THOUSANDS PARADE UNDER BANNERS OF HOLY NAME

Streets Lined For Blocks With Spectators From All Parts of Union County to Witness Largest Demonstration Ever Held by These Societies

The annual Holy Name rally of the societies of Union county was held here on Sunday afternoon and was witnessed by thousands of people. The parade of the members of the societies, which numbered nineteen, was participated in by between four and five thousand men and was said to have been the largest parade ever held by the society in this county. The parade started from Broad and Elm streets headed by the local police department. Next came Matthias Miller, the grand marshal and president of the society, with him was Rev. H. J. Watterson, the rector of the church. They were followed by a band of twenty-five pieces and the members of Holy Trinity Holy Name Society two hundred strong. These were followed by societies from Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield, Roselle, Roselle Park, Cranford, Linden and Stony Hill. Nearly all the societies had their own bands of music.

After marching through the principal streets of the town the parade passed the reviewing stand on Westfield avenue which had been erected at the end of the porch of the rectory. Here they were reviewed by Monsignor Charles A. Mackel, of St. Patrick's church, Elizabethport; the Very Rev. Dean O'Neill, of St. Mary's church, Elizabeth; and a number of other clergy prominent in the Catholic church of the county.

After the review the parade disbanded and the members of the societies formed themselves in compact lines around the reviewing stand. After having been welcomed by Rev. H. J. Watterson, the rector of Holy Trinity church, Monsignor Charles A. Mackel was introduced by Father Watterson and delivered a short but interesting address on the objects of the Holy Name Society, its origin and its relation to the Catholic church.

At the close of Monsignor Mackel's address benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given. Those who officiated at the benediction were Celebrant, Very Rev. Dean O'Neill, of St. Mary's church, Elizabeth; deacon, Rev. Florian Widman, O. S. B., of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Elizabeth; sub-deacon, Rev. Charles A. Doyle, of St. Joseph's church, Roselle; master.

ANNUAL FAIR AND BAZAAR

Of Holy Trinity Church Has Attracted Large Crowds and Proved Very Profitable. Oyster Supper Tonight

The annual fair and bazaar of Holy Trinity church has been in progress at the assembly hall of the Westfield Theatre all this week and has attracted a large number of people both Catholic and non-Catholic.

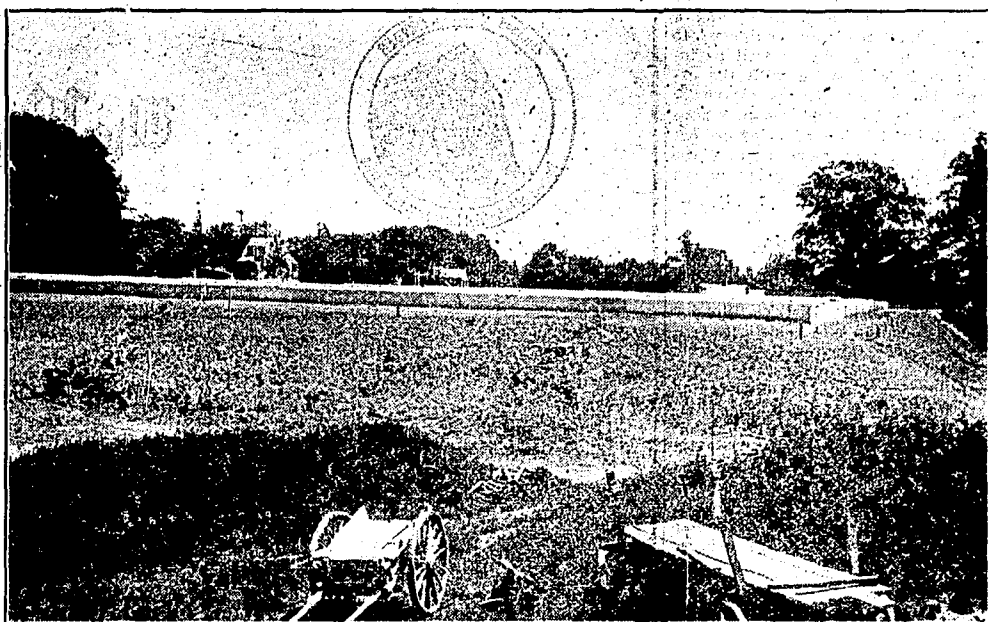

The fair was opened on Monday night by Mayor H. W. Evans who congratulated the members of the Holy Name Society on the wonderful demonstration and showing they made the day before and said that it was a big event for Westfield and its history. He stated that the members were fortunate in having such a fine man as Father Watterson for a leader and that Father Watterson was fortunate in having a congregation of men and women who do things, and that such people were a credit to the town. The Mayor closed his address by wishing success to the fair and all the under takings of the members of Holy Trinity church.

The bazaar has been a decided success so far and there has been some added attraction each night. Tuesday night was "Holy Name" night, Wednesday night, Knights of Columbus night; last night was "Women's Night" and to-night and to-morrow night will be Parish nights. To-night there will be an oyster supper served and it is expected there will be a record crowd present.

All the booths in the hall have been doing a rushing business all the week and as a result of the bazaar it is expected that a large sum will be added to the coffers of the church.

At the fair of Holy Trinity church, night Vernon Castle, of the State of New Jersey, Mr. J. McCormick, will be the champion dancer. There will be clam chowder and several men of affairs in the county will be present.

LOCAL POSTAL CLERK KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Arnold Finkle Collides on Motorcycle With Horse and Wagon and Succumbs to Injuries After Removal to Hospital

As a result of running into a horse and wagon while riding his motorcycle from this town to Plainfield on Tuesday night, Arnold Finkle was so badly injured that he died at an early hour on Wednesday morning. Finkle was employed as a mailing clerk in the local post office and left the office at 7:30 in the evening, on his motorcycle, for his home in Plainfield. When he reached Terrill road in Scotch Plains he collided with a horse and wagon. The horse was so badly injured that it had to be killed. Finkle was injured about the face and head and was taken to the Muhlenberg hospital in Plainfield where he died a few hours later.

Finkle had been employed in the post office since June and the rest of his fellow employees were much shocked to hear of his untimely death. He leaves a widow and one child. He was a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from his late home, 382 Emerson avenue, at 11 o'clock. Interment will be made at Pottersville, N. J.

UNION COUNCIL'S HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Spirits certainly were in evidence last evening at the meeting of Union Council. After the business part was over the fun began.

The entertainment took on the character of a Halloween affair and was carried through with a clock work thoroughness which was admirable. The orator's committee had decorated the room with sheaves of corn stalks which was an innovation in itself.

All sorts of funny stunts were indulged in—as ducking for apples, chewing the cord, getting the penny from the dumb cake, making a penny fall into a funnel from Bill Gale's nose (ask him how it is done), passing the clothes pins, hopping over the apples fixed on sticks (ask Judy Worth about the eight second record).

Favors and false faces, unique refreshments all added to the success of the entertainment which did not wind up until 12:30.

The council in conjunction with other councils in the vicinity are planning to celebrate fittingly the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Loyal Association some time next month and a strong committee with Dr. J. B. Harrison as chairman was appointed to confer with the State committee on this affair.

A very fine and enthusiastic attendance made the meeting last evening a huge success.

The next meeting in November will be a ladies night. The orator is getting ready to give our benefactors a grand good time.

NEW RESERVOIR NOW COMPLETED

Plainfield-Union Water Company Provides for Big Storage Capacity of Nine Million Gallons and Even Pressure

For a year past the Plainfield-Union Water Company has been engaged in constructing a reservoir in Panwood township, just west of the Westfield township boundary line. The reservoir is located on a hill which is exactly the height of the top of the standpipe at Netherwood—that is, 200 feet above the level of the sea—and is constructed entirely of re-inforced concrete. It is 300 feet long, 200 feet wide, and 20 feet deep, covered entirely with a cement roof, supported by a large number of re-inforced cement columns. The reservoir will hold a little over nine million gallons of water, and will have the effect of maintaining uniform pressure on the mains of the company throughout its entire system, and will also enable the company to pump at a uniform rate of speed the twenty-four hours of each day. Heretofore having no storage capacity to speak of, the company has pumped sometimes at the rate of sixteen million gallons during some hours of the day, and as low as two million gallons a day at other hours, which of course requires too rapid operation of the machinery part of the time, and very slow movement at other times. Another advantage to be derived from the reservoir is that heretofore it has been impracticable to stop the pumping machinery for more than a few minutes at a time. Hereafter

CHILD LIFE IN SONG

Mr. and Mrs. H. Loren Clements, of New York, will give an entertainment in the Congregational parish house next Friday evening, which will be of intense and unique interest to all who are fond of children. Nature songs and songs about boys and girls by English, German and American Composers most of which are little known will be produced.

The entertainment of Mr. and Mrs. Clements are particularly fascinating to the children. The Danbury News says of Mrs. Clement: "She proved to be a most charming singer. She entered into her work with her whole soul and made friends with the children during her singing and when she met them personally at the close of the program."

This entertainment has proved very popular in New York, and Connecticut and has already been given in Elizabeth and other New Jersey towns.

GOVERNOR FIELDER HERE TO-MORROW.

Governor James F. Fielder is expected to be here to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with a number of the Democratic county candidates and will make an address in this town. The Governor with the candidates are making a tour of the counties in the State in the interests of the Democratic campaign. An Governor Fielder has been here on several occasions before it is expected that there will be a large crowd out to hear him.

POSTPONE LAYING OF CORNER STONE

Inclement Weather Prevents Outdoor Exercises Which Will Now Be Held First Fair School Day. Interesting Program Prepared

The laying of the corner stone of the new high school building which was postponed on account of rain from yesterday afternoon until this afternoon on account of the rain has again been postponed and will now take place on the first clear school day.

The committee in charge of the exercises have arranged a very interesting program. The principal address will be given by Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, of the Congregational church who will have for his subject "The Cornerstone of Freedom." Mayor H. W. Evans will also make an address. The cornerstone will be laid by President of the Board of Education W. A. Dempsey assisted by Mayor Evans. The schools will have a prominent part in the exercises. They will give a flag salute and will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." The invocation will be pronounced by Rev. G. Franklin Ream of the First Methodist church and the benediction by Rev. Dr. W. I. Steans of the Presbyterian church.

A feature of the program will be a procession of representatives of all the schools in town; and all the organizations of the town, churches, and fraternal orders who will place in the container which is to go in the corner stone a roster of their organizations.

Third Lecture Tomorrow.

The third lecture in the course which is being given under the direction of the Board of Education will be held in the assembly room of the Washington school to-morrow night when Harry C. Ostrander, who was heard in the course last winter, will give a lecture on "Northern Africa and the Mediterranean." The lecture will be illustrated with many stereopticon views. Mr. Ostrander is a very interesting lecturer. He will treat of the Moor in Spain, the Barbary States and the real "Garden of Allah" by the pillars of Heracles, the Moor of yesterday and today, cork-forests and olive groves of the Andalusian valleys. The lecture will cover a trip made by Mr. Ostrander through Northern Africa. The stereopticon views will include some of the chief points of interest in that country and the Mediterranean. The illustrations are reproduced from Mr. Ostrander's own original photographs.

TEMPERANCE MASS MEETING

The ministers of the local churches in this town have arranged for a mass meeting to be held in the Westfield Theatre on Sunday afternoon, at four o'clock, for the purpose of having the people become better informed on the great temperance movement which is sweeping over the country at the present time. The meeting will be addressed by O. Bell Close, of Atlanta, Ga., who is one of the best informed men on the subject and an excellent speaker. The subject will be "The Great American War." Everyone is invited to attend this meeting.

FALL CAMPAIGN OPENS WITH BIG GET-TOGETHER DINNER

800 Enthusiastic Dinners Share Love Feast. Optimism and Cheerfulness Prevailed and All Seemed Assured of

SUCCESS IN NOVEMBER

Last night some sixty enthusiastic Republicans with a sprinkling of Democrats and Progressives journeyed to Elizabeth by train, trolley and automobile to participate in the big Get-Together dinner of the Union County Republicans which was held in Turn Hall.

The large auditorium was filled and even then lacked room to seat all visitors. About 800 diners shared in the repast. Ruford B. Franklin, of Summit, was toastmaster. Addresses were made by all of the County candidates, including Jno. H. Caystick, congressional candidate; Carlton B. Pierce, State Senator; Arthur N. Piereson, William N. Runyon, Charles L. Morgan, Assembly candidates; James Calvert, County Clerk; Registrar Frank H. Smith; candidate for sheriff, Geo. C. Otto; and Dr. Victor Maviag, Mayor of Elizabeth and candidate for re-election. On the platform with the speakers sat Charles N. Fowler and William T. Stuchell, defeated candidates for congressional nomination, and William Wright defeated candidate for county clerk. These latter three made rousing speeches of loyalty and showed that now that all the activities of the primary campaign were over, they would stand shoulder to shoulder with the successful candidates, and work for their election. It was a veritable love feast with no apparent bitterness resulting from the active primary campaign. A spirit of optimism and cheerfulness prevailed throughout the assembly, every man present seeming to feel assured of the success of the ticket in November. Each candidate as he rose to speak was accorded a noisy demonstration.

The key-note of the campaign was sounded by Arthur N. Piereson, of Westfield. In a rousing speech he clearly set forth the issues of the coming election. They are economy and a business administration. After being welcomed by a heart demonstration, Mr. Piereson spoke as follows:

We are told by the Democrats that the administration of affairs in Washington and Trenton has been so perfect that there is absolutely no issue in this campaign for us to stand upon. I will point out to you some things that should be, and they are real issues in this campaign.

ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY. The Democratic Platforms and the Democratic orators in the past three or four years have laid great emphasis upon economy and efficiency in State affairs.

In 1912, Governor Wilson appointed

ARTHUR N. PIERESON.

a Commission to make a survey of State Departments, and report ways and means of increasing the efficiency of same, and reducing the cost of their administration, and it really looked as though there would be something worth while accomplished. This Commission presented to the last legislature an exhaustive and very comprehensive report of their findings, with recommendations and bills supporting same. This was a Democratic Commission, appointed by a Democratic Governor and their report was made to a Democratic Legislature, to carry out platform pledges; what happened to these bills? All, except two, went to sleep in the Committee, and these two, were the least important, and, after all, amounted to nothing in the way of economy.

OLD FASHIONED HUSKING BEE

Revival of an Annual Fete of Former Days. Stanley D. Patrick Places the Large Fair Acres Barns at the Disposal of the Ladies Tomorrow Night. Games and Contests Participated in by Farmers Boys and Milkmaids

Overalls and calico dresses, sun bonnets and broad rimmed rough straws are at a premium in Westfield since Mr. Patrick announced an old fashioned husking bee in the Ample Fair Acres barns for tomorrow night. One store in town sent in a wholesale order for sunbonnets. One of our business men has been practising with his old husking pin to the neglect of his store and has also worn out the pin.

Some of the attractions have been announced. Farmer boys of other days are chaffing each other about their hands grown soft through years of more genteel ways of making a living. At any rate they intend to husk lively, for Mr. Patrick says red ears are fairly plenty, and though few of them expect to win the prize, each hopes to find several red ears!!!

Mr. Patrick will get out his hayfork rope that has lifted tons of hay to his mows and the farmer boys, captained by Albert Bishop and Harry Parker, will test its strength in a tug of war. If they fail to break it the milk-maids, chaperoned by Mrs. Broome and Mrs. Learned, will try it.

The milking contest, though announced seems to be kept strictly on the q. t. as to details. Rumor has it that Mr. Patrick has one cow whose rear end qualities exceed those of any milker, and the cowboy experts of other days will compete in an attempt to halter and milk her. But Mr. Patrick denies that he has any kieling cows. From what we hear it seems certain the milk-maids will compete in some way, milking a gentler one. A menagerie has been announced but its exhibits are not publicly listed. However we overheard one of the committee mention an antelope, a white parrot, and we think she said something about animals from New Guinea, and she surely was practising some long Latin names.

To satisfy the desire for a "chow" some beautiful milk-maids will furnish sweet apples and peanuts, and everybody will have some pie, doughnuts, and coffee thrown in with his admission, which is only a quarter and goes to the church building fund.

The ladies, whom you will hardly recognize in their homespun and sunbonnets, who are providing the bee, are members of the Methodist Ladies Aid Society. They are Mesdames Ham, Post, Waterman, Learned, Baker, Patrick, Bishop, Newell, Webb, Mahmar, Russell, Gage, Wright, Class, Dillaway, Parsons, Atkins and Wlek and Miss Weekes.

Several of our well known citizens will take part in the entertainment among whom are A. E. Pearsall, Harry Wright, C. S. Parker, and T. W. Murray.

A Standard reporter invaded Fair Acres the other day, but saw nothing unusual in the ample barns but a big bass drum. All his enquiries about it were met with a smile, but we imagine that when you hear the drum there will be something doing. Mr. Patrick said he might have to send a load of corn down to the Westfield Grist mill a little after four Saturday afternoon and he will stop in then and tell us what the drum is for.

The transportation problem is being met by Mr. Charles Learned who will have conveyances at Broad street and North avenue at 7:45. These will be driven by Messrs Atkins, Hicks, Newell, Tomlin, Pearson, Gill, Ham and Broome, and Mr. Learned will collect a nickel for the trip in either direction.

A big camp fire will render unnecessary sun, moon, or star and will put the Chinese lanterns in the shade, but can hardly compete with the rain if it comes, in which latter event the Husking Bee will be postponed to Monday night.

sentiment and a real need for reducing the cost of the administration of public affairs, you have here a good example of the many failures of the party now in power to fulfill their platform pledges, and the two years' work of

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS OPENING MEETING

The Woman's Club of Westfield, held its opening meeting for the season of 1914-1915 in the Presbyterian Parish House on the afternoon of Monday, October 12th, and in spite of the fact that it was a holiday a large number of members were present to greet the new President and the new staff of officers.

The Rev. James A. Smith, of St. Paul's Church, offered a few earnest appropriate words of prayer, after which an important half-hour of business followed.

From the time the new President Mrs. H. W. Evans, called the Club to order, until the close of her address, which was both the opening word, and the key-note of the afternoon's program, her manner and words convinced her hearers of her earnestness. She said, in part, "We have a high standard to maintain. I, as President, will faithfully endeavor to uphold the ideals set me by former presidents, and I call upon you, the Club, to do your part, by loyally co-operating with me. Let us remember the Club's motto: 'From each as she has power to give, To each as she has need.'"

Then followed an introductory talk by Mrs. A. A. Watts, Chairman of the program committee, who outlined a most excellent course of study for the coming year's work. The program as outlined, while it covers the ground thoroughly, is to be taken broadly. The main idea is to study together, as one reflects the other the history, literature and the men of the three great formative periods comprised in the reigns of Queen Elizabeth, Queen Anne, and Queen Victoria.

Mrs. Watts in her own inimitable way pointed out to the Club that there was a great deal more in the world, than the merely practical and material and hoped that the year's work would prove a source of much intellectual and spiritual pleasure to the club.

A burst of applause was given as the Club realized that Miss Winifred Trembley Barr would furnish the music for the afternoon. She gave the impromptu in B flat by Schubert with a happy blending of poetic interpretation and virtuosic brilliancy, and graciously responded to an encore with an exquisitely tender rendition of the Menuet M. G. by Beethoven.

After a reception to the new officers, the Club adjourned to the tea room for a social hour. Here a number of charming young women served the refreshments, while Mrs. S. L. Kniffin, Mrs. F. E. Sturgis and Mrs. Frank W. Smith poured tea.

Held Enjoyable Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church held what was termed an "Old Fashioned Social" in the parish house on Friday night. All the games were old-fashioned but were played in a new-fashioned way and elicited much fun and enjoyment for those who were present and participated in them. Such old games as "Peggy Grunt," "Going to Jerusalem," "Rachel and Jacob," "Prince of Paris Has Lost a Feather" were among those played. The program ended with the giving of old-fashioned charades in a new way. Refreshments consisting of Coney Island "Red Hots," apples, salted peanuts and just plain water were served. The committee in charge of the social comprised C. A. Beemer, Miss Ruth App, Miss Mildred Fink, Miss Anna Wittke, Miss Elizabeth Johnson and Miss Marion Tice.

Married on Wednesday.

The wedding of Miss Margaret A. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. White of 215 Prospect street, and Ray C. Neal, of Buffalo, N. Y., will take place in the Congregational church, on Wednesday evening, next week at 8:15. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. S. L. Loomis, pastor of the church. The matron of honor will be Mrs. Arthur A. Moore, of Buffalo, N. Y., a sister of the groom. The bridesmaids will be Miss Edith Male Gladwin, Miss Madelyn Worth of this town and Miss Edith S. Robinson, of New York. The best man will be Arthur A. Moore, of Buffalo, N. Y., a brother-in-law of the groom. The ushers will be Arthur Haddock, of Buffalo, N. Y., W. R. Gomes, Robert E. Perry, Jr., and Kenneth O. Wilcox all of this town.

Engagement Announced At Birthday Party.

A delightful birthday party was held on Monday evening at the home of Frank Faulkner, Rahway avenue in honor of Percy Woolfe. Games, vocal and instrumental music and dancing were the features of the evening. Another feature was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elsie Foster to Clarence Woolfe, of Providence, R. I. During a game of forfeits Miss Foster was asked to exchange places with another lady who was sitting on a chair where previously had been tied a large white bow. A few minutes after Mr. Woolfe was asked to change seats and found himself sitting on a chair with a white bow when the whole company arose and a shower of congratulations were extended to the surprised couple. Refreshments were served after which all departed wishing Mr. Woolfe many happy returns of the day.

Murphy-Conneran.

Miss Catharine Conneran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Conneran, of Cumberland street, was married in Holy Trinity church on Sunday afternoon to Michael C. Murphy, of New York, in the presence of the relatives and several friends of the bride and groom, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. A. Rigney, assistant rector of the church. The wedding music was played by Miss Myers.

Miss Sadie Conneran, a sister of the bride was the bridesmaid and Walter Walsh, of New York was best man.

The bride wore a gown of white ivory satin trimmed with oriental lace and wore a white hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a pink messaline trimmed with shadow lace and wore a black velvet hat. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. C. Malsbury, on Cumberland street and a wedding supper served.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left for a wedding trip to Atlantic City and upon their return will make their home in New York where the groom has an important position.

The gifts which the bride received were many and beautiful.

Democratic Club Meets.

The Westfield Democratic Club held a meeting in the Assembly Hall of the Westfield Theatre on Friday night and there were about forty members of the club present. President Robert L. DeCamp appointed a committee consisting of E. R. Collins, L. H. Phelps, John Goltra, E. C. McMahon and J. M. Walsh to help form a Tuttle Club in Union and Morris counties to aid in the campaign of Congressman Tuttle for re-election. It was announced by Mr. DeCamp that Governor Fielder and the county candidates would visit the town on Saturday afternoon at 3:15 and that there would be speaking at the corner of Broad and Elm streets. Another important matter of business discussed was to see that all unregistered Democrats get their names on the list on the last registration day, October 20.

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT.

The tuberculosis exhibit of the State Board of Health which is to be held in the assembly room of the Washington school during the week beginning October 26, promises to be most entertaining and instructive and should be favored by a large attendance. The exhibit is held under the direction of the local Board of Health. Dr. Harrison, the president of the Board, and all the members are making the necessary arrangements and expect the citizens to co-operate with them.

The exhibit will consist of numerous pictures and charts to be hung upon the wall, some models to be displayed upon tables, some flash-light apparatus to show impressively a few points the exhibitors wish understood, and a complete motion picture equipment to provide entertainment as well as instruction in connection with the exhibit. The motion pictures shown all deal with health problems, and have the additional value of being as entertaining, or even more so, than the pictures shown in the regular motion picture theatres.

Sunday School Association

Elects Officers.

The Westfield District Sunday School Association met in delicate convention at the Congregational parish house on Tuesday night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Rev. M. Luther Stinson; vice-president, James F. Johnston, recording secretary, Guy E. Jackson; corresponding secretary and treasurer, C. A. Beemer. The Sunday School superintendents in the association were elected a committee to prepare a popular program for a meeting early in November.

DAVIS—HANFORD.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Alice M. Hanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Hanford, of 150 West Dudley avenue, and Edmund Parker Davis, of the State College of Pennsylvania. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride on Saturday, October 31.

GARWOOD

Judgment of $125 Awarded Against Washburn.

In the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth on Tuesday a judgment for $125 was returned by a jury against A. D. Washburn, of Garwood, as a result of a dog which it was claimed he owned going mad and biting a horse and some ducks belonging to Clarence Ehrlich, a Fanwood farmer. The suit was heard on an appeal from an award made by a jury in Judge Toucey's court in this town. At that time the jury awarded a judgment against Washburn for $90. Washburn claimed that he did not own the dog but that it belonged to his son. Ehrlich's side of the case was handled by Coddling & Oliver and Washburn's by Augustus C. Nash.

William Bates, of Boston, is visiting Charles Pierson, of Cedar street. Mrs. W. W. Reeder is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Shepson, at Interlaken, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Manning, of Third avenue, will shortly move to Elizabeth.

M. A. Huber, of Avon-by-the-Sea, a former resident, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Albert Ashfield, of Second avenue.

Mrs. Amelia Wiegand and Son, George, who have been visiting Mrs. Amelia Becker, of North avenue, have returned to their home in New York.

One of Expressman Cole's horses ran away with an empty wagon in North avenue Saturday afternoon. The runaway was stopped by Albert Ashfield.

Fanwood

Miss Mattie Hull, of Westfield avenue, spent the week end in Newark.

Miss Beth Crollus, of New York, spent the week end with friends in Fanwood.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fanwood Fire Company will be held next Tuesday night.

Mrs. Albert Hollingsworth, of Buffalo, New York, is visiting Loftus Hollingsworth, of Johnston's Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Evans returned to their home in Pitman after spending a few days with Dr. and Mrs. Westcott.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Neilson, of Martine avenue, have returned to their home after spending a few days in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palenalis, who have been living on Union avenue have given up housekeeping for the winter and are living with Mrs. Palenalis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moffett, of Westfield avenue.

Mrs. Thomas Loudon has gone to Philadelphia to join her husband. Mr. Loudon is on a tour with Mrs. Fiske in the new play which she is starring in this season and will shortly be seen in New York.

The Boy Scouts held a meeting last Monday at 8 o'clock in the rear of the school house. This meet was held to determine the champions of the troop. The patrol averaging the most points were given a pennant to be kept till the next meet.

A reception was given Monday afternoon by Mrs. James B. Carter, of North avenue, for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arnold-Carter, her son and his wife, formerly Miss Charlotte Allard, who recently arrived from Oakland, California. They were most cordially greeted by many relatives and a number of old friends as well as the neighbors of the household, who were informally invited to meet them.

Miss Christine Bettman spent the week end and holiday with friends in Fanwood.

Dr. Maurice Hall and family have taken an apartment in 116th street New York, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Meeker and daughter, Florence, are spending their vacation at Lake Placid.

The weekly meeting of the Lend-a-Hand Society was held in the parlors of the Baptist church last Wednesday.

Charles Elliott, of East Orange, spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elliott, on Park avenue.

The ladies of the Methodist church will give a supper in Excelsior Hall, Thursday night. Supper will be served from 6:30 to 8:30 P. M.

The bread, cake and pie sale held in the parlors of the Baptist church on Saturday was quite a success, over fifteen dollars being taken in.

The Past Counsellors' Association, of Union County, held their monthly meeting in conjunction with the local Junior Order Lodge, Thursday night of this week.

William S. Herriek died at his home on Martine avenue last Saturday morning after a short illness. Mr. Herriek was in the 63rd year of his age and had been a resident of Fanwood nearly a year. He leaves a widow and one son. The body was taken to Brooklyn on Monday where funeral services were held and interment made in Greenwood cemetery.

CHURCH NOTES.

Regular services will be held in All Saints Episcopal church on Sunday. Holy Communion at 7:30 A. M., morning prayer and service at 11 o'clock.

Services in the Baptist and Methodist churches as usual.

OLD TREE CUT DOWN.

An old chestnut tree on the property of James O. Clark on Clark street was cut down on Tuesday of this week. The tree is said to be over one hundred and fifty years old and when the men were sawing through the trunk the saw cut in half a bullet of old time make that probably came from a muzzle loading rifle of Revolutionary days.

Brotherhood Enjoy Pictures.

On Tuesday night the Men's Brotherhood of the First Methodist church at their monthly meeting were entertained with a series of lantern slides showing scenes in the war zone of Europe and the leaders among the fighting armies. Pictures of the leaders of the church including President Bentley, of the Men's Forum, President Bishop of the Brotherhood, Pastor Ream and Rev. Dr. A. W. Hayes. The latter got loud applause while the lords got none. The lantern was manipulated by F. B. Ham. After the pictures refreshments were served. The members of the Boys League were guests, and thoroughly enjoyed the pictures. The invitation of the Central Presbyterian church Brotherhood of Newark to pay them a visit was accepted.

VISIT THE BOWERY WITH DAVE RANNEY

Eighteen Young Men of Methodist Church on Personally Conducted Tour of Lower New York

Eighteen young men of the Methodist church stepped off the 11:20 train last Friday night fully convinced that Westfield is a pretty good sort of place in which to live. They had spent the evening on the Bowery in New York where one of Dave Ranney's boys had personally conducted them on a round of interesting sight-seeing. (By way of explanation, Dave Ranney is a converted Bowery bum who for many years has given his entire time to aiding in a Christian way the human derelicts who come to that "Down and Out Colony" from all parts of the country. He is identified with the New York City Mission and Tract Society and is known as a missionary to the prisons and lodging houses of New York.)

Among the places visited was the Squirrel Inn, of which Mr. Ranney is Superintendent, where nourishing food is provided at a very nominal cost. At the Bowery Branch of the Y. M. C. A., the Secretary showed the party the entire equipment for feeding and sleeping needy men, and learned incidentally how to keep body and soul together without very much of the high cost of living worry so prevalent elsewhere. Another branch of the Y. M. C. A., on the Bowery known as the Young Men's Institute, in contrast to the Bowery Branch where 50% of the aid is without any financial return, had a plant of which Westfield could well be proud. The membership is large and many young men constantly avail themselves of the gymnasium, reading room, shower baths, etc. Hadley Rescue Hall was also visited. There drunkards and criminals of both sexes are welcome and assistance is given when necessary.

The real object of the trip was to attend the 22d Anniversary of Mr. Ranney's conversion held in the Broome street Tabernacle. The party was a little late in arriving and on being shown seats on the side of the auditorium reserved for visitors they looked across upon a sea of faces of genuine "down and outs." Each man seemed proud to know he was one of Dave Ranney's boys as that meant he had at least one friend who would help him in any way possible. A varied program of music and addresses was rendered, but how the "boys" followed every word of Mr. Ranney's and applauded him whenever he gave them opportunity. As an illustration of his care for them it developed during the evening that some tickets for free beds and food which had been placed at Mr. Ranney's disposal had been left at his home in Brooklyn and he promptly dispatched his good wife for them and prolonged the program by repeating number until her return.

What a distributor of brotherly love is Mr. Ranney! How like his Master, Jesus Christ, who "went about doing good." Each member of the party returned from the trip with the conviction that there's in every man, no matter how low down he may be in the social scale, that which responds to a warm hand shake and show of sympathy and confidence.

Those in the party were Rev. G. Franklin Ream, E. L. Waterman, H. R. Welch, Dr. W. W. Gill, Harold F. Welch, H. A. Brainerd, R. W. Bradbury, Charleston Smith, R. E. Martin, R. I. Vervoort, Edward Hyslop, Albert Manner, Edward Derrick, R. A. Woodruff, Edward S. Welch, F. R. Pearsall, John W. McGuire, and H. C. Wick.

To Raise Mint.

To those who are fond of mint, this may be a helpful suggestion. Place good sized sprays of mint in a jar of water and you will find that you have a fine mint bed. If the jar is kept well filled with water the mint will grow as well as though planted in a window box.

FIELD DAY EXERCISES

Boy Scouts to Attend Big Event at Plainfield Next Saturday

The Boy Scouts of Westfield, consisting of Troops No. 1 and No. 2, will attend the annual Field Day Demonstration of the Boy Scouts of America at Parker Field, in Plainfield, on next Saturday afternoon, October 17th.

Scout Commissioner Beals, of Plainfield, has extended an invitation to the Scouts of this town together with the lads from Garwood to be the guests of the Plainfield Organization. A good time is promised and a program of unusual interest will be carried out. The entire program will be made up of events featuring Boy Scout activities. Some of the interesting events will be: First Aid demonstration, Competitive knot tying, Rope casting, Making fire without matches, Water boiling contest, Barrier climbing, Wireless telegraphy, Heliograph signalling, Model aeroplane flying, Surprises, Fire and drum corp, Clowns.

The field exercises will be preceded by a parade starting from the First Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock. Parker Field can be reached by transfer from the Main Line trolley to the Arlington Avenue car, getting off at the Muhlenberg Hospital.

This demonstration affords a splendid opportunity for men interested in work among boys to view at first hand the results of scout training and the possibilities of a similar work among our own boys.

The Westfield Troops, organized this summer, meet at present on Friday evening at the Baptist church. Boys of all denominations are among the membership. The work is in need of efficient helpers. Thirty-one boys are now duly registered Boy Scouts. Chas. H. Robinson is the Scout Master in charge. The Troop committee consists of W. Edgar Reeve, W. A. Dempsey and Herbert Welch.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION.

The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Union County Sunday School Association was held in the Greystone Presbyterian church, at Elizabeth, yesterday, and was attended by delegates from Sunday schools all over the county. There were three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. Among those who took part in the program were Rev. G. Franklin Ream, of the First Methodist church, of this town and Rev. A. S. Dezenort, of West Broad street, pastor of the Wesley Methodist church, Roselle. C. A. Beemer, 551 Hillcrest Avenue, is superintendent of the adult class department.

MOTHER SUPERIOR ROSARY HILL HOME

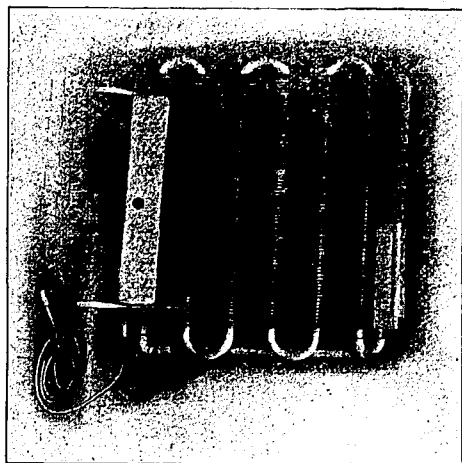

Tells How Vinol Restores Strength and Vitality to the Weak, Worn-Out Ones in Her Charge.

Rosary Hill Home, Hawthorne, N. Y. — "I have been at work among the sick and poor for nearly eighteen years, and whenever I have used Vinol for run-down, weak or emaciated patients, they have been visibly benefited by it. One patient, a young woman, was so weak and ill she could hardly creep to my door for aid, and was leaning on a friend's arm. I supplied Vinol to her liberally and in a month when she returned to thank me I hardly recognized her. She was strong, her color charming and her cheeks rounded out. These words are uttered from my heart, in order that more people may know about Vinol, as there is nothing makes me happier in the world than to relieve the sick." — Mother M. ALPHONSA LATHROP, O.S.D., Hawthorne, N. Y.

Such disinterested and reliable testimony should convince everyone of the merits of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic to build up health and strength for all weakened and nervous conditions, whether caused from overwork, worry or chronic coughs and colds. If Vinol fails to benefit we return your money.

Tuberculosis Exhibit.

In the Tuberculosis Exhibit, which is to be held in Westfield the week of October 26, an opportunity is afforded for a most profitable lesson in hygiene and disease preventatives, which, after all, is the true science of the present practice of the medical profession. We trust the people of Westfield will recognize their opportunity, and visit the Exhibit, which has been so carefully prepared for our benefit. The children, as well as the adults, will find profit in this exhibit.

It is the mark of real progress in science and civilization that we place greater emphasis on preventatives than upon curatives. It is far better for people to be scared than to be sorry, to avoid danger rather than to be exercised in ways of escape after they have fallen victim to any trouble. It shows a high ideal for our physicians, who are working hand in hand with our Board of Health to make this exhibition a success. In recognition of same, we feel it incumbent upon the citizens of Westfield to show their appreciation of the constant efforts being made for our welfare.

Set apart one evening for this exhibit, and avoid the disappointment that many felt at having missed the Town exhibit. It will be worth your while to attend and study the exhibits.

Dollar Dinner.

The Republican campaign in Union county opened with the dollar dinner, held in Elizabeth last evening. The enthusiasm of the candidates and others who attended the dinner indicates that the campaign this fall will be a spirited one from every view point.

Many Progressives and a few Democratic friends were good enough to honor the occasion by their presence. The issues of the campaign were clearly set forth in the speeches of the candidates. The tariff will undoubtedly be the issue of the Republicans in national affairs. The idle factories, the unemployed wage earners, and the general paralysis of business, overshadow everything in our national life.

In State issues, some emphasis was laid upon equalization of taxation, the bad showing made by the present administration in financial affairs, and the lack of good faith on the part of the Democrats as to the pledges of their party platform.

The county ticket, which is represented by men of undoubted ability and character, promises economy, efficiency and business administration of affairs at our county seat. Determination and courage, born of confidence in the fairness of Republican principles, could be read in every countenance. The strength and character of the whole ticket gives promise of victory at the coming election. On to Trenton and on to Washington, was the watch word.

Hands Off.

What the people of Union county will expect of Governor Fielder when he visits our county tomorrow will be to explain what justification he has to offer for the grab made by the last Legislature at our school funds. The Hennessy bill 240, a Democratic caucus measure, introduced by the Democratic chairman of the Senate Appropriation Committee, which planned to take over three quarters of a million dollars of items heretofore paid out of the general treasury and load them upon the State school funds, is a matter that most vitally interests every citizen and taxpayer in our county. The State school fund, established for the encouragement and support of our public school system, should be held most sacred by everyone, and while the Grab bill never became a law, it passed to the Senate with every Democrat voting for it, and showed clearly the willingness of the party in power to divert our school money into the general treasury, which would result in either the depreciation of our school system or an added burden to the local tax budget, which we feel the people of our county are not willing to permit.

This fund, so carefully built up in years gone by, is the people's fund, and under no provocation whatever should it be distributed or dissipated. If the expenditures of our commonwealth have outstripped the income, we would like to suggest that economy is quite the order of the day, and since Mr. Fielder's party platform for the past several years has contained strong economy planks, would it not be well before his party attempts to raid our school funds that he require of them a show of good faith in carrying out their pledge to the people without qualifications of any kind. We say, HANDS OFF! this money, the party that has shown its desire to grab this fund need not expect to have the confidence of the people.

"Lest We Forget."

Twenty years have passed and the "deadly parallel" appears between the conditions of the country today and those of 1894. Democrats cannot ignore the deadly parallel of twenty years ago when they superseded a protective tariff system by their revenue system under the name of the Wilson bill. (Here, too, is another parallel-Wilson bill). Imports increased, exports decreased, the balance of trade was turned against us, gold was exported, capital could not invest, labor lost employment. In a word, business was paralyzed. In the fact of such distress the Democratic party sought a new issue and a new leader, and it found the issue in "16 to 1," and the leader in William Jennings Bryan. We were told the tariff had nothing to do with it and that the depression was world-wide. Now, note the deadly parallel. For the first time in twenty years imports have outrun our exports. In the single month of April, 1914, the change against us from the month of April a year ago, was sixty-four million dollars. This tendency was continued in May, a direct result of the Underwood tariff act, the second Wilson bill. Capital is hesitating, labor is unemployed, business is stagnant, the nation is facing an issue of bonds and a season of depression similar to that of twenty years ago under the last Democratic administration of revenue system of tariff.

When we remind our Democratic friends of our warnings given last year when we discussed the Underwood bill, in which some of us pointed out the inevitable consequence, we are indicted as calamity howlers. It is an interesting study to note the parallel, the similarity of the present Democratic regime with that of twenty years ago. The people will not fail to connect results with causes this fall.

Funeral of Frederick Sheelen.

The funeral of Frederick Sheelen who died at the home of his son in Fanwood last Friday was held on Tuesday morning from Holy Trinity church in this town of which church Mr. Sheelen was a communicant. A high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul. Rev. H. J. Watterson, rector of the church, was the celebrant; Rev. Vincent Schiolla, of St. Mary's church, Plainfield, deacon and Rev. E. A. Rigney, of Holy Trinity church, sub-deacon. The church was crowded with friends and relatives of the deceased. Rev. H. J. Watterson preached a sermon on the exemplary characteristics of one of the oldest parishioners and held him up as an example to all Catholics as one of the pioneers whose children reflect his own good qualities. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

The bearers were Lawrence Powers, E. C. McMahon, James McCarthy, James English, Pierre McCormick and Patrick Traynor. Mr. Sheelen was one of the oldest residents of Fanwood and Scotch Plains, having lived there for over sixty years.

Armita Veal.

Miss Armita Veal, 44 years old, died at the home of her sister on Grove street, Sunday afternoon after an illness of some weeks. Miss Veal is survived by a mother, one brother and three sisters. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from the home of her sister and was conducted by Rev. J. H. Adams, pastor of St. Luke's A. M. E. Zion church. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery.

FATHER WATTERSON THANKS CHIEF O'NEIL.

Oct. 13, 1914.

Mr. Thos. O'Neil,
Chief of Police,
Westfield, N. J.

Dear Chief:—The appearance of you and your men last Sunday on the occasion of the Holy Name Rally provoked the most favorable comment. Personally, I wish to congratulate you and your men, and to especially thank you for the efficient service rendered on that day.

Not the slightest disorder marked the day, due to the kind and courteous manner in which the police handled the enormous crowds of people, who flocked to Westfield from various parts of the county.

Again heartily thanking you, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

H. J. WATTERSON,
County Director H. N. Societies.

ROYAL ARCANUM DOINGS

Next Thursday night, Orator Westberg has a treat in store for the boys. He has engaged William Lyle the celebrated minstrel man and Brother Hopham Balsh will play a duet. Refreshments suitable to the season will be served.

The attendance has improved owing to the good times provided by the orator and is very encouraging to all hands.

November 12, will be the big ladies night. If the R. A. boys don't come out they will miss a good time.

INSPECTED ROADS.

Councilman R. L. DeCamp together with the other members of the road committee, Mayor Evans and Town Engineer Vars made a trip of inspection of roads in various parts of the county last Sunday. The trip was made by automobile and about 150 miles were covered. Mr. DeCamp who is chairman of the road committee states that none of the places visited had anything on this town for roads. The trip was made to get points of information regarding the manner in which road building is conducted in other places.

PARRETTI—PERRINE

The wedding of Frank Parretti, of this town, and Miss Elsie T. Perrine, of North Plainfield, took place at the Temple Baptist church in Plainfield, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and was performed by the pastor Rev. E. C. Conover. The maid of honor was Miss Try Mattox, a relative of the bride and the best man was George Simon, of Plainfield. The bride was neatly attired in a gown of white satin, wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the young couple, including a representation of the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R.

After the ceremony a reception took place in the newly furnished apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Parretti on Broad street this town. After a short wedding trip they will be at home to their many friends. The groom is an employee of the Lyggar Iron Works, at Danellen. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perrine, of No. 59 Harmony street, North Plainfield.

Westfields Defeat Pingry.

Pingry proved as easy for W. H. S. last Saturday as it did last year, the home team winning 42-0. At no time during the game did Pingry get dangerously near the Westfield goal line while most of the play took place inside of Pingry's forty yard line.

A touchdown was scored in each of the final two quarters while two were hung up in each of the last two quarters. Randall and Cruttenden starred as usual, on end runs, Bourne was excellent at line bucking, and Carberry showed up best at kicking after touchdowns. Pingry outweighed W. H. S. but didn't seem to know much football.

The line up:
W. H. S. PINGRY
Elliot, Pearsall Potts
right end.
Marengi Seeber
right tackle
Gorton, Wright Rivers
right guard
Goltra, Cairns G. Moore
centre
Martin, Brown Langstaff
left guard
Trimble Dearborne
left tackle
Brower, Keyes
McMahon Mravlag
left end
Randall Bruce quarterback
Bourne R. Moore
fullback
Cruttenden Burns
right halfback
Carberry Clifford

Score by periods:
Pingry 0 0 0 0-0
W. H. S. 7 7 14 14-42
Touchdowns—Randall, 2; Cruttenden, 2; Marengi, Carberry. Goals from touchdowns—Carberry, 6. Referee, Ketcham; umpire, R. Lloyd. Time of periods, 8, 8, 8 and 10 minutes.

W. H. S. Lost to Plainfield High.

Before one of the largest crowds any Westfield team played for, Westfield High lost the first game to Plainfield 19-0, on the Parker field, Plainfield. While it was quite evident that Plainfield was playing better than they knew how, it was also certain that Westfield was way off form. Only one forward pass of the six tried by Westfield and Plainfield was successful. Straight football was the only kind used with success throughout the game.

Westfield outplayed Plainfield right along in the first half, repeatedly getting within scoring distance but losing the ball on forward passes.

Plainfield was unable to do much gaining in this half.

In the second half, Green made a touchdown in about three minutes of play, Rosenson kicking an easy goal. The quarter ended with the ball on the Westfield eight yard line. The first play of the last quarter gave Rosenson a chance to carry the ball over for a second score but he failed to kick the goals after that score. Westfield worked their way down to the Plainfield 15 yard line where a pass on the last down gave Plainfield the ball. From then they went right on down the field, scoring on the last play of the game.

A quarter-back with some experience at the position and a good centre would have made Westfield a winner. It is expected, however, that Miller will be eligible by the next game which will solve one difficulty.

The line up:
WESTFIELD H. S. PLAINFIELD
Brower Lemer, Smith

One on the Judge.

The pompous judge glared sternly over his spectacles at the lattered prisoner who had been dragged before the bar of justice on a charge of vagrancy. "Have you ever earned a dollar in your life?" he asked in a scorn. "Yes, your honor," was the response. "I voted for you at the last election."

SINCLAIR CUP CONTEST HAS BIG ENTRY LIST.

The fourth year's qualifying round for the Dr. R. R. Sinclair cup was played on the Westfield Golf Club links last Saturday and there was the largest entry list that was ever posted. There will be another name engraved on the handsome cup this year as none of the former winners got in this year's play.

A consolation cup for the second beaten sixteen has been offered by C. G. Abernethy which will be fought for as a number of good players got in this contest by re-arranging some handicaps.

M. Yamawaki with a handicap of 22 made the lowest net score 65. O. Knight made the best net with 85 and nine other players came home with scores of under 90 gross.

The first sixteen qualifying for the Sinclair cup were:

CHAPTER XIV.

A Double Escape.

On Nauset Beach, in the shank of a midsummer night, two men sprawled on the sands, some distance back from the water, and listened to the heavy thumping of their overtaxed hearts, and panted.

Now and again one would lift his head and stare out over the black face of the waters at a little line of reddish flames about a mile off shore, all that remained to witness to the fact that, an hour since, these two had been in command of as trim a small schooner as ever ventured the coastwise trip from Portland to New York. As far out again shone the starboard light of a becalmed schooner, whose people had been directly responsible for the disaster which had overtaken the smaller vessel.

In the course of time, beginning to breathe with more ease, one of the two marooned gentlemen said:

"What I can't understand—anyway—is why these damned thugs out there thought we'd be asses enough to stay aboard the Seaventure and get burned up."

The other replied: "Did they?" "Looks that way—doesn't it? If they didn't, why were we permitted to swim ashore at our elegant leisure? There was nothing to prevent their rowing round to cut us off."

"Maybe they did, at that, and missed us, Mr. Law-and-Order!"

"But—" "We were a wee mite excited you've got to admit. It's just possible we didn't hear the noise of their oars. And it's black enough for them to have overlooked us. A man's head in the water isn't really a conspicuous object on a dark night."

"Tell me, Barcus, what's the nearest symptom of civilization?" "Chatham village," said Mr. Barcus, "six miles to the northwards, and cut off by an inlet a mile or so wide at that."

Mr. Law groaned soulfully. "Then there's the Lighthouse on Monomoy point," Mr. Barcus pursued, "three miles to the south."

Mr. Law said nothing whatever to this. "Of course," his companion reflected morosely, "this had to happen in midsummer! A month earlier we'd have had the life-saving patrol to look to for protection. But the service is suspended in June and July."

A silence commenced eloquently on this assertion, broken only when Mr. Law voiced a thought bred of long and malignant observation of the schooner's green eye:

"I'd give a deal to know who's aboard that vessel."

"You don't mean you think your regular young woman—?"

"It's possible. Judith kidnapped Rose in Portland. That's not so far from Gloucester; a motor car could have caught that schooner before she sailed to waylay us, this morning. And what better way to take care of an able-bodied, full-tempered girl you've kidnapped than to ship her somewhere by sea, in the care of trustworthy hellions?"

"Don't ask me—I've done very little kidnapping for one of my years."

"For tuppence," said Mr. Law, "I'd risk a swim off to that boat and see for myself."

"For two million dollars—I would not!" Barcus affirmed with great decision.

A moment or so later the line of little flames went out altogether and unexpectedly; and the owner of the late Seaventure fancied he could hear, even at that distance, the hiss of charred and smoldering timbers sucked under and drowned out.

"Exit," he announced plaintively, "exit Seaventure," with heroic gesture. "R. I. P. a good little ship!"

Alan Law sat up, abstractedly scrubbing a crust of sand from his cheeks and commented soulfully: "Oh—damn!"

"That goes double here," his companion rejoined. "And the way I see it, I've got a right to do all the cursing at this juncture of our hero's foolish, but fascinating adventures. I'm the injured party—it was my boat, and now it's gone. I'm broke for fair. Gee!" he pursued vindictively.

"Oh, let up, can't you!" Mr. Law exclaimed peevishly. "I'm sorrier than you are—and after all, it's my loss; I've got to buy you another boat. All you've lost is your temper."

"And my susceptibility to the charms of the well-known sex," Mr. Barcus corrected. "Nothing can ever restore my lost faith in gentle woman's gentleness. When you brought that young woman aboard I thought butter wouldn't melt in her mouth, and for a while I actually contemplated doing her the kindness of tipping you over into the drink, co's she could lavish her tender affections on a regular guy, someone able to appreciate her—meaning me, of course. And first thing I know, she ups and points a gun at my head and tips me overboard, and then makes a pretty bonfire out of my sailboat. And all the excuse you can produce is that she's crazy in the head? Well, who said she wasn't? Any woman who would consent to elope with you is a fit subject for a commission de lunatico inquirendo, all right."

"If you inflicted any such monologue as that on Judith," retorted Mr. Law, "I don't blame her for trying to slay you, and I'm sorry I interfered."

"There's gratitude for you!" Mr. Barcus remarked bitterly. "I risk my life for you, and you won't even let me talk about it!"

"It isn't your talking I mind—it's the everlasting noise you make," Mr. Law explained. "Besides—listen!"

For a moment the two maintained attentive silence.

A silken whisper troubled the silence, a little flutter of sound from far across the waters. Gradually it gathered volume, became recognizable as the hiss of cautious oars.

"I'm going away from here," Mr. Barcus announced guardedly, and gathered his legs under him preparatory to rising.

"Half a second," Alan Law insisted, rising in turn and grasping the other by the arm. "They've got to land—haven't they?—and leave the boat while they look for us. Well, then, what's to prevent our hiding in the dunes and—?"

In the next breath, "Look out!" he shrieked.

With no warning whatever, and within fifty feet of them, a ghastly flare broke out in full blaze on the surface of the water, revealing the shape of a dory which had drawn in unseen under cover of the profound darkness, and at the same time discovering to its occupants the two startled figures on the beach.

Before they could stir the weird light glimmered on a polished weapon in the bow of the boat, a spiteful tongue of reddish flame spat out, a bullet sang between Messrs. Law and Barcus, and with a sad thud of disappointment buried itself in the sands of the wave-eaten bluff behind them.

Like twin automatons stirred to action by the report, the two turned and pelted off down the beach, to escape that deadly area of illumination.

Other shots sped after them, but none was so well aimed, and presently, finding a break in the bluff, they swung off into the grateful shelter of the night-wrapped dunes.

Meantime the dory had grounded on the beach, and its several occupants—four or five of them, all men, apparently—jumping out, set off in pursuit of the fugitives, following the tracks in the sand.

The blackness of the night, however, conspired with the savage labyrinth of the dunes to save Alan and his companion.

Within another five minutes—while still the pursuit floundered and blasphemed at random a round quarter-mile to the south—Mr. Law and Mr. Barcus were noiselessly squirming on their bellies, like two snakes in the beach-grass, up the back of a ten-foot bluff. And presently from its brow they looked down on the spot where the dory lay, only its bow out of water, its stern aloft, under armed guard.

Very slowly and stealthily Alan got to his feet and swung back over his shoulder a heavy club of driftwood.

A match spluttered beside the dory and flamed in the still air, relieving with its reddish glow a bronzed and evil visage.

The guard puffed fast and had the tobacco well aglow when the sky took advantage of his trustfulness and fell upon him like an avalanche.

Simultaneously Alan and Barcus descended the face of the bluff in two miniature land-slides, dug themselves out, and by the time the dazed and disarmed guard had sufficiently recovered to cry out for help the dory was a hundred yards off the beach and making excellent time in the direction of that lonely green light.

They wrought with the oars like men possessed, yet with a machine-like precision that drove the boat fast and furiously—without attempt to still the splashing of their blades. Concealment of their purpose from those who remained aboard the schooner was out of the question. The shouts, the shots, the play of flashlamps along the beach—as though Bedlam had loosed half a dozen lunatic will o' the wisps upon the holy peace of night—must have betrayed the fact that they had turned the tables long before the dory left the inshore shoals.

The commonest precautions, however, made them pause and rest upon their oars while yet a little way from their goal.

Only an ominous silence rewarded the utmost efforts of their straining senses; no sound was audible other than the gentle whine of an ungreased block; nothing was visible beyond the sinister glare of that almost stationary green lantern.

"What think?" Barcus inquired in a dubious undertone.

"No telling," Alan replied in the same manner. "All a chance."

"You've got that gun handy?"—with reference to the rifle of which they had despoiled the victim of the sky's ill-faith.

"Here."

"Then—let's go to it! Give way!" A dozen lusty strokes brought them alongside the schooner, and as the dory scraped the waist of the larger vessel the two young men dropped oars, rose, and seizing the low gunwales, lifted themselves to the deck.

Nothing opposed them; the deck was ignorant of other footsteps than their own, the schooner as silent as only a becalmed ship can be.

Without further consultation, Alan led quickly aft and down the companionway to the cabin, where a dim light burned—a smoky lamp swinging in gimbals above a cluttered table.

Of the two stateroom doors one disclosed an empty cabin, the other was locked.

Trying the handle roughly, Alan fancied he heard a sound within. Pausing, he called, with a thrill of fearful hope:

"Hello, in there!" The response was cry of incredulous delight: "Alan!"

By way of answer Alan hurled himself bodily against the door. At the

"Nothing—wind too fresh. Make yourself easy on the soft side of a plank here. I'll land you a kick in the slats when so minded—or when it's your trick at the wheel."

With a chuckle, Alan obediently stretched himself out on the deck.

"I say—Law!"

"Well!"

"You seem pretty easy in your mind about this young woman below. To me, she's the same that tried to send me to Davy Jones' locker. How does she explain her presence aboard?"

"Much as I surmised," Alan replied. "I fancy they chloroformed her while she slept in that hotel in Portland. Whether or no, Rose woke up in a closed motor car—bound and gagged, of course—and was brought aboard at Gloucester about midnight."

"Simple when you know how," Barcus commented. "Of course, I always did say that truth was a stranger to fiction. Cuddle down, now, and I'll talk you insensible."

His accents already merging in with the swish of the longshore waves, the bubbling of the wake, and the many-toned composite voice of the ship in being, unconsciousness like a cloud signals of other shipping sounded a concert of discordance—the man-power horn of a catboat crying the warning back to the deep-throated whistle of a coastwise steamship and the impertinent drumming of a motor-boat's exhaust with the muffler cut out.

This last boxed the compass, sounding now near, now far, though the complaints of other shipping diminished in volume and died away in the distance, giving place to others still, the plutter-plutter of that motor was never altogether lost; if at times it faded, it seemed certain always to return in even louder volume.

Vainly straining his vision against the blank pallor of the encompassing fog, Alan wondered, worried, dreaded!

At irregular intervals, starting from preoccupation, he would manipulate the brass pull on the wheel-box, provoking the horn's stuttering blasts of protest. But the need for unremitting vigilance and exercise of the fog-signal failed none the less to reconcile Alan to that blatant clamor which so widely and so hideously advertised their whereabouts.

If there were anything still to be feared from Judith and her crew—if, for instance, as Barcus had suggested, they had sought out one of the life-saving stations on Nauset beach, appropriated its power-driven lifeboat and renewed the pursuit, if ever they heard that horn there would beyond question be the devil to pay!

The loneliness of his vigil was eventually relieved by the appearance on deck of the woman Alan loved.

The tableau that greeted her vision as she emerged from the companionway, of the haggard, unshaven wretch at the wheel and the other who lay at his feet, where he had fallen, in a stupor of fatigue, instantly wrung from Rose a little cry of solicitude. And she was quick to do what little she could to alleviate their discomfort. For Barcus she fetched a pillow and blanket from the cabin, and this one suffered her ministrations without once rousing from his slumbers. Then hastening forward, she got the galley fire going and prepared a makeshift breakfast for her half-famished lover.

Warm food and hot coffee—such as they were—lending a little tone to Alan's spirits, he was presently able to discuss their situation with some optimism. Yet nothing could gloss the fact that the problem confronting them was one whose solution baffled their utmost ingenuity—one the simple contemplation of which taxed their courage and intelligence to the extreme.

He summed up: "I can't see anything for it but father and Judith are determined to have my scalp, and I'm hanged if I can see how to protect myself without taking a leaf out of their books. What I'm most afraid of is that some time I may forget it's a woman I'm defending myself against. When a fellow's fighting for his very life he can't always stop to calculate the weight of his blows."

The young man sighed, shook his head, laughed uncertainly, and held her closer to him. "Don't fear; I'll find some way out without injuring either of them. I promise you that!"

He sealed the pledge upon her lips. And in that moment of their oblivion to the world from some point forward a muffled crash sounded simultaneously with the dull shock of a collision with a smaller vessel, and a strange voice cried out with an accent of high exaltation.

Before either Alan or the girl could disengage the decks rang loud with a rush of booted feet pounding aft.

The figures of the boarding party were already taking shape through the fog as Alan sprang toward the companionway to fetch the rifle. And in this action his feet slipped on planks greasy with moisture deposited by the surcharged atmosphere. He went down with a stumbling thump, and an instant later two men fell bodily upon him—active, strong fellows in the dress of fishermen. He was suffered to rise only as a prisoner, helpless in the grasp of two pairs of powerful hands.

He saw Barcus, rudely roused and still dumb with sleepy confusion, in no better case—jerked to his feet and held captive by two more fishermen. A fifth had taken charge of Rose, clamping her wrists in the vise of one big hand.

The sixth and sole other member of the boarding party, likewise in the rough-and-ready garb of a fisherman, was Judith Trine.

Down the side a heavy life-boat ground its way astern, the loose end of its painter slipping over the rail even as Alan caught sight of it. (So it seemed Barcus had guessed shrewdly!)

Observing this, one of the men in charge of Alan made as if to leave him to the other, addressing Judith for permission to prevent the loss of the lifeboat. She stopped him with a peremptory gesture.

"No—let it go. We're better off without it. Hold that man fast till I fetch a rope. We'll make sure of them both this time!"

Straining forward in the grasp of her guard, Rose implored her sister: "Judith, in pity's name, think what you are doing!"

"Hold your tongue!" Judith snapped violently. "Another whimper out of you, and I'll have you gagged!"

The balance of her threat, though accompanied by the exhibition of an automatic pistol, was drowned out by the sudden roar of a steamship fog-signal, so close aboard that it seemed almost to emanate from the forepart of the schooner herself.

As it was answered by shrill and hoarse cries of terror or of warning from a dozen throats, Alan found him-second impact of shoulders backed by a hundred and eighty pounds of solid flesh and determination, the lock splintered away from its socket, the door flew open with a bang—and Alan into the room with a cry: "Rose!"

His sweetheart met him half-way, her arms uplifted, her countenance transfused.

And Mr. Barcus turned and slowly ascended the companionway, his nose wrinkled with misgivings.

"Blest if I know how he thinks he can tell 'em apart," he remarked. "Not that I blame him for taking a chance; it wouldn't pain me any to find out I'd kissed the wrong girl by mistake—not, that is, unless she didn't care for my technique."

"In that case," he allowed, "I guess the sequel would be apt to prove tolerable agonizing!"

Some ten minutes later a hall from the deck broke the embrace of the lovers:

"Below there! I say—Law!—wind a-coming!"

"Right-o! Half a minute!"

But that stipulated delay was several times multiplied before Alan showed up on deck to find Barcus bending a laborious back to the capstan.

"Lend a hand, can't you?" Barcus complained, blowing heavily. "I didn't interrupt your amours just to get an audience. The sooner we get this anchor in—"

Alan checked him with a hand on his arm. "What's that?" he demanded in a tone tense with apprehension.

The muffled running of a heavy-duty marine motor drifted down on the wings of the sluggish wind.

"Don't ask me—I'm afraid to guess!"

"But they couldn't possibly!"

"Since when did you set up to be a judge of possibilities? Nothing probable ever happened to you in all your young life—s'f's I can make out. As for me—I know there are at least two life-saving stations on Nauset, both with modern equipment—motor life-boats and all; and nothing will ever persuade me that pack of wolves would stick at breaking in and confiscating one of the same. It's as likely as not—only more so. Our present business is to get the h—l out of here—and not advertise our exit, either. Take that port light in and douse it, while I do the same by the starboard. Then duck below, warn your Dalcinea, and put out the cabin lamp. That way—if this blackness and our ill-luck only holds—we may manage an evasion!"

There followed an exceedingly busy quarter of an hour for two constrained in pitch darkness to grope their way about the decks and familiarize themselves with the idiosyncrasies of a strange two-master. Nevertheless, the end of that period found the schooner with canvas full and sheets taut, a good easterly breeze abeam, swiftly weaving a wake southwards—the light on Monomoy point watching her curiously from over the starboard beam.

"Hear anything more of that power boat?" Alan asked, joining Barcus by the wheel.

descended upon Alan's overwheeled faculties.

He woke mutinously, with a yawn and a shiver in the gray of a tarnished daybreak, to find that fog pressed heavily upon the face of the waters, a mist so thick that from the stern the waist of the vessel was almost invisible, the bows completely so.

Barcus stood over him, at the wheel, fairly reeling with weariness, his eyes blood-shot, swollen, and half-closed in a face like a mask of fatigue.

"Can't keep this up much longer," he apologized thickly; "stood it about as long as I can. Take your trick and give me forty winks."

Grateful solicitude brought Alan instantly to his side, though he himself was sluggish and stiff and sore in all his limbs.

"You're a brick!" he protested. "Why didn't you call me sooner?"

"No good; I knew the way—you didn't. That is, I did until this accursed fog closed down a couple of hours ago. Now—God knows where we are—by my reckoning, somewhere in Nantucket sound, west of Monomoy."

Grasping a small brass handle affixed to the wheel box, he jerked it sharply three times, and the automatic horn blared raucously a threefold response up forward.

"Keep that going," he begged, "three blasts in a row and a minute interval—and if the devil takes care of his own we may possibly escape being run down."

With a sigh, relinquishing the wheel, he collapsed upon the deck and was almost instantly asleep.

The wind had fallen until barely enough air stirred to keep way on the vessel; she moved in silence, a spectral ship upon a spectral sea of long, oily swells and the complexion of lead. Hither and yon in the obscurity, fog-self released, his captors leaping for their lives to the taffrail.

He caught an instantaneous glimpse of the knife-like bow of a great steamer towering above the two-master—sweeping toward it at a speed which raised a smart jet of white under the cutwater.

Someone aboard the schooner, with the voice of a stentor, bellowed a terrified appeal:

"Stop your engines! Shut off your propeller! Stop your—"

Then, like the wrath of God, the steamship overwhelmed the lesser ship; its bow seemed to slice through the schooner as a knife through cheese. And the two halves were fairly driven under water by the frightful force of the blow.

Thunders deafening him, Alan was hurled bodily through the air fully twenty feet.

When he came up he struck out at random, blindly tormented by the vision of Rose caught in the suck of that gigantic wheel, drawn under, crushed and mangled by the propeller of the vast black hulk whose flank was sliding past, like the face of a cliff, ten yards behind his shoulders.

Aware of several dark objects dotting the surface within a radius of several yards, he swam for the nearest; the head was a woman's, the face turned toward him, the face of Rose.

He gasped wildly: "Keep cool! Don't struggle! Put one hand on my shoulder and—"

What happened then was never quite clear to him; he only knew that he was forced to fight for his very life—that the woman, as soon as he came within reach, flung herself upon him like some maddened animal, clutching his throat, winding her limbs round his, dragging him down and down.

Primitive instinct alone saved him. He remembered later, most vaguely, the culmination of that duel beneath the waters—remembered freeing an arm, drawing it back, delivering a blow from his shoulder, with all his strength, finding himself free, struggling back to the air.

Then a boathook caught the back of his shirt and dragged him for some distance, until two strong hands caught him beneath the armpits and held his head above the water.

He looked up witlessly into the face of Barcus, and, still bewildered, struggled feebly.

The other's voice brought him back to his senses. "Easy, old top! Take it easy! You're all right now—rest a minute, then help me get you aboard."

He obeyed, controlling his panic as best he might; and presently, with considerable assistance from Barcus, contrived to scramble in over the gunwales of a boat which proved to be the stolen lifeboat.

Aside from Barcus and himself it held one other person only—the woman he loved, crumpled up and unconscious in the bow.

He strove to rise and go to her, to make sure that still she lived. Barcus restrained and quieted him.

"There! Easy, I say! She's all right—fainted—that's all! She and I took the water in practically the same spot, and luck threw this blessed boat my way within half a dozen strokes. No trouble at all—in a manner of speaking!"

"But the steamer—"

"Why fret about her? At the pace she was making she couldn't have stopped within half a mile. We'll be all right now—with power to fetch us to land."

"But the others—Judith!" Alan sat up and leaned over the gunwale, searching an oily, leaden expanse spotted only with a few splinters and bits of wreckage. "I left her out there—unconscious—she'll drown, I tell you!"

"And I'll tell you something!" said Mr. Barcus severely. "You'll be quiet and shut up or I'll dent your dome with the shaft of an oar. Let her drown—and a good job, I say! Don't you know the meaning of 'enough'? Merciful heavens, man, you're the most insatiable glutton for punishment ever!"

But Alan wasn't listening. His face was as lightless as the waters that swam beneath his lack-luster gaze. There was a horror in his heart that numbed even the sense of relief, of deliverance, that penetrated his being like a shock of mortal pain.

Dead! Judith dead! Back there, in the fog and the cold . . . dead by his hand!

MISS CODDING AN OCTOBER BRIDE

St. Pauls Episcopal church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday night when Miss Harriet McElroy Coddling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Coddling, of 545 Boulevard, became the bride of, Wellwood Hugh Maxwell of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Oscar Jarvis, of Scarsdale, N. Y., a former rector of the church, assisted by Rev. James A. Smith, the present rector.

The maid of honor was Miss Adele Coddling, sister of the bride, and the best man was John Brooks of Cleveland, Ohio. The ushers were Charles N. Coddling, Jr., a brother of the bride and Lewis R. Thibault, of Philadelphia.

The ceremony at the church was witnessed only by immediate relatives of the contracting parties but at the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents there were about 200 present.

The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with rose point lace. She wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a blue satin trimmed with lace and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

The wedding music was furnished by Westervelt of Newark, and the wedding supper by Day, of Morris-town.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and southern smilax and the house decorations were yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell left for a wedding trip and upon their return will make their home in this town.

The guests at the wedding and reception were from New York, Cleveland, Ohio, Philadelphia, Beverly, N. J., and this town.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts.

MISS J. G. TICE BRIDE OF C. E. CONOVER

The home of Mrs. Mary E. Tice, 519 Highland avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when her daughter, Miss Jessie Gilmore Tice, became the bride of Charles Ernest Conover, of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed under an arch of palms, ferns, autumn leaves and flowers in the parlor of the Tice home, by Rev. Dr. W. I. Stearns of the Presbyterian church assisted by Rev. Dr. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, Plainfield.

The maid of honor was Miss Marion Tice, a sister of the bride. Frank Whitely, of Plainfield, was best man. Master Herbert Vance, a nephew of the bride acted as page and the ushers were Charles and Raymond Tice, brothers of the bride. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her brother, Richard Tice, to the strains of the wedding march rendered by Dushanek's orchestra. She was given in marriage by her mother.

The bride was attired in a white crepe de chine gown trimmed with shadow lace and caught up with orange blossoms. She wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore a pink satin gown trimmed with shadow lace caught up with pink rosebuds and carried an arm bouquet of the same flowers. The page wore the usual page costume.

After the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding supper served by Day, of Newark. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Conover left for a wedding trip and upon their return will reside in their new home on Elmwood Place, Plainfield.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a gold brooch set with pearls and sapphires. The gift of the bride to the groom was a stick pin set with an amethyst and to the maid of honor a lavalier. The groom's gift to the best man was a gold stick pin.

There were about seventy-five guests present at the wedding and reception from New York, Plainfield, Brooklyn, High Bridge, Newark, Orange and this town.

The bride received many handsome and useful presents.

Foley-Dushanek.

Miss Marguerite E. Dushanek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dushanek, of 407 Boulevard, became the bride of John J. Foley, of New York, in Holy Trinity church on Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Rigney. Miss Myers played the wedding music.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Isabel Dushanek, and the best man was Frank O'Kane, of New York.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was attended by only relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride wore a navy blue traveling suit and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid was also attired in a navy blue suit and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Foley left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and upon their return will reside on Elm street.

Mr. Foley has a responsible position with the Central railroad of New Jersey.

The gifts to the bride were numerous and handsome.

FRANK H. SMITH HAS GOOD RECORD

He Organized the Office of County Register Ten Years Ago and Has Since Ably Administered it. Has Endorsement of Lawyers and Real Estate Men Throughout the County

"A Business Administration by A Business Man in A Business Office."

This is the slogan adopted by County Register Frank H. Smith, in his campaign for re-election on the Republican ticket. It is fast becoming known from one end of the county to the other, and is just as rapidly being recognized as stating exactly what he stands for. His public career as an executive official and his private commercial undertakings previously prove the aptness of it.

Mr. Smith's candidacy is based entirely on his record. His re-election will be a public expression of approval of his administration, which already has received the endorsement of practically all the members of the bar and real estate men in the county. They are the ones who come most in contact with him in his official capacity and are therefore in a position to know the things he has done to render the service of the office economical and efficient.

They, too, are the men best qualified to pass any criticism, and at such a time as this, owe it to their clients to make any, if it be deserved. It is a known fact that they are being sought for advice by voters who view the casting of their ballots as a sacred duty and will be actuated by conscientious scruples in the performance of their duty at the polls on November 3. The voters also realize that the men whose advice they seek are in positions which will not permit of them acting other than with absolute frankness in expressing their opinions. As yet none but unqualified approval of Mr. Smith's administration has been heard.

This gratifying information has come to Mr. Smith and those who are working in his behalf, solely in the belief that he is the kind of public seeks re-election to, is one of utmost official whose retention in office ensures the proper performance of its functions. The office he holds and seeks re-election to, is one of utmost importance to the people of the county. It comes much closer to their home lives and affects their holdings and future more vitally than is generally supposed. This will be understood however, when it is remembered that the deeds to their property, the mortgages and leases on it, and all other documents pertaining to it constitute the records of his office and which he is charged to make and preserve.

An error in the recording of a deed or mortgage at this time probably would have disastrous results in the future. The constant exercise of diligence on the part of Mr. Smith and his clerks, for whom he is responsible, and a modern system of conducting the office, which he installed, safeguards against just such contingencies and is the greatest guarantee possible that in the future, when title to the property is to be transferred, either by sale or in the course of human events to heirs, there will be no difficulty or embarrassment to obstruct and possibly cause considerable expense by entangling litigation.

SECOND LECTURE WELL ATTENDED

The lecture given in the assembly room of the Washington school on "Tramping Among the Alps" by Charles Rollinson, Saturday night, was attended by a large number of people and the lecture was very interesting and instructive. Prior to Mr. Rollinson beginning his lecture he told of his experience in Switzerland during the war and how he was shut up in one of the cities there for ten days. He said that money was hard to get as American notes and checks were not recognized.

Mr. Rollinson told of his travels among the Alps all of which were made on foot. He told of the various passes he went through. The lecture was illustrated with many beautiful stereopticon views of the cities of Geneva and Interlaken.

Mr. Rollinson was introduced to his audience by E. B. Thompson, of the Board of Education. After the introduction Mr. Cutler, of the Board, told the audience about the laying of the cornerstone of the new high school building and announced the program.

The lecture next Saturday night will be given by Harry C. Ostrander who was heard in the course last winter. Mr. Ostrander's subject will be "Northern Africa and the Mediterranean."

Liquid to Put Out Fire.

The nervous housewife who lives in constant dread of fire may, with very little trouble, make an extinguisher that will put out a blaze if used at once. All she needs to do is to put three pounds of salt in a gallon of water, and to this add a pound and a half of sal ammoniac. This liquid should be bottled, and when the fire is discovered it should be poured on it.

AUTOMOBILISTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

An automobile party composed of several persons from Dunellen who were bound for Morristown had a narrow escape from serious injury, if not death on Monday morning when a large touring car driven by C. W. Sandy, of Newark, ran into them at Broad street and Springfield road.

In the car from Dunellen were Mrs. A. L. Barton, Mrs. Lewis T. Churchill, Mrs. Raymond Hamley and Miss Florence Gangloff. Mrs. Barton was driving the car and before turning the car from Broad street into Springfield road she tooted the horn. Mr. Sandy was at the time coming up Springfield road towards Cranford in his car. He evidently became confused when the Barton car came out of Broad street and instead of turning to the right and making the passage in safety as Mrs. Barton was making the turn properly he turned to the left, hitting the front wheel of the light car. Both cars were swung around and were facing a house standing opposite the head of Broad street when they had come to a standstill.

The Barton car was brought to this town where it was repaired at a local garage and the tour continued.

Eight automobile accidents have occurred in the last six months at the juncture of Broad street and Springfield road and this has been the first one in which some one was not injured.

Early Morning Fire.

A fire in the basement of the house of W. R. Morrison, 520 Mountain avenue, called out the fire department on Wednesday morning at 3:30. The Morrison's had a fire going in the open fire place early in the evening and when they retired, left the fire, as they thought, safe. However, sparks from the fire went through the grating into the basement and set fire to some storm doors and other material stored there. The family was awakened by the smoke and investigated and then telephoned for the fire department. The department responded promptly. They confined the blaze to the basement although they were obliged to use some water on the first floor. The damage amounts to about $1,000 which is covered by insurance.

Tax Payers Association Meets.

The Fourth Ward Taxpayers Association held its monthly meeting in the assembly room of the McKinley school on Tuesday night. In the absence of President L. H. Phelps, E. E. Thompson, the second vice-president, presided. Various matters pertaining to the improvements in the ward were discussed but no definite action was taken. A communication was received from Mayor Evans stating that some complaints which have been made by the Association to the council in regard to some improvements which had been made would be looked into by him. The meeting was attended by about fifteen of the members.

THOUSANDS PARADE.

of ceremonies, Rev. Edward A. Rigney, of Holy Trinity church, this town. The Holy Trinity choir and altar boys assisted in the benediction.

When the parade passed the reviewing stand about one hundred children of the Sunday school of Holy Trinity church waved small American flags. Many of the houses in town displayed American flags. The rectory of Holy Trinity church was especially prettily decorated.

It was an ideal day and throngs of people from all over the county witnessed the parade from the streets through which it passed. Special trains and trolley cars were run to Westfield and there were hundreds of visitors in automobiles.

Matthias Miller, the Grand Marshal, was assisted by the following aides and captains: J. H. Phelps, J. M. Walsh, G. H. Riley, E. C. McMahon, J. W. James, Jr., W. E. Date, Frank Tully, Patrick Traynor, James Bates, M. Tully, A. C. Traynor, George D. Hayes, William Carroll, Joseph Whelan, J. E. Niland, Theodore Knight, James Ryan, Pierre McCormick, A. D. Marengi, and Charles Gottlieb, banner bearer, James McGeough, American flag bearer, John Whalen.

It was expected that Rev. Dr. John Coyle, of New York, would be present to make an address but he notified Father Watterson on Saturday that he would be unable to be present.

Where Wise Inventor Wins.

There may be a certain percentage of inconvenience to be reached before the human mind grasps the fact that something must be altered. The wise inventor says the Journal of the American Medical Association, attains a reputation for brilliance by making the invention he has conceived becomes obvious to others.

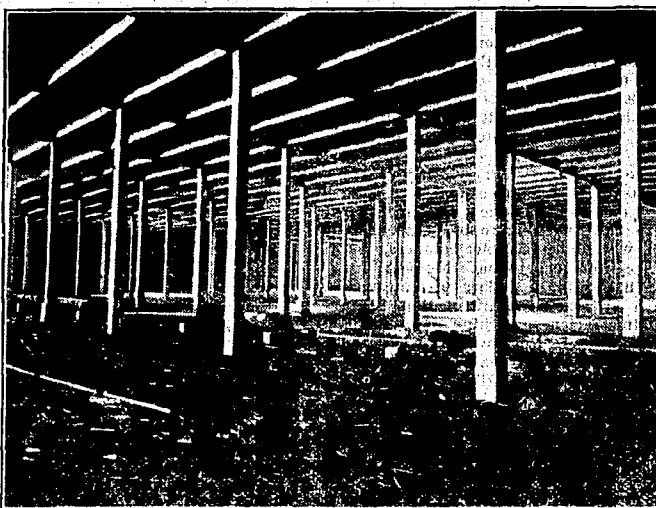

NEW RESERVOIR NOW COMPLETED

that difficulty will be obviated. To minimize the risk involved in this situation, however, the company has always maintained duplicate machinery, so that in the event of a breakdown of any particular part another could be started in a few minutes, and thus avoid a reduction of pressure.

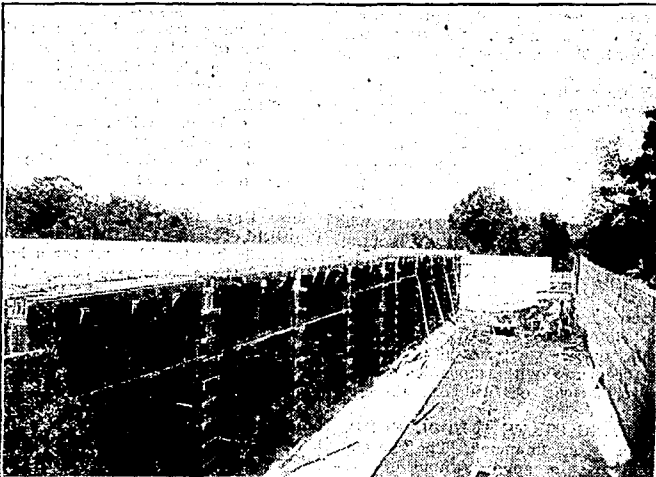

A few days ago the company began to fill the reservoir, letting about a million gallons a day run in. At present the water is more than thirteen feet deep, and is so limpid that the bottom of the reservoir can be seen almost as distinctly as if empty. Every manhole, and the door in the roof of the reservoir are securely fastened and locked, and a high iron fence is about to be constructed entirely around it, equipped with barbed wire on the inside to prevent intrusion.

As the reservoir was nearing completion a number of photographs were taken of it showing the condition of the work, and also a photograph was taken of the interior when finished. The Standard to-day presents copies of these photographs to its readers.

It is the intention of the water company to raise the standpipe at Netherwood several feet higher, or possibly remove it altogether and operate the works on the Holly system hereafter, but on this point, however, no final decision has yet been reached.

Faulty Underwear is the Cause of Many Children's Ailments

Children do not know that when overheated by woolen underwear they should cool off gradually, or that it is dangerous to throw off heavy outer garments when wearing cotton underwear.

DUOFOLD Underwear

is the only underwear that recognizes the hygienic ignorance of children and gives them the proper protection.

Its scientific double fabric construction keeps the body at more nearly natural heat under all changes of temperature.

It consists of an outer fabric of warm light-weight wool and an inner lining of soft thin cotton. The two fabrics are joined by widely-spaced stitches through which the air circulates and keeps the garment fresh.

Physicians recommend Duofold as the ideal children's underwear.

For boys and girls in all sizes.
