" Stanich—"A Boston clergyman has asked his congregation to reduce his salary."—Illustrated Magazine.

Mar Our Own Joy.
The universe is set for the joy of all its creatures, including birds, kittens, street sweepers, college presidents and kings; and it is only from the inside of a man that there do issue forth the devils of care and worry.

Suspicious Men.
When a woman insists that her husband shall not work at the office on Sundays he has a suspicion that it is not solicitude as much as it is a desire to get him to church.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Had a Real Compliment.
Branson—"What's the matter?" Woodson: "Our cook has left and my wife lost the month's housekeeping money at a card party. Between bridge and bridge, she doesn't seem to be worth living."—Boston Record.

A Necessity.
"Every time the maid feeds the baby she carries on a flirtation with some fellow." "Maybe she finds that she can't feed the child without a spoon."—St. Louis Star.

The Philosopher of Polly.
"The smart street preacher," says the Philosopher of Polly, "passes round the hat when he notices that there are some chattering simpsies in the crowd."

Uncle Eben.
"Do men dot butts in at de head of a subconscience ain't allow leadin' it," said Uncle Eben. "Sometimes he's only built-in to keep 'em both' run over 'em behind."

Now It Happened.
"Congratulations, old chap. You are seen everywhere with Lord Dunsbury." "Yes, I have rented him for the season."

Physical Culture.
Physical culture is no longer regarded as a fad, but as essential to the health of the busy business man of the strenuous age.

Or Their Maids, Perhaps.
Some women wouldn't mind going to heaven if they could take their maids along.

They're Always Honeys.
Hardly any man ever carries a big mist after seeing the bigmist's wife.

Do You Know Him?
The happy man without a shirt.—John Heywood.

The Chief Consideration

Coach—Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you will take your places we will rehearse the parts in the play. Miss Drew, please go to the left of right center.

Miss Drew—What do you call left of right center? Does it mean when you're looking at the audience, or when you're looking at the stage?

Coach—It means right next to the small table on your left. No, not there. Your left, I said. You left hand is the one that has the diamond ring on.

Miss Drew—Oh, do I have to take that off?

Coach—It isn't necessary. Now, miss Phillips.

Miss Phillips—I wanted to ask you, please, whether you think that I should wear pink or light blue?

The Coach—I don't see—

Miss Drew—I am going to wear pink and Mame has decided to have blue.

Miss Phillips—Then I suppose I shall have to dress in white. That means that I shall have to have a dress made for the performance for my old one positively isn't fit to be seen anywhere. Would you have an overcoat if you were I?

Mame—I am going to have mine made with a simulated overcoat and seven gares. It is going to be lovely.

Miss Drew—I want a panel down the front, but really—

Coach—If you are ready, gentlemen. Mr. Hardy will stand at the other end of the table, waiting for his cue. There!

Hardy—Excuse me a minute, but talking about dresses, am I supposed to wear a frock coat and high hat in the last scene with Miss Drew?

Coach—Certainly.

Hardy—Well, where the diables shall I put my hat?

Coach—The maid, Miss Davis, takes it as you enter. Now, if you—

Miss Davis—Is my costume the regulation French one?

Coach—Evidently you have not looked at your part.

Miss Drew—You are to furnish the comedy element, Miss Davis, and wear calico and a big apron. You have sleeves rolled up and four on your arms.

Miss Davis—Oh, I don't believe I'll like that a bit. I want to dress up smartly with bows on my apron.

Miss Harrison—I'll take that part, then, and you may have the part of the younger sister.

Miss Davis—What does she wear, if you please?

Miss Harrison—A tall gown. Not a blue one, because Mame has that color; not pink, because that's Miss Drew's; and not white, because that is Miss Phillips.

Miss Davis—And I can't wear yellow or green or lavender. I'll wear red.

Miss Drew—We have to sit on the davenport together and red will clash terribly with my pink.

Miss Davis—Then we'll have to sit somewhere else. I know just how I'll have it made. It'll be a dream! I'm glad I'm not to be a maid.

Hardy—The maid is the best part in the play and the younger sister isn't on for more than five minutes.

Coach—Now, if we're ready: Please begin. Mr. Lawrence, with your opening sentence: "We are all here waiting for the bride and groom."

Lawrence—Well, say, look here! I didn't know it was supposed to be a wedding. What do I wear? Evening suit?

Coach—Certainly.

Lawrence—Well, great Scott! I've got too stout for mine. Won't a tuxedo do just as well?

Hardy—I should say not. You're supposed to be an usher at the wedding of a millionaire.

Lawrence—That's exactly fixed. Let's change the hour of the wedding and have it in the afternoon. Then we can all wear frock coats.

Miss Davis—Then we can't wear evening gowns. I don't think it would be a bit.

Coach—It would upset the whole plot. You will have to get a new dress suit, I'm afraid. Now, if you please, Miss Drew.

Miss Drew—Where do I stand?

Miss Drew—You don't stand at all. You sit on the floor of left of right center.

Miss Drew—Sit on the floor! Is the gown!

Coach—You won't hurt your dress any, I assure you.

Lowie—It isn't half as bad as it is for me to have to come in with my best overcoat covered with flour to look like snow. I've a great mind to wear my old one.

Mame—And I have to throw my hat down where it may be stepped on.

Coach—Now, if you please—

Miss Phillips—Oh, do we wear wraps? I'm going to camp in wearing my new red cloak.

Coach—You are on the stage all the time and don't wear a coat.

Miss Phillips—Then let's change it so that I can. It will be easy to do that.

Coach—We won't have the time. It's 11 now. That will be all tonight, I think. Don't forget the rehearsal Thursday, and, please, look at your parts before you come.

Artistic Repartee.

"How are you getting along with your statue of War?" asked the landscape painter.

"I'm getting as bald a face on it as possible," answered the sculptor.

Necessity Is Mother.

No—The wind is rising.

Oh—Probably from the east.

Another Hope Gained.
I was teaching a class of little girls, and one of them had the tooth-ache. Naturally for a time the conversation turned to teeth. The little sufferer thought perhaps it was a wisdom tooth, but I explained that she would not have one till she was grown. "Well, does every one have wisdom teeth?" "Yes; why?" "I thought maybe if you didn't go to school very much they wouldn't grow!"—The Delineator.

Cause for Thankfulness.
The butler of a Scottish laird, who had been in the family for many years, resigned his place, complaining that his lordship's wife was always scolding him. "If that's all you have to complain of," said the master, "you have little excuse for leaving." "I'm not going to put up with it any longer," was the answer. "Go then," said the laird, sighing, "and be thankful all the days of your life that you are not married to her!"

Positive Proof.
Jack, three and one-half years old, had been put to bed by his mother, who was entertaining company. He suddenly burst into the room, crying: "Mamma, there's a big mouse in my room." "Oh, no! I don't think so," said his mother. "I'm sure of it!" said Jack. "I heard him wagging his tail."—Delineator.

Made the Guests Smile.
A story is being told about a certain European sovereign who paid a visit to England two or three years ago. He attended a bridge party one afternoon, and, as darkness began to fall, his hostess said to him: "Sir, if you'll allow me I'll call for lights. I can't distinguish the king from the knave."

Darwin's Religion.
Darwin came of Unitarian stock, and was never much of a believer in theological systems. In reply to a question put to him in a letter he wrote: "I do not believe that any revelation has ever been made." Upon the questions of God and the future, life he was an out-and-out agnostic.

Failed to Work.
Griggs—"So you got home from the club at midnight. Well, I suppose you told your wife you had to work late at the office; played upon her sympathies, eh?" Briggs—"Well—yes; but either her sympathies were out of tune, or I'm a damned poor instrumentalist!"—Boston Transcript.

Would Be Wasting Time.
"Dad," said Rivers' little boy, "is there such a thing as a central sun?" "I suppose so," answered Rivers, who was occupied with his papers and didn't fully comprehend the question; "but there's no use in calling 'em up. Lina's probably busy."

Preventing Larger Crime.
Atlanta has an eighteen-months-old baby that smokes a pipe. Perhaps the parents of the child hope in permitting it to develop an early taste for the pipe to keep it from ever going to the cigarette.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Reverse Proposition.
"I got a 'black hand' letter from a philanthropist today. Says he is determined to die poor." "What's the rest of it?" "Why, he states that he has hidden $10,000 in a hollow tree, and demands that I go get it."

Professional Predicaments.
No sooner has the editor got the smell of moth balls out of his clothes than he gets pestered all over them, and has to clean it off with ammonia and go around smelling of that.—Ohio State Journal.

No Favorites.
"A dear little girl your daughter is. She always has something to say to me when I meet her." "Oh, yes, she's not a bit proud. She speaks to every one."—Sourire.

Her Idea.
"So your wife wants to vote?" "Not exactly," replied Mr. Mockton. "She wants the opportunity of voting if she wishes. Then she will do as she likes about it."—Washington Star.

Substitute Needed.
"I have often wondered," says the Philosopher of Folly, "where people who don't believe in its existence tell people to go to, when they get angry."—Cleveland Leader.

Two Glasses.
Kinder is the looking glass than the wine glass, for the former reveals your defects only to yourself, but the latter to your friends.

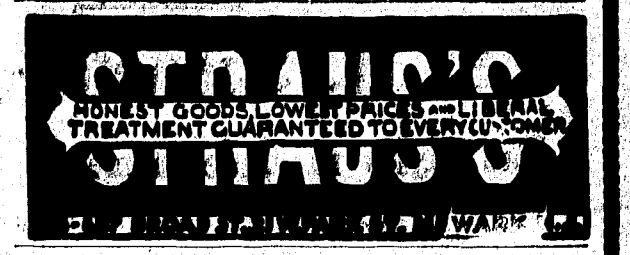

A Fairy.
"Well, and how do you like your new maid?" "She's a positive fairy. Whenever there's any work to do she disappears."

Disappointment at a Reception.
Digging Visitor (disappointed)—"Hang it, I've got my own hat after all!"—M. A. P.

Down to a System.
"I'm very orderly at my office. I have one waste basket for bills and one for dumping letters."—Fleegande Blotter.

BILL PEASELEY BACK WITH US AGAIN.

In the early '80's the writer was contemporaneous with the late play-wright, Charlie Hoyt in paragraphing for the New England press Hoyt conducting the "All Stars" column in the Boston American and later the Lowell "Pen Point" column in the Lawrence American and later the Lowell Citizen. An interchange of "stuffs" marked a pleasant association for their then youthful experiences. For sometime the earnest work of the writer in upbuilding the young "STANDARD" was heartily aided by the writer in his line of what was meant to be a touch of humor which faculty enters into the make up of humankind either in its natural inception or reception. Again this feature comes into the writer's life—now as a relief from reflections, with no pointlessness to bear malice and touching upon things material and immaterial in that lighter vein which serves as a relief from the commonplace.

CHARLES H. DENMAN.
(Bill Peaseley.)

Bill Peaseley Says!!

The big men in the public eye—
Rosy and Taffy.

The earth is not the only thing that travels on its ship.

Reflection is a reverse mirror in which we see not what is in front but the magnified experiences of the past.

The tarvin was served a-la-cart.

It is to be supposed that Adam was a bit startled the first time he heard the sound of his own voice.

Would it not be well for the Park Commissioners to train ivy over the foundations of the canon in Mountain avenue park?

Pass this along:
Would you wear an air of one?
Why not Westfield? If you please.

It might be well for the town council to enact an ordinance regulating "speak eases" about the discussion of public affairs.

And even Wall street says there ought to be a change in the country's affairs.

The commuters' "beast" is only another slide in the going up scale.
It is within the memory of Westfielders that there were once such things as ten cent shaves, fifteen cent depot hack fares, reasonable taxes, non-burdensome fraternal assessments and the right to claim a little of one's salary or wages after the landlord, butcher, grocer and baker were paid—and in these days the trades-people were paid more promptly and less reluctantly than now.

When an unselfish, public-spirited citizen gets into the public benefactor business, even if he has no other motive than the public good, there are those people always with us who reason out several varieties of motives other than sincerity.

Automobiles raised the dust, the dust raised the tarvin proposition the tarvin proposition raised the taxes. The tarvin soaked both the roads and the non-responsible property owners. The dust is laid and it would appear more reasonable to lay the tax back to the responsible point—the automobile owners.

It has been whispered about so long that quite a few people have heard that there is to be a new bank in town.

One suffragette at the recent school election said that while Westfield had outgrown its baby clothes it should not be spoiled by making it a little Lord Footstoolery.

The school discussion brought out one opinion that gymnastics in youth developed enlargement of the heart—such being the case it might be well to establish this feature for the here and there grown ups.

Primary laws and regulations should be studied in anticipation of the troublesome times ahead in the coming Fall. Primary functions as now arranged put nominations up to the people more consistently than heretofore and it is the duty of every citizen to see that his neglect does not permit a primary action to get a strange hold on the election.

Plainfield, Cranford and Roselle have the municipal water plant germ. Westfield was vaccinated once on the town water proposition with corporation virus which seemed to take. The original treatment may now be so diffused that the heretofore germ might even contaminate the old town.

If your dog has worn out the old muzzle get a new one—and renew the license.

Memorial Day has sadly fallen into the almost disrespectful class—apart from its original intention. Poor "Glorious Fourth" seems to be headed in the same direction but Young America lived, still lives and will live and get the mace, the racket and take the same chances for look-jaw as long as time will last.

Boys, if you are restrained from the punk and firecracker on the "Glorious Fourth," go into the kitchen and pop corn.

A front lawn is not a lawn when it is used as a tarvin door-mat.

The original patient and long suffering man was the Secretary of Collector of a fraternal society. Where so much depends upon a member of an organization complying strictly with the rules and regulations which the financial official is in duty bound to enforce the payment of dues and assessments are withheld by members through carelessness and neglect and the pocket of the official takes a chance against the good faith and disposition of such indifferent members even to the extent of fearing leisure at reasonably reminding them of their shortcomings.

If you are hopelessly neglectful of paying lodge assessments make arrangements with your wife or some member of the family who will see that the proper attention is given to so important a matter at the proper time.

To the reader of twenty or less Edison's characters are exaggerated, impossible or improbable; at forty or more we have met them all.
