STANLEY PATRICK'S HUSKIN' BEE

The Standard Reporter Learns in Advance Some Features of the Coming Farm Party at Fair Acres. Ploughboys and Milkmaids Will Compete for Honors

Since the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society decided to hold an old fashioned husking bee at dairyman Patrick's colonial mansion on Benson Place, on Saturday night, the 17th, the farmer lads and lasses of bygone years have been in training for the occasion. Ornaments and calico dresses, pith helmets and quaker bonnets have come forth from their long storage and several looking glasses around town have broken in despair at the out of date styles before them. It is reported that Teddy Class tried to get into the overalls he wore when a farmer boy, but had to buy two additional yards of denim for his wife to piece them out so they would go around. Jealous matrons among her neighbors say that Betsy Nell's old quaker bonnet makes her look too young and "yum yum" for them to stand. Milkmaid bonnets of long ago are coming to light in quarters where you would never expect to find them. The Standard reporter cannot confirm it, but he heard a rumor that each milkmaid will be given a pint measure, and one first filling it with milk from natural sources will get a prize.

The druggists in town have run out of tannin bark, because of the effort of soft handed clerks to restore a callous paw suitable for husking. Our dressmakers are all working overtime refitting the calico dresses of their maidenhood to their present matronly owners. Space forbids more than mention of copious, pumpkin pies and grandmother's kind of doughnuts, of a big camp fire and games around it, to all of which the genial hosts and hostesses invite everyone who has a quarter or more to put into their church building fund.

CHARLES ROLLINSON THE SECOND LECTURER

The second lecture of the fourth course, under the direction of the Board of Education, will be held in the assembly room of the Washington school tomorrow night. The lecturer will be Charles Rollinson, who is a traveler of national repute and one who observes something of interest everywhere he goes. His subject for this lecture will be "Traumling Among the Alps." It is an account of his actual experiences and his lecture is presented in such a way that his hearers feel that they are traveling with him. The lecture will be illustrated with many stereoscopic views.

The lecture starts at Geneva and ends at Fleulen on Lake Lucerne. A night is passed with the monks at Hospice, on the great St. Bernard Pass and the walk is continued over the Simplon, Grimsel, Furks and other mountain passes.

As Mr. Rollinson's services are in great demand, the committee of the Board of Education, who have charge of the lectures, are to be congratulated upon having been able to secure Mr. Rollinson and it is hoped that there will be a large audience present to hear him.

METHODIST'S GYPSY CARNIVAL PROVES HUGE SUCCESS

Unique Encampment on Carlton Road Visited by Hundreds of Townsfolk Who Were Amply Repaid by Excellent Gypsy Food and Fascinating Entertainment

INDIAN VILLAGE PLANNED FOR NEXT FALL

Westfield went Gypsy-mad last Saturday night and spent money like water as a result of the enticements of beautiful Gypsy maidens who were vying for refreshments and who gave a most remarkable performance. It all happened this way. The new Methodist church still has a debt (much reduced from the original cost) and this debt is a constant source of annoyance to the members. A continuous fire of great guns has been trained on this debt for months with the result that it is no longer tolerable nor burdensome. Yet the congregation wishes to continue the construction work by finishing the interior of the Sunday school at a cost of about $25,000, but will not attempt it until the auditorium debt has been largely wiped out. All sorts of legitimate methods have been adopted to pay off the debt, and Saturday's affair, was but one of the unique projects planned for the winter with this end in view.

Conceiving the idea that a Gypsy encampment might be successfully attempted, a small group of ladies tackled the job as being also an entirely new form of entertainment. The husbands of these ladies were called into the conference and detail work figured out.

At the rear of the homes of "Methodist Row" on Carlton road, between Ross place and Park street, is a large grove of immense oaks with ample ground area for almost any purpose. This was selected as being ideal for the camp. The committee made trips up and down the country in all directions in the hope of discovering a genuine Gypsy Camp from which to get important "color". None was to be found. But there was a vast amount of imagination within the committee to draw from. It was decided to have a parade as an advertising feature and follow this up with a camp fire supper, closing with a realistic Gypsy entertainment, right out in the woods with roaring fires lighting up the trees and grounds.

The more the committee considered the project the more feasible it seemed to be and each day brought out new features until it became a huge task as to details. Mrs. S. D. French undertook the entertainment supervision and the excellence of the concert testified as to her fitness for the task. Mrs. Leigh M. Penrill headed the department of commissary. Charles E. Angar, known around Westfield as the "Wireless Wizard" was given charge of the electric and other ground illumination. A score of men tackled the parade, scenery, booths, auto brigade, and concert and other jobs. Enthusiasm ran high and talent was eagerly volunteered from all branches of social life in Westfield.

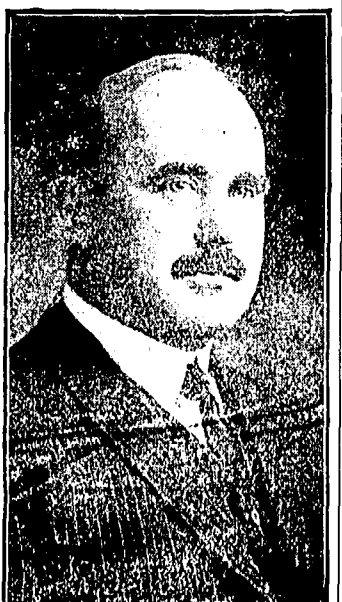

After a cold week—too cold for the best interests of an evening spent out in the open, a sudden change to warmer made ideal weather conditions for the event.

Word was passed along the line that the parade was to start at four o'clock, even though none but the police officers should be ready to follow the line of march. Hammers, saws, paint brushes and sewing material, multiplied by a hundred pairs of willing hands feverishly completed the details when the bugle at 3:50 p. m., announced the line-up must be made.

From the oak grove, two minutes before four, came a squad of bicycle policemen. Then, on a splendid saddle horse came Robert Insley, Superintendent of New York City Public Works, in the capacity of Marshall. Mr. Insley had silver bells sewed around the brim of his hat, on the neck, bridle and saddle; bright red and yellow ribbons were added to make his whole attire Gypsy to a extreme. Plenty of brown grease paint with long finishing touches made him a veritable Gypsy nabob. All of the 150 people in the procession were similarly gotten up, the whole assemblage being Gypsy correct to the last degree. Following the marshal rode Mayor Henry Evans and as aid was Samuel D. French.

Behind the Mayor were sixteen boys carrying a thirty foot American flag to indicate that this particular Gypsy camp at least was thoroughly American.

can. Just behind the flag was a large flat bed wagon on which were crated a holding a cross piece from which was suspended a precious, aged, immense iron pot underneath being a roaring fire, fed by a husky Gypsy who spent his idle moments seated on a large log. It was a novel setting and greatly tickled the fancy of the people along the line of march.

Immediately following was the genuine Gypsy wagon of Alfred E. Penrill, who had in two summers covered the distance between Westfield and Canada, and Westfield and Tennessee. The wagon contained a full sized bed, cooking outfit complete, and a miniature organ. Mr. Penrill being a musician of unusual ability. Two horsemen followed the camp wagon and then a most deplorable specimen

FIRESIDE COUNCIL CONCLUDES GAMES

At Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night. Two Big Meetings Coming

Fireside Council had an enthusiastic meeting last night, had a big attendance and a jolly time. Mr. Hills was initiated and Mr. Beatty deposited a transfer card, making our membership now 411.

The all around championship games were concluded. In the pony race Mr. Hills proved the best jockey and the newly elected member carried off the prize. In the golf match, Fred Doerger showed up like a professional and won hands down.

The champion of all events was Mr. Stryker, who made a good showing in every event. The earnest Mr. Stebenmorgon finished a close second. They will call upon Charley Clark and get their prizes. After these events were concluded refreshments were served and then the fun was continued. The ball game started between Capt. Hanford's Athletics and Capt. Hall's Braves. The keen inside baseball knowledge of both these brilliant captains resulted in a keenly and closely contested game, which was won by Capt. Hanford's team, the score being 7 to 1. Game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Umpires Washburn and Carr had as tough a time as Hank O'Day ever dreamed of.

The next two meetings of the Royal Arcanum are going to be the biggest events of the year. At the meeting on October 22 (the Halloween meeting) the 32d anniversary will be celebrated by an open stag meeting, at which all members are at liberty to bring any of their friends. A prominent minstrel will be the principal entertainment. The following meeting on November 12, will be Ladies Night. For that evening, Mr. Leslie J. Gossin will be with us, as will also several prominent musicians. Refreshments will be served and accommodations for a large attendance will be provided.

The attention is also called to all Fireside members that Nov. 16, will be Wickersham night at Elizabeth.

HOUSE BURNED.

Fire destroyed the house on the old Cramer property at Goodman's Crossing, yesterday morning just before noon. The house was occupied by Michael Schilling. The fire started in the roof of the house, but the origin is unknown. The contents of the house was saved.

The fire department was called and the red engine responded, but owing to the lack of water, the firemen could not do much. The loss will amount to about $2500. The firemen laid 350 feet of hose and done all they could to save the house.

Operetta To Be Given At Mountainside.

"Little Red Riding Hood", an operetta, will be given by the Sunbeam Chapter of the Flossie Fisher Club, for the benefit of the Children's Country Home in the Borough Hall, Mountainside, N. J., on October 16th, at 8 o'clock. Fancy articles, cake and ice cream will be on sale. There will be recitations and selections between the acts. A small admission fee will be charged.

of antiquated farm vehicle, loaded down with Gypsy lads and lasses, amidst a setting of hay, pumpkins, carrots and other fall harvest material. Two young girls on horseback, splendidly appareled, rode gracefully behind the farm relic. Then came a monster prairie schooner, constructed for the occasion, filled with Gypsy girls who peered through great rents in the canvas covering.

All wagons in the parade were well placarded with large, bright colored cloth signs announcing the evening affair, also being abundantly decorated with pans, kettles, pots, grids, brooms, baskets and other camp necessities suspended by wires from the wagon. Two horsemen came next, followed by the camp goat with his wagon load of tent material and fire wood. Still another two horsemen and once more a wagon, this time an old buggy containing a great Gypsy woman, driving with a tiny Gypsy husband for seat mate. On the floor of the buggy, feet suspended out the back was the child of the pair, bawling at the top of his lungs because of the repeated cuffs received from his master in front. At the rear of the buggy was a pack horse dragging two long birch poles on the cross pieces of which was supposed to be an invalid Gypsy boy, comfortably resting upon a multi-colored blanket. Still again two men mounted on the

TOLAY CORNER-STONE NEW HIGH SCHOOL NEXT WEEK

Tentative Program of Fitting Ceremonies Submitted to Board. Charges Presented by Mrs. Dobbs Found to be Groundless

A tentative program for the laying of the cornerstone of the new high school building was presented at the meeting of the Board of Education on Tuesday night by James E. Cutler, the chairman of the committee. The cornerstone will, according to the program, be laid on next Thursday, October 15, weather permitting. Should the weather prove stormy the ceremony will take place the following day, Friday, October 16.

It is the idea of Mr. Cutler and his committee to have a band concert if possible, although there can be no appropriation made by the Board for a band. This will be followed by an invocation by one of the local pastors.

The schools will sing the "Star Spangled Banner". A short address will be made by a local speaker. There will be a Bible lesson by a pastor. One of the features of the ceremony will be a procession formed of representatives of each of the classes in the schools, the town officials, the fire department, police department and in fact all the departments of the town, who will march by the container which is to be placed in the stone and place a roster of its members therein. President Dempsey of the Board, will lay the cornerstone and "America" will be sung. A benediction will close the exercises. Mr. Cutler and his committee were given power to go ahead with the program and to purchase the stone and container. It is expected that the stone, which will be a very nice one, will be here in a few days. It is to be set in the corner of the building facing Elm street.

Mrs. Florence Dobbs presented several charges to the Board about paying salary being shown by the principal of the Grant school. She stated that her son was not given the treatment which was accorded other pupils in the school. The teachers committee to whom the complaints made by Mrs. Dobbs were referred, reported that they had gone over every charge made by Mrs. Dobbs and wished to report that the charges were all groundless. The District Clerk was directed to notify Mrs. Dobbs of the committee's findings.

The Board donated $50 to the District Nurse Association, as has been its custom in past years. Owing to the fact that Miss Dickinson, who has the sewing classes, is not able to do justice to the classes with the time she gives to them the Board on motion decided to give her $50 additional to compensate her for additional time to be devoted to the work.

Mr. Moser presented a detailed report of a visit of his committee to the various schools and suggested several remedies in the schools.

Mr. Dennis presented a detailed report of the work on the new high school building and said that it was progressing more rapidly. He also stated that he had seen Tuttle Brothers and they were willing to have the whistle on their mill used as a signal to the children when there was to be no school on account of storm.

Principal McLaughlin of the McKinley school presented his monthly report. It was referred to the instruction committee.

A letter was read from Rev. C. W. McLean, pastor, asking the Board to allow him to come and deliver a lecture in the Washington school auditorium on "War, Waste and Want." The letter was ordered filed.

The application of Albert Hagar for the position of janitor of the new school building was read and ordered filed.

R. W. Harden, of the Westfield Trust Company, was before the Board in regard to the school savings bank. Mr. Harden explained how the system could be worked out and said that he should like to start one in the McKinley school first, as the principal was enthusiastic over it and had stated that he had had scholars there who could take care of it. Mr. Harden also stated that the Parent-Teachers Association of that school was interested in it. The matter was referred to the finance committee with power.

After several minor matters of business had been transacted and a number of bills approved and ordered paid, the meeting adjourned.

President Dempsey presided and all the members were present, except James E. Grapo.

BOYS AND YOUNG MEN TO VISIT BOWERY

Thirty-five of the older boys and young men of this town will go to New York this afternoon to visit some of the missions on the Bowery, under the leadership of Herbert R. Welch. The boys and young men will leave on the 4:48 train and on arriving at New York at 5:50, they will meet those who are employed in the city from this town. They will then go to a restaurant on Broadway, where they will have supper, after which they will visit the Squirrel Inn mission of which "Dave" Ranney, who is known to the boys, is the superintendent. Mr. Ranney has arranged to let the boys see at first hand just how the work for the "Down-and-Outs" is conducted. They will also visit the Bowery Mission, the S. H. Hadley Mission and the Bowery Y. M. C. A.

At eight o'clock they will go to the Broome street Tabernacle, where the 25th anniversary services of the conversion of Mr. Ranney are to be celebrated. There will be hundreds of "down-and-outs" at this great mass meeting who will do honor to the greatest day in the life of "Dave" Ranney.

Mr. Ranney was once a Bowery scoundrel himself, but is now a great missionary and does work in the Bowery lodging houses, and prisons. He works under the direction of the New York City Mission Society. He is one of the foremost speakers on Bowery life today.

The mission of which Ranney is in charge is located at No. 131 Bowery. Known as the Squirrel Inn it is one of the most unique institutions along this strangely diversified thoroughfare. It is to this place and its free reading room that the outcasts of the Bowery, the fops and jetsam of human life, derelicts, come when the clear, remorseless light of morning temporarily subdues the revelry that flourishes by night. Behind the friendly shelter of a paper or a book crooks and "boes" and those "down on their luck" go through that time honored ceremony denominated in the parlors of the street as "sobering up."

"DAVE RANNEY."

Ranney knows the Bowery. He knows it because he is a product of it, because he has been through its mill. He knows the Bowery from the inside, as few other men, crook or missionary, know it.

Mr. Ranney paid a visit to this town some time ago and spoke at mass meeting of boys in the chapel of the First Methodist Church and also at the Westfield Theatre.

All boys, who are over 15 years old are cordially invited to join the party and bring their fathers along. The party will leave New York to return home on the 11:08 train.

SURPRISED ON HIS BIRTHDAY.

Just at the time that W. H. Bush was settling himself down for a quiet evening with his family at his home on West Broad street, Tuesday night, a number of his friends walked in on him and surprised him.

The surprise was tendered to Mr. Bush in honor of his birthday and after the evening had been pleasantly passed and a bountiful supper served, Mr. Bush was presented with a handsome gold mounted umbrella by his friends. The presentation was made by L. H. Phelps.

A feature of the party was the fact that the guests were dressed as boys and girls, with Mrs. Jaquish as the grandmother and Mrs. Barker as the nurse. The costumes were certainly youthful but very becoming.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Hallway, Mr. and Mrs. Jaquish, Mr. and Mrs. Clotworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Demmler, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Catto, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Clark, Mrs. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. E. Perry, Miss Westlake, Caleb Bush, J. C. Embleton and the members of the Bush family.

PURE FOOD LUNCHEON VERY SUCCESSFUL.

The Pure Food Luncheon held under the auspices of the Dorens Society, of the Presbyterian church, in the parish house, on Tuesday afternoon, was attended by one hundred persons, who enjoyed the luncheon, which was furnished by the Pure Food Lunch Company, of New York, and served by the ladies of the society. The luncheon was very successful and a neat sum was realized for the Dorens Society.

CHURCHES OBSERVE PEACE SUNDAY

In accordance with the proclamation issued by President Wilson, all the churches in town held special peace services last Sunday. The services in the Baptist church were combined with Rally Day and Communion and the largest congregation on record filled the church. The pastor, Rev. Charles T. Snow, preached a sermon on peace and how it could be obtained through the scriptures.

At the Congregational church, Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, the pastor, read President Wilson's proclamation and the special prayer prepared by Professor Rauschenbush, of Rochester, N. Y., which was supplemented with special petitions for peace. The subject of Dr. Loomis' sermon was "The Peace We Pray For." The children's choir sang for the first time this season and Rally Day exercises were held by the Sunday school.

At the Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. W. I. Stearns delivered a masterly sermon on "Thy Kingdom Come" which was permeated with the spirit of peace. The choir sang special music. A collection amounting to $60 was taken up for the Red Cross Society.

The services in the First Methodist church were in keeping with peace Sunday. The hymns sung and the scripture lesson pertained to peace. The choir sang an anthem entitled, "Give Us Peace in Our Time." Miss Dorothy French sang the solo part. Rev. G. Franklin Ream, the pastor, spoke on the moral causes of the war, pointed out the wrong of it and said that peace in nations could only be had through Christian influence. A large offering was taken for the war relief fund. At the evening service, Rev. Dr. A. W. Hayes, of Madison, delivered the third anniversary sermon of the dedication of the new church edifice.

At St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. James A. Smith, the rector, read the special prayers for peace prepared by the diocese and an offering was taken for the Red Cross Society.

At Holy Trinity church, Rev. H. J. Watterson referred to the war in his sermon at the masses and offered up special prayers for peace.

A SPECIAL FEATURE AT THE WESTFIELD THE- ATRE TONIGHT.

About the middle of June, as soon as it became known that "The Reward of Thrift" would be released to the motion picture houses in September, Mr. Flagg, of the Westfield Theatre, put in an application for the film and the result is that this play will be a special feature at both performances today.

Those who have seen the play state that it is full of excitement, showing actual work of the ironworkers on the steel frames of the skyscrapers and in caissons under compressed air.

The leading characters are two ironworkers and the real plot starts with an accident to one of them, while riding up on an iron beam and his thrilling rescue from death by one of his reckless companions, who slides down a cable to render assistance.

Passing on through interesting scenes of the work and play of these men the pictures show the dangers of caisson work and the settling of a grudge as well as a rescue of the imprisoned worker. There is also an interesting scene of the arrest of a forger, who is detected by use of the finger-print method of identification.

Altogether there is great pleasure, as well as profit, to be derived from this new play and Westfield audiences are to be congratulated on having it so soon after its release.

HACKMEN ARE WARNED.

George Nubeck, James Alexander, Roy Green, Robert Seiler and Henry Eustice, hack drivers at the railroad depot, were before Recorder Springstead last Friday night to answer a verbal complaint made against them by Officer McNeeley. The officer charged that the hackmen all drove up to the station platform at the same time, in their efforts to get passengers and that they blocked the carriageway.

Officer McNeeley said that the rule was, that when a hackman was called, he should go for a passenger.

Recorder Springstead told the hackmen that they must obey the rule or else there would be a big mix-up of autos and carriages some day which would cause injury to drivers or citizens. The advice was taken by the hackmen in the spirit in which it was given and they promised to stop the practice against which complaint was made.

SOUTH ORANGE OFFICIALS INSPECT TOWN ROADS.

The street committee of the South Orange Common Council, accompanied by the engineer of that municipality, paid a visit to this town on Friday, in a large touring car and made an inspection of the roads here. Town Engineer Vars escorted them about town.

The South Orange officials expressed themselves as well pleased with the roads of the town. They also inspected the machine used by the town to spread tar on the roads.

PROMPT RESPONSE SAVES LUMBER SHEDS.

The quick answer to a still alarm of fire prevented a serious fire at the lumber sheds of Tuttle Bros., on South avenue last Friday.

When the firemen arrived they found that the grass fire which started from the railroad in the rear of John Ledley's residence had eaten its way to the Tuttle property and the blaze was within a few inches of the lumber sheds when the firemen arrived.

Fined $10, or Ten Days.

Edward Dever, of Scranton, Pa., and Michael Sunday were haled before Recorder Springstead on Sunday morning for being helplessly drunk on the streets on Saturday night. They were arrested by Lieutenant Canfield. Recorder Springstead gave them the choice of paying a $10 fine or going to the county jail for ten days. Sunday paid the fine, but Dever took the count at the county's expense.

The Tuberculosis Exhibit of the State Board of Health will be held in Westfield, during the week of October 26. Dr. J. B. Harrison, the president of the local Board of Health, has announced that the Exhibit will be held in the auditorium of the Washington school and will be under the auspices of the local board. The Exhibit will last four or five days. There will be two sessions each day. One in the afternoon which will be especially for the children and the other in the evening for adults. Those who visit the exhibit are requested to make a thorough examination of it so that they will not have to make a second visit as there will not be room enough to accommodate at the same time, all who will wish to see it. The exhibit will consist of pictures, diagrams, lectures and motion pictures. Each evening there will be a different local speaker and in addition there will be a tuberculosis specialist who will lecture and explain everything pertaining to this dread disease.
The exhibit is given by the State in conjunction with the local Board of Health.
In addition to the tuberculosis exhibit there will be other health and sanitary features pertaining to our town and the work of the local Board of Health.

DR. BARTLETT GIVES INTERESTING LECTURE

The first lecture of the fourth course given under the direction of the Board of Education, was held in the assembly room of the Washington school on Saturday night when Dr.
Eugene A. Bartlett, delivered a lecture on "Little Citizens of Tomorrow." Owing to the fact that there were so many other attractions on that night there was not a large audience present to hear Doctor Bartlett, but the two hundred or more who did attend were amply repaid as the lecture was excellent and very interesting. More than 150 stereopticon views were shown by Doctor Bartlett of children in various parts of the world: Children at play, at school, and at work and their religious life. Doctor Bartlett told of the rights of the children and of their right to be protected in labor, and that they should all receive a proper education. He alluded to the European war several times and showed pictures of German, French and English children and stated that he was in France when the war broke out.
Prior to the lecture, K. V. Carman, the manual training teacher of the schools and who is superintending the erection of the new high school building, gave a five-minute talk on the new building in which he explained the plans of the four floors and the location of the rooms.
Dr. Bartlett was introduced by E.
E. Thompson, of the Board of Education, who stated that there would be no school on October 12th, Columbus Day.
The lecture of Dr. Bartlett was so well appreciated that it is possible that he will be asked again to give another lecture in the winter course.
Tomorrow night, Charles Rollenson will lecture on "Tramping Among the Alps."

Lollinger—Glossner.
A quiet wedding took place at the home of J. Henry Glossner on Dorlan road, Sunday morning at ten o'clock, when his daughter, Miss Corn W.
Glossner, became the bride of George W. Lollinger of this town.
The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. I. Steens of the Presbyterian church in the presence of relatives of the contracting parties.
The bride was unattended, Mr.
and Mrs. Lollinger will reside here.

GOOD NEWS.

Many Westfield Readers Have Heard It and profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Westfield are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back is had no more, thanks to Don's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Miss Kate Brady, 543 Downer St., Westfield, N. J., says: "Backaches and headaches troubled me for a long time and there seemed to be no relief for me. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and at those times, the kidney secretions were a source of annoyance. When I stooped, I felt dizzy and there was a blurring before my eyes. I learned of Don's Kidney Pills through reading of them and I began their use. My back was soon strengthened and the pains were removed, together with the other symptoms of kidney complaint.
I have not had backache or kidney trouble since. I gladly commend my former public endorsement of Don's Kidney Pills."

BOARD OF HEALTH HOLDS MONTHLY SESSION

BOARD OF HEALTH—N
The Board of Health at its monthly meeting held in its rooms in the town hall, on Friday night, decided to have the State Board of Health Tuberculosis Exhibit in the assembly room of the Washington school on the afternoons and evening of the week beginning October 26. There will be two exhibits daily, one in the afternoon, for the children and the other in the evening for adults. There will be a lecture each day by one of the lecturers of the State Board, who will talk on tuberculosis and explain everything pertaining to this dread disease.

The local board will hold a meeting in the near future, at which committees will be appointed to take charge of the local end of the exhibit. An offer was received from the First Methodist church to the effect that the Board might use the old church building for the exhibit. The secretary was directed to write a letter of thanks to the official board for the offer.

Inspector Carney made a complaint about a pig pen and outside closet on a property on Grove street. Mr. Carney said that he had notified the resident several times to do away with both, but as yet the condition had not been remedied. The Board directed Mr. Carney to send him a ten-day notice and if that did not do any good to prosecute him for violating the sanitary code. A complaint was also received from residents of First street, complaining about the crowding of roosters belonging to neighbors on that street. Mr. Carney reported that this had been abated.

The report of Inspector for the month of September was read and showed that there had been only two cases of contagious diseases during the month—one of diphtheria and one of typhoid fever. He reported three nuisances and that he had made 328 inspections.

Secretary Harden reported that he received and turned over to the town treasurer for the credit of the Board of Health, the sum of $24 for permits issued during the month of September.
The Board received tickets from the Board of Education for the course of lectures which begin tonight and the secretary was instructed to acknowledge the receipt of same.

President Harrison presided and all the members were present except Dr.
H. H. Butler.

BOOST WESTFIELDERS' ANNUAL DINNER.

The B. W.'s annual dinner and frolic was held Friday night last at Kelly's Hotel with Charles H. Denman acting as toastmaster. Host J.
W. Kelly had provided a most tooth-some fish dinner for the thirty odd guests, which was much enjoyed.
The entertainment committee provided a fine cabaret performance, being able to secure the well known Executor Trio of Newark and New York.

The Boost Westfield idea was prominent throughout the evening and short speeches were made by Mayor Evans, Councilmen DeCamp and Wilcox, J. James Jr., Chief Decker and H. M. Stieger.

After the dinner the long tables were cleared away and the guests made merry with singing and dancing until shortly after midnight.

MEDICAL SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Westfield Medical Society was held on Tuesday night, at the home of Dr.
G. S. Laird, on Central avenue. This was the first meeting of the fall and winter and all the members were present except Doctors Sinclair and Decker.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr.
F. A. Kitch; vice-president, Dr. G. S.
Laird; secretary and treasurer, Dr.
Bell.

Dr. Laird read an interesting paper on "Eye Strain." After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

TRIED TO SELL BICYCLE FOR $6.

Sergeant Rosecrans picked up Cammille Davis on Saturday for trying to sell a bicycle to Horace Martin, who keeps a bicycle store on Quimby street, for $6. Davis could not give a clear account of his wanderings except that he had been all over the country.

The sergeant took him to the police station and telephoned to the police authorities at 11 o'clock, where it was ascertained he had taken a wheel in that city which answered to the description of the one he was trying to sell to Martin. The Plainfield police came down that night and took Davis back with them.

Our Night School.
The opening of the night school brings to mind the wonderful work which this department of our Public School has done for our residents in years gone by. A visit to these evening sessions cannot fail to impress even the most incredulous with the great value the night school is to those who have not had the advantages of an education in their early years.
In one class we find clerks spending their evenings in increasing their knowledge, taking up typewriting, bookkeeping, etc.; in another department adults are busy obtaining the rudiments of an English education. All are displaying that earnest endeavor to acquire knowledge, which shows such a creditable spirit, and which will result in such vast good to our community.
May the time come when we will be able to extend the scope of the night school so that every need may be met, and every worthy ambition given an opportunity for development.

The Tuberculosis Exhibit.
The plans now being made by the Board of Health for a Tuberculosis Exhibition in our High School will receive the support of all organizations in our town.
Demonstrations such as these,
and the untiring efforts of the medical profession to promote hygiene and disease preventative agencies, are economy and efficiency of the highest type and should be encouraged in every possible way.
While we think Westfield has been exceptionally free from tuberculosis, the way to rid ourselves entirely of this very unwelcome disease is to get intim-bly acquainted with the methods of prevention and all preventive measures that there who be no further unnecessary loss of life.
The Standard bespeaks every encouragement to our Board of Health and those who are getting this exhibition together for our people, and we trust every citizen will avail himself of the privilege of attending the exhibition.
This should apply to both young and old, to the rich and to the poor, as the visitation of this dread disease does not seem to respect persons or surroundings.
None can tell who the next victim will be, so let us be for-armed with the fullest knowledge that we may avoid the disease.
This is far better than to spend a life time in curing what can so easily be prevented.

Why Not Westfield?
The exhibition of school garden products held at the public library in Elizabeth showed an earnest application on the part of many school children throughout the county. Westfield was one of the few towns not represented in the exhibition, and it should be a matter of chagrin to every citizen that this very excellent scheme for interesting our youngsters in producing something worth while should have been neglected, and that our town, which is in almost every other particular a leader in development and enterprise, was not represented.
Mayor Evans called attention to this matter in an editorial written for The Standard several months ago. This was, of course, too late to start the school gardens for this year, but let us hope that Westfield will not only be represented in the exhibition next year, but will carry away several of the one hundred or more prizes and make presentations in the competi-

connection with our failure to even be represented in this exhibition. Now is the time to make our plans for next year.

Democratic Financiering.
According to press reports, Governor Fielder is to open the political campaign of the Democratic party with speeches in Union county on October 17th.
We presume Mr. Fielder will confine his discussion to affairs in Trenton. Since our Governor was a member of the convention that framed the 1911 platform (the first under Democratic control) we would suggest that he explain to the people of Union county how it is that in 1911 his party felt so jubilant over a free credit balance of two and one half million dollars as of October of that year (accumulated, by the way, in sixteen years of Republican control), and that not thirty months afterward he addressed a message to his Legislature calling their attention to an impending treasury deficit, and a state tax, which would indicate from Democratic records that there has been one of three things—bad faith, bad arithmetic or gross incompetency in conduct of state affairs.
It is interesting to note in the Democratic platform recently passed that they anticipate an attack upon their financial policy by the Republican party, and in many well chosen words combat the attack by saying that the revenues were sufficient to meet the expenses. Anticipating this attack and having access to all the figures, it would seem that if their conduct of affairs for the past three or four years would stand analyzing and still reflect credit on the party that they would have analyzed same and given the people the benefit of the real figures and conditions.
The lack of proof on their part points strongly to their weak position in the most important of our state issues.

and one brother, Edward F. Gilby, also of this town.
The funeral was held from his late home in Newark on Wednesday evening. Interment will be in Fairview family.

John D. Basini.
John D. Basini, father of Mrs. John B. Maronghi, of Edgewood avenue, died in the Manhattan hospital, at Plainfield on Wednesday afternoon after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Basini was a well-known confectioner of Westfield, Plainfield and came to that city from Carteret six years ago. He leaves his the Parent-Teachers Association of the Grant school was held in the assembly room of that school building on Monday afternoon. There were about forty persons present. While not much business was transacted the meeting was given over to a discussion, how to create more interest in the parents, to make them become members of the association and how to deal with the children. Several new members joined the association.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served, and the members of the association met the new teachers of the school, Mrs.
W. L. Bunnell, the president presided.

SHOT ONE TOO MANY SQUIRRELS.
William R. Corbett, a colored man, giving his home address as Port Amboy, but believed to be a resident of Westfield, trespassing upon the Pearsall Co's Brightwood Forest property and shot one gray squirrel.
Shooting this one innocent little squirrel was shooting one too many and one of the Pearsall Co's caretakers had Corbett arrested and haled before a Plainfield Justice; the result, $20.00 fine or 30 days in jail. Friends of Corbett hustled around and paid the fine.
The Pearsall Company has posted its property out Prospect street and Lawrence avenue and will deal severely with all trespassers.

SCHOOL GARDEN EXHIBIT AT COUNTY SEAT.
On Wednesday of this week Mayor
Evans, President of Board of Trade Pierson, and the editor of The Standard visited the county exhibit, of school gardens, which was held in the public library building at Elizabeth.
Exhibits were in evidence from practically every town and school in the county with the exception of Westfield. The nearest representation this town had was a pumpkin exhibited by Frank Wigg, of Mountainside, who gave his address as Westfield.
This pumpkin was awarded first prize, showing what can be accomplished at Westfield were the attempt made.
The exhibit was a very creditable one and included a wide range of vegetables, of some of which the visiting delegation did not even know the names. Aside from the garden variety of vegetables there were tobacco plants, peanuts, butter balls, citron, gourds, etc.
There were also several exhibits of honey and canned vegetables. The latter were not only raised by the pupils but preserved and canned by them.

Knew What He Was Going For.
Duncan, aged four, was invited to a party. He had to take his nap before he could go. When he awoke his mother said to him, "Well, dear, are you going over to Bobby's to play?" He promptly replied, "No, I'm going over there to eat."

Badly Affected.

"Mr. Doanbrough seems really bothered with indigestion," said a friend. "I should say so! He is eating a moving picture every evening, because one of his friends had a banquet in it."

The Tides.

There is little room for doubt about the theory that the tides are due to the moon's action upon the surface of the water. Of course, there are other influences, the sun, for instance, exercising no mean force upon the tides; but the chief influence is attributable to the moon. To be sure, there is hardly any theory that is not objected to by somebody, but the theory that tidal action is due mainly to the pull of Luna may be accepted "without a reasonable doubt."

TENNIS EVENTS END

The tennis season events at the Westfield Golf Club came to a close last week, when the finals for the consolation doubles cups were won by G. O. Burrows and C. H. Kyle who defeated T. H. Ludwig and W. L. Klein, by scores of 4-6, 6-0, 8-6, 7-5.

The last two sets were close and exciting and the winners had to keep going to win out.

This season of tennis at the Westfield Golf Club, has been the best ever enjoyed by the club. The night tennis courts have been a big success and the club has been widely advertised through the two night tournaments. Greater things are promised for next year. During the winter months the events will be planned so that the big events can be arranged from June to September.

The night game will have several open championship events

Stanley Oval Club to Meet Beechwood Club.

An interesting tennis match will be played tomorrow afternoon, between the Stanley Oval and Beechwood clubs on the courts of the former club.

Play will start at 2:30 and some exciting tennis games are promised and sure to be enjoyed.

WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB HAS SOME DOINGS

In the semi-finals for the Governor's Cup, played at the Westfield Golf Club last Saturday, C. P. West who was picked as one of the prospective winners, was eliminated, R. S. Gales defeating him, 2 up and 1 to play. O. Knight defeated W. A. Sturges easily, 4 up and 3 to play. The finals will be played this week and one of the closest finishes of the season is looked for as both the contestants are playing in top form and are evenly matched.

The Saturday sweepstake event at the Westfield Golf Club, was won by A. I. Nicholas with 40-40-80-14-66. R. L. McIntosh was second, 44-43-87-20-67. P. Armstrong was third with 52-45-97-25-72.

But three weeks remain in which to turn in the best selected score for the season and every member of the club is working hard to better his previous scores. To date, R. H. Aronson is leading with J. B. Barr, second. On Columbus Day there will be a mixed foursome in the morning and the dead ones will have a tombstone tournament in the afternoon.

The qualifying round for the Dr. R. R. Sinclair cup will be played on Saturday between the hours of 12 and 3 o'clock. This will be the fourth year this cup has been up for competition and must be won twice by the same contestant for personal ownership. A. B. Mallefert was the 1911 winner, G. C. Abernethy and T. Fukui were the 1912 and 1913 winners.

Thursday, October 22, 1914, tournament given by the Westfield Golf Club to the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association. A. M. Medal Play Handicap, 18 holes. Prize for Gross score, presented by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association. Prize for Net Score, presented by the Westfield Golf Club. Birdie Prize, presented by club professional.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS OPENING GAME

South Orange proved easy for the local high school eleven last Saturday, the home team running up a score of 53-0, the largest score made by a Prep or High School team in the East on that day. At only one time during the game was the South Orange attack dangerous and the whistle blew for the end of the half when they were almost within reach of a score.

A forward pass to Brower, end runs by Cruttenden and Randall, and a line plunge by Bourne put the ball in position for Ewing to carry the ball over for the first score, after only two minutes of play. Bourne and Randall added touchdowns during the first half. Cruttenden contributed two scores in the third period while all the backfield, except Bourne scored in the last period.

CHAPTER IX.

Forewarned.

The thing was managed with an iniquity that Alan termed devilish—it is indisputably Machiavellian.

The lovers had come down from the north in hot haste and the shadow of death. Two days of steady traveling canoe, by woods trail, by lake steamer—forty-eight hours of fatigue and strain caused by not one instant's relaxation from the high tension of vigilance upon which their very lives depended—were to a culmination through this tedious afternoon on the ship from Moosehead—a trap of physical torment only made possible by Alan's luck in securing, through sheer accident, two parlor-car reservations turned back at the last moment before leaving Kineo station.

No matter—the longest afternoon must have its evening: the pokiest of rains, comes the more surely to its destination; in another hour or two they would be in Portland—free at last to draw breath of ease in a land of law, order and sane living.

As if in answer to this thought, the rain slowed down with whistling strokes to the last hill-station, and as the trucks groaned and moved anew, a lout of a boy came galloping down the aisle, brandishing two yellow envelopes and blating like a stray calf: "Mista Law! Mista Law! Tel'grams for Mista Law!"

Alan had been expecting at every station a prepaid reply to his wire for observations on the night express from Portland to New York.

But why two envelopes superscribed Mr. A. Law, Kineo train southbound, Oakland Sta.?"

He tore one open, unfolded the inclosure, and grunted disgust with its curt advice, opened the other and aught his breath sharply as he withdrew—part way only—a playing card, trey of hearts.

Thrusting it back quickly, he clapped both envelopes together, tore them to a hundred fragments, and scattered them from the window. But no fiendish wind whisked one small scrap back—and only one!—into the lap of the woman he loved.

Only he prayed that she might sleep. The silken lashes trembled on her cheeks and lips, and, disarmed by either team.

In the first game, Tobin of crap canum and Miller of the Imbwa. Aid fouled and Brown of the last scores fouled in the third game.

THREE FROM JUNIORS

The first matches in the... has secured the exclusive right to publish serially "The Trey O'Hearts" by Louis Joseph Vance, one of the greatest stories of the present day. The third installment appears on this page.

A full page installment or more will follow each week.

In collaboration with Mr. J. J. Sash of the Westfield Theatre, his story will be shown in moving pictures each week. The pictures of the installment published today will be shown next Thursday.

She said, "Too bad," abstractedly, reclosed her eyes, and apparently lapsed anew into semi-somnolence—but without deceiving him who could well guess what poignant anxiety gnawed at her heart.

ment when they were congratulating themselves upon the approach of a respite!

The sheer insanity of the whole damnable business!

The grim, wild absurdity of it!

To think that this was America, this the twentieth century, the apex of the highest form of civilization the world had ever known—and still a man could be hunted from pillar to post, haunted with threats, harried with attempts at assassination in a hundred forms—and that by a slip of a girl with the cunning of a madwoman, the heart of a thug, the face of a charming child—the face of the woman that sat beside him, duplicating its every perfect feature so nearly that even he who loved the one could scarcely distinguish her from the other but by instinct, intuition, blind guesswork...

...nodded heavily-hearted confirmation of a surmise slowly settling into his mind, that such cunning purpose and pertinacity might possibly spring from a mind so balanced, that the woman, Judith Foster, to the Rose he loved so dearly, as mad as that monomaniac, Feb., who sat helpless in his arms.

cell of silence and shadows in New York, day after day, eating his heart out with impatience for the word that his vengeance had been consummated by the daughter whom he had inspired to execute it.

An hour late, in dusk of evening, the train lumbered into Portland station; and, heart in mouth, Alan helped Rose from the steps, shouldered a way for her through the crowd, and almost lifted her into a taxicab.

"Best hotel in town," he demanded.

"And be quick about it—for a double tip."

To communicate his one desperate scheme to the girl en route, receiving her indorsement of it. So, having registered for her and seen her safely to the door of the best available room in the house within ready call of the public lobby and office, he washed up, gulped a hasty meal—which Rose had declined to share, pleading fatigue—and hurried away into the night with only the negro driver of a public hack, picked up haphazard at some distance from the hotel, for his guide.

CHAPTER X.

Fortuity.

He wasted the better part of an hour in fruitless and perhaps ill-advised inquiries; then his luck, such as it was, led him on suspicion down a poorly lighted wharf, at the extreme end of which he discovered a lonely young man perched atop a pile, hands in pockets, gaze turned to a tide whereon, now black night had fallen, pallid wreaths of yachts swung just visibly beneath uneasy riding-lights.

"Pardon me," Alan ventured, "but perhaps you can help me out—"

"You've come to the wrong shop, my friend," the young man interposed with morose civility; "I couldn't help anybody out of anything—the way I am now."

"I'm sorry," said Alan, "but I thought possibly you might know where I could find a seaworthy boat to charter."

The young man slipped smartly down from his perch. "If you don't look sharp," he said ominously, "you'll charter the Seaventure." He waved his hand toward a vessel moored alongside the wharf: "There she is, and a better boat you won't find anywhere—schooner-rigged, fifty feet over all, twenty-five horsepower, motor auxiliary, two staterooms—all ready for as long a coastwise cruise as you care to take. Come aboard."

He led briskly across the wharf, down a gangplank, then aft along the deck to a companionway, by which the two men gained a comfortable and roomy cabin, bright with fresh white enamel.

Here the light of the cabin lamp revealed to Alan's searching scrutiny a person of sturdy build and independent carriage, with a roughly modeled, good-humored face, reddish hair, and steady though twinkling blue eyes.

"Name, Barcus," the young man introduced himself cheerfully; "christened Thomas. Nativity, American. State of life, flat broke. That's the rub," he laughed, and shrugged, shame-faced. "I found myself hard up this spring with this boat on my hands, sunk every cent I had—and then some—fitting out on an oral charter with a moneyed blighter in New York, who was to have met me here a fortnight since. He didn't—and here I am, in pawn to the ship chandler, desperate enough for anything."

"How much do you owe?"

"Upwards of a hundred."

"Say I advanced that amount—when can we sail?"

The young man reflected briefly. "There's something so engagingly idiotic about this proceeding," he observed wistfully. "I've got the strangest kind of a hunch it's going to go through. Pay my bills, and we can be off inside an hour. That is—"

He checked with an exclamation of dismay, chafallen. "I may have some trouble securing a crew at short notice. I had two men engaged, but last week they got tired doing nothing for nothing and left me flat."

"Then that's settled," Alan said. "I know boats; I'll be your crew—and the better satisfied to have nobody else aboard."

The eyes of Mr. Barcus clouded. "See here, my headlong friend, what's your little game, anyway? I don't mind playing the fool on the high seas, but I'll be no party to a kidnapping or—"

"It's an elopement," Alan interrupted on inspiration. "We've simply got to get clear of Portland by midnight."

"You're on!" Barcus agreed promptly, his face clearing. "God only knows why I believe you, but I do—and here's my hand!"

CHAPTER XI.

Blue Water.

Anxiety ate like an acid at Alan's heart. If this shift to the sea might be thought a desperate venture, he was a weathered salt-water man and undismayed; nothing would have been more to his liking than a brisk coastwise cruise in an able boat—under auspices less forbidding.

But when he re-entered the hotel one surprising thing happened that gave him new heart—momentarily it seemed almost as if his luck had turned. For, as he paused by the desk of the cashier to demand his bill, the elevator gate opened and Rose came out eagerly to meet him with an eager air of hope that masked measurably the signs of fatigue.

"I worried so I couldn't rest," she told him guardedly as he drew her aside; "so I arose and got ready, and watched from the window till I saw you drive up."

He acquainted her briefly with his fortune.

But she seemed unable to echo his confidence or even to overcome the heaviness of her spirits when their cab, without misadventure, set them down at the wharf.

Here, Alan had feared, was the crucial point of danger—if the influence of the trey of hearts was to bring disaster upon them it would be here, in the hush and darkness of this deserted water front. And he bore himself most warily as he helped the girl from the car and to the gangplank of the Seaventure. But nothing happened; while Mr. Barcus was as good as his word. Alan had barely set foot on deck, following the girl, when the gangplank came aboard with a clatter, and the Seaventure swung away from the wharf.

Until the distance was too great for even a flying leap Alan lingered watchfully on deck.

At length, satisfied that all was well, he returned to the cabin.

"All right," he nodded; "we're clear of that lot, apparently; nobody but the three of us aboard. Now you'd best turn in. This is evidently to be your stateroom, this one to port, and you'll have a long night's sleep to make up for what you've gone through—dearest."

He drew nearer, dropping his voice tenderly. And of a sudden, with a little low cry, the girl came into his arms and clung passionately to him.

"But you?" she murmured. "You need rest as much as I! What about you?"

"Oh, no I don't!" he contended. "Besides I'll have plenty of time to rest up once we're fairly at sea. Barcus and I stand watch and watch, of course. There's nothing for you to do but be completely at your ease. But—you must let me go."

Eyes half-closed, her head thrown back, she seemed to suffer his kiss rather than to respond, then turned hastily away to her stateroom—leaving him staring with wonder at her strangeness.

By midnight the Seaventure was spinning swiftly south-southeast, close reefed to a snoring sou'west wind—the fixed white eye of Portland head light fast falling astern.

CHAPTER XII.

Down the Cape.

At four o'clock, or shortly after, Alan was awakened by boot-heels pounding imperatively overhead, and went on deck again, to stand both dog-watches—saw the sun lift up smiling over a world of tumbled blue water, crossed the wake of a Cunard liner inbound for Boston, raised and overhauled a graceful but businesslike fisherman (from Gloucester, Barcus opined when called to stand him trick at eight) and saw it a mile or two astern when—still reeling with fatigue—he was free to return to his berth for another four-hour rest.

This time misguided consideration induced Barcus to let his crew sleep through the first afternoon watch. Six bells were ringing when, in drowsy apprehension that something had gone suddenly and radically wrong, Alan waked.

He was on deck again almost before he rubbed the sleepiness from his eyes, emerging abruptly from the half-light of the cabin to a dazzle of sunlight that filled the cup of day with rarefied gold, even as he passed from conviction of security to realization of immediate and extraordinary peril.

His first glance discovered the wheel deserted, the woman with back to him standing at the aft rail, Barcus—nowhere to be seen. The second confirmed his surmise that the Seaventure had come up into the wind, and now was yawing off wildly into the trough of a stiff if not heavy sea. A third showed him, to his amazement, the Gloucester fisherman—overhauled with such ease that morning and now, by rights, well down the northern horizon—not two miles distant, and standing squarely for the smaller vessel.

Bewildered, he darted to the girl's side, with a shout, demanding to know what was the matter. She turned to him a face he hardly recognized—but still he didn't understand. The inevitable inference seemed a thing unthinkable; his brain faltered: when asked to credit it. Only when he saw her tearing frantically at the painter, striving to cast it off and with it the dory towing a hundred feet or so astern, and when another wondering glance had discovered the head and shoulders of Mr. Barcus rising over the stern of the dory as he strove to lift himself out of the water—only then did Alan begin to appreciate what had happened.

Even so, it was with the feeling that all the world and himself as well had gone stark, raving mad, that he seized the girl and, despite her struggles, tore her away from the rail before she had succeeded in unknitting the painter.

"Rose!" he cried stupidly. "Rose! What's the matter with you? Don't you see what you're doing?"

Defiance inflamed her countenance and accents. "Can't you ever say anything but 'Rose! Rose! Rose!' Is there no other name that means anything to you? Can't you understand how intolerable it is to me? I love you no less than she—better than she bloody-minded vixen is your t bride-to-be?" Alan shook a helpless head, thing defied reasonable expla

He made a feeble stagger at self or to the outraged Barcus.

"No—it's all a damnable mistake! She's her sister—I mean, the right girl's sister—and her precise double—fooled me—not quite right in the head, I'm afraid."

"You may well be afraid, you poor flat!" Mr. Barcus snapped. "D'you know what she did? Threw me overboard! Fact! Came on deck a while ago, sweet as peaches—and all of a sudden whips out a gun as big as a cannon, points it at my head and orders me to luff into the wind. Before I could make sure I wasn't dreaming, she had fired twice—in the air—a signal to that blessed fisherman astern there—at least, they answered with two tools of a power whistle and changed course to run up to us. Look how she's gained already!"

"But how did she happen to throw you overboard?"

"Happen nothing!" Barcus snapped, getting to his feet. "She did it a purpose—flew at me like a wildcat, and before I knew what was up—I was slammed backwards over the rail."

"I can't tell you how sorry I am," Alan responded gravely. "There's more to tell—but one thing to be done first."

"And that?" Mr. Barcus inquired suspiciously.

"To get rid of the lady," Alan announced firmly. "Make that fisherman a present of the woman in the case. You don't mind parting with the dory in a good cause—if I pay for it?"

"Take it for nothing," Barcus grumbled. "Cheap at the price!"

He took Alan's place, watching him with a sardonic eye as he drew the tender in under the leeward quarter, made it fast, and reopened the companionway.

As the girl came on deck without other invitation, in a sullen rage that only heightened her wonderful loveliness, Alan noted that her first look was for him, of untempered malignity; her second, for Barcus, with a curling lip; her third, astern, with a glimmer of satisfaction as she recognized how well the fisherman had drawn up on the Seaventure.

"Friends of yours, I infer?" Alan inquired civilly.

Judith nodded. "Then it would save us some trouble—yourself included—if you'll be good enough to step into the dory without a struggle."

Without a word, Judith stepped to the rail and, as Barcus luffed, swung herself overside into the dory.

Immediately Alan cast off, and as the little boat sheered off, Barcus, with a sigh of relief, brought the Seaventure once more back upon her course.

For some few minutes there was silence between the two men, while the tender dropped swiftly astern, the woman plying a brisk pair of oars.

Then, suddenly elevating his nose, Barcus sniffed audibly. "Here," he said sharply, "relieve me for a minute, will you? I want to go forward and have a look at that motor."

In the time that he remained invisible between decks the fisherman luffed, picked up the dory and its occupant, and came round again in open chase of the Seaventure.

When Barcus reappeared it was with a grave face.

"The devil and the deep Sea," he observed obscurely, coming aft, "from all their works, good Lord deliver us!"

"What's the trouble now?"

"Nothing much—only your playful little friend has been up to another of her light-hearted tricks. . . . If you should happen to want a smoke or anything to eat when you go below, just find a mirror and kiss yourself good-by before striking the match. The drain-cocks of both fuel tanks have been opened, and there are upwards of a hundred and fifty gallons of highly explosive gasoline sloshing around in the bilge!"

CHAPTER XIII.

No Quarter.

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Barcus indulgently, breaking a long silence. "Very interesting. Very interesting, indeed. I've seldom listened to a more entertaining life-history, my poor young friend. But I tell you candidly, as man to man, I don't believe one word of it. It's all a—foolishness!"

His voice took on a plaintive accent. "Particularly this!" he expostulated, and waved an indignant hand compassing their plight.

"The rest of your adventures reasonable enough," he said, "won my credulity—and I'm a native Missourite. But this last chapter is possible. And that's flat. It can happen—and has. And there's no manner of speaking, we are."

Against the western horizon, low-lying strip of sand dunes like a bar of purple cloud between crimson atterglow of sun and sky and the ensanguined sea.

The wind had gone down, leaving the Seaventure—her motor long since out of fuel—in shoal water off the desolate and but Barcus, out of his abode of those waters, beach.

WESTFIELD WOMAN INTERESTED IN WORLD WAR WORK

An international movement for the relief of the distressed wives, children and other relatives and dependents of soldiers involved in the World War has been organized and is conducting a campaign for funds with which to carry on the Mercy Work.

The effort is being made by the Committee of Mercy which has its headquarters at No. 336 Fifth avenue Bldg., New York.

Mrs. F. J. Goodwin, 416 Boulevard, Westfield, is much interested in this work.

The President of the organization is the Hon. Elihu Root, U. S. Senator from New York. It's treasurer, is August Belmont, to whom contributions may be forwarded. The plan has the endorsement of President Woodrow Wilson, who, consistent with its attitude of neutrality, recognized the necessity for a movement to relieve the non-combatants of all nations involved in the struggle.

The field of the Red Cross is to minister to the sick and wounded soldiers.

The mission of the Committee of Mercy is to help those left behind by the soldiers. Relief will be given to such, no matter where they reside.
 The vast number in the United States will be aided as well as the indigent and suffering in the theatre of the European War.

Among those interested in the movement and who have taken up the active work in New York are: Miss Katherine B. Davis, Charles W. Elliot,
 Mrs. Borden Harriman, Hon. John Purroy Mitchell, Mr. Norman Hap-good, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Miss Ida Tarbell, Prof. William M. Sloane,

SHORT COURSES IN AGRICULTURE.

The Short Courses in Agriculture offered in connection with the New Jersey State Agricultural College at New Brunswick, will open this year on November 16, and continue for a period of twelve weeks. Provision is made for a holiday recess during Christmas Week, but the students will be required to attend all lectures given during Farmer's week, which is scheduled to open on December 29.
 Four separate courses are offered in connection with this work:

First: Course I in General Agriculture and Dairy Farming is outlined to meet the demand of the student who is interested or engaged in general farming. The subject matter offered relates primarily to farm conditions and practices that exist, or are adapted to New Jersey. Second: Course II is a special course designed to meet the demand of the fruit-grower or the man interested in market-gardening. New Jersey is notably a fruit and market-gardening State, and this line of endeavor is deserving of extensive development. Third: Course III provides for a complete course in poultry husbandry. It is admitted that the poultry industry of New Jersey is approaching extensive development and that the keen competition that prevails, requires special training and preparation. Fourth: Course IV provides work in domestic science and domestic art. Practical demonstrations in cooking, sewing, millinery and allied subjects are given, and the girls are thus trained to meet the many problems of home-making.

The work as outlined is eminently practical and fittingly prepares the student for actual work on the farm and in the home. Young men and women who have completed one or more of the courses, have found it of inestimable value. Residents of the State may enter without entrance examinations and with free tuition privileges. The new agricultural building provides additional lecture and laboratory rooms and equipment, and the teaching force has been reinforced to such an extent that it will be possible to care for an increased number of students during the coming winter.
 Those interested in the courses as offered, may obtain additional information and complete schedule of courses by addressing Frederick C. Minkler, Director Short Courses in Agriculture at New Brunswick, New Jersey.

saddle horses and after them a large covered wagon, curtains up, loaded with Gypsy girls. A pony cart brimming full and running over with jolly young Gypsies, a pair of fine looking mounted Gypsies and so on down the line. The march took in about two miles of the best residential section on both sides of the track.

While the parade was in progress a small army of Methodist men were getting up the tents, setting the great iron pots on tripods, placing the serving tables and starting the roaring camp fires—for supper was to be served at 6, not 6.01.

And such a supper. Steaming clam chowder in bountiful portion for a dime; coffee and crullers for another dime; "hot dogs" right out of the boiling water for the proverbial nickel; sandwiches of a score of makes were sold all about the grounds by Gypsy girls in brilliant costume. Peanuts and candy and lots of good things were to be found, all at fair prices with no short change embarrassment.
 The entrance to the oak grove, on Carleton road was well worth, alone, the price of admission, being an elaborately painted canvas 35 feet long by 15 feet high, in the center of which was a doorway to a canvas room, where the ticket seller held forth. In great, flaming letters of yellow, red, green and blue, were graphically set forth the good things to be found back in the grove.

The concert was to start at 8 P. M., "on the tick of the watch." If there was criticism to be made here it would be that the "show" began at 7.59. And it was some show. Some seventy-five fine singers, elocutionists and dancers were gathered in a great circle under a large cluster of electric lights which made the stage as bright as day.

Alfred E. Pearsall, as King of the Gypsies, before an audience of over one thousand people, raising his voice, started the performance, being alone on the grass stage. His call was for the Gypsies to gather round the big camp fire for an evening of stories, song and good cheer. From all parts of the grove came answering calls of "here we are, here we are", and at a brisk run the Gypsies reached the fireside, making a picture never to be forgotten. Red fire was used to heighten the effect. Then came a welcome song rendered as a chorus. The King sang "Gypsy John" as few can sing it, receiving thunderous applause with encore after encore. As Gypsy Queen, Mrs. French sang splendidly.
 Under the leadership of Miss Dorotay Gangel, twelve of Westfield's prettiest girls in costumes of silks, satins, linen, plush and lace, supplemented with pounds of gold ornaments and bead-work, gave a Gypsy dance, especially gotten up for the occasion by Miss Gangel's teacher, Prof. Grutzel, of New York.

Round after round of applause made the woods ring to the echo and throughout the entertainment the delight of the large audience was manifested in bursts of handclapping and calls of "splendid, please do it again, sing it once more, we will stay all night."

At the close of the concert the visitors were invited to have an "after-show" supper and hundreds once more surrounded the great iron pots at the camp fires, refusing to leave until the last bit of chowder was old, the last "hot dog" had ceased to exist; till every drop of coffee had disappeared and each crumb of cruller been gobbled.
 Then the sandwiches were swept as by storm and the candy and peanut-eaten. The commissary was completely sold out.

But so great was the enthusiasm of the crowd that they wandered about the grounds, obvious of the time and delighted by the music being rendered by the fine orchestra which was one of the features of the early evening concert. Mounting a stump, Thomas W. Murray, a New York money broker, offered at auction, a peanut necklace, taken from the throat of a beautiful Gypsy girl standing nearby.
 Starting with a dollar bid, the price mounted by quarters and halves until, declaring the necklace should not leave the tribe, the Gypsy King himself bid it in at $7. Congressman Wm.
 E. Tuttle, Jr., with Mayor Stewart, of Plainfield, and Mayor Evans, of Westfield, were the guests of honor, but catching the spirit of the evening they refused to accept the good things earnerly offered by the people in charge, and instead spent money as if there were no war in Europe, no hard times at home and no need to care for the future.

It was midnight before the home folks in the grove were once more in full possession of their property. So delighted was the committee with the social as well as the financial success of their scheme that they have already begun planning for an "Indian Village" to be given about this time next fall.
 A larger space will be used and the whole affair will be based on the theory that at least twenty-five hundred visitors will have to be catered to.

Woman Suffrage

Pro and Con

PRESENT CAUSE TO LEGISLATORS.

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, president of the Union, had more than a thousand signatures with her of men who were in favor of woman suffrage when she was in Trenton last Tuesday, to present her cause to the Democratic Convention, and asked that a plank be put in the Platform. Among the signatures were those of well known men all over the state. The letter Mrs. Van Winkle presented to the Platform Committee, read as follows:
 "In 1913 the Democratic Party as represented in the Legislature passed the Equal Suffrage Resolution for submission to the voters of this state although the party had not declared itself for equal suffrage."
 "Because of an error on the part of the Democratic Party—that of failing to advertise the amendment as required by law—the submission to the people of the Equal Suffrage Resolution was delayed one year."
 In September of 1913 the Democrati-ic Party adopted woman suffrage as one of its principles and placed the plank in its platform for the first time.

 In 1914 the resolution was again presented to the Legislature and favorably voted upon by a majority of the Democratic members of both the Senate and the House."

Is the Democratic Party going to keep faith? It was charged that the error concerning the advertising of the Equal Suffrage Resolution of 1913 was a wilful one. Unless the Democratic Party renews its plank for woman suffrage it will give color to this charge.

"The opposition has been heard in the Convention and three times before the Legislature. The Legislature replied to the opposition by voting for the Equal Suffrage Resolution. These women are now not merely seeking a re-consideration of the important question before this committee, but are asking that the Democratic Party shall break faith."

We respectfully ask that your platform of 1914 renew the Democratic party's promise of 1913 to refer woman suffrage to the voters.

SUPPLY OF GUNS AND AMMUNITION NOT FOR GERMAN ARMY

At the Westfield Hardware Store, on the corner of Broad and Elm streets, there has been assembled a collection of guns and ammunition, some small portion of which will be on exhibit in the show windows of the store during the coming week.

Most of these arms and the accompanying ammunition has been secured since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe. It was not gathered for the German army, though it might be acceptable to them. It was assembled for a discriminating Westfield public and is at their disposal.

You will find in the collection arms suited for all purposes—choke bore shot guns for trap work; open gauge guns for field and brush shooting; rifles of small calibre for target shooting; and shells and cartridges of all kinds. Some of these arms are being sold at remarkably low prices. It would well pay you to stop in at the hardware store on the corner and look them over.—Adv.

SHORT SESSION BY TOWN FATHERS

Fire Chief Decker Voted $150 to Defray Expenses to Firemen's Convention at New Orleans

Owing to the fact that one of the committees of the town council held a meeting in the police station on Monday night the council meeting did not get under way until nine o'clock. After it did get started, however, the routine business was disposed of in quick order and the session was over before ten o'clock.

Bids for laying 1800 feet of concrete sidewalk on Myrtle avenue, and Grove street were received from Charles Lentz, Jr., and B. W. Chamberlin. The contract was awarded to Chamberlin who was the lowest bidder. The amount of the contract was $1,475.50. Lentz and the Weldon Contracting Company presented bids for the work of improving Edgewood Parkway and Pleasant Place. Lentz was given this contract. His bid was $1,712.

The hearing on the report of the improvement of Lenox avenue, from Stanley avenue, to Chestnut street, was, on motion of Councilman DeCamp of the road committee, continued until next meeting.

There being no objections received to the report of the Board of Assessors on the work and materials furnished in the improvement of Dorian road, Hazel avenue, and St. George place, the report was confirmed by the council.

The following resolutions were presented by Councilman Davis, of the finance committee and adopted: The issuing of an improvement certificate for $2,088.53; the issuing of a separate certificate of improvement on each of the road improvement ordinances; the issuing of a certificate of indebtedness for $3,900 and the transferring of $21.80 from the unexpended balances to the credit of the Playground Commission.

Councilman Hohenstein introduced a resolution, which was adopted, to authorize the treasurer to draw a warrant to the amount of $150 to defray the expenses of Fire Chief Decker, who is to attend the Firemen's Convention to be held in New Orleans on October 23 and 24. Mr. Hohenstein recommended that the coal for use at the fire house this winter be bought half from J. S. Irving and half from Tuttle Brothers, they being the lowest bidders.

Councilman DeCamp of the road committee in a resolution reported unfavorably on the petition of residents of Ripley place for the construction of a concrete sidewalk on both sides of that thoroughfare and that the petition be returned to the road committee.

Councilman Affleck of the police committee, presented the resignation of Charles Lance as special police officer. The resignation was accepted by the council.

The reports of the town officers for the month were as follows: Treasurer Darby's balance, $11,801.67; Recorder Springstead, $55 in fines collected;

Building Inspector Moffett issued six permits, aggregating $43,350; Overseer of the poor Fitch, reported a balance on hand of $239.13; Secretary Harden of the Board of Health, reported having turned over to the town treasurer, for the credit of the Board, $24 for permits issued; Chief O'Neill reported eighteen arrests for the month.

The estate of John S. Burhans, through Samuel Burhans, the executor, asked for an apportionment of taxes to the present owners on the property, formerly belonging to the estate. This was referred to the Board of Assessors.

A deed of dedication of a portion of Pleasant Place, was presented to the council by James O. Clark and referred to the road committee. Bills amounting to $6,009.08 were read and ordered paid.

Mayor Evans presided and all the members of the councilman were present except Councilman Wilcox.

"CABIRIA."

At The Playhouse, Friday, Oct. 16. The most stupendous of all motion picture spectacles—CABIRIA—when packed the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York, and which has created a sensation the like of which has never been witnessed here or abroad, will be the attraction at The Playhouse, Friday, October 16.

The opportunity to witness CABIRIA at a popular scale of prices should prove welcome to the people of this town. Apart from its tremendous educational value CABIRIA should be seen because it will stand out for years to come as the most wonderful the most remarkable, the most colossal film drama ever produced.

CABIRIA was written and personally staged by Gabriele D'Annunzio, the distinguished Italian poet, who has contributed several extraordinary successes to the modern stage. It cost $250,000 to produce this magnificent drama and several hundred men, and women artists of superior histrionic ability appear in its unfolding. Thousands of supernumeraries and thousands of animals of all kinds are in the picture forming the greatest ensembles ever shown.

LOYAL FALL MEETING.

Next Thursday, October 15th, Union Council will hold its regular meeting. A very fine entertainment will be provided, which is in the nature of a surprise. Let all the boys come out.

The whole of our present stock was bought six months ago and consequently is offered at low prices established before the war abroad upset market conditions here.

It is strong in assortments of medium weight underwear; the heavier weights not being much in demand because of our constantly moderating winters. Nevertheless all weights, including the heaviest, are carried in stock.

Made of two distinct fabrics ingeniously woven together. The cotton face is next the skin making it exceedingly comfortable. Wool is on the outside, affording good protection without body contact.

Particularly desirable for school room, office, etc.

We also carry full assortment of the celebrated White Cat closed crotch, and Root's Tivoli underwear, for men, women and children. Standard prices prevail.
