The Plainfield Trust Company Plainfield, New Jersey. Capital $100,000. Surplus 135,000. In the handling of trust funds, the trust company is free from the personal relations which always more or less influence the individual. It is governed solely by business considerations and can not be tempted into speculation or into risking in doubtful enterprise the funds entrusted to it. Besides, the law defines the methods and lines of investment of funds in the care of trust companies. Our booklet, "The Modern Trust Company," will be mailed upon request.

THE BURGLAR'S ENEMY. In the confessions of a burglar recently published in the Ladies Home Journal, the man said, "Other things being equal, a burglar will always pass a house lighted by electricity. Houses so wired are practically traps for the burglar." He explained further that by pressure of a button on an upper floor, the lower one might be illuminated, and light is a bad thing for a burglar. Send for our representative. United Electric Company

WESTFIELD CHURCH NEWS. NOTES ABOUT THE SEVERAL DENOMINATIONS. The Pulpit Supplies Next Sunday--Who Will Preach--Special Services--Sunday School and Prayer Meeting Topics. NOTE:--The usual hours of services in the several churches will be found in the Church Directory on page two. Baptist Church. At the communion service at the Baptist church Sunday morning the band of fellowship will be given to the new members by Pastor Greenwood. The pastor will also preach at the evening service. Fourteen young people from the Sunday school were baptized by the pastor last Sunday evening. The church was crowded and the service was very impressive. At the Wednesday evening prayer meeting the newly elected deacons, C. B. Hann and S. W. Powers, were formally recognized. Rev. Jos. Greaves addressed the deacons. The pastor spoke a few words to the church, and Deacon C. A. Decker welcomed Messrs. Hann and Powers in behalf of the pastor and deacons. At the business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society held in the church parlors one week ago Thursday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:--President, Mrs. L. F. Conant; vice-president, Mrs. Walter Day; secretary, Mrs. Ada Bruton; treasurer, Mrs. Alex. Hunt. The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a social at the home of Freeman Bloodgood, 184 Westfield avenue, Thursday night, April 12. Congregational Church. In the morning Rev. Frank K. Sanders, D. D., secretary of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society, formerly Dean of the Yale Divinity School, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational Church. In the evening Rev. H. Hoadly Guernsey, the pastor, will preach on the theme: "A Young Man's Vision." The regular mid-week service will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Topic: "The Christ of To-day." Scripture, Mat. 28: 16-20; 1 Cor. 11: 23-34. Next Friday, from 5 to 10 p. m., the Church Work Sewing Circle will hold its annual sale in the church parlors. Fancy and useful articles and home-made candy will be on sale and refreshments will be served. Holy Trinity Church. Every Tuesday during Lent, 8 p. m., sermon, and Benediction of Blessed Sacrament. Fridays--Stations of Cross and Benediction. Every Sunday Mass and Instruction, 8:30 and 10:15 a. m. Mission by Fathers of Carmelite Order April 22-23. Rev. Bishop O'Connor will administer Confirmation in the Month of May. Methodist Church. Dr. J. R. Wright, pastor, will preach in the Methodist Church Sunday morning and evening. Special music will be rendered in the evening. Dr. Wright will leave Tuesday to attend the annual conference to be held at Jersey City during the week beginning Wednesday. He will attend the reception to Bishop Hamilton Tuesday evening. The following Sunday Rev. J. A. Owen will preach in the absence of Dr. Wright. New York Avenue Baptist Church. Services on Sunday at the New York Avenue Baptist Church will be as usual, in charge of the pastor, Rev. P. W. Ross, at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday-school at 8:30 p. m. Presbyterian Church. The pastor, Dr. W. I. Stearns, will preach at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning and evening. A number of the ladies of the church are attending the session of the Presbyterian Home Missionary Society at Duncellen to-day. St. Paul's Church. Services as usual on Sunday in St. Paul's Church at 7:30 and 11 a. m., and at 8 p. m. Sunday-school at 10:45. Unique Application. Applying for a post in the police of the central provinces of India, a native wrote: "I have a good long equine nose, piercing eyelashes on a semy-globular face and a good physique. My family has a history that takes my imagination back to three pedigrees, when my grandfather was a millionaire. With the vicissitude and times matter change, and my father was driven to the necessity to accept a schoolmastership. Ultimately, he enjoyed his well-earned pension by the time he gave up his ghost. In case my aspirations turn out a reality, I shall as a matter of course be bound to prey God for your long life and prosperity."

W. C. T. U. Notes. A meeting for young people will be held in the M. E. Church on Thursday evening, April 5, at 8 o'clock, to be addressed by Miss Elizabeth Gordon on the subject, "How to Win." The meeting will be open to all, and it is hoped that all will consider themselves young. An offering will be received for the W. C. T. U. The following sketch is from the Philadelphia Record: "Miss Elizabeth P. Gordon, one of the group of thirty National Organizers of the W. C. T. U., is a member of a prominent Christian temperance and missionary family, being the sister of the late Mrs. Alice Gordon Gullick, founder of the International Institute for Girls at Madrid, Spain, and of Miss Anna Adams Gordon, National Vice President of the W. C. T. U. "Miss Gordon was born in Boston, Mass., and has her home at the Gordon Homestead, in Auburndale, Mass., a suburb of Boston, commonly termed, "The Home of the Good," or "Saints' Rest." She has always been deeply concerned in the temperance work and possesses a clear, quick brain, affectionate, consecrated devotion to good work and firmness of purpose combined with tact and gentleness of manner which characterize her family. She served the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. for seven years as its State Corresponding Secretary before becoming national evangelist. "Miss Gordon has made frequent trips across the sea and is well known in many foreign lands where the white ribbon has won its way." The ladies of the W. C. T. U. and invited guests will enjoy a luncheon together, at their hall on Prospect street, on Thursday, April 5. Miss Elizabeth Gordon will give an after-luncheon address on the subject, "The Protection of the Home." SHORT COUNCIL MEETING. Several Objections to Assessments Sent Back to Commissioners--Petition for New Sidewalks on Elm Street. The Town Council held a special meeting Monday night, and sent back to the Commissioners of Assessment the objections of W. J. Kennedy and Mrs. S. J. Huffman on Walnut street as well as those of Irving Love and Mary Ella Brown on Orchard street. Errors in assessments are alleged in each case. The Clerk was directed to inform Mr. W. G. Peckham that the costs assessed for sidewalk improvements on Mr. Peckham's property were necessarily incurred. Alfred A. Watts and R. M. French petitioned for a stone sidewalk on the southwest side of Elm street from Dudley avenue to Newton place. A hearing will be advertised later. The entire Council agreed to meet on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock to go over the Downer street sidewalk situation. Mr. Laxley said if after their examination of the conditions they did not believe a sidewalk necessary he would not again bring the matter up. The Central Railroad Company were directed to lay a 24-inch pipe for sewer under the Broad street crossing instead of the 18-inch pipe proposed. The ordinances regarding sewer and road superintendents were amended so as to make the appointments of both officers date from January 1, and so that hereafter each of these officers will report to the town surveyor. The matter of lines for Mountain avenue between the England property and Broad street was referred to the committee on Laws and Rules. Ordinances granting permission to the Central Railroad Company to erect stone abutments outside its property line for Osborn avenue bridge, and for the extension of the sewer in Mountain avenue to the Cory property were passed on first reading. A letter from the road superintendent of the trolley line, asking permission to raise the grade of tracks in several streets was read. Engineer Vars explained how the company proposed to raise the tracks and grade six inches and complete work upon the streets named in the letter. Mr. Vars stated that the matter of grades was one for the attorney to investigate, and council referred the matter to that official, who will instruct the trolley corporation how to proceed to obtain what is desired. Interesting Announcements from McClure's. The editorial announcements of McClure's this month promise many important and attractive features for the coming volume. Most interesting of all are the announcements for the beginning in the May number of Rudyard Kipling's new series; "Robin Goodfellow--his Friends," the Life Insurance articles by Burton J. Hendrick, and the second volume of the Carl Schurz Memories. SUPPRESS SLOT MACHINES. American Makes Retired from Use by Spanish Authorities in Barcelona. Consul General Ridgely, of Barcelona, furnishes the following for the information and guidance of American manufacturers of slot machines: "The new civil governor of Barcelona has just issued an order forbidding the operation of all such machines in this city and province as have gambling devices of any sort attached to them. There were about 80 American machines of this character in operation in Barcelona and about 200 similar ones of Spanish fabrication, all of which have been suppressed. Some of these American machines are of the finest construction and finish, and were sold here at prices ranging from $50 to $500. "The order was issued because of the great growth and extent of all sorts of petty gambling in Barcelona, and various other petty games of chance have been suppressed. The slot machine, it may be stated, has become very popular with the working classes all over Spain. In one wide-open arcade of the principal commercial thoroughfare of Barcelona some 30 of the machines were established, and play was openly in progress at all hours of the day and night. "But It Was False and So Was He. Edwin (tenderly touching her tresses)--Sweet one, let me be like this lovely hair. Angelina (tremulously)--What, dearest, what would you be? Edwin (rapturously)--All your own. --Tit-Bits. CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

THE STANDARD CALENDAR. NOTE:--The STANDARD will try to keep this calendar of events to occur in Westfield correct and complete. May 11--Rev. R. S. MacArthur, D. D., L. L. D., "America's Great Place Among the Nations." Presbyterian Church. The Standard and Watson's. The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the father of rural free delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's Party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is to-day heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time. Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas, electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies. The middle class--the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners--won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away, they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but-- Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement. Fifteen cents a copy at news-stands; $1.50 a year by mail. Sample copy for 4 two-cent stamps and four names of reading friends. Address, TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE, 121 West 42d Street, New York City. SPECIAL CLUBBING RATE. Watson's Magazine and the UNION COUNTY STANDARD a year for only $2.25. Why not save the seventy-five cents. Leave orders at STANDARD office. Dangers of Pneumonia. A cold at this time, if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia. For sale by Fratchey & Huthway, Druggists. PENS OF GREAT HARDNESS They Are Made of Tantalite, a Metal Newly Discovered in Germany. A German correspondent writes as follows concerning "tantalite pens," a recent invention: Dr. Werner von Bolton has succeeded in producing the metal tantalite in a pure state and declared that it possessed a very extraordinary hardness. Sheets made of tantalite were so hard that with a diamond drill, which worked 5,000 revolutions a minute, hardly a noticeable impression was made and the drill itself was dulled. At that time it was stated that the firm intended to manufacture tools and other articles of tantalite. This latest patent is the result of experiments to make use of the properties of tantalite. The tantalite pen resists chemicals to a very high degree; it is much harder and more elastic than the steel pen and on that account indestructible. It is even more elastic than a gold pen, and it is predicted that if it will be placed upon the market at a moderate price it will supersede both steel and gold pens.

Synonymous.

Cross Examiner—And what did you say the defendant said when he learned that his friend had betrayed him?

Witness—He said: "Wouldn't that make your carbuncle?"

Cross Examiner—But I thought you said he said: "Wouldn't that make your blood boil?"

Witness—Well, isn't a carbuncle a blood-boil?—Judge.

Recognition.

A hero in his way was he.
His memory fondly thrives.
From ice he kept his sidewalk free,
And thus saved many lives.
—Washington Star.

PROVED.

Cholly—People talk about a "horse laugh." Horses never laugh while I'm around.

Miss Pepperly—Then they can't laugh, that's all.—Chicago Daily News.

Mummy.

There was a fair maid who because of a swelling she had in her fauce Couldn't sing; not at all.
In fact, every squall Sounded like someone sharpening saws.—Houston Post.

Ominous.

Tacum—Dr. Price-Price doesn't seem to be helping your sore eye any.
Sufferer—No, and he's got me worried about it now. I told him to-day that it was very painful, and I was afraid it was going to give me a lot of trouble, and he said: "Don't worry. It will come out all right."—Philadelphia Press.

Slight Misunderstanding.

"So you have an ideal husband," said the woman of the house. "What do you consider an ideal husband?"
"Axin' yore pardon, ma'am," replied the washlady, "but youse didn't understand me, I reckon. Wat I said was that I had a lile husband, ma'am."—Chicago Daily News.

Unsuccessful Coaching.

Mrs. Hayseed (in hotel dining-room)—What a bright light those lamps give!
Mr. Hayseed (whispering)—Say gas-jets, Marler; them ain't lumps.
Mrs. Hayseed (loudly)—Yes; as I was saying, what a bright light the gas-jets give; guess they're fresh trimmed!—N. Y. Weekly.

Easy.

Knicker—How did you manage to order dinner?
Chauffeur—Well, I can't speak French, so I told the waiter to bring me a limousine, some garage, tonneau, carburetor and a demi-tasse of gasoline.—N. Y. Sun.

Involved.

Stirrit—Where's that umbrella I lent you yesterday?
Edwards—Jones borrowed it. Why?
"Oh, nothing; only the fellow I borrowed it from says that the owner has been asking him for it."—Cassell's Journal.

Premature.

"What do you think of the future of the airship?"
"My dear sir," replied the cold and practical person, "what is the use of thinking about its future until it acquires a present?"—Washington Star.

All Signs Fail.

Bacon—They say you can tell a cow's age by her tongue?
Egbert—Perhaps; but you can't tell a woman's age that way. Why, some of the young ones talk as much as the older ones!—Yonkers Statesman.

Bad Habit.

"So you lost your position?" we ask of our young friend who has demanded our sympathy.

"Yes; the firm told me I would have to quit."

"What reason was given?"

"I smoked cigarettes."

"Why, that seems hardly a sufficient reason for such drastic action."

"Yes; but I was smoking the boss's cigarettes and he caught me at it."—Judge.

Relieved.

"They have made some serious discoveries about you," said the insurance director. "It isn't anything that reflects on your business capacity, is it?"

"They say you have gotten more than your share of the funds."

"That isn't so bad. I was afraid it had turned out that I got less than my share."—Washington Star.

Only Remedy.

Mrs. Blinks—Our son John doesn't seem to have a bit of energy. He'll never be good for anything until he marries.

Blinks—How will marriage benefit him?

Mrs. Blinks—Oh, after he's married a few weeks he'll get over the habit of hanging around the house.—Chicago Daily News.

Aged Pugilist.

Bill Benjamin, who twice fought Tom Sayers, being defeated each time, died recently at Shire Newton, England. He was 81 years old, a remarkable age for a former prize fighter to attain.

Money in Bogs.

Experts calculate that Irish bogs are capable of turning out 50,000,000 tons of fuel a year for a thousand years, and, at the present prices, this would realize $60,000,000 a year.

Two Extremes.

Water freezes every night of the year in Alto Crucero, in Bolivia; while at noonday the sun is hot enough to blister the flesh.

An Appalling Possibility.

"I will never marry any but a rich girl."
"But suppose she won't marry a poor man?"—Baltimore American.

Tyrolean Wedding.

A strange wedding custom is observed in Tyrol. When a bride is about to start for the church her mother gives her a handkerchief, which is called a tearkerchief. It is made of newly-spun linen, and with it the girl dries the tears she sheds on leaving home. The tearkerchief is never used after the marriage day, but is folded and placed in the linen closet, where it remains till its owner's death.

Points About Bread.

Twenty-three hundred million bushels of wheat are required annually by the 517,000,000 bread-eaters of the world. We each consume a barrel of flour—4½ bushels—a year. Great Britain eats in 13 weeks all the 73,000,000 bushels of wheat which it grows, and to have bread during the rest of the year must give £20,000,000 to the United States and smaller sums to India and Russia.

Cave-Dwellers as Travelers.

The cave-dwellers of Mexico can travel a distance of 170 miles at a stretch, going at a slow but steady trot. Frequently a letter has been carried a distance of over 600 miles in five days, the carrier living all the time on a simple diet of pinole, a finely ground corn, mixed with water into a thin paste.

One Side Is Sweeter.

The orange and the peach have each a sweeter side, and this is the side which does not bear the stem. The stem half of these fruits is usually not so sweet and juicy as the other half, not because it receives less sunshine, but probably because the juice gravitates to the lower half.

Pretty Hats Need Not Be Costly

WHEN there are so many fine hats on exhibition one is likely to be misled into the belief that to get really pretty hats a high price must be paid, but this is far from true, as is readily proven by the beautiful hats we show and sell at popular prices. We are particularly proud of the hats we produce to sell at $4.75, and from that to $10. In the collection of $4.75 Hats many beautiful models are found. They possess all the style and dash and color that is found in much higher priced hats, and they are very acceptable to economical dressers.

Beautiful Gowns for only $27.50

THIS is a dress that we believe cannot be equaled anywhere at the price we have placed upon it, for it is the result of many conferences with one of the best dressmakers we know of and with whom we labored to get the very best gown possible to sell at this moderate price.

These gowns are beautifully made of Crepe de Chine in the prevailing fashionable shades. The bodice is made over silk drop to correspond with the tucks in the skirt, with square yoke and collar of German Valenciennes lace, and is finished with deep girdle; the sleeves are in the fashionable length with cuffs of German Valenciennes lace; the skirt is very full with deep hem and five 2-inch tucks separated becomingly. It is made over a silk drop of corresponding shade. The effect is beautiful indeed, and though low in price has been one of the most admired dresses shown at our opening. The price we name is $27.50.

Other dresses here at $29.50, $35, $40, and so on up to $198. Plenty of styles here sure to satisfy everyone.

Behind the Scenes.
Old Lady—My boy, is it your father who writes so many smart sayings of children?
Small Boy—Yes, ma'am.
"I suppose he always encourages you to talk."
"No, ma'am. He threatens to thrash me if I even whisper when he is writing his smart things the children have said."
—Cassell's Journal.

Always the Same.
Cholly—It's a funny thing, but a cold in the head always makes me so stupid.
Sharpe—Then you must have it chronic, old man.
Terrible.
"Now, Johnnie, pray that your teacher will get well."
"But, mamma, if I do he might."
—Houston Post.

A Satisfactory Explanation.
Mrs. Winks (surgeon)—How is this? Mrs. Stueckup's letter of reference said you were a good cook, and yet you have utterly spoiled the first meal you attempted.
New Girl—Maybe Mrs. Stueckup don't know nothing about cooking.
Mrs. Winks (mollified)—Probably that is the case. Well, I'll teach you myself.—N. Y. Weekly.

In Boston.
Schoolmaster (in 1899)—What is an island, Knowitall?
Willie Knowitall—An island, sir, is a more or less prominent protuberance of earth rising from and extending above an aqueous expanse, whose surface may either be undisturbed or in a state of molecular agitation.—The Blis.

Found Her Life Work.
"I don't see your wife often, Mr. Hunklestep."
"No; she's always in some sort of charitable work."
"What particular work is she engaged in?"
"I believe she is trying to save Niagara now."—Chicago Tribune.

Optimistic.
Newberry—Is Sanford of the optimistic temperament?
Baldwin—I should say he is. I have known him to go into a restaurant without a cent in his pocket, order a dozen oysters, and feel satisfied that he could pay his bill with a pearl.—Life.

Counting by Hats.
He—How long have we been married, wife?
She (counting on her fingers)—Let me see! There's the black velvet hat, the hat with the blue wings in it, the one with the yellow bird; that's all. Three years, dear!—Yonkers Statesman.

FIELD CLASSES FOR ARMY.

An Accessory That Is an Necessary in Any Other Part of the Equipment.

A French military journal has been published out that one of the principal requisites for a well equipped officer is a powerful pair of field glasses. In those days of long range guns and smokeless powder there cannot be two opinions, says a London Globe writer, as to the value of an accessory which will enable a general to see without being seen himself or exposing his troops to the view of the opposing forces.

The lesson taught us by the Boers and the Japanese in recent campaigns seems to be: Use all your art in finding out—in seeing, in a word—the movements of the enemy, while remaining yourself invisible, and one of the most useful aids in this direction is a powerful pair of field glasses. According to the journal I have referred to the French officer and non-commissioned officer are expected to provide their own field glasses with the result that in most cases they are of inferior quality and the officer's judgment on them usually is: "I can see as well with my own eyes." But if the war office realized the value of the field glass in war it would be reckoned as indispensable as the service revolver, and like that weapon would be purchased wholesale by the government and sold to officers at cost price, payable in installments.

Switzerland, we are reminded, long ago discovered the value of the field glass; the Swiss artillery non-commissioned officers have always had good glasses. These are now about to be taken from them and given to the infantry officers, and in their place more powerful glasses will be supplied to the artillery.

BURNING A JUJU HOUSE.

Chamber of Horrors in the Village of Savage Natives of Nigeria.

Some Interesting—If ghastly—details have lately reached England, writes a correspondent of the Graphic, as to the burning of a juju house in the Andoni country of southern Nigeria, where both human sacrifices and cannibalism have until quite recently been rampant. On an appointed day the chiefs of Bonny and Opobo, who have some sort of control of the Andoni tribe, were called together and informed by the British resident that these nefarious practices must be put a stop to. After much hesitation the principal chief led the way to the center of the village, where a ghastly sight presented itself. The juju house was literally covered with human skulls, even the gable ends and veranda posts bearing these horrible trophies. Some were comparatively fresh, clearly showing that human sacrifices were still practiced. In all upward of 2,000 were counted. The order was given to burn the house, but no native dared execute the command, so that at last the British resident himself set fire to this chamber of horrors. As the flames leapt up to the sky the greatest excitement prevailed, and the terrified heathen stood with bated breath. Among the articles which perished was an historical drum, fashioned entirely out of human skin, and only beaten at the moment when the executioner struck off the head of some hapless victim.

POSING FOR WAX FIGURES.

New Styles in Hair Dressing Give Model Chance to Earn Money.

"Didn't you know that wax figures were modeled after real people?" spoke up the senior member of a firm that manufactures wax models for the trade, in mild surprise. "Why, I thought everyone knew that. Is it possible that you have never recognized any of the likenesses?"
"Most of them are shop girls or cloak models, or possibly artists' models who are only too willing to pose for the small sum they get for lending their features to the firm. It's a rather disagreeable task, for a death mask must be made first, and then the model made from that; but it's only a matter of a half hour."
"How much do the girls get? Oh, about one dollar an hour, the same as most artists' models receive. It requires a girl with regular features to make the model a success. In fact, we try to get as near to the Greek outlines as possible."
"It's getting to be quite a business, the posing for wax models, though there is only room for a comparatively few, as when once the mask is taken it is used for years. The change necessitated in the hairdressing only."

Ecclesiastical Embroideries.
Of white brocaded satin, embroidered with gold, the vestment measured about three feet by five. "It is $500," the dealer said. "It is 200 years old." He touched the heavy and bright embroidery. "This gold work," he said, "is as fresh as though new and it will always stay fresh, for it is worked with Holland gold thread—a thread of silver, gold-plated, such as only the Dutch can make. With these stiff threads of silver platted with gold only strong men can embroider. The task is beyond the strength of woman. All good ecclesiastical embroidery is men's work."

At the Ball.
"Where are Mr. and Mrs. Jinks?" inquired the host.
"In the conservatory," answered the hostess. "They're quarrelling out this dance."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SOME VERY QUICK THINGS

Among Them the Thoughts of the Dozing Dreamer: Is the Head "Skidooed?"

A flash of light is not sluggish, some travels rapidly, a bullet is no messenger boy, and an automobile when shoots a mile in 28 seconds is moving along, certainly. When it comes to getting over the ground in a real hurry, however, to dooming distances in dead earnest, says the Providence Journal, the dreamer marches proudly at the head of the procession. He makes the latest thing in the line of 150-horse power racing cars look like hay carts in a mud bank. A man sits in his chair after dinner and dozes; he awakes with a start and discovers, to his surprise, that he lost consciousness for exactly three minutes by the clock. Yet in those three minutes he journeyed from New York to Port Said, transferred himself to St. Petersburg, followed in Paris and London and sailed up the Nile. What is of greater importance in this connection, he journeyed leisurely, almost indolently; he stopped at various "points of interest" and examined them thoroughly; he met with annoying and amusing experiences on steamships and trains; he talked with acquaintances whom he encountered in foreign lands, and he told some of them precisely what he thought of them—there was genuine pleasure in that. A dreamer can put thousands and thousands of miles behind him in the short space of three minutes and lazily enjoy himself in his wandering. By comparison, the chauffeur, with his life in his hands, is a slow coach; and he must attend strictly to business; he can engage in no conversation or sightseeing.

The human mind is a wonderful vehicle. Some people in spectacles have analyzed it and think that they know what it is and what it can do. But they do not know and they never will know.

THE MAD MONTH OF MARCH

Called the "Thracian of the Twelve," Because of Its Blustering Aspect.

Mars was not a favorite among the classic Greeks, nor is his name-month a great favorite among the Gothic moderns. The god of war was a barbarian intruder in the Olympian circle. There was something Thracian, and by that token crude and unworthy, in his manner. He was more of a blusterer than a fighter, and Homer narrates with evident relish how Pallas Athena tumbled him over in combat, his vast bulk covering several acres. Of wild aspect, untutored ways and indifferent wits, he had little to recommend him but his humoral origin.

Such also, says the New York Mail, is the month that has taken the war god's name. One poet notes its "ugly looks and threats." "A half-wild creature cast from nature's lap," another calls it. The proverb "mad as a March hare" says the same thing with less reticence. English people call the month "March manyweathers," and thereby intimate their doubt of its capacity for sustained purpose. It is the Thracian of the 12, as September is the Tyrian. There is something blustering and barren in its aspect, as there is in what people call "a good war." The winds that blow from one end of it to the other are not "the winds of God." A peck of March dust may be worth a king's ransom, as a wise saw has it, but from the average human it gets less grateful guerdon. "Beware the Ides of March" is good wisdom for our common humanity.

RED MAN'S LAST ROLL-CALL

Disintegration of the Indian Tribes Under Direction of White Men.

Like the Moorish king Abu Abdallah, looking mournfully backward at his lost Granada, Geronimo, from Fort Sill, gazes westward across prairies and hills to the Arizona of his great days which he will not see again, writes C. M. Harvey, in Atlantic. Up at Pine Ridge agency the Sioux monogenarlin Red Cloud, the most famous of living Indian warriors, who could tell as many marvels as Aeneas told to Dido, refuses to accept the government's offer of an allotment of land, and goes down, like Dickens' Steerforth in the storm at Yarmouth, waving his hand defiantly in the face of destiny. Most of Hercules' labors looked light compared with the task which the late Henry L. Dawes undertook when he and the commission created under the law of 1893 started out to induce the Choc-taws, the Creeks and their neighbors to allot their lands to their members as individuals, to abolish their tribal government, and to merge themselves in the mass of the country's citizenship. That work has been grandly finished. The last councils of the Five Tribes have been held. The epic of the American Indian has closed.

Canned Paintings.

Paintings under glass may now be preserved indefinitely. Had the men of old known this, the pictures of Apelles might still live in the first freshness of their colors, and the work of Raphael and Michael Angelo would look to-day as it looked when it left the painter's hands. The method of preservation is simple. The canvas is placed in a vacuum. It is preserved, like fruit. It is sealed up from all the destructive influences of the atmosphere. Since metal figures in the operation, the canvases might, indeed, be said to be canned. There is no reason why paintings, kept in this manner in a vacuum, should not endure indefinitely.

HIS MISSING GROWL.

Henderson came to his Hinton kind breakfast table so good-natured that his wife looked at him in a puzzled way and one of the children uttered in a whisper if papa "was not feeling well this morning." The customary growl at the coffee was missing; the toast was just right and he complimented the eggs on their freshness. Noticing the look of alarm on the faces of the children he laughed heartily, elicited the little cherubs under the chin, gave them a dime apiece and said to his better half: "My dear, it is going to be a remarkably light day at the office. I shall only have to look in. Or, perhaps, I can just call them up by telephone and that will be enough. Suppose you come uptown with me—I shall take a later boat than usual—and we will take luncheon and after that go to the matinee. What say you?"

What did she say? Well, as she had been begging him to take her uptown to luncheon for a month without material results, what she said can be imagined. They dawdled up to Manhattan, having a honeymoon over again, and at Whitehall street Henderson said: "Just wait for me a moment in the elevated station while I telephone the office."

The wife was in raptures. Or course she would wait. Henderson was a long time at the telephone. When he finally returned the sunny sky of his morning disposition was overcast with heavy storm clouds. "It will be impossible for me to go shopping with you," he almost snapped. "There is a man waiting for me in the office who has just arrived from Chicago to put through a big business deal." Then seeing the look that came into his wife's face he tried to assume his morning's good nature again, and said: "Never mind, dear, I will meet you at 2:30 o'clock, and will have luncheon together."

It was one o'clock when, tired, cross and as yet in doubt as to whether he had succeeded in putting through the "deal," he got off a train at the trying place. Had a lady been waiting there for some one? O, yes, the ticket seller said, she had. He had noticed a woman waiting. She had waited for about an hour. She had been gone only ten minutes.

With his nerves strung to high tension by the labors of the forenoon, Henderson exploded a few times, and then thought bitterly, "She might have waited a little longer when I was working so hard." A bright idea struck him "which is the nearest of the big department stores?" he asked of the ticket seller. The information obtained, Henderson hurried away.

Being alone and hungry and tired of waiting, he reasoned, his wife would naturally make for the restaurant of the nearest department store for her luncheon. Henderson arrived at the vast establishment, and after being stepped on by fat women, and jabbed in the ribs by the elbows of the thin women, and hustled about by medium sized women, he reached the women's restaurant, and looked in. It was crowded, and in that vast throng of femininity he saw not his wife.

Turning savagely he entered the men's restaurant and ordered a steak and a bottle of beer.

After paying his check Henderson thought he would just take another look-in at the women's restaurant. Perhaps his wife had stopped somewhere on the way and he would see her there now. He stepped just inside the door of the great room where the many women were eating. No, she was not there, and he turned to go out. Just then a woman caromed against him in the manner peculiar to women in department stores, where the presence of a mere man is ignored to the extent of forbidding to him even dimension.

"O, Mr. Henderson," she said; "how jolly to meet you." It was a woman he had formerly known, but had not seen for a long time.

"Charmed!" said he in his most urbane way. "I was looking for my wife." They shook hands, said a few commonplace things and parted. Henderson looked up as the woman swept away, and there was his wife coming through the door of the woman's restaurant, her eyes taking in the scene and her lips set tightly together.

"Margaret!" he gasped.
"Who is your friend?" said she. "Have you had luncheon?"

Henderson explained that the woman was a casual acquaintance of other days.

"Where did you lunch?" demanded the wife, "and why did you not meet me?"

She was generally the meekest wife that ever swore to love, honor and obey, but there was a sort of dictatorial manner about her now which somewhat confused Henderson.

"My dear," he began, "I was detained on business—important business. Yes, I have just had luncheon."

"With whom?" she asked.

"Why, alone, of course. With whom did you think?"

"O, I did not know. Men are not allowed to eat in this room, you know, unless they are acting as escorts."

"But, my dear, I had luncheon in the men's restaurant and just looked in here to see if I could find you, I looked in here first, you know, before I ate. Really sorry that you did not wait for me a little longer. Shall we go to the matinee?"

"No," replied the wife. "I think I will go home."

"And to think," sighed Henderson to himself as they walked in silence to the train, "this is the first day for years I have been really good natured!"—N. Y. Press.

SILENCE SPEAKS VOLUMES.

The New York Evening Mail published on Tuesday a long letter signed by "A Westfield Neighbor" about a former resident of this town who was recently sentenced to a term of imprisonment for twenty years for the crime of forgery. What possible excuse can be conjured up for the writing and publication of such a letter it is difficult to imagine. All right thinking people profoundly regret the departure from the path of moral rectitude in the case of any individual, and a certain sympathetic interest attaches to every such case. The anonymous letter seeks to palliate the offense committed by reference to a series of domestic sorrows which could have had no possible connection with the criminal acts, because the evidence showed the latter to have been initiated years prior to the occurrence of any of the other troubles. We have no desire to spread over a newspaper the personal circumstances of the unhappy family innocently involved in the public shame of its head. We regret exceedingly that anyone in Westfield should have conceived it to be desirable to do that thing under cover of a puerile philosophical speculation upon the inciting causes of a man's crime, and a flimsy pretext of sympathy for his family. The letter breathes rather addiction to the pernicious habit of gossip than solicitude for a family. The grandest proof of sympathy for the innocent is in shielding them to the utmost from public association with the author of their distress. This is not done by letters paving over the affairs of the home life of the distracted relatives, and even needlessly dragging in the names of children passed away. When a man goes wrong and is exposed and punished we hear much expression of sorrow for the rest of the domestic circle, but it seems scarcely to occur to us that the violation of that most sacred right of privacy is, under the form of falsely sentimental and hideously insinuating gossip, the penalty we visit on the innocent. We publicly pillory then with the guilty. Yellow journalism and yellow conversationalism alike ruthlessly drag to the foreground of a sorrowful situation those who have the most fervent desire to remain in retirement, and who should be protected from vulgar intrusion, at such a time. We trust that the writer of the letter mentioned will, with others, come to appreciate that the holiest sympathy is often inexpressible in words, but silence speaks volumes.

FELLOWSHIP OF WOMEN.

Illustrative Instance of the Strength of It When Dress Enters the Question.

"When I was down in Tennessee last," said a drummer for a New York dress-goods house, according to Judge, "a customer of mine, after buying a nice bill of goods, invited me to go to his home with him to show some samples to his sister. He was going to be married, and, as the prospective bride was poor, he intended to give her a wedding-dress, and wanted his sister to select it. He was a bachelor about 50, and was a bit shy on wedding togery. His home was next door, and I wasn't more than introduced and my business stated when I was aware that the sister wasn't favorable to the match.

"Why, John," she protested, 'I don't want to pick out a dress. You can do it as well as I can.' "No, I can't," he insisted. "Well, let her do it, then. She's going to wear it."

"Yes," but I don't want her to know anything about it. I want to surprise her."

"I had spread out my samples and was waiting. "Oh," she said, partly to him and partly to me, 'pick out anything that suits you. She's so anxious to get married, she'd wear a barrel rather than miss the chance.' "With which she flouted out of the room, and I had to select the material for John's bride's wedding-dress, as he was totally inadequate."

ABOUT CLIFF DWELLERS.

Theory Advanced by Investigator Accounting for Quaint Dwellings.

A new explanation as to why the cliff dwellings are situated at such an immense height was advanced by the commissioner of Indian Affairs, Francis E. Leupp, at the recent meeting of the New York state chapter of the Colorado Cliff Dwellings association.

The theory was stated the New York Times, that at the time the cliff dwellers built their quaint homes, (probably as far back as the age of mammoths,) an immense stream flowed by almost on a level with the houses. This flow of water gradually wore down the bed of the river until it became so sunken as to leave the houses at an almost inaccessible elevation.

Another interesting point brought out by the commissioner related to the fact that the doorways of the dwellings average only three or four feet in height. The builders had constructed these openings on the principle that as animals had small openings in the ground, human beings needed doorways only sufficiently large to allow the body to pass through.

Mr. Leupp described these dwellings when viewed as a whole as a sight of impressive grandeur with the unbroke silence brooding over all.

Doubted Her Love.

"Then why is she still trying to sing?"

OBITUARY.

Isabella Heath Whitehead.

Mrs. Isabella Heath Whitehead, widow of Dr. Lane P. Whitehead, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. E. L. Hubert, 50 Summit Avenue, Tuesday evening, in her 84th year. She leaves two sons. Mrs. Whitehead was a granddaughter of Captain Dunn of Washington's army. The funeral will be held this evening at seven o'clock, conducted by Rev. Francis W. Wheeler, acting pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Woman's Club.

The program committee of the Woman's Club announced to the members at the meeting Monday afternoon the program for next year. The general topic will be "New Jersey." The resignation of Mrs. Sherman Ellison was accepted and Mrs. Van Ness Delamater elected a member. Mrs. Robert Johnston discussed current events, and Mrs. Wm. Davis read an especially interesting paper on "Shakespearean Actors of Three Centuries." Mrs. W. L. Stearns' paper was on "Shakespeare's Fools." Mrs. Robert W. Harden and Sister Storms Clark, Jr. added vocal and instrumental music to the other good things of the afternoon.

The meeting one week from Monday next promises to be a delightful occasion also. Miss Helen Mar Wilson will give in monologue, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and the music will be the Mendelssohn Suite. Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Dutcher will play at the piano, and Miss Sheryl Anderson will play on the violin. The meeting will be open to as many of the public as would like to attend on the payment of a small admission fee.

After the meeting the President, Mrs. E. S. Robinson, will give a tea to the visiting delegations of other clubs and the officers and committees of the local organization.

Perkins or Tillman?

Either Randolph Perkins or Peter Tillman will be ineligible for a re-nomination as Assemblyman if the bill providing for the election of Assemblyman by districts instead of by counties is passed through the Legislature with the boundaries of the districts for Union county as at present defined, and the constitutionality of the measure is upheld by the Court of Errors and Appeals, as expected by the sponsors of the proposed law.

An Assemblyman must live in the district he represents, and, as things now stand, the new district lines place both Tillman and Perkins in the Third district, which includes Westfield and Rahway. This district gave a Republican majority of considerably more than 2,000 at the last election, so that a nomination there is equivalent to an election.

Colored Woman Bents White Boy.

Agnes Stewart, colored, was arrested on Wednesday by Chief of Police Thomas O'Neill for assault on Leo Leek, a thirteen year old boy living on South Broad Street. Leek tried to pass the woman, who was walking with another along a board walk, and brushed her as he started to step in front. She immediately fell on him and was giving him a terrible beating when the boy's mother rushed out of the house and tried to rescue him from the hands of the infuriated negress. The latter then grasped the mother tightly and bit her on the cheek. John Campbell, Mrs. Leek's father, appeared on the scene and stopped the negress from further mischief until the police arrived. She was committed to the county jail.

Library Building Soon.

The free library trustees met Tuesday evening at the home of James O. Clark and received bids from contractors for the work on the new building. The bids all came within the appropriation, but as there are some "extras" still to be figured on the awards of contracts will be deferred a few days. Local men will doubtless get the contracts.

The building is to be completed as early as possible, but likely between August first and November first next. With a little more money the trustees could arrange for stone columns and more stone in the front walls of the building, but it is not expected that they will try to raise any more money now.

Rev. Mr. Lynch's Address.

The address of Rev. Frederick Lynch at the Congregational Men's Club meeting Tuesday night was greatly enjoyed by those present. Mr. Lynch made a strong plea for the exercise of high moral courage and a sane optimism in meeting the ethical, social and religious problems of our day. Many remained afterward to meet the gifted young preacher who so impressed them with his sincerity, earnestness and fine spiritual outlook on life. Lawrence Borgert presided at the organ, Robert Perry and George B. Taylor, of the Fireside quartette, leading the singing.

WOODMEN AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

Take Elizabeth Woodmen into Camp and Defeat Westfield Dr. O. U. A. M. Bowlers.

Westfield Camp W. O. W. bowlers travelled to Elizabeth on Wednesday night and on the Tusculum alleys defeated the bowlers from Elizabeth Camp, No. 11. W. O. W., in a match game, taking two out of the three games bowled. A return match will be held with them on Thursday night, April 12, on Snyder's alleys at Plainfield.

On Thursday night the second of a series of three matches between Westfield Camp, No. 20, and Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. bowlers was rolled on Snyder's alleys. Again the Woodmen came off victorious, defeating the Juniors two out of three games and thereby winning the series. J. Edwards, of the Woodmen, simply went pin crazy, and did some star bowling, making the grand average of 118 for the three games. Davenport, also of the Woodmen, did some fine bowling, having the fine average for the three games of 110. C. Ortleb, Jr., hit the pins in great shape, having an average of 101 1/2. Koller and Archibald excelled for the Jr. O. U. A. M. The former having the average of 165 and the latter 152 1/2 for the 3 games.

The score:

	1	2	3
C. Ortleb, Jr.	158	155	171
Snyder	128	149	168
Edwards	174	181	182

Press Doesn't Like Denman.

The Plainfield Press spun this painful yarn in last night's issue:

Moved by one of his periodical passions for spilling information Charles Denman, the baseball prophet of Westfield, crept out of his cave on Mt. Ararat last night and fastened himself to the telephone ear of a Daily Press reporter.

"This is Denman—Denman, of Westfield," he confided. "How is the game going up your way? All right? Glad to hear it. We're right on the job down here, too, and don't you forget it."

"Who told you we weren't going to have a team? Don't you believe it—say, listen to this: Waller, 14; O'Neill, 11; Bradford, 11; Dalton, 20; Kierman, 18; Barry, 36; Crogan, 17; Mallon, 17; Connolly, 17. How does that strike you?"

"Good, eh? Well, that is Westfield's problemated team. Looks good, doesn't it? Chuckles made the wire sing here. You stop anybody you hear counting Westfield out. We will be in the game and on the job. We have a fine plant, with a fence all around it, and the right crowd back of it all."

"Huh? A member of the association offered to sell the fence to Plainfield? Say, if anybody wants to buy that fence he will have to pay Denman's price for it. Oh, yes; we have an association here, but it doesn't associate."

Denman tell you something else: Westfield will not play Plainfield this year. Why? Well, too many people up in Plainfield have advised us not to do it. We have a lot of friends in Plainfield. Andy McCardell didn't contribute to your association, did he? You can draw your own conclusions."

Knowing Mr. Denman, the reporter drew nothing excepting his breath. The Westfield prophet took an hour to unload his burden of words. It costs fifteen cents for a five-minute talk from Westfield to Plainfield, but a little thing like paying for it never stops Charlie Denman's conversation.

Letter to Gideon E. Ludlow.

Westfield, N. J.

Dear Sir: Why, do you think, can Devco sell pure paint as low as others sell adulterated paint?

There are 30 or 40 or 50 different makers of paint, that rank, in a way, as "first-class;" they have their regions; one's region is large, another's is small; everyone is "first-class" in its region.

Of these 30 or 40 or 50, one is best, another next, and so on down; but the prices are all the same or about the same—you can buy one for less than another though; a personal matter sometimes.

But how, do you think, can Devco sell the best for no more than the rest? The answer is: it costs less to sell it; more to make, less to sell. Reputation helps sell it. Its 150 years help sell it.

Go by the name. Yours truly,

F. W. Devco & Co.

P. S. Chas. Crickenberger sells our paint.

Isolated Danish Colony.

A curious circumstance in connection with the death of the king of Denmark is the fact that one of the Danish colonies, Greenland, would not learn the news for three months, owing to the difficulty of ships reaching the land. In ignorance of the event, the Greenlanders will celebrate King Christian's birthday on April 8 in the usual manner.

New Lawnmower.

A lawnmower has made its appearance built on the lines of the agricultural reaper, which in itself suggests to the average mind the familiar barber's clippers. It is said for this machine that it does not mutilate the grass so much as the usual rotary knife lawnmower, which has a tendency to drag the roots and feeders.

Got Chummy.

Henry St. George Tucker, president of the Jamestown exhibition, told a congressional committee about his audience with King Edward. He said he and the king had a very pleasant talk. "As near as I can gather," said a committee member, "the king was calling him 'Tuck, old boy,' before he left."

Naturalistic Notations.

Fishes have no eyelids, and necessarily sleep with their eyes open; they swallow their food whole, having no dental machinery. Frogs, lizards and serpents never take food except that which they are certain is alive. Serpents are so tenacious of life that they will live for six months or longer without food.

Crater-Dwellers.

About 20,000 people live in the crater of an extinct volcano, 30 miles from Kumanoto, Japan. They dwell in this pit-like town, surrounded by a vertical wall 800 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world, and practically they form a little community all by themselves.

Pay Dirt.

Enquirer—So you've returned from the Wild Dog diggings, have you? Is the ground particularly auriferous round there?
Digger—Auriferous ain't no word for it, pard. My first deal when I went out there was to buy the old doormat at the saloon for half a dollar. I tuck it home, boiled it down, and got ten ounces of gold dust out of it. It's a fact.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF Westfield Baptist Church,

Gentlemen:—

Don't allow your church to pay 8 cents per pound for wood.

If they buy 100 pounds of White Lead in kegs they get 88 pounds of White Lead and 12 pounds of wood; but when they buy L. & M. paint they get a full gallon of paint that won't wear off for 10 or 15 years, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. paint wear like iron.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gal lons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

AMUSEMENTS

Proctor's.
The latest addition to those who want to appear in Proctor's 23rd Street Theatre is Miss Yvette Gilbert, the French singer, whose wonderful art has made her the talk of two continents. She is to make her only appearance in vaudeville at the Proctor theatres, opening Easter week at the 23rd Street house.

For the closing weeks of the Lenten season special efforts have been directed toward uncommonly attractive shows at Proctor's 23rd Street Theatre. On April 2nd comes a grand revival of one of last season's greatest triumphs, that beautiful story of German student life in the old feudal town, "In Old Heidelberg."

No play in recent years has caused the interest and comment that Bernard Shaw's "Candida" did upon its original presentation by Arnold Daly and his company. Its capture by Mr. Proctor for his all-star players at the Fifth Avenue Theatre is a distinct triumph and it should provide a most interesting week's amusement. This capital play will be given during the week of April 2nd.

The season's most notable bill of truly all star vaudeville will be offered at Proctor's 23rd Street Theatre during the week of April 2nd, headed by the distinguished French actor, Henri De Vries, offering the powerful tragedy, "A Case of Arson," in which he enjoyed such a long and triumphant run at the Madison Square Theatre. Impersonating as he does all the characters in his dramatic sketch, rapidly changing in turn from one character to another, makes his entertainment both novel and wonderful.

The program which has been arranged for Proctor's Newark Theatre for the week of April 2nd, will be of more than ordinary variety and attractiveness. It will be headed by Fred Walton, the famous English pantomimist, and his London company, all fresh from the big production of "The Babes and the Baron," in a presentation of a scenic pantomime sketch, entitled "Cissie's Dream."

First Japanese Ape

The first Japanese ape ever born in the London zoo is the great attraction there at present. But he can be seen only in fine weather, when his proud parents bring him out for a sun bath and to enjoy the admiration he excites among the visitors.

Extra Army Rations.

All European armies have certain extras weekly in the way of food. Sugar is given in England and France, two gallons of beer in Russia, half a gallon of wine in Italy, three pounds of fish in Spain, and five ounces of butter in Belgium.

Air in the Arctic.

The air is so pure in the polar regions, so free from harmful microbes, that throat and lung diseases are unknown there. That section is also entirely free from contagious maladies.

Fifty Years a Rabbi.

Chief Rabbi Meil, of Trieste, recently completed 50 years' tenure of office. The jubilee was celebrated in all the synagogues. The chief burgomaster personally tendered his congratulations to the chief rabbi.

Artificial Ears.

Burissell Roe, eight years old, who was born without ears, has been fitted with a pair at Bowling Green hospital, Toledo O. He always possessed the sense of hearing.

Ancient Italian Village.

A village of the bronze age has been found near Domodossola, Italy. It had apparently been burned. Beautiful vases, bracelets and lance heads have been discovered.

Happiness in Store.

"I think that little girl who was here eating with her mamma to-day will make some man happy some day," said little Willie.

"What makes you think so, Willie?" asked his mother.

"Because pa said when she was here she lost her tongue."—Yonkers Statesman.

No Fire Needed.

Woman (to tramp)—Want something to eat, eh? My fire is out, and I have no kindling to light it. Can't cook, or even warm things, without a fire, you know.

Tramp—No, mum.

"There is wood and a hatchet out in the shed."

"Yes, mum; I see it. Have you any pie?"

"I have mince and pumpkin."

"Pumpkin will do, mum. That's good cold."—N. Y. Weekly.

Surely She Did.

Prospective Boarder—You buy your provisions at wholesale, I presume, Mrs. Irons. Do you ever test any of these food preparations to find out whether or not they are adulterated with poisonous ingredients?

Landlady—Well, I should say I did. Whenever I put anything on my table that disagrees with the boarders I never buy it a second time—I can tell you that!—Chicago Tribune.

STATE LEGISLATURE

Several of the Most Important Measures Disposed Of.

EQUAL TAXATION BILL PASSED

Senate Unanimous For Perkins Law, Which Means That Railroads Will Hereafter Pay to the State $5,000,000 More Than They Do Now.

Trouton, March 29. With the Perkins equal taxation bill disposed of this week, the billery limited franchise bill and the Jackson anti-fraud measure in custody of the out of the way, it is likely that there will be clear sailing for the legislature until the hour of the adjournment. These measures were probably the most important in many respects before the present session, and they occupied considerable time. There are a number of other important bills awaiting consideration, but it is not likely that they will take up much time.

The last days of the session are characterized by the usual hurry to rush legislation, but so far this winter no important measure has suffered on this account. The work of the session yesterday, Wednesday, was particularly heavy.

After a three hours' discussion, during which there were various amendments offered and defeated, the senate by a unanimous vote passed the Perkins equal taxation bill Tuesday morning.

When the measure was brought up on second reading Senator McIntire offered an amendment, which was voted down. Senator Colby then offered an amendment, which met the same fate. Senators Ackerman and Hendry presented amendments concerning local taxation of railroad property, but withdrew them again before a vote was taken. The rules were suspended and the bill placed on third reading and final passage. Senator McIntire in voting for the measure said that in view of the fact that his amendments would not pass he saw that this was the only kind of equal taxation legislation that could be secured at present, and therefore he would vote for it. The bill was passed by a unanimous vote, 21 to 0.

The bill is in line with the suggestions of Governor Stokes in his inaugural address and in his first message to the legislature. It means that the railroads will hereafter pay annually into the state treasury $5,000,000 as against $1,000,000 which they now pay.

To Investigate Capitalization.
In the house of assembly Assemblyman McIntire, leader of the Colby faction, introduced another reform resolution calling for the investigation of the methods of capitalization of public utility corporations. It is intimated in the resolution that there may be irregularities in the capitalization methods of such corporations.

Assemblyman Wright introduced a bill in the house amending the disorderly act and providing that when mothers abandon their children such mothers may be arrested the same as fathers are under the present law. The bill was introduced at the request of the state board of children's guardians.

Assemblyman Roeder's bill prohibiting the employment of children under sixteen years of age in mercantile establishments for more than fifty-eight hours a week and before 7 a. m. and after 7 p. m. was lost in the house. The senate Monday night passed the bill providing for county boards of equalization of taxes of three members, not to exceed two of the same political party, appointed by the governor and paid by the state.

Mr. Wakelee introduced a bill so amending the act of May 11, 1905, respecting the preservation of the waters of the state, that a special exemption is made of State Island. The bill permits the laying and operation of two water pipes from Bayonne to Staten Island on plans approved by the secretary of war. The amount to be transported is not to exceed a maximum of 10,000,000 gallons a day, and the term granted by the bill is to expire Jan. 1, 1922. The purpose of the introduction of the bill, Mr. Wakelee said, is simply to put before the people of New Jersey the wishes of the people of New York.

Pension For Man Convict Shot.
The senate passed Mr. Jackson's bill providing a pension of $75 a month for John Fitzgerald of New Brunswick, who was shot by a convict in a riot at the state prison two years ago while on duty as a deputy keeper, and also the joint resolution authorizing the state sewerage commission to investigate the subject of the purification of the Delaware river.

Among the senate bills introduced were the following:

By Mr. McIntire—Provides for an additional common pleas judge for every county of over 400,000 inhabitants.

By Mr. Jackson—Accepts the national appropriation for agricultural experiment stations.

By Mr. Jackson—Amends primary elections act by providing for primary elections of both parties to be held on first registry day and regulates the procedure.

By Mr. McKee—Fixes judges' fees in connection with the appointment of city sewer commissioners. Mr. McKee also introduced a bill fixing fees of commissioners under act for the improvement of streets and sewers.

By Mr. Ayls—Provides for direct nominations for public office at primaries. This bill is identical with senate bill No. 45, introduced by Mr. Colby.

Mr. Scovel's bill authorizing the governor to appoint a state board of underkeepers and embalmers, which passed the house recently, was reconsidered Monday night, and its title, which was found to be defective, was amended. It was advanced to third reading.

House Loses a Member.

Monday night a humorous incident occurred when a resolution by Mr. Martin was adopted, reciting the fact that Mr. Berg of Hudson was to be married Wednesday next. The resolution then provided that Mr. Berg be excused on Wednesday providing he give a hotel to the bar and presented with a chest of silver tableware by his colleagues after several members volunteered to sign his bond.

Among the bills introduced in the house were:

By Mr. Vandervoer—Makes it a misdemeanor to obtain credit upon false statement or writing of financial condition of purchaser.

By Mr. Bierck—Authorizes boroughs to make water supply contracts with other municipalities.

By Mr. Berg—Provides that district court clerks after serving ten years shall be subject to removal only for cause.

This week Attorney General McArthur sent to the house his opinion as to the constitutionality of the Perkins bill, providing for the election of assemblymen by assembly districts instead of by the county at large, as at present. The attorney general says: "As is well known, the supreme court in an elaborate opinion written by the late chief justice Hughes in the case of the state versus Wrightson held that a statute similar to the one under consideration and providing for the election of assemblymen by assembly districts and not by the voters of a county at large was unconstitutional and void. I am therefore compelled to reach the conclusion that under the undiluted cases in this state the bill in question is unconstitutional."

"I think it fair to say, however, that the decision of the supreme court adjudging this legislation to be unconstitutional was not carried to the court of errors and appeals for review, and I assume that the present bill is introduced for the purpose of having that court pass upon the proposed method of electing assemblymen." The opinion prevents that the bill will not be put through this year, but this is uncertain at this time.

Passed by the Senate.

Among the bills passed by the senate on Tuesday were: Mr. McKee's bill enabling municipal governing boards to establish river water lines, Mr. Lee's bill requiring ten days' publication of notice of intention to introduce city ordinances providing for public improvement, Mr. Frelinghuysen's bill placing Colonel Robert G. Smith of the Fourth regiment on the retired list of the national guard with the rank of brevet brigadier general, and Mr. Hutchinson's joint resolution providing for the appointment by the governor or three persons to comprise a commission which is to consider the whole subject of municipal legislation and report on the first day of the next legislature.

The senate passed Mr. Hutchinson's supplement to the pure food act licensing creameries; also Mr. Millery's bill authorizing adjacent townships or municipalities to join in employing a health officer and one or more sanitary inspectors, and Mr. Jackson's bill appropriating $100,000 to the statehouse commission for the erection of a wing at the capitol.

Mr. Brown's bill authorizing the quartermaster general, with the approval of the governor, to permit use of portions of the Sea Girt camp ground by persons or corporations came up on third reading. On Mr. Wakelee's stating that he would not vote to give that power to the governor or to anybody else Mr. Brown had the bill dropped.

A message was received from Governor Stokes transmitting a communication received by him from the Arlington Flag association, which desires reproductions of Lincoln's Gettysburg address placed in public buildings. It was referred.

House Passes Electrification Bill.

The house passed the committee substitute for Senator Wakelee's bill substituting electricity for the death penalty instead of hanging. The original bill provided that all executions should take place at the state prison in this city, but the substitute gives the state prison inspectors the right to select some isolated place outside the prison and within the state where all executions shall take place. The bill also provides that all persons executed shall be buried in quicklime unless the bodies are claimed by the relatives.

Mr. Eldred's bill extending the territorial limits of each county fronting on the sea coast was passed by the house, as was also Mr. Mills' bill providing for a state board of examiners to license builders. This latter bill was lost on Monday, but was reconsidered later in the week. The house also passed Mr. Mabie's bill authorizing cities of not less than 10,000 population governed by a commission to elect two additional commissioners to be known as the president and member at large. Other bills passed by the house were Senator Colby's bill authorizing any municipality to use lands for forestry purposes, Senator Ayls' bill authorizing the governor to send a suitable military representation to the Red Bank battle monument dedication at Red Bank, Gloucester county, and Senator Hutchinson's bill amending the borough act providing that one-fourth instead of one-half of the borough inhabitants may vote to establish and maintain a water plant.

The house after a lengthy debate passed the Wise bill, which prohibits the sale in this state of quail, woodcock, pheasants, hares, etc. Messrs. Perkins and Scovel opposed the bill on the ground that it would deprive the general public of game dinners.

"MALAKA"

For refinishing furniture, hardwood floors, school desks or any varnished surface, Malaka has no equal. It requires no brush or experience in its application. It is applied to the surface with a soft cloth, a thin coating is left which dries perfectly hard in four or five hours, leaving a beautiful finish which will not crack or show scratches. Surfaces treated in this manner, when signs of wear are observed, will be kept in perfect condition indefinitely. All germs on the desks or woodwork of schools, colleges, hospitals, cars and public buildings, can be destroyed by wiping them over with a soft cloth saturated with Malaka, which accomplishes a two-fold work, the destruction of germs and a renewal of the finish.

Valuable Desolate Islands.

The most valuable desolate islands in the world are the Lakows, in the Arctic ocean, off the mouth of the Lena, in Siberia. They are frost-bound and utterly barren, save for arctic moss, but they contain such enormous quantities of fossil ivory that they are exceedingly valuable—in fact, although uninhabited save for the ivory-diggers, and of themselves incapable of supporting life, they produce a revenue of £1,000,000 a year.

AFTER SICKNESS

Our Druggists Frutchey & Hathaway, Tell How to Regain Strength.

"Owing to this changeable climate and unseasonable weather, there has been a good deal of sickness in Westfield during the past few weeks," said a member of the above firm, "and we want to say to the people of Westfield that the one thing to aid recovery after sickness is to give the patient a blood-building and strength-restoring tonic, one that will create an appetite and give strength to every organ in the body."

"Now," continued he, "from an intimate knowledge of almost every medicine on the market we do not believe there is another remedy in the country equal to our delicious cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, for this purpose."

Vinol is not a patent medicine, as everything in it is named on the back label of every bottle; it contains every one of the body-building, medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of the system-clogging oil to upset the stomach and retard its work.

It acts directly on the stomach, tones up the digestive organs, creates a healthy appetite, makes pure, rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue, and creates strength for every organ in the body.

Mr. Edgar A. Howe, of Concord, N. H., says that after a long, severe sickness he was weak and emaciated, all tones seemed to be lost, but Vinol restored in a marvelous manner, health, strength and appetite.

It Vinol fails to build up the run-down and convalescent, give new life and strength to the aged, cure stomach troubles, hard colds and coughs, who cheerfully refund every dollar paid us for it." Frutchey & Hathaway Druggists.

Mary Ann's Valentine

By May C. Ringwall.

Bob stood first on one foot, then on the other, peering into the shop window with its marvelous display of every kind of valentine. His eyes twinkled with glee as he gazed upon a thrilling line of "comics."

"See what!" excitedly murmured Bob, thrusting his hands into his trousers' pockets. Then his eyes lifted to higher things and his heartstrings tightened with positive awe. In the center of the window, suspended by a gilt cord, swung a creation of pink celluloid, paper lace, blue forget-me-nots and green sparrows. If only he could buy it for Mary Ann! His breath came and went in little gasps. On a scroll intricately issuing from the mouth of one of the green sparrows were two lines of gilt lettering:

"Assured as the vine grows round the stump, You are my own dear sugar lump."

Had he only remembered in time that this was Valentine day he might have saved up enough pennies for even so dazzling an extravagance as the celluloid dream of beauty. But how could he instantaneously earn so vast a sum? The holidays with their snapshot opportunities to run errands were passed, and now instead of there being a lucky blizzard with a jolly lot of sidewalks to sweep this fourteenth of February, the air was as balmy as May—as if spring had sent a breath of her flowers to old winter for a valentine.

Bob glanced at a clock. It was too early to go for his evening papers. He turned up the alley leading to the "Grotto." For the first time in the last proud three months he was almost sorry that the gang had taken him in. Of course, after sleeping on shed roofs and burrowing under wharfs, a fellow lived like a swell in a fine cellar, but when he had paid Freddie—the gang's ten-year-old business manager—for his bunk, and contributed his share of the daily grub, his "regular income" was always exhausted. If only there could be some sensation in that afternoon's edition, Mary Ann might still—Bob's thoughts were abruptly interrupted by a cat's plaintive cry.

"Hello there!" exclaimed Bob. "Where in the world did you come from?" He stooped and stealthily stroked the rough fur of a forlorn kitten who had appeared as mysteriously as though a trapdoor had suddenly opened in the ground for her special accommodation. "You are a beauty!" laughed Bob. "Just ought to see your ribs! Looks as if you'd been living on washboards all winter. What are you following me for? Take me for the avenue swell whose father keeps a dairy?"

"Meow! Meow!" The half-starved kitten timidly rubbed against Bob's foot, her frightened eyes looking up pleadingly into the boy's face.

"I ain't got anything for you—shoo!"

In terror, the cat scampered behind an ash barrel—the tip of an ear, one big yellow eye, a cobwebby whisker alone visible.

"Say, I didn't mean to scare you that way," apologized Bob, contritely kneeling by the barrel. "Come here, Kitty, Kitty."

"You see, Klt," explained Bob, gently stroking the thin little head, "I like cats—honest. But it would be worth all nine of your lives to follow me into the Grotto. It ain't that the fellows haven't kind hearts. It's just because they can't understand that they've got feelings inside like other folks, you know. Besides, Theodore Fitzsimmons would make mince pie of you in short order! You're terrible hungry, ain't you?"

"Meow! Meow!"

"Sorry, old girl, but I ain't a millionaire that can afford to dine stray alley cats at restaurants. Clean lunch, except—"

Bob's face flushed a sudden red. He had remembered the nickel in his pocket.

He scrambled up, and scowled down at the kitten. "There's no use of you looking at me! A fellow can do what he pleases with his own money, and you needn't suppose for one instant I'm going to give up Mary Ann's valentine to feed an old alley cat!"

Emphatically jerking his head, Bob turned his back upon the two pleading, hungry eyes riveted upon him, and took to his heels. But a glance over his shoulder was his undoing, for the cat, trying to run after him, toppled over from weakness, giving a cry that cut deep into Bob's tender heart.

The brave little pussy was soon on her feet again, the plaintive "meow" with a note of triumph when she found her new friend coming toward her.

Just once when you'll go right off and get hungry again!" he grumbled. "Meow! Meow!"

"It's very uncomfortable being hollow all the way down to your toes, I know," sighed Bob, "but—" The drooping corners of his mouth suddenly straightened into a smile reaching almost from ear to ear. "Got an idea!" he exultantly cried, waving his cap in the air. "I'll do it, Klt, I'll do it! Spend part of the nickel on you; part on Mary Ann—hurry!"

A moment later Bob breathlessly entered a corner grocery.

"Give me two cents' worth of milk," he demanded in his most impressive manner, as he wriggled on to a stool and spun his nickel on the counter.

"Where's your pull, sonny?"

Bob regarded the clerk in open-mouthed consternation. In his flash of inspiration this small detail had escaped him. What could he do? Freddie and Theodore were both in the Grotto, so that he could not go there now, and there was no time to be lost, for in half an hour he would have to start downtown after his papers.

"Perhaps," said the clerk, chuckling over his own wit, "you'd like me to pour the milk straight into your pockets?"

"Couldn't—couldn't you loan me something?" stammered the embarrassed Bob. "I'd bring it back in ten minutes—honest."

A peal of laughter filled the little shop. "You don't catch old dogs with puppy tricks! I've loaned things to kids before. No, sir, you won't get a drop of milk from this establishment until you run home and fetch your pull."

Bob slowly descended from his stool. "Then it's off," he sighed. "I can't!"

"Say," interrupted the clerk, actuated partly by his business keenness for trade, partly by the disappointed expression on the youngster's face, "I've got one of the finest tin pans you ever see. Your ma can have it for milk, fry her meat in it, and use it for a wash-basin between times. It's worth every bit of ten cents, but folks have their notions about a pan being smooth and sleek, and because of this here little hump in its back that don't amount to a hill of beans, I'll let you have it long with the milk for your nickel. Is it a go, kid?"

Bob hesitated. A vision of Mary Ann in all the beauty of her red pig-tails tied with pink tape and her dear freckled face, with its laughing brown eyes and scornful little nose, seemed to shine before him in a sort of golden haze. Then suddenly a plaintive cry rang in his ears and he forgot Mary Ann; forgot his own prosperous condition as member of the gang living like a swell in a fine cellar; remembered only a starved little alley cat and a starved street urchin who, none too long ago, so often went without food for days.

Bob wriggled on to the stool again. "It's a go!" he announced, emphatically.

Bob stood grinning down at the happy alley cat lapping the last drop of milk.

"Been having the time of your life, Klt?" he asked, with a chuckle.

Before the kitten could answer a shrill: "Hello, Bob!" floated over his shoulder.

He turned with a start, and gazed at Mary Ann.

"Where did you get the milk?" she asked.

"Grocery," concisely replied the boy. "Buy it with your own money?"

Bob nodded.

"I like cats," murmured Mary Ann, for some strange reason bashfully hanging her head.

The crimson leaped from Bob's chin to his dirty little forehead. "Then perhaps—perhaps," he excitedly faltered, "you'll let me give you the kitten for—a valentine?"

"You mean it—honest?"

For his answer Bob gently lifted up the little alley cat and lovingly placed it in Mary Ann's eager, outstretched arms.

"Wait a minute—that ain't all," said Bob, his voice quivering with pride, "I'm a-going to give you the pan, too, Mary Ann."—Philadelphia Press.
