For the men of India are—poor souls!—the most henpecked in the world."

Few people realize how much the gift of song has given to the Christian Faith, nor how the church of eighteen centuries has been enriched by never-ceasing chant and antiphon. To praise God worthily is no petty aim, no small ambition.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning will be "Vanishing Horizons" and in the evening the third of the sermons on "The Tragedies of the New Testament," the subject being "The Death of St. John the Baptist." Next Wednesday evening "The Dangers of Morbidity" will be preached, and on Friday evening the subject of the Meditation will be "The Master and the Tempest."

King Despised Bachelors.

King Christian was one of the greatest anti-race suicide enthusiasts who ever lived. He had no use for bachelors. Everybody over 30 years old he brought to get married. It is related that one bachelor was pressed so hard by King Christian on this point that he fled to the West Indies to keep from being persuaded.

PLAINFIELD WANTS BALL.

WILL FORM STOCK ASSOCIATION TO FINANCE THE GAME.

Manager Daub States His Conditions and the Fans Will Try to Comply--Judge Runyon May head the Association--Subscriptions Being Solicited Now.

The Plainfield Baseball Association was launched Saturday night at the Hotel Iroquois by a large number of enthusiastic supporters of the game, and there is every indication that Manager Daub and his fast aggregation of players will again represent the city on the diamond this season. Within a short time a little less than $900 was subscribed for shares of stock, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, chairman of the meeting, starting the list with a subscription of $100. Every one present took one or more shares at $5 each, and it was the general opinion that success would attend the efforts to secure 400 subscribers.

Officers were elected and a committee of twenty appointed to solicit subscribers for shares of stock. This committee, as well as the officers, will go to work at once, it being necessary to ascertain whether a sufficient number of shares will be taken to insure the return of Mr. Daub and his team.

These officers were elected temporarily: President, Newton B. Smalley; vice president, Andrew McCardell; treasurer, Charles W. Runyon; secretary, Robert G. W. Mayor Smalley took the presidency temporarily with the idea that City Judge William N. Runyon be chosen as permanent officer. Judge Runyon was unable to be present but it was believed by all that he would accept the position.

Manager Daub addressed the meeting, reviewing last year's experience here in baseball. He explained how he was induced to bring his team here by Lines Groo and enumerated the various items of expense. He also told how the franchise was purchased from the Als Club. He then showed how certain expenses could be cut out if an association was formed and properly conducted. Last year Mr. Daub was under a weekly expense for ticket sellers, ticket takers, police, and for the care of the grounds, and he thought an association would be able to cut out at least $1,000 expense by taking direct charge of affairs here.

His plan appealed to those present as being reasonable and fair, and it was finally voted to accept this proposition, which was made by Mayor Smalley. The association is to have half interest in the game and Mr. Daub is to retain a half interest, manage the team and arrange the schedule of games, while the association will look after the local end of affairs, such as caring for the grounds, police, the sale and taking of tickets, etc. The association proposes to raise money by subscriptions to shares of stock, it being desired to sell at least 400 shares. This will establish a fund and make it possible for the association to conduct the game along right lines. Any profits or losses will be shared alike by the association and Mr. Daub. There was a free and fair discussion of plans and everybody was enthusiastic about having a good article of ball in Plainfield this year.

Mayor Smalley complimented Mr. Daub for last season's success in giving the town the best baseball in its history and said that the fans realize that with him at the head there would be a continuance of it.

Mr. Daub expressed himself as being

DEMOCRATS ISSUE CALL.

PREPARING TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF REPUBLICAN MISTAKES.

If Party in Power Fails to Make Good at this Session a New Deal Will be Sought--Independent Republicans May Join Movement and Create a New Party.

The Democrats have issued the following call for a conference of citizens of New Jersey to discuss the present political situation in this state.

"Dear Sir:--

Political conditions were never before so unsettled in the United States as at the present time. Party affiliations have been and are being severed because men are beginning to understand that their parties, as now constituted, no longer represent the principles in which they believe. To students of politics two important truths, one the antithesis of the other, are apparent in the present condition: 1. The machinery of the two old parties has fallen completely under the control of corporate influences and other privileged interests. 2. The spirit of independence has reached its highest point in the history of American politics.

While this statement is true of the country as a whole, it is peculiarly descriptive of the condition in New Jersey. In this state party leadership has been and is completely dominated by corporate influence. Party principals have been trampled under foot, party honor has been bartered for corporate pelf, party banners have been trailed in the filth of political corruption.

Is it any wonder that chaos has taken the place of party organization? Is it strange that men hesitate to admit to admit their connection with any political party in New Jersey?

But as is the condition; forbidding as the situation appears from that condition, out of that situation may yet arise the grandest temple of political freedom, honor and purity ever seen in our beloved state. It has been said that "when things get thoroughly bad they will right themselves," implying that, in public affairs, there is a point in the decline at which the people will revolt, and inspired by the spirit of honor and pride, will rally at the call of duty and check the downward course. We believe that New Jersey has reached that point.

Disbarring in our party councils, betrayed in our legislative sanctuary, chained to the wheels of unbridled monopoly, a butt for the jokes of one-half of the world, and commiserated by the other half, the citizens of New Jersey have come to the time when they must assert their manhood and their patriotism. Realizing the truths set out in the foregoing and impelled by the desire to aid in the work of rescuing the state from the danger in which it is engulfed, and to restore to the people their rights which have been bartered away, the undersigned appeal to you for co-operation. We do not underestimate the powers arrayed against the people, but we believe that there is sufficient of the spirit of true democracy still left in New Jersey.

In hearty accord with the plans proposed and said he was well pleased with the outlook. It is necessary for him to know the decision of the association so that he can arrange his schedule of games and sign his players for the season. With this end in view the committee of twenty will hustle to secure the necessary number of subscribers to give Mr. Daub the assurance he desires.--Plainfield Press.

sey, if properly organized, to overthrow the forces of selfishness and corruption and to place our commonwealth once more in the front rank of American states.

We have not come hastily to our conclusions. In conferences we have carefully and exhaustively considered the situation, and have earnestly discussed remedies that might be brought forward. The result of these conferences has been a unanimous decision to call upon the honest and progressive citizens of New Jersey to organize for the practical duties of citizenship.

We, therefore, ask you to join with us in organizing for true democracy in New Jersey.

If the machine Republicans at Trenton at the close of the present legislative session shall have succeeded in holding the party within the lines of corporate control it is quite likely that the Independents of both the old parties will endeavor to create a new party in the interest of the people.

It is always ready for use. There is no waiting for hot water if you own one of these pads. It can not leak and add a scalding to sickness as frequently happens with a water bottle. It may be connected to any Electric socket and turned on and off at will.

OLDEST COPPER MINE

OPENED IN NEW JERSEY ALMOST TWO CENTURIES AGO.

Visited by Washington and Franklin—Metal Used for Coining Cents of Our Grandfathers.

The oldest copper mine in America is the Schuylor, of Arlington, N. J., which was opened 190 years ago. Great men had a part in the early days of this mine. Benjamin Franklin was here in 1740, when he advised the owner to install a steam engine to pump the shafts free from water. In a letter to Jared Eliot, under date of February 13, 1750, Franklin describes his visit to the mine and states that the ore therefrom had made several persons rich and that he had advised the owner to spend $1,000 sterling for an engine of a type he had seen in the mines of Cornwall.

The working of this mine began in 1714, when six tons of ore was sent to Bristol, England, for smelting. The returns were large and immediately a project was set on foot to establish a smelting plant near the mine, in which English coal would be used and the product used for the copper coins needed for the colonies. Soon afterward 110 casks of ore were shipped to Holland.

Gov. Hunter, of New York and New Jersey in the meantime advanced the interests of the mine, but was snubbed by the lords of trade, who held to the letter of the law that manufacturers of metals should not be permitted in the colonies; they held that all ores mined hereabout should be sent to England for smelting. That action ruined the smelting and coining project. Thereafter the ore was sent to England.

As the enterprise became profitable,
the attorney general for the colony set forth that the mine was a part of the king's manor of East Greenwich and that therefore, the king was entitled to a certain share of the profits from the mine. This matter involved litigation which was finally settled about the outbreak of the revolution. The king's side won, but the judgment was never paid.

Soon after Franklin visited the mine
the owners placed an order in England for the pump. The order was in hand three years by several members of the Hornblower family, then prominent as designing engineers for the mining trades. As English law forbade the export of most kinds of machinery to the colonies, and as pumps were on that list, the pump parts were shipped as old metal.

With the engine came Josiah Horn-blower, who became a great light in the engineering world of the colonies as well as a patriot in and out of congress.

A year was spent in building the engine plant. George Washington was among the famous men who journeyed to the mines to see Hornblower and the wonderful engine. As soon as the shafts were pumped clear mining began on a profitable basis. From 1775 until 1783 the troublous times caused the shutting down of the works. In 1783 Nicholas J. Roosevelt, a greatgranduncle of President Roosevelt, acquired an interest in the mine, and he and Hornblower and some others organized the New Jersey Copper Mining association to work the mine and operate a smelter and a copper and brass rolling mill.

At times from the formation of the federal union until 60 years ago the product from this old mine was used for coining into the big copper cents of our grandfathers and for trade tokens, then used by retail merchants as small coin. For a number of years John Hewitt, father of Abram S. Hewitt, was in charge of the Schuylor mine, and there as a boy Abram Hewitt acquired his liking for metal working.

Not in His Case.
"You don't really want to marry me, Jack," she said, pretending to be deeply interested in a microscopic flaw in the texture of his coat collar. "You've been reading that a wife is a luxury, and you think—"

"That doesn't fit my case, Nellie!" interrupted the young man. "You're not a luxury. You're an absolute necessity,
I simply can't live without you!"
It was dead easy for Jack after that.
—Chicago Tribune.

The Sham and the Real.
Midst revels so bright
Beware future sorrow,
For champagne to-night

—Washington Star.

Extra Precaution.
"Onions!" hissed the beautiful girl.
"You feasted on onions and then dared to kiss me?"
The timid young man paled.
"Well, you see, my dear," he faltered,
"I—er—heard that there were germs in kisses and I thought possibly the onion breath would destroy them."
—Chicago Daily News.

Speaking Acquaintance.
"You say you know the judge?" asked the officer who had just arrested the chauffeur for exceeding the speed limit.
"Well, yes," replied the chauffeur; "I have a speaking acquaintance with him.
He once said '$25 fine' to me, and I said
'Thank you' to him."

But them whom the truth would indict.
—Robert Burns.

There is a settled disposition on the part of the public to await patiently the close of the present legislative session before passing judgment on the claim of the Republican party that it means to represent the people. The amount of influence that the corporations succeed in bringing to bear in opposition to the bills to limit their capacity will be a potent factor in the computation that will later be made by the people. The party has more than once in the country's history evidenced its ability to catch the spirit of the times and enact it into law. The evil of the present day is unquestionably the organized and legalized theft that is extant and made possible under the form of a corporation. The face of the people has become set against corporate control. Unless the Republican party realizes that fact and gets in line with it the people may be expected to sweep the party from power and substitute another instrument. The only proper use of parties is as a method of securing representation. When in that particular they fail dissolution is a fate deserved. Under a righteous man armed, like the President of the United States, something seems to be due in the way of achievement in the national councils. New Jersey is the mother of corporations. Her continued protection of them is doubtless due to the instinctive attachment to offspring. But the children have grown so big and so unreasonable; and whereas they used to obey the mother's laws they now ignore her commands, make laws of their own and defy the outraged parent. Parties come and go. Rarely has any party had credited to it a record of progressive and constructive statesmanship so brilliant and long continued as that of the Republican party. Can it be that corporations are the rocks upon which the party of Lincoln will go to pieces? It seems unlikely to be so nationally, but there is clear-headed piloting needed in New Jersey if such an unhappy experience is to be averted in this State.

Placed Baby on Railroad Track.
Anna Kingston, a colored domestic here in town, was arrested Monday morning by Chief of Police Thomas O'Neill, on a charge of attempted homicide. The woman admitted that the young baby found on the railroad tracks at Elizabeth last Friday morning was her child and had been placed there by her for the purpose of getting rid of it. The baby was a girl and about six weeks old. The infant was sent to a home and a search instituted for the person who left it in the precarious situation on the tracks. Chief O'Neill located the woman here, questioned her about where she had left her child, and not getting a satisfactory answer, placed her under arrest. She then confessed her crime. The father of the child is said to live in Pennsylvania.

HACK ORDINANCE PASSED

ON FIRST READING AND FINAL ADOPTION SEEM CERTAIN.

Council Meeting Held Last Night—Surveyor's Assistant Appointed—Van Emburgh Agrees to Compromise on Bills—No Objections to Mountain Avenue Sewer.

The Council passed a hack ordinance on first reading last night, and referred it back to the Law Committee for amendments to be submitted before final passage. The ordinance provides for a charge of 25 cents for one passenger and 15 cents for each additional passenger within a prescribed area, and 35 and 25 cents outside. Fares by the hour the charge is made $1.00 for the first hour and 75 cents for each additional hour. After 9 o'clock in the evening double fares may be charged. The ordinance will be published in full in THE STANDARD to-day.

No objections were presented to the proposed sewer on Mountain Avenue to carry themselves, and an ordinance will probably be passed.

The objections of A. H. Clark to sewer assessment on Middlesex street and those of Marion H. Webb and A. D. Bloodgood to sewer assessment on Elm street were referred back to the Commissioners of Assessment.

W. M. Harrison's objection to grading assessment on Harrison Avenue was ordered back to him for more particulars.

The matter of locating and establishing the line of Highland Avenue was referred to Town Surveyor Vars to be taken up when directed by the Council.

W. H. Barton was given permission to connect with the sewer drain at his ivery stables, and to build a wooden extension on his building.

The Road Committee was given power to obtain a lot for use of the Town to deposit stone and materials thereon.

The McCarthy back charge matter was dropped, the committee's report on the matter being received and filed.

The bill of H. C. Van Emburgh, heretofore referred to the Attorney, was referred to the new Surveyor and the Road Committee. Mr. Van Emburgh sent word he would not insist on his legal rights, but would agree to compromise.

The Council heard P. H. Chevannes' request to give him work on the sidewalks, and told him they would employ him at $2.00 a week. Chevannes needs aid and will not beg.

The Council adjourned to Monday evening, March 26th, next.

Woman's Club Meeting.

Miss Anna Barrows of Boston, gave an interesting address at the meeting of the Woman's Club last Monday afternoon. Her subject was "The Diet of the Seven Ages of Man." She discussed the proper foods for the various periods of life mentioned in Shakespeare's famous play.

Mrs. T. D. Bruce, 1st Vice-President, occupied the chair in the absence of the President, Mrs. E. S. Robinson, who was in Boston at the time.

It was announced that the lecture by Dr. W. I. Stearns on "Shakespeare in the Bible" would be postponed indefinitely, owing to the fact that Dr. Stearns expects shortly to go away for his health and the Club has therefore released him from his engagement.

The chairman of the Committee on Household Economics of the State Federation of Women's Clubs was present and made a brief address, congratulating the Club upon its activity in the matter of pure food and household economics, and stating that the Westfield Woman's Club stands almost the highest, if not the highest, in the Federation for such activity.

The chairman of the Committee on school lunches, Mrs. Phillips, reported that the lunch counter would be opened at Washington School about the 1st of the month, under the supervision of Mrs. Gleason Laddie. The sum of $15 was voted for use in establishing the counter.

Valuable Dog Poisoned.

A valuable pointer dog owned by R. A. Fairbairn and said to be worth $500 was poisoned Monday afternoon by an unknown person. The dog died later. Its owner was Mars and it had taken three first prizes in field trials. Mr. Fairbairn has offered a reward of $500 for the detection of the party who poisoned the animal. O. D. Orth also lost a thoroughbred dog at the same time by poison.

Eloquent Speaker to Come Here.

Rev. Frederick Lynch, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, New York, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational Church on Tuesday evening, March 27. Mr. Lynch will talk on "The Courage of Our Opportunities." He is an eloquent speaker of rapidly growing reputation. The Men's Club considers itself especially fortunate in having induced him to come here for his services are in wide demand.

WOODMEN VICTORIOUS.

Defeated Jr. O. U. A. M. Bowling Team in First of a Series of Matches.

In the first of a series of three bowling matches on McLaughlin's alleyway at Plainfield on Tuesday night, between teams representing Central Council Jr. Order United American Mechanics and Westfield Camp Woodmen of the World, the Woodmen came off victorious by winning three straight games. No high scores were made by either team and the only noteworthy feature of the match was the star bowling of Charles and George Orth of the Woodmen, each of whom had an average of 174 for the 3 games. Archibald did the best bowling for the Juniors and had an average of 150 for 3 games. The scores are as follows:

WOODMEN.
	1.	2.
Snyder	84	120
A. Edwards	87	130
C. Orth	105	186
G. Orth	100	178

Totals	602	652

The next match will probably be rolled next week on Smedley's alleys at Plainfield.

"Mickey Finn" Tells Stories.

The severe weather last night did not prevent the Local Association's "Stag" which was pulled off according to schedule, including the initiation of Peter F. Randolph into the mysteries of the order. The goodly number of members who braved the storm were well repaid. Orator Vervoort had promised "something;" it happened by introducing Ernest Gerrold, author of the "Mickey Finn" stories in the New York Sun. "Mickey" sang, told stories and made good in every way. Alfred E. Pearsall also took a hand at entertaining. It was with considerable effort that Orator Vervoort could break up the meeting at midnight. Nobody seemed to have a home, or at least cared to go to it.

Coffee, oysters (fried) givani paste, rolls, cream cheese, etc., put a very handsome finish to the evening. All said: "Best yet." Orator Vervoort said: "Wait until you see the next one."

Former Westfield Lawyer Tried.

The trial of H. Hufnagel Browne, a lawyer, formerly of Westfield, for forgery, will be concluded in New York today and a verdict rendered. The charge to the jury was given this morning. Browne is accused of having forged deeds and other instruments for the purpose of obtaining title to real property of unknown and deceased parties.

Letter to Clark S. Perrine, Westfield, N. J.

Dear Sir: We know what the paints are all made of, you know; we have to. In Wilson, N. C. are two dealers. One of 'em thinks he can't sell paint for more than $1 a gallon; the other won't have such stuff in his store—sells Devos lead and zinc, of course.

The $1 paint is adulterated 70 per cent.; Devos is all lead and zinc and linseed oil, with as little good dryer as possible. A gallon Devos has in it a little more paint than four gallons of the other. A gallon Devos will cover as much as four of the other. Who wants to pay wages for painting four gallons for one?

How much is Devos lead and zinc worth in that town? Yours truly, F. W. Devos & Co.
P. S. Chas. Cricklenberger sells our paint.

Richardson-Jacocks.

Arthur L. Richardson, son of Capt. William George E. Richardson, was married Wednesday evening to Miss Harriet E. Jacocks at the home of the bride, 130 Van Buren street, Brooklyn.

The bride was gown in white Aonlin and carried a handsome bouquet of white roses. Miss Sadie Jacocks, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor, gown in pink Aonlin and carried red roses. Oscar W. Richardson, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Everett Peterson, of Westfield, William B. Jacocks, Jr., Edward S. Meserole, both of Brooklyn, were ushers. The home was handsomely decorated with potted plants, cut flowers, etc. Rev. Dr. Eldridge, of Brooklyn, officiated. The music was furnished by Phillips and Doyle of Brooklyn. After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the banquet room where a splendid supper was served by Caterer Swaine, of Bedford Avenue, after which every one enjoyed dancing until about 11:30, when it became necessary to watch for the bride and groom to depart. This reason for the long wait was due to the fact that some friend had thought it necessary to sew up the groom's garments. The stitches were good and strong, but finally both got away amid showers of rice and old shoes. The coach in waiting was decorated as is customary, and speckled away with the happy couple on their honeymoon to Washington, D. C. When they return Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will take up their residence on Decatur street, Brooklyn.

News Says Perkins is Tired.

Randolph Perkins, assemblyman from Union county, and nominal leader of the house, is tired. He says so, and there is no doubt that his words are true. His weariness is caused, according to his perfunctory statements on the floor of the assembly chamber, by the "efforts made to relieve committees of bills," but he is evidently tired for other reasons than the acts of able statesmen and parliamentarians than himself; acts which he is compelled inwardly to respect, if not to admire, while by virtue of his position he is required to approbriately denounce them as "gallery plays."

Nevertheless, it is a hopeful sign when Leader Perkins confesses that he is tired, even though his weariness is because of the persistency of the reformers. The present legislature has out-heroded former ones in willfully, maliciously and in cowardly fashion conspiring to kill nearly every bill coming from the Colby legislature, whatever its merits, or however, urgently demanded by the people. It is unprecedented in dilatoriness, unequalled in its discourtesy to members elected by overwhelming Republican majorities, unexcelled in its obsequious compliance to the bosses and the corporations and as unfaithful as it dares to be to the pledges given to the people. No wonder the reformers are persistent; they are urged on by strong public sentiment and by a strong sense of duty and are obstructed by a machine majority. No wonder Leader Perkins is tired, for if there is any true spirit of statesmanship in him he must be disgusted at the work which such leadership, under such conditions, requires of a man who has ability, self-respect and laudable ambitions.—Newark News.

Foresters Celebrate Anniversary.

The tenth anniversary of Court Provident, I. O. O. F. was celebrated on Monday evening at the lodge room in the Bank Building in gala style. A very attractive program was provided. High Court Secretary, R. A. Macdonald, who was expected to deliver an address, was unable to be present. High Chief Ranger Buckley gave a talk upon the prosperity of the order and its various attractive features. M. Silverwe had charge of the program, which consisted largely of vocal and instrumental music and dances. Miss Etta Woodring was roundly applauded for her well executed piano solos. Messrs. Silverwe and Walke made the hit of the evening in their production of the very laughable sketch entitled "Two Men Minstrel." The sketch created continued merriment from beginning to end. After the program the members and their guests enjoyed refreshments and a social time.

It costs less to paint a house with L. & M. than with other paint, because painter mixes Linseed Oil fresh from the barrel at 90 cents a gallon with L. & M. and doesn't pay $1.50 per gallon for Linseed Oil as done if ready for use paint is used. Also because the L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes the paint wear like iron.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

GOOD GAME FOR SOLDIERS

British General Suggests That Every Military Man Should Play Chess.

Mr. Francis George Heath writes in the Westminster Gazette, pointing out that the suggestion of Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice that "every soldier should play chess," raises a point interesting for both chess-players and soldiers, which perhaps some chess-playing readers could settle.

"It has been averred that the great military commanders of the last century—I need not say the great military strategists, because the strategical faculty must be included in the expression 'great'—have been clever chess-players. Can any military or other reader inform me and others to whom chess is the favorite game whether this averment is a fact?"

Were Napoleon, Wellington and Moltke, asks Mr. Heath, great chess-players?

A story concerning one of these famous men Mr. Heath tells. It is to this effect:

"A great Turkish player, at a big hotel in Constantinople, had been challenging and beating everybody within a wide radius. One day a man-looking stranger walked in and watched the game. Upon its conclusion he quietly offered to play. The Turkish 'grandee' looked at him rather contemptuously, and remarked: 'I will play you for 100 sequins!' The stranger said: 'Very well, sir; I will play you for 100 sequins.' The game commenced, and during its course an unusual 'gamble' was offered by the stranger. Its acceptance by the Turk caused the latter to lose the game. He said to the winner: 'Sir, I thought there was only one man in Europe who understood how to take advantage of that move.' 'Who might that be?' queried the unknown. 'Baron von Moltke,' snapped the Turk. 'Sir,' retorted the stranger, 'I am Baron von Moltke, at your service!'

Mr. Heath wonders whether anyone could confirm or refute this story.

WAS READY TO OBLIGE.

But Canadian Wanted to Use His National Weapon in Duel with a Russian.

A short time ago a prominent railroad man of Canada went to China to look the ground over with a view to building railroads. He was supplied with letters of introduction which gave him entrance into the best clubs of the cities he visited.

After dinner one night he was watching some diplomats playing poker. Unintentionally an American gave offense to a Russian attaché.

The American apologized, but the czar's official was not to be appeased, and the man from the United States appealed to the onlookers. The Canadian took up his part and subsequently his hand.

The game, however, was not to proceed, as the Russian declared that the Canadian had insulted him. Later his second waited on the Canadian, and said that as he was the challenged party he would have the choice of weapons.

The railroad builder took the matter as coolly as a European duelist, and replied that the man whose hand at cards he had taken would not be his second. The Russian's envoy again said that the Canadian, being the challenged party, would have the choice of weapons.

"All right," he said; "let it be the Canadian weapon—the ax!"

The affair ended that night, and the Russian paid the bill, which was for supper, wine and cigars.

Japanese Exodus to Korea.

Every batch of news from Korea tells of migrating Japanese who have left their islands and landed on the big peninsula, where they expect to settle in one or another of the fertile valleys that may be turned into fine gardens. This movement of the Japanese farmers to the mainland was to be expected as soon as the predominance of Japanese influence began to be asserted. There is not a country in the world that needs more room than Japan does, with its 48,000,000 people and seven-eighths of its island empire covered with mountains that are magnificent but can never be made to contribute largely to the support of a rapidly increasing people. The Japanese government is encouraging this western movement of its frugal and industrious farmers and the large area of fertile land still lying waste in Korea bids fair to give the opportunity that is so sorely needed by the swelling tide of Japanese life.—N. Y. Sun.

Light That Failed.

There has just been sold by public auction at the coast signals department in Paris an old lantern flarelight, which almost deserved a place in the national museum. After the downfall of Napoleon I, although he had been caged up by the powers in Elba—securely, as they thought—Louis XVIII. felt himself much too near the arch-destroyer of thrones, and had fitted up at the head of Cape Corsica a powerful light equipped with reflectors capable of lighting up the Mediterranean for several leagues around. One night somebody "forgot" to light up that flare, and by a curious "coincidence," the very next morning Bonaparte had landed in the Gulf of San Juan. The hundred days had begun, and the flight of the Bourbons was doubly "out." A lantern with such a place in history was worth preserving.

STATE LEGISLATURE

Prospects For Final Adjournment March 29 Seem Bright.

IMPORTANT MEASURES ON TAP

For a State Reformatory For Women—To Regulate Child Labor—To Protect Oysters—Both Houses Indorse Roosevelt on Railroad Rates.

(Special correspondence.)

Trenton, March 15. The legislature had busy sessions this week, handling several measures of importance and considerable routine. The prospects for the adjournment on March 29 seem bright, but there is a great amount of work yet to be done by both houses.

There was considerable activity Monday night despite the fact that the sessions of both house and senate were rather brief.

A bill was introduced by Leader Perkins to establish a state reformatory for women. The site for such an institution is to be chosen by a commission appointed and the cash is to be limited to such sums as shall be appropriated for the purpose. The commission is to be appointed by the governor and shall consist of eight persons, the names of whom shall be confirmed by the senate, and not less than four of these commissioners shall be women. The superintendent, assistants, physicians, etc., shall all be women. Females between the ages of sixteen and twenty years convicted of crime shall be sentenced to this reformatory. The bill further provides that female convicts at present in the state prison between the ages of sixteen and thirty shall be transferred as the governor directs.

To Bar Foreign Corporations.

A bill presented by Mr. Wakelee provides that hereafter no banking, savings trust or safe deposit corporation created by any other state or by any foreign state, kingdom or government shall transact any business in this state.

Mr. Morgan's bill providing that liquor license fees be fixed by popular vote, when 30 per cent of the legal voters of a municipality so petition, was reported by committee without recommendation.

The measure by Mr. Murrell providing that a summons in district courts may be served on any officer, director, agent, clerk or engineer of a foreign corporation was passed by the house.

Mr. Roeder's bill providing that no child between the ages of seven and fourteen years shall be employed to work at any manual occupation during the days and hours of school sessions was also passed by the house.

Mr. Martin, leader of the Colbyites in the house, failed to call up his resolution to relieve the committee on banks and insurance of his resolution calling for an investigation of insurance companies. All expected this session, but Mr. Martin declared that he would not call up the resolution until next Tuesday.

In the senate petitions were presented from Mercer and Passaic counties against the high license bills. Another bill by Mr. Roeder forbids the employment of children under sixteen in any mercantile establishment more than thirty-eight hours a week or before 7 a. m. or after 7 p. m.

Automobile Amendments.

An amendment was offered by Senator Horner changing the control of licensing motor vehicles from the secretary of state to the state commissioner of public roads. This was opposed by Senator Frelinghuysen, and it was lost. Another amendment eliminating the compensation for the commissioner of motor vehicles was presented by Senator Horner, but Senator Frelinghuysen stated that the revenue from motor vehicles would be $30,000 and would probably reach $100,000. This amendment was also lost. Senator Jackson offered an amendment increasing the compensation of the commissioner from $1,500 to $2,000. This was lost. Another amendment by Senator Horner provided ten days' imprisonment for a second violation of the automobile law. It claimed a fine of $10 to $15 was nothing to a man who could pay $5,000 for a machine and $1,500 for a chauffeur. This was also turned down.

On the calendars of both houses are a number of bills providing for the annexation of territory to existing municipalities. The governor communicated with the legislature, suggesting that the lawmakers again read his message, in which he advises strongly against the proposition of annexing territory without the consent of the people to be thus annexed.

A measure introduced by Senator Minch confers upon the state oyster commissioner the powers previously vested in the propagation commissioner, which office passed out of existence last summer. It empowers the commission to plant the shells and license tongs on the natural beds of Cumberland, Salem and Cape May counties and provides a license fee of $5 for each boat. It makes a closed season from June 15 to Sept. 1 and fixes a penalty of $100 or three months in jail for violation of the act. Senator Lee introduced a similar measure for Atlantic county commissioners.

Senator Hutchinson has a new pure election bill. It makes bribery at the polls a misdemeanor punishable by disfranchisement for a second offense. It makes it a misdemeanor to give money for distribution as ballots to voters and imposes similar penalties on those who assist upon voters receiving ballots. It exempts from prosecution any witness who testifies for the state. Mr. Wright introduced house bill No. 582, providing for the licensing of plumbers in office. Mr. Elvins raised the point of order that the bill could not be presented since it was identical with house bill No. 23, which was defeated recently by a vote of the house. Mr. Wright said this was true, but claimed he intended to amend it at second reading. The speaker decided the point of order well taken, and the bill was not received.

Osteopathy Heard.

Mr. Borg's bill providing for a state board of examiners to license osteopathic practitioners was the subject of a hearing Monday by the house committee on public health.

Dr. C. W. Proctor of Buffalo, an osteopath, was the first speaker. He defined osteopathy and said that it had made progress because of sheer merit. Dr. C. W. Hunt of Cleveland followed Dr. Proctor, as did also Dr. C. C. Tenth of Brooklyn.

Dr. Hinton H. Morris, head of the Morris Plains asylum, said that the osteopaths had one pet theory. He stated the Christian Scientists had as much right to ask for a board to license their practitioners. Drs. Frank D. Gray of Jersey City and L. M. Hulsey of Williamstown also spoke against the bill.

Former Senator Murray Rogers of Camden spoke for the bill. T. W. Laws of Egg Harbor, who said he was benefited by osteopathy, also spoke for the bill.

Whether or not New Jersey shall supply water to Staten Island through the declared policy of this state was the subject to which the joint judiciary committee of the legislature gave a hearing Monday afternoon. A special train hearing more than 100 representatives of Staten Island, including Corporation Counsel John J. Delany of New York city, George Cronwell, president of the borough of Richmond; Quarantine Commissioners Henry Guyon and Talbot Root and many other prominent men arrived here during the afternoon, and the senate chamber, where the hearing was given, was soon filled. The hearing lasted two hours.

Former Senator John Hinchcliffe, representing the brewery interests of the state, met with the senate committee on miscellaneous business Monday afternoon and offered amendments to the high license bills, senate Nos. 136 and 137, commonly known as the bishops' bills.

He said that the interests he represented were highly in accord with the idea of a clean saloon and would add any movement to eradicate vice from Jersey saloons. The brewers were willing to keep women out of the saloon, as it was no place for them.

The $500 annual license fee was also opposed and the following amendments offered: A $350 license for first and second class cities down to $150 in municipalities having 3,000 population and $100 to townships.

The senate defeated the amendments to the new militia bill. The amendments would have retired about twenty-six of the old national guard officers who have been in the guard for a long time. The bill was originally introduced by Senator Frelinghuysen and was amended several times at the suggestion of the military men throughout the state.

Indorse Roosevelt's Rate Bill.

The senate and house both passed the concurrent resolution requesting the members of congress from this state to give their aid to President Roosevelt to secure railroad legislation.

Assemblyman Elvins offered a resolution which may prove the solution of the Morris and Essex canal question, which seems to be a thorn in the side of the legislature this session. The resolution requests Attorney General McCarter to institute proceedings to ascertain whether the state of New Jersey has any equity in the tide water basin of the Morris Canal and Building company at Jersey City and also to ascertain by what right the Lehigh Valley railroad operates the Morris canal. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

The attorney general later submitted a communication stating that the proposed suits would meet with serious opposition and asking the legislature to appropriate $10,000 for associate counsel in prosecuting the suits.

The section of the Perkins equal taxation bill which was declared unconstitutional by Attorney General McCarter, which provides that second class railroad property shall be assessed and taxed in the local taxing district at the same rate and in the same manner as other property in the district, will be eliminated from the bill. This section was an amendment to the bill by Mr. Martin, who sought to strengthen the Duffield bill of last year. The attorney general holds that this section is not in harmony with the provisions of the bill in general.

The senate Tuesday afternoon adopted, by a vote of 12 to 5, its judiciary committee's adverse report on the Colby resolution aimed to bring about an investigation of the Prudential Life Insurance company. Those who voted in the negative were Senators Colby, Shinn, Horner, Price and Martineau.

The senate passed Mr. Wakelee's bill which substitutes electrocution for the gallows in the administration of capital punishment. The bill authorizing the governor to appoint five persons as a board of undertakers and embalmers was also passed.

The senate held a two hour executive session Tuesday afternoon, and the time was taken up by the judiciary committee in getting views of the senators on the Perkins equal taxation bill. No appointments were considered.

"MALAKA"

For refinishing furniture, hardwood floors, school desks or any varnished surface, Malaka has no equal. It requires no brush or experience in its application. It is applied to the surface with a soft cloth, a thin coating is left which dries perfectly hard in four or five hours, leaving a beautiful finish which will not crack or show scratches. Surfaces treated in this manner, when signs of wear are observed, will be kept in perfect condition indefinitely. All germs on the desks or woodwork of schools, colleges, hospitals, cars and public buildings, can be destroyed by wiping them over with a soft cloth saturated with Malaka, which accomplishes a two-fold work, the destruction of germs and a renewal of the finish.

Last Insurance Leaf.
I saw him once before
In the busy days of yore—
Would you think
That in those times he was great
Ere put by the hand of fate
On the blink?

They say that in his prime,
Ere investigation time
Called him down,
Not a choicer man was found
By the crier on his round
Through the town.

But now he walks the streets,
And he looks at all he meets
Sad and worn his worried head
That it seems as if he said:
"They are on!"

Now he's not so long on thn,
For his graft has worn thin
From the graft;
And when he is on the rack,
And his memory shows a lack,
"They just laugh."

People merely sit and grin
At his former game of skin
While he's there.
But his little family game
And the profits of the same?
Gone, for fair!

Quatrains from the Spanish.
First think and then speak;
And after that still
Think on what you've said,
If 'twas good or ill!

Rise up if you fall,
But ere you fall
And look where you fall,
And place there a sign!

A sign on the forehead
Bear all that draw breath
Inscribed as with fire,
Saying: "Sentenced to Death!"

I know not that which I have,
With what I lack 'tis the same;
But always I wait for a something
That I know not how to name!

Myself I wished to avenge
On those who make me grieve,
And my conscience add to me:
"Then thine own bosom cleave!"

No Yell at Vassar.
First Vassar Student—Say, girls, there's one thing we've forgotten. We haven't any college yell. All colleges have yells, you know.
Second Student—Why, of course.
Strange we never thought of it. Let's have one.

Third Student—But I don't see how we can yell without taking the gum out of our mouths.
Fourth Student—Let's let the yell go.

"I copied it from his tombstone, my lord."—"Tut-Bits."

Just the Name.

Special Piano Sale

Remarkably Low Prices for Valuable Pianos Taken in Part Payment for the Pianola Piano.

TWO important characteristics distinguish the pianos in this sale from those offered elsewhere: First, the uniformly high grade of the pianos themselves; second, their excellent condition. The fact that they came into our hands in exchange for the Pianola Piano accounts for the unusually desirable character of the individual instruments. The makers represented include:

Weber
Steck
Sohmer
Gabler
Hazleton

Steinway
Wheelock
Hardman
Decker Bros.
Bradbury
Etc. Etc.

Chickering
Mason & Hamlin
Kranich & Bach
Stuyvesant
Fischer

An indication of the exceptional character of our Special Sales is the growing consternation among other piano manufacturers at the number of their former patrons who have seen fit to replace their pianos (considered entirely satisfactory before the advent of the Pianola Piano) with this new piano which everyone can play. Certain well-known manufacturers have even made repeated offers to the Aeolian Company to buy back, at private sale, all instruments bearing their names, in order that their pianos of such recent factory numbers and in such good condition might not be brought into the open market at prices less than are obtainable in the manufacturers' own warehouses.

Such propositions have invariably been refused because the Aeolian Company finds that the high character of the pianos sold through its Exchange Department is an important factor in making friends for its other instruments and in bringing music-lovers in touch with the personality and atmosphere of Aeolian Hall.

Uprights from $95 upwards; Grands from $375.

Purchasable on moderate monthly payments.

Every person contemplating the purchase of a piano, whatever the style or make preferred, or the amount to be invested, should examine these pianos before the sale ends. You may intend to buy in the future. You may be ready to purchase now. In either case it is likely that the piano you have in mind is here, almost certainly at your own price, very likely at less.

THE AEOLIAN COMPANY, Aeolian Hall 362 Fifth Ave., near 34th St., New York.

NOTE—If unable to call at Aeolian Hall, our representative for this vicinity is Mr. W. E. MacClymont 19 Woodbine Avenue, Plainfield. Telephone 329-M. Plainfield, who will be pleased to answer inquiries.

The Mean Man.
He—Woman is more beautiful than man.
She—Oh, yes; naturally.
He—Oh, no; artificially.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Sure Cure.
"How did you cure your boy of swearing?" "By the laying on of hands, principally."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Why Abdiccate.
A college professor says the women will be ruling the country 50 years from to-day. Of course, why should they abdicate?—Memphis News-Scimitar.

Monaco's Army.
Smallest of all the armies in Europe is that of the principality of Monaco. It consists of but 75 guards, 75 carabinieri and 20 firemen.

Oldest Daughter of Revolution.
Mrs. Drusilla Hall Johnson, who died recently at Northampton, Mass., was believed to be the oldest true daughter of the revolution.

Broken China.
It begins to look like there is coming a sort of break with China. In that case, something will crash.

One Woman's Work.
For 13 years Mrs. Matilda Coxo Stevenson explored the Rocky mountains with her husband, collecting arctic implements, ceramics and ceremonial objects for the United States national museum. She has been invaluable to the Bureau of American Ethnology and is now a member of its staff.

The Right Idea.
At times there has been much to say of the Amherst example in college athletics. It is a good example to study and to follow. The Amherst idea is, in the words of the college director of sports, "to make men, not to buy them."—N. Y. World.

The Thing to Say.
"Now," began the tiresome man who goes in for queer science, "what would you say if I were to tell you that all the rivers in the world would dry up within a—?" "I would say," interrupted the weary listener, "Go thou and do likewise."—Philadelphia Press.

Letters in Alphabet.
The letters in the alphabet of the different nations vary in number. The Sandwich Islanders have 12; the Burmese, 18; Italian, 20; Bengali, 21; German, Dutch and English, 26 each; Arabic, 28; Persian, 32; Armenian, 38; and Russian, 41.

Remarkable Invention.
The microscope, invented by a Berlin chemist, though no larger than a cigar-case, permits of consulting the map of the whole district by night as well as by day. The map is photographed in miniature on a plate of ground glass, which is illumined by a small incandescent lamp supplied, when required, with current from a battery, while a lens can be adjusted to the observer's sight.

Corks from Waste Paper.
A remarkable invention has just been perfected and patented. It is a machine which makes corks out of waste paper and paper pulp. All kinds of waste paper can be made into corks, which are superior to the regular sort, as they are not affected by acids or oils; they have been tested by leading chemists and the largest users of corks, and it is claimed for them that they are far superior to the old style in every way.

Kissing Duel.
At some amateur theatricals in Victoria two people in the stalls, whenever the heroine was kissed, kissed each other loudly and with ostentation. It turned out that the man in the audience was the husband of the heroine, who disapproved of her theatrical tastes and, with the help of an amiable friend, took this way of reproving them.—Sydney (Australia) Bulletin.

HER SAD EXPERIENCE

The car stopped with a jerk and then proceeded with a series of jerks to get under way again. During the brief interval a well-dressed woman climbed aboard and made her way, assisted by intermittent grunts at the straps, to the vacant seat in the far end of the car. She sank into it with a sigh of evident relief; then she opened her shopping bag, hunted around in it for awhile and took out a five-dollar note and four pennies. A vain search for the fifth penny followed, while the conductor waited impatiently. With an appealing look she handed him the note.

"Can't do it, madam; sorry, but I—" a woman's voice interrupted him. "Why, my dear, I'm so glad to see you. When did you get on? I was so interested in this book that I didn't see you. You need just one penny? You poor dear! Here's one. Now tell me all about yourself. I haven't seen you for perfect ages, and you look all tired out."

The other woman smiled a wan little smile and seemed ready to cry. "Mary Thompson, you and that penny have saved me from having an attack of hysterics right here and now. If I'd had to face one more disagreeable thing to-day I'd have given right up."

Mary Thompson looked a little alarmed and a good deal interested, but she gave her friend's hand a sympathetic squeeze and settled herself to hear the worst.

"I've just been to the station to see my husband's cousin off. She's been with us for four days, stopped on her way out west, and such a time as I've had!"

"The morning after she came she said she wanted to see Fifth avenue, and we started out bright and early to go uptown in a stage. The first one that came along was one that had a high seat on top, back of the driver, that could only be reached by climbing up the front wheel. She is very short and inclined to be stout, and is anything but agile, but she insisted on climbing up there. Was afraid she would miss seeing something if she rode inside. I didn't know her then as well as I did three days later, or I should have flatly refused."

"We got up there without much difficulty, and I suppose I ought to be glad that she enjoyed the ride. It was a good deal more than I did. She put her arm around me and hugged me tight all the way to Seventy-ninth street, because she's subject to dizziness and was afraid she'd fall off, and by the time we got there she knew as much as the driver about the swell houses on the avenue, and he knew more about her than I ever dreamed of knowing, for her democratic spirit is only equalled by her gift of speech."

Mary Thompson smiled, looked out to see how far downtown they were, and then resumed her sympathetic listener attitude.

"But, my dear," the other woman continued, "you ought to have seen us getting down. You know that unless you start to climb down from the top of those wretched old stages you might as well fall off at once, for the little iron steps aren't big enough to change from one foot to the other after once you make the start. I got down first and then she came, or rather she tried to come—of course with the wrong foot foremost."

"She had a terrible time getting down as far as the top of the wheel, but there she balked. The driver and I did our best to help her, but she hung on to him with both hands, while she stood on top of the wheel on one foot and waved the other wildly in the air and begged us to put it somewhere for her. I took hold of it and tried to bring it down to the hub, but she wasn't long enough to reach it, and she was afraid to let go of that poor driver. By this time the rest of the passengers had become interested, and two or three of them had their heads out of the windows and were offering suggestions, and the inevitable crowd of small boys was beginning to gather. She might have perched there yet if one of the horses hadn't switched at a fly with his tail."

"The old harness rattled a little, and she got pale-stricken and thought they were going to run away. Without any warning she let go of the driver and sat down plump on my shoulder, and slid to the ground. The small boys cheered and the passengers grinned, and she thought it was funny!"

"We went into the Metropolitan museum, where I thought I'd have a chance to recover my equilibrium while she looked at the pictures. She did look at them, and I suppose they must have made some sort of an impression on her, but she talked incessantly about the pictures that she saw in Washington on her wedding trip, until I felt dazed and wasn't quite sure whether I was in the Metropolitan or the Corcoran myself."

"But the top-notch of my misery was reached in the sculpture hall, where, you know, there is that statue of Flora. You may remember that she is represented floating through the air and her clothing consists entirely of a quantity of gauzy stuff and a wreath of roses, the veil drawn across her face with a really wonderful effect. My cousin was very much impressed and stopped talking for a longer time than I thought possible. After she had gazed at it for several minutes she called to an attendant who was standing near: 'Pardon me,' she said, 'but is this the veiled nun that I've heard so much about?' That finished our sight-seeing that morning. I simply couldn't stand any more."

TRAINED NURSE

Writes a Letter to the Standard.

To the Editor of the STANDARD:—

"I am a trained nurse of nine years' experience in hospitals and private cases, and for the benefit of the people of Westfield I wish you would publish my experience with the cod liver oil preparation called Vinol.

I was completely prostrated from overwork. I had no appetite, could not sleep, my kidneys, liver and bowels became inactive, and as I grew weaker I could not retake either medicine or food on my stomach and raised blood. The doctor said my condition was critical, and I would probably die.

As I had seen Vinol prescribed for my patients with such remarkable results, I decided to try it myself. After the first bottle I began to improve. I continued its use and soon began to sleep and eat well; every organ in my body was strengthened and became normal, until it seemed good to be alive and I was restored to perfect health and strength.

I believe Vinol is the most potent and delicious cod liver oil preparation and tonic builder in the world, and it is such a blessing to be able to take into the system all the body-building and medicinal elements of cod liver oil without the nauseating, greasy oil itself.

I advise my patients who need strength for every organ in the body, rich red blood, and flesh tissue, to take Vinol, as it is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil, emulsions or other tonics." Elizabeth M. Crenshaw, Trained Nurse, Boston, Mass.

Our local druggists, Frutchey & Hathaway, sell Vinol on a positive guarantee to return money if it fails.

WHEN HE WENT.

"There are worse things than phone graphs in a man's parlor," remarked the man with the wide waistcoat and iron-gray whiskers, incidentally.

"There may be," admitted the other elderly citizen, "but I don't know that I could say offhand just what they are."

"I mean they have their uses. Have you a daughter of marriageable age? If you have I'd recommend you to buy one. If you use proper care in the selection of the records you'll find it handy in case of an emergency."

"Perhaps you'll explain yourself."

"It was like this," said the gray-whiskered man. "My Clara is a mighty good-looking girl, if I do say it myself, and she's got attractive ways. She can handle me pretty well, I can tell you, so it isn't hard for me to understand what she does to a lot of the boys that come around and fritter away the golden moments. There's quite a gang of them and it's a good deal of a nuisance in some respects; but I never say anything. I was young once myself and I wouldn't wonder if I did some frittering in my time. Sooner or later it will stop, but in the meantime I just let her keep my eye peeled."

"That's sensible."

"It's the only thing to do. Well, the boy Jim got the phonograph. He agreed to keep it up in his room and shut the windows when he turned it loose, so I said he might have it. Then I forgot all about the matter until one night young Manstrel called to see the girl. You know the old man, of course. Well, the boy's a good deal like him. He's a stoker and a stayer—never knows when to quit. No harm in him, but he just makes you weary and can't see it. He'd kept me up two or three times away beyond any reasonable hour, and I had asked Clara if she wouldn't start him for the hindstand some time before midnight the next time he called.

"She was entertaining him in the parlor, which opens out on the library where her mother and I were sitting. That makes a convenient sort of arrangement, generally speaking, but in this instance it was rather tough on us after it struck ten o'clock. That's about the time I like to woo my resilient hair mattress, or make the usual preparations, and most of the boys have the sense to jar themselves loose. But not so Manstrel. About that time he remembered a song that he thought he could sing if Clara played the accompaniment for him, and when he had finished that he resumed conversation like a giant refreshed. I heard the little girl say something about having to get up early in the morning, but the young ass only quoted, 'If you're waking, call me early,' and mandered on.

"I was getting desperate, when in comes Jim with the phonograph. It had come that evening and he was anxious to try it. Well, I thought it might break up the session in the next room, so I consented and called to Clara to bring Mr. Manstrel in to hear it. He came, rather reluctantly, and Jim and I put the parts together and fixed the horn.

"There!" says Jim. "Now, what will you have? Caruso? Melba? Sousa's band? Here are some vaudeville stunts."

"Let's have one of those," I said, and picked up one of the disks and adjusted it, without looking to see what it was.

"Se-r-r-r-r!" and then in a raucous, high-pitched voice, that made the horn shiver with its reverberations: "I went to see the girl the other night, and say, the time I had was something fierce. There never was anything fiercer—except the girl's father and the bulldog. About midnight I could hear him growling upstairs—her father, not the bulldog—and pretty soon he broke loose. No, not the bulldog, her father. 'Daughter,' he calls down the stairs, 'do you remember what the gas bill was last month?'"

"No, father," she says. "Why?"

"It was just thinking about it, that's all," he said.

"But, of course, I wasn't going to pay any attention to that."

"Pretty soon he called again, 'Daughter!'"

"Yes, father!" says the girl.

"If the milkman calls while you're up take in an extra pint of cream, will you, please?"

"Yes, father," she says.

"But, of course, I wasn't going to pay any attention to that."

"And pretty soon he called again, 'Daughter!'"

"Yes, father?"

"Don't let that young man go away without his breakfast."

"But, of course, I wasn't going to pay any attention to that."

Young Manstrel turned all sorts of colors at the next call, which was something in reference to thick-soled shoes, and as Jim was quite obviously on the verge of sneaking I threw back the catch and stopped the thing.

"That's no good; we'll try another," I said. "Give me Caruso, Jim."

"I'd like to stay and hear it," said the young man, "but I'm afraid I'll have to go."

"And he hasn't been back since."—Chicago Daily News.

GREATER BOSTON POSSIBLE

More Populous Territory Around the City Than Surrounds Any Other.

Within a 50-mile circle of the gilded dome of the state house dwells a vaster population than within an equal distance of any other great city in America, with the single exception of New York, says the Boston Globe.

Although Boston ranks as the fifth city in the United States, according to the last national census, the city holds a higher position when considered as a center of population. The last census, recently issued, and a careful estimate of the other territory within a 50-mile circle of the state house, shows the number of people in that district to be 3,089,153.

This is greater by 300,000 than the population surrounding Philadelphia. It is 400,000 greater than the population surrounding Chicago, and it is nearly three times greater than the population surrounding St. Louis.

Boston holds a unique position among American cities regarding contiguous populous territory. It is the only large American city which has not absorbed or annexed such populous territory under a single municipal head. Reverence for the town meeting system and its traditions has been sufficient to still maintain as separate municipalities great areas of adjacent populous territory.

MAY GET POWER FROM SKY

French Scientist Suggests the Feasibility of Collecting Electrical Energy.

Franklin's bolt never has been snatched from the skies and harnessed in human service. But M. A. Breydel, a Frenchman, thinks it should. Explorations of the atmosphere have proved that large differences of potential exist in it at points not widely separated. It has been found that a difference of potential of 100 volts per meter has been measured, and even values as high as 200 volts. A conductor might be placed with its ends at two points where the difference of potential is 10,000, or under favorable conditions it might reach 20,000 volts. There should be some means of utilizing these enormous forces of atmospheric electricity. It is suggested that a possible method of collecting the energy would be to send up balloons surrounded with a network of conductors. It is thought that by means of a transmission line carried up a mountain so as to give a difference in altitude of about 800 meters between the upper and lower ends, that this should make available a potential of from 10,000 to 20,000 volts. Remains the question how this high tension is to be converted to pressure suitable for commerce.

Warm Winter.

According to a Massachusetts man, on January 6, about 30 years ago, the thermometer reached 91° degrees above zero at Plymouth. Bluebirds sang and butterflies flitted about. Grass was green, and a cherry tree was in bloom. Boys went in bathing in Little pond. On January 12 it was recorded that Capt. Parker Hall had "put in most of the year planing." On February 7 Elijah Sherman fed his hens on grasshoppers. March 22 Mayflowers were plentiful.

THE KNUCKLE CALENDAR.

Hard to Tell the Short Months if You Have Forgotten the Jingle.

"We can't always remember which are the short months of the year, or some of us can't anyway, and then," said a man who is not very strong in memory, "we take to repeating the old jingle: 'Thirty days hath September, April, June and November,' and so on, to bring the short months to us. But I have just learned another way that pleases me: 'If you double up your fist and hold it with the back of the hand upward you will see the four knuckles of the hand standing up in little prominences with little depressions between the bases of the fingers.

"Now, if you will start ticking off the months on these prominences and depressions, one for each prominence, and one for each depression, in regular order, you will find the long months all come on the high places and the short months all in the low ones.

"First knuckle, high place, January; first depression, low place, February; next knuckle, March; next depression, April; next knuckle, May; next low place, June; and then the fourth and last knuckle, July. Then you come back to the first knuckle and start over again; high place, August, and first depression, September; next knuckle, October; next depression, November, and the next knuckle, December.

"If you should forget even the 'thirty days' jingle, count the months off on the back of your doubled up hand in this way and you can't go astray; you will find the short months all coming in the little valleys between the knuckles. 'Mountain and Valley,' the young folks call this."

INDEXING SCRAP-BOOKS.

Takes But Little Time and May Save Much Labor That Is Wasteful.

"When I started keeping a scrap book," said a man who writes things for a living, "a wise friend of mine advised me to index it as I went along. 'He told me that when I paged up the stuff in the book it would take only a minute or two more to make the proper entries at the back, and that I would find this index a time saver and a very great convenience. 'I knew that this was wise advice, but I didn't heed it. I had only one scrap book, and I thought I could remember what was in it and where to find it, and so I didn't bother about the index. I started my second book in the same slack way, and so, I confess, I have continued ever since. 'Now I have a pile of scrap books all unindexed, and when I want to find anything in them I have to hunt for it—time taking and brain wearing work.

"Long ago I began to wish that I had followed my wise friend's advice, and for the benefit of those who have the courage to act on it I now repeat what he said to me: Index your scrap books."
